Low Cost Of Gas For Fuel Is Big Point Stressed

By O. J. SMITH
Times-News Managing Editor

Gas heating proponents can cite strong arguments to back their contention that such a system would have been the most advantageous for the new College of Southern Idaho campus. Just sticking to the book (the "CHM" report on an economic study of heating and cooling systems), they point to an annual saving in fuel costs of $32,000 by using gas instead of electricity for heating.

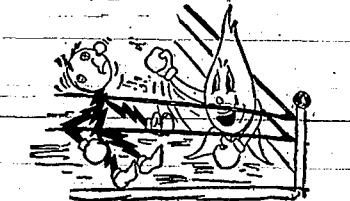

Sliding to the book is important in this confusing debate over the CSI energy selection, because the CSI trustees assert their decision had to be based primarily on the report of their engineers.

But it is difficult, if not impossible, to get gas and electric advocates to agree on the way the study was made, the factors included, the statistics quoted or the conclusions drawn therefrom.

A major point of contention is the consideration by the engineers in their study of $30,000 for relocation of a power line on the campus site, which Idaho Power will not charge if electric heating is used.

Much has been made of this in sidewalk debates, and it has been pictured by some gas heating supporters (but not by gas company officials) as a club being held over CSI by Idaho Power Co.

Other parties point out that this can be compared to an individual asking the power company to move a pole on an occupied lot—having to pay for it—and asking it to move a pole that interferes with construction of a new home on a lot. The power company moves such poles free, since by doing the job they also are getting a new customer.

The milder view of the gas proponents is that at least the $30,000 should not have been included in an economic study of the relative values of gas and electricity for heating purposes. If the trustees wanted to keep this in mind in making their final decision, well and good, but the gas people say use of the figure in cost tables set up by the engineers gives an untrue picture of the relative economy of the systems.

One of the most amazingly contradictory contentions of gas heating backers is that the installation cost figures are not nearly as significant as claimed.

They base this contention on studies made of comparative bidding for hydronic (boiler) and electric heating in total construction contracts on a lengthy list of schools and school buildings.

One of these studies covered 22 different contracts in the Northeast and Midwest. In 17 cases the low bid was on installation of hydronic heating. The percentage of difference between bids for hydronic and electric heating in the 22 cases was a spread of from a low of 0.3 to a high of 8.2 per cent.

Such total construction cost studies, they declare, indicate that although the installation cost of the heating systems themselves may favor electrical heating, differences in cost of constructing the buildings that will be heated eliminate this advantage.

Actually, it is contended, it is a toss-up as to whether capital investment will be greater for hydronic or electrical heating systems, and in any case, the difference will be negligible compared to savings in operating costs.

Another talking point favored by the gas people is the need for ventilation in school buildings. One contracting firm asserts that, although Idaho law does not yet specify it, planning for such heating systems must take into account the need for ventilation. The National Board of Underwriters study for the 10-year period 1947 through 1956.

This study shows 338,888 or 15.4 per cent, of the fires in this period were caused by electricity; 4,823, or 1.7 per cent, of the fires were caused by gas.

No attempt was made in this study, however, to establish the number of electricity users compared to the number of gas users, or to differentiate between fires in electric heating cases and in other electrical setups.

And, when everything has been said, the strongest argument of the gas people is that the monthly or annual gas fuel bill will be "unbearable" for the systems—its substantially lower than the electrical fuel bill.

Tomorrow: Electric heating side is presented.

ONE OF THE more than 200 married or widowed women who are attending classes at the College of Southern Idaho is Mrs. Jeannette Wiley. Mrs. Wiley's grandson, Brian, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dobbs, is a frequent visitor during his study hours. Housework, baby-sitting and community projects combine to make Mrs. Wiley's days busy ones. See related story on page 22. (Times-News photo)

Land Sale Marks First Phase Of Jerome Development Plan

JEROME—The first step toward a business plan which will show an eventual investment of about half a million dollars was made this week when Investments Incorporated of Jerome and a Salt Lake City firm consummated a $100,000 land sale. The Jerome group reported they have sold an approximate one-half block of property situated partially on Jerome's Main Street to Jacobsen Investment Co., Inc., Salt Lake City.

The parcel contains the old landmark of the North Side Inn. First phase calls for construction of a new Bank of Idaho building by Jacobsen-Construction Co. Second phase will be new facilities for Wood's Cafe, which includes restaurant, supper club, cocktail lounge and banquet facilities.

The third and final phase will be the construction of a 40-unit motel.

Razing of the North Side Inn, several apartment units, Wood's Cafe, the North Side Club, a barber and beauty shop and the Pacific Finance office, all located on the land parcel, will begin about February or March of next year, with construction of the new bank building to begin as soon as land is cleared.

Plans for the Bank of Idaho building, according to Clarence Dunkelberger, manager of the Jerome branch, will be drawn by Wayland, Kline and Smith, Boise architects. Bank of Idaho is new to Jerome, being established here about two years ago.

No indication of length of time required for completion of the total project was given.

Directors of Investments Incorporated are Charles I. Herndon, president; Jack Russell, secretary; treasurer, and Gregory B. Turner and Frank Trus.

"This is the development we have hoped and worked for for several years past," Mr. Herndon said on behalf of the Board. "We are all very happy to see an old landmark removed, and feel the new development will be a distinctive asset to the city of Jerome and is the latest in continuing succession of civic improvements which have evidenced the faith of business leaders in the progress of the community," he declared.

The complex will reportedly feature a multi-type construction with ample use of plantings and walkways.

Pressure Mounts For Rhodesia Embargo

By TOM HOGG

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—African pressure was mounting today for an embargo on oil for Rhodesia, but British Foreign Secretary George Brown said a ban on exports from the rebel colony was more likely to be enforced. Most of the pressure was coming from African members of the 26-nation Commonwealth group who met with Brown for 90 minutes late Wednesday.

Britain had planned to offer a resolution for mandatory economic sanctions against Rhodesia to the Security Council today, but further consultations aimed at reconciling the British and African views may delay the resolution a day or so.

The day or so to meet at 5 p.m. EST to take up the Rhodesia case.

An informant who sat in on the caucus Wednesday said it appeared that most of the African group would insist on a resolution intended to bring down Prime Minister Ian Smith's white-minority Rhodesian government.

Brown told the Africans the British cabinet had authorized him to consider a limited embargo on oil but he stressed the view that a ban on Rhodesian exports would be more readily enforceable.

Any move to forbid oil shipments to Rhodesia would require Britain to challenge South Africa's status as a member of the Commonwealth. The British government would prefer to avoid since Britain's trade with South Africa is almost $1 billion a year, South Africa has been supplying Rhodesia with most of its oil and has said it would continue normal trade with Rhodesia regardless of Security Council action.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson promised to ask for mandatory sanctions after his two-day talks with Smith last week. Wilson said he expected to produce a settlement with Rhodesia.

High Rivers Recede From California Area

By The Associated Press

Swollen rivers receded from flood-ravaged homes of California's Central Valley today as authorities kept a wary eye on the cresting Salinas River in a coastal area.

Army helicopters were refilled today to airlift medicines and food to the small town of Johnsville, where residents are completely isolated by washed-out roads.

Kern County officials said some 600 residents were stranded in a logging camp about 40 miles north of the upland town of Kernville. National Guardsmen helped evacuate 200 persons from Porterville Wednesday.

Officials counted one person dead and another missing in the flood, which chased some 700 persons from their homes.

In the Central Valley, going into the millinery, several bridges in Tulare and Kern Counties were washed away or badly damaged.

At the other end of the nation, river forecasters last night warned for a four-county area of northwestern Pennsylvania that heavy rain could cause the Allegheny River to thawing snow and steady rains caused minor flooding and closed low-lying highways.

The greatest danger appeared to be in Meadville, where the water passed the 11-foot mark at midnight and crept toward flood level of 13 feet.

There was no immediate danger to Pittsburgh, about 100 miles downstream from Meadville, the forecast said.

Wet and cloudy weather covered the major part of the nation, with heavy rain, strong winds and hail in many sections of the central part of the country. Making reports of ice in northern sections, and in the West.

Fairly mild weather continued over much of the central part of the Mississippi, and it was a little cooler in the southern Plains.

Nuclear Weapons Treaty Reached For Outer Space

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson said today the United States, the Soviet Union and other countries have reached agreement on a treaty that would bar nuclear weapons from outer space. Johnson, in a statement read to newsmen at White House press headquarters here, said the draft treaty prepared by the Outer Space Committee of the United Nations represents an "important step toward peace."

Announcing he would forward the treaty to the Senate early next year for ratification action, the chief executive said:

"It is the most important arms control development since the limited test ban treaty of 1963."

The 1963 treaty, ratified by most of the world's nations but not by France and the U.S.S.R., forbade nuclear testing in the atmosphere. Underground testing still is permitted.

Terms of the new treaty would ban nuclear weapons from outer space and would guarantee free access by all nations to all parts of the moon and other celestial bodies—excluding access to any installation that man might erect there.

The Texas White House, in another statement, promised that the suggestion by Pope Paul VI for linking two holiday plans in Viet Nam into a year-long armistice would receive sympathetic consideration by the United States.

George Christian, a Johnson aide, also announced Johnson would fly back to Washington Friday morning, ending a 10-day recuperative stay at his ranch home 65 miles west of here.

Pope Paul suggested that the extended tour period he proposed would give time "so that new ways may be explored of bringing about an honorable understanding" which could end the conflict.

Christian did not couch his statement about the proposal aside treaty in terms of an announcement. He said he wanted to confirm that agreement had been reached.

The President said Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg had called to him this morning that members of the Outer Space Committee of the United Nations, including the United States and the Soviet Union, had agreed on a draft text of a treaty.

South Central Idaho Chamber Is Formed

By LORAYNE SMITH
Magic Valley Editor

JEROME—Amid labor pains, occasioned by long-seated differences between various communities in Magic Valley, what will be known as the South Central Idaho Chamber of Commerce officially was born Wednesday afternoon at a meeting in the North Idaho Inn.

However, formal organization of the new valley-wide group is planned for a similar meeting at 2 p.m. Dec. 16 in the same place.

Discussion at the meeting, ably championed by Dr. James Taylor, Twin Falls, president of the College of Southern Idaho, and attended by representatives of 12 communities, was not without a majority of representatives expressed enthusiasm for the organization.

Purpose of the proposed chamber, Dr. Taylor said, is to have support the breadth of the entire valley "for a valley-wide Chamber of Commerce which would be effective in promoting things good for the entire area."

Local chamber officials attending raised the question of whether the valley-wide unit would be a separate organization or merely a liaison between local chambers. Fear was expressed that local chambers, especially in the smaller towns, might be "swallowed up."

"Primary apprehension came from representatives of the North Idaho communities who are members of the organization of the same name. It was noted that on specific problems, 'what is good for the south side is not necessarily good for the north side.'"

Greek Ship Sinks, 200 Feared Drowned

ATHENS (AP)—A Greek passenger ship sank today in a raging storm in the Aegean Sea and more than 200 persons were feared drowned. Of the 281 persons aboard, only 47 had been snatched from the stormy seas hours after the ship went down. The 8,900-ton Heraldo sank half way between the island of Crete and the Greek mainland on a trip from Crete to Piraeus, the port of Athens. The ship, which carried cars, automobiles and freight, went down two hours after midnight after a last frantic radio message — "We are sinking!"

In the first hours after the disaster, the Heraldo's ministry said there appeared to be no hope that any of the 208 passengers and crew of 56 had survived.

But as ships and planes converged on the disaster site, off the island of Milos, wreckage and people were seen in the water. Planes dropped lifeboats and rafts.

Word of the sinking raised fears that Greece had suffered Europe's worst peacetime maritime disaster of the 20th century, eclipsing the loss of 130 lives in the sinking of the British ferry Princess Victoria in the Irish Channel in 1933.

The Heraldo was built in 1949. She was one of three ferries operated between Crete and Piraeus.

Strong gales were sweeping the area at the time of the ship's last radio message, and the marine ministry earlier had warned small ships to stay in port.

The Heraldo went down about 90 miles south of Piraeus.

Opens Map Out 1967 Legislation

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Republican leaders are mapping out their domestic legislative program in a series of meetings with defense and economic experts, legislators and governors.

One session has been held, and four more are planned in the next two weeks.

The finished product will be unveiled by GOP Leader Gerald R. Ford and the House majority leader, Carl Albert, in the "State of the Union" expected to take place about a week after President John F. Kennedy's inauguration. Congress reconvenes Jan. 10. No dates have been set for the President's major messages.

As was the case last year, Ford is expected to discuss domestic issues, such as inflation, the draft, taxes and government spending, while Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen analyzes foreign policy.

Snow, Winds Are Reported In Valley

Snow, accompanied by blizzard conditions, intermingled with sunshine was the weather pattern Thursday across Magic Valley. Roads were reported icy and slick in most areas.

Three to four inches of additional snow fell at Halley Wednesday night and high winds whipped the snow about. Howard Platt reported five inches of new snow at Gaiens, bringing snow depth there to two and one-half feet.

There were reports of snow at the Kustan-Ranger station, John Combs, Ketchikan, snow fell.

Grew fell during the night and again about 5 a.m. at Rupert, causing several minor accidents. Blizzard conditions prevailed late Wednesday night at Gooding and from there.

A little new snow fell at Fairfield and roads were icy.

Polish Debt Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States may soon propose a plan to ease the burden of Poland's $44-million debt to this country. The plan is understood to involve using Polish currency for development projects in place of making repayments in hard-to-get dollars.

Conference Set B52s Pound Jungle Base In Campaign

BOISE (AP)—The Idaho Bean Commission announced Wednesday it would have an Idaho Bean Conference in Twin Falls, Dec. 18.

Discussion at the all-state meeting would include the future of money collected by the commission and outline future plans for the group, according to Commission Executive Director Harold West.

The clearing campaign was launched in the wake of the bold suicide attack last weekend on Saigon's Son-Nhut Air Base. The B52 target was believed to be the base from which the Viet Cong terror and infiltration attacks on the capital.

In the ground war, only small enemy airfields were reported, a situation that has prevailed for more than a week. The continuing "thunder" of the B52s has decreased the casualties last week for all forces in Viet Nam.

SHIPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.—The dark times when it seems weirdly evident that a death wish runs through the psyche of the Republican party, directed to the recent poll of the presidential election, are not the only ones to which the party is subjected. On this occasion, attention is directed to the recent poll of the presidential election, which has less of a chance to win.

That candidate, of course, is Dick Nixon, who was preferred by the party by 38 per cent of the responding delegates, while Michigan's Gov. George Romney was preferred by only 25 per cent. Such a result hardly merited the kind of newspaper headlines usually employed to report victory, because the nuts-and-bolts boy whose massive aid and comfort to the party has brought him well-deserved support among its courthouse bosses and committee chairmen.

Must Be The Season

This is the time of the year when adults wish they were children and children wish they were adults. Why?

Simple to figure out. The adults look at all these new toys that the youngsters will get for Christmas and wish they were back at the age once more so they could enjoy them. The children see mother in that new coat or father in that new car and wish they had something just like them.

But come to think of it the children must have the most enjoyable Christmas because they are not sure what it is all about. With their dreams, of being adults, also maintain their desires and their beliefs as a child.

There is no dream as pure or as necessary as that of a child. Without dreams they would never grow up emotionally. After they reach the age that tells them many of their dreams will not be realized or will not materialize, they can still look back and dream them once again.

So Christmas is near. It is the time of gift giving and gift receiving. It is the time of looking ahead and looking back. It is the time of growing up yet not getting any older.

It is a good time for both children and adults. It is a good time to be alive.

MYSTERY LINGERS

Now that the third anniversary of the assassination of President Kennedy has passed, perhaps the controversy over the tragic event may be permitted to retreat back into the inside pages of the newspapers and the book review sections of magazines.

The theorizing and question-raising and evidence-examining can be expected to continue, however, and to surge up anew each November. The assassination of a president is not a minor occurrence, and when it is surrounded, as this one is, by so many doubts and uncertainties and unanswered questions, it leaves a mark on the public consciousness that takes decades to erase.

From the time the Warren Commission published its report 10 months after the assassination, both its procedures and many of its findings have been under attack by various writers.

The commission has been charged with having a theory that Lee Harvey Oswald acted alone and unaided—and of having searched for only those facts which would support the theory. It has been charged with giving great weight to certain evidence and testimony and dismissing other evidence and testimony that cast doubt on the theory.

What has even done to the minds of thousands who have accepted the Warren report and has done most to provoke calls for a new official inquiry is Governor Connally's positive statement in Life magazine that he was not hit by the same bullet which passed through the President.

(Connally himself, incidentally, opposes reopening the case.)

It is agreed that there were three shots. According to Connally and others, the first one struck the President in the back, the second struck the governor and the third fatally wounded the President in the head.

But since it was found impossible to fire Oswald's rifle three times in the span between the President's first wound and his last wound, the commission decided that the first bullet hit both men, the second killed the President and the third missed the presidential limousine completely.

Critics offer a different explanation: There was no miss; there was an accomplice assassin.

Popular conception to the contrary, eye witness testimony is often the most unreliable kind of testimony. Their witnesses are as positive about their impressions. One newsman heard three shots coming from the Depository Building behind the cavalcade; other persons heard firing from a point ahead of it.

On the basis of its reconstruction of the murder and the tight web of circumstantial evidence implicating Oswald, and in the absence of any compelling evidence pointing to a different assassin, the commission concluded that Oswald killed the President and wounded the governor with two bullets.

Like Mayfield in the 19th century and the disappearance of the Dauphin of France in 1835, the death of John F. Kennedy may go down as the greatest unsolved mystery of the 20th century, unsolved in the sense that we can never create exactly what happened in Dallas on that fateful 22nd of November in 1963.

Sen. Wayne L. Morse's reiterated decision to stay out of the Oregon campaign between Gov. Mark Hatfield, Republican, and Rep. Alton S. Ore, Democrat, is a bit surprising.

The two candidates are well qualified to express their own divergent views on the conduct of the war in Viet Nam without the help of the press. Sen. Morse is a liberal, and Hatfield, a conservative. Hatfield is a campus rabble-rouser and has been more moderate in proposing peace moves.

To have Sen. Morse on the stump in Oregon is a regional political embarrassment to Gov. Hatfield and probably would alienate voters he now expects to get. Sen. Morse's fellow Democrat, Rep. Duncan, on the other hand, would expect to get Sen. Morse make campaign speeches against him.

In the days when Sen. Morse was a liberal Republican he campaigned for conservative Republicans like Sen. Harry Cannon in Washington and Sen. Henry Dworshak in Idaho. But his feelings on Viet Nam are so strong that he will campaign his way, he says, only for those senators whose party is the Johnson administration policy in Southeast Asia.

Inasmuch as there are more issues than Viet Nam to be explored by the Senate candidates in Oregon, it would be embarrassing to Gov. Hatfield's bluffs will be delivered in other states, although the voters there may not consider his visits an undiluted pleasure.—The Oregonian.

THE EIGHTH COMMANDMENT

Sometime ago, a leading New York Times tabulated the items served by its customers in a 10-month period.

The list included 38,000 demitasse spoons, 18,000 towels, 533 coffee pots, 15,000 silver finger bowls and all kinds of other things.

A check on a more recent 10 months showed piling still in full swing but with an interesting change in trend.

This time 20,000 towels were missing but the Bible count had soared altogether disproportionately, from 100 to 425.

There is a germ of hope in this. —Financial Post.

PICK "PLACE" RUNNER

But although 44 per cent went on to say Nixon would win the nomination, they apparently regarded this as an underdog because 24 per cent said Romney would run strongest against Lyndon Johnson, compared with 30 per cent who thought Nixon would be strongest.

In the kind of look we used to attribute to females until they took to book-learning and long pants and reminding of the lady who bet on a spavined 20 to 1 horse because the wife of the favorite's owner is wearing too much milk.

This is not necessarily to agree with the delegates that Romney is the strongest candidate. After all, it was Dick Nixon who came within a hair of beating Jack Kennedy in 1960, and against a fully foxed such as Lyndon Johnson, Romney may discover it is no picnic.

It is an Eagle Scout. The irony, or death wish, lies in the GOP's apparent determination to nominate a man its own delegates consider a loser—as it did in 1964 when the party concluded that the delegates' choice coincided with that of the voters and gave the nod to Barry Goldwater.

OTHER NO CHANCES

That, of course, has been the important difference between the Republicans and the Democrats in the 20th Century. The Democrats have been able to even out the Taft people decided they could not reject a hero who was a sure winner, the GOP has been too hidebound in its selection of presidential candidates. William F. Buckley Jr. instead of Teddy Roosevelt, Harding, Hoover, Landon—the list is enough to make a Republican blush. Nelson Rockefeller probably would have beaten Kennedy in 1960, and almost any other candidate would have done better against Johnson than Goldwater.

The Democrats, on the other hand, are interested in the guy who can win and they don't give a hoot where he came from or what his name is or his matrimonial state. It never bothered them that Adlai Stevenson was married. Lyndon Johnson was much closer to the professionals in the party than Jack Kennedy was; indeed, Kennedy was actively campaigning for the Capital Hill crowd. But Kennedy had the look of a winner.

REAGAN HAS LEVERAGE

In this one meanwhile, both Nixon and Romney should note well the results of a recent Gallup Poll which offered fresh evidence of the strength of Governor Ronald Reagan. He is the man who led Nixon into both Republicans and Independents—39 per cent to 31 per cent, and 31 to 22 per cent. Reagan is the man who has won 15 per cent of the Republican voters and a highly significant 13 per cent of the independents.

Since a Republican Presidential candidate can't hope to win without big independent support, Reagan as of now is the key man. He holds what amounts to the balance of power between the Independents and the Republicans. His strength his support easily could decide who gets the nomination in 1968. Indeed, Ronald Reagan is believed to be the man who will start the ball, by 1968 he may be in a position to persuade the Republicans to nominate the first presidential candidate in history who goes on to become 44 president of the United States.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Q—Are there any exercises that would strengthen my arches and prevent my ankles from turning?

A—In your bare feet, lie on your back and raise your feet up to your knees. This should strengthen your arches but it may be that you should wear arch supports. Wear a new bandage. This weakens the arches and should be avoided.

Walking and skating will strengthen your ankles but, if you have a tendency to turn your ankles, you may need to wear an ankle support or a brace. You should also wear greater care in negotiating steps, curbs and uneven ground.

Q—Have had, painful calluses on the bottoms of my feet. I pare them off but they come back. What would you suggest?

A—Since these calluses are caused by poorly fitted shoes, the best solution is to buy a new pair of shoes. You should also wear greater care in negotiating steps, curbs and uneven ground.

Q—My ankles are normal on standing but they swell during the day. My doctor says my heart and kidneys are O.K. What would cause this and can it be cured?

A—Prolonged sitting, especially in the summer, may cause this. If the swelling is more pronounced on one side, it may be due to sitting with the legs crossed. Another common and frequently overlooked cause is venous insufficiency. If the swelling is more pronounced on one side, it may be due to sitting with the legs crossed. Sheppard Tells Plans If Convicted

NEW YORK (AP) — Samuel H. Sheppard, acquitted last month in the 1956 slaying of his first wife, Marilyn, indicated Wednesday night he would have shot himself in the courtroom or on the street if he had been convicted and had to return to jail.

Sheppard, appearing on the National Broadcasting Company's Johnny Carson "Tonight" show, also implied that he carried a pistol into the courtroom with him.

Carson asked him: "What would you have done if this trial had found you guilty. In other words, they would not have acquitted you, which they did."

Sheppard replied: "You are the first one who has come straight from the shoulder and asked me. I would have pulled that pistol from my inside and we would have had another court right on the street. Or in the courtroom. Because I wasn't going back (to prison)."

Carson then said: "You would have rather committed suicide." He said it ready. Sheppard replied, "I wasn't going back." A Cleveland, Ohio, jury acquitted Sheppard Nov. 15 in his second trial after he had spent nine years in prison for the crime.

Educational Television May Be Harnessed To Raise National I.Q.

By JOHN P. CUNNINGHAM
NEW YORK (NEA)—A few years ago I risked a deal of letters that would touch a commercial broadcaster's heart. They were thank-you notes written to an educational television station in Tennessee.

One I remember in particular, from a rural mother, was test-stained with gratitude. "I never thank you enough," she wrote. "After my children went to school, they used to look down on me because I couldn't read or write. Not telling them, I learned to read and write from your television program. Then I surprised them! Now they respect me. And I am happy again for the first time since my children started to grow up. I never thank you enough."

Another one from a man: "I owe you $25 a week. You did it for me. I used to get $40 a week being a dishwasher in lunchroom. You showed me to read and write on your television. I drive truck now. I read all the signs. I get $25 a week. I went back to my family and now take good care of them all the time. Thank you."

Here is a major box indeed! It can give a woman self-respect and a man a better life. The most important unsolved problem that confronts us in this generation, I believe, is the challenge of properly harnessing television in the educational area.

It is the problem of releasing to the country the tremendous latent forces of television to the task of upgrading our national mind—a job that is barely begun. It is even more important than the problem of releasing the forces of nuclear energy to our national industry.

We like to think of ourselves as a modern intelligent nation, yet 12 million of our adult citizens are illiterate. Unable to read, they are unable to hold a job which would give them a minimum of security with a dash of self-respect.

They cannot even read the "Help Wanted" columns in the newspapers or the street signs that will show them where the employment office is.

These 12 million people can only be reached through television to their ears and pictures to their eyes. That clearly describes the television set—which is the only piece of furniture, beyond a bed, that some of them have.

Additional bits of very handy knowledge can also be given to these people through the television set that will help them greatly—simple, usable arithmetic perhaps, and facts about family health.

Not only can it help wipe out illiteracy, but it promises a tantalizing future for the illiterate.

Many thoughtful leaders in the field of educational television believe that some day the television set will make a college degree available to every single American. The only action required of a television student would be to go to a central place in his city to a hungry mind? This will be good news to those who are unable to raise a bachelor's degree at the same time. It will be good news to those who are better than the college class but are forced to leave because of the college graduates who seek masters' degrees — although they may have run out of time and money. They can now pursue postgraduate work at night by television. Television can do some things otherwise could not afford them. Why doesn't ETV fulfill all these bright promises? Because it hasn't the money. New hope has arisen, however, with the recent offer of the Ford Foundation to establish a satellite broadcast system, which can be used by the networks at great savings.

BASEBALL TURNS BACK ON MAGIC VALLEY

Local Franchise Voided; Burley-Rupert Hope Ends At National Convention

Magic Valley's professional baseball future has come to a sudden dead end. The recent national association meeting failed to turn up a working agreement for the Twin Falls-based franchise and there was no talk of expansion which might have fielded a team for the Burley-Rupert area. The decision to keep baseball out of Twin Falls is of no great moment. It has happened in other towns, happened here voluntarily and happened here by the open-market method of dealing out working agreements by the majors who never be corrected.

The over-lying factor of the situation is that Twin Falls does not have the money to do anything that we mean starting planning on tearing Jayce Park down for a couple dozen picnic tables or an unneeded Little League diamond.

We find it very important to Twin Falls that it maintain a facility for night baseball and activities regular and guaranteed annual use. We realize that Jayce Park is old, needs repair and its lighting system could use a major overhaul.

But we strongly recommend that anything done about Jayce Park be with the vested interests of advantages even this old antiquated facility has.

The Shrine Circus jumps immediately up and down the boys are in voluntary retirement in 1959 and 1960, the city parks and recreation department rented it for a couple of dozen activities in any area related to athletics in any way.

Also, there's the matter of the high school and the American Legion teams using it. In fact, it is the only good diamond in the city, good diamond Eight, which has a tendency to slant to the north.

It is agreed here that some modification of Jayce Park would be desirable. This might include some that would reduce seating. But by and large we stand unshakably opposed to any decision that could do away with the basic use of Jayce Park.

A good example of what head on thinking does can be found in Boise, when the Braves dropped out of the Pioneer League the city stood back and let the Idaho Fish and Game Department buy the site and establish the park and establish headquarters on the ground.

From then on, and now we're speaking purely from an athletic standpoint, Boise was a daytime summer recreation area with only a couple of lighted softball fields.

This year the city put up a lighting system that would accommodate American Legion and high school play. But recently when it appeared the Pioneer League might expand, suddenly a Boise group wanted back in. There was no place to go and actually it appears that Burley-Rupert and Tooele, Utah, would have the inside track to franchise ahead of the state's largest city.

For the present it would appear that Jayce Park stands as the biggest white elephant in Twin Falls. It isn't. It can be used for many things—we seem to recall the Boy Scouts staging a big exhibition there, the Camp Fire Girls holding some big ceremonies, etc. Then there's always the probability of Twin Falls getting back into professional baseball.

It might be kinda costly to keep in repair but for the immediate future we consider Jayce Park much more an asset than liability.

Celtics Batter Royals 119-91

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, led by Red Auerbach, took advantage of the absence of Cincinnati's ailing Oscar Robertson and handed the Royals a 119-91 rout in the Basketball Association trouncing Wednesday night.

Haylick, often called the best sixth man in basketball, came off the bench and sparked the Celtics to a commanding lead in the first half and then led an overpowering surge after Cincinnati closed to within nine points in the third period.

The former state star finished with 32 points as Boston defeated the Royals for the third straight time this season and boosted its record to 16-5.

Magic Valley's professional baseball future has come to a sudden dead end. The recent national association meeting failed to turn up a working agreement for the Twin Falls-based franchise and there was no talk of expansion which might have fielded a team for the Burley-Rupert area. You're out of it and that's the cold, hard truth," said...

"We talked to every major director from every major league team and there was just nothing going for anyone."

The local working agreement was pulled out of Twin Falls early this fall with assurances that another would be provided by 1957. The Giants now have the agreement at Salt Lake City.

"The biggest problem of the meeting was so many leagues were in the market for a franchise. The Giants were more interested in saving leagues than in saving cities," said the director.

He noted the Northwest League, Carolina League and Florida League all had agreements at a recent meeting. The entire Southern League is a question mark right now.

"The trouble is we're so far down the chain of command from the top that no one pays attention. There are only three major league teams in the Twin Falls area."

Jewell said he talked extensively to Jack Schwartz, San Francisco Giants secretary and liaison man with the Pioneer League. Schwartz was responsible for moving the league from Twin Falls to Salt Lake City.

Schwartz made what following an Aug. 25 farm tour of the Twin Falls area. Both St. Louis and Detroit expressed interest in providing rookie-league players for the area.

But St. Louis went into Leavenworth in the Northwest League and the Detroit might evaporate," Jewell said.

Pittsburgh and Kansas City, two others that wanted in the Pioneer League earlier, cooled off completely.

Jewell said Schwartz was leaving Twin Falls without a team because the Giants had already decided to "highest relationship" with the local group.

Jewell added he could offer no assurance that the Pioneer League would "hold on" for the time being.

"Pitt said the majors are a pinch to expand to 12 teams as soon as this Viet Nam situation is cleared up. Then there will be need for another 20 or 30 minor league clubs. He said Magic Valley would "hold on" for a couple of years and baseball would be back," Jewell concluded.

The news came as little surprise to Magic Valley board of directors.

Ever since the move to Salt Lake City first started the correspondence has become very vague," Carl Berg, past president and league representative said earlier.

Ironically, the withdrawal ends the Magic Valley franchise and perhaps its strongest financial condition in several years. The absence of baseball apparently will not hurt the fans too much, only 12,000 showing up at Jayce Park last summer. A couple of years' absence might prove the kind of spark that carried the Cowboys to the national banner and Larry McPhail trophy in 1951, following a two-year dormancy.

Philadelphia Trades Culp To Cubs For Ellsworth And Cash

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Phillies sent dissatisfied Ray Culp and an undisclosed amount of cash to the Chicago Cubs Wednesday for left-hander Dick Ellsworth, a 22-game winner two years ago. General Manager John Quinn announced the trade, and also disclosed that he has invited right-hander Joe Ray, recently released by the Atlanta Braves, to try for the club in spring training. The 25-year-old Culp, who received $100,000 bonus for signing with the Phillies in 1962, publicly asked to be traded at the end of last season. He hinted he would rather quit baseball than pitch for the Phillies.

Culp, right-hander, was 7-4 last season. His best years were his rookie season and in 1955, when he posted 14-11 records. He hit .213 in 1962, his last season in his four-year major league career.

Ellsworth, 26, who received a $200,000 bonus for signing with the Chicago organization in 1958, was 22-10 in 1955, but slumped to 6-22 last year with the hapless Cubs. He had a career run average of 1.53 in 1957. He allowed only 45 earned runs in 205 innings while winning 12 games and losing 15.

Kant, who had a 25-13 record as the Twins were dethroned as the dominating force in the American League, was the biggest winner. He also started the most games (41), pitched the most complete games (10) and had the most innings (305) faced the most batters (1,354) and gave up the most hits (711).

Baltimore, which easily won the pennant and went on to a four-game sweep of the Los Angeles Dodgers, had only one pitcher among the top 15 in ERA, based on a minimum of 182 innings.

Lawmaker Hits Athletes' Deferments

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Louis Brandeis, D-Md., called Wednesday for a Congressional investigation into the apparent immunity of professional athletes from the military draft.

He made his request after publication in a magazine of a statement that only two of 300 professional football players were drafted into the Army this year, although a large percentage of them are between 18 and 25 and in excellent health.

In a letter to Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, Brandeis referred to growing concern over inequities in the draft.

With the latest revelation about pro football players, Brandeis said, public confidence in the new law is shaken. He asked that the inquiry also include professional baseball and basketball players.

Nezdi, a member of the Armed Services Committee, also wrote to Stanley Resor, Secretary of Defense, and Gen. Winston Wilson of the National Guard concerning allegations of privileged treatment of professional athletes by reserve and guard units.

As much as he would like to see his favorite teams continue to play, Brandeis said he thinks it is morally wrong to discriminate in favor of pro athletes as they would be to discriminate against them.

Negroes On Denver Team Score Coach

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A spokesman for the 12 Negro players on the Denver Broncos football team said Wednesday they feel they have several grievances.

Halfback Abner Haynes said no one incident was responsible for the fact he and 11 other players failed to attend a dinner given for the team Tuesday night by the Denver Quarterback Club.

Coach Ray Melavasi said each of the players would be fined, reportedly $50, since the team had been ordered to attend the dinner.

The Broncos later issued a statement, saying Melavasi had agreed with them that they would attempt to eliminate any inequities that might exist about which these players were concerned.

One report said the Negro players were displeased because the coaches of the American Football League club gave the Player of the Week Award to Larry Cor, a defensive tackle, instead of to Charley Mitchell, Negro halfback.

Mitchell said in a telephone interview that failure to attend the dinner was "not a reflection on the Denver players or the Quarterback Club. They're just wondering."

Both he and Haynes said none of the grievances would be taken to the practice field. The Broncos play at Oakland Sunday.

Nance Repeats As AFL Offensive Star

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Nance, the Boston bomb-thrower who shattered American Football League records in each of his last two games and scattered the Buffalo Bills with one blow last Sunday, was cited by The Associated Press Wednesday as the AFL Offensive Player of the Week. The 236-pound fullback, whose 65-yard touchdown bolt in the first quarter gave the Patriots all the points they needed in a 14-3 victory over the Bills, earned AFL offensive honors for the second straight week and third time this season.

Nance broke Paul Lowe's season record for rushing yardage with 100 yards in the 1-000-yard club. Against Buffalo, he carried 24 times for 109 yards and a 12-gain touchdown. He also eclipsed Cookie Gilchrist's season mark for rushing attempts.

With two games remaining, Nance, a second-year pro, has shot at bettering the 1,577 yards gained by another Syracuse University alumnus, Jim Brown, in his second National Football League season eight years ago.

"Last year I couldn't think of breaking records," says Nance, who spent a good part of his rookie season on the Boston bench after ballooning to 250 pounds. "But now I don't mind being compared with Brown."

"He was my idol. But I'd still consider him great if I broke his records. And I intend to."

In Sunday's showdown for the AFL Eastern Division lead, Nance crashed through left guard as the 35-year-old, shook off a tackle at the Buffalo 40, and after stumbling, went the rest of the way untouched.

The touchdown jump, longest run in Nance's brief career and second longest gain in the league this season, wiped out a 20 Buffalo lead. Nance and Larry Carron later cleared the way for quarterback Babe Parilli's three-yard TD run in the third period that cemented the victory.

The Yankees Joe Peplone topped regular first basemen with a .395 mark, while Kenedy led the second basemen with .381. Brooks Robinson dominated the third basemen with .376, while teammate Luis Aparicio was the class of shortstops with .378.

Mickey Mantle, the New York outfielder hobbled by injuries, topped 150-fielding outfielders with a 1,000-fielding record. Outfielders in more than 100 games were led by Ed Kirkpatrick of California with .594 in 102 appearances and Detroit's Al Kaline with .593 in 138 appearances.

Bill Freehan of Detroit led regular catchers with an average of .396 on just four errors in 558 chances.

Poyster's Place Kicks Set Records

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry Poyster of Wyoming booted a record out of the books in winning the kicking title among major-college football players, the final statistics compiled by the NCAA. Service Bureau disclosed Wednesday.

The 6-foot-2 junior from Bellevue, Neb., attempted a record 66 kicks with extra-points and 38 field goals. He hit on 32 extra points and 13 field goals for 71 points.

Bob Eiter of Georgia was second with 67 points, followed by Alabama's Steve Davis with 55. Tom Fambrough of West Virginia and Kurt Zimmerman, UCLA, finished in a fourth place tie with 51.

Tennessee's Ron Wibly is the punting champion. He averaged 43.3 yards for 48 punts, edging away the title from Nebraska's Vince Washington of Wyoming led in punt returns with 443 yards.

Henry King of Utah State and Charlie West of Texas Western had the most interceptions, 11 each. However, King was placed on top because he returned them 180 yards to West's 105.

76ers Romp To Win Over Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — Hal Greer scored 15 points in an explosive third quarter Wednesday night to carry the Philadelphia 76ers to an easy 117-103 National Basketball Association victory over the Chicago Bulls.

The victory was the ninth straight for the Eastern Division's league leaders who have won 10 of 11 games in 26 starts. The Bulls dropped their fifth in a row and their 15th in the last 18 games.

The Bulls, led by Jim Washington, refused to yield until midway in the third quarter. They had led the score 56-55 before Greer, who ended with 33 points, went to work with seven baskets and a free throw to put the 76ers out to rest.

Rookie Dave Schellhaas, making his first start for the Bulls, tallied eight points but his play in the first and third quarters enabled Chicago to stay in contention.

Philadelphia's Walt Chamberlain passed the 14,000 mark in rebounds by retrieving 23 for a 14,000 total. He also contributed 21 points.

Washington topped the Bulls with 20 points, 14 in the third period.

Obligation Is Given At Grange Meet

HAGERMAN — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Laurason received the obligation of membership from Stanley Hostovec, master of the Hagerman Grange, at the unit's business meeting Monday evening.

The group will hold a work night at 7 p.m. Friday in the hall. A petition was prepared by the secretary to send to other Granges and Farm Bureaus asking for support in fighting the spread of the Russian Olive tree. It was noted these thorny trees are spreading along irrigation ditches and are a real detriment to farmers.

Joseph Olivier and John Sanborn were reported ill. Guests from the Orchard Valley Grange were Howard Niccum, Pomona Grange master; Kirby Hill, Orchard Valley master, and Melvin Gibson.

Nicum presented awards that were given at state Grange. Hostovec, Mrs. William Scruggs and Mrs. C. A. Vernon received certificates for securing new members.

A check for $25 was presented to the Grange for membership gains. The home economics committee received a red ribbon on the yearbook for second place in the state. Mrs. Ted Bell, home economics chairman, received a gift and certificate for her report.

This report placed third in the state Grange competition.

Hill invited the Hagerman Grangers to a potluck supper Dec. 23 at Orchard Valley. Gibson announced a Credit Union meeting and banquet will be held Jan. 9 at Orchard Valley Grange Hall and credit union officers will be elected. He reported on the proposed merger of the Farmers Union Exchange and the Grange Co-op stores.

Mrs. Malcolm Hensley, lecturer, read an article on how to get along with people. She also read an article on the history and meaning of the word "Grange" and the ideals conceived by the founder, Oliver H. Kelley.

Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Dick Pope and Mr. and Mrs. Bell. The next meeting will be a family potluck supper at 7 p.m. Dec. 19, with a Christmas party to follow. Each family is asked to furnish a number for the program.

THE PAUL EQUIPMENT and Welding has maintained its record this week of finding "no job too complicated or too big for them to handle". Vestal Yeaman, Heyburn, 14-year veteran company employee, is preparing the completion of a repair job on the company 50-pound hammer which after 45 years of daily use broke down last week. The repair job which at first seemed almost impossible for lack of proper facilities, is being repaired by the transformation of an old steam locomotive axle purchased by J. A. Bauer during World War II (Times-News photo)

After 23 Years, Paul Man Finds Use For Steel Axle

By ARVETTA SAVAGE
Times-News Correspondent

PAUL — The familiar phrase, "I always figured that someday I would have a use for this," came true this week for J. A. Bauer, owner of Paul Equipment and Welding Co.

During World War II, Bauer had purchased a steam locomotive axle from a junk dealer and for 23 years had kept it at his establishment awaiting the opportunity which came this week.

The steel axle has been cut down and transformed into a new head for the anvil side of a 50-pound trip hammer, which had broken down after 46 years of faithful daily service in the blacksmith business.

Bauer, who invents everything he manufactures, had difficulty purchasing steel during the war because the big companies were tied up with war manufacturing. This left the farmers with very little material for repair and even farming equipment.

Equipment in this farming area was a great necessity and the farmers persuaded Bauer to use his keen inventive ability to manufacture their equipment ment so it could be used with a tractor. He had used the hammer every day to manufacture farming equipment and no necessary repair to save the farmer hundreds of dollars.

With this record accomplished during his business career, Bauer weighed the balance, which was a $2,000 new replacement cost on one side and a challenge to repair the broken equipment hanging on the other side. Bauer took the challenge.

Yeaman constructed an auxiliary stand to accommodate the hammer while it was being repaired with the assistance of a small 12-inch shaper.

The workers have hung the heavy hammer by a crane which is taking a good share of the weight from the shaper. The hammer will be back in business this week.

Filer Plans Date Of Next Drawing

FILER — Filer's next drawing will be held from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Jan. 18 at the American Legion building, states Mrs. Elmer Parrott, area director, and the quota will be 75 pints.

Ten per cent of each drawing's quota of blood is for the O Negative type, noted Mrs. Parrott. This type, which is deemed the universal type since it agrees with all other blood types, is greatly in demand and donors are urged to contribute, she said.

Filer residents with this type of blood can give it at the blood drawings and not wait to be asked to come to the hospitals to give it as the hospitals now have a list of close donors.

Filer holds two blood drawings each year with a quota of 75 pints set for each drawing. The Boise Red Cross blood bank must receive 40 units per week from drawings throughout the state to meet requirements for blood and plasma, said Mrs. Parrott.

Mrs. Schroeder is secretary of District Two Red Cross Chapter. The chapter includes the five counties of Lincoln, Twin Falls, Jerome, Gooding and Blaine. Ralph Assendrup, Buhl, is chairman, and Dale Patterson, Twin Falls, is vice chairman.

Overflow

BRAINTREE, Mass. (AP)

A year ago, Braintree, like many other New England communities, wasn't sure where its next drop of water was coming from.

Today, because of more rain and better water conservation measures, the reservoirs are spilling over.

Water Commission Chairman Thomas H. Matthews says with a grin:

"I recommend two baths a day this winter or we won't have any place to store the spring runoff."

Million Dollars Of Spanish Treasure To Be Shown

By HENRIETTA LEITH
NEW YORK (AP) — On the night of July 31, 1715, a Spanish fleet of 11 ships was approaching Cape Canaveral on the Florida coast when a hurricane struck.

All but one were dashed onto the reefs. That one sailed on across the Atlantic to bring the news that a treasure of gold and silver plundered from the new world, and silks, dyes and porcelain from the Orient, had been lost under the Florida waters.

On Dec. 20 the Park-Bernet Galleries here will open an exhibition equally attractive to antique collectors and little boys dreaming of pirates and pieces of eight. On display will be a million dollars worth of Spanish treasure — brought up from its watery grave after 250 years.

Four years after the hurricane sank the fleet, the Spaniards tried to recover the sunken treasure. But much of what they managed to bring up was stolen — by pirates operating out of nearby islands and by an English captain named Henry Senning who brought in 300 men on five ships and made away with 350,000 pieces of silver.

When the Spanish salvagers gave up in 1719, an estimated half of the treasure still was underwater.

The treasure stayed there, almost forgotten, until 1935 when a retired builder known as Kip Wagner found on a Florida beach a piece of silver stamped with a cross and coat of arms of Spain. It was one of the clues known as pieces of eight.

Using a mine detector, Wagner found a ship's spike, cannon balls and other items. He was convinced he had found the Spaniards' salvage storehouse and began looking for the ships.

Since then Wagner and his associates have found the sites of eight of the 10 ships and have salvaged treasure from four of them.

One of the first finds was two huge clumps, weighing 135 pounds, that looked like barnacle-encrusted rock. Actually, they were pieces of silver welded together by underwater life.

Silver cups and dishes, bronze weights, seafaring equipment came up — but for months no gold. Then in one dive, a thousand doubloons were found in a heap.

On the site of the flagship of the sunken fleet the divers found a necklace of gold chains more than 11 feet long with 2,000 links intricately and beautifully carved by Chinese artisans, with a pendant dragon of gold.

The dragon was a whistle — still loud and clear after centuries. Its tail was a spoon for picking one's ears, and its belly opened out to produce a tooth-pick.

Research showed the treasure hunters had found the only example known to exist of the chain of office worn by Spanish captains-general — masters of the flagships.

The reason no other exist is the treasury historians, is that they all went down with their ships, as did their captains, or were by tradition tossed overboard before the captain surrendered the ship.

For this reason the necklace — lovely enough to adorn a wealthy bosom for a night at the opera but probably destined for a museum — is expected to bring at least $40,000 or $50,000 at auction.

Also having historic value beyond their beauty, intact after the years underwater, are K'ang-shi porcelain bowls made in China.

Rarity

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A skin doctor says the K'ang-shi bowl has become a rarity for some unknown reason.

Dr. Ervin Epstein of the University of California speculated that some catastrophe of nature overcame the mites that causes the ailment, also known as scabies.

Dr. Epstein told the American Academy of Dermatology that scabies cases now are rare.

Unlikely Spud Object Of Art For Children

The sometimes-lowly potato is frequently called a member of the ruling class in Idaho and participants in a children's art class sponsored by the College of Southern Idaho have learned to attire the vegetable in a manner befitting its Idaho position.

Some of the work of the students with pointers as well as other media will be displayed from 2 to 5 p.m. Sunday when CSI holds an exhibit of children's art at the Area Vocational School on Kimberly Road.

On display will be art work of 27 children from Twin Falls, Kimberly, Wendell, Buhl and Filer who have just completed a ten-week course learning various techniques and art media — such as painting, drawing, sculpture, papier mache, print making and collage.

Linda Bird, Twin Falls, will be playing Christmas selections on the organ during the exhibit. The public is invited, according to a spokesman of the college art department.

BOISE (AP) — Gov. Robert E. Smylie Wednesday criticized a suggestion by a state legislator that the 1967 Legislature ban the use of trading stamps and game promotions by retail stores.

"It is the kind of issue that doesn't lend much to the climate of achievement that ought to surround a legislature," the governor said in a news conference.

Mom, Dad, Grandma Are College Kids Now

By CATHERINE TATE
Times-News Staff Writer

With book bags substituted for knapsacks, and a trail of footprints around their heads, approximately 110 young, mature and in-between married women have taken the banner of higher education to heart by heading back to school at the College of Southern Idaho.

By doing so, they have upped the ratio of married to single students in the college's academic division to one in four. Thirty-six per cent of the women currently enrolled in academic courses, either full or part-time, are married. Most of these wives have children, either grown and out of the home or young enough to be in preschool themselves.

Many of the married students go to class as a case of their own, frequently bringing in better grades than the children do.

Of several interviews conducted with CSI married students, both male and female, a consensus found the students agreeing that marriage is responsible for more academic concentration and serious intellectual application, but less collegiate social life.

The younger couples who have one or more children usually find that their offspring have a stabilizing effect on their marriages, rather than causing added financial and emotional problems.

One young matron put it this way: "We both enjoyed our baby tremendously, and my husband, right now, can really unwind when he plays with her in the evening."

Of the young fathers interviewed, all of whom work at least part-time while going to school, most agreed with one who said, "At first it was harder than Hades to study while the baby was screaming her head off, but you get used to it."

The married students' biggest problem is lack of time, the students agreed.

"There just aren't enough hours in the day," Mrs. Elvin Brown, a 22-year-old sophomore, said. Mrs. Brown is in the family education major and works part time in addition to attending classes full time.

Mrs. Brown enrolled at the college last semester "because it was something I've always wanted to do and the college was easily accessible."

She pointed out that most married women can't have the advantage of attending college, since they traditionally are obligated to put their husbands' job location before their own wishes.

Women with schedules like Mrs. Brown's find it hard to devote enough time to each of their duties, those of housewife and mother, student and frequently employee. The best solution, Mrs. Brown says, is to devise a strict, rigid time budget.

"I know exactly what I'm going to be doing during the day from the moment I get up," she said.

As far as social life for the CSI married student, Mrs. Brown said that recreation for most young couples with one or both partners going to school is limited.

She had one closing comment: "I love it. I wouldn't trade it for anything in the world, and I'm having a ball."

Mrs. Eugene Kenner, Jerome, enthusiastically agreed with Mrs. Brown and said she was "having a lot of fun, meeting new people and just generally enjoying myself."

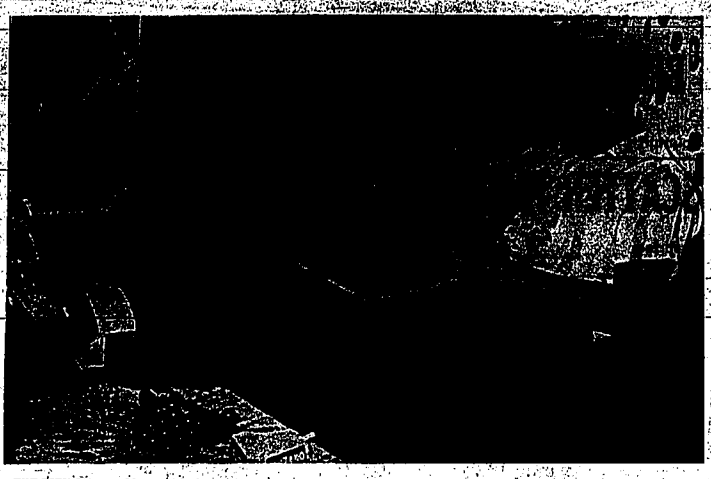

Mrs. Kenner is a grandmother, has two married children and is a full-time student with a sophomore academic level. She also is an elementary education major.

"I wanted to go to school so I would know what my college-educated children were talking about," she said. She plans to continue her education at Utah State University in Logan next year.

Mrs. Kenner's most difficult problem as far as her new role as a CSI student is concerned was "trying to adjust to studying after being out of school for so long."

The ladies may be in the majority position during roll calls of CSI married students, but it is a very narrow majority — of the 200 married students currently enrolled in the academic courses, 90 are men.

THE LIFE OF a working student is a hard one, Donald Gay contends. Mrs. Gay is somewhat unconvinced, however. The Gays have one child, own a trailer home and are investing in men enrolled in the academic division are married.

Typical of these male students is Mr. Dilworth, 26-year-old sophomore social science major. Mr. Dilworth and his wife both work full-time and have no children.

Mr. Dilworth finds it difficult to achieve a satisfactory balance between his home life, school work and job.

"I really can't devote the proper amount of time to each," he says.

He stated that he would attempt to finish school before getting married "if I had it to do over again."

Several other students disagreed with Mr. Dilworth on this point, contending that marriage did provide them with incentive to study more and "goof" less.

"Louis Dauplaise, 49, a freshman education major, enrolled in CSI "because here was a college in my back yard—I can see the school from my house—the bus still came along right next to it and what else could I want?"

Mrs. Dauplaise is another full-time student who holds down a full-time job. He has three children.

His biggest problem is organizing time for study, he said.

"The members of my family are ordinarily extremely helpful, but they rarely say 'let's not go anywhere tonight because dad's got to study,' so I usually do my preparation late at night," he said.

Mrs. Laird Noh also has difficulty finding study time. She is a more mature student, however, since her husband is a former college professor.

"It's much harder facing a husband with low grades than it is to face parents," she said.

PTA Meet Has Symposium At Castleford

CASTLEFORD — A Symposium including E. E. Marlow, Twin Falls juvenile officer; Lawrence Haber, state rehabilitation counselor; Rev. Jack Kennedy, Judge Harry Jennings and Mrs. Calvin Harper, spoke on "Citizenship and Morality of Our Youth," at the Castleford PTA meeting Monday night.

Mrs. James Barron was moderator at the event held in the school library.

Speakers agreed that basically our youth are honest and dependable. A juvenile delinquent is an exception. About 15 children out of 64 are delinquent and they mostly come from homes that are unstable, it was noted. Four per cent of the juvenile delinquents come from religious homes and they are mostly one time offenders.

Parents can help their children by attending church with them and knowing where they are at nights, speakers stated.

Richfield Lists Honor Students

RICHFIELD — Phyllis Flavel, senior; her sister, Cathie Flavel, a sophomore, and Noelyn Pope, a freshman, topped the Richfield High School high honor roll with perfect A grades for the second six weeks grading period.

Others on the high honor roll were Janene Primrose, Richard Magoffin, seniors; Dale Sanders, junior; Dusty Dixon, Deanna Behr, sophomores, and Julie Hawes, John Lezamis and Arsona Rosa, freshmen.

Kay Jensen, senior, was the only student on the honorable mention list.

3 Arrested: Man Can Ease Mind

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Eugene Connelly offered $1,000 for his peace of mind. He got quick results.

A week ago Connelly, 42, began running an advertisement in local newspapers. It offered a $1,000 reward for help in capturing the persons who burglarized his suburban home of $12,000 in jewelry and clothing while he and his wife were vacationing in Spain last October.

It wasn't the loss so much — the insurance would cover that — "I've got to have some peace of mind as to who was in my home. Whether it was someone I know who set me up," he said.

Tuesday police arrested three persons Connelly had never seen before and charged them with burglary and receiving stolen goods. Most of the belongings were recovered.

Arrested were Gilbert Gaugiar, 40; his son, James, 21; and Barbara Enscoe, 23.

Penn Hills Police Lt. James Demaria said police had received "certain information" after the advertisement appeared. Connelly said he had not decided who would get the $1,000.

Shell Explodes Aboard Carrier

WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-inch shell exploded aboard the destroyer USS Manley off Viet Nam on Wednesday while Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., was aboard to observe naval bombardment, the Pentagon said.

The senator was not injured but three crewmen were burned in a fire which followed the blast.

The incident occurred at 10:39 a.m. Saigon time, as the 4,200-ton destroyer shelled Communist positions south of the big naval base at Da Nang in South Viet Nam.

United States Has Another Dilemma In Murky World Of Middle East

BY LEON DENNEN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA)—It was to bolster King Hussein's ever-shaky throne that the State Department disclosed consideration of increased military aid to Jordan. The young king is one of the few Western-oriented leaders in the Middle East.

It is, therefore, ironic that in the last five years the United Nations contributed more than $150 million in aid to Arab refugees, many of whom are dedicated to Hussein's overthrow. The aid to Hussein's overthrow. In the murky world of Middle Eastern plots and counterplots, the United States is facing another dilemma that the United Nations, as usual, finds it convenient to ignore.

The American contribution is made through the U. N. Relief and Works Agency (UNRWA), which handles Arab refugee aid. But Middle Eastern diplomats have long been aware that many of the dollars are eventually diverted, directly or indirectly, to the military wing of the PLO. The majority of them are UNRWA's relief rolls.

The United States, whose contribution to UNRWA represents 70 per cent of its total budget, has repeatedly expressed concern that Liberation Army soldiers were receiving relief rations. It asked the agency to take the army off the ration roll and report progress in this direction as soon as possible.

But so far UNRWA turned a deaf ear to all American requests. As a humanitarian body, other political fish to fry. Last March he visited Peking where arms to the Liberation Army.

He announced, among other things, that he had agreed to send Arab guerrillas to Viet Nam to fight alongside the Communists.

In a communiqué signed by Premier Chou En-lai, Red China agreed to establish a PLO office in Peking and to supply arms to the Liberation Army.

The PLO was created at a 1964 Arab summit conference in Cairo with the avowed purpose of destroying the State of Israel.

But Shukairy, the PLO's 35-year-old chief, apparently had no intention of being tied to any political arena.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
and HOROSCOPE

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8—Born today, you are somewhat more inclined to dwell upon goals per se than upon the people involved in the accomplishment of these goals. Something of a dreamer, you are likely to imagine yourself a success rather than to take the bull by the horns and put in the effort, time, and determination it takes to make your dreams a reality. You have it within you to become all, or nearly all, the things you fancy yourself as being—but it takes more than fancy to make the dream come true.

Once you put your mind to it, you could easily become a leader in your chosen line of work. You may not have by nature the determination that so many born today have, but you are intelligent enough to develop any characteristic that you lack—especially when, through doing so, you can ensure your own future.

Unlike some who are exceptionally sensitive to adverse criticism, you are inclined to refuse to take on a project through fear of such criticism rather than working in secret to escape the critics. Take the advice that others would give you: learn to work alone, without encouragement, until your project is completed, then let the critics have their way!

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Friday, December 8
—SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)—The Sagittarius who carefully thinks his next move through rather than relying on instinct should make the right decision.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20)—Don't allow friends to blind you to the problems of the day. Solve them now—before the week ends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 18)—Make contacts with those who can be of help to your career in the near future. Don't leave everything for the last minute.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 21)—Your own enthusiasm should carry the day. Business partners must be made aware of the value of the present plans for a deal.

ARIES (March 22-April 20)—Take the lead in present domestic affairs. Those who may seem to know best may be baffling; check out facts first.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21)—Don't cement one personal relationship at the cost of another. Remember that old friends are best in the long run.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21)—Social contacts are yours for the asking today, but they may not stand you in such good stead as business suggestions. Choose wisely.

CANCER (June 22-July 23)—So long as you do not compromise your principles in the process, do what is expected of you by others. Your career looks promising.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23)—Make sure you are trying to fit the right abilities to the right job. Don't try to conserve talents until something better comes along.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23)—Think optimistically. It is not impossible, nor even improbable, that what you have to offer is precisely what is needed.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23)—A certain amount of ingenuity may be needed to persuade others that you possess the talent they are looking for. Blow your own horn.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23)—You may be surprised at how little it is to obtain backing today—even from those who have been opposed to your plans.

DICK SMITH has been named to the Idaho Heart Association's 1957 state campaign committee.

Officers For Association
Are Relected

A former Madison County state senator has been named as the Idaho Heart Association's 1957 state campaign committee chairman.

Dick Smith, Rexburg, was named head of the committee by the organization's Board of Directors, chaired by Donald L. Harris, Caldwell.

At the present time Mr. Smith is secretary of the University of Idaho Board of Regents and the Idaho State Board of Education. He also headed the Idaho Wheat Commission for six years and has served as a Madison County commissioner.

Mr. Smith was appointed by President Dwight D. Eisenhower as one of a five-man trade team to the Far East.

In commenting on the approaching Heart Fund drive, Mr. Smith said, "After my recent tour of north Idaho, I am overwhelmed at the dedication of 'heart volunteers' not alone for their untiring efforts in the campaign, but for their year-round interest and enthusiasm."

"I am looking forward to a great campaign in Idaho this coming February in raising 'heart money' in an effort to alleviate the tragic death and disability caused by heart and circulatory diseases."

Dog Helps

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Robert Bergstrom's dog was more help than hindrance to four gunmen.

After luring the German shepherd outside recently, the marauders crawled through his dog-dog into the house where they bound Bergstrom and his wife and looted their home of $20,000 in antiques and jewelry.

THE JUNIOR REALM
with MARLA LEE

Q. Since World War II we have given to our allied allies more than 75 billion dollars in economic and military aid. Yet, we find that we are policing the world against aggression and our allies want us to do the entire job. What do your pessimists think of our Foreign Aid Program? Col. J.P.D.

A. Panelists: Wendy Bernard, college, Nevada; Patricia C. Ross, college, Massachusetts; Thomas A. Henderson, college, Michigan; Alan Loford, college, Wyoming.

Foreign Aid since the Marshall Plan in the Truman Administration, as a gimmick to gain allies for security against the spread of communism. But there have been heaped upon us basic communistic doctrines, such as private welfare, eliminating poverty, government control and heavy taxation to keep individuals from becoming wealthy as in days of yore. And now there is pressure to have our government take over and insure a fixed annual income for everybody. This was the key subject in the recent convention of communists in Moscow.

Our allies in NATO are Belgium, Britain, Canada, Denmark, France, Greece, Holland, Iceland, Italy, Luxembourg, Norway, Portugal, Turkey and West Germany. France, whose life we have saved twice during the last 50 years, is now attempting to break up NATO and to run it out of the country. Canada, Britain, Italy and other NATO allies ship food and supplies to our enemies in Asia. Yet, they expect us to boycott their enemies, and our big glib government has fallen for it, such as boycotting supplies to Rhodesia. Yet, since World War II, we have given these NATO allies financial aid in the sum of $4.5 billion. And they want us to defend Europe against the spread of communism.

Our allies in SEATO are Australia, Britain, France, New Zealand, Thailand, Pakistan and the Philippines. The only ones who have given us any assistance in our Asian trouble are Australia and New Zealand. The rest of them still ship to our enemies. Since World War II, our allies in SEATO have received $25 billion from us.

Our allies in CENTO are Britain, Iran, Pakistan and Turkey. In the same space of time our CENTO allies have received $18.7 billion and not one of them has measured up to their responsibilities as allies.

Our RIO allies are Argentina, Bolivia, Brazil, Chile, Colombia, Costa Rica, Dominican Republic, El Salvador, Guatemala, Haiti, Honduras, Mexico, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, Uruguay and Venezuela. Since World War II we have given our RIO allies in foreign aid $8.5 billion plus many more through O.A.S. Yet all of them want the U.S. to go it alone.

We have individual pacts with Australia, Nationalist China, Japan, Korea, New Zealand and the Philippines. We have given $16.5 billion in aid to these people. Yet, South Korea is the only one who has sent us assistance in our Asian problems, besides the country of Australia and New Zealand. Excluding duplication to those in more than one pact, this totals out to $78 billion, all of which we have to pay through the nose.

We don't have allies, we have parasites. We are told that we should help the underdeveloped countries. Most underdeveloped countries would not be happy in development because they would not know how to handle it. These countries expect us to supply them with machinery and equipment necessary to become competitors of ours in the world market. How naive can the U.S. become in its foreign policy?

We believe that we should discontinue the foreign aid program and substitute for it a business aid program where we lend money, with proper collateral, and again become a business establishment in the foreign affairs and not just a big Yankee jackass. Thank God for this last election. Maybe now we can start a sane and sane foreign policy which will build our security instead of tearing it down.

Investors Might Find Review Of Portfolio Profitable This Month

BY RAY DE CRANE
Investors who had gains or losses—either actual or paper—in 1968's turbulent stock market may find it profitable to review their portfolio this month. Trades made within the next three weeks will be completed before the end of the year, making it possible for investors to take full advantage of any tax savings. The best way to plan your maneuvers is to make a complete record of all your transactions for the year in the same fashion you follow in preparing your tax return.

Separate your operations into short-term (held six months or less) and long-term transactions (those held longer than six months before a sale). Repeat the same operation for your long-term transactions, arriving finally at a net gain or loss. If you had a long-term loss carry-over from last year, it for a loss? Did you have a short-term carry-over from last year? If so, enter this carry-over into your tabulation. Repeat the same operation for your long-term transactions, arriving finally at a net gain or loss. If you had a long-term loss carry-over from last year, it for a loss? Did you have a short-term carry-over from last year? If so, enter this carry-over into your tabulation.

Now commingle your netting ordinary income for the year and the balance, if any, must be carried forward. If your net result is a short-term gain, it is added to other income. Should a long-term gain be your end product, one-half of it will be treated as ordinary income. Now is the time for you to make your decision as to what trades you might want to make to correct any imbalance or avoid paying a hefty tax on gain when you have paper losses you might realize. While tax advantages should not be the only consideration in taking a loss, investors might want to consider the possibility of using this means to offset gains for the year.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband is a saver! He saves old magazines, newspapers, sports equipment, clothes, and all kinds of worthless junk. Our basement is loaded with it and so is our guest room. I am at my wits end. If I so much as ask him when he is going to get around to sorting that stuff, he blows up. A year ago his aunt died, and he sent everything away either, so he had all her junk sent over here, and we have it in our garage. Don't tell me to send him to a psychiatrist. YOU should be so SICK!

DEAR ABBY: Your husband is a pack rat. This is fine if you have the storage space for it and it isn't a fire hazard, but that's rarely the case. Give the old hoarder one week in which to clean house, and tell him if he doesn't do it, you'll call the Salvation Army, Good Will, or some church auxiliary to pick up the junk and put it to good use. Then do it.

DEAR ABBY: Recently we were invited to a wedding. For a gift we sent a sterling silver candle snuffer. I just received a note from the bride, thanking us for the "darling little gravity dipper!"

I was stunned when I read it. Should I call the bride and tell her? I'm sure she'd be very much embarrassed if she had guests for dinner and used a candle snuffer for a gravity dipper!

DEAR ABBY: If you really fear that she will use the candle snuffer as a gravity ladle, call her and tell her nicely.

DEAR ABBY: I am 17 and am planning my wedding for next spring. My fiancé and I both wanted a large wedding. The problem is we have no money. After his mom died, his dad remarried. We were all real happy until we met her. She never comes but half, refuses to wear her false teeth and she is a mess in general.

I would be embarrassed to death to have this woman in front of all my friends. My wedding does not care for her at all. Abby, are we going to have to let all our plans go up in smoke and have a small wedding because of this woman? We would appreciate your advice.

DEAR ABBY: It is unfortunate that your future mother-in-law isn't more agreeable, but she is married to your fiancé's father, and you can't hide her in a closet. Proceed with your original wedding plans.

Perhaps her husband can persuade her to get a hair-do, put her teeth in, and spruce up a bit for the occasion. In any case, it is YOUR day, and this woman will not be as conspicuous as you imagine.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "THINKING IT OVER": Yes, two can live as cheaply as they please, but they both have good jobs.

How has the world been treating you? Unload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal, unpublished reply, inclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1.00 to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069.

Choose Crepe For Holiday Party Season

Deck the halls with holly, head South on a Caribbean cruise, have a tete-a-tete dinner. Whatever the occasion, this is the time of the year to let the feminine psyche loose. And there is nothing more feminine than a fine fashion swirl.

Women planning their party wardrobe for the coming season of gala festivities, will not find it difficult to select just the right look for each affair. Designers have created long, body-conscious gowns, sleek skirts that drop to the ankles, wide-legged culottes masquerading as evening gowns, all in simple crepes of Avisco-rayon and acetate.

The elegant rayon and acetate crepe fashions move with the body and subtly suggest the shape beneath—the look so dear to the hearts of Paris designers today. The colors are as varied as those on an artist's palette—with emphasis on the delicate liqueur shades, such as apricot and pale cream to denim. Inky blacks and chameis are very much in evidence too.

For a touch of drama, accessories these marvelous new fashions with great costume jewelry. Of course, the nicest accessory of all is a handsome escort wearing one of the new brocade or moire dinner jackets in an Avisco rayon blend.

Kissing Ball Suggested For Decoration

A novel suggestion from the Society of American Florists is a kissing ball made of florists' foam and covered with mistletoe, tiny bits of boxwood, or other foliage and fresh flowers.

The fresh flowers may be any of those that fit into a given color scheme. Possibly one of the most attractive choices is tiny, tiny, pale pink roses with an open, waxy-white gardenia for accent. The roses blend and point up the gray-green waxiness of the mistletoe. However, almost any small flower might be used effectively.

The preparation of a kissing ball is extremely simple. In the first place, any florist will prepare one on order, using any flowers specified. If it seems fun to make the kissing ball at home—and this can be a very happy family activity—the only material required are the ball of florists' foam, thin wire, toothpicks, and flowers.

The flowers are wired to the picks and then the picks are inserted into the foam—each one close to the next so that no foam shows. Intersperse the flowers with "twigs" of mistletoe and of small-leaved foliage.

A ribbon may be attached—also with the picks—to the top of the ball as a hanger. Another ribbon may trim the bottom. Where to hang the kissing ball? This is perfect in a bay window where it serves to beautify the house both inside and out. Or it may be hung in an archedway between two connecting rooms where it is perhaps more convenient for the purpose for which it was intended!

Al Morehead was Culbertson's right hand man for many years. In "Morehead on Bridge" he quotes Ely as saying: "The biggest invisible losses come when the opponents are defeated three tricks-undoubtedly."

We hold no brief for South's bidding. He should have passed went up with the ace and led the deuce of diamonds. West played the three, dummy the queen and East was in again with the diamond ace.

East led the nine of hearts. South's queen led to West's king and West led the jack of diamonds. It was allowed to hold and West continued with the ten. This was won in dummy and South led a spade to his queen.

South's next play was the deuce of hearts. He hoped this would force the jack but West won with the seven and cashed his nine of diamonds. Eventually West had to give South two club tricks but West's double had produced a 700-point penalty.

An interesting feature of the double is that if West had held a better hand in high cards for his double the penalty would never have reached the 700-point figure. Just move the ace of diamonds over to his hand and North's king and queen of diamonds would have both made tricks.

at two spades or three diamonds but he didn't. West recognized the signs of a misfit and while he didn't have much of a hand he felt that a double would pay dividends.

It did. West opened the four of spades. The deuce was played from North and East won the trick with the king. He returned the ten of hearts. South
