TEN CENTS

FIVE HAPPY AND PROUD men paused Friday night to congratulate each other after they received the thanks and appreciation of the Twin Falls Jaycees and the people of Twin Falls. From left, displaying their Distinguished Service Awards, are Ron Ballard, young farmer; William (Bill) Grange, senior award; Larry Christopherson, young educator; Robert Alexander, junior award, and George Anderson, boss award. 5 Local Men Receive Jaycee Distinguished Service Awards

A standing ovation is one way of paying tribute to a person. A Distinguished Service Award is the Twin Falls Jaycees' way. Friday night a relative "newcomer" to Twin Falls received both during the annual Jaycee DSA Banquet at the Holiday Inn. William (Bill) Grange, has been in Twin Falls less than 15 years. But, Mr. Grange is a man, said Jim Love, who presented the award, about whom it "has been said there is not one community advancement he hasn't been deeply involved in. The feeling for Mr. Grange was illustrated pointedly as the entire attendance at the banquet rose as he was stepping forward to receive his award from Mr. Love.

Earlier in the evening Mr. Grange received an expected rousing applause, when he was honored by the community service. The second was entirely unexpected, for Mr. Grange, like most community leaders, expects no recognition of his accomplishments.

Some of the community service projects Mr. Grange has been deeply involved in include, the establishment of a junior college district, the Civic Auditorium Association, the water and sewage bond, the proposed establishment of a Harbor House for Twin Falls, and many clubs, political and educational endeavors.

He served as manager of the Chamber of Commerce for seven years, and in 1964, received the Distinguished Service Award from that group.

Winner of the Junior Distinguished Service Award was Robert Alexander, a partner in the law firm of Benoit, Benoit and Alexander.

Hunt For Boise Skier Continues
BOISE (AP) — A second set of tracks presumed to belong to a lost Boise skier were found Saturday evening and rescue workers continued their search through the night.

The tracks led north from the Dugan Basin ski area 18 miles northwest of Boise where searchers have been combing the mountains for John Cochran, 16, of Boise. He has been missing since Friday afternoon.

Earlier, searchers followed another set of tracks for three miles before they were obliterated by the falling snow and wind which hampered rescue operations Saturday, O'Neil said.

Guns Top Butter In Proposed Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — The biggest-ever, $135-billion, guns-and-butter budget that President Johnson will send Congress on Tuesday will buy considerably more guns than butter. There will be no cutback from present budget spending on Johnson's "Great Society" programs of welfare, education and housing, administration officials said. But neither will there be any more dramatic advances. A domestic downshift was decreed by the White House. It was forced on the administration by the surge of military costs to an anticipated $73 billion.

This military cost alone will almost equal the whole federal budget for the 1967 year of $135 billion, minus the $62 billion for interest on the national debt.

By apportioning an additional $4.7 billion into the U.S. Treasury from individual and corporate incomes, the tax plan makes it possible for Johnson to forecast an $8.1-billion deficit in fiscal 1968, starting July 1, instead of a $12.5-billion gap.

Republicans have promised they'll try to avert the tax boost by "cutting domestic spending" instead, Johnson has tried to trim off the fat in advance.

His message is expected to repeat a major theme of the State of the Union address Jan. 10: this is a year to digest and consolidate, not to introduce costly new proposals.

Power Outage Reported In Three Areas

Power outages due to a high wind storm and icing were reported early Saturday morning in Hagerman, Carey and Bellevue, according to J. L. Johnston, electrical superintendent of Idaho Power Co., Twin Falls.

Approximately 300 customers in the Hagerman area were without power for one hour and eight minutes between 7:45 a.m. Saturday, Mr. Johnston reported that a high wind storm and ice had damaged power lines in the Carey and Bellevue areas, scattered outages was due to winds and ice loading. Carey customers were without power for approximately 20 minutes.

Sen. Barker Sees Sentiment Backing Later Primary Vote

BOISE (AP) — Strong support for revamping Idaho election laws was reported Saturday but one state senator predicted the 1967 Legislature will come up with at least one change. Sen. John M. Barker, R-Buhl, chairman of the Senate Elections Committee, said there appears to be considerable sentiment in favor of moving the primary elections to a later date. But he said there is a noticeable lack of unanimity for any one of a number of other proposed changes. Barker said he believes that unless complicating factors prevent, the present legislature is likely to shift the date of the primary. At present it is on the first Tuesday in August, Barker said most sentiment appears to favor the summer date.

The purpose would be to reduce the length of the general election campaign. However, unless the state delegate assemblies, now held the second weekend in June, also are shifted, moving the primary to September would lengthen the campaign for candidates seeking nominations.

Barker said sentiment expressed so far indicates a majority of the legislators want to keep some form of pre-primary convention.

The legislature held the first Saturday session of the year, with the House and Senate each passing one minor bill.

A bill proposing reorganization of the state's judicial districts was introduced in the House. It is part of the reform plan proposed by a Legislative Council committee but it does not affect courts below the level of district courts.

The committee suggested, too, that the lower courts be made a part of the district courts.

If true, these changes would mean that there are at least three judges each and four would have three judges each.

The plan would provide more flexibility than the present system, in which a number of districts have only one judge.

The Senate put on its third reading Monday a proposed constitutional amendment providing for annual sessions of the legislature.

The proposal already has See BARKER, Page 2, Col. 8

Ann Sheridan Dies At Home Of Cancer

HOLLYWOOD, Calif. (AP) — Actress Ann Sheridan, once billed as "the Oomph Girl," died Saturday of cancer in her San Fernando Valley home, friends reported.

Miss Sheridan, who would have been 52 on Feb. 21, had recently returned to the limelight as star of the television series, "Hawaii Five-O."

Her sister submitted Miss Sheridan's photograph in a "search-for-beauty" contest conducted by Paramount Studios, and the Texas girl won a contract in 1933.

She became one of Warner Bros.' most versatile leading ladies, appearing opposite such stars as Humphrey Bogart, James Cagney, Errol Flynn, Cary Grant, Gary Cooper and George Raft.

Dismissal Of College Head Is Protested

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — "This is a disaster," said a Berkeley student Saturday in protesting the dismissal of the head of the nine-campus University of California.

Other commenters indicated an ominous feeling that the 87,000 student university would be damaged by the surprise action Friday by the board of regents.

But for the most part, the big Student Union building at Sather Gate was filled with its customary crowd of students quietly hitting the books.

There was no sign that any concerned student action, either in celebration of Kerr's dismissal or protest of it, was being organized.

Chinese Radio Reports Turmoil

HONG KONG (AP) — Provincial radio broadcasts and Chinese travelers told Saturday of bloody clashes in southeast Red China and indicated the entire quarter of the country is embroiled in ferment against Mao Tse-tung.

Some accounts said Mao's picture was being torn down and defaced with obscenities. Japanese correspondents reported from Peking, however, that Mao's drive-to-bring-down-President-Eli-Shao-chi-in-the-power-struggle still was rolling along. The accounts pieced together in Hong Kong indicated the southeast disorders also were aimed at Mao's closest comrade, Defense Minister Lin Biao.

Lin, himself, was quoted earlier in a Japanese dispatch from Peking as saying "the entire country is now in a state of civil war."

Other Japanese accounts from the Chinese capital said high-ranking navy and air force officers were being denounced as plotters. It was believed to be the first time Mao's purge has reached high-ranking air force and naval officers.

The accounts in Hong Kong, which could not be confirmed, said: "Opposition to Mao and Lin has spread to rural areas. Bloody street battles between workers and Mao's Red Guards. Ferment against Mao and Lin was reported in the Peking suburbs of Chongking, Peking and Kwangtung, and their inland neighbors of Kiangsi and eastern Kwangsi."

Provincial officials have formed "new Red Guard units" to oppose Mao. They also report an army of Mao's Red Guards and some troops in the Nanchang and Canton areas are actively supporting pro-Liu forces.

Provincial stations still in the hands of Maoists warn of growing "white terrorism" by "reactionary and revisionist enemies" of Mao and imply provincial party officials are supporting the "terrorism."

Reports of support for Liu by provincial officials did not surprise most China experts in Hong Kong — Liu appointed most of the southern provincial leaders in the years before Mao and Lin ganged up on him.

Kind Of Useless, But It's Economical

"We wrote the State Department of Health but not even an answer came."

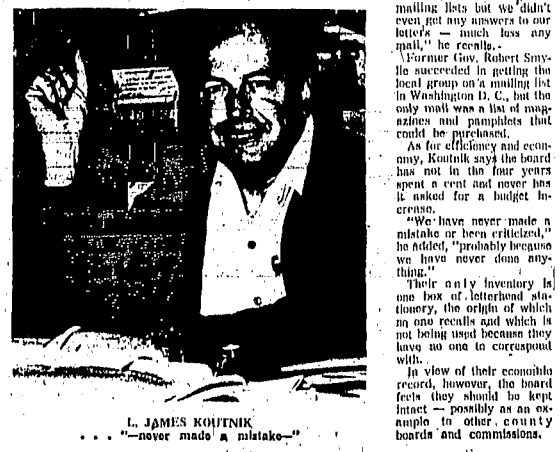

"We went back to the commissioners and found out only that all counties have boards of health."

"Next, we tried to get on mailing lists but we didn't even get any answers to our letters — much less any mail, for that matter."

Former Gov. Robert Smylie succeeded in getting the local group on a mailing list in Washington D. C., but the only mail was a list of magazines and pamphlets that could be purchased.

As for efficiency and economy, Koutnik said the board has not in the four years spent a cent and never has it asked for a budget increase.

BY HONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer
1. James Koutnik is worried.
For the past four years he has been chairman of the Twin Falls County Health Board. This year the county commissioners have given no indication they intend to reappoint the board of health members.
Should this reappointment fail to materialize, Koutnik says, it would mean the demise of what is unquestionably the most economical and efficient board the county ever had.
The Board of Health sounds like a pretty respectable unit, reasoned the members when appointed for the first time in 1962. Serving with Koutnik are Dr. Willard Clark and Owen Boone.
In their first meeting the question came up as to the function and purpose of a county board of health. Numerous inquiries followed, but no answers.
"We contacted the South Central Idaho Health Unit but they had no time for us and didn't need our assistance."

Law Officers Attend School In Jerome

Sunday, Jan. 22, 1967
Twin Falls Times-News

PARTICIPATING IN the law enforcement school held in Jerome for officers from throughout Magic Valley last week were Mrs. Ethel M. Darnall and Capt. Elva Hall, center, both Jerome police department, and John L. Dawson, special agent, FBI. Classes will be resumed Wednesday through Friday. Representatives of the Idaho State Police, sheriff's office, and local police attended. FBI agents conducted the classes. (Davis photo)

JEROME — Twenty-six law enforcement officers from Magic Valley attended an FBI school in fingerprint identification and classification at the Jerome Armory last week.

Additional sessions are planned Wednesday through Friday. Representing state police, local police and sheriff's departments from Ketchum, Fairfield, Rupert, Burley, Buhl, Twin Falls and Jerome, with one representative from Boise, the officers are taking their training under the direction of Special Agent John L. Dawson of the FBI.

One somewhat unusual element in the session is the presence of five women officers. Women have served in police work in this area for the past 12 to 15 years, according to Jerome Police Chief Clarence Yingst.

Yingst noted that in addition to handling telephone and radio communications, women officers are largely responsible for classifying and filing fingerprints maintained by local departments.

Eggs, smaller communities have surprisingly large files. Jerome, for example, has approximately 7,000 sets of prints in its file. And, as Yingst further noted, since the women have to transmit information concerning prints in their files to any law-enforcement agency, it is vital that their training and standards be upgraded as much as possible.

DONALD A. WIKE... has been named camping director with the executive staff of the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America. Recently of Pendleton, Ore., he was a field executive and district executive in Tacoma for three years and served as district executive to the Blue Mountain Council, Pendleton, for the past five years. Concrete Producers Are Ready For State Convention In T.F.

Dr. Lloyd Watkins, executive vice president, Idaho State University, will be the featured speaker at the Saturday night banquet of the Idaho Concrete and Aggregate Producers Association's fifth annual convention to be held Friday and Saturday at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls.

Dr. Watkins, who has taught speech and English at the Universities of Wisconsin and Ohio and came to Idaho State in 1966, will speak on the "Construction Prospects in Higher Education in Idaho." Banquet toastmaster will be Ed Wegerts, sales manager for the Oregon Portland Cement Co.

Over 100 producers from throughout Idaho and northern Nevada are expected to attend.

Speaking at the two-day conclave will be Robert B. Myers, sales manager for Kaiser Cement Corp., Oakland, Calif., presenting "Spreadsheets in Concrete Technology — An End Seen to Drying Shrinkage Cracks in Concrete." Mr. Myers will tell about ChemComp, an expansive cement designed to compensate for the normal drying shrinkage cracks common to ordinary portland cement concrete.

Other speakers and their topics are J. Kelly Moffitt, chief engineer of Uteite Corp., Salt Lake City, Utah, "The How and Why of Lightweight Concrete;" Melder H. Wilkins, state engineer, Soil Conservation Program, Boise, "Concrete and the Soil Conservation Program;" Charles H. Keight, regional manager, PCA, San Francisco, Calif., "Joint Ventures — Key to Success in Market Development;" John Coleman, Twin Falls attorney, "Mortgages and Liens;" and Chris Pickett, PCA, Salt Lake City, Utah, "Structural Concrete."

Lloyd Walker, Twin Falls attorney, will be guest speaker at the Friday noon luncheon discussing "Idaho Water." A panel discussion, "Responsibility of the Ready Mix Industry," will be conducted by George Grey, Boise, moderator, with panelists, Harold Gerber, Twin Falls architect; Ronald Schenfeld, Twin Falls city engineer; and Keith C. Anderson, materials engineer, State Highway Department.

One of the highlights of the convention will be a concrete finishing demonstration to be held Friday afternoon at the Idaho Cement Co. plant on South Park Avenue.

Local contractors and finishers have been invited to the demonstration which will be conducted by Robert Cook, regional construction specialist for the Portland Cement Association, San Francisco, Calif., and Gene A. Claussen, southern Idaho field engineer. The demonstration will feature proper procedures in the finishing and curing of concrete.

A ladies luncheon will be held at noon Saturday at the Holiday Inn.

Robert E. Davis, president of the association, Twin Falls, will conduct the general business meeting Saturday afternoon.

KETCHUM — Friday the 13th is termed unlucky by some people, but for Mrs. MaRee Johnson, Ketchum, the day proved to be an auspicious occasion.

Under the floodlights at the Rally Site, one-half of a mile north of Ketchum, with a background of snow, snow and more snow, Mrs. Johnson was crowned queen of the second annual Ketchum-Sun Valley Snowmobile Carnival by Max Peck, general chairman of the carnival.

Mrs. Johnson's attendants, to reign with her, over the two-day race event, were Lila Castle, riding a Polaris and sponsored by Daryl Jensen of Jensen Logging, Bellevue, first runnerup; Carol Lounsbury, riding a Ski Doo and sponsored by Max Peck's American Station, second, and Beverly Carr, riding an Evinrude and sponsored by Johnny's Super Service Station, third. The queen was sponsored by Jerry Sherman, Bellevue contractor, and was riding a Johnson.

The queen contestants were judged on personality, appearance and ability to maneuver a snowmachine. The candidates paraded on their snowmachines before a large audience and were asked to ride their machines twice around a staked oval course and through a staked slalom course. The judges, Ed Bennett, Ketchum; W. D. Mandate, Huley, and Mrs. Norma Herzinger, Twin Falls, interviewed each contestant after the staked course was completed.

After the coronation, the queen and her attendants, along with other adventure-loving individuals, participated in a parade of snowmachines through the streets of the Village of Ketchum led by Mr. Peck. The lights from the snowmachines winding in and around the town were a sight to behold.

The entire procession found its way to the Ketchum Sun Bowl, where participants warmed up and had refreshments; then off again for the second portion.

CRASH KILLS FOUR
CALDWELL (AP) — Four persons — three in one family — were killed Friday night in a two-car pileup on Highway 20-26 about three miles west of Caldwell.

The deaths increased Idaho's toll for the year to 103, three more than had been killed in the corresponding period last year.

The victims were Mrs. Alice Culley, 21, her two children, Cathy, 3, and Chris, 2, and Mrs. Donna Zuniga, 23, all of Caldwell.

Also riding in the car was Mrs. Culley's sister, Edith Winterton, 16, also of Caldwell. She escaped with only minor injuries. Officers said Mrs. Zuniga was believed to have been driving the car.

They identified the driver of the other car as Ori T. Lee, 56, of Boise. He was injured and was reported in fair condition.

Rupert Mayor Discusses Bills Of Interest To City

RUPERT — Mayor Wendell Johnson discussed the several bills which are coming before the legislature that are of concern to city governments for the first time at the Thursday luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

He stressed the bill to reclassify municipalities, a task that has never been done in Idaho about 75 years. Municipalities have been operating on the original code with numerous amendments, he said.

One of the changes proposed in the new code is that all cities, regardless of size, be set up on the basis of a mayor and city council rather than some with village boards.

Mayor Johnson also noted that a considerable savings in legal notice publication would be effected if a present plan were to general classification of city expenditures rather than the present minute itemization. He stressed that all bills by the city are always a matter to the public record and are accessible to anyone who inquires.

The number of city councilmen would be decided by individual cities, but the members must be elected by districts, according to the proposed code.

Re-classification of some mill levy limits he mentioned were change of the recreation levy, with its present three-mill maximum, to the general fund, and establishment of a fire department levy with a maximum 15 mill levy.

Claude Bowman, who was in charge of the program, reported that the Automobile Dealers Association has proposed that the tax assessors collect sales tax on automobiles from the dealer. Bowman's statement was in reply to an inquiry by State Police Supr. A. E. Perkins as the major reason for the move.

The roving party had been used to enforce the state's load limit and size limits on highways, each port consisting of two men in a station wagon.

IDAHO AIR BASE
WASHINGTON (AP) — An Idaho project was among those listed Friday by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara when he released $504 for military construction.

Idaho will receive $49,000 to build an airman's dormitory at Mountain Home Air Force Base. The money had been appropriated by Congress in 1965 but never spent.

LAND WITHDRAWAL ASKED
BOISE (AP) — Withdrawal from private use of two tracts of land in Idaho for recreation and fire protection purposes was reported Saturday by the Bureau of Land Management.

The department said the area is a popular camping site and improvements are planned to permit increased usage.

CLOSURE REQUESTED
BOISE (AP) — Closing of its agency at Fruitland, in southwestern Idaho, has been asked by the Realty Express Agency, the Public Utilities Commission reported Saturday.

The commission said any opposition to the closure should be filed in writing within 20 days.

Your Spine and Your Health

By Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr

Brain and spinal cord form the central nervous system which acts as switchboard in the complicated human system.

The spinal cord is contained in a canal which is formed by the vertebrae of the spine, properly aligned. Throughout its length, different branches of nerves are given off to supply different areas and organs of the human body. Any interference with normal flow of nerve impulses, e.g., caused by one or more abnormally aligned vertebrae, may weaken that specific organ or organ and make it susceptible to disease, or cause improper functioning, pain and spasms.

It is with chiropractic adjustments that improper alignment of the spinal segments can be corrected and normal nerve impulse transmission restored.

Fontana Sisters Top Fashions At Italian Showing

By LEONORA DODSWORTH
ROME (AP) — Those three famous fashion sisters, the Fontanas, packed a pretty fanciful suitcase for summer vacationers at the Italian showings here Thursday.

There was a playful play suit that had one pants leg long, and one short.

"This way," explained Zee Fontana, "you don't have to call your friends to see whether they're going to wear long or short to a party."

Then there was a cap-cum-cape that the daring model substituted for a bathing cabana, not to mention a jeweled bikini bra strictly not for swimming.

Switching to the city, shapes were straight and smooth in front with wide, swirly fullness in back. Spinning princess dresses had gold saddle stitching tracing their shape.

Another needlework notion, crisscross hem-stitching, was used in spaced bands on short-length dresses and long evening coats with full gathered backs.

Earlier, Fabiani gave suits maximum attention with a line of neat, short, square shoulder creations that were an unexpected hit. Fabiani, one of the giants of Italian fashion, did magic in blending majesty and modernity.

His suit jackets were worn with softly gathered peg-top skirts. Blouses looked like the starched white vests that harm wear.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: About a year ago you printed a letter in your column signed "TOO LATE". I must have read that letter a hundred times. I finally cut it out and framed it because I realized that I had been guilty of neglecting my own parents in their declining years. I made up my mind then and there that I would turn over a new leaf while there was still time, and I did.

Not only did I try to make up for the times I was "too busy" to go to see them, but I explained to my children how important it was to give their grandparents the pleasure of seeing them often. Now I know that I will never have to write a letter like the one I framed. Perhaps if you were to print that letter again, it would do for others what it did for me. God bless you.
GRATEFUL

DEAR GRATEFUL: Thank you for your letter. Curiously enough, the custodian of a cemetery wanted to tell me that "TOO LATE" letter had been framed and was hanging in the chapel. What a pity that it would be read by those for whom it was intended. How much more good might be accomplished were it posted on the bulletin board in a high school. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: I am the most heartbroken person on earth. I always found time to go everywhere else to see my old gray-haired parents. They sat at home alone, loving me just the same. It is too late now to give them those few hours of happiness I was too selfish and too busy to give, and now when I go to visit their graves and look at the green grass above them, I wonder if God will ever forgive me for the heartaches must have caused them. I pray that you will print this, Abby, to tell those who still have their parents to visit them and show their love and respect while there is still time. For it is later than you think.
TOO LATE

DEAR ABBY: I am single, in my early fifties, and have a good position. I live with my mother and we get along fine. Last winter a cousin (about my age) passed away. Her husband has been coming here very often to visit "us." It has become very plain to both my mother and me that he is interested in ME. Abby, how can I let him know that I am not interested in him? So far I have been able to get out of being alone with him, but he is very persistent. If he keeps coming over here I will have to insult him to get the idea across, unless you tell me an easier way to go about it.

NOT INTERESTED

DEAR NOT: Keep the conversation impersonal. Continue to thwart all his efforts to get you alone. Stay out of his reach and write curiously. He'll catch on. P.S.—Why not introduce him to someone? One woman's leftovers can be another woman's banquet.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is not speaking to me and I think I had a perfect right to do what I did. Here is what happened. You be the judge. Every year my husband's company puts on a big Christmas party. There are drinks on the house (I don't drink) and a big feed, after which everybody gathers for the program. While we were eating I heard that as part of the program the boss was going to paint a picture of a dancing girl on my husband's stomach, tape a bow on his navel, and the girl would "dance" when my husband moved his tummy around. (I should have explained, my husband is fat and jolly.) I told my husband I didn't care to see that kind of entertainment, and I made him take me home. Abby, I just couldn't watch such a vulgar display in mixed company. It's not my nature. My husband said I could have been a good sport for his sake and stayed. What do you think?
MODEST

DEAR MODEST: Such Christmas parties are a pain in the stomach. But since you were already there, you might have busied yourself with something else while your husband and his boss mado boobs of themselves. And remind your husband that good sportsmanship works both ways.

How has the world been treating you? Upload your problems on Dear Abby, Box 58700, Los Angeles, Calif. 90069.

Idaho Youth Ranch Gets $2,000 Grant

A $2,000 grant from the C. C. and Henrietta Anderson Foundation has been received by the Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert.

Earl B. Peck, secretary of the board, Twin Falls, announced Saturday.

The grant is to be used in the next phase of the new 16-boy unit under construction at the ranch. Foundations for the building are poured, and concrete basement floors including the rough-in for plumbing and heating will be the next work to get underway. The new unit when completed will have quarters for the houseparents and accommodations for relief patients as well as housing 16 more boys.

The unit is being built on a pass-south base and is soon as sufficient funds, materials and labor are available work will begin on the next phase.

Mr. Peck said. Accumulated monies earmarked for the building fund are placed on interest bearing deposit and materials are stored until a phase can be completed.

The ranch is now operating under a license issued by the state for caring for 23 boys. At present there are 20 boys living at the ranch, three having been dismissed as being ready to assume the responsibility of living in their own communities. Applications for three others have been accepted, Mr. Peck reported. The license is required by the state and involves areas of requirements for the protection of the boys, but does not include tax support of any kind.

"The ranch is filling a need for boys with problems, boys without proper homes and parents, boys who need help," commented Mr. Peck.

"For some boys under some conditions, there is no other place in Idaho for them to go, except the Youth Ranch. Our urgent needs are more facilities, including staff members, to care for the many boys in Idaho who need help. Satisfaction in seeing boys made happy is the only joy received by board members, area trustees and the many other persons who donate freely of their time and talent in making this ranch home for boys possible."

Mr. Peck has been a board member since 1955.

Mrs. Jena King, Burley, has joined the ranch staff as a do-it-yourself consultant to assist in the evaluation, adjustment and care of the boys when they are admitted.

Improving

ST. JOSEPH, Mo. (AP) — A storm and continuing cold weather almost garbaged collections recently in St. Joseph. But one customer felt that despite the complaints, the quality of the local garbage pickup service is improving.

He said that a few hours after phoning the local firm about collection difficulties, his garbage was picked up not by a truck—but by a worker driving a Cadillac.

Top Naval Reserve Officer Visits T.F.

ROBERT I. BARTO boosts Naval Reserve.

GOES TO GERMANY WENDEL — Mrs. L. A. r r Blackburn and infant son left this week via airliner from Boise for Heidelberg, West Germany, where she will join her husband, 2nd Lieut. Blackburn, who is stationed there. Mrs. Blackburn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Newberry, Wendell.

The local Naval Reserve Composite Unit received a boost Thursday when the national president of the Naval Reserve Association visited in Twin Falls.

Capt. Robert Barto, Seattle, Wash., stopped here on a tour of Idaho where he was spending several days to promote the Naval Reserve. Last year he traveled more than 100,000 miles spreading the word for the need of active units.

The Twin Falls unit has only nine members, four officers and five enlisted men. Capt. Barto said of prime concern in his visit here was instilling an interest in the unit. He said he hoped local interest could be stirred to entice veterans, both enlisted men and officers, to join the reserve.

His job as national president includes meeting with groups and encouraging affiliation with the association. He also told the Twin Falls group about the problems facing the Navy, the Naval establishment and the Naval Reserve.

Over 100,000 people in the reserve, Capt. Barto said, are on active duty. He said a large percentage of Naval aviators are on active reserve and the reserve comprises 13 per cent of the total Navy.

Commanding officer of the local unit, Lt. Commander Frank Hensley, was unable to attend the meeting because he is on two-weeks active duty. Lt. Commander George Williams, executive officer for the unit, is also scheduled to fulfill his active duty obligations soon.

The purpose of the Naval Reserve Association, according to its president, includes stimulating and supporting the naval sciences and maintaining traditions of the naval service.

Capt. Barto said the reserve is vitally concerned with oceanography and has worked closely with Navy oceanographers to prepare a course to be introduced at the intermediate school level.

Others attending the meeting were, Carl Berg, retired commander; John Leinen, retired Lt. Commander, and Lee Mabie, retired Colonel in the Marine Corps.

Anyone interested in joining the reserve unit in Twin Falls should contact a reserve member.

All League members are asked to study the pamphlet, "Who Shall Choose," which have been mailed to them. The material is designed to stimulate thinking and discussion on nominating procedures in Idaho.

The February meeting will be held at Mrs. Allen's home.

Greg Belsler To Head Bliss Club

BLISS — Greg Belsler was elected president of the Bliss Rod and Gun club at a meeting Thursday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Cutright.

Parilli Comes Off Bench To Direct East AFL All-Stars Past West 30-23

BY RON BERGMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Boston's veteran quarterback Babe Parilli came off the bench Saturday and led the East to its first ever American Football League All-Star triumph, a 30-23 victory over the West on a rain-drenched, half-flooded Oakland Coliseum field. Parilli replaced Jack Kemp of Buffalo after the East was held scoreless in the first half and the West had a 16-0 lead.

SLOPPY GOING as Willie West (45) of the East All-Stars finds he couldn't hang onto Leslie Duncan, half back, of the West as he picked up an East punt and ran 84 yards to the East's 27 where he fumbled as he hit the rain-soaked turf. The East recovered in this second period action of the AFL All-Star game in the Oakland Coliseum Saturday. The East pulled out a 30-23 victory. (AP wirephoto)

Parilli was voted the game's most valuable player on offense while Verlon Biggs of New York won the pressbox vote for best defense.

The second smallest All-Star crowd — 17,876 — braved a rainstorm that made a 10-yard ankle-deep bog on the 100th end of the field and the remainder of the sod a mucky mess.

It was the first victory for the East in five attempts against top players from the Western Division.

The weather was the most important factor. There were nine fumbles, eight interceptions, two safeties and numerous bad snaps from center as the soggy footballs fell heavily short of their targets.

The East, down 23-0 in the third quarter, started picking off West passes and taking advantage of the elements.

Kevin City's Len Dawson went back to pass near mid-field, and the ball slipped about six inches out of his hand. Biggs picked it out of the air and ran 50 yards to a touchdown.

On the next series, Clem Daniels of Oakland fumbled and Ed Cook of Miami recovered on the West 23.

Parilli then passed 19 yards to Boston teammate Gino Cappellotti for 19. Then he hit Buffalo's Wray Carlton for four and the East took a 10-0 lead.

On the next series, Dawson converted his second of four, made it 23-16 with the West still leading.

The East then tied it up, also on a break. Bob Scarpitto of Denver punted into the backside of teammate E. J. Holub, and the West's 12.

Minico Tops I.F., Takes League Lead

IDAHO FALLS (AP)—Minico substitute Mike Schell's free throw snipped a 63-deadlock with 1:40 remaining as the Spartans clipped the Idaho Falls Tigers 75-55 Friday.

Idaho Falls led by five points going into the final period, but the lead melted and finally disappeared on Schell's free throw. The teams were tied four times in the final minutes of the rough battle for the conference number one spot.

Idaho Falls grabbed the lead at 60:55 and 62:00 before being tied at 63-all on Schell's successful charity toss.

Further dampening the Idaho Falls' effort were fouls, which resulted in Miller, Jean and Larry Park, fouling out.

Minico also lost two starters in the closing minutes to fouls—Rasmussen and Tom Alperspach.

Phillips Oilers Test Boise College Monday; AAU Team Heavy Favorite

BURLEY — Phillips 66 Oilers also will be heavily counted on by the Broncos. The four combine for an average of 50 points per game.

Boise coach Murray Satter-

The game, sponsored by the Mt. Harrison chapter DeMolay, will be held in the Burley High School gym.

The high-scoring Oilers are expected to have little trouble from the Broncos, who dropped decisions to Snow and Dixie Calles last weekend. The Broncos have a 7-5 mark.

Kelch Burke will be giving the scoring department with a 15.2 points-per-game average while Bill Oley leads the team rebounding with a 12.7 per-game average.

The Oilers will be led in the scoring department by Harold Sargent and rebounding by 6-10 Kendall Rhine. Oley will be giving away six inches to Rhine, but is expected to pretty well hold his own despite the difference.

Renee Ruth and Layne Broyles

Castleford Nips Hailey In Wrestling

HAILEY — Castleford, using 10 points on two forfeits to his advantage, squeaked to a 24-21 wrestling victory over Wood River Thursday.

The results of the match, Castleford listed first, are as follows:

106 pounds, Graybeal defeated Drexler; 115 pounds, Ripa was pinned by Robinson; 123 pounds, Burkhalter won by default; 130 pounds, Wheeler was defeated by Wilcox; 136 pounds, Reinhold was defeated by Deckard.

141 pounds, Potucek was pinned by Wilcox; 148 pounds, Shaffer was pinned by Fife; 157 pounds, McArthur defeated Payne; 168 pounds, Frey defeated Nicholson; and 183 pounds, heavyweight, Castleford won by forfeit.

POST WINS
ENUGLAW, Wash. (AP) — Currie Chapman of the Canadian national team and Cathy Nagel of the U.S. team won men's and women's slalom races on the opening day of the annual Silver Skis on nearby Crystal Mountain Saturday.

Madison Has 57-39 Win Over Burley

REXBURG — Madison High School of Rexburg maintained its boast of never losing a home game to Burley in the Eastern Idaho Conference as it dropped the Bobcats 57-39.

It was another matter of Burley shooting a poor percentage. Madison stormed into a 12-0 lead and held comfortable leads most of the way. Jay Wardle and LeRoy Fink got into double figures for the Bobcats but their 17 field goals accounted for all but three posted by Burley men.

Grid Season Ends On NFL All-Star Battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Football's final gasp of the long, long 1966-67 season comes here Sunday when the game of the National Football League collide in the 17th annual 'Pro Bowl' game. It will be a talent from the Western Division against the Eastern — officially designated East and West.

The game will be nationally televised by CBS, starting at 3:40 p.m., EST, with the greater Los Angeles area blacked out.

Sponsored by Los Angeles' two metropolitan newspapers, the affair is expected to attract 50,000 fans. The average over the years is 52,600.

It may well be the last of the Pro Bowl battles in its present format, although there has been no official decision on its fate.

Pro football Commissioner Pete Rozelle said here during the week that the Pro Bowl may wind up as an all-star game between the NFL and American Football League, now that the two leagues have joined forces.

Conching the squads are George Allen of the Los Angeles Rams for the West and the Dallas Cowboys' Tom Landry for the East.

The West leads in the series, 10-6, and is a slight favorite for this one.

Kimberly Has 69-54 Win Over Hansen

HANSEN — Stunned with a one-point deficit in the first quarter, the heavily favored Kimberly Bulldogs came up with a 20-point second quarter and went on to defeat the stubborn Hansen Huskies 69-54 Saturday night.

The underdog Huskies carried the fight to the Bulldogs in the first quarter and surprised by posting an 18-17 edge. But in the second period the Huskies managed only eight points in answer to Kimberly's 20.

At the end of the third quarter Kimberly held a 60-33 margin but the never-say-die Huskies fought back with a good closing effort to narrow the final margin.

GOODING — The Gooding Senators pulled away to a comfortable lead late in the second half Saturday night and went on to defeat the Jerome Tigers 57-44.

Jerome came out in a man-to-man defense and stayed close throughout the first 12 minutes, leading by only 16-10. Gooding got two free throws. Kenny Krahn and the Senators went on from there to score seven points while Jerome managed but one. That made it 27-17 at halftime.

EL PASO, Tex. (AP) — Sixth-ranked Texas Western dominated the backboards and shut off Weber State's fast break Saturday to take an easy 72-38 non-conference basketball victory.

The Miners grabbed off 53 rebounds to Weber's 35 and allowed the Wildcats only five field goals in the first half. Weber finished with 13 of 54 shots from the field for a meager 24.1 shooting average.

Texas Western led by 60-0 in David Lattin's 17 points, half a 48.1 shooting percentage, hitting 25 of 52 attempts. Willie Cager with 11 and Wray Worley with 11 were the other Miners in double figures.

Weather Forces Postponement Of Crosby Clambake

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Hiccup weather with gale winds, rain and some hail forced cancellation Saturday of third round play in Bing Crosby's $104,500 golf tournament. The round was rescheduled for Sunday with the final 18 holes going over to Monday. With scores soaring, sand-bank being blown out of traps and trees blowing over, the tournament director Jack Tutthill of the Professional Golfers Association of America cancelled the Saturday round.

Dana Tracy, meanwhile, scored 27 points in a vain effort to keep the Trojans in the game. Allen Briggs added 16 to that, but it was not enough to offset the Hornets' all-round scoring.

KIMBERLY—The quick brothers Eller, Larry and Gary, and the play of calculating Larry Reitz combined to send the Kimberly Bulldogs past Wood River's Wolverines 82-68 Friday night and into sole possession of the Big Six Conference lead.

Wood River could have made a real game of it if it could have hit free throws. The Bulldogs were whistled down for 36 fouls but the Wolverines cashed them in for only 21 points. From the field Kimberly had another good shooting night while Wood River had some sporadic moments.

It opened like a donkeybuck. The Bulldogs pumped through 25 points over the next eight minutes and only the scoring of Mike McGraw kept Wood River in. The 66 senior hit 11 of Wood-River's 14 points.

CSI To Entertain Utag Frosh, Treasure Valley In T.F. Monday, Tuesday

One of Magic Valley's best known products, Ron Adamson of Gooding, will bring a potent Utah State frosh club against the College of Southern Idaho Monday in the first of a two-night stand the Eagles will make in Twin Falls High School gymnasium. Tuesday evening the Eagles will entertain Treasure Valley College of Ontario, one of the top junior college outfits. Excluding last weekend's games, Utah State frosh have piled up an 8-4 record, losing twice to BYU's freshmen and splitting the University of Utah. The other loss came at the hands of Watts Construction, an industrial team.

CSI Nips NIJC On Glover's Late Shot

COEUR D'ALENE — Boo Glover's turn around jump-shot with two seconds left led the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles to a 56-54 Friday night. Although the Eagles led most of the night, a combination of goaltending, traveling and three-second violations calls by the officials kept North Idaho in possession and contention much of the time. Finally North Idaho went ahead with two minutes to go but the Eagles, behind Glover's and Humes' shooting, were able to rally for the victory.

SPORTS FROM ALL ANGLES

It would appear Magic Valley's duck hunting, although considered a success by some, missed being a great one because of the drought. Not that Magic Valley didn't have the weather. It was just because American Falls Reservoir didn't rise. That and an untimely snowfall kept the Hagerman man Refuge count down about 60 percent of a year ago and combined to keep the Snake River count of 19 percent.

Leon Littlefield, Mindoka Wildlife Refuge manager, believes the chances of the combination happening again are slim. "But you sure were the victim of circumstances," says Littlefield. "You had a drought, you had a snowfall, you had a low water year at American Falls Reservoir was the basic reason for the 100,000 birds out of Magic Valley during the latter stretches of the hunt."

"The reservoir was drawn down to just about the old river bed. Littlefield says that as water got out of the flats to become exposed and some weeds and plants began to grow. This fall the reservoir began to rise and the water made things ideal for the dabblers. They (Mallards and Pintails) have been lining the feather edges haven't frozen much since the water is constantly rising just a little. The small plants and then a good supply of aquatic plants have given the birds all they want. Our field men (Fish and Wildlife Service men) report there has been some food feeding but not as much as the number of birds in the area would indicate. That shows the ducks were, just riding out the season feeding along the edge of the reservoir."

As basis for this theory is that American Falls Reservoir's duck population soared over 400,000 and the inventory was still high late in the year. Long after the ducks usually have left. But instances appear with out precedents.

When the first big storm came through a lot of snow dumped on Magic Valley. The trend of the ducks in Idaho is from east to west, along the Snake River. The weather succeeded in pushing the birds out of Magic Valley's snow cover was hardly a welcome. So the ducks pushed on to the Deer Flat Refuge out of Nampa. They stayed there slowly and the January weather was mostly snow caused another move. Instead of coming back late Magic Valley the birds took off the other way and that is good reason to suspect they would up on the Columbia River around Unmilla, Ore. That took care of 200,000 and under normal circumstances we could have expected a large portion to give Magic Valley a try. The area hunters that wanted birds got them. There was some good field shooting in the area. The next reports that on good snow the river produced some fine gunning.

So it wasn't a complete loss as accounts go, but it sure could have been better—about 60 percent better.

Completely off the duck hunting subject, if you can find a better bird than that High School Coach Ed Troxel will be named an assistant football coach at the University of Idaho. It may not be a story that you would see in this paper, but definitely points to it.

We'd probably see the announcement will probably come the early part of this week.

Construction Materials For CSI Campus Recommended By Planners

by RUTH KOONCE
Times-News Staff Writer

The term "giant stride" has often been associated with the College of Southern Idaho, and rightly so. It is a fast growing, academically sound institution that all in the area should be proud of.

Because it has grown by leaps and bounds in two short years, campus facilities in the near future are a must. Supplies and staff needed for effective higher education are fast outgrowing the Twin Falls High School where classes are held now, and which houses its own staff and supplies.

Projected enrollments also point up the need for permanent facilities — the sooner the better. Enrollment at CSI for the second semester remained fairly constant with the first semester. This, according to Dr. James L. Taylor, college president, is almost an unheard-of phenomenon at institutions of higher learning. He noted second semester enrollment generally decreases because of students transferring, dropping out, or failure to maintain their grades.

Friday at a luncheon meeting at the Holiday Inn, CSI trustees and personnel made two "giant strides" toward accomplishing this end.

The board of trustees accepted the architects' recommendations for building materials and plans were made to sell the rest of the bond money the college gained during a May, 1966, election.

John Coleman, secretary-treasurer of the board, advised his constituents that fiscal agent George Denton notified him the bond market is much improved and is "leveling off."

Mr. Denton, whose firm handled the first sale of $1 million, recommended the remaining $2 million in bonds be sold before March 1, 1967. The trustees formally accepted his recommendation and were to notify Mr. Denton immediately to progress with preparations for the sale.

The academic building and the fine arts center will be the first two facilities on the campus.

No bond money, however, will be used for the fine arts center. It is to be financed through local funds from the Civic Auditorium Association and a federal grant.

Decisions on construction materials have been anxiously awaited by the architects so the construction time schedule can be adhered to. With these decisions made Friday, the plans can be completed and letting of bids and construction will probably proceed for the time planned — early spring of 1967.

Ed Peterson, of Jones - Felberg, the Twin Falls branch of Cushing - Terrill Associates, represented his firm at the meeting and further explained reasons for the architects' recommendations on building materials.

Many factors, besides material and installation costs were examined by Jones - Felberg in making his recommendations.

Insurance costs on buildings made with less costly materials soar over those constructed from concrete and brick. Such requirements, providing for future expansion, were also considered.

Pre-cast, single concrete tees was the only recommendation made by the firm for the structural system. Other materials were examined, but the architects felt structural needs dictated the use of this type of construction.

For the exterior walls, brick was recommended by Jones - Felberg, and the trustees concurred with this. The cost of brick was also less than that of other materials considered.

Corridor walls at the College of Southern Idaho will be covered with a vinyl fabric. Not minimal, compared to other surfaces considered, but upkeep has proven to be less.

Classroom floors, trustees decided, will be of vinyl - asbestos tile. Other considerations were for less costly asphalt tile and more costly vinyl tile and carpeting.

Mr. Peterson said the vinyl-asbestos tiling also has been apt to crack than the asphalt tiling.

Mr. Peterson said he believed all materials to be used in construction were available in Idaho. He noted, however, that the quality of materials is a very important factor in purchase decisions. He said while some of the materials were not manufactured in Idaho, there were retail outlets in state in most instances.

SCALING-TIMBER, or determining the yield of board feet per log, is Sawtooth National Forest scaler, Joe Pullman, Heyburn. The Forest Service retains ownership of timber sold from Sawtooth Forest lands until they reach the mill and are scaled. This timber was taken from the 29.5 million board feet sale located near Sublett, made to the Wendell Mill and Lumber Co. The timber is processed at the Heyburn Mill. (Times-News photo)

FIGHTING COLD AND SNOW to bring down a big Douglas Fir, is Bill Ramsey, faller from Rupert, working on the Sawtooth Forest sale near Sublett. Mr. Ramsey "bucks" or cuts the tree into truckable lengths to enable a "boom" or crane to hoist the logs into waiting trucks which take the timber to the mill. A total of 29.5 million board feet will be taken from the Sublett sale. (Times-News photo)

Sawtooth Timber Harvest Begins On Area Forests

By ANN DAILY
Times-News Writer

The sound of the pioneer woodman's ax has long vanished from the American forests, giving way to singing power saws, the booms and mills of today's vast timber industry.

Among Idaho's mountains and hills lies one of the country's most verdant forests, the Sawtooth. The people of the Sawtooth National Forests this month got down to the business of selling part of this heritage to subsidize the national government, education and county highways for our use.

These timber sales do not destroy the natural beauty of this favorite recreation area, but instead benefit it by thinning out overmature, diseased and insect infested trees from otherwise overly dense areas. Wildlife finds better browsing in the cut area, providing an extra dividend to an already profitable enterprise.

This month, loggers contracted by the Wendell Mill and Lumber Co., fight drifting snow and cold weather to bring out up to 14 truck loads of Douglas Fir a day to be processed at the Heyburn mill from Sawtooth Forest lands near Sublett.

The Heyburn mill was specially built for the task of handling the 29.5 million board feet sale, made with the forest service Nov. 28, 1961.

In the coming six months, six more timber sales will be made on Sawtooth National Forests lands. One of the sales will be made on the Ketchum Ranger District, two on the Fairfield District and one on the Burley District. All totaling 12.1 million board feet.

Most of the profits shown by the service from the sales goes into the National Treasury to subsidize departments of the government. Twenty-five per cent is returned to the counties from which the trees are cut for maintenance of schools and roads. A portion is sometimes retained by the service for reforestation and timber stand improvement.

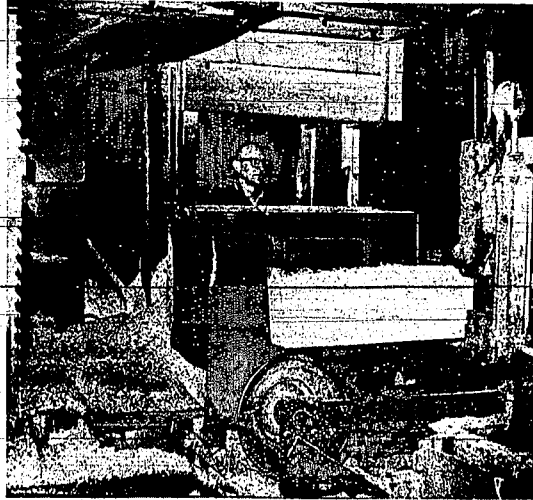

Last year, an average year for timber production, netted a total value from finished lumber of $7,500,000.

National Forest Services never log or mill their own timber, for in that way, they would compete with private enterprise.

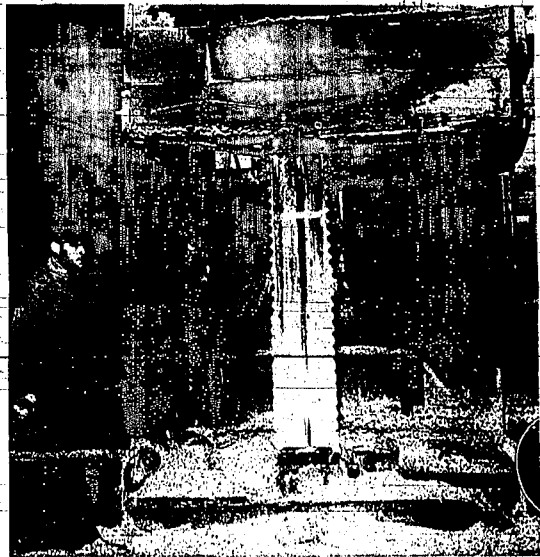

All timber sold thus far from the Sawtooth's vast reserves has been the first cutting of virgin forest. The second growth will not be sold for another century, and it will be another 140 years before this year's cut areas will be ready for sale again.

The species sold on forest service lands are Ponderosa Pine, Douglas Fir, Lodge Pole Pine, Engelmann Spruce and Subalpine Fir, chosen for sale by condition and maturity. The trees usually average 200 to 300 years of age in sale areas.

HEAD SAWYER, Warren Davenport, Burley, watches as a shaft of Douglas Fir approaches the giant band saw that will turn the timber into marketable lumber. The timber comes from the 29.5 million board feet sale on Sawtooth National Forest lands near Sublett. The saw is part of the Heyburn mill where over 400 logs a day are cut during the winter. THE BIG SAW that turns millions of board feet of Douglas Fir trees into marketable lumber for buildings and homes throughout the nation is checked by Tom Fleming, fall sawyer, Burley, at the Heyburn mill which processes timber from the Sawtooth National Forest sale near Sublett. Approximately 29.5 million board feet will be processed by the mill from the sale area. Over 400 logs pass through the mill each day during the winter. SCOUTS FACE PROBLEMS WITHOUT ADDITIONAL FUNDS

A NEW CAMP would be added to the Snake River Area Council's camping facilities with funds secured by the camp development campaign. The new camp, which would be located in Niggle Valley and remain open year-round, would include an inter-faith chapel and a similar chapel would be built at existing Camp Bradley.

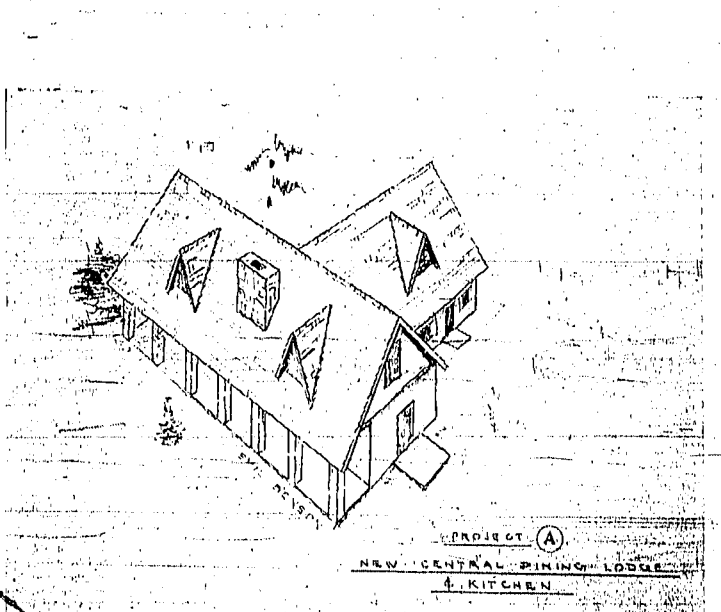

It's a tough decision for any adult to make. If 3,365 Boy Scouts want to attend a summer camp originally designed in 1945 to accommodate not more than 600 boys over a six-week period, which Scouts will be left behind?

By 1970, Snake River Area Council executives estimate that that number of boys will apply for the six week-long sessions at the council's main camp, Camp Bradley. Last year only 2,005 boys attended the camp. By the next decade, unless vital financial aid is secured for the camping program, only the more affluent Boy Scouts will be able to join the program and Scout camp will become a haven for the fortunate, not for all Scouts.

For that reason, the council is conducting a fund-raising program to raise $308,000 urgently needed to expand and develop camping facilities.

The value of the camping program is something even the adults directly involved in the program find hard to define. They cite examples of experiences gained while "camping on the frontier of manhood and learning how to read its map" and the value of camp as a "pacer along the way to manhood from which you get the terrain of both youth and manhood."

The best proof of the value of camping experiences, however, is provided by the boys themselves — witness one Craig Madison, a 12-year-old camper who was found peeking for his second year at Camp Bradley six months before the season started. Craig may possibly join the long list of successful adults who "camped on the frontier of manhood" as Boy Scouts (Continued on Page 22)

DINING FACILITIES AT Boy Scout Camp Bradley near Idaho's primitive area were cramped last year that many boys were forced to eat on the porches of the dining hall, according to Snake River Area Council officials. Success of the camp development campaign would mean a new dining hall at the camp, among other improvements.

Forest Service Logging Operations Subsidize Governmental Expenses

Continued From Page 19) the bark of trees, laying its eggs there. The larva girdles, the tree filling it, but in no way damaging the wood.

After appraisal by the forest service to determine the fair market value, the standing timber is sold by board feet through competitive bidding. Sale sizes vary to allow different size operators to bid. The sale may be conducted through oral bidding or sealed bids.

The buyer, which may be any financially responsible person or corporation, is usually the mill owner who uses the timber. The buyers select the timber to be purchased through field show-me trips conducted by the service.

After the sale has been made, the buyer usually subcontracts the logging and trucking. The bulk of the cutting and milling is done during the spring and summer months.

Logging crews—utilizing power saws, cut the specified timber and then "buck" it or cut the faller—trunk, truckable material. The logs are "hooked" by a steel clamp attached to a large boom or crane and skidded down to the waiting trucks.

Loggers are required to take only those trees specified by the sale contract, and must cut to a certain height of stump, usually 14 inches. They are also required to protect the soil and residents by erecting safety ditches for the safety of the public. Tractors are used to make roads and clear brush.

TIMBER BOOM holds a 16-foot length of Douglas Fir onto a waiting timber truck on the Sawtooth Forest sale area near Sublett. The steel clamp, shown near the far end of the log, is placed around it where the tree was felled. The boom skids the log, lifts it and places it on the truck. A great deal of dexterity is called for on the part of the boom operator in lifting the heavy logs. (Times-News photo)

Last Diary Entry Made By Idaho Girl Visiting Israel

(Carole Lynn Ives, St. Anthony, recently returned from Israel where she spent several months as an International Farm Youth Exchange student. This is the last entry she wrote from Israel.)

As I write in my diary on my last night in Israel, I have so many thoughts running through my head.

All the experiences suddenly tumble over one another and my thoughts couldn't possibly be put down on paper, although I have so much to say.

The rush and frustrations of that first day in Israel as impatient Israel's pushed and crowded to set foot once more on the solid land of their country.

The strange surroundings of our first "kibbutz" and the hundreds of little things that seemed to confuse my understanding of the culture all fade into a much better light when a sense of proportion can be found.

The things I remember now are not the confusing but the happy moments shared with my hosts during the four months in Israel; the midnight ride on the tractor with one of my host fathers to check the irrigation pipes, and enjoy the cool breeze instead of the scorching sun.

The Arab workers in the vine garden of another host laughing and saying "come on" (the English they know) as I panted to keep up the pace of grape cutting.

My birthday party when I received a package of sweets in the mail from one of my previous host families and when neighbors who hardly knew me stopped to say "hello" and "happy birthday."

I also remember the night four IYVE's gave a slide lecture showing our homes and families. At the end of the evening each of us received a small album of Israel as a gift of appreciation from the community.

Something new added to my experiences every day — a dis-

CANADIAN MONEY is always of interest to Magic Valley "Money Box" readers, Frank Scheil, local columnist, says. Illustrated is the obverse, or face, side of a Canadian penny issued under the reign of Victoria. (Times-News photo)

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHEIL

—Our first letter this week is from Mrs. M. M., Shoshone. She says: "I have a paper 25 cent piece authorized by the Dominion of Canada. As near as I can tell the date is year 1870. On the right hand corner, F. D. Harrington and on the left hand corner, W. Dickinson. There is a picture of a lady's head and bust. On the right hand corner top 31 Vic Cap 46. Can you tell me the value of the money?"

We have answered Mrs. M. M. already, since she sent a self-addressed stamped envelope, but since Canadian money seems to be of interest to our readers, we decided to use this letter for the column. The 25 cent paper bills of the Canadian Government are very interesting.

The 25 cent paper bill came into being as an emergency measure. Ordinarily, it was United States coinage which forced its issue.

The Government of Canada was worried over the fact that a great deal of United States money was circulating in Canada — due to a lack of their own money — and since the United States silver was worth 20 per cent less than Canadian, all merchants "who accepted it" were subject to a 20 per cent loss.

United States silver was called in, and since it took some time to mint money to replace it, the Canadian government issued printed notes of 25 cent value to take the place of the United States' small change.

Even after enough Canadian small change had been minted to fill the needs of the country, the Canadian populace held on to the paper 25 cent piece — and they liked it so well that the Government was forced to make two more issues.

Thus we have an issue of 1870, dated March 1, an issue of 1900, dated Jan. 2, and an issue of 1923, dated January 2. Later another issue was made dated July 2, 1923.

Oddly enough, the first issue (1870) carried the best type picturization of Britannia, the middle issues had a picture of Britannia seated, and the last issue were back to the old bust type photo again, although it differed somewhat from the 1870 issue.

When none of the issues of this note are really extremely scarce, they are found most often in well-worn condition, so that the collector's price commands a premium.

Mrs. M. M.'s note is signed by T. D. Harrington, (not F. D. and W. Dickinson (not Crickinson) and is worth, depending upon condition, from 1.50 up to 15.00.

To Mr. W. L. Burley, "it will be most happy to look over your French money, anytime you contact me for an appointment. However — do not build up your hopes of any great value. French money — even in the older issues — is not scarce, nor does it command much of a premium."

The column has a question on current production at the United States Mint. We have a copy of Coin World (national Coin Weekly) published Jan. 18, 1957, which gives the following: The month mint report. Since coins do not any longer bear mint marks, this is a combined report of all mints.

Cents, 2,409,129,900; nickels, 219,675,300; dimes, 2,655,545,200; quarters, 2,039,342,405; and halves, 189,707,366.

Most everybody would have to admit that is quite a pile of money for 11 months production.

To R. T. Buhl, "The illustration accompanying this article is a picture of the obverse (face) side of a Canadian penny issued under the reign of Victoria. If your coin is different from this, I am afraid it cannot be a Canadian coin.

We are still very much interested in obtaining any merchant's tokens (hickies) from any business in Idaho. We especially need hickies from the Deola area, or the area around Malad. Please contact us if you have such tokens, or know of them.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Most golden wedding anniversaries are long preparation ceremonies at the family gathering here. It is an ordained Baptist minister and recently became president of the new Carson College at Carson City, Nev.

One of the highlights of the golden wedding anniversary celebration was the singing of an original song, written for and dedicated to Mr. and Mrs. Ballenger by a granddaughter-in-law, Mrs. Jerry Ballenger, Heron, Mont.

Each of the honored couple's six children described his family and its activities. Kenneth Ballenger is a technician at the Atomic Energy Commission plant at Arco; Mrs. W. W. (Kathleen) Burchard, Dekalb, Ill., is a teacher, along with her husband at North Illinois University. Mrs. T. W. (Jean) Jordan, is employed at the Mountain States Telephone Co. at Baker, Ore. Cecil Ballenger, Salt Lake City, is a retired civil service worker, and Joel Ballenger, Heron, Mont., is a cattle rancher and master mechanic.

Of the couples 23 grandchildren attended, 14 attended, and 11 of the 15 great-grandchildren.

Island Trip Is Part Of Pair's Dream

This last week or so has been an exciting time for Mrs. Lloyd DeWitt, better known as "Bert" to the classified department of the Times-News.

The climax of five months of planning came when her plane landed Wednesday afternoon at the Honolulu airport. From then on it was a dream come true.

Her husband, Lanco Corporal Lloyd DeWitt has been in Vietnam for five months and was eligible for a week of rest and relaxation at any one of a number of designated areas. Corporal DeWitt chose Hawaii so that his wife could meet him there.

The couple has been saving every penny since he went overseas so that they could meet for this week in Hawaii. Corporal DeWitt has been in the marines for a year and prior to Vietnam the couple made its home in North Carolina where he had been stationed. Mrs. DeWitt was secretary to Jack Mulowney, the Times-News publisher, before going to North Carolina.

She is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Homer Walkup, former Twin Falls residents who are now living in Tampa. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd DeWitt, Kimberly.

"HONOLULU, HERE I COME" were Mrs. Lloyd DeWitt's thoughts when this photograph was taken shortly before she left by plane to meet her husband in Hawaii. (Times-News photo)

Book Review

THE PASSOVER—PLOT
By Dr. Hugh J. Schoenfeld

This recent treatment of a matter notoriously hostile to a credible interpretation of events in the life of Christ which "contradict the terms of our earthly existence."

The author, an eminent Jewish scholar and translator of the New Testament, bases his controversial work on the contention that Jesus was not "omniscient and infallible," "the Son of God—but, rather, he was a man of deep convictions who identified himself with the Messianic Hope."

Embued as he was with Jewish thought and background, and possessing extraordinary personal qualities, this man enacted the Messianic role as he understood it.

Nietzsche once said, "Christianity can be understood only in terms of the soil out of which it grew — it is not a counter-movement to the Jewish instinct; it is its very consequence." (The Antichrist). Likewise, Dr. Schoenfeld holds that a proper understanding of Christianity commences only with the milieu which fostered it.

One idea which was given increasing emphasis during the years which preceded the birth of Jesus, and which he deeply rooted in the Jewish past and thought, was the idea of Messianism.

Essential to Messianism was the belief—that Israel, the nation chosen—and set apart by God to obtain mankind's redemption, could achieve this redemption only after it had attained a state of perfect obedience to the will of God.

To realize this ideal state, God would intervene in the last days of the Messianic plan by means of "Anointed Ones," one of whom would be a righteous king of the line of David. They would, by transforming the world, usher in the Kingdom of God and the reign of peace on earth.

The events leading up to this intervention, however, would be unhealthy: wars, public strife, famine, and pestilence.

The years preceding Christ's birth were unusually adverse. Thus the stage was set, and the "time was ripe." Jesus believed himself to be the Messiah or Anointed One, and he lived accordingly.

He was no charlatan, bent upon misleading people; a nd above all, he did not think of his life and death as a human event—it was an act of God.

The proper fulfillment of the Messianic scheme, as Jesus understood it through study of the Scriptures, involved death by martyrdom (or its facsimile).

Thus it was mandatory that Jesus should have an ingenious plan for his own betrayal, arrest, and crucifixion. The success of the plot would rest on his taking, while on the cross, a sleeping drug which would result in a coma approximating death.

Then an accomplice would generate the "hour" from the cross and take it to a tomb

RECALLING EARLY DAYS IN the West, W. B. Stewart takes time to set down his memories, preserving them for his friends and relatives. (Times-News photo)

Local Man Recalls Memories Of Early Days In Oklahoma

(EDITOR'S NOTE: As many old pioneers, W. B. Stewart, can enter his story and all listeners his account of a more colorful time in the history of our country. Below Mr. Stewart has written about his memories of the historic land rush in Oklahoma.)

There are few left to remember the month of May, 1889, but those long-gone years are still vivid in my memory.

I traveled in a covered wagon with my grandparents south across the flat prairies that were a mat of Buffalo grass mixed with wild, pink and purple daisies, going to where Mother and Father held down the claim that they had staked south of Muskogee in old Oklahoma in April, 1889.

How well do I remember camping on a creek near the survey of the Rock Island Railroad right of way with the new white grade stakes contrasting with the green grass. The covered wagon was parked in a flat place near a small clear creek with the mules tethered on a rope grazing on the grass.

Grandpa went fishing with a short pole that he had cut from a bunch of willows growing on the bank of the creek. He caught black- looking fish that had whiskers and threw them into the grass of the bank.

I tried to pick them up but after the second attempt I learned to respect, or I should say highly respect, them. Grandpa did not have to tell me the second time to leave them alone.

Another memorable incident fording the Salt Fork of the Arkansas river. The wagon bogged down into the quicksand and the mules could not pull it out. There we were stuck in the middle of that muddy, red-dish looking water. Grandpa got out into the river, unhooked the mules and went for help.

During the long afternoon while Grandpa and I stayed in the wagon quite often I would raise the canvas on the upstream side watching the water slowly come up over the hub of the wagon wheel, but just a little while before sundown Grandpa returned with a man that had a pair of horses and the two teams hooked together pulled us out of the river and then we made camp for the night.

In summer Grandpa built a log house with a fireplace that had an iron bar about five inches from the top so that Grandpa could hang a pot of kettle on it. Many are the boiled chicken with dumplings that came out of that old black pot that gave Grandpa the strength to handle a walking plow. Driving the mules with the lines tied together and over one shoulder he could hold the plow with one hand and guide the mules with the other if they got out of the furrow.

Quite often the plow would hit a root where he had cut the black oak trees. It evidently would give him quite a jolt but he did not swear. Many times I heard him say "I've never seen the likes of this."

With about half of his land prairie I have often wondered why he plowed that stump land. It played in the grass and wild flowers and watched the bunches of white fringed clouds that resembled great wads of cotton drifting silently across the blue sky until he had finished the plowing then all of us—Mother, Dad, Grandpa and Grandma went down to the Cimarron river in the sand hills to pick wild plums. That was all the fruit we had that next winter.

In the spring Grandpa planted the plowed ground to sweet potatoes, sweet corn and watermelons and, believe me, those watermelons were the sweetest that I've ever tasted.

In the quiet night out here in the desert when a coyote howls it recalls to my memory the days and years that are gone. I would love to live again those years that gave freedom to the individual to carve his own destiny. But the freedom of the Great Plains will be no more and grassy prairies only survive in the memory of a few old timers and not many of them are left to tell the tales.

I know that my time to cross "The Great Divide" according to the law of averages should not be too far off, so my friends are left to tell the tales and relations I've reviewed my

Single Zone For Idaho Is Proposed

BOISE (AP)—Putting all of Idaho in the Mountain Time Zone was asked in a memorial introduced Friday in the Senate.

The memorial is directed to Congress, which is asked "to take whatever action may be necessary" to accomplish the purpose.

At present the portion of Idaho north of the Salmon River is in the Mountain Zone—with the exception of Shoshone County—is in the Pacific Time Zone. Shoshone County and all territory south of the Salmon River is in the Mountain Zone.

Quite often the plow would hit a root where he had cut the black oak trees. It evidently would give him quite a jolt but he did not swear. Many times I heard him say "I've never seen the likes of this."

With about half of his land prairie I have often wondered why he plowed that stump land. It played in the grass and wild flowers and watched the bunches of white fringed clouds that resembled great wads of cotton drifting silently across the blue sky until he had finished the plowing then all of us—Mother, Dad, Grandpa and Grandma went down to the Cimarron river in the sand hills to pick wild plums. That was all the fruit we had that next winter.

In the spring Grandpa planted the plowed ground to sweet potatoes, sweet corn and watermelons and, believe me, those watermelons were the sweetest that I've ever tasted.

In the quiet night out here in the desert when a coyote howls it recalls to my memory the days and years that are gone. I would love to live again those years that gave freedom to the individual to carve his own destiny. But the freedom of the Great Plains will be no more and grassy prairies only survive in the memory of a few old timers and not many of them are left to tell the tales.

I know that my time to cross "The Great Divide" according to the law of averages should not be too far off, so my friends are left to tell the tales and relations I've reviewed my

Importation Of Idaho's Wild Life Is Regulated By Fish, Game Department

By DONNA HURD

Idaho Fish-Gam Department

Boys' annual normal year hunters harvest 50 million game birds, including 10 million pheasants, 4 million Hungarian partridges, and 1 million chukars.

These three species provide nearly 30 per cent of the total game bird harvest," noted John Gotschalk, director of the Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, at a recent conservation meeting in Lucerne, Switzerland.

All three of these birds have one thing in common. They are not native to North America but have been introduced into this country as exotics." Successful like this—encourages federal, state and private agencies to continue the importation of exotic wildlife.

Importation of wildlife into the United States is not new. In 1786, George Washington received a shipment of foreign game birds from the Marquis de Lafayette, and importation of exotics has continued since this time with varying degrees of success.

However, present efforts to introduce new animals, birds and fish in no way resemble previous attempts.

Early introductions of even our most successful game species such as the Hun, chukar and Chinese pheasant were mostly unplanned and uncontrolled. These early introductions of exotics were undertaken for various reasons, and none of them were based on scientific principles.

Only recently have introductions been planned with an eye to fitting the animal or bird to its habitat requirements, the ecology of an animal, i. e. its relationship to its environment, must be studied carefully before an introduction is attempted.

Such things as the climate, terrain, food habits, amount and kind of cover preferred and the habits of these factors are related to each other as well as to the animal must be investigated.

After determining the basic requirements of an animal, the area being considered for his new home must be studied. Weather patterns and topography must be examined. Another consideration is whether or not the newcomer will have adverse effects on native wildlife. An example of what can be accomplished when proper techniques are used is the introduction of the chukar partridge into Idaho. Idaho started raising chukars in the late thirties, and releases were made throughout the state.

However, little was known about their habitat needs, and many of these early releases were made in areas which were later cataloged as entirely unsuitable for them.

In 1959, an effort was made to determine what the habitat requirements of these birds were. Then releases also were selected which appeared to best meet their needs. Within three years, huntable populations were available to Idaho hunters. Also successfully introduced into Idaho have been several species of fish. Of 62 species currently found in Idaho, approximately one-third have been introduced. Brook trout, mackinaw, Kamloops, bass, bluegills, and channel catfish have filled habitat niches that were formerly unoccupied by game fish.

As part of the Five Point Program for the Future, the Department is presently introducing California bighorn sheep, Merriam's turkey, opossum shrimp (a small fresh water crustacean) and the Japanese green pheasant.

The basic requirements of all of these animals were studied carefully before introduction was attempted.

The California bighorn sheep are being moved into the Owyhees from British Columbia. The Owyhees previously supported a population of bighorn sheep of a different variety.

Turkeys are being introduced into areas similar to those where they have been successfully introduced in other states. The Chinese pheasant has never been very successful in North Idaho; to fill this gap, the Japanese green pheasant is being introduced.

The opossum shrimp prefers cold, deep bodies of water, and is being introduced into the large bodies of water around the state. If it becomes established, it will provide food for various species of fish.

However, not all introductions of exotic animals, birds and fish are the delight of hunters and fishermen. Some notable examples are the English sparrow, starling, house mice, Norway rats and the carp.

The rats were accidental introductions, while the English sparrow and the starling were deliberately released by people of European descent who misjudged their effects.

The starling was introduced in New York in 1900. Within 52 years, it has spread to every state in the Union. It eats corn, grain, sorghum, rice, truck crops, and fruits, and will consume one to two times its own body weight daily. In feed lots, they raid grain spread for livestock.

In feed lots, they raid grain spread for livestock. Feed which they do not eat directly, they often contaminate and ruin. In addition, these blackbirds carry swine diseases.

In 1877, carp were introduced into this country with the intention that they would quickly out-class our native species in providing food and sport.

Within a few years, everyone realized that the carp was, in reality, a serious pest that destroyed habitat for game fish and waterfowl. It never lived up to its predicted ability to supply either food or sport.

Each year all of these species do millions of dollars-worth of damage and millions are spent trying to exterminate them.

In order not to repeat mistakes like this, the Idaho Fish and Game Commission has been given the power to regulate the importation of undesirable animals, birds and fish. At a recent meeting of the Commission, the following order was adopted:

"Pursuant to and under authority of Chapter 1, Section 36-126, Idaho Code, the Idaho Fish and Game Commission hereby orders that it shall be unlawful for any person, natural or artificial, to import, transport into, or release or sell within the State of Idaho any living animal, birds, fish or the eggs of any birds or fish without having first obtained a permit from, and of a form prescribed by, the Director of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, except that no permit shall be required if said animals, birds, or fish are:

A. Animals or birds normally considered to be of agricultural or domestic types currently common to Idaho or are animals and birds imported under authority of the Idaho Department of Agriculture.

B. Game birds, as so classified by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, which are to be used in dog field trials or for purposes provided for in Chapters 35 and 10 of Title 36 of the Idaho Code or for which an appropriate dog field trial, game bird farm or game bird park permit has already been obtained.

C. Game fish, as so classified by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, which are to be used for purposes provided for in Chapters 5 and 19 of Title 36 of the Idaho Code.

D. Furhearers, as so classified by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission, which are to be used for purposes provided for in Chapter 30 of Title 25 of the Idaho Code.

E. Ornamental, aquarium fish.

Burley Credit Women Hear Loan Officer

BURLEY.—C. B. Brown, Boise, loan officer of the Small Business Administration, was guest speaker Thursday morning during breakfast meeting of Credit Women's Breakfast Club at Bryan's Cafe.

Invocation was given by Mrs. Claude Kitley, club chaplain. Mrs. William Taylor, membership chairman, outlined membership plans.

Mr. Brown outlined enterprises on which the Small Business Administration will make loans up to $350,000 at one time to be paid back over a period of 10 years.

No loans may be made to buy or sell a business or for investment purposes, Mr. Brown said.

About $4 million has been loaned in the Magic Valley area through the Small Business Administration, he noted. Money is loaned in a new business where there is matching money by the businessman.

Mrs. Della Johnson, program chairman, announced that Jay Nelson, manager of the Albion Bank, will be guest speaker during the Feb. 2 meeting.

Area Boy Scout Officials Faced With Problem Of Crowded Camp Facilities

—For example, 25 of the original 26 U. S. astronauts, Boy Scout camp provided a wilderness setting for a unique experience during which the boys brought face-to-face with himself, his fellow scouts and the realities of nature. It is an experience that was designed to be available to all boys, regardless of financial status.

Camp Bradley is located northwest of Stanley on the edge of the Idaho primitive area. Council executives noted that facilities last summer, particularly dining room facilities, were so cramped that many campers were eating on porches.

Camp Bradley is limited in the number of campers it can accommodate by weather conditions in that area of Idaho.

The camp cannot remain open more than six weeks during the peak summer season. For this reason, and other considerations, the council officials have proposed that a new camp be built in Magic Valley.

An additional camp would bring the Snake River Area camping program out of hibernation by remaining open year-round. A site for the proposed camp has not yet been decided upon, but it will be located on the Snake River somewhere in Magic Valley if approved, the officials said.

It would be used for continuing leadership training activities and overnight camping trips. It would be open for summer operations from June 15 to Aug. 15, accommodating 200 boys weekly. During the rest of the year an open amphitheater and indoor facilities in case of inclement weather would be of great value, scout officials said.

Funds raised during the Snake River Area Council's three-month camp development campaign will be used to improve and expand facilities at the existing Camp Bradley. A swimming pool, central dining lodge and kitchen; interfaith chapel, central shower facility, water system, camp staff quarters, campfire circle, new roads, electrical system, trading post and obstacle course are among the items scheduled for construction at Camp Bradley if the campaign is successful. The $380,000 goal of the camp development fund drive, or capital fund drive, would budget $108,754 for renovation of Camp Bradley and $108,246 for construction of a new camp. It is the first capital appeal made in the 24-year history of the council and will not be an annual drive. Pledges may be made on a three-year basis, since the drive will encompass a three-year period. Scout officials have voiced the opinion that the capital fund drive will be the last in the history of the council, as well as the first.

The camping program has always been important to Scouts in the West, and the Snake River Area Council has been outstanding in the field, being rated as fourth in the nation on the percentage of Scouts participating in the camping program.

The campaign is headed by Bob Day, district manager of the Amalgamated Sugar Co. Dr. James L. Taylor, college of business Idaho president, is chairman of the Camp Development Committee, which will decide priority needs of the camping program.

The Snake River Area camping program can either expand or limit its operation to exclude some Scouts. And therein lies the heart of the campaign's appeal to area citizens — which Scouts shall be left behind?

THE SNAKE RIVER Area Council's camping program for Boy Scouts will not long be able to accommodate all Scouts wishing to attend camp unless its facilities are expanded and improved. Craig Bledsoe, a Twin Falls Troop 81 member, anticipates camp six months before the season will open. (Times-News photo)

Rupert Board Eyes Permit For Store

RUPERT.—Carl Williams has received a permit from the Zoning Board to put up a retail grocery store at 500 North on Meridian Road. No action will be taken by the board until Williams submits a site plan.

A letter will be sent to Harold Hunter, an Alfreese Road, advising him to clean the premises of his resident lot.

Members voted at their meeting last week to institute legal action against junk yards which have been compiled with the zoning ordinance requiring eight-foot fences to front such property.

Zoning administrator Lawrence Boldt, was instructed by the board to check on vacant lots which are covered with junk or debris and to take action to clean up or remove them.

January building permits include trailer home permits to Lester Loveland, 100 West 126 South, and Frank Stroud, 200 North, 500 East. Receiving permits for new dwellings were Bob Beck, 300 South West, West, and R. O. Denton, Back Rex, Ashcraft, 100 North 180 West, and R. O. Denton, Back sub-division in Paul.

Other permits went to Houston Duff, three and one half miles west of Paul, additional and Melvin Stark, 400 South 1125 West, remodel and addition.

varieties commonly accepted for interstate shipment.

F. Animals and birds commonly considered to be conventional household pets.

G. Animals, birds, or fish imported for public display or scientific research purposes by zoo or endowment - supported zoos and/or educational institutions.

The prevention of importation of undesirable animals, birds and fish is another one of the Idaho Fish and Game Commission's duties to help provide the best possible hunting and fishing for Idaho residents.

Reduction Of Services In Area Okayed

BOISE (AP)—The Idaho Public Utilities Commission said today it has authorized Union Pacific Railroad to reduce agency service in several Southern Idaho locations.

One agent will serve two stations under the plan, dividing his time between the two. The PUC approved these combinations:

Ketchum and Hatley, Jerome and Wendell, Murtaugh and Hansen, Fruitland and New Plymouth.

In each instance, the place first listed is the home agency, the commission said.

The commission also announced approval of a certificate of convenience and necessity authorizing the Ketchum Springs Water Supply Co. of Ketchum to provide water service for the community.

Denial of a request from Richard S. Eaton, Wendell, that he be given temporary motor common carrier authority to transport passengers between Wendell and the Soldier Mountain Ski Area north of Fairfield.

SMALL BRIDGE PROFITS SHOW

Today's hand shows Eric Murray at work again. We approve of his double of one spade but sort of shudder at his two no-trump call. On the other hand, Eric's style is to bid when it is his turn and his two no-trump bid produced five dividends. Sammy Kehela in the East went to three hearts and if won and shifted to a diamond. South allowed this to run to Eric's queen and Eric led another heart. South ruffed in dummy, discarded a diamond on the ace of clubs and led a diamond for a finesse. The finesse lost to Eric's king and because his defense still had to make two trump tricks, South was down one.

At the other tables, South was allowed to play his spades and with the play going the same way, these South players made the same eight tricks for a plus of 110 points instead of a minus of 100 points.

These small swings don't amount to much in a rubber bridge game but in IMP competition they actually determine who wins and who loses.

In the IMP scale a swing of 170-210 points is worth 5 IMP's. A swing of 250 points which represents the difference between winning game and a slam is only worth 13 IMP's so that three such part-score swings more than balance a missed slam.

CARD SENSE

Q-The bidding has been:

West North East South
1 ♠ Pass East South
1 ♠ Pass East South
2 ♠ Pass East South
3 ♠ Pass East South
4 ♠ Pass East South

♠: South, hold:

♠A Q 7 6 5 ♣A K 8 3 2 ♦A 7 6

What do you do?

A—Bid three no-trump. Your partner must be trying for winners game and a slam is only worth 13 IMP's so that three such part-score swings more than balance a missed slam.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of passing over one diamond your partner doubles. What do you, South, do in this case?

For this reason you would make an excellent teacher, for your own breathless curiosity would carry your students along to new and greater heights.

AMERICARE®

Now Americans can enjoy the benefits of this...
NEW KIND OF SERVICE THAT PROTECTS YOU — THE AMERICAN WAY!

And, over America, in every city, town and hamlet where working people live, thousands of wage earners young and old, both men and women, are making a sad and costly mistake.

They are relying solely on regular hospital insurance or "group" insurance, to see them through emergencies caused by sudden illness or injury.

True, this kind of health care protection helps pay the doctor, the surgeon, the hospital, and laboratory. BUT THAT'S AS FAR AS IT GOES!

Think about it! Your health and accident insurance WON'T PAY Family food bills, rent, mortgage or car payments. Nor will it keep your family in clothes and other essentials. Yet these expenses grow at an almost unbelievable rate during a period of little, if any, income.

That's why American Republic's newest American plan is so important to you. This unusual plan helps protect you against the staggering debt that can result from a prolonged hospital stay. It keeps your family on its feet, even if you are flat on your back!

Americare pays you a weekly income while you are hospitalized — starting with the very first day. And it pays — and pays — and pays — up to a full year!

It pays in addition to all other insurance and income you may have. The money comes direct to you, for you to use as you wish — for any purpose whatsoever.

No wonder this Americare plan is like having an "$8,000 bank account." That's how much income protection it's worth if you are hospitalized for a full year. Imagine! $8,212.50 for you and your family to live on — and it's TAX-FREE!

No medical examination is required — and you can apply for this American plan regardless of your age, health or occupation. American Republic now provides protection to tens of thousands of persons previously considered uninsurable.

Even if you are 65 or over, and eligible for Medicare, you can still collect this extra cash when an accident or illness puts you in the hospital. It not only helps you pay household bills and other everyday expenses, but it can also be used to help pay for private-room and private-nursing care that Medicare is not intended to cover.

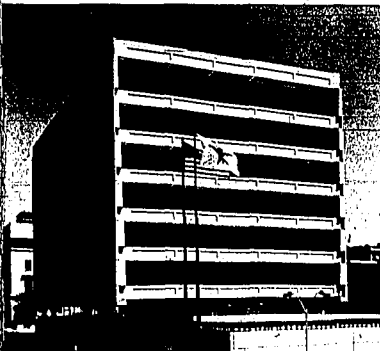

You are covered for any accident from the moment your policy is issued, and for sickness 30 days from the date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work or when you are in a U. S. Government or Veterans Hospital.

This Americare plan can never be cancelled by American Republic because of age, health or number of claims. It is LifeGuarded Protection. This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be YOURS FOR LIFE as long as you make timely payment of current premium.

THESE ARE THE FACTS!

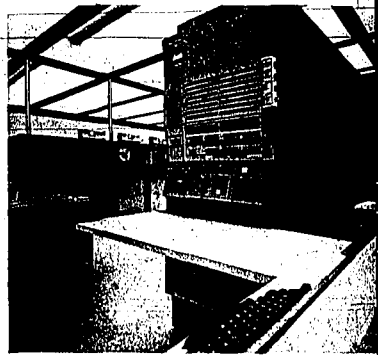

According to the latest 3-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any other of the Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance. When you are protected by Americare, you have protection that pays!

Don't delay! Protect yourself this new low-cost way! Mail the attached postage-paid card for complete facts.

The home of Americare — the modern, efficient new National Headquarters Building of American Republic, in Des Moines, Iowa.

© 1966 American Republic Insurance Company

If you need to call on your Americare protection for a claim, your claim check and letter will be printed in less than two seconds by the world's most modern Electronic Data Processing System. This means you will receive your claim payment immediately.
