LBJ Sets Plea To Governors

By DOUGLAS B. CORNELL
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson called on state governors assembled at the White House today to join in a state-federal "crusade for law enforcement."

Only three of the 50 governors met with the President before embarking on panel discussions on law enforcement, the economy and foreign policy focused on Vietnam.

The President's remarks were in a prepared talk. He urged the governors to get busy and prod Congress on an amendment of legislation he said would improve state and federal cooperation in various fields of domestic operations.

These were in such fields as recruiting able people for careers in government and improving the cost estimates on medical, a joint federal-state program to provide medical care to needy persons.

But it was crime and law and order that the state executives had listed as the prime top-acute Vietnam—they wanted to consider in a midyear conference with federal executives.

And Johnson bore down hard on that. "I hope," he said, "this meeting will help forge the strongest and most effective federal-state campaign for public order—in every sense of the phrase—that our country has ever witnessed."

Domowitz To Head Cowboy Baseball Club

J. H. (Julie) Domowitz, French instructor at Twin Falls High School, was announced Thursday as new business manager for the Magic Valley Cowboys Baseball Club.

Tex Goodson, president of the club's board of directors, announced Mr. Domowitz's appointment, noting that the new business manager has had an extensive background in sports and is a longtime "sports fan."

Mr. Domowitz assumes duties with the club June 1. He explained that his contract runs through August.

This year's Magic Valley Cowboy team in the Pioneer Rookie League is drawn from the rookies of the Atlanta Braves team. The team will arrive about June 10 to begin local spring training.

The opening game of the season will be about June 20 with Idaho Falls.

After a lapse of one year, the Magic Valley Cowboys will join four other teams in the Pioneer Rookie League — the Caldwell Cubs, Salt Lake City Giants, Idaho Falls Angels and Orem Dodgers.

A schedule of more than 60 games has been drawn up for the Magic Valley club.

Mr. Domowitz will include advertising, ticket sales, some maintenance of the city-owned ball park and overseeing concession stands. Mr. Domowitz has been one of the strong boosters of the Magic Valley Club for many years.

Bombers Respond At Khe Sanh With Massive Firepower Display

KHE SANH, Vietnam (AP) — Through the still, cold mountain air Marine outposts heard the sound of Soviet-built tanks clanking only a few hundred yards away.

Spotter planes had reported heavy troop movement all day. Marine officers here felt that at last the big battle for Khe Sanh was about to open.

Deep in his command bunker, Col. David E. Lownds called for massive air strikes "up tight," as close to the Marine lines as possible. North Vietnamese assault trenches have reached to within 100 yards of the encircled Marine base at some points.

Air Force B52s and jets toed off with fighter bombers of the Marines and Navy responded with a massive display of firepower, possibly the biggest single day in an air war campaign the Air Force said has already become the greatest since effort in history.

In all 2.49 million pounds of bombs, rockets and napalm were poured into the North Vietnamese defensive positions around Khe Sanh during last Monday's 24 hours. It included what one Marine called "the night of the bombs."

The sky was filled with rippling flashes as jet after jet dropped their bombs. Some of the strikes were so close to Khe Sanh's perimeter that the heavily sandbagged Marine bunkers jumped convulsively. Marines looked at their bunker's roofs and hoped the supports would hold. None failed.

During that one day, 19 B52s dropped up to 50,000 pounds of bombs apiece in the Khe Sanh area, and 270 smaller jets dropped 1,532,000 pounds of bombs.

The crucial hour of 4 a.m. passed with no attack. General's major North Vietnamese onslaughts start before this time, so they will not be caught in the open during day light.

The following night was one of the quietest. Khe Sanh has known since two North Vietnamese divisions laid siege to the 5,000-man Marine base 14 miles south of the demilitarized zone one month ago.

Romney's Withdrawal Draws Much Speculation

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — George Romney has quit the Republican presidential race without a ballot cast—and the White House draft that New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has promised to answer could be taking shape now.

Rockefeller, most prominent cheerleader in Romney's hectic, fruitless all-day quest for the GOP presidential nomination, has said the wishes of his fellow Republican governors would be a major influence on his future course.

Many of those governors are in Washington today and Romney is withdrawing, chiding them for them to forge a consensus around some other candidate.

The Michigan governor acknowledged he has not won rank and file Republican support. He suggested the governors look for another contender who might. Romney thus admitted he had no hope of defeating front-running former Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the Republican nomination.

Some Republicans were doubtful the governors' agreement to transfer his, admittedly sparse support to Rockefeller.

Only Rockefeller and John Chafee of Rhode Island among the Republican governors would work for the Romney cause.

Chafee wasn't hinting what he will do now, although he said it is possible moderate governors will line up behind Rockefeller. "In no meeting here do I anticipate that when the meeting over the governors are going to come out and say 'We united behind X,'" Chafee said.

Rockefeller said once again that he is not a candidate for the nomination. He has sought twice before, but that he would accept a draft if one came.

Other Republican moderates were trying to change them for him. Romney said only he will "support wholeheartedly the candidate for president to whom the Republican governors give their support." So far, those 28 governors haven't given it to anybody. It was learned that Romney—who read his withdrawal statement to a crowd of more than 200 reporters and politicians, then would say no more—does not now plan an attempt to transfer his, admittedly sparse support to Rockefeller.

Hanoi Targets Attacked Again

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — Guided by radar, U.S. Air Force fighter-bombers flew through overcast skies today to attack targets in the Hanoi area for the second day in a row.

"We have no operational reports yet," a U.S. spokesman said.

The North Vietnamese news agency said U.S. planes raided Hanoi and its suburbs and one American jet was shot down.

The Soviet news agency reported that residential quarters in the center of Hanoi were hit.

The radar-guided American warplanes attacked three vital targets around Hanoi and Hanoi on Wednesday, including an army barracks hit for the first time in the war. But the U.S. Command announced Communist gunners shot down a big four-engine C130 transport plane and three helicopters over South Vietnam, and an F105 Thunderbolt fighter-bomber over the North.

One of the helicopters was a big U.S. Marine CH40 Sea Knight that was downed 11 miles northeast of the Marine fortress at Khe Sanh, in the southwest corner of South Vietnam. All 19 servicemen aboard the Sea Knight were killed, the U.S. Command said.

target to come off the Pentagon's restricted list was the Chuc Son army barracks 12 miles southwest of Hanoi. Air Force F4 Phantoms raked it during 70 missions flown Wednesday, but overcast skies spawned by the northeast monsoon prevented assessment of damage.

Navy A6 all-weather Intruders made the third attack in four days on the railroad yard 1.7 miles northwest of the center of Hanoi as well as a repeat raid on a radio communications receiver station 10 miles south of Hanoi. Again weather prevented a survey of the damage.

The Hanoi railroad yard is on the main Hanoi-Hanoi line, and much of the war supplies from Red China and other Communist countries funnel through it.

State Aides Plan Meet To Cut Fire Bills

BOISE (AP) — State officials plan to meet in March with the U.S. Office of Emergency Management to speak with federal officials in an attempt to save the state a "substantial" amount of the $3.2 million in bills resulting from last summer's forest fires.

Idaho wants to convince the OEP, Murphy said, that the federal government should pay most of the cost of the fires which burned over large areas of northern Idaho forests last summer.

The state was declared a disaster area by the OEP because of the fires—but Murphy said the state will attempt to get more than the $250,000 in disaster help that was allotted earlier.

"I am firmly convinced that a presentation by state officials to the OEP should result in further savings," he said. A March 10 date has been set and Samuelson planned to ask OEP Director Price Daniel if the state could make its presentation on that date.

It is believed the state will dwell in its presentation on the fact that some of the largest of the forest fires began near the boundary between federal and state land. In that situation, federal agencies have usually footed costs of the firefighting.

Murphy said the legislature's Interim Fire Study Committee sent a letter to the organization and financing of timber protective associations in Idaho—a matter which was the subject of controversial legislation during a recent special session of the Idaho Legislature. The legislation was debated on the Senate after passing in the House.

"There may be a question that the state does not have sufficient authority on governing boards of the associations," he said.

Plans For City
NEWARK, N.J. (AP)—Plans are under way to transform 40 acres of a predominantly Negro section into a new community owned and operated by persons presently living there.

"I don't know of anything in the United States to equal it," Arthur Bray, Essex County planning officer, said today.

About one-third of the state's 1.3 million public school pupils have been out of school eight class days.

A statement by the Florida Education Association, which is behind the walkout, indicated the teachers would settle for the package plus some other adjustments. The union said it was hopeful agreement could be reached by Friday.

New Mexico teachers agreed to return after Gov. David Carrasco agreed with the New Mexico Education Association to allow an emergency task force to seek solutions to the school system's finance troubles.

Southwest Grab For Idaho Water Blasted

A Burley businessman and South Idaho water official Wednesday blasted a California official's plan to divert Snake River water from Twin Falls to arid California.

James Martin, who is president of the Magic Valley Pumpers' Association, said the California proposal to divert the water is "absurd" because "Idaho needs every drop of Snake River water at Twin Falls to meet the growing economy of Southern Idaho."

Last Sunday the Times-News ran a story on its front page about the California water diversion plan.

The story followed a speech made by Samuel B. Nelson, California public works director. Mr. Nelson has been proposing this plan for the past five years and has a large amount of support for his proposals among farmers, ranchers and city of-citizens in the dry Southwest and Pacific Coast states.

Mr. Nelson's plan calls for the diversion of Snake River water from a point a few miles west of Twin Falls. The water would be lifted from the 3,000 foot level to the 6,200 foot level in Nevada. It would pass through seven huge pumping stations before getting to its destination.

The diverted water would move by gravity flow to the Burley Reservoir in Southeastern Nevada. From there, the water would be pumped to Lake Mead near Las Vegas.

The proposal, called the Snake-Colorado project, would use only surplus Snake River water, the California official alleged.

It was largely because of this proposal that the Idaho Water Resources Board was formed. Since then, the board has been working on concrete plans that

South Hills Snow Pack Below Normal, But Soil Moisture Content Is Good

Water in the South Hills on the Roseworth-Salmon Fracture is below normal, according to snow survey made this week by three members of the Twin Falls Soil Conservation District.

The survey notes, however, that soil moisture below 7,000-foot elevations has made good gains the past month, showing increases down to three feet.

Glenn Nelson, chairman of the board of supervisors of the soil district, says above 7,000 feet the soil moisture in the top has increased one foot.

Making the survey by helicopter were Mr. Nelson, Ellis Fuller and John Pastoor. Their survey shows that the snow pack is constantly below the 10-year average. Warm weather, causing snow melt, has increased the density of the snow. At the present time most of the snow has melted below the 7,000-foot level.

The snow depth at Magic Mountain is 26 inches with nine inches of water as compared to 36.3 inches of snow and 11.5 inches of water a month ago. The 10-year average here is 14.2

inches of water. There is no snow in Sfishone basin and there was only a trace last month. The 10-year average there is 3.9 inches of water.

The snow depth at Hummingbird Springs is 36.4 inches with 12.8 inches of water as compared to 50.3 inches of snow and 19.4 inches of water a month ago. The average is 16.9 inches of water.

Pole Creek Ranger Station snow depth is 36.4 inches with 12 inches of water, compared to 50.3 inches of snow and 19.4 inches of water a month ago. The average is 16.9 inches of water.

Teacher Disputes Affecting Thousands Of Students Across Nation

By The Associated Press
Officials closed four schools in Pittsburgh today in the face of an illegal teachers' strike as disputes affecting thousands of public school pupils continued in several areas of the nation.

Sidney P. Marland Jr., Pittsburgh schools superintendent, ended classes at the four schools because of unruly pupils left without teachers as 1,000 of the city's 3,000 teachers began a strike despite a court injunction.

Many schools were made chilly by maintenance workers sympathetic with the teachers' union. The maintenance workers kept temperatures at the 50 degree level.

Leaders of Oklahoma's 27,000 public school teachers called for a one-day protest without next week.

The strike by about one-third of Florida's teachers ended its ninth day amid conflicting reports on whether Gov. Claude Kirk would sign the state's controversial education spending bill.

And while Albuquerque, N.M., teachers vote to return to the classroom today after a week-long walkout, the 1,500-member San Francisco Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, summoned its members to decide whether to strike.

The San Francisco Union executive committee recommended that if the vote is affirmative the strike begin immediately. In contention are some 90 union demands for improvement in classroom and teaching conditions.

The San Francisco school board refused Tuesday night to act on the union's request to enter immediate negotiations.

School officials in Pittsburgh said classes for 30,000 pupils in 118 schools would be held anyway with nonstriking teachers, administrators, substitutes and volunteers, but conceded it would be "extremely difficult."

The dispute between the city and the Pittsburgh Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, is over the union's demand for collective bargaining. The rival 1,900-member Pittsburgh Teachers Education Association has said it would not support a strike.

Allegheny County Court Judge John P. Hester issued a preliminary injunction Wednesday barring a walkout, citing a 1947 state law prohibiting strikes by public service employees.

The executive committee of the Oklahoma Education Association, disbanded over the government's failure to enact an educational program, called for a one-day statewide convention next week.

Gov. Dewey Barrett, who vetoed a legislative tax increase-teacher pay raise package Tuesday, and legislative leaders will be invited to the teachers meeting.

Florida State School Supt. Floyd Christian said Wednesday Kirk had assured him he would sign a $245.5 million education package (90¢) but the governor's office termed the statement misleading and promised clarification.

About one-third of the state's

1.3 million public school pupils have been out of school eight class days.

A statement by the Florida Education Association, which is behind the walkout, indicated the teachers would settle for the package plus some other adjustments. The union said it was hopeful agreement could be reached by Friday.

New Mexico teachers agreed to return after Gov. David Carrasco agreed with the New Mexico Education Association to allow an emergency task force to seek solutions to the school system's finance troubles.

The teachers want higher salaries, better facilities and material and fewer pupils. They threatened non action if no solution is reached by April 15.

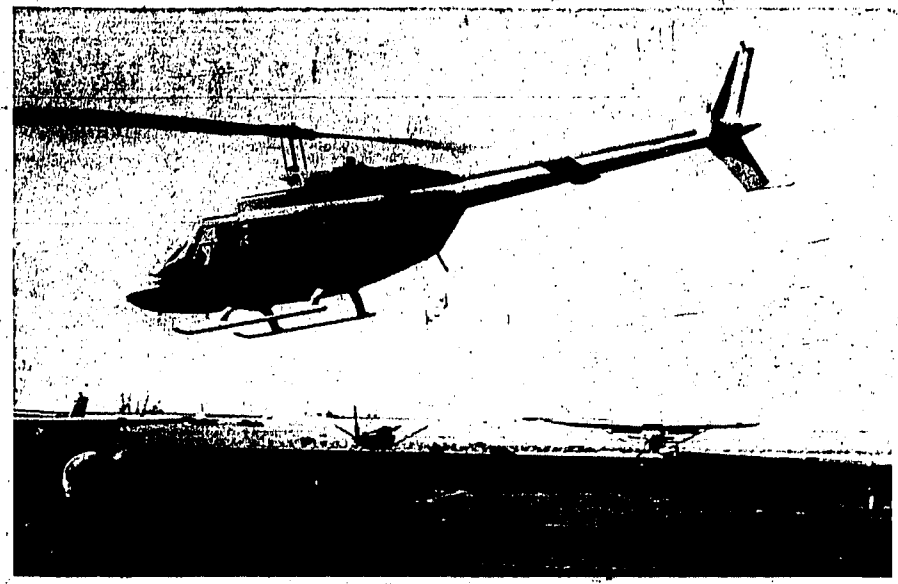

Schools in the Wellston, Mo., school district, a St. Louis suburb, were to be closed today as the district's 100 teachers met to discuss a financial crisis which threatens their salaries.

And at Malheur Island, Maine, teacher Tagh Hanna closed his one-room, 13 pupil school, called it a firetrap and said it should be replaced.

He hired a new teacher to take his place but Hanna said he has a contract and does not recognize the new hiring.

Jet Helicopter May Speed Firefighters

By JAN SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Writer

The large rotary-wing of a sleek blue-and-white helicopter began to spin slowly while a dozen men watched at Joslin Field, Wednesday morning.

The Jet Ranger, a highly versatile machine, is capable of speeds of 150 miles per hour, and cruises at 140 with four passengers, their gear and a pilot. The advantages to such groups as the Forest Service is obvious. Fire fighting groups can be flown into the critical areas twice as fast, and upon arrival at that area, twice as much gear and personnel can be put into service.

On hand to inspect the Jet Ranger were four members of the U.S. Forest Service from Twin Falls. The men were favorably impressed with its performance.

Max Rees, Supervisor of the Sawtooth National Forest, along with other officials, Pete Walker, Bill Williams and George Fry, now in the Jet Ranger to observe first hand the possible applications of the craft to forest work.

The men, prominent residents of Magic Valley, witnessed an extensive demonstration of the first turbine helicopter produced for commercial use.

The helicopter was a Jet Ranger, a product of the Bell Helicopter Co., and powered by an Allison 250-C18 turboshaft engine.

Unlike the more conventional Bell 47G3-B1, now being used extensively by Reeder Flying Service and the U.S. Forest Service in their firefighting activities, the Jet Ranger is capable of twice the speed and twice the payload.

In the more familiar "bubble" enclosed helicopter now employed by Reeder Flying Service, two people can be carried and space is limited for gear. It

Civil Disorders Unit Sets Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's Commission on Civil Disorders will recommend that tax incentives be granted to industry to enlist its aid in combating unemployment in the slums.

Republicans in Congress have repeatedly advocated such a move, but their legislation has been firmly resisted by the Johnson administration and by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., the House's strong man on tax legislation.

Sources disclosed the commission's tax incentive recommendation soon after the 11-member panel completed an annual report approved by its massive report on the riots that rocked the nation last summer.

The bulky document, to be issued this weekend, will be "uncomfortable for everybody, not just the government," said Gov. Otto Kerner of Illinois, commission chairman.

Under the commission's recommendation, tax incentives would be given industries that located plants in slums and depressed areas. Similar incentives would go to firms that undertake programs to train unemployed slum residents.

The sources would not divulge other details, but it was understood the proposals were similar to the Republican-sponsored legislation strongly opposed by the Treasury Department. Republicans have billed their measures as alternatives to Democratic anti-poverty programs.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, has spoken out repeatedly against tax credits, saying any such step "which reduces budget receipts is just as likely to force a general tax increase as appropriations for direct expenditures."

There were other indications that the commission's final report would criticize present administration anti-poverty programs.

One commission member, Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., told the Senate Appropriations Committee Wednesday that federal anti-poverty programs in Detroit, Newark and New Haven, Conn., "were never

Romania Threatens To Leave Communist Meet

By HENRY S. BRADSHER
BUDAPEST, Hungary (AP) — Romania threatened today to walk out of a Communist meeting unless the Soviet party and others apologized for attacks on Red China. The attacks broke an agreement to avoid name-calling.

accused Mao Tse-tung's supporters in Red China of refusing to cooperate with other Communist parties in "a joint offensive against imperialism."

The Romanian demand delayed the beginning of the day's session of 8 Communist parties while the secretariat considered it. The meeting finally started with Romania reported present.

He also accused the Chinese of persistently trying to disrupt preparations for the world Communist conference and said Mao had conducted a long slander campaign against the U.S.S.R.

Romania earlier forced the Syrian Communist party to back down from an accusation that Romanian policy was pro-Israel.

But Suslov assured the Chinese and other parties opposed to the Khrushchev line that both in preparations for the conference and at the conference itself "there cannot be any condemnation or excommunication from the Communist movement of any party."

One report said Syrian Representative Khaleel Baghdadash called Romania "a tool of Zionism."

Four Africans have been stranded on a bridge over the Zambezi River for five days after being deported by Zambia and refused entry to Rhodesia.

Challenged by the Romanian, Baghdadash struck his remarks from the record, Communist sources said.

Romanian sources reported earlier that their delegation had boycotted an East German speech Wednesday that criticized both China and Israel.

The organizers of the party, which is supposed to be preparing for a full-dress world Communist conference in Moscow in November or December, had assured hesitant parties that there would be no criticism of the Chinese or other absent Communist parties.

History's Fine Print Is Just Too Much

Highest Court

A former Jerome County man and Idaho Attorney General Allan Shepard may head on this fall in a battle for a seat on the state's highest court.

Fourth District Court Judge Merlin S. Young has announced his candidacy for the Supreme Court seat now held by Chief Justice E. B. Smith.

If Mr. Shepard announces, both he and Judge Young will be seeking Justice Smith's seat on the court.

And in Rupert, Fifth District Court Judge Sherman Bellwood has announced he will seek the Supreme Court seat now held by Justice C. J. Taylor.

Justices Taylor and Smith plan to retire at the end of this year.

The Supreme Court election, by all present indications, looks like it will be interesting. By law, Supreme Court and District Court elections are non-partisan.

This supports Mr. Shepard's statement that he plans to get out of politics.

All three men trying for the seats are experienced attorneys and all three have good backgrounds in interpreting the laws of the state.

However, only two of the three will be elected by the public.

It would do the public well to seek out all the information possible on each of the candidates.

The Supreme Court is responsible for making decisions that concern every Idahoan.

With something this important, voters should cast their votes intelligently.

Each of the candidates are worthy. It will be a difficult decision for voters to make.

Magie Valley is fortunate in having two fine candidates who can be supported without reservation.

In And Out

When President Johnson announced his hopes for curtailing the flow of dollars from the United States, most of the rest of the free world was quick to praise the action.

Some of Washington's allies have been advising for months that the U.S. had better do something about its balance of payments deficit.

But now that those same countries have had time to digest the gist of the President's remarks, and relate his proposed cutbacks to their own particular situations, things may not look quite so good to them.

The President's plea on overseas tourist restraint, while little more than a request, might succeed in holding back some tourists who otherwise would have visited resorts in Europe which enjoy a sizable American clientele.

Mr. Johnson's more stern pronouncements on overseas investment by American firms will be particularly hard on countries such as Belgium which welcome foreign investment.

It is an undeniable law of international economics that the deficit suffered by one nation is a surplus to another.

If Britain and the United States are successful in turning their long-time deficits into surpluses in the next year or two—as both must do to prevent serious consequences to the two currencies—it is entirely possible that the long prosperous Western European nations will suddenly find themselves in a deficit situation.

Their reaction at that time to U.S. moves may be different from that of today.

MR. SPECTATOR

It's Not Spring--Yet!

Let's not get all choked up about the swell weather we have been having of late.

Let's not run into the yard in shirt-sleeves, unrolling the hose and starting the job of sprinkling. Why? Well, brother and sister, Mr. Spectator would like to point out that it's not spring--yet!

Some of the worst weather we have had around these parts has hit (in the past) in March and sometimes even in early April. Magic Valley, as you well know, has a history of lousy spring seasons.

No doubt about it—there will be more snow before summer rolls around. There will be more—and higher—winds. There will be more hectic rains and there will be more cold days and nights.

So don't expect too much! Summer hereabouts can be rated as so-so, but the fall season—ah, the fall season—that is the time to be in this section of Idaho.

So if it will help as you struggle through this "spring" then just think ahead to autumn.

Come to think of it, spring will not be here officially anyway until March 21 and that is more than three weeks off. Three weeks is a long time weatherwise.

So all you realistic people join hands and face into the wind. Close your eyes when the blizzard hits and dream, people, just dream.

Let's not be against the farmers. They can use the moisture so let's all love it!

GOOD OLD JUSTICE

It doesn't take much to restore one's faith in the fundamental justice of the universe. Just little things, like what happened to a California woman, as reported by Matt Weinstein of the Los Angeles Times.

The woman was given a ticket for speeding on the Santa Ana Freeway. A few days later she received an official form from the state highway patrol with the message:

"The citation has been voided, and you need not appear in the Whittier court as previously directed. The speedometer on the patrol car was found to be inaccurate. We regret the inconvenience this may have caused you."

Almost makes a person want to pay the fine, anyway.

While scimming through newspapers and magazines the other day, Mr. Spectator came across an interesting picture which was printed in the Highway User magazine of February.

It was of a signboard which, in 1910, had been located 11 miles north of Fresno, Calif.

"Motorists attention," the signboard read, "You are on your honor, Fresno county has no speed cops. Drive so they will not be needed. Speed limit 30 miles per hour."

The caption under the picture stated that the same highway location today handles a peak traffic count of 32,000 vehicles per day at rural freeway speeds, and highway patrolmen make 57 round trips in a 24-hour period.

Some change, huh?

BREATHING DOLL NEXT?

No one has yet come up with an adequate substitute for a living, breathing doll, but they're working on it.

Research engineers at Westinghouse announced that they have built an experimental machine that breathes just like a human. It inhales fresh air and exhales warm, moist air laden with carbon dioxide at the same rate as one man or as many, as 10 men.

It's called a pulmonary simulator and is designed to take the place of human volunteers for testing medical devices and life-support systems. It could, for instance, simulate the breathing of the crew of a new spacecraft or undersea craft to aid in planning air circulation systems.

Describing the function of the machine was easier than making it work, however, for the changes that take place in temperature, water vapor and carbon dioxide concentration as air moves through the human respiratory system are very subtle.

Thus the simulator, fills a large cabinet with wheels, wires, bladders, lovers, pistons, tubing and electrical parts. Things move around, in and out, up and down and back and forth with a loud metallic clank accompanying each breath made through a pipe sticking out of the cabinet.

As we said, there's nothing like a living, breathing doll.

WASHINGTON—The fine print of history is too much for most of us. Often it's the phrase, the popular complaint of the moment that leads us to our opinions.

More Citizens Are On Relief

(Editor's Note: Because Mr. Marlow is ill, today's column is written by John Beckler, Associated Press writer).

WASHINGTON (AP)—A report from the front in another war—the war against poverty—makes cheerless reading.

During 1967, in the third year of President Johnson's antipoverty program, with its avowed aim of helping people to help themselves, more people went on relief than ever before.

In the single program of aid to families with dependent children—by far the largest and most active of the aid programs—680,000 people were added to the rolls last year compared with 310,000 during the previous year and an average annual increase of 220,000 over the past five years.

Another reason for the increase is the long-continuing movement of rural poor to the cities where welfare benefits are easier to get and more generous. The states set their own benefit rates and eligibility standards, and contribute part of the money.

The wide discrepancy in the states' efforts to help their poor is seen in the level of benefits in the children's program: From a low of $4.35 per child per month in Mississippi to $7.20 in New Jersey. The national average is $38.15 per child or $157.70 per family.

Ironically, it is the administration's effort to improve the lot of the poor that has probably contributed most to the increase in the welfare load.

Also, the new Medicaid program has turned up many families eligible for relief under the children's aid program.

In passing a Social Security and welfare bill last year, Congress put a freeze on the number of children who can receive federal funds and added other provisions designed to get people off relief.

But that was also a well-advised feature of the last big overhaul of the program in 1962, and the rolls have increased steadily ever since.

Without due recognition of the difficulties of replacing oil reserves and other resources, oilmen might have been able to finance this expensive and risky search.

This is a fact: The oil producers must face: Of every 100 wells drilled in search of new fields, only three on the average will find enough oil or gas to rate as commercially profitable discoveries.

The other 97 wells will be either worthless dry holes or will not contain enough oil or gas to make the venture worthwhile.

What about the additional revenue it is claimed the government would realize from a cut in depletion rates?

Studies have shown that the petroleum industry's total direct, domestic, in payments, federal, state, and local, are in line with those of other industries. And the petroleum figures do not include the heavy taxes on gasoline.

As for oil company profits, other sources have shown there to be in line with the average for all manufacturing. So the petroleum industry would have no excess funds to maintain its

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Artery Hardening

Q.—Does hardening of the arteries of the brain run in families? What are the early symptoms? Would a blood count indicate this kind of trouble?

A.—Hardening of the arteries runs in families only to the extent that long life runs in the family. It is usually a generalized process, so the first sign is often "pipe stem" arteries in the wrists or the appearance of calcification in the arteries on an X-ray film.

An artery, even with advanced hardening, causes no symptoms as long as it is functioning. When the opening in the diseased vessel in the brain becomes so narrow that the blood can't flow through readily or when a brittle artery becomes plugged with a blood clot or breaks, the victim has symptoms that may be mild (little stroke) or severe (apoplexy). The nature of the symptoms varies widely, depending on the severity and the part of the brain affected.

A blood count would not be helpful in establishing the diagnosis of arterial brain damage.

Q.—What is the difference between concussion of the brain and a cerebral hemorrhage? Can a doctor tell the difference without X rays?

A.—A heavy blow on the head (concussion) may cause some crushing of brain tissue, hemorrhage or a skull fracture. In the milder cases, with no hemorrhage or fracture, the victim may lose consciousness for only a few seconds. On coming to, he may feel fine and go on about his business. This is dangerous because after a few hours he may lose consciousness again, fall and incur a more severe injury. This is because the brain, like any other tissue, swells following an injury but, since within the skull the room for expansion is very limited, the swelling may interfere with the brain's blood supply. Such a person should remain quiet for several hours.

A person may have a cerebral hemorrhage associated with his concussion or from a stroke or a gunshot wound. A doctor depends on the patient's history and physical findings rather than an X ray to make the diagnosis unless a skull fracture is suspected.

Q.—I am taking Vasodil and Diloran for poor circulation in the brain. Could these drugs cause drowsiness?

A.—These drugs would be more likely to have the opposite effect. Your drowsiness may be a result of your circulatory disease.

Q.—I have been told that I have hypertension which has caused secondary anemia. What does that mean and what treatment is best?

A.—Hypertension is high blood pressure. Secondary anemia, is anemia from a known cause. The correction of the hypertension would therefore be expected to cure your anemia.

Q.—Could my arthritis be caused by air conditioning, diet, heredity or is it just age?

A.—If by air conditioning you mean sitting in a draft, this will not cause arthritis but will aggravate it. With the exception of gouty arthritis, diet would not be a causative factor. Heredity and age are factors in osteoarthritis.

BRUCE BLOSSAT

A New Policy?

WASHINGTON (NEA)—State Department and Pentagon strategists are worried by growing signs that Soviet leaders believe the United States will gradually cut its foreign commitments and move toward isolationist policy after the Vietnam war.

These strategists fear this Kremlin belief will lead to strong Soviet probes into Asian, African and Mideast hot spots in the years ahead. Thus far they've found no way to convince the Russian rulers that their prediction of U.S. isolationist trends is wrong.

Britain has been reducing its overseas forces for some years. France has withdrawn even more rapidly. West Germany, Japan and other once-strong powers have shown no signs of taking on substantial military or political obligations in Vietnam or other overseas areas. The North Atlantic, Southeast Asia and Middle East Treaty Organizations are steadily growing weaker.

The post-World War II withdrawal left a vacuum which Soviet leaders seem determined to fill.

The men in the Kremlin now apparently see signs that a considerable number of prominent Americans have begun to question strongly the wisdom of widespread U.S. foreign commitments. This movement has been especially noticeable in the U.S. Senate.

In part, these moves toward isolation are a reaction to the feeling of fulfillment that comes over some senators when they think about Vietnam.

Heightening their reaction is the cynicism generated by the unwillingness to countenance the United States has defended two World Wars and rescued economically at heavy cost through the Marshall Plan to come to American aid either in Vietnam or in the gold-drain crisis.

There is reason to believe that Soviet leaders believe the U.S. isolation will reflect itself in a greater U.S. reluctance to get mixed up in future Vietnam, Korea and Mideast wars. The Soviet thinking apparently is that the United States will step in more gingerly or not at all. Therefore the Soviet Union will be able to move with greater freedom in subverting governments and in expanding its spheres of influence.

The thinking here, nevertheless, is that the Soviet leaders will move cautiously. They will not be certain their conclusions are correct. They will be prepared to draw back if the United States reacts strongly. American analysts interviewed see no indications the Soviet Union wants a showdown with the United States that could lead to nuclear war.

Discovery: The Cherry Tree Gap

WASHINGTON—They've just discovered a new batch of papers belonging to President George Washington and among them was a transcript of a press conference held at George's home when he was 6 years old. It sheds new light on the famous cherry tree-chopping incident.

A spokesman for the Washington family, not identified in the papers, was asked at the noon briefing to comment on the destruction of a beautiful young cherry tree on the estate.

Spokesman: "I believe that I would be informed if a cherry tree were destroyed, and I'm not going to deal in rumor and conjecture."

Reporter: "But someone actually saw the cherry tree chopped down. It's out there by the garden."

Spokesman: "I'll check into it and get back to you."

At 3:30 p.m. briefing: A spokesman: "I have an announcement to make. A small cherry tree accidentally fell down on the Washington property sometime this morning. We are now investigating to find out what happened. It did no harm to the cherry orchard and immediate steps are being taken to see it doesn't happen again."

Reporter: "Does anyone know who chopped down the tree?"

Spokesman: "I said it was an accident." "But witnesses who saw the tree say that there were ax marks on the trunk, indicating that someone had deliberately chopped it down."

Spokesman: "I think that anyone who spreads a malicious rumor like that is doing a disservice to the future United States of America."

Reporter: "These same witnesses say that they saw 6-year-old George Washington walking away from the orchard with a hatchet over his shoulder. Is it possible that young George could have chopped down the tree?"

Spokesman: "Whose side are you on? It is rumors like this that are giving aid and comfort to the British. I can say authoritatively that George Washington had absolutely nothing to do with the chopping down of this cherry tree."

Reporter: "How would we be giving aid and comfort to the British if we printed this story?"

Spokesman: "Someday George Washington may be the father of his country, and if it were known that he had once indiscriminately chopped down a cherry tree, it would play right into the hands of the Tories, who would do anything to discredit him."

Reporter: "All the same, would you please check and find out what George was doing with his hatchet this afternoon?"

Spokesman: "I'll get back to you."

At the 6 o'clock briefing: Spokesman: "I have an announcement to make. At 10 o'clock this morning, George Washington, age 6, swung his hatchet playfully at a 6-foot cherry tree and knocked it to the ground."

"At exactly 12:17 p.m. George was asked by his father if he knew who had chopped down the tree. Without hesitation young Washington replied, and I quote, 'I cannot tell, Pa. I cut it down with my hatchet.'"

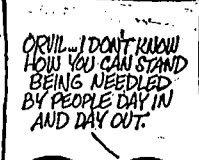

Reporter: "Is that all he said?"

Spokesman: "I see no reason to go into this matter any further."

Reporter: "But wouldn't you say there was a credibility gap in Washington between the time he chopped down the cherry tree and confessed to doing it?"

Spokesman: "George Washington, as all future Presidents of the United States, would never lie to the press."

LBJ's Travel Tax Slammed By Jordan

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's proposed travel tax has been termed "unfair and discriminatory" by Sen. Len Jordan, R-Idaho.

"In my opinion, the suggested restrictions on foreign travel will not make a significant contribution toward reversing the trend in our nation's balance of payments," Jordan said in his February newsletter to constituents.

The wealthy will not be kept from going abroad, but such travel will be effectively banned for the less affluent," he said.

Jordan announced Wednesday the Office of Economic Opportunity has approved a $200,772 federal grant for Hendratt projects. Neighborhood Service Centers and program administration.

He said the funds will apply to projects in Nez Perce, Lewis, Latah, Idaho, Clearwater and Washington counties in Idaho and Asotin county in Washington.

American War Casualties Up For Week

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command reported today that American casualties last week reached the second highest toll of the Vietnam war with 470 men killed and 2,675 wounded.

The U.S. casualties exceeded those of the South Vietnamese forces which reported 434 government troops killed, 1,532 wounded and 135 missing or captured.

Both tolls were for the week ending last Saturday. Many of the casualties occurred in the heavy fighting in Hue, last city to be still contested, but now in allied hands.

The Communists thrust into Hue after they launched their lunar new year offensive Jan. 30 and 31.

Other allied forces reported 10 killed for a combined total of 923 deaths.

As against this total, allied forces reported killing 5,769 Communist soldiers last week.

The U.S. toll of 470 dead last week was exceeded in the previous week when 543 American servicemen were killed at the height of the February fighting to set a new high for the war.

Last week's total of 2,675 Americans wounded was less than 400 below the war's highest week, the first week in February when 2,757 U.S. troops sustained wounds.

Of the wounded last week, 1,330 men required hospitalization or about half the total. The rest were treated without being hospitalized and returned to duty.

There was no report of any U.S. soldiers missing in last week's tabulation, nor of any other allied troops missing beyond the 135 South Vietnamese missing or captured.

Government Resorts To Legal Action On Unions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government, unsuccessfully at efforts to resolve a 32-week-old copper strike through mediation, is resorting to legal action against the 26 unions involved.

The National Labor Relations Board said Wednesday charges would be filed by its Denver regional office, charging the unions with refusing to bargain with Kennecott Copper Corp., one of four major firms being struck by some 60,000 workers in 22 states.

President Johnson, meanwhile, met with governors and congressmen from five states hit by the strike — Utah, New Mexico, Arizona, Montana and Idaho.

Johnson has been urged by some of the companies short on copper because of the strike to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act. This would force the striking employees back to work for an 80-day cooling off period, during which renewed attempts would be made to reach settlement.

The biggest issue is the union's demand for companywide bargaining — which would mean a common contract expiration date for several unions at a firm's facilities, which often are in several states.

Francis Sperando of the NLRB's Denver office said the charges will be based on three conditions for bargaining which, taken as a group, he considers a violation.

He declined to say when the complaint would be issued. The case, involving about 12,000 Kennecott employees, will be heard by an NLRB trial examiner, he said.

He said the three nonmandatory bargaining conditions are the union's insistence for a common expiration date for all Kennecott contracts, a companywide package, with minor variations for local conditions and the demand that all company units reach settlement before work resumes at any Kennecott operation.

He said the NLRB is taking no position with respect to the conditions individually, but only as a group.

There has been no decision on whether to seek a court injunction, he said. Such a decision would be made in Washington, Sperando added.

Sperando said it would be a matter of conjecture whether the action involving Kennecott would affect the other major producers. Kennecott and the other members of the Big Four — American Smelting & Refining Co., Phelps-Dodge and Anaconda — have been shut down by the strike since July.

Maritime unions meanwhile invited striking copper workers to set up waterfront picket lines to block imports of copper.

The AFL-CIO Maritime Committee, representing some 200,000 maritime industry workers, said its members would refuse to cross the picket lines, except for handling copper shipments for defense work.

Joseph Curran, committee chairman, also said Teamsters unions in New York and New Jersey had pledged not to cross picket lines set up by the striking unions.

Curran said he had sent a telegram to Joseph P. Molon, chairman of the National Non-ferrous Strike Coordinating Committee.

The telegram read: "We look to the 26 unions involved in the strike against the copper company to extend their picketing to any and all ships carrying copper imports. You can be sure of full support from the members of our union."

About 50,000 workers nationwide have been idled by the strike.

Copper refining firms until recently had been receiving enough ore from abroad, and using scrap metal, to keep production going.

The deadlock over company-wide bargaining has blocked talks on other issues, such as wages, pensions and health and welfare benefits. Wages now range from about $2.80 to $3.67 per hour for different jobs at the major firms.

The unions earlier rejected a government-sponsored proposal to conduct negotiations in three separate categories — the mining, smelting and refining of copper; the fabricating of copper into wire and cable; and the production of lead and zinc.

Cuba Hits 'Warlike Action'

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The Cuban government charged today that U. S. Coast Guard vessels pointed cannons and used "a warlike maneuver" to interfere when a Cuban ship rammed a U.S. boat in which three "warlike crewmen" were facing following a mutiny off the Virginia coast.

Radio Havana, in a broadcast monitored in Miami, carried a declaration from the Fidel Castro government's Foreign Ministry.

The declaration ended with a "most energetic protest against this new imperialistic Yankee aggression to grasp and protect this pirate-like action that violates the principles of freedom of the seas and international laws."

The ramming incident occurred Tuesday off the Virginia coast.

Radio Havana, voicing the official government line on the incident, said three crewmen of the 550-ton Cuban vessel 28 de Julio on route to Canada took the captain and crewmen by surprise to seize the ship and change its course toward Norfolk, Va. The report said the captain and crewmen were locked up aboard the vessel.

"Immediately after the act of piracy was perpetrated, two United States Coast Guard units and a helicopter invaded the area, located 25 miles from the United States in international waters," the foreign ministry said.

"In manifest agreement with the Yankee brigands and under their obvious protection, the three traitor crewmen who perpetrated the villainy lowered a boat after stealing all the money and a quantity of food (aboard the ship), trying to put themselves under the protection of the North American cannons," the broadcast alleged.

Nevertheless, their miserable purpose was frustrated by the rapid action of the captain and the rest of the crew of the Cuban ship which, by a collision with the stolen boat, made them return to the ship.

The broadcast said the crewmen were disarmed and arrested "like vulgar hoodlums and traitors."

The broadcast said the ship was sailing toward Cuba "bringing the traitors as prisoners."

Freighter And Ship Crash Near Coast

SEATTLE, Wash. (AP) — A freighter bound for Japan and a tanker out of Manila collided 340 miles off the mouth of the Columbia River in dense fog, and burst into flames Wednesday.

Fire in one of the ships, the Suwaharu Maru, loaded with logs from Coos Bay, Ore., and bound for Nagoya, Japan, with a crew of 27, was extinguished late Wednesday, and the crew was reported safe aboard.

But fire burned on in the Mandoli II, carrying 300,000 barrels of oil and a crew of 43 from Manila to Tacoma, Wash.

Another Japanese freighter, the Kure Maru, which was picked up by 35 men from the Mandoli, the Coast Guard said. The tanker was abandoned late Wednesday, and the fate of the others aboard was not known, the Coast Guard said.

In the day, the Coast Guard said, a C-130 transport plane was dispatched from Hamilton Air Force Base in California carrying parame-dics in case it is necessary to drop out to assist injured ship crewmen.

Two Coast Guard cutters, the Modoc, from Coos Bay, and the Ivy, from Astoria, Ore., were sent to the scene but weren't expected to arrive until midnight Thursday. The Coast Guard said that until that time, its planes, joined by Navy aircraft Thursday, would be at the scene to assist any way possible.

Truck Forces Car Off Road, Woman Hurt

MURTAUGH — A North Idaho woman was reported in good condition Wednesday at Maple Valley Memorial Hospital after being injured Tuesday evening in a one-car rollover about a mile and one-half west of here on U.S. Highway 30.

Idaho State Police said the car in which the injured woman, Mrs. Geneva Cooner, 49, Stites, was riding was forced off the road by an unknown truck. Driver of the 1968 Chevrolet, Douglas A. Fitting, 21, also Stites, received minor injuries but was not hospitalized.

Officers said the car was traveling east when it attempted to pass the truck. Just as the car pulled parallel to the semi-truck the truck pulled out to pass another car.

To escape being hit by the truck the Chevrolet took to the borrow pit and rolled over. Officers said neither the truck nor the other car stopped to offer assistance.

McNamara Leaves Defense Post

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert S. McNamara completed today a record seven-year tour as secretary of defense, praised by President Johnson as a "brilliant and good man" but with some of his basic policies under heavy attack.

The military brass, some of whom are not sorry to see him go, arranged a gaudy good-bye for the 51-year-old McNamara, complete with a 19-gun artillery salute, band music, an honor guard of troops and a "fly-over" of war planes.

Somebody thoughtfully included in the fly-over three Air Force F-105s, once called the TFX and symbols of one of the great unresolved controversies of the defense chief's administration.

McNamara, who received the Medal of Freedom whom Johnson in an emotional ceremony Wednesday at the White House, was in line for another medal to be pinned on at the Pentagon ceremony.

He was expected to leave tonight for a month-long vacation in Aspen, Colo., before taking on his new job as president of the World Bank on April 1.

Waiting to step into McNamara's office was Clark Clifford, long-time Washington lawyer and political figure who will be sworn in Friday by Johnson. McNamara's seven years, one month and eight days of Pentagon chief is a record that may stand for a long time. It eclipses the previous mark of four years, eight months and 12 days set by the late Charles E. Wilson in the Eisenhower administration.

Some critics of McNamara's friends say McNamara stayed too long. Perhaps he would agree, because recently he said wisely that he was counting the days until he could put down the burdens of his back-breaking job.

Probably McNamara's greatest disappointment and frustration is the Vietnam war. He once remarked to a visitor: "Who would have thought it would last so long?"

Foes used to call it "McNamara's war" but late last year some war policy critics found themselves anguished by the announcement that he was leaving the Pentagon. Belatedly some of them came to regard him as a restraining influence on Johnson and the military chiefs.

Even his critics acknowledge McNamara achieved some brilliant reforms.

There is general acknowledgment that the fundamental administration of the budgeting system and of management of the enormously complex Defense Department is McNamara's great monument.

Johnson referred to this Wednesday while bestowing the award a President can confer on a civilian. "Bob McNamara may not have accomplished the impossible," Johnson said, "but he has achieved the military management and directing the huge complexity that is our defense establishment."

McNamara and his associates also consider as his achievements: Enforcement of civilian control over the armed services, as none of the previous seven defense secretaries were able to apply to the same degree.

The righting of what McNamara called a "terrible imbalance" in U.S. military strength in the 1950s heavily on the side of nuclear armament and light on conventional forces. The tailoring of military forces to fit U.S. foreign policy.

The preeminence given to the cost-effectiveness technique to provide what he considered a rational basis for defense decisions in hardware, manpower and other fields.

The institutionalization of budget and force planning five years ahead and the ending of the system whereby defense money was split almost arbitrarily among the armed services.

McNamara's opponents at the Pentagon and on Capitol Hill argued that time and events have shown his key policies to be wrong, increasingly. McNamara has been at odds with Congress which, in his early days in the Pentagon, rarely dared challenge him.

Troop Escalation Could Generate Tax Hike Call

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — Any escalation of U.S. troop strength in Vietnam may reportedly generate an administration call for a tax hike even higher than its 10 per cent surcharge proposal before Congress.

Government officials emphasize they believe the current situation—and they stress current—requires at the very least a 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporate income taxes.

Congress has been cool to the whole idea of hiking taxes and the administration has left the way clear to accept less than the 10 per cent proposal if necessary.

But any major increase in U.S. forces in Vietnam would force the administration to at least consider a higher rate. The reason: The cost of sending one man to Vietnam for a year is estimated at up to $40,000. If 50,000 more troops were authorized, the cost would be $2 billion a year.

Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the Joint Chiefs of Staff conferred Wednesday with President Johnson amid speculation of increases in troop strength in Vietnam and a possible call-up of reserves.

There was no official indication, however, of what course the administration would take.

In the present economic situation, one per cent of the surcharge means about $1 billion in additional revenues.

The last time troop strength was escalated, Johnson coupled his announcement with a formal request to Congress for the 10 per cent surcharge.

That was last Aug. 3, when Johnson authorized an increase of at least 45,000 men in Vietnam by the end of the current fiscal year, raising total strength to 525,000 men.

The men are being sent but taxes have not yet been raised.

The budget sent to Congress last month for the next fiscal year contains a leveling off of both tax and money for Vietnam. Any new escalation could break that budget before it even goes into effect.

Military spending in the current fiscal year was projected last month at $73.7 billion including $24.5 billion for Vietnam but this is based on a shuffling of funds in the Pentagon and cutbacks in nonwar defense programs.

The budget for the next fiscal year beginning July 1 projected military spending at $76.6 billion including $25 billion for Vietnam.

Any escalation, especially if it draws on reserve forces and increases draft calls, could also be felt in increased inflationary pressure, a factor the administration undoubtedly would cite in seeking higher taxes.

When the major escalation of the war began in 1965 the unemployment rate was about 3.5 per cent. Withdrawals from the labor force, could create shortages and drive up labor prices.

The Commerce Department reported only Wednesday—the broadest increase in wholesale prices in nearly a year since the Korean War, indicating inflationary pressures are widespread.

Reports Show Use Of Drug LSD Declines

By JACK MILLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials say there are indications of a decline in use of LSD and, express hope it means young people are heeding scientific reports of danger in taking the hallucinogen.

The Food and Drug Administration says all its nine drug abuse control field offices around the country have been reporting a general decline in use of LSD encountered in the last eight months.

John Finlator, director of FDA's Bureau of Drug Abuse Control, said Wednesday there are no figures to show precisely what the decline has been. He said the reports are general estimates of "the amount of LSD we're finding on the street."

Asked whether the reports mean use of LSD has declined, Finlator said, "I think a prudent man could draw that conclusion."

First word of the reported decline came Monday in testimony by Food and Drug Commissioner James L. Goddard before a House commerce subcommittee.

Half Of City Busing Plan Is Vetoed

CHICAGO (AP) — Half of a controversial school pupil busing proposal has been vetoed and the other half postponed by the Chicago Board of Education but busing advocates still see life in their project.

Hundreds of persons marched and carried signs as the board met Wednesday to vote on the plan, climaxing two months of public hearings, demonstrations and boycotts touched off when the board approved the busing concept in principle.

The proposal, introduced in December was designed to relieve overcrowded inner city schools and promote integration. The project proposed to transport 1,035 pupils from predominantly Negro, overcrowded schools to some with vacant classroom space in nearby white neighborhoods.

The section of the plan which was to affect parts of the North-west section of the city was vetoed by a 46 vote. A majority vote was necessary to approve the plan.

Despite the vote, several board members voiced hope that a compromise plan introduced Wednesday might be reconsidered at the board's next meeting March 13. The compromise would make the vetoed portion of the busing proposal voluntary.

The second section of the plan, affecting Chicago's South Shore area, was sent back to James F. Redmond, superintendent. The board directed him to work with residents of the South Shore to revise the plan and make it acceptable for implementation this fall.

Trip To Spain Approved By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has approved a congressional trip to Spain over a protest from Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Mo., that such trips are unfair when ordinary citizens face a proposed travel tax.

"Until the President withdraws his request for this punitive tax, I'm going to oppose all such proposals," Gross said in House Wednesday. "We have no business approving any kind of resolution for a foreign junket until this issue is settled."

But the House voted 308 to 82 to send three Agriculture Committee members to Spain.

Scheduled to make the trips are Reps. Thomas G. Abernethy, D-Miss., Paul C. Jones, D-Mo., and George V. Hansen, R-Idaho, and staff aide L. T. Esley.

Red Attack Repulsed At Lao Ngam

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A spokesman for the army in the southernmost military region said today two companies of North Vietnamese troops attacked Lao Ngam in a bid to take the town. He said the attack was repulsed.

The attack followed a barrage of 122mm mortar fire on military installations of the 802 Mobile Group which defends the town. Some 20 rounds of mortars were fired on the positions. No report on casualties was available.

South of Lao Ngam, the provincial capital city of Attapeu was also subjected to mortar harassment Wednesday night. A dozen rounds of 122mm mortars were fired in and around the airport.

The Attapeu airport has been closed to planes since the beginning of Communist pressure against the city last week.

Communist reinforcements were reported heading toward Attapeu. There were reports 21 trucks carrying weapons and troops had been sighted 12 miles south of Saravane on a road leading to Attapeu.

In another development in southern Laos, government patrols sighted two groups totaling 300 to 400 North Vietnamese soldiers heading toward the Cambodian border in Sithakone Province, the southernmost province of the kingdom.

Red Attack Repulsed At Lao Ngam

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A spokesman for the army in the southernmost military region said today two companies of North Vietnamese troops attacked Lao Ngam in a bid to take the town. He said the attack was repulsed.

The attack followed a barrage of 122mm mortar fire on military installations of the 802 Mobile Group which defends the town. Some 20 rounds of mortars were fired on the positions. No report on casualties was available.

South of Lao Ngam, the provincial capital city of Attapeu was also subjected to mortar harassment Wednesday night. A dozen rounds of 122mm mortars were fired in and around the airport.

The Attapeu airport has been closed to planes since the beginning of Communist pressure against the city last week.

Communist reinforcements were reported heading toward Attapeu. There were reports 21 trucks carrying weapons and troops had been sighted 12 miles south of Saravane on a road leading to Attapeu.

In another development in southern Laos, government patrols sighted two groups totaling 300 to 400 North Vietnamese soldiers heading toward the Cambodian border in Sithakone Province, the southernmost province of the kingdom.

Apollo Shot Is Postponed

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The space agency said Wednesday delays in normal testing and checkout procedures have forced a four-day postponement in the scheduled launch of Apollo 6, moving the giant spacecraft's launch time back to March 25.

Apollo 6 may be the last unmanned shot before the United States attempts to send astronauts to the moon.

Spokesmen for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the delay in launching Apollo 6 include modifications necessary in the craft's surface module propulsion tank and exchange of equipment in its first phase engines and in the guidance and control system.

"No one item can be exclusively identified for the cause," NASA said. The spokesman described the problems as being minor.

Widow Of Vietnam Veteran Receives Medals In Private T.F. Ceremony

Three medals were presented Tuesday afternoon in Twin Falls to Mrs. JoAnn Larson, widow of Cpl. Robert W. Larson, in recognition of his service to his country while serving with the Army in Vietnam.

Cpl. Larson was fatally wounded in Vietnam Nov. 1, 1967. In the brief ceremony Wednesday at Mrs. Larson's home, 340 Ostrander St. N., Maj. Spencer J. Brown, office of Senior Army Advisory Group for the 10th Army National Command, Boise, made the presentation of the bronze star and purple heart, awarded posthumously to Cpl. Larson. He also presented Mrs. Larson with the gold star, for having lost a loved one in the service of her country.

Maj. Brown said the bronze star award was given Cpl. Larson for meritorious achievement in ground operations against hostile forces in Vietnam from Aug. 23 to Nov. 1, 1967.

The purple heart award was for wounds, received Nov. 1, 1967.

Also present for the award ceremony were the couple's eight month old daughter, Hollis Ann, Cpl. Larson's father, George Larson, 1803 Heyburn Ave., and his grandparents and other relatives of the couple.

North Idaho Group Acts For Mining

ST. MARIES, Idaho (AP) — A petition is scheduled to be filed Friday announcing the intentions of a North Idaho group to use the initiative procedure to strengthen Idaho's dredge mining laws.

Robert Hammes, St. Maries newspaper publisher, said an independent campaign group is being organized to obtain the 25,000 voter signatures required to put an initiative measure on the ballot in next November's general election.

The proposal would give the state land board specific authority to deny a permit for dredge mining, would set up more stringent requirements for restoration of dredging sites and would permit any citizen to protest an application for a permit.

The present law in regard to the power of the State Land Board and some attorneys contend an application cannot be denied if it is technically correct.

A controversy over the present law developed following the filing of an application for a dredge mining permit on the St. Joe River in Shoshone County.

The present law has been on the books since 1954. An attempt was made during the recent special legislative session to amend it, but the measure died when partisan controversy developed.

Hammes said the initial petition, which will be filed with the secretary of state's office, was prepared by George d'Alene attorney Scott Reed.

Pearson Wins House Vote Of Confidence

OTTAWA (AP) — Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson won back Wednesday the confidence in his Liberal government that was jeopardized by an upset vote in the House of Commons while he was away on a Caribbean holiday.

With all Liberal MPs present, the House voted 138 to 119 in favor of the confidence measure introduced by the 70-year-old prime minister. His government had been defeated 84 to 82 on a tax bill Feb. 19.

Pearson plans to retire any way in the spring, but for his party Wednesday's vote was a crucial victory. The Liberals have still to choose a successor to Pearson and a confidence defeat, bringing with it new elections, would have badly shaken the party.

Wednesday's solid turnout of Liberals contrasted to the Feb. 19 tax vote that caught 47 of them absent. Pearson flew home the next day and charged that there had been trickery in the circumstances of the vote.

UCLA Stars Won't Play Due To Marks

LOS ANGELES (AP) — All-American Lew Alcindor and two of his UCLA basketball teammates reiterated Wednesday that academic problems prompted their rejection of an invitation to try out for the 1968 U.S. Olympic team. Speaking for the trio, Alcindor, Mike Warren and Lucius Allen, Athletic Director J.D. Morgan said in effect that the decision was not related to a proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics. "School is still a big thing with me," Alcindor said. "And I may have to work this summer, too."

The same decision for the same reason was advanced in behalf of Bill Hebert, a member of Southern California, also a Negro, by USC Athletic Director Jess Hill. All four had been invited by the NCAA to participate in the Olympic trials April 4-6 at Albuquerque, N.M. Their rejection, however, when their names did not appear on the roster of 48 selected for the trials. Questionnaires had been sent to the schools involved to ascertain which players wanted to try out for the team for the Olympic games in Mexico City next October. "Each and every boy came to see me individually after I had received the NCAA questionnaires and rejected the invitation because of the academic interruptions involved," Morgan said.

Benvenuti Is Sure He'll Regain Title

GROSSINGER, N.Y. (AP) — His hair is shorter and some of the old dash seems to be gone, but Nino Benvenuti heads into the final stages of his training camp in a more relaxed and confident mood than the middleweight champion Emile Griffith Monday night. "I am the challenger again," said the tall, handsome Italian Wednesday at his training camp here. "It may be surprising, but I feel better as a challenger than I did as the champion. Maybe it's because I have to prove myself again. I know I am in better condition now than I was for the second fight last September. That is why I am relaxed. I am ready and it will be up to me." "I was not at my best the last time. I was overconfident. There were many little things that bothered me. This time no. My legs are better and I think the whole story is in the legs. If I can do the things that I want to do, and my legs are good, then it doesn't matter what Griffith does. Even if he beats me, I will be able to prevent that."

Benvenuti and his handlers charged that Griffith's buttocks and elbows damaged his ribs early in the second fight at New York's Shea Stadium last Sept. 20 when the New Yorker regained the title on a 15-round decision. Benvenuti took the crown from a sluggish Griffith by decision on April 17 at the old Madison Square Garden. The 6-foot-11 Italian dominated the first fight, scoring with a variety of punches. In the return, Griffith was the boss. The muscular 5-7 1/2 Emile piled up a big lead with stinging jabs and body punches.

Benvenuti said his ribs are fine now. He has taken some good shots to the body. For this third fight, Benvenuti will get $80,000 and Griffith $175,000. For the three bouts, Griffith's total will be about $210,000 and Benvenuti's $250,000.

tourament in Hutchison, Kan., the following week. North Idaho gave CSI its first 30 minutes of the game behind the fine shooting of Bill Broderick and Clyde Smith and the overall performance of defensive Rick Sweeney. Bush started the Eagles off right, rolling around inside for five points and a 5-0 lead. But Broderick and Smith steadied the Cardinals, and with 10:33 left in the half, two quick buckets by Sweeney shoved North Idaho ahead.

The Cardinals stayed there for a long while, one mounting a 25-20 lead and later a 30-24 margin. But in the closing minutes Ples Vann warmed up to hit eight straight points and the Eagles trailed only 34-32 at half-time.

Rich and Fred Trenkle hit the first two buckets of the second half and Larry Barnett's three-point play made it 30-38. Rich and Barnett got CSI on the threshold of breaking it open at 45-40 but Broderick hit three straight points after a technical foul for hitting the backboard and he later shot North Idaho into a 47-47 tie.

The clincher came two minutes later, when, trailing 59-49, North Idaho missed three field goals and four free throws, after that Bush, Vann and Rich (joined the Eagles into a 59-52 lead and Ron Adams' tip stretched that to nine points soon after.

From then on CSI went into the deep delay game and North Idaho had to foul to break it. The Eagles hit enough free throws to stave off the Cardinals' final bid. In the first game Eastern Utah watched everyone get red-hot in the first five minutes, to storm into a 14-4 lead. With 10:04 left in the half quick fast break buckets by Mal Neely stretched that to 33-12 and from then on both coaches emptied the benches.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The commissioner of baseball was accepted by the Major League Players' Association Wednesday as the final authority for a two-year period in settling any disputes which may arise between the players and the 20 major league clubs. The association also agreed to a joint study involving "possible alternatives to the reserve clause" and a joint study on "the length of the championship season."

The study of the reserve clause, which presently binds a player to the club with which he is under contract, is to be completed prior to Dec. 31, 1969—the termination date of the player-owner agreement ratified Wednesday.

The study of the length of the season is to be finished prior to the drawing up of the preliminary schedules for 1969. Acceptance of the commissioner, now William D. Eckert, to serve as the adjudicator in player-management disputes followed earlier disagreement. The players' association previously questioned his role as an impartial judge, since the commissioner is selected by the owners without a player voice. The measures ratified at the meeting included: —An increase in the minimum salary to $10,000, a boost of $3,000 over the $7,000 which had existed for 11 years. —A reduction in the allowable salary cut from 25 per cent to 20 per cent of the previous year's contract. —A $3 hike to $15 in the players' daily regular season meal allowance, an increase from $8 to $12 for daily spring training meals and a boost of miscellaneous camp arrival until Sunday.

GOODING — Bills ousted Camas County 57-56 on a last-second layup by Larry Smith and Hagerman became the only undefeated team in the fifth district A-1 tourney by toppling Dietrich 58-51 Wednesday night. Jim Robbins went up for a long jumper and everyone went to the board, but up on top Robbins saw that Smith was open. He hit him with a nifty pass and Smith laid it in with no trouble.

Knickers Make Strong Bid For Third

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, these are not the same New York Knickerbockers.

Going into the National Basketball Association season, the Knickerbockers finished fourth in the Eastern Division eight straight times, and that meant the cellar until last season when a fifth team was added.

But the current New York team has dealt nine of the third, which would be the highest. Knick finish since 1958-59, and has a good chance to finish above the .500 mark for the first time since that same season.

These Knickers have won 21 of the last 32 games.

These Knickers play defense, hustle and, more often than not, are exciting even when they lose.

"No secrets," says Red Holzman, who took over as coach 32 games ago. "They've been playing that way well together. No secrets, just work."

And the club has been working at both ends of the court, even when things aren't going well.

Take Tuesday night's 108-102 loss to St. Louis. The Knickers trailed by 17 points at halftime but came back to tie it 97-97 before losing.

"We were aware it took them a half to get 17 ahead, and we knew we still had a half," center Walt Bellamy said after the game.

"Over-all, everyone is playing together, and the defense has improved," says Bellamy.

"Generally, we just help out more on defense," says All-Star forward Willis Reed. "We try to keep the rookie, Phil Jackson. Everybody is helping out on the court."

The Knickerbockers also did some helping out the court, and it now is paying dividends. They signed rookie Walt Frazier of Southern Illinois, Phil Jackson of North Dakota University and Bill Bradley, the Rhodes Scholar from Princeton.

These three are real diamonds in the rough, especially Frazier, who hasn't done too well in the rookie year but is last 10 years. And the diamonds are getting smoother with each game.

76ers Score Expansion Of Playoffs

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia 76ers have voted against the National Basketball Association "playoff expansion and hinted at the possibility of a strike.

With Chamberlain, the 76ers' player representative, and Wednesday he will meet the counsel of the Players Association to determine the legal status. Asked if player consent might result in a refusal to play, Chamberlain said, "It just might. But they might have in over a barrier legally. I really do not know. I want to check it out legally."

The NBA owners increased the first round playoffs to seven games. Previously the first round was a best of five series. The money in the playoff pool also was boosted, but someone figured that it would come to $208 a man for each extra game. The players don't think this is enough.

Declo Hornets thumped the Valley Vikings 75-57 to earn a right to meet Kimberly Thursday night for the other berth in the state meet.

Larry Sims started things rolling for the Pilots as he hit the first bucket, but the Bulldogs came right back and tied it at 14-13, but Wilson hit a field goal just as the buzzer sounded to lift the Pilots into a 15-14 first period lead.

Larry Rietz put the Bulldogs in front in the early moments of the second quarter, but Gary Hall hit four straight buckets to push the Pilots into a one point lead, and Bob Carpenter and Sims widened Glenns Ferry's lead to 28-23 by the end of the first half.

Rietz again opened up for the Bulldogs as he hit four straight buckets to tie the score at 31-31 midway through the third frame, but Glenns Ferry again took the lead a few seconds later and jumped in front 42-37 by the end of the quarter.

In the final period, Kimberly could not manage eight points, which were scored by Lynn McManis as the Pilots kept up their strong defense.

Glenns Ferry, with Carpenter doing most of the scoring, enjoyed their biggest lead of the night midway through the final quarter and coasted in for the win.

In the first game of the night, the Declo Hornets, after getting off to a slow start, built up a good second period lead and rolled past the Valley Vikings, to eliminate them from the tournament.

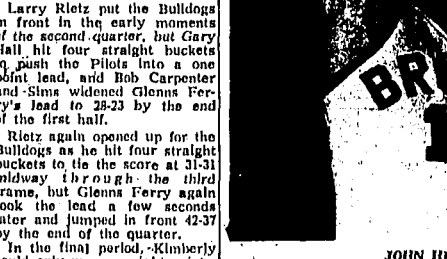

The opening frame was a close battle, but the Hornets took the lead and finished in front 10-4.

The second period was the big difference, however, as the Vikings went cold and the Hornets couldn't miss as they stormed in front 40-23 by the end of the first half.

In the third quarter, Valley got as close as 13 points, but the Hornets kept up the full court press to throttle the Vikings and maintain their comfortable lead.

The final frame was not much different as the Hornets kept up their strong scoring flurry while the Vikings could not get loose. The championship will be decided Saturday night.

In the lone game Thursday night, the Hornets will battle with Kimberly for a right to go to the state tourney in Burley. The loser will be eliminated, but the winner will meet Glenns Ferry Friday night to decide the district championship, and should Glenns Ferry a good shooting game going, and Declo rolled home with the win.

JOHN HENNING
... senior guard for the Twin Falls Bruins won a first-team All-Southern Idaho Conference berth in balloting by sportswriters-casters.

Henning Is Named To All-SIC Squad

Twin Falls senior guard John Henning was named to the All-Southern Idaho Conference basketball team today and sportswriters-casters in the five member cities placed "Bruin" Charles Farmer in second place for coach of the year award.

The 5-11 Henning, who hit 41 per cent from the field and 50 per cent from the free-throw line, scored with a 10-point average, was the third top vote getter in the balloting. Coach Farmer was edged 5-4 by Pocatello's Billy C. Emerson for the coaching honors.

Caldwell junior Mike Stewart dominated voting as easily as he dominated the league scoring race, being named player of the year and becoming the top vote-getter.

Stewart, a 6-7 sharpshooter who hit 45 per cent from the field in amassing 433 seasonal and 312 conference points, was named player of the year with six votes, three more than runner-up Dennis Labrun, Burley, received the other vote.

In the coaching battle, Emerson and Farmer were followed in voting by Terry Conley, Burley; Ron McNeely, Boise; and Dick Hartley, Capital, all with one vote.

Stewart wound up with 23 votes, based on two for first-place team and one for second-team nomination. Joining him on the first unit are Labrun with 22 votes; Henning, 20 votes; Dan Stewart, Nampa, 18 votes; and Sanborn, Pocatello, 17 votes.

John Grant, 6-5 Capital senior who was a first-team selection last year and a second team nomination as a sophomore, heads the second unit with 16 votes, followed by Rick Longhues, Pocatello, with 12; Subin Landuluce, Boise, 10; Mike Galway, Pocatello, 9; and Steve Shaw, Nampa, 5.

Only Highland was shut out in the 10 placings while Pocatello had three spots and Nampa two.

Receiving honorable mentions are Dave Higgs, Nampa; Cliff Burnett, Caldwell; Ron Scott, Nampa; Von Wells, Twin Falls, and Craig Jorgenson, Highland, who also was the loop's leading rebounder.

Olympic Boycott Is Still Talk

LAUSANNE, Switzerland (AP) — Johann W. Westerhoff, secretary-general of the International Olympic Committee, said Wednesday night his office has not received a notice of withdrawal from anyone regarding the games in Mexico City, Oct. 12-27.

On Monday, 22 African countries voted to pull out of the coming games because the IOC readmitted South Africa. Five years ago South Africa was barred because of its racial policies.

"I know," Westerhoff said, "all the newspapers and even the television announcers keep saying that everyone is withdrawing, even Russia is withdrawing, and so on, and so on." "But I have had no word from anyone. Nobody has officially informed the IOC of plans to withdraw."

He made the reply in response to a question on the possibility of a special meeting of the IOC to reconsider the South African question.

Murtaugh Nips Oakley In Overtime To Throw Meet Into Extra Game Tonight

BURLEY — The Murtaugh Red Devils threw the sixth district A-4 basketball tournament into a sudden-death session Wednesday night by stunning the previously-unbeaten Oakley Hornets 52-49 in overtime. The result pins a loss on both clubs and leaves them facing the title showdown at 8 p.m. Thursday night in the Burley High School gymnasium.

Murtaugh, defending district and state champion, got all the points in the overtime when Oakley couldn't find the range. The Hornets lost three starters via foul, one late in regulation time and the other two in the overtime. Still Oakley could have pulled it out by hitting just a little bit as Murtaugh, trying to protect a two-point lead, provided by Billy Nebeker a minute kept into overtime, missed five free throws.

Murtaugh showed off to a seven-point lead early in the second quarter but then watched the Hornets come to life. Oakley crept back to within four points by intermission and in the third period it was see-saw. The period ended in a 37-37 draw.

Early in the fourth quarter Oakley, getting some "great" scoring by sophomore Ken Martindale, pushed in front by five points but the Devils flurried back into contention.

In the final minute Murtaugh fashioned the 49-49 tie and regained possession after a missed Oakley shot. The Devils

Soviet Duo Seizes World Championship

GENEVA (AP) — Ludmila Belousova and Oleg Protopopov, Russia's long-reigning world and Olympic champions, glided effortlessly to their fourth straight pairs title in the 1068 World Figure Skating Championships Wednesday night.

The Soviet veterans had 40 share interest, however, with the United States brother-and-sister team of Cynthia and Ronald Kauffman of Seattle, Wash., who finished third.

Tim Wood, America's teenage star from Bloomfield Hills, Mich., also came through with a brilliant performance in the final compulsory figures of the men's competition to go ahead of the defending titleholder, Emmerich Danzer of Austria, in the all-important ordinals.

Although slightly below their Olympic form in Grenoble, France, two weeks ago, the Soviet husband-and-wife team—Ludmila is 32 and Oleg 35—still collected the maximum of nine ordinals for a winning combined compulsory and free-skating total of 315.9 points. They collected a massive total of 105.4 points in the free skating.

The Russian Olympic silver medalists Tatiana Zhuk, and Aleksander Gorlick, finished second with 10 ordinals and 311.3 points.

The Kauffmans turned in a scintillating display to snatch third place with 31 ordinals and 304.3 points to fall what would have been an unprecedented 1-2-3 finish for Soviet pairs.

The third Russian couple of Tamara Moskvina and Aleksei Mishin finished fourth with 35 ordinals and 293.6 points.

The attractive American pair brought a roar of admiration from the crowd of 10,000 with a series of superbly timed acrobatics. At the finish they received a standing ovation.

Sandi Sweltzer of Santa Monica, Calif., and Roy Waglein of Los Angeles finished eighth with 72 ordinals and 200.2 points. Alicia Starbuck and Kenneth Shelley, both of Downey, Calif., finished 11th with 99.0 ordinals and 277.7 points.

White Wood, the 19-year-old silver medalist for the U.S. at Grenoble, was given the majority of highest placings by the judges in the all-important ordinals, with 13.0 16 16.0 for Danzer, Danzer still holds a slight lead in points after the six compulsory figures. Danzer has 1,138.2 points to Wood's 1,136.9.

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: The letter from the woman who said she wished mothers would teach their daughters how to do a laundry prompted me to write.

There is nothing in the world I would like better than to teach my 19-year-old daughter just that. Three times in the last six years I have been able to get her close enough to the washer to explain how to sort clothes and operate the machine. She just stood and watched for a while, then her mind wandered off in a dreamworld of her own. In other words, she couldn't care less. I have begged, pleaded, and tried to drive home the importance of knowing these things for the day when she'll have to do it herself.

So what do I do in a case like that? You can lend a horse to water but you can't make him drink.

MRS. A.

DEAR MRS. A.: Your daughter is not a horse, but if she were, nothing would be gained by "making" her drink unless she was thirsty. When she gets "thirsty," no one will have to "lead" her to water. She'll go looking for it. In other words, when she needs the know-how she'll get it.

DEAR ABBY: Since my son was going to be out of the city, I asked my daughter-in-law and her 13-year-old son to have dinner at my home after church on Sunday. She accepted graciously.

On Saturday I made an apple pie, and I got up early Sunday morning and fried chicken. I planned to have whipped potatoes, buttered beans, salad, and hot rolls. I also had ice cream on hand.

After church, as we were walking to the car, my grandson asked what I was going to serve. I told him fried chicken and lots of good things.

He made a wry face, then turned to his mother and said, "Aw, now, Mom, I want steak! Let's eat out!"

I longed to hear my daughter-in-law say, "No, grandmother has dinner all prepared, we'll go to her house." But instead she hurt me deeply by saying, "Steak DOES sound good. Let's eat out! It will be my treat." Then she whispered to me, "Mother, I know my philosophy is different from yours, but we all must learn to give and take in this life."

Abby, what do you think of this so-called modern philosophy?

HURT GRANDMOTHER
DEAR HURT: It's difficult to believe that a grown woman could be so insensitive — unless, of course, she is simply ignorant. Perhaps one day she will love to dance. Last evening we went dancing and the place wasn't very busy. The music was good so Percy asked me if I cared if he asked one of the waitresses to dance with him. (He had never seen her before.) I said O.K., but I didn't like sitting there alone while they danced. Later on the husband of the waitress came in and she brought him over and introduced him to us. Then he went and sat at a table in the corner by himself.

DEAR HURT: Percy was out of line and you should tell him to cut it out. He may cut YOU out. Instead, of course, but a woman has to be desperate for male company to put up with the likes of him.

Problems? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Magazine Board Will Include 2 T.F. Girls

How can a college student gain experience in publishing while still in school? Mademoiselle magazine has a unique program, its College Board, and two Twin Falls girls will be part of this board.

It enables students to participate in some of the magazine's activities and this year Twin Falls will be represented on the College Board by Julie L. Anderson and Sandi Ruth Gates, both from the University of Idaho.

Each College Board member will have an opportunity to contribute to Mademoiselle and help the magazine keep abreast of campus trends. College Board members report regularly to Mademoiselle on events at their colleges, research articles and help Mademoiselle fashion editors select models for college fashion features.

The board is composed of some 1,000 winners of the magazine's annual nation-wide College Board competition, a contest designed to recognize young women with talent in art, writing, editing, photography, layout, fashion design, merchandising, retail production or advertising.

Board members are selected on the basis of entries they submit showing ability in one of these fields. Each girl will remain on the College Board until she graduates. During this time, she will accumulate a professional portfolio of work submitted to Mademoiselle which may well be valuable to her in finding a challenging job after graduation.

Once a student has been selected for the College Board, she is eligible to compete for Mademoiselle's 20 grand prizes. Each year, 20 of the board members are chosen to become guest editors. To win one of these positions, a board member must submit a second entry that shows superior aptitude for magazine work.

FIVE NO-TRUMP

When you play Blackwood the follow-up bid of five no-trump asks for kings in the same manner that four no-trump asks for aces. There is one essential difference here. You may well ask for aces when you don't have your own initiative. South was going to six spades if his partner showed one ace in response to the Blackwood. For a no-trump. When North showed two aces South was tempted to go right to seven on his own hook but there was no guarantee that North would hold both spade and diamond kings. Therefore South continued to five no-trump to find out.

North could have responded six hearts to show that he held two kings but North saw no reason to write any thing. His partner's five no-trump call had guaranteed all the aces. It had also shown interest in a grand slam contract and an addition to this was that South now was interested primarily in the king. In that case it was a cinch to mark South with the queen of spades and either the queen of diamonds or shortage in that suit. At worst it might be necessary to set up the diamond suit for diamonds.

Actually that wasn't necessary. South drew trumps, discarded one of North's clubs on a good heart and ruffed out his small heart and small club.

Today's Question: Instead of bidding five diamonds your partner bids four no-trump over your four spades. You bid five hearts and he bids five no-trump. What do you do now?

have an ace in your hand with the intention of stopping at five. If your partner only holds two of them. Of course, if he only holds one you won't make five odd but you should never use Blackwood if you aren't sure that your side has as many as two aces.

When you ask for kings you are committed to a slam and you only ask to explore grand slam possibilities. Therefore the follow-up five no-trump bid not only asks for kings but tells your partner that your side holds all the aces. When you bid four no-trump your partner must accept your judgment if you proceed to place the contract. When you follow up with five no-trump he may go to a grand slam on

Family Pet Leads Him A Dog's Life

Dear Ele and Walt: In our family it is my job to walk the dog. It wasn't my idea to buy a dog, but since we have him, I have to walk him. I hate to do this, because there are many nice yards between here and the park. Almost everytime he can't wait to reach the park and then someone comes out and yells at me for letting him mess their yard. Don't say to walk in the street because I'd be afraid to do that because of the traffic. I have told both my father and mother this, but I still have to walk the dog.—Brent.

Dear Brent: Ask your parents to walk with you tonight, and to show you how you can reach the park without letting Fido trespass on private property. Along the way, ask them what you are to say if he does "decorate" someone's yard, and the owner asks for your parents' name and phone number. This may cue them to henceforth drive you and Fido to the park so he doesn't offend en route. We hope so!—Ele and Walt.

TIT FOR TAT

Dear Ele: Does it mean anything serious when a boy keeps turning around to look at you after you pass by? I notice this one boy keeps doing this, and I wonder to know why?—Ginger.

HINDERED BY FRIEND

Dear Ele: I have this friend, by best friend, and we're always together. But when I get around my girl friend I don't especially want him around. My friend is a great guy, but has the habit of saying the wrong things around girls. It makes me look bad in my girl friend's eyes. She thinks, "Well, what kind of guy is this to hang Tape Mates around a creep like that?" I

Airlines Have Lower Fatality Rate Than Other Transportation

WASHINGTON (NEA)—It was noon at New York's LaGuardia Airport. Weather clear, visibility good. An Eastern Airlines DC-9 shuttle swung on the runway and with a growling, defiant hiss, began to pick up ground speed.

Ten knots, twenty, forty, "Call out rotation!" Sixty, seventy, eighty, "One and VR."

One hundred knots. One hundred ten. Then finally . . . up, up and whoosh.

It was, of course, a purely routine air carrier flight. One of 1,300 others for Eastern that day. One of over four million for all airlines this year.

Yet in the rear of the plane there was no total feeling of routine. Of the 80 passengers aboard there were at least a few—and perhaps many—who wondered, as one admitted later, "Whether the damn thing would make it or not."

The plane did. Forty minutes later it safely reached its destination, Washington's National Airport. But the arrival was of only passing reassurance to some—again perhaps many—of the passengers. Next time they fly in an airline jet they'll wonder all over whether the damn thing will make it or not.

Scheduled air transportation is this year, 34 years old. Flying from point A to point B in the nation or the world, in no longer an adventure. Even the plush, cushy jets have been with us for almost a full decade.

Still there remains an uneasiness about air travel. The industry boasts that more than three of every 10 Americans have flown. But there's another way to view the statistic: Nearly seven of every 10 have not.

Explanations for the latter figure have not been fully computed. But a strong preliminary argument has been made that many nonfliers, especially those children of the railway-motorists era, are simply afraid to board a 285,000 pound machine, go up 30,000 feet, and watch the wings wiggle at 600 miles per hour.

And there is some good reason for this fear.

Airplanes do crash. Last year there were 600 fatal air mishaps in the nation, a dozen of which involved regularly scheduled airlines. In the past 10 years 2,100 persons have died as a result of accidents on U.S. Passenger carriers.

This year 150-250 more probably will die.

Nobody's trying to kid anybody. Confess a first flier for National Airlines. "People are always going to crack up in planes. You can't escape the possibility. When you're off ground, you might fall. Anything can happen."

If anything can happen in airplanes, almost everything already has at one time or another. Last year, a United Airlines DC-8 made an easy night landing at Vandavia, Ohio, only to their strike and kill a pedestrian on the runway.

Obviously, the entire makeup of air travel is susceptible to fault. Modern craft are composed of over 500,000 most intricate pieces, and pilots admit all of them are potentially dangerous. Even a leaky toilet can be malicious; if left unrepaired it will cause many expensive and critical malfunctions.

Add the leaky toilet to $250,000 worth of electrical systems, 200 instrument dials that can bill, $7 million in structural, navigation and communications equipment . . . and the sum can add up to a very considerable amount.

Furthermore, the complexities are only beginning. Late next year Boeing Aircraft begins delivery of its jumbo 747 (five crewmen, 300 passengers); soon after, the triple sonic 2707 will be streaking at 2,000 m.p.h., five miles above the ribs.

The mere thought of beyond that is staggering.

And yet, for all the scary statistics and potentialities, it remains undeniably true that air travel today is but a piece of cake for millions of relatively unconcerned Americans.

For these hordes, the jet-setters, air travel is just a yawn. Says Eastern Airlines Capt. George Miller: "I believe most regular passengers are relaxed and completely confident. Why shouldn't they be? We wouldn't take them up if we didn't think we'd get to where we were going."

Figures indicate that Miller, and the rest of the nation's 30,000 airline pilots, do in fact almost always get to where they are going. Mathematics claim a man's chance of safely completing an airline trip is today 99.999 per cent.

This phenomenal probability is due in large part to the air industry's very nervous concern with every aspect of travel safety. It is a concern inspired as much by pilot, passenger and federal watchdogging as much as anything, but it is a concern which nevertheless inspects every crevice of possible hazard.

Planes? They are built so sturdily, that, as an example, the wings of a jetliner can support a stack of automobiles as high as the Washington Monument.

Pilots? They spend one workday in 10 under supervised instruction, and are considered no more risk by insurance companies than grocery store clerks. Carrier responsibility? Every 9,000 air hours every jet in U.S. service is overhauled so meticulously that it becomes, in effect, a brand new ship.

All things considered, the airlines' concern for safety is hardly challengeable. No competing industry approaches either the money or effort spent on the subject.

And the effort is paying off. Scheduled airlines traveled one billion miles last year and carried 185 million passengers. Yet the rider risk was arithmetically less than doing the household chores. Compared to the airline death count in 1967, more people succumbed from falling off ladders, cleaning firearms and shoveling snow.

As for traveling from point A to point B, the airline fatality rate—(42 per million miles)—was lower last year for other means of transportation.

Even walking? Some 288 died in planes last year; but 0,000 died strolling in the streets.

Youths Give PTA Report At Murtaugh

MURTAUGH — The annual Founders Day potluck supper and meeting were held Monday night at the high school.

Kay Wright, Girls' Stater, and Billy Nebeker and Blake Turner, Boys' Staters, gave reports and Miss Wright thanked the PTA for sponsoring her trip.

Jane Peterson and Peggy Uhlig sang three numbers to Miss Uhlig's accompaniment on the guitar.

It was announced that films will be shown to parents of high school students on March 10. These films on sex education have been shown to the students and will give the parents a basis for discussion of the subject with their own teenagers.

The sixth grade furnished the Founder Day cake which was served by the room mothers for dessert.

Bombing

JEROME—A mock bombing took place at the Jerome Airport Sunday afternoon, sponsored by the Valley Flying Club.

Four planes competed in the bombing contest. A sack of flour was dropped from 300 feet to hit a target on the ground.

Winners were Dick Shotwell, Twin Falls, and Cecil Moore, Jerome. Officials said the crowd seemed to enjoy this show and more such events will be planned.

Airport Work Is Under Way

Spring work at Twin Falls Municipal Airport has started, according to Ed Woods, airport manager.

City street crews are currently sealing frost cracks in the runway. Mr. Woods said that later this summer the runway will be resurfaced.

He said the work will probably have to be done in the evening after West Coast flights have landed. He said the type of paving used will dry within two hours, however, so no flights will have to be delayed or canceled.

Within a month, the airport manager said, West Coast airlines' facilities in the terminal will be remodeled.

U.S. Disappointed By South Vietnam's Failure To Launch Follow-Up Attacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. officials have been sharply disappointed by South Vietnam's failure to launch fast follow-up attacks on Communist forces against their offensive against South Vietnamese cities.

The Viet Cong, according to all the information available here, is now working through much of the countryside of South Vietnam to press new recruits into service and to train and reorganize units for further offensive operations. For the time being they are considered vulnerable to vigorous military forces by South Vietnamese authorities.

Stability—Johnson administration authorities speak only good of the South Vietnamese allies and are usually quick to deny critical reports. In the present case, however, officials privately don't conceal their concern about the lack so far of powerful follow-up action.

The situation is acute for two reasons:

1. President Johnson will have to decide in a few days, after hearing reports from Chairman Earle G. Wheeler of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, whether to send another 100,000 or so American troops to South Vietnam beyond the 525,000 force level already scheduled.

The performance of South Vietnamese forces will inevitably be brought up in congressional debate for comparison with the burden of fighting to be carried by U.S. forces.

2. The conflict has entered a very critical and possibly decisive phase. The new phase opened at the end of January with coordinated Communist attacks on 100 South Vietnamese communities. The Communists have declared this is a drive to win decisive victories and it will certainly have a vital effect on the war's future course.

Johnson and the U.S. commander in South Vietnam, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, both have claimed that in the first wave of the offensive against the cities the enemy suffered a complete military defeat.

There is no doubt that the Viet Cong and cooperating North Vietnamese forces failed to hold any of the cities and towns they attacked and failed to set off any great political uprising. They also did not collapse the Saigon government or cause defections of South Vietnamese military units.

On the other hand they seem to have destroyed utterly the security system and related pacification programs in the villages dotted countryside. And it is there that they are believed to be healing their wounds and rebuilding strength today—and there that they are considered vulnerable.

A clear hint of what the United States would like South Vietnamese forces to do came from a State Department policymaker, Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy, in a broadcast interview Sunday. Bundy said "If the (Saigon) government can get out there aggressively, and act, and catch the Viet Cong with their forces disabled, in the open, then that could be a major plus."

But as the days pass, a mood of discouragement about their will to do so seems to be growing in Washington.

But Bundy said if the VC can rebuild and reorganize "it wouldn't be so good."

U.S. officials say privately they feel the responsibility borne by American troops—the defense of Khe Sanh and key cities and military bases—should make it possible for the South Vietnamese forces to strike back hard in the country.
