Administration Will Have Job Reshaping Old Age Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Johnson administration already has opened a drive to try to persuade senators to reshape the House Social Security bill more to its liking. But checks with members of the Finance Committee, which will open hearings on the far-reaching legislation Tuesday, indicates that administration officials have a tough job on their hands. Officials of the Welfare Department, talking with committee members in advance of the public testimony, have stressed two points: 1. That the Social Security Insurance benefits in the bill passed by the House Thursday, considerably below the level recommended by President Johnson, are inadequate. 2. That the public welfare amendments added by the House, over administration objections, are unduly harsh and will cause more suffering among those most in need of help. These amendments are designed to force a reduction in the relief rolls or at least to hold down on future increases, particularly in the category of aid to dependent children. Johnson expressed pleasure at a news conference Friday at House passage of the bill, although he added: "There are some matters that they brought into it that we hoped they wouldn't. There are some reductions made that we didn't think would be made."

Auto Mishap Fatal For Jerome Driver

A Jerome man was killed and his passenger escaped with a fractured rib Saturday morning when the vehicle in which they were riding plunged 50 feet into Snake River Canyon just southwest of the Jerome golf course. State Patrolman Bill Watts said the victim was identified as George A. Miller, 38, Jerome, who had recently been working at Sunbeam and also in Idaho Falls. Although the accident occurred at about 11 a.m. Saturday, officers were not advised until after 3 p.m. A passenger and owner of the car, Carroll Leytham, 46, 501 W. Ave. C, Jerome, was still in the vehicle when officers arrived. Mr. Miller, who Mr. Leytham told officers was driving, was dead at the scene of head injuries. Officer Watts said Mr. Miller was thrown out as the vehicle rolled over once after it left the private road-way which leads into the canyon and to State Department of Highways gravel stockpiles. Patrolman Watts said the death will not be counted in the Idaho traffic fatalities at this time since it occurred on a road clearly posted as private property. Mr. Leytham remained in the vehicle and suffered a fractured rib. He was listed in good condition at St. Benedict's Hospital, Jerome, late Saturday. Officers said he was still seated in the car when they arrived at the scene. Two young Jerome boys who had gone into the canyon to fish-notified police of the accident. They passed the scene Saturday morning and when they returned at 3 p.m. saw the accident and rode their bicycles into Jerome to report it to Jerome police. The vehicle was traveling south on the road west of the golf course, officers said, and the driver apparently drove through a two-strand wire gate and onto the canyon road. Officers said the driver apparently drove down the grade and approached a right turn, he turned but did not straighten the vehicle out again and drove off the right hand side of the road. Mr. Watts said if the vehicle had gone another 20 feet it would have dropped about 150 feet straight down into the canyon. After rolling over once in boulders, it came to rest on its wheels facing the same direction in which it had been traveling. George A. Miller was born Aug. 18, 1931, in Vernal, Utah, and served in the U. S. Army during the Korean War. He was a member of the LDS Church and of the Jerome Elks Lodge. He was married and divorced and is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Truman C. Miller, Jerome; two sons, George and Douglas Miller, and a daughter, Diane Miller; a stepson and stepdaughter, Michael and Patricia Shields, all of Jerome; two sisters, Mrs. Elaine Harper, Bremerton, Wash., and Mrs. Geraldine Conner, Jerome.

Evidence Of Red Terror Plans Found

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials reported preliminary evidence Saturday of Viet Cong plans to mount a terror campaign aimed at disrupting the September election in South Vietnam. Communist harassment could include attempts to assassinate opposition candidates and blame the killings on the present military regime whose leaders are running for office, the officials said. Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu and Prime Minister Nguyen Cao Ky are the front-runners in a field also including 10 civilian slates. The civilian candidates have been accusing the government of sabotaging their campaigns. Washington authorities believe the murder last Dec. 7 of a leading anti-Communist member of the Constituent Assembly, Tran Van Van, was the work of the Viet Cong. And they say some 30 candidates were assassinated during last spring's election of 13,000 South Vietnamese to local offices. The officials said a number of recent Viet Cong defectors and prisoners reported having received orders to disrupt the national governmental elections slated for Sept. 3. This plus Communist broadcast condemning the elections, and the past pattern of Viet Cong tactics has led Washington authorities to expect a wave of terrorist acts during the final few days of the political campaign.

Man Admits Shooting Wife, Burning Children In Fire

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — A small-town Sunday school superintendent has admitted shooting himself and inventing a story in which he blamed midnight marauders for the deaths of his wife and four small children in their burning home. Sheriff Peter Lahr said Saturday that David Hoskins, 30, had signed a statement saying he had shot his wife, then set fire to their farmhouse to conceal the crime. No charges were immediately filed. The charred bodies of his wife, Lorita, 29, and their children, Julie, 8; Darla, 5; Linda, 1 1/2; and David, 6 weeks—were recovered Friday from the smoldering ruins. The Hoskins farm home is about 60 miles north of Minneapolis in Central Minnesota. "Hoskins states that after wounding himself with the death weapon and setting the fires, he also tied himself to his outdoor clothesline pole and only then realized that his children were in the burning house," the Stearns County sheriff said. "He further claims that he attempted to free himself, to save the children but became entangled and was unable to free himself," the sheriff said at a news conference. Hoskins, chairman of the board of the Church of Christ at nearby Kimball, Minn., where he had been Sunday school superintendent for three years, was found tied to a clothesline pole by a group of teenagers. Some youngsters noticed the house and barn, afire and stopped to investigate. Hoskins was naked to the waist and bleeding from gunshot wounds in the shoulder and abdomen. He was taken to St. Cloud hospital, and a bullet was removed from his shoulder. At the hospital, Hoskins told the sheriff he was watching television with his wife when he heard a car door slam about midnight Thursday. Hoskins said he went outside to investigate, was jumped by four or five young men who shot him during a scuffle and then tied him, arms spread outward, to a clothesline pipe near the house. The sheriff said Hoskins changed his story during interrogation at the hospital Friday night. Hoskins was not under formal arrest, but a guard was at the door to his hospital room. Hoskins, a helicopter pilot in the National Guard, was taken off the danger list Saturday and was reported in serious condition. Paul Doener, Stearns County

Flames Fanning Through Idaho Panhandle, More Firefighters Are Sought

By The Associated Press
Slight winds fanned flames through the dry timberlands in the Trapper Peak country of Idaho's panhandle Saturday as forestry officials issued a call for more men to battle the 3,400-acre blaze. An estimated 900-1,200 men were on the fire lines Saturday. Some 100 of the fighters from the Crow Indian tribe near Billings, Mont., were to be released from duty Sunday morning after several days on the fire line. They were to return home for traditional tribal ceremonies. Forest Service personnel did not know if rain dances would be part of the ceremonies. Temperatures throughout much of the Northwest were again in the 100s Saturday. Highs for Sunday were predicted to be lower, 90-95 in some places, but no significant rain was forecast. Thunderstorms were a possibility. The call for reinforcements came from the Kaniku National Forest headquarters in Sandpoint, Idaho. Some 190 fire fighters were sought — about half of whom were to be assigned to the once-controlled Plume Creek fire which blew up Saturday morning. When contained earlier, the Plume Creek fire was 30 acres. But Saturday it was an estimated 60 acres deep in 15 acres of fire retardant. More than 100 men were working the Plume Creek fire lines Saturday. Coordinating the fire-fighting task in five states is the job of the Forest Service headquarters in Missoula, Mont., which for eight days has been an around-the-clock operation. Forest officials have been working 12 and 14 hour shifts daily. Fire-fighting specialists and analysts from throughout the nation were called in Saturday as no break in the dry-hot summer appeared imminent. Despite the continued heat, fire boss Gus Verdal — on the Trapper Peak blaze north of Priest Lake in Idaho — said he hoped his fire would be controlled by Wednesday. The nearby Kaniku Mountain fire was expected to be controlled by Sunday, according to forest boss Edsel Corps. Fire fighters were thwarted somewhat, however, by rocky 600-foot cliffs on the west edge of the high-country fire straddling the United States-Canada border. More than 300 men were fighting the Kaniku Mountain blaze Saturday as it moved to well over 200 acres. Convoys moved in and out of the West Vancouver Island community of Tofino, B.C., Saturday in the first highway traffic since a forest fire cut the only route to the area Wednesday. The convoy included 273 cars and trucks, carrying about 500 persons, leaving Tofino under escort of police and Forest Service officials. Another group of 26 vehicles, many carrying food and other supplies, moved out of Alberni, B.C., toward the island's west coast. A temporary bridge had been built over a creek, replacing one burned Thursday. About 3,000 persons, many of them tourists, were in the West Vancouver Island area when the fire started. Elsewhere in British Columbia and North Idaho, major fires burned through dry timberlands. Three crews of Indian fire fighters — after controlling the 12-acre Tourist Creek fire north of Kellogg, Idaho, Friday night — were dispatched to the 600-

Oregon Blaze Controlled, Others Burn

By The Associated Press
State foresters say they have a fire near Roseburg controlled which could turn into one of the most dangerous fires this year if weather conditions change. The blaze is near Ysee Mountain, about 10 miles west of Sutherlin in Douglas County. The main fire Saturday was about 100 acres and there was another 50-acre spot fire. The foresters said the absence of strong winds has kept the fire from getting out of control. The Douglas County fire was one of 15 reported Saturday by the state forester. Lightning caused blazes were reported in the East-Central, Klamath and Northeast Oregon districts. They were all minor. The U.S. Forest Service reported minor fires in the Ochoco, Malheur, Wallowa-Whitman, and Winema forests. The most serious one was in the Siskiyou National Forest about 40 miles northwest of Grants Pass on Indigo Creek. It was controlled Friday night and 120 men were on it Saturday. Hot, dry weather resulted in the complete closure of the Ashland district of the Rogue River National Forest. The district contains 14,000 acres in the Ashland watershed. The closure means the public may not use the forest for any purpose. The Siuslaw National Forest will be closed to all logging midnext Sunday. The Willamette National Forest is being considered for a closure, but the public is still able to use campground areas.

Freeman And Party End River Float

SALMON, Idaho (AP) — Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman and his party ended a four-day river float trip with a flourish Saturday, then flew back to civilization. The group, after floating leisurely down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River to its confluence with the main Salmon, took a jet boat ride before motoring some 50 miles to Salmon City in northeastern Idaho. The jet boat trip was to Lantz's Bar and return—about 14 miles downstream from the confluence of the Middle Fork and the main Salmon. F. E. Powers, supervisor of the Salmon National Forest, who accompanied the party, said they "enjoyed the trip very much." The Freemans were scheduled to fly to Salt Lake City in a Forest Service plane, in time to catch a commercial flight to Washington this evening. Secretary Freeman was accompanied by Mrs. Freeman. The party also included Edward P. Clift, chief of the U.S. Forest Service. The Middle Fork of the Salmon runs through the Central Idaho Primitive Area, administered by the Forest Service.

Finalist

GRAINTREE, Mass. (AP) — The "Gents," a five-member rock and roll combo from Utah, won the first national battle of the bands here Saturday night. More than 4,000 persons attended the finals of the competition involving the winners of 29 state "Battle of the Bands" competitions. The competition was to pick the best rock and roll combination in the nation. Second place went to "The Action Brass" of Colorado. "Tony's Tygers" of Wisconsin finished third. The "Gents" won a bus-type automobile, wardrobes, color cameras and an undisclosed amount of cash. Second and third prize winners received wardrobes, cameras and cash. Other bands finishing in the top ten included: "The Disciples" of Twin Falls.

Brown Is Jailed On Federal Gun Charge

NEW YORK (AP) — H. Rap Brown, jailed on a federal gun charge, was held in $25,000 bail Saturday over the protests of his lawyer who said the militant Negro leader was a political prisoner. Brown, chairman of the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, was arrested at 2 a.m. outside a friend's Manhattan apartment and put in the Federal House of Detention. Brown's lawyer applied for reduction of the bail, set by U.S. Commissioner Earl N. Bishop, but the move was turned down by Federal Judge Inter-Wyatt, who denied that the bail violated Brown's constitutional rights. "The real crime is his being Rap Brown and a militant black man in America," said William Kunstler, Brown's attorney. Brown was charged with carrying a semiautomatic carbine on an airline flight from New Orleans to New York while under indictment, a violation of the Federal Firearms Act punishable by up to five years in jail and a $2,000 fine. He is under indictment in Maryland on charges of arson, rioting and inciting to riot. When arrested, Brown was not armed, but federal agents said they later searched the apartment with a warrant and found a gun in a plastic bag with a "banana" clip of 31 bullets. A carbine is a light, short-barreled, rifle. Asst. U.S. Atty. Stephen E. Kaufman said Brown was seen carrying the weapon in Baton Rouge, La., Thursday and also was seen buying ammunition. When airline agents in New Orleans asked him Friday if he was carrying a gun, Brown replied yes and turned a rifle in a plastic bag over to an agent for transportation during his flight to New York, the complaint said. Kunstler said that the gun was always in its plastic case.

Gas Induces Viet Cong To Surrender

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
SAIGON (AP) — Four Viet Cong suspects emerged alive from a tunnel in the hills 27 miles southwest of Da Nang Saturday because U.S. Marines used riot-control gas rather than more deadly weapons in one of the minor actions that now typify the ground war. The explosion of a grenade bearing chemicals that induce tears and nausea caused three men and a woman to crawl out of their hiding place after they had spurned orders from Leathernicks of the 5th Marine Regiment to surrender. Associated Press photographer Rick Merron, who was on the scene, said a search of the tunnel by masked Marines yielded field packs, canteens and ammunition for a Communist assault rifle. Highlights of other developments: —U.S. pilots flew a near-record 186 multiple missions Friday in the recently expanded air war against North Vietnam. This was second only to the record of 197 missions set Aug. 3. Communist supply lines were the prime targets. —In a periodic updating of aircraft losses in the war, the U.S. Command said 2,573 planes and helicopters had been destroyed from all causes. Planes destroyed in combat over North Vietnam totaled 647, over South Vietnam 199.

"Twisters" Damage Idaho Power Facilities

A half-dozen minor "twisters" tore through Southern and Southwestern Idaho Friday night, wrecking an estimated $10,000 damage to Idaho Power equipment before being spent in the turbulent air currents above the area.

According to John Cline, advisory agricultural meteorologist at the U. S. Weather Bureau in Kimberly, the "twisters" resulted from instability of the air mass caused by strong surface heating due to the area's lengthy heat wave.

"Extreme turbulence results when there is enough difference in the temperature of the rising hot air and the cool air above," he explained. "The 'twisters,' he added, are fairly common during hot, dry weather and can often be seen if there is heavy dust in the air.

Earl Haroldsen, Idaho Power division manager, reported that the first "twister" occurred at 4:34 p.m. Friday about 10 miles west of American Falls, twisting a two-pole power structure from a transmission line that ran from Boise to American Falls. Cost of repair was estimated at more than $1,000.

Negro youths rejected Police Chief John O'Connor's proposal Friday for a youth patrol that would try to help halt disturbances.

Banquet Is Discussed At Heyburn Meet

HEYBURN—The annual banquet recently held by the Heyburn Chamber of Commerce was discussed during the Thursday night meeting, conducted by Robert Burnha, newly installed president.

Letters of appreciation will be sent to persons assisting the chamber with the event. Members agreed that the event was the most successfully held in the history of the local chamber.

The turkey shoot, an annual event for the village, will not be sponsored by the chamber this year. Burnha said that any interested group or organization may sponsor the event this fall by contacting the village office.

Old car bodies collected during the recent clean-up campaign, and stored on the Simplot property behind the school building, will be disposed of this month. Members are contacting the county commissioners for assistance in finding a location for the disposal.

New industry interested in coming to Idaho was discussed and members feel that a control should be exercised by chambers to protect against further water pollution and waste. Membership dues are needed and letters will be sent to all members this month. Anyone wishing to attend meetings or join the chamber is welcome. Meetings are held at 8 p.m. the third Thursday of each month, in the village conference room.

Two Sawtooth Fires Put Out

Two small spot fires on Sawtooth National Forest land in Magic Valley were quickly extinguished Friday and Saturday as continued hot weather brought burning conditions here to the near-critical stage.

One spot fire was reported out Friday on Deer Creek and another larger blaze charred one quarter of an acre of Lodgepole Pine in Bear Gulch west of Halley Saturday afternoon before being brought under control about an hour after being ignited by lightning.

The Fairfield-based inter-regional fire suppression crew, numbering 25 firefighters, remains on call in the area due to the high fire danger here, Darrell Smith, Forest Service fire dispatcher, said.

Daily Weather Report

FROM TIMES-NEWS 24-HOUR WEATHER BUREAU WIRE

Magic Valley Forecast

Fair Sunday and Monday. In the 80s and lows 43 to 53. Chance of showers less than 10 per cent. Cooler Monday. High temperatures Sunday-93 to 103 and lows Sunday night 53 to 63, except Camas Prairie with highs Weather Bureau.

Synopsis, Farm Summary

Hot weather continued over this district as temperatures continue in the 90s in most southern Idaho valleys. In the Snake River Valley a few readings exceeded the 100 degree mark for the 10th day.

A change will be taking place over the weekend in the upper air circulation pattern and this will reflect in some temperature change over the Pacific Northwest Sunday and into southwest Idaho Monday and Tuesday. Some increase in cloudiness will occur over Oregon east of the Cascades.

No precipitation is expected to accompany a minor disturbance moving over this district Sunday night or Monday.

Temperatures are expected to drop to the upper 80s which is near normal during the first of the coming week.

Cooler nights will occur on the highlands and the upper Snake River Plains during the early part of next week.

30-Day Outlook

Temperatures and rainfall will average near normal in southwestern Idaho. In southwestern Idaho temperatures will average one to three degrees above normal and rainfall will be below normal from mid August to mid September.

Rainfall during the next 30 days will probably average less than 15 of an inch in the valleys of southwestern Idaho and most of Magic Valley and will probably range from about 25 to 75 of an inch in southeastern Idaho, the Wood River valley and Camas Prairie, occurring mostly as scattered showers and thundershowers.

The seasonal cooling trend gets well under way during this period, with normal daily maximums lowering about 10 degrees into the 70s and low 80s and normal daily minimums dropping eight or nine degrees into the 40s by mid September in the principal agricultural areas of Southern Idaho.

The downward trend of temperatures brings a gradual increase in the risk of frost. Analysis of long periods of records show that for most of southwestern Idaho and a considerable part of Magic Valley the probability of occurrence of 32 degrees or below remains less than 25 per cent through the middle of September. The risk increases to 25 per cent by September 15 or shortly before at Emmett, Mountain Home, Twin Falls, Hollister, Hazelton, Rupert, Oakley, Blackfoot, Idaho Falls and Madlad, and by Sept. 9 at Shoshone and Preston. At Hailey, Richfield and Aberdeen a 25 per cent probability of 32 degrees or lower occurs by Sept. 4 to 6 and increases to 50 per cent probability by Sept. 14 to 16. Corresponding dates for 25 and 50 per cent risk of freezing for Ashton are Aug. 25 and Sept. 4, and for Tetonia and Fairfield Aug. 19 and 29.

These figures are averages and do not take into account the variations in length of frost free periods in individual years. They should, however, serve as a useful guide in long range planning.

College Play Is Scheduled At Fairfield

FAIRFIELD — The King's Players of Asbury College will present the play, "Dear and Glorious Physician," at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Camas County High School Gymnasium. The performance is sponsored by the Community Church and is open to the public.

The King's Players is an independent, non-profit religious drama group under the direction of Dr. and Mrs. Mark B. Lloyd, speech professors at Asbury College. This is the fourth year the group has taken a tour during the summer. This year's group is composed of ten students and the tour will take them through 18 states.

Jack Harmish will play the leading role of Luke, the doctor. The play is taken from Taylor Caldwell's novel relating to the story of Luke, the young doctor, who became the author of the Gospel of Luke.

There is no admission charge but a free will offering will be taken.

Part Of Raid

SAIGON (AP) — Lt. Dennis Merrill, 23, of Pocatello, Idaho, a bombardier, was on one of the A6 Intruders from the carrier Constellation that hit the Nam Dinh army barracks southeast of Hanoi Thursday.

"There was thunder and lightning all around but we found the target and damaged three of the buildings," he said.

COMMUNITY REDEVELOPMENT through local and federal "partnership" is discussed in Twin Falls by from left, Sam Weinstein, HUD assistant regional administrator, San Francisco; Voy Hudson, Twin Falls Urban Renewal agency chairman, and U. S. Sen. Frank Church. The three participated in a one day workshop on community development Friday in Twin Falls. More than 150 city officials from eight western states attended the workshop.

Public Housing, Code Enforcement Top Local Development Workshop

Public housing, demolition and code enforcement sessions of the Community Development Workshop drew major interest, sponsoring officials of the workshop reported Saturday.

The one-day program Friday in the Holiday Inn featured addresses by community development experts during the morning and informal conference sessions in the afternoon open to special interest groups.

Mayors, city councilmen, city planners and other officials from seven Northwestern and Intermountain states attended the workshop sponsored by the Association of Idaho Cities and National Association of Housing and Redevelopment officials.

Members of the workshop committees said in Twin Falls Saturday the program, the first of its type in the Intermountain area, was extremely well received by city officials and representatives of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Officials of HUD, District six, San Francisco, said late Friday they believed more such programs should be held to give city officials late information on what is available in the way of federal programs and what qualifications communities must meet for participation.

Speakers from U. S. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, who keynoteed the workshop with a luncheon address, to planning officers in small communities, stressed the importance of action at the local level now to help small western cities avoid the slum conditions and other serious conditions found in many of the larger metropolitan cities in eastern states.

Jack Schonborn, deputy administrator, Department of Housing and Urban Development moderated discussions on community qualifications featuring Richard Mitchell, renewal specialist from the sixth region and John R. Merrill, planning assistant for the regional office assigned to Seattle, and Louis B. Ambler, assistant administrator of housing.

All urged communities to work out their own programs through citizen planning committees and advisory boards but said federal officials are available to assist and provide information on federal funds and application information.

Speakers from communities where redevelopment programs have been completed with success pointed out the problem of anti-urban renewal forces which are present when any project is undertaken. Officials of Springfield, Ore., as a result of urban renewal proposals faced a recall election and won.

Leland Anderson, urban renewal director there, told the delegates. He outlined improvements in his community through urban renewal and said now the project is over several points have been listed which might have been better handled. The Springfield report, he said, is available to other communities planning similar projects.

Delegates interested in public housing, especially for senior citizens, toured the Duvall Courts and Sunnyside Courts as guests of the Twin Falls Housing Authority. Larry Harper, director, said considerable interest was shown in the local project.

North Vietnam Establishes Major Fixed Base To South

By JOHN T. WHEELER WITH A U.S. AIR FORCE STRIKE TEAM OVER THE A SHAU VALLEY, Vietnam (AP) — Despite hundreds of bombing raids, North Vietnam has established its first major fixed base in the South complete with a 25-mile road open to heavy truck traffic.

North Vietnamese labor battalions and bulldozers began in February to push the road into South Vietnam, linking the base to the Communists' long-established road network in Laos.

Some 50 raids by eight-jet B52 bombers and several hundred raids by jet fighter-bombers have failed to destroy the carefully camouflaged base camps east and west of the valley floor or to cut the plainly visible road for more than a few hours at a time, military officials report.

This failure has raised serious questions in the minds of some senior military men over the ability of airpower to seriously hamper the flow of men and materials into the South. The aerial campaign against the A Shau Valley base complex has been waged under the most ideal conditions offered to the jets in the Vietnam war.

Senior U.S. officers voice fears that the buildup in the 13-mile valley and road projects through Laos aimed at points farther south signify a far larger North Vietnamese military effort than the Communists have launched to date.

For the present, there apparently are no plans to invade the nearby gun-barrel straight valley—375 miles north of Saigon and 62 miles west of Da Nang, one of the biggest U.S. bases in Vietnam. Military operations against the valley would require too many troops—perhaps a division—and risk too many casualties to be worth it, a U.S. military source said.

But unless something is done, senior officers believe, more artillery rocket attacks can be expected such as a barrage on Da Nang air base that caused $25-30 million in damage. Another cause for concern is that flatbed semitrailer trucks have been spotted in the valley. These could carry Soviet-made rockets capable of hitting Da Nang from the valley or SAM missile capable of driving away the B52s. No rockets have been spotted yet, intelligence sources report.

The military history of the A Shau Valley stretches back at least three years and in the view of some military officials shows clearly Hanoi's plans for a fullscale war in the South.

CAST-IN ROLE

ALGHERO, Sardinia (AP) — Actress Elizabeth Taylor's brother, Howard Taylor, 37, professor of oceanography at the University of Hawaii, has been cast in the supporting role of a British journalist for her new Tennessee Williams screenplay being filmed on the Italian island. Taylor and his wife and their five children are vacationing here with Miss Taylor and her husband, Richard Burton. The film was first titled "Boom," then "Sunburst," then back to "Boom."

Showdown Nears

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A showdown is expected Monday in the attempts of the Metropolitan Park Board to keep Nashville's Liberation School from meeting in a public park.

"We're not going to move," said Fred Brooks, the Black Power leader of the school. "It's a public park. We're staying here. If they try to eject us, we'll be back Monday and this time bring the black community with us."

Dr. G. E. Reichardt, park board chairman, said Friday an injunction petition was being prepared.

Park Supt. Frank Pickens served notice Friday on Brooks that the school, accused before a Senate committee of teaching racial hatred, was meeting without a permit.

JUST SAY CHARGE IT AT PENNEY'S

WASHINGTON—A few days ago, I suggested to the administrative aide of a distinguished member of Congress, just noted for his continuing concern for the faceless taxpayer, that his boss might want to throw a punch at a tax structure which permits the oil and gas industry to escape $10 billion a year in taxes while the plain citizen goes into hock to pay his share.

"Are you kidding?" the man said. "We're up to here in oil companies in our state. You want my tiger to commit political suicide?" The legislator in question privately considers the oil depletion allowance and other gimmicks bestowed on the oil and gas industry by Congress a disgrace. So do many other legislators. But for the most part they dare not say so publicly because they know the industry would have their heads.

This scandal is seldom referred to on Capitol Hill since the 1966 defeat of Illinois's Paul Douglas, who was the most implacable and articulate enemy of tax loopholes for the rich. Douglas called the 27 1/2 per cent depletion allowance "a great disease." Today, however, only such as Rep. Tom Steed of Oklahoma and Sen. Wayne Morse of Oregon have the guts to speak out against this systematic looting of the Treasury.

Oil men are not only rich, they contribute lavishly to political campaigns and use their riches to intimidate any members of Congress who threaten to get out of line.

As a result, Standard Oil of New Jersey, the giant among oil giants, paid only 1.7 per cent of its gross profit of $1,628 billion in taxes in 1964. By contrast, Consolidation Coal Co. paid 26 per cent of its gross profit of $44,863,073.

Meanwhile, the average American corporation pays a 48 per cent tax on net profits, and a married couple with two kids would pay an income tax of $2,268—or more than 15 per cent—under the President's proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge.

The term depletion allowance should be as well known to Americans as their favorite cuss word, but most likely a majority never even heard of it. It is an offering to the oil and gas industry by which the industry pays no tax at all on the first 27 1/2 per cent of gross income. The industry also has drilling and development allowances, some of which have been as high as 80 per cent.

Without these boons to oil and gas billionaires; there would be no necessity for Lyndon Johnson, a part-time oilman himself, to ask for an income tax boost. Johnson's proposed surcharge would raise only $6.3 billion in additional revenue; closing the oil and gas loopholes would bring in $10 billion. But while Main Street is asked to dig deeper, some oil men continue to pay a smaller percentage of their profits in taxes than even the lowest-bracket individual taxpayers. Over the years, many of them have paid no taxes at all and have even received rebates from the Treasury despite showing fat profits.

Lyndon Johnson said during the 1960 campaign, "There are no loopholes in oil." John Kennedy made wistful noises about reducing the depletion allowance, but was overwhelmed by the howls of the industry's fat-cat campaign contributors and indeed, stood still for a fund-raising dinner in Texas in January 1963 at which oilmen raised $500,000 for the Democratic party.

Eisenhower was pally with oilmen like the late W. Alton Jones of Cities Service, who organized a cabal which contributed more than $50,000 to the upkeep of Ike's Gettysburg farm. It was Ike who signed over the tide-lands to Big Oil and issued 60 oil leases on government land, although in the previous 55 years only 16 such leases had been granted.

Thus the citizen who is aware of this outrage in the tax structure knows he can expect precious little help from the White House, whichever party is in power. But he still has his vote and, presumably, is capable of putting a few words together on lined paper. If he used that talent to write a "Dear Sir, you cur" letter to his Congressman, it might dawn on the people's representatives that the people would like a little representation.

Public Sours On Johnson

WASHINGTON (AP) — Those were President Johnson's golden days, 1965. This summer of 1967 is hot but for him they are the cold days, getting colder. If he pays attention to public opinion, and he does, it's enough to make him shiver.

Starting out in 1965 he had it all his own way, thanks to the 1964 elections. In Congress his Democrats swamped the Republicans, with 295 to 140 seats in the House, and 67 to 33 seats in the Senate, a two-thirds edge.

No wonder then, with these majorities and his ceaseless prodding, the Democratic-run Congress produced the most remarkable legislative year in history. And he had time for prodding in those days. The Vietnam war was in babyhood.

He had just begun the U.S. military buildup in 1965, with only 165,000 Americans there by the end of the year. He was criticized for being involved in the war at all, but his standing with the voters was high.

In the first six months of 1965, for example, when it was clear the troop buildup had begun in earnest, the Gallup poll showed public approval of the way he handled his job dropped from 71 to 64 per cent.

But by June public approval was back up to 70 percent. This couldn't last unless Congress was able to repeat its amazing performance in 1965 or unless the war somehow could be brought to a quick and victorious end. Neither happened.

Congress coasted in 1966 and there were no victories in Vietnam. The war became a nightmare. The troop buildup went on. There was more discontent at home.

This was reflected in the 1966 elections, giving back to the Republicans 48 House seats, three Senate seats. The Johnson breeze in Congress died away. He prodded less—as he became more preoccupied by the war.

Congress dawdled this year, just as it did in 1966. The war criticism piled up on Johnson. The doves were still complaining. But so were the hawks now. They wanted Johnson to make the war tougher.

He began talking of a war dragging on indefinitely. The American death toll in Vietnam went up from 1,365 at the end of 1965 to over 12,500 now. And already there is a bad odor from the upcoming elections in Vietnam.

They were supposed to have been a shining symbol of how the United States, which claimed it was fighting the war to assure the South Vietnamese of self-determination, was helping the people establish a democratic society.

On top of the empty basket from Congress, the endless war, and Johnson's realization that he had to ask for a tax boost to pay for the war, he was drenched in the summer of 1967 with riots, the worst in history. Few can doubt he wants to be re-elected in 1968 but the Gallup and Harris polls over the week-end must have chilled his blood. Both reported that now only 39 per cent of those quizzed approved the way he handles the presidency.

Perhaps a major reason for this sour public reaction is lack of forceful leadership. Johnson and the country, instead of giving a sense of movement, seem to be marking time.

One example: he was criticized for not sending U.S. troops fast enough into Detroit to crush the riot although it still is not clear whether he or Michigan's Gov. George Romney was responsible for the delay.

But Johnson was far from forceful when he went on television to explain—he did the explaining at midnight—why he sent the troops at all. And he has not been forceful about the riots since.

He set up a commission to study riot problems with instructions not to make its final report until next summer.

When Johnson was Senate majority leader he knew no one could achieve anything by giving orders to the other 99 senators. Solutions were obtained through compromises, sometimes called a consensus. In the presidency Johnson has given few examples of decisive leadership. Rather, he gives the impression of using his Senate technique of seeking consensus, or trying to determine public reaction, before moving.

The Doll House

(EDITOR'S NOTE: While Art Buchwald is taking a few days off, a blue ribbon-panel has selected some of his articles of the past that it insists the public would want to read again. At least that's what Buchwald told us.)

WASHINGTON — I have nothing against toy companies. In their own way, they bring happiness to the hearts of our young-ones and they give employment to thousands of people all over the country. It is only when they try to bankrupt us that I feel we should speak out. If my situation is duplicated around the nation, every father who has a daughter between the ages of 4 and 12 is going to have to apply for relief. This is what happened:

My 7-year-old daughter requested, 4 months ago, a Barbie doll. Now, as far as I'm concerned, one doll is just like another and since the Barbie doll costs only $3 I was happy to oblige.

I brought the doll home and thought nothing more of it until a week later my daughter came in and said, "Barbie needs a negligee."

"So does your mother," I replied.

"But there is one in the catalog for only $3," she cried.

"What catalog?"

"The one that came with the doll."

I grabbed the catalog and, much to my horror, discovered what the sellers of Barbie were up to. They'll let you have the doll for $3, but you have to buy clothes for her at an average of $3 a crack. They have about 200 outfits, from ice-skating skirts to mink jackets, and a girl's status in the community is based on how many Barbie clothes she has for her doll.

The first time I took my daughter to the store I spent $3 on a dress for her and $25 to outfit her Barbie doll.

A week later my daughter came in and said, "Barbie wants to be an airline stewardess."

"So let her be an airline stewardess," I said.

"She needs a uniform. It's only $3.50."

I gave her the $3.50.

Barbie didn't stay a stewardess—long. She decided she wanted to be a nurse ($3), then a singer in a night club ($3), then a professional dancer ($3).

One day my daughter walked in and said, "Barbie's lonely."

"Let her join a sorority," I said.

"She wants Ken."

"Who is Ken?"

She showed me the catalog. Sure enough, there was a doll named Ken, the same size as Barbie, with crew-cut hair, a vinyl plastic chest and movable arms and legs.

"If you don't get Ken," my daughter cried, "Barbie will grow up to be an old maid."

So I went out and bought Ken ($3.50). Ken needed a tuxedo ($5), a raincoat ($2.50), a Terry cloth robe and an electric razor ($2), tennis togs ($3), pajamas ($1.50), and several single-breasted suits ($27).

Pretty soon I had put up $400 to protect my original $3 investment.

Then one evening my daughter came in with a shocker.

"Barbie and Ken are getting married. Here is the list of wedding clothes they'll need as well as a picture of Barbie's dream house."

"Seven ninety-five for a house?" I shouted. "Why can't they live on a shelf like the rest of your dolls?"

The tears started to flow. "They want to live together as man and wife."

Well, Barbie and Ken are now happily married and living in their dream house with $3,000 worth of clothes hanging in the closet. I wish I could say that all was well, but yesterday my daughter announced that Midge ($3), put out by the same toy firm, was coming to visit them. And she doesn't have a thing to wear.

We Have A Governor

A lot of people are angry at some of the things he has done or said. At the same time there are many others who are pleased.

In defense of Gov. Don Samuelson—if he needs any defense—it must be pointed out that he DOES do things. When he first took office the general opinion seemed to be that as an unknown he would roll with the wave. How wrong this supposition was.

Now we find Gov. Samuelson stirring up the waves and sending them over every part of the state.

His task as chief executive of Idaho is a difficult one. The man he followed—a member of his own party—had held the post so long that everything he did just sort of seemed the natural thing to do.

Admittedly, memories are short. When Bob Smylie was in office he was cursed and discussed. So the fact that Gov. Samuelson is getting some of the same treatment is really not unexpected. What is unexpected is that he is "going to town" and stirring up a lot of things at once.

What is happening, of course, is that "Big Don" is actively substituting his own ideas for those of the man he followed into office.

In doing this it is necessary that he be given credit where credit is due. He is fearless and determined both at the same time.

It is also to his credit that he is running his office as he thinks best and as the laws of the state allow him to operate. A lot of people voted for him.

He has many months to go before his four-year term ends. It is too early to speculate whether he will seek another term—but then, why wouldn't he?

The Governor, as most everyone can see, will provide a lot of "copy" for the newspapers of the state in the months to come.

He's not a yes man or a shrinking violet.

We say more power to him.

Alone At The Top

There are not two superpowers in the world. There is just one—the United States.

This somewhat startling statement is all the more provocative, since it is made by a commentator in a country whose leader would like the world to believe there are three superpowers—the U.S.A., the U.S.S.R. and France.

Russia is indeed a nuclear power, writes Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber in the French news weekly "L'Express," as quoted by Atlas magazine. But it is nothing more.

The United States, however, is both a major nuclear power and a "conventional" power capable of intervening within hours in any part of the world.

This year, he points out, the United States spent more than $50 billion on its armed forces. Russia laid out $15 billion in the same period or about one-fourth as much.

Since Russia must maintain an intercontinental nuclear striking force on the same scale as the United States and a huge ground army in Eastern Europe as well as on its Siberian border, little remains for military intervention outside its borders.

It is not a question of will or of nuclear capability, says Servan-Schreiber, but of industrial wealth.

The Israeli secret services were the first to discover this gap, he claims, and they learned it from three world crises that preceded the six-day-Middle East war of this June—Berlin in 1961, Cuba in 1962 and Vietnam in 1965, when American bombing and troop build-up began on a massive scale.

In each instance, the Soviets pulled back from confrontation with the United States. Thus the Israelis were convinced of the fundamental fact that Russia would not intervene to aid its Arab allies, and laid their plans accordingly.

Suppose, suggests Servan-Schreiber, that North Vietnam is the Israel of Southeast Asia—tough, determined, infused with high morale. South Vietnam is the Arabs—soft, irresolute, corrupt. North Vietnam's General Giap is the equivalent of Israel's General Dayan.

Further assume that the threat of Soviet intervention dissuades the United States from setting foot in South Vietnam. Giap's forces, free to act, would soon be in Saigon, just as Dayan's forces swept to the Suez Canal.

The difference is that in one case the American threat keeps Russia from intervening (and Dayan can strike), while in the other case the Russian threat is powerless to prevent American intervention (and Giap is paralyzed).

On the seas and on the borders between the two worlds, Russia is incapable of confronting the United States. The allies of one are protected, the allies of the other are not.

This he sees as the crux of the world situation, and a guarantee of world peace—at least for the foreseeable future.

BARRY GOLDWATER

We Need Full Legal Protection

All charges stemming from riots against rioters and anti-rioters alike should be tried with full legal protection in the courtroom. Obviously, that is the one place where we can restore some sanity to the madness that has been sweeping our streets recently. If those charged, on either side, settle their differences in the streets, then we will indeed have compounded the worst that has happened with the worst that could happen—a renunciation of law by everyone.

There will be literally thousands of charges brought against rioters. These charges should not be mitigated by blackmail. If any of the charges are dropped because of threats from mobs of more rioting, then an encouragement to murder and madness will have been given which is worse than many promises of "reward" for good behavior, as proposed in many suddenly motivated by no other emotion than blind fear.

The point is that if the charges against rioters are dropped under threat, then the rioters will be given something even better than a reward for their bloody work. They will have been given immunity. In return for tearing their society apart, they will be given their society's sanctuary.

On the other hand, and by exactly the same lights, the charges against the rioters should be weighed in the spirit of the laws under which they will be tried and not in the spirit of the violence that engendered the crimes. Every judge who, even if understandably, throws his judicial restraint out of the courtroom window and needlessly berates or unfairly decides against a defendant, will have actually stepped outside to join the mobs in the streets. The answer to the lynch law of the mobs is the real law of civilized men.

There could be a temptation in some communities, black and white, to revenge every trial by new fires; some by the burning of crosses; others by the burning of more homes and stores. There also could be the spreading fuse - fire of the sort of guerrilla warfare which Communist-supported radicals now preach. The answer to the first must be given steadily in terms of the law. The answer to the second must be given, as suggested in an earlier column, by a complete re-orientation of our national and local attitudes. We must recognize, in short, that we are in a moral war to preserve law and order. We must avert a real shooting war. A war on two fronts, moral and shooting, would require every bit of skill we have to wage both successfully at the same time.

Finally there are the charges against police and national guardsmen involved in putting down the riots. They, too, should have their day in court—not being judged guilty or innocent in advance—and surely not defended or condemned in advance by shouts from the streets. If guilty they should be punished fully. If innocent they should be vindicated and protected fully.

There simply is no compromise with these matters that can buy anything but timeless trouble.

Justice is our beachhead. We must hold it against all odds.

Some Things For A Life Worth Living

NEW YORK (AP) — Some things that make life worth living: The humming of a wife, happy in her kitchen. Beating the boss at gin rummy. Opening a door and finding on the other side someone you long have wanted to see. A letter from an old mother saying that everyone back home is doing fine — and so is her flower garden. Counting the blooms on a lilac bush. The stunning silence, louder than noise, that suddenly falls on a battlefield when all firing ceases. The arms-around-shoulders singing of "Auld Lang Syne" at a farewell meeting of men who have fought a war together and know that the peace they won will not separate them forever. Nothing in the world is quite as wistful as that feeling that the price of their victory is the loss of their unity. Hearing the eager footsteps of someone running gladly to meet you in the dark. Going window shopping on Fifth Avenue in Manhattan on a lovely summer day, when all the important people have fled to the country. Listening to an orthodontist say that his overhaul of your young daughter's teeth won't be as extensive — or expensive as you feared. The relief at learning that an operation of a long-time friend discovered no malignancy. The unutterable sensation of eating a plate of fried eggs, country ham, beaten biscuits and cream gravy after ending a long diet. Dunking your flushed face in a cold spring during a long-hot climb up a mountain in Colorado, Wyoming or Montana. Standing under a waterfall, and imagining that it is washing away every guilt you've known since you punched the snooty nose of the leering 5-year-old young lady who bent you at the top scotch in kindergarten. Strolling in the city at twilight past the open window of an apartment, wherein a sweet-voiced woman is playing the piano and singing some old tune, such as "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming." Being asked to make an assembly speech by the principal who once threatened to throw you out of high school for cutting capers in study hall. Getting a $15 raise when your wife had insisted only that you demand $7.50 more. Watching with a child the flash of a falling star, and making a silent wish that the child would grow up in a finer world than mankind has ever enjoyed before.

MR. SPECTATOR

Brother! What A Game!

It was the game of the century. In fact, it might have been the game of two centuries because some of the men playing on the teams appeared to be at least that old — especially after the conclusion of the game.

The big contest was between the Kiwanis Club and the Rotary Club—both of Twin Falls—and after all the dust had cleared the Kiwanis bunch had won 20 to 18 after seven terrific innings.

And, as the Kiwanis captain was quick to point out: "We came from behind 18 to 8 to beat them, too. We just wore them out." The Rotary captain immediately denied this and claimed the trouble came about when, in the twilight of the evening, the Kiwanis pitcher didn't use a ball with the result the Rotary players were striking out at nothing.

But in any event the Kiwanis Club had made claim to the city service club championship for slowpitch baseball—or softball, that is.

Somewhere the game results disclosed that Dr. Jack McNeese was the winning pitcher while the loss was credited to Dick Irwin. Among the more active players for Kiwanis were Eldon Evans, Gordon Cox, Armour Anderson, Vernon Riddle, Bill Koch and Jerry Swenson. For Rotary Jack Smith was captain and catcher. Others involved included Frank Long, Loren Wheeler, Russ Cunningham, Frank Baughman and Dick Cook.

There were others who appeared on the field but they were there such a short time that the scorer couldn't get the names written down. As for both teams being in shape! As one spectator (other than Mr. Spectator) said: "There were all kinds of shapes on that field. Boy, what a view!"

So now a move is on foot to have all the service clubs in Magic Valley engage in such a tournament next year and crown a champion—which will be the team with the guys able to stand up the longest.

A DUCKY PROJECT A group of researchers at the University of Minnesota is making a seven-year study of ducks—specifically the shoveler duck. Seven years.

The researchers have already discovered that ducks are a lot like people, heaven help them. They build homes, pair off, keep the same mate—at least until the young ducks grow up — and defend their homesteads.

And stronger ducks take a bigger share of things than weaker ducks.

Now this is all mighty interesting, especially to ducks. But it does seem to a non-researcher that seven years is quite a spell to devote to just ducks.

The head of the research group explains that the project is aimed at trying to discover why ducks act as they do. It seems a pity that ducks haven't the means to try to find out why researchers act as they do. And if they could find out, quite a few people would like to know why, too.

Brotherhood Of Bachelors Stage Protest

FAIRMONT, W. Va. (AP) — Demonstrators advocating "bachelor-power" and "better dead than wed" paraded in front of the Marlon County courthouse.

Their target was the marriage license bureau.

It was the first "coffee break" demonstration staged by the Cosmic-Worldwide Perpetual Nonviolent Brotherhood of Bachelors and Madrigal Society, International. The tongue-twisting title has been shortened to CWPNBOMSI, but that, too, has some shortcomings.

The society is only three weeks old, but cofounder John Lemley, Jr., says it's snowballing.

"We're simply dedicated to the principles of bachelorhood," he declared, "but we're not women-haters."

"Oh, no far from it. We're definitely progirl but antimarriage."

But why the pickets in front of the marriage license bureau?

"We just felt they are too free in issuing these licenses," said Lemley, a confirmed 25-year-old go-it-aloner. "They give them to anybody, you know."

"Unfortunately, the demonstration lasted only seven minutes and the only arrival got to the bureau just as we were leaving," he added.

Two policemen were on hand Friday said Lemley, to "protect the pickets from any marriage-crazed women who might want to whack us with a purse or something."

"We also had a medic on hand—just in case—and we had a lawyer there with a book on marriage and allony in West Virginia," he said. "We thought we might help some poor, unsuspecting soul."

What was the reaction from the county clerk's office on the demonstration?

First, the clerk is a girl—Joan Bernis—and Lemley says "she's something else."

"This is the first demonstration we've had here and we didn't know how to cope with it," she said. "As county clerk, I'm not sure where my loyalty should be in this matter. Being single myself, I can't entirely be against this demonstration."

AN EMPLOYEE of the Twin Falls Construction Co. walked away from his demolished truck without injuries late Friday. Twin Falls sheriff's officers said Arthur H. Florence, 34, said his brakes failed as he approached the railroad crossing just north of the Claborn corner and south of U.S. Highway 30.

Idaho Drug Problem Viewed

By ALLEN M. BAILEY
BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Legislature passed two laws this year to strengthen control over sale and use of narcotics and dangerous drugs — but no one really knows just how bad Idaho's drug problem is.

Law enforcement officials say the problem in Idaho with users and sellers of narcotics and drugs is not of major proportion, but efforts are being made to eliminate it entirely.

C. E. Barnett, head of the State Board of Pharmacy, said the new laws give enforcement agencies the tools with which to work, but he said no one had any idea of the statewide scope of the problem.

In the Boise area, Ada County and Boise city agencies are investigating drug and narcotics use in conjunction with the State Board of Pharmacy—and 14 arrests were made last weekend.

County and state officials raided several residences and, according to Ada County Sheriff Paul Bright, confiscated amounts of marijuana and LSD, as well as a number of narcotic-oriented publications and apparatus used to inhale marijuana. Also confiscated were several kittens exhibiting the effects of narcotics.

The kittens had to be killed, the Humane Society said, because their brains were permanently damaged by marijuana given them in a water bowl underneath a sink during one of the "pot parties."

Bright produced a tape recording of a young man questioned in Boise who told officers he had recently gone to San Francisco for the sole purpose of purchasing a large number of LSD doses for sale in the Boise area.

Boise Police Det. Jim Lam-born, who handles investigation of juvenile narcotics use, said as a police officer he was not so much interested in punishing young people who sample drugs or narcotics out of "natural curiosity," as in apprehending those who supply the drugs.

To get these "pushers," police agencies often use undercover agents who may purchase the drugs and lead officers to the pusher, when he has some of the illegal substance in his possession.

Detection of such chemical substances as LSD and a new one called STP is difficult, Lam-born said.

In fact, no trace of the drugs can be found in a person's blood because the doses are so small.

To even determine that a sugar cube or piece of paper is soaked in the substance takes complicated chemical analysis.

On the other hand, such "hard" narcotics as opium, heroin, morphine and codeine (opiates) leave traces in a person's blood stream so it can be determined if a person has used the narcotics.

Idaho doesn't have much problem with use of "hard" narcotics, however.

College towns often are areas with some drug activity, mostly because of the great numbers of young people curious about the forbidden substances.

College students also use amphetamines (stimulants) such as dexedrine and benzedrine without prescriptions in order to stay awake over long periods for studying — but that, too, is

Denies Report

NEW YORK (AP) — Greek actress Melina Mercouri Friday denied reports that she belongs to a Greek exile organization.

The actress was stripped of her citizenship last month and her Greek property confiscated for calling the military regime that seized control April 21 a fascist dictatorship.

Reports linking Miss Mercouri with an exile organization came from Vienna, Austria.

"No one has approached me asking me to participate in such a government," Miss Mercouri said through her press agent.

But, the actress added, "I will be honored to work with any responsible government to restore the constitutional government in Greece.

"All they have to do is to tell me who they are and what their platform is."

WE GROW HARDER!

Idaho is blessed with the ingredients for growing: Rich, volcanic soil, abundant water and plenty of sunshine. Nature has also bestowed upon our state another ingredient that makes things grow harder. The largest deposits of phosphate ore in the north American continent are located in Idaho. Fertilizer manufactured from this phosphate bonanza is making Idaho crops grow harder and adding substantially to our economy. Natural Gas heats the boilers and kilns in Idaho's phosphate plants. Natural Gas is also a raw material used in the manufacture of anhydrous ammonia . . . another effective fertilizer made in Idaho with increasing national demand.

We are enjoying every moment of this vigorous growth. Intermountain Gas Company is supplying natural gas to its 64,000 customers throughout southern Idaho at a cost equal to or below that of any other natural gas utility in the northwest.

FIRE PUT OUT
BOISE (AP) — A grass fire in southwestern Idaho was extinguished early Saturday morning after it blackened 750 acres of land, the Bureau of Land Management said today.

A BLM spokesman said the fire was brought under control about 4 a.m. after 130 fire fighters had worked on the blaze since early afternoon Friday.

The area was described as being inside the Idaho border near Jordan Valley, Ore.

The spokesman said the fire was one of the largest for the BLM this year. It was the 40th call of the year, he added.

GROUP DISBANDED
BOISE (AP) — The steering group for a citizens committee to study legislative operations disbanded Friday after selecting 30 names of citizens to invite to membership on the committee.

Heading the steering committee was Sen. Bill Roden, R-Boise, who said names of those selected from all segments of Idaho's economy would not be released until they had all either accepted or declined.

The Idaho Citizens Committee on Legislature is to study the legislative processes and suggest possible changes. The steering group was composed of legislative council members.

Four of the citizens members are to attend a conference with similar groups from Oregon, Montana, and Utah in Portland, Ore., Sept. 8-9 and hear Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

ASKS DISMISSAL
BOISE (AP) — The head of an Idaho meat processors group told an Idaho Personnel Commission hearing Friday that he had asked Gov. Don W. Samuelson for the dismissal of the state meat inspection supervisor.

Before the hearing recessed until Monday, Robert Callender of the Idaho Meat Processors Association said he had asked for the resignation of Dr. C. H. Kennedy.

Kennedy was dismissed in April by Agriculture Commissioner Stanley Trenhale and asked for the hearing in his petition for reinstatement.

Callender, also an Emmett meat packer, contended that 99 per cent of his group wanted Kennedy's resignation.

A Pocatello veterinarian, Dr. R. V. Swanson, told the commission that Trenhale had called him to Boise during the regular legislative session to try to head off a movement to have Kennedy dismissed.

Swanson said Trenhale told him at the time that "they are out to get Kennedy."

Kennedy, of Meridian, charged in his petition that he was ousted for "political reasons."

OFFICIAL DIES
BOISE (AP) — Harlan G. Formo, 47, an assistant director in the Idaho Department of Health, died Friday in a McCall, Idaho, hospital.

Hospital officials said an apparent heart attack was the cause.

Formo had been assistant director of the department's Division of Engineering and Sanitation and chief of the water pollution control section.

He had been with the department for about 11 years. Dr. Terrell O. Carver, health department director, said Formo's work in the field of water pollution control had been responsible for Idaho's being one of only five states to have its interstate water quality standards approved by the U. S. Department of Interior.

FORESTS CLOSED
BOISE (AP) — All northern Idaho public range and forest land outside Nez Perce National Forest was closed to general admission today because of extremely high forest fire danger.

The closure came in a Friday order by Idaho State Land Commissioner Gordon Trombley and excepted only local residences and established campgrounds and parks.

Northern Idaho has several forest fires, including the 4,000-acre Trapper Creek blaze, and has sweltered for days in 100-degree-plus temperatures in many areas.

Trombley's order closed the following forest protective districts: Kootenai Valley, Priest Lake, Bend Oreille, Mica, Cataldo, West St. Joe, Kendrick, Clearwater-Potlatch, Maggie Creek, Craig Mountain, Kamsu, Coeur d'Alene, St. Joe National and Orogrande.

The order was to be effective until Oct. 20 unless specifically revoked before then.

TO RECEIVE GRANTS
MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Six University of Idaho students will receive $1,600 senior year trainee ships in special education for the 1967-68 academic year.

Recipients are Bette L. Bushnell, Caldwell; Ann Geras, Idaho Falls; Janet T. Newsome, Moscow; Ann L. Rutledge, Boise; Susan Vent, Moscow; and Dennis A. Wright, Gooding.

CONVENTION ENDS
COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — Newspaper Association Managers, Inc., wound up a five-day convention Friday, electing Gordon P. Owen Jr., Salt Lake City, as president and choosing Wisconsin as host for the 1968 convention.

BRIDGE BURNS
BOISE (AP) — A man-caused North Idaho grass fire destroyed a bridge which may cost $450,000 to replace, Idaho State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathes said Friday.

The 36-year-old Plummer Creek bridge on State 5 burned Thursday and traffic was rerouted between Plummer and St. Maries, just south of Lake Coeur d'Alene.

Mathes said the bridge originally cost $45,000, but a new non-wood bridge and relocation of several miles of highway would cost about $450,000.

VOLUMES PRESENTED
MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Reproductions of the first printed collection of city plans of the medieval world have been presented to the University of Idaho Library special collections.

The three large Latin Volumes were presented by the local chapter of Phi Beta Kappa in honor of the late Dr. Frederic Church, professor of history, emeritus, whose special interest was the 16th Century.

The original volumes were published by George Braun and Franz Hogenberg of Cologne between 1572 and 1598.

ROAD TOLL SET
By The Associated Press
 Idaho's 1967 traffic death toll stood at 140 today after a Pennsylvania man was killed in a car-truck collision near Twin Falls.

The total was 167 on this date last year.

William Alfred Vanslyke, Girard, Pa., was killed when his car collided with a truck on State Highway 74, five miles southwest of Twin Falls, Idaho State Police said.

A Caldwell, Idaho man died in a truck-train accident on a county road near Shelby, Neb., Friday night.

Police said Clark B. Snyder, 69, died when the car in which he was riding collided with a Burlington freight train.

Arabs Study Acts Against U.S., Britain
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Pan Arab economic conference in Baghdad debated drastic measures against the United States and Britain Saturday amid reports it had agreed on gradual nationalization of U.S. and British-owned oil companies in the Arab world.

Reports received here said lack of agreement on other tougher measures might force the 29 finance, economy and oil ministers from 13 Arab states to refer the more thorny resolutions to an Arab summit conference planned for later this month or early September.

The reports said the economic conference might be convened again after the summit for discussions in the light of "new guidance" from the Arab chiefs of state.

Earlier dispatches from the Iraqi capital said agreement on gradual nationalization of U. S. and British oil companies had saved the five-day-old conference from a splintering clash between leftist and conservative Arab governments.

Right-Hand Driving Set For Sweden

STOCKHOLM (AP) — To make sure its prisoners go right when they emerge into freedom, Sweden is including prisons in a massive publicity campaign preceding the nation's changeover to right-hand driving.

The final stage of the publicity campaign is being kicked off this weekend, two weeks before drivers take to the right side of the road. The changeover is costing $120 million, with $7 million of that allotted for publicity.

"We have to reach everybody, including handicapped people, foreigners, children, prisoners and so on," says Lars Skioeld, director of the Right-Hand Traffic Commission.

Newspapers and broadcast stations are being used in the advertising campaign. Eight million brochures will be distributed Monday to all Swedish households, hospitals and prisons. More brochures in 10 languages are available for foreigners living in Sweden.

Toys, soda and beer bottles and milk packages are being used to impress everyone that Sept. 3 is H-Day. The H stands for hoeger, right in Swedish.

By H-Day 360,000 directional signs will have been replaced or changed. Roads will bear 130,000 posters reminding the public to keep right.

"It has gone well so far," Skioeld said this week. "We hope, with the help of 8,000 policemen against 1,300 normally, and 150,000 volunteers, that Sept. 3 will come and go as smoothly as possible."

Bound Over

Richard L. Copenbarger, Twin Falls, was bound over to district court to stand trial on charges of furnishing alcoholic beverages to a person under 21 years of age.

Russia Flays Attack On Its Embassy

MOSCOW (AP) — Pravda charged today that Communist China has deliberately made it impossible for the Soviet Embassy to function normally in Peking.

This was the closest the Soviet Union has come to hinting that a break in diplomatic relations might occur as a result of the Chinese anti-Soviet campaign and especially the attacks on the Soviet Embassy in Peking this week.

Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, said, "Literally not a single day passes without a malicious invention about the Soviet Union" in Chinese propaganda.

Each day the Chinese "fling the next handful of mud in an unsuccessful attempt to darken the achievements of our country," the newspaper said. The campaign has, "Taken the form of real hysteria."

Soviet people in Communist China are "subjected to curses and direct attacks on the streets of Peking," Pravda said.

Pravda said the Chinese government is seeking to distract its people from current domestic disorders approaching civil war by telling the people "their real enemy is not imperialism but the Soviet Union and other socialist countries."

Battle Over Proposed Tax Surcharge Gets Under Way

By JACK LEFLER AP Business Writer NEW YORK (AP) — The battle over the proposed income tax surcharge got under way in Congress this past week.

The Johnson administration rolled out its big guns to support the President's recommendation of a 10 percent tax increase on corporations and individuals.

Most members of the House Ways and Means Committee, which opened a hearing on the proposal, seemed cool to the idea and it appeared likely that a rough road was ahead for the tax program.

Appearing before the committee in behalf of the administration were Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler, Budget Director Charles L. Schultze and Gardner Ackley, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers.

They subordinated the cost of the Vietnam war to the economic situation in arguing for the tax boost, which would raise an estimated $7.4 billion in the fiscal year that began July 1.

These officials contended that the surcharge would be the best way to avert a $29 billion federal budget deficit, to dampen inflationary pressures and to forestall an upward interest rate spiral without slowing the economy into a recession.

Committee Chairman Wilbur D. Mills D-Ark. asked Ackley: "You don't have a fear, then, that a tax increase would further decrease plant utilization? Can we expect the unemployment rate to go up if there's a tax increase? Can we be certain that we can enact a tax increase without depressing industrial production?"

Ackley replied that the softness in the economy during the first half of this year is abating, that businessmen will begin rebuilding inventories in the closing months of this year and that the outlook is for a "buoyant" economy.

The committee will hear witnesses from private groups next week. Meanwhile, statistics were released that showed improvement in some important sectors of the economy. These included increases in industrial production, housing starts, corporate profits and personal income.

Some sources said these advances provided the administration with further ammunition to back its tax increase proposal.

"There's no question the economy is expanding," commented George McKinney Jr., vice president and economist of Irving-Trust Co. of New York. "The only question is whether it will expand sharply or very sharply."

The Federal Reserve Board reported that industrial output, in its first advance in six months, rose to 156.3 per cent of the 1957-59 average in July from 155.3 per cent in June. In July 1966 it stood at 157.2 per cent.

The Commerce Department announced that housing starts climbed 10.8 per cent in July to an annual rate of 1.36 million units from 1.227,000 in June.

The July rate was about 26 per cent ahead of the level of a year earlier and was at the highest rate since the 1,377,000 in April 1966.

Corporate profits rose in the second quarter to an annual rate of $79.2 billion from $79 billion in the first quarter, according to the Commerce Department.

The latest profits rate lagged well behind the $93.6 billion in the 1966 second quarter but economists considered it significant that the quarter-to-quarter declines of the two preceding periods didn't continue. In its second consecutive monthly gain, personal income in July rose by $4.5 billion from June to a record annual rate of $67.1 billion, according to the Commerce Department.

Automobile production this past week rose to an estimated 44,400 cars from 34,043 last week as output of 1968 models picked up.

New car sales in the first 10 days of August declined to 181,660 from 189,778 a year earlier.

Steel output last week increased 4.5 per cent to 2,338,000 tons from 2,237,000 tons the previous week.

The market was still going through a process of consolidation, analysts said. It was an adjustment to a strong summer rally which put averages up to new highs for the year.

This was a resumption of a very sharp advance from the first of the year to May 8.

Wall Street is now looking ahead to the uncertainties of early September, symbolized by the Labor Day milestone which is traditionally a turning point for business and the market.

The big questions in the stock market community were: Will Congress enact the proposed income surtax. If so, how much will it really be and when will it take effect?

What will be the side effects of the election in South Vietnam? Will there be military escalation? Will there be an auto strike?

Wall Street was adopting a kind of watch-and-wait attitude. The Dow Jones Industrial average, last week took a trifling loss of 1.61 at 810.04.

Volume sank to 41,978,010 shares as the length of the daily sessions on the New York Stock Exchange was cut to four hours from the usual 5 1/2, so that brokerage houses could catch up on paper work. The total compared with 46,507,220 the previous week when four of the five sessions were abbreviated to four hours.

The major changes return to the 5 1/2 hour days next week. The Associated Press' average of 60 stocks last week lost 1.3 at 340.3. Of 1,592 issues traded, 617 rose and 849 fell.

Allis-Chalmers took the spotlight, rising vigorously in response to a second acquisition offer from Ling-Temco-Vought but then falling as Allis-Chalmers directors decided to turn the bid down. Allis ended with a net loss of 1 1/2 while LTV fell 1 1/2 to 137.

Prices were mixed in the bond market. The Treasury market dallied early in the week awaiting announcement of the Treasury Department's financing plan, announced Thursday.

Treasury issues under five years fell in price toward the close.

Man Questions Fairness Of Compulsory Birth Control

Editor, Times-News: In relation to the article of Aug. 10, 1967, on compulsory birth control, I would like to know why a person who is financially able to support himself and his family, should not be allowed to decide for himself whether or not he wishes to practice birth control.

My interpretation of what the article advocates is a Communist form of government in which the police state has complete control over everything and everybody.

It was also stated that, and I quote, "There is a common canard uttered against the 40 million people in our poverty groups; that if they weren't lazy, if they had 'get up and go' they'd find lots of opportunities."

I know this quote to be true in many cases as I was raised in a town that now has rioting and looting. Yet, I sat in the same classrooms, with the same teachers, and received the same education as some of these people.

Why weren't they able to at least find some sort of work? For one reason, they didn't want to. They would rather let Uncle Sam support them.

These are the people who have no respect for the law, education, draft, taxation or other accepted policies of the majority.

Then could someone please tell me how they are going to get these people to take the pill?

In brief, if this program would be adopted it would take away another right of every decent human being of the United States of America.

Criticism Of Combat Plane Is Renewed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The controversial TFX all-purpose combat plane and its principal backer have come in for renewed criticism from a long-time adversary.

Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., continued his five-year fight with Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara over the plane by calling the Navy version of the swing-wing aircraft a costly, useless blunder.

McClellan said in a Senate speech Friday that Congress "has no alternative except to withhold funds" for the Navy version of the TFX, the F11B.

His reference was to $115 million in the annual Defense Department appropriations bill earmarked for six F11Bs.

McClellan said the plane was 15 tons overweight and may never be able to operate as intended off aircraft carriers.

"It was engineered in the office of the Secretary of Defense. That's where the tragic blunder is," said the Arkansas. He said the plane's major contractors—General Dynamics Corp. and the Grumman Corp.—have received more than 16,000 Pentagon orders for design changes.

The Pentagon called McClellan's statements "old hat."

The TFX and its various versions have been embroiled in controversy since McNamara decided that one basic plane could serve the needs of all the services.

Twin Falls Woman Reveals Letter On Tax Surcharge

Editor, Times-News: I have written our senators and representatives in Washington, D.C. the following letter. If a lot more people would write them in the same vein of thought possibly we could persuade them to vote 'right' on the income tax increase.

"Please, vote 'no' on the 10 percent surtax increase on our income tax. If the government would 'balance the budget' and quit spending beyond reason for so many unnecessary items there would be no need to tax the people beyond their endurance. The 'Great Society' has gotten clear out of hand and every clear thinking person can see it plainly.

Every individual has to live within their means or pay a terrible consequence—why not the government? Let us give the people back their initiative to work and quit subsidizing every crook in the nation. Let us quit trying to keep the whole world while our own nation is going to rack and ruin.

The respect of the rest of the world cannot be bought anyway. Since we have tried to feed the whole world we have lost the respect we once had from them. May God help you to do your best to save this nation from complete disaster."

Negroes Gather In Support Of Resigning Mayor

FLINT, Mich. (AP) — About 20 persons braved chilly night air and slept on the sidewalk outside Flint's city hall Friday night to show support for Mayor Floyd McCree, who says he'll resign Monday.

McCree, saying he won't continue to live "an equal opportunity lie," blames his decision on a city commission vote which rejected a proposed open housing ordinance last Monday.

The 20 persons, most of them young Negroes, stayed on the sidewalk after agreeing with city officials that they would not get on city hall property.

New "Keep off the Grass" signs were posted and observed, police said.

McCree backers said a giant rally is set Sunday. Flint, with 50,000 Negroes among its 200,000 residents, is the largest city in the nation with a Negro mayor.

Five Are Hurt In Explosion

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist terrorists planted a bomb and then hurled more explosives when authorities came to investigate Friday night, injuring an army demolition expert, a 15-year-old boy and three other persons.

Meanwhile, police in this British colony on Red China's border arrested 34 persons in a raid on the joint office of three pro-Communist newspapers which defied a court order to suspend publication Friday.

Police also raided the home of the secretary of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce and held him for questioning.

Couple Plans To Travel After Rites

By STEPHENS BROENING
Associated Press Writer
ST. DENIS, France (AP) — A month before his planned marriage to Groucho Marx' daughter, Melinda, 21-year-old Jacques Guilloux has quit his job as a $40-a-week town clerk and says: "We're going to travel. Maybe for five years."

"First to America to see her father," he added. "Then to Asia. I want to see how people live there. After that? We'll see."

Guilloux, who has long sideburns and speaks a little English, said Friday he met Miss Marx, also 21, on a kibbutz in Israel last month and "it was love at first sight."

He said his fiancée now speaks "40 words of French, which is better than when I met her. Then she spoke only 10 words of French."

"Anyway," he said, "we get along well. We understand each other."

Although an interview had been arranged in advance, Miss Marx declined to talk to a reporter. "You know women," Guilloux said. "Maybe if you come back tomorrow she'll talk to you," he added. "I'm sure she will."

Guilloux has an apartment in a public housing project in the industrial suburb of St. Denis, north of Paris.

"Promised Valley" Performances Thrill Audiences

Twin Falls Times-News
Sunday, Aug. 20, 1967

By NELSON WADSWORTH
Associated Press Writer
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Each evening as the desert sun sinks in the crimson west and darkness falls on this Utah capital, nearly 3,000 people crowd into the bleachers of a unique, out-door theater across from Mormon Temple Square.

There is a hush as the conductor clacks his baton and strikes up the band. Another performance of "Promised Valley" — the story of how the Mormons crossed the plains, conquered the wilderness and made the desert "blossom as the rose" — unfolds before an enraptured audience.

Since July 1, and continuing until Aug. 31, the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints has presented the hour-long musical nightly, except Sunday. Tickets are distributed free at the Temple Bureau of Information.

"Promised Valley" has developed into one of the biggest tourist bargains in the West," said Elder Mark E. Peterson, a member of the Council of Twelve Apostles and chairman of the church's Information Committee. "And the casts have been playing to standing-room-only audiences every night."

Peterson said the idea for the free show for tourists germinated in the committee about a year ago and was given quick approval by the church's First Presidency.

"It was really an experiment," he said. "We wanted something that would be comparable to our Hill Cumorah Pageant in the East, that would bring more tourists to Temple Square and get them to stay longer in Utah."

Before the end of the 1967 run, church officials estimate more than 100,000 people will have seen "Promised Valley."

The Temple View Outdoor Theater itself — though it cost $120,000 including electronic equipment — is only temporary.

It was built on top of an underground parking lot, directly over the foundation of the future, high-rise administration building planned by the church. When the general authorities get ready to build the skyscraper, the theater will have to go, but it is designed so it can be picked up and moved.

Life expectancy of the theater is five years; but by the end of that time the committee hopes to find a more permanent place, probably a natural amphitheater somewhere in the undeveloped outskirts of Salt Lake City.

"We definitely plan to make this an annual summer program," Peterson said.

The production itself is presented by the church's Young Men's and Young Women's Mutual Improvement Associations, and everyone in the cast performs without pay.

Director Ralph Margetts has a cast of 150 volunteers, of which between 65 and 70 go on stage each night. There also are alternate leads, Fred Bluth and Nelden Maxfield, for example, take turns playing Jedediah Cutler, the young Mormon soldier. And Rebecca Glade and Diane Murdock alternate as Celia Faraday Cutler, Jed's wife.

The show is highly professional, mainly because many on the production staff — which also serves without pay — make their living in the theater. Margetts is a drama professor at the University of Utah. The choreography, set designs and technical details also are directed by professional talent.

"Promised Valley" was written as a musical play by Broadway playwright Arnold Sundgaard, with music by Crawford Gates. It was first presented at the 1947 Utah Centennial Celebration in Salt Lake City, commemorating the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the Mormon pioneers in the valley.

Smog Clears

NEW YORK (AP) — The hazy envelop of smog that choked much of the Eastern Seaboard since Wednesday is gone for the most part today and showers are expected to clean out the pockets that are left.

The bad air reached from Albany, N.Y. and Connecticut to the Carolina coast and parts of Georgia. It made breathing difficult and being outdoors unpleasant.

But the situation did not really approach the danger level, the New York City Air Pollution Control Center said.

Fire Destroys Haystack Near Declo

DECLO — Freak winds whipped a controlled fire in a stubble field some 60 feet into the air to ignite and destroy a 100-ton hay stack on the Gus Engstrom farm here Friday afternoon.

Mr. Engstrom was burning the stubble field when the sudden wind came up and carried the flames into his farm yard. Hot embers were scattered to another haystack on the farm of Clifford Darrington about a quarter-mile away but Mr. Darrington was able to keep the stack wet and prevent another fire.

Ashes were reported scattered from the burning hay on Mr. Engstrom's farm as far south as the foothills and north to the village of Declo, several miles away.

Mr. Engstrom said his hay was not insured and loss would reach about $2,000. Declo village fire department men and equipment answered the alarm but the stack was engulfed in fire when they arrived. They were able to keep fire from spreading to a nearby ripe barley field owned by Cleo Dayley.

Hay was still smoldering late Saturday afternoon, and the Engstrom family reported ashes and soot from the fire was carried into the interior of their home through the ventilation system causing an undetermined amount of damage.

Mental Patient Immolates Self

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The charred body of John D. Copping, 33, a patient at a nearby U.S. Veterans Administration hospital, was found Friday after firemen extinguished a grass fire in a vacant lot.

Memorial Services Are Planned For Well-Known Boise Vocal Instructor

A memorial service for Lucille Lippincott, well-known Boise vocal instructor and performer, will be sponsored by her pupils at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday at the Twin Falls First Presbyterian Church. Rev. Robert Harvey will officiate. Miss Lippincott died July 31 at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital of a heart attack.

She was born at Silver City, and was the eldest daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Albert Church Lippincott. Her mother, the former Emma Haug, was a member of a prominent Idaho pioneer family.

Dr. Lippincott moved his family to New York when Miss became the pupil of Cataldi Jassoni. Her dramatic coach was Maestro Picozzi, head of Rome Opera. She made her operatic debut at Como, Italy, in Verdi's "La Traviata". She made a successful debut in New York in 1932.

On her way to Boise, she appeared as soloist at the Salt Lake Tabernacle. She then continued her career in Pasadena and Los Angeles.

Upon returning to Boise, she opened the Lippincott Studios in the Pinney Building. During the past 11 years, she had divided her time between Twin Falls and Boise, where she has developed prize-winning vocal students who have taken leading roles in the Boise Philharmonic productions.

Miss Lippincott was opera chairman for the Boise Tuesday Musicales, and a member of the National Association of Teachers of Singing. She was also Idaho state opera chairman for the National Federation of Music Clubs.

Contributions for a Lucille Lippincott Memorial Scholarship Fund may be left at the service, or sent to Mrs. Byrle Carr, 133 Larkspur Drive, Twin Falls, or to Mrs. Henry Westendorf, Filer. The public is invited to attend the memorial service.

LUCILLE LIPPINCOTT

Lippincott was a child. She began her musical education with private teachers, which led to her entrance in the Institute of Musical Arts in New York. During four years of study there, she illustrated the lectures given by New York critics, W. E. Henderson and R. E. Kriebel.

While visiting Cleveland, Miss Lippincott entered a contest sponsored by the Columbia Records Co. to determine the best man and woman singer in Ohio, and won over 1,400 contestants.

She later studied with Madame Theodore Toedt, Gabrielle Sibella and oratorio with Louis Koemmenich, conductor of the New York Oratorio Society.

Miss Lippincott was one of the first singers to broadcast over WEF, and later, NBC. She went to Italy, and in Milan

The Utah Highway Patrol said Cooper was killed when the car he was driving in a control, careened 500 feet down the median strip and ran into a cement flood-control culvert. Four Explorer Scouts, all about 15, in the car were injured and hospitalized at Valley View Hospital in Cedar City. The accident happened on Interstate 15, six miles south of Cedar City.

T. F. Kiwanis Club "Goes West" For Evening Of Entertainment

By MATILDA CRACKENBUSH
Times-News Special Writer

The play is the thing—especially when mixed with generous portions of a sumptuous dinner, a bus ride and a few hours of fellowship.

And so it was "Go West" the other night when members of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club, their wives and friends ended up at the Antique Festival Theatre at Buhl to view the professionally presented production of "Arms and the Man," penned by George Bernard Shaw.

It was one of those nights when the weather smiled and everything was just right.

The more than 130 Kiwanis members and their wives — with a sprinkling of members from the Filer and Buhl clubs — enjoyed the dinner at the Holiday Inn which was followed by the bus ride to Buhl and the Antique Festival Theatre.

Something extra was thrown in for good measure on the bus ride when one vehicle "blew" a tire with the result the last mile to the show was made with three loads of humans crowded into two carriers.

But this added extra spice to the evening with the results that when the curtain parted and the cast of "Arms and the Man" got going it was an evening to remember.

patio lights and flaming tiki torches provided the background setting for the authentic Hawaiian luau at Canyon Country Club hosted by the Welcome Wagon Newcomers Club of Twin Falls.

Guests were seated "luau fashion" on the ground at long low tables decorated with pineapples, candles, willow branches and brightly colored fresh flowers.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Tom Nelson, president, and then presented colorful name tags by Mrs. Gall Diamond and Mrs. Walt Thomas. As the guests walked onto the grounds, they were served punch in hollowed fresh pineapples complete with orchids by Mr. and Mrs. Frank Baum.

A program, featuring four dancing numbers, was presented, with Mrs. Max Euteneler as mistress of ceremonies.

The first group of dancers included six members of the club dancing to "Hukilau." They included Mrs. Euteneler, Mrs. Nelson, Mrs. George LaGrange, Mrs. Don Lidtke, Mrs. Don Warr and Mrs. Diamond. A number was presented by Julie Waters and Linda Billado from Donna Mauldin's Dance Studio.

Pizza Trick

If your family loves pizza, don't miss the trick of turning leftovers into their favorite treat. Meat loaf, roast beef, wieners, sausage, tuna, salmon or shrimp may be used this way. Make biscuit dough and pat it lightly into a large size pizza. Spread with leftover meat or fish. Top with ketchup. Add bits of cheese. Season lightly with thyme and paprika. Place on a buttered-cooky sheet and bake in a hot oven until the dough is lightly browned and cooked through and the cheese is melted and bubbly.

Kiwanis Club Attends Buhl Antique Festival Theatre

(Continued From Page 11) Directed by Di Bowler, the production was set in November and March, 1885, and the place was Bulgaria, near the Dragoon Pass.

Playmaster Shaw had called this play a "pleasant" one and although it has war for a background, it is hardly a believable war. Nonetheless, Shaw managed to put forth, in the lines of Blanche (The Chocolate Soldier) and Sergius, the Bulgarian "hero," many of his own beliefs about the futility of war.

It was a pleasant play, devoid of Shaw's usual plunges into the philosophic deep, but far from lacking ideas. At the final curtain the Kiwanis members — and their ladies — were still wondering just what was real and what was imagination.

The players — Marie Scott, Sue Galligan, Serena Sorensen, Dennis Dugan, Nicholas Berzenko Jr., John O'Connell, Philip Dietz and Robert Jacobs — all turned in pleasing performances.

At the break the visitation to the "Alley" at the side of the theater where art work was on view and refreshments were available, proved to be just the right tonic.

So Kiwanis members found that a "Night at the Theater" is much better than a "Night on the Town" and Gene Hull, chairman in charge, is dreaming of the trek to Buhl as an annual event — so long as there is one of those wonderful Antique Festival Theatre plays to enjoy.

Cleanup Chores Lessened With Paper Products

NEW YORK (NEA) — The paper explosion is here. Are you taking advantage of it?

Ideal for those who rent summer cottages or own vacation homes, the nonwoven fiber items falling under the umbrella of "paper" contribute a pseudo-hippie understanding of today's designs, if you want this. They also save everyone from fun-grabbing cleanup chores.

If you are part of the second-home generation (renter or owner) these leisure aids are worth consideration. Few women, their husbands or children want to spend weekends or vacation time washing and ironing. Now there is less need for constant laundering since curtains, bedspreads, dishes, clothes and even furniture come as disposables.

Realistically, paperware in the form of paper cups and dishes gets tossed out after each use. This is not the case, though, with colorfully designed draperies and bedspreads in the new, nonwoven fiber vein.

These paper products are meant to simplify short-term redecorating and furnishing chores. They eliminate drudgery and are not for washing and dry cleaning. Treated for fire-resistance during initial use, you only toy with possible disaster by letting a Scottish nature reign and insist on washing or cleaning paper draperies or bedspreads for continued use. This is not why they were made. Think of them in terms of built-in maid service. Why not take full advantage of decorative ensembles for your late summer and early fall vacations and parties?

An interesting new development in the paper field is the growth of sturdy disposable furniture that adds a pickish yet utilitarian air to any room. Included in these are stools and round tables. These come packed flat and assemble quickly. A paper bin, for example, is a table with a removable lid that serves as a tray for parties and the unit also provides storage space for paper food serviceware.

Such items are relatively inexpensive and also are practical for the woman who likes to change her surroundings without spending too much money.

With disposables this is possible. And as the industry catches on the colors, patterns and items, such as stool seating until that holds up to 250 pounds, will become familiar leisure companions.

Construction Classes On Clothing Set

SHOSHONE — Clothing construction classes will be conducted in Shoshone this fall, reports Mary Lou Ruby, home economics agent.

The preliminary meeting will be at 2 p.m. Aug. 30 at the courthouse. A small pre-registration fee is required, reports the home economist. The classes will not be any larger than 15 members.

Selection for the class will be on the basis of the first 15 who call the county agent's office.

The fee will be used to cover some of the expenses. If there is interest more than one class will be conducted.

The class can be taught two different ways, one by constructing a garment and the other method is constructing a notebook of the different steps of each method. The notebook is the most helpful, the other homemakers state, because the seamstress can go back to it in future sewing. There will be eight classes, one and one-half hours each.

Pamela Moore, R. A. Rhodes Wed In Lutheran Ceremony

Pamela Kay Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Moore, Twin Falls, and Ronald Allen Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marion A. Rhodes, Sandpoint, were united in marriage in rites July 28 at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Harold Iben before an altar centered with pink gladiol and white chrysanthemums. The altar was flanked by baskets of pink gladiol and white chrysanthemums and white lighted tapers in candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length white satin peau de soie gown, styled with an empire waistline and lily point lace sleeves. Her detachable, lace-trimmed train fell from the shoulders. Her shoulder-length veil of bridal illusion was held by a rhinestone and pearl t-ara. The gown and veil were designed and made by the bride. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a cascading bouquet of pink roses and white carnations, the center of which was a corsage.

Kathy Carr, friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaid was Jeana Rhodes, sister of the bridegroom. Junior bridesmaids were Dawn Moore and Robin Moore, sisters of the bride. Jana Lampe, friend of the couple, was flower girl. Barry Dahl, Bountiful, Utah, friend of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsman was Mike Rhodes, brother of the bridegroom, with Mike Moore, brother of the bride, and Tom Pene as ushers. Candlelighters were Doug Moore, brother of the bride, and Ricky Ruiter. Harvey Miskman was soloist and Herbert Einspahr was organist.

A reception was held in the parish hall after the ceremony. Mrs. Sandra Moore registered the guests. Gifts were displayed by Nancy Reinke, Cindy Hull and Judy Clark.

The bride's table was covered with a white nylon flounce over pink percale caught by pink satin bows and centered with a three-tiered, heart-shaped wedding cake decorated with pink roses. The cake was topped with three pink satin bells. Lighted pink tapers in crystal candelabra flanked the large cake. The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Vivian Lampe and Mrs. Crystal Wolters.

Mrs. Tamra Fischer, Jerome, served coffee and Mrs. Betty Moore, aunt of the bride, served punch. The wedding reception committee of the LWML assisted with serving.

Special guest was Knud Nielsen, grandfather of the bride, Fairmont, Minn. Other guests attended from California, Montana, Utah, Oregon, Caldwell, Nampa, Idaho Falls, Boise, Pocatello, Kimberly, Jerome and Filer.

One Woman In Three Uses Some Form Of Hair Coloring

By PATRICIA KING
NEW YORK (NEA)—To become a blonde in 1825, you started in the kitchen. The tinting brew contained saffron, lily roots, yellow ochre, St. John's wort and a variety of other interesting ingredients. If you could find all of them.

Boiling took hours and rinsing the hair was a daily necessity. In spite of the lengthy process, many women lightened their hair. Today it is estimated that one woman in three uses some form of hair coloring.

"Hair color must complement your facial shape. The color actually contours your face," said Rose Reti, whose Rue de la Paix Beauty Salon in New York City does a brisk business in hair coloring.

Miss Reti, a native of Hungary, had a salon in the artist's colony of Szolnok before she came to this country in 1939.

"Everyone in Hungary is a kitchen cosmetologist and I specialized in hair coloring," she explained. A little bit of this, a little bit of that, add something else, is the way Miss Reti explains the many enchanting shades she creates.

"She feels the most important concept in hair color is that nature should be improved but not drastically changed. Unfortunately, most women see themselves as something other than what they are. In their mind's eye the picture is completely different than the reflection in the mirror.

Wigs help a great deal in choosing a flattering color. The customer can try on the hair color before she makes the big decision. However, "experience has taught me that if an idea is too firmly fixed in a woman's mind she won't accept any color but the one she wants," Miss Reti said, and more often than not it's not the most flattering.

Highlights and streaking, she feels, is a natural effect and the bleached head's best friend is the short hairstyle. This style prevents damaged hair from overbleaching.

"A good colorist never makes hair color even. There should be a variation of at least three to four shades to achieve the most natural look," Miss Reti explained.

Women abuse their hair in many ways but most especially with hair spray, which has a drying effect on dyed hair. Teasing is equally hard on colored hair and lack of time for proper care is another fault.

DEAR ABBY: My two children have the same father and mother, but they are as different as night and day. The girl is 17 and she is clean as gold. The boy is nearly 15, and he is dirty as a pig. He takes a bath in a pint of water for 30 seconds and dries himself with a wash rag.

I lay out clean underwear for him, and I find it where I left it. (He puts his dirty underwear back on.)

Now, Abby, a mother can't dress a boy who stands 6 feet tall and weighs 165 pounds.

What can I do with this sloppy kid? He's normal in every other respect, but he doesn't even smell clean.

OLD AT 39

DEAR OLD: Where is this kid's father? If he's handy, ask him to hose Junior down. Otherwise, just keep after him and pray that he's a late bloomer who's still in the "sinkweed" state. When HE realizes that he's not nice to be next to — he'll get next to himself.

Living Space Is Important In Home Design

SHOSHONE — "Many houses are built without consideration for the people who live in them," says Mrs. Mary Lou Ruby, home economics agent here.

Most of the houses, she says, could give 10 to 20 per cent more living space if they were better designed.

Suitable design is based on how well a house fits you and your family, not on fancy ornamentation and gimmicks. It means space for efficient and convenient living, working, sleeping, playing and entertaining. It gives members of the family a chance to work or play individually without clashing with others.

A house should be cheerful with plenty of light and a feeling of openness. It should not be built with built-in noise, frustration and inconvenience. Each room should be designed for a particular purpose. A well-designed house has an activity zone and a quiet zone with a buffer between. This can be a hall, bathroom, or closet.

Efficient traffic circulation is a must. The main routes in a house, those walked most commonly, are the ones to consider first.

If your house is in the planning stage, sketch out a plan. Then, suggests the home agent, apply these tests:

Does the family entrance lead directly to the kitchen from garage or driveway?

Is the kitchen centrally located but with no through traffic?

Does the front door open into a hall and lead to the center of the house?

Is the living room convenient so you can go from any room to any other room without passing through a third room?

Is the indoor-outdoor relationship convenient?

Betty Canary's Wonderful World

I do not know if this is a first of some kind or if it indicates a new trend but I do think I should report it. Bob Honey and I went to a party the other night and believe it or not the hostess had the party in the living room!

What happened, was that we rang the bell and went in and were shown into the front room and left there. I did notice a few couples sort of cowering over in one corner but I looked around for the way to the basement as I usually do. However, Bob, who is very quick to notice things himself pointed out there were plates on the dining room table! He whispered quietly to me "Play it cool, Sweetie — I think they mean for us to STAY up here!"

I guess the poor things in the corner didn't know how to act because obviously they had never attended a party like this. It started coming back to me right away. I mean, I can vaguely remember my mother giving parties and back then people were always invited into the living room. That's the truth! I think I even have some old snapshots around to prove it.

It was nice. I didn't even need the extra sweater I always take to parties. I bring a sweater because I find cellars are cool. Also damp.

Well, the hostess acted as though it were okay that we stayed upstairs and after a while we sat on the chairs and sofa and everything. This is startling I know, but do you know what happened then? She had food on the dining room table! I mean it was all right out there with forks and everything and it was obvious we were supposed to eat. Although most of the guests were around the age of 40, I would say this was a brand new experience for many of us. Most people have you down in the basement where you sit on cushions made of seven empty juice cans tied together and covered with gaily colored corduroy. Mostly the only things to eat are bowls of dip. The dip is usually covered with bits of broken potato chips.

The evening was such a success. Nobody poured anything onto the nice rug or wiped their shoes on the new sofa or got dirty handprints on the walls or anything. In fact, I heard sev-

MAKE AHEAD OF TIME

You can make party sandwiches ahead of time—and they will be as good as if they had just been made—if you place them on a plate or tray and cover with waxed paper. Be careful to tuck the paper securely around the edges to keep all air out. Cover with a damp cloth. Store in the refrigerator until serving time.

AN IDEAL LUBRICANT and make-up base that has been in use since Biblical times, is the gel found in the leaves of the aloe plant. This natural moisturizer helps restore the natural balance of the skin, normally upset by the sun, wind, cold, steam heat and soap and water. In summer, applied to the face and body, it helps bring a golden lasting suntan and protects the skin from peeling and becoming dry.

Helpful Hints

PRUNE WHIP FROSTING

Put in double boiler two unbeaten egg whites, one cup brown sugar, packed, one-half cup granulated sugar, one-teaspoon salt and five tablespoons unsweetened prune juice. Put over boiling water and beat with mixer from five to seven minutes until it holds a peak.

Remove from hot water. Add two teaspoons lemon juice and 12 cooked prunes, cut in small pieces. Beat and spread on cake.

FREEZE SOUP

Pour leftover soup into ice cube trays and freeze it, storing the cubes in your freezer. Then you'll have on hand just the right amount of soup needed for each meal. This does away with having to reheat the entire amount.

SANDWICH TIP

Lunch box sandwiches will not become soggy if each slice of bread is covered with a thin film of butter before applying the filling. Be sure that the butter is spread evenly to all edges of the slice of bread.

ADD TAPE FIRST

When children receive a new game, use cellophane tape to reinforce the corner seams of the box before giving it to them. This prevents the box from coming apart at the seams from handling. Also slip a stout rubber band around the box to help prevent loose cards or parts from being scattered or lost.

Panhellenic Rush Set By University

LOGAN—Final plans are underway at Utah State University for fall quarter Panhellenic Rush, announced Helen Lundstrom, USU dean of women.

Rush will begin Sept. 18 and end Sept. 22. "Rush is an opportunity for USU coeds to have a chance to get acquainted with campus sororities and for the sororities to get acquainted with each girl, so each can make an intelligent choice in deciding membership," said Dean Lundstrom.

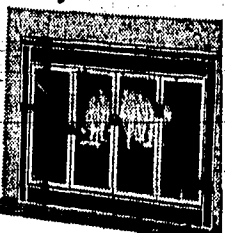

All freshmen women who have made application for admission to Utah State should have received a rush orientation letter and application form. Those who didn't receive one and are interested in applying for rush may write to Helen Lundstrom, dean of women, Student Services, Utah State University, Logan, Utah, for additional information.

All women who plan to attend rush should be on campus Sept. 18 at 10 a.m. for an orientation meeting in the Union Auditorium, said Dean Lundstrom. Those women who are to live in campus housing may move in at this time.

Rush chairman is Kathy Wilson, Ogden; and Esther Jane Peterson, Salt Lake City, is Panhellenic president.

Utah State has six sororities—Alpha Chi Omega, Chi Omega, Kappa Delta, Sigma Kappa, Alpha Omicron Pi and Delta Delta Delta.

Handsome Boy Cops Arlington Race

BY JERRY LISKA Associated Press Sports Writer CHICAGO (AP) — Well paced Handsome Boy slogged through heavy mud Saturday to a one-length victory over top-weighted Pretense to capture the $113,000 Washington Handicap before 25,104 at Arlington Park.

Handsome Boy, a 4-year-old brown colt ridden by Eddie Belmonte, made a strong move in the final turn of the mile race and, in the heavy going on an extremely muddy track, fought off the stretch challenge of Pretense, ridden by Johnny Sellers.

It was the third $100,000-added victory for Handsome Boy, who defeated Buckpasser in the Brooklyn Handicap at Aqueduct July 22.

Third, 1 1/2 lengths behind Pretense, was Bold Tactics; while Diplomat Way finished fourth. In capturing the $68,000 first money, Handsome Boy returned $540, $340 and $260. Pretense paid $3 and $3, while Bold Tactics' show price was $4.

Handsome Boy, who now has career earnings of $399,669, never ran poorer than third in the 10-horse field.

Bold Tactics, carrying only 116 pounds compared with Handsome Boy's 122 and Pretense's 128, set most of the early pace. Going into the final turn, Irongate made a bid, but when they straightened out for the stretch, it was a five-horse race with Bold Tactics, Pretense and Handsome Boy battling for the lead.

Abe's Hope was fifth, followed by R. Thomas, Flag Raiser, Irongate, Stanislas and Blue Skyer.

Handsome Boy was clocked in 1:37 3/5, a slow time which reflected the extremely heavy track. The Arlington Park-mile record is 1:32 3/5, set by Buckpasser last year in the Arlington Classic.

ROOKIE STARS AS REDLEGS TOP GIANTS
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Vada Pinson's two-run homer and the pressure pitching of rookie right-hander Gary Nolan sparked the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-1 victory Saturday over the San Francisco Giants.

Pinson's homer came on Mike McCormick's third pitch of the game following a leadoff double by Tommy Harper.

McCormick, 16-6, allowed a single to Pete Rose after the homer, but then held the Reds hitless until he was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh. In that stretch, the Giants' left-handed retired 21 of 22 batters.

The Reds added their final run in the ninth on two walks and Leo Cardenas' single.

Nolan, 10-6, allowed five hits—one of them Jesus Alou's home run in the fifth inning—before leaving the game for a pinch-hitter in the eighth inning.

DAVE BOSWELL HURLS TWINS TO 1-0 WIN
NEW YORK (AP) — Dave Boswell shut out New York on three hits and Minnesota, scoring on an unsuccessful double play attempt, beat New York 1-0 Saturday.

The victory put the American League leading twins two games ahead of Chicago whose game with Baltimore was rained out.

Bill Monbouquette, 2-3, held the Twins to four hits through the first six innings, but Bob Allison led off the seventh by beating out a bunt. Rich Reese forced Allison but Russ Nixon singled, moving Reese to third.

Ted Uhlaender grounded to Horace Clarke at second and Clarke tried to tag Nixon, but missed as Reese scored.

Boswell, 11-8, allowed only one Yankee runner as far as third base. Charley Smith singled, leading off the fifth and moved to third on consecutive infield outs. But Clarke lined out, ending the inning.

Unheralded Lou Dill Upsets Jean Ashley For Amateur Title

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Unheralded Lou Dill of Deer Park, Tex., coolly scored a major upset when she trounced former champion Jean Ashley, Chanute, Kan., 5 and 4, Saturday in a scheduled 36-hole match for the Women's National Amateur Golf Championship.

Miss Dill, 18, one of the youngest players to win this championship, jolted Miss Ashley, 28, in the morning round when she amassed a commanding 6-up lead, principally on Miss Ashley's inability to make vital putts.

For the first nine holes of the afternoon round, Miss Dill maintained her seemingly insurmountable 6-up advantage as Miss Ashley, the 1965 winner again constantly missed short putts for wins.

Miss Dill, whose father is a golf pro and cousin of touring star Terry Dill, carded a 4-over-par 37-30-76 in the morning on the par 36-36-72, 6,062-yard

Annandale Golf Club course. In the hot, humid afternoon, Miss Dill, who'll be a sophomore this fall at Stephen Austin College in Houston, shot 40 on the front nine and was 4-over for the remaining five holes. Altogether, she was 12-over par for 32 holes.

Miss Ashley, the clear favorite at the outset, could manage only 40-42-82 in the morning. She followed with a 39 and was 4-over for the final five. She was 17-over for the day.

Honeymoon Plans Appear Indefinite For Cassius

CHICAGO (AP)—The honeymoon of Cassius Clay momentarily appeared as indefinite Saturday as the fighting future of the sidelined world heavy-weight boxing champion.

Clay, married Friday night to a 17-year-old, Black Muslim-trained girl, told The Associated Press from his newly-acquired home in a virtually all-white neighborhood that:

"We'd like to honeymoon somewhere — Hawaii, if we go anywhere — and maybe we'll leave Sunday, or maybe Monday."

"Probably it will be Monday since I got to go to the bank for some money and get some clothes ready."

At Friday night's wedding to Belinda Boyd of suburban Blue Island, Ill., in a combination Baptist-Muslim ceremony, Clay had said he planned a two-week honeymoon in Hawaii, or Los Angeles, or New York, "maybe all three."

Bowrey was ranked fourth here while Gorman, who reached the final four when top-seeded Clark Graebner defaulted to him Friday, was unseeded.

Increased Aerial Attack Part Of Trends In Collegiate Ball

By BOB HOOBING

More passes, more punt returns and The Friendly Ghost await college football followers this fall. Added prayers will be furnished by coaches without prompting.

Platoons and their specialists, now fully entrenched in varsity circles again, have produced such efficient defenses they are forcing attacks to open up still further.

The result: an increase over the collegiate record aerial fireworks of 1966—much of it coming off rollout action. Watch teams like Arkansas, Kentucky, Syracuse, Rice and Washington put the ball in the air more often.

In the spirit of things, Alabama has switched junior speedster Donnie Sutton from defensive back to flanker. California moved 6-foot-7 ace safety Wayne Stewart to split end. Mississippi State's 6-4 Don Saget goes from quarterback to end and Louisiana State's Sammy Grezaff from safety to split end.

Pepper Rodgers, replacing Jack Mitchell at Kansas, took his 1-3 ball-carriers-of-1966 and sent Don Shanklin to flanker.

John Jackson to a wide terminal while installing his moving quarterback offense to stress passing. What's more, sophomore John Mosler was converted from quarterback to tight end. The spring game saw the Jayhawks complete 27 of 49 aerials for 370 yards.

A few schools like Mississippi State and Washington State are dropping the I formation offense but they are exceptions as converts continue to come forward. Nebraska is on the bandwagon as is Indiana which hoped to get scrambling, soph quarterbacks Harry Gonso and John Isenbarger outside for the wide attack lacking last season.

If the accolades go to the offense, the defenses get more exotic game-starting with The Friendly Ghost. That's the Delaware version of the monster or rover setup also variously labeled The Mean Green (North Texas State), the Hawk (Kansas), Tech Wrecker (Georgia Tech) and Bearcat (Cincinnati).

Amid coaches' howls that injuries would result, the rules makers tried to eliminate the dull fair catch of a punt. Runbacks should be the thing now that the interior linemen cannot go beyond the neutral zone until the ball actually is kicked. So only four men can get downfield quickly to cover.

Coaching answers will be more quick kicks, more punts out of bounds and some third down spread formation stuff with fake kicks.

Yastrzemski Bats Boston To Victory

BOSTON (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski lashed four hits, including a two-run homer, and scored four runs as Boston outlasted a four-run California ninth inning and beat the Angels 12-11 Saturday.

Yastrzemski scored after hitting leadoff singles in the third and fifth-inning and gave Boston a 7-6 lead with his 25th homer in the sixth.

Roger Repoz, with a two-run homer, and Jimmie Hall, with a solo shot, powered the Angels' ninth inning. Jerry Stephenson came in to get the final two outs.

Every Boston starter except Jose Tartabull, filling in for Tony Conigliaro who was hospitalized with a cracked cheek after being hit by a pitch Friday night, hit safely as the Red Sox mauled California pitching for 17 hits.

The Red Sox got three runs on Norm Siebern's bases-loaded pinch triple in the seventh. The Angels, who had scored only 10 runs in seven previous games, jumped off to a 3-0 lead on two walks, a single by Don Mincher and a double by Rick Reichardt in the first.

Stolen Base Sets Up Win For Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Lumbering Willie Stargell's first stolen base of the year set up the run which broke a 5-5 tie and boosted the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 6-5 triumph over the New York Mets Saturday night.

The 218-pound Stargell, who has stolen five bases in six seasons, swiped second in the seventh inning when the ball stuck in Met catcher John Sullivan's mitt and the throw was late.

Then Stargell knocked the ball from Sullivan's hands scoring on Gene Alley's single.

Two Met errors and Pittsburgh's three hits, including Matty Alou's double, gave the Pirates three runs and a 5-5 tie in the fifth.

Roberto Clemente slugged a two-run homer for Pittsburgh in the first.

Consecutive singles by Bud Harrelson, Cleon Jones and Tommy Davis keyed a Met four-run outburst in the first. Davis singled and scored again in the fifth.

U.S. Takes Track Lead, Stars Upset

VIAREGGIO, Italy (AP) — Randy Matson and Jim Ryan suffered upsets at the hands of teammates Saturday as the United States won all 11 events in the opening session of a two-day track meet and took a whopping lead over Italy and Spain.

The United States, which earlier had scored convincing victories over England and West Germany in other stops on its current European tour, led Italy 80 to 37 and Spain 74 to 31 in the meet that will be concluded Sunday.

America's powerful forces found most of the competition from their teammates, with Ryan upset in the 5,000 meters by Tracy Smith, Arcadia Calif., and Matson beaten in shot put by Neal Steinhauer, Eugene, Ore.

Steinhauer got off a toss of 65 feet 8 1/2 inches to edge Matson, the world record holder from Texas A&M by 2 1/2 inches.

Ryan, the world mile record holder from Wichita, Kan., running the 5,000 for the first time, was a badly beaten second. He was clocked in 13:44.8 while Smith came in with an American record of 13:41 flat.

In all, the United States finished one-two in six of the 11 events.

One-Hitter Lets Indians Blank Tigers

DETROIT (AP) — John O'Donoghue hurled a brilliant one-hitter and Duke Sims crashed a three-run homer as the Cleveland Indians whipped the Detroit Tigers 5-0 Saturday.

Cleveland jumped on Tiger starter and loser Joe Sparma for all its runs in the third inning.

Lee Mayo started the rally with a double, Vic Davalillo tripled and Leon Wagner followed with a single. Tony Horton walked but was forced by Max Alvis' grounder. Sims followed with his ninth homer into the right field second deck.

O'Donoghue struck out 11 and was in trouble just once. In the second inning Bill Freehan led off with a single and Ed Matthews walked. But Norm Cash looked at a third strike and Ray Oyler hit into a double play. O'Donoghue didn't allow another base runner, retiring 23 straight batters.

5 World Records Are Set During Women's Outdoor AAU Swim, Diving Meet

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
Associated Press Sports Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Five world records in five events were set Saturday in the women's outdoor national AAU swimming and diving championships, a feat described by a veteran AAU executive as the greatest day in the history of American swimming.

Brunette Is Grass Court Net Champ

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Peaches Bartkowicz, a pig-tailed brunette with a devastating backhand swing, thrashed Vicky Rogers, 6-1, 6-3 Saturday to win her third straight U. S. Girls Grass Court tennis championship.

The grim-faced Miss Bartkowicz, of Hamtramck, Mich., unleashed a rocket-speed cross-court attack to win the 50th annual classic and tie a 27-year-old record. Only Sarah Palfrey, in 1929-29-30, won three consecutive titles.

The Hamtramck honey needed only 41 minutes to defeat Miss Rogers, of Rye, N. Y., the fourth-seeded player.

Top-seeded Miss Bartkowicz ran off the last five games to run her string to 10 set victories Saturday.

Miss Bartkowicz and Valerie Ziegenfuss of San Diego, Calif., won the doubles championship for the third straight year by defeating Denise Carter and Tina Lyman, both of Los Altos, Calif., 6-3, 6-2.

It was the first time that Miss Bartkowicz had ever taken this title three times in succession. Karen Hantze also won the doubles three times in succession but with two different partners. Patty Reese of St. Petersburg, Fla., won the consolation final by beating Margie Capozzi of Middletown, Ohio, 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

A's Defeat Solons 5-1 On 3-Hitter

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bert Campaneris hit a two-run single and Jim Nash and Roberto Rodriguez combined for a three hit-ter, leading Kansas City a 5-1 rain-shortened victory over Washington Saturday.

The game was called with two out in the last of the ninth after a 45-minute downpour.

Nash pulled a hamstring muscle in his right leg running the bases in the sixth.

The A's scored a run in the first off Rich Nold making his major-league debut, on John Donaldson's single, a walk to Ramon Webster and Jim Gosger's single.

They added three in the sixth. Nold was relieved by Casey Cox after walking Gosger and Danny Cater with one out and moving them up on a wild pitch. Kansas City 100 003 100—5 9 0 Washington 000 001 000—1 2 2 Game called one out left, rain.

Sandra Haynie Ties Whitworth For Lead

Haynie of Fort Worth, Tex., clinching a great five-under-par 70 with an eagle on the 14th hole, tied Kathy Whitworth for the third-round lead of the $10,000 Women's Western Golf Open Saturday.

Both pros were among the last to finish as a heavy rain hit the course and posted a 54-hole total of 218, seven under regulation.

The 24-year-old Miss Haynie, seeking her first tournament victory of the year after finishing second three times, had the best round of the meet with a pair of 35s against the Pekin Country Club course's standard of 37-35-75.

Miss Whitworth, the LPGA leading money winner and a five-time tourney champion this year, drilled a 36-37-73 for her 218. She also eagled the 14th by sticking a two-iron shot three inches from the hole.

Shirley Englehorn of Caldwell, Idaho, wheeled into third

Miss Kruse, Katie Ball and the Santa Clara, Calif., Swim Club 400 meter freestyle relay teams left world records sinking in their wake, Harry Hainsworth, director of athletics for the AAU, said. "This is the biggest day in the history of swimming in America."

The Santa Clara relay team capped the record smashing day with a 4:03.5 in the 400 meter freestyle, bettering the mark of 4:03.8 established by the U.S. Olympic team in Tokyo in 1964. Linda Gustavson, Nancy Ryan, Laura Fritz and Pokey Watson carried the Santa Clara team to a victory over Vesper B.C. of Philadelphia, which finished in 4:05.7.

Miss Kolb, a 17-year-old senior at Santa Clara, Calif., High School broke the fourth world mark of the day and her second in two days, as she won the 400 meter individual medley in 5:0.82, shattering the existing standard of 5:14.9, and her own pending 5:09.7 set last month in the Pan American Games.

In lowering the existing mark held by Donna De Varona of Santa Clara since 1964, Miss Kolb won by 10 yards over Sue Pederson of Sacramento, Calif.

Miss Hewitt, a 15-year-old junior at Corona Del Mar High School in California, Miss Kruse of the Ft. Lauderdale swimming association, and Miss Ball of Jacksonville, Fla., set their records in the first three events Saturday.

Pitcher Says Finley Right On Incident

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Pitcher Lew Krausse, suspended without pay by owner Charles Finley of the Kansas City Athletics, said Saturday Finley "was completely justified in issuing my suspension."

The 24-year-old right-hander was notified of his suspension in a telegram and told to return to Kansas City.

Both said it concerned an incident Aug. 2 on a plane carrying the team to Kansas City from Boston. But they declined to discuss the nature of the incident.

"I hope he will lift the suspension at the earliest possible moment," Krausse said Saturday. "In the meantime, I am keeping myself in shape as I know I can be of help to the team."

Krausse, given a $125,000 bonus to sign, has a 6-14 record this season. Last season he was the top hurler for the club with a 14-9 record.

Bowling Group Sets New Season

SHOSHONE — Lincoln County Women's Bowling Association will meet at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Manhattan Cafe to make plans for the new bowling season.

The season will begin around Labor Day, with various teams starting on different nights that week.

Mrs. Norvel Rutherford is president this year with Mrs. Steven Boller vice president; Mrs. Reid Newby, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Dale Chatterton, assistant to secretary-treasurer and Mrs. D. M. Lehman, sergeant-at-arms.

Flood Rallies Cards Past Houston 7-4

HOUSTON (AP) — Curt Flood lined four singles, scored three runs and drove in another as the streaking St. Louis Cardinals rapped Houston 7-4 Saturday night.

It was the eighth straight victory for the first place Cardinals and the 13th loss in the last 15 games for the Astros.

Rusty Staub slammed a pair of home runs and a double and scored three of Houston's runs against Dick Hughes, who went the distance for his 12th victory. Doug Rader also homered for the Astros.

Sacrifice flies by Roger Maris and Tim McCarver produced a pair of Cardinal runs in the first after Lou Brock and Flood had opened the game with singles.

Flood's second hit touched off another two-run flurry for St. Louis in the third with Orlando Cepeda, who had three hits, doubling one of the runs across. Flood singled again in the seventh and rode home on McCarver's hit. In the eighth, Flood singled Dal Maxvill across with another run.

Terry Dill Vaults Into Lead In Greater Hartford Golf Meet

By TOM HARRIGAN
Associated Press Writer
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Terry Dill, a 28-year-old Texan who has never finished higher than third on the professional golf tour, moved into the lead after 54 holes of the $100,000 Greater Hartford Open Saturday with a steady 69 for a total of 203-10 under par.

"I'm just hitting it good and putting it good," Dill said, explaining his methodical advance in the standings on a round of 66-68-69. Only one stroke behind him were five golfers, heading into Sunday's final.

Dan Sikles, Dave Marr and Dudley Wysong each had 67—four under par—at Wethersfield Country Club to move into the tie for second place. Veteran Doug Ford had 69 for his 204. Also at 204 was Dave Hill, the 36-hole leader, who slipped to a 71 Saturday after carding a 10-under-par 61 Friday.

Gary Player skidded to a 71 for the 205 total, two strokes off the pace. He had a 65 the first round and a 69 Friday. He attributed his trouble to terrible chipping.

Dill's round included only one bogey when he missed the green on a long par 3 hole. He made birdie putts of 10 feet and two feet at the first two holes and a 12-foot birdie try rolled in at the 10th hole.

A perennial also-ran on the pro tour for five years, Dill's winnings this year total only $12,346.

At 208, only three strokes off the pace, were Ray Floyd, with 67 Saturday; Steve Opperman, with 69, and Frank Beard with 69. Beard has played 54 holes in a row without a bogey, closing in on the professional golfers association record of 57 holes without a bogey set by Doug Sanders.

Lee Trevine of El Paso, Tex., among the leaders the first two days, slipped to a 72 to end up at 208, five strokes behind Dill.

Fingerlings Planted In High Lakes

SALMON — The Idaho Fish and Game Department will plant 100 high mountain lakes in the Sawtooth and White Cloud Mountain areas during the next 10 days with 90,000 cutthroat fingerlings.

The fish will be dropped by helicopter during 14 hours of flying time.

Department personnel in July and August checked 35 lakes in the east side of the Sawtooth Primitive Area to determine fishing condition.

Don Corley, regional fisheries biologist; Harry Gibson, University of Idaho graduate student in fisheries management; Mel Reingold, fisheries biologist, and Jerry Neufeld, conservation officer, packed into the primitive area on two different trips.

Lakes were investigated to determine the size, depth, whether they contained fish, species composition and condition of the spawning stream inlet.

Boston Hopes Dim As Star Is Injured

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — What happens to a ball club, such as the Boston Red Sox, when it loses a slugger like Tony Conigliaro while in a dogfight for the pennant?

The Red Sox, only three games behind first place Minnesota in the American League, are going to find out while Conigliaro recuperates from a fractured left cheekbone.

The 22-year-old outfielder was hit just below the protective batting helmet by a fast ball thrown by Jack Hamilton of the California Angels and carried from the field on a stretcher in the fourth inning of the Red Sox 3-2 victory Friday night.

Conigliaro was taken to a nearby hospital, where X-rays disclosed the fracture. He also suffered a severe nasal hemorrhage and hemioma of the left side of the scalp.

"He'll be kept under close observation for 48 to 72 hours," Dr. Thomas Tierney, the Boston team physician, said. "He'll be out at least three or four weeks. We'll know better after the observation period."

"Gosh, I hope he's all right," Hamilton said. "He's a fine ball player. The ball took off a little, and he appeared to freeze. Nobody in the league crowds the plate more than he does."

Conigliaro singled for the first hit off Hamilton in the second inning, raising his average to .289. With two out in the fourth, Hamilton fired a fast ball on the first pitch. The sound of the ball hitting Tony C. was heard in the press box.

"It was a fast ball all the way," first base coach Bobby Doerr said. "It just sailed up and in on him. I don't think Tony moved a bit."

Roquepine Wins Trot In Westbury

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — Roquepine, the all-time favorite from France, went to the front at the start and won the $100,000 Roosevelt International Trot at Roosevelt Raceway Saturday night.

The 6-year-old French mare, who just missed winning this global spectacular a year ago, held off the fast-closing Fresh Yankee of Canada to win by three-quarters of a length.

Governor Armbr, the other Canadian trotter, finished another three-quarters of a length back in third place, a neck ahead of Real Speed of the United States.

Roquepine, owned and driven by Henry Levesque, trotted the 1 1/4 miles over a sloppy track in a slow 2:43.4-5 and paid $3.40, $3 and $2.80. Fresh Yankee, driven by Sanders Russell, paid $3.20 and $5.40. Governor Armbr, reined by Little Joe O'Brien, paid $4.20 to show.

Real Speed finished a half-length ahead of Oscar R.L. of France. Perfect Freight of the United States wound up sixth, followed by Scott Protector of Norway, Xanthe of Sweden and Graianella of Italy.

Real Speed, who was the 2-1 favorite on the first flash of the odds board, broke stride at the start but made a strong challenge in the last quarter mile, only to fall short.

The downpour of rain before the race had soaked the track and held the crowd to 37,553, instead of an expected 50,000.

Boise Group To Appear At Jerome Fair

JEROME — One of the featured attractions at the 35th annual Jerome county fair, scheduled to open Thursday and continue through Saturday, will be performances of the 48-member Eh-Capa Bareback Riders, Boise.

The riders are members of the Boise Junior Riding Club who have performed their riding skills at many shows in the Intermountain area. They will ride Friday and Saturday evenings prior to the rodeo.

Mayor Earl Greenawalt has proclaimed Sunday through Aug. 26 as Fair week and all residents are urged to don western costumes.

The Eh-Capas, boys and girls aged 8-20 years, ride Indian style, their only piece of equipment being a tack rein (a narrow leather strap around the horse's neck). No saddles, pads or blankets are used.

The tack rein teaches riding by balance and position instead of reliance on reins and saddles. Drillmaster Wayne Stear, Boise, says, "We start them whenever they are big enough to put a leg on each side of a horse, and tell the youngsters to keep their minds in the middle."

A feature of the performance is jumping. The riders let out war whoops and fling their arms wide when they are jumping, which makes the riders dependent on sheer balance and expert horsemanship to keep their seats over the hurdles. There is no individual emphasis on performances; the Eh-Capas are a unit and work as a team.

The group will perform Friday and Saturday evenings before the rodeo.

The group, which was formed nine years ago, performed at the Gooding County Fair, last week, as well as the recent World Scout Jamboree, the Cheyenne Roundup, and the Calgary Stampede, Canada. They will camp in Jerome City Park during the meet.

The rodeo will begin at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday, with a pre-show at 7:45 p.m., according to Ted Peterson, Fair Board member.

Monte Young carnival will be at the fairgrounds beginning Sunday.

Pari-mutuel horse racing will begin Sunday for four days at the fairgrounds. Post time is at 2 p.m. Sunday and at 6:30 p.m. Monday through Wednesday, Jerome's track will feature the Intermountain Quarter Horse Derby and the Idaho Juvenile Stake for Appaloosas. Top thoroughbreds, quarter-horse and Appaloosas from all parts of the Intermountain area will race during the meet.

The teams represent Jerome, Shoshone, Carey, Twin Falls, Richfield and Hailey. A grand entry will kickoff the jamboree.

The governor and his wife will return to the state after the Labor Day weekend.

The Monitor has been critical of Quinn's administration. Judge Bowles said Quinn "is ultimately responsible to the electorate and not the board of aldermen." The aldermen appealed to the state supreme court.

Concord Mayor Is Reinstated

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Superior Court Judge Hugh Bowles has ordered J. Herbert Quinn reinstated as mayor of Concord, ruling his removal by the board of aldermen on misconduct charges was "illegal and invalid."

The judge ruled Friday that while Quinn's actions "reflect a petty attempt to abuse the power given him as mayor" they did not "constitute such misconduct in office as would legally justify his removal."

The aldermen voted to impeach Quinn, 36, on charges of trying to entrap Concord Monitor Editor James Langley for drunk driving. The aldermen ousted Quinn Aug. 3 after a two-day hearing.

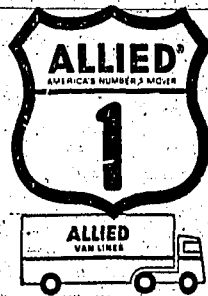

The Monitor has been critical of Quinn's administration. Judge Bowles said Quinn "is ultimately responsible to the electorate and not the board of aldermen." The aldermen appealed to the state supreme court.

Set Vacation

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Rockefeller will vacation for the next 2½ weeks at their summer home at Seal Harbor, Maine, the governor's office said Friday.

"LOOK, MA—NO HANDS!"—and no saddles, pads or blankets, either, for that matter, as two members of the Boise Eh-Capas Bareback Riding Club maneuver their horses over hurdles with their knees and sheer balance. The drill team, made up of 48 members of the Boise Jr. Riding Club, will perform at 7:45 p.m. Friday and Saturday at the 35th annual Jerome County Fair and Rodeo. The group has performed at the Gooding County Fair, the World Scout Jamboree, the Cheyenne Roundup and the Calgary Stampede, Canada.

No Time For Master Watchmaker: Old, New Clocks Need Attention

By JAN A. SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor

Of all the "ologies" appearing in print from time to time, such as . . . pharmacology, methology, or ideology . . . one seems to have nearly disappeared from use. Or at least it has been forgotten by most of us. The word is Horology: the science of measuring time, or constructing time indicating instruments.

If you think it is a moot point whether or not someone can find a horologist when he needs one . . . consider the following: Suppose a man has a very expensive watch and a part breaks. He can usually take the timepiece to a jewelry store and leave it for a few days. But what if the expensive watch is also an older one, given to the man by his father or his grandfather, or even his great-grandfather. There are no parts available for the watch. What then? Simple! You find an Horologist.

And that's where the problem comes in . . . there just aren't many left today. To hear Max Phillips, who is a Master Watchmaker, and owner of the Twin Falls Jewellers, tell it, it is a sign of the times. "No one is a craftsman anymore. They don't care about quality and workmanship. All they seem to care about is having a job that pays a wage. They don't take pride in their work."

Max Phillips is an horologist.

He has built clocks, rebuilt them, and takes deep pride in his work. When he talks about a good timepiece it is as if you're listening to a Grand Prix driver describing the latest set-up on his Formula One.

Max Phillips wears a wrist-watch; he has a watch which he uses for a tie-tack; and his money clip is built around a watch. In his pocket he carries a chronographic timepiece that indicates everything from the time-of-day to miles-per-hour. If you need to know the time of day . . . Max Phillips can tell you.

He is a soft spoken man, and seems to come truly alive when talking about a watch that is a few hundred years old, or a new timepiece that still has the workmanship so prevalent years ago.

For the past year Max Phillips has been working on a large and impressive clock, that for years hung motionless on the wall of the Wells Fargo & Co., Express Depot in Portland.

The clock, a perpetual calendar timepiece, standing nearly four feet high, was at one time dropped from the wall of the Express Depot. According to Phillips the interior works of the clock were damaged almost beyond repair.

He has been working on the clock for a year and finally has it running on the wall of his downtown Twin Falls store. It is a beautiful piece of workmanship. Its fine wood-grained cabinet has been stripped of its dirty varnish and refinished. The works have been repaired and rebuilt, and now once again do their original job.

The perpetual calendar aspect of the large clock presented Phillips with special problems. The clock is so automatic that it not only changes day, both by number and day of the week, but month and year as well.

It even has a special gear that engages only once every four years to compensate for leap year.

The clock now belongs to Dr. Ellis Knight, of Kimberly. Its value is considerably over a thousand dollars.

In his downtown store, Max Phillips also takes pride in displaying an old Master Clock, one of 120 originally made for the Railroad before Western Union time became prevalent. The clock is nearly five feet high, and has a pendulum that weighs nearly 50 pounds, the rods of which are brass and steel to compensate for temperature. The clock has a Pin Wheel Escapement made famous by LePaute, the master watchmaker who designed the Master Clocks for the Railroad. It works on a system of gravity, minimizing wear.

Phillips has been offered $5,000 for the old Master Clock which dates back to 1853, and cost about $1,500 new.

Then there's a clock made by Eli Terry, of Boston, Mass., in 1777. The clock is made entirely of wood . . . and it runs.

The old stained wood clock was given to Phillips by a watchmaker in Brigham City, (Continued On Page A-5)

THE PENDULUM on this Master Clock weighs over 50 pounds. The clock is valued at $5,000 and was given to Max Phillips by his father. The clock was used by the Railroad to keep correct time before Western Union became affiliated with the Railroad. There were 120 of these clocks made. This is number 117.

WELLS FARGO & CO'S Express appears on bottom of this perpetual calendar clock which hung on the wall of the Portland Wells Fargo office for years, but failed to work. The clock dates back to the mid-1800's and after a year's work, keeps good time, tells the day, the date, and the year, and even adjusts for leap year.

Really? You Drink It?

By JAN A. SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor

When this sees print my family and I will have been residents of Twin Falls for exactly 22 days.

During that time I have consumed 93 bottles of soda pop . . . and one part-glass of water. That works out to an approximate five bottles of pop a day. It also works out to approximately one-half-ounce of water every day.

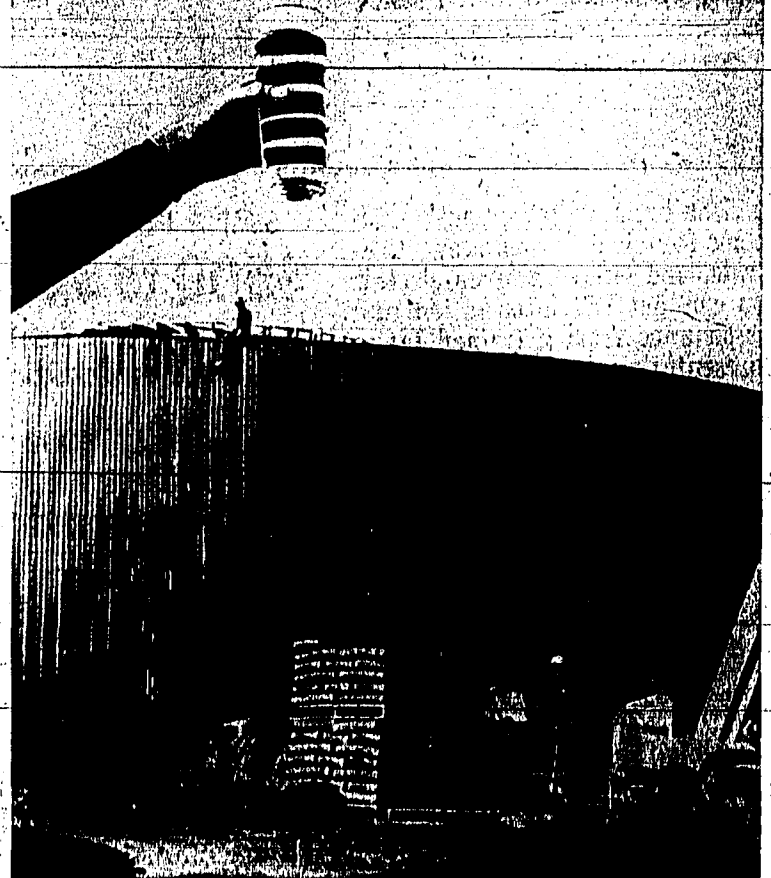

And it's all psychology. I was a victim of what I feel was Pre-Twin-Falls-Indoctrination. It went something like this: "Oh you'll like Twin Falls. It's a beautiful community. Friendly. And besides, you'll get used to the water."

Or: "Twin Falls, huh? I lived there for a while. You'll like it. Just don't drink that stuff they call water. Don't you believe them. It's a plot."

Or: "So you're going to Twin Falls, I wonder if they've done anything about the water yet. Oh well, it doesn't matter anyway . . . nobody used it."

And Finally: "Hey . . . when you get there send me a bottle of Twin Falls water will you? I use it to fertilize my potted plants."

So I came to Twin Falls with a heavy heart about the water situation. Expecting the worst. (Continued On Page A-7)

GLASS OF WATER, with new reservoir in the background, was a bug-a-boo for new feature editor as friends warned to beware of the moist stuff. Twin Falls water will end up improved—he was told after his arrival here.

The Head's Above Water

Water, water, everywhere . . . and Shawn David Nelson who is seven-months-old loves every wet minute of it.

Shawn was first exposed to the joys of the watery world when his father, Norman Nelson, of Twin Falls, took Shawn in the bathtub with him. The boy wasn't quite five months old then and it was wonderfully enjoyable for both of them.

Shawn liked the water, and Mr. Nelson loved taking care of Shawn. He's the Nelson's only child.

It was then only a few steps outside to the Nelson's swimming pool.

Mr. Nelson first took Shawn into the pool when he was five months old. Shawn liked it so much that it became a regular activity at the Nelson household.

Mr. Nelson's reasoning went something like this: If the boy likes the water so much, we will have to be extremely careful when he learns to walk so that he doesn't go near the pool.

And then it dawned on Mr. Nelson . . . why not teach the boy to swim? It would be safer and less of a worry for everyone.

But how does a father teach a five month old son to swim. The answer came in the form of Sandra Tegan, the wife of Mr. Michael Tegan, also of Twin Falls. Sandra is a swimming instructor and gladly took on the enjoyable task of teaching young Shawn the fine art of staying afloat while getting from one place to another.

"The boy gets so excited," says Mr. Nelson, "that when we get his swimming suit on him he starts kicking and laughing and grins all the way to the pool."

Seven month old Shawn is now making some real progress. He kicks like a trooper puts his head underwater now that he has learned to keep his mouth closed, and reaches for the instructor's hands from a small step, diving into the water.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson are extremely happy with their son's progress . . . but not quite as happy as the boy himself.

YOUNG SHAWN NELSON receives expert instruction on how to keep his head above water from Sandra Tegan. The boy is seven months old and is at home in the water as he is on land. Shawn Nelson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Nelson, of 303 Robbins Avenue, Twin Falls.

Reunited after 60 years separation are Mrs. Karl Waldorff, Copenhagen, Denmark, who was in Magic Valley recently to see her brother, Christian Newman, Jerome, right, whom she had not seen since she was 12 years old. The reunion highlighted a family party at Kimberly. Two other brothers, Harold Newman, from left, and Otto Newman, both Calgary, Canada, came here for the occasion which was attended by three more generations of relatives.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A family party at KIMBERLY was highlighted by a reunion of a brother and a sister after a separation of 60 years when Mrs. Karl (Jennie) Waldorff, Copenhagen, Denmark, visited her brother, Christian Newman, JEROME. Also in attendance were two other brothers, Otto Newman, and Harold Newman and his wife, who came from their home in Calgary, Canada.

Mrs. Waldorff, now 72, recalled that she was merely a girl of 12 when her brother, Chris, now 85, set sail in 1907 for that far away land, the United States, that had already claimed another brother, Peter Newman, now deceased, shortly after the turn of the century.

She never really expected to see her brothers again, however, Peter did return to Denmark long enough to claim his Danish bride, but he returned soon to his new home south of HANSEN.

Now after 60 years, she had spanned the same wide ocean in a matter of jet hours to reach her brothers at Calgary, who brought her to Idaho to greet Chris and meet and visit with three more generations of relatives.

Another sister, Mrs. Emma Hertz, 83, did not accompany her. She also lives in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Some 35 members of the Newman-Peterson family, ranging in age from 10 months to 85 years, attended the reunion honoring the three brothers and their sister held at the home of Christian Newman's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Whitehead, Kimberly.

Children of Christian Newman attending were Mr. and Mrs. Harold R. Newman, superintendent of schools at Kuna; Mrs. Richard Newman and son, Mickey, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Greener and sons, Gary and Lynn, TWIN FALLS; G. Ray Newman, librarian and science teacher at Overton, Nev., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Whitehead and son, Bruce, Kimberly, and Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Whitehead and son, Chad, Pocatello.

Members of the Peter Newman family included Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Jones, Hansen; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gulley, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Gulley and son, Danny; and Mr. and Mrs. William Gulley and son, Vance, all Jerome.

Mrs. John E. Hayes, Twin Falls, and Mrs. Carrie Crockett, Hansen, cousins of the honorees, Photo sequence shows four steps in fast-paced airlift by which world's largest helicopter in commercial field operation now is erecting steel towers for new 230,000-volt transmission line Idaho Power Company is building over mile-high mountain from Hells Canyon Dam in North America's deepest gorge.

(1) Whirlybird, powered by twin 1,500-horsepower, turbo-jet engines, lifts tower section with crossarms attached from staging area where it was pre-assembled.

(2) Section weighing three tons is carried past completed tower (beyond felled trees on right-of-way) to next site at lower right. (3) Its five-bladed rotor spinning like giant fan, copter lowers section at end of steel-cable sling toward waiting crew on rising structure. (4) Agile crew, including radio-equipped signalman who communicates instructions to whirlybird's pilot, guides section into position for bolting.

Sikorsky S-61A copter, similar to less-powerful versions carrying up to 26 passengers on shuttle runs in such metropolitan centers as San Francisco and New York, is erecting total of 30 towers for heavy-duty line reaching eight miles from Idaho Power's new dam up and over roadless mountain to Pallette Junction.

At Pallette Junction, located in forested heart of Oregon's Willowa range, line will connect with existing carriers delivering electricity from three-dam Hells Canyon development to southern Idaho and eastern Oregon. Estimated to cost $1.1 million, new line is due for completion before first generating unit goes into production next October at 425,000-kilowatt-Hells Canyon Dam.

Carrier also will be linked with 30-mile line Idaho Power is building between Pallette Junction and Enterprise, Ore., where it will tie into Pacific Power & Light Co.'s system to provide the Idaho utility's ninth high-capacity inter-connection with Northwest Power Pool.

Sikorsky craft being used to erect towers for Hells Canyon-Pallette Junction line is owned by Construction Helicopters, Inc., Portland, and is operated by two-man crew consisting of pilot Jimmy Lematta and co-pilot Dennis Isaacson.

generals who are full or alternate members of the North-Vietnamese party.

Troopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division were reported to have seized the document last April 21 in coastal Khan Hoa Province, 200 miles northeast of Saigon. It was officially described as one of the most significant to fall into American hands in Vietnam.

"At a certain time," the document said, "we can apply the strategy of fighting and negotiating at the same time in order to support our armed struggle, and thus accelerate the integration of the puppet South Vietnamese army and regime, and create more conditions favorable for our people to secure a decisive victory."

"We are determined not to entertain any illusions concerning a negotiated settlement to the problem of Vietnam, and we must concentrate all our strength to destroy the enemy."

Reds Will Talk Only After They've Won Vietnam War

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — A captured Viet Cong document made public by the U.S. Mission Friday says in effect the guerrilla leaders intend to talk about a Vietnam settlement only after they've won.

Some of the reasoning behind the Communists' rejection of American peace overtures was set forth in a 60-page resolution adopted 16 months ago by the Central Office for South Vietnam, the Viet Cong's top political and military echelon.

"Only when the American imperialists' aggressive will is crushed and the objectives of independence, peace, democracy and neutrality of the South are guaranteed can we negotiate a settlement of the Vietnam problem," the resolution said.

Though they haven't been emphasizing it in propaganda broadcasts recently, both Ho Chi Minh's Hanoi regime and the Viet Cong have vowed to fight on for 10 or 20 years if necessary.

The war stems in part from differences about how much "independence, peace, democracy and neutrality" South Vietnam would have if the Communists took over.

In a statement accompanying an English-language translation, the U.S. Mission said: "The document dates from March 1966, but the goals, methods, tactics and attitudes enunciated in the COSVN resolution are still valid and are those being currently used by the Vietnamese Communists."

"COSVN is not only under Hanoi's direction and control, but, as the document points out, is an integral part of the Lao Dong (North Vietnamese Communist) party's interlocking machinery."

The mission said the hookup was further illustrated by the presence in South Vietnam of at least eight North Vietnamese generals who are full or alternate members of the North-Vietnamese party.

Troopers of the U.S. 101st Airborne Division were reported to have seized the document last April 21 in coastal Khan Hoa Province, 200 miles northeast of Saigon. It was officially described as one of the most significant to fall into American hands in Vietnam.

"At a certain time," the document said, "we can apply the strategy of fighting and negotiating at the same time in order to support our armed struggle, and thus accelerate the integration of the puppet South Vietnamese army and regime, and create more conditions favorable for our people to secure a decisive victory."

"We are determined not to entertain any illusions concerning a negotiated settlement to the problem of Vietnam, and we must concentrate all our strength to destroy the enemy."

355 Refugees Cross Border Into Jordan

By ED BLANCHE
ALLENBY BRIDGE, Israel (AP) — Silent and bedraggled only 355 Arab refugees from the June war crossed from Jordan to Israeli-held Jordanian territory Friday on the first day of repatriation. At least 1,000 had been expected and Israel and Jordan blamed each other for the slowdown.

Jordan announced that 167,500 of the more than 200,000 refugees had applied to return to their homes. But Israeli officials doubted more than 35,000 could be repatriated before the Aug. 31 deadline.

An Israeli Interior Ministry spokesman said of the day's poor showing: "The Jordanian organization let us down badly. It is apparently just not equipped to handle a project of this size."

Jordanian officials said the names of those eligible to return to their homes had been given them only Thursday and this was not time enough.

Dr. Meir Silverstone, director of the Israeli Interior Ministry, met with senior Jordanian and international Red Cross officials to discuss how to speed up the crossings. Repatriation will continue Sunday after time out for the Jewish Sabbath Saturday.

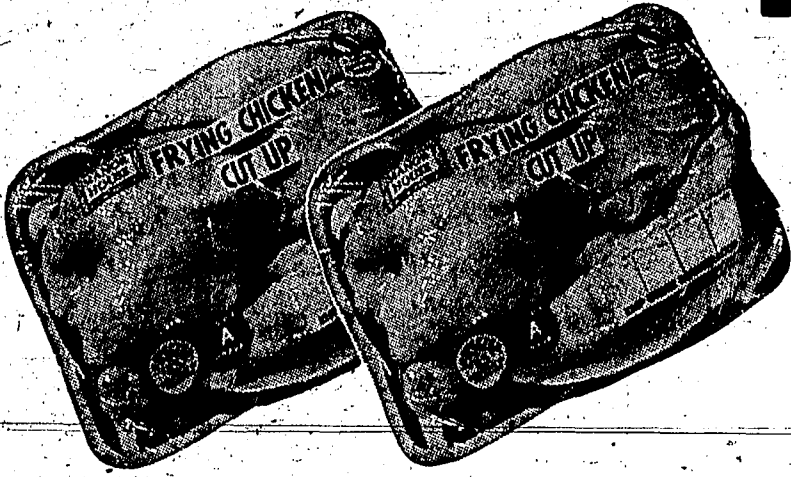

Red Cross officials, sweating in the Dead Sea heat, assisted many of the refugees, carrying their belongings and helping old people across the boards of the wrecked Allenby Bridge across the River Jordan. The bridge was knocked out during the June 5-10 war.

Most of the refugees were women, children and bent old men in long robes.

Commented Brig. Abdullah Ra'fat, secretary of Jordan's refugee committee: "It seems the Israelis have selected only the very young and very old and have taken no chances on letting young men return yet."

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . .

John D. Stephens Enjoys Life As Parking Meter Technician

When you've had the same job on the Twin Falls Police Force for 21 years . . . people get to know you. And almost everyone who has ever parked in the downtown area for any length of time has seen or met John D. Stephens.

John Stephens is 60 years old, and has spent his life in Twin Falls, with the exception of three years spent in the California ship yards.

"My main job," says Stephens, "is to collect and package all money collected by the meters, and to see to it that the meters work."

On Aug. 16 John celebrated his 21st year on the Twin Falls Police Force. And in his opinion, "We have a very good Police Department here. The men are good men."

"They are skilled in their work and put in long hours. Most of them have been here for many years."

John Stephens will retire from the Twin Falls Police Department in four and one-half years. He and his wife intend to travel throughout the United States and see the parts of the country they have never seen before.

"We like to hunt and fish and we'll take our camper. I'm really not a very good hunter but I know that we'll fish a lot."

John D. Stephens was born in Twin Falls, Idaho, December 24, 1906, the son of Charles and Frances Stephens. John's father has worked for the Canal Company in Twin Falls for 25 years, and then bought a grocery store. John worked in the store for 12 years when he was younger. He was also a marine electrician during the second world war.

John lost his first wife, Elaine Dudley Stephens in an accident in California. He had been working there for three years when the tragic event left John with the care of his three children, Walter Lee, Carol Elaine, and James D. Stephens.

He brought them back with him to Twin Falls in 1946, to stay with their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Dudley. They stayed with the Dudleys for four years.

John was remarried to Clara Brune in 1950. And in 1965 John Stephens married his present wife Edith Davis Stephens, who is a school teacher at the Morningside Elementary School.

John's three children, in his words, "have all had a lot more education than I've had." John and his wife have managed to see that the three children have all or most of their college education.

Walter Lee Stephens is now a businessman in Pocatello . . . Carol Elaine Stephens will teach English and Drama in Jerome this coming term . . . and James D. Stephens is currently serving in the Army in Germany.

Among his other activities John Stephens is active in the Boots and Bustles, a square dance club in Twin Falls. He has been a member of the Elks Club, and attends the Methodist Church.

screaming, "Don't give me a ticket, don't give me a ticket, here's the money!"

According to John, "The man just stood there with lather on his face, trying frantically to stuff a nickel in the meter. The odd thing about it is that I wasn't even going to give him a ticket . . . there was still time on his meter. I was just checking."

Mr. Stephens doesn't give out many tickets, and would rather think of himself as a parking meter technician. He takes pride in a job that brings the City of Twin Falls an estimated $30,000 a year which is used for city expenses.

He says that the city needs four times the parking space it now has to take care of the people. And he likes to remind citizens that the only reason for having parking meters is to open up places for customers to park.

"Without them," John says, "people who park downtown all day would take up the town parking spaces and there would be no place to park for those who wanted to shop."

John D. Stephens takes his job seriously, and enjoys it very much. In four-and-one-half years he will retire, and someone else will begin a job that John will have held for 25 years.

As John puts it, "Twin Falls will be a good place to settle down in after retirement. It has to be . . . it was a wonderful place to raise a family."

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — An organization of 35,000 Negro women called Friday-for-a program in some 300 American cities to "build a better self concept" among alienated Negroes and head off further riots.

The resolution was adopted unanimously by delegates to the 29th national convention of the Delta Sigma Theta public service sorority, a predominantly Negro group.

Delegates also were expected to adopt resolutions on open housing and Vietnam.

The "self concept" resolution was offered by a delegation from Dayton, Ohio, a city that has had racial violence.

"We are going to have to get to these grass roots, to get to these people who are alienated from us, our own brothers and sisters who are causing the riots," said Mildred Styles, a member of the delegation.

Under the resolution, each of the more than 300 Delta Sigma Theta chapters in the United States would attempt to develop programs that would bring teen-agers into organized "get it off your chest" discussions.

"That would let them vent their emotions without doing any damage and very likely give you ideas on what we can do to lessen or solve the problem," a Dayton delegate said.

In several American cities, including Dayton, groups of teen-agers have been organized to walk the streets and attend social functions, urging their friends to keep a cool summer.

The groups are identified by the white hats the members wear.

The Dayton delegation suggested that in cities where the White Hats already exist, they be used to bring teen-agers in for the discussions, and that in other cities, White Hat groups be formed.

While street violence was a major topic of the five-day convention, many of the delegates considered open housing—the most important issue of the day.

Most were highly pessimistic about the chances of such a bill getting through Congress but felt very strongly that, until such a measure is approved, the threat of further violence would remain great.

The following letter, which has been answered personally, concerns a question which arises frequently so we will use it here:

"Dear Sir: Somewhere recently I read an article concerning the 1936-37 Canadian coins and the placement of a small dot to the right of the last digit. I have a 1937 Canadian nickel with such a dot, and a 1936 penny without the dot. Can you tell me if they are of more than face value?"

Answer: Had the "dot" you mention been on the Canadian cent, you would have had a three thousand dollar coin.

When King George the Fifth died in 1936, there was a shortage of 1 cent, 10 cent and 25 cent coins. Since new dies could not be prepared fast enough, to show King-George the Sixth's reign, a dot was added to the existing dies to indicate that they were struck after the death of George Fifth. While the Mint states that all of the "dot" coinage was released into circulation, there has never been an explanation of the rarity of the 1 cent and 10 cent as opposed to the comparatively common "dot" twenty-five cent piece.

The Canadian Mint show that 678,823 "dot" cents were minted — of these, only four are known to be in collector's hands, they sell for $3,500 in uncirculated condition. The 1936 "dot" 10 cent piece also sells for this amount, and 191,237 were supposed to have been placed in circulation. Of the 153,322 "dot" twenty-five cent pieces, quite a few are in collector's hand, and the price runs up to about $250 in uncirculated condition.

Incidentally, the "dot" is directly under the "1936" and centered between the 9 and 3, on the cent; in the center, underneath the ribbon bow, on the ten cent pieces and quarters.

There are quite a few other examples of "dot" coinage in the Canadian group—the 1937 Canadian nickel you mention being one of these. The dot was placed on this coin deliberately and appears on all specimens.

You will also find varieties of Canadian coinage with a small maple leaf after the number. In the case of the 1947 series nickels, both the dot and maple leaf appear, and again here, the "dot" coinage is worth considerably more money than the maple leaf coinage.

Question from R. L. W., Twin Falls: "I have heard that Silver Certificates are selling for more than face value—is this correct? Where can I sell them?"

Answer: Your information is correct. Dealers are now offering $1.25 for the common Silver Certificate, $1.00 denomination, $6.25 for the $5.00 Silver Certificate and $12.50 for the $10.00 denomination, (or twenty-five per cent over face). The reason for this is the fact that they are redeemable at the mint for silver which is selling in the open market for a considerable amount over what the government is allowing.

After the first of the year, when the Silver Certificates are no longer redeemable in silver bullion, they will be worth no more than any other paper dollar, if they are in average circulated condition. On the other hand, if you have a number of them in brand new condition hang onto them, since they will increase in value rapidly as the issue disappears from the scene.

This applies to Silver Certificates only—not the new Federal Reserve notes. You can identify Silver Certificates by reading the legend at the top of the bill over Washington's head. I am mailing you a listing of dealers who are advertising for such notes.

We have had a number of questions about gold notes and large denomination currency, and at an early date will try to answer these questions.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.)

Bid On Milk Accepted By Buhl Trustees

BUHL — School trustees have accepted bids to furnish approximately 140,000 half pints of homogenized grade A milk for the school lunch program for the 1967-68 school term.

Bids were submitted by Smith's dairy and Ida-Gem Dairymen, Inc. Smith's dairy was low bidder with a quotation of 5 cents per half pint. The bid of Smith's dairy was accepted by the trustees. Ida-Gem quoted 5.5 cents per half pint.

Bids were submitted to furnish the school district approximately 420 tons of washed or oil treated slack coal, delivered to the Buhl schools. The bid of Wright Fuel Co. was accepted at $13.25 per ton. An integral part of this bid was a provision for a freight rate increase of 25 cents per ton over and above the stated quotation. The effective date of the freight rate increase is to be determined.

Bids were accepted to furnish insurance for school buses and other vehicles. Bids were submitted by Farmers Realty and Insurance, the John Barker agency and Farmers Insurance group. The low bid was accepted from Farmers Insurance group, with a quotation of $565.60. Farmers Realty bid $1,025 and the Barker Agency bid $600.57.

Trustees accepted the resignation of Tom Moreland, social studies and physical education instructor. Mr. Moreland resigned to accept employment with the State Vocational Rehabilitation department. He will be employed as a counselor in this department. A replacement for Mr. Moreland has not been found at this time.

Trustees approved a memorandum of understanding with the state for operation of the school lunch program.

Trustees discussed at length the study grant in the performing arts area being conducted under the Title III project and reminded patrons of the district that the grant is earmarked for a specific study and funds from it can in no way be used in the operation expense of a school district.

School will begin at 9 a.m. Aug. 28, for all three Buhl schools.

Old Clocks, New Need Attention

(Continued From Page A-1) Utah, who said it didn't work. Phillips has worked on it off and on for years. He was given the wooden clock when he was about 10 years old.

"I was offered $1,500 for the clock by some guy in Detroit who is making a collection," Max said. "But I think I'll keep it for a while."

Max says that when he was younger, he worked in most of the watch factories. He worked in the Elgin Plant for years, and later was on the research board for 20 years. Elgin closed its plant not long ago, and according to Max, it was because of the lack of craftsmen. They now import most of their material.

Max's life has been surrounded by clocks, and inevitably stories about clocks creep into his conversation.

"See that clock over there," Max said, pointing to an attractive old-fashioned table clock about the size of a box of detergent. "That clock sells for about $90. I once had a room full of those clocks. I gave them all away. I didn't think they were worth much."

In repairing watches, everything from a pocket watch hanc painted in Italy about 200 years ago, to a modern, jeweled, self-winding, wafer-thin calendar watch, is a labor of love for Max Phillips.

He is an horologist. He is skilled in the science of measuring time and the art of constructing time indicating instruments.

Negro "School" Is Headed For Court Showdown

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Nashville's Liberation School headed Friday for a court showdown with the Metropolitan Park Board over its right to teach its young Negro pupils in a public park.

After up to 50 young Negroes heard Friday of an early Black Nationalist leader at the project's second session in a public park, a park official said an injunction against further meetings is being drafted.

"We're not going to move," said Fred Brooks, 20, the Black Power Negro who is chief spokesman for the school. "It's a public park. We're staying here. If they try to eject us, we'll be back Monday and this time bring the black community with us."

Dr. G. E. Reichardt, park board chairman, said the injunction was being prepared, but probably no attempt will be made to have it issued or served before Monday.

Park Supt. Frank Pickens, on the second attempt, managed Friday to serve notice on Brooks that the school—begun as an anti-poverty project and accused by a Nashville police captain of teaching hate—was meeting without a required permit.

'Any Quantity—and No 'Cost-Per-Copy' Worries!

You are not straining a copier to do a duplicator's job... you are using a versatile duplicating system that can double as a copier

Gestetner removes the inhibiting factor of 'cost-per-copy.' It also removes the limitations of substance and size of paper as well as ink colors. Gestetner is a versatile duplicating system based on the simplicity and economy of the blencil printing method. It is designed like a modern printing press with dual cylinders linked on the outside, automatically, with printer's style paste ink. Automatic, color-coded controls make operation so simple that any girl in your office can run it.

Masters are made automatically by electronic scanning (Gestetner) with push-button simplicity. Any original, whether it's a clipping or a ruled form — or a catalog page made up from a paste-up layout — can be translated into a master. In just a few minutes, for instant run-off on your Gestetner. You can plan your daily printing requirements on any paper with a choice of inks in 19 different colors.

GESTEFAX operates on any office desk. Simply place your original subject around one cylinder and a blank master around the other. Push the 'go' button — and in minutes you will have a faithfully detailed stencil-master with which you can run off as many (or as few) copies as you wish on your Gestetner.

WELCOMING AN interruption in their class at the Twin Falls Labor Camp, students of Mrs. Doris Scott, standing, show off for a photographer. In the front two desks, from left, are Dora Hernandez and Denise Keyt. The class, which ended recently, is part of a three-fold program offered at the camp by the YMCA-YWCA, the Migrant Ministry and the Twin Falls School District N. 411. Appreciation of the class is evident among the participants.

CONFUSION REIGNS as a large group of young residents at the Twin Falls Labor Camp prepare for a recreational outing sponsored by the YMCA-YWCA. Recreational opportunities are one aspect of a comprehensive program at the camp, involving a fight against ignorance, dependence and misunderstanding.

Labor Camp Classroom Is Site For Quiet War Against Misunderstanding

By CATHERINE TATE
Times-News Staff Writer

A now-deserted classroom rings with the still echo left by noisy children while, in another room only steps away, the chatter of busy women obscures the hum of a sewing machine . . .

These are the sounds of a quiet little war that is being waged in Twin Falls against ignorance, dependence and misunderstanding. The battleground is the Twin Falls Labor Camp, and the factions involved are all on one side. Volunteers, and a few employees, of the YMCA-YWCA, the Migrant Ministry and the Twin Falls School District No. 411 are the officers of the battle. Their troops include hundreds of men, women and children of Spanish-Mexican descent.

This is not a formal War Against Poverty, supported by huge sums of federal money and administered by federal employees. It is, instead, a cooperative venture between three separate organizations to further understanding, promote independence and dispel ignorance among a people largely ignored by affluent Americans.

The labor camp program as supported by the "Y", the Migrant Ministry and the school board is three-fold, involving provision of a summer school for children under 14; recreational jaunts for children as well as parents; a sewing class for mothers and other adult women, and a nursery school for infants who would generally be tended by older siblings or their mothers.

The complex program originated with the Migrant Ministry about a decade ago, according to Mrs. Sally Molyneux, general coordinator of the program today. The Ministry, which is organized among women of all religious faiths in this area, approached the "need to do something out there" on a small scale, offering some nursery care, a sewing class and a little tutoring for older children. All of the women involved in the Ministry's projects are volunteers.

Two years ago, the "Y" began offering recreational opportunities to residents of the camp, "because we realized the need to give these kids a real chance," Mrs. Molyneux commented.

When the "Y" first began offering programs at the camp, "We were primarily concerned with the kids, and with providing recreational opportunities for them," she noted. "We took them to circuses, into the YMCA-YWCA Building for use of the facilities there, took them on picnics and swimming and offered crafts and some classroom activity."

While the children were involved in "Y" sponsored projects, their mothers were learning to sew under the direction of volunteers from the Migrant Ministry while the younger children were being cared for in the nursery, she pointed out.

"The Ministry's sewing class was never set up as a formal class. It was simply open all day for women who wanted help with their sewing, and nursery care was provided for children whose mothers were sewing."

The nursery was, and still is, located in a corner of the sewing room, which has been furnished largely through donation of machines, material and sewing notions, the spokesman continued.

According to Mrs. Catherine Bengochea, current supervisor of the sewing program, "These women are very talented, and learn quickly. They have been an inspiration to us."

Mrs. Bengochea purchases cloth at a whole-price for resale at a substantial discount to women participating in the class. Money from the resale is then used to purchase more cloth and other materials. In addition, rummage sales are held frequently, and many items purchased at such a sale are remade into wearable garments.

The sewing program is now operating far below capacity, in view of the fact that most of the camp's migrant families have moved on to California and Texas. Increased participation, however, is expected for next year.

"The Twin Falls camp is one of the few in the West that provides special programs for women — we understand that while in Texas, the home for many of our families before they come here, the women bader their husbands, to come to Twin Falls," Mrs. Molyneux said.

The school board entered into the labor camp program July 3 when a federal grant of $9,200 for migrant education became available. More than $127,000 had been allocated to Idaho's board of education for distribution to individual school systems. Three teachers, seating and learning materials were provided the camp by the school system when the grant was made.

Earlier, educational projects at the camp had been limited to those provided by Mrs. Doris Scott, an education major at the College of Southern Idaho, who had been paid a small salary by the "Y."

The nursery had been going full-swing even before the funds became available, Mrs. Molyneux noted; because of the necessity of freeing the older children from baby-sitting chores so that they could go to school.

"These people are very protective of their children, and rarely leave them untended by an older child or by the mother," she commented.

Since the school's facilities have been increased, enrollment has tripled, Mrs. Molyneux continued. The enrollment centered on 5- through 13-year-olds before ending Aug. 11.

"By the time many migrant 14-year-olds reach that age, the families expect them to go to work. For this reason, we stress reading, patriotism and history and English, realizing that this may be the last formal education many of our students receive."

"History is stressed because it is important for them to realize that they are part of America, not a separate, autonomous group. Hopefully, through education these children will eventually own property and become taxpayers and stay off the welfare rolls," she stated.

The nursery, which is still functioning on a limited basis, is taught by Loraine Molsie, a 20-year-old Filer miss who, like Mrs. Scott, is an education major at CSI.

Her responsibility involves children from infant to four years of age. Playing with clay, painting, a little of the alphabet and some numbers are given to the children. Cribs, toys and playpens are provided by the nursery.

The first, second and third grades were taught by Mrs. Scott before the conclusion of the school term. The students are generally grouped according to ability and progress, although some consideration was given to age and size since the three grades were taught in one room.

Assisted by Janet Russell, Twin Falls, Mrs. Scott taught her children reading, stressing English, spelling, reading and crafts.

Mrs. Wayne Murphy, Kimberly, a Spanish-born teacher who can converse fluently with her students, taught the fourth through seventh grades at the school. Using a practical approach to education involving the child's reference group, she emphasized craft programs, related to the geography and history of many of the places the migrant children have traveled through. More English, reading, spelling, and patriotism were taught.

Mrs. Murphy's assistants have been Bonnie Williams and Denise Keyt, both CSI students from Twin Falls.

An overall aide at the school was Dan Crafton, Buhl, who assisted the teachers with games and crafts and other duties.

Mrs. Murphy's fourth through seventh grades and Mrs. Scott's first through third were taught in two separate rooms, which together with the sewing/nursery room is part of a building donated the three groups by the labor camp.

Adult education at the camp is limited in view of the long hours worked by the older members of the migrant families, Mrs. Molyneux pointed out. However, for about four weeks this summer, Bob Thompson, Twin Falls, taught English fundamentals at the camp. Adult classes are provided at CSI, and the workers are encouraged to join in the tuition-free instruction.

"Many Mexicans are hesitant to leave the camp, so generally the school must come to them — which is why our classes are held here instead of in one of the public schools," Mrs. Molyneux commented.

A final aspect of the triple-threat labor camp program is the provision of a full-time nurse, Mrs. Dale Burrows, Twin Falls, for medical and dental care.

"We are simply trying to help our people help themselves — and by doing so, to help others. And in the process, we are gaining as much or more as we hope the participants are gaining . . . we are learning to work with people who were previously unabout ourselves as well," Mrs. Malyneux concluded.

Bids Sought For Fences Near Burley

BURLEY — Opening of bids for construction of approximately 12.5 miles of barbed wire fences on government land in Cassia County will begin at 10 a.m. Aug. 25, according to officials at the Bureau of Land Management Service, Portland, Ore.

Five units are included in the fence-building project, ranging from 160 to 1,440 rods. Materials for the work will be furnished by BLM. The contractor will provide supervision, labor transportation, equipment and additional supplies needed to perform fence-line clearing and construction.

A guided inspection tour of the project site will be conducted by a BLM representative for interested bidders.

Small business concerns only are invited to submit bids. Bids will be received and opened in the BLM Service Center, 710 N. E. Holladay St. (P.O. Box 3801), Portland, Ore., 97208, from where additional information for the fencing work may be secured. Local information on the project may be obtained from the BLM District Office, phone 678-5224.

After 22 Days, Feature Editor Is Sure Fear Of Water Is Psychological

I sniffed and sipped at my first glass of water without really the courage to actually taste it.

Finally, I managed to take a good sized drink . . . and I haven't touched it since.

Now, my reason for failing to jump on the Twin Falls water wagon was not exclusively one of smell or taste. It's really not that bad. It's the idea of drinking water that everyone makes fun of that's really appalling. A week later, through the vehicle of being a Times-News staff member, I went along on a Water-Tour sponsored by the Twin Falls City Commissioners, the City Manager, and the City Engineer.

That was nearly a week ago. And at this point in my education about the city of Twin Falls, I am quite happy that my family and I moved to this area . . . with its City Government, its "funny" water, and its progressive attitude about its problems.

I was impressed with the city officials, especially the City Manager, H. L. Derrick, and his enthusiasm with the new water project.

An anecdote dating back to December of 1960, when Mr. Derrick became City Manager of Twin Falls, was related by Mr. Earl Haroldsen during the tour.

Mr. Haroldsen is the Twin Falls Manager of Idaho Power, and told those in the car with him that this must be a proud day for Mr. Derrick. Mr. Haroldsen said that within two hours of the first day the new City Manager was in office, someone talked forever, it seemed, about how bad Twin Falls water was.

Mr. Haroldsen happened to meet with Mr. Derrick shortly thereafter and remembers that he said: "I'll tell you something . . . If I do nothing else for the city of Twin Falls, I see to it that it gets some decent water to drink."

And to me at least, the tour seemed successful. It educated those who had little or no knowledge about the improvements planned, and now underway, for the Twin Falls water supply.

The inspection of the filter plant and the old reservoir now in use was informative and somewhat frightening.

First, to learn that the filter plant is not adequate, and second, to learn that the reservoir was not covered, and was grossly inadequate in its storage capacity for the entire city is a bit unnerving.

We were then taken to inspect the new reservoir, booster pumping stations, the canyon pumping stations and the intake structure and water source for the new water supply at Alpheus Creek.

To those residents of Twin Falls who have lived here for some time, the prospect of a new and pure water supply must be an enjoyable concept. To those residents who oppose it . . . and there are always some who for one good reason or another do . . . may I just point out that to a resident of some 22 days, it is a very nice thing to see happen.

Filer School Registration Data Given

FILER — All schools in Filer School District 413 will open at 8:30 a.m. Aug. 28, according to Tom Turner, superintendent.

Buses will run at the regular time to pick up students and return them at noon. High school students will attend each of their classes in shortened periods that day.

Elementary students will be registered on opening day and may return home after registering, stated the superintendent. They may register from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. First graders must be 6 years of age on or before Oct. 15 and must have some proof of birth date presented at registration time.

All fees remain the same as last year, which are: registration, $6; locker fees, $1; year-book, $5.15 for grades 7-12; activity ticket for senior high, $5; for grades 1-8 if desired, $4; towel fee for physical education, $4. Class dues and laboratory fees will be set by the various classes.

The district does not underwrite student insurance but the principals have on hand policies that students may purchase. Superintendent Turner stated he urged all parents that purchase this insurance to read the policies carefully to see exactly what accidents are covered and the amount of coverage.

All seventh and eighth grade students will enroll at the new elementary building, as well as all those of grades one through six who had formerly attended Victory and Central Schools.

Arthur Chatburn, principal, reminds all senior high students to register Aug. 23-24. All fees are due and payable upon registration.

Hot lunches in the schools will start Aug. 29.

A teacher is needed for the second grade at Hollister. Teachers of the district will hold a general meeting at 9 a.m. Friday and then have separate meetings in their respective buildings.

MANY PEOPLE ASK what this structure across the South Fork of the Salmon River below Krasel Ranger Station is supposed to do. Its purpose is to count the exact number of summer-run chinook salmon passing through without handling or harassing the heavy spawners in any way. This is part of the intensive salmon study now in progress above Bonneville Dam on the Columbia River and its tributaries in Idaho and Washington.

Condition Of Salmon Runs In Idaho - Most Often Asked Fish-Game Question

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department
BOISE — Of all the whys and how comes that have been asked about the way Idaho salmon fishing has been regulated this year, the question posed most often goes like this:
"How come fishing in headwater streams of the main Salmon River and its Middle Fork was stretched out for 16 days more than the regular season allowed; yet these rivers and side streams on downstream — as well as the South Fork of the Salmon and all its tributaries — were closed for salmon fishing on July 25?"
This action by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission ended for the third year in a row all hope of salmon fishing on the South-Fork-River drainage, where the season was scheduled to start on July 25. The order, in effect, closed all salmon fishing in these waters before they opened.
The change in regulations that drew the most questions opened 17 segments of salmon waters in Stanley Basin, Bear Valley and the Middle Fork of the Salmon River upstream from Loon Creek, among others. Here salmon fishermen were handed 16 more days when the season was lengthened from July 15 to July 31.
As long as salmon fishermen hold to the fixed idea that a salmon is a salmon no matter where it is found, regulations of this kind won't make any sense at all. It does no good to point out that the sports fishing season on the summer-run chinook salmon was closed in Idaho in 1965 and 1966, as well as 1967, and that the states of Washington and Oregon prohibited both sports and commercial fishing on the summer run this year, as long as anglers fail to distinguish between the two groups, or races, of fish that use the Salmon River.
An important new concept in the management of salmon and steelhead was developed in 1966 and is known as the production rate of "return per spawner." In order to maintain a fishery on a substantial basis, the return per spawner must be in excess of 1 to 1. If the return or production rate is exactly 1, then obviously there is no harvestable surplus and any harvest will reduce the subsequent run four years hence by that amount. If the production rate drops and remains below 1 long enough, the race will die out.
For the past decade the entire Columbia River run of summer chinook has been steadily declining in numbers, going from 106,000 fish in 1957 to a total Columbia River run of 72,000 fish in 1966. This means that a sharp reduction in the production rates of summer chinook is going on year after year. With present production rates very close to 1 to 1, it is clear that only a slight further decrease would bring it down to below 1 adult at the mouth of the Columbia River for each spawner that has reached ancestral waters four years previously.
The two groups of salmon, the spring runs and the summer runs, spawn for the most part in different tributary streams and parts of the same rivers. Spring-run chinooks, for example, migrate to the headwaters of the main Salmon and Middle Fork rivers and their tributaries. Summer-run fish, on the other hand, use the lower portions of these rivers, and the South Fork of the Salmon River and its tributaries. Thus, it was possible this year for the Fish and Game Commission to allow 16 more days of fishing on spring chinook tributaries in the upper tributaries without catching the summer-run fish still in lower river sections.

The 1967 run of 95,600 summer-run chinook counted at Bonneville Dam, and 29,900 counted at Ice Harbor Dam on the lower Snake River, both indicate that the run size has increased this year. Stacy Gebhardt, fishery management supervisor for the Idaho Fish and Game Department, points out that this figure, however, is misleading because of the early closure on the commercial fishery below Bonneville on May 13. Normally, the season has extended through May 27.
"Therefore, a large portion of the early June counts at Bonneville Dam which are tallies as summer chinook after June 1, were in fact late arriving spring chinook that escaped the commercial harvest," he avers. "Although the actual number of 'springs' counted in the summer inventory is not known, it is felt that the total 1967 Columbia River run was comparable to 1965 and 1966 and that the decline has merely leveled off."
Why the scales seem tipped out of balance between the spring-run and the summer-run groups of salmon is not known at this time. Both races of fish are hurt by changes in stream environment that have come in the past two or three decades throughout the Columbia River drainage. But the summer chinooks seem to be the hardest hit. These changes include water pollution, hydroelectric dams, logging operations and, of course, more fishing pressure. Dams are among the prime, man-made fish killers. Millions of dollars have been spent, and more goes on — the line every year, to help salmon runs co-exist with high dams. Even good fishways over them delay fish passage. In some cases a delay of 12 days can prevent salmon from reaching their spawning grounds and lesser delays reduce their chances of spawning success.

Even when adult fish successfully pass a dam, they are faced with a huge lake, or reservoir which has replaced the former stream bed. Water temperatures have been changed, and the water generally is lacking in flow so that the fish find it impossible to find their way.
Similar problems face young salmon fingerlings traveling downstream to the sea. They have difficulty finding the spillway, and the battering caused by the drop over a dam's face, down a concrete spillway or through the turbines is frequently fatal.
A small percentage of loss at each of the 15 Snake and Columbia dams built or planned will result in high total losses.
But why do these adverse stream habitat conditions bite more deeply into summer-run salmon populations than the springs? That is the question researchers are devoting great amounts of time, energy and money to solve.

Dummies Are Subjects For Vision Tests

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Dummy pedestrians, who can't duck, have been taking a beating from automobiles in an Indiana University research project — except when they are wearing strips of reflectorized material.
Dr. Merrill Allen and Richard D. Hazlett and associates banged the dummies about in research on motorists' vision problems.
The 4-foot-high dummies first were covered with black cloth. Participating motorists, in night tests, failed to see 14 per cent of the dummies at 20 m.p.h. and none of them at 60 and up.
In gray clothing, the simulated pedestrians were seen by all the drivers up to 30 m.p.h. but 53 per cent were not seen at 40.
When white cloth was used, all were seen up to 50 m.p.h., 87 per cent at 60, 91 per cent at 70 and 53 per cent at 80.
Addition of strips of reflectorized tape made all of the "pedestrians" visible to all drivers at speeds up to 80 m.p.h.
All of the drivers were sober. Tests with what the researchers called "significantly intoxicated" drivers showed they saw only 14 per cent of the grey pedestrians at 40 m.p.h. They even walloped 6 per cent of the reflectorized targets at 80 m.p.h.

News Of Record
MINIDOKA COUNTY
Max E. Stamm, 41, Declo, was cited for making an improper right turn after the 1934 International truck he was driving four miles east of Cottrell at 1 p.m. Thursday collided with a 1956 Chevrolet pickup truck operated by Paul E. LaFontain, 28, Burley.
Officers said Mr. Stamm had pulled to the left side of the road to check his mail box, and was pulling back to the right when the other driver approached from the opposite direction over a crest in the road. Damage to the pickup truck was estimated at $1,200 and to the Stamm truck, $250.
Charles Vogt, 24, Boise, was cited for failure to have his car under control after his 1967 Nash struck a guard rail which penetrated about six feet into the car at 5:30 p.m. Thursday on Highway 27 just north of Paul. He told officers he bent over to pick up a card off the floor. He continued to Boise via plane after the accident.

U.S. Nuclear Engineer Has His Freedom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Miami nuclear engineer who said he did classified work on atomic submarines arrived back home Friday after an ordeal which included howling seas and 24 days under arrest in Cuba, according to the Miami Herald. Russ Bartell, 36, 40 pounds lighter after his adventure, said he was held incommunicado by the Cubans when he revealed his technological background, the Herald reported in an interview story by Jon Nordheimer. "I told them I had only worked on projects involving the peaceful application of atomic energy," Bartell said. He said he kept secret his submarine work. "I figured they would have a heck of a time trying to check on any classified work I've done for the government," Bartell said.

A spokesman for Aerojet General Corp. said Bartell was a nuclear engineer at Aerojet's San Ramon, Calif., facility until 1965. Bartell said he and his 18-year-old sailing companion, Rolf Woods of California, were kept under constant guard around the clock by guards with submachineguns and fed a diet of beans and rice.

BY DICK CAVALLI

TELL ME A
GRAMPA?
PLEASE? HUH,
GRAMPA?

DICK CAVALLI

ONCE UPON A TIME,
LIL' WILLIE, ALL OF US GERMS
LIVED TOGETHER IN PEACE AND HARMONY.

WE ALL WORKED VERY HARD
BRINGING DISEASE AND PESTILENCE TO THE WHOLE WORLD, AND THEN...

THEN HE CAME,
AND FROM THAT DAY ON,
NO GERM WAS SAFE!

WHO WAS HE,
GRAMPA?

HE MADE THE VERY EARTH
TREMBLE AS HE DESTROYED
OUR HOMES AND CITIES!

WHO WAS HE,
GRAMPA?

WHO WAS HE, HUH, GRAMPA?

SMASH!

NEVER
HE WAS.
