Blaze Destroys Main Lodge of Camp Fire Girls

ROCK CREEK—A blaze which began at approximately 2 p.m. Saturday destroyed the Camp Fire Girls' main lodge at Camp Tawakani in the South Hills. According to officials, the blaze started in the main lodge, perhaps in the refrigeration system, and spread from there. One other building was scorched. No injuries were reported. Five men were working at the Christian Church campsite, about one-half mile from Camp Tawakani, when they sighted smoke. They are D. R. Rosenbaum and Harold Kennedy, both Kimberley; Champ Grey, Hansen; Harold Cook, Twin Falls; and Shelby Williams, Buhl. Two unidentified caretakers were at the Camp Fire Camp.

The fire spread to the tops of the trees, and the flames felled eight or 10 large pine trees near the cabins so that the fire would not spread. The Forest Service arrived soon after.

According to officials, the blaze was under control by 4 p.m. A Bureau of Land Management tanker from Hollister was used to suppress the flames.

Mrs. James Vandenberg, president of Camp Fire Girls, in Twin Falls, said a board meeting will be held at the first of the week to decide whether or not the camp sessions will be held this summer.

The four sessions were scheduled to begin July 11 and run through August 7. There were 175 girls in attendance at last year's sessions.

Alta Bennett Is Rupt

Rodeo Queen

RUPERT — Alta Lee Bennett, 10-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Bennett, Rupert, was crowned queen of the 1967 Rupert rodeo during the annual chuckwagon pambore Saturday night.

Two attendants to the 1966 queen also were named. They are Connie Fenstermaker and Gail Thompson, Diane Johnston was named Miss Congeniality.

The queen candidates presented Rex Rasmussen, Terrence Gully and Seth Rasmussen with belt buckles in appreciation of the help the men had given the girls during the past few weeks. The men met with the girls each week and helped them see RODEO, Page 2, Col. 8

WINNER OF THE Miss Idaho title in Boise Saturday night was Cheryl Elaine Couch, 19, Twin Falls, right. Paula Lynn Bandy, 20, Burley, left, was one of the five finalists. The two, as Miss Twin Falls and Miss Cassia County, won preliminary events in the contest Friday night. Miss Couch won the swimsuit contest and Miss Bandy won the talent division with two piano numbers. (AP wirephoto)

Cheryl Couch Is Miss Idaho; 5 Area Girls Are Finalists

BOISE (AP)—A petite blonde with green eyes, Cheryl Elaine Couch—Miss Twin Falls—was chosen Miss Idaho Saturday night in competition that featured five Magic Valley girls as finalists. Runners-up, in the order chosen by the judges, were: Cheryl Lee Ingle, Filer, Miss Idaho State University; Paula Lynne Bandy, Burley, Miss Cassia County; Dorothea Maria Neuer, Hammett, Miss Elmore County; and Pamela Elizabeth Jones, Twin Falls, Miss University of Idaho. The top five were chosen from a list of ten semi-finalists chosen at the start of the third and final night of competition.

The other five are Janis Galt, Burley, Miss Buhl; Diana Lynn Adams, Miss Caldwell; Linda Elizabeth Cull, Miss Calfhou County; Susan Lorraine Wolden, Miss Coeur d'Alene; and Sandra DeVonne Bowen, Miss Malad City.

Miss Couch, five-foot-three and 118 pounds, sang "I Could Have Danced All Night" as all semi-finalists candidates went through the final round of talent, evening gown and swimsuit competition.

Chosen "Miss Congeniality" by the contestants was Sonja Kay Smith, Miss Rupert.

Miss Bowen was chosen the best non-finalist in musical talent.

Miss Bowen was selected the best non-finalist in talent other than music.

Miss Couch, 19, said she entered the contest because she felt "pageants are a wonderful way for a girl to develop in many ways."

"I lacked a lot of self-confidence and hope to gain some. I also hoped to gain more poise and make some new and lasting friends. The pageant was a priceless experience."

A student at the College of Idaho, Miss Couch won the right to represent Idaho in the Miss City, N.J., in September.

Among the prizes she received for winning the state title were two scholarships totaling $1,300, a $300 set of matched luggage and the all-expenses paid trip to the Miss America contest.

Plans have been completed for the first joint convention of the Idaho chapters of the National Association of Postmasters of the United States, to be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday at the Holiday Inn.

The convention opens with registration Monday afternoon and a social hour and smorgasbord Monday evening. A general assembly is scheduled Tuesday morning, and Tuesday afternoon is taken up with business and committee meetings of the two associations.

A banquet will be held Tuesday evening and newly elected officers will be introduced as part of the program. Fred Batrus, Washington, D.C., deputy assistant postmaster general, will be the guest speaker for the evening.

Wednesday morning's program includes seminars conducted by Robert B. Clifton, inspector in charge, Seattle, and other meetings conducted by Richard Pursfull, regional controller, Seattle, and Thomas Allen, chief of the Training Branch of the Regional Office, Seattle.

A program on domestic and international mail will be conducted by Allen, Wednesday afternoon to conclude the conference. Personal interviews with officials of the Inspection Service and the Regional Office also will be concluded.

The convention closes Wednesday evening with dinner and entertainment at Jackpot, Nev.

Barriers lifted. CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Police barricades along Super Avenue in Cleveland, where reports of sporadic violence began tapering off after the third night of disturbances in the predominantly Negro area.

Dr. Nuyen Duy Tai, head of the clinic where Quang was hospitalized, said the 42-year-old monk's condition "is extremely serious."

Other resolutions proposed to the convention include: Favor drafting a new Idaho private contractors licensing law "to protect the public from unscrupulous and irresponsible contractors" to replace the licensing law struck down this month as unconstitutional.

Includes urging state legislative approval of a bill prohibiting employment of "professional strike-breakers" in Idaho labor minimum wage in line with federal law which labor sponsors say is expected to be raised to $1.00 from its present $1.25. The minimum wage in Idaho is now $1.

The sessions will be open to the public.

VIOLENCE CONTINUES NEW DELHI, India (AP)—Club-wielding police charged into a mob of 200 demonstrators at the southern city of Bangalore today as violence continued in a border dispute between Mysore and Maharashtra states.

Dr. Evan M. Kackley, Wayne, told fellow board members that the "the catalyst for the official voice of Idaho, our plan was the result of the board's failing to provide adequate information on the subject to the reclamation subcommittee of the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee."

"We are all equally and solidly to blame," Kackley said. "We did not hammer out a policy or a course of action."

Buhl Pilot Injured In Airplane Crash

BUHL—A Buhl businessman was reported to be in fair condition with undetermined injuries at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital late Saturday evening after an airplane crash near the Buhl Airport earlier in the day. LeRoy Hoffa, 57, who is affiliated with Magic Valley Motors, was flying a Stinson 150, four-place, single engine airplane, when lack of fuel forced a landing in a pasture about a quarter of a mile west of the airport at 1:47 p.m., shortly after take-off.

The pasture was reported to be exceedingly rocky, and as the plane bounced across the land it crashed into a large rock fence, flipping over onto its top. Hoffa was able to pull himself out of the wing of the plane until help arrived.

Hoffa, who had just returned from a flight to Wyoming, had his plane checked for safety factors and licensed before taking off Saturday afternoon. Buhl officials did not know why he was flying, but believed he was only going to fly the air pattern and then return to the airport.

The accident was reported by Buhl Police Chief Charles Buhl and Twin Falls County Sheriff James Benham. The plane was described as being "pretty well demolished."

Kennedy's Trip Planned For July 4

SALMON, Idaho (AP)—Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., will spend his second straight Fourth of July running a river—this time the rapid-pocked "River of No Return" in Idaho's wilderness grandeur.

Kennedy and 13 others, including wife Edie and seven of their nine children and astronaut John Glenn, will climb into two float boats next Friday morning for a 100-mile trip down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River.

Their entry point according to sources at Salmon and Sun Valley, will be near Indian Creek, about 35 miles downstream from the normal jumping-off point. These sources said the party will gather at Sun Valley Thursday and fly to Indian Creek after dawn the following morning.

One Salmon River veteran said the shorter trip "could be designed to let them see more and move at their own pace."

The float—along a route roughly resembling an inverted question mark—is tentatively set for six days. The group is scheduled to leave the river July 6 at the junction of the Middle Fork and the Salmon's main body in east-central Idaho.

LEAVES FOR TOUR KUWAIT (AP)—The commerce and industry minister, Sheikh Abdullah al Jaber, who deals with the wealth of oil produced in this small Persian Gulf realm, leaves Monday on a 34-month tour of European countries, the Soviet Union and Japan. He told an interviewer he had no specific deals in mind.

Civil Rights Leaders Close Ranks Behind James Meredith

TOUGALOO, Miss. (AP)—Negro civil rights leaders put aside their policy quarrels Saturday to close ranks—at least temporarily—behind James H. Meredith and the Mississippi march. A crowd of more than 10,000 jammed the grassy athletic field and surrounding slopes at Tougaloo College Saturday night for a welcoming show staged by Hollywood and Broadway stars. The climax of the 21-day-old marathon drive comes Sunday with a massive march on the Mississippi Capitol in nearby Jackson.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, predicted thousands would join in the final demonstration.

The march was scheduled to leave here about 11 a.m. (CST) and arrive at the Capitol in mid-afternoon. A heavy police guard was planned.

Stars in Saturday night's show included actors Sammy Davis Jr., Marlon Brando, Anthony Franciosa and Burt Lancaster, Negro athlete Rafer Johnson and rock-'n'-roll singer James Brown.

The crowd belted the traditional "Happy Birthday" song for Meredith, who was 33 Saturday.

"I would like to thank all the leaders of this country—who came to Mississippi to pick up where I left off," he said.

Civil rights leaders rushed to continue the march when Meredith was wounded by blasts of gunfire fired by a white man near Hernando, Miss., June 6.

Meredith drew a great cheer when he limped onstage to take a seat. His wounded leg was swollen from the day's walking and pained him. There was doubt he would be able to walk the final miles Sunday.

After recuperating in New York, Meredith got back to the marathon march Friday night—and was angered to find that the march from Canton to Tougaloo had proceeded without him.

Snubbing a rally in Canton Friday night in which he was to receive a hero's ovation, Meredith drove from Tougaloo back to Canton Saturday morning to do his own marching.

King met Meredith on the highway near Tougaloo at mid-afternoon and there were him and explain that a "temporary breakdown in communication" had caused the confusion.

Members of the Twin Falls Junior Riding Club posted the colors, after which Alice Williams, Caldwell, reigning queen of the horse show, entered, followed by the 19 queen contestants.

Introduced to the audience were Jay Parsons, Cody, Wyo., judge; and Donald Hackworth, Twin Falls, arena director.

for the first go round as they will be announced after Sunday's performance.

Nine of the 19 queen contestants performed and three were chosen as finalists. These three, along with the three selected Friday night, will compete Sunday afternoon for queen honors.

The Sunday performance will begin at 2 p.m. at the Filer fairgrounds.

Friday night a fair-sized crowd of horse enthusiasts braved the cold to attend the opening night of the show.

A special event preceding the show, which got under way at 8 p.m., was a precision drill in open clover-leaf barrel racing

Brooke Endorsed For U. S. Senate

BOSTON (AP)—Edward W. Brooke Jr., a Negro and state attorney general, won a runaway victory endorsement at the Republican state convention Saturday to run for the U.S. Senate.

Brooke will be the first Negro to serve in the U.S. Senate in 88 years if he is victorious in the November election.

It was back in the Reconstruction year of 1881 that Mississippi sent two Negroes to the Senate, Hiram K. Revels and B. C. Bruce.

Court Hears Arguments in Ruby Case

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—The Texas Court of Criminal Appeals today heard arguments in the Ruby case, which is the appeal of the death sentence given him for killing Lee Harvey Oswald, named by the Warren Commission as the assassin of President John F. Kennedy.

The court's decision on the Ruby appeal will not be known until fall.

Ruby was not present. He has been confined in the Dallas County Jail since a Dallas District Court jury sentenced him to death in Texas' electric chair following his trial in March 1964.

OAS Votes To Withdraw Peace Force

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Organization of American States has voted to withdraw the remaining 8,000-man peace force from the Dominican Republic and reports the first contingent of U. S. troops will leave next week.

The resolution, approved without dissent Friday night, although Mexico abstained from voting, called for completion of the withdrawal within 90 days after it begins.

Sources in Santo Domingo said Friday the first contingent of about 1,000 men, most of them members of the U. S. 82nd Airborne Division, would leave next week. Two U. S. ships en route to the Dominican Republic are due there next Tuesday.

The peace force was created after a bloody Dominican civil war in April 1965.

The Caribbean nation had requested the OAS to begin pulling out the peace force before July 1, when a new government headed by President-elect Joaquin Balaguer is inaugurated. Balaguer, a former chief executive, was elected June 1.

Mexico explained its abstention from Friday night's vote by saying it had disapproved sending troops to the Dominican Republic when the peace force initially was created.

Buses Roll On Highways In Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Greyhound buses rolled on the streets and highways of the San Francisco Bay area Friday after a swift settlement of a long mechanics' strike—the last bit of contract trouble which had idled buses in 11 western states for six weeks.

The mechanics' 24-hour strike ended Friday, one day after drivers and station employees voted to end a strike they began May 15.

Ralph E. Thomas, president of Western Greyhound, said all phases of the line's operations were resuming as rapidly as possible. He added that the 16,000 suburbanites who normally ride Greyhound to work in San Francisco daily would find their buses back on schedule Monday.

Greyhound and the 375 members of the Automotive Machinists Union in the shops here reached agreement on the first two years of a three-year contract.

Crash Kills Ex-Resident Of Burley

BURLEY—Lyle Morgan Cantrell, 49, Pocatello, former resident, was killed Friday evening in a truck accident on Highway 91 just south of the Idaho-Montana border near Spencer.

A truck driver, Mr. Cantrell was driving a vehicle for Clark Tank Lines, Pocatello. He was born Jan. 17, 1917, at Minnes.

Mr. Cantrell had lived in Burley for 30 years, before moving there in January, 1968. On Sept. 5, 1935, he married Lillie Brackenbury in Dodge City, Kan. Mr. Cantrell belonged in the Presbyterian church. Survivors include his widow, two sons, Lyle Cantrell Jr., and James Cantrell, both Burley; two daughters, Mrs. James (Shirley Jean) Patchett, Burley, and Mrs. Melvin (Carol Dean) Pfeiffer, Mt. Clemons, Mich.; three brothers, Clifton Cantrell, Burley, Mo.; Homer Cantrell, Wendell and Charles Cantrell, Buhl, and one sister, Mrs. Bertha Bryant, Junction City, Kan., and 11 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the McCulloch Funeral Home by Rev. John Pickrell. Final rites will be held in the Pleasant View Cemetery. Friends may call at McCulloch Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday until time of services.

HORSE SHOW EVENTS Saturday afternoon at the fairgrounds in Ellier included such events as Quarter Horse free rein pleasure riding and barrel racing. In foreground is Alice Williams, Caldwell, this year's reigning queen, participating in the Quarter Horse free rein pleasure riding event. About 25 contestants entered the event, which covers walking, trotting, fast trot and canter gaits. (Times-News photo)

Suspect Pleads Guilty to Fraud

Thodore Robert Terry Jr. (the Reverend) was granted a pre-sentence investigation Friday by District Judge Theron B. Ward after entering a plea of guilty to a charge of issuing a check without funds in the bank.

Terry was picked up in New Jersey this spring on a misdemeanor charge, and police there held him after seeing a flyer of a good sum of money. He is sent out over the Twin Falls police teletype.

The charge against Terry stated he posed in the double role of reverend and the reverend's son, in a confidence game that bilked several motel owners out of a good sum of money. He is to be sentenced upon completion of the investigation.

Police Chief Denies Rumor In Boise

BOISE (AP)—Rumors of alleged organized gambling and prostitution in Boise were denied by Police Chief Jack Barney Friday.

Barney noted that the same situation arose four years ago and added:

"I know that we haven't had any definite reports (of organized gambling or prostitution) for a long time."

The chief said no complaints had been received about the situation and said his denial was in reply to the rumors.

But a newly-admitted card room is operating in Boise although the city code prohibits gambling.

He said the card rooms are known to police and private clubs are kept under "reasonable surveillance."

The chief also firmly asserted: "Without any reservation, I can say there is no organized prostitution in Boise."

Despite the rumors, Barney said no crackdown is planned except for the usual enforcement. "We arrest them every time we see them."

T. F. Man Named To Juvenile Post

Lawrence Huber, 630 W. 1st St., was elected president of the Idaho Probation and Juvenile Officers Conference, at McCall last week.

The three-day meeting covered such topics as the Job Corps, youth opportunities in Idaho; the proposed court reform system, which will do away with the lower courts and place all legal proceedings under the jurisdiction of the district court, court appointed attorneys and vocational education at the college level.

Five active past presidents received service plaques, one of whom is Mrs. Helen Henderson, youth counselor, Twin Falls.

Actor Gets Gift

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Actor Edward G. Robinson, 72, says his gift-well present—a skateboard—came from singer Frank Sinatra.

Robinson, carrying the skateboard under his arm Friday as he left Mt. Sinai Hospital, joked that Sinatra sent the present thinking "it would be an improvement over my driving."

Robinson was hospitalized several weeks ago after a traffic accident.

Mrs. Guerin, 74, Taken by Death

BURLEY—Mrs. Samma Mae Guerin, 74, died early Saturday morning at Cassia Memorial Hospital of a lingering illness.

She was born May 2, 1892, in Idaho, and was married to Orrin Everett Guerin there July 22, 1912. Mrs. Guerin had lived in Burley for the past 40 years.

She belonged to the Methodist church, Royal Neighbors and VFW auxiliary.

Survivors include her husband, one son, by a previous marriage, Jay H. Stout, Blackfoot; one daughter, Mrs. Cleo May Carrell, Adelanto, Calif.; and three grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Monday at McCulloch Funeral Home chapel by Rev. Paul Ludlow. Last rites will be held at the Pleasant View Cemetery. Friends may call at the mortuary Monday afternoon and evening and Tuesday until time of services.

Worse Mob Ahead

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower continues his campaign to change the national political conventions. He declares that "resemble a rioting mob of juveniles—delinquents." No one is likely to argue with the description, but there probably will be no effort to change the conventions, either. At least not at this stage. The conventions will get worse before anyone gets around to doing something about them.

The Republican National Convention at San Francisco in 1964 was a deplorable example, but it might seem mild by comparison with what will develop in 1968. Essentially, the national conventions have been reduced to a giant show for the benefit of the all-seeing eye of television. The principals, who get a whole of a lot of national exposure, aren't likely to favor any change. The situation will have to become so appallingly bad that all concerned will insist on reforms before anything is done. And then it'll probably take congressional legislation to accomplish anything.

When Mr. Eisenhower makes reference to boozing or hissing from the gallery, he might have the GOP meeting of 1964 in mind. All in all, it was a disgraceful exhibition on the part of spectators. They heckled, hissed, booed and generally acted like the audience at a boxing exhibition. Perhaps the worst point was the booing of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. He had to plead with spectators to be heard.

Mr. Eisenhower would continue political conventions, however. He says direct national primaries would be so prohibitively expensive that "only wealthy men could normally run for the presidency." Many Americans have the distinct impression already that only a wealthy man can seek the presidency under present conditions.

EASY TO DISAPPEAR

Offhand, it might seem almost impossible for a human body to escape detection, but the case of the sheepherder at Shoshone proves otherwise. Justo Zarraconandia simply disappeared 11 years ago. He was ill and didn't get far, just east of Shoshone. Although he died something like half a mile from the nearest house, it's almost unbelievable that the body would escape detection. The incident emphasizes the size of unoccupied and unused tracts of land in the West.

Whenever a small plane is reported overdue, searchers turn out in force, but the vastness of desert areas in the West is almost beyond comprehension. Only an air searcher, who stares at desert until his eyes ache, knows how small a plane can be in relation to the vast areas where it might be found. Some of the missing planes are found years later and some never are found. Consider, then, how easy it would be to overlook a man's body in a search, particularly if blowing weeds had piled up over the body.

There are still plenty of wide-open spaces in the West, and they don't have to be far from habitation, as proved by the Shoshone case. It's something everyone should keep in mind during various expeditions into the hills and deserts. Always, word should be left with someone advising of the anticipated destination and expected time of return. Then, at least, someone knows when to start looking and the approximate area to be searched.

Anyone is subject to accidents or illness, regardless of previous outdoor experience or past health. A search started in time can save a life with a little luck. Or, if accident or illness should overtake a person at a spot not normally visited by others, the victim can simply disappear. Keep it in mind as outdoor outings are planned.

WAR LINGERS ON

World War II ended some 20 years ago, but it's far from over in those parts of the world where it was fought. A recent issue of the Times-News had two stories about the remnants of the great war. One story from London detailed how bomb disposal squads still get 5,000 calls a year to explode bombs or dispose of other explosives that keep turning up. The other story from Singapore told of authorities exhuming a mass grave thought to contain more than 2,000 persons killed by Japanese occupation forces during the war. The mass slaughter occurred Feb. 23, 1942, and had gone undetected until now.

The remnants of war linger on and on. Even today, searchers can find arrowheads on old Indian war grounds. Battlefields of the Civil War still yield reminders of the conflict after 100 years. A good segment of the human race continues to hope human beings will be able to eliminate these traits and behavior patterns that lead to wars. It would be far better to channel all that destructive effort into constructive channels.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY
WASHINGTON—Peking watchers in the State Department are taking special pains these days to emphasize that the purge of party functionaries in Communist China is almost purely a domestic struggle, with only faint ideological overtones. Indeed, some of the older and more cynical hands insist there are no important differences in dogma within a party.

This is a stiff rebuke to the diplomatic journalists, who see the Red Chinese upheaval as a showdown between the Stalinist hard-liners under the leadership of Mao Tse-tung and some vague if not illusory collection of Moscow lovers. In fact, say the cynics, there would be no change in Peking's tough policies if Mao and his crowd were booted out tomorrow.

The more pessimistic viewpoint is based on the argument that those officials who have been purged are just as dedicated to the hard line as those who did the purging. In this view, the purges should never be confused with the Russian-type soft liners, such as Nikita Khrushchev, but instead as men who stand in the way of Mao's continuing efforts to perpetuate his rule by training and then designating not only his personal successor but those who would wield power at the lower levels.

PENG CHEN AN EXAMPLE—Or as one State Department type put it, "They are hard liners and hard liners, and Mao favors some over others because they happen to be his own hard liners. It's as simple as that."

There is, for example, Peking's Mayor Peng Chen, who was ousted a couple of weeks ago as a "traitor and rightist." But Peng had been one of the more militant Stalinists since the early 1950s, when he engaged in elaborate and noisy activities among Peking students, and his voice has been among the loudest in inveighing against Moscow's peaceful coexistence policies. He had worked closely with Mao, but he was not one of Mao's hand-picked men—so he had to go.

Another senior official who has been under attack is Meng Wei, editor of the Yunnan Daily, the Communist Party's organ in Yunnan province. Li has been charged with "deliberately and openly opposing the study and application of Mao Tse-tung's thinking." This is Communist twaddle that is most transparent. No Red Chinese propagandist has done more than Li to keep the masses reeling in the Mao line. Again, however, Li was not on the list of Mao's heirs.

There is Chang Li Chun, deputy director of the party's control apparatus for the entire southwest region. There is Li Ching Chuan, secretary of the party's southwest bureau. These are the kind of men who, in the eyes of the party, are the backbone of the party in Kweichow province. All in all, they are not yet all have been denounced either by name or by attacks on their work.

Washington expects the purge to continue for months. Each of the heretics so far denounced represents his own particular group, and thus Communist technique will require the ousting of these followers. As far as the wind is discernible in the intelligence reports, the purge is 180 members and alternates of the Communist Party's Central Committee have been publicly unseated or unmentioned for the past six months.

The viciousness and sense of immediacy which characterize the purge are interpreted by Peking watchers here as an omen of new and harsher economic policies by the Mao regime. The newspapers' Peking Daily already has hinted at another "great leap forward" in the economic field, and the government has cracked down on peasants hitherto permitted to operate private farms and free markets as incentives to spur production. Life in Red China is bound to be tougher and more complicated in the next year or two as the Mao regime takes from the citizens to give to the state.

Views of Others

AFFRONT TO THE CITIES
The nation's problem-plagued cities have been affronted once again by an arrogant, irresponsible House coalition. For the second year in a row they have been denied funds requested by President Johnson for rent subsidies and the National Teachers' Corps.

Residents of urban ghettos—and those with a decent concern for them—may well be indignant with the House coalition. They may wait that they could not on salaries of $30,000 a year—plus public and private residences—yet expect others to get along on less than a tenth of such incomes.

The sum asked by the President for rent subsidies was all too modest. Yet in view of the selfishly short-sighted refusal of adequate public housing provisions, the subsidies could have provided decent shelter for at least some of those who need it. The rejection was not only heartless, but also conducive to the spread and worsening of slums.

Since education is essential to the escape from poverty but is inadequately provided in most slum schools, the National Teachers' Corps was proposed by President Kennedy to recruit competent and compassionate volunteer teachers for these schools. Again, the House appropriation was less than adequate, and a refusal of any money at all is shameful.

Under these circumstances, there can be no assurance of a favorable response to the President's repeated appeal for his "demonstration" program to "help make our cities, small and large, healthy inspiring places to live." Here again Mr. Johnson is asking only to meet the needs of even one of the nation's larger cities. And what if even this mite is refused by men who insist on voting more for the weapons of war than is asked by the Administration?

If the shame falls on Congress, the White House is not without fault. The President has failed to make the new Department of Urban Affairs what it ought to be, the enthusiastic and determined center of a genuine effort to rehabilitate "city life." Instead of strengthening this agency, some of its best people have been allowed to leave Government service. Perhaps the cities will have a stronger program in the next Congress, but there is trouble about unless more realistic consideration is accorded the urban communities which comprise more than 70 per cent of the population of the United States.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MORE TALK IN THE AIR

The world may run out of frequencies for satellite broadcasting before 1970, according to the White House's director of telecommunications. So he wants the engineers to find ways of "squeezing more talk into existing frequencies." This threat to the satellite broadcasters has long been a reality for the more conventional radio and TV operators.

So they will take a keen interest in whatever the future holds for the new activity in talk-squeezing. But is the problem really that of putting out more talk, or is the crying demand for a little more talk that's worth hearing?—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

POT SHOTS

IT'S REAL FUN!
Dear Patsie:
Got a fat chuckle out of watching all of the boat fishermen at Roseworth Saturday. Many had trailer houses and campers valued at hundreds of dollars; high-priced station wagons and pickups to tow the overnight gear; and then the value of the meat-getting equipment itself. Boats, motors, trailers, life preservers, rods, reels, fish-attracting hardware and the gas to make it all go. Most fish weren't large enough to even wiggle the rod and they just reeled them in without even slowing down.

If each boat fisherman had $3.00 in his outfit and caught 10 of those 10-inch planked fish and they weighed half a pound each (which most won't) he would bring home five pounds of trout and figured on the costs of his gear to catch the fish, they would be costing each fisherman about $300 a pound!

Of course, if he went every nice weekend in the summer and caught as many each time (which he won't) his per unit cost would get down as low as $30 a pound.

Hamburger at $1 a pound would be cheap compared to their fish per pound. But, Patsie, they had such a wonderful time in that cold, blowing, howling, wind!

Pot Shots:
In regards to the woman's query on solid rubber tires for automobiles, which she believes, could eliminate flat tires: There are two reasons the suggestion won't work—stress and heat.

At 60 miles per hour a tire is flexed distorted by centrifugal force. A solid rubber circle couldn't be flexible enough to adapt, i.e., couldn't hold the rim or track true.

Solid rubber, again at speed, would generate so much friction heat the rubber would disintegrate. Contrary to popular belief, tread is not on tires for traction, although that is a by-product. The tread is there to reduce heat buildup in the tread. The same reason for the narrow shoulders on the smooth-sided or notches on the wider tires.

And a very obvious reason, with a solid-rubber tire a car would ride like an ox cart, unless the public would pay a couple hundred extra for a more elaborate suspension system.

As for having tires that won't go completely flat, these are the signs of hesitant optimism only. The market now is somewhat more expensive than regulars. They will accomplish the trick of allowing driving, at reduced speeds, to help for those un-equipped to help themselves in flat tire situations.

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON (AP)—Chief Justice Earl Warren has said a man's early life could not but affect his views on the court, which means the nine Supreme Court justices don't always reach their conclusions by sheer legal reasoning, if there is such a thing.

Behind the decisions, although intended for the welfare of the nation, is the humanness of the men: Their prejudices, earlier experiences, idealism, their individual sense of justice, and sometimes timidity, caution, or strength of will which has made this one of the most fascinating courts.

The term which ended Monday provided some examples, including statements by some of the justices that some of the other justices were deciding more on private feelings than good law.

This month a majority of the justices, with Warren reading the opinion, banned forced confessions by police from criminal suspects. The four dissenters were Justices John M. Harlan, Potter Stewart, Byron R. White and Tom C. Clark.

All four in their time had had a hand in dealing with criminal cases. Harlan and Stewart had been federal judges; Clark had been attorney general of the United States; White had been a deputy attorney general.

But none of the nine had the first-hand experience of Warren in prosecuting criminal cases. He had been a district attorney in California.

Harlan flushed, pounded the bench, said this was "new doctrine and don't be fooled by it." He called it a hazardous experiment, a test when the crime rate was going up.

And White warned rapists and killers would be freed to rape and kill again.

A week later the court decided that police, when they arrested a drunken driving suspect, could take a sample of his blood to test whether he was really drunk.

This time the majority was made up of Harlan, White, Stewart, Clark and Justice William J. Brennan Jr., who had voted a week before against permitting forced confessions. His switch made this decision possible. Warren was against it.

It required some very thin legal reasoning since the court in one case said a forced confession violates the Fifth Amendment's guarantee against self-incrimination but taking blood from a man against his will doesn't.

Justice Hugo L. Black, at 80 the oldest man on the court, was on it and agreed to the decisions when the Georgia poll tax was upheld in 1957 and the Virginia poll tax was upheld in 1951.

This year the court reversed all that, outlawing the poll tax in Virginia and in effect, in every other state. This was too much for Black who stuck to his earlier opinions and tried to analyze his colleagues for seeing it differently now.

"I can only conclude that the primary, controlling, predominant, if not the exclusive reason for declaring the Virginia law unconstitutional is the court's deep-seated hostility and antagonism to making payment of a poll tax a condition for voting."

And Harlan, another dissenter, thought the tax problem should be settled by politicians, not by judges. He said the decision amounted to "freezing into the Constitution the political views of the moment."

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON—If the Republican National Convention were to be held next month, Richard M. Nixon would be nominated as the party's presidential candidate by a sizeable majority. This is the judgment of party officials with a realistic and detached view of the shape of things to come.

What can happen in the two years before the delegates meet is something else. But, as of now, the odds are that history will repeat itself and as at San Francisco in 1964, the prize will be locked up long before the first gavel sounds.

Nixon is the only national figure in the party free to go up and down the highways and byways, not only for his own cause but to help members of Congress all over the country. As head of the Boosters Club, he has been more instrumental than any single individual in raising over $1 million for Republicans running for House seats in marginal districts in November.

Nixon got Helen Clay Frick, the 74-year-old steel heiress, to give $15,000 to go to 15 individuals in swing states. Miss Frick has already given—the legal limit of $5,000 to the Boosters Club. And while the club's strategy committee selected the districts, each $1,000 went out with a note from Nixon, expressing the hope that "early" would be helpful. This, it is hardly necessary to add, is money in the Nixon political bench, said this was "new doctrine and don't be fooled by it."

He called it a hazardous experiment, a test when the crime rate was going up.

Paul Student Will Study In Salzburg

UNIVERSITY OF PORTLAND — Doreen Manning, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul, has been selected as one of a group of 32 students from the University of Portland who will spend the 1966-67 academic year studying at Salzburg University.

The students will leave Portland by ship on Aug. 25 for Liverpool, where they will begin a tour of England, France, Belgium and Germany. Rev. Joseph E. Hailey, assistant professor of religion at the university, will accompany the students as resident director. He will supervise their academic program and field trips.

During their 10-month stay the students will be following a liberal arts program including philosophy, theology, history and languages. Full university credit will be given for all courses and study tours of Northern Europe, Italy and Greece; will supplement classroom work.

Sunnyside Club Youths Are Guests

BUHL — Members of the Sunnyside 4-H Livestock Club were guests and presented the program during the Buhl Grange's quarterly picnic birthday dinner and open meeting held Thursday night at the Grange Hall.

Each member introduced him or herself and told of his projects during the past year. Susan Southwick, Garland Kyles and Lark Kyles played piano selections. Susan Baldwin sang and Lynette Baldwin played an accordion selection.

Susan Baldwin, vice chairman of the club, introduced the program. Frank Southwick, leader, expressed appreciation to the Grange, sponsors of the club, for the courtesy shown the group.

The address of welcome was extended by Mrs. Rex Gainsforth, lecturer. Other guests were Mr. and Mrs. Chester Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill, Connie Hicks, Buhl, and Mrs. Ella Shrader, Corvallis, Ore.

Birthday honorees were Mr. and Mrs. Donald Hicks and Mrs. Arlene Bell. The Buhl Grange chorus composed of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Mickelwait, Mrs. Shrader, Mr. and Mrs. Milo Davis and Mrs. Marie Latham, sang a medley of old time favorite songs.

It was noted the chorus was to participate in the talent contest held Saturday evening at Filer, a county wide Grange activity.

Hailey Prepares for Days Of Old West Celebration

HAILEY — As the Fourth of July draws near Leo Stavros, president of the Days of the Old West committee, Mrs. Roberta McKerscher, secretary, and those serving as heads of the different committees become busier.

The Independence Day Parade, which officially opens the Days of the Old West celebration, will start at 4 p.m. Saturday.

Jerry Johnson, parade chairman, has as his co marshals Judy Astorquia and Wayne Clark, members of the Sawtooth Riders Riding Club, who have contributed much to past celebrations.

Special carriages will be furnished for dignitaries and honored guests. Mrs. Mary Brooks, Blaine County senator, and Pete Cennarrusa, Blaine County state representative, and George R. Allen, Hailey mayor, will ride in one carriage.

Others who will be honored include Lela Montgomery, who has taught three generations of Hailey school students; Dr. Wright, pioneer doctor of this community, still practicing; and Mrs. Wright; R. R. Horne, native son of Hailey and long time mayor of the city; J. E. Leichter, Blaine County probate judge; Jim Cook, exemplifying the sturdy pioneer stock who settled this part of the country; Joseph W. Fuld, who came here from Idaho; and Mrs. Emma Kelley, who for many years operated a millinery shop in Hailey; James McCoy, early day settler; and Mrs. Sarah Emeline Burrell, widow of an early day area miner.

Riding groups who will appear in the parade include the Weber County Mounted Sheriff's posse of Ogden, and the All-Girl Flier Wranglers. Another feature will be the drill team and honor guard from Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Miss Rodeo Idaho, Harriett Sharp, Nampa, and Days of the Old West Queen, Karen Baldwin, will lead the 11 candidates for the title in the parade.

The 1967 Days of the Old West Celebration.

At 5:30 p.m. a barbecued chicken dinner will be served at the rodeo grounds and is being arranged by the Wood River Jaycees with president Richard Davis in charge.

Grand Entry for the Days of the Old West Rodeo will be under lights at 7:30 p.m. Prunty Bros., Elko, Nev., will be the producers, and Ted Uhrig of the Sawtooth Riders Riding Club and on the celebration committee will be chairman in charge.

For early risers July 3, the pancake breakfast on the courthouse lawn will begin at 7 a.m. Wood River Jaycees will serve and Harold Ruby, past president, will be in charge.

All day Sunday anyone wishing to view the Wood River Valley and surrounding area from the air may do so by paying a penny a pound rate for their weight. This entertainment is

GRANT AWARDED
POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho State University has been awarded a $3,454 U.S. Office of Education grant for closed circuit television equipment.

The money will buy a video tape recording machine and other equipment for a pilot project in Pocatello public schools, said Herb Everitt, director of ISU Radio and Television Services.

Educational material will be taped at ISU for classroom instruction on an experimental basis, Everitt said.

PROFITS REPORTED
BOISE (AP) — Record profits and earnings for 1965 were reported by Albertson's, Inc., of Boise, Friday.

J. L. Scott, president of the Boise-based food chain, said profits increased 24 per cent to $5.1 million and earnings climbed 25 per cent to 91 cents per share.

"Albertson's opened 21 new stores last year and we will open 34 new units during this current fiscal year," he said.

Scott also said the board of directors has voted a 9-cent per share quarterly cash dividend to be paid Aug. 1 to stockholders of record on July 8.

BIDS OPENED
BOISE (AP) — Bids for construction of rest area facilities off-U.S. 85 on Moscow Mountain in Latah County will be opened July 28, the State Department of Highways announced today.

Work is to be completed in 60 days.

CONVENTION SET
SUN VALLEY (AP) — Space medicine and medicine will be among topics of the 74th annual meeting of the Idaho State Medical Association July 6-8.

The new president of the American Medical Association, Dr. Charles L. Hudson of Cleveland, Ohio — also is to address the meeting. His topic will be "What Is A Man's Posture Now?"

"Advanced Medical and Biological Research Required for Interplanetary Travel" and "Biotechnology for Future Space Flight" will be described by Dr. Walton L. Jones of Washington, D.C.

HIGHWAY ENDORSED
WALLACE, Idaho (AP) — A four-lane divided highway, linking Northern and Southern Idaho, was endorsed Saturday by Ralph Harding, Democratic candidate for Governor.

Harding, who opened his campaign last week, said such a highway would be instrumental in improving communications between the two parts of the state.

A native of Blackfoot, Harding said after four days of campaigning he has become aware of a feeling of neglect in Northern Idaho.

WINS SWEEPSTAKES
EMMETT (AP) — A float with a rocket airplane and a little girl pilot has taken sweepstakes in the annual Kids Parade at Emmett.

Some 200 youngsters marched and rode in the parade last night. The sweepstakes winners were Allen and Sharon Brown and Raymond Shaw.

Theme of the parade was "50 Years of Progress." It was sponsored by Boise Cascade Corporation and the Beatway Building Center as part of Emmett's Cherry Festival.

LAW SUIT FILED
MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — A $264,500 lawsuit filed after a truck-car collision near Glenns Ferry early last year has been settled out of court.

The suit was filed by Marilyn Huskell of Glenns Ferry, driver of the truck, against Mr. and Mrs. John Heier of Caldwell. Terms of the settlement were not announced.

MAN DIES
POCATELLO (AP) — Floyd R. Barber, 51, Pocatello educator and writer, died in Bannock Memorial Hospital early today.

He resided at 344 East Maple.

Mr. Barber had been a resident of Idaho since 1915. He was first employed at Pocatello in 1920, as office assistant to the superintendent of schools.

He was later appointed principal of Roosevelt School, retiring in 1948. Following retirement as a teacher he was appointed City Clerk of Alameda.

He was the author of a state history text book, "Idaho in the Pacific Northwest." He had several stories and articles published.

LAND DESTROYED
POCATELLO (AP) — About 60 acres of brush and grass near Buckskin Road east of Pocatello were destroyed by fire late Friday afternoon.

The city fire department was first on the scene with one truck and five men about 3:40 p.m. The Bannock County fire truck and a truck and crew from the U.S. Forest Service were called to the scene when the fire blew outside the city limits. The fire was under control by 6 p.m. Mop-up operations were completed by 11 p.m.

MAN IS CRITICAL
POCATELLO (AP) — The condition of a Pocatello man who suffered severe spinal injuries in a fall Wednesday evening was reported as still critical Saturday by Salt Lake City LDS Hospital officials.

The man, Warren Jay Eskelsen, 36, 581 Kinghorn Road, fell about 15 feet while trimming a tree near his home. Family members said X-rays showed spine fractures in three places. He underwent surgery Wednesday night and doctors planned further surgery Saturday.

Examinations to Fill Civil Service Positions Listed

R. O. Finney, civil service examiner, Twin Falls, announced Saturday that examinations are open to fill civil service positions.

They include engineering student trainee, $4,140-$6,441 per year, and a veterans claims examiner (adjudicator), $4,740 per year.

Others include auto mechanic, carpenter, electrician, machinist, painter, plumber, sheet metal worker and welder (combination).

To qualify, applicants must be qualified to serve as foreman or lead foreman in a shop to program and conduct an approved vocational training program in the field applied for.

Persons interested in these positions may contact Finney, Twin Falls Post Office; U.S. Civil Service Commission, Federal Office Building, Seattle, Wash., or U.S. Civil Service Examiners, U.S. Penitentiary, Leavenworth, Kan.

Infant Boys Die

JEROME — Steven Riddle and Jerry Riddle, infant sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Riddle, Golconda, Nev., former Jerome residents, died at birth early Friday afternoon at St. Benedict's Hospital.

Besides their parents they are survived by maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Blessing, Twin Falls; maternal grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Blessing, Jerome; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nadine Riddle, Jerome, and one sister, Cindy Lou Riddle, Golconda.

Gravestone services will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Monday in Jerome Cemetery by Rev. Robert C. Cooper. The cortege will leave Hope Funeral Chapel at 10:20 a.m. Monday.

Effective Psychological Warfare Yields Hundreds of Enemy Defectors

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — An increasingly effective South Vietnamese and American psychological warfare program is bringing in hundreds of defectors.

Their stories indicate growing tensions among the 250,000 or so men who make up the regular North Vietnamese forces and Viet Cong guerrilla units in the south.

Defectors and captured prisoners are increasingly complaining of food shortages. One recent prisoner said he had eaten nothing but bananas for five days. Some report that rice is severely rationed in their areas.

Many are shocked by the hardships of the 60 to 80-day march south. Some arrive in the south suffering with beriberi, malaria, or severe dysentery.

Many were told they were coming south to fight Americans and find themselves fighting Vietnamese.

American airpower is beyond anything they had been warned about.

The guerrilla soldiers of the south also have their special gripes.

One of the foremost is the increasing hardship of their life in the field. This is coupled with growing fear of American air assaults. Rice shortages in some areas have added to their hardships.

In recent months there also is evidence of friction between Viet Cong troops and North Vietnamese regulars.

All these complaints, and many more, are unlikely to cause serious defections at this stage of the war. But they are ready targets for propaganda and this is going out daily via leaflets, radio broadcasts, front-line loudspeakers and even loudspeakers on low flying planes.

About 800 defectors, called "quy chuanhs" — returnees — are now organized as armed psychological warfare platoons. They go into Viet Cong territory with appeals to handlets and villages.

All this is part of the chieu hoi — open arms — program which has been going on with varying effectiveness since 1963. Altogether it has brought about 35,000 guerrillas or regular North Vietnamese troops over to the side of South Viet Nam.

The senior American adviser to the program, financed in part by U.S. aid, is a psychological warfare expert, M.L. Osborne, who began as a teacher and wound up as a psy-war officer in the China-Burma theater during World War II.

Osborne later served as a psy-war officer under Gen. Douglas MacArthur in Japan and was director of the program directed at Korean and Chinese prisoners during the Korean war.

His figures show that 9,252 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese regulars have defected so far this year — against only 11,124 for all last year.

He ties the defection rate directly to the increase in military pressure exerted by growing U.S. forces in South Viet Nam.

He concedes, however, that the defection rate is going up because there are more Viet Cong and North Vietnamese now to draw from.

This gets into a favorite pastime of pundits on the guerrilla war in South Viet Nam — the numbers game.

Statistics can be produced to prove that the North Vietnamese are bringing down some 3,500 men a month over the Ho Chi Minh trail. It is claimed that the Viet Cong are enlisting a similar number each month.

This means that the Communist force, by the numbers game, increases at the gross rate of 7,000 men monthly.

Discounting the loss of about 1,500 defectors and about 1,000 battle deaths monthly the figures still show the Communists gaining.

Add to this a South Vietnamese desertion rate of 500 monthly and the totals appear worse.

All these figures however, are unreal.

South Vietnamese deserters frequently just go home for an illegal vacation and come back. Sometimes in another unit or service. The Communist death toll is almost totally based on body count and does not always include losses to air attacks, to disease, wounds or those dead dragged from the field.

Consequently, American officers feel that the open-arms program is making a real dent in the Communist forces and there are plans to step it up.

Defectors usually surrender to a local official or a militia unit and get a minimum of 45 days' demerit. They then get a one-year draft deferment and, in theory, are reintegrated into life in South Viet Nam. Many get land in resettlement villages.

Officials know that the open-arms program has been infiltrated by Communists but say the number is small. They report that only eight persons are known to have redefected.

Space Agency Plans Two U.S. Firsts

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency plans to launch a pair of U.S. space probes in the next 10 days by hurling a satellite toward the moon and boosting into orbit around the earth the heaviest payload this nation ever launched.

The two-barreled push toward the moon is scheduled to begin Thursday when a scientific satellite called IMP 4 begins a three-day journey toward a top-sided orbit around the moon.

On July 5 or 6 a 22-story-tall Saturn IB booster — the mightiest ever launched — will try to heave a 58,500-pound second stage into orbit in an important test which must be achieved before astronauts can fly to the moon.

The Saturn originally was to have been launched Wednesday, but technical troubles forced a delay.

At the second stage of the Saturn IB sails through space 115 miles above the earth, television cameras will peer for six hours into its tanks full of liquid hydrogen fuel and beam directly to tracking stations live pictures of what's going on in the weightless flight.

If successful, it will be the first time the United States has successfully orbited anything around the moon. Several lunar orbits were attempted a few years ago, but none were successful.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, June 26 — Born to the alert for a sponsoring "and day; you are so sensitive to get." your surroundings that the presence of unsympathetic people or the mere witnessing of an argument in which you are not even involved is enough to drive all ability for work from you. This is something which you should strive to overcome, however, for it is a rare person who can manage to escape such happenings, and a person rarer still who can afford not to work when work is demanded.

You have a great thirst for knowledge, but the knowledge you should attempt to gain first of all is of yourself. Learn precisely how you respond to all types of situations — and then set about to control your response for the best results. Somewhat inclined to blame failure or mediocrity or "bad luck" or "fate," you must learn to blame yourself — for you can learn to control yourself, and thus your own "luck" or "fate."

You would make an excellent research scientist once you gained control of your emotions; for you have not only the intelligence it takes but also the ability to work long, tedious hours, the temperament to work alone a great deal of the time, and the determination required to put two and two together over and over again until you make them come out four.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Man Is Swept To Death in River Rapids

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — A 31-year-old man was swept to his death in the rapids of the Clearwater River Friday afternoon while law enforcement officers and spectators stood helplessly on the shore listening to his cries for help.

The victim was identified by Lewiston Police Chief William D. Siller as William Sacks, 31, of William, Tenn., about 21 or 22, whose last known address was Walla Walla.

Sacks broke and fled from police as they sought to question him concerning a fight in a tavern in which Sacks is alleged to have chased a bartender with his knife. Siller said he was also wanted for questioning about cutting a telephone cord in two so the tavern owner could not call police.

When officers were alerted over another telephone, the man ran from the tavern and waded through a slough on the northern edge of the Lewiston business district to an island in the Clearwater.

He ran to one end of the island and crawled under a rock shelf. He entered the water and crouched low for about 15 minutes while officers on both sides of the river watched through field glasses, fearful that he might attempt to swim the stream.

At 4:05 p.m. Sacks waded out into the swift current and began swimming toward the north shore of the river. Within a few feet he was caught up by the current and carried down the center of the stream. Police officers and spectators ran along the shore as he screamed repeatedly for help.

A rescue boat was summoned from a Snake River dock about a mile below where the Clearwater flows into the Snake. Sacks was carried about half a mile before he finally sank from sight about 40 yards off shore. The rescue boat, fighting the strong Clearwater current, arrived about two minutes after he sank from sight.

William Dee Calls for Referendum

BOISE (AP) — A Democratic candidate for governor has called for prompt referendum procedures which would "return government to the people."

State Sen. William J. Dee of Grangeville made the suggestion Friday night in a dinner remark to a political rally in Boise.

He criticized a proposal of State Sen. Don Samuelson of Sandpoint, a Republican candidate for governor.

Dee said Samuelson's plan for a constitutional limit on state action "is so inflexible it could leave Idaho in chaos at a time of fiscal emergency."

Dee suggested procedures for initiative, referendum and referendum within 60 days after its approval by the governor.

Dee is the only one of three Democratic candidates for governor who opposes the sales tax.

The levy will be voted upon in a November referendum. Idaho's present laws provide for a referendum at the general election following enactment of a statute.

Priest Uses Aids

JERSEYVILLE, Ill. (AP) — The Rev. John J. Clancy used a magnifying glass to say the Mass, but the Latin flowed smoothly.

Father Clancy celebrated the Mass on his 100th birthday Friday at St. Francis Xavier Roman Catholic church where he has been pastor for nearly 53 years.

He used the magnifying glass because of cataracts. Father Clancy also suffered a broken hip recently but stood while saying Mass. He sat in a wheelchair to deliver his sermon.

Eagles Lodge Ends Annual Convention

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho Eagles Lodge concluded its 47th annual state convention here today with the election of Charles W. Caward, a Caldwell carpenter, as president and selection of Pocatiello as the site for the 1967 convention.

Caward, a member and past president of the Lewiston Eagles, succeeded Wilbur A. Wood, who was elected state president while living at Coeur d'Alene and now resides at Boise.

The other new officers are Robert Root, Boise, vice president; Evert A. Bateman, Lewiston, chairman; Dale Chadwick, Pocatiello, conductor; Ernest Wyckoff, Moscow, inside guard; Freeman Siedler, Coeur d'Alene, outside guard; Mike Frandsen, Coeur d'Alene, secretary, and George Justice, Lewiston, treasurer.

Keith Booth, Sandpoint, was elected state president of the Idaho Eagles and Ward Gray, Wallace, were carryover trustees.

Man Sentenced In Assault Case

Larry C. Thomas, charged in connection with a bayonet assault on a carnival manager, entered a plea of guilty to the lesser charge of simple assault Friday in district court and was sentenced to 30 days in the county jail.

Thomas originally had been charged with assault with a deadly weapon when he assaulted the manager of a show, in which he was employed, with a 14-inch bayonet.

Twin Falls County Deputy Sheriff Wayne Hankins, an eyewitness, said the offense was committed following an argument in which Thomas had been knocked to the ground. According to Hankins, Thomas jumped from the ground with the bayonet, but was stopped before he could stab anyone.

District Judge Theron B. Ward said the time Thomas spent in jail awaiting trial would count toward his 30-day sentence.

Court Finds Cuban Exile Innocent

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A U.S. District Court jury found a young Cuban exile innocent Friday of an attempt to hijack a plane and divert it to Cuba to pick up relatives.

The attorney argued that Luis Medina Perez, 21, was insane Oct. 26, when, armed with a target pistol, he tried to force a Key West-bound National Airlines prop jet with 27 persons aboard to fly to Havana. No one was hurt.

At 16 Medina was one of the youngest members of the Bay of Pigs brigade which invaded Cuba in 1962. He was among the first volunteers "trained" in the Castro prison of prisoners.

Regulations Cramp Style Of Campaign

REXBURG, Idaho (AP) — Capt. George Willmore is having his campaign style cramped by American military regulations.

A Pentagon spokesman says Willmore, a candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Second District, may not carry through his leave from active duty.

A Defense Department public affairs spokesman said this: "Captain Willmore, having already been nominated, may accept this nomination, providing he has not solicited it either directly or indirectly."

"While on active duty he is not permitted to participate in any way in a political campaign, nor to make political speeches, nor to solicit votes for himself or anyone else, nor to participate in any activity intended to influence an election."

"In event of election, separation from active duty would be mandatory."

His wife, Judy Willmore, said in Rexburg she had not anticipated this turn of events; she thought her husband would be able to go on leave and campaign without getting out of the service. She said she did not know what action they would take now.

Capt. Willmore is on active duty in Vietnam. Mrs. Willmore said she expects him home in about two weeks.

Arts Commission Awarded Grant

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Idaho Arts Commission has been awarded a $25,000 federal grant to conduct a study of the state's cultural needs and facilities.

Congressman George Hansen, R-Idaho, announced approval of the grant today by the National Foundation on Arts and Humanities.

Hansen said the money will be available at the start of the next fiscal year, July 1.

Jerome Duplicate Results Reported

JEROME — Eight tables were played during the Jerome Duplicate Bridge Club meeting held Saturday afternoon at the Elks Building.

Oakley Man Training at Scout Ranch

Thomas H. Clark, Oakley, is participating in the volunteer training program at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base.

He is enrolled in the LDS leadership conference, which is organized by the national scout leaders as part of the "Breakthrough for Youth" program of the Boy Scouts of America.

Clark, a partner in the Clark's Shopping Center, serves as a volunteer scoutmaster in the Casalia District, Snake River Council, Boy Scouts of America, which co-ordinates scouting for the boys of this area.

The course is being taught at the Philmont Volunteer Training Center and is one of the 25 courses that will be offered to about 2,000 volunteer scout leaders this summer.

Accompanying scouters while they are in training, more than 5,000 members of their families will be taking advantage of the full program of activities offered for all age groups.

Attending some of the special programs available for women, Mrs. Clark is sharing the study-vacation period with her husband and their four children.

In addition to adult training, more than 16,500 explorers and older Boy Scouts will be visiting the 214-square mile ranch this summer to take 12-day high adventure expeditions into the rugged Sangre de Cristo range of the Rocky Mountains. Among the variety of activities available are burro pack trips, gold panning and mining, mountain climbing and archaeology.

Damages Are Awarded in Rupert Case

RUPERT — A total of $7,800 damages was awarded to Ralph B. Johnson, Burley, and his mother, Mrs. Lydia Johnson, Twin Falls, by a district court jury here early Saturday morning.

Johnson and his mother asked for a total of $74,000 compensatory and punitive damages from Carl J. Williams, who allegedly shot at their car as they were leaving his farm while pheasant hunting Oct. 24, 1965.

The jury, headed by Clyde Greenwell as jury foreman, awarded Johnson $2,000 compensatory damages and $2,000 punitive damages, while his mother received $1,800 compensatory and $2,000 punitive damages.

The jury also awarded $10 compensatory and $2,000 punitive damages to Williams from Johnson for trespassing. Mrs. Johnson is to pay Williams $10 compensatory and $300 punitive damages.

The district court trial which began Wednesday afternoon ended at 4 p.m. Friday. Judge Lloyd Webb presented instructions and the case went to the jury about 8 p.m.

Jurors deliberated until 3 a.m. The Johnsons were represented by Emil Pike and William McDougall, Twin Falls, of Rayborn and Rayborn firm, while Williams was represented by S. H. Hibbert, Burley.

Area Dealers to Attend Conclave

Three Magic Valley residents and their families will attend the annual summer meeting of the Intermountain Association Hardware and Implement Dealers, to be held July 8-10 at Bear Lake Lodge, Fish Haven.

They are William Roberts, Buhl; Edward Elliott, Burley; and Joseph Clark, Twin Falls.

The association consists of hardware and implement dealers in Idaho, Utah, western Wyoming, eastern Oregon and Nevada.

FIVE YEARS ON TAIWAN can be a very long time to be away from one's family and from the country of your origin, according to Mrs. John E. Spreier, who just returned from Formosa with her husband, Rev. Spreier, and their seven children. Rev. Spreier was on the island for five years doing

Lutheran Minister, Family Return From Formosa Stay

BY PHILLIP LOWMAN
Rev. and Mrs. John E. Spreier and their seven children returned to Buhl last week after spending five years on the island of Formosa (Taiwan) performing missionary work for the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Prior to departing for Taiwan, Rev. Spreier studied Mandarin Chinese for two years and then was appointed miss communications director of the China Evangelical Lutheran Church at Taipei, the island's capital.

After arriving on the island his primary responsibility was the supervision of the Taiwan Lutheran Hour, a branch operation of the international Lutheran Hour which broadcasts weekly radio programs in 68 countries, using more than 1,200 radio stations, and in 60 different languages.

Rev. Spreier said the Taiwan branch office produces a weekly 30-minute dramatic presentation in three Chinese languages — Mandarin, Taiwanese and Hakka. Rev. Spreier said a 30 minute television program also was initiated under his supervision earlier this year.

This television program is the only program sponsored by a Christian church currently being telecast on TTV, the only commercial television station on the island. Rev. Spreier said the program is directed primarily at the non-Christian viewer.

He said the dramatic presentations are based on social problems in Taiwan.

During his service on Taiwan, Rev. Spreier also served as principal of the Lutheran Hour Bible Correspondence School, chairman of the China Evangelical Literature Committee, and chairman of Taiwan Christian Service, voluntary service organization representing the National Council of Churches USA and the National Lutheran Council in Taiwan.

Rev. Spreier also served as a civilian auxiliary chaplain for the United States Navy, and in this capacity conducted worship services of U.S. servicemen once a month on the island of Quemoy, a small Chinese Nationalist-controlled island bastion only six miles from the Communist China mainland.

Commenting on the economic and political situation on Taiwan, Rev. Spreier praised the tremendous economic growth which has taken place on the island during the past 10 years. Because of "very liberal assis-

Cub Reporter Is Killed in Car Accident

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — A cub reporter whose first big story was lined up for Sunday's front page of the Indianapolis Star was killed Saturday in a traffic accident.

Stephen A. Haynes, 28, who planned to be married a week from Saturday, died in a two-car collision en route to his Marion home from a bachelor party.

Haynes spent two weeks masquerading as a drunk to prepare a series of articles on the underworld of the derelict. He served one week in the Marion County Jail after being arrested as a common drunk.

City Editor Larry Connor said the series, "Another World," would be published daily for the next two weeks as scheduled.

A large advertisement in Saturday's newspaper billed the reporter as having returned "from another world—a world few people know about."

It is difficult to keep their home warm.

She also said food on the island is good, but very expensive. She said she thought most of the islanders were poor.

According to her, other than pork, the only meat available on the island comes from oxen and water buffalo. She also said that Taiwanese pork is the finest in the world.

Mrs. Spreier said the people of Taiwan, for the most part, are nice people to be around. She said the island has its bad element, "but you find that everywhere—in the world."

The youngest of the Spreier family, Dione, 3, was born on the island, and her mother said she has had quite a time adjusting since arriving in Idaho. She said it has taken her all week to realize where she is, and she now sits transfixed in front of the television set.

Mrs. Spreier said Dione had never seen television before.

Infant Twins Die

JEROME — Steven Riddle and Jerry Riddle, infant twin sons of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Riddle, Jerome, died at birth Friday afternoon in St. Benedict's Hospital.

Besides their parents, survivors include a sister, Cindy Lou Riddle, Golconda; maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. V. Blessing, Twin Falls; maternal great-grandmother, Mrs. Bertha Blessing, Jerome; paternal grandmother, Mrs. Nadine Riddle, Jerome.

Graveside services will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday at Jerome Cemetery with Rev. Robert C. Cooper, First Baptist Church, Jerome, officiating. The cortege will leave the Home Funeral Chapel at 10:20 a.m.

Reason Is Given For Resignation

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — William F. Raborn Jr., says he resigned as director of the Central Intelligence Agency because of the "bure of industry."

But Raborn did not disclose his future plans Friday in addressing a graduating class at the Armed Forces Staff College. Raborn, a retired vice admiral, resigned last Saturday after 14 months as CIA chief.

Custer's Last Stand Is Re-Enacted

CROW AGENCY, Mont. (AP) — Bill Barnett, a soft-spoken rancher who lives in the rolling Montana hills, is a man chasing a ghost.

The ghost is Gen. George Armstrong Custer, who died here in one of the U.S. Army's most crushing defeats.

"That was 80 years ago, today. This weekend the Crown Indian tribe, assisted by Barnett and his friends, are staging a re-enactment of the famous battle in which Custer and 264 of his men died. The first performance was Friday."

Barnett is what is known as a Custer buff. There are many like him in the west who don't let go.

"I've studied the man for years," Barnett said. "I've read about him, I've talked to military men about him, and I've played the role for three years. But I can't figure the man out."

What puzzles Barnett — and most people — is why Custer split his command into three units and took only 264 men against thousands of Sioux and Cheyenne in the valley of the Little Big Horn River.

The answer died with Custer.

Communist Says Riots To Shake U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The chief civil rights spokesman for the U.S. Communist party says riots will shake the nation if Negro demands for equality are not met.

"We are no advocates of violence and we hope that violence will not be necessary," said Claude Lightfoot.

But he declared, in a remark addressed to the Johnson administration: "Gentlemen, tremble. Unless relief is forthcoming I cannot vouch for what is about to happen here."

Lightfoot, a Chicago Negro who heads the party's Civil Rights Commission, spoke at a news conference Friday at the party's national convention, its first since 1959.

ATTIRED IN IDENTICAL empire-styled floor-length gowns of blush pink are, from left, Sharon Lee Irwin, Mrs. Gary (Carol) Standley and Mrs. Jerry (Ann) Shively as they attend their sister, Susan Carlene Irwin, right, at her wedding June 19 at the Twin Falls First Presbyterian Church. Sharon Irwin was maid of honor and Mrs. Standley and Mrs. Shively were bridesmaids. Each carried a garden basket filled with pink and white daisies.

ADJUSTING THE VEIL for her daughter prior to the wedding is Mrs. Larry Irwin, Kimberly. The bouffant veil was held by a crown of pearls and crystals, made by Mrs. Irwin. Making final arrangements for weddings is nothing new for Mrs. Irwin, as she is the mother of four daughters, three of whom are now married.

THE BRIDEGROOM DOES NOT appear nervous as he chats with Gordon Smith, Boise, left, prior to the wedding. Smith was an usher at the wedding, along with Frank Sawyer, Boise. Robert Sparks, Aberdeen, was best man. The bride and bridegroom are students at the University of Idaho and will return to their studies this fall.

LEAVING THE CHURCH after their wedding ceremony are Mr. and Mrs. Roger Dolan Lackey. The bride, Susan Carlene Irwin, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Irwin, Kimberly, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lackey.

Boise. Rev. Robert Harvey officiated at the double ring afternoon ceremony. The bride is representative of the many young women in Magic Valley repeating nuptial vows during the romantic month of June.

Valley Miss Represents Area's Brides for June

"Marriages Are Made in Heaven," according to a famous English poet, Alfred Lord Tennyson, and thousands of young people repeating nuptial vows during the romantic month of June agree this must be so.

June traditionally has become the month of brides and the hopes and dreams of many are set in motion as marriage pledges are given at altars throughout the country during this enchanting month.

Representative of the many Magic Valley June brides is Susan Carlene Irwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Irwin, Kimberly. Making arrangements for weddings is not new to Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, as they have four daughters, three of whom are now married, with Sharon Lee Irwin, 14, still at home.

Susan Carlene Irwin and Roger Dolan Lackey, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Lackey, Boise, were united in marriage in an afternoon ceremony June 19 at the Twin Falls First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Robert Harvey officiated at the double ring rites before a background setting of cathedral baskets of pink Friendship gladioli and white peonies tied with white satin. The baskets were flanked with brass candelabra and large satin bows marked the bridal aisle.

Michael Fisher, Kimberly, soloist, sang "Wedding Prayer" and "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Charles Allen, organist, who also played the traditional wedding music.

Escorted by her father, the bride looked radiant in a gown of white Chantilly lace enhanced withilly point sleeves and a scalloped Sabrina neckline outlined with iridescent sequins. The floor-length skirt was accented with a chapel train. Her bouffant veil was held by a crown of pearls and crystals, made by her mother.

She carried a beautiful cascade bouquet of pink Phalaenopsis orchids, stephanotis and miniature variegated ivy tied with pink brocade. With her bouquet she carried a white handkerchief which had belonged to her grandmother, Mrs. R. R. Horne.

Attired in identical empire-styled floor-length gowns of blush pink enhanced with mint green accents were the bride's attendants, Sharon Irwin, maid of honor, and Mrs. Gary (Carol) Standley and Mrs. Jerry (Ann) Shively, bridesmaids, sisters of the bride. Their gowns were fashioned by their mother. Each wore a coronet of Marguerite daisies and carried a garden basket filled with pink and white Marguerite daisies, pink Elfe roses and gypsophylla tied with bows of pink satin.

Best man was Robert (Bob) Sparks, Aberdeen, and ushers were Gordon Smith and Frank Sawyer, Boise.

The tapers were lighted by John Irwin, cousin of the bride, and Joan Garnand, Lori Standley, niece of the bride, was flower girl and Ricky Croly, nephew of the bridegroom, carried the rings on a white satin heart-shaped pillow trimmed with white ribbon streamers and lace.

The small flower girl scattered flower petals in the path of the

Miss Simmons, Nielsen Repeat Nuptial Vows

Sandee Simmons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Uriel Simmons, Twin Falls, and Kenneth Nielsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burt Nielsen, Filer, were united in marriage May 28 in rites at the Fourth Ward LDS Chapel. Bishop Claude Brown performed the double ring ceremony before a background setting of baskets of pink and rose-colored gladioli.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white brocade, styled with a scooped neckline. The empire-styled bodice was trimmed with a row of seed pearls and the long chapel train was enhanced with a bow. Her shoulder-length veil of silk illusion was held by a bow of orange-gold flowers trimmed with seed pearls.

She carried a bouquet of pink and white gladioli. Rita Koepnick was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Terry Hanel and Susan Simmons, sister of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. Connie Herd, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Delbert Erickson was best man. Ushers were Charles Chambers and Mark Simmons, brother of the bride.

Mrs. James Sherron, aunt of the bride, played the traditional wedding music. Richard Smack was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Vaughn Pond.

The reception was held in the church recreation hall. The bride's table was covered with net over rose. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the table and was flanked by two floral arrangements of pink and rose-colored gladioli.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. James Herd, sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Tim Nielsen, sister-in-law of the bridegroom. Punch was served by Mrs. Cy Williams and Mrs. Jack Richards, aunts of the bride.

Gifts were displayed by Bonnie Kiltz, Judy Wilkins and Kerry Griffin. Giftbearers were Douglas Nielsen, brother of the

Miss Burkett, Merkey Wed in Shoshone Rites

SHOSHONE — Mr. and Mrs. Roy D. Burkett announce the marriage of their daughter, Kathleen Louise, to Gary L. Merkey, Rupert. The ceremony was held at the Shoshone Methodist Church June 17, with Rev. Ralph Cairns officiating.

The bride wore a white lace sheath dress with scooped neckline and long sleeves enhanced with a feathered pink corsage. After a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Shoshone.

The bride and bridegroom were attended by Mrs. Sandra Wallace, Gooding, and Ross P. Borden, Shoshone, grandfather of the bride. The bride's brother, Jon Simmons, brother of the bride, Vicki Smith was in charge of the guest book. Assisting with the reception were Mrs. Claude Brown, Mrs. John Connolly, Mrs. A. L. Richardson, Mrs. Revue Staples and Mrs. Alina Whitehead. Guests attended from Burley, Murtaugh, Boise, Filer, Buhl, Kimberly, Oregon, Utah, California and Nevada.

The bride was honored at a personal shower hosted by Miss Koepnick, Miss Hanel, Vicki Douglas Nielsen, brother of the

Carolyn Black, Hope Exchange Nuptial Vows

WENDELL—Exchanging marriage vows before President Willard S. Wray at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple June 1 were Carolyn Black and Wayne Hope, both Wendell. Grandparents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Black, Mr. and Mrs. Lauris Hope. Wendell are parents of the bridegroom.

A reception was held June 3 in the Wendell LDS Cultural Hall. The hall was decorated with baskets of lavender iris and white peonies. The couple greeted guests in an archway decorated with evergreens and white peonies tied with a lavender bow.

The bride wore an empire-styled floor-length gown of slipper satin, enhanced with long sleeves and a rounded neckline. The gown featured a center pleat of rown of lace, and was designed and made by the bride. She carried white carnations on a white lace covered Bible, enhanced with lavender net and ribbon.

Her shoulder-length veil was held by a rhinestone tiara edged with beaded lace roses. Susan Cooper, Wendell, was maid of honor, Bonnie Willard, Wendell, and Geri Black, Wendell, were bridesmaids. Diane Hope, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was Blair Hybee, Logan, Utah, cousin of the bridegroom. The bride's table was covered with a lace tablecloth and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake on a round mirror surrounded with lavender roses. The cake featured a spiral stairway leading to a chapel on the top tier. At the base of the cake were two heart shaped cakes. The cake was decorated and served by Mrs. Lucille Lancaster, with Mrs. Helen Cooper assisting in serving.

Mrs. Lillian MacFfee and Mrs. June MacFfee, Blackfoot, presided at the punch bowl. Gifts were displayed by Mrs. Clarice Morgan and Mrs. Sara Smith. Gifts were carried by Tammie MacFfee and Tonya MacFfee, cousins of the bride.

Mrs. Sarah Bitterill was in charge of the guest book. The table was decorated with an arrangement of lavender feathered flowers. Guests attended from St. Anthony, Rexburg, Idaho Falls, Blackfoot, Pocatello, Dorrington, Halley, Dietrich, Murlough and Jerome. Out-of-state guests attended from Portland, Ore., and Logan, Utah.

A wedding dinner was held at the Ox Bow, Bliss, for the wedding party and relatives in the afternoon prior to the reception.

After a short honeymoon in Sun Valley, the couple will reside in Denver, Colo., where both are enrolled in college.

The bride was honored at a miscellaneous shower hosted by Susan Cooper and Mrs. Bitterill.

Comfort Is Built Into Boys' Fashions

NEW YORK (NES)—Suddenly it's spring. Birds show off their bright new feathers. But with little boys sartorial splendor takes a back seat. Off come coats and sweaters. Up go bothersome sleeves. Tight-fitting collars are quickly loosened. But the situation is improving now that comfort is being built into boys' fashions. Young lads will find it easier to keep up appearances. Trim and tailored, the current designs leave young wearers free for the rough-and-tumble of the playground. They can feel like their old selves even in their Sunday best.

Because boys dream of the sea and sailing ships, there is a jaunty yachting jacket in nautical blue to be worn with turtle-neck cotton knit tops and white duck pants. Double-breasted with pearl button closings, this slips on with an easy fit.

MRS. D. D. SHUMAWAY
645 2nd Ave. N., Twin Falls

Easy Baked Trout Dinner

3 or 4 trout
1 can tomato soup
1/2 cup water
2 tablespoons flour
1/2 cup oil
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
Potatoes prepared for baking
Cut heads and fins off trout and skin. Salt and pepper fish inside and out. Pour oil in baking dish. Put fish in oil and roll around so fish is oiled good on both sides.
Mix soup, water and flour to gether and spread over fish. Dot good with butter and bake in a 350 degree oven for one hour. Put potatoes in oven to bake at the same time. Serve with green salad and hot rolls.

(Note: You can use any size trout by increasing or decreasing soup mixture, just by making sure fish is covered good with soup mixture.)

The Times-News will pay $5 each for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

PACKING CLOTHES necessary for a three-week Horizon Club Conference Afloat, sponsored by the Camp Fire Girls, Inc., is Linda Hranac, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hranac. She will meet Sen. Frank Church Wednesday at the capitol. (Times-News photo)

Educational Cruise Set by Linda Hranac

A Caribbean cruise and a planned educational experience of three weeks are planned for Linda Hranac, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hranac, Twin Falls, as she leaves Tuesday for the Horizon Club Conference Afloat, sponsored by Camp Fire Girls, Inc.

Miss Hranac flies by plane to Washington, D. C. and will meet Sen. Frank Church by appointment Wednesday at the capitol. From Washington she will go to New York City where the three-week cruise begins July 8 aboard the ship, M-S Aurelia, returning July 27.

All expenses are paid by Miss Hranac, except $60 donated by the Twin Falls Camp Fire Council, collected from a rummage sale.

The Horizon Club Conference Afloat is a teen-age working conference at sea with three-day stops at San Juan, Puerto Rico; Cartagena, Colombia; and Kingston, Jamaica.

On shipboard a full program of workshops and seminars to reinforce previous work done by the girls in Latin American geography, history, government, economics and current events; arts and crafts; music and dance; and the Spanish language. Girls will hold discussions on Horizon Club activities, publish a daily newspaper, make a photographic Conference record and have fun through sports and parties.

At ports of call, girls will visit local homes and girls' camps, meet government officials and teen-age guests aboard ship.

The entire conference is sponsored by Camp Fire Girls, Inc., and planned in cooperation with the Council on Student Travel which is a non-profit federation of more than 140 North American institutions and organizations, including Camp Fire Girls, Inc., which are exploring the new dimensions in the education of youth to their responsibilities as citizens of the world.

In preparation for the conference, Linda has done research on all the countries she will be visiting. She has also studied Spanish in school. When asked if she had ever been on ocean water, she replied that her sailing experience amounted to a brief trip off the coast of California near San Francisco.

Linda will be wearing official uniform for her HCCA cruise which includes a jacket, shell blouse, three skirts, sport shirt, bermuda shorts, shoulder bag and clutch bag.

One thousand Horizon Club members, accompanied by one hundred adult staff, will be participating in the Conference Afloat. In addition, girls from countries to be visited will join the conference, for one day, overnight and, or, several day schedules.

HCCA is a venture in international understanding, an extension of the current annual project "Think Big — See the World," planned to give Horizon Club members exposure to other cultures and an experience in sharing. It climaxes experiences the girls have had at city state, and regional meetings.

Horizon Club is the Camp Fire Girls organization for girls of high school age. Camp Fire Girls was founded in 1910.

Mrs. Reed Is Club Hostess

HANSEN — Members of the Friendship Club met at the home of Mrs. Lewis Reed, with Mrs. Thomas Steelsmith as program chairman.

She read an article, "I'm Mad Too," by A. E. Perkins, superintendent of Idaho state police, and gave a quiz, "How Good a Driver Are You?" She read excerpts from the book "How to Live With Life," and showed a part of Michelangelo's paintings from the Sistine Chapel.

Famous birthday anniversaries of the month were given as a part of the opening exercises by Mrs. Reed.

The July 21 meeting is at the home of Mrs. Kenneth Naylor, with Mrs. Reed as program chairman.

Past Oracles Luncheon Held

Mr. Chris Sims served a desert luncheon for members of the Past Oracles Club at her home.

Plans were made for the annual picnic set for July 18 with Myrtle Anderson, Mrs. Donald Treadwell was in charge of the business session and secret pal cards were received by Mrs. William Aringa, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Gertrude Bixwell, Shoshone.

Mrs. Mary Stearns received a special gift.

Mountain View Club Observes Anniversary

The 50th Anniversary of the Mountain View Club was observed by members at the Rogers Hotel Roundup Room. All chartered members were honored during the observance.

Mrs. Vance Pulsipher, president, gave the welcome. The invocation was sung by Mrs. Herman Stammerjohn, accompanied by Mrs. Harry Rayl. Two piano solos were presented by Wayne Corey, Jerome.

Each member introduced herself and stated the year she joined the club. Donna Mauldin presented some of her pupils in dance numbers. Students participating include Steven Weigt, George Archer, Charles Newberry, Johnny Rayston, Judy Clements, Ardith Crumbliss, Linda Gearty, Marianne Bollerger, Jayne Spencer, Peggy Graybill, Kris Duffel, Lenne Clements, Heidi Walker, Michael Rayston, Pat Duffel, Stephanie Claiborn, Michael Newberry, Trudy Olin and Ann King.

Mrs. Lawrence Campbell read a history of the club from 1916 to the present time. Guests were presented favors donated by various local merchants.

The head table, covered with white, was decorated in gold and centered with a large anniversary topped with the golden numerals "50." The cake was decorated with gold and white roses and flanked by gold and white candles and bouquets of golden-colored roses.

The other tables were decorated in the same color of red and white and featured floral arrangements of red roses and white sweet peas.

Mrs. Leo Hanlon, a charter member, cut the cake.

Mrs. Daniels Conducts Meet.

HAGERMAN — Mrs. Arthur Daniels, worthy matron of Order of Eastern Star, conducted the unit's meeting at the Masonic Temple.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Roy Clark, Long Beach, Calif. Fathers were honored at the meeting. The chapter will recess until September, but a picnic will be held during the summer.

Mrs. Erving Is Club Hostess

KING HILL — Mrs. Alvin Erving was hostess at her home for members of the Helping Hands Club, Bliss.

Club members decided to have only one meeting each month until September.

The July meeting is at the home of Mrs. Herb Patterson Jr., Bliss. Plans will be made for the fall activities.

Games were conducted by Mrs. Joel Young, with prizes going to Mrs. Peter Conant and Mrs. LeRoy Holloway.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Erving, assisted by Mrs. Young.

Prize winners include Mrs. Susan Stronks, Mrs. Campbell, Sandra Odell, Mrs. Thomas Knight, Mrs. Henry Wise, Mrs. Effie Bauer, Mrs. George Ballard, Mrs. Essie Hinton and Mrs. Raymond Assendrup.

Prizes were donated by Al Harrison's Food Center, Jay's Sav-On Foods, Sav-On Drug, Shelby's Market, Tempo, Buttery's Super Store, Jensen's Jewelry and General Supply Co.

PRESENTING A CHECK to Linda Hranac is Mrs. Orval Johnson, a representative of the Twin Falls Council of Camp Fire Girls, as Miss Hranac makes arrangements to attend the Horizon Club Conference Afloat. The Horizon Club Conference Afloat is a teen-age working conference at sea with three-day stops at San Juan, Puerto Rico; Cartagena, Colombia; and Kingston, Jamaica. All expenses to attend the conference must be met by Miss Hranac. The check presented by Mrs. Johnson was in the amount of $60, proceeds from a rummage sale sponsored by the Twin Falls Council of Camp Fire Girls. (Times-News photo) bride from a white basket trimmed with pink tulle and pink ribbon.

June Brides Represented by Kimberly Miss

The bride's mother chose a turquoise suit enhanced with a turquoise and white feather hat and white accessories for her daughter's wedding. The bridegroom's mother wore a suit of linen accented with pink and hone-colored accessories. The mothers' ensembles were complemented with corsages of white Cymbidium orchids. Mrs. Carl Irwin, grandmother of the bride, wore a Persian blue silk suit enhanced with a corsage of pink Elfe roses.

Jerry Shively played background music at the reception held immediately after the ceremony. Guests were registered by Danette Allert, Ritzville, Wash., at a table covered with pink lace and colored with an arrangement of roses.

Gifts were received by Mrs. Karin Niven Graham, Clarkston, Wash., and Margie Felton, Moscow. The bride's sorority sisters serenaded the bride and bridegroom with Kappa Kappa Gamma songs.

The bride's table was covered with pale pink satin over white tulle and nylon flounces. The table was draped and held in place by Spangli-form-and-corsage of white snapdragons, pink Elfe roses and orange blossoms. The wedding cake centered the table flanked by silver cupid epergnes containing bouquets of pink and white snapdragons, Elfe roses, orange blossoms and pink clematis.

The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Roberta McKercher, Bellevue, aunt of the bride. Floral arrangements and bouquets were made by the Crandall Flower Shop.

Serving at the reception table were Mrs. Richard Croly, Denver, and Mrs. Raymond Page, Ogden, sisters of the bridegroom, Mrs. Michael Gray and Janet Berry.

For her wedding trip, the bride changed to a pink sheath ensemble accented with white accessories and the corsage from her bridal bouquet.

The bride and bridegroom are students at the University of Idaho and will return to their studies this fall.

The rehearsal dinner was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at the Rogerson Hotel. A pre-nuptial buffet dinner was given for the bride's family by Mrs. Richard Irwin, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Carl Irwin, grandmother of the bride.

Sheep for week 4,100, compared with 4,625 week ago and 2,665 year ago; slaughter lambs 1.50-2.00 lower with early declines partially offset by late week upturns; feeder lambs 1.25-1.50 lower; slaughter ewes mostly steady; slaughter lambs made up nearly 45 percent of supply.

OMAHA (AP) — (USDA) — Hogs for week 34,000, compared with 31,000 week ago and 37,000 year ago; hogs and gilts closed lower after losing early advance, mostly 25 lower; supply of U. S. 1-2, 200-260 lb hogs and gilts; sows made up 20 percent of supply and closed mostly steady.

Cattle for week 33,300, a decrease of seven percent from previous week and 14 percent smaller than year ago; slaughter steers approximately 53 percent of receipts, heifers 25 percent, cows 11 percent; feeders 5 percent; trading characterized by general bearishness; weight a major price determining factor on steers with best demand for all-grade 1,000-1,200 lb; high-choice and prime 1,200-1,350 lb also found fairly reliable outlet; closing prices slaughter steers and heifers mostly steady; cows fully steady instances 25 higher on canner and cutter; bulls closed 50-100 lower; feeders steady to 25 lower.

Sheep for week 4,500, compared with 4,570 week ago and 7,075 year ago; slaughter lambs pushed sharply lower, the recent severe price declines in the wholesale product the main bearish factor in the market; slaughter lambs mostly 1.75 lower with average prices for spring lambs lowest since September 1965; mixed old cove lambs and yearlings in limited numbers steady to weak; slaughter ewes about steady.

CHICAGO (AP) — Following is a summary of the hog, cattle and sheep markets for the week:

Hogs — Compared Friday last week, 240-250 lb live gilt 230 lbs 75-1.00 higher, over 230 lbs steady to 75 higher with weights 270 lbs and up steady, sows under 500 lbs steady to 25 higher, over 500 lbs steady to 25 lower. Grain Market Experiences Lively Trade

CHICAGO (AP) — The livestock trade the grain futures market has experienced in many years swamped its clearing house twice last week and produced further very sharp price advances.

Old crop soybeans added another 20 cents a bushel or more without showing more than a feeble show of resistance. All contracts of that commodity, as well as wheat and corn, again hit season high levels.

The grains showed a little resistance from time to time, but it was limited almost entirely to profit cashing as speculators shied away from the short side of the market almost entirely.

Tuesday, the trade volume of corn hit a record peak of 72.4 million bushels and the total of all grains and soybeans for the day amounted to 212.4 million bushels.

Weather, talk of dwindling supplies, slow movement of wheat to market and state reports in Washington were major factors.

The strongest single influence was a speech by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey in which he said the long period of surplus, particularly of wheat, over and that there was some concern about maintenance of adequate supplies.

A mildly bearish influence came Friday when Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman was quoted as saying the danger of wheat scarcity

Auto Sales, Housing Are 2 Weak Spots in Economy

NEW YORK (AP) — Two of the weaker spots in the economy — automobile sales and housing starts — have continued to slide, reports showed during the week.

Though automobiles are selling at their second-highest level, they aren't keeping pace with last year.

Housing starts fell in May to their lowest level in 3 1/2 years.

Otherwise, the economy kept on an even keel, spurred by demand for the Viet Nam war.

General Motors reported selling 107,232 new passenger cars in the middle 10 days of June, off 14.1 percent from 124,845 in June 1965.

Performances by the other automakers, Ford, 58,451 sold in mid-June against 62,738 a year earlier, a decline of 7 percent; Chrysler, 38,976 against 34,428, an advance of 14 percent; and American Motors, 8,143 against 7,276, a gain of 12 percent.

Passenger car production for the week totaled 240,000, compared with 189,100 the previous week and 201,779 a year ago.

Housing starts in May fell 13 percent to an annual rate of 1,300,000 units from 1,400,000 in April. A year earlier the pace was 1,516,000.

Some economists term housing starts a leading indicator, foreshadowing changes of direction in business activity.

But government officials said, "This is simply a manifestation of the credit squeeze that housing is in."

Freight traffic on the nation's railroads for the week was 1,100,000 tons, down 1.5 percent from 1,115,000 tons a year earlier.

The advance of the cost of living — which has been in its steepest climb in 15 years — was kept to a minimal one-tenth of one percent in May by a drop in food prices.

Grocery prices fell six-tenths of one percent — the first drop in eight months. The decline was offset by rises in the costs of clothing, housing, medical care and personal services.

The result was that consumers paid $11.26 in buy goods and services worth $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Average earnings of factory workers climbed 60 cents a week in May, $20.22 for those with three dependents, and to $21.35 for single workers.

Cost-of-living pay raises will go to more than 200,000 workers with labor contracts pegged to the government index, including 150,000 in the 85,000 aerospace workers and 5 cents to 75,000 meat packing employees.

Flour mills raised prices another 25 cents a hundred pounds — the second increase within a year. Earlier they imposed a 15-cent hike.

Indications were that the retail price of bread would be raised 1 cent for a one-pound loaf.

Bad weather that harmed some crops, government subsidies and a tendency by farmers to hold back in marketing their crops have combined to send wheat prices higher.

United Air Lines announced that it has bought 24 Douglas jets for about $220 million, a 12 percent increase over the $196 million it said that growth of airline traffic and demands in United's markets necessitated the purchase of 18 long-range DC-8s and six DCB-1 jet freighters.

can and will be averted.

At the end of the week, wheat was 5 to 6 cents a bushel higher, July $1.88 1/2-86; corn 4 1/2-7 1/2 higher, July $1.33; oats 3 1/2-4 1/2 higher, July 73 1/2 cents; rye 4 1/2-5 cents higher, July $1.30 1/2; soybeans 8 1/2 to 22 cents higher, July $3.53 1/2-55.

Stocks Go Through Nervous Time

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market went through a nervous week, showing a flash of optimism which was quickly obliterated.

Rumors and news about international events were factors. So was the technical condition of the market.

More stocks declined than advanced on the New York Stock Exchange, the score being 738 down, 670 up, and 1,508 steady.

Thanks to scattered strength among some of its 30 blue chip components, however, the Dow Jones industrial average showed a net gain of 2.90 at 807.16. The Associated Press average of 60 stocks took a loss of 1.2 at 229.9.

The week's volume total was 35,694,850 shares compared with 37,307,620 the previous week.

As in the previous week, the Dow Jones industrials once again climbed above the significant 800 level. They closed at 801.00 on Wednesday, the reading up from 794.12 on Tuesday was 6.88. If this gain were held it would have represented a new recovery high since the spring collapse.

The rise faded, however, amid confirmed rumors from Washington. One concerned a possible high-level conference concerning the future handling of the Viet Nam hostilities. Another was a rumor of a conference about economic matters.

Corporate reports about Douglas Aircraft were discouraging, as the previous high gain ended the week with a net loss of 8 1/2. Selling in Douglas spread to some other high flyers among the aerospace, airline and electronics groups.

Corporate bond prices advanced in the face of heavy offerings of $400 million — the largest since June 1965.

Long term government bonds held steady and municipals were firm. Treasuries, however, declined to the lowest level of the year, reflecting the "tightened money market."

Writer Quotes Scripture To Support Racist Policy

Editor, Times-News:

If Governor Wallace is a racist, he is following the teachings of Yahweh, God.

God is the first segregationist and all should follow his teachings to keep nature in balance — Deut. 7:1.

God chose True Israel, His own begotten race or issue, consisting of 12 tribes (who are of Nordic, Inque, Lombard, Germanic, Anglo-Saxon blood) to be a "special people unto himself, above all the people upon the face of the earth."

The preceding five verses give the law of survival and purity of the white race, or True Israel.

There is a fallacy taught from many pulpits that the Noah flood covered the whole earth. The Hebrew word for "Earth" is "erets" and means that portion of the earth.

Remember, Sodom and Gomorrah (Mexico) was inhabited before the "flood," as they have dug up Asiatic warriors with "China" jade bracelets and necklaces upon them. These Asiatic radio-carbon test back 200,000 years.)

Animals would need accustomed food, if from equatorial areas, to live on while Noah was in uttermost parts of the earth gathering flora and fauna. (By the way, who was building the small ark while Noah was away months at a time?)

The family of occupants of the ark were of the same seedline. (Does white radiate seed produce purple children?) Kind breeds kind, seed having life in itself.

The true seedline of our embodied Savior came through Judah and Tamar. Then Mary, the chosen vessel that nurtured the seed of God until fully formed, was of the tribe of Levi.

(Judah and Levi are sons of Jacob — none having one drop of Jewish, Asiatic or Negro blood in them). Seth was to marry into his own race, as was Isaac, etc.

Suggested reading: 11 Cor. 6:13-18; St. John 15:1; 1 John 4:10; St. Jude, all; and especially 1 John, verses 9-11.

Book Linking King With Communists Is Reported

Editor, Times-News:

Regarding Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., it gives me to tell of an interesting book I read.

The title is "It's Very Simple," by Alan Stang, published by Western Publishers in 1965. Stang gives a documented and true picture of the Civil Rights.

On pages 102 and 103 of this book he writes:

"It seems that Dr. Dombrowski has many friends. In 1953, along with a man named Miles Horton, he was running an outfit called Commonwealth College in Mena, Arkansas. Commonwealth College was controlled by the People's Institute of Applied Religion, which has been organized by the Communist Party. The idea behind the college was that since communism in the South couldn't beat religion, the Communists would give up their religion, among other things, comparing texts taken from the New Testament and Karl Marx."

"But the college — run by Dombrowski and Horton — was convicted under the laws of Arkansas of displaying the hammer and sickle and openly teaching communism when it was in session. The college levied a fine of $2,500. The college couldn't come up with the cash, so the state took over the property."

"Commonwealth College lived on, however, for the faculty moved to the town of Monticello, Tennessee, where with the assistance of a man named John West, they organized the Highlander Folk School."

I would be happy to loan my book to anyone.

Clown on U.S. Postage Stamp Draws Ridicule

Editor, Times-News:

Have you seen the latest life-size issue of our United States postage stamp?

A true and natural picture of the direct descendants of Barnum and Bailey and company is represented, all under one big circus tent with the elephants and donkeys at their play just now, and the clowns leading the parade. But why advertise it to the world!

Or, is this intended as a cordial invitation to the world to come to America, the land of free balloons, all-day suckers and sour lemonade — truly a dignified performance in America, the land that we love!

Laugh, clowns, laugh — and be happy while you may!

The originator of that postage stamp should be awarded the trophy for the clown of the year.

Kimberly Man Disapproves of Court's Ruling

Editor, Times-News:

The editorial, "Protect Rights," in the June 17 edition is definitely a miscarriage of the law.

With Earl Warren to the Supreme Court came communism. Practically every decision since he took office has been in favor of the Communist cause by himself and the majority vote he demands.

Beating of prisoners with rubber hoses and other cruel practices have long ago been outlawed, and people nowadays know it.

To favor and protect the rapists and thieves and murderers, the Supreme Court had to change the laws as they have been since Warren got in. To do this, they have taken away the law enforcement rights of the police to hold the trash they should under arrest.

It is a disgrace that in our own hands if you venture in the big cities after dark. The criminals don't get to prison—they never even get to jail.

Jerome Woman Cites Items That Favor Negroes

Editor, Times-News:

In answer to a letter of June 12, I would like to report that the first Negroes did not come from the jungles of Africa as slaves, in 1619. Scores of Negroes came with the Europeans to colonize America.

It is also interesting to note that over 5,000 Negroes fought in the Revolutionary War.

I often think of the "awful" thing that the white man did in bringing the Negroes to America. As for James Meredith, isn't he the first young American Negro who had the courage to go to an all-white university for four years with the risk of losing his property and perhaps his life?

I feel that before we become so set and bitter in our prejudices that it would do well to remember the passage in our Declaration of Independence — "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed with certain unalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness."

Are we letting the American Negro enjoy these "rights?"

Keeping Names of Vandals Quiet Considered No Favor

Editor, Times-News:

Whoever is responsible for suppressing the names of the boys involved in the vandalism scandal are doing the boys no favor.

The burden of their guilt will weigh heavily on their consciences all of their lives.

By "covering" them, you are, indeed, assisting part of their guilt. By allowing them to "thumb their noses" at authority, you are encouraging them and others to repeated offenses against society.

If these boys had confessed immediately after their crime had been exposed, there would have been some sympathy to them. Many felt that they had not been aware of the enormity of what they were doing.

However, by hiding their identity as they have, and allowing suspicion to fall upon the innocent, they have proven themselves cowards, and intensified their guilt.

By withholding the names to protect the guilty we are crippling our entire high school faculty. How can they possibly be expected to exert any authority next year after this fiasco? Who of them can we expect to patrol the school next spring? And why?

If we fail to support our teachers now, we must be prepared to suffer the consequences of our inaction.

If this whole affair is whitewashed and the guilty protected, it is a reflection on the spirit of our entire community. Indifference and lethargy are synonymous with the corruption of the large and after this fiasco? We mustn't let this sickness invade our city. Each of us should work to preserve the spirit, which makes our town so much richer than most.

Einstein, Hitler Compared; Hitler Found Second Best

Editor, Times-News:

For those concerned about recent increases in taxes — the rising cost of living — increasing governmental controls — the day by day spread of communism and many other related problems, these thoughts are offered.

The life histories of Albert Einstein and Adolf Hitler lends an extreme and perhaps classic study necessary for solving these enigmas.

Albert Einstein lived a peaceful life and left the cornerstones and building blocks of science. His work enriches our lives today and his life was one of service and concern for his fellow man. And he was humble.

Hitler left heaps of rubble, millions dead and maimed and his life was one of chaos. Hitler was not like Einstein, neither humble or shy nor peaceful. Certain of his superiority and his ability to lead his aggressive nation gained him the leadership of a nation and the contempt of the world.

History records the heartache and grief caused by those not so humble and it records their own self destruction in some instances.

On the other hand there are records to show how well the humble have served mankind; often in spite of persecution.

One such man was the Prince of Peace and few men realize what a profound and probable prediction he made when he said, "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."

Our minds are conditioned and by habit we respect the rich, the forceful and even the cruel. And it seems improbable that there will ever be peace as long as this is so. But the fate of this nation will be determined by the way we vote.

Local Man Finds Editorial Comment Confusing to Him

Editor, Times-News:

The Times-News editorial of June 16 confuses me. In fact all of them do, but I need some real, unbiased help from the readers on this one to even untangle me, because I believe I am reading double.

Quote: "The Times-News has practically begged local citizens to take an active interest in city elections. It's difficult to get candidates and it's more difficult to get them elected."

With the same editorial breath a citizen who has taken sufficient interest in civic affairs to assist in bringing a matter of vital concern before the voters is subject to such abuse and character assassination as to lose the sincerity of such a statement.

As a businessman of 21 years in Twin Falls, property owner and taxpayer, (which by editorial standards hardly makes me a resident, as I am merely a contributor to, not a joiner of the "City Fire" fight, Boy Scouts, etc.) I am wondering if my appearance at City Hall will mark me for extermination, character and businesswise if I take serious issue with the program of this dedicated group of planners.

And they are dedicated to the planning, equipping, outfitting and spending out of every dollar of your urban existence. And this will not be limited to your person, your dog, your cat and your garbage can.

It will bite deep into your pay check and your pocketbook because you are the one who is going to pay for it.

Shouldn't these issues be left for voter decision rather than settled in advance on the editorial page by a brain trust that knows all the answers to everything while denying someone else the right to know something about a few things?

College Girl Is Crowned Miss Wool

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (AP) — A Drake University sophomore with dancing blue eyes, reddish brown hair and stunning figure is Miss Wool of America for 1966.

She is Barbara Elizabeth Petzel, 20, of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The new Miss Wool stands 5-foot-7 1/2, weighs 115 pounds and measures 32-24-30. She likes dancing, swimming and painting.

Selection of the winner climaxed the week-long annual Miss Wool pageant. She was crowned by Sharon Moline of Utah, who claimed the title a year ago.

With the crown goes a college scholarship, a year-of-traveling major U.S. cities as wool industry envoy, and a wardrobe of wool and mohair fashions from leading designers.

MRS. UNDHJEM KEEPS STATE GOLF TITLE

T.F. Champ Cops 9 and 8 Victory; Burley Woman Gets Sportsmanship Pin

Mrs. Marion Undhjem, growing stronger with each hole, dropped Leslie Wisdom, Boise, 9 and 8 Saturday to win the Idaho state women's golf championship for the second straight year. Mrs. Undhjem never trailed in the 36-hole finals and her way became considerably easier at the start of the second 18 holes when Miss Wisdom's putter left and a couple of water hazards cost her other strokes. While those two

AAU Names Team to Tour Soviet Lands

NEW YORK (AP) — Clyde Lee of Vanderbilt, Dave Schellhase of Purdue, Jack Martin of Duke and Lou Hudson of Minnesota, along with a 13-player squad, will represent the Amateur Athletic Union to tour the Soviet Union, Czechoslovakia, Hungary and Poland this summer.

The trip, conducted in conjunction with the Department of State, opens with two games in Budapest July 13-14 and continues with games at Prague July 16-17 and at Warsaw July 19-20 before games at Moscow July 25-26.

Other members of the squad, announced by G. Russell Lyons of Boulder, Colo., chairman of the AAU basketball committee, are:

Kendall Rhine, Bobby Rascoe and Darrell Carrier of the Phillips—Oilers—of Bartlesville, Okla.; Jim Barrett of Oregon; Eddie Bodkin of Eastern Kentucky State; Jeff Congdon of Brigham Young; Dennis Hamilton of Arizona State; Doris Murray of Detroit and Bill Melchioni of Villanova.

The squad will report to Coach John Kundla of Minnesota and assistant coach Hank Vaughn of the Akron, Ohio, Wingfoots, at the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., on July 5 for a week's practice before flying to Budapest.

Lady Pitt Is Oak Victor At Aqueduct

NEW YORK (AP) — Lady Pitt found room on the rail Saturday and won the $10,875 Coaching Club Oaks by one length at Aqueduct.

In capturing the final leg of New York's Triple Crown for 3-year-old fillies, which included the Mother Goose and Acorn, the daughter of Sword Dancer challenged the leaders rounding the final turn and went to the front with one-quarter mile to go in the 1 1/2-mile race.

Walter Blum had plenty of speed under him as Lady Pitt tossed back the stretch challenge of Gentle Rain from the Greentree Stable.

Gentle Rain was found guilty of interference in the stretch and was placed fourth, with Paul Mellon's Prides Profile moving into the runner-up spot.

Third money went to Everett Lowrance's lightly regarded Help On Way after she had finished fourth.

Moccasin, 1965 Horse of the Year and 2-year-old filly champion, took the lead shortly after the start and dropped back to second place as Help On Way cut out a fast early pace.

The Claiborne farm horse was in the race rounding the final turn but weakened and finished fifth as Blum hit the finish line with a 2:05 clocking.

Braves Hire Richards for Farm Help

ATLANTA (AP) — The Atlanta Braves hired Paul Richards to help with their farm system Saturday, but left the door open to move him into any job in the organization.

There has been speculation that Manager Bobby Dragan might not last the season with the slumping Braves, and the hiring of Richards is bound to step up such talk.

Richards formerly managed the Chicago White Sox and the Baltimore Orioles. He also served as general manager of the Orioles and the Houston Astros.

The 57-year-old Richards was fired by the Astros last year and since then has been working in the Philadelphia Phillies scouting system.

Atlanta General Manager John McCall said, "Richards is available to handle all jobs in our organization."

Asked if the Braves were thinking of moving him into the manager's job, McCall replied: "We have not hired him at this time for this sort of a job, but he has the talent to do many jobs."

McCall said Richards would set up a new department of instruction for young players in the Braves' farm system.

Asked when the department was created, McCall said, "It was created today."

McCall added that if Richards moved up in the organization "it will be because management decides in the future that he should move up."

TUNES UP — WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Big John, the $420 favorite, tunes up for next week's American Trotting Championship by defeating Style Setter by 1 1/2 lengths in Friday night's Invitational Trot at Roosevelt Raceway.

Gibson, 3-4, has been defeated twice by Koufax; Bruce, 1-5, and Jackson, 4-6, have lost once to each.

Each has a 13-2 record and while both have faced several other leading pitchers, managers have been inclined to throw some of their lesser lights to the wolves.

Hands, a rookie with a 5-5 mark, has lost twice to Marichal. So, have Ellis, a 23-game winner last season but only 3-11 this year, and Drysdale, a 4-8 flop.

Murphy finished with a four-round total of 283, two strokes up on Vinny Giles of Georgia.

Murphy's 67 was the best round of the tournament on the 6,835-yard par 71 Stanford course. He needed it to hold off the closing 68 by Giles.

Arne Doka of Los Angeles State, who went into the final round with a two-stroke lead, shot a 74 and finished at 288 in a tie for third with Bob Dickson of Oklahoma State. Dickson had a final 71.

Miss Mann combined 16 pars and two birdies for a 64-70 round over the rugged Sunnyvale Country Club course for a 141 total going into Sunday's wrap-up of the $10,000 meet.

Miss Jensen, who had 11 one-putts, greens in taking medal honors with a 69 Friday, had difficulty with her short shots Saturday.

Kathy Whitworth, the leading money winner on the Ladies Professional Golf Association circuit, was in third place with a 145 after shooting a 72.

National Loop Hurlers Losing Cash Dueling Koufax, Marichal

NEW YORK (AP) — It doesn't cost anything to join baseball's "suicide club," except perhaps a few dollars deducted from next year's paycheck. But big league pitchers are becoming members in ever-increasing numbers.

Bill Hands of the Chicago Cubs, Sammy Ellis of Cincinnati, Joe Gibbon of San Francisco, Don Drysdale of Los Angeles, Bob Bruce of Houston and Larry Jackson of Philadelphia are the co-chairmen. Other charter members include Jerry Arriaga, Larry Bearnarth, and Dennis Ribant of the New York Mets and Art Mahaffey of St. Louis.

Initiation is easy. All one has to do is lose at least once to either of baseball's best pitchers, Sandy Koufax of the Dodgers or Juan Marichal of the Giants.

Each has a 13-2 record and while both have faced several other leading pitchers, managers have been inclined to throw some of their lesser lights to the wolves.

Gold Medal

Young Chris Bell, 7-year-old, of Twin Falls, made his parents proud Friday when he won three events in an AAU swim meet in Clearfield, Utah, and was awarded a gold medal for his feat.

Bell was the only member of the Twin Falls Swim Club to attend the meet, competing in the eight and under age division.

His victories came in the 100-meter individual medley, 50-meter freestyle and 25-meter butterfly. He was allowed to enter only the three events.

Three Power Phillies Past Pirates 8-7

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Homers by Bill White and Rich Allen and a triple by Dick Groat powered the Phillies to a 8-7 victory over Pittsburgh Saturday night after a wild 48-minute first inning.

Groat tripled in the lead run in the sixth, breaking a 5-5 tie, and also had a double, single and another run batted in.

White's 12th homer, also scoring Cookie Rojas, led the game in the seventh.

Allen's homer, No. 16, bounced off the left-field roof in the second.

Both starting pitchers went to the showers in the first Phil left-hander Chris Short retiring only one batter and Pirate right-hander Vern Law just two.

Pittsburgh got three runs on two hits, two walks and a hit batsman in the first. But the Phils combined five hits and a walk for four runs.

Cuellar Stays Unbeaten as Houston Wins

HOUSTON (AP) — Undefeated Mike Cuellar won his sixth game for Houston by scattering seven hits and the Astros made the most of four errors for a 3-2 victory over St. Louis Saturday night.

The Astros scored in the first inning on an inside-the-park homer by Sonny Jackson, then pushed across unearned runs in the fourth and seventh.

In the fourth, Rusty Staub singled and when pitcher Ray Washburn threw wild, Staub went to second. Phil Gagliano's error on Dave Nicholson's grounder moved Staub to third. Bob Aspromonte then grounded into a force out at second but home plate was left unguarded and Staub scored when Julian Javier's throw went wild.

Cuellar struck out 15 — high in the majors this season — He walked three.

Davenport Sets Record, Two Others Tied in AAU Track and Field Finals

NEW YORK (AP)—Defending champion Willie Davenport broke a meet record in winning the 130-yard-high hurdles and two other meet marks were tied Saturday as a star-studded field battled for National AAU outdoor track and field titles and berths on America's International team. Davenport, who won the hurdles last year in 13.6, took it this time in 13.3, edging Don Shy of the 49er Track Club of Los Angeles. The time was one-tenth of a second faster than the record set by Jack Davis of 1956 and tied by Jerry Tarr and Hines Jones.

Emerson Moves Into Net Quarter-Finals

WIMBLEDON, England (AP)—Roy Emerson, champion at Wimbledon for the past two years, breezed past Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., 6-2, 6-2, Saturday and joined Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., in the quarter-finals of the All-England Tennis Tournament.

Benvenuti Is Dethroned by Korea's Kim

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Korea's Kim Ki-Soo upset champion Nino Benvenuti of Italy Saturday night and won the world's junior middleweight boxing title in a 15-round bout that produced a heated argument when the ring ropes sagged after the 13th round.

The decision was split with Nick Pope, the American referee, casting the deciding vote—74-63 for the brawny 26-year-old Kim. Chung Yung-Soo of the Korean Boxing Commission had Kim in front 72-69 and Antonio Gilardi, secretary general of the Italian Boxing Commission, voted for Benvenuti, 72-68. The Associated Press scored it a draw at 71-71.

The Italian manager, Bruno Amadei, promptly announced he would protest the decision to the World Boxing Association because the fight was delayed for 10 minutes between the 13th and 14th rounds when the ropes sagged and the referee stopped the fight.

The girls were luckier—six of their fourth-round singles matches were finished before the downpour.

Margaret Smith, defending champion and top seed from Australia, continued her impressive way with a 6-1, 6-2 triumph over Edna Buding of Germany.

Fourth-seeded Mrs. Billie Jean King of Long Beach, Calif., had a few anxious moments before beating Kathy Krutzke, the towering Australian teenager, 9-7, 6-2. Annette Van Zui of South Africa, seeded sixth, defeated Mimi Arnold of Redwood City, Calif., 7-1, 6-2.

Mrs. Ann Jones of Britain, seeded third, had a tough battle against Rosemary Casals, the 17-year-old from San Francisco, but won 6-2, 6-3. Francoise Durr, of France, seeded seventh, defeated Mrs. Shirley Brasher of Britain 6-2, 6-2.

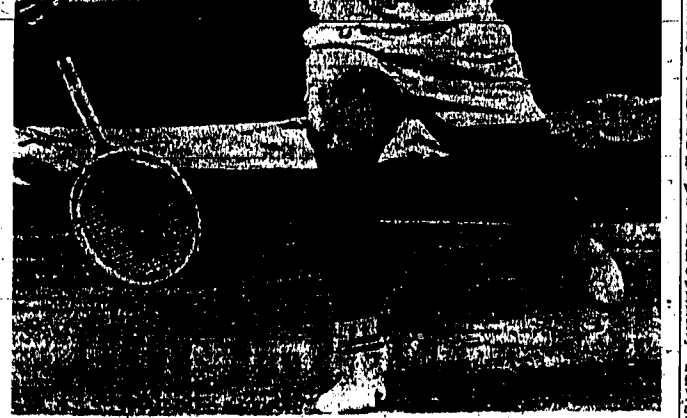

And Trudy Groenman of the Netherlands—the only non-seed to win through to the last eight—beat Madelon Schacht of Australia 6-1, 6-2.

The other match, between Kathy Harter of Seal Beach, Calif., was interrupted with Miss Richey in the lead 6-2, 2-0.

The largest crowd of the current tournament appeared in prospect when thousands lined up outside the gates for tickets in bright sunshine several hours before the first ball was hit.

But by the time that competition was to begin, it was misting and then came the rains. Officials waited three hours before calling off play for the day.

Only 11 of the 64 matches on the program were completed. Because of England's Blue Laws, there will be no play Sunday and competition will be resumed Monday.

Terrell Defends WBA Title Against Jones

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—Felix Terrell, defending champion of the World Boxing Association, defended his title Tuesday night against slugger Doug Jones, the No. 2 challenger in the world, in a first heavyweight championship bout with thousands more to watch closed-circuit television in some 70 theaters and arenas around the country. There will be no home television or radio.

The WBA recognizes Terrell instead of Cassius Clay as heavyweight champion and Terrell says that makes him the sole possessor of the title.

"I am the World Boxing Association champion, the only bona fide boxing association in the world so I am the only world champion," Terrell said.

"If I am to be referred to as the WBA champion, then Cassius Clay must be referred to as some other kind of champion. It's not fair to boxing, me or Doug Jones."

"You have to play according to the rules—and Clay broke the rules. I've signed three contracts to fight Clay and have not been in the ring with him yet. He always manages to talk himself out of the big fights and gets the little ones. He saves the big ones for me."

Many persons close to the fight game feel Terrell has one of the best left hands in boxing but Jones says he is not impressed.

"From the fights I have seen him in all he did was jab and grab," Jones said.

Terrell, 27, a 6-foot-6 Chicago native, is expected to come into some 20 pounds heavier than his New York challenger, Jones, 29, stands 6-1.

Records of the two fighters indicate the fight might go the scheduled 15 rounds.

Terrell has a 38-4 record with 18 knockouts to his credit. He has won 14 straight fights and has not lost since he was knocked out by Cleveland Williams in 1962, the only knockout he has suffered.

Jones' record shows 29 victories, six losses and one draw. He has scored 10 knockouts and has knocked out his last six opponents.

Twin Falls Swim Club ran up 28 first places Saturday to completely dominate a three-way meet, leaving Rupert, with nine firsts, far back in second and Indian Springs of American Falls third.

Eva Holmes and Valerie Van Leeuwen were the big winners of the day, taking first in three events for Twin Falls. Double winners were Kathy McDougall, Brenda Foster and Chris Booth.

Results of the races, by age group, are as follows:

10 and under—girls, Kathy McDougall, Twin Falls, and Rich Donner, Rupert.
11-12—girls, Valerie Van Leeuwen, Twin Falls, and Greg Lawley, Twin Falls.

15 and up—girls, Eva Holmes, Twin Falls, and boys, Scott Standley, Twin Falls.
50-yard Freestyle
10 and under—girls, Kathy McDougall, Twin Falls, and boys, Mark McKain, Twin Falls.
11-12—girls, Valerie Van Leeuwen, Twin Falls, and boys, Dave Warner, Twin Falls.
13-14—girls, Brenda Foster, Twin Falls, and boys, Randy Severe, Twin Falls.

50-yard Breaststroke

100-yard Breaststroke
13-14—girls, Dianne Little, Twin Falls, and boys, Rob Anderson, Twin Falls, and Mike Stettler, Rupert (tie for first).
50-yard Backstroke
10 and under—girls, Jamie Thornhill, Indian Springs, and boys, David Rudeen, Indian Springs.

Valley Takes 9-7 Victory From Jerome

EDEN—Valley Legion team took advantage of 15 winds and turned in six timely hits Friday night to defeat Jerome 9-7.

Jerome started strong, scoring three times in the first. Stricker singled in one of the runs and Stauffer drove in the other two with a hit.

In the bottom of the frame, Jerome issued five walks to give Valley a pair of runs and the home team took charge of the game in the second. Ted and Dave Black singled to open the second before Watkins' grander forced Ted at third.

The runners advanced on a wild pitch and came around on singles by Hughes and Kline. After a single run in the fourth, Valley tucked the game away with three more in the sixth. Burton lived on an error and Meyers and Jarvis walked to load the bases. Ted Black singled in Burton and Dave Black's sacrifice fly plated Meyers. Two walks brought Jarvis home.

Jerome led a rally in the seventh, scoring three times but falling short. Morgan and Karm Walgmott sandwiched walks around Stauffer's error. Bill Bubach singled in two and Couch singled Walgmott home before Jerome forced Ted at first.

Berry, Elia Homer Sox Past Yankees

NEW YORK (AP)—Lee Elia and Ken Berry homered against the left field foul pole as the Chicago White Sox defeated New York 2-1 Saturday behind the combined five-hit pitching of Gary Peters and Bob Locker.

Elia broke up a scoreless game in the fifth with his homer off starter Mel Stottlemyre, and Berry connected off Whitey Ford in the eighth. Ford made his first appearance since coming off the disabled list Friday.

Peters didn't allow a runner to reach third base and blanked the Yankees on four hits until the ninth. Then, after Elton Howard led off the inning with a single and Joe Peplone walked, Locker replaced Peters.

Pinch hitter Roger Maris reached first, loading the bases, when Tom McCraw fumbled his grounder, but Hector Lopez hit into a double play as Howard scored and Lou Clinton grounded out, ending the game.

Titled Hero Wins 107th Queen's Plate

TORONTO (AP)—Titled Hero, the heavy favorite, won the 107th running of the $80,175 Queen's Plate Saturday at Woodbine, opening up three lengths on Bye And Near down the stretch of the oldest continuously run stakes race in North America.

Bright Monarch was third, 6 1/2 lengths back, and Holaretic was fourth in the classic for Canadian 3-year-olds.

The race, run with British pomp and panoply in 93-degree heat before 25,846, paid $52,113.75 to the winner. The time for the 1 1/4 miles was 2:03.3-5.

Avelino Gomez, the Cuban jockey, gave Peter Marshall's muscular colt a smart ride, taking him from fourth place on the first turn into contention with Bye And Near on the back stretch. Titled Hero pulled even on the inside heading into the last turn, fought a neck-and-neck duel at the start of the stretch and then coasted to victory.

Hershberger, Stahl Guide A's Victory

CLEVELAND (AP)—Mike Hershberger's four runs batted in and Larry Stahl's three key hits led the Kansas City Athletics to a 7-1 victory over Cleveland Saturday.

The A's rammed home three runs in the seventh and followed with two more in the eighth to put the game out of reach.

In the seventh, Bert Campaneris singled, stole second and third and scored along with Jif Gosger, who walked, on Hershberger's single. Stahl beat out a bounce single to score Roger Repox, who walked.

Gosger singled in the eighth, Repox walked and Hershberger scored both with a double. Kansas City 000 010 320-7 11 1

Idaho Teen-Age Drinking Violations Rise

BOISE (AP) — There are few police assignments worse than picking up a drunk teen-ager, says a Boise juvenile officer, and it is getting to be more common all the time.

Idaho is no exception to the nationwide increase in juvenile drinking. State statistics show drinking violations rose from less than 5 per cent of all juvenile arrests in 1955 to 20 per cent in 1965.

Boise police arrested 72 youngsters last year for drinking — ten of them drunk — and the figure this year already was up to 72 by the end of May.

Sgt. Dan Jerome, head of the Boise juvenile section, does not accept the theory that youngsters seek to be adult at an earlier age these days.

He puts the blame on the automobile and parental laxity.

"There has been more opportunity for youngsters to get out on their own," he said. "The first thing many do when they get out on their own is drink."

Parental laxity was abundant by clear during a particularly bad week for juvenile drinking arrests last summer, Jerome said.

Police began looking for parents to turn the youngsters over to, he said, and found a good many had gone away and left the kids to entertain themselves.

"These were 15- and 16-year-olds," Jerome said. "They don't have the capacity for that kind of responsibility."

Teen-agers now seem to have less regard for getting caught, the sergeant said.

He said they don't seem to hide in bushes as they used to, but head for dances and other places where teen-agers congregated.

Getting caught can be a scary experience.

Jerome said charges are filed whenever there is clear evidence of drinking and youngsters with vomit on their clothing are photographed.

They are offered drunkometer tests, if they wish, to prove they're not drunk," he said.

Court action against the youngsters varies. The health department's youth rehabilitation division reports drinking violations account for 27 per cent of all youngsters in the state on probation.

Where do they get the liquor? One teen-ager tried to get a man on the street to buy him some. He tried the wrong man — an off-duty policeman who arrested him.

A big source still is a friend in the crowd of legal age — although police have trouble getting their names, Jerome said.

Bars have too much at stake in liquor and beer licenses to serve minors in most cases, he said, but grocery stores' off-premise licenses cost less and sometimes clerks become lax.

But youngsters, Jerome said, don't buy beer in grocery stores as commonly as they say they do. They are attempting to prove the friends who buy it for them.

Death is a threat in juvenile drunkenness, he said, although there have been no youthful alcohol deaths in Boise since 1956.

He said police recommend stomach pumping in any case of severe drunkenness. "A youngster can drink far too much too fast," Jerome said. "There is nothing to do with what is left over."

CITY TOPS MARK

TOKYO (AP) — The most populous city in the world has topped 11 million, the Tokyo metropolitan government announced. Its latest figures show there are 5,642,943 males and 5,378,631 females in Tokyo, for a total of 11,021,579.

DEAF MAN PERFECTS TINY HEARING AID

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—A remarkably tiny hearing aid has been perfected by a man who has been hard of hearing for nearly ten years.

This small device has no dangling cords or separate transmitting units and represents a new and unusual design idea in a product to restore natural hearing.

It was developed especially for those persons who can hear but can't understand. Their new hearing instrument provides "ear-level" hearing with the wearer picking up speech, sounds, television and radio at his ear.

Due to the use of transistors, the user cost is extremely low. The instrument weighs only 1/2 oz. It is about the size of a sewing thimble—hardly noticeable yet powerful.

Send your name and address on a postcard to TELFAX, Dept. P33, 3054 Excelsior Blvd., Minneapolis, Minn. You will be sent full information without any obligation whatever.

Service Initiated

ROME (AP)—The motor-ing foreign tourist in Italy is getting something free besides sunshine. If his car breaks down, he can dial 116 and get help without charge, thanks to a service introduced this week by the Italian National Tourist Agency and the Italian Automobile Club. If the responding tow truck crew can't fix the trouble the car is towed to the nearest auto club highway aid station or any garage within 25 miles—still no charge.

Group Urges Boycott of Primaries

LEWISTON, Idaho — Greater Idaho, Inc., urged a voter boycott of Aug. 2 primary elections Saturday as a way to reject what is called the "dictatorial" nominating system.

The pro-gaming organization earlier said it was organizing a corps of voters which would not vote in primaries so they would be eligible under Idaho law to nominate Greater Idaho's independent candidates.

The primary elections constitute voter nomination of party candidates endorsed by state party assemblies earlier this month.

"The voters are disgusted with the present system of picking candidates," said Greater Idaho president Philip Jungert. "Too many candidates have been eliminated by the professional political bosses."

Not voting in primaries, Jungert said, does not affect eligibility to vote in the general election Nov. 8 and does not jeopardize the right to vote on the controversial sales tax on the general ballot.

Minesweeper Burns, Sinks In San Juan

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP)—The USS Stalwart, a wooden-hull minesweeper, burned and sank Saturday while tied up at the U.S. Navy Base in San Juan.

More than 200 Navy and city firemen tried to save the 173-foot vessel, but its wooden hull, impregnated with oil, burned for eight hours. Then the ship turned on her side and sank slowly in the shallow harbor.

She was one of the few nonnuclear wooden Navy minesweepers still in service.

The fire started before dawn, apparently as a result of a boiler explosion, although a Navy spokesman said the exact cause had not been determined. The Stalwart was commissioned in 1955.

Mrs. Douglas Is Granted Divorce

YAKIMA, Wash. (AP) — A final divorce has been granted to Mrs. William O. Douglas, wife of the Supreme Court justice.

Superior Court Judge Lloyd Wohl Friday ordered Douglas to pay Mrs. Douglas $300 a month.

Mrs. Douglas, who filed for divorce Dec. 15, 1960, when she was 25, charged cruel treatment by the justice, then 60.

The couple was married Aug. 8, 1903.

2 Countries Sign Pact

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—Afghanistan and Pakistan signed an agreement Saturday providing for the operation of a rail link between the two countries. The agreement provides for a rail link between the Pakistan station of Chaman with the Afghanistan town of Spinbaldak, 500 miles southwest of Rawalpindi. Construction will cost over $7 million. The two countries, along with the U.S. Agency for International Development, will finance the construction, for which a separate agreement will be signed later.

Hollister Class Reunion Will Beckon Graduates Of 24 High School Years

BY O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

There will be two big days, filled with big talk and bigger stories — which will then be followed by a lull of about five years during which time the stories will get still bigger.

It all boils down to the fact the second reunion of the graduates of Hollister High School — a high school which no longer operates as such — is slated for this area Saturday and Sunday, July 2 and 3.

It goes under way with a banquet at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls which sponsors hope will break up in time for all to attend a special picnic the day following at Nat-Soo-Pah, where all family members of the various graduates will be guests.

All in all, more than 200 are expected to attend and they are coming from such places as Alaska, the Eastern Seaboard and the Far West.

High school classes at the Hollister school — which is now a grade school — were held from 1925 through 1948, which means there were 24 graduating classes. All of these classes are expected to be represented at the reunion. The first was held five years ago and right then plans started for the one this July.

General chairman in charge is Dwight Shaw, while Betty Leonard is serving as co-chairman and treasurer and Mrs. John Pastoor is secretary. Shaw was graduated with the class of 1939, Miss Leonard in 1928 and Mrs. Pastoor also in 1939.

Others assisting in arrangements include Mrs. Lyle Schnitker, class of 1928, table decorations and programs; Rex Gardner, 1930, picnic chairman; Eugene Grift, 1941, present school board member, in charge of special guests; Mrs. Homer Roberts, now a teacher at the school, and William Lanting, a state legislator, as general assistants.

The reunion is unique, if for no other reason than it spans so many classes from one school. Most class reunions involve graduates of one year. This one embraces graduates over a 24-year period.

After the last seniors were graduated in 1948 the classes were consolidated with Filer High School and today the Hollister school is for the grades, with junior and high school students being bused to Filer.

Records compiled by those in charge of the reunion disclose many interesting facts, not the least of which is the fact there are 15 married couples (most still residing in this area) who both are graduates.

The graduated married couples include Mr. and Mrs. Alva Parrott, Buhl; Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Holmquist, Twin Falls; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Patrick, Rogerson; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Knudson, Twin Falls, and Mr. and Mrs. James Clute, Nampa, and Mr. and Mrs. John Pastoor.

BOTH THE STAIRWAY and the students are a little older, otherwise everything is practically the same as when those eight prominent area citizens attended school there and graduated from high school. The building is the Hollister School, which has been without high school students since the last class graduated in 1948. A reunion of all graduates during the entire time high school classes took place—over a 24-year period from 1925 through 1948—is planned next Saturday and Sunday, July 2 and 3. Former students, from the left, are Mrs. John Pastoor, Mrs. Homer Roberts, Mrs. Lyle Schnitker, Betty Leonard, Rex Gardner, William Lanting, Eugene Grift and Dwight Shaw. (Times-News photo)

DWIGHT SHAW sits like he did when he was a student at the Hollister High School—at least he claimed he was sitting the same way—and this causes Mrs. Homer Roberts to raise the yardstick in his direction. Actually it was all in fun as they aided in preparing for the upcoming class reunion of former graduates. Mrs. Roberts is now a teacher in the same school who once attended although it is now a grade school, high school classes having been discontinued there in 1948. The desk Shaw is utilizing as he reads the beginner dictionary is now. All original desks are now gone. (Times-News photo)

HOLLISTER'S MAIN STREET, which really bustled in the days when Mrs. Lyle Schnitker and Betty Leonard attended high school in that community, is inspected by the two women during a visit to the area. The nearest building has, down through the years, served as practically everything including a grocery store and telephone exchange. It is now the Masonic building. The building next to it was formerly the Salmon River Canal Co. office. Several buildings on Main Street prior to 1948 have now been torn down and the "business" section of the community now is alongside Highway 93. (Times-News photo)

In Case You're Still Confused, That Basement Noise Is Bison-Bison

Lester (Les) Hills, who farms around under the basement of a spread east of Jerome, can't his tenant house, quite worrying that there might be another world, those bones running. Those bones found when the basement for the house was a bison is those days was large, being excavated last December or there a camel so the rumble are of a bison — bison, not a might be more than anticipated. camel. And, come to think of it. Actually there will be no noise at all because the animals — or rather specifically, the animal — in question has been dead for thousands of years and dead bones, unless moved artificially, just make no noise.

It started late in 1965. Hills found some rather large bones deep at the bottom of the basement excavation. He realized no domestic animal would be that deep and so he called the Times-News to report his find.

The Times-News feature editor took a look then called in Don Crabtree, who lives east of Twin Falls and who is research associate in pre-historic technology for Idaho State University.

The bones were scattered, but Crabtree and Hills recovered enough of them before the house was moved over the basement so that a study could be made.

Crabtree said it was a find several thousand years old and that the bones recovered were limb bones. He took a wild guess and said that it might have been those of a camel. The animals were known to have once lived in this section.

But scientific minds never settle for the first conclusion and so the bones were sent to Dr. Earl Swanson, director of the museum at Idaho State University, for further classification.

The news of the findings reached here the other day. The bones are those of one of the oldest of the present type bison animals — we call it a buffalo — to be discovered in this area. Up until the find made by Hills it was not believed that the animals were in this area that long ago.

The animal found was a bison-bison and it was an ancestor — and looked pretty much like — today's buffalo. One difference was in the shape of the horns. Before the bison-bison there was the bison-antiquus. This animal had straight horns and was, incidentally, found with the Folsom man.

Even before that time there was the ancient type animal, called the bison-latifrons. This was a gigantic animal with horn spans of more than 80 inches.

Animals of this type have been found in the American Falls area.

The fact that Hills reported the bone findings is the important thing. Because of this fact it has now been established that the animals were in the area north of Snake River long before they were thought to have been there.

"It is a tip that is appreciated, and placed together, several tips like this will make a full story," Crabtree said.

Crabtree will leave Twin Falls June 28 to attend the Field Museum Archaeological School at Vernon, Ariz., a community in eastern Arizona near the New

of ages past looked practically like the modern day animal although the horn structure was different and it was larger in size. The animal bones proved that the bison-bison lived in the Jerome area much earlier than was previously believed. (Times-News photo)

DON CRABTREE, left, and Lester (Les) Hills, Jerome area farmer, were inspecting one of several bones Hills had found when this picture was taken last December. He found them when excavating for a tenant house basement. At first it was believed they were camel bones but they have now been identified as bison-bison bones. The bison-bison is an ancestor of the present day buffalo. Crabtree is research associate in pre-historic technology at Idaho State University and lives in Twin Falls. (Times-News photo)

DAVID R. SCOTT, Shoshone, son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Scott, poses with picture of Lt. Col. David R. Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Not every boy corresponds with an astronaut. But, then, not every boy has the name of David R. Scott. The particular boy, David R. Scott, SIOUXONE, 4th grade pupil, has received letters and pictures from the famous astronaut of that same name. One of the pictures David has is of the Gemini VIII crew, of Scott, Richard F. Gordon Jr., Neil A. Armstrong, and Charles Conrad Jr. Another picture is an autographed picture of David R. Scott, Lt. Colonel, USAF, NASA Astronaut. David wrote to the astronaut before the scheduled flight into space and promptly received an answer.

Among other things the letter stated "we take great pride in having completed the first dashing maneuver in space and we eagerly await the opportunity to take part in another space flight." He then promised to send David copies of publications describing their journey when these return from the printers.

Since the letters and pictures have arrived, David shared his new experience with classmates at school and with members of his Cub Scout den, which is directed by his mother, Mrs. Russell Scott.

going on since he has a witness now.

But if the witness wasn't sufficient proof, Zimmerman offered to let Johnson stay in the house for a month, rent free, and if he could stick it out would give him $10 besides.

Zimmerman realized Johnson was skeptical of the story and left to return with his witness, John Hamblin, Salmon. Hamblin agreed he'd seen the woman and that was enough for him. He checked out and moved to town.

Zimmerman said that it doesn't bother him any more when she returns, even though there's a lot of noise and wind and hollering sometimes which he said really scares his dog.

He said he is able to talk with her and has been able to touch her hand. She suddenly appears their drifts away when she leaves, he said.

Both Zimmerman and Hamblin denied they had touched a drop and Zimmerman offered the free rent and $10 as proof his story is true.

Two RICHFIELD residents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Stevens, took their first airplane rides in a trip to Othello, Wash., as a Father's Day gift to Stevens.

The couple visited his son, Frank Stevens, and family over the week-end. The elder Stevens is 83 years of age.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHIELL

First letter this week is a very nice note from Mrs. L. R. Buhl, and reads in part: "I would appreciate information about some coins I have."

"One of these is a coin smaller than a dime, 1862, with a star and United States of America on one side and the numeral III enclosed in a C on the other side. I also have a token with the words 'Bank of Upper Canada' dated 1850 — it is larger than a quarter."

"I have a coin larger than a quarter, dated 1869, with a man's head on one side and (there's a description of Greek letters) and it is made of copper. Another coin I have is dated 1872, a Liberty Head on one side and the numeral III on the other side. It is larger than a dime. I have quarters dated 1861, 1877 and 1897. Do these have any value? I also have a half-dime dated 1863. Thanks for any information on these coins."

Answer: Your coins are all familiar ones. Please bear in mind that values are hard to determine without seeing your coins — the condition of the coin enhances the value. I will assume that they are all in fair to nice condition. Your first coin is a silver three cent piece of the U. S., issued from 1851 until 1873. There are several varieties of this coin, some with three outlines around the star, some with two. From 1863 until 1873, the coin was issued in proof condition only.

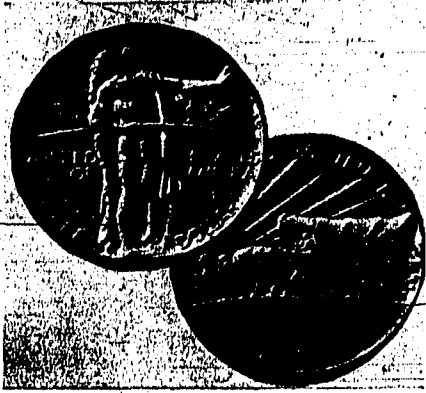

The three cent piece of 1862 was struck in a quantity of 363,550 pieces — which is not a large coin on one side and the numeral III enclosed in a C on the other side. The coin is worth from $1.75 up to $5.75. Your token was described in an earlier column. Briefly the Bank of Upper Canada was issued authority to strike pennies and half pennies and did so from 1850 until 1857.

At this time the bank failed. This is not a scarce token, being worth from 50 cents to $3.50, depending upon condition.

The third coin you ask about is a 5 Lepta piece of Greece, and the man pictured is George I, who ruled from 1863 until 1913. The coin is worth, collector value, about 50 cents.

The 1872 11-cent piece is made from nickel. The 3-cent piece is the only United States coin struck in two metals at the same time. The nickel piece was made primarily for the purpose of cashing the three cent postage stamp currency issue during the Civil War. Your coin is worth from $1.50 to $5.00.

The quarters are standard issue and worth as follows: 1861 — $1.50 to $4.00, 1877 — $1.05 to $5.75, 1897 — $1.25 to $3.00.

OREGON TRAIL Commemorative half-dollars were struck in eight different years, starting with 1928 and ending in 1939. The coin brings from $3 up to $11 depending on condition and mintmark. (Times-News photo)

The half dime dated 1863 — $4.75 to $15.00. You must understand that better condition coins bring more money. Also — if these coins are mint marked, they are worth considerably more.

Question from Mr. A. L. D., upon condition and date and Twin Falls: "I have a coin with a picture of an Indian standing on the one side, over a map of the United States, and a covered wagon on the other. It is dated 1933 and says 'half-monograph'. So far we have received tokens (or taken pictures of them) from about 15 Idaho communities, including Piler, Buhl, Wendell, Jerome, Burley, Paul, Twin Falls and Pocatello. Please write if you have such merchant tokens, or knowledge of their whereabouts. Each single token is as important as a whole group of them — and we appreciate the interest shown from people who have called us."

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o the Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho.)

American Supreme Court Decision Causes Controversy in Great Britain

LONDON (AP) — An American Supreme Court decision guaranteeing a man's right to keep his mouth shut when arrested — has aroused disagreement in Britain as well as in the United States.

The 5-4 ruling in Washington established that any person taken into custody must be cautioned and allowed to remain silent. Even if he confesses to a crime, the prosecution must prove there was no duress.

Some U.S. police chiefs complained that known criminals would find a new haven in such circumstances. Dissenting justices implied the same thing.

One British lawyer said: "It depends which side you are on. If you are prosecuting, it is good to know that every precaution has been taken. If you are a defense counsel, you can always attack the handling by the police."

Another attorney commented: "The decision seems only to imitate what our practice has been for a century. We got rid of the third degree and the so-called confession. Later to be repudiated in court, a long time ago."

Lawyers in Britain do not comment on such issues by identity; if an attorney's opinion is elicited during a trial, the journalist who uses it is in hot water.

Policemen also are restricted in dealing with legal matters. But these were sample opinions.

Policemen No. 1: "We have been too easy on criminals for too long, cautioning them before they open their mouths. If I saw you running from a bank with somebody shouting 'Stop thief' I would be compelled, after detaining you, to say: 'Sir, you are under no obligation to talk but if you do, everything you say will be taken down and may be used in evidence.'"

"We must follow this instruction even if we know you are an multiple convicted criminal."

Policemen No. 2: "Governor, we haven't a chance. As soon as we stop a man, even before we get him to headquarters, we have to caution him and by the time we have told him about all his rights he has a good story cooked up."

Police dealing with suspects have been regulated in this manner for about a century.

As soon as a policeman has enough material to justify detaining a man, he is obliged to tell the suspect something like this:

"We have every reason to believe you are involved in this crime. You do not have to say anything. But if you do, whatever you say will be taken down and may be used in evidence."

One Scotland Yard official says this came about when experienced policemen obtained confessions which later were thrown out of court because duress has been pleaded and proved.

What is duress? This official observes: "If you interrogate a man for a certain number of hours, that can be called duress. His statements are then regarded as something he might not have said unless he had been badgered."

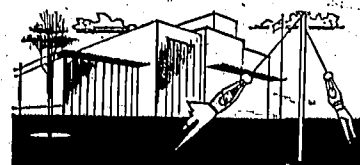

The U.S. Supreme Court judgment took that factor into account as well, declaring that unduly long interrogation would be regarded as subjecting a prisoner to duress when his confession was introduced in evidence.

Confessions in British trials usually are offered as a last resort. If the evidence is clear cut, the confession is almost beside the point. If the man's statement is needed to secure conviction, it is introduced generally at the end of the prosecution's case.

Alvin Stimpson Family at Paul Is Babysitter for Fire District Phone

PAUL — For the past 18 years, the Alvin Stimpson family have been "babysitters". Not for the small pink cuddly type that says "goo" and cries for a bottle; this baby is black, says "ring, ring" and may cry for help 24 hours a day.

The "baby" is the West End fire district telephone — and Stimpson is fire chief, a position he has held since its organization in 1948.

It is very seldom that the entire family can leave home together because of the importance of the calls. On Memorial Day this year, Mrs. Stimpson and daughter, Connie, 10, visited the cemetery in the morning while the fire chief sat in hearing distance of the "black baby". Later in the day, Chief Stimpson visited at the cemetery while the other two sat by the phone.

This doesn't always have to be the case, at least to this extent. Two other homes of fire department members also have access to the fire emergency system, and stand by in case the Stimpsons leave the house, which is very seldom.

The fire district averages about 50 calls a year and it had 51 last year. The Stimpson family has found that the father's job can also become a family project.

In their home are two telephones, one for family use and one for fire use; a two-way radio and a button to start the town fire alarm.

When the call comes in, Chief Stimpson heads for the fire station, located about three blocks from his wedding shop; Connie helps by pushing the alarm button and Mrs. Stimpson is getting to be an old hand at operating the two-way radio and both telephones at the same time.

Their son, Galen, 17, has assisted his father on a fire truck during extreme emergency.

Chief Stimpson loves the work in the department and appreciates the assistance of the fire members. The department is so organized that fire victims marvel at the promptness in fire call response. Many letters of appreciation for the department's ability to arrive without delay are received regularly. Many times the chief has been informed, "if your truck engine had sputtered this morning, I would have lost."

Alvin Claude Stimpson was born Oct. 22, 1915, at Riverside, Utah, to the late R. C. and Louise Strong Stimpson. The family moved to Heyburn two years later where the elder Stimpson farmed. Stimpson was third from the oldest in a family of eight.

Stimpson recalls the cold winter during the time he attended Heyburn school. J. B. Fridley, then school principal and currently residing at Kimberly, would watch for the youngsters driving the team and buggies towards school in icy conditions. Stimpson says that Fridley, wearing a large heavy coat, always would take care of the team of horses so that students could hurry inside the building to get warm.

His first job when he got older was driving horses to operate and tromp play. He then became a general farm hand and worked for $12.50 a week. Like the typical young man, Stimpson would work hard all week, go to town on the weekend and "blow" his wages and then show up for work Monday morning ready to start making more. But he added, "you got a lot more for your money than you do now."

On Dec. 8, 1935, he married Mildred Tanner, Paul, and they settled on a farm at Heyburn. He bought a truck and worked for area farms until 1941 when they moved to Pocatello and he worked in the railroad shops.

The next year he began training as a welder at the Idaho State College in the day time and worked nights. They moved to Paul in 1943 and he worked at the Paul Equipment and Welding Co. about three years before opening his own shop north of town.

In 1948, area farmers got together and decided they needed more fire protection and called a special meeting. Stimpson was one of many who attended the meeting and volunteered for service. He was elected by the men to be the first fire chief and has held this position ever since.

The volunteer firemen have respect for their chief and feel they could not find a person more concerned with the duties of fire chief than Stimpson.

Marvin Looslie, charter member of the department and long time member of the village board, gave high praise for Stimpson's integrity and commended him for his faithfulness in the department.

Stimpson has a sign "Gone to Fire" which he rarely hangs on the door of his business. When the call comes in he turns off his welder, locks the door and hurries to the fire station — a matter of minutes. He had the sign several years before it was hung on his door, and then it was done by a customer who hung it and helped lock-up so the chief could leave. Whenever the shop door is locked, the community knows that Stimpson has gone to a fire.

In 1950 he was asked to serve as Paul Village clerk. He accepted and when he went to be sworn in, he was told, "the position of judge goes with it."

He learned a lot during his time serving as judge but feels that it is a thankless job. "It is a job that no business man should have — it's strictly for a career man or retired man," he noted. He "called the shots" the way he saw them and served the best of his ability but says that people who previously were his friends still refuse to speak to him.

Many times court was held in the family kitchen. He served this capacity until 1955.

Stimpson's first interest is in his family, who generously supports his position on the fire department. Besides Galen and Connie, the couple has a married daughter, Mrs. Reed (Dorothy) Watts, Sacramento, Calif., and three grandchildren. Stimpson is a active member of the LDS Paul Ward Elders Quorum.

Stimpson has earned and received the love and respect of area residents and department members. In fact his driving skill was noted by a Rupert policeman who was almost caught between the fast moving truck and another vehicle.

The policeman, with flashing red light, was trying to escort the fire truck along State Highway 25 when a car suddenly pulled out in front of the police.

Another vehicle in the other lane of traffic moved in time for Stimpson to drive the speeding fire truck through a narrow space and miss hitting the policeman's car which apparently would have been crushed between the two vehicles.

Idaho's Large Elk Herd Facing Feed Shortage

BY JIM HUMBRID
Idaho's Fish-Game Department is keeping Idaho green herds and at the same time using fire to bring back brush fields to elk range are two big parts of the same thing.

The great wild fires of 1910, 1911 and 1934 burned out more than 3,500 square miles of old growth trees. This caused mixed shrub brush fields to take their place in central and northern Idaho. But some now have grown out of reach of elk.

No one wants fires set just to kill our dense stands of timber and make room for more browse for elk and deer. That would sound like the death knell to the drive to keep Idaho green and cost the state much money.

Both ends of the goal can be met if work that looks good now stays that way in the years to come. A way to change the order of plant succession must be found, or climax evergreen forests will take the place of plants, shrubs and grass on some of the world's best elk range.

The hard fact is that the elk herd in north-central Idaho has reached its peak and is on the way down. It is not a steep decline, according to elk census and kill figures, but it is one that will go on as long as winter range drops.

Natural plant succession, or the comeback of large evergreen forests, is the problem. This cuts down the quality and quantity of food available to elk during the severe winter months. And that controls the size of the herds.

There are many woods and range fires a year and some of these are caused by carelessness. It's news though when the first fire of the year was set on purpose by men from the U. S. Forest Service.

It was in the Red live ranger district, says Ranger Jim Abbott, to improve big game winter range in part of northern Idaho's St. Joe National Forest. Men of the district burned over 130 acres of brush field along Slide Creek, seven miles from the station.

Ranger Abbott adds that "burning the browse plants should increase the amount of feed in four ways. It will cause sprouting from the roots of the old plants; remove dead brush so big game can get at the plants; kill back browse that has grown out of reach; and open seeds on the ground so they can sprout."

Big game animals eat mostly the shoots from last summer's growth. Any means of helping these shoots grow more lush, or making them more available is useful. This is true for winter range in particular.

The fear of set fires going out of control or causing bad soil erosion problems on the old burns later has kept this type of range rehabilitation practice out of game management work for years.

One of its weaknesses is that controlled burning cannot be done when weather and range conditions are just right. Two other ways of getting more brush growth and keeping it within reach of animals are being studied. One is mechanical cutting of tall shrub stems. The other is the use of chemicals, called herbicides, to do the same thing.

Both means have been tried. The cost of cutting tall shrub crowns down to size this way is too much so far, but the experimental work is continuing. Most of north-central Idaho's best elk range is on U. S. Forest Service lands. Thus, any browse shrub revegetation work must be done in cooperation with the agency's office at Orofino. Keith

Mr. Thompson is forest supervisor, assisted by Clem J. Pederson. Tom Looge and Bill Hickey are the two Idaho Fish and Game Department game biologists assigned to full-time work on the project. Stationed at Kamiah, they report that spring burning, for big game winter range rehabilitation in the Lochsa showed good results last year and looks even better for this season.

Looge and Hickey help with the burning operations as much as they can. The Fish and Game Department supplies materials in the forest service for building big game enclosures on controlled parts of the study areas.

All burning work, of course, depends upon the right kind of weather conditions. In the main, this means the proper combination of high temperatures and low relative humidity. Plans for controlled burning include about 200 acres on Sherman Creek, not counting the controlled study block and 250 acres on Hilly Creek. About five acres more will be burned on Sherman Creek under dry soil conditions sometime in late summer or early fall.

Forest Service Aerial Fight Against Spruce Budworm Nears July 1 Start

(Editor's Note: Efforts of the U. S. Forest Service to eliminate the spruce budworm from timber stands in the Salmon National Forest will be continued by aerial spraying starting about July 1. This story concerning that activity was written especially for the Times-News by Bonnie Eldridge, a forest service writer stationed at Ogden, Utah. It tells of past efforts to control the worm and of the plans for this year's campaign.)

BY BONNIE ELDRIDGE

SALMON — In early morning hours last July 9, two specially equipped planes took off from the airport at Salmon and headed toward the West Fork of Iron Creek on the Salmon National Forest. Their target was spruce budworm in several thousand acres of infected timber. When they reached the designated area, a very fine spray of malathion spread over the trees at a rate of 13 ounces per acre — a nearly invisible weapon against the unseen enemy below. The planes made seven flights that day and sprayed 2,000 acres. Spray cards indicated good coverage and it looked hopeful that 2,000 acres of timber were saved from their worst enemy — spruce budworm.

Killing spruce budworm was not the only order of the day. For this was a test project by the forest service in their continuing search for an effective short-lived insecticide. Below, on the forest floor and in streams, the U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the Idaho Fish and Game Department had set up test equipment to determine the effect of malathion on fish and wildlife in the Forest. Chum salmon, steelhead and rainbow trout were kept in boxes in streams and aquatic insect drift samples were taken periodically to study the effects of malathion. Pheasants were kept in cages for similar studies.

By July 13, over 8,000 acres of infected timber of the Salmon National Forest had been sprayed with malathion. Robert K. Pates, project leader, reported that malathion apparently had no effect on the caged pheasants or the fish but that some aquatic insects were killed. He said that 90 per cent mortality for spruce budworm had occurred where the 13-ounce-per-acre application was used — enough to save the defoliated trees.

This was by no means the only battle in the war against spruce budworm. But it was an important step in setting the stage for a spray project scheduled for this summer on 110,000 acres of infected timber on the Salmon National Forest.

Once again in the cool predawn of a dry around the first of July, the airport at Salmon, Idaho, will buzz with activity. As planes are fueled and prepared for flight, pilots will be briefed on details of their mission — a mission planned many months earlier. In the forest service regional office in Ogden, and the forest supervisor's office at Salmon.

The plan to spray malathion on 90,000 acres along the breaks of the Salmon River between North Fork and Ellis and on other 20,000 acres on the Lemhi Range in the vicinity of Baker has the approval of the chief of the forest service and the National Pest Control committee. This committee consists of two members each from the Department of Interior, Department of Agriculture, Department of Defense, and Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The war against spruce budworm has been fought in research laboratories and on plant testing tables. Entomologists and forest managers have spent endless hours studying the ability of the "host" tree to withstand spruce budworm damage. Forest service researchers have followed the life cycle of these tree-killing insects from eggs, through all six larval instars, to pupa, to adult, to eggs again, recording epidemics, population explosions and mass migrations, and determining the time when the insects are most vulnerable to chemicals. Many dramatic results have been obtained from insecticide spray projects based on these studies.

However, it persists for some time and tends to accumulate in fatty tissues. It is now found in increasing amounts in many forms of life.

For these reasons there are group objections to its use. The forest service is continually searching for nonpersistent selective insecticides that will kill the target insect with a minimum effect on other life forms. Zectran and technical grade malathion are two chemicals tested in laboratories and in the field which show promise as possible substitutes for DDT.

The forest service has battled spruce budworm since it reached epidemic proportions in Idaho in the early 1950's. Between 1954 and 1957 four aerial spray projects using DDT had reduced infestation to a tolerable level on almost 3.2 million acres. For a short time all seemed well.

By 1961 it appeared that control action would again be necessary. In 1963, 200,000 acres were treated with DDT and 525,000 acres were treated the following year. Tests in the spring for better insecticides were conducted both years.

Spruce budworm are still destroying many trees on national forests in Idaho. A tree losing foliage and dying is a dismal sight, but the forest service is more hopeful than ever that the spruce budworm population can be controlled and the forest environment protected.

Report Given on Building Permits

SHOSHONE — Building permits issued in Shoshone from Jan. 1 through May 31 totalled $71,200 and included five new dwelling units valued at $61,000, city officials report.

Another $10,200 in permits were issued for additions, alterations and repairs.

The figure represents an increase over $6,000 issued for the same period in 1965.

During May a $10,000 permit was issued for one dwelling, $1,500 for alteration and repairs.

7-Year-Old Boy Youngest to Receive Medal for Heroism

WASHINGTON (AP)—David Eugene Crowe, 7, who is small for his age, managed one faint grin Friday, but otherwise was solemn and nervous as he received the Young American Medal for heroism from President Johnson.

David received the medal for the single-handed rescue of his three younger sisters from their burning home in Cherokee, Kan., Dec. 2, 1964. He was 5 at the time.

Others receiving the medal were Jeffrey James Gallagher of Haskell, N.J., who, like David, was selected for a bravery medal, and John Arthur Hanshus, Eau Claire, Wis.

Gallagher, 17, won the medal for heroism. As a 15-year-old he removed a pilot and passenger from a flaming wrecked plane.

Hanshus, 19, won the service medal for his work in organizing and directing a youth employment service in Eau Claire.

The presentation ceremony was in the Cabinet Room of the White House.

Young Crowe is the youngest ever to receive the medal.

When Johnson reached down to shake hands, the boy, ably assisted by his father, offered his left hand. Johnson described the award winners as "three young men, tender in years, but mature in action; who by their devotion, their intelligence and their courage, have demonstrated what is best about the coming generation of Americans."

Reservoir Is Lower Than Last Year

SHOSHONE—Magic Reservoir contained 148,700 acre feet of water Wednesday, according to Leon Greive, manager of the Big Wood Canal Co.

The reservoir is lower now than it was at the end of the irrigation season last year.

Water users have been using more water because of the dry weather. Indications are that the carryover will not be very high at the end of the season.

Discharge into the Milne-Gooding canal from American Falls reservoir has been about 1,460 second feet.

Girl Kicked

KING HILL — Janie Knox, 8-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Knox, of the Pitch Fork Ranch, was kicked by her pony, "Pepper," Wednesday afternoon when the horse was ridden by Randy Lewis, Salinas, Calif.

He spurred the pony who began to buck, and kicked the girl on the left side of her face and head. She was treated by a Glens Ferry physician who took five stitches to close the scalp wound. The little boy fell off the horse but was not hurt.

3 Teen-Age Girls Injured Slightly In 2-Car Crash

Three teen-age Twin Falls girls were treated at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Thursday afternoon after being involved in a two-car accident at 12:45 p.m.

The three girls, Jackie K. Phillips, 15, 1985 Osterloh St.; Susan Gay, 15, 198 Monroe St.; and Judith Herbran, 14, Route 3, were X-rayed, treated for minor cuts on their hands and legs and later released, according to a hospital source. Police said the accident occurred when Miss Phillips, driving a 1967 Chevrolet, ran into a properly parked 1954 Chevrolet, owned by C. D. Bolky, at 1601 Second Ave. W. Miss Phillips told officers she didn't know how the accident occurred. She said she was just driving along when she ran into the other car. The impact knocked Bolky's car 31 feet.

She was cited for violation of the basic rule.

Insurance Agents Attend Conclave

Four members of the Twin Falls district agency of the Prudential Insurance Company have returned from the firm's annual regional business conference held June 15-18 at the Banff Springs Hotel, Banff, Alberta, Canada.

The delegates attended a said in discussing the history of the various classes. "We have every reason to assume that the stories will be much bigger this time."

"One thing that strikes the graduates straight on is that the drinking fountain which looked so massive way back when now looks so small, and that the assembly hall with the stage at one end, which seemed the biggest room anywhere, is now hardly big enough to hold us."

"But the place is filled with memories, and although high school classes are no longer held at the school it will always be the Hollister High School to the graduates."

Shamrock Busy Bees Hold Meet

Record books were discussed when the Shamrock Busy Bees 4-H Club met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Roy Beams. Demonstrations were given by Sharon Messner, Renea Beams and Shirley Summers.

The next meeting will be held at 2 p.m. July 7 at the home of Mrs. Beams.

Pigs Destined For Clinic Blood Study

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Not to market, but to the Mayo Clinic, is the destination of two pigs from the University of Missouri.

The university owns the only herd of hemophilic swine in the world, and since 1933 the hogs have been the subject of many studies of what makes blood congeal.

At the Rochester, Minn., medical center, the pigs will become part of a joint study into an uncontrolled bleeding condition similar to hemophilia.

Dr. Creighton N. Cornell, assistant professor of agricultural chemistry, said the Mayo researchers will test a blood component which, when injected into the pigs, could favorably affect the bleeding disorder. It could then be tested on human hemophiliacs, he said.

ENDS TRAINING

HAILEY — William Warfield, formerly of West Coast Airlines at the Blaine County Airport, has completed his commercial pilot's training and is now working for Bill Kibbler, Salt Lake City, where he will be a pilot for a commercial airline.

TOADSTOOLS AGAIN: Recently we gave a cumbersome way to get rid of mushrooms or toadstools in lawns. Our readers have passed along simpler methods to cope with this problem and I'm grateful to them.

One writes: "You make a lot of work out of getting rid of toadstools. All I ever did was to take a tea kettle of hot water and pour it over the mushrooms. If they showed up again they got more hot water. It's an easy way to get rid of them and it doesn't seem to harm the grass."

Another writes: "I've been gathering edible mushrooms from cow pastures for the past 65 years and find they grow best in a sour soil. That means you can kill them with a sprinkling of lime. Just scatter it in the area where the toadstools pop up and it will make the soil so acid they won't be able to live in it."

SAVING WATER: Looks like it's going to be another dry year in some areas of the country. There are some tricks you can do to save water for plants. (1) Practice shallow cultivation. Loosening up the soil to a depth of four to six inches is neither necessary nor desirable. Running a cultivator or hoe through the soil six inches deep makes the soil fluffy but it also breaks off the plant roots. That's why you often see plants wilting after hoeing the garden. Loosening the soil one inch deep will kill the weeds and conserve soil moisture.

(2) Use a mulch, which is nothing more than a covering of straw, sawdust, woodchips, leaves, grass clippings, small stones, plastic sheets, coccobean shells, etc. A mulch saves water by cutting down on evaporation. A mulch should be three or four inches thick.

Plastic sheets are being used by more and more gardeners because they hold moisture and also raise the temperature of the soil. After the plastic has been laid, punch a few holes (pencil-size) in the low spots to catch rainwater. We'll have more about mulches later.

FREE: Want to grow better flowers and vegetables this year? Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, "Hot Weather Tricks to Save Your Plants." My guide will tell you how to cope with dry weather and grow better plants.

GARDENIA PLANTS: Sudden changes in temperature or humidity will cause buds to drop like mad. Temperatures at night above 65 degrees are partially responsible for the buds dropping, a common difficulty.

Yellowing: Yellowing is between 62 and 65 degrees. If lower than this, the plants will grow slowly and the foliage is likely to become yellow-green. Yellowing can be due to other factors than low temperatures. A shortage of iron in the soil that is not acid will produce yellowing. Make your soil acid by scratching into the surface a small amount of sulfur dust, iron sulfate, aluminum sulfate, or you can water the plant with vinegar water, 1 teaspoon to a quart.

During the summer put your gardenia outdoors where it gets morning sunshine and afternoon shade. Keep plant well watered during this period, and if repotting is necessary, do the job any time now, using equal parts of peat-moss, loam and sand.

SCENTED GERANIUMS: Few things are more fascinating to gardeners than the scented leaved geraniums. The old fashioned "rose" geranium (P. graveolens) is the one most gardeners know best. Then there are the lemon-scented types, fruit or spice-scented, the peppermint-scented and many others with pungent scents. There is even a pine-scented geranium to add interest to your collection.

These items are less demanding and need less sun than do the regular geraniums. Actually their culture is about the same. Start new plants from "slips" rooted in plain tap water. After rooting, put them in mixture of 3-3 sand, peat and loam.

SEWAGE AGAIN: From time to time gardeners ask me if the material pumped from septic tanks can be used in the garden or in the home fruit orchard. They also ask me if a fruit tree growing near a cess pool or septic tank drainage field will produce contaminated fruit. Fruit trees cannot pick up any of the disease organisms, but it is safe to eat fruit from trees growing in the area of a septic tank drainage field.

As far as using the pumped-out material from a septic tank for a vegetable garden I'd say no. A septic tank's main function is to break down human waste, and it provides neither the necessary time nor temperature to kill harmful bacteria, viruses or parasitic organisms. Vegetables growing in the disposal field could be contaminated. The best place for a disposal field is under a full growth of grass. The transpiration of moisture by grass helps a great deal in making the septic tank more effective.

HUNGER SIGNS IN PLANTS: It'd be foolish to say you can look at a plant and tell exactly what it needs. However, plants do show hunger signs which may help you correct the condition. If leaves show sickly, yellowish-green color, it's often a sign of nitrogen deficiency. Correct this by adding a plant food high in nitrogen. Sometimes you get the same symptoms when plants are overwatered, or if plants have "root rot."

Improve the drainage and the yellow fades away. A phosphorus shortage is manifested by purplish leaves and slow growth. A balanced plant food will help clear up this condition. Don't get discouraged by mottling, spotting, streaking or curling of leaves, lower leaves scorched or burned on margins and tips. Insect damage will show same symptoms, as will a dry soil. I'll take a trained gardener to recognize the various hunger signs, but often even an amateur can tell what's missing just by studying the foliage.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: NEED MINERAL? We have a walnut tree growing in our back yard. For some reason, plants growing near it are not healthy. Somebody said that walnut trees give off a poison in the air which stunts the growth of nearby plants. What is your opinion about this? First, walnut trees do give off a poisonous substance, but it's released through the roots, not leaves. The toxic substance is called juglone. Some plants make normal growth near a black walnut while others linger along or eventually die out. Not much is known about the toxicity of walnuts but it is known that the poison exists only so long as the tree roots are alive and growing. The poisonous substance does not remain in the soil long, once the tree or roots are killed. It takes a living root to produce the poison. Walnut leaves or walnut sawdust are harmless and can be used in the compost pile, or as a mulch material without fear of poison.

Taken Out

HAILEY — Some 2,800 cattle were taken out of Laidlaw Park Thursday. While there still are four good lakes in the north end of the park, it has been necessary to haul 11 truck-loads of 1,200 gallons each of water daily, about three miles for animals in the southern end of the park. The water is obtained from pumping into a 60,000 gallon tank.

ing plants. E. of Twin Falls: "My neighbor says she prunes her house plants. Please tell me if this is the same as pinching them and how we should go about doing it."

Pinching the tips out of house plants is the same as pruning them. The purpose is to make the plants bushy. Pinching is a dwarfing and a stimulating process. When you snip out the tips of mums, it makes the plants bush out, rather than be spindly. The foliage plant called Coleus likes to have the flower spike and tips pinched back so the plant will be bushy.

The Fuchsia needs to have its new shoots tipped or pinched back. Rubber plants which are tall and gangly can have the top cut back and rooted in water, to form a new plant. The Christmas poinsettia needs to be cut back to within 6 inches so the plants can make new growth. Cutting back, pinching and pruning are an essential step in growing husky plants.

M. C. of Glenns Ferry: "Our Schefflera (Umbrella Tree) is getting too tall. Can we cut it back and make the plant bush out more?"

This item does get a bit tall and needs to have the top cut out. Start a new plant by rooting the top in a gallon jug of water. Save the mother plant as it will send out new growth and be a bushier plant. Schefflera likes a light or, semi-shady window, out of direct sun. Water by soaking the soil good then letting it dry out a bit between waterings.

When old leaves drop off and new ones curl inward instead of remaining rigid and flat, this is due to poor drainage or too much water. Best soil mixture consists of equal parts of sand, peatmoss and loam. Start new plants any time of the year by taking cuttings from the top or tips.

Reunion Held

SIOXSHONE — Several members of the 1931 Shoshone high school graduating class met for a reunion Tuesday evening at the Boston cafe.

The occasion was prompted by the visit of Dr. and Mrs. Jack Clem, Carney's Point, N.J. Dr. Clem is a chemist for DuPont Chemical Co.

Bids to Be Opened for Water Tanks

RUPERT — bids will be opened July 19 for a building to house one-ton chlorine tanks, it was reported Friday.

Rupert city council members approved completed drawings and plans presented Tuesday night during the regular meeting. The plans were presented by James Voeller of Hamilton and Voeller, a Pocatello firm.

Mayor Wendell Johnson reported to the council that the county has agreed to contribute $500 toward the cost of a dog pound which will be constructed for an estimated $2,000 for city-county use. The plans were drawn by Ron Kibbe, city engineer, and were approved by the council, subject to the recommendation and approval of a local veterinarian, Dr. C. H. Lehrman.

Discussion was held on date for a bond election for the proposed city-county law enforcement building, but the date was not set during the meeting.

Lloyd Knodel recommended to the city council that the city hire a full-time park supervisor and suggested duties for such a supervisor. Knodel works in an advisory capacity with the parks committee.

The mayor, George MacDonald, councilman, Howard Lohsen, public works supervisor, and Otto Hough, who has been acting as piping agent for the parks during the summer, will meet with the parks committee for further discussion concerning the matter.

The H. St. canal bridge crossing was discussed and the possibility of widening the street or building an oil walk to the foot bridge for the safety of pedestrians and bicycle riders was discussed and approved.

Councilman MacDonald also reported that at least two bicycle racks are needed around town for youngsters to park their bicycles. Recently city police announced citations would be given bicycle riders who did not abide by the law. It is recommended one stand be placed near the theater building and the other somewhere around the city square.

William Henschel, chairman of the Christmas lighting project, of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce, met with the council to ask city cooperation in providing Christmas decorations for the city. The council agreed to contribute $500 toward the project.

Building permits were issued to Kraft Foods for an addition to their plant in the amount of $375,000; Charles Parker, to a remodel a residence, $3,000; Phillip Perotto, remodeling, $3,000; Art Zamora, new residence, $10,000; Earl Goode, new addition to garage, $6,000; Fred W. Allen, of S and H Service for a new Robo Car Wash, $3,000.

Convenience Foods Often Save Money

Who needs convenience foods? The working wife, the mother of small children, the person living alone who finds it difficult to buy small amounts of food, the handicapped or elderly who can't cope with preparing meals from scratch.

However, if you don't fit any of these categories, you needn't get a guilty feeling when you pore over the frozen food packages that look good enough to eat right in the store. As disinterested an authority as the U.S. Department of Agriculture says you can save money, as well as time, with convenience foods.

According to the Agriculture Department convenience foods cost $14.03 of every $100 of our food budget. The same food bought fresh cost $15.10, or $1.07 more than ready-to-serve.

A key factor in the rise of convenience foods has been the no-frost refrigerator-freezer. This remarkable appliance combines the best qualities of the refrigerator and the freezer in one cabinet.

The combination is priced lower than the former refrigerator alone. In addition, no-frost refrigerator-freezers are available with a full-size, true zero-degree freezer combined with a family-size refrigerator for a total capacity of nearly 30 cubic feet.

The no-frost feature never lets frozen food packages freeze together. Packages remain free of frost and labels remain visible.

Convenience foods aren't entirely new as anybody who has ever opened a can of soup can testify. However, the amazing variety existing today is largely dependent on improvements in food-freezing technology and the at-home facilities to store the food until it is needed.

In addition to the obvious saving in time and the less obvious saving in money of convenience foods, there are other advantages. For instance, you couldn't even buy the ingredients of some of the dishes, even if you had the recipe and skill to prepare it.

Another advantage of a no-frost refrigerator-freezer well stocked with convenience foods is that you are automatically prepared for any unusual situations that develop. These could include unexpected visitors, and had with the of a no-frost refrigerator-freezer make shopping impractical.

With convenience foods there is no waste. All the trimming and paring has been done for you.

The freezer section of a new no-frost refrigerator-freezer can keep a selection of meat-time staples — plus new and exotic delicacies from all over the world — at their peak of flavor and ready for instant use for months.

The food with built-in meal service — many of them frozen — can reduce the preparation time of three meals from 5 1/2 to 1 1/2 hours, and save money in the bargain. You can enjoy the benefits of convenience food living to the fullest with a new no-frost refrigerator-freezer.

The ideal way to modernize a kitchen, most homemakers would agree, is to get the whole job done at one time — new cabinets, new appliances, new wiring, everything. But it can't always be done that way.

If you've thought of modernizing in stages, you needn't put off acquiring new appliances just because you're not ready to put in new cabinets. There are several things you can do to take advantage of the work-saving features of modern appliances now and be sure the units will "fit" into your new kitchen later.

For example, you can get an electric range with a built-in, squared-off look that blends right into modern kitchens. Free-standing electric ranges today are normally 30 inches high, right at countertop level, so they will look "built-in" when your new cabinets and countertops have been installed.

SIDE-BY-SIDE 22-cubic-foot no-frost refrigerator-freezer is engineered for either built-in or freestanding installation. Separate cold controls are featured in freezer and refrigerator sections.

American Homeowners Using More Refrigerators Than Other Appliances

More refrigerators are now in use in this country than any other home appliance. In fact 89.5 per cent of all the wired homes are now equipped with one — that means a staggering 57,292,000 refrigerators.

But since the time most of them were purchased, the industry has made tremendous progress in utilizing new materials and production techniques.

As a result, its new products are so far superior in performance and convenience as well as outright dollar value that they make the older models seem even more obsolete than they are — and that's putting it mildly.

The homemaker who hasn't been into her neighborhood appliance store lately to take a good close look at these "jewels of mass production," as one individual described them, is in for a surprise at all she and her family may be depriving themselves of by not having such an appliance.

For example, take all the important features of the amount of food storage capacity of refrigerator-freezers. It may sound incredible, but the fact is that the capacity of these new appliances is now from about one-third to well over two-thirds larger than in the former models, even though the overall outside dimensions of the cabinets have not increased at all.

Electric household refrigeration is now about 50 years old. One of the many changes it brought about was the use of the word "refrigerator" to distinguish it from the old-fashioned "ice box." Later the term "freezer" came into use when that appliance appeared.

But the fact of the matter is that, until recently, the only refrigerators and freezers that were available were almost in the "ice box" category too.

As most homemakers know so well from annoying personal experience, those so-called "modern" appliances had to be defrosted regularly to keep them operating satisfactorily; otherwise they would freeze up, prevent adequate circulation of air as well as considerably reduce storage area because of ice formation.

There may be household chores that are more objectionable than having to defrost the refrigerator, but that is plenty objectionable for most homemakers.

Now, thanks to real modern refrigerator-freezers, defrosting is a thing of the past, at least for those who own one. Never developing even so much as a thimbleful of frost, they make older models not an equipped, look and act as truly obsolete and out-dated as they are.

Uncle Sam's Bureau of Labor Statistics keeps a pretty complete score board of the cost of living, but there are few if any products whose score can even begin to compare with refrigerator and freezers in home.

The Bureau transposes the cost figures for various commodities into simplified index figures to facilitate comparisons. The base number is 100 for 1957-59.

They tell a truly dramatic story about these appliances. For example, in 1947, the first year after World War II that comparative figures are available, the overall cost-of-living index figure (covering all consumer items), was 77.8 per cent.

But by 1965, as everyone knows only too well, that figure had gone way up to 109.81.

And what happened during the same years in the refrigerator price index? In 1947, (when appliance production was resumed for the first time after the war), that figure was 144.31. But by 1965 it had dropped down — way down — to 86.21.

Yet the great reduction in prices is only half the story about refrigerator-freezers. The other half lies in the fact that not only are the interiors of the cabinets considerably larger, but there are innumerable other basic improvements and refinements — like no-frost and the automatic ice maker in these new models.

In other words, never has so much intrinsic dollar value of such excellent quality been offered for such relatively low prices. Compared to what the old models cost, these are the most outstanding "bargains" in the history of the industry; they must be seen to be believed.

Nowhere is the ingenuity and skill of the refrigerator industry in providing unusual new products more evident than in its new so-called side-by-side model.

Heretofore, a homemaker could never enjoy the convenience of a full-sized freezer as well as a regular refrigerator unless there was enough room for them.

Two such bulky units required considerable space. The development of the new thin-wall construction, however, enabled the manufacturers to make combination refrigerator-freezer units having two separate sections.

Frozen Assets

"It takes very little more effort to make dishes for 12 or 16 servings than for six or eight."

And once the kitchen is a wreck, why not cook up a few other dishes to tuck away in the freezer?" ask Marian Fox Burros and Lois Levine, author of Freeze With Ease (Macmillan), 244 pages of how to use a no-frost refrigerator-freezer to ease the serving of everything from artichoke, with crab (page 178) to Yankee pot roast, braised (page 220).

Many Choices Left After Big Decision

After making the big decision about the new no-frost refrigerator-freezer, there are still some smaller choices left to make. A person may have selected a top or bottom freezer and decided on a right or left-hand door. Or he may have settled on one of the newer types with doors opening from the middle and eliminating the right or left choice.

What a person may have left to decide are a lot of little things in themselves, but which taken together can add a lot to the convenience and appearance of the new appliance.

First a person may want to decide on the outside appearance. Most people want the traditional white or copper color. Or a person may want to go for the new colors like antique white, avocado or even ebony.

When it comes to inside features, the most important of all seems so obvious that a person might overlook it.

This is the no-frost feature. Identical models are sold with and without no-frost. Make sure the refrigerator-freezer that is purchased is fully no-frost in the freezer section as well as the refrigerator compartment.

Another top convenience feature is an automatic ice maker. This can eliminate forever the ice-cube syndrome of filling trays and fighting cubes free of their icy imprisonment.

For long life and ease-of-cleaning, a person should choose a porcelain-enamel-on-steel lining. The same material is ideal for meat conditioners and vegetable crispers. Strong steel shelves with maximum adjustability is another wise choice.

Other new features to consider include a light in the freezer section, deep door racks, swing-out or roll-out freezer baskets, tall-bottle storage and separate cold controls for freezer and refrigerator compartments.

Most people are not a place for everything — and everything in its place. So it's nice to have a refrigerator-freezer big enough to hold everything needed without having to use a shoe horn to get it in.

What more could one ask for?

VACUUM CLEANER air pressure "floats" this Frigidaire no-frost refrigerator-freezer easily. Other makes have wheels which make them easy to move when cleaning behind them.

Reasons for Buying No-Frost Refrigerator-Freezers Noted

A new no-frost refrigerator-freezer is much more than just a biggest refrigerator with two doors.

The two doors are, in fact, the key to the spectacular success of this remarkable appliance. One door opens to the refrigerator space for fresh food. The other door is to a true, zero-degree freezer that can offer the capacity and food preserving ability of a separate freezer.

To show women all the new wonders in home food preservation, manufacturers, retailers, utilities and U.S. Steel have joined in a June-July promotion whose slogan is "You'll love no-defrosting ever."

Change now to a no-frost refrigerator-freezer. The no-frost refrigerator-freezer represents a triumph on engineering that has combined combination over separate appliances is that a person is saved the expense of buying two appliances. And the operating cost is lower in the bargain.

A person won't realize the convenience and labor-saving potentialities of the new appliance unless he makes sure to get the no-frost feature in both the refrigerator and freezer compartments. It is important to check on this because similar models are sold with and without the no-frost feature in the freezer section.

The outside story of no-frost refrigerator-freezers is as exciting as the inside one. In addition to conventional models with top or bottom freezers, there are several new types.

One called a side-by-side has a cabinet divided vertically with full-length doors opening from the middle.

Inside and out the new no-frost refrigerator-freezers add up to the best values ever in home food preservation.

Plan Ideal Kitchen in Easy Stages

The ideal way to modernize a kitchen, most homemakers would agree, is to get the whole job done at one time — new cabinets, new appliances, new wiring, everything. But it can't always be done that way.

If you've thought of modernizing in stages, you needn't put off acquiring new appliances just because you're not ready to put in new cabinets. There are several things you can do to take advantage of the work-saving features of modern appliances now and be sure the units will "fit" into your new kitchen later.

For example, you can get an electric range with a built-in, squared-off look that blends right into modern kitchens. Free-standing electric ranges today are normally 30 inches high, right at countertop level, so they will look "built-in" when your new cabinets and countertops have been installed.

Some ranges have work surfaces set at a lower height, but are built up at the sides to line up with the countertop. You may also want to consider a console electric range with an eye-level oven — a natural for modern kitchens with the built-in look.

The new refrigerator-freezers also have that built-in, squared-off look, thanks to more efficient thin-wall insulation and greater compactness of upper parts. Unlike older models, they fit flush against the wall, so they look like they "belong."

Manufacturers of automatic dishwashers have gone one step further. In addition to built-in, free-standing and portable dishwashers, they produce "convertible" models which can be used as portables now and, with the sides and back panels removed, as built-ins later.

When the day comes that you will be able to add cabinets too, your friends will never be able to tell you didn't plan your kitchen remodeling all at one time.

No-Frost Term Is Explained

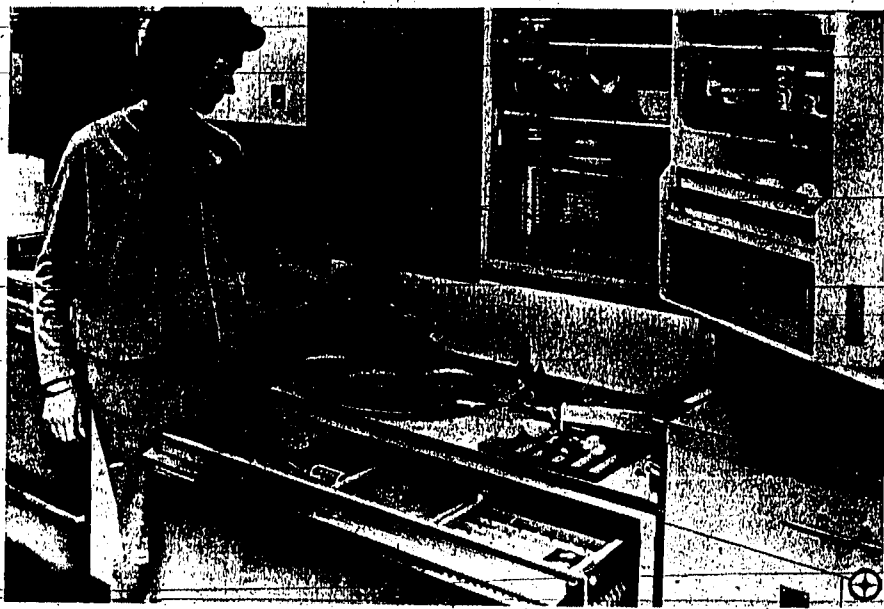

What, exactly, does the term no-frost mean when applied to a refrigerator-freezer?

It means exactly what it says. According to R. D. Smith, executive secretary, consumer products division, National Electrical Manufacturers Association, who cites the following definition of no-frost by a NEMA standard:

"A no-frost combination refrigerator-freezer is a cabinet which is automatically operated to prevent the permanent formation of frost on refrigerated plates or coils in both the freezer compartment and the general refrigerated compartment. No accumulation of ice or frost shall form on the stored food. The water from defrosting shall be disposed of automatically."

"All electric refrigerator-freezer manufacturers," Smith said, "make no-frost units in many models and sizes. To be sure you are getting the real thing, look for either the descriptive words no-frost, frostless, non-defrosting or the individual manufacturer's copyrighted phrase meaning completely without frost."

Since identical appearing models are sold with and without no-frost features, as a further precaution make sure the no-frost feature is present in the freezer section as well as the refrigerator compartment.

AN ILLUMINATED COUNTER between a roll-out bottom freezer and a French door refrigerator makes this General Electric no-frost refrigerator-freezer ideal for preparing such dishes as cold soup.

Pebbles May Help Problem Yard Areas

The shrubs shade it—it's too close to a walk, too near a tree, and the grass either won't grow well or can't be cut conveniently. A problem area like this is really no problem at all, and can be the most striking area in just too difficult to handle of pebbles and clay potted plants.

Once it is decided that the area is just too difficult to handle as a lawn, clear it of weeds and other debris. Shovel and hoe the soil one foot deep, and rake it level.

Next, border the area with old bricks, new bricks, Belgian blocks or aluminum garden edging. Then, add two inches of uniform size pebbles or crushed rock to cover the soil completely.

Set plants in porous clay pots on top of the pebble layer. But be certain that the plants you selected are those suitable for the prevailing light conditions in that spot.

If the pebble garden gets a lot of open sunlight, then the plants should be double potted. This involves placing them in clay pots one size larger and filling the space between the pots with sphagnum or peat moss and keeping it damp.

New Refrigerator-Freezer Unit Notes End of 'Ice Box'

Like the old-time automobile, older refrigerators with one door, who could have any color or as long as it was black, choosing a no-frost refrigerator-freezer was simple. A person had only to decide on the size, pick a top or bottom freezer, choose a right or left-hand door and make a selection of the available colors—white or copper-tone.

All this is now changed, however, and the buyer of a new no-frost refrigerator-freezer has what is probably the widest choice of type, size and decoration of any major appliance. A person will find it well worth his while to consider the exciting new choices before making a decision.

The first of the new-dimension refrigerator-freezers to appear had the refrigerator and freezer compartments side-by-side. Maximum accessibility to frozen food and fresh food is obtained through full-length doors opening from the middle. The side-by-side type usually requires less depth and height than other types, and ranges from less than 30 to more than 48 inches wide.

Potted Plants Add Beauty to Home Decor

The counter-top type is another new dimension in no-frost refrigerator-freezers, which features an illuminated food-preparation counter between a roll-out bottom freezer and a refrigerator compartment with doors opening from the middle. Newest of the no-frost refrigerator-freezers is the French-door type. This features a refrigerator section with doors that open from the middle, eliminating the choice of right or left-hand doors and requiring only half the swing space of a full door. The new type is offered with a top freezer and with a choice of bottom freezers that swing out or roll out.

All types of no-frost refrigerator-freezers are offered with eye-catching fronts. These range from a spectrum of colors never before seen in the kitchen—such as dooskin, avocado and black—to provisions for using changeable panels of paper, cloth or veneer to personalize the unit to match the decorating scheme.

Build texture and color are obtainable in models using vinyl-on-steel doors.

New dimensions in no-frost refrigerator-freezers are not, of course, limited to new types. Amazing new interior dimensions have been achieved by thin-wall construction made possible by strong steel cabinets and high-efficiency insulation that fills every nook and cranny because it is foamed in place by the reaction of chemicals.

Increases of interior space of no-frost refrigerator-freezers are approaching double that of older models.

COOL IDEA To prevent mildew, some women keep their damp clothes in the refrigerator until they are ready to iron them.

Demand for More Capacity Is Increasing

Many pressures have created the consumer demand for more and more capacity in a no-frost refrigerator-freezer. More and more frozen foods are being consumed and the variety of such foods is increasing at an unprecedented pace.

There has been a marked trend to once-a-week food shopping. This means bigger-than-ever freezer and refrigerator space at home to store the bounty. With regular bargain specials a firm part of supermarket merchandising, it pays real money to have the space you need to take advantage of the sales in meat and other perishables.

In planning the purchase of a no-frost refrigerator-freezer, be sure to evaluate your future needs, not your present needs, as an important criterion in the size you select. These are some factors you should weigh:

—The number in your family, not today, but the number there may be in the next three or four years.

—The ages of your children three to five years from now. The quantity of food they can put away as they approach their teens has to be seen to be believed.

—The time-saving and money-saving that comes with a no-frost refrigerator-freezer big enough to store more than a normal week's supply of perishables. Remember, many a mother unexpectedly becomes a working wife again as her family matures.

—Your increased consumption of frozen foods, including dishes from famous restaurants all over the world that you probably would never have the opportunity to taste any other way.

MEAT SPACE NOTED

Ways to Save Housework, Money Noted

"I hate housework" is more than just a humorous slogan stenciled on an apron.

One of women's gripes about housework is that it's so negative — it's noticed only if it isn't done. And they feel housework is repetitious, unrewarding and uncreative. Their efforts are taken for granted. They're part of the scenery, and no one notices unless something is out of place.

The one everyday area where the homemaker can be creative is in cooking. Here her efforts are noticed and praised by an appreciative family and guests. Her sense of reward comes from knowing that she is doing her best to build her family's health and happiness.

At a Price
The reward can exact a heavy price, however, of many hours spent in the kitchen over a hot range. That is unless she is the proud possessor of a roomy no-frost refrigerator-freezer.

Then she can cook in batches. For instance, several roasts can be cooked at once for one fuel cost and one investment in cooking time. The true, zero-degree freezer will keep all the freshness, nutrition and vitamin content in the food until she is ready to serve it days or months later. Her only on-the-spot preparation is defrosting and heating.

Oddly enough, the area offering the greatest creative satisfaction for the wife and mother — food — is also the area of the family's largest category of expenditure. Thus savings in this area really mount up. The best way to realize savings on food is to take advantage of special prices when fresh and frozen foods are plentiful.

Edges Differ

In addition to many colors, shapes and sizes, domestic ceramic tile also has different types of edges.

Some tiles have curved edges and are known as 'cushion edge'

Billions Are Wasted in Repair Jobs

Home owners are annually wasting $1½ billion in unnecessary service calls.

Many times a repair bill can be avoided by locating the trouble and fixing it yourself, says the Construction Research Bureau, clearing house for building information.

For example, if an electric appliance does not work, plug it into another socket. The first outlet might be defective and the appliance okay. Sometimes an extension cord may be at fault. Try another one.

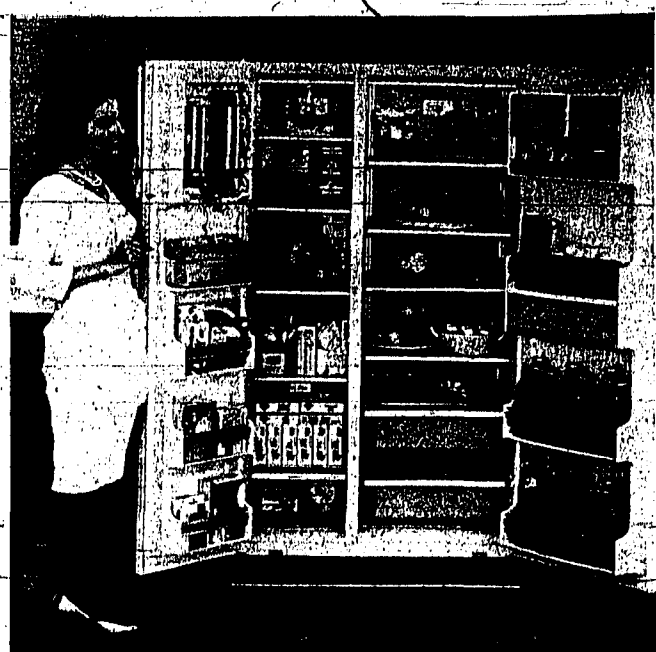

Perhaps an overload has caused a fuse to burn out or a circuit breaker to trip. If the lights in the same room fail to go on, this is probably the case. Insert another fuse of the same strength. If this blows out or the circuit breaker keeps tripping, don't fight it. Consult an electrician. If a new appliance is being used, consult the book of instructions to make sure you know how to operate it.

When the refrigerator begins to defrost and the light is out, make sure that the cord is plugged in the wall socket and that the temperature dial is correctly set. It may be set too low for the amount of food stored on the shelves. Manual defrosting should be accomplished before the ice becomes one-quarter inch thick.

Pilot Light
Should the smell of gas pervade the kitchen, it may well be the pilot light has gone out. This can happen if a draft blows through the room or the pressure drops below normal. The pilot light on top of the range can easily be relit. If it's the gas in the oven, open the doors to let gas escape before relighting.

The flooring that is correctly installed seldom if ever gives difficulty. But if it were not laid properly or if an excessive weight were abruptly dropped on a section of the floor, a tile and others have flat edges. There is a slight difference in the appearance of these types.

CALLED LARGEST CAPACITY that will fit into a 36-inch width, this Westinghouse duplex refrigerator-freezer has a 14-cubic-foot refrigerator and an eight-cubic-foot freezer, both completely no-frost.

might possibly become loosened. You don't have to call a flooring expert to fix it. Remove the tile and show it to your dealer who will tell you the proper adhesive to use. Simply apply the adhesive and replace the tile. Always be sure, advise Kenilworth engineers, to let the tile set at least three days before washing the floor.

Washer Problem
If your automatic washer refuses to run it may be (1) that the hose has kinked (2) the loading door is not shut fast (3) the load is too heavy or unbalanced (4) suds are clogging drain (5) water faucets are not turned on or (6) more than one cycle button has been pushed. When an automatic dryer stops, check controls to see if setting is right. See whether door is closed. If it's a gas unit, the main valve and pilot light should be fully on. See that the lint screen is clean and that the exhaust valve is not clogged. If the clothing is unusually wet or the temperature in the room is colder than usual, set timer for a longer period.

Some things are best left to the repairmen. These include TV sets (except for checking antenna-and-lead-in), repairs to gas or oil furnaces and anything that would be a physical strain on the amateur or that requires special training and tools to do the job right.

Now It's Easier To Air Condition

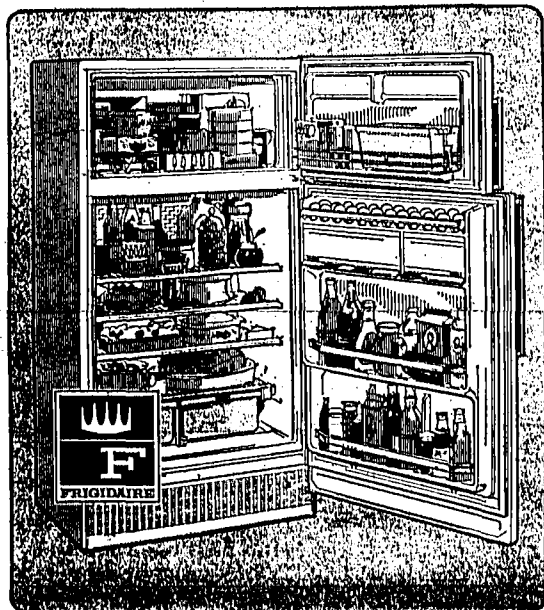

The cost of home air conditioning has been reduced substantially with the recent introduction of new types of equipment that can be installed quickly and more efficiently.

Automatic Ice Maker Is Modern Magic

"Ice cubes have been both a blessing and a curse since they first appeared about 50 years ago. A blessing because they provided a limited quantity of ice cubes for drinks and other purposes. And a curse because no matter how you planned ahead, you always ran out. Even when you didn't, the bickering over who forgot to fill the trays and the icy tenacity with which the cubes resisted removal weren't conducive to serenity.

This can all be a thing of the past, since no-frost refrigerator-freezers are now sold with ingenious automatic ice makers which never forget and which produce cubes until the filling of their storage bin shuts them off automatically.

Automatic ice makers are one of the best-selling options on no-frost refrigerator-freezers. After a simple hookup to a nearby cold water line, the machine takes over and assures never-failing supply of ice cubes.

No-frost refrigerator-freezers eliminate a major nuisance of ice cube freezing — the accumulation of frost on the trays that has to be scraped or washed away. The no-frost action also keeps the cubes dry and prevents them from sticking together in storage bins.

Ice cubes now work hard at pepping up foods for the table and adding zest and charm to hot, warm, cold, and all kinds of beverages. In addition to their traditional role in beverage cooling, cold, sparkling ice cubes can be used to put extra crisp life into salad vegetables such as celery sticks, cucumber chips, carrot curls, cauliflowerettes, and radish roses. About an hour before serving, prepare the relishes and drop them in a bowl of ice water to crisp and curl.

Ice cubes have countless other uses — from hardening chewing gum to making it easier to remove, to eliminating the necessity for licking stamps and envelopes. Some ice makers deliver special shapes of cubes that make it possible to use them directly in the new electric home ice cream freezers.

Ice cubes are a convenient, no-splash way of watering potted plants. They are also an easy way to replace the water that has evaporated from a vase of cut flowers.

You will, no doubt, discover many other uses for ice cubes if they are always handy and easy to use. All you need is an automatic ice maker in a new no-frost refrigerator-freezer.

FREEZER SECTION OF Hotpoint refrigerator-freezer stores eight cubic feet of frozen food right next to 13-cubic-foot refrigerator. Side-by-side no-frost unit takes only 33 1/2 inches of space in the kitchen.

Homeowners Want Bigger Kitchen Area

Homeowners are getting ready to launch their own space program, and the favored site is the kitchen.

A recent survey conducted for the National Home Improvement Council reveals that the kitchen is the center of attraction for most families planning home improvements. It's the room they would most like to do something about — and "more space" is at the head of the most-wanted list.

Need Appliances

While the survey brings out the need for more electrical outlets, better lighting, new sinks and new floor coverings, greater priority goes to improvements aimed at providing more cabinet and counter space, more space for better working arrangements, more space for built-ins, more space for eating, more space for activities such as kitchen desk-work and ironing.

Whether the kitchen space program calls for an all-out, all-over remodeling job or step-by-step changes within the framework of the existing floor plan, major appliances are likely to play a large part in the modernization.

Logically, kitchen remodeling time is an appropriate time to make needed replacements of major appliances — and to take advantage of some of the new developments in these appliances. Even though appliances are not outworn, they may be outdated.

New developments include, for space-saver home owners, space saving designs.

Save Space

Refrigerator-freezers, if no frost-free for "no defrosting ever" convenience, provide increased food storage capacity yet take up less floor space.

Ranges, along with self-cleaning features and more automatic cooking controls, offer flexibility in design aimed at solving space problems. There are, for example, ranges that provide built-in look without the cost of installing built-ins. For flexibility, too, are built-in wall ovens and separate surface-cooking units.

Dishwashers come in a wide range of designs calculated to fit in with any space-making kitchen plan — over-counter, under-counter, under-sink, free-standing, portable.

Many Homes Not Ready for Emergencies

NEW YORK (AP)—The electrical power blackout in the Northeast threw some light on home preparedness.

People found that auxiliary generators didn't generate that improperly stored candles had melted, that kerosene lamps were without kerosene or minus wicks, that they had no adequate food substitute for refrigerated and frozen foods (canned milk, vegetables and fruits).

For many homeowners the emergency pointed out that it isn't enough to own emergency equipment against the big day of crisis. It must be ready to use. Fortunately, the crisis was short-lived in this instance.

It was generator owners in some areas who were paradoxically stunned out of their complacency.

"The day after the emergency, the phone rang constantly. People were calling to have generators serviced," comments John LaPolia of Silliman's Hardware Service Center in New Canaan, Conn., a New York commuter area. "They had failed to keep their machines in good condition when the crisis arose; they were stuck along with the people who had no generators."

Some of these suburbanites probably had inherited the generators when they moved into new homes and they hadn't bothered to read the directions. For others, the testing period had been given up long ago.

"Most people don't realize that a generator must be run at least once a month, more preferably once a week for at least 15 minutes," LaPolia advises. "And they must be prepared with fresh gasoline, as stale gasoline can gum up the works."

Generators are particularly valuable if one keeps horses, sheep or other livestock in areas subject to power failure. They light sanding, then the lacquer or varnish are the steps to take.

Canned Foods Hunt Ends With Cabinets

Tired of reaching over the kitchen counter to high overhead shelves every time you want a can of corn or peaches? Look around the kitchen, family room or nearby hallways and see if there's a bit of wasted wall that can be converted to a canned goods cupboard.

The space needed is only two to four feet wide and as little as a six-inch depth will serve for the cupboard interior.

For height, make the top shelf a comfortable tip-toe reach — about the same height as the top of a door. Interior vertical space will divide into a half dozen or more shelves.

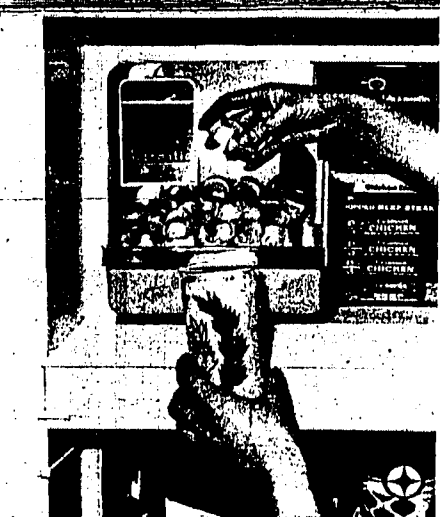

Consider using adjustable shelving to allow shelves of varied heights for tall juice cans, short sauce cans and standard sizes.

Handsome is as handsome does, but the can cupboard can be a beauty if built with solid lumber panel boards in a rich wood such as straight-grained Western hemlock or ponderosa pine.

Flush-joint or V-joint boards can be used for the door fronts, fastened to horizontal braces top, bottom and center on the back side. Screws do the job best. Concealed piano-type hinges and touch latches give the cabinet a sleek look.

If there's some exposed wall space around the cabinet, panel that, too, with matching hemlock or pine boards for a really outstanding job.

Then finish all the wood with a clear lacquer or varnish to capitalize on its natural coloring and grain. Sealer coat first.

ICE CUBES are never a problem with an automatic ice maker. Most no-frost refrigerator-freezer units have ice makers.

Wrought Iron Adds Glamour To Gardens

CHICAGO (UPI) — The truly cultivated garden has wrought iron in it.

So says June Woodard, design and plan consultant to Lee L. Woodard Sons, Inc., of Owosso, Mich., makers of wrought iron furniture.

Miss Woodard gets, well, overwrought about gardens that have no wrought iron furniture, and only "an otherwise undirected arrangement of soft forms, shrubs and trees."

Her company's products, she feels, help supply that necessary "direction."

Her reasoning goes like this: In that advancing season in which the weather isn't something you go through from one place to another, the outdoors is "an extension of the family living area."

A "point of focus," a "definition" to a garden comes with a table, sun-deck, terrace, bench, or people use these, they need furnishings and careful planning.

"Planning the out-of-door living area is as important as the careful consideration given the interior of the home if the most is to be made of the setting aesthetically and also for comfortable family living and entertaining," she says.

Basic Principles

The basic principles of good design apply in furnishing your garden's focal point — scale the area to the whole and furnish it accordingly.

"The large yard can properly accommodate a large patio living area, or by scaling it down, another smaller one set apart from it to create another focal point in the yard. The small yard obviously will accommodate one properly proportioned area."

Consider wrought iron's variety.

"The light-appearing but strong frames of wrought iron especially give full-size seating and still do not bulk up to the overbearing either in quantity on the larger patio or size on the smaller," she says.

Also, and this is more in line with her "extension" idea, wrought iron "keeps indoors and outdoors related" when "the patio area is an extension of the house" — right outside sliding glass doors.

"Most important is the part color will play in your planning. For you are not restricted, when selecting wrought iron, to the look of hard metal and the garishness of bright plastic."

New Dimensions Are Explained in No-Frost Refrigerator-Freezer Units

By FRANK SHERIFF

In this day of mechanical miracles we have to admit that "ice box" is an archaic expression. But how unconsciously we cling to it.

And really it does express quite literally the kind of refrigerator many of us continue to use. The ghost of the box and its drip, drip of melting ice haunt far too many of us; periodically we go through much the same experience.

For days we are subconsciously annoyed at the knowledge that we must defrost the refrigerator. Then the day comes when with an exasperated jerk and a tug we begin the two- or three-hour job.

Food must be wrapped and transferred to the refrigerator. The kitchen floor is a drippy mess and our temper is under hair-trigger control.

The ice cream has softened and we wonder if the peas have thawed too much to be returned to the freezer. But why go on? Every homemaker who has an older refrigerator can add her own chapter and verse to the plague of "ice box" defrosting.

It is very easy to point to a simple solution to the problems of manual defrosting. The answer of course is: a no-frost refrigerator-freezer. It is just as easy for the harassed homemaker to shrug her shoulders and point out that although her refrigerator is old and an aggravation, it works perfectly, so why replace it?

The fact is: by modern standards even a 10-year-old refrigerator does not work perfectly. At least it cannot do the job it now should perform. For example, using new freezing techniques, the great multitude of frozen foods available today were fast-frozen at below-zero temperatures. For safety and fresh flavor the foods should be kept at zero temperature.

Many 10-year-old refrigerators were simply not designed to maintain continuous zero-degree freezer temperature. Improved insulation, door seals and operating components made it possible to design a true, zero-degree freezer. Years of research and design studies culminated in the development of the frostless refrigerator-freezer.

It is estimated that more than 20 million families are now using obsolete refrigerator-freezers: refrigerators that are too small, with inadequate freezer space, requiring manual defrosting.

Adequate refrigerator-freezer space provides an up-to-the-minute, easy-to-use filling system for food, with drawers specially designed for keeping fruits and vegetables moist and fresh. There are racks or bins for handy storage of eggs, extra-cold compartments for longer-than-usual storage of meats and a just-right cubicle for butter keeping.

If your refrigerator-freezer is large enough for your normal requirements, there should be space in it to accommodate a family-size Thanksgiving turkey and all the trimmings with no special reorganization or throw-out of leftovers necessary.

Many combination models with two doors have no-frost freezers, but some models must still be defrosted manually. Most combination models do have true freezers with zero-degree temperature. You can freeze and store fresh foods for several months, as you would in a separate food freezer.

Frostless refrigerator-freezers have true, zero-degree freezers. Frostless means what it says—complete freedom from frost forever. Make sure you ask for no-frost in both the refrigerator and freezer sections. Some models are available with or without no-frost in the freezer portion.

Call the frostless refrigerator-freezer a kitchen supermarket; call it a miracle of design and engineering. Call it Sam, or whatever you please. But don't call it "ice box." The no-frost refrigerator-freezer means the end of defrosting and the drip, drip of melting ice. The "ice box" is no more.

Wallpaper Offers Aid to Remodelers

Ready to remodel—but the budget isn't? Wallpaper can be the answer.

Quality colors and patterns are now available for as low as 50 cents a roll, and many patterns are factory trimmed and pasted for quick, easy "do-it-yourself" application.

For those who have never put up wallpaper before, local dealers will be happy to give simple directions. However, many wallpapers on the market today include hanging instructions in each roll.

There's variety, too, in the ways to remodel with wallpaper. For instance, many older homes and some newer ones have had walls. No amount of plastering will hide cracks, and with dry wall construction, seams are bound to show.

Wallpaper is one way to disguise these faults.

Since most modern wallpapers are washable, and colors won't fade, the decorating is done for as long as the family likes to keep a pattern.

Cost Noted For No-Frost Combinations

It's true, it does cost more to operate a no-frost refrigerator-freezer. But only about a penny-and-a-half a day.

That's a mighty small price to pay for permanent relief from the messy, sloppy, annoying, frustrating and time-consuming chore of manual defrosting.

It has been a persistent folk myth—even among people who ought to know better—that no-frost refrigerator-freezers cost a lot more to run than a model with a freezer that must be manually defrosted. The myth has received its corroboration from an experiment conducted by General Electric.

Two 15.5-cubic-foot refrigerator-freezers were tested under identical conditions. One had the refrigerator-freezer both the refrigerator and freezer sections. The other one did not.

The difference in operating cost worked out to 1.6 cents per day (based on year-round kilowatt-hour usage at the national average of 4 cents per kilowatt-hour). This adds up to 48 cents a month.

Don't, however, get the impression that your new no-frost refrigerator-freezer will cost only about 1/2 cent a day more to operate than the frosty old refrigerator it replaces. For one thing it may have nearly twice the capacity, including a true freezer.

You'll save money when you buy, however. A 16-cubic-foot no-frost refrigerator-freezer will cost no more than an old 10-cubic-foot refrigerator.

Roofing, Siding And Insulation Sales Increasing

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sales of roofing, siding and insulation materials for home improvements are expected to pass the $1 billion mark by 1968, according to the head of a major nationwide home improvement financing organization.

William M. Wolfson, president of Peoples National Fund Inc., says latest figures available indicate national sales of commodities distributing roofing, siding and insulation products were almost 40 per cent higher in 1963 than they were five years earlier.

"Sales of these materials in 1958 totaled almost $500 million," he said. In 1963 they exceeded $773 million and that rate of growth by 1968 should be almost double the figure of a decade before.

CAPACITY LISTED—One cubic foot of freezer space will hold 40 pint cartons.

EVEN HUNGRIEST CROWD of teen-agers would have trouble eating through all the food the 8.78-cubic-foot freezer and 13.22-cubic-foot refrigerator of this Kelvinator side-by-side no-frost refrigerator-freezer will hold at one time.

Replanting Renews Homes, Adding to Beauty and Value

How does one know when he should renew the landscaping around his home? When the leaves of shrubs or trees start to touch each other, unless it happens to be a hedge, it is "time for a change" according to the American Association of Nurserymen.

Aged shrubs and tree plantings usually look the part—they may be unkempt, diseased, or simply "too large for the space available."

In re-landscaping, unless the shrubs and trees are past redemption, many may be saved, thus cutting down on re-planting costs.

In past years, many shrubs have been planted that were entirely unsuitable for foundation plantings. The consequences are evident in large trees and shrubs too close to houses so that windows and light are blocked off.

Recently developed low-growing shrubs should be planted under windows so views will never be blocked off. Where trees have been planted too closely in the past, grass sometimes will not grow, leaving bare ground for a yard.

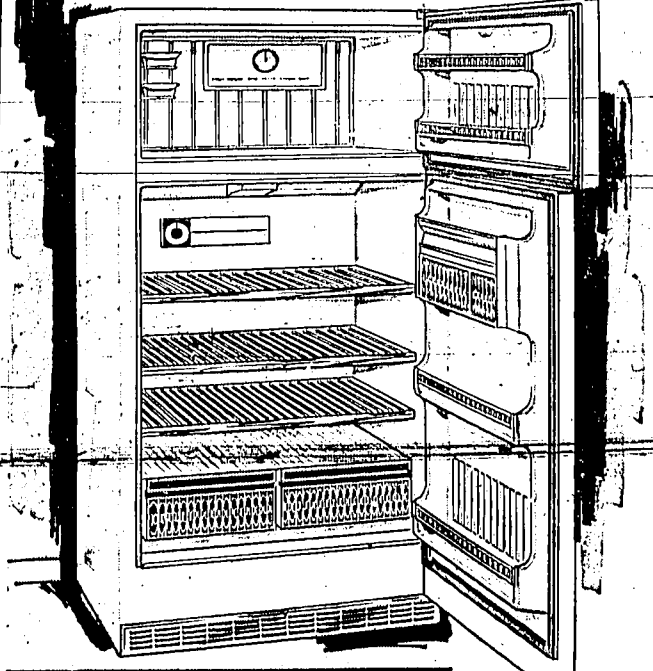

Renewal of landscaping, if carefully done, need not be costly. It should, however, be done according to a plan which provides pleasant living and natural beauty for the family.

Sometimes shrubs can be divided and pruned in order to make them smaller. Often overgrown shrubs can be pruned back. The pruning should be done by an experienced nurseryman. Different shrubs need to be cut back in different ways.

Certain shrubs that are overgrown cannot simply be cut back, but have to be carefully pruned. Trees should not inter-

Author Says Viet Nam Army Hard Pressed

By TOM TIEDE
NEW YORK (NEA) — Every hour of every day the United States spends over one and one-quarter million dollars to wage the war in Viet Nam.

That's $11 billion a year, the average income of 2.5 million Americans.

The price of peace is going up and, with it, the public's eyebrows. The concern is that we have had to "buy" the war and that a weary, multitrained South Viet Nam was a most willing seller.

"The Vietnamese have twice as many soldiers there as we do," a public official said recently. "What are they doing in the war?"

Asked another: "Do the people there really care?"

And another: "If they aren't trying, why are we?" The questions are legitimate. No one denies the individual gallantry of the Vietnamese in their prolonged misery (their casualty rate dwarfs that of American units) but there is much private sentiment that collectively the ally is not doing all that he might.

Unfortunately he isn't. Or perhaps can't. The Army of the Republic of Viet Nam (ARVN) is comprised of more than 680,000 soldiers whose uniforms vary from U.S. khaki to khaki, because they vary from clotted moderns to mountain tribesmen whose way of life resembles an era when people sacrificed virgins.

They average 5 feet in height, or ally, and weigh about 115 pounds apiece.

They are friendly, polite and suspicious. In the bush they range from amazing to awful. Units that have staged wonderfully courageous battles eventually were defeated only because they called in support artillery on their own positions.

Individual heroics and stamina among them are legion: amputees rejoining a battle, whole families fighting side by side, entire battalions fighting to the last man, 40-year-old career soldiers who have been continuously at combat for half their lives.

Yet their cowardice is legend also.

In the cities, draft dodging is reaching epidemic proportions. Thousands are forging identification cards for less than a dollar, or bribing induction officials for between $250 and $400.

In the fields ARVN troops are often gunshy. They initiate 10 times the activity that U.S. forces do, but make mysteriously fewer shooting contacts with the enemy.

Desertion is rampant. Soldiers run away at a rate of 9,000 a month, one-sixth of the total ARVN strength during 1965.

There is, of course, some explanation for all this. Enlistment in the Vietnamese military is hardly romantic. In fact, the not-so-funny gag among youths of military age is: "Take up smoking fast. Cancer is a deformity."

Soldiers must raise chickens because rations are often scarce. Equipment (mostly U.S.) is World War II vintage.

The monthly pay for a Pfc. is a rib-shaving $12.

In addition, and despite expensive U.S. assistance, the ARVN soldier still has medical facilities that smacked of blood-letting and army morgue procedures that would cause a cadaver to get up and walk out in disgust. (Many corpses are simply cut in half, put in bags and given to family survivors to take home and bury.)

Regardless of why, the fact remains that too many ARVN soldiers are too seldom predictable and too often unreliable. And there seems no hope of improvement. Military discipline doesn't happen overnight. Neither does overpopulation of a man's fullness, disillusionment and fear of two full decades of war.

Thus our dilemma is obvious. As one GI put it recently after finding a Vietnamese soldier asleep on sentry duty: "With an ally like this, who needs enemies?"

dirty neighborhood," he said in an interview.

Friday, when Russell's appointment was announced by Gov. J. Millard Tawes, he was a partner in an integrated law firm in Charles Center, a sparkling skyscraper in the center of Baltimore's urban renewal.

Russell, 37, became the first Negro to be named a judge at the Circuit Court level in Maryland, and will be sworn in next Wednesday. He was appointed to the Baltimore Supreme Bench, whose members rotate annually among the city's top-level trial courts, such as Circuit Court, Common Pleas, Criminal, and Superior.

"I decided when I was in the third grade that I was going to be a lawyer and that I wasn't going to have a dingy office in a

Negro's Life Raises Above Bleak Future

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The story of the rise of George L. Russell Jr. reads like Horatio Alger. Except that Russell is a Negro.

In the 15-year span since he graduated from college, Russell has risen from a menial job that entailed shining shoes, to executive vice president of a life insurance company, to police magistrate and to an appointment Friday to the Supreme Bench of Baltimore City.

"I decided when I was in the third grade that I was going to be a lawyer and that I wasn't going to have a dingy office in a
