Idaho Legislature Will Begin Session Jan. 29

By EARLE L. JESTER

BOISE (AP) — A special session of the Idaho Legislature beginning Jan. 29 will be held on Saturday by Gov. Don W. Samuelson and legislative leaders, primarily to finance forest fire fighting.

Samuelson told newsmen he would include at least six items on the agenda and might add more.

He listed these for sure: —Appropriating funds to liquidate deficiency warrants issued to finance part of last summer's firefighting costs. They total about $1,400,000. —Strengthening the state's fire fighting machinery. —Replenishing state emergency funds.

—Appropriating money to the 1968 protective fund for the 1968 session. —Providing $150,000 needed to prepare the State Park for the 1968 National Boy Scout session to a specified length. He noted the constitution, however, prohibits for a special session of no more than 20 days.

Samuelson said 28 proposals for consideration by the special session had been presented to legislative leaders and he has asked them to advise him on how many to include.

Samuelson said the meeting was marked by a spirit of cooperation and he expressed hope the special session could be brief.

But he said the Senate President Sen. D. McLaughlin, and the speaker of the House, Rep. William Lantieri, R-Hollister, all declined to predict its length.

The governor said he is confident the legislators will do their job "as fast as they can."

He said a hasty decision with little effective prior to the 1968 elections.

Samuelson said he will include on the call any matters he believes would "help save money" for the state. He said these could include correction of errors which have been uncovered in laws already on the statute books.

He mentioned particularly the Public Defender Law and said some counties have reported the cost of its operation is burdensome to them.

Among the 28 proposals are increased funds for the public schools and court reform. The governor declined to say whether he is considering these items, although he has told newsmen he believes both are worth the regular 1969 session.

In the area of strengthening the state's firefighting machinery, Samuelson said three proposals will be given the special session for consideration. They will not be considered by the regular 1969 legislature.

—Drafting of an interstate compact on the sharing of trained firefighting supervisors. —Creating a conservation and natural resources disaster fund. Samuelson emphasized that the primary reason for the special session is to deal with the emergency which resulted from last summer's extensive forest fires.

The state exhausted its emergency funds, spent $250,000 received as a grant from the federal government and issued the deficiency warrants. It has some other bills still unpaid and in addition has received from federal agencies bills totaling about $3 million for assistance they gave the state.

—The governor said the bills will not be considered by the special session, however, but will be held for action by the regular 1969 legislature.

ATTEMPTING TO ROAST wieners and marshmallows are those youngsters at one of the three Christmas tree lightings Saturday afternoon. Hundreds of youngsters from throughout Twin Falls, armed with wieners, marshmallows and hotdog buns, participated in the annual event, sponsored jointly by the Twin Falls Jaycees and the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department.

Johnson Welcomes Leader Of Israel

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson will welcome Prime Minister Levi Eshkol of Israel to his Hill Country ranch Sunday to explore Middle East issues and the possibility of permanent peace.

Johnson put in some time Saturday on government personnel problems after Chairman John M. Macy of the Civil Service Commission brought some of them along from Washington.

Since Eshkol is in this country primarily to assist a money-raising Israeli bond selling campaign, his visit to Texas has a private rather than official label.

So formally, ceremony and entertainment are being soft peddled at the ranch and at Randolph Air Force Base near San Antonio, where the prime minister arrives early in the day.

Nevertheless, there will be plenty of time for discussions of world events and what the diplomatic call matters of mutual interest in Texas. The White House says peace in the turbulent Middle East is the topic that will overshadow all others.

Youths Burn Hotdogs At Tree Parties

Armed with wieners, buns, marshmallows and roasting sticks, hundreds of Twin Falls youngsters participated in the annual Christmas tree lightings Saturday afternoon.

Despite singed hair, eyebrows and burned hands and fingers, the youngsters at the three lightings — one at Harmon Park, another at Albertson's on Fifth Avenue and the other in Sutherland Park — seemed to enjoy the outdoor event.

Sponsoring the annual event were the Twin Falls Jaycees and the Twin Falls Parks and Recreation Department.

Hot chocolate and cookies were furnished by the Jaycees. Supervising the lightings were Jaycees and the Twin Falls Fire Department personnel.

Youngsters, from ages 2 years and up, used wieners, clothes hangers and many other household objects to roast their wieners and marshmallows over the lighted bonfires.

Most of the youngsters had to wait about a half-hour before attempting to roast their wieners and marshmallows, because the fire was too hot to touch.

Cambodian Chief Won't Plan Talks

By The Associated Press

Phnom Penh, Cambodia — The Cambodian chief of state, Prince Norodom Sihanouk, said Saturday he would not help arrange talks with Communist North Vietnam or Red China.

He said the United States contact the Communist North Vietnam, but he would not make contacts that are deemed to failure in advance, Sihanouk added.

His statements were in answers to a series of written questions submitted by The Associated Press on the Vietnam war and its peripheral aspects affecting Cambodia.

His answers came as preparations were being made in Phnom Penh for him to talk starting about Tuesday, with Ambassador Chester Bowles, the American envoy to Phnom Penh on a special mission for President Johnson.

Sihanouk and Bowles will deal foremost with the question of border areas adjoining Vietnam.

A statement was issued Friday by the medical staff of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital stating that the hospital staff had investigated and any defects will be corrected.

This statement was issued by the medical staff after a meeting Thursday night, the second in a series of meetings at the hospital. At all times of the day is prohibitive in a hospital the size of the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

The statement in part read: "The hospital staff believes that if the areas of misinformation are corrected and the emergency room is used only for emergencies and not as a doctor's office and if a cooperative atmosphere exists, emergency services to the best of the hospital staff's capabilities will be available."

A JEROME WOMAN, Lola Lythorn, 40, is helped onto a stretcher here by ambulance attendants and a Twin Falls police officer following a two-vehicle accident at 2:20 p.m. Saturday at Second Avenue South and Sixth Street South. She was treated and released from Magic Valley Memorial Hospital. Two other people in the car, Elma Miller, 35, Twin Falls, and Stan Berges, 37, Twin Falls, were also hurt but did not require hospitalization. Police said Mrs. Miller was driving and that her car was a car driven by Robert Jones, 38, 2100 Alta Street. Jones was ejected from the car and Idaho Power workers had to be called to the scene. Mr. Jones was not hurt.

License Sales Increase As Jan. 17 Nears

With deadline for display of 1968 license plates less than two weeks away, sales activity has shown a marked increase since the holidays, Twin Falls County Deputy Assessor Crauth will report Saturday.

Deadline for display of new plates is midnight Jan. 17, and purchases to meet this deadline must be made by 5 p.m. Jan. 17, he said.

About 27,000 licenses are available for purchase in Twin Falls County, and about 17,000 of these have now been sold, Mrs. Wilkinson said, and that her office has an adequate supply of automobile, truck, trailer and boat plates.

Department of Law Enforcement officials in Boise reminded operators of commercial trucks and trailer trailers of more than 10,000 pounds gross weight to check their fee schedule carefully before submitting applications for licenses. Many applications are not accompanied by correct fees and must be returned.

With the deadline approaching, some vehicles may not be licensed by deadline if there is a delay caused by having to return the application for correction of fees.

Jack Early, division director, said plates for trucks and trailers require an additional 50 cents for each reflectorized plate, including the use for mileage tag in addition to regular registration fees.

This means an additional charge of $1.50 for each complete set of truck plates and an additional $1 for each set of trailer plates.

Reds Overrun Village On Fringe Of Major U.S. Military Base

By EDWIN O. WHITE

SAIGON (AP) — A mixed force of North Vietnamese and Viet Cong overrun a village on the fringe of a major U.S. military base Saturday and took 100 hours of death and terror before being driven off at dawn.

The Communists burned 11 homes and blew up the new market place at Tan Uyen, just six miles of the big air base at Bien Hoa. They killed two village leaders in what one U.S. adviser called an apparent execution. In all the attacks, 8 North Vietnamese and 8 U.S. civilians, including the wife of a U.S. major, were killed. Sixteen U.S. soldiers and 100 North Vietnamese were wounded.

Sixteen U.S. soldiers and 100 North Vietnamese were wounded.

The attack followed a strike Friday night near the U.S. Marine and air base at Da Nang. A mortar bombardment of U.S. South Vietnamese outpost near Da Nang was reported Saturday. The Tan Uyen terror strike coincided with the U.S. announcement that four American planes had been lost in the attacks on North Vietnam Saturday.

raising the total lost in combat operations in the war past 1,000. The U.S. Command's figures are 783 lost over North Vietnam and 220 in South Vietnam. They do not include losses due to accidents.

In the Korean war 1950-53, the United States lost 1,041 planes in combat. The United States began regular bombing of North Vietnam in February 1965. U.S. helicopters were used in the South as early as 1962. But U.S. fixed-wing pilots did not enter combat there until June 1963.

Saturday's war communiques were highlighted by accounts of enemy-initiated actions in central Vietnam, demonstrating a marked aggressive posture by the Communists in the first week of 1968. Military critics in Saigon would not comment on the significance of the attacks.

Found

The lost has been found and Tommy Kennedy and his sister, Polly, are both very happy.

Last week Tommy Kennedy was desperate. He had lost his "somewhat" lost his sister's red and yellow hat and brown mittens and Polly was "awful upset" at him.

He placed an advertisement in the Times-News. A story and picture about his plight were also run. The ad was answered by Julie Snyder, 1884 Alvarado Drive, called Tommy to tell him she had found the hat and mittens.

Franky Tommy brought this note in to the Times-News. "I would like to thank the Times-News for their help in finding my sister's hat and mittens. I would like also to thank Julie Snyder, 1884 Alvarado Drive, who called the evening she ad appeared and refused to accept any reward."

Tommy had been saving a crisp new dollar bill as a reward.

Postal Rate Increase Turns Back Clock

By STEPHEN M. AUG

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the price of mailing a letter going from five to six cents Sunday, it is just turning back the clock to the good old days of 1972 when it also cost six cents.

But today's postal patron will get more for his six cents than his postcolonial forebears did. Six cents entitles the 1972 letter writer to mail but one sheet of paper without an envelope — a mere 30 miles.

Sunday's rate book also affects classes of mail unheard of in colonial days.

—Airmail — which didn't start until 1916 — goes from eight cents to a dime. Post cards cost five cents instead of four, and airmail post cards go from six to eight cents.

To ease the transition — the third increase in 10 years — the Post Office Department has printed about four billion six-cent Franklin D. Roosevelt stamps. Roosevelt replaces George Washington as the most familiar postage stamp face on the nation's letters.

Letters bearing a five-cent stamp and a postmark after midnight Saturday will be delivered — but the post office may have to pay a penny postage due.

Rates for third class mail — which its critics label "junk mail" — go up about 34 per cent. Second class mail — newspapers, magazines — are raised 24 per cent. But some of these increases will be spread over as much as two years.

The new six-cent first-class letter rate supplants a five-cent rate in effect since Jan. 7, 1963. The rate went from three to four cents on Aug. 1, 1958. It had been three cents an ounce since 1932.

Postage rates for letters were more complicated. In the old days, the six-cent rate in 1972 for a single-sheet letter within a 30-mile radius was the bottom of a sliding scale which rose to 25 cents for single-sheet letters destined for delivery more than 450 miles away.

In the 1974-99 era it cost a penny to mail a local letter, and it really was local because delivery wasn't included in the fee — and the addressee had to pick it up at the post office where it was mailed.

The new higher rates are expected to yield about $600 million a year when all rate changes become effective — 1970. Postal officials expect this to trim the current $844-million annual postal deficit to $479 million. They predict this will drop to $115 million in 1969 and rise to $130 million in 1970.

3 Accused Of Narcotics Use Following Rupert Area Raid

RUPERT — Five persons have been charged by Mindokin County authorities in connection with a raid made Thursday night by Mindoka County Sheriff's Office and Rupert City police in which an alleged big pound of marijuana was confiscated.

County records show that from last June 27th marriage licenses have been issued, compared with 340 licenses during the seven-month period just prior to last June. There were 68 licenses issued in the period a year ago.

The two others charged are Gary Bennett, 21, and James Long, 18, both living addresses as of our Athens. Long is charged with illegal possession of beer, with bond set at $100. Bennett is charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor, with his bond set at $200.

Duff said that Long and Bennett were with the other three at the time of the raid, but did not have any narcotics on them.

No date for preliminary hearing.

County Officials Say Marriage Law Is Causing Some Problems

BOISE (AP)—Although the legislator who sponsored it says Idaho's new marriage law has taken the state out of the national divorce maze, county officials say the law has brought problems. Basically, the new law raised the minimum ages at which young people can be married and provided — for persons under 21 — three alternatives to the time of application until the license is issued. There is no wait for older persons.

Drug-Use Is Social Problem

By FRED DOBBS
Times-News Staff Writer

Not long ago a juvenile offender lamented on the many things teen-agers find and use to take a trip into a world of their own. He commended the various methods, and the narcotics, drugs or stimulants involved. The use of "baking the scrapple" of banana pills was mentioned, and he replied: "That went out with high button shoes."

Sure enough, kids know many ways to get high. Their ignorance is very dangerous.

Drug use in this country is a social problem of great magnitude. The tensions of the times create a desire by many of us to escape. If only for a short time. Escape is easy with a drug.

Dr. Luther Thompson, local health director, said one major problem is that teen-agers or college youngsters will not let their parents' medicine chests. "You'd be surprised at the number of people who take sleeping pills," he said.

Alan Ladd, the famous movie star, died years ago from a moderate dose of seconal, a red-colored sleeping pill, and a mixture of alcohol. Neither the sleeping pills nor the alcohol were enough to cause death. Alone, but combined, they were poisonous.

It was established in Chicago that a young man killed eight nurses after going out of his mind on the effects of alcohol and seconal. The drugs and alcohol combined to make him a very dangerous person.

It is unlikely that he would have killed if not for the combined effects of alcohol and the "red birds," psychiatrists report.

A man recently released from the Idaho State Penitentiary into trouble only when he combined nembul "yellow jacks" with alcohol. Under the effects, he would do things he could not recall when sober. He was in a complete berserk.

The drive to enforce the law on drug use is primarily because drugs cause crime. Violent crime.

Teen-agers throughout the country today sniff glue and gasoline to get their kicks. Many wind up in mental institutions.

In Twin Falls law officers and physicians agree that the problem is not with LSD, marijuana, or other hallucinogenic drugs. The problem is from teen-agers getting hold of sleeping pills, a habit or household item, which, when breathed or swallowed, can give a psychotic-like symptom.

Youngsters today are intelligent enough to know drugs mean trouble from the law. They also find drugs are hard to come by. The drug heroin, morphine and the hallucinogenic drugs like marijuana, LSD, psilocin, peilocybin, bufotenine, dimethyltryptamine and mescaline.

Therefore, the use of sleeping pill, glue, methane, chloro by-drate, and such are more widespread. Again, this is hard, if not impossible, to determine.

It is easier to watch for adults. And there are laws against that, too.

In a medical journal published by Parke, Davis and Co., the more potent hallucinogenic drugs and their uses and descriptions are provided.

The drug LSD comes in sugar cubes or animal crackers because it can be disguised easily. It also comes in a clear, odorless liquid form, a powder or a small white pill like an aspirin tablet.

It is usually taken orally and the effects come on slowly. The "trip" lasts 10-12 hours, and those coming out of the trip recall everything, like it was a multi-colored dream. Besides being called "acid" it is called "The beast, No. 25, The Hawk, The Chief, The Ghost or the Cracker."

The answer to America's drug problem? There is none, yet.

Locally, parents are urged by school officials and law officers to keep an eye on their children. Know their friends, know where they go at night and be observant when the child comes home after visiting friends.

With any unusual behavior, drugs should be suspect.

A parent, suspecting the child is under the influence of a drug, should consult the family physician. Police officers would also like to be notified, but it is the rare parent that will turn in the child, even if it's for the child's own good.

Generally, although the police are there to enforce the law, the officer is interested in where the drug came from. If the child found under the influence of a drug can aid police, he will be helping himself and society.

Teen-agers feel this is turning on friends. He should consider he is helping his friends, law officers report. Until drug use is legalized, if ever, law officers must try and stop its use.

The best way to stop drug use is to locate the source of supply, then prosecute those responsible for furnishing drugs to the unwary or the thrill seekers.

GI Bill Has 5 New Flight Opportunities

Five new categories of specialized flight training can now be taken under the GI Bill, according to an announcement by the Veterans Administration and the Federal Aviation Administration.

Loren E. Kopars, director of the Boise VA center, said that in January district FAA offices will begin accepting requests from certified flying schools that wish to offer any of the five courses to veterans who already hold pilot certificates.

The five categories are: class ratings to cover additional aircraft categories, additional ratings to be added to instructor certificates, proficiency training needed to prepare for an airplane transport pilot's proficiency training needed for a certificate as a rotorcraft external load operator or chief pilot, and proficiency training needed for a certificate as an agricultural aircraft operator or supervisor.

Two provisions are specified in the eligibility of those applying for courses under the GI Bill. Veterans must have valid private pilot certificates, or have completed the necessary flying training leading to such a certificate, and must be medically qualified for a commercial pilot certificate.

Flight school courses must meet FAA standards and be approved by FAA and the appropriate state authority.

Antonin Novotny Loses Job As Communist Party Chief

By HANNS NEUERBOURG
PRAGUE — Czechoslovakia (AP) — President Antonin Novotny has lost his job as Communist party chief after 15 years and the background of the new leader, Alexander Dubcek, could mean a quickening of liberal changes, Western diplomatic observers said today.

Dubcek, 46, who won the power struggle in a four-day secret party caucus, is from Slovakia, for years a source of anti-Communist ferment in Czechoslovakia. First reports said his backers in the struggle were liberal associates dissatisfied with the progress of economic and party reforms. The diplomatic observers expressed doubt, however, that Dubcek would lead Czechoslovakia away from support of the Soviet Union and into the renege status of Yugoslavia or Rumania.

Dubcek, Soviet-educated and a party member since his youth, received quick congratulations from Slovak party chief Leonid Brezhnev, who wished him success in his work to the good of the Czechoslovak people.

Breznev was known to have closely watched the Czech situation and made a hurried trip to Prague shortly before Christmas when he reportedly made clear he would not intervene to save Novotny, stigmatized by his rise to office during the repression of the Stalin era.

A communiqué after the party caucus announced that Novotny, 63, would retain his ceremonial post as state president, which he had held since 1957 in addition to the party leadership. His presidential term ends next year.

Among factors believed to be behind his ouster as party chief were unrest within the party-Slovak branch and among writers and students who openly criticized the regime.

The official communiqué mentioned only that the party was separating Novotny's dual party-state role "in keeping with the initiated process of democratization in the state political sphere. For these reasons, the plenum approved the request of Comrade Antonin Novotny to be relieved of the function of first secretary."

Premier Josef Lenart also was reportedly reported to be on his way out. His successor is likely to be Oldrich Cernik, 44, deputy premier and chief of the government's Central Planning Commission.

Traditional rivalry between the Czech and Slovak nationalities forms the backdrop for changes that Slovakia, an underdeveloped agricultural land until after World War II, was being neglected in economic development projects.

McCarthy Backed By N.Y. Group

NEW YORK (AP) — A New York conference of the Coalition for a Democratic Alternative, a group which describes its members as Democrats opposed to the re-nomination of President Johnson, Saturday endorsed Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., as a Democratic alternative to Lyndon Johnson.

The endorsement, which was no surprise, came when 323 delegates gave a standing ovation after a 15-minute nomination speech for McCarthy.

McCarthy was scheduled to address the conference.

A Reminder

Persons earning $7,800 or more a year will have $52.80 less to spend because Social Security now costs them more. The payroll tax remains at 4.4 percent - levied on employers and employees alike. But the salary tax base has been increased from $6,600 to $7,800. Thus the total maximum Social Security tax in 1968 is $886.40 instead of last year's maximum of $580.80.

The chairman has promised to take the measure off the committee's shelf this month. And as a glad footnote to the recent happy season, the Internal Revenue Service has begun to mail forms for the 1967 income tax returns, even though the deadline for filing is April 15. One tax - the federal stamp levy on real estate sales - disappeared from the government's books on Jan. 1. This tax was 55 cents for each $500, or fraction.

MR. SPECTATOR

Frank Clarke Has His Day

It is encouraging, to say the least, to see that something is at last going to be done to do a little preserving on make something out of the highly historic Three Island Crossing area in the Snake River, near Glens Ferry.

Mr. Spectator got a letter from one Ed Aragon who said that a shipmate gets the same news and he (Ed) writes that he enjoys it so figures he might enjoy hearing from some of the people who live in this part of the Snake River delta.

It was quite a few years ago that Frank Clarke, the Glens Ferry pioneer and historian of wide note, suggested something should be done to save the Three Island Crossing area for the coming generations. Mr. Clarke probably knows more about the Oregon Trail history in that area, and more about the freight trails, also, in that area, than anyone living. It was his idea to get some division of government interested enough to make the area really something.

He writes that mail call is "our main morale booster over here" and that it is the "big event of the day." In that case, why not drop Ed a line? Come to think of it, Ed wrote that he has a friend who would like to get something at mail call, too. His last name is Glenn. Get out the stationery and the pen because here are the two addresses in question.

Dear Mr. Spectator: For years, now, we drivers have been told - by law and otherwise - that it is illegal to paste anything on the front windshield because it would tend to obscure the vision of the driver. Now I see by a picture in your paper that the law enforcement gent says that the safety sticker - now also required by law - must be seen for use in windshield.

They are not housebroken but they are cute. I have seven Australian Shepherd puppies to give away. They can be found on a quarter of a mile south of the Murrah grade school in a trailer house. There is no telephone so you must come in person. We have an excellent Border Collie that is seven and one-half months old, is housebroken and a spayed female. She has had all her shots but the one for rabies. She is very good with children. Her owners are looking for a new home for her as they own a small dog house. It is becoming such a good watch dog that she barks every time someone comes or leaves. Some of the guests are objecting. We are sure she would also be a good stock dog. Please call at 424 Addison Avenue West or telephone 733-2899.

Atlanta - A Negro Mayor?

Atlanta (NEA) - From time to time these days, talk is heard that a Negro mayor for Atlanta may not be too distant a prospect. To say this of a northern city is one thing, but to say it of a major southern city is quite something else.

Kiwanis Officers Are Installed At Meeting

Officers for the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club, to serve for the 1968 year, were installed at a special noon ceremony Thursday during the club's regular luncheon at the American Legion Hall.

Russ Sheridan, Filer, lieutenant-governor of the Fifth District, Utah-Kidaho Kiwanis, was the installing officer. He was assisted by Bill Koch, retiring president of the Twin Falls club. Club officers are: Vernon Riddle, president; J. Pat O'Connor, first vice-president; W. Gene Hull, second vice-president; Bill Grange, secretary; Charles Brown Jr., treasurer; first year directors, Lee Tallington, Paul Newton, Ron Booth, Bob Alexander and Ray Lincoln; second year directors, Bill Emrick, Jim Taylor, Bert Lassen, Dr. John McCain and Jim Olson. Following the installation, Bill Grange was announced as recipient of the annual O. P. Duvall Kiwanis Civic Award for his work in the club and in the community. Mr. Grange, a local businessman, was the first club member to receive the award named in honor of Judge O. P. Duvall, the club's only living charter member. Judge Duvall made the presentation.

Legion of Honor certificates (presented each five years) were given to members who had completed more than five-year periods above a minimum of 25 years membership. Judge Duvall received his 46-year certificate while 30-year certificates went to James C. Reynolds, Harry Eaton and Dr. Joseph W. Marcell. Twenty-five year certificates went to Ernest H. Gyer, Dr. Ellwood P. Rees, Curtis Eaton and S. Leslie Crowley. During the session awards were also made to members with perfect attendance records headed by James Reynolds who

Absenteeism In Congress Is Viewed

By ROBERT T. GRAY
WASHINGTON (AP) — While members of Congress point to the long list session as evidence their jobs have become full-time, some do fail to show up when the voting chips are down.

An average of 63 representatives and 18 senators did not answer to their names on 116 many separate roll calls throughout the year, an analysis of the votes shows.

In the final six weeks of the marathon session, which ended Dec. 15, the non-voting average rose to 67 representatives and 23 senators.

Congressional absenteeism often results from situations familiar to all workers — illness or death in the family, graduations and other personal considerations.

In some cases, members at committee meetings do not respond to roll calls because they consider the immediate committee business more important and are aware their vote will not affect the outcome on the floor.

However, hearings or deliberations are usually suspended when major issues are up for decision.

Members of Congress also are involved in such out-of-Washington activity as political fence-mending, campaigning, speech-making in their home or other states and traveling with Vietnam a favorite destination.

A few simply wearied of the session and left before it ended.

Test Rigging Of M16 Rifles Is Charged

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department has been accused of rigging tests of the M16 rifle to justify decisions making it the weapon used by all fighting men in Vietnam.

Rep. Paul Findley, R-Ill., in a 400-word telegram to Sen. Robert S. Mansfield, termed worthless rifle tests to begin Jan. 10 in Panama in response to a House subcommittee request. He said the tests are to be conducted by the Institute for Defense Analysis and the Marine Corps agencies which he said have already prejudged the M16 as reliable.

Findley said he will urge legislation to establish an independent weapons testing program under the General Accounting Office.

T. F. Student To Lead Play

POCATELLO — Gary Sullivan, Twin Falls, a senior majoring in drama, is director of a children's play being prepared at Idaho State University by members of Alpha Psi Omega.

Public Meet Set At Rupert On County Agent Question

RUPERT—A public meeting for 2 p.m. Monday at the court house has been called by the Minidoka County Agricultural Extension Advisory Committee for discussing either the retention or reduction of the present number of county extension agents.

The committee is composed of approximately 15 men appointed by the county commission to act in an advisory capacity to the commission regarding anything that affects agriculture in the county. The committee is concerned that extension services will be reduced and an agent eliminated because of the budget being prepared by the commissioners.

In May the University of Idaho requested that the counties increase their share of the county agent's salaries from $1,000 each to $1,500 each. This was not to raise the agent's salaries as many believed, but was due to a lack of funds appropriated to the university through the state legislature.

This would be effective in July, 1968, and would require county participation for the fiscal year which would amount to $760 being added to the county budget in 1968. The county commissioners turned down the request.

The county agent proposed budget for 1968 which includes the increased salary share of $750 was attested so that it runs $165 higher than for 1967. The 1967 budget was $13,085 and the proposed budget for 1968 is $13,250. It is reported that the commissioners are considering cutting the proposed budget by $750 to $12,500.

Ron Hawks, who is chairman of the advisory committee, was out of town and could not be reached for comment. But Dale Garner, who also serves on the committee pointed out that the county agents are not employees of the county, but are placed here by the University of Idaho as a service and that the university pays the salaries except for the $1,500.

Israel Asked To Pay For Attack

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has asked the Israeli government to pay $3 million to compensate the families of 34 Navy men killed June 8 when Israeli planes and torpedo boats attacked and severely damaged an American naval vessel in the Mediterranean.

Israel jets under six strafing runs over the U.S.S. Liberty followed 20 minutes later by three torpedo boats that fired at least two torpedoes.

Soon after the attack Israel expressed regret, declared the incident a mistake and said it was ready to pay reparations.

State Department officials said the money is to compensate for loss of support and "emotional anguish." They said they are proceeding with work on other claims including damage to the ship and the cost of medical treatment of the injured.

Mayor Of Rupert To Have Tests

RUPERT—Mayor Wendell Johnson has been transferred to the Magic Valley Memorial Hospital to undergo further tests.

He was hospitalized in the Minidoka Memorial Hospital December 21 when he became ill after returning from a hunting trip with his son, Richard.

It is believed that he suffered a heart attack.

Shoshone Residents Ponder Train Loss

SHOSHONE—In December it was old 11 and 12. Now they're affected by the loss of service thinking of taking out numbers and the impact on labor and completed in February of 1963 8,000 reservations. Shoshone has 17 and 18 and the residents of industry in the state is expected to be great.

Even Idaho Sen. Frank Church has pointed himself into the declining use of the train by the public and the loss of revenue (by loss of mail contracts) has resulted in a loss of the line.

Shoshone with the longest main street in the world, is debated about where the widest main street in the world is, but Shoshone does have a wide one) does not have an exclusive claim on the railroad. But the railroad has figured highly in Shoshone's history over the years.

If trains 17 and 18 go, as the railroad says they must, four more men will be without jobs in Shoshone.

Officials of the Union Pacific Railroad said Friday that the railroad intends to discontinue service of the Portland Rose, trains 17 and 18, on Feb. 19. The railroad will petition the Interstate Commerce Commission for permission to discontinue the service. The trains run between Kansas City and Portland and offer daily service to South Idaho residents.

If the trains are taken off the tracks, it will leave Idaho with only one passenger train a day, the City of Portland. About 40 jobs will be lost in Pocatello if the trains stop running.

Residents of Shoshone are concerned because loss of the service will leave almost no transportation for people wanting such service in Shoshone, Granding, Arvo and other whistle-stops along the route.

The City of Portland is a steamliner and will stop only at Shoshone on its jog between Pocatello and Glenns Ferry.

So what do you do when the railroad wants to leave? Shoshone residents are wondering the same thing—but they are going to do something about it when the hearing comes up. The date for the hearing has not been scheduled.

Last month, more than $10,000 worth of tickets were sold at the Shoshone station, along with the Shoshone reservation. Shoshone has a population of about 1,400.

Hammond-To-Homan Pass Combination Leads South Past North Stars 34-21

By RON SPEER
MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South snarped out of a holiday football slump Saturday by rolling to a 34-21 conquest of the North behind the passing of Kim Hammond and the catching of Dennis Homan in the 19th annual Senior Bowl game.

Hammond, Florida State quarterback, tossed two touchdown passes with Alabama's Homan

Krahn Lifts Gooding Over Buhl 59-57

By GARY SNELL
Times-News Sports Writer

Buhl-Ken Krahn hit two free throws with two seconds remaining Friday night to let the heavily-favored Gooding Senators escape with a 59-57 South Central Idaho Conference victory over the winless but determined Buhl Indians.

Senior Chubby Matthews led the Indians came out in a running game that helped offset Gooding's early advantage and Buhl had a chance to tie in the late going. The thin Indians, further reduced by the suspension of two players, for breaking training rules, had a 51-48 lead with five minutes left in the game but saw that evaporate into a 51-51 deadlock. The score tied twice in the second period but 14 seconds left Buhl missed a one-and-one free throw. Gooding was fouled looking for the three shot and Krahn stepped up to ice it.

If it appeared that the Senators would have no trouble over the previously weak Buhl squad, taking an early lead and consisting to a 15-8 lead at the end of the first period.

Early in the second period the Indians started to fight back with the help of Jim Wells and closed the gap to 20-16. The Senators, with a scoring flurry in the closing minutes of the first half, widened their lead to 34-21 by halftime.

The Senators were able to keep at least a 10-point lead through most of the third period, but late in the quarter the Indians turned on the steam and used fast breaks to close the gap at 40-42 by the end of the quarter.

Wells hit a field goal to open the fourth quarter for the Indians but Chris Oakley came right back and added one for the

Carey Panthers Shatter Bruneau

CAREY — The Carey Panthers trounced the Bruneau capors here Friday night in a combat that ended 50-25.

Jim Murdock got 18 points for high honors as the Carey sound and Mike Buckman got eight for the visiting Bruneau club. It was the fourth win against the third loss for the Panthers.

catching one scoring pass and setting up three South touchdowns.

The victory in the nationally televised game watched by 40,156 fans in Mobile was only the second for Dixie in 10 bowl and all-star games over the holidays.

The North, with Paul Tascano of Wyoming hitting on 10 straight tosses in the first half, led 14-10 before Dixie's finest exploded for 24 points.

Homan, an All America end, set up the South's first touchdown with a 53-yard pass from Hammond, sprinted 16 yards around end to set up the second, grabbed a 17-yard scoring pass from Hammond to open the third quarter and caught a 31-yard pass to pave the way for the final Dixie score.

Hammond threw a 12-yard touchdown pass to Tom Smiley of Lamar Tech and hit on 11 of 19 passes for 176 yards.

Tascano tossed a four-yard touchdown pass to his Wyoming teammate, Jim Kilck, for the North's first score and Haven Moses of San Diego State returned a kickoff 100 yards after taking a handoff from Iowa State's Tom Busch. Then the North attacked in the last of the third quarter when Toledo quarterback John Schneider tossed a 43-yard touchdown pass to Ken Dyer of Arizona State.

Oakley Takes 59-38 Win Over Hansen

OAKLEY — The Oakley Hornets stung early in the game to coast to a 59-38 win over the winless Hansen Huskies Friday night.

Oakley took a 19-8 lead at the end of the first period and had no trouble after that.

Of the nine points the Huskies scored in the first half, all but four were free throws.

The Oakley Jayvees won the preliminary 40-38.

Wendell Stops Wood River By 47-44

WENDELL — The Wendell Jayvees used a tight defense to stop the Wood River Wolverines 47-44 Friday night.

Wood River took a 13-10 lead at the end of the first period and was able to maintain a 27-10 edge at the end of the first half.

Ron Beck sparked the Wolverines in the third period with six points as Wendell took a 36-33 lead going into the final period.

The lead changed hands seven times in the fourth quarter, but Wendell was able to pull out the win.

Filer Junior High Tops Buhl Twice

FILER — The Filer Junior High school swept a pair of games from Buhl Friday afternoon.

The seventh grade, with Brent Brown hitting 17 points, rolled to a 63-25 victory. Tverdy led Buhl.

Rex Krume bucketed 12 points in leading the eighth grade to a 33-24 win. Dunlap hit 10 for the losers.

Richfield Presses Past Grand View

RICHFIELD — Using a man-to-man defense and a zone press all the way, the Richfield Tigers polished off the Grand View Bulldogs 69-57 Friday night.

Grand View stayed within three points over the first quarter but Richfield erupted for 25 points in the second quarter to ice it.

Valley's Late Rally Beats Shoshone

EDEN-HEZELTON — Trailing two points with three minutes left, the Valley Vikings got a closing flurry of points from three players and overhauled the stubborn Shoshone Indians 47-30 Friday night.

The smaller, defensively-tough Indians, big underdogs, keyoned the defense to late. The Indians jumped into an early lead but faltered behind 25-21 at halftime on a five-point quarter. But Valley waited, hitting only six points in the third quarter, and Shoshone took a three-point edge into the final eight minutes.

For five minutes Shoshone probed the lead but then sophomore Tony Deary, Richfield's RB, Blaxham three and Meyer four as Valley swarmed from behind.

Valley took the first game 58-33.

Glenns Ferry Ends 24-Game Losing Skein

GLENN'S FERRY — Everything fell into place for the Glenns Ferry Pilots Saturday night as they exploded past the Kimberly Bulldogs 73-63 and snapped a 24-game losing streak.

The Pilots, still looking over their shoulder, showed signs of willing in the final half but steeled late in the third period and won going away.

Coach Gooding's team again blitzed the Bulldogs for 21 points in the first quarter and went on to a 41-20 intermission edge. Kimberly started coming back late in the third quarter and cut the margin to two points before Gary Hall and Larry Sims came up with the buckets that let the Pilots know they could win. The Pilots scored for 23 points in the final quarter celebration.

Richfield Presses Past Grand View

RICHFIELD — Using a man-to-man defense and a zone press all the way, the Richfield Tigers polished off the Grand View Bulldogs 69-57 Friday night.

Grand View stayed within three points over the first quarter but Richfield erupted for 25 points in the second quarter to ice it.

Valley's Late Rally Beats Shoshone

EDEN-HEZELTON — Trailing two points with three minutes left, the Valley Vikings got a closing flurry of points from three players and overhauled the stubborn Shoshone Indians 47-30 Friday night.

The smaller, defensively-tough Indians, big underdogs, keyoned the defense to late. The Indians jumped into an early lead but faltered behind 25-21 at halftime on a five-point quarter. But Valley waited, hitting only six points in the third quarter, and Shoshone took a three-point edge into the final eight minutes.

For five minutes Shoshone probed the lead but then sophomore Tony Deary, Richfield's RB, Blaxham three and Meyer four as Valley swarmed from behind.

Valley took the first game 58-33.

North Wins Hula Bowl

Csonka Shines In 50-6 Romp

HONOLULU (AP) — The North, paced by the bustling running of All-American Larry Csonka of Syracuse, and the terrific defensive charge of huge Harry Gunner of Oregon State, overwhelmed the South Saturday 50-6 in the 22nd Hula Bowl football game.

The North had too much manpower for the South in this all-star game that pitted many of the nation's top college stars against All-Americans who were on hand.

The game was televised live by the Lani Bird satellite. It drew a capacity crowd of 25,000.

The North had everything but compassion. Ahead 20-0 in the fourth quarter, it sprang a surprise play with quarterback Jimmy Raye of Michigan State pitching back to quarterback Rick Cassata of Syracuse, playing halfback. Cassata threw a 48-yard scoring pass to John Wright of Illinois.

And then, the North team, coached by Duffy Daugherty of Michigan State, made a successful onside kick while ahead 37-6.

UCLA's Gary Behan, the South quarterback, spent most of the afternoon picking himself up after Gunner had knocked him down.

Gunner was named outstanding lineman of the game, and Csonka was unanimously named the best back. The score spread was the highest in the history of the game, which has been played under various formats. The North has won the last three and five of the last six.

The North jumped off after the little game three minutes when Behan fumbled into the end zone and John Williams of Minnesota recovered for a North touchdown. Cassata scored the next two on three-yard sneaks, after Csonka's running set them up for 20 times for 119 yards.

THIS IS the way the 60-yard dash ended up Saturday night at the All-American games in the Cow Palace. Some of the world's fastest runners landed in a heap when one of them became entangled in a restraining rope being used to prevent them from crashing into glass doors. L-R: Kirk Clayton,

First Meet Points To Good Olympic Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — It's the Olympics squad, said Saturday night, "extremely pleased" by the caliber of competition.

Bob Geyer of Southern California, who vaulted 17 feet 12 inches, then missed three times at 177, said, "It was only the third time this season I have jumped. I selected the 177 because I wanted practice at going for the record under competitive conditions."

He set the world record at 19-10 1/2.

Head coach Earl McCulloch and halfback O. J. Simpson, who helped Southern California win the Rose Bowl game only Monday, competed in the Cow Palace meet before a record 12,700 fans only four days later.

McCulloch won a paper-thin 60-yard hurdles dash from Ralph Boston, world and Olympic long jump record holder, in 7.2.

Simpson was seventh of eight sprinters in a 60-yard dash won by Billy Gaines, 18 year old San Jose, Calif. high school star.

McCulloch "felt terrible in this race. My timing was off. I've run her 17-10 right to work next week."

Simpson said, "I haven't even started out since the Rose Bowl. I've been too sore. This is my first competition in a long time."

Two Olympics winners who didn't fare so well were Bob Schul and Billy Mills. They won the mile and 5,000 meters at Tokyo in 1961.

Schul, unattached, was last in the eight-man mile, 10-1/2. Mills have been sick and haven't been able to train much lately in the year.

Mills of San Diego Track Club was fourth in a six-man two-mile won by George Young of Arizona Track Club in 8:43.3.

"The pace was good for the first mile, but then I started to develop bad blisters. I have had a metatarsal problem with my feet," Mills said.

Mtn. Home Drives Past Jerome 69-54

MOUNTAIN HOME (AP) — The Mountain Home Tigers rallied from a half-time deficit and claimed a 69-54 South Central Idaho Conference victory over Jerome Friday night.

Behind the combined scoring of Steve Kent, Steve Carr and Ken Humble, the Tigers opened with an 18-15 first quarter lead and then watched Jerome come back for a 35-33 mid-time lead.

Kent led the Tigers' attack with 17 points while Carr and Humble chipped in with 12 each.

Jordan was high for the visitors with 18 points.

Duo Sparks Camas County Past Dietrich

FAIRFIELD — Catching a spark from Gary Strom and St. Claire, the Camas County Mustangs shook off an early deficit and overcame the Dietrich-Blue Devils 59-50 Friday night.

With Randy Lee pumping through 11 first-quarter points, the Devils marched into a 16-0 lead. But Camas County finally shut off Lee and Dan Moon, with six, and St. Claire, with five, provided the points that kept the Mustangs from being overruled.

After the half Dietrich stayed just behind but any hopes for a caper fully fizzled when Lee sprained an ankle and missed the fourth quarter.

Clearfield Nips AAU Nationals In Overtime 92-89

FILER — The Clearfield Job Corps, getting clutch points from ex-Weber star Tillman, nipped the AAU Nationals 92-89 in overtime Friday night.

The AAU frittered away a 17-point second-quarter lead but going into the final seconds were stilling to protect an 81-70 margin. A hot pass gave Clearfield the ball and Tillman got the tying points with six seconds remaining.

The Nationals moved out in front by four points in the overtime but again were victims of turnovers and Tillman hit two field goals to give the Job Corps the lead. After that the AAU fouled in an attempt to get a mixed free throw but Clearfield hit from the line to tie it.

Southern Idaho To Host North Idaho In Feature Game Monday

The College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles face another big home game Monday night when they host tall Northern Idaho Junior College of Cour d'Alene at 8 p.m. in the Twin Falls High School gymnasium. The AAU Americans and Nationals will meet in a preliminary local game at 6:15 p.m.

Carrying an 8-1 record, the Eagles need a victory over North Idaho to strengthen their bid for a sub-regional tournament late next month. They apparently again will go without Clarence (Boo) Glover who hasn't returned from the holiday vacation as yet. Coach Eddie Glover would return or not but indicated he would stay home when he left prior to the holidays.

Coach Sutton said he had only fleeting knowledge of the North Idaho team but was slated to scout them Saturday night when that team played at Boise.

"We know they have a good little guard, around six feet, who has been scoring very well for them along with a now forward who wasn't with them last year," Coach Sutton said Saturday afternoon.

As A Stuffy Hobby—It Is Partly For The Birds

By JAN A. SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor

Lewis Brown is 14 years old, and he is an accomplished taxidermist. He is specialized because he wants to be—he likes to work with ducks, and he has done only birds—but still hopes to branch out into other areas such as fish and animal taxidermy. But for now, birds hold Lewis Brown's attention, and he does right by them.

Lewis Brown started surrounding himself with birds three years ago when he was in the 6th grade. He is now in the 9th grade at Robert Stuart Junior High School.

The hobby started like so many other hobbies start—Lewis was impressed with the work of a teacher. And the teacher was impressed with students who wanted to learn.

The teacher was Darrell Bourner, who still teaches in Twin Falls. And according to Lewis, Mr. Bourner, who had taken a course in taxidermy himself, said he was willing to teach students interested in learning in sessions after regular classes were out.

The classes began, and Lewis, along with 10 or 12 other students, began to learn how to make a bird look real, alive, natural.

And today, as a result of that beginning in after-school sessions, a class in taxidermy is taught at the Robert Stuart Junior High School, Special Education Building.

But three years ago when Lewis was in the 6th grade at the junior high school, it was strictly an after-school proposition for anyone interested.

And the boys worked at it.

But gradually most of them lost interest. Or simply stopped working at it in deference to some other hobby or activity.

Mrs. Brown remembers the activities Lewis involved himself in vividly.

"Lewis was told, along with other members of the class, to bring in birds to 'stuff' and prepare. But on Friday few youngsters had anything to show for the request. So Mr. Bourner asked them to be sure to bring a bird to stuff Monday.

"Pheasant season opened that Saturday," recalls Mrs. Brown, "and Lewis got his bird bright and early—and then kept it until Monday. Later Mr. Bourner found out only too soon that most of the boys had done the same thing. It was a very smelly session—and the last of its kind. The next day the boys had fresh birds to stuff."

Each Christmas for the past two years Lewis has received a special gift from his parents—a book. He uses the books,

LOOKING LIKE A scene from Alfred Hitchcock's "The Birds," Lewis Brown, an accomplished taxidermist at the age of 14, sits at a work bench in the basement of his parents' home on Falls Ave. E. Lewis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Brown.

which are publications of "Naturalists' Guide" and "The Bird Position" and "manner in order to place his creations in natural poses. The hobby takes up almost all of Lewis' spare time. Often six to 10 hours a day is spent with taxidermy, but usually just two or three hours, or whatever is left after homework has been finished.

In his basement bedroom-workshop Lewis has 40 birds mounted and displayed. He has done well over 200 in the three years he has been practicing taxidermy. And he still has his first piece of work.

"By comparison," says Lewis, "it is pretty rough. But I still like it."

Lewis gives some of the birds away as Christmas presents each year to close hunting friends, and he does some work for others, but explains that he does not plan to go into taxidermy as a profession.

"I like it as a hobby, and I think I'll keep it that way," he says. "But I do hope I can branch out and do other things besides birds. Still ducks are my favorite."

Lewis has two sources of supply—one for birds and one for materials used in his taxidermy. The birds he buys himself, and according to Lewis he can keep himself quite busy—the materials he obtains from a school he attended by correspondence in Omaha, Neb. The school is the same one his first teacher,

Mr. Bourner, also studied taxidermy under.

Lewis' favorite work is a partridge he finished this year as a Christmas present for his mother. His work is natural and impressive. It is the end product of a hobby participated in because of interest and not boredom.

It takes Lewis about six hours to finish a bird, and most of that time is involved in the task of putting the bird into its final position after it is stuffed. The ability to make the bird appear natural is his goal.

And one other problem frequently encountered, according to Lewis' mother, and in her words is "keeping in good graces with his mother while he carries all those stuffed birds in and out of the house." But his mother and father take considerable pride in the accomplishments of Lewis. It was Lewis' mother who requested the partridge Lewis call "his favorite."

The Christmas vacation was enjoyable for Lewis, he skinned 15 birds, and then finished about three a day. But he is the first to admit that that is a bit unusual.

"Two a day is a good limit," says Lewis. And his mother agrees.

THE FINISHING TOUCHES are given to an owl's wing in the evening hours. Most of the work done by Lewis is done after school and after homework is completed. The Christmas vacation provided Lewis with extra hours of his hobby.

REPRESENTATIVE OF THE fine work done by Lewis Brown is this realistic rendition of the flight for survival. According to Lewis placing the birds in a natural position is the most difficult aspect of taxidermy.

With the world of politics becoming more and more active in the heady atmosphere of a political year, it is time to remind politicians that a dash of good wit sprinkled over an otherwise dull speech can do wonders. Taking our examples from the history of political humor we can only hope that politicians will see beyond the stack of unanswered letters on their desks, and try to emulate the old masters:

Probably the most astute of comments the world of politics has had the pleasure of hearing came when a British politician named Richard Brinsley Sheridan—(18th Century)—replied to the Earl of Sandwich's prediction that he would die either upon the gallows or of venereal diseases. Sheridan's reply was simply: "That depends, my lord, whether I embrace your principles or your mistress."

And the corrupt Huey Long often found that he couldn't separate his sense of humor from his sense of politics. A friend of the Negro, simply because he wanted the Negro vote, Long was once approached by Negro leaders who wanted Negro nurses employed at the Charity Hospital. Long promised that this would come about, but warned the Negro leaders that they may not like his methods. He then announced an inspection trip to the hospital and followed by reporters who at ways considered Long good copy. Long exploded: "It's a Gawd-damn disgrace! That hospital's full of niggers being tended by nice white girls! It's a disgrace, and I won't stand for it!"

And so, long before civil rights became fashionable, Long worked for it in his own, somewhat unorthodox, manner, in his state of Louisiana.

During the Civil War General Hooker, in order to impress Lincoln with his activity, sent a dispatch headed, "Headquarters in the Saddle." And Lincoln replied after seeing the dispatch, "The trouble with Hooker is he's got his headquarters where his hind-quarters ought to be."

Invective plays an important part in party politics. Representative Emory Spear, of Georgia once said that, "The Democratic Party is like a mule without pride of ancestry or hope of posterity," and of the opposition party Senator Anselm J. McLaurin, of Mississippi, said, "The basic principle that will ultimately get the Republican Party together is the cohesive power of public plunder."

Senator Henry Wilson, of Massachusetts, once said, "I believe if we introduced the Lord's Prayer here, senators would propose a large number of amendments to it." And when Edward Everett Hale was Chaplain of the Senate he was asked, "Do you pray for the senators, Dr. Hale?" He replied, "No, I look at the senators and pray for the country."

Theodore Roosevelt was once involved with a heckler who ultimately got the best of him. During one of his campaign speeches, Roosevelt found himself being constantly interrupted by a drunk, who shouted, "I'm a Democrat." Roosevelt finally paused and asked, "May I ask the gentleman why he is a Democrat?" And the drunk replied, "My grandfather was a Democrat; my father was a Democrat; and I am a Democrat." Roosevelt then asked, "My friend, suppose your grandfather had been a jackass and your father had been a jackass; what would you be?" and the drunk replied instantly, "A Republican!"

Adlai Stevenson's favorite story about a heckler was about a lady temperance candidate who concluded her impassioned oration, "I would rather commit adultery than take a glass of beer." And a voice from the audience asked, "Who wouldn't?"

And Stevenson was not afraid to tell the ethnic or religious story, much to his credit. He is quoted as telling short stories of the following kind: "This is a dark, dark world and that is why the Irish are always half-drunk, or the prayer of the little boy in a Chicago Irish ward who said, 'Our Father, which art in Heaven, O'Halloran be Thy name.' And his favorite religious story was about the daughter of a famous divine who was drawing with crayons, and the mother asked her whose picture she was drawing. 'God,' she said. 'But, my dear, nobody knows how He looks,' the mother admonished. And to that the little girl said, 'They will when I'm finished.'"

And some of the most current humor in politics came from the Kennedys and Barry Goldwater.

Kennedy, after the Supreme Court's no-prayer-in-school decision, was once quoted as saying, "Speaking of the religious issue, I asked the Chief Justice tonight whether he thought our new Education Bill was constitutional and he said, 'It's clearly constitutional—it hasn't got a prayer.'"

Barry Goldwater, who is half-Jewish, was reported in the press to have said the following in response to being blackballed by a Phoenix country club. Calling the club on the phone he asked, "Since I'm only half-Jewish can I join if I only play nine holes?" But Goldwater reported that "it's a damn funny story but unfortunately not true."

And Goldwater also was a master at talking about his own family in such a way that he was actually talking about another's: "Of course, the Goldwater clan is not as large as the Kennedy clan. And my brother, Bob, doesn't want to be in government—he promised Dad he'd go straight. . . . But I have a lot of uncles and cousins and in-laws whom I wouldn't mind shifting to the government payroll. Anything at all—Peace Corps, Justice Department, Senator from Massachusetts, just anything, so long as it isn't one of those dollar-a-year jobs. And I have a sister named Carolyn and a granddaughter named Carolyn which, I figure, puts me two up in that department. . . . I also have a two-year-old grandson who's too young to vote, but too old to be Attorney-General."

And Senator Goldwater was a hard man to make fun of. . . he would turn the humor around: "I see my friend Herblock has coined a new word in some of his recent cartoons," said the former Senator. "Goldmirechers," and I don't mind telling you that personally I think this is pretty shabby treatment of Justice Arthur Goldberg."

But Kennedy was hard to get the best of. In the humor department: When the Republicans tried to make an issue comparable to Roosevelt's attempt to pack the Supreme Court out of Bobby Kennedy's appointment to the Cabinet as Attorney General, the President simply said, "I don't see what's wrong with giving Bobby a little experience before he starts to practice law."

IDAHO STATE POLICE officer William Van Dyke looks like this during working hours on the highway when he is jotting down the license number of a vehicle he has stopped. Patrol work is not easy and requires constant attention and a courteous manner. In a car equipped with almost everything for emergencies, Cpl. Van Dyke will be working this weekend to help keep motorists alive and safe.

Touring Idaho's Lonely Highways Is Responsible Duty For State Police

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

A night spent on the highways with an Idaho State Police officer can be interesting.

A first-hand knowledge of how traffic violations are committed can be gained, and after a few hours one comes a way with the feeling that a state patrolman is a very competent individual in a demanding profession.

With the promise of many drunken drivers out trying to kill themselves, this reporter rode with an Idaho State Police officer just before New Year's Eve to get an insight into the problems of the road and what drivers should do to protect themselves.

I obtained permission to ride from Lt. Donn Bennett, officer in charge of the state police's fourth district. The officer who rode the dubious honor of taking me around was Cpl. William Van Dyke, an 11 year veteran of the force.

He works nights now. I met him at 5 p.m. at the state police office near Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

"Another officer, seeing me get into the car with Cpl. Van Dyke, asked, 'Who's that?'"

"Mr. Dodds. The boss said take him around," Cpl. Van Dyke said. He was unaware of my purpose in being there, which was all in the good. He then informed me that my being in the car would not affect his duties in the least. It didn't.

We headed eastward. The first thing I noticed was that Cpl. Van Dyke came to a complete stop at each stop sign or red light. He then drove only when it was safe to do so, as most drivers roll slowly, never coming to a stop.

"That's the idea," he said. "A driver's mind is not on his business, might just roll through a stop sign someday and run right into the path of another car."

This type of accident is very common, especially on country roads.

Cpl. Van Dyke was also very careful to turn into the proper lane when entering a dual-lane highway. He signaled when changing lanes and was aware of all speed limits.

This is expected of state police officers, and all drivers, but it is amazing how the fact of safe driving is brought home by a ride with a man who makes a living out of patrolling the highways of Idaho.

He was very careful to look his seat belt everything he got into the car. I followed suit, and thought of the many times I had failed to do this in my own car.

Cpl. Van Dyke's area that night was most of Twin Falls. We left the city on Highway 30. It was dark when we passed through Kimberly. The first 30 minutes of patrol was routine, uncomplicated and without results.

It looked like it would be a quiet night. It wasn't.

Just past Hansen, at the Hansen overpass, we saw a car parked at the side of the highway. Three men were working on the motor. Cpl. Van Dyke

Hearings Set On Truckers Applications

BOISE — Public hearings are being held by the Idaho Public Utilities Commission Jan. 23 and 28 in the Ponderosa Inn to hear applications for four Mini-Cassidy trucks.

On Jan. 23 at 9 a.m. applications will be heard for E. R. Sanchez, 934 Schedde, Burley, to transport potatoes, hay and other types of agricultural produce within a 20-mile radius from Paul, and for Juan M. Castro, Rupert, to haul potatoes in the same 20-mile radius.

At 1:30 p.m. Jan. 25 the application of Clyde Kendall, doing business as the Clyde Kendall Trucking Co., Route 5, Rupert, to transport agricultural products within a 200-mile radius from Paul will be reviewed.

At 9 a.m. Jan. 28 the application of Tom Gure-Trucking, Burley, will be reviewed. The firm seeks authority to transport livestock, coal and agricultural commodities south of Salmon along Highway 10.

Spider Nest

MATTOON, Ill. (AP) — An infestation of dangerous brown recluse spiders at Mattoon High School forced officials to close the school Thursday.

Dr. John G. Wargo, superintendent of Mattoon schools, said he closed the high school after an exterminator discovered thousands of the spiders in the school building.

Holiday Fete Is Held By Burley Club

BURLEY — The Burley Business and Professional Women's Club held its annual holiday dinner party Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Russell Anderson.

The group donated to the Children's Home Society of Idaho, held a gift exchange for members and a silent auction.

Ken Barry, Burley police officer, spoke on the polygraph. Mr. Barry has taken special training in New York City in the use of the polygraph which is a machine used in detection work. He displayed his own intricate polygraph machine and explained how it functions.

Various types of businesses other than law enforcement work could benefit by using the polygraph, Mr. Barry stated.

Mrs. Kenneth Grimman urged all club members to observe traffic safety rules during the hazardous driving months when the national traffic toll is so heavy.

"Traffic safety is being stressed as a special project of all Idaho Business and Professional Women's Clubs, according to Mrs. Josephine Kraush, state director-at-large.

The next business and dinner meeting will be at 7 p.m. Tuesday at the Stampedo Cafe dining room.

Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ken Barry, Mrs. Lewis Cash, Mrs. Manuel Gutierrez, Mrs. Cindy Taylor and Linda Judd.

Recording Heard By Hazelton Club

HAZELTON — A tape recording of a lecture by Dr. Ed Lindman, manager of the International Project for Apollo (Space Program) at Downey, Calif., also president of the National Council of United Presbyterian Men, was heard at the Hazelton Lions Club meeting.

A report on the progress of plans for a tennis court to be built at the city park was given. The next meeting will be held Jan. 16.

The Money Box

Quarter Dollar (Isabella)

To O.T. Twin Falls: I am sorry I have been unable to identify the coin you ask about. It is not listed in any of the reference books I have at my disposal, but the column will keep trying on it, and if we find it in the future, will let you know.

From C.H. Glenns Ferry: I have a twenty dollar bill, National Currency, The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, Virginia, Series of 1929, Jackson's picture and in good condition. Can you tell me anything about it?

Answer: This is a standard issue of 1929, and the particular issue you are asking about was from the fifth Federal Reserve District, and should be stamped with the letter "F". Richmond issued 100,000 of these twenty dollar bills. The note should bring you about $28.50 if in nice condition.

From R.L. Twin Falls: I have a coin which says "Columbian Quar. Dol." on it. One side has a king's head, and around it "United States of America, 1893." On the other is a woman kneeling, and around it "Board of Lady Managers" and the "Quar. Dol." Is this a coin, or a token, or what? Have you ever heard of it? How much is it worth?

Answer: Your coin is a United States Quarter. It has been two years since the column has heard of one of these. In 1893, when the Columbian Exposition was being held in Chicago, the United States issued a commemorative half-dollar, which was sold for $1.00 at the Exposition. The Board of Lady Managers of the Fair then petitioned for a souvenir quarter-dollar, and authority for it was granted on March 3, 1893.

The figure on the obverse (face) is that of Queen Isabella, of Spain — since the commemorative half dollar displayed a bust of Columbus. The kneeling figure on the reverse (back) is emblematic of woman's industry—24,214 of these coins were issued and sold at the fair for $1.00 apiece. The coin is now very scarce, and is worth about $30.00 in extremely fine condition.

From A.R.C. Twin Falls: I have a coin which looks like it is aluminum. It is brand new. On one side is a seated woman and around it it says "Republique Francaise. Union Francaise" and it is dated 1949. On the other side is a wreath and it says 50 Centimes and Nouvelle Caledonie. Can you tell me anything about it?

Answer: Your coin is the standard coinage of New Caledonia. This is an island halfway between Australia and the Fiji Islands and is one of the many French possessions in the South Pacific. The coin is aluminum and actual value in United States money would be about one-fourth of a cent. Collector value on a brand new specimen is about a dime.

From L.W. Caldwell: What is a Waitangi Crown. I read the other day of one selling for $700.00. Was the story true? I would appreciate this information.

Answer: Glad to answer your question. The "Waitangi" Crown was issued by New Zealand in 1935, and is a commemorative coin, brought out to celebrate the signing of a treaty with the Maori people in 1840. The coin was issued on the silver jubilee of King George the Fifth. King George's bust is shown on one side, with the legend "George V King Emperor" around it. On the reverse, a naval captain shaking hands with a Maori Chief is legend around "New Zealand Crown, 1935."

The word "Waitangi" is below. The coin was issued as a proof coin. I do not know if the story you read was true, but the coin is very scarce, and I have seen records of it selling as high as $800.00.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o the Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401.)

DRINKING WATER from the fountain in the hall of the Blaine County courthouse in Halley is cold and clear and much sought after north of Halley. Many, however, especially children, have lost their breath when they turned the "spigot a little too far and had their faces washed before they knew what was happening. To sort of warn folks, Probate Judge Jim Leichter made a sign and put it up. Here Mark Miller turns the faucet and his playmate, Dennis Brown, waits for him to get it adjusted before attempting to get a drink.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

ERIE (Pat) Patterson—GLENNIS FERRY is really handy with tools and he has a lot of them. His wife, Erma, has many productive ideas. Their converted bus-camper is an example of pooling the two aptitudes.

They have converted a '35 passenger school bus into a vacation home on wheels in which to enjoy their vacation trips.

The South Boise River country where they especially like the Emma Creek area is one trip they enjoy. Other outings have taken them into the Stanley Basin and to Salmon where they went to the end of the road in one of the canyons, then a bit further with Erma building road, she says, for the extension.

Pat always has plenty of tools, shovels and saws, along with eril projects in mind that are keeping her husband busy. For one thing, he's been remodeling their home, adding basement room, enlarging the kitchen, changing the front entrance. The roof has to be completely replaced all over the walls. Pat's recently built a large garage-shop where he works when he's home between trips as a Union Pacific Railroad Co. brakeman.

Without a doubt, the beautiful Appaloosa horse, standing in one of the lovely parkways at the Ponderosa Inn near BUTTE, LEY, hasn't been so well fed and ridden by so many as it is now. The recent Idaho Association of "Ski Conservation-Districts Annual Site Convention held at the Ponderosa Inn.

George Welch, State Conservationist worker, in a way, might have started the whole episode when he graciously invited some of the lady delegates out to his home to ride some of his horses. If they found time.

One woman was heard to say "Pat's George brought one of his horses in to stay during the Convention, when she first noticed the HORSE.

When two or three more of the delegates saw the horse, so life-like, mentioned, "I never saw a horse so well trained, he hasn't moved an inch all afternoon." That was the time these middle aged "youthful" gals got their sneezes out and discovered, sadly, the horse couldn't move an inch since a bronze statue just dead.

Anyway, the TWIN FALLS group, being a very kind hearted people in general, got a bale of hay for their horse. He had some bareback riders one evening—whether he was alive or not.

This beautiful specimen of horse liked the attention he was getting, but as horses are, he was conservation minded too. So, believe it or not, he retaliated the only way he knew. He DID move. He backed up, during the night and left a nice natural compost pile right in front of one of the conservation delegates' door.

And then instead of a miffed horse like Ed on TV—this one left a note. It read:

"Sirs: You have been feeding me too darned much hay!

Signed, The Horse"

Who has more fun than people? Maybe horses. The Twin Falls Conservation District knows throughout Idaho as very active and energetic bunch of good hard working people, ambitious in farming and conservation work also.

If more information is wanted, perhaps the local SCS office or some of the Snake River Conservation District supervisors would be able to enlarge on the subject. The HORSE isn't talking!

Book Review

FRENCH COOKING IN THE NEW WORLD. By Frances and Peter Robbott. Of the making of cookbooks there is no end. Only a month ago the Twin Falls Public Library issued a list of a dozen new books in this field (the list is still available), and now more are coming in every week. Some of them are more interesting to read than to use. "The New Orleans Restaurant Cook Book," with its photographs of famous restaurants and its interesting historical sections, is one of these. Others such as Mike Roy's cook book are for the experienced cook with unlimited time and materials at his disposal. Still others are practical tools for the emergency cook who likes to try something new every now and then.

One of the best of the new volumes in this category is "French Cooking in the New World." At first glance, the title is misleading. One immediately thinks of haute cuisine and elaborate sauces. The book's subtitle is somewhat reassuring: Louisiana Creole and French Canadian Cuisine. The authors are both quoted for their knowledge of food. Peter Robbott owns and operates the very good New York restaurant Le Chateau. Richelle, his wife, Frances, is a well-known writer of culinary topics. They have simplified a book of recipes that are unusual and at the same time usable.

The Louisiana Creole section features sea food, gumbo, and jambalaya. Recipes for gumbo are not easy to find, but here is a choice selection.

Louisiana has been occupied by several different nations, and each one has left an imprint on the food habits of that state.

French Canadian cookery is new to most of us. Although the original settlers brought food habits and recipes with them from France, those were speedily modified to meet conditions in the new country. As the authors point out, French Canada has a severe climate, and food that will supply lots of energy is needed. Baked potatoes and fried salt pork are not likely to be popular with most of us.

breakfast, but there are many quick and usable recipes. The lavish use of maple syrup and maple sugar is unusual. The section on desserts is most alluring.

Especially credit is due the authors for the clarity and precision of their instructions. If you happen to run across an unfamiliar term, there is an extensive glossary in the latter part of the book. Creole cookery and spices, but most of those mentioned are now easily obtainable.

Do you know of any other cookbook that gives recipes for Oyster Salad, Laurentian Skillet Supper, Mince and Pumpkin Pie, or Plantation Corn Bread? And many others as unusual and as tempting.

N. Y. Flights Scheduled To Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY — Skiers from ski clubs in the New York area have scheduled four charter flights to Sun Valley in February and March via National Overseas Airways.

Resort officials said that four flights are scheduled to arrive in Boise on four different days—through February and March. The planes are expected to carry about 100 persons on each flight and passengers will be housed from Boise to Sun Valley.

The first chartered flight is scheduled for Feb. 16 from Jamaica, N.Y. Special chartered rates are being offered skiers who belong to ski clubs in the New York area.

This is the first time skiers have come via chartered flight from the East, and it is hoped to increase the flights next year, resort officials said.

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—The exhausting toll of Nigeria's six months of civil war has turned both sides toward talk of negotiations they don't know how to start.

They have plenty of help. Pope Paul VI has appealed for peace in Nigeria and has sent a two-man delegation to West Africa to follow up his plea.

Four American civil rights leaders, partly to show they are as interested in Africa as they are in Vietnam, have suggested a visit to Nigeria to offer their counsel.

President William Tubman of Liberia, who disdainfully withdrew a month ago from a much-postponed Organization of African Unity mission to Lagos, has suggested former Nigerian President Nnamdi Azikiwe take the lead in bringing the federal government and secessionist Biafra together for talks.

In a year-end message, Maj. Gen. Yakubu Gowon, 33, head of the federal military government, repeated several times the regime's willingness to negotiate with Biafran leaders "how to bring about peace and heal the wounds of the country."

Where he once called for the jolting of Biafran leader Lt. Col. C. Odumegwu Ojukwu, 34, Gowon urged "a body of men to come out of Biafra and work for national reconciliation."

A commentary on Biafra radio welcomed the proposal of the visit of American Negro leaders. An offer last March by the same men, Dr. Martin Luther King, Roy Wilkins of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, Whitney Young Jr. of the Urban League and A. Phillip Randolph of the AFL-CIO, was ignored for seven months by the Biafrans.

According to diplomats who have traveled in Northern Nigeria, the weariness with war has driven such men as Col. Hassan Usman Katsina into willingness to discuss the end of it with Ojukwu. Katsina, former military governor of the North before it was split into six separate states, once boasted federal forces could march to the Biafran capital, Enugu, in a few hours. It took three months, and the federalists still are fighting off secessionist forces in the city.

On the Biafran side, the secessionists own embassies have called the secession a "sham." Such men as Sir Lupo Mbanefo reportedly have been seeking a way to start talks. Sir Lupo is a former World Court judge.

Both sides have refused to budge publicly from these positions: the federalists want an end to secession; the Biafrans say their sovereignty is not negotiable.

Report Is Given On Scout Outing

HAGERMAN — S. Z. Thayer gave a report on their winter overnighter taken during a Christmas week by members of the Hagerman Scout Troop No. 35 at the Methodist Church board meeting Wednesday.

Troop No. 35 is sponsored by the local Methodist Church. Thayer, reported the scouts spent the overnighter at Galena Summit with the temperature hovering at 7 degrees above.

Leonard Altus, scoutmaster, reported five hours will go before the board of review prior to a Court of Honor. Thomas commented that Troop 35 has an unusually large number of Eagle Scouts compared to the national average.

Scout Week will be held Feb. 7-14. Building plans were discussed and reviewed.

New Year's Resolutions. Possible To Keep?

By JAN A. SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor

"New Year's Resolutions" is a somewhat hollow phrase. It rings of promises, promises and the big lie.

Each year at this time man, woman, teenager, and child, can tune into talk shows on television and see their favorite stars, from Bob Hope to Lassie, bark out their "program" resolutions for the coming year, called 1968.

It is sad, somehow, that such resolutions, even have to be made. Especially the ones that always lead the lists, and garner the praise of audiences, even if it is only for the fleeting moment during which they are uttered.

It is a worthy ambition, but hardly one which should depend upon a new year's resolution.

Something as important as a new year's resolution should be made last year, and continued this year. As a resolution it seems somehow futile.

However, the resolutions that really mean something are the ones that usually stay kept. No sense breaking a promise to yourself now is there.

So with the wisdom of a week of glorious, impossible resolutions, here is a list of a few intended-to-keep, and that should be easy to keep.

In the wonderful year of 1968 I firmly resolve to:

- play a bit more with my puppy dog, for without me she has only three friends in the world.
- squeeze my children a little harder every night, just to let them know their daddy's there.
- kiss my wife on the back of the neck at least once a day.
- write a letter to my congressman just to let him know there is one more who cares.
- never tell an ugly girl she's "interesting."
- never tell a beautiful girl she's "beautiful."
- listen more, read more, and talk less.
- stop buying products that insult my intelligence with their stupid commercials but thought concerned with truth in advertising.
- be nicer to nice people, and indifferent to mean ones.
- spend more time and less

- money buying presents for people I love, for no reason at all.
- love the country in spite of their kind.
- joke long walks and short naps.
- work hard, and rest twice as hard, on general principle.
- put more faith in logic, and less faith in faith.
- worry less about whether my tie is straight, and more about whether I am.
- look longer at pretty girls who pass by.
- buy more books for my children.
- take my children and wife with me more often.
- wink at my wife every chance I get—and tell her why.
- be nice to grocery clerks, but tell them they're grouchy, but not over the top.
- set all my alarm clocks on the correct time and stop trying to kid myself that it's real by 7 a.m. when it's only 6:30.

- listen to Garner Ted Armstrong for the same reason.
- joke long walks and short naps.
- work hard, and rest twice as hard, on general principle.
- put more faith in logic, and less faith in faith.
- worry less about whether my tie is straight, and more about whether I am.
- look longer at pretty girls who pass by.
- buy more books for my children.
- take my children and wife with me more often.
- wink at my wife every chance I get—and tell her why.
- be nice to grocery clerks, but tell them they're grouchy, but not over the top.
- set all my alarm clocks on the correct time and stop trying to kid myself that it's real by 7 a.m. when it's only 6:30.

—and look even longer at pretty girls who pass by. It may not be that I will keep all those resolutions, but at least they are not impossible to keep. And some of them might be fun.

Founder Of Beatles Died Wealthy Man

LONDON (AP) — Pop music promoter Brian Epstein, manager of the Beatles for four years, left half a million dollars more when he died than he had when he died.

Epstein discovered the Beatles playing for a pound, now $2.40, a night in a musty Liverpool basement and made them into the top pop group in the world. He died on Jan. 27 at the age of 32 after accidentally taking too many sleeping pills.

Lord Alton, then Clement Attlee, defeated Winston Churchill in Britain's first postwar election and served as Labor prime minister from 1945 to 1955. He died last October at the age of 84.

Figures on their estates showed that, after deduction of taxes and debts, Epstein left $538,400 and Alton $16,106.

Attlee had been worth considerably more. But, expecting his wife to die before him, he had arranged his affairs so that the family wealth was mainly hers. Lady Attlee died in 1964, leaving a net estate of $126,379.

Epstein left no will. Letters of administration on his estate were granted to his mother, Queen Epstein of Liverpool.

The bulk of Attlee's estate went to his son Martin.

BEAR CREEK HEADWATERS on North Fork of Boise River has maintained stable big game populations, especially elk and deer, for many years. Sharp changes in habitat cause herd numbers and sometimes the complete extinction of a species of mammal, bird or fish. Such change is brought on by such things as converting prairie, forest and rangeland to agriculture, urban sprawl, broad new freeways, water and air pollution, light aircraft, jet boats, trail bikes, snowmobiles — and more leisure time and money "to get away from it all" for a weekend or week or fortnight.

Some Wild Species Are Lost For All Time

BY JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

More than 100 years ago Henry David Thoreau mourned the loss of what he called "the nobler animals" from his wild "dearest home." The cougar, panther, lynx, wolverine, wolf, bear, moose, deer, beaver, turkey and so forth, had been exterminated from Walden. "I cannot but feel as if I live in a tame, and, as it were, emasculated country," he added.

At least one more prophetic paragraph in Thoreau's books, published in 1854, hit the same theme hard: "I seek acquaintance with Nature — to know her moods and manners. Primitive nature is the most interesting to me. I take infinite pains to see all the phenomena of spring, thinking that I have here the entire poem, and then to my chagrin, I learn that it is but an imperfect copy that I possess and have read, that my ancestors have torn out many of the leaves and grandest passages, and mutilated it in many places. I should not like to think that some deniged had come before me and picked out some of the brightest stars. I wish to know an entire heaven and an entire earth."

Some 48 species of mammals, birds, and fishes which once lived in the United States and Puerto Rico are now extinct. Of course, it is much too late to help them now, though men and women the world over join Thoreau in mourning their loss. These diverse species are gone for all time, and the specialized biological developments through untold eons of time can never be passed on to new branches of family trees. The genetic pools that took so long to form have dried up.

It may be too late to save some of the rare and endangered fish and wildlife species listed by the Department of the Interior and proposed by Congress in the Endangered Species Preservation Act, and passed in the fall of 1966. It gives broad authority and policy guidance to the Secretary of the Interior for a comprehensive program for the protection, conservation and propagation of endangered species of fish and wildlife in the United States, Guam, American Samoa, the Virgin Islands, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico.

An endangered species is one whose prospect of survival is unless immediate jeopardy. Once it receives help extinction will follow. A rare species is not immediately threatened but is so scarce that a slight change in habitat conditions will drive it to the wall. In determining which species of native vertebrates are threatened with extinction, the Fish and Wildlife Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior found help in state departments of fish and game. Interested organizations and experts in ecology and vertebrate zoology. The findings were published in a 1955 report entitled "Rare and Endangered Fish and Wildlife of the United States."

Two more lists, called "peripheral" and "status undetermined," have been drawn up to show fish and wildlife species which may need special attention. A peripheral species or subspecies is one whose occurrence in the United States is at the edge of its natural range, and which is rare or endangered in this country although not in its range as a whole.

A species or subspecies with a determined status is one that is believed to be possibly endangered, but about which there is not enough information to determine its status. More information is needed.

Levi Mohler, research coordinator of the Idaho Fish and Game Department, has sifted the national report to separate the listed species which occur in Idaho. The grizzly bear is the only Idaho mammal listed as an endangered species, but 16 species of mammals which occur in other states are endangered, including the timber wolf and the black-footed ferret.

The California bighorn sheep (not the same as Rocky Mountain bighorn), recently reintroduced into Idaho, is the only fish and game mammal listed as rare, but there are 16 rare species in the United States, including two species of prairie dogs and several kinds of seals and whales. Mountain caribou, found only in the northern Idaho area, occur in large numbers in Canada but there are 16 rare species in the United States, including pine marten, fisher, wolverine and Canada lynx, in the undetermined status, all occur in Idaho through reintroduction.

The fisher was reintroduced a few years ago by bringing in wild pairs from British Columbia after the native Idaho fisher had disappeared. Mohler says Idaho's trumpeter swan is on the list of rare bird species. However, the trumpeter is far less scarce than it was a few years ago. Richardson's blue grouse is peripheral and Columbian sharp-tailed grouse are in undetermined status. The only endangered species of fish found in Idaho is the Montana cutthroat trout. The white sturgeon is on the undetermined status list.

All told, there are 83 endangered species of mammals, birds, reptiles and amphibians, and fishes. In addition, the Department of the Interior (in cooperation with state departments and other sources) shows 47 rare species, 74 peripheral, and 127 others whose status has not been finally determined.

The sad truth is that most fish and wildlife species that are gone became extinct prior to 1900, or shortly thereafter. In some cases, over-hunting played a part in the disappearance, though sharp changes in habitat triggered most of the permanent dropouts. Factors that change environment are such things as converting prairies, forests and rangelands to agriculture, urban sprawl, broad new freeways, water and air pollution, light aircraft, jet boats, trail bikes, snowmobiles — and more leisure time and money "to get away from it all" for a weekend or a week or a fortnight.

On the plus side are spectacular "comebacks" made by endangered species. One of these is known to most Idahoans, since it dwells with the largest and most beautiful of the swans — the trumpeter which swims in the open waters of the North or Henrys Fork of the Snake River in Fremont County.

Years ago, before the Continental trumpeter population dwindled to just a few hundred at most, this great white swan with jet black feet and bill, wintered on the estuaries of the central Atlantic states, along the Gulf of Mexico, the Ohio and Mississippi-River valleys, and the lower Columbia River. It bred from Alaska and Arctic Canada south to Iowa and Indiana.

Today, there are some 2,200 trumpeters. This includes about 700 in the contiguous United States and 1,500 in Alaska and Canada. The continental yellow waterfowl census being taken last week (January 2-9), counts swans and eagles as well as geese and ducks. Unlimited killing for skins, feathers and meat during the 1800's virtually wiped out trumpeter swans.

Complete protection under the laws of the United States and Canada — which still are in force — helped trumpeters on the comeback trail. Original breeding stock of contiguous United States was preserved in Yellowstone National Park and Red Rock Lakes National Wildlife Refuge in Montana. Additional breeding populations were established by transplanting swans from Red Rock Lakes Refuge to Malheur, Ruby Lake, and Lake National Wildlife Refuges in Oregon, Nevada and South Dakota.

Such success stories can be found without too much search. They spotlight a change in public values. Fish and wildlife species are longer regarded as prey for economic necessity. For several decades, at least, most wildlife-oriented activities have been built on outdoor sport of one kind or another. Now the transformation goes on and "birdwatchers" and the like are being welcomed by the sportsmen.

This is a far cry from the old philosophy — "It moves, shoot it!"

Condemned On Strike At San Quentin

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Nearly half the condemned men on San Quentin prison's death row went on a hunger strike Friday, protesting the food and claiming the warden is sloppy.

Associate Warden James W. L. Park said 25 of the 63 men on the row started the strike at breakfast and then turned down their last meal of the day, served at 2 p.m.

However, they won one of their points: Park said the condemned warden's clean aprons serving the afternoon meal. The menu included fish fillets with tartar sauce, soup, coloslav with sour cream, barbecued short ribs, fried potatoes, creamed cauliflower, red beans, yellow cake, coffee and a signature hot sandwich to be eaten later.

Park said the "same food" served all prison inmates except those on death row are given more milk, meat and eggs.

Chorus Sings At Kiwanis Meeting

BURLEY — Seventh grade girls chorus sang at the Kiwanis Club meeting Wednesday noon at the Burley Elks lodge.

Mrs. Brian and introduced by Lovell Turner, program chairman. Guests included Dan O. Brian, Twin Falls; Roger Jaekert, French Gulana, and Hans Forscher.

Mr. Jaekert's daughter, Gigi, spent last year as an exchange student at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Orton. Mr. Jaekert expressed appreciation for the kindness, showed his daughter while she lived here. Mr. Forscher translated for Mr. Jaekert who speaks German and French, but little English.

NEW HOMES HAVE Quick-Recovery FLAMELESS ELECTRIC WATER HEATING

ONE HEATER UP HERE

In the area served by Idaho Power Company flameless water heating continues to be preferred both for new homes and replacements. In 1967 it was chosen for nine out of ten new homes — about the same ratio as exists in older homes. It's a major part of living better electrically.

Two high-wattage elements in each quick-recovery model assure a constant supply of piping hot water.

Because it burns no oxygen, and requires no chimney, you can put your electric water heater anywhere. There isn't a whisper of sound. It's so dependable and free of care, you forget it's there.

It's another among the many things electricity does best.

SINGING, AN INTEGRAL part of any celebration, was one of the features of a posada hosted by 11 youths from Mexico

City. The 11 are here until Jan. 11 as part of the Experiment in International Living. The posada is a Christmas celebration.

SPANISH FARE for a Mexican posada given recently for host families of 11 Mexico City youths is prepared by, from left, Fernando Escalante and Jorge Saigado. The two youths, along with the rest of their group, have been in Twin Falls since Dec. 21 and have been staying with Twin Falls families. The food served at the posada was brought from Mexico.

"OKAY, WHERE'S the stick?" says Mory (Punky) Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. (Ted) Smith as Christina Puga explains the fine art of breaking pinatas. Children of families hosting 11 Mexico City residents took turns attempting to break the surprise-filled pinata during a recent Mexican celebration at the YM-YWCA.

Visiting Youths Host Mexican Posada In T.F.

Turn-about is fun play according to 11 families that attended a recent posada given by Mexican students who have been staying with the families since December.

After a round of parties, outings, etc., given during the youths' tenure in Twin Falls, they decided to host a Mexican-style holiday celebration for their part-time families at the YM-YWCA building.

The 11 students, six girls and five boys, are here under the auspices of the Experiment in International Living.

A posada, in Mexico, is a nine-day-long celebration preceding Christmas, and the shortened version of that event was enjoyed by the students and their host families. Included on the program was the presentation of several folk dances, folk songs and the breaking of the pinata.

The many children in the families the youths have been staying with, each had a swing at breaking the decorated pinata until one stubborn young girl splintered the surprise-filled crock and the children clamored for the contents.

Following the breaking of the pinata the 11 youths, all college students, prepared and served a Spanish-type meal. On the menu were tacos, two types of punch, mashed beans and candy. The food was brought from Mexico by the students who will be staying in Twin Falls until Thursday.

Besides the many functions hosted for the 11, they will be sitting in on classes at Twin Falls High School and will be touring the Twin Falls Livestock Commission Co. and the sugar factory.

Guild Members Boost Spirit Of Patients With "Beauty Bar"

By FLOSSIE KAY
Times-News Correspondent

REPORT Making gives a girl a lift like a new hairdo. Especially if she is in the hospital.

Members of the Minidoka Memorial Hospital Guild recognized the need for this service and so began their "Beauty Bar" shortly after the guild was organized in February, 1961.

Mrs. Nels Moeller, president of the guild, notes that this is the only guild in the state that operates a beauty bar.

Mrs. J. B. (Jerry) Fulwyler who is a licensed beautician, has served as beauty bar chairman since this project was started.

Jerry visits the hospital on Tuesday afternoon and does all haircuts and permanents that are needed.

Then on Wednesday morning, other members come in and the geriatrics patients, from 15 to 18 of them, have their hair set and combed and enjoy the association of these good Samaritans.

All of the supplies used are furnished by the guild: permanents, wave set, hair spray, rollers and pins.

Each incoming patient is given a kit containing a brush, comb and hairnet so that she has her own personal items to use for the weekly beauty bar visits.

The guild has equipped the beauty bar with five hair dryers as well as a shampoo bowl and chair. Members also did the shampooing for a while but because of a shortage of time and help, were unable to continue and it is now done by the hospital employees.

About six of the Pink Ladies are regular beauty bar workers and others help when they have free time. Mrs. Fulwyler noted that anyone interested in helping will be welcome.

Occasionally Mrs. Fulwyler also cuts the men's hair. One gentleman refuses to have his hair cut by anyone else.

The patients, who mostly admit to being past 39, plainly enjoy the weekly visit and receive a big boost in morale when they feel they are attractively and stylishly coiffured.

Mrs. Ray Burton reported that the guild has received letters from families of patients expressing appreciation for this service and telling how much it is enjoyed by the patients.

Those helping Mrs. Fulwyler with the beauty bar are Mrs. Terrence Gulley, Mrs. Paul Courtright, Mrs. Keith Ebersol, Mrs. Ann Weeks, Mrs. Gloria Temple, Mrs. Harry Workman, Mrs. Ron Hawkes, Mrs. Wilbert Moeller, Mrs. Dean Hodges and Mrs. Thor Lund.

The guild has a number of other outstanding projects.

"I FEEL BETTER already," seems to be the opinion of Mrs. Jellie Bouch as Mrs. Gloria Temple combs out a new hairdo. Mrs. Bouch is a patient in the geriatric ward of Minidoka Memorial Hospital. Mrs. Temple is a member of the Minidoka Memorial Hospital Guild which conducts a beauty bar weekly for geriatrics patients.

RELAXING WHILE MRS. Dean Hodges fixes her hair is Mrs. Sara Boden, who is among many patients at Minidoka Memorial Hospital who have weekly beauty treatments. The guild at the hospital recognized the need for this type of "uplift" and began a beauty bar shortly after the guild's organization in 1961.

Members Of Guild Set Up Beauty Bar

 The beauty bar which has been ordered but isn't here yet, is the redecoration of the hospital lobby and waiting room which has been under the guild's direction. Plans for separating the waiting room from the lobby were built by Badger Brothers and filled with plants by Mrs. Lynn Manning, flower chairman. The waiting room has also been redecorated.

Each year beautiful Christmas decorations are put up throughout the hospital. A huge red wreath hangs in the waiting room and a big tree is built outside on the entrance walkway. Every patient entering the hospital is given a floral arrangement to enjoy while there and to take home when leaving. The children are given "Pinky Puppets" which are made by Mrs. Melvin Pflughoefft, gift shop chairman, and the gift shop is open for Auxiliary members.

Mrs. Margot Jensen helps the patients in geriatrics with arts and crafts and many of the items they make are on display in the gift shop and can be purchased.

Hours for this year aren't yet complete but a total of 21,870 1/2 hours of service have been given by the Pink Ladies from 1941 through 1966. That's two and one-half years without time out for sleeping, or seven and one-half years of eight hour days.

Officers are Mrs. Nels Mooler, president; Mrs. Roy Honsinger, president-elect; Mrs. Jim Marklund, recording secretary; Mrs. Bill Miller, treasurer; Mrs. Ben Rogers, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ray Burton, historian; Mrs. Keith Eberol, membership chairman; and Mrs. Terrence Gulley, public relations chairman.

Appointed chairmen are Mrs. Melvin Pflughoefft, gift shop; Mrs. Herman Henschel, snack bar and cart; Mrs. J. B. Pflughoefft, beauty bar; and Mrs. Blaine Nielsen and Mrs. Roland Robert Balch and Mrs. Olga Jones, geriatrics.

Mrs. E. W. Cook, favors; Mrs. Lynn Manning, flowers; Mrs. Mrs. Robert Dalch and Mrs. Olga Lish, teas; Mrs. D. P. Slavin and Mrs. Emory Carson, fashion show; and Mrs. Glen McBride, orientation.

Girls in the first and second grades can join the Brownie group; third through sixth graders the junior group; seventh through ninth graders, the cadets, and high school girls, Senior Camp Fire Group. Membership is open in Troop 303 for all classifications.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: We are in a terrible mess. My 15-year-old daughter, Tessie, has been corresponding with an English pen pal, (a boy) for about a year and a half. He is 18. Tessie got his name from some "Hands Across The Sea" program at school.

Anyway, it seems that Tessie told him that we were very well to do. (We certainly are not!) She made life here sound so attractive that this boy is coming here! He is going to work his way over on a freighter and says he will stay with us until he gets "situated." This could be a matter of months, Abby.

We live in a three-bedroom house. My husband and I and the baby in one room, the four boys in another room and Tessie and her three sisters in the third room. And my mother sleeps on a cot in the living room.

Now can we head off this English boy? I am a nervous wreck and am about ready to slaughter Tessie.

DEAR WRECK: A four-word cable to England will be a cheap investment. "DELAY TRIP. LETTER. FOLLOWS." In your letter, explain that you are unable to put him up, no unless he can make other arrangements for housing "until he gets situated," he had better reconsider.

DEAR ABBY: My son (I'll call him James) is 17. A week ago he came down with a body rash so I sent him to a skin specialist. The doctor examined the boy, gave him a lamp treatment, and told him to come back on Monday for another treatment. James now says that he will not go back. My husband finally got the boy to tell him what it was.

Well, it seems that James had

Special Yule Meeting Held

WENDELL — Members of the United- Presbyterian Women's Association met at the church for their special Christmas meeting.

The worship service centered around the thought, "Gifts to Bring Our Lord."

The program opened with a poem given by Mrs. Doug Schrank. The meaningful story, "God Rest Ye," was given by Mrs. Jack Jennings, with Rev. Jack Jennings singing to highlight the message of the story. To close the program, Mrs. Jennings recited a Christmas poem. Each stanza was illustrated with a large sketch made by Mrs. Schrank.

Officers for 1968 were installed by Rev. Mr. Jennings, with continuing officers and all members present being included in the service.

Officers include Mrs. Harold Holsinger, president; Mrs. Roy Bishop, vice president; Mrs. Doug Schrank, fellowship; Mrs. Chester Rier, world service; Mrs. G. D. Pierce, interchurch; Mrs. Irene Miller, nominating committee; and Mrs. Oral Bradley, welfare committee.

The group voted to give a gift of money to the church for the building fund.

It was reported that a sizeable amount of "used clothing" was given to the clothing drive. Money for processing same was sent.

Hannah Circle members were hosts for the afternoon and served holiday cookies and coffee from a table centered with Christmas greens flanked by matching green candles. Mrs. Munro-Mink presided at the coffee service. The holiday atmosphere was enhanced by background music of Christmas songs, a decorated Christmas tree and Madonna centerpiece on the piano.

My husband and I are a red with James, and says that I should phone the doctor, explain the situation and ask him to give the boy the treatment himself. I say the doctor will think that I am crazy. After all, he hired that girl to perform such services and he will certainly understand there for 15 minutes himself.

We are still not in agreement over this. Would you be kind enough to give us your opinion?

JAMES' MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Call the doctor and tell him how your son feels. It's a perfectly normal reaction and a valid complaint.

DEAR ABBY: I am a freshman at college and have a serious question to ask you. When a boy tries to get you to go all the way by saying, "You wouldn't buy a pair of shoes without trying them on, would you?" What is a girl supposed to say?

DEAR STUPID: I'd rather buy a pair of shoes without trying them on, than get stuck with a pair that's been worn by everybody in town.

CONFIDENTIAL TO JERRY: Just read your 34-page letter and then read you a personal note.

Magic Valley Favorites

Week's Recipe Winner
 MRS. JESSE L. HAWKINS
 Route 1, Tucuman, Ala.

Skillful Cookies

1/2 cup sugar
 1 stick butter
 1 package dates (cut)
 1 egg (beaten)
 3 cups Rice Krispies
 1 can pecans
 1 teaspoon vanilla
 Coconut,
 Melt butter slowly over low heat. Remove from heat and add sugar and dates. Cool slightly. Roll into small balls, roll in coconut. Cover with cellophane wrap. Will keep several days in refrigerator. Makes about 75 cookies.

Sciently to add the beaten egg. Fold in egg. Put mixture back on stove over low heat and cook until dates melt, (about five minutes) stirring constantly. Dates will not completely dissolve.

Remove from stove and add vanilla, Rice-Krispies and pecans. Roll into small balls, roll in coconut. Cover with cellophane wrap. Will keep several days in refrigerator. Makes about 75 cookies.

District Legion Dinner Served At Glenris Ferry

GLENNS FERRY—Mrs. Anna Messery, president of the A.O.U.W. Post here, has announced Mrs. Worth Montgomery as hospital chairwoman for the Fourth District social dinner planned at the Memorial Hall at 2 p.m., Jan. 12.

Dinner co-chairmen are Mrs. Gladys Vignola and Mrs. Harold Bybee. Ham and turkey will be furnished, with the remainder of the dishes not.

Literary Guild Sets Meeting

Literary-Art-Guild members will meet Jan. 29 at the home of Mrs. Melvin Anderson according to an announcement made at the December meeting.

Guild members entertained their husbands at the December meeting at the home of Mrs. Martie Crandall. Mrs. LeRoy Perrmann gave a review of "Merry Christmas Mr. Baxter" by Edward Streeter.

Brenda Perrmann played a piano solo and Mrs. Gladys Vignola, president, gave a "Christmas Thought."

Mrs. Gordon Crockett, Mrs. George Ilaney and Mrs. Larry Christiansen were hostesses.

Program Given On Sacred Hymns

WALTER—Rev. Ralph Cairns presented a program on sacred Christmas hymns for members of the Woman's Society of Christian Service in the Methodist Church, Mrs. E. A. Steen was accompanist for the music.

Ruth McDonough presided at the business meeting. Mrs. Lela Barron, Mrs. Will Grive and Mrs. F. C. Albin were in charge of the luncheon which preceded the meeting. The tables were decorated in a holiday motif.

SHOPPING IN ST. THOMAS, U.S. Virgin Islands, are Mrs. Don Samuelson and son, Steve. The members of Idaho's first family are looking at a crystal in one of the shops on the islands. Mrs. Samuelson and Steve accompanied the governor on a recent National Governors' Conference in the Caribbean Islands.

Governor's Lady Faces Shopping Problems, Too

ST. THOMAS, U.S. VIRGIN ISLANDS—When it comes to gift buying, the First Lady of Idaho faces the same problems as Jane Doe—she's compelled to do it herself, she experiences the eye same movements of frustration and, of course, there's always those aching arches!

Shopping headaches are minimal in the Virgin Islands, however, as Mrs. Don Samuelson learned when she attended the National Governors' Conference in these Caribbean Islands.

In fact, so fascinated was the Governor's wife by the stores in St. Thomas she commented:

Theresa Harms, Stroberg Wed In-Buhl Rites

WENDELL—Theresa M. Harms, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Harms, Wendell, became the bride of Michael Stroberg, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Stroberg, Buhl, in rites at the First Christian Church, Buhl.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mrs. William Weinstein was organist and Judy Ewert was soloist. The ceremony was decorated with bouquets of pink gladiol and chrysanthemum.

Gary Stroberg, brother of the bridegroom, and Michael Andres, nephew of the bride, were the candlelighters.

The bride's gown was a floor-length gown of peach de sole, fashioned with a fitted bodice of lace over satin with lace fly point sleeves. The train was matching peach de sole trimmed with lace. Her veil was elbow-length and held in place by a pearl and crystal tiara.

Her bouquet was pink rosebuds and white carnations on a white engraved Bible enhanced with pink streamers.

The bride designed and made her gown. She also made her attendant's gown and assisted with her mother's gown.

Judy Ewert, Wendell, was the maid of honor and Dina Bennett, Twin Falls, and Nada Oelbergh, Murtaugh, were her attendants.

Timothy Harms, nephew of the bride, carried the rings on a pink- and white-satin pillow. Lauren Langdon, Buhl, was best man and Boyd Harms, brother-of-the-bride, was the usher.

A reception was held after the wedding. Mrs. Marcela Stroberg registered the guests. Gifts were arranged by Mrs. Judy and Loretta Lehman, cousins of the bride.

The bride's table was covered with white lace over pink taffeta with flanking curtains. The three-tiered wedding cake was topped with wedding bells. It was baked and decorated by Mrs. Leonard Walcott, Buhl.

It was cut and served by Mrs. Charles Lunt, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Brenda Koeler and Diana Bowman poured the coffee and punch. Other assistants were Mrs. Bernice McNut, Mrs. Charlie Doty and the women of the First Christian Church of Buhl.

The rehearsal dinner was served at the R and R Cafe.

Mrs. Miller Is Bride Of Bybee In Home Rites
GLENN'S FERRY—Mrs. Pamela Miller, Woodbridge, Calif., was married to Harold Bybee in a candlelight ceremony Dec. 23 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Bybee.

Bouquets of Christmas flowers flanked the altar before which Rev. Larry Maxwell of the Glenns Ferry Baptist Church heard the couple's vows.

Attendees were the bridegroom's brother and sister-in-law, and Mrs. Bob Bybee, Twin Falls. A family reception was held after the rites.

Mr. and Mrs. Bybee visited in Idaho City during their stay in Idaho, accompanied by Mrs. Lee Bybee.

The newlyweds left Dec. 31 for California where the bridegroom resumes his studies attending the defense language institute at the Presidio of Monterey. He is serving in the Navy.

PRIZES WON
RIGHTS—Mrs. Ralph Riley Jr. was hostess to members of the Merlettes Bridge Club recently with prizes won by Mrs. Charles Maaxata, Mrs. C. F. Chatfield, Mrs. Manuel Kling, Mrs. Lyle Piper and Mrs. S. J. Piper. Mrs. Harold Priddy was an out-of-club guest.

MANY KITCHENS have small eating areas; for these the podiatrist table is ideal because it takes the least amount of space. Wrought iron, with its open-work design, visually expands the space available. This Chantilly Rose grouping by Leo L. Woodard Sons, Inc., is an example. The 48-inch diameter top, available in walnut or Parkwood laminate, expands to become a 52- or 60-inch oval to seat extra guests. Chairs have foam-upholstered seats and backs for comfort.

Rimrock Lodge To Install At Tuesday Meet

GLENN'S FERRY—Rimrock Lodge No. 313, Lady Gironam, will install officers at the Tuesday evening meeting at 8 p.m. in the Glenns Ferry City Hall.

Mrs. Lee Bybee was re-elected president. Other officers include Mrs. Joe Arnold, vice president; Mrs. C. W. Pierson, past president; Mrs. Clyde Parks, secretary; Mrs. Elsie Burris, treasurer; Mrs. Alvin Johnson, collector; and Mrs. Zoe Hull, warden.

Mrs. James Robertson is conductor; Mrs. Lloyd Burgess, inner guard; Mrs. Margaret Sims, outer guard; Mrs. Earl L. Hanger, inner guard; and Mrs. Forrest Jones, inner guard.

Trustees are Mrs. James Robertson, Mrs. Wendell Allison, and Mrs. G. E. McChes. Mrs. Jones is delegate and Mrs. Roy Johnson, musician. Mrs. Pierson will be installing officer, and Mrs. Jones is hostess of the hostess committee.

Cost Of Apparel For Women Up 20 Per Cent

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON, AP Fashion Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — If skirts go down, prices will go up, and if waistlines go in, then hips may spread out.
That is the way things looked Thursday at the spring style previews for the fashion press conducted by the New York Couture Group.
As a model in a $325 cotton coat and dress strode the runway, manufacturer Vincent Monte-Sano said that new union contracts and higher fabric costs had already driven the cost of women's apparel up by 20 per cent.
By spring, he said, the high cost of being chic may soar to nearly a third more in the next year. And that is in the age of the mink skirt, which does not take much footage to cover the requirements.
"God help us if hemlines go down," Monte-Sano said, speaking only from the point of view of prices. "Adding a half yard of a yard to those bulky mink skirts will really add to their cost."
To men who pay the clothing bills at any rate, that seemed to be a practical reason for keeping the watching-name-point skirts.
If women's waistlines grew on the average by two inches without the constriction of belts, as it was reported Wednesday that they had, then the sewing equipment seemed due for expansion.

Queen Crowned By Buhl Bethel

Betty Canary's Wonderful World

I was reading "Mrs. Wiggs' adores 'Little Women' or 'The Five Little Peppers'?" Well, maybe these kids don't get the message as we did. Most of the so-called classics had a message, I think. And more often than not what they kept saying to us was, "Being poor is FUN!" Other recurrent messages were: "Ridley roared when father comes home with a terminal illness," and "Good boys find loose coal around the railroad tracks and bring it home to mother."
The more I think about it, perhaps the reason these kids don't enjoy the classics is because their stomachs just are not as strong as ours were.
Apparently, kids still like "Kidnapped" when they can be coerced into reading it (usually because it's assigned in school and not because father asks, hopefully, "Say, did you ever read 'Kidnapped'?" And they still go for "The Swiss Family Robinson," although they tend to think that family rather tucked out, washing up on an island with so many raw materials.
"Snow White" and "Cinderella" are still best sellers, too. I understand. Which bears out a theory one librarian has. She told me one theme always popular with children in the "old days" as well as now—is where at least one parent is gone, or preferably, where the main character is an orphan. Rather makes one pause and think, doesn't it?
Officers served homemade candy at the close of the meeting.

Richfield Pair Is Honored On Anniversary

RICHFIELD — Mr. and Mrs. L. T. (Tim) Sanders were honored at an open house recently celebrating their 25th Wedding Anniversary.
Mrs. Sanders greeted guests in a knit suit of deep pink. Her corsage of white carnations was enhanced with pink ribbon and silver lace.
Dale Sanders served as usher for his parents' celebration. Curtis Porke, Carey, served the anniversary cake, with Linda Sanders and Carol Lyn Sanders as serving girls.
The tiered white cake was decorated by oleanades and plastic bells. Pink roses were decorations and a thin silver emblem topped the cake made by Mrs. Lester Johansen.
Relatives and friends attended from Fairfield, Carey, Richfield and Utah.

Miss Golcocheg Is Bride Of C. E. Buttane

RICHFIELD — The wedding of Carmo Marie Golcocheg and Charles E. Buttane was solemnized Dec. 28 at St. Peter's Catholic Church, Shoshone.

MR. AND MRS. CHARLES E. BUTTANE (Davis photo)

The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Golcocheg, Richfield, and the bridegroom is a son of Mrs. Clara Buttane, Rupert.

Rev. William McQuade performed the double ring ceremony, with Rupert Golcocheg and Robert Haddock, Shoshone, brothers of the bride, serving as altar boys. Floor baskets of white chrysanthemums decorated the altar.

The bride, escorted by her father, wore a gown of imported lace on her bodice. Long layers of lace formed the floor-length skirt, which fell into a full train. The sleeveless fitted bodice featured a sweetheart neckline. Long fitted mitts complemented the gown.

Her veil of illusion was headed with lace and held by a rhinestone tiara. Mrs. G. H. Baugh, Shoshone, made the wedding gown, and Mrs. Sidney Edwards, Richfield, the veil.

The bride carried a cascade bouquet of white poinsettias, carnations and ranunculus with a single lavender orchid.

She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Ray Hubsmith, matron of honor, and Janet Turner and Janet Garner, both Richfield, bridesmaids. Merche Pender and Robert Haddock, Shoshone, ring-bearers.

Dennis Burk, Rupert, served as best man. Ushers were Richard Golcocheg, brother of the bride, and Wendell Dean, Meridian. Communion was administered with music by the Catholic choir.

A reception at the American Legion Hall was held after the ceremony. Mrs. Delmer Hardy attended the guest book.

The four of the wedding cake ornamented the bride's color theme of white and deep purple. Three heart-shaped cakes formed the bottom tier of the cake which was decorated with white roses tinged with lavender and displayed on a large miniature bride and groom under a bridal arch topped the cake. The cake was made by Mrs. Ella Robinson, Jerome.

Tall white tapers in silver candelabra were table appointments. Mrs. Philip Golcocheg, aunt of the bride, Gooding, served the wedding cake; Elsie Richert, aunt of the bridegroom, Spokane, served punch, and Mrs. James Hoyle, Meridian, and the bride, poured at the silver coffee service.

The gift tables were attended by Mrs. Mary Baker, Twin Falls, Sally Patterson, Dorothy Atkins and Linda Atkins. Guests attended from Washington, Idaho, Nevada, Meridian, Twin Falls, Boise, Gooding, Buhl, Rupert, Burley, Carey, Dietrich, Richfield and Shoshone.

The couple took a wedding trip to Boise. They reside in Richfield, where the bridegroom is a member of the Richfield High School faculty.

FAMILY REUNION HELD — Mrs. Glenns Ferry — Mr. and Mrs. Ray Whit attended a family reunion of the Rulon Johnson family, former Glenns Ferry residents, at the Chuck-Wagon Cafe in Boise honoring two grandsons of the Johnsons, Dennis Golden and Mike Golden, sons of the Mervyn Golden, Meridian. The men return to Vietnam service Jan. 15. Mrs. Whit is their aunt.

Husbands Feted

SHOSHONE — A Christmas party was held by the LDS Primary officers and teachers, with husbands as guests.

The church hall was decorated in a Christmas motif. N. Stowell was master of ceremonies—Ronald Jenkins, accompanied by Mrs. Jenkins sang; Mrs. James Beck gave a reading, and Mrs. Ferrell Clark gave a Christmas story.

Mrs. Elwin Webb led Christmas songs and Mrs. M. J. Dille was accompanist.

In charge of food were Mrs. Elwin Webb, Mrs. Sherman Sorenson and Mrs. LeVain Larson. Mrs. Dille, Mrs. Garrett and Mrs. Clark were in charge of decorations, and Mrs. Beck and Mrs. Clark, the program.

Dabbie Palmer, Brenda Scott, Debbie Scott and Jan Bateman served.

January White Sales Can Cause Headache For Buyer

SHOSHONE — Buying sheets at a January white sale can be a headache if you aren't sure of what you want, according to Mary Lou Ruby, county home economics agent. Several things affect the quality of a cotton sheet.

They include fiber used, type of yarn, thread-count, finishing and workmanship. Do sure to examine what you buy. A good sheet has close, firm weave, strong selvages with no loose ends and hems that are straight and sewn with small, even stitches.

Choosing the correct size is important. The thickness of the mattress as well as the length and width of the bed determines which size are best to buy. Sheets that are too small won't stay tucked in and those that are too long will wear from the friction under the mattress.

Single or twin beds are 67-72 inches wide; three-quarter beds, 72, and double beds 81-90 inches wide. The length needed for a standard length bed is 108 inches. This allows for shrinkage and tucking in around the bed to give the best fit.

Threads per square inch. Breaking strength: the amount of strength required to tear a square inch of sheeting. Weight: The affects wear, comfort, and ease and cost of the laundering.

Sheets now come in many colors, besides white, so you have a wide choice.

WEST PLAYED CORRECT CARD

Three no-trump is a better contract than four spades for today's hand. Nothing can stop North and South from making nine tricks at no-trump, while correct defense will keep them from making four spades. If your club suit carries in the best contract, something or other most any pair would land

At the interior spade game, no matter how well your bid, you can't actually be looking at your partner's cards. Of course, four spades would make most of the time. It doesn't require any great skill on the part of the declarer. He makes it unless West leads the correct card at trick two.

Unfortunately for North and South, old time expert Sam Fry held the West cards at New York's Regency Whist Club and Sam found that right card. He opened the king of clubs as anyone would—and received the discouraging device from his partner. In his youth Sam was known as a slow player. He has speeded up a lot, but this play did require some thought. Eventually he concluded that his only chance to beat the declarer was to play the queen of hearts. After that the rest was easy for Sam. He led the ten of hearts!

The standard play from a long suit is low, so why did Sam make this lead? The answer is that there are certain combinations that call for an unusual lead and this was one of them. When Sam led the ten, declarer was stone cold dead. South could rise with dummy's ace, cover with the jack or duck, and be going to lose two heart tricks come what might. Had Sam played the four of hearts, South could have played dummy's deuce and East would have been forced to play his queen.

of course!!

A shmoo can multiply faster than people—all by himself!!

—a shmoo loves both milk and eggs—all neatly packaged and labeled on a label. Broiled, a shmoo tastes like steak. Fried, it comes out chicken—and all white meat!! There's no waste. Shmoo whisks make sturdy tool tips, and its toe balls make splendid suspender buttons. It is not cruel to eat a shmoo. Shmoos love to be eaten. At the slightest sign of interest a shmoo will fling itself into the nearest skillet and broil itself to a turn!!

If He Won't Wash Then Scrub Him!

Dear Ele and about soap. Suddenly, well, within the last three months, my steady boyfriend is against it. I guess he's going through some sort of identity crisis or something, but since he's got a hair conditioner, I don't wash his hair, change his clothes or shave, I've talked about this until I'm blue in the face. But he just says that if my love for him depends on razor blades, deodorant and soap, I don't really care about the true him. He just covered me with excuses. Maybe I am a superficial person, but he just turns me off when he's like this. I love him, but I don't want him to even touch me. Can you tell me how to explain this to him so it doesn't sound like an ultimatum? — Ruth

Dear Ruth: You might say, "But, I think you're a wonderful person, but it's grooved in my brain that a guy brushes, bathes and shaves to show his consideration for the woman in his life. I enjoy your company as much as ever, but I just don't crave to be checked-out with you now. You have to be true to your feelings, but so do I. And my turn-on just naturally turns off when you don't bathe or shave. Since our principles split, should we go our separate ways, or I have some compromise possible?" Then let him do the talking. His answer should be worth hearing. — Ele and Walt

BABY BROTHER TROUBLE
Dear Walt: I'm 18 and have a small brother, 6 years old. This brat is always taking my books and scribbling in them. When I protest to my dad, he says: "They're only pocket books, and besides you've already read them." This isn't the point. First, I save the books because they mean something to me, and I might want to read them again later on or maybe share them with a friend. But, a whether I do or not, the main thing is that they're mine and are should be left untouched except by me. Am I right? And if so, how do I convince my father he's wrong? —Book-Lover

Dear Book-Lover: If dad won't teach small brother to respect the possessions of others, you'll have to store your personal things out of reach of the "great scribbler." Or maybe — just about — you'll try to give small brother a helping hand by supplying him with shelf paper for his crayons. Coupled with a gentle discussion ("These are my personal things, and I expect you to treat them just as good as I'm going to treat your toys"), you might help him grow into a more acceptable human being. —Walt

WORRIED
Dear Ele: I'm 15 and don't want this girl out, but I don't want my parents to drive us for good reasons. Do you think my date would be offended if I took her on the bus? I don't want to make a bad impression on her or on her parents. —Burr

Dear Burr: Today's generalization is unconcerned with status. It's a company's right, a girl is happy to be with a guy, but before you ask her out, you've got to consider all possible complications. Specifically, what's the curfew law and safety scene in your town? Is your date able to take a police pickup if you him do the talking. His answer should be worth hearing. —Ele and Walt

Americans Dig Into Funds To Finance Funerals For Relatives Killed In War

WASHINGTON (AP)—Many American families have been forced to dig into their own savings to pay for burying sons and husbands killed in Vietnam because government funeral allowances fall short of covering costs, a survey shows.

Families interviewed by the Associated Press reported the funerals cost them from $300 to $700 more than the government provided.

Lance Cpl. Robert M. Carozzi of Wheaton, Md., died in Vietnam in November. He was buried the same month at Arlington National Cemetery.

"It was I paid out three times what I got from the government," said Carozzi's father, Salvatore. "And I don't think I did anything special or expensive for my boy."

A Virginia woman who asked not to be identified said she had taken $650 "from our daughter's college fund to pay for my husband's funeral. It cost us almost $1,000 but all the government was willing to pay for—his casket, his coffin, his burial in the country was $300."

Some funeral home officials said in a cost sampling taken in more than a dozen areas across the nation that they normally charge for services for the Vietnam dead to keep the cost to the soldiers' families within the government allowance limits.

When a serviceman dies in Vietnam, his body is embalmed, placed in a flag-draped aluminum coffin and flown to his home town at government expense. The family is given an allowance for his burial.

"The amount of the allowance is prescribed by military regulation based on surveys of average prices for 'essential' funeral and burial services throughout the country," government sources said.

A family gets $175 if it agrees to have the military transport the body in its military coffin to a military post or national cemetery for military services and a military burial. In such a ceremony, the family must pay only for its own transportation to and from the cemetery.

The allowance is $150 if the body is transported to a civilian funeral home or church with a military burial later and $300 if both funeral and burial are to be civilian.

Officials at several military posts and national cemeteries, including Arlington National Cemetery, the national cemetery at Marietta, Ga., West Point and Ft. Riley, Kan., said $75 is sufficient to cover costs as long as burial is in the military casket in a plain grave with a cemetery-supplied marker.

Burial in a new coffin, erection of a monument or burial in a vault all would run considerably over the allowance.

Funeral home officials say things get much more expensive when any part of the ceremony involves them.

"It's just not possible to stay within the allowances," said

James Eaton of the Joseph Gawler Sons funeral home in Washington, "If we had to bury a boy for $300 we'd have to give him a pauper's funeral."

Several Los Angeles area funeral directors said they found the $300 allowance adequate for the funeral services but not adequate to buy a grave site. In civilian cemeteries "acceptable" graves cost from $100 to $500, they estimated.

Newcomer's, one of Kansas City's largest funeral homes, charges a standard $250 for service—and averages a $175 loss on each such funeral performed, it says.

In New York City, a funeral home official said, "It's costing the family something, but at a time like this, nothing's ever completely right anyway."

PLEIKU, VIET NAM

Dear Advertiser:

The constant pounding of artillery and mortars being fired here has brought me to the conclusion that I cannot listen to good music.

The lack of spare time sees to it that I see no good movies.

The lack of good books has brought me around to reading the hometown want ads where I saw your advertisement.

Having just finished a tour in Korea before volunteering for Viet Nam, I know well the values of a Zitzenclopper. In Korea we had one Zitzenclopper platoon. I feel that if we each had a Zitzenclopper here we would all be better equipped and soldiering would be a lot more fun. The mountains here in the highlands are about the same as Korea, but as I'm sure you know, Korea is barren and Viet Nam is jungle. I know you now see that it makes a difference as to whether the power faucet is run by water power, gas power or all the man power we can assemble. Another important factor is the flagpole. In which direction does it revolve? What color is the hof and do you have a large supply of extra parts for it? This is a definite necessity in this weather. The fax would be nice to have but it is not that important. Please send price list and cost of shipping one hundred.

Thank you

New Potato Growers Plan Is Explained

HAZELTON — Vernon Miller, Edson, explained the new potato growers' bargaining agreement to members of the First Synagogue here last night when they met at the Frontier Grange.

There will be a meeting at the Hazelton Presbyterian Church at 2 p.m. Wednesday for any potato grower who would like to learn more about the program. It was decided that these men should visit with potato growers in order to get the program started.

Following a short business meeting with Claude Bernard, president, cards and doughnuts were enjoyed by the group. Prizes were won by Bill Koitz and Mrs. Ed Brunst; also Walter Shouse and Mrs. Ray Assendrup. Mr. and Mrs. Assendrup, Jerome, were special guests.

Helen Shouse won the traveling prize and Mrs. Bill Koitz took the special prize. The next meeting will be held Feb. 6.

Dr. Thompson Installed As Buhl Mayor

Buhl — Dr. Myron Thompson was sworn in as the mayor of Buhl when the city council met for its first 1968 meeting Tuesday in the council chambers.

Other newly elected councilmen sworn in were David Munroe and Don Fehrenbacher, both for four-year terms, and Dale Christensen elected to two-year term to fill the unexpired term of Dr. Thompson. William Nungesser, city attorney, swore in the new city officers.

Retiring mayor, Reed R. Mungellan, conducted the unfinished business and heard the regular reports.

The council passed two ordinances during the meeting. The first was an ordinance appropriating money deemed necessary for expenses and liabilities for the city during a three-month period beginning Jan. 1, 1968, and ending March 31.

The second ordinance authorized city police department to remove and impound vehicles parked in violation of any ordinance of Buhl. Owners may recover the vehicle by paying the cost of removal and impoundment, in addition to a sum due by reason of violation.

Dale Christensen was elected by the council to serve as council president for the next two years.

The council also approved the appointments made by Mayor Thompson which are as follows: Bernard Starr, city clerk; Vera Day, treasurer; Karl Lewis, police judge; Aubrey L. Monroe, fire chief; Richard A. Frazier, police chief; Eugene O. Helgeson, street and water superintendent; Clyde R. Mills, cemetery sexton; Evelyn B. Karaloff, librarian; Lawrence A. Fawcett, dog catcher, and the firm of Hepworth, Nungesser and Felton, city attorney.

Council appointments for council members include George Harvey, parks and cemetery and streets, sanitation and parking; Lee Monroe, building inspection and codes; Dave Munroe and Dale Christensen, fire department; Dale Christensen and Joe Fehrenbacher, police department; Monroe and Fehrenbacher, recreation and sewer; Munroe, airport; Fehrenbacher, water and library; and Munroe and Fehrenbacher, zoning commission and county planning and zoning.

A 1968 liquor by the drink license was issued to Laurella McCandless doing business as the Alibi.

Major plumbing licenses were issued to Frank Todd and Richard Robinson. A journeyman plumber license was issued to Jack F. Peterson and a journeyman gasfitter license was issued to Frank Todd.

A trailer court license was issued for four spaces.

The city purchased $12,000 in United States treasury bills for the period of one year at 5 1/2 percent interest.

$11,500 in investment of the municipal coupon sewer sinking fund. Some $3,000 of treasury bills were purchased for $2,816 at the same amount of interest as investment in the sewer lagoon bond sinking fund.

Vehicles Collide On Icy Street

BELLEVUE — No injuries were reported Wednesday when two vehicles collided on an icy Bellevue street, according to Idaho State Police.

Officers reported that a northbound vehicle driven by Beth Beard, 42, Bellevue, and a westbound pickup truck driven by Ted C. Divine, 58, were involved in the collision.

Passenger in the Beard vehicle was Richard Beard, 12, also Bellevue. Both vehicles approached an intersection at the same time and were unable to stop because of slippery roads, officers said.

Policemen Wounded

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Two Israeli border policemen were wounded Thursday night when their jeep was shot at from close range on the Judean highway, 2 1/2 miles north of Hebron, a military spokesman said.

Spain's 18 Million Tourists Help Change Sleepy Country

MADRID (AP) — There was a change in this ancient capital when traffic cops yawned while they waited for the next automobile to pass.

Three years ago when Spanish youth didn't leave the house without parental approval or parental dress inspection.

These times are no more. Now 18 million tourists invade Spain each year, bringing more than dollars and pounds and francs and kroner. They bring the outside world and help in Spain's burgeoning prosperity.

They are helping to change the things they came to see and experience.

Most spectacular has been the physical change: the serried rows of tall, modern apartment houses banked around Madrid, the luxury hotels and apartments stretching along Spain's southern coast, the modern high-rises.

In Madrid, 600,000 automobiles try to fit into streets little wider when the United States was young.

The cars are defeating a custom of centuries in Spain, the midday siesta, the relaxing nap and leisurely lunch at home.

Now it takes longer to get home and back than it takes to fly to London.

The new custom is a couple of "chatos" of wine at a coffee house, some arm-waving discussions of politics, economic uncertainty, fighting bulls and football, and a lunch at a downtown restaurant.

Automobile demand downtown parking places, too, and the government is trying to provide underground garages.

The traffic cops whistle and wave the cars by the hour with never a second for a yawn.

Also gone is that pure and lambent Spanish air over Madrid, a smog settles often over Madrid, blotting the sun that artists over the centuries found so difficult to reproduce.

Vanished, too, are the duennas and the iron grillwork over windows that left the townlora no recourse except marriage or a guitar. Now youth decides for itself, no longer having to come home for the night at 8 p.m.

Girls go to factories and offices in miniskirts, perhaps not so extreme as in England or Sweden, but still far more daring than the accustomed sober costume of a notably religious nation. Layers kiss in public.

If you didn't have bullfighting, flamenco dancing, beautiful women, castles, El Greco, Goya, Velazquez and the Spanish language you would hardly know it was Spain.

RODNEY RUGGLES! I THINK YOU DELIBERATELY "FORGOT" TO GET TICKETS SO YOU WOULDN'T NEED TO TAKE ME TO THE CONCERT!

I'M SORRY, BOOBS! PLEASE...

HA! YOU'RE ALWAYS SORRY!

IF YOU SPENT HALF AS MUCH TIME DEVELOPING YOUR "REMEMBER" AS YOU DO YOUR "FORGETTER..."

YOU'RE RIGHT! FROM NOW ON I'M GOING TO WORK AT REMEMBERING!

I REMEMBER LAST WEEK I ASKED YOU TO SEW THIS LOOSE BUTTON ON MY COAT—AND TO MEND THE LINING IN MY JACKET! BUT I CAN'T REMEMBER EATING THE RAISIN PIE YOU PROMISED TO BAKE!...

AND A MONTH AGO I ASKED YOU TO...

UH, DEAR, I'M AFRAID I WAS A BIT HASTY!

LET'S JUST FORGIVE AND FORGET!

SURE, HON—ONLY I CAN'T REMEMBER WHAT IT IS I'M SUPPOSED TO FORGET!

DOGS ARE INTELLIGENT ANIMALS, AND THEY LEARN QUICKLY.

THEY ARE EASY TO TEACH—ALL IT TAKES IS A LITTLE KINDNESS.

... AND A LITTLE PATIENCE... MUSH!

... AND A LITTLE PERSISTENCE MUSH!

... AND FIRMNESS... MUSH!

THE TROUBLE WITH DOGS IS, THEY ARE VERY INTELLIGENT ANIMALS AND THEY LEARN QUICKLY!

JEEZ, MY LUCK! I'M ONLY IN TOWN FOR A COUPLE O' HOURS AN' THEY AIN'T NO ONE HOME! I WAS HOPIN' TO SCRATCH AMOS FOR A FEW BUCKS!

ACCORDING TO THIS LIST OF PIGEONS, THE FAT GUY HERE IS THE PRIZE CHUMP! HE'S SUPPOSED TO FALL FOR ANYTHING IF YOU HUMOR HIM A LITTLE!

GOOD AFTERNOON, SIR! I'M MAKING A SURVEY OF THE READING HABITS OF COMMUNITY LEADERS!

THE NERVE OF THIS CREEP—THINKIN' HE CAN WORK THE FAKE MAGAZINE RACKET ON JAKE HOOPER, I'LL FIX HIM!

US COMMUNITY WHEELS AIN'T GOT ALL DAY, COUSIN! I'LL GIVE YOU JES THREE MINUTES!

WE'LL GIVE YOU SEVEN MAGAZINES FREE! YOU SIMPLY TELL YOUR FRRIENDS ABOUT THEM AND PAY THE TOKEN MAILING FEE OF $6.75!

WHAT A SWINDLE! HERE'S WHERE I TEACH THE RUBE A LESSON!

SOUNDS GREAT, BUT ALLS I GOT IS A TEN SPOT!

NO PROBLEM, SIR—I HAVE CHANGE!

YUP, IT'S ALL HERE! AN' THAT WAS $6.75 FOR THE MAGAZINES, $8, $9 AND $10! YOU CAN KEEP THE TWO-BITS FOR A TIP!

WATCH THAT CARNIVAL COUNT, BUSTER! YOU NEVER HANDED OVER THE TENNER!

LAST TIME I'LL USE THAT LIST O' GULLS! THAT BIRD WAS A MAN-EATIN' SHARK!

I'M GLAD I'M LEAVIN' THIS CRUMMY CITY! TRY TO HAVE A LITTLE FUN WITH A GUY AN' HE TRIES TO SNEAK YOUR WATCH!

I LEAVE HIM FOR A FEW MINUTES AND AMOS WRECKS THE HOUSE, THEN SKIPS OUT! WELL, I'LL JUST WAIT FOR HIM AT THE DOOR—HE'LL HAVE TO COME HOME SOMETIME!

I'M SO GLAD WE DIDN'T PLAN ANYTHING THIS WEEKEND - IT'S NICE AND RELAXING JUST NOT HAVING TO DO ANYTHING!

YES! WHEN YOU THINK OF IT IT'S REALLY BEEN A HECTIC PAGE.

FOR THE PAST MONTH, OR SO, WE'VE DONE NOTHING BUT GO FROM BRUNCH TO BRUNCH; FROM OPEN-HOUSE TO OPEN-HOUSE; FROM SWINGIN' PARTY TO SWINGIN' PARTY - ALL DAY LONG, EVERY SATURDAY AND SUNDAY WE'VE SEEN ONE BOWL GAME AFTER ANOTHER... WHEN I THINK OF THE EATING (CANAPES, CANAPES AND MORE CANAPES) THE DRINKING - THE JOXES - THE LAUGHING...

EH... WHAT'S THE MATTER?

I'M LONGSOME! LET'S INVITE SOME FRIENDS OVER FOR A RELAXING PARTY - WE'VE GOT SOME CANAPES AND MAYBE WE COULD FIND A FOOTBALL GAME ON TV...

Y'KNOW WHAT I LIKE MOST ABOUT SNOW, LUVABLE?

I LIKE THE WAY IT OUTLINES ALL THE OBJECTS IT COVERS... LIKE THAT TRASH CAN OVER THERE!

HEY MEK, HERE'S A FUNNY SHAPE! WHAT DO YOU SUPPOSE IT IS?

I DON'T KNOW BUT IT LOOKS STRANGELY FAMILIAR! IT'S A LITTLE HARD TO BELIEVE BUT I'VE GOT A HUNCH.

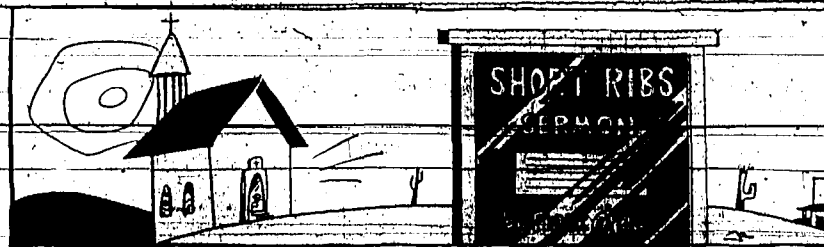

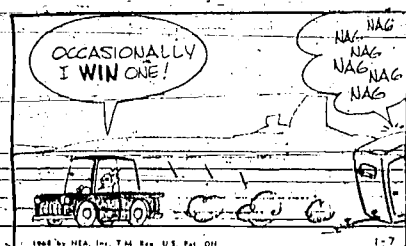

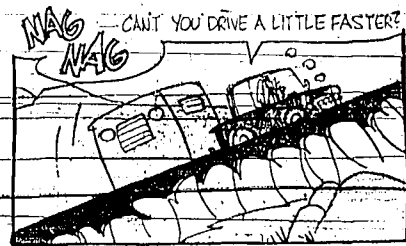

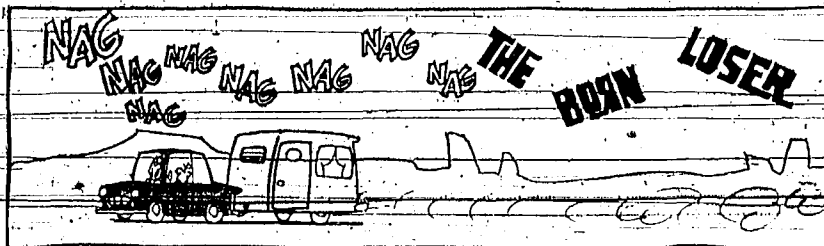

DOWN WITH UNEMPLOYMENT!

WHO SAID THAT?

WHAT ARE YOU, A WISE GUY OR SOMETHING?

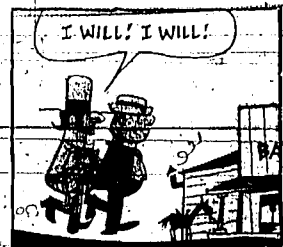

I STILL DON'T BELIEVE IT!

THAT WAS QUITE A SERMON, PARSON.

GLAD YOU LIKED IT. TRY TO COME MORE OFTEN.

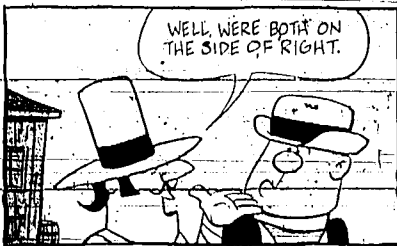

I WILL! I WILL!

Y'KNOW, WE HAVE A LOT IN COMMON.

SUCH AS?

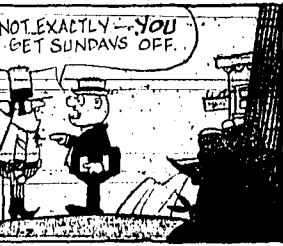

WELL, WE'RE BOTH ON THE SIDE OF RIGHT.

AND WE BOTH CONSTANTLY FIGHT THE FORCES OF EVIL.

RIGHT?

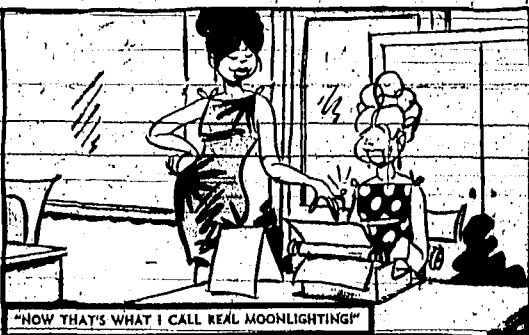

NOT EXACTLY - YOU GET SUNDAYS OFF.

I RECALLED THAT THE CHEROKEE ROSE IS GEORGIA'S STATE FLOWER! 'KINGMAN TWO' COULD ONLY MEAN THAT THE STATE WAS NAMED AFTER KING GEORGE II!

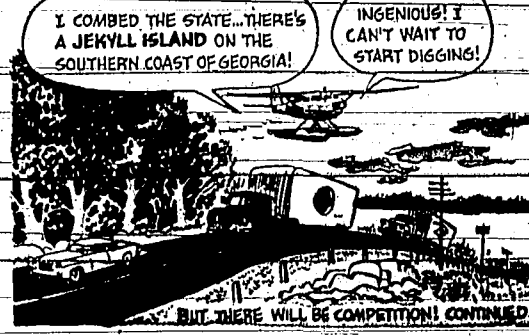

AND THE LINE 'ONE OF ONE AND THREE'...
SIMPLE! GEORGIA WAS ONE OF THE 13 ORIGINAL COLONIES!

THAT IDENTIFIES THE STATE! NOW, THE LINE 'HYDE IS NOT THE PLACE TO LOOK, OUT WHERE THE WIND IS FREE.'...
THAT BUGGED ME FOR AWHILE, SUH!

SINCE 'HYDE' WAS NOT THE PLACE TO LOOK, I THOUGHT OF JEKYLL!
OF COURSE... 'DR. JEKYLL AND MR. HYDE', FROM STEVENSON'S FAMOUS NOVEL!

I COMBED THE STATE... THERE'S A JEKYLL ISLAND ON THE SOUTHERN COAST OF GEORGIA!

Ask Them Yourself

FOR SEN. MARK HATFIELD

Should our space program be curtailed until the war in Vietnam is finally settled?—Mrs. Jean Sage, Chicago, Ill.

● Definitely. I feel that since the Vietnam war is making such extensive demands on our resources, space exploration, although a legitimate ambition, must be postponed. More pressing problems must always be given priority.

FOR RUDD WEATHERWAX,

Lassie's trainer. How many Lassies have there been? How old is the present Lassie?—Renne Plette, Midland, Texas

● There have been four Lassies to date. The present Lassie is three years old, and is the great-granddog of the original Lassie.

FOR BURTON BROWNE,

president, Gaslight Club, Inc. Why is the topless waitress feud falling in the U. S.?—R. D. Lansing, Mich.

● I think it's because there's nothing left to the imagination. The "topless" thing is still the most important for a woman's charm and desirability.

FOR MALCOLM BRADY,

author of "On the Yard" As an ex-convict yourself, do you feel that some men "find a home" in prison?—D. N. Waco, Texas

● Yes, that's my staple. Like old soldiers who feel at home in the army, some inmates feel more secure and have made, in effect, the best deal with life as prisoners.

FOR REV. DAVID R. WILKERSON, executive director of Teen Challenge. What do you do with the proceeds from all your books? Do your mother and father work with you?—Mrs. W. L. Allen, High Point, N. C.

● All proceeds from my books go directly to the ministry of Teen Challenge. My father died four years ago, but my mother owns a coffee shop in Greenwich Village, and is the watchword operator in my office in New York City.

FOR EVA GABOR of "Green Acres"

Do you buy most of your clothes in Paris?—Mrs. E. O. Furka, Santa Rosa, Calif.

● No. When some articles of clothing appeal to me, I buy them wherever I am. The clothes I wear in the show are designed in Paris, but my personal wardrobe I have created by most leading designers.

FOR EFREM ZIMBALIST, JR.

Are the stories on your tv program, "The FBI," completely true?—Jacob Ward, Wilmington, N. C.

● The episodes of "The FBI" are taken from actual cases, but incidents, names, and locations are changed. Occasionally we may use parts from as many as four true cases to make one program.

FOR NICKY MANTLE

Would you object if any of your sons want to become professional ball players?—L. D. Plekarski, Ashbury Park, N. J.

● None of my boys seems interested in a baseball career, but I would be happy if they do. I feel, however, the boys should make their own decisions; I won't influence them in any way.

FOR ROD STEIGER

After years of struggle as an actor, how do you feel now that you have attained success?—O. R. Greenleaf, N. Y.

● I don't feel any different because I don't believe there is such a thing as success, only renewed arrival. Success is like acting. The great moments of acting do the moment they are born; success is over the moment you arrive at it.

FOR DOROTHY LAMOUR

What was the most difficult movie scene you ever played?—M. D., Niagara Falls, N. Y.

● In "The Hurricane," I was tied to a huge tree during the height of a storm, weighing nothing but a sarong. To lighten on the effect, two huge tanks of water were constantly being poured over me. Unfortunately for me, this scene took nearly three months to perfect.

Lamb Stew with Curried Dumplings

Here are stew, salad, bread, and cake worthy of serving on special occasions

- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 1/2 lbs. boneless lean lamb shoulder, cut in 1- to 1 1/2-in. pieces
- 1 bay leaf
- 1/4 teaspoon ground cumin
- 1 teaspoon Accent
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 peppercorn
- 3 cups beef broth
- 2 cups water
- 6 medium-sized potatoes, pared
- 6 medium-sized onions, peeled
- 6 carrots, pared and halved crosswise
- 1/2 cup water
- 2 tablespoons flour
- 2 cups biscuit mix
- 1 teaspoon curry powder
- 1/2 cup undiluted evaporated milk

Evaporated milk imparts richness to curried dumplings atop this lamb stew.

1. Cook garlic in hot butter or margarine in a large kettle until golden. Add lamb and cook until evenly browned on all sides.
2. Add bay leaf and next six ingredients. Cover and cook until boiling; reduce the heat and then simmer for 1 hour.
3. Add potatoes, onions, and carrots; cover and cook 30 min., or until vegetables are tender.
4. Remove bay leaf. Bring liquid to boiling; slowly add a blend of the water and flour, stirring constantly. Cook and stir 1 to 2 min. until thickened.
5. Blend biscuit mix and curry powder in a bowl. Add enough water to the milk to measure 3/4 cup; pour into the bowl. Using a fork, mix thoroughly.
6. Drop batter by tablespoonfuls on top of boiling stew. Cook uncovered, over low heat 10 min., then cover and continue cooking 10 minutes.
7. Serve immediately.

Cornmeal Crisps

- 1/2 cup cornmeal
- 1/2 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1/2 cup boiling water
- 1 tablespoon butter or margarine

1. Mix cornmeal and salt in a bowl.

- Stir in water and butter or margarine until smooth.
- 2. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a well-buttered baking sheet and flatten.
- 3. Bake at 350°F. about 20 min., or until brown and crisp.
- 4. Serve with a vegetable juice cocktail.

About 1 doz. crisps

Cocoa Angel Food Cake

- 1 cup sifted cake flour
- 1 cup sugar
- 1/2 cup cocoa
- 1 1/2 cups egg whites (about 12)
- 2 tablespoons cold water
- 1 teaspoon cream of tartar
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 cup sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla extract

1. Blend first 3 ingredients thor-

- oughly; set aside.
- 2. Beat egg whites, water, cream of tartar, and salt together until stiff, not dry, peaks are formed. Lightly fold in the remaining sugar.
- 3. Sprinkle dry ingredients over egg whites about a fourth at a time, folding lightly until blended after each addition. Gently turn batter into an ungreased 10-in. tubed pan. Cut through batter to remove any large air bubbles.
- 4. Bake at 350°F. about 45 min., or until cake tests done. Immediately invert pan and cool cake completely before removing from pan.
- 5. Sift confectioners' sugar over cake top. One 10-in. tubed cake

Celery-Pear Salad

- 1 cup water
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon vanilla extract
 - 3 firm ripe pears, halved, pared, and cored
 - 1 cup finely cut Pascal celery
 - 1/2 cup finely chopped onion
 - 3 tablespoons salad or cooking oil
 - 3 tablespoons lemon juice
 - 1/2 teaspoon sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon crushed tarragon
 - Pinch ground cinnamon
1. Mix water and sugar in a saucepan. Bring to boiling, stirring until sugar is dissolved. Cover; boil 5 minutes.
 2. Add extract and as many pear halves at a time as will fit in saucepan. Simmer about 5 min., or until pears are just tender. Remove pears with slotted spoon and put into a shallow dish.
 3. Meanwhile, parboil celery and onion for 1 min. in rapidly boiling salted water; drain.
 4. Spoon vegetables over pears and sprinkle with Accent and pepper.
 5. Pour a blend of the remaining ingredients over pears and vegetables; chill thoroughly.
 6. To serve, put each pear half onto a chilled individual salad plate lined with crisp salad greens. Spoon some of the dressing over each serving.

Which picture best expresses the idea? You'll decide which of these pictures best illustrates the meaning of the word "Speed."

Do you have a talent for photography? Take our free test and see.

Do you have a natural ability for photography—a talent worth developing? Find out by sending for a special Aptitude Test created by a group of America's most distinguished photographers. They are looking for people with talent who might be trained for money-making careers in photography, either part-time or full-time.

How to take the test

You don't need a camera or even any technical knowledge to take the test. All you'll need is a pencil and paper.

Your test is graded free

When you return your completed test, it will be graded by a member of our staff and returned to you. If you do well on the test, you will be eligible to enroll for the professional training offered by the Famous Photographers School. However, you are under no obligation to do so.

The men behind the test and the School they created

The ten Famous Photographers who devised this test are among the best-known, highest-paid professionals in the field. They include: Alfred Eisenstaedt, Irving Penn, Philippe Halman, Bert Stern, Joseph Costa, Richard Avedon, Arthur d'Arazien, Ezra Stoller, Harry Garfield and Richard Beattie. They spent three years pouring into a series of remarkable lessons all the know-how it had taken each of them many years to acquire. They contributed or made over 2,000 "teaching photographs" so that each lesson would be like an actual studio or field demonstration. Then they developed a series of practical assignments — which you carry out with your own camera, in your own home or neighborhood, on your own time schedule.

It's like private studio tutoring

When you send an assignment to the Famous Photographers School, a professional photographer spends up to two hours on it — giving it his complete and undivided attention. He makes special overlays, drawings and diagrams based on your pictures — to show you exactly how to improve your photographs. Then he writes you a detailed personal letter giving you further suggestions and advice. It's like having a master photographer at your side, passing along his most valuable secrets and techniques. Yet you learn at home — on your own time — and at your own individual pace.

Students learn while they learn

This test as well as the method of training is so effective that many of our students are starting to make money with their cameras.

"My last prize-winning picture got me a job as full-time staff photographer on our local paper," reports Robert Coyle, Dubuque, Iowa.

Mrs. Gerhard R. Schade, Jr. of Glastonbury, Conn. says, "Since starting the Course, I've had photos published in seven magazines and newspapers. The Chicago American ran one of my photos for the front cover of its magazine section. All in my spare time!" And George Godfrey of Forrest, Ill. reports, "I sold photos to a Michigan ad agency, which resulted in four-color ads and direct mail pieces. This one assignment more than paid for my Course and allowed me to buy additional equipment."

Which is the better photo? You'll be asked to check which of these pictures you feel is better.

haps a half-hour of your time. Simply put down your immediate, instinctive answers. Don't fuss, worry or contemplate. Just "freeze through." In this way, you'll be revealing your sensitivity and your natural reactions to everyday photographic situations.

What the test covers

Your ability to judge photographs from several different standpoints is measured in this 12-page test. For example, you are shown ten sets of similar photographs, asked to compare them, and decide which you feel is more effective. This is a test of your visual taste and judgment in another category, you judge five pairs of photographs — each pair designated with a word or phrase — and you are asked to check the photograph that best illustrates the meaning of each word. Still another part tests your ability to identify the direction of light used on eight photographs — and examples are provided as a guide. There are also pictures of an identical scene cropped differently. You are asked to pick which is the better composition.

Which "cropping" is more effective? You will select the one you think is the better composition.

Take the first step to success

If you are interested in an exciting, highly-rewarding career in photography, send for the test. You will also receive an interesting brochure about the School and its revolutionary methods of instruction. To get the test and brochure — both free of any obligation — why not fill in the coupon below and mail it in right now?

How Tragedy Brought Jackie

For years they shared the exhilaration of power, wealth, and position, but only mutual

Jackie and Lord Harlech's visit to Cambodia was the first open evidence of their deepening friendship.

IF JACQUELINE Kennedy marries Lord Harlech, as rumored, it will prove that neither money nor beauty creates happiness because the fundamental union between them is mutual tragedy and heartbreak.

The deep friendship of Harlech and the Kennedys dates back to before World War II, and since has been sealed by a series of family catastrophes, the latest occurring last May when Harlech's wife Sylvia was killed in an auto accident.

At 40, Lord Harlech, formerly Sir David Ormsby-Gore, can claim to have a wider personal horizon than almost any other man alive. It reaches up to the highest echelons of the British aristocracy. His mother is a Cecil, sister of Lord Salisbury. It reaches downward into the heart of hippie-land. His daughter Jane is one of the most celebrated kooks of the swinging Chelsea set and occasionally tangles with the police.

In the business world he is a partner of Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor in a Welsh tv enterprise. In the political world he sat in the House of Commons for 10 years and was British ambassador to the U.S. from 1961 to 1966—the Kennedy years, during which time he was one of the most privileged envoys in diplomatic history. President Kennedy said of him: "I would trust David as I would my own cabinet officers."

Harlech is a supremely self-controlled, hawk-nosed Welshman, "so sure of himself," according to one friend, "he doesn't find it necessary to throw his waismen around, the way Richard Burton does." He does, however, boast that he is one of the few Britshers who understands and appreciates American football.

In 1938 young Jack Kennedy came to London from Harvard to visit his father, Joseph, Sr., who was then ambassador to the Court of St. James, and also to take a course at the London School of Economics. Jack's older brother, Joe, Jr., introduced David Ormsby-Gore to him. Ormsby-Gore was at Oxford, at that time, and Joe told his brother that David had become his best friend in England.

Joe was later killed in the war, but Jack and David remained on intimate terms. It was David who introduced his first cousin, the Marquess of Hartington to Jack's sister, Kathleen. They later married. The Marquess of Hartington was killed in the war, too, and Kathleen died in a plane crash in 1948.

In the meantime David had joined the British army, and in 1940 married Sylvia Lloyd Thomas "Sisje" to her friends—a Welsh girl, daughter of a senior Foreign Office official. David served with the Berkshire Yeomanry as an air-observation pilot and finished the war on the general staff with the rank of major.

In 1950 he was elected to Parliament and held a series of offices without making much of a mark. "Ormsby-Gore was just too smooth for words," a former colleague said. "A life untroubled by self-doubt or worries about sordid stuff like money does not make the best preparation for the House of Commons, where so many of the members on both sides are self-made men with a low boiling point in social resentment."

But in 1960 John F. Kennedy was elected President of the U.S., and there was much commotion in diplomatic circles in Britain. Everyone knew of Ormsby-Gore's long friendship with the new President, especially Prime Minister Harold MacMillan, Ormsby-Gore's social tentacles were everywhere—the Prime Minister's son, Maurice MacMillan, a member of Parliament, was Ormsby-Gore's brother-in-law!

Although British ambassadorial appointments are professional rather than political, the British has always attached high importance to family connections in international affairs, and so Sir David Ormsby-Gore became British ambassador in Washington. He now had two sons and three daughters, the older boy studying at McGill University in Montreal, and one of the daughters, Jane, studying in Madrid—"or at least so she says," Ormsby-Gore said, somewhat wryly. Jane was already the family terror, and he obviously had a premonition of the antics to come.

The Ormsby-Gores were soon the envy of the diplomatic corps in Washington. Sylvia was a beautiful, slim brunette, the perfect ambassadorial hostess. It was estimated that Ormsby-Gore saw the President more often than all the other ambassadors put together. The Kennedys and the Ormsby-Gores dined together at least once a week. The British couple were called, not always charitably, "the darlings of the New Frontier." It is difficult to find in the history of

and Lord Harlech Together

grief made them see each other as more than friends By GEOFFREY BOCCA international diplomacy a more intimate relationship between the head of a great state and a foreign ambassador.

The assassination of President Kennedy changed the world, and with it the special friendship between the White House and the British embassy. Ormsby-Gore stayed around in Washington for a while. His father died, and he became the fifth Baron Harlech. The old social whirl was over, although he and Sylvia continued to see Bobby Kennedy and Jacqueline Kennedy.

He did not know President Johnson very well, and it was said that the new President did not care for him very much, that he was irritated not only by Harlech's patrician manner but also by the special, exclusive comradeship he had enjoyed with the late President.

Under Johnson, Harlech was just another ambassador. Until the assassination, Kennedy's small daughter Caroline held her first-grade class in the White House. Afterwards, this was, of course, no longer possible, and Sylvia offered Jackie Kennedy the facilities of the British embassy, which were accepted. To a man as sensitive as President Johnson, this could have been interpreted as a rather unfriendly gesture. It was not wholly diplomatic.

In 1965 Harlech's term was up and there was much nostalgia among the old New Frontier hands at his departure. A central actor in the Kennedy drama was gone.

It was expected when he returned to England that he would renounce his title and run for Parliament, but he seemed lethargic and preferred to take his seat in the House of Lords. The fact was that he was utterly shattered by his friend's death. Life had revolved around the Kennedys, and he didn't know what to do with himself. Both he and Sylvia found a kind of escape in speed.

They drove sports cars atumatic speeds. He was once clocked by the police doing 120 miles an hour and was fined. He called this adventure "really motoring."

Slowly he recovered his aplomb. He became deputy leader of the Tory opposition party in the House of Lords and president of the Board of Film Censors, whereupon the censorship of films almost ceased to exist. "The British cinema-going public is far more able to cope with sex on the screen than Americans are," he said.

Like most aristocrats, Harlech was completely tolerant of human frailty. While such things as lying or cheating at cards will freeze a man out of the aristocracy forever, sex, drinking, divorce, even drugs are considered a part of life's total experience. "We can't all be perfect" is their point of view.

The escapades of his daughter Jane merely amused him. Jane married a bearded young dress designer named Michael Rainey. They walk around barefoot and run a whacky boutique in Chelsea called "Hung on You." Jane once went to a very fashionable hunt ball wearing what she called "an old family nightie." They once were arrested sleeping in the hayloft with their baby daughter Saffron. It was considered to be a cruelty to the child, but the charge was dismissed. "I gather the hny was warm," said Harlech.

Then suddenly in May, 1967, tragedy struck him. Sylvia, his wife of 27 years, was driving to Harlech, the family seat. Observers at the inquest said she appeared to be taking a corner too fast. The car went out of control and smashed head-on into a bus. She was killed instantly.

David Harlech had so often put the consoling arm around the shoulders of grieving Kennedys—for Joe, Jr., for Kathleen, for Jack—now it was the time for the Kennedy family to console him, instead.

Jacqueline Kennedy attended the funeral. A month later she interrupted her Irish holiday to drive to Shannon Airport to pick him up when they both were invited to be weekend guests of Irish President Eamon de Valera. Already London and Washington society were beginning to talk. But what only Jackie Kennedy and a few more intimate friends know was that Harlech was almost in a state of shock over the loss of his wife, and he needed all the moral help he could get.

He tried to pull himself together with a burst of business activity. He resigned his deputy leadership in the House of Lords and joined forces with Richard Burton and Elizabeth Taylor to become chairman of a new tv outlet which will provide programs to an independent Welsh tv station.

Then, when Harlech was invited to join Jacqueline Kennedy's party visiting Cambodia last November, everyone's tongue wagged. Admittedly there was another available escort there, New York attorney Michael Forrestal, who also had been reported a potential suitor, but all the talk was about Harlech. He consistently denied stories of romance with diplomatic tact. "There is no romance," he said. "Ours has been a 13-year friendship."

Whatever the relationship, the Kennedy family approves of it. Lord Harlech recently went on a lecture tour of the United States speaking on the theme, "Must the West Decline?" He has been a house guest of Bobby and Ethel Kennedy at their home, Hickory Hill in McLean, Va.

There is no religious problem. Although Harlech is not a Catholic, his wife was, and the children were brought up as Catholics. But readers of the gossip columns need expect no early announcement, certainly not until after the Presidential election next November, for which Bobby Kennedy could still be a candidate.

One of their closest mutual friends recently said, "Sylvia Harlech has been dead for only a few months. You don't lose a wife you have loved all your adult life, then turn around and decide you are in love with a woman you have known as a family friend for 13 years."

"I don't think David knows how he feels. Let things ride a year or so. Then I think you may find that David is well in the running."

Man vs. Woman ♀♂ Which Is Superior? By JOHN E. GIBSON

THE BATTLE of the sexes has been raging since Adam and Eve. Now science has entered the fray, trying to determine by statistics, investigations, and psychology—which is superior—man or woman. It hasn't ended the battle—but it has come up with some interesting answers. How close do your intuitive answers come to the scientific ones?

• Do women worry more than men?

Yes. Men may get more ulcers, but women do more worrying. A nationwide survey found that women worry far more than men do about everything that touches their lives. One of their chief worries is that all their worrying might bring on a nervous breakdown.

• Can women stand noise better than men?

Yes. Public-health studies of men and women exposed to the clamor of industrial machinery have shown that women can take far more noise than men without suffering physical-ill effects such as hearing loss. Women have what science terms "a greater resistance to noise trauma."

• When a husband is chronically intemperate, is it usually a nagging wife who has driven him to drink?

No. The type of woman who "will drive her husband to drink" has no being in fact. At the University of Washington School of Medicine, investigators found that the personality types of wives of temperate husbands were no different from those of alcoholics.

• Are women more thoughtful than men?

No. All evidence indicates that most women's thoughts seldom stray far from themselves. This is particularly evident in their conversation.

Investigators at the University of Cincinnati studied the speech habits of men and women of various ages, in various IQ ranges. Conversational samples of each subject were recorded and studied. Most women's speech was found, to a far greater extent than men's, to contain words referring to themselves—"Me," "Mine," "I don't like this," "I don't like that."

• Can women taste things better than men?

Yes. Investigators measured the taste sensitivity of nearly 400 men and women. Women had a very definite superiority. The only things that men could taste better than women were vinegar, lemon, and sour grapes!

• Can men on the average hear as well as women?

No. Studies conducted at the University of Michigan show that men can hear lower-pitched sounds as well as women, but they can't hear higher-pitched sounds nearly as well.

• Would most people rather confide in a man than in a woman?

No. The University of Florida studies show that women are confided in by members of both sexes to a far greater extent than men are. Men will tell things to a woman that they wouldn't dream of confiding to another man. The principle of the man being the "last to know" was found to hold true with fathers and their children's confidences. *

COLLECT $157.50 A WEEK—JUST LIKE WAGES— WHILE YOU ARE IN THE HOSPITAL

By taking 2 minutes to read the amazing facts below, you can learn how to collect as much as $8,212.50—RIGHT IN THE HOSPITAL—to spend in any way you please.

What if you should wake up to find yourself flat on your back in a hospital bed—and be there for weeks or even months? Think of all the things that $2,000 or $5,000 or $8,000 in extra spendable cash—over and above your hospital insurance, could mean.

Cash to pay the mortgage. Cash to buy food. Cash to meet car payments—pay for child care—buy gasoline—buy school clothing—pay a tax bill.

Your regular health care insurance is not intended to help with family living needs. The "high cost of living" is apart from hospital costs. Household bills go on just the same. Your family still has to eat three meals a day. The landlord or the bank still wants the money when it is due.

Just a few weeks of this kind of financial pressure—with nothing coming in, everything going out—could plunge your loved ones into actual want. No husband or father, hospitalized or healthy, wants his family to go into debt.

A Service of Americare®

It is to meet this kind of personal and family emergency that American Republic has developed the "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan"—a service of Americare.® Here, specifically, is what this plan can do for you:

This plan can pay you $157.50 per week actual cash (at the rate of $22.50 per day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. It gives you the right to collect this $157.50 per week for any number of weeks up to ONE FULL YEAR. This extra cash income is paid directly to you. You don't have to pay one penny of it to the hospital—it is yours to spend as you wish.

In fact, you can collect a total of as much as $8,212.50 extra personal cash if you are in the hospital for as long as a year.

What's more, this is LifeGuarded® Protection. This means it is Guaranteed Renewable. It can be yours for LIFE as long as you make timely payment of your current premium. It can NEVER be cancelled by the Company because of age, health or number of claims.

Check All These Advantages

- Pays whether you are in the hospital for injury OR sickness.
- Pays in cash directly to you. It's yours to spend any way you like.
- Benefits are increased 10% if premium is paid annually in advance, or increased 5% if paid semi-annually in advance.
- Pays in addition to any other insurance carried with American Republic or any other company. Even pays in addition to Workmen's Compensation or Medicare.
- You are covered during any hospital confinement for any accident from the date your policy is issued, and for any sickness that begins after 30 days from date of issue. Unless, of course, your hospital care is due to war, mental disorder, maternity, dental work, or when you are in a U.S. Government or Veterans Hospital.
- NO MEDICAL EXAMINATION; regardless of your age—and there is NO AGE LIMIT.

Easy As 1...2...3...

Protection under the American Republic "1-2-3 Direct Cash Plan" is available in individual protection "units."

You simply decide how many of these units you need for your particular coverage requirements—and put them together like building blocks. For example:

The "1-UNIT" PLAN pays you $52.50 per week actual cash—at the rate of $7.50 a day) for every week you spend in the hospital due to accident or illness. This plan can pay you as much as $2,737.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

The "2-UNIT" PLAN pays you $105.00 per week (at the rate of $15.00 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to as much as $5,475.00 if you should be in the hospital a full year.

The "3-UNIT" PLAN pays you $157.50 per week (at the rate of $22.50 a day) for each week you are in the hospital—up to a total of $8,212.50 if you are hospitalized for a full year.

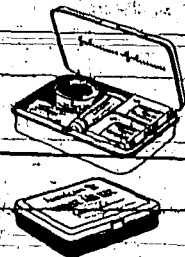

Your decision is easy. Just choose the plan that fits your needs best. Best of all, no matter which plan you choose, you get...

Protection That PAYS

According to latest 5-year figures, American Republic returned a greater percent of premium dollars to policyholders in claim benefits than any of the other Top 40 insurance companies offering individual accident and health insurance. So, when you own this policy, you have protection that PAYS. This is another important advantage of Americare.®

Why not send for full information today? Why put it off and risk missing this exceptional protection opportunity that can be worth up to $8,000.00 and more to you? NEW HOPE FOR LATE-TALKING CHILDREN

By ARTHUR WHITMAN

A TEACHER at the Hearing and Speech Center in Grand Rapids, Mich., deliberately drops a block. "Who will pick it up for me?" she asks.

Two small children, Mary and Jeff, run for it, but the teacher restrains them both. "No, tell me first. Say, 'I will.' Who will say it first?" The children stare at her, thinking. Finally Jeff makes a few recognizable sounds. "That's wonderful, Jeff! You may pick it up."

Jeff is learning to speak the way all children do, by mimicry and repetition. The only difference is that Jeff is nearly five years old and is a student in the Special Class for Late-Talking Children, a private agency within the Hearing and Speech Center. The class is an experimental program for teaching youngsters who haven't learned to talk at normal ages.

"We used to think you couldn't correct speech problems in children under six," says Dr. Joseph Blanton, the clinical audiologist who founded the class. "We centered our efforts on older children, so that defective speech wouldn't keep them out of school. But it became clear that if we could get the kids earlier, many of the problems could be effectively prevented. We've only had about 30-some kids to date (ranging in age from 1 1/2 to 8 1/2), but the results have been fantastic."

Why are some children affected with serious speech problems and not others? Speech therapist Lois Margolin, who runs the class, says, "The most common causes are birth defects, hearing loss, and emotional disturbances. The latter two are easier to correct, but birth defects can affect the brain, palate, and larynx, thereby causing serious difficulty."

Take the case of little Robin, five, who suffered brain damage at birth. When she started, she could utter only two syllables. Tests established her IQ at 20, on the semi-vegetable level.

Today, after months of work,

"See yourself talk"—such visual therapy greatly stimulates speech.

Robin can pronounce about 100 words and knows the meaning of many more. Her IQ has risen to the low 80s, or low normal.

Several techniques are used, but none really amounts to more than constant love and attention. The atmosphere is that of a nursery school with the exciting difference that here the children are urged to talk out in class and often tricked into it (such as the teacher dropping the block).

The class allows no parental indulgence, although parents are encouraged to attend. "The children find speech painful for one reason or another," says one teacher. "They have learned to get what they want without words, and parents have indulged them by adapting to no speak. We must show the children that their system doesn't work here."

As in most nurseries, the children are given fruit juice. One distraught mother recently saw her daughter Kim being given a short ration to insure that she would want more. Kim waved her hands. She was ignored. When she walked up to get her own juice, the pitcher was moved as if by coincidence.

Kim whined angrily and crumpled her paper cup—and the mother had to be restrained from helping her. Finally, in desperation, Kim tugged at the teacher's skirt and uttered a few sounds. Only then was she given the juice. Her mother left with a new outlook.

Though the class is still in its toddling stage, its future seems clear. "We'll soon work with even younger children," Mrs. Margolin asserts. "We know that children can be taught to speak under the proper conditions. From here on, the job is exploring all the possible conditions and then getting the message out so that in the future there will no longer be such a thing as a late-talking child." ♦

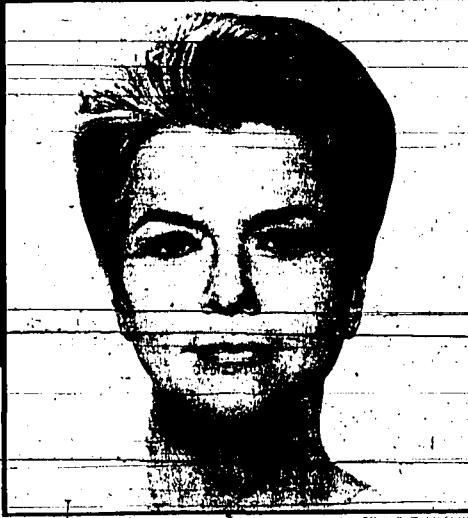

Chemist Experiments with HONEY and EGG... Discovers How To

TIGHTEN SAGGING SKIN ON FACE AND THROAT

WOMAN'S NEWS

By Shirley French

The Woman in these Unretouched Photographs is the Mother of 6 Children and Grandmother of 10!

Mail Order

A laboratory experiment with natural bee's honey and extract of egg may prove to be the best news ever for sagging, drooping skin that makes face and throat look old and dowdy.

This new honey and egg skin-tightening recipe has been blended into a delightful new cream formula for easy home use. A thin coating spread over face and neck almost immediately makes the skin feel wonderfully stimulated as the tightening process begins.

FANTASTICALLY FAST, SAFE, EASY

The skin undergoes a delightful, cooling temperature change... feels ever tighter as the process continues. The honey and egg dries to a glazed finish as nature's own ingredients continue to perform their skin-tightening magic.

And it's so fantastically easy! Just spread over skin with fingertips, leave on for 15-minute tightening process, then... easiest of all... cool, clear water removes every trace in seconds! Skin looks and feels smoother, tighter, more alluring. Your face and neck should look younger, firmer, more vibrant and glowing than they have for years! Make-up looks more natural and stays looking fresh and lovely hours longer.

SMOOTHER, TIGHTER SKIN

Tests proved conclusively that using nature's own Honey and Egg for new skin-beauty-produced these long-lasting beneficial effects on all textures and types of skin:

1. gave the skin a tingling, refreshing coolness "just like a beauty shop facial";
2. lightened sagging, drooping skin, left it feeling taut and firm;
3. weathered, aging skin felt ultra-smooth again!

NO-RISK TRIAL OFFER

No, you're not too old to look younger. Order by mail. A long-lasting supply costs only $3.00 on guarantee of satisfaction or money back. Try it today and see if it isn't the best way ever to make old, sagging facial and throat skin look and feel smooth again!

Hurrah! Man

Do you own the smartest dog in the world? Strange—

By GOODMAN ACE Author of "Book of Little Knowledge," "Fine Art of Hypochondria"

LET IT be shown for the record that I love dogs. It's dog lovers I can't abide — the owners of "the smartest dog in the world." You! And, once upon a time, me!

But I kicked the habit after 12 years, during which time I was the proud owner of a West Highland terrier. During those years I could stand for hours and talk to anyone who would listen about my dog's powers of human logic, far beyond the understanding of man. Worst of all, I insisted on displaying a folder of snapshots which, anyone could see, set my dog apart from all other dogs.

We never had a dog before, but my wife had planned on it for some years. She had even planned to name it Janie, after herself. One day she visited a kennel club show, and after she and this West Highland terrier had gazed soulfully into each other's eyes, they both knew this was it. She brought Janie home that afternoon.

Although I had known that Jane would one day bring home a dog, I found myself mentally unprepared. She simply showered the animal with affection.

"Who is the cutest dog in the world?" she asked the dog. "You are," she answered quickly. "You are the cutest, the most beautiful, and the smartest dog in the world. Isn't she, dear?"

"Yes," I replied.

"Well, tell her she is. Let her know how much we love her and that this is going to be her home. Tell Janie she's the cutest and most beautiful dog in the world, so she'll feel wanted."

Well, unaccustomed as I was to speaking to dogs who don't feel wanted, I made a stab at it.

"Janie," I said, "you are the cutest and most beautiful dog in the world."

"See?" said Jane. "We both love you." I am obliged to report that Janie was "not responsive."

It was later that afternoon we discovered that, biologically, Janie was not a suitable name for him. Seeing a quick way out, I voted that since Jane had made this purchase without asking at least the basic question, we take him back and try again. I lost that vote, 2 to 1. Jane counted his vote.

Janie was a little heartick that he couldn't be named after her. I suggested Jane change her name to John or Rover. She didn't think too much of that, but set herself to finding a suitable name. "A name that is different," she said. West Highland terriers, as you know, are all white, so Jane came up with a name that was different. She called him Blackie.

It took Blackie only a few weeks to establish the credibility of the blue ribbons that Jane had brought home with him. He was "Royalty, we were peasants, and the apartment revolved about him and his habits and his mealtimes.

I walked Blackie three times a day. Through rain and sleet, through streets and alleys, I walked Blackie. Strangers stopped us and exclaimed, "Oh, what a beautiful dog!" I must admit to a feeling of pride. I began to look forward to our walks, preening myself with each adulation. Until one night when an American Legion convention was in town, we were stopped by a party of three men and three women who were filled with the spirits of their gathering.

"Oh, isn't he a beautiful dog," the women exclaimed in chorus. "And so white," added one. "What's his name?" asked another.

I replied, "Blackie." The men moved in. "What are you — a wise guy?" they said in unison. "Call the lady the dog's name."

Well, brooking no quarrel with the American Legion, especially in convention, and being chicken with no cop around, I replied quickly, "His name is Fido."

From that night on, Blackie was Fido to any belligerent passer-by.

Not a day went by that I didn't bring home some small trinket for Blackie. Treated bones, a soft rubber cat that meowed when he hit into it, rubber rings, rubber balls — you name it, Blackie collected his toys in a box under the piano. Every day he counted them, Jane told me, to make sure the maid hadn't taken any.

He held every toy between his paws — excuse me, hands — and he gnawed with relish. The rubber balls, the rubber rings, the rubber cat which no longer meowed — all were fair game. He favored the rubber toys. The treated bones were secretly buried under drapes, in the couch, in overstuffed chairs. It was his apartment — we had only squatters' rights.

One day, late in Blackie's autoerotic reign, I came home and Jane met me with: "Well, dear, what do you think Blackie said to me today?" That's when I realized we had had it.

"What did Blackie say?" I asked. "He said he was sick," she replied.

"Sick as a man?" I asked her. "There is a time for jokes and a time not. And this is not," she replied in tears. "Blackie is in his bed, and he's sick."

Bites Dog Lovers

...does everyone else, says this famous humorist

Well, I took him to the vet who had ended him over the years and had always been cynical about my boasts of Blackie's superior intelligence.

"Dogs," he said, "have no intelligence as humans know it. When a dog licks your hand, it's the tang of salt he's after. It's not love."

What could you expect from a vet who admits he never owned a dog?

He X-rayed Blackie and announced that Blackie had a bad case of eating-too-many-rubber-balls.

"Is it serious?"

"He'll have to be operated on. You see? If your dog is as smart as you've been saying, why didn't he know he shouldn't eat rubber balls?"

Well, Blackie was operated on and soon after, at age 12, he went to that big rubber ball in the sky. It was little consolation when the vet told us that age 12 in a dog was equal to 84 in a human. Everyone who has owned the smartest dog in the world knows how we felt.

Well, time, as usual, healed the wound, and in due course we were reconciled to the loss of Blackie. He soon became a fond memory, and some of the luster of his unusual intelligence began to diminish. I confess I still did carry the folder of snapshots to show anyone who had a dog and thought it was the smartest in the world.

By the time we met Bambi—a French poodle owned by friends of ours—I had become more objective about a dog's super-intellect. I smiled cynically when a dog owner rhapsodized about his pet's ecstatic greeting when he came home and how the animal licked his hand. I took it all with the same grain of salt that the dog was licking off his owner's hand.

Bambi's owners had been away on vacation for two weeks. They told us that Bambi had rushed to the door when they had returned, barking, turning hand-springs, and dashing around the house. She was beside herself.

"Bambi was telling us," our hostess interpreted, "that she had missed us, she was glad we were back, and please don't go away and stay so long again."

Well, that's quite a mouthful for a dog, couldn't stand it.

What followed should never have happened—I should never have disenchanted the lady. But this interpretation of what Bambi had said had been compounded with a little story she told us about Bambi. "We had to repaint the hallway," she said, "and when the man finished painting it, he left a small sign against the baseboard. The sign read, 'Wet Paint.' And Bambi did."

The good old days—Jane Ace with Blackie.

Well, in my highest flights of fancy about Blackie I never had claimed that he could read. Now with Bambi's welcome speech, I couldn't contain myself. I gave her my vet's routine about when a dog licks his owner's hand it's the salt he's after—not affection.

My host suddenly sat up and said, "Oh, sure, that's fine for a dog. But Bambi is not a dog, you know?"

"No, I didn't know," I said.

"She's our little girl," he said.

At this point our hostess remembered she had forgotten to put a note in the milk bottle in the hall. It took her no more than 30 seconds.

When she returned, Bambi rushed to the door to welcome her back from her trip, and barking and turning hand-springs, she went dashing about the house, telling her mistress she was glad she was back and please don't go away and stay so long again.

"Smartest dog in the world," she said.

For some reason we don't get invited to their house for dinner as often as we used to. Jane says I never should have said the things I did about Bambi. She keeps suggesting I try to make amends by sending Bambi some little toys.

You know, I just may do that. I'm going to start sending Bambi a rubber ball every week. We may all find out just how smart a girl Bambi really is.

The Iliad of Homer

HERE is a wonderful opportunity to own and cherish an epic which has been called one of the six best books ever written — a book, so magnificent that Alexander the Great carried it with him into battle in a jewelled case! When you read this exciting account of the battle for Troy, you'll see why The Iliad has stirred the pulses and thrilled the senses of countless readers for nearly three thousand years!

The Odyssey of Homer

FAMED companion piece to The Iliad, The Odyssey is the exciting romantic narrative of the long and perilous wanderings of Odysseus in the years after the fall of Troy. No hero of fiction has ever surpassed Odysseus for courage, cleverness, and wisdom. As you thrill to his tumultuous adventures, you will — like millions before you — discover a never-ending fascination in this ancient but timeless classic!

Utopia

BY SIR THOMAS MORE

CAN a society be created in which everyone lives the "good life"? Where laws are few and simple . . . where war does not exist? One by one, Sir Thomas More considers in Utopia the social and economic problems that have beset man in all societies, in all ages. You will be amazed at his conclusions — and you'll marvel at the brilliance of a man who — four centuries ago — could take such an enlightened view of social progress.

Why The Classics Club Offers You This Superb Value

WILL YOU ADD these three volumes to your library—as an introductory offer made only to new members of The Classics Club? You are invited to join today...and to receive on approval beautiful editions of the world's greatest masterpieces. These books, selected unanimously by distinguished literary authorities, were chosen because they offer the greatest enjoyment and value to the "bread for time" men and women of today.

Why Are Great Books Called "Classics"?

A true "classic" is a living book that will never grow old. For their fascination it can rival the most thrilling modern novel. Here you are wondering how the truly great books have become "classics":
1. First, because they are so readable. They would not have lived unless they were read; they would not have been read unless they were interesting. To be interesting they had to be easy to understand. And those are the very qualities which characterize these selections: readability, interest, simplicity.

Only Book Club of its Kind

The Classics Club is different from all other book clubs. 1. It distributes to its members the world's classics at a low price. 2. Its members are not obligated to take any specific number of books. 3. Its volumes are luxurious De Luxe Editions — bound in the buckram ordinarily used for $7 and $10 bindings. They have tinted "page tops" — are richly stamped in genuine gold, which will retain its original lustre — books you and your children will read and cherish for many years.

A Trial Membership Invitation to You

You are invited to accept a "Trial" Membership! With your acceptance you will be sent an advance notice about future selections. You may reject any book you do not wish. You need not like any specific number of books — only the ones you want. No money in advance, no membership fees. You may cancel membership at any time.

Mail this Invitation Form now. Today's low introductory price for these THREE beautiful volumes cannot be assured indefinitely, so please respond promptly. THE CLASSICS CLUB, Roanoke, Va., New York 11876.

The Great Classics Are One of the Most Rewarding Investments You Can Ever Make for Yourself and Your Family

THE HALLMARK of a cultured home has always been its library of books. Great books fill gaps in one's formal education — give broader vision to a son or daughter still in school — set a personal example for the young. They bring joy and instill the wisdom of the ages.

For filling leisure hours with enjoyment and for giving youth the greatest of all examples of a clear, confident thinking; nothing can surpass a classic. No one, young or old, need ever be friendless or dull if he chooses for companions the wisest, witriest, most stimulating minds that ever lived.
