Bus Fare Increase Approved

BOISE (AP) — Approval of a 5 per cent boost in intrastate bus fares charged by major bus operating in Idaho was reported Tuesday by the Public Utilities Commission.

The increased rates may be put into effect within 10 days the commission said.

Joining in the application for permission to increase fares were Boise Winnemucca Stages, Inc.; Clearwater-Slago Lines, Inc.; Empire Lines, Inc.; Greyhound Lines, Inc.; Intermain Transportation Co.; Pacific Trailways, and Twin Falls-Wellis, Nevada Stage Lines, Inc.

The commission said evidence presented by the bus companies indicated the 5 per cent boost was needed to make revenue more nearly equal expenses.

Transcontinental lines still would be operating their intrastate service at a loss, the PUC said.

GOV. LURLENE WALLACE... of Alabama, announced Monday she will enter a Texas hospital next week because of an examination has disclosed she has cancer. She said she will undergo tests, and possibly surgery. (AP wirephoto)

Mrs. Wallace Reports She Has Cancer

MONTGOMERY Ala. (AP) Gov. Lurline Wallace of Alabama says she has a malignancy which may require surgery again.

The nation's only woman governor said she would enter M.D. Anderson Hospital in Houston, Texas, next week on the recommendation of her doctors. The hospital is noted for its treatment and study of cancer.

Her husband, former Gov. George Wallace, expected to be a third-party candidate for president next year.

In a tersely worded announcement Monday, Mrs. Wallace said she had undergone a physical examination during a thorough physical check-up in Birmingham, Ala., that "I have a malignancy which may again require surgery."

Plumbing Bid Awarded For Legal Annex

A bid for plumbing work on the new Twin Falls County Courthouse legal annex was awarded Tuesday morning by the board of county commissioners and four electrical bids were taken under advisement.

The plumbing bid was awarded Bradley Electric, 2108 Kimberly Rd., Twin Falls. The contractor said he understands that the work will be done by Bernarr Reis, Filer, who is associated with the Bradley Electric Co. working on his own. This was the only plumbing bid submitted.

Inquest Set Into Rupert Road Deaths

RUPERT — An inquest is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today to determine the cause of the June 3 which claimed the life of a Burley motorist and her 8-year-old son.

Robert Wink, Mindoka county coroner, said the inquest into the crash which was fatal for Mrs. Mary Robinson and her 8-year-old son, was scheduled because of the condition of the two drivers, both of whom were just released from the hospital Monday.

They are Juan Pedro Ortiz, Wilson Labor Camp, and Vern Jolley, with whom the victims were riding. Cars driven by the two men collided on a narrow canal bridge about 10:20 p.m. June 3 on Meridian Road north of Rupert.

Trailer Is Damaged In Wind Storm

Trees were uprooted, hay blown about and a trailer house damaged in a windstorm which caused considerable interruption of electrical service throughout Magic Valley Monday night.

A 28-foot trailer house owned by Leonard Hendrick, south of Kimberly, was overturned and one side of the structure was damaged extensively. Idaho Power Co. customers were without electricity in Gooding, Hildan and Oakley areas and telephone service also was interrupted between Burley and Afblon.

Crossing Borders To Incite Riots Is Crime, Unit Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee voted today to make it a federal crime to cross state lines to incite a riot.

Almed at professional agitators who stir-up racial troubles, the bill would provide penalties up to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine upon conviction.

Under pressure from more than 100 sponsors of the legislation, Chairman Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., sponsored from the bill a civil rights measure he had added to it in subcommittee last week.

The part of the bill would have made it a federal crime to use force or threats to interfere with Negroes exercising their rights to vote, attend public schools or participate in other legally protected activities.

Separation of the two provisions was viewed as aided by civil rights supporters, but Celler said he had assurances from House leaders that both bills would be taken to the House floor.

The drive to separate the bills was led by Rep. William M. Colmer, D-Miss., chairman of the House Rules Committee.

Colmer had threatened to use special powers of the rules committee to force the bill away from Celler's committee. In view of the Judiciary Committee action, Colmer called off the dogs.

There has been mounting pressure in Congress for enactment of anti-riot legislation in the wake of violence in Tampa, Dayton, Boston, Cincinnati and other cities. Civil rights militants have cautioned a summer of active violence is in prospect.

Backers of the package approach contend it is necessary to show civil rights leaders that while violence won't be tolerated, Congress still is willing to take action to better guarantee the rights of minorities.

The anti-riot bill would make it a federal crime punishable by up to five years imprisonment to cross a state boundary to "incite, organize, promote or encourage" a riot.

Against threats or force when they are lawfully engaged in such activities as voting, attending public schools or using public accommodations. The same measure was approved by the House last year but died in the Senate along with the rest of the 1966 Civil Rights Act.

The chief backer of the anti-riot proposal, Rep. William C. Cramer, R-Fla., agreed to sponsor the package but has said he would prefer to see the two issues separated.

Cramer's bill also would make it a federal crime to use interstate communications facilities to incite or direct a riot.

U Thant Defends Action In Mideast

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — In a white paper Secretary-General U Thant defended today his action in ordering withdrawal of the U.N. Emergency Force at Egypt's request. He rejected contentions that removal of the force caused the Arab-Israeli war.

Thant issued his report as Secretary-General of the United Nations. He scheduled a follow-up talk to night with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko on major issues, including the Middle East crisis, passed down to them from the Glasboro summit sessions.

Rusk met with Thant in advance of the meeting with Gromyko.

Debate continued at the emergency session of the 122-nation General Assembly with Iraq Foreign Minister Adnan M. Pashachi charging the United States with taking the path of "implacable hostility to Arab nations."

"Our people are now convinced more than ever that the United States will always use its vast power to serve the side of Israeli aggression against the Arab countries," he declared. "Arab disillusionment with American official policy is deep, bitter and unqualified."

Thant's actions in complying promptly with Egypt's demands for removal of the force have been criticized by President Johnson, as have others making similar criticism including Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson and Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban.

But Thant in a report issued to members of the assembly said the criticism amounted to a "superficial and oversimplified approach" that ignored dangerous elements in the situation prior to the Egyptian demand for removal of the force.

The Rusk-Gromyko meeting was given little chance of producing any quick agreement. Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Johnson would appear on the big issues, including Vietnam and the Middle East.

Governors At Odds With Reagan's Water Plans

W. YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — Utah and Idaho were at odds with California Gov. Ronald Reagan yesterday at the Western Governors Conference over involvement of the federal government in water resources programs.

Reagan claimed the West's water problems should be solved by the states and not the federal government, but he left some room for cooperation.

"The states must either set aside purely parochial interests and join as an effective force that will have to be reckoned with in Washington, or become prepared to accept increasing federal domination in regional water planning," he said.

Broadcast Claims U.S. Aide Executed

BY GEORGE MCARTHUR
SAYGON (AP) — A Communist broadcast 12 days ago appeared to announce the execution of a U.S. official taken prisoner by the Viet Cong nearly two and a half years ago, the U.S. mission announced today.

The official is Gustav C. Hertz, 48, chief of the public administration division in Saigon of the U.S. Agency for International Development. His wife and four children live in Leesburg, Va.

A statement from the U.S. mission said the "language of the broadcast is not fully clear, but it implies that Gustav Hertz suffered the same fate as Sgt. Kenneth Roraback, who was executed on Sept. 28, 1965, as was announced in a federal-based project as does California. Rampton, one of only two Democrats at the conference, disagreed with Reagan that the West's water problems can be solved by cooperative action of the states.

Sentiment Rises To Close Spigot Of Arms Supplies

By ROBERT T. GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sentiment to close the spigot of U.S. arms supplies to foreign countries appears to be growing in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Before the administration's $3.1-billion foreign aid bill, including nearly $600 million for military aid, comes before the committee today, at least five of the 18 members of the panel voiced concern with the arms program.

There were indications the committee might attempt to usurp authority usually left to the president to set arms policy and to close the spigot of U.S. arms supplies to foreign countries. The committee has been asked to preserve peace.

No Escape Seen From Income Taxes Raise

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's chief economic adviser told Congress today there is no escape from the conclusion that income taxes must be raised this year to safeguard prosperity.

Gardner Ackley, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors, gave his policy statement to the Senate-Louise Economic Committee.

He based it on the state of the economy and the danger of inflation or tight money, rather than on the need to reduce deficits which other sources have forecast as high as $23 billion.

Panama, U.S. Sign Agreement

WASHINGTON (AP) — Panama and the United States signed an agreement Monday night between the United States and Panama.

In addition, Panama is expected to sign a similar agreement with the administration of any U.S. canal operator in that country, an increase in the annuity of $1.93 million now paid Panama by Washington.

CAP Girls To Get Royal Tour

Southern Idaho has rolled out the figurative red carpet for 12 high school and college girls who will be the guests of honor at a Civil Air Patrol cadet exchange program.

The girls, all CAP cadets from the six-state Great Lakes area, arrived at the Twin Falls airport Monday night after being flown in from Denver, Colo., by the Air Force. Among the dignitaries scheduled to meet with the girls during the exchange tour, in addition to CAP officials, are Boise Mayor Jay Amey and Lt. Gov. Jack Murphy.

Almost unanimously, the cadets are looking forward to visiting Sun Valley and predict that their three-day stay in the resort town will be a highlight of the tour. Other scenic and industrial points of interest scheduled to be visited by the girls are Shoshone Falls, the Snake River Trout Farm, the State Fish Hatchery at Salmon, Mountain Home and the potato processing plants in Burley.

After an overnight stop in Twin Falls, the girls and their adult adviser left for Boise Tuesday. The 10-day tour includes three-day stops in Sun Valley, Burley and Pocatello. They will leave for their respective homes July 7.

According to a local CAP cadet spokesman, the exchange program is the first to be conducted in this area. The delegates are hand-picked, at least 15 years old and must meet stringent requirements set forth by the CAP.

"They're good-will ambassadors," said the spokesman.

The girls have been enthusiastic about the weather, the people and the scenery. Some of the potato processing plants are of special interest to them since the Great Lakes states have no such industry.

While in Twin Falls, they will be staying in private homes through the courtesy of local cadets and their parents. Some of the more than 12 cadets enrolled in the program were at the airport to meet the delegates.

Following a pattern set nationally, in open to youngsters between the ages of 13 and 18, parts of the six-state Great Lakes region and are scheduled to return home July 7.

ARRIVING AT THE Twin Falls Airport after a flight from Denver, Colo., are some of the 12 members of a Civil Air Patrol cadet exchange tour. The girls and their adult advisers are touring the Southern Idaho area. They hail from different parts of the six-state Great Lakes region and are scheduled to return home July 7.

Kosygin, Castro Continue Secret Meetings

By BEATON WHEELER (AP)—Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and Prime Minister Fidel Castro were expected to continue private talks today but the subjects of the talks being discussed were kept secret.

Western observers believed the two Communists leaders would range over Vietnam, the Soviet position on the Middle East and Castro's opposition to the Soviet policy of peaceful coexistence with non-Communist nations.

Informed sources said there was no rift between the two men. Kosygin would remain in Havana, but indications pointed to at least another day.

T.F. Workers May Walk Out At Airport

Eight ground crew employees would walk out on their jobs at the Twin Falls Airport if a scheduled strike against West Coast Airlines is not averted, according to Robert Shaw, local Air Line Employees-Association representative.

Airline operation would come to a complete stop within 24 hours, Shaw said. He said the airline mechanics union has authorized the mechanics based at Salt Lake City and Boise to sympathize with the scheduled strike and not cross their picket lines.

"The airlines might have been able to complete operation if the mechanics union had agreed to honor our strike—but for now, they can continue at best for not more than 24 hours if the strike goes ahead," he commented.

Mr. Shaw added that he was "hopeful" for a quick settlement of this emergency negotiation that is being on in Seattle.

West Coast Airlines To Fight Strike

LEWISTON, Idaho (AP)—With a strike against West Coast Airlines set for 12:01 a.m. Monday, July 3, the Air Line Employees-Association is holding special series of emergency negotiations.

The National Mediation Board has assigned a third mediator to participate in the emergency negotiations. Earlier mediation attempts failed to resolve the remaining major area of disagreement, that of employee wages, that negotiation.

Should the strike take place it would involve station, ticket counter, reservations and ramp agents, crew schedulers and telephone operators.

Riding Club Will Drill At Nampa Rodeo

Members of the Twin Falls Junior Riding Club will parade and drill during the 1966 Snake River Stampede rodeo on Sunday, July 18 through 22, in competition with riding groups from throughout the western states and Canada.

Local Worker Has Surgery After Mishap

The victim of a Monday morning industrial accident was recuperating at a local hospital after undergoing surgery at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Raymond Boyles, 46, Twin Falls, was injured at 10:30 a.m. at K and T steel when he was trapped between two large steel beams.

Company manager Lave A. Thornock said Mr. Boyles was working on one beam while a second was being moved to move another beam with an overhead crane. He said the beam moved the wrong way and Mr. Boyles was trapped between the two.

Assistant hospital administrator, James Rosenbaum, said Mr. Boyles received a perforating wound of the abdomen and underwent surgery later in the day.

Synopsis, Farm Summary

Upper air-sounding this morning showed an increase in moisture over Southern Idaho in advance of a weak pressure trough at upper levels approaching from the west. Showers and Thunderstorms will likely occur in most areas this afternoon or tonight and a few of these may produce in excess of a quarter of an inch of rain along with locally strong winds.

Showers will probably cause some delays—in field work, considerably on Wednesday with a few showers mainly in the mountains and eastern valleys.

Western and central valleys will be around 10 to 15 degrees dry.

The 4th of July holiday is celebrated with no special religious significance. This lack of religious attachment is contrary to the customs and thoughts of our forefathers. In blunt language, some of them would regard as a blasphemy if they should see our interpretations of the Festival.

We owe a gratitude to God for having placed our forefathers on earth at that particular time in history. They fought for human rights; for freedom against tyrannical rule. They won the struggle; they considered victory NOT as rights won by them, but as God given privileges they were permitted to proudly participate in.

What sort of men were Washington, Adams, Madison, and Jefferson? Next week's column will spotlight their beliefs and behavior. It will be interesting. Don't miss it!

Young horsemen from throughout Southern Idaho will have an opportunity to exhibit their prize mounts and riding skills in an all youth show July 3 at Frontier Field.

Clyde Smith, show manager, said the event is sponsored by the Intermountain Quarter Horse Association, and is primarily to encourage young horsemen to exhibit registered quarterhorses and to promote the quarterhorse in the local area. It is the first such show for Magic Valley.

A total of 40 classes will be featured, including halter and working events. Seventeen of the classes will be restricted to registered Quarter Horses only. Mr. Smith said.

All classes are open to the public at no charge. Residents are urged to attend any or all of the show which begins July 3 at 9 a.m. and will continue through 4 p.m.

Halter classes for mares, geldings, stallions, all ages, begin at 8 a.m.

Entries from throughout Southern Idaho are already coming in, Mr. Smith said, and while formal entries close June 28, late listings will continue until the first horse enters the ring for competition.

"This will give local residents a chance to see some of the area's most outstanding quarterhorses in action and the same time support the young riders," Mr. Smith said.

In a similar show last year in Blackfoot about 300 entries were received and local committee members say this year should be even bigger.

Showmanship, reining, horsemanship trail, pleasure, stake races, barrel racing and pole bending events will feature registered quarterhorses in competition. Other pleasure horsemanship, showmanship, races and reining events will be open to all riders and horses regardless of breed.

Beverly Smith is show secretary and two A.Q.H.A. (American Quarter Horse Association) approved judges will select winners. They are Wayne Maggard, Caldwell, and Al Heaps, Salt Lake City, Utah.

Writer Leaves Estate To King, NAACP
NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. has left a "deeply touched and gratified" by the fact that satirist Dorothy Parker left the bulk of her estate to him and the NAACP, the association for the Advancement of Colored People.

He expressed his gratification in a statement in Atlanta, "I am not referring to the monetary aspect at all," he added. "What impresses and inspires me is that one of America's most respected and warmly loved writers has committed to the civil rights movement that whatever she had she offered to it."

Mrs. Parker's will, filed Monday in New York, named King as the beneficiary.

Pope Revives Ordained Deacon Rank
VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI today revived the permanent rank of ordained deacon in the Roman Catholic Church for both married and single men to help meet a shortage of priests.

In a document titled "Sacrum Diaconatus Ordinum"—a Sacred Order of the Diaconate, the pontiff carried out another major recommendation of the 1962 Vatican Council. The document urged creation of permanent deacons to help in areas where priests are scarce.

The document was issued four days after a papal encyclical reaffirming the requirement that priests be celibate and rejecting elements that they are allowed to marry.

Further Summit Talks Believed Imminent

By ROBERT T. GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Congressional leaders, briefed by President Johnson on the Glassboro summit meeting, believe future Johnson-Kosygin talks are in the works.

While the White House moved quickly to head off any impression that something definite was planned, the leaders nevertheless gained the idea that Johnson was considering some form of follow-up to the meetings with the Soviet premier.

One participant in the Monday night briefing said he felt the President looked on the Glassboro sessions as having created the right atmosphere for future negotiations.

Another summit up the presidential agenda by stating that Johnson and Kosygin agreed on nothing except that they ought to try another time to agree on something.

Egyptians Bar Ports To All U.S. Ships

CAIRO (AP)—The Egyptian government has barred U.S., British and West German ships from all Egyptian ports, the newspaper Al Gumiuriya said today.

The paper said Egyptian authorities of the three nations that any of their vessels on port to Egypt ports should divert their course to Genoa, Singapore or Western European ports to reload their cargoes on ships of other nationalities.

The semi-official paper Al Ahram said Egypt has asked all diplomatic missions and U.N. agencies to close their consulates and offices in the Suez Canal Zone.

The paper said they will not be reopened until Israel pulls its troops back from areas occupied near the Canal zone.

BREAKS RECORD

CEDAR CITY, Utah (AP)—Edward G. Mingelett of Palm Dale, Calif., has broken the world scoring record with a flight of about 360 miles, from Cedar City to Price, Utah, and back again in eight hours, 20 minutes.

As the President explained it to the nation, Mansfield said, "these discussions were useful because they allowed two men with heavy responsibilities to talk directly to each other on matters of the greatest importance to their two countries and the world."

Fulbright, a frequent critic of Johnson's handling of foreign affairs, termed the Glassboro meetings a great success simply because they brought the two leaders together in a friendly atmosphere.

He indicated the White House briefing had produced no disclosures of Glassboro developments not already reported publicly, but that the President had wanted to give a personal report to the leadership.

CORVALLIS (AP)—A pre-Christmas tradition is being revived in Corvallis, Idaho, while she was visiting here.

Beth Sturgell, 15, and her Corvallis friend, Amber Fagnani, 14, went shopping for two billboards at a store and bought one pink billboard and one blue billboard. They took them home, and found bills in one.

They turned the money over to police, who are seeking to identify St. Nicholas.

RATIONING LIFTED

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP)—Brazil today lifted rationing on several sections of Rio de Janeiro since the severe floods of February has been lifted. The city said damaged generators have been repaired and normal service is now available throughout the city.

Johnson's Chances Need Kennedy's Aid

WASHINGTON — Only those Lyndon Johnson partisans who maintain their leader walks on the water are denying these days that Johnson will sorely need every breath of help Bobby Kennedy can give him in 1968. Indeed, next year's battle for the White House will provide textbook material for students of politics.

He will need help from whatever quarter it is offered, and that includes the devil, which is the Johnsonian inner circle's nickname for Bobby Kennedy. Probably the best measure of Johnson's difficulties is the Iowa Poll, which reflects the attitudes of a great bloc of voters far enough away from Washington and New York to form his own opinions.

George Romney is clobbering Johnson in Iowa, 52 to 37 per cent. Dick Nixon leads Johnson, 41 to 41 per cent, and California's Gov. Ronald Reagan and Johnson are locked in a 41-to-41 per cent tie. Meanwhile, Bobby Kennedy leads Nixon 46 to 33 per cent, and Reagan, 44 to 38 per cent, trails Romney, 37 to 41 per cent.

The voter may not admire Bobby and may even disagree violently with him, but he is, according to one poll at least, respectably him. Even allowing for the fallibility of any principle, that was a resounding vote of confidence given Bobby in the latest national Louis Harris poll. Seventy-one per cent of the voters agreed that Kennedy is "courageous and unafraid to follow his convictions, and 51 per cent said that he has an inspirational quality for the generation in politics. At this stage of his career, even Bobby's brother Jack was winning no such accolades.

Despite his rapport with women, Negroes and young people, Bobby still trails Johnson, 45 to 55 per cent and Hubert Humphrey, 49 to 51 per cent, in the Presidential race. It is as if the public were saying "this young fellow but we're not quite ready to put him in the White House.

Memory--Week Without Grace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Last week will be remembered as the week that lacked grace. All week the American and Soviet governments have been engaged in a series of society matrons who didn't relate each other, couldn't make a move without their etiquette book.

as President and Kossygin hasn't been here before. But all week there was jockeying, and the advantage should Kossygin's journey from New York to see Johnson here? Or should Johnson, who is flying out to California, make a speech tonight, make the short trip to New York to see Kossygin?

But for a week the two governments dawdled. Every day the White House was vague about meeting and in New York Kossygin was equally blank. As late as noon Thursday the White House said no arrangements had been made.

Finally, Thursday night came the announcement: The two men would meet each other on the 27th. The meeting is today in a New Jersey town called Glassboro. But that isn't exactly halfway. By road Glassboro is only 108 miles from New York and 125 from Washington.

But, since Kossygin wins by only 20 miles in his settlement and diplomats haven't yet figured out prestige by the mile, they may be arguing for a century over the only concession to whom in this case.

Doing one or the other seems simple enough but diplomats learn not to be simple and Johnson and Kossygin are always surrounded by diplomats. Johnson asked Kossygin to visit him in Washington. Kossygin said he was on a visit to the United Nations rather than to the United States but he left the door open for Johnson to visit him.

The President reportedly was unwilling to lend his prestige to this session of the United Nations since the U.S. government considers it a Soviet gimmick to regain favor with the Arabs who felt let down when Moscow failed to support them in the war.

And, since Johnson has to fly west for his speech tonight and Kossygin might be flying back to Moscow sometime today or tonight they are not likely to have time at Glassboro to say more than "it was nice knowing you."

McNamara--No Desire To Win

Suppose, heaven forbid, that Robert Strange McNamara is indeed a Soviet spy. Robert Strange McNamara is indeed a Soviet spy. Robert Strange McNamara is indeed a Soviet spy.

There would also be the matter of offending the Soviet Union. Certainly McNamara would not want the Israelis to do that. It requires avoidance of that very thing, apparently, as the prime purpose of his role in the American government.

With McNamara in Tel Aviv we probably would have heard some advice along these lines: "Look, fellows, if you will just learn to ride camels instead of tearing around the desert in those tanks we might be able to convince the Arabs that we want to keep any future conflict on a strictly native level and not escalate by introducing modern weapons." After all, that's the sort of foolish advice that McNamara has peddled in Vietnam where he has opposed time after time efforts to use modern weapons and tactics rather than slugging it out with the enemy on the enemy's own terms and terrain.

Then, of course, McNamara would never have let a man like Moise Dayan into the Defense Department but would be running things in Israel. For one thing, McNamara doesn't respect professional military men and Dayan is about as great a professional as anyone is likely to see in our time.

The Good Weight

Q—Are there any foods that reduce the blood pressure? A—If you are overweight you should make it a point to bring your weight within the normal range for your height. In general, it is advisable to eat a salt-poor diet. Q—I have high blood pressure and am taking hydralazine tablets. Will they help me? A—This combination of hydrochlorothiazide (a diuretic) and reserpine (a tranquilizer) is very effective in reducing high blood pressure. It should not be taken by anyone with liver or heart disease. Q—I am taking Aldoril and Apresoline for high blood pressure. What are their side effects? A—Aldoril is a combination of hydrochlorothiazide and methyldopa (a blood pressure reducer) and methyldopa may cause headache, weakness, dizziness, weight gain due to water retention and diarrhea. Hydralazine (Apresoline) may cause a rapid heart rate, dizziness and depression. Despite this imposing list of side effects these drugs are safe and effective if used under proper medical supervision.

Drivers At Fault

Of all the factors contributing to the highway accident toll, one of the most difficult to eliminate is the irresponsible driver—the man (or woman) racking up a string of citations and who crashes his merry way along, racking up a string of citations and convictions, causing property damage and injuries, if not death, and who is often not stopped until he finally kills himself.

Every state has laws for dealing with the careless driver, but for a variety of reasons, these have not proved adequate to deal with the problem.

With the automobile a necessity for most people today, judges are reluctant to revoke licenses, especially when a defendant's livelihood is involved. A jail sentence or a cancelled license may punish a whole family. And in many cases, offenders continue to drive even when their licenses are under suspension or revocation.

If a bad driver can't be removed from the highway, asks R. C. Chilcott, vice president of Nationwide Insurance, should not society at least know who he is? Should there not be some way of identifying the driver who regularly breaks traffic laws?

He suggests that habitual offenders be issued license plates bearing a warning like limited use or restricted. Or possibly the plates could merely be of a distinctive design or color readily identifiable to other motorists.

Such plates would not mean the elimination of possible jail sentences. They would be a final warning—A serious violation could result in an automatic penalty—jail—even if it meant putting the driver's family on relief, which might be cheaper in the long run.

The plates would mean what they say. The driver could use his car for a few essential purposes, such as driving to work or to the doctor, but he would be out of bounds on the highway for any other reason.

"Limited use" plates would not solve the problem, Chilcott admits. Some incorrigibles would continue breaking the law even if their cars were painted red, white and blue.

There is also the objection that "limited use" plates would be unfair to other members of a family who use the same car. Why should a housewife, for example, have to bear the stigma of her husband's traffic offenses?

A good question, says Chilcott. But would she rather have her husband in jail? Would restricted plates for six months or a year be worse than having her husband barred from driving altogether?

Is this very stigma that could make the idea work, he thinks. Family pressures for all members of a household to behave behind the wheel—to avoid restricted plates—might be more effective than anything else.

"Limited use" plates are only an idea and not a new one. But with 52,000 deaths and two million disabling injuries recorded on the nation's highways last year, any idea, old or new, is worth exploring.

About Blackouts

At least one plan inspired by the Northeastern power blackout of November, 1965, seems to have paid off. This calls for electric companies to seek voluntary cutbacks by major customers when power demand approaches capacity. Homes and other small users of electricity are not involved.

Insulating such a call may have prevented a power failure the other afternoon in New Jersey and the rest of the four-state area that had been paralyzed only 11 days earlier.

As air-conditioners were stepped up to fight record heat, utilities saw danger of an overload and appealed to big companies to curtail consumption as much as possible. Demand on one electric company's generators, for instance, jumped 10 per cent in two hours, to within 600,000 kilowatts of their 4.7-million-kilowatt capacity. Requests to 122 companies immediately saved 500,000 kilowatts.

The danger was over in two hours and the great majority of customers was spared. Next time it will be the turn of other big users and possibly in a graver crisis small ones may be alerted, too. This is an improvement over sitting idly by and watching the hands go up until, boom! that's all there was.

Customers may wonder when after all these years, they can stop hearing about inadequate capacity, but there can no longer be any doubt that they are willing to do their part in sharing what is available.

Always The Silver Lining

There is a silver lining in every cloud. Sometimes it is hard to believe but it is true. In instances—take the weather of late which, you must admit, has been rotten. It has snowed and rained and rained and snowed and rained. Then, after it would clear up for awhile it would rain again.

Dear Spectator: If Twin Falls and vicinity provide a good adequate airport for airline use we might end up like a joke I heard the other day. It seems as though the pilot of an airliner announced over the communications system in the plane: "We will be landing in Twin Falls in 10 minutes. Please set your watches back 30 years."

Mr. Spectator: For a laugh, try this: I've always had more customers than his competitor, a British candy store proprietor replied: "Nothing to it. In the other place they always put too many sweets on the scales and then take some away. Here we put in 100 few and then add some."

ADVISE I give advice to everyone who I think really needs it. But, frankly, in my effort's lost because no one ever listens. Just one last word I'll leave with you to guide you on life's rugged way—My advice is worth exactly what the one who gets it has to pay. ... May Napier Burkhardt Duhi

MR. SPECTATOR SAYS: Mrs. Robert Kennedy was killed by a car-truck accident the same day her distinguished husband was stopped by President Johnson in a brief exchange of views over Vietnam. Mrs. Kennedy has recovered. Now, how can cynics say this is a crazy, mixed-up world?

Peggy Jo Fijnn Becomes Bride Of Frank Erwin

HAGERMAN—Peggy Jo Fijnn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fijnn, became the bride of Frank Erwin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alan Erwin, June 17, at the Hagerman Methodist church.

The marriage was solemnized in double ring rites with Rev. Paul LaRue of the Buhl Methodist Church officiating before a background of white tulle, mums and white tapers in floor candelabras.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white tulle with a fitted bodice, long sleeves and scooped neckline. Tiers of lace formed the bouffant skirt. Irregular lace was already been worn on the skirt highlighted the gown.

The elbow length veil of silk illusion was held by a crown of white tulle and trimmed with pearls. The bride carried a bouquet of tropical roses. She also wore the traditional blue garter and a penny in her shoe.

Mrs. Frank Gates, Boise, sister-of-the-bride, was matron-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Laura Lemmon and Mrs. Larry Fijnn, Boise, sister-in-law of the bride. The attendants wore floor-length gowns of a range of colors with matching headpieces. Each carried a single-white-chrysanthemum.

INNOCENT BYSTANDER

DEAR DONNIE—And some guys feel that for a girl to take the initiative in such matters is unbecoming, and it turns THEM off. (Maybe she thinks you are one of those guys.)

If you are thinking of marriage, it's high time you started being perfectly frank with each other with regard to what you like and what you don't like about the romantic part of your relationship. When a marriage goes the rocky, false, without usually be found in the mattress.

DEAR ABBY: A girl I'll call Grace is being married soon. Grace's mother and future mother-in-law are both expert cake bakers. The future mother-in-law has already been working on the wedding cake. There is no chance of having the two women do it together because the groom's mother is much too bossy.

How can this be handled?

INNOCENT BYSTANDER

DEAR BYSTANDER: Since the groom's mother is the kind who prefers to sit back and let the other woman do it rather than make an issue of it, I would let the bride's mother provide the cake. I say, let her sit back. I wouldn't presume to "handle" anything which is so obviously none of my business. And, you do, prepare to end up with egg (or cake) on your face.

DEAR ABBY: As an ecumenical brother to the Ohio minister, I, too, have swallowed my pride after officiating at a wedding or funeral, when

Carmel Toolson Is Bride Of Eldon P. Meyer

RUPERT—The Episcopal Memorial Church was the setting for the May 20 wedding of Carmel-Keith Toolson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Val A. Toolson, Rupert, and Eldon Paul Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Meyer, Hillsboro, Ore.

Rev. Fred Pickett presided at the evening ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a tradition of wedding gown of peau de soie with alencon lace appliques trimmed with seed pearls. The base of the cake was surrounded with fresh flowers and greenery. The cake, punch and coffee services were on three individual round tables covered with floor-length bouffant in yellow, white and white tulle, and draped with seed pearls.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Alvin Koneck, Clarkston, Wash. Mrs. Ralph McQuain, San Diego, Calif., presided at the punch bowl, and Christine Rollins, Hillsboro, was in charge of the coffee service. Mrs. William Goodman was assistant hostess.

Guests were served at quarter tables covered with yellow satin and white tulle. Yellow and white floral arrangements in white milk glass centered the tables.

The gifts were set a white wrought iron flower cart.

Background music at the reception was furnished by Pam Abo, Shirley Hondo and Carol Gibson.

Special guests were the bride's grandparents, Mrs. E. C. Davis, Toppensh, Wash., and Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Toolson, Twin Falls.

Guests attended from California, Oregon, Washington, North Carolina, Illinois and Idaho.

Pre-nuptial parties included a luncheon at the Country Club hosted by Mrs. Bill Shillington, Mrs. Anita Bachman and Mrs. Ralph McQuain. The bride and groom's parents hosted the rehearsal luncheon at the Rupert Elks Lodge.

The couple took a wedding trip to San Francisco.

The couple will reside for the next year at McMinnville, Ore., where the bride is continuing work for her masters degree in speech and forensics, studying on a scholarship through the Oregon internship program. The bridegroom is a loan officer with the United States National Bank.

Women's Section T.F. Bethel Receives Second "First" At Grand Council

Members of International Order of Job's Daughters, Bethel No. 43, Twin Falls, for a second time have won first place honors in choir competition in the Grand Council of International Order of Job's Daughters.

Mrs. Frank DeLuca, choir director, said the Twin Falls Bethel group had completed the Grand Council session just completed in Moscow. This is the second year they have placed first in competition with 58 Bethels in Idaho, involving more than 1,000 girls. In the choir competition they are judged on harmony, diction, interpretation and appearance.

Mrs. DeLuca said the choir consists of 30 girls, known locally as the "Singing JDS's." They have performed for many civic organizations and social gatherings during the past year, she said.

"The girls have worked hard for the honor," Mrs. DeLuca explained. "Volunteering between 80 and 90 hours in practice."

Student director is Kathy Anderson and musician is Susan Kramer. Mrs. Robert Thompson is grand officer. A local society guardian, and Janice Neilson honored guest.

Silver And Gold Members Host Duval Women

The Silver and Gold Club of the Senior Citizens' Housing Projects recently entertained the women from the newly opened Duval. There were 64 people in attendance.

Mrs. Goldie Leonard, president, welcomed the guests and presented the program over to Mrs. Lawrence Harper.

Fred Craig, Twin Falls, and his young cousin, Terry, provided a hot meal for the group. Terry is guarding Larry Bell, as Old Time Fiddler's Contest at Weiser.

Mrs. LaVerne Strong, who recently won national honor for the Twin Falls Business and Professional Women's Club, presented a talk on safety, and presented the "Lip for Safety" patch to each member of the club, and to the guests.

Mrs. Pearl Boreson invited the guests to join the club, or to form one of their own, and offered her assistance in this area. She reported on the Sunnyside Supper Club, held every two weeks in the auditorium.

Refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. Leonard, Mrs. Violet Herrick, vice president; Mrs. Rosen, secretary, and Mrs. Julian.

3:30 P.M. SUMMARY NEW YORK (AP) - Stock market closed mixed after a volatile afternoon. Trading was active. Volume for the first four hours was 8.5 million shares compared with 6.5 million Monday. The voice of presidential economic adviser Gardner Ackley was heard to that of Chairman William McChesney Martin of the Federal Reserve Board in favor of a tax increase. Market worked gradually lower in late dealings Xerox was off 7, Polaroid 6 and IBM 3. Los Angeles of about 2 points were shown by Raytheon, American Can, Control Data and Pfizer. Gulf & Western paced the list on volume and lost a fraction. A. M. Industries, Per American World Airways, May Department Stores and Sperry Rand also were active fractions. Bucking the downturn, New York Central and MGM gained 2 each, New York Air Brake gained 1 1/2. All Big Three motors lost fractions. American Motors was firm. General Electric gained more than a point - DuPont dropped a fraction and Eastman Kodak slid about 1/4. Price changes were mixed, as the American Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK (AP) - This has not been the best first half in the history of economic forecasts calling for a mid-year assessment shows the economic outlook projected in some forecasts last year to be an unreal case. It has been, by some measures, the half year of the half right forecast. The big error, it seems, was on the side of optimism, a natural hazard of crystal gazing, in which popularity is often measured by the ability to portray a utopian fantasy. Some independent forecasters, perhaps pessimists by nature, made more accurate estimates. The big difficulty was in calling the turn. After six years of unrelenting growth, the economy entered a new phase. Not all forecasters foresaw it. And some chose not to see it. The economy is neither higher nor markedly lower. Its direction is unclear, a contrast to the steady and easily understood rise that preceded it. Nevertheless, we are now ready for another go-around, and the forecasters won't disappoint us. The economy is moving in a new direction, and forecasting an upturn to begin in the third quarter or perhaps the last quarter of the year. Others, however, are inclined to wipe off 1967 early and think about 1968 instead. Pierre Rinfret, chief economist of a business analyst, commented recently: "One of the things that is most noticeable in the economic forecast business is that the year ends earlier and earlier and the next year begins sooner and sooner. The economic cycles in the formal sense and in the informal sense are now beginning around July. They used to begin around 1960. Most people now begin to think about next year at about this time." The forecasts that result from this kind of "revelation" remain in the mind of the reader long after events have disproved them. This is because of the heavy weight of grand sweeping, confident statements. The facts that follow often are dull. In reading these forecasts, the reader generally is left wondering, for in many instances the forecast is "developed" not so much to foresee the future as to soothe the nerves of the investor. Thus, one of the most notable misses was by government forecasters who predicted a strong 2.5% utility gain in 1967. The prediction before the end of the first half of 1967. Because of the source, it is wise to question forecasts that are based on political goals.

Q. Very few people know much about stock warrants. I am asked a broker about them and he was very vague in his answers. If I were to put $1,000 into warrants, would you call this an investment or a risky deal? A. It would have to be called a risky deal. Warrants, by their very nature, must be counted as speculative. Remembering that you take on some risk every time you put money into the market, you should also be well aware there are degrees of risk. Warrants can't really be called investments, because they are non-income producing. They don't pay dividends, as stocks do. A warrant is a certificate which gives its owner the right to buy some security - in most cases the common stock of the companies - which have issued the warrants. Some warrants are perpetual - meaning they stay in effect forever. Some have expiration dates, after which they become worthless. And the terms under which different warrants can be exercised (used to buy stock) vary greatly. There's no set formula for you to use. Maybe this is why you feel the broker's answers were vague. The big appeal in a warrant is that its market price normally is not as expensive as the stock involved. Also, a warrant usually produces wider percentage price swings - with corresponding changes for gain or loss. For example, say XYZ Corp. has both common stock and warrants outstanding. Say that each warrant entitles its owner to buy one share of common stock at a $10 share. Now, if you own one XYZ warrant, that's all you own. You own $10 worth of a $20 share, the XYZ warrants would normally trade around $10. That should be easy to understand - the $10 difference being the "exercise value" of the warrants. But, if the common stock goes up to $22 a share (a 10 per cent rise in the price of the stock), the price of the warrant normally goes up to about $12 (a 20 per cent gain) to keep the exercise value where it was before. And if the common stock drops from $20 to $18 (a 10 per cent dip) the warrants can be expected to fall from $10 to $8 (again 20 per cent). See. You can get more action with warrants - while putting on less money. But that action can go either way - up or down. Q. I know that a person can have up to $100 in tax-free income from stock he owns each year. But he is supposed to list it on his Federal income tax return? A. Yes. Even though you don't pay the Federal income tax on the first $100 of dividends you receive each year from stock in "qualified American corporations" you are supposed to report all dividends on your tax return. There's a relatively simple way to do this, maybe "simple" and the "right" way. But, at least, there's a method provided on page 2 of the Form 1040 Federal income tax return. You follow the method in Part III on that page of Form 1040. You report all dividends received but you "exclude" up to $100 from any tax bite. For a married couple, filing jointly, a joint return, the exclusion can be up to $200 - when stocks are owned jointly or when each spouse owns stocks on which dividends were paid. I don't claim that Federal tax forms are easy to fill out. If you follow the instructions on this card, you'll avoid paying any unnecessary tax bite on your dividend income.

Israel Trades 425 Soldiers For Captains ALLENBY BRIDGE, Jordan (AP) - Israel handed over 425 prisoners to Jordan today in exchange for two Israeli Air Force captains, the International Red Cross announced. Newsmen were barred from the scene of the exchange, the broken Allenby Bridge across the Jordan River normally used by refugees. The Red Cross of the International Red Cross told newsmen that the two Israeli pilots, shot down over Iraq, were handed over first. They walked across the rickety foot bridge built on the girders of the destroyed bridge. On the west side they were taken care of by Israeli soldiers. Nessy said the 425 released to Jordan included 17 officers, the highest ranking being a major, three Iraqis and 400 soldiers. In Jerusalem, and some Jordanian civilians who had carried arms. But most were regular soldiers.

Meredith To Push Voter Registration OAKLAND, Miss. (AP) - The Mississippi Highway march by James H. Meredith moved to a new political dimension today as he planned to meet with Negroes to push voter registration and perhaps endorse candidates in state elections. "I'm sure the people who are interested will cooperate," Meredith said Monday as he ended the third day of his renewed trek with little visible public response. "Others don't matter anyway." Meredith, 34, thus followed the pattern of a march staged by other Negro leaders last year after Meredith was wounded by a shotgun blast near Hernando, Miss., during a march. Nursing a bothersome tendon in his left heel, Meredith covered 14.4 miles Monday and almost reached Oakland.

Palmer's Undisciplined Army Ignores Nicklaus To Cheer Hero

SPRINGFIELD, N.J.—If the legions who follow Arnold Palmer on the golf course are as unruly, then they must have been trained by Nasser. They are undisciplined, disorganized and downright ignorant of tactical preparation for golf. They don't even have sense enough to switch from a losing cause.

More than 2,000 hangers decked logic at the finale of the United States Open at Baltusrol with blind allegiance to the cause of Palmer—when at the same time, in joint battle, Jack Nicklaus was producing one of the memorable rounds in golf history.

But there's a schism between the watchers and the slubbering hangers. Arnie is a virile, limbo-sitting hero who rouses emotions by the way he flips a cigarette on the green or contorts his face over a missed putt. The people identify with him. You couldn't miss this either, with his closing 69 for second place in the Open.

Baseball Star, Company Fight Ruling That Taxes Must Be Paid On Awards

By TED SMITH
NEW YORK (AP) — The Hickok Manufacturing Co. joins forces with Pittsburgh third baseman Maury Wills Monday to fight a court ruling that could mean all athletes would be required to pay income tax on all trophies and medals they receive.

The U.S. Tax Court held June 14 that Wills must pay tax on the gold and diamond Hickok belt he was awarded as the outstanding professional athlete of 1952, a trophy variously valued at from $6,000 to $16,000. Wills received the award while he was with the Los Angeles Dodgers.

"The results of this are obvious," said Ray Hickok, president of the firm, at a press conference. "It doesn't really make any difference if the award is a $5 award or a $100,000 award—whether it's a student athlete, amateur athlete or the greatest professional athlete, as far as we can determine, any award must be considered as income, and if the recipient is going to abide by the law, he must report it as income."

Idaho High Jumper Chosen For Trials

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP) — Several intermountain athletes, including NCAA high jump champion Steve Brown of Idaho, were among 95 named Monday to compete in the Pan American Games in Rio de Janeiro.

Brown, who won the collegiate high jump title with a leap of 7-1, was the only Idaho athlete chosen for the trials. Picked from the state of Utah were Jim Melton, Utah State long-jumper; Bill Staley, Utah State, discus; Scott Eynuro, Utah triple jumper; Ken Patena, Brigham Young State, 50-meter sprinter; former Utah State discus star whose home is Smithfield, Utah.

Pinch Hitter Lets Mets Edge Pirates

NEW YORK (AP) — Pinch hitter Ed Charles lined a run-scoring single in the ninth inning, breaking a tie and bringing the New York Mets from a 2-2 tie to a 3-2 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night.

"This is a battle for all sports achievement," said Wills. Judge Fay in his decision had stated that the income of Judge William M. Fay will be applied by Wills and Hickok to the circuit court of appeals in St. Louis.

LAYDOWN SLAM NOT BIDDABLE

An expert calls a hand is a "laydown" any time he feels that the hand will make it played correctly.

Thus, today's hand is a laydown six no-trump but we wonder about how many average players would actually bid and make this hand. Some might make only three.

Opening lead—♠ Q

The way to make three is to hold back the ten of clubs. An expert would attack the clubs at trick two by leading the queen and continuing with the 10. West wouldn't cover but the expert would rise with dummy's king anyway. East would show out and the club suit could be brought home any time.

South leads the three of clubs instead of the ten; he also finds out about the club break but can't do anything about it. The 10 will block the suit provided West is smart enough not to cover it with the jack.

The play for six is quite complicated. South starts by giving up a diamond or a heart. Let's say he gives up a diamond. Later on he handles clubs the right way but runs off all his high cards except one high heart because of the high heart he has in his hand.

As stated earlier the slam was a laydown but it is not really biddable because it depends on being able to run clubs and finding East with at least four cards in each suit.

Pure Or Practiced A Matter Of Preference

Dear Ele and Walt: I just saw a documentary on TV. There would be one remark made in an interview that bothered me very much. She said that a good doctor should not make any judgment on her personality but, he'll marry her anyway.

Dear Happy: You can't generalize about fellows any more than you can about girls. Male opinions range all the way from someone might get the wrong idea about our relationship. You think I ought to accept or not?—Grace.

Dear Ele: I've been baby-sitting for a doctor's family for years. Last week he asked me to join them on a month's vacation this summer. The children are the best-behaved children I care for, so I think it could be a pleasant experience. But my mother is worried because the doctor is divorced, and although his mother is coming along on the trip, mom feels "non-touched" status to the hippie crowd, "virginity" causes cancer. (No, it doesn't!) Your moral stance should be based on your own values—rather than on the words of the men—your life!—Ele and Walt.

FALSE COLORS
Dear Ele: In the past four months I've spent well over $100 dollars escorting a young lady to various events. At no time did she indicate that she was anything but completely free and uncommitted romantically. Now she suddenly informs me that she cannot date me any more because her boyfriend is coming home for the summer. Frankly, I feel as though I'd been swindled. If I had any hint that she was committed to anyone other than me, I would have looked elsewhere for company these past months. Is my complaint valid to you as a woman? I'd like to know—R.J.

Dear R.J.: I agree; the girl flew under false colors! After three dates—she should have said: "Rod, it's a real ball with you! I haven't had one-tenth this fun since Tom went off to college. Tom? Oh, he's a boy I've dated for past two years. We're both free to date others, but I guess you could say we're

Jobs For Peace Bargain For Florida Racial Quiet

By DON NORTH
FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Jobs for peace, a bargain for racial quiet which city fathers have yet to accept, took shape Monday night in a muggy schoolroom near a sprawling Negro slum.

More than 60 young Negroes, many of them, hesitant to believe something was finally going to be done, came to learn about "Operation Cool Summer."

This is an ambitious project of the Florida National Association for the Advancement of Colored People aimed at putting idle Negro youngsters to work to siphon off discontent which they predict could explode into violence in Florida communities.

"You don't need to take my word for it," said Rev. Isadore Edwards, Baptist pastor and president of the local NAACP chapter. "Drive down Anderson Street once. They're all there, hundreds of them, talking about turning Cleveland Watts."

But Marvin Davies, state field director for the NAACP, says if you can put dollars in their hands, they won't be picking up bricks.

Davies calls it a community project, but he says his biggest problem so far has been getting the community involved.

National NAACP headquarters is closely watching the plan which calls for a series of two-week sabbaths to be observed by employed Negroes for existing job opportunities and get them hired.

The community part requires employers—most of them white—to come forward with job opportunities. And it calls on city fathers to reorganize the municipal job structure which currently is white on the top and Negro on the bottom.

"I don't want any second-rate job," said Clyde Washington, 26. "I want a job where they need me, not just a job to take."

Washington is a leader of the biggest segment of restless youths in the West Side slum area and his appearance at the schoolhouse meeting was considered a major victory.

"He could turn us over (to the five minutes) said the Rev. Mr. Edwards. "It took us five weeks to get to him."

The question now is whether city commissioners will order them the owner of slum property will join the project and meet their part of the bargain.

The NAACP has asked for enforcement of the minimum housing code, a Negro aide to Mayor Paul Myers' staff as a communications link and appointment of more Negroes to city boards.

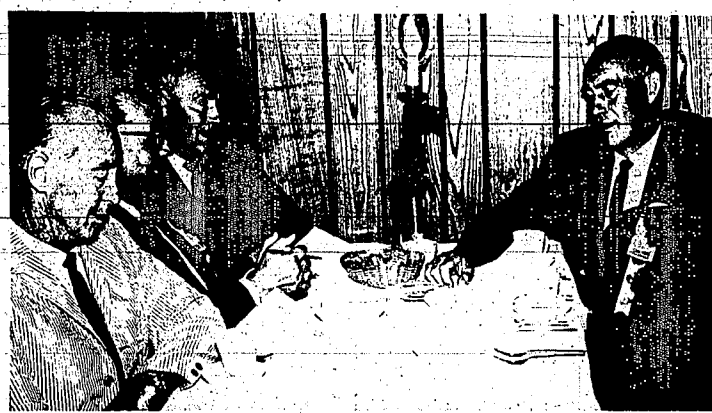

There is one Negro member of 22 city boards.

It has also asked for the upgrading of recreational facilities, a cleanup campaign in the slum area and use of a Negro policeman at the block level.

It has also requested formation of a "Neighborhood Youth Corps," the biggest element in restoring order to riot wracked Tampa 10 days ago.

Davies said Mayor Myers has scheduled a meeting July 5 with the city commission to go over NAACP demands.

Myers, according to Davies, has indicated tentative agreement to all but the idea of having a Negro aide.

Arizona Community Gripped By Fear Of Further Brutal Child Murders

By RANDY COLLIER
SIERRA VISTA, Ariz. (AP) — The little children of this community have vanished. It is as if some Pied Piper lured them away with his magic pipe.

They're in their homes or their backyards or in the family car. Parents keep constant watch. Two blond girls have vanished—one from her home, another from a play area—to become murder victims.

The people are frightened.

A local pawn shop owner says he could get rich if he had more .25-caliber automatic pistols.

"They're selling like hotcakes," said the dealer. "The women here say they aren't going to let some nut kill their children without at least putting up a fight."

It was nearly two months ago that pretty blue-eyed, blonde haired Cindy Clelland disappeared from her home in Sierra Vista, which has grown up around Ft. Huachuca. The sprawling desert Army post is headquarters for the Strategic Communications Command.

The girl, daughter of an Army sergeant, was found stabbed to death in a brutal fashion three days later. She was nude when searchers found her body on a remote firing range.

Then last Thursday, Jennelle Haines, whose father is a lieutenant colonel, disappeared while playing near a pond at the Ft. Huachuca Officers Club. She was found eight hours later, her skull crushed by what is thought to have been a large rock.

Because the second killing was on federal property, the Federal Bureau of Investigation was called in. Agents working out of Ft. Huachuca refused to comment, saying, "We'll call you if anything happens."

A number of persons interviewed Monday said they felt it was unfair to be left in the dark.

"We don't know what to watch out for," said one woman as she shopped with her three children tagging along behind. "Surely someone saw something. If someone they could tell us more."

Civilians here say they think the killer—or killers—is in the Army. Military personnel say townspeople are always quick to blame the Army.

"There is no way of knowing who the killer is," said one officer who refused to give his name. "Anyone can get on this post. All you have to do is stop at the gate and get a pass. It could just as easily have been a civilian."

But the real worry isn't whether the killer is a soldier or a civilian. People say they won't trust anyone, not even their neighbors, until someone is arrested.

3 Skeletons Are Problem For Utahns

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Three old skeletons were creating somewhat of a dilemma for public officials in Utah's capital today.

The skeletons—two children and one adult—were unearthed last week during excavation for the Salt Lake County Civic Auditorium. Workers apparently uncovered a long-forgotten, unmarked pioneer burial plot.

The big question: What do you do with the remains of "unknown pioneers?"

Police temporarily placed the skeletons in their evidence room and they may remain there for a long time.

And the Utah Historical Society made its stand clear. "One thing's for sure," said director Everett L. Conley, "we certainly don't want them cluttering up our shelves."

Church Merger Is Guaranteed

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — The proposed merger of the Methodist Church and the Evangelical United Brethren (EUB) church into a religious body of 11 million members appears virtually guaranteed.

The new religious body would be called the United Methodist Church.

Officials of both churches gathered at EUB headquarters here Monday night and confirmed that required approval by membership of the religious bodies was a "statistical success."

First Security Bank Of Idaho Forms Southeastern Division

Formation of a southeastern division of First Security Bank of Idaho was announced Tuesday by Ralph J. Comstock Jr., president.

The division will be supervised by James E. Phelps, Twin Falls, senior vice president, and will be headquartered in Pocatello. It will include First Security banks in Pocatello, Montpelier, Preston, American Falls, Aberdeen, Rupert and Burley.

Purpose of the realignment is to facilitate administration and communication among the increasingly busy banking offices of First Security in the southeastern area of the state, Mr. Comstock stated.

"It will also relieve the bank's executive vice president, E. C. Chaffey, Idaho Falls, from some time-consuming duties and permit him to devote more time to other affairs of the state-wide banking organization," he said.

Mr. Phelps has been supervisor of First Security Banks in the Magic Valley and Sun Valley areas since 1965 when he was elected to the position of senior vice president and director. He has been in the banking business since 1948, and was president of First Security Bank of Twin Falls, which merged with the state organization in 1964.

A native of Tennessee, Mr. Phelps is a graduate of the Pacific Coast School of Banking, University of Washington, Seattle. He has been chairman of the Twin Falls Salvation Army Advisory Board, president of both the Emmett and Gem County Chambers of Commerce, and was recently elected president of the Blue Lakes Country Club.

Assisting Mr. Phelps in the operations of the division will be Ted E. Ellis, Pocatello, credits and credit administration;

JAMES E. PHELPS has been named supervisor of the newly-formed southeastern division of the First Security Bank of Idaho, NA, which will be headquartered in Pocatello. Mr. Phelps has been supervisor of First Security Banks in the Magic Valley and Sun Valley areas since 1965 when he was elected to the position of senior vice president and director.

Thailand Teacher Battles Reds

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A schoolteacher, 50 years old and with 11 wives, has become Thailand's most famous anti-Communist fighter.

Military authorities said the teacher singlehandedly held off a band of 40 well-armed Communist terrorists, killing one and seriously injuring another last week.

The teacher, Niti Sunghit, father of 19 children, was in his house in Bangkok when the northeast Thailand band entered the town to hold a forced propaganda meeting.

When they came to his house, Niti refused to come out. Instead he opened fire with two blasts of a shotgun, authorities said.

There were the only two cartridges he had. His shots hit one of the Communists, who dropped his submachine gun. Niti picked it up and began firing.

"Their bullets fell like rain," he said. "At one moment I tried to fool them into thinking I had fled the house by throwing a blanket out of the window. They riddled it with holes."

Although wounded, Niti leaped from window to window returning the terrorists' fire to make them think more than one man was in the house.

Three hours after the battle started police reinforcements arrived and killed another terrorist.
