Synopsis, Farm Summary

The coldest air so far this year has followed yesterday's cold front into Southern Idaho. A stream of northerly winds extending from the surface to the stratosphere is carrying ice-cold air all the way from interior Alaska and Yukon Territory down into the northern and central intermountain states. Temperatures will be well below zero tonight in Southern Idaho and in the Wood River Valley and Camas Prairie and near or below zero in Magic Valley. The extended outlook for the rest of the week indicates slow moderation but with temperatures still below seasonal normals. Little or no precipitation appears likely in most valleys with snow flurries mainly in the east and in the mountains near the end of the week. Several days of unusually cold weather will require attention toward providing adequate feed, water and shelter for livestock.

Afternoon temperatures yesterday ranged from the 30s except for highs in the upper 20s reported at Idaho Falls and Rexburg. Some eastern valleys were much colder last night. Rexburg dropped to 18 degrees below zero, Soda Springs hit 12 below and Idaho Falls reported 12 below at 9 a.m. Fairfield reported 13 below and Halley 5 below zero. In other areas lows ranged from a few degrees above zero in the east to the teens in Magic Valley and West-ern valleys. Scattered light snows yesterday and last night produced only traces or a few hundredths of an inch of precipitation.

Sweeping Birth Control Plan Given
HAMILTON, Ont. (AP) — Dr. William Bradford Shockley, who shared a Nobel Prize in 1956 for helping to develop the transistor, has proposed a sweeping birth control plan that includes temporary sterilization of all women and government approval before each baby.

The Stanford University physicist explained his plan in a lecture at McMaster University Monday night and also accused "inverted liberals" of blocking research into inherited intelligence differences between Negroes and whites.

The chief points of Shockley's birth control plan are these: The public would first of all vote on the rate of population growth it wants. The Census Bureau would determine how many children each couple could have in keeping with the predetermined growth rate and certificates would be issued to them.

All girls would be temporarily sterilized by time-capsule contraceptives. When a woman and her husband wanted children, they would have the time-capsule removed by a public health agency on turning in one of their certificates. After the child was born, the contraceptive capsule would be reinserted.

Couples not wishing children or wishing less than they were entitled to could sell their surplus certificates on the open market.

Under this system, Shockley said, "only people who want and can afford children will have them."

The physicist also made a plea for research into racial differences. He urged studies related to the relative intelligence levels of Negroes and Caucasians.

"Let's ask the questions, do the necessary research, get the facts, discuss them widely," Shockley said, "then either worries will evaporate or plans for action will be developed."

British Ask U.S. To Buy Extra Arms

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Britain acted today to get the United States to buy about $100 million worth of extra British arms to cover overseas defense costs following devaluation of the pound.

First informal American reactions to the request have cheered the British.

The issue was one of the subjects at a private dinner party bringing together British Defense Secretary Denis Healey and Paul Nitze, acting for Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara at the year-end meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The British request flows from the upset caused in the arms purchasing agreement between the two countries by last month's devaluation.

Under these agreements the United States promised to place about $725 million worth of military orders with British firms over the next 10 years. The purpose was to offset most of the dollar costs of British defense orders in the United States, which include 50 FH-51H swing-wing bombers.

Funeral services will be announced by Walk Mortuary.

Dodd's Request In Suit Denied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A U.S. District Court turned down today Sen. Thomas J. Dodd's motion for a summary judgment in his libel suit against columnist Drew Pearson and Jack Anderson.

Judge Alexander Holtzoff ruled that substantial issues of fact have to be decided by a jury.

Dodd, a Connecticut Democrat who was censured by the Senate last June 22 for personal use of political funds, filed a suit May 6 against Pearson and Anderson asking a $5 million judgment. Later it was scaled down to $2 million and a speedy trial was asked.

Lewiston Man Being Tried For Theft

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Routine testimony was heard Monday as Gerald D. Wilson, of Lewiston, Idaho, went to trial on charges involving theft of government property.

Eight men and four women were seated as jurors to hear the case.

Wilson, a former civilian employee at Kelly Air Force Base here, is accused of conspiring to receive and conceal helicopter parts stolen at the base. Five men have been convicted on companion charges.

The government called three Kelly employees and a dealer in surplus property, who described the mechanics of selling such items.

Wilson began buying helicopter transmissions, cylinders and crankcases in 1960, the dealer said. He told of paying cash for five of the crankcases to Gilbert Tiran, one of those already convicted in the case.

Artificial Kidney Unit Starts Drive

SEATTLE (AP) — The Seattle Artificial Kidney Center is starting a campaign this week to raise $290,000 for next year's operations.

Dr. James W. Haviland, center trustee chairman, said that the amount it will take to keep alive the 68 patients in the center and to add an average of four new patients a month through 1968.

Center administrator Earl G. Rice said patients also pay for kidney machine treatments, but the $4,000-$10,000 annual cost is more than most can afford.

The center operates machines that clean the blood of people whose kidneys won't do the job properly because of disease.

The only other alternative to death, said Dr. Jerry P. Penderas, center medical director, is a kidney transplant by surgery. But that's no guarantee of a permanent cure, he said.

REVENUES AHEAD

WASHINGTON — Every parent with a child in public school or headed there should gallop to the nearest bookstore and fork over $4.50 for a copy of a book which explains one of the things that is wrong with the American educational system.

The book is "The American Schoolbook," by a good reporter named Hillel Black (Morrow, N. Y.). According to Black, who cites sources and names names, most elementary and high school textbooks are still little more than printed offerings to the bigotry, ignorance and prejudices of educators and pressure groups, quite aside from reading like a municipal bond report.

Citizens who have wondered how their children manage to be graduated from high school with little or no substantive education will find one of the answers in Black's book. There is surely something wrong with the underpinning of the national effort when a few fundamentalists in Texas can determine the content of a textbook used in every state in the Union. Or when Shakespeare's "Othello" is missing from all hardcover high school anthologies.

The Texas case is also an indictment of the textbook publishers, who clearly are interested in dough, not education. In 1964, an anti-Darwin group successfully campaigned to get six passages mentioning evolution watered down in a high school biology text. These changes then were incorporated in a national edition, since publishers find it easier and less expensive to publish one edition instead of two. Put another way, as Texas went, so went Kansas and Oregon.

You will not find Othello in hardcover English anthologies in any high school because Othello was a black Moor, and publishers feared they couldn't sell a textbook that mentioned miscegenation.

Nor is Shakespeare's "Merchant of Venice" in the anthologies, because publishers are always worried about possible Jewish protests over the character of Shylock, and not because it happens to be a lousy play.

textbook which determines most of what a child learns. During his elementary and high school years, the child will either commit to memory or attempt to absorb some 32,000 textbook pages. During his first year in school he may read at least four schoolbooks and by the time he leaves high school he will have been exposed to 60 more. He spends 75 per cent of his classroom time and 90 per cent of his home study reading textbooks.

Yet the word evolution is banned from all elementary school science textbook series because of the objections of fundamentalists. It is against one publisher's policy to show pregnancy in a cow or a horse or to publish even a bland description of animal reproduction.

Black has rendered an important service to parents in this book. He has made it clear that PTA tea parties and winning football teams are no guarantee that your child will pass his entrance exams even at some backwoods learning factory unless his school offers him the printed tools of education. A system that still depends on textbooks written by committees of ex-teachers and then rewritten by committees of ex-teachers will never raise schooling to the level of an adventure.

Kennedy Is Pledged To LBJ

WASHINGTON — One of the things that has Johnson Administration officials worried is that Sen. Robert Kennedy has publicly pledged to support President Johnson in the 1968 elections. As one official said, "If the President has Bobby for a supporter, he doesn't need an enemy."

A White House team is now hard at work trying to devise a way of getting Sen. Kennedy to go back on his pledge. It isn't easy.

The other day the team met with the President in the Fish Room of the White House.

"Any luck in getting the kid to drop his support of me?" the President asked.

"No, sir, Mr. President. We sent an emissary over to Hickory Hill yesterday and Kennedy reiterated his pledge to back you and said he would continue to speak out for you at every opportunity."

"That's what I was afraid of," the President said. "Doesn't he have any loyalty to the Democratic Party at all?"

"He told us he wanted to help you in every way possible, and from now until next November he's going to tell the American people what he thinks of you and your policies."

The President said, "Well, if he doesn't have loyalty, what about human decency?"

"He seemed immovable, sir. He says he owes you a political debt for all you've done for him, and he's going to pay you back, no matter what it costs him."

"What about his brother? Couldn't we appeal to him?" the President asked.

"We have, sir, but he's supporting you, too. They both insist on working for you in 1968. And I don't have to tell you, sir, that the harder they work for you, the more trouble we're going to be in."

"Did you tell Bobby that if he promised not to support me in '68, I would promise not to support him in '72?"

"Yes, sir. But he said his opposition cannot be bought at any price. When he believes in somebody, as he believes in you, he wants the world to know about it."

"He sure knows how to hurt a guy," the President said. "Well, if he insists on going out and campaigning for me, why don't we send a truth squad after him to set the facts straight?"

"That's a great idea, sir. Every time he endorses you, we'll cut the ground from under him," an aide said.

"I disagree, sir," another aide chimed in. "If we ignored him, then his endorsement wouldn't seem that important."

"But," the President protested, "I can't just have him going around the country supporting me without answering back."

"It may be the only way, sir. After all, you're the President and you shouldn't be put in the position of attacking someone who claims he's endorsing you in '68."

"But I'm the new Johnson, and people aren't going to expect me to take Kennedy's support lying down."

"I'm glad to hear you say that, sir," an aide said. "Why don't you endorse his haircut in the morning?"

A Strange Moment In History

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is one of the strangest moments in American history, a mark-making moment.

To see Congress do a half-baked job, as it has done in 1967, the year before a presidential election year, is not unusual. In the past it could be taken to mean energies were being reserved for what lay ahead.

But more than the upcoming election is on the American mind now and Congress is reflecting a national condition, like holding the breath before making a move, even though this country is up to its neck in war, which is an active thing.

The nation seems to be waiting to see how the Vietnamese war turns out before using its enormous vitality for its chores and its housework. The war is the root of the present condition.

America is pretty well divided into hawks and doves on the war. The hawks at least know what they want, which is to force the North Vietnamese to stop their aggression.

But the doves are a mentally muddled crew. Few seem to have any clear idea, thought through, on how to settle the war without creating vast new problems for the United States or the people of Southeast Asia if the United States pulls out or makes fatal concessions in order to get out. Yet, the end is nowhere in sight for hawks or doves, despite the optimistic pronouncements of the Johnson administration. This by itself is baffling for both sides.

But one thing is clear: Their concern with the war—in some cases their obsession with it—diverts their interest and energies from far-reaching and constructive efforts for the problems at home.

Add to them the multitude of people who have no strong feeling about Vietnam either way. They may be ill-informed on how the United States got into the war or puzzled to know how stopping communism in far-off Asia can affect American safety in the future.

They may be vague on the rightness or wrongness of the war, their ideas going perhaps like this: So long as we're in it, we ought to try to win it. Or, we'll have to trust the President to know what he's doing. Or, President Johnson should never have gotten us into it and the best thing is to get out.

But no matter what their thoughts on the conflict, the people are troubled by the war, just as Congress is. And, judging from the way Congress has performed this year, there seems to be an attitude, not necessarily deliberate, of letting pressing things at home wait until the war is solved.

Another way to say it is that the dilemma of Vietnam is like a sleeping pill.

As an example, take crime, which is a national scandal and disgrace, getting worse by the month and involving the lives of thousands of innocent, law-abiding citizens.

President Johnson's anticrime program was overridden and rewritten in Congress and so totally scrambled that almost nothing will be done about it before next year, if then.

Riots rocked the country last summer and, since nothing has been done to quell them, seem sure to blossom again next summer in a carnival of blood and death.

Johnson set up a Commission on Civil Disorders earlier this year to study the problem and come up with recommendations next year. But it's questionable that Congress, where so many members are primarily concerned with their own re-election, will do much if anything about the commission's proposals.

This picture in other fields could be multiplied many times.

Gaining Weight

Q—I am a boy, 19, height 5-foot-3 and weigh 156 pounds. How can I gain weight?

A—I am a girl, 18, I weigh only 85 pounds and I am 5-foot-3½. I feel left out of things because I am so skinny.

Q—I am a housewife, 5-foot-4½ and I weigh 105 pounds. How can I get back to 122, which I weighed three years ago?

A—There is no one formula for gaining weight. You must eat more calories than you use up as energy. The foods that will give you the most calories per pound are the easily digested fats—margarine, cream and butter. To start with, try getting one cubic inch of margarine three times a day, three eggs a day, one glass of half-cream-and-half-milk three or four times a day and a cubic inch of American or brick cheese every day, in addition to the other elements of a well-balanced diet. Avoid taking any drugs that are supposed to put weight on you.

Q—Why is it that seven to 10 days before I start to menstruate my breasts feel heavy and sore? Would the fact that one ovary was removed make this condition worse one month than it is the next? Also, at about this time everything I eat causes acid indigestion. Why is this?

A—The changes in ovarian secretions that occur in regular monthly cycles cause retention of water in the tissues. This normal physiologic reaction causes the fullness in your breasts. The severity of the sensation varies in different women and may vary from month to month in the same woman. The removal of an ovary would not cause the fluctuations in intensity of this symptom as the same variations are seen in women who still have two functioning ovaries. Some women get relief from this discomfort and other manifestations of pre-menstrual tension by taking water pills, relaxants and other drugs for a few days.

Q—What is the cause of small brown moles on the face?

A—In most persons the tendency to have moles is hereditary even though they do not appear until late in life. The best treatment is to leave them alone or cover them with masking cosmetics.

We Really Learn

WASHINGTON — On the surface, at least, it would seem that we learn more from the Central Intelligence Agency from the Russians than we do from our own government. For instance, who would have dreamed that the CIA might have succeeded in getting agents placed in orchestras that tour foreign lands?

Perhaps you read a British wire service dispatch which recently quoted a Russian magazine as saying the CIA planted spies in the Bonny Goodman Orchestra, the Eastman Rochester Symphony Orchestra, the Robert Shaw Choral and the Pro Musica of New York! Oh, gracious me, is there no limit to the CIA's cleverness?

The Reds claim that what made them wise to the charade was the fact that certain musicians in the groups which toured Russia constantly hit sour notes, thereby exposing the fact that they were new members of the band and obviously had not had time to rehearse the numbers.

Personally, I'm always glad to hear of a CIA success, regardless of how short-lived, simply because we hear enough about its failures from certain left-wing student groups and publications. So, after reading the Reuters article, I telephoned the CIA, offered my congratulations and asked a few questions.

Among my queries were these: How does the CIA go about training its Music Corps? Does it recruit active, working musicians and turn them into part-time CIA men or does it take regular CIA men and send them to the Juilliard School of Music? Unfortunately, the CIA's answer was that the Russian charge about there being musical CIA men was false and had struck a wrong chord so far as CIA Director Richard Helms is concerned.

Now, that's too bad, because one can easily see how useful music and musicians might be in the spy game. Why, back in World War II it was discovered that sheet music was the perfect place to conceal an intricate code (the notes spelling out the message, don't you see?). As a matter of fact, one of those 1943 codes found its way to a record company and, before our intelligence apparatus could stop it, it led the Lucky Strike Hit Parade for three weeks.

And what better place to hide a secret transmitter than in a bass fiddle? But all this is useless, because the CIA says it doesn't have a music department and that's that. It's too bad, though, because I have the perfect theme song for the CIA band: "Night and Day, U-2 Are the One."

The Justice Department is going after big-time crime. Doesn't it realize that it's the small-time crime that's driving everyone nuts?

It's very frustrating; everybody seems to be speculating in gold and I haven't got enough money even to speculate in trading stamps.

President Johnson has gained three percentage points in the Gallup poll. Think of it, at that rate, in only four more years 53 per cent of us will approve of the way he's handling the job.

David Merrick's latest play, "Mati Hari," which bombed here, has enough scenery for 30 plays. Too bad they couldn't get at least one out of it.

Pollution Threat

Today, nuclear power generating stations supply only about 1 per cent of the nation's generating capacity. But in less than 15 years, they are expected to provide as much as 30 per cent.

Aside from the impact the growth of this part of the industry may have for coal, oil and gas powered plants, nuclear energy generally has been hailed as a giant step toward providing facilities for greatly expanded demands for electric energy in the near future.

A complication has arisen, however, which already has held up the construction of a nuclear power plant in Vermont and is delaying planning for others. This is thermal pollution.

To many, water pollution is symbolized by largescale dumping of wastes—both industrial and municipal—into the nation's lakes, rivers and streams.

Not only does such pollution foul the water, but it has unfavorable effects on plant and fish life.

While conservationists and industrialists have been concentrating efforts on removing pollutants from the waters, another contaminant — hot water — is threatening to do more damage than any other waste material.

When water temperatures are raised significantly, fish die, slimy green algae multiply rapidly and streams lose their ability to rid themselves of sewage and other pollutants. Hot water can turn a clean stream into a polluted mess quicker than any other material.

Power plants are the prime source of heated water, but far from the only one. Nuclear power plants, which produce an especially large volume of heated water, will contribute heavily to the expected doubling of thermal water discharge between now and 1980.

Nuclear plants discharge 50 per cent more waste heat through their condenser cooling systems than do conventional plants because safety precautions require them to operate at lower steam pressures.

Thus it is that the cost of nuclear facilities may go up, to include installation of water cooling features.

Medical Gains

The first successful transplant of a human heart, in Cape Town, South Africa, is a historic triumph.

Surgeons have been perfecting the techniques of the operation for years, using animals. Its achievement with humans was only a matter of time. It will be repeated in other hospitals.

Whole-heart transplantation may remain a rarity, however, because of work that is going forward in the field of artificial hearts. Here, too, it is probably only a matter of time before a completely artificial heart can be successfully placed in a human body—though most research today is aimed at the repair of the existing heart by replacing parts of it, such as worn-out blood vessels and valves.

But the news from Cape Town lends new drama to a matter that is already of concern to many people, in and out of medicine. It seems certain that the transplantation of other tissues, like the kidneys and liver, will have become a commonplace long before artificial duplicates of these complex organs are perfected.

This prospect raises all sorts of legal and moral questions. It involves the most fundamental question of all: When does life end?

The South African doctors answered that question on the basis of encephalographic readings of the fatally injured woman whose heart was used in the operation. When her brain's electrical activity ceased, she was declared dead.

Conceivably, in some case in the future, doctors may face the difficult task of weighing the ethical imperative of expending every effort to maintain life in a prospective organ donor against the urgent need of a prospective donee in the next room.

Scientific progress does not occur in a moral vacuum. We stand in awe at the accomplishments of medicine today, and feel not a little trepidation about those it promises for the future.

THAT'LL BE THE DAY.

The class in elementary economics is in session.

Professor: As you saw in the papers, living costs are rising faster than income. Do you know what that means?

Student: That means we'll all go broke.

P.: No, that means the President now has a good argument for his 10 per cent income tax increase.

S.: But wouldn't that just make living costs all the higher and break us sooner?

P.: That is not the way to look at it. If prices are going up, it shows people have too much money to spend and some of it should be soaked up in taxes.

S.: How could they have too much money if they don't have enough to keep up with prices?

P.: Oh, by the laws of economics the prices will come down when the people don't have so much money to spend.

S.: That'll be the day. And then will the President give them back that 10 per cent?

P.: That, young man, is not a question for me. Try Dr. Precinct in political science down the hall.—The Oregonian for automatic escalation of benefits? It would save periodic fussing in Congress, and it would be fair at least to the beneficiaries. Too often congressional action to adjust retirement benefits lags far behind increases in the cost of living.

Society has decided through its legislative branch that retired citizens are due a given standard of living, not a given number of dollars each month. The value of the dollar changes and, therefore, so does the standard of living if adjustments are not made in the monthly payments.

When the cost of living soars, as it is now, the retired should not have to wait for Congress to get around to discovering that fact before their standard of living is restored to its former level.—Lewiston Tribune

SAVINGS FROM ARMS SALES

The State Department has explained its previous explanation of why the United States is willing to sell F-5 fighter planes to Latin America. It seems that the department "fully agrees" with the recent statement of Latin American presidents that they wanted to avoid unnecessary arms expenditures in favor of economic development, but...

Several Latin American governments are now eager to buy supersonic warplanes despite that statement. The United States is not one to stand in the way of "reasonable" military expenditures to replace obsolete equipment. Latin warplanes, being less than supersonic, are obsolete. Besides, the F-5s cost only about $850,000 apiece, or far less than the $2,000,000 or so that Latin nations might have to pay for competitive foreign brands (such as the French Mirage fighter, which is not mentioned, of course).

As we understand it, then, the United States would really be saving a Latin republic about one million dollars a plane by selling our models. This is a great favor to Latin-American relations, and we may confidently expect that each Latin country will diligently apply the savings from arms purchases to its economic development and social progress. Such must be the intent of our beneficence.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch

Action By Governors Discussed

By WALTER R. MEARS
WASHINGTON (AP) — New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says a move now by Republican governors to line up behind a single contender for the GOP presidential nomination could rupture their unity.

He said the governors are "doing the only good thing they could do" to preserve unity by concentrating on potential campaign issues rather than getting involved in endorsing someone for the nomination.

Rockefeller sharply disputed Monday the assertion of Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., that the 26 GOP governors made a mistake and sacrificed their influence on the presidential nomination by failing to agree on a candidate during their meeting last week in Palm Beach, Fla.

Laird acknowledged the party's House leadership has not picked one man to back. He said it's for the 1968 candidate who could be most effective in helping to win congressional seats.

"The governors have worked together as they never have before," Rockefeller said. "They're doing the only good thing they could do to keep united and that is by concentrating on problems—not people."

Rockefeller for months has urged his fellow Republican governors to align behind the candidacy of Michigan Gov. George Romney. He said if that becomes possible, fine. "If they can't—let's be realistic," the New Yorker said.

"The more united we are on the platform, the more effective we'll be on anything else," Rockefeller told newsmen after a meeting of the Republican Coordinating Committee.

Rhode Island Gov. John H. Chafee, also a Romney supporter, said the GOP governors will be a powerful factor in the selection of a nominee.

"They will have a great deal of influence with the various delegations," Chafee said.

"I think it was obvious right from the beginning that you weren't going to have unanimity on a candidate," said Gov. Daniel J. Evans of Washington.

Although the governors appear undecided on backing a single candidate, the public's favorite by a decisive margin, the Harris poll reported, is Richard M. Nixon.

Rusk Won't Testify On War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk has written the Senate Foreign Relations Committee he will not testify before it publicly on Vietnam war policy.

"The committee is entitled to know my views on those questions," Rusk wrote. "But because of the extreme sensitivity of these matters, I am convinced that they should be fully discussed only in executive sessions."

Sen. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., a committee member and Vietnam policy critic, released Rusk's letter Monday. It was written last Friday.

The committee has been pressing Rusk to testify publicly before it.

U. S. Dollar Strengthened By Good Faith

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The good faith of the government and the strongest economy in the world—not the gold at Ft. Knox, Ky.—is the real strength behind the U.S. dollar.

That's why government officials see no technical problem in eliminating the last domestic link between gold and dollars—the 25 per cent gold cover. The only obstacles are political and psychological, they feel.

Next year, the Treasury Department is expected to ask Congress to remove the requirement that each $1 placed in cir-ulation must be backed by 25 cents in gold.

This will free more than $10 billion in gold for possible sales to foreign countries and reinforce U.S. policy to buy and sell gold at $35 an ounce—a policy officials say has made the dollar as good as gold.

It's a keystone of the present international money system.

The decline in U.S. gold stocks since 1949—from $24.56 billion to less than $13 billion—has increased pressure on the gold cover. The available gold is now 28.5 per cent of the paper money in circulation.

Government and many private economists contend the gold cover idea is archaic—a throwback to the era of hard money when a dollar could be exchanged for gold.

Despite the gold cover, dollar bills cannot now be exchanged for gold, even at the rate of 25 cents to the dollar.

Republican leaders have already taken aim at the expected bid to remove the gold cover but their major criticism is of administration financial policy.

"Eight years of deficits and irresponsible spending have brought the nation to the brink of financial crisis," the Republican Coordinating Committee said Monday.

"We deplore that the Johnson administration may soon find it necessary to request removal of the remaining gold backing behind our currency, now 25 per cent, thus turning it wholly into paper money," the committee statement said.

It's been more than 30 years since Americans could hold gold in other than jewelry, tooth fillings or other industrial or artistic purpose.

Many people, Treasury officials have said, still don't realize that since 1934 U.S. citizens have been forbidden to hoard gold. Only foreign central banks—the counterpart of the Federal Reserve System—have the privilege of exchanging dollars for gold.

The United States is one of the few remaining industrial countries still linking its currency to gold internally.

Of the free world's major countries, only Switzerland, Belgium, the Netherlands and South Africa have such a link. Even France, where the fondness for gold is beyond question, has none backing the franc.

MIKE MAZZONE has been honored by the National Boy Scout office with his selection as a member of a special finance committee. He will serve on the committee at the National Executive's Conference in Colorado.

He is one of two scout executives from eight Northwestern states to be selected.

According to Alden Barber, chief scout executive of the Boy Scouts, "Mr. Mazzone was selected because of the way he has taken the Snake River Area Council to a sound financial condition during the past three years."

It is the first time a scout executive from Idaho has been selected to take part in a special commission of the National Executive's conference.

Mr. Mazzone will also travel to New Jersey next week for a special meeting of the finance committee on which he will serve.

The trip to New Jersey is financed by the National Boy Scout office.

Man Does Well With New Heart

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Louis Washkansky, in his 10th day with a young woman's heart beating better than his own used to, continued today to make excellent progress, his doctors said.

A bulletin from Groote Schuur Hospital said his condition is satisfactory and he would probably be allowed to sit up for the first time since his badly fibrosed heart was removed Dec. 3 and replaced with that of a young woman killed in an auto accident.

The 55-year-old wholesale grocer's sense of humor, which seems to run to the macabre, now has gotten around to Dracula. One of his nurses said when the doctor came to take a blood sample, the patient usually quips: "Here comes Dracula."

Washkansky called himself "the new Frankenstein" soon after his operation.

Metal Cover Bolted On Blast Hole

FARMINGTON, N.M. (AP) — A heavy metal cover has been bolted atop the filled-in hole at the site of an underground nuclear explosion to prevent escape of radioactivity into the air, the Atomic Energy Commission says.

The AEC said Monday that the site was covered after radioactivity was found to have leaked to the surface through a cable that extended to the detonation point 4,240 feet underground. The explosion, called Project Gasbuggy, was conducted 55 miles east of Farmington Sunday in a natural gas recovery experiment.

The measureable radioactivity was found outside the cable before the cover was bolted in place Sunday night, an AEC spokesman said.

Congress Appears Certain To OK Federal Pay Raise

By ROBERT T. GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress appears certain to okay hefty pay boosts for federal workers at virtually the same time it approves a $4.1 billion cut in federal spending.

In Monday action on separate measures: —The House voted 366 to 26 for a measure to slash spending $4.1 billion this fiscal year, sending the administration-backed bill to the Senate where speedy acceptance is predicted.

—The House sent to the Senate on a 326-62 vote a measure that would boost the salaries of postal workers 6 per cent and of other federal workers 4.5 per cent. The bill also provides for additional pay hikes on July 1 next year and July 1, 1969 at an eventual annual cost of $2.7 billion.

—The pay bill includes proposed increases in postal rates that would raise first-class stamps from 5 to 6 cents and air mail stamps from 8 to 10 cents.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said he anticipated no difficulties in speeding the spending cut measure to the White House, which called for the slashes as part of a proposal for a 10 per cent surcharge on personal and corporate income taxes.

The administration advocated the budget cuts in hopes of persuading Congress to approve the tax boost but there's no chance of action on taxes before next year's session.

Before agreeing on the $4.1 billion figure the House rejected 213 to 183 a GOP proposal for slashes totaling $5.7 billion.

The bill approved would require federal agencies to cut personnel costs by 2 per cent and other controllable expenditures by 10 per cent.

The action came shortly before the House vote to raise salaries of federal workers more than 10 per cent over the next 19 months.

Congress itself would be exempt from the economy drive.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am a high school freshman and belong to a church group which meets every Friday night. There is a boy in this group who is sort of physically deformed and a little mentally unbalanced. (I am not saying this to be mean, Abby, he really is.) Everyone makes fun of him but me.

My problem is, he keeps hanging around me asking me to do weird things like telling him if he blinks his eyes. (He claims he can't blink his eyes.) Abby, I go to have a good time, and I can't with this kid bothering me all the time. I don't want to tell him to get lost or anything like that because I hate to hurt his feelings. But what can I do? He keeps following me around.

I have even considered dropping out of the group, but I don't want to because it could be a lot of fun if it weren't for this kid. How can I get rid of him nicely?
PESTERED

DEAR PESTERED: That you would write with such a problem shows you to be an extremely sensitive, warmhearted person. Surely this group has an adult counselor, and a few leaders among its peers. Why not try to organize a meeting to discuss this problem with them? It would be an act of genuine kindness (not only to the handicapped lad, but to all the young people) to point out the need for patience and understanding in such a situation.

DEAR ABBY: I am trying to plan my daughter's wedding, and my problem is that her fiancé has too many parents. His mother was married six times and his father was married four times. They have remained friendly with all their ex-mates, and not only that, there are half-sisters and half-brothers and stepchildren galore, not to mention grandparents on all sides. The other night my daughter started counting them and she quit at 48.

If I invite all these folks to the wedding there won't be room for anybody else. Where does one draw the line? How can we tactfully get this message across to my daughter's fiancé?
MOTHER OF THE BRIDE

DEAR MOTHER: Allow your daughter's fiancé "X" number of guests, and let him invite whomever he wishes.

DEAR ABBY: I know you've had several letters on this subject, but will you please answer it again, and this time a little more specifically?

What can I do about people who come right out and ask me how old I am? I know there must be several ways to avoid answering this rude question, but I am so stumped when someone asks me, I always blurt out the truth.

It's not that I am ashamed of my age, Abby, I just resent the nerve of these people who ask me and get away with it.

Project 100,000 To Be Evaluated

By BOB HORTON
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon plans long-range studies to evaluate social effects of its new project to salvage 100,000 poverty-stricken youth each year for military service.

Since Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara announced Project 100,000 last year, the services have accepted 49,000 men who would otherwise be rejected for mental or physical reasons.

This year the goal is to reach the full 100,000 annual rate. The services have just received their quotas: Army 70,000; Navy 11,000 and the Air Force and Marines 9,300 each.

These "new standards" men, as they are called, are getting close attention and instruction to help them get through basic training and, in the process, acquire a job skill intended to make them productive later in society.

A small percentage is receiving minor surgery or other medical treatment to correct health problems which otherwise would have made them unfit for military duty.

"I don't want to prejudice the data but we are encouraged by the training results," I. M. Greenberg, director of Project 100,000, said in a Monday interview.

In the next few months the new standards men—they are not identified or singled out, to avoid any stigma—will be watched as they perform their assigned jobs in operating units, some in Vietnam.

Beyond that, the Pentagon is planning a decade of regular reports on new standards men after they leave the service to see what impact the special training has had on their performance in society.

Greenberg said the Defense Department is now working out a system of tracking all individuals who are involved in Project 100,000 through the military reserve units to which all will eventually be attached.

In order to make the long-range evaluation valid, the Pentagon will hire a private firm to follow the social progress of another group of individuals who barely failed, for one reason or

American Labor Approaches New Year With Bulging Ranks, Tough Militancy

By NEIL GILBRIDE
WASHINGTON (AP) — American labor approaches the new year with bulging ranks and a toughening militancy, and is troubled by a festering leadership fight and nagging fears of antistrike laws.

Unions swelled total membership to an all-time high of more than 19 million workers in 1967 and won wage hikes averaging 5 per cent in one of the biggest bargaining years in a decade.

But rising prices kept living costs climbing steadily ahead of pay gains, and a 15-year high in strikes stirred new cries in Congress and elsewhere to curb labor's power.

Major contracts coming up for steel, railroads, aerospace and maritime industries made prospects for labor strife in 1968 look as tough or tougher.

And labor, like the rest of the nation, worried over Negro rioting in major cities. AFL-CIO President George Meany said the causes were slum housing, lack of jobs and racial discrimination, and called such problems more overriding to the labor movement than the more traditional union concerns of wages and organizing.

Organized labor was also gearing up politically to combat what it feared was an "antilabor" mood in Congress.

The Committee on Political Education, political arm of the 14-million member AFL-CIO, said a drive by big business and conservative politicians threatens "a twin thrust at labor's throat."

A strike that briefly shut down the nation's railroad industry prompted an emergency law to halt the dispute, and several teachers union leaders drew jail terms for violating state laws.

But while the railroad case heightened labor's fears of attempts to ban other strikes, the relatively generous wage settlement dictated under the law appeared to dampen chances of further congressional intervention.

The 135,000 railroad shopmen affected were awarded two-year pay hikes ranging from 33 to 54 cents an hour, boosting top wages to $3.59 an hour.

Meany's biggest internal problem in the nation's house of Labor was the scathing criticism of Auto Workers President Walter Reuther, who hinted he might pull his 1.5-million-member union out of the AFL-CIO.

The 60-year-old Reuther quit the AFL-CIO Executive Council, denouncing Meany and other members as "that private club of the ancient men of labor."

Reuther appeared to be severing other financial and political alliances between his union and the AFL-CIO in preparation for a possible walkout from the federation.

Meany obviously didn't want to lose Reuther's auto workers, the biggest union in the federation, which showed its strength by winning the best contract in history from Ford Motor Co. after a 50-day strike.

The three-year Ford pact provided wage and fringe benefit hikes of nearly $1 an hour for the highest skilled of the 160,000 workers covered.

It also included the first guaranteed annual wage plan in the nation for hourly paid workers, a goal other unions were expected to demand.

While the auto workers threatened to secede from the AFL-CIO, there were increasing signs that the long ostracized Teamsters Union might eventually return to the labor federation now that Teamsters President James R. Hoffa is in prison.

The tough, bantam-sized Hoffa lost his long legal battle and was driven to the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary to start serving an eight-year sentence for jury tampering.

Soviets Won't Say Where Deserters Are

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet officials refused to say today what has become of the four U.S. Navy deserters who spent three weeks in Moscow protesting the American war effort in Vietnam.

The Moscow hotel where the four youths had been staying said Monday they left several days earlier. They could not be located at other Moscow hotels.

The sailors said when they arrived last month from Japan that they hoped to go to a neutral country to work against the United States in Vietnam. They deserted from the aircraft carrier Intrepid in Japan, and a Japanese antiwar committee helped them slip out to the Soviet Union.

The four sailors are Richard D. Baffey, 19, of Jacksonville, Fla.; John Michael Barilla, 20, Catonsville, Md.; Craig W. Anderson, 20, San Jose, Calif.; and Michael Lindner, 19, of Mount Pocono, Pa.

Another Liver Transplant Patient Dies

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — A group of little girls — the only known survivors of liver transplant operations — dwindled to three Monday with the death of 2-year-old Paula Kay Hansen at the University of Colorado Medical Center.

Another of the group, 1-year-old Carol Lynne MacCourt, died last week.

Paula Kay, Carol and two of the three survivors all surpassed the previous known survival record of 34 days, established here during an earlier series of operations. The fifth patient received her new liver Nov. 25.

It was not clear whether the ailment which caused Paula's death was directly linked to the transplanted liver she received Aug. 1, a hospital spokesman said.

SISTER IS ILL
RICHFIELD — Mrs. Renee Jackson, Cheadle, Alberta, Canada, has been called here by the critical illness of her sister, Mrs. R. J. Lemmon, a patient at St. Benedict's hospital, Jerome. Mrs. Joe McGill left Monday to return home to Alameda, Calif., after 10 days here with her mother, Mrs. Lemmon, who had a stroke.

W. K. POTTS died Monday after a short illness. He was 65 at the time of his death and was a Buhl resident. Funeral services will be held at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Buhl Second Ward LDS Church.

Johnson Speaks At College Dedication

By FRANK CORMIER
KILLEEN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said today, in dedicating a new junior college, that "the time has come for these Americans who believe in progress to convince the doubters."

Johnson said the quest for educational excellence, abolition of poverty, better health, economic stability and world peace will succeed "if we stay on the course."

His remarks were prepared for ceremonies at Central Texas College.

The President, who flew to Killeen from his ranch near Johnson City, was headed back for Washington after the dedication.

AFL-CIO officials hoped he would stop off at their convention in Miami Beach, Fla., on the way. There was no official word on the plan.

The AFL-CIO gave cheering support Monday to Johnson's Vietnam policies.

At the dedication, the President noted the expansion of educational facilities and opportunities. "Yet still," he said, "there are those who oppose this kind of growth. There are some who tell us that it is too expensive; that it is too dangerous; that the effort cannot succeed." Johnson argued that progress in America can never be too expensive. He said: "It is sickness and ignorance and discrimination and crime which cost too much. It is not action but inaction that costs too much."

The President said colleges like Central Texas are being established at the rate of one a week.

"In the past six years," he said, "the number of young people going to college from poor homes has risen by more than 12 per cent."

"In those years, the number of high school dropouts has dropped—from 25 per cent to only 18 per cent of young people between 16 and 24 years old."

Johnson said that these years, like those of growth on the frontier, "are noisy with the sound of controversy." But he said: "That should not daunt us—any more than it daunted the settlers of yesterday who sought a newer world."

Johnson flew to his ranch Saturday after the White House wedding of his daughter Lynda Bird and Marine Capt. Charles S. Robb. Mrs. Johnson joined him there Monday and planned to stay longer.

BURLEY MAYOR JOE Peters, left, participated in a ceremony Monday morning at the Burley city hall when 4-year-old Michael Scott Martin received the Purple Heart from Maj. Spencer Miller, Idaho State University ROTC, Pocatello, right, for his father, Sp.4 Clayton A. Martin, who died Oct. 16, 1967, from wounds received in action in Vietnam. Also attending the ceremony was Mrs. Martin. Parents of the war hero, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Martin, are former Burley residents who now live in Idaho Falls. Mrs. Clayton Martin has a daughter, Corrine, 2. Young Michael stood on a chair to receive the medal.

U.S. Holds 5-1 Edge In Its Ability To Tap Ocean Wealth

By JEAN HELLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal official estimates the United States holds a 5-1 edge over all other nations combined in its ability to probe the largely untapped—and politically disputed—wealth of the oceans.

But even with that capability, says Dr. Edward Wenk, the United States has refused to engage in any race for control of the vast animal, vegetable and mineral wealth believed hidden in the oceans' depths.

Wenk, executive secretary of the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development and President Johnson's chief adviser on oceanic matters, told The Associated Press:

"You can't say we're winning the race for the oceans because there is no race. No nation can come close to matching our progress in this field. Our exploration capability is greater than that of all other nations combined and multiplied by five."

But President Johnson has made it clear that we will not get involved in any colonization race for the deep oceans and sea beds.

The question of which nations have what rights in the ocean's depths was laid in August before the United Nations.

The Mediterranean island nation of Malta proposed to the General Assembly that an international agency take jurisdiction over the sea beds, with the net financial gain from their exploitation "be used primarily to promote the development of poor countries."

Arthur J. Goldberg, U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, in rejecting the proposal, suggested instead the world body study the question of jurisdiction. Meanwhile no nation or agency would be given control and there would be an international program to determine what the seas hold that might be worth the effort and cost of recovering.

The debate that followed was expected to produce establishment of a U.N. committee to study the scientific, technical, economic, legal and other aspects of the question. The panel would report its findings to the next General Assembly session.

It would be the beginning of a process which the United States hopes may produce an ocean treaty similar to the treaties covering Antarctica and outer space, Wenk said.

Some government officials and several members of Congress say they believe the exploitation of "ocean space" is more vital than the race to the moon.

Development Of Speedy Electronic Auto Revealed By American Motors

DETROIT (AP) — Development of an electronic automobile, shaped like an arrowhead and which its builders say will have a cruising speed of 50 miles per hour and a range of 150 miles without recharging, was announced today.

American Motors and Gulton Industries of Metuchen, N.J. disclosed details of the joint project.

An operational model of the electronic car will be road tested within a year, reported Roy D. Chapin Jr., chairman of the board of American Motors. No price was announced.

A prototype of the small, three-passenger commuter car was unveiled at a news conference. It is called the "Amitron" and has a newly developed long-life Gulton lithium battery system.

"This joint project is the result of the development of this new power system. It could eliminate many problems which to this point have made electric-type cars impractical," Chapin said.

Dr. Leslie K. Gulton, president of Gulton Industries, said "for the first time in a half-century, the gasoline-burning automobile is about to share the road with an electrically powered car whose performance needs no apologies."

"We make no claim that the forthcoming electronic vehicle is about to put conventional cars out of business. What we do say is that we have made considerable strides toward the creation of an electronic car with characteristics far superior to any that have thus far been seen," he said.

The new lithium-nickel fluoride battery system is lighter than batteries used in other experimental cars, Gulton said.

Ford and General Motors recently showed electric car projects on which they are experimenting.

Registered Nurses To Get Training In Magic Valley

A refresher course to allow registered nurses in the Magic Valley area a chance to become active in professional nursing again is being offered, it was announced Tuesday.

Mrs. Elvora C. Staples, state nurse coordinator assigned by the Idaho Nurses Association, will be at the Fairways Motel Wednesday to interview those interested.

This is the second time a refresher course has been offered in the Magic Valley area. Seven women completed the first course at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital last May.

The upcoming course will last seven weeks and will be offered to a class of 12 inactive nurses.

Those eligible for the course include nurses presently not working, nurses who are not registered but who could be reinstated, and nurses registered in other states but not eligible to be registered in Idaho.

Information on new medical conditions, practical experience and the latest procedures will be studied.

The purpose of the course is to help alleviate the shortage of registered nurses in Idaho and Magic Valley.

The cost of the course is paid by Manpower Development and Training funds and funds from the Idaho Vocational Education Department.

Mrs. Staples may be contacted Wednesday by calling 733-6093.

Reproductions

AMARELLO, Tex. (AP) — After 23 Christmas seasons in a local finance company's window, a "money tree" was seized Monday by the Secret Service because it held reproductions of legal tender.

The play money on the tree, about one-third the size of a dollar bill, was imprinted with a skinny George Washington wearing glasses, inscribed with the words, "this certificate is not worth a cent," and signed by "Oscar Zlich and Harry T. Zlich, stenographer."

The Secret Service office in Dallas explained that it is charged with preventing counterfeiting and that the "money" was a reproduction of legal tender.

Elderly Driver Gets Citation And Compliment

An 81-year-old driver was charged with a stop sign violation Monday morning but at the same time received a compliment on his driving record from city police.

Officers said Ernest A. Ericson, 625 Jackson St., was driving a 1953 sedan east on Third Avenue North when he stopped, then drove onto Shoshone Street in front of a northbound vehicle driven by Addison Lee Irwin, 41, 168 Pierce St.

The Ericson car ran across the street and crashed into a service station, causing slight damage.

Mr. Ericson said he had been driving for 65 years and this is the first accident he has had since 1908. Officers said the record was impressive as they wrote out the traffic citation.

Mr. Ericson, his wife Hattie who was a passenger in the vehicle, and Mr. Irwin all escaped injury. Damage was estimated at $85 to the Ericson vehicle and $200 to the Irwin automobile. Damage to the building was not estimated.

UCLA Tops College Hoop Poll, Vanderbilt And Kentucky Make Advances

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

Vanderbilt and Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference made the most rapid advances in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll Monday while Davidson, Indiana and Princeton gained rated positions for the first time this season. UCLA's powerful Bruins continued to hold a commanding lead in the weekly balloting and Houston remained a strong runner-up.

Last week's ranking teams were beaten seven times all told, and it turned out to be up-lucky seven for Kansas, Dayton and Purdue as the three dropped out of the Top Ten. Kansas was fourth, Dayton No. 6 and Purdue No. 7 a week ago. UCLA was only one short of unanimous selection as the leading team. The Bruins collected 34 first place votes and one for second in the balloting by a national panel of 35 sports writers and broadcasters. Houston got the other first place vote.

The Bruins, winners of 37 games in a row over three seasons, lifted this year's record to 3-0 by wallowing Wichita State 120-86 and Iowa State 121-80 last week.

Houston beat Abilene Christian, North Dakota State and Illinois for a 4-0 mark.

Vanderbilt is third followed in order by Kentucky, Louisville, Boston College, North Carolina, Davidson, Indiana and Princeton.

The Commodores advanced from the No. 8 slot after defeating Auburn 78-65 and North Carolina 89-86. Kentucky, ninth a week ago, whipped Florida, Xavier of Ohio and Pennsylvania.

Louisville slipped two notches. The Cardinals beat Kansas 57-51 but lost to Northwestern 88-83.

The Top Ten, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday, Dec. 9, and total points on a 10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

1. UCLA	34	3-0	349
2. Houston	1	4-0	317
3. Vanderbilt	3	3-0	213
4. Kentucky	4	4-0	178

7. North Carolina	2-1	74
8. Davidson	4-0	72

Time For Granddad Of Grid Contests

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE

Bill Brady, Twin Falls; Keith Egad, readers. It's that time of year when the best of us collide in the granddaddy of contests, the Times - News hoop picks. Unfortunately, I slipped up last week and was unable to get the ballot in early enough to test you on the junior college, NAIA and NCAA college championship bowls. I assume you all were extremely disappointed in not being able to throw your moral support behind Fairmond and Eastern Washington, to name a couple.

To make up for this, I have taken the privilege of extending the professional leagues out to what I consider the logical conclusions. Since some of this is done on guestwork, any break in the chain will terminate further consideration at that point. You will not be required to carry it out. For instance, say that Los Angeles beats Baltimore this Sunday instead of the Colts winning as I have predicted.

That game will count and the playoff between Cleveland and Dallas will be scored, since it already is an accomplished fact. But the others will not be considered. In the AFL, all but the championship game are scheduled and the first four will count. But if Houston and Oakland do not play in the finals, that one is void.

Now let's hurriedly check over the rules. Only those who have won money or honorable mentions during the season are eligible. Only one name is allowed per name. Regardless of how many times that person finished in the top 10 during the season. The deadline will remain Friday noon. We shall announce the winners probably Jan. 3.

Unnecessary Timeouts Irk Grid Fans

By HOYT HARWELL

TUSCALOOSA, Ala. (AP) — The Crimson Tide of Alabama, which has been to more post-season football games than any other school, begins preparations Tuesday for the Cotton Bowl without a kickoff man.

The Tide will drill for two weeks before leaving for Dallas, Tex., at Christmastime to close out preparations for the New Year's Day battle with Texas A&M, Southwest Conference champion.

Dudley Kerr, the kickoff man for most of the season, is ineligible for the bowl game under regulations of the National Collegiate Athletic Association because he is a five-year man attending graduate school.

Fullback Pete Jilleba, a sophomore from Madison, N.J., appears to have the inside track for the job. He was one of a quartet who kicked off for Alabama in early games before Kerr showed up and asked for the job. None of the four booted the ball as far as Kerr did.

Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant also is forced to replace tight end Dennis Dixon, ineligible because as a transfer from junior college he lacks sufficient class hours for a bowl game.

Each timeout lasts two minutes.

Television commercials are scheduled in advance to be shown at certain times during a game. If the ball is not dead otherwise, such as after a touchdown or at the two-minute warning, and it is time for a commercial, the referee calls an official timeout on a signal from a representative of the television staff on the sideline.

Steadman called upon Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, to appoint a committee to study the television timeout system "so it can make a report at the next league meeting."

A spokesman for the National Football League said he was not aware of any abuses and that the game would have to be reviewed before any official comment could be made.

A Column for Sports Fans

By Bob Reese

Bowl games in football started as promotional stunts, and many still are, but do not think you ever guessed they would catch on the way they have.

Watching bowl games is a national pastime from early December. There are such spots as the Potato Bowl and Wool Bowl (both for junior colleges). Then comes the Cornelia Bowl in California, the Pecan Bowl in Texas, the Tangerine Bowl in Florida, all for small colleges.

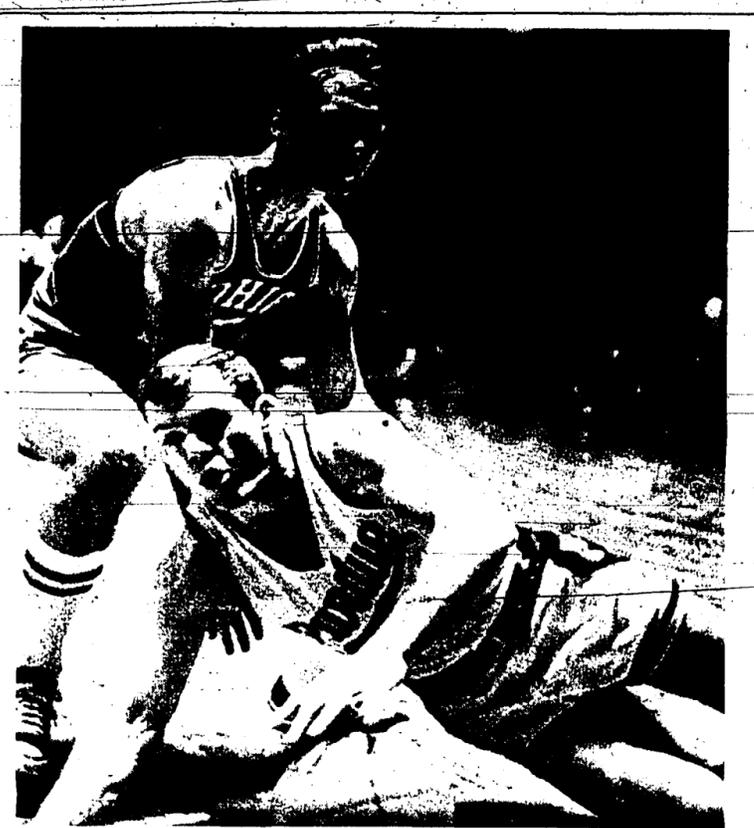

Moving to bigger things, there are such as the Bluebonnet Bowl at Houston, the Sun Bowl at El Paso, the Gator Bowl in Florida, and the Cotton Bowl at Dallas. This brings the fun up to the Big Game, "The Year's Only One."

Now let's check over the rules of bowl at Miami, the Sun Bowl in New Orleans, the Rose Bowl in Pasadena, California.

Had enough? There's still the Senior Bowl and Hula Bowl (a test where that is).

We know only one way to bowl you over with our service, and that is to give you a little more, a little better, and save you money by anticipating trouble. Make a New Year's resolution to bring your car to us for All-American service!

St. Louis Back Has Surgery

By HOYT HARWELL
Associated Press Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Running back John Roland of the St. Louis football Cardinals underwent surgery Monday for repair of torn ligaments in his right knee.

A team spokesman said the surgery was performed by Dr. Fred Reynolds, an orthopedic surgeon, at Barnes Hospital. The spokesman said Roland came through the operation in good shape and should be out of the hospital in about a week.

The former University of Missouri star, second in the National Football League in rushing going into Sunday's game with Cleveland, was injured in the third quarter. He ended the season with 11 touchdowns and 234 carries in 13 games.

Danny Ford likely will replace him.

This will be Alabama's ninth consecutive bowl appearance under Bryant, who failed only in his first year at Alabama to take the Tide to a bowl.

Bunning Seems To Thrive On Work

CINCINNATI (AP) — Jim Bunning is a glutton for work — and for a pitcher of 36, he sure seems to thrive on it.

He led the National League in 1967 with 302 innings on the mound — down from 314 in 1966 — started 40 games, shut out the opposition in six of them and struck out 253 of the 1,216 batters he faced.

For sheer labor, his closest rival was Gaylord Perry of the San Francisco Giants. That 29-year-old right-hander worked 293 innings and faced 1,178 batters.

Perry ended up with a 15-17 record and an earned run average of 2.61, while Bunning was 17-15 and had an ERA of 2.29 — second only to Phil Niekro of Atlanta on the league's list of top 15 pitchers.

Niekro, 11-9, had an ERA of 1.87 and became the first reliever-starter to win the title since the Giants' Stu Miller did it in 1958. Niekro made his first start for the Braves on June 13 and appeared in 46 games, started 20 of them.

Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, who got tagged for 30 home runs, completed 20 games — two more than anybody else.

They were dozens of pitchers who didn't complete any, as usual, and three who completed 18: Juan Marichal and Gaylord Perry of the Giants and Tom Seaver of the New York Mets.

Don Wilson of Houston pitched the only no-hitter of the National League season. Aside from that triumph on June 15 against Atlanta, there was nothing very distinguished about his 10-9 record. His ERA of 2.79 barely qualified him for the list of the top 15 with at least 162 innings on the mound.

That minimum work rule kept the pitcher with the best winning average from the list. Nelson Briles, St. Louis, whose 14-5 record averaged out to .733 victories, had an ERA of 2.44 but worked only 155 innings.

Wolman Has Reportedly Sold Stadium

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sportsman-builder Jerry Wolman reportedly has sold Connie Mack Stadium to a Philadelphia real estate development firm for $1.2 million in his continuing effort to remain solvent.

Wolman, however, denied the report Monday.

The Philadelphia Bulletin, in its Monday edition, said Wolman sold the ball park-home of the National League Philadelphia Phillies baseball team to Hertzfeld and Horowitz Associates.

A spokesman for the firm could not be reached for comment.

Wolman bought the stadium in May, 1964, for $757,500.

The transaction was the latest reported in the past several days in Wolman's effort to obtain enough cash to solve his pressing financial problems.

Wolman reportedly sold control of the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles to a group headed by Max Raab, Philadelphia clothing manufacturer, for $14.5 million.

Wolman, who vowed recently never to sell the Eagles, denied the transaction with Raab was an outright sale. Reports circulated Wolman would become just a figurehead under terms of the Raab agreement, still being worked out.

Colt Veterans Who Missed First Game Against Rams Will Be Ready Sunday

By GEORGE BOWEN
Associated-Press Sports Writer
BALTIMORE (AP) — The Baltimore Colts are going to be a much healthier group in Sunday's do-or-die game than they were in the earlier season tie with the Los Angeles Rams.

Raymond Berry and Jimmy Orr at ends and Alvin Haymond

At defensive back were missing when the Rams rallied Oct. 15 to headlock the Colts 24-24 in Baltimore.

All three are ready for the game in Los Angeles to decide the winner of the Coastal Division in the National Football League.

"Right now, we're in better condition than we were when we opened the season three months ago," Coach Don Shula said. "Strangely enough, it's because of experienced depth — experience because of the injuries."

Neither Berry nor Orr is expected to start against the Rams and if Haymond does it will not be at his original safety position.

Haymond played full time on defense for the first time Sunday against New Orleans at right corner back for the limping Lenny Lyles. Haymond intercepted two passes, returned a kickoff 48 yards and made five solo tackles.

"I may never get my job back," cracked Lyles with a wry smile.

Berry, after 12 seasons, and Orr, with nine, also find themselves in the odd position of being unable to reclaim their jobs immediately.

"In comparing this team to our championship clubs of past year," evaluates defensive end Ordell Braase. "I believe this is a better one because we've been able to come through despite so many injuries."

"This team's better over-all because of that."

Braase was on the championship teams of 1958-59 and the 1964 finalist.

As the Colts eased by the Saints for their 11th victory and two ties, the only injury Coach Shula reported was that Alex Hawkins, who has replaced Berry, broke his nose for the second time.

"It doesn't matter if I'm not ready," joked Hawkins. "My backup man has caught 600 more passes than I have."

Shula is counting on Hawkins, though.

"We should be in 100 per cent physical shape for our make-or-break meeting with the Rams," Shula declared.

If the Los Angeles Rams beat the Baltimore Colts Sunday at Los Angeles, the Rams will win the National Football League's Coastal Division title although the teams would finish in an 11-12 tie.

The rules of the divisional championships provide that, in the case of a tie in percentage, the title is determined by the results of the two games between the clubs.

As they played a 24-21 tie Oct. 15 at Baltimore, a Los Angeles win Sunday would give the Rams the series edge and the title.

If the Colts win or tie, they advance to the Western Conference finals against Green Bay Dec. 23 at Milwaukee, Wis. Milwaukee also will be the site if the Rams meet the Packers.

Rams Are Two-Point Favorites Over Colts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams, with one loss this season, are two-point favorites over the Baltimore Colts, with none, in their showdown clash here Sunday for the National Football League's Coastal Division title.

The Rams got the nod on the Los Angeles opening line by virtue of their 27-21 comeback victory over Green Bay last Saturday that skyrocketed the team into the "up" category and the fact they'll be playing at home.

Los Angeles has a 10-1 record, while Baltimore is 11-0. In Los Angeles, the Rams will return $5 and $5 on Baltimore will return $6.

Looking at the record, the Rams are 11-0-2 and the Colts are 10-1-2. Each has a seven-game win streak since its last tie game. In their first get-together this year the Rams and Colts played a 24-24 tie at Baltimore Oct. 15.

The Rams will pick up the Coastal Division title if they win, even though they will be tied in the regular season standings with Baltimore at 11-1-2.

A league rule provides that in case of a tie in percentage, the tie goes to the team that scored the most points in the two games between the clubs. Since their first game was a tie, a Rams victory has to give them the most points, the division title and the berth in the Western Conference playoff against Green Bay Dec. 23 at Milwaukee.

The loser is through for the season.

The Rams came out of the Green Bay game with no injuries and lots of jubilation.

They studied films of the Saturday game on Monday and planned to start drilling Tuesday for the Colts.

A club spokesman said no lineup changes are being considered.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two students pledging a University of Miami fraternity set out on an initiation scavenger hunt Monday to bring in $50,000 worth of losing tickets from Tropical Park race track.

When the pledges of Zeta Beta Tau brought in the pile of paste-boards thrown away by losing railbirds, they found $200 worth of winners. They plan to be at the payoff window today to pick up the money.

Bradley Will Make First Start Tuesday

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Bradley, the New York Knicks' $500,000 rookie, will make his first start Tuesday night, the Knicks said Monday.

Bradley will team with Dick Barnett in the backcourt when the Knicks take on the St. Louis Hawks in the second game of a National Basketball Association doubleheader.

Bradley, two-time All-American from Princeton, made his long-awaited pro debut last Saturday night against the Detroit Pistons. He sat on the bench for the first quarter but started the second quarter and wound up playing about 20 minutes.

He scored eight points on three of six shots from the field and two of six from the foul line and was coming to St. Louis on a search for a new team.

After being the Knicks' No. 1 draft choice in 1965, the 6-foot-5, 215-pounder spent two years in England as a Rhodes Scholar, laved one hour, 20 minutes and five months in the Air Force while airport police and FBI agents searched the plane.

Raising Of Sports Fees Is Protested

WASHINGTON (AP) — Four senators from New Hampshire, Oregon, California, Idaho, Pennsylvania and Wyoming, Utah, Nevada and Montana, filed a proposal to raise winter sports fees and Montana.

Sen. Peter Dominick, R-Colo., said in a letter to Forest Service Chief Edward P. Cliff that the proposal may "well have a disastrous economic impact on the entire ski industry."

The letter was assigned by Sen. Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., to a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Energy and Natural Resources.

Harris Wins Fight, Loses Verdict

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Unbeaten Gypsy Joe Harris whipped Miguel Barreto in a 10-round bout at the Arena Monday night, but then lost a verdict to the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission which suspended him for actions detrimental to boxing.

Immediately after the bald-headed Harris scored a split decision for his 23rd victory, Commission Chairman Frank Wildman entered his dressing room and told the fighter he would be suspended for 60 days beginning Jan. 1.

Wildman said the suspension was imposed because Harris was late for the weigh-in, did not make the weight differential jeopardizing the show, defying the commission and putting boxing in a poor light.

Harris won the fight on the votes of Judge Earl Vann, who scored him a 46-45 winner, and Referee Zack Clayton, who voted 48-44 for the Philadelphia Judge Jim Weston awarded the fight to Barreto, 46-45. The Associated Press scored Harris a 48-45 winner.

Woody Larroseaux, manager of Barreto, said he planned to retain a lawyer to consider a suit against the state athletic commission for damages.

BRIDGE

By Jacoby

DEFENSIVE BID PICKLES SOUTH

The late Charles Lockett of St. Louis was a rubber bridge player first and a duplicate bridge-player second. His grandson, Roger Lord, played with Norbert Kremer in the national rubber bridge tournament at the Sands. They reached the semi-chance when he picked up a king and two jacks, and he passed. South chirped a spade and Norbert overcalled with two hearts. North raised to two spades and Roger jumped right to four hearts.

South looked hard at Roger and Norbert. South didn't really think that Norbert would be able to make four hearts, but, after some more thought South decided that he would surely be able to take eight or more tricks at spades and that since he could afford a two-trick set he had better bid four spades and insure the match.

Roger doubled and Norbert made the brilliant opening lead of the deuce of diamonds. South went right up with dummy's ace. He didn't want to take a chance of losing the first trick. Then he made the mistake of taking the spade finesse. West made his singleton king and led a second diamond. Roger won and led the jack of hearts. West's ace pickled South's king. The queen of hearts was the fourth defensive trick, a heart ruff the fifth and the ace of clubs the sixth. South lost 500 points and the match!

finals when Roger jockeyed the opponents into a four-spade contract and Norbert made the killing lead.

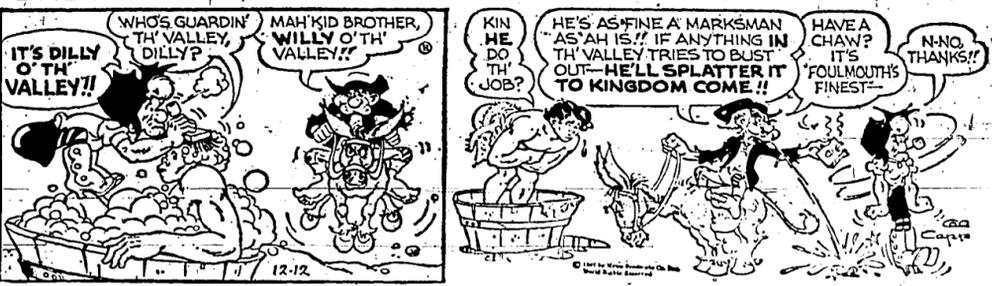

It was the last hand of the match. Roger was vulnerable, his opponents not, but his opponents held a 750-point lead on the score. If Roger could make a game he would collect a 700-point rubber bonus. This bonus plus his match score would give him the point. Otherwise, he needed to pick up a 500-point penalty. This would also win the match because he would get a 300-point bonus for his leg on the rubber.

He didn't think he had much

LSD Trip Took Her Nowhere

Dear Ele and Walt: I'm writing this letter so some kids my age will wise up like I did. I'm only 14 years old. I've run away twice. Both times I stayed in the Haight-Ashbury. I've taken LSD seven times and I don't know how many times I've smoked pot.

The first time I ran away I hadn't tried any kinds of drugs. The place I was staying was a complete mess. There was dirt caked everywhere. The smell of pot lingered in every room. While I was there, I tried pot. The next night I was caught and brought to Youth Guidance Center. I was only there 21 hours. I was glad to be home. But I liked the freedom of being away from home.

In the meantime, I tried LSD and went on a groovy trip. So I kept taking it. My parents didn't know that I had tried LSD or pot.

was so confused that I couldn't even answer a question right.

MOTHER SEES CHANGE

My mother saw how I had changed. I couldn't see it myself. She said I was always walking around in a daze. I didn't care what I looked like, and that my whole way of thinking and behaving was different.

DECIDES DRUGS NOT WORTH IT

Since then I have thought about my future and what I had had interest in. I've talked to many of my relatives. They've made me realize that by taking drugs, I was really going to mess myself up. I've read all I could on drugs. I've thought about how groovy it was to take drugs. I've also thought about how I'd feel if I got married and had a child born with a birth defect. It would be my fault.

KEPT IN DETENTION

A few months later, after going down to the Haight-Ashbury almost every day, I ran away again. When I got caught after a week, I was taken to a detention hall. I was there for four days. This time I really didn't know what I wanted to do. I knew I missed my brother and I couldn't see him if I was there. So I told my probation officers I wanted to go home. She said I could.

I have finally decided it's not worth it. To ruin anyone else's life or my own by doing something that is just a passing fad. I hope that this changes some minds about drugs. My mind is changed. — Yours truly, Much Wiser.

Ele and Walt have special suggestions for late-night parties, where keeping the noise down to a dull-roar would be appreciated by parents and neighbors. For a copy of their "Games-Letter," write to Teen-age Date-Line, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a dime and a self-addressed envelope. Want help planning ahead? Ele and Walt Dulaney will send you their Timetable Newsletter, suggesting a schedule for dating, going steady and growing up, if you'll send a dime and envelope to them in care of this newspaper.
