$186 Billion Budget Is Proposed By President

By STERLING F. GREEN
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson sends to Congress today the $186 billion budget which may determine whether Americans get a 10 per cent tax boost this year.

The totals, already disclosed, are high—partly because of a $10.4 billion rise in spending blamed on Vietnam, and partly because of a new-style “unified” budget format which includes outlays of the government-held trust and insurance funds.

But the fiscal 1969 spending increase is smaller than its year’s rise in the tax and social security deficit—conditioned on the tax hike—compares with the $10.8 billion “peacetime” record deficit of this year.

The improved fiscal outlook depends largely on enactment of the $10.2 billion tax surcharge which the House Ways and Means Committee shelved last week for the third time.

The committee said in effect it wants to study the new budget and decide whether the administration is doing its own share to reduce outlays, cut the deficit and resist inflation.

Johnson is expected to show enough cost-cutting in less essential domestic programs to persuade the lawmakers they should impose the election-year surcharge on individuals and corporations for the duration of the Vietnamese conflict.

These are the highlight budget figures, disclosed by Johnson in his State of the Union address and by his top fiscal officers in testimony before the Ways and Means Committee.

—For fiscal 1968, the government year now more than half over, spending $175.8 billion, receipts $155.8 billion, deficit $19.8 billion.

—For fiscal 1969, spending $186.1 billion, receipts $178.1 billion, deficit $8 billion.

Under the old-style “administrative” budget, which excludes the income and outgo of the Social Security, highway and other trust funds, the 1969 outlays would be $147 billion, receipts $135.6 billion, and deficit $11.4 billion.

The budget is the third and last for Budget Director Charles J. Schultz. He has resigned and will be succeeded by Charles J. Zwick, a veteran official of the Budget Bureau.

The President was scheduled to administer the oath of office to Zwick just after he signed the budget message and dispatched it to the Capitol at noon.

“Inevitable” — NEW YORK (AP) — Soviet Premier Alexei N. Khrushchev says that cooperation some day between the United States and the Soviet Union is inevitable, but he rejects any Soviet government role in finding peace in Vietnam except on the terms of its Communists.

The premier outlined his views to the editors of Life magazine, who described his words as a “chilling recital of how the Soviet Union views the United States.” He denounced all major aspects of U.S. foreign policy, particularly in the Middle East and in Vietnam.

Governor Expects Surplus In Fund

By EARLE L. JESTER
BOISE (AP) — Gov. Don W. Samuelson told a special session of the Idaho Legislature today the state anticipates a general fund surplus of about $2.2 million in excess of that carried over from the preceding biennium.

But he said the margin is not sufficient to warrant appropriating any more money for the current two-year period.

“I ask,” he said, “that teachers and educators use restraint and patience, and wait for results of the task force survey now being made by the Department of Education.”

The Idaho Education Association has in effect a “sanction” alert, threatening a teacher walkout next fall if more funds are not provided for the public schools.

Samuelson told the Legislature that to appropriate more money now from the general fund could lead to a holdback in the first six months of the biennium.

“The Idaho law,” he said, “requires that, in such cases, the State Department of Education is to certify the amount of money needed to make up the loss of income to the school districts in the various counties of the state.

The counties then would be required to levy whatever additional property tax is needed to make up the shortage. Such a situation did double six years ago, Samuelson said, adding: “It is necessary to avoid the possibility of this happening again, the wisest course is to let the school budget remain as it is.

The governor spoke at a joint session of the House and Senate about an hour after the two bodies convened separately.

Legislative leaders said bills carrying out principal objectives of the session — called primarily to deal with problems resulting from last summer’s widespread forest fires — would be introduced promptly.

Members of the special Forest Fire Study Committee are to see GOVERNOR, P. 2, C. 4

in case of emergency. The Mine rescue was thought to be missing in water near 6,000 feet deep.

The French submarine is 100 feet long, weighs 800 tons and has a top speed of 18 knots.

Boats and aircraft from the Israeli, Turkish, Greek, U.S. and British navies hunted for the submarine, but officials would not confirm that contact had been made.

The submarine Ariane and the light destroyer Kersaint both reported to the aircraft carrier Cheonenau that they were checking sounds registering on their sonar equipment.

Although officers said the Mine had enough oxygen reserves for her 52-man crew to stay submerged “for several days,” high navy sources said they viewed the situation with “great anxiety.”

Their concern was heightened as the search task force failed to find a buoy the submarine should have sent to the surface since November.

Nixon Will Reveal Plans On Thursday

NEW YORK (AP) — A spokesman for former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said today he will announce on Thursday his decision on whether to enter Republican presidential primaries.

The spokesman, executive assistant Patrick Buchanan, said Nixon will follow that with a news conference Friday noon in Manchester, N.H.

The deadline for entering the New Hampshire primary is Wednesday. However, a committee can file petitions for the candidate, which he has 10 days after the deadline to disavow.

Nixon is expected to say he will enter the New Hampshire March 12-13 in the nation.

Gov. George Romney of Michigan has already entered in New Hampshire, and has completed two campaign swings through the state.

Arraignment Set In Rupert Murder

RUPERT — William Russell Amy, 34, Osage, Iowa, was to be arraigned Monday afternoon before Probate Judge LeRoy Blacker on first degree murder charges in connection with the slaying of a man whose body was found in a field north of Paul last Sept. 19.

Amy was returned to Rupert from Okla. late Saturday by Minidoka county sheriff's officers from Okla. City where he held officers details of the slaying when he was picked up for drunkenness.

Sheriff Theo Johnson was notified the night of Jan. 18 by Okla. City police who checked out Amy's story with local officers. The Iowa man told Okla.

City officers details of the death of the man later identified as John Massey Ray, 71, Denver.

Identity of Mr. Ray was not known for some time but finally was traced through fingerprints by the FBI. He had been dead about 10 days when his body was found by a Paul farmer in an empty irrigation structure.

Amy's companion, Arnold Enggraf, 34, 34, is serving a sentence in the North Dakota penitentiary for car theft. Sheriff Johnson said negotiations have started regarding the possibility of bringing the man to Idaho and a warrant has been issued for Enggraf.

Dr. Spock Is Indicted For Counseling

BOSTON (AP) — Dr. Benjamin Spock and four other men indicted on charges of counseling young men to avoid the draft all pleaded innocent when arraigned today in U.S. District Court.

All five were released in $100,000 bail each.

Under indictment with the 64-year-old pediatrician are the Rev. William Sloane Coffin Jr., 43, chaplain at Yale University; Michael Fathers, 25, Boston, Harvard University graduate student; Mitchell Goodman, 44, an author of New York City and Temple, Maine; and Marcus Raskin, 33, of Washington, D.C., co-director of the Institute for Policy Studies.

Judge Francis J. W. Ford allowed the defense 30 days to file special motions, and gave the prosecution 20 days after that to file replies.

Judge Ford granted a defense request that the defendants not be placed under geographic restraints while on bail. Defense lawyers cited plans made before the indictments for Spock to visit Los Angeles as part of a peace tour.

An indictment returned Jan. 5 by a federal grand jury in Boston charged the five with violating the Selective Service Act by conspiring to counsel young men to avoid the draft.

Conviction on the charges would carry a maximum penalty of up to five years in prison and a $100,000 fine.

“We and the other people who are refusing to participate in it (the war) are the ones who are the patriots,” Spock told a cheering crowd of 2,000 Sunday at a report at North University's Alumni Auditorium.

T.F. Man Praises Crew For Emergency Landing

By RUTH KOONCE MILLER
Times-News Staff Writer
A Twin Falls man has nothing but praise for the crew of a United Airlines DC-8 which made an emergency landing at the Salt Lake City Airport Sunday after having to over-fly Elko where he was scheduled to get off the plane.

“My whole life flashed before my eyes in a period of 30 minutes,” remarked Carl Berg. He was aboard the plane which was unable to land at Elko because of faulty landing gear.

The more than 30 passengers aboard the plane were notified that they were in a “state of emergency” after the plane was unable to set down at Elko. They were told the flight would continue on to Salt Lake City where emergency equipment such as ambulances, fire trucks, etc., was available.

Mr. Berg said he thought “everyone on the plane had a moment of truth with themselves during the 35 minutes it took to get to Salt Lake City.”

He was en route home from San Francisco Sunday when the incident took place.

Mr. Berg, while on route from Elko to Salt Lake City, said he and the other passengers were

Thousands Of Coal Miners Are On Strike

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Thousands of union coal miners were on strike today in a display of anger over the mass arrests of miners during violent picketing at a new union mine.

Dozens of pits were knocked out of production through Western Pennsylvania when United Mine Workers refused to cross picket lines set up shortly before midnight Sunday.

It was not learned immediately whether the union sanctioned the walkout—or tried to prevent it.

“I have no knowledge of an organized strike in this area or in the state,” said Harvey Younker, a UMW district president, who was contacted in Johnstown. He declined further comment.

Miners were expected to meet today in some mine towns, presumably to discuss how long they’ll stay out. One union report said a three-day shutdown was planned.

Tet Truce Is Called Off By Allies

SAIGON (AP) — The allies called off the Tet truce in South Vietnam’s northern military sector tonight because of a build-up of a massive North Vietnamese force to the border ready to spring after the ceasefire. The 36-hour standoff began elsewhere in the country, marking the Vietnamese lunar new year.

U.S. and South Vietnamese officials reported the enemy had four or five divisions—about 50,000 men—along the demilitarized zone and just over the border in Laos. The force included a new enemy unit, the 320th Division, the officials said.

“The threat is serious up there, a senior U.S. spokesman asserted. “It is not militarily logical to let the enemy have 36 hours of resupply and movement while we sit there and get hit. Why should we give the enemy 36 hours (time to get into position when they’ve got three to four divisions there—ready to whack us?)”

Another senior U.S. officer said: “There are three divisions in the Khe Sanh area, and possibly a fourth. It is something I would label an invasion. It is no longer just infiltration.”

Khe Sanh is in the jungled hills of northwest South Vietnam. The U.S. Marines are dug in there in a combat base just below the demilitarized zone.

The truce cancellation announcement also said U.S. air raids would continue during the truce period in North Vietnam’s southern panhandle for a distance running about 125 miles north of the demilitarized zone to Vinh on the northern coast.

The U.S. Command has rushed nearly 10,000 Army troops to the five northern provinces—called the 1st Corps area —to back up the Marines spread along the DMZ. More Army forces are likely to be dispatched soon.

The United States has three divisions in the 1st Corps area—perhaps 60,000 troops. The South Vietnamese have 12,000 men there.

The allied Tet cease-fire went into effect elsewhere at 6 p.m. EST. The announcement of the cancellation of the northern sector came from the South Vietnamese government.

The announcement said: “In this situation the Republic of Vietnam has decided, in consultation with its allies, that the earlier announced provisions of the Tet truce cannot be applied in certain areas without serious risk to the lives of the defending South Vietnamese and allied forces.

Diplomatic sources said the nonpartisan members at a meeting Saturday split over proposals for council action. African and Asian members backed Ethiopia’s idea of investigating whether the ship was in North Korean waters when taken last Monday. Some other supporters of Canada’s proposal for an intermediary to seek the release of the ship and her 83-man crew.

Goldberg and Morozov met at the suggestion of Canadian Ambassador George Ignatieff.

In suggesting an investigation, Ethiopian Ambassador Engdalkachew Makonnen also suggested that the council invite North Korea to come and give its side of the story.

Some diplomats said neither the Soviet Union nor the United States would object to inviting both North and South Korea to take part in the debate, though neither intended to propose it.

LBj Includes Water, Power Program In Budget

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal water-and-power development program for the Pacific Northwest totaling $70 billion was proposed Monday in President Johnson’s budget for the 13 months beginning July 1.

The $13.7 billion budget of the Bonneville Power Administration contemplates new construction on four 800-kilovolt major transmission grids.

Army Engineers’ construction will continue on major Columbia Basin dams.

The Reclamation Bureau plans a new construction start on the Manson unit of the Chief Joseph Dam project in Washington State. The Army Engineers are asking funds to build the $570,000 John Day River flood control levee project in Oregon in a single year.

A start of preconstruction planning was recommended for the Catherine Creek Reservoir project, eight miles above Union, Ore.

President Johnson appealed to Congress for prompt enactment of legislation to establish the North Cascades National Park and recreation area in Washington.

“We must take steps,” he said in his budget message, “to safeguard our scenic and historic areas and anticipate the resource needs of future generations.”

The budget proposes $975,000 for land acquisition for the San Juan Island National Historical Park in Washington.

All budget items are subject to appropriations by Congress. Discussing natural resources, Mr. Johnson said enactment by Congress of pending legislation to establish a national water commissioner “is essential if we are to deal more effectively with the nation’s critical water problems.”

The budget for the Army Engineers calls for appropriations totaling $95,248,000 for Washington state projects, $48,202,000 for Idaho, and $35,850,000 for Oregon.

Major items are $45.5 million for Dworshak dam in Idaho; $26.3 million for John Day Dam, $24 million for Little Goose; $10 million for Lower Granite, and $16 million for Lower Monumental Dam in Washington.

The Reclamation Bureau requested $50 million for Washington state projects, including $48,803,000 for the Columbia Basin project.

Definite Security Council May Not Have Crisis Solution For Few Days

BOISE (AP) — Legislative leaders agreed generally Monday that Gov. Don W. Samuelson’s message to the special session of the Idaho Legislature was definite and concise.

But a number of lawmakers said that with the governor’s revised figures showing a probable surplus of $5.8 million, they believe a part of that should be given to the schools.

“I feel,” said Sen. William C. Rodon, R-Boise, the majority leader, “the legislature should have an opportunity to decide whether part of the predicted $5.8 million surplus should be used for school financing.”

Security Council May Not Have Crisis Solution For Few Days

By WILLIAM N. OATTS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — One well placed diplomat expressed belief today that no solution to the crisis over North Korea’s capture of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo would be worked out in the U.N. Security Council in the next few days.

Another source suggested that while the council might not adopt any decision in the case, its debate and private consultations would stimulate diplomatic activity elsewhere that eventually would produce a peaceful settlement.

In advance of another council meeting this afternoon, the group’s 10 nonpermanent members were meeting during the morning with Council President Agha Shahi of Pakistan to hear a report on the meeting Sunday between U.S. Ambassador Arthur J. Goldberg and Soviet Ambassador Platon D. Morozov.

U.S. officials would give no information on the meeting between Goldberg and Morozov at the headquarters of the Soviet U.N. mission. Morozov said it was “routine,” that such talks were “usual for any process of consideration of any question before the Security Council.”

It was the first known meeting between Goldberg and Morozov since the council on Friday began debating the U.S. charge that North Korea seized the Pueblo in international waters.

Some diplomats said neither the Soviet Union nor the United States would object to inviting both North and South Korea to take part in the debate, though neither intended to propose it.

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake was recorded at 2:30 a.m. PST today, centering some 4,000 miles northwest of here in the vicinity of the Kurile Islands near Japan, University of California seismologists said.

The temblor was measured as 7.2 on the Richter scale, strong enough to cause damage in populated areas.

Sea, Air Search For Missing Israeli Submarine Increased After Signals

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — The sea and air search for the missing Israeli submarine Dakar was increased today after an Israeli ship intercepted signals that could have come from one of the sub’s radio indicator buoys.

At the other end of the Mediterranean, more than 600 miles away, another rescue task force made underwater soundings as it groped for the French submarine Minerve, which disappeared early Saturday. A total of 121 men are aboard the missing sub.

About 30 ships and aircraft scoured an area between Cyprus and Haifa trying to locate the Dakar’s indicator buoys, which should have risen to the surface automatically if the submarine was in distress. They quickly pressed their search after the Israeli ship Yaffa said it had monitored signals on the same frequency as buoys.

The submarine, carrying a 68-man crew vanished Thursday in case of emergency. The Mine rescue was thought to be missing in water near 6,000 feet deep.

The French submarine is 100 feet long, weighs 800 tons and has a top speed of 18 knots.

Boats and aircraft from the Israeli, Turkish, Greek, U.S. and British navies hunted for the submarine, but officials would not confirm that contact had been made.

The submarine Ariane and the light destroyer Kersaint both reported to the aircraft carrier Cheonenau that they were checking sounds registering on their sonar equipment.

Although officers said the Mine had enough oxygen reserves for her 52-man crew to stay submerged “for several days,” high navy sources said they viewed the situation with “great anxiety.”

Their concern was heightened as the search task force failed to find a buoy the submarine should have sent to the surface since November.

Damage to the city car was estimated at $300. The accident occurred at 9:25 p.m. Saturday, Mr. Stroberg was notified.

City police said the burglar alerted at the store was set off by unknown means and there was no burglary. Sheriff's officers investigated the accident. Among accidents investigated by Idaho State Police over the weekend were two caused by icy roads.

The vehicle, headed east, went across the highway and into a borrow pit. It traveled along the borrow pit, hit a curb, spun around, went over the curb and hit an advertising sign board. The vehicle came to rest on the north side of the road, heading west. When the vehicle began to slide, it was traveling east, officers reported.

Search For 4 Hydrogen Bombs Will Be Pressed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon says that while there's no hope any of four lost hydrogen bombs will be found, the search will be pressed for months if necessary in field Greenland.

Serial numbers on weapons fragments found at the crash site correspond with Strategic Air Command listings of serial numbers on various components on all four bombs, the Pentagon said Sunday.

"We know damned well that those bombs were torn apart when the plane came down and burned," an Air Force colonel said at the crash site on the ice near North Star Bay, 7 1/2 miles from Thule Air Base on Greenland's northwest coast.

Searchers have found the four parachutes that were a vital part of the bombs' delivery systems. A Pentagon nuclear expert, serving as part of the search team, acknowledged that the parachutes are scattered in the dark bay where the plane crashed. He said the parachutes were found separate from anything else, "one source said."

Their purpose is to slow the descent of the weapons in an attack on the area before they explode, Maj. Gen. Richard O. Hunziker, director of the 24-hour-a-day recovery effort, said the four chutes were found in a compact area near the dark burn marks on the ice where the B52 bomber crashed a week ago.

Officers at the scene indicated the search for more fragments may go on until the summer break-up of the bay ice—about June.

Defense officials at the crash scene and in Washington kept a light security lid on the nature of many of the fragments being found so as not to reveal construction details of the bombs, all believed to be in the 1.1 megaton range.

Several search officers said in private that one of their primary missions is to assure Denmark, which governs Greenland, that everything possible is being done to find the bombs and to eliminate any possibility of dangerous radiation.

Defense officials have stated it is impossible for the devices to detonate. They say radiation found at the site so far has been light, closely contained and is considered negligible.

The mechanics of the search are dictated by the severe nature of the Arctic weather and icy terrain.

The Victims

In connection with the tolerant attitude toward reckless motorists which seems to exist, an uncomfortable thought occurs.

Drivers who kill pedestrians or other motorists, not intentionally but as a result of carelessness or intoxication, are usually convicted of manslaughter if justice is done. But what is the penalty?

If there is a jury, or if public opinion is registered by means of a judgment, it may be that such appraisal or condemnation is unconsciously tempered by the fact that nearly everyone concerned is also a driver. The drivers superficially seem to have a tremendous majority over the victims. Are they adequately stern in their judgment of the act that resulted in loss of human life?

There is no way of ascertaining what is in the mind of the average member of society in such situations, which are entirely too numerous. However, there is a realistic way of ascertaining the best policy. That is by a formidable deterrent to the reckless use of automobiles.

States and communities that have strict laws against speeding, reckless driving, intoxicated driving and analogous offenses have the lowest death-by-carelessness rate. Let every citizen first bear in mind that he is a potential victim of a reckless driver. Then he should apply his own case universally, so that a threat against one life is soon to be a threat against thousands of innocent persons.

The cue, then, is to tell legislators that the laws against careless and lawless driving need strengthening—that present laws and enforcement machinery are too lenient.

The potential victim is not really a minority, but the illusion persists.

The Work Loss

Labor-management relations had one of their roughest years in 1967. The Bureau of Labor Statistics reports there were 4,475 strikes, the highest since 1953's 5,001, and they involved 2.9 million workers, the most since 1952's 3.5 million.

Even allowing for the growing number of workers, 1967 was discouraging, for it had the greatest proportion of strikers since 1955. That was more than five workers in 100, by an official calculation, against 6.2 in the earlier year.

What is more, none of these figures include workers laid off in plants affected by strikes but not struck themselves.

Most significantly, strikes cost 41 million man-days of production, the highest since 1959 both in number and in percentage of total working time.

This was, in fact, the fourth highest loss of man-days, and seventh highest percentage of time lost, since 1946—the worst strike year on record in terms of workers out and time lost.

If that extraordinary year, just after World War II, a concentration of prolonged walkouts helped keep 14.5 per cent of employed wage earners off the job for a total of 116 million man-days.

The time lost in 1967 came to three man-days in every 1,000 worked, which does not appear great as a statistic. But 41 million man-days was considerable, especially when many of them were lost in major fields such as automobiles, rubber, copper and teaching. Each of the 4,475 strikes was an example of the failure of men to reach terms on a basis of reason rather than a test of economic, and in some cases political, power.

Despite all the expertise being applied to it, there is clearly much to be learned about the art of collective bargaining.

ANDREW TULLY

Could Be We're Heading Toward A Trap

WASHINGTON — There is a new and perhaps highly significant development in the arm-length negotiations between the United States and the North Vietnam regime over whether peace talks can be held. It could add up to a plus for the U. S. or it could lead us into a trap that would take a big toll in American lives.

That development is that North Vietnam is now hurrying so badly its government has all but decided not to postpone peace talks until after the November election, when there is a chance a new President might be more amenable to making concessions. Hanoi, according to American intelligence sources, needs a breathing spell now — yesterday, as one official put it — "if it is to stay in the game."

It is for this reason, regardless of administration disclaimers to the contrary, that President Johnson has stiffened his terms for the launching of peace talks. Less than a month ago, he was prepared to call a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam and take the calculated risk that Hanoi would respond, not only by coming to the peace table but by descaling its own military activities. Now he cannot accept anything less than a pledge by the communists not to "take advantage of our, restraint as they have in the past."

This, of course, is a switch from Johnson's "master formula" for peace talks as outlined in his State of the Union speech of Jan. 29. At that time, he said the U. S. would stop the bombing if it would lead promptly to "productive discussions." He then added, "We would assume that if it would not take advantage of the bombing cessation or limitation."

In the meantime, the U. S. military has won a temporary diplomatic victory by persuading the President to delay a halt to the bombing to split a few hours, to play a little harder to get.

In doing so, the Joint Chiefs of Staff have mounted the familiar argument that Hanoi would not be putting out a peace bid if its war effort were in good shape. But this time, the Chiefs have offered facts and figures that are much more persuasive than in the past.

These facts and figures are classified, but they state in essence what the Chiefs call "incontrovertible" testimony. Included in this testimony is the fact that the enemy has not won even a medium-sized battle in the past year, that enemy battlefield casualties are soaring, that North Vietnam has been severely damaged, both physically and in the morale of its soldiers and plain people, by the bombing in the North.

In short, the Chiefs claim the Hanoi regime has reached a point of desperation where it no longer can delay a trip to the peace table. Hanoi, therefore, they say, has decided to take advantage of peace talks pressures in the United States to force Johnson's hand. Or, more generally put, "The communists can't wait for November. By then, they may have lost the war."

What the North Vietnamese want according to this theory, is an interlude during which they can prepare military buildup for an all-out offensive. Their strategy is the same as that employed by the North Koreans, who capitalized on the peace talks in the United States and, eventually, started an entirely new war.

The Joint Chiefs have persuaded Johnson that it would be most perilous to give the enemy a chance to get up on its feet again. They argue that only by continuing the pressure on the battlefield and in North Vietnam can the U. S. persuade the enemy to enter into meaningful negotiations toward peace. They want the U. S. to lead from the greatest possible strength at the peace table in order to be sure that Hanoi will be "reasonable."

It can be said that Johnson was uttering the words of the Joint Chiefs when he said in his State of the Union message that the U. S. must insist on some enemy de-escalation. We would jeopardize "the lives of our men and our allies." Today's maddening stalemate in the move to bring the present war to a peace table is preferable to Johnson's decision to what might turn out to be tomorrow's "new war."

"Phew! Missed Me!"

MARQUIS CHILDS

Opinion: McCarthy Is Lost

WASHINGTON — On the average of 200 telegrams, phone calls and letters a day come to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, saying that he alone can save the country from five more years of Lyndon Johnson. And many of the appeals are from politicians and state legislators who wield influence in the Democratic party.

Whether you balance off power, and many of Bobby's critics would put the drive for power at 70 per cent, against duty and patriotism, a final answer is hard to reach. The appeal is louder with the growing conviction that Sen. Eugene McCarthy's campaign for the nomination is getting nowhere.

The President's abject political strategy is certain after a careful reading that McCarthy will not take a single state. Nor would an endorsement by Kennedy add much to his strength.

lack on the cancer of urban decay here at home. He can voice his criticism as he does almost daily. But the Kennedys are activists and he feels deeply frustrated that he cannot do more.

That haunting phrase out of his brother's 1960 campaign runs through his mind: "... to get the country moving again."

Political realism is also a part of the Kennedy makeup, as events have shown. In the watches of the night, the Kennedys are said to be sound sleepers, sleep coming as a reward at the end of each strenuous day—a scenario something like this flickers across the wakened mind.

You have declared your candidacy. You are running for the nomination against the President of your own party and against the counsel of some of your most-trusted advisers. By late May the Kennedy forces around the country have coalesced. In almost every state a buoyant, enthusiastic organization is at work.

Then suddenly from the White House comes a dramatic announcement. The President has asked for national television time to make one of the most important declarations of his on-tire career. To an audience seventy or eighty million over all networks he announces that he is flying to Geneva to meet with representatives of the powers that agreed to the accord of 1954 ending the French-Indo-China War.

Hanoi, after some backing and filling, denounces this effort with a violent statement by Ho Chi Minh as yet another move on the President's part to get victory by negotiation. What do you as candidate Kennedy say at that point? The choice is narrow.

Where does this leave the opposition candidate in the President's own party, with the nominating convention only a few weeks away? In the middle of a war he is caught between President Johnson and President Kennedy. The White House holds most of the high cards and against a Kennedy challenge he would never hesitate to use them.

Kennedy knows that he must in the next two weeks make a decision. A sudden victory would give him a two or three to one that he will stay on. But no one can discount his feeling that without more dynamic and acceptable leadership the country will be in even deeper trouble than it is today.

No-Nonsense Disorder Report

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Contrary to some published reports, the President's commission on civil disorders is not likely to be bound by ordinary budgetary political limits when, around March 1, it turns out an expected list of hard-nosed recommendations.

That does not mean these proposals will carry some massive overall price tag, though rough cost estimates may be attached to certain major items.

It does mean that the commission, currently engaged in compiling its recommendations, is not going to shrink from saying flat out what it thinks needs to be done—regardless of ultimate cost, regardless of the fiscal realities of 1968 or 1969.

There is no convincing evidence that President Johnson has tried so far to safeguard the commission's efforts and keep their coming recommendations within tight fiscal confines.

The bipartisan make-up of the group and the presence on it of such tough-minded members as Mayor John Lindsay of New York and Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma are considered good insurance that the commission will produce a report free of presidential pressure.

bert T. Jenkins. He is seen by some members as thoughtful, pungent, independent-minded, and quite without automatic pro-police bias in critical discussions of disorder.

Already in near-final shape are the commission report's first two major sections—an account of what has happened in the cities, the other the "why" of it.

A member privately describes these sections as sharp, dramatic, sure to hit the American public between the eyes. He expects the recommendations section to match these, and adds: "There has never been a commission report like it."

The commission gave up the idea of putting out an "interim" report and then a final version. Its March 1 deadline for its single smash document is being pressed for. In full awareness that a tardy report could come too late to have any hoped-for dampening effect on possible racial outbreaks in mid-1968.

sweeping objectives "long-range."

Their hope, therefore, is that current deliberations will produce a series of no-nonsense proposals on jobs, housing, schools and the like which they can say should be fulfilled at the earliest conceivable moment.

On schools, they evidently have not yet found the dramatic solution they want. In housing, a loud call for open occupancy seems almost certain. On jobs, they are faced now with finding something even more telling than the President's already announced program for training 500,000 hard-core unemployed (mostly Negroes) in three years.

In full awareness that a tardy report could come too late to have any hoped-for dampening effect on possible racial outbreaks in mid-1968.

Very possibly, too, the commission's recommendations will not be labeled "long-range" and "short-range." Those members who think their work will be useless if they do not have almost a shock impact, believe vital force may be dissipated if they brand their

Open Abscess

How rare Staphylococcus and Streptococcus infections transmitted? What causes blood poisoning? Is there such a thing as Staphylococcus aureus?

A Staphylococcal parasite germs that may be found on the skin and mucous membranes, especially of the nose and mouth, of normal persons. When a break, sometimes so small that it is unnoticed, occurs in the skin or mucous membranes, these germs invade the tissues and produce pain, swelling, redness and thick yellow pus.

There are many different strains of Staphylococci only a few of which cause diseases (rheumatic fever, strep sore throat and erysipelas). These germs may be spread by carriers who are usually persons who have recently had an acute Streptococcus infection. These diseases may also be transmitted through unpasteurized milk.

Both organisms may cause blood poisoning (invasion of the blood stream) and they may sometimes cause pneumonia.

Q — I have had cellulitis in my left leg for five months. It is still very painful. I have been using Epsom salt poultices and a spray on it. What causes this condition? What is the best treatment?

A — Cellulitis is a diffuse infection in the tissues just beneath the skin. It may be caused by various germs but most commonly by the Staphylococcus or Streptococcus. For cellulitis caused by these organisms, hot compresses with or without Epsom salt and injections of penicillin are essential parts of the treatment but, when an abscess forms, it must be opened and drained.

Something Left?

WASHINGTON — When Emil Harwood Booster paid his taxes for 1967, he discovered that he still had $117.50 left over in his bank account. It probably would have been overlooked but he made a habit of stopping in to a friend in a bar about once a week and he was overheard by an Internal Revenue Service agent who reported it to his chief.

An emergency meeting was called of federal, state, county and city officials to discover why Booster still had money left in the bank.

The IRS man said Booster's federal tax return had been checked and it was all in order, so he couldn't be tried for any criminal violations. The state tax official said as far as his people could find out, Booster had paid all state taxes. The county man said his records showed that Booster was clean, and the city man said the same thing.

"Then," the IRS man said, "we can't come to one conclusion. If Booster still has money left over after he has paid his taxes, there is a loophole somewhere in the tax law."

"Wait a minute," said the county tax collector. "If anyone should get the $117.50, it's the county. It would be very easy for us to raise Booster's real estate taxes."

"I object," said the city's representative. "It seems to me the reason Booster got away with this is that our sales tax has been too low. We can up the sales tax by one per cent, make it retroactive and inform Booster he owes us the $117.50."

"There was a lot of angry shouting and finally the IRS man called the meeting to order. He said, 'I should like to do no good. Let's look at this thing calmly. The way I see it, we are not so concerned about the $117.50 as we are about the fact that Booster still had money left over after he paid his taxes. Now we'll all have to admit that this is a very bad precedent and, if Booster can get away with it, everyone else will try to get away with it. We must discover what went wrong and see that it doesn't happen again.'"

"And," said the county man, "we thought the state was going to raise Booster's gasoline taxes, so we didn't raise his water and sewer taxes."

The city man said, "And we thought the county was going to put on a liquor and cigarette tax, so we thought we would pass up an entertainment tax until next year."

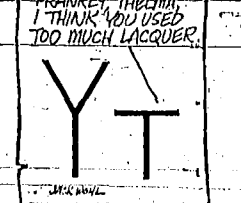

The IRS man said, "It seems to be a comedy of errors, and the only one who is laughing right now is Booster. The solution to the problem, as I see it, is to set up a co-ordinating committee and in 1968 tax Booster an extra $117.50 which he failed to pay in 1967. We could split the $117.50 among all of us so Booster would have no idea what we were doing."

"It's not a bad idea," the state man said. "But I think there should be some punitive damage added. It's true that Booster didn't violate any laws, but he knew as well as we did that if he had any money at the end of the year, it belonged to one of us."

"That's true," the county man said. "But I should have come clean and told us he still had the money left in the bank and then let us adjust our tax rates accordingly."

"I say give it to the Grand Jury," the city man said. "Any guy who has any money left over after he pays his taxes has got to be guilty of something."

Everyone agreed and the IRS man said, "It's guys like Booster who give inflation a bad name."

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: The letter from the mother whose adopted son broke her heart interested me because I have known many such cases. She wrote in part:

"We adopted that boy when he was a week old, and loved him more than our own flesh and blood. We prayed for him constantly. Yet between the ages of 15 and 18, he went from skipping school to robbery to rape. Our hearts are broken. Our son raised in a good Christian home. We went to church every Sunday and never had tobacco or liquor in the house. Where have our prayers gone?"

And you replied: "You speak of your prayer as though it were the premiums you paid for insurance against all ills and evils. It is not. Prayer is simply a talk with one's God. No amount of prayer will protect another from the consequences of his own behavior. Each man must do his own praying, just as each man must accept the consequences of his own acts."

That was fine, as far as you went, Abby, but you could have given that mother real consolation by pointing out that since the boy was adopted, he could have inherited bad blood. Haven't you ever heard of that, Abby? What do parents of adopted children really know about the child's bloodline? It is apparent that if an adopted child goes wrong with good Christian upbringing, the reason must lie in heredity. You missed the boat.

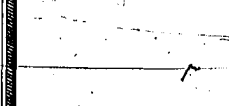

DISAPPOINTED

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: That "boat" you speak of was wrecked against the rocks of reason years ago.

There is no such thing as "bad blood." Nature is there "good blood." Character, integrity, honesty, and fair play are not inherited thru the bloodstream; they are TAUGHT. And not all who have been exposed to the good, moral, and ethical, "learn" it.

DEAR ABBY: I read your verse about being thankful for dirty dishes. I cut it out and keep it over my sink as a reminder when I am tempted to complain about doing dishes.

Next to dishes, I think ironing is the hardest of all house-keeping chores, so I paraphrased your "dirty dishes" verse and wrote the following:

"Thank God for clothes to iron. They have a tale to tell; While other folks are poorly clad, We're dressing very well. With Home and Health and Happiness We shouldn't fret or fuss, For by this stack of evidence God's very good to us."

MRS. D. E. WILSON, JR.
Borger, Texas

DEAR ABBY: I have been providing two co-workers with transportation to and from work every day, five days a week, roughly 10 months a year. One has been riding with me for three years, the other for two, and would you believe neither one has ever offered to put in a gallon of gas?

For Christmas I got one card from the two of them, with a sweet verse "to someone nice." If they had to take bus to work and back every day it would cost them each 50 cents, yet I would be satisfied with only a dime. I drive anyway. My husband says I should either tell them to kick in or quit beefing about it. What do you say?

Jack 'Murph The Surf' Murphy Is Charged With Robbery And Assault

By FRANK MURRAY
 MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Jack "Murph the Surf" Murphy, the beachboy jewel thief and former gunman, dove through the glass door of a mansion Sunday into a sunlit with police.

The blond surfing champion, diver, ladies man and amateur violinist whose suave good looks were his trademark was no longer handsome when he arrived at police headquarters for a lineup in bare feet, bloody handgrips, handcuffs and a backless yellow hospital gown.

Murphy and three other men were charged with the pistol-point robbery of a wealthy widow, her young housemaid and 8-year-old niece in a Millionaire's Row mansion.

Murphy, 32, who stole the Star of India and the DeWing Ruby Paul Gagnon, 26, Bobby Greenwood, 32, and Salvatore Greco, 26, were charged with armed robbery and assault with intent to kill. Bond was set on each at $75,000, then boosted to $100,000 and then canceled.

They were arrested after a wild gunfight with more than a dozen officers on quiet Pine Tree Drive, just across Indian Creek Canal from the Fontainebleau Hotel, about noon Sunday.

Registration Of Firearms Ruled Against

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court ruled today that the government cannot force individuals to register their sawed-off shotguns, machine guns, and certain other firearms because to do so may unconstitutionally require them to incriminate themselves.

The decision was 7 to 1 with Chief Justice Earl Warren dissenting.

The ruling was handed as a companion case to one in which the court ruled that federal gunning tax registration provisions also impermissibly require self-incrimination.

The federal law making it a crime to possess certain kinds of unregistered firearms was successfully challenged by Miles Edward Haynes, of Dallas, Tex., who was sentenced to four years in prison on conviction of possessing an unregistered shotgun.

Haynes contended he was being punished for refusing to incriminate himself by declaring himself the possessor of an unregistered shotgun. Forced self-incrimination is prohibited by the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

The National Firearms Act grew out of the attempted assassination of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933. It imposes annual occupational taxes on those who manufacture, import or sell certain firearms, and puts a tax on the transfer of some other guns.

This gives the government some means of keeping track of weapons such as short-barrel shotguns, machine guns and silencers. The Justice Department told the court the law was designed to make it more difficult for "the gangster element" to obtain these weapons.

The department defended the provision against the self-incrimination argument. The shotguns, the department said, may not have been registered before Haynes acquired it. Thus, the department said, his prosecution is not necessarily based on his own failure to register the weapon.

Rockefeller Said Best GOP Hope

By The Associated Press
 A key group of Republican leaders concludes Nelson A. Rockefeller would be their best vote-getter in the presidential election but that Richard M. Nixon is first choice among party professionals. In New Hampshire, supporters of George Romney express worry about a Rockefeller write-in campaign.

As for the man the Republicans are expected to run against, the Gallup Poll reported President Johnson's popularity has gone up 10 per cent since October.

The only announced Democratic candidate, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, proposed a Latin-American program that would include the return of Cuba into the family of nations.

Republican chairmen from 11 states of the heavily populated Northeast plus Washington, D.C., agreed at a Saturday meeting in New York on Rockefeller as a potential presidential nominee and Nixon's popularity with party professionals.

The leaders' conclusions were presented to newsmen without details. It was reported they reached no formal conclusion.

A spokesman said they didn't seem to be much enthusiasm for Romney at the two-day closed meeting.

Rockefeller has maintained he isn't a candidate and supports Romney for the nomination.

But Romney, now traveling with his candidate in New Hampshire expressed fear of a Rockefeller write-in vote in the March 12 primary there. Such development, they said, could cut into Romney's support.

The Gallup-Poll said Johnson's popularity rating, which now stands at 48 per cent of the public approving the way he's doing his job, is his highest figure since his June meetings with Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in Glassboro, N.J. After Glassboro his figure was 52 per cent.

In the new poll, 38 per cent of those interviewed expressed disapproval and 13 per cent were undecided.

Dr. George Gallup said factors involved in the rise in Johnson's popularity are:

—Many people apparently think he has shown more aggressiveness in dealing with problems;

—There is more optimism concerning Vietnam;

—Democrats seem to be rallying around him as the probably candidate;

—McCarthy, who's running in six presidential primaries in opposition to Johnson's Vietnam policies, said in proposing a political-economic reform program for Latin America:

"We ought to see if things couldn't be gained to Cuba. We deal with Tito (of Yugoslavia). No point in letting this Cuban situation stand forever."

McCarthy told the Inter-American Forum of the United States Catholic Council meeting in St. Louis that Cuba's Latin neighbors could help the Communist country "move toward a fuller life for its people, unshackle the chains in which she is caught... free its political prisoners, and begin to move toward freedom."

Pope Paul Talks With Dr. Barnard

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI talked for 20 minutes today with Dr. Christian N. Barnard and congratulated him on his work in heart transplant operations.

The Pope told the South African surgeon, who is a Protestant, that he prayed his efforts would be of benefit to humanity.

Barnard said after the audience he was "very satisfied" with the meeting.

Vatican sources did not say whether the Pope had raised any question of morality with regard to heart transplants. But it was taken for granted that the pontiff at least touched on it in his expressions of hope that such operations would be for the good of mankind.

Chemical Plant Swept By Blaze

PARIS (AP)—A spectacular explosive fire swept through the industrial suburb of St. Denis, north of Paris, but no one was hurt.

By mid-morning the blaze appeared to be under control, but it was not expected to burn out for at least another day. Three hundred firemen fought the flames, which at times towered 60 feet above blazing tanks filled with flammable liquids.

Miners Eking Out Harsh Existence On Benefits

By JACK LEFLER
 NEW YORK (AP)—Western open pit miners and their families are eking out a harsh existence on union benefits, food stamps and credit as efforts to settle the six-month-old copper industry strike are being intensified.

The strike, called last July 15 by the United Steelworkers of America and 25 other unions, has idled nearly 60,000 workers and cut off more than 90 per cent of the nation's copper production and 35 per cent of the lead and zinc output.

The impact has been heavy, too, on businesses and governments of the big copper producing states—Arizona, Utah, New Mexico, Montana and Nevada.

"Food stamps have saved the day," says Wayne Tom Powers of Butte, Mont. "If it wasn't for the stamps, I'd have been dead along with a lot of other small grocers."

The impact has been hardest in small towns of the West, where copper is their only industry. But it has been felt in some Eastern areas, where copper fabricating is concentrated.

"You know a man is hurting when he comes in and spends his collection of silver dollars on food," said a supermarket manager in Perth Amboy, N.J., in nearby Carteret, N.J., union benefits, food stamps and credit as efforts to settle the six-month-old copper industry strike are being intensified.

But despite the hardships, "We're doing all right," Most of the strikers have used up their savings by now. They are getting up to $30 a week in union benefits and are receiving food stamps from the government.

Phelps Dodge Corp., Arizona's highest copper producer, has company-owned houses and company stores have extended up to $35 a week in credit.

The strike has shut down mines producing copper, silver, molybdenum, zinc and lead and smelters, refineries and fabricating plants in 23 states.

 NEEDLESS BLINDNESS FROM CATARACTS
 Q. I'm 72 and have very poor vision because of cataracts. Is it too late to have surgery?
 A. No person need be handicapped by uncorrected cataracts because of age alone. The only consideration is the patient's life expectancy. At 72 one would reasonably expect a good many years of enjoyable life ahead. Why not restore useful vision? Recent advances in cataract surgery have made it possible to restore sight in almost every case, with only slight inconvenience and very little danger. Consult an eye specialist.

President Johnson Hands Congress $76.7 Billion Defense Budget

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson handed Congress today a $76.7 billion defense budget reflecting "our resolve to preserve the independence of Vietnam" and provide the nuclear and conventional forces essential to national security.

His military spending proposals for the 1969 fiscal year are nearly $3 billion bigger than this year. Vietnam accounts for one-third of the entire military budget.

But except for Vietnam war costs, it is essentially a hold-down budget with few surprises. Johnson said the money he is asking for the 12 months beginning July 1 "will cover all currently anticipated defense requirements for the fiscal year, including the possibility of combat in Vietnam beyond this period."

The new defense budget was completed before the crisis developed last week over North Korea's seizure of the U.S. intelligence ship, Pueblo.

Nobody knows how long that crisis will last, or whether North Korea's new challenge will trigger a major expansion in U.S. military strength.

Nearly 14,000 air reservists already have been mustered for indefinite active duty. More services, possibly ground troops, may be called.

Assuming the Pueblo crisis can be solved before the next fiscal year opens five months from now, Johnson is planning a 13,000-man cut in the total of men under arms to 3,477,000 by June 30, 1969.

At the same time, present in-entions are to reach $25,000 million in Vietnam and to stay at about that level throughout the 1969 fiscal year. About 517,000 U.S. troops will be in place by June 30—the end of the 1968 fiscal year.

Whether Johnson can carry out this plan depends on the course of the war, he and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said a year ago they felt they could hold the force level in Vietnam to about 480,000.

The military cost of the Viet-

Koreans Driven From Line

SEOUL, Korea (AP) — U.S. troops drove back North Korean infiltrators along the Korean armistice line again early today as the diplomatic drive to avert war over North Korea's seizure of the U.S. spy ship Pueblo focused on the United Nations.

Shooting occurred along the demilitarized zone for the eighth straight day.

And with the North Koreans giving no ground in the crisis over the Pueblo, the Pentagon said it was strengthening U.S. air power in the Far East with an unspecified number of planes.

A spokesman in Washington brushed aside questions on the type of aircraft and units involved, saying only that their deployment was one of a series of "precautionary measures" taken since North Korea captured the Pueblo and her 83-man crew last Monday.

The Navy froze most requests for discharge from members of Naval Reserve units. This followed President Johnson's call-up of 4,600 Air Reservists Thursday.

South Korea was also increasing its preparedness, announcing that "quick reaction" army units would be stationed along the border with North Korea.

The Japanese newspaper reported that a Soviet destroyer equipped with missiles and another ship were shadowing the Enterprise, while another Soviet ship was anchored in the Taishima Strait between Japan and South Korea.

Malta Slates Water Meet Wednesday

MALTA — A district-wide meeting is scheduled for 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Raft River High School gymnasium to establish a legally incorporated organization of landowners to coordinate development of Snake River and other water projects.

Pat Kelley, who was named chairman of the project at a planning meeting last week, said that it is hoped that if the landowners group is formed, a legal representation will be able to work for the citizens with the Southern Idaho Water Users Association in water development for this area.

Attending the planning session were representatives from the Cassia Soil Conservation District, the Malta Lion Club and Raft River farm committee men and Heber Zollinger, board members of the Southern Idaho Water Users Association.

This meeting will be important to all agricultural people within the East Cassia Soil Conservation District, which includes the area from the Snake River on the north through Coalinga Creek to the south as far as the Ulni border and extends along the east boundary of Cassia County.

There are some 27,000 acres in the area under irrigation and it is believed that 120,000 additional acres could be put under cultivation if the water resources were developed fully.

Executive director of the South Idaho Water Users Association, George Forschler, will be the speaker and a film "People, Land and Water" will be shown. Attorney Herman Bedke will be the legal adviser.

A question period will be held to explain the proposed program to those in attendance.

Casper Resists Late Challenge By Palmer To Win L.A. Golf Tourney

By BOB MYERS
PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Billy Casper, resisting a challenge by Arnold Palmer on the closing hole, steamed in to capture the 42nd annual $100,000 Los Angeles Open Golf Tournament Sunday, firing a safe 70-under-par 60 for a 72-hole total of 274, 10 strokes under par.

Palmer, who took up the pursuit of Casper when Al Gelberger's threat began to fade, finished second with a 69 for 277, and Gelberger had to settle for third with 72 for 278.

The 30-year-old Casper has won many major tournaments, including the U.S. Open twice, but this was his first triumph in the Los Angeles classic, which was played for the first time on Pasadena's Brookside Municipal course.

The victory was worth $20,000 to the California veteran, while Palmer earned $12,000 and Gelberger $7,500.

Casper toured Brookside's 7,021 yards, par 36-35-71, in an almost casual 35-34-69 as against Palmer's 35-33-69, and Gelberger's 37-35-72.

Casper started the round one stroke in front of Gelberger and John Schlee, the latter getting into the scene Saturday with an spectacular 65. Schlee went on to finish with a 74 in the final round for 280. Palmer was four shots behind Casper setting forth.

Casper's best previous effort in this tournament was third in 1966. It was his first victory, oddly enough, in the United States since he won the 1965 Western Open. Since then, however, he won the Canadian Open and the 1967 Carling World in Canada.

Other finishing scores found Schlee tied with Dave Mearns who had a 69, and George Archer, with a 69.

Dave Hill, 70, was alone at 281, and Ray Floyd, 68, and Leo Trevino, 71, tied at 282.

George Knudson and Gardner Dickinson, each with a 70, and Miller Byler, 73, and Ed Block, 283, Welskopf, whose 66 put him in the action Saturday, had a 76 for 286 and Dave Stockton, another in the earlier running, shot a 75 for 285.

"I felt good all day, I wasn't nervous, worried all day," Casper said.

U.S. Team Winds Up Pre-Olympic Trials

OSLO, Norway (AP) — The U. S. Olympic biathlon team wound up their four-week stay in Norway Sunday with a fourth and sixth-place finish in their final pre-Olympic competition.

John Eversole of Old-Farm, New York, surprised experts with a strong performance, ending up in fourth place in the final standings behind three Norwegians.

Among the team's other triumphs, Jon Westad, John Chaffee of Lyme, N.H., placed sixth.

The biathlon is a 20-kilometer cross country ski race with shooting at intervals on a 100-meter course. For each miss, one minute is added to the time a racer uses to cover the distance.

Eversole's time was one hour, 30.32 minutes, including five penalty minutes. Winner Ivar Eide had 1:27.51, including four penalty minutes.

Chaffee's final time was 1:33.38, including six penalty minutes.

Bill Spencer of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Ed Williams of Rose-dale, N.Y., ended up in 15th and 17th places, respectively. Spencer was clocked in 1:36.10 including 10 penalty minutes, and Williams in 1:36.51, including six penalty minutes.

C. C. Parker of Birmingham, Ala., the American coach, said he was pleased with the performance of his team but added he hoped they could do better in the Olympics next month.

"We will go down to Letha, Sweden, and start our training and take part in the last competitions before the Olympics," Parker said.

"Considering the poor training conditions we had in Alaska this season, I would say the boys have put on a good show. My boys have taken part in several test races here since we arrived Jan. 6, and they have improved all the time.

"I hope they will reach their peak in the Olympics, where I think our best chances lie in the relay race."

The best individual American in the Innsbruck Olympics in 1964 placed 10th in the biathlon competition. At that time no relay race was held.

"I think we can put up a team of four very even racers in the relay competition, and I hope they can grab a medal at best," Parker said.

Some Grid Team Will Battle With Houston, Over Stabler

By MURRAY CHASS
NEW YORK (AP) — Although the merger of the American and National Football Leagues ended an expensive bidding war, some football team is about to wage a fresh skirmish with the Houston Astros over Ken Stabler.

The New York Mets selected Stabler the second-round draft pick Saturday, and some AFL or NFL team is certain to pick quarterback Stabler early in the pro football draft Tuesday.

"I'll just wait and see how things go in the football draft before deciding what to do," the 22-year-old Alabama senior said from his home in Foley, Ala., after learning the Astros had drafted him.

The New York Mets selected Stabler a year ago, but the tough new hurdle of baseball and football's winter free agent draft Saturday, and some AFL or NFL team is certain to pick quarterback Stabler early in the pro football draft Tuesday.

Stabler was the only football player who had been picked in previous drafts but who hadn't signed contracts.

Stabler was eligible in the regular phase of the draft but was passed up in the summer selections.

Stabler was the only football player drafted at least two others were named in the special phase.

Bruce Matthe, the Mid-American Conference's all-star quarterback from Miami, Ohio, in 1965 and 1966, was selected by the New York Mets. Matthe is a right-handed pitcher.

Ed Mantle, an outstanding defensive back for Syracuse last season, was tabbed by the Pittsburgh Pirates. Mantle previously had been drafted three other times.

Cuyler, Goslin Named To Hall Of Fame

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
NEW YORK (AP) — The late Kiki Cuyler, who won the 1925 World Series for Pittsburgh with a base hit, and Goose Goslin, who led the same team for 10 years later, were named to baseball's Hall of Fame Sunday.

Former commissioner Ford Frick said the election of the two outfielders, who made their imprint on the sport in the 1920s and '30s was unanimous.

The Veterans Committee votes on all players who have been out of the game for more than 20 years. Earlier this week, Cuyler and Goslin were named to the Baseball Writers Association of America elected Joe "Ducky" Medwick to the Hall.

"It's a marvelous thing," the Associated Press in speaking of his election by telephone from his Bridgeton, N.J., home, "I appreciate it very much."

Asked if he had any special memories of his 18 major league seasons, Goslin said:

"I was lucky enough to get the hit that won the 1935 Series. I also got six straight hits (with Washington) in the World Series '32 (a record) and nobody ever has come close to that."

Goslin's hit, which gave Detroit the 1935 Series over the Chicago Cubs, was a single off Lon Warneke in the bottom of the ninth inning that drove in Hal of Famer Mickey Cochrane.

Cuyler's Series winning hit, a bases-loaded double off the legendary Walter Johnson, came in the eighth inning of the seventh game on a gloomy, rainy day in Pittsburgh. It produced three runs and gave Pittsburgh a 9-7 victory.

Cuyler, who died in 1950, drove in six runs altogether in the seven games. In that same Series, a Washington outfielder Cuyler Cug, hit three home runs and also drove in six runs.

Goslin, born Leon Allen Goslin at Salem, N.J., Oct. 16, 1900, started his major league career with Washington in 1921 and ended with the same club in 1938. He also played with the St. Louis Browns and Detroit while compiling a .316 lifetime batting average.

Three times he hit three home runs in a game and had a total of 248.

Cuyler, born Hazen Shirley Cuyler Aug. 30, 1900, in Hillsville, Mich., played parts of two seasons with Pittsburgh and then played 16 full seasons from 1923-1939 with the Pirates, Cubs, Cincinnati and Brooklyn.

He compiled a .321 lifetime batting average and drove in 10 consecutive hits and three times collected six straight hits.

Chionoi Retains Flyweight Title

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Charly Chionoi of Thailand successfully defended his version of the world flyweight championship Sunday night by stopping Efraim Torres of Mexico in the 13th round of their scheduled 15-round bout.

The referee, Arthur Marcante of New York, stopped the fight with the Mexican bleeding profusely from the left eye.

Chionoi weighed 109 1/2, two pounds less than Torres in the fight for the title that is recognized by Ring Magazine. The World Boxing Association recognizes Horacio Accavallo of Argentina as champion.

Alcindor Said Not Ready For Pro Ball

By TED MEIER
NEW YORK (AP) — Low Alcindor, the college basketball star like Wil Chamberlain of Philadelphia and Bill Russell of Boston each pull down more than $100,000 a year.

"That salary is liable to be the biggest ever in the pros where stars like Wil Chamberlain of Philadelphia and Bill Russell of Boston each pull down more than $100,000 a year.

"Alcindor could be the first million-dollar athlete in the pros," said Joe Lapchick, the retired coach of St. John's University who once coached the pro New York Knicks and played with the original New York Celtics nearly 50 years ago.

Bob Cousy, one of the all-time pros with the Boston Celtics and now coach of Boston College, agreed after watching Alcindor in action for the first time.

"He could develop into a greater player than Chamberlain or Russell," Cousy said. "He has better moves right now and rebounds as well."

Big Low appeared completely recovered from the eye injury he suffered in the California game which caused him to miss two games and play a subpar game when Houston broke UCLA's 47-game winning streak Jan. 20.

Asked if he had trouble with his eye against Boston College, Alcindor replied, "No trouble."

Alcindor, who is vying for the title of the year's best player, said he is not ready to play professional basketball at this time.

The 7-foot-1 giant for UCLA's national collegiate champions made the remark Saturday night after he had scored 28 points and grabbed 17 rebounds in pacing the Bruins to an 84-77 victory over Boston College.

"I'm not pushed around a lot and when I started pushing back they seemed to call the fouls on me," said Alcindor who was banished on five personals in the closing seconds.

"I'll have to learn to cope with the roughness," Big Low went on to say for the moment he is cool, but I don't think I'm capable of playing pro ball now. I have to get stronger."

Maybe Alcindor doesn't think he's capable of playing in the pros now in his junior year, but the 23-year-old star is sure to be the most sought after collegian in the pro draft after his graduation from UCLA in 1969.

Asked what team he would prefer to play with the pros Alcindor, who is vying for the title of the year's best player, said he is not ready to play professional basketball at this time.

Penz Wins Five-Day Ski Competition

MEGEVE, France (AP) — France's Alain Penz edged Franz Diggruber of Austria and Jim Heliga of Squaw Valley, Calif., Sunday to win the title in the last event of a five-day Alpine ski competition.

Penz, who never had won an international race, was clocked in two minutes, 4.62 seconds for the two runs while Diggruber came in at 2:05.06 and Heliga at 2:05.24. "Rik" Chaffee of Rutland, Vt., was seventh in 2:05.08.

Bill Kidd of Stowe, Vt., one of the favorites, fell on the first run and did not make the second.

In addition to Kidd, Spider Sabich of Kyburz, Calif., and Harry Ryan of Rutland, Vt., also fell in the first run.

Heliga wound up eighth in the combined, which included two giant slaloms and the last slalom. Bernard Orsel of France won the combined although he finished ninth in the last race. Penz was runner-up to his countryman.

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers announced Sunday they have traded veteran defensive end John Baker to the Detroit Lions for linebacker Wally Hilgenberg in a straight player deal.

Baker, 33, is a 10-year veteran of the National Football League.
