

Man Charged With Killing His Mother

NEW YORK (AP) — As only a 19-year-old, Stephen Worral was worried about his mother's health. He worried when his 21-year-old brother, Stephen, was in college and later when the boy dropped out of school.

After giving up his academic career, the father said, Stephen spent most of his time in their Queens County home. He had no job.

Some weeks ago, Worral said, Stephen came to work again when Stephen took to bickering with his mother.

He took the boy to a physician who put Stephen under treatment for a nervous condition. Saturday, Worral said, Stephen began another argument with his mother.

The physician had prescribed a tranquilizer drug for the boy but the supply ran out.

So, Worral hurried off to the drug store to renew the prescription, hoping one of the pills would calm Stephen down.

When he returned, he found a policeman questioning Stephen at the living room door.

Worral found his wife lying on the floor with a knife protruding from her back.

Worral's father, Stephen, was taken to police headquarters where he was held with a knife in his hand.

Police said Stephen had called precinct headquarters earlier to report: "I've just stabbed my mother."

Stephen was taken to a hospital where he is recovering from his wounds.

Stephen's mother, Mrs. Mary Worral, was taken to a hospital where she is recovering from her wounds.

ELGIN, Ill. (AP) — A mother and father pleaded Saturday for research on a disease that has killed two of their six children.

The latest victim is 3 1/2-month-old Joseph Donald Kazmarek of Carpenterville, Ill., who died Saturday.

The parents, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kazmarek, both in their early 30s, said Saturday they are unable to identify the disease but that it can be passed on from generation to generation.

Although they know of no such disease in their background, doctors have told them they appear highly susceptible to pneumonia which has killed two of their babies susceptible to developing the condition.

TWO SUCCESSFUL campaigns have left their mark on the shoes held by Sen. Mary Brooks. Following her re-election to the Idaho Legislature Tuesday, Mrs. Brooks shows how the soles were starting to come loose on the shoes in the last days of the campaign. She plans to keep the shoes.

"Lucky Shoes" Going Into Storage—"Just in Case"

RUPERT — Those "lucky shoes" became a sort of trademark for Sen. Brooks. She refers to the shoes as being "lucky," yet cautions no other signs of superstition. She estimates she may have walked as much as 2,000 miles in the shoes while campaigning, and matter-of-factly dismisses them as "comfortable walking shoes."

For the next week or so Sen. Brooks plans to do a little cooking. She'll be cook for a crew of men branding calves on her ranch near Muldoon. When that project has been finished, she may be returning to another job, her position as assistant chairman of the Republican National Committee.

She soon discovered her campaign shoes were involved a whole of a lot of walking. Mrs. Brooks says she still doesn't know if she met every business county voter in 1964, but "I walked hundreds of miles, knocked on hundreds of doors and—missed anyone?—I'm certain was an oversight!"

The campaign was successful and afterward she posed for a picture showing one sole practically off one of her campaign shoes.

Last spring, when she decided to seek re-election to represent an enlarged district comprising Blaine, Blaine and Lincoln counties, Mrs. Brooks ran across the all-but-forgotten shoes. It was a major project, but a shoe-repair man restored the campaign shoes and they

GOP Gains May Cut War Funds

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican gains in the new Congress could lessen the possibility of a tax increase next year to help pay the Vietnam war.

But as far as the Johnson administration is concerned, the question is not how much the war will cost, especially the extra money requested in January to continue the fight through the current fiscal year.

Some sources Saturday saw the increased number of Republican faces in the new Congress — the GOP picked up 47 House seats — as indicating a greater insistence on cuts in nondefense spending.

Such a move could reduce the need for new taxes, if President Johnson should decide a tax increase is needed.

The administration is already trying to cut spending as much as possible without harming what it considers essential domestic programs but Republicans next year might insist on even deeper cuts.

One key Republican, Sen. George D. Aiken of Vermont, has said the GOP gain will force the President to abandon any effort to seek a tax increase to curb inflation. He had predicted earlier the President would request a 10 per cent hike.

If the Republican-Democratic balance in committee assignments reflects the GOP gains in the House, both the Ways and Means and Appropriations committees could take on a more conservative one controlled by a combination of Republican and Southern Democrats.

It is Ways and Means Committee's assignment to initiate any tax bill.

Even before Tuesday's election, congressional sources said the chance of the administration proposing a tax increase to Congress in January had lessened since August but it was still "in the realm of possibility."

Johnson has consistently left the door open and said the question would be determined largely by the cost of the Vietnam war and by how much nondefense spending can be cut.

Factors being considered by the administration in arriving at its decision are still mixed and, in some cases, pulling in opposite directions.

The cost of the war, for example, has soared beyond the ad-

Major Roman Catholic Rule Changes Are up for Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major changes in Roman Catholic practices in the United States — perhaps including abolition of the "fish on Friday" rule — are up for decision.

Prelates numbering some 250 are to convene Monday for an extraordinary episcopal conference, continuing through Friday.

Their massive agenda reflects the historical-making Vatican Council, 1962-1965, designed to attune church customs more closely to modern needs.

For the first time the cardinals and bishops will elect a president and vice president from among their number. Hierarchical ranking prelates has automatically presided at

Reorganizing Plan for Loan Firm Nearing

BOISE (AP) — A plan to reorganize the Idaho Savings and Loan Association is nearing completion, but still takes some time before the closed institution may reopen, according to Idaho's acting Finance Director Tom D. McElDowney.

McElDowney said Friday that any plan for reorganization of the firm would have to meet with the approval of Third District Court, the Department of Finance and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corp., before the firm could reopen.

If the plan meets approval, he said, it would be at least four months before Idaho Savings and Loan could open.

Part of the financial backing needed to reopen the institution has been promised by businessmen, McElDowney said. He said some additional funds would have to come from the depositors themselves.

Joseph McCallum of Twin Falls is head of a group of depositors drawing up the plan.

BOARD SETS MEET
BOISE (AP) — Idaho State Forester Roger Guernsey says the Cooperative Forestry Act will meet Nov. 17 in the Capitol.
Discussion will center around forest management, beetle infestation of Idaho's timber and the financial crisis created by last summer's forest fires.
Guernsey said the Southern Idaho Timber Protective Association was planned last summer by "fire troubles unprecedented in the long and distinguished history of Idaho." Legislation bills now amount to $750,000.

PILOT IS SAFE
BOISE (AP) — A North Idaho pilot whose plane was found in storm clouds by Air Force search plane is safe in Boise today.
The pilot, Ron Fleming, a Bay View motel owner, who called for help late Friday when he climbed to 14,000 feet near McCall, was getting lighted by the search plane and was still not above the storm.
Fleming said he came on guidance from the storm on a flight from Bay View to Apple Valley, Calif.

INVITED TO MEET
MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Governor-elect Don Samuelson and the entire cabinet are invited to meet here by the North Idaho Chamber of Commerce for a session on the region's problems and potential.
Samuelson has been invited to speak at a Friday night banquet of the chamber's Thursday through Saturday fall meeting. Some 95 of the state's 105 new legislators are expected to attend. Winston Cook of Bonners Ferry, chamber president.

Man's Prison Term Is Cut After 27 Years
CROOKSTON, Minn. (AP) — After 27 years behind bars, Andrew O. Larson has won his freedom. But he says he'll stay in the county jail, where he is freed out what to do with his future.
"I'm sort of at a loss to know what I should do," the 71-year-old Larson said.
In all his years at Stillwater prison, Larson never tried to learn a trade.
"I figured since I was in for life, I wouldn't need a trade," he said.
Larson was 44 and a farmer near Fosston when he was arrested in 1939 for the shooting death of his wife's brother, Carl Syverson of Fosston.
Larson was convicted of first-degree murder and sentenced to life at Stillwater Prison.
One day last May, after consulting legal books in the prison library, he sat down with a piece of yellow paper and wrote a letter to Judge William J. Johnson of Washington County District Court, Stillwater.
He asked that his confession had been illegal, that he was advised he could have a jury trial, that they didn't even let me talk to a lawyer.
Judge Johnson granted a writ of habeas corpus, said the original trial had been "sham and a pretense," ordered the judgment set aside and Larson was returned to Crookston.
A retrial was scheduled for next Monday.
But the Polk County attorney's office decided Friday they would charge to first-degree manslaughter, Larson was taken before District Judge Charles Swenson and entered a plea of guilty.
Judge Swenson sentenced Larson to the minimum term, 20 years in prison. But the judge gave Larson credit for the time he already served at Stillwater. That meant Larson was free.
He was asked whether he was bitter after all those years in prison.
"No, I don't feel bitter," he said. "But it just wasn't legal. It was like a kangaroo court."

Deaf Fiddlemaker Discerns Success By Expression on Player's Face
BERKELEY, Mich. (AP) — Totally deaf, Harrison, 43, also expressed a hope that someday he would stop by, and I could watch his face as he played." Don't, for goodness sake," Harrison laughed, "compare me to a violinist."
"Oh, no," Mischoff said. The Antonius Stradivarius is the famed 18th century Italian violin maker. He Stradivarius is acknowledged as among the world's finest violins.
Mischoff learned of Harrison's fond hopes to see him play one of his violins while the musician was in Massachusetts on a recent tour with the Detroit Orchestra.
He already had said he would play one before he got a letter from Helen L. Schwartz of Vincennes, Ind., urging him to do so, saying:
"Ben Harrison will have a better Thanksgiving if you call at his shop."
She'd read a nationwide Associated Press feature on the deaf fiddlemaker who wondered how his instruments sounded and said he'd know if only he could see a master's face as he drew a bow across the strings.

Richfield Seeking Rural Fire District Formation

RICHFIELD - Richfield village councilmen and fire commissioner J. M. Brown, announced Tuesday plans for securing a rural fire department, backed by the Richfield Lions Club, Richfield-G.A.A.G.A. and Richfield volunteer fire department.

A meeting was held at the Richfield school last spring where "community approval" of the measure was expressed.

The formation committee, working the past six months, completed a request for inclusion of the Richfield Village within the proposed district, with help from the law firm of Murphy and Boller, Shoshone.

Petitions now are being circulated for the creation of a fire protection district according to provisions of Idaho law for presentation to the board of county commissioners.

The area to be served comprises not less than 1,000 acres of continuous territory with total assessed valuation of at least $100,000.

The signed petitions will ask for a hearing to be called of all taxpayers within the proposed district to gain approval and establishment of the new district by election of taxpayers.

It is estimated that the proposed district would have a tax base of about one and one-half million dollars with a reasonable annual levy providing all necessary support needed by the fire district. The village of Richfield is presently levying a reasonable annual levy for fire protection and supplementing the levy from general fund in order to meet the department operating expenses.

Combined expense paid by both funds over the past five years has been approximately $100,000.

Commissions within the village for fire protection will be about 6 mills with expense probably being $100,000 under the authorized appropriation of councilmen last spring of $1,000.

Commissioners Brown is asking that all Richfield taxpayers sign the petition calling a hearing on proposed districts and requesting that all be able to describe their property and assessed valuation on the petitions, as shown on their tax notices.

Petitions for Richfield residents are at present at the post office and at Piper's Shopping Center.

Petitions are being circulated in rural areas by a committee composed of Carl Morgan, Albert Pelley and Eugene Alexander. Taxpayers can arrange to sign the petition by contacting one of these.

The new district, if approved, can borrow or become indebted, up to an amount of 5 cents per dollar valuation during the first year of formation. A three or four mill levy in addition would provide necessary financing for the first year.

"Highest expense of operating the department is in the coming year," Brown is noting, "Carl Morgan, who has been active in working for a fire protection district, and has experience with fire districts and fire department work while living in California. Carl L. Coble, chief engineer of the Idaho surveying and

A tentative plan calls for sending about 10,000 civilian engineers, technicians and army force reservists to South Viet Nam, the sources said.

The proposed "peace corps" would eventually have about 20,000 members, including about 7,000 Korean civilians already in Viet Nam, the sources said.

NEW GOVERNOR AND FIRST LADY, Don Samuelson and his wife, Ruby, take time out to smile for cameraman at their home in Sandpoint following Samuelson's election as Idaho's new governor.

Idaho's Next First Lady Places Chief Interest in Her Husband

By BETTY PENSON — SANDPOINT, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's next first lady is a diminutive woman whose chief interest in life is her husband. This description might apply to half the first ladies in the history of the state, but it is likely there ever was another quite like Ruby Samuelson.

She is as friendly as "Lu" Simpson, for whom she has a great admiration. She is as humorous as Grace Jordan, as articulate as Virgil Clark, as pretty as Pat Robbins, as forthright as Mary Brooks and about the size of Mary Borah, to name a few of the passages of our Republican times.

And in time she might become a speaker like Louise Shadduck. At least, the first speech she ever made was a heart-warming success.

It was in Payette during Don Samuelson's campaign for governor that she was literally forced into it. "I asked for help from you," she said, "and I got it. The words just seemed to roll right out."
Here are her statistics: She is 10, born in Connecticut, green eyes, brown hair frosted, weight 118, considers herself "a plain gal." Is an ardent flowerwoman and hunter, mother of two and grandmother, of one. In love with her husband, seldom at a loss for words but at his request about her new "job."

Consider the decisions facing her. Whether to move their accumulations of years, including her husband's counties, "collections" which range from "cows" to 11 cuckoo clocks. . . whether to sell their house of native rock (much of which she actually helped him build), . . . how to get her husband into their trailer to head for the woods for a few days' rest. . . whether her father-in-law, Fred Samuelson, will want to leave his bachelor quarters in a trailer house next door and move to Boise with them. . . and what to wear to the inauguration ball in Boise in January.

But most of all, she needs housekeeping hints which she hopes to get from Lu Smylie.

One thing, for sure, she will bring when the Samuelsons move into the governor's residence at 121 N. Main in Boise. "A lovely, carved cuckoo clock."

"A lovely, carved cuckoo clock."

A MOUNTAIN OF LITTLE FIGURES is displayed by Mrs. Robert Wenstrom at a recent gift and decorations program in Gooding. The mobile was made by Mrs. Ernest Francis Gooding, and is fashioned with felt doll and animal figures for small babies to entertain them in their cribs or play pens. Women attending the program received tips on almost every subject pertaining to Christmas, with Mrs. Ralph Skinner, Buhl, discussing home decorating hints. (Times-News photo)

DEMONSTRATING how to make ceramic lamps is Mrs. Thomas Faussett, Hagerman, at the Christmas Festival hosted by the Gooding County Extension Homemakers Council, at the Gooding Hall. Mrs. Faussett explained that she makes the lamps with a base, and glues small pieces of ceramic tile to the base to form a pattern. She then wires the lamp, adds a shade and presto—a beautiful lamp fit for anyone's home. (Times-News photo)

Christmas Festival Attended By More Than 200 Area Women

BY MARY THOMPSON

GOODING—Christmas gift ideas and decorations were everywhere, and the women were eager to learn how to make some of the various items displayed around the room at the Gooding Grange Hall, when more than 200 women attended the annual Christmas Festival.

Displays, featuring handmade items from Christmas decorations for tree and home to gifts for babies and adults, and anyone in between, were set up by members of home demonstration clubs throughout the county.

The event is sponsored each year by the Gooding County Extension Homemakers Council and has become well known for its numerous displays. Guests attended from throughout Magic Valley along with three guests from out-of-state and one from England.

Mrs. Paul Kearley, Wendell, council vice president, served as mistress of ceremonies, and Mrs. Roy Graves, Gooding council president, was general chairman. Mrs. Ruth Shane, extension home economics agent, welcomed the group and told of extension club programs and lessons offered to county women. She invited women to form extension clubs and take advantage of educational opportunities offered. National Consumer Education Week scheduled Monday through Friday was announced and activities explained.

Women received tips on almost every subject pertaining to Christmas. Mrs. Ralph Skinner, Buhl, discussed home decorating hints.

Two men ventured in among all the women to sing several songs for the entertainment of the group. Gary Major, director of public assistance, and Dale Walton, county extension agent, sang for the group. Music was also provided by Mrs. Feath Eaton, Wendell, at the piano.

Entertainment also was presented by a girls' sextet and mixed ensemble from the Idaho State School for the Deaf and Blind. Mrs. Deloris Robinson, instructor, was their accompanist.

During the afternoon, demonstrations were given on a variety of "do-it-yourself" projects. Mrs. Kenneth Strickland, Gooding, showed a "rock garden" centerpiece, which she had made, and showed those attending how to construct one for themselves or for a gift.

"Fish Bowl Planters" was the subject of a demonstration by Mrs. Raynard Wright, Tuttle. Mrs. Thomas Faussett, Hagerman, showed some beautiful ceramic lamps, and explained how they were made. Mrs. Lyle Lower, Wendell, chose the very practical subject, "How to Make Mittens," for her demonstration, and who wouldn't be pleased with a handmade pair of woolly mittens on Christmas morning? (Continued on Page 11)

"MAKING A FISH BOWL PLANTER is very easy," explained Mrs. Raynard Wright, Tuttle, as she put the final touches on her display at the recent program featuring handmade items for Christmas decorations and gifts. Mrs. Paul Kearley, Wendell, Gooding County Extension Homemakers Council vice president, was master of ceremonies. (Times-News photo)

DISPLAYING SMALL ornamental Christmas trees are Mrs. Charles Hobday, Buhl, left, and Mrs. Hugh Caldwell, of the Wendell Home Improvement Club. One tree is made from common teasel weed found along ditchbanks, and the other is made from pinecones which have been clipped and spread out to resemble flowers. More than 200 women attended the annual Christmas Festival at the Gooding Grange Hall. All displays were set up by members of home demonstration clubs throughout the county. Mrs. Roy Graves was general chairman of the event. (Times-News photo)

A BEAUTIFUL AND UNUSUAL centerpiece or decorative accent can be made when you antique plastic flowers, according to Mrs. Feer Andersen, Wendell. Mrs. Andersen demonstrated this entirely new and different field of decorating at a recent Christmas Festival in Gooding. During the afternoon, demonstrations were given in a variety of "do it yourself" projects. Mrs. Ruth Shane explained the extension club programs and lessons offered to county women. Marva Cowger Is Bride of Chester Leach

In a double ring afternoon ceremony solemnized Oct. 8 at the First Baptist Church, Holton, Kan., Marva Cowger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Cowger, Twin Falls, became the bride of Chester A. Leach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leach, Holton.

Rev. Henry Delrison performed the ceremony before an altar decorated with arrangements of white gladioli, tied with white satin bows.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white peau de soie and Charilly lace featuring long lily pad leaves and a fitted lace bodice and chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil was held by a tulle crown of pearls. Her only jewelry was a birthstone necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

She carried a bouquet of orange-hydrangeas, encircled with white roses and cascading satin streamers on a white ribbon.

Bridal attendants were Farrelle Maughn, maid of honor and Helen Vanatta, bridesmaid. Michael Larkin was best man and Les Broadbent was groomsmen. Ushers were Davis Cheek and Walter Tompkins.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Tompkins. Mrs. Michael Mobley and Edith Leach, sisters of the couple, were in charge of the gifts.

The bride's table, covered with a white damask cloth, was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated with orange roses and topped with the traditional miniature bride and groom. Lighted orange tapers in crystal holders flanked the cake.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Dorothy Wegener and Mrs. Evelyn Cress, aunts of the bridegroom. Punch was poured by Mrs. Arch Cowger, assisted by Mrs. Jesse Cowger, aunts of the bride.

Following a short wedding trip to Kansas City, the couple reside in Topeka, where both are continuing their education at Washburn University.

Out-of-state guests attended from Idaho, Oklahoma and Nebraska.

1/2 teaspoon pepper
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup sliced mushrooms
1 1/2-ounce can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup dairy sour cream

1 tablespoon minced parsley
Brown pheasant pieces on all sides in butter in a large skillet. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Add onion and mushrooms. Continue to brown until onion is golden brown and tender.

Combine soup and water. Add to pheasant. Cover and simmer for one and one-half hours until tender. Remove pheasant to heated platter. Slowly add sour cream. Heat thoroughly, but do not boil. Serve over pheasant. Garnish with parsley.

(Note: This recipe is handy especially for wives of hunters. It also gives a special flavor to pheasant.)

(The Times-News will pay $2 each week for the best recipe for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Edition, 1730 Oakley Ave., Burley. The property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

Holiday Fashions

Be the glittering, sparkling, beautiful main attraction at festive events this joyous holiday season. Lovely and luscious are the gowns... short or long... that we've collected especially with your holiday activities in mind. That perfect dress is here.

Yule Festival Well Attended By Area Women

Mrs. Ester Anderson, Wendell, entered an entirely new and different field, and told the guests "how to antique plastic flowers." This involves the use of varnish, and various other items, and results in the popular variety of plastic flowers available turning into a beautiful and unusual centerpiece or decorative accent.

Mrs. Mary Goodnow, Goodnow, covered both practical and beautiful phases in her demonstration of making novelty pillows. She showed various finished products and the use of constructing beautiful and practical pillows.

Mrs. William Boller, assisted by Mrs. Hugo Eichelberg, both Gooding, returned to nature in a way and showed how to "sand-dry flowers." They explained their technique and showed a variety of dried arrangements, using flowers dried by this method.

This reporter feels sure any of these gracious women would be happy to share their "recipes" for any of the variety of items demonstrated with anyone who was unable or did not attend the all-day Christmas session.

During the afternoon, those attending were put more in the Christmas spirit when Mrs. Loyd Crosby, Wendell, sang Christmas songs, accompanied by Mrs. M. J. Barton, also Wendell.

It seems quite likely that everyone who attended went home with a firm resolution to "get busy right now, and make at least some of these delightful items for gifts." Come Christmas time, we'll see how talented all our women are.

Weighting 232 pound things, standing over 8 feet, she is the founding member of the Big Girls Club, an organization which is campaigning to improve clothes for outsize women and girls.

"Fat women want to look pretty, too," said the blue-eyed mother of two children, "but we're condemned to wearing drab colors and atrocious designs."

A pair of a sign-ripped-over her size-17 frame.

"God knows we don't want to wear miniskirts, but we would like to be just a bit fashionable."

A soft-voiced, gentle and happy woman, she added: "Getting the right clothes is not today's main problem. There are lots of shops — but not too many — catering for the big woman. The nightgown is still a woman. She can't get young clothes in my size."

Years of searching for pretty clothes have convinced her that the designers have only women middle-aged to older in mind when they make dresses for the bigies.

Psychologically, "30-40-40" is not a very happy word, and added: "Shopping is a real chore for the big girl. It's not just dresses. It's underwear, coats—night dresses, stockings. The stockings are always too short."

"Wouldn't it be easier to go to 'It might be easier," replied Mrs. Webb, "but it's not what you want. I'm very happy with my size, thank you, and so is my husband. He says he wouldn't have me any other way."

"I was big when I married me, and well, I certainly have grown up a size or two, but I don't intend to. My husband is of right, and we're a happy family. Weight is not my problem. I'm just a woman who loves to be dressed for the big girl."

"I've thought about this situation for a long while," she said. "Then, just recently, I realized that my own daughter, Alison, is growing up, and that there's a whole new generation with a problem like mine. I decided to do something about it."

Alison, 8, weighs 140. Mrs. Webb's son, Julian, is a big boy about the usual weight for his age.

"My husband — is — tall — and thin," laughed the organizer of the Big Girls Club. "He estimates more than any of us, but he never gets fat."

When is a sea-faring man, working on one of the big liners that come to and go from Southampton.

"All of a sudden it came to me that no one is really doing anything about trying to get well-designed, pretty clothes for big girls," explained Mrs. Webb. "That's when I went into action."

She took the bus down to her local newspaper.

"I'm a great believer in newspaper, since it's the only kind of such help in so many matters."

An editor assigned a reporter to interview her.

"She was very young, very pretty, and very slim with a beautiful figure. When I saw her, my heart sank, for I thought my cause was lost before I started."

Project for Playground Is Explained

Trail, Boise, discussed Veterans Day observations throughout Twin Falls, and 150 people attended a Veterans-Day luncheon Friday at the American Legion Hall. (Times-News photo)

Trail reported that the school will donate approximately $400 and that $150 received from the recent chili supper is for the project.

Christensen said that the school board members will canvass the district for donations towards the project and also collect any unused books for the school library.

Instigated by Elmer Moore, junior high athletic director, the project reportedly is the biggest yet undertaken by this PTA unit. Every year the organization has a project for school facility improvement.

Located on the north side between the junior high building and the band shop, the concrete area will cover 62 by 80 feet and will provide facilities for competitive sports. These will include basketball, tennis, volleyball, roller skating and shuffleboard.

According to Everett Savage, unit president, the work was started last week with cash, material and labor being donated by several groups. Klopfer Concrete Co., Paul, has donated labor, equipment, 10 yards of concrete.

Other donations have come from Wendell Mill and Lumber for concrete forms; village of Heyburn for labor and equipment; Dean Young, Idaho State highway inspector, for surveying; "Ponderosa Inn," cash; Walter Thompson, area contractor, for labor to smooth and finish the poured concrete.

Land Christensen, school principal, said.

His analysis of the nation's responsible world power has no other choice than to assure the failure of Communist aggression.

"To follow any other course would be an evasion of the responsibility of power, and in the final analysis an abuse of power. Furthermore, it would be a stain of dishonor on our heritage and freedom," he declared.

Burdett spoke on the closure of the Idaho Savings and Loan Association at the North Side Board of Realtors meeting held Wednesday night at the Manhattan Cafe.

She told of individual problems the closure has caused. Declaration of committee members working for the reopening and the difficulties entailed through denial of loans, the sale of other Savings and Loan businesses in the state and some banks by which they were adversely affected by the closure.

People have become more questioning and cautious in regard to their savings, where it is and what is being done with it, she noted.

Recent developments indicate the holdings of Idaho Savings and Loan are sufficient to guarantee a thriving business and acceptance by the State Department for its reopening soon, she said.

At this time a reliable, capable man is being sought to head the organization and the staff must be secured.

Mrs. Burdett explained insurance details for the organization and amount of reserve stock that must be set up for the opening.

She said persons with a check made out to them by Idaho Savings and Loan before the closure can now present that check to the Department of Finance and receive the money.

Mrs. Burdett is the coordinator for the depositors in the Idaho Savings and Loan and initiates the movement for depositors.

Austria's Plans May Be Meet Issue

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Neutral Austria's plans to close links with the West European Common Market may be a key issue next week in talks between visiting Soviet President Nikolai V. Podgorny and Austrian leaders.

Podgorny is to arrive Monday on his first official trip abroad since he became head of state last December.

An informed source said Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko, in a recent meeting with Tancic at the United Nations, warned that his government would consider any form of Austrian association with the Common Market incompatible with the country's neutral status.

Republicans May Boost Retirement Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson's anticipated troubles with rebounding Republicans may take a reverse twist when he asks the 90th Congress to increase Social Security benefits.

GOP leaders have been breathing fire since Tuesday's election victories about backing away at spending programs but they may decide to go Johnson one better—in boosting retirement pay for the elderly.

—This would give their party at the outset of what is likely to be a tumultuous session a chance to demonstrate its interest in a bloc of voters it would like to have in its corner in the 1968 presidential election.

Johnson has said he plans to seek an increase of at least 10 percent in Social Security benefits. He has not said how to will proposed to finance it.

But if the President doesn't beat them to it, Republicans are likely to come up with a proposal to raise the minimum payment from the present $4 a month to $70.

The administration has opposed any increase of this scale in the past and Republican sponsors have never been able to get it adopted. But they have added strength now and may be able to enlist enough Democratic support to put it over, even though financing of the increase presumably would come out of general Treasury revenues rather than from new Social Security taxes.

Johnson has yet to decide whether to ask for an income tax increase to help finance the mounting costs of the Viet Nam war. He has mentioned the possibility that climbing revenues may make this unnecessary.

If the President does seek a tax boost, the Republicans may have to dig up some new reasons for opposing it, particularly if it promises to reduce the government deficit, come close to budget-balance and lessen inflationary pressures.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin, chairman of the House Republican Conference, mentioned the possibility of "an equitable tax increase while plugging also for reduction of expenditures on existing 'Great Society' programs."

Johnson has recognized that the primary difficulties he will encounter because of the increased Republican strength will stem from coalition GOP-year.

The President still has on the shelf a bag of odds and ends which may fare no better than they did in the 89th, when they were bypassed.

These include truth in lending, gun control, Electoral College reform, campaign financing and hospital modernization legislation.

'Don Quixote' Presentation Set at Buhl High School

—BUHL—Thirty-eight young actors are wandering around the halls of the Buhl High School muttering snatches of what some critics call the "greatest novel ever written."

Thirty-eight copies of Cervantes' "Don Quixote" are showing definite signs of wear as the opening date of the Buhl High School senior class play edges closer.

The premier performance, a free matinee for Buhl elementary school students, is set for 1 p.m. Thursday. Four additional performances will be presented.

The play concerns the adventures of the impractical idealist Quixote, a romantic Spaniard and chivalric hero bent on righting wrongs. It expounds on a widely used theme of the conflict between benign and evil forces and asks if "do-gooders" really do good.

Regardless of the play's merits, or lack of them, its presentation by a high school senior class is extremely unusual, according to Aldrich Bowler, director.

"It is not a typical school play, and we hope that it surmounts the trite mediocrity of such school plays," he said.

Bowler, who is also the director of Buhl's Antique Theater, stated that the Buhl school has gained an area-wide reputation for commendable performances of unique and challenging plays. The school's 1965 senior class production was Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."

High school theater in Buhl has gained an enviable status with school athletics, Bowler noted, adding that the "Don Quixote" cast includes nine first-string varsity football players.

"For a production like this, one, you really have to have several strapping, husky actors for authenticity," Quixote just can't be played by a 97-pound weakling," he said.

Bowling said, "I may see one of them making what I consider to be a drastic misjudgment, but it won't interfere," he said, "because the learning experience definition involves mistakes in judgement."

asm about the play by noting that the arts, which have always been a prime emotion outlet, give adolescents something to become involved in and be stimulated by.

Techniques used in the student production feature Bowler's adaptation of the Stanislavsky method of acting, colorful costumes, Spanish idioms and strict adherence to the authenticity of the period.

Cast members include Chuck Cullings as Don Quixote; John Vail, Sanchez Pagan, William Baggs, Duke Ricardo; George Willard, Don Hernando; Miriam Conover, Duchess; Cathy Monahan, Dorothea, and Janet Tullis, Lucinda.

—Performances will be given at 8:30 p.m. Thursday, Friday and Saturday, and at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Admission ranges from 50 cents to $1.

Six weeks of rehearsal have gone into the production, costumes have been rented from the Brigham Young University art stock, and set and lighting arrangements have been worked out to the most accurate margin possible.

All of the work has been done Bowler said.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Army fullback Chuck Jarvis scored a first-period touchdown on a six-yard run Saturday which stood up for a 6-3 victory over stubborn California in their intercollegiate football battle.

Although Cadet quarterback Steve Lindell put on an offensive show by personally accounting for 243 yards, the Army victory had to be preserved by intercepted passes and fumble recovery in the fourth quarter.

The Cadets, who put their record at 7-7, marched 80 yards in 11 plays on the touchdown drive. Lindell completed four passes for 42 yards and a 19-yard pass-off march with a 19-yard dash up the middle.

For the Broncos, it was the ninth straight victory of the season, and set up a battle next week between the Broncos and the No. 2 team, Taft College of Taft, Calif.

Boise didn't go far until the second quarter, when the Broncos got a field goal from the foot of Gary Strick.

The Broncos then got a touchdown just before the end of the half on a six-yard pass from Terry Squibb to Jeff Drapp.

The only scoring in the third quarter was a safety, when downed Yakima punter Mark Mochel for two points in the Yakima end zone.

Bronco Rich Spits intercepted an Indian pass in the fourth quarter and kicked a 27-foot touchdown. Silvers missed the kick.

With only 1:43 left in the game, a punt by Boise into the end zone and Yakima scored on the next play, as Greg Rogers punted to the end zone. Aligner kicked the point to make it 18-7.

Jets' Title Hopes Go on Line Against Buffalo

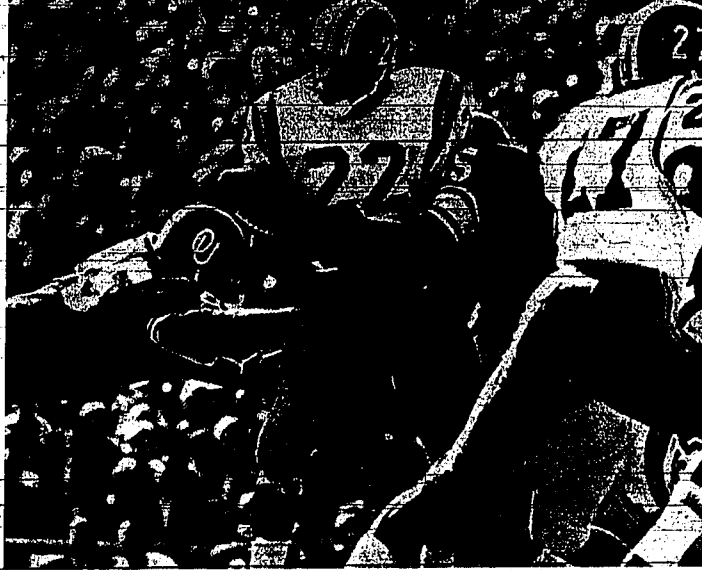

By The Associated Press
The New York Jets, who have been singing "Things Are What They Used To Be" for the last month, shuffle off to Buffalo Sunday where the theme song of the Jets has been "Let's Do It Again."

The Jets won four games and tied one before losing three in a row and falling into a tie for second place in the Eastern Division of the American Football League. Meanwhile, the Bills rebounded from defeats in their first two games to sweep into a division lead with a 27-10 victory over New York and Boston.

Now, just two weeks after suffering a 30-23 beating by Buffalo, the Jets are fighting on their young-lives-as-far-as-title-hopes go.

Eastern York Coach Wes Egan, impatient at his club's recent offensive failures and faithfully remembering Buffalo's interception of five of his passes, Egan's passes two weeks ago, has shaken up his backfield for the important contest.

Arizona State Late Oregon Bid for 14-10 Win

TEMPE, Ariz. (AP)—Arizona State thwarted an Oregon drive in the closing minutes Saturday night to gain a hard-fought 14-10 intercollegiate football victory.

The victory snapped a two-game ASU losing streak, raising their record to 2-5. Oregon's record dropped to 3-6.

Arizona State scored in the opening period when fullback Travis Williams smashed off tackle from two yards out to cap a 22-yard drive with a 35-4 remaining in the quarter.

The remainder of the first half saw the teams jockeying for field position. ASU found Oregon both punted five times. Oregon got on the scoreboard late in the second period when Quarter Cunningham booted a 25-yard field goal after Hart Carlier intercepted a Rick Shaw pass and carried it to the Sun Devil 15-yard line.

Shaw found the range in the third quarter when he hit end Dewey Forester on a 37-yard punt. Forester's kick was blocked by Williams run over from the Sun Devil one-yard line. They got the ball back two plays later when Pat Hildreth recovered a fumble by Arizona State's Jim Bramlet on the ASU seven-yard line.

Fullback Steve Jones closed out Oregon's scoring a few plays later when he went in on a one-yard plunge. The Ducks ran out of downs on the ASU 40-yard line with less than two minutes to go after moving from their 20.

Nicklaus finished with 273. Nicklaus made a brilliant charge at the race-setting Canadian, coming from six shots behind at the start to two at the end, and tying at the 72nd hole. Nicklaus chances collapsed when he took a double bogey on the 15th.

Clay Rated 5-1 Favorite Over Aging Williams

HOUSTON (AP) — Cassius Clay, the busiest heavyweight champ since Joe Louis, will make his fifth title defense of 1966 Monday night in the Astrodome against 33-year-old Cleveland-Williams, a fearsome puncher in his younger days but now a 5-1 underdog. The 15-round match, scheduled for 10:30 p.m. EST, will be carried on network Mutual radio and closed circuit television Main Bout Inc. to some 125 locations—with 500,000—see it in 111 cities. It also will be beamed to England on the Early Bird satellite and to 42 nations by film.

Promoter Earl Gilliam expects a crowd of close to 50,000 for the first title fight in the big dome with tickets scaled from $9 to $5.

Williams is lucky to be alive let alone fighting for the heavy weight title. Doctors battled for weeks to save his life after he suffered a critical gunshot wound in the stomach in an altercation with a highway patrolman, Nov. 30, 1964.

During a lengthy hospitalization he underwent several major operations. Williams' weight dropped from 214 pounds to 150. His ring career appeared to be finished.

Although Williams, known as the Big Cat, still carries the policeman's slug in his stomach, he has come back. He recuperated on the ranch of his new manager, Hugh Benbow, a Texas oilman, and resumed boxing in February.

He has won four straight, two by knockouts. But nobody can be sure if he still packs the punch that gave him his 65-4 record with 51 knockouts. He has been stopped three times, once by Bob Satterfield and twice by Sonny Liston. Clay, 24, still appealing his draft board's reclassification to

Notre Dame Humbles Duke 64-0, Scores 43 Points in First Half

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Nick Eddy's 77-yard touchdown scamper on the game's second play ignited a 43-point first-half explosion which carried top-ranked Notre Dame to a 64-0 football rout of error-stricken Duke Saturday. In storming to their eighth victory, the Fighting Irish impressively tuned up for their big showdown with second ranked Michigan State next Saturday with a sharp display of passing, speed and alertness. Notre Dame scored three touchdowns in each of the first two quarters as Duke quickly unraveled after Eddy's 77-yard scoring sprint touched off the massacre.

Coach Ara Parseghian opened the second half with Irish reserves against the 25-point underdog Blue Devils, who suffered their fifth defeat against four victories.

By the time the first half smoke cleared, Notre Dame had produced two touchdowns on Terry Halpry's passing, another on a tricky 55-yard interception-lateral play, and two on short plunges.

Most important to the Irish was the return to form of star split-end Jim Seymour, who missed two previous games because of a wrenched ankle and who figures to be a big threat against Michigan State.

Seymour grabbed three Hanratty tosses for 27 yards, including a 16-yard scoring flip which gave Notre Dame its 43-0 halftime lead. It was Seymour's sixth touchdown grab of the season.

The period ended the Wyatt-to-Schenk combination—clicked for 60 yards and the final Filer touchdown. Wyatt converted.

Krahn Paces Gooding Past Wendell 20-6

WENDELL — Kenny Krahn plunged in for two short touchdowns and Chris Gooding swept 25 yards on an end around for a third Friday afternoon at the Gooding Senators rolled past the Wendell Trojans 20-6.

Gooding did a good job of stopping Wendell's ground attack but the Trojans moved the ball through the airways, usually with Jim King on the receiving end. Both clubs were hampered by injuries to fullbacks. Gooding missing Ward, Toone and Wendell Ron King.

A 55-yard pass from Larry Adairson to Jay Bough provided the first big threat of the game. The play came with 30 seconds left in the half and carried to the Trojans' two-yard line. It took Krahn two tries but he finally cracked in.

Adairson took the second half kickoff and rambled down to the Wendell 20-yard line before being overhauled. A penalty moved the ball back 15 yards but in five plays Gooding scored again, this time on a one-yard plunge by Krahn. Joe Hillfield added the first of two conversions.

Gooding ground 60 yards for his final score. Adairson started it with a 15-yard punt return then shared carrying duties with Krahn to put the ball on the 25. Oakley swept in from there.

Wendell's touchdown came on the end of a whirlwind 80-yard march that took only four plays. A 30-yard pass to King was the big one and another aerial to King got the lead.

HIKES LEAD — COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP) — Clemson scored twice in the first quarter and choked off three bids by Maryland for touchdowns with pass interceptions for a 14-0 football victory that lightened the Tigers' grip on the Atlantic Coast Conference lead.

Carter Guides BYU Past Utah by 35-13

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Virgil Carter passed for three touchdowns and ran for another as Brigham Young easily beat Utah 35-13 in a Western Athletic Conference football game Saturday. He was aided by a line that refused Utah running room. Carter tallied short of his performance a week ago when he threw for five touchdowns against Texas Western, but what he did against Utah was more than enough. He connected on scoring tosses of 24, 11 and 62 yards and completely baffled the redshirts. He also ran for a touchdown, bucking over from the one on a sneak.

The victory set up a possible WAC championship game next Saturday between BYU and Wyoming. A victory by Brigham Young (3-1 in conference play) would give it a tie with Wyoming (4-0).

A capacity crowd of 28,776—the largest in the Utah stadium in five years—watched as Brigham Young's rugged line bottled up Utah's speedy backs. Ben Woodson and Mary Lowery, Woodson got free only once on a plichot that carried 40 yards—down—the sidelines to Utah's second score.

Carter was deadly with his passes, with 18 completions in 31 attempts for 255 yards. He lofted one scoring pass to Kent O'Brien in the first quarter, fired the ball low to Phil Odie on a three Utah defenders on a 62-cut-in pattern in the end zone, yard play.

But the Bulldogs, ranked ninth in the nation, began methodically chewing up big pieces in the Auburn line from the start of the third quarter and never let up.

Casey Boyett—among three Utah defenders on a 62-cut-in pattern in the end zone, yard play.

Vandals Crush Montana Behind Record-Setting Performance by McDonald

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Led by senior fullback Ray McDonald's triple-record performance, the Idaho Vandals crushed the Montana Grizzlies 40-6 Saturday in a Big Sky Conference football game before 5,500 thrilled spectators. McDonald set records for 37 carries in the game, boosting his season total to 288 and—in gaining 178 yards—pushed his nine-game total to 1,074, 72 higher than last year. He had carried 35 times against Pacific earlier this year and carried 213 times last year. He also tied the school scoring record of five touchdowns. Bill Miehlich scored five times against Montana in 1946. McDonald made only one real penetration, getting five of its game total of six first downs in scoring in the second quarter. He added a 15-yard penalty. Montana moved 65 yards in 15 plays with Don Molloy getting the touchdown on a five-yard run.

Tulsa Downs Montana State 13-10

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tulsa's injury-riddled defense made the big play when it had to Saturday and the Hurricanes eased past stubborn Montana State, 13-10 in a non-conference football game.

The defensive unit twice rose to the occasion in the final five minutes with Tulsa nursing a three-point lead.

With the bobcats driving toward the Tulsa goal, a series of Tulsa defenders slammed into Hank Utra and forced a fumble which Terry Stuebel recovered for the Hurricanes at the Tulsa 39.

The bobcats had one more chance, but a fourth-down pass from quarterback Dennis Ertson to Don Hiss fell seven yards and Tulsa took over on the Montana State 35 with about one minute left.

In the fourth quarter Erikson scored 37 yards for Montana State's only touchdown. Tulsa drove 58 yards to score the first time it got the ball.

Ricks Retains National Cross Country Crown

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Ricks College of Newburg, Idaho, easily retained its title in the national junior college cross country championship Saturday.

The defending champion, with Don Zaph placing fourth, had 47 points to 102 of runnerup Glendale Community College of Glendale, Ariz. Vincennes University of Vincennes, Ind., was third with 113 and Allen County Community College, Iola, Kan., fourth with 125 points.

Scott Giddings of Glendale took individual honors of the three-mile course in record time of 14:50, beating the old mark by almost two minutes.

Michigan State Belts Indiana 37-19 to Clinch Big Ten Title

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Jimmy Raye brought Michigan State to life with his passes in the second quarter and the Spartans overwhelmed Indiana 37-19 Saturday to wrap up the Big Ten football championship. The victory gave Michigan State its second straight crown and perfect conference season. The Spartans played dead for the first 10 minutes of the game and then managed to grind out a 7-0 first-quarter lead on the ground. Raye went to the air and completed six passes without a miss in the second period, five of them in two sequences that paid off with touchdown tosses of eight yards to Dwight Lee and 29 yards to Al Brenner.

UCLA Drops Indians 10-0 Behind Beban

LOS ANGELES (AP) — UCLA's versatile quarterback, Gary Beban, scored on a 24-yard rollout and Kurt Zimmerman kicked a 21-yard field goal as the Bruins edged Stanford 10-0 Saturday in a fumble-filled Pacific-8 football contest.

By winning the Bruins kept their Rose Bowl hopes alive, but those hopes may depend on the outcome of next Saturday's UCLA-Southern California game.

The Bruins, 8-1 for the season and eighth in the nation, have to beat USC, then await a vote of Pacific officials to decide the bowl bid.

Stanford broke a dubious record by losing six fumbles to the Bruins, and the UCLA secondary picked off two Indian passes.

For the game, Raye completed seven of nine passes for 171 yards and three touchdowns. Frank Stavroff of Indiana broke the Big Ten passing record with 316 yards on 23 of 36 passes. Two went for touchdowns. Jerry Snook of Iowa set the old record at 310 yards.

The Hoosiers' astral game lost some of its punch when end Bill Couch was injured on a reception in the third quarter. Couch's left knee was hurt and he was taken to a hospital. He had caught five passes for 66 yards.

Clay Jones spearheaded the Spartans' powerful running game, gaining 87 yards in 20 carries. Sophomore Regis Cavender got their ground touchdowns on two runs of 14 and 8 yards.

Barefooted Dick Kenney of Michigan State scored a 27-yard field goal on the last play of the first half and missed a 57-yard attempt in the third period, the ball hitting the left goal post. One of his four extra-point kicks was a 33-yarder, the ball having been set back by a penalty.

The rugged Michigan State defense held Indiana to minus-10 yards by rushing.

Miami Rolls To 38-14 Win Over Pitt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Miami Hurricanes, who usually rely on a sprawling defense, finally found a scoring punch Friday night against Pittsburgh, trampling a weak Panther team, 38-14.

Quarterback Bill Miller sided line—two games back because his wild passing was giving Coach Charlie Tate a bad case of nerves, came off the bench and probably won his job back with a sterling performance.

Miller hit 13 of 16 passes for 103 yards, threw for one touchdown, ran for another and allowed no interceptions in two quarters of work.

When he turned the job back to David Oliver, the score was 31-0.

"This is the first game since Colorado that we didn't have to sweat right down to the wire," said Tate. "Miller looked great. He regained his confidence and poise."

Scoring only one touchdown in each of the last five games, Miami still managed to beat fifth-ranked Southern California and then undefeated Georgia. And all the credit belonged to one of the country's finest defensive units.

Late Field Goals Let Parsons Edge Idaho State 13-8

FAIRFIELD, Iowa (AP) — Parsons roared from behind with two field goals by John O'Dell Saturday to edge Idaho State 13-8 and win a football bowl game bid. After the game Parsons officials said Coach Chelo Huerta received an invitation to play in the Mineral Bowl Nov. 26 at Excelsior Springs, Mo. Parsons opened the scoring with a one-yard run by a halfback George Smith after picking up 15 yards on a tackle-eligible pass from Daynor Prince to Mac Stuart.

Behistoun Is Winner of International

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Behistoun, flying through the stretch like a wild horse, won the 15th running of the $150,000 Washington, D.C., International Laurel race track Friday to give France its second straight triumph in the 1 1/2 mile turf classic.

Russia's Aniline finished second after setting most of the pace for the field of 10 seven-course specialists from seven countries.

Charles Engelhardt's Assagai, the favorite, was third, Vasca de Gama, one of the three French entries, was fourth.

Far back during the early running, Behistoun, owned by Alice Weiswiler, closed in on the leaders with one quarter of a mile remaining. In the run for the finish line, he fairly ate up the turf under the whip ride of Jean Deforge, who won the race last year with Diamant.

Behistoun was the fifth for France in the International and gave foreign countries an 8-7 margin over the United States.

Behistoun, 3-year-old son of O'Grady-Betiole, carried 128 pounds over the trying distance in 2:28.25, compared to the track record of 2:23.45, set by Kelson in 1964.

Tom Rolfe, the second American representative carrying the silks of Raymond-Guests, U.S. ambassador to Ireland, never was in serious contention and finished sixth.

TWIN FALLS OUTLASTS CAPITAL BY 14-13

Sunday, Nov. 13, 1966 21

Two Scores by Johnson, Touchette's Blocked Kick Earn SIC Runner-up Spot

Given the edge by the running of Dick Johnson and Pat Touchette's clutch point-after blocked kick, the battered Twin Falls fought off the Capital Eagles in the closing minutes to register a 14-13 victory Friday afternoon and clinch a share of second place in the Southern Idaho Conference. It was a matter of Twin Falls running wild in the first half and Capital dominating the second. The key to the game was in a pair of superlative halfbacks. Twin Falls Johnson, who picked up 120 yards in 13 carries and pushed his season rushing total to 1,016, scored twice for the Bruins while Rick Hulbert got both touchdowns for Capital. Johnson traveled 57 and 12 for his two tallies while Hulbert went 61 and 15.

Indians Steamroll Tigers by 35-0 Tally

BUHL—Eighty-ranked Buhl outgained Jerome over 300 yards rushing and almost 100 yards passing Friday afternoon as the Indians wound up their season with a 35-0 victory. The victory gave the Indians an 8-2 record in the Central Idaho Conference crown. Buhl was undefeated in conference play. George Willard got the Indians rolling with two touchdowns in the first quarter on runs of four and three yards. Duane Unzicker passed to Charles Cullings for the one conversion and ran the other one himself.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

BY LARRY HOVEY

Once again it's time for that "once rush in where wise men fear to tread" stuff as this is the day we pick our 1966 all-star football team.

This poll is adopted by the "Times-News" sports department and some of the making this a one-man selection, although Assistant Sports Editor Bob McGee will share the responsibility as he has been asked by 15 of the 24 area teams.

Whenever we go into this thing we are reminded of the statement made to us by coach Rulon-Budge of Burley. "You guys (sportswriters - casters) pick your all-star teams that way and I'll bet your pants off." It is a fairly common statement of coaches in the area. We proceed with the team that for one reason or another caught our eye.

Twin Falls completely dominated this year's selection. We have nine Bruins on it, four more than before. Only one man has been selected by more than twice. Twin Falls' 200-pound tackle Chris Thompson.

It was easily the best line-man we need all year. Coach Ed Troxel told a college recruiter, "As in years past we've judged a bit in decisions on strength in moving men from offense to defense. We cheat only in two places, fullback and halfback, naming one extra in each."

Here goes. In the backfield we want Twin Falls' Johnson, the best runner in the area who is very good at receiving passes and returning punts and kickoffs. The other two halfbacks are Morris Gunnell, Burley, and Larry Adamson, Gooding. Gunnell sometimes is very good, often times is the trouble. Adamson is a heady runner who can also help out in the specialties. He is a runner for over 1,100 yards in six games.

At fullback we will have Dave McCollum, described by several officials as the best blocker blocking back to come through Magic Valley in a long time. The other is Buhl's George Willard, whose punt return makes his 165 pounds seem 300 pounds heavier.

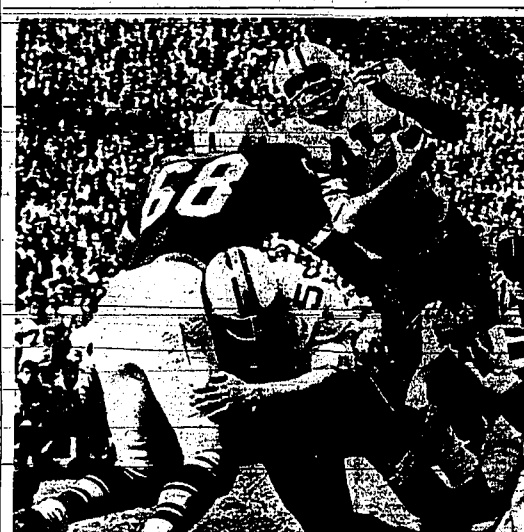

Quarterbacks need go to Twin Falls' Von Wells who appears the best around although he's still learning his trade. There were times that Wells very definitely looked like the junior but others when he had all the poise required of a signal caller. Augmenting that is his foot—3 yards average in punting.

The end position appeared the weakest in the district but we have a couple that can play the position. Buhl contributes lanky Chuck Cullings, who began his career as a fullback. The other is a runner who can play either a runner or a fullback. He is a runner who can play either a runner or a fullback. He is a runner who can play either a runner or a fullback.

The center is Ratlike of Wood River. "He's the best lineman in the district," says Coach Bill Bowman. Bowman is wrong there but Ratlike is a good center.

The defensive alignment finds Scott Swape, Twin Falls, who easily earns "best tackler" and Marv Pierce, Jerome, who bobbed around from end to guard

Hanks, Burley Nip Minico in Last 60 Seconds

RUBERT—Gordon Hanks went three yards on a weak-side sweep in the final minute Friday afternoon to give the Burley Bobcats a 13-6 victory over arch-rival Minico and an undefeated record in the Eastern Idaho Conference. The Bobcats, whose only loss came at the hands of Buhl-Land left the double-time Bobcats in second place in the Cross State league, never led against the inspired Spartans until Hanks' sweep. Burley wound up with an 8-1 record while Minico settled for a 3-6 year.

Vikings Slip Past Indians By 7-6 Score

EDEN-HAZELTON—Bernie Schutte's conversion kick proved the difference Friday afternoon as Valley edged Shoshone 7-6 in the school's annual Veterans day game.

Valley got its only touchdown in the first quarter on a 40-yard pass play from Ted Black to Russell Jarvis, and Schutte followed with the conversion.

Burley got the winning touchdown on the end of another long march. Hanks got a 20-0-0-0-0 fourth down situation.

Burley wound up the day with 114 yards net against 87 for the Spartans. The Bobcats had an edge in first-down 15-10. Each team threw three passes, Minico completing all three while Burley saw two go incomplete and the third one intercepted.

Dale Perkins was the deciding figure in Valley's ground attack, gaining 110 yards as the Vikings picked up 13 first downs to eight for Shoshone.

McNamara Wants to Standardize Chow for GIs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has a new unification goal for the armed services: He wants to standardize chow.

Officials of the Pentagon's newly established Directorate for Food Services said Saturday the one of their first tasks will be to push through a regulation that the Army, Navy and Air Force on an equal food allowance basis as of next July 1, the beginning of fiscal 1968.

Right now sailors get bigger meals.

The Navy, under a 1933 law, is allowed 20 ounces of meat per man—daily, 1.5 eggs—and 44 ounces of fresh vegetables. The Air Force and Army, whose eating habits are regulated by presidential order, get 18 ounces of meat a day, one egg and 21 ounces of vegetables. In fact, the only similar service ration is the daily allotments of coffee, milk, and flour.

Despite this, sources said the Air Force and Army aren't completely sure they want the new food—directive to tell them how much food to serve.

"We're having some difficulty getting through to people," acknowledged Navy Capt. James A. Warren, director of food services. "But all we want to do is bring the Army and Air Force up to the same high standard as the Navy."

"The services all won't have to serve the same menu."

Once the services are all on the same food standard, Warren said, the food directorate "will have an opportunity to evaluate and improve all standards. There's no way in the world to evaluate now."

But McNamara unification projects, this one without the food officer said, cost the Defense Department money. The armed services currently are allowed about $1.1 billion annually for food and allowances; the higher standards will add an estimated $6 million to that total, Warren said.

Why were the Navy's standards fixed by law 33 years ago? "We've never been able to find out," he said.

Adult Leatherworking and Woodworking Classes Set

An organizational meeting for adult woodworking and leatherworking classes will be held at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the O'Leary Junior High School shop.

All persons interested in doing woodwork or leatherwork are urged to attend this organizational meeting. The classes are sponsored by the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department.

The classes will be held once a week, the night to be picked by those attending the organizational meeting. The instructor will be Ray Beaumont, junior high shop teacher.

Beaumont said one of the projects from last year's classes was entered in the Twin Falls County Fair, hobby division, and took first place. It was a lamp.

Beaumont said he hopes within three weeks to have fiberglass for a fiberglass class.

He noted that materials for these classes will be available at the shop.

Old Home With Character Is Purchased by Twin Falls Bachelor With Remodeling Ideas

By O. A. (Gus) KELKER
Times-News Feature Editor

It has been around longer than most of the other homes in Twin Falls and, from all indications, it will still be here when a lot of the newer ones are gone and forgotten.

It is a home with character. It has a clean, white face. It is two floors high and just about square. It sits on the corner of Elighth Avenue and Second Street North.

When it was the pride of the first owner — the address was 203 Elighth Avenue North at that time — it will be in good stead just about as far as the eye could see.

Now the house with the 203 Elighth Avenue North address hunks of mud in the rainy times. The year was 1906 when the owner is the only occupant at that time. Just two years before Jerry Shane, a bachelor, has moved in. He admits that he doesn't make much of a splash ed just about as far as the eye could see.

He lives there because he likes the formal atmosphere of a big — and old — home with large rooms, plenty of space for no reason at all — but still providing modern conveniences.

He first saw the house when he attended a social evening in it. It was then owned by Dr. (Continued on Page 23)

STATELY HOME AT 203 Elighth Avenue North, one of the first homes to be constructed when Twin Falls started, will retain the same outside look although the interior is being and will be further modernized. The house presents an example of what can be done by owners who desire the comfort and "feel" of old homes while still having more or less modern conveniences inside. The house is in its 60th year and is probably better able to withstand the elements today than when it was first constructed. (Times-News photo)

UPSTAIRS BATH is contained by stained glass window of pioneer vintage which has been in place since the house was constructed. Present bath fixtures, however, are modern in design which tends to make the old window even more of a conversation piece. Space on the second floor includes three bedrooms. (Times-News photo)

OLD STYLE brilliant white brick fireplace is at one end of the "parlor" in Jerry Shane's 11-room mansion in Twin Falls. With his desire to decorate the interior in an early Spanish motif, an original oil of a Spaniard in period uniform and also large candlesticks have been added. Shane thumbs through a dictionary which rests on an early "book stand." Although the interior has and will be modernized, the exterior will remain as it was when the house was first occupied about 1906, just a couple of years after the town of Twin Falls started. (Times-News photo)

WAITING FOR BABIES to "hit." Vicki Knight and Sarah Stobaugh put in their shift during the election babysitting project Tuesday which was sponsored by the Methodist Youth Fellowship at the church. Miss Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Knight, and Miss Stobaugh, daughter of

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stobaugh, along with Mrs. Keith W. Wiedenheit, reported that the idea had been successful, was planned for an annual project. But nobody showed up. The church nursery was open from 4 to 8 p.m. to provide care for children while the parents voted. (Times-News photo)

Royal Hats Win Oddball Title of Year

LONDON (AP) — Are Princess Margaret's royal cars cold?

If they aren't, why has she been wearing a series of kooky, head-bugging hats?

With no explanations — royalty doesn't explain — she has made a series of public appearances in the oddest looking hats of her hat-wearing career.

They had one thing in common — they sheltered her ears.

Early in October, she attended a London art exhibition in a Spanish style lid that covered the ears.

A week later, she appeared in Poole, County Dorset, in a black and white head-bugger; stargazers could not see so much as a tip of the royal ear.

Nov. 1 she generated comment by fashion writers in London when she appeared in public with a fur-trimmed hat that supported ear muffs, tied with ribbons — and, her pretty chin.

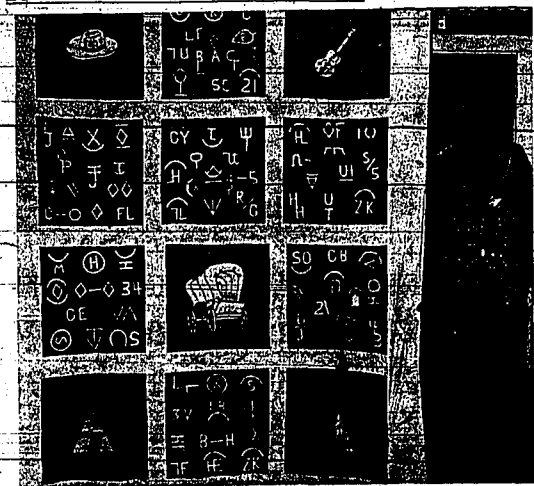

Last Tuesday, on her way to bleak Scotland, she wore the strangest looking lid yet — a hat that resembled a football player's helmet studded with nails.

It could be the weather. It's fairly nippy, but not so nippy that thousands of other English women have clapped on earmuffs.

In any case, hatmaker Edward Mann has named Princess Margaret the winner of the title "Best Hatted Oddball for 1966."

EARLY PIONEER design of stairway to second floor has been retained. The white finished wood stands out against the gold leaf wallpaper which runs from the first to second floor. Unique today, but commonplace when the house was built, is the round window half-way up which lets in light on the stairs. Jerry Shane, now owner of the old, but interesting, structure, heads upstairs in this picture. (Times-News photo)

Unique quilt, featuring brands of members of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association has become a conversation piece in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Austin Paulie, Fairfield. Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Mr. and Mrs. Austin Paulie, FAIRFIELD, are the proud owners of a rather unique quilt made by members of the Cow Belles, the woman's auxiliary of the Cattlemen's association. It features brands of all members of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association and is proving to be a conversation piece in the Paulie home.

Mrs. LeRoy Hollowell, Bliss, publicity chairman for the Sage chapter of the Cow Belles, explained that obtaining the brands was quite a project. All members were requested to send in their brands and Mrs. Roy Mink, Gooding, spent at least four afternoons cutting, sewing and applying the brands. Other members of the group did the quilting.

The quilt was displayed at county fairs in SHOSHONE, FAIRFIELD, GOODING and GLENNES FERRY. The Purple Sage Cow-belles have members in the four counties.

Paulie, who is night marshal at Fairfield, and his wife are moving to Chicago soon. He has served two terms on the village board and has served as secretary and noble grand of the Odd Fellows lodge.

A native of Boston, Paulie was first introduced to Idaho during the 1930's when he was stationed at the Fall Creek CCC camp in Elmore county. After his enlistment he operated a robed the animal about two miles back to their camp and this took them almost two hours. The deer was shot in a tree next to their trailer.

The tree came in at 10:30 a.m. to eat breakfast, then went back to their hunting at 11 a.m. They were gone until approximately 12:30 p.m., Robison estimates. When they returned, they were horrified to discover the big buck was gone.

Robison says he could identify the deer by a small hole through the left horns under one of the small points. He is not concerned about the hole, but like all hunters, would like to have the head to mount.

He says if whoever took the deer would leave the head somewhere near the Robison home, he would pick it up with no questions asked.

The Bull farmer, who has farmed in the area since 1954, did get a taste of the "big buck" anyway. His wife manages to have the heart and the liver.

Bulgarians Laughing at Propaganda of Red Chinese.

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) — A group of laughing Bulgarians stood around a showcase in front of Red China's embassy, looking at photographs of "the practical application of Mao Tse-tung's teachings."

A girl pointed at the picture of Chinese physicist said to have found four new sources of energy by studying Mao's works. Then she brought her forefinger up to the side of her head with a twisting movement, highly uncomplimentary to the physicist.

The crowd burst into unrestrained laughter, joined by the policeman on duty at the embassy gate.

From a window of the ornate embassy building, a local expressionless Chinese face looked out on the scene. The policeman glanced up at the window and the grin froze on his face.

Red China's "great cultural revolution" is considered a huge joke by ordinary Bulgarians, but at the official level it is no laughing matter.

One high official describes the Soviet-Chinese dispute as communism's greatest crisis since the Bolshevik revolution of 1917. The same official, less than two years ago, brushed aside the dispute as "merely an ideological difference" which could never disrupt the solidarity of the world's two major Communist powers.

In the meantime, he says, the "great cultural revolution" has widened the breach beyond re-

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

First question this week comes from L. A. R. Shoshone: "I'd after his daughter, who was named Longene, and is model of course, not an Indian."

Another official compares the Red Guards with Hitler's storm troopers and says the destruction of China's cultural heritage is reminiscent of the Nazis' book burnings in the 1930's.

"Like Hitler, Mao has only one real objective — war," he adds.

At the recent Soviet bloc summit meeting in Moscow, most of the Soviet Union's allies agreed that a reconciliation with Red China's present leaders was inconceivable, informants report.

Only the hesitation of Romania — and, surprisingly, Poland — kept this view out of the final communique issued in Moscow, the sources add.

In Bulgaria, generally regarded as the Soviet Union's unswerving ally, there is no hesitation. Western diplomats sense a grim new attitude here toward the "great cultural revolution" since the Moscow summit.

Some Bulgarian officials express a hope that China may "come to her senses" and eventually discard Mao and his heir apparent, Lin Biao, to return to logical difference which could never disrupt the solidarity of the world's two major Communist powers.

Others are more pessimistic. They foresee an ever-growing conflict, heightened by Chinese territorial claims in Siberia and Mongolia and the development of a nuclear striking force.

There has been a family quarrel long time. One of them is dated 1882 and is an entirely different color than the others. It is a kind of shiny metal like our nickel. Is this a counterfeit or what is the matter with it?"

Answer: There is nothing wrong with your coin. Prior to 1857 the United States struck the old, large cents and colored issuing cents of the present size.

A coin called the "Flying Eagle" cent was the first issue of the small-sized group, but was struck only in 1857 and 1858 for general circulation. They were made from copper-nickel and were a very light color, hence they were called "white cents."

The first Indian Head Cent was struck for general distribution in 1859, and of the same metal, as were the issues of 1860 through 1864. Also struck in 1864 were the familiar colored "bronze" cents, so that 1864 has both varieties of metal. Your coin is a perfectly normal example of Mint issue, and is, incidentally, a fairly scarce coin. It would bring you somewhere around $15.00, if in uncirculated condition. The Indian Head Cent was designed by an engraver outstanding amount of about $2-million, of which yours is a part.

Unfortunately, these small metal cents are in a very poor condition — so that badly worn fractional currency does not have much collector value. However, if it still legal tender, and you could take it to the post office and buy stamps with it, I can imagine the surprise of any postal clerk if you did so.

If you care to write and describe your notes, I can be a little more specific as to values. A very few of these notes are quite hard to come by — and there is a chance you might have one of these; in which case your note might be worth a considerable amount of money. In any event — they make nice conversation pieces, if you do not redeem them.

Our search for Idaho merchant's tokens goes on. We have taken now from 115 Idaho communities, but still have found none from the Declo area, and the Malad City area. If you have knowledge of any merchant's tokens, or "hickies," used in the 1800's or 1820's, we would appreciate a letter. Your postage will be refunded.

Adults Still Set Pattern Youngsters Follow, Juvenile Officer Declares

Basically the young people of today are no worse than they were one year ago, but it is still a case of the adults setting the pattern the youngsters follow, according to Ernest E. Marlow, juvenile officer in charge of the juvenile division in Twin Falls.

ERNEST E. MARLOW

Marlow, who has been with the department since 1948, was transferred to the juvenile division when it was established by the late Chief Howard Gillette in 1955.

It was the first such division in Idaho and was watched with interest by departments over the state. It has been successful.

Marlow was logical choice for the newly created post. He had been a star athlete in his earlier years and liked youngsters. He knew their problems.

The city sent him to a special course in delinquency control at the University of Southern California and a member of the National Health Education Association certificate. Since that time he has taken many special courses at his own expense and during portions of his vacation time.

In 1963 he went to the Los Angeles State College at Orangeville for a special police course and he only recently completed a course given by the U. S. Treasury Department at Long Beach, Calif., on narcotics.

He also has completed a correspondence course from the University of Chicago in police administration.

He holds a teachers certificate in police science in both California and Idaho and teaches at a community high school in Twin Falls. He has received the distinguished service award from the PTA board at the high school for two years, he is a member of the Twin Falls County Mental Health Association and a member of the board of Harbor House Association.

He also has served as president and a member of the board of the YMCA, has been a committeeman on two different Scout troops, is a member of Kayser Masonic Lodge No. 94, has participated in United Fund drives and worked with the Chamber of Commerce.

He is also a member and active worker in the local Presbyterian Church.

To add a few more community associations, he has managed a semi-pro high school baseball club and a girls' softball team for four years. He speaks before school and business groups on juvenile problems.

In addition, he is a member of regional, state and national police officer associations.

Marlow and his wife, Joyce, reside at 1321 Maple Ave. One daughter, Mrs. Dean (Jeri) Mecheles, also resides in Twin Falls and Nancy is a senior at the Twin Falls High School.

Marlow was born and raised in Twin Falls.

Class Slated In Aircraft Navigation

RICHFIELD-Richfield school board members have approved plans for use of the school for a special training class in aircraft navigation to be taught by John Lemmon starting at 8 p.m. Monday.

The class, without charge, is open to any adult or high school student interested. Lemmon is an airplane pilot of many years experience and a mechanic.

Mrs. W. F. Flavel, grade school principal, was named representative for Richfield school district to serve with 22 districts in the proposed navigation to be taught by John Lemmon starting at 8 p.m. Monday.

Neil Andruson, coach, requested a physical education program be instituted, also, under title 3.

An office copier and overhead projector was authorized for purchase by the board members.

The board accepted the proposal of Supt. R. Briggs regarding an education program, starting the second semester, an elective and officer operation for upper classes in the high school business department.

Permission was given the senior class to hold a turkey shoot Nov. 19 if the Lions Club does not plan to have one. Neil Andruson was named to be director if the event occurs.

Plans were made by the school board members to visit classes in the schools next week.

He is happy that he selected Twin Falls for his home. For one reason, he said, it is a good place to raise children.

"Here all the youngsters go to life schools and in high school they go to the same school. This helps them live and work together and they get used to each other. It eliminates the tension which is found in a big city where most of the youngsters of the same age are total strangers.

"If people here do not appreciate living in Twin Falls all they have to do is move to a big city. It will not be long before they are wishing to be right back here," he said.

What do they mean by "as good as Blue Cross"?

When you're presented with what looks like an attractive bid for prepayment health-care coverage — and you're told it is as good as Blue Cross and it will cover all that's needed, ask: What is the basis of comparison?

Don't compare programs that pay a fixed amount of money with Blue Cross of Idaho — which pays in service, not dollars.

There is no comparison — because you cannot predict or compute how much what will be needed when unexpected accident or illness occurs. The Blue Cross certificate in addition to a liberal room allowance, lists benefits in terms of in-hospital service — not as fixed amounts of money. Blue Cross will provide this necessary care — regardless of cost.

The Blue Cross system of service benefits is the only realistic protection against the cost of the care you require in the hospital. It's the best buy — dollar-for-dollar — for you and your employee.

A careful comparison will confirm this fact. Talk to a specialist from Blue Cross of Idaho. Let him discuss your company's protection in terms of reality.

British Columbia Bighorn Sheep Get Used to New Home in Owyhee Country

By JIM HUMBRID
Idaho Fish-Game Department, Boise — Hurry Back, Nickel, Pole, Castle, Beaver, Trapper, Bismarck, Deep, East Fork, Plute, Battle, Big Springs, and Yatahona are romantic sounding places on a map of the Owyhee Mountains in southwestern Idaho. To the northeast in another drainage are Shoofly, Blue, Jacks and Wickahoney creeks. Anyone on the ground trying to get through the fumbled maze of deep intersecting waterways merging into the Owyhee River understands why it is called the Grand Canyon in Miniature.

Many of the broken, grassy-banded side canyons in the steep-walled for cattle to use, even though original brush grass grows lush. A grazing closure by the Federal Bureau of Land Management keeps domestic sheep away from the north rim of the East Fork of the Owyhee River, and the west side of Battle Creek. The closed strips vary from 3 to 5 miles in width.

These grassy patches scattered through the rimrock and deep canyons of the East Fork of the Owyhee River are the new homes of bighorn sheep that were live-trapped on the Ristke Creek range above the junction of the Fraser and Chiloquin rivers in British Columbia. Known as the California subspecies the bighorns are relatives of the Rocky Mountain species found in the central and northern primitive areas of Idaho.

The California subspecies of bighorns formerly ranged from the Sierra Nevada mountains north to the Great Basin Mountains and parts of British Columbia. But disease, too much competition from livestock and over-hunting brought these fine animals to extinction in many places, including the Owyhee Mountains.

Nineteen California bighorns were trucked from British Columbia into this land of geological wonders in 1963 as the first shipment of some 80 to 100 bighorn sheep to live-trapped in British Columbia. The goal is to establish healthy, thrifty, prosperous bands of these big, sought trophy animals in the Battle Creek-East Fork of the Owyhee River country, and eventually to have a substantial population throughout the region.

Another introduction of the California subspecies of wild sheep is planned for the Jacks Creek-Grasmuser sector of the Owyhee Mountains south of Brunau.

Reproduction is a good sign that the Owyhee crags, grassy benches and deep canyons, are a suitable habitat for California bighorn sheep, which resemble the desert species of the Southwest and are adaptable to hot, dry environments. They are more inclined to be cliff-dwellers than the native Rocky Mountain bighorn. One spotted in a band of 10 bighorns on Battle Creek by a team of aerial observers during the same trip and two rams feeding together lower down on the river were reported by another worker.

In view of the fact that only 19 animals were released two years previous to this sighting — this is a sign that the sheep are adapting very well to the conditions in the Owyhees.

Altogether, 38 California bighorns have been released in the East Fork-Battle Creek region. Nine of these were trucked nearly 1,000 miles from their former range in British Columbia last November, and 10 more animals were liberated at the same site a few weeks ago by Idaho Fish and Game Department workers. They are being naturalized as part of the Department's Five Point Program for the future.

So far, the department has relied on chance sightings of Owyhee bighorn sheep by ranchers and plane travelers. Now it is Grange Sets Work Night At Hagerman.

HAGERMAN — Stanley Hoskovec, master of Hagerman Grange, reports a "work night" session is planned.

Work will be done on a storage closet, finishing paneling of the restaurant, storage room and cloak room, and renovation of furniture. The date will be set when the materials have been purchased.

Mrs. Mac Henley, lecturer, announced dates for continuing of the Grange Needlework programs by the various granges in the county.

Mrs. Henley conducted granges in the area. Mrs. Ted Bell, home economics chairwoman, announced the annual Grange Needlework contest started in September and runs until next September.

This is open to all grangers in good standing and consists of three groups, crocheting, knitting and embroidery work. Aprons and pillow cases will be entered under the embroidery group. The national and state Grange offers cash prizes and Brunsau.

The next meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 21 with a pot-luck supper and program.

time to try to get a good idea about how much lambing there has been in three years, and how many of the older ewes and rams from British Columbia still are on hand. Aerial descent count workers over the region say that all the sheep seen to date have been a few miles upstream on Battle Creek, except for a few bighorns that stayed on the East Fork of the Owyhee River at the release site.

Helicopters will be used for bighorn sheep trend count. Light planes move so fast the ground seems to blur at tree top heights, and the buffy and male are hard to see among the rocks and hills. Men on foot or horseback fare no better. The short canyons dead end, and steep cliffs must be bypassed. This means that miles of backtracking to get to the next one.

Unlike mountain goats, all species of bighorns shun high peaks and ridges for grassy patches on benches. They are found in two and three bands, even in towns and through the rimrock. One sheep were plentiful in the open plains, but always near badlands or rocky buttes, as well as the high country. Desert bighorns, such as the California subspecies, are spread thinly over their range. They are light and water loving plants far apart.

Idaho's native wild sheep are Rocky Mountain bighorns. These are found mostly along the main Salmon River and its Middle Fork. However, small bands are found on Jackson Creek in the upper valley, all of the Salmon River drainage, Henrys Lake on the Idaho-Montana line, and in Bear Lake County in the southeastern corner of the state. A forest ranger snapped a picture of bighorn sheep near Montpelier on the Wyoming line some time ago.

Other species of bighorn sheep are Dahl and Stone. The desert species is found in Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada and Death Valley (mostly in California). and the desert lands of Mexico. The California subspecies of bighorns is related to the Desert species, but is even more adaptable to cliffs and canyon breaks. However, existing evidence points to the Rocky Mountain bighorn as the species that had once lived in the Owyhee Mountains.

Habitat that otherwise might be suitable for bighorns must be remote. These animals, more so than most other species, are wilderness creatures and cannot coexist with man in the same general area. They now survive as remnant populations only in the most inaccessible, wildest, roughest country of the Rocky Mountains and in the broken desert regions of the southwest.

California bighorn sheep have stiffer horns and somewhat smaller bodies than their Rocky Mountain cousins. There are about 400 of them on the British Columbia range where hunting is not allowed. Some of the animals must be moved from the over-crowded range and a cost-sharing arrangement has been worked out between the Canadian officials and the Idaho Fish and Game Department to share the cost of transporting them to the Owyhee Mountains. Here they can go 30 to 40 miles in any direction in the canyon complex without colliding with civilization.

Traps are made of nylon netting bolted on a frame of steel pipes. Shaped like horseshoes, they are set up in canyons, with wide wings spread out from the gate to steep rock walls. Hole-copers herd bighorns down the canyons into the wings opening to the traps. Sixty wild sheep were seen standing in the wings of a trap the day after the Idaho shipment of animals had been made recently. Herders using like cowboys on helicopters to drive wild animals into the wings of a trap is a system developed by the Idaho department several years ago when workers rounded up antelope for tagging.

There is magic in the word bighorn, and hunters want more of these fine trophy animals in the Dahl and Stone. Biologists classify them as Rocky Mountain or California sheep.

DEFENSIVE DRIVING HAS taken on a new meaning for Warren Burgoyne, left, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Van Dyke. YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, Nov. 13—Born today, you are a determined person with more faith in your own abilities than most people ever dream of having. The word "can" simply has no place in your private dictionary. Because of this you are bound to have an interesting and exciting life, even if it is materially successful only sporadically. Your inclination to try whatever adventure you choose, some may say, may well keep you on the move, and you would be wise therefore not to count on settling down.

Because your life promises to be less stable physically than is customary, you should take special care in selecting a mate. Choose someone who has an adventurous nature, someone to whom hardships mean a challenge to be overcome rather than a misfortune to be complained about. Otherwise you may find yourself so harnessed to home base that you will spend more time in aggravation than in accomplishment.

Needless to say, you have great emotional stability—an attribute that enables you to achieve balance in what might otherwise be a chaotic existence. You also have a knack for forming fast and true friendships in a very short time—friendships that will stand you in good stead wherever you may be.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

MONDAY, Nov. 14
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)—Men and women both should enjoy making some changes around the house today. Consider redecorating a special corner.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 22)—Take a rain-check on a social invitation if you would have enough time to accomplish all you must at this time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23-Jan. 20)—A clash of personalities between you and a new-found friend may threaten the relationship. Do what you can to salvage it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19)—A day for bringing all your faith into play. Don't allow another to shake your convictions in any way.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 21)—If your theory has a background of a firm intellectual thought, you may feel free to work on the assumption that it is correct.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Take what enjoyment you can out of this day. Much that is not to your liking may cause you to have doubts as to its value.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Don't relieve yourself of responsibilities by placing them on the shoulders of another. The Taurus who is dutiful will be rewarded.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—The environment for pleasant events of the near future is possible in the making. Don't be surprised by sudden changes.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—Let praise be the characteristic that stands out in you most clearly today. If you go to pieces, you may take others down with you.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Though it may seem to you that your activity is at the whim of others, you are nevertheless responsible for your own wrongdoings. Think!

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—You should be able to take the lead from another in business today if you play your cards right. Avoid gloating in victory.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—Increase your reputation for being an interesting person. Act, dress and talk as if you were something special.

DON'T STORE SEEDS
 Don't save flower seeds from one year to the next. They tend to germinate slowly and produce poor seedlings after being stored.

Authorities Urge Defensive Driving Tactics to Reduce Motorcycle Danger

By PEGGY LALEY

A lot of people are up-in-arms about the rash of motorcycle accidents Twin Falls has had in the past months, and about the motorcycle fatalities.

O'Leary Campbell, principal of O'Leary Junior High School, is one who wants his voice heard in protest. Campbell has stated that defensive driving must be taught to the increasing amount of people who are beginning to make the two-wheeled vehicle a mode-of-daily-transportation.

Campbell feels that this training could be done successfully in connection with the present driver-training courses offered in public schools. Ninety-four per cent of the students in Idaho participating in this program and it would provide an opportunity to educate drivers, of both automobiles and motorcycles, of the hazards unique to cycling.

Although there is a tendency to shake heads and mutter about the recklessness—and daring—of the cyclist, these accidents are not always attributable to these causes.

But this is immaterial. The accidents still happen. The cyclist who becomes a "biker rider" you are charged with a responsibility. The same is true when you are behind the wheel of an automobile. The stake is not only your physical well-being and personal rights, but the "freedom of the road" now shared by millions of others.

Members of the local police department state that in many cases drivers of automobiles just don't see the cyclist and no citation is issued because in reality "one is not there."

Because of this fact, those who are concerned feel that vehicle operators, motorists and biker riders alike, should study thinking defensively. People must realize that learning to operate the vehicle is not enough; they must attempt to anticipate what the other drivers are going to do.

Then, too, there seems to be a resentment toward motorcycles on the part of the automobile driver. But motorcycles are here to stay. These motorcycle owners pay a larger percentage for their vehicle license and must pass the same tests for operation as the automobile driver.

Concentrate, be aware at all times of just what you are doing. Imagine how you will react before the incident occurs, if it does.

Sure, a motorcycle will scoot through traffic with the greatest ease, but excessive lane changing can only label you as unprofessional and is charged with danger. Since cycles are small and they are agile it is extremely easy to startle a motorist driving traffic-infested streets can be nerve-wracking, adding to the element of surprise.

Be alert to the possibility of pedestrians, a good defensive driver is able to stop to avoid hitting a person with space to spare.

Although the era of the black leather jacket and silhouettes is disappearing, each and every biker rider must fight the tint which this group of undesirables has left.

According to a report in the Los Angeles Times some 8,894,000 Americans will ride motorcycles in 1967, make it your business to see that this new generation of biker riders gains the respect it could deserve. You will be helping effect a major change in American transportation and recreation life.

There have been groups that have attempted to restrict or eliminate the two-wheeled vehicles from public roads so it is up to the biker rider to make defensive driving his business and courtesy his by-word. The two-wheeled vehicle has more maneuverability and better visibility than an automobile. Keep these facts in mind as you travel the streets and highways.

The actions of present day biker riders will do much to determine the acceptance of this ever-growing mode of transportation.

Wife of Vice President Remembers First Date, but Husband Is Uncertain

By KELLY SMITH
WASHINGTON (AP) — Her voice is soft, and her laugh buoyant and warm. When she speaks of her husband, she calls him Hubert. When she speaks of the vice president of the United States, she calls him Humphrey.

Muriel Humphrey sits back on her couch and sips coffee, her bright blue eyes twinkling thoughtfully below the bangs of her silver hair.

He was a pharmacist in the depression—year 1934 when she saw him for the first time. "The drugstore and the Humphrey family were new to me," she remembers. "A college girl friend introduced them but it wasn't very effective."

"Hubert doesn't remember," she says, "but I do."

When they dated, there were the Wednesday and Saturday night dances at the Pavilion. He was, she remembers, "the dancer in town," and she was shy.

She was hardly a born politician, she used to say, but she learned to make a speech. Her life with Hubert H. Humphrey changed all that.

"Something happens to you in politics," she said. "If I stay here and lead my normal home life, I'm a wife and mother. I'm a different life, it's easy to grow apart. Things happen too fast on a campaign. I'm nervous or fill me in. A wife can build up resentment. It's very dangerous."

Friends say that Muriel—though she stays in the shadows—is easily half the Humphrey spirit. At 54, after 16 years in the world of politics and official Washington, she remains modest and unimpressed with herself. She has a rare, genuine humor that comes out like sunshine.

At a dinner during the last campaign, she was deep in thought when she heard Hubert rattling through a speech. Wrongly assumed she'd been introduced, she stood to speak—only to find the audience staring at her.

"Humphrey," she said when the laughter subsided, "are in the habit of speaking at the end of a speech."

She recalls the Christmas she and her husband were asked to offer holiday greetings to over 100 Humphreys—spoke at a loss for words, spoke at such length that when it was her turn, she says, "there was nothing left to do—but 'Jingle-Bells.'"

She has grown more accustomed to giving press conferences, but still admits the parties when she hears those familiar words, "and now a word from my wife."

Life today is varied and full for the wife of the vice president—everything from water-skiing to flying around the world—to cooking her favorite beef stew, to playing with her grandchildren. It is a far cry from those early days in Huron.

"We used to talk a great deal about different 'ideals' and goals," she recalls. "About politics too. Times were so different. I felt he had to be a great man some day. He had such great hopes and ideas."

On a trip to Washington, 24-year-old Humphrey wrote his young bride-to-be:

"Maybe I seem foolish to have such vain hopes and dreams, but Bucky, I can see how someday, if you and I just apply ourselves and make up our minds to work for bigger things, we can live here in Washington and probably be in government politics or service."

There were to be years of service—as mayor of Minneapolis, 10 years in the Senate, and in 1934, the vice presidency.

They started married life with a stove and a refrigerator. Muriel worked as a power company biller until she saved $750 to enable Hubert to finish school.

They moved into a third-floor room of a Minneapolis boarding house. Hubert graduated from the University of Minnesota with honors and won a fellowship to Louisiana State University.

Muriel took typing jobs to make extra money. She got up at dawn to make sandwiches which Humphrey sold to fellow students for 10 cents apiece.

They returned to Minneapolis, and in 1943, Humphrey ran for mayor. He lost. They had $7 in the bank and $1700 in campaign debts.

Muriel— with two children— had to work in a small apartment— building, leasing units and mowing the lawn. Hubert was the building maintenance man and a part-time radio announcer. Debts were paid.

In 1945, he ran again for mayor— this time successfully. He won a second term in 1947. In 1948, he was elected to the U.S. Senate and the family— by this time four children— moved to Washington.

The years have taught her the value of a meeting challenge. She says: "Some people might use the word sacrifice to describe what you do, I never know. It's a refining process— a measuring up that requires considerable discipline, energy, strength and will."

She splits her days in 1-2 fashion: husband first, mental retardation second. "One of her four granddaughters, Vicki Solomons, 5, is retarded."

Mrs. Humphrey's deepest personal campaign is help for mentally retarded children. She has worked for her— until Vicki— came into our lives. We call her our success story." She's writing a book about Vicki.

Home for 18 years has been a four-bedroom home in Chevy Chase, Md. This fall, the Humphreys decided that since their four children are married or away at school, it was time to move.

"They bought a spacious two-bedroom balcony apartment overlooking the Potomac River."

DUPLICATE EXPERT
ADDS ONE TRICK

- Opening lead—♥Q

This line of play would guarantee four diamond tricks against anything except a 6-0 diamond break. Four diamonds plus two spades, two hearts and a club adds to nine tricks.
 How would expert South make an overtrick? East would probably lead a second heart when he-4-1-in-the-club-of-diamonds. South would have discarded a spade on the fourth diamond. He would discard another spade on the fifth. He then would cash his ace of spades and be left with the nine of hearts and six-queen-small of clubs. Assuming West had held two clubs, South just might end play him by leading the nine of hearts.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been: West North East South

 You South hold:

 A—Double. Take a sure profit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

West opens three spades. You South hold:
 ♠A 3♥K J 7 6 3 ♦A K 4

Old Home With Character Purchased By Bachelor With Remodeling Ideas

(Continued from Page 23) Mrs. Robert Shaw. They had done extensive remodeling without changing the inherent character of the house. Shaw's untimely death, the husband decided to sell and he and Shaw got together.

With Shaw, the bachelor, there was a case of love at first sight and now he is in the process of changing the "change" program which was instigated by the Shaws.

Between the Shaws and Shaw new walls have been put into the place, a new heating system has been installed, the ceiling have been lowered, new plumbing has been added, the wiring has been changed or replaced. It has been re-insulated and the grounds have been landscaped.

White block posts interlinked with chain and with wiring for carriage lamps on the two front posts, have been added. The carriage lamps have been replaced, but Shaw is hopeful.

Inside several "landmark" items have not been changed. There is the stained glass window in the upstairs bath, the wooden stairway from first to second floor and the white brick fireplace. These are the same, though the garage was originally built for a buggy. The result is that there is room for one car, but it would normally be a two-car garage.

Shaw plans to lean to the Spanish influence for interior decoration.

"Spanish influence in a plonear home?" queried this Times-News writer.

"I plan to try it," Shane smiled. "I don't know if it will, but whether or not you like things which look like Spain, you will still be able, from the outside at least, to see a stately old home as it used to be."

Shane, who is general sales manager and buyer for Cat's Inc., in Twin Falls, isn't being rushed into the contemplated changes.

"There will be plenty of time and, meanwhile, I'll just go on living in the place. I looked at every old-house-in-town before I saw this one. I'm perfectly satisfied with it."

"I must be old fashioned."

Idleness, Despair and Frustration Given as Cause of Big City Riots

By HAL COOPER
NEW YORK (AP) — Idleness, despair, frustration and a volatile explosive mixture in the big city slums of America this year — the cost — in misery and money — was substantial.

Racial disorder in and around Chicago, Cleveland, East New York, Detroit, San Francisco, Omaha, Atlanta — and Dayton, Ohio, brought death to seven, injury to more in 40, nearly 3,000 were arrested.

Home owners, store proprietors, building landlords, taxpayers and insurance companies faced bills totaling perhaps $3 billion from arson, looting, vandalism, police and fire department overtime and the cost of mobilizing National Guardsmen.

There has been widespread speculation, particularly by political leaders, that the civil rights movement suffered incalculable damage. The riots apparently have given impetus to a white backlash which threatens to work against the Negro cause at the polls and in the civil rights organizations of a white support.

Rep. Edwin E. Willis, D-La., chairman of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, has announced that the committee will look into the possibility that Communists were active in the riots.

The inquiry, said Willis, will deal with "only one thing — planned and organized violence by subversive elements. He added, "We have no intention of investigating the civil rights movement, or the opinions or positions of any individual or organization on the civil rights issue."

Events which triggered the riots ranged from a racial argument in a Cleveland bar to the fatal shooting of a young Negro car suspect by a San Francisco policeman.

Whatever the immediate cause, the outbreaks shared a background of unemployment, slum housing, inadequate recreational facilities, racial friction and deep-seated animosity toward the police.

All these factors figured in outbreaks involving Negro juveniles.

The first started when police closed off a lot where four or five fireworks were being set off in the early morning hours. The second resulted from the fatal shooting of a Negro youth fleeing from the scene of a burglary.

Looters and arsonists damaged 41 Omaha stores. There were 150 arrests. It cost $28,700 for National Guardsmen and $35,000 in police overtime to restore order.

In San Francisco, a policeman shot and killed a Negro boy running away from a stolen car, in three days of rioting property damage ran to $20 million, there were 339 arrests and 42 were injured. The cost of police overtime and alerting 5,000 National Guardsmen remained to be tallied.

Detroit was the scene of a racial flare-up which police closed with a group of young Negroes loitering on a street. During a two-month period, incidents developed in five other Michigan cities — Lansing, Benton Harbor, Jackson, Muskegon and Sylvania.

A total of 229 were arrested, one killed, 43 injured and more than $250,000 spent for National Guard troops and police overtime and the services of the National Guard was $22,000.

What is being done to head off similar unrest when the mercury soars again next summer? The view of Negro leaders, too little, too late.

In Chicago, 250,000 persons, most of them Negroes, are taking part in such projects as the federally-sponsored Head Start educational program for children of preschool age and the Urban-Career-Corps-for-teen-agers.

The Chicago Committee on Urban Opportunity persuaded 122 Negro youth gang leaders to discuss the problem and try to work out solutions.

Mayor Richard J. Daley established it as city policy that housing everywhere is available to Negroes.

But one of Chicago's biggest headaches, Negro unemployment, continues acute. The Chicago Urban League says 11.6 per cent of the Negro labor force is jobless, compared with only 4.1 per cent of the white labor force of 1,400,000.

Cleveland set up emergency job centers in an attempt to re-hire laid-off workers in the Negro slums. Work was found for 300, but employers rejected 600 applicants who failed written or oral tests.

Still jobs were about 5 per cent of the 200,000 Negro workers in the Cleveland area.

The city inaugurated a $500,000 program to improve slum street lighting, repair pavements and set up a 13-acre playground. A group of citizens announced plans to transform an abandoned theater into a youth recreation center.

In Atlanta, Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. said 50 per cent of the city's fireworks were eliminated in the past 10 years.

"But remember," he said, "we're running almost on a treadmill. We are receiving each year about 50,000 new residents and many of them are coming from rural areas, shanties and illiterate backgrounds, and pouring into the slums."

Negro unemployment is low — around 2.5 per cent — in Atlanta. But about 50 per cent of Negro families have income of $100 or less per year. Only 20 per cent of Atlanta white families are on this level.

Omaha has opened a big recreational center in a Negro section, extended the open hours of public swimming pools, turned a number of vacant lots into playgrounds and established a branch office of the State Employment Service to cater to Negro needs.

Douglas Stewart, director of the Omaha Urban League, estimates 10 to 12 per cent of the city's Negroes still are looking for work.

Mayor John F. Shelley of San Francisco concluded that high unemployment among the city's 300,000 Negroes was the underlying cause of the rioting there. He has enlisted the Chamber of Commerce, other civic groups and labor unions in a campaign to turn up jobs for Negroes.

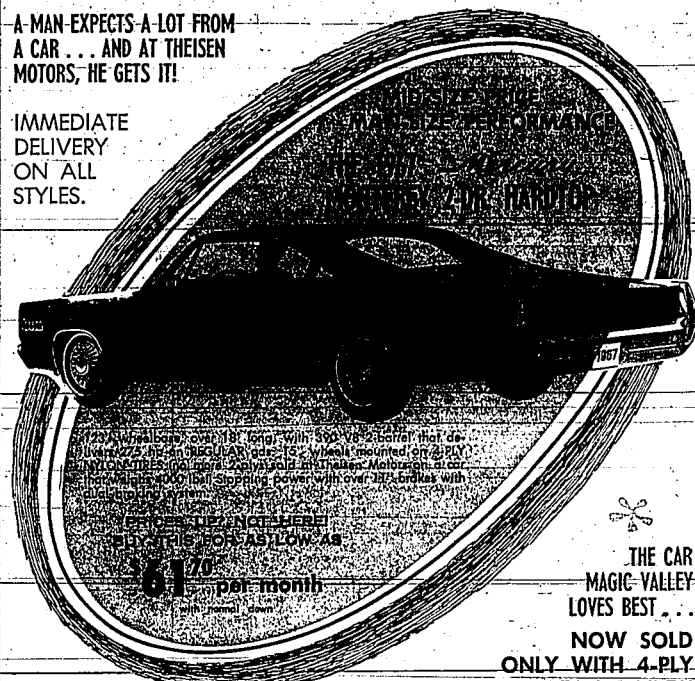

"Negro and civil rights leaders have expressed little hope that measure so far taken will prove effective."

An argument in a bar — police say they still don't know what it was about — escalated into a five-day riot in a Negro slum in Cleveland.

That disturbance ended with a Negro woman and three Negro men arrested, 49 persons injured, $500,000 property damage by arsonists and looters, $200,000 to pay for bringing in the National Guard, and by outlay of $227,281 for police and fire department overtime.

Dayton, Ohio, a Negro was fatally wounded by a shotgun blast, possibly fired by whites from a passing car, possibly by another Negro.

In the uproar which followed, property damage from small-scale destruction and looting totaled $250,000, police overtime $68,580, the cost of calling in the National Guard $53,581. There were 593 arrests and 42 Negroes went to hospital with injuries.

Atlanta, widely regarded as a model for municipal race relations in the South, had two riots — one after police shot a Negro car thief suspect, another after a white man killed a Negro, killing one. In all more than 30 persons were injured.

Omaha was the scene of two outbreaks involving Negro juveniles.
