Vietnam Policy Critics Stall On Resolution

March 27-28, 1967 Twin Falls Times-N

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen-

ators who are making President Johnson squirm a bit before handing him a resolution of Latin aid Johnson will not have it in his pocket when he enters Latin America at his summit conference April 12-14. They already have stalled the measure to the point where the Senate Foreign Relations Committee "has" scheduled its next hearing on it for April 3.

Johnson has been on the telephone to Senate friends haranguing them to get action. Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen reported a 30-minute conversation in which Johnson urged him to rally GOP support for the resolution.

It stands, the resolution, passed by the House would have Congress "recommend" that the United States provide $1.5 billion in educational and economic programs on a matching basis with Latin American nations. It also would put Congress on record for support of a common market for the area.

Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee raised the point that this was the kind of advance commitment Congress gave the President in the Tonkin Gulf resolution in 1964, which Fulbright contends Johnson used to expand the Vietnam war.

Some senators who have seen their protests against intensifying the war bounce off the White House without seeming effect. Joined Fulbright to peck away at the current resolution although one war foe, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., is sponsoring the measure.

While they apparently already have succeeded in making the President uncomfortable, the group indicates it doesn't really intend to deny him some resolution. Fulbright repeatedly has said he is only objecting to "proceeding without substance." He wants individual Latin aid programs checked with Congress and not put into effect by presidential order.

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., has challenged Johnson's contention that about $1.5 billion can be added to Latin American aid without cutting back on domestic programs. He objects to the "blank check" aspects of the administration's original proposal.

"The whole concept is fallacious though undoubtedly it's done with good intentions," he said.

The critics are expected to push to say that Congress "supports" Johnson's proposal so long as aid is given "in accordance with constitutional processes."

Medicare Information Kits Available At Local Office

Medicare beneficiaries who signed up for medicare insurance can now obtain an information kit to aid them in keeping a record of their doctor bills, Rudolph E. Menghini, Twin Falls Social Security district manager, announced Monday.

The kit includes a record-keeping folder and two leaflets which explain the two methods of payment for medical insurance claims, and what medical expenses count toward the annual $50 deductible expenses each year, he said. The folder has pockets on the inside for holding doctor bills and space to write in the date and the amount of each bill so the beneficiary will know immediately when he reaches the $50 point.

After $50, the medical insurance plan pays 80 per cent of the reasonable charges for covered expenses for the remainder of the year.

Additional pamphlets outlining the Medicare program and what area of medical and hospital care it covers are included in the information.

The information kit is available free of charge at the social security office. The mailing address is Box 1129, Twin Falls. Also, people who need help in completing a medical insurance claim are urged to get in touch with the office, Mr. Menghini said.

Frenchmen Flock To Shore To See "Tide Of Century"

BY STEPHENS-BROENING
MONT ST. Michel, France (AP) — Hundreds of thousands of Frenchmen and other foreigners flocked to the seashore today to watch what had been billed as "the tide of the century."

They stood or sat in a driving rain this morning as the sea gave a heavenly tug-rushed to the shore, flooding low marshland and beaches.

The crowds themselves were pulled to the Atlantic and English coasts by promise that today's tide would be the highest since 1900.

In fact, the high water-mark reached this morning had been attained 12 times before in this century.

Heard at the 1000-year-old Abbey of Mont St. Michel, the movement of the tides is called the "Tide of the Century" because it is the last time that the incoming water will be so high.

One experienced observer estimated the speed of the morning tide today at only 8 m.p.h.

A spokesman at the Mont St. Michel Chamber of Commerce said he explained the unusual event voiced by many of the tourists' said:

"It's not spectacular. It never

But it's pretty fan-tastic!"

The sky cleared and the sea sought its low mark. The gray-green water, which had been whipped and eddied by the stiff breeze—moved much more smoothly as the tide came in.

It was as if the world was a large bathtub and someone had pulled the plug.

Slides occurred because the sun and a full moon were directly in line over the narrow strait. This happens once every 18 years.

2 Captured In Connection With Slaying

DURANGO, Mexico (AP)—Two bearded and dirty gunmen sought in connection with the slaying of a Roman Catholic priest here were captured Saturday.

Priest identified them as Valente Arturo Santos Estebane, and Baldemero Garcia Garcia.

Three other persons still were sought for investigation in the slaying of Jose de la Soledad Torres Castaneda, 38, whose body was found Saturday on the Durango highway 21 days after he disappeared. The bishop was killed and from a Mass in a nearby town.

He had been beaten and strangled, police said.

Santos and Garcia were caught while driving a rented car and two pistols were seized.

Officers related, after interrogating the two prisoners, that they blamed three other men for the slaying. The other three, also named by the Durango attorney, were Pascual Najera, Felipe Medrano and Jesus Castillo.

The two prisoners said Pavesal ordered them to sell the bishop's 1966 model car. It had been taken to Motoerrey and re-registered.

Unable to find a buyer, police said, they were given 1000 pesos equivalent to $50 then in Manila last October, and just this week on the Pacific Island of Guam.

Although Johnson has not firmly committed himself to inviting leaders of the Saigon government to future conferences of this sort, they always have been present in the past.

The President is known to have been disturbed by the attention attracted at Guam by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky of South Vietnam.

Whereas the administration had said in advance the Pacific meeting would concentrate on non-military matters, Ky grabbed the ball at the first formal session and asked to distribute texts of his remarks in advance to newsmen—raised questions about possible escalation of the war over the point of making or blockading Hapung harbor, extending the bombing of North Vietnam and acting against Communist troop concentrations in southern Laos and Cambodia.

LBJ To Hold High War Conferences

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is sticking to his plan to hold top-level Vietnam strategy sessions roughly every six months, it was confirmed today.

White House sources said Johnson stands by his pledge, first voiced at Honolulu last month and again at his news conference early this month, to get together twice a year with the most responsible leaders of the Saigon government to discuss the strategy of the government's strategy.

Actually, Johnson has held three such meetings in 12 months—first at Honolulu, then in Manila last October, and just this week on the Pacific Island of Guam.

Although Johnson has not firmly committed himself to inviting leaders of the Saigon government to future conferences of this sort, they always have been present in the past.

Gen. Westmoreland Takes Personal Interest In His Vietnam Soldiers

BY TOM TIEDE
SAIGON, Vietnam (NEA) — "The general's running behind time."

"I see."

"He's free in a moment. Have a seat."

"Thank you."

The visitor backs into a leather chair, tugs at an earlobe, smoothes a piece of paper out of a pocket and looks at the general's eyes.

"This newsmen has been waiting, sir."

"How do you do?"

Several officers try to catch the man's eye. His listeners bristle, whippers something into an aide's ear and dismisses the others while, he explains, he keeps his appointment with the press.

"The visitor smiles, nervously. 'I can see you're busy,' he says, and then adds feebly, 'hope I'm not interrupting the war.'"

Westmoreland smiles.

"Of course not," he says.

And as they sit down the general steals a hurried glance at his watch.

Westmoreland spends a lot of time in his office with very important people and not so important people, like reporters, but it is clear he would prefer to be with his troops. And his troops like him.

The other day he took one of his frequent strolls into the bunkhouses. The troops bolt to attention when the four stars walk near.

"Afternoon," says the four stars.

"Sir."

"How's your mail?"

"You getting mail all right?"

The four stars nod, smile and walk on. The troops relax with a shaking breath. They do one another quickly. Hey, is that a name? Sure it is. No kidding, is it? It's General Westmoreland!

The men all up. They like Westmoreland. Many's the letter home that has carried a casual but firm paragraph—notations, "We're coming out to see you today."

The admiration is hardly wasted. On the contrary, it's double-edged. With all his closeparatroop and glider plane qualifications, William Westmoreland remains, as the soldiers say, simply the highest-ranking GI in Vietnam.

"I like them, too," he tells the reporter.

"After all," he adds, "I've been one of them for over 30 years."

In those 30 years, moreover, Westmoreland is convinced that he "has never seen a force of fighting men which he liked better and more capable of taking the day's events in their stride."

"Oh, they grip a lot. But it doesn't run so deeply as the complaining in previous wars. And you seldom see the animalistic and individualistic traits which were common among troops in the past."

He pauses.

"Yes, I have strong affection for them."

This is not just four stars talking, either. Westmoreland's capabilities is backed by statistics, not the least of which are the unprecedented low percentages of combat deaths, personal cov-

Asian Inventor Comes Up With Anti-Car Theft Device

BY MARK-P. HESSEK
NAHA, Okinawa — (NEA) — An Asian inventor may have come up with the answer to one of Detroit's biggest problems: How to make cars theft-proof.

The invention comes on the heels of President Johnson's announced war on crime at a time when Detroit's automakers are fretting that they may have to add anti-theft devices as well as safety gadgets to meet the criteria for a Great Society car.

The device, which goes under the trade name of Car Defender, was created by an enterprising auto mechanic on Okinawa. He was inspired to invent it by a very personal loss — his own car was stolen.

The "defender" consists of an electrical circuit hooked up in series with the car's horn and electrical system. It is controlled by a well-hidden lock system which can be activated from the outside of the car. To put it in operation, a driver locks up his car, then turns the key in the hidden device.

"Any attempt to open the doors, windows, hood, or trunk will start the horn blaring, and any attempt to start the car, if the thief is still persistent with the horn blaring in his ear, will automatically ground the ignition system. Trying to push the car will do no good either. That also triggers the system, even with the emergency brake on."

The device, which sells for about $20 and costs an extra $3 to install, is currently available only on Okinawa. But in the near future, it may be appearing on the Japanese market.

Major Japanese auto manufacturers are studying the device with great interest as a possible added feature on their models. From there it could easily find its way to Detroit.

American GIs on Okinawa, meanwhile, have added their own particular refinements to the system. An Army sergeant at Fota-Buckner reportedly has added a smoke fit to his Car Defender, triggered to go off should anyone attempt to open the hood. Still another serviceman has hooked the device in series with an electric siren. Despite its many advantages, the Car Defender has one drawback: If it's activated and the owner doesn't report on the scene in a reasonable amount of time, he may have to disengage the device and push his car to the nearest gas station. It runs down the battery.

FBI Probes Link With Cosa Nostra

JACKSON TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — The FBI contained an investigation today into what was believed to be a graveyard for the Cosa Nostra.

"We have completed the search at 35 Cooke Road and at the shed on the east side of Cooke Road," said an FBI spokesman, "and have no additional statement to make at this time. Our investigation is continuing."

A federal grand jury will open hearings on the case Wednesday in Newark.

Rumors circulated widely after two bodies were unearthed Friday on what was once a 20-acre chicken farm, owned by Joseph Celso, 49, and his wife, Rose, 46.

One is believed to be the remains of Kenneth Lee, 25, a stockbroker who disappeared from his midtown Manhattan home in March 1963.

The other was an infant, presumed to be Angelo Sonnessa, who was 48 when he disappeared in 1961 from his home in Nyack, N.J. Sonnessa's reappearance indicated that Sonnessa's body had not been found.

Dr. Milton Halperin, New York City medical examiner and one of the nation's top medical sleuths who performed an autopsy on the second body, died Sunday night that the autopsy had resulted in any kind of identification.

2 Biologists Assemble Live Virus

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Two biologists report they have assembled a live virus more complex than any ever artificially built before.

Dr. Robert Edgar and Dr. William Wood of the California Institute of Technology, died their virus, labeled T4, was built up from parts of incomplete viruses manufactured by bacteria.

They said T4 — which resembles the shape of a hypodermic syringe and is only 1,000 times as thick long — can't reproduce itself without help from the bacterium it normally infects. T4 produces itself by squirting a chemical combination called DNA, deoxyribonucleic acid, into the host bacteria.

DNA, a key part of the virus' nucleus, carries the genes, or instructions that instruct the host cell to manufacture about 100 new viruses. The host cell then breaks open, releasing the newly found viruses to attack other bacteria host cells.

Edgar reported he found a way to alter the virus so that it causes the host cells to make only unasssembled virus parts. This, he said, was combined with heat and chemicals that inactivate some of the 100 genes on the virus DNA.

When certain virus genes are made inactive, he explained, the host cells make no virus heads, or they make no tails when certain other genes are made inactive.

That, when these incomplete virus parts are mixed in a test tube, he said, they assemble themselves to become complete viruses capable of transferring to another host cell.

Edgar and Wood said other researchers have put together simpler viruses, such as the tobacco mosaic virus. The work of Edgar and Wood was reported in the current issue of Caltech's "Engineering and Science" magazine.

Philadelphia Quakers Ask For School

By ANTHONY J. MAY (AP) — The teaching flexibility of a private school, the benefits of family participation and support by tax funds be combined to provide high quality public education.

A group of Philadelphia Quakers has asked the Philadelphia school system to let them form a nonprofit corporation to take over one of the city's public schools to try to prove it.

The group's leader, Stephen Gary, explained Sunday night in an interview that the group hopes to "fill achievement level" about the very deplorable level at which they are now in (city) schools.

"Also, we hope we can encourage white families who have left the area to come back to send their children to this school because of the very high level of education offered," Gary said.

He outlined these plans: First, the school would be staffed adequately to avoid the high pupil-teacher ratio of many city schools.

Teachers from private schools would be brought in to aid in special subject fields. Curricula would be adjusted to meet pupils needs rather than attempt to teach the very wide range. Finally, the school would attempt to involve parents in all phases of education, including having them merely as observers.

Sierra Leone Aide Told To Stay In N. Y.

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN (AP) — Sierra Leone military rulers today rebuffed their chairman to remain at his post in New York City until notified by letter. But the officer, Lt. Col. Ambrose Ganda, arrived in London enroute home from U.N. headquarters.

There was no immediate explanation for the delaying action by the National Reformation Council of eight young officers. Ganda, 39, was with Sierra Leone's delegation to the United Nations.

After issuing a proclamation assuming wide powers, the council ordered all persons to turn in their weapons or face detention. The proclamation formalized the takeover, suspended Parliament and portions of the constitution which the council said was "inconsistent or in conflict" with the new government.

The council also ordered all former ministers to vacate their government houses and turn in their official cars.

Officials To Confer On Crime Unit's Ideas

By STEPHEN M. AUG (WASHINGTON AP) — More than 500 law enforcement officials, judges, professors and state legislators will confer Tuesday and Wednesday on how to implement more than 200 recommendations made by the National Crime Commission.

It will be the first opportunity since the commission's 355-page report, issued last month "After... more than 18 months of work by the President's Commission on Law Enforcement and Administration of Justice."

The report contains thousands of recommendations on topics ranging from alcoholism to development of a national strategy to fight organized crime.

The commission believes one of its most important findings—the result of a survey of 10,000 representative American households—that throughout the nation "there is far more crime than ever is reported."

It found more than twice as many aggravated assaults and larcenies of more than $50 as are reported, half again more robberies, and some areas, "only one-tenth of the total—number—of certain kinds of crime are reported to the police."

The recommendations call for changes in police operations, schools, prosecutors, employment agencies, social workers, prisons, housing authorities and probation and parole officers.

When the report was issued nearly 40,000 copies were distributed free to state legislators, mayors, police and court officials, news media, congressmen and others concerned with law enforcement.

An additional 10,000 were printed for sale to the public at $2.25 each. The government printing office reports that about 8,000 have been sold and that it has already made a second printing of 10,000.

James Vorenberg, a Harvard University law professor on the commission, said that the commission believes that the emphasis should be taken off punishment and placed on treatment.

There also have been suggestions that the commission should have recommended a change in the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution to permit police wider latitude in questioning suspects.

The commission found, however, that while "every restriction that is placed on police procedures by the courts makes it more difficult to solve crimes more difficult it is also evident that police procedures must be controlled somehow."

A key court decision in questioning of suspects was the Miranda case. The Supreme Court ruled that interrogation in the isolated setting of a police station, without counsel, constitutes informal compulsion to confess.

As if in answer to those who would amend the Constitution to make station house questioning constitutional, the commission said, "It is too early to assess the effect of enforcement's ability to secure confessions and to solve crimes. But this and other decisions do represent a trend toward findings by the judiciary that previously permitted police practices are unconstitutional."

The commission recommended staff increases for the Bureau of Customs and Bureau of Narcotics and Involuntary Commitment of addicts.

Brewer Is Victor In Pensacola Golf

By WILL GRIMSLEY
PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Birdie-happy Gay Brewer won the $75,000 Pensacola Open Golf Tournament with an astounding 26-under par Sunday and a rainstorm chilled his bid for an all-time 35-year-old year veteran, who rang up 26 birdies and a 71 for a six-stroke lead over home pro Bob Keller and a $15,000 first prize.

Brewer missed by five shots at the Pensacola Country Club on Sunday, but he was not discouraged. He had the record when his rights when he moved 29 under par after an eagle at the 50th hole, but he bogeyed the 15th, 16th and 18th after a torrential rain blew in from Pensacola Bay, leaving the greens water logged.

Brewer won his last tournament a year ago in the cloud. He got the victory after Doug Sanders, leading by four strokes, was disqualified for falling to sign his scorecard.

Sanders made a tremendous charge on the final round, with birdies on six of the last nine holes for a 64, but lost the $3,000 hole-in-one to Keller's dramatic recovery on the final hole.

Keller finished with 288 and made one stroke back at 269. Third place money was $2,000.

"I just didn't have it. I couldn't get up today," Brewer said afterward.

Miss Greene Cops World Ski Cup

JACKSON HOLE, Wyo. (AP)—Nancy Greene of Canada swept past Marielle Goltzsch of France by seven hundredths of a second in the final race of the season Sunday and won the World Cup for women skiers.

"Miss Greene, from Rossland, B.C., leading a 100-meter race, finished second in the first run of the slalom in 46.18 seconds through the 56 gates and then won the second run in 45.51 for a combined time of 91.69 seconds.

The triumph gave her total of 25 Cup points and a total of 176. Miss Goltzsch, who started the race with a 15-point lead, finished with 172 points after taking third in 46.21 in the first race and second in 44.53 in the second for a combined time of 90.74.

Many skiers had complained that the event was being held because of the long competitive season, but Miss Greene felt her weariness was only in their minds.

"I wasn't tense, I wasn't nervous, I wasn't tired," she said.

She called the victory her greatest, particularly her earlier disappointment at Portillo, Chile, when she fell in the international ski championships.

France's Stener of France won the first run in 46.12 and was fourth in the combined at 93.03.

Warriors Tip Lakers For Series Sweep

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sharpshooter Rick Barry scored 37 points Sunday, pacing the San Francisco Warriors to a 123-105 victory and a sweep of their first round Western Division playoffs in the National Basketball Association against the injury-plagued Los Angeles Lakers.

The triumph, third straight, means the Warriors, who have won two of the last three series, sends them into the second round playoff action against the St. Louis Hawks with the first game either Wednesday or Thursday in San Francisco.

Elgin Baylor scored 37 for the Lakers and sent them into the first lead, but the Lakers' first half was a disaster. A sweep of the game and Jim Barnes, who paced a third quarter killing rally, led the Lakers in the third period. At one point, they led 78-70.

The second period saw the team deadlocked 95-85 before Tom Meschery hit a long shot, which gave the Warriors a 100-90 lead. Ex-Laker Jim King followed with four field goals.

He missed the first two shots, but he hit the third, a hamstring injury. He started Sunday only to suffer a broken toe in a game before the game was a minute off.

Barnes, who scored eight points and helped achieve rebounding supremacy in the third quarter, ruptured the Achilles tendon in his right leg and must undergo surgery.

McDowell's Arm On Road To Recovery

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Sam McDowell, Cleveland Indians' big left-hander with the blazing fastball, may have found a winning solution to his battle with a ached nerve.

Winner of 17 games in 1965 and possessor of a 4.0 record through May of last year including two shutouts, McDowell fought arm trouble the rest of the year and finished 9-8.

Diagnosed as a nerve pinch in the upper arm, the injury, which had been in the arm since the winter, McDowell said.

"The arm is now coming along," he said just before pitching three shutouts in the final game of the season against the San Francisco Giants.

McDowell hopes the 15 to 20 minutes of stretching, carried daily for two weeks, will recurrence since a big season by the southpaw could mean a big difference in the final standings.

A year ago, the Tribe led the American League on June 12 but then slipped to fifth, 17 games off the pace.

So it was good news for the Indians when the man rated one of the best pitchers in the league, throwers in the game, said "The arm feels much better this spring than it did last year."

BURNING QUESTION:

What to lead when you have a long suit and a short one? ... Jim: "How about discussing opening leads this week?"

... Oswald: "Fine. There are two parts to every opening lead problem. You have to choose the suit and then the card in the suit. In addition, your lead

... Oswald: "This fourth best rule has the merit of being generally understood in all bridge circles. Still, there is no need to follow it religiously. If you want to open a fifth best or even a third best on occasion you will worry declarer. Just make sure that you don't worry your partner a lot more."

The Got Unclad To Prove "No Pads"

Dear Eric: I am only 15, but five weeks was the earliest to say I have a serious problem. I am very well developed for my age and at school two boys kept calling me "louse" and "pud."

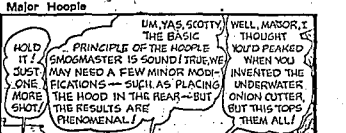

Dear Clara: If you haven't seen the picture, don't assume there is one. First of all, it takes a good photographer to shoot a non-flash indoor picture that comes out, and it's unlikely a 15-year-old classmate would be that pro.

Secondly, even if he got a picture, how would he have it developed and printed? Commercial developers are mandated by law to confiscate nude and semi-nude photographs.

Dear Faron: I don't believe a guy should make a commitment with one girl as long as he's strongly attracted to a second. If there's a two-way tug on your interest, date both girls.

Dear Eric: You're a guy who's got a girl as long as he's got a girl. You're a guy who's got a girl as long as he's got a girl.

Dear Eric: Please read "Indoor Games" and "Outdoor Games" in your column. I like a girl named Julie and yours for a girl and she's saying it that I'd ask her love? Write to us at Teenage to the prom. But then Sammy Date-Line, in care of this news-

Tony Awards Presented Sunday Night

By JEAN HELLER
NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway rolled out its best red carpet Sunday night to present the Tony awards for theater excellence and take its place among the national spectacles of the motion picture Academy Awards and television's Emmys.

As motion picture and theater star Lauren Bacall put it: "It's damn well about time."

The hour-long 21st annual Tony award presentation, televised nationally from the Scherbert Theater by the American Broadcasting Co., was the best show on Broadway Sunday night — all other Broadway theaters were dark for the holiday.

The musical, "Cabaret," and an English play, "The Homecoming," scooped up half of the 16 silver medallions. Barbara Harris of "The Apple Tree" and Robert Preston of "I Do! I Do!" took the top awards for musical performances and Best Actor of "The Killing" Sister George and Paul Rodgers of "The Homecoming" took medallions as top stars in straight drama.

Tonys for supporting roles went to Joel Grey and Peg Murray both of "Cabaret" and to Marian Seldes of "A Delicate Balance" and Ian Holm of "The Homecoming" for supporting dramatic roles.

Other awards to "Cabaret" went to producer Sam Gold, librettist Joe Masteroff, composer John Kander and lyricist Fred Ebb, sharing the medallion for the best musical. To Kander and Ebb for the best score; to Patricia Zipporud for best design; Boris Aronson for scenic design, and Ronald Field, choreography.

"The Homecoming" took the Tony for the year's outstanding drama, shared by author Harold Pinter and producers Michael H. Cohen, and for direction by Peter Hall.

Priest, Ex-Nun Are Married

PEWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — "It was a very inspiring ceremony," said the Rev. Leroy Anderson, of the brief, 15-minute, ceremony Saturday in which Edmund Kurth, 35, Peewaukee, a Roman Catholic priest, and Shirley Weis, 34, a former nun, were wed.

The Rev. Mr. Anderson, pastor of St. Gallus Lutheran Church here, said only a small number of persons attended the ceremony. The members of the church declined to say where or when the ceremony was held.

Kurth had said earlier he assumed the wedding would mean excommunication. He had been a Milwaukee Catholic high school teacher and a member of the Pallotine Fathers.

It was announced that the church will pick up these clothes on May 23 and for anyone who had used clothing to give to bring them by then. The members decided to put the proceeds into the church improvement fund that came from the dinner they served for the American Legion and Auxiliary on March 15.

Is Your Silverware Old Fashioned

By NORMAN HERRETT
When you were a child, your dinner table gleamed under its load of delicious, home cooked food — and the chances are that the "implements" you used to eat with were very heavy and very ornate. That was the style in silverware in those good old days.

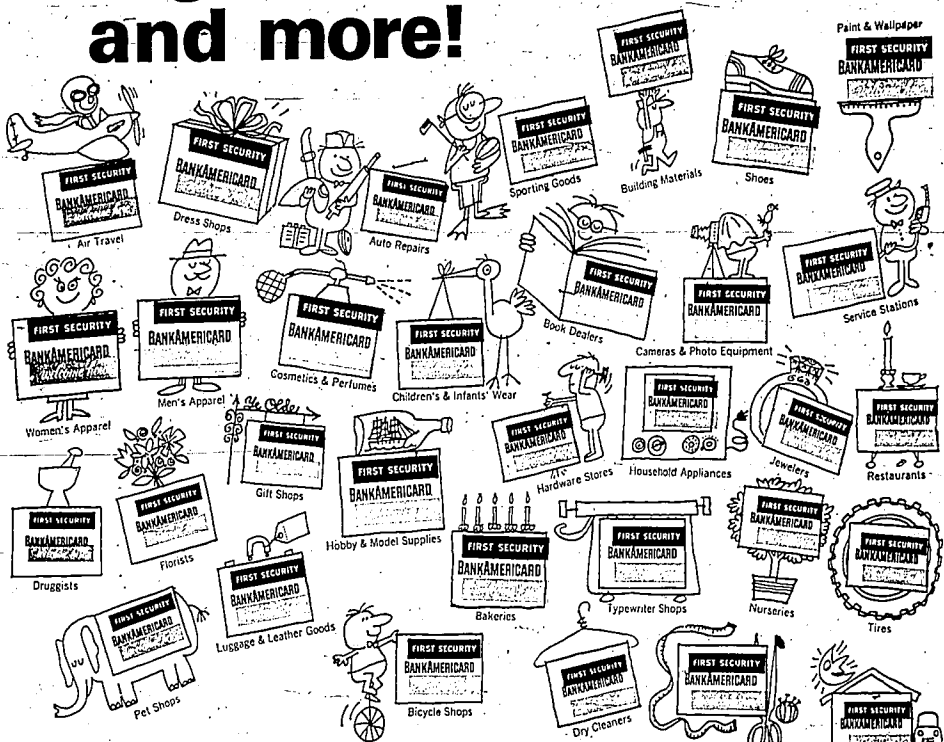

Today's silverware is a little different. It's streamlined, it's more graceful, slimmer, more utilitarian with shorter knife blades and fork tines. Spoons, too, have become modernized with straighter handles and quite often with a more oval-shaped bowl.

If you perchance are still using silverware "handed down" to you by Grandma, you owe it to your duty as a gracious hostess or host to put it away lovingly — and add a complete place setting of "new" silverware to your table.

We proudly display some of the finest, most beautiful and enduring silverware in America. Here in lovely chests, you'll find gleaming Sterling or silver plated knives, forks, spoons and the other pieces requisite for smart, entertaining or for just yourselves when you're eating on a family.

Come in and browse around. You'll like our friendly attention to your jewelry needs. We'll tell you they may be HERRETT'S JEWELRY, 12220 Kimbark, Twin Falls, Ph. 733-0868.
