TEN CENTS

Those Who Benefit Will Bear Cost Of City Center Plan

By O. J. SMITH
Times-News Managing Editor

Twin Falls has its plans for orderly development, for revitalizing its downtown shopping area and guiding its growth.

They are good plans, carefully worked-out by experts and with the latest lessons learned by experience in other communities applied to Twin Falls' own particular problems.

The city commission last Thursday, after lengthy and careful study and consideration, adopted them as a desirable blueprint for the city's future.

There is just one all-important and vital thing left to be determined: Are the plans practical?
A substantial number of the city's civic and business leaders believe they are. The one big factor in making them work is money. The big problem is where to get it.

There is no fabulously rich philanthropist in Twin Falls like Rockefeller, to put up the funds to tear the city down and erect it in the most desirable form as the Rockefellers did in reconstructing the historic town of Williamsburg, Va. The money to do the job for Twin Falls is going to have to come from the people who live here.

But, the businessmen and citizens who have been working closely on the development plans for Twin Falls are convinced the job can be done, and the necessary funds provided, by the people who are going to benefit from the plan. The first stage being the revitalization of downtown and costing the city and the general taxpayers virtually nothing.

Getting down to brass tacks, they went through the City Center Plan and decided what was necessary to get the desired results—right now. Two things were paramount—a Main Avenue mall and additional parking.

After considerable discussion and study, it was determined that these goals could be accomplished without calling on the city for any major expenditure whatsoever.

The downtown businessmen feel it is entirely practical to form a local improvement district as specified by state law, and issue bonds to finance construction of the shopping mall along three blocks of Main Avenue, from Third Street East and South to Second Street North and West.

They figure the basic work on the mall would cost about $40,000 a block, or a total of $120,000.

This would provide redesigning of Main Avenue into a winding shopping street, landscaping and setting up convenience and rest areas.

They propose for the local improvement district to issue $250,000 in bonds, which would be repaid in 10 years, as specified by state law, by assessing the individual property owners in the LID (the three blocks facing Main Avenue) a monthly fee of $15 per 25-foot front lot.

The additional money, above what it would cost to establish the basic Main Avenue Mall, would be used to add little things at downtown public restaurants, help in burying or relocating utility lines, help in setting up the landscaped parking areas and similar projects.

Funds to pay the land and set up the necessary additional parking areas would be obtained through establishment of a new parking corporation. Such corporations have operated successfully in neighboring states and financial institutions view them as not only practical, but highly desirable.

In Twin Falls' particular case, a non-profit parking corporation would raise $300,000 by issuing revenue bonds to pay the parking areas and deed them to the city. The city would lease them back to the corporation to operate until the bonds are paid off in 10 years, at which time the corporation would return them to the city, free and clear.

One big advantage in this procedure is that law specifies interest on such bonds is not taxable, making them attractive to bond holders and also resulting in lower cost to the bond issuing corporation.

Urban renewal activity would come into the picture in the clearing of areas that eventually would be turned into parking lots. There is $371,000 now reserved for a Twin Falls Urban Renewal project.

To get this money to work in Twin Falls, the city would have to meet the conditions of the bill. This sounds like a sizeable amount until it is realized that the city's portion can be in improvements and services rendered, and does not have to be in cash.

It is believed, and virtually assured, that enough of the improvement provided by the LID and the non-profit parking corporation will be allowed to make up the entire amount of matching funds needed from city sources.

One possible use of actual city money is being considered in this first phase, which is designed to be accomplished in five years.

This would be a program for improving the alleys behind the mall blocks, and cost is anticipated at about $31,000. It is possible that a portion of the LID money would be used for this purpose.

But, even if the money eventually had to come out of the city treasury, it is figured that it would be a money-making proposition.

For its $31,000 in revitalizing the downtown shopping area the city would be investing in a project to stop a nose-dive in property values and in tax revenue in the area.

Between 1961 and 1965, a study of records shows, actual value in the downtown area dropped $4,594,000, assessed valuation decreased $583,000 and taxes were reduced $31,000 a year.

Experience in other cities that have revitalized their downtown shopping areas has shown a dramatic rise in tax revenues because of the projects.

Rerouting of through traffic in a couple on both sides of Main Avenue also could cost the city some money. This, however, is a project that very well may be done whether or not the City Center Plan ever is implemented, and the cost should be shared by federal, state and local sources in the normal expense of highway maintenance and development.

TOWN RESEMBLES BATTLEFIELD following tornado. Street sign at 8th and Austin Avenues in Oak Lawn, Ill., is the only thing left standing after a tornado-wrecked much of this suburb southwest of Chicago late Friday. There was little sign of activity early Saturday, but rescuers continued to search homes for possible additional victims. At least 33 persons were killed and hundreds were injured. (AP-wirephoto)

Probe Burrows Hole In Surface Of Moon

By ROBERT COOKE

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — America's scratching moon station — Surveyor 3 — dug a neat, straight hole in the moon's surface early Saturday in what a scientist called "a very gratifying event." The soil was sliced out very neatly, said Ronald F. Scott, the principal investigator on the Surveyor soil sampling project. "The soil does possess a certain cohesiveness," Scott told a news conference at the Jet-Propulsion Laboratory. "There doesn't seem to be any hazard there for astronauts. But it might be rather soft to fall on."

Three Leave For National DECA Event

Two Magic Valley students and a College of Southern Idaho mid-management instructor left for Chicago Saturday for the annual DECA Leadership Conference. Howard Kleiblauch, Twin Falls DECA coordinator; Elaine Thurman, Twin Falls, and Linda Bell, Shoshone, left by car for Salt Lake City, where a jet airliner will take them to Chicago and the Conrad Hilton Hotel. More than 2,000 mid-management students are expected to attend the conference.

The two local students won top honors during the Idaho DECA conference in Twin Falls April 1. Miss Thurman was a first-place winner from the state with her individual Marketing Improvement project, and Miss Bell won two first places in Decision Making — Personnel Problems and The Manual — How to Train a Pack Buyer. Both contestants are first-year students at CSI.

The national DECA conference, which brings together the top representatives of more than 2,000 members, will be held Sunday through Wednesday in Chicago.

All 50 states and Puerto Rico are represented at the conference. The two Twin Falls entrants will present the projects which won them state honors during the national conference. Miss Bell will compete in both the decision making and training manual divisions, and Miss Thurman will present her marketing project, which involves Twin Falls.

UAW Strike On AFL-CIO Threatened

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers said its leaders would quit the AFL-CIO and UAW President Walter P. Reuther said in effect he would lead his 1.6-million members in a walkout unless there is reform within the labor federation.

Reuther added, however, no deadline has been set. He said he expected a decision on a walkout would come after the UAW completes new contract bargaining in the fall with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

Construction Work On Sewer Line Closes Street

Falls Avenue has fallen victim to city improvements. The next it will be torn up for complete resurfacing and the addition of curbs and sidewalks.

In a water project progress report Thursday, Mr. Derrick said all three firms are working. He said the Cron Press-stressing Inc. is blasting and excavating for the new water tank and the Kleopfer Construction Co. has built a road to the proposed intake structure.

Edson Deal, State Secretary, Dies

By The Associated Press

BOISE (AP) — Edson H. Deal, Idaho's secretary of state, was pronounced dead on arrival Saturday afternoon at Boise's St. Alphonsus Hospital after he suffered an apparent heart attack at his home. He was 63. Deal was mowing his lawn in Boise when he collapsed and was found later by his wife. Deal was active in Republican party politics and served five terms in Idaho's Senate from 1941-50 before being elected lieutenant governor in 1950. He was second in command from 1951-55 and was elected last fall as secretary of state.

Born Nov. 11, 1893, in Walker, Idaho, Deal was the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Willard W. Deal.

He married Gwendolyn Shepard of Eugene, Ore., in 1936 and for 32 years was manager of the Farmers Insurance Group in Nampa and owner of the Edson H. Deal Agency.

Active in civic and community affairs, Deal was immediately past president of the Idaho State Chamber of Commerce and was president of the Idaho Highway Users' Conference for a number of years.

A former trustee of the College of Idaho at Caldwell, Deal also was a past president of the Ore-Ida Council of the Boy Scouts of America. Always active in scouting, he held the highest award given to scouts.

53 Killed As Tornadoes Hit Midwest

By The Associated Press

The toll of fatalities from the vicious rash of tornadoes that raked the Midwest rose to 53 Saturday with the discovery of three more bodies in shattered buildings and the deaths of three of the 274 victims taken to hospitals. The number injured, ranging from minor cuts and bruises to life-threatening conditions, was estimated as high as 1,500. Unofficial estimates placed property damage in excess of $50 million. A spokesman for the Small Business Administration said it may be several days before an accurate appraisal can be completed.

Edward John Burley, Will Head Jaycees

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Edward John Burley was elected president Saturday of the Idaho Junior Chamber of Commerce at the Jaycees convention here.

Others elected to office were Jack Goodlander of Coeur d'Alene, Ernle "Hodge" Caldwell of Idaho Falls, and Don Vanaman of Idaho Falls, vice presidents; Ray Hanson of Nampa, international director; Jim Marx of Bonners Ferry, first district president; and Don Jewell of Osburn, second district president.

The Jaycees, the women's auxiliary, elected Mrs. Shirley Hearburg of Grangeville as president and Mrs. Nancy Edinger of Coeur d'Alene as vice president.

More officers were to be elected later Saturday.

Hearings On Flag Burning Offenses Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time in 40 years, House subcommittees is going to have hearings on proposals to make it a federal crime to burn or otherwise desecrate the U.S. flag.

If the bill gets through the Judiciary Committee, it is likely to sail right through the House where there is widespread resentment against burning of a flag and draft cards at recent peace demonstrations in New York.

For years, Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., has bottled up such bills in the committee on the ground that all 50 states have similar laws which make federal legislation unnecessary.

Last year, some 150 of the necessary 215 members signed a discharge petition in an unsuccessful effort to bring a bill to the House floor.

All-City Orchestra Concert Is Scheduled For Thursday

Musical development of Twin Falls students will be displayed at 7 p.m. Thursday when an all-city orchestra concert will be held at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

Students from throughout the Twin Falls public school system will be featured on the program. Elementary students from Bickel, Harrison, Lincoln, Morningstar and Washington schools will play several short numbers.

The intermediate orchestra from Robert Stuart Junior High School and O'Leary Junior High School will perform "Hopnik" and "Mock Morris Dance" among its presentations.

The concert orchestras from those two schools will perform several numbers conducted by Mr. and Mrs. Larry Christopherson, who also directs the elementary group.

The High School orchestra, under direction of Del Slaught, will follow with several numbers including "Serenade."

The orchestras will combine to present finale numbers "Psalms" and "Pomp and Circumstance."

Presentations by the 250 students involved range from Neumann's "Spiritus Mundi" to the Vivaldi Concerto Grosso.

The public is invited and admission will be charged.

Writers Group Adopts State Study Plan

A state education study was adopted by the League of Women Voters of Idaho during its ninth biennial convention in Moscow this week.

Mrs. Robert Nelson, president of the Twin Falls league, reported Saturday that the study, proposed by the local league, will focus on the financing of Idaho's public educational system.

Delegates also decided to continue the study of Idaho constitutional revision which began in 1957.

Mrs. Robert Berger, Boise, was elected president for 1967-68. Other officers elected were Mrs. Clifford Dobler, Moscow, first vice president; Mrs. Ralph Rice, Idaho Falls, second vice president; Mrs. William G. Darter in his unit at George Air Force Base, Calif.

Mrs. Don Batten, Focetello, Treasurer

Directors are Mrs. Earl Haroldson, Twin Falls; Mrs. Eldon Darling, Boise; Mrs. William Zelevney, Idaho Falls, and Mrs. Robert Coleman, Lewiston.

The state leagues will continue to act on Idaho election laws and procedures and measures to strengthen Idaho adoption laws.

The state position on election laws asks support for revision of the laws to eliminate obsolete and conflicting provisions, unify subject matter, clarify wording, improve registration methods and require training of election officials. Consensus of this study was reached after a two-year study by the eight Idaho Leagues.

Breakfast Meeting Held To Discuss Burley Credit Unit

BURLEY—A no-host breakfast meeting to formulate organization plans for a local credit organization affiliated with the International Consumer Credit Association will be held at 7 a.m. Wednesday at Bryan's Cafe.

Acting as an organization committee are Ransom Brown, Credit Bureau of Burley; Ralph Grace, Co-op Supply Affiliated; Don Hansen, Hudson Shoes; and Mrs. Blanche Taylor, Pop deirosa Inn.

A letter has been mailed to all local firms engaged in any of the various phases of consumer credit, calling attention to the current tight money situation and its effect on the Mini-Cassia agricultural community. No one business firm could evaluate the problem alone, therefore stressing the need for the formation of a local credit organization.

The organization will unite credit executives and personnel in comprehensive programs, projects and activities for their mutual benefit and promotion of the credit profession. It collects and distributes information, publishes a monthly periodical, textiles and other educational materials.

It offers opportunities for professional education, advancement and recognition, conducts annual and other conferences where members receive instruction, express viewpoints, and exchange experiences.

Membership in the International Consumer Credit Association and the local organization is open to any person actively engaged in any of the various phases of consumer credit.

"We feel that only through cooperation in the credit community and coordination of local credit activities can the best interests of both our employers and customers be effectively served," stated the organization committee.

AUSTRALIA CHARGED

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet government delivered a note to Australia charging it with "complicity in the aggression against the Vietnamese people," an official announcement said today.

20 Area Men Attend Scout Instruction

An instructor training session was conducted Friday by Horace Gagon, Kansas City, Mo., for 20 area men at the Boy Scout Service Center.

Mr. Gorton, assistant director of the voluntary training service, Boy Scouts of America, was assisted by Robert Bopp, Snake River Area Council training chairman, during the session.

Purpose of the event was to train the local instructors, who in turn train unit leaders.

Mr. Gorton has served as a scoutmaster and commissioner and has been a scout executive in Bismarck, N. D., and St. Cloud, Minn. He has been on the national scouting staff since 1956.

NATIONAL WHIRLIGIG

WASHINGTON—First there was the Alliance for Progress. Now, if there were any justice, it would be called the "Fulbright Plan."

Given the lack of cordiality between Lyndon Johnson and Fulbright, it is not surprising that the Alliance for Progress, which was named after the Fulbright Plan, is now being called the "Fulbright Plan."

But for the American taxpayer, Fulbright has emerged as a kind of difference hero. It was he who led the Senate revolt against giving President Johnson an advance commitment for $1.5 billion in additional U.S. aid over the next five years for post forced Johnson to abandon plans for a flamboyant, Santa Claus gesture at the Inter-American summit meeting in Punta del Este.

"Relax, Honey, I'll Dream Up Something!"

The Art Buchwald Column

WASHINGTON—It's very hard to be a parent of a teen-ager these days. You have to be on your toes all the time. Just the other morning I walked into the kitchen and caught my son eating a banana out of the fruit bowl.

"What are you doing with that banana?" I asked.

"I'm going to cut it up and put it on my cereal," he replied.

"A likely story," I said. "I wasn't going to smoke it, was I?"

"Well, if you feel that strongly about it," she said, "I won't buy you any more bananas."

"Sure, and then they'll sneak up to the fruit store and buy them behind our backs. At least this way you know they're getting good quality bananas."

"Why don't we let him smoke a banana in front of us to get it out of his system?" my wife suggested.

"I don't want to smoke a banana," my son yelled. "My father I don't even want to eat my corn flakes."

"That's a good idea. We'll all smoke bananas together and that way we'll know what the kids are experiencing. You're not out of it and then you smoke it and then you smoke it."

"I started scripping out the sketch and making a paste. Then I baked it and then I chopped it up and passed out three pipes."

"I had three of us sit around the floor of the living room and started to puff."

"In about 10 minutes I asked my son what he thought of the fact I was smoking green."

"That's no hallucination," my wife said. "I said, 'before I came in' I said, 'Search me,' he yelled. 'Just then my wife walked in to find out what the commotion was all about. 'I caught him eating a banana,' I said, 'Well, what's wrong with you?'"

Getting Under Way

The first step is sometimes the hardest one to make. But it has to be made and it has been taken by those who would change the downtown section of Twin Falls into an attractive and productive shopping area.

Future Twin Falls, Unlimited—an organization of downtown businessmen—has a dream which will probably turn into a reality. That dream would see this downtown district turned into a functional thing.

And, to top it all off, the businessmen who would benefit by the change would be the ones to pick up the bill. Other taxpayers would pay nothing.

It is a somewhat complicated arrangement but it was all explained the other night when about 400 progressive-minded citizens of the community met to discuss that explanation. The meeting was one of the community cooperation gatherings ever to be held in Twin Falls. It was harmonious and it was beneficial. Those behind the plan told what they had in mind to improve the downtown area, and those who came to listen really learned something.

They learned, for instance, that if the plan could get under way in the not too distant future, it would mean that a store in the downtown section (Pennys) would probably expand from 22,000 square feet of display space to 80,000 square feet.

This expansion could add up to a healthy expenditure of $1 million or so. The other improvements to the area and the stores and the buildings would add up to more millions with the result the economy would benefit.

The core of the downtown plan point out that there is a place in this community for both downtown and suburban shopping areas. The downtown area, however, is likened to the trunk of the tree and the suburban area to the branches. If the trunk is weak, then the branches will not hold up. The tax loss which would result if the downtown area would "fold up" would be a staggering one. Someone would have to make up this loss and the downtown backers say this would be done by us.

So this downtown improvement plan—the core of it—is backed by the businessmen who will benefit from it and, as we have pointed out, they will pay for it.

We fail to see why there is any opposition to such a plan. Such an improvement district would benefit all of us but cost only those merchants who are in the district.

There are some whose vocal objection is heard every now and then. We fail to see just what they are complaining about.

"This downtown proposition would benefit all of us—whether we liked it or not. We are glad we have planners and doers like these men among us."

WHENCE THE NEXT RULER?

A Kremlinologist has discovered what he calls "a law of diminishing dictatorships" at work in the Soviet Union.

It is based on a principle of selection by which despots surround themselves with courtiers and sycophants and weed out challenging and original minds.

"Beyond a doubt," says historian Bertram D. Wolfe, a research fellow at the Hoover Institution on War Revolution and Peace, "Stalin was smaller than Lenin, Khrushchov than Stalin, while Brezhnev, Shcherbakov and the men in the present I think, transitory, 'collective leadership' seem smaller still."

"However, the adjective 'small' has to be seriously qualified, he warns, when one is speaking of a sixth of the earth, a population of over 200 million, a vast state economy and a great empire to practice leadership on."

The U.S.S.R. has reached a new succession crisis that has not yet come to a head, thinks Wolfe.

Soviet rule has proved by a half century of continuity to be maintained change to be the most probable one-party regime in the modern world, he says. Yet in that half-century it has not succeeded in establishing a legitimate mode of political succession.

An inflexible doctrine requires a single, inflexible successor. But in the Soviet Union there is no orderly way of selecting this inflexible one.

Despite this contradiction and despite the "law of diminishing dictatorships," Wolfe cannot imagine the Kremlin beginning to consult the Russian people in the matter of choosing who shall rule over them.

JOHNSON PLAYS DUTCH UNCLE

Johnson's demand that Latin-American nations qualify for U.S. aid by their own performance in their domestic economies has been presented an eleventh-hour switch in strategy. Since he couldn't produce any goods with no strings attached, he was forced to assume the posture of a stern, if not a Dutch uncle, and put Latin America on notice that U.S. aid would go only to good boys.

In fact, London Johnson has always favored a "stern" attitude toward aid to Latin America. More so even than John Kennedy, Johnson has been privately critical of Latin-American politicians who use aid funds for their own aggrandizement. But he had been fearful of offending the 18 leaders of these south-of-the-border nations who had made a firm offer of more aid, coupled with a plea for more self-help. Fulbright, however, forced him to take the position which came more naturally to him.

Still, the Johnson luck held. As politicians themselves, the Latin-American leaders recognized that the President had no choice in the present context of the situation. He couldn't offer what the Senate refused to approve. Thus the comparatively mild comments on Johnson's legislation of Washington were a necessary criterion on how much help the continent could expect.

Moreover, Johnson seized the occasion in private talks with his counterparts to emphasize that this time Washington meant business. He explained that he will not be able to increase aid to Latin America unless the various nations make a serious effort to solve their own problems of land and tax reform.

Meanwhile, U.S. aides circulated among their counterparts to dismiss the anti-Americanism speech by Ecuador's President Otto Arsemann. The speech, which was a direct challenge to the Hill against the principle of the aid program, Senator Fulbright, who could use a public pat on the back at this stage of his eccentric career.

In short, at Punta del Este the United States has a policy of the cuff on Latin-American aid. There have been dissatisfied growls from Washington before this, but never before. The dog has no collar and the collar is on the back of the aid program.

Views Of Others

BONN HINTS AT ARMY CUT

Gen. De Gaulle may not be the Administration's favorite hero, yet it may be quietly eager to him for forcing NATO out of France. 18,000 troops and 21,000 dependents from Europe, taking at least some of the strain out of NATO's budget, may become possible as a result of NATO's current study of how many troops it really needs.

Contrary to the impression sometimes conveyed, Germany also favors a reduction. Economic pressure may be the primary reason for this. Bonn also recognizes that American troops in the post-cold war atmosphere has made a reduction possible, and that its efforts for better relations with the Eastern bloc make it desirable.

The Kiesinger government has let it be known in a roundabout way that if British and American troops are reduced, it will be glad to reduce the 12 German divisions, all assigned to NATO, to eight. And this makes sense. Germany has a healthy military industry. A European war seems even more unlikely. So German security depends on the American nuclear umbrella and not on a few divisions without even a general staff.

In its few months in office, the Kiesinger government has quietly accepted the Halstead doctrine. It is working hard on the normalization of relations with Eastern bloc governments. Significant non-governmental voices have made concessions such as acceptance of the Oder-Neisse line without inciting a word of rebuke. And now comes a hint of arms reduction.

Surely these overtures should be suitably supported by Washington, not only to ease the burden of NATO's cold war posture, but more recently to ease the burden of the American role on both sides of the Iron curtain. —St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A SUGGESTION FOR SAFETY

The motorist who drives to a busy intersection in the beautiful 3,000-car parking lot at Westwood Village shopping center may feel like a rabbit which has wandered onto a shooting range.

The parking lot, of course, is private property and not subject to traffic regulations. It is a concrete jungle of parking, loading, unloading, and driving. It is a maze of small 15-mile-per-hour signs, are often ignored or misunderstood by the driver.

The result is that cars are going in all directions, often at high speed. A driver who turns around a row of cars may miss a car in the driveway that is in a one-way lane.

If we may presume to tell the developers what is needed in the interest of safety for all of us, we would suggest that the government be authorized to channel traffic and prevent cars from cutting across the lot. Larger and clearer signs could be placed at the entrances and exits. A speed bump could hold down the hot-rodgers.

There have been no serious accidents on the lot so far. But that luck may not be expected to last. —Idaho State Journal.

Interpreting The News

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson has a habit of pronouncing the same different things into one speech, like packing a shopping bag, lost in the public mind, and so on. While he has made a number of separate statements and speeches, he has been able to make the war critics back up. It's doubtful some of them would back up, no matter what he said.

As the critics get louder, some people have come to think he should pull the pieces together and in one long, detailed, and clearly reasoned speech devoted entirely to the war, explain the American role in it, and the background.

His administration has harped on the administration determination to see that the people of South Vietnam have a say in their own government in a democratic way.

It's been noted at times since after the direct U.S. troops in South Vietnam the people there haven't yet been able or allowed to choose the government they want through broad elections, although they are moving in that direction.

But one of the steady, although perhaps often unnoticed, themes in the speeches of Johnson himself is this country's philosophy behind its decision to stop Communist aggression and expansion.

The philosophy is simply stated: to prevent the Reds from spreading their tentacles in Asia. This can be called a selfish American reason, and to a degree, it is. But it is a reason that has helped us survive in a world controlled by communism. Another part of the philosophy is that we will not make a stop Red aggression wherever it occurs, then there is nothing to stop it anywhere.

In his speech to the Tennessee Legislature March 15, Johnson made the point: "If we were prepared to stay the course in Vietnam, we could help to lay the cornerstone for a diverse and independent Asia of promise and resolve in the course of peaceful economic development."

And he added: "If we fail, the forces of chaos will sweep across the continent. The American people will be at the mercy of a few men who will use their power to oppress and exploit the people."

These realities, which are confirmation of Johnson's reasoning, are likely to be forgotten in the day by day emotionalism depending on the vein-booming

Washington Viewpoint

BY BRUCE BOSSART

WASHINGTON (NEA)—President Johnson is unlikely to follow his habit to an early trip to Western Europe.

Vice President Humphrey may have made points for himself and his country with his cheerful endurance of insult and his knowledgeable exposition of U.S. policies on the European venture. Yet there is no firm evidence he was blazing a trail for LBJ.

The President also suffered displays of subtle hostility last fall in Asia. But, at least in Australia, he had the satisfaction of knowing his government hosts were outstanding in support of U.S. policies in Southeast Asia.

The word Humphrey brought back from Europe that set off a quarrel in a faraway country between people of whom we know nothing!

Europeans and American liberals, deny any parallel between that era and the present trials in Asia. To accept a parallel is to accept a parallel in the blood of millions by men bent on "peace."

When Hitler in 1938 sent troops into the demilitarized German Rhineland, British Lord Chamberlain said: "After all, they are only going into their own back yard." Because they had 200,000 Czechs, 357,000 Britons and 405,000 Americans died in World War II. Nine million Germans and Austrians were added to the toll.

With the aim of barring another holocaust, this country sent 50,000 men to Vietnam and has already lost 8,000 in Vietnam.

Sitting in lands made safer by U.S. might, either direct or indirect, are the people of the world who are being grandly and gravely as in the 1962 missile crisis in Cuba, many Europeans rail at our Asia undertakings, denouncing the "brutal arrogance of power."

Lyndon Johnson, observing these latest responses from people with neither the power nor the inclination to help keep world equilibrium, may very well record the sounds from Europe as indicating the "arrogance of impotence and indifference."

rejoinder is that Europe's consequent inward-turning does not wipe out global problems.

It is we who now shoulder the burdens of the world. Our cars and television sets mean-while brand our attention to Vietnam and other foreign spots as best incompetent fiddling and, at worst, "criminal" meddling in the affairs of others far from their own secure shores.

Actually, these attitudes should stir no surprise. The peril of Hitler was on French and British shores. In 1938 British Prime Minister Chamberlain said the pre-Munich crisis over Czechoslovakia "could tell us much about the future."

"How horrible, fantastic, incredible it is that we should be digging trenches and trying on gas masks here because of a quarrel in a faraway country between people of whom we know nothing!"

Europeans and American liberals, deny any parallel between that era and the present trials in Asia. To accept a parallel is to accept a parallel in the blood of millions by men bent on "peace."

These leaders' timidity is not surprising. The President to undergo the possibility more than minor ordeal of riding through "insult alley" in Paris, London and other capitals.

Against the backdrop of his visits elsewhere, a pointed debate in the U.S. Congress is being held. It is not clear, however, whether it will be a debate on the Vietnam issue or on the broader issue of the world beyond their borders.

This country is being chided, perhaps properly so, for not taking more steps to help the people of Europe—enlarged economies, relaxed export pressures, revived nationalisms. But the American across the country because of the American involvement.

That the American concern about Red aggression, and the need to stop it, is real and that the American people are concerned about it, was illustrated Tuesday at the 12th annual meeting of the foreign ministers of the eight-nation alliance, the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, in 1964.

That the United States is in a cooperative effort by the South-east Asian against any Communist aggression was also indicated by the Red danger and SEATO's failure to do what it was intended to do.

Thant Kohman, foreign minister of Thailand blamed SEATO for its "inaction and inactivity" in meeting early after its formation and said this encouraged the Communists to their "boldest" adventure in South Vietnam.

Right now, he said, Red guerrillas are trying to dominate Thailand and the same time to sweep across the continent. SEATO's secretary general, said Red aggression is more intense in the Philippines.

These realities, which are confirmation of Johnson's reasoning, are likely to be forgotten in the day by day emotionalism depending on the vein-booming

Poor Man's Plato

NEW YORK (AP)—Remarks that every American household gets tired of hearing: "What would you like for your wedding anniversary, Jane? Something useful like a new can opener for your kitchen."

"You may think money grows on trees, but it doesn't," my wife said. "It has to be somewhere."

"Why is it always my turn to have to take out the garbage?" she asked. "I'm the only one who can't cook, nobody can cook that dish quite like my mother could. I'm the only one who can't clean out my desk and came across some of your old love letters, Jane. Gosh, we speak after you in those days, weren't we?"

"What do you do with yourself all day?" she asked. "I watch soap operas on television."

"If you promised to take me out some night this week. But can't we make it some night this week? It has to be somewhere."

"I've just met up with an old war buddy and I'll miss the 5:57 train. If I miss the 6:43, he sure and meet the 7:30. And if I miss the 7:30, I'll be on the 8:52 — for sure."

"Don't tell me they're having dinner. I'm going to wash for dinner, Jane. That's exactly what I had for lunch."

"Hey, Mom..."

"Hey, Mom..."

never asked my father for an electric dishwasher. Why? Why would you mind getting a few soap suds on your hands?"

"The trouble with you, Mom, is that you're too old-fashioned."

"What do we need a new rug for? We've only had this one 23 years. It's as good as good as good — except for the worn spots."

"White — you're up, honey. Why are you going to get a new refrigerator and a new dishwasher? And while you're at it, how about making me a sandwich? I'm sure you'll have both pieces of the bread, Yeah, and don't forget the mustard."

"Gee, I wonder what it would be like to be a woman. I've been married so long I don't even remember it."

The Doctor Says

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M. D.

Gonorrhea, although usually less dangerous than syphilis, is far more widespread (more than one million new cases in the United States each year) and may interfere with the recognition of syphilis. It, too, may have serious consequences (gonorrhea, arthritis, pelvic-inflammatory disease in women with its resulting sterility, heart-disease).

The first sign of this disease in men, occurring five or six weeks after exposure, is a severe burning on urination and a discharge of pus from the urinary outlet especially noticeable on waking in the morning. In women the disease may exist without producing any symptoms.

The best way to cure gonorrhea is a drop of silver nitrate or penicillin solution be placed in the eye of the patient daily to prevent gonorrhea eye inflammation has practically eliminated this disease as a cause of blindness.

Although both syphilis and gonorrhea can be cured in their early stages, the longer exposure are too variable to list. They depend on the part of the body affected, but in any case, the best test for syphilis at this stage is the routine serologic (blood) test.

My daughter was put in the hospital because she had pain in her urine. No kidney stones were found. Would an X-ray of her bladder show the cause of this? Can she be cured?

An X-ray examination would not be as helpful in making the diagnosis as looking directly into the bladder with a cystoscope. If your daughter has an ulcer in her bladder, local treatment through the cystoscope may be necessary.

DR. WALTER POLNER

Idaho Credit Union League members will be convening on Twin Falls Thursday when the South Central Chapter of the Idaho Credit Union League hosts the 31st annual state convention.

The Idaho Credit Union League is one of the largest organizations in the state with 61,239 members and $32.5 million in assets.

Leroy Klenze, Twin Falls, scenic manager of Union Motors Credit Union and a member of the state board of directors, is general chairman of the affair. The meeting will continue through Saturday at the Holiday Inn.

This will be the first meeting in Twin Falls since the organization of the league in 1936. Between 450 and 500 people are expected to attend from throughout Idaho.

Several noted people in the field of credit union activities will be speaking during the three-day convention.

Dr. Walter Polner, director, research and economic planning, International, Inc., will be giving the keynote address at 4 p.m. Friday.

Mrs. Betty Bay, organization liaison officer, President's Committee on Consumer Interest, will be speaking during the 7 p.m. Friday banquet.

Speaking at a special collection seminar will be Fred Kirschner, president of the National Business Collection Agency on San Francisco, Inc.

Dr. Polner has initiated studies on various credit union matters and has provided guidance to leagues, chapters and credit unions on how to conduct research on special problems. He has developed a semi-automatic system on keeping credit union statistics up to date.

Mrs. Bay, prior to taking her present position, was consumer information specialist for the Office of Information, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. There she edited SERVICE, a monthly consumer report, and worked in developing consumer organizations.

She also has been a member of the editorial staff of Better Homes and Gardens magazine.

Mr. Kirschner has had 25 years experience in the collection field. He has owned and operated independent collection agencies in Illinois and California. The firm he is now with is part of the National Business Division of Creditors Service, Inc., Detroit, the largest independent agency in the country.

The convention begins at 2 p.m. Thursday with a chapter officers' conference. Independent collection agencies will be open that day and continue Friday when the general meeting gets underway at 8 a.m. The convention will conclude sometime Saturday afternoon.

JAMES F. KUNKEL
son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale D. Kunkel, Twin Falls, has been promoted to major in the United States Air Force. He is a Minuteman militia launch officer at Walnut Air Force Base, N. D., and a member of the Strategic Air Command. His wife, Vera, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Montgomery, Twin Falls.

The United States' position regarding Communist China will be examined by members of the Twin Falls League of Women Voters during meetings this week.

Charles Alban, political science instructor at the College of Southern Idaho, will present a paper on the China situation at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday and at 8 p.m. Thursday. Mr. Alban holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Utah State University and has done post graduate work at Mexico City, College.

CHARLES ALBAN

Wheeler, membership chairman, 733-3133.

The study of U.S. relations with China is included in the group's national foreign policy study, Mrs. Robert Nelson, president, explained. Background material for the China study is included in a pamphlet, "The China Puzzle," which is available from Mrs. Bernard Barker, publications chairman, 733-3137.

YOUTHS COMMITTED
CAPTURED—Two Nampa youths were committed Friday to the Idaho Department of Health in connection with the shooting death of a 31-year-old Nampa man.

Probate Judge Lloyd C. McClintock ruled the youths aged 12 and 14—sent to the department for commitment to the State Youth Training Center in St. Anthony.

McClintock ruled—under the State Youth Rehabilitation Act—that on the basis of evidence presented, the 14-year-old had shot and killed Melvin Dennis Brown through negligent use of a firearm.

Brown's body was found buried under 27 inches of dirt near his residence March 10. An arrowhead indicated he had been dead since March 1 from a .22-caliber bullet wound, according to Nampa Police Chief Buster Baker.

TO BEGIN FISHING
LAWYER—Idaho (AP)— Nez Perce Indians announced they would attempt to establish tribal fishing rights by fishing beginning Monday along the Clearwater River above Bonneville Dam.

Tribal spokesman Harrison Lott said Indians from his tribe would begin commercial gillnet fishing under rights given in a 1855 treaty. Washington and Oregon regulations forbid it.

The Nez Perce tribal law and order subcommittee assigned fishing rights under provisions of the treaty with the United States to 15 members of the tribe. Lott said, along a 6-mile stretch from Stevenson, Wash., to Cello, Ore.

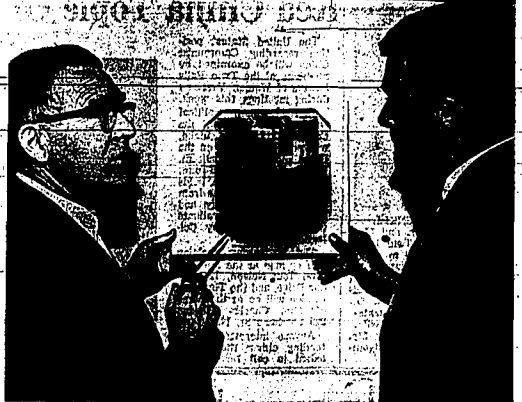

"We want a court test, and the sooner the better," Lott said.

Members of the Yakima, Umatilla and Nez Perce tribes were arrested last year for violating the regulations.

GRANT AWARDED
MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)— An $18,000 federal grant has been awarded to the University of Idaho for a study of the program, Everett W. Samuelson, dean of the College of Education, announced here Saturday.

The grant will provide five traineeships for senior students in special education who plan to work with the mentally retarded. The traineeships will pay tuition, fees and a $1,600 annual stipend, Samuelson said.

U.S. Army Engineers Rebuild Face Of War-Ravaged Vietnam

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
TUY HOA, Vietnam (AP)— The machines of war built as well as destroy, and throughout South Vietnam U.S. Army engineers are changing the face of this country—wrecked by 20 years of war.

Most projects are geared directly to troop support, but the ports, schools, airstrips, bridges and roads will remain after the battles have become history.

The 57th Engineer Battalion is one of the builders.

Three companies of the battalion have set up a base camp beside the China Sea south of Tuy Hoa and 225 miles north of Saigon. Now their bulldozers and trucks are probing deeper into what was once solid Viet Cong country.

The battalion arrived in Vietnam last July and the three companies moved to their present base in November. The 700 engineers, under Lt. Col. Carl P. Rodolph of Spearman, Tex., have been busy.

They built most of the 74 buildings in a 400-bed field hospital, created a new port—Port Hai—17 miles south of Tuy Hoa, set up a communication station, laid 18 miles of steel pipeline, constructed a runway and parking complex for helicopters, built a three-classroom school and 12 miles of road, and also repaired 40 miles of national highway.

The battalion has built hundreds of mess halls and barracks and 50 outhouses and showers.

Half the engineers are drafted to local, ever-shifting centers every two or three months.

VIKI RAINEY has been named top student for 1966-67 at Wood-River High School. Miss Rainey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wurdell Rainey, is valedictorian, and Mr. Brannon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Brannon, is salutatorian.

BOATERS RESTING
LENORE, Idaho (AP)—Members of an expedition celebrating Lewis and Clark College's centennial camped today to rest and study before continuing down the Snake and Columbia rivers to Portland, Ore.

The four Lewis and Clark students traveled 21 miles from their campsite to 10 miles east of Lewiston on the Clearwater River.

"We have not had much privacy, but the people here have been just wonderful," said Ron Halnlain, 19, Grants Pass, Ore.

RULES ON DEATH
COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP)—A coroner's jury ruled Saturday that the fatal shooting of James Franklin Craig, 35, Coeur d'Alene, was justifiable.

The shooting occurred on the stomach April 12 by a 22-gauge shot wound, the Kootenai County coroner's office reported in the following day at a hospital.

Officers said the shooting occurred during an apparent family argument at the home of Craig's father-in-law, Henry Knapp, 65, about four miles north of Coeur d'Alene.

Testimony at the inquest Saturday indicated that Knapp shot Craig.

BEARDED QUARTER planned to camp Sunday about 10 miles upriver from Lewiston at Spalding, Idaho, going through to Lewiston Monday.

Others making the journey—which began at La Pass, near the Idaho-Montana border—were Gerald L. Everson, 22, Los Angeles, Calif.; Fred Tower, 20, Sausalito, Calif.; and Bruce Mackey, 22, Alhambra, Calif.

BACK IN ROISE
BOISE, Idaho (AP)—Don W. Samuelson was back in Boise today after a week-long speaking tour which ended with a speech Friday night to the Gooding Chamber of Commerce.

The governor went over his relation with the legislature in his last speech and praised the body for its work.

"Much tougher 'blue sky' legislation was passed dealing with sales of securities in the state," Samuelson said, "and I am no longer to be a paradise for slick-talking salesmen."

Samuelson's criticism by Idaho Education Association's spokesman of the legislature's education appropriation, Samuelson defended lawmakers.

"IEA officials have issued irresponsible statements trying to discredit me and my office throughout the state," he declared.

John Baptie, King Hill, Dies At 81
KING HILL—John Baptie, 81, died Friday afternoon in a Mountain Home hospital after a long illness.

He was born Aug. 22, 1885, in Serik, Scotland, and came to the United States in 1908. Mr. Baptie, in partnership with his brother Tom, ran sheep in the Muldoon and Carey area for 30 years.

He married Enid—Lucille Greene June 5, 1912, at Payette. They resided in King Hill from 1923 to 1943, when they moved to King Hill.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church; St. John Lodge No. 216, AF and AM in Stow, Scotland, and had been a member of the Masonic Lodge for 54 years; the King Hill Chapter, and the Victory Chapter, OES, Glendon, Forest.

Survivors, in addition to his widow, include a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Mathewson, Lake Oswego, Ore.; two sons, Robert G. Baptie, King Hill, and Ray Baptie, Denver; two brothers, Robert Baptie, Bo-Ness, Scotland; two sisters, Mrs. Christine Davidson and Beatrice Baptie, both Hawick, Scotland, and a granddaughter and a great-grandson.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the Smith Chapel, Glenn Ferry, with Rev. Charles L. Graydon officiating. Masonic graveside rites will be conducted at Glenn Rest Cemetery, Glenn Ferry, at 10 a.m. Wednesday. The family suggests any memorials be made to the Cancer Society.

CONCERTS PLANNED BY CSI GROUP
 The College of Southern Idaho band, choir and string group will present a Spring Concert Saturday at the fatal shooting of James Franklin Craig, 35, Coeur d'Alene, was justifiable.

The program will open with the band playing a service version of the "Star Spangled Banner" and the choir singing the "Hallelujah Chorus" by F. J. Coster. "Temperata Overture," Glauco T. Rossi, "Our Director" by F. E. Bigelow, and "Dedictory Overture," Clifton Williams.

The short intermission will feature the choir, accompanied by piano, organ and string group, will present "The Holy City," an oratorio by Cecil Armstrong Gilde.

The second part was suggested by the words, "I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the heaven and the earth were passed away," thus realizing the desire and promises contained in the first part.

No admission will be charged and the public is cordially invited to attend.

Death Claims Gooding Man At Age Of 58
GOODING—William K. MacKenzie, 58, died Saturday morning as Cassin Memorial Hospital following a brief illness.

He was born May 22, 1908 on the Isle of Wight, British Islands. He spent his boyhood in the Highlands of Scotland and in 1927 came to the United States where he lived with, and was employed by, the Donald Mackay family near Filer. He was engaged in the sheep business while working there.

He was later employed by Elisha Astorgua at Gooding and then operated his own sheep outfit in the Gooding area. At the time of his death he was employed by the Ficker Sheep Co., Oakley.

He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

 Mrs. Richard Tucker was elected president of the Twin Falls Toastmistress Club at a meeting Monday morning in the Regerson Hotel Colonial Room.

Other officers are Mrs. James Little, vice president; Mrs. Ben Eldredge, secretary, and Mrs. Ellis Fuller, treasurer.

Mrs. Richard L. Smith was voted the best speaker with her original viewpoints on the "Real Crisis of Our Time," and was awarded the blue pencil. Other speakers were Mrs. John Burkhart speaking on "The Unrestrained Hand," Mrs. LaRue Newman, and Mrs. Dary Anderson-gave an impromptu autobiography covering the last 28 years of her life.

The Toastmistress, Mrs. Fuller, showed colored slides and asked each member to comment on one slide. Mrs. Tucker and Mrs. Carl Grabert.

Reviewing "Word Power Made Easy," Mrs. Leslie Jones presented the lecture and was appointed the new education chairman. Toastmistress was Mrs. Little who won the traveling trophy. Mrs. Allen Lindemoor was inducted as a new member. Mrs. LaRue Newman, Lodi, Calif., was a visitor.

The next meeting will be June 15 when officers will be installed.

Chimp Shot
SPRINGFIELD, Mass., (AP)—Jiggs, a male chimpanzee with a reputation for viciousness, was shot and killed by police Friday shortly after he escaped from his cage in the Forest Park Zoo.

Jiggs had ripped out a bar in his cage to escape. That was after he ripped out four other bars and moved his mate and child, one offspring into the adjoining lion's cage.

Zoo keeper Gene Barr said attendants found Jiggs, his mate Nancy, and the young one scurrying about the cage Friday morning, unmolested by the male lion.

Jiggs threatened attendants with one of the ripped out bars when they attempted to coax the trio back into their cage, then fled.

Elections In 2 German States To Provide Test Of Popularity

By TERENCE ANDREW KIEL, Germany (AP)
ELECTIONS Sunday in two states will test the popularity of the new Bonn government and measure a resurgence of German nationalism.

Rightist National Democrats expect to enter with ease the Schleswig-Holstein Parliament here, and they hope for similar success in Mainz, capital of Rhineland Palatinate.

They threaten to collapse the Free Democrats, who now govern in both states as partners with the Christian Democrats of Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger. New coalitions may result.

Banking on Kiesinger's popularity, the Christian Democrats are pushing for absolute majorities in both states. They hold 34 of the 63 seats at Kiel, where their FDP partners have 5, and where the FDP has 11.

Foreign Minister Willy Brandt's Social Democrats also want to swing into control, drawing strength from their coalition with the Christian Democrats in the federal government at Bonn.

In these two states they are now the second party, with 29 seats at Kiel and 41 in Mainz. These are the first state elections since Kiesinger took over five months ago, but supporters of Deputy Chairman Adolf von Thadden were in control.

It will not be surprising if the National Democrats get 10 per cent of the vote in Schleswig-Holstein and more than the per cent they require to seat deputies in the Mainz Parliament. The National Democrats have candidates for the first time in both state elections.

They have deputies in the state legislatures of Hesse and Bavaria and exert an increasing influence on German politics.

T.F. Water Conditioning Firm Sets Grand Opening

Grand opening of a new firm in Twin Falls is being held this week. The grand opening of Miracle Water of Magic Valley, a water conditioning firm, will end Saturday. The firm, located at Second Avenue East and Blue Lakes Boulevard, is the second store opened by Noel Bowcut, Burley. He opened a store in Burley 11 years ago, known as the Burley Soft Water Service, to serve the Burley-Rupert area. The firm, which will serve all of Magic Valley, is locally owned and operated and will install and service water conditioning equipment which softens, filters and retines water. The personnel are Lindsay trained, Bowcut said. The Twin Falls store is located in the building where Vacuum Cleaners of Idaho was located. The business was purchased from J. W. Stallings, well-known Twin Falls businessman, by Bowcut for the water conditioning store. Managing the Twin Falls store is Lynn Pettigill and Dennis Remy is service manager. The public is invited to the open house at the Twin Falls store this week.

Merchants Hold Dinner Meeting

BURLEY — The Overland Shopping Center Merchants Association held a dinner meeting Thursday at National Hotel. Wives were special guests. The business meeting was conducted by Cio Critchfield, president. Reports were given on last year's profits. The group voted to continue the 9 p.m. closing time for Friday nights. Items discussed were a float for the Cassia County Fair and Christmas decorations. It was announced that during four days in May the Overland Shopping Center would sponsor the Empire Show. The show will be set up in the center of the parking lot and tickets will be available from all merchants in the shopping center. TAKEN TO HOSPITAL KING HILL — Elmer Babington, King Hill, and his sister Mrs. Cindy Hutchinson, Redding, Calif., took their brother, Jimmie Babington, Gooding, to Boise Thursday where he was admitted to St. Luke's Hospital for further medical treatment. He has been undergoing medical treatment at the Gooding Memorial Hospital for the past several weeks.

Former Resident Dies in Nevada

Frank H. Stricklan, 59, a former Twin Falls resident, died Friday night in Sparks, Nev. He had lived in Sparks for about 15 years. Prior to moving there he was employed by Cosgriff Outdoor Advertising in Twin Falls. He married the former Opal Ginyrey. Survivors include his widow in Sparks and a brother, Roy Stricklan, Buhl. WRITER DIES GALWAY CITY, Ireland (AP) — Walter Macken, 51, Irish author, novelist and playwright died today.

Time For Living

By ROGERS FRANKLIN

Writing this column has some real rewards. Last week, in a long letter from a reader, I received a most interesting outline of how one fellow found a successful and rewarding retirement. Let me summarize it for you. This fellow — let's call him John — lived in Indiana. He was a bookkeeper for a paper company. At age 61, the personnel officer advised him that while he had to retire at age 65, with 31 years of service he was eligible to retire anytime after age 60. The personnel man carefully explained the Social Security program and the company's pension plan, which offered some options to protect his wife, plus some medical and life insurance he could continue if he wanted to. When he was ready to leave, the personnel manager gave him a copy of an 80-page book the company offered people approaching retirement — "Harvest Years: Planning for Tomorrow". John and his wife read every page, and it made them think about things they had never considered, such as: "Where should they live?" "How much money would they need?" "What would...

John do with his spare time?" "How could both he and his wife keep healthy?" and other important questions. Then they filled out the budget and net-worth charts in the book to get a realistic picture of their expenses and their assets. Then the planning started. John had married and were busy making their own careers; two lived in the East and one in the West. Second — since John had a month's vacation each year (after 30 years of service) they decided to use it to explore areas where they might want to live. They also decided to save during the next four years to help finance their future, so he would not take an early retirement. Third — they decided their three-bedroom house was too big. Since they liked the neighborhood and the local church, they determined to find a smaller house nearby. After some repairs and fresh paint they sold their house and bought a smaller one for about half the price of the previous one. The extra money was carefully invested. Fourth — since both enjoyed the out-of-doors, they bought a second-hand 16-foot trailer. The first year they met the grand children in the East and spent a week—fishing—and sightseeing. The kids had a wonderful time, as did the grandparents. The remaining two weeks they went down to Florida. Fifth — the following year they took a full month and went along the Texas Gulf Coast through Arizona, California, and home through Yellowstone Park. They liked the California Gold Country and spent a few days visiting the museums and little towns in the area. Sixth — that winter John started to think about a job for retirement. When a friend asked him to help him out in his accounting office making "our income tax statements between January and April, he considered it. Then John realized that changes will be forthcoming but he already has a nest egg established, has many new friends, and has good information. "My retirement has been a wonderful and rewarding experience because I planned it carefully, Mr. Franklin. Use my letter to encourage others."

Bliss Under Set BLISS — School trustees will be elected Tuesday for the Bliss School District with polls open from 1 to 7 p.m. at the Grange Hall. Encumbrances seeking re-election are Dale Slane, zone one; Sterling Bray, zone three; and Ralph Frucht, zone five. 'Tractor Defenses', Do You Have It? "Tractor Defenses" is a common cause of poor hearing among farmers, ranchers and others who operate tractors or other heavy equipment over long periods of years. As the result of research carried on since 1960, we have found several ways to restore the hearing of such persons — even if they have "noise loss" or poor hearing in both ears. 50 Years Of Service Is Observed By Altrusans

By NORMA HERZINGER

The international organization of Altrusa Clubs throughout the world observed its Golden Anniversary recently, with the local group holding its celebration at the Holiday Inn, Twin Falls.

Fifty years of "growing" in service were depicted in an outstanding program, talks, table decorations and favors and a large decorated anniversary cake.

Mrs. Miriam Dewey, Golden Anniversary chairman, organized an exceptional program of interest to all Altrusans as well as the many guests who attended.

Mrs. Chloé Wilkes, toastmistress, kept the crowd alert as she told humorous anecdotes concerning many of the club members and various civic club representatives present. Mrs. Rose Mary Poulter, president, gave the welcome, with Egon Kroll, city commission chairman, giving the response. At this point in the program, the group rose to its feet and drank a toast to Altrusans around the world, led by Mrs. Fern Nielson.

The Altrusa Club Girls of the Month presented the program; all dressed in costumes representing various countries where Altrusa Clubs are active. Informative "ingredients" from 13 countries were combined by the girls in a make-believe fashion to form the Golden Anniversary Cake, which later was served by them.

All past presidents of the group participated in the cake candlelighting ceremony, with Mrs. Fayester Waegelin, president of 1967-68, representing the forthcoming 50 years of growth and stability.

Theme of the event, "50th Year Growing in Service," was presented by Mrs. Dewey as she explained the various activities of the group and accomplishments of the local organization since its inception in June, 1917.

A moment of great seriousness came over the crowd as a recorded message by Mrs. Lucille S. Alexander, international president, was played. This particular record was played at precisely the same time by all Altrusa Clubs during their individual celebrations.

A bit of humor was injected into the program when Mrs. Dewey, Mrs. Donna Mauldin, Mrs. Margaret McCall and Mrs. Evy Ellis presented "Roaring Twenties—Soaring Seventies," all dressed in unique costumes depicting the era they were representing and the growth of Altrusa.

Others participating in the program were Mrs. Margaret Watts, international relations; Mrs. Adele Stoddard, vocational service; Mrs. Carolyn France, Altrusa blessing; Mrs. Mary Helen Perry, flag salute; Mrs. Poulter, introductions; Mrs. Beatrice Groat, Altrusa information; Mrs. June Prater, community service; and Mrs. Betty Kelker, benediction. Many other club members participated in countless ways to make this celebration a success.

During the community service portion of the program, a

MIXING THE INTERNATIONAL informative "ingredients" that formed the 50th Anniversary cake for the Altrusa Club's anniversary dinner are Girls of the Month, from left, Shawn Ryan, September, representing Puerto Rico; Anna Mae DeGlic, December, Scotland, and Janice Koozic, March, Canada.

FIRST PRESIDENT of the local Altrusa Club, Mrs. Margaret McCall, 1917-18, lights the first candle on the anniversary cake at the local celebration at the Holiday Inn. A candle was lit by each past president of the local club, representing the years the Altrusa Club has been in Twin Falls.

PRESENTING A GOLDEN KEY of service to Egon Kroll, city commission chairman, is Mrs. June Prater, community service chairman, at the Golden Anniversary observance of the Altrusa Club.

"ROARING TWENTIES—Soaring Seventies" was depicted by Mrs. Evy Ellis, representing the future, and Mrs. Donna Mauldin, representing the birth of the club during the program. Others participating in the skit were Mrs. Miriam Dewey and Mrs. Margaret McCall.

"50TH YEAR GROWING IN SERVICE" was presented by Mrs. Miriam Dewey, Golden Anniversary chairman, at the recent celebration. Mrs. Dewey explained the various activities of the Altrusa Club and reviewed some of the group's accomplishments and community projects.

Scout Troop Hosts Party For MIA Girls

SHOSHONE — Boys of Scout Troop 38 entertained girls of the Beehive classes of the LDS MIA at a party during the MIA services at the church.

Other classes held regular department work with rehearsal for the three-act play to be held next Wednesday night.

Cecil Cope, conducted the opening exercises, during which stake visitors spoke, as part of ward conference work. Guest speakers were Mrs. Muriel Sparks, Cary, and G. Christensen, Richfield. Other visitors were Oral Stewart, Cary, and D. S. Hlat, Shoshone.

Youths were named to help plan the stake youth conference to be held in Sun Valley Aug. 13. They are Geanine Cope and Allen Meyer.

Special musical numbers were directed by Mrs. May Hlat, with Ruth Griggs accompanist. There will be no MIA play 17 due to high school graduation that night.

CUTTING THE FIRST PIECE of the Golden Anniversary cake is Mrs. Rose Mary Poulter, president of the Altrusa Club, at a recent anniversary dinner. Mrs. Frank Herret, president of the Altrusa's Girls of the Month served the cake and presented the international program. All past presidents of the unit were represented in the cake candlelighting ceremony, with Mrs. Fayster Waegelin, president, for 1957-58, representing the forthcoming years and the many projects that lie ahead.

Golden Age Club Members Host Supper

HAGERMAN — Spring flowers decorated the tables for the monthly meeting of the Golden Age Club members at the American Legion Hall.

Mrs. Arnold Scott decorated the tables. Mrs. John W. Jones was program chairman and Mrs. Reveria Condit announced the program numbers.

Cheryl Sandy sang two solos, accompanied by Peggy Hendrickson. A skit, "The Doctor in Chicago," was presented by Mrs. Eleanor McConkey, Mrs. Nettie Dennis and Irlie. "The Doctor" was given by Mrs. Dennis and Mrs. Condit. Diane Jones presented a tap dance number.

It was decided to inquire into the possibility of changing their meeting place. Those named to the committee were John Saborn, Mrs. Hazel Russel and Benjamin Taylor.

Those on the kitchen committee included Mrs. Nora Fallon, Mrs. Emma Sevey, and Mrs. Phoebe Holt. The next meeting is May 8.

Carlye Exclusive with The Mayfair Shop

Diaphanous, delicate, disarming — the new mood of the shirtless — interpreted by Carlye in exquisite re-embroidered organza with linen collar, cuffs and fly and its own luxurious matching crepe slip. Opulent jeweled buttons match the brightest selections.

Carlye skirts the issue of geometrics with striking applique organza inserts — the one underplayed touch of elegance on a starkly simple A-skimmer of rayon-linen.

Romantic renaissance... bands of heirloom-looking, heavy crocheted lace and embroidered Moyseshael linen, stacking up to a charming contemporary look in Carlye's tiny-sloved slim beige skimmer.

Graphite — a great new understatement of color — inspires Carlye's town and travel costume of polyester cotton gabardine. Independent A-skirted dress with white-striped top assumes the role of a suit with the addition of the sporty young jacket.

Job's Daughters Grand Guardian Visits Bethel

International Order of Job's Daughters, Bethel No. 26, was honored with the visit of Margaret M. Jobe, grand guardian of Bethel, at the recent meeting at the Masonic Temple.

Prior to the meeting a school of instruction was held and a banquet.

Escorted to the east for introduction besides the grand guardian were Jan Sinclair, honored queen of Bethel No. 43; Mrs. Lucille Kelly and Dick Harder, guardian and associate guardian of Bethel No. 56; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Wylie, associate guardian of Bethel No. 43; Marian Jenkins and Mrs. Irma Scott, past guardian of Bethel No. 56; Mrs. Olga Lish, past grand guardian, and Mrs. Iva Kilborn, worthy matron of Chapter No. 23, Order of Eastern Star.

Initiation was held for Margie Preston, Pam Owens, Jennie Johnson, Jeannine Beck and Regina Plesley. Special music was presented by Christa Scott, a violin solo, and a quartet, Ruth Dehoney, Janie Geer, Carolyn Harvey and Jane Reynolds.

The Librarian's report, "Smile," was given by Ann Harvey. Mrs. Jobe gave a reading from her book, "The Art of Friendship."

Birthday anniversary girls were Carolyn Davis and Warder Sharp. Becky Atwood was "Jobe of the Meeting" and received a gift from Marilyn Olmstead, honored queen.

A rummage sale will be held April 28 and 29.

Unit Assists With Easter Seal Drive

The 1967-Easter Seal Campaign, conducted by the Twin Falls Jay-C-ettes, was one of the most successful campaigns in the past year, with a total of $1,912.42 collected for the Easter Seal Center.

The Twin Falls Jay-C-ettes, with Mrs. Delbert McGuire as chairman, were in charge of recruiting captains to be in charge of the marchers and collecting from them the funds gathered.

Mrs. Joyce Sidwell and Mrs. R. L. McFarlane were chairmen in charge of recruiting door-to-door marchers and to prepare the envelopes for the Jay-C-ettes to give to the captains for distribution.

Proceeds from the campaign will go into the general fund for operating expenses for the Twin Falls Easter Seal Center.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: I am a beautiful widow, 53 years of age, but I look much younger. I lost my husband a few years ago and you are to be perfectly honest with you, I want a man.

I have been going with a married man—who is much younger than I. I really don't care very much for him, but I make him believe I do, because I feel it better to have him than no man at all.

I am financially very well off so I don't have to work, but I am almost ready to get a job somewhere so I can meet some men. Can you solve my problem?

BEAUTIFUL BUT UNWANTED

DEAR BEAUTIFUL: Drop the married man unless you want to be known as "bold."

Awards Given At FHA State Convention

A reception was held for all girls attending where they met state officers and officers countywide. The FHA Chapter was held at Pinney Theater. A luncheon was served at noon and at the banquet the state degree winners, scholarship winner, honor chapter and members were recognized. Honored guests and speakers were Cheryl Couch and Gov. Don Samuelson.

In District No. 4 the remaining assignments for the state degree banquet were given. The banquet is set for May 5 in Twin Falls.

Special Guests Attend Parley

BUHL—Mrs. James H. Sheldahl, Jr., international honorary member, and Mrs. Dick Love, sponsor, were the regular meeting of Idaho Omega Chapter No. 342, at the home of Mrs. Tom McClain. Guests introduced included Mrs. Howard Doering, Mrs. Dick Pierce and Mrs. Lee Martin.

Mrs. Gary Ford was in charge of the program in which the Buhl Junior class drama group presented the first act of "Ank 'n' Abby" is the same one who writes this column.

DEAR NOT: Which "THE GO SHOW" on ABC at 7 p.m. (Eastern Standard Time) on Sunday, April 23d. The gal who plays the first act of "Ank 'n' Abby" is the same one who writes this column.

DEAR ABBY: After your advice to "TRY FOR LOVE," I am SURE you are a man. That picture you run with your column doesn't fool me. I'm a FOOLED.

250 Youngsters With Sacks Gather Litter From Highway

Armed with gunny sacks and banded up in warm clothing, more than 250 Twin Falls youngsters added their efforts to the Keep America Beautiful campaign by cleaning six truckloads of litter from U. S. 93 between Twin Falls and Rogerson Saturday.

The children, members of various Boy Scout, Camp Fire and Salvation Army groups, picked up the trash and garbage the hard way in windy, cold weather. According to Mrs. Wesley Stewart, coordinator of the effort, the group had planned to go all the way to the Nevada line, but a snowstorm in Rogerson curtailed the project.

The cleanup, designed to call attention to the problem of litter along the nation's highways, is the fourth such activity to be held in Twin Falls. Mrs. Stewart and Mrs. Archie Turner, both leaders of Camp Fire groups, devised the project for their two groups and later asked other community organizations to join them.

Participating in the cleanup Saturday were Cub Scout Packs, Boy Scout Troops, Camp Fire

Three Pointers Crowned In First Day Of Magic Valley Field Trials

Champions in three divisions of the annual Magic Valley German Shorthair Pointer Club spring field trials were crowned Saturday at Hansen-Butte southeast of Hansen. The trials will continue with three events Sunday, the open limited all-age, open derby and amateur dog. Rusey Messergers, Tyroneberg, a German shorthair owned by Walter Epps of Pittsburgh, Calif., claimed first place in the open all-age. Eight dogs were entered in that event with four awarded places.

76ers Favored To Wrap Up Title Sunday

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers are favored to bring the long professional basketball season to an end Sunday by closing out the San Francisco Warriors in the best-of-7 game National Basketball Association championship playoff.

The Eastern champion 76ers lead the Warriors 3-1 and have the advantage in the first game of the best-of-seven series. The 76ers have been just short of invincible this season. This could be the climax of the greatest season ever for 7-foot-11 Wilt Chamberlain. He appears a lead pipe cinder to win his first major championship to this week's laurels.

Demascus Is Easy Victor In Derby Prep

NEW YORK (AP) — Demascus stuck his nose in front less than one-quarter mile from home, took a steady whiff of Kentucky Derby roses and went on to easily win the $112,400 Wood Memorial at Aqueduct Saturday.

In establishing himself as the horse to beat in the Derby at Churchill Downs May 6, the strong moving son of Sword Dancer— from Mrs. Edith W. Bancroft— finished the final mile of the 1 1/4-mile race six lengths in front.

Flood Gives Cards Victory Over Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Curt Flood broke an eight-inning tie with a two-run single Saturday night, giving Bob Gibson and the St. Louis Cardinals a victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers.

The Cardinals loaded the bases on a single by Dick Groat, a wild throw on a sacrifice bunt by Gibson and a bunt single by Lou Brock before Flood delivered against loser Don Drysdale.

Valley Hits In Sixth To Clay's Talk Brings More Laughter Than Defiance

EDEN-HAZELTON — Lony Thompson's single and Ron Cling's homerun pushed in three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to give the Braves a 10-3 victory over Twin Falls.

The Vikings' sixth-inning run put the Braves ahead 10-3 going into the seventh. Twin Falls managed two runs in the top of the sixth, a walk, two singles and an error to bring the Vikings a 1-1 tie.

The Vikings hit early, scoring seven runs in the first two innings off Twin Falls starter Jim Astorgula and held a 7-1 lead which allowed the tying run to score.

Jesus Alonzo led the Braves' offense in the eighth inning, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, and pinch hitter Billy Sorrell sacrificed, Carroll hit Tom Hill with a single and walked Norm Sichel, leading the bases. Sichel came on and scored before the Braves' wild-pitching the tying run across with Ken Henderson at bat.

DeVicenzo, defending champion, had 134 for 36 holes, replicating his first round lead at the Brewer of Dallas, the Masters champion, who took 71 for 153. Bob Gombay fired a 66 and also had 135.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay, one of America's most prominent angry young men, spoke at a university black power rally Saturday and moved his audience more to laughter than defiance.

Horlen Stops Senators 1-0 For Chicago

WASHINGTON (AP) — Joe Horlen pitched no-hit ball for 7 1/3 innings and wound up with a two-hitter Saturday as the Chicago White Sox edged Washington 1-0 on Tommie Agee's home run.

Horlen walked Fred Valentine with two out in the first inning but he retired 19 Senators in a row.

However, in the eighth inning, he was shaken up covering first on Bob Chagnon's leadoff grounder back of the bag. Tom McCraw fumbled the ball, and Horlen had to make a dive for the throw as he fell across the bag.

Look! Ruth Has Wings...

By RUTH KOONCE MILLER
Times-News Staff Writer

There are few things which can induce this ex-night reporter to climb out of bed at 8 a.m., but an expense-paid trip is enough to open the eyes of even a confirmed late-sleeper. This is especially true when the trip was to Salt Lake City where I had never been — and in an airplane, too, and here and never before been off the ground.

My first thought after the invitation was "Whoopie!" And my second — "what if I get sick?" On an ordinary flight, I guess, this would not be embarrassing, but I was aware that most of the others on this flight with me would be flying bulls and I the novice among them.

The passenger list for the flight, first of a new schedule arrangement for Sun Valley Airlines, included members of the news media, Twin Falls Airport Manager Ed Woods and our host, Jim Wilkins, Gooding, the airline's president.

Wilkins' airline features regularly scheduled air taxi service to and from Utah with Salt Lake City (Sun Valley), Gooding, Twin Falls and Salt Lake City. The line serves some communities with no airline service and often makes better connections than regular airline travel. Through use of these "Mini-Liners" the passengers

BOB DUNCAN, chief pilot, helps Ruth into the plane for the flight away from the Twin Falls airport as Bill Hill, the copilot on this flight, looks on. It was Ruth's first trip into the blue.

UP-HIGH, at 12,500 feet, Ruth finds the discussion is still on aviation. Ed Woods, manager of the Twin Falls Airport, and D. J. (Jim) Wilkins, president of Sun Valley Airlines, have a discussion.

are "fed" into the big planes which span the continent.

The early morning flight down was clear and beautiful as our host pointed out spots of scenic interest. I found out right away on my first flight, that you could really see what there was to see in these smaller planes. The highline canal, which looks like so much muddy water from the ground, appeared as an endless dark green snake weaving through our valley.

The Oakley "City of Rocks," interestingly attractive at eye level, appeared equally though differently attractive from the air. The pioneers who stopped there never saw anything like this.

And the South Hills — who needs to describe them with their crests still snow-covered? Most of this country was familiar to me, since I had traveled through parts of it. However, the flatness of it and the smallness of the dots of farms and ranches and the anti-like stock were impressive to this sky-bunny.

A definite advantage of the "Mini-Liners" is that by the time you reach your destination, even on an hour and 10 minute flight, everybody knows everybody else on the plane.

Even with the friendly first-name atmosphere, I found it easy to make as the twin-engine Beechcraft moved through the air. Now I really was up here (Continued on Page A-10)

RUTH, AT RIGHT and leaning against post, views North Concourse of busy Salt Lake City air terminal. She was amazed at the number of persons who go by air.

LUNCH AT THE plush Kitty Hawk eating area in the Salt Lake City air terminal finds Ruth relaxing as B. V. Walker, center, Utah director of aeronautics, and Jim Wilkins, airline head, talk airplane talk.

DETAILS OF instruments housed in airport tower at Salt Lake City — making for safe landings of the hundreds of planes using the field — are explained to Ruth by C. R. Martin, chief controller of the field.

MAZE OF INSTRUMENTS confronts Ruth as she sits in co-pilot's seat on Sun Valley airliner. Chief pilot Bob Duncan tells her what they all mean.

Week-Long Art Exhibit Scheduled By Students Of Local College

By PEGGY LALEY
Times-News Feature Editor

Mark the week of April 20 through May 5 on your calendar. There will be an exhibit of student art sponsored by the College of Southern Idaho at the YWCA-YMCA building.

This display of work in design, drawing, watercolors, oils, sculpture and painting, ranging from realism to abstraction, will be well worth seeing.

Exhibiting artists will include students of the Saturday children's art classes taught by college personnel as well as full and part-time students of the college proper.

The show will be open daily from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m., and from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m., according to Lavar Steel, CSI art department, at reasonable prices.

Opening hours for the show will be from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m. April 20.

The Saturday art classes sponsored by the college for children from 7 to 12, emphasize enrichment through art and give the children a chance to express themselves in a wide variety of media.

So take an hour, or longer, and see what the students at our college and the children in our area are doing in the field of art and self-expression.

First Flight

Ruth Koonce Miller, Times-News writer, took her first airplane ride last week on a hop from Twin Falls to Salt Lake City and return via Sun Valley Airlines.

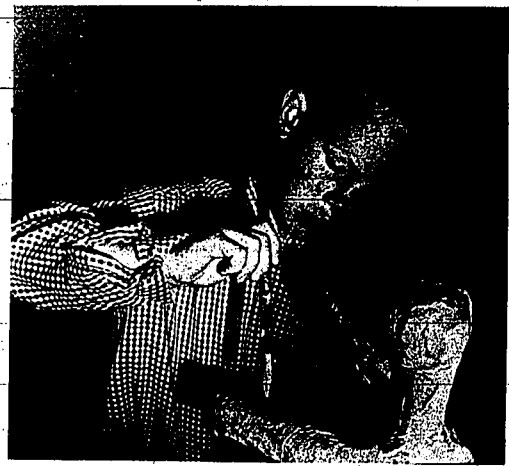

This is her story — a word description of just how it feels to fly when you have never done it before. Ruth got the blue ribbon treatment from officials of the Sun Valley line as well as from airport heads in the Utah city.

The flight marked a new schedule arrangement for the Gooding based line, an operation which is unique in Idaho.

Gus Ketter went along to take the pictures illustrating Ruth's story.

PAINTING HIS PAPIER MACHE sculpture, Mike Schabacker, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles Schabacker, demonstrates what he has learned in the Saturday children's art classes sponsored by CSI.

HIGH WIND prior to boarding at Salt Lake for flight home causes Ruth to hold large hat on her head, while Mr. Wilkins explains operation of one of the two motors on the Sun Valley Airlines plane.

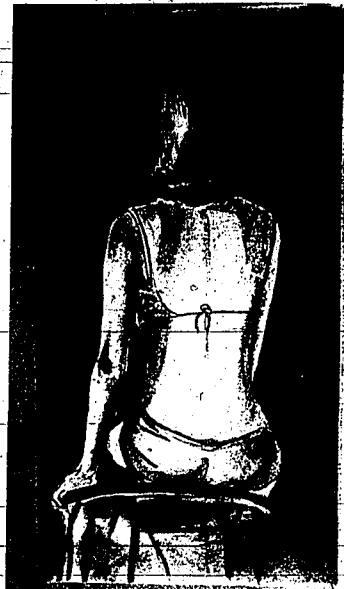

Exhibits By Local Artists To Be Shown During Week At College Show

Fishermen Flock To Idaho's "Big Hole" For Sandpoint's Annual Fish Contest

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department
Scores of small boats churned the waters of Lake Pend Oreille Saturday in search of trophy-sized Kamloops and Dolly Varden to register in Sandpoint's annual big-fish-contest.

Judging, as usual, will be next Saturday—on full-tide—after the start on April 23 of the special fishing season for lowland lakes in the five northern Panhandle counties.

The contest this year runs from opening day to the traditional "K-K" or "Kamloops and Kokanee Day," May 6. Literally caught, weighed, registered and displayed on ice during the week.

There is a chance that a new world's record Kamloops will be pulled out of Idaho's "Big Hole" as natives fondly call Lake Pend Oreille.

Wes Hamlet hooked the giant trout 20 years ago. It weighed 27 pounds. The tournament record for Dolly Varden is a 32 pounder—it was caught by Nelson Higgins in 1932.

A 34 pound 5 ounce mackinaw was boated in Priest Lake in 1964 by Russ Hernan of Spokane. This is the Idaho record.

Trophy Kamloops win all honors some years, or all but one or two at other times. In the western division a rainbow trout of a national big fish contest.

Priest Lake mackinaw are members of a group of fish called "chars." They are kin to the Dolly Varden and are members of a different genetic family from trout.

In the Great Lakes of the mid-west, they are the "White" support-a-commercial fishery, production averages nearly 15 million pounds a year, according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service regional fishery biologist for the Fish and Game Department.

This species also is called a "lake trout," "grey trout," "Great Lakes char," "namaycush," "quinn," and "whitefish." It has been introduced widely in lakes of the west, including Priest Lake in 1925.

It is the fastest-growing member of the trout series. It was introduced into Lake Pend Oreille in 1946 by a group of Bonner County sportsmen who had angled for trophy fish in the Great Lakes of Canada, and who sought to establish a fishable population of Kamloops in the lake.

The "Big Hole" was selected because of its large population of kokanee, a small species of landlocked blueback salmon. Kokanee are native to the area. Kokanee are large fish, reaching a size of 16 inches in length, more or less, and are Dolly Varden when young, cannibalistic at about 13 inches.

Though forages thrive in Lake Pend Oreille, they do not run in schools and live in much the same areas of the "Big Hole" as Kamloops. Dolly Varden are more available and easier to catch than other small fish. The fast growth of mackinaw in Priest Lake is tied closely to the introduction of kokanee there in 1942.

Prior to the introduction of Kokanee, mackinaw did not reach the great size that they have since that time.

Mallet says Kamloops and Dolly Varden appear to be the only interior fish species in Lake Pend Oreille which feed largely on kokanee after becoming cannibals. Salmon, trout and kokanee are not available in this species rarely grows that big in the "Big Hole" because of the fast growth of mackinaw studies come up with a conversion rate of nearly four pounds of kokanee fish to produce one pound of Kamloops or Dolly Varden fish.

Since the average annual catch of Kamloops is 8,000 pounds, and 6,000 pounds for Dolly Vardens, something like one-third of a million kokanee weighing some 25,000 pounds went down the gullets of these fish.

Mallet points out that these figures are conservative because only average annual catch—rather than total Kamloops and Dolly Varden production—are considered.

Idaho Kamloops production has been in high production from the start. Eggs obtained by the Bonner County sportsmen were turned over to the Fish and Game Department for raising and planting.

It soon was clear that it would be hard to get a yearly supply of Kamloops eggs from Canada for propagating and stocking purposes. Thus, a brood stock was held back that first year at the hatchery at Clark Fork near Sandpoint, and American Falls in the southeast corner of the state.

But brood stock was transferred in 1946 from American Falls to Clark-Fork, combining the work in one place. Mallet's records give the number of Kamloops planted each year—over the last quarter of a century. The figures for 1942 was 19,115, and 378,852 fish last year. None were released during 1944 and 1945. The grand total for all plants is 4,887,725.

He says that fish are planted in various sizes. Normally six to eight-inch fish go directly into the lake. These plantings are supplemented with "graded-out" brood stock from the hatchery. These are less productive fish, and some 600 averaging three to five pounds were graded out and planted in the lake this year.

Tributaries that have some natural spawning runs established, or where spawning runs are desired—are stocked with fingerlings measuring one to two inches.

Mallet points out that during the early years of the program from 1942 to 1947, an average of 22,760 a year. These produced good angling. In fact, the 37-pound Kamloop was caught in 1947, the 6th year after the original plant. In 1951, the first large plant was made in Lake Pend Oreille, and an average of 400,200 fish per year have been planted since that date.

The estimated annual catch of Kamloops from 1951 through 1956 was 4,500. It noted that the catch for 1964-1965 is inflated since large plants of catch-sized were planted, adding to the number of non-trophy sized fish (under 17 inches) taken.

Trophy fish harvested annually in Lake Pend Oreille give a better idea of the quality angling being provided by Kam-loops. For the years 1960-1966, an average of 1,126 fish 17 inches or more were caught, and this was 162 per cent of the total annual catch.

Moreover, the average size of all Kamloops taken during these years was 14 inches. Incidentally, trophy-sized fish average about 18 pounds.

Mallet says that, in recent years, a trophy-sized Kamloops fishery has developed in the Clark Fork River. In 1963, the first few were caught from the Clark Fork River, but it was a relatively few. This number increased during 1964, 1965 and 1966.

Fish are caught at two times during the year—the first two weeks of the season (usually approximately May 1-4) and then from mid-October through mid-November.

The fish caught in the spring are caught after spawning and many of them probably would not spawn again. The fish caught in the fall are potential spawners and thus this catch will be watched closely.

To date, the available data has indicated that the Clark Fork River fishery has had no adverse effect on the fishery of Pend Oreille Lake. Should any adverse effects be indicated in the future, this fishery may be reduced or curtailed.

TIMES-NEWS Book Review

THE HOUSE OF TOMORROW

By Jean Thompson

This book touches and reveals the experience of living in-home for unwed mothers.

Through the book is fiction, it is drawn from the diary kept by the author while she lived in such a home awaiting the birth of her child.

The book talks about life in a Salvation Army home for unwed mothers, the care the girls receive, their activities, and the problems of the guidance available to them.

And of even greater value is a sympathetic account of the girls found in the home, and how they faced or ignored their problems.

The author speaks of the response of the girls to one another, the constant fear of their secret exposed, the impossible decision of what to do with the baby.

She also tells her own story of fear and growth as she comes to grips with her own life and life of her baby.

The House of Tomorrow is authentic and unglad in its expression of emotions and human behavior.

The author has obviously written the book with a heart that has experienced the same thing.

Miss Thompson writes with the humor and "wit" characteristic of her previous work. The book could be read by adolescents and adults alike.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT Shoshone Baptists Reluctantly Give Farewell Blessing To Paul Winkler

SHOSHONE — "Honesty. Honesty of approach, honesty in manner and an honest message" are the reasons given by Rev. Paul D. Winkler to his congregation for the achievements by his church here the past 10 years.

In his farewell sermon last Sunday, Rev. Mr. Winkler reflected on the 10 years of his pastorate in Shoshone.

During that time, the Church resident membership has doubled and the church income has tripled. In a low-income area it is a diminishing community.

Rev. Mr. Winkler and his family will leave the pastorate here to serve the Hill Crest Baptist Church at Arvada, Colo. He will have over duties there this week.

Rev. Mr. Winkler was born in Blackfoot June 5, 1932, came to Twin Falls with his parents at the age of 4 years. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Winkler.

Rev. Mr. Winkler attended grade and high schools there. Then he attended Linfield College, McMinnville, Ore., where he graduated in 1954 with a major in music.

He then attended Eastern Baptist Theological Seminary, Philadelphia, Pa., graduating in 1957 with a bachelor of divinity degree. While attending seminary, he was youth director and assistant pastor of the Spring City Methodist Church and also the West Baptist Church in the same capacity.

Returning to Twin Falls, he was ordained in the Twin Falls Baptist Church and was called to the Shoshone Baptist Church that same year.

He married Edna Delores Smith, Kayser, Va., Dec. 31, 1963. She is a graduate of the Shoshone Baptist Church and is a Christian educator.

They have one daughter, Elizabeth Lynn, born Sept. 2, 1966. She is a member of the church.

Rev. Mr. Winkler has been active in church and community affairs. The most recent activity in music was with the Diligent production, "Finland's Rainbow." She taught new field of labor, the Shoshone church members give him a farewell blessing.

Both the Rev. and Mrs. Winkler are vocal students of Mrs. Jean Merchant-Levovitz, Twin Falls.

They have been active throughout the Magic Valley and the state in their work with youth, especially the "Teen Choral" that toured the area and on two occasions went back to the East coast.

In 1957, when Rev. Mr. Winkler, affectionately called "Paul" by those who know him, came to Shoshone, the church building was an old lava rock structure built in 1904 and under his direction was improved and redecorated to a condition of loveliness and charm. This had hardly been completed when it was destroyed by fire Dec. 15, 1963.

Immediately a new building was begun and constructed under his leadership. The ground was a gift from Fred Clinger and his late wife, Elizabeth.

The ground-breaking ceremony was held June 21, 1964, and services were held in the fellowship hall Dec. 13, 1964, just a year from the time the old building burned.

Easter Sunday, April 10, 1966, saw the grand entrance into the new sanctuary, although the entire area was not complete. The stained glass window above the baptistry, a triumph of inspirational art, was designed by the Rev. Mr. Winkler.

The new building has a valuation of $100,000 or more. A

ONE THING about an early spring picnic you aren't bothered with ants, flies and swarms of people. As the picnic season progresses our family moves farther and farther from civilization, but early in the year local spots are just right. (Times-News photo)

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

It's picnic time again. Of course it may still be a little cold for some of you, but in some families, as soon as the sun begins to shed a little warmth, members start talking picnics. Usually they just talk about them for several weeks and then one day someone says, "Come on, let's go on a picnic."

That's all it takes. Everyone scurries for old clothes, sweaters and jackets. Picnic menus are the simplest. What's in the cupboards and refrigerator that seems to be picnic fare goes into a box and the missing items can be picked up at a store on the way out of town.

The meal may not be the best balanced in the world, but is certainly the easiest, especially on the cook. Besides, there is something about wood smoke and fresh air that makes a burned hot dog taste like filet mignon—with a little imagination. So, who cares about fried chicken, homemade potato salad, chocolate cake and all the other goodies? Fill up a box and let's go celebrate spring.

Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Schwarz, who reside south of EDEN, will have five grandchildren graduating with the senior class of Valley High School next month. The students are Lorena Martens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Martens; Russell Schwartz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwarz; Terry Hagenpaul, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwardson is currently serving in Vietnam. Mrs. Schwarz's hobbies include gardening and sewing. Her flower garden has provided roses and various flowers for many weddings and other occasions. Her sewing hobby includes quilting and her gift to her five grandchildren. The grandchildren will be beautifully appliqued quilts which she has completed this winter.

The grandparents are proud of their grandchildren and the students certainly are full of love and admiration for "Grandpa and "Grandma." All are happy to be a part of Magic Valley.

Normally when an easy layaway plan is offered to the customer, the bargain is readily snapped up with a little down and a little a month.

A HEYBURN and BURLEY merchant, who says he has maintained the reputation of supplying the public with merchandise which is usually difficult to buy in the average district, is currently finding it difficult to sell the difficult item.

Anyhow he has had it in his store window the past two weeks with a large sign offering the public a "rent-snap-up-bargain" for a long-time layaway plan. Passers-by have admired the unusual merchandise and felt an immediate need for it.

The merchant, who serves as an outlet for freight damaged goods, bought the beautiful but unusual item from a man in Salt Lake City, who had bought it at an auction being operated by a railroad freight shipper.

It had a slight dent on the top and although has been repaired without a scar, has brought the price down tremendously to $149.05.

The bargain advertised in the store window is a beautiful copper-coated steel casket and eventually the right customer will come along with a plan to "Buy Now-Layaway Later."

"Touche!"

PARIS (AP) — Hot-tempered Gaullist Deputy René Riblere fought a sword duel with Socialist leader Gaston Defferre Friday because of an insult shouted during stormy parliamentary debates.

When the sword play was over Defferre had added injury to insult — inflicting several small wounds on Riblere's sword arm in four minutes of combat.

Moreover, Defferre still insists that Riblere is an "idiot," the insult that provoked the Gaullist to challenge the 56-year-old Socialist Thursday night.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

Every so often in our mall, the question of the 1943 copper cent with the accompanying questions as to the authenticity of such a coin. Due to the lack of copper, the coins of 1943 were struck from steel, and the resulting coins were zinc-coated, giving the appearance of silver. However, the coins did not wear well, and a very small amount of circulation—turned—their black.

A few years ago, a collector started a numismatic world by proclaiming he had found a copper cent, dated 1943. The coin was widely advertised for an auction and a great many buyers journeyed to California for the auction — some of them from overseas.

At the last moment, the collector withdrew the coin from sale, giving no reason, and the story died out. However, his publicity accompanying the find eventually started a hunt for this coin, which she has completed this winter.

The grandparent is proud of their grandchildren and the students certainly are full of love and admiration for "Grandpa and "Grandma." All are happy to be a part of Magic Valley.

At the present time, the opinion of experts is fairly well divided as to whether there is actually a 1943 copper cent. The United States Mint says "NO" — but then, that august body has always disclaimed knowledge of any mint errors. According to the mint, only steel planchets (coin blanks) were used in 1943.

However, a logical explanation has been set forth to explain the five or six which are supposedly genuine. Coin planchets are dumped into a big hopper and fed into the dies. It is believed by some experts that a few copper planchets from the 1942 series remained in the hoppers, and when the steel planchets were fed into the machines, these copper planchets also went through and were stamped as 1943.

It would appear that inspection would have to be very lax to miss a few copper planchets in a rough full of steel ones but it could happen. These copper cents, then, would have undoubtedly been plated zinc, and then sent out. Only after the zinc wore off would the difference have been apparent.

Similarly, it is also said that a few 1944 coins were struck on steel planchets — using the same line of reasoning that some of the planchets remained in the hopper.

Your writer takes no sides in the argument. We have been called on a number of times to view "so-called" copper 1943 cents. In every instance, they were copper-plated steel, or fakes made from 1945's.

For a while there were so many floating around we kept a magnet on the desk to check them with. This is a simple, unfailingly test: If the coin jumps to a magnet, it is steel, not copper — no matter how nice and shiny the copper plating is.

The converted 1948's are no less easily distinguished. If you will examine the illustration with this column, you will note that the "3" has a particularly long point on its bottom tip. This is an absolute test. All 1943 steel cents have this characteristic long point.

Lincoln cents dated 1948, with the front of the "8" removed, of course have even curves, without the tail. Also, the space between the number "4" and the number "8" will be much wider than it should, since half the number has been removed.

Recently, a great many "fake" rare coins have hit the market. Even the foreign coins which have been scarce are being counterfeited in great quantities.

Our advice to all readers of this column is this: "Do not buy coins from strangers — no matter how cheaply they are offered, until you have had them examined by a reputable dealer who can authenticate them."

Remember this — there are no rare coins which are cheap. If you have a chance to buy an expensive coin for a fraction of its value, the odds are 99 to 1 that you are being swindled. (Questions of coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, care The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401.)

OCCASIONALLY A COLLECTOR will claim the possession of a 1943 copper cent. It is possible that there may be a few, but since 1943 cents were struck from steel and zinc-coated it is more likely that these coins are fakes. (Times-News photo)

18th Annual ISU Mothers Weekend Set

POCATELLO (ISU)—Mothers of Idaho State University students are in store for "Some Enchanted Weekend" during the 18th annual Mothers Weekend at the school.

The three-day event, which begins April 22, features a round of activities ranging from a water show to a Saturday night banquet. A movie, "Flower Drum Song," open house in residence halls and awards and tapping ceremonies will be held.

Catherine Beck, Twin Falls, president of Associated Women Students for next year, will host the awards ceremonies in which scholarship winners and several ISU service organizations' new members will be announced. She will be assisted by 1967-68 Associated Men Students.

Search To Save Work Inspires Decked Yards

Man's search for the finer tailored material as wood, painting of life shows receptive decks can be made in any size or shape and of any width in the yard.

Several different purposes might be built, one adjacent to the dining room or kitchen for an outdoor play area, or the back for sunbathing, one for a children's play yard.

These can be connected with narrow decks acting as walkways and built on levels two or three feet above the ground for added eye interest. With shrubbery and rock filling the space between the deck and the concrete of the yard, a continuous chore of mowing, weeding and watering usually requires more weekend time than he wants to devote. So here is a cure-all: supplant leaves of grass with planks of wood.

As with all such innovations, the deck has evolved from a simple porch-like affair to an outdoor room as sophisticated as the most elegant indoor room.

Variations in design are abundant, limited only by the imagination. With such an easily-

New Dwarf Fruits Are Easily Grown

Dwarf fruits are easily grown by the home owner. They offer beautiful flowers in spring, and mouth-watering, tree-ripened fruit in summer and fall.

There are even delicious dwarf peaches in the form of shrubs, as well as trees. In some nurseries there are early and late varieties of peaches or apples on the same tree so a succession of fruit is available.

Dozens of different kinds of fruits grow in different climates of the country from semi-tropical citrus, avocados and dates to delicious apples, pears, plums and cherries.

Nut trees cannot be left out of the food trees of America. Studies of peaches show that they are low in cholesterol and freely can be eaten by people who are on cholesterol free diets.

In addition to peaches, there are almonds, macadamia, chestnuts, walnuts, hazelnuts, a number of others, according to climate.

Most nut trees are good shade trees thus having a double purpose.

Dwarf fruit trees may be planted 8 to 10 feet apart, in the form of a fence, if desired, and they take only a small space. In the form of a fence they can do double duty as a screen, and for family privacy.

Unusual Vine

One of the unusual annual vines that should be planted near every outdoor living room is the moonflower.

This, as its name implies, blooms at night, filling the air with delicious fragrance. Ordinarily, during the heat of summer, the flowers will close when the sun rises high in the sky.

While this would leave the vines with a daylight bloom, it is possible to have flowers day and night by alternating the planting of moonflowers with Heavenly Blue morning glories.

These will bloom all day and close at night.

Tips Listed

There are numerous crabgrass killers on the market that will brown and kill existing plants. These will be helpful but the best way to control crabgrass is to apply a pre-emergence killer in early spring.

This type of control kills seedlings as they sprout so you need never see a full-grown plant.

The best time of day to cut annual flowers for use indoors is in the early morning. Next best time is if you will take into the garden with you a pail of water. Use the same temperature as the outdoor air and pop each flower into it as soon as you have cut it. You'll find that the blooms last longer.

Sagging And Squeaking Floors Should Be Repaired

Floors that sag and squeak are a nuisance that should be cured not only to end the bother — but to prevent further damage. If remodeling is contemplated, then sagging floors will certainly have to be remedied ahead of other work.

If finishing off the basement is contemplated, then take care of even the slightest squeaks in the floor above since it is much easier to work from below — but impossible once a basement ceiling has been installed.

Floors generally consist of a double layer. The top surface, the one you walk on, is made of narrow strips of oak flooring. Below that are wider boards, sometimes sheets of plywood.

Between the two is a layer of building paper to prevent dust and drafts from going through the floor above since it is much easier to work from below — but impossible once a basement ceiling has been installed.

When floors squeak as you walk across them, it indicates there are loose boards. Finish floor may not be nailed down to the subfloor, or the subfloor may have become loose from the joists.

Best way to attack the problem is from the underside of the floor. Have someone walk on the floor while you watch and listen below. Mark the noisy spots.

One way to tighten up the loose boards is to drive wedges between the joists and the subfloor.

If the wedge doesn't take up the slack, or the floor board and joist have separated considerably at any point, then reinforce the area with a block nailed to the side of the joist pressed firmly against the floor board above. Use a piece of 2 by 4 or 2 by 6.

If the problem is between joists, then bridge the area. A piece of 2 by 4 cut the width of the space and hammered up between the joists can be held in place by driving nails through the joists and into the edges of the board.

Crosspieces of lumber can be installed, also, and will support a wide area.

If there is a ceiling in the basement, you will have to work from above. The loose floor board are rattled by driving a pair of three-inch finish nails at an angle so that they barely meet in a V shape. Drive them in part way and use a nail to finish the job so that you do not mar the flooring.

Better than nailing to the subfloor is nailing to the joist. If you can locate one, pounding from above will help you locate the joist. There is a hollow sound where there isn't one.

Where floor sags, use a jack post available at any hardware store or lumberyard. This consists of a steel post, base plate, jackscrew at the top with an other plate above it.

Place the post under the sagging joist, get it firmly in position and then give the jackscrew a turn or part of a turn every day. If a wide area must be supported, use a length of 4 by 4 under the joists and the post under the middle of that.

Tips Listed For Avoiding And Treating Injuries

Although many homeowners rival professional craftsmen with their prowess at do-it-yourself projects, statistics still show that the average home is still the most accident-prone place in the nation. And it becomes even more so when the home handyman starts his work.

"Do it yourself" enthusiasts should be as much concerned with accident prevention and proper first aid procedures as they are with the ambitious projects they undertake," advises Dr. John Henderson, medical director of Johnson and Johnson and first aid authority.

The really well-equipped home handyman should have adequate first aid equipment on hand to cope with emergencies. This is best accomplished by keeping a comprehensive first aid kit in the workshop.

Dr. Henderson offers the following tips to avoid some of the most common injuries encountered at home improvement work.

1. If unaccustomed to physical labor, avoid lifting heavy objects. If heavy lifting is necessary, do it properly: do not lift by using back or abdominal muscles, but take advantage of the stronger muscles of the legs.

Wear gloves to avoid blisters, minor cuts and scrapes.

2. The project calls for reaching high places, use a makeshift platform, boxes or chairs. Inspect ladders before using, for defects such as loose rungs and weakened hinges.

Always have a helper standing by at the bottom of the ladder, to hand up things as needed, and to prevent the ladder from sliding.

3. When working with power tools, make sure they are properly grounded to avoid the possibility of shock. Check the manufacturer's instructions and observe all recommended safety procedures.

When accidents do happen, it is important to treat injuries promptly. Dr. Henderson says, "Proper first aid prevents infection, promotes healing and comforts the patient until medical help is available.

Here are his suggestions for treating the most common injuries encountered by home handymen:

1. Working with tools, the incidence of cuts, bruises and scrapes is high. These should not be ignored simply because they are minor injuries, since

The Chiropractic Physician

By: Dr. Ludwig S. Landwehr

(LUMBAGO, which is actually a form of muscular rheumatism, is a low grade inflammation of the muscles and their sheaths. This inflammation naturally extends to the terminal ends of the nerves controlling these muscles, making them extremely painful.)

It is "lumbago" when the condition is localized in the lumbar region of the spine. "Pleuritic" is the name for the same condition occurring higher up.

It usually follows overstrain of the involved muscles, exposure to cold and not at least results as interference with the nerve supply to the affected muscles. This weakness then makes them easily subject to the effects of the strain or exposure, which is localized in the lumbar region of the spine.

The doctor of chiropractic approaches these conditions by treating the primary cause and removing nerve interference.

(One of a series of articles published in the "public interest" to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific chiropractic, by Dr. Ludwig S. Landwehr, whose office is located at 217 Main Ave., W., Twin Falls, Idaho. Telephone 733-0522. Adv.)

BEST BETS FOR MOVIES

4:30 p.m. 2L, 7, 8—"El Prado: Masterpieces and Music." A Bell Telephone Hour presentation of a guided tour of Spain's famed El Prado art museum. The museum contains many of the world's greatest art treasures, including masterpieces by Goya, Velazquez and El Greco. While cameras roam the galleries, a group of outstanding Spanish musicians offer musical interpretations of the paintings.

PROMISING SPECIALS

6:00 p.m. 4, 40-11-For viewers of slightly different tastes than those aired in the 4:30 p.m. special, the accent here is on the way-out trends of the younger generation. A montage of surfing, dance-buggy racing and paper fashions illustrates the theme. Features include the 4:30 p.m. special's "The Younger Generation" (representing an older generation), the Buffalo Springfield, Brian Hyland and the Jokers, the Swinging Six and Donna Douglas.

Old Southern Homes Face Extinction After Storm

EDITOR'S NOTE: Hurricane Dunbroy, where a grand cane Betsy shot down the river of George Washington road in 1955; and smashed the century-old homes in her path. The homes are rebuilt, but industry covets the land. The question Betsy left is: Will she wipe the past away to make room for the future, or did she just wipe the past away?

By JACK OWENS
BELLE HELENE, La. (AP)—Slabs of white paint peep from the ceiling of the magnificent 12-year-old Houmas House. Belle Davis once drifted down the circular stairway in the film, "Flash, Hush, Sweet Charlotte." When they filmed "Band of Angels," a century-old cypress tree towered above, and shined the camera crew. Now, at the 126-year-old Ashland Plantation, the cypress is only a gnarled stump beside the pond.

At Volin, another of the famous mansions that dot the banks of the Mississippi between New Orleans and Baton Rouge, rain has soaked the crumbling floor. The roof of the half-open roof. Volin was built in 1785, nearly 200 years ago.

So it is along the River Road. The owners of these and other plantation homes shake their heads when they think of the damage wrought some 18 months ago by Hurricane Betsy. Of the homes many are suitable neither for living nor for movios now.

In the wake of the storm, and the financial problem of recovery from it, many of these old properties are facing a drastic turnabout. Where they once produced cotton, goods like sugar and cotton, they may finally become chemical plants, punctuated with a smokstacks instead of colonnades.

TV Antenna Clutter May Be Eliminated
WASHINGTON (AP) — The clutter of television antennas on the nation's rooftops may one day be eliminated by a tiny microcircuit device now being developed under Air Force contract.

Actually, the Air Force couldn't care less about eliminating TV antennas. What it has found is a small but reliable antenna system for military uses.

But investigations for the military often end up making an even bigger splash in the civilian marketplace. The Air Force said Wednesday the SIA — Subminiature Integrated Antenna — concept has been awarded to a contractor. The contractor's rooftop may one day be eliminated by a tiny microcircuit device now being developed under Air Force contract.

But a "satellite" in Munich, Germany, Dr. Hans H. Meinko, has provided its feasibility, the statement said. Meinko has been working under contract for the Avionics Laboratory of the Air Force Systems Command, Wright-Patterson Air Force Base.

The vicious winds toppled a chimney at Oak Alley, built in 1836, and bricks crumbled through the third and second floor ceilings. Shattered doors pensive undarkening, and windows popped. Some of the famed oak lining the entrance drive were shredded.

Oak Alley is being restored to top condition. Owners of other damaged homes are attempting to make repairs, but it is an expensive undertaking. "It takes a gold mine to keep the plant there," said one of the owners of Dunbroy.

Dress Up Home With New Moldings

One of the easiest and quickest ways to refurbish the home and overcome some unsightly shortcomings is to replace some of the molding trim around the house interior.

In many an older home, heavy, old-fashioned crown moldings and the ceiling may clash with contemporary room furnishings. Often these moldings have been painted so many times that the pattern is obscured and color looking. There's no way to brighten them short of a difficult job with chemical paint removers. It would be a lot easier to start fresh with new and more modern styles and you'll be thankful for the immediate improvement in appearance.

A frequent complaint by purchasers of new homes is the poor "fit" of the woodwork, with open spaces showing between the crown molding and the floor. This often is the result of house settling rather than carelessness on the part of the builder. Here, too, the correction is easily obtained by resetting the molding to proper position, or better still, installing new molding that is more precisely fitted around the floor.

Moldings are available at lumber dealers in many patterns and styles, sold by the linear foot. The chief difficulty in the installation is to fit the molding at the corners. This is a simple matter of getting some experience in mitering and coping the corners.

The tools needed for the molding installation are a good-quality miter box, a fine-tooth hand saw, a hand coping saw, a hammer, and nailset. Don't be discouraged if your first efforts are somewhat less than perfect. Even a professional carpenter uses a bit of wood putty or filler to cover up deficiencies in the fit. You can use it, too, to good effect.

Old moldings are pulled off with a pry bar or heavy-shank screwdriver, but rarely can they be removed without splintering or don't count on finishing edges that are smooth. Rather, plan on complete replacement with new material.

Molding joints are mostly at inside corners, where the miter "copet" in. This is a technique that fits one end over the adjacent molding in the corner. A regular miter cut will not accomplish this because the cope molding is shaped to lie flat against the ceiling on one edge and the wall on the other.

The right way to do this is (1) place the molding in a miter box in the same position in which it goes on the wall, on edge and brace against the back guide; (2) cut a 45-degree angle; (3) with the coping saw, cut across the molding, following the inside line of the original cut, to remove a wedge-shaped piece. This cut end will then fit quite tightly over the other molding in the corner.

Try it experimentally to get the knack. Any open space at the joint is filled with putty or plaster.

Coping isn't necessary at "outside" corners, where a simple mitering will bring the ends neatly together. At corners where a rounded casing molding is to be fitted in a mid-section of similar moldings, the joint consists of a double-mitered end which fits into a "V" notch at the very center of the second molding.

Fasten moldings into plaster walls with two-inch or three-inch finishing-type nails, counting two to the heads are recessed. The nail holes also are packed with plaster.

There's even a way to disguise the nail holes: gouge a silver the wood with a narrow fillet chisel. Drive the nail behind this silver, then glue the chiseled wood back in place with

Spring Cleaning Adds New Zest To Plant Collection

This is the perfect time for casting a sprucing eye at house plant collections and bringing them up to flower show standards. Some plants may need re-potting, others pinching or pruning; and for those beyond salvaging, the old fashioned "chevy" may be the simplest solution.

The surest way of deciding whether a plant needs a larger pot is by trying the root ball. Turn the plant out of its pot and if a complete root network is formed over the entire soil ball and is beginning to grow out the sides, the plant is ready for repotting.

Gather all materials needed—proper potting soil, drainage material and new clay pots—on a central work surface. Good practice to soak new clay pots in water for an hour or so before use. When selecting clay pots, choose one a size two larger. If the plant's present pot is six inches, use a seven or eight inch pot.

Slip the plant from its old pot by covering the topsoil with a central work surface. Slip out through the fingers, inverting the pot and giving it a sharp rap on a hard surface. The plant's root ball will slide out easily.

Place the rootball on its cushion of drainage material and soil, fill in with additional potting soil, leaving a half-inch of space between topsoil and the rim of the pot. Firm down the soil gently, thoroughly water and the plant's new home ought to last for another year or two.

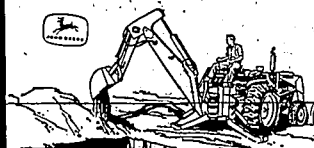

Pinching and pruning are horticultural names for getting rid of unwanted growth. If a plant is growing unevenly, or if the plant is slightly pinching, dead leaves may need removal. Plants may be suffering from "leggy" growth. In such cases, all these conditions can be corrected with a cautious pair of scissors.

Pinching is the removal of the very tips of shoots. It's a good method of inducing branching and keeping a plant bushy and full instead of long and sparse. Pruning involves the removal of larger sections of the plant to maintain shape or height and get rid of dead or diseased branches. Leggy plants are best renewed by cutting the resurrection glue held with masking tape until it gets into the nail tongue and groove floor boards to the subfloor the nailing is done through the tongue and to maintain angle until the nail is almost flush with the wood, after which it is driven the rest of the way with a nailset.

Color Lends More Than Beauty In Painted Tools

When the lilacs start to bloom and the tang of outdoor cooking whets the appetite, the time is ripe for a backyard beauty treatment. Nothing improves a home-owner's property more than a new coat of paint. Remember, fresh, lively color can help organize and identify as well as beautify.

First on the agenda may be the refurbishing of garden implements. Repainting the handles of hoes, rakes, trowels and hedge trimmers will surely make them more attractive. Select a different color for each wood handle.

The Mils-Plate line of epoxy finishes by O'Brien Corp., for instance, shows primary colors that give variety and dramatic effect to items that are usually drab looking. There is a full spectrum of lustre tints in the blues, blues, greens and yellows to pique the imagination and taste of the most discriminating lady of the house. Even she can do the job easily between breakfast and lunch with paint and brush.

Last year's caked mud can be cleaned off easily with a good wire brush. Light sanding is recommended to prepare wood surfaces and to remove rust from metal. Residue from sanding can be easily and thoroughly removed in just seconds by wiping the surface with a "lock cloth," the most economical cleaning accessory recommended by professionals and available at any paint store. Its sticky coating cleans perfectly and it can be used many times.

Experts also advise buying good quality brushes for a quality finish. These will last longer and will perform a myriad number of services for your doors as well as indoor paint jobs.

A brush two or three inches wide is ideal for painting garden implements. The brush should be dipped into the paint to a depth no greater than half the length of the bristles to avoid the need to wipe off excess paint on the edge of the can. The paint should be applied in short strokes of uniform amount with each stroke.

A smooth coat of uniform thickness will result. The painter can finish her job like a professional by smoothing out the application with long, light strokes using the lips of the brush.

More truck per buck.

The prices up there speak for themselves. And if you're a professional trucker, everything else up there will, too. But if you're not, let us explain.

Our higher frame section modulus means that Dodge frames have greater beam strength (resistance to bending) than the other two. A one-piece, I-beam front axle with leaf springs gives two advantages: a steady ride and longer front tire life because it holds front wheel alignment better. There are many weather conditions between a light mist and a torrential downpour. Dodge's variable-speed windshield wipers take care of both and everything in between. With Dodge's Orscheln parking brake, you can adjust the brake from the driver's seat with your fingers, even while driving. There's no crawling under the truck to do it.

One more thing. The pickup that's more truck per buck is also a beauty of a pickup. Your Dodge Truck Dealer wants you to come in and see for yourself. Why not do it soon?

Bright grille and bumper, side moulding, whitewall tires and wheel covers shown on the Dodge truck in the illustration are optional at extra cost.

Get Paid $157.50 Tax-Free Cash Every Week, Like Wages, On Top Of Your Hospital Insurance!

Available without medical examination or red tape... Yet this new Americare® "Super Direct Cash Plan" pays every week you are in the hospital for illness or injury... Pays whether you are over 65 or under 65... Pays you as much as $8,212.50 in a full year... Pays cash directly to you — to do with as you wish... Pays in addition to all the Group Insurance or Workmen's Compensation you may collect... Pays even in addition to Medicare!

How many ill or injured people, do you suppose, wake up in the hospital KNOWING they are going to collect as much as $157.50 per week in private, personal pocket money to spend entirely on themselves during the time they are there?

How many will collect this amount in CASH week after week—even if they stay in the hospital a year?

Very few. Yet if you act now, you can be one of the few. American Republic's amazing new "Super Direct Cash Plan" makes it not only possible, but easy.

Think of collecting CASH every week—cash and plenty of it—to spend any way you please. Cash to stick in your dressing gown or pajama pocket. Cash to toss in your bedside table. Cash to stash in your wallet or purse. Cash to deposit in your checking or savings account at the bank. Cash for all those comforts and luxuries that can make a serious illness or accident easier to bear, and even help toward speedy convalescence and recovery.

And think of this, too. Think how fast money goes, even when you are well. Think how much faster it can go with everything going out, nothing coming in. Then think how wonderfully $52.50 per week, or $105.00 per week, or $157.50 per week, in actual cash, whichever amount best fits your needs, could help out at home. Cash for the family food budget. Cash for car payments, cash for gas and oil, new tires, car upkeep and repairs. Cash for the children's school clothes. Cash to make rent or mortgage payments on the dot. As much as $8,212.50 cash if you are hospitalized for a full year!

But that's not all!

American Republic's new "Super Direct Cash Plan" now pays a lump-sum family benefit in the event of death—either accidental or natural, and regardless of whether you are in a hospital.

This new extra benefit can be available to persons age 18 to 72 with no medical examination. It can add hundreds and even thousands of dollars to the total cash benefits of your plan. And the longer you keep your "Super Direct Cash Plan" the more cash value it builds for you!

Imagine! Now in one low-cost plan... the 3 kinds of cash benefits every family needs for the dangerous age we live in! Income protection while you are hospitalized... family protection if you die... and cash values for the future.

Never before has there been an Americare® plan to equal this one!

Check all these advantages of just the health care benefits of American Republic's new "Super Direct Cash Plan":

- Available without medical examination and regardless of occupation.
- Pays you whether you are in the hospital for injury or illness.

- Pays in addition to any other insurance or income. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation or Medicare.
- Covers you during any hospital confinement for any accident from the date your policy is issued and for any illness that begins 30 days or more after date of issue. Unless of course your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when in a U. S. Government or Veterans Hospital.
- Offers you LifeGuarded Protection®. Your plan can never be cancelled by American Republic as long as you make timely payment of the current premium.
