U.S. Quiet On U.N. War Plans

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States kept silent today on plans to seek U.N. action on the Vietnam war amid an apparent U.S.-South Vietnamese split over whether to invite the Viet Cong to participate.

A spokesman for the U.S. delegation said no instructions had been received from the White House since the Senate approved a resolution last Friday calling on President Johnson to seek U.N. help to end the war.

Johnson told a news conference Monday that the resolution would be sent to the State Department and U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg for their "reactions" before any steps are taken.

Questioned about the prospects of the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front taking part in the proposed Security Council debate, the State Department recalled Goldberg's telling the Senate Foreign Relations Committee a month ago the United States "would not stand in the way of any group, including the NFL, being invited."

In the wake of the State Department comment, South Vietnam's Foreign Ministry appealed to the United Nations not to allow the world forum to be used for "propaganda purposes."

"The South Vietnamese people can only negotiate with North Vietnam, and will energetically refuse any presence by South Vietnam National Liberation Front representatives under the name or meaning of a separate delegation in any peace negotiations," the foreign ministry said.

CHRISTMAS DECORATIONS LOOK a little woe-begone when they show up as a reflection on a wet street in Twin Falls. Early Tuesday the city began to take on a true Christmas look as snow tumbled down, but before evening the snow had turned to rain and slush covered the streets. Times-News Photographer Bill King Jr. spotted this scene as he walked along the sidewalk on Main Avenue.

Protesters Move To Picket Rusk Speech

By BOB MONROE
NEW YORK (AP) — Antwar demonstrators, thwarted in a new march on an Army induction center, moved uptown today to picket an appearance by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Eight persons were arrested outside the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, where Rusk was scheduled to make a luncheon speech to a conference of the National Association of Manufacturers.

Thirty had been arrested outside the induction center in Lower Manhattan, as about 4,000 policemen frustrated the second demonstration there in as many days. A center spokesman said operations were "completely normal" today.

Police kept the demonstrators broken into groups and behind barricades at the induction center, where 264 were arrested Tuesday. Protest leaders said they may cancel a third attempt.

On Nov. 14, Rusk was picketed by a riotous crowd of about 3,000 outside the New York Hilton Hotel, where he made a speech. Banned from the hotel, the crowd milled through the Times Square area, pelting police with stones, bottles and eggs. Forty-six were arrested.

Today's demonstration at the induction center was over in three hours. The demonstrators milled up and down the narrow streets, frequently scuffling with passers-by and enraged commuters.

"Stop the Draft" demonstrators were going on at several other points in the country.

In Philadelphia police hauled away 70 demonstrators who tried to block the door to an induction center. About 700 took part in the Philadelphia demonstration.

A marshal of the New York City Police Department said she thought perhaps as many as 10,000 had taken part, but police put the figure at closer to 2,000.

About 1,500 policemen had been held on overtime to join the regular force assigned to the demonstration.

Unable to break through police barriers, the demonstrators left the induction center at 39 Whitehall St. and joined other bands roving streets in the area, probing in the words of one police official, "for a weak spot."

Nearly a score of arrests were reported by 8 a.m.

The morning demonstration marked the second round of protests aimed at shutting down the center. It was part of a national "Stop the Draft Week" project sponsored by a coalition of some 50 antiwar and civil rights groups.

More than 1,000 persons took part Tuesday. Estimated of the crowd today were put at about 2,000—but an exact determination was made difficult by the moving nature of the demonstration.

At the induction center a spokesman said the Army would not give out figures but added that "the normal scheduled amount came in."

The full 28,000-man Police Department was on standby alert today and their massed ranks seemed to discourage the protesters.

"I don't know what we've done, but we're getting nowhere," said one of the protest leaders over a bullhorn.

Second Human Heart Transplant Is Reported In United States

Bulletin
NEW YORK (AP) — Surgeons gave a baby boy a new heart today, but it died 6½ hours later, the hospital reported.

NEW YORK (AP) — Surgeons gave a 2½-week-old boy a new heart Wednesday—the world's second heart transplant in humans, and the first in the United States.

The operation took place at 4:15 a.m. A team of 22 physicians, nurses and technicians worked for 2 hours and 15 minutes over the boy, finishing the operation at 6:30 a.m.

Brooklyn's Maimonides Hospital made the announcement this afternoon.

The vital signs—pulse, blood pressure and so forth—were said to be "relatively stable." But doctors said the future outlook of the baby was "guarded."

The baby was suffering from what the hospital statement described as a fatal heart condition—severe tricuspid atresia.

The new heart came from a 2-year-old infant born with a severe congenital deformity. The second baby died before the transplant operation took place.

The hospital declined to go into details about the operation, but scheduled a news conference only four days ago, surgeons at Cape Town, South Africa, replaced the failing heart of Louis Washkansky, a 55-year-old procer, with the heart of a 25-year-old woman.

The hospital was the scene earlier this year of a "helper-heart" operation, the implanting of an artificial heart-assist device in a human patient by surgeon, Dr. Adrian Kantrowitz.

Only Tuesday, Kantrowitz said that surgeons at the hospital were ready to perform a human heart transplant as soon as it had both the right patient and the right donor.

In a speech to the New York Academy of Medicine, Kantrowitz said, however, that "helper hearts" would be a more common procedure than transplants in the future.

"There are 400,000 persons who are going to die of coronary occlusions (clogged heart arteries) in this country this year," he said. "It's going to be hard to get 400,000 other people to give up their hearts."

The South African operation was the first transfer of human hearts in history. Washkansky is weathering the critical days after the operation in good shape.

His new heart came from the fatally injured body of Denise Ann Darvall, a bank accounting machine operator. She had been hit by an automobile and her father gave permission for the transplant after death.

Doctors established death by watching the failing electrical activity of her brain. The transplant then took place within 30 minutes, before the heart too suffered damage from the lack of oxygen from the blood.

While the operation was successful, doctors will watch in coming weeks and months for signs of the immunity mechanism that could reject the transplanted heart as the body rejects infections.

There was no estimate of how many other surgeons were planning heart transplant operations.

But one, Dr. Norman Shumway of Stanford Medical Center, Palo Alto, Calif., said his team had been waiting some time for the proper circumstances. He reported on his preparations two weeks ago in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

U.S. B52s Unload Bombs On Suspected Enemy Buildup Areas

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Air Force B52 bombers dumped 450,000 pounds of bombs on suspected Communist buildup areas near the Cambodian border and just inside North Vietnam.

In two early morning strikes, the eight-engine Stratofortresses dropped 300,000 pounds of explosives on suspected Communist weapons positions and troop concentrations two and three miles north-northeast of the Bu Dop Special Forces Camp 66 miles north of Saigon.

Heavy fighting and Communist mortar and artillery attacks have engaged the Americans off and on since last week around Bu Dop, which is only three miles east of the Cambodian border. Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops have been reported building up in the area from sanctuaries in Cambodia.

In a third raid, the B52s unloaded 150,000 pounds of bombs on suspected Communist anti-aircraft and artillery positions, bunkers and supply areas along the southern tip of North Vietnam 12 miles north-northeast of the U.S. Marine outpost at Con Thien. The North Vietnamese are believed to have from 35,000 to 40,000 troops along the frontier area.

Fighting flared briefly again at Bu Dop Tuesday after a weekend of heavy Communist mortar and artillery attacks. A company from the U.S. 1st Infantry Division, sent in last week to reinforce the special forces camp, ran into two Communist platoons—about 70 men—who were in fortified positions less than a mile from the Bu Dop airstrip.

In a brief skirmish, the American infantrymen reported killing 10 of the enemy while suffering four wounded. The Communist platoons were reported armed with two wheel-mounted machine guns and 82mm mortars.

Target Date

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional leaders have set Dec. 15 as the target date for adjournment of Congress and have agreed to convene the 1968 session Jan. 15.

House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., told a news conference today he believes adjournment by the end of next week is possible.

Without a resolution fixing the date for convening the next session, Congress would be required to return Jan. 3.

Snowstorm Snarls Traffic In Utah City

By The Associated Press
A snowstorm, packing winds up to 40 miles per hour, blew across the Salt Lake Valley Tuesday afternoon, snarling traffic in the Utah capital and causing numerous power outages.

Earlier Tuesday, a storm whipped through the Magic Valley area causing power outages briefly at Twin Falls, Buhl, and in rural areas throughout the valley.

The Salt Lake storm, accompanied by thunder and lightning, hit shortly before the evening traffic rush hour. Three inches of snow were reported between 4:30 and 6 p.m.

Utah Power and Light Co. said no lengthy power failures occurred, although repair crews were hampered by traffic jams and near-zero visibility while trying to reach trouble areas.

Worst of the power failures hit in the western sections of the city and in suburban Granger and Murray, southwestern suburbs.

The Highway Patrol said slick roads were responsible for the death of a Utah woman Tuesday night in a two-car collision on Utah Highway 89, north of Farmington.

Officers said Beverly Ruth Phipps, 31, a student nurse at the Salt Lake City LDS Hospital, was killed when her car collided with one driven by Keith McGhie, 40, also of Salt Lake City. He received minor injuries.

21 Confirmed Dead From Bridge Fall

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The toll in the collapse of a huge bridge under construction over a canyon just north of Mexico City stood at 21 confirmed dead today, but authorities predicted the toll would go higher.

Estimates of the number of workmen killed ranged from 30 to 70. The sole survivor, Angel Gutierrez Carraga, jumped into a tree on the canyon face at the collapse and was hospitalized in critical condition.

Fifteen bodies were recovered before operations were suspended for the night Tuesday, but searchers said they had located six more under the tangled steel, concrete and wood.

Mexico City newspapers speculated that faulty materials may have led to the collapse of the 295-foot "Universidad de Anahuac" bridge, but there was no official explanation of the cause.

The center span of the bridge, in Tecamacahalo, just north of the Mexico City line, fell 300 feet into the Loma del Negro canyon Monday night.

The Department of Public Works in the state of Mexico said it thought the Federal Ministry of Public Works was supervising the project, but the ministry said the bridge was a private project not supervised by it.

Uruguay President Gestido Dies At 66

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — President Oscar Diego Gestido died early today of a heart attack. He was 66.

Government sources said Gestido became ill about 1 a.m. and his wife immediately called doctors from the military hospital. The president died shortly after.

Vice President Jorge Pacheco Areco, 47, took over the presidency.

Gestido, a retired air force general, was sworn in last March as Uruguay's first "solo" president in 16 years, replacing a government council of nine men who had been unable to get together to solve Uruguay's mounting economic woes.

The bushy-browed, 6-foot-2 former pilot resigned from the council to run as a candidate from the underdog Colorado party. He won by a landslide.

Though he did not have time to revitalize his financially sick country, he gave it some stunning shock treatments in his nine months in office.

He devalued the peso sharply from 99 to 200 to the dollar and raised floor prices for wool and grains. He began curtailing government spending and issued $100 million in treasury bonds to finance deficits.

Thirty Montevideo grocers who marked up their prices on old stock were prosecuted under a new anti-profiteering law.

Such measures did away with Uruguay's black market in foreign currency virtually overnight.

When state bank employees struck for higher pay and all but tied up the state economy, Gestido suspended constitutional guarantees, ordered a state of siege for two weeks, ordered the strikers back to work and fired four ministers who protested the measures.

Uruguay, a tiny country wedged in between giant Brazil and Argentina, has a population of some 2.6 million and one of Latin America's three highest standards of living.

GI Who Was Lost In Filing System Is Civilian Again

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Joe A. Smith, the soldier the Army lost in its filing system for 18 months, is a real civilian today and says "it's a great feeling."

Without comment, the Army put Smith, 23, through its separation processing Tuesday at the Oakland Army Base.

Following Army instructions, he had waited at his Brownsville, Calif., home, standing by for special orders following basic training in 1965 at Ft. Hood, Tex.

After 18 months of waiting, at home with his wife, Glenda, Smith put on his uniform and reported at the Oakland base last June to ask for his discharge.

"It was quite a sweat, but now it's all over, and everything all right," said Smith after emerging Tuesday from the base with his separation papers.

"Now I want to find me a job here in the Bay area," Smith's adventure began when he went to his home on 30-day leave. The Army sent him a message there telling him to stand by for special orders.

While he waited Smith took a logging job at $130 a week. The Army's monthly allotment check for $92.50 kept coming to his wife, plus an $18.50 U.S. savings bond every three months.

The American Civil Liberties Union took up Smith's case, contending he had followed the Army's orders precisely.

While the ACLU took the case to court, Smith was assigned to the 6th Army headquarters at the Presidio as a runner and promoted to private first class.

As federal Judge Robert C. Pekham issued a show cause order last Friday for the Army to explain why Smith should not be released, the Army announced he would be discharged.

Smith said he understood the Army would make no claim for the allotment payments to his wife.

"In fact, when everything's computed I should have back pay coming," Smith said.

Dirksen's Withdrawal Pushes School Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Everett M. Dirksen's withdrawal of a hotly argued amendment on school busing removes a major barrier to passage of the $14.2 billion federal school aid bill.

The Senate Republican leader, apparently sensing defeat after two days of debate, withdrew Monday night his proposal to bar use of federal funds for busing pupils in order to overcome racial imbalances in schools.

Southern senators have other pending proposals to weaken the impact of civil rights laws, making possible further prolonged debate on the legislation.

But Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., leading the administration's fight for the measure in its present form, expressed hope Southern opposition could be turned back in time to send the bill to a House-Senate conference by week's end.

The Southern opposition is focused on two proposed amendments.

One, sponsored by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., would prevent the Department of Health, Education and Welfare from cutting off aid to any district after a school year started. It would apply even when the school was found to be violating the section of the 1964 Civil Rights Act barring federal funds for projects where racial segregation is practiced.

The other is the rider which Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C., got into the House's school bill. It would prevent HEW from deferring approval of aid applications from districts practicing segregation. Instead, the agency would have to go through a lengthy, formal process to cut off funds.

This amendment was stricken from the bill by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee but Sen. James O. Eastland, D-Miss., said he would seek to restore it during floor consideration.

Sen. Frank J. Lausche, D-Ohio, announced he will offer an amendment to cut back the authorization total in the bill by about $2.4 billion. He insisted authorizations for the various aid programs covered by the measure should be held to the level of the current year.

The Senate bill would increase them substantially in each of the next three years, rising to a $5.1 billion total in fiscal 1971 compared with $3.9 billion in the present year.

16 SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

County Commissioners Urge Taxpayers To Express Views

What Twin Falls County Commissioners hope will be the first of several such meetings has been announced for noon Dec. 11 in Castleford to outline county budget requests for 1968.

Heber Loughmiller, chairman, said the commissioners will meet with the Castleford-Men's Club in a luncheon meeting open to interested taxpayers of that area.

Commissioners have asked communities throughout the county to schedule such meetings in order that county officials can obtain views of taxpayers on various proposed improvements and needs which will be under consideration when the 1968 budget is prepared.

Work is already underway on the budget and a tentative county budget must be ready for approval by the second Monday in January.

The Castleford Men's Club has sponsored previous meetings to discuss taxes and county programs.

Commissioners said they would like civic or service organizations in other parts of the county to assist them in such public meetings before the 1968 budget is completed. All three board members say they want to know what the taxpayers feel they can afford in the way of services and projects before they are excluded or included in next year's expenditures.

Forecast

Party cloudy today. Increasing cloudiness tonight and Thursday. Winds 10 to 20 miles per hour and gusty at times. High in 30s, low in teens and low 20s, except Camas Prairie high 20s to 35, low 0 to 10. Probability for measurable precipitation 10 per cent today and tonight and 20 per cent Thursday. Outlook for Friday decreasing cloudiness. Temperatures at 8 a.m.: 13 at Jerome, 15 at T. F.

Five-Day Forecast
 Yesterday's storm produced mostly light precipitation and little snow accumulation in western valleys, but most central and eastern valleys of Southern Idaho received one to three inches of new snow and most of it stayed on the ground. Clearing in the cold air following the storm allowed temperatures to drop far below freezing last night. Lows early this morning were mostly 10 to 15 degrees above zero in central and eastern valleys. Hailey reported 1 above and Fairfield 4 below zero. In western valleys lows were in the upper teens and low 20s.

A strong high pressure area has built up over the Intermountain Region and fair but cool weather will prevail through this afternoon in Southern Idaho. Pressures were falling again near the coast this morning in advance of another deep low pressure center moving across the Gulf of Alaska toward the coast of Southern British Columbia. Currently some indications that the major activity with this approaching storm will pass north of our area and will have less effect on Southern Idaho than yesterday's storm.

Cloudiness will increase tonight and Thursday with increasing winds and a chance of light snow in the west tonight and spreading to central and eastern sections on Thursday. Temperatures will remain cool and tonight will be cold again but minimums should be slightly higher due to increasing clouds, especially in the west.

In the longer range outlook latest indications are that a strong pressure ridge and mostly fair weather will develop in the west over the weekend.

Some normal temperatures for this period are Boise 40-26, Gooding 38-23, Twin Falls 41-23, Burley 41-22, Pocatello 38-20 and Idaho Falls 34-17.

Storm Causes Power Outage At Burley

BURLEY — Tuesday's snow storm caused two power failures in the Burley and Oakley areas, it was reported Wednesday.

Kenneth Rosecrans, manager of the Idaho Power Co. office at Oakley, said about 30 patrons were without power from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. after the wet snow weighed down the lines and the wind whipped them together, causing a fuse to blow at Klynson sub-station, south of Burley.

In Burley, there was a failure in the city-owned power system about 5 p.m. in the north side of town and south of 22nd Street. The failure also affected some residents on the east side and a small portion of the downtown area.

The power was off for about 30 minutes, city officials said.

Accidents Caused By Slick Roads

Snow slickened roads in Magic Valley kept law enforcement officers busy Tuesday as up to four inches of snow blanketed highways.

Idaho State Patrolman William VanDyke, on his way from investigating one minor accident at 11:30 a.m., was called to the scene of a one-car rollover about 15 miles east of Jerome on Interstate 80N.

Officer VanDyke said a 1961 Rambler, driven by Sharon L. VanSant, 19, Heyburn, approached a slow-moving truck, attempted to pass it in the other lane, and skidded on the uncleared road. It went off the road and rolled.

The driver and her passenger, Roxanne Bowman, 18, Heyburn, were picked up by a passing motorist.

Officer VanDyke said David Hansen, 23, Twin Falls, stopped at the accident scene to see if anyone required assistance.

Seconds after he alighted from his 1966 Falcon stationwagon, a Christmas tree-laden truck, owned by J. E. Tracy, Almo, and driven by Owen J. Lloyd, Almo, slowed to go around the cars.

As the truck was slowing, an Osborn Inc. truck came over a small rise, saw the cars and tried to brake, jackknifing the tractor-trailer unit. The truck, driven by James Edward Bates, Crossville, Ala., struck the rear of the Hansen vehicle, knocking it off the road.

The truck continued on and struck the rear of the Christmas tree truck, pushing the bed forward, and ramming tree trunks into the right windshield of the semi. A passenger, Loy Davis, Dawson, Ala., who was sitting on the right, was not struck by the trees.

Between $1,000 and $1,500 damage was done to the four vehicles involved in the 11:40 crash. None of the six people involved was injured.

Previously, Officer VanDyke said, he investigated an accident at the junction of U.S. 93 and 30. He said an Army truck, driven by James LaMar Rose, 29, attempted to turn off of Highway 30, skidded and knocked down two metal reflector posts and a wooden information sign.

Rose and his passenger, Paul W. Renard, 25, both are stationed at the Tooele, Utah, Army Depot.

City police in Twin Falls and elsewhere in Magic Valley also investigated a number of minor accidents caused by slick roads and inadequate equipment.

Skies were generally sunny in Magic Valley Wednesday after Tuesday's snowstorm. It was 12 degrees below zero at Galena Lodge Tuesday night and zero at Hailey, the coldest reading there this year.

Changeover By Sheriffs Under Way

Sheriff James H. Benham returned Wednesday morning from attending a business meeting in Coeur d'Alene and began the task of turning over duties of the sheriff's office to Paul Corder.

Mr. Corder was appointed Tuesday by the board of Twin Falls County Commissioners to succeed Mr. Benham, who resigned last week to accept the post of state brand inspector.

The appointment becomes effective Dec. 11, which gives the two men only this week to make the transition. Mr. Corder, a deputy since 1962, already is familiar with much of the procedure. Mr. Benham said. All county sheriff's records, official stamps, stationery and other documents must be revised as of Monday.

In addition, Mrs. Corder will be taking over the responsibility of the meal preparations for the county prisoners and was being given some pointers Wednesday by Mrs. Benham.

County officials said such a change also requires a complete audit of all equipment and material in the department although this will not be complete until after Jan. 1.

No Training

ALBUQUERQUE N. M. (AP) — Albuquerque police said two burglars apparently haven't been to vocational classes.

Police said a cutting torch used Tuesday on a safe at the J. W. Jones Construction Co. welded the strong-box to the wall. The thieves had to settle for coins from a soft drink machine.

Police Director Is Jailed

By ROBERT L. SHAW
LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—State Police Director Lynn A. Davis went to jail Tuesday and said he was prepared to stay "until hell freezes over" rather than name an informant who gave him information that led to gambling raids here.

Davis, however, may win his release today. His attorneys were expected to petition the Arkansas Supreme Court for a writ of habeas corpus to free him from Pulaski County Jail.

Circuit Judge William J. Kirby held Davis in contempt of court Tuesday for refusing to tell the Pulaski County grand jury and the judge the name of an informant whose information led Davis to conduct raids in which 12 persons were arrested on gambling charges Sept. 9.

"As far as I'm concerned, he's going to answer the questions or stay in jail until he makes up his mind to do it," Kirby said.

Davis said he would not divulge his informant's name because revealing confidential sources "puts law officers out of business." He also had said previously that identifying his informant might place that person in jeopardy.

"I'm prepared to stay here, frankly, until hell freezes over," Davis told reporters. He was permitted to leave his cell for a news conference in the jailhouse.

Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, visibly angered, flew back to Little Rock from a northwest Arkansas speaking tour to join Davis at the news conference. The governor pledged his support.

"No one can be pleased at this other than the gamblers and the hardened criminals," he said.

Rockefeller said he believed the jailing of the 33-year-old Davis was political harassment aimed at both himself and Davis, a former FBI agent who was appointed to his position last August.

Researchers Airlifted From Island

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)—Argentine navy helicopters lifted 14 Argentine researchers from the Antarctic island of Deception Tuesday night amid bubbling, boiling seas from the eruption of an old volcano.

The 14 Argentines were the last to be evacuated from the island after the volcano exploded unexpectedly from the depths of an ancient lake and spewed ashes and rock at three scientific bases manned by Argentines, Chileans and British. The bases were used for weather and oceanographic studies.

Earlier a Chilean helicopter took off 30 Chilean and eight British scientists and military men.

No volcanic eruption had been reported for more than 120 years on the eight-mile-long island 600 miles below the southern tip of South America.

Happiness For Refugees Is Freedom

BROWNSVILLE, Tex. (AP)—Happiness for 71 refugees is a thing called freedom—freedom from Communist Cuba.

There was Juan Soto, who lost his son to a Castro firing squad and who carried all his possessions in his pockets.

And Amerco Puig, 76, who smuggled a small American flag through Cuban customs.

There was a small boy clutching a canvas bag and the woman confined to a wheelchair.

A Mexican government plane brought them Tuesday from Havana to Matamoros, Mexico, across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, where they spent the night. They awaited arrangements today for travel to various points in this country, mainly New York City and Miami, Fla.

The refugees, mostly in their 50s, are U.S. citizens or their Cuban relatives. All were examined by doctors and were reported in good condition.

They were the first U.S. citizens permitted to leave Cuba since last December when Premier Castro halted repatriations without explanation. At that time 169 Americans had left the island.

About 3,000 Americans and their Cuban relatives still await permission to leave. They are not eligible for the daily flights that ferry Cubans to Miami at the rate of 3,000 a month.

Mexico, the only Western Hemisphere nation maintaining diplomatic relations with Cuba, worked out the new repatriation agreement. Some Mexican sources said prospects appeared good for all Americans to leave Cuba.

A New Sheriff

The selection of Paul Corder as the new Twin Falls County Sheriff is a commendable choice. He is a good man to fill the shoes of outgoing Sheriff James H. Benham.

Mr. Corder had the backing of the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee. His appointment to the post will be made official by the county commission when Sheriff Benham leaves office next week.

We wish Sheriff Benham the best in his new job as Idaho Brand Inspector; we extend our compliments to Mr. Corder, a veteran of area law enforcement and an upstanding member of his community since 1950.

Law enforcement runs in the veins of the Corder family. Mr. Corder's son is a detective with the Twin Falls Police Department.

Mr. Corder, a Navy veteran, is a soft-spoken man who moved to Kimberly nearly 18 years ago to take a job with the village. He was part-time maintenance man. The salary wasn't the best, but through the years Mr. Corder remained friendly and has been an example to his fellow citizens. Later in Kimberly Mr. Corder became the police chief and sole police officer. His talents were such that demand for his services was asked from the county sheriff's office on many occasions.

Citizens in Kimberly felt secure in their homes. Mr. Corder never took advantage of his office, and while enforcing the peace, children were never afraid of the man in blue. Today, many who have grown up recall his easy manner. Mr. Corder remembers the names of many he has known through the years.

His selection of sheriff is good. We mean no slight to the other men being considered for the office. Each was qualified in his way.

Mr. Corder has been with the sheriff's office since 1962 as a deputy. He plans to run for election in 1968 on the Republican ticket.

We have no doubt that Mr. Corder will bring to the office the same dedication and fine service Mr. Benham did 12 years ago.

"Thank You"

So Thanksgiving Day is past. Are we still thankful. Do we say so?

A strong case can be made that the two warmest words in our vocabulary are "thank you."

Spoken sincerely and accompanied by a sincere smile, "Thank you" can be a powerful ambassador of good will. The key word, of course, is "sincere."

A newspaper carrier in a mid-eastern city never failed to smile and utter an obviously sincere "thank you" when he called to collect for the paper or when he had a chance to deliver the paper in person to the subscriber.

When this boy's father died shortly before the youngster finished high school, his subscribers vied to help him get a job. Today he is well on his way to a successful career, despite lack of a college education.

A motorist almost wrecked his car to avoid striking a small dog which ran into the street. A boy of 10 stood frozen with fright as he watched. Then his face lighted up and he called out joyfully to the driver: "Thank you, mister! Thank you for saving my dog!"

He made a friend of the driver for life.

Every day can be Thanksgiving Day if we choose to make it so. And saying "thank you" sincerely is a handy, inexpensive way of making people feel good — including the one who says it.

Seems a shame we ever miss a chance to do it, doesn't it?

MR. SPECTATOR

23 Skidoo--Oh, You Kid!

Praise be—the old split out at the Bruin Den—more formally known as the Twin Falls High School—is building up. And that is good.

The high school days are the best days of life—no doubt about it!

So Mr. Spectator gets a note from someone who failed to sign the note, but it makes no difference. Better not to know who writes them if it is more fun just to try to figure it out.

The note in question was written right after Twin Falls ran over Buhl in the opening basketball game. So bear this in mind because you will be reading this after the second game. But the observations, after that initial (and good) effort by the Bruins, are herein:

"In spite of the comparative peace and quiet, we missed the Pep Band and we certainly missed the pretty girls of the drill teams.

"Where were the good, crisp apples? We can buy better apples at the games during the winter than we can get at the stores.

"We missed seeing George Staudacher striding up and down keeping his eye on things.

"Wasn't it good seeing Fred Cantrell sitting with the Bruin Club boys? He gave us plenty of thrills last season.

"Why doesn't someone open the outside back doors during half-time to let in a little fresh air?"

"We didn't hear any boogie or unorthodox music!

"How about the new names on the backs of the Bruin warmup jackets? Don't they look fine!"

"Everybody in the Bruin lineup scored. Let's have it that way all the time.

"And girls, don't you know long hair is out? Hairstyles are now short, short AND SHORT!"

"And so it goes. Another basketball season has started out at the Home of the Bruins and everyone is happy about it.

We like observations like this. Shows someone is interested in the kids out at the school and that is the way it should be.

Like CSI, the high school is a vital part of the community and what is good for the school is good for the town.

So hail the Bruins, the students and the school.

Notice where Democratic State Chairman E. T. Waters is still complaining about Gov. Samuelson. The propaganda dispatched E. T. (Under The Bridge) Waters is being spread far and wide.

But his tastes are expensive. The note Mr. Spectator received from him — from Boise—was sent airmail and an eight-cent stamp was thereon.

Now any person with any thought of saving any money would know that a five-cent letter from Boise will get to Twin Falls just as fast as an eight-cent airmail. Everyone with the exception of the Waters staff, that is!

GIVEAWAY DEPT:

NOT SO SMART

Man's claim to being a highly intelligent animal had a rough going-over at a Stevens Institute of Technology convocation on the outlook for the 21st century. Judging by observations by the more pessimistic speakers, man may be speeding himself into fairly early oblivion.

The problem seems to be that it is easier to think up technological advances than ways to prevent their harmful consequences to man's existence. Whatever validity there may be to these observations, it is hard to deny that man lives largely for the present and thus shrinks from the effort of protecting himself for the long term.

THE BRIDGES

I cross my bridges as I go. And I've found, as I progressed—that the ones I thought I could not cross Turned out to be my best.

... May Napier Burkhart Buhl

WASHINGTON — Of Robert McNamara, the historians will be obliged to note that nothing suited him better than the manner of his going. He is leaving his post as Secretary of Defense because he is a fastidious man who refused to become publicly involved in the politics of the Vietnam War.

This explanation of McNamara's nomination at president of the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development—the so-called World Bank—comes from one of McNamara's men at the Pentagon who has been particularly close to the Secretary in the field of public relations. As such, the source is fully informed of the conflicts between McNamara and President Johnson during the past several months.

McNamara, according to this source, remains opposed to further escalation of the war. He has become increasingly disturbed in the past few weeks by efforts of the Joint Chiefs of Staff to prepare the public for military action against Viet Cong "sanctuaries" in Cambodia. He has been cold to suggestions that a massive campaign be launched to end the war before next year's election.

It is McNamara's view, which for a long time he successfully sold to President Johnson, that this is a unique war which must be fought by unique methods to avoid expanding it. He has insisted that the American people would understand the necessity for restraint if the administrator frankly detailed the dangers inherent in escalation.

But McNamara lost out to the military. There is now every indication that President Johnson reluctantly has decided to pour it on in Vietnam to achieve a quick decision—militarily or at the peace table.

BRUCE BLOSSA

The Spouting Know-All Critics

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In war and politics, both the "inside" strategists and the influential outsiders regularly fall into disagreement. Criticisms of policy and action flow in a constant stream.

No one in this capital who genuinely believes in a free exchange thinks it should be otherwise, or that it is likely to be. But lately you can find some figures of indulgence here (and not just in the Johnson administration) who think that criticism as a function of democratic process is often misunderstood by those who voice it and misread by those who hear of it.

In internal strategy-making, some complaint is heard against those in key places who merely mutter their criticisms (not wanting to be heard by top officials) and seldom if ever offer alternatives.

Yet, to judge from the comments of some insiders this reporter encounters in various fields, there is more irritation over the internal critic who loudly tries to give his counterargument the force of proven fact.

Military and diplomatic types may contend that if the United States does some five particular things the war in Vietnam could be successfully concluded in six months to a year. Some may argue that if two particular things had been done in 1966 or 1967, the conflict would be much advanced and might now be over.

Within the camps of the candidates for next year's presidential nominations, some may assert that Gov. George Romney of Michigan would today be riding high if he had taken their suggested specific steps and avoided others—or that Richard Nixon would have the whole thing wrapped up if he had stayed home instead of traveling 85,000 miles over four continents.

Just What's A Conservative?

More times than I can remember, during my years in politics, people have asked me to describe a conservative. In terms of social organization and system, the job isn't difficult. When it comes to foreign policy, it's a different matter altogether.

Today's conservative occupies the position of yesterday's liberal — he is against concentrations of power, private or public, that infringe the rights or responsibilities of individuals. Today's liberal, on the other hand, supports private and public authoritarianism in which either elites or majorities tell all the rest of us how and what to think, how and what to earn, how to spend, how to relax.

Traditionally anti-Communist. Yet many liberals have been every bit as anti-Communist.

Today's conservative believes in "the public good" — as defined by the liberal — of course — and demands that every individual be bent and sacrificed to it or even crushed by it. Today's conservative rejects that public tyranny and demands private freedom, asserting that the public good can never be greater than the sum of its parts, which are invariably individual. For this belief, he is popularly slandered as being "hardhearted."

Conservatives, therefore, say socialism doesn't work. Liberals seem to say they don't care about practical experiences. They care only for theory and will make socialism-work even if it takes private enterprise's last dollar.

There is the across-the-aisle position of the so-called doves who come from both Republican and Democrat ranks. The same is true of the so-called Hawks; they include conservatives and liberals.

The only fully socialist enterprises that are not supported by private enterprise are such resounding failures as collective farming.

Conservatives, therefore, must sadly admit that the only way to end a war is by one side winning it, whether the victory be won on the field or at a conference table.

Johnson, on the other hand, brims with confidence that the war has never been going better than now, that the North Vietnamese losses are putting terrible pressure on them, and that the pressure will continue.

Pinworm Battle

The lowly pinworm seems to be having a heyday. Many readers claim to have tried repeatedly to get rid of them without success. The problem is aggravated by the small size of the eggs—about 1/500 of an inch—and the fact that they are light enough to float in the air, like dust particles. It is because these eggs can alight anywhere in a room—usually the bedroom—and bide their time with exemplary patience that reinfection is so common.

Each member of the family must keep his fingernails cut short, wash the hands and clean under the nails before meals and after every trip to the toilet. The rugs should be vacuumed every day. The bathroom floor, toilet seat and fixtures should be cleaned daily. Fumigation is not necessary.

When they occur in one member of a family other members are likely to become infested. Then begins the battle of wits to see who is smarter—you or the pin worms.

A-This is the French trade name for methotrimeprazine, sold in this country as Levo-pronate. It is a tranquilizer and nonnarcotic pain reliever. Its side effects include drowsiness, dryness of the mouth, jaundice and nasal congestion.

Taste Of Fever

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is just beginning to get a taste of the fever of the 1968 presidential election-year. To nobody's surprise, he is being very impulsive about it. It would be bad politics to be otherwise.

keeping some kind of leash on the fighting. For one thing, this country does not know whether North Vietnam has secret agreements with the Soviet Union and Red China requiring them to enter the war if the United States went as far as Eisenhower advocated.

The confusion over Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's departure from the Pentagon to be president of the World Bank had just begun to quiet down when Johnson's fellow Democrat, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, became his rival for the White House.

In his statement explaining McNamara's leaving the Defense Department, Johnson, speaking of the war in Vietnam, said "our major defense policies are clearly defined."

Also to nobody's surprise, since he had been murmuring about it for weeks, McCarthy announced he will enter at least four presidential primaries in 1968 with the war in Vietnam his main theme.

McNamara's departure might lead to a harder war line in Vietnam.

He said there is so much dissatisfaction over the war "there is a good possibility" Johnson will be denied renomination.

Maybe, if in the next few months the line got a lot harder, the same White House source could say what Johnson said about "our major defense policies" being clearly defined were right when he said it in November but that new decisions were made later.

At this point it is not likely many people, including McCarthy, think he has a chance to get the nomination away from Johnson — although, if he can generate enough heat, somebody else might.

Johnson's praise of McNamara's service as secretary of defense has been of the highest order in private conversation. But if the relationship between the two men was excellent, one question still has not been answered:

As he said: "If not me, then someone else."

McNamara told Johnson a couple of times, the last time in October, he'd like the job of president of the World Bank if the President didn't object to his going. Johnson, so far as is known, never discussed it with him again, but recommended him for the job without directly telling McNamara who found out later from other sources that this had been done.

McCarthy says he is not for peace at any price but for an honorable, rational and political solution to the war, which is about as vague as anybody can be, while suggesting a phased, scheduled withdrawal of U.S. forces.

Johnson, on the other hand, brims with confidence that the war has never been going better than now, that the North Vietnamese losses are putting terrible pressure on them, and that the pressure will continue.

But Johnson's reaction when he expresses it to those not close to him is a political cliché: that discussion is good for the country. To put it another way, he's not saying anything for publication at this time.

Just starting out there is a big difference between McCarthy and Johnson on the war.

If anything, he may make the war tougher but still not go as far as the all-out view expressed this week by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower in a television interview.

PROCEDURES OUTMODED
BOISE (AP)—State accounting procedures were termed relics of "horse and buggy days" today by Idaho Budget Director James Defenbach.

At a meeting of the annual Taxpayers of Idaho Convention, Defenbach said use of outmoded accounting procedures in state government has "transformed the state of Idaho into a cumbersome financial giant."

Defenbach, an appointee of Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson, is acting director of administrative services, housekeeping arm of the executive branch created by the 1967 Idaho Legislature.

Servicemen Pay Tribute To Cardinal Spellman

SAIGON (AP)—Generals and privates, admirals and seamen paid tribute today to Francis Cardinal Spellman at a memorial Mass at Saigon's Tan Son Nhut Air Base.

Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, was among the hundreds in the large auditorium at U.S. military headquarters who heard the cardinal eulogized as "a great churchman and a great American."

Cardinal Spellman was Roman Catholic vicar for the U.S. armed forces and spent Christmas in Vietnam in 1965 and 1966.

Col. Joseph Chmielewski, the military chaplain delegate for Roman Catholics in Vietnam, said in a eulogy that Cardinal Spellman "had a great affection for the armed forces. His 16 trips overseas to spend Christmas with the troops in the embattled areas are witness to his affection for and devotion to the armed forces of our country."

Col. Chmielewski said the cardinal often said if he had to give up one of his posts as archbishop or military vicar, "he would relinquish his position as archbishop of New York... such was his devotion and affection for the armed forces."

The chaplain said Spellman "prayed to the Good Lord that our nation be given the fortitude, the courage and the means to come to the aid of our fellow men in this corner of Asia. In imitation of the Good Samaritan who came to the aid of another victim of aggression."

His words recalled the furor that followed Spellman's statement during his Christmas visit to Saigon last year that the war "is a war for civilization" and anything less than a victory for the United States was inconceivable.

The Vatican, which at the time was repeatedly sounding appeals for peace, was reported upset.

In New York, where Cardinal Spellman's body is lying in state in St. Patrick's Cathedral, Archbishop Iakovos of the Greek Orthodox Church conducted a requiem service Tuesday in the cathedral. It was believed the first Orthodox service conducted in a Roman Catholic church since the Eastern Church broke away in 1054.

Up to several thousand mourners an hour continued to pass by the catafalque of Cardinal Spellman, who died Saturday at the age of 78. A church spokesman said 1,500 of the general public will be admitted at the 90-minute pontifical requiem Mass on Thursday, after which Cardinal Spellman will be buried in a crypt below St. Patrick's altar.

The remaining 1,000 seats will be reserved for the cardinal's relatives and friends, churchmen and dignitaries.

Pocatello Writer Does Research Into Drug, Marijuana Problem In His City

By LARRY BACON
 Idaho State Journal

POCATELLO (AP)—One night in June, an Idaho State University professor and his wife returned home from a dinner, engagement and found their 18-year-old son dead in the front seat of the family car.

The engine was running, the windows were sealed, and a hose ran from the exhaust pipe through a side window.

The boy was Ron Dial, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gene Dial.

"We searched his room looking for a note," Dial said. "On his bed was an open box of what we later found were marijuana seeds. On the table in the kitchen were five empty beer bottles. I found out later that one of the effects of chewing marijuana seeds is a great thirst."

Dial also learned later that his son had been using marijuana and had taken LSD more than once. There is no direct evidence that Ron Dial had chewed the marijuana seeds before his death, but Dial is convinced he did.

"He must have been out of his mind from the marijuana seeds and the beer to do all that painstaking work, then get in the car with his glass of beer and the radio and close the door. He couldn't have done all that and realized what he was doing," Dial said. "He must have just been floating."

Ron Dial liked to write. After his first LSD "trip," he wrote that LSD "woke up" his senses. After a later experience with the drug, however, he told a friend he wasn't going to use it any more because it made him want to commit suicide.

His reaction of anxiety and panic is common during a back "trip." One former user in Pocatello said he quit the drug because of this incident.

"I was alone in my room watching a candle," he said. "I had been there for hours. The candle had a big halo around it. It would be burning, then melt down to nothing, then build back up again."

"All of a sudden I was frightened, terrified. There was no reason for it. I was just scared, and I couldn't do anything about it. I tried to tell myself I was on LSD, and this was part of it. But it didn't work. I just had to sit there until it wore off. I was never so glad to see anything wear off."

A psychologist says so-called "positive trips" can be even more serious, because they lead the user to feel he has found the answers to life's problems.

Some marijuana smokers say it should be legalized because there is no evidence that the body suffers harmful effects.

However, Dr. Constantinos J. Miras, a pharmacologist at the University of Athens, recently announced that chronic smokers of marijuana—those who have smoked at least two cigarettes a day for at least two years—run the danger of adverse personality changes and damage to the brain and other organs.

He noticed personality changes during 2 years of observing marijuana users in Greece. Miras said the dangers include slower speech, lethargy and lower inhibitions. He added that users also may become violent suddenly, without provocation.

An LSD "trip" in Pocatello can be had for $5 to $50. Enough marijuana for 50 or 60 "highs" cost $15 to $25. And if you don't know where to make a buy, it's relatively easy to find someone who does.

One young man said he sold LSD and marijuana in Pocatello for several months and had a clientele of 40 or 50 persons.

"I don't know how many people there are in Pocatello who use this stuff," he said. "But I think there are many more than just the crowd I know. You'd be surprised at some of the people who are users."

Wilfred D. Petit, criminal investigator for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, said a few Indians on the Fort Hall Reservation chew peyote, which is made from the dried buttons of a cactus variety.

Local law enforcement officials say they know LSD and marijuana are available in Pocatello, but they don't think the number of users is much to worry about.

"We keep hearing r-u-m-o-r-s about drug use," said Police Chief John Perkins. "But a lot of it is just talk by kids trying to impress others. I think if we let someone set up a booth and sell marijuana on the Idaho State University campus, they wouldn't get rich. Kids just don't want to get mixed up with this stuff."

Perkins said it is difficult for police to take action against persons using LSD or marijuana, because the users generally do not cause trouble.

U.S. Official Sees Newsmen In Havana

HAVANA (AP)—A U.S. military aide who flew to Cuba with his 4-year-old son last May received two foreign newsmen in his pleasant suburban Havana home Tuesday and said he came here "for strictly personal reasons."

Army Maj. Richard H. Pearce, the 36-year-old defector, was chief aide to Lt. Gen. Thomas W. Dunn, 4th Army commander, at Ft. Sam Houston, Tex., when he disappeared. Pearce had a top secret security clearance.

Members of Pearce's family have been saying that he fled to Cuba to regain custody of his son, Richard, and not for political reasons.

When Pearce, a decorated veteran of the Vietnam war, arrived in Cuba the Communist party newspaper Gramma published a statement under his revised state laws to define various drugs and narcotics more explicitly.

Test cases on marijuana are pending in several states.

Soon, a case may be appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court, and a final decision will be rendered on the legal status.

signature saying he had come "for reasons of conscience." Pearce said Tuesday people could interpret the statement any way they pleased. Pearce declined to discuss him.

New Tax Laws Hit Property Owner

With new tax laws in Idaho cutting away at the county assessed valuations, tax experts are beginning to ask how these losses eventually will be covered.

However, there is little doubt, says Twin Falls County Assessor Clifford Thompson, that the property owner will eventually have to meet the additional demands.

This year alone in Twin Falls County, the freeport bill has cut a total of $974,507 from the previous assessed valuation. This, he said, would represent a loss in actual tax income to the county of $86,132.

Under the freeport law, designed to attract new industry to the state, all manufactured products shipped from the state by Dec. 1 of the same year in which it is produced is no longer taxable. Six manufacturing concerns in the county are covered by this law. Mr. Thompson said, and ship all or nearly all of their manufactured products to other states.

One single firm alone will be paying $64,897 less under this law because of a manufactured product previously assessed at $774,433 now is exempt from taxes.

This is the second year the freeport law has been in effect in Idaho. In Twin Falls County individual evaluators were Lalrd Noh, Bill Claiborn, Al Smith and Dick Cook. Rudy Ashenbrener was timer.

Green Giant packing plant, Buhl; Idaho Frozen Foods and the Idaho Alfalfa Mill, Twin Falls; Acme Machine Works, Inc., Filer, and Rangen's Inc., Buhl.

Another major blow is scheduled to hit the assessed valuation or tax base in Idaho next year when the phase-out begins on inventory and livestock tax.

Through the next four years, Mr. Thompson said the county could lose up to $13 million in assessed valuation or an actual tax dollar income of $1,286,982. This, the assessor said, is the figure reached based on the tax rolls of 1965, 1966 and 1967 and assuming the valuations in inventory and livestock now on the personal property rolls is to be phased out over the four-year period.

Mr. Thompson pointed out the intent of the legislature was to replace these tax losses in the counties by sales tax revenue. However, he said, more and more demands are being made on the sales tax and the question arises as to just how much of the losses can be covered before counties are forced to again call on the property owner.

"As county officials we can only carry out the laws which are set by the legislature, but we feel the public should know what is going on and should be alerted to attend all budget hearings and public tax meetings," the assessor said.

He pointed out that only if taxpayers show an interest and let officials know how they feel about increasing taxes can school districts, highway districts, city and county officials justify reductions in the face of special interest demands for additional levies.

Additional levies.

Freeman Scoffs At McCarthy

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)—The candidacy of Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., in several Democratic presidential primaries in 1968 will be no more than "a footnote in the pages of history," Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman said Tuesday.

"I just don't think McCarthy's candidacy is very important. It will be a footnote in the pages of history. If that's the former Minnesota governor told a news conference. He and McCarthy once were close political allies.

Institute For City Officials Set Thursday

An Institute, designed primarily for newly elected mayors and councilmen in Magic Valley, Lemhi and Custer counties, gets under way Thursday morning at the Holiday Inn.

Sponsoring the two-day event is the College of Southern Idaho. Charles Alban, CSI instructor and institute director, said the conference is one of four institutes for Mayors and Councilmen being held in Idaho. Others have been, and are being, sponsored by the University of Idaho, Idaho State University and the College of Idaho.

Between 40 and 50 mayors and councilmen from the 11 counties are expected to attend the conference, financed by funds from Title I of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Registration begins at 8:30 a.m. and at 9:30 a.m. the conference officially opens with a welcoming speech by Twin Falls Mayor Egon Kroll.

Several councilmen and mayors from throughout the area will be serving on panels throughout Thursday.

Speaking at a 6 p.m. banquet will be Mayor N. E. (Coley) Smith, Caldwell. Mayor Smith, president of the Association of Idaho Cities, will speak on "Future of City Government in Idaho."

Several problems of growing cities will be discussed during Friday's session.

The institute will conclude after a planning, zoning and superintendents control discussion, scheduled for 2:45 p.m.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 DEAR ABBY: Our 19-year-old son, who is in the service, has written to tell us he has "fallen in love" with a 27-year-old woman. She has three children, is separated from her husband, but is not divorced.

He is coming home on leave next month and says he wants to bring his "girl friend" home for us to meet, but first he wants to be sure we will welcome her and give her a chance. Abby, this is awfully hard for us to take. Do you really believe that a decent 27-year-old woman, still married, could get mixed up this way with a 19-year-old boy?

Should we forbid him to bring her home? We want to do the right thing, but we're so upset we can't think straight.

MOM AND DAD
 DEAR M. AND D.: Urge your son to talk with his chaplain, and suggest that he take his

"girl friend" along to listen. Tell him that you think a married woman has no business going home with a boy to meet his parents, and you will feel better about "welcoming her, and giving her a chance" if and when she is free. But don't forbid him to bring her home, or he might not come either.

DEAR ABBY: When I was coming home from my vacation I met a wonderful young man on the bus. It was love at first sight for both of us. We have seen each other several times now, and he wants to marry me.

Please don't think I'm dumb, but here's my problem. He is a farm boy from southern Minnesota and he intends to go right on farming. I love this boy a lot, Abby, but I have hay fever and I don't know whether I could live on a farm.

MARY ANN
 DEAR MARY ANN: Love is nothing to sneeze at. Ask your doctor what's new in hay fever remedies. If you find you can't beat the weed, ask your farm boy if you can sit out the hay fever season in Duluth.

DEAR ABBY: My 14-year-old daughter came home and told me that everyone in her class at school was asked to fill out a questionnaire. There were questions such as these:

Which parent do you love more — your mother or your father?
 Do your parents sleep together?
 Do either of your parents smoke or drink?
 Do you go to church? If so, which one, and how often?

I feel this is an out-and-out invasion of privacy and would like to know how you feel about this sort of thing.
 IRATE MOTHER

DEAR IRATE: I agree with you. Why don't you go to school and inquire about the purpose of such questions, who originated the "project," and how the replies are being used?

DEAR ABBY: For Gisela, who wanted to know the origin of that "silly superstition" that to sit 13 at a table is bad luck:

At The Last Supper, Jesus and his 12 Apostles sat, making their number 13. Afterwards Jesus was betrayed by Judas. If you will notice in the painting of the Last Supper, the salt shaker had been overturned, which undoubtedly accounts for another "silly superstition" — that it's bad luck to spill the salt. D.D.

Snow, Rain Or Dark Of Night Fails To Stop Officer

BY FRED DODDS

Times-News Staff Writer
In the northern outskirts of Magic Valley at Fairfield and Ketchum, with the snow beginning to fly and the talk turning to the long winter ahead, the job of law enforcement goes on. Because the communities are small, the crime rate is low. But there is crime. Every community has the problem. And there is a need for protection. Citizens get it through the sheriff's office and the community constables. But there is another form of protection, and the only form that will be discussed here.

The Idaho Probation and Parole office under the guidance of the Board of Corrections is dedicated to helping convicted criminals go straight. It is a way of lowering the crime rate, and a way of keeping ahead of any future crime.

Keeping track of the state's efforts toward this end in Magic Valley is the job of Robert Kroush, recently assigned to the Magic Valley area.

His job reaches into nearly every Magic Valley community, and touches more than 60 people now on probation or parole. It is because of his job that Mr. Kroush and I made a trip into the Blaine-Camas County area recently.

It was his job to check on probationers and parolees there; mine to see how he did it. Mr. Kroush, however, is protective toward those he supervises, and at no time was I allowed to hear his conversations or know the names of those he was speaking with. It is for the best. Once a person is convicted, then given a chance to redeem himself, any publicity of the individual's

British Train Slowdown Has Ended

LONDON (AP) — A two-day slowdown that tied up much of southern England's rail traffic ended early today when the union accepted a peace formula proposed by Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

Officials of the 36,500-member Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen (ASLEF) talked through the night before ordering their members to work at normal speed today.

In what Labor Minister Ray Gunter called "the silliest dispute of this decade," the ASLEF members had been observing every time-consuming rule in the book to protest the stationing of brakemen from the rival National Union of Railwaymen (NUR) in the rear of diesel locomotives. The brake vans in which they formerly rode at the rear of the trains are no longer needed, and the state railway board took them off to save $600,000 a year.

The peace formula provides for a meeting under the chairmanship of Gunter to discuss train manning, recruiting and promotion. It also calls for ASLEF to be fully consulted on future changes affecting train manning.

The rail slowdown was only one cloud on a stormy economic horizon, however, as Wilson's Labor party faced new hostility from its left wing in the wake of the 14.3 per cent devaluation of the pound sterling. But Roy Jenkins, the new chancellor of the exchequer, responded to an antigovernment procedural vote by 17 leftists in the House of Commons Tuesday by warning them to face the economic facts.

The leftists were angered by the disclosure that the government had to promise the International Monetary Fund a new austerity program in order to qualify for a $1.4 billion loan to help the pound through devaluation. The belt-tightening is designed to squeeze more than 2 per cent of the British gross national product out of consumers' pockets and into the export trade.

SULLIVANS HONORED
NEW YORK (AP) — Television personality and newspaper columnist Ed Sullivan was awarded the Bronze Medallion of the City of New York Tuesday on the occasion of his 20th year in television.

problem would do more harm than good. It was overcast and beginning to snow when we left Twin Falls early in the morning to drive to Gooding.

"I like to talk with the county sheriffs, to see if there are any new arrests and to see if I might have another one on probation," he said when we started.

Mr. Kroush is on the young side of middle-aged, well dressed and has a crew cut and the steady eyes of a man who has spent many years in law enforcement. He was an Idaho State Police officer and a detective with the Ada County Sheriff's Office before becoming a parole officer.

He has the sleepy look in his face of a man who spends many late hours working on reports. His job is 24 hours a day, seven days a week, year around.

The drive to Gooding was uneventful. There was more snow there than in Twin Falls, and it was about 10 degrees cooler. We talked with Sheriff V. M. Roysse and learned there had been no new arrests.

Mr. Kroush had no probationers or parolees in Gooding that he wanted to see, so we headed north toward Fairfield.

Once there, we hoped to talk with Judge Charles Scoggins, senior judge in the Fifth Judicial District. Judge Scoggins handles felony cases, and is responsible for placing those convicted on probation. He and Mr. Kroush work closely together on the individuals who come through courts in Gooding, Fairfield and Halley.

Judge Scoggins makes his rounds through those courts periodically. On the way to Fairfield, Mr. Kroush talked of his job, and his hopes for the future of that job.

I learned that he feels it is one of the more important sides of law enforcement. Recovery rate by the office of probation and parole is nearly 75 per cent. In other words, 75 per cent of those who once committed a felony do not commit another one while on probation or parole. Without supervision of these individuals, the rate would lower, as a guess, to less than 25 per cent, maybe more.

It is common knowledge that with someone checking on you, you lead a better life. You won't drink or associate with known criminals if you know it could land you in prison.

Basically, that is all Mr. Kroush's job amounts to. But it is far more than that. He deals with people. Nearly 60 of them, and the figure grows by the month.

Probation is when an individual is released on his or her good behavior. Probation does not require a penitentiary term, but may require a stay of up to six months in the county jail. A sentence is passed, but that sentence is withheld when the individual is placed on probation. If probation is violated, the original sentence is ordered executed.

Parole is when an individual is released early from the Idaho State Penitentiary. The person is usually on parole until the time his original sentence runs out.

A person sentenced to three years in the prison may get out in a year, then serve two more years on parole.

Parolees and probationers have to report monthly to Mr. Kroush, and have to live closely-watched lives. They can't drink, carry weapons, associate with unsavory characters, must work at a good job, and can't marry or get divorced without Mr. Kroush's approval. Their lives are not their own. And so he went to Fairfield to check on his wards. He had two he was interested in that day.

A man (once convicted for bad checks and placed on probation) and a woman (also convicted on bad checks and placed on probation) were both living beyond their means.

Dropping into Camas County, the snow lay white and brilliant on the fields and thick, black storm clouds were moving in from the mountains. It would snow hard before we left Fairfield.

The town, 474 people, has not changed much through the years. And the remains of a recent centennial celebration can be seen — the tontorial parlor and the territorial land office. Life is easy going and slow.

Mr. Kroush located the people he wanted to talk to, after outlining what he had to say with Camas County Prosecutor Bob Newhouse. Apparently his checking with the probationers went smoothly because shortly after ending his talk with the woman we left Fairfield for Halley.

In the Blaine County seat, Mr. Kroush talked with Sheriff Orville Drexler. It seems a parolee has disappeared and Mr.

we were getting close to violating parole or probation requirements. The man — Mr. Kroush was seeking was from Twin Falls. "I enjoy this job," he said. "Every day is a challenge and it requires a lot of common sense. I really get a feeling of help, and the people I work with (parolees and probationers) are thankful most of the time."

Young People Find Drugs At Home

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Kids looking for kicks from drugs find "a major supply" in their own homes where they play "medicine cabinet roulette," says Florida's arch foe of dope peddlers.

"Mama's overweight and she's on diet pills... or the old man can't sleep, so he has a supply of sleeping pills... and Aunt Sue's been nervous and upset and she has tranquilizers," said Ray Bellinger, inspector in charge of the Florida State Bureau of Narcotics.

All these prescription pills, he said, are casually stocked in the family bathroom.

"The children are well aware of the colors and shapes of these pills," Bellinger said in an interview. "because they see them in school every day."

In "our pill society," Bellinger said, the children freely turn to their homes for a supply of their own.

Bellinger said he knew of "any number of cases of kids that got involved with pills" found in the home. Some required hospital treatment.

"This is a major supply of drugs for kids," Bellinger said. "The majority of those found in high schools come from the family medicine cabinet."

The newest wrinkle in the Miami area, Bellinger said, involves the smoking of cigarettes made for asthma victims. Several children were hospitalized after smoking the special cigarettes, which can be bought without prescription.

Bellinger said he had started a campaign of telephoning druggists, asking them not to sell the cigarettes to minors.

Cough syrup, he said, is a major problem among young people.

"And how they drink all that gunk for a drop of codeine is beyond me. It's disgusting. But I've known them to drink up to a quart a day. They drink. They throw up, and then they drink some more," Bellinger said.

Two Directors Named In Vote

GLENN'S FERRY — Two directors were elected Monday in the Glenn's Ferry Highway district election.

R. D. Graham, King Hill, incumbent, received 190 votes in Sub-District No. 3, defeating Ervin W. Hoagland, King Hill, who polled 108. In Sub-District No. 2 Wilson Steen polled 162 votes to J. L. Solosobal's 1739 for the four-year term.

Dan Irons, Hammett, holdover director, is chairman of the board.

IDAHO PROBATION AND parole officer in the Magic Valley area is Robert Kroush. His job is to see that more than 60 people convicted of felony crimes go straight. To make sure this job is done, he covers thousands of miles a year visiting probationers and parolees. He works closely with judges and law enforcement officials. He is part of a statewide effort toward rehabilitation of the criminal.

TWIN FALLS - BURLEY - RUPERT - BUHL
If it's from ROPER'S... IT'S RIGHT!

Most people could buy 2 washers for the price of this one. In time they may have to.

This is about the $349 Hotpoint Electronic washer. It can outperform yours a dozen ways. And it may last you twice as long.

It has 32 different washing speeds.

Who needs 32? Everybody really. Trouble is, people are used to thinking in 2 and 3 speed terms. When they should be thinking about the over 700 natural and man-made fibers used in regular and permanent-press fabrics today.

To wash them all properly, 3 speeds just won't do. This washer with its 32 speeds has 32 speeds. We could say 51 or 54. Because it has a continuously variable control that lets you dial any speed, just as you'd tune a radio. This unlimited variety of action is why the Hotpoint Electronic can duplicate natural, hand-washing action.

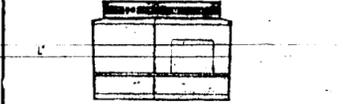

In fact, it can hand-wash anything better than you can. Seagined sweaters, cashmere, lace gowns, beaded shells, nylons. We've field-tested this Hotpoint with all of them. And all kinds of washes from two pounds of delicacies to sixteen pounds of heavily soiled clothes.

We built it like a satellite. We built this Hotpoint Electronic as if we were going to put it in orbit. Using space-age technology. Solid-state components. Transistors. Printed circuits. Gold-plated contacts. All-porcelain finish, inside and out. To prevent rust, corrosion, breakdown, or baking for years to come. Nobody will sell you a service policy for this machine.

It has an unheard-of 5-year in-the-home service plan. That's right, 5 years. If there should be any manufacturing defect (nobody's perfect) in 3 or 4 1/2 years from now, our factory-trained men will service it. Anywhere in the continental United States. And it won't cost you a cent! The service plan covers the call, materials, parts, labor. You might compare that with anyone's service plan. In fact, please do.

A matching Electronic dryer. We don't want you to put an ordinary dryer with this washer. So we built an Electronic dryer to match. There's an electronic sensing device in it that shuts the dryer off when the clothes are dry. And it can always tell, no matter what the load, fabric, or moisture content. This dryer has the same careful quality, durability, and 5-year service plan as the washer. It costs $199.

Cost vs. Price. There's a difference.

At $349 for the washer and $199 for the dryer, this Hotpoint pair costs $548. They're the most expensive you can buy. Which has nothing to do with cost. Cost depends on how long a thing will last. And this pair costs no more per month than ordinary machines. ($55 down, $12.32 a month.) And we'll gladly arrange a 5-year plan for you. This is the only pair we know of that you can take 5 years to pay for. But then, if we didn't think they'd be going strong 5 years from now, we wouldn't back them with a 5-year in-the-home service plan. Of course, the washer and dryer may be purchased individually, with favorable low monthly terms.

If you figure it out with pencil and paper, this is both the highest-priced and the least expensive washer & dryer you can buy.

A free booklet. There's more to the story. We think the more you learn about these two, the more you'll want them. So we'll be glad to give you a free copy of the owner's manual. It gives you all the details. Pick up your free copy next time you're in the neighborhood.

Sweeping Meat Inspection Bill Headed For Congressional OK

By ROBERT A. HUNT
WASHINGTON (AP) — A sweeping meat inspection bill, termed by backers a major victory for American housewives, appears headed for congressional approval.

House-Senate conferees agreed Tuesday on terms of the compromise measure to revamp the 60-year-old federal meat inspection law.

It is designed to extend federal standards within the next three years to 15,000 plants not now covered.

The measure now goes back to the House and Senate for expected final approval before being sent to President Johnson. The House may consider it today.

"This is one of the most remarkable victories for the American consumers in recent years," said Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., a cosponsor of the Senate version.

President Johnson said the measure would help guarantee to every American family "that the meat on their tables" is safe and fit to eat.

Betty Furness, special assistant on consumer affairs to President Johnson, credited housewives and the press with spurring passage of what she termed "this wholesome meat bill."

She said the conference action "is the direct result of the housewives' vocal reaction to the graphic coverage by the nation's press."

But Chairman W. R. Poage of the House Agriculture Committee contended the bill was an attempt by Washington to impose federal controls in a matter where states should have the final say.

Poage and Rep. E. C. Gathings, D-Ark., were the only conferees who refused to sign the conference report. Poage said he would vote against the measure on the House floor but conceded he felt it would win final approval.

The measure would give states up to two years—three if significant progress has been made—to set up inspection programs for meat produced and sold within their borders. The federal government would pay half the cost of present and new state programs, which would have to be at least equal to federal standards.

But if a state didn't act the federal government could impose its own standards.

Federal regulations now apply only to meat which moves in interstate commerce, exempting about 15 per cent of the slaughtered meat and about 25 per cent of processed meat in the country.

BODIES RECOVERED

Food Ships Have Priority In Port

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Food ships are getting first priority in unloading at North Vietnam's key port of Haiphong, U.S. sources say, fueling speculation the Communist country is feeling the pinch of food scarcity brought on by war.

Intelligence reports say the North Vietnamese rice harvest has been poor for two years and that the food situation may have worsened.

Intensified U.S. air attacks on North Vietnam roads apparently disrupted this year's rice harvest, the sources said.

"They are not starving," said one expert. "But normally they are on close to a subsistence level, and if their food stocks are cut from 10 to 20 per cent, they really have to tighten their belts."

Reports indicate petroleum products make up the largest volume of nonmilitary goods entering North Vietnam through Haiphong. But the unloading of gasoline and oil has rated second to the discharge of cargo ships carrying food.

Authorities declined to say how this intelligence was gathered.

Since last January, Soviet vessels have been hauling increasing amounts of wheat and flour from Vladivostok in Siberia to North Vietnam. And Communist Chinese ships have been carrying rice to Haiphong.

Priority cargo is being unloaded within a week, it was indicated. Some food ships have been discharged in as little as five days compared with as many as nine days several months ago.

During September, the most recent month for which statistics are available, 25 ships anchored in Haiphong harbor. Eight were Soviet vessels, eight were Communist Chinese, two were from European Communist bloc countries and seven were Hong Kong-registered vessels flying the British flag.

The September ship total at Haiphong compared with 22 vessels in both August and July, 34 in June, 39 in May and 36 in April.

American sources reported there is evidence the North Vietnamese are relying more on inland waterways to carry supplies because the road network and bridges have been hampered by U.S. warplanes.

It was said the North Vietnamese have been deepening rivers and canals by dredging instead of concentrating on repair of damaged roads and bridges.

The dredging operations evidently are intended to permit larger cargo boats to carry supplies.

Education Chief Views Segregation

By JACK MILLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, says of segregated schools that "the danger we run is becoming a South Africa without really knowing it and without admitting it to ourselves."

South Africa officially observes a rigid policy of apartheid, or separation of the races.

"I don't think the primary reason to have Negroes and whites go to school together is to learn reading, writing and arithmetic—it's so we have one society instead of two," Howe said in an interview.

He said integration promotes racial harmony because "mutual suspicion among human beings disappears when they get to know each other."

He also said of integration: "Over a period of time I think it is going to help the learning outcomes of youngsters from poor families—both Negroes and whites."

Howe's comments came shortly after two studies concluded Negro children bused to middle-class schools did not achieve more scholastically.

Civil rights leaders, at a recent Washington conference, showed more enthusiasm for improving segregated Negro schools than for integration.

Howe said he agreed with the aim of better education for Negro pupils. "And yet I say that unless you keep vigorously pressing on the problem of segregation at the same time, you give people a way of crossing segregation off their consciences."

The commissioner said it will take years to bring about substantial integration, especially in Northern cities, and that he understands the discouragement of civil rights leaders.

camp at Bu Dop. These GIs are separated from the enemy by smoke billowing from a grenade. This picture was taken by AP photographer Horst Fass who was injured during the battle. (AP wirephoto via radio from Saigon)

Jewelry Salesman Has Car Stolen

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP)—A Los Angeles jewelry salesman told Sacramento police Tuesday night that someone stole his car containing about a quarter of a million dollars worth of diamonds.

Police said Edward Harris of Los Angeles told them he parked his car and entered a restaurant for a moment. When he returned, he said, his car, which carried about 1500 diamond rings in the trunk, was missing. Harris said the rings were not insured. He said the car is equipped with special locks.

Southern Senators Face Battle On School Bill

By JOE HALL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Southern senators battling to write restrictions on enforcement of civil rights laws into the school aid bill are under intense pressure to match the success of a relatively unknown House colleague.

They give this explanation for the fight they are making, which has helped to tie up indefinitely final passage of the $14.2 billion bill—a war they did not wage on previous federal aid to education legislation.

The House member is Rep. L. H. Fountain, D-N.C. With little fuss, he was able both this year and last to get into the House version of the elementary and secondary school bill a provision which would cut back sharply on federal powers under the 1964 Civil Rights Act.

The amendment would bar the Health, Education and Welfare Department from deferring approval of aid applications from school districts believed to be practicing racial segregation.

Instead, HEW would have to go through a lengthy, formal process to cut off funds. Under the 1964 act, it cannot make grants to programs where there is segregation.

Last year the Senate, with little opposition from Southern members, watered this down so that HEW was given power to defer such applications for 90 days. That is the law now.

This time the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee knocked out the Fountain rider. Dixie senators, who asked that their names not be used, told a reporter they are getting this message from home loud and clear: "If Fountain can do it, why can't you? You are supposed to be the big shots in Congress from the South. Many of you are chairmen of powerful committees. Get humping!"

The senators confront this situation with mixed emotions. Most of them say they don't want to jeopardize passage of the $14.2 billion bill extending major education aid programs for three years—programs carrying badly needed funds for the underfinanced schools of low-income Southern states.

They also say they believe the Fountain amendment, if it became law, could backfire.

Deadline On Christmas Mail Nears

Twin Falls area residents were reminded Wednesday by Postmaster Fred Sanger that there are only 18 days remaining before Christmas and "it's almost too close for the postal service."

He urged everyone to mail early. "If all holiday mail is to hit the postal system during the last week, it will be impossible to deliver on time," he said.

He said people should include a correct address on all mail, along with ZIP code and should wrap parcels correctly. Requirements are listed at the post office.

Include a card inside a package with name and address of addressee, to insure delivery of the parcel, and address parcels and all mail clearly so it can be read.

Mr. Sanger said the postoffice here is not swamped with mail, and said he anticipated a last minute rush.

TOPS Members Report Losses

A weight loss of 33½ pounds was reported by members of the Nix or Pix TOPS Club during a meeting Tuesday.

Arlene Robbins was the best loser for November with a weight loss of 12½ pounds. Florence Mayer was best loser of the week, and Lucille Geper was best loser of the day.

The group is planning a Christmas party Dec. 19 at the home of Ollimae Armstrong. Secret pals will be revealed at that time.

The group will sponsor a cooked food sale Dec. 15 at the J. C. Penney store. Purpose of the sale is to raise funds for a trip to State Recognition Day at Coeur d'Alene in April.

Yule Program Set Dec. 21 At Hagerman

HAGERMAN—"Musical Notes at Christmas Time" has been selected as the theme for the annual Christmas program to be presented by the music department of the Hagerman High School at 8 p.m. Dec. 21. Mrs. Bill Snapp is director.

The program will include numbers from the band and the choruses from the high school, junior high and grade school. The public is invited.

Other holiday activities announced by Jack Martin, principal, are a basketball game between the Hagerman Pirates and Wendell Trojans at 6:30 p.m. Friday at Hagerman, with a return match at 6:30 p.m. Dec. 16 at Wendell.

The senior ball will be held Dec. 15 in the high school gymnasium.

Christmas vacation for the school will commence at 2:30 Dec. 22 and classes will resume Jan. 2.

T. F. Uses Stout Defense To Drop Minico By 67-45

A hustling defense and a sometimes torrid shooting offense carried the Twin Falls Bruins to a surprisingly easy 67-45 decision over the Minico Spartans Tuesday night. Bret Staples and John Henning paced a gambling, quick defense that matched Minico's fast-breaking offense and Henning, particularly in the second quarter, sparked the offense to an overwhelming lead. Fans will have to wait for a rematch until the district playoffs in March.

Coch Charles Farmer, who has devoted most of the pre-season practice time to defense, couldn't find much fault with the results. The key to the Minico attack, Bob Seamons, found a two-free-throw lid clamped on him by Staples. Although Minico had a slight height advantage underneath, the Bruins proved what has been suspected. They all jump better than average. So Twin Falls got a better than even break there.

Von Wells and Henning got the early points that sent Twin Falls into a 6-0 lead as Minico went nearly four minutes before Mayes got the first bucket. The Spartans stayed within seven over the period and managed to cut that to six at 19-13 in the first two minutes of the second quarter.

Then Kent Driscoll hit three points and Henning and Howard Hedrick added two each as the Bruins began pulling away. By half-time Twin Falls was on top 38-22 and the Bruins showed it completely out of sight midway through the third period by racking up a 47-23 edge.

Minico had a poor shooting percentage from the field but Twin Falls' defense must have had something to do with that.

Minico's sophomores took a measure of solace by breaking a 47-41 deadlock in the final two minutes and claiming a 50-47 decision.

Sports Cited As Aid To U.S. Spirit

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — College football breeds discipline and leadership and no violence, the president of Purdue University told guests Tuesday night at the annual Football Hall of Fame Awards banquet.

"We are a peace loving people," Dr. Frederick Lawson Hovde said. "But we defend what we have and believe in. Competitive team sports keep us strong and vigorous."

Hovde received the National Football Foundation's principal award—the Gold Medal, previously awarded to such men as former President Dwight D. Eisenhower, the late President John F. Kennedy and the late Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

The Purdue president was an athlete himself, playing football in high school, performing as halfback and signal-caller on the Minnesota teams of 1927 and 1928 and later playing rugby at Oxford University in England, where he was a Rhodes Scholar.

Ten former greats of the game were inducted into the Hall of Fame and 13 scholar-athletes were presented silver bowls at the $75 a plate dinner.

John McKay, coach of Southern California, was presented the MacArthur Bowl, voted to the Trojans as the best college football team in the country.

Inducted into the Hall of Fame were Coach Earl "Greasy" Neale, who coached at numerous colleges and later in the pros; Dr. Abe Michal of Louisiana State; Slade Cutter of Navy; Francis "Whitey" Wistert of Michigan; Paul Schweigler of Washington; Joel Hunt of Texas A&M; Wear Schoonover of Arkansas; Herb Stein of Pittsburgh; Cecil Isbell of Purdue; and Nathan Dougherty of Tennessee.

The 13 scholar-athletes were Gary Beban UCLA; Steve Warren, North Carolina State; Bob Johnson, Tennessee; Bob Weber, Princeton; Alan Bersn, Harvard; Bohdan "Bud" Neswlichy, Army; John McCarthy, Yale; Keith Miles, Trinity (Conn.); Bill Eastman, Georgia Tech; John Scovall, Texas Tech; Barry Furst, Ohio Wesleyan; Tom Lawhorne, Georgia, and John Root, Stanford.

Wendell JVs Drop Gooding State

GOODING — Wendell's Jayvees getting 20 points from Blackburn and Rodriguez, defeated the Gooding State Redskins 46-32 Tuesday night.

Carrera paced the losers' with 12 points.

In a junior high school preliminary, Wendell claimed a 33-22 decision.

Ringo To Set Iron Man Mark In NFL

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Ringo, veteran center of the Philadelphia Eagles, will set an all-time National Football League record Sunday that will not be found in the routine weekly statistical tables.

When Ringo takes the field against the Dallas Cowboys in the Cotton Bowl he will be playing his 181st consecutive NFL game. Ringo now shares the record at 180 with Dick Modzelewski, who retired last year after 14 seasons as a defensive tackle with Washington, Pittsburgh, New York and Cleveland.

Ringo, who was 36 on Nov. 21 according to the Eagles' roster, still remembers the date, Sept. 26, 1954, when his streak started. Actually, it was the second year of his pro career because he sat-out about half of the season at Green Bay in his rookie year.

Despite a back injury in 1956, mononucleosis in 1957, a staph infection in 1961 and pneumonia in 1964 he never missed a game. He was traded to the Eagles by Green Bay after the 1964 season.

When asked about the importance of keeping the streak alive, Ringo said, "Who remembers a center except if he's in the record book?"

No statistics are available on centers' performances in the NFL, but the other weekly figures show Leroy Kelly of Cleveland way out front in the rushing race with 1,128 yards as compared to 839 by runner-up Johnny Roland of St. Louis.

Divine Is Back As General Manager Of St. Louis Cards

By CHARLIE BAROUH
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bing Devine was hired Tuesday as general manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, three years after he left the same position following a dispute with club officials.

In a series of events announced in St. Louis and New York, Stan Musial stepped down as general manager of the world champion Cardinals and was replaced by Devine. The New York Mets named Vice President Johnny Murphy as acting general manager, replacing Devine.

August A. Busch Jr., president of the Cardinals, made the surprise announcement at the Busch Brewery in St. Louis. Board chairman Donald Grant of the Mets spoke with newsmen in New York via a telephone hookup from Homestead, Fla., to announce Devine's departure and Murphy's elevation.

Musial was in Acapulco, Mexico, with his wife at the time of the announcement.

Devine, reached at Hollywood Beach, Fla., said, "My wife and children and, for that matter, I myself, have never seemed able to adjust to the thoughts of leaving St. Louis permanently. Although we were resigned to the fact of eventually making such a move, when this opportunity was surprisingly presented to return to St. Louis with the Cardinals and to remain there as a family, I could see no other choice."

Grant said vice president Richard Meyer of the Cardinals approached him during the baseball meetings in Mexico two weeks ago for permission to talk to Devine.

"We wanted to keep Bing, but I gave him permission to talk," Grant said.

"Our organization is in excellent shape," Grant added. "No other changes are contemplated," Grant said no decision has been reached yet about whether to retain Murphy as general manager on a permanent basis.

Busch said Musial asked to be relieved as general manager because of the press-of-other-businesses. Musial said he could not devote all his attention to what he considered a full-time job. The death this summer of Julius "Biggie" Garagnani, Musial's partner in a St. Louis restaurant, clinched Musial's decision, Busch indicated.

Meyer said Devine's decision was not based on economics. He said Devine wanted to talk to his wife and family and decide what was best for them.

Bush, Vann Lift CSI To 70-53 Win Over TVCC

ONTARIO — Freshman Tom Bush and big Ples Vann grabbed control of the backboards and almost provided most of the points Tuesday night in pushing the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles to a 70-53 decision over Treasure Valley Community College.

The Eagles return to Twin Falls Thursday night to host Western Wyoming of Rock Springs. It's a revenge setting as Western Wyoming accounted for CSI's only loss in four outings so far.

Kimberly Is 74-33 Winner Over Hansen

KIMBERLY — Lynn McMasters hit the first two buckets of the game to give Kimberly a lead it never relinquished as the Bulldogs overpowered the Hansen Huskies 74-33 Tuesday night.

Kimberly dominated the backboards and the game as it piled up a 19-6 first-quarter lead.

The Huskies, trying to break what now is a 39-game losing streak, found most of their scoring punch in freshman Walt Freestone who potted 12 points—most of them in the middle quarters.

Kimberly's best offensive effort came in the fourth quarter when the Bulldogs pushed through 30 points.

Freestone and McMasters shared scoring honors with 12 each.

UCLA Is Top Team In Associated Press College Basketball Poll

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Houston, Vanderbilt and Kentucky are off to head starts while seeking to maintain or strengthen their positions in The Associated Press' weekly major-college basketball poll.

The three scored victories Monday night while the seven other rated teams, including top-ranked UCLA, were idle.

Second-ranked Houston beat Abilene Christian 90-75; Vanderbilt, No. 3, defeated Auburn 78-65 and Kentucky, No. 9, beat Florida 99-76.

There is still, though, a heavy schedule on tap for the Top Ten this week, including two games matching ranked clubs.

In the first poll of the regular season, UCLA's Bruins collected 31 first-place votes in the balloting by a national panel of 33 sports writers and broadcasters.

Houston and Louisville, No. 3, received the other first-place votes. UCLA just managed to beat Purdue 73-71 in its season opener last Saturday. Houston defeated Sacramento State 110-79 and Louisville walloped Georgetown, Ky., 118-86.

The Bruins, unbeaten in 30 games last year when they won the national championship, accumulated 327 points in the latest balloting on a basis of 10 points for a first-place vote, 9 for second, 8 for third etc. Houston had 259 points and Louisville 250.

Kansas was fourth followed in order by North Carolina, Dayton, Purdue, Vanderbilt, Kentucky and Boston College.

Each of the ranking teams won opening games last week, except Purdue and Boston College. The Eagles played their first game Tuesday night against Dartmouth.

Louisville and Kansas are in action again Saturday night, the Cardinals against Northwestern and Kansas against Chicago Loyola. Both games will be in Chicago Stadium.

UCLA's schedule matches it against Wichita State Friday and Iowa State Saturday. Houston takes on North Dakota State Thursday and Illinois Saturday.

Kentucky's next games are against Xavier of Ohio Wednesday and Penn Saturday. Boston College plays its second game of the campaign Saturday night against Connecticut.

The Top Ten with season records through games of Sat. Dec. 2 and total points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1. UCLA 31 1-0 327
2. Houston 1 1-0 259
3. Louisville 1 1-0 250
4. Kansas 1-0 192

Sayers Named Loop Back Of Week

NEW YORK (AP) — Rain, mud, ice and the San Francisco 49ers seem to bring out the best in Gale Sayers who claims his ability to cut on his heels makes him a superior mudder.

Sayers found the combination of sloppy footing and the 49ers just what he needed to score three touchdowns Sunday at San Francisco in the gumbo of Kezar Stadium. The feat earned Sayers the Associated Press' award as Offensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

5. North Carolina	1-0 176
6. Dayton	1-0 134
7. Purdue	0-1 63
8. Vanderbilt	1-0 57
9. Kentucky	1-0 53
10. Boston College	0-0 50

It was on a similar, slippery turf Dec. 12, 1965 at Wrigley Field that Sayers scored a record-tying six touchdowns against the 49ers. Earlier this season he ran for 142 yards on a slippery field against Detroit.

Sayers dazed the 49ers by running back the opening kickoff 97 yards for a touchdown. He scored again in the second period on a 15-yard romp after taking a pitchout and stepped 58 yards with a punt return in the third period.

"Actually I hate a muddy field," Sayers said. "There are a lot of things you can't do, like trying to sweep the ends. You can only run off tackle and use fast traps."

Pont Is Named Coach Of Year

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — John Pont, the architect of Indiana's spectacular football rise, ran away from the field in the annual voting for Coach of the Year by members of the Football Writers Association of America.

Bert McGrane, secretary of the Football Writers Association, announced Tuesday that Pont collected 54 per cent of the 770 votes cast to handily finish ahead of Dee Andros of upset-minded Oregon State, 7-2-1.

Pont, 39, was a halfback at Miami of Ohio from 1949-51 and his No. 42 is the only jersey the school ever has retired. He became coach there in 1956 and had a 43-1 record before moving to Yale after seven years.

The one-time Navy submariner had a 12-5-1 success in two years in the Ivy League, took over a habitual loser at Bloomington in 1956 and the first two seasons produced 3-16-1 record.

This year's sophomore-dominated team fought and scraped to eight straight victories before falling to Minnesota, then upset Purdue in the finale to finish 9-1. The Hoosiers had won only eight games in four previous years.

The result was a three-way share of the Big 10 title with Purdue and Minnesota, and a berth in the Rose Bowl against Southern California.

Oregon State handed Southern Cal's national champions their lone defeat, 3-0; upset Purdue and tied UCLA. Andros' club performed all three feats after successive losses to Washington and Brigham Young.

CSI Students To Practice Salesmanship

The top three sales speaking students at the College of Southern Idaho will be selected Friday night in a contest at the YM-YWCA. It is sponsored by John Chris Motors.

The automobile firm will furnish trophies for those placing first, second and third in the contest, according to Mrs. Marion Tanner, speech instructor.

She said most of the 21 students entered are members of the basic speech course at the college. From the 21, six finalists will be selected to show just how good they are at salesmanship.

The students have been loaned products from various merchants to "sell," and a dozen other business and professional people will judge the contest.

The contest begins at 7:15 p.m. and the public is invited.

Scout Leader Visits Local Council Office

James E. Kennedy, assistant director of council finance for the Boy Scouts of America, was in Twin Falls Tuesday working with officials of the Snake River Area Council.

Michael J. Mazzone, scout executive of the area council, said Mr. Kennedy will be in the area three days. He will help with plans for future financing of scouting programs locally, it was reported.

"All money raised will stay within this area for support of the Boy Scout program," Mr. Mazzone said.

During the three-day visit, Mr. Kennedy will meet with district and council officers to look over the past record of council operations, budgets and audits and the United Fund relationship with the local council.

Mr. Kennedy was appointed to his national Boy Scout position in 1964.

Underground Movies Are Blooming And Taking Root

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — The underground movie — or "non-commercial cinema," as those who make them prefer to call their product — is blooming. Most major cities have theaters showing these avant-garde films. There are dozens of festivals at which they are shown.

And now there is a catalogue listing hundreds of movies you can rent, for from $4 (for a three- or four-minute epic) up to $120 for something like Andy Warhol's eight-hour "Empire," which he describes as "homage to the world's tallest."

There is something for everyone. If you like action, there is "Blazes" — "100 basic images switching position for 4,000 frames. A continuous explosion."

"Like tragedy? Try 'Snow' — 'Snow (that fluffy white stuff that falls in the winter) which is beautiful and winter too, somewhat since snow comes then and winter is a kind of pseudo-death, so maybe the movie is about a beautiful kind of pseudo-death."

Like comedy? "Duet for Two Hands" should do — "Duet for Two Hands" is a gray comedy about the hazards of playing duets with members of the immediate family; advantages of solo playing are also shown."

One of the more intricately complex films is "Chrysalis," which has a genuine plot:

"In Golden Gate Park, a picnic takes place. A beautiful girl, dressed in white, is kept in misery by three evil brothers who are gorging themselves. A hero appears, kisses her at full gallop, she runs away pursued by the three brothers who want to clothe her. The girl also chases him, hoping for a second kiss. The hero is trapped twice. He escapes each time ingeniously. The brothers are finally overcome by exhaustion. The girl reaches him; they slide down a banister together, embrace and run into a tunnel."

Some of the films come with detailed instructions as to how they are to be projected, such as these with "Christmas on Earth":

"The film is on two reels. Both reels must be projected simultaneously. Two projectors are needed. The first projector fills the screen; the image of the second projector is approximately one-third smaller and fills only the middle of the screen, superimposing on the first image. This can be done either by using different lenses or by placing one projector closer to the screen. It doesn't matter which reel is on which projector."

Some of these movies squeeze a lot into a short time. The banquet" deals with "collages, distortions, multiple images, animations, close-ups, far-buts, a.u.d.s., microcosms, macrocosms, psychodellie experiences, slow motion, speed-up motion, people-pulling boats, flowers, birds, oceans—desert will be served at the end."

And you wanted to see "Camelot?"

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

PROBLEM: HOW TO MAKE A SLAM
In the early '30s, John Rau of New York was sort of a boy wonder of bridge. He played in and won several tournaments including the 1930 team championship of the American Bridge League. Then he went to work away from bridge, but now that he is getting older Johnny has was going to set the slam—but rather than he had no right to think he would set it more than one trick and wasn't sure of that.

West made the good opening lead of a trump, and Johnny was in dummy with the nine. He led the king of spades. East played low and Johnny stopped to think things over. Then he decided that East really did not hold the ace of his bid suit, so Johnny ruffed.

He played one more trump and led a diamond to dummy's jack. At this point East had two ways to beat the slam. One was to duck that first diamond, the other to win the trick and lead a diamond back. East did neither. He won the trick and shifted to a heart.

Johnny now decided that West's double had been made with the ace of spades and king of hearts. If West also had the long diamond, Johnny saw a simple squeeze.

He went up with the ace of hearts and ran off all his trumps. West started to squirm early but none of it did him any good. He had to hang on to the king of hearts and ace of spades and could not protect the diamonds.

time to play a lot of rubber bridge. He could also play in tournaments but they don't appeal to him any more.

Johnny was a bidder in his youth. Not necessarily scientific but a man who reached for slams and made a lot of them that might well have been beaten if Johnny had used science instead of brute force to get there.

His jump to six clubs with the South hand shows that he still bids somewhat like he did 35 years ago.

Young America's Date-Line

By ELE AND WALT DULANEY

Short Skirt Put Chill On Evening

Dear Ele: How does a boy tell his date that her mini-skirt is too short for the place he's planned to take her? This happened to me last Saturday night, and because I knew my Uncle (we were supposed to go to the lobster dinner at his home) would flip, I took her to a hamburger place instead (that was all the money I had)—Catsup.

Dear Catsup: The time to give costume specifications is BEFORE the evening. If you knew your uncle's feelings about women's clothing, you should have said so frankly: "My uncle's a great guy, but sort of old-fashioned. If you can dig out a skirt that almost nudges your knees, he'd like you right away."

In emergencies, when you know you'll be forbidden admission to a spot because of your date's attire, give her a choice: "You know I just found out that the Colony House banned mini-skirts. We can cancel the reservation, or you can switch to another dress. What's your pleasure, m'lady?"—Ele.

WILD ABOUT HIMSELF
Dear Ele and Walt: What do you do with a clod who is constantly talking about his build or some other physical feature of his "Body Beautiful"? I mean, nobody's perfect but his clod sure thinks he is. He's always picking other people's looks apart and then telling about his bicep measurements, his mighty thighs, or how his curly hair keeps getting curlier. I happen to care a great deal about this guy, and he's losing many friendships through this. He's a bore and he doesn't know it. Maybe if you suggest something in your column, his eyes will catch the message.—Springfield.

WHO EXITS FIRST?
Dear Ele and Walt: I'm a 16-year-old girl. My cousin and I are good friends. He comes over sometimes and we talk. But when it is time for him to leave, I run into a slight problem. I usually walk out to the car with him; so who goes out the door first? Does "girls first" or "company first" prevail?—Puzzled.

Dear Puzzled: It's no big thing. If Mike seems to want to hold the door for you, you exit first. If not, let him precede you. Personally, we'd say "Girls press agent-demotion squad first," but the world won't halt shows clearly his own feelings if you two switch places?—Ele and Walt.

Three Old Generals Doubt That Inevitable War Will Ever Fade Away

By TOM TIEDE
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (NEA)—The man is old, gray and loose of skin. He sits stiffly. He has a golf putter in one hand, a brandy in the other. He starts to speak, then hesitates. "Oh, hell," he shrugs, "why not? In my opinion this thing in Vietnam will go down in history as the worst-run war since Christ was a corporal." He sips his drink. "But if you quote me," he adds, "I'll deny it." The man is a retired general officer, one of nearly 150 such people in this khaki-oriented town (five military posts nearby). His opinion is a response to a reporter's question about the conflict in Southeast Asia. It is typical of his breed. "I feel the administration should get the hell out of military business. If they don't we're never going to win this idiotic war." Similar opinion festers throughout the ranks of inactive generals here. Many express it only with the promise of newspaper anonymity. Others, however, openly shout that civilian meddling in military affairs has grown to impossible proportions and, as a result, the war is going poorly.

Lt. Gen. Sam T. Williams (Ret.) puts it thusly: "How in the world can people who are so far away from the scene of battle possibly direct the campaign? This has been the case right from the start in Vietnam, and the policy is frustrating." Sam Williams should know. He was the ranking American officer in Vietnam from 1955-60 — the critical years before American troop involvement. Williams insists that the same civilian interference existed during his assignment. At that time, he says, he advised "quick and effective" U.S. action to meet and snuff out the snowballing crisis. Instead, the general asserts, the show was run from the White House and the civilian concept of warfare was, then as now, "limited escalation."

"I objected," says Williams, "but nobody listened to me." Nobody, in fact, seems to be listening to many of the local old soldiers. One major general says he has written "everyone I can think of," but his replies here have been "damn pats on the head, like I was naughty." The latter embarrassment explains, in part, some generals' reluctance to express views alongside their names. They fear disfavor.

Army Lt. Gen. William Simpson, for one, feels "very strongly" about the matter, but, well, I don't really think I should talk about it." Army Lt. Gen. George Grunert, responds with a candid, "If I did say something, it might just cause a whole lot of trouble." Army Lt. Gen. Edward Williams doesn't even give a reason. The 66-year-old soldier says simply, "I don't care to discuss it at all." Others are not so hesitant. Air Force Maj. Gen. Elmer Adler says without delay that, "In essence, the leadership of the Vietnam war has been very, very bad. This idea of the President selecting or rejecting the critical

Solon Meets Gripes With Shakespeare

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Not that I loved Caesar less but that I loved Rome more." —Brutus in "Julius Caesar," Act III, Scene II.

With that quotation Senate minority leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois is meeting some Republicans' grumbling that he is too close politically to President Johnson to write the 1968 GOP platform. Republican governors, mostly party moderates, have been urging national chairman Ray Bliss to appoint one of their number as cochairman of the platform drafting committee at next year's presidential nominating convention. Dirksen, who preempted the platform chairmanship for himself, has no intention of sharing it with anyone. His answer to the complaints is that he has always been a Republican but he puts the country first and that's the best politics there is. "I always liked the President so much, even when he was Senate majority leader, that I could eat him," Dirksen replied. "And sometimes I wish I had." Then he added: "Not that I loved Caesar less but that I love Rome more."

air targets (he does this weekly) is all wrong. I'm not saying we have to hit every target in the north, but at least let it be up to the military. "The generals in Vietnam are responsible for the outcome of the war. They're trained to win. Strategy should be put in the hands of the commander. If he's not good enough to handle it, then fire him." Army Maj. Gen. Haydon Boatner agrees: "Can anyone conceive of Gen. Pershing, back in World War I, arranging his handling of the campaign to include nine visits from the secretary of defense? Of course not. "The supreme responsibility of warfare in today's military has changed hands. It started in Korea and is getting worse. Now the Department of Defense is handling much of the over-all strategy. "It has reached the point where civilians are the supreme commanders. Mr. McNamara (secretary of defense) is now more influential on Vietnam than Gen. Westmoreland. I'm afraid for the future of this trend." And so on.

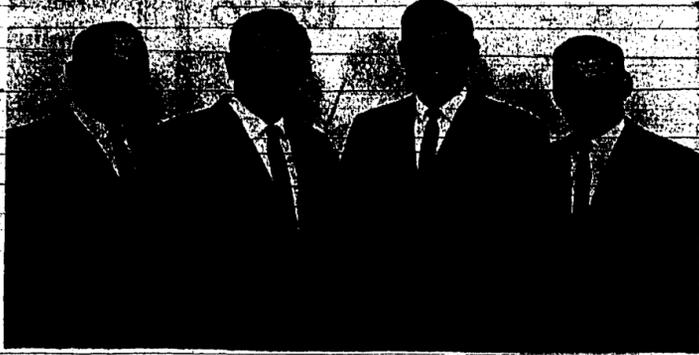

In general, the generals are hawkish ("God, if we aren't, who will be?"). But there is evidence that dissatisfaction with civilian "meddling" has led to some over-all reservation about the war itself. "I'll tell you," says Air Force Maj. Gen. Harold Bassett, "it's a hell of a predicament. I've figured out where we're spending money at the rate of about $600 for every acre in South Vietnam. "The way we're pulverizing the place there, I doubt if the money is worth it. On the other hand, I sometimes wonder why we just don't buy the whole country and stop all this fooling around."

Dirksen, who preempted the platform chairmanship for himself, has no intention of sharing it with anyone. His answer to the complaints is that he has always been a Republican but he puts the country first and that's the best politics there is. "I always liked the President so much, even when he was Senate majority leader, that I could eat him," Dirksen replied. "And sometimes I wish I had." Then he added: "Not that I loved Caesar less but that I love Rome more."
