Doctor Is Convicted Of Murder

By DON NORTH
NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — Dr. Carl Coppolino was convicted of second degree murder today in the drug murder of his wife, Rosalinda, and sentenced to life imprisonment.

Defense attorney F. Lee Bailey moved immediately for a new trial. His motion to continue Coppolino's $15,000 bail pending an appeal was denied and Coppolino was ordered to be taken to the state penitentiary.

Coppolino sat expressionless with his head in his hands as the verdict was delivered at 9:25 a.m. after less than four hours of deliberation.

Mary Coppolino, the wealthy divorcee he married after Rosalinda's death, also sat expressionless in a front row seat just behind her husband at the defense table.

Conviction of second degree murder carries a penalty of 20 years to life in prison.

"We the jury find Carl Coppolino guilty of murder in the second degree," the judge said. "We found him guilty."

"I thought, or hoped, that we were rushing along so say we're all through the trial," said prosecutor Frank Schaub.

Schaub's young assistant, William Steinhilber, said he was not surprised, because he thought the state had built a strong case against Coppolino, a serious juror that was on top of the testimony all the way.

Five Points North Change Being Studied

Proposals from the Idaho Department of Highways for revision of Five Points North in Twin Falls should be reconsidered in the line of more permanent improvements.

This was the verdict of members of the Twin Falls Highway Commission at a meeting this week to review the department's plan for the intersection.

As proposed by the Department of Highways, the intersection would be widened by 12 feet on the west side of Blue Lakes Boulevard North. This would allow for a separate right hand turn lane for traffic traveling west on U.S. 20 and U.S. 30 to the south and west.

City highway commission members said they felt this would be a temporary improvement, and before it is undertaken local representatives should sit with the district engineer in Shoshone to discuss more permanent and extensive improvements to correct all of the problems of the intersection.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said the right turn is not the See FIVE POINTS, P. 2, Col. 4

Rain And Snow Pelt Area, Snarl Traffic

A heavy spring storm spread rain and snow over Magic Valley Thursday night and early Friday morning causing flooding, severe traffic accidents and power and telephone failures. Twin Falls sheriff's officers were called to the Murtaugh area about 6 a.m. to help move traffic along U.S. Highway 30 because of slick roads and poor visibility. A large truck driven by Archie R. Turner, 41, 1979 Eldridge Ave., Twin Falls, left the highway at Murtaugh and crashed into a utility pole. Deputy Sheriff Tom Majors said the driver was unable to see the edge of the road because of the storm. Snow off the pavement. Damage to the truck was estimated at $250 but the driver was not injured.

Just east of the overpass between Hansen and Murtaugh, a bus headed with proceeding plant workers from Burley skidded from the highway and came to rest in a nearby field. The bus was owned by Rich-stein, Jerome. No one was injured. Only damage, officers said, was to the fence and field.

In the same area moisture washed away ground around the utility pole allowing the pole to slip and telephone lines to come to rest on the highway. Officers said all of the incidents occurred about 6 a.m. Friday.

In other parts of Magic Valley heavy snow and rain were reported. About a foot of new snow was reported in the South Hills at Magic Mountain during the past two days.

Clocks Will Go Ahead One Hour In 45 States Sunday

By The Associated Press
Forty-five states will go on Daylight Saving Time Sunday. The clocks will be put ahead one hour at 2 a.m. Saturday.

Most of the nation's estimated 198 million residents live in the 45 states. Only 10 states and the District of Columbia are exempt from the law.

The federal government will observe Daylight Saving Time from 2 a.m. last Sunday in April until 2 a.m. the last Sunday in October.

Not going along with the majority, and why.

Hawaii's legislators voted exemption, but a petition drive failed to get the question before the voters.

The federal government exempted Alaska and the Virgin Islands from the Uniform Time Act this year to allow time in the state. Gov. Roger D. Branigan petitioned the U.S. Department of Transportation, which administers the law, for exemption. See CLOCKS, Page 2, Col. 5

Westmoreland Says Stern Pressure Is Needed To Win War

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland told Congress today the only strategy that can defeat the Communist enemy in Vietnam "is one of unrelenting military, political and psychological pressure on his whole structure — at all levels."

This appeared a call for increased escalation, possibly including broader bombing of North Vietnam and commitment of more U.S. troops to battle.

Communists to fight on, and that his will cost the lives of American and allied soldiers.

The closest the four-star general came to this was to recall that "as I have said before, we are evaluating the enemy strategy."

It is evident to me that he believes our Achilles' heel is our resolve.

Then Westmoreland said to the senators and representatives that the "most important support is particularly pressure."

Westmoreland told the United States to stiffen its resolve.

Boxing Champion Refuses Induction

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Heavyweight champion Cassius Clay refused Army induction today and faced a possible five-year-prison-sentence-and-loss-of-his-title.

Col. J. D. McKee, commander of the Houston induction center, announced that Clay, who contends he spends 90 per cent of his time as a Black Muslim preacher, had refused to take the traditional step for symbolizing entrance into the armed services.

U.S. Atty. Morton Sufstman said he would begin immediate criminal action, but estimated that legal procedures would take from 30 to 60 days even to get an indictment.

Clay then it may be two years before this can be fought out in the courts," Sufstman said. "Meanwhile, Clay, or Muhammad Ali if you wish, will be free to keep on fighting and preaching."

Education Board Votes To Discontinue Program

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — The Board of Education voted unanimously Thursday to suspend "with regret" the state-wide continuing education program.

The program, formerly known variously as adult education or extension courses, involves college-level courses taught in communities throughout the state, mostly at night.

Dufford said the appropriation of $383,000 for the combined program.

Dufford said the appropriation was $100,000 less than the amount requested by the board. He said the board would seek a reactivation of the program in the next legislative session.

He said that the program cannot be funded within the budgetary limits of this biennium.

Dufford reviewed the recent history of the program at the beginning of approximately two hours of discussion, involving the board.

He said that until about two years ago the University of Idaho and Idaho State University operated separate continuing education programs, which were supported by their institutions.

There was considerable overlapping. He noted, for instance, that the University of Idaho offered separate courses in Soda Springs, and Idaho State also extended into the university's backyard.

He said that the two separate programs were consolidated into a single state program with headquarters in Boise.

Instead of providing funds from the university budgets, the board asked the legislature to provide the money.

Peril Is Copilot

As was the case with the three American astronauts who perished in a space capsule, Copia-Komorov, it was a little thing that went wrong during a presumably routine stage that brought disaster to the Soviet Union's first manned space flight in more than two years.

Astronauts Grissom, White and Chaffin died on the ground during a pre-flight check of an electrical malfunction. Russia's Vladimir Komarov was killed when his capsule's parachute malfunctioned within the earth's atmosphere, after he had already survived the perils of launching, orbiting and re-entry.

Komarov's death thus reaffirms the lesson of the Apollo tragedy: There is no safe moment in space flying. From launch to landing, in practice or in actual flight, astronauts or cosmonauts are constantly menaced by the unforeseen the unplanned-for—the gadget that breaks down, the wire or harness strap that fails to perform as it should.

There is a natural temptation to speculate where this accident now leaves Russia in the moon race. There is evidence that was not well with Komarov even before he attempted to return to earth. He was testing a new capsule, as were the Apollo astronauts. A planned orbital rendezvous with Soyuz 1 did not come off for some reason. There is also evidence that this was not Russia's first space fatality.

No one in America's space program is gladdened by what happened to Komarov, however. They are too familiar with the work and sweat and tears that go into a space shot, they have lived too closely with the heavy responsibility that is theirs in having a human life in their hands.

Though they are engaged in a race that is an offspring of their country's ideological rivalry with the Soviet Union, and though they definitely intend to win that race, like scientists in any other field, their interest supersedes national boundaries.

Our own astronauts, personally acquainted with the perils of space flight—can only feel respect for Komarov's bravery and sadness at his unfortunate death.

Neither these four deaths nor others that will inevitably come in the future will deter men from reaching the moon and going beyond. They may serve to temper the urgency of that dream, however, and that will be all for the good.

The moon and the planets and the stars will be up there for a long time. No man's life, whether Russian or American, is worth getting there today rather than tomorrow, or next year rather than the year after.

WE MUST BUY WHAT WAS IT?

The head of a big advertising agency has disclosed that television tycoons will soon experiment with fewer but longer commercials.

Conceding for the sake of argument that television commercials CAN be longer than some of them seem to be, it is interesting to compare the potentials of the proposed three-minute or even 10-minute—yes, 10-MINUTE—air plug.

A homedrive survey indicates that a reasonably agile television viewer can in three minutes host him in his chair, waddle briskly to the kitchen, open the icebox door, make a quick inventory of what he sees, grab enough food and drink to sustain him for another hour, and be back in his chair at the time the movie of the night is resumed.

In a 10-minute commercial spot, the same viewer can do all of the above, make a phone call, splash a little water on his face to keep him awake, and maybe have time to ask his wife where their teenage kid is before pop has to be back on duty in front of the Set.

Now the average television viewer is going to appreciate this and will warm to the feeling for the advertiser who so thoughtfully allows him so much time to regroup himself for further viewing.

The customer relationship may, in fact, be so enhanced that the viewer will be glad to see the ad, have a chance all evening to find out what the advertiser was selling.

Especially if the viewer ever finds out that the thoughtful advertiser's product is a loyal brand of the snack the viewer grabbed out of the icebox to munch on, he enjoyed the entertainment provided by the thoughtful advertiser whose product the grateful viewer is eschewing in spite of chewing.

But, as a wise advertiser once said, you can't win 'em all.

THE GOLDEN EGG

WASHINGTON — Democratic National Committee headquarters is displaying a premature piece over Sen. Charles Percy's possible nomination to Michigan's 3rd Congressional District for the 1968 Republican Presidential nomination. The technicians are Percy's rising popularity as another contribution to Lyndon Johnson's own campaign.

Only a few months ago, there was fear that moderate Republicans would unite early behind Lyndon Johnson and thus veto the nomination of a candidate who might clobber LBJ. Today, however, the technicians are busy.

Percy will split the moderates and set off a dog fight for the nomination that could wind up with a split-term Congress. The nomination of Dixie Nixon and in Democratic circles, Nixon is the one candidate the pro-figures Johnson can beat going away.

WHERE PERCY IS — Percy has been the junior senator from Illinois for less than four months, but his campaign for the advance to Michigan, and with his own system, has been the darling of the Michigan Republicans, which is where the power is.

For example, when Percy introduced his bill to help the poor buy their own homes and apartments, Capitol Republicans reacted as though to the best of their ability to block the bill. The press conference, Percy's bill was praised by both Senate Minority Leader Ev Dirksen and House GOP Leader Gerald Ford. All 26 Republican members of the House endorsed the bill, and nine Senate Republicans took the floor to hail the measure as a lower-class millennium in anti-poverty efforts.

LITTLE CHILD, 48, SHALL LEAD — This is the name of the bill. The bill was introduced by Percy, including the inimitable Bobby Kennedy, has over received so much attention merely by introducing a piece of legislation. (Bobby got attention because of his last name.) Even the Democrats joined in the tribute, with Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield assuring Percy that all would be done to expedite its consideration, and Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, chairman of the Committee on Banking and Currency, setting hearings on the bill for this summer.

In fact, Percy is doing so well that by convention time, 1968, he just might whip that smile on his face. He is 48 years younger than his 48-year-old brother, and he looks 10 years younger than he is. And like George Romney and Wendell Willkie, he has the support of the voters in this capitalist country, and he will likely re-act.

OVER TO DEATH — With the full cooperation of Senator Dirksen, Percy has been given special committee plums—Banking and Currency, Agriculture, and Education. He is also on the Economic Committee. From these points of vantage, the GOP's answer to Jack Kennedy can be seen. The headlines so important to a Presidential campaign in the next 18 months.

Furthermore, Percy probably is the only Republican in the Senate who could be accepted by the GOP's conservative wing as a compromise candidate. That wing has never forgiven the Democrats for failing to support him, whereas Percy did so and predictably was defeated for governor of Illinois by Democrat Otto Gewirtz.

The Democrats' fate of today is based on the wounds a Percy-Romney fight presumably would inflict on the party. But there would be no doubt that the GOP would be in a position to take over the party. Percy, Romney and Rockefeller could hardly refuse to support a candidate in their own right. Percy would be a comfort in the knowledge that it had toppled Romney. Besides, Goldwater himself has said that he would support Percy if he were to be nominated.

The Democrats should take another look before dancing in the streets.

LEGISLATION WOULD PROTECT SAWTOOTH
Introduced in the Senate is a bill sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Mich., that would create the Sawtooth National Recreation Area. It represents a compromise between advocates of an earlier proposal for a 700,000-acre area and those who would like to continue grazing and other private uses in the area.

The bill offers a reasonable solution to Idaho's need to protect the beauty of the magnificent Sawtooth country. It would leave lands in private ownership but would permit grazing under supervision of the Secretary of Agriculture and the chief of the U.S. Forest Service, so long as it does not unduly impair the natural beauty of the area.

Zoning authority would rest with the Forest Service, but the bill would require the Forest Service to hold public hearings on proposed zoning. The bill also provides for a preliminary standard proposed by the Forest Service. These would permit a structure every one acre in the area, or every five acres in open country. This could mean a lot of cabins. Limited development of this density might be justified, but the area shouldn't have a small city under the trees.

The idea of a small city under the trees is a better way. But the Forest Service must accept the proposal. The bill is sponsored by Sen. Charles Percy, R-Mich., and is known as the Sawtooths—The Statesman.

DILUTING MINNESOTA DOCTORAL DEGREES
A bill to allow the State College Board to include programs at the colleges leading to doctoral degrees in the State College Board is scheduled for final action today. At present the only way to get a Ph.D. is to maintain its prestige, it must be granted by an institution with a Ph.D. degree, and the academic staff that confers the degree must have a high level of knowledge. In the academic world, it is a matter of common knowledge that the degree itself is of little meaning. It is what is behind it.

Opinions Of A Conservative

Americans have now had a chance to reflect on their annual ordeal at the hands of the tax collectors. Up until the close deadline there was no time to reflect on anything beyond how to wade through the red-tape forest that our taxes have become.

As usual, the tax collectors boasted of how wonderful it is that Americans voluntarily shell out their cash each year. The collectors and the payers are such good friends and that taxes really aren't as high as we think.

Today And Tomorrow

By WALTER LIPPMANN

Konrad Adenauer can best be appreciated, I think, if we recognize him as first of all a defender of the Roman Empire, a man who has remained loyal to the Germanic Bismarck and the Hohenzollerns.

He was a Rhenlander in the sense that his deepest personal attachment was to the European lands which once lay within the borders of the Roman Empire. Thus he was, as so many have been saying, a passionate "European."

Europe for him did not really go beyond the Roman frontiers and did not include Eastern Europe. Nor, in fact, did Adenauer have a fervid attachment to Eastern Germany with its Protestant and Socialist majorities.

Therefore, Adenauer paid only lip service to the idea of German reunification. The alternative was a simple choice which includes only a part of Europe and of Germany, defines his historic achievements.

While he achieved this much, the other side of his lack of sympathy for East Germany was that he had begun to see clearly into the future of Europe. His last great achievement was to undo the wrongs that Hitler had done to make a peace of reconciliation between Western Germany and Eastern Europe.

But Adenauer did not see beyond that. Unlike Gene Charles de Gaulle, who came to realize that the hero of the world for that it will always be honored and gratefully remembered.

Q — Is it true that some kidney stones do not show up in X-ray films even though they are there?
A — Stones that contain calcium oxalate or phosphate are radiopaque and will be seen on X-ray films. However, uric acid stones are not radiopaque and will not be seen on X-ray films.

Q — Will calcium pills taken daily to prevent leg cramps or cramps of sodium cause kidney stones?
A — These drugs may favor the formation of stones in persons who are known stone formers only if the vitamin fails to keep his urine acid.

Q — What causes renal colic?
A — A renal calculus is a kidney stone. Although a persistent pain, it is not a disease. It is a condition that causes pain. It is a condition that causes pain.

WASHINGTON — Searching for a word to rebuke Sen. Thomas Dodd, members of the Senate Ethics Committee could hardly do better than to use the word "obscurely." It would be softer than either "censure" or "condemnation."

Crossword puzzle fans might know but most of us would have to go to a dictionary to learn the word "obscurely." It would be softer than either "censure" or "condemnation."

While he has been flagrantly in defiance of the canons of the House and the standards of decent conduct, the Congressional abuses of which Powell has accused are rampant. They grow out of seniority giving most committee chairmanships to southerners from one-party districts. And with notable exceptions those chairmen are autocrats of the committee room who flagrantly misuse their power.

The most conspicuous example, as has often been pointed out, is the case of the late Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee. He, not long ago at a time he was a reformer, was joined by his colleagues and a sampling from the executive branch in a resolution censured by Speaker John McCormack as the gift of the ages of statesmanship to resounding cheers.

The election next year may bring about alterations even more radical than those of last Nov. 8 when 47 Democratic House seats were lost. If political parties are to be reformed, the system of the House to be fed up with all are the crowd there could come one of those great sweeps that radically change the face of the whole structure. As one indication of the high moral tone more radical than those of last Nov. 8 when 47 Democratic House seats were lost.

Part of the score in the Dodd case is that the damage done to the Democratic party and to President Johnson. Dodd was Johnson's close ally in his days before.

Also, all the stories about "the most corrupt" tax collectors are setting work to catch every last penny of every citizen's tax dollar. It is calculated to strike anything but terror into anyone's heart — no matter how conscientious. After all, the tax collector is a lawbreaker. It is likely that there is an inadvertent error of some sort in virtually every tax report.

Finally there is the point about how low taxes actually are compared to all the wonderful things we get in return. While millions of Americans get some sort of handout from the federal government, the money is no bargain and certainly no gift.

The average American in order to pay his taxes to all levels of government, must work 20 hours a day. Of every $30 you earn in a day, $2.25 is going to have to be paid to some tax collector. The rest is yours. It is a bargain you are getting.

The tax "bargain" is the high cost of living. It is the cost of household budget. It only takes on the average, I hear 26 minutes of the day to work to pay for household and housing costs. "As everyone now should know, taxes are a tough, high and hurtful gouge out of our income. Why pretend otherwise?"

WASHINGTON (NEA) — A few weeks ago, possibly Chicago, Negro leaders quickly passed a firm request to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to lead a march in his controversial open-house marches into all-white neighborhoods.

King's earlier had signified his intent to return and march again into suburban Cicero, scene of one of the worst racial riots in Chicago's history during the turbulent 1968 summer.

The decision to urge King to come back was taken at a meeting of the Urban League in Chicago, including leadership of the Urban League, the NAACP and a union of ministers.

Indirectly, King is not long before he made his famous speech in the city of Birmingham, U.S. role in Vietnam and calling this country the "greatest purveyor of violence in the world today."

There has been at least one other meeting of leading Chicago Negroes, bent on heading off trouble for the city this year. But in this instance, King's part in the 1966 events was deplored, no message was conveyed to him.

King's great successes, it is argued, were achieved as a moral absolutist, crusading in righteous tones for basic civil rights in Montgomery, Birmingham, Selma and other places. King's part in the 1966 events was deplored, no message was conveyed to him.

Saturn Moon Rocket Tests Are Delayed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Development problems will delay the first unmanned test flights of the Saturn 5 moon rocket and a lunar-landing vehicle until the last half of this year, the space agency says.

Both launches previously were scheduled to occur before the end of June.

The 360-foot-tall Saturn 5 is the type of rocket American plans to use to send three Apollo astronauts into orbit around the moon. The moon-landing craft, called a Lunar Module, will carry two of the Apollo crew from there to the moon's surface.

Source said the Saturn 5 is now scheduled for its initial test flight in mid-August. The Apollo-legged lunar-landing craft is not expected to rocket into orbit on its first unmanned test flight until the September or early October.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said only the two launches had slipped from the "second quarter" (April-June) to the "third quarter" (July-September) of the year.

Numerous problems have been encountered in developing the moon-landing vehicle, the second stage of the Saturn 5 and an unmanned Apollo spacecraft which is to ride atop the first Saturn 5.

The Apollo-1 spacecraft fired that the Air Force Lt. Col. Virgil I. Grissom and Edward H. White II and Navy Lt. Cmdr. Roger Chaffee his main job, the space agency more sensitive to problem areas, sources said.

Klansmen's Conviction Is Upheld

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals upheld the criminal conspiracy conviction of two Ku Klux Klansmen for the slaying of Mrs. Viola Gregg Liuzzo in the 1965 civil rights march from Selma, Ala.

The appeals court affirmed the federal District Court convictions of Collier Leroy Wilkins Jr. of Fairfield, Ala., and Eugene B. Bessmer of Bessemer, Ala., in a decision returned Thursday.

A white jury convicted Wilkins, Thomas and another Klansman, William Orville Eaton of Bessemer who died Dec. 3, 1965 while the appeal was pending in connection with the death of Mrs. Liuzzo.

The woman, from Detroit, was killed by bursts of .22 caliber and .38 caliber bullets as she fought civil rights workers on U.S. 82, the Selma to Montgomery march route, on March 27, 1965.

Spalding Park Move Is Halted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said on Thursday he had halted efforts of the National Park Service to pressure Spalding to his families into quick sale of their homes.

A headquarters building for the Nez Perce National Historical Park was to be built on the site of the 15 homes.

Church said spokesmen for the residents told him they were threatened with immediate condemnation proceedings if they did not agree to terms offered by the agency.

New Battle Of Sexes Escalates In Vietnam

By TOM TEDE
LONG BINH, Vietnam (NEA) — A kind of battle of the sexes is escalating rapidly as a softy spotlight on this war and the frustrated U. S. military command seems to be losing it.

Each week almost as many GIs are put out of action because of ill-fated fraternization as are wounded in combat.

Loneliness is the problem. AWOLs are increasing. So are brawls and brawls. And venereal disease is almost endemic.

Thus far, authorities have been almost helpless. From time to time a crackdown is announced but they have been sadly inept.

A battalion commander in the 24th Infantry, for example, recently proclaimed his intention to punish wrong-doing soldiers in his unit by writing to their parents.

"A company sergeant in the same division once lined night-lit offenders up for ridicule before a full-blown unit formation. And 196th Brigade troops in Tay Ninh are strictly forbidden "even to drink soda water" in that small Cambodian border village.

Such hard-nosed solutions invariably fail. And often they serve only to perpetuate the problem. Soldiers who know their commanders are particularly hard on romantic delinquents may suppress their condition rather than report to their staff.

One of the latter cases, an Army sergeant, Four, contacted a social disease and waited three months before submitting.

The medic asked him why, of course. "I was scared," he answered. Of what? "The captain," he said, "don't like it at all."

Medics say the man was in bad shape. What would have been a 7-day-cure, was complicated by the time lapse and the soldier had to be shipped out of the country for treatment.

Not all commanders here approach the age-old problem bluntly. But even the more liberal-minded are hamstringing by the complexities.

A captain in the 173rd Airborne felt he had a correct solution when he ordered each of his men to take a free prophylactic on trips anywhere outside the base camp perimeter.

He had to abandon the tactic when several astonished parents wrote to ask just "what sort of an outfit" he thought he was running.

Still, the parents may yet have to swallow their objections to such policies and trust in their offspring. Medical and military officials alike agree that the problem will be solved only by admitting it exists and requires overt attention.

The First Division has recognized the indefatigability of camp followers and, though they don't encourage extra-curricular relationships, they allow them under regulations.

Thus, old ways are retained and U. S. casualties in this unfortunate conflict continue to grow.

outside the city limits. There methods would be employed. But the prospect is hardly immediate. All sides are worried about the public relations aspect.

If a woman fails to follow the rules or a GI is cheated or discarded, the subject at fault is banished.

The same kind of solution may one day be put in a more rigorous scale here. Allied representatives have already approved plans for the centralization of bars and prostitutes in the Saigon area.

The proposal is to move all Saigon-based entertainment houses to a guarded compound

Jubilant Dutch Celebrate Birth Of Male Throne Heir

UTRECHT, Netherlands (AP)—The jubilant Dutch cheered, drank gratis and declared a school holiday today to celebrate the birth of the first male heir to the throne to be born in 116 years. "The prince, still unnamed, was born at 11:05 a.m. to Queen Beatrix Thursday night. Doctors called him a "robust and healthy" baby. Several hundred persons had gathered around the Academic Hospital in Utrecht to await the birth. When it was announced, chanting "Orange boven" (Orange up) for the royal house of Orange. Other crowds tied up traffic in the Hague, seat of the Dutch government. Church bells rang and cannons boomed 101 times. A girl would have been given only 51 guns. Queens have reigned in Holland since 1890 and it may be the 21st century before the new prince—named Jo—will take the throne. He is expected to take the throne in seven years when his mother, Queen Juliana, reaches age 67. Beatrix is only 29. Sources at the hospital indicated the delivery was by Caesarian section and took about 30 minutes. A medical bulletin said the condition of the crown prince was satisfactory. Prof. Willem Paul Plate, who supervised the delivery, said the baby weighed 8 pounds, 7 ounces. A nurse said he had black hair. Beatrix was married March 10, 1962, to a German, Claus von Amberg, who was made a prince of the Netherlands. The marriage was "unpopular" with some Dutchmen because he had served in the German army in the latter part of World War II when Holland was occupied by the Nazis. By coincidence, a sister of Beatrix gave birth to a son Thursday in Germany. Claus and Queen Juliana were in the hospital when the baby was born. Juliana and her husband, Prince Bernhard, another former German, appeared later on the balcony of the royal palace in Amsterdam and were cheered by hundreds. Juliana is the only child of the late Queen Wilhelmina, who abdicated in her favor in 1949. Prince Bernhard, who died in 1962, ascended to the throne after her father, King Willem III, died in 1890. Willem also had two sons, but Prince Maurits—Alexander—died in 1850 and Prince Alexander died in 1861. The new prince is Juliana's first grandchild. His name will be announced at the official registration of the birth before representatives of the government and the mayor of Utrecht, Dr. J. De Ranitz.

Dodd Has Lonely Days Ahead

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — There are lonely days ahead for white-haired Sen. Thomas J. Dodd as he enters his ninth year in the Senate — developed a reputation as a loner.
Now, alone, he is preparing his defense.
The Connecticut Democrat stands accused before his 99 Senate colleagues of misleading political contributions of financial misconduct — warranting their censure.
No senator has spoken in his behalf.

What would it mean? Dodd maintains only his Senate colleagues can answer that.
Dodd will be 68 in two weeks. He stands 5 feet 7 inches, weighs about 170 pounds. A lawyer and one-time FBI agent, he wears dark suits, a heavy gold watch chain invariably dangles from his lapel.
He took part in the prosecution of Nazi war criminals at Nuremberg, Germany, and recommended the counterpart of the House Committee on Un-American Activities, as chairman of the Senate subcommittee to investigate juvenile delinquency, he campaigned for gun control legislation. He also is a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, but seldom attends its sessions.

State Rests Murder Case Against Lance, Wallace In Salt Lake City

By LARRY KURTZ
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The state rested its murder case against Myron Lance and Walter Kelbach after calling a dozen witnesses Thursday, including a third eyewitness to a Dec. 21 shooting spree.
The defense will begin its case Saturday morning, following the Arbor Day recess.
Lance, 25, and Kelbach, 25, both parolees of the Utah State Prison, are charged with first-degree murder in the deaths of James Stenmore and Fred Lillie. The two were killed by gunfire during a robbery at Lally's Tavern in Salt Lake City.

In wrapping up his case, Dist. Atty. Jay Banks called on the nation of the tavern's several policemen involved in the arrest of Lance and Kelbach at a road-block early Dec. 22, a tavern owner who said both men had recently fired guns, and an FBI firearms expert from Washington, D. C.
Banks built his case around testimony of eyewitnesses to the robbery and shooting. He also relied heavily on arresting officers, homicide investigator James Stenmore and Fred Lillie. The two were killed by gunfire during a robbery at Lally's Tavern in Salt Lake City.

Mitsunaga moved for a mistrial on the ground that he had been denied access to certain state evidence. Judge Bryant Croft denied the motion, ruling that the state is not required to open its files to defense counsel before trial.
The judge also denied Mitsunaga's motion for a three-day continuance. The defense attorney said he needed the time to prepare an intelligent cross-examination of William Zimmers, the FBI firearms expert who said a spent slug he tested had been fired from a gun taken from Lance at the roadblock.
The tavern patron, Charles Honey, said he had seen Lance for 15 or 20 years. He said he greeted Lance at the tavern, was later introduced to Kelbach, and offered to sell them some recording tape for a recorder the two had won in a tavern bowling contest.
He said Kelbach agreed to buy the tape and to pick it up the next night. Lance and Kelbach then left with the recorder, Honey said, and he did not notice them in the tavern again until he heard a shot.
Then, Honey said, he saw Kelbach on his left with a gun. Honey said he looked the other way and saw Lance holding a gun on the bartender.
Honey quoted Lance as saying, "This is a stickup." The bartender then placed the cash drawer on the table and Lance stuffed money into his pocket, Honey said.
This was similar to testimony given by the earlier eye-witnesses; tavern owner and bartender Lloyd Graven, and patron Vert Meads.

Such centers would be located at several points in the valley, and would be financed from funds appropriated by both state and federal legislatures and from local sources.

Greece's Leftist Leader Says Treatment Is Excellent

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
ATHENS (AP) — The military regime allowed reporters today to see leftist leader George Papadopoulos in military hospital and he told them "my treatment is excellent."
The visit was permitted to dispel rumors that the ex-prisoner was being ill-treated or on the verge of death.
A member of the military left-wing said Thursday night Papadopoulos and an anti-monarchist son, Andreas, will be released from custody in a few days.
The government permitted groups of newsmen and photographers to enter Papadopoulos' two-room suite in suits. While he sat slumped in a chair, wearing pajamas and a bathrobe, a guard with a pistol on his belt stood in an adjoining room.

Newsmen were permitted to ask only two questions: "How are you?" and "How are you being treated by security forces?"
Papadopoulos seemed to have lost his old spark. In a weak voice he replied: "I have no contact with my guards. They are simply guarding me."
A nurse said he no longer had a fever and was in good health. He was interested in the hospital 24 hours after his arrest last Friday. He had been suffering from illness.
Col. George Papadopoulos, minister of the new government's Premier Constantine Karamanlis, told a news conference earlier 79-year-old Papadopoulos, whose feud with King Constantine kept Greece in turmoil for nearly two years — "has lost nothing of his old humor" in military hospital.
Papadopoulos and 21 other political leaders seized during the coup were being detained in hotels outside Athens.
It was the first disclosure of the whereabouts of the two top Papadopoulos since the coup was launched last Friday. The army took over because it feared the Papadopoulos and Premier Constantine-Union-party, largest-in-Parliament, would win the parliamentary elections scheduled for May.
Andreas Papadopoulos has been ordered to testify in a civilian investigation of an alleged leftist conspiracy against the monarchy.
The American-educated economist is accused of being a leader of Aspida (shield), a secret organization of leftist army officers charged with plotting to overthrow the monarchy, take Greece out of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization and make it a socialist country.
Papadopoulos disclosed that 500 Communist suspects rounded up since the coup will be tried at an unspecified date by a "committee of security" headed by regular judges.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am 50 years old and have had my eye on this married man of 45 for more than 24 years and my children, two or three, have been married. My husband works nights and I get tired looking at the four walls practicing all the time. About 3 years ago I called up this man to come and see me when I'm all alone. He's really nice looking and dresses up so nice and talks sweet, too. Well at first he seemed to like me and he'd come over about three times a week. Then all of a sudden he always had an excuse why he couldn't make it. He works in a garage and he would tell the guys to tell me he was sorry when he called.

I finally got so mad at him I called up his wife and told her all about us. She said, "You aren't the first one and you won't be the last" and hung up on me.

I just can't forget this man. Abby, how can I get back to CRAZY FOR HIM

DEAR CRAZY: You can't, so you had better try to forget him. And quit calling him. You have too much free time, lady. If you don't like the night TV, find a job to keep yourself busy, or you're apt to find yourself out on the street with no husband.

DEAR ABBY: My sister-in-law was brought up in Boston and she says it is "bad taste" or at best "small-townish" and provincial" to publish death notices reading "cherished daughter, beloved wife, or devoted husband, etc."

"cherished, beloved, or devoted" there is no reason to advertise it as strangers don't care about the family relationship, and friends who know find such descriptions hilariously funny. WRADER IN CINCINNATI

DEAR READER: Your sister-in-law must have a peculiar sense of humor. There is nothing "hilariously funny" about a death notice in any language.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to "Only Her Fiancé" — who was annoyed because his girl friend suddenly came up with contacts. He thought as long as he didn't object to her wearing glasses she shouldn't have both eyes and contacts. Her "sudden wifely" made you think? Well, my I say that contacts are not worn only as a cosmetic aid? They act as a "bridge" over the eye and correct the vision from worsening as quickly as it would have without lenses. Before you get contacts, had my glasses prescribed changed three times in 18 months.

I've been wearing contacts for nearly five years and I haven't had the prescription changed once! And my vision is far better now than it ever was with glasses. GICI

The cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Cupid apertures holding bouquets of white freesias, blue Starburst chrysanthemums, and white elegance with blue candles flanked the cake. Fern and flowers were around the cake "and" the edge of the table. A silver coffee service and punch bowl completed the table appointments.

Mrs. E. E. White, aunt of the bride, out and served the cake. Mrs. George Urdahl served coffee and Mrs. John White, cousin of the bride, served the punch. Janice Caran and Carol Egbert were in charge of the gifts.

Seed, Soil, Sowers To Be Dedicated

A service of dedication of "The Seed, the Soil and the Sowers" will be presented Rural Life Sunday at the Buhl and Castleford Methodist Churches, Rev. Paul LaRue announced Friday.

The Castleford service begins at 9:30 a.m. and the Buhl service at 11 a.m.

Several hymns of the rural spirit will be sung by the congregation and the young people of the church will lead the dedicatory services.

Rural Life Sunday is the continuation today of the ancient "Rogation" festival. In European villages on the fifth Sunday after Easter, the village pastor would lead his congregation through the countryside, blessing the crops which had been planted and the livestock which had been born. The service today is planned to recognize the interdependence of God and man in raising food and fiber for human needs.

Rural Life Sunday is also observed as "Soil Stewardship Sunday" by the soil conservation districts. All farm organizations and persons interested in developing the values of rural life are invited to the services.

Eavesdrop Opinions Are Voiced

POCAETELO (AP) — Opposite viewpoints on whether electronic eavesdropping should be legal under any circumstances were voiced Thursday night at the 18th annual Institute of Government at Idaho State University.

Dr. Edward M. Goldberg, associate professor of political science at California State College at Los Angeles, took the position that any kind of eavesdropping is an invasion of privacy and unconstitutional under the Fourth Amendment to the Constitution.

Dr. George M. Bell, acting dean of the University of Idaho law school, said our society was too complex to hold an absolute view and ban all eavesdropping. "It should be strictly limited to view our own privacy 100 percent and do away with all eavesdropping but the right of eavesdropping should not be considered as being broad enough to guarantee absolute solitude," Bell said. He said that the right of privacy is becoming a more complex and organized for absolutes.

Goldberg said he was concerned over the use of wiretaps and electronic bugging because there has been a "massive invasion of our right to be left alone as the result of the sophisticated new devices."

Planning A Path For Distribution Of The Two Weekly Magazines

Jehovah's Witnesses May Be Largest "Publishing" Firm

The Jehovah's Witnesses of Kingdom Hall, 440 Madison St., Twin Falls, is probably the biggest publishing firm in the area.

But it is not an ordinary type of publishing. As Vernon Shaw, overseer of the church explained, each member is expected to "publish" the good news of the Saviour, Jesus Christ, many hours a month.

Publishing includes door to door ministry with a short sermon of three to five minutes, talking with people for Christ, and calling back on people who seem interested.

During the summer, 10 to 15 young people from 10 to 18 years of age participate in vacation pioneering, participating each day in the door to door ministry. Housewives and people of all walks of life contribute time to publishing. Each member of the church strives to publish at least 10 hours a month.

The Jehovah's Witnesses have no paid ministers. The head of the Twin Falls congregation is Vernon Shaw, who is overseer.

Other church officers include: Jim. Partridge, assistant overseer; Leo Holcomb, Bible study servant; W. R. Schmitt, ministry school servant; Carl Benson, literature servant; and Robert Holcomb, magazine territory study conductor.

The Jehovah's Witnesses formed a congregation in Twin Falls over 30 years ago. They have been located at Kingdom Hall for 14 years. The church supports branch offices, numbering about 100, throughout the world and a missionary home. Missionaries are graduates of the Watchtower Bible School, held at the church headquarters in Brooklyn, N.Y.

Missionaries graduate in six months in classes of 60 to 70 students. They are sent to all countries of the world wherever the need is. The students are taught Spanish, but must learn the language of the country where they are sent.

Two magazines are official organs of the church. Watchtower Magazine is dedicated to helping persons see the happenings in the world as tied in with Bible prophecy. The Awake Magazine is a news magazine of up to date happenings, with articles designed for appreciation of God's creations.

Mr. Shaw and his wife, Marilyn, have two sons, Timothy, 6, who attends Morrisdale School, and Edwin, 3.

Wallace Says He Defends State Rights

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Former Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama says he's a defender of states' rights, not a racist. "I have never in my public life made a speech reflecting on the rights of people because of their race, creed, color or religion," he told an audience of Pittsburgh business and professional men Thursday night.

Wallace said that as governor of Alabama he tried to block encroachment by the federal government. "We don't like it because the federal courts have stepped into every phase of government that should be left to the respective states," he said. "That's all we're talking about — the right of home rule or territorial integrity."

The audience of 1,000 applauded throughout his speech. Some occasionally stood or cheered. "A line of seven or eight men was at the front of the speaker's table throughout the meal after the men had left their $15-a-plate dinners to shake hands with Wallace. The former governor's mood, touched only slightly, grew cold as he greeted them."

The reception at Pittsburgh, his second stop on a Northern speaking tour, was in marked contrast to his greeting at Syracuse University Wednesday. That audience, composed largely of college students, interrupted him with jeers and boos.

The resolution opposing the measure restricting the sale and possession of firearms was allegedly "violated the second amendment to the U.S. Constitution. The document contended that restrictions of firearms would tend to reduce the hunting enjoyed by Americans."

That reduction in hunting would "impair the economic welfare of the state of Idaho where the pursuit of wild game represents a thriving industry."

That the legislation would "only restrict, unnecessarily, law-abiding citizens, leaving the criminal at large free to steal or smuggle firearms at will."

Copies of the resolution were sent to Idaho's congressional delegates and Gov. Don W. Samuelson, as well as Dodd and Celler.

Idaho State To Wind Up Spring Grid Drills With Scrimmage In Twin Falls

Football makes its first spring appearance in Magic Valley, perhaps in history, Thursday when Idaho State University winds up its spring drills with an intrasquad scrimmage in Twin Falls. Announcement of the game came from James Blake, Twin Falls member of the ISU alumni board of directors, and football coach Leo McKillip. The possibility of a May football game had everyone wondering when the last time one occurred in Twin Falls and no one came up with any dates. "Idaho State and the coaching staff are very happy to be bringing the game to Magic Valley," Blake said. "It will give the area fans a good preview of what to expect next fall in the regular season and also a chance for some of the team boys on the club to perform closer to home."

Jenkins, winning his third and half of the Cubs' six victories, struck out the side in the first inning and fanned 10 as the Cubs balanced their record at 8-4 for the season.

The Cubs scored two of their runs in the sixth to saddle veteran Jack Fisher with his second loss in three decisions. Gene Beckert opened with a double, his second hit, and scored on Lee Thomas' single. Ron Santo, who earlier broke a double play slump with a double, got across on a combination of Thomas' safety and Bud Harrelson's boot of Chuck Hiller's throw attempting a force play on Clarence Jones' grounder.

CLEVELAND (AP)—Willie Mitchell's pinch double broke a 4-4 tie in the eighth inning and lifted Cleveland to a 5-4 decision over Minnesota Thursday night.

Gus Gil doubled with one out in the eighth against Al Worthington and Leon Wagner was purposely walked. After Larry Brown forced Wagner at second, Jim Harkness, McGowan and Jimmie Foxx were all out.

McDowell, who struck out 12, including two in the first two innings, had an early 4-0 lead before Minnesota came back.

Cleveland jumped in front with a run in the second and three more in the fifth. Zolfo Versalles' throwing error allowed one of the runs to score in the fifth, and a base on balls walk forced in another.

Bob Allison took Minnesota back in the game with a three-run homer in the sixth. He connected following walks to Andy Kosco and Harmon Killebrew.

Bradley Signs Pact With Knickerbockers

NEW YORK (AP)—Bill Bradley, the Rhodes scholar from Princeton, agreed to play pro basketball with the New York Knickerbockers for a four-year contract believed to call for close to $500,000. Although the 23-year-old Bradley will be called up for duty in the Air Force for six months from July until January, the Knicks expect him to be ready for action in the latter part of next season.

Bradley, who returned to Oxford University in England to continue his studies until June, was present at a noon news conference.

No salary terms were announced but Irving Felt, chairman of the board of Madison Square Garden which owns the Knicks, was quoted in a mimeographed handout as saying "my knowledge of the contract is for one of the largest money deals in the history of professional athletes in a team sport."

As several big league baseball players get $100,000 or more a year, the estimate on Bradley's salary with fringe benefits went as high as $500,000 for the four-year period.

Bradley, an All-America player at Princeton and a member of the 1964 Olympic team, is a 6-foot-5, 205-pounder from Crystal City, Mo. He averaged over 30 points a game at Princeton and played amateur basketball with the Simonsville team at Milan in Italy while studying in England in 1965-66. He did not play with a regular team last winter.

"I played at Oxford," said Bradley, already wearing a light blue blazer with "N.Y. Knicks" over the breast pocket. Originally drafted by the Knicks when he still was at Princeton, Bradley surprised pro offers when he won the Rhodes scholarship. He said he might try to go to law school while playing basketball.

"I made no firm decision. Asked why he had decided to play pro ball, Bradley said, "The main factor was that I really found, during my two years away, something that I suspected all along. I love the game of basketball. I know this may be considered trite but it is the way I feel."

"Last winter I had refrained from playing for about three weeks before I went to a gym all alone. In a few minutes I was both teams, the sportscaster, the crowd and my own personal critic."

Asked why he had decided to play pro ball, Bradley said, "The main factor was that I really found, during my two years away, something that I suspected all along. I love the game of basketball. I know this may be considered trite but it is the way I feel."

Dodgers Rip Braves; Lou Johnson Hurt

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Ron Hunt knocked in four runs behind Claude Osteen's four-batter Thursday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Atlanta 5-0 for their fourth victory in five games.

It was a costly triumph for the Dodgers because veteran outfielder Lou Johnson fractured his left ankle sliding home in the first inning and will be sidelined for 10 to 12 weeks.

Jim Lefebvre said Al Ferrara each hit run-scoring singles for the Dodgers in the first against loser Denny Lemaster, 1-1.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Jesse Gonder lined a tie-breaking single to left field in the eighth inning Thursday night, helping the Pittsburgh Pirates a 5-1 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Gonder's single scored Bill Mazeroski who had earlier reached base on an error by Phil Ili and moved to second when reliever Dick Hall hit Gene Alley.

Boxer Encounters Surprise Tuneup

STOCKHOLM (AP)—Elmer Rush, the San Francisco heavy weight who meets former heavyweight champion Sonny Liston here Friday night, got an unexpected tune-up fight in a park here Thursday.

Rush's fight with the 20-year-old fighter was doing his morning road work in a central Stockholm park when he was accosted by an obviously intoxicated man who started throwing punches.

The fighter tried to stay clear but when the stranger cornered him, he punched instinctively, knocking down the attacker. The man then ran away, said Rush's friends.

COOPERATION-WINS AGAINST DECLARER

There are many good dummy's in the lead again and South could have ruffed his last two more good big clubs. It is defense that tends to separate the men from the boys, particularly in match point duplicate. Good defense usually is based on quiet partnership co-operation.

up with the ace there would have been no way for Ira to get in the lead again and South could have ruffed his last two more good big clubs. At this point Ira made his second good play of the hand. In match point duplicate Good defense usually is based on quiet partnership co-operation.

South went back to dummy with the ace of hearts and led dummy's last club. Mike is a careful declarer. He thought awhile and decided that Ira's play of the ten has been made to announce possession of the queen. Mike played the jack of clubs!

Ira overtook with the queen and led a second round of trumps. Declarer won, ruffed his third club in dummy, ruffed a heart back to his hand and ran off all his trumps.

On the last trump Ira had to decide whether to hold the eight of clubs or ace of diamonds, but that was no real problem. Mike had discarded all his diamonds as quickly as possible.

Before The Tale Is Told, Check With The Gates Of Gold!

Columnists are human beings. Perhaps that's idealistic. We're fortunate to have a ready OK, let's check the selfish platform for our ideas, but the platform is not a pedestal. We sniff no clouds, pluck no harps, and wear no halos.

When we suggest that something is wrong behavior, we're not claiming personal immunity. Frequently the attitude is that we're trying to erase in ourselves.

That's exactly the case with gossip. Several weeks ago we suggested that any teenager interested in improving the world might wisely start by squelching the torrent of gossip that infects his own campus.

Well, a number of readers wrote in to protest our "holier than thou" attitude. "I bet you don't walk away when someone's got a fascinating story to tell about someone else," insisted one irate student. "It's just a fascinating story to know what's going on behind the shades," added a second.

NO CONTEST

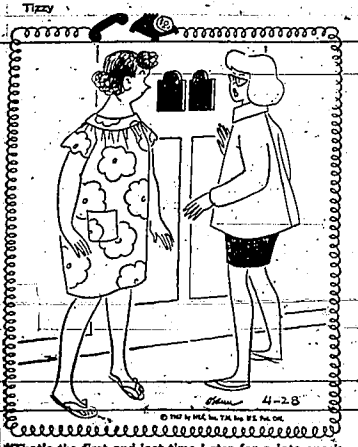

No contest. We admit we're reduced by "Naturally I don't think there's a word of truth in it, but people say that Mike..." We're also turned on by "I wouldn't want this to go any further..." and "Don't tell anyone I told you this, but..."

So if we gave the impression that we are "naturally" disinterested in gossip, let us be about right now. We're adding his own personality never, by trying to shake the habit. And Mike, who would choose to be the guy who'd make it on his own merits?

2:30 P.M. SUMMARY NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market remained higher late this afternoon but backed away from an attack on the vaulted level of 900 in the Dow Jones industrial average.

As anticipated by analysts, the Dow 50-line would prove a psychological barrier. As the list came within one point of it, profits were taken in some leading issues.

Here was the picture near the close: General dropped 3/8. Eastern Airlines 2 and Bell & Howell 1/2.

Plus signs were in the majority. General Motors up more than a point, paced off by Big Three auto stocks.

Chrysler and Ford gained fraction.

The top four steelmakers took fractional losses. Rubbers, rails and airlines were mixed.

Douglas Aircraft was up 1/2. Rating early gains in merger optimism about its new merger.

Cost reduction rose nearly 2. Up about a point were Kennecott, General Foods and Standard Pressed Steel.

Down about a point were such stocks as Pitzer, U.S. Gypsum, United Air Lines and Polaroid.

Pan American Sulphur peaked the list on volume as it edged higher.

The advance on the American Stock Exchange became irregular.

NEW YORK (AP) — AS members of the National Securities Association observe securities week on April 23-28, they are dealing, as usual, with the sensitive problem of money.

The problem is this: Men are knocking at the association's door in this age of equality, but the bylaws won't admit them.

Secretaries are women, as are the girls at conferences. All their literature refers to "he" and "she."

Being efficient and realistic, however, the association now has a committee studying the situation, presumably in order to make a report at the annual meeting in Toronto this July.

These women understand discrimination by age. Eighty years ago it was forecast their initials would end in doing office work.

Now two-thirds of the nation's clerical workers are women, some seven million of them. The reason men now want to be included is the growing professional status of the secretary.

It is difficult, in fact, to say just what makes a secretary. The national association has 25,000 members with these averages: 17 years a secretary, 10 years home, car, savings and some stock, is married and has a salary of $9,000.

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. We are a retired couple. Our pension and deduction exceed our income. As a result, we pay no income taxes. Much of our income is in dividends from stocks we own. Our big holding is a utility company. The dividends from which are only partly taxable. The rest of the dividend is a return of capital.

Other circumstances were that it not be more advantageous for us to have stocks paying straight taxable dividends? We expect to leave an estate and do not wish to burden it unnecessarily.

A. Forget about the estate you will leave your heirs. Let's worry about you. If you need more income, you could probably get it by making the switch you're thinking about.

I suggest you are a bit confused about burdening your estate. When you own a stock paying dividends that are all or partly counted as a return of capital, each such payment reduces your "cost basis."

Let's say you bought that utility stock at $30 a share. Your original cost basis was $30 a share. So that, over the years, you have received a total of $30 a share in return of capital payments. Your cost basis is now $0.

So say the stock now has a market value of $50 a share. If you sell, you get a $20 profit. But this is your problem — not your heirs' problem.

But, when you pass on, your heirs won't have to pay any capital-gains tax — unless they sell the stock. Even if they do, their capital gain will be only $20 a share (the cost basis).

On a stock received through an inheritance the cost basis becomes the price used for estate settlement purposes. This is usually the market value on the date of death of the person who leaves the stock. An alternative method is the market value existing one year after the date of death.

Q. I am a widow, 63, living on $600 a month. I have a little savings bank — I have — and I have been thinking of buying a share or two of stock. I don't know anything about stocks. A friend told me that the best thing to do is go to a broker and talk to the manager. Is this true?

A. I don't know if it's the best way. You buy a stock through broker. But in many people go to banks and the bankers arrange things. Actually, the banks just place orders for their customers with a broker. The banker becomes an extra middleman.

My guess is that people of this because they have more confidence in bankers than in brokers. Why not go directly to a brokerage firm if you don't know one, ask your banker to recommend one.

Farm AND Ranch SECTION

Charles Kast and employees of the 101 Ranch east of King Hill trailed a herd of their black Angus cattle to the Hammett Unit north of King Hill and Glenns Ferry today. The cattle are being turned out on the grazing land for the summer. They also started Monday with a herd to their Fir Grove Ranch near Fairfield for summer grazing in that area. The cattle have been fed here at the 101 Ranch during the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis Maiterson, Caldwell, spent the weekend at their ranch east of King Hill. They have the ranch land leased to Michael Kast.

Weedkiller?

SAN FRANCISCO — One of the most inexpensive and effective weed killers is a salt. "Spread a thin layer of coarse salt over the area, using from two to four pounds per square yard," John L. Rible, agricultural specialist with Fella Foods, Inc., advised. "Follow with thorough watering." "This method works particularly well for killing weeds in walks and driveways."

Public Field Days Are Set At Caldwell

SHOSHONE — Efficient feeding of milk cows and beef animals will be emphasized at public field days at the Shoshone branch experiment station of the University of Idaho this spring. Dairy research day is Tuesday, beef research day is May 8, according to announcement by Ivan Hopkins, county extension agent here.

The discussions will include information on recent developments in animal nutrition. Programs for each day are being arranged by J. J. Dahmen, station superintendent.

"On dairy day there will be a report on corn silage in relation to milking cows and herd replacement. There will also be reports on feeding high levels of grain and the use of enzymes in detection of pesticides. R. H. Potts, head of the dairy science department at Moscow, will be chairman of the dairy section.

"The beef program will include a summary of experimenter-in-feeding pelleted whole grain with various amounts of molasses in concentrate rations for steers, and a report on comparison of grains by steers and heifers on several sources of protein. The county agent said everyone is welcome to both research days.

Rustlers Study Care Of Animals

CASTLEFORD — The Beef and Dairy Rustlers 4-H Club met Tuesday at Darlene and David Foulk's home. Mrs. T. W. Richmond, leader, asked questions on caring and showing of animals. Members told what ingredients were used in calves feed and how much they fed them.

Mike Richmond gave a demonstration on taking care of equipment. Bobby Thornsborrow on disease prevention, David Foulk on breeds of beef cattle and Ricky Richmond on how to make a rope halter. Joan Prudek was welcomed as a new member. Refreshments were served by Mrs. Steve Foulk, Darlene and David.

Mining Engineer Says Land Use Planning Is Essential

PORTLAND — Cities are in effect cutting their own throats in regard to their essential mineral supplies, a leading mining engineer said here. Because of a "staggering increase in land requirements for our basic needs, particularly recreation, transportation, and urban expansion," said Alfred L. Service with the U.S. Bureau of Mines in Spokane, Wash., "land are being taken up that have been classified as highyield for agriculture and the common construction materials."

"Once these lands are urbanized," he said, "they lose their productive potential, but more serious is the fact that the lands cannot be restored to their high-yield status again except at inordinate expense, and difficulty to all concerned."

The American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers, The American Society for Metals, and The American Welding Society. A cheap-but-essential building such as sand or gravel can be priced out of reach if it must be transported over long distances to city centers where most of the building is done.

"Total land available in the continental United States is only 1,904 million acres. According to Service, total requirements for land in the year 2000 will be approximately 1,954 million. As the first of several land oriented projects aimed at assessing the seriousness of land use conflicts today, the Bureau of Mines has begun a nationwide program to study the land use situation as it relates to the minerals industry.

"It is extremely important to what assure the nation that its lands are being utilized to their fullest potential," he added. The Bureau hopes to establish regional and national trends in land use patterns as related to the mineral industry and its activities. Service said.

T. F. Soil District One Of Top Grass Producing Areas In West

By ROBERT VANAUDELN, Times-News Farm Editor. Grass is a green heritage that affords food for grazing animals and usually consists predominantly of narrow-leaved monocotyledonous plants of the families Gramineae, Cyperaceae and Juncaceae. After intermixing with various dicotyledonous herbs, according to Webster's unabridged dictionary.

One of the West's leading grass producing areas is the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District. This district also is noted for its grass seed production. Clarence Hedrick, Twin Falls conservationalist, Soil Conservation Service, says much of the grass seed planted in the West is produced in the Twin Falls area under the District Grass Seed Increase Program.

The seed for this program is of foundation seed stock produced at the Aberdeen Plant Materials Center, Aberdeen, and is made available to the districts. The districts then in turn make the seed available to farmers and ranchers within the district for producing grass seed. According to Dennis Froeming, Twin Falls, range specialist for the SCS in Magic Valley, in the Twin Falls district seed date over 200 district seed increase plantings have been made from five-acre plots to 40 acres.

Grass seed production is more favorable than other crops because less water is needed and one planting produces seed up to four years. There also is less management and is easy to harvest. The average yield of the grass seed, has been up to 800-900 pounds of clean seed per acre in past years.

The SCS has another grass program for farmers and ranchers. This is the District Field Planting Trial. The Aberdeen plant puts out chargers will be done on the Roy Jasser farm, southwest of Twin Falls. There will be one more seeding of Sanfina and Later Orchardgrass in the Snake River District this year and two in the Twin Falls District. Mr. Froeming said there is great need for improved pastures in Magic Valley — irrigated pastures, more so than dryland pastures. One way of encouraging planting and management of more irrigated pastures in the district is by the District Field Planting Trials.

Mr. Hedrick said any district cooperators interested in the program should contact his soil district chairman, Chairman of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District is Glen Nelson and Dick Stafford is chairman of the Snake River Soil Conservation District.

Technical assistance will be provided by the Twin Falls Soil Conservation office.

Sound Looms As Pest Eliminator

WASHINGTON (AP)—High-intensity sound looms as a possible eliminator for some species of destructive pests. Agriculture Department scientists have developed a high-intensity speaker for studying the effects of sound on the behavior of bollworm and tobacco budworm moths.

There are indications such sound may cause seizures, and death in insects by damaging vital organs. who is unable to afford to attend 4-H camp.

Decision On Milk Prices Is Delayed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman delayed today a decision on a plan to increase producer prices of bottling milk sold in 70 major milk marketing areas in the country.

A department proposal to raise these prices around 20 cents a hundred pounds—the equivalent of about a half-cent a quart—was laid before Freeman after his return from a tour of midwestern farm meetings.

At four regional hearings last week, dairy leaders called for an increase of 40 cents in those 70 marketing areas; or twice the amount—department—dairy ex-

Alfalfa weevil: what you should know to control it.

When is the best time to spray? Inspect your alfalfa twice a week, starting in early spring. Larvae are not easy to spot. So look closely, and check different areas of the field.

When 3-5 out of 10 plants show signs of larvae feeding in the buds, spray immediately with 2-3 quarts of Alfa-tox* per acre. Use twice as many gallons of water per acre in your tank mix as the height of the alfalfa in inches. But don't use less than 10 gals. or more than 40 gals. of water.

If you have an infestation at the time of first cutting, spray stubble immediately after harvest. This will prevent damage to the second crop.

Continue to check alfalfa through the season for possible infestations and, spray before the situation becomes serious.

How long is the control good for? Control of alfalfa weevil with Alfa-tox is effective for 2-3 weeks. This may be reduced, however, if it rains shortly after spraying. So continue to check your fields frequently and spray again with Alfa-tox if you detect a reinfestation of weevils.

With Alfa-tox, all you have to do is wait just seven days after spraying before you pasture your crop or cut it for hay or green storage. Then you will be sure of no insecticide residue in milk.

How can you decide which insecticide to use? Several insecticides may be used. But Alfa-tox is specially formulated to control alfalfa weevil and just about every other insect known to attack alfalfa. It's a combination of Diazinon* and methoxychlor.

Alfa-tox is effective even under low temperatures, and control lasts for 2-3 weeks. Another benefit is that the waiting period from spraying until harvest to avoid milk residue is only seven days.

The liquid formulation of Alfa-tox is easy to apply. Farmers have no difficulty working with it because special clothing or protective devices are not needed. Simply follow label directions. See your supplier today for Alfa-tox.

DWARF CALF? No, just a normal, but quite small Angus calf. This bull calf, about 15 inches tall, was born 25 days ago and at that time was 14 inches tall and weighed about 16 to 17 pounds. Another Angus calf born the same day is compared to the little one by Lyle Abel, Route 2, Filer, owner of the two calves. He said the small calf is a first calf for the Angus heifer and that this is the first time he has seen a calf that small. "At first," Abel said, "I wasn't going to keep him, but now I think I will and see if he will grow to normal size as some cattlemen say." (Times-News photo)

Production Record Set By Jerome Cow

BRATTLEBORO, Vt.—A new food production achievement for an Idaho registered Holstein cow has been reported by Holsteins Friesian Association of America. The milk production record was established under official production testing supervision. The new record-holder for her age group is Tamarkix Pride, Theilms 693282, owned by Gordon M. Martin, Jerome. The new class leader has completed a lactation level of 12,000 pounds of milk and 570 pounds of butterfat in 303 days. This represents a new and higher production record for a highly tested Junior two-year-old registered Holsteins milked two times daily in the 305-day division of the DHIR program. "Thelma" was bred in the head of her present owner. She was sired by Irvington Pride, Admiral 1227057 (EX), a bull that has earned a Gold Medal Sire recognition. The previous lactation record in this age group for registered Holsteins was held by Progressor Hazelwood 242454, owned by Harold J. Agee, Meridian. The former leader of this age group with a production level of 16,288 pounds of milk and 641 pounds of butterfat. Production sampling, weighing and testing operations were supervised by the University of Idaho working in cooperation with the national Holstein organization.

RUPERT — Blaine Hodges member of the Board of Supervisors of the Minidoka Soil and Water Conservation District, has announced district plans to enter the 21st annual Goodyear competition to select the nation's top 50 conservation districts. State competition between districts will precede the naming of the national winners in the event sponsored by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company of Akron, Ohio. Key agricultural leaders will serve as judges to select the state winners. Soil conservation efforts from Jan. 1, 1957 through Dec. 31, 1967, will be considered. National winners will receive expense paid trips to Arizona in December 1968, for one member of the district governing body.

New Processing Plant Planned

CALDWELL (AP) — Potato growers in Southwestern Idaho and Eastern Oregon agreed at a meeting in Caldwell to construct a new processing plant in this area. They were assisted in their organization work by representatives of the Idaho Potato Growers, Inc. of Idaho Falls. M. Clements of Nampa, elected chairman, said about 165 growers agreed to join the organization. He said limited production is planned this year with full production in 1968.

Cooperation Favored By Area Grange

MURTAUGH — A resolution, read by John Byer, favoring cooperation with other farm organizations for the betterment of farm prices, was approved by Murtaugh Grange members at the meeting held at the hall. Arthur Carrier gave a report on the progress of the Grange during the past 100 years. The centennial candle was lighted by Mr. and Mrs. Harold Menser, lecturer.

and the prayer was given by Mrs. James Sargent in honor of National Grange month. A Grange insurance sign, with the Grange's bi-monthly meeting dates shown in the lower corners, has been placed on the Grange hall lawn. The sign was installed by James Kirkpatrick read by Ralph Breeding. The program included a poem by Harold Menser, a reading by Mrs. Byer, and a skit directed by Mrs. William McCoy. Hosts for the May 5 meeting will be Mr. and Mrs. McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Carrier. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. Menser and Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Daniels.

Irrigation Systems In Good Condition Essential

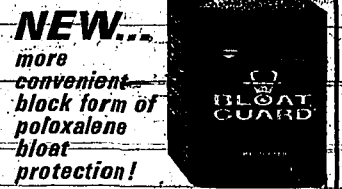

To obtain the most beneficial use of an irrigation system, a farmer's check-up is essential. According to Twin Falls Soil Conservation District officials, the entire system must be in good operational condition. Earth ditches should be cleaned and smoothed to reduce seepage and evaporation losses. Ditch banks should be repaired when needed and seeded to a sod-forming grass to reduce erosion and weed growth. Drop structures should be installed in areas where ditches are too steep and cause erosion. Erosion in one area causes silt in another area. Concrete-lined ditches should be inspected and repaired. It is a good practice to fill all cracks, scores included, with a butyl-soluble mastic to reduce seepage and allow flexibility for frost action. An application of this material reduces future maintenance to a minimum. Information about this material can be obtained from any Soil Conservation District office. Concrete pipelines should be repaired at the first indication of a leak. Otherwise, severe erosion damage may occur to surrounding fields or to the pipeline itself. All leaks or structures should be checked for details and to see that trash screens are in place. All irrigation systems that are in good condition are an essential factor in a sound irrigation water management program.

A hands-on exhibit was arranged under the direction of Mrs. Willard Hayward, lecturer and Mrs. Ronald Hawkes. Shown were oil paintings, crayon sketches, hammered copper utensils, handmade miniature steel pens from England, hand-woven materials from Chile, a basket woven of pine needles, a carved wooden rolling pin, embroidery and crocheted items.

Contributions ranged through four generations from grandparents to grandchildren.

Hostesses were Mrs. George Sullivan and Mrs. Aldo D'Alonzo. Other guests included Mrs. Schwaeger and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Madden all Burley and Mrs. Betty Ann Armstrong Grange, and Frances Hager and Mrs. and Mrs. Glover Adcock, Rupert Grange.

NFO Official Cites Spud Problems

RUPERT—The Idaho Director of the National Farmers' Organization, William Hopworth, reports that it has now become obvious that the crop and disposal of the 1966 crop of potatoes through normal marketing channels is a problem.

Hopworth added that the Idaho State NFO feels that in order to protect the economy of Idaho, which is dependent on the potato crop and to save Idaho farmers, they join with the United States Farmers' Union, asking the United States Department of Agriculture to authorize a diversion program for potatoes immediately.

Hopworth sent a telegram to the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

Praised By Farm Bureau

CAREY—Directors of the Blaine County Farm Bureau have commended Gordon E. Cies, manager of the Silver Creek Co., for his handling of the Farm Bureau title and battery program.

The decision to renew the contract with the manager was made at a meeting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Peterson, Wendell Rainey, Idaho Farm Bureau representative, and Mrs. Rainey were guests.

Maxine Molyneux and John Barton were named to choose a delegate to Alpine Camp. The group will sponsor the youth picnic to be held at a Farm Bureau family.

Plans were made for the annual picnic in August. Mr. and Mrs. John Barton, Carey, chairman of the Young Farmers committee, will handle the arrangements committee. Jay Strode was nominated as a state board member, replacing John Sarnborn, Hogerman, who is retiring.

Buhl Grange To Appoint Fair Groups

BUHL—The Buhl Grange received an application for the membership of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore when they met last week at the Grange Hall.

Dean Smith, fair committee chairman, reported that he would appoint the 1967 fair committees soon. It was reported that Gertrude Farlinger was re-covering at home after having a light stroke.

"Farm Facts" for the evening were presented by Albert Kitchin, who noted that the farmers received $1.50 per ton this year for their sugar beets compared to $1 per ton last spring.

Mrs. Milo Davis, hostess chairman, announced the Hollister Grange will be guests at the next meeting and will present the program.

Blanche Smith, home economics chairman, announced that the Buhl Grange would serve for the Home Culture Club on May 15.

Barker Talks On Reservoir Plans

FILER—State Sen. John Barker, Buhl, president of the American Falls Reservoir District, discussed the American Falls dam and the water rights of space holders in the dam, at a meeting of the Filer Community Farm Bureau last week.

He stated the Bureau of Reclamation believes the dam should be replaced soon because of deterioration in the concrete. The Idaho Water Resources Board has studied the proposal and recommends that if replacement is necessary, the dam be rebuilt to its present height. Barker said it is felt that raising the height of the dam either 6 or 13 feet as has been proposed will create serious problems. The discussion was followed by a question period.

Livestock On Ranges Said Good

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department reports livestock on western ranges is in good if slightly below average condition.

A report said that with pasture conditions being below normal because of adverse March weather, stockmen have been relying heavily on supplemental feed. It said supplies of such feed will be generally adequate but with shortages possible in areas where spring growth of new grass has been delayed due to lack of moisture.

Blanche Smith, home economics chairman, was in charge of the program. She stated that 100,000 people die each year as a result of poison, the majority of these children. Mrs. Smith also told of the danger of aerosol containers and how they should be disposed.

Closing thoughts were given by Mrs. Dean Mickelwait.

Meat Packers, Processors Score U.S. Grain Program

By OVID A. MARTIN
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Spokesmen for the national meat packer and processor groups differ, contending that the government's program of limiting production of corn and other feed grains makes higher meat prices likely.

In a letter to Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman they said it seems highly doubtful that the federal grain control program will be sufficient to maintain production of meats and other livestock products next year.

The letter was sent to the secretary by the American Meat Institute, a national independent meatpackers association, and the Western States Meat Packers Association, Inc. These organizations represent a big majority of U.S. meat packers and processors.

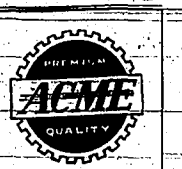

This was the second such criticism of the government's feed grain program by industry organizations. Recently the Cattle Raisers Association Inc. called on Freeman to act quickly to encourage larger feed grain crops.

The meat packers' letter said: "Current Agriculture Department policy for feed grains threatens to cut back livestock production and result in substantially higher meat prices to consumers, particularly for corn and broilers, with the impact of such price increases being most pronounced in the politically sensitive month of 1968."

Under the feed grain program, farmers get government payments and grain price supports for holding some of their grain land out of production. Because grain surpluses no longer exist, the department has recommended that less land be idled, but farmers indicate they will hold more acre out of production than the department had suggested.

Nevertheless, the department

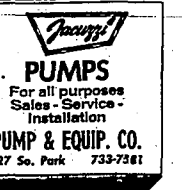

The meat industry did not suggest any specific changes in the feed grain program. Rather it asked Freeman to give consideration to concern it expressed over the outlook, noting that any decisions he might make are difficult and fraught with both economic and political burdens.

T.F. 3-Member FFA Team Wins District Farm Mechanics Contest

The Twin Falls FFA three-member team, in the District Farm Mechanics Contest, took first place over four other schools last week during the event.

Members of the winning team were Donald Norris, Robia Wells and Danny Cress. Second high team was the Gooding FFA team. Its members are Dean Rogers, Dale Rogers and Reeta Blum.

The annual event was sponsored this year by Norco and Motor Mercantile Co. The trophies awarded also were donated by the two companies.

John Lawrence, Twin Falls FFA adviser, said each school, including Gooding, Buhl and Twin Falls, have three members from its chapter participating. The first member must cut a rafter after he is given the span, pitch and overhang. The first member of the team also must identify 100 tool and hardware items.

The second team member does acetylene welding. He must run a three-inch mild steel, but weld, a three-inch bronze fillet weld and make a four-inch cut of one-quarter inch steel.

The second team member also does soldering. Time here he must make a copper-tin solder splice, sweat a patch and spin a hole.

Lawrence said the third team member does arc welding. During this phase of the contest, the participant must run a four-inch fillet weld in a flat position, a four-inch vertical cut, a one-half inch hole and make a weld on one-fourth inch by one-inch metal which is tested for strength.

The second part of the third team members contest is sharpening a cold chisel, wood chisel and a one-half inch twist drill. High individual winners in their respective events were Donald Norris, Twin Falls, arc welding; Danny Cress, Twin Falls, rafter and tools; and Dale Rogers, Gooding, acetylene welding. These three boys received trophies.

The trophies were awarded to the winners by Leon Wolf, manager of Norco. The judges were, besides vocational agriculture instructors, Mr. Wolf and Bill Jacobsen, Twin Falls High School metals instructor.

Warning On Contaminated Grain Given

BURLEY—A warning was issued Tuesday by Cassia County Agent's office for area farmers and ranchers to beware of contaminated grain.

The problem of pink wheat is certainly not a new one; however, recent revisions in Federal Food and Drug Administration policy has compounded the losses which the negligent or unfortunate producer of contaminated grain is likely to suffer.

In the fall of 1966 the Federal Food and Drug Administration released the following policy for disposition of contaminated grain:

Rodent Contaminated Cans: "It has been the general practice over the years for FDA to permit rodent and/or bird contaminated food to be denatured and diverted to animal feed."

Cans of grain, especially wheat, have been diverted to feed use when found to contain rodent excreta in excess of permitted levels.

This practice has been of concern to us, and has been under study for the past two or three years. Last week the 18 field districts of FDA were advised that effective immediately we will be directing all such denaturing for animal feed, except where the feed product will be treated by sufficient heat to kill Salmonella organisms, or where comprehensive bacteriological testing does not reveal Salmonella.

Mercury Contaminated Cans: "Cans of grain containing mercury or other poisonous compounds will not be released by Food and Drug for food or feed, even though they are secure and washed. The contents of such cans must be destroyed, and it appears that the easiest way to do this is by burning."

Grazing

SAN FRANCISCO—Don't turn cattle out on wet, spongy fields before the grass is about eight inches high.

"Once this high, grass blades can recover rapidly after being trampled by cattle," Jean-L. Ruble, animal feed specialist with Leslie Foods, Inc., said.

"Space out blocks so that cattle will be encouraged to graze evenly. A herd of 1,000 pound cows, milling around on soft ground, can do irreparable damage to both soil and root systems."

SHORT STRONG TALKS

It takes tougher corn varieties, with short, strong stalks for today's modern farming. DeKalb's short XL varieties stand better at high populations, and take advantage of narrow rows. XL's are bred to hold their ears, too... to harvest easily, and produce a bushels to higher corn yields for you.

SPEAKING AT THE Wood River Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors meeting will be Lawrence Tews, North Shoshone, farmer and livestock rancher. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the Shoshone Courthouse. He will speak on management of hay and pastures for increased production and he also will list "pitfalls" and hazards when trial and error methods are used.

Lawrence Tews To Speak At Wood River Soil Meeting

SHOSHONE — Lawrence Tews, North Shoshone, will speak before the Wood River Soil and Water Conservation District Board of Supervisors at the board's meeting at 8 p.m. May 2 at the Courthouse here. He will relate some of his experiences in farming—pointing out hazards of the trade which often slowed down his progress. In other business, the board, under direction of chairman, Paul Hancock, will discuss management of the District's farm equipment. Presently the district owns two Brillion seeders which are rented to farmers at a reasonable rate for seeding urged to prepare material and nominate their candidates early to allow better preparation of material. The Grassman of the year program is sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce with the District SCS giving aid. Milk Use Drops WASHINGTON (AP) — Use of milk on farms for home-churned butter continues to decline, reflecting both smaller numbers of farms and of milk production. The Agriculture Department reports that 362 million pounds of milk were used this way last year compared with 315 million in 1962. TRY TIMES-NEWS WANT ADS FOR FAST SELLING RESULTS

Massey-Ferguson Inc. Has Large Mounted Chisel Plow

DES MOINES — The largest mounted chisel plow ever produced by Massey-Ferguson Inc. has been announced by the company. The new heavy-duty mounted chisel plow is designed to match the power and performance of even the most powerful tractors in farming practices which conserve moisture and control soil erosion. It is available in six sizes, from 8, 11 and 13-foot sizes from the smaller frame and 15, 17 and 19-foot from the larger. To provide maximum protection for the implement and fast operation in root or stone infested fields, the MF 127 may be equipped with Massey-Ferguson's new H-Lift spring trip semi-rigid shanks for use in relatively clear fields. Each type provides up to 28 inches ground to frame clearance to permit free-flow of trash through the plow. A variety of sweeps and points adapt the MF 127 to many uses such as pasture renovation, stubble mulching, sub-soiling, summer fallowing or field-cultivation. These include four styles of sweeps plus reversible chisel obstructions and economical, points and spike teeth. MF's rapid coupler saves time in hitching the MF 127 to the tractor. It's just a matter of backing up, lifting and driving away, without leaving the tractor seat. Over-the-road transport of the wider model is simplified by a transport hitch and gauge wheels which can be repositioned to enable the MF 127 to be pulled end-wise with a width of less than six feet.

Soil Stewardship Week Set For Sunday Through May 7

Soil Stewardship Week — a week put aside to give thanks to the soil and to remind people that air, water and sunshine offered by God which make all living things possible, warrant their best in Christian stewardship is Sunday through May 7.

Members of various Soil Conservation Districts remind all private landowners that the basic motivation for the conservation and orderly development of natural resources is man's recognition of his responsibility to protect and use wisely God's precious gifts of soil and water.

Soil conservationists say "three-fourths of the land in this country is privately owned. But land ownership brings responsibilities for the land, for our fellowmen and for young people who will inherit the land."

"Stewardship is caring for the land we own as individuals as well as jointly owned public land. Owning land is a trust which must be accepted with a special sense of responsibility. Private ownership affects the water. It is conservation treatment over the vast private land that will block the wasteful, rapid runoff of rainwater, slow down and take too much of it into the earth, where it can finally recharge underground supplies.

"Throughout 8,000 watersheds in the country there is sound basis to proceed with broad combination programs of land treatment and upstream conservation construction. These, in the aggregate, can provide the people of thousands of communities not only with vital protection against flooding and water shortage, but with welcome new

Farm Income To Drop More Than Forecast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department figures farm income this year may decline a little more from last year's level than the government forecast last fall.

In an economic outlook report, the department said today net income may be down "perhaps five per cent or more" from last year's level, the second-highest of record.

The report said total gross farm income this year was expected to be close to last year's record $48.5 billion. But continued increases this year in production costs were cited as the chief cause for the expected decline in net earnings.

The per capita income of farm people from both farm and non-farm sources is expected by the department to change little from the 1966 average of $1,771 — or 16 per cent of the non-farm average.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

GARDENIA—PLANTS—Get this plant to blossom in a real tick. The big problem in raising gardenias is humidity (where the humidity is from 40 to 60 per cent) in the gardenia flourish and the buds are far and green.

When you bring the plant into the home (where the humidity drops to about 12 per cent) trouble starts in almost immediately. Buds start to drop because of dry air and few if any flowers form.

Gardenias can't take the sudden change in environment from a controlled climate greenhouse to a hot home. If it's too hot indoors, the leaves and new growth turn black at the tips and the buds will turn brown or shrivel.

Regular watering is essential. Drying of the soil will cause the buds to shed. Many home gardeners keep their gardenia on a tray of pebbles partially covered with water. This allows the soil to stay moist.

During the summer, from June 1 to Sept. 1, we keep our gardenia outdoors. Set the pot in a hole in the ground and fill it around with peat moss. The peat is kept wet and this keeps the roots cool and the plant is happy. Do not neglect watering during the summer rest period.

If repeating seems necessary use a mixture of equal parts peat moss and good garden soil to which sand, perlite or vermiculite has been added. Yellowing of foliage is often due to a shortage of iron in soils that are not acid (sour).

Such soils can be acidified by scratching into the surface a small amount of any one of the following materials: iron sulfate, aluminum sulfate, or sulfur dust. Repeat at intervals of six weeks.

TOMATOES—If you plant early and late tomatoes near each other, will they cross pollinate one another. It wouldn't make a bit of difference if they did because you're interested in the fruit, not the seed.

If you set out plants of a variety such as Rutgers or Moreton Hybrid, the fruit you harvest wouldn't change a bit, even if the flowers had been cross pollinated.

Many ask if muskmelons, watermelons and cucumbers will cross pollinate one another. Cucumbers do cross with watermelons, watermelons or pumpkins. A flat taste is due to weather or possibly a lack of lamp.

Green Thumb Note: I'm glad our reader has set us straight on bananas. The United Fruit Co. has sent me seed for testing which I'm happy to do because I never know bananas had fertile seeds. I wish we had seeds to pass along to our friends interested in growing bananas in doors.

HOME-GROWN ELDERBERRIES—Many gardeners should grow elderberries, especially if you like elderberry pie. They grow wild in field, hedge row and stream, but a couple of plants will give you all the berries you need for pies and for cooking.

Elderberries are free from insects and disease and most trees produce enough fruit for the family and for birds as well. While one plant will bear by itself, it's best to have two plants for a good set of fruit. Adams No. 1 produces large fruit clusters and big fat berries, about Aug. 1. Johns produces every year and is reliable. Adams and its fruit ripens about two weeks later.

Why not plant some elderberries for yourself and for the birds?

QUESTION OF THE WEEK—Twin Falls: "Since my husband passed away I have to hire someone to mow our lawn. We have beautiful shade trees and every time the boy mows he hits the trunk with the mower. Won't it harm the tree to have the bark skinned or wounded?"

Green Thumb note: We welcome these tips to suggest they grow Summer Liliac (Buddleia), Honeyuckle, Columbine, Monarda, hollyhock, and Lunaria (money plant). We're particularly fond of hummingbirds and find these flowers actually attract these dainty little fellows.

Any tree with a shoulder trimmed to remove jagged edges down to tight living tissue. Cut the injured bark away with a sharp knife and paint the wounded area with orange shellac to preserve moisture.

Not all lawn mowers will actually tear off the bark, but may crush the cells underneath. Sap starts to ferment, followed by decay organisms, cause tissues to decay without your knowing it for a year or so.
