Photo Unit Will Study Moon for Landing Places

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The United States plans to shoot for the moon Tuesday, hoping to rocket a flying photography lab into orbit about our celestial neighbor to snap pictures of potential astronaut landing sites. The spacecraft, Lunar Orbiter, is to dart across a quarter-million-mile path and swoop into a lunar orbit that will brush as close as 26 miles to the moon's surface. It carries two cameras to obtain clear pictures of 10 areas considered likely for manned expeditions. Resting in one of the sites is the Surveyor craft that settled gently on the moon in June and relayed 11,237 pictures to earth. Lunar Orbiter hopes to capture photos of Surveyor and its surrounding terrain for comparison.

Scheduled launch time is 11:07 a.m. EST Tuesday, with an Atlas-Agena rocket starting the 86-pound Lunar Orbiter on its intended 49-hour journey to the vicinity of the moon. Once there, a retrorocket is to slow the speed so the probe will be caught in the moon's gravitational field. If successful, it will be the first time America has placed a satellite in lunar orbit. Seven previous attempts failed, six of them in the early days of rocketry in 1958 to 1960.

The Soviet Union succeeded with Luna 10 last April after a series of failures. Luna 10 did not have a camera. The targets that NASA is considering for manned landings are located in a narrow band stretching across the moon's equator and include all types of terrain.

Lunar Orbiter is to take 15 pictures of each area, some of which will be relayed live to nationwide television. Each frame will have a medium resolution picture showing an area 23 by 55 miles and a high resolution picture of an area 10 by 40 miles in the center of the larger photo.

Lunar Orbiter also has instruments to measure radiation and micrometeoroids near the moon. By tracking the payload as it orbits the moon, scientists will learn more about the lunar gravitational field.

Depositors Organize to Save Firm

BOISE (AP) — A group of Idaho Savings and Loan Association depositors have joined together to insure that they obtain 100 per cent of their deposits from the institution, which closed July 6.

More than 200 depositors in Pocatello voted Friday night to adopt a standby plan for depositors to take over operation of the firm.

Depositors in Boise, Twin Falls and Idaho Falls previously voted to develop a reorganization plan for the institution which would be acceptable to the Idaho Department of Finance.

The association was turned over to the department July 6 when association directors found the firm could no longer meet its financial obligations.

Acting State Finance Commissioner Don D. McElwain was named trustee in reorganization for the association by Third District Court and retired Boise banker Robert D. Burdette was named conservator.

Mrs. Myrtle Burdette of Shoshone is coordinator for the depositor groups. She said the depositor's committee would not oppose any sale of the institution by the state if it resulted in depositors obtaining all of their deposits.

Mrs. Burdette said it would be difficult to obtain all deposits because the association had about 24 per cent of its assets in defaulted loans.

She said land mortgaged to secure loans of $15 million, been appraised at $12 million. The coordinator said depositors would be contacted and asked to donate $5 each to finance the reorganization plan. If the plan is accepted, she said depositors would be asked to give five per cent of their funds into the capital structure of the association.

Young Demos Set Twin Falls Meet

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Young Democrats will hold their annual convention in Twin Falls Sept. 10.

The announcement was made by Leo Krull, state president. Krull said state officers would be elected at the meeting and a platform for the coming election campaign.

Committee Urges End to Air Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Declaring "there are no winners in this bill," the chairman of the House Commerce Committee Saturday urged negotiators to end the airline strike before Congress did it for them.

Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., said if the Senate-passed bill now before his committee were enacted, it would send back collective bargaining for 50 to 100 years.

Under the bill Congress would order the striking Machinists back to work for 30 days, and the President would be given authority to keep them on the job for 150 days more while a settlement was sought.

Staggers appealed directly to the chief negotiators for the Machinists' union and the five trucking airlines, who were in the audience at a crowded Saturday hearing as the committee continued questioning Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz.

As the other committee members echoed Staggers' hope that the strike could be settled before Congress had to act, Wirtz promised to intensify his efforts to bring the parties together during the weekend.

There was even an ice cream social and a complete fringe parking lot two blocks from the church.

Babcock Has Dim View of Gun Sale Bill

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Gov. Tim Babcock said Saturday he hopes the shootings on the University of Texas campus will not stampede the Senate into passing a bill to control sale of firearms.

"It would be about the same as restricting the sale of automobiles because of our increasing traffic accident rate," he said in a prepared statement.

Babcock is campaigning for the Senate seat now held by Sen. Lee Metcalf, D-Mont. The firearms control law is sponsored by Sen. Thomas Dodd, D-Conn.

The governor said there is no statistical connection between the availability of guns and crime. He said New York, with severe restrictions on gun ownership for many years, has a higher crime rate per capita than Montana where gun ownership is nearly universal.

Babcock said the Dodd bill would place a burden on the law-abiding user of firearms but would have prevented the Texas massacre.

Babcock said he would prefer other legislative proposals to stiffen penalties where firearms are used to commit a crime.

Sniper Fought Inner Agonies Long Before Massacre

Luci, Nugent Exchange Vows In Rites of Modern Splendor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Luci B. Johnson, daughter of the President, exchanged the sacred vows of marriage with Patrick J. Nugent Saturday in rites of modern splendor flung with the antiquity of Christendom. President Johnson gave Luci away at the beginning of one of "the" weddings in all Washington history, in the massive, magnificent National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception. It is the world's seventh, largest church and the national church of Roman Catholics. The archbishop of Washington, Patrick A. O'Boyle, presided at a Nuptial Mass for the first time since he or any of his associates could remember.

At the end, he invoked God's blessing on the newlyweds, read a special blessing from Pope Paul VI, and made the sign of the cross.

After escorting his daughter, 19, down the block-long polished-marble center aisle, the young man, 23, from Washington, Ill., she was about to marry in the wedding of her dreams.

Mrs. Johnson joined Mrs. Johnson in a first-row pew along with 700 guests, to watch the rituals unfold. They included friends and neighbors from Washington and back home and an assortment of high Washington officials.

The marriage ceremony itself, about a third of the way through, the Nuptial Mass, was performed by a Chicago priest who used to be a next-door neighbor and babysitter for Pat Nugent back in Washington.

There was no "love, honor and obey," but Patrick John Nugent and Luci Baines Johnson said their "I do's" in turn and exchanged their vows "to have and to hold, from this day forward, for better, for worse, for richer, for poorer, in sickness and in health, until death do us part."

750 Firefighters Trying to Control Boise Area Blaze

By The Associated Press
More than 750 men were battling one of two large forest fires which still burned uncontrolled in Garden Valley late Saturday. It was not known just how many men were working on the other. The two fires—the last of nine which were burning two days ago in the small valley 30 miles north of Boise—were estimated to have burned about 9,000 acres by Saturday afternoon. The two uncontrolled fires were burning near the tops of ridges on either side of the Middle Fork of the Payette River. The others were spotted along 30 miles of the timbered slopes of the valley walls.

Firefighters — including Indian crews from as far away as New Mexico — struggled Saturday to build a fire line around the uphill side of the Houston Ranch fire.

Six bulldozer and back fire crews were working on the ridge.

The Houston Ranch fire was believed to be 30 per cent contained but a Forest Service official said a wind could rapidly carry the fire over the ridge and out of control again.

The Charley Mountain fire was even larger and still burned unchecked.

Already hampered in their efforts by temperatures in the 80s and a lack of telephone communication in the dry forest, the firefighters could draw no hope from forecasts of high winds.

Washington (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk said Saturday the United States will "negotiate with us in a spirit of compromise" on disarmament agreements going behind the 1963 nuclear test ban treaty.

In a statement halting the third anniversary of the pact banning all except underground atomic tests, Rusk spoke specifically of proposals to outlaw the spread of nuclear arms and to cut off production of atomic weapons material.

These proposals now are before the 17-nation disarmament conference in Geneva — and No. 1 priority, in the U.S. view, goes to the effort to prevent atomic arms from spreading to new national arsenals.

Washington strategists fear mounting pressure on countries like India and Pakistan, Egypt and Israel and others to acquire nuclear weapons could lead to disastrous consequences for world peace unless a curb is found.

Rusk's avowed hope is to prevent the nuclear arms race from spreading to new nations by an early solution to the U.S.-Soviet differences over a nonproliferation pact that have arisen in the Geneva talks.

Moscow has objected to the U.S. version of an agreement to check the spread of atomic weapons for Germany.

Rioting Continues To Trouble Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — Persisting racial violence troubled Chicago Saturday while officials urged steps to restore peace. A group of Negro youths shot and wounded two white teenagers during the night on the far South Side. Earlier, rioting residents of an all-white neighborhood in the Chicago Lawn district on the Southwest Side hurled rocks, firecrackers and insults at Negro and white marchers who carried placards protesting open housing.

Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., who was struck by a rock while the parade was forming, headed back to Atlanta Saturday. He planned to go from there to Jackson, Miss., for next week's convening of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC), of which he is chairman.

His associates scheduled a prayer vigil for Sunday in the Belmont-Cragin section of the Northwest Side, where they walked a gauntlet of jeers and taunts on two previous visits.

Supt. O. W. Wilson, whose heavy-concussion injuries have kept aroused whites from closing in on the demonstrators in both neighborhoods, appealed to citizens to help maintain law and order. He asked people to stay away from disturbed areas.

"Repetition of illegal acts," he warned, "will continue to result in swift action."

Alderman John J. Hoellen, a Republican who represents the 47th Ward on the North Side, said he had sent a letter to Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley, calling for a halt to the marches.

"Events of the past week," he said, "have demonstrated that a 22 for their protection—the demonstrators walked between files of Klansmen up the short walk to the concrete steps of the building and there congregated to present their grievances.

Taunts from the assembled Klansmen welled up as Harris spoke. He said it was "regrettable" in his 47th year that 20 per cent of any community could be systematically excluded from municipal decisions.

Four Negro youths were arrested later and charged with aggravated battery.

Two Negroes were killed and other persons were injured Thursday night in a riot erupting on the South, West and North sides. Police attributed much of the strife to war among gangs of Negro youths.

Contestants who have placed first, second or third in a horsemanship class in any area show during the past two years are ineligible for classes one and four. Reining and trail class eliminations will be held at 9 a.m. Sept. 10 in the arena.

Actor Says Troops Like Clean Show.

By GENE HANDSAKER HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Frank Sutton's advice to other performers who go to Viet Nam to entertain troops is: Keep it clean.

Legends of barracks ribaldry notwithstanding, Sutton says: "Don't use blue material. They don't like it. It's a form of talking down to them."

Sutton, the gravel-voiced, bulldog-faced sergeant who has raised Jim Nabors on television's "Gomer Pyle, U.S.M.C.," went to Viet Nam during the show's summer recess from filming.

He paid his own way to Saigon by commercial airliner. Traveling in helicopters and Jeeps, he did 56 one-man shows in eight days for Marine Corps audiences ranging from 18 to 1,000 men.

A writer-actor friend, Larry Howis, who plays a GI prisoner in "Hogan's Heroes," wrote Sutton's 22-minute routine. "I always opened with the same gag, and they loved it," Sutton reports. "I'd say, 'Fellows, I'm very upset. All I hear about these days is the Green Beret.'"

"What's so great about the Green Beret? I've known guys in Hollywood who wore green berets (pause) and green purses (pause) and green dresses."

Sutton plays a gunnery sergeant in "Gomer Pyle." He says: "The guys kept asking me when I was going to make E3—master gunnery sergeant."

Does that Marine Corps really have such inept characters as the fumbling though well-meaning Gomer?

"In every unit someone would say, 'You've got to see our Gomer Pyle,' and then call out: 'Go get so-and-so.'"

The title scene of the television show, in which Sutton strides bellowing beside the lumbering Nabors, was filmed at Southern California's Camp Pendleton. Others in the marching platoon are real Marines, and Sutton said he met some of them in Viet Nam.

Mrs. Gandhi Gives up Nice U.S. Car as Campaign Starts

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi decided to give up her air-conditioned American sedan and do her political roadwork in a small, bouncy Indian car.

In Parliament, Communist leaders were shouting that they alone have the people's true interests at heart. In Uttar Pradesh State, leftist agitators were goading students into attacking police.

All of which proves Indian politicians are off and running for what may be India's most important general election.

In February, for the fourth time since independence in 1947, voters will elect members of Parliament and state assemblies. The outcome will shape things to come at perhaps the most crucial time in India's history.

One thing is fairly certain — Mrs. Gandhi's ruling Congress party will retain its majority in Parliament and, with one or two possible exceptions, renew its control over state assemblies.

Why, then, all the fuss? There are several reasons.

Scrambling for any advantage, however small, leftist opposition groups are creating serious problems of law and order.

Communist probing against the Gandhi government started in January in Kerala, a Red stronghold. In March, Communist agitators took advantage of food shortages in Calcutta and turned much of West Bengal State into a riotous battleground.

Army troops helped crush that outbreak and the Reds next turned, in July, to the northern state of Uttar Pradesh — attempting to embarrass both the local and state governments.

Many lives were lost and property worth millions destroyed.

More such tests are ahead.

The leftists' political nihilism, plus widespread unrest among the hungry and unemployed, suggests that parliamentary democracy as an institution is undergoing a severe test.

Opposition parties simmer in frustration because they have been elbowing away from the political throne since independence — Mrs. Gandhi's party, striving to maintain its identity as the dragon killer that vanquished British colonialism, keeps a strangle hold on public posts of consequence.

Opposition "outs," sensing they cannot legitimately defeat the "ins," let loose with street riots and parliamentary squabbles that temporarily cripple the government — and efforts for economic progress. In Parliament, opposition leaders, mainly the Communists, demonstrate that if they cannot form a government, they still can prevent Mrs. Gandhi's from operating properly.

Such tactics tempt the government to use police powers it assumed during the 1962 China-India border war.

The whole affair is important for its impact on the Congress party — which, in the current context, is India's government.

For the first time, the Congress party is campaigning for a general election without the guiding hand of Mrs. Gandhi's father, Jawaharlal Nehru. In the old days, he alone could assure resounding victory and party unity. Now the party is old and tired, split by factional quarrels.

Mrs. Gandhi has decided to take her case, and personality, directly to the people, skirting her party's old, entrenched leadership.

If she succeeds in projecting herself as member of the Nehru family, she will help the party's chances and win in her intra-party duelling.

Indonesian Aide to Visit New Guinea

JAKARTA (AP)—Foreign Minister Adam Malik said Saturday he will visit the Indonesian portion of the island of New Guinea, where hunger riots have been reported.

Malik did not say why he was making the trip, but informed sources said he would attempt to ease political unrest and deal with food rioting in the primitive jungle area of West Irian.

Primitive tribesmen living in the interior are hungry, reports said, because they have come to rely on air drops of canned food from missionaries and government agencies.

Part of the problem is political agitation for independence from Indonesia. Some of the nearly one million inhabitants believe they will have the opportunity to choose independence in 1969, but the government is not likely to permit this, sources said. The other half of the island is controlled by Australia.

Assistant Pastor Gives Farewell

Elvin Goebel, assistant minister at the First Christian Church, will give a farewell sermon at Sunday morning services.

He and his wife are going to Tacoma, Wash., where both plan to continue their education. The Goebels came to Twin Falls Aug. 1, 1964, and have been active in church and community activities, working in various capacities. Goebel was active with Boy Scouts and also worked with junior high school and high school age youths. While working with church baseball teams, he led them to victory for two consecutive years. Goebel was active in the Twin Falls Ministerial Association, and helped with nearly every drive-in church service while he was here.

Actress Sues for Voice Imitation

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Actress Zsa Zsa Gabor, objecting to alleged use of an imitation of her voice to advertise hamburgers, sued Friday for $100,000 in damages. Miss Gabor claimed in her Superior Court suit that the radio commercials invaded her right to privacy and entitled her to payment for involuntary services. Franchise Realty Interstate Corp. and McDonald's Corp., described as owners of the McDonald's Golden Arches restaurant chain, were named defendants with the Carson Roberts advertising agency.

Relish Tray Is Topic for Club

A demonstration on how to make an attractive relish tray was given by Barbara Smith when the Happy Shamrocks 4-H Club met Friday at the home of Barbara Smith.

Mary Lynn Burkhardt, junior leader, helped the girls pick up unsightly litter and dispose of it for their community project.

Diann Zuck told of pointers she received from judges on Achievement Day on how to make better cookies for the exhibit at the Twin Falls County Fair.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Barbara Smith. The next meeting is sat. Aug. 12 at the home of Felicia Rulter.

Quietness of Demilitarized Viet Nam Zone Is Broken

SAIGON, South Viet Nam. All this is a far cry from what (AP)—Until a week ago, the international powers envisaged demilitarized zone was the aged in Geneva in 1954 when the quietest place in all Viet Nam, six-mile wide demilitarized zone. The quiet was broken only by dividing North and South Viet propaganda loudspeakers and Nam was created. The zone is an occasional fire fight between 45 miles long, running from the South Vietnamese police and South China Sea to the Laos irritative from the North.

But from captives, it was. The Geneva powers instructed learned that the North Vietnam that only carbines, machine pistols, 324th Division had moved into the demilitarized zone, and of the zone into South Viet Nam, these by a maximum of 100 U.S. Marines and South Viet policemen on either side. The zone was to be the neutral buffer between the newly created nations of North and South Viet Nam. It was laid roughly along the 17th Parallel at the zone.

Last Saturday the zone's quiet was shattered by bombs hitting the western part of the zone. They came from B52 bombers coming in from Guam who were seeking out the North Vietnamese. The B52s have been back since.

Communist groundfire cracked into the sky from the ridges and densely jungled ravines, aiming at low-flying American reconnaissance planes and fighter bombers.

15 Women to Teach Nurse Class Here

Fifteen Magic Valley area women have been selected by an advisory committee to teach the new Licensed Practical Nursing course beginning Sept. 15 at the College of Southern Idaho. It was announced Saturday by Gerald Meyerhoeffer, vocational guidance counselor.

They are Mrs. Aletta Carter, Vera Ellison, Mrs. Evelyn Frazier, Mrs. Helen Haskett, Mrs. Lydia Johnson, Mrs. Jane Lyons and Mrs. Mary E. Qualls, all Twin Falls; Mrs. Velma Taylor, Filer; Mrs. Elsie Rose Partin, Buhl; Mrs. Gloria Ochser and Mrs. Velta Cleverly, both Gooding; Freda Gist, Jerome; Mrs. Erma Andersen, Wendell; Shirley Atwood, Rupert, and Helen Joy, Hazelton.

The Licensed Practical Nurses training will be provided at the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital through the cooperation of the College of Southern Idaho's Area Vocational School and the hospital. Mrs. Marilyn Blackburn will instruct the course.

Pharmacy Firm to Aid Hospitals

NUTLEY, N.J. (AP)—A leading pharmaceutical firm Saturday announced it will reimburse hospitals for 25 per cent of the cost of the company's drugs used by medical patients.

The new plan is designed to ease the financial burden of medicine to the public, said Dr. V.D. Matilla, president of Hoffmann-La Roche, Inc.

Since 1952, the company has operated a program under which private physicians can obtain any Roche drugs free if a patient can't afford them.

Hospitals will be reimbursed every three months with a computer processing the refund requests and writing the checks.

After hospital treatment, medicine patients who cannot afford private treatment drugs still would be eligible to receive them without cost under the indigent patient program if their doctors so requested, the company said.

Senator Will Aid Bill to Limit Costs

WASHINGTON (AP)—If food prices continue to climb, Sen. Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said Saturday night, he would support legislation to limit the cost of bread and other staples.

Although he expressed dislike for government price ceilings, the veteran chairman of the Senate Agriculture and Forestry Committee said: "I would rather have prices frozen than find our country in an inflationary problem where we couldn't stop the runaway."

The chairman said he is much concerned about the recent higher food prices because he knows of no reason for them.

Farmers are not receiving the food-price increases, Ellender said in a program taped for radio and television use in his home state.

The farm committee he heads unanimously approved a request last week to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman to probe recent food price increases and report on how much of this is going to farmers and producers.

Asked if expansion of wheat planting would mean a greater benefit allotment program for farmers would lower bread prices, Ellender said he would not.

Only a small amount of wheat goes into a loaf of bread, he said, and "we have an ample amount of wheat on hand for our own consumption."

PRESIDENT NAMED
ISLAND PARK, Idaho (AP)—A Preston Judge, O. D. Robinson, took charge of the final meeting of the Idaho Probate Judges Association at Mack's Inn Friday after being elected president of the organization.

The three-day meetings ended Friday with the organization picking Challis for its 1967 meeting.

ACCEPTS POST
POCATELLO (AP)—Mark E. Anderson, recently concerned with real estate in the Mormon Church building department and the practicing Salt Lake City attorney, has accepted a position with the John Birch Society as full-time coordinator for the state of Idaho.

Anderson's duties will include coordinating all society activities in Idaho, he said. He said the society would not endorse or support any political candidate, but individual members of the society may do so.

3 INDICTED
BOISE (AP)—A Pocatello bank teller and her private detective husband and a bartender were indicted Friday by a federal grand jury on charges of stealing and embezzling $6,000 from a Pocatello bank.

Mrs. Verna Robinson, 31, her husband, Willis, 39, and Buddy Lee Welch, 28, were indicted in connection with the theft of the money from the Alameda-branch of First Security Bank where Mrs. Robinson worked.

The grand jury charged her with aiding in the theft and with embezzling the money, Robinson and Welch were charged with stealing the money, and all three were charged with conspiracy and with concealing the money.

BODY RECOVERED
MARSING, Idaho (AP)—The body of a 12-year-old boy who was drowned while trying to swim from a Snake River island has been found by Idaho Air National Guard pilots and recovered.

The body of Eugene Werreson of Mr. and Mrs. Ruben Werres, was spotted Friday about four miles downstream from where he drowned Wednesday afternoon.

BUYS COMPANY
BOISE (AP)—An official of the Continental Life and Accident Co. of Boise said Friday his firm had purchased a Nevada life insurance company for $500,000 cash.

Continental President W. H. Langlois said the firm had bought the First Life Insurance Co. of Las Vegas.

First Life, Langlois said, had about $5 million worth of insurance in force and $438,113. He said the merger would give Continental 257 million worth of insurance in force.

REVEALS PLANS
POCATELLO (AP)—Retiring State Sen. Perry Swisher, R-Bannock, said Saturday he has no plans to run as an independent candidate for governor in the November election.

Reports have circulated that Swisher was considering seeking the governorship since the primary election. But he said he intended to run as an independent candidate for the U. S. House of Representatives from the second congressional district, as announced earlier. He will face incumbent Republican George Hansen and Democrat A. W. (Bill) Brunt.

STAGE PROTEST
BOISE (AP)—A disc jockey for a Boise radio station and about 50 other persons Friday staged a "Beats burning" session in a Boise suburb and burned recordings made by the popular British singing group, The Beatles, of radio station KATN.

KATN had said he would replace all Beatles records burned in his bookstore ceremony with recordings of other artists.

The burning session was in response to a report that John Lennon, one of the Beatles, had said his group was "more popular than Jesus." A "Ban the Beatles" campaign was started a few days ago by a Birmingham, Ala., radio station.

Kimberly Woman Wins Auto in National Contest

KIMBERLY — It was with a prize for her entry in an International Grocers Association (IGA) essay contest. Mrs. Persons, the only prize winner in the Magic Valley area, submitted an essay dealing with her reasons for liking IGA health and beauty aids.

A total of 40 prizes were given for winning essays in the national contest. Mrs. Persons was one of ten winners of the Mustangs. Mink coats, color televisions sets and black and white sets also were given as prizes.

Mrs. Persons noted that she was "dumbfounded" when Leo Campeau, sales supervisor for IGA in Magic Valley, told her that her name was listed among the 40 prize winners. "I just didn't believe him," she said.

The contest was held in connection with the 40th anniversary celebration. Mrs. Persons entered the non-foods division. One week after being notified of her prize, Mrs. Persons traveled by train to Chicago, Ill., to attend IGA's 40th national convention. She drove her red Mustang back.

Miss Rodeo Idaho Contest Planned at Fair

The Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo will have the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest this year to add sparkle to the event's 50th anniversary celebration.

Canada Attracts More Americans

SAN FRANCISCO—More than 15,000 United States citizens and residents moved to Canada in 1965, as compared to 12,500 for 1964, reports F. M. Noram, officer-in-charge of the Canadian Immigration Service.

Millions of persons from the United States vacation in Canada each year, and many eventually move there to live. They are attracted by the unlimited opportunities in almost every field of endeavor, the slower pace of life and excellent recreational facilities relatively uncrowded.

Information on working and

Warren Barry, president of the fair board, announced the appointment of Gene Hull as general chairman for the event.

Working with him will be Mrs. Dean (Alma) Vickers, appearance; Mrs. Jerry James, personality; and Jack Windsor, horsemanship.

Mrs. James, the former Karen Lavens of Jerome, was winner of the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest several years ago and later won the Miss Rodeo America pageant at Las Vegas.

The girl selected as this year's Miss Rodeo Idaho at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo will compete at the national contest.

Living conditions and opportunities in employment is available from the Canadian Government Immigration Service, 333 Montgomery St., San Francisco, Calif., 94104.

Dates for the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo are Sept. 7-10. Girls entered in the Miss Rodeo Idaho competition will ride during the nightly rodeo performances.

Filer Baptists Slate Vacation Bible Classes

FILER—Vacation Bible School for the First Baptist Church will begin Monday and continue through Aug. 14, announces Rev. Glen Parish, pastor.

Classes will be held from 1:30 to 4 p.m. each day except Saturday and Sunday, when special programs will be presented. A picnic is set Aug. 13 at the Fairgrounds at which awards will be presented to children with perfect attendance for the seven days.

Four-year-olds through sixth-

Winner of the event, will receive, among other prizes, a $600 custom-made Circle Y saddle donated by Vickers Saddlery, Twin Falls.

To be eligible to enter the Miss Rodeo Idaho contest, entrants must have been selected as queen of a fair or rodeo within the state. Entries must be in by Aug. 25.

Entrants are invited to enroll. Mrs. Joseph Miller is director of the classes. There will be Bible study and crafts, with a recreation period led by Mrs. Ivana Kistler. Refreshments will be provided by women of the church.

A display of the pupils' study and work starts at 8 p.m. Aug. 14 at the church sanctuary.

Parents wishing to enroll their children may pre-register from 10 a.m. to noon Sunday at the church.

Hull already has received numerous inquiries from girls wishing to enter the contest. It is expected to draw a large field of Idaho's finest young horsewomen.

Entrants will arrive in Twin Falls on Wednesday of rodeo week and will keep a strenuous schedule of banquets, teas and horsemanship competition, until the final night when the new Miss Rodeo Idaho will be crowned.

Reigning queen is Harriet Sharp, Nampa.

Case Actions Reported by Local Court

During District Court criminal proceedings Friday, one man pleaded guilty of forgery, another's case was remanded to Police Court for preliminary hearing, another entered a plea of not guilty to non-support of a minor child, and one man was given a week to retain an attorney.

Ralph Buhl, Twin Falls, pleaded guilty of forgery, and Judge Theron Ward ordered a presentencing investigation. Buhl was charged in connection with a $35.25 forged check cashed at Shelby's Market earlier this year. Buhl is in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

James E. Anderson, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, requested his case be taken back to police court for preliminary hearing. Anderson was charged with the offense after Mrs. Elizabeth Garcia, Twin Falls, was stabbed in the face with a broken beer glass July 5 at the St. Regis Bar.

Leland Hoshaw, Twin Falls, charged with non-support of a minor child, pleaded innocent and the court ordered a date to be set for a jury trial. Hoshaw is free on $200 bond.

Arvel Vann, 52, Twin Falls, charged with lewd acts including a minor child in connection with the molestation of his 10-year-old daughter and another minor child, was given another week to get an attorney. Vann had been given several delays prior to last Friday's court appearance. He is in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

Enrollment In Vocation School Grows

Gerald Mavroff, vocational guidance counselor, Area Vocational School, College of Southern Idaho, announced Saturday that enrollment at the college has accelerated greatly in the last few weeks.

"Many of our courses are near capacity," he said, "but the construction this summer has almost doubled our classroom and shop area and has allowed us to handle effectively more students than were originally planned."

Courses still open for enrollment include automotive body and fender repair, mid-management, farm equipment technology, law enforcement, agricultural business, welding, radio-television technology, and electrical appliances repair.

Those interested in enrolling in classes may contact the Area Vocational School, 1300 Kimberly Road, or phone 733-8495.

Beatles Still Sounding Off In Words Without Music

LONDON (AP) — The embattled Beatles kept sounding off Saturday in words without music.

One of the mop-haired millionaires told a British radio audience he had found the American people's pursuit of money "sort of frightening." Another said he wasn't really looking forward to their new tour of the United States beginning next week — "We've got to go and get beaten up in America." For good measure, he said Britain was becoming a police state.

Beatles Paul McCartney and George Harrison got into the act even while manager Brian Epstein was in the United States trying to quiet a revolt against a coming invasion by his group.

The revolt stemmed from published remarks of chief Beatle John Lennon that the group was "more popular than Jesus."

Usually loud drummer Ringo Starr has been the silent one of late.

The Beatles' press office rushed out a bulletin saying Lennon was "deeply interested in religion" and that what he meant was this: "That in the last 50 years the church in England and therefore Christ had suffered decline in interest. He did not mean to boast about the Beatles' fame."

Rain, Hail Pellet Texas, Minnesota

By The Associated Press
Heavy winds, hail and rain struck portions of Minnesota Saturday and a cloudburst brought 4 1/2 inches of rain down on a government base near Houston, Tex.

Utility lines were downed in the Brainerd, Minn., area by a wind and hail storm.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued for eastern South Dakota and southern Minnesota.

A tornado was sighted near Leola, S.D., and three funnel clouds were seen in the Aberdeen, S.D., area. No reports were received of damages.

The midday cloudburst hit Ellington Air Force Base near Houston. Nearly 4 1/2 inches of rain poured down on the area in less than one hour.

Two inches of rain fell at Lafayette, La., and more than 1 inch fell at Lake Charles, La. Thunderstorms, which had paraded through North Dakota Friday, moved into northern Minnesota and pushed into upper Michigan. Heavy winds, rain and sometimes hail fell over wide sections of the north country.

Hiroshima Bombing Is Noted

By The Associated Press
Persons protesting American involvement in the Viet Nam war observed the 21st anniversary of the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima Saturday with demonstrations in several cities, including one near the Washington church in which the President's daughter was married.

A small group carrying placards and a miniature black coffin picketed about 100 yards from the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, where Luc Baines Johnson wed Patrick J. Nugent.

William Higgs, a spokesman for the marchers, said it was "in very bad taste" for the daughter of a president to get married on the anniversary of the Hiroshima bombing.

In 1945 an American B29 dropped an atomic bomb on human beings for the first time. Japanese officials estimate the death toll at 200,000, but Americans placed it at 50,000.

Police in New York kept demonstrators separated from advocates of American policy in Viet Nam. The two groups engaged in a shouting match in Times Square.

More than 2,000 persons participated in a march along Seventh Avenue and Broadway. Later they marched to Rockefeller Center for a demonstration in front of the headquarters of a company which makes napalm.

"Burn the Reds!" they shouted across Times Square. The antiwar protesters chanted back: "One, two, three, four. Bring the boys back from war."

At Niagara Falls, Ont., police warned 500 persons about stopping cars to hand out leaflets at the foot of a bridge linking the U.S. and Canada.

The leaflets, addressed "To our American visitors" on one side, and "To fellow Canadians" on the other side, expressed disapproval of U.S. actions in Viet Nam and equal disdain for the Canadian government's support of such actions.

Small delegations from the two nations met in the middle of the bridge to shake hands. They then departed.

The hustle and bustle of everyday living and the busy schedule outlined for cast members of the Antique Festival Theater were left behind for a short time the other evening while the performers had a night out.

Hosts for this relaxing evening, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Erkins, held a fish fry at their home, the perfect setting for an enjoyable relaxing social.

More than 100 persons attended the gathering and took advantage of the beautiful surroundings for a tour of the fish hatchery processing plant and ponds.

Three large charcoal grills were used to cook enough fish for the large group. Erkins, official chef, cooked the fish to just the right turn, while Mrs. Erkins was busy keeping the salad bowls filled and adding more hot rolls to the bun warmer.

Special guests at the gathering were Mr. and Mrs. Vardis Fisher, Hagerman, and family members of the cast.

The three Antique Festival Theater productions for this year are "The Twin Menachmi," "Tartuffe" and "Merry Wives of Windsor." To this writer one of the most amazing things about these productions is that rehearsals began only three weeks prior to the first performance.

In those three short weeks, however, practice was held every day. Evidently when the directors, Mrs. Aldrich (Di) Bowler, "The Twin Menachmi"; Bowler, "Tartuffe," and Paul Kliss, "Merry Wives of Windsor," say rehearse, that's exactly what they mean, as comments on the productions are most favorable.

While talking with Bowler he mentioned that 120 persons are involved in the making of the three plays this year.

The opening night for the Antique Festival Theater this year was July 15 and performances will continue through Aug. 28.

This schedule includes "The Twin Menachmi" by Plautus, Aug. 14, 20 and 26. "Tartuffe" by Moliere is scheduled Friday, Aug. 21 and 27. "The Merry Wives of Windsor" by Shakespeare, will be featured today, Saturday, Aug. 19 and 28. Curtain time for each performance is 8:30 p.m.

This is the third season for the Antique Festival Theater and Bowler stated "Reactions to the performances are on the positive side and we are looking forward to a big season."

Case Actions Reported by Local Court

During District Court criminal proceedings Friday, one man pleaded guilty of forgery, another's case was remanded to Police Court for preliminary hearing, another entered a plea of not guilty to non-support of a minor child, and one man was given a week to retain an attorney.

Ralph Buhl, Twin Falls, pleaded guilty of forgery, and Judge Theron Ward ordered a presentencing investigation. Buhl was charged in connection with a $96.25 forged check cashed at Shelby's Market earlier this year. Buhl is in jail in lieu of $1,000 bond.

James E. Anderson, charged with assault with a deadly weapon, requested his case be taken back to police court for preliminary hearing. Anderson was charged with the offense after Mrs. Elizabeth Garcia, Twin Falls, was stabbed in the face with a broken beer glass July 5 at the St. Regis Bar.

Leland Hoshaw, Twin Falls, charged with non-support of a minor child, pleaded innocent and the court ordered a date to be set for a jury trial. Hoshaw is free on $200 bond.

Arvel Vann, 52, Twin Falls, charged with lewd acts including a minor child in connection with the molestation of his 10-year-old daughter and another minor child, was given another week to get an attorney. Vann had been given several days prior to last Friday's court appearance. He is in jail in lieu of $10,000 bond.

Enrollment In Vocation School Grows

Gerald Mayerhoeffer, vocational guidance counselor of the Area Vocational School, College of Southern Idaho, announced Saturday that enrollment at the college has accelerated greatly in the last two weeks.

"Many of our courses are near capacity," he said, "but the construction this summer has almost doubled our classroom and shop area and has allowed us to handle effectively more students than were originally planned."

Courses still open for enrollment include automotive body and fender repair, mid-management, farm equipment technology, law enforcement, agricultural business, welding, radio-television technology, and electrical appliances repair.

Those interested in enrolling in classes may contact the Area Vocational School, 1300 Kimberly Road, or phone 733-8495.

Safeway Reveals Building Plans

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — A multi-million dollar construction program in the Intermountain region was announced Friday by Safeway Stores Inc.

The project includes a new store and warehouse in Salt Lake City and new stores in Logan, Utah and Evanston, Wyo. Already under construction are new stores in Twin Falls, Idaho and Elko, Nev.

Beatles Still Sounding Off In Words Without Music

LONDON (AP) — The embattled Beatles kept sounding off Saturday in words without music.

One of the mop-haired millionaires told a British radio audience he had found the American people's pursuit of money "sort of frightening."

Another said he wasn't really looking forward to their new beginning next week — "We've got to go and get beaten up in America." For good measure, he said Britain was becoming a police state.

Beatles Paul McCartney and George Harrison got into the act even while manager Brian Epstein was in the United States trying to quiet a revolt against a coming invasion by his group.

The revolt stemmed from public remarks of chief Beatle John Lennon that the group was "more popular than Jesus now."

Usually loud drummer Ringo Starr has been the silent one of late.

The Beatles' press office rushed out a bulletin saying Lennon was "deeply interested in religion" and that what he meant was this: "That in the last 50 years the church in England and therefore Christ had suffered decline in interest. He did not mean to boast about the Beatles' fame."

Rain, Hail Pellet Texas, Minnesota

By The Associated Press
Heavy winds, hail and rain struck portions of Minnesota Saturday and a cloudburst brought 4 1/2 inches of rain down on a government base near Houston, Tex.

Utility lines were downed in the Brainerd, Minn., area by a wind and hail storm.

Severe thunderstorm warnings were issued for eastern South Dakota and southern Minnesota.

A tornado was sighted near Leola, S.D., and three funnel clouds were seen in the Aberdeen, S.D., area. No reports were received of damages.

The midway cloudburst hit Ellington Air Force Base near Houston. Nearly 4 1/2 inches of rain poured down on the area in less than one hour.

Two inches of rain fell at Lafayette, La., and more than 1 inch fell at Lake Charles, La. Thunderstorms, which had paraded through North Dakota Friday, moved into northern Minnesota and pushed into upper Michigan. Heavy winds, rain and sometimes hail fell over wide sections of the north country.

Hiroshima Bombing Is Noted

By The Associated Press

Persons protesting American involvement in the Viet Nam war observed the 21st anniversary of the dropping of the atomic bomb on Hiroshima Saturday with demonstrations in several cities, including one near the Washington church in which the President's daughter was married.

A small group carrying placards and a miniature black coffin picketed about 100 yards from the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception, where Lucille Baines Johnson wed Patrick J. Nugent.

William Higgs, a spokesman for the marchers, said it was "in very bad taste" for the daughter of a president to get married on the anniversary of the Hiroshima bombing.

In 1945 an American B29 dropped an atomic bomb on human beings for the first time. Japanese officials estimated the death toll at 200,000, but Americans placed it at 50,000.

Police in New York kept demonstrators separated from advocates of American policy in Viet Nam. The two groups engaged in shouting match in Times Square.

More than 2,000 persons participated in a march along Seventh Avenue and Broadway. Later they marched to Rockefeller Center for a demonstration in front of the headquarters of a company which makes napalm. "Burn the Reds!" they shouted across Times Square. The antiwar protesters chanted back, "One, two, three, four bring the boys back from war" At Niagara Falls, Ont., police warned 600 persons about stopping cars to hand out leaflets at the foot of a bridge linking the U.S. and Canada.

The leaflets, addressed "To our American visitors" on one side, and "To fellow Canadians" on the other side, expressed disapproval of U.S. actions in Viet Nam and equal disdain for the Canadian government's support of such actions.

Small delegations from the two nations met in the middle of the bridge to shake hands. They then departed.

Gala Ball Set At Sun Valley To Raise Funds

SUN VALLEY — Vienna will come to Sun Valley Aug. 12 as the theme for a gala ball, "Vienna in Sun Valley," climaxes the summer season at the famed Idaho resort.

Funds raised from the occasion will go to the Foundation of Arts and Education Inc., a non-profit organization, established to increase the scholarship program of the Sun Valley Music Camp. The camp, which offers varied musical and dance instruction, has become one of Idaho's most successful new cultural ventures.

Those invited to the ball, from throughout the state, will attend a performance of the music camp faculty at 7 p.m. Aug. 12. After the concert, guests will be entertained at a champagne dinner and formal ball in the Sun Valley Lodge dining room. Later, there will be dancing on the lodge terrace to the music of Hap Miller's orchestra.

Guests will spend the evenings of both Aug. 12 and 13 in the new Sun Valley Lodge apartments and will have the opportunity to enjoy golf, fishing and tennis during the weekend.

General chairman of the Vienna Ball are Mrs. Nat J. Adams, Boise, and Mrs. James Kinney, Twin Falls.

MR. AND MRS. KEITH DENNIS

Miss Morrison, Dennis Are Wed In Local Rites

Pamela Morrison, daughter of Mrs. Alice Morrison, and the late Roy Morrison, became the bride of Keith Dennis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burr Dennis, all Twin Falls, in wedding rites conducted July 17 at the Twin Falls — Our Savior Lutheran Church.

Rev. John E. Speler, brother-in-law of the bride, officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Larry Morrison, wore a two-piece lace suit with a white crepe shell blouse and carried a bouquet of white daisies.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Larry Morrison, sister of the bride. Best man was John Dennis, brother of the bridegroom.

Candlelighter and usher was Roy Cordier, Sunnyside, Calif., brother-in-law of the bride. Debbie Speier, Ellise Speier and Janene Speier, nieces of the bride, sang a trio accompanied by Mrs. E. M. Graesch, Buhl.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Speier, sister of the bride, served the two-tiered wedding cake, decorated with yellow flowers and greenery and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The wedding cake centered a table covered with a hand made lace tablecloth over mint green cloth and was flanked by white tapers. Flower arrangements throughout the home were made by Mrs. John Speier.

Mrs. Mary Morrison served punch and coffee. Mrs. H. A. Abram, sister of the bride, was in charge of the guest book. Mrs. Roy Cordier, sister of the bride, assisted by Debbie Speier and Ellise Speier, arranged gifts.

Miss Matheney, Bevis Are Wed In Home Rites

EDEN — Patricia Matheney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Matheney, Eden, became the bride of Capt. James Bevis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Bevis, Laurenceville, N.J., July 16 in a wedding ceremony at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Matheney, Eden.

Rev. Raymond Wilson performed the double ring ceremony.

Soloist was Mrs. Deanie McDonald, accompanied by Mrs. Kenneth Henderson, who played the traditional wedding music.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a full length, gown of peau de sole with applied chantilly lace. Her shoulder length veil was held by small satin roses. She carried a bouquet of white roses and daisies with a cascade of ivy and white stephanotis.

Candlelighters were Deanna Matheney and Steve Hoogland. Matron of honor was Mrs. James Hoogland Jr., sister of the bride. Maid of honor was Karen Johnson. Flower girl was Jill Hoogland.

Best man was James Hoogland Jr., and ushers were Max Durk and Austin Matheney.

The patio was decorated with baskets of white daisies. Background for the ceremony was formed by greenery with sprays of white daisies and candelabra with white tapers.

A reception was held after the ceremony at the Matheney home. A three-tiered white wedding cake was decorated with yellow roses. Lace bells adorned the top.

Mrs. Ralph McClain cut and served the cake. Mrs. Milford Jones poured punch and Dana Andrews served coffee.

Margaret McClain arranged the gift table. A rehearsal dinner was given for the bridal party by Mrs. Joseph Bevis at the Ponderosa Inn, Burley.

Out of town guests attended from Grangeville, Mountain

Home, Hammett, Buhl, Kendrick, Filer, Sacramento, Calif.; New Jersey, and Berlin, Germany.

The newlyweds will reside at Laurenceville, N. J., where Bevis, a captain in the Air Force, is stationed for three months, after which the couple will move to Albany.

The bride is a graduate of the been teaching in the Sacramento school system during the past year.

STORAGE TIPS GIVEN

CHICAGO — As the time approaches for a fall change-over in wardrobes, don't neglect the care of summer clothing. Making the proper preparations for its "winter vacation" will pay dividends next summer. Most important, never store a garment that hasn't been cleaned first.

USES GIVEN FOR BAGS

NEW YORK — For a day's outing at the beach, take along several plastic bags. They'll keep the sand out of your sun tan lotion and sandwiches and the dampness out of your transistor radio and playing cards. Then, when it is time to pack up and head for home, they make excellent tote-bags for wet bathing suits.

Illness Is Fatal for J. M. Avelar

RUPERT — Joseph Muckado Avelar, 74, longtime area farmer and sheepman, died Friday at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, Twin Falls, of a short illness.

He was born Nov. 13, 1891, at Santa Cruz, Flores Island, Azores, and came to the United States in 1904 from there. In 1913 he came to the Paul-Rupert area from Mountain Home. On Jan. 9, 1918, he married Antulana Jerome at Oakland, Calif. She died May 5, 1953, in Rupert.

Mr. Avelar married Mrs. Helen Q. Grace, Oct. 13, 1953, at Rupert. He belonged to St. Nicholas Catholic Church, was a past grand knight of Knights of Columbus, past master of the Pioneer Grange and was on the Paul Electric Co. board of directors for 20 years. He served the Minidoka Lamb and Wool Pool for 35 years and was treasurer much of that time.

Survivors include his widow, one daughter, Mrs. Norman (Mamie) Smith, Elmsburg, Wash., five brothers, A. M. Avelar, Sonoma, Calif.; John M. Avelar, San Leandro, Calif.; Frank M. Avelar, South San Francisco; Victor M. Avelar, Mesa, Ariz., and Lewis M. Avelar, Nampa; two sisters, Mrs. Eulalia Silva, San Leandro, and Mrs. Louise Peppone, Alameda, Calif., and four grandchildren.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Walk Mortuary Chapel. Requiem High Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. Wednesday at St. Nicholas Catholic Church by Rev. Malachy McNeill. Final rites are scheduled in the Paul Cemetery. Donations are suggested to the Knights of Columbus. They may be left at the church.

DEMAND REJECTED
NEW DELHI, India (AP) — A Communist demand that a controversial proposal for a $300-million Indian-American education foundation be abandoned at Holliester, at 12:50 p.m. north, was rejected Friday by a voice vote in Parliament.

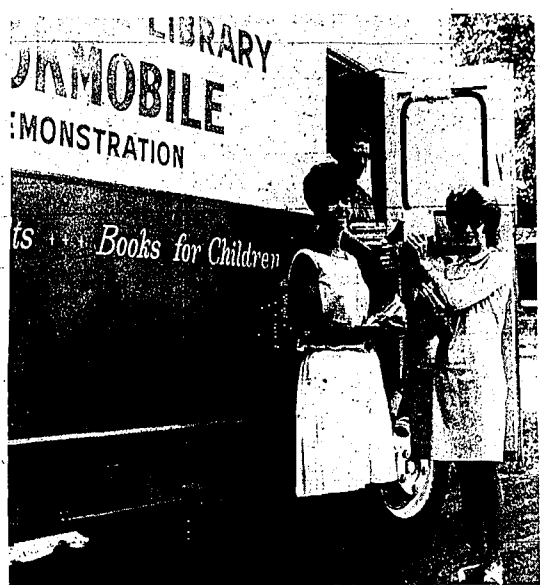

It's a breeze--to wear these support stockings in summer

So lovely and light, you forget you're wearing support hosiery. And no one else ever suspects—unless the wind lifts your skirt and shows the name fling!

That's the thing about fling—it supports you in secret. And blissfully snug fit. No sag. No pull at the top or the toe, even in puffy-foot weather. You'll discover the summertime comfort of fling support hosiery with amazement. Sheer movement.

Several Magic Valley Areas to Be Visited by Bookmobile During August

Citizens of Idaho's unincorporated areas that have no library service will soon be able to have this service brought to them via a blue-and-white bookmobile, which will make its first run Saturday around the Magic Valley area, according to Robert R. Bruce, director of the Magic Valley Library Demonstration.

There are five routes planned for the bookmobile, Bruce said. The first one will be Saturday, when the bookmobile stops at 9 a.m. in Accquia, 10:20 a.m. in Minidoka, Norland at 1:20 p.m., Hazelton at 2:50 p.m. and Eden at 4 p.m.

The second route will begin Aug. 16, when the bookmobile will stop at 9:30 a.m. in Pica, at 10:45 a.m. in Gannett, in Carey at 12:15 p.m. at 1:45 at Timmerman Lodge and in Dietrich at 3:50 p.m.

The third route will begin Aug. 17, at 10 a.m. at Artesian City on the Biggerstaff farm, at 11:50 a.m. in Mortgag, at 1:50 p.m. on the Glen Breeding farm in Miller Dam and at 3:15 p.m. in Hansen.

The fourth is Aug. 18 at 9:30 a.m. at Rogerson, at 10:50 a.m. at Hollister, at 12:50 p.m. north, was rejected Friday by a voice vote in Parliament.

and at 3:30 p.m. west of Filer at a locale to be selected; The fifth route is Aug. 24, at 9:30 a.m. in Palmer Service Center, at 11:10 a.m. in Bliss, at 1 p.m. in Tuttle, at 2:30 p.m. in West Point and at 3:30 p.m. in Orchard Valley.

Three additional routes still are in the planning stage, Bruce said, and they will be announced at a later date.

The Magic Valley Library Demonstration is a cooperative effort to bring library service to all parts of Magic Valley.

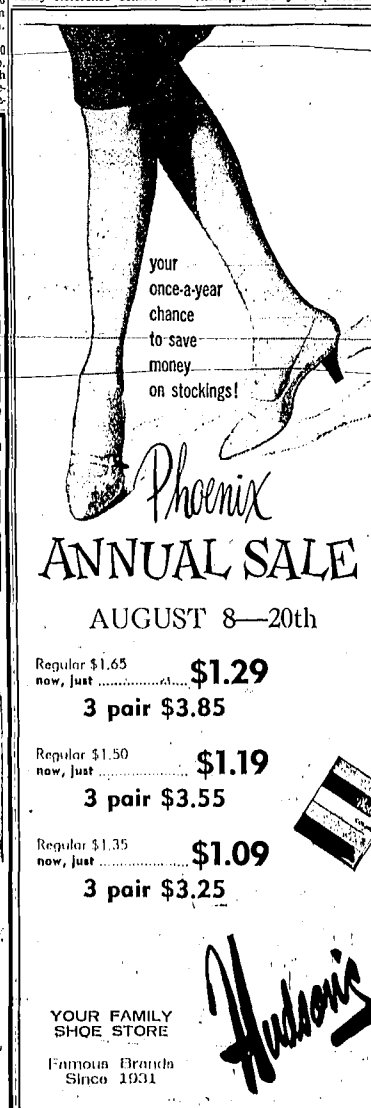

The demonstration is sponsored by the Idaho State Library and is financed by funds granted under the Library Services Act. It has been organized by the librarians and the Boards of Trustees of the public libraries of Bellevue, Buhl, Burley, Gooding, Jerome, Oakley, Rupert, Shoshone and Twin Falls. These libraries comprise the Magic Valley Reference Center.

Books for readers of all ages will be made available, Bruce noted. There will be no cost to the counties, served by this demonstration, he added.

The bookmobile librarians will look up required information at headquarters and arrange for interlibrary loans of books not available through the Magic Valley libraries.

Persons interested in getting some form of library service for their communities or who have suggestions for bookmobile stops should write or telephone Bruce, or the Supervisor of Extension Services, Jeanne Flowers, 633-2964.

Test Set on Willingness to Cut Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans are preparing to test in the Senate the Johnson administration's willingness to hold down new expenditures as a brake on inflation.

Announcing this Saturday, Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois said GOP members would demand roll-call votes on $490 million in increases made by the House in Health, Education and Welfare funds.

"We're going to see where the administration stands on spending so the people will know where to put the blame, for inflation," Dirksen said in an interview. "Up to this point President Johnson certainly hasn't been anything to block the increases Congress is making in his budget requests."

Johnson lectured about 50 members of Congress recently on the need for economy. But Dirksen said he had found no evidence of any intensive follow-up on this.

The President, of course, could decline to spend some of the money that Congress votes. But few believe he would cut programs such as those administered by the Health, Education and Welfare Department.

Johnson's threat Friday to reduce the space program if price increases continue in basic commodities was interpreted in Congress generally as telling allied industries they had better not follow the steel-price boost.

The HEW money bill is likely to be boosted higher than the House total of $10.573 billion before it gains final Senate approval.

Most of the House increases were accounted for in education funds, which are popular among members of Congress. In Congress there is widespread belief that Johnson never expected reductions he proposed in these funds to stand.

The House added $232.8 million to the $183.4 million he asked for payments to school districts in so-called impacted areas where federal employees' children have taxed educational facilities.

It tacked $157.8 million on his request for $273.5 million for defense educational activities, mostly for the student-loan program. Johnson originally proposed that this be supplanted by a system of government insurance for such loans made by private lenders.

Because of the nature of these increases, Republicans enter a similar lack of any presidential pressure to prevent budget-busting increases in NEW funds would be seized upon by Republicans to support their contention that the Democratic administration was not doing anything effective to prevent inflation.

Dirksen and House Minority Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan are whooping-up the issue, and GOP Senate and House capable of putting on to get his side are talking about it all over the country.

Girl Recovers Following Rescue

BAR HARBOR, Maine (AP) — Marja Kiwerska, 18, of Fitchburg, Mass., is recovering today from exhaustion after being rescued from the shelter of a Champagne Mountain where she was trapped for 10 hours.

Rangers at Acadia National Park rescued the girl Friday by attaching ropes to her and hauling her 200 feet to the top of the mountain.

T. J. Lloyd Speaks to Area Lodge

WENDELL — T. J. Lloyd, member of Twin Falls 100F Lodge No. 28 and Past Grand Master of Idaho, was featured speaker for the Thursday meeting of Wendell Lodge No. 131.

Lloyd, who is past 80 years of age and a member of long standing, spoke on "Old Fellowship."

Elmer Jordan, noble grand, introduced the speaker, and other guests who included Guy H. Lemmon, member of Hagerman Lodge No. 57, an Odd Fellow for 66 years; George H. Lemmon, noble grand of Hagerman Lodge; Ben Taylor, Hagerman, and M. Z. Stansbury, Twin Falls.

Scientists Are to Share Atom Award

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three European scientists who pioneered in atom-splitting research were named Friday to share the Atomic Energy Commission's Fermi Award.

They are Prof. Otto Hahn, 87, who lives in Goettingen, West Germany; Prof. Lise Meitner, 87, a Vienna native who worked many years in Germany and now lives in England; and Prof. Fritz Strassmann, 64, director of the Institute of Inorganic and Nuclear Chemistry at Mainz University, Mainz, West Germany.

Each will receive a gold medal, a citation and a one-third share of the $50,000 cash award.

Prof. Meitner is the first woman to receive the award, created in 1954. It was named for the late Dr. Enrico Fermi, leader of the group of scientists who achieved the first nuclear chain reaction in Chicago in 1942.

Nearly four years before that achievement, on Jan. 6, 1938, Hahn and Strassmann published results of experiments showing that the nucleus of a uranium atom can be split.

About the same time, Prof. Meitner reported to associates a belief that a uranium nucleus was sometimes split by absorption of a neutron, with a reaction accompanied by release of enormous quantities of energy.

J. McKevitt's Funeral Set

RUPERT — Funeral services for John Owen McKevitt, 77, who died Thursday at Mindoka Memorial Hospital of a short illness, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday in the First Methodist Church by Rev. A. M. Thomas.

Mr. McKevitt was born Dec. 18, 1889, at Kansas City, Mo., and came to Rupert in 1904 from Butte, Mont. On May 12, 1914, he married Osie J. Adams at Rupert. Mr. McKevitt was a retired city employee.

Survivors include his widow, Rupert; two daughters, Steven (Edwina) Antone and Mrs. Elwood (Dorothy) Hendrick, both Rupert; two brothers, Edward McKevitt, Quincy, Calif., and Richard McKevitt, address unknown; one sister, Mrs. Nonie Pfeiffer, Caracas, Venezuela, and four grandchildren.

Friends may call at Walk Mortuary Chapel Sunday afternoon and evening, and on Monday until 8 a.m. The funeral suggests contributions to the Methodist church. Final rites are scheduled in Rupert Cemetery.

Milnerettes Attend Event

MILNER — Members of the Milnerettes 4-H Club and their leader, Mrs. Edwin Bruen, attended the Cassia County Achievement Day Thursday afternoon in Burley.

Janet Seymour furnished the bread to be judged. Members learned about child care, breakfast menus, fabric selection and seam selection. Younger members judged table placing, article stitching and choosing materials. Jean Ellen Collins, county demonstration agent, gave pointers on modeling and Lily Meiners showed members how to model.

Final plans were made for the club's Achievement Day set Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Bruen.

Course Slated

SIDWORTH — A six-week course for nurses aides will be held at St. Benedict's hospital starting in September.

Interested women or girls in Lincoln County are asked to contact the Director of Nurses, Mrs. Betty Clark, at the hospital. Students need not be high school graduates to enroll.

"Against" Votes Finally Defeated Smylie

By EARLE L. JESTER

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Robert E. Smylie, who has profited from "against" votes in the past, was beaten by them today against his long term in office.

Those votes were cast by Republicans and Democrats.

But because the ballot is secret in America, it is impossible to determine, individually, who cast them.

Withdrawal Asked at Old Custer Site

BOISE — A request to withdraw about 29 acres of land in the Challis National Forest for the preservation of the old town site of Custer has been submitted to the Bureau of Land Management.

Forest Service officials making the request point out that the old town of Custer, first established in 1876, contains items of historical value which should be preserved. An old schoolhouse now serving as a museum, one dwelling and two other buildings in need of repair still stand. More than 7,000 visits were recorded at the museum in 1955, according to the records.

Purchase of the museum, historical artifacts and other buildings on the site is being negotiated by the Forest Service. Plans call for some restoration of the area, and construction of a new museum, two dwellings, a warehouse and a picnic area.

The proposal to withdraw the area for a historical site temporarily bans prospecting and locating of mining claims pending action by the Department of Interior. A 30-day waiting period is provided during which written comments or objections may be submitted to the Land Office, Bureau of Land Management, P. O. Box 2237, Boise.

CHAMBER TO MEET SHOSHONE — The Chamber of Commerce will meet at 12:30 p.m. Monday at the Manhattan cafe.

Statistics indicate there were many who have voted Democratic in the past who voted Republican in Idaho's election last Tuesday. Some Democrats openly have acknowledged that they did.

But there are Republicans, too, who cast their votes more against Smylie, than for Don Samuelson, the North Idaho state senator and business man who won the Republican nomination.

Twelve years in an office which dispenses more party patronage than any other job are certain to bring enemies, and Smylie had them — within and without his own Republican party.

Whether his strong backing of the sales tax was a factor in his defeat is uncertain. It undoubtedly played a part. But the only candidate for governor who openly opposed the sales tax, Democrat William J. Dee, failed to win.

Smylie's defeat will bring a tremendous upheaval in Idaho's government, regardless of whether a Republican or a Democrat wins election in November.

The newly enacted merit system law will prevent the Statehouse "cleansing" otherwise would be possible. But whether a Republican or Democrat wins in November, the pressure from his supporters will be such that he almost certainly will reward them with appointments to the other times.

Actually, for many voters there is no crossover. The voter who lacks strong party allegiance to either party will vote the primary ballot of the party in which he has the most interest at the time.

Idaho long has been a state with a large volume of voters who sometimes voted for one party, sometimes for another, and often "for the candidate" rather than for the party.

Unofficial returns from last Tuesday's voting show that about 7,000 more Republican ballots were cast for governor than for lieutenant governor — yet there were contests for both offices.

Some of those 7,000 votes could have been cast by persons normally calling themselves Democrats. But some could have been cast by the voter who, simply, was more interested in the race for governor — and who never had heard of the lieutenant governor candidates.

It is impossible for a voter to cast a split ballot in the primary. He must vote either for all Democrats or all Republicans. He gets ballots for both parties when he reports to the voting place, but he must put one in the box of votes to be counted and the other in a discard box.

Some of those 7,000 votes could have been cast by persons normally calling themselves Democrats. But some could have been cast by the voter who, simply, was more interested in the race for governor — and who never had heard of the lieutenant governor candidates.

Agency Hit With Charge Of Negligence

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A suit has been filed in U. S. District Court charging the Federal Aviation Agency with negligence in the crash of an Edde Airlines DC3 last Nov. 27.

Thirteen persons died when the plane smashed into the side of a hill between Salt Lake City and Provo.

The suit, filed by Jeanne B. Dalton of Salt Lake City, asks $800,000. Her husband, Dr. Anthony A. Dalton, was one of 10 Brigham Young University football fans flying to Albuquerque to see a football game.

In the suit, the FAA was charged with failure to provide the plane with adequate weather information.

Earlier this week, the Civil Aeronautics Board ruled the crash was a result of attempted visual flight under poor weather conditions.

Earlier, survivors of another victim filed a $1.25 million suit against federal agencies as a result of the crash.

Johnson Is Criticized by Two Solons

YAKIMA (AP) — U.S. Reps. Catherine May and Thomas Pelly lambasted President Johnson's domestic program Saturday and criticized his handling of the Viet Nam war.

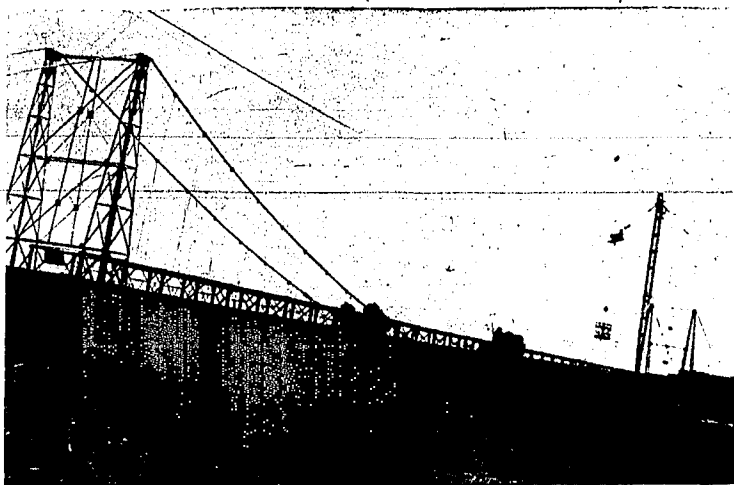

In addresses to the Republican state convention by telephone from Washington, D.C., Mrs. May charged the Democrats with budgetary irresponsibility and corruption on the home front, and Pelly accused the Johnson administration of failing to give the public the full story on the Viet Nam war.

Delegates to the convention adopted a plank in the state platform calling upon the administration to step up our military effort to bring the Viet Nam war to an early victory.

Before entering the convention hall, the delegates were confronted by youthful pickets carrying signs attacking Gov. Dan Evans and Republican State Chairman C. Montgomery Johnson.

The pickets, who declined to say who hired them, paraded before the convention hall — a Yakima theater — and through the lobbies of the leading hotel where delegates were staying.

South Viet Nam Commando Force Uses Same Terrorist Tactics as Viet Cong

By HORST FAAS
AP Photographer

MOC HOA, South Viet Nam (AP) — When the 60 raiders pulled out, the village smoldered in ruins and 40 water buffalo lay dead or dying in pools of blood.

Someone has to do the dirty work," said an officer.

The devastation had been wrought by South Viet Nam's "kull and crossbone" commandos whose shoulder patch is the pirate flag and who repay Communist terrorism with kidnapping, assassination and scorched-earth tactics.

Created earlier this year, the force now numbers about 2,500 South Vietnamese. Most provinces have several 12-man commando teams to be used any way the province chiefs want to use them.

Like the Communists, they specialize in terror. They often kill rather than take prisoners. If they trap a Viet Cong tax collecting unit, they may kill all except one.

"One must tell the story," a commando explained. "We must spread terror. By spreading terror, we hope to counter terror."

This was their avowed purpose when they destroyed Can Den, a tiny village separated from Cambodia by a 20-foot canal in the Plain of Reeds west of Saigon. A captured Viet Cong dentist had told interrogators the area contained a primitive jungle medical school and a weapons factory.

The villagers had to pay the price of collaboration. When the 60 raiders leaped from their helicopters, they quickly found the school and weapons center, which included a huge, hot charcoal stove to melt metal for hand grenades.

Most of the villagers ran off into Cambodia, but the commandos caught two girls near the weapons factory. The commando chief ordered them executed "as an example to all those who help the Viet Cong."

But the commander of the village's regional force unit claimed his men had captured the girls first and insisted that they be spared. They were eventually put on a helicopter for questioning in the province capital.

The commandos should operate alone, not with us," said the regional forces captain.

"The things they do are not what we do. They are unconventional. Better they do it alone."

Gal 2 Commandos Btl.

The raiders went into every corner of the village and found a few women huddled in huts with their children. They poked rifles at the women demanding information on the whereabouts of the village men.

Every fowl and animal in sight was killed.

When 40 water buffalo lumbered up, the commandos fired several grenades into the herd. Within 15 minutes the commando leader and two men had killed or maimed every buffalo — each representing about a year's income for a Vietnamese peasant.

The commandos set every dwelling in the village on fire. A woman tried to rescue some clothing from a burning house, but a commando grabbed the bundle and threw it back into the flames.

These people must remember that supporting the Viet Cong can do them no good," a member of the expedition said.

The daring, ruthless force has been recruited from army veterans, mercenaries and adventurers. Americans often serve in an advisory capacity, as they do with other Vietnamese units, but the Vietnamese give the orders.

Much of the commando program remains secret — even the official name has not been announced — but it is based on the old idea of an eye for an eye, a tooth for a tooth. When the Viet Cong assassinate a government village chief, there may be a murder the next night in a Viet Cong village.

In their program of terror, the Viet Cong have killed or kidnapped 2,800 government officials since January, 1964, government figures show. In May alone, the government says, 115 officials were assassinated and 115 abducted.

The commandos were created to demonstrate to the Viet Cong that terrorism is a two-way street.

"If the Viet Cong think they know what destruction is," said a noncommissioned officer, "let them see what we can do."

Utah to Probe Bread Price Hike

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Atty. Gen. Phil Hansen said Friday his office is planning to investigate an announced increase in bread prices.

Hansen said any agreement to simultaneously increase bread prices by producers or suppliers would constitute price fixing and his office would prosecute.

Earlier this week the attorney general's office and the U. S. Department of Justice began an investigation of recent milk price hikes.

Are there really any sound reasons for buying a Chevrolet in August?

During August, it's as easy to own a Big Air 4-Door Sedan as getting in the car.

Wait till you see how sporty you look sitting in your Impala Super Sport.

In a word: Six

1. Have you ever known the instant delight of selecting a new Impala Super Sport in the color you want, slipping into its Strato-bucket seats, and driving it home from the showroom the same day? Now's your chance. Your Chevrolet dealer has a big choice of models on hand with small August price tags.
2. More than likely, your present car will never be worth as much in trade as it is right now. Money—another good reason to buy a Chevrolet this month.
3. Read those articles about when to buy a new car and they'll tell you that August is one of the best months. And your Chevrolet dealer is ready to show you why...with buys that are better than ever.
4. If you think winter's tough on an old car, believe us, so is summer. There's added strain on the engine because of more vacation driving, greater tire wear. The cooling system has to work extra hard. A new Chevrolet Impala or Big Air now can save you a lot of trouble.
5. You do a lot of driving for pleasure so why not ride on Chevrolet's Full Coil suspension. Let your feet feel that deep-twist Chevrolet carpeting. August is to enjoy.
6. Make your summer driving safer driving by taking advantage of the eight standard safety features built into every new Chevrolet. If your present car doesn't have seat belts, front and rear; back-up lights; an outside rear-view mirror; padded instrument panel and visors, look into a new Chevrolet.

Tight Money Reflected in Interest Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The currently tight money market is being reflected among other places—in the high interest rates now offered by at least two federal agencies.

The Federal National Mortgage Association, also known as Fannie Mae, is offering for sale $300 million in debentures at the highest interest rate it has placed on any type of security.

The 5.25 per cent interest offered by the Treasury Department on new long-term securities issues in exchange for those about to mature is the highest rate it has offered in 45 years.

Fannie Mae is offering the debentures at 5 1/4 per cent interest rate to increase the money it will be able to make available to the home mortgage market.

Last June, Fannie Mae offered its previous high interest rate—5.75 per cent on certificates of participation. These are securities backed by pools of government loans and mortgages owned by the government.

The debentures offered for sale Friday are written in denominations as low as $1,000. The issue will be dated Aug. 23 and mature Sept. 10, 1968.

Former Pilot Slammed for Re-Enlisting

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A retired Army helicopter pilot who was wounded in two wars said Saturday he is receiving telephone calls denouncing him because he wants to rejoin the service.

Walter L. Green said he has been called a "killer, savage, gangster" and "a tool of Wall Street" because he wants to sell his doughnut shop and re-enlist.

"One woman called at 5 o'clock in the morning," he said, "awoke me out of a sound sleep, and said: 'You're going over there and shoot down all those poor defenseless women and children.'"

The Defense Department asked Green, 47, and a bachelor, to re-enlist because helicopter pilots are needed badly. Green said he probably will be sent to Viet Nam if he re-enlists.

He received Purple Hearts for two wounds received in World War II and another received in the Korean conflict. A 24-year veteran, he retired as a major in the Army Reserve in 1964.

Conference Of Ministers Postponed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The conference of hemisphere foreign ministers in Argentina has been postponed because it threatened a deep split in the Organization of American States.

Man Arrested For Kidnaping

MCMINNVILLE, Ore. (AP) — City police have arrested Richard Apodaca, 28, who is charged in Ontario, Ore., with kidnaping and assaulting a 9-year-old girl.

The girl said the man forced her into his car in Ontario July 15, drove to Idaho where the assault took place and released her later in Ontario.

Apodaca was arrested Friday night in McMinnville. He was being held in the county jail for Ontario officials with bond set at $25,000.

Arkansas Sets Second Step Toward Selecting Successor to Gov. Fabus

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas takes a second step Tuesday toward selecting a successor to six-term Gov. Oryal E. Fabus in a Democratic primary runoff that one candidate calls a test of President Johnson's political strength.

Jim Johnson, an outspoken critic of the national administration, led the ticket in the July 1 primary.

His runoff opponent is Frank Holt, a career politician who says election of Johnson might endanger Arkansas' extensive federal aid programs.

The Johnson-Holt winner must face Winthrop Rockefeller and a revitalized Republican party in November. The Democratic nomination no longer amounts to victory in this once safe Democratic state.

A major issue in the governor's race was whether Holt was the Fabus administration candidate and would keep it in power, even though Fabus is retiring after 12 years in office.

Holt said he was a "free and unfettered" candidate. Fabus declined publicly to back any candidate but Johnson and the five eliminated in the first primary charged that Holt had the governor's tacit support.

Segregation was not an issue, although Johnson vaulted to state-level politics as a spokesman for segregationists during racial troubles of the 1950s—face he recalled to voters minds several times.

Holt is regarded as a moderate on civil rights but he has refused to say where he stands on the question.

Both candidates promised to enforce civil rights laws.

Both resigned from the State Supreme Court to make the race.

Both have extensive programs for developing the state.

There the similarities end. Johnson's career has been marked by controversy, spectacular successes and sharp setbacks. He upset an incumbent senator for a state legislative position, lost in a previous race for governor, and easily won a Supreme Court seat.

Holt, who has never opposed an incumbent, has never lost an election. He has moved steadily through the ranks, from prosecutor to attorney general to State Supreme Court justice.

Big Inning Gives Pirates 9-3 Victory

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Mazeroski's two-run homer kept a six-run explosion in the second inning as the Pittsburgh Pirates buried Cincinnati 9-3 Saturday, protecting their National League lead and ending the Reds' winning string at six games.

Right-hander Tommy Sisk checked the Reds on seven hits for his fifth victory against two losses.

Donna Clendenon triggered the second inning uprising with a leadoff triple off Jim O'Toole and capped the rally by lashing a two-run single off reliever Jack Baldschun.

Jose Pagan followed Clendenon's triple with a run scoring single and Mazeroski rammed his eighth homer over the left field scoreboard.

Jim Pagliaroni chased O'Toole with a single. A pair of walks filled the bases and Baldschun forced in another run by walking Roberto Clemente. Clendenon followed with his two-run single.

Singles Lead Dodgers Over Astros 4-3

HOUSTON (AP) — Two-run singles by Lou Johnson and John Kennedy led Los Angeles to a 4-3 victory over Houston Saturday night that lifted the Dodgers back into second place in the National League race and ran the Astros' losing streak to seven.

The victory moved the Dodgers two percentage points ahead of San Francisco and within one game of first place Pittsburgh.

Don Drysdale registered his eighth victory against 12 setbacks but needed relief help in the seventh as the Dodgers handed the Astros their 14th loss in the last 15 games.

The Dodgers jumped on Houston starter Mike Cuellar for two runs in the first inning on singles by Willie Davis and Maury Wills, a throwing error by shortstop Sonny Jackson and Johnson's single.

Houston countered in the bottom of the inning when Lee Maye rocked Drysdale for a three-run homer after a single by Rusty Staub and an error by Kennedy.

A single by Tommy Davis, a double by John Roseboro and Kennedy's two-run single sent the Dodgers ahead to stay in the fourth.

the brawler from Blackpool for two rounds, the confident Clay opened up in the third. He lashed out with two tremendous right hands and backed the Briton into the corner.

Then he scored with a left and right, London crumpled to the canvas and took the full count with his head buried on the canvas.

"I hit him with a hard left and right," said Clay, known as Muhammad Ali to the Black Muslims.

His followers. "I threw eight or nine punches, but it was a left and right—the one-two—that got him."

It was the 25th straight victory and 20th by knockout for the lean, coffee-colored Negro from Louisville, Ky., who never has been beaten and who has hardly a scar on his face in his professional career.

It was only the second clean knockout suffered by the rugged London, who in 11 years of fighting has won 35 best 13 and been stopped six times.

The bout in Earl's Court stadium—Stadium—scene of Billy Graham's recent religious revival, drew a disappointing crowd of 13,000, well below the 18,000 capacity.

Millions of Americans witnessed the fight live through Early Bird Satellite (ABC), The circuit television at 20 theaters.

It was just another good payday for Clay, who has announced a plan to fight once a month until he is called into service by the United States. He has appealed his call-up by the draft board.

The champion was guaranteed 30,000 pounds or 252,000 plus a part of the television money—and London figured to get around $112,000. Clay is scheduled to meet Cus D'Amato's Karl Milidzenberger at Frankfurt Sept. 10.

An indication of how lightly Clay regarded the test was seen when the test he fought on Sept. 20, 1965, seven pounds heavier than he stopped Henry Cooper in the sixth round here last May 21.

London weighed 200½.

"You have to give him credit," Clay continued. "He put up a fight for 1½ rounds."

"The man was determined and I know he butts with his head. I was concentrating on getting in and out. I realized that one butt could mean the fight."

"But, whenever I see an opening—like against Lison—I take it. I'm never out to prove nothing to the public."

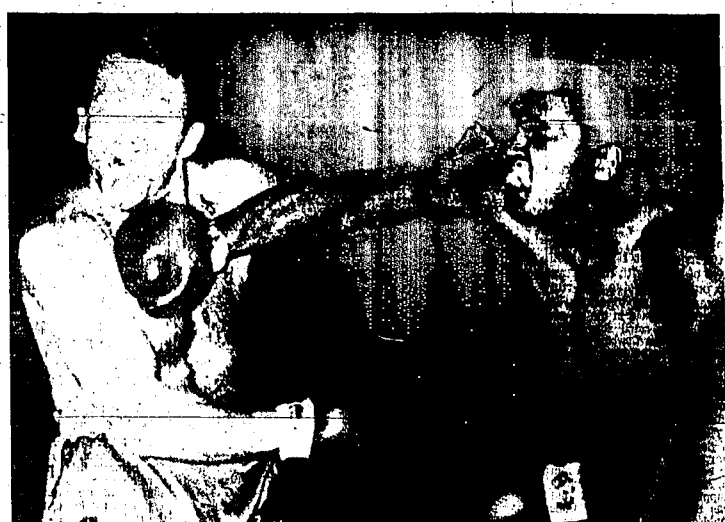

"I'm looking forward to the Milidzenberger fight," Cassius commented. "I'm glad the fight didn't take too much out of me."

Lane Is Named MVP of College All-Star Game After 38-0 Loss

CHICAGO (AP) — Quarterback Gary Lane of Missouri, who escaped for a 57-yard dash after trying to pass, was named Saturday the most valuable player of the All-Stars, who succumbed to the Green Bay Packers' 38-0 Friday night. The 210-pounder's long run accounted for all but 27 yards of the All-Stars' net rushing total. He tried 14 passes, hitting nine for 17 yards. Lane is the property of the Cleveland Browns, who plan to make him into a running back.

Single Sends Cards Past New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Mike Shannon's eighth inning single drove in his fourth run of the game, breaking a tie and sending St. Louis to a 10-8 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Shannon's hit came off Met reliever Jack Hamilton and scored Card Flood who had singled, stole second and gone to third when Met catcher Johnny Stephenson threw wild trying to nail him.

Charley Smith's seventh homer in the ninth added the final St. Louis run.

A three-run homer by Ken Boyer in the fourth had put the Mets ahead 8-5, but the Cards came back to tie on a run in the sixth on Lou Brock's single and two more in the seventh on a sacrifice fly by Julian Javier and a wild pitch by Hamilton.

"The Cards took a 5-0 lead on a run in the first driven in by Tito Francona's triple and four in the third on a sacrifice fly by Tim McCarver and Shannon's three-run homer hit 12th.

London Eyes Bout If Clay Uses Handicap

LONDON (AP) — Brian London strolled into Cassius Clay's dressing room after being knocked out by the world champ Saturday night and said: "I'd like a return—but only if you put a 56-pound weight on each ankle." Clay, sweating profusely but totally unmarked, had to fight his way through admirers to his dressing room after retaining his title.

Duo Enables Orioles to Beat Senators

BAITIMORE (AP) — Sam Bowens singled home the first run in a three-run first inning rally off loser Barry Moore and singled in another run in the fifth before the Washington rookie was replaced on the mound.

Each time Bowens drove in Frank Robinson, who had two singles and a double in four trips.

McNally, who brought his record to 11-3, pitched out of trouble in the early innings when Washington had five runners in scoring position. But, after Ed Brinkman singled with one out in the fifth, McNally retired 11 batters in a row before Fred Valentine singled leading off the ninth.

The victory increased Baltimore's American League lead to 12 games over second place Detroit.

Pinch Hitter Sparks Phils Past Braves

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Pinch hitter Doug Clemons singled in one run in the sixth inning and scored on Cookie Rojas' squeeze-bunt, sparking the Philadelphia Phillies to a 6-5 victory over Atlanta Saturday night.

The Phils broke a 3-3 tie in the sixth when Clay Dalrymple led off with a double and Clemons, batting for winning pitcher Chris Short, singled to right.

John Briggs followed with a single to center, sending Clemons to third, and Rojas scored him with a bunt to the mound.

The Braves scored a run in the seventh and closed the gap again in the ninth after Briggs' eighth inning homer gave the Phils a 6-4 margin.

Felipe Alou's third single, a walk and a single by Rico Carty accounted for the Braves' run in the seventh. Hank Aaron doubled in the ninth and scored on Mack Jones' single.

A bases-loaded wild pitch by Atlanta starter Jory Jay and Johnny Callison's two-run single staked Short 10-6 to lead in the second inning.

Dennis Menke homered for the Braves in the third and they added a run in the fourth before tying it 3-3 in the top of the sixth on a double by Joe Torre and a single by Jones.

14-Hit Attack Carries Twins Over A's 5-0

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Jerry Zimmerman and Don Mincher each cranked two-run doubles in a 14-hit attack that carried the Minnesota Twins to a 5-0 victory over Kansas City Saturday night behind the four-hit pitching of Jim Grant.

Grant stranded Kansas City runners on third base in each of the first three innings, then breezed to his eighth victory against 12 losses and his second shutout of the season.

Zimmerman gave Grant all the support he needed with his double in the second inning after two-out singles by Cesar Tovar and Ted Uhlaender.

The Twins knocked out Athletics' starter Lew Krause in the sixth, scoring three runs on Tony Oliva's single and successive doubles by Harmon Killebrew, Mincher and Tovar.

Krause was pounded for 10 hits in absorbing his sixth loss in 14 decisions.

Hands Hurls Chicago to 5-2 Triumph

CHICAGO (AP) — Reliever Bill Hands checked San Francisco on three hits over the last seven innings as the Chicago Cubs took a 5-2 victory over the slumping Giants Saturday.

Hands retired the last 18 batters he faced, pitching the last place Cubs to their second straight victory over the Giants, who have lost six of 10 games on their current road trip.

Starter Robin Roberts was hit in the back during batting practice and left the game after two innings with the Cubs trailing 1-0.

Hands yielded an unearned run in the third and then kept the Giants in check the rest of the way.

Don Kessinger started the four-run Cub third with his first of three singles. Hands bunted and both runners were safe when pitcher Bob Priddy failed to get Kessinger at second.

Adolfo Phillips hunted safely to lead the bases.

Chicago's first run came across when Priddy balked and Glenn Beckert singled home two more. Ron Santo doubled to score in the second inning off Ernie Banks, who also homered in the eighth.

Goalby Birdies 18th for Lead in Cleveland Open

CLEVELAND (AP) — Determined Bob Goalby came through with a clutch chip shot for a birdie on the 18th hole Saturday and snared the third round lead in the $100,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament with a 54-hole total of 189. The 35-year-old pro from Belleville, Ill., posted a strong seven-under-par 64 in an almost flawless round of golf. He clung to a one-stroke lead after withstanding a furious charge by lanky 26-year-old Dick Sikes, who made a shambles of the 6,777-yard par 36-35 — 71 Lakewood Country Club layout with a superb 63.

Throwing at Santo Doesn't Stop Hitting

By The Associated Press. They're throwing at Ron Santo's head again, but his bat keeps getting in the way.

The Cub third baseman was out of the lineup for 10 days earlier this season with a fractured cheekbone, courtesy of an errant pitch by Jack Fisher of the Mets. Friday, Bob Bolin of the Giants took a couple of shots at him.

They didn't do any good, though. Santo hit two home runs and a two-run single in the 10th that gave Chicago a 4-3 victory.

Santo's first homer came off Bolin the second inning and when Ron appeared at the plate again in the third he suddenly found himself studying the chink around the batter's box close. Eventually, Bolin struck him out.

Happy with that result, Bolin tried it again when Santo led off the bottom of the ninth with San Francisco leading 2-1. But he climbed out of the dirt and hit his 25th homer of the season, sending the game into overtime.

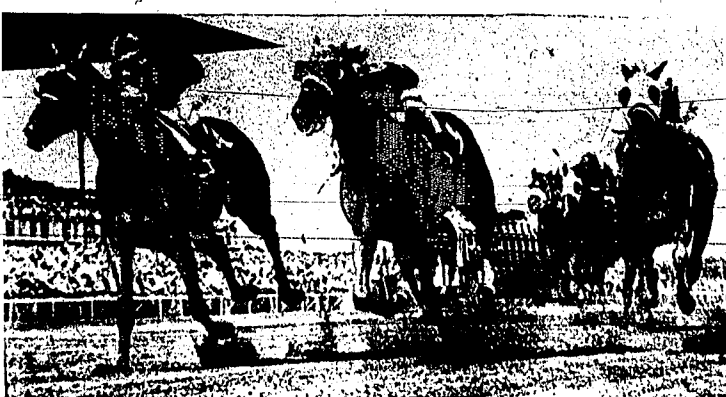

By the time Santo came up in the 10th, Bolin had given way to Frank Linzy but the Giants had gone ahead 3-2 on Tito Fuentes' homer in the top of the inning. The Cubs loaded the bases, though, and with one out Ron cracked the single that won it.

Great Power Is Stakes Victor

OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Great Power lived up to its name Saturday as he turned on the power in the final strides to edge lightly regarded in Reality in the $104,485 Sapling Stakes at Monmouth Park with a stakes record equalling time of 1:09 2/5 for six furlongs.

His before the result became official and the son of Bold Ruler from Mrs. H. C. Phillips' Wheatley Stable picked up the winner's share of $40,000, he had to withstand a claim of foul.

Dave Kassen, aboard in Reality from Frances A. Gentry's stable of Minneapolis, claimed his horse was bumped by Great Power, ridden by Bill Shoemaker, as the pair battled almost head and head one state of a mile from the finish line. The stewards, however, failed to agree with Kassen and made the result official after a quick look at the film.

Buckpasser Wraps up Mid-America-Triple

CHICAGO (AP) — Mighty Buckpasser, a typical stretch runner, broke a and then dropped back to sixth, forward. Jolly Jet went into a narrow lead at midstretch but Buckpasser came on determinedly to head him just before the wire. Advocate finished an official one length behind Jolly Jet.

Amberold, the Belmont Stakes winner, was sixth but the big failure was Abe's Hope, the 9-2 with Whipper Jet second. Buckpasser, swinging around and never threatened.

Advocate was third about a head behind Jolly Jet, an 11-1 shot. Ogden Phipps' Buckpasser, winning his eighth straight race, including the Chicago and the Arlington Classic, the other legs on the mid-America triple, was timed in 1-47 to smash the Arlington track record by one-fifth of a second.

The world record for the distance is 1:46 2/5. The victory was worth $84,100, boosting the son of Tom Fool's career earnings to $384,679. His next start might be the $75,000 added Travers at Saratoga Aug. 20 and a triumph there would make him the only 3-year-old thoroughbred to earn more than $1 million.

Buckpasser, going off as an entry with Stupendous at 3-5, returned $2.20-$2.50 and $2.20. Popham stable's Jolly Jet, ridden by Nick Shuk, paid $7.20 and $4.40. Ada L. Rice's Advocate, with Bill Hartack aboard, was $2.20 to show.

Buckpasser, ridden by Baulio Baeza and packing 128 pounds, the most of his career, broke a and then dropped back to sixth, forward. Teams Will Meet in Tennis Zone Finals

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States and Mexico, each with new talent as well as a veteran of past challenge rounds on its four-man team, meet here Aug. 13-14 in the American Zone finals of the Davis Cup tennis matches. The setting, the Harold T. Clark Stadium, is the same as in 1964 when the Australian team featuring Roy Emerson and Fred Stolle, carted off the big silver bowl which still remains in the "Land Down Under."

Drawings will be made Friday, Aug. 12, to determine opponents in the two singles matches opening play Saturday. A doubles match on Sunday is followed on Monday by two more singles matches.

Last year the U.S. defeated Mexico 3-2 in the American Zone finals.

The winner of the matches here will meet Brazil in the interzone semifinals in October, and the winner of the match has one more hurdle to clear before a trip to Australia for the Challenge Round.

So far on the 1968 Davis Cup trail, the U.S. team holds a 4-1 victory over British West Indies, and Mexico a 4-1 victory over Argentina.

The Davis Cup veterans of the two teams are Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., the No. 1 U.S. singles player, and Rafael Osuna of Mexico City. They met on the court many times, and Osuna said: "He's beaten me more than I've beaten him."

The U.S. team includes with Ralston his partner in the No. 1 U.S. doubles team, Clark Graebner, 23, of Beachwood, Ohio; Cliff Richey, 19, of Dallas, Tex., who holds a No. 3 U.S. ranking; and Marty Riessen, 24, of Evanston, Ill., ranked No. 8.

Buckpasser, going off as an entry with Stupendous at 3-5, returned $2.20-$2.50 and $2.20. Popham stable's Jolly Jet, ridden by Nick Shuk, paid $7.20 and $4.40. Ada L. Rice's Advocate, with Bill Hartack aboard, was $2.20 to show.

Buckpasser, ridden by Baulio Baeza and packing 128 pounds, the most of his career, broke a and then dropped back to sixth, forward. Jolly Jet went into a narrow lead at midstretch but Buckpasser came on determinedly to head him just before the wire. Advocate finished an official one length behind Jolly Jet.

Amberold, the Belmont Stakes winner, was sixth but the big failure was Abe's Hope, the 9-2 with Whipper Jet second. Buckpasser, swinging around and never threatened.

Advocate was third about a head behind Jolly Jet, an 11-1 shot. Ogden Phipps' Buckpasser, winning his eighth straight race, including the Chicago and the Arlington Classic, the other legs on the mid-America triple, was timed in 1-47 to smash the Arlington track record by one-fifth of a second.

IT WAS ON JULY 16, 1886, that a party of five prospectors discovered gold in what was to become the Leesburg settlement. At one time the town boasted 3,000 buildings and today the few remaining are crumbling away. This is the town as it looks today. Many historical items from Leesburg are now on display at the Lemhi County Historical Society Museum at Salmon. A few people might live in the town during the summer, but none in the winter. Leesburg, Symbol of Golden Era, Crumbles Away as 100 Years Pass

SALMON — Warped and twisted by a hundred years of rain and snow and wind, Leesburg is crumbling today in the clear, hot summer air of the thriving mining community of the Salmon River Mountains. The remaining few buildings are falling in and the occasional visitor is unaware that once a clear, hot summer site of the first gold strike by a party of five Montana prospectors was made July 16, 1886.

Grand Teton Climb Isn't Designed for Weak Heart

EDITOR'S NOTE — Climbing the Grand Teton, a granite spire 13,766 feet high, a writer asks himself, "What am I doing up here?" And that's a perfectly natural question, says Glen Exum, who pioneered the route up the Wyoming peak. But the answer is at the top, and don't get careless coming down.

By BILL STALL
MOOSE, Wyo. (AP) — This Wall Street leads almost nowhere — with 2,000 feet of nothing but thin mountain air between you and the rocks below.

It is an up-sloping ledge along the flank of 13,766-foot Grand Teton peak. Wall Street narrows to a tiny shelf of rock at the corner of the Exum Ridge, one of the steep, jagged shoulders of the mountain.

A lug or two of climbing boots, nervous fingertips on cold, hard granite, and utter faith in 7 1/2-inch nylon rope held us — me and three other novice climbers — to the mountain.

You look down to grope for the inch of protruding rock and the dizzy void below seems infinite. But you are too busy probing with a worried foot for the answer to the question that fully appreciates the view.

Then, a long swinging step brought us out onto the serrated Exum Ridge of Grand Teton, the master of the spectacular Teton range, a center of mountaining in the United States.

We four and our two guides were strangers 12 hours before. This day we were a team. Each potentially held the other's life in his hands through the umbilical cord of the climbing rope.

We were inching up the Exum Ridge just 35 years to the day, July 15, that Glen Exum pioneered the now-popular route up the Grand Teton, a Gothic spire of granite rising 7,000 feet above the valley of the Grand Teton National Park known as Jackson Hole.

Even tougher climbing lay ahead. In some spots, with no holds, we had to rely entirely on the friction of our hands and boots on the steep rock. But success in rounding the Wall Street corner, with its frightful exposure, revived our confidence.

The party included guides Dean Moore, 27, of Jackson, Wyo., a ski patrolman in winter, and Dave Dorman, 23, of Moose, a world-ranging climber now studying for a doctorate in philosophy at the University of California. Lt. Col. Amos C. Matthews, 38, just back from a 10 1/2-month tour as commander of an engineering battalion in Viet Nam; Richard Reininger, 40, Bloomfield, Mich., an air freight company executive in Detroit; David Clifton, 28, a Warren, Pa., civil servant; Walter Uhlman, 38, a pathologist from Bryan Mawr, Pa., and Moose Creek.

Leesburg was the beginning of settlement for the Salmon area. After the big rush had died, Salmon grew and cattle ranches came into being with many of the Leesburg pioneers prominent ranchers and businessmen.

Prophecy of Doom Turns Into Boom

SINGAPORE (AP) — Prime Minister Lee Kuan Yew broke down and wept last year when his tiny but strategically important island state was unceremoniously set adrift from the Malaysian Federation.

Next Tuesday — the first anniversary of the Republic of Singapore — he should be all smiles.

Despite many prophecies of doom made soon after Singapore became independent, Lee's little island has its head well above water and an economic boom appears to be just around the corner.

Last Aug. 9, the Federal Malaysian government in Kuala Lumpur announced, Singapore had withdrawn from the association of former British colonies formed in 1963. Emotional

FOUR QUAIL SPECIES live in Idaho. The pair shown above are valley quail. The others are Mountain quail, Bobwhite and Gambel's quail. Bobwhite quail were introduced into Idaho as early as 1870. Gambel's quail was brought to Idaho from southern Nevada by Lemhi County sportsmen in 1921. This introduction was successful, even though this species of quail normally ranges much farther south. It resembles the valley quail, and still persists in its new home in the isolated area around Salmon City. (Fish and Game Department photo)

Good Quail Shooting in Idaho Being Overlooked

BOISE — Pheasant season dates, bag limits and other regulation details coming out of the special meeting of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission in Boise this month will get the headline treatment around the state. But other good upland game bird hunting will be overlooked by many sportsmen — quail shooting, for instance.

Scores of hunters come to Idaho from other states to try for trophy elk, bighorn sheep or mountain goats. Anglers drag bass from all points of the compass to troll for giant Mackinaw lake trout, Kamloops, rainbow and Dolly Varden. One long-time sportsman now approaching his golden years, phones every summer from one of the southeastern states to ask, "Where can I locate some quail this year?"

Idaho generally is not ranked high among the best quail states. Good shooting is found by hunters who know where to look. But these birds as a rule are picked up incidentally by hunters who beat the brush for the larger, usually more abundant other species of upland game birds.

Four kinds of quail live in Idaho. Two of these were native to the Pacific Northwest and long before the first explorers arrived, the others were brought here by settlers who hoped they would do well if introduced.

Idaho's mountain quail was first described in the journals of Lewis and Clark. It was found to be slightly larger than the species of bobwhite and California quail already known.

The journals tell of a beautiful dark bird with reddish throat and long, narrow plume which streams backward on its head. This bird, of course, was the mountain quail.

The other native Idaho quail is the California, or valley species. It has the forward-curving, club-shaped "topknot" dancing over its bill. Both of these species, because of the silvery blue plumage, sometimes are called "blue quail."

Sports-minded gamblers of the Snake Valley introduced quail to Idaho as far back as 1870. These were bobwhite quail. They spread in a few years through most of the river bottom. Gambel's quail was brought to Idaho from southern Nevada by Lemhi County sportsmen in 1921. This introduction was successful, even though the species of quail normally ranges much farther south. It resembles the valley quail, and still persists in its new home in the isolated area around Salmon City.

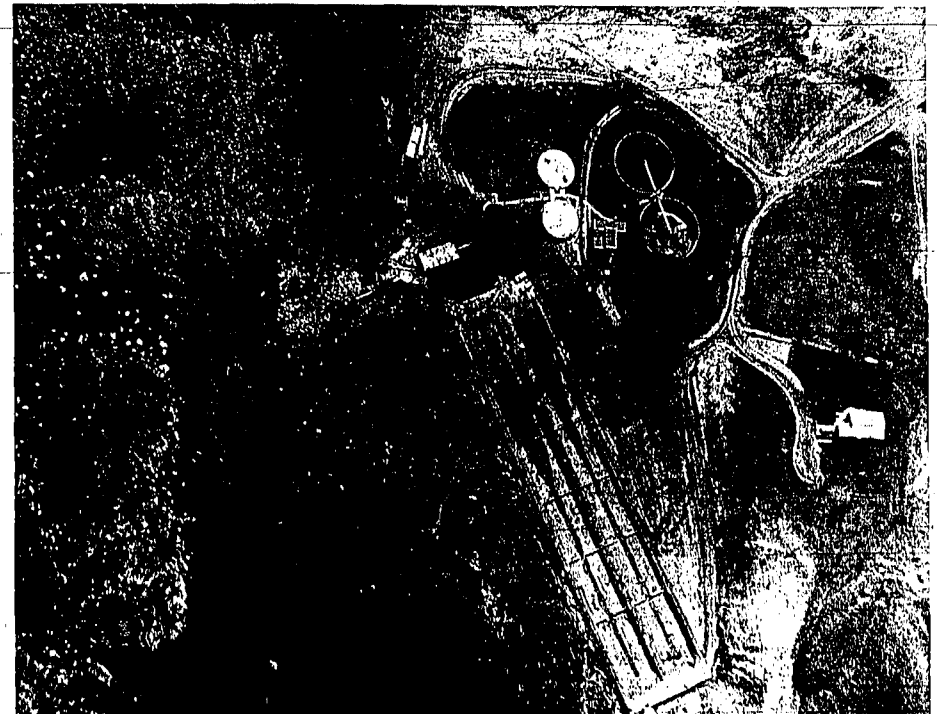

There is some question as to whether the mountain and valley quail originally existed in any part of what is now Idaho. Some bird biologists say that today's coverts are descended from birds that were transplanted to nearby Oregon or Washington, that the quail spread from these neighboring areas into Idaho. In that event, Idaho quail cannot be classed as truly native.

By now, the way these birds first got their start in this state is no longer important, except in the record keepers. The fact is that four different species of quail do live here, though not in the numbers found in some parts of the country.

Quail needs grass, specific, a fact not usually recognized by gamblers who accept without question the pheasant, grouse, and partridge — not to mention waterfowl — that find habitat conditions suitable in Idaho.

Dense protective cover is the absolute essential for quail. They eat large amounts of weed seeds and insects. Feeding areas, built weedy and open, must be near dense thickets of escape cover, with plenty of water at all times of the year.

Cold weather is no problem as long as quail have plenty of food. Continued on Page 27

COUNTY AGENT LAMONT SMITH, in hat, and Duane Hansen, Kraft Foods fieldman, work with two Idaho Youth Ranch boys at Rupert to teach them fitting and showing of their animals.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Approximately 22 4-H members, including 17 boys from the Idaho Youth Ranch, RUPERT, and the family members participated in a 4-H Achievement Day recently at the Ranch. Club members and their families came to the ranch for a potluck lunch, then were shown proper care, fitting and showing of 4-H animals by experts in the field of livestock.

Assisting the youngsters learn proper fitting and showing for sheep, beef and dairy animals were Lamont Smith, county agent; Duane Hansen, Kraft Foods fieldman; Russ Mohlman, Reed Lewis, Richard Hanks, Lloyd Thaele, Martin-Hoebelrich and John Chase.

Also assisting were L. G. Yosh, house parent at the Youth Ranch, and John McCollum, director of the boys program and acting Youth Ranch administrator.

The youngsters learned to groom their animals and also were taught use and safety practices for tractor and farm equipment.

The achievement day is designed to help the youngsters at Los Angeles to do research work in Bogota, Columbia, South America, for two years.

Long, who has recently received his doctorate in anthropology from UCLA, has visited in Idaho and calls it his "favorite" state. He will spend the two years teaching in both the Spanish and English languages.

Henry Creason, a well known Rupert attorney, apparently is admired by someone in the Idaho State Penitentiary, if a gift he received recently is any indication.

When the Mindoka County Assessor's office received a shipment of 1967 animal license plates recently, the office workers opened the first box and on top of it was a package on which was written "please deliver to Henry Creason."

Claude E. Bowman, assessor, who had called Creason, who came for the package. Upon opening it he found an "old timer's" auto license plate with the lettering "Hank."

Bowman noted that in the past he has received notes with the license plates including one which read "Help, I'm being held in jail," and others which haven't been as humorous.

Real Electricity Coming to Muldoon Region for Initial Time in History

MULDOON—Civilization and progress are creeping into the back country of Idaho. This summer electricity is coming to Muldoon, Fish Creek and the Carey Reservoir.

This electricity isn't the kind made with a generator, butane and apprehension, but real electricity through real wires all the way from Mackay, via the Slaughter House Gulch, to the Rural Electric Utility Authority.

The first telephone line, built 32 years ago by Jim Prunty and James L. Ladlow, showed what plunger ingenuity and determination could do. With insulators made of old inner tubes and beer bottles, the line ran up Slaughter House Gulch, then bellevue over 8,000-foot Muldoon Summit. It went up mountain sides and through forests and thickets, nailed to trees and fence posts and incorporating barbed wire in its engineering.

When the spring thawed set in, it shorted out except in the early morning when things were frozen. Mrs. Mary Brooks, owner of the Flat Top Sheep ranch, Carey, remembers not so long ago when she was cooking at the ranch one spring and there had been a late snowstorm that cut the ranch completely off from the world. Suddenly the phone rang. An important message came through as if by a miracle, then the phone went out.

Mrs. Brooks also remembers hearing the story of a cold winter night when a baby was born at a ranch 23 miles north of Carey. Snow had closed the road and the phone had not been in service for a week. The frightened young father picked up the phone. It worked and he got instructions from the doctor for delivering the baby. Then the phone was silent again.

The miracle of course was that it worked at all.

Two years ago the four ranches had to be rebuilt. Private initiative and corporate cooperation worked this time. The ranches built the line with the cooperation of the Mountain States Telephone company, but still needed ingenuity was still needed.

It is still strictly a one-horse line. The fine old cow pony, 4-H, pulled the wire over the crags and through the thickets where jays could not penetrate. The old pony had spent her life keeping a tight line on her saddle, and a telephone line or a cowboy's rope was all the same to him.

The cow pony having done her work, the Mountain States Telephone company will now maintain the line, no mean job at its elevation.

Writing has one more distinction—every phone is a colored one, the only rural line in Idaho so distinguished, according to Sav Uebera, veteran employee of the telephone company.

Now besides the telephone line the area will have electric light. The line which comes from Mackay, was almost snuffed out by bureaucratic red tape at the Craters of the Moon. It was demanded that the line be buried across the lava beds, an astronomical expense. After a meeting of the hard-headed ranchers

First Phase of Playwrights' Conference Is in Full Swing

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Writer

WATERFORD, Conn. (AP) — Down in the swampland garden, an intricate business deal of artistic endeavor.

Upstairs, downstairs in the field, multiple rehearsals are in session.

Phase I of the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Theater Foundation is in full swing, the second annual National Playwrights Conference that continues through Aug. 6.

Writing, however, is only part of ultimate purpose.

Novel in concept, the project aspires to an important, broad part in national cultural growth.

"The American theater in certain ways is still back in the buggy whip era," declares George C. White III, who runs the foundation. "We aim to be a catalyst."

The kind of enthusiasm, native and professional, which has been aroused is typified by veteran actor Lambert Lantieri, one of the participating playwrights.

"The great moments in life are when you are pioneering something like this," Lantieri says.

Involved in the conference are 18 writers who have yet to navor the rewards of Broadway or major repertory exhibing meet producers, directors, designers, business experts and actors.

The program includes full-scale productions of two new plays and staged readings of a dozen others, all by participating playwrights.

Although the conference has been criticized for novice authors, White envisions the center as multipurpose, flexible and far-reaching.

"We want this to be a place where anyone in any branch of the theater can come with an idea and try it without jealousy," he declares.

White, 31, is a native son who studied at Yale, ventured in a show business through the television activities of Talent Associates, formed a music company, and then got the notion for a theatrical foundation, upon which he has concentrated exclusively for the past 13 months.

Supported primarily thus far by private contributions and bank loans, the venture aims to start soon a $350,000 campaign for "seed potpurses" and hopes eventually for a $10-million endowment to provide each adjunct as a school of theatrical crafts; library; museum and publishing unit.

In fact, the name of O'Neill to the venture — with his widow's permission — seemed natural. Waterford faces Long Island Sound next to New London, the town where the Nobel Prize dramatist spent summers as a teenager.

The situation, however, is not without Irish flavor. O'Neill made no secret of his affinity for the rich neighbors who snuffed down their Yankee noses at his family's humble origins, and told stories about them in his plays.

Now the memorial foundation occupies 8½ acres of the vast former summer estate. It is a swanky mile up the road from the old O'Neill residence. The property some years ago became a townhouse park.

White's enthusiasm has proved contagious in the neigh-

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . . Scout Official Has Firm Belief in Young Men, What They Accomplish

Ever since Michael Mazzone attended a Boy Scout jamboree as a counselor in 1952, he had decided to go into the field of youth work, mainly in Boy Scouts.

"That is exactly what Mazzone has done. He is Scout executive for the Snake River Area Council, one of the top four Boy Scout councils in America for camping programs, with headquarters at Twin Falls.

"I was always interested in social work, and when I went to the Boy Scout jamboree in 1952, I knew that I wanted to do youth work in the Boy Scout organization," he recalls.

Mazzone was born in Boston on May 6, 1927. He spent his childhood there and attended grade and high schools.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Michael Mazzone Sr. Mazzone's father was a professional baseball player on the Boston team and at one time served in the U.S. Marines.

Mazzone earned a football scholarship to Boston College while in high school. But before he could go to college, war broke out while in the service, Mazzone worked in underwater survival training and teaching. He spent three years flying torpedo bombers in the Pacific and flew off carriers such as the Bunker Hill and Enterprise.

Mazzone met his wife-to-be, Jeanette Anderson, near the end of the war. She was living in Olalia, Wash., where they met at a USO dance.

After their marriage, Mazzone returned to college. He went to school at Boston College, Seattle University and was graduated from Washington State University in 1959.

After the war, Mazzone worked at commercial fishing in Alaska and was a logger for a couple of summers. He also was a guidance counselor at a school system.

Then in 1952, Mazzone attended the national Boy Scout Jamboree.

In February of 1964 Mazzone came to Twin Falls as Scout executive for the Snake River Area Council. The council was in debt more than $27,000. In the first year under Mazzone the council cleared the debt.

Membership in the camping program climbed from 400 boys to more than 1,800 in the last two and one-half years.

The council is recognized as No. 5 in the Intermountain region in the number of boys participating in the camping program.

The council is the only one in America with such a diversified camping program. Among the programs are the Malshu Trail, Aquatic camp, saddle scouting and Camp Bradley, near the Cape Horn region of Idaho.

The council started the first vocational program for boys between 13 and 15 years old and it has spread throughout the United States.

The Mazzones have five children, three sons and two daughters. The family resides at 855 Millmore St.

In addition to his work as a Boy Scout executive, Mazzone also is an active member of the Elks-Rotarian Club and is regional director for aquatics for the Boy Scouts of America.

His hobbies are mainly scuba diving and golf—Mazzone also has written several books on aquatic safety.

Mazzone has one sister, Mrs. Dora Roby, who lives in Gig Harbor, Wash.

Mazzone commented, "I have a firm belief in the young men in America and what they can accomplish. Boy Scouting offers them the opportunity to accomplish many worthwhile things."

Funeral Held for Sniper, Mother

LAKE WORTH, Fla. (AP) — Mass-murderer Charles J. Whitman and the first of his 15 victims—his mother—were buried Friday in the simple splendor of a religious service that included their pastor's prayer for their escape from the judgment of vengeance.

And the Rev. Thomas Anglin, the family priest, said he have burned 12 times more, ransacked this year than in all of last year.

The agency said 258 range fires this year burned 136,000 acres. Last year the total was less than 16,000 acres burned in 122 fires.

Indonesia Is Wracked by Riots, Revolt

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — Indonesia's jungled, primitive West Irian has been rocked by riots and near revolt serious enough to send Foreign Minister Adam Malik to the scene as a negotiable, reliable, sources reported Friday.

He is scheduled to leave in a week for the Indonesian half of the huge island of New Guinea, an area formerly known as Dutch New Guinea and taken over from the Dutch in 1962 after several months of fighting.

The people of West Irian began rioting because of a scarcity of food which reduced people in some areas to a near starvation level.

Soldiers were deployed to West Irian about six weeks ago to help put down the fighting. Many of them were veterans of the campaign to oust the Dutch from West Irian in 1961.

Reports reaching Jakarta said no food supplies of any consequence had been sent into the jungled area in three months. Tribesmen living in the jungle may survive, but town dwellers are reported hard hit. West Irian has a population of about 700,000.

One paper in Jakarta reported a single plate of rice was sold in the village of Mindipatna for 450 rupiahs — about $1.50 at open market rates.

Reports that the fighting and rebellious mood of the people are serious appear to be supported by reliable confirmation that Malik would visit the area as a mediator.

His trip away from the capital comes at a busy time for him, as negotiations with Malaysians will still be under way and this country will be celebrating its independence anniversary.

The reports of trouble in West Irian come amid other reports of severe food shortages from the island of Borneo and along the chain of smaller islands from Java toward West Irian. Unconfirmed reports say several hundred have died from a combination of starvation and smallpox epidemics in eastern Bali, Lombok and Timor.

Damage Heavy

BOISE (AP) — The Bureau of Land Management said Friday that fires in Idaho already have burned 12 times more, ransacked this year than in all of last year.

The agency said 258 range fires this year burned 136,000 acres. Last year the total was less than 16,000 acres burned in 122 fires.

Records Are Burned at Boise Session

BOISE (AP) — A disc jockey for a Boise radio station and about 50 other persons Friday staged a "Beatle burning" session in a Boise suburb and burned recordings made by the popular British singing group.

Marty Martin, of radio station KATN, had said he would replace all Beatles records burned in his bonfire ceremony with recordings of other artists.

The burning session was in response to a report that John Lennon, one of the Beatles, had said his group was "more popular than Jesus." A "ban the Beatles" campaign was started a few days ago by a Birmingham, Ala., radio station.

Grand Teton Climb Leads To Nowhere

How did we get there?

The first day's task is a seven-mile hike up a switch-back trail leading through boulder-strewn Garnett Canyon and under the face of 12,796-foot Middle Teton Peak. The trail, skirting Middle Teton Glacier, leads you to the lower saddle, the 11,500-foot pass between the Middle and Grand Teton.

We huffed and puffed into a base camp but on the Lower Saddle at 5:30 p.m. and gratefully slipped out of 25-pound packs stuffed with food, warm clothing, cameras and a confusion of other gear.

The jagged rock ridges and sheer walls of the Grand Teton soared to the right. Below, to the east, the setting sun cast ragged shadows of the Teton range for miles across Jackson Hole and onto the foothills of the Gros Ventre Mountains. To the west, dusk filtered into the geometric cultivated farming valleys of Idaho. The last rays of the sun-bathed the Grand Teton in a warm golden glow.

Above was a world of rock and ice and snow, where the only permanent living thing was a shift of lichen making random patterns on the rock.

At 8 p.m. we were in sleeping bags and soon asleep.

The windup alarm clock shattered our sleep at 3:15 a.m. By 4 a.m. with the gray just nudging the black from the sky, we were on the upward trail — six figures bundled against the freezing wind, trudging along like ghosts.

After Wall Street, the climbing was easier, even though the hands remained as numb as ever. A stretch called the "Fricton Pitch," is listed by Leigh Ortenburger's climbing guide book as perhaps the most difficult portion of the ridge. There is virtually no crack or knob on the rock to gain a hand or foothold.

An hour later, after several more difficult pitches, we broke onto the sun-bathed Summit Ridge. About 8:30 a.m., there was no where else to go. We were on the top of our world.

The panting eased and fatigue seeped out of our arms and legs as we scanned the landscape flowing from the base of the mountain 7,800 feet below. Peaks could be seen 60 miles or more away on the cloudless horizon. The sky above, unobscured by haze or smog, was the richest blue. Then the descent — with great care.

Accidents, injury and death haunt the route down more than the ascent, because of a tendency to be careless after reaching the summit goal.

A key to the descent of the Grand Teton is a 12-foot rope run high on the peak. The climbers lower themselves down a cliff by weaving a double strand of rope over their shoulders. The friction permits an easy, but spectacular, controlled drop — the last 60 feet of it suspended in air over an over-hanging portion of the cliff.

We were back to the hut about noon. After lunch came the long trudge down the mountain to the valley and a certificate verifying the ascent.

Of 2½ million park visitors last year, rangers approved 1,329 climbers for ascents of the major Teton peaks. Climbers ranged in age from two 5-year-old boys to a 68-year-old man. Two persons were killed on the peaks in 1963; fifteen in the past decade.

Solo climbing is prohibited. The Park Service maintains a crack rescue team in case a party gets into trouble.

Exum, who has climbed the Matterhorn, a companion of the famed Swiss peak with the Grand Teton, but considers the Grand a tougher climb, given equal weather conditions.

Fritolf Fyssel, veteran climber and geologist, expressed the majesty of the Grand Teton this way:

"More evident here than in any of the great cathedrals of men is the clothed one. It attains supreme expression in the figures of the peaks themselves that — towering above all else, with pointed summits — direct one's vision and thoughts yet higher.

IDAHO PACK STRINGS OF horses and mules still do much freighting in back country. Outfitters and guides use them to haul guests and their gear for both hunting and fishing trips off the beaten track. Such services for fall hunting trips should be arranged now by reservation. Many Idaho hunters use their own horses to get where they want to be, with supplies. Average hunter success improves when pack and saddle stock are used, especially for elk. Pack string here is skirting shores of Ingeborg Lake in Bighorn Crags, one of isolated areas. Prophecy of Doom Turns Into Boom

Lee declared Singapore was kicked out by Malay extremists and their pressure on Malaysian Prime Minister Tunku Abdul Rahman.

Malaysia said it believed that strained relations with Singapore would improve when Singapore became independent.

The weeks that followed separation brought tangle on both sides. Recently both the Malaysian and the Singapore governments have shown restraint and appear to have muted the raging feud that forced the break.

Malaysia in early June scrapped a shared immigration system with Singapore, abolishing the common visa practice that had been in force for years. Singapore followed suit. But the free flow of travel across the rock causeway linking the two countries has not been hindered. Each continues to let the citizens of the other move in and out without visas.

Trade between the two states has not been affected. Singapore continues to play the middle-man shipper for Malaysia's rubber, tin and timber exports. Some economists estimate more trade is being done than before.

Singapore's own industry has picked up since independence, especially since the United States urged its quota on textiles from Singapore while two major oil companies built an additional two refineries here.

Fears that Singapore would lose the huge British bases here were dispelled by British Defense Secretary Denis Healey during a recent visit. These bases bring in almost 25 percent of Singapore's total earnings.

The biggest economic boost promises to come from renewed trade with Indonesia — huge neighbor to the south.

Before Indonesia launched its confrontation policy against Malaysia some three years ago, Singapore acted as the main exporter of Indonesian rubber and tin.

Businessmen here — especially the Chinese traders who have dominated this lucrative business for years — predict a boom for Singapore when this trade resumes as Indonesian leaders promise.

Another boost to the boom is likely to come from the increasing numbers of United States troops making rest and recreation visits to Singapore from Viet Nam.

Politically, Singapore appears to be in an even better position than it is economically.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"The Size of the Cross"

ERNEST HASSELBLAD, Minister

First Baptist Church

Sometime ago I was reading a magazine article which told those who attend and give as much as one dollar.

What was reported to be the world's largest crucifix. It is somewhere near Lansing, Mich., and it is apparent the sign calling for attention to it troubled the author of the article.

He referred to the sign as "advertised holiness." He reflects on his reaction: "In what sense, I found myself wondering, could the world's largest crucifix be said to be largest (than the world's smallest)? What act of piety is size?"

He further reflects on reactions if one were to see the above and synagogues the world's largest Star of David, or some Mosque. They are the largest of the world's largest, with the "largest onion-bulb dome," some church with the largest stained glass windows, and he reminds us that in Bangkok is the "the world's largest Buddha."

This started a chain of reactions of my own. The church with the largest membership, the biggest organ, the most money invested in munitions plants, distilleries, or soft drink dispensers, or breakfast foods.

How superficial can we get? Think of the church that gathers up a few trinkets of man-made ideas to prove that it is the only church that dispenses salvation.

Arabian Low Caste Needed In Arab Life

SANAA, Yemen (AP) — No single word can describe them. They are tribal spokesmen and one-man supreme courts, but they are of the lowest caste and live apart from other men.

They can trace the ancestral lineage of a whole tribe, but know nothing of their own origins. They instruct prospective groom among the tribal nobility how to behave with their brides, but can never marry above their station.

They are the Dawshans, a class of Arabs who are indispensable to tribal life in this remote country, most of whose inhabitants are tribesmen.

Dawshan is derived from an Arabic word meaning noise, or uproar, but strangely enough the Dawshans are a quiet people.

Every major tribe employs flogbearers and harin, because a tribesman despite their low caste, they are feared for their hands and danger highly regarded. The blood if one of them is murdered, in the words of a tribal proverb, "for instance, is set by chief."

INMATEY ARRIVES

SATON, South Viet Nam (AP)—Units of the U.S. 4th Infantry Division arrived in Viet Nam Saturday as part of the continuing build-up of American forces here.

IT'S REAL spending money in addition to being a keepsake. The Booker T. Washington commemorative half dollar was issued for the first time in 1946. A great many of them were minted subsequently in 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950 and 1951.

REVERSE SIDE of Booker T. Washington Commemorative shows picture of log cabin and has wording "From Slave Cabin to Hall of Fame." Many of these coins were minted and it was changed later to show heads of both Washington and George W. Carver.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

We would like to acknowledge receipt of traders' tokens from the following people: Dale Pfeiffer, Burley, Darrel Lucht, Twin Falls; J. C. Hadley, Rupert; Mrs. Martell Lindsay, Paul; John D. Bartee, Wendell; Ted King, Rupert, and Grover Davis, Filer. Our thanks to you people — without help such as yours we could not possibly write our book on Idaho tokens. First question this week comes from Mrs. R. D. W., no address given. The letter is postmarked Twin Falls, so we presume she lives here. All letters addressed to this column must carry the name and address of the writer. We will withhold the name and use only initials, as requested. We'll break a rule and answer this letter.

Question: "I have a coin I have wondered about for some time. On the front side is the head of a Negro man, and underneath 'Booker T. Washington.' It is dated 1946, and says 'Half Dollar' and United States of America. On the other side is a picture of a log cabin and a big building of some kind and a lot of printing. It says 'Booker T. Washington Birthplace Memorial' and 'Liberty' and in the center 'From Slave Cabin to Hall of Fame.' Is this a real coin?"

Answer: Indeed it is. You have a commemorative 50-cent piece, issued in 1946 by the United States Mint. The coin was issued from all the mints. In 1946, 1947, 1948, 1949, 1950 and 1951. In 1951, '52, '53 and '54, the coin was changed to show both the head of Booker T. Washington and George W. Carver, superimposed on the obverse side of the coin.

A great many of these 50-cent pieces were issued, and the price is not high on any of them. Somewhere around $3 will buy an uncirculated piece.

Question from M. S., Twin Falls: "I have a number of coins that I know nothing about."

One of Hottest Tourist Attractions Is Panmunjom

EDITOR'S NOTE — Come along to Panmunjom, a tourist mecca that draws them by the busload. For only $3.40 you can drive out from Seoul, watch the antics of the North Korean Commies, see the "Peace Pillar" and the baggy uniforms. But don't expect to see any North Korean tourists.

By EUGENE LEVIN
PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — Come to South Korea and see North Korea. Come to the non-Communist half of this divided country and take a walk on Red soil.
The word is going out: the still fortified Korean war demarcation line is one of the world's prime sightseeing treats and tourist bargains.
Last year 33,000 tourists visited South Korea, and 20,000 of them went to Panmunjom. They are still coming by the busload, three or four a day.
The Korean war armistice was signed in Panmunjom in 1953 and it is here where the Communist and non-Communist worlds maintain daily contact. It is the hub of the 151-mile demilitarized zone across Korea.

holder, and you can order these from "U.S. Assay Office, Numismatic Service, 350 Duboce Avenue, San Francisco, Calif. 94102."

You can order one, two, five or 10 sets, at $4 per set (91 cents face value) and you must include check or money order — no cash. If you order — do not worry if you hear nothing for some time. They receive a tremendous amount of orders and it takes a long time to process them.

Please inform this column if you have, or know of, early traders' tokens (hickies) from any store or business. (Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o the Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.)

South Korea to show its progress, into the U.N. joint duty officer's hut, and into the Quarters — and non-commissioned set huts where U.N. and Communist officers confront each other across the conference table. The main U.N. representatives are American officers.
He guided the tourists across the demarcation line to the pigeon coop built by the North Koreans for "Doves of Peace" and trained to land only on the green North Korean buildings. Then he took the tourists to a little wooden grandstand overlooking a North Korean valley. Suddenly music came over a loud speaker, drowning out the sound of artillery from a U.S. training range.
The tour was over, and not a North Korean visitor had appeared. They seldom do. Scarcely 200 tourists appeared on the North Korean side in 1965.

The tourist rush in the south has also helped the U.N. officers' clubs to keep their members' dues low. The clubs do a big business selling the tourists soft drinks and souvenirs — baseball caps, pens, key rings and lighters, all inscribed "Panmunjom."
The Swedish, Swiss, Polish and Czech members of the neutral nations' commission have not missed a tourist bet either. Their meeting hut, one of the stops on the guided tour, has only one kind of decoration on its walls: Travel posters from the four countries.

Quail Provides Good Shooting, but Hunters Largely Overlook Small Bird

Dense tangles of brush or brambles stop or slow down the invasion of a bird or animal of prey, and give dry runways beneath heavy snows. Such cover also holds off the tramping of livestock animals and generally contains enough food for times of emergency.

One sure way to get rid of all quail in an area is to bulldoze out the bramble thickets. When this happens, coveys of quail that used the place in about the same numbers year after year soon are gone forever even though food and water supplies stay the same.

Much good quail cover still remains in Idaho. It is slow to give ground to clear farming practices, fence row removal, and the clearance of stream bottom tangles. It is known that the quality and quantity of the remaining good cover — not shooting pressure — is the chief limiting factor on quail numbers here.

The Idaho Fish and Game Commission encourages more quail shooting by opening more areas to hunting and establishing earlier and longer seasons and more liberal bag limits. Quail hunting has been opened in 25 different counties since 1953.

Five years ago the bag limit boosted to 10 birds, with 20 in possession, to draw more hunters into this sport.

Open seasons have been roughly the same for many years in the northern Idaho counties of Clearwater, Idaho, Latah, Lewis, and Nez-Perce. In these counties, scattered coveys of valley and mountain quail are found along most of the brush-filled stream bottoms. Bobwhite are lower down the hillside than the other forms. But their numbers are few in north Idaho.

In southwestern Idaho, Bobwhite live along the lower Boise, Payette and Snake rivers from Ada and Canyon counties north into Gem and Payette counties. Valley quail are found in these bottom lands, too, but their range also goes into adjoining foothills, well up into tributary canyons, where their range overlaps that of the mountain quail.

Valley quail occur along southwestern Idaho streams draining into the Snake and Salmon rivers in counties as far north as Washington and Adams, and eastward into Elmore, Gooding, Jerome, Twin Falls, Cassia and Minidoka counties. In addition, both valley and mountain quail are hunted successfully along water courses in Ada and Owyhee counties. Hunting for Gambel's quail in Lemhi County has been permitted since 1952.

The history of regulations on quail shooting shows an interesting change in management concepts during the years — from complete closures to the present liberal limits.

During this time of over-protection, the only significant changes in quail numbers, it is now recognized, were due to changes in land use which altered the habitat.

Opening earlier and closing later than ever before, the more liberal seasons and bag limits of recent years are developing dyed-in-the-wool quail shooters who are beginning to enjoy this sport for its own merits; rather than just collecting a quail now and then while in pursuit of other species of upland game birds.

Already, Idaho natives are beginning to join shooters from other states in asking the vital question, "Where can we find some quail?"

REHABILITATION SET
BOISE (AP) — Rehabilitation of 40,000 acres of rangeland burned by fires in eastern Idaho will begin next week, the Bureau of Land Management said Friday. The land is in Butte, Blaine and Bingham counties and was burned over July 21.

BRIDGE BY JACOBY

Sometimes bridge players argue about success. South stuffed dummy for about ten minutes before playing the first card from dummy. Then he won the trick in his own hand and played out dummy's ace and king of clubs. When both opponents followed to the second club South

South replied, "The actual chances of success with the club play was 71 per cent. I don't play in a vacuum and would have abandoned clubs had they broken 5-9 but you overlook the fact that my club play gave me a considerable extra chance. Suppose East showed out on the second club. I would go after diamonds and have a 24 per cent chance of making my contract. East could hold both diamond honors. Or West might show out on the second club. Then I would still have a 52 per cent chance of success because I would make the hand if honors divided."

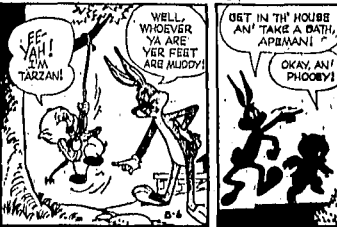

North and South have appealed to us for an opinion and our answer is that as a matter of strict mathematics South's line of play is superior. His combination play works out to better than 80 per cent. Nevertheless we would almost surely have attacked diamonds because we would reason that West would surely have opened a diamond if he held both the king and queen.

conceded a club trick and claimed his contract.
North remarked, "Your play worked, but as a matter of strict mathematics you should have won the spade in dummy and taken a double diamond finesse. Unless West held both king and queen of diamonds that play would have worked. There is a 78 per cent chance of finding one of two honors in the East hand. There is only a 68 per cent chance of breaking the clubs 3-2."

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, AUGUST 7—Born today you have an arresting personality that makes even those who don't know you approach you with a hand stretched in friendship. Because you are open and straightforward, you will almost always accept the hand that is offered and should end up with a list of friends unequalled by the majority of people. Only take care that you do not begin to rely so much on the presence of friends that you are uneasy when alone. Maintain your ability to keep to yourself when needed.

Although you find learning easy, and have the added asset of an excellent memory, you, like many born under the sign of Leo, are not primarily an intellectual. That is, you cannot exist happily for the sake of a happy balance between mind and body, and need to exercise the latter just as much and as strenuously as the former.

Because you are easy-going and enjoy being with other people so much, your career may get off to a slower start than you would like. You will have to learn to give to your job the time and energy it deserves; once you do this, you should have no difficulty pulling ahead of the crowd. Again, it is a question of balance. Work and play each have their place, and it is up to you to give to each the place that belongs to it.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your

Monday, August 8
LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Avoid unwholesome sentiment as you attempt to add others out of their difficulties. Keep the facts clear, you will almost always accept the hand that is offered and should end up with a list of friends unequalled by the majority of people. Only take care that you do not begin to rely so much on the presence of friends that you are uneasy when alone. Maintain your ability to keep to yourself when needed.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—You can be both student and teacher today as you direct others and learn for yourself at the same time.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Avoid legal proceedings if at all possible. Seek the advice of experts if in doubt as to how to untangle your affairs.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Systematize your knowledge today and you should be able to make a better showing in future. Professional advancement may depend on it.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Avoid talking too staunch a position. Flexibility may be more to your advantage today than fixed determination.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—Contribute to the welfare of others if you would reap the rewards of generosity and genuine concern.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—The possibility of dangerous consequences is high for the Aquarius who insists upon striking out alone.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—Dignity and seriousness are the two qualities that will take Pisces farthest today, especially where partnership is concerned.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Don't make this a day devoid of levity. Try to see the light

Reversed

CASCADE, Idaho (AP)—An official count Friday reversed the unofficial decision and made State Sen. Vincent A. Nally Jr., winner of the Republican Senate nomination in legislative District Nine.

Another incumbent, Sen. J. E. Yensen, R-Boise, had been named the "winner" in the battle of unofficial results, showing him five votes ahead of Nally, R-Gem.

But a vote canvass Friday gave Nally 1,662, Yensen 948 and Joseph Winsten Jensen of Emmett 494.

Nally will face another incumbent, Sen. Woodrow W. Bean, D-Cascade, in the Nov. 8 general election.

side even of the serious situation.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—See that you have the freedom to determine your own course of action today. Refuse to subject yourself to the will of another.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—You should be able to place your trust in the promises of tried-and-true friends. Be warned, however, against the advice of strangers.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—If considering relocating, either professionally or domestically, take stock of the entire situation. Don't move too quickly.

AIRMAN TO TRAIN

FILER—Airman Gary V. Friley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Warren C. Friley, Route 1, Filer, has been selected for technical training at Amarillo Air Force Base—Texas—as a U.S. Air Force aircraft maintenance specialist.

Nine Area Boys Among Those Learning Forest Ways at Idaho Youth Camp

BY R. L. LINGENFELTER
BOISE—For the most part, the road to Priest River takes the little town of Priest River runs straight as an arrow. Our destination through the corridor of tall firs and pines which stand like military sentinels on either side of the highway was the Idaho Youth Conservation Camp. Skirting the little village of Coon nestled on a lower corner of the lake the smooth asphalt highway is abruptly a humpy, pitted logging road which winds along the eastern side of the lake. Soon the locked-for sign appears which announces the inclined road leading up into the camp.

There is something mysterious about camps of this sort. Some are hostile to the casual visitor, others are sort of neutral—with no personality while still others seem to announce to the newcomer, "We're friendly." Camp Pioneer is one of the friendlier.

The Idaho Youth Conservation Camp, established in 1961 by the Idaho legislature, is now in its sixth year. It runs from June 20 through August 16 this year.

Young Idaho men from the ages of 14 to 17, inclusive, are eligible to attend the summer long camp. The only other requirements are that applicants be in good health and that they make a suitable application each year to the State Forestry Department. Names are drawn by lot in each legislative district.

There are nine conservation camps from the Magic Valley area. They are Mike Inchasi and Wes Miller, both of Buhl; Steve Hovey, Shoshone; Tim Davis, Twin Falls; Dave Lind, Heyburn; Scott Jacobs, Jerome; Larry Ascasua, Burgeon; Paul Breeding, Bailey; and John Wagner, Hurley.

of forty-seven boys. Each is furnished a pair of logger-boots, medical care, tent and board and a dollar a day for eight hours work—five days a week. Also, each receives a share of two other items which cannot be divided out in portions: the flavor of adventure and the excitement of roughing it in the woods.

With amazing enthusiasm these boys ready themselves for the day's tasks. Following the flag-raising ceremony and morning briefing by Camp Director Skip Chibberg the boys scurry about gathering up tools and other equipment and then scramble onto the trucks or other vehicles which take them to their jobs.

There are three principal tasks that the six eight-boy crews are working on. One of them is a pole-making project for the Boy Scout World Jamboree at Farragut State Park which will be held in 1967.

Another project is tree thinning. Around Priest Lake many areas are so thick with trees that the process of growing saw log size timber is almost at a standstill. Again, on Soldier Creek, Forester Horn has marked the trees that were to be preserved for timber production and then the youthful woodmen cut down all the rest.

The third project is the improvement of a winter deer browse area near Priest River. Just below its outlet from the lake, after the crews finished their improvement cuttings, the deer will have better access to more palatable and nutritious plants on which to feed in the winter time.

It is the intent of the State Forestry Department and the Idaho Legislature that the Youth Campers be exposed to as many forest work experiences as possible. For this reason the crews are rotated from one project to another and current projects are being introduced into the work schedule during the course of the summer.

One would think that after eight hours of work in the woods the campers would be content to take it easy in the evenings—perhaps washing clothes or writing a letter to mom and dad or the girl friend. One would think wrong. There are all sorts of activities going on after supper. Volleyball, horseshoes, softball games, the usual teen-type shenanigans and now and then a swimming group will go up to the Indian Creek State Park beach. Then there are fishing trips almost every evening.

Dennis (Skip) Chibberg, a recent graduate of the University of Idaho at Moscow, is especially proud of his staff. His assistant director, Phil Luckey, is a graduate of the Idaho State University and is presently employed as an athletic trainer at Bowie High School in El Paso, Texas.

Larry Cassidy ranks high on the staff. It is his work that keeps the camp going. He is the cook. Of course, like most cooks, he is full of malarky but that doesn't alter the quality of his cooking.

Ralph Ruebel, Jerome; Don Nelson, Priest River; and Jack Quinn, Spokane, all have had several years staff experience at Camp Pioneer. As well as being a camp-wise—they have many seasons of woods-work experience in behind them which Actress Ponders Question: What Became of Male Stars?

EDITOR'S NOTE—Barbara Stanwyck, whose career stretches back to the kind of story drama in today's world of acting. Here she puts her finger on it by looking back to the old days, when Hollywood stood for glamour.

How about television? Hundreds of young actors have played "lead" in series, but I leave it to you as to how many turned out to have the quality of a star.

Perhaps in this case the trouble is overexposure. Maybe we save them too often too soon. Would Gable have had that special magic for all of us if we had seen him every week?

A friend of mine has suggested another partial answer. Maybe we're becoming too calloused, too hurried, too intent on our own concerns to spare much attention for a hero of any type. He pointed out that John Glenn, for example, got nothing like the adulation that Lindbergh received. And what fighter has come close to generating the excitement of Jack Dempsey?

As I say, these are just partial answers. The big secret still eludes me. Maybe you can tell me. I wish someone would.

Because I'm old fashioned, I like to look up. And when I do, I want to see the stars.

I can think of circumstances is valuable in their role as counselors.

The other four counselors are now to the Youth Camp. John Tietema is a professor of education and psychology at Lewis Clark Normal School in Lewiston; Bob Hendon has been instructor in zoology at the University of Idaho and will head for the University of California this fall; Bill Melver is a graduate student in psychology at the University of Idaho and H. D. (Smitty) Smith is a retired Air Force sergeant and professional hunter.

Three Indicted

BOISE (AP)—A federal grand jury accused a former Pocatello bank teller, her private detective husband and a bartender Friday with stealing and embezzling $6,000 from the bank where she worked.

Four count indictments were returned against Mrs. Verna Robinson, 31, her husband, Willis, 38, and Buddy Lee Welch, 38, in connection with the theft from the "Alameda" branch of First Security Bank in Pocatello July 26.

A HALF HOUR LATER...

THEN...

...SO WHY DO TO

OUT OUR WAY

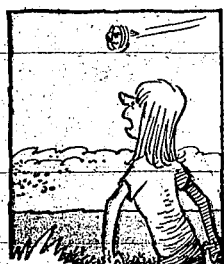

"The Willets"
by J.R. WILLIAMS

ALAZY SUNDAY P.M. IS A DANDY P.M. FOR TREE-WATCHING.... THERE'S ONLY A FEW OF US OLD-TIME SOLITUDE-SEEKERS LEFT,....

HEY! WHAT ARE YOU DOING OUT HERE ALONE?

HEY! YOU THREE ANTI-SOCIAL OR SOMETHING?

THE HOUSE IS SO JAM-PACKED WITH SILENCE THERE ISN'T EVEN ROOM TO READ IN IT!

HEY! WHAT'S THE IDEA OF EVERYBODY DESERTING ME? I'M ANTI-ANTI-SOCIAL, YOU KNOW VERY WELL!

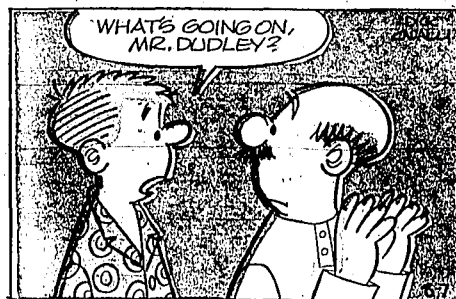

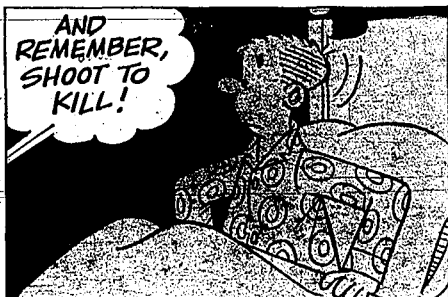

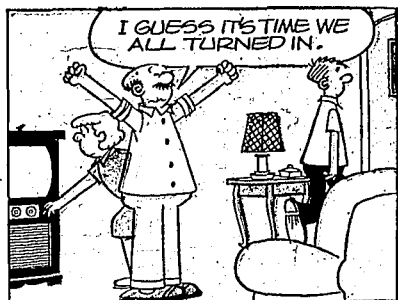

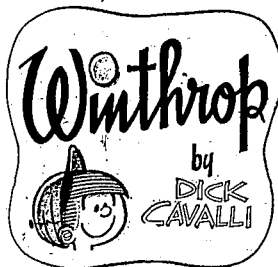

LIKE I SAY, THERE'S ONLY A FEW OF US OLD-TIME SOLITUDE-SEEKERS LEFT!

*It was
chance to use
Karate, but I forgot and used
my fist*

*I turned to see
Bermuda
Schwartz, a fact not surprising since it was her house*

If SHE forgot karate, Judo served its purpose
