

Snowfall on the Roseworth-Salmon Tract watershed was above normal during March, according to Glenn Nelson, chairman of the board of supervisors for the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District.

Mr. Nelson said this above normal precipitation has helped make up for the deficiency in January and February; the latter, however, that below 6,500 feet moisture actually was lost because of warm temperatures and dry soil conditions.

Reports at snow measuring stations on the watershed at the end of March, compared to last year and the 15-year April average are:

Magie Mountain, snow depth last year 43.0 and 15.1; average 24.4. Shoshone Basin, trace only this month and a year ago, with 15-year average water content 10.9.

Deadline Ridge, 53.4 and 17.5; last year 43.0 and 15.1; average 24.4.

Hummingbird Springs, 67.8 and 22.3; last year 53.0 and 17.3; average 23.0. Pole Creek, 65.9 and 18.8; last year 49.0 and 16.2; average 20.7.

Gnat Creek, 55.4 and 17.3; last year 42.0 and 13.1; average 19.5.

Cedar Creek, 26.7 and 8.0; last year 23.0 and 8.6; average 11.9.

Bear Creek Meadows, 61.8 and 20.7; last year 46.0 and 16.8; average 21.0.

Fox Creek, not measured this year; last year 22.0 and 7.9; average 8.2.

Red Point, 32.0 and 11.1; last year, no snow depth water content; average 9.1. Wilson Creek, 43.0 and 14.0; last year 30.0 and 4.1; average 10.4.

CAMP DEVELOPMENT FUND CONTRIBUTIONS OF $33,000 are made by, from left, Isaac Lee, Burley, chairman of the Scout families section of the fund-campaign and president of the Busby State of the LDS Church; H. Hibbert, district Boy Scout finance chairman. The contributions were made in the form of pledges, cash and in-kind gifts to Robert B. Day, right, Twin Falls general chairman of the fund drive. The LDS gift represents pledges by the wards in President Lee's stake.

Scout Camp Fund Campaign Reaches One-Third Of Goal

"Operation Roundup" continues in the Camp Development Fund drive for the Snake River Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, as late reports show that the campaign total stands at $106,025.85, or one third of the $308,000 goal.

The Council is conducting the capital funds campaign to raise money needed for camp expansion and improvements. Expansion of Camp Bradley, the camping site on the Cape Horn Scout Reservation, and the establishment of a new camp in Magic Valley are fund goals.

Scout officials hope to begin construction on the new project this summer.

"Operation Roundup" will continue for another two weeks. Volunteer workers are urged to report their solicitations and report their contributions to the campaign office.

Need Found For Measles Vaccinations

A recent survey conducted in the South-Central-Idaho-Health District has revealed that 1,816 of the 5,267 school children in the district have no protection against measles, according to district director Dr. Luther Thompson.

The survey, made in cooperation with the South Central Medical Society and other agencies prior to any district, or county-wide epidemic that occurs.

Dr. Thompson said of the 5,267 children surveyed, 1,992 had had measles—not German measles, and that 1,459 have been given measles vaccinations. The survey also revealed that at least 1,816 preschool children over 12 months of age have no protection against the disease.

Area Men Check 4-H Camp Area

HAILEY—Although five feet of snow still remains in Quarter Gulch, where the Central Idaho 4-H Camp is located, a group of seven men visited the campsite Thursday to check conditions.

James Eakin, Blaine County extension agent and secretary of the Camp Association, said there was still some four feet of snow on the roof of the lodge.

Besides checking weather conditions, the men made observations for the 1967 building program. It is hoped that several cabins can be erected during the summer.

Others who made the trip are Ivan Hopkins, Lincoln County extension agent, Shoshone; Grant Hall, district supervisor, Boise; Ray Oyer, Shoshone; Pete Hunt and W. D. Merindale, Hailey.

Spelling Bee Set Tuesday At Jerome

SHOSHONE — Fourth annual county-wide spelling contest will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Lincoln School auditorium.

The event is sponsored by the American Education Yaden Post No. 11, Shoshone.

There will be two contests, one for pupils up to and including sixth grade and the other for students from seven to through twelfth grades.

Each of the three schools, Dietrich, Richfield and Shoshone, will send six grade students and four juniors to the event, making 18 in each contest. They will compete on an individual basis, not as a team.

Each school is to furnish a judge. Mrs. Charles T. A. is a judge for Shoshone, and will pronounce the words for the lower grades and Mrs. Fred Gelling, teacher in the high school, will pronounce for the upper grades.

MEETING SCHEDULED

HOLLISTER — Salmon Tract Farm Bureau will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Neal Pastoor, with Mr. and Mrs. Neal Pastoor and his wife, Mrs. Dick Stafford will show slides on their recent trip to Egypt and Greece.

Fairfield Snow Depths Are Greater

FAIRFIELD — Snow depths are greater this year than last year on the Camas County watershed, according to a survey made by the Soil Conservation Service.

Paul Bull, Caldwell, and Leo Senter, Fairfield, traveled to Couch summit Thursday in two small snow machines.

There were 60.9 inches of snow on Couch summit with a water content of 31.0 inches, compared to 44 inches of snow last year with a water content of 14.0 inches. The 15-year average for the course is 20 inches of water content for this time.

At the old Sulphur Beacon station course above the ski area, there was 28.7 inches of snow with a water content of 9.4 inches. Last year at this time there was 21 inches of snow with a water content of 8.7 inches. The 15-year average is a water content for this time of 11.3 inches.

The snow in the valley has begun to melt and streams started flowing this week.

T.F. Girl Avoids Injury In Crash

PIER — A Twin Falls girl escaped serious injury when the 1967 Rambler she was driving rolled over into a borrow on a county road three miles west and one-half mile south of Pier at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

According to Idaho State Police, the accident occurred when Linda L. Bryson, 9, 503 Addison Ave., lost control of her car when she swerved to avoid hitting a chuck hole in the road.

She was given first aid for cuts and bruises when officers arrived at the scene. Miss Bryson, escaped from the car by climbing out a back window after it landed upside down in the pit.

Flight Agency Name Change Is Reported

BURLEY—A name change went into effect Saturday for the Burley Federal Aviation Agency flight service station and those throughout the county.

The FAA, however, still will be operating under the initials FAA, as the "agency" in the title has been changed to "administration."

Lee Pearce, chief of the Burley Flight Service Station, said he has been informed the FAA has been made a branch of a newly organized Department of Transportation and will no longer operate as a separate agency. He said the FAA has been an independent agency since 1958, but will now be included in the new cabinet department.

The Department of Transportation will now consist of the FAA; Coast Guard; Federal Highway Administration; Federal Railroad Administration; St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation; National Highway Safety Bureau and the Bureau of Public Roads.

The Burley Flight Service Station handles air traffic and flight assistance for the Magic Valley area.

No personnel or policy changes are expected to accompany the new title, Mr. Pearce said.

Valley, Firth Top State Debate Divisions

RIMBERLY—Valley High School was first in the open division of the State Class B Debate Tournament which concluded here Saturday and Firth High School took first place in the Girls' Division.

Top high school debaters from throughout the state took part in the two-day affair—St. Gertrude's Academy, Cottonwood; Genesee High School; Clearwater Valley High School; Koozka; Lakeland High School; Rathdrum; Kuna High School; Valley High School; Edenhazleton; Kimberly; Clark; and Idaho Falls; Jefferson High School; Ferris; Firth High School and Ririe High School.

Results were: Open Division, first, Valley (David Severant and Ron Blesner); alternate, Tom Andrews; second, Firth (Dolyn Fielding and Wynn Larsen); third, Kuna (Larry Law and Gary Knapp); alternate, Ted Wheeler.

Mrs. Hal Hill, Rev. Howard Lancaster and Rev. Vard Fisher, all Girls Division, first, Firth (Marie Wermette and DeAnn Miles); second, Kuna (Patty Kounik and Christy Lowe); alternate, Janet Green; third, Kimberly (Janet Gott and Jean Gay Major); and Claire Major, both Gooding.

Jackass-Powered Drive For Legion Members Successful

The mood of the affair was Western, and area American Legion representatives went along with it when they presented their cap pistols to the Idaho Legion post commander and his aide when the pair stopped in Twin Falls Friday in connection with a wrap up of the organization's annual membership drive.

The pistols were presented as protection for the men during the remainder of a six-day trip that has taken them to every major city in Idaho, via donkey and Brahmin bull.

Chet Floyd Gooding, state commander and Lou Bab, Boise, legion adjutant, and were given 40 new membership cards from Legion Post No. 7, Twin Falls, representing the first year Twin Falls has met its membership quota in several years.

The Legion representatives arrived in Twin Falls Friday riding a donkey and a Brahmin bull, an action that was promoted last year when a plane in which they were making a similar trip ran out of gas in mid-air. At that time, according to Frank Hegerman, Twin Falls, Mr. Floyd vowed to travel by another means during this year's trip.

George Otterson, Hegerman, rode the bull, a 14-year-old member of a breed classified as one of the most dangerous and difficult to train. Mr. Bab, preferring a more contemporary mode of travel made the trip in an automobile. Mr. Floyd rode Jennie, the donkey.

The pistols were presented to the men as protection from fierce Indians and rustlers during the remaining day of the trip, Mr. Hegerman said.

According to another spokesman—Mingo Valley—legion posts have known their most successful year in a decade, as far as membership is concerned. The state adjutant represented a quota accomplishment for the Twin Falls group and several other area posts are close to their quotas than they have for years.

Smiths Busy

IAN PEDRO, Calif. (AP) — The growing world of people named Smith had things pretty much to themselves Friday in at least one field.

Harbor General Hospital's obstetric ward reported that a medical team headed by Dr. Margaret Smith delivered in rapid succession: Robert W. Smith to Ernest Smith, Mark Alan Smith to Judith Smith, James Smith Jr. to Mrs. Effler Smith, and Cynthia Smith to Carolyn Smith.

Valley Traffic Courts

Fines ordered by Rupert Justice of the Peace Roy T. Archer were against Hilvo G. Mascorro, 21, Burley, stop sign violation, $10; Patricia A. Harbison, 24, Burley, speeding, $15; John A. Cantrell, 30, Rupert, speeding, $20; Kenneth E. Christensen, 27, Hoytville, speeding, $20.

Also fined for speeding by Judge Archer were Helen T. Heinze, 44, Burley, and Linda Adams, 18, Burley, each $15.

Diane Teister, 18, Rupert, was fined $15 for improper passing by Judge Archer.

David Anderson, 18, Declo, was sentenced to a total of nine months in the county jail on three separate counts by Judge Archer. A one charge of driving while license was suspended brought a $100 fine and 60 day sentence, a second similar charge was fined $100 and six months in jail, and on a reckless driving charge he was ordered to serve one month in jail and pay a $55 fine.

Campaign Financing Foes Set Plan

BY JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate foes of the presidential campaign financing plan will make their bid to kill it this week for the program has a chance to go into operation.

But supporters of the plan said they are reasonably confident there will be sufficient votes to turn back the attempt of Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., to repeal it.

The plan, enacted late in the 1956 session as an extraneous rider to a bill, would make available about $30 million each to the Democrats and Republicans for the 1968 election if taxpayers agree to put that much into the fund.

Gore contends the provisions for the plan are so loosely drawn that it is unconstitutional in part and that there are no adequate safeguards as to how the money would be spent.

He insists repeal is the only answer but emphasizes that he might support a bill of federal campaign financing as a part of a general reform of the election laws.

The Tennessee plans to offer his repealer as an amendment to a bill sought by President Johnson to restore business tax incentives. The Senate is to start debate on this measure Monday.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said he supports Gore's effort; Williams sought to defeat the plan last year but lost 39 to 33.

In that test, only one Republican, Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, a former Republican national chairman, supported the proposal.

Area Chamber Discusses SBA Program

RUPERT — The operation of the Small Business Administration program is the subject of a Thursday Chamber of Commerce meeting at Hilton Hotel.

Bert Holdal of the Boise office of the administration was the speaker.

The administration maintains a stringent credit policy, Mr. Holdal said, similar to policies of banks, and local banks are urged to participate in the loans.

The office has set no maximum amount for loans, and they will loan up to $150,000 on a direct basis and guarantee loans up to $350,000, with administration insurance up to 90 per cent.

The administration will not loan money to relocate a business rather than for sound business reasons such as construction of interstate highway necessitating removal of the business.

Agricultural loans are available only for strictly commercial operations, such as feed lots where the owner buys both the livestock and the feed.

Mr. Holdal said he is presently spending one day per month at Burley, where local businessmen are invited to call on him to discuss their problems. Appointments can be arranged through the Chamber of Commerce at Burley.

Chamber members passed a motion instructing the secretary to write to the SBA office in Washington and the regional office in Rupert on a regular basis.

198 Students Are Expected For Seminar

An estimated 198 outstanding high school students from the western United States, including one as yet unselected Twin Falls student, are expected to attend the Youth Citizenship Seminar at Colorado Springs, Colo., June 16-18.

According to a spokesman for the Twin Falls Area Chamber of Commerce, the seminar is a local student's trip to the Air Force Academy at Colorado Springs for the seminar will be sponsored by the Twin Falls Chamber. Selection of the student is based on recommendations of counselors and the principal of the high school and through interviews conducted by members of the Civitan Club.

The award is based on honor, courage, leadership and service, the spokesman said.

The objective of the seminar is to instill the knowledge that American citizenship is a priceless possession, to teach leaders to make decisions in line with their reason and to build a desire to maintain our form of government," he added. The seminar is billed as being a functional study of citizenship.

The seminar will begin June 16 with registration and conferences with officials of the Air Force Academy and Colorado state legislators. Theme of the meetings June 17 will be "Our Religious Heritage, the Origin of Our Strength and Freedom."

Announcement of the Twin Falls seminar delegate will be made in May.

Youths Held In Market Brekin

RUPERT—Two juveniles were apprehended early Saturday morning by Rupert police officers after a break-in at Reeves Market in Rupert.

Damage to the market was estimated at $200, primarily front and back doors. Owner William Reeves estimated that merchandise stolen was worth $300, mostly cigarettes and beer, and taken. Some of the merchandise has been recovered.

The two juveniles are being held in custody for hearing in Probate Court.

many years ago were impasse in our educational programs, said Peterson. The importance of vocational education, he noted. "The spotlight is on marketing and merchandising one of the most important phases of the courses that are training our young people for the business world."

"Career opportunities are almost unlimited in this area because demands are steadily increasing," Gov. Samuelson said. Lt. Gov. Murphy, in a speech read by Gov. Samuelson, said, "The choice that a person makes today will determine his future. It should be a choice that is based on aptitude, interest and desired goals that one sets for himself."

"He added that the "right occupation for a person is the one that lends its assets and liabilities and offers opportunity for him to live a happy, successful, useful life."

"Regardless of what you think or of what your parents, friends or counselors believe," he added, "the one area open for promotion and expansion that is now receiving the least amount of recognition yet holds more future for youth trained specifically in distribution than many of the supposedly critical need areas."

Gov. Samuelson was introduced at the banquet by Dr. Barbara Fredericksen, state DECA vice-president and a CSI instructor, served as mistress of ceremonies. Miss Fredericksen was the banquet chairman.

The conference began with registration Thursday and continued through Saturday with many of the wood river high school members of the DECA. A constitution was adopted and plans were

Wood River Rotarians Hear Music

HAILEY — Richard Price, music instructor for Ketchum, Hailey and Bellevue grade and high schools, presented several wood river high school music students at the regular meeting of Hailey Rotary club Thursday night at the Mint dining room.

Those participating in a mixed quartet were six diversities: numbers included Lorna Wainland, Sylvia B. I. A. O. Cecilia Casonelli, Judy O. McFarland, Mary Jo Emer, Sherry Anderson, David Woodland, Jeff Garston, C. A. L. Graham, William Vernon and Keith Peterson. Rublebeck was their accompanist.

As a flute quartet, Sue Anderson, Melody Watson, Diane Hanson and Jeff Garston played "Fox Fire" a number they are preparing for the Regional Music Festival.

Mr. Price explained the chorus is working toward uniformity for their members. Rotary club members voted to make a profit out of a fund raising event for this purpose and the committee members on the committee include Dr. A. E. Richards, Jerry Johnson, Robert Vernon and Robert Riggins.

Class Of '67 Offers Aid On Golf Course

A letter expressing "shock and deep sense of regret over the tragic acts of destruction inflicted on the Twin Falls Municipal Golf Course" was received Saturday by Clyde Thomssen, manager of the golf course.

The letter was signed by Harold T. Strubbe, class president; Randy Skeem, vice president; Jan Sincelar, secretary; and James Hestley, treasurer, of the Twin Falls High School class of 1967.

"It is our implicit wish to display any needed cooperation or compensation, by our class as a whole or even, hopefully, by any class members, with those who are doing our best to repair our city and our school by exhibiting their capabilities for destruction."

The officers extended the hope that the damage could be repaired with a minimum of cost and man-hour loss, and volunteered any assistance needed for the project.

The letter concluded, "Again, please accept our apology for our 'clashes' of our past which in fact, which can only be termed one of pure idocy, and which we vehemently condemn as contrary to all principles taught in our schools."

Coppolino Faces Second Killing Court

NAPLES, Fla. (AP)—Dr. Carl Coppolino faces his second murder charge in four months Monday when he goes on trial accused of sending his first wife into a sleep of death.
 The trial promises all the sensationalism which accompanied Coppolino's trial and conviction in 1965 for the death of his former neighbor, Wiliam Farmer.
 Dr. Coppolino, 32, and a physician friend, died Aug. 28, 1966, in the bedroom of the family's fashionable Lombard, Fla. home in Sarasota, 100 miles north of here. The state claims the doctor administered a lethal injection with succinylcholine chloride, a drug which induces paralysis.
 The 34-year-old anesthesiologist, has pleaded innocent to the charge and hired F. Lee Bledsoe, a lawyer who has engineered his New Jersey acquittal, to handle the defense. Coppolino, 29, gave a testimony that he was free from the charge and the state had no evidence in his case.
 First-degree murder indictments in New Jersey and Florida followed autopsies on the exhausted bodies of Farmer and Bledsoe. The state disclosed the drug's presence.
 Autopsies were ordered after Farmer's widow, Margorie, 56, told Sheriff Ross Boyer of Sarasota County she was suspicious of the causes of both deaths.
 Boyer reported.
 In the New Jersey trial, Mr. Farmer testified that the darkly handsome Coppolino had been lovers and that she followed the Coppolinos and their two daughters to Sarasota after her husband's death.
 More than two months after Farmer's death Coppolino married Mary Williams Gibson, 35, a wealthy divorcee from Sarasota.
 Mrs. Farmer is to be a star witness for the prosecution.

 During his speech, Mr. Deal challenged the students to retain their keen interest in Idaho, the United States and to accept your responsibility as government and in school, community and civic affairs.
 "Examining the problems and accomplishments of the 29th Legislature has in fact set a record as far as the total number of bills introduced, he added.

In all four bills were passed by the Youth Legislature, a joint resolution was approved and two bills were introduced by the youth governor, Ian H. Von Lindern. Bills providing for 190 students to sit on secondary school boards and lowering the insurance premium rate to two per cent.
 "If the students attending the Twin Falls event have given any indication of teenage-age matters in the adult world, teenagers disapprove of legalized abortion and a lower legal drinking age. Bills approving both these matters were killed by the youthful delegation."
 Adults connected with the mock legislature apparently were surprised at the mature speech and polite exalted by the students during the session. Among them was Mr. Deal, who said he was very pleasantly surprised by their maturity.
 A veteran politician from Nampa, Mr. Deal, presented the Idaho history lesson, an examination of the 1967 Idaho Legislature's record and a challenge to the students attending the banquet Saturday at the YMCA Building's Sunrise Room.
 He was introduced by Tom Vissers, Jeff Toler, lieutenant governor, was master of ceremonies.
 During his address, Mr. Deal delved into the history of the first Idaho legislature which convened Dec. 18—1890. The session, he recalled on Jan. 5, 1891.
 Deal postulated that the also co-chaired the event. Other members of the Magic Valley Youth and Government Committee, which organized this year's Youth Legislature, include Chet Bartlett, executive director of the Twin Falls YMCA; Sally Maloney, executive director, Twin Falls YWCA; Rep. Ray Lincoln, Rep. William J. Roberts; former Sen. George Billek; Sen. John M. Barker; and Jack Swisher. Youth members of the committee are Patty Barry, Marilyn Olmstead, Jeff Toler, and Tom Vissers.

"This added to industrialism," he said, means the provision of more jobs and positions for Idaho youth in Idaho.
 "It will challenge you to get the best education possible, and to take advantage of what Idaho has to offer," he said.
 Mr. Deal served as state senator from Canyon County for five terms and was lieutenant governor of Idaho from 1950 to 1954. Owner of an insurance company in Nampa for more than 20 years, he maintains an active interest in youth and is a long time member of the advisor board of the Oregon, Idaho and Boy Scouts of America.
 The Magic Valley Youth Legislature, which Saturday concluded a second session, has become an effort to familiarize area students with governmental procedures. By giving them a first-hand insight into legislative policy, it is hoped that they will maintain an interest in government and consequently become better citizens.
 Judge Zoe Ann Shambaugh, co-chairman of the event, commended the success of the first-year legislature and said that legislation is indicated by the number of students attending the second session, she added. Larry Harvey, Twin Falls attorney

 She sounded very upset and being a longtime family friend, I asked her what was the matter. This lady is about sixty-five, gathered, since she is scheduled to retire later this year. The time was perfect for me to give her some advice and urgency. I suggested she come to my office to discuss her investments. I suggested she come to my office to discuss her investments. Patrol Fete Highlights Soldier Mountain Season

By NORMA HERZINGER

Twin Falls Times-News 9

Women's Section

FAIRFIELD—Skiing, dinner, a torchlight parade and ski movies provided real family entertainment when the Soldier Mountain Ski Patrolmen and their wives hosted their fourth annual dinner at Soldier Mountain Lodge.

The ham dinner, with salads and trimmings too numerous to mention, was served to a record crowd numbering more than 250 persons. The outstanding factor of this annual social is that it is a family affair, where the youngsters enjoy the dinner and skiing as much as the adults.

Many families reached the mountain early to enjoy a full afternoon of skiing prior to the dinner, others came just for the evening social. The warmth from the fire in the fireplace at one end of the lodge was a favorite spot for skiers as they came in to warm up a bit before hitching another ride on the lift to the mountain top.

While sitting in the lodge during the late afternoon it was surprising to see the number of small fry riding the lift to the top and skiing down with the self-confidence of the best of skiers. The snow came down heavily most of the afternoon and evening, but it did not seem to dampen the spirits of the winter enthusiasts as they rode the lift to the top time and time again. Youngsters who did not ski had fun with sleds, sleighs and rides on snow machines.

The dinner was completely prepared and served by the ski patrol members and their wives. Proceeds from the social will go for the patrol to buy more first aid equipment for the safety of all persons using the Soldier Mountain facilities.

Proceeds from the dinner last year helped purchase a metal toboggan which aids in getting an injured person down the hill.

The torchlight parade was termed one of the most impressive ever as the skiers came down the mountain slope under the new mercury vapor lights installed for the occasion.

A tremendous service is performed by these ski patrol members who volunteer their time to help the ski area and make the facilities safer for all persons wanting to enjoy the outdoor fun. Patrol members are very idealistic as they wear their gold or maroon jackets with the patrol and first aid patches.

An ideal ski patrolman sets an example for all skiers to follow, such as safe skiing and courteousness. He is first of all a good, safe skier very dedicated to his work, and is first aid trained in a standard and advanced courses, with yearly refresher courses. He enforces the standards he utters by and gives assistance wherever needed.

The ski patrolman on duty must be just that—on duty. You never see him around the lodge having coffee during his turn on, and he is the last man off the hill at night as he canvasses the area to be sure there are no slow skiers or ones stranded. One of his daily duties is to fill up the six marks made by careless skiers.

The Soldier Mountain Ski Patrol is a highly rated unit which includes several men with the rank of national ski patrolmen. It has been designated as Gannas County Rescue Unit, which serves not only during the winter months, but year around when necessary, such as a search for a missing person, etc.

Members of this patrol include Tommy Spackman, patrol leader; Doren Cluer, section chief; Rick Carrico, Dean Funk, Sten Frostenson, Willard Wilson, Lowell Ruby, Gene Glick, Gary Smilney, Jim Varin and trainees, John Glick, Ed Gunning, Ann-Gunning and Harold Cloate.

Co-owners of the Soldier Mountain Ski Area are Mr. and Mrs. Levard Hansen, Ketchum, and Mr. and Mrs. Sten Frostenson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Frostenson, all Fairfield.

ENJOYING THE WARMTH of the fireplace and friendly conversation are Doreen Jelfies and Carolyn Tronson, sitting, and Mary Tronson at the Soldier Mountain Ski Patrol dinner held recently. A record crowd attended the social.

"IT'S TOO CROWDED IN THERE FOR US," say Jake Hansen, left, and Mark Penhays, both Ketchum, as they leave by the back door after filling their plates at the annual dinner at Soldier Mountain Lodge. These boys are typical of the many youngsters who attended the dinner.

PREPARING TO SERVE the more than 250 guests who attended the ski patrol dinner are Mrs. Doren Cluer, wife of the ski patrol section chief, and Gene Glick. The ham dinner with salads and trimmings, was enjoyed by all.

AMONG THE SMALL ONES attending the outing at Soldier Mountain were Janet Choate and Randy Choate, children of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Choate. Janet was not only fascinated by all the snow and fun for all, but with all the good food before her.

WARMING THEIR HANDS over the stove at the ski patrol hut are Mrs. Wanda-Lutz Filer, and Michael K. Miller, Twin Falls. Skiing, dinner, a torchlight parade and ski movies provided the entertainment for the record crowd that attended the annual gathering.

JUST OFF THE HILL, Gary Smilney, national ski patrolman and Fairfield forest ranger, catches a bite to eat as he chats with Mrs. Willard Wilson, wife of a fellow ski patrolman.

SOLDIER MOUNTAIN Ski Area co-owners, Mr. and Mrs. Levard Hansen, Ketchum, discuss the evening activities as they wait in line for dinner. They are co-owners with Mr. and Mrs. Sten Frostenson and Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Frostenson, all Fairfield. A snow-slicer, Mr. Hansen, and his ydigious snow machines, are very popular with the younger set at Soldier Mountain.

Negro Singer Makes Debut As Designer

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — To the bewilderment of the wild beat of drums, barefoot misses with rings on their toes, beaded necklaces and feathers in their hair, helped famous Negro singer Miriam Makeba make her debut Monday as a fashion designer.

Delighted buyers, used to conventional garment district showings, were amazed at a show that was part theater, part fashion, all fun.

Renowned designer Emilio Pucci and Frenchman Yves St. Laurent have been drumming up enthusiasm for the so-called African look, which began two years ago. But Miss Makeba with her heritage in the Dark Continent proved she could do better.

The manikins, some light, some dark, were sometimes elegant, sometimes savage, at all times exotic. The styles ranged from loin cloth bikinis to gold silk harem pants to elaborately embroidered patio dresses, to wide shapelier robes.

Among the jewelry were Ubangi necklaces, beaded on a bikini, white fur uppers, ruffled neckties and wooden beads strung with straw.

Since Mrs. John F. Kennedy made leopard a rage, it is considered that the show was a Kikuyu leopard sheath gown from the performer's personal wardrobe.

Miss Makeba's daughter, Dönge, and folk singer Jossie White's daughter, Judy, sang a duet in embroidered shorts and overblouse which were a part of the new collection.

Miss Makeba combined both careers at the end by singing African chants in her rich black and gold Furra Furra with black ostrich plumes on the hemline.

Janie Maltz, Carrico Plan June Wedding

WENDELL — Mr. and Mrs. Fred Maltz, Wendell, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Janie, to Richard (Rick) Carrico, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Carrico, Gooding.

Miss Maltz was graduated from Wendell High School with the class of 1963. She attended Idaho State University, Pocatello, for three years and is attending the College of Southern Idaho.

Mrs. Carrico graduated from Gooding High School and has served with the Army, stationed in Europe. He is attending the College of Southern Idaho.

A June 11 wedding is planned at the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell.

Gloria Ames, Routh Disclose Nuptial Plans

Mr. and Mrs. Marion Ames, Twin Falls, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Gloria Jean, to David L. Routh, son of Mr. and Mrs. Les Routh, Coeur d'Alene.

The bride-elect is a graduate of Twin Falls High School. Mr. Routh is a 1966 graduate of Coeur d'Alene High School and is serving in the Air Force, stationed at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

A June 17 wedding is planned.

New Math Makes Way Into 1967 Fashion-Field

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The new math for women's fashions goes like this: For daytime wear, subtract as much as the law allows from the bottom; for evening subtract that much from the top.

There is also a lot of multiplication of pleats in the new suits and division — long and short — of skirts into party pajamas, culottes and even boxer shorts.

The style lesson began Wednesday for more than 200 newsmen here, for the New York couture group's session will continue through Sunday.

LEGGY lasses in the Montecarlo and Pruzin collection.

Mrs. Don Wavra, past president, Mrs. Childers presented Mrs. Wavra a plaque for her achievement of duties while in office.

Dr. and Mrs. Anderson showed films of their recent trip abroad. The next meeting is April 7.

were good examples of the first axion. Their skirts were short and square, while jackets were wide at the shoulder, high necked, or built up even further with scarves.

As the line got fancier, the neckline got barer. Witness the Keyhole necked costume.

The Junior Sophisticate house began a parade of cold shoulder wraps around the neck, and the evening wear by Cameo and by Harvey Berlin's designer Karen Stark, One-shoulder to the waist, strapless, deep-dipping décolletage and no-shoulder wraparounds were among the regal gowns in silky crepes or wispy chiffons that reached the ground.

A second fashion rule for women who insist on sleeves in their party dresses is to wear it with a coat with subtracted shoulders.

Sharply sophisticated, were Cameo's black-and-white panel crepe dresses, some with sleeves, some without shoulder covers.

Chiffon multiplied by the yards formed floppy wings on the backs of angelic models in formal party dress. Generous was the material, and sparkling with gems or metallic threads

Magic Valley Favorites

Week's Recipe Winner
MRS. S. J. HAYDEN
Route 7, Rupert

- Harvest Delight
- 2 3/4 cups unsifted flour
- 2 cups sugar
- 1 1/2 teaspoons soda
- 1 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon baking powder
- 1 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/2 cup soft shortening
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups unsweetened applesauce
- 1 cup walnut halves
- 1/4 pound (20) large marshmallows

Sift together flour, sugar, salt, soda, baking powder and spices. Add soft shortening, eggs and applesauce. Beat until smooth and well-blended. Stir in walnuts. Pour into a greased and floured 10-by-2-by-2-inch pan. Press whole marshmallows into batter to bottom of pan in rows, five in a row.
Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees, for about 50 minutes. Makes 20 servings.

Arlene Bias, Schmidt Wed In Catholic Rites

The Twin Falls St. Edward's Catholic Church was the setting for the March 4 wedding of Arlene Bias, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Owen Stapleton, Hallett, and Jim Schmidt, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Schmidt, Jr., Greencrest.

Rev. Joe Schmidt, cousin of the bridegroom, from the Sacred Heart Church, Boise, officiated at the double ring ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballroom-length gown of Chantilly lace. The gown featured a scalloped Chantilly lace and jeweled shirina neckline and long lily point sleeves. The overskirt was caught at the front waistline with tiny flat organza bows designed to capture the front panel styling. The shoulder-length veil of English silk illusion was held by a beaded queen's crown. The bride wore a silver cross necklace, a gift from the bride, and Marilyn Stapleton, sister of the bride, and Marilyn Walker.

Bill Arkoosh acted as best man. A. Ushers were Tom Schmidt, brother of the bridegroom, and Dale Schlader.

Mrs. Doris Sonnen, organist, played the procession and recessional. Andrew Schmidt, uncle of the bridegroom, and Ambrose Schumacher, cousin of the bridegroom, sang.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the parish hall with Mrs. Nancy Pierce receiving the guests.

The bride's table was covered with white lace and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake decorated in white with pink roses and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. The cake was flanked by silver candelabra with pink candles.

Guests were served at tables centered with brandy snifters in which a pink carnation floated. Assisting with serving were Mrs. Marilu Fuchs, Mrs. Angie Karel, Mrs. Irene Schlander and Kathy Anderson. Also serving refreshments were Dick Henning, Richard Fuchs and Beck Begian.

After the reception, the newlyweds departed on a honeymoon trip to Phoenix, Ariz.; Palm Springs, Calif., and Las Vegas, Nev.

Special guest was Mrs. Katherine Bonning, grandmother of the bride. Out-of-town guests attended from Montana, Green creek, Ketchikan, Hallett, Cottonwood, Keatsville, Buhl, Boise

IF YOU HAD IT ALL TO DO OVER WOULD YOU MARRY THE SAME WOMAN?

Maybe she's not the world's greatest cook. But you think she has the world's biggest brain. Maybe at breakfast she looks like somebody's mother. But when you take her out she glitters like a model. Maybe she's not so great in little emergencies... but in a major crisis she's the family rock. Maybe, in fact, you think she's the bravest, wisest, most understanding mother your kids ever had.

And you'd marry her again in a minute.

If you want to get symbolic about it, nothing beats telling her so like a second wedding ring. As a gift for her birthday. Or your next anniversary. Or whenever it happens to be Mother's Day again.

And since no one you know has a larger selection of fine diamond rings, why not see your Sterling Jeweler... tomorrow.

DEAR ABBY: May I say something about the ideology of television commercials, especially those directed to the America housewife? Do the "ad" people really believe we are impressed by flying detergent boxes, witches and wands, dishwashing powders and lotions that turn into birds, flying in and out of the windows, and all over the house? The one that irks me particularly is the filthy little boy who enters his mother's immaculate kitchen to be greeted by a loving smile and a "how do you do" drive. We care for each other a lot, Abby, and really want to spend the night together. What should I do?

DEAR SWEET: If you are looking for a trouble, just go ahead and spend the night with a "great guy" for whom you care. He will guarantee you more than you can handle.

DEAR ABBY: My wife insists on wearing braided rollers in her hair when she returns every morning. Not only do I find this extremely repulsive looking, but occasionally I will get a brush roller in the eye.

I have told her I don't like her coming to bed with those things in her hair, but she continues to do so.

Tell me, Abby, why a woman would insist on wearing her husband in such hideous get-up every night in order to look good for the people at the office? PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: Because "looking good for the people at the office" is more important to her than what her husband thinks, feels, or wants.

CONFIDENTIAL: "LOST FAITH" IN POMPANO BEACH: Perhaps a lesson in "faith" can be best illustrated in this way: A mother had just received word that her only son — a bright, handsome young man of 22 — had been killed in the war. Her pastor tried vainly to console her. In her grief, she wrote you: God when my son was killed? "The same place it was when his only son was killed," the pastor quietly replied.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. USE TIMES-NEWS WANT ADS FOR FAST SELLING RESULTS

Businessmen Hail Federal Reserve Board Appointment

NEW YORK (AP)—The Federal Reserve Board's appointment of Martin J. Sklar as chairman of the board's status as an independent agency has not always been a popular policy.

Martin J. Sklar, guardian of the board's status as an independent agency has not always been a popular policy. Sklar is a former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Retention of Sklar, 60, was hailed by the financial and business community. Sklar has served on the board since 1964.

But some Democratic members of the board are concerned about Sklar's appointment. They feel it might lead to a change in the board's independence.

At the same time that he retained Sklar, the board also announced the resignation of another member, James M. Callaghan.

The board's decision to retain Sklar and remove Callaghan was seen as a move to maintain the board's independence from political pressure.

In recent months the board has raised interest rates as the economy slowed. This has led to some criticism from business groups.

The board's actions are seen as a sign of its commitment to maintaining its independence and its role in managing the nation's money supply.

The board's decision to retain Sklar and remove Callaghan was widely expected. Sklar is a former chairman of the Federal Reserve Board.

Advantages Of Privately Owned Kindergartens Cited

Editor, Times-News: I am respectfully asking the Twin Falls readers why they would be in favor of licensing kindergartens if the parents are to pay the cost?

Therefore, kindergarten teachers must strive to care and maintain good young children. They should be cooperative with public schools for the benefit of the individual child.

Even so, private kindergartens are more economical for the parent-taxpayer than public kindergartens. The latter are more expensive.

We believe fervent competition among kindergartens is more beneficial for all concerned. It motivates teachers to provide the best possible curriculum and religious discrimination in the home.

The law would require the secretary of housing and urban development to conduct a study of public kindergartens and their operation.

If you are really concerned about the possibility of being told just who you can rent your property to, you had better write.

Recent Taxation Measures Are Scored By Shoshone Man

Editor, Times-News: The past three months have brought many ideas on taxation to the attention of the public.

The Supreme Court decision on utilities and now the legislature phasing out the inventory tax are examples. The idea of taking taxes from income-producing property and putting it on non-income-producing property seems a fairer system.

The tax on a person's home is bound to go up and just how much is a matter of conjecture. Max-Yos of the Associated Taxpayers Association says double.

I am thinking of the small city of Shoshone. At present there are about 1,400 people here. An increase in sales tax to 5 per cent in four years, "big spenders" in the legislature have said, would add $500,000 to the city's revenue.

Editor, Times-News: Regarding Rev. New's letter concerning the Bible translation, I would like to see the translation of the Bible in a well known fact that the New Testament has been translated into many languages.

Translation to another language means making the exact meaning understandable to the people of those languages. Does the word kinship convey a better understanding than kindred, or does it do the spiritual duty of a million of God on earth?

There have been many more changes effected in the standard Bible version, but since it can't go into all of them here, I'll anyone interested compare the Bible of Mark, Luke and John verse for verse and judge for themselves if they want their children or themselves proscribed to out of this book.

Airman Grabs First Day Pistol Meet Lead, Three Wrap Up State Crowns

Frank Rowell of Mountain Home Air Force Base grabbed the first-day lead in the southern section of the Idaho State Pistol Championships being fired Saturday and Sunday at the Twin Falls Rifle and Pistol Club range. Rowell shot an aggregate of 949.11x, three points short of the northern section winner, R. V. Hamm, with an 852.13x. Other southern section shooters will try to beat the mark Sunday.

Public Meeting Set On South Hills Hunt

BURLEY — A public debate on a recent recommendation by the Fourth District Deer Sportsmen's Clubs that the South Hills deer season be cancelled for two years will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the Cassin Bowman's Clubhouse here. Milton Davidson, president of the archery club which is co-hosting the meeting along with the Minidoka Bowmen, said in Minidoka have been sent to most sportsmen's clubs in the area to urge anyone interested to sit in on the meeting.

Local Hunters Bag Two Cougars In Day's Chase

It took eight hours and 20 miles to do it but the 10 dogs and three exhausted men concluded it was worth it Thursday when they shot a pair of cougars in the Dry Creek area of the South Hills. The men, Ora Medlock and Bob Ferguson, twin Falls, and George Pullin, Kimberly, hit the double jackpot after four years of hunting together. But they don't always shoot the big cats either, enjoying the chase more than the kill.

group connects since years of experience and knowledge have made them pretty sure of where the big cats go and the terrain they like to use. Mr. Pullin reports the cats are becoming somewhat harder to find but likes to trace some of the cats to a decrease in deer in previous years.

Other "dog" had been. The cougar was detected only by the men and left. The dogs are raised by the men and trained in rigid specifications. Mr. Medlock currently has the pack leaders, not surprisingly the veterans of the hunt.

Andretti-Driven Ford Is 12-Hour Sports Car Winner

Associated Press Staff Writer
SEBRING, Fla. (AP)—Mario Andretti rocketed home with a 60-mile lead and won Sebring's fastest 12-hour sports car endurance race Saturday night, moving Ford into the lead in defense of its world sports car title. Ford had a 12 victory parade for just 23 minutes to go. Mark II—driven by former Indianapolis champion A. J. Foyt went into its pit with a frozen engine.

Terry Hurls Nets To 6-3 Win Over A's

By The Associated Press
Ralph Terry, an 11-year pitching veteran, and rookie catcher Dave Duncan made impressive bids for major league jobs Saturday in a 6-3 victory over the Mets and Kansas City Athletics to exhibition baseball victory.

By winning in a light yellow 'Mark II', Andretti's easily shattered the record of a 1961 Porsche, coming back 75 laps in front of the second Ford factory car and a 1961 Porsche, driven by Gerhard Mitter and Scooter Parson.

Ferrari, which surrendered the world title to Ford last year, decided to stop this race after a 200-mile race at Daytona Beach in February in the first of the 1967 series of endurance races.

Ford picked up nine points for first place and now goes into the biggest race of them all—the 24-hour race at Sebring. A total of 12 cars were entered in the Italian Ferrari factory race. In the 1967 series, the car was in and holding its first team out of the Sebring race, failed to add to the team's tally.

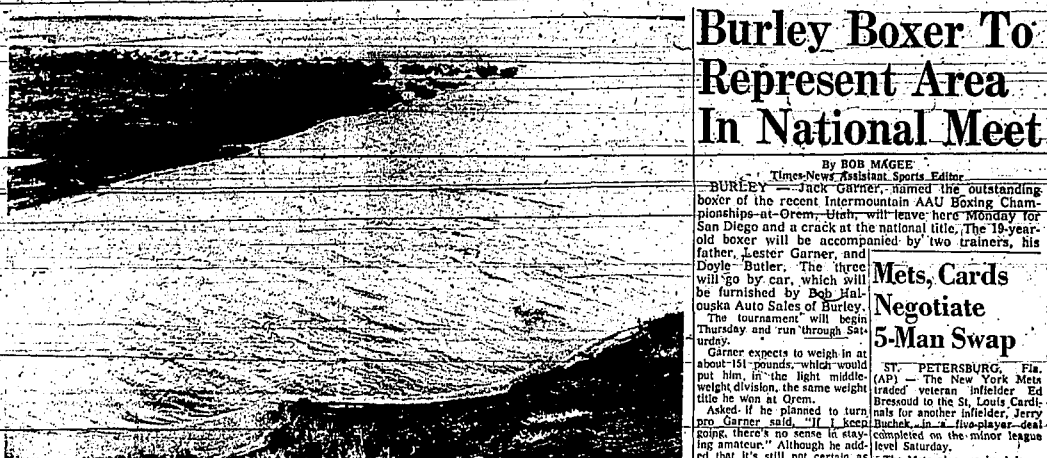

With a strong start, the Sebring picture grew more complicated. The team left Sebring with a 6-3 record, but lost to the Yankees in the final game.

Republicans Seek Young Converts

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two Republicans called Saturday for a drive to bring young Democrats into their fold in an effort to reclaim the big-city vote that has gone regularly against them in recent elections.

National Chairman Ray C. Bliss told a news conference: "We welcome any Democratic converts to our cause."

"Converts are crusaders," he said. "They are aggressive and deep believers, the kind of workers we need to win."

Baa, Baa, Black Sheep Have You Any Wool—It's Shearing Time

Time News Sunday Feature SECTION

TWIN FALLS, IDAHO, SUNDAY, APRIL 2, 1937

THESE SHEEP are waiting to be sheared at the Fred Brailsford ranch near Buhl.

By PEGGY LALEY
Time-News Feature Writer

Some of us parents aren't so old, but have you ever stopped to consider the time difference and the effect it has on a child's day living in 20 or 30 years?

When I grew up, we lived in a city, but we went to Grandad's farm for all the holidays. There I learned what it was like to eat in the big farm kitchen, to take a bath in a wash-tub near the warm cook stove, and to see a Christmas tree lighted with candles.

Despite what my children think when I talk about these things, it wasn't 100 years ago, either.

Now days our children grow up talking about space miles, waiting anxiously for the next moon shot, and asking how many light years it is to the sun. They look forward to travel to the moon, not to Grandad's farm.

We can't go back to lamp-light and cisterns very easily, but we can make an effort to show these city children some aspects of life on a farm.

We can avoid the embarrassment of mother when her little boy found several empty milk bottles in the tall grass and ran to her, crying, "Come here, Mother, I just found a cow's nest."

One afternoon last week the kids and I got into the car and made a trip to the Fred Brailsford ranch down in the Snake River Canyon near Buhl.

They were shearing sheep there and the two youngsters were filled with excitement at the prospect of seeing this mysterious operation.

The sun was shining brightly on what seemed to us to be hundreds of sheep milling about in a pasture waiting for their turns in the shearing sheds.

These sheds are portable units provided and set up by the shearing crews that make their rounds each spring shearing sheep for the area ranchers. From the pasture the sheep are brought into pens where they wait to be sheared of their heavy winter fleeces.

This crew of nine men averaged about 15 to 20 sheep each per hour. When you consider that each fleece weighs about 10-14 pounds, that's a lot of wool.

They told us that day that the size of the flocks was down this spring due to poor prices. They also said that the white shearing crews were fading out of the picture. It seems that large Mexican crews have begun to invade the profession.

Everyone knows that sheep are sheared each spring, but how many have ever seen it done?

These men were supported by a leather harness cushion as they leaned over the sheep to remove the dirty, oily wool with their razor-sharp shears.

This operation reminded me of peeling an apple or an orange. The fleece falls from the sheep in one piece, leaving a very much smaller animal than the large, fuzzy one that had been there before.

As these fleeces fall they are scooped up by a helper and tossed into a gigantic burlap bag where a man stomps the wool down compactly.

And, wouldn't you know it, this man is called a "stomper."

A not so pleasant side is the blood that stains the wool and the now pinkish-white hides of the sheep.

Although the sheep undergoing this operation are much more docile than I had expected, there are still some sudden lunges that cause nicks and draw blood. Some of these are bad enough that they must be sewed.

My daughter, who is some what squeamish, rebelled at this and indignantly asked why they didn't use band-aids instead of band-letting them bleed all over.

When the flocks of one rancher are finished, the crew moves on to the next flock. During the early part of the season the shearing is done at the ranch headquarters, later it is done out on the range and the desert.

I must admit that even with mother's extensive knowledge of the farm and ranch, she learned a few things that afternoon, too!

AMID-MASSES OF WOOL this sheep patiently undergoes the shearing of his heavy winter fleeces.

SHORN AND SHEARED these sheep wait to be released into the open pasture.

PARTIALLY HIDDEN by the canvas the "stomper" waits for more wool to be tossed into the gigantic sack.

"YES SIR, YES SIR, three bags full." These bags full of wool await shipment to processing plants.

COMING TO TWIN FALLS in 1910 from Dixon, Ill., Mrs. C. W. Grimes found mud, dust and sagebrush, but she was never homesick. There were too many things happening. Her husband opened a blacksmith shop and she operated a millinery shop. It has only been recently that the Sell Manufacturing Co. ceased to be after 30 years of serving the community.

THE DUST AND MUD and sagebrush did bother Mrs. C. W. Grimes when she came to Twin Falls in 1910 from Dixon, Ill. She was homesick and remembered the winters that were so cold they had to heat the mortar in order to lay brick. Mrs. Grimes was the daughter of the Grimes who first started the Eighth Avenue Grocery.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

First letter this week is from K. B. Jerome, and reads: "I wish to inquire as to the value of a very tarnished silver coin about the size of a half dollar. It is dated 1775 with George III stamped on the obverse and Britannia on the reverse and is probably hand stamped. Could you give me an estimate of its worth today?"

Answer: I have no knowledge of a silver coin of the kind you describe. The regular coinage of George III of this date would be in copper, except possibly the Mandy Coinage, which would have the denomination on the reverse.

Also, regular coinage would have the inscription written in Latin, thus: "Georgius III, D. G. Rex" and on the obverse, a round, Britannia, the word "Britannia" and below, the date. These coins, however, are copper.

This is, possibly, a medal, although I can find it in no contemporary coinage books. Possibly if I could see the medal (or coin) or a picture of it I could then identify it, but as I understand I am sorry to say I cannot.

From Ketchum, L. T.: I have a United States one dollar bill issued in 1935 without the "In-

City mintage, where it commands a premium. The coin was minted in Philadelphia, New Orleans and San Francisco also, but is worth only about 50 cents from those mints.

The 1868 Philadelphia coin is worth about 47 uncirculated. The New Orleans about twice that, and the 1868 San Francisco about $20.

Answer: Sorry your paper is late. The $20 bill you refer to is the regular issue of National Currency, and is quoted at present at about twice face value in uncirculated condition.

I have no way of knowing the grade but if it is crisp—without folds or wear—it would be an uncirculated bill. Thank you for writing.

Answer: I am sorry—the answer to your question would

THE GOLDEN FLEECERS

By Walter Wagner
 Winston Churchill said, "Neither in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few." In contrast Walter Wagner's marks, "In southern California never have so many practiced so much deception upon so many of their fellow men...for so much personal gain and advantage."
 "The con men of today are ceaseless wanderers. They aren't W. C. Fields anymore. They are more affable Americans who make our astronaut look slightly shifty-eyed and foreign."
 "There is no mark of the swindle about them. They're well-dressed, well-spoken and well-liked. A new breed—no question about that."
 "They have the intelligent background, and the ability to make money. They are motivated primarily by greed, but their staff of lies is their ego. Some of them are making it mandatory that they put something over on the other guy to exist."
 "The modern practitioner of the con has kept pace with the times." He's in the suburbs, in the front pew, (if not the ally of the church, he's selling real estate, auto, cure-all, diploma; anywhere there's a sucker to be had, a buck to be made."
 "The odyssey of Homer, the first character presented in the book begins when the author has drifted into the Snake River country and settled in Twin Falls."
 "A friendly local lawyer saw promise in him, and after reading law, at 23 he was admitted to the bar in Idaho and California."
 "Felix talking about the wild west begins when the author d'Alene country—with tales of striking it rich gave Howard his first taste of mineral wealth."
 "His law-training allowed him to indulge in the practical side of his personality, and minting a poem read by his mother and whom they all liked and held in highest esteem."
 "To honor the lad "The Fritz Saviers Memorial Fund" has been started and contributions can be sent to the Bank of Idaho. The fund will be used to purchase equipment to treat heart patients at the Sun Valley Hospital."
 "In his letter to young Saviers, Fritz Saviers wrote, "I hope you will be back there shortly and can't take about our hospital experiences" wrote Ernest Hemingway to young Fritz Saviers on June 15, 1951.

Recently, Frank Barnett, Chief of Police, Twin Falls, spoke to the clergy at their monthly breakfast and business meeting.
 He talked of the increase of crime in the nation and also in our city. He commented on the problems involved in law enforcement. For me, it was a profitable meeting, and provided food for thought.
 This is a problem that involves every home and church, and perhaps besides being involved, home and church should accept some of the blame for the present situation.
 "Lawlessness in our land touches each home, if not directly, at least in the cost involved in combating crime.
 What is lawlessness? Here is a definition for your consideration: "To commit sin is to break God's law—sin—in fact, lawlessness." 1 John 3:4 (New English Bible). What we call lawlessness, the Bible calls sin.
 "I know that the word sin is an ugly word in our modern day. People do not like to be called sinners. They prefer the words mal-adjusted or a psychiatrist may give, in the sight of God it is sin."
 Now, let me state right here that I believe in salvation by grace through faith. That is what I read in Ephesians 2:8, "For by grace are ye saved through faith; and that not of yourselves: it is the gift of God: Not of works, lest any man should boast."
 However, believing the Holy Bible, I must also accept such statements as, "Faith without works is dead." James 2:26; "What doth it profit you, if ye love me, keep my commandments." John 14:15.

TRAVELING by two of his Sibley stove coil are collectors items now. (Times-News photo captured weight 10 and 25 pounds respectively. Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Several years ago James Curtis, 2617 Park Ave., BURLEY read an article in a western magazine about Sibley stoves. About two months later while driving a delivery gasoline truck in the Thomas area near Blackfoot, Mr. Curtis saw a Sibley stove on a farm and was able to purchase the stove for his collection. The stove—worn, first dreamed up by Maj. Henry Hopkins Sibley, a West Pointer, who, while accompanying Fremont on one of his expeditions west, saw many Indian tents or teepees as the Indians called them and this gave him the idea of a stove to heat sleeping tents for troops in the field.

The stoves were cone shaped, 30 inches tall with an 18-inch base diameter, tapering to a four-inch opening at the top with pipe length added reaching outside the tent.
 The small door, either hinged or sliding, was the opening for fuel and was 10 inches from the bottom, eight inches high and six inches wide. A small oval cut in the edge at the bottom of the stove was for a draft which could be regulated by pushing dirt up to the opening.
 The tent-shaped bottomless stove was patented by Sibley in 1857. There were 14,000 stoves made during the Civil War. Some weighed 35 pounds, 25 pounds and 10 pounds, the weights varying due to the thickness of the sheet-iron.

The Sibley stoves all had hand made stoves and the fuel door was riveted by hand.
 During the Civil War about 10,000 of the stoves were made and delivered to the Army.
 At the present time Mr. Curtis has three 10-pound Sibley stoves, and four 25-pound stoves. He has not been able to find or purchase a 35-pound stove. The seven stoves in Curtis' collection were all found in the Thomas area—and have been traced to being sold for $37 each at a public auction in 1947, when the labor camp at Thomas was abandoned.
 Through research Curtis has found that the Sibley stove was used in 1918 at Camp Lewis (present Fort Lewis) in order to warm tents during the flu epidemic.

Some of the stoves also have been reported found in the Montana area near early day campgrounds and battlefronts.
 The mystery to Curtis is how the stoves of Civil War days reached the western area.
 The stoves came west with military outfits while others think the stoves made the trip with the wagon trains, stated Curtis.
 As time goes on these stoves

Work Continues On Range Replanting To Increase Diminishing Deer Herds

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish & Game Department
One way to get more deer feed to grow on a range is to plant it.
This would be a sure thing seed could be broadcast and time would do the rest; but the odds are great that it will fail. If so, the cause is not the lack of seed. When shrubs such as bitterbrush are phased out in 2 to 5 years by other plants on range where they once flourished, the fault can be traced back to changing conditions of deer browse, climate or overgrazing.
When seed is drilled into the soil on more or less flat ground, or put in rows by hand, the area is too steep for machinery, the stand of small plants is better but still sparse.
Test plots show that seed will sprout when it goes in with cheat grass, but that most of the young plants soon will die. None live for long.
But where a plow scalps a strip 30 inches wide and leaves a 12-inch wide strip on each side of the row, the seedlings have a better chance to grow. No there is no competition from grass and weeds for soil moisture and food.
For at least 30 years one of the big problems in game management south of the main Salmon River has been what to do about sparse stands on over-crowded winter range where some of the state's major herds are forced to spend three months or more each year.
For the past two decades, the Idaho Fish and Game Department, usually through federal aid grants and in cooperation with the U.S. Forest Service, has worked to bring back good stands of bitterbrush and other browse plants.
Old records show that Idaho's first bitterbrush field trials were made on the South Fork of the Payette River and the Middle Fork of the Salmon River. Both rivers have slopes that are marked by stark skeletons of huge bitterbrush, a few old gnarled plants that are sick or dying—and a few new saplings to show reproduction.
All of them have been hurt or killed by toxic gases by game and livestock, where such grazing is uncontrolled, and by plant-eating insects.
Heavy livestock grazing in the spring to crop the plants that compete with browse shrubs for moisture is one way of growing more feed for deer and elk when winter comes.
If the sheep and cattle stay on the range long after the grass and weeds dry out, they will feed on the same browse plants that are needed in the season from which to fatten over Forest Service land.
Game department land-management supervisor says that when the cattle were gone from the Middle Fork, grass and weeds grew rank. This hurt bitterbrush and mountain mahogany reproduction, as well as other kinds of good browse shrubs such as rabbit brush, sagebrush, serviceberry, chokecherry and the like that are high in food value and help keep deer warm—and alive—when they come down to the winter range. With the takeover of grass and the crowding out of browse plants, elk numbers increased and the deer population began to decline. Elk do well on a dry grass diet, but deer no more than subsist. If bitterbrush seed still is used to bring back deer range to the point where it will feed more deer, it is put in first on fields of mountain mahogany that has grown out of reach of deer in southeast Idaho's Nelson Canyon. Then the tall shrubs are bulldozed and chained, to start new heavier growth from the roots. Such work helps cover the seed and holds moisture.

The department buys bitterbrush seed and gives it to the Forest Service for sowing in this cooperative project. The same type of thing is being done at Kurtz Field south of Twin Falls.
The scalped soil used to scalp the land to be sown with bitterbrush follows the general contour around the slopes, lifting the soil a few hundred feet or so to break the scalped strip and prevent soil erosion by interrupting the flow of spring runoff water in the furrows.
The scalped soil stays more or less clear of weeds and grass long enough to let bitterbrush seeds sprout and get their roots down to a permanent supply of moisture.
Seed is soaked in insecticide fungicide to repel bugs and keep seedling roots from damping off and sowed in the fall. It must have damp, cold conditions to sprout although the same thing can be done "the hard way" by "stratifying" seed under refrigeration. In the spring, the seedling breaks through the ground and must thrust its roots into the wide open range. Some plantations fished out in a few years, while others still look good. The work still is done when seedlings can be fed from state or federal nurseries. Over 20,000 seedlings went in last year east of Boise.

Some 65,000 are planned for the Curlew National Grassland administered by the U.S. Forest Service south of Twin Falls as soon as they can be put out.
Research over three decades shows that bitterbrush is not an indispensable browse shrub. It is now known that deer rely heavily on shrubs that once were regarded as "trash" species.
In many areas these species actually carry deer through winter months. Work with bitterbrush will continue because it is highly nutritious deer feed and it is hoped that bitterbrush can be restored on some ranges. Meanwhile, other browse species must continue to carry the load on most Idaho ranges.
It's a big job to bring back any species of good forage on a big game winter range, expensive and time consuming. This is why the U.S. Forest Service and elk managers preach so much about keeping animal numbers in balance with their food supply through annual cropping by hunters.
It is much easier, faster and cheaper to boost the number of animals on a range than it is to restore it after the damage has been done.

Powder Puff Mechanic Class Given At Automobile Agency
By JAMES F. DONOHUE
The girls (AP) — The girls had just taken apart a car axle and now Ed Downs had them up at the front of the car showing powder puff mechanics course at an automobile agency.
"This is a motor," he said. "The girls giggled."
Sister Madelyn Jewers of the Grey Nuns leaned in and peered at the motor. She twisted a gizmo on the top of the whirling engine and the motor came off. Then she twisted it back on again.
The girls applauded.
Sister Madelyn said, "I never dreamed there was so much that went on inside a car."
Sister Madelyn is a nurse and instructor in obstetrics at St. Elizabeth Hospital, is one of 40 women taking part in a powder puff mechanics course at an automobile agency.
The course is to improve the condition and safety of female driving by giving women a basic understanding of the "automobile," said Downs.
Beyond that he said, one of the main purposes is to give women enough knowledge to stand up to a cigar-chewing mechanic who says they don't know how to change a tire and transmission oil and say, "Hey, wait a minute. Let me see that dip stick."
The course continues "four nights, once a week, and soon we'll have over the women get diplomas that say they are powder puff mechanics. They will know how to change tires, adjust a motor, check oil, fix a fan belt, and so on."
The students are professional women, who drive a lot of taxis, secretaries, executives. They think the course is great.
"It's really tremendous," said Sister Madelyn. "Why do you know, didn't I have the faintest idea where the spark plugs were before this course. And now I really think I could do some thing like change a tire and jack up the car and get it down in one place."
"The only trouble," said Miss Helen Packard, a public relations specialist with a festive firm, "is that I never knew there were so many things that could go wrong with a car. Now I know."
At one session a student screamed when an instructor handed her a transmission gear. "I thought it was a spider," she said.

RULES DON'T AID ENEMY
When you have to lead against a grand slam in no-trump all regular rules go by the board. Obviously, you don't have an ace in that case you would double and cash it.

You usually hold when your opponents get to seven-no-trump. You don't have much hope of beating the contract but you do want to make a lead less likely to help declarer.

NORTH

♠ A Q J	1

♣ 8 6 2	4

EAST

SOUTH (D)

♠ A 10 9	9
♥ Q 9 3	10
♦ K 10 8 3	11
♣ 7 6 5	12

You are right. A heart or club lead gives declarer his contract. This leaves your choice between a spade and a diamond. It turns out that a lead of any card in one of those suits will be satisfactory, but you should lead a spade on the general theory that there isn't likely to be a long major suit in either the North or South hand and we recommend that you lead the six so that declarer won't be able to get a quick idea as to how many spades you hold.

possibility that your partner hold one. People aren't supposed to bid seven if they are one ace short, but it happens. Once you decide that your partner doesn't hold one of those pretty cards—the next step in your process of reasoning—should be to find a lead less likely to help declarer.

Nosey Neighbors Deserve Few Words

Dear Ed and Walt: My best girl friend's father and mother, cheerful, stable fees, necessary equipment (favorite tools, etc.), and also estimate what veterinarian fees might cost in an average year.

Once you've got this worked out, sit down and decide how you can earn at least half of the money you've just estimated. If they see you're really willing to carry your half, they may be more willing to play with you're too young to be employed by most firms, you'll probably have to invest a job service.

On top of that, a man named Ed who she thought was just a good family friend got her divorced from his wife and moved into Sue's home. He has all his clothes there and stays nights, and Sue's room isn't marry him for at least three months.

She is very upset about this and she doesn't know how to take it. She asked me to write you, because she's too upset. What bothers her most is that her divorcee friend got her divorced from his wife and moved into Sue's home. He has all his clothes there and stays nights, and Sue's room isn't marry him for at least three months.

Dear Ed and Walt: Good people so me if I me s do thouphts thins? I s says, I'm h bein' less up from the divorce action, should have undoubtedly more dia a point, but I'm understand that was going on and would have waited to invite him to leave since he was being extremely insulting. I'm not really none of the business of the divorcee neighbors.

Dear Ed and Walt: The next two summers I'll be the poor "who is he?" question. Sue, who might say, "He's barrased and wanted him to our boarder?" or "Why don't you ask me?" If they push further, she can rightly turn heel and leave. All this is bound to leave scars on your friend.

Dear Ed and Walt: I'm 15) I wanted a horse. I don't laugh, I'm quite serious. I've been riding for a long time and the man who runs the stable says he'll let me board a horse there for less money than any other horse there I'd love to buy. He wouldn't cost much either.

Dear Ed and Walt: There is another year I'll discover girls and cars. I know this will never happen. Please tell me how to convince them.—Ned Cowley.

Idaho Man Uses Electronic Metal Detector To Find Buried Treasures

By DICK TAYLOR
Lewis Morning Tribune

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP)—If you're tired from hunting old treasures, Blakeley said, "Now of course, first it depends on what you call treasure. From the old bottles, or this hand iron you had to heat on the wood stove, or this old wafer iron you could use to iron your shirt, you can find a lot about what you're looking for in this country, say 60, 70 or 80 years ago. This is treasure with historic flavor."

Blakeley says he has hunted for buried artifacts throughout the Idaho Panhandle from New Meadows to the Canadian border, across the Lost Pass in Montana, down the Snake in Washington and down to the Wallows Mountains in Oregon.

"But the best digging is right here in Lewiston," he says.

Blakeley says there are many places to hunt for treasure, including old covered bridges, garbage dumps, razed buildings and the remains of abandoned cabins.

"It can be very systematic, if you want it to be," he said.

Of Lewiston and Clarkston, Blakeley says:

"I'll bet there is a treasure buried in anybody's back yard which is a lot of Germans in that area."

He laughed at an afterthought.

"Don't know whether it still can print this," he said. "But I found this stein at the bottom of what was once an outhouse. You find treasure in the strangest places."

Minico Aide Tours Naval Academy

RUPERT—Doyle Cowder, assistant superintendent of schools in Mindokota County, participated last week in a four-day tour of the U.S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., with a group of Idaho educators who were at the Academy.

The "Blue and Gold" flight from Twin Falls to Annapolis was organized and conducted under the direction of Capt. D. E. Colwell, USNR, and Lt. Mat Warr, USNR, Rupert.

Purpose of the tour is to acquaint the educators with curriculum, teaching methods and environment used by the Navy to prepare young men for careers in naval leadership. It is also designed to familiarize the visitors with academic requirements facing high school graduates seeking appointments to the Academy as an aid in counseling.

During their stay at Annapolis, the educators will attend meetings by officers who will outline curriculum, requirements and workings of their respective departments and general conditions surrounding academy life.

They will meet and dine with midshipmen, visit points of interest with visitors with academic emphasis placed on physical as well as academic development through an extensive athletic program.

A brief stop while en route to Maryland was made by the Idaho group at Washington, D. C., where they visited the White House and Capitol Building and met with Idaho's Congressman.

DISTURBED

I AM... ABOUT LIMPA!
SHE'S SOMEWHERE
OUT IN TH' WOODS
HUNTIN' OOP!

HUNTIN'
OOP?

YEH... WITH A CLUB!

MY GOSH, LIMPA!
WHATCHA-DOIN'
WAY OUT HERE?

I'M HERE 'COUT
YOU DOWN
T'SIZE, YOU

...YOU AN...
YOUR HIGH-FALOOTIN'
BIG WORDS!

WELL, Y'CAN'T DO IT
OUT THERE IN TH'
MUD! HERE, LET ME GIVE YOU A HAND!

THIS ALL ABOUT?

IT'S ABOUT ALL
THAT FANGY-GON-
VERSATION YOU
BEEN USIN'
LATELY...

...FOLKS CAN'T ABIDE SUCH SNOOTY-SOUNDIN' TALK...
LIKE THAT HYPOTHESIS
THING YOU SAID
GLUZ HAD...

...IT'S
'INDECENT!

...ESPECIALLY COMIN'
FROM A ROUGH-NECK-
LOOKIN' LUG--
LIKE YOU!

Y'MEAN IF I WISH TO

IT'S BEEN A LONG WINTER!

AND IT WILL GROW
LONGER!

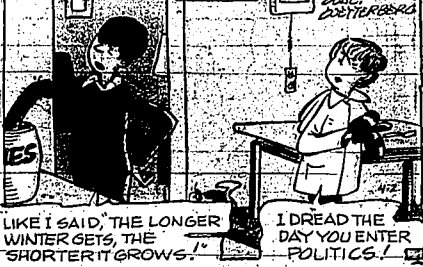

TODAY IS THE DAY AFTER YESTERDAY,
RIGHT? THEREFORE, TODAY THE WINTER
IS LONGER THAN IT WAS YESTERDAY!

... YOU CAN'T ADD SOMETHING TO ANYTHING WITHOUT ENLARGING, INCREAS-ING, LENGTHEN—WHAT'S THAT, A DODO?

IT'S A RED-NOSED ROBIN.
THAT'S WHAT IT IS!
