

Magic Valley Stunned By 5-State Power Failure

By JAN A. SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor
For a moment Friday night people sitting in their homes throughout Magic Valley thought that a fuse had blown.
People in theatres waited patiently for the projectionist to install a new bulb.
And a pilot over Twin Falls wondered if a cover of clouds had obscured his view of the lights from below.
But the wondering and speculation lasted only long enough for people to step to their windows and note that the neighbor also had no lights.

The people in the theatres weren't sure who was affected.
And the pilot flying his light craft above Joslin Field realized as he saw scattered ribbons of automobile lights below, that there were no clouds.
The blackout, which covered parts of five Western states, lasted in most places just over 30 minutes.
It began at 10:53 p.m. Friday.

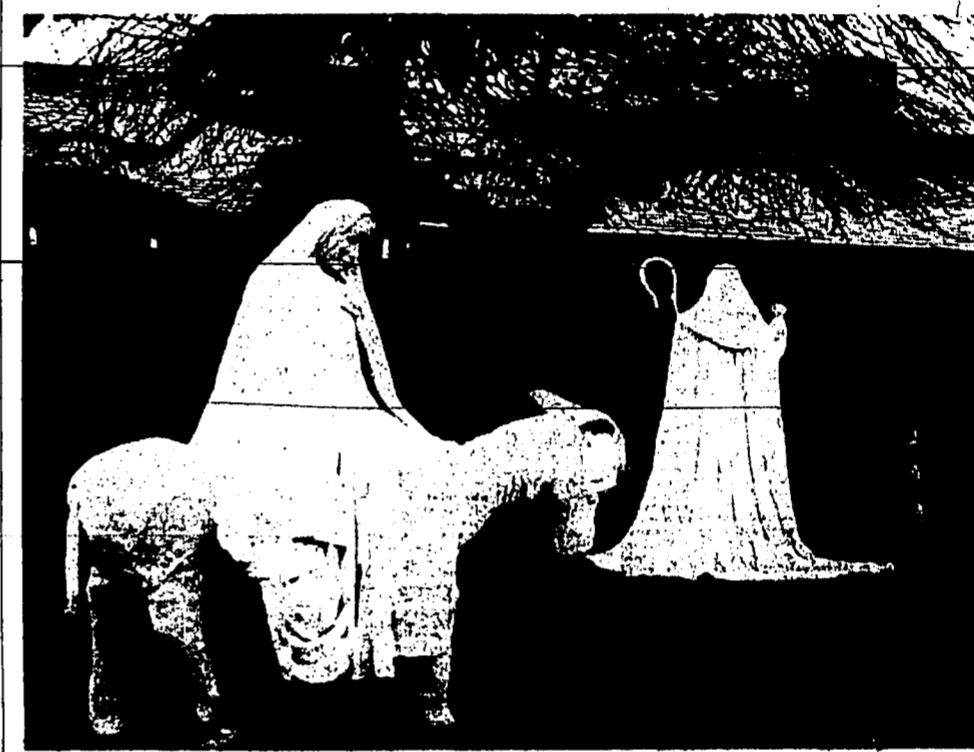

In Nampa, and Pocatello the outage lasted for an hour. And the power failure ran as far West as Pendleton, Ore., and as far south as Salt Lake City, Utah.
Cities in Western Montana had short power failures. Boise lacked power for 30 minutes, and so did Twin Falls, Southern Idaho as far North as McCall and as far East as Idaho Falls went without power.
The "system-wide" failure began when a snow-laden, high-voltage line sagged onto electronic equipment at Idaho Power Co.'s Hells Canyon Generating Facilities, touching off what was described as a gigantic short circuit. Repair crews were replacing line Saturday.

The line, under the weight of heavy snow, touched two conductors between the Brownlee and Oxbow Dams in Hells Canyon.
The company's load Friday night was 800,000 kilowatts, the majority generated at the Hells Canyon facilities.

The generation facilities of other companies were put into operation to restore the load.
But during the blackout people had no idea what was happening.

Carrier Blaze Claims 3

SASEBO Japan (AP) — Fire broke out aboard the 38,000-ton U.S. Aircraft Carrier Kearsarge here Saturday soon after its arrival from Vietnam to observe the Christmas holidays. Three crewmen were reported killed and two others were injured.
U.S. Navy authorities said the fire started about 3:35 p.m. and was quickly brought under control.
A spokesman said the Kearsarge pulled into the port from Vietnam with six U.S. destroyers and a tanker for the Christmas holidays.
None of the victims was identified immediately.
The Kearsarge is an antisubmarine aircraft carrier. No air strikes are flown from it over North Vietnam.
Since October, the postal office aboard the Kearsarge had been acting as the postal headquarters to route mail and insure quick delivery of the thousands of Christmas cards, letters and parcels to men aboard 27 ships ranging from fleet tugs to cruisers on duty off North Vietnam.

THIS IS THE WINNING display in the Times-News and Idaho Power Co. Christmas lighting contest. It was built by Bill Bever, 16, 245 Seventh Ave. E. The youth, a sophomore at Twin Falls High School, also won last year. He will receive the $80 first prize for his efforts. Pictures of the judges of the contest appear on page 12.

Passengers wanting to come to Twin Falls from Salt Lake City received word that they could not land at Joslin Field and many stayed in Salt Lake until nearly 3 a.m. Saturday.
The people watching "The Bible," at Twin Falls were walking out as the lights failed. They had seen the feature.
Those watching "Cool Hand Luke," at the Idaho were not so lucky. They sat in the dark with flashlights pointed up the aisles. They were offered their money back but everyone stayed, talking for the half hour until the lights came back on.
A theatre in Gooding refunded money, and everyone went home.
One establishment bore the brunt of most of the trouble created by the blackout.
A beer bottle was thrown through the window of the Twin Falls Jewelry Store, and merchandise was taken. A description of the men responsible was obtained from an eye witness. The incident occurred just before the power came back on. No estimate as to how much was taken has yet been given.
Hospitals went to emergency power generators.
And a newspaper suffered.
When a blackout hits a newspaper plant there is trouble, and the longer the blackout lasts the more the trouble grows.
As the lights went out at the Times-News Friday night the realization of deadlines became more and more important. The press must run at a certain time, and the papers have to be delivered to train and bus stations, and meet airline flights on schedule.
When this doesn't happen subscribers don't get their papers. When the lights went out there See MAGIC, Page 2, Col. 7

PARENTS MAY FALL victim Monday morning to the sound of little feet pattering through the house at 3 a.m. But it only happens once a year. And who can be upset when children are happy, just as little Theresa Snodgrass is here. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Snodgrass, 356 Fillmore St. This picture was captured a few days before Christmas, but it makes little difference. Theresa and children like her have been waiting for weeks. To while away the time, Theresa plays here with her pet kitten. But you can be sure her eye is on the fireplace and she is listening for the sound of reindeer on the roof. What'll you bet, though, she falls asleep before Santa arrives at the house early Monday.

LBJ, Pope Paul Discuss Steps Toward Viet Peace

By GERALD MILLER
VATICAN CITY (AP) — President Johnson saw Pope Paul VI for an hour in an unprecedented Christmas-season audience Saturday night, and said they talked about the "vital necessity of taking new steps to bring peace to Vietnam."
Then the Presidential plane took off for Shannon Airport, Ireland, the last stopover on a trip that had taken him in five days to Australia, Thailand, South Vietnam, Pakistan and Italy.
Emerging from his meeting with Pope Paul, Johnson said the Pontiff had suggested to him "the principle of mutual restraint."
"We would agree any day to exchange talks and meetings for the knife and the grenade," the President said as he left the Apostolic Palace.
Johnson repeated what he has said on many occasions—that the United States is willing to undertake peace talks with the North Vietnamese at any time.
Johnson said that "in my meeting with His Holiness, we discuss the vital necessity of taking new steps to bring peace to Vietnam and to maintain peace among all nations of the earth."
"We talked about various methods of obtaining peace in the world," he said. "It was a good meeting and I hope it bears fruit."
Johnson raised with Pope Paul the question of treatment of U.S. war prisoners in North Vietnam.
"I discussed with His Holiness the plight of the American prisoners being held by the North Vietnamese and being denied the rights required by international standards," he said.
The President said he and the pontiff had also reviewed measures to combat hunger in the world.
The President came to the Vatican just 24 hours after the 70-year-old pontiff had pleaded again for the United States to cease bombings in Vietnam and had offered himself as a peace mediator between Washington and Hanoi.
Until his jet plane, Air Force One, actually arrived at Rome's Ciampino airport the unannounced Johnson visit here was kept secret.
But rumors of Johnson's visit had leaked out and as the President arrived, Communist demonstrators chanting anti-American slogans caused a massive traffic snarl near the U.S. Embassy in the heart of Rome.
The visit took place with all the split-second timing and thrilling color of a brilliantly managed stage production.

Christmas Prayer

THE REV. ROBERT C. HARVEY, D.D.
First Presbyterian Church
Twin Falls
"O Holy Child of Bethlehem, descend to us, we pray, cast out our sin, and enter in, be born in us today:
We are surrounded by all the things that are supposed to create wonder and joy and happiness, O God. Yet sometimes the moments of emptiness, and yearning, and anxiety return. Our hearts are stirred by the Christmas story, and we hear it in the melody of hope beyond the discord of our personal turmoil and social unrest.
We pray that we may have a childlike faith and a simple openness to the presence of Jesus Christ. Show us the power of love when it is received in quiet worship and shared in the tugs and pulls and scurrying of life every day.
Deliver us from thinking we have shared when we have only spent money; from thinking we have received in the spirit of Christ when we are not grateful; from confusing worship with sentimentality.
We ask that everything we do as we celebrate Christmas may bring us closer to you and to each other. Help us to make sharing and greeting and singing normal instead of seasonal. Thus may we join in the glorious task of building a peaceful world, and showing good will toward all men. In the name of Jesus, the prince of peace. Amen."

Greek Military Regime Frees Instigators Of Coup Attempt

By PHILIP DOPOULOS
ATHENS (AP) — The Greek regime, in a sweeping amnesty, announced Saturday that all persons arrested after the April 21 coup will be released immediately.
The amnesty frees the military junta's most famous prisoner — Andreas Papandreu, a former American citizen — and composer Mikis Theodorakis, plus 2,600 other political detainees held on prison islands.
From his refuge in Rome, exiled King Constantine welcomed the amnesty.
"I hope this is a sign that all Greeks soon will have the opportunity to express themselves freely and participate fully in the political life of the country," he said in a statement.
In London, Mrs. Helen Viachos, the newspaper publisher who said she escaped from house arrest in Athens, expressed the view the new moves by the government did not mean a return to democracy.
But U.S. State Department officials in Washington said they were encouraged on the basis of press reports of the amnesty.

Skiing Rest Is Continued By Kennedys

Tuesday, the vacationers will be joined by Sen. Ted Kennedy and his family.
The Kennedys, at Sun Valley since Dec. 17 when they arrived in Twin Falls by charter plane, will stay at this famous resort until Jan. 6.
They are staying in the Harriman Cottage, a guest house outside the main Sun Valley Lodge and named after Averill Harriman, who founded the resort in 1936.
Expected to join the vacationing Kennedys after Christmas are former astronaut John Glenn; mountain climber Jim Whittaker of Seattle; singer Andy Williams, his wife, and Pierre Salinger, former White House press secretary.

INTRUSION STOPPED

SEOUL (AP) — A barrier of chain-link fences, saplings and woven barbed wire has stopped North Korean intrusion through the American sector of the Korean demilitarized zone, a U.S. brigade commander said today.

16-Year-Old Takes First In Christmas Lighting Contest

A Twin Falls High School sophomore is $60 richer after winning the Times-News and Idaho Power Co. annual Christmas lighting contest.
Bill Bever, 16-year-old son of Mrs. Betty Bever, 245 Seventh Ave. E., was "surprised" when told Saturday that he won the contest for the second consecutive year. The display features Mary on a papier mache donkey and Joseph at a door.

Young Bever said it took him several hours of work and $12. He used old sheets to cover Mary and Joseph. The sheets were heavily starched, he added.
Bill said he would first use $20 of the $60-first prize to buy insurance for his car so he can drive.
Bill added that he plans to have "another winning display" next year.

Second place in the popular contest went to Don Lambert, 244 Dubois Ave. Third award was given to Dr. William M. Jones, 696 Monte Vista Drive, and fourth went to Roger K. O'Bryant of 647 Taylor St.
Mr. Lambert will get a check for $35 while Dr. Jones will receive $20 and Mr. O'Bryant $10.
The judges also selected five honorable mention winners and each will receive $5. These are M. O. Roske, 625 Sunrise Blvd. N.; Mrs. Earl Grummitt, 636 Grant Ave.; Dan Nielsen, 527 Polk St.; Charles D. Kraus, 121 Wiseman Ave.; and Leroy Thompson, 313 Buchanan St.
The checks for the winners will be mailed next Tuesday.
All winning displays will be up through New Year's day, the judges pointed out. The competition was keen this year and there were scores of entries, records show. As usual, it was pointed out, there were also some unusual displays which were not entered in the competition.
One contest rule was that only persons entering the contest by means of the official entry blank published in the Times-News were eligible to be judged and compete for the $150 in cash awards.

Prisoners In Local Jails To Get Christmas Dinners

Mrs. Betty Corder, wife of Paul Corder, Twin Falls County sheriff, will be cooking her first Christmas dinner for the county jail inmates this year and she has already started planning home made pies, roast turkey and all the other extras.
Christmas dinner in the county jail will probably be much better for most of the prisoners than they would have if home for the holidays. Mrs. Corder's menu will consist of turkey and ham, dressing, potatoes and gravy, salad, and a choice of pumpkin or mince pie.
"And this is one meal where they are welcome to seconds," Mrs. Corder reported.

Dinner will be served at about 4 p.m. Monday after a good breakfast Christmas morning. About 30 are expected to be served.
In the Twin Falls city jail, where meals are prepared by a downtown cafe and brought in, only about four prisoners, will be served, according to present indications, Chief of Police Frank Barnett reported.
The chief said that any prisoner who can, will be sent home for Christmas. Others will eat the regular Christmas dinner.
Usually, the chief said, it consists of turkey and all the trimmings.

No Paper

The Times-News will not be published Christmas Day in order that staff members of the paper may spend the holiday with their families.
The paper will be published Tuesday afternoon.
The Times-News extends its Christmas greetings to all subscribers and the management and staff take this opportunity to wish everyone the best during this holiday season.

Hospital In Wallace At End Of Road

WALLACE, Idaho (AP) — A hospital has passed from existence here, and with it has gone a part of the life of each of this community's 2,500 residents.
The Providence Hospital here, operated by the Catholic Sisters of Charity of Providence for nearly 75 years, discharged its last patients this month. They were transferred from the old brick building to a new concrete block structure at nearby Silverton.
The hospital has been a landmark here, standing on a dominating knoll in the east part of town. Most Wallace residents can't remember when there was not a Providence Hospital.
"There's nobody here who hasn't been in Providence," said Rollie Bruning, editor of Wallace's daily newspaper. "Most of us were born there, and most of us expected to die there. It's been a part of our lives."
After a lifetime of service, Providence Hospital succumbed to the requirements of the modern era. The old physical plant was unable to meet recent state licensing requirements, and renovation would have been too costly.
The hospital's administrator, Sister Laure Angelini, explained

'Peace On Earth' To Be Brief In Viet War

By The Associated Press
The guns began falling silent in Vietnam Sunday under a Christmas truce and most of the world could rejoice that for a brief period at least, there was "peace on earth."
Despite the threat of Communist truce violations, U.S. and allied troops in the green jungles, hills and rice paddies of South Vietnam looked forward to special Christmas dinners.
Far to the northeast, on the bleak and cold hills of South Korea, other American soldiers watched the enemy in North Korea across the demilitarized zone as they waited for Christmas.
Pope Paul VI in his annual Christmas message to the world wished peace for those who suffer from hunger and to the nations leaders. He asked the world leaders not to arm their nations "to the point of fatal risks, nor fight on another."

It was a dismal day in Bethlehem, where Christ was born. icy gales drove rain in sheets across the cobbled street and officials feared only a fraction of the 20,000 Christmas pilgrims expected would make it to Bethlehem. They said Israel had limited travel to holders of special passes and the threat of Arab saboteurs operating around Bethlehem also discouraged travelers.
It also was an unhappy Christmas for Berliners. For the second straight year, communist authorities refused passes to West Berliners wanting to cross the Red-Wall laden with gifts for relatives in East Berlin. The only passes were issued to a few hardship cases.

After discussing peace in Vietnam with Pope Paul in Vatican City, President Johnson hoped to be home from his world-girdling trip to spend Christmas eve in the White House with his entire family gathered about him.
As do most American families, the White House had a Christmas tree, a five-foot Norway spruce standing on the spot where President Benjamin Harrison placed the first White House Christmas tree in 1889.
For many Americans, it will be a white Christmas, with snow storms swirling out of the Midwest to the Atlantic seaboard. Snow fell as far south as North Carolina.
The snow and ice increased the hazards of holiday travel for

Infant Is Rushed To Hospital

KIMBERLY — Three-month-old Peter Anderson Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Anderson, Route 1, Kimberly, is being kept in Magic Valley Memorial Hospital after he apparently stopped breathing Saturday afternoon.
An ambulance was called at about 4:30 p.m. when the sheriff's office was called and it dispatched a fire truck with a resuscitator. The ambulance driver, however, took the infant to the hospital in the ambulance with an oxygen mask on.
According to a hospital spokesman, the baby is being kept in the hospital for observation adding that how or why the baby stopped breathing had not been determined. The infant is reported doing well.

Officers Ask Caution On Area Roads

As the Christmas holiday got underway in full Saturday a plea went up from local law enforcement officers for safe driving.

There were no serious traffic accidents in the area Saturday, but Idaho State Police reported that roads in Magic Valley were slick in spots and dangerous because of the amount of traffic expected through Monday night.

Officials of all three agencies of law enforcement in the area—state police, city police and sheriff's offices—asked that drivers not drink if planning to get behind the steering wheel.

The three day holiday, nationally, is expected to cause a rash of traffic deaths.

Roads will be crowded and driving conditions are dangerous.

No Problem

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — What do you do when your 8-year-old son wants a Christmas tree of his own but has to share his room with a 2-year-old brother who likes to crush the ornaments?

You hang the tree from the ceiling.

That was the solution devised by Harold R. Mitchell, an upholsterer who lives in suburban Mableton, after his wife tired of cleaning up the shattered wreckage.

WELCOMES NEGROES

Lagos, Nigeria. (AP) — Radio Biafra said today that secessionist Biafrak would welcome the visit of American Negro civil rights leaders who seek an end to the six-month-old civil war in Nigeria.

Burglary In Blackout Is Investigated

Investigation is continuing into burglary of the Twin Falls Jewelry Store late Friday evening.

According to police reports the display window of the downtown store was broken with a beer bottle at about 11:30 p.m. Friday. No official estimate of the value of the stolen merchandise was given, but police said that it may run as high as $450.

A witness reported that two men were involved and gave a description of them to police.

Police Chief Frank Barnett said that he felt the burglary was prompted by the power failure which ended shortly after the burglary had been committed.

U. S. Forces Will Observe Cease-Fire

By LEWIS M. SIMONS
SAIGON (AP) — Gen. William C. Westmoreland announced that American forces would curtail offensive operations for 24 hours beginning at 6 p.m. Sunday Saigon time—5 a.m. EST—in line with a one-day Christmas cease-fire announced by the allied South Vietnamese government.

The U.S. forces commander made the announcement after consultations with the South Vietnamese government and the governments of other allies fighting in Vietnam.

Shortly before Westmoreland made his announcement, U.S. bombers hammered targets in South Vietnam early Sunday. The mission was carried out after the start of a Communist-proclaimed three-day cease-fire, which was not accepted by the allies.

In a pre-dawn raid, the eight-engine Stratofortresses pounded a suspected Communist troop concentration 34 miles southwest of Da Nang.

The Viet Cong Communist truce was set to start at 1 A.M. Sunday and continue until 1 A.M. Wednesday. The one-day South Vietnamese cease-fire ends at 6 p.m. Christmas Day.

Crises-Torn Dahomey Has Another Coup

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
COTONOU, Dahomey (AP) — Frequent crises and a coup every two years seems the lot of this tiny West African country that attained independence reluctantly, can't support itself and has an educated elite more interested in going to school in Paris than working at home.

For the third time since 1953, the government of this French-speaking country, which depends for revenue on palm oil, the sale of pretty postage stamps and a French subsidy, has been toppled by the military.

But last Sunday, for the first time, the military ousted the military. The victim this time was Gen. Christophe Soglo, 58, a former African officer in the French army who deposed President Hubert Maga in October 1963 and then overthrew the regime of President Sourou Migan Apathy and Premier Justin Ahmadegbe in November 1965.

Soglo installed Tairou Congou as president and a few weeks later decided to take the job himself.

Young army officers, mostly northerners, put Soglo on the receiving end of a coup last Sunday. They surrounded his house at dawn. He escaped through the American Embassy next door into French protection then fled to Abidjan on the way to Paris.

Trip Through Snowbound Area Is Off

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A planned trip by Gov. Calvin L. Rampton to personally survey snowbound San Juan County was called off Saturday on recommendation of State Aeronautics Director Bobby Y. Walker.

The governor's office had announced Rampton wanted to see if more state help was needed in an area where five feet of snow stranded ranchers, Navajo Indians and thousands of head of livestock.

Walker said he was supposed to fly the governor into Monticello's airport early Saturday in the official five-place Beechcraft Baron.

However, he said the Highway Patrol reported there wasn't enough room between the 14-foot-high banks along the runway to let the expansive-winged state plane land safely.

County officials advised Walker later in the day, after the governor's flight was aborted, that the runway had been widened.

"I assume we may go Sunday," Walker said.

Yorty Gives Testimony On Riots' Cause

WASHINGTON (AP) — "We have to tackle the problem of the hardcore unemployed," said Los Angeles Mayor Sam W. Yorty. "I think a lot of other problems would be solved if the unemployed had jobs."

Yorty was testifying before the National Advisory Commission on Civil Disorders, appointed by President Johnson to investigate last summer's riots and how to prevent or control future outbreaks.

The Commission made public Saturday excerpts from testimony Yorty and four other mayors gave at closed hearings in October.

Yorty's emphasis was on providing jobs for ghetto residents. Mayor Henry W. Maier of Milwaukee said suburban areas must share the burden of improving life in the inner cities. Theodore R. McKeldin, who was mayor of Baltimore, cautioned against failing to act positively for fear of appearing to reward rioters.

Jersey City Mayor Thomas J. Whelan told the commission that "riots are caused not by social conditions but by agitators who hate our country." He said effective use of force is the way to prevent or control riots.

Mayor Alfonso J. Cervantes of St. Louis said urban problems are a national problem "and this national problem is going to have to be solved with national financing and national legislation, and until Congress understands the real problems, there isn't much we can do."

Moral Code Is Urged For World Peace

By DAVID MAZZARELLA
VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI in his Christmas message to the world called Saturday night for a new moral order as a requirement for world peace.

He declared that men must not "arm themselves to the point of fatal risks."

The message, recorded Wednesday, was beamed world wide over Vatican Radio.

It struck an optimistic tone. The Pope said that world peace could stem from "interior peace" gained through religion.

The speech did not touch on the war in Vietnam. The Pope covered that in his speech to his College of Cardinals Friday, when he appealed for an end to U.S. bombing in Vietnam and offered himself as a mediator to end the war.

The formal Christmas address Saturday, running 2,500 words, was a more general statement on peace and morality, with emphasis on the need for man to find peace within himself through God.

GIs Get Lift From LBJ's Vietnam Visit

By GEORGE MCARTHUR
CAM RANH BAY, Vietnam (AP) — The GIs got a lift from President Johnson's second secret trip Saturday to South Vietnam. They showed their pleasure, and he beamed.

Cheers that punctuated the President's speech and a rousing hip hip hooray for the commander in chief at the end left little doubt that the fighting men assembled at Cam Ranh welcomed his Christmas-season visit.

Speaking at the airfield alongside the bay, with jets flying security overhead, the President—bareheaded, in slacks and a khaki shirt—told 2,450 American servicemen assembled from all over the country that this was a time of grave challenge.

"You've met that test, there is no doubt of that," Johnson said. "And the last thing I can bring to you is the promise that your fellow Americans will meet it too. We shall not fail you. What you have done will not have been done in vain."

The President's blue and white jet slipped into Cam Ranh Bay after a brief flight from Khorat, Thailand, where Johnson had spent the night at an American-built air base and delivered a similar message to fighter-bomber pilots making the hazardous raids on North Vietnam.

An hour and 45 minutes later he took off for Karachi, Pakistan, on another leg of a round-the-world trip which began with the flight to Australia to pay tribute to the late Prime Minister Harold E. Holt.

Seen In Passing

... Gary Mortenson, a Times-News employe, was captured in this "seen" Friday night during the great blackout. In an effort to meet a deadline he had to work by the light from a single candle.

Magic

There were still four pages left to make at the Times-News. Pages one and two were left, and so were the sports pages. A good three hours remained before the press could be started.

With equipment idle, no work could be done. Candlelight helped the placement of stories that had already been cast in lead by men in the composing room. But as time went on, the situation grew critical.

A newspaper such as the Times-News depends on hot lead; lead to cast into readable type. But the lead pots began to cool.

And it became a real possibility that subscribers in the rural Magic Valley area would not receive a paper early Saturday.

But the lights came on again, and the melting pots heated up. The press rolled and the papers went out.

The "hot line," a state-wide telephone system which connects State Police departments with one another went dead. But it was a quiet night throughout the state.

The quiet was broken somewhat however by the false alarm of the automatic fire signals in schools at Nampa. There was no fire, and so the alarms were turned off. They work on batteries in case electrical wires are burned out by fire.

The blackout lasted only a short while. But when it happened everyone knew about it. Almost everyone. Those who didn't... those in bed before the outage, woke up this morning to an electric clock that was 30 minutes slow.

A Tribute to... Christmas Day!

Whether you're young or merely young in heart, the coming of Kris Kringle brings a thrill not equalled by any other holiday! Dad and Mother are busy for weeks ahead... holding secret conferences and planning what each loved one will get on Christmas morning. Yet Christmas means infinitely more than the exchanging of gifts. It commemorates the first chapter of the Greatest Story Ever Told... and it should be a time of rejoicing for it is the anniversary of Christendom. So a Merry Christmas to you all... and may your wishes be abundantly fulfilled this year and every year!

Van Winkle?

BRIGG, England (AP) — Gordon Dunderdale had 10 children when he fell asleep in front of the television. When he woke up he had 11 — and he didn't know his wife was pregnant. Neither, she said, did Mrs. Dunderdale.

The eventful night in the life of the Dunderdales started when Gordon, 28, settled down in his favorite chair to watch television. Brenda, 34, went to the kitchen to make coffee.

Gordon fell asleep. Brenda felt unwell and wondered why. She decided to slip out of the house and call at the local hospital.

She didn't wake Gordon "because I didn't want to worry him."

Gordon, meanwhile, woke up wondering where his coffee was. It wasn't in the kitchen—neither was his wife. He called police, who traced Brenda to Glenford Hospital half a mile away, where nurses were delivering a 6-pound baby boy.

Cult Believes Atomic War To Be Sunday

COPENHAGEN (AP) — Hundreds of Danes who are members of a cult led by a 46-year-old cab driver believe that an atomic war will kill two-thirds of the earth's population by midnight Sunday.

Earth won't be destroyed but millions of flying saucers will land and transport the earthlings who are left to outer space where their spiritual level will be raised, they believe. The cab driver predicting all this is Knud Welking, pronounced Viking. He says his information comes from Orthon, who he describes as leader of the galaxy that contains earth. Welking tells this story of his "vision". Orthon came to him last March. At first the cab driver only heard his voice but later he showed up in person. He has long hair and dreamy eyes. When he talks through Welking, he uses phrases from the Bible and lectures on cosmic laws. "Many people think this message is fatal, but it is really a message of joy. One third of the population on Earth will be rescued from the atomic war," says Welking. Welking says he is not the first to see and talk to Orthon. A British real estate agent from Blackpool saw him for the first time in 1961 and was told the same things, he says.

U.P. Railroad Pays Taxes In Lincoln

SHOSHONE — More than a third of Lincoln County's property taxes were paid in one check Thursday as Union Pacific Railroad made its tax payment for the first half of 1967.

A. J. Johnson, land and tax agent from Salt Lake City, delivered the check for $107,165 to county treasurer, Myron D. Johnson, to cover half the railroad's $214,330 property tax bill in the county this year.

Mr. Johnson said the total railroad property tax in Idaho this year shows an increase of almost 12 per cent over 1966 taxes.

The Union Pacific's total tax bill in Idaho for 1967, including Pacific Fruit Express Co. taxes, will be more than $4,000,000. The company's payroll in the state this year will be over $25,000,000.

Combat Logistics Squadron Noted

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP)—A new combat logistics support squadron has been organized at Hill Air Force Base.

Maj. Gen. Robert H. McCutcheon, Ogden Air Materiel Area commander, said Friday the squadron eventually will include 364 military personnel. Some 150 men have been assigned thus far, he said.

McCutcheon said the squadron will provide fast logistic response to major air commands on a world-wide basis.

The squadron will repair crash damaged aircraft, do aircraft modifications and resolve transportation and supply snarls, McCutcheon said.

The Hill squadron will be the largest of five such squadrons organized Dec. 1 by the Air Force, he said.

What Might Have Happened In The Stable

WASHINGTON—Now at last, after their long journey from the East, the Three Wise Men had arrived in Bethlehem to pay homage to the Babe of Peace. They had followed the Great Star, and it had led them to the little stable near the inn. The Star had gone before them "till it came and stood over where the young Child lay." The Wise Men were surprised and a little chagrined to find this infant, who was to be mankind's Savior, lodged in such humble surroundings. But there was no doubt that this was the place, for there was the Star shining overhead. And so, although tired and worn, the Three Wise Men prepared to present themselves to the Babe. They set their servants to work on their camel packs, untying ropes and unwrapping the gifts they had brought for the King of Kings. There were gold and jewels, and there were robes of finely spun gold and silver cloth. Frankincense and myrrh suffused the air with their pungent aromas. Each Wise Man ordered that his own gifts be piled outside the stable, and then bade his servants to carry them inside. The servants were warned to be careful and not drop anything. As the Wise Men entered the stable they were annoyed to find that other persons had come before them. The worshippers appeared to be shepherds—ragged, unshorn men in soiled and tattered garments. One of these shepherds held the hand of a little boy of about seven, whose other hand clutched a small piece of wood crudely carved in the form of a lamb. The shepherds seemed to sense the Wise Men's disapproval, for they fell back, bowing, so that the Wise Men might approach the manger. The shepherd with the little boy had to tug at him to get him to step back. The little boy was clinging to the manger, and as the father pulled him away the lad dropped his toy lamb into the crib. Now the Wise Men approached the manger and knelt before the Child. A halo of gold shone round the infant's head, so that the visitors could barely make out the Holy Couple in the background. The Wise Men knelt there, awed by the Babe's Presence, humble before His goodness. Meanwhile, the servants struggled forward with their costly burdens and laid the gifts at the feet of the child. In the process, some of the gems and gold coins poured out of their bags and into the manger. The Child lay there for a moment, unmoving. Then one hand came up from His side and reached out and touched something, and closed over it. The Child smiled. And from the door of the stable came the happy voice of the shepherd's little boy. "It's my lamb!" he cried, his eyes shining with delight. "He reached for my lamb!"

Christmas

It is the mental bent of some to think of Christmas as having lost its meaning, that man by his inventions and materialistic concepts has somehow smothered with tinsel the eternal verities of which the herald angels sang.

But Christmas is enduring. It is that reach for ideals, beyond man's instant grasp, by which the human race inches upward, and on Christmas Eve it is good to remember that the tidings of great joy were to all people.

The world is better than it was when Jesus was born. Then every subjected person was a slave, ground down by toll, taxes and the lash. Babes were in danger of slaughter if the tyrant thought a rival king had been born. Justice and mercy were exceptions, not the rule.

Jesus, the Son of God, brought a new concept, dramatized by His later life on earth. For two thousand years this concept has been encouraging men to promote justice, to love mercy and to resist the cruelties of their rulers.

It may be said that in many lands today there are injustices similar to those of the Judea of the original Christmas. But there is this vital difference: The mighty leaven of the Christian ethic—the love of justice and mercy, the rights of others, the dignity of man—has become so thoroughly implanted that most modern despots have fallen before outraged mankind.

Christmas abides because it impels men toward higher ground, discarding their errors and woes as they climb. No tinsel can ever obscure the beautiful Christmas message which bids man seek his destiny in the upper reaches of the spirit.

MR. SPECTATOR

Is Santa A Hippy?

Is everyone with long hair, a beard and wearing peculiar clothes a Hippy? It sort of fits the accepted description but then that description fits another fellow by the name of Mr. Santa Claus.

Just the other day Mr. Spectator overheard Jan Sainsbury, the Times-News feature editor, trying to explain to his seven-year-old daughter that Santa, indeed, isn't a Hippy.

At Mr. Spectator's request, Mr. Sainsbury put the thoughts he expressed to his daughter in writing. We would like to share these thoughts with all of you, so here goes:

No, Darling, Santa Claus isn't a Hippy. I know that he wears a long beard and dresses funny—but he's not a Hippy. How do I know?

In the first place Santa Claus has a right to dress in any way he wants. He has earned that right. For years he has done only good, and during that time, even though winds were cold, and the snow was wet, he never hurt anyone. All he ever did was to bring happiness to others. And someone who gives his life to make others happy can dress any way he wants to—and if he wants to wear a beard, it's his business.

I seem to remember someone else dressing in odd clothing and wearing a beard, who gave his life for others . . . but then, that's another story for another night.

Getting back to Santa, Darling . . . and what I said about his right to dress any way he wants to . . . it's true. But, it doesn't make him a Hippy.

Too many people use the excuse of being a Hippy in order to get out of work, or duty in their country's armed services, or for that matter any responsibility at all. They fail to see why Santa isn't really one of them. But the real difference is simple.

Hippies today do more harm than good. And most are totally selfish. They harm their country in a hundred ways, but most importantly they disregard this country's rules of conduct and written laws rather than working to have those laws changed within the framework their fathers established as being just to all the people.

They disregard the rights of other people to engage in activities they believe in. And it is just as wrong to dictate how a man should behave as to disallow any opportunity to believe at all.

And, Darling, as I said before, Santa has done only that which is good. He knows no politics and has never taken sides in a war, which is the making of man.

Right or wrong, the war is real, and it was created by man within the structure of man's laws. And it must be solved in the same manner—or whatever the result, it will be of no value.

What good is peace in a country without laws to protect a man and his family? What good is peace if there is no respect for the opinions of the many and the rights of the few?

But don't get me wrong, Darling. I don't deny the Hippies their right to be idle, and to condemn the industry of others trying to make life a bit better by the only means they have. I only object, and strongly, to their disregard for the laws of this country, which give them that right of dissent.

Without respect for one law, all laws are meaningless.

And, Darling, even though I love you more than you are capable of understanding, I hope you never live to see the day when there is no respect for the laws and the way of life Americans have died to preserve.

I know you won't understand, Darling, most of us adults don't really know what we're talking about—but, I do know I don't agree with everything that's going on in the war we're now fighting. Still, if I were called again to serve in the armed forces—I'd go. Even though, personally, I, too, feel it is not a war we should be involved in as deeply as we are.

Nevertheless, Darling, I would go because the laws of our country tell us to. I, like some others, feel the current way of selecting those who serve is unjust. But, right or wrong, it is the current way.

We, as Americans, have three choices: We can serve when we are called; we can work to have the law changed within the framework of our Constitution; or we can disregard the laws of this land and burn our draft cards, and picket our draft boards. But that third choice is really no choice at all—it is rebellion.

And rebellion should be reserved for oppressive governments under which one has no other recourse.

Santa Claus, my Darling, wouldn't really understand either. I'm afraid. Protest rallies are not part of his gigantic bag. For Santa, the only protest possible is one against an unhappy Christmas.

Maybe Santa's field of vision is too narrow. Maybe he just can't see beyond the several weeks before and after Christmas. Or maybe he is so busy trying to do good work for millions of young people just like you, that he has no time for the unlikely situation we adults have found ourselves in.

Besides, Santa is your special friend. He is the sole property of boys and girls: Between you and me, Darling, we adults don't get presents for being good. Our only reward is a better world, and that's not always possible.

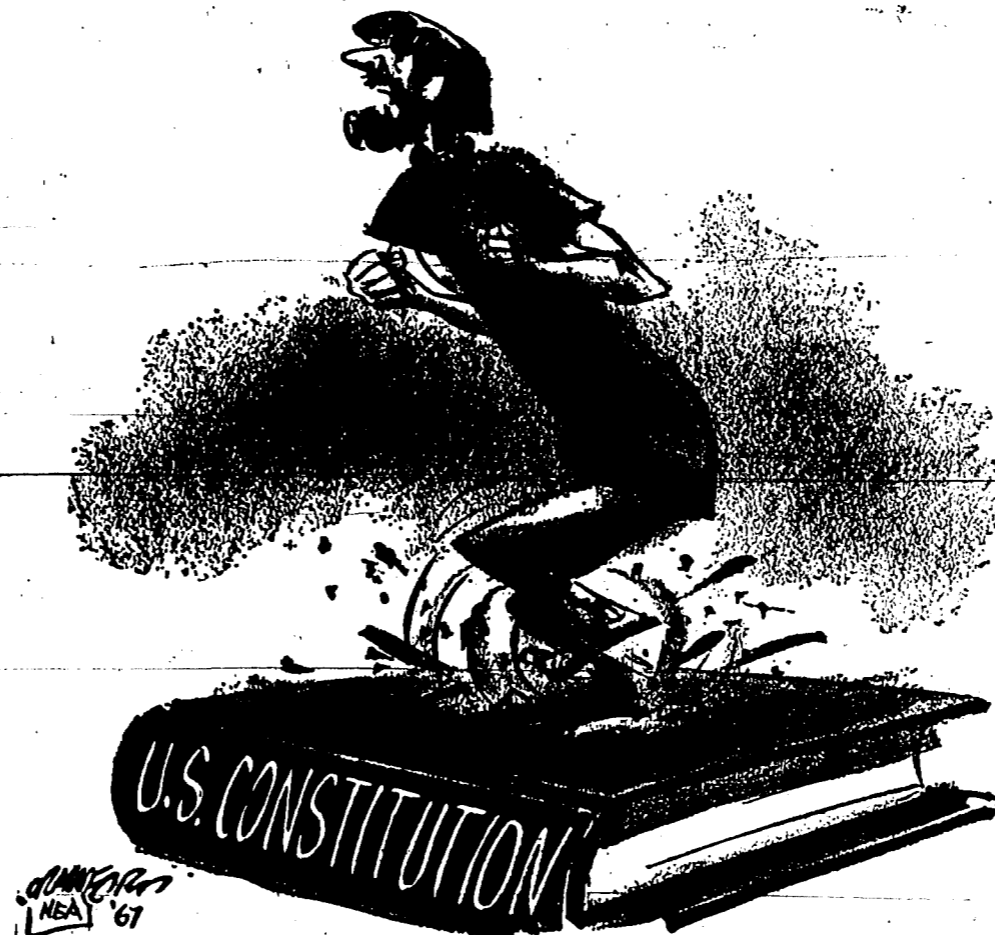

All I can really say, Darling, is that one day you will live in a world formed and ruled by laws you did not make. People older than you, your mother and I, for instance, will have helped make those rules. If they are right, then we have made this world a better place for you to live in. If they are wrong, Darling, please change them for your children. It is the least you can do.

But most of all, Darling, remember that most men want peace, and they work at it constantly. Ways may differ, and solutions which may have worked are never tried. When you're old enough, Darling, try some of your own.

Don't consider the Hippies for all they do, or don't do. They have the right to be different, within limits. And they have that right because they are Americans—even if most of them fail to realize it, or just don't care.

No, Darling, Santa Claus isn't a Hippy. Despite his beard and his funny clothes, he is much, much too smart for that. God bless you, Darling. Good Night.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

Favorite Sons--The Key Role

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Confusion seems to be building over the role the many prospective Republican "favorite sons" may try to play—or be forced into—in the 1968 presidential nomination fight.

Included in the likely lineup, of course, are such men as Governors Nelson Rockefeller of New York, James Rhodes of Ohio, Raymond Shafer of Pennsylvania, John Volpe of Massachusetts, Claude Kirk of Florida, Ronald Reagan of California, and Senators Charles Percy of Illinois, John Tower of Texas and Clifford Case of New Jersey.

Some party professional sources, mostly moderate types, are saying that the 1968 situation will stay fluid enough to permit the nomination of Rockefeller at Miami Beach if some of the listed favorite sons—plus other lesser ones—can be held in a sort of loose confederation until then.

On the other hand, it has been tossed out that a Richard Nixon, on a possible winning course, might try to brush some of the big-state favorite sons down like tennis and collect them and their delegates in an irresistible push to the nomination.

First off, it can be stated categorically that Richard Nixon does not intend to enter a single big-state presidential primary where a major favorite son is in prospect. Nixon's strategy has never contemplated this, and sources in New York indicate there has been no change. Indeed, in three of the states mentioned, Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Illinois, convention delegates are not even bound to follow the primary results. Nixon could win and get nothing.

The indications that he might try to bulldoze the key favorite sons came as a rather accidental happening. Nixon agents moved swiftly to inform them that these signs were not the true ones. The impression left by the first reports may not, however, prove altogether helpful. Some of the favorite sons in question, including Rhodes, Shafer and Volpe, are already in a skeptical frame of mind with respect to Nixon.

At least a few party figures believe that these and other GOP leaders will, in fact, keep their large delegations uncommitted until nearly convention eve, and that they will supply the crucial nucleus and much of the delegate mass needed to put over Rockefeller as 1968 nominee.

History is not exactly on the side of these forecasters. Favorite sons tend to melt away in the heat of pre-convention pressures which build for the front-runner who may be winning primaries and piling up delegates in a host of state conventions. If either Nixon or Reagan should get into that strong lead position by early next summer, it will not be easy for the favorite sons to stay in a resisting coalition.

One of their number, Volpe, said at the recent Governors Conference in Palm Beach that at least half the 26 GOP governors might wind up endorsing Nixon in early June if by then he had a commanding lead. Other governors gave similar indications.

Yet it is abundantly clear that many of these governors and other likely favorite sons might like to keep their huge blocks of delegates (just about enough to stop anybody from nomination) off the candidate market until the balloting begins. Their problem may be how to stay "fluid." In the face of possible front-runner heat, without some positive encouragement from the presently reluctant Rockefeller and leaders working unmistakably in his behalf.

Some party men say Rockefeller's only hope is to do nothing and have nothing done for him until the last minute. But politics is motion. Somebody, else may be nominated while some favorite sons and others are engaged in strategic inaction.

BARRY GOLDWATER

A Mixed Blessing

New increases in Social Security benefits are a mixed blessing at best. At worst they are a clear threat to the security of the entire system.

Many have, for years, warned against putting too great a strain on the Social Security system lest it become, like the one in France, crushed down to the point of virtual bankruptcy. For their pains, most who have issued such warnings have been belabored as foes of Social Security rather than its friends.

Every American who has stake in Social Security should do some honest thinking about just who is and who is not a friend of the system.

Look at the increases in benefits that most recently have been proposed. For anyone who looks only at headlines, the proposal is fine. It calls for a 13% increase in benefits. There are very few people who object to getting more money, and there are very few who will closely examine where it is coming from.

The source—as with any government spending scheme—is you. Government can never give anyone a penny that it has not first taken away from someone else. No matter how you slice it, the Social Security system is not an insurance system in which investors get back an equal return on what they put in. The system is a flat tax system and must be considered realistically as such.

The benefits, therefore, will come out of an increase in taxes. The way this is to be accomplished is by raising the taxable base on which Social Security tax payments are made. Up until now, the tax has been priced out of income up to the first $6,600.

To finance the increase in benefits, this base will first be raised to $7,600. That means that everyone with an income in that range will be paying taxes on $1,000 more of his income next year than last year—to finance the boost in benefits.

In future years, it is envisioned that the taxable base will be raised at least to the $10,000 level. It is hard to see how the raises can stop there. And it seems fairly safe to assume that the percentage of tax slappers on these incomes will have to rise and rise.

Already it is planned that the tax rate will go from the present level to 4.4% to nearly 6% in 1967. But that isn't the whole story, either. You have to double that rate to get a true picture. You pay nearly 5% of your wages to the system and your employer pays the same. After a while, the total paid will equal about 12% of your wages.

Many younger workers will never get back what they have been forced to put in. If the system was like insurance, this sorry state probably could be avoided.

But so sensitive have nerves become in this area that any attempt to take an honest, frank look at the system usually is defeated by demagoguery.

In 1949 the system had enough money on hand to pay benefits for nearly half a century. Today it is said to have only enough on hand to pay benefits for one short year and must depend on new, young workers coming in just to keep even.

The best friends Social Security ever has had are those men who want to keep it sound, even if it means taking a close look at its flaws. The real foes of the system are those who, for political benefit, are willing to burden it far beyond safe and sane limits.

DON MACLEAN

To A Young Bride

WASHINGTON — There are certain things every young bride of a Marine should know. This goes for the Colonel's lady, Maize O'Grady or even the President's daughter. Speaking as a former Marine, today I have a few things to say to Lynda Bird which I'm sure will help her in her marriage to Capt. Charles Robb, USMC.

For one thing, any woman who married a Marine (or even an ex-Marine, for that matter) should consider herself among the most fortunate creatures on earth. Throughout a anything that might happen (squabbles, etc.) and despite anything the husband might do to annoy her, the wife of a Marine should remain silent and forgiving — out of sheer gratitude for a Marine having chosen her in the first place.

My own wife has come to understand this and while she seemed to be having some inner struggle in the beginning—even showing a tendency to speak out on occasion—I have not lately had to discipline her by keeping her standing at attention in the sun.

By now I imagine that Capt. Robb will have posted his first orders of the day. If they resemble the ones I tucked up in our kitchen, they probably read like this:

"Reville will be at 0630 for all personnel other than the Commanding Officer. Said personnel will immediately turn to preparing rations and policing the area. Chow will go within five minutes of the time the Commanding Officer gets up and it will be held in absolute silence." "The Commanding Officer will depart the post at 0830, at which time he will give the remaining personnel at least one kiss, but not more than two. While he is gone, remaining personnel will return to policing the area and will lay in whatever supplies are necessary. On most occasions the C. O. will return at 1830, at which time there will be a white-glove inspection of the quarters." "Evening chow will go at 2100. On the first day of every month, there will be a review of various cash disbursements. Any expenditures exceeding those previously prescribed by the Commanding Officer will be cause for disciplinary action. Such punishment shall be in accordance with the U.S. Code of Military Justice and may consist of restriction of television privileges or, in extreme cases, a moratorium on hugs and squeezes.

"For security reasons the Commanding Officer is not to be questioned should he be late for evening chow."

No doubt other orders will have to be issued from time to time, but by using these as a guide I'm sure Lynda Bird won't have any trouble.

There's probably an easy explanation to why LBJ is having so much bad luck lately; he probably broke one of those chain letters.

There's a new album called, "Christmas With Everett McKinley Dirksen." Ah, he's a Jolly old elf.

Pity those folks who predicted the end of the world in 1967; now they're out buying '68 calendars at the last minute.

One thing I'd like to give Stokely Carmichael for Christmas: Citizenship in some other country.

GETS LIFE
BOISE (AP)—Edward J. Quinlivan, 41, was sentenced to life imprisonment Friday for setting a fire in which his wife was fatally burned.
Quinlivan was convicted of first degree murder this fall in the June 16 fire at the Quinlivan home in Boise.
Blanche Quinlivan died July 9 of burns received in the fire. Quinlivan was accused of setting fire to his home after pouring gasoline on his wife and the house.

Glenns Ferry Honor List Is Released

GLENN'S FERRY — Sophomores led in high honors at Glenns Ferry High School for the second grading period, with four students on the 4.0 level.
They were Becky Gray, Diana Hoalst, Virginia Moats, and Phyllis Russell.

Other sophomores on the roll were Dale McCleary, Ginger Seese, Mike Shenk, Rocky Trail, Christine Graham, Rosanna King, Celia Black, Karl Koch, and Anne Woolen.

There were three seniors on the 4.0 level, Janet Moats, Doug Shenk, Dorothy Sherman. Others making the roll were Joan Barnes, Connie Jones, Bill Layne, Diana Keck, Gloria Hansen, George Lake, Dreda Godfrey, Bob Parish, Tere Meserole, and Jane Watson.
Two juniors on the 4.0 listing were Lorene Benson, Chris Williams, and others included Maxine Hoolley, Tom Seese, Lenny Anderson, Ernest Hamilton, Jill Tripp, Connie Brown, and Pat South.

There were two freshmen making the honor roll, Debra McKeeth and Pat Pasborg.

Richfield Club Sold To Couple

RICHFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. Martin Allred have announced purchase of the Pheasant Club, Cafe and Motel at Richfield.
Mrs. Allred had formerly leased the cafe from William E. Swan, who had been in the cafe business in Richfield the past twenty years.
Mr. Allred, a Richfield farmer, is managing the club. The family has moved to the residence, included in the sale, across from the business on highway 93.
Mr. Allred announced plans for live music each Saturday night at the club. He plays the guitar.

TAKES "TRIP"
POCATELLO (AP) — Steven Jablonsky, 24, a local ambulance driver, took an unanticipated trip in his ambulance Saturday.
He was on his way home after going off duty when his car was struck by a station wagon at Benton and Tenth. The ambulance which answered the emergency call was the one he had been driving 15 minutes before the accident.
Jablonsky suffered a knot on his head and was admitted to Bannock Memorial Hospital for observation.

URGES HONESTY
BOISE (AP) — Idaho Republican Chairman John O. McMurray Saturday called on Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, "to be honest with the people by telling them whether he supports Sen. Eugene McCarthy or President Johnson."
McCarthy, D-Minn., has announced his intention to oppose Johnson in several Democratic primaries as a "peace candidate" on the issue of Vietnam.
McCarthy, D-Minn., has announced his intention to oppose Johnson in several Democratic primaries as a "peace candidate" on the issue of Vietnam.

Church's view on the war and that of Mc Carthy, said McMurray, "seem to be identical."
The Republican Chief contended Democrat Church "has consistently been undermining President Johnson in this country's war efforts in Vietnam to halt Communist aggression."
Church's view on the war and that of Mc Carthy, said McMurray, "seem to be identical."

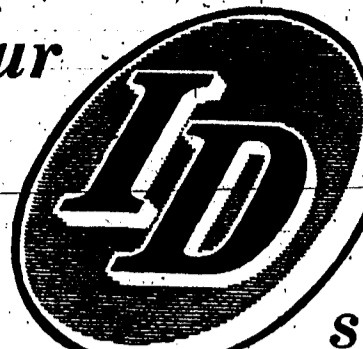

SKIING CONTINUES
BOISE (AP) — Rain fell at lower elevations in the Bogus Basin Ski Area north of Boise, but skiing continued as usual with lifts running Saturday.
The resort reported that three chairlifts, the upper Pomalift and two rope lifts were in operation. The road between Boise and Bogus was snow covered and chains or snow tires were advised.

TOLL REPORTED
BOISE (AP) — Idaho entered its ninth day without a traffic fatality Saturday and Idaho State Police expressed hope the holiday season would pass without further highway deaths.
The latest traffic death occurred Dec. 14, bringing the cumulative total for 1967 to 270. That is just two less than the all-time high of 272 set in 1962.

The 1966 all-year total of 267 was passed early in the month. A spokesman for the state force said no special precautions are being taken this weekend. Patrolmen will work regular shifts and no men have been added for the Christmas holiday.
But the troopers will be out in force for the New Year's holiday. All patrolmen and cars will be on the highways beginning the evening of Dec. 31.

In the past, state police have dispensed free coffee to motorists at ports of entry.

GIFT EXCHANGE
FILER — Filer Civic Club members held a Christmas party and gift exchange at the home of Mrs. James Steelsmith. Mrs. Don Liernman was hostess for a barbecue supper for members and husbands after which the group repaired the toys for the Christmas baskets distributed by the American Legion Auxiliary.

Buhl Has Study On Education

BUHL — The first meeting of the 68-member committee from the Buhl School District participating in the "Task force for Education" was held last week at the Buhl elementary school with Rex Engelking, superintendent, outlining the function of the committee.

The critical evaluation of the program in the Buhl School is a part of an eight-state project entitled "Designing Education for the Future." The newly created Idaho Advisory Council on Education is directing the evaluation study and has requested each Idaho school district call upon lay people, school trustees, and professional school staff members to analyze and evaluate present programs of education. The guide being used in the study is a National Education Association publication, "Profiles of Excellence."

Each committee member was given a copy of the guide book with small group assignments made to cover specific areas. Each of the smaller groups will be meeting several times for comparison of notes and research information. Another meeting of the entire committee will be held Jan. 12, at which time conclusions will be presented in each of the five major fields of discussion.

Educational program committee members include Dr. H. E. Hammerquist, chairman; Mrs. Lucile Heyer and Mrs. Dorothy Machack, consultants; Wes Keeny, John Barker, Dr. Charles Culling, Robert Bailey, Dr. Garth Atwood, Mrs. Clyde Cox, Harry Wilson, Mrs. Morris Sattagast, Mrs. Dynn Lauritzen, Dale Christensen, Gary Post, Darrel McRoberts and Dave Munroe.

The administrative operation committee consists of Alfred Dais, chairman; Lee Poppewell, Bernard Hopwood, Ted Pence, Gene Hopkins, Bill Atkins, Dick Snow, Mrs. Georgia Thompson, Ted Behm, Raymond Hill, Mrs. Calvin Parrott, and Mrs. Audrey Sisson.

Staff and personnel policies and procedures committee: Dick Cantrell, chairman; George Goodner, Charles Humphries, Henry Savage, Avery Kirkham, Mrs. Lee Mathews, Barton Sonner, Arlin Freeman, Charles Lunte, Mrs. Don Watson, Mrs. Robert Erkins, Mike Felton, Don Miller, Mrs. Mel Carter, Pat Hamilton, Henry Eslinger and Dr. Tom Tappen.

Serving on the school plant district organization, finance and business administration committee are John Miracle, chairman; Lois Rudy, Leonard Leth, Bill Roberts, Jerry Wray, Monte Davis, Shelby Williams, Bill Watt, Gail Wright, Bob Erb, Fred Brailford and Mrs. Margaret Gibes.

Conditions of professional service and the local professional association: Harold Traxler, chairman; Darrell Suber, Bob Sept, Mrs. Arnold Svancara, Mrs. Jane Fritz, Gene Thomas, Warren Saunders, Bib McManaman, John Hepworth, Jim Smallwood, and Mrs. Harold Traxler.

THE OPERATIONS MANAGER at the newly opened First Security Bank in Ketchum, Jon Baker, sits at his roll-top desk of another era. On his desk is an old telephone and a gold scale is nearby, in case customers bring heavy yellow stuff in from the hills. Open house at the bank was held earlier this week.

Ketchum's 1st Security Bank Opens In Style Of Old West

KETCHUM — With the grand opening of the new Ketchum branch of the First Security Bank of Idaho one of the most distinctive banks in America started business.

Doors opened last week, amid all the splendor of the old west. Those who walked through the front doors of the new "western" bank — housed in one of the village's oldest buildings — walked into the 1880s.

Gangs Join Forces To Work Good

CHICAGO (AP) — A year ago they were enemies, but they joined forces for a common goal — to bring Christmas and Santa Claus to deprived children on Chicago's West Side.

Fourteen members of three once-violent West Side gangs donned white beards, red and white suits and caps and delivered 6,000 donated toys Friday to youngsters in 35 settlement houses and youth centers in the Lawndale section.

Gayland Hunter, 18, one of the Santas for a day, said when asked if the youngsters were surprised to see a Negro Santa: "If there can be a red-nosed reindeer, there can be a black Santa."

Hunter was solemn for a moment, and then burst forth with another jolly ho-ho-ho.

"The toys we give will be Christmas for most of the kids," said another Santa, husky Edward Nash, 23.

"A lot of the parents here have a hard time finding a dollar for a present," he said.

Nash's younger brother, Martin, 20, recalled: "When I was a kid, I celebrated the best way I could — out on the streets — it didn't seem like anyone cared."

Cmdr. George Sims of the North Lawndale police district said the three gangs — the Roman Saints, Conservative Vice Lords and Egyptian Cobras — "were the most active and violent gangs on the West Side."

"We're not gangs anymore," Edward Nash said. "We call ourselves groups. Some of the members needed talking to, but the majority rules."

The change from gangs to groups began about a year ago, explained Charles Curry, area director of Youth Action, a cooperative effort of West Side Boys' Clubs. The youths now have channeled their energies from violence to community service, Curry said.

Gang leaders, representing 2,000 members, told police last July they were being urged by militants to form a "black youth alliance" and take up arms.

In August, the gang leaders, police, city officials, youth center leaders and representatives of industry formed operation Bootstrap. Its aim is to provide better housing, education, jobs, recreation and better relations with police in Lawndale.

Snowplow Crew Airlifted To Help Indians

HILL AIR FORCE BASE, Utah (AP) — A 12-ton snowplow and its two drivers from Fort Hall Indian Reservation were airlifted to New Mexico Friday to help clear roads in the snowed-in Navajo Indian Reservation.

The hop was made in 2 1/2 hours in a C-124 Globemaster of the 845th Military Airlift Group (Reserve).

Drivers of the snow plow were Regional William Gould and Neil W. Trahan. Pilots of the plane were Maj. Howard Richardson, Ogden, and Richard C. Swainston, Preston, Idaho.

The four-engine Globemaster is the only Air Force reserve aircraft capable of hauling snowplows.

The Air Force is making the flights at the request of the Department of Interior to help thousands of snow-bound Navajos.

Two snow cats from Thikol Chemical Corp., weighing about 5,000 each, were flown to New Mexico Thursday. The 945th expects to fly at least nine such missions in the next few days.

Rupert Council Okays Short-Term Budget

RUPERT — The Rupert City Council approved ordinance 464, an interim expenditure law, to provide funds in the amount of $150,000 to operate the city until the 1968 budget can be completed.

Ordinance 465 concerning the creation of Local Improvement District 11 was also approved. LID 11 is in the northeast part of the city and provides for improvement of curbing, gutters and storm sewers.

A fiscal agent will be hired to sell bonds for the Improvement District.

Reports from department heads on work done during the past year were heard.

Elmer Schenk, city electrician recommended hiring Ralph Langford for his department and the council approved the recommendation.

Police Chief Ed Culver reported that the police reserve is now working at the high school under the direction of the sheriff's office, to help with games and other activities. The school will be responsible for any compensation.

Sgt. Don Reed and Capt. Arnold Hirsch of the police reserve presented the mayor with a check for $300 for lighting of the new park in the Big Valley subdivision.

The council voted to change the fireworks ordinance to permit the sale of fireworks from June 1 to Aug. 1. Previously, sales were not permitted until just before July 4.

Mr. Schenk reported on the cost per lot of underground wiring compared with overhead wiring for the Big Valley subdivision.

The council members were told that the Rupert Highway District will build bridges needed at the outskirts of the city but that if walkways are desired, the cost of construction will be the responsibility of the city.

Councilman Harold Carroway reported that the state retirement program now includes elective and appointive officers retro-active to June 1, 1967.

The council agreed that since the city benefits from sewer lines to Magic Valley Foods, the industry would not be charged for them but since electric lines

Six Inmates Escape Jail

By DON MCLEOD
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Six inmates of Nashville Metro Jail stood around unobtrusively, with a bound guard hidden under a bunk, while Salvation Army workers handed out Christmas gifts.

Then the daring team completed their escape from a third-floor cell block with a rope made of bed sheets Friday night.

Three of them were captured a short time later.

Rookie guard Ralph Cruz, 34, in his second day on the job, said he and trusty Ellis Baucom were walking along a corridor in the cell block when a prisoner held up a note to be sent out.

"This fellow asked me to open the door and I did," Cruz said. "Then they jumped us. One of them grabbed Baucom and had a knife at his throat."

"The next thing I knew, one of them had a knife in my throat and another had a knife in my back. They said, 'don't say anything or we'll kill you.'"

Cruz said the prisoners placed a gag over his mouth, tied him hand-and-foot-and-slid him under a bunk.

"They started to tie up Baucom, but some Salvation Army workers came through passing out Christmas gifts and they had to wait until they had passed through," Cruz said.

With the way once again clear, the prisoners forced Baucom to tell them which key unlocked the back door to the cell area, Cruz said. They used the big jail keys to pry open a window and let themselves down three floors by a rope made of about 50 bed sheets.

They were believed to have made their getaway in a paddy wagon which police were unable to account for early today.

Oh, Well

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — The unpredictability of congressional adjournment is underlined by a Christmas greeting to Montanans from Sen. Les Metcalf, D-Mont.

The note says in parts, "unfortunately, this year Congress will stay in session until the end of the year and we will be unable to return home. So Donna, Mrs. Metcalf and I will be spending a quiet Christmas here in Washington . . ."

Congress adjourned Dec. 16.

Heart Device Is Successful

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A team of surgeons has successfully inserted an electronic device to maintain the normal heartbeat of 101-year-old Hugh Chambers Steward.

Afterward the Ireland-born, great grandfather looked past his surgeons — who used a newly developed heart-saving technique and spotted his nurses.

"Kiss one of the ladies for me," he smiled after the 1 1/2 hours of surgery Friday.

Surgeons said Steward, born Sept. 5, 1866, in Dromore, Ireland, is one of the oldest persons on record to benefit from the new technique. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

The electronic device is known as a Pacemaker and is about the size of a woman's compact. It is embedded between the ribs and the skin in superficial tissues of the chest and a wire leads to the chest.

It artificially produces the normal impulse that shoots some 70 times a minute from the top of the heart down to the bottom, causing blood to be pumped.

Treasure Found

MOSCOW (AP) — Tass reported a gale in Soviet Lithuania uprooted an apple tree and uncovered a buried treasure of gold coins including some minted in the United States in 1824.

The news agency said the discovery was made by school children at Kaunas but did not estimate the value or speculate on how the U.S. coins got there.

TOPS OR BUST

CASTLEFORD — The Castleford Tops or Bust Club held a Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Judith Smith, Buhl. A contest was held for the month of December for the one who lost the most with the prizes going to Mrs. Amos Williams. Total loss for the club was 38 1/2 pounds. A low calorie dessert was served by the hostess.

A CHRISTMAS TO NEW YEAR'S program of evangelism is planned at the First Church of the Nazarene. The series will begin each evening, Tuesday through Saturday, at 7:30. A team of young people from Idaho and Oregon will perform as a choir at the evening services. The speaker will be Rev. Danny Pyle of Ontario, Ore. The public is invited to attend. Above is the choir which will appear. The church is at 401 Sixth Ave. No.

Spirit Of Christmas May Not Prevail In Bethlehem

By ED BLANCHE
BETHELEHEM, Israel—This town where Christ was born waited dismally today for Christmas with the feeling the Israelis may have checked the yule spirit with red tape.

And if the stormy weather that has swept the little hilltop town with gales and rain for the last few days does not relent, Bethlehem fears few will turn up.

Not many of the 20,000 visitors Mayor Elias Bandak expected have appeared so far. But officials and merchants—who stand to lose a good part of an estimated $500,000 in Christmas trade—are still hoping they will come.

"Christmas has been rather tightly organized by the Israelis," said town clerk Jamal Saliman.

Occupation authorities have banned all traffic from the town on Christmas eve and Christmas day in anticipation of the expected rush. Cars and buses must park outside Bethlehem and pilgrims must walk into town.

"If the weather is bad, only the faithful will do that," Saliman said.

Only pilgrims with special passes will be allowed into Bethlehem to worship. About 1,000 will be lucky enough to attend midnight mass in the 1,600-year-old church of the Nativity, built on the site of the stable where tradition says Jesus was born.

"The Jordanians didn't go to such lengths," Saliman said. "They didn't ban cars and issue passes. People just came here. The most Amman did in organization was send in a few more policemen."

Israel, planning for 20,000 pilgrims from America, Europe, Israel and Arab neighbors, has assigned extra policemen for duty in Bethlehem and Jerusalem to cope with them. But there was little evidence of a rush to Bethlehem.

The town's five hotels, normally well booked over Christmas, report only empty rooms, although Tel Aviv and Jerusalem hotels are almost full.

The desk clerk at the Palace Hotel next to the Church of the Nativity had only one booking, an American from Pittsburgh.

"This talk of thousands of pilgrims is nothing but propaganda," Saliman declared. "It looks like a very unimpressive Christmas."

Some officials noted veiled warnings from Arab saboteurs for pilgrims to stay away from Bethlehem over Christmas may have scared some off.

But the Israelis reported rounding up this week 56 saboteurs who were reported planning to concentrate around Bethlehem.

Bethlehem was depressing. There was little sign of Christmas joy as icy winds drove rain in sheets across the rocky hills. Torrents of muddy water gushed down narrow cobbled alleyways to empty into Manger Square, already a sea of flooded potholes.

A tiny Christmas tree stood limply outside police headquarters, a gift from the Israelis. A few decorations hung sadly from the town's traditional Christmas tree, gnarled and branchless in the square.

John MacKay To Lead Masonic Lodge In Filer

FILER — John MacKay will lead Filer Masonic Lodge No. 55, AF and AM, as worshipful master for the coming year.

He was recently installed by Clinton Dougherty, installing master, and Raymond Reichert, installing marshal.

Other officers installed include Richard Tucker, senior warden; Elwood McCauley, junior warden; Merle Allen, treasurer; James Miller, secretary; Arthur Chatburn, senior deacon; and Vincent Herd, junior deacon.

Refreshments were served by past master, Rex Reed and Mrs. Reed, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Duane Ramseyer and Mr. and Mrs. Dougherty.

Burns To Death

MANHATTAN BEACH, Calif. (AP)—"I'm on fire," the voice on the telephone told the fire department.

Then the caller dropped the phone without saying where he was.

By the time firemen had traced the call to an old frame apartment building, Friday, they found Vernon Sharum, 57, dead.

The fire was believed to have been started by a faulty electric extension cord.

Film Revealed

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The opening of a film dealing with interracial marriage had a second feature of seven American Nazi Party picketers being beaten by a crowd of some 50 angry young men.

The unformed Nazis carried signs saying "Race-Mix Movies are Jewish" and "Black and White Together Make a Scummy (sic) Sick Gray" as they marched Friday night in front of a theater showing "Guess who's Coming to Dinner?"

The jeering crowd knocked the marchers into the street, bloodying some of them. No arrests were made and the picketers sped off in a station wagon.

Before the picketing, a spokesman at the party's El Monte headquarters said the demonstration was not authorized.

Fallout Shelter Is Rupert Classroom

RUPERT — Classes are being completed the course. Eight hours were spent in the classroom prior to an eight-hour stay in a fallout shelter in the Catholic Convent which is the only licensed group shelter in the county. There are a few private ones.

The six class members and nine others, family members and friends, went into the shelter at 9 p.m. Friday and stayed until 3 a.m. Saturday.

The hours in the shelter were spent holding classes, showing films and proceeding as if under attack. Dry dehydrated crackers, which are the rations stocked in shelters, were eaten and the water was rationed. Chemical toilet facilities were set up. Sleeping bags were taken and some of the group slept. A security watch was also maintained. Shelter for 17,000 persons is needed in the county and the federal government will stock shelters with the necessary supplies, the crackers which contain all of the nutrients required to sustain life, water barrels, and medical kits. Starting dates for new classes will be announced.

A corp of army engineers made a study of the power house and administration building at Minidoka Dam and found them suitable for shelters. The two together would house 300.

However, there has been some red tape in getting approval for this purpose. Authorities refused to give consent as there is danger of electrocution when generators are in operation, but orders have now been received to shut down operations and switch to an emergency power supply in case of a nuclear attack.

Permission has been granted for its use. Mr. Falkner pointed out that

Ore-Ida Food Plants Close During Holiday

BURLEY — Ore-Ida Food, Burley, plants one and two closed Saturday night and will resume operation Jan. 2 on all three shifts.

Only a skeleton crew will be working during the shutdown, officials stated.

A Christmas dinner was held last week for employees at plant two and plant one held a Christmas dinner Friday.

Operations of the plants this year started in September and at present there is no estimated date for completion of the season's potato run.

Deep Six Test Proves Very Interesting To Kimberly Youths Bored With Winter

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

In the early spring about 17 years ago when the snow had melted and the boys in Kimberly were in that between time when there is no basketball, fishing or hunting, an idea began to form. It developed quickly, for that is the way all good projects begin.

Perhaps it all started when my friend first read that article in National Geographic. It was about exploration of the ocean's depths, and told of diving bells and submarines.

Now everyone knows Idaho is about as far removed from any ocean as can be. Maybe this is it. The attraction of something mysterious and exciting. Anyway, the idea quickly became a plan when my friend came running into the clubhouse that day, screaming with delight.

Dear reader, we shall pause for just a moment now to explain that the names of my "friends" have been changed to protect the innocent. And because if the mothers of these boys really knew the story today my popularity might drop to a new low. If that's possible.

But really, the whole idea belongs to my friend, whom we'll call Harry because I knew no Harry then.

Harry was a crazy kid. Thick black hair and thin features, he was always getting into one mess or another. Like the time he... well, that's another story.

Anyway, it was a warm spring day. John (another friend) and I were sitting on an old oil barrel in the clubhouse just behind my home. Harry came running into the dirty room and declared we should begin construction, post haste.

That, he shouted, pointing at the oil barrel, barely able to speak. "That will come up to the bottom of the Snake River."

"Great," John said. "What for?" I asked. Harry's smile was one of amazement. "What for?" he fairly yelled.

My mother came running out, thinking that we were again attempting to launch a rocket to the moon, or were planning to blow up the neighborhood with strange chemicals.

"Yes, what for?" I asked again. "Treasure," Harry announced proudly.

My friend John agreed, and with little further discussion and a short promise to my mother that we were not planning anything dangerous, we started construction.

Now few have ever built a diving bell, going from idea stage to completed product in a few hours. But we did.

The oil drum was our control center. It was to house a "volunteer" when the dry run (or wet run) was made later that day in Stanley's pond on the edge of the city. Stanley is another crazy friend.

We cut out one end of this large oil barrel, and over the top we placed a tin wash tub. Turn a glass over and push it under water and you come up with the principle used in our diving bell experiment.

For weight, we attached to the oil drum large potato sacks loaded with concrete slabs.

The air supply was to be furnished through a garden hose, one end inserted into the oil barrel and the other end on the surface. Harry volunteered to blow air into the diving bell with his lungs once the bell was submerged.

When finished, our delicate machine tipped the scales, we are sure, at more than 1,000 pounds. It takes a lot of weight to sink an air-filled oil drum with a tin tub on top.

Getting the bell to the pond was no easy task, but determined, John, Harry and myself managed to drag it out in the back of a sheep wagon. The shepherd who volunteered to take it would have declined if he had only known.

But he didn't and we arrived at Stanley's a little before 3 p.m. Stanley lived on a small farm and behind his house was a large hole. In the spring when the snow melted and the ditches began to flow with irrigation water, this hole would fill to the brim.

For a few days a year it would be nearly 30 feet deep. Our diving bell, measuring from the top of the tub to the bottom of the potato sacks, was only 12 feet. This meant the bell could go down to a depth of 18 feet.

Stanley also had a wooden raft in the pond, and all was in readiness a few minutes after arrival in the shepherd's wagon.

We must pause again at this point. Harry, John, Stanley or myself, I must explain, are not really cowards. It's just that we were too smart at that time to go down in that stupid bell.

This being the case at the moment, we had to seek out a likely and unwary subject.

It came to us in the form of John's brother, a little blond-headed and freckled-faced boy of 6. Sammy had been pestering us all day and now was his chance to get a piece of the action.

We put him in the bell. At the last minute, as we were placing the tin tub over the top of the oil drum, little Sammy began to whimper. But it was too late.

Clamp. Down went the lid. We tipped the diving bell over the side of the raft, watched it sink out of sight. Harry began unreeling the garden hose, shouting all the time: "It's okay Sammy, it's okay. No problems."

As the bell disappeared into the brown water of the pond, Sammy's mother drove up, slammed on her brakes and, nearly frothing at the mouth, ran screaming bloody murder to the edge of the pond. She remained there shaking her fist and yelling: "Get him up. Get him up. I'll spank each of you 'til you can't sit for a month."

She had been warned of the activity by my mother, bless her heart.

Harry, in his panic, yanked on the garden hose and it was at that moment we discovered an error in our calculations. We had forgotten to include a strong rope with which to haul the diving bell to the surface.

The hose rose slowly to the surface. Of course it did no good as far as supplying air to the bell anyway, but it was a comfort to Sammy, at this moment on the bottom of the pond, thus sealing the fate of John, Harry, Stanley and I.

The diving bell may still be at the bottom of that pond today. I'll never know, for I have not been back since. And now I land then I hear of John and Sammy's mother screamed even more loudly then, and I'm sure threatened someone with a lawsuit.

Then it happened. Little Sammy fought his way, coughing, to the surface. When he managed to spit the water from his lungs, he had a good cry, thus sealing the fate of John, Harry, Stanley and I.

Harry and they are successful in this world. But neither is a scientist.

Song Will Be Played On Vietnam Hill

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — An organ will be playing Christmas Eve at the Freedom Hill USO in Da Nang, Vietnam, and if the wish of a one-time battle chaplain is honored—one of the selections played will be "My Yiddish Mama."

The Rev. Fred Gehring, a Vincentian father at Philadelphia's St. Vincent's Catholic Church, says the song would be fitting because 25 years ago, on Christmas Eve on Guadalcanal, another U.S. serviceman in another war played the number. His name was Marine Cpl. Barney Ross, a world lightweight and welterweight boxing champion in the 1930s.

It was because of Father Gehring and Ross, who died in January, that the organ was sent to the Da Nang USO.

Known as the "Padre of Guadalcanal," Father Gehring was celebrating Christmas Mass on that island in 1942. But there was no one to play the portable organ in his chaplain's tent.

Ross, a Jew, told the Navy chaplain he knew a few numbers and Father Gehring told him to play.

After rounds of Christmas carols were played, Ross put in his request. It was "My Yiddish Mama," and today Father Gehring says he can think of no more touching song.

Ross died of cancer of the throat. In April a Chicago organ company decided to send an organ to Vietnam in his memory.

Mining In Idaho Lucrative

By ALLEN M. BAILEY
BOISE (AP) — In spite of a record-length strike affecting some of north Idaho's mines and possibly restrictive federal regulation proposals, Idaho's mining industry has had a good year. That is the opinion of Idaho Mining Association Secretary Al Teske, who says there is even a claims rush in progress in north Idaho as a result of the removal this year of the federal silver price ceiling.

The value of mine production in 1967 should exceed last year's $105.6 million, Teske said, even though labor troubles have slowed or stopped production in several large north Idaho mines. Adding to the mineral outlook is a proposal to the State Land Board two weeks ago by Gulf Oil Corp. to lease 35,000 acres in southwestern Idaho for uranium exploration.

There's been no boom or rush for southeastern Idaho's phosphate mining industry, but increasing demand for fertilizers made with phosphates has kept the industry expanding at a good pace, Teske said.

However, proposed regulations of phosphate mining—which uses open-strip techniques—may threaten the progress, he added.

The rules would require complete outlines of planned exploration, drilling, roads, mining to be done and restoration after mining to be submitted before any permit to begin operations would be issued by the government.

"Geologists can't see any further into the ground than you or I," Teske said. He explained that exploration and subsequent mining of lands leased under the proposed regulations could not be feasibly carried out.

"It is impossible to operate under these conditions," he declared.

Teske quoted a phosphate industry spokesman as saying "We're interested in Idaho, but phosphates aren't that hard to find outside of Idaho." He listed new finds of the minerals in Morocco, Australia and already developed phosphate resources in Florida as being less expensive than the phosphates mined in Idaho.

Phosphates from Florida can be delivered to the West Coast more cheaply than those from Idaho, he said.

Department of Interior officials who formulated the new, more restrictive proposals did not take into account recommendations the industry presented in 1966 after an earlier set of rules was put forth, Teske said.

The Coeur d'Alene mining district in far northern Idaho—which runs most of the way across Idaho east of Spokane—is the country's largest silver producing area.

A U.S. government directive earlier this year removed the silver price limit of $1.29 per ounce and because of that decision and previous speculation that it would be made, more than 2,000 mining claims have been filed this year in the Coeur d'Alene district.

Silver, lead, zinc and smaller amounts of gold and antimony are produced in the major mines in and around Kellogg, Wallace and Mullan. Idaho still has the largest known gold reserves in the country, Teske said, but the state has no gold-producing industry because of the government's continued price ceiling of $35 an ounce.

Exploration in north Idaho's mining area has increased this year, also, and some of it is in a downward direction. Teske explained that Idaho is the only silver-producing area in the world where silver veins are found more than about 2,000 feet below the surface.

At present, one mine has sunk its shaft to 4,800 feet below the surface—or about 2,000 feet below sea level—and is still going down. Silver has been found at many levels along the way, he said, and exploration continues.

The state's second largest silver mine, the Galena outside of Wallace, and the third largest silver producer, the Lucky Friday Mine, have been closed by the nation-wide copper workers' strike.

The biggest mine in Idaho, the Sunshine, has continued producing, Teske said, but is now having to ship its concentrated ore to Sweden for smelting because the U.S. smelting plants have been closed by the mine workers' strike.

Only the tail end of the mid-1950's uranium rush touched Idaho, Teske said, and there was some of the valuable mineral produced north of Stanley.

Cab Calloway Doing Great At Age Of 60

NEW YORK (AP) — Fingers snapping, toes tapping, Cab Calloway listened to a recording he had just made of "I Will Wait for You" for a new album and pronounced his judgment.

The recent offer to the state land board, however, was to lease land in Ada, Gem, Canyon, Washington and Payette counties for exploration for uranium.

A recent rush to find the radio active metal in northwest states may lack the enthusiasm of the 1950's rush, Teske explained, but he said more money would probably be spent in the latest quest.

"That's great. You can't do any better than that," he said. Calloway, who will be 60 on Christmas Day, is doing great, too, in "Hello, Dolly." He plays Horace Vandergelder, the meanest man in town.

That character belies the real Cab Calloway, but the show, with Pearl Bailey and an all-Negro cast, is a hit all over again.

Calloway said he doesn't feel like he's going to turn 60. "I feel just like I was going on 20," he said. "His face is unlined, his brown eyes twinkled under the studio lights and there wasn't a gray hair detectable on his head."

And, most important, his voice was as lusty and swinging as ever. Calloway said when he was approached for "Hello, Dolly" he wasn't at all sure he wanted to do it.

"Then all of a sudden, David Merrick made up my mind for me," he said. "We settled a few little things and that was it. I hadn't gone a musical in a long time. It was pretty hard to make the transition."

As for having a birthday on Christmas, Calloway said, "It's a glorious day—a wonderful day, to be born that day."

"I'll be celebrating my birthday in the regular way," he said. "I'll be spending it at home with my family. That's my wife, and my five daughters will be there."

2 Students Die

DRUMMOND, Mont. (AP) — Two students of a Spokane business school en route to their Montana homes for the holidays were killed Friday in a car-truck accident near here, police said.

The victims were identified as Randy C. Mallesich, 18, and Richard A. Watson, 18, both of Harlowton, Mont.

The two were students at Kinman Business University, Spokane.

Large Crowd Attends K.H. Yule Pageant

KING HILL—A large crowd attended the Christmas pageant held at the King Hill United Presbyterian Church Wednesday night with Mrs. Betty Lou Robinson giving the invocation.

The welcome was given by the kindergarten class, portraying letters of welcome by Craig Finlayson, Mark Finlayson, Traesa and William Mabe, Tena McCleary, Freddie Myers and Joey Stewart.

The Primary class portrayed "Making Christmas Away in a Manger" by Christy Cox, Cheri Finlayson, Cindy Glindo, Pam Houfburg, Ardella Ruberry, Bonnie Stewart and Lucille Finlayson.

A guitar solo was played by Bob Parish, accompanied by Sheri Ruberry and "Silent Night" was sung by Becky, Christy and Janice Cox.

The choir included Becky Cox, Phyllis McCleary, Toni Robinson and Gloria Woodward. Organists were Sheri Ruberry and John Lawson.

Treats were distributed by Karl Anderson, Bob Parish, Terry Parish and Dale McCleary.

Mrs. Rodney Ruberry and Mrs. Irene Parish supervised the program. Refreshments were served in the church dining hall by Mrs. Glenn McCleary and Toni Robinson.

Regional Airport Unit Slates Meet

RUPERT — The regional airport interim commission is planning to meet after the first of the year to map strategy in response to action by the Twin Falls city officials in development of Joslin Field.

Neil Weir, Rupert, chairman of the Southern Idaho regional airport interim commission, noted Friday that his group voted to withhold any decision on the regional airport until a full report is received from the Federal Aviation Agency officials.

"It appears that Twin Falls does not want to wait for the FAA study report," Mr. Weir commented, noting that the Twin Falls City Council has asked county commissioners to consider levying for additional financial support to enlarge the Twin Falls Airport.

In October, Herman Maxwell, Salt Lake City FAA official, surveyed proposed sites for a regional airport and indicated six months were needed to complete the study.

Mr. Weir also noted that at that time the Interim Airport Board requested Twin Falls officials to wait for the FAA report and recommendations before making any decision on improvements at Joslin Field.

Mr. Weir's comments were supported by Ed Elliott, Burley, president of the South Idaho Chamber of Commerce, who Thursday issued a statement also criticizing the action of the Twin Falls city officials.

"Twin Falls should wake up and become part of the valley instead of setting itself completely apart from valley activities," Mr. Elliott said.

He stressed that the present Twin Falls Airport is inadequate and "would still be inadequate and is remotely and poorly located. It is nice to know that Twin Falls feels its economy is such they can squander money on their present airport and add nothing to nothing," Mr. Elliott declared.

"If Twin Falls feels flush enough to expand its present field they should go across the river along the interstate and build adequate airport for the valley. I believe federal matching funds would be available for such a project, where no matching funds will be available for their improvement project," Mr. Elliott said.

He added the proposed regional airport is a project that the entire valley can work on jointly and it can become a stepping stone toward molding the valley into the geographical, economical and political unit which it should be.

Bound Over

PROVO (AP) — D. Spencer Grow, the Provo financier acquitted of one misapplication charge, has been bound over for trial in Fourth District Court on charges he misapplied $34,000 in Utah Savings and Loan Association funds.

Arraignment has been scheduled for Friday. Grow's acquittal also involved charges growing out of transactions connected with Utah Savings and Loan. He is a former president of the firm, which is now under state control.

Fallout Recorded

LONDON (AP) — About one-tenth of the radioactive fallout recorded in Britain early this year was from Red China's atomic blast of Dec. 28, 1966, the United Kingdom Atomic Authority reported, but it said there was evidence of debris lingering from that explosion in the autumn. It added that over the year concentration of long-lived fission products over Britain continued to decrease.

Jerome Woman Points To U.N. Acts Against Israel

Editor, Times-News:
Though indefinite as to some points, on Nov. 22, 1967, the British-sponsored U.N. Security Council resolution calling on Israel to withdraw its forces from Arab territory, passed unanimously. In the more than 19 years since Israel was "created" by the U.N. under pressure from England, USSR and the United States (in violation of the UN charter providing for "self-determination" of the predominantly Arab population of the area partitioned, and in violation of the clause as to "aggression" which brought under Israeli control much of what had originally been designated as Arab territory) the council has unanimously passed six similar resolutions, all sponsored by the United States:
On May 8, 1951, condemning Israel for "aerial action taken by the forces of the government of Israel on April 5, 1951"—1948 cease fire violation.
On Nov. 24, 1953, for "Action at Libya taken by the armed forces of Israel on Oct. 14, 1953"—cease fire violation.
On Nov. 29, 1955, for an attack "committed by Israeli armed forces against the Egyptian regular armed forces" in the Gaza Strip on Feb. 28, 1955—cease fire violation.
On Jan. 19, 1956, for the "attack on Dec. 11, 1955, as a flagrant violation of the 1948 cease fire."
On April 6, 1956, reaffirming its 1956 resolution, terming Israel's March 16-17, 1962, attack near Lake Tiberias as a flagrant violation. (note: On April 10 the Israeli Parliament resolved: "The Knesset categorically rejects the Security Council Resolution of April 9, 1962.")
On Nov. 13, 1966, for its attack on the Jordan village of Sammu emphasizing to Israel that "the Security Council will have to consider further and more effective steps as envisioned in the charter against the repetition of such acts."
Twenty-four similar resolutions condemning Israel have been passed by other United Nations organs, whereas no Arab state has ever been similarly condemned.

Woman Praises Twin Falls Pastor For His Article

Editor, Times-News:
I wish to congratulate Pastor Harold N. Nye of the First Methodist Church for his fine article in last Sunday's paper concerning the birth of God into a human body as the Messiah, Christ Jesus.
I only wish this article could appear as a repeat in the Forum as I'm sure there are many who read the public forums, but forget to see what the minister said under "As Your Minister Sees It."
I'd be really pleased to see this article under "big block black headlines on the front page of this Sunday's newspaper"—first preceding Christmas Day—the day on which we Christians celebrate the physical birth of our Christian Saviour.
Thank you Dr. Nye—again and again—for giving the glory to God for being "The Saviour of His people"—Isaiah 45:21.
JANE CHESS (Twin Falls)

Camas Club To Pay For Lights

FAIRFIELD — The Camas Club voted recently to pay any remaining cost for the installation of Christmas street decorations. The club had already donated $250 toward purchase of bells and light strings.
Those attending donated $1 each toward a contribution to be sent to the Idaho Youth Ranch at Christmas. There was also an exchange of gifts among the members.
The Rev. W. James Post presented two solos of Christmas songs with Mrs. Dale Reedy as accompanist. Later the group sang Christmas Carols.
The room and tables were decorated in a Christmas theme. Hostesses were Mrs. Charles Dickinson, Mrs. Glenn Miller, Mrs. Robert Frostenson, Mrs. Harry Durrall and Mrs. Glenn Gill.

TO BUY EQUIPMENT
CALGARY, Alta. (AP) — The newspaper Albertan says a 14-man Soviet trade delegation has contracted to buy Canadian-made automated oil well equipment and gathering systems at a price "believed to be in excess of $20 million."

MRS. R. G. SASS, PAT O'CONNOR, HARALD GERBER... were the three judges for the Times-News and Idaho Power Co. Christmas display lighting contest. They worked long, hard hours in careful judging to find the display that they determined was the best for this holiday season. Final selection was made late Friday. See the picture of the winning display and the story on Page 1 of today's paper.

Custodian Of Death House Knows Self

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Robert McKay will share Christmas again this year with 12 canaries, a sparrow and the electric chair.
But the 46-year-old inmate custodian of the Ohio Penitentiary death house is hoping it will be his last Christmas in the cell where he became an accomplished writer and a prize-winning bird hobbyist.
The drab one-story building where McKay lives houses Ohio's electric chair, which has claimed 315 lives in 70 years. But the place has meant new life for McKay.
A lean, articulate New Yorker up for parole after the sixth year of an armed robbery sentence, McKay lives in the cell where condemned men spend their last hours before walking a few feet to their death. "It really bothered me when I first came here," McKay says. "It still does, once in a while. You find yourself thinking about it, especially at night."

But McKay calls his four years as death house custodian "the best thing that ever happened to me."
"It's the only place you can find privacy and that's something you can't put a price on. For a writer, privacy and time are things you can't buy even on the outside."
A former editor of the prison newspaper, McKay produced his first novel, "The Way Things Are," before getting the custodian's job. A paperback story of a cynical businessman and his secretary, it sold moderately well.
Now he has a second novel, "Canary Red," set for spring publication as a hardback. He has produced about 30 short stories. The short stories, generally romance or confession pieces and "not what I like to write," are his "bread and butter" items. Some are selling for about $400 each.
His new novel is of a man returning from prison and adjusting to, among other things, a 15-year-old daughter he has never met. Like McKay, the hero raises canaries in prison. Unlike McKay, he achieves the breeding of a perfect red canary.

Twin Falls Boy Looks To Sad Christmas As Pet Duck Killed By Archer's Arrow

A Twin Falls boy was heart-broken when he discovered Saturday morning that an unknown archer had killed his pet duck.

According to Norman Wiseman, 202 10th Ave. E., his son, Andy, 10, went to feed the family's pet ducks and found the drake dead with an arrow through it.

The drake belonged to Andy and "he was very much attached to it as a pet," Mr. Wiseman said. There are two other pet ducks, hens, but they were not harmed. The two hens belong to Mr. and Mrs. Wiseman's other two sons, Jeff and Sam.

Alma, as the pet drake was called, and the two hens were brought to Twin Falls from Oregon last July when the family moved here. Mr. Wiseman said the ducks were given to the boys as Easter ducks, but because the ducks had such wonderful personalities, they were kept as pets and became "members of the family."

Mr. Wiseman said he knew of no one who would have done anything like this. He said apparently the person or persons involved were just passing by. He said the ducks were friendly and that the drake would greet anyone who came to the residence or would pass it. The ducks stayed in a pen in the Wiseman's back yard.

Mr. Wiseman said the incident probably happened when the family was gone Friday evening between 7 and 8:30 p.m., but was not discovered until Saturday morning when Andy went to feed them.

Although nothing special had been planned this Christmas for the ducks, Andy, as well as the other Wisemans, this Christmas will be a little sad.

SADLY HOLDING his pet duck, that an unknown archer killed Friday is Andy Wiseman, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Wiseman, 202 10th Ave. E. Andy found his pet drake dead Saturday morning with the arrow still in it. The drake, along with two hens, were pets.

Bunker Feels Progress In War Is Good

By BARRY KRAMER
SAIGON (AP) — The allies in Vietnam have made progress in the last eight months, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker says, and are now at a point "where we can reasonably expect progress to accelerate."

According to the white-haired, 73-year-old career diplomat who took his post here in April, this means chances are better than before to end the war.

But he added: "I don't know of anything in the immediate offing which indicates a change in the (Communists') attitude."

In an interview with The Associated Press, Bunker touched on the possibility that the fighting would just fade out and said, "It's certainly one possibility."

"But I think it's also a possibility that the North Vietnamese may come to the point where they are aware of the fact that they can't win the war and therefore may want to negotiate the best kind of settlement they can."

Bunker said South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu "has the feeling they will try to hang on at least through the U.S. presidential elections, so that the chances for negotiations until then are not particularly good. This may be quite true, I don't know. One never knows."

In any case, he said, "they will be no more successful than they have been in the past."

Bunker was asked about suggestions from some U.S. politicians that the war should be extended into Cambodia and Laos to cut down Communist infiltration into South Vietnam. He replied that American policy does not allow such a move.

"We're fighting a limited war with limited objectives, therefore with limited resources and with restraint. There's no change in policy."

Asked how infiltration could be lessened, Bunker said: "We're trying to stop it by bombing the North. In North Vietnam we're making it constantly more difficult to infiltrate. We're always trying to CHILDREN FROM throughout the area got to meet Santa Claus Saturday at the Annual Junior Chamber of Commerce dinner for needy children. The children, including those from families of Jaycee members, mingled and had the time of their lives as hamburgers were served at the American Legion hall in Twin Falls. Over 200 children attended the function, and all received a personal greeting and present from Santa. Before the function the children were treated to a motion picture especially for them, all about the horse, Smokey. Here, Santa talks with one of the children who attended the dinner.

RINGING UP HIS last sale, just before he retired Saturday, is Raymond H. Holste. Mr. Holste has been with the Idaho Department Store, Mens Department, for 29 years. Wednesday he will move to Caldwell to be near a son, J. C. Holste. Mr. Holste moved to Twin Falls from Idaho Falls in 1939. For two years after moving here, he worked in the C. C. Anderson Department Store. The first thing Mr. Holste is going to do is to straighten up his new home and then he is going to rest. After that, he doesn't know. Robert Harvey, store manager, said "we were fortunate to have Ray with us as he was an excellent employe and we are sorry he is leaving."

Thwarts Theft

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An off-duty deputy thwarted the robbery of a liquor store Friday by crashing his private car—with his family inside—into the glass door of the store, scaring off four bandits armed with shot-guns.

While three men held the clerks of State Liquor Store, a fourth stood outside with a shotgun held to the back of the head of a city policeman.

Deputy Leon Mullin drove by with his wife, sister-in-law and two children in the car. Noticing the robbery, Mullin circled the block and crashed his car into the store front.

"I guess I was crazy," Mullin said later. "I shouldn't have done it. I put my life in danger and put my wife's life in danger."

Home On Leave

HAGERMAN — Sgt. David Duncombe returned home Thursday from his tour of duty in Vietnam.

Sgt. Duncombe is spending his 30-day leave with his wife, Margaret and son, David and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Duncombe, before leaving for England in January.

Sgt. Duncombe's wife and son have been making their home in Hagerman while he has been overseas.

Proposal To Discontinue Trains Hit

POCATELLO (AP) — The Pocatello City Council and Chamber of Commerce and Rep. George V. Hansen, R-Idaho, are protesting a proposal by the Union Pacific Railroad to discontinue trains 35 and 36 between Butte, Mont., and Salt Lake City.

The City Council instructed the city attorney to inform the Interstate Commerce Commission the city requests a public hearing.

Rep. Hansen also has sent a telegram of protest to F. J. Melia, vice president and western counsel for Union Pacific, and has asked the ICC to hold a hearing.

The Chamber of Commerce sent telegrams to the ICC, the Idaho Public Utilities Commission and the Idaho congressional delegation, demanding a hearing and full investigation.

The railroad has served notice it plans to discontinue the trains Jan. 22. The ICC must make a decision before then whether to exercise its right to suspend the discontinuance for up to four months while public hearings are held.

Councilman Rampton Barlow pointed out trains 35 and 36 provide the only rail passenger transportation between Pocatello and Salt Lake City. He said discontinuance would cost the jobs of about 35 men.

Life Of Mariner 4 Comes To End

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Mariner 4, which took man's only closeups of Mars from space, has ended its career after three years, the victim of micrometeorites.

It announced its retirement Friday with this account: Last Dec. 7 Mariner exhausted the nitrogen used to keep it on even keel during a 183-billion-mile journey begun Nov. 28, 1964. Three days later it entered a cloud of micrometeorites—tiny bits of interplanetary flotsam traveling at up to 150,000 miles an hour.

Twin Falls Times-News 13 Sunday, Dec. 24, 1967
Ten days of battering left Mariner tilting as much as 50 degrees from its normal orientation toward Earth. On Dec. 20 scientists, receiving only a trickle of teletyped information and unable to control it, stopped tracking Mariner.

Thieu Fails To Give Full Support To LBJ

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
 WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson gained new flexibility last week for future Vietnam peace maneuvers. But he failed to win full support for his plans from President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam.

The test of the President's new approach to peace seeking is most likely to come in the spring, substantially after the period of Christmas and New Year truces beginning this weekend.

U.S. officials say privately they see no serious prospects of expanding the brief holiday cease-fires into serious opportunities for starting peace talks.

It is obvious however that they are watching closely to see how the enemy forces—North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops—use the truce periods.

Johnson repeatedly has suggested to the North Vietnamese through public and private channels that the United States would be interested in any signal from them that they are prepared to reduce the scale of the war.

U.S. authorities will be alert especially for intelligence reports on whether the Communists use the short bombing pauses over North Vietnam to rush men and supplies to the battlefields in the South.

The seasonal climax of the ground war in the South ordinarily comes each year with the end of the relatively dry season in the spring. Enemy strategy is usually planned to produce a winter-spring offensive and that has been true this season.

Captured enemy documents have told of the Communist leadership's hopes to score smashing victories over American forces—evidently hoping to contribute to a sense of defeatism in the United States.

Actually Johnson administration leaders say they believe the enemy forces in the South, particularly the Viet Cong, have been suffering severely from a string of defeats over the past year or more, from the destruction of their underground supply centers and from the harassment of their transportation routes in the North.

This belief focused official attention on puzzling maneuvers of the National Liberation Front—the enemy political arm in South Vietnam—during the past several months.

Johnson's public response to these moves has been to try to encourage them in case they have any real meaning for ending the war.

The NLF issued a policy statement in September calling for formation of a coalition government in South Vietnam; it reportedly put out feelers to send two agents to talk with U.N. representatives in New York; it did apparently send an agent to try to see U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker in Saigon to talk about war problems—but he was picked up by South Vietnamese police without seeing Bunker.

The NLF did get its policy statement circulated at the United Nations earlier this month—despite the standard North Vietnamese-NLF position that the United Nations has no authority in the Vietnam situation.

Despite lip service to the contrary, the leaders of South Vietnam have long been opposed to any serious dealings with leaders of the NLF, lest such talks complicate their own shaky political positions.

In the broadcast interview Tuesday night, which coincided with the start of his trip to the Far East and on around the world, Johnson in effect served notice that he is determined to explore and if possible exploit any opportunities for diplomatic maneuvers which the NLF might open up.

That the President was aware of the domestic political significance of his action no one here disputes. But what government insiders say additionally is that he had a serious policy purpose in mind also.

Fall On Bike Is Lucky For Youth, 14

ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP) — It was a lucky spill for Scott Leas, 14, when he fell from his bike last summer.

It led him and his companion, Clifford O'Rourke, 14, to a newspaper-wrapped package containing between $2,000 and $3,000 in tattered currency.

With six months passed and authorities unable to locate the owner, the money has been turned over to the finders—right in time for Christmas.

Scott and Clifford were riding their bikes along a path in Cherokee Park in St. Paul June 23 when Scott fell. They found the money package stuffed under a nearby log and took the money home, thinking it was counterfeit. Scott's mother, Mrs. Robert Leas called police.

The money is stuck together in chunks, authorities said, adding it was impossible to say just how much is involved. The piles of decaying bills will be sent to the U.S. Treasury by a St. Paul bank.

Scott and Clifford said they would divide the money and apply it toward college.

McCarthy Is Asking Equal Time On Air

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rebuffed by the major networks, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy is asking the government to insure he gets radio and television time to answer statements by President Johnson.

The Minnesota Democrat, who says he'll challenge Johnson in several Democratic presidential primaries next year, asked Friday that the Federal Communications Commission order NBC, CBS and ABC to provide him air time.

His FCC appeal came shortly after ABC and NBC, following an earlier stand by CBS, rejected McCarthy's request for equal time to answer President Johnson's televised assertion Tuesday that the Minnesotan was working with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., in a quest for the nomination.

Both McCarthy and Kennedy have repeatedly denied they're allied in an effort to oust Johnson.

The networks said McCarthy isn't entitled to equal time under laws governing broadcasting because Johnson is not a declared candidate for re-election.

Saying Johnson won't run next year denies "a fact which every American child knows," said Blair Clark, McCarthy's campaign manager, in the appeal to the FCC.

"The people of the country have the right to know," Clark continued, "whether the FCC is going to permit a President who is obviously a candidate for re-election to use the powerful network TV and radio facilities without a right of response by other announced candidates."

Clark said the FCC should either order the networks to give McCarthy equal time or hold a hearing on the issue.

Johnson was interviewed by correspondents from all three networks, and all three carried the pre-taped, hour-long show in prime night time.

In other political developments Friday:

—Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia told newsmen he doesn't plan to bolt the Democratic party next year but may support the views of former Alabama Gov. George Wallace in the presidential campaign. Maddox said it "would take a miracle" for him to actively back the national Democratic ticket.

—Wallace, seeking to mount a third-party campaign, said in Pomona, Calif., that he had more than the 66,059 registrations needed to qualify his American Independent Party on the 1968 presidential ballot in the nation's largest state.

—H. P. Sullivan, assistant secretary of state, said later 41,878 Californians have officially registered under the American Independent party banner. But Sullivan said these registration figures came only from major counties and conceded Wallace's totals could be correct.

—Rep. Ralph Yarborough, D-Tex., said he's considering—but hasn't definitely decided on—a 1968 race for Texas governor. "I haven't crossed that bridge yet," the senator told an Austin, Tex., news conference.

Christmas In Berlin Again Divided Time

By HUBERT J. ERB
 BERLIN (AP) — Again this year, Christmas in Berlin is a season of being divided.

For a few West Berliners there will be "hardship" passes to cross through the Communist wall to visit friends or relatives in the East. For a few East Berlin pensioners there also will be special crossing passes.

But the vast majority of the city's 3.3 million people, 2.2 million in the West, will be able to do nothing more than wave across the wall.

It is the second Christmas in a row that the Communist East

A CALL FOR ALUMNI of the College of Southern Idaho has been sent out by Dr. Adele Thompson, left, dean of women at the college. At right is Shirene Brown of Kimberly, who is helping. A meeting has been set for 7 p.m. Wednesday at the YM-YWCA building to organize. All students who have attended CSI for a semester are eligible to join. College officials said they hope to work on a constitution and elect officers at the meeting.

Christmas In Berlin Again Divided Time

Germans have refused to issue passes for the West Berliners to go to the East. It is the fourth passless Christmas since the wall went up in August 1961.

It is now 18 months since the last seasonal passes were issued and since negotiations for a new East-West pass agreement were broken off over the issue of an East German demand for recognition. The West does not recognize East Germany.

West German Foreign Minister Willy Brandt, himself West Berlin mayor until a year ago, said this week that the pass issue was part of an East German campaign to promote uneasiness among West Berlin's people.

The East Germans, however, have been operating a hardship pass office for months without any formal agreement.

About 3,000 passes a month are issued and usually a West

Berliner can obtain one, for such things as weddings, deaths, births or serious illness in his East Berlin family.

Except for the elderly, East Berliners have been shut off from the West since 1961.

On Christmas Day, some of the many people waving across will have written and told relatives to be at a certain place at a certain time. They will hold up children; especially new born babes.

Carefully watching will be beefed up East German border patrols with their machine-guns, dogs, bunkers, watch towers, trip wires, sirens, searchlights, flares and motorcycles. The guards have orders to shoot any fleeing East German caught in the final "death strip" before the wall.

Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of La-

Consumer Goods Jump In Price

WASHINGTON (AP) — If you're feeling a financial pinch these days the Christmas gift-giving tradition shouldn't catch all the blame—just about all the family goods and services Americans buy have jumped in cost.

The Labor Department reported Friday an increase of three-tenths of one per cent in living costs during November, and pointed to signs more of the same can be expected this month.

Only a drop of three-tenths of one per cent in grocery prices stave off a bigger increase in November and appeared likely to prevent this year's over-all jump from surpassing last year's 3.3 per cent annual rate, highest in 10 years.

The November figures pushed to 117.8 the government's consumer price index. That means it costs $11.78 to buy products and services that cost Americans $10 in the 1957-59 base period.

Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics, reported a one-tenth of one per cent jump in wholesale prices last month. That increase is expected to show up soon in retail prices.

Chase described as "phenomenal" a six-tenths of one per cent increase in the cost of medical care services in November.

For the year, last month's surge pushed the cost of medical care nearly eight per cent above the November 1966 figures.

Hospital costs were up some 16 per cent over the same time last year. Fees for doctors and dentists were 6.4 per cent above the previous November's figures.

Other cost-of-living increases between October and November included housing, two-tenths of one per cent, and clothing and transportation, five-tenths of one per cent each.

Chase said more than 215,000 workers with contracts pegged to living costs will get pay raises because of the November jump.

Slight Loss Is Recorded By Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street did a lot of Christmas shopping last week but on such a selective basis that it made little impression on the overall list.

There was a slight loss for the second straight week, according to the popular averages, and the pace of trading simmered down.

The Dow Jones industrial average this week lost 6.76 at 887.37.

Volume fell to 52,920,920 shares from 57,679,240 the week before.

Of 1,639 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange, 759 fell and 749 rose.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dipped 2 to 316.2 from day to day it was an inconclusive market.

A sharp rebound of industrial production in November, a big rise in personal income for the same month and a gain in new orders for durable goods, also reported for November, supplied plenty of fuel for those who anticipated a pickup in the general level of business and products. Yet the familiar market wheelwheers did very little, as shown by the softness in the stock averages.

The five most active issues this week on the New York Stock Exchange were: American Telephone, up 7/8 at 50 3/4 on 829,300 shares; Control Data, off 1/8 at 140 1/2; RCA, up 1/4 at 53 1/2; International Paper, up 3/4 at 27 1/2; and Brunswick, up 3/4 at 16 1/4.

Evidence Shows Economy Is Expanding At Sharper Rate

By JACK LEFLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Evidence mounted this past week that the economy is expanding at a sharper rate.

Latest statistics showed strong gains in the important areas of personal income, housing starts and new factory orders for durable goods during November.

These performances came on the heels of increases in industrial production, retail sales and employment reported the previous week.

"They're awfully good-looking statistics," a government analyst said.

Government economists said they expected that the improvement in these fields of the economy would strengthen President Johnson's case for a 10 per cent income tax surcharge.

The Commerce Department reported that personal income in November posted its biggest advance in more than two years. It rose $5.8 billion from the October level to an annual rate of $64.7 billion. Wages and salaries went up $5.6 billion to an annual rate of $43.5 billion.

Housing starts rose 4.7 per cent in November to their highest level since December 1965. The annual rate of 1,556,000 starts achieved last month compared with 1,486,000 in October and 975,000 in November 1966. This was the fifth consecutive monthly increase.

New factory orders for durable goods advanced in November to their highest level since June. The Commerce Department put the total at $24.1 billion, up 3.2 per cent from $23.4 billion in October and up 4.7 per cent from $23 billion in November 1966.

"My own guess is that there'll be pretty strong upward activity in the economy through the first half of next year," a government economist commented.

He said the automotive industry is expected to continue to recover from the strikes, through June of next year, and other industries would be building steel inventories as a hedge against a possible steel industry strike.

The chairman of the four automobile manufacturers—Henry Ford II of Ford Motor Co., James M. Roche of General Motors Corp., Lynn A. Townsend of Chrysler Corp. and Roy D. Chapin Jr., of American Motors—predicted that 1968 would be a banner year for their industry.

Doesn't Promise

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — Darwin Brown, who has been portraying Santa Claus for 49 years, is of them at a department store here, says "Santa never promises."

"If the parents don't plan for a particular gift," says Brown, "I don't want to build the child up to a let-down."

"Sometimes Santa forgets," he tells the children on his lap.

"But you'll still love me just the same, won't you?" Or? "Sometimes my little men don't make enough to go around. But I'll try and also have other surprises for you."

Results Of Viet War Poll Listed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans are becoming more determined to see the Vietnam war through and favor a limited step-up, the Louis Harris public opinion poll reports.

Harris said his nationwide poll found that most Americans favor intensification of the war effort—but not to the extent of using atomic weapons or crossing the Chinese border.

The consensus — 58 to 24 per cent—is that the way to achieve a negotiated peace is "to convince the Communists they will lose the war if they continue the fighting." The same issue last July found favor by only 45 to 42 per cent.

The copyrighted poll appeared in Saturday's Washington Post.

Kennecott: If Things Are So Bad, Workers Should Quit

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Kennecott Copper Corp. told its 7,500 striking workers Friday "If things are so bad at Kennecott, perhaps your resignation is in order."

The Kennecott statement, and a resignation form, were included in a "Collective Bargaining Bulletin" received by most of the employees Friday.

"A number of your union officials took 30 minutes on KUTV-Channel 2 television Wednesday to describe how bad things are in working for Kennecott's Utah Copper Division," the statement said and listed some of the un-

LBJ Given Election Aid By Unknown

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — An obscure country lawyer in his freshman year as chairman of a House committee played a key role in handing President Johnson his biggest victories of the 1967 congressional session.

The bills were extensions of the anti-poverty and school aid programs at spending levels generous by 80th Congress standards. The chairman was Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., who inherited the job of leading the House Education and Labor Committee after it was taken away from Adam Clayton Powell.

It is hard to imagine a greater contrast between two men than that between Powell, the smooth, dapper sophisticate from New York, and Perkins, slow-drawing product of the rural hollows of eastern Kentucky.

Perkins, 55, still lives in Hindman, Ky., the little town where he was born and where he practiced law before entering politics. Although in 18 years in Congress he helped shape much successful education legislation, he previously had little to do with its actual passage.

It was the contrast between Powell, the seasoned veteran who steered major education and labor bills through the House, and beginner Perkins that caused most concern among supporters of the legislation.

Their concern seemed justified last May when Perkins, in his first big effort, brought the school bill to the floor and saw it riddled with amendments.

Worried that Republicans and Southern Democrats might be able to revamp this prize package of Johnson's, Perkins accepted any amendments he thought would help pass the bill without doing too much damage. The results were major changes in the legislation and a split among the committee's Democrats that seemed certain to render him ineffective as chairman.

But it proved a valuable lesson all around and when the anti-poverty bill came to the floor six months later, the Democrats were united behind Perkins.

It was in the conferences between the House and Senate to reconcile the differing versions of the legislation that Perkins finally came into his own, however.

In the anti-poverty conference, he withstood heavy pressure from Senate conferees and the administration and retained those features in the bill he felt vital to win House passage.

work. You shouldn't want your job. And, by resigning, you would be making room for others on the long list of job applicants who do want to work for Kennecott," the statement said. The last sentence was underlined.

Verne Curtis, co-chairman of the Joint Union Bargaining Committee, said, "This is Kennecott at its cruelest. If the company can't stand the heat in the kitchen regarding publicity, let it get the hell out."

Curtis said: "Most of the fellows who have received these offers have stated they will be around longer than both Kennecott's publicity director and industrial relations director. The timing of the bulletin, sent only a few days before Christmas, is vicious and unprincipled."

In other developments in the copper strike:

—More than 10,000 striking copper workers and their families are expected to attend a Christmas party this afternoon at the Utah State Fairgrounds.

—First negotiations since Oct. 19 are scheduled Wednesday between Kennecott and the Joint Union Bargaining Committee.

—Negotiations at Douglas, Ariz., between the unions and Phelps Dodge Corp. also are scheduled to resume Wednesday.

—Negotiations of workers and Anaconda Co. and American Smelting and Refining Co. remain at a standstill, with no talks scheduled.

Hagerman Edges Valley 75-74 On LeMoynes Tip In Final Six Seconds

EDEN-HAZELTON — Henry LeMoynes tip-in in the last six seconds lifted the Hagerman Pirates to a 75-74 victory over the Valley Vikings in a wild-finishing non-conference game Saturday night.

The tip-in—the third one after an unsuccessful free throw attempt with six seconds left—let the Pirates salvage the victory after they wasted all of a 14-point third-quarter lead and dropped behind by one on a Ron Cline cripple off a steal with 20 seconds remaining. It also ruined a fine fourth-quarter rally by the Vikings that came within a rebounding foul of carrying off the victory.

Hagerman, getting fine outside shooting from Pat Madarieta and dominating the boards, controlled the game throughout the first three quarters. But late in the third period it started happening.

Don Meyer, who wound up with 31 points, and Bloxham hit a six-point flurry in the final minute to cut Hagerman's edge to 59-53. It was not unusual. The teams had taken turns with scoring spurts, the Madarietas and LeMoynes flurrying Hagerman into an eight to 12-point lead and Valley coming back with a couple of buckets to reduce the count.

But each time Hagerman had proved capable of rolling with the punch and coming back with a matching spree.

As the last quarter began, however, Bloxham and Meyer hit quick points to cut the margin to two and for the next seven minutes no one was safe.

Murtaugh Trounces North Gem By 53-39

MURTAUGH—The shooting of Billy Nebeker and Gary Quessnell, coupled with some ice cold shooting by North Gem, carried the Murtaugh Red Devils to a 53-39 victory Friday night.

The fifth district crew fell out of contention in the early minutes of the game — missing a couple of easy crumples along with all of its outside shots—and through the evening Murtaugh generally held 14 to 20-point margins.

There was some early preliminary squabbling as Nebeker and Quessnell fired through eight Murtaugh points but North Gem stayed within two on the shooting of R. E. Faulkner. Then Murtaugh reeled off the next eight points of the game and never was in trouble.

Late Gooding Rally Beats Glens Ferry

GLENS FERRY — A tip-in followed by three free throws in the final two minutes carried the hard-peddling Gooding Senators to a 54-53 victory over Glens Ferry Friday night and extended the Pilots' losing streak to 26 games.

By halftime the Devils were coasting on a 29-11 edge.

North Gem turned to a zone defense that picked up the Murtaugh guards at half court when the second half began and for a while it kept the Devils off the scoreboard.

There was little to choose as the teams wound up tied at 39-all after three quarters. Glens Ferry, getting a fine game from Larry Sims, jumped into the lead as the last period began and held it—one time stretching it to six points.

Faulkner hit three straight shots as North Gem closed to within 14 at 32-18 but the next four times down the court Nebeker and Quessnell each hit two long jump shots to break that rally.

With about two minutes left Gooding missed a field goal attempt and in the ensuing scramble for the rebound, the ball suddenly popped into the air and through the net—giving the Senators a 51-50 lead. A pair of free throws by Larry Larsen and another charity toss by Ken Krahn proved enough to ice the victory after that.

Nebeker's second bucket opened the count to 40-20 and from

Two athletes were selected in each of 26 events by the National AAU Track and Field Committee.

Utah State, intercepting 22 Missouri plays Saturday night, beat the visitors 87-81 in an intersectional basketball game at Logan.

Jim Hines of Texas Southern was the only one chosen for three events. He was picked for the 60-, 100- and 220-yard dashes.

The contest was rapid fire throughout. There were five ties and the lead changed hands six times in the first period. The halftime saw USU ahead a single point.

Three others were chosen in two categories. They were Willie Davenport of Southern University for the 60- and 120-yard hurdles and Ed Burke of the California Striders and George Freen of the Pasadena Athletic Association, both for the hammer and 35-pound weight.

Missouri's 6-7 center Gene Jones lead all scoring with 27 points. For Utah State, it was Jimmy Smith with 25.

Aggie star Shaler Halimon had 18 points before fouling out early in the second half, the only member of his team to leave the game.

The British Lawn Tennis Association has announced plans to open the 1968 Wimbledon tournament to professionals, and this could trigger a landslide that might reduce amateur tennis to a club and college level.

Several of the top amateur players, including Australia's John Newcombe and Tony Roche, have announced plans to turn pro after the Challenge Round. Others, such as the top Davis Cup men of the United States, have said they would play at Wimbledon in the face of suspension threats by the International Lawn Tennis Federation.

If Wimbledon's move to open tennis is successful, it may be necessary to change the Davis Cup format.

The Australians, who have won the silver cup for 10 of the last 12 years and the last three times in a row, are heavily favored over a Spanish team that is depending almost wholly on its veteran ace, Manuel Santana.

POCATELLO (AP) — It took an effort from two players who were not supposed to be on the court, but Highland's Rams staved off a tremendous Idaho Falls surge to take a 54-52 victory Saturday night.

Highland center Craig Jorgensen, who sat out the third quarter in foul trouble, intercepted two Tiger passes within 15 seconds of the end of the game, while Larry Wilson, who sat out three quarters with flu, pumped in a 20-foot jumper to give the Rams a 33-32 lead with 33 seconds left.

Declo's Schrenk Hits Two Free Throws To Beat Shoshone 57-55

SHOSHONE—Kay Schrenk hit two free throws with less than a minute to play to ice a 57-55 win for the Declo Hornets over the Shoshone Indians Friday night.

The Hornets, with Schrenk and Andy Anderson leading the way, took a quick lead and maintained a 15-9 edge at the end of the first period.

Declo was able to keep its lead throughout the second period and took a 31-24 edge at the end of the first half.

The Indians fought back in the third period as George Arrossa pumped through eight points to give Shoshone a 44-42 edge going into the final period.

The Indians pulled ahead with about five minutes left to play as Arrossa added all but two of Shoshone's points in the fourth period.

Schrenk tied the score at 50-50 with four and a half minutes left, and soon pushed the Hornets ahead to stay with about three minutes remaining.

Schrenk scored all of Declo's points in the fourth period.

Wood River Posts 55-49 Win Over Jerome Tigers

By GARY SNELL
Times-News Sports Writer

JEROME — The Wood River Wolverines rallied in the second half to down the Jerome Tigers 55-49 Saturday night for the second time this season. In the previous meeting, the season opener for both teams, Wood River defeated Jerome 54-50.

Wood River took a 1-0 lead on a free throw by Louie Hurst, but Gordon Ford hit two free throws for the Tigers while Brad Capps and LaRon Thompson hit one field goal apiece to push the Tigers to a 14-12 lead at the end of the first period.

Jerome, with Thompson and Capps providing the scoring punch, maintained a slim 26-25 lead at the end of the first half.

The first part of the third period was a seesaw battle, with neither team being able to maintain a comfortable margin until the last minutes.

With about four minutes left in the third period Bowlden hit a field goal to put Wood River ahead to stay.

Jerome could only manage to come within 44-36 at the end of the third frame.

The Tigers battled back to within four points in the early part of the final period, but the Wolverines were able to keep the lead they had built up earlier to take the win.

Vanderbilt Tops Oregon To Win Meet

By BOB GILBERT

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Third-ranked Vanderbilt, surviving a cold first half and keeping in the game on Perry Wallace's 25 rebounds, defeated Oregon 70-59 Saturday night to win its fifth straight Vanderbilt Invitational Basketball Tournament Championship.

Bill Somerset's foul shot gave Seton all a 71-70 victory over the Wake Forest in a consolation game.

Kenny Campbell sank six of 10 field goals and was high scorer for Vandy with 18 points. Tom Hagan, the tournament's most valuable player, added 16.

Vanderbilt, now 7-1 went six minutes before scoring its first field goal, but Oregon's shooting also was off target and Vandy led 28-26 halftime.

Eight points on foul shots by Bo Wyenandt, Campbell and Bundy in the final minute put the game out of reach after Oregon had closed to within three points.

Bob Craven was high for Oregon with 15, and Bill Gaskins,

Houston Drubs Miami By 41-10 To Claim Eastern Division Crown In AFL

By BEN FUNK
Associated Press Writer
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Houston Oilers clobbered Miami's ambitious young Dolphins 41-10 Saturday night and became the first team in history to drive from the cellar to the American Football League

Eastern Division championship in a single season. Striking for long gains on the passes of Pete Beathard and the running of Hoyle Granger and Woodie Campbell, the Oilers moved into a 14-3 halftime lead. They simply overran the Dolphins in the last two quarters.

A defeat would have forced Houston into a division playoff with New York if the Jets beat San Diego Sunday. The Oilers now will play Western champion Oakland, Dec. 31 for the AFL crown and a Super Bowl showdown with the National Football League winner at Miami, Fla., Jan. 14.

Campbell ran for two first-half touchdowns; Granger added more in the third quarter on a 48-yard pass from Beathard and a one-yard run. Ken Houston scored a fifth touchdown with a 30-yard pass interception runback in the fourth.

John Wittenborn completed the rout with 11 points on five conversions and field goals of 29 and 38 yards.

Miami rookie quarterback Bob Griese ran his string of attempted passes without an interception to 122 in the first half, breaking a single season record of 105 by Ed Sogin in 1960. But Sogin still holds the mark of 128 spanning two seasons.

Webster Said Defensive AFL Rookie

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — George Webster admits he's pleased as punch that his success with Houston's Oilers has made him the Defensive Rookie of the Year in the American Football League, but he's somewhat leery about it, too.

Webster, who backs up the left side of the Oilers' defensive line, says the honor announced Friday by The Associated Press adds that much more to the pressures of an AFL game.

"If I don't play well, people will wonder why I got it," he said. Dubbed "a once in a lifetime rookie" by Houston coach Wally Lemm, Webster was the unanimous choice of a panel of sports writers and broadcasters as the AFL's outstanding defensive first-year man.

Webster, who joins the Oilers tonight in a season-ending game against the Miami Dolphins, said he was "very happy and very honored to be chosen from all the rookies in the league."

He swept all 27 votes in balloting by three-man committees in each of the AFL's nine league cities. An All-American at Michigan last year, Webster's move into the pro ranks was preceded by a wave of hallyhoo. And the 6-foot-4, 220-pound strongboy lived up to every word of it.

BYU Avenges Loss To Santa Clara

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Brigham Young capitalized on the 6-11 height of Jim Eakins in an under-the-basket game that saw the Cougars win a 91-46 inter-sectional basketball victory Saturday night over previously undefeated Santa Clara.

Eakins, a senior pulled down 19 rebounds and scored 12 points. The Cougars held a 41-24 halftime lead.

BYU's Marty Lythgoe led all scorers with 19 points, while forward Terry Lillmo got 15.

Center Dennis Awtry with 13 points was the Bronco's high man.

Santa Clara, thoroughly hampered by a BYU defense, was held to its lowest score this season.

Maple Leafs Down Detroit

TORONTO (AP) — Veteran center George Armstrong slammed in two goals Saturday night, snapped Toronto out of a slump and led the Maple Leafs to a 5-3 National Hockey League victory over Detroit.

Armstrong, 37, scored Toronto's first goal in three games only 40 seconds after the opening faceoff and got what proved to be the winner 41 seconds deep into the third period.

Toronto, shut out in its last two previous starts, had won only one of its last seven outings.

The Red Wings tied it twice, at 1-1 and 2-2, before Bob Pulford put the Leafs ahead to stay on a power-play goal only five seconds after Detroit's Bryan Watson went into the penalty box in the middle period.

Coaches Will Have Test Christmas Day

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — North-South football coaches Chalmers "Bump" Elliott of Michigan and Johnny Bridgers of Baylor, neither of whom has lost in the annual charity football game, come to a showdown here Monday.

Elliott's Yankee squad of 29 players from 17 colleges, including four from Michigan and three from Michigan State, sweltered in the unaccustomed 80-degree Florida heat all week as Elliott welded them into a team.

Bridgers' Rebels—29 men from 19 colleges including two from Baylor—adapted quickly to the heat but had to press an emergency back into service to play the hole caused by the rib injury of Florida's Richard Trapp. Mike Perrillaird of Auburn, a versatile back, was selected.

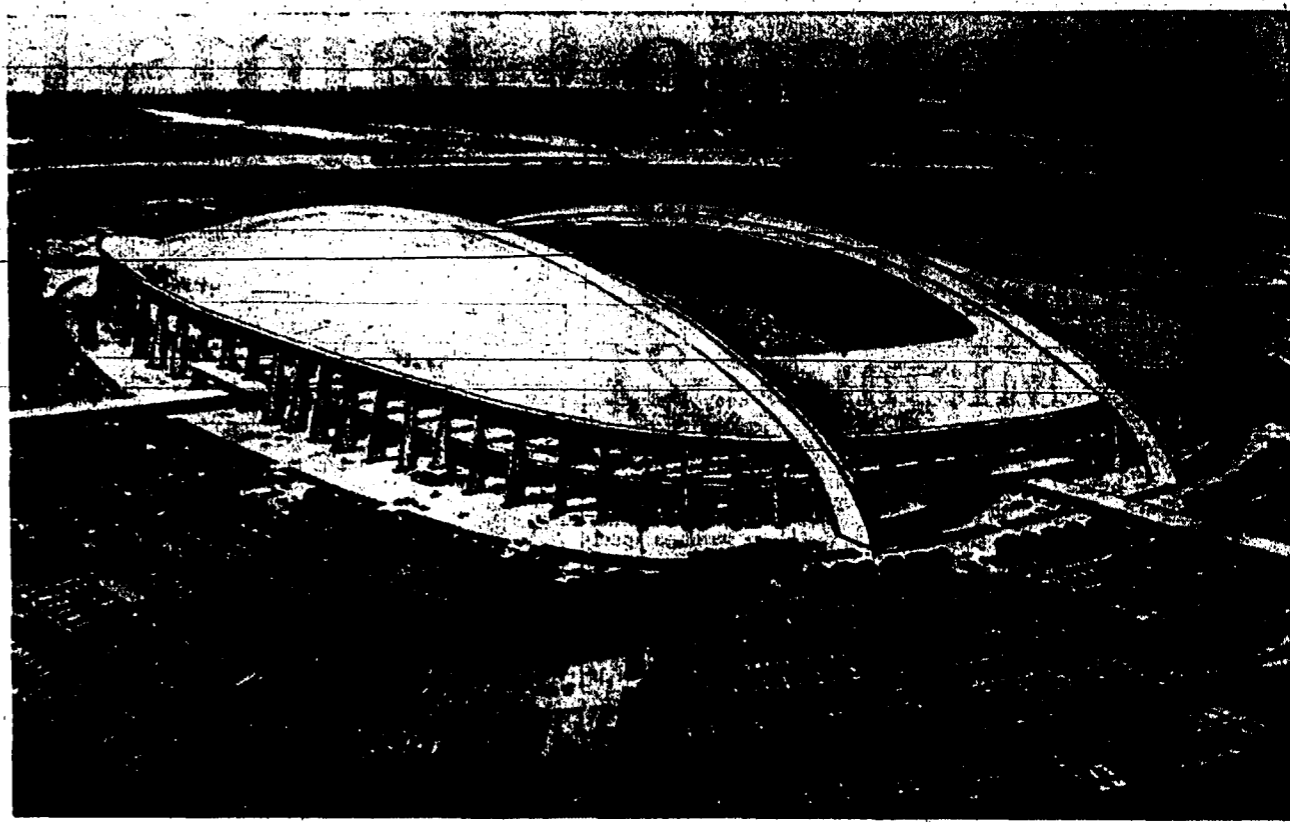

Kickoff for the nationally televised game (ABC) 2:15 p.m. (EST).

The game is the 22nd annual edition of the Muhl Shrine North-South game with all proceeds earmarked for the Variety Children's Hospital in Miami. Last year the game produced $90,624.52 for the hospital and a mark of $100,000 was expected for this year's battle in the Orange Bowl.

Elliott coached North victories in 1959 and 1960. Bridgers was the sidelines boss in 1961 when the South won.

Little Man To Benefit In Balanced Basketball

By BEN OLAN
NEW YORK (AP)—John McHale is starting small but thinking big while seeking to help tip the scales of the game of basketball back to the little man.

McHale is the originator of balanced Basketball, an offshoot of the major sport he has systematized by players' heights. It will be introduced next month for the first time on a full-scale basis in a boys' league in 14 Westchester County, N.Y., towns.

"The game would be so much better if the only criterion was ability, not height," said the 43-year-old former sports columnist for several New Jersey newspapers.

"Under our system, you could have a Wilt Chamberlain on the team, but the other four players would have to be of average height," added McHale, referring to the 7-foot-1 star of Philadelphia's National Basketball Association team.

Balanced Basketball's most intriguing feature is that players are graded by height from zero to nine units. A five-player lineup may not exceed 25 units.

Players 5-foot-10 or taller count for the maximum nine units. Those 5-9 and 5-8 are eight unit players down to zero for players 4-6 and under.

"I've been to many meetings of college basketball coaches and they're all backing me in the experiment. I got some favorable letters from Adolph Rupp," McHale disclosed while referring to Kentucky's veteran mentor.

"We have about 170 boys and I've already measured each one's height," said McHale, who stands 6-foot-3½. "Later on, we'd like to start men's tournaments and see how they work out."

"I love the game and I can't help thinking how much better it would be with five Bob Cousys on a team instead of all those big guys."

1967 Horse Racing Scene Was Spotty

The horse racing picture in the United States for 1967 generally was spotty although a record $4.8 billion was bet on the thoroughbreds and standardbreds combined.

For the first time in years, aggregate attendance at the running and harness racing tracks declined. A year-end survey by The Associated Press Friday showed 62,619,185 bettors turned out compared to 63,391,608 in 1966.

Total wagering was $4,852,890,970, up from the $4,654,149,033 a year ago. Of this, $3,372,352,376 went through the pari-mutuels at the thoroughbred tracks and $1,480,538,594 at the trotters. Attendance at the flats was 39,619,185 and 23,000,000 at the sulky plants. The USTA said the sulky figures probably will be higher when complete December statistics are tabulated.

Increases in the states of New Jersey, California, Illinois and Louisiana in contrast to declines in New York, Florida and Michigan contributed to the over-all spotty picture.

Montreal Drops Oakland 4-2

MONTREAL (AP) — Rookies Mickey Redmond and Jacques Laperrriere lifted Montreal into an early 2-0 lead and the Canadiens went on to a 4-2 victory over stumbling Oakland in a National Hockey League game Saturday night.

Redmond notched his fourth goal on a power play at 2:06 of the first period, and Laperrriere made it 2-0 with his second score at 2:55 of the second session.

Pistons Rally To Drop San Diego

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Dave DeBusschere and Dave Bing together scored 26 points in the fourth quarter Saturday night to lead the Detroit Pistons to a 123-119 come-from-behind National Basketball Association victory over the San Diego Rockets.

Bing tied the score with 2:59 remaining on a 12-foot jump shot. The Rockets had led 95-81 at the end of the third period.

Colorado Claims Bluebonnet Bowl Win

Buffaloes Erupt In Last Half To Top Miami 31-21

By MAX B. SKELTON
HOUSTON (AP) — Bob Anderson, an injured but brilliant quarterback, made two touchdowns Saturday to pull Colorado from behind twice in the second half as the underdog Buffs scored a 31-21 Bluebonnet Bowl victory over the Miami Hurricanes from Florida.

An ankle injury had prevented Anderson from starting the game but the 200-pounder operated smoothly while directing the pair of 80-yard second half surges.

Anderson ended the first by powering over from the two and capped the second with a spectacular 38-yard touchdown scamper.

In between the two long Colorado drives, Bill Miller, a reserve quarterback, had come off the Miami bench to engineer an 85-yard drive that gave the Hurricanes a brief 21-17 lead. Miller passed nine yards to Jerry Daanan in the end zone on the first play of the fourth period.

Just seconds after Anderson's

38-yard run had regained the lead at 24-21, Colorado snuffed out Miami's final hopes with an interception at the Hurricane 34. Eight plays later, Wilmer Cooks, the short yardage specialist from Dallas, Tex., bulled over from the two for the final touchdown.

Anderson did not enter the game until late in the third period but netted 108 yards in 17 carries and completed five of 10 passes for 49. The performance earned him a near unanimous vote as the game's most outstanding back.

The lineman award went to Ted Hendricks, the All-American defensive end for the Miami club that had been favored over the Big Eight Conference Buffs by six points.

Utah Hands 99-87 Loss On Denver

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The University of Utah made it eight in a row Saturday night bumping Denver University 99-87 in the last home basketball game of the month in Salt Lake City.

The Redskins started with an early lead and never lost it. Utah's senior guard Merv (The Magician) Jackson led all scoring with 19 points. He also ended his long string of consecutive freethrows by missing on his first attempt.

Going into the Saturday night game, Jackson had hit his last 36 freethrows to set a new Utah record for the most consecutive foul shots made. The old record was 26 set by Jackson last year. Denver was outplayed badly on the boards as Utah picked up 63 rebounds to Denver's 43.

The Redskins take their undefeated record to the Far West Classic in Portland, Ore., next week.

Chicago Wins Ninth Straight

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Black Hawks ran their unbeaten streak to nine games Saturday night and maintained their hold on the National Hockey League East Division lead by downing the West Division Philadelphia Flyers 3-2.

The victory left the defending champions two points ahead of Boston which defeated New York 4-0.

UNIVERSITY OF COLORADO quarterback Dan Kelly (15) breaks away from Ted Hendricks (89) Miami University end, and goes for an eight yard gain on a keeper play in the first

Buff Quarterback Awoke In Time To Beat Miami

HOUSTON (AP) — Colorado great showing to the offensive quarterback Bob Anderson was sound asleep when his teammates got on the bus and left for the Bluebonnet Bowl.

"Nobody missed me," said Anderson, who bummed a ride from a University of Houston coach and got to the Bowl in time to give the Buffs a 31-21 upset victory.

Injured in Colorado's last regular season game, against the Air Force Academy, his twisted ankle had healed well enough for Anderson to check in just before intermission Saturday, score two touchdowns, gain 108 yards in 17 carries and compile another 49 yards by completing five of his 10 passes.

The newsmen watching the game voted him most valuable back, and the man who got missed in the dormitory headcount was the Buff everyone wanted to slap on the back.

Anderson gave credit for his line "who really wiped those guys out."

"I just couldn't believe it," he said. "I'm just happy."

Eddie Crowder, the Colorado head coach, said he had planned to play both Anderson and Dan Kelly at quarterback about one-half the time.

"I was reluctant to start Bob today because Kelly had been practicing so well and had really earned the assignment," he said.

Downcast but still chattering at his lightning clip, Miami coach Charlie Tate said Anderson's entrance made the difference in the game.

"Colorado didn't do anything we thought it was impossible to do," Tate said. "They did what we expected but better. Anderson was the difference — devastating in his running."

Things have quieted down very well in the rumor-department as evidently people are looking more toward Christmas than toward who will be the next football coaches at the two universities.

It is rather surprising that neither has come up with a selection yet, particularly Idaho which started the search ahead of Idaho. We had anticipated both being filled by now.

While things have been quiet, there still have been some reports making the rounds. In the past couple of weeks we've heard only one name in connection with Idaho State. That name is Tom Roach, offensive backfield coach at Wyoming.

Things appear quite sticky at Idaho with the Boise chapter of the Idaho Vandal Boosters having drawn up a resolution demanding that Ed Troxel get the job immediately. That resolution was mailed to Moscow three weeks ago, now, so the immediate part is past. But Boise is very financially and politically situated in the Idaho scheme of things, making that group's public resolution a possible rift.

The thing is, as we understand, Coach Troxel, although well known in Idaho, is not considered to have much in the realm of outside connections for help in recruiting. With three major four-year schools, plus the neighboring universities, seeking manpower in Idaho, this little state won't be able to provide enough to go around. In fact, year-in, year-out, it is doubtful if the state could provide one university with a real good fresh crop.

Idaho has reduced its 47 applicants—the largest number for the three openings in the state this fall—to a workable number. But we haven't come up with any names for certain—a couple being a man from Oklahoma, one from Washington and heaven knows if they are correct.

Coach Eddie Sutton of College of Southern Idaho is taking the Christmas vacation to do a little preliminary recruiting work back in his home area.

"We've got to get some people in here next year," says Coach Sutton as with a couple of exceptions the Eagles are playing on the recruitment of two years ago.

When the Eagles were having trouble shaking loose from Ricks Monday night, Coach Sutton tossed them a little something to think about at half-time. All the boys were ready to go home from the game and were understandably anxious.

Coach Sutton, noting a meager 33-30 lead wasn't what he'd anticipated, told the boys if they lost it they could forget the Christmas vacation at home and plan to return to Twin Falls for two weeks of three-a-day practice drills. Sutton believes that's when you make a team anyhow—during the holiday vacation.

Just before leaving the dressing room, Coach Sutton said, "If you don't believe I won't keep you here, just try losing this one!"

Fred Trenkle provides the next part. As the door closed behind him, Ples Vance who played for Sutton at Central High in Tulsa, got up and said, "Men, I think it's time to go to work."

Camas County Overwhelms Bruneau

BRUNEAU — Big Dan Moon and St. Clair combined for 32 points in the first half Saturday night to point the Camas County Musers to an easy 83-51 Northside Conference decision over Bruneau.

Moon picked up 18 points and St. Clair chipped in with 14 more as the Musers hurried into a 43-16 lead. After that Coach Phil Brackenbury went with the second unit without much appreciable change.

Kentucky Beats S. C. To Win Own Tourney

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Three sophomores scored in double figures to lead seventh-ranked Kentucky to a 76-66 victory over South Carolina and the championship of the University of Kentucky Invitational tournament Saturday night.

Cincinnati nipped Dayton 71-70 for third place when John Howard bounced up from the floor and scored the winning points.

Kentucky's Mike Casey, who scored 19 points in the final game, was named most valuable player of the two-day tournament, the richest holiday basketball meet in the country.

Named with Casey to the All-Tournament Team was Skip Harlicka and Gary Gregor of South Carolina, Howard and Dayton's Don May.

Kentucky, down six points with 8:12 to go in the first half, put on a seven-minute scoring spree and went ahead by nine, 34-25, with 1:14 to go.

Mike Pratt added 17 and Dan Issel 14 for Kentucky.

Packers Rip Rams, Take Division Title

Green Bay Blunts Boast Of 'Fearsome Foursome' In Racking Up 28-7 Win

By KEN HARTNETT
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — The Green Bay Packers' defense stole the thunder from the famed "Fearsome Foursome" with help from Bart Starr and the phenomenal Travis Williams.

Williams humbled the Los Angeles Rams 28-7 to capture the National Football League's Western Conference Championship Saturday.

Lombardi Says Team Gave Effort Of Year

By DENNIS J. SORESENSEN
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — For the Green Bay Packers, Saturday's Western Conference playoff in the National Football League was a great challenge and the Packers' "best effort this year."

Green Bay flanker Carroll Dale, who caught a touchdown pass and grabbed a 48-yard pass that set up another score, said the chilly, 12-mile per hour cross wind made catching the long pass difficult.

For the Los Angeles Rams, said Coach George Allen, it was another in a long string of challenges—and one for which his tired players couldn't get "up" as high as they had been.

"I had trouble getting adjusted to the long ball," said Dale, whose touchdown reception was on a 17-yard pass from Bart Starr.

Lombardi said, "The game was a great challenge" in a season that didn't present too many challenges.

"The Packers were the only factor in this game," said the dejected Ram coach.

UCLA Belts Notre Dame For 39th Win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mighty UCLA rolled to its 39th straight basketball victory Saturday night, crushing Notre Dame 114-63 despite the Irish leprechaun mascot brought along for good luck.

"The Packers deserved to win," said Allen. "They were hitting hard and were just a better team."

Led by tackle Henry Jordan and Willie Davis and middle linebacker Ray Nitschke, the Packers time and again savagely stopped Ram thrusts deep into Packer territory.

Minutes later, the Rams appeared poised to break the game open as Lamson picked off a Starr pass at the Packer 34 and returned it to the 10.

Wood River Has 57-46 Win Over Buhl

HAILEY — Wood River's Wolverines, getting 18 points from Bowlden, drove past the Buhl Indians 57-46 Friday night in a non-conference game that does count toward pairings in the A-2 district tournament.

PITTSBURGH WINS
PITTSBURGH (AP) — Pittsburgh moved into a third place tie with Minnesota in the National Hockey League's West Division, handing the North Stars their second straight shut-out, 4-0 Saturday night.

CARROLL DALE (89) of the Green Bay Packers, outmaneuvers Los Angeles Ram defensive back Irv Cross (27) to catch a pass in the end zone for a second-quarter score in the NFL Western-Division championship game in Milwaukee Saturday afternoon. Green Bay downed the Rams 28-7. (AP wirephoto)

Yastrzemski Receives Ty Cobb Award

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Carl Yastrzemski, flashy Boston Red Sox outfielder, Saturday was named winner of the first annual Ty Cobb Award given by the Atlanta chapter of the Baseball Writers' Association of America as "baseball's most exciting player."

son for the award named for the late "Georgia Peach" of the Detroit Tigers, was chosen for his hitting and fielding which carried the Red Sox to the American League crown and into the seventh game of the World Series.

The Red Sox ace batted over .500 the last two weeks of the series in Boston's winning surge and he won the American League triple crown by batting .326, driving in 121 runs and slamming 44 home runs. The Ty Cobb award is given to the big league player whose performance was most symbolic of Cobb's exciting play.

Cowboys, Browns Vie Today

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
DALLAS (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys, who lacked just two yards of possibly winning the National Football League championship last year, take what they hope will be the first step toward that goal here Sunday when they meet the Cleveland Browns.

It is the playoff for the Eastern Conference championship, this time with the class of division leaders—Dallas of the Capitol and the Browns of the Century.

Ahead will be the playoff with the Western Conference champion, Green Bay, a 28-7 victor over the Los Angeles Rams Saturday.

Dallas and Cleveland each have a 9-5 record and each has shown its hills and valleys, looking very bad at times, very good at other times.

And each seemed able to get fired up at just the right time, when it had to win.

And both are due to be really fired up for this one, each thinking about the championship and to disapprove mutterings from the other divisions that here is mediocrity.

Dallas beat Cleveland 21-14 in its opening league game. And the Cowboys won two before taking a hammering from Los Angeles. On the other hand, Cleveland started out by losing two in a row, then rallying to win four. From then on it was much like a seesaw for both clubs.

The Browns are the best team on the ground in the NFL, averaging 152.8 yards per game and featuring the pounding runs of Leroy Kelly, who led the league in rushing with 1,205 yards, and Ernie Green, who racked up 710 between injuries.

Dallas tops the league in defense against rushing, allowing a piddling 77.2.

"The Fun Spot . . . South of the Border"

STANDING OUTSIDE his parents' home, Private Fox wears the Green Beret which is so difficult to come by. The training is unbelievable to the layman. It is no game. The job description would read like an encyclopedia of warfare. During initial training at Ft. Benning, Private Fox became honor graduate in his class and received the following words from his commanding officer: "Your enthusiasm, aggressiveness, attention to detail in both garrison and training, and ability to blend technical knowledge with practical application have enabled you to become the Honor Graduate of Airborne Class Number 20. The over-all performance, high morale and esprit de corps of your class could only have been achieved as a result of your superior leadership . . ."

READING A BOOKLET called, "What does it take to Rate A Beret?" Private Francis H. Fox, IV, son of Dr. and Mrs. Francis Fox, III, is spending the holidays with his family prior to reporting at the JFK Special Warfare Center, Ft. Bragg, N. C., Jan. 2. Private Fox did what he set out to do last July when he entered the Army. At that time he wanted to become a member of this country's elite group of fighting men, the Special Forces—the men who wear the Green Beret. He made the grade and will begin further training at the JFK Special Warfare Center after becoming honor graduate in a class of 1,200 at airborne training in Ft. Benning, Ga. And now the difficult training begins. And for most, airborne training is difficult enough.

a way with words

Editor's Note: This is the first installment of a weekly feature on the world of words. It concerns itself with the fine art of putting one word after another . . . hopefully in an enjoyable manner. Putting words together in a somewhat unusual order, or at least an interesting fashion is a broad-based and enjoyable hobby for many. Contributions of merit to this feature will be accepted. Address: Feature Editor, Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Seen on the back of a pickup truck tailgate: "Crime Doesn't Pay!" and below in smaller type, "but then neither does farming."

Be thankful that we commit a few verbal and written errors in our society. Marshall McLuhan, the Canadian professor, observes that, "Nobody ever made a grammatical error in a non-literate society." Next time you say something wrong, think how lucky we are.

Have you ever stopped to wonder why "Roget's Thesaurus" devotes six columns to the synonyms, verbs, nouns, and adjectives of "stupidity" and less than one column to "wisdom?"

We ran across a few palindromes, or words and phrases which read the same forward or backward. Children in school often enjoy this oddity of language in such words as pip, bib, sees, and madam. But they can get longer.

And the phrases that make sense are the most interesting of all. One of the best known palindromes is, "Madam I'm Adam," which can be read either backward or forward. A few lesser known palindrome phrases are: "Madam, in Eden I'm Adam!"—"Lewd did I live; evil did I dwell."—"Ma is a Nun, ras, I am."—"Live not on evil."—"Do Good's deeds live on? Evil's deeds do, O God!"—"A Man, A Plan, A Canal—Panama!" So much for palindromes.

Ever wonder who the first President of the United States was? Of course not, you say. It was Washington. Not so. At least, if you read the question correctly it isn't so.

The Articles of Confederation, adopted by the Continental Congress in 1778, were not ratified by all of the States, Maryland being the last to assent, until March 1, 1781. The Articles designated Congress as "the United States in Congress Assembled." Therefore the Presidents of the Sessions of the Continental Congress after the Articles became effective usually signed themselves, "President of the United States in Congress Assembled." The first President of the United States under the Articles of Confederation was Thomas McKean of Delaware. McKean was succeeded by several other Presidents who actually served under the Articles: John Hanson, Elias Boudinot, Thomas Mifflin, Richard Henry Lee, Nathaniel Gorham, Arthur St. Clair, and Cyrus Griffin. Concerning George Washington, all we can really say is that he was the first President "under the Constitution" or that he was the first President of the United States "of America."

Something that makes sense when you say it, but is impossible for a secretary to write down so that it reads the same way it was said, would seem impossible. But there is one such phrase. Written here it doesn't look right, and it isn't. But read it out loud and it will make perfect sense to a listener. On paper it is simply a mistake: "There are three 2s in the English language."

How about the lowly pun? One of the most intellectual forms of wit, it usually draws a groan, rather than a laugh. But nevertheless puns are here to stay. Some even say the Catholic Church was founded on a pun. In the Gospel According to St. Matthew (XVI, 18) Jesus answered Simon, changing (Continued On Page A-8)

Wearing A Green Beret Doesn't Make You Tough, It's Earning It That Rips The Guts Out Of You

By JAN A. SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor

Not long ago when a man finished Airborne training and became a U.S. paratrooper, he was among the toughest human beings on this earth.

He ran when others in training walked.

And he was fighting while others were still trying to get there.

And most of all, he knew he was the toughest—and he was willing to prove it at the drop of an insult.

And today, that same training—once considered by many as the toughest in the world—is prep-school for the Green Berets.

No unit is more specialized and at the same time as broad-based as the Special Forces, the official name for those who wear the Green Berets.

And few train as hard or as extensively in as many areas as the Green Berets. There may be others as good, but there are none better.

And a 20 year old man from Twin Falls, Francis Fox, made it.

He is known to most of his friends as Frank; and Frank wanted to make it back in July, but at that time he was the only one that was sure he would.

There is no guarantee that anyone will earn the right to wear the Green Beret.

All the Army can do is sign up a recruit for Airborne training—and there is no way anyone can be sure the recruit can make it.

Most recruits have no idea what they're up against. They see the glory of jumping from an airplane at 1,200 feet above the ground, and somehow forget the agony of straps cutting into skin, and the sickness that comes from running all day, and the jarring sound of morning, and the never-ending hours in a never-ending day.

And if they make it, and over half who start fail to make it, they may be allowed to go on to Special Forces.

The first time a new man jumps isn't the worst. According to Pvt. Fox, "It's the second jump. The first one isn't that bad because you don't know what to expect. But the second jump—you know what's coming—and it's no picnic."

But he chose to do it . . . and now that he has made the grade he will enter Special Forces training Jan. 2, at the JFK Special Warfare Center,

Ft. Bragg, N. C.

After eight weeks of basic training, additional advanced training, and Airborne jump school, Pvt. Fox will begin training which will be even more difficult than what he has already been through.

To become a Special Forces Trooper a soldier must be a paratrooper, and then he is trained to become a "professional fighter." To do that was what Frank Fox set out to accomplish last July.

On his arrival at the JFK Special Warfare Center Jan. 2, Pvt. Fox will be trained for guerrilla warfare. He will be trained in five areas, and specialize in one. The areas of training include Communications, Medics, Demolitions, Operations and Intelligence, and Weapons.

Pvt. Fox has shown an aptitude toward Medics and will be trained in that field. He already has two years of pre-medical training at the College of Idaho. And he plans to become a dentist.

But in the Medic program of the Special Forces, Pvt. Fox will spend 37 weeks, beginning at Brooke Army Hospital in Fort Sam Houston. On the job (Continued On Page A-3)

One Ham To Another--This Is W7CTX

Nowadays a word isn't all it seems. Once upon a time a "ham" was just that—a ham. But today it's meat, an actor who is too enthusiastic, or someone who operates an amateur radio.

And by far the one which receives the least notice is the amateur radio operator. By the very nature of his hobby, it is done in private and with other members of that ilk. It is a consuming hobby which takes work and effort. But after an initial investment, although no more than most hobbies, the cost of being a "ham" operator is negligible.

And its rewards are great. Amateur radio operators are licensed by the Federal Communications Commission. And the rules and regulations are encyclopedic.

To become a "ham," as amateur operators have been called since they started to organize, an applicant for a beginner's license, called "novice" class, must pass both written tests and a test to determine proficiency in the use of International Morse Code. The beginner must only be able to send and receive five words a minute, a rate which is quickly increased by most. And as licenses progress the tests involving theory become more involved, and code speed increases.

The highest license granted by the FCC is the Amateur Extra Class, which requires two years experience as a licensed amateur, in addition to extensive testing on theory and regulations. All amateur licenses are in effect for five years and are renewable, with the exception of the Novice Class which expires fully after two years.

All ham operators in the United States have call letters assigned to them with the prefix "W" or "K." Mexican radio stations use "XE" and Canadian hams have "VE" as a prefix. Through the world wide system of call letters, and call letter prefixes, hams are able to tell what country another station is sending from just by hearing the call.

If you're interested in ham radio as a hobby a station can be purchased for as little as $50. Many beginners start in the $80 to $100 bracket. And many have stations totaling over $10,000 worth of radio equipment.

It is an "add-on" hobby with limits set only by the individual operator.

Some are in amateur radio work because they enjoy talking with other hams in countries throughout the world. And some are in it for the enjoyment of building electronic equipment and then seeing it work. Some enjoy experimenting with new equipment and new designs of their own. Many enjoy the cloak and dagger work of tracing "DX," foreign country stations with signals which are fleeting or weak. Others work for awards. Some enjoy handling "traffic," which is third party messages.

At Christmas time these are extremely popular. A neighbor will want to give a message to an uncle in Kansas for example—or better yet—a relative in Mexico or Alaska.

In such cases a message is usually given to a ham: the ham transmits, asking for someone in the distant town or country, and if he is successful the message is given to the other party, or in some cases is relayed to another ham who "knows" a ham in that area. The ham at the other end contacts the individual the message is addressed to, and the cycle is complete.

This writer had such an experience in 1961 in Fayetteville, N.C. Living near an Army base, Fort Bragg, I had no known contact with any ham. At least I didn't think I had forgotten that a good friend who had started his ham work, and devoted considerable time to it, was at that time in New York state, at West Point.

One morning I was awakened from a sound Sunday-day-off-type sleep by a man who said he had a friend of mine on the radio earlier and that he was going to call back at nine a.m.

It was 8:50 then and so we just made it. He told me that he was from New Mexico and was driving through North Carolina on a trip with his family. He was monitoring his radio as he was driving into Fayetteville when he heard the call from my friend. The operator in Fayetteville told my West Point buddy that he would try to contact me. He did. And through a middle-man from New Mexico I talked on a ham radio for nearly 30 minutes to my good friend in New York, from my temporary home in North Carolina. And the man wouldn't accept any money for his inconvenience. As a result of the conversation I made a trip to see my friend a week later at the Point.

In the same category are phone patches, which connect phone lines to a ham's rig. In this way a person at home can talk with a relative a thousand miles away and it costs only the price of a local call.

Most hams, and that includes those in the Twin Falls area, enjoy running patches for the military men overseas. Jeff Bishop, of Twin Falls, whose call letters are W7CTX, and who has a radio in his car as well as one in his home, spends considerable time at this.

In his words, "One night I was working one of the stations at the South Pole and he had asked me if I had a phone patch, so I wound up running six different calls from some of the men there to their wives and families. It took two hours on the phone, but it is actually one of the rewards of being a ham."

"Another time I was working a station in California when a mobile station (rig in his car) called me and said it was an emergency. He had a flat tire right in the middle of the L.A. Freeway and cars were going past on both sides at speeds over sixty miles per hour. To make it worse, he didn't have a jack.

"I called for another L.A. station who could make a quick call and we had a police car and two trucks dispatched in about five minutes total. And this type of thing happens more than most realize.

"A ham in Nashville, Tenn., told me his name was Chet and that he had a brother who lived (Continued On Page A-3)

IF YOU SEE something like this in front of you in traffic—it is almost a sure bet that the man is a "ham," an amateur radio operator. His call letters are listed in his back window and a whip-antenna signifies that he has a receiver, or sending device, in his car. Many hams have mobile units that are part of their regular set at home. The unit is light enough that it can be taken from house to car, and from car to house in minutes.

SANTA CLAUS

Mr. And Mrs. Claus Hope To Settle In Magic Valley At Retirement Age

Santa Claus was one of the first visitors to the Magic Valley in the middle 1800's when people first began to settle permanently in this area. "I remember it well," says Santa Claus. "It was beautiful then, and in a way I was sad that I had only a few families to visit at that time. I remember wanting to spend longer here, and now with all the wonderful people through the valley, I can."

Santa Claus spends only one full day a year in Magic Valley, but as the jolly, bewiskered man says, "One day is all I need to appreciate the beauty of the valley, and to gladden the hearts of the boys and girls here."

Usually, Santa Claus spends many hours in the Magic Valley each Christmas Eve. And he often gets caught in traffic and finds it somewhat difficult to get to everyone's house. "You can't even trust the air anymore," says Santa, "its full of people in flying machines trying to get home for the holidays."

As mentioned, Santa first came to the Magic Valley in the middle 1800's, at a time when houses were few and far between. But his gifts were appreciated even then.

"After working all my life to bring happiness to children throughout the world," says Santa, "I hope someday to settle in the Magic Valley. Still, its a long way off, and it won't happen until I retire which won't be for several thousand years."

"I could be forced into retirement," continued Santa, "but I think people are too wise to bring that about. The Christmas season means too much to small boys and girls." Asked if he ever brings his wife, Mrs. Claus, along with him on his annual trip to the Magic Valley, Santa responded by saying, "On one occasion, a few hundred years ago, I brought her with me just to see how pretty the valley really was. But now she cleans the house and waits for me to return."

Even though Santa hopes to settle in the Magic Valley in years to come, he has spent most of his time in other areas. Only lately does Santa admit that he flies over the valley every so often, even in the summer, just to see if the boys and girls are taking good care of the presents he gives them. "Besides," says Santa, "I like to look at the valley in the summer when it's green and lush.

Where I live most of the year, it just isn't green at all." Santa Claus was born in New York, of English parents. At least this Santa Claus was. Some of his ancestors were born much earlier, even as far back as the fourth century. Yet in New York in those early days Santa Claus was actually a gift of the Dutch.

But, going back even further in the history of Santa Claus, we receive new insight into how the happy little man came into being.

Saint Nicholas, Santa's greatest-grandfather, was not born as one might suspect in the land of snow and igloos, but in the green-hills-and-warm-sun-of southern Turkey. When he grew to be a young man his parents died and left him a good quantity of money, and instead of spending the money on himself, Nicholas gave the money away to the poor, and to those in need of help. And he helped them secretly, seeking no reward in either praise or recognition.

A story is told of how Nicholas knew of a poor nobleman in his home town of Patara, Turkey, who had three beautiful daughters. The family was so poor that the three daughters wanted to get married, but had no money for the weddings. In those days it was impossible to marry off a daughter unless there was enough money to give her a wedding. One night Nicholas, standing in the dark outside a window of the house, threw a bag of gold inside and then ran.

But after a while, Nicholas began to think. What if the gold were not enough for the three daughters to get married. And so he went back again and threw another bag of gold through the open window. And again, he ran.

Later, thinking that maybe the third daughter still wouldn't have enough, he decided to throw a third bag of gold through an open window. But when he returned the windows were closed. And so Nicholas decided to climb onto the roof of the house and throw the bag of gold down the chimney. Earlier that night the three daughters had washed their stockings and hung them by the fireplace to dry, and when Nicholas tossed the bag down the chimney the gold fell into their stockings. With the gold all three daughters married and lived happily ever after.

And so the tradition of hanging Christmas stockings by the fireplace to be filled, began.

Later, Nicholas became Bishop of Myra, and churches were built in Italy in honor of St. Nicholas.

St. Nicholas Day was proclaimed to be December 6th, and parties and presents to celebrate became a way of life, and finally became part of the Christmas season and spirit.

The Dutch name for St. Nicholas was slowly changed to Santa Claus because it was easier to say and children could remember it easily. The English in New York officially gave sanction to the name Santa Claus and in use it flourished as it does today.

Although Santa Claus and his ancestors have homes throughout the world, and are loved by all boys and girls, the boys and

AS YOUR MINISTER SEES IT

By REV. ROBERT C. HARVEY, D.D., First Presbyterian Church Twin Falls

Since it is Sunday you are probably through with all your Christmas shopping. You have mailed the last of the packages and the cards. Perhaps there is some last minute wrapping to be done, but the big rush is over.

Now perhaps there is a moment or two to reflect on whether or not it is all worth it. Has the busyness and the turmoil brought you any closer to God?

Now I can't answer that question for you, and neither can anyone else. Some people give their Christmas gifts in the spirit of Christ, and some people receive them in the Spirit of Christ. To some the beauty of the season, with its decorations, its special music, and greetings, is truly a spiritual experience. For others it probably is nothing but a mad rush that destroys any feelings of peace and good will they may have had.

However, it strikes you, perhaps you now have a few moments to consider the central fact about Christmas. Is it not that the overwhelming and unimaginable love of God became real and concrete in a person? This person shares our humanity; he was born, and we celebrate his birthday. Yet as we celebrate also his life and his presence, we know that there is more here than mere humanity. There is the very revelation of God himself. It is the beginning of a new way of life for anyone who even begins to understand it.

Although the meaning of Christmas can be known and remembered anywhere, it is not the sort of thing that is likely to dawn on us in a crowded store of a snowy street. But in the quietness and loving warmth of your own family (you may have a quiet moment or two between now and tomorrow evening), or in a time of worship in the familiar beauty of your church, you may be surprised by the wonder of love, and the tremendous privilege of sharing his gift by the love and compassion you give to others.

If you had not planned such moments in your home or in your church, there is still time to do it. Many churches are having Christmas Eve services in addition to their regular morning services today. Any family can plan and prepare for a few moments of getting right down to the basic issues of life. Why not resolve now to take care of this last and most important part of the Christmas celebration? You'll be glad you did!

Fulbright Seeks End To Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright is telling his Arkansas constituents U.S. involvements in Vietnam is a mistake and "the best support we can give our troops is to seek an end to the fighting by a negotiated settlement."

"I am convinced from all the evidence presented thus far this war is not worth the price we are paying," said Fulbright, who will be running for reelection next year.

He added, in a Thursday report to his constituents: "This was not a case of aggression, as we have been led to believe, but rather a civil war between two factions of Vietnamese."

"Our involvement has been a mistake and we seem unwilling to acknowledge that mistake and proceed to a settlement of some sort."

MERRY XMAS HAPPY NEW YEAR

TWO OF THE DRESSES sent to the San Joak orphanage out of Seoul, Korea, for Christmas from members of the Future Homemakers of America chapter at Minico High School are shown by Betty Cranney, member. These two dresses were made by Miss Cranney as part of a Christmas project directed by Mrs. Margaret Woodward, adviser. The project began when a member overheard Mrs. L. B. Wrigley, librarian at Minico, mention that her son, Keith Wrigley, had written of his concern for the 80 orphans who would have no Christmas without help from others.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Eighty orphaned Korean girls will receive Christmas gifts this year, many of them for the first time in their lives, because of a RUPERT serviceman and the Future Homemakers of America club of Minico High School.

Keith Wrigley, who is serving with the army in missile and ordnance work in Korea, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. B. Wrigley, Rupert, and has been in the service for two years, the last nine months in Korea.

He is serving as president of an LDS Branch for servicemen there and through his work with the Relief Society president who is also the matron of the Sang Joak Orphanage just out of Seoul, became acquainted with the girls there.

Keith and a friend, Stan Bronson, felt that each of the girls whose ages range from 4 to 18 should have a Christmas gift of her own. He wrote to his mother who is a librarian at Minico, saying "Help."

One of the FHA girls overheard Mrs. Wrigley discussing the problem with a co-worker and said, "This is a project for the FHA."

When it was presented to the club as a Christmas project members accepted enthusiastically and voted to send each girl a personal gift.

Keith and Stan took pictures of each of the girls and sent them to the FHA members, along with their names and measurements.

FHA members found the small measurements hard to believe. One girl said the 11-year-old for whom she made a dress was nearly the same size as her 6-year-old brother.

The Minico girls took the names, many of them took more than one, chose the pattern and material and paid for them out of their own personal funds and under the direction of their advisers, Mrs. Margaret Woodward, Mrs. Thead Hanks, and Mrs. Charles Raab, made the dresses and wrapped them.

These advisers and some of the student library workers sent gifts to the orphanage personnel. Mrs. Wrigley's daughter and grandchildren took one name and sent a dress.

The dresses were made of attractive prints and plaids in drip dry materials which will be easy to care for. They were well made, many of them professional and even prize-winning, Mrs. Wrigley noted.

She and her husband mailed the packages, although the FHA club paid the postage, which totaled nearly $25, out of funds members had earned as a group.

A number of the packages had to be opened and re-wrapped before sending and Mrs. Wrigley reported finding something extra in nearly every one such as hose, costume jewelry, and even more material.

Four boxes of used clothing were also sent. Everything was sent to Keith who had received most of the articles when he wrote last.

Former Paul residents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Garland who are living in Seoul, are helping with the project. Mrs. Garland taught home economics at Minico about six years ago.

Keith writes that he and his friends can hardly wait for Christmas and the FHA members are excited about it, too. He has promised to take pictures and send them to the girls who are working on their state degrees in FHA and others for their chapter scrapbooks.

At any rate it promises to be the best Christmas the girls at Sang Joak Orphanage have ever had, thanks to a thoughtful, do-something-about-it GI and a group of warm-hearted high school girls.

training will follow at another Army Hospital. He will return to Ft. Bragg and the Special Warfare Center for another 8 weeks of advanced medical training. And he will become an operating member of a Special Forces "A" Detachment. He will take care of the sick and injured men until advanced medical treatment can be secured. And he may have to do so for months, in a jungle, alone.

He will be required to do as much for the native people of a country as he can; and as a teacher, another field he will be trained in, he will teach disease prevention and hygiene to those who need the information.

He will be a part of that 12-man team known as the "A" Detachment, which is the basic operating unit of Special Forces.

The men are trained to fight 50, and to teach 1,500.

The detachment has ten specialists, two in communications, two in operations and intelligence, two in demolitions, two in weapons, and two medicals. In addition each specialist has been cross-trained in another specialty, and can take over in case of emergency. Each man must have at least a working knowledge of another language besides English, and each knows that he can depend on the man next to him.

A Special Forces Trooper must know how to swim, climb mountains, traverse snow, move efficiently through jungle undergrowth, and rappel down the side of a sheer cliff.

He will learn how to paddle a raft up an alligator-infested river, and how to live off the land.

He will learn how to trap animals; to know which plants are poisonous, and how to handle dangerous snakes.

He will learn how to camouflage himself. He will become proficient at evading pursuers and escaping capture.

And he will learn all these things, and more, not just well but expertly.

The life will depend on it—and men don't play games when the stakes are that high.

Pvt. Fox has passed physical and mental tests that would keep many men from even trying.

Very little can be second best. The swimming must be good, at least 200 yards minimum; a "secret" security clearance must be obtained, and background is looked into; test ratings are several cuts above the above-average; and inventiveness and maturity are prime requirements. You must be willing to go anywhere in the world at one minute's notice: no questions asked.

Pvt. Fox is happy to be home for Christmas; on completion of his training as a Special Forces Trooper he will be sent to Vietnam. This Christmas means a lot to all who know him.

about five miles from my home at that time. I called him and they talked for about 20 minutes. After the call both of them thanked me and I turned off my rig. Three days later I received a very nice letter of thanks from the man in Tennessee and only then did I realize that the man was the famous Western star, Chet Atkins, who is also a ham.

"I have heard of other famous hams, but have not worked them, such as Andy Devine and Barry Goldwater. That's one interesting thing about being a ham—you never know who you will meet over the radio.

"It is illegal at this time for American amateurs to work stations in Vietnam, but there are several hospital ships at Vietnam which are equipped with ham gear and are kept on the air almost continuously."

Amateur radio operators also play a very important part in the advent of local emergencies. When phone lines are down and Radio and Television stations are out, and no electricity is available, the emergency power supplies that many hams own provide communications throughout the country. It is a vital part of rescue and communications recognized by every law enforcement department and civil defense staff in the country.

Hams can also be licensed to transmit video signals to each other on one of the VHF (Very High Frequency) ham bands. The expense is prohibitive to many, however. A ham can also use radio-teletype and facsimile which is the transmission of pictures via radio.

One group of hams has built communications satellites and the government has rocketed several of them into space. Some bounce radio signals off the moon, and find listeners on the other side of the earth.

However the equipment for such work is expensive and very few can afford the large, expensive antenna arrays necessary.

In the Magic Valley there are probably 30 or more licensed hams. A few of the most active are: Jeff Bishop, W7CTX; Everett Borah, W7NGA; Rosy Layne, W7DV; Ray Evans, K7HLR; Ken Stone, W7BMF, all of Twin Falls, Cliff Burgess, K7IAR, Jerome, and Rex McClain, K7DMZ, Eden. There are many more but these are a few of those active in an organization known as the Magic Valley Amateur Radio Club. Meetings were discontinued for the summer but the group is presently reorganizing for the winter months.

Ham radio operators are both friendly and cooperative; they almost have to be—they talk with people from every state, and from many different countries. They travel the world over on radio waves nearly every night of the year.

Year-Round Anglers Have More Water For Fishing During Off-Season Months

By JIM HUMBERD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Fishermen whose devotion to their sport is so great their friends charge them with having traded Santa Claus for Isaac Walton will note with glee that the 1968 fishing regulations set aside more waters for year-round angling than last year. This is in line with a trend that has developed over the past ten years to gradually expand the number of places to fish during the off-season months.

One rule of thumb used to judge whether a place should stay open for fishing all year, or whether it should close with the general statewide trout season on October 31, goes like this: Will wintertime anglers catch fish that were stocked as fingerlings the previous spring with the idea that they will make their growth and be ready for the creel by opening day of the next general statewide trout season?

This happens anyway at Magic Reservoir, for example, and would be the case at other reservoirs such as Mackay, Island Park and Henrys Lake, to name just a few, if the general fishing season did not close in the fall. Fingerlings planted in Magic Reservoir in early spring time grow so fast that anglers start catching them as 7-to-8 inchers long before the curtain comes down on October 31.

Other reservoirs such as Little Wood, Fish Creek and Roseworth can be kept open for ice fishing in January and February without cutting into trout stocks that are intended for harvesting the next summer and early fall. This kind of management goes into effect January 1, 1968, at Palisades Reservoir in southeastern Idaho, where angling heretofore has opened and closed with the regular statewide trout season.

Some fish must be caught when they are there. Sea-run steelhead trout is one such species. Best fall angling for steelhead starts about mid-October, depending on weather, and it is more or less good until too much ice on the Snake, Salmon and Clearwater, makes fishing difficult and unsafe. As winter reluctantly loosens its grip on these waterways, usually sometime in March, steelheaders come back once more to fall the riffles and deep pools for these great fish.

Northern Idaho fishermen catch more giant Mackinaw and Kamloops rainbow trout in May, the first part of the special lake season in the Panhandle region; and from mid-October through November. Some of the largest lake trout ever brought to creel in Idaho were hooked during the early and late parts of the special lake season. These likewise are the months when the bulk of kokanee or blueback salmon harvest, which generally averages more than a million fish, is made on Priest, Pend Oreille and Coeur d'Alene lakes—between storms.

Late January and early February are the outside dates between which the run of peaknose cisco, a unique species of small whitefish, come out of the depths of Bear Lake to spawn in the shallows of the sandy beaches in southeastern Idaho and Utah.

A special six-week season allows cisco to be dip-netted. The limit is 50 fish a day.

What care fishermen such as these that rabbit hunting continues on through the holidays, and through February 29, 1968, to be exact; that most quail, chukar and Hungarian partridge shooting runs through New Year's Eve, and in Hells Canyon until the night of January 21; that statewide waterfowl hunting goes through January 4, and for ducks and coots in the special mallard area until January 14?

Most hunting seasons may be about over for another year, except for the cottontails and unprotected species such as crows and jackrabbits, but there still is plenty of fishing. The new regulations, effective January 1, mark each of the state's six fishing areas with a shaded screen box to make them stand out. Beneath these are exceptions to general statewide fishing season regulations and listed separately, by name, are waters that are kept open for year-round angling.

Because the temperature of a fish's body is the same as the water surrounding it, the metabolism slows down during cold weather. It does not eat so much as in the summertime, and needs longer to digest what it does eat. Indeed they are more inclined to loaf in big quiet pools than to search for something to eat out in the riffles.

On the other hand, less food is available. Water insects, which provide most food for trout and whitefish, are lying inactive under stones and in mud and so are unavailable. Minnows also hide under rocks in the winter. Of course, no land insects fall into the stream during cold months.

As a result of these two factors, trout and whitefish won't go out of their way to get caught, but they will take bait that comes close to them. Trout will take artificial lures—flies, if the water is clear, or spoons, spinners and small plugs—that are fished properly. They must be put down deep, where the fish are, and moved slowly.

The two most important principles of winter fishing are: (1) find the fish, and (2) put the bait down where they are and make it easy for them to take. This holds for all kinds of fishing, and for all species of fish. Trout shift from one place to another, and whitefish run in big schools during the winter. One pool may be crowded with them and another that looks just as good will be barren.

Spinning tackle probably is the most efficient for bait fishing, regardless of what the season may be. Monofilament nylon won't pick up so much water and, consequently, won't fill the guides full of ice this time of year quite as fast as braided line. There are many tricks to make winter fishing more comfortable and successful, including warm clothing and insulated foot gear.

And, of course, there always is the presumption at the outset that the spirit is hardy and willing, though the flesh sometimes is weak.

POPULAR ICE FISHING areas include Roseworth Reservoir, shown here, along with Little Wood and Fish Creek reservoirs. These have special ice fishing seasons in January and February. They can support winter fisheries without cutting into trout stocks that are intended for harvesting next summer and early fall. Palisades likewise will have this kind of management for the first time, effective January 1 with the new 1968 fishing regulations.

WONDERFUL WORLD OF CHRISTMAS

Women's Section

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house, not a creature was stirring, not even a— good heavens. It's all wrong. Because sure enough, there sits little Deani Lee-Frazier, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle F. Frazier, 633 Buchanan St. She is puzzled. What is Santa going to put in the stockings?

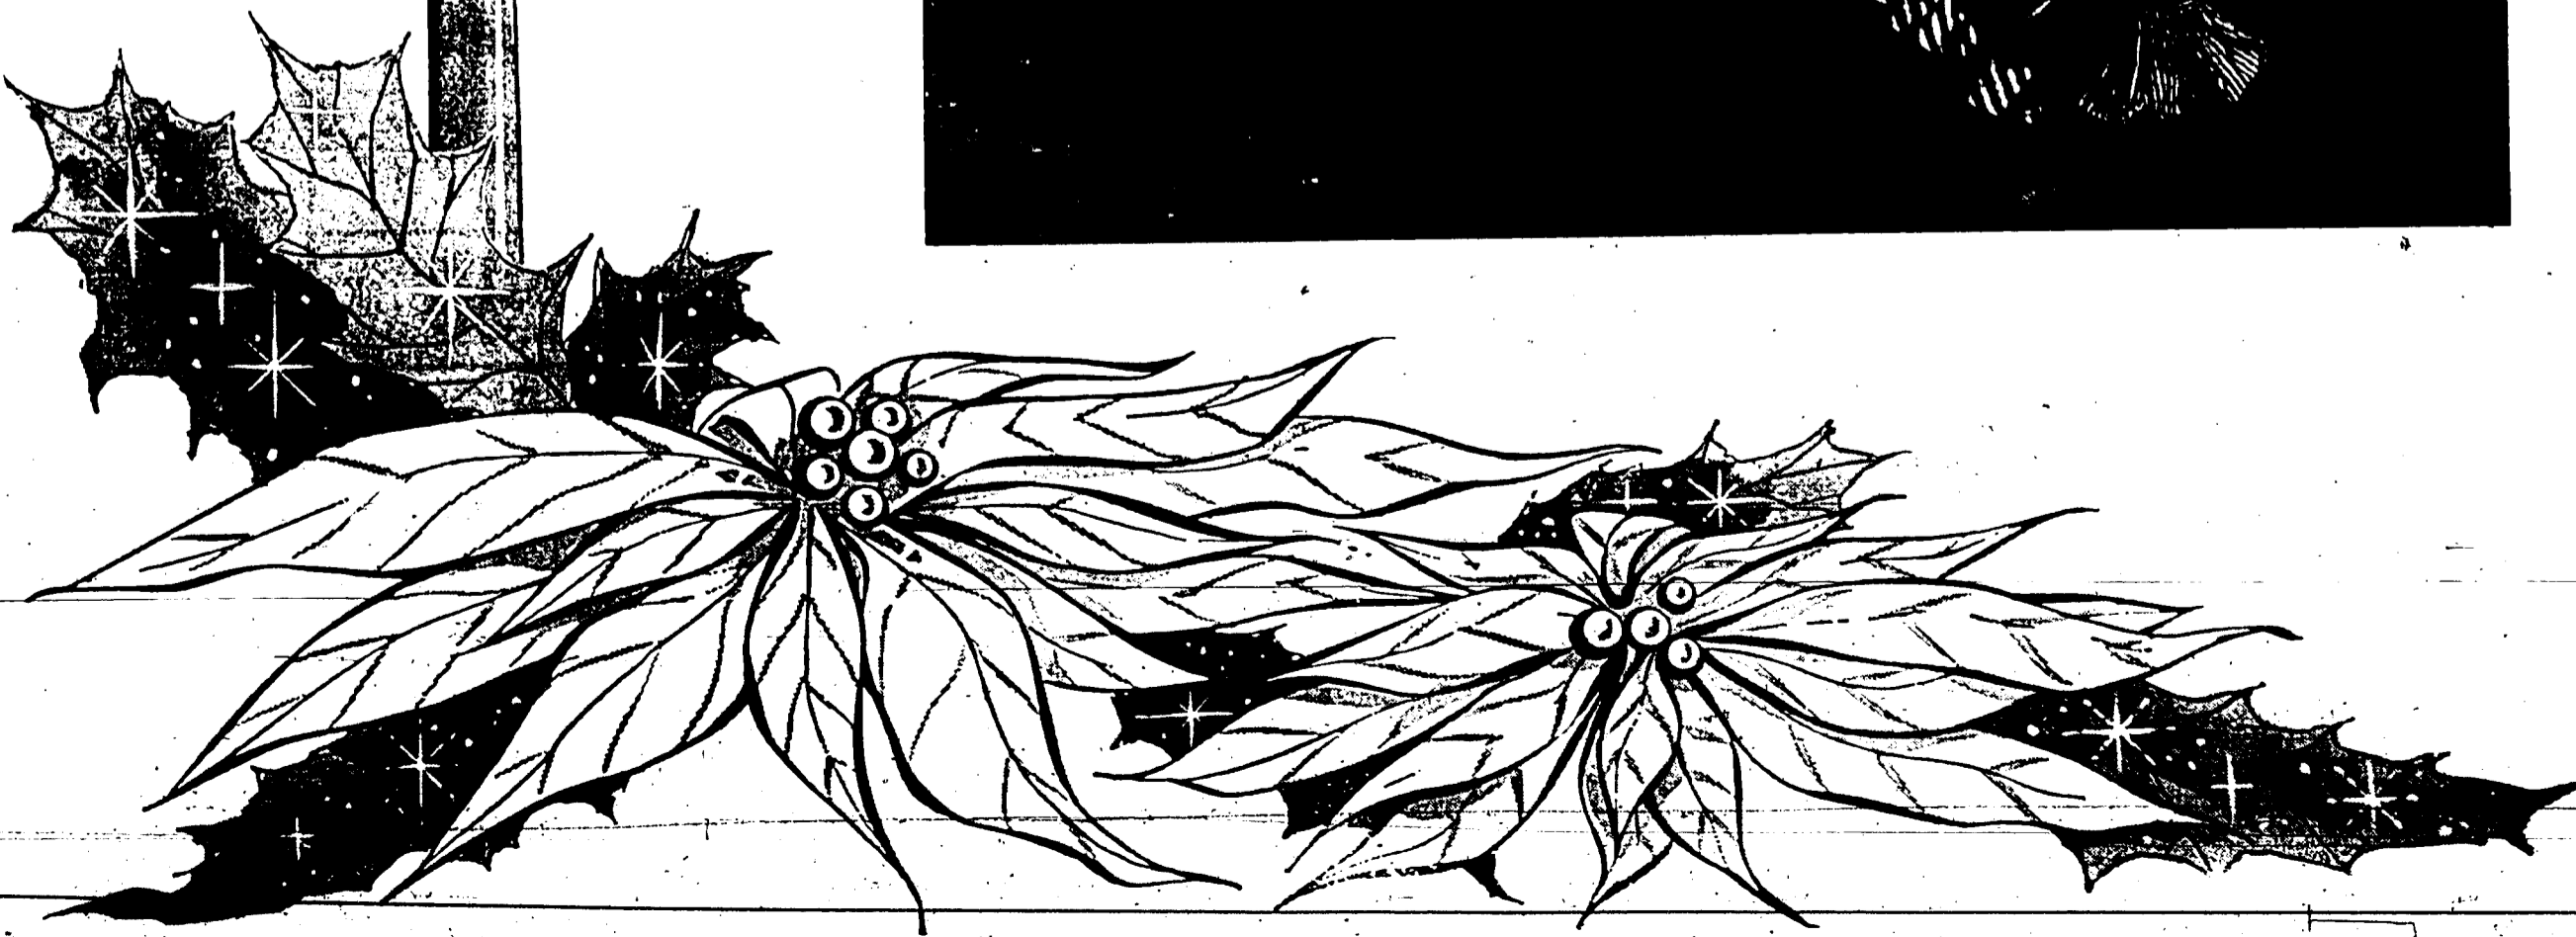

Whatever it is, it will be just what any little 4-year-old girl wants.

Deani, dressed in her red and white gown, her heart beating quickly in anticipation, is a mirror of children all over the world awaiting that once-a-year visit from Santa Claus.

In houses throughout the land, that jolly old gentleman will be worming his way down chimneys and filling the stockings with things from the north. And late in the night, if children listen hard, they may hear, "Up Dancer, up Prancer . . ." and then the voice will fade away in the distance and Christmas will be here.

The elaborate Christmas stockings here were made by Mrs. G. L. Smout, 808 Alturas Drive. Mrs. Smout has made many such stockings for her neighbors, as well as relatives. All of them with different designs and colorings.

Deani is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred M. Frazier, Twin Falls.

New Members Welcomed By Ladies Of Elks

Fifteen new members were welcomed by the Ladies of Elks at the Christmas party-meeting at the Elks Lodge.

New members include Janet Munn, Frieda DeGlee, Gale Clark, Reggie Lowe, Valda Lawrence, Sharon Smith, Karen Serucek, Barbara Snider, Darla Devlin, Sherry Fox, DeAnna Bodenstab, Ruth Davis and Dianne Reinstein.

The program was presented by a group called the Three Hits and One Miss, led by Wayne Wynkoop, and the Ladies of Elks Quintet, Mrs. Neva Gilbertson, Mrs. Melba Wilkins, Mrs. Evelyn Stanger, Mrs. Eileen Day and Mrs. Donna Brown.

A gift exchange was held, with Santa and his elves, Angie Burgess, Kay Bolyard, Ruth Alsworth, Ione Smallwood and LaVerne McKinster, distributing the gifts. Turkeys were won by Laura McCurdy, Elva Meeks, Dorothy Tally and Ruth Alsworth.

Members voted to donate $25 to the Altrusa Club to help purchase a film on narcotics to be used in Magic Valley.

Refreshments were served by the past presidents.

Home Culture

Club Convenes

BUHL — The Home Culture Club held its annual Christmas luncheon at the home of Mrs. Dean Mickelwait, with Mrs. Frank Chandler and Mrs. Marie Latham assisting. A gift exchange was held and a donation made to the Boise Children's Home.

Mrs. Ada Huston gave a travelogue on her recent trip to the East. Mrs. Mickelwait spoke of the Idaho Youth Ranch, Rupert, and the progress the ranch is making.

Mrs. Inez Post and Mrs. Jim Barr were introduced as guests. Hostesses at the next meeting will be Mrs. Tom Hejtmank and Mrs. Lillian Voeller. Members are asked to bring clothing for the Nampa Colony.

BIRTHDAY OBSERVED
RICHFIELD — Scott McGrath celebrated his fifth birthday anniversary with a party for friends. Mrs. Jerry McGrath served party refreshments for her son's celebration and presented miniature Christmas tree favors.

LDS Christmas Program Given

SHOSHONE — A Christmas program was presented at the LDS Church during the regular MIA hour.

Leland Robinson conducted. Recitations were given by primary children, Margaret Quinn, Jasen Webb and Steven Sorenson and a reading by Brian Stimpson.

Mrs. Richard Sorenson told a Christmas story. A Christmas playlet was presented with Jeanie Larsen as narrator. Soloists were Ronald Jenkins, Lorna Thorne and Cindy Trammel. Others participating were Mrs. Richard Jensen and girls, children from the Kenneth Blackburn family and First-Year Beehive members. Mrs. Dallas Ward was accompanist.

The Ferry Hadlock family sang Christmas numbers. The ward Gold and Green Ball was announced for Friday at the church and a "fireside" will be held at 10 p.m. New Year's Eve with a French-toast breakfast to be served at 12:01 New Year's Day, followed by dancing.

82nd Birthday Is Observed

HANSEN — A card shower and a number of gifts were brought for Mrs. Nettie Andrews, in honor of her 82nd birthday anniversary at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Orville Allen. She received letters or telephone calls from all of her eleven children. Mrs. Andrews, who until recently, lived at Salem, Ore., is now making her home with her daughter, Mrs. Allen.

Orville Allen, whose birthday anniversary is this week, was also honored with a number of cards.

Holiday Poems Read at Meet

Each member read a Christmas poem during the Morning-side Club Christmas party at the home of Mrs. Norris Hall.

Members voted to give a donation to the Boise Children's Home. New secret pal names were drawn for the coming year.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. C. Westbrook. A Christmas theme was used. Christmas cookies, brought by the members, were exchanged at the close of the meeting.

The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. A. Federico. A letter of thanks, received from Linda Coats, Noti, Ore., was read.

his name, and spoke: "And I say unto thee, that thou art Peter, and upon this rock I will build my church."

Peter is the Greek and Latin word for rock. And then there was Mercutio in Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet," who, although dying, with a jest upon his lips, said, "Look for me tomorrow, and you will find me a grave man."

And the worst, with no literary merit at all, we're afraid, is the one about the tavern keeper who opened the door only to find a Knight riding a large dog asking for lodging to get out of the downpour of heavy rain. The tavern keeper refused to give the Knight a room at first until the Knight pleaded: "Please, not even you could put out a Knight on a dog like this."

Ever thought of this? "If you are certain to learn from your mistakes, it's only common sense to make the ones from which you'll learn the most." Which accounts for quite a lot.

The proper use of words might be learned from the brilliant stroke of merchandising employed by an apple grower. Hall had nearly ruined the crop because of dark bruise-marks on the skin of the apples. After the apples failed to sell he put the following sign on the apples and sold them all: "Note the small dark imperfections in the skin of these apples. The marks are indicative of the cold, crisp climate in which these apples were grown. The climate produces firm and crisp apples famous the world over for their rich taste. Welcome to the high apple country!"

Ponder the logical impossibility of the following statement: "I always lie. I never tell the truth." It stands to reason that if the man "always" lies, then the statement itself is a lie, which would mean he always tells the truth. But if he always tells the truth, what in the world is he saying that he always lies for—which is in that case a lie, which means . . . Oh, forget it.

Ever hear of Xeno's paradox, the one where Achilles was running after something, and as each unit of time passed he would halve the distance? A professor was trying to explain the paradox to his class and it went something like this:

"The situation is this, class: If I were to put all the boys in the room on one side and all the girls on the other and then tell you to move half the distance between you closer, you could. Say it was 20 feet, half of that would be 10 feet. Then if I told you to do that same thing again, half the remaining distance would be five feet. And again, it would be two-and-a-half feet; and again, it would be one-and-a-fourth feet; and again it would be just over a half-foot. I could keep doing this and according to Xeno's theories you could never touch because no matter how small the space became you still could only move half of that distance closer. Of course," said the professor, "in theory it works, but in actuality after a very few times you would be close enough. . . for all practical purposes."

And speaking of a paradox—our dictionary has it defined as two doctors.

Cecilia Bertie Is Engaged To Harlen Harmon

Mr. and Mrs. John P. Bertie, Twin Falls, announce the engagement of their daughter, Cecilia Irene, to Harlen Dean Harmon, son of Mr. and Mrs. Burton Harmon, Hansen.

Miss Bertie is a 1963 graduate of Twin Falls High School and is attending Lewis-Clark Normal School, Lewiston, majoring in elementary education.

Mr. Harmon is a 1964 graduate of Jerome High School and is attending the University of Idaho, majoring in industrial management and engineering. A June wedding is planned.

Catholic Women Host Salad Bar At Parish Hall

A salad bar dinner was served prior to the regular meeting for members of St. Edward's Council of Catholic Women in the Parish Hall.

A Christmas program was presented during the dinner hour by Mrs. Darrel Baltzer. The program included a girls sextet, Leslie Benoit, Toni Florence, Peggy Kelker, Janice Nielsen, Kathy Anderson and Cathy Pond, and a flute solo by Beth Britz, with Terry Becker as accompanist. A reading was presented by Kelly Carpenter.

Mrs. Edith McCullough reported on the progress of study clubs being formed. Members interested in joining a study group should contact Mrs. McCullough. Mrs. Joe Bengoehca requested help Friday to pack Christmas baskets.

Mrs. Howard Allen explained the purpose of the Madonna Plan and its origin. A ways and means committee was appointed and includes Mrs. Marjorie Hayes, Mrs. Joan Metzler and Mrs. Judy McFarland.

Mrs. Clara Murphy extended a thank you to all persons who assisted with the harvest festival booth.

The January meeting will be an ecumenical meeting featuring a Bible vigil.

After the meeting, Mrs. Baltzer showed slides and gave a pictorial study of the "Self Portrait."

Hostesses were Mrs. Gary Watt, Mrs. Jim Brock, Mrs. Frank Karel, Mrs. Mike Wiemer and Mrs. Charles Watt.

MRS. EDDIS LAMMERS
Box 683, 817 Adell St., Filer

Cornmeal Dinner Rolls
2 cups milk
2/3 cup cornmeal
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 cube margarine or butter teaspoons salt
3 eggs, beaten
2 yeast cakes or 2 packages dry yeast
1/2 cup water
Enough flour to make soft dough
Add milk slowly to cornmeal. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Add sugar, margarine or butter and salt. Let cool to lukewarm. Dissolve yeast in water and let stand 10 minutes. Add yeast mixture to beaten eggs. Add flour until easy to handle. Knead.

The dough should be very soft. Let rise until double. Roll out to one-half to three-fourths inch thickness. Shape as for parker house rolls. Let rise in greased pan. Bake 15 to 20 minutes in a 400-degree oven.
Yields about four dozen rolls.

You can have rolls ready to eat in three hours from time you start preparation. These rolls stay nice and soft.

Venison Roll-Ups
1 pound venison round steak, 1/2-inch thick teaspoon salt teaspoon pepper
1/2 pound pork sausage
2 small carrots cup flour cup fat
cup water
1 pound steak with a meat ham-mer to one-fourth inch thick-ness. Cut into rectangular pieces, about two by four inches. Sprinkle each piece with salt and pepper. Cover with sausage. Cut carrots into strips two inches long and about one-fourth inch thick. Place carrot strips on top of sausage. Flour lightly. Brown in hot fat. Add water. Cover and cook in moderate oven, 350 degrees, about one and one-half to two hours or until tender. Makes about six small roll-ups.

(The Times-News will pay $5 each week for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

Wendell Home Club Members Have Luncheon

WENDELL—The Wendell Home Improvement Club held its regular meeting at the Civic Club Rooms and a potluck luncheon was served. The tables were decorated with Christmas balls and garlands of greenery. Plans were made to attend a workshop Jan. 5 on "Foods, Fads and Diets" which will be conducted by Mrs. Helen Walker, Idaho Power Home economist. Mrs. Frances Downs and Mrs. Ruth Lower were appointed to attend this meeting. Ed. Koester, county agent, is to set up a panel on insurance problems for the February or March meetings. This will be an open meeting and the public is invited.

The nominating committee gave its report. Mrs. Blanche Bungum declined her nomination, so there will be another nominating report at the January meeting.

Mrs. Mattie Lorain thanked the committee that made the tray favors for the guests at the Wendell Manor.

James Gossett, former probate judge of Gooding County, spoke to the group about Thailand. He showed slides of interesting buildings and places of the country. His talk was followed by a question and answer period.

Hostesses for the Jan. 9 meeting are Mrs. Willa Caldwell and Mrs. Ruth Wahler.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: How does a girl entertain a visiting male from out of town without getting stuck with the check?

We live in San Francisco, which seems to be the crossroads of the world, and someone is always calling me to say "hello" from a friend, and I feel that I am expected to entertain him in some way. I never know if he can afford to take me out, and if so, where he can afford to take me. An out-of-town visitor usually likes to see the sights, and it's up to the "native" to suggest places to go, but I hate to suggest a place that may be too expensive for him.

And since I'm showing him around, there's always the chance that he thinks I am treating him, and I don't want to get stuck with the check. How does one get around this? I can't keep driving around the city.

DEAR SAN FRANCISCO: You could save yourself a lot of speculating by simply asking the visitor exactly what he had in mind. If he indicates that he would like to sample one of the better restaurants, recommend one, and let him be the host. If he says he just wants to "see the sights," show him Chinatown, Alcatraz, and the Golden Gate bridge. But eat first!

DEAR ABBY: I would like your opinion on something that I consider to be very poor taste and lack of judgment. Why do they play our National Anthem at a meal where 80 per cent of the people are in their seventies and eighties?

Most of them have had to be brought there in wheelchairs, and the others could hardly make it with their walkers, canes and crutches, yet when they played The Star Spangled Banner many of them struggled to get on their feet to show respect.

DEAR ALMOST: Unless there is a reason for playing our National Anthem at such a gathering, another patriotic song, which does not require the listeners to stand, should be substituted.

DEAR ABBY: I recently found a big box of old postcards and envelopes that already had the stamps on them. Can I cut the stamps off and use them for postage on other things, such as packages?

I don't see why I can't, as the stamps are unused and good as new. Please answer in your column as my husband opens all the mail if he gets it first, and I don't want him to know how dumb I am.

DEAR "44": First, I think your question is a good one and I do not consider you a "dummy." Postal regulations prohibit using stamps cut from postcards, envelopes, and airmails.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ABBY: Just a little wary of people who treat dogs like people and people like dogs.

Yule Message Presented At Women's Meet
Rev. Douglas Grills presented the Christmas message during the recent meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship in the church parlor.

Mrs. Paul Moseley Jr. conducted the business session and it was announced that gifts will be sent to the senior citizens at Beverton Home, Oregon.

Each CWF group will be giving personal gifts to shutin members. Christmas carols were sung and a gift exchange conducted.

Mrs. James Sharkey gave the devotional service. Refreshments were served by Mrs. O. W. Daniels, Mrs. Clifford Davis, Mrs. Tom Bucklin, Mrs. Haskell Carr, Mrs. Al Wegener and Mrs. Franklin Sharp, members of Group No. 3. The refreshment table was set before a blue and white nativity scene.

Springdale Miss Reveals Troth
SPRINGDALE—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Christensen, Springdale, announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sue Ann, to Michael Streeter, son of Mrs. Virginia Streeter, Springdale, and Henry Streeter, Los Angeles.

A Jan. 11 wedding is planned at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple. Miss Christensen and Mr. Streeter were graduated from Burley High School and attended Ricks College.

WSCS Has Party
RICHFIELD—The Woman's Society of Christian Service held its Christmas party recently at the home of Mrs. C. M. Pridmore. Mrs. Albert Pelley gave the lesson illustrating the Christmas story with art work, scripture reading and an article by Billy Graham, "His Name Is Wonderful."

A letter was read from the Robert Hoodenpyle family who have moved to Canada. The next meeting is Jan. 9.

Guild Members Bring Cheer To T. F. Patients

There are much better places to spend Christmas than in a hospital, but there are worse places, too.

And, because of the efforts of the women of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Guild, those who must spend Christmas there have been cheered considerably.

There is hardly a wall, door, desk or other appropriate space that does not have a colorful decoration adorning it.

The Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Guild members, or Pink Ladies as they are more commonly known, have worked long hours on making the hospital appear just as Christmasy as possible.

Special pains have been taken on the children's floor to bring the children the feeling of Christmas. On each door is a jolly, fat Santa Claus. Playful little elves in rounded swings are floating from each hall light and several holiday decorations have been placed in the visiting and television room on the floor.

In one corner is a tree decorated with all sorts of confections, notably cookies and candy canes. Two fat white snowmen look at the children from a window ledge at the opposite end of the room.

Assisting these women who spread their special brand of goodwill throughout the hospital 12 months a year, were the Twin Falls High School art class and Dr. V. Ellis Knight, Kimberly.

The art class painted colorful scenes on windows throughout the hospital.

Dr. Knight, carrying on with a yearly tradition, has provided the special decoration for the front lobby of the hospital.

He has created a large gold painted pine cone wreath, accented with bright blue balls and ribbon and flanked by four large blue candles.

Each desk in the hospital has its own decorations and colorful green felt Christmas trees are attached to each door.

The snack bar, too, has been decorated with the handmade items and otherwise drab corridors in the basement have been brightened with chandelier-type decorations.

In the snack bar, too, are many hand-created centerpieces which are for sale by the guild.

WOMAN HONORED
KING HILL — Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bott hosted a Christmas buffet luncheon honoring Mrs. Hilma Sundvall who left this week for Pocatello to spend the winter with her daughter, Mrs. La Valle Coulter, and family. The Christmas theme was carried out in decorations.

DECORATING A WINDOW in the children's department of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital are Mrs. Ralph Pedersen, left, and Mrs. Clyde Smith, president of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital Guild. Guild members have worked long hours on making the hospital appear just as Christmasy as possible for those who have to spend the holiday season there.

Presbyterian Women's Unit Program Given

Mrs. Roger Thomas presented the program, "The Gifts of Christmas," at the traditional Christmas luncheon of the United Presbyterian Women held in the church Fireside Lounge.

A collection of Christmas songs were presented by Mrs. James Kinney, Mrs. Henry Colner and Mrs. Russell Potter, with Mrs. W. B. Arness at the piano.

Beulah Way, Ethel Kautz and Ruth Brown of Circle No. 6 arranged the decorations for the festive luncheon tables. Mrs. Edwin Barker was luncheon hostess.

Mrs. T. G. Gray opened the meeting with a Christmas prayer. Dr. Robert Harvey installed the new officers. Mrs. Mary Brown is president; Mrs. W. C. Holman, vice president; Mrs. Tom Grey, recording secretary; Miss Brown, treasurer; Mrs. Gladys Gillespie, leader of Circle No. 1; Mrs. Florence Maggy, Circle No. 2; Mrs. Frank Carpenter, Circle No. 5; Miss Kautz, Circle No. 6, and Mrs. Max Peterson, Circle No. 7.

Mrs. Mary Brown announced the first board meeting of the new year is set for 10 a.m. Jan. 4 in the church lounge.

LUNCHEON HELD

FILER — Mrs. Craig Dunlap was hostess to a 1 p.m. luncheon for members of the Star Social Club.

Tea, Program Scheduled For Official Visit

HAGERMAN — Plans for a tea and program honoring the assembly president on her visit to the Hagerman lodge were discussed at the recent meeting of the Union Rebekah Lodge No. 45.

The assembly president will make her visit here Jan. 18.

Installation of the new officers will be held early in January. The exact date has not been selected at this time.

Merle Greene, noble grand, presented each of her officers a gift for service while serving with her. Mrs. Green also presented a corsage and a 100 percent ribbon for a perfect attendance at all lodge meetings the past year to Mrs. Viola Bardsley. A corsage and attendance ribbon were also presented to Mrs. Florrie Stark, 94, for having missed only one meeting during the year.

The lodge presented special gifts to Mrs. G. P. Russell and Mrs. Vernon Brewer for their extra assistance to the lodge during the year.

Mrs. Green presented Mrs. Jesse Ruddle a floral centerpiece for having won first prize

Club Members View Program

WENDELL — A Christmas program, arranged by Mrs. Sophia Gunning, Mrs. Lucia Amussen and Mrs. Dorothy Muffley, was presented for the Christmas meeting of the Hilldale Club at the Civic Club Rooms.

A Christmas song fest was used for the opening, with Mrs. Ralph Newberry at the piano. Mrs. Louise Houfburg read an article, Mrs. Charles Lusk, in a Santa Claus suit, delivered exchange gifts and passed out Christmas treats. A special gift was presented to Mrs. Anton Almborg.

"Winter Sports and Enjoyable Pastimes" is the theme of the Jan. 3 meeting, with Mrs. Houfburg, Mrs. Elmer Jordan and Mrs. Milton Brownlee as hosts. Mrs. Ralph Newberry and Carol Almborg will arrange the program.

Festive Christmas decorations provided the setting for the social hour, with Mrs. Newberry and Carol Almborg as hostesses.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR SEN. ROBERT KENNEDY

Would you object if any of your children decided to enter politics?—D. J., Schenectady, N. Y.

● No. If any of my children chose politics, I would be neither distressed nor surprised. I hope all of them will enter into careers of their own choosing and live full, happy lives.

FOR ANITA BRYANT

Instead of spending Christmas with your two children, you have accompanied Bob Hope as a singer on his Christmas tour of Vietnam. Isn't this a hardship for the children?—P.E., Patchogue, L.I.

● I'd be lying if I said it wasn't a hardship. I missed my children terribly at Christmas. In fact, I missed them so much that this year when Mr. Hope again asked me to go to Vietnam with him, I regretfully had to decline. Now for the first time my children, Bobby, four, and Gloria, three, have asked that their parents be with them at Christmas. I feel we must.

FOR JOHNNY CARSON

Who is the most interesting person you have interviewed on the "Tonight" show?—E. M., Grand Junction, Colo.

● I can't really say who was the most interesting—that's relative. The easiest person to interview is Henry Morgan. He has his own opinions and doesn't care a bit about what anyone else thinks.

FOR LEONARD NIMOY

of "Star Trek" I've heard that you plan to quit acting and start recording more songs. Is this true?—Lorraine Datro, Gulfport, Miss.

● I may record more songs in the future, but I certainly have no intention of giving up acting. Singing is simply a side interest, acting is my livelihood.

FOR ROY DISNEY

president of Walt Disney Productions How far has work progressed on "Disney World" in Florida?—Marigrace Mullins, Livermore, Calif.

● We're in the process of clearing approximately 27,000 acres of land southwest of Orlando which will be the site of the new "Disney World." The whole project is expected to take nearly 10 years to complete.

FOR DR. NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Are you planning to write a new book? If so, what will be the subject?—Mrs. Ray L. Phillips, Royston, Ga.

● I have just completed a new book, entitled "Enthusiasm Makes the Difference." In it, I point out that one of the greatest human needs is a weapon to fight mediocrity. Enthusiasm is what determines whether we win or lose that fight.

FOR ARTHUR MODELL,

president of the National Football League Why don't the NFL players have their names on their jerseys?—H. M. Hartman, Jr., Cumberland, Md.

● We have given some thought to the idea, but to put the names on the players' jerseys, it becomes necessary to cut down the size of the numbers. Fans attending a game in a large stadium would then have difficulty reading the players' names as well as the smaller numbers. Most NFL stadiums are larger than those in the AFL. The subject is not a closed issue, though. We may still change our minds.

FOR BARBARA BAIN

of "Mission: Impossible" Since your husband Martin Landau is also on the show, do you feel embarrassed when you act out love scenes with other actors?—Jessica Wolf, Los Angeles, Calif.

● No. You have to be able to separate work from pleasure. I watch him shoot someone in an episode, and I know I'm not married to a murderer.

FOR HUGH DOWNS,

host of NBC's "Today" show Is it true that you once wore nearly bald and that the hair you now have is the result of a transplant?—S. E. Schaefer, Mineola, Texas

● I was losing my hair on top and underwent a series of hair transplants with the Orentreich Medical Group. The transplanting process employed there was invented by Dr. Norman Orentreich.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Up in the Air Scientists see this two-man "Pogo" rocket as a great way to get around on the moon—or to rescue earthlings who have gotten themselves in a tight spot. If necessary, two astronauts also could ride it into a lunar orbit, rendezvous with the command ship, and depart for home. Developed by Bell Aerosystems, Pogo works via a small turbojet propulsion system. It'll be a while, though, before you can load your bundles on the rear platform and whoosh them home from the supermarket.

"Pogo" takes off

Painless Peril If your tooth aches, you're in trouble. If it doesn't ache, you may be in worse trouble. According to the American Dental Association, in any community practically all the adults and half the teen-agers have some degree of periodontal (gum) disease. Often there's no pain to let you know the problem is there. To keep from losing your molars, brush often, stimulate the gums, and visit your dentist.

The "New" Sounds Is it a bird? A plane? A put-on? Yes and no. Jefferson Airplane is the name of a "love-rock" group, the first to take off in a big way from the Haight-Ashbury hangars in San Francisco. There are six passengers aboard, and the one with the longest hair is, strangely enough, the "bird" or girl. Their name? "It was given to us by our parents."

What's-His-Name? You know the face. He's a nasty on the late-late movie. He's the creepy hotel clerk who rats on the hero. He's the weasel in all those Westerns who points at John Wayne and screams, "Get a rope!" He's one of hundreds of familiar faces with unknown names in a book called, naturally, "Who Is That?" Oh, yes, the "weasel's" name. It's Percy Helton.

Who's he?

The Stars and Your Health You can thank your stars for the diseases you get, says Carroll Righter, one of the country's better-known astrologers. Luckily—according to his new book, "Your Astrological Guide to Health and Diet"—you also can stay healthy by choosing foods according to those same stars. For instance, Capricorns, now celebrating their birthdays, are most susceptible to skin diseases, hysteria, leprosy, toothaches, and broken bones. His Rx: a dash of rosemary, a pinch of sage.

Parson's Payday How much do you pay your minister? The latest figures put a typical clergyman's salary at $5,914 a year. That doesn't include parsonage allowance, and it is a raise of $885 over the last five years. The parsons aren't complaining, but some of their wives are!

Cookies, Anyone? The Girl Scouts of America have an "image" problem: people tend to think they're "square." To prove they're not, they're shortening their skirts and broadening their aims. Will they ever give up selling those cookies? Says Mrs. Holton R. Price Jr., national Girl Scout president, "Maybe. But now we need the money."

Has this man developed the power to see into the future and control his own destiny?

PROOF BEYOND DISPUTE!

Thoroughly documented by the British press—here are only a few of the "impossible" feats Al Koran has already accomplished—to illustrate his conviction that THERE IS NO LIMIT TO THE POWERS OF YOUR MIND, SINCE YOU LIBERATE ITS BURIED MAGIC!

- Before a skeptical group of reporters he wrote the headlines of a leading newspaper 4 days before the paper appeared—and he was right!
- On a national TV he wrote the first, second, and third place finish of horses in an important race to be held in two weeks—and he was right!

- He has baffled millions—including the great Albert Einstein—on stage, on television, and in carefully controlled scientific tests. He has predicted the future. He has read minds. He has told absolute strangers intimate personal details, he couldn't possibly have known—and he is always right!
- And now he shows you how to unleash the same explosive powers from your mind overnight! Read the thrilling details in this advertisement! Prove them yourself—entirely at our risk!

Just a few of the Magic Secrets you will learn in this startling book:

- The long-life secrets of 100-year-old Tibetan Yogis and Indian Fakirs—simple routines that could rejuvenate your health—overnight.
- The three rules of money-magic that, when observed can bring you spectacular success in everything you do.
- The paralyzing thought that keeps you from true success—and how to rid yourself of it at once.
- The only prerequisites required to enter the world of magic.
- The magic of charms and mascots—how to make them really bring you good luck.
- The most powerful factor of all in working magic—how to drive your subconscious irresistibly to secure whatever it is you seek.
- A new way to breathe to purify yourself and reach higher spiritual dimensions.
- Secrets with which the shogun performs black magic.
- How to make horoscope predictions come true.
- The power and all how to cure disease.
- The divine magic formula that banishes fears, enables you to triumph over obstacles.
- How to use a strange kind of magic to make people love you.
- Color magic that brings warmth, health, peace of - mind.

- The magic tool that stretches time.
- The startling healing power of flower magic.
- The magic key that unlocks the door to radiant health, strength, and long life.
- A kind of bread that may be slowly killing your mind.
- How to develop your natural gift for contacting other minds—without the necessity of words.
- The foods in every grocery store that make it easier for you to reach the fourth dimension and work spectacular magic.
- How to train your subconscious to work you of danger.
- How to convert yourself into a thought-transmission station.
- How to cut off negative thoughts at will.
- How the very position you sleep in can increase your magic power.
- How to wish for what you want so strongly that it almost automatically appears.
- Music magic that blocks pain; how it helped little children survive the Titanic disaster.
- The magic that changes the drab into the lovely, the ordinary into the extraordinary, the inferior into the superior.

Read it from cover to cover, at our risk. TODAY

And can he CONVEY THAT POWER TO YOU—OVERNIGHT—simply by showing you these few tricks that bring out the buried magic in your mind!

This is Al Koran, one of England's most dazzling personalities—known throughout the continent as "the World's Greatest Mind Reader and Mental Magician."

This remarkable man has proven, over and over again, that he has the ability to control his own destiny—and he is convinced that ANYONE else can do the same.

"You have a power just as magical as Aladdin's lamp," says Mr. Koran. "It is a power with the riches of a gold mine WHEN YOU KNOW HOW TO USE IT."

The Power Within You That Brings Phenomenal Results To All Who Dare To Put It To Use!

Yes, once the power of this magic in your mind is released, you will say goodbye forever to poverty, misfortune—even unhappiness. You will bring into your life material comfort, spiritual happiness, lasting peace of mind.

You will have the gleaming new car you want, a luxurious home, a holiday in the sun. You will have devoted friends, mountains of money, radiant health—everything you ever desired.

But to have all of these precious gifts—for sooner than you have ever dreamed—you must be able to accept this one daring thought:

You must accept the fact that we all have buried within us the power to perform MAGIC. Not the magic of the stage "Magician"—the fake, the deceiver, the "sleight-of-hand-artist." But REAL MAGIC—TRUE MAGIC—MENTAL MAGIC that has allowed certain gifted men and women throughout the ages to reach out and control destiny, instead of suffering helplessly from it!

- For example:
- How do you think the Fire Walkers of the Fiji Islands walk unscathed with bare feet on red hot cinders?
 - How does an arthritic woman, hopelessly crippled for years, suddenly cure her rheumatism with a copper bangle around her wrist?
 - What strange power within all of us has effected more than six thousand cures at Lourdes—cases of miraculous healing so carefully documented as to eradicate every possible chance of charlatanism?

Reveals His Innermost Secrets
At Last, So You Can Bring Magic Into Your Life!

Or, to take a modern example, in this book Al Koran tells you about Gabriel Gargam, paralyzed from the waist down, his spine severely injured. Medical science could do nothing. But then Gargam went to Lourdes where suddenly, to everyone's amazement he raised himself to his feet. Within twenty-four hours he was walking. Medical examinations by sixty doctors proved that this complete cure could not be scientifically explained!

What mysterious power enabled Gargam to walk? What inner force enables men and women like this—outwardly no different from the rest of us—so suddenly be able to attract health, wealth, happiness... rich to read minds... to see into the future... to perform seeming miracles?

Over thirty years ago, Al Koran determined to answer this all-important question. He spent years and fortunes searching for the truth. He delved into the Magic of the Mind all over the world. He attended hundreds of scientific conferences, spiritual meetings, primitive rituals, occult gatherings. He questioned outstanding personalities in every line of human endeavor.

And finally he discovered the mysterious "something" in every one of us that grants phenomenal results to all who accept it and put it to use... that takes you where you want to go with the speed of jet propulsion.

Years At Last—This Wisdom Of The Ages That Is Performing Miracles Today!

Some of the secrets that Al Koran discovered are as old as civilization itself. They have been used to perform magic in Eastern cultures for hundreds of years.

Koran discovered that those who know how to harness this mind power can make cripples walk... make poor men rich... bring peace to the troubled, friends to the lonely.

Once you know how to use the power you can command others to do what is in your mind without saying a word... your can replace weakness and fear with inner strength... you can materialize your dreams into reality. And you can do it almost as naturally as breathing.

Liberate Just One Of These Vast Magic Powers
And You Will Revolutionize
Your Entire Life

In just a few minutes each day, Al Koran begins to develop the explosive mental powers that brings you new vitality, power, wealth, friends—literally anything you may desire!

Soon you find yourself fascinating people you've always wanted to be-friend... materializing the luxuries and possessions you could never before afford... exercising at will the power over others you've always dreamed of!

Then—simply by practicing your new-found ability a few minutes each day—you actually begin to stimulate your latent extra-sensory powers to read minds... mentally influence others... see into the future... again, literally get anything you want.

Nothing Can Stop
The Magic Of Mind Power

Yes, once you bring the incredible power of your subconscious mind into conscious control, nothing can challenge its awesome power. From the day you learn to harness this buried mind power, you MUST perform feats that ordinary men can only describe as "miracles".

No Wonder It's England's Number One Best Seller!
Prove It To Yourself Entirely At Our Risk!

Yes! The magic mind power lying dormant inside you is just waiting to be unleashed, just waiting to master all things and all people for you. Words cannot adequately describe how this incredible inner ability can literally obliterate your shackles of despair, poverty, poor health... shower you with money, power, friends, health and happiness.

It costs you nothing to prove that Al Koran's HOW TO BRING OUT THE MAGIC IN YOUR MIND is everything we say and more. We take all the risk, you reap all the benefits. Take the first magic step now. Mail the No-Risk Coupon TODAY!

Our Magic Kind of Family

By reverence and prayer, customs of foreign lands, and the joys of gift-giving, this famous novelist renews each year the spirit of Christ's birth

“WHAT COLOR IS CHRISTMAS?”

“Red and gold and green—sometimes white, but we don't need it because we always have the snow scene in the niche.”

Thus some years ago I overheard my children discussing our special type of family Christmas. Then the boy said, “Christmas is presents, getting and giving them, I guess.”

“Christmas,” said the youngest, “is the ceremonies we do together, the carols and the snapdragon and the grab bag and the yule log and the wassail bowl and blessing the silver and trimming the tree and going down to the crèche to worship Baby Jesus. Christmas makes magic, makes you love everybody, and I don't want one single change from the way we do it ever!”

Even now, though the children have grown and bring back their own babies, none of our particular ceremonies and traditions has been omitted. Sometimes, in years of illness or loss, the prospect has been daunting; by Dec. 22 the grownups quail and talk about “cutting all this out next year, going to a hotel”—but they don't.

I think it's because in an unstable, commercialized, mechanized world we all get deep-felt comfort from tradition, from the two-day respite which produces a forgotten glow of simple festivities and spiritual recognition.

Many friends have asked for the details of our particular Christmas, which they are invited to share in part, and perhaps others might be interested.

Some of the rites are universal in this country, others come from foreign lands, and this is one way of making Christmas beautiful and rewarding. It is a home drama, and the curtain rises on Dec.

After praying at the crèche, each must write wishes for others.

23. That is the night for what we call our “crèche party.” To this, close friends of all ages are invited—whole families from great-grandparents to infants.

When the guests arrive, they find an “angel wreath” on the door, and they are all welcomed inside by kisses under the mistletoe, as our British forefathers have done since Druid days. The entrance hall is papered solid with Christmas cards, and the house is decorated with ground pine and holly, with 24 candles burning throughout the rooms. These candles (preferably the fragrant bayberry) represent the winter solstice which has been celebrated at this time for thousands of years as the rebirth of the life-giving sun, the return of warmth and hope to the world.

The guests then examine a snow scene built into a niche. The “snow” is made with detergent, and it contains tiny Christmas figures—even funny ones, elves, ducks, skiers—and a small Santa Claus with his reindeer. They all point to a church on a hill—one of those lighted papier-mâché churches you can buy anywhere.

In the center is Santa Claus' miniature sleigh to hold pennies. Everyone must put a penny in it. One must give before one gets, for now follows a decorated grab bag, which contains jokes, puzzles, and trinkets and need entail no expense. This is the time to empty the “emergency drawer” with its accumulation of surplus objects that every family gathers during the year.

Then comes the “crèche ceremony” or Nativity, a vital part of Christmas in all Christian countries. We have a lovely crèche with figures from Oberammergau, but any figures would do. The point is that the crèche is separate, downstairs in the playroom, that a light bulb is taped to the top of the stable to shine on the Baby, that soft carols play in the darkened background, and that whole families visit it together.

Paper and pencil are provided, and, after praying or thinking about the Nativity, each must write wishes for others, never himself, then burn the paper in the Yule fire. An ember is saved each year to start the new fire, thus making a continuous link.

They return upstairs, hushed and solemn, from the crèche but are soon playing “snapdragon,” as did Mr. Pickwick and his friends at Dingley Dell more than 100 years ago.

This is a scary game. The “snapdragons” are dried prunes, each enclosing a wrapped fortune such as the ones in birthday cakes, and they must be snatched bravely from the blue flames of burning alcohol. There are excited squeals and laughter as the fortunes are opened. The guests nibble marzipan cookies and candied citrus peel. They drink and sing. With laughter they depart.

There is no wild laughter on Christmas Eve. There is rather reverence and anticipation. The whole family trims the tree, and each has his “special” ornament to put on. Supper is scanty and is always a fish, usually carp, for the fish was an early Christian symbol. During supper we recite Clement Moore's “'Twas the Night Before

By ANYA SETON

Author of "Dragonwyck,"
"The Winthrop Woman," and "Devil Water"

The "snapdragons" must be snatched from flaming alcohol.

Christmas," a couplet from each person. We drink only the wassail bowl (a mixture of grape juice, ginger ale, and nutmeg).

One of us reads aloud the story of the Nativity from the Bible, and then the whole family hangs up stockings by the fireplace. The little ones will try to stay awake to hear Santa Claus' sleighbells or to see if at midnight the cat and dog will be able to talk—all animals are supposed to talk at midnight on Christmas Eve.

After supper there is the ceremony of "blessing the silver," a mid-Eastern custom often performed at the feast of the Epiphany. For this, the mistress of the house, holding a lighted candle, leads the others through the house while asking a blessing on all possessions, including the pets. One year the furnace was forgotten, and the children refused to believe it a coincidence when it broke down two days later!

On Christmas morning the elders must remain in bed until the young ones are gathered in the hall singing "God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen" before we go to the living room to discover that Santa Claus has indeed visited us again. The stocking presents are opened in rotation so that each gift has everyone's attention.

Then there is time for a walk, and church for those who hadn't gone the night before, since this family differs from others in opening the tree presents in the afternoon. It prevents that frantic rush of gift-grabbing and prolongs the pleasure.

Christmas dinner is known as "The Piggy-Figgy Dinner" and comes from Tudor England. We have a suckling pig (cranberries for eyes, apple in mouth) and a dried fig soufflé with brandied custard sauce. It is prefaced by the toast we inherited from my English grandfather, "Now, I friend, drink to thee, friend, as my friend drinks to me, etc." I wonder whether anyone knows the origin of it? I've never been able to locate it.

After a drowsy lull and the carrying of the real presents from their hiding places to the tree, we gather once more in the living room. We sing to the beautiful sparkling tree and the heaped gifts beneath it. The music is the German "Tannenbaum" (the first Christmas tree came from Germany); but the words are of our own simple devising:

O Christmas tree, dear Christmas tree
With pretty baubles twining
You came to us from snow and cold
To shed on us your light of gold;
O Christmas tree, dear Christmas tree
With holy candles shining.

The father of the family acts as Santa Claus and again bestows gifts on each one in rotation. "It's my turn now!" "No, it's mine, and I'm getting that big red and gold package with the squashed corners." "Oh, boy, I wonder if Daddy remembered!"

Daddy had remembered. Everyone had. Joy is enhanced by the slow attentive pacing, while each gift is opened and acknowledged separately. Gifts from outside the group are duly noted for written thanks later.

The mistress of the house asks for a blessing on all possessions.

It will be seven o'clock before our Christmas drama is ended. We are a little sad, as one always is when the curtain falls and the theater darkens. But there are the new presents to enjoy, new books to read, new games to play, and there is deep satisfaction.

Again we have made Christmas come in our hearts. We have joined together in celebrating its true meaning, from the unselfish worshiping of the crèche, that picture of Christ's rebirth, through secular jollity and games, to the climax of giving and receiving beside the Christmas tree. Again we have evoked richness and deep security founded on long traditions.

For two days we have felt an effortless good will, and the memory will sustain us through all the inevitable trouble, storms, and uncertainties of the coming year. And we all agree with the excited cry of the youngest: "Christmas makes you feel good inside—Christmas is magic!" ♦

GIs Recall Christmas in Vietnam

A mass baptism after battle, a party at an orphanage, the eerie tinkling of bells—inspiring moments from a world of violence

During our Christmas morning service, the enemy lobbed mortar shells at us.

● I had just written a letter to my five kids explaining why I wouldn't be with them Christmas, 1966. I was depressed when my commanding officer in the Force Logistic Command near Da Nang asked us to visit a nearby orphanage to "give the poor kids a good time."

"Not me," I said. I already felt homesick enough. "It's just another day as far as I'm concerned."

Well, the CO "asked" me again to go—and when a CO "asks" twice, you do it, like it or not.

When I walked into the orphanage to "give the poor kids a good time," they were already excited and laughing, but when a Marine appeared dressed as Santa Claus, they really went wild. I saw in their faces the reflections of my own kids—smiles, mischief, awe, a little fright, and a lot of love.

We spent a couple of hours with those orphans singing, giving gifts, playing games, and when we returned to the base, I felt how wonderful it is to enjoy Christmas. I knew my own family, safe, comfortable, and together in America, had had a wonderful time—but so had I. Those orphans who had neither safety, comfort, nor togetherness had "given a father a good time."

Lt. Comdr. Vincent Celeste,
U.S.N. Huntington, N.Y.

● My company with the 26th Marines had spent Christmas Eve giving "C" rations to kids in the small village of Phu Bai in the northern part of South Vietnam. Then we were ordered to set up a perimeter defense around the village, and I found myself in a gun emplacement with my squad leader, Charles Joy.

The monsoon season was in full swing, and the rain hammered on us all the night. Charley fell asleep, but I couldn't. Then I suddenly heard it—tinkling bells.

The Viet Cong use bells sometimes to communicate with each other when they are trying to infiltrate a position. I peered into the black night. Through the pounding rain came the occasional sounds of bells—first in that direction, then in still another.

"Charley," I whispered, "wake up. I think they're coming."

Charley snapped awake, and we both strained to hear the approaching enemy. The tinkling grew louder; we heard muffled voices. Then I heard Charley chuckling.

"It's the kids," he said. "Listen, they're singing 'Silent Night.' The bells are their accompaniment."

Soon their voices came through the early Christmas morning loud and clear. Charley started humming with them, and so did I.

Lance Cpl. James P. Mitchell,
U.S.M.C. Great Falls, Mont.

● "Forget it," my buddies told me when we arrived at An Khe after 120 days in the field with the 1st Cavalry. I had heard that you could call your family in the States via radio-telephone, and I planned to call my wife and eight-year-old daughter, who were celebrating Christmas at my parents' home.

"I know a million guys who tried and never got through," a buddy said. "You stand in line all day and night. For what? To get nothing, that's what."

But at 3 a.m. Dec. 26 (Dec. 25 back in the States) I was in line waiting my turn at the telephone. The guys in line were as anxious as expectant fathers. For weeks they'd built themselves up for five precious minutes of talk with their families.

About 10 p.m., the operator said—"Okay, Fultz, you're on." There was a lot of garbling, then a clipped voice said: "I am sorry but a young boy says your wife is not there."

That young boy would be my brother. But I could make only one call—and it had to be to my wife. "Try another number—her aunt's," I said. All right, they told me, but you have to start all over again.

Some guys gave up and went back to the barracks heartbroken, but I stuck it out for almost 12 hours. Then the call went through again, and I heard my wife. "It's Jim," I said, and all she did was scream.

"Listen," I said, "we have only five minutes, so talk."

Then she said, "Then I want to say right off—I love you, Jim."

I heard my daughter crying, too. "Come home, Daddy."

It was the most wonderful Christmas present I've ever had.

Sp/5 James E. Fultz III
U.S.A. Danville, Va.

● I was with the 173rd Airborne Brigade near Saigon last Christmas. The men had prepared Christmas trees from jungle bushes.

But during our Christmas morning service, the enemy lobbed mortar shells at us. Two of our men were killed and two or three wounded. The joy of Christmas was gone.

Yet war makes men take another look at themselves. They see a friend die and ask, "Is this the end of it?" In Vietnam religion is stripped of its formalities and rituals. It is man and God alone.

That is what led 37 troopers to an afternoon service I held—a baptismal service. They either never had been baptized or had fallen away from God. Now they came to a creek where I immersed them four and five at a time. They came not out of fear or anxiety but because battle had stripped life to its bare essentials and shown them true values.

We could never forget our friends who had been killed earlier, yet that afternoon of Christ's birthday we took solace in the fact that 37 men had been reborn as Christians.

Chaplain (Maj.) Robert Crick,
U.S.A. Chattanooga, Tenn.

Our Cover: A Combat Artist Depicts Christmas in Vietnam

Paul Rickert, who painted our Christmas cover, saw the war firsthand but carrying pencil and sketch pad rather than M-16. As a 20-year-old art student, son of the noted Philadelphia illustrator, William Rickert, he was unconvinced that a career in art was what he wanted. Then came a draft call—and frontline duty as a combat artist. He saw it all—the fighting, the boredom, the deep sense of God and man. He put it down in unforgettable sketches which already have attracted national attention.

Now 22, Paul is a civilian again and studying art with the deep conviction of a youth who matured in the agonies of war.

NORMAN VINCENT PEALE—Hurt by criticism, he decided to quit the ministry — then a 3 a.m. phone call from a stranger that restored his faith in himself.

IRVING STONE—A poor boy overwhelmed and discouraged—when one word uttered by a stranger transformed him from a child into an adult.

CATHERINE MARSHALL—After losing a devoted, beloved husband—the shattering moment that shaped her life's new direction.

JAMES T. FARRELL—A family broken by divorce and a father's single act that won him back his son's respect.

ADELA ROGERS ST. JOHNS—How her father forever taught her to speak truth with faith that has the power to be believed.

MACKINLAY KANTOR—Laughed at, sneered at, accused of lying — then the surprising incident that suddenly vindicated him.

RICHARD TREASKIS—Conwalescing from serious wounds... his horrible fears of terrible injuries... and the courage one man gave him to overcome—to face life... and to tackle dangers head on.

GEOFFREY BOCCA—A freighter in World War II, lost from its convoy suddenly in the middle of a scene of pure horror... and the inspiration of its captain saving his ship against impossible odds.

JOY ADAMSON—How her three lion cubs—helped her save animal lives the world over.

ERIC HATCH—The inspiration that transformed a frightened GI into a man who no longer knew what fear was.

How Someone Famous You Don't Even Know May

Change Your Life—NEXT WEEK

In this unique project great writers give psychological help for virtually any problem that may be now worrying you.

HERE'S NEWS OF A UNIQUE PROJECT to give help in a personal crisis... when psychologists say our closest loved ones are often unable to help us.

Not financial or physical help so often offered, but PEACE OF HEART, SOUL AND MIND psychologists say you then need most.

Psychologists report that even a stranger who has been through a similar experience can help us... just by sharing with us his own experience.

And when great writers speak from the heart with simple words about the very situation that concerns you deeply it can CHANGE YOUR LIFE NEXT WEEK!

Great Editors and Great Writers Band Together — to Help You

In a unique project of the editors of Family Weekly Magazine, really great writers of today tell simply and incredibly vividly of problems of big people and little which were overcome, problems of the mighty and humble, rich and poor, famous and unknown... actual people... true life situations... perhaps the very problems right now troubling you.

Great human beings expose their own weaknesses to help you... tell candidly of situations life has not prepared them for... how they came through life's crucible.

Great writers share with you their experience of worries like: yours overcome... health or money, loneliness and family parting, fears, discouragement and failure, difficult marriage decision, divorce or separation.

Virtually whatever worry you may have someone famous you now don't know may give you the key to solving it... and all in one book of great psychology and great philosophy from the heart called "MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT."

Great Human Beings with Big Hearts

You're not preached at. You're simply shown in simple words how much the same problem was met, faced and solved by others. You need not read the book through... but simply glance through until you find the situation most like your own.

1001 actual true-life situations... solutions told you by great writers like Harry Golden, Taylor Caldwell, Pearl S. Buck, A. J. Cronin, Norman Vincent Peale and Catherine Marshall.

Actual cases overcome—handicaps... disabilities... operations... serious illness... misfortunes of fate—told by the world's greatest living writers like Robert Russell, Frances Parkinson Keyes, Fannie Hurst, Will Oursler, Andre Maurois, William L. Shirer, Bishop Fulton Sheen and others. Here is hard-headed common sense inspiration. And great humor, too, as P. G. Woodhouse, Cleveland Amory, and others make us laugh at ourselves.

Think of it. Some of our greatest writers banding together to help us... great personalities like Billy Graham, William Saroyan, J. Edgar Hoover, MacKinlay Kantor, We all have dark moments. And great writers like Sterling North, Bob Considine, Adela Rogers St. Johns, James T. Farrell and Edward Streeter give new insight and courage. Writers like Geoffrey Bocca, Sloan Wilson, Alec Waugh, Rumer Godden, Joy Adamson and Quentin Reynolds give unforgettable inspiration... tell of situation after situation of almost despair, and then an inspired moment suddenly changing lives for the better!

Step into a New World of Hope and Cheer

Great writers paint with compassion life situations that make you laugh and cry and feel a oneness with a situation like your own.

Suddenly you've stepped into a new world of unexpected help... of straight in the eye self appraisal... of a razor-sharp fresh sense of awareness... of seeing, hearing, feeling, tasting, touching as never before... of helping life provide its own richer, fuller answer.

Great human beings give you new, powerful re-born faith and renewal of confidence. You feel new personal courage... savor the richness of each moment... say "yes" again to life... all from one book of eternal values and revelations, of inner peace and love.

Here are words of comfort for whatever religion, color or race... help when you're blue, down or have given in to a human failing.

Here are crucial moments with Churchill, with General MacArthur, with FDR, stories of a great explorer, of a famous violinist. Here are poignant, moving stories of everyday people and the bittersweet of fabulous careers, and encounters with destiny, relieved. Stories of suddenly-found strength in real people's lives, stories of great spiritual experiences, courage in failure, gallant invalids, cowards suddenly fearless.

Family Weekly, on behalf of its editors and the 38 great writers cooperating, has arranged for "My Most Inspiring Moment" to be lent to you for the use of any member of your family or yourself.

Offer WILL NOT be Repeated this Season

"MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT" has gathered together great writers in the only publishing venture of its kind.

From all over come reports of the astonishing effects caused by this book—of the wonderful changes in lives—the feeling of family comfort it gives.

The present edition is running out. It's First Come, First Served. This offer will not be made in this publication again this season. Don't miss this wonderful help. Rush Coupon for amazing 6-Month NO-RISK TRIAL!

Our Special Offer

Accept MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT on trial for ten full days after the postman brings it to you. If in glancing through the book you do not find a real life situation similar to your own, or if you do not find the book does for you all we say it can, simply return it within the 10 days at no cost at all... And then, if at any time within six months thereafter, you feel in any way that "MY MOST INSPIRING MOMENT" does not do all you hoped, simply return it for a full refund. Could anything be fairer?

THE BIRTHDAY

By PHYLLIS MCGINLEY

Pulitzer Prize winner; author of "Times Three," "Sixpence in Her Shoe," and "Wonderful Time"

On Christmas Eve, some say,
Tall angels chosen for their sweet address
And reassuring aspect, take their way
To earth. There in all gentleness
They lift on either arm
A few most fortunate children sleeping warm
In their December nurseries, kiss them twice,
And bear them off to visit Paradise.

It is the Christ Child's Birthday and the East
Is lit by a bright star. These children come
As playmates for Him, keepers of His feast.
They bring with them such pandemonium,
Such singing and such laughter
That Heaven shakes to its remotest rafter.

Along the tasseled floors
They drive their rainbow hoags like charioteers.
They toss gold balls; make kites of meteors;
Listen with Him to the melodious spheres
Chanting in chorus; climb the unfading trees
Of that celestial weather;
Reach forth to touch the spinning galaxies;
Then all together,
Bidding their Host affectionate goodnight,
Blow out the stars like candles where they burn,
And drowsily return
(Nodding upon soft pinions in the flight)
To their accustomed beds.

Yet when they seek
To tell that journey and the Birthday games,
They falter in the tale. They cannot speak
Such wonders by their names,
So presently fall silent. Parents, shaking Incredulous heads can only shrug and smile,
Saying, "They dreamed a dream who now are waking.
They will remember nothing after while."
But they are wrong. That child whom Christmas captures Grows beautiful and wise,
Possessor all his days of arts and raptures
And heaven-dazzled eyes.

Now Possible To Shrink Painful Hemorrhoids

And Promptly Stop Itching, Relieve Pain In Most Cases.

Science has found a medication with the ability, in most cases—to stop burning itch, relieve pain and actually shrink hemorrhoids.

In case after case doctors proved, while gently relieving pain and itching, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

The answer is Preparation H—there is no other formula like it for hemorrhoids. Preparation H also soothes inflamed, irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.

BRIDGE

EXTRA POINTS, EXTRA CAUTION

To a rubber bridge player, 10 points means nothing at all. Once in awhile, if he is playing for money and scoring a rubber to the nearest hundred, it may mean an extra point, but, in all, he pays no attention to such trifles.

cash his ace of spades at trick one, South made a grand slam and got the top score he was trying for.

From a practical standpoint it turned out that his six no-trump call was totally unnecessary. It seems that at all other tables, North checked for aces with four no trump and then, carried away by his own 20 points, bid the six no-trump himself.

Invariably, East led a spade. Some North players put in the 10 spot and managed to get out for down one. A couple of hardy souls went up with the king in the hope that East had underled an ace and went down three.

We take no stand on South's final bid of six no-trump, but we do take a real stand in favor of North's bidding. North was Roger Stern, the newly elected president of the New York Bridge Association, and Roger was well-aware that a spade would be led if he were declarer and a spade lead might be disastrous. Furthermore, he knew that Paul Trent, his partner, was well-aware of all duplicate potentialities.

Young America's Date-Line

By ELE AND WALT DULANEY

It May Not Be Sick, But It Sure Is Silly!

Dear Ele and Walt: What is your opinion of a group of guys who have a weekly all-male strip poker game every Friday night? They are all 18 and 17 and this has been going on since July. — No Card Player.

Dear No Player: The game doesn't ring perverse or degenerate to us. It just seems like a silly hang-up on the small kid idea that it's shameful to let anyone see your unclothed body. All-male strip poker games are therefore contests to slice the other guy's dignity. Catch the echo? "Johnnie doesn't have anything on..." snicker, snicker. Usually by the time guys are showering for phys. ed. we'd expect the appeal of all-male strip poker to fade. But give the guys time; they're late bloomers. One day someone will say, "Hey, this is a dumb way to spend Friday nights," and they'll be off to the bowling alley, skating rink, or discotheque. — Ele and Walt.

HAS GUILTY CONSCIENCE.
Dear Ele and Walt: I did something very wrong and it won't get off my conscience, yet I know I'll just make things worse if I confess what I did. I'm a boy, 13 years old, and like most boys my age I experiment with smoking (not marijuana, just cigarettes). My parents wouldn't approve, so I always smoke in the bathroom and then use the air freshener afterward. Last week my dad came home early from work, and when I heard him coming I panicked. I flushed the cigarette I was lighting down the toilet, and got out of the bathroom and into my bedroom before he came that way. A few minutes later I smelled smoke and ran in to discover the bathroom wastebasket was burning and the curtains by the sink were on fire. I ran and got a dishpan full of water and put things out by the time dad got there.

Since my little brother, 2½ years old, has the habit of playing with matches and right outside the door, my dad leaped to the conclusion that he had done it and spanked him. I kept silent, and to make it worse ever since then my mom and dad have bragged what a hero I was to put out the fire and everything. I know it must have been my match that did it, but if I tell it won't undo by brother's spanking and it will destroy my parents' confidence in me. I know I'll never speak anyway I can make things right for my brother without telling the folks? —Burnt.

Dear Burnt: You're looking for some magic "no pain, no strain" way to exercise your guilty conscience, and it can't be done. Certainly you won't wash away the "bum rap" little brother suffered, just by giving him piggy-back rides or a movie treat. If you keep silent your punishment will be the nagging pang of conscience you suffer. — Ele and Walt.

FIND OUT FIRST
Dear Ele: I'm a girl, 16, and I'm going with a boy who is 21 a long time. Now we are engaged to marry soon, but I'm not sure of myself. His mother and my mother are very happy for us, but tell us, do you think our marriage will work out — Not Sure.

Dear Not: Don't leap into a 50-to-60-year commitment just to keep the mothers happy. They'll be gone from this world long before you're halfway through your married life. Talk to your minister, doctor or school counselor, and find out where you and your fiancé can get pre-marital counseling. It's not just your own happiness that's at stake, but also the well-being of the children you'll someday bring into this world! Don't let the emotional blackmail of mothers' tears or boyfriend's frowns keep you from investigating your doubts! — Ele.
