Police Move T. F. Man Takes Part In Crowds In Hippy Area 3 Rescues Off Vietnam

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police hurried tear gas and marched into crowds in massed formations Sunday to clear streets of pedestrians who were blocking traffic in the Haight-Ashbury hippie district.

More than 90 persons were arrested. Cars were backed up for blocks around, police said, and the crowds refused to get off the streets.

Police gave this account: Two squad cars from Park Station answered the original trouble call but quickly summoned reinforcements.

Some 20 squad cars arrived, along with five tactical command units and 15 motorcycle officers.

The police formed columns and used three-foot long batons to clear the Haight-Ashbury intersection.

Bottles were thrown from rooftops as the officers made their march.

After the arrests, clusters of people remained along the sidewalk, holding handkerchiefs over their noses as a heavy fog cover kept the tear gas fumes in the area. One youth donned a gas mask over his, shoulder-length hair.

Police said crowds in the area had increased during the balmy afternoon. There was an unusual influx of young people and other visitors.

The disturbance continued from midafternoon until 8:30 p.m., when the police radio called in tear-gas equipment.

Officers at City Prison said charges against those arrested were mostly for failure to disperse, but included assault, resisting arrest and inciting a riot.

News Of Record ELMORE COUNTY Sheriff's Office

No one was injured when two autos collided after the first one skidded, early Friday morning near Glenna Ferry. A 1963 Chevrolet Station Wagon driven by Samuel A. Carra, 42, Enumclaw, Wash., traveling east on Highway 20, two and one-half miles west of Glenna Ferry was being passed by a '67 Chevrolet two-door sedan driven by Mary Egusquiza, 15, Hammett, when she hit an icy spot and lost control. Her car slid off the road and was struck on the left side by the stationwagon, doing some $200 damage to the sedan and $150 to the wagon. Carra was accompanied by his son, Carl, 17, also Enumclaw, and in the sedan was riding Vangel Gonzalez, 15, Hammett. Miss Egusquiza was cited for failure to be cautious and prudent.

Alrman Larry Wahl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell West, Twin Falls, serving aboard the USS Kearsarge, based off the coast of South Vietnam, was a member of a helicopter crew which made three rescue rescues during January.

The helicopter, in all three instances, was making mail deliveries to other ships in the fleet when they were diverted to make the rescues.

Alrman Wahl, 20, is scheduled to receive a citation for these rescues. He has previously received the Air Medal.

He was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1964 and has been in the Navy for three years.

Who Really Gains?

There seems to be some sort of Parkinson's law to the effect that the more that is done to aid the disadvantaged members of society, the worse off some of them will be. Or perhaps the Bible best expressed it: "For unto every one that hath shall be given, and he shall have abundance; but from him that hath not shall be taken away even that which he hath."
 The federal minimum wage, lifted to $1.60 an hour as of Feb. 1, has come in for the lumps.
 The minimum wage, claims Yale Brozen, economics professor at the University of Chicago, has actually increased, rather than decreased, poverty in America. More than that, it is a direct cause of urban riots, he says.
 Before the minimum went to $1, he says, unemployment among nonwhite and white male teen-agers was roughly the same. Since then, unemployment among nonwhites has been 50 to 150 per cent greater than among whites.
 "The greatest help we can give the Negro today is to repeal the statutory minimum wage," he says. "By raising it, we are forestalling opportunity for Negro teen-agers who cannot get the jobs where they could learn the skills that would enable them to earn far more than the minimum."
 Goodwill Industries officials in some cities have expressed fear that the new minimum may force them to cut back on some of their unskilled workers—those most in need of the employment Goodwill provides.
 If one defines poverty as the measure of the distance between those who have and those who have not, even the recent rise in social security benefits has widened this gap.

Side Benefits

One of the valuable by-products of industry of the billions of dollars being spent on space adventures by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration is the number of fantastically accurate instruments being developed for space capsules and the ground control centers which monitor them.
 While some of these have no present usefulness in private industry, the techniques of measurement and testing which they represent have uses in a much broader field than space exploration. There is no question but that space research has led to industrial advances which otherwise might have waited decades for an economic need great enough to develop.
 Judging by a recent search by NASA engineers, the space researchers are learning a few things from past masters of the inventive art. In need of help in constructing a satellite instrument which will be used to measure the magnetic field in space, scientists at the Goddard Space flight Center at Greenbelt, Md., put out an SOS for a theodolite—an instrument invented in the 19th century and used extensively in the early years of the 20th.
 Consisting mainly of a telescope mounted on a revolvable table marked with measurements of horizontal angles, the theodolite formerly was used to measure the angle of inclination of the earth's magnetic field. It will be used to measure the precise alignment of three coils of wire in the space device.
 Fortunately, a theodolite was found on a shelf at the Fredericksburg, Geomagnetic Center of the Environmental Science Services Administration of the Department of Commerce. It had not been used since the early 1930s.
 It is not space science alone which will put the first man on the moon. Some relatively prehistoric efforts have gone into it too.

THE AMERICAN DESERTERS
 Making the big news recently in both television and press have been the American servicemen who have deserted and have given various reasons for their stance. Most emphasize their disapproval of the Vietnam war.
 At this time detailed reports on all of the young men, their backgrounds, their interests are not available. But Airman Apprentice Michael J. Lindner, who, with three shipmates, deserted, almost four months ago in Japan, has bewondered his parents of Pocono, Pa. Firing blasts about the Vietnam War and at the United States, these young men may lack understanding of the extent of the damage they are unleashing on our country.
 Young Mr. Lindner is reported to have scored a high IQ at Mt. Pocono High School and was an average student. Provoking material for consideration is the fact that he flunked two subjects—history and Problems of American Democracy, a course in social studies.
 No doubt many average students would agree there are more difficult courses included in high school curriculums and that to flunk these may testify to lack of inter-

No Snow-White Crusaders In Politics

WASHINGTON—Among other things, the outlaw New York garbage strike has reminded all of us that there are no snow-white crusaders on splintered chargers among the politicians of either party.
 Apparently we've got to elect some joker. President in November, but we should try to remember that none of them could be elected god in any honest way by running for President, is today's prime example. Asked by Mayor John Lindsay to call up the National Guard to clear the city streets of more than 100,000 tons of garbage, Rockefeller reacted predictably—that is to say, as a politician.
 Instead of complying with Lindsay's request, Rockefeller surrendered to the garbage collectors' union, whose boss just happens to be one of the governor's most enthusiastic supporters. He named a new mediation panel and this reopened negotiations with the union after he had ignored Lindsay's deadline for ending the strike. In doing so, Rockefeller found it convenient, and undoubtedly politically felicitous, to release from jail the union president, John J. DeLury, who has been assigned to poke for violating the Taylor Law, prohibiting strikes by public employees.

 Lindsay had refused to negotiate further with the union on grounds that can only be applauded by plain citizens and, indeed, were applauded by New York City's Democratic organization, which seldom has a kind word for the partisan Republican mayor. The city, said Lindsay, would refuse to pay "blackmail" to law breakers.
 "Now is the time and here is the place," deposed Lindsay "for the city to determine what it is made of; whether it will bow to unlawful force or whether it will resist with all the strength and courage that 8,000,000 people can find within themselves."
 These were brave words and properly uttered, and Lindsay deserves much credit for saying them. In the industry of honest reporting, however, it must be pointed out that they came late in the day. The mayor had just come, as it were, from making costly wage settlements with the city's teachers and bus and sub-

Breaking The Sound Barrier

It's not enough to point the way; somebody has to show the way.
 Since the Olympics of prehistory, the strongest, the bravest and the most fleet of foot hurried themselves against the objectives of a four-minute mile. Roger Bannister finally cracked the psychological barrier in June, 1954. Within two months John Landy did; within 10 years, a dozen others.
 My parents' generation believed man could never travel faster than 60 miles an hour "or the wind would suck his breath away."
 Barney Oldfield drove 70; now everybody does.
 We waited through 3,500 years of recorded history to hurl anything into orbit about the earth. The Russians showed it could be done, Oct. 4, 1957. Within three months the United States duplicated their feat.
 In 1967, for the first time, a doctor in South Africa transplanted a human heart. Within 13 days five hearts were transplanted.
 For centuries men had predicted that it could and would be done but some uncommon man had to run on ahead reach out, bring the goal within reach of the rest of us.
 The Old Testament sought to "point" the way to heaven. That was not enough. Christ had to "show" the way.
 "Follow Me," He said.
 Individuals move mountains in many ways for better or worse.
 One tenacious, persevering woman got prayers removed from all but public schools.
 One determined, dedicated man forced the world's great car-makers to make major modifications.
 Five British girl typists, dedicated to the proposition that a typewriter should help the country which has bankrupt itself helping them, offered recently to work an extra 30 minutes a day without pay. Five stenographers thus started a campaign which has swept that man and spread through Europe.
 The most effective evangelist is the one who practices what he preaches.
 The most successful business administrators are; themselves on the job early.
 The leader always has to be out front.
 Further, to be worthy examples—worth following—you—your marriage—your business—demand tireless fence-mending and ceaseless improvement.
 And your country.
 Two hundred years ago we Americans created a representative government so effective, so efficient that our Americanism became the envy of the world.
 Watching us, the entire enlightened world sought to imitate us.
 It was after we became confused that they did.
 The Republic, born in Philadelphia, needs to be reborn.
 Our Americanism, revitalized, can again inspire the emulation of others. There is no easier way. We can't bribe them, force them, scare them. We have to show them.
 We can lead only by example.

Can We Deal With The Reds?

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Whether this year or some other, negotiations with the Communist in Vietnam must be considered a live possibility. It may be useful, in this moment of heightened tension over war prospects, to examine what such an undertaking might be like.
 Since the talks with the Red Chinese in Warsaw are a meaningless exercise, the Korean truce negotiations of 1951-53 are the only sustained example we have of dealing with the Reds at the bargaining table.
 The evidence supplied by our chief negotiators at Kaesong and Panmunjom is stunning. It is not the smallest exaggeration to say that in the entire two-year period there was not one simple moment of reasonable verbal interchange between the "negotiating parties."
 The North Korean and Chinese negotiators proved themselves from the outset to be 24-hour-day liars. Throughout the wearying discussions, they devoted themselves wholly to distracting the raising of false issues, to the creation of incidents designed to affect the talks, to endlessly repeated, long propaganda harangues aimed at frustrating us and weakening our resolve.
 It took 17 days merely to agree on what to talk about. Agreement on a temporary truce line, revised at the time of the truce signing to fit final battlefield positions, required more than seven months of discussion.
 When the truce negotiations began, the Reds tried to get the line 20 miles behind our front-line positions. At some points they had it running behind our division headquarters.
 After the temporary line was set, the Reds sought to repudiate it. They even disputed sections of it which they themselves had penciled in.
 For long months at a time, the talks were in total suspension. A two-month lull off occurred at Red instigation after they falsely charged we had bombed the Kaesong truce site. We never would talk there again, which explains the switch to Panmunjom.
 Some 18 months were required to settle the crucial prisoner exchange issue, in which we were insistent that no prisoners be held should be forced to return north. In the end we gave some 62,000 of the 132,000 we held desired to stay free when the issue finally was resolved in our favor.
 While that issue was stalemated (talks were in suspension for more than seven months) out of the 48 during which it was in), hundreds of thousands of battlefield casualties were suffered on both sides.
 When an armistice (not a peace pact) finally was signed in July 1953, we had gained more than the major points we sought at the outset two years earlier. Most of those we lost hampered our necessity of checking constantly to prevent a new North Korean military buildup which has, in fact, taken place and will be a limiting factor in our ability to assist

Cystic Fibrosis

A mother writes asking a number of questions about cystic fibrosis (CF), one of the inborn errors of metabolism. Formerly this was a highly fatal disease, but now a child with cystic fibrosis can enjoy a normal life if appropriate treatment is given early in the course of the disease. CF is characterized by abnormally sticky mucus secretions that obstruct the air passages in the lungs and a failure of production of essential enzymes by the pancreas. Also the victim's sweat is abnormally salty.
 The cause is a defect in one of the genes. The victim inherits this recessive gene from both of his parents although neither of them show any evidence of the disease. Thus, he will not pass it on to his children directly.
 About 1 in 3,000 live-born children in this country are born with this disease every year. Fortunately, many have it in a mild form.
 The treatment, though effective, is not simple. It requires a team effort in a medical center equipped to care for children with CF until control is established. The child sleeps in a highly humidified tent and antibiotics are given to prevent pneumonia. Postural drainage and inhalation therapy help to prevent blockage of the air passages.
 In addition to a low-fat, high-protein diet with vitamin supplements, including vitamin E, pancreatic enzymes are given. Special measures must be taken in hot weather to prevent excessive loss of salt through sweating. Recently, a germ that is harmless to the body but which makes the mucus secretions has been discovered and is being developed to aid in the treatment of CF.
 For up-to-the-minute information on this subject, you may write to the National Cystic Fibrosis Research Foundation, 521 Fifth Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.
 Q—Please recommend a booklet to acquaint a 13-year-old boy with the facts of life.
 A—The American Medical Association, 535 N. Dearborn St., Chicago, Ill. 60610, has compiled a series of excellent pamphlets on this subject: "As Others See Us," "Approaching Adulthood," "Finding Yourself" and "A Story About You." Many schools and churches are now offering reading-while classes in sex education.
 Please send your questions and comments to Wayne G. Brandstadt, M.D., in care of this paper. While Dr. Brandstadt cannot answer individual questions, he will answer letters of general interest in future columns.

Hair-Line Contest

WASHINGTON—While the bright lights are focused on the Presidency and the challenge to the democrat in the White House, tough-minded realists are concentrating on another power center. Rep. Melvin Laird, the shrewd boss of the House Republican conference, wants a candidate at the head of the ticket in November who will be most likely to bring in a House Republican majority.
 A recent Congressional quarterly poll showed that 53 percent of the 187 republican representatives favored Gov. Nelson Rockefeller over the other candidates.
 Laird's Rockefeller's troubles with the garbage-men's strike in New York City and the angry charge he surrendered to the union and left Mayor John V. Lindsay in an impossible plight.
 Laird is convinced that in his own state of Wisconsin Richard M. Nixon will win in the primary. Winning in New Hampshire and Wisconsin and then in Nebraska and Oregon, Nixon will inevitably be the GOP's choice at the Miami Beach convention. He already has strong ties of loyalty with many House Republicans grateful for his campaigning in district after district in 1966 and for the money he helped to raise where his outlook was close and last-minute television was strong and heavy. Nixon's highest marks in scoring the Republican gain of 47 seats.
 If one thing seems certain in this year of grim uncertainties is that for a "hair-line" presidential contest.
 Leslie Arends, first elected in 1934 and elevated to Republican whip in 1943, is the No. 2 Republican on the House armed services committee. He has a cozy relationship with Chairman W. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina.
 On the key ways and means committee the ranking Republican, John W. Byrnes of Wisconsin, can match chairman Wilbur Mills of Arkansas in his zeal for government economy and budget cutting.
 On the public works committee, which has goodies to allocate in the form of dams and highways, Rep. William C.ramer of Florida is ranking Republican. He is rated an ultra-conservative.
 Rep. John M. Ashbrook of Ohio has set himself the task as chairman of the right-wing American conservative union of whipping Republican colleagues in line when from time to time they give the Democrats a margin of victory essential because of Southern Democrat defections.
 Laird as No. 3 on the appropriations committee knows probably as much as any house member about the complexities of the budget and government spending.
 With the Republicans having a majority in the House the present minority leader, Gerald Ford, would then be speaker of the majority and a most-efficient and effective shepherd. It would be the culmination of careful, ambitious planning over the years.

GOP Sets Platform Hearings

By JACK BELL, AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican governors, frustrated in attempts to agree on a presidential candidate, are launching a grass-roots drive for a moderate party platform.

Gov. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island, chairman of the Republican Governors Association, scheduled a news conference for today to announce a series of platform hearings. Individual citizens will be asked to contribute ideas on domestic and foreign policy issues.

The GOP state executives are promoting Gov. Raymond P. Shafer of Pennsylvania for co-chairman of the Miami Beach, Fla., convention platform committee to sit with Senate Republican leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois.

The party moderates among the governors express fear that Dirksen, who has supported President Johnson's basic objectives in Vietnam, will be inclined to leave little room for a Republican alternative to the administration's Asian course.

They regard Dirksen, who placed Barry Goldwater in nomination at the 1964 convention, as too conservative on domestic policies. But so far they have not seemed to make much headway in their efforts to dislodge Dirksen or to win Shafer a share of the chairmanship.

Shafer has been designated to supervise the governors' version of platform hearings. He will be operating with a workbook on issues assembled by staff members under the direction of the association's policy committee, headed by Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Although Rockefeller apparently would be the choice of a majority of the 26 governors for the presidential nomination, he has made it difficult for them to coalesce behind him.

He has filed an affidavit of non-candidacy, withdrawing his name from the April 2 Wisconsin primary and is expected to take similar action in the May 14 Nebraska and May 28 Oregon primaries.

Rockefeller and Chafee are committed to the candidacy of Michigan Gov. George Romney. But they have failed to stir any enthusiasm among other state GOP executives for crawling out on what many of them seem to think may be a cracking political limb.

Rockefeller's public disavowal of candidacy still leaves the door open for him to become a contender at the convention, with the powerful 22-state New York delegation behind him as a favorite son.

Byblos Works On Uniform Alphabet

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — The Mediterranean city of Byblos, the Phoenician seaport that invented the alphabet and gave the Bible its name, announced recently a project to develop one alphabet for all the languages in use throughout the world.

Byblos first plans to invite the various international cultural organizations to a meeting in that city to commemorate the death of Johann Gutenberg, the German goldsmith who invented printing, and discuss unification of the world's alphabets.

Gutenberg died in 1468, several centuries before archaeologists discovered in Byblos the first known example of a simplified writing system, carved on the tomb of a Phoenician king.

The proposed project would presumably tackle all languages, from the complexities of Chinese to the graceful puzzles of Arabic. Byblos itself exemplifies the difficulties of the situation: In Arabic the letter is called jibeli, and the name is written in curling arabesques indistinguishable to non-Arabic speaking nations.

With the invitations not yet sent out, it was questionable whether neighboring Syria would attend. Scholars in Syria are locked in a seclude dispute with Lebanese archaeologists—they claim to have found an even earlier alphabet than the Phoenician one.

McNamara Acknowledges Red Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara has told Congress the Soviet Union may have as many land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles as the United States by the middle of next year, the Pentagon disclosed today.

So far as known this marks the first time a U.S. official has ever projected a date when Russia might catch up with the United States in terms of strategic land-based warheads.

The Defense Department said, however, the introduction of multiple warheads on existing U.S. missiles will give this nation a three-to-one or four-to-one lead in separately targetable nuclear bombs for the next six to eight years.

The Pentagon did not specify when McNamara told Congress of the Soviet upsurge in strategic missiles but it was presumably in recent days when he testified behind closed doors to congressional committees considering the defense budget.

McNamara's heavily censored, annual military posture statement which was presented to Congress in late January credited the Soviet Union with 720 land-based ICBMs as of last Oct. 1, compared with 1,054 U.S. land missiles.

HARTFORD, Ky. (AP) — A woman seeking a toy for her son picked up a device that consisted of numerous parts and pieces. "That's the awfully complicated?" she asked R. C. Johnson, the store owner. # Deco Girl Hurt In Bus Collision

RUPERT — Donna Willard, a 12-year-old Deco school student, was injured Friday afternoon when two school buses, transporting the students home, collided. Investigating State Police officer Gene Bolton said the incident occurred a mile east of Deco when a bus driven by Reed Walker, 36, Burley, struck the rear of another bus driven by Richard Garrard, 26, also Burley. Miss Willard was a passenger on the Walker vehicle. She was treated and released at the Cassin Memorial Hospital in Burley. Garrard told officers he passed one of his regular stops and when he tried to stop, Walker hit him from behind. Damage to Garrard's vehicle was estimated at $200, and $500 to Walker's. Walker was cited for following too closely and for driving without a chauffeur's license. USE TIMES-NEWS WANT ADS FOR FAST-SELLING RESULTS

Chicago Replies To Posse Calls

By F. RICHARD CICCONE
CHICAGO (AP) — Sheriff Joseph Woods of Cook County received more than 3,000 applications and an equal number of telephone inquiries within a few days after his Feb. 12 call for a 1,000-man riot control unit to be used in case of civil disorders this summer.

As in the Old West, posse members will supply their own handguns and will draw no pay. The first batch of volunteers included the president of an airplane company, two attorneys, a hospital therapist, a security guard, a utility company executive, a dining car porter, a systems analyst and an official of Plunkett's, Inc., the private detective agency.

Poll Shows Disapproval Of War Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Voters, newspapers and politicians are expressing growing disapproval of President Johnson's Vietnam war policy. The Gallup Poll reports the recent wave of Viet Cong attacks on cities in South Vietnam produced a sharp decline—to 41 per cent—in the number of people who say they approve of Johnson's performance. "This marks one of the sharpest declines over a period of three to four weeks yet recorded for President Johnson," said Dr. George Gallup, "and it ends a three-month upward trend in his popularity rating."

Applications from persons under 21, persons with police records or physical disabilities, or without jobs are automatically rejected. Three hundred persons tentatively accepted last week will meet with Woods tonight. "The volunteers will be carefully screened," Woods said. "Not one man will become a deputy until he has passed all the tests and gone through a riot training program of 40 to 60 hours." The sheriff said that during the training starting March 1, Negro sergeants would swing bats at white trainees and vice versa. "Part of the training," he said, "is to subject a man to insults and humiliation to a reasonable extreme. If he gets angry, out he goes."

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Several weeks ago I read with special interest a letter in your column from the mother of a mentally retarded child. She applauded the wise decision on the part of the parents to institutionalize their retarded child when it became apparent that she could no longer be properly cared for at home.

Despite the progress being made in providing facilities in the community for the retarded, it there still remains a continuing need for residential care. I hear this in mind when I consider with gratitude how fortunate we have been for that our own little granddaughter, who is a mongoloid child, has been able to live at home with her parents and sisters.

There is, of course, great heartache when a child sometimes is the most courageous and intelligent choice.

Once a child has been placed in an institution it is important for the family to maintain an active interest in the quality of care that is provided there. It is not adequate, they should join with other families and concerned persons in seeking improvements. This can be done most effectively thru one local association for the retarded, or a group of no stronger voice to raise the quality of institutions which may be sadly below the standard of treatment and training that is possible.

Sincerely,
MURIEL HUMPHREY
(Mrs. Hubert II.)

DEAR ABBY: I have a sister-in-law who never uses my brother's given name. She always refers to him as "my husband." She calls my mother and constantly people she converses with "my husband" and "my husband" that, as if my mother doesn't know what relationship exists between the two of them. She does the same to me and my brother and sister. I have even asked her to please refer to him as "Dan," but she continues to go on "my husbanding," all to the point of distraction.

Have you any suggestions as to how we can get her on a first-name basis with "her husband"?

you'd be wise to hear it in silence. The problem, as I see it, is your refusal to accept the relationship because you don't like her. And if she worked the word "husband" into every conversation, perhaps she is still so overwhelmed with having one their retarded child when it became apparent that she could no longer be properly cared for at home.

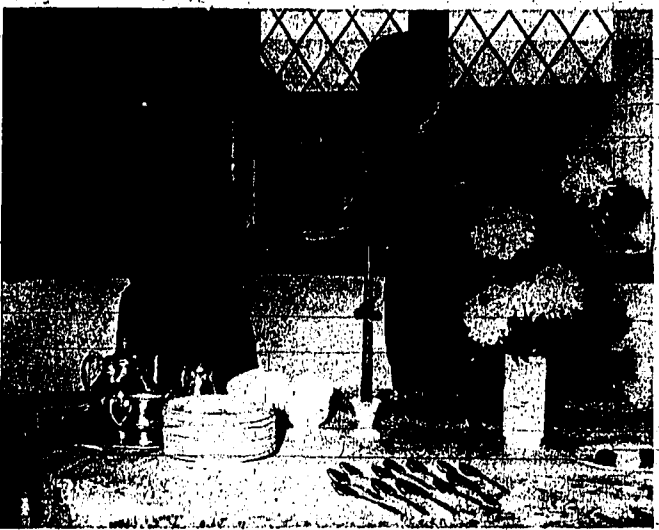

DEAR ABBY: I just received a "thank you" note for a wedding gift I sent last June. It was from the bridegroom's mother, "Dietle's Mom." She wrote, "The kids received your gift and thought it was just great, but they have been very busy so I am helping out by writing their thank you notes." And ended with, "Better late than never, ha ha." Your opinion, please?

DEAR SEEN: It's just a cut above having to contact "the kids" to find out whether they ever received your gift.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply, inclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Games Were Embarrassing To Japan

GRENOBLE, France (AP) — The Grenoble Olympics were mighty embarrassing for Japan, host to the next Winter Games in 1972.

Even Samurais slogans on the walls of the Japanese skaters' and skiers' rooms and cases of rice crackers, lugged from home didn't help them.

With 85 athletes, Japan was the largest team at Grenoble to win no medals—and not even come close.

It was a cruel blow to the nation organizing the 1972 Sapporo Olympics to have its sportsmen place lower in some events than at Cortina d'Ampezzo, Italy, in 1964, Squaw Valley, Calif., in 1960, or Innsbruck, Austria, in 1964.

One painful conclusion reached by the heads of the Japanese skiing and skating teams was that the rest of the world has progressed faster than Japan in winter sports.

Delegation chief Shinichi Nishida told newsmen it was a mistake to bring to Grenoble such a large group of athletes below the international level.

Since those who came here are the best in Japan, he said, there is danger that the young sportsmen left at home will get discouraged.

Ethiopia was the first country to announce it would boycott the Games and was followed Saturday by Algeria, Tanzania, Uganda, Mali, Ghana and the United Arab Republic.

Tunku Abdul Rahman, Malaysian prime minister, said the final decision on that country's participation must come from deputy prime minister Tun Abdul Razak, who is president of the Olympic Council of Malaysia.

But he added, "We are not at all happy over the invitation to South Africa. Although South Africa has agreed to comply with the rules and regulations of the Olympic council, she has not erased the apartheid policy."

Incidentally, some conservative South Africans reportedly are uneasy at concessions the country made to gain readmittance.

The Sunday Times quoted one as saying, "It helps nobody to make concessions. One must stand by one's principles. The enemy regards any concession as a sign of weakness."

Mexico Is Concerned Over Boycott, South Africa Won't Withdraw

By The Associated Press

Mexico City, Oct. 12. — While Mexico grew concerned over the mushrooming boycott of the Summer Olympics Sunday, South Africa insisted there is no chance it would withdraw from the Games if South Africa participates.

The boycott, ignited by South Africa's readmission to the Olympics, continued to expand Sunday when Somali became the eighth African nation to announce it would withdraw from the Games if South Africa participates.

ISU To Host Wrestling Tournament

POCATELLO (AP) — Idaho State University will host the 1968 Big Sky Athletic Conference wrestling championships for the first time Saturday in the ISU gymnasium.

The ISU mat squad is defending conference champion in the six-team meet. ISU Coach Tom Jewell will be tourney director.

Last year the Bengal grapplers unseated Montana State University for the Big Sky crown after MSU previously won the championship three straight times.

Winners in the Big Sky tourney will try for spots in the NCAA finals to be held next month at Penn State.

ROYALS DROP CELTICS CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Royals blew an early lead and then rallied behind the second half shooting of Oscar Robertson to defeat the Boston Celtics 107-100 Sunday.

And the prime minister of Malaysia said that Asian country was bound to withdraw in view of the decision of the International Olympic Committee to let South Africa back in.

In Johannesburg, Frank Braun, president of the South African Olympic Association, dismissed speculation that the country might withdraw voluntarily.

"There is not a ghost of a chance of us withdrawing," he said while discounting the possibility that Russia would join the boycott.

"Without Russia the Olympic Games would still be the Olympic Games," he said. "In any case, I cannot see Russia withdrawing—not with all those medals at stake."

However, it was understood from informed sources in Johannesburg that South Africa would seriously consider dropping out as an act of self sacrifice if Russia does withdraw.

These sources said the pullout by black African nations makes little difference to the outcome of Olympic competition, but a Soviet boycott would alter the whole structure of medal winners.

Mexican officials, meanwhile, watched the growing boycott with unease. If the Games are wrecked by the boycott, that country would suffer irreparable financial losses.

Pedro Ramirez Vazquez, chairman of the organizing committee, said Mexico's two IOC delegates voted against admitting South Africa, but added now that the action has been taken, Mexico would have to invite South Africa to compete.

One official compared Mexico's plight to that of a host who spreads a fine table of food and wines only to have a stranger invite the guests.

South Africa was the first country to announce it would boycott the Games and was followed Saturday by Algeria, Tanzania, Uganda, Mali, Ghana and the United Arab Republic.

France Bids Farewell To Olympics As Austrians Grumble Over Grievance

By JOHN FARROW
GRENABLE, France (AP)—The French bade a wistful adieu to the 1968 Winter Olympics Sunday while Austrians grumbled over a day-old grievance and Americans limped home from the scene of a two-week-long accident.

The 1968 Winter Games, officially closed Sunday night during traditional ceremonies at the Grenoble ice rink, will be remembered for Jean-Claude Killi's skiing grand slam and a steady stream of discord as the closing as the closing that hovered over this resort town through much of the competition.

Killi's final triumph, in fact, stirred up the biggest fuss of all. The Flying Frenchman won the slalom Saturday night in virtual defeat, after a fourth-place finish Saturday, arousing an angry war of words between officials of the host country and Austria, with the Austrians claiming their man, Karl Schranz, should have been the gold medalist.

The last gold medal in the Games went to Vladimir Belousov, a 21-year-old Russian luge competitor who won the climactic 1000-meter luge final in his first major international test. A few hours earlier, East Germany bounced off the ropes and took the final round in the weather-plagued, rhabarbar-placed luge competition.

The two-seater, put together jumps of 332 and 357 feet to edge Czech star Jiri Raska for the gold medal—Russia's first ever in ski jumping—before a crowd of 50,000 at St. Nizier, Norway's Lars Grini was third, but his 1000-meter luge, Bjorn Wirnli, could not get better than 23rd in the field of 58.

As expected, the four U.S. entries were even farther off the pace, Bill Bakke of Monmouth, Wis., leading the way with a 34th place finish.

The gold medal was Russia's fifth—one less than Norway's leading total and six less than the Soviets captured four years ago at Innsbruck.

Richey Wins U.S. Tennis Tournament

By GORDON BEARD
SALISBURY, Md. (AP)—Cliff Richey, scoring crucial points with a devastating backhand passing shot from the baseline, swept past Charlie Graebner, 6-4, 6-4, Sunday to win the U.S. National Indoor Tennis Championship.

The 21-year-old from San Angelo, Tex., not known for a powerful serve, scored 13 aces on the fast canvas surface over the Civic Center boards.

But it was the backhand which highlighted the easy victory for Richey, the nation's No. 2 player in the tournament.

Richey broke Graebner's service four times, and on each occasion the backhand produced points.

When the ball didn't get past Graebner, Richey handicked America's fourth ranking player, and he banged it into the net.

It took a while for Richey to get the backhand in the groove, losing three consecutive points with it in the third game as Graebner took the service at love for a 2-1 lead.

But in the seventh game, after Graebner double faulted and slammed a forehand into the net, Richey won by sending a backhand shot down the sideline as Graebner banged the net.

Graebner, the No. 4 seed from Berea, Ohio, who upset defending champion Charles Pasarell of Puerto Rico in the semifinals, had a chance to break right back but Richey overcame Graebner's advantage and saved service with three aces—the last two in a row.

Thomas Koch of Brazil and Tom Okker of The Netherlands won the doubles title, beating Americans Stan Smith and Bob Lutz, 6-3, 10-12, 8-6, in a match which ended in controversy.

The third-seeded foreign team scored a service break in the 13th game of the final set. Leading 40-15, they scored the breaking point after background lights in the auditorium went out suddenly while play was in progress.

Umpire Robert Wyngard of East Orange, N.J., at first announced that the point would be played over. But after the foreigners protested, he reversed the decision and allowed the point to stand.

Koch served out the second-seeded American team which won the title in 1966.

Knudson Wins Top Money In Tourney

By STEVE BASSETT
PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Canada's George Knudson shot an even par 71 and fought off repeated challenges to gain a three-stroke victory in the $100,000 Phoenix Open Golf Tournament Sunday and pocketed the $20,000 top money.

Knudson, hardly spectacular over the final 18 holes, finished with a 72-hole score of 87-84-79-71—212 and survived a final round surge by young Sam Carmichael.

Knudson, 31, of Toronto, was caught twice over the final round, first by Tammy Shaw on the sixth hole and then by Carmichael, Martinsville, Ind., who was even par over the front nine, closed to within one stroke of Knudson when he birdied the 12th hole and tied for the lead on the 15th, par-4 hole. On the 15th, a 210-yard par hole, Knudson's tee shot found a lake in front of the green, and he needed a five-foot putt to salvage a bogey.

Carmichael finished with a nine-under 215 and tied with defeated champion Julius Boros and young Jack Montgomery in second place.

Boros, who began the final round at five under 208, made a run at the leaders with a four-under-par 67.

Knudson's victory overshadowed the spectacular collapse of Shaw, a club pro from Golf Hill, who went into a tie for the lead when Knudson hokeyed the 41st yard, par-4 sixth.

Shaw, 26, saw his game fall completely apart beginning with the 10th hole when he bogeyed it. He then hokeyed the ninth, double bogeyed the 11th and added birdies on the 12th and 13th.

Shaw finished at seven-under-par 271, tied with first round leader Frank Branton and veteran Gene Littler in seventh place.

Frank Beard, who fired a 4-under-par 68, and Bert Yanney, who had a 71, were tied in fifth place with eight-under 276.

Yanney, Tallahassee, Fla., made a run at the lead when he holed out a 70-yard pitch on the 12th hole, a 337-yard, par 4, for an eagle 2, to go nine under par. It was his second eagle in two days.

He holed out a wedge shot from 50 yards on the 349-yard No. 7 in Saturday's third round.

Simpson Will Skip Summer Olympics, Football Is First

By JACK STEVENSON
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Southern California's O. J. Simpson, who burst into national prominence as a star in two sports during 1967, aims at running faster on the track and meeting tougher challenges in football during 1968.

He hopes to run the 100-yard dash in 9.2 seconds, one-tenth faster than his best. But football remains his first love and the All-American halfback will forego a shot at the Olympics.

"I'm looking forward to next season," says the versatile star from San Francisco who led the Trojans to the national collegiate-football championship and the Rose Bowl victory.

"It will be a challenge. We hope to do as well or better than last year. We lost a lot of good players, and everyone will be shooting for us."

"All the way with O. J.," began the 1967 chant of USC fans and after losing in the Rose Bowl, Indiana coach John Pont said several teams might have been national champions with Simpson.

After scoring both touchdowns in the 14-3 victory over Indiana on a Monday, Simpson ran the 69-yard dash indoors at San Francisco the following Friday night.

"It was not the best of all possible winter Games—by a long shot. But, when the Olympic flame was extinguished at Grenoble Sunday night, the Japanese already were hard at work preparing for the next spectacle at Sapporo in 1972."

The Games' final event—the special ski jump—was completed in bright sunshine and ideal conditions. But wind and fog had hampered the Alpine skier from the outset while high temperatures dogged the bobsters and lugers, and rain showers slowed the speed skaters.

It was not the best of all possible winter Games—by a long shot. But, when the Olympic flame was extinguished at Grenoble Sunday night, the Japanese already were hard at work preparing for the next spectacle at Sapporo in 1972.

Cougar Kill Is Up 44 Per Cent

By BOISE (AP)—Idaho hunters last year killed 44 per cent more cougars than the year before, the Idaho Fish and Game Department said Sunday.

Hunters bagged 156 of the mountain lions, the department said, which was the third largest total since removal in 1959 of the $50 bounty on the predatory animals.

In 1962, 164 of the animals were killed.

Conservation officers said 128 cougars killed last year were shot by cat hunters, eight others were caught by trappers and 20 others were killed by hunters looking for other types of game.

Idaho classes cougars as predators, although Oregon, Washington and Colorado class them as game animals and give them legal protection.

NHL's Toughest Job Is Goalie

At right is frustrated Toronto Maple Leaf goalie Bruce Gamble. In left shot the rubber disc is in the back of the net. New York Ranger Jean Ratelle (10) scored three goals in this game.

John McKay, "Simpson is the most outstanding running back I've ever seen in junior college."

His words carried the impact of eight years coaching in the juvies ranks.

Simpson, sought by scores of colleges close USC. He reported to spring football practice for only a couple of days. McKay saw what he could do and excused him to rejoin the track squad.

He led the nation's collegians in rushing with 1,415 yards although he missed one game because of a foot injury.

"Playing in the Rose Bowl always was my dream, but I think the win over UCLA was my most memorable game," says the follow chairman of Grenthel James, but more frequently known as Orange Juice. "We figured the UCLA game made us the national champions."

The Daily Investor

By WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. While on Air Force leave ever paid even close to 22 per cent a year in dividends. The Swiss man (who speaks several languages) who said he worked for a bank in New York City selling mutual funds to servicemen.

He said that his investors netted 45 per cent last year. While admitting that would not be repeated, he said the dividends his investors receive normally run about 22 per cent. He said that the Department of Defense has approved three mutual funds for servicemen to buy.

A. If that guy said even half of the things you say he did, he's as crooked as a snake. Are you sure you heard him right? Normally, I wouldn't pick on a man in the armed forces. But you're falling for him, because you identify yourself as a captain and a "public information officer."

You "PIO's" don't seem to have jumped, much over the years since I was a deck ape. What was it we used to call it? Oh, yes, "katie's n' wavy."

I've heard a lot about allegedly improper mutual fund salesmanship. But I doubt that even the worst peddler would make all those wild claims you lay on that multilingual guy. Let's take them one at a time.

No American bank has people out selling mutual funds—stateside or overseas. Many American banks act as custodians and transfer agents for mutual funds. But they don't sell fund shares.

In the history of the U.S. mutual fund business (which dates back to 1924) no fund has ever paid off more than 20 per cent a year in dividends. The Swiss man (who speaks several languages) who said he worked for a bank in New York City selling mutual funds to servicemen.

Mansfield Has Plan To End Strike

By The Associated Press

A suggestion that the participants of the copper strike be locked in a room and kept there until a settlement is reached came Sunday from Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield.

Mansfield expressed disappointment that a federal panel had not been able to come up with a solution to the crippling strike.

Mansfield wired the President, saying that businessmen, the unions and the companies, have arrived at an impasse and are still operating on an arms length basis and as it is my understanding that there is no possibility of a direct governmental intervention, that the issue be carried a step further.

Jim: "Of course lots of players aren't playing one of them your very excuse their hand hogging best line of attack is to go right by claiming that their partner into Blackwood and get to six misplays so many dummies that they want to prevent that." Oswald: "There is something grand slam."

Jim: "Four spades figures to make unless the defense cashes its four trumps right away. On the other hand there is no reason why they should not."
 Oswald: "This hand was actually played in a rubber bridge game. South justified his four-spade call on the theory that if North held the ace of diamonds instead of the king—then—four spades would have made easily while three no-trump might have gone down."
 Jim: "South was right about that. On the other hand North was looking right at his own hand and knew exactly which diamonds he held."

Young America's Date-Line

By ELE AND WALT DULANEY

16-Year-Old Is Overprotected

Dear Wall: I am a 16-year-old boy, but my parents treat me as protectively as though I were eight.

I am not allowed to ride with teenage drivers, I cannot have a motorcycle, I cannot go on ferries wheels, and I'm not even supposed to take a cable car anymore. They seem to think that death is just waiting to grab me, but they don't understand that living like this is "death" already. —San Francisco Caged.

Dear Caged: I don't hold much hope for changing your folks. So try to earn the grades that will win you college admittance and scholarship help. And if you can find a job that they'll feel is "safe," start saving savings away in the bank. As soon as you complete high school, you'll want to seek an education that takes you at least half a continent away from your nervous parents before they make you a carbon of themselves. Feel for them, they're sad people.

SAD LETTER WRITER
 Dear Ele: I wrote a letter that I'd give anything to get back. You should know that I'm a girl 15-years-of-age, and everyone thinks I'm a good girl. Well, over the holidays my brother brought a friend home from college, and several times when we were in the house (my brother was helping my parents at the store), things got-out of control between the friend and me. The last night before he left, I sat down and wrote a nine-page letter telling him how much I loved him, and that I'd always be proud that he was my first lover, and I put it in his suitcase where he'd find it when he unpacked.

Now that I'm back in school and everything, I realize how foolish it was to put something in writing like that. I don't really know the boy that well, and even if he is a gentleman, someone else might start snooping (his roommate, his parents, or someday his wife) and then I'd be in trouble.

How can I ask for the letter back without making him mad or ruining his memory of me? —K.T.

Dear K.T. Compose some variation on this note: "Dear Ted, now that I've had some time to think, I feel it would be wiser for both of us if you'd return the letter I put in your suitcase, as well as this note, the fact that I'm underage could be bad for you, and for my own future good. I don't want to take any chance on the letter getting into the wrong hands. I'm very grateful that you're the sort of person you are, because I know you'll understand and honor my request." And then hope the guy is in fact a gentleman! —Ele.

FEMALE EQUALITY
 Dear Ele: I am a young man who likes women—but I must note none the less that you want equal rights in all areas of life, and yet you still want the special treatment that once went with your "different" status as the "weaker sex." If you're equal to men then it's old-fashioned for you to open doors, hold chairs, carry books and my way. But if an intelligent man realizes this and acts on his realization, then he is a "boor." Please comment! —Robert.

Dear Robert: I have no defense—I don't want to sit by and watch my wife go off with her husband. I think that in business a woman should be rated on her talent and stamina just as a man is, yet I appreciate the anachronisms from the age of gallantry when women were "awarded" the right to join in Man's World, and were protected and pampered.

The only answer I can offer is a question. Namely, "Do you want the women in your life to be exactly like you in social hours as well as in a business?" Or does the fact that a woman still has to wait to attract a man's attention, while the man has inviting privileges, grant her the right to a few compensations? —Ele.
