At The Crossroads

It seems to be an inflexible law of evolution that success breeds excess. A people may suffer under tyranny for generations...

brothers lying slain in the rubble of what was once a city—have inspired not revolutionary ardor but despair in the souls of thousands. It brings no honor on the heads of spokesmen of either party who try to make a political score by pinning the blame for Detroit or any other riot on a governor or a mayor or a police chief or a president.

Publicity Makes Negro Leaders

WASHINGTON—Negro "leaders" aren't born these days, but made—and in most instances by the news media. Take the case of Robert Runneymeade as an example...

Barry, a precocious 25-year-old who came to Washington to head the Students Nonviolent Coordinating Committee unit, so far has carved a career entirely out of his clashes with police. In a sane society, he would have trouble landing a job as a stickman in a Las Vegas gambling hall, because the Vegas crowd is sensitive about characters whose difficulties with the cops are too well known.

his statement was played on the bottom of the page, and a statement made by Runneymeade threatening to use tanks against the public library was given a six-column headline. It got so bad that no matter what happened, Runneymeade was the first interviewed as to the issues of the day...

about as much to do with raising the Negro's status as the canonization of St. Augustine. Barry's first project for the UPO is characteristic of his approach to the problem of persuading troublesome Negro youths to go respectable. It is a nightclub, financed with taxpayer's funds, Barry says this federally-sponsored trap will provide both jobs and a gathering place for teen-agers.

The Painful Years

Riots Only Build Resistance

WASHINGTON (NEA)—The nation's white leadership missed a great opportunity, in the June, 1966, White House conference on civil rights, to undertake an urgent commitment to the economic, social and educational betterment of deprived American Negroes.

best. The middle-class white American had, indeed, his Negro counterpart, already bear heavy money burdens for general support of the aged, the sick, the indigent and the unemployed. They are now being told they must shoulder far heavier loads to help bring deprived Negroes to levels where "equal opportunity" has "practical" meaning for them.

American, going about his business today under reasonably heavy tax burdens levied by war abroad and social imbalance at home, must feel personal guilt for the errors of others 50, or 100 years ago.

Svetlana's Memoirs Are Being Sold

LONDON (AP) — Svetlana Alliluyeva's memoirs went on sale in a Russian-language edition throughout Britain today as a high court judge began hearing legal arguments about its copyright.

Hutchinson & Co., the British publisher which has contracted to publish the memoirs in Britain, said it had issued the Russian edition to confirm the copyright.

A spokesman said the firm did not expect a large sale for the paperback edition, which sells for $7.

Hutchinson and Mrs. Alliluyeva's lawyers are suing in the high court to block the publication of an unauthorized edition of the memoirs, "Twenty Letters to a Friend," by Alex Flegon, a London publisher who says he got the manuscript from sources in Russia. He claims there is no copyright law applicable since Mrs. Alliluyeva wrote the memoirs in the Soviet Union and that country is not a party to the international copyright agreement.

Faulkner's Views On Negroes Told

DARTMOUTH, Mass. (AP) — The late William E. Faulkner, Nobel and Pulitzer Prize-winning novelist, said in a letter that Negroes "have got to be changed completely" to attain equality and justice.

The noted author's views were expressed in a letter written seven years ago in rejecting a request from his Negro former butler for a contribution to the National Association for Advancement of Colored People.

Paul E. Pollard of Dartmouth, the former butler, made public the letter Wednesday, which has been sold for $500 to Charles Hamilton Autographs, Inc., New York City.

Faulkner wrote in 1960 that he believed the NAACP was making mistakes. "Whether it instigates them or merely condones and takes advantage of them, it is anyway on the side of, in favor of, actions which will do your people harm," he said.

"As I see it," Faulkner wrote, "your people must earn by being individually responsible to bear it, the freedom and equality they want and should have."

"As I see it, if the people of your race are to have equality and justice as human beings in our culture, the majority of them have got to be changed completely from the way they now act," Faulkner's letter said.

Faulkner, who died in 1962, earlier established the William Faulkner Foundation to aid in teaching Negroes.

Pollard worked for Faulkner in 1956 and 1957, while the author was lecturer at the University of Virginia. Pollard now is butler for George B. Knowles of Dartmouth.

Foreign Aid Package May Be Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee has shaped a foreign aid package nearly matching President Johnson's proposals. But the outlook is for stiff opposition on both the House and Senate floors.

Readied for an expected final vote today by the House Foreign Affairs Committee was a package authorizing $3.19 billion for military and economic assistance around the globe in the current fiscal year.

The panel's package contrasts sharply with the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's version, which set the fiscal 1968 ceiling at $2.73 billion—about $650 million less than Johnson asked—and limited authorizations to one year.

The two versions differ also in their treatment of military aid, with the House leaving undisturbed Johnson's request for $506 million and the Senate panel slashing the total to $391 million.

All of the authorizations are subject to later appropriations actions.

Newsman Says Kidnaping Was Planned

LONDON (AP) — A British newsman, newly returned from Algeria and the Congo, claims Moise Tshombe's kidnaping was planned by the Congo government and carried out with the knowledge of President Houari Boumediene of Algeria.

On a television news program British Broadcasting Corp. correspondent Keith Kyle said Wednesday night that investigations in Algiers left him "in no doubt whatsoever that the operation was planned by the Congo government and executed with the foreknowledge of President Boumediene."

He claimed the delay in Tshombe's extradition to the Congo where he is under a death sentence was caused by a breakdown in secrecy over the abduction and a changed atmosphere brought about by the Arab-Israeli war.

Kyle said the Algerians are now determined to exact a high price for handing over the former Congo premier.

This price includes, he stated, a complete breach of relations between the Congo and Israel, which has been providing an effective training program for President Joseph D. Mobutu's paracommando forces; a general amnesty for all left-wing politicians and simbas in exile; and a general realignment of Congo foreign policy to conform with "progressive revolutionary African States."

The terms, Kyle told an interviewer, were tailored to create a breach between Mobutu and his most reliable allies—the United States and Israel.

Park Agrees To Aid U.S. In Vietnam

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park and two envoys from President Johnson agreed in principle today to send about 17,000 South Korean reservists paid by the United States to help man supply lines in the Vietnam war, government sources said.

The American envoys, Clark Clifford and Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, made no requests for more Korean combat troops, a government spokesman said. South Korea already has 46,000 fighting men in Vietnam.

Government sources said detailed plans for sending the Korean logistic service corps to Vietnam will be worked out between the two countries through diplomatic channels.

Clifford and Taylor were scheduled to leave for Washington tonight.

YOUTH DROWNS
LEWISTON, Idaho (AP) — A 15-year-old California youth drowned Wednesday in the Snake River about 70 miles south of here, the Wallawa County Sheriff's office said.
Deputies refused to identify the youth until his parents had been notified. The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday.
The boy was playing with other youngsters at a campsite on the Snake when the accident occurred. Just how the youngster drowned was not revealed by deputies.
He was among 19 passengers on a river excursion boat.

FUND SUGGESTED
BOISE (AP) — Establishment of a state revolving fund was suggested Wednesday as one way of financing construction of expanded airport facilities in Idaho.
The suggestion was made at a seminar on air transportation, conducted by Dean Frank Seelye of the college of business administration at Idaho State University. It is one of a series planned over the state.
Both Seelye and Dr. James Kelly, associate professor of business administration at ISU, said a state revolving fund could provide continuous assistance for local communities in improving air travel facilities.

Five Names Confirmed On NASA List

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration has confirmed the names of five men on a list of at least 11 scientist-astronauts that will be announced within the next few days.
The new spacemen include the nation's first foreign-born astronaut, Dr. John A. Lewellyn, 34, a native of Cardiff, Wales, and a research chemist on the faculty of Florida State University, and Philip K. Chapman, a native of Australia and a scientist at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.
Both Lewellyn, of Tallahassee, Fla., and Chapman, who lives near Boston, are naturalized U.S. citizens. NASA dropped a requirement last year that astronauts be native-born Americans.
The other three who, according to NASA, are "on the list involved in the final selection process," are Dr. Donald Lee Holmquest, 28, a physician from Houston, Tex.; Dr. Karl G. Henize, 40, an astronomer at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.; and William E. Thornton, 38, until recently an Air Force captain at Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex.

OPINION ISSUED
BOISE (AP) — A legal opinion on assessment of forest fire control costs in the timber adjacent to the Dworshak Dam and reservoir will be issued as a result of a Wednesday meeting of state and federal officials.
Idaho Atty. Gen. Allan G. Shepard said his office would prepare the opinion.
Dworshak Dam is under construction by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and the corps acquired the land adjacent to the reservoir prior to construction to insure public access to the water after the reservoir was full.

INDUSTRY SURVEYED
BOISE (AP) — Nuclear energy uses and industry in Idaho will be surveyed and potential for further development assessed before an effort is made to bring more of the modern industry into the state.
That was the decision Wednesday of the Idaho Nuclear Energy Commission, which authorized such a study.
Commission Chairman Steele Barnett said the State Department of Commerce and Development were "partners" in an endeavor to bring nuclear industry into Idaho.

Food Price War Staged In Spokane
SPOKANE (AP) — A food price war is under way here, and one major supermarket operator said Wednesday prices in Spokane are probably lower than any place in the country, with some items selling at half of wholesale cost.

W. T. Triplett Jr., Portland, president of Big "C" Stores, Inc., which has five Low Cost Markets here, said some stores generally "are selling 30 percent below a year ago."
Many items are being retailed at "about half of cost, and I mean half of wholesale cost," Triplett said. For example, he said, "Jello, which costs us 10 cents a package, is being sold for 5 cents. Sugar at wholesale to us it costs $1.12 for 10 pounds and it's going for 79 cents. We pay 8 cents a can for pop and sell it for 5 cents."

He said a drive to woo customers is behind the price war. The leaders feel the temporary losses are worthwhile if they can attract new customers and keep them once prices return to normal.

General Deprivation Found Among Negroes, Whites In Welfare Programs

WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal investigators looking for racial discrimination in Mississippi welfare programs report finding widespread deprivation among both whites and Negroes with no clearcut differences between them in welfare payments.

"Human needs are not being met," said the report, made last December by Health, Education and Welfare Department staffers but released only recently under the U.S. Freedom of Information Act.

"General deprivation, affecting both Negroes and whites irrespective of any specific discrimination toward Negroes, was found to be a major problem," said the report. But it added: "This poverty, because of income levels, falls more heavily on Negroes than others."

The study, based on interviews with about 150 persons in 10 Mississippi counties, found "poverty" exists throughout the state both within and without the public welfare programs. Limitations in law and inadequate appropriations are contributing factors. A "negative attitude toward welfare is commonplace."

Those interviewed included civic and civil rights leaders as well as welfare workers and officials.

Mississippi has the lowest average assistance payments of any state and receives the highest percentage of federal contributions toward its public assistance, the study said. Yet it also noted Mississippi has the lowest per capita income of any state but "nevertheless exceeded 27 other states for assistance payments from state and local funds per $1,000 of personal income in 1965.

Several members of Congress, including Sens. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., charged recently that people are going hungry in Mississippi. In response to such allegations from Capitol Hill and elsewhere, the U.S. Department of Agriculture has lowered the price of food stamps for needy families.

Investigators said one force which has held back full compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act is "an undercurrent of fear" among both Negroes and whites in Mississippi.

The report said whites fear "that social change as required by provisions of the Civil Rights Act may threaten the entire social structure" and that Negroes fear "reprisals, physical, social and economic, if they insist on the rights to which they are entitled."

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: I am a man approaching 50. My sister and I were married on the same day, and for 18 years the four of us celebrated our anniversaries together. Then my wife and I were divorced. I remarried. She did not.

Our "25th" is coming up soon (rather, it would have been our 25th had we stayed married to each other.) My present wife will be out of town, so my sister suggested that the "original four" quietly get together again for old times' sake. I can't see where there would be any harm in it. My children are all for it. Are you?

I. REGRET
 DEAR REGRET: The "old times" so dear to your sister can be recalled but hardly recreated. The feelings of your present wife are more important than nostalgic pleasantries with the wife that was. And don't gamble that an anniversary reunion will remain a secret. In other words, if I were you, I would skip it.

DEAR ABBY: A girl in our office is getting married, and since there are 25 of us we thought we would all go in together and buy her one nice gift.

Two girls were selected to purchase the gift. They bought a $4 habacht and added to it a 25-cent card on which they wrote this long list of donors. It came to the grand total of 16 cents apiece!

All 25 of us are going to the wedding, and I am embarrassed to tears.

Should I go ahead and buy something on my own at the risk of starting a war? Or should I just let it go?

SURROUNDED BY CHEAPSKATES

DEAR SURROUNDED: Buy something on your own and quietly send it. And by the way, the usual procedure is first to collect so much from each girl, and then buy a gift in that amount. There is no excuse for having been "surprised" the way you were.

DEAR ABBY: About a year ago my husband took the job as the den father of a Cub scout pack, as our church was sponsoring them. The woman that was the den mother would pump the children about the kind of magazines their parents read, and their home life in general.

This got back to the parents, and my husband received so many complaints that he went to the den mother and told her that this was not part of her job.

She told him that she was a dedicated civic worker and it was her duty to find out these things, and to let the other people in the community know what kind of people lived there. My husband was so disgusted he resigned. To this day, this woman talks about him something terrible.

I think the woman is sick and

DEAR WONDERING: If the parents of these children complained to your husband because of the den mother's nosiness, they should have seen to it that she resigned—not your husband.

COLLAR CLEANER

If you want to remove the troublesome make-up line that so often appears on the collar of your light-colored raincoat, simply dampen the stained area with lukewarm water and apply a few drops of baby shampoo. Then, take an old toothbrush and rub over the spot until the outline of the stain starts to disappear. When this happens, begin rinsing the spot thoroughly. If the make-up does not disappear after one of two tries, let the spot dry and repeat the treatment.

Increase In Social Security Benefits Heads For House

By EDMOND LEBRETON WASHINGTON (AP) — A $3.2-billion increase in Social Security benefits—about $1.2 billion less than President Johnson proposed—is headed for House consideration.

The House Ways and Means Committee, after five months of hearings and deliberations, approved Wednesday its version of a complex measure that would:

- Provide at least a 1 1/2 percent increase in benefits for Social Security recipients, effective the second month after enactment.
- Raise Social Security taxes, beginning with a maximum $4 hike next year, to pay the cost of the increases and try to keep pace with still-soaring medical costs.

—Make a number of changes in the conditions for federal participation in state welfare and Medicaid programs, generally in the direction of limiting the extension of Medicaid eligibility and of encouraging work training and job requirements for some categories of welfare recipients.

—Medicaid—a different program from Medicare—is aimed at providing medical and hospital care for the poor.

—Sponsors aimed at House consideration of the bill within two weeks.

On the Social Security benefit side, the bill would provide the general raise—less than the 15 per cent Johnson proposed—and the special raises for those receiving minimum amounts.

The minimum benefit under the regular old-age program would be increased from $44 to $50 a month, compared with the administration recommendation of $70.

The special benefit paid certain persons 72 and older with insufficient coverage for the regular program would be increased from $35 to $40 a month for a single person; from $32.50 to $60 a month for a couple.

The committee sealed down the administration proposal increases by a total of $1.2 billion, members said, to avoid having to raise payroll taxes as high as those would have required. Such a raise, they said, would have been excessive when added to the income tax increase also proposed by Johnson.

The committee bill would raise the payroll taxes for Social Security benefits, including Medicare, by a double operation. The wage base on which the tax is levied, now $6,600, would be increased next Jan. 1 to $7,600.

The present rate of 4.4 per cent each for employer and employee would not be changed, however, until 1969. Thereafter the built-in rate increases in the law would be revised upward so that the ultimate top, effective in 1987, would be 5.9 per cent instead of 5.65 per cent.

There would be no tax increase next year for those earning no more than $6,600, and a maximum increase of $4 for any wage earner. But by 1969 the maximum tax would be $364.80 instead of $323.40 and it would increase by stages to $448.40 in 1987 as against the $372.90 contemplated in the present law.

Negro Population Balance May Change Before 1970

By JOSEPH R. COYNE WASHINGTON (AP) — Although recent Negro rioting has centered largely in Northern cities, government studies indicate a majority of the nation's Negroes still live in the South.

The latest Census Bureau figures indicate the balance will probably change, however, before the 1970 census.

Estimates made by the bureau also show the Negro population is growing proportionately faster than the white population, and Negroes on the average are younger, have less education and lower family incomes than whites.

A recent Census Bureau report showed Negroes to an increasing extent are living in metropolitan areas—even in the South—and within these areas in the innermost sections of cities.

Between 1960 and 1966, the bureau said, the Negro population living in metropolitan areas increased by 21 per cent—from 12.2 million to 14.8 million—and almost all the increase was in the inner city.

The white population increased meanwhile by 9 per cent in metropolitan areas and all of it came outside the inner city, much of it in the suburbs, the bureau added.

Total Negro population as of July 1, 1966, the latest figure available, reached 21.6 million, about 11 per cent of the total U.S. population. This compared with 10.5 per cent in the 1960 census.

About 60 per cent of all U.S. Negroes lived in the South at the time of the 1960 census. But this percentage dropped to 54.4 per cent by 1964 and to 53.6 per cent by 1965, the last available figure.

Area Group Blasts Racing Commission

JEROME—A recent action of the Idaho Horse Racing Commission which cut in half the previously allotted racing calendar of the proposed Coeur d'Alene track was attacked Wednesday by members of the Southern Idaho Horse Racing Association.

The group passed a strongly worded resolution criticizing the commission for the action during a meeting in Jerome Tuesday.

"The resolution reads, in part, 'The action... is another in a series of moves taken by the present administration to stunt an already under-developed (and overtaxed) state economy.'

The proposed Coeur d'Alene race track is a project of the Coeur d'Alene Downs, Inc., which has planned, and had begun construction on, a $2 million facility which, according to the

of the racing commission will be reversed and that a solvent, new enterprise will be allowed to flourish.

"Idaho, and Idahoans, deserve better representation in the handling of far-reaching ideas," the resolution concludes.

The document was passed by the board of directors and generally urges the racing commission to reverse its decision.

Vehicle Inspection Law Hearing Is Set

A public hearing on the up-coming mandatory vehicle inspection law has been scheduled for Aug. 23 in the auditorium of the Department of Law Enforcement and Highway Building, Boise.

The new law, calling for mandatory inspection of all vehicles and providing for a sticker to be attached to those cars passing inspection, is slated to go into effect Jan. 1, 1968.

Harold Davis, inspection division director, said in a news release that discussions during the hearing will include the proposed manual to be followed by state certified inspection stations.

Local Idaho State Police officials said that the approved station though it is expected that there will be at least one station in every sizable community.

The law, passed by the Idaho Legislature, requires that all registered vehicles be inspected at least once in 1968 and once in every 12-month period thereafter.

Violators will be given warnings for the first few weeks after Jan. 1, local spokesmen noted, with strict enforcement and punishment of violators scheduled to be "played by ear" pending general public knowledge of the new law.

Among those taking part in the Boise discussions will be four fieldmen. The men, all recently appointed, include Clarence Norris, to be stationed in Twin Falls; Gordon Jones, Lewiston; Oscar Miller, Pocatello, and Jack Dewald, Boise.

Mr. Davis noted that similar hearings will be held in other areas of the state to familiarize residents with the new law.

"You asked me for a date at the worst possible time, Jimmy... I still have most of my allowance!"

Population Explosion Is Serious Problem

By LEWIS C. FRANK Jr. Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A child born on your street this morning comes into a world of almost 3.4 billion people—a world already beset with problems of hunger and violence. Yet when this newly arrived youngster reaches the modest age of 33—in the year 2000—the population of the world will almost surely exceed 6.5 billion.

President Johnson has described the problem of runaway population growth as "second in importance only to nuclear warfare." Yet the advanced, developed nations of the world are spending $40 a year for every man, woman and child in the entire world for armies and armaments. And in the war against runaway population, which threatens every nation, the same great powers are spending less than two cents per person.

The ratio is better than 2000-to-1. The world to be saved from nuclear warfare may be lost to the population explosion.

Because we Americans live in the most affluent society the world has ever known, we are inclined to a certain smugness and psychic insularity. We see the population explosion as something that is happening elsewhere. It is in India and Latin America. It is in China.

But the fact is that populations are exploding everywhere, including the United States. Shortly after World War II, the American birthrate was almost as high as that in India. And even today there are sections in our country—where family planning assistance should be found around the corner—that have birthrates approximating those in underdeveloped lands.

The wondrous and awesome fact is that the child born this day who lives to retire on social security will quite probably live in a United States with a population equal to that of China today.

Yet population is a problem that has not sufficiently concerned our politicians and statesmen, who must rack up short-range achievements to satisfy their constituents; nor our businessmen, who must satisfy customers and employees and stockholders and creditors on at least an annual basis.

Even our social and physical scientists are rarely concerned with "the population factor."

Today's complicated problems of international relations will become even more complex as we add more appetites to our population in a world of emerging nations with growing populations and appetites of their own.

Only about one out of 10 of the world's citizens lives in the United States, yet to support our affluent society we consume almost one-day of the world's nonreplaceable raw materials.

Many Americans hang on to a dangerous illusion that our country is self-sufficient. But it is more than 35 years since the historical position of the United States as a net exporter of resource products shifted to that of a net importer.

A few of the important commodities for which we now rely on foreign sources to support our economy include tin, diamonds, aluminum, asbestos, nickel, manganese, fluorospar, lead, sugar, wool, zinc, iron ore, pulpwood and lumber, copper, coffee, cocoa, tea and even beef, veal and pork.

Those who scoff at the implications of the population explosion frequently divided our available land in the United States by numbers of people, then throw in our huge grain production potential and conclude that while other countries may have population problems, we do not. They ignore, of course, our dependence on other lands for some essential raw materials to support our "quality of life."

If we want to live by bread alone, then the United States has no population problem. We can contain a much greater population and feed it.

But this newspaper is filled every week with stories about crime, traffic problems, water and air pollution, inadequate housing and educational facilities, urban blight, and the struggles to preserve and extend individual liberty and dignity. It takes little imagination to understand how these problems are all compounded by huge increases in population.

ENGLAND'S Mr. and Mrs. George Harrison (he's a Beatle) look like a pair of hippies as they arrive at Los Angeles by air Tuesday night from London. Harrison, wearing a flowered jacket, blue pants and purple shoes, said they would vacation and handle business matters while in California. About 200 fans met them at the airport. (AP wirephoto)
