President's Conduct Is Complimented

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Saturday that President Johnson has "conducted himself with dignity and decorum" in a controversy surrounding the book written by William Manchester, "The Death of a President."

Mansfield said he has no knowledge that five prominent Democrats strongly advised the late President John F. Kennedy not to visit Dallas, Texas, in November 1963 because of fear of antagonism to him there.

This disclosure was made in the first installment of a four-part, 50,000-word serialization of Manchester's book by Look magazine.

There have been advance reports that some of Johnson's actions have been criticized by persons quoted in Manchester's book.

"As time goes on there will be a lot of stories some true — some not — reflecting on that tragic period," Mansfield said. "I think we will have to leave it to history to form its own judgment."

"In the wake of charges, innuendo and implications, President Johnson has conducted himself with dignity and decorum. He is willing to let history be the final judge of his behavior in Dallas and throughout his tenure as president."

Weed School Planned For Mini-Cassia

RUPERT — Agricultural Extension Agents in Cassia and Minidoka Counties announced a joint effort to bring a weed control school to the area during January and February, beginning Tuesday.

"Weed control is one of the most important problems in farming today," stated Vance Smith, Minidoka County agent. He stressed that many growers must cooperate in a concerted weed control effort if it is to be successful, including farmers, road commissioners, irrigation district supervisors and county commissioners.

The proposed school will be held in six meetings with each meeting aimed at some particular set of practices and referring to particular crops.

The meetings will be held in the civic building in Rupert and the courthouse in Burley, with each session set for 2 p.m.

Tuesday's school in Burley will be on "Selectivity, Application, Competition and Cultivation." Jan. 17, Rupert, will be "Control in Cereals." Jan. 24, Burley, "Weed Control in Potatoes." Jan. 31, Rupert, "Weed Control in Beans." Feb. 7, Burley, "Weed Control in Sugar Beets" and Feb. 14, Rupert, "Non-Crop Land."

"This will definitely be a school," Smith said. Short examinations will be given and a summary report will be issued at the close of the course to all regular attendees.

University of Idaho staff members and commodity group representatives will be instructors for the course.

Instructors for the first meeting will be University of Idaho faculty members, R. E. Higgins, university agronomist, and Glenn Bodily, Cassia County agent.

Antique Festival Theater To Present "Don Juan In Hell"

The Antique Festival Theater's new more adventure, in which the leading performance of "Don Juan in Hell" by George Bernard Shaw at the Twin Falls Presbyterian Church at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The public is invited to attend the Twin Falls performance which is being sponsored by the Presbyterian Couples Club and the Senior High group. No tickets are necessary, but a donation will be requested.

Shaw completed his full length play "Man and Superman" in 1903 and called it a "Comedy of Philosophy." Midway through Act 3, he halted the main action for a dream sequence in which he made his philosopher's statement that man is not quite what he seems to be.

This section of the play, now with its own title, "Don Juan in Hell," has become one of the best known pieces in the English theater and has probably summed up more performances than any other work by the British satirist.

Don Juan, wandering through the shades of the underworld, is beset with the conviction that he has been "assigned" to wrong place for his Eternity, to make his point, he must en-

"Don Juan," appeared in the 1966 season and is on the directing staff. This production is the first full scale winter presentation of the company.

News Of Record

TWIN FALLS COUNTY Sheriff's Blotter

A 1964 Dodge driven by Marjorie Mooreman, 17, Route 1, Murfreesboro, Tenn., was out of control on an icy road two and three quarters miles east of Murfreesboro and struck a utility pole at 1:20 a.m. Saturday, according to Twin Falls County sheriff's officers.

Police Blotter

Cars driven by Norma Griffin, 39, 259 S. Ave. N., and Louis Hendrix, 24, 829 DuBois Ave., collided at 11:12 a.m. Saturday in the Tempo Dept. Store parking lot.

Won't Join

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen doesn't plan to join the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists despite his new role as a recording artist.

The Illinois Republican recently released an album of patriotic readings entitled "Gallant Men" and has targeted television appearances in connection with it.

AFTRA sent him an application form but the senator said: "I read all of the fine print on the form but I didn't sign it. I decided this is not for Uncle Sam." With my opposition to compulsory unionism, I didn't think the idea was good."

Ike Receives Welcome In California

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to Southern California for the winter Saturday and got a warm welcome from 1,500 citizens.

"Welcome home, Mamie and Ike," read a sign displayed as they rode in an open car up to the entrance of the Eldorado Country Club, where he has a five-bedroom home on the 11th fairway.

Eisenhower, arriving for his ninth annual visit, said he was "damn glad to be back here."

The Eisenhowers had come by train to San Bernardino from their Gettysburg, Pa., home and then been driven here.

The reception—the first public one given for Eisenhower at the club—was arranged by an old-friend—Froeman Gosdon—Anna of the former-Annis and Ann radio team, and other backers of a proposed Eisenhower medical center here.

Comedian Bob Hope donated 80 acres for the center.

"I asked how he is feeling; the 76-year-old former president replied: "Pretty good. I don't want to start in with a light heavyweight fight, but I'm feeling pretty good."

He would be "meet with California's new Republican governor, Ronald Reagan?"

"I hope so. He'll be a pretty busy man."

Would he be making a trip to the Far East, as has been proposed?

"Not very soon. That's very, very, I've been talking about it for four years; it's nothing really new. If the doctors agree, fine. It's not a world shaking decision."

How soon would he be out golfing?

"I'll be putting probably on a narrow morning," he grinned.

...even and a charming devil person, Twin Falls, left, and Antique Festival Theater's "Don Juan in Hell." A reading performance at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the church. The public is invited.

...ard, song leader and parliamentarian, and Julie Ann Gambril, recreation leader, were chosen officers for 1967.

Mary Lynn Burkhardt, Junior leader, instructed the group on techniques to be used in the health project during the meeting, which was held at the home of Miss Zuck. Miss Gambril served refreshments. Linda Allbritt was a guest.

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

SUNDAY, JAN. 8—Born today you are a sociable, agreeable person by nature, and one who craves emotional attachments, affection, and love. Your greatest problem as a child may have been your inability to play by yourself—and as you matured you probably found the same difficulty in your lack of any desire to work alone. That it is necessary for you to overcome this trait to some degree at least should go without saying.

Once you have learned to work by yourself, you should take pleasure in the alertness of your own mind and the agility of your own body. Nothing should be difficult for you to attain at this point, so long as what you have in mind makes use of your many talents. Only take care that you do not set up goals for yourself that match not the real but the fancied you.

Highly attractive to the opposite sex, and greatly attracted to members of it, you should have many opportunities for an early marriage. Do not attempt to have an early marriage make up for insecurity in your outside career, but make sure you are well on your way to success before you ask another to share your life with you.

Public Invited To Tour Learning Center At Hagerman High School

HAGERMAN—The Hagerman board of education invites all residents to the grand opening of their new individualized Learning Center, with continuing tours being conducted in small groups from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. and 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. Wednesday.

Members of the faculty will serve as guides for the groups wishing to tour the new facilities of this pilot program for individualizing learning opportunities for students. All visitors will be given an opportunity to view such things as CCTV (Closed Circuit TV) in operation, hear the amplified telephone study program, use special reading equipment, use electronic study carrels and receive an instructional package.

These and many other innovations are all a part of the equipment and materials available which will be on public display for individualizing learning opportunities for students.

The project is fully financed by the U.S. Office of Education under Titles I, II and III of P.L. 89-10, to develop and conduct a center to serve as a model for small secondary schools in Idaho.

At the present time, according to George M. Carnie, superintendent of Hagerman schools and project director, "most of the rural students are taught in a lock-step teacher controlled and directed study hall situation, with little or no chance for independent or self-directed learning."

Learning is best accomplished when it is self-motivated, enjoyable and self-satisfying results from the activity.

"The Learning Center is planned to insure the educational opportunities commensurate with each student's individual ability and at a level in academic areas sufficiently comprehensive to develop the talent of each student."

Emphasis will be placed on obtaining and organizing materials and activities for all students, regardless of their ability or life vocational plans," Carnie said.

Twenty study carrels have been installed in the new center. The carrels have electronic equipment with earphones.

Each carrel has space for tape recorders, reading materials, projectors, slides and television monitoring sets.

A closed circuit television system enables a class within any classroom to be programmed into the carrels.

The carrel TV monitors also enable students to view educational television as it is available on national networks.

A video tape recorder may be used for recording and storing of programs for use locally at the time desired.

Many other possibilities for individual learning exist in the center, Carnie said.

Stake Confab Set Sunday At Rupert

RUPERT — Quarterly conference of the LDS Minidoka Stake will be held Sunday in Rupert. Arthur S. Anderson of the Home Teaching Committee, Ruth H. Bradshaw and Mrs. Eliza J. Allen of the MIA will be official church representatives from Salt Lake City.

Anderson has been bishop of the University Seventh Ward. He is vice president and director of David W. Evans and Associates Agency.

The home teaching program of the church assures that all families are visited at least once each month so that local leaders will know that physical and spiritual needs of each family are being met.

Bradshaw is a former bishop and stake high councilman in the church, and he is a past president of a local Rotary Club and a member of several other civic organizations.

Mrs. Allen is active in the field of music and teaches piano and organ. Her original music has been performed on ABC television and is recorded by the King Family.

Department sessions for ward and stake leaders were held Saturday afternoon.

General meetings, which are open to visitors, are set for 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Sunday in the Stake Tabernacle, 8th and G Streets.

Stake President Rodney A. Hansen will conduct the Sunday sessions.

A direct wire broadcast of the Sunday sessions will be carried to the Rupert Ward Chapel in anticipation of an overflow attendance, Hansen said.

Snow Survey On Watershed Is Optimistic

A partial survey of the snow stations over the Salmon-Roseworth Tract watersheds shows that soil moisture is improving rapidly and that snow depth is far ahead of last year. Glenn Nelson, chairman of the board of supervisors of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District said Saturday.

Because of inclement weather it was possible to measure only four of the 11 sites, Mr. Nelson said. The bad weather which started about Jan. 1 when the survey was to have been under way has persisted to such an extent that aerial portions of the survey have been impossible to complete.

However, the snow depth at each measure station and the water content was ahead of Jan. 1 last year and also of the years the survey has been made.

The snow depth at Magic Mountain was 30.2 inches with a water content of 6.1 inches. A year ago the depth was 13 inches and the water content was 2.1 inches. Deadline Ridge showed a snow depth of 30.3 inches this year with a water content of 7.4 inches against 15 inches of snow and a water content of 2.8 a year ago.

The Shoshone Basin showed a snow depth of 12.7 inches with a water content of 3.4 inches this year while last year there was no measurable amount of snow there.

The Pole Creek snow depth was 38.2 inches with a water content of 3.2 inches. Last year it was 26 inches of snow and a water content of 4.4.

Mr. Nelson said that the ground under the snow is not frozen and this is the reason the snow moisture is improving rapidly. However, the upper watershed went into the winter season in an extremely dry condition. Much ground water, he said, must be replaced before any appreciable runoff can be realized.

The officials said that it is hoped the aerial measurements can be made in the near future.

Dairy Meet Set

RUPERT — The Mini-Casalia Dairy Association will hold a no-host dinner meeting at 1 p.m. Tuesday at the Rupert Elks Lodge.

Legislation that will concern dairymen such as the proposed repeal of the aleo tax, will be discussed. All dairymen in Cassia and Minidoka Counties are invited.

Snow-Depth In Cassia Is Normal

BURLEY — Snow pack measurements at Howell Canyon and Badger Gulch courses so far this year indicate snow depth and water content to be near normal, Gerald G. Larson, of the Burley Soil Conservation Service, reports.

Normal is based on the past 15-year average, he noted. Measurements this year exceed readings of Jan. 1, 1966 by about 23 per cent.

Normal is based on the snow pack to replenish soil moisture and irrigation water supply which was depleted during the past season," Larson notes.

Extreme difficulty has been encountered in getting aerial measurements, because of a series of cloudy conditions during the past week. Weather must be clear to allow fixed-wing aircraft to fly low over the snow courses.

Measurements made last week reflect only the two readings made at Howell Canyon and Badger Gulch courses and were made by going in on the ground," Larson said.

Church Views Efforts To Divert Water

WASHINGTON (AP) — Renewed efforts to divert water from the Pacific Northwest to the Southwest were predicted Saturday by Sen. Frank Church, Idaho. He warned against local hickering.

"The greatest weapon with which Idahoans can arm their congressional delegation in our gathering fight to save our waters," Church said in a statement, "is unanimity of purpose."

"When Congress knows that Idaho is united in its future water use plans, it will be reluctant to give ear to those who would take our waters."

"If we should become bogged down in legal hickering, we will only be jeopardizing the plans we have for such works as the Southwest Idaho Water Development Project and the proposed companion plan for the South-east Idaho Project."

Blessing?

BRUNEI (AP) — A new high-voltage power line to serve many people in this British protectorate of Borneo is not an unmixed blessing.

Said chief engineer J.E.B. White: "This voltage is extremely dangerous and the public is asked to warn children not to fly kites near the line."

Accounting Is Due If Dealing In Stocks

By RAY DE CRANE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
All stock sales made in 1966 must be recorded on Schedule D, a special supplement to be attached to your Form 1040. Your broker's buy- and sell-confirmation slips should include confirmation of the information you need to complete the schedule.
First, separate your transactions into short-term and long-term deals. If you held the asset six months or less before the sale, it is a short-term sale. Involving assets held longer than six months are long-term.
Report first all short-term

net long-term gain, deduct 60 per cent of long-term gain, reduced to 50 per cent. If the result is a short-term gain, after reduction by long-term loss, it is taxed at 100 per cent. If a net loss results, it is fully deductible against ordinary income up to a maximum of $1,000.
Any unused loss carryover from preceding years may be used to offset gains.
A loss carryover retains its original character. If its result is a net loss from short-term transactions it retains that identransactions indicating any loss in brackets ( ) in the margin. Commingle the gains and losses to arrive at a net short-term gain or loss.

Follow the same procedure with your long-term transactions arriving finally at a net long-term gain or loss.
The net short-term gain or loss and the net long-term gain or loss are then combined. If there is a net short-term gain and a net long-term gain each year. If it results from long-term transactions it consistently remains in the long-term category until finally used up.

Formerly, loss carryovers expired in five years if not used. Now they may be carried forward indefinitely until exhausted.

Fewer Young Men Trying Illegally To Avoid Draft

By STEPHEN M. AUG
WASHINGTON (AP) — Justice Department figures indicate that a smaller proportion of young men is trying illegally to avoid military service now than at the height of World War II.
A comparison Saturday of figures for 1944 and 1966 shows that with about four times the number of men in uniform during the World War II year there were about 10 times the number of convicted draft violators.
During 1966, according to an FBI report, 450 persons were convicted of violating provisions of the Selective Service Act. This figure is for the calendar year — January through December. And it is nearly double the 282 convictions of 1965.
These figures were listed in the FBI's recent annual year-end report to the attorney general. FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover attributes the rise to the increase in the number of commitments. Other officials blame it partly on larger draft calls and partly on strengthened draft laws enacted in 1965.
But Justice Department files disclose that the number of persons convicted for Selective Service violations in fiscal year 1964 — July through June — was 4,698. The figure was 1,472 in 1962 and 3,950 in 1943. It dropped to 2,800 in 1945.

Abandonment Of Electoral College System Suggested

By BARRY SCHWEID
WASHINGTON (AP) — Direct popular election of president and vice president and abandonment of the 177-year-old electoral college system were recommended Saturday by a special commission of the American Bar Association.
In calling for a constitutional amendment to carry out what would be a historic change in the way Americans fill their top two elective offices, the 15-member, broadly-representative panel said, "The electoral college method of electing a president of the United States is archaic, undemocratic, complex, ambiguous, indirect, and dangerous."

At the same time, the commission headed by Robert G. Storey of Dallas, dean-emeritus of Southern Methodist University Law School, called for these new constitutional requirements:
1. That the winning candidate receive at least 40 per cent of the popular vote.
2. That if no candidate got 40 per cent of the vote the president be chosen in a run-off election between the two candidates who received the most votes.
This, the commission said in its 51-page report, "would keep the election of the president where it belongs — directly with the people."
At present, if no candidate gets a majority of the electoral votes the U.S. House of Representatives chooses the president from the top three candidates — each state having one vote.
The 40 per cent provision, the report said, "would encourage factions and splinter groups to operate, as now, within the framework of the major parties, since only a major candidate would be in a position to obtain such a vote."
"At present, third parties have the power to 'tip the balance' in a relatively close election by drawing crucial votes from a candidate."

Agency May Close Office

The Railway Express Agency, Inc., has applied to the Idaho Public Utilities Commission to close its office at Hansen, located on the Twin Falls branch of the Union Pacific Railroad 3.2 miles east of Twin Falls.
The Railway Express agency contends that the amount of business transacted by it at the Hansen office is insignificant, averaging approximately $1 x shipments per month and that maintenance of the office is uneconomical.
The agency-alleges its business at Hansen can be conveniently and efficiently cared-for through its office at Kimberly, located 3.6 rail miles west of Hansen.
A time limit of 20 days has been set for filing of written protests with the commission as to why the application should be denied.

William McCarty Taken by Death

He was born in Muskingum County, Ohio, on July 18, 1881. Mr. McCarty was a retired farmer. He had lived in Greeley, Colo., from 1908 to 1911, when he moved to Idaho.
He is survived by a brother, Edward McCarty, Kimberly.

Faubus Turns Over Reins To Republican

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Orval Eugene Faubus, a poor boy from the hills who grew up to serve six terms as governor, turns over the leadership of the Democratic state Tuesday to a millionaire Republican from the East.
Winthrop Rockefeller, 54, will take the oath of governor before the Democratic-controlled legislature Tuesday, becoming the state's first Republican since Reconstruction to occupy the office.
Rockefeller, a New Yorker who moved to the state in 1953, broke the Democrats' hold on the governorship last November by beating segregationist Jim Johnson in the general election. Faubus, 57, did not seek reelection after serving six straight two-year terms starting in 1955. He plans to retire to the hilltop mansion he is having built in the Ozark Mountains of his native Madison County to write and reflect.

"I'd believe, however, that his retirement from public life will be permanent."

Eight Valley Women Termed "Outstanding"

By NORMA HERZINGER

"Outstanding" is a term bestowed upon eight Magic Valley women who have recently been selected to appear in the 1966 edition of "Outstanding Young Women of America."

Contributions and accomplishments in civic endeavors, religious, professional and political activities are the basis for the selections and to have eight from one locality is indeed a distinction.

"Outstanding Young Women of America" is an annual biographical compilation sponsored by leaders of women's organizations. From the list of nominees submitted by local women's clubs, the Board of Advisory Editors chooses those women it thinks most exemplify the term "outstanding." Mrs. Dagier Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, is chairman.

Local women's clubs throughout the country submit nominations for the book each year, with a different group of outstanding young women included annually.

The publication was conceived by the leaders of the nation's women's clubs. They felt that young women who give their time for community projects should be recognized and the recognition of these outstanding women could serve to inspire others to give their time to additional civic responsibilities.

This annual biographical compilation includes 6,000 young women between the ages of 21 and 35. Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson serves as honorary chairman of the Board of Advisory Editors for the publication and has said the book is especially meaningful to her because the achievements and abilities of women is a subject close to her heart.

United States Senator Margaret Chase Smith, in her introductory message for the 1965 edition, said, ADMIRING THIS CAMEL SADDLE from Egypt is Mrs. Burton James who holds several titles relevant to saddles. She received the Miss Rodeo Idaho title in 1951 and the Miss Rodeo America title in 1952. She is national chairman of the Miss Appaloosa Horse Club Queen Contest.

Garden Club Program Given By Mrs. Nuttle

"Golden Knowledge" was the theme for the Twin Falls Garden Club meeting at the YWCA building, Mrs. Gabriel Nuttle presented the program, "Common Names of Plants," from a book by that name written by Tom Clute.

Her discussion explained how most plant names are of Latin derivation, and many are named for people. Mrs. Nuttle showed colored slides illustrating examples of plants that have influenced family names.

During the business meeting, Mrs. Arville Carmanis and Mrs. David Jolly were introduced as new members. Reports were given on the Christmas show held in December. Sweepstakes awards were presented to Mrs. Victor Nelson for arrangements and Mrs. Russell Miller for horticulture.

Mrs. Ivan Pierce, garden therapy chairman, asked for suggestions for a project for the year.

As a city beautification project, club members will cooperate in planting the Twin Falls Post office plants next spring.

Members gave an ovation to Mrs. Sidney Smith as an expression of pride and appreciation. Mrs. Smith was featured in the December issue of "Miss Ida Ho," state federation magazine, with a cover picture and article telling of her accomplishments on local, state and national levels.

Mrs. Pierce gave the horticultural report, "Poisons in Some Plants." She listed many plants found in gardens, fields and woods that are poisonous in some way either by roots, stems, foliage or seeds. Some plants cause skin irritations from contact and others are toxic if taken internally. Allergies are other results from many common offenders.

Tea was served from a table covered with lace and centered with an arrangement of African violets. Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Nuttle poured. Hostesses for the day were Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Sam Porter and Mrs. Harry Wilcox.

New Members Are Welcomed

New members, Mrs. Sue Pennington, Mrs. Margaret Bronson and Mrs. Bonnie Parker, were welcomed and presented corsages at the regular meeting of the Ladies of Elks in the Elks Lodge.

A report was given by Mrs. Michael Stever, co-chairman of the Sweetheart Ball, on the ball, an annual event sponsored by the Ladies of Elks. It is set for Feb. 11.

Mrs. Roger Thomas presented a review of Sam Lewison's book, "Everything But Monday." Refreshments were served.

Luncheon Held

SHOSHONE—Mrs. Fran Carothera hosted Tuesday Bridge Club members at a luncheon. Mrs. Dale Chatterton and Mrs. Mary Patrick were guests.

Prizes were won by Mrs. Richard Baumann, Mrs. Norval Rutherford and Mrs. Eleanora Kelsey.

Obesity, frequently a result of glandular malfunction. Most cases of obesity rest upon a basis of disturbed metabolism. This may take the form of improper digestion. In such cases the digestive system fails in its function of breaking down the food or there can be glandular malfunction—an insufficient thyroid secretion of thyroxin, the substance that burns fats and sugar, to convert them into energy. Sometimes the pituitary gland is at fault.

Dr. Landwehr
Improper functioning of the digestive system, of the thyroid gland or of the pituitary glands all have a common cause, of which the original trigger is the over-impairment of the nerve supply to one or two of them.

Your Doctor of Chiropractic directs his work to the restoration of a normal flow of vital energy over the nerves and gradually reverses the faulty metabolism. At the same time he will want to adjust the food intake.

Elegance Is Stressed In New Hairstyles

By PATRICIA KING
NEW YORK (NEA)—"I keep it short, below the ear lobe and fuller," exclaimed New York hairstylist John Bernard when talking about his new spring look for daytime.

As he sees it, a smooth, off-the-beat, soft look is desired with everything leaning toward the romantic and elegant.

When it comes to evening and party time, Bernard said this versatile cut can easily transform a sportive but feminine hairstyle to one of great glamour. This can be done easily with the help of a flowing hairpiece, cluster of curls or even a simple single curl that can be pinned on at the most flirtatious spot. By adding a fall or hairpiece in the evening you can create a lovely frame for your face. If you are fortunate enough to have more than one piece don't feel you can only wear one at a time. Not so, claims Bernard.

If artistically and carefully arranged, you can feature two or three hairpieces at one time. True, short-to-medium hair is most becoming and easy to manage for daytime wear. A good cut and, for some, a good body wave and continuous brushing should keep your hair looking its best. Hair must be cut regularly to maintain that healthy look.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Our daughter ran away to get married when she was 17. Two years later her husband left her and their small baby. The court awarded her sufficient support so that she could maintain her own apartment, which she did, until recently. She decided she wanted to take a practical nursing course at the vocational school, so I agreed to take care of her baby. It simplified matters for having her moved in with dad and me.
 Before she moved in I made a few rules. One was that she was not to entertain any male guests unless dad or I were home. The other night she had a male friend here, knowing we wouldn't be home. This upset me. Her father claims she is 21 and we should trust her. It is a matter of principle with me. Do you think a 21-year-old divorcee should be allowed to entertain male friends alone?

AGAINST IT
 She was wrong for having made such a rule in the first place. Why offer your daughter a roof over her head and then raise it just because she wants to entertain her friends at home? Where else should a respectable woman entertain? Either change that rule, mother, or tell daughter to change her address. DEAR ABBY: My mother has been sickly ever since I can remember. It's either a splitting headache or backache or pain in the stomach, dizziness, or something else. She eats "pain-killers" like popcorn. She buys every kind on the market she can get without a prescription. If she takes four, I am afraid that one of these days she is going to take too many and wake up. I can't convince her that this is dangerous to her health. Maybe you can. She reads your column everyday and thinks you have good sense. By the way, I am not a child who is imagining things or exaggerating. I am a 31-year-old married woman.

Mrs. Porter Reviews Book At Luncheon

Mrs. Gwinn Porter reviewed the book, "Heaven in my Hand," by Alice Lee Humphreys, at the luncheon meeting of the Twentieth-Century Club at the Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Porter brought new charm to her portrayal of Alice Humphreys' reminiscence of her life as a first grade teacher and the children whom she taught. As they are the sole possessors of an untidy world to refresh themselves—the conclusion—that as long as petals unfurl and faith sings in the hearts of children they can give back a world patterned a light from the heart of a child.

Mrs. Porter was introduced by Mrs. A. T. Kelly, program chairman.

Table decorations, under the direction of Mrs. Wayne, featured an arrangement of holiday greens and pastel pink satin roses with light tapers on the table. Flowers in crystal vases completed the decor.

Mrs. Dean Kendrick, president, welcomed members and guests, and Mrs. I. G. Gray gave the invocation.

Mrs. Ray O. Roston, welfare chairman, reported that three boxes of fruit and vegetables, donated by club members, were sent to the Boise Children's Home through the courtesy of Warberg Transfer and Garrett Freightlines. A silver offering of $36 was sent to the home for the children's Christmas.

Mrs. A. W. Schrank announced that the annual benefit card party would be held Jan. 17 at the YWCA Rooms. This will be a dessert luncheon at 1 p.m. The ticket is $1.00.

Mrs. Kendrick announced that Mrs. Horace Holmes has been appointed chairman of the nominating committee of the nominating committee with the following members who will serve with her, Mrs. E. E. Jefferson, Mrs. Ross Bevan, Mrs. J. W. Banbury, Mrs. O. H. Wolrich, Mrs. P. A. Falor and Mrs. Porter Link.

Mrs. C. H. Jackson reported 250 boxes of Idaho note paper sold. A letter of thanks was read from the two students who received scholarships from the club last fall to enable them to finish their school year.

Mrs. Kendrick announced that her president's project is to give two scholarships to the College of Southern Idaho of $100 each, one to go to an academic student and the other to a student in vocational training.

Silly Season Promised For New Accessories

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—While designers such as Hannah Troy are calling for an end to vulgarity and a return to serenity and sophistication, the fashion accessory makers are promising another silly season.

A minigirl carried a minibrella — "for light rains," she said — which matched her vinyl miniskirt. A long, lacy dress played upon green gams that glow in the dark.

At the jewelry displays were a shapely blonde in a flesh-colored body stocking struffed and cluttered Thursday in $500 worth of dangling pearls said to be a discotheque dress. It was at the Accessorina Show for style-reporters here for the New York couture group's semiannual press week activities.

Hannah Troy, a particular favorite with petite-sized women, was waging her battle for the return of "prettiness" with a so-called glider collection.

Simply the scheme of things as Jackie Kennedy-type manikins glided elegantly onto the runway in long and short chandeliers that practically make grooves in the shoulder. There were necklaces, too. Made of cotton and colored brilliant fuses to rival the current paper mache braze.

costumes that glided across their bodies in a suggestive way which nevertheless did not suggest too much.

And wearing pants is a part of being ladylike, especially for evening, as paradoxical as it seems. Miss Troy's models paraded in white jump suits sparkling with jeweled buttons. Buttoned over these were regal white floor-length coats. Tied around them were opulent apron skirts.

Parks, Bengals Nip Aussies In Overtime 104-103

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho State forward Chuck Parks dropped in a 30-foot desperation shot with four seconds left in overtime for an ISU exhibition basketball victory, 104-103; over touring Australian Nationals Saturday night. Parks, a 6-5 junior, put the game in overtime to start with, making the first two free throws after regulation play to tie the score 95-95.

Tigers Hang 63-50 Loss On Buhl

MOUNTAIN HOME — The Mountain Home Tigers clamped their tight zone defense on the Buhl Indians Saturday night and took a big step toward the State Central Idaho Conference title with a 63-50 victory.

Buhl faced the improbable situation of shooting 42 per cent from the field and losing to the hotter Tigers. The Indians took off well, piling up a 16-11 first quarter edge. But from then on Mountain Home dropped a living screen around Chuck Cullings, the team's top scorer. That left Ivan Von Lindern to carry Buhl's hopes. He did well by canning 10 field goals but without enough underneath it wasn't enough.

JEROME — Boyd Gailley hit for three thirds in the final 50 seconds Friday night to lift Mountain Home past Jerome 41-36 in a South-Central Idaho Conference basketball game.

Wornell, Rambo Pace Rally As Devils Trim Rockland 62-51

By BOB MAGEE
Times-News Assistant Sports Editor
MURTAUGH — Paul Wornell and Gene Rambo combined for 13 points in Murtaugh's fourth quarter rally Friday night as the Red Devils trimmed Rockland 62-51 in a rough and tumble Magic Valley Conference game.

The game was evenly played through the first three quarters with the teams ending each period in a tie. Neither team had more than a four-point edge during that time.

The Devils' Bill Noleker opened up the fourth quarter to give Murtaugh a 45-41 lead and the Devils never trailed after that.

Wornell got another two-point edge and Bart Quesnell connected with a free throw while Rockland tallied two free throws to widen the gap to 46-44 and trim the Devils' lead to two points.

May and Ed Nelson each dropped in a bucket for the Bulldogs and Rambo hit another for Murtaugh in between the two as Rockland finished its scoring.

Rambo got one more bucket and Wornell a free throw to wind up the scoring and give the Devils their largest margin at the game's end.

Murtaugh's final margin came from the field where the Devils outshot the Bulldogs 26-15 while Rockland had the edge at the line, 21-10.

The Bulldogs, in fact, stayed in the first quarter on free throws, hitting one of their 15 points at the line.

Rietz Paces Bulldogs Past Pilots 80-59

KIMBERLY — Larry Rietz scored 17 of his 25 points in the last half Friday night to pace a Kimberly rally that trimmed Glens Ferry 80-59.

The Bulldogs had four players in double figures, besides Rietz. They were Larry and Gary Eller, Spike Fitzhugh and Terry Morrill.

Cranney scored 11 of his 16 points in the final period, nine of those on charity shots, and Nell Algom clipped in eight points.

When he finished the Bobcats were leading 76-65 with 3:30 left.

ARROWHEADS ARE MADE from obsidian by Paul Corder, Kimberly, using a flaking method similar to the one used by Indians long ago. (Times-News photo)

Many Hobbies, Interests Found In Deserts, Hills

By PEGGY LALEY
Times-News Feature Writer

A thousand years from now geologists, archaeologists and just plain rockhounds of the future are going to be mighty confused with some of their "digs."

In the West, at least, there has been a great swing to rock hunting resulting in a massive transportation of rocks to destinations far from their original location.

All of us are guilty of picking up—and carrying—with us a "pretty" rock. Seventeen years ago Paul Corder, Kimberly, has changed their back yard into a veritable rock collector's paradise.

Viewed on a rainy afternoon when the moisture has brought out all the subtle coloring it resembles what you might expect to see in the 40 thieves' cave of Aladdin's time.

These are not idle scavenger hunts for this couple. Many of the prize specimens become polished—stones of exceptional beauty.

Some become jewelry, rivaling the so-called precious stones. Some rocks are sliced, polished and—providing fabric—with tops which are interesting and lovely.

To an inexperienced eye, a rock might appear to be just a rock, but when broken open it reveals colors and designs miraculously accomplished by nature over a period of many thousands of years.

Mr. Corder uses the rocks he brings home in a variety of home beautification projects. His garden walks are accented with them, some as polished slabs laid in concrete, some as flagstones, some line the paths.

Their large star-shaped planters is unusual, even in the winter time. It is constructed of many different kinds of rocks, rising three or four feet from the ground.

—And, of course, Mr. Corder has constructed his backyard fireplace with specimens from his collecting.

Mr. Corder is a man of many hobbies—and many talents. From his father and from a friend he learned to make arrowheads in the fashion of long-ago Indians.

Although arrowheads were, and still are, made from a number of types of rock, obsidian is probably the most common in the area. It was easily available to the local Indians and has the characteristic of forming and maintaining a sharp cutting edge.

Mr. Corder uses a copper tool to chip the obsidian to the desired shape. The Indians used a deer or elk horn, relying on pressure in the right place to accomplish the flaking. He flake the points that they made.

Many people still believe that the Indians first heated the stone and then dropped cold water on it to accomplish the flaking. This belief probably stems from the fact that certain arrowheads were tempered by fire to facilitate the chipping or flaking.

Mr. Corder also uses the Indian method but seems to prefer the more modern way. The uninitiated rarely thinks about size when considering stone arrowheads, but they come in a wide range of sizes. Bird points are very small, they could be covered by a dime, others are much larger. Indians also used the flaked stone method to fashion knives, scrapers and other objects.

Mr. Corder has recently become interested in working with wood. For the most part he utilizes woods which are available in this area. He has found that the familiar, scraggly cedar that grows in abundance on Idaho's hills hides a wood with an exceptionally different and distinctive grain under the stringy grey bark.

From this he has turned out a sizable collection of lamps, bowls, and other items.

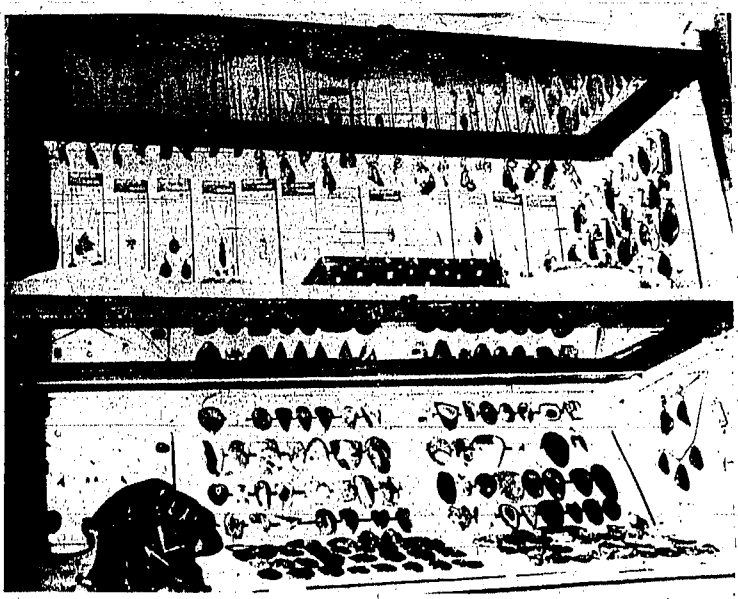

Mr. Corder arranges polished slabs of multicolored, distinctively patterned stone on a table top then encases the stones and the top with plastic for a smooth, durable surface. These tables are quite outstanding and lovely.

Much of the equipment necessary to pursue these hobbies, Mr. Corder constructs himself. He has just completed a faceting machine for cutting gem quality stones.

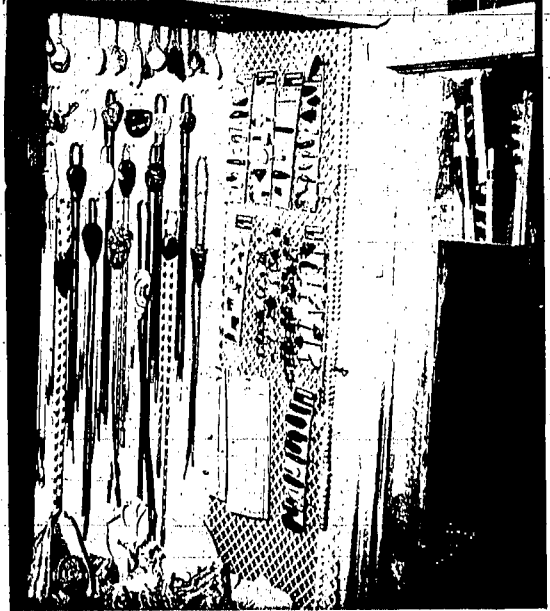

He, like many other people today, is finding creative expression from working with items ordinarily thought to be useless.

FLAKING AN ARROWHEAD takes Paul Corder, Kimberly, about four or five minutes. Mr. Corder's shop at the rear of his home houses a variety of hobbies connected with his love for the outdoors and associated activities. (Times-News photo)

MANY OF THE STONES decorating this jewelry were found by Paul Corder and were cut and polished in his workshop at his home in Kimberly. Along with other hobbies, Mr. Corder is a rockhound. (Times-News photo)

Big Corporations Join To Assure Success Of Boy Scout Jamboree

STATE FARRAGUT PARK—To assure the success of the Boy Scouts World Jamboree of 1967 at State Farragut Park, the first ever held in the United States, nearly a hundred big corporations with whom the Boy Scouts National Headquarters have regular contact are cooperating by giving both financial aid and special services.

When the big event takes place in the hot state of Idaho, a great deal of credit for the worldwide impact will go to such concerns as IBM, Coca-

Cola and many others having business in nations which send scouts to the Jamboree.

Specific financial aid to the boys themselves, however, is accepted only on the basis of having the boys earn all or most of the money for their expenses, usually working at bona fide jobs with the sponsoring companies.

As 10 special projects undertaken for the Jamboree by large corporations, none is more spectacular than that of Idaho's own Snake River Trout Ranch, operated by Robert Erikhs, Erikhs' company, owners of the world's two largest trout ranches, will plant 30,000 live rainbow rainbows in a riped off (cutted) lake area so that boys from around the world may have the thrill of catching a live Idaho trout. Moving pictures will also be made of the flaking exploits.

Pac-Pak Division of Excella Corporation is backing the production of a 27 minute color sound motion picture telling the whole story of the Idaho scout and the Jamboree activities, and will distribute the 35 mm prints world-wide through Paramount Pictures with worldwide promotion of the film through the United and related industries.

Another manufacturer in the food field has committed his company to supply their specialty in volume enough for every boy in the Jamboree all ten days of the camp. And there'll be pictures made of this one, too, there'll be home-town photographs, home-town stories and home-town film clips for TV airing.

Another corporation is sponsoring the writing and production of a well-done book telling the story of World Scouting and the different countries represented in the Scout's World Jamboree. Another book will be almost completely pictorial in color, telling the story of the Idaho Jamboree, pictures that will be long treasured in many states and lands.

Other companies are readying to supply 40 or more tapes for recorders which will handle interviews for home-town broadcasting and replaying, plus six motion picture cameras which produce films on short-length reels for use in telecasting. Satellite operation for world telecasting is planned, combining the use of both live presentations and video-taped showings.

Among dozens of other projects industry will either sponsor or donate are such items as 3,000 Jamboree emblems and 17,000 neckerchiefs, T.V. emblems and a neckerchief for each participant.

A colorful Western show and rodeo will require the entire camp of boys to be transported to neighboring Cedar Grove for a private performance.

Boating and canoeing equipment will be provided, along with 12,000 Jamboree adventure trails awards, 3,200 2 1/2 gallon plastic water jugs, 60 bill boxes, 100 compasses, 50 stop watches, public address systems for the Avenue of Flags and the small 12,000 seat arena, and cameras for all troop reporters.

RAPE

A Novel by Weldon Hill
"Raphael Layton was a spiritual dropout—physically attending school, but intellectually true."

"He hadn't missed a class all winter, but more and more his restless mind had defected. He worried a lot, because he had a little thing, distressingly actual things, possibly things and improbable things."

"And the only antidote for his uneasiness was daydreaming of ways to solve a problem and restore order to his world. But the frets and fancies led him away from scholarly drudgeries, and both were equally hazardous to his academic status."

"And that was just another damned thing to worry about. Lately, in fact, he'd even got so he could worry about worrying, because anxiety feeds on itself."

Weldon Hill has written a memorable novel of the boy named Rape and of his continuing and multigamous struggle with a world which fails to appreciate him and wishes to treat him as a child instead of the hero and hunter he knows himself to be.

The reader will sympathize with Rape in his endurance of his elder brother, Mitch, who makes disparaging remarks at his efforts.

"Mama," Rape thought as the cold swift water came up to envelop them. "I'm sorry—Mama. I don't know what to do now. Mitch should have stayed with us—he'd know what to do. He should have known. I'd go off it up."

"I'm such a dumb, stupid clumsy—Mitch was right about me." In this climactic episode, Rape with his spurs in a way he could never have anticipated and at the same time commits himself to the world he wants to run away from.

Rape's best friend is Pete Cornhusker, former army sergeant, full blooded Cherokee, incomparable woodsman and master of the finest white lightning in Oklahoma. Respectability almost makes Pete measure his length.

Rape will enjoy this story as they recall with humor and sympathy what it was like to be twelve and awkward. Some will be reminded of the Mark Twain tradition of Mark Twain's Rainy Day's "The Yearling," but will find it is a tale with a style of its own.

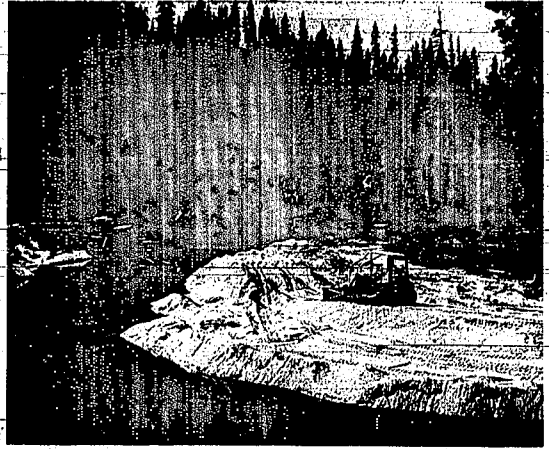

An interesting contrast to this is the young hero of John Weston's book, "Jolly." Jolly is a typical, uninhibited, active, inquisitive teenager of the 1950's. He faces up to the facts of life with a gusto that the adult reader will find, at times, rather daunting.

He is a tough-minded, adventurous, and in his way he is chivalrous. He tries always to protect his mother from the frightening facts of a boy's life. He is full with questions and desires and is alarmingly frank about both. He is today's youth with its charm and its aggravating qualities, and all its shocks to middle aged sensibilities.

Rape, Jolly, and Holden Caulfield of the memorable "Catcher in the Rye" are different personalities, but they are all facing problems that every boy growing up today faces.

Each, in his own way, is a very real boy. Each is the central figure of an unusually good novel, but this reviewer thinks you will enjoy "Rape" most of all.

PART OF SEDIMENTATION, nearly 20,000 yards or 2,286 truck loads, removed from Krassel Hole with a drag line operated on the South Fork of the Salmon River under a cooperative project by the Idaho Fish and Game Department and the U. S. Forest Service last summer. The restored hole will be observed to determine if it will catch sediment and prevent the moving of sand and silt on downstream to the spawning and rearing areas below it.

THIS LONG HOLE in the South Fork of the Salmon River about one-half mile below the Krassel Ranger Station, is filled with sand from erosion in the river drainage. The Idaho Fish and Game Department and the U. S. Forest Service last summer initiated a joint pilot project to restore the Krassel hole and determine if it would function as a settling pond to prevent downstream movement of sand in the river. # Pilot Projects Started To Improve Fish Spawning Beds In Idaho Streams

BY JIM HUMBIRD

Idaho Fish-Game Department Christmas 1966 in the Pacific Northwest, remembered as the year of the floods in the Columbia River drainage, including every major and many minor Idaho tributary rivers and streams.

Travelers trying to get home for the holidays all have vivid recollections of personal inconveniences and even hardships. Of the many thousands of people trying to board crowded airplanes, or risking ground travel by rail and road that were washed out in countless places, few gave a thought to what the havoc floods were doing to fish habitat. How were they to know that this was too much water, even for fish and aquatic plant life?

Most sportsmen in the Columbia River drainage, which includes the Snake, Clearwater and Salmon river systems, were quite aware two years ago that ocean-run chinook salmon and steelhead trout already were in bad trouble.

In fact, a steady decline in the run of summer chinook had resulted in the curbing of both sports and commercial fishing for them as a means of protecting the basic spawning stock.

There are many possible factors contributing to the downward trend in the summer chinook salmon numbers and one of these, according to James Simpson, chief of fisheries management for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, may be the deterioration of the spawning areas on the South Fork of the Salmon River. Too much sedimentation is one cause.

Sudden unreasonable chinook winds and quick snow-melts which are common in the area of the Idaho winter drainage, increased the amount of granitic sand washed downstream in the South Fork of the Salmon River, among others.

Too much sand laid down on spawning ground usually washes away and steelhead can stop hatching fry from emerging from the gravel, or even result in a complete loss of all fish eggs deposited in the area.

Tom Welsh, McCall, regional fisheries biologist, says that adult chinook salmon spawn in the South Fork of the Salmon River in August and September. The eggs are laid down deep in the gravel and are dependent until the emergence of the fry in April and May, upon the flowing of water through the gravel to supply oxygen and carry away waste products. He adds: "The sand and fine gravel particles moving as bedload, sediment over spawning areas reduces the free flow of water through the gravel. Also the filling of the gravel interspaces by the bedload sediment prevents the fry from emerging from the gravel."

Welsh explains that the best gravel for salmon spawning ranges from 3/4 to about 2 inches in diameter. When sand and fine gravel is as much as 30 per cent or more of the total composition on the stream bottom, the rate of fry emergence is sharply reduced.

He adds that too much sand deposited on the bottom works against the growth of food organisms and greatly reduces the supply of these food organisms, both plant and microscopic animals; are an indication of the ability of the river to support fish populations.

A poor emergence from the gravel in April-May, the fry remain in the nursery stream until reaching a size sufficient to start their migration to the ocean. Welsh points out: "This period of time, from emergence to oceanward migration, is approximately one year. Because of the length of time the juvenile fish reside in the stream, the quality of the fresh water environment is very important in maintaining good runs of salmon and steelhead."

The Simpson, chief of fisheries management for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, may be the deterioration of the spawning areas on the South Fork of the Salmon River. Too much sedimentation is one cause. Sudden unreasonable chinook winds and quick snow-melts which are common in the area of the Idaho winter drainage, increased the amount of granitic sand washed downstream in the South Fork of the Salmon River, among others.

Too much sand laid down on spawning ground usually washes away and steelhead can stop hatching fry from emerging from the gravel, or even result in a complete loss of all fish eggs deposited in the area.

The eggs are laid down deep in the gravel and are dependent until the emergence of the fry in April and May, upon the flowing of water through the gravel to supply oxygen and and production of juvenile seaward migrants.

A cooperative agreement was entered into by the Fish and Game Department and the U.S. Forest Service to conduct an experimental stream rehabilitation project.

Under the agreement, 1,000 feet of road along a sand bar at Krassel Hole about one-half mile below Krassel Ranger Station on the South Fork, using 170 yards of fill material, and moved nearly 20,000 yards of 2,286 truck loads of sedimentation from the river. A drag line was used to remove sediment.

The project was undertaken to determine if restoration of the Krassel Hole would allow the hole to function as a sand trap and prevent the movement of sand onto the spawning and rearing area below it.

Spawning success for both summer-run chinook salmon and steelhead trout and fish food organisms should be improved below the Krassel Hole, if further sand movement into this area can be stopped.

The cooperative work that was started this summer by the two agencies is viewed as a pilot stream rehabilitation project on the South Fork. The work was conducted on a small scale experimental basis. If results are satisfactory, it is hoped that the program can be extended to all of the South Fork damaged by heavy sediment loads.

It is a fact that three times as many spoils are needed to offset downstream losses at dams in order to get enough smolts to the ocean. It is hoped increased production of Idaho smolts can be achieved through the use of conventional techniques by fully using all natural rearing areas, and building a chain of rearing ponds within the backcountry drainages of the river systems involved, notably the Clearwater and the Salmon systems. Much of the work already is underway.

New System Gives Aides Little Work

By FRED COLEMAN
MOSCOW (AP) — The scene: an office of 20 Soviet bureaucrats in the Ukrainian city of Kharkov. The mood: bored silence. The problem: no work.

An official yawns. "It wouldn't be a bad idea to have a nap," he says. More silence. The supply expert sketches a yawn. The chief engineer draws a yawn. The assistant engineer draws little cubes. A section chief draws circles and cubes. They have to look busy.

A clacking typewriter from the director's office interrupts the silence. The director, comrade Nikitin, is filing another routine request for some work for his office to do.

Once this office, the local department of light industry supply, handled a yearly volume of business totaling 300 million rubles. It lost 90 million rubles of this business to another department in a recent bureaucratic reorganization.

The office still has the same staff at the same pay, but virtually no work. Repeated requests for more work have been turned down.

The paper Evening Moscow recounted the scene Friday. It suggested the problem is far wider than the confines of one Kharkov office.

For example: Nikitin got on the phone to comparable departments in other Ukrainian cities — Lvov, Donetsk, Kiev — same story. In Odessa the staff was spending its time at the beach.

All such offices had plenty of work under the system of regional economic councils set up by Nikita S. Khrushchev. Local offices served all industries in the region.

After Khrushchev's ouster in October 1964, regional councils were eliminated. Planning went back to an industry-by-industry basis on a nationwide scale.

Apparently many of the offices under the discarded regional system stayed in business with little to do. The paper said the leaders of the main offices of the department in Kiev and in Moscow knew all about the situation but did nothing.

"So the departments still exist doing nothing," the paper said.

EPIDEMIC REPORTED

MOSCOW (AP) — A flu epidemic has hit Moscow and other Soviet cities, Soviet papers reported today.

Spotlight Given Viet Cong Terror Tactics In Vietnam

By BOB GASAWAY
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Americans call it terror. The Viet Cong call it war. Regardless of the name, it means death.

Some of the victims are American servicemen, others are civilians. Others are Vietnamese government officials or employees. Many are rice farmers, housewives, children or other civilians.

National police statistics show that the Viet Cong during the last three years have assassinated roughly 2,100 civilians because they were connected with the government or were too close to the terrorist targets. The assassinations show a steady increase — from 429 in 1964 to 606 in 1965 to an estimated 1,000 last year.

Exact figures for 1966 are not available. The reporting system was changed and statistics were not tabulated from July 1 into October. National police records show that from Jan. 1 through June, U.S. sources say the number of incidents increased with the Sept. 11 national elections. From Oct. 8 to Dec. 31, when statistics again were tabulated, 521 civilians were reported slain by guerrillas.

The deaths are distinct from civilian fatalities caused by conventional warfare — air raids, napalm drops, etc. No statistics are kept on these, but the best available information from U.S. and Vietnamese sources points to an average overall death toll of 1,000 among South Vietnamese every month, due to action by both sides in the war.

The Communist program is to "fight the enemy, wear him down, annihilate him" by executing "drop threats into the enemy's rear." They consider this to include such targets as government billets in Saigon.

There is no official comment, but one American source in Saigon, when asked to compare Viet Cong attacks in the south with North Vietnamese claims that American bombs have killed civilians in Hanoi, said: "There is no possible comparison."

"We use the most sophisticated electronic measures known to keep from killing civilians with our bombs. Our rear cross-check and double-check everything an airplane does up north. Here in the south, Charlie — the Viet Cong — is out to get any and all he can without regard to political affiliation, nationality or anything else. The point is to prove to the people that Charlie can call his shots without any regard to the thousands of government soldiers."

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

First letter this week comes from Mrs. J. M. Hagerman, and reads: "Could you tell me anything about a Canada one cent piece?"

In question would bring you between $1.00 and $2.00—perhaps more. It is actually uncirculated. The coin has a mintage in excess of four million, so it is not particularly scarce, except in uncirculated condition.

Economy Rate Slows, War Costs Blamed

Economic expansion is expected to continue through 1967. However, the rate of growth for the U. S. economy is expected to be slower during this winter and spring than it was in the winter and spring of 1965-66.

Next question comes from Mrs. L. R. J. Buhl, and asks: "Is it true that the United States Mint will discontinue striking 50 cent pieces?"

Whether the United States Mint will quit striking the 50 cent piece is still debatable. I would guess that they will probably discontinue issuance in a year or so. Since it has become apparent that we get along without it, many senators and Mint employees believe it is an obsolete coin. Time will tell, on this question.

Question from Mr. H. A. H. Burley: "I have a small coin, denomination 20 cents, from Newfoundland. It is dated 1912. Does this coin have much value over face?"

Answer: The coin of Newfoundland are generally grouped with Canadian coins. Your coin from Bliss, Idaho. If you know the number of any, please contact us.

350,000. While not particularly valuable in the poor grades, it is quoted as high as $400 in uncirculated condition. Since I do not describe the condition, I have no way of judging the value. In worn condition, it brings about 50 cents.

A young reader writes to ask us if we can tell her the cost of a paper dollar.

Former Resident Discusses Russian Preventive Psychiatry During Visit

As much as the Americans dislike to admit it, the Russians are making progress in areas where we are still floundering trying to find the way. Dr. Robert Ellsworth, Roseburg, Ore., research psychologist, calls Russia "distinctly ahead" of the United States in the field of preventive psychiatry.

However, Dr. Ellsworth goes on to say that "Everybody is doing research and I think we (the Americans) stand to come out ahead. The Russians are putting their eggs in one basket, we are working in several directions."

Dr. Ellsworth and his wife, Joan, who is head nurse of the psychiatric ward at the Veterans Hospital in Roseburg, attended an International Congress of Psychology convention recently in Moscow about 600 Americans attended the eight-day meeting which drew a total of 4,000 persons.

Dr. Ellsworth points out that the Russians have achieved a far lower suicide rate and better work rehabilitation rates than we have, but that the Russian approach is almost "totally bio-chemical" as opposed to the American concept of the adverse effects of emotional stress and strain.

The Russians have about the same amount of mental illness as we have here in this country, but there is no stigma attached to it, it is considered a disease that requires treatment.

Much of their work is done in the field of preventive psychiatry through industrial psychiatrists, police who are trained in psychiatry and children's psychiatrists who make weekly visits to the schools.

In Moscow itself there are 16 psychiatric centers, similar to the ones which have been proposed for Idaho. Through a program of preventive care, the Russians claim a 98 per cent return-to-work rate among their patients.

Statistics in this country seem to indicate that with a preventive program and available facilities 50 per cent of the hospital beds could be vacated by patients who do not actually need hospitalization. With earlier help many patients may never progress to the point where they require hospitalization.

Mental illness is an expression of crises, a retreat from the problems of life. With facilities available for the disturbed person, a retreat from the problems of life. With facilities available for the disturbed person, a retreat from the problems of life.

In any event, local patient centers are by far the best solution. According to Mrs. Ellsworth it is extremely difficult to treat a patient in the hospital atmosphere; they return to his home environment to face the same problems responsible for the illness.

Local centers provide the ideal situation in most cases. The patient can be treated on an outpatient basis and remain in his environment. The patient's family also benefits from counseling with a better understanding of the factors that have precipitated this crisis.

Mental health centers are not a new concept in America. Most of Idaho's neighboring states have some type of program that operates primarily on an outpatient basis.

Dr. Ellsworth, who is a former Twin Falls resident, stated that he would find it most frustrating to live and work in Russia. Although standards of living have gone up, but they are still much below the American standard of living.

Mrs. Ellsworth says that clothes are about 30 years behind our fashions, nylon are practically nonexistent. Although cosmetics are rare and in limited supply women are women, even in Russia, they still want them.

Education is important, so much so that cash grants are used to stimulate a desire for learning. No e. r. l. y. everyone works, and no distinction is made as to sexes. "It is not rare to see a husband and wife laying bricks side-by-side under this Russian system of work equality," Mrs. Ellsworth said.

Most of the doctors in Russia are women, about 80 per cent. Apparently this is preferable to digging ditches.

Dr. Ellsworth says that some of the Russians are quite outspoken in their criticism of the government apparently without fear of reprisal. Contrary to what the Ellsworths expected, they were not hampered in their activities, picture-taking, or conversation.

Although they saw anti-Vietnam posters in the streets, the people were not hostile and were seemingly too polite to discuss this question.

The Russian people seemed to be very much interested in the American way of life.

Dr. and Mrs. Ellsworth were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. Y. Ellsworth, during the Christmas holidays.

Argentina's Government, Labor Circle Ready To Spar

By KENNETH L. DAVIS
BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Argentina's government and organized labor circle each other like a pair of gamecocks looking for an opening.

Most recently the pit was the port of Buenos Aires, where for 63 days stevedores struck, then gave up when strikebreakers actually improved the turnaround time in a port notorious for its sloth and costliness.

Next time it may be the state-owned railroads, the rat-hole down which Argentina each year pours sand to the tune of a $35-million loss.

It's government versus labor in large part because of the breadth of state monopolies. Of the 23 largest Argentine unions with an estimated membership of 1,791,000, about 750,000 work for state enterprises.

The military government seeks to reorganize the enterprises for less loss and more efficiency. There may be fewer jobs when everything is settled.

While these explosive pressures build, the government of President Juan Carlos Onganía walks a bit softly. It has a natural desire to keep all sectors pacified.

Organized labor tends and strikes and back off and throws paving stones at one another. For once it's not warring the fight for Juan D. Peron, the exiled dictator. It's fighting for its place in the scheme of social things in Argentina.

One faction, including Eduardo Duhalde of the stevedores, wants to get there by all-out strikes, boycotts and warfare. Another, headed by Augusto Vandor, boss of a bloc of more than a million workers, apparently is trying cautiously to work out an understanding with the military government.

At the moment organized labor is neither able to go along with the government nor able to cast the dice for a win or lose verdict.

It is widely said the government itself is split along much the same lines. One faction would deal harshly, backed by the strikebreaking might of the Argentine army. Another would straddle the fights in an effort to avoid clashes, which might bring enemies lasting for years.

The port strike and its failure and violent aftermath were a preliminary to the main bout. The state-owned railroads are billed as the big one.

That puts the unions in a delicate situation.

Organized labor cannot in honesty fight reorganization of state railroads. Nor can it, in the face of the 100,215,000 railroad union members, kiss it off.

Vandor and his colleagues know the army can break any rail strike. Inevitably, the government also would put a federal contingent in charge of the (General Workers Confederation, main body of union labor. This process, known here as intervention, is to be avoided if at all possible.

So everyone involved is busy sharpening spurs and taking deep-breathing exercises for the big struggle that is to come.

Much of the present expansion is a result of the increases in defense spending associated with increased activities in Vietnam. If these activities are stabilized, inflationary pressure on the economy may be reduced. Some reduction in the rate of expansion occurred in 1966.

The Gross National Product increased $1.5 billion in the second quarter and $13.5 billion in the third quarter of 1966 compared with $17.9 billion in the fourth quarter of 1965 and $16.8 billion in the first quarter of 1966.

The GNP of the U. S. for 1966 is expected to be $740 billion, approximately $60 billion higher than in 1965.

Approximately one-third of the increase has been from higher prices. The actual physical increase in volume of output was about 5.6 per cent.

These figures released by the Agricultural Extension Service of the University of Idaho, also stated that unemployment dropped from 4.8 per cent of the U. S. labor force in 1965 to less than four per cent in 1966.

U. S. Department of Commerce economists have estimated a four and one-half per cent increase in real output in 1967 would hold the unemployment rate of 1967 near the 1966 levels and slightly below four per cent.

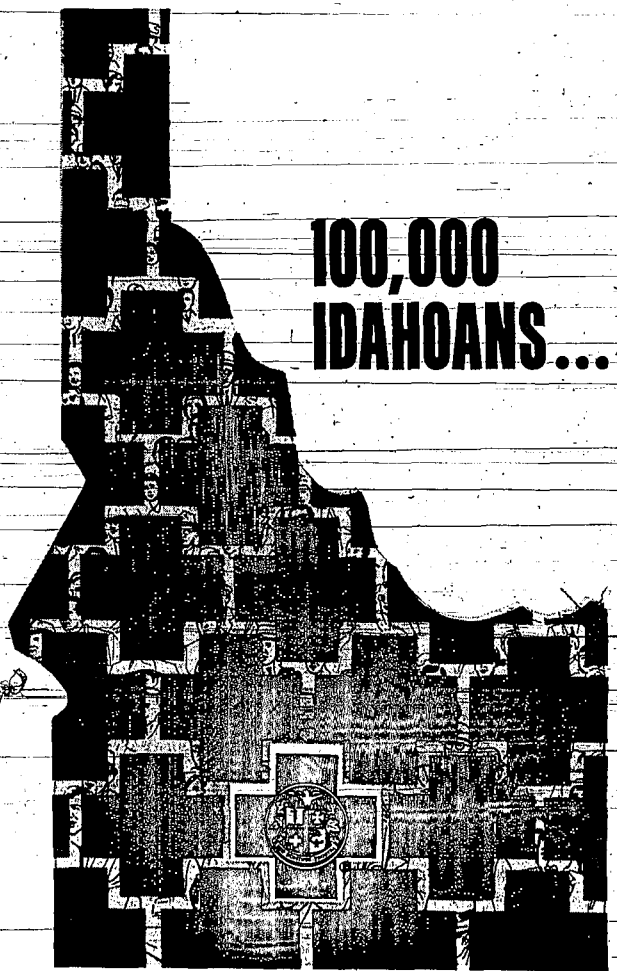

The problems associated with the high levels of defense spending are causing substantial problems for many areas of the private sector of the economy.

High interest rates, limited funds for loans, labor shortages and rising costs are affecting many firms and industries.

Apparently the economy is operating close enough to capacity that increases in activity in the public sector, whether it be increased activities in Vietnam or economic and social reform at home, require some reduction in the rate of activities in the private sector.

If defense spending continues to increase in 1967 at a similar rate of increase as occurred in 1966, it will probably require further reductions in activities in some of the private sectors of the economy.

Many government and university economists have suggested that this should be done by an across the board tax increase. Several business associated economists have indicated that they fear pressure on the private sector of the economy is already sufficient and that any tax increase at this time would result in too fast a curtailment in activities by private firms.

100,000 IDAHOANS...

100,000 IDAHOANS have selected Blue Cross as their program of protection against the unexpected costs of hospital care. This significant figure — one-seventh of the entire State's population — is impressive proof of the performance of the Blue Cross Plan since it was first organized in Idaho 22 years ago.

THIS PERFORMANCE HAS EARNED THE TRUST of major Idaho organizations — firms which select a health-care program after careful analysis of the benefits the patient receives related to the rates that must be paid. The United States Government selected Blue Cross to act as intermediary for the vast Medicare program, to provide the hospital coverage for dependents of military personnel in Idaho and, in addition, Blue Cross is the sole carrier for the newly inaugurated VISTA (Volunteers In Service To America). Nationally, the majority of employees of the U. S. Government who individually select their own health-care program have chosen Blue Cross.

IF YOU ARE NOT COUNTED among these 100,000 Idahoans, it will pay you to take a good look at your own health-care coverage and to talk to a Blue Cross representative. Blue Cross has set a high standard for health-care coverage in Idaho, and for your own protection, nothing less than that coverage will do.

The Green Thumb

GEORGE ABRAHAM

READERS: Please use our complete zip code address, which is George Abraham, The Green Thumb, Naples, New York.

SUNFLOWER NOTES: Recently we mentioned a few figures to show the largest sunflower. The largest sunflower reported to us is a real whopper: 20 feet high and the flower measured 2 1/2 feet wide. I've been told that another sunflower fancier in the state of California beat our reader's record by a scant 1/4 of an inch.

CHRISTMAS PLANTS: If you happen to get a Christmas tree here are some tips for greater mileage: Give it ample water and a bright window. Flower drop is natural, due to maturity or poor light or dryness. Sometimes a high temperature will cause the same.

While coating on leaves, if mildew. Prevent it by keeping water off foliage and giving plant ample air circulation. After plant stops flowering, cut it back and store in cellar, giving just enough water to keep it from wilting. In the winter, rolls around, set-it-outdoors for the summer.

Cyclamen Care: Prefers a sunny window and uniform supply of water at all times. A large plant in a cool room (50 degrees) for longer life. Leaves turn yellow and buds blast if temperature is too high. When flowers drop, it's due to dry soil. Dry 1/4 shirt-sleeve weather plant good by placing in a pan of water for one-half hour.

After flowers start to fade and wilt, cut back and store in a cool room and forefinger and yank each stem out. After flowering, keep oil dry 1/4 shirt-sleeve weather in the cellar for the summer. In late summer it is reported or the top 2 inches of soil is scrapped off and replaced with a fresh mixture. In fall, start watering the plant and keep it in a warm room (72 degrees).

JERUSALEM CHERRY: This and the Christmas pepper both like plenty of water and a bright window. Orange berries drop naturally because the plant tends to overload itself. After berry season is over, continue to grow the plant on until May, when you can set it outdoors. I'll be scraggly so shear it back before setting it outdoors. Save seeds from orange fruits and plant in March. You can also save seed from the Christmas pepper.

AZALEA: Keep soil uniformly moist and grow in a bright window. At night place plant in upside down, and which produces heavy crops of fruit, regardless of the temperature during pollination time.

I'm keeping my eye open for a new All-America biennial digitaria (foxglove), known as Flory. It comes in the biennial foxglove kinds and sends up its large spikes of tubular flowers in about five months after starting the seeds.

I planted seeds of a new bush-type sweet pea known as Kneehi San Francisco. Flowers are cream pink and needs no staking or other support. I'll tell you how I like it next summer.

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: C.D. of Twin Falls: "I just made out a seed order for '87. Before I saw the seed I want to make sure I do the right thing. How can I get more seeds to germinate? I'm lucky if I get a third of them to flower."

Getting seed to sprout and germinate is quite a trick, even with florists. It's not the fault of seed because they go all out to give you the best seed possible. They'd go broke if they sold poor seed.

Even nature, which usually sets a good example, has trouble getting seeds to germinate. It's safe to say that of all seeds, which are matured and distributed by air and other means, probably less than 1 in 1000 ever actually germinate for Mother Nature.

The big trouble with home gardeners is that they do not use a loose soil mixture. Sand, peat and perlite or vermiculite in equal parts makes an ideal starting mixture. Bake the mixture in an oven at 180 degrees for one-half hour.

Wrong temperature means frost or heat. Most seeds like bottom heat (72 to 80 degrees) for a quick start. After germination, move them out into light and air. If you don't see them, they're probably never let seeds dry out during germination. One drying can be fatal.

Do not plant seeds too deep! Fine seeds should NOT BE covered. Just scatter on surface. Large seed can be covered lightly. Small seed - can be pressed in lightly with a tomato juice can, but never covered. We'll have more on starting seeds later.

B.G. of Malta: "This fall we had a condition on our lawn where the grass was dying. I had a fertilizer put on the lawn and it didn't help. The grass died in clumps and kept picking something out of the ground, loosening soil and digging up the grass. The whole lawn was a mess."

I think your lawn has a bad case of the grubs. Don't blame the damage on birds, but on the grubs. The damage was done before the birds got there. Soil will lift like a carpet when grubs have been active in the root zone.

Grub-proof your lawn with chlordane or dieldrin, as either will last up to 10 years. It'll

"BURNING UP THE ROAD" between Twin Falls and Sun Valley during the holiday paid off for Mike Wendling, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wendling, when he received $14 for some 20 minutes guitar playing. Encouraged by a wealthy guest at the resort to return the next night to play, Wendling drove back to Twin Falls for his guitar and his efforts finally paid off. He also hitchhiked back to Ketchum later in the week to work with a folk singer from Los Angeles. Before the week ended, he had met such notables as Art Linkletter and Andy Williams and played at a party attended by the Kennedy family. (Dudley photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

How many miles must a singer travel between TWIN FALLS and SUN VALLEY to become a star? Only time can tell if his Christmas week adventures will pay off, but Mike Wendling, a Twin Falls High School senior, made what seemed to him "about 6,000 trips" up to KETCHUM and back, all in the interest of making what may prove to be the "right contacts."

As any performing artist knows, no sacrifice or inconvenience is too great if it enables him to sing or play before the "right" person or to be seen in the "right" place.

Not only did he make four trips within as many days, but so anxious was he to keep an appointment with Bob Leo, a folk singer from Los Angeles visiting at the resort, that he hitch-hiked back to Ketchum when arrangements for family transportation failed.

Whether or not young Wendling keeps on with his guitar playing, which he hopes to do after graduation, all his plans for getting into the Navy's special services materialize, he can always tell his grandchild-take a few months for the insecticide to work down into the soil sufficiently to kill the grubs, making the cure slow. No need to add weedicides, lime, although you could seed and feed in the spring.

The birds were responsible for scratching in the soil and scattering the sod or grass. They're good - picking it - because your sod has a bad case of grubs.

Boy Leaves Red Section To See Star

HAMBURG, Germany — This year's old Norbert Muller offered officials a surprising explanation after fleeing through deadly mine fields in the Red half of Germany and arriving safely in the West.

Norbert said it was because he worshipped the Federal Republic's soccer star, Uwe Seeler, and wanted to see Seeler play. "The boy got his wish, not only was he taken to a game in which Seeler played, but had a long chat with the star after the game. After that Norbert was given to his uncle, who lives in the Federal Republic. For the time being, it will be his new home."

This was Norbert's second flight across the border. The first time he made it, he was returned to the Soviet Zone where his parents live. The parents said they wanted Norbert back.

But this time they agreed to let the boy remain in the Federal Republic with his uncle.

Go-Go Girls Suffer From Eyestrain

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — What do go-go girls face in the way of occupational hazards? The answer — at least in certain parts of New Jersey last summer — was eyestrain, according to the State Health Department.

In its annual report, the state agency said Wednesday it had come to the aid of a number of go-go ladies in distress who complained of being troubled by eyestrain at night clubs in Atlantic City, Camden and Cape May.

Investigation showed that certain night spots were using ultraviolet lights to produce glowing effects on costumes and parts of the body, the department said, adding that too much of this kind of light can be harmful.

Complaints fell off after the department's environmental health bureau showed the night clubs how to redirect lighting, the department said.

ONLY WIDDING WAS BRONG

One of the first of the really great partnerships was that of Widding and Willard. It was just the method of bid-keep. This partnership left a ding in that shows experts intend to be desired in bidding methods but when the dummy hit the table either Hal or Willard would proceed to make up for any bid bidding by superlative play.

Hal liked to overbid a no-trump. Willard liked to hold back with a big hand until ready to jump to a final contract. This style explains Willard's pass with the South hand, his mere, one heart response and his jump to six.

The final contract was opposite but not unreasonable. It was just the method of bid-keep. This partnership left a ding in that shows experts intend to be desired in bidding methods but when the dummy hit the table either Hal or Willard would proceed to make up for any bid bidding by superlative play.

East won the opening spade lead with the ace and returned the suit. Willard was on lead with the king. He stopped to plan his play. Then he finessed dummy's jack of diamonds, cashed dummy's ace of trumps, ruffed dummy's four of clubs and ran off all his trumps.

With one trump left dummy was down to ace-queen of diamonds and the king of clubs; West was hiding king-ten-nine of diamonds and the ace of clubs. The last trump lead squeezed West out of the diamond nine. Willard discarded the king of clubs from dummy and made the last three tricks with the diamonds.

Marine Gets His Wish—Wood Shoes

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A Kalamazoo Marine sergeant who wanted a pair of wooden shoes, wanted a pair of wooden shoes. He had asked for them for months...

He said he learned of Dutch-United States troops in Europe where he had seen farmers wearing them in the fields. "Over here in Dong Ha, I don't see any wooden shoes. You can't buy them here either."

Others, who had no wooden shoes, gave words of encouragement to Mrs. Ryan. "We are proud of you," Mrs. Ryan said. "All these wonderful people wanted in return," said Mrs. Ryan.

Sugar Beet Restrictions Are Lifted

WASHINGTON (AP) — To assure larger, longer supplies, the government Friday lifted acreage restrictions on sugar beets. The department said a larger crop of beets is needed this year to enable the beet sugar industry to supply its unlimited share of the U.S. market.
