Frontier Days Highlighted By Parade Led By Gov. Samuelson

Amid sirens, brass bands and the clatter of horses' hooves on hot pavement, the Twin Falls Frontier Days Parade got off to a colorful start at 5:10 p.m. Saturday after a frenetic delay caused by the tardy arrival of a star attraction.

Parade marshal Gov. Don Samuelson, scheduled to arrive in Twin Falls at 4:30 p.m., arrived here at about 4:40 p.m. after stopping to put out a brush fire near King Hill and a latter buying a belt in Filner.

AN OLD COWHAND, Gov. Don Samuelson sits easily astride a high-stepping Appaloosa stallion as parade marshal of the Frontier Days Parade. Spectators turned out in flocks to view the event in spite of 90-degree heat.

Rats Cause Heavy Toll, Report Finds

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee estimates the rats which infest America's slums cause close to $1 billion property damage a year.

And a federal health official suggests the psychological toll exacted by rats from slum-dwellers may be equally costly.

In a recent report, the House Banking and Currency Committee estimated the U.S. rat population at some 50 million, or about one for every two people, and said each rat causes about $10 damage a year.

Alan W. Donaldson, associate director of the U.S. Bureau of Disease Prevention and Environmental Control, said Friday an equally serious aspect is the psychological impact rats have on slum-dwellers.

"They're pests, they're dirty and they're frightening," Donaldson said.

He noted rats also spread disease through slums, often by being victims, the majority of their children.

Donaldson's comments came in the wake of President Johnson's criticism of the House committee rejecting last week an administration program aimed at eradicating rats in urban areas.

Johnson referred to the action in a Thursday night speech as an example of congressional failure to deal with problems that help spawn rioting in U.S. cities.

Time Needed To Determine If New Lands Will Be Successful

By ALLEN M. BAILEY
Associated Press Writer

BOISE (AP) — Successful farming involves more than simply acquiring a tract of land.

That's why processing of desert land entry applications is sometimes discouragingly slow, area of Land Management officials say.

The lack of haste pays off, according to Orval Hadley, BLM Idaho land office manager, because it takes time to see if a farmer could make a good living on it.

Hadley said the investigation delay may sometimes be more than a year before the applicant can begin farming.

Irrigating and farming desert land is a financially risky and costly venture, he said, and the BLM spends a lot of money to find out if a land venture is feasible.

About 150,000 acres of southwest Idaho land are now being surveyed by the U. S. Bureau of Reclamation for the BLM to determine if tracts are good enough to risk investment.

The BLM itself is investigating and classifying about 100,000 acres for single entrymen who must put out an estimated $40,000 to $60,000, for the 320 acres permitted under desert land laws.

A USBR spokesman said the land classification work is completed in early September.

Hadley said his office would complete processing of the 1,135 pending entry applications by next June 30 on the basis of classifications.

Most of the land being considered lies south of the Snake River.

Supervising soil scientist A. S. Dransfield said 20 holes about 14 feet deep and one inch in diameter are drilled at representative points in the 150,000-acre tract to obtain "master profiles" of the soil and ground moisture. Then, over the entire area, five-foot-deep holes are dug, four in each square mile section, to learn more about the soil depths and obtain samples for testing.

Qualities tested include:

- The drainage properties of the soil; good natural drainage is needed.
- Proper proportions of chemicals, especially those such as phosphorus, nitrogen and potassium which may affect plant growth.
- The "cation exchange capacity," which Dransfield defined as "the inherent fertility" of the soil; its capacity indicates how much of such vital chemicals as nitrates, the soil will hold. Very sandy soil will hold little (has a low cation capacity) and is classified as poor soil.

— The topography of the land; it must not be too steep to irrigate by sprinklers, and ideal land is flat enough to be surface-irrigated without sprinkling.

— Rock-clearing costs, which are usually quite low in areas now being tested on the south side of the Snake.

— The salinity and alkalinity of the soil, especially the depth at which the white alkaline substance caliche is found.

When the information has been gathered, the USBR sends it to Hadley's office for evaluation, after which applications for the land must be examined for financial soundness and to make sure any group arrangement would not violate criteria set up by Secretary of Interior Stewart Udall last year.

Since Jan. 1, more than 16,000 acres have been classified—but only about 8,500 were favorable for farming. Since the same date, 36 desert land applications on 8,407 acres have been allowed and entrymen have taken possession of the land and gotten to develop it.

Of the more than 1,100 remaining to be acted upon, 424 are either new or reactivated ones submitted since Jan. 1.

Hadley said 531 applications had been gathered, the USBR sends them closed this year by relicensing, rejections, and action.

Magic Valley Gem Club Has July Meeting

First aid precautions, designed specially for the rock hound complete with slide illustrations were explained to Magic Valley Gem Club members in their July meeting Thursday night in the Times-News building.

Dr. and Mrs. Ellwood Rees presented the program. Mrs. Rees has been chairman of the safety for the Northwest Federation of Mineralogical Societies for the past three years.

With the assistance of Dr. Rees and Mrs. and Mrs. Tom E. Lucas, Filer, safety committee members, a safety manual rock hounds were compiled for the local club and later published for all rock hound organizations.

Slides presented Thursday included treatment of injuries from fractures to insect or snake bites.

Members announced plans to enter a display in the Northwest Federation Gem and Mineral Show Sept. 2, 3 and 4 in Eugene, Ore., and a contest was named to work out details.

A rock hammer was awarded Hugh Denton, Burley, for the best display and a "baby rock" show and a rock scoop will be awarded in the August meeting for the "best specimen" or "bragging rock."

Western Jamboree Set For Aug. 16 At Cassia Fair

BURLEY. — The first Western jamboree on his own as a single Jamboree is being planned for now he is one of the stars of the successful NBC-TV show "Singing Country," has been followed by three nights of rodeo and pari-mutuel horse racing all four afternoons.

Roy Clark will be featured on the country Western Jamboree along with Wynn Stewart, County Charley Pride, Johnny Dollar and Mary Taylor, all television and recording stars.

Promoters and showmen have billed Roy Clark in a variety of ways: "The world's fastest guitar," "the man with the funniest face" and "the great pretender."

He started out as a musician and sang only to fill in empty places in his performances. Originally from Virginia, he got into the music business when he won the National Country Music Banjo championship. The following year he won the title again and with it a trip to Nashville for an appearance on the "Grand Old Opry" show.

That was when he figured that it would take more than just instrumental ability to make it as a performer. So, at the age of 14, he made his vocal debut on "The Hayloft Conservatory Music Interpretation," a regional television show that ran almost as long as his name.

Next Roy began touring with Wanda Jackson's band, where he made the acquaintance of such greats as Hank Thompson and others who encouraged him to develop his talents. Both Wanda and Hank gave Roy every opportunity as a soloist with their bands, and it wasn't long before Roy was asked to do

ROY CLARK recording star who will be featured on the country Western Jamboree Aug. 16 at the first night of the Cassia County Fair. He is called the world's fastest guitar.

He will continue his own heavy schedule of concerts and personal appearances and his regular vocal and instrumental recording sessions for Capitol.

Clark first saw his father play the guitar as a child in Virginia tobacco country, and he later moved to Washington.

The 34-year-old Clark stands almost six feet tall and began his career as a real hillbilly singer, complete with banjo, and says his current recordings are country-oriented pop songs.

He agreed that he belongs to the new breed of country singers where it becomes difficult to differentiate between western and popular music. There's even a touch of blues in his song "When the Wind Blows in Chicago." Other songs recorded by Clark are "Taps of My Fathers," "The Lightning Fingers of Roy Clark" and "Malaguena."

Holly Houdburg, 7 in Falls, will be master of ceremonies for the Country Western Jamboree, which is sponsored by the Burley Exchange Club for the first night of the Cassia County Fair.

The theme for this year's fair is "Water." The annual fair parade will be at 10 a.m. Aug. 17, reported Norval Wildman, and Robert Coombs, parade co-chairmen.

Down through the years there have been many projects in and about Twin Falls which have done a lot for the community in general and the citizens in particular.

to assure continued success and signs which could be kept in repair and which could be of benefit.

In short, it is unfortunate when a fine project like the one of name posts is allowed to go by the wayside. It should not be the task of one person or organization to keep something like this going once it is started.

Publicity Works

Juvenile crime is still on the increase. Except in the little city of Lompoc, Calif. Crime committed by juveniles dropped noticeably in Lompoc during 1966. And the decrease coincided with a decision to publish names of juvenile offenders in the local newspaper.

Lompoc had a higher population of juveniles in 1966 than the previous year. It had a juvenile delinquency officer in 1966, but not in 1965. Presumably, a full-time officer would solve more crimes, and there would be a resultant increase in arrests of juveniles.

SEARCH MADE — Lewiston, Idaho (AP) — The cloudy Snake River was patrolled only by volunteers Saturday in the search for Robert Chidamo, 21, the Moscow Giants' first baseman who drowned near here Wednesday after falling off a log raft.

Sheriff's officers said the murky water made a search almost futile, and that they would wait for either the river to clear or for the body to turn up.

CEREMONY SET — Boise (AP) — A host of top state and Boy Scout officials will participate in ceremonies Tuesday marking dedication of permanent facilities at the site of the World Boy Scout jamboree at Farragut State Park.

Official host of the jamboree and main speaker at dedication ceremonies will be Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson who, before his election to the state's highest office, was a resident of Sandpoint on the opposite bank of Lake Pend Oreille from the park.

Washington Gov. Dan Evans will attend the ceremony as guest of honor. Samuelson's guest and Utah Gov. Calvin Rampton will also attend. Samuelson's office said Saturday.

BUILDING BURNS — Weiser, Idaho (AP) — Fire damage to a grain and feed company building here is estimated at between $30,000 and $100,000, fire department spokesman said.

A four-alarm fire destroyed a Weiser feed and storage company building late Friday night.

PLANS MADE — Pocatello (AP) — Southern Idaho's industrial plants will be the target of efforts by the new Idaho Air Pollution Control Commission, its chairman said Friday.

Dr. Mel Jackson, who is chairman of the University of Idaho Graduate School as well as the commission, said industrial plants would soon receive questionnaires from the State Health Department to determine pollution causes and what was being done about them.

Master Sgt. Charles F. Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Meyer, Twin Falls, returned last week from Da Nang, Vietnam. He will be stationed with the Air Force in Illinois in August with his fiancée, and their five children have resided in Twin Falls during Mr. Meyer's year-long tour of duty in Vietnam.

Pvt. Tony S. Elison, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Elison, 463 Grandview, Burley, recently completed a light vehicle driver course at Ft. Huachuca, Ariz. He will be in charge of the operation and maintenance of military vehicles, such as the two-and-a-half-ton truck, internal combustion engine and chassis assembly.

Four Magic Valley residents enlisted in the U.S. Air Force recently, according to T. S. Hartman, Magic Valley recruiter, Twin Falls.

They are Paul Lee Sutterfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. Sutterfield, Twin Falls; John James Allen, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Allen, Kimberley; Rodney Orrus Greer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn E. Greer, Paul, and Timothy John Klaus, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold F. Klaus, Jerome.

Senior M-Sgt. Darrell J. Hurd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph J. Hurd, Route 1, Jerome, recently received his second award of the U.S. Air Force Commendation Medal at Hickam Air Force Base, Hawaii.

He was decorated for meritorious service at Clark Air Base, Philippines and was cited for his outstanding professional skill, knowledge and leadership.

He is now at Hickam as a member of the Military Airlift Command, which provides airlift for the nation's military forces. He served during the Korean War, and has served in Vietnam.

Closure Of Suez Canal Is Not Felt

By LAWRENCE MALKIN LONDON (AP) — The Suez Canal now has been closed for almost two months, and Western Europe is still very much in business.

This major artery of trade, especially in oil, is not the vital lifeline it once was. This is proved by the speedy readjustment of Western Europe's shipping and supply patterns since the Arab-Israeli war in June.

The canal, once a prize of war and political maneuvering, seems to be diminishing in political significance, especially as a bargaining center for Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. The economic pressures he foresaw for Western Europe when he shut down the canal have been swiftly contained. A surplus of shipping helped mightily.

The 103-mile canal is blocked by five obstacles sunk during the June war. Two Egyptian plain ships are sunk at the northern end of the waterway, south of Port Said, and a small Egyptian tanker blocks the company's Swan Falls Dam in the southwestern Idaho.

Each year the band brings its music to more than two million people around the world.

The Soldiers' Chorus, known as the "voice" of the U.S. Army Field Band, has accompanied the band on all of their tours. In 1961, the 22-member group of highly trained vocalists was selected to perform at the Prayer Breakfast of the late President John F. Kennedy, following his inaugural in Washington.

The group, formed in 1948, has since appeared on network television, radio and in motion pictures. They present their own special arrangements of all-time favorite songs and currently popular compositions.

The concert is free to the public and all are invited to attend. In case of inclement weather, the performance will be held in the O'Leary Junior High School auditorium, says Mr. Adamson.

The child on the bicycle was arrested and received cuts and bruises. She was treated and released at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Licenses Of 3 Power Dams Are Approved

BOISE (AP) — Extensions of Federal Power Commission licenses for three Southern Idaho power dams were recommended today by the Idaho Water Resources Board.

The board recommended five-year extensions for two Utah Power and Light Company power dams in the Bear River drainage in southeastern Idaho and a three-year extension of the C license for Idaho Power Company's Swan Falls Dam in southwestern Idaho.

Representatives of both companies had asked for longer extensions. However, all three dams are located in areas where larger reclamation projects are planned.

Recommendations for the licensing included a provision that capacity of the sites be frozen at present levels.

Idaho Power's proposal for extension of its Swan Falls license included a plan for construction of a second low dam downstream at Gully.

This proposal — which some board members contended would "throw a monkey wrench" into the plan for the southwestern Idaho Water Development Project — was termed "a breach of bargaining in good faith" by the Southern Idaho Water Development Project board Chairman George Crookham of Caldwell.

Crookham said neither the plan nor the Bureau of Reclamation had been formally notified of the power company's plan.

Intentions to seek permission to build the second low dam at the site of Idaho Power by the Southern Idaho Water Development Project plans call for construction of a higher federal dam at Gully which would flood the present Swan Falls dam.

8 Speakers Headline Air Transportation Seminar

Eight speakers will be featured at an Idaho Air Transportation seminar arranged by the Idaho State University College of Business Administration at the Twin Falls Holiday Inn Monday.

More than 200 government and airport officials and interested residents of the Magic Valley area are expected to attend the event, which is designed to provide insight into the growth and development of air facilities in Idaho.

The program will open at 8 a.m., with Frank D. Seelye, dean of the business college at ISU, welcoming guests and introducing the history of the comprehensive study on air transportation in Idaho that the college undertook last year.

First speaker will be Dr. James Kelly, associate professor of the College of Business, who will review the air service study and recommendations at 9:20 a.m. Dean Seelye will discuss research-supported needs for development after a coffee break from 10 to 10:15 a.m.

At 10:45 a.m., Vaughn Clayton, Federal Aviation Administration representative, will speak on the role of the federal government in aid to airport development. After Mr. Clayton's 20-minute address, Ed Woods, Twin Falls Airport Manager, will discuss airport operations.

Twenty-five minutes for audience questions and discussion will precede the luncheon period from noon to 1 p.m.

The first speaker after lunch will be Chet Moulton, director of the Department of Aeronautics, Boise, on "General Aviation and Third Level Interstate Air Service." "Air Legislation, Past and Future," will be the topic of State Rep. Darrell Manning at 1:20 p.m.

Other speakers are Sen. Richard High, who will speak on "State Air Planning" and a West Coast Air Lines representative who will discuss future plans for air carrier service in the state.

Audience questions from 2:20 to 3 p.m., with Dean Seelye as moderator will wind up the seminar.

Basic function of the seminar, Dean Seelye commented, is to attempt to consolidate the thinking about local needs and problems and their integration into a state air transportation system.

63 Entries Appear In Big Parade

go-round of the Frontier Days Rodeo, beginning at 8 p.m.; an appearance of Queen candidates, and a demonstration of the famous Clydesdale horses at 8:15 p.m.

The Clydesdales, beautiful draft horses that are only slightly more rare than the hand-made harnesses they use to pull the famous Budweiser brewery wagons, were another hit with the crowd.

Spectators at the local event joined the multitude of others who have gasped at the coast-to-coast appearances of the immense horses.

The Clydesdales will be on display at the Twin Falls National Guard Armory through Sunday, closing day of Frontier Days. The eight-horse team has been scheduled to appear at each of the three rodeo performances.

At the conclusion of the parade, Gov. Samuelson, Mayor and Mrs. Egon Kroll, Frontier Days Chairman Jack Windsor and several other local dignitaries ate dinner at the Holiday Inn before going to the rodeo grounds at Frontier Field. Gov. Samuelson was introduced to the capacity crowd there after the opening of the event and was presented a chromed horseshoe formerly worn by one of the Clydesdales.

Saturday night's rodeo featured the usual Western contests, with Vicki Webb, Frontier Days Queen, leading the grand entry into the arena.

Earlier Frontier Days activities have included halter classes each morning followed by performance classes later in the afternoon; the first go-round of the rodeo, featuring stock from the Rahm, Stephens, and Midvale and top-ranking cowboys from throughout Idaho and surrounding states, and the annual YMCA-YWCA Chuckwagon Breakfast Saturday morning.

Still on schedule, in addition to American Paint and Appaloosa halter and performance classes on Sunday, are the final rodeo show at 8 p.m. tonight and the crowning of the 1967 Frontier Days Queen at 10:15 p.m. Sunday.

Eight division winners in the parade were announced Saturday. Named as best overall entry was the Gateway Trailer Center float. Other winners were the Filer Twirlers, youngest entry; Filer High School, best band; Jerome Sheriff's posse, best riding club; an unidentified girl wearing overalls and riding a horse, best novelty entry; the Old Time Fiddlers, oldest entry; the Mountain States Telephone Co., best float, and the Burley High School, best drill team.

Results of first night's rodeo action are bareback riding: Bob Conforth, Weiser, first; Ronnie Conley, Lamolite, Nev., second; and Larry Burton, Rupert, third. Saddle bronc riding: Dick Seal, Elko, first, and Dennis Manning, second. There were only two qualifiers in this event. Bull riding: Bob Conforth, Weiser, first; Larry Brown, Gooding,

ONE OF THE few cool ones during the Frontier Days Parade Saturday was the girl in the tub atop the Mountain States Telephone Company's prize-winning float. The tub was presumably filled with cold, soapy water. The float, which illustrated "Changing Times," was the first place winner in its division.

Loans Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson ordered the Small Business Administration Saturday to make available long-term, low-interest loans to home owners and small-business men in riot-torn Detroit to help rebuild dwellings and establishments.

This action was announced at the White House by Cyrus Vance, Johnson's personal representative in Detroit who returned to Washington for the day to report to the chief executive.

second, and Jim Striker, Parma, third.

Steer wrestling: Bob Tyler, Pull, first; Jimmy Eaker, Kimberty, second; Ray Callmack, Pingree, third, and Bill Estes, Burley, fourth.

Calf roping: Tom Webb, Wendell, first; Lynn Wood, Mountain View, second; Bob Jucker, third, and Bill McIlwain, Burley, fourth.

Barrel racing: Linda Campbell, New Meadows, first; Diane Elam, Eagle, second; Trudy Hayes, third, and Janie Sagers, Gooding, fourth.

Results of the Saturday-horse show will be announced in Monday's Times-News.

Party Loses Control In India State

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi's Congress party Saturday lost its rule over a majority of the 17 Indian states when the Congress government fell in Madhya Pradesh State.

Opposition governments—often coalition—came to power in six states in last February's elections. Since then Congress governments have fallen in Haryana and Uttar Pradesh states, and now in Madhya Pradesh, the country's largest.

The latest went down in a legislative vote of budgetary demands for grants in education. The opposition, led by the Hindu communal Jan Sangh party, won 153 to 137. The stage was set for the defeat July 19, when 36 Congress members deserted to the opposition coalition.

Reunion Attracts Thousands

By PETER B. SEYMOUR
REDGRANITE, Wis. (AP) — The survivors of Redgranite's 1929 economic collapse decided three years ago to search for everywhere, and we had more young fellows than we could handle.

"We're really going to tear the town apart just like we used to," said Mrs. Esther Stiller, who was among hundreds of its high school alumni returned for a reunion that also attracted thousands of spectators who had never heard of Redgranite.

The 588 residents of the village, a granite quarry city of 800 persons in the 1920s, started planning the reunion in 1964 expecting to assemble no more than 4,000 alumni and relatives at the town pump.

They invited 1,400 graduates, got an unexpected 700 replies excluding persons still living in Redgranite, received promises of appearances from state officials, and attendance was soon out of hand.

The two-hour parade scheduled for Sunday afternoon swelled to 125 units and 1,500 marchers because of band and float contributions from throughout the state. The farm village braced for a throng of 10,000 relatives and spectators with parade chairman Henry Piechowski predicting 15,000.

Even in its heyday when Redgranite was noted for its union-sponsored Labor Day parades, a well-publicized celebration rarely drew more than 5,000.

eyes, Mrs. Stiller, class of 1922, recalled. "Those Labor Day parades drew people from everywhere, and we had more young fellows than we could handle."

Alumni came from California, Oregon, Florida, Rhode Island and Montana. Most related vivid memories of the parades they had to cancel in 1932 after the collapse of the granite quarry industry which had sent paving blocks to streets in Chicago, St. Louis, Cincinnati and other cities.

Lucy Nelson of Havre, Mont., class of 1937, declared Redgranite "should have become a ghost town" after 1929.

The homecoming and the thousands of persons it lured for the parade strained the hospital facilities of the village which has only 4.5 miles of paved streets, no motels and only three restaurants. It had seven hotels in the 1920s. Alumni credited Redgranite with having maintained 99 percent of the village population in the 1920s represented quarry-working immigrants from Europe or their children.

"Life in America began right here for nearly the whole town," a 1931 graduate said. "This really was our first home. We couldn't hope to forget it."

20,000 DECISIONS

20,000 new homes were built in southern Idaho between 1957 and 1966 in Intermountain's service area. 20,000 decisions had to be made on the kind of heating equipment for these new homes. Over 18,000 decisions were in favor of Natural Gas for an impressive ratio of better than 9 out of 10. Today, gas heats more than 53,000 homes in 60 southern Idaho communities and has also become the "first choice" fuel for water heating and cooking. Intermountain Gas Company is efficiently supplying Natural Gas to its customers at a cost equal to or below that of any other gas utility in the northwest.

Crewmen In Stranded Ships In Suez Canal Form Club

By ALEX EFTY
The club's location is on the Bitter Lake, roughly mid-point along the Suez Canal. The 14 ships lie idle at anchor, unable to move until three Egyptian vessels and two floating docks sunk in the canal during the war are raised. A 18th ship, the U.S. tanker Observer is by itself on Lake Tinnah, several miles from the rest. The sailors' only contact with the outside world is when an Egyptian launch visits them three times a week to deliver mail and stores. Earlier this week, Cairo diplomats representing the stranded ships were permitted by Egyptian authorities to visit the sailors for the first time. There are four British ships, one American, two each from Sweden, Poland and West Germany and one each from Bulgaria, France and Czechoslovakia on the Bitter Lake. One diplomat told about the stranded sailors forming their Triple-S Club. "They" visit each other's boats, and exchange books and magazines they had aboard, as well as a few films from those ships that have a cinema. By now they have all seen the available films several times over," the diplomat said.

Magic Valley Pumpers Association Meets With Power Company Officials

BURLEY — The Magic Valley Pumpers Association met Thursday evening at the Dworshak School with power company officials serving the deep well irrigation pumps. "Without interconnection we could not sell power for irrigation pumping anywhere near the low rate you are now enjoying," he added. The Idaho Power Co. now has right of way authority but is still waiting for final Federal Power Commission approval. Because of the urgency, the Idaho Power Co. is proceeding with construction on the basis of verbal assurance that Federal Power Commission approval is forthcoming. It was pointed out that the Idaho Power Co., and all other northwest utilities, are being delayed in needed construction by administrative policy at the top level of the Federal agencies, power officials said. "I am happy to report that the operating personnel of all private companies and public agencies have been very cooperative and are doing their very best to operate the interconnected systems in a manner which will result in the best service to the customer wherever he may be located," Mr. Carlson stated. On July 20, Montana Power Co., Utah Power and Light Co. and Idaho Power Co. asked the Bureau of Reclamation to open their ties to the east. They promptly complied with the request and although this did help the situation, in itself was not a cure, Mr. Carlson said. Mr. Carlson reported that on Tuesday and Wednesday the Western Operators Committee, a committee of operating people from private companies and public agencies, met in Boise to discuss and attempt to find solutions to the problem of power interruptions in the interconnected systems. "There are many people both in private companies and public agencies that are concerned with the problem of power interruptions and solutions will be found to keep these disturbances to a minimum," stated Mr. Carlson. "However, there is no prospect in sight for complete elimination of all outages and therefore, it is our recommendation that each customer take whatever steps are necessary to protect his equipment," he added. It is the customer's obligation to provide his own protection he noted. Advice and counsel from the Idaho Power Co., technical people is available to the customer to assist in selecting the best method of protecting the pump equipment. Suggested recommendations to protect the pump equipment were to make sure that the pump is not loaded beyond the name plate rating; be sure the proper protective equipment is installed so that in the event of voltage fluctuation the pump will shut down before equipment is damaged. It is also important that after installation of protective equipment that it be maintained to assure its operation in emergency, and that adequate insurance be provided for each pumping installation. Mr. Hall told a group that 2,400 miles of power lines made up the loop and that a power one pump continues to shut off and a pump next to it keeps operating a loose connection in the switch or panel box creates the problem and sometimes excess dirt in the control box will cause the pump to stop operating. Mr. Hall reported that he believed eventually all power systems would be interconnected nationwide, resulting in more stable power loads. "The interconnecting of systems is just one of the ways the power companies are trying to eliminate the present problem of power swings and power interruptions," Mr. Hall added. Mr. Carlson summarized the discussion and asked the pump owners to provide their own pump protection for their home fit and to remember that the Idaho Power Co. was working constantly to find the power interruption causes and to correct the situation.

"We want to assure you," Mr. Carlson told the group, "that we are very concerned about the number of disturbances on our lines, several of which were a result of interconnection with other systems." There are many advantages to interconnection, and in general the advantages far outweigh the disadvantages. "Today it is essential that we have interconnection with other systems," he said, "and would not have the capacity, due to low water in the summertime, to generate adequate power to supply the demands."

Assistance Grants Are Decreased

WASHINGTON (AP) — Better Social Security payments for the elderly have caused a marked decrease in the number of Americans over 65 receiving federal old age assistance grants. Undersecretary of Welfare Wilbur J. Cohen said Saturday. Cohen said by next year less than 10 per cent of those over 65 will be on old age assistance. The figure today is 11 per cent, or 2.1 million oldsters. The figure in 1959 was 23 per cent, or 2.8 million. "The decline... is one of the notable achievements of recent years," Cohen said. He attributed much of the decline to the increasing number of elderly people collecting Social Security benefits. He based his remarks on a study by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare which began in May, 1958.

Agency Is Charged On Postage Use

BOISE (AP)—A former president of the capitol conservation club Friday charged the Idaho Fish and Game Commission with allowing a private organization to use a state postage meter for "private purposes."

Commission members and state fish and game director John R. Woodworth were named in a complaint filed by Norman Tague of Boise.

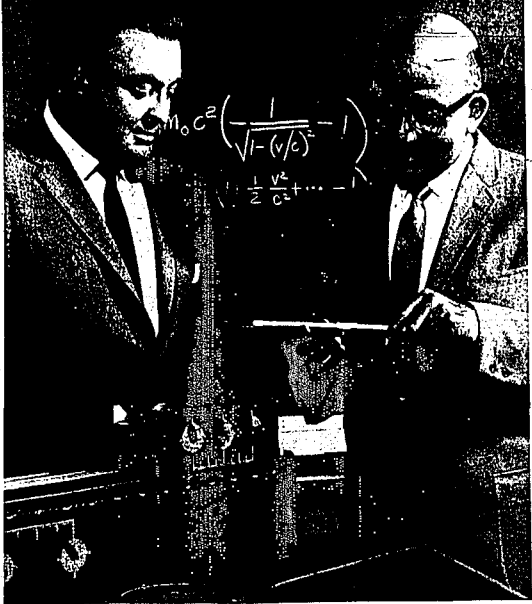

The Fourth District Court suit alleges that the Idaho Wildlife Federation, for the Sears Roebuck Foundation and the National Wildlife Federation, had used the fish and game department's postage meter to mail invitations to the first annual Governor's Conservation Awards Banquet on Dec. 13, 1965.

The banquet was sponsored by the private groups, Tague charges.

Tague's complaint alleges that use of the meter was illegal because it violated provisions in Idaho Code and the State Constitution.

District court is asked for an injunction against further use of "public funds for private purposes" and a judgment that the defendants be held liable for money so used.

Named in the complaint besides Woodworth are commissioners Stanger, R. J. Holmes and William B. Durbon.

U. S. Envoys Take Off For Australia

MANILA, Philippines (AP)—Gen. Maxwell Taylor and Clark Clifford, presidential envoys to America's Southeast Asia allies, took off for Canberra, Australia, today on a scheduled stopover due to an engine failure.

Taylor, former ambassador to Vietnam, and Clifford, chairman of the Federal Intelligence Advisory Board, stayed on the base during the eight-hour repair period and did not confer with any Philippine officials about their mission, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said.

The two are reported to be trying to convince Southeast Asian allies to participate more actively in the Vietnam war.

Their plane diverted to the Philippines Friday after one jet engine gave out over Singapore, nearly 1,500 miles away. No details of the failure were given, but the embassy spokesman said the plane had to land at the big U.S. air base instead of any commercial airport because the trouble was not minor.

The mission had been scheduled to arrive here next week as part of its tour but the Manila visit was suddenly dropped last Thursday. The announcement, made in a radio broadcast, during the mission's top there, said the cancellation was made in consultation with the Philippine government.

ISU Planning To Offer Courses At 3 Idaho Adult Education Centers

POCATELLO — Idaho State University will offer a range of courses at three adult education centers in southern Idaho, and the Pocatello campus to meet the educational needs of adults in Southern Idaho.

These courses resulted, according to Dr. Richard Merrill, director of Continuing Education for Southeastern Idaho, because of provisions made by the Idaho Legislature in the Special Session for the financing of Continuing Education for the next biennium.

ISU will offer these courses at the Pocatello campus and in Kimberly, Idaho Falls and Burley-Rupert, resident centers.

Costs Reported

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of inflation during the past year was equivalent to a 7.7 percent sales tax, Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, said Friday.

He said increased costs attributed to inflation were estimated at $72.5 million for residents of Idaho.

"It is agreed by nearly everyone," he added, "that the reason for inflation is the spending policies of the federal government. Instead of cutting back the domestic program, the President now asks for a tax increase.

"In other words, more money is needed to finance inflation itself. This is one more reason why I cannot support a tax increase and why domestic spending must be reduced."

Area Man Chosen To Attend Stanford Science Seminar

Mark G. Johnson, Rupert, was chosen as one of 50 Shell Merit Fellows from throughout the United States and Canada to attend an eight-week science seminar at Stanford University.

Mr. Johnson, a mathematics teacher at Mindoka High School, had a unique opportunity to learn many of the latest scientific discoveries at the graduate-level meetings.

During these summer weeks, the educators are hearing researchers, industrial scientists and educators discuss such topics as the origin of life, use of computers, lunar geology, space flight and laser beams.

The program is sponsored by the Shell Companies Foundation, which pays all tuition, living expenses and transportation costs for the teachers and gives each one $500 to help offset any loss of summer earnings.

Mr. Hoppie; Buhl, Dies At Age Of 88
BUIL — William Hoppie, 88, Route 1, died Saturday morning while visiting at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Raymond (Keech) Ruggert Arles, Mount Airy, N.C.

Surviving, besides his widow and daughter, are two sons, John D. Hoppie, and William B. Hoppie, both Buhl; one sister, two half-sisters, and four grandchildren. He was preceded in death by one brother.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Albertson-Dickard Funeral Chapel. Concluding rites will be held at Buhl Cemetery.

A total of $1,200 was collected during the luncheon toward the 5,000 goal set for operation development and expansion.

T. F. Junior Achievement Group Works Toward Goal Of $5,000

The Twin Falls Junior Achievement Association's fund raising campaign was $1,200 nearer its goal of $5,000 after a fund raising luncheon Friday noon at the Rogerson Hotel Colonial Room.

Mike Gray, member of the board for the economic education program, said that the campaign would last only one week. He said Twin Falls businessmen would be asked to donate to ward the program which is in its third year locally.

Russ Anderson of the Idaho Power Company related his experiences at a one-week Junior Achievement training school to the directors present at the meeting.

The school, in San Francisco, was conducted to advise adult leaders and young company stockholders about the program.

Mr. Anderson had been a Junior Achievement advisor since the program began here in 1965.

About 100 young people from Twin Falls have been participating in the program which started with three companies. It is hoped that five companies can be formed this year.

Bob Alexander, president of the local board, announced that Dick Ballou, San Francisco, regional vice president of Junior Achievement, will address the Twin Falls High School student body Sept. 29 to kick off a member recruitment program.

Gov. Don Samuelson will be guest speaker when the program's spring awards banquet is held.

Stocks Wade Through Bog Of Reports

By ED MORSE AP Business Writer NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market... waded through a bog of mostly lower second quarter earnings reports...

The result was a contradictory performance, as follows: 1. The Dow Jones industrial average took its first weekly loss in four weeks but...

Weakness in some of the 20 blue chips in the Dow industrials accounted for its drop of 5.83 to 901.53.

It wasn't bad considering that in the previous week the Dow had started with points to the 956—just a shade below its previous's closing high of 909.63 posted May 8.

After the advance of the previous three weeks, stocks took a moderately sharp dive on Monday. Brokers said many stocks were "overbought" and that profit-taking was in order.

Race riots in Detroit and the calling out of troops to restore order in the city were also factors of business—including the all-important auto industry—in the motor capital. This didn't help stocks.

At the same time, Eastman Kodak reported its first quarterly drop in earnings in a decade.

General Motors and Chrysler reported near the week's end their drops in earnings, but the increase in auto sales and the outlook for the not-too-distant future, as it concerned these companies, was regarded as bullish.

Both stocks rose, but the weakness in such blue chips as Du Pont, General Foods, Standard Oil (New Jersey), Texaco and Eastman Kodak kept the averages after an early rise.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

That was evident from the fact that the average of the company directors' meetings this past week.

One of the more pertinent aspects was that in many cases companies reported higher sales but slimmer profits in comparison with a year earlier.

Executives were virtually unanimous in attributing the situation to higher costs of materials and labor.

First-quarter profits of the nation's industries declined 4.2 percent in the second quarter, a period in 1966. While the returns for the second quarter were far from complete, many economists predicted a similar decline for that period.

Among the industries showing lower earnings this year were steel, automobile, textile, lead, paper and construction.

Early Tactics Used To Push Reservoir Used On Airport

Editor, Times-News: That it will be retained and used as public expense. In the engineer's report and study to determine the need for the type of proposed airport, letters were sent to almost all the airlines regarding their projected intentions of providing service in the foreseeable future to the Magic Valley.

The same procedures which were used on the city water project in its early stages, of showing pictures of deterioration, decay etc., to stimulate public sympathy and acceptance, are being publicized in indicating that our airport is in such bad shape that it is nearly beyond repair.

The facilities at our present airport are nearly new and capable of handling our entire passenger volume. The proposed runway, the extended Valley Airport would accommodate a populated area.

Kimberly Woman Attacks Misinformation Of News

Editor, Times-News: A good example of the misinformation that is fed to the American public through the national news media is the current story of Moise Tshombe and the Congo.

It is not what is said, but what is not said. I have not read or heard any of the following facts: Tshombe is an anti-Communist, friend of the West and equal in statesmanship to any Western statesman; a Christian, a college graduate, and a member of the American system.

swimming and diving gold medals, boosted the number of world records broken to seven. Every Pan-American swimming mark has been wiped out.

Miss Meyer, a slight, 5-foot-6, 110-pounder who blasted the world mark for 400 meters freestyle in eight days ago, set the new listed world mark of 9:39.9 set by Californian Sharon Finerman nearly three years ago and her own pending record of 9:35.8 with a time of 9:29.3.

Schollander, the 21-year-old quadruple gold-medalist at Tokyo, clipped two-tenths of a second off his own world record in winning the 200 meter freestyle in 1:56.

There were a couple of surprises in swimming. The 18-year-old Oregon Elkjins Park, Pa., nipped Elaine Tanner, the 16-year-old Canadian wonder who has won two gold medals with world records in the backstroke, in the 100-meter bout in 1:12.2 in the games' record of 1:12.2.

Charles's Jose Fiol broke the U.S.-Canadian monopoly of aquatic gods by edging Bob Mommson of San Jose, Calif., by about one meter in the 200 meter breaststroke with a Pan-American record of 2:30.4.

Bill Uley of St. Petersburg, Fla., beat Ken Webb of Portland, Ore., by five meters in capturing the 400 meter individual medal in the games' record time of 4:38.1.

Bernie Wightson of Denver started the day's parade for the U.S. team by topping Keith Russell of Mesa, Ariz., for the three-meter springboard crown, 16.08 to 15.81.

The Yanks collected 15 more gold medals overall for a total of 52 to go with 29 silvers and 21 bronze souvenirs.

The swimmers and divers have bagged 15 golds, 13 silvers and four bronzes in 18 events run off so far.

In addition to swimming and track and field, the United States collected three more in shooting, one in tennis and one each in fencing and weight-lifting.

The track and field winners were Mattson and the Pampa, Tex., shot-put giant with a feeble heave for him but a Games' record of 65-foot-1; Van Nelson of Mississippi with a Games' record of 28:17.4 for the 10,000-meter run; Frank Covelli, Long Beach, Calif., javelin, 243.8; and Carol Jean Mosko, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Mich., in the women's discus, 161.7.

Matson, the giant from Pampa, Tex., set a Games' mark in the shotput with 65 feet, one inch, well under his world standard of 70-7 1/2. Nelson on sprinted to the lead in the 10,000 meters to set a record of 29:17.4.

Other victories included Frank Covelli, Long Beach, Calif., javelin, 243.8; Carol Jean Mosko, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Mich., in the women's discus, 161.7; and Billie Wrightson, Denver, Colo., men's springboard diving. In addition, Barbara Ann Farrell of Los Angeles in winning her semifinal heat of the 100 lowered the games mark to 1:13.3.

In tennis, Arthur Ashe of Richmond, Va., defeated Edison Mandarino of Brazil 2-6, 7-5, 6-2, 6-0 and Jane Albert of Peble Beach, Calif., dethroned Liza Ure of Canada 6-3, 1-6, 6-1 in playoffs for the bronze medals.

Miss Albert then teamed with Patsy Rippey of Odessa, Tex., to win the gold medal in the women's doubles. They defeated Eugenia Guzman and Ana Maria Ikenza of Ecuador 6-1, 6-0.

Sgt. Francis Hinchinson of Quantico, Va., captured the gold medal in the individual center fire pistol event with 593 out of a possible 600 points.

ISU Is Optimistic About Frosh Grid Team

POCATELLO — Idaho State football mentor Leo McKillip is very optimistic about prospects for his Baby Bengal footballers this coming season. McKillip has lined up some talented Idaho grid d'ers and augmented them with a few top out-of-stateers.

Coach McKillip says, "We are concentrating as much as possible on Idaho talent without neglecting the out-of-states. We believe that if we can get a few more frosh talents of the nature of this year's, we are on our way. The fastest way to build football power is to start with sound frosh program, and this is what we are trying to do."

With eleven potential stars from Idaho and eight more from out-of-state already agreed to attend ISU, it would appear that Coach McKillip is on the way himself.

Following is a run-down on the top frosh footballers set to attend Idaho State:

LOWELL CARLSON, 6-0, 175, Excelsior Springs, Mo. A quarterback with accurate arm. Teammate of Mordue.

JOE PETRONE, 5-11, 180, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. A quarterback and a placekicker who could be the best blocker ever enrolled at ISU. Can do the job from 50-yards out. Played with the Canadian National Soccer team in the Pan-American Games. Worked out with the varsity in spring drills. Also a talented quarterback.

JERRY MERTZ, 5-10, 175, Coeur d'Alene. A halfback who sprinted on his high school track team. Dependable runner. Leader of the team.

DOUG FLINT, 6-2, 185, Twin Falls. A flanker and defensive back. Was state 120-yard High Burdles and 160-yard Low hurdles champion. An all-around athlete.

CHARLES BENDER, 6-2, 220, Englewood, Calif. An all-conference tackle who will participate in High school all-star game in August.

STAN GEYER, 6-2, 195, Glendora, Calif. All-conference center who will play in the same all-star game as Bender.

RANDY HOOPRI, 5-9, 170, Honolulu, Hawaii. All-Hawaii football. Can play both offense and defense. Explosive runner, with good hands.

RICHARD MORDUE, 6-2, 195, Excelsior Springs, Mo. A football end who starred in basketball. Coaching staff was very impressed after seeing films of his play.

TIM HYDER, 5-10, 175, Excelsior Springs, Mo. A quarterback with accurate arm. Teammate of Mordue.

JOE PETRONE, 5-11, 180, Edmonton, Alberta, Canada. A quarterback and a placekicker who could be the best blocker ever enrolled at ISU. Can do the job from 50-yards out. Played with the Canadian National Soccer team in the Pan-American Games. Worked out with the varsity in spring drills. Also a talented quarterback.

ROBERT CURRIE, 6-2, 250, New Westminster, British Columbia, Canada. An outstanding schoolboy tackle in Canada.

JERRY DUNN, 6-0, 190, Boise, Idaho. A center, top prospect. 401 400 yard dash to win state title in a windy day. Fine passer. Everyone in the western part of U.S. wanted him.

RICH HULBERT, 5-10, 180, Boise. All-Idaho halfback, who also played quarterback, likely to play halfback at ISU. Explosive runner who will team with Dunn for line 1-2 punch. An outstanding competitor. Both Dunn and Hulbert have brothers on the ISU track team.

DAVE BEAUCHAMP, 5-10, 205, Coeur d'Alene. All state football and finest back in Northern Idaho. Excellent linebacker. Powerful runner.

RANDY WATSON, 6-1, 215, Buhl, Guard or tackle, but was all-state tackle. Very fast for size, 10.5 100-yard dash. Size and speed make him an ideal pulling guard.

GARY BAY, 6-2 1/2, Parma. Will play tight end or tackle. Very fast for a big man. Was an honor student in high school.

CHRIS THOMPSON, 6-2, 215, Ft. W. In Falls. All state tackle. Very fast for a big man. With 6.0 time for 50-yard dash. Honor student.

Chance Hikes Bat Average Up To .013

By RON RAPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Dean Chance's batting average is now .013 and don't think for a minute that makes him unhappy. Before Friday night it was .00.

Chance coasted to his 12th victory against Boston Friday as the Twins crushed the Red Sox 9-2. But a mere blip single in the fourth inning was the high point of the game for the star right-hander.

It was supposed to be a sacrifice hit, somehow, it never got fielded and there was Chance hitting first.

Dean had gone 77 times without a hit over the last two seasons, an American League record for blitess at bats, and he was closing in on the major league mark of 87 straight trips without a hit, set in 1912 by Bob Buhl with the Chicago Cubs and Milwaukee Braves.

Making Chance even more pleased with himself was the fact that the hit came off Boston's ace Jim Lonborg when just a day or so ago he'd spoiled of breaking his string against the Red Sox' fast-bullier.

"I haven't got a hit all year and now I've got to face Lonborg and that fast bull," he'd said.

Borah Rallies In Seventh To Nip T.F. Legion 2-1

Roger Price's run-scoring single in the top of the seventh inning capped a two-run rally that carried the Borah Legion team to a 2-1 victory over Twin Falls Saturday night.

Cepeda Fnds Each Series Is Crucial

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Every time Orlando Cepeda kisses tomorrow goodbye, the St. Louis Cardinals' future grows brighter.

Cepeda, enjoying his finest season in six years, drove in three runs with a pair of homers Friday night as the Cardinals overpowered Atlanta 9-1 and protected their two-game lead in the National League race.

The slugging first baseman smacked a single in addition to his 10th and 17th homers while boosting his batting mark to .346 and topping his 1966 RBI total of 73 by two.

"Every series is big to us — every game is big," Cepeda said after the Cards' fifth victory in their last six games. "I'm always confident about our chances, but I don't think ahead. I concentrate on tonight's game."

"If you win tonight's game, you don't have to worry about next week or next month."

While Cepeda concentrated on the present, Houston's Rusty Staub looked ahead to two months of tomorrow in his bid for the NL batting title after delivering four runs with a double and single in the Astros' 9-3 triumph over Pittsburgh.

"I just try to keep going every day," said Staub, who leads the league with a .360 mark. "I don't think about my hitting when I come to bat. If you think 'I must have a hit this time, then you are really in trouble.'"

Asked what he thought it would take to capture the batting championship, the 23-year-old outfielder replied: "It's too early to be thinking about that. We got two months to go."

Governor Denies Issuing Ultimatum or Threats To Fish, Game Commission

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor
"I have never issued an ultimatum . . . to the Idaho Fish and Game Department. I have never threatened to do so and I do not intend to," declared Idaho Governor Dan Samuelson Saturday afternoon in discussing the current controversy surrounding the state wildlife board.
Governor Samuelson declared he had been misquoted, mis-ed and the victim of halftruths, innuendo and "vicious" attacks over the matter.

"There are areas in the state that have a lot of game, a lot of fish and a lot of people concerned with the entire state," he said. "Throughout my campaign I heard various complaints about the current controversy and since coming into office I have heard more and received more in letters."
He said he compiled these complaints and upon taking of field called in the department director, J. R. Woodworth, and members of the commission.

"I told them 'here are the complaints I have received. I want you to work on them and try to come up with some answers by Aug. 1,'" the governor recalled.
Asked about the next part of the statement, which would assume to be "or what," the governor retorted "There was no 'or what.'"

Colavito Traded To Chicago For King

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rocky Colavito was traded by Cleveland to the Chicago White Sox Saturday for outfielder Jim King. King will be named after the season and cash.
The deal was announced immediately after Baltimore's heat strokeed Detroit 4-3.
Colavito, a right-handed hitter expressed dissatisfaction earlier in his 12th major league season.

this year at being platoon. He wrote a controversial letter to a Cleveland newspaper at the time, expressing a desire to be traded.
This is the second time the Indians have traded the slugging outfielder, who broke into the majors with Cleveland in 1965, then Cleveland general manager, traded him to Detroit for Harvey Kuenn in 1966.
He spent four years at Detroit before going to Kansas City for a season and then returning to Cleveland in 1965.

Colavito, who will be 34 in August, has been one of the American League's top hitters since coming into the league. His best year was 1961 when he hit .290 with 14 home runs and 45 homers. He has hit 363 homers in his career with a career average of .267.
However, he hit only .238 with the Indians last year with 20 homers and 72 RBI and is struggling with a .241 average, five homers and 21 RBI in 61 games this season.
King, who will be 35 in August, was the last of the original expansion players drafted by the Indians last year and spent six years with the Senators before he was traded to Chicago last June 17 for Ed Strou. He was hitting .160 with one homer and 14 RBI in 69 games entering Saturday's game.

Perry Hurls Giants Past Phils 6-1

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tom Haller homered and scored three runs and Gaylord Perry scattered six hits Saturday to lead the San Francisco Giants whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 6-1.
Haller, who belted a double and triple in his last two at bats against the Phillies Friday night, continued his hot hitting with a second home run and a loser Jim Dunning, 10-9, who had never been beaten at Candlestick Park.
The Giants' catcher also walked and scored in a two-run fourth inning rally and ignited a two-run sixth inning uprising with a leadoff single.

Two Are Tied For Lead In Golf Tourney

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Lou Graham, a 29-year-old from East Troy, Wis., and Floyd Wyszog of McKinney, Tex., wound up in a deadlock for the lead after 34 holes in the $100,000 Minnesota Golf Classic Saturday at Hazeltine National Golf Club.
Graham, who shot the tournament's low round of 68 Friday, was two under par with a 70 Saturday for a 214 total after three rounds. Wyszog, who started the day one stroke back, had a one-under 71.
The surge of the two younger players left behind 36-hole leader Julius Boros of Mid Pines, N.C., who slipped to a four-over-par 76 Saturday. Boros dropped into a tie for fifth place at 218. Raymond Floyd of St. Andrews, Ill., matched par with a 72 for 216. Dave Stockton shot a two-under 70 for 217.
Tommy Bolt, who started the day one stroke back of Boros, skied to a 79 for 222 to fall seven strokes off the pace.
Floyd was third place after three rounds, two strokes back of the co-leaders.
Graham shot the best first nine of the tournament with a three-under-par 33, on three birdies and six pars. He birdied the fourth from 120 and the ninth from 123.
Wyszog picked up two shots on the second nine with one birdie and two birdies against a pair of bogies and with four holes to play held a two-shot lead in the tournament.

Grid Stars Named Golf All-Americans

NEW YORK (AP) — Hale Irwin and Bunky Henry, outstanding college football players as well as golfers, were named to the All-American collegiate golf team Saturday.
The other four selected by a national panel of experts are Ross Randall of San Jose State; Hal Underwood of Houston and B.R. McLendon of Louisiana State.
Irwin, who was co-captain of Colorado's football team last season, twice was named the Big Eight team as a utility man. Henry was a place-kicking specialist for three seasons at Georgia Tech, and his 97.3 percent for conversions is an NCAA record.
Irwin is the first NCAA championship winner to make the team in his three-year career. He won the title last month at Shawnee-on-Beulah with a score of 280, including a course record in his first round and his first hole-in-one.
The golfers will be honored Aug. 22 at a dinner in New York.

Game Interrupted By Plaguing Bugs

NEW YORK (AP) — The Kansas City-New York game was interrupted briefly in the first inning Saturday while the Athletics' trainer came out to the field and sprayed the A's with insect repellent.
"They bugs apparently were plaguing the players on the bench. The trainer sprayed their arms and necks."
Kansas City, however, had no repellent for New York. The Yankees scored a run in the inning.

Twins Split Twin Bill With Boston

BOSTON (AP) — Minnesota hammered five home runs, two by Bob Allison, for eight runs and crushed Boston 10-3 for a split in their twin-night doubleheader Saturday.
Sui won the first game 6-3 on a four-run inning sparked by Jerry Adair and Dale Jones and Joe Foy's two-run double.
Allison opened the nightcap with his 15th homer that started a three-run burst of Gary Waslewski's first game and two-run shot in the fifth inning and Ted Uhlenhuth followed with his fourth homer with two on.
Tony Oliva, who homered in the first game, and Harmon Killebrew ended the barrage in the sixth with consecutive homers. Oliva's 11th and Killebrew's 11st.
Jim Perry, 3-5, scattered nine hits for the victory. Two of the runs off him came on George Kell's two-run, insurance homer, a line drive that bounced over Oliva's head in the second inning.
The split dropped second-place Boston, which has won 13 of 16 games, 1 1/2 games behind Chicago.
Minnesota, which has lost nine of 12, remained fourth, 1/2 games back.

Lolich Likes Line Drives Over Bullets

By WHITEY SAWYER
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Life as a baseball pitcher hasn't been too park to get on the bus (for the trip to Baltimore) Tuesday. Lolich is even worse.
"I've been nervous pitching ball games," the Detroit Tiger pitcher said, "but this is ridiculous. I'd rather get shelled by line drives any day than by bullets."
Lolich and John Henderson and quarterback Tommy Myers of the Detroit Lions are among the National Guard members called up during this week's racial unrest.
Henderson has been stationed at Patton Park in southwest Detroit, far from the heavy action, a Guard official said.

Pinson Lifts Reds Over Cubs 4-2

CINCINNATI (AP) — Vada Pinson snacked a two-run homer in the 10th inning Saturday, lifting the Cincinnati Reds past the Chicago Cubs 4-2.
The victory was only the third for the Reds in their last nine games.
With one out in the 10th, Pete Rose drew a walk from rookie Bill Stoneman, the third Chicago pitcher, and Pinson followed with his ninth homer—a shot into the right field bleachers.
Ted Abernathy, who pitched the 10th in relief of Milt Pappas, registered his fourth victory against three losses while Stoneman was the loser in his first major league decision.
The Cubs knocked the score when Ron Santo smashed his 21st homer in the fourth with the bases empty.
Tommy Harper's solo homer had given the Reds a 2-1 edge in Chicago. 100 100 000 — 2 7 0 Cincinnati 01 000 000 — 2 4 0 Culp, Harcienstein (9), Stoneman (10) and Hundley; Pappas, Abernathy (10) and Edwards, W — Abernathy, 4-3, L — Stoneman, 6-1.

Oklahoma Stays 25-Year College Football Champ

By BOB HOOBING
Written For Associated Press
Stunned Oklahoma, capitalizing on a 25-year streak, remains the 25-year champion of major college football.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor
In college football circles you schedule games a few years in advance.

...that the University of Idaho is sweating one of those things out right now. The focal point is Oct. 28 when Parsons College, a school known as Flunk Out U., of Fairfield, Ia., is supposed to play the Vandals at Moscow. In the past month or two things have happened. The accreditation of the school was lifted during the summer, to bond indebtedness that those in power deem beyond the school's ability to pay.

The school itself is a profit-making private school, which gives you an idea that somebody pays through the nose to go there. In national publications the school's student body is described as largely — although not all — youngsters from a somewhat comfortable background. After flunking out of a couple of three other schools, have found only the doors to Parsons open to them. The doors are immediately behind a checkbook.

Now to regress to the local scene. When Paul Ostyn assumed the athletic directorship at Idaho his schedule that included one home game and two open dates. University of Houston offered competition that day. Then he was on the spot to find a home game.

Now the travel into Moscow isn't conducive to the guarantee at Neal Stadium isn't in the $50,000 class. So Ostyn spent a few bucks on the telephone and wrote another few dozen letters. No deal.

Resigned to taking the bars of one home game and a nine-game season, which also would crimp the athletic budget, Ostyn pressed toward the 1970's schedules.

Then came the fateful letter from Parsons which included an explanation of the school wanted to try big time football and a list of open dates. One of the dates available corresponded to Idaho's. Ostyn hit the phone and, lo and behold, he came up with an athletic director's dream. Parsons would come to Moscow for an insignificant $2,500 guarantee.

All were a bit suspicious of their good luck but the contract was okayed by the athletic board and it became official. When the accreditation matter struck it caused some consternation and righteous indignation among the other schools who requested a second look back at this game. This was duly undertaken by the athletic board who finally arrived at the opinion that the school should honor their commitment, that the second home game was feasible and desirable and that Parsons should never be scheduled again.

So that's where the matter stands right now. But in discussing this thorny thing, Coach Ostyn reports he would think up the other day when John Thomas (Vandal business manager) showed him an article that said the Parsons school was willing to take a 20 per cent reduction in salary this year with the money to be used to retire current debts and repay its existing loans. Things are that difficult for them financially, it also comes into the realm of possibility that they would consider dropping football or us or both.

has shot through the pack to become the Sooners' chief challenger. In fact Michigan State turned out to be the Oklahoma coach — Chuck Fairbanks. Texas is third, closely followed by Army, Georgia Tech and Notre Dame in the survey which covers the period 1952 through 1956.

Rocked by the unexpected death of 37-year-old Jim Mackenzie last winter, Oklahoma turned to Fairbanks and sophomore coach for Michigan State's 1952 national championship— to continue a reconstruction program.

Under Mackenzie the Sooners returned to their winning ways, knocking off Texas for the first time since 1927 and upsetting previously unbeaten Nebraska.

Although the Sooners are rebuilding, it is doubtful if they, or anyone, can duplicate the feats of the team behind Oklahoma's No. 1 rating for the past quarter century.

First, there were those amazing winning streaks of 47 consecutive games against collegiate competition and 31 games. Secondly, no team in the modern college era has won the Sooners' league stranglehold which includes 17 first place finishes and four seconds in what is now the Big Eight Conference.

These factors boosted Oklahoma to a record of 189 victories, 72 losses and eight ties in the 20-year span. Michigan State is 156-56-9 and Texas 166-70-6. Like the Sooners, Michigan State has had only three losing seasons in the last 20 years. A brilliant 19-1-1 sprint the last two years which has carried the Spartans to No. 2. A 28-game winning streak, 1950-53, didn't hurt either.

When State started competing in the Big Ten in 1953, its detractors said times would be tough. Yet MSU tied for the title that first year and since then has been a shoo-in to only one league foe (Minnesota) and one of the Spartans secrets has been the ability to meet other members of the Big Ten. Against other members of the Big Ten, Michigan State is 12-1-1 vs Notre Dame, 4-2 vs Ohio State, 7-0-1 vs Penn State, 6-2 vs Michigan, 1-1 vs Southern California and 4-1 vs Maryland.

While the Spartans were coached by the July Green Era, Coach Fred McMillan, who was led by ex-Oklahoma quarter-back-halfback Darrell Royal. The Longhorns, 1963 national champions, were coached by the July Green Era. After the sextet listed above, Ohio, Yet MSU, Alabama and Penn State round out the top 10.

Homer Helps Athletics Past Yankees

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Roof's two-run homer in the seventh inning and Dick Green's two-run triple in the ninth carried the Kansas City Athletics to a 6-2 victory over the New York Yankees Saturday.

The victory lifted the last-place Athletics within one-half game of the Yankees in the American League cellar struggle. Roof hit a 3-2 pitch from pitcher Steve Hamilton into the lower left field seats with two out in the seventh, erasing a 2-1 New York lead.

Fritz Peterson, the Yankees' starter, doubled across the go-ahead run in the sixth but was lifted in the seventh after a leadoff single by Ken Harrelson, who had four of the Athletics' 12 hits.

Roukie Tony Pierce, working in relief of Jim Nash, stopped the Yankees over the last three innings and squared his record at 1-1. American League Kansas City 100 000 205-6 12 1 New York 100 001 000-2 8 1 Nash, Pierce (6) and Roof; Peterson, Hamilton (7), Womack (9), Knowles (9), Babiak (1), Hamilton, 2-3. Home runs — Kansas City, Roof (6).

Fish, Game Men Cited For Funds Misuse

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Fish and Game Commission members and state Fish and Game Director John R. Woodworth were named Friday in a complaint which charged them with unlawful use of state funds.

In a fourth district court complaint filed by Norman Tague, of Boise, the commission and Woodworth were charged with using a state fish and game department postage meter to mail invitations to an event sponsored by private organizations.

Commissioners are Arlie Johnson, Glen Stanger, R. J. Holmes and William B. Durbin. Tague is a former president of Boise using a Fish and Game Department postage meter.

The complaint alleged that use of the department's meter violated the Idaho Wildlife Federation, the National Wildlife Federation, sent invitations to the first annual governor's conservation awards banquet in Boise using a Fish and Game Department postage meter.

Howard Bats Senators By Angels 3-2

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank Howard, who hit his 27th homer in the first inning, singled home the tie breaking run in the seventh, vaulting Washington over California 3-2 Saturday for the Senators' fourth straight victory and 16th in 21 games.

The loss was the fourth straight for California. Hank Allen opened the seventh with a double off Minnie Rojas, 7-7, and one out later, Howard singled for the winning run.

Howard homered in the first off Fred Newman, but California took the lead on two walks and Bobby Knapp's run-scoring single in the second and Jimmy Hall's pinch-hit homer, his 13th, in the sixth.

Casey Cox, 4-1, the third of five Washington pitchers, got the victory for 1-1-3 scoreless innings of relief. Queen Of Stage Remains Unbeaten, Wins Sorority

By ORLO ROBERTSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
OCEANPORT, N.J. (AP) — Unbeaten Queen of the Stage, a romping winner of her third previous start, went out Saturday to beat New Jersey Cockey Miss in the $103,650 Sorority for 2-year-old fillies at Monmouth Park.

Only one-half length separated Queen of the Stage, carrying the black silks of Open Phlegm, from Cockey Miss, representing Barbara Gordon, as she hit the wire at the end of the six furlongs.

It was just another short nose back to Gut Matelda from the Meadow Stable of C.T. Chenery. Six leopards further back in the fourth place came Wings with Syrian Sea, stablemate of Gay Mirella, fifth. Owe Everything, silks and Master Blend last, Brantley Baeza took Queen of the track.

Cockey Miss, ridden by Tommy Lee, stuck right to the favorite's flanks but was unable to close the gap and at the end driving to hold off the stretch running Syrian Sea for runner-up honors.

Queen of the Stage, trained by Eddie Neely, was heavily backed by the crowd of 30,434. She paid $2.60 and $2.20. Cockey Miss, purchased as a yearling for a mere $300, returned $2.40 to place. There was no show betting. So much was wagered on the winner to place that there was a minus pool of $6,205.50, which had to be paid out by the track.

Hornung Sets Retirement Under Threat Of Permanent Injury

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Hank Aaron Hornung, as quick with his pen as he is with the football, is giving up his playing career because of a neck injury he calls "a pain in the neck."

Boyer's Hit Leads Chicago Past Tigers

CHICAGO (AP) — Ken Boyer's first American League home run—a two-run blast in the first inning—and Don McMahon's clutch relief pitching in the ninth led the first-place Chicago White Sox to a 4-3 victory over the Detroit Tigers Saturday.

Boyer, acquired from the New York Yankees a week ago, honored his two-run blast in the first inning after losing pitcher Joe Sparma walked Wally Williams. McMahon replaced Hoyt Wilhelm in the ninth with one run in, runners on first and third and none out, and worked out of the jam by striking out Bill Frechan and getting Norm Cash and Mickey Stanley on fly balls.

Williams had come on in the sixth after the Tigers knocked out winner Wilbur Wood with a two-run salvo that cut Chicago's lead to 4-2. The 44-year-old relief specialist struck two runners in the sixth and two more in both the seventh and eighth.

The Tigers, however, closed the gap in the ninth on singles by Dick McAffee, Al Kaline and Willie Horton. McMahon then slammed the door, preserving Wood's third victory without a loss.

Detroit 000 002 001-3 14 0 Chicago 200 200 00x-4 5 0 Sparma, Gladning (3), Wick (4), Ersham (6), Aquiro (8) and Frechan; Wood, Wilhelm (6), McMahon (8) and Josephson, McNetting (3), Wood, 3-0, L — Sparma, 10-4. Home run — Chicago, Boyer (1).

Doctors call it "rather extensive damage either to the nerve roots or the spinal cord," and the one-time Golden Boy of professional football did not minimize the condition when he announced his retirement.

Hornung, who had a brilliant 10-year career with the Green Bay Packers, was injured last season in a game with the Chicago Bears.

"I'm fine now," he said. "I'm walking, talking, chewing gum. But if I were to get hit in just the wrong way—well, there would always be a danger and when you know that, then you don't play."

Hornung was a triple threat as a runner, passer and kicker and scored 760 points while with the Packers. He was named the league's Most Valuable Player in 1950 when he scored 176 points.

His plans are for Hornung to stay on through the training season as an assistant to Saints coach Tom Fears, then perhaps serve in some other capacity for the club.

"It's a great loss to us," said Saints owner John Mecom. "If we were to get hit in just the wrong way—well, there would always be a danger and when you know that, then you don't play."

Hornung to join with his former teammate Jim Taylor to provide much of the punch for their first season.

Meanwhile, Joe Namath, the injury-plagued quarterback of the American League's New York Jets, showed no signs of the knee trouble that bothered him earlier in the week. He shared quarterbacking chores in San Diego with Mike Taliaferro and Leroy Kelly. Mecom, John Brown, Mike Howell, and Sid Williams.

The AFL's 1957 exhibition schedule opens tonight in Akron, Ohio with Miami opposing Denver. The game is the only one on this weekend's agenda. The NFL's pre-season schedule gets under way next Wednesday night with New Orleans facing Los Angeles at Anaheim.

Pizarro, Jimenez Fined For Fight

HOUSTON (AP) — Pitcher Juan Pizarro and outfielder Manny Jimenez of the Pittsburgh Pirates were fined $150 for fighting in the dugout during the Pirates game with the Houston Astros.

Manager Danny Murtaugh imposed the fines on Pizarro and Jimenez, who exchanged blows in the first inning, at a clubhouse meeting following the Pirates' 9-3 loss to the Astros.

"It was a spur of the moment affair," said Murtaugh, who replaced Harry Walker as the Pirates' skipper 10 days ago. "I talked to both boys. It was just one-of-those affairs where the talker to each other and got a little heated."

Aerial View of American Falls Reservoir shows possible site—broken lines—for nuclear power plant. American Falls dam is indicated by the arrow and the community of American Falls is at the right of the photo. Estimated cost of a plant at this location has been placed at about $130 million. Farmers are concerned as to the effect such a plant would have on the water available or contemplated for future irrigation use.

Farmers May Face Nuclear Competition In Quest For More Water

By O. A. (GUS) KEIKER
Times-News Feature Editor
That Snake River water that farmers of the Salmon Tract, the Oakley Farm and the Raft River areas have been trying to get for irrigation for quite a time now appears to be in for another round of use. This time it will not be for irrigation.
About a week ago announcement was made of the possibility, at some future date, of erecting a nuclear power plant on the west shore of American Falls Reservoir. Since that time more details of the proposal have appeared with the result that now is certain that the farmers who want the Snake water are going to have competition.

A major consideration for siting a plant in the American Falls area, the report distributed by the Bonneville Power Administration pointed out, is water.
"The waters of the Snake River are highly appropriated for irrigation," the report relates. "Power cost as well as other consideration of plant operation, could be markedly affected by questions of water rights for water evaporated through operation of a plant."
"An alternate water source is the underground flows beneath the area which are utilized for cooling at the National Reactor testing station to the northwest.

The reliability and extent of such flows need to be determined before they can be recommended for a large nuclear power plant.
It was mention of this underground flow in the report which has caused considerable concern among those seeking supplemental water for this area. These underground flows will play an important part in such a plan for irrigation water.
"Right now, just how much this 'hot water' which would emanate from the nuclear plant would be hurt is not known. In fact, the report relates that water used through such a plant could be heated as much as 17 degrees Centigrade. Relating to this heating process the report states:
"It should be recognized that while it is convenient and economical to utilize water as a prime power source and as a receiver of waste heat, water is still the environmental fluid for many species of organisms.
"Of course, many aquatic species are beyond our direct practical concern but others influence us through direct economic benefit as a source of food and recreation, as well as to nuisance conditions or as key elements of an interacting, complex ecological system."
Six general regions were affected by Bonneville for the nuclear power plant siting study. These were the Puget Sound, Lower Columbia, Western Oregon, Mid-Columbia, Northwest Montana, and Southeast Idaho areas.
"The salt water and two rivers sites in the Puget Sound-Strait of Juan de Fuca area, one Washington and one Oregon coast site in the Columbia, two in the Willamette Valley, one on the Klamath River, three on or near the Middle Columbia, one in Northwest Montana, and one in Southeast Idaho.

given detailed study ranged from $125.5 million to $141.9 million. Power generation costs, if financed on a public basis, ranged from 2.94 mills per kilowatt-hour to 3.17 mills per kilowatt-hour.
The report noted that North-westerners are becoming increasingly aware of the value of the region's relatively unspoiled waters, air, forests, and mountain areas.
"This awareness is manifest," the report said, "in a reticence to allow Pacific Northwest natural resources to degenerate as they have elsewhere. This is seen in legislation and other actions to preserve wild rivers, the Oregon Coast dunes, portions of the Washington coastline, the North Cascades, and other areas. The value of such resources has been emphasized by President Johnson in his State of the Union message."
"State officials . . . have echoed the same message and the states are moving to conform to new national guidelines. The public should be informed that thermal power—and in most instances nuclear power—offers the optimum method of meeting our long-term power needs and of conserving our natural resources."
The fact that any power plant (hydro, fossil or nuclear) will disturb the environment to some extent suggests a need for public understanding to avoid antagonizing the nuclear aspect of thermal plants in the Pacific Northwest," the report said.

"The presence of nuclear activity in the Pacific Northwest, particularly in the Hanford plant," the report noted, "has undoubtedly enhanced public acceptance."
It was pointed out that a deep discharge of warm water effluent into comparatively well-wooded reaches of the Columbia River has been practiced for many years at Hanford.
"The Hanford reach of the river has been continually studied in order to determine the impact of the . . . operation on local and distant water-quality parameters," the report added. "Rains of salmon have migrated successfully past Hanford during the warm summer seasons for 26 years despite the presence of Hanford thermal discharges."
"The fall run of Chinook salmon continues to utilize and spawn in the Hanford reach although warm waters in general are not favorable to cold water species like the salmon. In recent years there has been a considerable increase of spawners in the Hanford environs . . ."
The approach used in the study was to consider example sites which are:
—Technically sound from geological, hydrological, seismological, and meteorological standpoints.
—Unlikely to incur delays by regulatory agencies in granting approval to construct nuclear power plants.

—Likely to minimize adverse public and government agency reaction.
—Illustrative of the types of problems that may be encountered in siting nuclear thermal power plants in various Pacific Northwest environments.
In the case of the American Falls site the concern is the effect such a project would have on water used for irrigation in this area. This would be true whether the nuclear water used was from the surface or from underground.
Although an official announcement has been made, it is understood that irrigation groups from this region plan an early study of the possible effects of such a plant on the farm water supply situation.

Book Review
TWENTIETH CENTURY—MUSIC
By Peter Yates
This book should be interesting, and useful, to the many people who love music. It should be interesting because it deals with contemporary music, and most especially with contemporary music in the United States.
It should be useful because most of us know very little about contemporary music. We claim not to like it, but we never hear it. Phonograph records are abolishing our excuse of never hearing recent compositions.
We may not like to spend money on records that we are almost certain to dislike on first hearing, but public libraries are acquiring the "new" music in their record collections.
In the first section of his book, Peter Yates defines and explains the strange terminology of contemporary music. Even experienced listeners and people with a considerable degree of musical training may have difficulty in comprehending what "the rows" are, what exact pitch is, just intonation and atonality are mysteries, until Mr. Yates carefully explains them.
This reader's complaint is that he explains everything in the light of Schoenberg, the great teacher of modern music, and his prophetic Stravinsky.
On only a slightly lower plane is the recently discovered American composer, Charles Ives. It must be admitted that enthusiasm though Mr. Yates may be about the new and experimental, (Continued on Page A-3)

Two Local Students Prepare To Spend College Semester In Shipboard Study

"The ship is your classroom; the world is your laboratory."
This is a slogan for World Campus Afloat, a program in which Camille Ramsey and Linda Frazier will be attending as Juniors during the coming fall semester.
The two girls will leave New York City aboard the S.S. Ryndam Oct. 11. The ship has been converted into a floating campus which includes a 200 seat theater, 14 classrooms, a modern science laboratory, an oceanography laboratory and a library plus a student union, offices and a book store as well as messrooms, dining rooms and the like.
The purpose of this innovation in education which was patterned after the unique University of the Seven Seas, is to conduct an academic program in an environment where the student can learn from actual experience as well as from a text.
Linda, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lylo Frazier, is presently attending the University of Idaho where she was majoring in history. She has been employed by the Fidelity National Bank during this summer's vacation and is the recipient of a partial scholarship for this plan of study.

Camille is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack F. Ramsey, Filbert, and has been attending Lawton and Clark College, Portland, where she was an English major.
More than 500 college students from throughout the United States will take part in this 110 day study voyage along with a staff of 70 including distinguished faculty and academic leaders.
The curriculum is similar to that offered at most land campuses and the credits are earned at Chapman College, Orange, Calif., students.
Through the efforts of the Rotary club in Orange, the World Campus Afloat cruise has been held in 1964 with the sponsorship of Chapman.

DISCUSSING A SEMESTER of college work on shipboard, Camille Ramsey, left, and Linda Frazier, right, ask Carol Brock, center, representative for World Campus Afloat, questions about this innovation in education.

AN AGE SPAN FROM 2 to nearly 92 is represented in this five generation picture. Mrs. Ritchie holds her 2-year-old daughter, Tina.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Five generations of Magic Valley residents posed recently for a picture with Mrs. Nancy Davis, 91, TWIN FALLS, holding the place of honor. Her daughter is Mrs. Frank Eastman, Twin Falls; granddaughter, Mrs. Edith Lammer, FILER; great-granddaughter, Mrs. Ed Ritchie, Filer, and Tina Marie Ritchie, 2-year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ritchie and great-granddaughter of Mrs. Davis.

Mrs. Davis will celebrate her 92nd birthday anniversary Oct. 18. She now resides at Sky View Manor where she is a great favorite of nurses and other patients. Although she is a health-paralytic good health and is a favorite of nurses and other patients several severe illnesses in recent years, she enjoys a most still quite active.

Mrs. Davis was born near Joplin, Mo., and was the youngest of 19 children. She spent her girlhood in Missouri where her father owned the ground on which Ft. Leonard Wood was stationed. After her marriage to Elmer Davis, the couple moved to Idaho in 1924 and lived near DIETRICH and later, at Berger. When Mr. Davis died several years ago, Mrs. Davis moved to Twin Falls.

Mr. and Mrs. Davis had six children of which four are still living. Mrs. Davis has 17 grandchildren, 54 great grandchildren and 15 great, great grandchildren.

She has always enjoyed sewing and has made more than 100 aprons. She also has made and quilted quilts for most of her grandchildren.

A large badger decided to visit KING HILL last week and the excitement ran high among people, dogs and even cats. The uninvited guest first stopped at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Kling and was first seen by their children who were playing in the yard and thought the animal was a bobcat.

Their bird dog took after it, but soon backed off. The animal ran into the street with the neighbors dogs and the Kling family in pursuit. They were assisted by Ted Moore, who had a stick which he tried to swing

Ghost Town, Silver City, Echoes Past

Cradled in Idaho's Owyhee County is the phantom remains of the once second largest silver producing area in the nation.

Silver City, one-time producer of a solid ruby silver crystal weighing 500 pounds that merited exhibition at the Paris Exposition in 1886, is nearly deserted now.

During the mid-1800's the city was homebased with 250 mines in the surrounding hills and 10,000 residents. As late as 1895 it had six general stores, two hardware stores, two meat markets, two hotels, four restaurants, a picture gallery, a brewery and bottling plant, a jewelry, three barber shops, two doctors, four lawyers and eight saloons.

Silver City also had the first daily newspaper, "The Owyhee Avalanche" (still published intermittently) with the first telegraphic news wire in the state.

The gold and silver supply, however, was gradually exhausted and in 1924 the county seat was moved to Murphy and the town barred its doors.

A good number of the original buildings still stand. The largest building is the three-story Idaho Hotel. A church crowning a hill overlooks the ghost town. The old masonic temple, courthouse and school house still stand.

Army Offers New 4-Year Nurse Study

The Army is now providing four-year nursing scholarships for qualified high school graduates and seniors interested in a career in professional nursing.

Capt. Jesse Johnson, area director of the Army Nurse Corps, stated the program, the Walter Reed Army Institute of Nursing program, is open to a limited number of young men and women who can meet the high educational requirements and are recommended by their secondary school principal.

The program participants enroll as Army Nurse Corps candidates for a four-year period. They are entitled to pay and allowances in the grade of private first class during their schooling and, upon graduation and satisfactory completion of examination for a state license for registered nurse, will be offered a three-year appointment as second lieutenant in the Army Nurse Corps.

Interested persons should contact Sgt. Donald Lane, Army recruiter at 245 Main Ave. West, Twin Falls, to make an appointment with Capt. Johnson or call 733-2671.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT ... LaVar Steel Is Talented Artist And Enthusiastic Backer Of Local School

It is somewhat unusual to run across a modest artist, but that is LaVar Steel, chairman of the College of the Junior Idaho Art Department.

LaVar was raised in Burley where his father has been principal of the junior high school and is presently principal of Dvorshak Grade School.

LaVar heads the art department at the college, coming to Twin Falls at the time of its founding to accept the challenge offered by a new school which placed a heavy emphasis on the arts.

Before this he had taught, for seven or eight years at Boise College when he was known as Boise Junior College.

It was through the efforts of LaVar and the interest of Dr. J. L. Taylor, president of the college, that the children's art classes were started. This program offers art instruction to youngsters on an extra-curricular basis.

He is a member of the American Craftsmen's Council, the Designer Craftsmen of Idaho, the Idaho Artists and is a member of the Boise Museum in Spokane and the Northwest Show in Seattle two years ago.

He is extremely enthusiastic about the future of our local arts and presently is working with the possibility of a school-sponsored tour to San Francisco to visit art galleries, the Thomas and Mistic events. This tour will be if it materializes, be open to students of the college and perhaps to the public during the spring vacation time.

Outside school activities and interests LaVar has been involved with the local Boy Scout program as a troop committee man, but says he has been much too busy with his job to get into other civic groups yet.

He is married. His wife, Sharon, came to the West from Ohio and liked it so well that she has influenced her parents to make their home here also. The Steels have six children "all looking exactly like their father."

Capt. Bird Is Casualty Of Vietnam War

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — In 1963 Army Lt. Samuel R. Bird commanded the eight-man military entourage that ushered President John F. Kennedy's casket to Arlington National Cemetery.

Today, Bird, now a captain, must be carried or wheeled wherever he goes through the long corridors of Kennedy Veterans Administration Hospital here.

Bird, of Wichita, Kan., is a casualty of the war in Vietnam. An enemy sniper's bullet last Jan. 27 left him with crippling brain damage, and he is unable to use his legs.

Only a quick evacuation, by helicopter saved his life, and there still is doubt of a complete recovery.

"With all the drive Sam's got, he'll make it," said Richard E. Bird, a retired Kansas lumberman and father of the wounded soldier.

New Strain Of Wily Brown Trout Is Planted In Problem Areas Of Idaho

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department
Back in the days of King Arthur and the legendary land of Camelot, a man with the skills of a modern-day fisherman in their ancestral waters was hailed as quite a guy.

It is said that the young Charlemagne—fisher-king long before he made the grade as King of the Franks (A. D. 768) or Emperor of the Holy Roman Empire in A. D. 800. Brown trout still are hard to catch on hook and line. Most strains have a built-in sense of wariness that evolved through long centuries of natural selection. Anglers tend to steer clear of streams or lakes that are stocked with browns because the word spreads that fishing is slow.

For example, in Palisades Reservoir brown trout make up a large part of the trout numbers brought out of the depths to gillnet sampling work, according to James C. Simpson, chief of fisheries management. Yet just a small slice of a year's catch by anglers is made of browns.

These fish are a little better educated than their American cousins. They will bite on just any old thing, from dry flies to worms. Best time of day is late evening when these fish can see the least, and when the water is on the turbid side — for the same reason.

Simpson thinks that the best fishing for brown trout should be in the Portneuf River from Pocatello, upstream to Marsing. He says that the finest population of brown trout to be found in any Idaho stream will be lurking in the shadows there. He says that the thing to remember about transplanting fish, whether exotics or natives, is that their new homes must meet habitat standards for the particular species, or the work will fail.

These tests cut down the long list of fresh water fish in North America that could be tried in Idaho — there are more than 100 kinds — to just a few dozen exotics that might have a chance to catch on in this state.

In the first place, native fish species include the rainbow cutthroat, Dolly Varden, steelhead, chinook salmon, silver salmon, blueback, kokanee, several species of suckers and minnows such as squawfish, chub, dace and shiner.

Through the years, exotic fish species have been brought to the state — and some of them are still here, for better or worse.

These are the mackinaw, kamloops, brown trout, brook trout, golden-trout, grayling, largemouth and smallmouth bass, bluegill, pumpkinseed, perch, bullheads, channel catfish, carp, goldfish, tench and fathead catfish. As is well known, some of these now are important game fish and others, such as the carp, are pests.

But the browns are a kind of in-between fish. Anglers who know how to catch them rate them with the rest of the charrs, the Dolly Vardens, brooks and lake trout such as mackinaw.

Those who have no luck at all with them say they ought to be classed with rough fish species because they take food and space that could be used by trout.

Hatchery workers do not like them because browns are bottom feeders and shun dry pellet diets that give trout all they need for quick, vigorous growth. Nonetheless, brown trout seem to have come to Idaho to stay, and to fill a small niche in some streams, and reservoirs where rainbows and cutthroat find life a hard go, it is impossible.

Some 500,000 new strain brown trout were brought from Massachusetts for propagation at Ashton Hatchery, and a smaller number at American Falls. The hatch comes off in the fall and the brown fingerling trout are planted in the Willow Creek drainage, Robinson Creek and the only brown trout specimen there.

Fleas Noted As Carriers Of Deadly Black Plague

Twenty-thousand fleas and a disease. Plague is caused by a bacterium. While plague was known as the Black Death in the Middle Ages, it is still found in wild animals by the University research group in 1957. Mr. Parker said the most common carriers are the well-known deer mouse and the kangaroo rat — a long tailed desert creature that runs on its hind legs, has pouchy cheeks and is buffy-orange in color.

The disease can be treated with antibiotics, Professor Parker said. The isolated cases that occur are usually bubonic plague in which sufferers are afflicted with fever, chills, and swelling in the lymph glands. The incubation period for plague is about 2-3 hours. If the disease is not checked it can be fatal.

There have been few cases of plague in Utah, however, the University research will aid in more rapid identification and treatment of the disease.

Two Burley Policemen Quit Posts

BURLEY—Two Burley policemen who are leaving the city today have been presented plaques by Mayor Jay Peters.

They are Floyd Stewart, who has been on the local police force for the past 10 years, and Floyd Higgins, who resigned the position as parole supervisor for district five. Mr. Stewart is retiring.

Mr. Higgins, who has been on the Burley police force for 13 years, will maintain an office work with the sheriff's office and deputized as an officer of the Idaho State Penitentiary. He plans to visit his parents in Washington and visit his children.

Korby Harkness, 21, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kerby Harkness, Burley, has been hired to replace Mr. Stewart.

Mr. Harkness was a member of the first graduating class of the law enforcement class at the College of Southern Idaho, Twin Falls.

Mayor Peters presented each of the retiring officers with a plaque engraved with their name and years of service to the Burley police force.

Postage Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Post Office Committee is due to consider next week legislation that would raise postage rates on first class letters and post cards to six cents an ounce. The measure, approved by a House Post Office subcommittee Thursday, also would increase air mail letter and air mail post cards rates to 10 cents.

Present rate for first class letters is five cents an ounce, for post cards four cents, air mail letters eight cents and air mail post cards six cents.

Book Review

He is just and intelligent in his estimates of the more traditional composers.

The book is, at first, somewhat difficult to read. The reader may find himself skimming the theoretical chapters and going on to the sections on various composers.

However, this reader found himself picking up the book repeatedly and going back to the chapters that had originally been skipped.

Then he began listening to records of Beethoven, and Berg with a greater understanding of their music. It doesn't sound like the music of Beethoven, or Chopin, or Tchaikovsky, but why should it? Different composers, different times, different music.

One must put aside preconceptions and prejudices and listen. That way, understanding is not appreciation comes. Perhaps some day I may even like Schoenberg's music.

Quartermaster Battalion, and all are first class privates. For these special showers water was pumped from deep wells and heated before use. The showers were the most popular places in camp.

MAKESHIFT COMPANY COMMAND post was fitted with paper work and PFC Scott Phillips, standing, along with PFC Glenn Jacobson, seated, both from Twin Falls, kept the records moving. It was a difficult task in the heat and high winds on the Mojave Desert. Both men are members of Co. B, 372nd Quartermaster Battalion.

Local Army Reserve Soldiers Among Those Encamping In Mojave Desert

PRSIDIO OF SAN FRANCISCO, Calif., reminiscent of the Phoenicians in power and majesty from a pile of ashes, a city sprang full - grown from the shifting, angry sands of the Mojave Desert near Fort Irwin, Calif., this summer. It was populated, in part, by men of Pucetello and Twin Falls elements of the 372nd Quartermaster Battalion, both units of the U. S. Army Reserve.

It was a city of tentage and drainage ditches, portable generators and Liebherr trucks, makeshift kitchens and Coleman lanterns.

The sounds of living were punctuated by the dull thunder of artillery; the dull roar of mortar fire and the sharp crack of rifles in the distance. Its own voice was entirely masculine.

The city functioned as part of the largest, most self-sufficient summer training exercise ever attempted by a segment of the United States Army Reserve.

Slightly distant from the main encampment, where the 372nd Quartermaster Bn. and other Reserve units provided every facility and service needed for the more than 6,000 men, were forces of the entire 101st Mechanized Infantry Brigade, engaged in fierce battles to repel a mythical enemy bent on invading the southwestern portion of the United States.

Tucked into position among the rocky hills surrounding the encampment were the tanks and armored personnel carriers, anti-airillery and foot soldiers of the 101st, fighting a war whose success could well depend upon the efforts of the men behind the scenes who baked the bread and supplied the water, who repaired the boots and kept the lines of communication open.

For these men there was little glory and less incentive. They were the down-to-earth, piecemeal tasks of maintaining the big guns and out of touch with

New Training Program For MDTA Noted

SEATTLE — Refresher job training for 12 general duty nurses at Boise is provided in a newly-approved Manpower Development and Training Act institutional project. Clinton A. Johnson, Northwest Regional Administrator of the U.S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Employment Security, has reported.

The training will be at St. Luke's and St. Alphonsus Hospitals in cooperation with Boise College. Total cost was listed at $7,885, with a federal share of $2,820. Training will extend over a period of seven weeks.

Johnson said the Departments of Labor, Health, Education and Welfare have been given responsibility by Congress in two main areas: (1) to identify current and prospective manpower shortages, and (2) to seek out persons who can be qualified for these positions through education and training.

Identifications of occupations where workers are in short supply and selection of persons qualified for training to fill these positions is the responsibility of the Department of Labor. Classroom training of persons for particular skills is the responsibility of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

After successful completion of the course, placement of trainees into jobs for which they are newly fitted is made through the State Employment Service.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCELL

The following letter is from Mrs. M. J. Burley: "I have two five dollar bills that have at the top 'United States Note' rather than 'Federal Reserve Note.'"

One is a 1953-A Series, and the other 1953, the '63 Series has just 'Five Dollars' at the bottom while the '33-A Series has 'Will Pay to the Bearer on Demand - Five Dollars.' Are these notations are immediately under Lincoln's picture. Do these United States Notes have any significance?

I also have three $1 Silver Certificates—1957, 1957-A and 1957-B Series, and one $5 Silver Certificate, 1934-D Series. Are these worth keeping or of any special value?

I enjoy reading your column." Answer: United States Notes (also called "Legal Tender") differ from Silver Certificates only in the promise to pay and in the color of the seal. All these notes actually say on the back that they are legal tender for all debts.

Most of these red seal notes are 1928—and incidentally this is the reason for this is obscure.

There is no particular significance in the notes. They have been issued in three designs: Series 1928 to 1928F, Series 1935 to 1953-C, and the series of 1953.

The inscription has been changed (as you noted in your question) and no longer reads "Will Pay on Demand" but the Series of 1953 bears the inscription "In God We Trust" on the reverse and this is the first $5 note which carries this designation. The only other legal tender note with a red seal, is the $2 bill, now discontinued.

One $1 denomination Legal Tender was issued—the Series of 1928—and incidentally this was the first of the small-sized paper money.

The back design of the Legal Tender issues is the same as the Series of 1953, the Lincoln Memorial at Potomac Park, Washington, D. C.

The Series 1953-A Series Legal Tender is currently selling for around $10 in crisp, uncirculated condition. The 1953 is of course the current issue, and would bring you about $7, brand new if an early issue serial number: A0000-A.

The three Silver Certificates are currently being sought by dealers, since they can turn them to the treasury for silver granules which are worth about 45 cents more than face value. You can sell any Silver Certificate for $1.15 each now. If they are crisp, uncirculated notes—hang onto them. They will rapidly increase in value.

The 1957 is currently selling around $2, the 1957-A at $1.50 and the 1957-B at about the same—this of course is for brand new bills.

The 1934-D Series Five Dollar Silver Certificate will get you around $12 per copy if brand new.

Remember though, Silver Certificates are no longer made, and in a few years the Five Dollar Certificates will be much in demand in the letter conditions.

We hope this has sufficiently answered your questions. Feel free to write to me again.

The column wishes at this time to thank all the nice people who have sent us Idaho tokens, or given us leads to find them. Our book is now on the presses and should be released in August.

Due to the fact that it was becoming too bulky, we decided to print it when we reached the 100 mark. At the present time we have photographed about another 600 different merchant's tokens for a 1968 supplement to the first book.

We are still most interested in obtaining any new tokens so please continue to write if you know of any.

We would have been impossible to have compiled the listing we just finished without the fine cooperation of all the readers of this column.

In answer to several letters: It appears now that Canada will discontinue cologne of its silver dollar this year.

It is still possible to obtain a set of uncirculated Canadian money (one cent through $1) by sending $4 too. Coins Uncirculated, Post Office Box 470, Ottawa 2, Ontario, Canada.

You can buy these in quantities of 1 set—$4, 3 sets—$12 or 6 sets—$24. You must send a money order, bank draft or certified check, payable to The Receiver General of Canada, and the money must be sent in Canadian funds. Your bank will tell you how to convert your United States money into Canadian funds.

(Questions on coins and currency must be sent to The Money Box, C/O The Times News, Twin Falls, Idaho.)

Michigan Is "Dry," Ale Buffs Suffer

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan beer drinker who gasps "I'm thirsty" has a lot of company.

Hundreds of thousands of tipplers are guzzling water instead of ale while state officials ban sale of alcoholic beverages in dozens of Michigan cities.

Drinkers are being forced on the wagon because of violence in Detroit and other cities—outbreaks police believe were heavily fueled by alcohol.

Haviest hit "dry" area is the metropolitan Detroit region containing 3 million people.

Hundreds of brewery workers are laid off in Detroit, home of Stroh's and National breweries, and in Frankentown where Carling Brewing Co. is the town's second biggest employer.

"Barmaldis, bartenders, porters—all these people are out of work," said Allan Lembitz, resident manager of National Brewing Co. in Detroit. "And remember, these people only get paid for the time they work—they're not paid salaries—and many of them rely on tips."

IN TRADITIONAL HAWAIIAN style, a kiss and a lei are presented to Mrs. Erma Scott when she attended a recent island party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sharp. The lei is presented by Mrs. Scott's granddaughter, Sandy Sharp.

LIGHTING THE CANDLES to enhance this festive table are Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sharp when they hosted a recent Hawaiian party at their home in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Wise, Bartlesville, Okla., who have just recently returned from the Hawaiian Islands. The customs of Hawaii are not new to Mr. and Mrs. Sharp as they have vacationed there, as have most of their guests.

Festive Hawaiian Social Shows Island Hospitality

Sunday, July 30, 1967

Twin Falls Times-News A-5

By NORMA HERZINGER

An exotic arrangement of Anthuriums, sent directly from the Hawaiian Islands, centered a beautifully decorated table and the sound of melodious music filled the air.

As guests arrived they were met with a friendly aloha and presented a lei representing traditional island hospitality and clearly-welcoming all "alii" (VIP'S) to a festive party.

The aroma of taste-tempting foods filled the air and the gaily colored native-dress costumes of the guests truly provided an authentic island atmosphere.

Hosts for the festivities were Mr. and Mrs. Gene Sharp at their home in honor of Mrs. Sharp's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Wise, Bartlesville, Okla., who have just recently returned from the Hawaiian Islands.

Although most of the guests had visited the Islands at one time or another, there were still a few nihihi (new-comers) to the Hawaiian traditions. Those who had visited Hawaii related experiences encountered there and some of the friendly customs.

While visiting with Mrs. Wise, I found her description of the Hawaiian language most interesting. She stated that the Hawaiian language today is English, but it is interlaced with a few Hawaiian words. She noted that the pronunciation of this musical language is exceedingly simple and very logical and practically no trick to master.

After looking over a vocabulary list of the words most frequently used, I am sure this writer would have grave difficulty, however. There are only 12 letters in the alphabet, the familiar vowels, a, e, i, o, and u, and seven consonants, h, k, l, m, n, p and w. Every syllable of every word ends in a vowel.

Some of the more popular dances of the Islands were performed by the Wise children, Connie and Leah, with the assistance of Sandy and Debbie Sharp. Another assistant, who got into the act during several of the dances, was little Launa Sharp. Her interpretations weren't nearly as authentic

(All Times-News photos by Bill Kling Jr.)

"ARE THEY REAL OR ARE THEY NOT?" asks Mrs. Robert Slater, Filer, as she examines the Anthuriums which center the quartet table. They certainly are real, as Mrs. Sharp had the flowers for her party sent directly from Hawaii and more unusual flowers you will never see.

PRESENTING A LEI to Mrs. D. L. (Sparky) Tucker is Debbie Sharp. Mrs. Tucker is holding Launa Sharp, who greeted her as she entered the room.

SHOWING DISTASTE for the poi she is dishing up for her husband in Mrs. Wise, Bartlesville, Okla. Mr. Wise was one of the very few at the recent Hawaiian party who liked the taste of poi. The party featured a typical Hawaiian cuisine with all the trimmings.

PRESENTING SOME of the more popular dances of the Islands are Lonk Wise and Connie Wise at the recent social. The girls danced to the music of records they brought back with them from Hawaii.

Hospitality Of Hawaii Denoted In Local Party

(Continued from Page A-5) as the other dancers, but the thought was there and she provided real entertainment for the guests.

A more delicious meal I have never tasted. It was beautifully prepared and every detail was planned perfectly. The only thing from the elaborate table I did not try was the poi. So many adverse comments were going around about it, that I couldn't try even a small amount, (what with all those other delicacies around), I noticed, however, the hosts didn't have any, either.

The evening's activities concluded with a game of cards, with Mr. and Mrs. D. L. (Sparky) Tucker winning the prizes.

Fans, Awnings Suggested For Keeping Cool

SHOSHONE — "Awnings and attic fans can help keep your home cool in hot weather even though the house is not air-conditioned," county home economics agent, Mrs. Mary Lou Ruby, announces today.

Awnings of metal or canvas shed a lot of heat, she said. They reduce solar heat as much as 75 per cent. If they are wider than the window they screen out the sun a longer time each day.

"You can use attic fans about 36 inches wide with quarter-horse motors to change the air in the house at least 30 times an hour," she added. The fans pull the outside air in, which is often cooler than the air in the house. At night when temperatures drop, open bedroom windows. Close the house in the morning. That helps keep the inside cooler than the outside, at least until the sun gets high.

Use louvered-type insect screens. They keep about 80 per cent of the heat from entering the southern windows, and on east-west exposures, reduce solar heat as much as 50 per cent. Venetian blinds are advocated for southern windows.

Keep drapes and blinds closed during the day. Leave storm windows on unless you must have an open window for ventilation. Storm windows reduce the amount of heat conducted by glass if drapes or blinds are closed.

MAKING PREPARATIONS for the forthcoming Newcomers Club Hawaiian Luau are, from left, Mrs. Max Eateneler, Mrs. E. M. McCurdy, Mrs. Mike Green and Mrs. Don Warr. The luau is set for 7:30 p.m. Aug. 12 at Canyon Country Club.

All reservations must be in and tickets picked up from Mrs. McCurdy by Aug. 5. Authentic Hawaiian food will be served including the traditional roast pig. All members and newcomers to Twin Falls this summer are invited.

Program Given For Methodist WSCS Members

HANSEN—Mrs. Eugene Krueger gave the devotional service at the Woman's Society of Christian Service meeting at the Kimberly Methodist Church. Mrs. Bryan Harris Sr. was program leader on "Problems of Our Cities."

She introduced Mrs. Penelope Schultz, Public Assistance Department, who spoke on the problems of our county which are similar to those of large cities.

Mrs. Schultz spoke of the need for Harbor House to care for dependent children. She also spoke of the need for foster parents all over the county and a need for overnight shelter care.

Thank-you notes were received from Mrs. Kenneth Dawn for flowers, and a note from Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Nelson for thoughts of friends during his recent surgery, and from Linda Norris thanking the group for making it possible for her to attend the school of missions held recently at Caldwell.

The group voted to give $50 to the parsonage committee to help on repairs and remodeling. They voted to have the roof of the Browne N'Buy Store repaired.

It was also reported that Murchison Methodist Church members have purchased an automatic washer and dryer for the parsonage as their share in the upkeep of the parsonage.

Mrs. Ralph Simmons, who attended the School of Missions, reported that a mission workshop, introducing the studies, will be held Sept. 17 at Buhl.

A Sept. 11 date has been tentatively set for an officers' training session at Gooding. World Understanding Workshop will be held at Pocatello Oct. 4 and 5. She stated that various films are available and can be obtained through the conference office, Boise. She also reported that 65 cents per member is to be paid in for the support of the church and community rural worker. Cash supply will be doubled, and that the pledge to missions will be undesignated so that it can go to the place where needed most.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 "DEAR ABBY: I don't know why, but I have always felt that my mother-in-law never really liked me. I have never done anything to make her dislike me a compliment no matter how big, she never gives me a compliment no matter how hard I try. Neither does she criticize me. But I wish just once she would tell me I looked nice, or I set a nice table, or something like that. I've tried awfully hard to please her, Abby, but I have been married for 12 years and I still feel the same way. Maybe it's just "intuition," but I can't help it. I've mentioned this to my husband (not in a nagging way) and he says, "Don't be silly. She likes you fine." Why do I feel this way, and how can I get over this feeling?"
 NOT LIKED

DEAR NOT LIKED: Whether it's "intuition" or lack of confidence, or even hyper-sensitivity, the only "cure" is to quit worrying about it. If it's any comfort to you, you are a sister in one of the world's largest sororities. No meetings, no dues, and all the members are "pledged" although in good standing.

DEAR ABBY: I have a sociable, fun-loving, 16-year-old daughter, who presents a problem to me quite often. She is forever asking me to chauffeur her friends here and there. And she also volunteers my services to chaperone parties at their homes. She springs this on me in front of her friends which puts me on the spot. I resent it as she is one of six children and I have other responsibilities. Am I being a grouch to complain? Or is she taking advantage of me?
 ON THE SPOT

DEAR ON: You know she is taking advantage of you, but she can't do it without your cooperation. Warn her just once that if she puts you on the spot again, without consulting you privately first, you will flatly refuse. Then do it.

DEAR ABBY: Both my sister and I are widows in our late fifties. We each have a home of our own. Neither of us works, but most of our friends do, so they don't have time to hang on the telephone all day or all evening.

A life-long friend called and invited me to a dinner party. She said she had tried unsuccessfully several times to reach my sister (who is out a lot) so would I please extend the dinner invitation to her. I said I would. When I told my sister about the invitation she refused to go, saying she hadn't been invited.

Worse yet she won't call the woman to decline. I think this is rude and inexcusable. Would my mother-in-law ever really like me, I have never done anything to make her dislike me a compliment no matter how big, she never gives me a compliment no matter how hard I try. Neither does she criticize me. But I wish just once she would tell me I looked nice, or I set a nice table, or something like that. I've tried awfully hard to please her, Abby, but I have been married for 12 years and I still feel the same way. Maybe it's just "intuition," but I can't help it. I've mentioned this to my husband (not in a nagging way) and he says, "Don't be silly. She likes you fine." Why do I feel this way, and how can I get over this feeling?
 SMALL TOWN

DEAR SMALL TOWN: Call the woman and decline for your sister. Don't be embarrassed. You are not responsible for your sister's behavior. If she doesn't want to go, let her stay home and suck her thumb.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "VIRGO": I don't go along with that old cliché, "The wife is always the last to know." No woman, if she really cares for her husband, can live with him and not know when he is wandering. She may not have "proof"—but she doesn't need it.

Fantasy Shown In Fall Styles

By LUCIE NOEL
 PARIS (AP)—Jacques Heim's designer Jean Pomarède showed a broad-based and lively women's fashion collection today, but he trotted out a bit of fantasy in a teddy bear-styled duffel coat with cap and matching pants. If the duffel coat was in fur and the pants, or jump suit, in white ribbed knit.

Deluxe mink jackets also go with knitted pants in Heim's collection. There is a series of wool fall ensembles on three-quarter lengths, in camel or gray meltons and broadcloth shown over tailored shirts, loosely belted in matching or contrasting colors.

Heim had half-length capes and matching tailored suits. One is in bright red, but the best are in fine gray herringbone with half cape and trim suit with a longer jacket.

A general feature are black-le bows and leather belts and gold or silver button trim, mostly in double-breasted treatments. Gold, silver or black velvet topcoats go with most outdoor models.

Softness calls the time for evening. Charming, easy to wear chiffons are treated on shirt-waist lines with self cravats and long sleeves with cuffed and flounced wrists.

Third Session At Camp Tawakani Comes To Close

Two bus loads of campers, 56 girls, completed the third session at Camp Tawakani. The closing council fire was attended by a record crowd of parents and families who watched the girls receive their awards for the week and heard songs and skits depicting the life of the camp.

Again the unit system enabled the campers to plan their own activities, and there were many cookouts and overnights. These were requirements for earning Fagot, Finder, Trail Maker or Gypsy Outdoor Living emblems. Evening programs included song fests and a Kangaroo Court. Girls enjoy this latter immensely, as it is planned for fun and never for punishment or criticism.

Nez Perce and Blackfoot cabins received the awards for cleanest cabins, in the two units. Five girls are beginning an introductory counselor-in-training course, living in a tent unit in an area near the dining hall. They have erected their tents and constructed a Chippewa table of poles, a cooler, garbage pit and other accessories needed for their activities. They receive instruction in counselor training, and assist with the younger girls' overnight trips. Those in the unit are Anita Johnson, Shirley Long, Pamela Beard, Tawna Skinner and Sarah Wintersteen. They will stay for next week's session, and at that time will go on a back pack trip.

The entire camp program is geared to promote the objectives of Camp Fire Girls, and the spirit of the camp, exemplifies the idealism and femininity of this organization.

Thermometer—Is Very Useful In Roasting Meat

SHOSHONE — A meat thermometer is a useful tool in telling when a roasted turkey is done. Mary Lou Ruby, the county home economics agent, reminded cooks this week. Turkey roasting is traditionally linked to Thanksgiving Day and other winter holidays, but many birds are being prepared in summer weather for two reasons.

First, turkey is available the year around; second, the job of roasting is not such a warm chore for the cook as it used to be, thanks to more efficient ovens that do not heat up the entire kitchen.

Charts of roasting time geared to weight of birds are good, nutritionists point out, but you can be more certain the meat is done properly if you use a thermometer. Check the temperature of the inner thigh. If it is 185 degrees F, the bird is likely to be about right.

Stuffed turkey requires another test. Because bacteria grow readily in stuffing, temperature of dressing in large turkeys should reach 155 degrees during roasting and 165 degrees during the heat rise that takes place immediately after the bird is taken from the oven.

Cold, sliced turkey is an excellent meat for summer as well as winter, nutritionists emphasize.

In Dior Styles

PARIS (AP)—Christian Dior put his "something for everyone" winter fashions on display today, with skirts hovering at the knee caps and sometimes a bit shorter.

Dior revived memories of 18th century France, with elegant lace jabots and frills and flounces at the wrists. Many wrists were decorated in feathers or fringes in plain fabrics in black or in bright-colored crepes.

One of designer Marc Bohan's trends was a school girl line. He did it in plaid or striped wool, or in black velvet for after five.

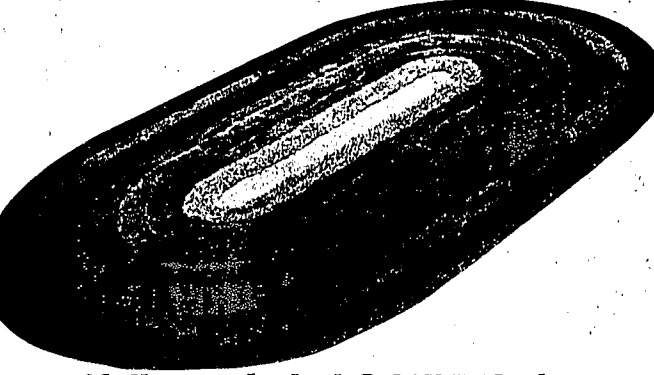

White satin blouses and collars are part of a jeune fille group.

For daytime, there were belted shirtwaist dresses, with simple detailing. For evening, there were beautiful and symmetrical slinky sheaths, treated to yokes and bands on the hips. They were bordered at the hemline in glittering jeweled embroidery.

Nancy Searle,
Judd Marry In Temple Rites

VIEW — The Idaho Falls LDS Temple was the setting for the July 14 wedding of Nancy Lee Searle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orval M. Searle, View, and Michael B. Judd, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Judd, Coalville, Utah.

The double ring ceremony was performed by President Willard S. Wray. Accompanying the couple to the temple were the bridegroom's parents, his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Brown, grandmaster, Mrs. Edna Judd, parents of the bride; her grandfather, Joseph E. Searle; Mr. and Mrs. Garth Freymiller, Mr. and Mrs. Arlin Judd, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Judd, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Judd, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Searle, Mrs. Gladys Wilde, Bishop and Mrs. Delos Stoker, Mr. and Mrs. James Nowland and Mr. and Mrs. John Keville.

After the ceremony, the bridegroom's parents hosted a wedding dinner at the Chuck Wagon in Idaho Falls.

A reception was held that evening at the View LDS Cultural Hall. A white glittering backdrop, flanked by tall white pillars topped with potted green ferns, formed the background for the reception line. The bride greeted guests in a floor-length gown, fashioned of white pure silk chiffon, with an underskirt of white silk crepe. It featured a straight skirt which fell softly from an empire waistline encircled with a white velvet ribbon, accented in the center front with a small velvet bow. White velvet also trimmed the edges of the floor-length veil which was held by a circlet crown of white tulle and seed pearls. The gown was designed and made by the bride.

She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white shattered chrysanthemums. Mrs. Garth Freymiller, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Peggy Searle, sister of the bride, and Susan Judd and Brenda Judd, sisters of the bridegroom. Natalie Freymiller and Stacy Freymiller, nieces of the bride, were flower girls.

Arlin Judd, brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Garth Freymiller, Scott Searle, Paul Judd, James Toole and Scott Wilde.

Guests were registered by Cheryl Nowland. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Arlin Judd, Diane Bowen, Elma Hatch, Dorcas Gibby and Gayla Koyle. Gift carriers were Shelly Larson, Connie Jane O'Leary, Wade Judd and Todd Judd.

A pink and white wedding cake centered the round bride's table, which was covered with a white satin floor-length skirt.

The wedding cake, made by Mrs. Margaret O'Leary, was topped with a pink and white tulle ornament accented by two chrysanthemums. The outdoor refreshment area was bordered with small lanterns and streamers accented with decorative greenery.

Grandparents of the couple were special guests. Raymond Searle, uncle of the bride, was master of ceremonies for the program.

E. E. Brown, grandfather of the bridegroom, and Joseph E. Searle, grandfather of the bride, gave the prayers.

After a wedding trip to Sun Valley, the couple will reside in Coalville, Utah. They will attend Brigham Young University, Provo, this fall.

The Modern, Independent Way of Life . . .

The American landscape is changing. More and more along its horizons you'll see the silhouette of the mobile home, the travel trailer and the pickup camper. This special edition of the Times-News tells the fascinating story of the "rolling homes."

It is an edition designed to be of interest to the present owner of such a portable piece of real estate as well as to that person who is about to enter the ranks of this growing new breed of American home owners.

Comfort, Convenience, Economy Are Found in Mobile Home Living!

Computer To Help Find Sites For Parking Mobile Homes

A computer named Logexpo services so that travelers can be the best friend to mobile home owners who plan to head for accommodations on that part of Canada's Expo 67 in Montreal.

Speaking of luxury, some of the camping and trailer sites offer extras such as bus service within a 100-mile radius have been organized into an interlocking network.

A year has gone into preparation. Locations are available among 20,000 camp and trailer sites, providing a combination of big city excitement at the Expo and calm, refreshing relaxation between visits amid beautiful surroundings.

And, you can write to the computer. In fact, that's how you get reservations. If he cares to, a mobile home owner can write directly to a camping ground in the area with which he is familiar. Those unfamiliar with the area write: Logexpo, Camping Section, Expo 67, Mackay Pier, Montreal, Canada.

Act quickly if you wish to have a list of approved camp and trailer parks in order to pick your own site. Logexpo will make the reservation when the request is returned.

Reservations are forwarded to the camp owner and to you. They'll be confirmed when the camp owner receives payment for the first night.

Actually, Logexpo is supposed to be ready for any who drive to Montreal with no reservations, though it isn't encouraged. K-mail, phone calls and telegraph

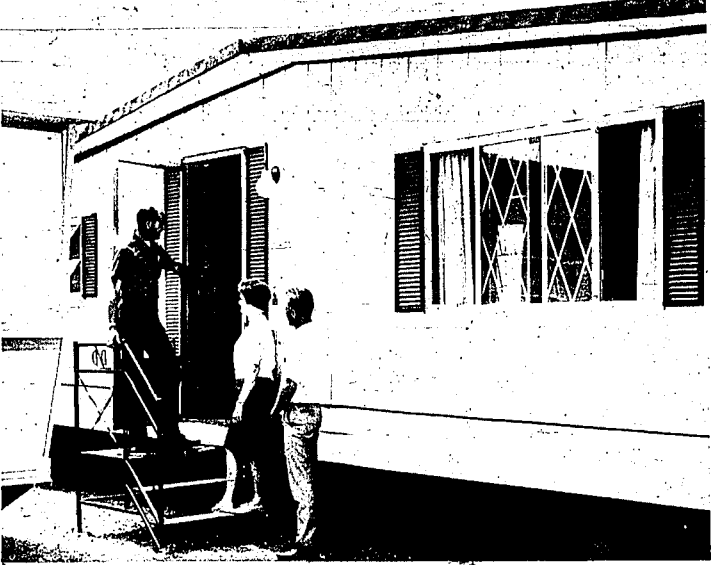

Trailers Differ From Past Units

Although the modern day travel trailer is reputed to be a descendant of the house trailer used by the gypsy, roaming Europe in the 18th century, today's units are far removed from these cumbersome horse-drawn four-wheelers of the past.

Today's travel trailer is described as a vehicular, portable structure built on a chassis, designed to be used as a temporary dwelling for travel, recreational and vacation uses, presently identified as "travel trailers" by the manufacturer on the trailer.

OCCUPY HOMES

If you could put all the people who live in mobile homes in one place, they would overflow a space the size of Chicago. Almost 5,000,000 people live in mobile homes. To accommodate this segment of the population, there are approximately 22,500 mobile home parks containing approximately 1,700,000 spaces.

STEP INTO MOBILITY! Young couples from throughout Maple Valley, Idaho, and the nation are finding convenience, comfort and luxurious living in today's mobile homes. Equipped with everything a permanent home has, the modern mobile home now features such items as shutters on windows and doors, and the new V-roof concept. Trends indicate that more mobile homes with standard types of roofs are on the market.

HOOKING UP is only part of the preparation in "bitting the road" for a summer of touring. Trailer owners are reminded that a complete check of the pulling vehicle is a necessity. More Americans than ever are finding convenience and comfort on vacations through use of small mobile homes.

Camping Out Is Catching On In Brazil

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Campers looking for exotic and remote places to go can now pitch their tents in Brazil.

The outdoor life with the feeling of getting away from the pressures of modern civilization while retaining most of its conveniences—very popular in the United States and Europe—has finally caught on here.

The Camping Club of Brazil is putting the finishing touches on two new camps. Eleven others are already under construction.

The club is predicting there will be a "camping surge" in Brazil this summer.

The two newest sites are on the way from Rio de Janeiro to Sao Paulo. One is in the middle of a cypressus wood, the other in a valley of pines.

However, camping clubs, knowing that most of their enthusiasts will come from the two biggest cities — Rio de Janeiro and Sao Paulo — haven't forgotten how much city-dwellers like the beach. They are setting up a site in Cabo Frio — a beachside resort in the state of Rio de Janeiro.

The campsites will have restaurants, canteens, sports grounds, swimming pools and golf courses.

The club which has a membership fee of about $3 rents equipment to would-be campers and advises them on purchasing gear.

Club officials credit the sudden popularity of camping in Brazil with the fact that more and more people own cars and that it appeals to the middle-class pocketbook.

RESIST WINDS
When strong winds are blowing, the travel trailer being towed by a standard sedan and having a good load-leveler hitch installed resists the crosswinds much better than other recreation units because one-piece vehicles are lighter in structure than travel trailers.

1960 Mod Art Show Open To Tourists In New York

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The Museum of Modern Art is reviewing painting and sculpture of the 1950s and summer, using only home parks containing approximately 1,700,000 spaces.

The 1950s will be on exhibition through Sept. 21. Actually the dates have been stretched a little to include a few items from the 1950s, among the 127 pieces.

About two-thirds of the objects have appeared in the museum's earlier shows, but there are 32 new acquisitions and more than a dozen items that architect and collector Philip Johnson has promised to give.

It is among these newer paintings and sculptures that the viewer will find unfamiliar names, and some of the new acquisitions fill a few gaps in

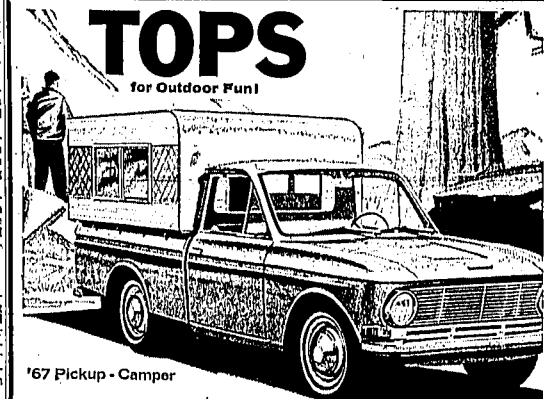

The galleries devoted to Pop Art are full of well-publicized subjects—soup cans by Warhol, Oldenburg's plastic hamburgers, Indiana's road signs, a plastic figure by Segal and Lichtenstein's comic-strip people, Rivers, Wesselman and Marisol are there too.

One addition to this array of Pop specialists is Rosenquist's " Marilyn Monroe No. 1" (1962). It has just arrived at the museum as a part of the recently announced gift of the Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Janis collection.

There are a number of foreign entries in the selection of motorized constructions (kinetic art), but there also is a Molloy (utilized — blobs of mercury moving between panes of glass) and a Seawright (titled "Eight" — electron tubes, flashing on and off at a tiny loudspeaker that croaks the word "eight" every 15 seconds). Both are recent acquisitions.

Only a few examples of the recent experiments with light are shown, but they include one minimalist object which consists simply of an 8½-foot pink fluorescent tube standing in a corner.

The Op Art group contains typical eye-twisting works by Riley, Agam, Vasarely and Anusiewicz.

Easing Money Situation To Enable Purchase Of Homes

The current easing in the money situation will enable more people to buy mobile homes on a monthly basis, if finance companies have reported.

While money to finance mobile home purchases has always been available, financing is now less stringent than in the tight money market a year ago.

Three out of four mobile homes purchased are financed the fourth purchased for cash.

In many cases finance companies had extended the maturity of their contracts, thereby reducing payments to a point where more people would find it attractive to buy a fully furnished mobile home in preference to buying a stationary home.

Building standards previously were related only to plumbing, heating and lighting, but on Jan. 1, 1967, new overall construction standards became effective within the industry.

Despite its many problems, the industry has established a remarkable growth record. Mobile home shipments last year set a new record for the fourth straight year at 217,300 units compared with 191,320 units in 1965.

Limit Items In Kitchen Trailer

Remember that axiom "Travel Light" when packing a kitchen in a travel trailer.

Certain basic utensils are necessary. Be sure to include a can opener, bottle opener, paring knife, butcher knife, long-handled cooking spoon and fork, pancake turner or spatula, ice pick and serving spoons.

The number and size of pots and pans depends on your party size. A minimum for a family of four would include one or two frying pans, at least two sauce pans, a large kettle and a coffee pot. Nested cook kits are handy.

Local Recreation Plans Increasing For Owners

More mobile home parks are being added and improved recreation facilities for overnight and permanent mobile home owners. Though there are still many small parks that provide only the basic necessities such as drinking water, electrical hook up and pit toilets, many have several simple and elaborate entertainment facilities. An example is the recreation hall located at Caswell Mobile Home Park on Caswell Ave., Twin Falls, which opened last summer. The recreation hall, decorated with wood paneling, offers a complete kitchen, dining area for large parties and living room. Tentatively planned in connection with the recreation room is a men's club room. Mobile home owners, Mrs.

Trailer Rules

The primary rules for the beginner trailerist are few and simple. First, take the wider turns. Second, in passing or changing lanes, make extra space allowance for the full length of car and trailer combination. Third, stay clear of "dead ends" such as marked "Not a Through Street" where one could encounter difficulty in turning around. Recreation facilities throughout Idaho and the United States and Canada vary greatly in the types of recreation provided. In some areas picnic tables and fireplaces are standard with the park. Others provide such recreational activities as swimming and horseback riding. Nearly all parks are located within easy distance of area recreation such as municipal pools, golf courses and theaters.

Dinosaurs Sit Where Buffalo Once Roamed Near Yellowstone Park Gate

By NELSON WADSWORTH Associated Press Writer
WEST YELLOWSTONE, Mont. (AP) — Just north of the West Entrance to Yellowstone National Park a huge tyrannosaurus rex or "thunder lizard" rears its ugly head through the pines. Fangs bared, eyes alert, the 25-foot-tall dinosaur seemingly searches the forest for a hapless prey. Nearby, a spinosaurus twitches its tail in an attitude of defiance, waiting for the coming attack as cars whiz by on U. S. Highway 191.

A scene from an old "B" movie? Or has the clock turned back 100 million years to a mesozoic water hole and the Age of Reptiles? Not quite, though to some passerby it might seem so.

The huge behemoths are the creation of a Salt Lake City sculptor — turned — scientist who has an undying ambition in life: to mold the most realistic dinosaurs in the world. His West Yellowstone creatures are proof that he may have succeeded.

"I want to make them as they really were when they roamed the earth," says 49-year-old Elbert H. Porter. "There is something fascinating about the Age of Reptiles and I want to recreate it for people to see."

In all, Porter has nine life-size dinosaurs in his display, ranging in size from the squat, five-foot-long protoceratops to an 80-foot-long diplodocus which raises its long neck just behind the tyrannosaurus.

"And flying through the trees — though actually suspended from wires — is a huge teranodon with a 20-foot wingspan.

On a plain only the winged reptile is silent, but just let the murmur of a breeze begin its guy wires squeaking . . . and if you look up suddenly it appears the teranodon is swooping in for the kill.

Porter's obsession with dinosaurs began about eight years ago when he gave up a teaching career in the art department at the University of Utah to devote full time to free-lance sculpturing, particularly on dinosaurs. The idea of recreating a scene from the Mesozoic Era with life-size creatures was soon buzzing through his mind.

"I wanted to build the display in an alfalfa field near Salt Lake City," Porter said. "There would be 100 dinosaurs arranged in their natural habitat. Some would be locked in combat; others merely grazing tranquilly on grasses and fallows recreated from the age."

Porter actually built the first few animals for his "Dinosaur World" but construction of a something fascinating about the Age of Reptiles and I want to recreate it for people to see."

Books Offer Trailer Advice

For individual activity with a travel trailer, many fine books are published that can be of help.

Sunset magazine prints several excellent guides. Woodall's Co. in Chicago publishes a complete listing of every mobile home and travel trailer park in the nation, many which accept overnight trade. This book is updated each year and complete in detail, including a special National and State Parks section.

Local auto-clubs are a good source for this information and in many cases will even assist you in routing a cross country trip.

National and State parks, many of which have travel trailer spaces, will be happy to forward information through their governing agencies.

SHORT TRIPS TAKEN
A recent survey indicated that 51 per cent of travel trailer owners took six or more trips lasting less than a week during the previous year, and 63 per cent of pick-up camp owners took similar trips.

Restrictions Listed For Sites Of Mobile Homes

It is unlawful to park any mobile home or trailer on any street, alley or highway or on any tract of land, within the city limits of Twin Falls, except in trailer camps or courts and industrial zone 1, unless under special storage conditions.

Trailers may be stored in residential — residential — professional zones, and in commercial-local, central and general zones if in compliance with further laws.

No trailer may be parked to provide living quarters or to provide for any accessory business use outside of a trailer park, nor hooked up with any power lines, water lines or electric utilities. No trailer can be parked, located or stored for rental purposes and must be owned by the owner or resident of the property on which the trailer is located.

Mobile Homes Quite Easy To Finance

Almost everybody can buy a mobile home if they want. The average home owner must buy a lot and build his house. Or, he may buy his house and lot together. Not the mobile home owner. He can buy the mobile home and have it towed to the site he prefers, or to an attractive mobile home park.

Just like any other home owner, the mobile home purchaser can buy on the installment plan. Monthly payments are quite reasonable. This is because the basic price of the mobile home is low.

A new model mobile home is usually financed on a seven-year basis. There are some areas where units of certain manufacturers have been financed over a ten-year period.

The potential mobile home owner should bear in mind that down payments are a reasonable per cent of the selling price.

It is a common practice for dealers to accept mobile homes as trade-ins. This trade-in practice also covers conventional homes.

Many of these dealers will accept furniture, appliances, and other items on a trade-in basis when a new mobile unit is purchased.

Reliable mobile home dealers can be of great assistance to the buyer. They can arrange his financing, select the model he requires and advise the type of insurance to carry. Furthermore, the dealer can explain the warranties on appliances and the service guarantee on the mobile home, and the local regulations pertaining to mobile homes.

Illinois Man Claims Development Of First Mobile Home In United States

Historians trace the concept of the mobile home back to gypsies traveling across the European countries in antiquity, but the reality of a house on motor wheels may well have come first to Jay Wilson of Astoria, Ill., in 1921.

He contends that his "house-cars" may have been the first ever designed and built in America. He claims it was the forerunner of the trailer-home and now the mobile home. He built two of the "house-cars" for a trip from Illinois to California, with the help of Rev. Fry. Fry and members of his family.

An Illinois newspaper at the time ran a description of the "house-cars" and was just a little skeptical as to the claims of the two men who built them. The article in part commented: "Two big truck-chassis have been fitted up for houses on wheels for the journey. Before leaving they gave a demonstration of one of the marvelously built two of the 'house-cars' for a trip from Illinois to California, with the help of Rev. Fry and members of his family."

Before leaving they gave a demonstration of one of the marvelously built two of the 'house-cars' for a trip from Illinois to California, with the help of Rev. Fry and members of his family."

Some enemy of Rev. Fry reported it would sack eggs, but this is a base calumny. Leaving all jokes aside, the outfit is cleverly designed and if there is a nation for submarines, it is added for convenience and pleasure for the party, we could not conceive what it could be. It is modern as it could be for such a trip.

"They plan to spend the remainder of the winter, returning in March. On the rear of the black car in large white letters, appeared these words, 'Home Sweet Home' — on the other side, 'The Illinois.' No doubt but this car will attract considerable attention as it means on its way to the coast, into Canada, Mexico and return."

And that is how a paper of that day saw the new-fangled "house-car."

The cross-country trip was made before the day of paved roads, no motels, no trailer parks; no numbered highways. The members of the trip saw only two named highways — Blue Grass Trail in Missouri and Lincoln Highway in Nebraska, and only three campgrounds for tents, located in Seattle, Portland and Los Angeles.

Through the journey, there were no other house-cars to be seen in any direction. Even officials at Yellowstone National Park commented that they had never seen anything like it coming their way.

And they had all the comforts of home. Two double-folding beds made of straight boards with a set of hinges in the middle to fold them up to each side of the wall during the day were the main items in the sleeping area. A wire was strung with a draw curtain that hung along the narrow six inches wide "aisle" between the beds at bedtime. The front seat converted into a bed and a child's bed-spring was attached to hooks on the back of a double bed.

Preacher Fry loved music. He planned on taking along his folding organ, but on a short trail run decided it was too big, and therefore he settled on his phonograph with a large "morning glory" horn. Also, they took along their own camera equipment and printing equipment. The "house-cars" were 18 feet long and seven feet wide.

"They set off on their cross-country trip on Sept. 7, 1921, from Astoria, and they had fun. Mr. Wilson reported that they found plenty of game en route and had to buy meat only twice in the four and a half month trip. Fishing was good, too.

When traveling was 40 cents a gallon, they bought kerosene instead and it worked very well. In Long Beach, they found excellent quality of gas en route and had just been drilled on Signal Hill. They were beset on all sides to buy land or lots, but turned them down as "too speculative." Instead they fished on the beach and smoked the catch for food in preparation for the state. "The Illinois." No doubt but this car will attract considerable attention as it means

Parks Offer Facilities For Tourists

Tourists will enjoy several convenient facilities for their campers and trailers at two parks in the Twin Falls area.

Howard Johnson, Twin Falls Parks' supervisor, says that at Shoshone Falls Park, owned and operated by the city of Twin Falls, there is parking space for over 40 trailers and campers. All trailers are parked in the designated area but tourists wishing to pitch tents on the grass nearby may do so. There is a one-night limit for overnight camping and the area is patrolled nightly.

Plans Needed For Vacation

Distance plus your travel trailer experience will dictate the amount of planning you must do when you contemplate a mobile home vacation.

Long trips do require special preparation that cannot be left until the day before departure. Map your itinerary days in advance and while doing so, gather information on roads, trailer parks and interesting side trips. You can pick up this information easily enough if you belong to an automobile club, a trailer club or even have your own map for you by one of the major oil companies.

What you want to see along your route can be supplied by writing the Chamber of Commerce of the locales you will pass through.

PARK SIZE LISTED

Ten acres has been suggested as the minimum practical size for new trailer parks, according to one trade magazine, although parks built on smaller parcels of land have been very successful. Sizes of 20 acres or more are preferred. Level, well

Portable Home Dwellers Are Becoming Less Mobile

Long considered one of the typical characteristics of Americans is mobility and its clearest manifestation was the house trailer.

In the past this had some truth to it, but now a change is in the wind. The average mobile home dweller is becoming less mobile. He changes his address only once every four years, compared with one move every five years for half the residents of permanent homes. Obviously mobile home owners do move often, but they aren't constantly unsettled as the myth would have it. The sheer size of today's mobile homes is one reason for fewer moves.

The attractiveness of the mobile home also must be considered. People who have no intention of moving will buy one simply because they like mobile homes better than a permanent home.

The advantages of a mobile home are obvious. In the first place, they cost less than a comparable permanent home. Average price for a finished, two-bedroom, 10 or 12 feet by 55 feet long mobile home is $5,000. They are easier to maintain. The outside covering is usually of aluminum paneling that never needs painting. There is a roof that lasts longer than an asphalt roof, aluminum framed windows and doors that resist rust and corrosion, and everything is built around a steel frame much too tough for termites.

Inside, the compactness of the mobile home is a boon to house-keeping. Easily-cleaned wall paneling and floor covering have a minimum of surface to get dirty. There also is less yard work, thus allowing more time for leisure activities.

Another advantage is the environment of a mobile home court. Reputed to be among the friendliest communities anywhere, the mobile home courts hark back to small-town America. There is a camaraderie among owners that doesn't exist in permanent communities. Besides, many courts have swimming pools, community halls and other recreation facilities for children and adults.

That these advantages appeal to many people is reflected in the figures. According to market researchers, ten per cent of the population of the United States will live in mobile homes by 1972. At present, nearly five million people live in mobile homes, enough to populate a city the size of Chicago.

There is even talk of high-rise courts to offset the soaring cost of real estate. One firm is doing research of the possibility of building circular towers 20 stories high with stalls for 500 mobile homes.

Industrial expansion is expected to increase demand for mobile homes. About 40 per cent of mobile home residents are skilled and semi-skilled workers, and many of these workers prefer mobile homes because they are mobile.

Mobile homes are a sure bet to become more popular. The former austere, cramped and rather dull interiors have given way to expanding rooms, central heating and air conditioning. People who were not impressed with "trailers" a few years ago will buy a "mobile home" today.

Car Should Be Checked Before Trip

Mobile home owners are cautioned to take special care in preparing the family car for "hauling your home" during the summer months.

Safety engineers believe that car owners who are careless about car care are needlessly endangering their own lives and the safety of others when they start out on long trips without making sure their cars are in good condition.

No one would purposely try to ruin his vacation, but thousands of motorists press their luck each year by driving on tires that are too weak or worn to stand the strain of a long trip on all kinds of roads.

No wonder some people find themselves stranded in the mountains or on the desert when they should be enjoying a relaxing dip in the trailer park pool.

An experienced mechanic of the tire man knows what to look for and may detect a problem or a fault that will cause trouble when you are out on the highway. Among the things to be considered are the general mechanical condition of the car, brakes, steering, headlights, ignition system, radiator, tires, fan belt and the battery.

Tires are made to stand a lot of hard wear and abuse, but there is a limit to the torture they can take.

Club Members Enjoy Outings

More than a million families are having fun this summer in the United States with their recreational vehicles, including trailers, caravans and other trips.

Most of them are city families, and many belong to one or more camping clubs.

A recent list of these clubs published by the Mobile Home Manufacturers' Association reveals 14 different national groups of clubs, with more than 600 local chapters. They include clubs whose members share such diverse common interests as owning the same make of travel trailers, possessing motorized homes of any brand, being plant employees, aquarists, dancers or even the customers of one recreational vehicle dealer.

Let Family Plan Trailer Trip

When planning a travel trailer trip, let the whole family get in on the act. It's more fun that way.

A large map, complete with mileage figures should be spread over the dining room table. Then the family chairman should explain to his members in a business-like and economical way that if all of the places the family wishes to see are visited, they would be constantly "on the move."

Choose a central destination allowing for side trips chosen by various members of the family. Try to get everyone in on the planning for your mobile home vacation.

SHOWING MOBILE home living in Magic Valley in this aerial view of the Grandview Trailer Courts located west of the city of Twin Falls in a farming district. Living in these "homes on wheels" is becoming more popular throughout the United States. Twin Falls offers several parks for trailer owners traveling through the city as people add a trailer unit for travels. The concept of mobile homes and trailers goes back to early gypsies in Europe and evolves through many stages to reach the present day type of mobile home. Persons traveling in trailers are urged to observe driving rules with their unit attached and restrictions as to parking areas for trailers.

Mobile Homes Feature Economy But Offer Wide Choice Of Accessories

Economy, comfort and convenience are three outstanding factors of mobile home living.

A mobile home is a movable or portable dwelling built on a chassis, connected to utilities and designed with or without a permanent foundation for year-round living.

About all you need these days to move into a mobile home is your toothbrush.

Today's mobile home comes direct from the factory fully equipped with major appliances, sanitary facilities and furniture plus draperies, lamps, and carpeting. These interior furnishings are included in one-over-all price of the unit. However, one may choose to use his own furnishings.

Many mobile homes have year-around air conditioning, automatic dishwashers and automatic garbage disposals. Centrally heated, the units can be served by gas, oil or electric furnaces.

The mobile home of today has a spacious living room, kitchen, dining; one or two bedrooms, and one, two or three bathrooms. In addition, there is well defined storage space and closets throughout the units. Approximately 75 per cent of the new mobile homes sold are financed.

Interiors feature natural wood paneling of birch or mahogany. Furnishings, carpeting and draperies may be selected by the buyer and may be either modern or early American. Standard furnishings include a five-piece dinette set, sofa and chair, coffee table, end table, swag lamp, drapes, bed or beds and flooring in color, co-ordinated throughout. Some mobile homes feature imitation fireplaces.

Buyers can custom decorate every inch of their unit. Many manufacturers employ professional decorators and buyers who go to the plant and choose fabrics and carpeting. Locally carpet and fabric samples are available for those who wish to decorate their "home on wheels" to their tastes.

Most units have 30-gallon capacity water heaters, but some are available to up to a 42-gallon capacity. All fixtures and appliances are standard house equipment.

Mobile homes are constructed basically like conventional houses. Steel, insulation, aluminum, the best woods and numerous appliances are incorporated into units, all according to a rigid construction code. Most homes have more than two inches of fiber glass insulation. Proper installation of the home means longer life for heating and cooling systems.

The average size mobile home offers between 500 and 1,000 square feet of interior living space, all usable with some even larger. There are expandables for those who desire more living room space, or there are tip-outs, about half the space usually expand, for those wishing a little more room but not quite as much as double trailer width.

Exteriors of all homes are pre-painted aluminum which is long-lasting and requires very little care. Formed aluminum wall panels, interlocked so as to be watertight, are usually used. A great variety of colors, baked on the aluminum surface, assures the purchaser of years of durability, maintenance-free.

The covering needs no periodic painting. Aluminum windows and door frames are rust and corrosion resistant and need no painting. The metal roof will need a minimum of attention.

Storm windows, porches, awnings, sliding glass doors, patios and carports are all optional equipment.

Units range in price from $3,500 up to $15,000 with average price $6,000. Seventy-six per cent of all homes sold in the nation costing less than $12,500 last year were mobile homes.

Mobile homes found in parks range from 16 feet self-contained units to 24 by 64 feet. Residents are from a cross-section of American life. Young marrieds, retired persons, skilled and professional employees, including doctors, ministers and bank managers, select mobile homes for location, area work shopping, home living, schools, churches and schools.

REALLY RARE BID UPSETS OPPONENTS
A letter from Toronto reads in part: "In a recent rubber bridge game we were moving to ward a slam when an opponent doubled our Blackwood four no-trump bid. What does this sort of double mean and how should we bid over it?"

sure take its course. Today's hand might well illustrate this rare bid at work. North is looking at a grand total of no high card points but does have 12 tricks in hearts and clubs. He doubles four no-trump and waits for the ax to fall. Nothing bad happens. East and West just run along to their club spade slam but when it gets back to South, the wheels start turning. He decided that North's double showed the ace of spades and the ace of hearts and the ace of clubs. South takes a deep breath and plunges into seven clubs. West doubles and expects sugarplums but all he comes up with are some sour grapes.

The spade lead is trumped in dummy. A heart is won by East's ace. East cashes the ace of diamonds and forces dummy again with a second spade. The defense has two tricks in but that is as far as they can or are going to go. South ruffs a heart, pulls both adverse trumps by leading his ace and ace about the business of ruffing another heart. Then he makes the rest of the tricks and has gotten out of his troubles at a cost of only 500 points.

There is supposed to be nothing new under the sun but this bid is rare, so rare that it has recently thought about it. We would assume that it probably means that the doubler had one or two drinks too many or it might well be some sort of unusual takeout double for unbid suits. The way to act over it is simple. Pass with no aces and a bad hand; bid five clubs with no aces and a good hand; redouble with no aces and a hand that you think can take care of either making four no-trump or hurting your opponents badly at wherever they run, otherwise just show your ace and let na-

Family Gets His Goatee

Dear Walt: Would you please tell me if there is anything decadent, depraved or degenerate about a goatee? Because I have sort of a round, Charlie Brown face. I experimented with sideburns and a goatee to narrow down and point my face. It worked well, and I kept the goatee very neat. But I got all this static from my family, the girls I knew, and their parents, until I finally buckled under and shaved off the goatee and trimmed the sideburns. Now I look like a basketball again, but everyone's happy except me—"Charlie."

Dear "Charlie: The three D's ("decadent, depraved and degenerate") apply no more to goatees than they do to (blush) pout faces. But while you're living at home, you must heed your family's rules. That's the way things are. To narrow your round face, strip the crewcut and let your hair grow more fully on top. Let your sideburns grow until even with the middle of your ears. Lesson: remember well how you feel about judgment based on externals of grooming and style, and make it generally more gully of such superficial evaluations.—Walt.

ON SAYING "NO"
Dear Walt: In the past few weeks I've had to turn down a number of invitations to parties and banquets. I generally imply, "I'd love to go, but the reply I always get from the boys is, 'Aw, that's OK. Man, it's like saying 'get out of the area.'" Can you suggest a pleasant way to say a refusal? My friends know I do what I want, but they don't know the girls more discreetly in public. Dear Speak: You might say, "Sharing problems with a best friend you can trust is one thing. Broadcasting domestic news to anybody else is another. I see it, we want families to guard our privacy. Certainly we don't want his brother to announce and let our friends know we just had her first period. We do what we want, but we tell the girls more discreetly in public. Dear Walt: Obviously the problem is private. A guy doesn't want to just herd in front of you when you turn him down, Ell and Walt.

Mobile Homes In Idaho Are Progressing

Idaho's mobile home industry has two assets, the backing of a stable lumber industry and access to the large West Coast consumer market.

The marketing research firm of Erick and Lavigne, Inc. reports that the mobile home production in Idaho totaled 6,372 units in 1966.

The greatest activity in recent years has been in Southwestern Idaho. An explanation of the industry's centralization in the Boise-Nampa-Caldwell area is the abundant supply of both skilled and semi-skilled workers and the availability of suppliers servicing manufacturers with quality component materials.

Idaho's story of the mobile home industry is a progressive one. Since 1957 it has grown from a few custom manufacturing shops to a sizable industry with nearly 20 mobile home manufacturing plants locating Bostetter and Faher and Sons campgrounds; Paul; Lake's Trailer Court; Rupert; Bell's Trailer Court; Gib's Trailer Resort; Olson Trailer Park and Simpson Trailer Park and Shoshone; Floyd's Trailer Park and McFall's Trailer Court.

Stanley; Basin Creek, Inlet Alturas, Iron Creek, Little Redfish, Lola Creek, Mormon Bend, Mount Heyburn, North Shore Alturas, Redfish Outlets, Redfish Point, Riverside, Salmon River, Smokeley Bear, Stanley Lake, Sunny Gulch and Tin Cup campgrounds, and Salmon River Trailer Park and Summer Home Trailer Park, and Twin Falls; Blue Lakes Trailer Park, Caswell Mobile Home Park, Country Trailer Courts, Curry Trailer Park, Graecena Trailer Court, Grandview Trailer Villa, Homers Trailer Park and Pioneer Trailer Park.

Mobile home owners should check with dealers or trailer park owners before proceeding to campgrounds. Many are limited in the size of trailer they can accommodate.

within Idaho boundaries.

One outcome of this expanding movement is the growth of related manufacturing enterprises in Idaho, such as makers of upholstery, furniture, accessories, and various components utilized in mobile home manufacture and use.

Companies with subsidiary plants or headquarters in Idaho include Buddy Mobile Homes, Kit Manufacturing, Securities Industry, Billmore, Bushua, Go-Lite, Gunder, Starcraft, Security Homes, Brown, Freeway Coaches, Fleetwood, MGM, Northland, Reed Manufacturing and G and G Manufacturing Co.
