Numbing Cold Wave Sweeps 9-State Area

By The Associated Press

A wave of bone-numbing cold swept into parts of a nine-state area today as the latest of a series of killer snowstorms moved into the Eastern Seaboard.

The latest storm brought delays in transportation, school closings, frustration and death to many areas.

Cold-wave warnings were posted today for parts of nine states from Wisconsin to Illinois to western Texas and Nebraska.

And in New Orleans, heavy rain drenched the coastlines but not the spirits of revelers at the annual Mardi Gras parade.

The Weather Bureau today posted tornado warnings for parts of coastal areas in eastern and south-central Texas and southwestern and central Louisiana.

Also forecast for the region were severe thunderstorms with large hail and locally damaging winds.

The latest of three successive storms gave snow-weary Chicagoans up to eight inches more and deposited up to 11 inches in the driveways of their suburban neighbors.

Some Chicagoans haven't seen their cars since the first storm dumped 23 inches on the city 13 days ago.

"It's just like white cement," said one young man as he tried to shove his sports car out of a drift. "Even if I do get it out the streets are so bad I'll be afraid to drive it."

Chicago's new snowfall gave it a total of 36.5 inches. About 27 inches are still on the ground.

Blowing snow piled drifts in highways in northeast Illinois and central Indiana. A line of 56 cars stalled on a long "S" curve of Illinois 136 just west of Rantoul. Two snowplows trying to rescue the motorists snaged in drifts. It took highway crews three hours to free the plows.

Deifts were reported in the wake of the storm from the Dakotas through Michigan.

The bodies of a South Dakota rancher and his wife were found Sunday in the icy waters of a creek, only a few hundred feet from their home. Police said the couple had abandoned their car in a snowstorm, then fell through the ice while crossing the stream.

A search party, alerted by reports of an abandoned car, found another South Dakota man wandering in a field in 4-below-zero temperatures. The man, Walter Leidel, died on the way to a hospital.

In Cleveland and Chicago and other cities, several persons, mostly elderly, died in front of their homes while shoveling snow. Doctors said the deaths were probably due to heart attacks.

A Chicago woman died Saturday when she was hit by a snowplow. At St. Bonifacius, Minn., a student at Jesuit College was struck by a car and killed while walking in blinding snow along Minnesota 7.

Snow plows cleared the streets of cities along both shores of Lake Erie. In Detroit new snow powdered heavily, iced streets and made driving, or even walking, hazardous. Few residential streets were free of snow and many drivers bogged down in front of their own homes. The Sunday night snowstorm created a massive traffic pileup at Olympia Stadium before and after the National Hockey League game between Detroit and Montreal.

Cincinnati also reported new snow on six streets.

The Weather Bureau predicted the snow would continue to move east and forecast heavy accumulations in an area from Pennsylvania through Maryland.

President Urges Massive Effort To Combat Crime

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson urged on Congress today a massive effort to combat crime "with every means at our command." Johnson proposed to throw at least $50 million into what he termed a bold venture "to treat ancient evils and to ensure the public safety." The $50 million is aimed primarily at helping states and cities to help themselves in efforts to uproot crime. The money would be used in the next fiscal year under a Safe Streets and Crime Control Act, largely for grants for planning anticrime campaigns and for research and pilot projects.

Johnson proposed that the federal government put up 90 per cent of the cost of financing the planning and 60 per cent of the cost of the actual programs, such as setting up effective alarm systems, tactical squads, special street lighting, and new rehabilitation efforts.

The crime message is one of a series of special messages sent by Johnson to Capitol Hill, spelling out details of his legislative programs.

Among other things Johnson urged the outlawing of all wiretapping, public and private, and all willful invasions of privacy by electronic devices—the only exceptions to be where national security is at stake.

Johnson also urged enactment of a law to crack down on mail order sales of firearms. It was a mail order rifle that killed President John F. Kennedy.

Mail order sales could be made only between federal licensees, under this proposal. And these licenses would be barred from selling hand guns to any person under 21, and from selling rifles and shotguns to anyone under 18.

Johnson noted that the crime rate is highest in the 16-21 age group and that "15-year-olds commit more of the serious crimes than any other age group, with 16-year-olds close behind."

In this connection, Johnson said he is submitting to Congress shortly a program for giving job training and increasing their chances for more useful, productive lives.

Incorporated into today's message were some of the findings of a report Johnson got two weeks ago from the National Crime Commission, which he established in July, 1965. It still is SEE PRESIDENT, Page 2, Col. 6.

Tax Office Merger Proposed In House

By MARK BROWN

BOISE (AP)—Merger of the office of tax collector with the tax commission was proposed today in the Idaho Legislature. Sponsored by the House Revenue and Taxation Committee, a bill introduced in the House would assign each of the commission members a specific geographical area and give them salaries of $14,500 annually for fulltime work. Currently, commission members are paid $25 a day while on commission.

Course Of Lunar Orbiter Is Changed

PASADENA, Calif. (AP)—Scientists changed the course of Lunar Orbiter slightly today and said preliminary data indicated the maneuver was "right on the money."

It takes several hours of tracking to determine results accurately.

Previously the experts said the launch from Cape Kennedy, Fla., Saturday night was with "fantastic accuracy."

The midcourse maneuver today slowed the speed of the spacecraft by 21.4 miles per hour and changed its trajectory to put it in a more desirable position when it arrives in the vicinity of the moon Wednesday.

This will enable scientists at Jet Propulsion Laboratory here to put the 850-pound spacecraft in a proper moon orbit for the subsequent photographing of the safest sites for landings by U.S. astronauts.

Fulbright Gives Up On Testimony

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chairman J.W. Fulbright said today he has about given up hope that Secretary of State Dean Rusk will testify at his Senate Foreign Relations public hearings on world policies.

Rusk, who encountered some rough questioning last year during the committee's inquiry into Vietnam, has turned down invitations to appear on specific dates.

Each time he told committee officials the press of other business would make it impossible to commit himself.

Fulbright said he has concluded that Rusk will not testify in an open session.

"I should think he would like to defend the administration's position," the Arkansas Democrat said. "But if he doesn't want to testify I have no intention of pressing him."

Reminded that Rusk considered last year's attacks unwarranted, Fulbright said he is interested only in finding out where U.S. policies are leading.

Hundreds of Russians marched on the Red China's embassy and some invaded the grounds, the embassy reported.

4 Uninjured In Air Crash Near Jackpot

Civil Aeronautics Director Chet Moore today said that four of the four Twin Falls County into Monday or Tuesday to continue investigation of a light plane crash near the Idaho Nevada state line Sunday.

State Patrolman Cole Watkins said the plane, owned and presumably piloted by Eldon W. Burdette, 7100 Swill Lane, Boise, took off about 6:30 a.m. Sunday from the landing field at Jackpot, Nev.

A few minutes later it struck power lines near the state line and crashed—landed two miles north on the Idaho side.

Officer Watkins said the pilot and three passengers left the craft and hitchhiked back to Boise where they reported the crash to the Civil Aeronautics Agency. Although the craft was on a fuel test from S. Higley way 93, the officer said it was hidden except for one wing. Only one passenger reported it.

All four occupants, he said, apparently were uninjured, but the craft, a Cessna 170, was extensively damaged. The power line was severed and left across the highway, cutting off power and telephone service for several hours.

The Bank of America is said to have had its beginning after the St. Francis, Idaho, Building Co. bought up a little block of Italy in a shop, for the purpose of financing trust funds, when small business needs. Big odds still grow from tiny accounts, and a small bank that grows big, does so by making a complete set of business terms, while a selling proposition reads itself, turn the whole thing upside down.

BATHROOM

Results were good, everything sold in 3 days.

MAGIC VALLEY—Some increase in cloudiness today, otherwise fair through Tuesday. High in 40s, low 22 to 32, except Camas Prairie high 35 to 40, low zero to 10. Outlook for Wednesday is little change. Temperatures at 8 a.m. at Jerome, 31 at T. F. Weather Bureau with 58 per cent humidity, 25 at Rupert, 32 at Fairfield, 31 at Halley, 33 at Buhl, 24 at Castleford, 25 at Gooding; at noon, 43 at T. F. Weather Bureau with 45 per cent humidity. Barometer 70.28.

Mostly clear skies were the rule this morning over the valleys of Southern Idaho. An exception to this trend was in the northern portion of the Upper Snake River where clouds persisted in the Idaho Falls and Rexburg area. But the forenoon higher cloudiness was being increasing from the north ahead of the next fast moving storm.

Snow fell at Idaho Falls, Pocatello and Malad yesterday morning, as the front moved southwest into Utah. But the snow was short-lived and less than measurable amounts were recorded. Skies cleared by afternoon and fair weather continued through the night.

Little change is taking place in the upper level weather pattern with a somewhat cooler northwesterly flow of air holding over the Northern Intermountain Region. This airfall is related to the lightening activity in the upper atmosphere, but much precipitation, although it may again fall in eastern valleys tonight. Fair weather will return on Tuesday behind the front and continue into Wednesday.

No significant changes in temperature are expected the next two or three days. The air in our valleys is cooler now than it was in previous weeks. The minimum temperatures will be near normal for this time of the year. Maximum temperatures today and Tuesday will range from the mid 30s into the 40s. Minimum temperatures tonight will be a little warmer in southeastern valleys due to clouds at night with minimums mostly in the 20s in the valleys of southern Idaho.

Daytime temperatures yesterday were from 2 to 12 degrees warmer in southwestern valleys, Magic Valley and the Upper Snake valleys. The high for the day was 53 degrees at Emmett. Clear skies during the night in most valleys allowed for some temperature drop, but the morning temperatures will be near normal for this time of the year. Maximum temperatures today and Tuesday will range from the mid 30s into the 40s. Minimum temperatures tonight will be a little warmer in southeastern valleys due to clouds at night with minimums mostly in the 20s in the valleys of southern Idaho.

High pressure aloft is expected to remain along the West Coast causing a continuation of the northwesterly flow of air into the northern Intermountain Region. Stronger storms will move to the north and then east of the Continental Divide through this week.

Temperatures Tuesday through Saturday will average near normal in the valleys of Southern Idaho. Only small day to day temperature changes will occur with temperatures most days in the 30s in eastern valleys and in the 40s elsewhere. Some cloudiness tonight and again Wednesday night will cause higher night time readings, but minimums most nights will be in the teens in eastern valleys and in the 20s elsewhere in Southern Idaho valleys. Some normal maximum and minimum temperatures for this period are Gooding 38-19, Twin Falls 41-22 and Burley 39-21. Storms should be quite weak and fast moving systems through the valleys this week. In some western and southwestern valleys it is possible that the only result and elsewhere precipitation amounts through Saturday will be less than .05 of an inch. A minor storm is expected tonight and early Tuesday and again Wednesday night and Thursday in the valleys following these fast moving storms but no gusty winds will be associated with them. Sunshine will average from 55 to 75 per cent of possible.

Johnson at White House ceremonies where Johnson declared the government "must guard freedom of inquiry" and "extend it" to the highest tribute of the national government for distinguished scientific and engineering achievements.

He announced last December that the President with Mrs. Johnson among those in the audience, personally made the awards and congratulated the men of science.

The 1966 winners were: Edward Kellogg, director of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's entomology research lab; Vincent G. Dymally, professor of biochemistry at Rockefeller University; William Rock, professor of chemistry emeritus at the University of Illinois; Sewall Wright, professor genetics emeritus of the University of Wisconsin; Claude Shannon, donor professor of science at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

And Vladimir Zworykin, honorary vice president of Radio Corp. of America, is professor of mathematics at Princeton University; Jacob Harkness, professor meteorology at the University of California in Los Angeles; Subramanyam Chandrasekhar, professor of theoretical astrophysics at the University of Chicago; Henry J. Cantow, Jr., director of a school at the University of Utah, and John Van Vleck, Hol., his professor of mathematics and physical philosophy at Harvard University.

President

(Continued From Page One) has not been released but Johnson said it would be sooner and covered some of its highlights.

He said there are six principal themes running through it:

1. Crime prevention is of paramount importance and this means, among other things, eliminating crime-breeding conditions, as well as quick police response to emergency calls, better proofing cars, and the strict control of gun sales.

2. The system of criminal justice must itself be just, with an end to "functorary, mass production of convictions and longer courts and scandalous conditions in many jails.

3. Better trained people are needed desperately throughout the system of criminal justice and must be more effectively used.

4. A far broader, more profound range of treatment is needed than the present correctional system provides. Many offenders, most of all the young ones, stand a far better chance of being rehabilitated in their home communities than in ordinary confinement.

5. Better information, and deeper, broader research, vital to police and correctional agencies.

6. Substantially greater resources must be devoted to improving the entire criminal justice system, with the help but not the domination of the federal government.

Powell, Debt Limit Share Top Billing

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adam Clayton Powell and the apfional debt limit share top billing in Congress this week.

The case of Powell, New York Democrat who has been refused his seat in the House pending an investigation of his qualifications, comes before a special House committee Wednesday. Powell, who already has been stripped of the chairmanship of the Education and Labor Committee, has been invited to testify.

The debt-limit bill comes before the House next Wednesday and faces stiff opposition from Republicans. It would increase the national debt ceiling to $338 billion through next June 30, a boost of $8 billion over the present temporary limit.

A House Foreign Affairs subcommittee has scheduled hearings Wednesday and Thursday on the government's foreign propaganda programs. It wants to know if the story of America's policies and purposes is effectively reaching the people of the world.

The Senate, which spent last week debating a proposed congressional reorganization plan, will continue on that subject this week. More voting on amendments is scheduled for Tuesday. Final action may not come until late this month.

Further hearings by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on the controversial U.S.-Soviet consular treaty have been put off until Feb. 17.

Democrats Urged To Work Toward Party Harmony

Democratic party leaders from eight Magic Valley counties were urged by State Democratic Chairman E. T. Waters, Boise, to work toward party harmony in their area and statewide and to begin rebuilding the Democratic Party.

Mr. Waters spoke to some 75 party officials Saturday night during a district dinner meeting in the Holiday Inn.

He said disagreement among members of the Democratic Party means gains for the opposition.

The chairman told Magic Valley Democrats to forget differences built up during the unusual circumstances of the elections last fall, and to work toward rebuilding for 1968.

Other speakers included State Sen. Vernon Ravenscroft, Gooding County, who reviewed activities thus far in the 38th Legislature. He told the Democrats there is a serious lack of experience and leadership in the current legislature.

Samuel Day, Boise, publisher of a weekly newspaper in Ada County, also stressed harmony while Robert Bakes, Boise attorney, urged an interest in genuine political activity from the precinct to governorship.

Also attending were co-vice chairman of the Idaho Central Committee, Lu Dean-Eriksen, Pocatello, and Mrs. Claire Wetherell, Mountain Home.

Counties represented include Twin Falls, Camas, Gooding, Jerome, Lincoln, Blaine, Cassia and Minidoka. Vincent Smazal, Twin Falls County Democratic Central Committee chairman, conducted the meeting.

Troops Find Vietnam Highlands Are Chilly

By TOM TIEDE

KONTUM, Vietnam (NEA)—It may sound silly but the men of the 101st Airborne Division are sitting around the jungle here, swatting mosquitoes, snapping leeches and freezing up to their eyeballs.

Granted the country is tropical. Nevertheless, it's c-c-c-cold here. And the GIs are unprepared for it since Army supply people just don't send overcoats to rice paddy zones.

Actually, the highlands of Vietnam are annually chilly about this time. Unlike the sea level regions which swelter year round, the mountains here rise up to 8,000 feet and normally experience from two to three months of shivering every winter.

"But," chatters one GI, "this year it's ridiculous." "It is that all right. Weather station records at Kontum (elevation 3,000 feet) list this year's low at 50 degrees, but goose-pimpling combat troopers swear it's nearer freezing on the near-by peaks."

One soldier, in fact, recently reported to an aid station rubbing his feet violently and insisting he had frost bite.

"It can't be," a medic said. "It is," the GI countered.

"Let's see."

"Nothing."

"But my feet are killing me."

"I suggest," the medic said, "you get larger boots."

But even though frostbite is impossible, dozens of other illnesses have resulted from the bitter weather. Frequent colds have broken out and a few have been diagnosed as pneumonia.

The temperature alone, perhaps, is not severe enough to cause much concern. But coupled with rains and the endless winds—which whip through the upland valleys, soldiers are suffering mightily.

The men are still dressed for 100 degrees.

"It's like wearing nothing," said one.

"I need longjohns," says another.

"Brrrr," adds a third.

Warmer times, however, are not in the immediate offing. Most men have been issued thin wool sweaters but nothing else is available. Some of the line troops here didn't even bring field jackets along.

Yet, with it all, the weather is not entirely cursed. It's an ill wind that blows nobody well. And the intelligence report is that fighting has slackened off because the thinly draped enemy has beat it down, country for warmer climes.

Then, too, there is the incident of the paratrooper who indirectly owes his life to the dipping temperatures. He, a sergeant, was with a company on a search-and-clear mission at the time.

They were pushing across the side of a rain-swept mountain when the order was given to halt for the night. Then men sagged wearily to the mud and pulled their insufficient wraps close around their necks.

The sergeant sat down on a log. He took a drink from his canteen. lit a soggy cigarette and made nasty comments about the eternal wind.

He sat there 10 minutes.

Then he felt something.

WE MAKE
LOANS
On Anything of Value
RED'S

He got up and looked around.

He was sitting on a poisonous snake.

The snake, a deadly cane viper, would have surely bitten the soldier under normal conditions. But in the cold, the reptile was too sluggish to move for the kill.

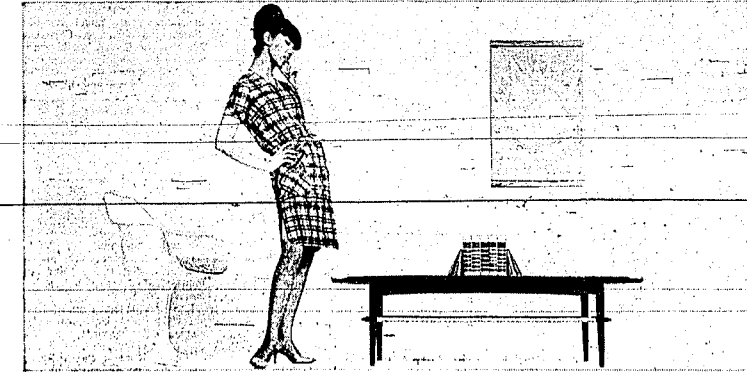

The sergeant's mouth dropped open. He picked up a knife and brought the blade down had on the viper.

Since then, temperatures here haven't improved at all. And everybody is clustering up in small bunches to rub their hands, flap their arms and grumble about the sopping rain and the 40-mile-an-hour winds. Everybody but the sergeant, of course.

He thinks the weather's g-g-great.

Better, We Hope

We trust the ambulance service now available for residents of the Twin Falls area is working out to the satisfaction of all concerned.

In the "old days," when the various mortuary owners furnished this important service, it was prompt and efficient but it ended there. For the most part it was unwarding to them from a financial point of view. Why?

It happened about like this. A call would come in and a wreck would be reported. Someone was injured. An ambulance was requested. The mortician raced to the scene, picked up the injured person, then raced to the hospital. Then it all fell apart. Who was to be billed?

The person who ordered the ambulance many times denied that he or she even knew the injured person.

"I just thought an ambulance was necessary," they would say.

The injured person, soon up and around, would say: "I never asked for any help."

So this left the mortician with nothing to stand on. He had made the run, he had delivered the patient to the hospital and now he was stuck. He would get no money!

It didn't happen this way all the time. Many people paid their just debt. But a lot of them didn't and this made the task an expensive one.

So now the setup is changed and one firm handles the ambulance business. The morticians seem to be happy with the situation. We hope the owners of the new service will be happy, too.

TEXTBOOK TREATMENT

People of Magic Valley sometimes get the idea they are far away from everything and that specific happenings in distant regions do not concern them. They are wrong.

One thing, for instance, which could very well concern area residents is a national conference of the National Educational Association which will be held in Washington.

At that conference textbook treatment of Negroes and other minorities will be considered. The conference will precede the 41st annual observance of Negro History Week, Feb. 12-19.

The NEA has sponsored a series of activities leading up to the special week observance.

Representatives from publishing, education, government and city rights organizations will review progress since a similar NEA conference on the subject in May, 1965. At that time textbook publishers came under fire for producing instructional materials that reflected only the white middle class and often brought racial prejudice.

Part of the progress during the past 18 months is indicated by the fact that a new NEA bibliography lists more than 400 multi-ethnic textbooks and other instructional materials.

A similar bibliography at the time of a 1965 conference listed only 25 volumes. A major purpose of the forthcoming conference will be to help more teachers become familiar with the new materials and make them available in the classrooms.

Recommendations for further improvement in the treatment of minorities in textbooks and better use of such instructional materials will be considered at the final session.

In explaining NEA's participation in Negro History Week, officials declared that throughout the years the American Peace Association and the Association for the Study of Negro Life and History cooperatively sponsored this special observance. Since the historic merger of the ATA, a predominantly Negro education association, and the NEA last year, the NEA has taken over this sponsorship role.

NEA civil rights activities in January included the premiere of a filmstrip, "Legacy of Honor," designed to give students a better understanding of the role of the Negro in American history. It was produced by the NEA in cooperation with the ASNLHI.

The NEA has also featured an art exhibit on Negro history, which will continue in the lobby until late February, and has issued new material related to civil rights.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

(Editor's Note: This is the second of two guest columns by Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien since the plans were announced.)

BY POSTMASTER GENERAL LAWRENCE F. O'BRIEN

WASHINGTON—On a recent trip to Europe, I learned that in Great Britain mailers will have to pay extra postage after July of 1968 for envelopes exceeding the standard size of 9 1/2 inches long and 3 3/4 inches wide.

A study group is looking into that problem in the United States and I expect it to come up with recommendations which will help to compare certain steps of mail processing from a manual to a mechanical operation.

I believe the envelope industry will go along with us, once we show the business mailer it's to his advantage to use uniform-sized envelopes. By this I don't mean a single size, but a number of sizes within a reasonable range. These envelopes will get faster processing on the machines. That, of course, means faster delivery, even for third class mail.

FIRST, "PLEASE!"

Cooperation again is the key here. We would prefer voluntary compliance, rather than impose a surcharge for envelopes that could be held up in transit.

My engineering experts advise me that to achieve a really high degree of mechanization we must ultimately go beyond uniformity in size and shape. Ideally speaking, we should seek a standard texture and quality in the envelope, standard shades and textures of ink, and standard sizes for type and characters to make alphabetic and numeric characters recognizable to the machines.

Right now we have in the Detroit Post Office an optical scanner that can read machine printed or typewritten ZIP coded addresses at the rate of 36,000 an hour. It also is programmed to read the second line of the address and to sort incoming and outgoing mail directly to the letter carrier's delivery routes, a much more difficult operation.

It's a great machine. And it has been rightfully hailed as a "major breakthrough" in mail handling.

SCANNER BEING TRAINED—But it has its limitations. It can't read handwritten mail. It is confused by extraneous information on an added last line, such as "Attn. Mr. Jones." And it cannot read the form of greatly increased characters for mechanization purposes will not in itself enable us to perform miracles.

The money is always necessary, of course. But mechanical changes need to be accompanied by a comprehensive program geared to the changes that are taking place in transportation and the technology of processing the mail. We need better buildings housing the machines, we need an army of skilled operators, we need a tremendous educational campaign to train our own people in the management of this complex program. We also need proper equipment and automation and the necessary changes that are needed and to make the necessary follow-up.

Finally, to recruit the talent that will feed ingenuity, resourcefulness and the desire to seek new ideas in the mechanization program, we must make an effort to brighten the image of the postal service in the scientific, engineering and academic community. By calling attention to the new direction of change in progress, we must make an effort to brighten the image of the postal service in the scientific, engineering and academic community. By calling attention to the new direction of change in progress, we must make an effort to brighten the image of the postal service in the scientific, engineering and academic community.

NEEDS AN ARMY

Earlier I mentioned that accelerated mechanization is both an immediate and long range goal. This is not to say that all-out mechanization is the panacea that will cure all of our postal ailments. A wind-up of an army of skilled operators and increased funds for mechanization purposes will not in itself enable us to perform miracles.

The money is always necessary, of course. But mechanical changes need to be accompanied by a comprehensive program geared to the changes that are taking place in transportation and the technology of processing the mail. We need better buildings housing the machines, we need an army of skilled operators, we need a tremendous educational campaign to train our own people in the management of this complex program. We also need proper equipment and automation and the necessary changes that are needed and to make the necessary follow-up.

Views Of Others

JAPAN'S VOTERS

The Japanese election returns appear to refute the claim that voters in Vietnam can cast their vote for Asian nations. For Premier Eisaku Sato's Liberal Democrats, who firmly support the U. S.-Japanese security treaty, and who had nearly turned the Japanese people against the United States, the result could have been much different.

Even so, Sato's margin in the lower house of parliament was only 99 seats, though that was slightly better than his own forecast. Moreover, the pro-Peking Socialists also lost ground and the Communists did no better than break even. Thus these parties favor scrapping the security pact.

Sato's personal popularity has slumped in recent months. His government has been shaken by a series of scandals involving three cabinet members. The Liberal Democrats have been badly split by factionalism. As a consequence, the elections tested party leadership as well as political sentiment.

The premier was accused of emphasizing the American-Japanese partnership in order to obscure the corruption issue. And, specifically, the Kamome (lean government) Party, pledged up 25 House seats in its first try, gave only 12. The Liberal Democrats have been badly split by factionalism. As a consequence, the elections tested party leadership as well as political sentiment.

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is the quietest times in the grooves of American politics when there isn't much light, and not much wind, either.

The inhabitants of those grooves, including some dinosaurs from an earlier age, may seem to be taking a nap, but aren't really, they are getting ready for more frantic days of knifing, maneuvering and fancy footwork.

Democrats and Republicans are gathering their wits while trying to digest President Johnson's heavy menu of programs that he has presented to the national diet and with a minimum of pravy.

A very significant thing, Johnson avoided doing the dishes with the aid of exaggerated rhetoric. His language in laying his programs before Congress, although he considers them vital, is as plain as ham and eggs.

This new Johnson, who took such an unpleasant dip in the public opinion polls but fell, is something for the members of both parties to ponder. He must have pondered it himself before he changed his style.

It has been frank, he has admitted his administration didn't have all the answers, and he has treated the Republicans like brothers although so far goes on he knows a lot of them will treat him like a third cousin.

Johnson's very restraint, both in manner and proposals, has apparently befuddled his critics who by this time might have been expected to be shouting indignantly at what they would probably call his audacity, or sheer pluck.

This gives him more time to serve up unannounced programs but from the White House kitchen. To be able to keep the political battle quiet and low profile in Congress, proves he is still quite a political musician.

Even protests over Vietnam seem as shrill as last year, True, Sen. A.W. Fulbright, Arkansas Democrat and unrelenting critic of Johnson on Vietnam, had his usual say, Military morale, professional, integrity, freedom of thought and national security have been struck a hard and bitter blow in the dismissal from command at the Air War College of Maj. Gen. Jerry D. Page, a leading and deeply respected Air Force theorist and commander.

The serious case is so fundamental to our defense establishment that its simple facts clearly speak for themselves. Being deeply interested in the case, I can do no better than describe what has happened. Every American, knowing the facts, should realize that we stand at crucial crossroads in our entire military outlook.

Gen. Page was picked to head the Air War College last summer because of his outstanding ability and fine mind. In the view of his peers he was the best man for the job — running a professional college for senior officers, placed in command of military crossroads in our entire military outlook.

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Every child does not learn to talk at the same age. Some say a few words at 11 or 12 months and some say very little until they are three or more. Most children fall somewhere between these extremes. If your child is not talking by 18 months, it is 14 months old you should have his hearing checked. If it is normal, relax. Don't try to pressure him by refusing to talk until he speaks. If you want to teach your dog to sit up and beg, do so, but your child is not a dog.

The more a child likes to be, the more he will want to be like you, so talk to him in the time pleasant voice as well when he is in a bad mood. Children who are well when you are in a bad mood, but at the time of about three they start talking in well-learned sentences. It is said that Albert Einstein was over 4 years old before he started to talk. His parents were plenty worried but he made out all right!

To some children undue pressure in their early years, such as toilet training, will make them hesitant to start talking. They will watchword seems to be "let's talk one problem at a time, Goo."

MARQUIS CHILDS WRITES ON WASHINGTON

WASHINGTON — In the new Republican sweepstakes a new player is moving up fast. Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois has become a front runner and by agreement of the rail birds he is crowding the favorite.

Perce's favorite is Gov. George Romney of Michigan who has had his troubles later over what he did or did not say to reporters at one of those obligatory news conferences. But the contrast between the respective positions of the two men is not merely one of personality and viewpoint.

Perce's seat in the Senate following his defeat of the veteran Democrat, Paul Douglas, Percy has a distinct advantage. For all the hopeful talk about creating federalism and turning back revenue to the states—in some distant tomorrow—over the past couple of days in this Capital. The Governors are on the periphery and it is hardly fair to expect Romney from the distance of the college. The group consisted of about 40 senior officers in the Air Force Reserve.

Perce is confident that on banking and currency he will be able to push his proposal to get his strategy into urban low cost housing on a guaranteed loan basis. This may be no more than wish fulfillment fantasy of a new member of the club of those who have got him considerable mileage in public life, since it is a concept that various highly placed persons in the Johnson Administration toyed with before it was filed and forgotten.

Speaking in Percy's own words in an interview, Dirksen is urging him to accept dates for funding action from Sen. Carl Curtis of Nebraska and Karl Mundt of South Dakota. He would be going into the conservative camp to spread the word of moderate Republicanism.

Perce is making the keynote speech at the statewide top convention in Detroit. It is Science and technology in Washington, and that is new and radical in this cocktail-conscious town.

What is more, Percy is taking to Washington and the Senate like a duck to water. With the full cooperation of the Senior Senator from Illinois, Everett McKinley Dirksen, he has been given advantageous committee assignments—banking and currency; aeronautical and space sciences; and the joint economic committee.

Poor Man's Plato

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — First he was a violinist. Then he became a pianist. Then, as the result of one simple idea, he switched to a new career that has made him almost a legendary figure in show business. The fact, he has sometimes referred to as "Mr. Show Business."

Relatively little known to the general public, Jules C. Stein, now 70, is the philanthropic financier who founded and is presently chairman of MCA, Inc., holding company for a year ago for the entertainment, real estate and banking empire.

It is the parent firm of Universal Pictures, Universal Television, MCA Records, and several other enterprises.

Stein, son of a South Bend, Ind., dry goods store owner, began his way through the University of Chicago, Rush Medical College playing the violin and saxophone. After a year at the University of Wisconsin he became an ophthalmologist at the Cook County Hospital.

"As a sideline, I was booking bands," he recalled. "At that time I was playing in the same spot for the same band."

"I conceived the idea that hands ought to move around more from place to place — the idea of the mobile band."

The idea proved an instant bonanza. Stein founded the Music Corp. of America in 1934, and a year later gave up the practice of medicine.

His firm, in addition to booking bands, began to manage individual performers in vaudeville, in the movies, radio, and eventually television.

"Over the years, we handled 600 bands, including Guy Lombardo's, and represented about 75 per cent of the great artists in the entertainment field," Stein said.

"Among them were people like Edgar Bergen, Hette Davis, Cliff Briggman, Jack Benny, Jimmy Stewart, George Murphy and Ronald Reagan."

Stein, a small, slender, white-haired man with a friendly smile and eyes and a slight manner, chuckled drily as he recalled the temperamental problems of dealing with some of the stars he had managed.

"My medical background often stood me in good stead because none of my clients also had a medical background. I found nothing to be done if a neurotic artist was the greater actor than his talent," he said.

"My great weakness was my inability to be fully human. In my opinion you shouldn't go into the artistic or medical fields unless you are human or sensitive in personality. That most artists are not emotional, but they aren't cold-blooded."

"I run a plenty of rooms for couples and boys. Some say 'I'm in.' Stein asked, 'But I'm not. Some people are frightened or some perhaps because of their position. But I've always found the answer. The man I prefer is to teach.'

Voluntary Service Is Favored

WASHINGTON (AP) — National leaders of 10 student groups have signed a statement favoring a voluntary military service and an end to the military draft.

"We believe that this society will best be served in any necessary military activities by men who serve willingly," said the statement released Sunday by Eugene Groves, president of the U.S. National Student Association.

Although it did not specify alternatives to the draft, the statement said "urgent needs exist for young people to become involved in the elimination of such social ills as poverty, ignorance, racial discrimination and war."

Congress To Recess Late This Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress plans to recess late this week for its first 1967 holiday after more tussling with the national debt, the Powell case and reorganization.

The holiday scheduled to start Thursday is for the Lincoln's Birthday period, traditional time of Republican celebrations. It is listed to end by the middle of next week.

The House will take up on Wednesday a bill to boost the national debt limit to $336 billion, $5 billion over the present temporary ceiling.

President Johnson urgently asked for a $7 billion boost but the "House Ways and Means Committee cut that back by $1 billion."

Wednesday a special House committee will begin considering the case of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, the New York Negro Democrat refused his resignation seat pending an investigation.

Powell has been invited to appear Wednesday.

The Senate will continue to debate the congressional reorganization bill, first introduced in 1954, it has considered this year.

Sen. A. S. (Mike) Monroney, D-Okla., floor manager for the bill, said there was no chance to complete action on it before the recess.

He said he expects the Senate's break to extend through a second holiday planned for Washington's Birthday.

Demo Chairmen Meet In March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic state chairmen and vice chairmen have been asked to meet here March 30-31 with national party leaders to discuss 1968 campaign planning.

In announcing Saturday night that he has called the session, National Chairman John M. Bailey said, "It comes at a time in our preparations for the 1968 campaign when an exchange of national-state party views and plans is especially important."

"We will have announced a number of specific and important programs and we will have others in the planning stage by this late March meeting."

Priests Who Teach In Universities To Hear New Word--Experimentation

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL, ST. MARY'S, Kan. (AP) — A new and unfamiliar word will be heard and felt in the next few years by the thousands of priests who teach in some of the country's biggest universities. The word: experimentation.

The priests are members of the Society of Jesus which operates such universities as Fordham, St. Louis, Georgetown, Detroit, San Francisco, Marquette and Loyola. More than half of the 8,400 Jesuits in this country are educators in high schools and colleges.

Experimentation is a recurrent term running through the 32 decrees hammered out by the Jesuits 31st General Congregation, which ended in Rome in November last year. It will affect every part of their lives, from training and prayers, to whether their work in some areas is obsolete while new needs are being neglected.

To discuss the meaning of the meetings in Rome — which began in May 1965 — the society held a three-day institute on Jesuit renewal at St. Mary's College in which recognized church authorities and assistants to the society's general in Rome took part. The institute ended Sunday.

"You can't go any more into such highly sophisticated and industrialized societies as Japan and simply teach catechism to convert people," said the Rev. Andrew Varga, assistant to the general of the society and now in charge of the survey and evaluation of the society throughout the world.

"We cannot go in with a superiority complex, trying to teach them our way. To make our work meaningful we have to work with lay people and lay leaders."

For the next two or three years, Jesuits will be allowed to experiment with programs and survey their work with a freedom never experienced before in the society founded in the 16th century. More local initiative — without consultations with Rome — will be permitted.

Author Illustrates Animosity

By RELMAN MORIN, NEW YORK (AP) — "I have only one President, and he's lying back in that cabin."

In his book, "The Death of a President," William Manchester attributes these anguished words to Brig. Gen. Godfrey McHugh, Air Force aide to President John F. Kennedy. The author wrote that, as he spoke, McHugh gestured toward the coffin carrying Kennedy's body, shortly after the assassination in Dallas.

It is one of several instances cited in a book about the animosity that flared between Kennedy's aides and the adherents of Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson before Johnson was sworn in as chief executive.

Scenes of near-hysteria, tears, and swelling bitterness took place aboard the presidential airplane, Air Force One, Manchester wrote.

They are described in Look magazine's third installment of a four-part serialization of the controversial book.

Manchester also reported: —Mrs. Kennedy found Johnson on a bed, dictating. In the private cabin when she boarded the airplane: "Because she regarded the bedroom as hers, she did not knock," Manchester wrote. "She simply grasped the latch and twisted it. Inside, reclining on the bed, was Lyndon Johnson, dictating to Marie Fehmer."

The author said Johnson and the secretary hastily left the cabin.

—After the swearing-in ceremony, Johnson and his wife asked Mrs. Kennedy to sit with them in a forward compartment on the plane. She excused herself, however, and hurried to the rear, to be near the coffin.

"And she began to cry," Manchester wrote. "It was the first time she had wept: the tears came in a flood, and for a long time she couldn't speak."

—Johnson twice asked Kenneth O'Donnell and Lawrence O'Brien, aides to Kennedy, to sit with him. They refused.

Manchester says Gen. McHugh wanted to be sure the reporters aboard the plane knew about this and said to them: "pounding the table — 'I want the record to show that (Kennedy's four aides) spent this flight in the tall compartment with the President — President Kennedy.'"

—Mrs. Johnson, "ordinarily the essence of tact," inadvertently said to Mrs. Kennedy that what hurt her most was the fact that Kennedy had been killed in Texas. Manchester quoted her as saying later, "Immediately, I regretted it."

He wrote, "This was no day for Texas chauvinism; Kennedy's death should be what wounded her most."

—Mrs. Kennedy "fiercely" rejected suggestions that she change from her blood-drenched dress to fresh clothing before the plane landed in Washington. "No," she replied, "let them see the horror."

YOUR BIRTHDAY and HOROSCOPE

MONDAY, February 6 — Born today you are inclined to ride roughshod over your better judgment and to act impulsively. This, of course, is in accordance with what might be called your "artistic temperament," but unless you learn to curb both the temperament and the impulsiveness will probably do yourself and your career much harm. Learn to think ahead to the future, to consequences of your actions, rather than dwelling on the present pleasures.

Not one to plod along at an uninteresting project merely because you are committed to seeing it through to completion, you demand that work be both profitable and emotionally satisfying before you are willing to stick with it. Because you work best under the encouragement of loved ones, it is important to your career that you do not isolate yourself from others. Marriage is vital to your success, for a loving mate is needed if you are to receive the emotional push you need to fulfill your potential.

To find what is in store for you tomorrow, select your birthday and read the corresponding paragraph. Let your birthday star be your daily guide.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Our daughter (I'll call her Kay) is 49, pretty and popular. Last summer she started-babysitting for a young couple I'll call the Browns. Ever since then, Kay has turned down dates with young men to baby-sit for the Browns.

One night last week Mrs. Brown telephoned her at 2 a.m. asking if Kay was home yet. It seems that Mr. Brown had returned and he hadn't returned yet. Since the drive normally takes about 15 minutes, Mrs. Brown was worried. Just as I hung up, I saw Kay walking in.

When I asked her what took her so long she blushed, became upset and said she and Mr. Brown had stopped for coffee and they forgot-the time. Abby, am I evil-minded to think that there could be something going on here? How should she be handled? — KAY'S MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You are not "evil-minded." Have a frank talk with Kay, and tell her of the incentive to sit for the Browns is the ride home. She is playing with dynamite. Keep your eyes open for other signs of hanky panky and if your suspicions check out, your next chat — or perhaps your husband's — should be with Mr. Brown.

P.S. Remind your daughter that in a Mrs. Brown to be considered, also.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very good friend who was married twice. Her first marriage lasted 15 years and ended in divorce. She's been married nearly 10 years to her second husband, and now she is telling her friends and family that she will soon celebrate her "SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY."

Abby, we've tried to tell her that it doesn't work that way, but she insists that anyone who has put in 25 years of marriage can celebrate a silver wedding anniversary and is entitled to gifts of silver. Can you settle this? — A FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: A silver wedding anniversary is in order for a couple (no substitutes) that

MR. AND MRS. MELVIN R. TRAMMEL

Mary Larsen; Trammel Say Nuptial Vows

SHOSHONE — Mary Louise Larsen, daughter of Mrs. Virginia Larsen, Shoshone, and the late Willis Larsen, became the bride of Melvin R. Trammel, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Trammel, Shoshone, in a ceremony performed Jan. 27 in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

Officiating at the double ring ceremony was Elder George Wilson.

Accompanying the couple to the temple were the bride's mother, Dick Maltes and John Hadlock, Provo, Utah.

A reception was held that evening in the LDS Church, Shoshone.

The bride's gown was a floor-length white lace creation, with a scalloped neckline and a fitted bodice. The full-skirt, trimmed with sequins and pearls, featured diamond insets. She carried a cascading bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Her fingertip veil of lace, trimmed with pearls, was held by a crown of petals formed of not and pearls.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Verdell Hillman, Idaho Falls, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Cindy Trammel, sister of the bride, and Jeanne Larsen and Terri Larsen, sisters of the bride.

Dick Maltes was best man and ushers were Duane Trammel, brother of the bride, and Verdell Hillman, Idaho Falls, brother-in-law of the bride.

Ward Rawson was master of ceremonies for the special program presented.

Joan Larsen registered guests.

The bride's table was centered with a four-tiered wedding cake. Four hearts formed the base with fresh red roses as the bride bouquet to highlight feature. Bridal and bridegroom cakes flanked the table edges.

The serving table was covered with blue lace over white, accented with a white nylon flocked skirt with blue tulle swag caught in the center by a white tulle rose.

Quartet tables carried out the blue and white theme, with a blue and white centerpiece on each.

Baskets of blue and silver chrysanthemums stood at each end of the receiving line.

Assisting with decorations were Mrs. William Trammel, Mrs. D. H. Hansen, Mrs. William Harris and Mrs. Martino Onieda.

Serving were Mrs. Perry Hadlock.

Ideal Type Of Exercises

IS ISOMETRIC
BY PATRICIA KING
NEW YORK (WMA)—Practically every woman worth her weight has an innate and utter dislike for exercise. It's the kind of thing she will do now and then, mostly then.

Isometrics (the contraction of a muscle against an immovable object or another muscle) is the ideal type of exercise for certain soft areas, such as flabby upper arms, the relaxed tummy, the wobbly thighs. And it's simple to do.

Anne-Marie Bennstrom, a health and beauty expert, turned her creative talents to the invention of the V-Bar—another simple method of exercising.

"It was born out of necessity," she said, "for women over 20 who have problems in those areas. They should begin firming-up slimming while they're young."

The V-Bar is a small V-shaped exercise device. Hinged at the bottom of the V, the two bars have padded circles at the top and the object is to press these two circles together with the hands, knees, feet etc., depending on which of the eight prescribed exercises (as detailed in the instruction booklet) is being performed.

This fighting fit gives you a strong argument at first, exercise gadget can be a diabolical destroyer of inches if used 10 minutes at a time, ideally three times a day.

You don't need a swimming pool or home gym to trim, expand or firm the flesh. Even when talking on the telephone, or watching television, you can accomplish the following:

- Firm and shape thighs, legs, ankles (bedridden patients use this device to improve circulation in their legs).
- Diminish and tauten the abdomen.
- Make the underarm area less wobbly.
- Perk up the bosom and strengthen the back muscles.
- It's not easy going, especially the first few times, but it can be rewarding.

Velveteen Strikes Right Note For Dress

BY JOANNE SCHREIBER
 Who needs a party? This is the way to look any relaxed winter evening at home—lady-like and lovely in easy separates of marvelously colored cotton velveteen.

This is the sort of outfit universally adored by women who like to combine minimum sewing effort with maximum fashion impact. It could almost be run up in a single day—an important consideration during the busy holiday season.

The sleeveless flared skirt, slim blouse of brilliant ming blue cotton twill-backed velveteen has only three major pieces. The loose fit all but eliminates alteration problems.

The slim skirt is cut so its stripes of turquoise, storm blue, midnight blue and bright emerald run horizontally. It is gathered onto a waistband of standard pattern and may be used for the blouse and the skirt could almost be made without any pattern at all.

Cotton velveteen such as this is easy to sew, say the sewing and fabric experts at Crumpton Richmond, but it's necessary to follow a few basic rules for best results.

Since velvet has a nap, the pieces for the blouse must be cut in the same direction. This may require a bit more fabric to check the back of your pattern envelope, especially before buying yardage. Usually, pieces are cut with the pile running up, so the fabric looks darker and richer.

Since the pile on the skirt pieces is generally there with no cutting pattern. The colors will blend in an intriguing display of light and shadow.

A l'ya's test — stitch a piece of fabric by beginning to sew. A twill-backed velveteen will not slip as much as a silk or rayon velvet, but basting is advisable. If your sewing machine has a needle presser, pin — basting will be adequate. Use a fairly long stitch and light pressure and select the needle lighter than the fabric. Finish off seam edges by overcasting with a simple, open zigzag stitch.

To press construction points, work with a dampened pressing cloth over a well-padded board. Never press velveteen with a dry iron, as the heat will damage the pile.

An outfit such as this requires only soft gold earrings and big glittery earrings for accent. The drama lies entirely in the fabric. This season fabric counters are loaded with elegant velveteens in all shades of sensational prints; dark-background florals; stylized motif, bold stripes and pretty Paisleys. Colors have never been brighter. This is the season to pick a wonderful fabric in a color you love and whip up an at-home outfit to make you feel glamorous.

Hemlines Are Above Knees In New Fashions

By LUCIE NOEL
PARIS (AP) — The Paris spring and summer fashion collections opened today with Estere and Ferard both hiking the hemline three to five inches above the knees.

Estere delighted his audience by showing skintight narrow-shoulder or ruffled pants with cutaway styled dresses. The costume did double duty. First worn as a hostess outfit, the pants were discarded and the dress was paraded for town wear with small trimmed millinery, gloves and handbag.

Estere introduces his collection with two "rhythms" — the first for street and city wear, the second "a little mad," he says, for sports.

The city line follows a soft flowing flared silhouette. A bright red coat dress has corset pockets and a pointed collar in the front. A navy sheath and jacket are lined in lemon yellow and are softly tailored. Cinnamon, almond green, chef's mustard and navy blue are worked out with color contrasts for just plain.

Estere concentrates on sailing, automobile racing, cycling, beachwear and riding with different styles for each sport. Bermudas for cycling are laced up the sides, or skin tight and very brief. In beachwear he "dresses" bikinis with contrasting trousered legs, leaving the fully-nude plain or bicolor. G-string triangles outside, cycling a bizarre effect. His cycling costume is best of all, in scarlet with the pants banded at the ankles, and a peaked cap of the same wool worn back to front. A matching red battle jacket reveals a skintight ribbed white sweater.

The Louis Ferard concentrates on the young teen-ager and unless you're built that way, his clothes are not for you. But they spell charm. He favors stripes all the way, from top to toe, and his socks repeat the stripes in the dress or suit.

Ferard focuses on the leg, dressing it in a variety of ways.

Administration Moving To Shore Up Bases For Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration is moving to shore up its bases for the 1968 election — including states where former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace might cause it trouble.

Administration strategists are lining up some Southern governors and senators to run as presidential favorite sons in 1968 primarily if necessary to muffle Wallace at the Democratic National Convention.

And Democratic state chairmen and party executives have been asked to meet here March 30-31 to discuss campaign planning.

Two names listed as possible Johnson favorite sons are Gov. John J. McKeithen of Louisiana and Sen. Ernest F. Hollings of South Carolina.

Johnson's own administration favor last month when he accused Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York of wanting the President defeated in 1968 so

Perjury Probe To Be Asked By Ribicoff

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., says he is asking the Department of Justice to investigate and determine whether any witnesses committed perjury last March before a Senate subcommittee which was looking into auto safety.

Ribicoff issued a statement from his Washington office Sunday after it was disclosed that a private detective's court deposition had been used with testimony by the General Motors Corp. concerning Ralph Nader, an auto safety critic.

Testifying before Ribicoff's General Motors Operating Practices committee last March 22, General Motors President James M. Roche said GM had started an investigation of Nader before his book, "Unsafe at Any Speed," came out and before he was scheduled to appear before the subcommittee. Roche said there was one in one to determine if Nader had any connections with damage claims against the corporation. Several lawyers and plaintiffs had sued General Motors charging that the Corvair automobile had been designed improperly.

In an affidavit filed in New York State Supreme Court last week, Roche said he had given Vincent Gilman, a former FBI man, said the true purposes of the investigation were "to discredit Nader and 'shut him up.'"

Students Ask Investigation Of Sukarno

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP) — More than 20,000 students massed in the heart of Jakarta today to again demand an investigation of President Sukarno's part in the attempted Communist coup in October 1965.

The students in a statement said the president is no longer acceptable and demanded that Congress bring him to trial if he was involved in the coup. They rallied blocked a visit Sukarno had planned to a hospital about 200 yards away for a checkup.

Congress is to meet in early March. Military leaders, headed by the government chief, Gen. Suharto, are campaigning to get Sukarno out of office and out of the country before it convenes.

Man Relaxes, Freed From Czech Prison

WELLESLEY, Mass. (AP) — Vincent J. Wiles, 37, "just settling down" to his fantastic surprise of being freed from an eight-year prison term in Czechoslovakia in the U.S. Embassy today to discuss the case with State Department officials.

Kazan-Komarek, 42, a Czech-born naturalized American citizen, has admitted he is "partly guilty" of the spy charges on which he was convicted last week at a trial in Prague, but declined to disclose details at the department's request.

"They pulled me out of Czechoslovakia and I want to respect their wishes," he said. "I think it is my duty now to consult with the State Department and discuss the eventual clearance."

Kazan-Komarek, who was "washing the floors" in prison at 5 a.m. Saturday when he learned he would be set free and then was home "that night, reflecting Sunday on the 'jet age' changes and talked of a week's vacation.

"I want to get some sunshine," he said. "I think it will be just myself and Mrs. Kazan. I need a quiet time."

Still accustomed to the early rising regimen he had followed in prison, Kazan-Komarek was up at 5 a.m. Saturday, dressed although he spent a relaxed morning at his home in Wellesley, a Boston suburb, and didn't dress until after his five children, aged 4 to 12, returned from Sunday school he gave them presents he had brought from Moscow while attending a travel agents' conference.

Ex-Beauty Queen "Finds Life"

STILLWATER, Okla. (AP) — Scott is able to look back and nearly three years after her left leg was amputated, 24-year-old former beauty queen Roberta Scott has returned to college, drives a car, water skis and, as she puts it with a smile, dances a "one-legged jerk."

ROBERTA SCOTT, 24-year-old former-beauty queen who lost her left leg to cancer three years ago, says, "I lost my leg and found my life." Miss Scott of Stillwater, Okla., wants to go to Vietnam to encourage crippled American servicemen. The loss of a leg has not hampered her in driving a car. (Ap wirephoto)

Scott says she was born in Vietnam to help crippled American servicemen prepare for job discrimination or other handicaps to readjustment which they may encounter.

"But I will tell them even on one leg you can kick those doors down if you want to badly enough," says the former Miss Tulsa. "It takes only one leg to climb if you really want to get somewhere."

So far, the Defense Department has ignored Miss Scott's request to go to Vietnam. Sen. Fred R. Harris, D-Okla., is working in her behalf.

Miss Scott was a senior at Oklahoma State University. Miss Scott lost her leg to bone cancer.

"For the first time in my life I had a stock of myself. I had to ask myself, 'Roberta, who do you want to be? Do you want to die or do you want to live?'"

"I decided I was not going to become a vegetable. And for the first time in my life I felt I was really living." She recalls.

Miss Scott went back to Oklahoma State University this semester, and is to receive a degree in education shortly.

Justice of the Peace Peter Dunne, who is slated to marry the couple, said "I never question the dress of the people that ask to get married and I never question the location in which they intend to marry."

with MAURIE LEE

Q. Our son, 14, is a devotee of western stories. He carries a constant diet will eventually lose its appeal. When this occurs with your son, your job will be to see to it that he does not lose his interest in literature. Has he started his very own library? There is a young man about the age of your son who was surprised a year ago at Christmas to get a series of bookcases and some purchase certificates at a fine bookstore.

He had not previously been much concerned with literature and reading, but after receiving the nice bookcases, he soon became intensely interested in a wide field of literature and explored all of it that he could, including Shakespeare.

You know better than we that your son is ready for his own library. If he is, you give him the bookcases and let him choose his own books, even if they are all westerns to begin with. With the bookcases, get him a good dictionary, an encyclopedia, and a few adventure books. That may take care of his transition period.

If your son has no eye trouble or reading faults, you may want him to find his own way in literature. Whatever you do, don't push him, but give him whatever encouragement he may need.

Nieporte Has Birdie On Final Hole To Upset Sanders In Hope Classic

PALM SPRINGS (AP)—Veteran club professional Tom Nieporte of Long Island, N. Y., scored the upset of the year Sunday with a gallant comeback to defeat Doug Sanders in the $10,000 Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic, sinking a dramatic 12-foot putt on the final green of the marathon 90-hole tournament. It gave the 37-year-old Nieporte, father of seven with an eighth child expected, the top prize money of $17,600 and his first tournament victory since 1960.

YELLING HIS DELIGHT as he sinks a 12-foot birdie putt on the 18th hole at La Quinta Golf Course to win the Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic Sunday is Tom Nieporte. He started the final day's round one stroke behind Doug Sanders, but finally beat Sanders with the long putt. (AP wirephoto)

Practical

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—Golfers Tom Nieporte won the Bob Hope Desert Classic Sunday which was worth $17,600 and the use for three years of an expensive Chrysler Imperial Limousine.

But Nieporte decided to make a switch. Instead of the expensive, big car, he chose to take two less expensive vehicles, one a fast-back Plymouth Barracuda and the other a nine-passenger Dodge station wagon.

Nieporte's logic was obvious, particularly for the station wagon. He has a wife and seven children and an eighth child is on the way.

out of the picture as the climactic round developed into a two-man struggle between the champion Sanders and the handsome six-foot, grey-haired at-temptles Nieporte.

Sanders led Tom by one stroke going into the final round and still had only a one-shot margin heading into the final nine holes. The fairways and greens at the La Quinta Country Club par 36-36-72, measuring 6,052 yards—were packed with spectators gathered under sunny and hot skies.

Nieporte caught Sanders midway on the final nine and they were all even with Nieporte having two holes to play and Sanders three. Nieporte was playing in the threesome ahead of Sanders.

The picture remained the same until Nieporte broke the deadlock with his 12-foot, pressure-packed birdie putt.

Oh! Lost To Bullets For Rest Of Season

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Bullets announced Sunday that their leading scorer, Don Ohl, has been lost for the rest of the season because of knee trouble. Ohl, who has averaged 20.2 points a game, will undergo an operation later this week for removal of torn cartilage from the right side of his right knee.

Herb Heft, a spokesman would be unable to play for the rest of the season and did not accompany the Bullets to Memphis, Tenn. for a game against St. Louis Monday night.

Ohl, 30, a native of Edwardsville, Ill., was advised by a doctor that damage to torn cartilage had been getting worse and that continued play could result in serious injury. He then agreed to undergo the operation, which will take place between Wednesday and Friday in Keran Hospital in Baltimore.

Heft said that Ohl would be in the hospital for about five days. Heft said that Ohl would be able to return home but will have to use crutches. Ohl has been advised he will be able to move around after two weeks, and that he should be fully recovered in six weeks.

Ohl has been plagued for a long time by knee trouble. Twelve years ago, while he was attending the University of Illinois, he had cartilage removed from the left side of the same knee.

Clay Plans Humiliating Beating For Terrell In Their Title Bout Tonight

HOUSTON (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay predicts he will give Ernie Terrell a humiliating beating Monday night when he meets the World Boxing Association's king of the undisputed title. Although Terrell, a 6-foot-0, left-jab artist, claims he will win by a knockout, the general consensus is that the 4-1 Las Vegas odds favoring Clay are just about right.

It was only the first victory for the Pistons in six meetings since they were ousted from the playoffs in the second round of the NBA playoffs last season. After Detroit had built up a 16-point lead in the second quarter, the Hawks boomed back to within 10 points, 66-56, at half time. In the third period, the score was tied eight times, but a tip-in by Joe Strawder put Detroit in the lead 82-80.

John Tresvant, with 22 points and Strawder, with 16 points and rebounds, shared the spotlight in the victory. One of the second in the last six starts for the Pistons.
