Haiti Invasion Is Routed By Arrest Of Armed Group

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP)—A Cuban exile said today that a vest-pocket invasion of Haiti, scheduled to lead to a war against Fidel Castro, was quelled by the arrest of a heavily armed band of Latin exiles and American adventurers.

However, the chief of the operation, Rolando Masserfer, controversial onetime aide of Cuban dictator Fulgencio Batista, said 30 commandos got away in a boat before customs agents made the arrests in a raid at a beachfront home in the middle of the Florida Keys Monday night.

But one of the company commanders said he escaped the roundup by crawling away in the darkness and hitching a ride to Miami.

The commander, Alon Constanzo Palau, later detailed the battle plans, which he said involved about 75 Cuban exiles, 30 Haitian exiles and 28 Americans.

He said 20 exiles already had been sneaked into Haiti and were supposed to attack and seize the airport at Cape Haitien this week.

Five propeller-driven planes would then use the airport as a base to bomb the garrison adjacent to the presidential palace at Port-au-Prince, Constanzo said.

The remainder of the little army was to land at Port-au-Prince, rally the rebels already in Haiti and replace dictator Francois Duvalier with Father Jean Baptiste Georges, Constanzo said.

Within 30 days the invaders hoped to build an army strong enough to strike across the narrow Windward Passage and overthrow Prime Minister Fidel Castro, Constanzo said.

Mastering one of the 20 arrested in the raid, was taken to Key West with a husband of other commandos.

The marshal's office listed 8 in custody in Key West—including a woman—and 51 in custody in Miami.

Among those in Key West was Father Georges, a former Haitian priest who was once education minister under Duvalier.

Customs agents, who had staked out the staging area in the Keys for days, moved in Monday night about 8:30 p.m.

Samuelson Asks State Support Of Junior Colleges

By EARLE L. JESTER

BOISE (AP)—Gov. Don W. Samuelson outlined a broad program for the Idaho Legislature today and told lawmakers "we need to plan with calmness and deliberation as opposed to snap judgment and hysteria. To do this," he said, "we must be able to trust each other not to have suspect motive." In his state of the state message, read to a joint meeting of the house and senate on the second day of the 1967 session Samuelson proposed:

- Creation of a new state department into which would be consolidated all housekeeping functions of government.
- State support of junior colleges and integration of Boise College into the state's higher educational system.
- Establishment of a permanent revolving fund, from which loans could be made to finance small water development projects. He said the fund might be built up to $8 or $10 million.
- Use of the facilities of Lewis and Clark Normal school in Lewiston for vocational training courses, rather than as a degree granting institution.
- Enactment of legislation requiring mechanical safety checks of motor vehicles.
- Removal of the sales tax from prescription drugs and repeal of the tax on oilcomargarine and phasing out of the inventory tax.
- Integration of the state tax commission and the office of tax collector.
- A constitutional amendment limiting a governor to two terms.
- Annual sessions of the legislature.
- Making the state mine inspector and state superintendent of public instruction appointive, rather than elective.
- Retention of the pre-primary endorsement convention, but changing the time and the filing of nominations and the primary.
- Putting all of Idaho in the mountain time zone. The north part of the Pacific zone.
- "The state of Idaho," Samuelson said, "is in good condition financially—perhaps better than it ever has been in the past."
- "Idaho should work toward the goal of assuming full responsibility for the state," he said.

The Kennedy family arrived in Joslin Field Monday morning by chartered bus from Sun Valley.

Sen. Joseph Kennedy, 14, who sported a cast covering a broken leg he received while skiing at Sun Valley, said he had a good time.

"The Kennedys' loaded their own luggage, each tagged with a cast stating, 'I came with a Kennedy.'"

Assignments Are Made By Legislature

BOISE (AP)—Both houses of the Idaho Legislature moved toward completion of committee assignments and final organization during a brief session this morning.

House members approved attaches before recessing to await the joint session for Gov. Don Samuelson's State of the State message.

Consideration of a proposal, favored by the Republican House majority, to create the position of speaker pro-tem was among sessions discussed by a Democratic caucus prior to the joint session.

Democratic caucus chairman, Rep. Alvin J. Glenn, said he said the group arrived at no decision.

Named chief clerk and parliamentarian of the House was Drayden Hines Bates, who served in a similar capacity during the 1965 session.

Other House employees appointed were: Bill Glenn, St. Anthony, assistant clerk; Rev. Donald Slinger of All Saints Episcopal Church, Boise, executive clerk; Darrell Baxter, Boise, journal clerk; and Peggie Bunting, Boise, journal clerk.

Plead For Rain

CASABLANCA (AP)—Moslems and preachers of children are pleading for rain in Morocco as drought threatens the grain crops of the high plains. The grain crops are on the verge of total loss, according to some reports.

Housewife Foils Theft, Spoils Candy

RICHFIELD—A Richfield farmer's wife alone in her kitchen five miles west of Richfield on Highway 93A Monday morning, was making candy when her home was entered by a burglar and a radio table was stolen.

Mrs. Lester Molt, using her candy in the kitchen, reported that two men in a pickup truck drove into the farmyard at noon Monday. She said she was alone in her home, and decided not to answer the door if they should knock.

One of the men came to the door and knocked. She stayed in the kitchen with her candy and kept quiet. The door was opened and she heard one of the men walking around in her living room. The men were started when the Molt puppy began barking and left the house, slamming the door.

Mrs. Molt went to the door and got the license number of the truck, which carried a tank with a long black and orange hose attached. She immediately checked the living room and discovered the family Philco transistor radio missing. She contacted local law enforcement officials.

Mrs. Molt reported about her candy.

The two suspects, Lewis Brock, 34, and Mike Sullhorst, 19, both of Richfield, Highway 93A to 12:30 p.m. Monday, 10 miles east of Richfield, were arrested by members of the Lincoln County Sheriff's office. The radio was reportedly found in their truck.

The two men are being held for a hearing at the Lincoln County Jail, Shoshone, which will appear in Probate Court Tuesday afternoon.

Mrs. Molt said the candy turned out sticky.

100 Remain Isolated At Utah Ski Area

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Nearly 100 skiers, forest workers and U.S. Forest Service personnel remained isolated at the Alta ski resort in the Wasatch Mountains early today as snow avalanches threatened to tumble down on the access road.

A storm New Year's Day and Monday dumped up to 40 inches of new snow on the a 1 1/2 mile mountain retreat, trapping more than 300 at the lodges high in the canyon-southwest of Salt Lake City.

Forest Rangers bombarded overhanging snowpacks with artillery shells late yesterday, cleared an emergency by-pass road through some seven feet of snow and evacuated 200 of the lodge-bound skiers. The skiers refused to stay behind, offering to hike to the snow-powdered slopes today.

Government workers hoped to "shoot" the remaining avalanche dangers early today and open the access road to two-way traffic by afternoon.

Holiday Season Is Over, Settle Back Into Routine

It's a time of the year that most children consider to be even better than Christmas of birthdays but a period that many adults think of as being like 100 Mondays rolled into one—the first day of the new year and the beginning frequently lingers on until after half-work afternoons and their ringing to the mental din.

It's a time for remembering the past year's events and high spirits and for the sounding of resolutions for the new year—resolutions which will hold what?

Mrs. Powell To Be Taken Off Payroll

WASHINGTON (AP)—The House Administration Committee today reported that Mrs. Powell's job removed from her $20,000 job on his payroll.

The committee also issued findings of widespread irregularities in official travel.

The findings, made by a subcommittee which held hearings on practices of the House Education and Labor Committee, of which Mrs. Powell is chairman, were made part of an official House document which goes to the Justice Department as well as other government agencies.

Chairman Omar Burton, D-Tex., of the administration committee said there was no specific vote to send the subcommittee findings to the Justice Department. But he said that "when it is made a House document, it comes automatically under the rules to all government departments including Justice."

"Anyone can take it from there if there should be matter for a civil suit for recovery of damages or even possible criminal action."

20,242 Enemy Troops Defect During 1966

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP)—U.S. officials announced today that a record 20,242 Viet Cong defected in 1966 with the biggest defections coming in the first two months of the year.

A U.S. spokesman said the 1966 total was nearly double the 11,124 who left the Communist ranks during 1965 and was the highest number in the four years since South Vietnam began the Chieu Hoi—Open Arms—program to win over Viet Cong soldiers.

In combat developments, only minor ground skirmishes were reported. In the air there were several bombing strikes against North Vietnam.

Save Money

Savings in the millions of dollars could be legally effected if taxpayers knew their rights and privileges, and took advantage of legitimate deductions and credits.

So says Ray De Crane, tax expert and veteran newspaperman, whose 14-part series, "Cut Your Own Taxes," starts in today's issue on page 3.

The timely series gives specific information about tax savings, legal deductions and credits and instructions for proper completion of tax returns of 1966 income.

Factors Listed As Aid To Taxpayers In Filing

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Several million Americans who never in their life have had to file an income tax return will be wrestling with the complexities of Form 1040 for the first time in 1967.

The thousands of U. S. servicemen in Vietnam who have young wives at home will be seeking answers to tax questions they hadn't dreamed of just a year ago. Do they get a special credit for combat service? How do you get a signature on a tax form from an infantryman waging guerrilla war against the Viet Cong?

And how about you 65 million other taxpayers who are becoming old hands at this annual routine? Will you be filing your 1966 income tax return in identical fashion to the one you completed a year ago? You had better not if any of these events occurred in your family last year:

- A birth, a death, a marriage involving you or any of your children.
- You or your wife turned 65.
- You had unusual medical expenses.
- You sold your home.

Money was made or lost in the stock market.

-You made contributions to ward the support of a parent.

-You retired an pension which started to receive Social Security payments.

-There was a separation or divorce.

-You moved and changed jobs.

How these factors—and many more—can affect your return will be covered in this series of 14 articles of which this is the first.

Ford Firm Can Meet 10 Of 23 Rules

By CHARLES C. CAIN
AP Business News Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. said the federal government today, as General Motors did Saturday, that it could meet only 10 of 23 proposed safety standards for 1968 cars.

Ford's official position was disclosed in a letter to Dr. William Haddon Jr., the nation's highway safety administrator.

Ford said it could meet seven other standards, if Haddon eased or adjusted his proposed standards, but that the remaining six could not possibly be met in 1968 cars.

The Ford position was almost identical with that taken Saturday by GM, first of the auto companies to issue a formal reply to the Haddon proposals.

Haddon, in making his first 23 proposals in early December, gave auto makers until today to file any comments, complaints or suggestions before he issued the final standards, which become effective Jan. 31 for 1968 cars.

Haddon said Saturday that he would withhold comment on the replies of the various auto companies until all have been received and he has had a chance to study them.

Ford took its strongest stand on Haddon Standard 108, which covered lateral parking lights and reflecting devices.

Ford urged that no standards on this subject be issued at this time as the subject was too involved and sufficient time had not been made available for testing.

Students Claim Big Year In 1966

By PHILIP WERDELL
NEW YORK (NEA) — By any standard, 1966 was the year of the student. The action shifted away from politics to new concerns—the equity of the Selective Service System, the quality of the student's own education and his freedom.

Student participation in civil rights has decreased. The passage of federal civil rights legislation fulfilled the goal of a large number of students interested in this area. The new "Black Power" philosophy of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee (SNCC) has turned away many students and turned away many more.

On the other hand, student voluntary tutorial programs in underprivileged areas are increasing. A surveying by the National Student Association recently found that there are now 200,000 students spending 10 million hours a year tutoring children in impoverished areas.

Student criticism of the Selective Service System has increased. Day by day, student criticism of the draft has been mounting. A large number of campuses held referendums on the many issues involved. The returns are just now being announced, but trends are already evident:

- (1) The vast majority of students oppose the right of the government to conscript young people to the military.
- (2) Almost no student is completely satisfied with the present system, feeling the inequalities of the deferment system are unjust and the widely varying quotas and criteria of local draft boards create uncertainty to the point of extreme frustration.
- (3) A majority feels that the use of grades as a criterion for deferment increases academic pressure and severely distorts the true purpose of higher education.
- (4) Almost three-quarters of the students favor a form of alternative service in which service to the country in the War on Poverty or the Peace Corps could be considered equivalent to military service except in the time of a national emergency.

Student interest and participation in educational reform has increased. The newest and fastest growing movement on the campus is without doubt, educational reform.

"There will be 1,000 students who take their lives this year, 5,000 others who will attempt to do so and 20,000 more who will threaten, suicide," reported a survey by Moderator magazine this year. "One answer to this problem of student stress is to hire more psychiatrists. The other is to give students more opportunity to participate in their own education. The first allows students to fail. The latter gives them an opportunity to discover. Both are necessary," the study concluded.

Industry Forecast To Expand

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Commerce Department has forecast continued expansion by much of American industry during 1967.

At the same time, it said the volume of construction will drop moderately this year.

The annual "outlook" published by the department's Business and Defense Services Administration says 14 of the 78 industries accounting for 80 percent of all manufacturing will grow by more than 10 percent during 1967.

It says 37 other industries anticipate increases between 5 and 10 percent and 24 expect to expand by less than 5 percent. It made no comparable estimates for the other 3.

The report also forecasts a slight increase in construction dollar volume to $78.1 billion. It says the increase will be offset by rising prices.

Governments Of Kenya, Uganda Won't Have National Elections Before 1970

By DENNIS NEEDLE
NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — The governments of Kenya and Uganda, in power since independence, have prolonged their terms of office. They say there will be no national elections this year.

Kenya's parliament ended the year by passing a bill abolishing the Senate and giving its 41 members seats in the House of Representatives.

The bill also postponed national elections for two years, from 1968 to 1970.

Uganda's wily President Milton Obote, who put through a new constitution after crushing an armed uprising last May, has announced there will be no national elections for five more years.

Uganda's last national elections were in 1963, still before independence.

The country was still disturbed, he told Parliament, Howard Mutesa.

Six members of his Cabinet, who came within an ace of replacing Obote, are still in jail, he said.

Kenya's senators, assured beforehand they would remain as legislators in the lower house, voted to abolish their chamber with only two dissenting ballots.

The Senate had been imposed upon Kenya by the British to protect regionalism, Atty. Gen. Charles Njonjo asserted, but it had been a waste of time.

Now the new National Assembly needs time to settle down, he explained.

Accordingly, its term of office was prolonged until 1970.

"The cause of freedom does not require us to stop work at every opportunity and hold elections which will produce no change," Njonjo said.

The overall picture is that while African nations clamor for "one man, one vote" in Rhodesia, little voting is going on in the rest of the continent.

our hearts again."

Uganda needs a period to allow those in the National Assembly to prove their worth in the eyes of the masses, Obote said.

Under the new constitution, pushed through almost without debate shortly before the uprising, Obote elevated himself from prime minister to executive president, ousting the former figurehead chief of state, the Kabaka of Buganda, Sir Edward Mutesa.

Wing Commander Says Men Outflew, Outshot Red Pilots

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
SAIGON (AP) — "We outflew, outshot and outmaneuvered them," a U.S. Air Force wing commander said today after he and his men brought down seven Communist MIGs in the biggest air battle of the Vietnam war.

The supersonic dogfights Monday over the Red River delta northwest of Hanoi, pitted America's F-4 Phantom against the best planes in the Communist air force, and the Phantoms were decisive victors. The Air Force said not one of its planes was lost.

The wing commander is Col. Robin Olds, 44, of Washington, D.C., a star West Point tackle in World War II. He was with 24½ kills, the husband of former movie star Ella Raines and the father of two daughters. It was his first aerial combat in Vietnam and he scored one of the day's first kills.

His flight accounted for three MIGs, and a flight led by Capt. John B. Stone, 29, of Coffeyville, Miss., knocked down three more. The seventh Communist jet was shot down by a third flight in Olds' wing.

Lt. Gen. William W. Momyer, commander of the 7th Air Force, said the spectacular showing by his airmen was "the first pure fighter sweep of the war."

He told a news conference at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base that the MIGs have been severely harassing U.S. fighter-bombers "and we were intent to engage and destroy the enemy fighters."

During sweeps that ranged over northern North Vietnam were 14 flights of Phantoms, with three to five planes per flight, and six flights of F105 Thunderchiefs. They went in to suppress enemy ground fire and surface-to-air missiles (SAMs).

Olds said three or four Phantom flights took out the MIGs. Both he and Stone declined to estimate how many MIGs the Communists sent up but both reported multiple sightings.

"The battle severely dented North Vietnam's air power," Momyer said. "The pilots' reports indicated all seven of the enemy jets downed were MIGs, and he 'believed they had 15' of this advanced type plane before the fight began. The older, slower MIG7s make up the bulk of North Vietnam's fighter force, which is estimated to number from 75 to 100 jets.

The dogfights "lasted no more than 12 to 14 minutes," Olds said, "but covered at least 30 miles of that sky."

The enemy pilots were "very aggressive," Olds said, and the first MIG he spotted was "coming right up behind me."

"I turned to keep him from having a clear shot at me and as I did I saw the MIGs in front of me. I exposed one or two missiles — maybe more — one of them—but he disappeared in clouds below us."

Then I sighted another MIG and pulled up over him—I walked until he was right where I wanted him, and fell in behind him."

Olds fired another missile and said there was a puff of orange smoke as it hit the MIG. "A complete wing fell off and the plane fell straight toward earth."

The Phantom pilots used both the radar-directed Sparrow missiles and the heat-seeking Sidewinder missiles.

"The happiest part was that they had chosen to tangle with us," Olds said. "That is what we wanted."

Stone led his Phantom flight into battle seconds after Olds' flight became engaged. They were flying at 16,000 feet, Stone said, and "we maneuvered in and picked off two MIGs. I got the first one and a wingman got the second."

"That's one!" Stone shouted to his back-seat pilot as his target exploded, but there wasn't any more chatter because five other MIGs were "swirling around them."

"We ignored the three on our right and went in on two below us," he said. One of the three MIG pilots he ignored fired a cannon burst at Stone's plane, and Stone disengaged while his other wingman shot down one of the quarries.

Stone, a bachelor who has been in the Air Force eight years, is a graduate of the University of Mississippi.

"The weather was in our favor, the equipment was tuned up, and the pilots were enthusiastic," said Momyer. "The time was right."

The Air Force said the strike plates were based in Southeast Asia. "Most of them probably flew from American bases in nearby Thailand."

on Poverty or the Peace Corps could be considered equivalent to military service except in the time of a national emergency.

Student interest and participation in educational reform has increased. The newest and fastest growing movement on the campus is without doubt, educational reform.

"There will be 1,000 students who take their lives this year, 5,000 others who will attempt to do so and 20,000 more who will threaten, suicide," reported a survey by Moderator magazine this year. WASHINGTON—Predictably, some of the diplomatic experts hereabouts have seen a softening of the Russian line in the invitations extended to some American children to attend the Soviet Embassy's annual New Year's Day party for the younger set. This may be true, but a convincing explanation may be the average Russian's genuine affection for all children. Even the most staid Soviet diplomat would not object to the children's help in the moppets to that New Year's shindig.

Nevertheless, there have been indications on the social front that Moscow may be in one of those periods when it blows hot or at least warm—instead of cold. In the past year, Ambassador Anatoli Dolbinin has been showing up at numerous diplomatic functions, where he has exhibited a not usually associated with the Kremlin's man in Washington. Meanwhile, he has had an unusually large number of meetings—with both resident Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

WANTS PARTICIPATION IN PIE—Neutral diplomats suggest that Moscow wants to be sure it gets its share of the action in the Vietnam, and that Dolbinin is greasing the way with his cheerful submissions to the ordeal of Washington social life. Some embassy types even insist that Moscow is angling for a summit conference with the United States, one that Dolbinin's sudden emergence as the life of the party is comparable to the Russian cheerfulness exhibited by two other Soviet ambassadors in the Philippines when the Kremlin also was interested in summit sessions.

There, of course, would be Georgi Zaroubin and Mikhail Menshikov, who for a few short months early in their tenures both seem determined to give the average American the Soviet Union, was not only a country filled with capitalists in disguise but that we could have the Ukraine practically for the asking. Inevitably, their heavy amiability faded, but for a while it was great fun.

PAI GEORGI AND JUST MIKE—Although Zaroubin tended to gentle obstructionism in his dealings with the State Department, he seemed eager to ingratiate himself with the ideologically unwashed American public, before which he performed like the Mephistophelian hero of a Dale Carnegie book. He told reporters his "wonderment" over the "fact" that he had performed like the Mephistophelian hero of a Dale Carnegie book.

HE FRACTURED "EM"—Smilin' Mike has a head of distinguished gray hair and the carriage of a suburban "in-a-fashionable" British gentleman. The ladies loved his looks and his manners, and even his fractured English, which he used with a prodigality that was sometimes somewhat bewildering and, on at least one occasion, embarrassing to his audience.

WESTERN ENCLAVES
What has happened in Macao in recent days suggests that Communist China still has use for the Portuguese enclave, but not very much. Two leaders of Chinese leftist organizations stirred up riots that left eight persons dead and 123 injured. The Portuguese police, under government disturbances and now, under pressure from Peking, the government has been forced to agree to the punishment of responsible parties to arrest and detain Chinese.

PROPPING UP HUSSEIN
The United States government hopes to prevent rather than to suppress war in the Middle East by speeding up its delivery of planes, armored vehicles and anti-aircraft weapons to Jordan. It's the old "balance of power" idea and whether or not it will help the moderate, pro-western King Hussein hold his throne and prevent war is anyone's guess.

THE SNAKE
It may be presumed that King Hussein has planned to use the aid of the United States to attack Israel, which, of course, would be suicidal on his part, inasmuch as Israel has the toughest natural forces in the Middle East. But Hussein is using the aid of the United States in Egypt, Syria and his own country to strike at Israel in retaliation for the Israeli raid on the Jordanian village of Samna, which was itself retaliation for guerrilla attacks from Jordan.

What to do about it? The management of the state-run night club in the Yugoslavian city decided to do it the right way. Its wallpapers in Playboy-type bunny outfits. Business hours? Queen In Conscience Crisis Over Cousin's Plans To Wed

BY RONALD THOMSON
LONDON (AP) — Elizabeth II is in a crisis of conscience today over her first cousin's desire to marry the mother of his illegitimate son, his wife's divorcee.

An announcement Monday by attorneys for the Earl of Harewood, 43 and 16th-in-line of succession to the throne, came as a bombshell to the British public and uncovered one of the best-kept royal secrets.

The statement said Harewood, an Australian-born countess is suing her husband for grounds of adultery with Patricia Tuckwell, a dark-haired Australian divorcee—who once was a mistress of her husband.

The attorneys said the earl would not defend his wife's suit, that "he and Miss Tuckwell would wish to marry if, and when they are legally divorced, and that Miss Tuckwell had a son by him in July 1964.

That put the queen in a predicament.

Under the Royal Marriages Act of 1772, all members of the royal family descended from King George II must have the monarch's permission to marry. And the Church of England —

Soviet Says Moon Is Not Dead Body

MOSCOW (AP) — The moon is not a dead body, but a living breathing organism, the science correspondent of the Soviet news agency Tass said Monday.

The Moscow report said that analysis of the lunar surface by Luna 3 observations from the earth have confirmed that the moon is alive.

Astronomer Nina Petrova has discovered a special glow in the area of the crater Kepler, the Tass correspondent wrote. Almost simultaneously, at the end of last year manifestation of the moon's geological life was recorded by Moscow astronomer Mikhail Pospelov.

Thus, the writer said, the latest scientific research of 1966 confirmed "the hypothesis" of Prof. Nikolai Kovalev, who stated 40 years ago that the Aristarchus crater, the brightest spot of the lunar surface, sparkling like a fiery dot at the eastern horizon "burns" and there is smoke, gas or perhaps dust rising over it.

British Are Ready To Guarantee Sale Of Costly Fertilizer Plant To Cuba

By RONALD THOMSON
LONDON (AP) — The British government is reported ready to guarantee the sale of a $28-million fertilizer plant to Cuba despite pressure from Washington.

Official sources said U. S. authorities had asked London to stop the sale by refusing Fidel Castro's government the five-year credit it needs for the deal.

But the sale is expected to go through "despite" sanctions that might lessen American support for economic sanctions against Britain's rebellious colony, Rhodesia.

A Foreign Office spokesman said the government policy on trade with Cuba is to allow it to proceed normally, free of government interference, except as concerns the export of strategic goods.

Asked about the attitude of the U. S. government to the deal, the spokesman said: "The Americans have from time to time reminded us of their attitude toward trade by Western countries with Cuba — and specifically toward the granting of government-insured credits for such trade."

"The United States made a similar, unsuccessful attempt to stop the sale of British buses to Cuba three years ago. Much had been generated by that deal."

The fertilizer plant is being manufactured by Sison-Carves, an engineering company in Chester. A spokesman for the government's Export Credit Guarantee Department said: "There would seem to be no reason why we could not underwrite the deal."

Castro, in a speech in Havana

Monday celebrating the eighth anniversary of his defeat of dictator Fulgencio Batista, expressed belief the British government would go through with the deal despite "much pressure" from the United States.

"The Cuban prime minister said other countries also want to sell Cuba fertilizer plants," and we will justify at least three during the next four years."

Castro asked European countries "not to be misled by imperialists and monopolists" and said Europeans have "little to lose and much to gain" from revolutions in Latin America.

Castro said that other Cuban officials should play a bigger role in the future, make some of the speeches, conduct some of the ceremonies and carry out other functions that have been left to him.

"Not that I'm tired, but the revolution is of all the people," he said.

Castro's remarks roused some speculation that the regime may be moving away from the personal rule that he has exercised to a collective form of leadership.

Figures In Red Pamphlet Are Same As Those In Newspaper

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist figures listed in a ground at the edge of Hanoi on Dec. 14 that one of the day's Communist pamphlets on American bombings of North Vietnam are identical to those used in recent New York Times dispatches from Hanoi.

The 12-page document was distributed by North Vietnamese officials to newsmen in Moscow in November, according to American intelligence. It is titled "Report on U.S. War Crimes in Nam-Diut City."

A copy of the pamphlet was provided by the Associated Press. The report told a news conference last Saturday that "inevitably and almost invariably" there were casualties among civilians in war zones. He said he regretted every casualty — both in South Vietnam and North Vietnam.

In other developments relating to the bombings: —An American Air Force squadron commander reported Monday that he saw two Communist missiles explode on the ground at the edge of Hanoi on Dec. 14. Teen-Ager's First Trip Is Nightmare

NEW YORK (AP) — Teen-ager Mary Shapiro's first trip to New York turned out to be a nightmare.

"I think it will be my last," she said Monday as she stepped from a plane at Kennedy Air port.

Mary, 17, of Yonkers, N.Y., was one of five persons rescued from the stricken yawl Petrel after the 70-foot ocean-going yacht — eight miles off the Atlantic coast and hammering winds for two days and nights last week.

The five were brought to Norfolk, Va., Monday on the British freighter "Orinoco" which picked them up from the Petrel last Friday.

From Norfolk, Mary, her friend Heidi Van Nes, 17, also of Yonkers, and Mrs. Barry Conway, wife of the Petrel's skipper, flew to New York.

When they disembarked from the plane, they were carrying the orange life preservers they had worn when they leaped from the deck of the Petrel into the Choptank's lifeboat.

At the hotel, Mrs. Heidi Van Nes, a big tiddy bear that was given to her by a seaman aboard the rescue ship.

Her father, Hans Van Nes, who owns the Petrel, her mother, an older sister, Brett Kormacher, greeted her at the airport.

Heidi said she did not become aware of the seriousness of the situation until "my brother told me to get off the boat."

The three women and two men Curtis Buller of Toledo, Ohio, and Tom Kornumpf, a graduate student at the University of Chicago, who also had been rescued, were scrambled 30 feet up a net to the deck of the Cotswold.

"Three other men are still with the yacht, which is being towed to Stamford, Conn., from where it sailed a week ago on what was to have been a cruise to Bermuda, then to Antigua in the British West Indies."

The other two men in the party of 10 are aboard the Coast Guard cutter which is towing the Petrel.

6 Senators Try To End Filibusters

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six senators — three Democrats and three Republicans — have launched a move to facilitate ending Senate filibusters.

Writing a letter to their colleagues seeking support, the senators said a change in Senate Rule 22 would be required that would protect the right of full debate, but enable a majority of senators ultimately to resolve an issue by voting.

Senate Rule 22 requires a two-thirds majority of senators voting to cut off debate.

The letter, saying a fight for a change will be launched soon as the 90th Congress convenes Jan. 10, was sent by Democrats Joseph S. Clark of Pennsylvania, Philip A. Hart of Michigan and William Proxmire of Wisconsin and Republicans Clifford P. Case of New Jersey, Jacob K. Javits of New York and Thomas H. Kuchel of California.

Lesotho Police Fire At Africans

MASERU, Lesotho (AP) — Police opened fire early today to drive off an estimated 50 armed Africans who attacked the police station at Leribe, in northern Lesotho, a senior police officer reported.

It was the second attack on a police station within a week by members of King Moshoeshoe II, 29, who is involved in a power struggle with Chief Leabua Jonathan, the 52-year-old prime minister. Jonathan placed the king under house arrest at his palace in Maseru last Wednesday.

THE JUNIOR REALM
 with MARTHA LEE

Q. The boys on our campus have started a club to isolate the girls who flirt on receiving dates. We think this is terrible, because some times it is essential for a girl to flirt if she is to have dates. What do your boys think of girls who flirt? Cathy.

A. Flirting is a social sport indulged in by both girls and boys. Girls who flirt are fine as long as they keep their flirtations under control and aim them at boys they already know. These kind of girls, as I said before, have a lot more chance of them punning into social trouble. Girls who flirt properly usually have a more sparkling personality than girls who do not. Flirting in the classroom would hardly be the place to indulge. In church, during a sermon, would be rude. But we do not recommend nor approve of flirting by young girls in the Junior Realm, up to and including junior high school age. At that age they could develop a very bad habit which could cheapen them in the eyes of the nicer boys and girls, and could bring serious trouble.

There is another side to this question. When a girl gets a date with a boy on campus through flirting, it gives the boy the feeling that she will flirt with other boys while he is dating her. Should this happen, it could backfire on the girl, because it would certainly be made known to other boys and they could remove the girl's name from their list of prospects.

Some girls who flirt have been denied normal-boy-girl relationships during their late grammar school and early junior high school years. Girls who have normal preparation for dates don't need to flirt, for they are compatible within the permissible areas and have established a reputation for being good dates.

As a communication of friendship, flirting is acceptable, but as a tool for cutting in, it could be objectionable to many girls and boys. Girls' reputations in high school are public information. All boys in their classes know what they stand for. If, as we say, it is fun if done discreetly in the right circles and at the right time.

Designers Show Spring Fashion Trends

PARIS (AP)—Winter hasn't begun, but Paris ready-to-wear designers have already shown spring collections of lovely sun-drenched colors, dazzling new prints and a floating, mobile silhouette with hemlines two to three inches above the knees.

All 25 of the designers, who have just held their shows, are stressing fluidity. Their fashions—sheer pleats, swirls, and their shifts softly skim the figure.

Cut-in necklines, bare shoulders, and unexpected cutouts show plenty of bare body to take care of the sex appeal. Plunging necklines are criss-crossed with harnessing and apron straps studded with gold, silver or jeweled buttons.

Coats swing. A new back suppleness goes into the coat below the hips, cut on the bias and swung softly.

Jersey knits have taken hold to meet the needs of speed, travel and comfort. Molyneux-Matthe models for after-dark are treated to touches of glitter, or knights' chain armor. Tricosa's are pretty, carefully detailed and well made.

Colors are all the sunshine shades, orange, in several tones, lemons from bitter to the ripest, soft-Bengal rose and hot pink; all the lavenders, pansy mauves and bluebell, several clear blues, and raw saffron green all show alone or daintily mixed.

The ready-to-wear business is growing and spreading. Yves Saint Laurent is opening new boutiques all over the world and Pierre Cardin plans to do likewise for his line of men's wear.

Marie Curin, who manufactures for Helin, Larvin, Desses, Schreyer and L'Etroch, and E. Mendes, who produces for Patou, de Rauch, Venet, Castillo and Saint-Laurent Coats, feed both home- and International markets.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: Is there any way I can get my daughter-in-law to "catch on" without coming right out and telling her? She has a family of four. My family consists of four, also.

My daughter-in-law has invited us over for supper several times, which I appreciate, but she "wants" her table for eight and then serve the same amount of food as she would for four!

Naturally nobody takes very big helpings, and she wonders aloud if maybe the food isn't "good."

Once I brought her an extra pound of stew meat and she seemed more "pleased" than pleased.

I always buy only one pound of meat," she exclaimed. I wanted to say right then and there, "Yes, for four, but not for eight," but I kept quiet.

How can I get through to her, Abby? She's a sweet girl and I don't want her to hate me. DELICATE PROBLEM!

DEAR DELICATE: It's hard to believe that anyone "would have to be told to prepare twice as much food for eight as they would for four, but I'll take your word for it. Get your son aside and ask HIM to explain it to her.

DEAR ABBY: I am 11 years old and I have always said I wanted to devote my life to acting. Next Wednesday I am supposed to portray an ugly monster named MEDUSA in a school play. A boy is supposed to cut off my head (my real one). How can I get myself out of this mess? D.D.

DEAR D.D.: Tell the boy who is supposed to cut off your head not to take his role too seriously. It's only a play, so don't lose your head, honey.

DEAR ABBY: Last week my husband helped one of our friends move some furniture from one house to another. The next day he found a $10 bill in his jacket with a note saying, "Thanks for the help you gave me."

These people have helped us with favors like this, but because we were good friends we never offered them money.

Now we feel obligated. Should we return the $10 and tell them that friends help each other without payment? Or do you think the next time they help us out we should give them money? This could be an expensive friendship.

GOOD FRIENDS DEAR FRIENDS: After treating them to dinner with the $10, tell them that their friendship is worth more than money and you'll prefer to keep it that way.

DEAR ABBY: Please advise "LOVES HIM ANYWAY," that just because her child is retarded does not excuse him for his bad manners. I have a retarded child and even though I can overlook his faults I realize that the rest of the world will not. Any child can be taught good manners, no matter how retarded he is, although it may take longer and a little more effort.

If that mother "loves him anyway," she had better start preparing him to live in the world in which he was born because she won't always be around to make excuses for him. Sign me "LOVES MINE, ALSO"

Purdue Nips USC 14-13 In Rose Bowl As Conversion Pass Fails

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Purdue escaped with a 14-13 triumph in the Rose Bowl Monday after Southern California's surprising Trojans gambled for two points in a desperate attempt to win and the move failed. As a jammed crowd of 101,453 stood in suspense with 2:28 remaining, Trojan quarterback Brock Winstow, in the conversion attempt, fired a pass intended for Jim Lawrence. But co-captain and defensive back George Catavolos rushed in to intercept the throw, and the curtain came down moments later.

AN ALMOST TOUCHDOWN, but with Southern California's Bill Jarosnyk on his back, Purdue's Jim Bolin drops what would have been six points in the end zone in the opening minutes of Monday's Rose Bowl game in Pasadena. Purdue, however, won the game 14-13. (AP wirephoto)

Winstow, the far less heralded field general for the Trojans, moved his team to within victory distance with a 19-yard touchdown strike to Boil Sher, man with the clock showing 2:28 left.

The drama in this 21st clash in the big bowl between the Big Ten and the Pacific-8 was wrapped up in the final eight minutes, as Purdue, in its first appearance ever in this postseason classic, held off the belated Trojan challenge.

Bob Griese, the Bolleermakers' superb quarterback, directed the visitors to their two touchdowns, and fullback Perry Williams slammered over from the one and the two-yard lines for the scores.

Don McCall, Southern Cal's hard-hitting halfback, put the Trojans on the board with a 77-yard burst over the middle from a yard out.

Purdue, after a scoreless first quarter, drove 57 yards for the first touchdown, and Winstow, McCall, Sherman and mates traveled 44 yards for the 19-yard touchdown just before the half ended.

The Bolleermakers went in front 14-7 in the third period and appeared to be home-free until the Trojans fired off the fourth.

Football writers voted John Charles, Purdue's tremendous defensive halfback, as player of the game, an announcement that drew heavy applause from the happy booster fans basking under a bright California sun.

The Bolleermakers, two-touchdown favorites, took the opening kickoff and paraded 68 yards in 14 plays, with Griese completing four of six passes.

But the vaunted Trojan defense stopped the thrust on the five-yard line.

Griese and the Bolleermakers mounted another drive, rolling 27 yards in 16 plays, and this time produced their initial touchdown.

It took USC two trips into Purdue land before it scored, a fumble by McCall, recovered by the alert Charles, gave Purdue possession on its nine and blunted the six Trojan thrust.

The Trojans came back with another drive, this one a 44-yard and a one-yard blast by McCall for their first touchdown, tying it at 7-7.

The Trojans were helped by a break in the middle. They were lined up to punt on fourth down when a Purdue lineman jumped offside. The five yards gave USC the vital first down, and the drive resumed.

There was still excitement in the wild finish. Purdue had to give up the ball, and with 21 seconds remaining, USC lined up—only to have the officials call time for two reasons. The joyous Bolleermakers fans had swarmed onto the playing field, and goal posts at each end had been torn down.

Winstow, however, was thrown for a loss on the final play.

Winstow turned in the day's best passing performance, hitting an out of 17 throws for 174 yards and a touchdown, while Griese completed 10 of 19 for 139.

THIS PLAY BROKE USC's back in Monday's Rose Bowl game in Pasadena. Purdue halfback George Catavolos (center, background) races out of the end zone with the ball after intercepting the Trojan's try for a two-point conversion late in the game. A completion would have given USC a 15-14 lead, but Purdue won the game 14-13. (AP wirephoto)

Packers Now Have Shot At $23,500--Each!

By JACK HANCOCK Associated Press Sports Writer

DALLAS (AP)—Each Green Bay Packer has a shot at $23,500 in the Jan. 15 Super Bowl at Los Angeles, thanks to four touchdowns passes by Bart Starr and a dramatic interception by Tom Brown with 28 seconds to go that saved a 34-27 victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Vince Lombardi hustled his Packers home after Sunday's game and started to make plans for the Super Bowl game with the Kansas City Chiefs, champions of the American Football League.

The Packers will be favored over the AFL champs who ended Buffalo's two-year reign in the AFL with a 31-7 triumph.

Although official financial figures will not be announced until the date is completed, Pete Rozelle's office, it was estimated, that the Packers will get $8,500 a man and the losing Cowboys $6,000 each for their exciting battle in the Cotton Bowl.

The winning share in the Super Bowl at the Los Angeles Coliseum is a guaranteed $15,000 (the losers are assured of $7,500), so the Packers can take home a $23,500 bundle, the largest payoff ever in the history of sports team competition.

Only the fighters, golfers, and auto racers can make more in one day. As Kansas City's win at Buffalo was worth $5,308.39, a man, the Chiefs can take home over $20,000 if they can knock off Green Bay.

Knocking off Green Bay is somewhat of a problem, although the Cowboys came so close in Sunday's cliff hanger.

The Packers will be favored over the AFL champs who ended Buffalo's two-year reign in the AFL with a 31-7 triumph.

There's not a finer quarterback in the business than Dawson and he is absolutely the most accurate thrower in the business, is how Hank Stram, coach of the Chiefs, puts it.

Green Bay note: Dawson, the 31-year-old maverick strategist, has played his finest season in a 10-year pro career. He connected on 16 of his 24 attempts for 227 yards on a slippery turf in Buffalo.

Jack Kemp, quarterback for the Buffalo Bills, was asked after the game if the Chiefs would be good representatives in the Jan. 15 Super Bowl.

"Of course they will," he said without hesitation. "They have a good running game, their passing is versatile and they play well-defensively. They're going to surprise a lot of people." (Green Bay and oldsmobile.com)

After the gamblers' odds became known an attempt was made to contact Coach Stram at his home. But his phone was busy.

Anytime, Stram has declined to comment on the Super Bowl. A sideline far is that he and Vince Lombardi, the Packers' coach, will exchange game films.

He never does anything "fancily," said the trainer, Eddie Noley. "He just doesn't win in a big way."

Bill Wuk Buckpasser did as he captured his 13th straight of the year, 13 of 14 for 1966 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $1,273,174—the richest three-year old in the history of racing.

For the record, Drin was second, trailed by Kings Favor and six other challengers.

The main target for Buckpasser from a stable of Ogden Phillips is the $100,000 bid added Charles H. Strub Stable Jan. 28.

On the farm charts, the Pack-into a frenzy. On the next play, a Cowboy lineman moved offside. The penalty against the Cowboys put them back on the six with second down.

Don Meredith and Reeves missed connections on a swing pass. Meredith, Rex Zietz, Norman, for a gain of four and the ball was on the two with fourth down.

Dave Robinson, the Packers' star wide receiver, broke through and got a hand on Meredith. But he pulled away and got rid of the ball. Tom Brown, the former Washington baseball player, leaped into the air and intercepted for the Packers.

"I had a good grip on Meredith's arm," said Robinson. "I got sick to my stomach when he got the pass off—so far as I was concerned the whole ball game was up in the air. . . . I couldn't see anything except Meredith. Then I heard the crowd. I jumped up and saw Brown getting up with the ball."

Dan Reeves hit to the one and the sellout crowd of 75,354 went the 22 to the two on an interference call. An official said he called it against linebacker Robinson. Brown, the free safety, thought it was called on him.

"You don't often get a second chance," said Brown. "I did and I guess it's all right now."

The dramatic ending made many overlook Starr's fine work. The veteran 11 pro seasons was on target all day, completing 19 of 28 for 204 yards and four TDs, throwing short and long on first down, second and third. It was his greatest day.

Pressure, Competition Make Hero Of Tar Heels' Talbott In Shrine Game

By CLAUDE BURGETT Associated Press Sports Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Pride and a willing competitor on the bench, Tar Heels' quarterback Talbott was chosen as the most valuable offensive player. He was awarded the game's Colman Award.

The shy, blonde Talbott was about the only player among the 56,000 packed into the stadium who was surprised by his award. He tied the East-West record for touchdowns passes—throwing three, and led the East to a record 513 total yards in their 45-22 win over the smaller and slower West team.

"I don't think I deserve that much credit," Talbott drawled during a dressing room interview.

"But I came out, knowing I had my work cut out for me. Benny Russell had a good year at Louisville and he was on the bench. If I didn't produce, he would."

"And I received a 10-page telegram from my people in Rocky Mountain, North Carolina, my hometown. A thing like that gives you all the inspiration you need," Talbott said.

He said he had no idea that Michigan State coach Duffy Daugherty would start him.

Daugherty admitted that Talbott surprised him, also.

"The team was by far the best all star group I've ever coached," Daugherty, who has coached two previous East squads, said.

"I didn't expect Talbott would be that good," he said. "He did not throw that well in practice. In fact, I didn't think anyone would do that good."

Talbott threw 11 successful aerials before he missed one. "I just threw the ball hard and tried to get it within reach—the receivers did the rest," Talbott said.

West, the East rolled up some new East-West records.

Talbott tied the classic's touchdown passing record with three, also piloted the East to a total of 513 yards—a record; and the total of 67 points scored was the highest ever.

Linebacker George Webster of Michigan State was chosen the best defensive player and given the Spalding Award.

Led by Webster, who received a bruised rib in the second half, the East held Ralston's team to only 203 yards—and not a single first down in the first half.

With Russell spelling him the second half, Talbott moved the East on most of their 84 offensive plays—a record for one team.

He got help from Daugherty's Michigan State kicker, Dick Kenney, who set a record with six conversions. The barefooted kicker added a field goal.

All American Clint Jones of Michigan State netted 118 yards for an average of 4.7 per carry for the East in 27 runs. He drove over from the two to score the East's second touchdown.

"I want to stay in sports," Talbott said, "and I can play either first or third base." He was college All American first baseman last year.

"But I won't sign anything until I finish college," the resourceful quarterback said.

"It's a good way to start a new year I guess."

"Everything we did in the first half was all wrong," Ralston said. "They were quicker and stronger."

Talbott flipped his scoring tosses on plays covering 28 yards to Michigan State's Gene Washington, nine yards to Ken

Last of Minnesota and 14 to Michigan's Jack Clancy, with only 13 seconds left to play.

The game was the best of his career, Talbott said, but he did not consider it good enough to attract pro football offers.

"I weigh about 180—no fat, and they don't interested in a quarterback that small."

He is considering pro baseball, however. The 21-year-old 6-foot-2 said he has been drafted by the Pirates of the National League.

"I want to stay in sports," Talbott said, "and I can play either first or third base." He was college All American first baseman last year.

"But I won't sign anything until I finish college," the resourceful quarterback said.

Eight-Point Advantage By Green Bay Is Unnoticed By Kansas City's Fans

KANSAS CITY (AP)—In the East, where they can't feel the excitement that's gripped this city, the oddsmakers have assigned the Green Bay Packers an eight-point advantage over the Kansas City Chiefs in the Super Bowl.

They weren't at the airport Sunday night, when 12,000 fans almost stopped all landings by crowding the field to welcome home the city's first American football league champions.

The National League champs drew 2,500 when they returned from their 34-27 title victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

Star did the gamblers apparently talk with Fred Arbasas, the Chiefs all-league tight end, who came out of the 31-7 Buffalo victory Sunday with a dislocated shoulder and said of the Super Bowl:

"I'll play in that game if I can't hurt him to buy me a new shoulder. I hate to be the Chiefs' young owner who could afford to buy that shoulder if anyone could."

Arbasas, incidentally, was the only Kansas City player seriously banged up in the Buffalo game. The Chiefs will be flying out to Long Beach, Calif., Wednesday for their practice sessions in good health.

Buckpasser Aims To Get Job Done

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP)—Buckpasser, obviously is a horse whose main aim is to get the job done, even if he does it the hard way.

The newly turned four-year-old, whose next appearance at Santa Anita will be in the $50,000-added San Fernando Stakes Jan. 17, has been taken to California debut Saturday in the Malibu Stakes.

He won, as the favorite and the famous should, but only by 1/2 of a length after scaring his supporters by backing out of the gate.

"He never does anything fancily," said the trainer, Eddie Noley. "He just doesn't win in a big way."

Bill Wuk Buckpasser did as he captured his 13th straight of the year, 13 of 14 for 1966 and boosted his lifetime earnings to $1,273,174—the richest three-year old in the history of racing.

The hospital said DeLhaman had some improvement since being injured in a one-car accident that took the life of Karl Newell, 19, Parkdale, Ore., Thursday.

DeLhaman, 19, was an all-state and national all-star magazine selection at guard for Wy'ast High School in 1965. He played on the University of Washington freshman team last fall.

Alabama Hits Nebraska With Awesome Offensive Display To Win By 34-7

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Alabama's left-handed quarterback Kenny Stabler hit All-America end Ray Perkins with three passes of more than 40 yards Monday in an awesome offensive display that crushed Nebraska 34-7 in the 33rd Sugar Bowl game. Passes of 45 and 42 yards from the sharp shooting Stabler to his fleet receiver set up two touchdowns before the game was eight minutes old, and it was

Ashie Takes Win In Aussie Tennis Meet

PERTH, Australia (AP)—Arthur Ashie struggled to a first-round victory in the West-Australian Men's Singles Tennis championships Monday, then said he may be forced to withdraw from the tournament.

Ashie, the top-ranked U.S. tennis player now that Dennis Ralston has turned pro, edged Australia's Colin Bell 6-0, 4-6, 12-10.

However, the Richmond, Va., player was in pain throughout the match due to a left hip injury he suffered Sunday during a doubles game in an international match against Australia.

Ashie will have "Tuesday morning to see if I am fit enough to continue," Ashie said after defeating Bell.

The American added that the pain was worse when he was serving and he tried to avoid placing all his weight on his left leg.

Other Americans scored easy victories over Australians in the opening round.

Harada Is Favored To Retain Title

NAGOYA, Japan (AP)—Fighting Harada of Japan was favored Monday to retain his world bantamweight title in a 15-round bout Tuesday night. Medel dropped him three times and won on a sixth round technical knockout.

But the 23-year-old Harada has improved since then and most experts here believe the 28-year-old challenger is over the hill.

"A capacity crowd of 13,000 was expected to pack the Aichi Prefectural Stadium. The fight will be televised nationally."

Harada will be making the third defense of the 118-pound division crown he won from Edzie Jofre of Brazil on a 15-round decision in this same city on May 17, 1965. In a return bout in Tokyo last May 31, Harada again outpointed Jofre.

Medel's record is 62-49-6, including 40 knockouts. He has been stopped six times.

Harada's record is 41-13, including 16 knockouts. He has been stopped once by Medel.

South Fork Of Boise River To Get Wild Turkey Transplant

Southern Idaho's South Fork of the Boise River has good habitat potential for wild turkeys and a small flock is slated for release in the vicinity of Smith's Prairie this winter, the Idaho Fish and Game Department disclosed Monday. Present plans are to live-trap some of these big all-time favorite American game birds from Colorado and release them on the South Fork with the hope that a huntable population may be established within a few years in the big country east of Boise, and north of Mountain Home.

Elwood Bizeau, state bird supervisor, says that the "owes" the Idaho Fish and Game Department a shipment of turkeys in exchange for Hungarian partridge, which were trapped and transplanted to that state two years ago. Deep snows and cold snaps are expected to concentrate the gobblers and bring them down to the Colorado trapping sites.

The Idaho Department plans to trap other turkeys this winter along the lower Salmon River in the Pollock-Wheeler area, where a total of 39 Colorado Merriam's turkeys were transplanted in three separate small flocks from 1963-1964.

The lower Salmon area now has an estimated wild turkey population of at least 600 birds. It is large enough to support trapping and transplanting, and by supply hunting and special permit soon. When hunting permits will be issued are decisions to be made by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission.

Bizeau said that Smith's Prairie is now the No. 1 turkey release site in the state because it has the kind of summer habitat the birds need, and river canyons and valleys suitable for wintering. During severe winter conditions it keeps snow and many birds of the wintered turkeys can move down to lower elevations where feed is easier to find.

"The summer habitat for turkeys is normally grassland with an overstory of Ponderosa Pine. The tall pines bear nut crops for food and serve as roosting trees."

Highly turkeys from the lower 50 states to the River population recently have been live-trapped and transplanted to two release areas in northern Idaho.

"The lower Salmon area is that the birds are increasing."

Utah's Coach Not Asked To Resign

LOGAN, Utah (AP)—Football Coach Tony Knapp and officials at Utah State University all denied Monday that Knapp has been asked to resign.

Rumors he had been asked to quit spread through the university campus over the weekend.

"Utah State lost 6-0 to Galston last season. Knapp became head coach in 1963 when John Ralston went to Stanford University. In four years his teams compiled a 25-14 record."

"This type of thing happens each year at this time," Athletic Director Frank Williams of the rumors. He referred to the renewal in January of contracts of coaching personnel.

University President Daryl Chase said he had met with neither Williams nor Knapp about a resignation.

Alma Sonne, chairman of the university's board of trustees, said the board had not discussed the matter, and said of the rumors: "That is what they are—rumors."

Record Set

RELFASST (AP)—Don Schoelander of Santa Clara, Calif., competing in an international meet, set an Irish 400-meter world record Monday in a 4:23.7. The Olympic champion bettered the old mark by 16.1 seconds to beat Alan Kimber of England by two yards.

CARELESS LEAD COSTS EXPERT

Today's West has been a great bridge player for more than 35 years. As a young man, every one thought that he would become one of the two or three greatest in the world. He had only one weakness, carelessness. Everyone makes an occasional careless error. He made lots of them. People thought that he would outgrow this habit but he never has.

He doubled, three no-trump happily, and he had a grand double. True, his partner would probably show up with a bust but West was looking at four

CARD SENSE

West opened the queen of spades. South won with dummy's King and promptly knocked out West's ace of clubs. West cashed his ace and jack of spades but this was as far as he could go with the suit and South made his contract with an overtrick.

"Tough luck, partner," said East.

"Sorry, partner!" replied West. "I made a careless opening lead. Had I opened the ace of spades we would have shown a profit instead of a big loss."

West really had made a careless lead. Every book on play from this year to a date lists the queen as the opening lead from ace-queen-jack against no-trump but this was one time to disregard the books.

West knew that his partner would never get in the lead. Therefore West should have continued with a low spade and cashed three more spade tricks when he got in with the ace of clubs.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of responding one no-trump your partner responds one spade. What do you do now?

potential spade tricks, the ace of clubs, four to the jack in diamonds and the jack and an ace heart. Unless declarer could run off eight tricks in the red suits, a sure set was in prospect.

1st Division Takes Care Of Its Own

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
DI-AN, South Vietnam (AP)

True to the motto "The Big Red One takes care of its own," the U.S. 1st Division have raised more than $50,000 from poker, dice and beer blasts to help send sons of fallen comrades to college.

A dozen scholarships already have been awarded with money collected in the past four months and $9 more are being processed.

The scholarship fund was inspired by the heroism of Sgt. Ralph Nunez of San Pedro, Calif., whose reconnaissance patrol was ambushed by the Viet Cong in the jungles of War Zone C.

Before he died, Nunez saved the lives of his comrades by radioing the forward air controller to call in an air strike.

"My husband was very proud of his outfit, he loved the Big Red One," his widow wrote Maj. Gen. William E. DePuy, the division commander. "Like you men and many others in Vietnam, he did not die in vain. My heart aches for my three young sons. Eric, the oldest, who is four, one day will be told why his father did not return to us."

DePuy and his aides decided to do something for survivors of the more than 900 1st Division infantrymen who have been killed since the outfit arrived in Vietnam a year and a half ago.

"For once in the 18-year history of the Army, we're doing something for the people who really count," said DePuy. "Those whom the war leaves behind, alone, for the rest of their lives. That's why this thing has caught on so. We never push it. We don't have to."

Among the first to receive a college scholarship was 4-year-old Eric Nunez.

3 Die, 10 Hurt In Hotel Blaze

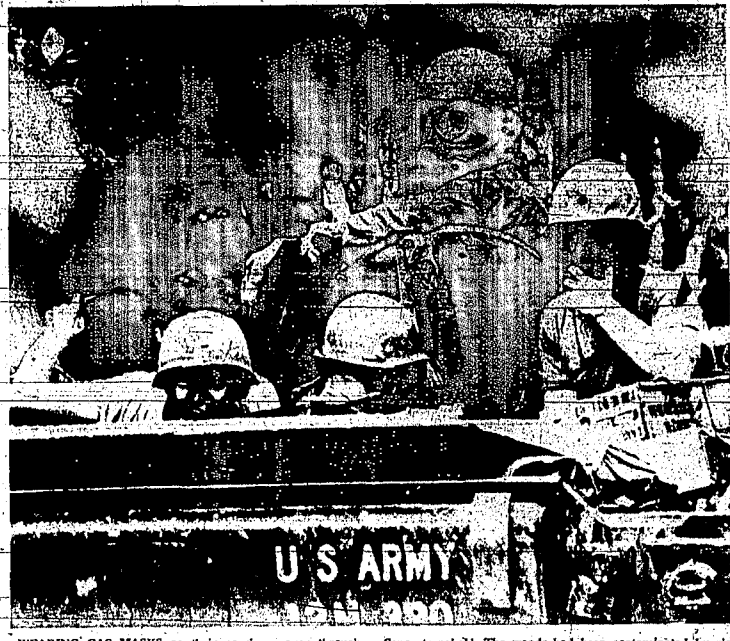

LOS ANGELES (AP)

Three persons died and 10 others were injured in a fire which swept through a five-story hotel catering mainly to older persons, authorities report.

City firemen said the blaze apparently started on the second floor Monday night and quickly swept upward.

Ten persons were hospitalized and nearly 90 residents were left homeless.

Viet Cong Bastion Cracked Open But They Will Return In Three Weeks

By HORST FAAS

BOI LOI WOODS, South Vietnam (AP) — There's a deadly stillness in the Bol Lol Woods.

No birds sing as the sun rises. Trees that once blanketed the forest with green are charred. They stick up black and stark, like splintered spires.

The usual jungle night sounds of scurrying animals are missing. Even the trill of the cicada is gone.

"Everything in its right mind has gotten out of here," except the Viet Cong, a GI said.

The outfit of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division was making another attempt to crack open this battered but unyielding bastion of the Viet Cong.

Steel-shod troop carriers of the division's 1st Battalion, 5th Cavalry, were rolling in the outskirts.

because of the thousands of enemy mines and boobytraps that spiked the area.

The Communists had stayed around despite more than a year of smashing by jets and B52 Stratoforters with 1,000-pound bombs; by artillery shells; by fiery napalm and white phosphorus. They only burrowed deeper.

The woods, covering 10 square miles, are on the southern bank of the Saigon River about 30 miles northwest of Saigon.

The position is valuable to the Viet Cong. It has excellent access to War Zone C to the north and War Zone D to the east. And here the guerrillas can receive supplies both overland and from the river. It has become a showplace of their resistance.

In late 1930s the French were earmarked this area for a rubber plantation. Before it could be established, Red guerrillas moved in and took over.

After years of avoiding the woods, the Saigon government sent in a Ranger battalion on New Year's Eve, 1963. The Rangers penetrated the inner sanctuary. Then the Viet Cong closed a spider's web and strangled the battalion into submission.

Several months later a Vietnamese airborne brigade tried to clean out the dreaded Bol Lol. The troops walked into an amazing network of tunnels and bunkers. Again the Viet Cong sprang their trap.

The defeat of the airborne stunned the government that further campaigns were tried here until the Americans arrived.

Vietnamese and American air forces bombed the woods on one occasion they lathered it with defoliant, gasoline and napalm. The resulting fire blazed so fiercely that an officer in Saigon told a news conference "the Bol Lol Woods are no more!"

"I didn't know that a late-blooming torrential rainstorm was at that moment drenching the fire.

From that time on, the woods were a free-bomb zone. Planes returning to Saigon and Bien Hoa airbases unloaded their unexpended ordinance there.

The U.S. 25th Infantry Division moved in last spring.

To the Americans the Bol Lol Woods were not the terrible place the Vietnamese had come to think it was. The GIs pushed through and the Viet Cong tried to stand and fight. The Communists took the worst of it against the mobile armor and modern weapons.

The Viet Cong stopped standing and resorted to hit-and-run swipes, antitank mines, pellet-spewing Claymore-type mines and ingenious boobytraps.

This was costly to foot soldiers, and the casualty figures rose. Armored units took over the attacks.

This was the situation as the 1st Battalion of the 5th Cavalry headed toward the woods recently.

"We usually figure on losing about 10 APCs (armored personnel carriers) on an operation," one young officer said on the third day of a five-day operation.

"We've had seven knocked out so far," he said, "so 10 should be about right this time too."

The men had adapted their riding habits to the mines and despite the loss of vehicles, they weren't a similarly high casualty rate.

The tankmen kept their arms at their sides and their feet tucked up with them as they slid outside the carrier's turret.

"When we hit one of those pAlha T a n g o e s (antitank mines), it usually blasts the turret clean off," a soldier said.

"Guys with their arms hanging over the edge of the armor plating will be carried off right with it. If they keep their arms at their sides the turret probably will just fly off and leave them okay except for a few bruises and scratches."

As their vehicles clattered ahead, the men saw signs that the bunkers and tunnels they had destroyed on their last visit had been rebuilt.

"There, you see that!" one man shouted. "What is Charley doing? He knows he can't win. We beat him and beat him and he just keeps fixing these damned things again."

"How many times do we have to destroy this stuff?"

The battalion rumbled into an expansive empty base camp with bunkers, deep tunnels and fortifications.

"I was so large the vehicles pulled back and a strike by B52s was ordered. The big bombs screamed down in a tight pattern that covered the camp."

Next morning the armor rolled back in. Wherever the men spotted a still-useable position they called Skyraider fighter-bombers to zero in with special 1,000-pound deep-penetration bombs.

"To cap the process, they placed 500-lb. barrels of powdered riot-control gas in the large craters. Demolition men set time fuses on the barrels to think that exploded them after the carriers moved away."

Some of the GIs who had not

Romney Begins Third Term With Job At 'Great Society'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. George Romney has begun his third term with a job at the "Great Society," Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has launched his third with a bid for a "Just Society." Ronald Reagan has husted into gubernatorial ranks pushing his "Creative Society."

Romney and Reagan gave no inaugural day hints of possible presidential ambitions for 1968. But Rockefeller's inaugural address carried national political overtones.

U.S. Will Get Dolls That Won't Burn

WARSAW, Poland (AP)

The director of the Polish firm that shipped in flammable dolls to the United States says the U.S. market in the future will get only dolls made with materials that won't burn.

Jan Ziemiński of the Polish-Cospek Foreign Trade Trust said Monday that the dolls have been shipped to the United States for 12 years and no complaints were received until late last year.

He said it was only recently that the Polish Ministry of Chemical Industry has been able to supply non-combustible synthetics to the cooperative toy workshops.

Samples of the new, nonflammable materials, which are used for the face and hair of the dolls, have been sent to New York for inspection, he said.

They, along with several other Republican governors took their oaths Monday. The other governors included Don W. Samuelson of Idaho, Harold Levander of Minnesota, David P. Cargo of New Mexico, Warren P. Knowles of Wisconsin and Stan Hathaway of Wyoming.

Romney, 59, the first Michigan governor elected to a third term, called for a government directed "by those who put the public trust above all personal considerations."

Then, in what some interpreted as a jab at President Johnson's "Great Society," he said the people recognize the limitations of efforts to improve the lives of men and their society by material means alone.

"The people feel the stifling consequences of over-centralization, conformily manipulated consensus and arbitrary unchecked power, whether public or private," he added at the Lansing ceremony.

Soviet Visit Set

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Vatican sources said today that Pope Paul VI will receive Nikolai Podgorny, the president of the Soviet Union, in an unprecedented audience Jan. 29.

No pope has ever received a Soviet head of state since the 1917 Bolshevik revolution.

put on their gas masks got a taste of the nauseating gas as long as 14 days.

As the battalion moved away, one man muttered through his mask:

"Well, we've given them everything the U.S. government will allow — riot gas, the napalm, the biggest bombs they let us drop, and the best damned troops you'll find anywhere."

"But you know, I've got a pretty good hunch someone could come back here in three weeks, and old Charley will have his place in these again."

"Have to do it all over again."

Rockefeller described his "Just Society" as one in which "government is courageous, power is benign, learning is abundant, prosperity is general, order is serene, law is honored, compassion is practiced and brotherhood is lived."

Reagan, meanwhile, appeared before his Democratic-controlled legislature with a plea for cooperation and the first assignment of his "Creative Society" program — a government reorganization plan to consolidate more power in the California governor's office.

But he said he believes in three independent branches of government and in "the legislature's right to legislate."
