Milk Continues To Flow As NFO Protests Prices

By RUTH KOONCE MILLER
 Times-News Staff Writer
 "Mommy, why don't they want the milk?" For a small child watching the waste of gallons of milk, it is hard to understand, but for stumped farmer-partners in the sixth day of a 25-state National Farmers Organization milk holding action, the reasons are clear. Tuesday noon, a large entourage of farmers converged on a small pasture near Buhl and dumped 3,000 gallons of milk. The bulk of the milk-delegation came from Gooding County, where through Wendell advertised the group's intention. A bulk milk truck from Richfield contained 1,700 gallons and the remainder was in 100-gallon milk cans.

The farmers are remaining steadfast in their efforts to increase milk prices to the farmer and Tuesday many were reaffirming that, if prices were not increased dairy cattle would be slaughtered.

A parade through Rupert and a mass dumping demonstration in Fraul were scheduled for late Tuesday afternoon.

Attendance at Monday night's meetings showed an increase of about 100 per cent over that at meetings held Wednesday night, with the withholding action being Love's protest in Jerome County NFO president, said interest has also vastly increased among non-NFO members.

Shortages throughout the nation were reported Tuesday in milk and by-products. School children in some areas were told to bring clean cups and orange juice containers if no milk available for school lunch programs.

Meanwhile, arrests and incidents of violence multiplied, millions of gallons of milk were dumped and tempers rubbed raw.

But effects were hard to gauge.

No New Clues Are Reported In Murder

JEROME—No new developments were reported Tuesday by Jerome Police Chief Clarence Yingst in the continuing investigation of the murder of Mrs. Alta Simerly. The body of the 66-year-old Jerome woman was found Sunday in a sandpit northeast of the Jerome police station.

Chief Yingst said officers first believed that 1 p.m. Tuesday was the last time Mrs. Simerly was seen alive, but later investigation has established the fact that Mrs. Simerly went to the grocery store with her sister, Mrs. Wilford Decker, to get milk late Tuesday afternoon.

Decker also talked to her sister Tuesday evening and J. C. Ambrose, a neighbor, told family members he had spoken with Mrs. Simerly Tuesday evening as she was working in her garden.

So far as is presently known, Mrs. Ambrose was the last person to see Mrs. Simerly, who was attacked in her home. Her disappearance was reported to police Tuesday afternoon.

In Twin Falls officers continued their assistance in the investigation by filing a fingerprint card on the woman's abandoned mobile home and a 300-block of Jackson Street late Friday.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said investigators were also interested in the woman's home and officers are working to weed out persons not normally frequenting the Simerly home.

Chief Barnett said numerous persons are being questioned by the Twin Falls police. Simerly during the last few days of her life, and who might be helpful in shedding light on her mysterious death.

Capricious Winter Bows Out To Spring

By HAL COOPER
 NEW YORK (AP)—Hock deep in slush? Stung by sleet? Ears frobbitten? Snowed in? Nevertheless, rejoice. Today is the first day of spring. Once again, cruel winter has ended. Calendars say so. The swallows of Capistrano say so and so say the buzzards of Hinckley, Ohio. Against whatever odds, we have won through to one more vernal equinox—a time of balmy showers and busted leaves, young love and trips to Reno, sprouts.

Despite a pretty healthy snow flurry last Saturday night—the first, sunny yellow of the daffodils are beginning to make their appearance along the south walls of buildings; Joplynia bushes are beginning to flower, and clusters of colorful crocus are in evidence.

"Green thumbs" are busy with pruning shears, cutting away the deadwood left by winter and just in time, too, as some of the rosebushes are unfolding their first tiny leaves.

People armed with rakes are venturing forth to clear away the clutter and uncover the first green sods that assure us that spring is here.

A Royal Navy spokesman said one man—believed to be the salvage master of the Dutch tug Utrecht—was badly burned in the blast and died a short time later.

Reports that the tanker, which still has about 80,000 tons of oil aboard, was first spotted by a fleet of rescue ships and British navy helicopters. They took off the ship's captain, three crewmen and two salvage officers.

The huge blast blew the roof and the floor of the engine room to bits. Helicopter pilots who tried they were able to see through the thick smoke and haze but the ship had suffered severe damage.

Surrounded by its own leaking oil, which now covers 100 square miles of ocean off the southwest tip of England, the 61,203-ton tanker was not federally insured. She is owned by a subsidiary of the Union Oil Co. of California.

The ship's tanks were releasing oil in such quantities that all of southern England's beaches were in danger of being ruined for the summer.

Tuition Bills Are OK'd By Senate

BOISE (AP)—The Idaho Senate Monday, passed legislation authorizing the charging of tuition for resident students attending the state universities. The measure now goes to the House.

The action of the House Monday in sending a bill dealing with log scaling standards to a committee sparked a short-lived showdown in the House this morning.

The bill, which passed the House earlier in the session and was amended in the Senate, was referred to the Resources and Conservation Committee on Monday by the Senate's majority party vote.

Majority Leader Robert Green, R-Boise, said the committee wanted to study the amendment and endorsement.

Marine Post On List Of Red Targets

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Marine Corps command post at Dong Ha, just 10 miles south of demilitarized zone — is on the list of primary Communist chattering targets, prisoners have told U.S. intelligence experts.

The captured Communist soldiers said the order has been issued to use mortars and Soviet-built rockets against the camp, U.S. military sources disclosed.

The prisoners said the ordnance is available, most of it hidden within the demilitarized zone that separates the two Vietnams.

"They said this was part of the supplies that were moved south during the lunar new year — the lunar new year — when we stopped bombing North Vietnam supply routes, our source said."

From Feb. 27 to March 8, the Reds dumped 2,535 mortar and rocket rounds on Marine units south of the demilitarized zone, including 523 rounds on the long-range artillery installation at Camp Carroll.

The Dong Ha installation is the northernmost headquarters post for American forces in North Vietnam.

"The only thing we can hope for is that they don't get where they shoot any better," one U.S. officer said. "Sometimes they will fire 100 rounds before they hit what they are shooting at."

Hoffa Won't Leave Post While In Jail

WASHINGTON (AP) — A message from James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president while in prison, he says, "I'll be back, God willing, sooner than our enemies would have you believe."

Hoffa's message, written before he was taken to the federal penitentiary in Lewisburg, Pa., March 7, was published on the front page of the latest edition of the Teamsters magazine.

"Those who think Jimmy Hoffa is 'out of the picture' don't know what kind of stuff a Teamster is made of," Hoffa told his 1.8-million union members.

"I will remain your elected general president during my temporary unavailability," Hoffa wrote.

His lawyers so far have been unsuccessful in seeking to have Hoffa freed on bail pending motions for a new trial in his 1964 jury-tampering conviction.

Hoffa was sentenced to eight years and will be eligible for parole late in 1969 — about two years before his current five-year term as Teamsters president expires.

Hoffa's hand-picked stand-in, General Vice President Frank Fitzsimmons, now is running the union for him.

Council Revision Voted By Senate

BOISE (AP) — Revision of the Legislative Council, created by the 1963 Legislature, was voted Monday by the Idaho Senate. It was the first revision of the law since the council was established.

The changes, pending approval by the house, would give the council subpoena power, pay $25 daily to members while in session and provide a different method of choosing some members.

More than 60 International Typographical Union members and their wives from eight locals in the Intermountain Area saw three men with a combined total of 100 years membership in the union receive citations during the Idaho-Utah ITU Conference Saturday at the Rogerson Hotel Roundtable Room.

The conference began with registration at 9 a.m. Saturday and continued through Sunday afternoon. During a Saturday night banquet, George Crowser and Wes Ulrich, both Twin Falls Local 211, were presented 25-year pins and R. E. Newhill, also Twin Falls, was awarded a 30-year pin. Jim Higgins, an employee of Standard Printing Co., was absent from the conference but will be sent a 25-year pin.

Guest speaker during the banquet was Jack J. Mulloney, publisher of the Times-News. In an informal message speech, he noted the importance of keeping abreast of automation.

Don Ford, president of the Twin Falls local, presided during the meeting. The pins were presented by William Frazee, Colorado Springs, Colo., ITU representative. The president of the Idaho-Utah organization, Bill Oler, Idaho Falls, attended the conference and also gave a welcome speech during the Saturday banquet.

Purpose of the conference, according to Mr. Ford, was to "air our problems and try to help each other work out."

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

By ANDREW TULLY

WASHINGTON — Democratic members of Congress who are worrying aloud — if off the record — about President Johnson being a liability on the national ticket next year would do well to reflect on the public opinion poll a little more carefully. They should also remember a few facts.

It is the premise of some of these politicians that the Vietnam war will be fatal to Johnson's political popularity. It is simply because we are unhappy about the war today.

Too much attention, it seems to me, is being paid to that part of the polls that reports a decline in Johnson's political strength and too little to the part that says "Yes, but..."

DON'T BLAME JOHNSON — To be sure, both Gallup and Harris polls show the President's popularity at or near a new low. Gallup figures show 45 per cent only per cent believe Johnson's low of 44 per cent recorded last October. Harris sets it at a new low of 40 per cent. But the people are also saying some other important things.

Perhaps the most significant thing they are saying is maybe Johnson can't be blamed for it. In a Harris poll, 70 per cent of those polled by Harris admit the President is doing the best he can in a tough job which smacks of the defeat he felt about Truman's loss in 1952. Moreover, only a relatively few voters told Mr. Gallup they thought some other President could do better. The Harris poll says specifically only 30 per cent thought Dick Nixon could do better, and only 26 per cent thought either Bobby Kennedy or Michigan's Gov. George Romney could do better.

ANOTHER TRUMAN PARALLEL — Such figures admittedly can mean almost anything to anyone, depending upon the thinker's age-weight and how long he has been in the blue serge suit. But in this space, as an exercise in mathematics, they mean that a majority of the voters are not ready to believe that Johnson is as bad as his rivals are regarded as better equipped to run the war.

The Harris poll also offers other interesting insights into the American attitude toward Johnson. About four of ten Americans believe that the President is being picked on unfairly by another party. Specifically, only 26 per cent believe only one-third go along with the credibility gap charge. And the public supports the bombing of North Vietnam by a rousing 4 to 1.

A PREDICTION — Limbs are for going out on, and I will totter on the very edge of this one by depicting that even if the war is still being fought, how low the President's popularity will mean Lyndon Johnson's defeat. It is a messy war — as if there were ever a tidy one — and Americans generally are depressed by its seeming open-endedness. There doesn't seem any way to end it. But Americans are also basically fair-minded, and they will not ignore the fact that Eisenhower approved our commitment to Vietnam, and John Kennedy sent in the first troops.

Johnson's war policy so far has had the support of a majority of Americans. In fact, 59 per cent of the experts are proclaiming that the 23 Democratic Senators who will seek reelection in 1968 are not in a hurry to get Johnson's head on a platter. In fact, 23 are Southerners and they always go their own way. But people seem to forget that Johnson carried such a heavy burden of responsibility. He was, as Jack Kennedy carried only six. To be sure, the Republicans scored gains in all of those states except Connecticut, Hawaii and Missouri in 1966, but that's not the opposition party make gains in an off-year?

Lyndon Johnson, the facts and figures seem to be saying, is in the same trouble Harry Truman was in. With trouble like that, who needs to be popular?

Views of Others

PAYING FOR NEEDS JIBES WITH ECONOMY
Gov. Don Samuelson's pledge to enforce economy in state government has not been broken by his willingness to subscribe to a budget of $15.8 million for the next two years as projected by voters of the state. Legislation is realistic and within the limits of $10.3 million income estimated for the next biennium by the Budget Director James Detenbeck. The budget, therefore, provides a cushion if the revenue is less than anticipated.

Appropriation bills totaling $11 million for the University of Idaho will be introduced in the Senate this Saturday under the governor's signature. A public school appropriation act, approximately $1 million is not imprudent spending for a state which has a large population.

The appeal of the governor, sent to the lawmakers to hold spending, is based on his theory of growth factors determining the expenditure of state government. He proposed a budget of $15.2 million. The legislature does not disburse growth factors either by adding $6 million, or by cutting $6 million from the present basis of need. They must rely on the recommendations of those who are intimate with state affairs to provide the means of financing.

The legislature and the governor hold the reins of spending, but they have no obligation to starve the state government. The legislature does not disburse growth factors either by adding $6 million, or by cutting $6 million from the present basis of need. They must rely on the recommendations of those who are intimate with state affairs to provide the means of financing.

ADOPTE BOMBING DEBATE

Administration proposals to move a draft law in which too late and too lightly conceived to be of real value in assuring young people meeting our military manpower needs.

There have yet to see one item of administration evidence that I would make me even begin to reconsider my flat opposition to the draft and my continued firm belief that for moral and military reasons we should scrap the draft altogether and go to a level that would attract voluntary career military service.

Short of a mass call-up situation, involving a war in which tens of millions of men would be thrown together, the draft is the poor way to build military manpower. The proper way would be to raise pay, beginning with privates, airmen and seamen, to a level that would attract voluntary career military service.

Other nations — Canada as a nearby example — have intended to pay the need for adequate pay as the key to a career military service.

We can and do pay a market level wage for this most demanding of jobs. We cannot afford to lose. After all, providing for the national defense is an absolutely legitimate cost.

Washington Viewpoint

BY BRUCE BLOSSAT

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The cry of protesting young Americans is that their adult world, and the society they live in, are not doing what is best for them. One who has looked through the setting of a social justice, is getting them down.

It could be the other way around. At the extreme, the complaint is that the adult establishment in America is phony, barren of human feeling, corrupt, insensitive to the great needs of people.

Nothing in our history, nothing in the current calendar of our events, justifies an indictment so sweeping. It should not have to be said that there has always been failure, corruption and inhumanity in our life. But amid these things, sometimes paramount and sometimes not, have flourished human qualities, courage, integrity.

In West Oakland, Calif., several hundred students from the University of California are busy tutoring disadvantaged young Negro school pupils. They are working hard for no pay, outside their own school time. It's not an overstatement to say that only 100 of the more than 800 interested students are thus engaged. The great proportion of them will be joined by the thousands of students who are already working hard for no pay, outside their own school time.

The Art Buchwald Column

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee thinks we're getting out treaties all mixed up. If we're going to have a war we should prefer it to take place in the populated areas where we seem to fight battles now.

His suggestion is that we should be working and we should say any future wars would only be fought in outer space and the place where people would not be used exclusively for peaceful purposes.

There has been so much concentration on the troubles in Vietnam that we have barely had time to devote much thought to outer space. I personally think we should be giving more thought to outer space for peaceful purposes. This is not only because of Sen. McCarthy's remark but because we are exploring other celestial bodies without a military capability to explore them.

The moon, as far as anyone can tell, is no problem, but once you start talking about other planets you're bound to run into hostile situations. We have to assume there is life on other planets and we also have to assume these beings are not going to necessarily welcome us with open arms.

There may be doves who say that the military should keep their hands off celestial bodies. But experience tells us that if other planets are found to be hostile to other planets they will interpret it as an indication that we are planning to fight for them.

So I say it is a mistake to approve a treaty on outer space unless it is a treaty that demands reciprocal rights to visit the earth and J. Edgar Hoover would like to see us have pressed to keep tabs on all of them.

WASHINGTON — The cloud-breathing defiance between the Capitol can brew up over these stories and then shake the system of divided powers to its roots. The Supreme Court and the House of Representatives are engaged in a course promising a violent smash in the coming months.

The reason is Adam Clayton Powell, who has been elected to Harlem, is loving it all with the carefree abandon that has made him a trademark. He can create a sequence of events putting him in the history books with Dred Scott, Dreyfus and the other symbols of political passion and prejudice.

Powell will be overwhelming in re-elected by his Harlem constituents, probably without the aid of the House of Representatives. He will win the election on April 11. With his new credentials he will come back to the bar of the House that refused by a vote of 307 to 116 to seat him. It is Representative Carter, who is the House's new political boss.

BY WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Q — Both my son's hands were frostbitten a year ago and I am still troubled with them. Exposure to even a little cold wind from him and causes great pain. What can he do to get relief?

A — Following a severe frostbite, it is unusual for one so sensitive to chilling than before. For that reason you need greater protection — wool gloves and fur lined shoes whenever the danger of chilling arises. Cutting the roots of the nerves by surgery is a last resort. The hands may be done if the sensitivity to cold is extreme.

Q — In a recent column you said I might have a fungus growing in the body. I have been taking vitamin preparations but I don't know if it is doing any good. I have a lump in my neck and I am afraid it might be cancer. What should I do?

A — There are many kinds of fungus. Many of them are not dangerous. However, if you have a lump in your neck, you should see a doctor. It could be a benign growth or it could be cancer. It is important to get it checked out.

The Toot Is Gone

We were told the other day by a railroad buff that there is not one steam locomotive operating on any regular schedule on any railroad in Idaho.

And you know, it is not hard to believe because the only one that was left is one for many years' show.

Before World War II you could go down to the Union Pacific depot in Twin Falls and, toward evening, watch the night train pull out for the run to Pocatello by way of Burley and Minidoka and American Lake. The train was pulled out by a puffing steam locomotive provides the needed pull.

Most of the students in the public schools of Twin Falls have never seen a steam locomotive. This is hard to believe, but it is a fact. There are only a few of them have never ridden on a train of any kind.

Railroads are showing vast improvement in the task of capturing freight business. This has been done by adding new jumbo freight cars and in piggy-backing, which makes goods to be delivered to points far from the railroad line itself.

But in the passenger business the drop has been drastic. In Twin Falls the one train out each day which carries passengers offers one coach. It is seldom offered except on the days when the Portland Rose goes through Shoshone the one way — and the City of Portland each the same setup. A mail-express train provides coach service.

The truth is plain when the facts are known. The Pullman car and the luxury train, which makes roads to be among those which are no more is the once-famous Overland Express of the Union Pacific.

Pullman hasn't made a sleeper since 1958. It couldn't make one now even if it were needed, and its equipment for such a train makes roads to be among those which are no more is the once-famous Overland Express of the Union Pacific.

Some of the trouble endured by railroads has been high taxes. In relation to each dollar of revenue, the railroads pay to state and local governments eight times as much in general taxes as water carriers, and airlines and 10 times as much as truckers.

But the railroads have not given up. Mergers may be the answer for survival.

In towns like Twin Falls, near or on new arterial highways, the railroads will never make a passenger carrying comeback.

It takes four hours and 15 minutes for the morning train to get from Burley to Pocatello. It is a combination train with no frills.

When the Interstate highway is complete auto owners will be able to make that distance in about half that time.

But in addition to the lack of frills offered on that particular train and the long time from town to town there is one more thing that is missing.

After you have seen and heard the steaming and breathing of a steam locomotive and have listened to the low call of the whistle — well, you can find anything romantic in a diesel engine? We need all our transportation outlets in this country so the sight of the railroad should be the concern of everyone.

Perhaps we should brush the thoughts of the Iron Horse of the old days from our mind and fall in love all over again. It might be worth a try at that.

LEARN FLUORIDE BENEFITS AGED

A report by a Harvard University medical research team may do more for the cause of water fluoridation than all the noisy public meetings that have been held in communities around the country.

It suggests that fluoride may be of as much benefit to older people as to young people.

In a comparative study of people living in areas of North Dakota where high concentrations of fluoride occur naturally in the water and people in other sections with low levels, the doctors found evidence that fluoride in the water reduces disorders that are common among people past middle age.

One is osteoporosis, a bone-softening disease. The other is calcification of the aorta, which is associated with hardening of the arteries.

If further research supports their early finding about the bone-hardening benefits of fluoride, it will put anti-fluoridationists in somewhat of a quandary — especially those who have argued that fluoridation is a Communist plot to soften up America.

Apollo I Fire Investigation Nearly Over

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A board of review expects to conclude its probe of the Apollo I fire within a few days without pinpointing the exact cause of the fire that killed three astronauts.

For several weeks the board, aided by 1,500 experts, has conducted a methodical search for clues to the cause of the spacecraft blaze during a launch pad test Jan. 27.

Whether the fire was started by an electrical malfunction under the couch of Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom, the command pilot, specialists have narrowed the possible sources to five or six, mostly short circuits, but are unable to determine whether they caused the fire or resulted from it.

Killed with Grissom were Air Force Lt. Col. Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger B. Chaffee.

Another question is Grissom's failure to depressurize the cabin. One of his first duties in such an emergency was to operate a lever to start reducing the 15.2 pounds-per-square-inch pressure in the pure-oxygen environment.

Either the fire already had covered the depressurization handle or Grissom forgot it in his haste to attempt to remove the spacecraft hatch.

Had Grissom started the depressurization process, it might have averted the spread of flames. But experts are uncertain whether it would have been enough. Ninety seconds would have been required to open the hatch, and the astronauts were dead within 18 seconds after the fire was first reported by Chaffee. They died from breathing carbon monoxide fumes.

The board is headed by Dr. Floyd L. Thompson, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Research and Special Programs Administration. Thompson plans to submit the board's findings to NASA Administrator James E. Webb by April 1.

Merchants At Burley Hear About Checks

BURLEY — Downtown Merchants Association held a non-host luncheon meeting Saturday afternoon at the home of William Beckie, Cassia County prosecuting attorney, as guest speaker.

Information needed to prosecute a person on a bad check account was discussed. Mr. Beckie, county prosecuting attorney, said January 1957 prepared a form for the merchants to fill out prior to contacting his office when they want a complaint.

Before taking a case to court it must be fully investigated by having all the known facts available. Beckie stressed.

"The complaint and warrant of arrest are prepared by the prosecuting attorney, but the complaint must be signed before the probate judge," Beckie stated.

"After the signing of the complaint by the judge the warrant to the county sheriff to find and arrest the person named on the complaint."

"The key to stopping bad checks is for each merchant to take time to get enough information on the person passing the check, for positive identification of the person passing the check if needed later."

A question period and discussion on the check problem merchants are presently having was held by the group.

Humphrey Plans Topics For His Tour

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey will discuss nuclear proliferation, U.S. troop deployment and Common Market trade policies on a two-week tour of Western European capitals beginning Monday.

The lines are out for a French presidential talk with Vice President Charles de Gaulle in Paris as a part of a tour expected to take Humphrey to Bonn, London, Brussels, Rome and other stops.

If the De Gaulle meeting materializes, Humphrey may have an opportunity to sound out the French leader on a possible visit to Paris later in the year by President Johnson. Johnson had hoped to go to Europe this spring but apparently has had to postpone any such trip at least until autumn.

Humphrey's assignment in Paris is understood to be to offer the West Germans reassurance that the nuclear nonproliferation treaty currently being negotiated would not block them from future access to the peaceful uses of atomic energy.

The vice president would be expected to follow up recent negotiations with the West German and British over methods of meeting costs of Allied troops in West Germany.

Portuguese Worry About Huge Bridge

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Nearly a year after inaugurating the $75-million Salazar Bridge—the world's fifth longest—Portuguese are wondering whether the span has turned out to be a white elephant.

The toll bridge straddles the Tagus River, linking Lisbon with the underdeveloped agricultural south, but the traffic hasn't come up to expectations.

Many workers, who make up the bulk of the commuters across the river, cannot afford the 25-cent toll, and prefer the flat-bottomed ferries costing 6 cents or less. More than 30,000 workers recently signed a petition protesting the higher bus fare.

U.S. Steel International, which built the bridge, predicted 20,000 vehicles would cross it per day, but the average daily crossings have reached only 6,300 at about $1.40 per vehicle.

World War II Leader Dies In England

NORTHWOOD, England (AP) — The death was announced Tuesday of Lt. Gen. Sir Frederick B. Morgan, who made the initial plans for the Allied invasion of Normandy in World War II and later served as deputy chief of staff to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower.

Morgan was 73. Relatives said he died at his home here Sunday of an undisclosed illness.

A career soldier, Morgan was asked in March 1942, to plan for the invasion of northwest Europe and an attack on the heart of Germany with a force of 100 divisions.

"It won't work but you must make it work," he was told. When Eisenhower took over as supreme Allied commander at the start of 1944, Morgan's plans were recast, but his ideas have been credited with overcoming some of the biggest problems of the invasion.

Morgan was knighted for distinguished services in planning the invasion. Eisenhower presented him the U.S. Legion of Merit. He also held the American Distinguished Service Medal and the French Legion of Honor.

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I recently admitted a letter in your column touting the Seventh Day Adventionist two-day plan to quit smoking. Having unsuccessfully been thru this program twice in the last two years, I can assure you that you are over-simplifying the problem.
 I have experienced headaches, drowsiness, insomnia, and have actually run a fever
 while attempting to quit smoking. I am convinced that nicotine is just as physiologically addictive as cocaine, marijuana, heroin, and novocain. They all belong to the alkaloid family of drugs, which work on the nervous system in varying degrees.
 The only way I have been able to come even close to quitting is to go to the beach with my self, away from all pressures, relaxing totally and eating and sleeping when I feel like it. I haven't been able to quit smoking for longer than one week.
 I am not a heavy smoker, averaging only one pack a day.
 Until this problem is recognized for what it is, and a more effective way of helping people in my situation is found, there is little hope. Since I live in one of the tobacco capitals of the world, sign me

Annual Easter Egg Hunt Planned In Park

The Annual Exchange Club Easter Egg Hunt will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday in Twin Falls City Park, weather permitting, for children from 2 to 10 years of age. Chad Browning, city recreation director, announced Tuesday.

Children will be grouped into four separate contests: For children 2 years old and under, 3 and 4 year olds, 5 and 6 year olds, and those 7 through 10 years of age.

Finders of the 15 gold eggs will be given $2 each, or a season pass to the municipal swimming pool for those at least 8 years of age.

The hunt is sponsored by the Twin-Falls Parks and Recreation Department and the Twin Falls Exchange Club. Dale Patterson, Exchange Club, is chairman of the event.

A total of 167 dozen eggs has been donated by Buttery's, East side, Swenson's, Mary's, Jay's, Albertson's, Shelby's and Man's markets. Mrs. Ann Davis, O'Leary Junior High School home economics teacher, and her class will dye the eggs.

Browning commented that six or seven dozen eggs will be held back and given to those who do not find any in the hunt.

Approximately 1,000 youngsters turned out for the event last year. Adults are urged to stay on the sidelines and not participate.

EASTER EGG HIDERS, Lloyd LeClair, in tree, and Welden Clark of the Twin Falls Exchange Club do preliminary egg laying prior to the Exchange Club Easter Egg Hunt to be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Twin Falls City Park. ## Demo Doves Give Up Hope For Peace Talks Before Election

WASHINGTON (AP) — The doves among Senate Democrats have about given up hope that President Johnson can initiate Vietnam peace talks before they have to face the voters in 1968.

A cross section check indicates that most of them expect decisions growing out of the just-concluded Guam conference that will intensify military efforts. This, in their opinion, will make it more difficult to get any negotiations started.

Their hope that the administration's pacification program in South Vietnam might produce a slowdown in the fighting was profited by a first hand report from Prof. George Kahin, head of Cornell University's Southeast Asia program.

Kahin, coauthor of a book on Vietnam who just returned from a separate interview with 18 Democrats and three Republicans at a closed luncheon Monday in Southeast Asia, said that pacification has been "an utter failure" because it provides for no land reform and may take years.

Kahin was quoted as assailing the proposed new constitution for South Vietnam.

Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., who attended the session, called Kahin's report "very discouraging" to those who hope that the election of a new civilian government might give South Vietnam the kind of stability that could lead to peace negotiations.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., another who attended, said in a separate interview he fears South Vietnam's Premier Nguyen Cao Ky has carved out a position which will prevent any talks between the new regime and the National Liberation Front, political arm of the Viet Cong.

"So me," Hatfield said, "this is just further evidence, the fact that the administration is locked into an inflexible position where it can't find either a negotiated or military settlement of the war."

Clark brought the Democratic doves' political plight into the session when he disclosed that he told Johnson in January he doesn't think either he or the President can get Pennsylvania unless there is a cease-fire in Vietnam by early summer of 1968.

Clark said he is waiting until after the November municipal elections in the state to decide whether he will seek another six-year term.

Clark said that five Democrats in their states to be re-elected next year. The consent of his dissent to escalation of the war and "to express my concern over administration failure to explore the possibility of negotiations by a temporary cessation of bombing of the North."

Among Democratic doves next year besides Nelson and Clark are Sens. Frank Church of Idaho, W. Fulbright of Arkansas, Ernest Gruening of Alaska, George McGovern of South Dakota and Wayne Morse of Oregon.

Lone Sailor Reportedly Has Rounded Stormy Cape Horn

PUNTA ARENAS, Chile (AP) — Sir Francis Chichester, sailing alone around the world in his 33-foot ketch, Gipsy Moth IV, reportedly has rounded stormy Cape Horn, completing what was considered the most perilous part of his voyage.

The solitary sailor was expected to have comparatively smooth sailing, crossing the Atlantic. He hopes to reach Plymouth, England, by May 18, Reports reaching Punta Aren-

Slams Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Neal R. McMillen, the government's traffic-safety agency today of moving with "sluggish reality" and said it issued totally inadequate safety standards for 1968 cars.

The daily safety crusader assailed the automobile industry and the national traffic safety agency alike in testimony for the Senate Commerce Committee.

"With very few exceptions," McMillen said, "these standards did not exceed the level of existing safety beyond what would have been the case without the law."

Burley DAV Opens New Headquarters

BURLEY — Cassia County Chapter No. 10 of the Disabled America Veterans has moved to new headquarters at 2301 Main St. in Burley, where they will operate a Thrift Store from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays.

The building at the new location has been remodeled by chapter members and features the front store section for the Thrift Store, large room for regular chapter and auxiliary meetings with kitchen facilities. The rear room will be available for rent to small groups, officials stated.

A room for storage of the hospital equipment is also in the new location. The focal chapter has wheel chairs, hospital beds, adult walkers, crutches, cane, neck brace and an abdominal brace.

The group will hold its first chapter meeting Friday in the new building at 8 p.m.

Jack Curtis, treasurer, and Virgil Mori, local commander, Saturday put the finishing touches on the building for the official opening the first of this week. A new sign was made by Hansen Sign Co., Burley.

The new sign is three-dimensional, with blue letters on a white background.

TWIGGY, the angular teenage British model who says she has "spindly legs," waves greetings as she sits from her place following arrival Monday from London at Kennedy airport in New York. Twigg, whose real name is Leslie Hornby, wore a bright orange coat over a blue velvet gown pulled, her own creation. She is the current fashion rage in Europe and plans to promote her clothes here. With her is her manager and partner, Nigel Davies. (AP wirephoto)

Model, Dancer Give Variety For New York Girl Watchers

BY GEORGE ESPER

NEW YORK (AP) — Twigg, London's skinny mince, of the mod scene who measures 51-23-32, and Yvonne d'Angers, the busy topless dancer with a 44-21-34 figure, provide variety today for Fun City's girl watchers.

Paint for the inside of the building has been done by Cassia Lumber Co. Welding done during the remodeling was donated by Higgs Blacksmith Co. Clothes rack has been donated by Henderson's Dads and Lad which will be used in the Thrift Store.

A pair of crutches has been donated by Wayne's Exchange, and several boxes of used clothing for men, women, and children have been donated to the group for the store.

Purpose of the group is to help veterans and their families who are in need.

The local chapter has been in operation since Feb. 28, 1958.

In the past year they have sponsored the Old Time Idaho Fiddlers Jamboree, and the annual magazine sales with all proceeds used to purchase hospital equipment.

The Disabled American Veterans is an organization of men and women who have been disabled in line of duty during time of war. It was founded in March, 1920, under the leadership of Judge Robert S. Marx, Cincinnati, Ohio. The Disabled American Veterans has over 1,700 chapters in the United States and other countries. Headquarters for the group is at Cincinnati.

she is lighting a deportation order, the topless dancer from California told newsmen she just developed "little, by little."

One of the main issues in her case is whether she married under false pretenses in 1961 so she could remain in the United States.

Both are in New York for personal appearances. Miss d'Angers with her size 18 blouse on, despite her philosophy that "what I always say is, if a woman has something pretty, she should show it off."

Seventeen-year-old Twigg, who drops only her 13's, figure she's got some pretty clothes to show off — a 42-piece collection she hopes to sell to American department stores.

"I hope to sell my clothes to the American teen-ager," she said Monday upon her arrival from London.

Twigg, whose real name is Leslie Hornby, admits she's a lightweight compared to Yvonne.

Of her 5-foot, 6-inch, 99-pound figure, the fashion model says: "It's not really too call a fidgeter. Is it? I'm thin, spindly legs."

Illinois Opens Search For New Coaching Staff

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (AP)—The University of Illinois opened a search Monday for successors to football coach Paul Ellinger, basketball coach Henry Conrad and tennis coach Howard Braun. They reaped Sunday under Big Ten edict...

Pascual Ends Holdout, Inks Senator Pact

POMPAÑO BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Pitbull Camilo Pascual signed with the Washington Senators Monday after a 23-day holdout. He will report Tuesday morning for general manager George Selig. Selig said he has been hard on the negotiations. "It may be desirable to look at our own staff, but my guess is that it may take longer to get our man," said Leslie Byrnes, Selig's acting director.

Pascual reportedly received $45,000 from the Minnesota Twins last year and was asked for the same salary, although he won only eight games and lost six. The question is that he signed for about $25,000.

Mays Homers, Giants Trim Cubs By 9-6

By The Associated Press
The Big Mays' runner-up to Bill Ruhl as the 1967 home run king, slammed his first home run of the 1967 major league season on Sunday. The Cincinnati Reds won 11-4 over the Chicago Cubs 9-6.

Rookie Mike Epstein, Tony Hone and Mike Blyskal were among the day's other batting stars. Epstein slugged a three-run homer in the fourth inning in leading Baltimore to a 4-2 victory over Cincinnati. Frank Robinson hit a two-run homer to win the 1967, had two hits, a triple and a single.

Toniela Aage's inside-the-park home run insured the White Sox victory over the Mets. He connected in the ninth inning with one runner on base. Tony Jepsen stroked three hits and drove in two runs for the Yankees. When the White Sox scattered six hits they yielded one run in the first five innings.

Jim Regel had two hits for California, lifting his spring batting average to .400. In a night game, Detroit edged Atlanta 3-2. Mack Jones slammed a one-run homer in the seventh to tie for the Braves. The Tigers pushed across the winning run in the ninth. Veteran left Hank Aguero was the winning pitcher.

'Excellent' Salt Lake City (AP) - The secretary-general of the International Utah Federation reported that the Utah State University of Utah Federation facilities are "excellent" for the August 10-13 World Judo Championships.

While touring the fields, Paul Boer, a member of the Utah committee, said he was "impressed with the facilities, with tournament grounds, with the Olympic village."

Boros Tops PGA Earnings List

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (AP)—Julius Boros, who scooped first money in the 1967 Open, topped the winners in the Professional Golfers Association's tally of earnings through the Johnson-Walton Open won by Dan Sikes. Boros has $46,837 in winnings from official PGA events, the highest since which the PGA rates its top 100.

Clay Says He May Have To Go 15 Rounds Against Challenger

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay shadowboxed and skipped rope, joked with Joe Louis and Sugar Ray Robinson, and then said he might have to go 15 rounds with Zora Folley Wednesday night. "This will be a boxing match—no talking," said the 25-year-old champion as he finished his training Monday by loosening up in the basement of Madison Square Garden. "Folley hasn't popped off so I won't be victimized. He's a couple of All-shufflers. It will be a good scientific fight. No extra."

Sometimes he was serious but he never talked with tongue in cheek before a crowd of about 75 newsmen and about 20 spectators who managed to get in for what was billed as a "secret workout."

76ers, Celts Poise For Showdown Tilt

By The Associated Press
The Philadelphia 76ers and the Boston Celtics were poised Monday for what seems to be a certain showdown meeting in the National Basketball Association playoffs. The post-season play to determine the world champion begins Tuesday night with the first games of a four best-of-five series.

Philadelphia, the Eastern Division winner for the second straight year, plays at home against Eastern third-place finisher—Cincinnati, the team with the best record in five times in regular-season play.

Boston's defending world champion play here to New York, fourth in the East and a club the Celtics have defeated in six straight games, dating back to 1962.

Philadelphia and Boston are odds-on favorites to win their first round, as they did last year when Boston felled Wilt Chamberlain's dream of playing on world championship by winning four of five games.

But this time the 76ers could have the guns to shoot and make Chamberlain a world champion — about the only achievement that is realistic in his illustrious career. Philadelphia finished eight games ahead of Boston in the regular season, winning 45 and losing 17.

Philadelphia's defense, which is expected to be a key factor in its success, is being coached by Red Holman, who has a reputation for being one of the best defensive coaches in the NBA.

Clay is high on his young challengers but will stick with Phil Regal, a slugger who has a record of 12 wins and 11 losses. Regal is a former champion and a former world champion.

NO-TRUMP BID NOT WASTED

Because the negative response to the artificial two club opening in two diamonds, the two club opening can also show certain strong no-trump hands. Specifically, it is followed by no-trump. It shows a 23-24 point no-trump. If it is followed by a jump and three spot. West discarded the five of hearts. He knew that his partner would lead a heart in any event and it seemed silly to signal.

Sure enough, East led the three of hearts. South raised the finesse. He could make nine tricks without two heart tricks. Then South cashed his ten of clubs. West had to make a second discard.

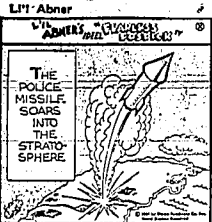

He could not afford to let a diamond go and he also had to hang on to the king of hearts so he dropped his last spade. South played out his ace, queen and nine of diamonds. He stopped a moment before playing from dummy. It was possible that West was hanging onto two hearts in which case East would hold the jack of diamonds. But South did not think so. South proceeded to play dummy's ten and make his ninth trick with the king.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been: West North East South
You South hold:
Pass 3♠ East 4NT.
Pass 5♣ Pass 7
Opening lead—A-2
What do you do now?
A—Did six spades. It is possible that your opponents will take two diamond tricks against you but you should take this chance. You should not use Blackwood unless you plan to go to six if your side has three aces.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding five diamonds and showing one ace your partner bids five hearts to show two aces. What do you do now?
Answer: Next Issue

A Whiskerless Face Is No Disgrace

Dear Walt: I'm 17 years-old and I'm worried about something. Nearly all my friends have a shave once a day or at least every other day or they look like Beatiniks. But I can go months or even years without having a shadow on my face! The truth is that I don't have one whisker. I think I'm normal physically but I don't know one other guy my age who doesn't shave. Do you?—Smoothie.

Dear Smoothie: Patience of growth and hair loss are determined by heredity. Apparently some of your genes decided that you won't have the bother of the daily shave. Lucky you! After all, shaving every few months of shaving wears off, there's really no big deal in peering at yourself in the a.m. in a mirror. Nearly all the American Indians, many orientals and a sizeable number of Caucasians and Negroes have hairless faces. If my words don't convince you of that fact, don't sit worrying, go and have a talk with your doctor. He can give you a thorough physical and answer—any—swarty—questions.—Walt.

MATCHED AGAINST HIS WILL

Dear Ele and Walt: I'm working in my uncle's store, and yesterday a customer phoned him and asked him if I was going steady. He said "no," and so then the lady on the phone said she was going to send her daughter in to ask me to marry her because I was "such a nice guy." My uncle doesn't know the lady who called but he expects me to say "yes" anyhow because of store public relations. I hate this, but I must do so what can I do if she's really a girl? It doesn't seem hopeful for a man to have her for one person, in a fit of anger, to say to the other, "I married you because I had to."

When she puckers do you turn pale? Maybe we can help. If looking for a more stable boss, you'd like our newsletter, "First Suppose you wait until you see Kisser," send a dime and a return address to: Ele and Walt, care of Teenage Date-Line, rental, flowers, snack and gas in envelope of this newspaper.

Out Of The Depths

By SHIRLEY-JO JESSUP
Housewife of Lancaster, Calif.
The day had started out so happily, for it was the day, six years ago, that we were heading for Los Angeles.

There my husband, Bryce, was to go back to school for his master's degree in education. We were sorry to leave the church in Oregon where he'd been a minister for two years, but he wanted the extra education.

Our plan was to leave after supper, when we could put our two little girls to bed on a mattress in the back seat, and to drive straight through to Bryce's parents in San Jose, Calif.

It was 100 miles of driving but easier, we thought, than dragging 3-year-old Jerri and 6-month-old Janni in and out of restaurants and motels. Besides, it was July; driving at night would be cooler.

All through that hot summer day we carried things from the paragon to the big trailer we had rented.

By 6 p.m., car and trailer were loaded and we started out. From the start it was a struggle to stay awake. At four a.m., we pulled into a gas station in Klamath Falls, Ore.

I looked at our sleeping children. To find a motel at this time of night and get out bags and baby food and all the rest seemed harder than to keep going.

And yet we knew that just ahead lay the hardest driving on the trip: the stretch of road south of Klamath Falls, with a deep ditch running along the right-hand side and on the left a main irrigation canal 12 feet deep and 25 feet wide.

We climbed back into the car. Fatefuly, we made the decision to keep going.

Ten minutes later and 400 miles farther south, Bryce's father sat up in bed.

"The children are here," he said to his wife.

Bryce's mother squinted at it her watch. "They can't be," she said. "They couldn't get here all mid-morning at the earliest."

But Bryce's father was already on his way to the front door. When his wife joined him he was standing outside, staring into the empty night. At last, reluctantly, he went back inside.

"You dreamed it," she said. "It wasn't a dream," he insisted. "It was something much stronger."

Back in bed, they both offered silent prayers, not really knowing what they were praying for or why. But both felt a compulsion to pray.

At the moment that Bryce's father awoke, I, too, was startled from sleep. I must have dozed off almost the minute we left the gas station. Now I was awakened by a cry from Bryce:

"Hang on!"

He was wrestling with the wheel. The car was rocking sickeningly on the rim of the steep ditch at our right.

Now Bryce spun the wheel the other way. But the car continued a slow lurch to the left. We were heading straight for the deep canal water on the other side.

Bryce threw all his strength against the wheel. But the heavily loaded trailer, jackknifed behind us, was forcing us off the road. And then we plunged down the incline into the canal.

For an unbelievable moment the car floated, then sank.

"Roll down your window!" Bryce yelled.

I heard the handle crank on his side as icy water gushed over us. Bryce was leaning into the back seat. I saw him drag Jerri forward and then, like figures in an underwater ballet, float out the window.

I seized the window handle on my side, but it was jammed. I threw my shoulder against the door but the water outside pressed it shut.

I groped for Janni in a floating mass of diapers, bottles and blankets. The water was cold and thick with slimy moss. There was a pain in my back and my lungs were straining against my chest.

The mattress had floated to the ceiling but I couldn't find our baby.

I found a tiny air pocket at the top of the car and pressed my face into it, but soon the oxygen grew short and my lungs seemed to be on fire.

"Dear God," I prayed, "let me faint first. Don't let me be alive when the water covers me."

Bryce lifted Janni's face to his own and blew into her mouth. He took a breath, then blew again, and then again and again. At last her chest shuddered and she let out a tiny wail.

"She's breathing!" Bryce shouted.

At the hospital in Klamath Falls doctors assured us there was no damage to Janni's brain. X-rays showed three crushed vertebrae in my spine which would heal quickly; the only injury to any of us.

From the admitting room Bryce put through a call to his parents.

"Pop," I heard him say into the telephone.

"What's wrong, Bryce? Are you all right?" his father interrupted.

"Don't be alarmed — we have had an accident, but everyone's all right."

"Thank God," said his father. Then he asked, "Was it at 4 o'clock this morning?"

Bryce started at the phone in surprise. "How did you know? Did somebody tell you?"

"There was a little pause at the other end. 'Yes, Somebody told me,'" said his father.

"Mr. J. Arvid Avary, Jr., Atlanta, Ga., bank executive, tells how his return-to-faith helped his rise from the depths of despair."

3 Students From Minico Attend Event

RUPERT—Three Minico High School students will be numbered among 23 band students and about 50 choral students from Idaho, at the Northwest Music Conference to be held March 29 through April 1 at Missoula, Mont.

Keith Farris, Minico music teacher, said vocal entries will be Sally Gibbs, who played the lead in the high school opera, "The King and I" this year, and Robert Hasselstrom, who also had a part in the production.

John May, who plays bass and contrabass, will be the instrumental entry. May is student director of both the band and the Minico choir.

The students were judged from tapes they recorded and submitted to the state judges for selection. Tapes of four other students will be sent to the Northwest conference, Farris said.

These will include Robert Green, trumpet; Pam Abo, clarinet; Nancy Stallings, soprano; and Greg Andrew, tenor.

The Northwest Music Educators will be in conference at the time and Farris will be chairman of the instrumental sessions.

Students will be rehearsing in 200-piece All Northwest band and a 250-voice chorus selected from students in Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Washington, Oregon and Alaska.
