U. S. Jets Hammer Enemy

SAIGON (AP) — American warplanes hammered North Vietnam with 197 strike missions Thursday, 22 more than were ever flown in a single day during the 2½ years of bombing the Communist North, the U. S. Command said today.

U. S. headquarters also announced that 635 combat planes have been lost over North Vietnam, including an Air Force F105 Thunderchief downed by ground fire Thursday and three losses not previously disclosed.

The ground war continued in one of its periodic lulls and two major operations ended.

One was the massive sweep by an estimated 10,000 U. S. and South Vietnamese troops in the Mekong delta 45 miles south of Saigon, the biggest allied operation staged so far in the delta.

In the same delta area, South Vietnamese troops reported killing the commander of a hard-core Viet Cong battalion and capturing his assistant.

The air attacks Thursday ranged from deep in North Vietnam's heartland to the country's southern panhandle.

Navy pilots reported destroying or damaging 72 supply boats or barges along the coast. Other Navy fliers reported setting off a secondary explosion among a cluster of buildings at the Quang Nap storage area three miles southwest of Thanh Hoa, in the panhandle. The pilots said dense smoke towered up 5,000 feet.

Rebel Troops Slay 100 Congolese

KAMEMBE, Rwanda (AP) — Rebel troops killed about 100 Congolese soldiers in a clash Thursday near Bukavu in the Congo's Kivu Province, a French settler from the area said in Kameembe today.

He said the rebels—white mercenaries and Katanga gendarmes—also captured three of the four armored vehicles supporting the regular Congo troops. There was no word on rebel casualties.

The rebels killed about 50 Congolese soldiers and destroyed three of their armored cars in a four-hour battle Tuesday. A Congolese government communique said 10 mercenaries were killed and many injured in that fight.

Because of disorder and looting in the Bukavu area, the settler said, his Congolese workers had asked him not to pay their wages for fear the Congolese soldiers would take the money.

"Hey, Jerome, I Love You"

JEROME—Magic Valley's first reported invasion of hippies is scheduled for Sunday in the Jerome city park where a "love-in" is planned.

It is not expected that a large number of hippies will attend, and spectators may outnumber the participants, but, according to Grant Humphries Jr., local bearded youth, some hippies he met in California are coming to the park.

They will read poetry, sing, to the accompaniment of a band, and display paintings.

Jerome Police Chief Clarence Yingst said he does not expect any trouble, but he will have extra men on duty.

State Crime Lab Is Discussed By Police

Organization of an Idaho Identification Officers Association was the aim of a special meeting and school held in Twin Falls Friday for state, county and city law enforcement officers.

Herbert Allen, Pocatello, identification officer for the Bannock County sheriff's office, conducted morning sessions. He explained the aims of the organization include better communications among law enforcement agencies and within individual departments, exchange of information and ideas, and working together to support the establishment of a crime laboratory and center for Idaho.

Allan Shepard, Idaho attorney general, addressing the Friday morning meeting, stressed the "crying need" in Idaho for better education for law enforcement officers. He also noted more scientific knowledge and training in the use of scientific law equipment and materials would benefit officers throughout the state and in turn the citizens of Idaho.

Friday morning sessions also featured general discussions on techniques and equipment used to establish identification information and to collect photographs and evidence at the scenes of crimes or accidents.

Hearing Set On Sale Of Firm Assets

BOISE (AP) — A Fourth District Court hearing has been set for next Thursday on the proposed sale of nearly $8 million in mortgages, deeds and physical assets of the Idaho Savings and Loan Association.

Idaho Finance Commissioner John D. Silva said the closed firm's assets would be sold to the Equitable Savings and Loan Association of Portland, Ore., if the court approved.

Shareholders in the Idaho Institution could expect to get back 43 to 44 per cent of their investment if the sale was approved.

District Court was placed in control of the savings association last fall after it had closed July 6 because it did not have enough funds to meet financial obligations.

If the sale is approved by the court, Silva said, Equitable would open an office in Boise about September 1, with offices opening in Idaho Falls, Twin Falls and Pocatello later.

Poverty Workers Attacked In Riot Query

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — A Negro police detective from Newark, N.J., charged today that poverty workers contributed to the explosive atmosphere "that can very well have brought" on the city's five-day riot last month.

Detective William Millard leveled his accusation before the Senate Judiciary Committee, which earlier heard a Nashville policeman charge that a school teaching Negro children to hate white people is being subsidized by the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Committee Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss., raised the question of poverty workers and the Newark rioting.

"I'm not saying they're responsible for the riot," Millard told Eastland. "I am saying their participation, particularly in the City Hall meeting, contributed to the atmosphere that could very well have brought on the riot."

Millard said the atmosphere was tense after a series of stormy meetings, one at City Hall, involving Negro grievances against the municipal government.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., brought up the poverty question in more specific terms.

"Has the United Community Corp. of Newark been infiltrated by the Black Power group?" he asked. He said the corporation is linked with OEO.

"I don't have any knowledge of that, sir, not to my knowledge," Millard replied.

"Do you believe that much of the agitation came from employees of the United Community Corp.?" Thurmond asked.

"Yes, sir," Millard said. "I believe they contributed, put it that way."

Newark officials already have charged, and OEO Director Sargent Shriver has denied, that poverty program workers were involved in the Newark riots.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., demanded that the Senate inquiry be broadened to determine whether federal funds are "being used to promote policies that have a tendency to produce riots."

At same time, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said a policeman's charge of such use of anti-poverty funds in Nashville, Tenn., was not substantiated.

Police Capt. John A. Sorace told the Senate Judiciary Committee Thursday the Office of Economic Opportunity — OEO — is subsidizing a liberation school which teaches Negro children to hate white people.

Sorace said the school is directed by Fred H. Brooks, Nashville chairman of the militant Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

Although the OEO denied Sorace's charge, it said it is moving to investigate the school.

Higher Draft Calls And Defense Budget Expected

By BOB HORTON
WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher draft calls and a possible $2-billion supplemental defense budget request are likely as a result of President Johnson's ordered troop increase for Vietnam, Pentagon sources say.

The President announced Thursday that 45,000 to 50,000 more men will be deployed to the war zone in response to recommendations of top defense and military officials.

At the same time, he said, there is a possibility that because of increased military spending, defense expenditures for fiscal 1968 may exceed the $73 billion budget by up to $4 billion.

Exactly how high draft calls will go now is being determined in a Pentagon study of what the newly authorized $25,000-man level for Vietnam next summer will do to overall U.S. military strength.

Announced draft calls for the five months extending through September have risen to an average of about 23,000 a month. This reflects, in part, the Pentagon's move to meet its 1966-approved Vietnam manpower ceiling of 480,000.

Sources said draft calls during the last quarter of this year likely will exceed 35,000 a month.

As for spending, sources say

Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara believes $2 billion in planned spending can be trimmed from the defense budget to offset partially the possible $4-billion overrun mentioned by the President.

The $2-billion difference would have to be covered by a supplemental budget request early next year, sources said.

The administration also had to get a $12-billion defense supplement for fiscal 1967, but the 1968 budget was supposed to cover all anticipated war spending as well as most other military needs.

The President said McNamara had been ordered to "conduct a searching review of all defense expenditures and to withhold all such expenditures that are not now essential for national security."

Defense officials already are in the process of cutting back on fighter-aircraft purchases. They say this is possible because of a lower-than-expected rate of losses over North Vietnam.

The level of U.S. forces in Vietnam now stands officially at 454,000 after a 7,000-man "statistical adjustment" by the Pentagon Thursday.

The Pentagon said most of the 45,000 new troops will be Army. No Reserve callup is expected, the Pentagon said.

Evidence Is Sifted In Murder Case

KETCHUM — All scraps of evidence which have been gathered in the fatal shooting of a Ketchum construction worker at Boundary campgrounds Tuesday night are being studied by Blaine county sheriff's officers and Sun Valley special agents.

Sheriff Orville Drexler said they are checking the most likely leads into the murder of Glen A. Coppinger, 38, Boise-Cascade Co., employe who was working on construction of pre-fabricated houses in the Sun Valley area, but all the leads are very "slim."

Tax Pinch Will Be Felt Soon If New Program Is Enacted

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — If Congress enacts President Johnson's tax program, Americans will begin feeling the pinch of higher taxes with their first paychecks after Oct. 1.

Although new tax tables have yet to be drafted, Treasury Department officials say the average taxpayer can expect his withholding to increase by 10 per cent to reflect the proposed boost.

Congress, however, must make the final decision on any tax increase and its effective date.

But if the program recommended by Johnson is adopted, a worker who has $40 deducted from his paycheck for federal income taxes every two weeks can expect Uncle Sam to take $44, for example.

Johnson said for most Americans the surcharge should range from a few cents to about $9 extra a month.

About 16 million taxpayers in the lowest brackets would be exempt.

A surcharge actually is a tax on a tax. It's levied not on a person's basic salary but on the tax he pays.

If, for example, a person would pay $800 in taxes this year under present rates, his extra taxes for a full year under the surcharge would be $80. But since the surcharge wouldn't take effect until Oct. 1, he would pay for only one-fourth a year — or $20 — for 1967.

The same result as a 10 per cent surcharge could be obtained if basic tax rates are hiked 10 per cent. But officials said the temporary nature of the proposal then would be lost and it would be harder to administer.

A tax rate of 19 per cent, for example, would translate to 20.9 per cent under a 10 per cent basic rate change.

Arabs Hope For Summit Conference

By The Associated Press
A shotgun blast from a car occupied by white youths at a sheriff and a group of Negro youths touched off a noisy demonstration in Wichita, Kan., early today, marring a night of relative calm in the nation's streets.

Mr. Nance said he and his wife were having a fish fry at a Forest Service camp up Trail Creek with Mr. and Mrs. Tom Gibbons, Mrs. Wilma Hulett and Mr. and Mrs. Dave Nance, all Ketchum. They noticed the station wagon going back and forth on the road six or seven times.

The driver was going quite slowly, Mr. Nance said, and he said he and his friends mentioned that the driver may have been watching their group and they had laughingly said, "Perhaps he can spell the fish."

The group left the site about 9:45 p.m. and the shooting at the Coppinger trailer occurred at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Demonstration Is Started In Wichita

Wyandanch, N.Y., a predominantly Negro community on Long Island, endured a third night of scattered disorders. Police arrested nine youths after cars were hit by stones and bottles.

But in the rest of the nation the tide of violence continued to ebb. Milwaukee's curfew was eased, and the police chief in Providence, R.I., said he thought the racial violence there was "over for this year."

Wichita Sheriff Vern Miller was talking to a group of Negro youths in the city's predominantly Negro northeastern section when a shotgun blast was fired from a car occupied by white youths. Miller and four Negroes were struck by pellets, but none was seriously injured.

Miller pursued the white youths across Wichita at speeds reaching 110 miles an hour, but lost them at a railroad crossing.

Later, 20 to 25 young Negroes demonstrated outside the hospital where the injured were treated, and still later a group of about 70 demonstrated outside police headquarters over the arrest of a Negro alleged to have assaulted three whites.

Police in both Milwaukee and Providence still enforced nighttime curfews, but travel bans were eased in the Wisconsin city and Mayor Henry Matz said the curfew would be reinstated at midnight tonight instead of 9 p.m.

In Providence, Mayor Joseph A. Doorley Jr. said he would make day-to-day decisions on retaining a "selective" curfew in South Providence, troubled by several nights of disorder.

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Wooden forms for a new highway bridge collapsed today as they were being filled, pouring tons of concrete over workers caught beneath.

Nineteen men were rushed to hospitals. Several of them were reported injured severely as concrete rolled over them. Four were treated and released.

Three of the injured were state highway inspectors.

The bridge is at 103rd and Grandview Roads, in the southeast part of the city and is part of the Interstate 435 route which will circle the city.

Walter Raugh, who suffered minor injuries, said "there was a loud pop" and the framework came down. He said all but one of the spans collapsed. He said there was no difficulty in extricating the victims.

Won't Attend

FARRAGUT STATE PARK, Idaho (AP) — President Johnson will not attend the Boy Scout World Jamboree here, scout officials said Thursday.

They said official word from the White House received Thursday listed the international situation and the President's heavy schedule as prime reasons for turning down the invitation to visit the jamboree in north Idaho.

Scout officials said however, they will continue to keep in contact with the White House in an effort to change the President's mind.

Officials said no decision had been made on possibly seeking a visit by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey or others if they are unsuccessful in efforts to attract the Presidential visit.

Aortic Valve Is Replaced In Man

NEW YORK (AP) — A 33-year-old man was reported on the road to recovery after an operation replacing his damaged aortic valve with the valve of a calf.

The open-heart surgery, disclosed Thursday by the New York Medical College, was performed July 7 at Flower-Fifth Avenue Hospital. The man, not identified, was reported recovering in his Astoria, Queens, home.

The four-hour operation was performed by Drs. Sheldon Burman and Ciro Artimelli of the medical school.

Plans Are Final For CSI Groundbreaking

A brief verbal history of the College of Southern Idaho and an examination of where it stands today will be the two-fold topic of Dr. James L. Taylor, college president, during his address at groundbreaking ceremonies for the institution's first buildings Saturday.

The event begins at 10 a.m. at the site of what will be the Fine Arts Building, which is scheduled for occupancy within 400 days after the start of construction.

The public is urged to attend the ceremony, which symbolizes the beginning of a step that will take the two-year-old college into its first buildings.

Master of ceremonies will be Joe D. McCollum, member of the State Board of Regents and the State Board of Education. The dedicatory prayer will be offered by Rev. John Garbrandt, pastor of the Jerome Methodist Church and a member of the college board.

The actual groundbreaking will be done by Eldon Evans, chairman of the college board. Expected to be present at the groundbreaking are representatives of the three contracting firms.

Percy Says He Is Not Running

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., said he will not be a candidate for either president or vice president in 1968.

Percy was asked about his interest in the forthcoming national election in an interview for ABC News special, "Who in '68?" taped for showing Aug. 17.

"No," he said, "I think my job should be to stay right on the Senate floor, to work right in that job, and I would not be a candidate for either national office."

Fire Controlled

ROGERSON — U. S. Bureau of Land Management firefighters controlled a five-acre sagebrush fire Thursday afternoon in Southwest Idaho, about 25 miles west of Rogerson.

The blaze, the 31st grass and brush fire of the season, was discovered late in the afternoon and controlled by about 8 p.m. by 10 men, including an aerial attack unit and the Jarlidge unit, the BLM said.

Parade Opens Lincoln 4-H Fair

SHOSHONE — The Lincoln county 4-H fair opened Friday morning under cloudy skies with a parade at 10:30 a.m., consisting mostly of children. The Lincoln-Eltes had a large float which won a prize, and there also were vehicles and horses.

At the commodity building there are 15 business and commodity resource booths, with food, 4-H and women's department entries. Fair officials said while the number of displays this year is good, the flowers are only average.

Judging will be done Friday afternoon in the flower show, sponsored by the Shoshone Civic Club, with a grand prize to be given for both children and adult divisions.

There are food and novelty booths and pony rides in connection with the fair, but no carnival. The tractor driving contest was followed by street sports at 12:30 p.m. and the 4-H and FFA sitting and showing contest.

Other activities Friday included a Peeewe baseball tournament at 4 p.m. and the Peeewe rodeo at 7:30 p.m.

Winners in the comic division of the parade were Ross Borden, Kathy Churchman and Kennle Churchman, Mike Anderson and DeAnn Sorenson; novelty — Tammy Bergin, Cindy Bergin, Kenneth Hough, Tania Carrasco. See PARADE, Pg. 2, Col. 8.

BOISE (AP)—An Idaho Legislative Council committee reviewed today proposed changes in election laws, including one to eliminate registration of voters. Also proposed was a shift in the date of the primary election from the first Tuesday in August to the first Saturday after the first Monday in September. The committee was set up by the 1967 Legislature and instructed to have its report ready by Dec. 1, this year. That would permit changes in election law prior to the 1968 election, if a special session were called.

Destruction Of Property Is Charged

BUHL—Following an investigation Tuesday and Wednesday by Jim Loyder, acting Buhl police chief, and Roy Lappay, Buhl police officer, six Buhl youths between the ages of 12 and 15 were charged with destruction of private and public property.

The six boys will be charged with acts of vandalism which occurred between 11:30 p.m. Monday and 1 a.m. Tuesday. Primary damage was done at the local baseball park, Paris Field, where the youths tipped over a portable dugout used for Little League baseball, damaged sections of the bleachers, tore down a section of fence, destroyed a waste container, and filled the public toilets with rocks and heavy paper.

Damage to private property includes the pulling up of flowers at a resident at 800 Poplar street, damaging the cross on the Lutheran school property, moving a trailer from the owner's yard to that of a neighbor, and dumping a number of garbage cans and trash containers in alleyways.

State Police Attacked For Riot Action

NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Charging that state police "acted like Nazi storm troopers" during Newark's riots, the head of the city's antipoverty agency has joined a colleague in advocating that Negroes arm themselves for self defense.

Timothy Still, president of the United Community Corp., said Thursday, "I think that the philosophy of this country is that every man should be able to protect his home and family."

Still, a Negro, joined Willie Wright a UCC director, in advocating that Negroes arm themselves.

The Office of Economic Opportunity, which funds UCC, had asked that Wright be suspended pending investigation of his statements.

Wright had said he would shoot at state police and National Guardsmen who searched homes in riot-torn Plainfield recently for 46 stolen rifles. The searchers, acting under a declaration of emergency, did not have search warrants.

Enrollment Grows For College

MAGIC VALLEY CHRISTIAN COLLEGE, Albion — Continued steady growth is reported at Magic Valley Christian College with the enrollment figure for this fall expected to be more than 100 students. The 1967-68 fall trimester will begin Aug. 28. College officials are optimistic of another double enrollment, for the third straight year. Last year enrollment rose to 73, twice that of 1965-66. The enrollment picture for future years may surpass all expectations due to increased student interest fostered by the college's recruiting program, reports Dr. Donald Neilson, president. Last summer a male quartet visited summer camps in the western states to contact prospective students. This summer a ladies' quartet is traveling under direction of Jerry McBee, admissions director, to be with summer campers. McBee reports an unprecedented group of hopefuls for 1968.

President Neilson and Fred Waddell, dean of faculty, have been active in securing the necessary additional staff and faculty needed for the increased enrollment. Faculty members have been or will be added to teach in the fields of English, physical education, business, Bible and home economics. In addition to increased enrollment, the college is having success in its current capital funds campaign, "The Big Step Forward." With much of Idaho solicitation complete, pledges for a three-year period are now running more than $50,000. A total of $250,000 is being sought in pledges for the next three years.

The campaign is now ready to be presented to other states. Regional meetings will be set up to explain the operation of the campaign and to secure leadership and workers.

Applicants for enrollment at MVCC this fall are reminded that application forms and file information should now be in

Soviet Boat Picked Up For Offense

JUNEAU, Alaska (AP)—A Soviet trawler, seized last March for violating the 12-mile exclusive fisheries zone off the Alaska coast, was picked up for the same offense Thursday, the Coast Guard reported.

The STRM 8-457, a 180-foot refrigerator vessel, was seized by the Coast Guard cutter Avoyel 10 miles north of Akutan Island in the Aleutians and taken under tow for Dutch Harbor.

"I am urging confiscation of this Russian trawler," Gov. Walter Hickel said.

The seizure was the third of a Soviet vessel in Alaskan waters in the past year. When the STRM 8-457 was taken off Seal Cape in March she was captured by Lt. Cmdr M. Koshchenko, who was fined $10,000. It is not known who her skipper is now.

Applicants for enrollment at the Admissions Office. Applications will be accepted through Aug. 28.

Newsman Are Ordered To Leave Congo

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)—The Congolese government today ordered all correspondents and photographers of The Associated Press to leave the Congo within 48 hours.

A similar measure was announced against all representatives of the British news agency Reuters.

Information Minister Jean Jacques Kande said the decision was taken by President Joseph D. Mobutu personally.

of The Associated Press the AP men were being expelled because AP stories had "speculated about Russian planes which are bringing Tshombe to The Congo and the route they are supposed to take, by way of Cairo." Ex-Premier Moise Tshombe, under arrest in Algeria, faces a death sentence here. Kande said the government also objected to an AP report from Brazzaville, Congo, three weeks ago quoting Congolese Interior Minister Etienne Tshisekedi as saying some white residents had been killed and eaten by undisciplined troops in Kanda Kande told Michael Goldsmith's tanga.

Rural Name Signs

It was only a few days ago that the Times-News advocated the restoration of all those "name posts" which were used to indicate who lived down thataway on rural and near-rural roads.

WASHINGTON—It is a tragic thing, but the Justice Department would seem to have no alternative but to prosecute under the Trading with the Enemy Act a group of Quakers who have insisted on sending medical supplies to North Vietnam.

—the Quakers have given both "aid and comfort" to the nation's enemies. War is necessarily a brutal business and its successful prosecution also depends on depriving the enemy of those supplies which would mend the wounded so they can fight another day and kill more Americans.

New Mecca

In fact, the United States has continued in a state of emergency since Dec. 16, 1950, when President Truman proclaimed it during the Korean War.

Indeed, there is an uglier word for what these Quakers have done. It is spelled treason, and it is defined in Article 3 of the Constitution: "Treason against the United States shall consist only in levying war against them, or in adhering to their enemies, giving them aid and comfort."

It is not sufficient for the Quakers to depose that they have no wish to levy war against the United States. As a matter of fact, their argument that their intention is only to help the suffering is valid, given the Quaker record over the years.

In sending medical supplies to North Vietnam — incidentally, without a government license

BRUCE BLOSSAT The Negroes Err

WASHINGTON (NEA) — One of the great misfortunes of the time is the fact that the Negro struggle has come to crisis in the Great Age of the Excuse.

A substantial proportion of the American population, white and black, has grown up in an era of permissiveness. Explanations of behavior, which make it more understandable, are offered as justifications, which are intended to make it tolerable, whether it is good or bad.

Having the greatest excuse of all, 100 years of neglect, deprivation and humiliation, the American Negro is irresistibly tempted to exploit the mood of the time to the fullest.

It is widely accepted in this country that he needs to have redressed an economic and social balance that long has been tilted against him. How to do this is, in fact, the great root problem of the domestic American scene today.

But the history that is being written in the riotous streets of American cities suggests that many Negroes want not balance but overbalance, not freedom but license, not justice but exemption from it.

If their violent response is to be taken as a measure, they seem to want no Negro arrested for anything, no matter how serious or how genuine the offense.

It is not enough to say that the law sometimes works against the Negro and police are sometimes brutal. Are we then to have no law and no police force?

In their sweeping rebellion against the injustice that harms them, they move swiftly past justice to embrace injustice that harms others. Their fury may be understandable but it is not tolerable.

When a white man snipes at innocent people from a vantage point above the street, the act is properly deemed criminal and cowardly. It is no less so when done by a Negro. Nor is there anything but cowardice in the wanton assault, in city after city, on unarmed firemen trying to put out blazes set by arsonists.

No economic deprivation, no social unfairness makes such acts tolerable. Militant Negroes who either condone such behavior or actually incite it leave crucially ambiguous what law they would observe and what policeman, if any, they would obey.

Nor will it do, as Martin Luther King suggested in Chicago last summer after Negro housing marches stirred resentment among white residents, to urge that there is something remedial and cleansing in allowing hatreds to boil to the surface.

Strong passions and prejudices course through us all. To the extent that a free society works, it works because men use the crowning power of their minds and wills to suppress hatreds and discover a means of fruitful common action.

At this terribly painful juncture in our history, we may all acknowledge that many whites hate Negroes — and many Negroes hate whites.

But before many years there will be upwards of 250 million white Americans and some 30 million black Americans. They cannot obliterate each other. They can find nothing but deep, mutual suffering in open warfare, in facing each other in permanent siege, in trying to cordon each other off in pointless, profitless isolation.

There can be no more critical irony than this, that just when the white community — under pressure of law and altered times — is moving slowly to reduce the racial barriers, Negro militants impatient for the millennium this week are frantically raising new walls of their own.

But they have not the resources to build a separate world behind their walls. And they will not press the resourceful white world to needed urgency by lashing out at it in destructive, self-defeating rage.

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D. The Gall Bladder

The Harmony Path

Israel scored a "major breakthrough" in the Middle East war, says Dr. Werner Cahnman, professor of sociology at Rutgers College of Arts and Sciences in Newark.

The breakthrough he means was not in the desert, however, but in German-Jewish relations.

Just returned from several weeks in West Germany, Cahnman had extensive contacts with young Germans from all walks of life. The most striking thing he found was the difference in attitude between younger Germans and those from 35 to 50.

"The older generation still discusses Jews as a race or a religion," he says, "but the young people think of Jews chiefly as individuals. . . . Jews are also thought of as the people who founded the State of Israel."

The Mideast war was a breakthrough, he explains, because it gave German youths an opportunity to express support of Israel.

As chairman of the American Committee for Dachau, Cahnman also checked on the progress of a monument under construction at the notorious concentration camp where 34,000 Jews and others perished at the hands of an older generation.

He rejects the notion that today's young Germans should be burdened with guilt over the persecution of the Jews, although he emphasizes that "they cannot escape responsibility for history."

This attitude was summed up by one young German who told him, "If I belong to the people of Goethe and Schiller, I belong to the people of Hitler."

Cahnman now plans, with the support of the German government, to set up an organization to bring young American Jews to Germany to engage in constructive dialogue with German young people.

One wonders if it will take another generation before Arabs can engage in constructive dialogue with Jews — or, for that matter, before white men can sit down with black men in the professor's home city of Newark.

BARRY GOLDWATER Riots: Acts Of Urban Warfare

There is urgent need to reorient our thinking in regard to the riots that are sweeping the nation: killing, looting and rampaging that has hit every sort of community from metropolitan centers to rural townships.

It is no longer sufficient, or even decently moral, to view them only as the understandable result of civil frustrations and injustice.

Certainly such factors are involved in the environmental background of the riots. Certainly these are factors that men of good will shall continue trying to alleviate.

But the time is now past due to put such factors into sharp and proper perspective — which is to put those factors into the background and view these horrible riots as exactly what, in unvarnished truth, they are.

They are acts of urban guerrilla warfare. They are violence unredeemed, by reason of any sort. They are sheer demonstrations of terror, by terrorists, thugs, bullies and thieves banded together into the single cause of chaos.

There isn't even the trace of a civil rights tinge left to these acts of urban guerrilla warfare. Those who attempt to portray them as civil rights demonstrations gone astray do the gravest sort of injustice to the cause they profess to espouse. They do an equal injustice to common, ordinary honesty and common sense.

No one can look at the wreckage of Detroit and Newark, or Waterloo, Iowa, or wherever else the flames have burned, and see even a casual trace of rights, civil or otherwise, in the smoke.

If we do not face these hard facts we cannot face the future itself with any confidence. Instead we will be able to look forward only to more of the violent same.

Those who now remain silent in this matter actually are loudly encouraging the most lawless elements of our society to continue to wage war on the rest of the nation.

As a tragic example of that silence, you need look no farther than the strongest statement made by the President of the United States prior to the time that Detroit went up in flames. The President's strongest statement to that time was only that no one could "condone or approve" rioting.

Condone or approve is weak talk indeed for what has been going on! Rather, the President of the United States has long been derelict in not flatly, absolutely, without mincing any words or fearing any images, condemning rioting out of hand — and out of his heart.

When a looter, fire-bomber or sniper takes to the streets, henceforth, he should know that he takes the street for exactly what he is — a criminal. He must know that there will be no sympathy or sentiment to cloud the view of his outrages. He must know that he is at war not with "social frustrations" but that he is at war with the people of the United States.

He must know that he is doing in this country nothing less than what the Viet Cong terrorists have been doing in South Vietnam.

Also, our law enforcement departments, in every city, large or small, should have the fullest assurance that when faced by civil insurrection, or urban guerrilla warfare, that they have the firm backing of the rest of us to fight back and fight back hard to restore peace and punish the guilty, even as they bear in mind, also their solemn injunction always to protect the innocent as they go about this tough, demanding, dangerous job.

Let us, above all, drop immediately the word racial from descriptions of the urban guerrilla warfare that has broken out. These are not race riots and the majority of Negro Americans have every right to feel deeply offended — when they are so described.

This is war. This is crime. This is murder, theft and arson. It is not racial. It involves no rights — except those of the innocent whose homes and stores are burned, whose children are threatened, whose lives are snuffed out.

This is war. It is domestic aggression. The task of law-abiding Americans now is clearly to defend themselves against it — and to win it.

MR. SPECTATOR You Fly Through The Air

Want the thrill of your life? Want to do something that sort of gets you and stays with you?

Then drive that old auto of yours toward the downtown section, making your approach on the north side of Shoshone Street. The thrill of thrills will come as you cross the intersection of Shoshone St. North and Fourth Avenue North on the inside lane.

Of course, there is no fun if you hit the section when the red light is on and you have to stop. This spoils the effect because it is much more noticeable — and appreciated — if you skim through at speeds ranging from 20 to 25 miles an hour.

If you hit it over the speed limit (others tell us) the thrill is even more worthwhile but we will never advocate exceeding the speed limit just for a thrill.

Now, you are wondering, what is this thing that causes the thrill? Well, it is a big hump in the intersection right at that particular spot.

It sort of drifts in from the western side and bleeds off toward the east. Hitting it while traveling south from the north direction (are you confused by now?) it will flip your auto gaily into the air, stretching out the springs so when you hit the pavement both you and the car get back to earth with a big thump.

Actually, there should be a monument at the spot. Not for the people who travel over it day through weary day and thus test the holding power of seat belts, but for the engineering genius who figured out the blimp in the first place.

It wasn't easy to do it. It must have taken hours of concentration and much soul wrestling before just the right rise was arrived at.

Dumps like that don't just happen. They are the product of a trained mind — somewhere along the line, that is. But just think how dull life would be in Twin Falls if there were not things like this to serve as a diversion.

PAUL HARVEY Is It A License To Steal?

During the ugliest hours of Detroit's July riots a Negro factory worker sat on his front steps listening to the gunfire from Twelfth Street. "That's not civil rights," he said. "That's not racial; that's just people who want something for nothing. They just want to steal."

He was right of course. Even President Johnson, reluctantly and tardily ordering troops into the city, said, "Pillage and looting have nothing to do with civil rights."

Yet is it not two generations of free handouts by Big Government which whetted this public appetite for "something for nothing"?

In Detroit, frenzied mobs invaded private property and took what they wanted.

For 30 years our Government has been a Robin Hood, taking by force from the rich to give to the poor. Is it any wonder the progeny of that philosophy feel licensed to steal?

To the infantile intellect there is no difference between "soak-

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D. The Gall Bladder

Q—I have an overactive gall bladder. Can you advise me what to eat and what not to eat?

A—The only way in which a gall bladder can be overactive is for it to empty more rapidly than normal. This is not a disease and would have no adverse effect on your health. No special diet would be required.

Q—I am a woman, 40, and have had attacks of severe pain in my gall bladder area for 15 years. They are becoming more frequent. X-rays do not show any stones. I weigh only 95 pounds and find it hard to gain weight on a fat-free diet. My doctor says my gall bladder is working properly and he has no explanation for my pain. What would you suggest?

A—All pains in the gall bladder region do not originate in the gall bladder. At this distance I can't make a positive diagnosis but I have seen many a woman who blamed her abdominal pains on her gall bladder when the cause was an irritable colon.

Unless you are allergic to milk and milk products you should find margarine and butter easier to digest than the fat in meat, fish and fowl. Keep your stools firm by avoiding laxatives and an excess of vegetable and fruit. Try a little forced feeding for a few weeks.

Q—An X-ray examination showed that I have a diverticulum of my esophagus. It doesn't bother me much except the last mouthful of food seems to stick in my throat. My doctor says it should be removed. What do you think? Will it become cancerous?

A—Small outpouchings in the esophagus are often an incidental finding when a person has an X-ray examination of the stomach. If they are small and cause no symptoms, no operation is necessary. They do not tend to become cancerous. If they are large enough to prevent the food swallowed from reaching the stomach they should be removed.

Chairman of the Crusade Executive Committee is Mr. Norman Garlington, assisted by Rev. Robert Cooper, vice chairman; Mr. Chet Bartlett, secretary; and Mr. Howard Burkhardt, treasurer. In addition to the Crusade Team, a Crusade Choir, composed of more than 200 singers from area churches will perform. Music Chairman Rev. Glen Parish announces that additional choir members still are needed. Rehearsal will be held at 6 p.m. Saturday at the High School stadium. About 100 men from area congregations will serve as ushers, directed by Bill Boyd and five captains. Rev. He announces that tickets are not needed to gain admission to the Crusade, but are used by groups to reserve seating. Offerings will be taken at all sessions. Youth Night will be held each Tuesday and Saturday during the two-week Crusade, according to Rev. Fred Stiles, chairman of the Youth Committee. Following each Crusade meeting, a Follow-Up Office, under the direction of Rev. Don McBride, will provide literature and sufficient contact with people who respond to the Crusade. A Field Work Committee, headed by Vaughn Nemnich and Robert Sievers, has been appointed to handle arrangements for activities of the Crusade Team in civic and community groups. Other chairmen include Capt. George Driver, arrangements, and Mr. Dale Krumm, finance.

A Billy Graham Evangelistic Crusade is a united effort made by Christians in a specific community or area to bring the Gospel of Jesus Christ to the attention of each person in that area. The usual length of a Crusade is from one to three weeks and this decision is arrived at by Billy Graham after consultation and consideration of many factors. He has discovered that shorter Crusades allow him to schedule more Crusades, and in this way, he will ultimately reach more people. Average length of a Crusade is about 10 days. The invitation of a Billy Graham Crusade ordinarily begins with a ministerial association or similar organization cooperating with other religious groups and with churches representing several nominations and groups. The invitation usually is extended 18 months to two years in advance. The decision of whether or not to accept an invitation for a Crusade is always preceded by prayer and consultation. Mr. Graham discusses the situation thoroughly with members of his Evangelistic Team and other Trusted advisers; however, the final decision is always made by Mr. Graham. A Crusade and a rally are the same in purpose, which is to persuade people to accept Jesus Christ as Savior and Lord, and the basic principles of their procedures are the same. However, a Crusade is a more massive effort which lasts longer, and has a greater potential impact on a community than does a rally. A Crusade of less than a week's duration is usually known as a rally. The amount of the cost of a Crusade varies with each location and situation, but the total operations budget is always determined by the Executive Committee in cooperation with members of the Billy Graham organization; it covers actual operational costs during the preparation period, the weeks of the Crusade and the Follow-Up. All money to meet budget requirements is to be raised by the local Crusade Committee, and disbursed by it. No money goes to Billy Graham as salary, honorarium or gift. The largest single source of Crusade income is the offerings during the meetings. About one-half of the budgeted amount is estimated to come from the offerings, while the other half will come from individuals and organizations sympathetic to the Crusade purposes. Any surplus is designated to the Billy Graham Evangelistic Association to assist in any number of their world-wide sponsorships of radio, television and Crusade Evangelism. Outward effects of a Crusade are seen in the strengthening of the churches in the community, and the awareness of people that the Christian message is as vital and relevant today as when it was first proclaimed. The Follow-Up is a specific process in which a person makes a "decision for Christ." That person is then brought into close contact with a trained counselor who is always of the same sex as the inquirer. The counselor attempts to help him by discussing his problem with him, and committing the entire matter to God through prayer. After this, an experienced adviser checks with the counselor to see if the personal needs of the inquirer have been met. Within 24 hours, the pastor of a church chosen by the inquirer receives a copy of the inquirer's "decision card," accompanied by a letter requesting the pastor to make immediate contact with the inquirer. Then the pastor returns a postage paid card to the Crusade office indicating that he has made contact with that person, and is attempting to bring him into the work and fellowship of the local church. The counselor also contacts the inquirer, either by telephone or in person, to see if he has further needs or problems. The two-week Crusade meetings are open to all who wish to attend.

Vacation Bible School Planned
RICHFIELD—Richfield Vacation Bible school will be held for one week starting Aug. 14. Plans are under way for an afternoon session for children age 4 years through the sixth grade. All community children are welcome. Exact time and class themes will be announced by Mrs. C. M. Pridmore, church school supervisor of the Richfield Methodist Church where the Bible school will be held.

Ketchum Girl Writes Of Europe Tour
KETCHUM—Barbara Schwartz, daughter of Mrs. Ray Kinkade and a 1967 graduate of Wood River High School, writes from Rome, Italy, that she will sail Aug. 8 for New York City, where she will visit Andrea Frazier before returning home. Miss Schwartz is one of some 30 girls who left June 24 on a "Language Tour" of Europe, where she has been studying French. The group was chaperoned by Mrs. Helen Farrer, Boise. They attended the Ecole Normale in Versailles, where, Miss Schwartz said, the girls' dormitory is very modern and houses four girls to a room. She said the climate at Versailles is much the same as at Ketchum—warm during the day and cool at night. "I cannot describe the beauty of the Palace of Versailles," she said. "We were allowed to take pictures outside, but could not take any inside, because it might affect the color of the paintings." The parade, folk dancers and fireworks of La Fete Nait (The Night Festival) and the continuous night and day dancing for Bastille Day especially intrigued her. In Switzerland it was a 25-minute walk from the girls' lodging place to their school. "The walking up and down 4,200-foot hills caused some of the girls to have difficulty breathing," she noted. "The scenery here is beautiful beyond my power of description, and the people are so kind and courteous." Miss Schwartz was elected student council representative of her group.

NO SERVICES
FAIRFIELD—There will be no Sunday evening service this week at the Community Church. Rev. James Post urges the congregation to attend the Billy Graham Evangelistic Crusade to be held in Twin Falls at 8 p.m. Sunday. ## GMC Serves Notice On Auto Workers

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. has served notice on the United Auto Workers that it wants changes in the cost-of-living formula in any new contract with the union.

The statement came Thursday when the company laid its 1967 bargaining demands on the negotiating table.

"The present cost-of-living arrangement has come to be taken for granted as extra increases over and above those provided for the vast majority of the nation's work force," the company said.

Current three-year pacts covering some 750,000 auto workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler expire Sept. 6.

Since 1964 UAW members have gained some 18 cents in hourly wage increases under the cost-of-living allowance, which adds or subtracts a penny an hour quarterly for each .4 of a point movement in the Bureau of Labor Statistics consumer price index. The average auto worker earns $3.41 hourly according to bureau figures.

Walter P. Reuther, UAW president, has insisted there can be no tampering with the cost-of-living plan, and has indicated that any attempt to alter the plan could provoke a strike.

Some Experts Nurse Hunch That Break In Vietnam War Coming

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Some experts on Southeast Asia are nursing a hunch that a break in the Vietnam war is coming—and that some sort of preliminary settlement may result.

Part of this thinking is based upon events in Red China and the impact these events have had on China's neighbors. Paris is based on evidence of Soviet interest in helping to bring about an end to the clash between American and Communist arms.

Frank N. Trager, professor of international affairs at New York University, says he feels a break in the war is in prospect. "In my view, the clash of regular armies could end in Vietnam during this calendar year. I expect some sort of settlement in 1967 or early 1968," he writes in the American Legion magazine.

Trager, just back from Vietnam and other points in Southeast Asia, adds that this would not mean an end to conflict. He says there could be a settlement of sorts with the basic U.S. goal, independence for South Vietnam, achieved, but that "we will clearly have to stay in Southeast Asia in some force—both military and civilian—for a good long time."

The U.S. civilian commitment to South Vietnam is a long-range one to build the economy of the country and secure its future as much as possible. The military situation, Trager feels, would be a complex one. It would involve pacification of the Viet Cong guerrillas, which could take years after the fighting between regular armies ended.

Other Southeast Asia specialists assert the U.S. stand in South Vietnam has strengthened the will of other nations in the area to resist Communist incursions. Today, Red China is exerting formidable pressure on virtually all her neighbors to the south: India, Burma, Thailand, Indonesia and others. Peking has picked quarrels with all of them, and eventually may have succeeded in pushing them together in self-defense.

China's policy, probably dictated by its internal problems attendant upon the purge called "the cultural revolution," has had a boomerang effect. Nations which wanted to stay neutral, such as Burma, have been frightened by the blatant hostility coming from Peking and deliberate attempts to interfere in internal affairs. China's attitude, indeed, can strengthen the unity of other Asians in such enterprises as the Association of Southeast Asia.

These nations are interested in some sort of Asian solution to Vietnam, possibly within the framework of the 1954 Geneva accord but arrived at this time on Asian soil.

Moscow's interest in averting dangerous pressures in Asia also inspired in part by China's reluctance—leads hope to those who feel they may be some light at the end of the dark tunnel that is Vietnam. China's frightening posture can have its effect on North Vietnam as well as on other Southeast Asians, and in such circumstances, Moscow's influence could carry much more weight.

PORTLAND (AP)—President Johnson will come out with a policy of de-escalating the war in Vietnam, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., predicted Thursday.

Oregon's senior senator, a loud critic of the current Vietnam policy, said he expects the President to de-escalate long before the 1968 convention.

Rupert Bethel No. 39 Has Special Installation Meet.

RUPERT—The installation of officers for Rupert Bethel No. 39, International Order of Job's Daughters, was held at a special afternoon meeting at the Rupert Masonic Temple, with a large crowd in attendance.

Escorts for the evening were members of DeMolay, Mount Harrison Chapter. Mrs. Bynum Williams, guardian of the Bethel, opened the special meeting and welcomed those who attended after she and Mr. Williams, associate guardian, were escorted into the room.

Mistress of ceremonies Mrs. Olga Lish, past grand guardian of Idaho, was escorted to the east, and she was followed by the choir and the honored queen, Mary Rush, who was escorted to her station in the east.

Installed were Judy Lindstrom, honored queen; Joan Toews, senior princess; Mary Isaac, junior princess; Jennifer Creason, guide; Elsie Linard, marshal; Chris Somsen, chaplain; Debbie Williams, treasurer; Judy Merkey, recorder; Gail Stoller, musician; Cindy Isaac, librarian; Linda Honsinger, first messenger; Linda Stoller, second messenger; Terry Cook, third messenger; Marsha Wiley, fourth messenger; Norma Icenbice, fifth messenger; Christine Isaac, outer guard; Nancy Barton, inner guard; Susan Sullivan, senior custodian, and Debra Barton, junior custodian.

The rose installation ceremony was selected by Miss Lindstrom. A large decorated and electrified cross stood in the east.

As Mrs. Lish read the ceremony to the background of piano music played by Mrs. Charles Lehrman, installing musician, each of the five new line officers were escorted into the Bethel room. Miss Lindstrom was escorted by her brother, Russell Lindstrom, a DeMolay officer. The rest of the Bethel officers marched in from the north and south entrances behind the line officers.

The lights were dimmed as Mrs. Lish read the ceremony of installation for each officer, while the installing guide and marshal escorted each behind the altar where she was installed. She was then escorted to the cross by the guide and marshal, where she placed a rose which she carried. Each rose lit up as it was placed on the cross.

The honored queen-elect was the last to be installed and she was escorted to the altar where she knelt to receive installation from Miss Rush, presiding honored queen.

The new honored queen introduced her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lindstrom, and requested that they be escorted to the east. Other family members were introduced.

Installing officers were Miss Rush, honored queen; Carol Gibson, guide; Dianna McGill, marshal; Katie Hollenbeck, chaplain; and Ann Rush, recorder. All are past honored queens.

DeMolay escorts were Lindstrom, Ralph, Ingram, Wayne

Ingram, Lynn Stoller and Gary Noriyuki.

Also introduced were Mrs. Edwin Miller, past guardian; Patricia Robertson and Ronda Harney, junior and senior princesses of Bethel No. 18, Burley, and Dale Stoller, officer of the Royal Arch, Rupert.

Miss Anderson, Perkins Wed In Temple Rites

Marilyn Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dean S. Anderson, Oklahoma City, Okla., became the bride of Curtis Neal Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Neal H. Perkins, Jerome, in rites solemnized July 7 at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple.

The double ring ceremony was performed by President Roy Wood. After the temple ceremony the bride's parents hosted a wedding dinner at the Westbank Restaurant, Idaho Falls.

The couple was honored at a reception that evening at the Gooding Stakehouse.

They greeted guests beneath a white wrought iron archway entwined with greenery and pink gladioli. Beauty baskets of pink gladioli flanked the reception line and arrangements of summer flowers decorated the Cultural Hall.

The bride wore a gown of peau de soie, fashioned with long sleeves and a square neckline. The bodice was enhanced with an overlay of Chantilly lace. The chapel-length peau de soie train was attached to the empire waist. She made her own gown.

Her elbow-length veil of English silk illusion fell from an arrangement of organly loops accented with lace motifs and seed pearls.

She carried a white orchid surrounded by cascading pink rosebuds. The bride's jewelry was a cultured-pearl-drop necklace, a gift from the bridegroom.

Maid of honor was Myra Jean Anderson, Oklahoma City, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Neal Anderson, Burley, sister-in-law of the bride; Karen Perkins, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. W. C. Carr, Salt Lake City, sister of the bride, and Evelyn Stiborek, Las Vegas, Nev.

Stanley Grisham, Twin Falls, cousin of the bridegroom, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ford were reception hosts. Karla Perkins, sister of the bridegroom, was in charge of the guest book.

Gifts were received by Gwen Perkins, sister of the bridegroom, and Cindy Perkins, cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Herman Hall, Mrs. Stanley Grisham, Elizabeth Stiborek and Mrs. Darrell Brownlee displayed the gifts.

The three-tiered wedding cake was placed on a mirror on a round table covered with pink. It was topped with white wedding bells accented with a large tulle heart. White wedding bells topped the other tiers which were held by lattice columns. The base of the cake was encircled by Sprenger fern studded with pink gladioli blossoms.

The cake was served by Mrs. Duane Perkins, Boise, cousin of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Neil Grisham, aunt of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Clyde Hansen presided at the punch bowl.

Assisting were Mrs. Eldon Vawdrey, Mrs. R. L. Robison and Mrs. A. L. Shockley.

Guests were served at quarter tables covered with lace and centered with pink carnations in beauty baskets.

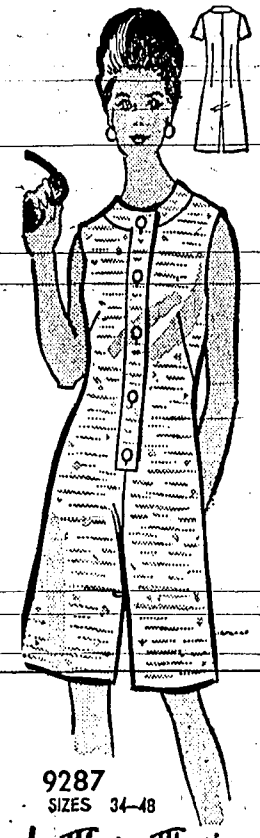

The couple took a wedding trip to Yellowstone National Park and Jackson, Wyo.

The couple reside in Jerome this summer but will return to Brigham Young University this fall.

Guests attended from Boise, Murtaugh, Twin Falls, Salt Lake City, Ogden, and Yuba City, Calif.

The bride was honored at two miscellaneous showers in Oklahoma City, one given by high school friends and the other by church friends.

Double Ring Wedding Rites Unite Couple

HUNT—The First United Presbyterian Church, Jerome, was the setting for the June 30 evening ceremony uniting in marriage Karen Lavon Abercrombie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John L. Abercrombie, Hunt, and Alfred Dale Skeen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Skeen, Challis.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Jack Jennings, Wendell, before an altar decorated with baskets of pink gladioli flanked by candelabra holding lighted tapers. Pink gladioli accented with deep rose streamers marked the dais.

Mrs. John Steile provided traditional wedding music and also accompanied the soloist, Keith Johansen.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length empire, A-Line gown of peau de soie and imported Chantilly lace. It featured a scalloped neckline which was decorated with seed pearls, and scalloped bell sleeves. The train was of the same material.

The bride's floor-length veil of illusion net was applied with lace medallions which matched the bodice of the gown. A tiara of white roses with petals outlined with seed pearls held her veil in place. The bride's dress, train and veil were designed by the bride and made by her mother.

Cascading pink carnations, surrounded by white net and pink petals and centered with a removable corsage of white roses with white streamers, formed her bridal bouquet.

Susan Abercrombie, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Barbara Ritchie, Jerome, and Linda Severance, Hazelton.

Richard Cutler, Challis, was best man. Earl Skeen, brother of the bridegroom, and Earl Crane, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, both Challis, were ushers.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony. Gail Wohlhausen, Hazelton, was in charge of the guest book. Nancy Abercrombie, Barnard, Kan., cousin of the bride; Cheryl Smith, Hazelton; and Dolores Carlton, Hazelton, assisted with the gifts.

The bride's table was covered with white and draped with gathered embroidered nylon over pink. The tiered wedding cake, decorated in pink and white, was topped with white satin bells and encircled with pink carnations and greenery.

White candles in crystal candleholders completed the table setting.

The cake was served by Mrs. L. A. Widrig, Kimberly, assisted by Mrs. Ed Carlton, Hazelton. Mrs. H. B. McCullough, Los Gatos, Calif., aunt of the bride, presided at the crystal punch bowl. Mrs. Leonard Heglund, Twin Falls, assisted. Members of the Presbyterian Woman's Society assisted with the reception.

Out-of-town guests attended from Kansas, California, Challis, Eden, Hazelton, Filer, Kimberly and Twin Falls.

The couple took a wedding trip to Stanley Basin. They will reside at Challis, where the bridegroom is employed by the forest service.

The bride was honored with a miscellaneous shower hosted by Mrs. Martin Wohlhausen, Mrs.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: Here is my problem: A young woman who lived across the hall from my husband and me came over for coffee. I asked my husband to go to the doughnut shop for something to go with coffee. This neighbor asked him if he could go along for the ride. (Two blocks away).

Coffee was made, and the time passed. I was going out of my mind wondering what had happened to them. If they'd had a smushup I would have heard the ambulance.

Two hours later they came back. He had lipstick on his mouth, and her blouse was all wrinkled up. They said they had "car trouble." (They forgot the doughnuts.) She went home in a hurry, and my husband said the lipstick must have got on him when he took a few drags of her cigaret. Later he admitted they kissed a few times, but he said, "What can a guy do when a woman falls all over him?"

Abby, I am heartsick. This happened 16 years ago, and I can't forget it. He's been a good husband, father, and grandfather. We've moved four times since then, but I'm still tormented. Do you think he was unfaithful? TORMENTED

DEAR TORMENTED: Your husband's "unfaithfulness" probably began and ended with a few kisses and a lot of conversation. You can't forget by not dwelling on it. And that shouldn't be too difficult after 16 years of good married life.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have two pre-school children, and when we need a sitter we ask our neighbor's teen-age son.

Lately we have noticed the smell of cigaret smoke in our house when we come home. We are sure this boy has been smoking without his parents' permission or knowledge.

What should we do? Should we tell his folks, or just mind our own business? We hate to see a boy of his age take up smoking and get the habit. We also hate to lose the services of a handy sitter, which is probably what would happen if we told his folks and they cracked down on him. CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: Tell the boy you've been getting his smoke signals, and unless he is permitted to smoke in his own home, you don't want him smoking in yours.

Flood Intends To Catch Up To Help Cards

By JOE MOOSHL

CHICAGO (AP) — Curt Flood figures he's got a lot of catching up to do if the St. Louis Cardinals are going to win the National League pennant and the dandy center fielder is wasting no time.

Flood, who came off the disabled list last Friday, and teammate Lou Brock led a doubleheader assault against the Chicago Cubs Wednesday as the Cardinals recorded 4-2 and 7-1 victories to move 5½ games in front of the second-place Cubs.

Only 10 days ago the Cardinals and Cubs were tied for the league lead but St. Louis has since taken eight of nine games including five from the Cubs.

Flood has been a big factor in the surge and in the seven games he has played since recovering from an injured shoulder, he has collected 14 hits in 28 official at bats. He was a torrid 10-for-17 against the Cubs as the Cardinals won three of four.

"We got to win this thing and I've got a lot of catching up to do," said Flood, who has boosted his average 17 points to .321 since returning to the lineup.

"I feel we're going to win the pennant," he added, "but I guess that doesn't make me the author of a prophet now that we're 5 in front."

Brock banged out six hits in the doubleheader sweep.

Golden Era Of Yankees Still Glows As Names From Past Echo In Stadium

NEW YORK (NEA) — The New York Yankees, a team of the past, have not forgotten that era.

Yankee Stadium still is as much a tourist attraction as the Empire State Building or the Statue of Liberty.

The memories of Babe Ruth, Lou Gehrig and Joe DiMaggio are still alive as far as baseball fans are concerned.

With this in mind, the Yankees constructed a novel link with the past — a telephonic Hall of Fame.

All you have to do is pick up a phone and you're immediately connected, via recording, with the Yankee stars talking about their greatest thrills in baseball.

Or, you can hear famous moments in Yankee history.

The most frequently "called" Yankee is Mickey Vernon. Mickey has two phones, one for his greatest thrill and the other for a description of his 600th home run; "Here's Mantle, the shift is on, Watch it. That Mantle is like a tiger in a cage. He's trying to wait, but he just can't. Three balls, two strikes, a Mantle waits till Miller is ready. Here's the payoff pitch by Miller to Mantle. Swung on. There she goes. Home run! Mickey Mantle has hit the 600th home run and the score at the end of seven complete innings, New York 6, Baltimore 4."

Mantle has 9,474 calls. Babe Ruth has 7,135.

The Ruth recording revives memories of a very sad moment in Yankee history. It was 1948 when Babe made his farewell to baseball during a special day held in his honor. Babe was a sick man and his voice was barely audible over a public address system.

"... You know how bad my voice sounds, well it feels just as bad. ... There's been so many lovely things said about me and I'm glad that I've had the opportunity to thank everybody."

And there also is the oft-remembered day Lou Gehrig wept before 67,000, the day he, too, said goodbye to baseball.

"Today, I consider myself the luckiest man on the face of the earth. I might have been given a bad break, but I've got an awful lot to live for. Thank you."

Don Larsen's perfect game in the 1956 World Series is another favorite of the fans.

"Babe Plinell motions for some more baseballs from the bat boy. I'll guarantee that nobody, but nobody has left this ball park. And if somebody did manage to leave early, man he's missing the greatest. Two strikes and a ball, Mitchell waiting, stands deep, feet close together. Larsen is ready, gets the sign. Two strikes, ball one, here comes the pitch. Strike three. A no-hitter, a perfect game for Don Larsen. Yogi Berra runs out there and leaps for Larsen, and he's cheered by his teammates. Listen to that crowd roar."

And on it goes. Roger Maris' 61st home run. Joe DiMaggio; Charley Keller; Red Meusel; Casey Stengel; Bob Ruffing; Bill Dickey; Whitey Ford; Yogi Berra; Red Rolfe; Joe Page; Miller Huggins.

Names from a glorious past. And it seems like such a long time when you look at the American League standings.

Boston Boosts Pennant Hopes, Acquires Yanks' Elston Howard

NEW YORK (AP) — Elston Howard, the next-to-last playing survivor of Casey Stengel's highly-successful regime as manager of the New York Yankees, was traded to Boston Thursday in a move that could lift the Red Sox to their first American League pennant victory in 21 years.

In exchange for the 38-year-old catcher, winner of the circuit's Most Valuable Player award in 1963, the Yankees will receive cash representing the $20,000 waiver price and two young players to be disclosed after the completion of the season.

Howard, still a fine fielder and an occasional timely hitter at a position where good hit-gone field-players are at a premium, said he was very shocked when the trade was revealed to him by Manager Ralph Houk.

"I weighed retirement from the game for several hours while trying to decide whether or not to report to the Red Sox, second to the Chicago White Sox in a tight AL race."

"I wanted to finish my career as a Yankee," he explained. He is also affiliated with a drug company and a combination travel agency and printing firm.

"I talked it over with my wife, my business associates and Tom Yawkey before deciding to go to Boston," said Howard, also referring to the Red Sox owner. "I'm glad that the Red Sox want me, and I'm going to try and help them as much as I can. I think I can do it."

In Boston, Dick Williams, the Red Sox manager, said, "We think Howard will help us a great deal. We are very glad to get him." Williams added that Howard will be the No. 2 backup behind Mike Ryan and work with the young pitchers and catchers.

With Jake Gibbs doing most of the catching, Howard saw only limited service with the Yanks this year, his 13th since moving up to the majors in 1955 and becoming the first Negro ever to wear a Yankee uniform in regular season. His 1967 batting average is .197 accompanied by three homers and 17 runs batted in.

Howard, whose estimated 1967 salary is $50,000, had his best big league season in 1961 when he hit .348 and hammered 21 homers in 129 games. Two years later — his MVP campaign — he had 28 homers, 83 RBI and a .287 average.

Killer Harmon Killebrew Does Not Look His Role, But He Sure Acts It

NEW YORK (NEA) — The manager at Chattanooga back in 1957 remembered his well. A blocky kid with a wide face and the kind of forearms you'd find in a logging camp. He'd do anything you wanted him to.

Cal Ermer, who was the manager, wanted him to learn the strike zone. So every day he stood Harmon Killebrew at the plate for half an hour, with his bat riveted to his shoulder, while a pitcher threw tempting baseballs down the pike. And Harmon had to make believe he was the umpire and call balls and strikes.

"It was the same thing," Cal recalled, "the Dodgers did with Duke Snider. And if it worked with Snider, it could work with Killebrew."

It did. Two seasons later, in his first full year as a major leaguer, Harmon Killebrew hit 42 home runs. In the years since, he has continued to average more than 40 home runs and over 100 runs batted in per season.

"He made himself a ballplayer," said Ermer, who is now in a beautiful position to enjoy the results. Because Cal recently took over as manager of the Minnesota Twins, for whom Killebrew plays first base, while leading the American League in home runs and runs batted in.

It's hard to believe that The Killer, which is a misnomer for this gentle character from the hills of Idaho, is only 31 years old. He's bald and the fringe at his temples has turned to gray, and he has appeared in a major league uniform at some time during 14 consecutive summers.

"The Washington Senators," mused Harmon as he swung a couple of bats reflexively, "signed me when I was only 17 years old. I've been around quite awhile."

And yet there's a lack of excitement about Killebrew that has also dulled his lustre as a performer of magnitude. Harmon is one of those guys whose appearance defeats him. A Mickey Mantle exudes tensility. A Willie Mays projects vitality. Killebrew — dumpy, with a trace of a bulge around the middle and puffed cheeks — is stolid.

He has been on nine American League All-Star squads. He has been a starter as a third baseman, a leftfielder and this year as a first baseman — which should be some kind of record for versatility but in reality is an indictment of his defense. He was a butcher at third base, not much better in left and seems to be least offensive as a glove man at first base, "where I hope I can settle down."

"It's tough shifting around," admitted Harmon. "There's a difference, for instance, in the way you catch the ball. At first you catch it with one hand, in the webbing. At third, you catch it in the pocket, with two hands. Sometimes I get confused and find myself catching a ball at first like a third baseman."

Right or wrong, Harmon's never going to be confused with Hal Chase or George Sizer as a stylish glove man.

But he will hit. He started the year with 336 homeruns and by the time it's over will stand No. 15 in the all-time list of homerun hitters. He's already ahead of such Hall-of-Famers as Joe DiMaggio and Hank Greenberg. With normal luck, he'll eventually join the "500" club of Ruth, Mays, Foxx, Williams, Mantle, et al.

"He could be a 300 hitter, too," insisted Manager Ermer. "If the other teams didn't swing around on him so much. Why, I'll bet I've seen him lose 25 hits just in the short time I've been here because the defenses are stacked against him."

The obvious thing is for Killebrew to poke the ball to right.

"He could do that, too," Ermer shrugged.

Implicit was that old Ralph Kiner axiom: singles hitters drive Fords, home-run hitters drive Cadillacs.

I'm not sure what Killebrew drives. He is, after all, not a very ostentatious guy — in mien, appearance or action. As a ballplayer, he just gets where he's going.

Three Share Early Western Open Lead

CHICAGO (AP) — Labron Harris, son of Oklahoma State's golf coach, and a pair of foreign stars, Bob Stanton of Sydney, Australia, and Bob Verwey of Johannesburg, South Africa, wheeled into the first round lead of the $102,000 Western Open Thursday with five-under-par 66.

In all, 29 players ripped the standard 36-35-71 for the rolling, tree-lined 6,867-yard Beverly Course in the start of the $20,000 first prize. Fully were par or better.

All three frontrunners, in their middle 20's, have yet to win a tournament on the PGA tour.

Harris, the 1962 national amateur champion, one-putted nine holes in a row for a record this year and 11 in all for a pair of 33's. A trap on the 17th cost him a bogey and a chance for the outright lead. He totaled 25 putts, best performance of the day on the slick greens.

Stanton used 28 taps on the greens for another pair of 33's. Verwey, on a hot streak after finishing second last week in the Minnesota Golf Classic, used 27 putts for 32-34 with his longest 50 feet on the 15th.

A stroke behind at 33-34-67 was husky Steve Oppermann of Daly City, Calif., also seeking his first PGA tour victory.

Sharing 68 were Julius Boros, firing three straight birdies starting with the 12th, and PGA champion Don January, with birdies on two of the last three holes.

The 69 shooters included amateur Marty Fleckman, who led after the first and third rounds of the recent National Open, John Schlee, George Archer, Randy Glover, Doug Sanders, Johnny Pott, Romero Blantas and Miller Barber. Barber aced the 125-yard 12th with a pitching wedge.

Arnie Palmer took a two-stroke penalty when he lost a ball in a giant oak tree on the 18th fairway and finished with a double bogey 7 for a 72.

Defending champion Billy Casper, on a streak of erratic chipping and putting, had 74. National Open winner Jack Nicklaus bogied the last three holes for a 72.

Court Limits Clay's Travel To U.S.

By B. F. KELLUM

HOUSTON (AP) — A federal court held Cassius Clay's passport travel, limiting the former heavyweight champion's travel to within the United States.

U.S. Dist. Judge Joe Ingraham ordered Clay's passport surrendered Wednesday after denying the fighter's request to leave this country to participate in a boxing match in Japan.

Ingraham issued the order pending the outcome of Clay's appeal of a June 20 conviction for refusal to be inducted into the Army.

Clay, who claims he should be exempt from the draft because he is a Black Muslim minister named Muhammad Ali, was assessed a five-year prison sentence and a $10,000 fine.

The World Boxing Association stripped Clay of his title when he refused induction and set up an eight-man elimination tournament to select a successor.

Ingraham, in denying the request and ordering the surrendering of the passport, said Clay has "shown a steady willingness to participate in antigovernment, antiwar activities."

Hayden C. Covington of New York, Clay's chief attorney, said there can be no appeal of Judge Ingraham's ruling.

Clay contends he has been boycotted in this country and that Japan is the only place in which he can fight. He said he needs money for alimony payments, lawyer's fees, and other expenses.

CHICAGO (AP)—The College All-Stars went through a final workout Thursday for their Friday night meeting with the Green Bay Packers in Soldier Field.

"There is nothing more for us to do but wait," said Head Coach Johnny Sauer.

"I'm satisfied that we have remained on schedule and have put in everything we had planned. I don't believe I'd do anything differently if we could start over."

Sauer was satisfied with the training of the All-Stars who are being touted as the best group of players ever put together for the mid-summer gridiron classic.

Sauer refused to announce his starting quarterback. It'll be either Bob Griese of Purdue or Steve Spurrier of Florida.

Sauer, however, has said he will stick with the quarterback who moves the team the best.

Both Griese and Spurrier have been impressive in training and both did an excellent job in last week's scrimmage against the Chicago Bears when the Stars gained a total of 400 yards.

"I'll go with the quarterback who has the hot hand," said Sauer. "We'll start with one and if he doesn't, we'll go with the other right away."

The All-Stars also have Bob Burris of Houston but Burris has worked mostly as a defensive back. However, if Griese and Spurrier both fail to move against the rugged Packer defense, Burris might get a shot at calling signals.

Andrews Bats Boston Past Athletics 5-3

BOSTON (AP)—Mike Andrews drove in three runs with a homer and a two-run single Thursday and led Boston to a 5-3 victory over Kansas City, moving the second-place Red Sox to within two games of idle Chicago.

The A's collected their runs off starter Bill Landis; on a walk, a single by Danny Cater, a throwing error and Ken Harrelson's eighth homer, a long shot over the screen atop the left-field wall.

The Red Sox picked up a run on Rico Petrocelli's single, a walk and Mike Ryan's single in the second. Then Dave Morehead, recalled from Toronto and bombed by Kansas City in his initial appearance Tuesday night, replaced Landis.

Morehead allowed only three hits before he surrendered a leadoff double to Campy Campaneris and gave way to Sparky Lyle in the eighth inning. Lyle retired the only batter he faced and veteran John Wyatt took over to protect the lead.

Porterfield Takes Lead In Golf Tourney

BOISE (AP)—Firing a six-under-par 65, Boots Porterfield of Grants Pass, Ore., grabbed a two-stroke lead after the first round of the $10,000 Idaho Open Golf Tournament at Crane Creek Country Club Thursday.

A pair of veteran pros, Bob Duden, Portland, Ore., and Paul Allen, Billings, Mont., watched their early lead evaporate when Porterfield came in late in the afternoon.

Duden and Allen fired 67's to take the early lead after Crane Creek assistant pro John Peterson had jumped to a 68 lead after the first three holes of the tournament.

Tacoma's Al Mengert, struggling in 100-degree-plus afternoon heat, tied Peterson with a 68 as the top five were three vepeloped at 69 as Verne Burnett, strokes apart.

A three-way traffic jam developed at 69 as Verne Burnett, Howard Capps, Napa, Calif., and Ed Zemljak, Butte, Mont., carded the two-under total.

Five other golfers came in at 70 and a host of the field equated the par 71 of the Crane Creek Course.

The professionals had to take a back seat when Larry Robb, a 17-year-old Pocatello High School golfer, knocked in a hole-in-one on the par-three 180-yard 12th hole with a four wood; Robb, an amateur, failed to collect the new car offered.

In steer wrestling, Bob Lester of Blythe, Calif., came in with an excellent 5.8 sec. for the best Thursday time. Second was Buzz Peth of Bow, Wash., with 7.0 sec.

In team roping, John Miller of Pawhuska, Okla., and Jim Watson of Bakersfield, Calif., roped their calf in 8.4 sec.

Gossett Spoils Saints' Debut

ANAHEIM, Calif. (AP)—Bruce Gossett kicked three field goals as the Los Angeles Rams spoiled the debut of the New Orleans Saints into the National Football League with a 16-7 exhibition game victory Wednesday night at Anaheim Stadium.

Gossett hit on placements from 14, 9, and 45 yards out to provide the difference as each team had a touchdown in the league's preseason opener before 26,364.

Although the Rams dominated the first half and built a 10-0 lead, the new Saints marched back with a stronger showing in the final period.

Winners Listed For Hunting Permits

Persons Required To Submit Permit Fees In 10 Days

BOISE—Names of winners of controlled hunt permits for antelope, turkey, elk and deer at public drawings, held ten days ago in Boise were disclosed today after tedious cross-checking was completed. Letters advising individuals were mailed today by the Idaho Fish and Game Department.

Winners will have ten days from the date indicated on the notification cards to spend in permit fees by certified check or money order to the Department, according to Amos Kay Behnap, chief of business administration.

Biggest odds faced by applicants for permits were about 10-1 in the wild turkey drawing. There were 1,517 applicants for the 150 permits available. Other odds were about 5-1 for elk permits, 4-1 for antelope, and 2-1 for deer.

All told, there were 14,414 applications for the elk drawing and 3,155 permits; 7,251 antelope applications and 1,780 permits; and 892 deer applications and 550 permits.

Friday, August 4

SPORTS SPECTACULARS

7:30 p.m., 3, 4, 11—College All-Star Game, featuring the world champion Green Bay Packers and the College All-Stars, in a battle at Soldier's Field, Chicago. The All-Stars, coached by sports-caster John Sauer, former coach at the Citadel, are the cream of last fall's college crop—as a unit; however, the group has usually had trouble handling the pros. The Packers won last year's game 39-0, thus increasing their series lead to 22 wins, against nine losses and two ties.

BEST BETS FOR MOVIES

7 p.m., 2B; 8 p.m., 5—"Fail Safe" (1964) For those who like their melodrama laced with science fiction and laden with significance, this doomsday thriller should fill the bill. Chronically the tense hours after the impossible happens by way of B-52 bombers that pass the point of no return in "Irrevocable" missions into the Russian heartland—missions that supposedly are to be undertaken only in the event of an attack against the United States. The plans carry H-bombs... and "nuff said."

BEST BETS FOR MOVIES

Exclusion Of Whites From Project May Cause Fund Loss

By BILL RAWLINS

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A Negro official's exclusion of whites from a summer antiprotection project which Senate investigators were told teaches "hatred of the white race" may result in loss of federal and local funds, the local director says.

"At the very least, there will be an investigation," said the Rev. J. Paschal Davis, white Episcopal minister who heads Nashville's Metropolitan Action Commission, the local agency through which the Office of Economic Opportunity channels federal antiprotection funds.

Davis reacted to the Senate testimony and to the response of Fred Brooks, the project director and chairman of Nashville's Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee.

"We teach the historical fact that whites came to Africa and viciously enslaved many of the great African people," said Brooks, 20. "If the history of their Negroes' past leads them to hate white people, that's not our responsibility."

Asked if a white man could sit in on the classes, Brooks said: "No, I'm sure the staff would object." Negroes, he said, need "some places where they can come without a white man being present."

Large pictures of the late Malcolm X, leader of the Black Muslim movement, and SNCC members were on the wall.

Brooks said, "We are not trying to get the hands off the dog. Please come and see if you can get the cuffs off."

After some head shaking policeman Haywood Honeycutt was sent to the residence Thursday to investigate. He found a sleeping 4-year-old dachshund with an old pair of handcuffs clamped about his neck and one forepaw.

Through it all, a 3-year-old boy whose father once had been a deputy sheriff watched from inside the house. He had been playing cops and robbers with the puppy and the old cuffs.

Sveltana Says Beria Ran Stalin

By RODNEY PINDER

LONDON (AP)—Joseph Stalin's daughter, Svetlana Alliluyeva, claims in her memoirs that Lavrenty P. Beria, Soviet Secret police chief, dominated her father for the last 20 years of his life.

Mrs. Alliluyeva claims that Beria became the dominating influence over her father after he was rocked by her mother's suicide in 1932 and maintained that influence until the dictator died in his country home outside Moscow in 1953.

"Beria," she says, "always repulsive," brooded over Stalin at the end, posing as "the most loyal, the most faithful," while the aged dictator died in agony after a cerebral hemorrhage. Mrs. Alliluyeva writes.

Hutchinson & Co., Mrs. Alliluyeva's authorized British publisher, issued a Russian-language edition of her memoirs, "Twenty Letters to a Friend," on Thursday. The English-language edition is to appear in October.

The day after Stalin's death, his daughter writes, Beria summarily dismissed and exiled aides and members of the household staff, but not before some of them committed suicide in the hysteria following the death.

Beria was jailed on treason charges by Stalin's successors and put to death nine months after the dictator's death. Nikita S. Khrushchev, in the recent NBC television program "Khrushchev in Exile," also blamed Beria for Stalin's misdeeds.

50 Negroes Walk City On Peace Mission

By LOUISE COOK
 NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (AP) — When the sun goes down and the lights come on in this suburban community just north of New York City, 50 Negroes 15 to 25 years old fan out through the streets on a mission of peace.

They are "peace partners," paid $2.25 an hour to patrol the business districts and low income neighborhoods, talking to youngsters and stopping trouble before it starts.

"We go over there and disperse the crowd, without calling the police," says one partner, Jerry Calnek, 19. "When the police come, there's trouble."

"The cops," says Roy Tucker, also 19, "kind of take a negative attitude toward some of the kids. They come from home. They had a few arguments with their wife. They take it out on the kids."

The police partners come from the same kind of neighborhoods that they patrol in this community of 83,000—including 13,000 Negroes—and they say they "know how kids feel."

They're like average kids today. They don't want to take orders from nobody," says Mark Briley, 20.

Briley says, "We're not here to be tough guys. If you talk to people rough, they're going to want to hurt you."

Instead, he says, "If I would say a group of youths fighting, I'd say, 'Look here fellows it doesn't make any sense to be here fighting. You're just going to be arrested.'"

"They don't want to listen at first," says Tucker. "They call you a Tom and other nicknames. But after you talk to them, it's okay."

The police partners went into operation July 27, and that night they helped put down a disturbance when a group of youngsters poured out of a Community Action program dance, breaking windows and setting trash baskets afire.

Each police partner wears a red armband and is sworn in by the police. They patrol in pairs. The program is financed by the city and state.

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I expect to retire shortly. I own stocks of five different companies and shares of one mutual fund. I have discussed my holdings with a friend who is in charge of investments for an insurance company. He advises me to keep one of my stocks (in a big electric and gas utility company), sell all my others and put the money into utility stocks for the greatest return and safety.

Would investments in such stocks be safer and more remunerative than my present holdings?

A. Maybe. There's even a pretty good chance that the answer could be strengthened to read "probably." But I can't say, for sure. Neither can anybody else—not even your friend, the investment adviser.

He's giving you conservative advice—the kind to be expected from someone in his position. But, instead of talking about "safety," I would make his statement read "less risky." There is some risk in every investment.

Stocks of utility companies are counted as among the least risky of those in any industry. Most utility stocks have shown good (but not spectacular) growth in value and dividend payouts over the years. They're the kind you look to for stability—while not expecting to get rich on them in a hurry.

Some of the stocks you named in your letter are high-flying growth situations—which have skyrocketed in value. Congratulations. But, as is usually the case with out-and-out growth stocks, they pay low dividends in relation to their market prices.

If you make the move recommended by your friend, you can expect to get higher current dividend yields (but less potential growth-in-value) from good utility stocks.

Now, this is a normal move for people at retirement time—when they need more income. And, if you find yourself in need of more spending money when retirement time rolls around, it would be a natural move to follow your friend's advice.

If you have big profits in these stocks you now hold, however, it could be wise to space your selling over a number of years—so that you don't take all your profit in one year and get hit with a big tax bite.

Finally, rather than cashing in the shares of that mutual fund, you should look into keeping those shares and a period withdrawal plan. The generally recommended withdrawal rate is six per cent a year.

Q. I keep seeing the words "seasonally adjusted" in business news stories concerning retail store sales, factory orders and such. But this term is never really explained. What does it mean?

A. "I would surrender to any stronger nation. Why should I go ahead and destroy the people and property of my country?"

The main purpose of the Tunku's trip was to hold discussions on British plans to withdraw troops and close up military bases in Malaysia and Singapore by the mid-1970s.

The 64-year-old prime minister said his talks with British officials were successful because he had received assurances that Britain would supply any naval or air support Malaysia might need even after formal withdrawal from her Far Eastern bases.

"I told them we would only need help if a country our size or a little bigger attacked us," the Tunku said. "But if a bigger country attacks I don't want the help because I don't want to turn this country into a battlefield. If a bigger country attacks, I'll capitulate. I'm not going to fight against anyone I can't fight."

He stressed he had no quarrels with British plans to pull out troops from the Far East.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
 AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There are writers in residence, musicians in residence, artists and poets in residence on America's campuses, so why not a business executive in residence.

Dean Ossian MacKenzie, who heads the business college at Pennsylvania State University, asked himself why not. Now Penn State has an executive in residence, and the program is being studied and copied by other schools.

Bruce Wiesley, vice president of American Can Co., was the first. He was followed by James Victor Jones of Armstrong Cork Co. A third executive may be named shortly.

"It takes a lot of doing, a lot of organizing," said MacKenzie, "but this is one of the most stimulating things we've ever done."

The companies which provide the executives also must be stimulated because, as MacKenzie says, "the men we want are in operating positions. They must be in decision-making capacities, on the firing line."

Says Wiesley, "It was damned interesting. It was pleasant, but it was hard work. They like to get the most out of you there, so they double the classes when you're on campus to get more mileage out of you. But that's just good business."

MacKenzie feels the same way. It is imperative, he believes, for business to get the most out of the nation's business schools. But the schools also must establish better rapport with business.

The choice of Wiesley, whose boss at American Can is among the university's visiting counsel, was especially timely. Wiesley is a marketing man, and so he and the faculty of the College of Business Administration developed a course in marketing procedures at the very time that truth in packaging legislation was being debated in Congress.

"I had 20 graduate students in my group," Wiesley explained. "We agreed on a selected list of topics with the faculty. I met with the professors and we decided on subject material and developed a bibliography."

According to MacKenzie, Wiesley did a lot more too. "The days Bruce spent here may have been among his hardest," said MacKenzie. "He worked from 8 in the morning until 10:30 at night.

"Our term is 10 weeks and he spent about three of those here on campus, a week at the beginning of the course, a week in the middle and then a week at the end." The third week was devoted largely to term papers.

"In addition," said MacKenzie, "he spoke before some undergraduate honor students. He also was a consultant to the faculty, which met in seminars of four or five persons."

During this time Wiesley was responsible for his position back at American Can, which approved highly of the program and which, Wiesley believes, would send another executive if asked.

"This is a good way of bridging the gap between modern business, industrial life and the academic community," he says.

TAKE THE FINESSE TO INSURE SLAM

There is one outstanding finesse. That is when you are in a slam contract and you are sure to make it, provided you take the finesse. Never mind about the fact that it is not likely to be necessary and may

He led the three of clubs. West played the eight and for a moment South was going to play the jack from dummy. That would guard against any and all 2-2 and 3-1 club breaks. It would also produce a grand slam against all such breaks when West held the queen.

He thought for a moment. Then he thought for a second moment—and realized—that he wasn't interested at all in making an overtrick but he wanted to make his slam.

Four clubs held by East would have beaten him but West had played one club, so East could not have four clubs.

That left the possibility that West had started with four clubs. West played the eight; would he play the eight for queen—ten—eight—eight? Not likely but decidedly possible. South counted up once more, reached over to dummy, pulled out the nine and made sure of his contract. He also made his overtrick when East showed out.

CARD SENSE

Q—The bidding has been:
West North East South
1♦ 1♠ 1NT
3♦ 3♠ ?
Pass You, South, hold:
♠ K102 ♠ 54 ♠ Q54 ♠ K9765
What do you do now?
A—Bid three no-trump. Pass is not a bad second choice but your queen of diamonds will fill in a long suit and that the defense won't hear hearts against you.

He won the heart opening and counted up. He had six tricks in the three-top-suits. Six-club tricks would give him his slam. The only thing for him to worry about would be a bad club break.

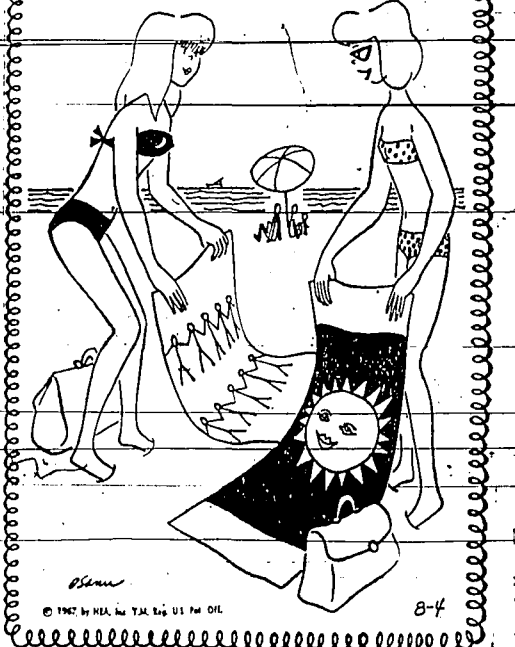

Today's Question
Instead of bidding three diamonds your partner has bid three clubs. What do you do now?
Answer Next Issue

well cost you an overtrick. To paraphrase Shakespeare, "The slam's the thing."

When North showed an ace and a king South was tempted to go to a grand slam but he put temptation firmly behind him and settled for six. North didn't need seven sure club tricks for his vulnerable three-club bid.

He won the heart opening and counted up. He had six tricks in the three-top-suits. Six-club tricks would give him his slam. The only thing for him to worry about would be a bad club break.

Boyfriend's Faith Restored Hers

We've hardly ever run a letter together and separately! — Ele and Walt.
Dear Ele and Walt: This is a special to us. See if you agree.
Dear Ele and Walt: I was taken out a girl who was afraid to be a "slut." I thought I'd write to let you and every one who reads your column know just how much I respect certain guy for doing just what that boy was afraid to do. There was once a girl I'll call Janie, who had a pretty bad break. She really fell for one of those "love 'em and leave 'em" boys that had a big mouth. The story got around and soon she was dirt on everyone's tongue. For a year all the guys came to her for "lovin'." Although she put up a fight, she almost reached the point of thinking, "What's the use? Since I have the name, I might as well play the game."
But then one day a nice, decent boy became attracted to her and dated her in spite of the teasing. He was the first to treat her with respect in over a year. They fell for each other and never again did he let anyone say anything bad about her. If he heard something he'd talk about it.
At first Janie found it hard to hold her head up with "decent" people after her unhappy year. But then Bob supplied these words to live by: "There is so much good in the worst of us, and so much bad in the best of us, that it behooves any of us to find fault with the rest of us."
Well—the story's unfinished. Janie lives by those words now, and although she and Bob may go their separate ways someday, I know she always will have the priceless gift he gave her: her self respect. How do I know? Because I'm—Janie. Dear Janie: In our book Bob's no "boy." He's a "man" in the very fullest, most human, alive sense of the word. Our warmest wishes to both of you, to-

Looks Like Beer Ad—It's Water For T.F. Climbers

One of the first items of construction in the second phase of the Twin Falls water improvement project to be virtually complete is the intake structure at the source of the city's new supply of pure spring water from Snake River Canyon.

Located on Alpheus Creek and now 98 per cent complete, the structure involves only a small concrete structure visible to the viewer.

However what appears to be a scenic waterfall, is actually a damlike structure of native rock which backs up water for the intake structure.

Visible from the dining room windows of the Blue Lakes Country Club, the dam was designed to enhance the area.

This cold, clear and sparkling spring water which will be coming out of water-taps in Twin Falls early next spring will require very little chemical treatment.

From the intake structure, pipe is being installed to the north bank of the Snake River, across the river by means of the old Perrine bridge, then to the pumping station and from there up the south wall of the canyon. Here it enters the booster pump station, the five-million gallon reservoir and the city's distribution station.

This work is being done by Kleopfer Construction Co., Logan, Utah, under contract for $425,847. Overall, the contractor's work is 61 per cent complete and he is the only one of the three present contractors on the project to be ahead of construction schedule.

Originally the city filed on water at the source of the springs which form Alpheus Creek as they come from the north wall of the canyon just northeast of the Blue Lakes Country Club.

As all water rights on Alpheus Creek had been filed on by landowners in the canyon, the city feared lawsuits if the municipal system should reduce the flow of the creek.

To avoid this, and to reduce the cost of the large 36-inch concrete-coated pipeline by shortening its length, the city decided to relocate the intake structure to the creek proper. To do this, the city purchased 45 cubic feet of water, enough to supply a city of some 50,000 people, from the Alpheus Creek water right owners.

Swinging down Omar Mikhtar Street, was a shapely bundle of trouble—a young Israeli blonde in an eye-opening yellow miniskirt eight inches above her knees.

CLEAR SPARKLING spring water from Alpheus Creek, in the foreground, soon will be going into the Twin Falls City water lines from the intake structure in background. On our Thursday, city officials, businessmen and news representatives paused to inspect the source of the new city water supply. Several of the tour members could not resist the clear cool water collecting behind the rock-dam-like structure and deplared themselves the first to sample the new water supply.

Miniskirts Provide Trouble For Israeli Troops In Gaza

By PAUL KOHN
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — It all began with a miniskirt in Gaza, a quick pinch and a started squeal. It added up to one big headache for the Israeli occupation troops in that dusty Arab town.

Swinging down Omar Mikhtar Street, was a shapely bundle of trouble—a young Israeli blonde in an eye-opening yellow miniskirt eight inches above her knees.

"Torbushed" Arab elders choked on their water pipes and veiled women in their long shapeless robes glared in disapproval. The drowsy youths taking a siesta in the shade of orange trees sat up and stared.

Within minutes, Tel Aviv newspapers reported Wednesday, 20 of the youths were shadowing the shapely blonde as she wiggled from shop to shop through the bazaar.

Beautiful women are nothing new in Gaza—legend has it that Delilah, Samson's jealous mate, once lived there—but a blonde in a mini-mini was something else.

When the shock wore off, the young men moved in. A pinch and the girl squealed. Soon outraged squeals were resounding around the town and the nearby beach where other copper-lanned Israeli girls in bikinis were feeling the pinch.

Don Van-Noy, 23, Route 2, Twin Falls, $10 for a stop sign violation.

Three Magic Valley coeds are among 18 University of Idaho beauties who will compete for the 1967 Homecoming Queen title Sept. 30 at Moscow, it was announced Wednesday by Tom Gannon, Buhl, general homecoming chairman.

Vying for the title from Magic Valley are Lynne Louise Beckwith, Rupert; Jackie Bodenhofer, Gooding; and Jane Langley, Twin Falls.

The queen will reign over the Moscow campus Oct. 1-6, and will be presented at the Montana State game on Oct. 7.

Oakley Gets New Wheat Storage Tank

OAKLEY—A Behlen type steel tank, which will hold 52,000 to 53,000 bushels of wheat when completed is being added to the Oakley Elevator Co., according to Raddon Layton, owner.

The tank, which is being built by Vern Schutte and sons, Eden, has been of interest to spectators because of the roof being built first. Then it was raised up enough to put an additional layer on until eventually it will reach the 54-foot level.

Underneath the tank is a 13-foot cone shaped pit which was dug with a back hoe and then filled with two feet of cement in order to make the job of auguring the grain more simple.

Along side of the steel tank are six additional 60-foot high concrete tanks which hold 6,000 bushels of grain apiece and have served the Oakley valley for many years.

Mr. Layton notes that he hopes to run the elevators in the cement tanks over to the steel tank to fill it after the grain harvest rapidly approaching. He is hoping that the building will be completed by the end of this week.

Escalante C. Sanchez, 16, 934 Schodde Ave., Bury, was fined $23 by Burley Police Judge Roland W. Willis for speeding. Charles R. Bailey, 57, 1259 Normal Ave., Bury, was fined $15 by Judge Willis for failure to yield to through traffic. Dara Anderson, 56, 3264 Overland Ave., Bury, was fined $15 by Judge Willis for failure to yield to a legal parked auto. Jeannie R. Ward, 29, Route 1, Declo, was fined $20 by Judge Willis for following another vehicle too closely. H. Dennis Murphy, 23, 1358 Normal Ave., Bury, was fined $25 by Judge Willis for failure to yield the right of way. Harold Schutte, 40, Route 5, Rupert, was fined $13 by Judge Willis for speeding. Marjean R. Langley, Sun Valley, was fined $30 by Shoshone Justice of the Peace C. W. Gwin for speeding. Also fined by Judge Gwin for speeding were Joe L. Beaden, Twin Falls, $12; and Roddy L. Adams, Route 1, Shoshone, $15.

Judge Gwin fined Robert Deane Marsh, Twin Falls, $16 for following too closely to another vehicle, and Frank M. Carothers, Shoshone, $10 for failure to yield right of way in left turn.

CLERK HIRED
HAGERMAN — Mrs. Max Kuhn has been hired as city clerk, replacing Mrs. Felix Madarica who resigned. Mrs. Madarica was retained as secretary of the Hagerman Cemetery District.

Writings Of Climbers Are Revealed

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — One climbed mountains "to look at the sky and the rocks and the snow and the flowers."

"For the past 10 years my first love has been climbing," another wrote.

"I won't let life pass me by and when my tide comes I will be ready to take it at the flood," wrote Stephen Taylor, 22, of Chicago.

Taylor's tide engulfed him on the icy slopes of Alaska's Mt. McKinley before he had a chance to conquer the 20,320-foot peak.

Two of his companions also are dead. Four others are missing, and probably lie buried, perhaps forever, under a 10-foot blanket of snow left by a two-day storm this week.

Taylor's body was found at a 17,900-foot camp where he had been forced to stay because of altitude sickness when the six others began their successful ascent July 18. Their radioed "all's well" from the summit was the last word heard from them.

The bodies of two of them still unidentified, were found a few hundred feet from Taylor's on a ridge. All three will remain on the mountain since the terrain makes removal too hazardous.

In addition to Taylor the climbers were Jerry Clark, 31, Mark McLaughlin, 23, and John Russell, 22, all of Eugene, Ore. Henry Jones, 25, Lafayette, Ind., and Portland Ore, Dennis Luchterhand, 23, Scarsdale, N.Y., and Walter Taylor, 24, Lafayette, Ind.

The climbers, unknown to each other previously, exchanged letters which Russell put into a serapook, now in the possession of Mrs. David Soderberg of Seattle.

Along Fences and Canals

Virgil Norwood, Hagerman, attended the Pacific Northwest Classic Consignment Sale, which is for registered Guerneys only, at Mt. Vernon, Wash. Norwood consigned a cow to the sale. A few years ago, Norwood topped the sale with one of his cows. Vernon Lassen and Walter Matthesen, both Filer, also took cows to the sale.

Second crop haying is well under way in Hagerman with some crops already stacked.

Some grain has been swathed in Hagerman on the D. H. Gold and Tom Gibson farms.

The Green Giant Co., Buil, has started cutting corn on the Michael Kast ranch east of King Hill. Cutting operations will begin soon at the 101 Ranch owned by the Kasts. The corn is hauled to Buil by tractors from the firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Jones, who have helped his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jones, with farm work at their ranch south of King Hill the past three years, moved to Boise last week-end where Mr. Jones will attend Boise College this fall. Mrs. Jones has been employed at Donna's Beauty Salon east of King Hill.

Two sheds at the farm of Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Gold, Tuttle, were destroyed by fire. Previous burning of weeds in the vicinity of the buildings was blamed for the blaze.

The grain that went down earlier in the summer is being swathed at Tuttle before combining to allow the grain to finish ripening.

A grade Hereford cow owned by Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Adams, Hagerman, gave birth to quadruplet calves last Friday. The four calves, three bulls and one heifer, are all normal and eating. At the present time, they are being fed by hand using a pop bottle and a lamb nipple. The cow has had one other calf.

Idaho Sheepmen Honored By Filer Kiwanis Club

FILER — Filer, a small town about seven miles west of Twin Falls has the distinction of being the site of the State Ram Sale.

Filer has hosted the annual event for the past 46 years. The 46th annual sale was held Wednesday where about 500 rams from throughout Idaho were sold.

Tuesday evening all wool growers who were in Filer for the sale were guests of the Filer Kiwanis Club for a lamb dinner.

This annual "Welcome and Good Fellowship" dinner has been given by the Kiwanis Club to wool growers for the past 41 consecutive years.

Merl Leonard, president of the Filer Kiwanis Club, said this annual event was started in 1926 by the late Col. E. O. Walters, who also was a Kiwanian and the sale's first auctioneer.

Two wool growers who were given special recognition were Henry O. Brown, Los Altos, Calif., and Ed Kelsey, Burley.

Mr. Brown, along with a brother and another sheepman, started the first ram sale in Idaho in 1917. However a few years passed before the next state ram sale was held, which was in 1923. Since 1923 the state ram sale has been held every year at Filer.

Mr. Kelsey is the only living consignor remaining of those who sold sheep during the asso-

New Variety Of Red Wheat Introduced

MOSCOW (AP) — A new hard red spring wheat developed jointly by the University of Idaho and the U. S. Department of Agriculture was released today, university officials said.

Called "Moran," after Mount Moran by Jackson Hole, Wyo., the new wheat will replace Thatcher wheat grown under irrigation in Eastern Idaho. Dr. Donald W. Sunderman, a USDA agronomist, said.

The wheat is reported to have good milling and "excellent" dough-mixing and bread-making capabilities, Sunderman said.

25-80 ACRES NEEDED

SAN FRANCISCO — On western ranges, from 25 to 80 acres of grazing land are required for each cow. Salt feeding stations, scattered over the range, can guide cattle to new feeding areas.

A series dedicated to Northwest Farmers

This act paved the way for the farmer to get long-term mortgage credit on the same terms as other businessmen. The farmer, through the use of capital, scientific methods and technological know-how has been able to advance the progress of agriculture at an accelerated pace. Much of the growth capital he uses comes from Federal Land Bank Associations. We are proud of the fact that we can provide the farmer with this type of credit. We are good of the farmers, the Providers of Plenty. We salute you.

Alfalfa Field Goes 3 Tons To Acre At Oakley

BURLEY—One of the better stands of alfalfa in Cassia county is a field owned by W. B. Whiteley, Oakley, and farmed by Hardy and Washburn, Oakley.

Gene Rinebold, Cassia county agent, said the first cutting has averaged three tons per acre and the average tonnage for first cuttings in the area is about two tons.

The outstanding hay field is 160 acres located at Kenyon farms, 15 miles southwest of Burley. The alfalfa is watered from a well at one end of the field with rows one-quarter of a mile long.

The alfalfa was planted with barley after a potato crop, which was highly fertilized, was harvested last year. As the barley grew and ripened the alfalfa out distanced the barley in height and soon the grain could not be seen.

The past two years the alfalfa field has produced more than seven tons during the season. The field has been baled and stacked for winter feed.

Richfield Lists Record Herds

RICHFIELD—Top herds for the Richfield Dairy Herd Improvement Association for June were Roger Freeman's, first, with 52 pounds of butterfat and 1279 milk; Dee Wolverton's, 45-1355, and Ralph Riley Jr., 42-1274.

Cows topping the production list were No. 25, owned by Grant Haws, with 90 pounds of butterfat test; Jill, owned by Freeman, 80, and Belle, owned by Wolverton, with 84.

Morris Swainston is a new member of the association with a seven-cow herd.

FAIRFIELD—An Achievement Day will be held Aug. 11 at the American Legion Hall in Fairfield starting at 1 p.m., reports Mary Lou Ruby, extension home economics agent.

4-H'ers are asked to bring their completed projects and record-books to be checked by the extension home economics agent at 1 p.m. Any 4-H'ers planning to give a demonstration are asked to tell Mrs. Ruby.

Lauri St. Clair and Sunnie Sweet will be in charge of recreation during the Achievement Day plus assisting Mrs. Ruby in the judging contest. In the afternoon, the 4-H'ers will participate in a judging contest which is divided into two groups: Junior-10-12 and Senior 13-19 years of age.

The juniors will judge yarn for bedroom slippers, measuring equipment, snacks and fasteners. The seniors will judge labels, interfacing, room arrangement and luncheon menu.

This practice judging contest will enable the 4-H'ers to do a better job of judging at the county fair judging contest at 1 p.m. Aug. 17. Top judges in Junior and Senior Division will be awarded a trophy. The top four in each division will get to judge at the district fair in competition with eight other counties, plus receiving blue ribbons.

Boys and girls involved in 4-H home economics projects are asked to attend this judging training meeting Aug. 11.

Declo Area Men Operate Largest Commercial Rabbit Ranch In State

By SALLY TAYLOR

Times-News Reporter

DECLO — When three enterprising men put their heads together, most anything can be accomplished.

When Ray Hess, Declo; Jerry Kent and his father, Ira, Rupert, decided to go into the rabbit raising business, they really stated to think BIG.

They combined their time, talent, and money to form the K and H Rabbit Ranch, located on the Hess farm north of Declo, which has become the largest commercial rabbit ranch in the state.

The fully automatic operation is currently producing 100 fryer rabbits each week and will quadruple that number when the maximum is reached. Three thousand rabbits now call the K and H Ranch their home, at least for six weeks, which is the time required to grow some of them to the fryer stage.

There are approximately 500 does who are producing about 500 little ones each week. This proves to be quite a job, just to watch and care for the does, Mr. Hess says.

Even with the ventilating system in the 100 by 40 foot building, heat is a serious threat to the new little ones and many are lost. During the winter, heaters are placed in the windows of the building and the temperature can be controlled at about 45 degrees, which has proved to be a practical temperature for the little ones and also contributes to a good pet.

The does, which have up to 20 in a litter, are often given two or three baby rabbits from a large litter, if some of hers has died or she has had a small batch. This has proved to be quite successful and the men plan to continue this practice, even though they had been cautioned about doing it.

Litter boxes are kept clean with fresh straw and the soft fur from the does' breast which she pulls to have her litter in.

There are chiefly eight breeds raised at the K and H Ranch; they are the English, Flemish-Giant, Belgium-hare, Dutch, Havana, Angora, Purebred California, and the New Zealand White, which is the favorite of Jerry Kent, co-owner.

The Angora breed is a beautiful animal with fur that is sheared like a sheep and sold on the present market for four dollars per pound. The fur is easily pulled out in tufts and is about four to five inches long.

Accurate records are kept on the individual rabbit, which enables one to go to the file and read of the complete history of the animal from the day she is born until she dies.

Presently, the K and H Rabbit Ranch uses from three to four ton of rabbit feed each month. They are fed a special pellet which is a combination of grains, hay and vitamins.

The ration was formulated by the California Research Rabbit Center. Eventually, the men hope to install a mill and will pellet their own feed.

An automatic self-feeder eases feeding problems, when nearly 3,000 rabbits have to be fed. A vertical pipe, with a storage box at the top, enables the pellets to slide through and fill whichever dishes in the pens are low.

Gone are the old coffee cans filled with water in the new patented pens at the ranch. They have been replaced by a fully automatic water system called the dew-drop system. A small duct on the pipe in each pen enables the rabbit to place his mouth on it and have water squirted into its mouth.

The rabbits are kept clean at all times, as the specially designed cages enable the manure to fall into a gutter in the center of the rows of cages. This is then scooped up and hauled out, and the cement floors are hosed out, making the building almost free from any odor.

There are virtually no flies or insects in the building because of the sanitary cleaning methods used and the fact that all cages are hung from the ceiling, leaving the floors easy to keep clean.

Any rabbits that become ill are immediately taken from the building and isolated.

A new slaughter and processing plant has recently been built and the owners are in the process of equipping it to meet federal requirements. A fully waterproof kill room, with rail and hooks designed by Jerry Kent, is almost completed.

THIS HUGE ANGORA doe is just one of the 500 housed at the K and H Rabbit ranch north of Declo. Jerry Kent, Co-owner, and his young brother, Steven, right, keep busy caring for the 3,000 rabbits at the ranch, which is the largest commercial rabbit ranch in the state. Their fully automatic operation produces 100 fryers each week.

Mexican Bean Beetles Are Found In Rupert Garden

RUPERT — Department of Agriculture officials here are continuing their vigilance for Mexican beetles after they were located in Midlocka County last week.

Vance T. Smith, extension agent, said a garden in the Countryside Addition where the beetles were found was burned and fields adjacent were sprayed.

To protect the bean industry in this county and the entire Magic Valley from the beetle, a constant surveillance should be maintained by home gardeners and bean growers, Smith said.

The state officials are required to destroy all forms of bean beetles located. This usually requires the burning of the infested beans and adjacent areas, Smith noted.

After the pests were located here last week authorities ordered and financed spraying of two sections of adjacent farm land to eliminate the possibility of the beetle being in the crops.

No expense in terms of manpower or dollars will be spared to eliminate the Mexican Bean Beetle from Magic Valley, Smith emphasized. He urged all gardeners and farmers to cooperate in locating and reporting the beetle infestations.

Mr. Smith described the Mexican Bean Beetle as similar to a ladybird beetle. It ranges in color from lemon to bronze, is a little more oval-shaped than the ladybird, and has exactly eight black spots on each wing cover for a total of 16 spots—no more and no less.

The larvae are lemon colored and are covered with small spines. Anyone seeing insects resembling these are asked to report them at once to the county agent's office.

Joseph Wurst Appointed To FHA Group

SHOSHONE — Appointment of Joseph J. Wurst, Bellevue rancher, to the Shoshone Area Farmers Home Administration Committee effective July 1, is announced by George M. Klein, State director of Farmers Home Administration.

Mr. Wurst was appointed to serve three years, replacing Floyd W. Gardner, Gannett, whose term expired July 1.

The Shoshone area FHA committee determines eligibility and sets maximum amount for all loans made in the jurisdictional area of the Shoshone FHA office, which encompasses Lincoln and Blaine counties.

The committee also acts in an advisory capacity to the agency through the county supervisor in such matters of debt settlement, better farming methods and make recommendations regarding administration of the FHA program in the area.

Other members now serving on this committee are Franklin Orr, Dietrich, rancher, and Wayne Sorensen, north Shoshone rancher. Frank R. Dallas, FHA county supervisor, serves as executive secretary to the committee.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

QUESTION OF THE WEEK: D. E. of Twin Falls — "I transplanted six pink rhubarb plants three years ago to a different location. Instead of the plants being nice and pink, they are green-stalked. Is something lacking in the soil? Stems were spindly and needed transplanting."

Pink rhubarb should remain pink after transplanting. If the plants get full sun they will develop the pink color. If grown in the shade the pink goes out and stems are green.

When rhubarb stalks are tall and spindly it's usually a sign the plants need dividing. Best time to divide a rhubarb patch is in early spring. All you do is take a spade or axe and divide old roots into three or four sections, each with an "eye" or bud. Place a section in a hole and place loose soil around it.

Incidentally, now's a good time to feed your patch, using a plant food high in nitrogen. Rotted barnyard manure is good if applied around the plants any time now.

A. R. of Castleford: "I used plastic mulch on our melon plants and it works like magic in producing new growth. However, you should tell your readers that weeds do grow underneath. Some even pushed the plastic sheets up off the ground. I'm still satisfied with the material and plan to use it again next year on all our crops."

Green Thumb note: We should have stressed using black (opaque) plastic mulch because weeds cannot grow in the absence of light. Transparent plastic allows light to enter and weeds to grow underneath. Glad more and more gardeners are resorting to plastic mulches, because it does make gardening a lot easier.

D. V. of Aberdeen: "Please tell if those long string-like growths on ferns should be left on or cut off. Also, the soil smells sour. Is this bad?"

Ferns often produce those thread-like growths and they have no value whatever. Snip off these unsightly threads to improve your plant.

Sour soils mean poor drainage. Report the fern, using stones or charcoal in the bottom. A good mixture of soil: use 1/2 sand, 1/2 peat and 1/2 loam. Ferns like good drainage.

Yellowing of leaves is due to lack of nitrogen, too much sun, or poor drainage.

CRAB CACTUS: Most home gardeners keep their Christmas or Crab cactus outdoors in summer under a bush, where it gets little if any water. That's the proper care for this fussy plant.

In the fall, the plant is brought indoors and kept in an unheated front porch and watered once a week. Buds start to form within a month or six weeks. The secret is to keep the plant cool for a month in the fall. When weather gets colder, take the plant upstairs and keep it in a cool bedroom.

Between Thanksgiving and Christmas pink color starts showing and by Christmas the plant is a beautiful sight.

Like the chrysanthemum and poinsettia, the Christmas cactus blossoms when days are short. That's why it should be shaded from full sunlight from May until September. To set buds in fall the plant must receive no artificial light from early fall until the buds set.

FREE: If all this sounds confusing to you, better send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, "How To Grow Gloxinias, Crab Cactus, Night Blooming Cereus and Episcias." This guide is full of simple tricks to get these plants to blossom profusely.

DANDELION CONTROL: Most of us wait until we see the yellow blossoms in spring and then start a control program for dandelions in the lawn. Actually, autumn is the time to spray for successful dandelion control. Controlling plants in fall allows

Booklet Aids Calibration

If you want to be sure your field sprayer is delivering the right amount of chemical, you can follow the steps suggested in a recent bulletin the county agricultural agent has for free distribution.

"Calibrate Your Field Sprayer" — Current Information Series No. 51, published by the University of Idaho college of agriculture was written by Charles Peterson, extension engineer, and Walter L. Moden Jr., assistant engineer of the experiment station.

Before you start calibrating, the leaflet advises, make certain the pump, tank, nozzle tip, screens and supply lines are free of dirt. Fill the tank with water and operate the sprayer to be sure it is working at the desired pressure. Check each nozzle. Determine the throttle setting and transmission gear to be used during the operation.

Then, go on with the process, set two stakes 600 feet apart. Refill the tank to a convenient level. Make a round-trip between the stakes at selected speed and operating pressure. Open the control valves as the sprayer passes the first stake and close them as it passes the second stake in each direction. Carefully measure the amount of water it takes to refill the tank.

The leaflet provides a handy table for figuring gallons per acre at various widths of booms and operating speeds.

Sprayers should be calibrated at least once each season, Peterson says. More often is desirable, particularly if you use the sprayer frequently.

Open House Meet Set By Area Grange

KIMBERLY—Members of the Kimberly Grange made plans for a Centennial open house meeting to be held Aug. 14 during a meeting at their hall Monday night.

Committees will meet Friday night at the hall to complete plans for the special program.

James Messersmith, Jr., agriculture chairman, read a report on the farm situation which revealed food costs have risen this past year; however, farm incomes are seven per cent lower than they were in the comparable period in 1966.

Burton Harmon, youth committee chairman, announced there will be a youth camp at Cascade Aug. 11-13. One of the highlights of the camp program will be speech and essay contests with a prize of $150 awarded to the top contestant.

Phyllis Britt, a member of the 4-H group sponsored by the Grange, related her experiences at the 4-H camp.

Mrs. Burton Harmon announced entries for the bread baking contest should be at her home Aug. 15 so they can be judged at the home of Mrs. Donald Dietz Aug. 16.

The program was opened with the Centennial candle lighting ceremony with a reading by the lecturer, Mrs. Dean Britt, Mrs. Martha Bulcher, chaplain, and the assistant stewards, James Messersmith and Mrs. Ogle Wall.

Mrs. Messersmith read an article on the Grange. Mrs. Harmon told unusual facts on the Grange history and conducted a contest relating to the names of apples. A contest was held on the names of flowers taken from songs played on the piano by Mrs. Wall.

A group of the men were given vases and flowers to arrange which were judged for the best artistic arrangement by Mrs. Dora Nell, Mrs. Bulcher, and Mrs. Grace Durk.

Charles McAnault received first prize, Mr. Britt, second, and Mr. Wall, third.

Mrs. Leslie Lowe won the contest on the identification of a display of garden seeds.

The program was closed with the thought for day given by Mrs. Messersmith. Refreshments were served by Mr. and Mrs. McAnault assisted by Mrs. Lowe.

Annual Weed Emphasis Day Is Held In Rupert Area

RUPERT—Minidoka County's annual weed emphasis field day was held last week under sponsorship of the Minidoka Irrigation District, A and B Irrigation District, county weedicide dealers and the county extension service.

The tour started at 10 a.m. at the plots on the Joe Flood farm, where tordon and banvel D have been used. These are the two new wonder chemicals that give phenomenal control for Canadian thistle.

Also included in the program were stops at additional plots with banvel D, a spray demonstration using different type jets and a "stump-the-expert" section.

The two Irrigation districts furnished the lunch which was served at the Dale-Cribb cellar. Cold drinks were furnished throughout-the-day-by-the-weedicide dealers.

After lunch a short meeting was held to discuss ditch bank grasses and other problem grasses. There was also a display of current and potential noxious weeds. Final stops were at farms where weed control is in progress.

Reports Made

RICHFIELD—Reports on 4-H camp were made by Arnold Ross and Roger Goicoechea when the West End 4-H Club met at the home of David Brush.

Roger Goicoechea and David Ross gave talks on sheep and photography. Leader Glen Ross gave tips on completing workbooks and fair preparations.

Prices Down

HYATTSVILLE, Mo.—Grain prices generally declined during the April-July period reflecting in part prospective record crops, reduced world demand, smaller exports and generally slow demand, according to Grain Market News by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

As a result of the decline, Grain Market News states, prices the first three weeks of July were mostly well below a year ago.

Carryover stocks of wheat on July 1 were the smallest since 1952. Holdings of the four feed grains totaled 65 million tons—10 per cent less than a year ago. Soybean stocks were the largest of record.

Instructions On Showing Cattle Given

SHOSHONE—Three things are important to a judge of fitting and showing contests for dairy cattle, according to Ivan Hopkins, Lincoln County extension agent.

The instructions come this week as members of 4-H clubs prepare for the Aug. 4-5 fair here.

First in importance is the appearance of the animal, second appearance of exhibitor and third is the way the animal is shown.

Basing his information on instructions from George Cleveland, dairy specialist for the University of Idaho, Hopkins said, "Have the animal in thrifty condition, not too fat or too thin. Trim and clean the feet so the animal stands and walks naturally on clean floors."

"It is recommended that horns be removed, but if the animal has horns, they should be scraped and polished."

"Clip hair to improve looks. In clipping cows, all breeds should have the entire udder trimmed. Clipping the belly is optional. Tails of all dairy show animals should be clipped from just above the switch to tail setting. Clip enough of the tail setting to make the top line smooth and straight."

With the exception of Milking Shorthorns, the heads and ears of all dairy cattle should be clipped. In the case of the Milking Shorthorns, clip coarse hair from inside the ears. Other clipping on head and neck of the animal is optional.

All animals should be clean from hoof to horn. The boys and girls showing the animal should be clean, too. A white costume is preferred, but any clothing is acceptable if clean and neat.

"How the animal acts in the show will determine a part of the placing. Be sure the calf leads well and poses easily. Teach your animal to lead at moderate pace. Lead slowly enough to show the animal at her best but not so slowly that a delay occurs."

"When turns are required, make them sharp. Handle the animal from the left side at all times with a rope or leather halter. Make sure it fits. Hold the lead strap about six inches from the halter. Do all showing with your halter and free hand. Do not use your foot or a stick to place the feet or move the animal. Watch the judge at all times."

Tractor Event Is Added To Elmore Fair

GLENS FERRY—This year for the first time the Elmore County Fair will include a tractor driving contest as well as the 4-H tractor driving contest, according to Herb Edwards, County Agent.

County youths and interested adults will demonstrate skill in handling farm tractors on Friday, Aug. 11, at 2 p.m., at the Fairgrounds in Glens Ferry.

Anyone is invited to enter, and in order for 4-H youths to be eligible for district competition they must have satisfactorily completed work in tractor safety, care and maintenance, and gained experience at home in servicing and operating a farm tractor.

Each contestant, open class and 4-H, will demonstrate his ability in each of these areas in the contest, Edwards said.

They will be quizzed on the steps in servicing a tractor, and demonstrate operating skill with both a two- and a four-wheel wagon attached. Skill in maneuvering the rugged course, safety precautions, and time required will determine the score. The contestant with the lowest penalty score is the winner. The public is invited to view this year's contest.

Feed Unchanged

BOISE (AP)—The index of prices paid by Idaho farmers for feed was unchanged in the month ended June 15 but it was up five points from that a year earlier, the U.S. Department of Agriculture reported today.

The index was 10 points higher than the average for June 15 in the 1957-59 period, the department said.

The agency reported production of red meat by commercial slaughter plants in Idaho during May was estimated at 16,391,000 pounds, about the same as in April but up 11 per cent from production in May last year.

INSPECTING A 27-acre field of certified Gem barley grown by Norman Eckert, Buhl, are members of the Buhl FFA Chapter during their recent annual bean and grain growers

Buhl FFA Chapter Has Its Annual Bean, Grain Tour

BUHL — Bean and grain growers of the Buhl FFA Chapter held its annual tour recently. Each year members tour each grower's farm where the student has the opportunity to explain to the members of the tour how he raised his crop and what plans he has for completing the project.

Dean (Mac) Kump, area fieldman for Bean Growers Warehouse Association, and Carl Leth, Buhl FFA adviser, answered questions on the tour. Topics discussed on the tour were fertilizers used, herbicides used, cultural practices used and future plans for the land.

The chapter winning in each of the bean and grain divisions will enter the area Bean and Grain Growing Contest. The winners of the chapter and area contests receive awards from Bean Growers Association and the area winners also receive an expense paid trip to the Midwest, which also is sponsored by the Bean Growers Association.

Acquisition Of Elevators Is Planned

The United States Bean Marketing Association (USBMA), highly praised as a "do-it-them-selves" project for pinto bean farmers in Colorado, is seeking to either purchase or contract with elevators in Magic Valley.

Several growers throughout this area are members of the marketing organization and seek a framework within which they can market their crops profitably.

USBMA's program of acquisition of elevators is part of a farmer effort to create a pricing mechanism for pinto beans while at the same time streamlining the marketing processes to protect the consumer.

The Colorado bean farmers are either buying or contracting for the use of a number of storage elevators, and with other growers to deliver their 1967 crop to the association.

The USBMA plans for temporary on-the-farm storage facilities so the bottleneck at the elevator is relieved during harvest time. Storage is an important part of USBMA's total marketing program and contract growers will be paid for on-the-farm storage at the rate that local elevators have historically charged for the same service.

Those local growers contacted felt that the marketing organization was a good one and that the establishment of the USBMA in Magic Valley would be a boon to all bean growers.

Farmer's Costs Up 3 Per Cent

WASHINGTON — Costs farmers pay for commodities and services in the month ended June 15 climbed less than one per cent, but were three per cent higher than for the period last year, reported the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

And prices farmers received were three per cent less than they received last year for the period. Farm parity ratio was at 74. A year ago parity was at 79.

Lamb Crop Drops

BOISE — The Idaho lamb crop for 1967 is estimated at 706,000 lambs saved, reports the USDA Crop and Livestock Reporting

Harvester

LOS ANGELES — A new tomato harvester developed by the FMC Corp. is probably the most efficient built to date.

As the unit moves through the field, self-sharpening pick-up discs cut tomato vines slightly below ground level. Vines are instantaneously gathered by a winding belt.

Even loose tomatoes on the ground are picked up. A shaker mechanism thins the vines and causes the fruit to be separated. The fruit is routed through an air stream to sorting belts where culls are removed. Spent vines are discharged behind the machine.

Social Held By Cedar Draw Unit

BUHL — The Cedar Draw Grange held a homemade ice cream and cake social at the grange hall Friday evening. The refreshments were served by the home economics committee chairman, Mrs. Carl Hendrix, and her staff.

Mrs. and Mrs. Harry Hill were introduced as guests. It was reported that 24 members attended the work meeting to make grain sheaves for the county fair booth. Another work meeting will be held soon. Mrs. Carl Hendrix served refreshments at the meeting.

The next regular grange meeting will be held Aug. 11 with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Hendrix and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hendrix as hosts.

Event Held

GLENN'S FERRY — Demonstrations for the Elmore County Fair were held in the Glenns Ferry High School Home Economics room Monday, by seven 4-H'ers.

Judges were Mrs. Ruth Shane and Becky Butler of Gooding County, and Mrs. Harold Halpline, Bliss. Announcement of ribbons and awards will be made during the fair, according to Judy Graybeal, Elmore County Home Extension Agent.

Service — This year's crop is three per cent below the 1966 lamb crop and 18 per cent below the 1961-65 average.

A lamb crop of this size would be the smallest lamb crop of record, dating back to 1924, the reporting service says.

Meet Set In T.F. On Seed Certification

Seed Certification Officials representing the Western Section of the International Crop Improvement Association will be meeting in Twin Falls on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, reports H. E. Finnell, manager of the Idaho Crop Improvement Association, the host association for the affair.

This session will bring seed certification and seed control personnel from California, Wyoming, Utah, Nevada, Oregon, Montana, Washington and Idaho together for a three-day work session on problems affecting states in the area. A united front on seed certification proposals may be developed at this session for presentation to all states when the International Crop Improvement Association meets in the fall.

Western Seed Control Officials will meet in joint session with the Seed Certification group on Tuesday morning. The seed control meeting will continue on through Thursday with main emphasis on such discussion topics as seed testing of treated seed, seed certificates, quarantine, seed laws and related subjects.

Because of the nature of the topics and business under discussion, the two meetings will not be open to the general public. Official representatives and guests on invitation will be the only people in attendance.

Robert L. Eschbach, chief, seed branch, Washington State Department of Agriculture, Yakima, Wash., is chairman of both sessions, concluded Finnell.

CSI Starts Agriculture Business Program

Currently in the Magic Valley, one out of every five persons is employed in an agriculture related job.

The College of Southern Idaho in order to meet the existing and anticipated demand for persons knowledgeable in this field initiated the Agriculture Business program at the Area Vocational-Technical School.

This course, the first of its type in the State of Idaho, was designed for students seeking careers in the agricultural business area. The program combines formal classroom training with practical work experience in a business establishment which utilizes a knowledge of agriculture.

The classroom courses involve study in principles of agriculture, merchandising, soil and plant science, agri-chemicals and fertilizers, animal science and nutrition, business management and procedures become more scientific and technical this need will become even more acute.

In a predominantly agricultural area like Magic Valley the need for persons with agricultural backgrounds and training is essential. As current methods and procedures become more scientific and technical this need will become even more acute.

The College of Southern Idaho Area Vocational-Technical School is presently receiving applications in this field. Interested persons should call Gerald Meyerhoeffer, Vocational Guidance Counselor at 733-9554, extension 49, or visit the school at 1300 Kimberly Road, Twin Falls.

SCRUBBING THEIR ANGUS steer is the first step in getting the animal ready for the show ring. The two 4-H girls are engaged in a beef project, similar to hundreds of Magic Valley 4-H'ers, which includes learning to groom animals for judging. Many top award winners in the national 4-H Beef Program are girls. The young hopefuls here are Mary Whitlen and Leo Richardson, both Hillops, Ill.

Rupert Cow Completes Lactation

RUPERT — A 4-year-old registered Holstein cow, Jewel Stockland 5473490, owned by Louis Bott and Sons, Rupert, has completed a lactation of 18,510 pounds milk, 686 pounds butterfat and 1,567 pounds solids-not-fat in 305 days. Production sampling and testing procedures were supervised by the University of Idaho, in cooperation with official Holstein breed improvement programs.

Under Holstein-Friesian Association of America's production testing, the solids-not-fat portion of milk is being recorded as part of each cow's lactation credits. SMP are those nutrients such as protein, lactose and minerals found below the creamline of milk.

Total nutrient testing was started in 1962 by the Holstein Association to provide breeders with another selective tool in improving the over-all performance of cattle in their herds. It is also a useful measure of milk's food value for dairy products processors and homemakers.

Meat Board Issues New Catalog

FILER — The National Livestock and Meat Board has issued a new Meat Publication and Visual Aid Catalog for 1967, according to Vernon Lassen, local swine grower.

This 24-page publication lists and provides pertinent data on all of the board's current textbooks, booklets, manuals, point-of-purchase material, wall and lecture charts, folders and leaflets, posters, filmstrips, menu clip-ons and many other items.

Pictures of many of those items have been included along with their physical descriptions and prices, to assist prospective users in deciding which materials best fit their needs.

The catalog listings show how the board's program covers every facet of meat — with materials available on all meat as well as on beef, pork, lamb and sausage.

The catalogs are available from Consumer Communications Department, National Livestock and Meat Board, 38 South Wabash Ave., Chicago, Ill. 60603.

Sales of meat board educational materials have increased one-third over last year, reports the Consumer Communications Department.

"101 Meat Cuts" has been a popular item with requests and favorable comments from retailers, packers and, particularly, educators. It also has had wide distribution among consumers.

Other popular items, especially with schools, have been the nutrition filmstrip, "The Power of Food" and the slide set which accompanies "101 Meat Cuts."

Also demand has been strong from within the livestock and meat industry for the board's merchandising manuals in response to merchandising memos from the board to the meat trade urging stepped-up promotion efforts in connection with the meat supply situation.

Provisions

Remain Same For New Year

Major operating provisions of the 1968 wheat program will be virtually identical to those in effect for the 1967 crop, according to Carl Boyd, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation county committee.

An important 1968 program provision detail different from the 1967 program is that the domestic marketing certificates which are an important part of participating farmer's income will be issued on 40 per cent of farm allotments based on the national allotment of 69.3 million acres.

For the 1967 crop, domestic certificates are to be issued to participating farmers on 35 per cent of farm allotments based on the 1967 national allotment of 68.2 million acres.

Marketing certificates on the 1968 wheat crop—as for 1967—will be valued at the difference between full wheat parity (as of July 1, 1968) and the national average price-support loan level of $1.25 per bushel.

Program provisions for the 1968 crop wheat which are identical to those in effect for the 1967 crop include (1) no acreage diversion program, (2) continuation of the substitution provision for wheat and feed grains for growers participating in both programs, and (3) continuation of the "excess wheat option."
