American Poet, Carl Sandburg, Dies

By BLOYS BRITT
FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP) — White-toped Carl Sandburg, Pulitzer Prize-winning poet, historian, novelist and Lincoln biographer, died quietly at his beloved goat ranch in western North Carolina Saturday.

He was 88th birthday, he would die in his 93rd year. In Washington, President Johnson mourned Sandburg's death, saying, "Carl Sandburg gave us the trust and most enduring vision of our own greatness... there is no end to the legacy he leaves us."

Scattered around "Rememberance Rock" near Sandburg's birthplace at Gatesburg, Ill. Original copies of many of the author's works and mementos are at Gatesburg.

An avowed leftist, Sandburg loved to sit on his porch and swap jokes and sing old labor songs with his close friend, author Harry Golden. Of Golden and himself, Sandburg once said: "We're two old-time soap socialists, we've now North Carolina landowners."

He awoke in a semi-conscious condition Saturday morning. "He had difficulty in breathing from about 8 o'clock," she said.

The two nurses who had been in constant attendance in recent months arranged to keep him alive with artificial respiration. His physician, Dr. D.I. Campbell, King, was called. The poet died shortly after King arrived.

The sparkling white house was built by Christopher G. Mumming, treasurer of the Spanish-American Confederacy during the Civil War. It was there that Sandburg, known as the "parade poet," wrote much of his line poetry, college and university book biography, hailed by many critics as his greatest work.

He would have nothing to do with communism, Red China invited him to attend a celebration marking the 100th anniversary of the publication of "Whitman's 'Leaves of Grass.'" Sandburg declined the invitation, saying, "I would like to see a little more of the spirit of Whitman—a great apostle of liberty—in the land of China."

Girls' State Report Given To Rupert Chamber Session

RUPERT—Several reports, including one on Girls' State, were heard by Chamber of Commerce members at their Thursday luncheon meeting at Hinricks Cafe.

Laura Dietz, Girls' State delegate, reported on the week's activities of 270 young women from around the state who attended the mock legislature sessions.

The lady "lawmakers" passed three bills in their Senate and passed by the legislators and vetoed by the governor. Chief among the bills passed was one to keep the natural resources within the state and to protect states rights in this connection.

Through seeing city, county and state governments in action, and the operation of the two-party system, the girls learned the importance of every citizen to good government.

Of the 49 speakers who addressed the delegates, Miss Dietz reported she was most impressed with those who had been in Communist countries and their description of life under this form of government. This showed her most vividly the importance of democratic governmental practices.

"As future builders of the nation, I feel this experience in government was most beneficial," Miss Dietz concluded.

WASHINGTON—If they knew about it, which is unlikely, I'm afraid America's installment-buying poor would disagree with the verdict of the charming Betty Furness that Senate passage of a Truth-in-Lending bill is "a great victory" for the consumer. # Trends In Agriculture Outlined At Heyburn HEYBURN — An enthusiastic audience of two and one-half farmers, ranchers and business men heard a summary of a study prepared by Ford-Mittler-Co. during a banquet in the night of the Heyburn Chamber of Commerce held at the Pon-derosa Inn.

Paul A. Johnson, field sales manager for the Central District of the Ford Motor Co.'s U.S. Tractor and Implement Operations, presented an inside picture of what the trends in agriculture will be like in the year 2000, just 23 years from now.

Information given the public this year by the company are the results of a two and one-half year study with experts in many lands and in the United Nations. The Ford Co.-sent teams around the world to determine what is needed to help to put off a mass starvation, and also what farming methods will need drastic changes.

The Ford official stressed that in order to ward off mass starvation in the world each country should be educated in ways and means to feed themselves and not lean on the American farmer for food.

"The ultimate answer will not be in exporting American food, it will be in exporting more American agricultural know-how," which was also doing now, but which we are going to have to accelerate drastically in the next 10 years if the world is to survive."

Mr. Johnson said that his company has plans to carry important agricultural information around the world to help alert the general public, to help others guide their own product planning to join in the massive fight against starvation.

He pointed out that the food problem will be increased by the increasing world population and that between now and the year 2000 there will be 180,000 new babies to feed.

He explained the world in matter of food supply is broken up into three general areas, the first being about 40 countries which roughly parallel the equator, such as portions of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. He said these are already suffering from hunger and to survive their growing populations will require a miracle increase in food production.

He said the second general area includes those countries behind the iron curtain and the Bamboo curtain, noting that Red China is producing more babies today than all the rest of the world combined, while of hybrids that the farmer will be seeing more ears per stalk, more peas per pod and more kernels per head, and that short season crops will be available to make two harvests a year possible.

The descriptions given by Mr. Johnson concerning future equipment seemed almost unbelievable to the audience such as farming equipment without drivers and a cab which includes air conditioning, food warmer, coffee maker, and refrigerator.

He said that it is possible that in the year 2000 machines won't even work soil directly but will be fractured and conditioned by ultrasonic waves instead.

Another possibility, he noted, is a complete factory machine, which scoops up a ribbon of soil, lays the seed, fertilizer and chemicals, and then replaces the ribbon of soil in perfect seed bed condition. He said that planting can be done by pneumatic injection, a system which literally shoots the seed into the ground. This method, he explained, may be helpful by allowing the farmer to plant in mid-winter because seeds will be chilled to remain dormant until late time to grow.

Robert Burnham, master of ceremonies for the evening, presented service plaques to Forest Blake and Bruce Brower, for serving as presidents in the Heyburn Chamber, Mr. Brower

Paul Legislator Protests Farm Truck Licensing Rule

RUPERT — State Rep. Oscar Arstein, Paul, Saturday took issue with Gov. Don Samuelson and Commissioner of Law Enforcement Warner Mills over the licensing regulation on farm trucks hauling produce in Idaho.

Mr. Arstein said the governor and commissioner should take immediate steps to clarify to farmers of Idaho the policy change regarding licensing of farm trucks.

The Minidoka county Democrat made the statement after numerous complaints had been registered with him by farmers who have been stopped by state law enforcement officers and a fined for not having commercial licenses when hauling hay or other produce which they did not own.

High school and college boys, the state legislator said, are being denied the right of employment. Because of an acute labor shortage during harvest season, farmers depend on cooperative work for their harvest operations, he added.

"The State Department of Law Enforcement now seems to be giving a different interpretation to the law, which will prohibit this type of farm operation."

"If the department enforces the laws, there is no doubt in my mind, as a man engaged in agriculture activity in Idaho, that about two-thirds of the producers will violate the Idaho code sometime during the year," Mr. Arstein said.

Farmers who say they are able to economically harvest their crops by trading work such as hay hauling in exchange for grain combining depending on the machinery each owns, are protesting the state police arrests when they do not have commercial licenses on their farm trucks, the legislator explained.

He said having a commercial license also requires the farmer to keep a record of all miles spent hauling for other persons with a fee then paid to the state on a basis of mileage.

Farmers were not told in advance, he said, that such a regulation was being enforced.

MOSCOW (AP) — Hypnosis before and after surgery has been found helpful in lung operations performed at the Russian hospital for children in Moscow, the Soviet news agency Tass reported.

He explained the world in matter of food supply is broken up into three general areas, the first being about 40 countries which roughly parallel the equator, such as portions of Africa, Asia, Latin America and the Middle East. He said these are already suffering from hunger and to survive their growing populations will require a miracle increase in food production.

He said the second general area includes those countries behind the iron curtain and the Bamboo curtain, noting that Red China is producing more babies today than all the rest of the world combined, while

Another possibility, he noted, is a complete factory machine, which scoops up a ribbon of soil, lays the seed, fertilizer and chemicals, and then replaces the ribbon of soil in perfect seed bed condition. # Management Of Dairy At Youth Ranch Commended

Miss Meredith Commits Suicide
Twin Falls Times-News
Sunday, July 23, 1967

RUPERT—Work of a 16-year-old youth who has complete charge of the dairy at the Idaho Youth Ranch has received commendation from the state administrator, reports.

John Emery keeps an excellent rotation and feeding program, maintains complete breeding and production records and works closely with county agents and Kraft Co. fieldmen, McCollum says.

The youth has been in charge of the dairy since the death of L. G. Yost, house parent who was in charge of agriculture at the ranch. Commendations have come from the state inspector, officials of the farms which installed the milker equipment at the barn and who have offered to send Emery to their school in Indianapolis to train him for servicing work, and from the Kraft Co.

Mr. McCollum added the youth has declined an invitation to spend the summer with relatives in order to continue supervision of the milking program.

It was reported 22 boys are now in residence at the ranch, one is scheduled for release Sunday and two applications have been approved, bringing the ranch to capacity.

Three summer camp sessions are scheduled with the second camp to begin Monday and run for one week on the first session slated Aug. 3-9.

Arlo Montgomery, trustee on the agriculture committee, reported at the quarterly board meeting that crops look good and the first cutting of hay was better than anticipated.

Donation of a bus from the Eagles lodge was noted. It replaces the old worn out vehicle the ranch has been using.

A list of needed materials have been acquired from the architect, Willard Johnson, Billings, Mont., for phase two of a new living unit planned at the ranch.

Members expressed a hope that the building can be started soon, and are seeking donations of materials wherever possible.

Steel- Reese, Foundation has pledged $10,000 a year for three years if matching funds can be found. The board members were asked to look for new donors for this project.

McCollum reported the ranch has met this year's pledge to the foundation.

Board members in attendance at the meeting, presided over by Clyde Greenwell, were William Roper, Burley; Dr. A. A. Krueger, Ashton; Arlo Montgomery, Heyburn; and Earl Peck, Twin Falls.

Board members unable to attend, but who called during the meeting, were Sen. Mary Brooks, who was in Washington, D. C. on business; Roy Miller, Pocatello, who was in Denver; Tom Nathan, Jerome, who is recuperating from heart surgery; and Mrs. Grace Martin, Moscow, who was unable to fly in because of the airline strike.

Trustees attending included Mrs. Con DeThomas, Rupert; Dr. Charles Parker, Jerome;

Will Beck, Murtaugh; Pete Creed and Mrs. David McCluskey, Twin Falls; and E. R. Blaukey, Burley; Mrs. H. E. King, Burley, who assists with rehabilitation and counseling at the ranch; also present, as were members of the ranch staff, C. C. (Pop) Baker, Burley, was a guest.

The meeting was opened and closed with prayer by the Rev. E. O. Davis of the Church of the Nazarene.

Grandson Of Area Woman Is Drowned

RICHFIELD—The tragic death of 3-year-old Len Peterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald (Bert) Peterson, Golden, Colo., has been learned by Richfield relatives including the child's paternal grandmother, Mrs. Lola Peterson.

The small child's body was found after an intensive two-week search and it was learned he had drowned. The search, which included the use of dogs, had been over lakes and ditches and the canal where his body was found. The possibility of kidnaping was also considered by officers and a house-to-house search conducted.

The boy disappeared Sunday morning while he and his 10-month-old brother, Brian, were being cared for by their father, Mrs. Peterson and her mother, and the father, a former Richfield resident, was preparing a barbecue for the family.

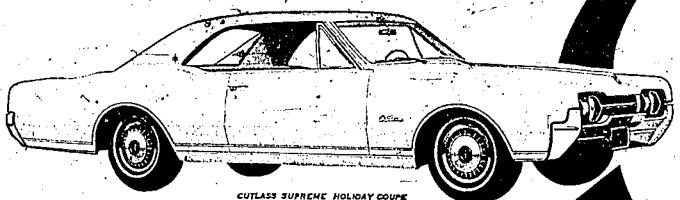

The little boy was playing in a nearby gulch with a neighbor's dog, an inseparable pet. When Peterson was searching for his son a neighbor told him the boy and dog had been seen by the man, but the father could not locate him. The dog returned home about an hour later with wet feet.

Survivors include the child's parents and baby brother; two grandmothers, Mrs. Edith Fleming and Mrs. Lola Peterson; an uncle, Fred Peterson; a cousin, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Sluder, formerly of Richfield and Idaho Falls, now of Grand Junction, Colo., are caring for Brian Peterson at present.

Donald Peterson is a geologist at the Denver Federal Center and the family have resided at Golden for three years. He is a graduate of the University of Idaho.

Vietnamese Prisoners Tell Of Treatment

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
 DUC PHO, South Vietnam
 (AP) — Vietnamese men and women freed from a Viet Cong prison camp by U.S. paratroopers said Saturday inmates had been beaten to death in public executions to frighten other prisoners into submission. Ho Tuy Duc, 35, a soft-spoken teacher seized by guerrillas two years ago as he was walking to school, said he had been forced to witness three such executions. "The last three weeks ago, he said the guards had beaten the victims to death with clubs and stones. Speaking through an interpreter, Duc said at least 21 other prisoners had been deliberately starved to death by the guerrillas.

7 Persons Are Hospitalized After Crash Near Murtaugh

Seven persons were listed in southeast of Murtaugh. State Patrolman Frank York said the accident occurred at 6:15 p.m. at the intersection of two rural gravel roads.

Listed in fair condition at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital were Eddy L. Manker, 21, Twin Falls, driver of a small foreign vehicle and Karl E. Bedke, 51, Oakley, driver of the other vehicle, a 1965 sedan. Also in fair condition were Mrs. Norma Bedke, 47, wife of the Oakley driver and the passengers in the Manker vehicle, Jim Schutte, 25, and Gary Van Buren, 18, both of Twin Falls, and Bruce Kroll, 17, Hazelton, who was listed in serious condition Friday night with internal injuries but fair Saturday. In good condition was Frank Bedke, 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. Karl Bedke. Patrolman York said Mr. Manker was traveling north on a gravel road when his vehicle collided with the east bound sedan driven by Mr. Bedke. Both vehicles entered the intersection at about the same time, the officer said, and the impact knocked the Bedke vehicle some 53 feet into a borrow pit and the smaller auto about 37 feet and into an irrigation ditch. Officers said two ambulances and two wreckers were called to the accident scene. Sheriff's officers from both Twin Falls and Cassia Counties assisted the state officer in the investigation.

DAVID R. CHATTERTON

AS2 Chatterton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Chatterton, 1099 2nd Ave. W., died while serving with Helicopter Squad No. 2, on the carrier USS Hornet, operating in the Tankin Gulf off Vietnam.

James Blake Candidate For Alumni Post

James F. Blake, Twin Falls, operator of Anderson-Blake Insurance, is a candidate for president-elect of the Idaho State University Alumni Association. The ISU alumni will vote this year to select a president-elect and three directors for the group. Executive secretary William J. Ryan said that because of a constitutional revision approved in 1966, the current president-elect, B. F. "Gus" Bennett, will automatically succeed to the presidency of the association for the 1967-68 term, replacing retiring president J. William L. Nungesser, Bull. Blake is currently serving as a member of the board of directors of the alumni association. Abbie Urqugen, Twin Falls, is one of six candidates running for the three vacancies on the board of directors. The three winners will serve three-year terms. Robert Sherman, Kimberly, is a hold-over director.

"Discover America" Program Brings Group To Twin Falls

By NORMA HERZINGER

The cool and comfortable surroundings of the Blue Lakes Country Club belied the hot summer sun as five girls on the "Ambassadors for Friendship" tour sipped their iced drinks and related experiences encountered in their thousands of miles of travel as they "discover America."

These five girls, Junko-Fuke, Japan; Marie Gulmar-Jouan, France; Anne-Grethe Mohrson, Denmark; Karen Leary, New York, and Nancy Schmalzbauer, Minnesota, were met in Twin Falls by Mrs. Frank Depew, one of the hostesses from the host group, the Altrusa club. While in Twin Falls, the girls stayed with Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Wilks, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Depew.

They were taken on a tour of our fine city and to various points of interest including the Snake River Trout Farm and a tour of the Bob Erkins home.

They were entertained at a luncheon at the Blue Lakes Country Club, went swimming at Canyon Club and were honored at a picnic at the Twin Falls Idaho Power Park, to name just a few of the activities during their visit. The tour was conducted by Mrs. Depew, Mrs. Hill and Mrs. Jack Waegelin. These women went all out to show these girls a good time as well as introduce them to our western way of life and typical home life of western families. "We really weren't greeted by wild Indians as one might think," one of the girls commented while having lunch. "We think your community is just beautiful and the hospitality is absolutely marvelous."

Throughout the tour, which started and ended in St. Paul, Minn., these five young women were welcomed into homes of American families and taken on sightseeing tours to better acquaint the children with the United States.

The Ambassadors of Friendship tour, "They Discover America" program, was originated in 1961 by a young American named Harry Myrman. He was appalled at the distorted propaganda printed about the United States in foreign newspapers, so he devised a unique program to erase foreign-held myths about America.

The essence of the program is to bring together each year a group of outstanding young people from around the world (Continued On Page 11)

Lutheran Women Host Special Fete

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent

FILER—"Serve the Lord with Gladness" is the motto of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League which observes its "Twenty-five Years of Service" anniversary this month.

The silver anniversary was marked by a special observance of the Clover League which has been a member of the international group for 20 years. Held in conjunction with the event was the group's annual Guest Day, with women attending from the local congregations as well as the neighboring ones of Bull, Twin Falls, Hagerman, Wendell and Ellier.

Decorations carried out the league's theme and its colors of gold and purple, selected when the group was formed in Chicago in 1942. Guests were seated at tables holding centerpieces of yellow and lavender flowers and placards naming the mission projects in which the guild participates.

Mrs. Martha Kuep, president of the Clover League, welcomed members and guests. Mrs. Elmer Schroeder, Christian growth chairman, was in charge of the program and introduced Mrs. Leslie Faber, Eden, who as the Utah-Idaho Zone delegate, attended the National Convention in Washington, D. C. July 18. Mrs. Louise Rehnke, Twin Falls, district resident, also attended the convention.

As program chairmen were introduced, they outlined the duties of their committees. The mission education committee calls on new and prospective members and visits the ill and bereaved in the community. The Altar Guild takes care of the altar paraments and communion ware. The vestment service chairmen make the baptismal caplets which are presented to the mothers of infants on the days the babies are baptized.

The Christian Growth chairman is in charge of the opening devotional services and arranges for the meeting topics while the fellowship and program chairmen takes care of the closing devotional services and the programs for meetings and social occasions.

Shrubbery and plants around the church and school are cared for by the plant and garden committee. A special occasions committee serves at wedding receptions and other church functions. A book store is maintained by the Christian publications chairman and Bibles, hymnals, gifts and cards may be purchased. The league also takes subscriptions for a religious magazine "This Day."

Several members constitute a greeting committee who make a special effort to meet visitors and new members after church services. The constitution and bylaws of the league are kept up-to-date by a committee assigned to that purpose.

The Clover LWML holds clothing drives twice a year and sends the good used clothing to World Relief. The committee in charge also saves postage stamps for missions, correspondence with a number of missionaries and helps them with money and donations of supplies.

League members recently spent several evenings re-covering and repairing 185 children hymnals. They gather books for the school library and see that flowers are placed in church, each Sunday. A special cash offering this month was sent to help with braille work for the blind.

A feature of the anniversary evening's entertainment was vocal selections by 12 members. (Continued On Page 12)

USING AN OVERSIZED Bible box as an example, Mrs. Elmer Fischer, right, and Mrs. Arthur Kantor, explain how the Bible Box collections of the Lutheran Women's Missionary Leagues are taken and the projects for which they are used. Both women have attended several international conventions and served on committees.

JOHN DELBERT From the Utah-Idaho District LWML, Mrs. Leslie Lange, Eden, seated, receives the Bible box offering from Mrs. T. D. Johnston, center, and Mrs. Melvin Jagers, members of the Clover League which hosted the Silver Anniversary of the International LWML and the local society's annual Guest Day.

Students Visit Twin Falls On American Tour,

to live, work and study in the United States. It gives them a candid year-long look at the country, its strengths and weaknesses, then lets them return home to judge American news from personal knowledge and understanding, not from hearsay and propaganda.

Twin Falls has been honored by having these groups tour here in 1967-1968, 1964 and 1967, and each time members of the local Altru Club have given their time and hospitality to these outstanding young people.

One of the girls chosen to participate in this year's tour, Eila Widzky, Israel, was unable to complete the tour as she was called back to her country due to the war outbreak.

Miss Fuke is a 21-year-old special student currently attending the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan. She came to the U. S. in September, 1966, from Japan in order to learn English and will be returning to Japan possibly to teach or work with a trade company. Of the Ambassador's Tour she says: "I am very eager to take part in this fine trip, to know America itself and to see Americans in their family life."

Miss Guimard-Jouan, 21, is a senior majoring in English at St. Catherine's College, St. Paul, Minn. Miss Fuke, hopes to teach English when she returns home this summer.

Miss Mohrsen is a senior majoring in English. She is 20 years old and has attended St. Olaf College, Northfield, Minn. When she returns home this summer she will complete her preparations to teach English. Miss Mohrsen feels the tour is very valuable for her as a person and later as a teacher.

Miss Leary, 20, one of the coordinators, is a sophomore who plans to major in anthropology. She has traveled throughout the east and in parts of the midwest, and spent one summer living in Mexico City and Acapulco with a Mexican family while studying at Instituto mexicana norteamericano de relaciones culturales. She was recently chosen to participate in a travel study program which will take her to Australia next summer to study the assimilation of aborigines into white society.

The other coordinator, Miss Schmaltzbauer, 22, was graduated from Macalester, St. Paul, with a core concentration in Russian. She has resided in Minnesota all her life, but has managed to travel extensively while attending Macalester. Her European experience consists of living with a German-Russian family for two and one-half months while attending the Institute of Russian Studies, Summer Session, Munich, Germany, in 1965, followed by a tour of the Soviet Union. She returned to the Soviet Union in January, 1967, for another month's tour.

These girls all seemed very concerned with the communication gap between the United States and foreign countries and look to the Ambassadors for Friendship tour as a stepping stone for bridging this gap.

Today's Fashion Enthusiast Is "Game Girl"

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON AP Fashion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The fashion enthusiast — a game girl, but what game? Designer Geoffrey Beene suggests both baseball and football.

So at his show Monday some pretty misses went to bat wearing filled caps and shortstop capriettes over their stockings with the green tops, back bottoms, and black and green stripes in the middle.

Yet the baseball season so faded, Geoffrey Beene's models changed their colors and uniforms, and football had its quarter.

Since women always recognize a good line, the largely female audience applauded loudly as models huddled on the way in ball gowns that had won their letters.

The sequined black or silver or red floor-length dresses were striped at the upper arms in colors that matched the huge numbers on their chests.

Though they might have been fullbacks, the models were definitely not full fronts. Since thin forms were required for all of Beene's designs, not even the baseball girls threw any curves.

Apparently, playing cowboy is a game nobody outgrows, for nearly all the American designers previewing their fall collections this week have a version of the girl in boots, short skirt, leather belt, shirt and jacket, and 10-gallon hat.

However, as the style continues to emphasize long legs, short skirts and body-revealing fit—even when there is not much body to reveal—it seems that the game every designer carefully keeps in mind is girl watching.

Special Camp Fire Day Camp Set For Aug. 1 At Tawakoni

Camp Tawakoni will be the site of a special Day Camp for Blue Birds, Camp Fire girls, their leaders and friends.

The resident camp staff headed by Mrs. Marge Wintersteen (Skipper), will be in charge of the activities. The schedule is designed for both girls and adults.

The girls will have a fun-filled day of the same type of activities enjoyed by the girls at resident camp, with hikes, crafts, games, camp craft, nature lore and singing. The adults will have a class in campcraft and outdoor lore, training beneficial to them as leaders. This will be presented by Mrs. Wintersteen and Mrs. De Tyler, both experts in these fields.

A small fee will be charged each individual, but women who drive their cars will not pay a fee. Children under Blue Bird age may be brought if this will make it possible for the mothers to participate in the classes.

There will be someone to care for these children. Activities will begin at 8:30 a.m. at camp. After registration, the camp staff will be in charge. Noon meal will be a sack lunch brought by campers, but with drinks furnished. The evening meal will be in the dining room, provided by the camp.

Closing ceremonies will be about 5 p.m., enabling those attending to be home by 6 or 6:30 p.m. Anyone interested may call the Camp Fire office to register, 733-6214.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me, or is it "the times"?

I am a married with a small circle of married friends. Every once in a while someone will invite me to their home to see movies of a wedding, confirmation, or a vacation trip. They without warning, they show some movies (rented) that were made for stag parties. (Strip-teasers and "dirty" movies. I'm sure you know what I mean.)

Everyone laughs and thinks it's great fun, but I am irked. I don't want to be a "wet blanket" or a "party pooper" by conspicuously walking out when they spring surprise movies on the crowd, but I don't care for this kind of stuff at all. Any solutions?

WET BLANKET

DEAR WET: There is nothing wrong with you, nor is it "the times." Good nature, in your "little circle" of friends cannot be trusted to keep the entertainment clean, make a bigger circle.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for nearly two years, and I am just about ready to leave him for what I hope you won't think is a silly reason. I just can't take his "teasing," any more. He is always punching me on the nose or squeezing the breath out of me.

Abby, I have tried to tell him I don't like such rough treatment, but he laughs and says that they are only "love pats," and he keeps right on hurting me. If you were to see some of the bruises I carry from his "love pats" you would think we had been in a terrible fight.

I have begged and pleaded and even cried, but nothing works. Have you any words of advice? It's getting where I hate to see him come home at night.

DEAR MANHANDLED: His "love pats" are conscious, or more likely unconscious acts of hostility and aggression which have nothing to do with "love" and are ruining your relationship. Tell him so, and implore him to seek out professional help. If he refuses, prepare for a break before there are children.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this because I just can't stand dirt and filth. Ever since my son got married he has had to live in dirt. His wife and her mother was never like that. His wife gets up around noon.

Men's Fashions Are Ankle-Deep In Color Trend

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON, AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Through women have had the monopoly on crazy legs this season, John Wertz is now giving men an almost equal opportunity to be ankle deep in color and pattern.

Why should the eye settle on the tie of a man's otherwise drab costume, reasoned Wertz, when "people should be wondering what's new in men's shoes." At the same time Wertz at his no-model show flashed onto a screen a new slide of patterned neckties bordering than ship's signal flags.

Wertz, the handsome husband of actress Susan Kohner, calls himself more of a designer than a designer model. That is because he is interested in changing the function of men's clothes — not the clothes themselves. Except for men's socks.

"Men work hard at looking conservative and unobtrusive," he said last before his show for more than 200 fashion editors here Sunday. "They put a lot of thought into dressing so that they will not be noticed, but their brains rather than their clothes."

And he wouldn't change that a bit except for these socks. He has proved the function of men's apparel by such things as shortening a car coat so that the driver does not get all wet, and by inserting loops in a pocket at a diagonal angle so that the wearer can slip his hand into one without leaning to the side.

Stock Market Points To Record Highs

By ED MORSE NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market has bounced along at record volume for the summer rally but some indicators are at new highs for 1967.

In the trading week just ended, the market made its largest gain since the week ended Jan. 7. Made new peaks for the year in the Associated Press average.

The AP 60-stock average last week rose 8.6 to 339.4, one of a series of new peaks for the year.

Various respected commentators in Wall Street labeled the current rally as a "traditional summer rally." Once again, they attributed its strength to an anticipation of a business upturn later in the year.

Government bond prices slid almost a point more than wiping out the previous gains and setting half the early July rally.

In August corporate earnings continued to hold up and totals owing it the sixth consecutive billion-dollar month.

Writer Defends Action In Kimberly School Situation

Editor, Times-News: We were very pleased to see Mrs. Heidemann's letter, July 9 public forum. Apparently she was well informed and perhaps had had enlightening discussions with informed and disgruntled people who expressed our dissatisfaction with our counselor and principal.

Why would over 200 people in our small school system have to go to such harsh measures? No one likes to sign his name against an individual; there certainly must be a better reason than just poorly informed and disgruntled.

If Mr. and Mrs. Miller were guilty of the charges that were made against them at their hearing, why were they allowed to teach our children for nearly the complete year? It was stated at the hearing that their neglect of duty and insubordination dated back for many months.

Mrs. Adams, Oakley, Dies OAKLEY—Mrs. Sarah Adams, 89, Oakley resident, died Friday at a nursing home in Kimberly of a short illness.

She was born April 7, 1878, at Hayward, Longshire, England. On Dec. 4, 1902, she was married to George Albert Adams in the Salt Lake City LDS Temple.

Survivors include four sons, Lyman Adams, Howard Adams and Ellsworth Adams; all Oakley; one daughter, Mrs. Leonard (Floyd) Irwin, Hansen; one stepson, George C. Adams, Pocatello, and two step-daughters, Mrs. L. Robbins, Logansport, Calif., and Mrs. Claire (Sisco) Parker, Twin Falls; 22 grand-children and 32 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday in the Oakley LDS Stakehouse by Bishop Floyd Picketh. Last rites will be held in the Marion Cemetery. Friends may call at the McCulloch Funeral Home Tuesday afternoon and evening and Wednesday morning and at the Oakley church one hour prior to services.

GO TO MONTANA KING HILL.—Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Hougland left Friday for Libby, Mont., where Mr. Hougland will work with a construction company.

Railroad Strike Provides Glancing Blow To Economy

By JACK LEFLER-AP Business Writer NEW YORK (AP)—A brief nationwide railroad strike last week gave the economy a glancing blow.

The result was a taste of what would have happened had the walkout of 25,000 members of the International Association of Machinists Union been prolonged beyond two days.

Congress nipped the strike by passing legislation authorizing President Johnson to appoint a five-member board to mediate the dispute if a voluntary agreement wasn't reached in 90 days.

 WINNIPEG, Man., (AP) — Prince Philip, the Duke of Edinburgh of the Pan-American Games torch, the release of some 2,000 pigeons, symbolizing the doves of peace, the firing of cannons, the music of a massed band of 500 musicians and a spectacular air show by the Golden Centennials, the RCAF's jet aerobatics, the release of some 2,000 pigeons, symbolizing the doves of peace, the firing of cannons, the music of a massed band of 500 musicians and a spectacular air show by the Golden Centennials, the RCAF's jet aerobatics.

A large field of about 2,400 athletes from possibly 26 nations and territories will march behind the standard-bearers in the traditional parade. At first the organizers expected a record field of 3,000 athletes.

The figures have been changing from day to day and no one really is sure just how many nations and athletes actually will participate.

The competition in 11 of the 20 sports will open Monday and wind up on Aug 6 with the Queen's Cup in the Winnipeg Stadium.

That Canada's first crack at the Games and this bustling, midwestern city of 500,000, the capital of the province of Manitoba, has gone all out to make it a rousing success.

Winnipeg is the smallest in population of the cities that have been awarded the Games.

The United States has dominated the Games, especially in the premier sports of track and field and swimming, since 1955.

The Yankees, with an elite band of world record-breakers, including a new group of teen-aged swim wizards, are heavily favored to repeat their successes.

Baseball, basketball, soccer, gymnastics, shooting, water polo, tennis and wrestling will be on the Monday program.

Allen Rallies Reds Past Phillies 7-2

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rich Allen's booming triple-tyc led a six-run third inning faced with two out and one runner as the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the Reds 7-2 Saturday night.

Allen's two-run triple came with two out after a double play, almost pulled starter Jim Maloney out of a no-pit, bases-loaded jam.

The Phils poured four more runs across the plate, with help from miscues made by Lee May, Pete Rose, Don Pavletich and Art Shamsky.

Rick Wise hurled a four-inning, striking out eight in his sixth victory in 14 decisions and the third straight triumph for the Phillies. Maloney fell to 8-4 as the Reds lost their fourth straight.

Mrs. Chaffee Leads Golf Tournament

Ruth Chaffee, picking up two points last week, has moved in to the third-round lead in the Blue Lakes Country Club women's pro cup tournament. The event will conclude with a point tournament next month.

Mrs. Chaffee leads with eight points with Connie Everton and Virginia Old deadlocked for second with five points. Ruth Borlase is fourth with four points, followed by Mildred Barlow with three and Zelma Warberg with one.

Those are the only members of the field with plus scores. On the minus side, but still in the competition, are Emily Claborn at minus five, Dorothy Haslam and Kay Koch at minus 10, Helen Edgar at minus 13 and Tess Serpuk at minus 13 and Tess Serpuk at minus 14.

In the third round Mrs. Barlow made the biggest jump, picking up five points. Mrs. Borlase and Mrs. Everton each added three.

Seven Run Inning Gives Senators Win

BALTIMORE (AP) — Ken McMullen's three-run homer capped a seven-run explosion in the sixth inning that gave the territorial Washington Senators a 7-5 victory over the Baltimore Orioles Saturday night.

The Senators scored all their runs in the sixth. They led in the sixth, then held off the Orioles for their 12th victory in 14 starts.

Orioles starter Gene Brabender, nursing a 1-0 lead, struck out Cap Peterson to open the sixth. Fred Valentine and Dick Ren followed with singles but Paul Casanova fled to deep right for the second out.

Bernie Allen then singled the tying run home and Tim Cullen lashed a two-run single. When Brabender walked pitcher Camilo Pascual, he was replaced by Eddie Watt, who yielded a run and scored single by Ed Stroud and then was tagged for McMullen's ninth homer.

Homers Lead Boston To 8th Straight Win

CLEVELAND (AP) — Solo homers by Mike Andrews and Ed Yastrzemski and Lee Stange's three-hit pitching led the Boston Red Sox to their eighth straight victory, a 4-0 decision over Cleveland Saturday.

Andrews led off the game by slamming loser Steve Hargan's second pitch over the left field fence for his fifth homer of the season.

The Sox added another run in the first when George Scott singled home Tony Conigliaro who had reached on a forcout and advanced on a throwing error.

In the third inning, Andrews singled to left and when Leon Wagner bobbed the ball he went to second, Andrews scored on Joe Foxx's single.

Yastrzemski's homer in the eighth was his 23rd of the season. Strange (6-4) gave up singles to Wagner in the second, Hargan in the third and Vic Davallito in the sixth. He struck out four and walked none.

Single Lifts Braves Over Cards In 13th

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Tito Francona's sun-scorching single in the 13th inning lifted the surging Atlanta Braves past St. Louis 5-4 Saturday, dropping the Cardinals into a tie with Chicago for the National League lead.

The Cardinals' fifth loss in their last seven games left them in a first-round deadlock with the Cubs, who edged San Francisco 6-5.

The Braves, who have won three in a row and 11 of their last 15, blew a 4-1 lead in the ninth before pushing over the tie-breaking run in the 13th against reliever Jack Lamabe, the sixth St. Louis pitcher.

Orlando Martinez started the rally with an out single and winning pitcher Cecil Upshaw sacrificed before Francona's 6-5 comeback victory over St. Louis 5-4 on their seventh triumph in eight games.

The Cubs, who blew leads of 2-0 and 3-2, mounted their final tying run home and Chicago relief pitcher Gaylord Perry. Billy Williams tied it 5-5 with one out when he stroked his center field homer of the game, and 17th of the season, into the center field seats.

Ron Santo followed with a triple to right. The next two batters were intentionally passed, setting up a double play possibility, but Hundley ended it with his shot to left.

The Giants also lost ace right-hander Juan Marchal who was forced to leave the game in the sixth inning, when he apparently injured his right shoulder.

Buckpasser Runs Second In Brooklyn Handicap

By ORLO ROBERTSON Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — Handsome Boy, taking full advantage of a 20-pound advantage in the weights, soundly whipped the great Buckpasser in the $100,000 Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct Saturday.

Under 116 pounds, compared to the 136 toled by Buckpasser, Handsome Boy from Jack Dreyfus Jr.'s Hobcaw Farm set all the pace and finished in front with an ever widening eight-lengths separating him from the liring Buckpasser.

It was another 4 1/2 lengths back to Mrs. Peter Duchin's Mr. Right with Ring Twice Fourth and Yonder last in the field of five.

Handsome Boy, boldly ridden by Eddie Belmonte, covered the distance in a striding 1:09 1/5, plus three-fifths of a second off the track record to pick up the winner's purse of $69,355.

It was the second major victory in eight days for the 4-year-old son of Beau Gar-Mrauhall, who a week ago won the $100,000 plus Haskell Handicap at Monmouth Park.

As the third choice in the small field, Handsome Boy paid $12.00, $3.50 and $3. Buckpasser, paying $21.50 for Ogden Phipps to run his bank account to $1,440,454, paid $2.60 and $2.20 for a $2 show ticket on Mr. Right returned $3.

The defeat cost Buckpasser his chance to join the select group of three who had won the handicap triple crown by taking the Metropolitan, Suburban and

Dodgers Use Error To Take Mets 4-3

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Lefebvre's trickling hit down the third base line with two out scored an unearned run in the seventh inning, snapping a tie and pushing Los Angeles by the New York Mets 4-3 Saturday night.

Dick Schofield doubled to open the inning, but was later thrown out at the plate on Lou Johnson's grounder. Mc Catcher Jerry Grote had Johnson picked off first, but Johnson broke for second and wound up at third when first baseman Ed Kranepool's throw was wild.

Lefebvre followed with his hit that third baseman Ed Charles was unable to field.

The Mets had battled back from 1-0 and 3-1 deficits after Len Gabrielson hit his sixth homer for the Dodgers in the first inning and Bob Bailey singled in two runs in the fourth off Don Cardwell.

Grote slammed his fourth homer, opening the third for New York and Ron Swoboda and Grotte singled home run in the fourth off Don Sutton.

Los Angeles 100 200 100—4 12 0 New York 001 200 000—3 10 2 Sutton, Brewer (3), Perranoski, Cardwell, D. Shaw (3), Roriff (8) and Grotte, W—Perranoski, 3-4, L—D. Shaw, 2-4. Home runs—Los Angeles, Gabrielson (6), New York, Grote (4).

KEN HEPNER, chief pilot for Reeder Flying Service who heads the fire-fighter pilots, pauses on the wing of his converted bomber after receiving the gasoline hose from Jay Lazaros. The fire planes are ready day or night.

WHEN FIRE STRIKES timbered or range areas the loss is tragic. Fires caused by lightning cannot be prevented. This fire, photographed by Gus Keiker, was in the Galena area three seasons ago. Fire fighting is now a scientific task and highly trained men—both on the ground and in the air—pool their talents to minimize the loss.

Man And Machines Fight To Save The Trees Only God Can Make

TOOLS OF THE trade, shovel and pulaski are inspected by Don Hanson, assistant fire dispatcher, Sawtooth National Forest.

Man and machines against the elements.

Hot weather means another fire season in the range and forest lands. Right now all is preparation for another battle.

Preservation of the forests and the range in an age when products of these areas are much more than a way of life is big business. It is important business and cooperation is the key word that backs the desire to save all that is possible to save.

Ground and air crews, under direction of officials of the United States Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management, are ready. Right now the highlands are still damp with the heavy snows of last winter but the lowlands are drying out and fire—usually caused by lightning—is an hourly threat.

In Twin Falls the World War II converted bombers—now carrying fire retardant rather than aerial bombs—are ready to go at a moment's notice. Pilots are never more than minutes away from their planes. The secret of adequate forest and range fire fighting is speed.

Also at the Twin Falls airport DC-3 twin-engine planes, stripped of the comforts of flight but adequate to haul special fire crews and equipment, are poised for flight. The bombers' and the passenger-cargo planes are from the Reeder Flying Service under contract and loans to the government.

At Fairfold—more specifically at the Big Smokey Guard Camp—a crew of nearly 40 highly trained fire fighters—mostly college students—are razor sharp. They are members of the "hot shot" crew. When a big fire breaks out they are sped to the location by plane. Their job is to immediately arrest the fire. Mop up

UNUSUAL BEAUTY of a large willow tree in her backyard creates a setting for an outdoor art exhibit of scenic pictures by Darwin Taylor, Palm Springs, Calif., former Almo man. The exhibit is slated for July 30 at the home of Mr. Taylor's sister, Mrs. Emil Bernardi, Filer. He will give a painting demonstration during the event. Described as a dramatic realist, the artist will show some 40 of his paintings at the open house. California scenes are portrayed in the two pictures shown.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A gnarled old willow tree more than 65 years old will provide the setting for an outdoor art display by former Idaho man, now a well-known California painter, Darwin Taylor, Palm Springs, will show some of his paintings July 30 at the home of his sister, Mrs. Emil Bernardi, FILER, and will give a painting demonstration during the opening. Mr. Taylor was born in ALMO, and attended Idaho schools until he entered the navy and later settled in California. The artist, described as a dramatic realist, does comprehensive sketches, field studies, seascapes and landscapes in all mediums. Many of his paintings are done on location as he travels extensively, however, some ideas gained while traveling are later put on canvas in his home studio.

He has been painting for the last 12 years and has studied with outstanding California artists including Professor Gaylor Richmond, president of the Los Angeles Art Institute. The unusual tree which Mrs. Bernardi has chosen as background for the art exhibit, is a black willow and was planted by Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Mendenhall, pioneer settlers in Idaho. Mrs. Mendenhall, who is 90 years of age, still resides in Idaho. When the house was erected it was around the tree so that, the unusual specimen would remain the point of interest in the backyard.

The Bernardis moved into the house 11 years ago, were enchanted with the tree and have carefully tended it. This includes pruning limbs, spraying for insects, and worrying about tree damage whenever a hard wind blows, states Mrs. Bernardi. "The willow gives the impression of having split down the center of its trunk many years ago, however, instead of the tree dying, the limbs simply settled on the ground and started growing up again. Through the years the tree has continued to spread out over the entire lot and partitioning it into rooms. At ping to refuel each two and one-half hours. Mrs. Bell flies an average speed of 59 miles per hour. "I'm not going to try to break any records," Mrs. Bell said just going to enjoy myself."

Lloyd Wilson has been replaced as HEYBURN village part-time marshal by his assistant, Art McGill. The two worked together very congenially the past four years, but Wilson, who is a 10-year veteran of the J. K. Simplot Co., Heyburn, where he is a department supervisor, told the village board he didn't have the spare time demanded by the marshal position. The board felt it needed someone with a little more spare time, so they hired McGill, who besides being a full time employee of the village, is also fire chief of the Heyburn Fire Department. McGill, needing an assistant for the marshal duties, was accommodated by the board during the meeting last week. His new assistant is — Lloyd Wilson.

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

"We Must Do Something About Liquor"

By HOWARD R. OLSON

Pastor of the Nazarene First Church of the Nazarene. When I received this assignment, I pondered the thought of "As Your Minister Sees It" and tried to express my own ideas to come up with some viewpoint as a minister that would differ from my layman's viewpoint when I was a Christian layman. I found none.

How do the people of this world see the average Christian? He is a minister? Do they realize that when he cuts his finger he bleeds — and that it is red too? Do they feel he has no spark because his is only negative — opposing everything that people seem to enjoy?

The problems and issues of our day must be viewed in the light of God's law for which there is no substitute. Opinions of ministers and laymen alike are valueless when based by a selfish interest, or based on anything but fact and principle.

Let me illustrate. I strenuously oppose the liquor traffic — not because I'm a minister but because of the principle involved — because I've taken time to learn the facts.

Those who make it, those who sell it, and those who buy it make every attempt by their opposition to defend it, but though beverage alcohol has a multitude of defenders it has no support. The record will show that the tax on liquor, wine and beer does not pay the bill for the damage it causes nor has it's legalization put the "bootlegger" out of business. Washington, D.C. is the "rum-dum" town of the U.S.A., consuming more alcoholic beverages than any comparable sized city — and here is where we need men with clear minds.

Legislation is running rampant to make our highways and automobiles safe and to prevent the death toll, but nothing done to eliminate the "oleid" driver.

In this opinion of mine based upon the principle that no man has the right to take from the other the right to life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness, the effects of beverage alcohol have done, and on the facts that prove this true.

A few weeks ago, a young man was on his way home where every occasion was ready for the happy celebration of celebrating his birthday with family and friends when "old man booze," in the likeness of man, and driving a truck took from this young man the liberty of a safe highway, and took his life, and the happiness of his young wife and others who were left in deep pursuit of happiness.

I believe we ought to do something about the liquor business — this is the way I see it.

ONE, TWO, THREE and you're out with a weight limit when Henrys Lake cutthroat trout are taking the lures or bait offered them by eager anglers. But they have a long-standing reputation for not taking dry flies.

Henrys Lake Fish Seldom Rise To Dry Flies, But They Can Be Caught

By JIM HUMBERT
 Idaho Fish-Game Department
 Few will get you $10 in the Island Park country of the Upper Snake River that a cutthroat trout in the three-pound-or-better class won't take a dry fly at Henry's Lake.

Some of the talk heard on the docks and in the bars says that the brook trout and rainbow-cutthroat hybrids won't take flies, either. The wagers do not take in side streams such as Howard Creek. It is just that these fish don't rise for flies on Henry's Lake.

These "Lake" trout are not surface feeders. They come up and can be seen feeding and jumping. There are times when the surface boils as fish hatchery ponds do at feeding time. But play in the thing, not food, at Henry's Lake.

One man who crawls "way out on the well-known limb is Calvin Corbush, Fish Hatchery superintendent for the Idaho Fish and Game Department. A dry fly enthusiast who worked at Henry's Lake several years, spraying station four seasons, he says even the hybrids won't take dry flies.

Corbush has seen the big cuts, brookies and hybrids come boiling out of the lake, jumping and dipping the surface. They have come as close as two inches to a dry fly and shown no interest in it at all.

He has watched them slant to the top, gulp a time or two, then trail air bubbles from the corners of their mouths on the way back down to the bottom.

He is a friend of several mountain known nonresident fly fishers who have tried to win the dry fly bet. One stayed for two months before conceding that it can't be located for this strange fish behavior gives much sport and is good for the resort business at Island Park. But it does not make much sense, and men and women keep trying to catch the plentiful beauties on dry flies.

But it does not make much sense, and men and women keep trying to catch the plentiful beauties on dry flies.

Of course, there are anglers who say that it can be done and that they have caught Henry's Lake trout on dry flies. One of these is Phil Swannstrom, Boise, conservation enforcement supervisor, who grew up in the Island Park country and claims he has caught any number of these trout on dry flies.

"That is all I ever used," Swannstrom says. "I fished for cutthroat at the mouth of Howard Creek. I have not fished in recent years. Still, I do not see why I could not catch these big cuts in the same way I did years ago — on dry flies."

Swannstrom's chief, Hawley Hill, who heads up the conservation enforcement division, likewise fished Henry's Lake with dry flies as long as 30 years ago. He tells of using a sooty hack dry fly with a No. 12 hook in the Stanley Springs area of the lake.

In those days the fish season ran through the end of the year. In November some years, but would be forming, but not completely covering the Stanley Springs area. He caught young of the big cutthroat at that time. James C. Simpson, chief of fisher's management, has never hooked a Henry's Lake fish on a dry fly. A friend of his, who could not be located for an interview, Durt Perrine of Twin Falls, has caught cutthroat at Henry's Lake on dry flies. There must be others who have, too, but the record is sketchy.

Don R. Orant, Boise, Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, claims that on June 15 of this year he brought in two average-sized Henry's Lake cuts that had hit a gray-green woolly worm just as it touched the water. He thinks the woolly worm in this fly should be classed as a dry fly because the trout has it before it sees wet. These cuts were 18-20 inches in length and weighed three pounds or more.

Just average, says he.

For what it is worth, both analyses of the stomach contents of Henry's Lake fish were made by the late Robert B. Irving when he was a fish biologist at Henry's Lake. His work was completed in 1953 as part of the requirement for an M. S. degree in fisheries management from Utah State Agricultural College.

His quantitative analysis of food samples from 116 cutthroat trout found that 50 per cent of the Henry's Lake fish feed was in the midge-shrimp-damselfly groups. As many as 1,415 damselfly nymphs were found in the stomach of one cutthroat.

But just one red spider was found in all of the food sampling work. In fact it was the only specimen that could be classed as a land or terrestrial invertebrate insect. All of the others were water-living creatures such as the shrimp.

One conclusion that can be drawn from the food sampling analyses is that for some reason the Henry's Lake trout do not often take food or bait from the surface. This would explain the lack of land insects in stomach samples, and the fact that these fish rarely rise for a dry fly.

Anglers who use wet flies, or worms and other kinds of bait, weight down the hooks and fish on or near the bottom, retrieving with short, erratic jerks. Trainers, too, put their blades, pop gear or what not close to the bottom.

Henry's Lake always has been rich in natural fish food. It is fed on three sides by mountains of the Continental Divide, the shallow lake was fished commercially during the mining boom era of the last century, supplying cutthroat averaging slightly less than two pounds apiece for the remote communities near Virginia City, Mont.

Until a low-head dam was built in 1922, Henry's Lake was a deep, clear water body of 6 1/2 feet. Average depth in 1912 was reported to be about 4 1/2 feet. Quick melting ice ran down the mountain passes and the lake a kind of local point to blow up huge angry waves from the shallow depths. Fishing boats must hurry to the nearest dock.

In the wake of the storm, boats put out once more and blades and lures and spinning blades go over the sides. So the cuts and brookies and hybrids won't take dry flies there. Is there more than one way to fish.

England's Hereditary Grand Falconer Does Nothing Now

By EDDY GILMORE
 LONDON (AP) — As England's hereditary Grand Falconer, Charles Frederick Aubrey de Vere Beauclerk, 13th Duke of St. Albans, does absolutely nothing, nothing? "Yes, nothing," he chuckled. "That's about what it amounts to now."

He spends no time at all being the hereditary Grand Falconer. His Grace—whose family name is pronounced "Jo-Clare"—is a busy businessman. As well as operator with the Duchess of St. Albans of London's "smoke" Upper Grosvenor, Art Gallery.

Once upon a time the hereditary Grand Falconer had a big, important and interesting job that kept him in constant contact with his sovereign.

"Falconry was a very great sport," explained the duke in an interview. "Charles II granted the office to our family. In those days it was an office of profit. And today? It's not." He smiled. "The only remaining thing that once a year I get from Richmond Park is a quarter of a dog or a hind, supplied by the Ministry of Public Buildings and Works. It's rather an in a way."

Years ago the hereditary Grand Falconer received about 3,000 pounds a year. "That was a sizable sum," said the duke. "There was no income tax and a pound bought many more times what it does today. Yes, I suppose 2,000 pounds came in quite handy." Nowadays 3,000 pounds is worth $3,400.

Falconry is an ancient sport — hunting wild game with a falcon. It is believed to have begun in China 2,000 years before Christ. It was introduced to England from the European Continent about 800.

The Encyclopedia Britannica says from 800 to the middle of the 17th century, falconry was followed "with an ardour that perhaps no other English sport has ever equalled."

What killed off falconry as a major sport?

Many reasons have been given. One of guns in the sporting field is probably responsible.

Years ago hummer P. G. Wodehouse said it was because the hawk got all the fun, while the human being — who paid the bird's board — did all the work.

"Tired of playing second fiddle to a mere bird," said Wodehouse, "the English sportsman grabbed for their guns and that moment falconry was done."

Falconry was far from done, though.

The sport continues and the Duke of St. Albans continues to be the hereditary Grand Falconer — a title which goes back 283 years.

SOUTH'S SQUEEZE WORKS SMOOTHLY

The late Edward Holmes was just about as good a dummy player as there ever has been. In addition Eddie was somewhat of a show-off when he could get to be. He sat South and let West's squeeze, if I need it." East and West both protested as Eddie showed his hand and played it out as fast as he could get his opponents to play. He ran off four club tricks, discarding his six of hearts. Eddie's opponent had no trouble discarding on that trick. West threw a spade; East a diamond. Then Eddie led to his queen of diamonds. West was down to queen-ten, of spades and four hearts but he discarded a heart as nonchalantly as he could considering that it was just as if Eddie had pulled his last tooth.

Eddie remarked to West, "I don't know if you have already been squeezed or not but you can't have more than three hearts, come what may. I am now going to lead my ace of spades. If East started with one spade, four hearts, five diamonds and three clubs this will force him to jettison his own heart stopper."
"O.K.," said West. "We concede."

king of spades hold the first trick. This gave up the overtrick if hearts and diamonds both broke 3-3 but Eddie had bid six, not seven. He didn't think that West would continue the suit but strange things have happened and a spade continuation would give him 12 tricks in high cards.

West didn't fall into that trap. He shifted to the jack of diamonds. Eddie won with dummy's king and led the ace of diamonds. West discarded a spade. Eddie thought awhile and claimed the balance of the tricks. He said, "Perfect"

Budget Your Time: Spend It Well

With no teachers peering over your shoulder, no test dates to push study, and no deadlines to stir research, the summer offers a real forecast of life after school. If you complete any of your June projects, it will be because you effectively organized yourself.

PLAN YOUR DAY
To start getting more production out of your day, get a regular job with cut-down grocery lists. A separate file for each project, subject or activity is best, and then houseclean your folders at least once a month, clearing out unnecessary

OTHER EQUIPMENT
Other equipment: a calendar to schedule deadlines for yourself; all the paper clips, tape, pencils, paper and scissors you use in the course of working; adequate light with general illumination on the whole work area; a nonreflective desk top (again, to reduce eye strain); and any reference books or tools that your work demands.

BARBS
You're over the hill, boy, when some folks demand their steaks grilled to an exact degree of doneness, but most of us eat at home.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

THIS IS A 10-cent piece from Switzerland. It is quite often mistaken for a United States coin. The legend "Confederatio Helvetica" comes from the old "Helvetia" which was the name for Switzerland.

From Shoshone, M.D.J. writes, "Please tell me the value of a 1926 Oregon Trail Memorial half-dollar. It has a San Francisco mint mark and is in very good condition."

Answer: 1926 was the first year of issue of this half-dollar, but it was minted also in '28, '30, '34, '36, '37, '38, and '39, with your coin, 1926-5 being the largest mintage of all. The coin should bring you from $2.75 to $3, depending upon condition.

The column has received a great many inquiries about the method of "cashing-in" silver certificates.

D. M., Buhl, asks: "Since the new law was passed that Silver Certificate Notes can't be redeemed after this year, would you please fill me in on the details as to how I could redeem one for silver?"

Answer: I am afraid the answer will disappoint you, since it involves taking a trip to either New York City or San Francisco.

Some time ago, this same question arose at a meeting of the Magic Valley Coin Club (which meets here in Twin Falls on the third Tuesday of each month) and a letter was mailed to the Superintendent of the Mint, Philadelphia, asking this same question. The column will quote this letter verbatim, since we have had so many requests:

"Public Law 88-36 provides: 'Silver Certificates shall be exchangeable on demand at the Treasury of the United States for silver dollars, or at the option of the Secretary of the Treasury, at such places as he may designate, for silver bullion at a monetary value equal to the face amount of the certificate.'"

On March 26, 1964, the Secretary exercised the option authorized by this act and it is no longer possible to secure silver dollars from the Treasury.

However, holders of silver certificates may continue to avail themselves of their legal right to demand an amount of silver equal to the silver content of a standard silver dollar.

The certificates may be presented at either the United States Assay Office, 32 Old Slip, New York City, or the United States Assay Office, 155 Hermann Street, San Francisco, where they will be redeemed in silver bullion at the monetary value of $1.262929292 an ounce.

Only Work Pays Off In Clean Recreation Areas

Conservation is everyone's privilege and duty. This is especially true for the boating fraternity. If every litterer, it stands to reason that every little bit helps. Even the slightest effort to clean up our waterways and keep them that way is a valuable contribution. The Evinrude News Service has some suggestions for do-it-yourself beautification projects. It suggests that you carry a litter bag and use it. Encourage your boating friends to do likewise. Don't throw anything overboard. The bottom of a lake or stream isn't an underwater junk yard. When you're on the water and see floating debris, pick it up. It only takes a few seconds to make up for someone else's thoughtlessness. Don't be surprised if it makes you feel a little bit better for doing it. Talk to fellow boatmen about a clean-up project. Almost every area has a favorite picnic ground, launching site or beach. Why not organize family work crews some Saturday. A choreographer in Grand Rapids, Mich., Dr. Robert Schwaltzer, and two friends believe con-them along the way and helped in their river beautification program. The Grand River clean-up project is a personal drive for the doctor. He's quick to recall his boyhood days when the sight of raw sewage and waste sickened him as he fished from the bank. Now, 31 years old, he can say that he's at least put a stop to some of the pollution. Dr. Schwaltzer puts it this way, "we shouldn't be just armchair conservationists. It is our privilege and duty to do what we can." Play modern day Johnny Appleseed. Take a tree planting cruise. Tree seedlings are available from a variety of sources at a very small cost. Contact local conservation groups, they can assist you in obtaining seedlings.

Lowly Cockroach Is Tops As Space Race Candidate

ELIZABETH, N. J. — If you can select an insect for a whirl into outer space, Archie the cockroach, should be your number one candidate.

The roach is perhaps the toughest, hardiest, most adaptable, most resistant insect that could be picked for a ride in space capsule.

Archie has survived for 250 million years, has adjusted to changing environmental conditions, probably rode west with the early settlers in a covered wagon and has settled down nicely inside America's homes, although at one time he was strictly an outside operator.

The roach probably originated as a tropical or sub-tropical insect, and, while he abounds in that climate, he has adjusted to life in the temperate zones with notable success. To top it off, Archie is able to develop resistance to virtually every chemical man has been able to devise in his efforts to control him, says Dr. Ralph E. Hest, executive secretary of the National Pest Control Association.

A few years ago, entomologists of the U. S. Department of Agriculture selected the cockroach for laboratory experiments to determine the desirability of using the roach in space experiments.

The roach was chosen because it is small, light in weight, hardy, resistant to various stresses, such as radiation and motion sickness.

They found that with the proper mixture of oxygen and hydrogen, the roach could survive without food and water up to 25 days.

The research concluded that the roach was the best suited insect for monitoring electrophysiological signals from nerves and muscles, as well as respiration, heart action and locomotor movements.

Controlled laboratory experiments on the ability of the roach to survive have shown that some species can exist for three months on water alone. Another species survived on a starvation diet for 42 days.

But the roach does not survive on food or water alone. He keeps his wits about him. He is classified among the brightest insects and can be taught to run through a maze.

He is extremely alert to peril, aided by long antennae on his head and similar and shorter structures called cerci at the other end of his body. A light puff of air on his early warning system will send the roach running for a crevice or cover, says Dr. Hest.

There are probably some 8,000 species of roaches in the world, but only four types principally inhabit the United States. They are the American, Oriental, Brown-banded and the German roach.

No doubt cave dwellers were helting them with clubs, but the earliest recorded effort at organized control dates back to 1882 when bixax was used in combination with other materials. Since then there has been a steady stream of chemicals which Archie has been able to resist and even the newest organic phosphates give indications that the roach is developing resistance to them.

It is small wonder that Archie can survive this assault. A German roach, with ample food and moisture, can produce a family of two million offspring in one year. Overall, it is estimated that a single female roach averages 38,000 descendants in a typical breeding season.

Total Destruction Of Fish Remains Most Useful For Population Control

By DONNA HURD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Total destruction of a fish population seems like a waste of a valuable natural resource.

However, chemical destruction of undesirable fish populations has proved to be one of the most useful tools in fisheries management.

A fisheries biologist has little direct control over many of the problems he faces when trying to improve fish habitat. Taking the case of road building, industrial and municipal pollution, and erosion caused by logging, overgrazing and dredging.

The biologist can identify the cause for the decline in fish habitat and therefore in fish life, but there is no way for him to control these factors except to convince those involved that they should exercise care.

One problem that the fisheries biologist does have is control over, in many cases, the matter of undesirable fish populations. He can eliminate these unwanted fish through the use of chemicals, a management tool that has been used very successfully for some time.

Fish populations considered to be undesirable when there are a great many more trash fish than game fish. This trash fish are because trash fish, like squawfish and carp, produce many more young than game fish such as trout.

It has been demonstrated that bait fishermen, by illegally releasing live bait, can put a reservoir out of production within three or four years.

In the past, two chemicals were used in Idaho to destroy undesirable fish populations: toxaphene and rotenone. Toxaphene, a chlorinated hydrocarbon, was used on such bodies of water as Shoshone, Morrison and Oakley reservoirs and Pettit Lake. Although toxaphene has several advantages, including easy application at a low cost (7 cents per acre-foot), its use has been discontinued because the chemical is so stable that it remains toxic to fish life for a long time.

The other chemical, rotenone, is extracted from certain plants of the pea family and the primary use of it has been as an insecticide. Historically, it has been used as a long-term fish poison by natives in the tropics to collect fish.

One of the earliest written accounts of its use as a fish poison was recorded by Nieuhoff in 1619 in Brazil. Rotenone has been used by these natives for several thousands of years.

Compared to toxaphene, rotenone is very expensive with the average cost being one dollar per acre-foot. In addition, fish are able to detect even slight concentrations of rotenone and will attempt to move out of treated water into springs, seeps and backwaters which are free of the chemical.

Thus it is almost impossible to get a 100 per cent kill in any body of water. One advantage is that the killing effect disappears within two to six weeks.

Because of the expense involved in using rotenone, its use is restricted to small bodies of water and to reservoirs with extremely low water levels. Consequently, even though a reservoir or lake needs a control program, the water conditions determine whether or not it will be treated. In spite of these limitations, rotenone is the chemical presently used in Idaho to control fish populations.

Last year, 13 reservoirs and 200 miles of streams were treated with rotenone including Moose Creek, Mountain Home and Island Park reservoirs, and Manns Lake.

Usually a body of water is treated in the fall when the water level is at its lowest. The next spring, after the chemical has detoxified, fingerlings and catchable game fish are planted. The catches provide "instant fishing" and the fingerlings provide fish for future years.

Recently, two new pesticides (chemicals which are toxic to certain kinds of fish) have been discovered and tested. Both are still in the development stage and the results of the test are being closely watched by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Squawfish is a specific poison for squawfish and is being developed and tested by the University of Idaho. One disadvantage is that squawfish is expensive.

In addition, where you have a problem with squawfish you will probably have a problem with other species of fish. Last year squawfish was field tested at Park Lake in Stanley Basin. Additional tests are planned next year in the St. Joe River.

Antimycin is also new and was originally developed as a fungicide. Research on this chemical has primarily been conducted in Wisconsin. Its cost is comparable to rotenone and the toxicity time is a few days.

Consequently, a body of water can be replanted almost immediately. Antimycin seems to be somewhat selective for carp as it kills them at lower concentrations of the chemical than other fish species.

One of its biggest advantages is that fish are not repelled from it as they are from rotenone. The Idaho Fish and Game Department hopes to test antimycin this year.

In general, the use of chemicals to control undesirable fish populations can be considered a very successful fish management tool. Continued research should bring great improvements.

New Water Sport Gains In Popularity

Water sports have a tremendous following because there's an activity for any age group. And, here's a new aquatic fun-tastic that has come to the fore.

The only equipment needed is a plastic float about four feet long, the inflated kind you use two youngsters on. This is just the right length for an adult to use for "whip cracking."

You lie on the float with legs dangling over the rear end from your knees down. Wrap your arms around the float and grasp a ski tow rope with both hands.

Any boat and motor rig fast enough to tow a skier will tow a float occupant over the water at a lively clip—the smoother the water the better. Then, when your motor boater or neighbor driver "cracks the whip" by turning hard left or right.

The trick is for the rider to roll the float up on edge and ride out the whitewater which will find him both over and on the water, intermittently.

It sounds risky, but it's really not because the float rider is right on the water and should he spill, there's no fall, just a big whoosh. A ski belt or life vest is a wise precautionary measure, to conserve energy and keep you afloat without working at it. Then, you can "crack the whip" to your heart's content!

Buffalo Hide

PROVO, (AP)—It's pretty hard to get rid of the vanishing buffalo, especially when there are three of them, one male and two females.

Owner Leon Frazier, Provo attorney, said an attempt to "round up" the buffalo in their south Provo pasture failed last year when the animals easily outran two men on horseback.

Progress in the form of a new motel to be built in their pasture made it necessary this year to move the animals.

Frazier said a veterinarian and tranquilizers will be used this time in the attempt to move them to a new pasture where tourists can see and photograph the animals.

Residents To Join Staff Of Bureau

Fifteen area residents are among the approximately 340 Idaho residents hired by the U.S. Bureau of the Census as interviewers for the Home Fall-out Protection Survey which the Bureau is conducting throughout the state for the Idaho Office of Disaster Relief and Civil Defense.

Interviewers will be wearing official red, white and blue badges identifying them as U.S. Census Bureau officials. Each has taken an oath to keep confidential all information obtained.

Persons are asked a few questions about the way their houses are built and a computer at the Census Bureau takes the information and calculates the degree of protection against fallout that the basement of a house affords.

The computer's figures are mailed directly to the household so that only he and his family know the amount of protection their home basement offers. He also receives a booklet prepared by Civil Defense suggesting ways to improve the protection in basements.

Residents selected to call at homes in Twin Falls County are Stella Biggs, Lillian Churchman, Janice Stansell, Mark Brown, Jewel Hamilton, Mae Knobel, Judy Buscher, Mabel Bell, Susan, all Twin Falls.

Others are James Brennan and Paula Malone, both Filer.

Marital Problems Blamed For Spread Of Alcoholism

The widespread disease of alcoholism is directly related to marital problems, according to Dr. James A. Knight, assistant dean and professor of psychiatry, Tulane University School of Medicine.

The Louisiana psychiatrist spoke on "Alcohol and the Family" at the University of Utah's 16th Annual School of Alcohol Studies in Salt Lake City.

Tips Given For Houses On Vacation

Keep your own safety in mind while you're on vacation this year, but also give a little thought to the safety of your home before you leave.

That advice comes from Bill Rhodenbaugh, travel manager of the Idaho State Automobile Association.

The AAA club official urges that you don't advertise the fact you will be away from home for an extended length of time and gives these hints for preparing your home.

Make sure insurance policies are paid up; arrange for your pet; turn off outside water faucets, and check major service installations—such as refrigerators, furnace and water heater—to make certain they are in good working order.

Notify local police and firemen that you intend to be away, and give them the approximate date of your return. Let them know where they can find a key.

Leave a key to your home with a neighbor, along with your literary, and your automobile license number for use in emergencies.

Securely lock windows and doors. Leave the window shades in a position which would be normal if you were at home.

You may want to investigate one of the devices available for automatically turning on a light in your home at night, and turning it off in the morning.

TAPES CALLS
—TOKYO (AP) — A Tokyo hotel, the New Otani, claims bird calls are "among the most relaxing and restful sounds in the world." Guests who agree can pipe them in on a tape recording hooked to the room radio.

Also arrange to have your lawn mowed while you are away; arrange for care of your pets; turn off outside water faucets, and check major service installations—such as refrigerators, furnace and water heater—to make certain they are in good working order.

Dr. Knight said lack of communication and forgiveness between husband and wife, conflicting connections between the male-female psychic differences send some couples to the divorce courts, but these three major causes are not the only ones. He said that the widespread disease of alcoholism, America's number four health problem.

"It is a rare alcoholic who does not have a problem in his marriage," Dr. Knight said. He added that the alcoholic's marital problems may be compounded by his own personality traits. The super-sensitivity, strong ties to the present, dependency, inability to handle anxiety and depression (characteristic of many alcoholics) are important causal factors, he says.

Although Dr. Knight believes "an understanding of the personality problems of the alcoholic is the major prerequisite to treatment," he admits it is difficult to discern which traits the patient brought into alcoholism and how many were bred and accentuated by the strains of life and alcohol itself.

It is imperative that the clinician look at alcoholism in the same perspective as he does other physical illnesses," says Dr. Knight. The total picture must be considered—the patient's family and the community in which he lives. Only then can the clinician determine what kinds of changes are necessary in these areas to restore the alcoholic addict to health.

In his observations of the families of alcoholics, Dr. Knight has found that wives of male alcoholics are recognizable types—the mother-wife, managerial-wife, child-wife and rescuer-wife. The latter type usually has a father who is an alcoholic and she operates under the illusion that by saving her husband she will save her father.

In families where one or both parents are alcoholics, children will have neurotic tendencies—of their intimate relationships will be colored or distorted. Dr. Knight says the youngsters develop a reactive disorder to the physical and emotional neglect of their parents—and at the same time have guilt feelings because they hate their parents for this neglect.

The fact that 40-50 per cent of the nation's alcoholics come from families where there is one alcoholic parent is startling evidence of the effect of parental alcoholism on children, according to Dr. Knight.

Dr. Knight is one of 60 recognized authorities on alcoholism participating in the Utah School of Alcohol Studies this summer. The workshop was lauded by the executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism as "the most superior effort of this sort going on in the United States today."

He said lack of communication and forgiveness between husband and wife, conflicting connections between the male-female psychic differences send some couples to the divorce courts, but these three major causes are not the only ones. # Book Review

FIVE SMOOTH STONES
Ann Fairburn
This is a long book in the grand tradition. You may think "Oh, it is such a big book, it is not only in size, but it could well be the big novel of 1967."

The title of Miss Fairburn's remarkable first novel comes from the five smooth stones of the Bible and the author carries with him into battle against Goliath.

Do not be misled—this is not just another civil rights novel; it is a warm and honest book about people. There are as many key "white" characters as Negro and the author seems to know both races intimately. Her painfully sharp probings of man's soul and spirit show that the numerous people characterized are just "mortal humans."

The central character is David Champlin, who is a hero in the best sense of the term. Between boy and man, his experience is one of aspiration, struggle and most of all—people.

His beloved grandfather, L'il Joe, grounded him in the faith and courage of his ancestors. The mind over physical appearance is shown in Djarne Knott, the Danish professor who taught David to face and overcome barriers, and made him "the son of my mind."

During his college years he is at the mercy of some arrogant, cruel, indifferent and careless men, but finds lasting friendships with others like "Suds" and "Chuck."

David's honest and gripping romance with fiercely devoted, fiery and white Sara is ablaze with bitter truths.

You feel the pressure of terror and tension in the turning point of the story. It is a compelling story; one that remains in your thoughts.

It gave me a deep feeling of sympathy and understanding toward each character whether Negro or white. I liked the book and in these days of bone-deep issues, I hope many will read it.

WINTHROP

BY DICK CAVALLI

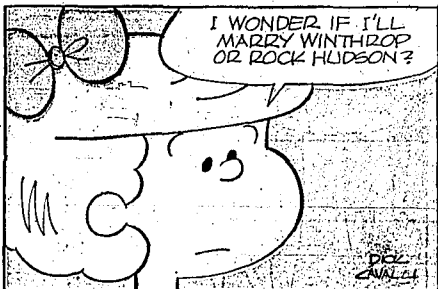

I THINK YOUR SISTER'S WEDDING WAS THE PRETTIEST ONE I EVER SAW, MARY ANN.

I WONDER WHO I'LL MARRY WHEN I GROW UP?

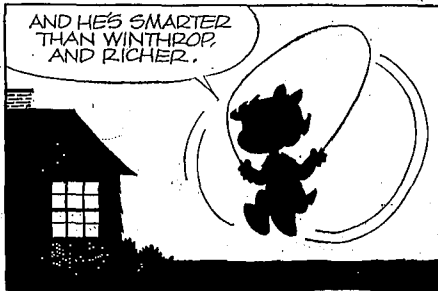

I WONDER IF I'LL MARRY WINTHROP OR ROCK HUDSON?

ROCK HUDSON IS HANDSOMER THAN WINTHROP, HIS AND MORE TALENTED...

AND HE'S SMARTER THAN WINTHROP, AND RICHER.

BUT ROCK HUDSON WILL BE AN OLD MAN WHEN I'M GROWN UP. I GUESS WHAT IT BOILS DOWN TO IS...

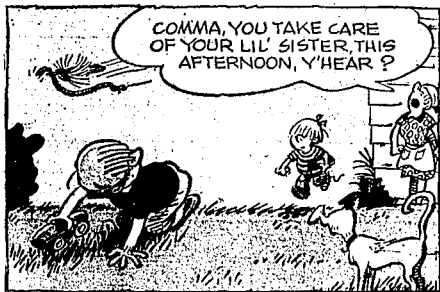

WOULD I RATHER MARRY A RICH, HANDSOME, SMART, TALENTED OLD MAN OR A YOUNG NOTHING?
