Beat-The-Heat

Anybody with a lick of sense Monday was looking for a cool pool, some nice leo or a frezzin' breeze.

It was another of those "hant-the-heat" days that followed on the heels of a couple of scorchers that ushered in the long Fourth of July weekend. Sunday the mercury hit 89 at the Twin Falls Entomology Laboratory, and by noon Monday it was 89 and heading for the 90s again.

A lot of lucky Twin Falls residents were up in the mountains Monday, where the breezes were just a shade cooler. Those who had to be at work, or who choose to stay home off the crowded holiday highways were finding a variety of ways to make the heat a bit more bearable.

It helped, some, but not too much, to think back to last winter, when this kind of weather was just what most of them were hoping for.

Ice Bag and easy chair helped... or a fan and a dark room... or watermelon and a porch.

City Does Its Best To Keep Everyone Busy

By ANN WILLIAMS
Times-News Staff Writer

Would you believe that more than 5,000 individuals are participating in the Twin Falls Recreation program this summer?

According to Chad Browning, Twin Falls recreation director, this is an average of more than one person in each Twin Falls home who is involved in one of the most outstanding city recreational programs in the state, or the Intermountain West.

Six Twin Falls parks participate in the yearly summer program—Harmon Park—Elkhorn, both elevated on Locust Street South; Sunrise Park, Maurice Street North; Harrison Street North; Harry Barr Park, Barnum Avenue West and Blake Street North; South Park, Highland Avenue and Lois Street, and Drury Park, Washington Street South and Fourth Avenue West.

The program opened June 13 and will close Aug. 11 with the annual back-to-school parade, co-sponsored by the Downtown Merchants' Retail Association and the Parks and Recreation Department.

The weekly program includes games and sports, arts and crafts, quiet games and many other activities. Two leaders supervise all activities at each park.

The largest of the many facets of the recreation program is swimming. About 1,500 children are taking swimming lessons in the "Learn to Swim" program. Each day, classes for beginners, advanced beginners, intermediates, swimmers, junior lifeguards, and life savers, divers and adults are held at the pools at Harmon Park and Harry Barr Park. All instructors are Red Cross water safety instructors, or safety aides.

Rose Ann Sinclair is the manager of Harmon Park pool, and Earlean Peterson is the manager of Harry Barr pool.

The city swim team meets from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. Mondays through Fridays at Harmon Park pool. Dr. John Moran is the instructor. About 75 participate in this group.

Special events of the swim team include a city swim meet, rough water swim and the Intermountain Age Group competition.

Each Wednesday night is Family Night at the two pools. Each family is invited to form a group, and no children are allowed in the pool unless accompanied by one parent. Special rates are given for families on Family Night.

The Knothole baseball program has 60 teams, with an average of 15 on each team, making a total of 900 players. From first grade through ninth grade. Games are played every Tuesday through Friday. No games are scheduled during school grounds, Mondays, the day that all parks are watered.

Girls' softball includes 35 teams, with an average of 12 on each team, making a total of 420 participants. Both Knothole teams and softball teams must be registered with the recreation department by May 15 of each year to be eligible to play during the summer.

League play ends July 28, with playoff games set for the first week in August.

American Legion baseball practices are held at 5 p.m. each evening at Harmon Park for boys aged 14-18. A total of 100 games are played Wednesday and Friday evenings and on weekends. A district tournament will follow league play, with the winner going to regional and state tournaments. The state tournament will be held Aug. 10-13 at Nampa.

Men's adult softball involves 35 participants who play two or more games per week, Tuesday through Saturday, and the women's softball group consists of 80 team members. A tournament for both groups will be held during the summer.

Tennis classes for beginners and advanced beginners are held from 7 a.m. to noon Mondays through Fridays at the Harmon Park tennis courts. There are four two-week sessions, followed by a tournament. Dick Rice is the instructor. The classes are open to all boys and girls of school age. Approximately 160 youngsters are now taking tennis instruction.

A basketball clinic is being held nightly at 7 p.m. at Twin Falls High School gymnasium. It is open to fourth-graders and up. There are 45 youngsters involved in the clinic.

Ten track meets are held in conjunction with the recreation program. The first one has been held, and the second one will be held July 18-22 at the new school track. The track meets are open to both boys and girls. Approximately 300 youngsters participate in the track meets.

For those who like less strenuous activities, there are classes in tumbling, twirling, drill team marching and jump rope, all of which last for eight weeks. Ellen Harrison, program instructor, will direct all groups in a summer review at the City Park bandshell. About 112 school-age boys and girls are now participating in these classes.

Every other Friday a dance for Junior high, high school and college students is held from 9 p.m. to midnight at the American Legion Hall. All dances are chaperoned.

During the summer, all six parks have tournament winners in ping pong, hopscotch, tetherball, checkers, croquet, jacks, hockey and jump rope. This is called the "Mighty Mites" Heyday. These winners meet at Harmon Park and compete against each other, with the winners receiving trophies.

The arts and crafts program in the six parks involves some 120 youngsters daily. They make simple, hand-made articles, such as wall plaques and play games.

The recreation department also sponsors the weekly band concerts at 8 p.m. Thursdays in the City Park bandshell. Charles Ratcliffe is the director.

Junior Band is held at 1 p.m. daily at the O'Leary Jr. High band room, and Senior Band, for next year's high school students, is held on Mondays. Thursdays and Fridays at the Twin Falls High School music room. Charles Ratcliffe instructs the Junior Band and Del Slaughter directs the Senior Band.

The Art Guild meets from 10 to 10 p.m. each Thursday at the Harry Barr Park recreation building. The Golden Age Club meets every second and fourth Friday at the DAV building, 459 Shoup Ave. This is co-sponsored by the parks and Recreation Department and the Soroptimist Club.

The Hobby Crafters meet from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. every Wednesday at the Harry Barr Park recreation building. All adults are welcome.

Members of the Parks and Recreation Commission are: Howard Allen, chairman; Paul Bull, Archie Brown, Merl Edson, Shirley Straughn, Mike Grey, Howard Johnson, superintendent of parks and recreation, and Chad Browning, recreation director.

Mr. Browning employs a summer staff of 38 persons, most of whom are college and high school students, and teachers on vacation.

He became recreational director in July, 1962, after serving as recreational supervisor under former Parks and Recreation superintendent, Elton Crager.

Mr. Browning graduated from Jerome High School in 1953 and attended Idaho State University, Pocatello, for two years.

While at ISU, he was active in a variety of sports, including baseball and basketball. For two years he was in the U. S. Army Special Services, where he worked in recreational and athletic programs.

Wary Eye Kept On Earthen Dam By Three Communities

By JIM LUTHER

LAWRENCEBURG, Tenn. (AP)—Castling a wary eye at dark thunderclouds, rural families in three middle Tennessee communities prepared for their sixth anxious day in the path of a potential flood from a leaking dam.

Laurel Hill Dam, an earth structure made rubble by several straight days of rain began seeping dangerously last Wednesday. By Friday, engineers were tapping water through a sluiceway to lower the 3.8-billion-gallon lake at the rate of 8 inches a day in an effort to relieve the pressure. It is down two feet from full pool now. Officials plan to lower it 16 feet more. So far, the water seeping through the dam—75 feet high and 840 feet long—has been clear. Unless it turns muddy, engineers said, they are optimistic that it will hold.

The nearest community is about 20 miles away, giving residents 48 minutes before a 46-foot wall of water would reach them at an estimated speed of 30 miles an hour.

Engineers figure they would have between four and six hours to clear the area should the dam actually give way—based on a careful search of records on similar dam disasters.

"It takes that long between the time a dam starts to give way and the time it actually bursts," one engineer explains.

The dam is about 50 miles southwest of Nashville in an area of scenic beauty north of the Alabama state line.

Espionage Scheme Said Uncovered

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—Hungarian counter-espionage has uncovered a Western espionage scheme aimed at military secrets as well as disliking and amorous habits of prominent Communist officials, the newspaper Nepszabadsag reported Sunday.

A Budapest editor and his wife were sentenced to unspecified prison terms on charges of spying on Soviet forces and revealing "intimate details" of the private lives of officials, such as "who is getting a divorce, who likes drink and who likes women," the paper said.

According to the charges, Laszlo Geresdy, a former sports writer and editor of a state publishing house, and his wife were doing the spy work in the service of Radio Free Europe, a private American station which broadcasts to East European countries.

The Geresdys were said to have acted as "fledgling" RFE representatives in Hungary since 1962, reporting on military, scientific and cultural affairs and personalities.

TRADE PACT SIGNED

WARSAW (AP)—Poland and Red China have signed a new trade pact providing for an unspecified increase over last year's $52 million trade turnover between them, the official press agency PAP reported.

FREE FROM ANXIETY AND DOUBT

By NORMAN HERRETT

The ruby is the "sun's own gem" and July-born men and women are the "sun's own children." The ruby bestows freedom upon its wearers from all life's doubt and anxiety as well as giving them the gifts of charity, dignity and divine power.

Kings and emperors have always sought rubies for their crowns. A legend tells how a Burmese Rajah once chose a most perfect diamond to give his beloved queen. But a prince of the court coveted the gem so much that he stabbed the queen and stole the gem. But before he could tear it from her finger, it became covered with blood from the queen's wound and the diamond changed into a ruby.

Rubies occur essentially from the Oriental countries, Uppur Burma is the location for rubies of the true pigeon blood quality—a shade of red with a slight admixture of purple, ranking as the highest standard of color.

Rubies occur in a granular limestone that forms the sides of the Burmese hills. Because of erosion the limestone is broken into countless ages, the alluvial deposits of clay and gravel washing down into the adjacent river beds in the best source. Generations of natives have sorted through this clay and gravel, being rewarded with an occasional deep-colored ruby.

Near Bangkok in Siam is the famous Hill of Precious Stones, where rubies of a darker color occur under similar conditions. Burmese stones are considered choicest in color and command a higher price per carat.

A Senseless Game

The events which have overtaken and overturned the Middle East in the past few weeks should at least make clear to even the most chauvinistic on either side of the Iron curtain the pernicious foolishness of the Cold War.

To borrow the words of Gamal Nasser, Russia has suffered a serious setback in Israel's defeat of the Arabs, whom the Kremlin has been courting and supporting for, lo, these many years.

But why did the Soviet Union become involved in the Middle East in the first place?

For oil? Russia is an oil-exporting country. For military and naval bases? For allies? But of what value would such bases and such allies be in a nuclear missile exchange with which ironically, the Kremlin's very meddling in this area made quite possible and from which it hurriedly backed away from via the hot line to Washington?

It is the inflexible logic of the Cold War which makes a potential opening phase of World War III of every trouble spot on the globe.

Wherever instability or a power vacuum exists on the face of the earth, Cold War "realities" dictate that either the United States or Russia must move in with arms and aid, both reasoning that unless it does, the other will gain a bit more influence, a bit more leverage, a bit more political or military or ideological advantage.

It is this Cold War competition that enables a Nasser or a Castro to peddle his dubious allegiance to the higher bidder, that makes a world crisis of every petty squabble between petty states, that balloons every local problem in the developing lands into the proportions of an East-West confrontation.

The United States and Russia made clear to each other at the outset of the Arab-Israeli fighting that neither was going to go to war against the other.

Yet Cold War logic requires that Russia must continue to flirt with that possibility, must continue to champion the Arabs, must continue to work mischief in the U.N. in hopes of recouping some of its loss—just as the United States was required to intervene in Vietnam against an imminent Communist victory and must continue to raise the ante to cover the blood and treasure it has already invested.

Of what use to either East or West is a Middle East in constant turmoil? Of a Vietnam bleeding year after year? Why should historical footnotes like Nasser or Castro or Ho Chi Minh be raised into the position of being able to tempt East and West into approaching the nuclear brink?

Two countries and two countries alone control the destiny of the world. It is they alone who have it within their power to secure world peace for all time or turn the planet into a cinder.

When Russia and the United States cooperate in the United Nations, that so-called parliament of the world can accomplish anything. Without them, it can do nothing.

But it is only when the specter of nuclear war comes frighteningly close that they are moved to cooperate. As soon as the specter retreats, the Cold War game goes on as usual.

In the name of humanity, if not ordinary reason, it is time for the game to end.

WASHINGTON — American diplomats and government figures who have talked to their counterparts from the Soviet Union during Premier Kossygin's visit to the United States and his meetings with President Johnson are optimistic about the possibility of what they call "a new accommodation" between Washington and Moscow.

This optimism might be dismissed as the usual wishful thinking that follows any summit meeting except that it has a new ingredient. That ingredient is the turbulence in Communist China.

In their talks with Soviet officials, notably Ambassador to the U.S. Anatoly Dobrynin—an old favorite here—Americans got the distinct impression that the anxiety in Red China was the major reason the Soviet Politburo okayed Kossygin's sessions with Johnson. That is to say, the Russians felt Mao Tse-tung is in so much trouble at home—and, indeed, might be deposed at any time—that it was "safe" for Kossygin to cozy up to Johnson.

Until recently, fear of Peking's reactions has always caused Moscow to be most cautious in seeming to cooperate with the U.S. The Politburo has been leery of giving Mao new ammunition for his charges that Moscow and Washington are colluding to end the Vietnam war. He has been leery of giving Mao new ammunition for his charges that Moscow and Washington are colluding to end the Vietnam war. He has been leery of giving Mao new ammunition for his charges that Moscow and Washington are colluding to end the Vietnam war.

Eggs And U Thant

WASHINGTON (AP)—U Thant, secretary-general of the United Nations, is a mild Burmese who likes bacon and eggs and can get in a jam by saying too much or saying too little.

Five years ago what he said wasn't much but it turned out to be too much. He was trying to roundly tell the Congo at the time and got angry at the leaders of the secessionist Katanga government. He called them a "bunch of clowns."

He was criticized for that. This year, he and his staff along with the United Nations, that so-called parliament of the world, can accomplish anything. Without them, it can do nothing.

role of world Communist leader, and the Politburo has been worried not only about possible defections from the Zurov Communist bloc but of Peking's attempts to play an influential role in Africa and the Middle East.

The Arab-Israeli war, at the outset, fanned Russian fears of Red China's political intervention in those areas. The Russians didn't want Mao suddenly to emerge as the Arabs' only faithful friend. But the collapse of the Arab and Egyptian empires ended that threat, and at the same time bolstered the Soviet feeling that Mao is "too busy" to do much meddling abroad.

Diplomats from both Western and Communist countries report that matters have gone from bad to worse for Mao since the "Great Leap Forward" and the "Cultural Revolution." Few see any chance of Mao hanging on much longer in the face of continued opposition from the "revisionists" and Moscow-liners.

As of this week, the Maoists had been forced to admit that official pronouncements that they controlled only four of Red China's 26 provinces and only two provinces in the north and south. And despite exhortations from Peking to support the Maoists "revolutionaries," the Red Army is now in a position of trying to keep order, while for the most part remaining po-

Glassboro—Nice

WASHINGTON — They said it could be done. He didn't find a man who lived in Glassboro, N. J., who hadn't been interviewed by the press.

Well, I don't think I would have thought of Glassboro," I replied frankly.

"The obvious choice would have been Summit, N. J.," he said. "But if you look at a map you'll see Summit is closer to New York than it is to Washington. And President Johnson couldn't go there. So they had to meet in Glassboro or out in the middle of the New Jersey 'summit' meeting."

"Were you impressed with seeing Premier Kossygin?" I asked him.

"Well, I've seen one Soviet premier you've seen them all."

"But you've got to admit it was a great honor to have him in your home. He had a few things to say about Glassboro."

"He had a few things to say about everything until he got bored. I think it would have helped if he were nastier in his remarks and nicer at the United Nations."

"But don't you think the world is a better place because Kossygin was here, Johnson met in Glassboro?"

"The world may be a better place, but the big question is, 'What do you mean by that?'"

"Well, this was a small town, and we were simple people who didn't have too many opinions on anything. Now, wherever you go, everybody wants to talk about world politics. The grocery man wants to know if I think we should have a nuclear proliferation treaty, the candy store owner says he's against an antiballistic missile defense treaty and the garage attendant says we should have a nuclear war. It's hard to get anyone to talk about the Philadelphia Phillies any more."

"You are on the map."

"You don't have to tell me that. I got relatives I never heard of who keep calling and wanting to visit us. Guys I went to school with pull up at station wagon with their families and I want to take them over to Hollywood where the summit took place. We got tourists coming out our ears."

"But at least the 'spirit of Glassboro' will go down in history books with pull up at station wagon with their families and I want to take them over to Hollywood where the summit took place. We got tourists coming out our ears."

"You ever read a Soviet history book? They'll probably say the summit took place in Rhode Island."

"In spite of what you say, I'm sure you would be flattered if the leaders of the world decided to have another summit meeting in Glassboro."

"I suppose so. It would be worth it just to see Charles de Gaulle's face after he got a whole lot of good parts of New Jersey."

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Stroke Of Peace

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Foreign affairs specialists were not surprised when the Johnson-Kossygin meeting took place "somewhere" before they were able to produce agreements of real substance.

The interest has been in why so few people are faithful in the device of summitry, and why the heads of the two great powers would resort to it again when its record of failure is nearly total.

Inevitably, an air of pompano hangs over confrontation like that in Glassboro, N.J. It is clearly touching to see so many invest so much hope in the imagined magic of two world leaders sitting down together for a few hours to review the great disputes of the world.

What these people want, of course, is universal peace at a stroke—a waving of the leaders' hands and the world will quickly be free of all its menacing problems and somehow the hard competition between the giants.

The hope defies reality. Through the late 1940s and 1950s, the cry for summit meetings was unending. European leaders would not survive an attempt to meet. As fast as one summit failed, the call went out for another.

Last year, when Bill Fullerton, an secretary-general was exploring, Thant, who led both an educator and a newspaperman, said he had had enough and wanted to retire.

But if he did, it seemed to mean a long struggle between the United States and Soviet Union before they could agree on a successor. They could both accept Thant, so he was persuaded to stay.

Now he probably wishes he hadn't.

The First Century

Canada is beating her southern neighbor to the punch in birthday celebrations—and in a very special occasion for Canada in this case.

Exactly 100 years ago this July 1 the Canadian confederation became a self-governing British dominion.

It is a centennial of more than purely Canadian significance.

After her initial fling at empire building collapsed in the American Revolution, Britain embarked upon a radically different course in acquiring and organizing bits of real estate around the globe.

Canada, the oldest dominion, was the first fruit of this new policy of guiding, colonies toward autonomy and eventual independence. The results, as a glance at a map shows, are profoundly affected the world's political structure and orientation.

Central to the Canadian experience has been the relationship with the United States, again something of greater significance. It has not been without its strains and contradictions. But two countries, one immensely powerful and expansive, the other fiercely loyal of its own political and cultural identity, have shown that it is possible to live together not only in peace but with cooperation and even affection.

It has been a great first century for Canada. May she prosper for many more.

Camp? Perhaps

Before you decide whether to send your child to a summer day camp you should consider the following: He will be better off at home if he is highly creative and full of confidence in projects of his own devising. If most of his friends will be available to play with, if you yourself can arrange an outing at two for him each week or if you have investigated the local day camps and are not satisfied with their facilities, and safety regulations, programs, etc.

On the other hand, your child will derive great benefits from a day camp if there is no suitable place for him to play outdoors near your home, if he needs encouragement to meet new friends or engage in outdoor sports, or if his friends will be attending and he has his heart set on it.

There are other factors that may influence your decision but the important point is that no general rule can be made to suit all children. Your child is an individual and was best for his brother or sister is not necessarily what will be best for him.

As a result of some home chores my 8-year-old son got playing my in his eyebrows and hair. I can't get it out. What would you suggest?

A—You have a child of three proven methods. (1) You can cut away the gummy hair. (2) You can apply ice cubes direct from the freezer to the gum, making it brittle enough to be easily removed. (3) You can rub in some warm milk chocolate, allow it to dry then wash it out with soap and warm water.

Q—My son, 8, has a mania for camp and his friends having a bowel movement every day. Will he outgrow this condition, or should he have some sort of treatment?

A—In persons with this inborn defect it is normal to have one very large bowel movement every three to nine days. Studies should be made to determine whether or not normal nervous control of your son's colon is present. If not it may be necessary to have the inborn defect removed. In any case he will not outgrow it.

Q—I have been making an egg cake every day for my son because otherwise he would not take enough nourishment at breakfast. Although I don't see cracked eggs a wonder if there is any danger of his getting Salmonella poisoning from this.

A—There is no danger. Non-alcoholic egg whites is liquid curd and is an excellent food for persons of any age.

Q—What is Invallid given for and what are the side effects?

A—This is a brand of papaverin put up in a way to give analgesic action. It shows the least habit-forming and is especially valuable for persons with an uncontrollable rapid pulse. It causes no side effects but anyone who is taking it regularly should have a continued check for glaucoma.

Q—I have three small cysts in my breast. They are very annoying all the time. My doctor says to leave them alone. What do you think?

A—Follow your doctor's advice.

SELLING DRINKS AND CUTTING COSTS

The Civil Aeronautics Board has made a decision that might not be too popular among first-class tipplers, but it will be greeted with approval by those who hope to see the rapid arrival of the day when air travel is within the means of virtually every citizen.

The CAB hopes to end the practice of giving free drinks to first-class passengers on the nation's airlines. If the policy is altered those traveling in first-class seats would pay the same $1 per drink as other passengers. The CAB argues that drinks should not be a part of air fare.

In the first place there would be a certain justice in the decision. Passengers who don't drink pay the same first-class fare as those who do and are therefore underwriting a portion of the cost of the drinks of the other passengers. Here, anyone traveling first class should be able to afford the small additional charge for libbling.

Beyond that, every attempt should be made to bring all air fares down by every reasonable means, whether the passenger is flying first class or second rate.

The cost of air travel has dropped dramatically over the past decade and continues to decline. That probably explains in part the stupendous boom in the number of airline boardings across the nation. Many people, in any case, are surprised to learn how low the fares already are.

The airplane is not quite competitive with other modes of travel for the frivolous trip, but, in any case, it is already within the means of most citizens for special or emer-

THE STUBBORN SIX

The minority of states not having a sales tax continues to nag. Nebraska's 2 1/2 per cent sales tax went into effect Thursday. The Minnesota Legislature has just overridden Republican Gov. Harold LeVander's veto and that state's 3 per cent sales tax will go into effect Aug. 1. That makes 44 states with a sales tax.

The six holdouts are Oregon, Alaska, Delaware, Montana, New Hampshire and Vermont.

Minnesota Gov. LeVander's veto was because the Legislature refused to submit the sales-tax to a vote of the people. In Oregon, the state constitution prohibits any tax even though it would have been sent to the people for decision.

If the Senate's action in Oregon results in a crippling property tax limit or an unbearably high personal income tax, the sales tax will bob up again. There is not much prospect of a well-balanced tax program without it. —The Oregonian

Bette Larsen, Bodrero Wed In Temple Rites

BURLEY — Bette Larsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Larsen, Burley, and Dennis Bodrero, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bodrero, Logansport, were united in marriage June 14 at the Logan LDS Temple.

The couple greeted guests that evening at the Fifth Ward LDS Cultural Hall, Burley. The hall was decorated with a wishing well, adorned with red geraniums, beauty baskets of yellow gladioli and a white-lace fence accented with seven-foot trees decorated in pastel colored paper flowers.

The bride wore a floor-length gown of bridal pearl and ivory, fashioned with a high neckline, long lily point sleeves and an empire waistline. The chapel train was enhanced with embroidered lace.

Her bouffant shoulder-length veil of illusion was held by a rose crown. Cascading yellow roses and yellow gladioli with white streamers formed her bridal bouquet.

Vivian Larsen, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were RoseAnn Dattage, Karen Thorton, Shirlene Bodrero, RoseAnn Hamblin and Marsha Hudson.

Lynn Bodrero was best man. Ushers were O'Neil Bodrero, and Bruce Pletcher.

The bride's table, covered with a light beige lace cloth over yellow, was centered with a three-tiered white and yellow wedding cake. Yellow roses in crystal budvases flanked the wedding cake.

Refreshments were served by Joan Moore and Karen Owens, Montana Butterfield, Logan, registered the guests. Gifts were displayed by Peggy Bailey and Darlene Larsen.

The couple took a wedding trip to Sun Valley and Red Fish Lake.

The newlyweds will reside in Logansport.

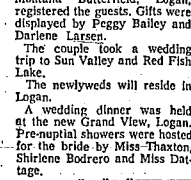

A wedding dinner was held at the new Grand View, Logan. Pre-nuptial showers were hosted for the bride by Mrs. Thorton, Shirlene Bodrero and Miss Dattage.

MAIN COURSE SUGGESTION

It's handy to combine a starchy food with a vegetable to serve as a main course. Potatoes, for example, may be mixed with green peas.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter will be christened in our church soon, and it is customary to have guests at home afterward for food and drinks.

The problem is my mother-in-law. She has a drinking problem. No matter what the occasion, if there is liquor around, she uses it as an excuse to get very, very drunk.

For that reason, the last christening we had, I served no alcoholic beverages, and several of my husband's relatives remarked that they felt "cheated." What should I do this time? I don't want anyone to feel "cheated" in my home, but I can't bear seeing my mother-in-law in that condition.

Don't say, "Watch her." She just helps herself and it would take physical force to stop her.

PUZZLED HOSTESS

DEAR PUZZLED: Give a "dry party." It would be easier than giving a wet one and worrying about your mother-in-law. It's a kindness to keep temptation out of her way. And as for your husband's relatives, they can surely forego their drinks following a religious ceremony in which a child has been officially named and identified with a church.

DEAR ABBY: I am a nice looking girl (so I've been told), and recently my friend bought me a "fall" wig. When I wear it, it seems to attract a lot of attention. Here is my complaint.

Almost every time I've got my fall on, some jealous girl will say in front of a lot of people, "Is that wig you have on, or is that your own hair?" This makes me feel real bad.

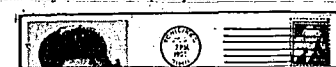

HAVE A HAPPY FOURTH OF JULY!!

17 Protestors Near Embassy Are Arrested

LONDON (AP) — Police arrested 17 anti-Vietnam war demonstrators near the American Embassy in London's Grosvenor Square Sunday night.

The demonstrators, members of a protest organization called the London Committee of 100, marched round the square carrying posters saying "Genocide Square."

"It was intended to rename Grosvenor Square, where the U.S. Embassy is situated, as Genocide Square because of American activities in Vietnam," a committee spokesman said.

"But we were warned by police before hand that we would be breaking the law if we superimposed new nameplates upon the old ones."

Hundreds of police ringed the square and barred approaches to the embassy building. The arrested demonstrators were charged with using threatening behavior.

Kennedy To Visit Indian Reservation

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — One more Utah hopewell is planned by Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., before he returns to Washington this week from a family vacation on the Colorado River.

Kennedy, a member of the poverty subcommittee of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee, will inspect uses of antipollution funds Tuesday on the Navajo Indian Reservation, part of which is in southeastern Utah.

The second political sidetrack was announced Saturday by Sen. Frank E. Moss. The last week Kennedy addressed a party rally in Salt Lake City and toured national recreation areas in southern Utah with Moss.

Moss plans to accompany the New York Democrat on his recreation tour and hopes to enlist Kennedy's backing for approval of additional assistance in federal programs for the state's Indians.

"I have introduced legislation to expand the authority of the State of Utah to expend trust funds held for the Indians. This visit will help elicit Senator Kennedy's support for this legislation," Moss said.

The Utah senate believes he already has Kennedy's support on his bill to make Antelope Island in Great Salt Lake a national monument.

Some time before the Senate next week Moss said, "It will help me, very definitely."

Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, opposes the project and claims it is too expensive.

Soviet Film Festival On This Week

MOSCOW (AP) - The Soviet answer to the glamor of Hollywood is a festival of Soviet films on this week.

Moscow's film festival promises political fireworks. The festival is past being a minor Soviet film with top awards; against foreign jurors demanding recognition for the achievements of Soviet cinema.

Moves to honor controversial films from the West have confronted the festival. Soviet officials have been reluctant to honor such films.

Refusal to honor such films hurts efforts to present a liberal image abroad and dampens the prestige of the Moscow festival. But the Soviet officials are determined to honor such films.

The American film 'Who is Afraid of Virginia Woolf?' will be shown outside the competition to an invitation-only audience of Soviet film workers.

The Soviets always invite scores of the world's stars to attend the festival, partly because the scheduled showing of their films is worked out only at the last minute.

Two American directors, both involved in jury battles in past Moscow festivals, are expected to attend, Fred Zinnemann and Stanley Kramer.

6 Koreans Are Killed From Ambush

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) - North Koreans killed seven South Korean soldiers and 60 Communists were ambushed in other clashes with U.S. Vice Premier in the area.

Reports of the attacks in and below the demilitarized zone appeared to have been withheld from the foreign press. The attacks in Seoul, about 80 miles to the southwest.

As Humphrey said his farewell to the army, a few hours after Park was inaugurated for his second term, he said more than 200 North Korean soldiers and 800 South Korean soldiers were killed in the fighting.

Congo Seeks Extradition Of Tshombe

KINSHASA, the Congo (AP) - The Congo government has asked Algeria to extradite former Premier of the Congo, Joseph Kasavubu, to face charges of treason and plotting to overthrow President Zaire.

Since most African nationalist leaders consider Tshombe a puppet of the colonialists, it was not surprising that Algeria, a Western regime would turn him over to the Congo government.

Tshombe is being held in Algiers after the apparent hijacking of a plane in which he was traveling from Palma de Mallorca to the nearby Mediterranean island of Ibiza, in the Spanish Balearics.

Algerian officials said several mercenary soldiers and Belgian citizens were on the plane with Tshombe. The plane was shot down by a Congolese fighter plane in the Spanish Balearics.

Algeria and the Congo broke diplomatic relations in 1964 under Tshombe's regime and have not formally resumed them. A Congolese Embassy spokesman in Paris said his government has assigned representatives to attend the extradition talks with Algeria.

The 49-year-old Congolese leader has been in European exile for 10 months. He is living in Madrid, since Mobutu took power in a bloodless coup, Tshombe's political party has been banned in his native Congo. He has been in the property confiscated and his supporters thrown out of their positions.

Tshombe was sentenced to death in absentia by a Congolese military tribunal last March after it found him guilty of treason and subversion. Most of the charges grew out of the accession of his copper-rich Katanga Province from the rest of the Congo in 1965. He was a U.N. force to end the secession, driving Tshombe into exile.

Q. On a recent day I stopped by a brokerage office a number of times because I am in the stock market. I have not my first visit the stock was selling for $36.50. Still later it was $36.25. Just who was the seller? I would lose money. I didn't "re-buy" because I mean that I can turn it in and collect?

A. No. In this use of the word "redeemable" means that the issuer of the bond (the U.S. Treasury) has the right to call the bond and redeem it before it reaches maturity. It does not mean that you, as the owner of the bond, can present it for redemption. This is where U.S. Treasury bonds and most other bonds differ from U.S. Savings Bonds. When you have a U.S. Savings bond, of course, you can always get your money back by redeeming it. That's your right. But Treasury bonds and most other bonds are "redeemable securities." You could sell that bond in the open market now but you would get only about $36.00. That's the going market price. If you held on to that bond until it reaches maturity in 1972, you will "then get your $40.00 par (face) value back. Q. I bought $1,000 worth of mutual fund shares 10 years ago. I have made some additional investments in this fund from time to time and have also received my dividends and capital gains distributions to buy more shares. But I don't recall ever having received a stock certificate. I get statements from the bank which handles the mutual fund. Is this sufficient? A. Sure. Along with many other mutual fund investors you have never asked for delivery of your certificates. Leaving your certificates in the account with the custodian bank is common practice. Each statement you receive shows exactly how many shares you own and the market price. Don't worry about it. It makes no difference that you don't have any certificates in your possession. Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.

Los Angeles Dodger right fielder Ron Fairly made the catch and fired the ball to catcher Jeff Torborg who blocked the plate. Brand tried to make Torborg loose from the ball with a hard collision at the plate but was unsuccessful. (AP wirephoto)

Golf Touring Pros Still Seek Changes

MONTREAL (AP) — Golf touring pros, on the verge of a revolt, reiterated their demand Sunday that they are ready to pull out of the Professional Golfers Association and form their own organization.

The group agrees to their demands for more control over the tour. "We are adamant about this," said Gary Dickson, a member of the players-tournament committee.

"We reject the PGA's position that they still retain the right to operate the tour," Dickson said. "We want to play at Columbine very much, but we won't if an agreement isn't reached."

The pros have threatened to boycott the PGA championship — one of the world's four major golf titles — unless they can reach agreement with the PGA. The tournament is scheduled at the Columbine course in Denver, starting July 20.

Californian Doing Good Business Finding Ants

BELL GARDENS, Calif. (AP) — For ant hunter Ken Gidney business is looking down.

On his hands and knees, clutching a broom straw and coffee can, Gidney captures ants for a wholesale company that supplies ant farms, an educational toy for inquisitive children, eager biology students and the idle curious.

Gidney's rewards aren't penny-ante. He gets a penny an ant as a professional. Sometimes his intake reaches $3,000 a week when the ants are running strong.

Gidney, 46, who lives with his wife and nine children in Bell Gardens, a Los Angeles suburb, got the job by answering a newspaper ad.

"I go over," he says with a touch of bravado. "Saugus, Newhall, Ontario, Pomona, Lancaster, Palm Springs—anywhere I'm likely to find ants."

"I usually have some of my children and some assistants along. We spot an ant hill, get out, and start digging with shovels. And then we fetch our ants onto our straws."

"Twice a week, Gidney delivers sacks of ants—15 to 35 in each polyethylene vial—to his employer."

The ant hunter must be selective, catching only the sterile females called gynes, workers or harvesters. These are the worker ants that perform busy in the dirt-filled, transparent plastic ant farms.

Gidney can't keep all of his ants down on the farm, however. Every two months, 4,000 ants are mailed to Washington, D.C. "They're all done by government. We send them to the Walter Reed Army Institute for research," says Gidney's employer. "It's all done by government contract. We get $100 per shipment."

Sen. Brooks Gives Report On Session

RUPERT — State Sen. Mary Brooks was a guest at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Thursday at Hiram's Cafe, reporting on the special legislative session just concluded in Boise.

Mrs. Brooks noted that the regular session was a disappointment. Public Assistance without sufficient funds, which was the primary cause for the governor calling the special session, was not included in the budget. Part of the problem, according to the senator, was due to the federal matching funds, which she said are being cut back.

She said a team of Certified Public Accountants has been appointed to follow these programs and give comprehensive reports to the legislators in the future.

Sen. Brooks reported that both she and Rep. Oscar Arstein opposed the one cent per gallon gas tax. She said she felt that the measure was passed by the session. She believes the $3 million surplus in the general fund will be used to pay off the highway improvement in the state.

Bud Davis, assistant to the president of Magic Valley Christian College, and President Don Nielson reported on the second annual Breaker Breakfast held at the college that morning, serving members of the local chambers of commerce and other business men.

Sen. Brooks was introduced by the month's program chairman, John Trevino, who also reported on progress of Rupert's July 4 celebration, rodeo and pari-mutuel horse racing.

Claude Bowman conducted and Nephil Douglas gave the invocation.

Samuelson Signs All But One Bill

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson signed all but one of the bills passed during the five-day session which ended June 23.

Among these are measures appropriating $3.5 million for the general law surplus to the Department of Public Assistance and increasing the state motor fuel tax one cent per gallon.

Samuelson left until Wednesday to sign the highway improvement bill.

The governor returned Saturday from Jackson, Wyo., where Thursday and Friday he attended the National Republican Governors Conference.

Samuelson will return to the Western Governors' Conference.

There are 257 acres of land involved in the option and the purchase price was set at $55,000.

Israel Expects No Major Egyptian Offensive

By DENNIS NEEDLE

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israel's military command, which claims Egyptian forces are massing along the canal, believes there may be a series of Egyptian raids across the cease-fire line but it expects no major offensive to recapture lost territory.

After its bloody mauling in the Sinai Desert three weeks ago, the Egyptian army is no shape to launch a determined assault across the canal or to establish a bridgehead on the eastern bank of the waterway.

The principal Egyptian objectives are believed here to be political, not military. President Gamal Abdel Nasser is anxious to maintain the belief among his people that the war is continuing.

The theme of Egyptian propaganda for internal consumption always has been that the country suffered a setback in Sinai but did not lose the war. Egyptian leaders have urged since the cease-fire to prepare for the next round.

With shooting going on along the canal, Egyptians are more likely to accept the inevitable economic hardships at home. As the Israelis see it, by maintaining war hysteria—Nasser may also hope to stifle criticism of his government's policies and maintain his own dominant position.

Another political objective, according to the Israeli assessment, is to maintain the illusion that Egyptian forces never entirely quit the Sinai and kept a foothold on the eastern bank of the canal.

Asked whether Israel regards the canal as the cease-fire line, a military spokesman replied: "definitely, yes."

He claimed no Egyptian troops are established on the eastern bank of the waterway but he must have been referring to the cease-fire line to the south. Egyptian troops are in Port Said, which is on the eastern bank near the canal's northern entrance, and they have been there since the cease-fire.

Israeli government sources say that Egypt, through the influence of the United Nations, is trying to influence current U.N. General Assembly deliberations and perhaps create a situation that prompts the intervention of the Security Council.

Shriver Is Battling Congress For OEO

By TOM SEPPY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sargent Shriver is battling Congress for the life of his command post—the Office of Economic Opportunity—and the usually optimistic antipoverty director concedes the future looks bleak.

"There might be no war on poverty by the time we're through," Shriver said recently, estimating the odds are 60 to 40 in favor of the OEO.

Shriver's primary concern is to dismantle the OEO and move its programs to such established departments as Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

Johnson has requested $2.06 billion for the OEO for fiscal 1968, compared with the $1.6 billion appropriated in fiscal 1967. Shriver believes an appropriation of $1.7 billion to $2 billion might be wrong from Congress.

Some congressmen believe the appropriation will be the same as fiscal 1967.

The difference between what Congress authorizes in spending and what it actually appropriates can spell the life or death of his program, says Shriver.

It would replace the OEO with a three-man council of economic opportunity advisers in the White House.

Shriver says the shift would make the antipoverty program more effective.

President Is Enjoying His Stay At LBJ Ranch

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — support you and are behind you, you always improve," Johnson said.

Making no effort to hide his feelings, he told the 51-year-old president that he belongs to a party where you can speak our minds, and we speak our minds. He said he was going to speak it again in 1968.

The president also said, "I think, generally, that the worst Democrat is better for the country than the best Republican."

Johnson and wife Lady Bird are expected to remain at their ranch, some 15 miles northwest of San Antonio, through July 4. It's felt they may linger through next weekend.

While meeting with the governor, Johnson agreed to sign a bill authorizing $43 million of spending over two years for programs to benefit the elderly.

He also issued a statement halting the first anniversary of the Medicare program, saying the insurance plan "goes into its second year as a sound administrative basis."

Also released here Saturday were recommendations of the President's commission on the withholding of federal highway funds unless routes chosen "guarantee consideration of natural resources, recreation and natural beauty."

ANT MAN. Using a straw, Ken Gidney, 48, Bell Gardens, Calif., who collects ants for a living, counts his catch after a daily hunting trip. Ken captures up to 30,000 of them each week and sells them to an ant farm manufacturer for a penny a piece. (AP wirephoto)

Rejoicing in attack formation, the beetles sniff their way to another tree. The cycle goes on and on. In Canyonville, Oregon, other white pine forests of the northern Rocky Mountain Region, the beetle is killing 20 million board feet of timber each year, enough to build 20,000 homes.

In an old dairy converted into a field laboratory at Headquarters, a German insect entomologist and two assistants are hard at work plotting a counterattack they hope will sharply reduce the infestation and save the white pine from extinction.

"Protection is more important than control," says Dr. Joachim Schöner, of Freiburg University of West Germany, "but until a feasible way is found to protect each tree, we concentrate on destroying the beetles."

He says he hopes by summer's end to have most of the answers.

Three experiments are being conducted. Probably the most important involves developing a synthetic sex pheromone for the female scolytids or queen tree beetles which attracts the swarms to the tree marked for destruction. If a formula is found to attract beetles, foresters will use it to collect thousands of the insects on a central spot where they can be liquidated in masses.

Another method is to plant beetles in holes drilled in small white pine logs. This "bait" is suspended in a white pine weak-knee beetle which attracts the swarms to the tree marked for destruction. If a formula is found to attract beetles, foresters will use it to collect thousands of the insects on a central spot where they can be liquidated in masses.

Blue fungus carried by beetles actually spells a faster death for a tree than the boring of the carrier. Fungus spreads to the tree's inner bark, sealing off its nutritional supply line.

Beetles hibernates in winter, emerges from brood trees in spring, and fly usually until late in August. Aerial spraying is ineffective, because of the timing of the beetles' work.

Schöner, whose research is financed by the State Cooperative Forest Agency, is with the U.S. Forest Service, Boyce Thompson Institute and other research foundations. It is considered one of the most important projects in the world to help man someday gain the upper hand in the war against the beetle.

"We really have to stop the beetle," he said. "It is killing 50 per cent of the white pine in 20 years. It will all be gone unless we win."

Samuelson Signs All But One Bill

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson signed all but one of the bills passed during the five-day session which ended June 23.

Among these are measures appropriating $3.5 million for the general law surplus to the Department of Public Assistance and increasing the state motor fuel tax one cent per gallon.

Samuelson left until Wednesday to sign the highway improvement bill.

The governor returned Saturday from Jackson, Wyo., where Thursday and Friday he attended the National Republican Governors Conference.

Samuelson will return to the Western Governors' Conference.

Sen. Brooks Gives Report On Session

RUPERT — State Sen. Mary Brooks was a guest at the Chamber of Commerce luncheon Thursday at Hiram's Cafe, reporting on the special legislative session just concluded in Boise.

Mrs. Brooks noted that the regular session was a disappointment. Public Assistance without sufficient funds, which was the primary cause for the governor calling the special session, was not included in the budget. Part of the problem, according to the senator, was due to the federal matching funds, which she said are being cut back.

She said a team of Certified Public Accountants has been appointed to follow these programs and give comprehensive reports to the legislators in the future.

Sen. Brooks reported that both she and Rep. Oscar Arstein opposed the one cent per gallon gas tax. She said she felt that the measure was passed by the session. She believes the $3 million surplus in the general fund will be used to pay off the highway improvement in the state.

Bud Davis, assistant to the president of Magic Valley Christian College, and President Don Nielson reported on the second annual Breaker Breakfast held at the college that morning, serving members of the local chambers of commerce and other business men.

Sen. Brooks was introduced by the month's program chairman, John Trevino, who also reported on progress of Rupert's July 4 celebration, rodeo and pari-mutuel horse racing.

Claude Bowman conducted and Nephil Douglas gave the invocation.

There are 257 acres of land involved in the option and the purchase price was set at $55,000.

Mrs. Kennedy To Visit Rome

DUBLIN (AP) — Mrs. John F. Kennedy intends to go to Rome Thursday and have an audience with Pope Paul VI, Irish reports Sunday.

After a stay in Rome of about three days, she will return to Ireland where she has been vacationing since June 15 with her children, Caroline and John.

Californian Doing Good Business Finding Ants

BELL GARDENS, Calif. (AP) — For ant hunter Ken Gidney business is looking down.

On his hands and knees, clutching a broom straw and coffee can, Gidney captures ants for a wholesale company that supplies ant farms, an educational toy for inquisitive children, eager biology students and the idle curious.

Gidney's rewards aren't penny-ante. He gets a penny an ant as a professional. Sometimes his intake reaches $3,000 a week when the ants are running strong.

Gidney, 46, who lives with his wife and nine children in Bell Gardens, a Los Angeles suburb, got the job by answering a newspaper ad.

"I go over," he says with a touch of bravado. "Saugus, Newhall, Ontario, Pomona, Lancaster, Palm Springs—anywhere I'm likely to find ants."

"I usually have some of my children and some assistants along. We spot an ant hill, get out, and start digging with shovels. And then we fetch our ants onto our straws."

"Twice a week, Gidney delivers sacks of ants—15 to 35 in each polyethylene vial—to his employer."

The ant hunter must be selective, catching only the sterile females called gynes, workers or harvesters. These are the worker ants that perform busy in the dirt-filled, transparent plastic ant farms.

Gidney can't keep all of his ants down on the farm, however. Every two months, 4,000 ants are mailed to Washington, D.C. "They're all done by government. We send them to the Walter Reed Army Institute for research," says Gidney's employer. "It's all done by government contract. We get $100 per shipment."
