The commission's report, which was released Sunday, calls for a study of the income needs of all Americans. The commission is headed by Sen. Hubert H. U.S.-Sweden Relations Discussed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A coolness in U.S.-Swedish relations over the American role in Vietnam has prompted Washington to recall its ambassador to Stockholm for discussions.

Ambassador William Heath, whose wife was recently threatened, will fly home Monday for an indefinite stay to review all aspects of U.S.-Swedish relations, the State Department said Friday.

The department said "he will return to Stockholm in due course."

Officials acknowledged the recall reflects U.S. displeasure over relations with Sweden.

Prime Minister Tage Erlander said he told Heath Sweden does not want to maintain a good relationship as possible with the United States.

One incident apparently leading up to the recall occurred Feb. 21, when Sweden's education minister, Olof Palme, marched with other demonstrators opposed to the U.S. military campaign in Vietnam. The demonstrators also included North Vietnam's ambassador to Moscow.

Sources in Washington said Palme made a "one-sided and unbalanced" speech asserting there is a legitimate civil war in Vietnam. The United States contends South Vietnam is the victim of aggression by North Vietnam.

Officials also said the recall over relations with Sweden.

was considered highly inappropriate.

Sweden has been the scene of increasing violent incidents and demonstrations over the past year related to the Vietnam issue, culminating with a letter threatening the life of Health's life. Police assigned a bodyguard to the American diplomat.

Swedish reaction to news of the recall included agreement by opposition parties that the United States had taken a "serious, regrettable step."

Plant Fund Vote Slated In Minidoka

RUPERT — Renewal of the Minidoka County Plant Fund Facilities Fund—Levy, which was voted on and passed in 1966, will be voted on during a special election scheduled for Monday. The levy is for a 10-year period.

Voting will be held from noon to 8 p.m. and ballots will be cast at the Heyburn Junior High, Paul school, Washington school, Lincoln school, Aequa school, W. C. Paul Sr. residence at 500-East-175-North, at the Dick Ashcraft residence, 124 West 300 South.

A two-thirds majority is required to pass the levy. The levy will be for two mill and one cent for the purchase of equipment including school buses, classroom furniture and necessary machines.

Supt. Camden Meyer noted that a "yes" vote on the levy issue would not increase taxes inasmuch as it would be merely a renewal of the levy in effect since 1958.

Two mills on the present school district evaluation of approximately $18,000,000 nets about $38,000 yearly.

Eligible voters are those who are qualified electors of the state, residents in the school district at least 30 days, taxpayers on real property situated in the school district, or the spouse of such a taxpayer.

Warden Moves To "Modern" Ways

Taxi Driver Shot To Death In Knoxville

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A. J. Buruff, 23, a white taxi driver, was found shot to death Saturday near his battered, burned cab after he refused protection from a rock-throwing Negro college student group.

Police said the death followed a post-midnight demonstration on the campus of predominantly Negro Knoxville College by 50 to 75 students angered over the arrest of an out-of-state tourist on the campus.

Buruff, married and the father of two children, was found in a field at the rear of the college campus, shot to death and face down with the battered and burned taxi cab some 75 yards away across a gully.

"There are two things for which we are responsible in running a prison, he said. "The first is the security of the inmate and public while he is under confinement by court order," he said.

"The second," Siles said, "is the preparation of the inmate to face the responsibilities of society."

"The latter includes what many people refer to as 'rehabilitation,'" but Siles' definition of his responsibility goes beyond that.

"Rehabilitation includes preparing an inmate to accept the responsibility of a 'free society,'" he explained. "That includes not only being able 'to hold down a job,' but responsibility to the inmate himself, his family and society as a whole."

"The old concepts of penal work—now warden—has tried to bring a 'firm but fair' philosophy to the inmates since he was appointed last fall.

He is Orvil Siles, 54, a former Christian worker, juvenile officer and anti-communist lecturer when the State Board of Corrections appointed him as warden of the institution of Mark M. Maxwell.

Siles says he wants to move administration of the institution penitentiary toward modernology techniques — but not too far.

"I'm not willing to over-extend the warden's power to protect society from these people."

"These people are human beings, if they get rough, I'll get rough," he explained.

An ex-convict who knew Siles when he was the prison's chaplain told the new warden to "be firm, but fair" in his dealings with the prisoners. Siles said a good suggestion.

Years of penal administration changed during recent years, Siles said.

And he has definite ideas about what has to be done to implement them in Idaho.

A new program of classification at the prison has been instituted by Siles and the State Board of Corrections since he took over as warden, under which prisoners are tested for mental capacity, aptitude, psychological tendencies and physical program as well as vocational training, integrated with the educational program.

Most convicts, Siles said, have graduated from high school, so they must have that, too, before they can have a good chance for regular employment.

These who become skilled in trade cannot get into union apprentice programs without high school education.

Helping to get it started will be use of a new 50-inmate camp at the new state prison as a "diagnostic and reception" center for new inmates, where they will be classified, youthful and first-time offenders may also be housed there.

"It's something that's been long overdue," Siles said of the changes.

Prison authorities are now working with the Federal Manpower-Training Program and the State Department of Employment and retraining vocational training, integrated with the educational program.

The "Table Rock Jail" are headed by State attorney Jess Walters, and meet at the prison. Siles said that the rate for inmates released from prisoners having the jail program as well as vocational training, integrated with the educational program.

JOSLIN FIELD, Twin Falls' commercial airport south of the city, looks like this from the air. The main runway is the nearest one in this Times-News aerial picture looking northwest. The alternate runway joins the main runway about in the center. The straight-curved areas are taxiways to the airport facilities.

THE PERRINE BRIDGE across the Snake River, foreground, would be within a few thousand feet of one of the sites proposed for a regional airport. The area shown in this Times-News aerial picture, extending to the right of Highway 81 and north of the canyon has been designated as possible site A-1. It is one of two which would apparently be considered and is closest to the communities of Twin Falls and Jerome.

STEP B-FIELD the proposed regional field would be in the general area shown in this Times-News aerial photo. It would lie to the north of Interstate 84, which runs across the bottom of this picture and to the left, for the most part, of the road which goes across the area at an angle. The "Hansen interchange" is in the foreground, lower portion of the photo. Most of the field would be in desert area with no Jet approach directly over Shoshone Falls.

NOW A FARM and feedlot, this area was the Twin Falls Airport during and immediately after World War II. It is in the light pattern of the present field. The two large structures are hangars now used as barns.

Regional Airport Election Anticipated

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Executive Editor

Suggested location for a regional airport in Magic Valley is expected in the near future and this announcement by investigating federal government experts will be the signal to proceed. The eight-county election for the purpose of establishing a regional airport authority.

At the present time the work for eventual establishment of the regional complex is being carried on by an interim board of trustees which was appointed by the governor following adoption of Senate Bill 166 during the 20th session of the legislature.

Neil Weir, Rupert, who heads this temporary unit as chairman, said that present plans call for continued action as soon as the proposed site is designated by the government team.

The interim board has previously agreed on the degree of financial participation of each county in the district and the logical step will be the establishment of the permanent regional authority.

The electors of the region will vote in this election which will be set up after a petition signed by not less than five per cent of the electors from each voting precinct in the region is completed. Prior to the filing of such a petition, each board of county commissioners of the counties in the region shall verify the signatures within each county.

Upon approval of the petition, the state Department of Aeronautics shall advise the boards of county commissioners of the various counties of the date for the election. This election shall be no later than 90 days after the date of the petition approval and each board shall enter an order that a special election be held on such date.

The ballot would be a simple one and carry the words "Regional Airport Authority—Yes" or "Regional Airport Authority—No."

The returns in this election shall be canvassed by the commissioners "as though it were the only county in which such election was being held."

A simple majority of the voters is all that is necessary to establish the regional airport authority. The cost of such an election is to be paid by each board of commissioners from any funds available to such county.

At the next succeeding primary election the members of the permanent regional airport authority shall be selected on a non-partisan basis. These persons will run for four- or two-year terms. After the first election, succeeding elections will be held every other year in even numbered years.

The board of authority established shall have power to (1) sue or be sued (2) to acquire, hold and dispose of personal property and (3) to acquire, construct, maintain and operate airfields, hangars, shops, passenger and freight terminals and control towers.

The board will, subject to and consistent with the percentage of financial participation secured, the necessary funds to finance part or all of the cost of acquiring, establishing, maintaining and developing of the regional airport within its limits through issuance of general obligation bonds. These bonds, at any one time outstanding, cannot exceed two per cent of the aggregate assessed valuation of all property within the region. All such bonds shall be paid within 30 years from the date of issuance.

These bonds, however, cannot be issued until the question is submitted to the qualified electors of the region and approved by a two-thirds majority of those voting upon the question. As used in the law, a qualified elector means a person entitled to vote in a school bond election. The act went into force on July 1, 1967.

Cleve Corlett Is Aide To Senator

WASHINGTON (AP) — Idaho's new Democratic announced secretary of state, Cleve Corlett, has been named press secretary to U. S. Sen. Frank Church, the Idaho Democrat announced Sunday.

Corlett succeeds Rick Raphael, Newsman and Washington correspondent. Corlett has executive assistant to Church.

USE TIMES-NEWS WANT ADS

By WALTER R. MEARS, CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — There's a hint of political risk for Lyndon B. Johnson in the chilly New England air as New Hampshire prepares to send the first trible of ballots into the stream of votes that will choose a president.

The Democratic President and Republican Richard M. Nixon are virtually guaranteed of running first off their party ballots in Tuesday's season-opening presidential primary.

The question for both men: By how much?

Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota is challenging Johnson's re-nomination.

And the President's chief promoter, Gov. John W. King, appears less certain as the polling hours near that McCarthy's Vietnam peace candidacy will be buried beneath votes for Johnson, whose name isn't on the ballot.

King now forecasts a Johnson margin of 3 to 1 over McCarthy, with 40,000 to 45,000 Democratic votes expected in the month ago, he was talking in 10 to 1 figures.

King reported that some 21,000 pledge cards, each marked with a registration number, had been returned with commitments to write in Johnson's name.

"To me, it's comforting to think you could get that many people to sign up," King said.

David C. Hoch, chairman of the McCarthy organization in New Hampshire, said he couldn't guess the outcome but feels his candidate is progressing.

"If it comes out somewhere in the 30 per cent area, great. Anything over 20 to 25 per cent would be substantial," Hoch said about McCarthy's share of the vote.

On the Republican side, Nixon needs a smashing turnout to build a winner's image and propel his campaign for the GOP presidential nomination. He is without a major rival on the ballot, but there's the looming specter of New York Gov. Gov. John A. Rockefeller.

Still not an announced candidate, but increasingly available, Rockefeller is the object of late-blooming write-in effort.

McCarthy has been a constant low-key campaigner. The crowds that turn out to his almost professional speeches have been small except on the color TV campaign.

Six days before the primary, a Rockefeller write-in group headed by former Gov. Gov. Gregg put sample ballots and a campaign plug in the mail to 220,000 New Hampshire households.

His target is in his name: "The Committee for 15,000 Write-In Votes for Rockefeller."

"There probably will be about 90,000 Republican ballots Tuesday and Gregg said he hopes Rockefeller's name will be written in on 15 to 20 per cent."

Nixon supporters argue that such a margin would be a triumph of the magnitude that man needs to leave New Hampshire with his credentials as a cause they're against Johnson, winter established for the contests still ahead.

King says that if we get 15,000, we've got a victory. If we don't get 15,000 we've failed.

"I think I will win it," Nixon himself said. "But I think Rockefeller could get a very substantial margin, particularly in my view of the fact that I understand a substantial amount of mailing is being done."

Then he turned to the Democrats: "I believe that President Johnson will win the Democratic primary of course, with my written."

The size of the McCarthy vote could be larger than some have anticipated.

"I think that some Democrats might vote for McCarthy but in

Officer In Air Force Is Sentenced

CLOVIS, N.M. (AP) — An Air Force officer was sentenced Saturday to one year in prison, dismissal from the Air Force and forfeiture of all pay and allowances on his conviction on a court-martial for refusing on Vietnam grounds to help train a student pilot for duty in the Vietnam war.

Capt. Dale E. Noyd, 34, of Wenatchee, Wash., was considered Friday of willfully disobeying a lawful order last Dec. 5 to make a training flight with the pilot.

He was sentenced by a nine-member panel of senior Air Force officers who deliberated the sentence 73 minutes Saturday.

Noyd, a former psychiatric instructor at the Air Force Academy, was not allowed to make any statements after the sentence. He was ordered to give up his quarters at nearby Cannon Air Force Base and told he could leave only to attend to discharging the case of an emergency.

There was an indication Noyd would not necessarily be sent directly to federal prison but possibly held under 24-hour house arrest pending automatic review of the case by the Air Force.

Noyd testified in the five-day court-martial that the Vietnam war is contrary to his religious beliefs and conscience although he is not a "universal pacifist."

He had appealed for classification as a conscientious objector or permission to resign from the Air Force. But his pleas were rejected by superiors and the court-martial ordered after the Dec. 5 incident.

20 Bodies Of Vietnamese Unburied

By KIM-KI SAM
HUE, Vietnam (AP) — Bodies of 20 Vietnamese killed in a battle that ended two weeks ago still lie at a former Communist command post in this city, awaiting identification.

President Nguyen-Van-Thieu and a party of Vietnamese and American officials viewed them and extensive property damage throughout the city in a day-long tour Saturday.

The unburied dead were among hundreds of military and civilians who fell in the battle in which allied forces finally drove out Communist regimes that all but took over Hue Jan. 31.

The bodies were at an old Catholic school outside the north wall of the Citadel, the huge compound in which U.S. Marines and Vietnamese troops mopped up the last of the Communist pockets Feb. 24.

Officials said Vietnamese were still coming by, hunting for missing relatives, and there was hope that some of the dead, whether enemy or government soldiers or civilians, might be claimed.

Licenses Due On City Dogs By May 1

Dog licenses for 1967 will expire April 30. City Clerk Constance Leiber reminded Twin Falls residents that all dogs over six months of age must be licensed, she said. Information required includes the name and address of the owner, the breed, sex and color of the dog. In addition a certificate from a veterinarian indicating the animal has received an antemural shot.

If the dog is not licensed by deadline, July 1, the dog owners will be subject to a $5 license fee on male or spayed female dogs and $5 on unspayed females.

Licenses this year will be brass and look like a fire hydrant, the clerk said. They will go on sale Monday at the clerk's office and may be purchased at anytime during regular office hours from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Unearthing Of Skeletons Only Stunt

STAR CITY, Ark. (AP) — The Lincoln County grand jury, which had been investigating the unearthing of three human skeletons at Cummins Prison Farm, was critical Friday of Thomas O. Murton, who had been fired as state-prison superintendent.

The grand jury said in its eighth report to Circuit Judge Henry W. Smith that the unearthing of the skeletons was "designed as a publicity stunt for the personal benefit of Mr. Thomas O. Murton." It returned no indictments, however.

Murton, who Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller brought to Arkansas one year ago to institute reform in the much-criticized prison system, called the report a "travesty of justice."

The board of correction fired Murton Thursday. John Haley, chairman of the board, said Friday that Murton was insubordinate, a poor administrator and fiscally irresponsible.

The grand jury reviewed reports by inmates that the skeletons discovered were those of prisoners who had been beaten and buried.

The panel's report said a U.S. government map dated in 1920 shows that the site had been used for a cemetery as far back as 1923 when an employe of the prison, who was quit as insane, was buried there.

Murton had said there might be 27 human skeletons buried at the site.

HIGHEST PRICE BULL during the Idaho Cattlemen's Association annual Spring Range Bull Sale Friday at Filer was this registered Hereford. Holding the lead straps of the bull is Kenneth Nagle, Nampa, right. He and his father, Wayne Nagle, left, sold the bull for $2,000 to Oscar Hickey, Weiser, center.

Army Officer Hurt While Visiting Home In Jerome

JEROME — A newly commissioned second lieutenant in the Army who was visiting his parents here before reporting for service at Ft. Benning, Ga., was "lucky" to escape with his life when a tractor he was driving overturned on him Friday morning, his parents believe.

Gary Dalton, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dalton, Route 2, Jerome, is listed in fair condition Saturday at Maple Valley.

Memorial Hospital with track and hip injuries received when he was pinned underneath a tractor on his father's farm.

His mother said he was hauling a tree behind the tractor when it overturned on him Friday morning.

Mrs. Dalton said they felt that the tractor's landing partially crushed Dalton, and that the ground was soft saved him from fatal injuries. His chest was free, but his lower body was pinned by the tractor.

Another lucky factor in the accident, his mother pointed out, was that the tractor was parked on a hill.

El Prado by Bassett

You spend eight hours a day (if you're lucky, some overtime on weekends) three hundred and sixty-five days a year in your bedroom. Right? Of course it amounts to about 1/3 of your life. Well, why not spend it in elegant luxury?

Undoubtedly, El Prado is the finest furniture you'll see with all the inherent qualities found in expensive Spanish hardwoods.

Yes, it is simply luxurious to own but luxuriously simple to buy because it speaks your language in price. Yes, after years you'll complain to yourself on your good taste as others do.

Now, isn't this the best reasoning with time? It's a pity some people wait.

Rockefeller To Meet With Republicans

By RHELAN MORIN
WAP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller has asked a group of Republican party leaders to meet with him in New York Sunday afternoon to exchange views on the situation following Gov. George Romney's withdrawal from the GOP presidential race.

A statement by the governor's press secretary, Leslie Slato, said:

Gov. Rockefeller has asked a number of representative leaders of the party to meet with him in New York on Sunday. The purpose of the meeting is to exchange views on the situation of the party following Gov. Romney's withdrawal. It has been made clear to all participants that the purpose of the meeting is not to seek any commitment of support for the governor whose position of non-candidacy remains unchanged.

Slato said that between 20 and 25 GOP leaders from all parts of the country had been invited to the session. He declined to identify any of them or to state the time of the meeting on Sunday.

He said the session would be held in Rockefeller's Fifth Avenue apartment.

Rockefeller has consistently said he is not a candidate for the Republican nomination for president. However, he has indicated that he would accept a draft if a genuine movement developed within the GOP.

DON'T FALL IN LOVE WITH A RING IN A MAGAZINE.

There you are, slipping through the pages of your favorite magazine, when suddenly you see it—the ring. You picture it on your finger. You daydream about it. The trouble is, all you're doing is falling for a face. And there are a lot more important things to think about.

Since the cost of your ring is mostly determined by the diamond in it, you ought to think about it. You ought to know about size, clarity, color, cut. You ought to have an expert evaluate your choice for you.

If you still insist on dreaming, in spite of all our advice, come in and dream over the selection of diamond rings at Sterling. We have rings you can fall in love with and depend on for a lifetime.

It circulates throughout your entire home producing a warm, even climate for healthful and comfortable family living. In Idaho, temperatures change frequently and without warning. Gas heat responds instantly to these sudden weather variations.

Today, natural gas heats more than 55,000 homes in 61 southern Idaho communities and has also become the first choice fuel for water heating and cooking. Toast To Dilettantes Is Echoed At Pre-Curtain Champagne Fete

By NORMA HERZINGER

And a toast to the Dilettantes was the echoed acknowledgement of Magic Valley first nighters who attended the opening performance of this year's production, "The Sound of Music."

"The Sound of Music," a colorful show set in 1938 in the hill country of Austria in the shadow of the swastika, was well received by the capacity crowd and marked a delightful high for the Dilettante's tenth anniversary production.

First nighters for 10 years brought added enjoyment into the lives of Magic Valley residents with its performances and this year was no exception. The several facts were added this season.

A champagne dinner was held at the Holiday Inn for first nighters and then the group traveled by bus to the Filer High School auditorium for the performance. The downpour of rain that dampened Magic Valley Friday night did not, however, dampen the spirits of the pre-curtain dinner guests, with Gov. and Mrs. Don Samuelson heading the guest list. Howard Allen, president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, welcomed guests and the conversation flowed as freely as the champagne.

Among those attending the dinner, to name just a few, were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Herrett, Mr. and Mrs. James Kinney, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Gene Hull, Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Frazier, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Hap Mason, Mr. and Mrs. Ernie Wills, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Jenkins, Jared How, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Stephan, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Malloway, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Clinion, Betty Penson and Judge Theron Ward.

When the call "all aboard" was heard, dinner guests filed out of the Holiday Inn and boarded the two buses for the ride to Filer. In every crowd there's a "life of the party" type and on the bus it happened, there happened to be several. With their light chatter and humorous antics, they kept the party alive.

When we arrived in Filer we joined the other first nighters and almost immediately the lights were dimmed and the 10th anniversary show was under way. Anniversaries are always the occasion for congratulations, but seldom personal ones from the chief executive of the state. Gov. Samuelson's pre-curtain presentation of a fine arts award to the Dilettante Group of Magic Valley, Inc., accepted by Larry Harvey, president of the Dilettantes, recognized their contribution to culture in Idaho. Gov. Samuelson, accompanied by his lovely wife, Ruby, is the first Idaho governor to be among the first nighters at a Dilettante production.

At the conclusion of the show, the first lady of the play, Marty Mead, was presented a beautiful bouquet of roses, as was the first lady of the state, Ruby Samuelson.

Another added pleasure for those attending opening night was having a chance to visit with cast and crew members at the Holiday Inn after the performance. Many theatergoers met the performers for the first time and sincere congratulations were heard from all.

Performances for "The Sound of Music" are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. today and 8:10 p.m. Monday-Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Advance tickets are on sale at the box office at the Boy Scout Service Center or, by calling 733-8965.

A fitting anniversary gift for the Dilettantes will be the completion this fall of the Fine Arts Center at the College of Southern Idaho campus. This building is being constructed

Lilt And Sprightliness Make 'Sound Of Music' True Success

By MRS. JAMES S. KINNEY

When the Dilettante Group selected Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The Sound of Music" for their musical season, we were a little uneasy. Never has a musical play been given such exposure; everyone has seen the movie or heard recordings.

Where last year's musical "The Sound of Music" was almost too unfamiliar at first, night the very reverse is true with "The Sound of Music."

much of a good thing? By its very familiarity might it prove stale and boring?

Well, our fears were completely dispelled opening night. The Dilettante Group presented "The Sound of Music" with such lilt and sprightliness that Friday night's audience was completely charmed by this sentimental musical.

has been a disaster turned into the Dilettante's finest hour. This 10th anniversary production is a glorious treat for all Music Valley.

A great deal of credit is due Mrs. David (Nancy) Reed, perfectly cast in the role of Maria, the central character of the musical. Maria is assisted by all her incomparable endowments of exquisite voice and vibrant personality. She sets a pace that the others in Friday night's cast rose to match.

The seven Von Trapp children were delightful, and their heart-warming musical numbers were sung in a natural, understandable way. Who can ever forget Harry Grell (as portrayed by Mara Erkins) and her clear, bell-like "The Sun Has Gone Down and so must I?" The other gifted young performers cast as the Von Trapp Family were Joyce Guyer, Ron Braun, Jessica Skinner, Mark Pierce, Tammi Joslin (exceptional in the role of the very honest Julie Briggle), and Alice Ann Reed.

This was a talented group of youngsters, and an equally talented group is cast for Family 2 on Saturday evening's presentation. When the Dilettante audition board conducted tryouts last fall, they were astounded to have 147 children audition for the seven children's parts.

travels talented youngsters it was decided to double-cast the roles of the Von Trapp children so that more youngsters could have the opportunity to perform; thus we find Family 1 and 2 performing alternate nights. For opening night, Family 1 stole a great part of the show.

One of the high spots of this year's production is the magnificent choral work with the Nuns. Instead of a formal orchestral overture, the Sisters of the Abbey sing a moving cappella "Prelude" which magnificently sets the tone and spirit of the musical.

The choral work in "The Sound of Music" is the finest musical. This is in part due to the direction of Richard Reed, choral director and in part due to the beautifully-trained individual voices of the Sisters of the Abbey. Mr. Reed has shown great musical acumen in combining with these voices a blend that attains heights of true dramatic and inspirational and something we do not often find in musical comedy.

Miss Nancy Carr as the Mother Abbess was splendid. Her moving interpretation of the selection "Every Mountain" as well as her sympathetic acting skill give her new stature as a member of the Dilettante Group.

Max Deweller is delightfully assisted by all the Nuns and novices, and particularly by Sister Sophia (Alice Reed), Sister Bertha (Helen Roberts), and Jolly Sister Margaretta (Lizabeth Pierce).

Other outstanding performances were given by Neal Barnhart as "Uncle Max" and Esther Nicholson as "the glamorous" Margaret. Neal built his professional in every sense of the word, and he made the role of Max Deweller a delight. Darryl Cooper, Musical Director of the Buhl-High School, is a welcome newcomer to the Dilettante, and he was excellent in the role of Rolf Gruber.

Paul Kliss, production director for "The Sound of Music," showed his theatrical genius by the wise handling of the story. Continually remains, but every scene was eliminated. He directs "The Sound of Music" so that it is poignant and sensitive.

The lovely music is really the main reason this musical has been so beloved. Richard Rodgers composed his most beautiful and varied music for this score, from the church music in the special numbers to the style and character of the Austrian folk songs.

One of the songs, "Edelweiss," provides a most touching moment in the play when Captain Von Trapp breaks down while singing the lines blessing his son-in-law. The role of the Captain is beautifully sung by Roger Vincent.

Del Stuebner, musical director, is responsible for the Dilettante's success with this lovely music. His orchestral direction is excellent, and the Dilettante Group is fortunate to have a conductor and an orchestra of this caliber.

AS in all of the Dilettante Group's past productions, "The Sound of Music" has countless numbers of cast and production members working both on and off stage. It is always amazing to see how so many people from all parts of Magic Valley can work so well together. In part on these very outstanding musicals. Part of the credit must go to a very able Board of Directors.

This year's president, Larry McHarty, and the other officers of the group are to be especially commended for their expert handling of this 10th anniversary production. They made it a special year and gave this valley a truly family musical. They deserve every success. For "The Sound of Music" is glowing, radiant and inspiring.

DOWNTOWN TWIN FALLS

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently became engaged to a very nice girl. She's from a local family and so am I. All our friends and relatives think we are just right for each other, but the more I see of her, the more doubts I have about how this marriage would work out.

"She can be sweet as honey one minute and very sullen and pouty the next. She has at times revealed a side of her I never saw before. She's spoiled, demanding and selfish. And she has a temper. I'm not saying I'm perfect, but I don't think I could take this girl's unpredictable moods for a lifetime.

What I am trying to ask you, Dear Abigail, is this: How does a gentleman break an engagement?

DISENCHANTED

DEAR DISENCHANTED: The same way a lady breaks one. He simply tells her intended that he's decided to keep his bachelor button and forgo the orange blossoms. You may be in for a few unpleasant moments, but you'll survive. He breaks a man's promise in a broken marriage.

DEAR ABBY: What is your opinion of a husband who would jump up and sit fire to the newspaper his wife was reading because he partly blocked his view of the ball game that was watching on television? It was completely unnecessary that I was in his way as he never said a word about it. He could have been standing by for the others who were also watching the game, or what? I have always tried to be a good wife, and he has what other people would call a good husband.

JUST WONDERING

DEAR JUST: Of all the attitudes getting dicker, this is one of the most childish, and certainly one of the most dangerous. Watch him for a few signs of impulsiveness. He could be off his rocker, or headed in that direction.

DEAR ABBY: I have a good friend who is a registered nurse. She is married to a medical doctor, so it's not as if she doesn't know better.

Will it be to the point, this foolish woman put out of a sickbed (his) to attend my son's wedding and she thought she was doing it all a big favor? She looked so pale and feverish, but she stayed for the reception and KISSED the bride and groom.

Present members of the Dietetian-metropolitan-dietitians' who joined the group when it was originated, and new members who were first given when the first show was presented. Those members who come from all walks of life, receive an egg for their efforts to bring Magic Valley outstanding musical comedies, but, according to the cast members, the fun involved more than compensates for the hours of time spent on each show.

Officers for the group include: Mr. Harvey, president; Bradford-Hickox, vice-president; Lois Bloor, secretary; Eric Willis, treasurer; Janet Mink, historian; and Jim Bennett-Magic Valley, immediate past-president.

An April 15 wedding is planned at the Unitarian Universalist Church in Portsmouth.

Twenty-first Century Club's spring fashion show was the featured event of the recent luncheon meeting at the Holiday Inn.

Members and guests were ushered into the room by glamorous fashions presented from the Paris Co. Twin Falls. Special guests were Mrs. Earl Foulbrer of the Paris Co. and Mrs. John Anderson from Mr. and Mrs. Swinging Set, who created some of the hair styles.

The mood was set by spring decorations done by Mrs. Hugh Phillips and Mrs. Joe Milgrasey. An old-fashioned gown of yellow muslin with tucks and rows of lace trimmed in blue ribbon and a long sash. She also wore high top spool heel boots with fresh-colored stockings.

Mrs. Porter was introduced by Mrs. Horace Holmes, program chairman. Theme for the fashion show was "Repeat Yourself." As Mrs. Porter looked through the picture album she carried, memories were shown of spring pictures of fashions of 1928.

Many knits were shown—knit hose by Kimberly Knit of hot coral and the new red-soft pink with satin trim by Mrs. Porter were shown by Graft. The "daisy" look came popping into spring in a blue and white floral creation by Sorral of California. Clothes by Alfred Shaeen were much on the scene, with a black silk hot-tote gown trimmed in gold, other black and white shifts; and a hand-painted pink shift with hot pink in accents.

Black and white were the color shown for spring by Dominic in "shifter-and-sweater"-dresses. Other fashions were by Paul Lester, Milinda, Lillid Diamond, Miss Elliot Co. and Lee Cogg. Accents in this year included the patent look in hats, shoes, belts and bags. The new look in jewelry was the appearance of the large dinner ring.

Models for the afternoon included Mrs. Robert Davis, Mrs. Miriam, Mrs. Charles Perkins, Mrs. Earl O'Harrow, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Rose Sinclair, Mrs. Buster Link Jr. and Mrs. Marjorie Hayes.

At the business meeting, Mrs. Earl Johnson, president, welcomed members and guests. The invocation was given by Mrs. Dargell Heider, Mrs. Farless Feltner, chairman of the nominating committee, gave a report and announced elections will be held at the next meeting.

SURROUNDED BY HIS HAREM, a Big Horn ram escorts the ladies to a safer area at the approach of Idaho Fish and Game Department biologists. The distinctive white rear patches and the beam of the male's horns dominate the scene. The photo was taken by Martel Morache, department conservation educator.

ONE-DAY'S HUNT results are displayed by Bob Ferguson, Twin Falls, left, and George Duncan, Murahung. The hunters got the male and female mountain lions Wednesday in the Slato Creek drainage between Stanley and Challis.

Primitive Area Big Horn Sheep Herds Studied

By MARTEL MORACHE
Idaho Fish and Game Dept.
These two sheep herds, located in a primitive area strip on Big Creek set the stage for a four-day study on the primitive area of the Middle Fork primitive area. Biologist James Morgan and I were seeking age composition information on the Big Horn sheep outside the primitive area. Morgan is presently conducting an extensive study on Big Horn populations in the Challis area. One herd of approximately 50 animals on the East Fork of the Salmon River and a herd of an estimated 150 animals on Morgan Creek north-west of Challis. He is interested in seeing how the herd composition of the primitive area herd, which has had the least amount of impact from modern man and his activities compares with the two herds outside the primitive area. These sheep herds have suffered heavily from the white man's arrival on the scene.

WATCHING RIGHT BACK, the Big Horn ram was as inquisitive as Idaho 17th and Game biologists when they met in Idaho's primitive area. The photo was taken by Conservation Educator Martel Morache with a 400-millimeter lens.

EAT YOUR HEARTS OUT, HUNTERS about sums up this photo taken in the primitive area by Martel Morache. The three rams, much tamer in spring than in fall, are among the continent's most highly regarded big game trophies. Note the "ringing" of the horns on the horns, indicating all three have passed the required 4 1/2 years of age.

Two Cougars Killed By Area Hunters

A pair of mountain lions was collected by George Duncan, Murfreesboro, and Bob Ferguson in the State Creek drainage between Searcy and Chalhy, Wednesday.

The hunters, who have taken one other big cat this winter, found the two mountain lions to be a pair of young males and blue ticks hunted with fella trap teams, tracing the mountain lions at widely separated points. The hunters followed the first close and separated the male with a shot through the head with a .22 pistol. The male was seven feet long and weighed 178 pounds.

It took the hunters eight hours to find the other animal; the dogs still having the female contained in a tree. She was six feet long and weighed 110 pounds.

Needs Three

Three berths are still available for the 11th annual Magic Valley Outlaw Basketball tournament, announced Tournament Director Lee Bartlett.

Bartlett said the only restrictions are that the players must come from the Magic Valley area and cannot have played college or AAU basketball.

Team managers interested in competing in the "outlaw" which opens Wednesday evening at the Filser high school gymnasium, should contact Bartlett at 733-2129 immediately.

Colts' Berry Hangs Up Grid Spikes

BALTIMORE (AP)—Splitting end Raymond Berry, who caught 61 passes for the Baltimore Colts and gained 2,075 yards and 65 touchdowns over his 12-year career said Saturday that he's retiring from active play in the National Football League.

Berry, an All-Pro in 1955-59, says injuries that kept him sidelined for all but six NFL seasons led him to retire in 1960.

"It may be that your body reaches a point all at once where you are more prone to injury," said Berry. "I've reached that point."

"Now I don't think it would be right for me to try to continue playing when I don't feel I could give the team the kind of reason it has a right to expect of me. If I'm going to be hurt all the time, I'm going to be hurt all the time."

Berry, whose total catches and yardage are NFL records, will be replaced by Tom Sestak.

IHM Edges Potlatch To Claim State A-3 Crown, Vikings Win Consolation

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor
BURLLEY (AP) — IHM Academy of Coeur d'Alene won its second straight Idaho A-3 championship Saturday night by dropping the Potlatch Loggers 72-67. In consolation play, Potlatch nipped Glenns Ferry 64-41.

Three JC Men Enroll At Idaho

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow — V.C. McNease, new head football coach for the Vandals, announces that three top junior college transfer student athletes have enrolled at Idaho and are attending the second semester sessions at Idaho. McNease said the three are: Steve J. C. in California and all three were named to the All-Conference team and one was a junior college All-American.

Bob Juba, 5-11, 190 pounds, is a defensive back and had an outstanding season with Potlatch. He was named to the All-Conference team and to the junior college All-American team.

Frank Gabourie, 5-11, 200 pounds, started at tight end and was one of the leading pass receivers, as well as being a fine blocker. Gabourie was named to the All-Conference team.

Steve J. C. is a defensive halfback and was named for his quickness and fine pass blocking. He was named to the All-Conference team.

McNease said that all three athletes would fit into the defensive picture for the Vandals this spring in the workouts and he was looking for them to make a bid for starting positions on the Vandal grid machine this fall.

Mr. Right Is Santa Anita Cap Winner

ARCADIA, Calif. (AP) — Longshot Mr. Right is the winner Saturday of the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap in a race that was as wild as any predicted. He overcame a 15-1 underdog to beat the favorite, Tobin Bronze, in a race out of the money in another disappointing run.

Mr. Right, ridden by Miguel Yanez, finished under the wire two lengths in front of another longshot, Junete Red, with Ah Ram third.

The winner, a bay 5-year-old, New York-bred and owned by Mrs. Peter Duchin, returned $41.80, $22.60 and $14.

Junete Red, trained by Joe Longley, returned $15.40 and $5.60 and Ah Ram, $6.40.

To be sure, the top horse in an entry with Tumbleweed and Duncan Junction, ran ninth, 11 lengths behind the victor, and was never a serious threat.

The time for the 1 1/4-mile classic, raced on a slow track that has a reputation for being the history of the Santa Anita Handicap.

Potlatch led only twice in the game with the biggest at 22-18 coming in the second quarter, but from then on, IHM controlled the game and went in front by 12.

Against the speedy harassment of the defense forced Co's 11 turnovers that made Potlatch pay for every mistake.

Although IHM gave up a big high jump advantage, they hit the boards hard and controlled them most of the time.

IHM, which defeated Potlatch twice during the season, 62-42 and 96-56, bounced in front by eight in the first period before Potlatch steadied under the shooting of Steve Cammyer and got back into the game.

Trailing 15-7, Potlatch rallied back into a 12-17 tie and then advanced to a 22-19 lead when Jim Kerns, Cammyer and Mike Watters got consecutive points, but the Gray Vikings and lanky Paul Stromm pulled IHM ahead and the champs led 22-19.

IHM stole the ball four times early in the third period, but at 43-34 and led by eight to ten points through the rest of the period.

Three Cammyer, who wound up with 31, hit five in a row as Potlatch closed to within six.

IHM led the IHM 11-11 tie ahead by ten, fell back to six but extended the margin again.

With 4:29 left, Cammyer cut the margin to 69-65, but IHM went into a deep delay game and hit enough free throws to tie the game.

In a rapid, turnover game, Middleton mounted an eighth point lead early in the fourth quarter but fouled Pilots back to a 37-47 tie with 3:45 remaining.

Underdogs' short-horned broke the tie and 25 seconds later he added two free throws.

After that, Glenns Ferry cut the lead to two, but Harold put the winning cushion with two cheap losses.

Dan Chafin then hit two for the Pilots to cut the margin to two again.

In the final seven seconds Middleton fouled Reed back into the game and missed the first attempt of a one-and-one after the game.

IHM gained the finals by the skin of its teeth over Kimberly, 78-75 in overtime. Kimberly had the chance on the ropes at the end of each period but couldn't muster the knockout punch.

Following a heady game, particularly in the second half, the Bulldogs moved in front by six points in the third quarter and appeared capable of ending it about there. But then the height of Lynn McManis and Rod Fletcher's game on four and IHM started coming back.

seconds left in overtime provided the winning point for IHM but the Coeur d'Alene club had to survive another last-second comeback that was just missed.

Mexicans Are Pulling Out Rule Book

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexican Olympic officials have pulled out the rule book in the hassle over South Africa's readmission to the Dec. 1957 Games, but it's not too certain that the International Olympic Committee's executive board will agree to fulfill their interpretation.

The Mexicans, who will have a million investors in the Games by the time they end, wanted South Africa's readmission had in the approved by two-thirds of the IOC membership, not by a simple majority.

A two-thirds vote is needed for a change in the rules, and that, the Mexicans say, is exactly what is in question.

Mexico's three top Olympic officials discussed the question Friday night at a news conference. They pointed out that rule No. 11 of the IOC states there shall be a spirit of equality among all members of the committee.

Therefore, in order to change the rules, a two-thirds vote would not be violating it. The IOC would have to get a two-thirds vote. This wasn't done, they say, so rule No. 11 stands.

Sloan Says He Was Hired To Win

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "I was the coach and I'm hired to try to win."

That's the way Coach Norm Sloan of North Carolina State University's basketball team explained the slow-down in Wolfpack team on Friday night in eliminating Duke University from the Atlantic Coast Conference Tournament semifinals by 12-10.

"I took no pulls on my part," Sloan added. "But if I took a lot of pulls for those kids to stand there and do what they had to do."

During State's long dribbling act in freezing the ball, the fans booed lustily or laughed, depending upon their bent. The defeat was a stinging upset of the sixth-ranked Blue Devils.

A television broadcast of the game was interrupted several times for commercials while the dribbling continued on the court. Viewers missed no contest play.

Reading Out Of Fashion? Not So, Library Report Indicates

The Twin Falls Public Library has issued its annual report for 1967.

Most significant in the view of library officials in the 1967 activities is the greatly increased adult patronage, although there was a marked decrease in the circulation from the Children's Library — the number of books circulated totaled 2,333. Reference work with adults has also increased to a greater degree, at least 40 per cent over 1966.

Another area of increased use was noticed in the number of college students using the reference collection and back files of the Public Library.

The report states that a lack of money for the purchase of new books, however, has limited the growth of the reference collection. Expansion of the existing library resources in this field have resulted because of its inclusion in the Idaho State Library's tele-type network.

The library inter-type network is provided by funds made available under Title III of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965.

The State Library's reference staff can often give immediate helpful suggestions in difficult reference problems. In many cases information is provided in the space of a few minutes. Photocopies of needed materials may arrive in the next day's mail. The service is distinct from the inter-library loan service, the use of which is also on the increase.

Some shifting of staff assignments has been made necessary by the increasing demand for adult service in the library.

Reference service in the Twin Falls school system is reported as being greatly improved; however, the report indicates that changes in methods of instruction are bringing demands for non-book materials that must be met if the library is not to lose contact with that section of the public.

Part of the loss in circulation in the Children's Library, according to the annual report, is due to the increased efficiency of the school libraries, and partly due to the transfer of several hundred popular books from the Children's Library to the Young People's section, which serves the junior high school grades.

The library's space arrangements have been revised because of the library's building program. New desks for the typists and a rearrangement of furniture and equipment have given some relief from crowding in the work room.

The addition of a seasonal intercommunications system to telephone equipment in the library has saved much time for staff members.

An Apex copying machine replaced a Xerox and works well for the library's needs.

The report deals amply with one aspect of public service, the need for longer hours of library service.

According to the annual report the library should be open at least two nights a week, in weeks throughout the year. The Children's Library should be open at least two nights a week, neither program is presently possible due to staff restrictions.

The report indicated a growth of professional spirit among the library staff. Most of the staff members are members of the Idaho Library Association. Five staff members attended the American Library Association at San Francisco, bringing back new ideas for the library in Twin Falls.

The report also points out that it has reached its limit of expansion under present conditions, and that it cannot take the place it should occupy as an active participant in community affairs with further plans approved.

The report states that present staff workers suffer under an inadequate salary scale, and are dependent upon fringe benefits from several federal programs. If the programs should stop, the report states, a cutback in staff is inevitable and a cutback in services would follow.

The report concludes with the following statement:

"The Library's Board of Trustees, members of the City Council and the public are hereby reminded that the work of the library and its staff cannot be judged by the number of people using the reading materials. Halfhearted patrons with requests for information come by telephone. A good half of the library's work goes on 'back stage' for the acquisition and preparation of materials for public use, as are innumerable other duties connected with the operation of a busy public library. All this activity is directed toward the realization of the library's triple aim: to provide education, education and (above all) information. The informed citizen is the good citizen."

4-H Benefit Dinner Set At Gooding

GOODING—The Gooding Grange, 4-H Leader Council and Gooding County Agent's staff are planning a benefit dinner for March 16. The Grange members and 4-H leaders will plan and serve the dinner.

Funds raised by the dinner will be used for scholarships to the 4-H Club Congress at the University of Idaho in June. Attendance at the Congress from Gooding County has been relatively low in recent years, largely because of the cost, officers said. Other Idaho counties have had greater attendance because they have provided scholarships.

Support for the International Farm Youth Exchange student, Becky Butler, is also contemplated. She will go to India in September and was an outstanding 4-H member in Gooding County for many years.

A talent show of 4-H members will provide entertainment for the evening at the dinner.

TREASURER NAMED—GLENNIS FERRY—Glennis Ferry, Chantley, of Congress, President Bert Walker has appointed Leo Triplett as treasurer to replace Mrs. Ellie Sparbur who is ill.

For your replacement layer flock or some tiny fryers. Phone 326-4247 SUNNY CHIX HATCHERY, FILER, IDAHO.

GOODING—Eddie Bickford, senior at Gooding High School and son of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Bickford, was named winner of the Union Pacific Railroad scholarship for 4-H and 4-PA-Club members.

To be eligible for the Union Pacific Scholarship, a boy or girl must be a senior in high school and have completed eighteen or more credits of 4-H club work or two years of vocational agriculture.

Winners are selected on 40 per cent supervised project work on records and story; 20 per cent on scholastic standing; 20 per cent on character, interest, qualities of leadership, community and extra-curricular activities.

Eddie was active in 4-H work during his high school career.

a way with words

Last week the "A Way With Words" column offered a small but interesting contest to its readers, concerning the sticky problem of creative headline writing.

We used an actual story about a 50-yard stretch of the Berlin Wall which fell into the Spree River in Germany, due to its foundation being eroded by water. The Times-News Feature Editor offered one headline as an example which read: BERLIN WALL / GOES ON SPREE.

The headline was to be no more than 14 letters long, for each line and and unfortunately some were disquieted because they were too long. Much of the difficulty of writing a good headline is making it fit within the space you have for the story. But all in all the replies were excellent and numerous.

The winner in the competition was a high school girl at Minico, Marva Wilcox, of Heyburn, Idaho. She submitted the following winning example of creative headline writing: BERLIN WALL / ENDS IT ALL.

At first the five of us in the newsroom who spent considerable time deciding which was best, thought that this winning example might have one big drawback. We felt that it might imply the entire wall was destroyed, or taken down. But on second thought the light nature of the headline came through implying only an interesting story that wasn't too serious.

Marva's headline was attention getting, clever in that it rhyme scheme was used without sacrificing meaning, and the headline fit, each line being only 11 characters and spaces long, well within the 14 character and space limit.

The same young lady also submitted another good example of headline writing with her BORDER FENCE / CHOOSES SIDES, but her first one was much better.

Some of the extremely good headlines submitted which were in the running right up to the end were the following:

SPREE DOWNFALL / OF BERLIN WALL, submitted by R. Beryl Lemmon, Twin Falls.
BERLIN WALL / TAKES A FALL, submitted by Harry LeMoine, Twin Falls.
50 YARDS FLEE / TO GO ON SPREE, by Anna Keister, Rupert.
RIVER SPREE / SETS WALL FREE, Dan Schab, Rupert.

There were many others that were good but lacked something. Possibly some would have made excellent headlines in a longer space, or were the beginnings of excellent three-line headlines. Others like COMMIE CURTAIN / CRUMBLES, submitted by Fred Craig, Twin Falls, were excellent but contained a second line too short to make the headline look balanced on a page. And others such as STOLEN BASE SWAMPS INFAMOUS WALL, by Bernice Doolin, Murtaugh, were extremely interesting and creative, but were too long even when divided.

One letter from Mrs. Gary Towle, Jerome, was so well done in itself that we have decided to print it here to give the reader some idea of what he missed if he didn't enter the contest:

"Attn. Feature Editor:
 "Dear Sir:

"The last few Sundays I have looked forward eagerly to your column. "A Way With Words" it seemed like such good light reading. Then yesterday I zipped through the column, felt a little sympathy for headline writers, then started to move on to the classified ads. But I made a fatal mistake. I paused to read that scintillating little paragraph about the Berlin Wall once more. And then I was hooked. I whipped a few titles out . . . too long; omitted a word or two . . . poor fit; added another word . . . new meaning; and so it went on into the night. At heart I am not a contest enterer like such a snap. And now my mind seems like it is going to snap.

"At first I toyed with a Jericho type theme . . . but the walls were falling down, etc. But by the time it was chopped up, I was unable to fit the column head it had just all meaning to anyone but me. Then I tried to get the line "Water Creates Border Incident" into some semblance of two lines with 14 letters to a line . . . but short of deliberately misspelling incident I couldn't do it. Then I went all whimsy, remembered that it was getting late and tried for a play on a song title . . . "You For Me, And Spree For Thee." That one would fit space-wise, but when I saw it written out in black and white it didn't look too wise-wise.

"After a restless night with the Berlin wall fitting in and out of my slumber, I began to wish I had never heard of your column and began thinking of some cool line by which to fit the column head it had just all meaning to anyone but me. Then I tried to get the line "Water Creates Border Incident" into some semblance of two lines with 14 letters to a line . . . but short of deliberately misspelling incident I couldn't do it. Then I went all whimsy, remembered that it was getting late and tried for a play on a song title . . . "You For Me, And Spree For Thee." That one would fit space-wise, but when I saw it written out in black and white it didn't look too wise-wise.

"And there it is such as it is."
 Signed: Mrs. Mary Towle, Jerome, Idaho.

"And also our thanks to Mrs. Mardenne Nield, adviser for the "Spartan," the student newspaper at Minico, who wrote expressing interest in the contest.

CLOSEUP of a great coach—Hank Powers . . .

COACH POWERS, LEFT, flanked by two of his star athletes, Jerry Kleinkopf and Gene Cooper, in a photograph taken in 1947. In the track season to follow, Jerry Kleinkopf would come from a full 20 yards behind in the mile relay to win the state championship for his coach and Twin Falls High School in 1948. The comeback behind move set a precedent for Twin Falls. Two other men, Norman Luke and George Smith, both accomplished the same feat in later years. Jerry Kleinkopf is now head track coach at Twin Falls High School and assisted in football until resigning this past year. Gene Cooper is presently in an industrial firm in California.

The year was 1933, and many of the boys pictured during Hank Powers' first year at Twin Falls are still living in this area. It Isn't Whether You Win Or Lose, It's How They Remember Your Name

B. JAN A. SAINSBURY

Times-News Feature Editor

There lives a man with a proud record of achievement.

He has spent the greater part of his life teaching others what he learned in the early part of his life, and adding to that knowledge constantly as the years pass. He came to Twin Falls in 1934 and spent the 16 years until 1950 as football coach at Twin Falls High School.

During the ten years from 1940 until 1950 he was also track coach at the high school.

In 1950 he became the first Athletic Director to be appointed in Twin Falls. He remained in that position for ten years.

From 1951 until 1964 he led his golf squad to six state championships and seven Southern Idaho Conference championships.

In football his teams at Twin Falls won 91, lost 35, and tied five games. And his track teams took four state championships and three Southern Idaho Conference championships.

He is Hank Powers.

Hank Powers, or Henry C. Powers, as official forms have him listed, has spent a total of 43 years teaching and coaching and 17 of those years have been in Twin Falls.

At the end of school in the spring, Hank Powers will retire from his teaching at Twin Falls High School.

"Teaching is confining," says Hank Powers. "I think it's time I quit."

Hank Powers was born in December, 1900, in Sublett, Idaho, and went to school in Burley.

It was in Sublett that Hank Powers began his work teaching. An opening came up and he had taken some education classes. He was qualified, but at first he really didn't want to teach.

Finally he was asked by a school board member. If he would take the job of coach and teacher at Albion, and Hank finally said yes. And after that first year in Sublett, and another year at Albion, Hank moved to Filer as assistant coach. He spent two years as assistant and then moved up to head coach, a position he remained in for five years.

During Hank's last year at Filer in 1933, his team won the Southern Idaho Conference defeating on four consecutive weekends, Boise, Pocatello, Twin Falls, and Caldwell, respectively.

The Filer football team coached by Powers was undefeated for three out of the five years Powers was there.

And it was the year after the 1933 Southern Idaho Conference win by Filer that Hank Powers took on coaching duties at Twin Falls.

"That's how I got the job," Hank says. Powers.

"What makes a winning coach, and a winning team?"

HENRY C. POWERS today, looking over a few clippings of his many profitable years as a teacher and coach.

How does a coach become successful?

According to Powers, whose modesty is obvious, "Coaching is being able to pick out the right boy, the boy who competes."

If that is true, Hank Powers should know he had a healthy background in competition himself, especially in track events where he excelled.

A good wrap-up of the accomplishments of Hank Powers during his years in Twin Falls as a coach can be seen in this statement from a 1960 sports column which appeared in the Times-News:

"Henry C. (Hank) Powers, coach and athletic director in Twin Falls High School for the past 26 years, resigned from a special board of education meeting . . . Twin Falls football reached unparalleled heights under the guidance of Powers, who graduated in 1926 from the University of Idaho. Under Powers, the Twin Falls grid teams ran up 84 victories, 25 defeats and three ties for a 746 winning average. He . . . was head coach in one all-star game (in Filer), in which his team won (40 to 0). Although no figures were available on his basketball teams, Powers' record there is well over 50 per cent."

"In addition to those sports,

Powers guided Twin Falls to three Big Six conference track championships and three second places. His teams also took two state crowns. He was track coach for seven years.

"Hank has been an outstanding coach and athletic director in the Twin Falls schools," said Dave Henson, head coach, announcing the resignation.

"He demonstrated all the qualities of good sportsmanship—experience, leadership, fair play, self and he has enjoyed the respect and reputation over the state of Idaho that has been a credit to himself and of great value to our schools."

"But coaching wasn't all of Hank Powers' life. He had other interests.

A fishing lodge called Halford's Fishing resort, two and one-half miles below Hebgen dam occupied much of the free time enjoyed by Henry and his charming wife, Anne. But nine years ago the giant earthquake which shook much of Idaho and Montana also caused the waters of the Madison river to back up behind the resulting landslide in the area, and the five acre resort along with its cabins owned by the Powers, were lost.

In a very few minutes a dream was destroyed and the future narrowed.

All that Mr. and Mrs. Powers have now to remind them of the "lost" resort is a picture of the water in an oil painting by a friend depicting the site of the disaster. The entire resort was apparently destroyed. The building was insured against damage by earthquake.

Hank and Anne Powers have two sons. Charles Powers is now 30 years old and is a lawyer with the Treasury Department stationed in Denver. David Powers is 27 and is a Civil Engineer who works for a consulting firm in Spokane, and occasionally returns to the wheat ranch in Richfield, Wash. Both are married; both were educated at the University of Idaho. David went on to receive a master's degree in Engineering at Southern California.

When Hank Powers stops teaching this spring, he will not stop working. A man of an extremely youthful nature he will continue work with real estate. A sport he has enjoyed over the years. He will be associated with Feldman-Ratliff, of Twin Falls.

Hank's wife, Anne, who is a counselor at the high school will continue working in her present position. When the eventful years are over, Hank and Anne will be 60. It was necessary that both Henry and Anne Powers work to maintain their hopes. Today, nine years later, Anne Powers wants to work because, as she puts it, "I like it."

Hank Powers will be missed as a coach and a teacher. But his presence as a person will always be felt.

History Of Idaho's Highways: A Long Road To Hoe

On July 3, 1890, Idaho became a state without a state road of its own. There was no state or territorial administration of roads, with toll roads, bridges and ferries prevalent and all roads defined as county roads since 1875, with $30,000 the first territorial road bond issue of $30,000 unexpended.

By an Act of 1893 a local commission was provided for the internal improvement of the state by the construction of a system of roads in Boise, Cassia and Nez Perce counties. This was the first road state system and commission.

The first statewide commission known as the "State Highway Commission," composed of the governor, state engineer and state mining inspector, was formed by the legislature March 14, 1907. Again the state legislature treated the highway as a side issue and imposed responsibility on alien departments without added compensation, adding to the duties of officers elected for other duties in order to avoid the expense of a new department.

An Act of March 6, 1909, provided for a county system of roads and highways to be adopted only by a vote of the qualified electors.

Another Act of March 15, 1909, provided for the creation of highway districts under a board of directors and supported the Act of March 10, 1935, which provided for the creation of a board of commissioners, that the authorization of county systems did not immediately result in the construction of roads, as indicated by the opinion pronounced by the governor in his address to the legislature January 3, 1911.

The legislature however was not interested in the road situation, as it failed to enact any remedial legislation except that which provided for the improvement of the roads.

On September 27, 1912, the legislature appointed Idaho's first state highway engineer, who immediately proceeded to examine a system of highways that had been suggested by the commission. On December 20, 1913, the chairman and the engineer were instructed to prepare a list of names for the various highways "as far as possible." The Highway Act of 1913 also included a provision for a motor license tax on the basis of horsepower.

In 1913, 2,893 cars were registered in Idaho and in 1918, there were 32,281 automobiles.

The 1919-20 season resulted in the designation of various highways such as Idaho Highway No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 35, 36, 37, 38, 39, 40, 41, 42, 43, 44, 45, 46, 47, 48, 49, 50, 51, 52, 53, 54, 55, 56, 57, 58, 59, 60, 61, 62, 63, 64, 65, 66, 67, 68, 69, 70, 71, 72, 73, 74, 75, 76, 77, 78, 79, 80, 81, 82, 83, 84, 85, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90, 91, 92, 93, 94, 95, 96, 97, 98, 99, 100.

By 1918 it was recognized that a more effective plan of general state government was required. The legislature, therefore, in the Fifteenth Session, by the enactment of Chapter 8 of the Session Laws, 1918, reorganized the highway department by a Department of Public Works.

This Act provided further for the reorganization of the department by the appointment of a director of highways in charge of the Bureau of Highway Engineering and the Bureau of Highway Construction. In 1919, a highway district law was enacted providing that highway districts having no bonded indebtedness in excess of 5 percent of assessed valuation, could levy a tax on each 100 dollars of assessed valuation to be used for the improvement of the roads.

On April 1, 1921, a motor fuel tax was introduced into Idaho for the first time. This tax of two cents per gallon on motor fuels went into the state highway fund. At the time, motor fuels were sold at the 12 1/2 percent of the motor license fee constituted continuing funds from state sources. The motor fuel tax was increased to three cents in April, 1925. Now the financing of state highways depends on a stable and increasing motor fuel tax.

This increased revenue through a rapid increase in the number of automobiles, which in 1921 numbered 10,000, had increased to 30,000 in 1925. The revenue from the motor fuel tax was used for the improvement of the roads.

THE TOP HALF and the bottom half of Scott Williams seem somehow unrelated. But the truth of the matter is that Scott, who is a Twin Falls High School senior, this year injured his knee in the Twin Falls-Blanchard High basketball game. In this picture he was caught watching players from the sidelines. The top half looking like it always has, but the bottom half is a bit worse for wear. The "mud-cast" even has a bright red section marked off by dotted lines, which surround the injured knee, labeled: "Demilitarized Zone."

TOUGH TRIP THROUGH PARADISE, 1874-1879

By Andrew Garcia
Edited by Bennett H. Stein

In 1876, when he was in his early twenties, Andrew Garcia left his home near the Mexican border in Texas and came north to Idaho. After working for some time, he decided to be a trader and a trader he was. He was a trader in the rugged Snake River country. Disregarding the warnings of his friends, Garcia went into partnership with an old trapper named Beaver Tom who was a good man to have around, however, he was sober, however, Beaver Tom's love for whiskey brought him and himself grave difficulties.

Garcia set up a camp for himself near the Musselshell River, with a shelter for his supplies and a corral for his horses. Before long, a band of Peoria Oreille Indians set up their camp near by. Since this was before it was illegal to sell guns to the Indians, Garcia found that guns and ammunition were the best articles to trade the Indians for buffalo robes and furs.

Traveling with this band of Peoria Oreille was a young man named Tom. The public in Idaho called him a "Glad Kid" and he called himself, "Glad Kid." In his time, he was a "Glad Kid" and he called himself, "Glad Kid." In his time, he was a "Glad Kid" and he called himself, "Glad Kid."

Federal-State Laws Protect Birds Of Prey

By JIM HUMBIRD
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Most sportsmen can tell a hawk from an owl and both from eagles. But who knows how to identify a mouse-killing species of hawk from the wings? Or a young bald eagle from its dark cousin, the golden? Or who can tell that master of soaring flight—the small head and narrow wedge-shaped tail, the turkey vulture—from one of the snarling hawks?

All of them get year-round protection through state and federal laws. Congress gave federal protection to bald eagles, the national emblem, in 1963 and broadened the law in 1965 to include golden as well. This strengthens the Idaho Code. Both state and federal laws now protect all but eight of the more than 200 species of birds from off-season plinkers looking for moving targets on the wing.

State law protects all English species except English sparrow and starling. Federal law protects all bird species except English sparrow and starling. The Idaho Fish-Game Department has a clinic of varnims, from ground squirrels and chipmunks that not tree squirrels, rock chucks, rabbits (except cottontail and pygmy), badger, crow, porcupine, fox, coyote, bobcat, lynx and weasel.

A hunting license is required for anyone to carry an unlicensed bird or animal. Residents can get special $3 licenses to shoot unprotected species of birds and animals, some of which have not reached their twentieth birthday are not old enough in the eyes of the law to buy hunting licenses but do not need licenses to fish until they are 14.

Whatever the restrictions, varmint hunting is becoming a magic formula for more shooting fun. No tax on these species means uncounted hours of outdoor pleasure and practice to improve gun-handling skills and safety. This is a new sport with a dedicated following estimated at about a million persons nationally.

The tools of today's varmint hunter are a precision rifle chambered for a "shot" cartridge (flat trajectory, high velocity), a high-powered telescopic sight, and a pair of binoculars or spotting scope. The sporting firearms industry currently offers a number of rifles and calibers expressly designed to meet the exacting specifications of varmint hunters.

This type of hunting is similar to shooting game animals because it breaks down logically into "big varmint" and "little varmint" hunting. And little varmint shooting can be separated into feathered and fur. The "big" varmint hunting takes in such time trophies as cougar or mountain lion, coyote, fox, lynx and bobcat. Of all Idaho's bearing animals, though still listed as a predator—the average peli price for the 1967 season for the five-lynx taken was $23.33, compared to the $19.25 per average for other, the second highest peli price. These prices were the lowest on record.

While Idaho law protects all "big" varnims, it does not protect killing and innocent birds. It does make one exception as follows:

"Owners and occupants of land may kill raptorial birds when in the act of decouring birds or animals, the property of said owner or occupant of the land occupied by said owner or occupant."

Under federal regulations, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service administers a strict permit system which rigidly limits the taking of bald and golden eagles to instances where the birds are doing serious injury to wildlife—predatorial crops or other interests and where it can be shown that the only way to reduce the damage or injury is by direct control of the eagle population.

In addition, the Fish and Wildlife Service may issue permits to take live or dead birds or collect their nests for certain scientific purposes when such permits are compatible with preserving and protecting the eagle populations. Under no circumstances may the eagles be killed with poisons or the use of poison.

The use of falcons for hunting is a new sport in Idaho. In fact, the eagles are killed with poisons or the use of poison. In Asia and this country in the sport of falconry. State and federal laws have put the use of eagles in this sport in most cases now, though some golden eagles who have captivity at the time the legislation was passed still are held on a permit basis.

Falconry often is described as the sport of kings. Hawks and eagles have been tamed by man since the time of the pharaohs. In fact, as far back as 1000 B.C., according to ancient records and sculpture from Egypt, Persia, India, China and Africa. There was a time in England when an educated man was not ranked as a gentleman unless he was fluent in the knowledge of this sport. Shakespeare's comedies, tragedies and sonnets are spiced with falconry terms. For example, when the great hard-fisted Falstaff "perches" himself upon a "stump" at his prey like a falling meteor, a writer these days probably refers to "swooping" down on his hapless prey.

All the good books in print on the fine sport of falconry show the kind of interest—raptorial birds still has for raptorial birds. How to build the right kind of perch, meller, and training arrangements are told. The Idaho Fish and Game Commission authorizes the capture and possession of raptorial birds, except eagles, when to be used in falconry. One requirement is that the applicant know how to care for and train hawks, and that he have such handling equipment as jesses, swivel leashes and gauntlet gloves as a bare minimum. He also must have an assured food supply—fresh lean meat every day. Some farm fur or feathers must be added to this diet at least twice a week to form castig.

Fur, feathers, bone and teeth diet. Indigestible parts of this diet. The name "castings" comes from the fact that this waste is required to be cast just every morning. A hawk should not be flown before it has cast its pellet for the day. Golden eagles are still distributed around the state and classed as a year-round resident. But the bald eagle is scarce and common—and a migrant, with only a handful nesting in Idaho. It takes about three years for young bald eagles to acquire adult plumage.

Lake-Pond-Oreille—generally has a fair-sized wintering population of bald eagles. They feed on plentiful quantities of frozen small landlocked blueback salmon. Other eagles of both species stay on the large waterfowl concentration areas of southern and eastern Idaho, where they prey on crippled ducks. For this reason, conservation officers are cooperating with the National Audubon Society in a five-year research study. The same areas are counted for eagles on the same days—the annual waterfowl census is made.

The species of hawks valued most for falconry are fast and spectacular flyers. The peregrine falcon is the birdman's bird because of its style and speed. This prized species and the goshawk are most representative of the best in falconry. But the beginner is urged to stay away from the rare types of falcon until he is experienced in the care and handling of some of the more common hawks.

Ladies' Night Is Held By Buhl Lions

Buhl — Special guests at the Buhl Lions club ladies' night last week at the R and R cafe were Nancy Robbins, Miss Buhl, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ira Robbins, Twin Falls.

The crown and trophy were presented to Mrs. Robbins along with a check for her wardrobe for the Miss Idaho competition in Boise.

Originally the first runner-up in the 1957 Miss Buhl contest, Miss Robbins was awarded the title in mid-January when Linda Watson relinquished the crown to be married.

Chairman for the 1968 Miss Buhl pageant, to be held June 8, were announced with George Farmer, chairman; Bill Shriver, co-chairman; Louisa Manning, budget and finance; Joe Fehrbacher, production; Robbie Johnson, advertising and promotion.

Bill Shriver is in charge of

Applications Taken For Buhl Housing

Buhl — Applications still are being accepted at Lincoln Courts, located on the site of the old Lincoln school, according to Mrs. Josephine Gilne, chairman of the Buhl Housing Authority.

Jim Robinson, government inspector from San Francisco, announced completion of the project by June, which would be ahead of schedule.

Mrs. Gilne reported that 40 units and that work is continuing on the interiors.

During the annual meeting of the Buhl Housing Authority Mrs. Gilne was re-elected as chair, and Warren C. Sluders was re-elected vice chairman.

Other members of the commission are Mrs. Ralph Lamb, secretary; Rev. Delmar Talley and Kenneth Beecher, Glenn Denney, is the local inspector for the project.

HEAD FOR THE MALONE MEDICAL CENTER IN SAN FRANCISCO, REINER!

ROGER, MR. KENNEDY.

NO... I MUST SEE... LEONARDO CLAY...!

YOU MUST SEE A DOCTOR, MRS. MALONE.

I'M... OKAY...

...HAVING RESCUED ROBIN BY HELICOPTER, MIKE KENNEDY ATTEMPTS TO GET HER TO A PHYSICIAN...

I WOULD CONSIDER IT AN HONOR IF YOU WILL PARTAKE OF MY HUMBLE RATIONS!

VERMIN ERADICATOR? WHY YOU...!

LET HIM SERGEANT!

WATCH IT, MRS. MALONE! HE'S A LOONEY!

NEVERTHELESS, I SHOULD LIKE TO SPEND A FEW MOMENTS WITH HIM ALONE.

A KIND INVITATION... BUT IN THE LIGHT OF WHAT YOU REPRESENT, I MUST SELUCTANTLY DEMUR.

EXACTLY WHAT DOES THAT MEAN, MR. CLAY?

THE RANGERS WILL TAKE GOOD CARE OF YOUR KIDNAPPER, MRS. MALONE.

HE'S NOT A KIDNAPPER! LAND THIS THING, REINER... I WANT TO TALK TO HIM!

WHAT'S THIS...?

YES, MAJAM!

FOR LT. GEN. K. E. PLETCHER,

Surgeon General, USAF
Why is it that other branches of the military give commissions to non-citizen-registered nurses while the Air Force refuses to accept them?—Mrs. Ida Welch Yickert, Santa Monica, Calif.

● Under current Air Force standards, U. S. citizenship is a prerequisite for a woman to obtain a commission. Male medical noncitizens (doctors, dentists), however, are subject to military service under the provisions of the law. Because the law does not impose a military service obligation on females, the desirable citizenship requirement can be maintained.

FOR VIRGINIA GRAHAM

of "G.I. Talk"
Are the guests on your program screened so they will have the same ideas and interests?—Mary E. Miller, Rochester, N. Y.

● Yes, they are screened but not in the way you suggest. We try to find women with differences of opinion; the kind of women who would not ordinarily meet.

FOR A. ROSS ECKLER,

Director, Bureau of the Census
How many persons are born each day in the U. S., and how many die?—Mrs. Emerson Kelley, Port Huron, Mich.

● The average number of daily births and deaths, based on estimated data for the period July 1, 1966, through June 30, 1967, is 10,000 births and 5,000 deaths.

FOR LEE REMICK

You just made a movie with Frank Sinatra. What did you think of him before the film, and what do you think of him now?—L. D. Green Bay, Wis.

● Before filming, I was told Frank "wined" his roles and didn't really care about acting, while I take acting seriously. What I discovered is that it's true but rarely goes more than one take, but he's probably the best natural actor I've ever seen. He brings the same honesty, intelligence, and simplicity to his lines that he does to his songs.

FOR DAVID BRINKLEY

How and when did you team up with Chet Huntley?—Mrs. Albert Mauldin, Austin, Texas

● It was unintentional. We were the anchors for coverage of the 1965 political conventions and for the Presidential election later that year. We've never met abstractly and have been a team since.

FOR PAUL HORNUNG

Why does Green Bay quarterback Bert Starr call you "Papa"?—Rick Gossler, Southville, Miss.

● "Papa" is short for "post shoulders." I got used to the nickname because I have sloping shoulders.

FOR ISAAC ASIMOV,

science-fiction author
Has science fiction contributed to scientific advance?—R. D. Kenka, New, Ill.

● No—not contributed specifically in the sense that it suggested theories or devices which scientists went on to develop. Science fiction is primarily intended to entertain, but it sometimes inspires. Many youngsters owe their interest in science to their initial interest in science fiction. That is perhaps its true contribution.

FOR DICK CLARK

of "American Bandstand"
How are the kids who dance on your show selected?—Dorrie Easton, Reno, Nev.

● Youngsters interested in dancing on "American Bandstand" should call Miss Marcia Silverman, arcwads 218-478-1641, between 1 and 5 p.m. Pacific time. They will be given the necessary information.

FOR HARRY GOLDEN

How do you rate today's young people?—T. M., Atlantic City, N. J.

● Much better than the American youth of the past. Today's youth has awareness, involvement, and commitment. They are protesting the sorry world we left them, hoping to leave a better world for their own children.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

—LBJ—before

Gripping Grandpa After President Johnson's recent "State of the Union" message, the burning question in many circles was, "Did he or didn't he?"—dye his hair, that is. No, indeed whisper, it's just that L.B.J. had been using a pomade which darkened his hair, but he had discontinued using it. He also has switched to spectacles with gray frames—perhaps in keeping with his role as a new grandfather.

—LBJ—after

Boning Up Florida has been used in thousands of communities to prevent tooth decay. Now doctors have demonstrated that it also has the ability to harden bone and promote the healing of fractures. It's a boon to patients with osteoporosis, a disease rare contributors to many fractures in older people.

The Class-less Society One of the "newest" proposals for elementary schools is called "multi-age grouping." The idea is that it's more natural and like-like to have children of different ages in the same classroom. Each child can then proceed at his own pace according to his own interests. Older children can tutor the younger ones, and thus increase their own understanding of a subject. Younger ones can have models to look up to. If it all sounds vaguely familiar, it should. As educators admit, it's a way of going forward by going backward—to the good old days of the one-room school-house grandpar knew.

Detective Story Intellectuals were always a bit disturbed because Presidents Franklin Roosevelt and John Kennedy liked mystery novels. Now a new educational technique suggests that the thrillers may actually have helped them in solving their White House problems. Called "Productive Thinking," the program for 10- to 12-year-olds is based on an illustrated story involving a father and two children who solve mysteries. The students are given clues and encouraged to beat the characters to the solution. Tests show that youngsters who've taken the course score at least twice as high in problem-solving as other pupils.

Change of Heart The "newest" novel by Françoise Sagan will take place in Los Angeles. As the French authoress explains, she was there—for one day. The author of "Bonjour Tristesse" now lives on a tree-lined, middle-class street in Paris. Surrounded by comforts, she asks, "Isn't it nice to be bourgeois?"

Another "Bonnie and Clyde" The clothes Theodora Van Runkle designed for the movie, "Bonnie and Clyde," created a fashion revolution. "People were ready for it," she says of the gangster-moll look. "We're becoming more romantic and so we turn to the past; the present is too difficult." Theodora now has designed some wild hippie clothes for "I Love You, Alice B. Toklas." She's hoping that flower power will prove as explosive as gun power.

Can We Be Modern and CHRISTIAN, TOO?

To some people nowadays, the Christian way of life is naive, old-fashioned, "square."

As if the teachings of Jesus Christ had ceased to be pertinent to this sophisticated age.

A radio commentator, in fact, said recently that in another 50 years mankind will seek answers to man's questions of being from science rather than religion.

This may seem to make sense to an era plagued by war, dishonesty, social injustice, hippies, LSD, divorce, pornography and an exaggerated preoccupation with matters of sex.

But—does it?

Christ did not sacrifice His life for the salvation of one generation and not another. Nor did He promulgate a way of life that would be relevant to the needs of one period of time and not to others. His "blueprint" for Christian living is founded on divine and enduring principles, not upon the changing mores and deviations of a particular time in history.

Living the Christian life in the modern world may be different than it was in earlier and less turbulent times. But the vital need of doing so has not diminished if we are to find meaning and purpose in this life and eternal salvation in the next.

If you feel truly concerned about these things, we invite you to send for our new pocket-size pamphlet entitled "Christian Life and The Modern World." It covers in easy-to-read style such topics as "What Is a Christian?" "The Modern World" "The Christian's Involvement in The World" "Christ and The Christian" "The Christian—Old-Fashioned or Up to Date?" "The Ecumenical Christian" "The Christian and The Bible" and "The Christian Goes to Church."

Does America Need an Ombudsman?

Trapped in bureaucratic red tape? This man could help cut the knots and solve your problems.

By Sen. PHILIP A. HART (Mich.)
with Charles Rensberg

A NEW ZEALAND businessman recently applied to his government for an importer's license.

Weeks passed with no reply. To his increasing dismay, letters and telegrams asking about the application brought no response. When he telephoned long-distance, he was connected only with low-chelon clerks who knew nothing at all about his case.

In the U.S., he might have had little choice but to pay a new application fee, file new papers, and hope that somehow things would work smoothly the second time. But New Zealand, like a growing number of other progressive nations, offers its citizens an easier and more effective way to cope with such exasperating situations.

In these countries, a special public servant called an "ombudsman" (amb-BOOTS-mahr) holds office for the specific purpose of helping persons whose dealings with government agencies somehow go awry. Unlike individual citizens, the ombudsman can order a thorough and immediate investigation of any case, can subpoena pertinent records for review, and can demand answers to his questions.

In keeping with the meaning of his title (ombudsman is a Scandinavian word for "representative" or "agent"), he serves as an intermediary between citizens and their government in moments of conflict, assuring proper adjustment when abuses or malfunctions occur.

When the New Zealander filed a formal complaint about the run-around he had been getting for three months, the ombudsman telephoned the director of the department involved. Within hours, the "vanished" application was found lying in a file on an officer's desk. Somewhere along the line it had been pigeonholed mistakenly for "more study." Now it was acted upon at once, and the ombudsman was assured that such an arbitrary delay would not occur again.

In this age of increasingly complex government, the swift and inexpensive method that New Zealand, Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and other free nations have adopted to safeguard individuals from unfair bureaucratic treatment is too impressive to ignore.

Americans, too, can benefit from such a system. For that reason, I have introduced legislation in the U.S. Senate in cooperation with Sen. Edward Long of Missouri and Sen. Robert Kennedy of New York calling for the first Congressional endorsement of an ombudsman office for the United States.

As presently drafted, my proposal is only a beginning, but the need was never more timely. Our lives are being influenced more and more by public departments and bureaus as more government agencies with more duties arise every year.

Like the hapless New Zealand businessman, many of us have experienced irritating—and sometimes costly—breakdowns in the performance of government agencies. As government becomes more complicated and specialized, the chance for mistakes naturally multiplies.

In a typical case I know of, a mother of four children applied for Social Security benefits when her husband died in November, 1966. She was entitled to immediate aid from funds—her spouse had rightfully earned, yet nothing happened.

Desperate, she began calling her local Social Security office every month, pleading for help check so that she could feed and clothe her children for school. Each time she was told by a brusque clerk that the office was "behind-in work"—and that she could expect a check the next month.

More than six months passed before she finally got the help she had deserved—and then only because a newspaper took up her crusade.

There are thousands of other cases being mishandled by government agencies, involving everything from negligent local trash collections to unfair Selective Service assignments.

Those victims, not fortunate enough to get the news media or some other influential champion off their little choice but to endure the problem.

In many cases their problems might be promptly corrected if the right persons within the offending agencies could be contacted. In others, legal action might be helpful. But taking a case to court is both expensive and slow. A teacher in Pasadena, Calif., for example, recently obtained a court ruling that public-school officials had acted illegally in arbitrarily removing him from his classroom just because he chose to wear a beard. But it took him four years and a lot of money to do it.

Under the ombudsman system by contrast, your battle would be fought for you. Once the ombudsman decides to investigate your complaint, he and his staff would handle all the legal and paper work involved.

Details of how such a system might function in this country are not defined at present, and to rush into a national plan might create more problems than would be solved. Thus the legislation I am cosponsoring calls initially for the establishment of an ombudsman to serve the District of Columbia alone. If this pilot project were to prove effective, I would then advocate expansion.

Ultimately I would like to see an ombudsman in this country at the national level, perhaps with staffs in regional offices, to handle complaints against Federal agencies. So that citizens can be fully protected, I believe that ombudsmen also should be established at state and local levels to investigate bureaus and departments within these jurisdictions.

Under the proposed legislation, the ombudsman would be appointed without regard to political affiliation by the President, with Senate approval for a three-year term. Salaried at $33,000 a year, he would be an attorney of great professional competence and personal integrity, with no recent connection with any government agency. He could serve a maximum of four terms and could hire the necessary staff.

Much of his time would be spent investigating complaints from Washington citizens who feel Federal bureaus or departments have acted illegally, unreasonably, mistakenly, or inefficiently in dealing with them. Nominal fees could be charged for this service, but all costs would be waived if they meant any financial hardship. To facilitate his investigation, he would have the power to subpoena witnesses and compel officials to produce records.

After an investigation, the ombudsman would make specific recommendations to the agency involved.

Although he would turn over to proper authorities any official or employee he considered guilty of misconduct, he would not have the power to demand that his recommendations to agencies be followed.

But since the ombudsman's activities are a matter of public record, the threat of unfavorable publicity is usually enough to bring any reluctant public official into line.

Not long ago, a Gallup poll revealed that among Americans with an opinion on the subject, a sizable majority believe that an ombudsman would benefit the U.S.

When an ombudsman is available, citizens can deposit their government problems on a single desk and let a specialist unangle the bureaucratic knots. This not only saves their time and spares their nerves but enhances their chances of a satisfactory outcome.

Finally, an ombudsman system could be an immeasurable boon to Congress. My colleagues and I often lament that more than half the work loads of our staffs—as well as our own energies—are now devoted to helping constituents with problems that could more effectively be resolved by an ombudsman. This is valuable time that could be better spent researching and defining our pressing national needs and creating and promoting imaginative legislation for meeting them.

I believe it is time to move positively on this proposition at all levels. Considering the number of people and purposes they serve, our Government agencies do amazingly well in performing their jobs. But through the ombudsman system, we have a chance to do even better.

And in keeping a democracy running smoothly, that's an opportunity we cannot afford to miss. ♦ the refrigerator, of course, and we'd like another tv set, but we don't have the cash for either. What is the best way to finance them?

A. You have three choices—through a dealer, a small-loan company, or a bank. (If you belong to a credit union, that makes four.) Be sure to compare their rates before you sign for the loan. Rates on an installment contract with a dealer may vary between 18 and 24 percent. Rates for small-loan companies are set by state law, from 18 to 42 percent. (These loans are useful for those who cannot get a bank loan.) Personal loans from banks cost 10 to 16 percent and those from credit unions 8 to 12 percent.

Q. I need our car on my job, and now my wife needs a car because we've just moved to the suburbs. We've found what I think is a good secondhand bargain, but the bank won't give us a loan. What should we do?

A. You might try financing the car either through the dealer or an auto finance company. Car loans are typically cheaper than other kinds of loans because the lender has the car as collateral. In the case of secondhand cars, however, interest rates are higher because the car has less market value. See what terms the dealer will give you, and then compare the rates with an auto finance company.

Before you sign a contract, make sure it contains: a) The down payment (as large as possible to cut down carrying charges); b) the kind, amount, and cost of insurance, if included; c) all other fees; d) the total amount to be financed; e) the interest charge in dollars; f) the exact number and amount of payments, including the last one. Many unscrupulous dealers may quote low monthly payments, and then surprise the buyer with a huge "balloon" last payment.

In the case of those lenders who state their charge as so many dollars

LOWDOWN ON LOANS:

How to Shop for Money

Borrowing money at cheap interest rates can be tricky;

here are some tips to make a loan fit your budget

By Mrs. HATTIE STEWART, Counseling Supervisor, Family Financial Counseling Service

More than 3,600 families in the Chicago area have been helped out of debt by Family Financial Counseling Service since it began two years ago. A unique community effort supported by lenders, retailers, employers, and civic leaders, the service gives free counseling in money management.

AS A COUNSELOR to hundreds of people who have found themselves deep in debt, I've noticed they all have one thing in common.

Not only do they not know how to handle money, they don't know how to shop for it. One of our clients was paying 76 percent interest on a loan from an illegal lender! A bank loan for the same amount might have cost 10 percent. My advice is that if you're about to buy something on credit, ask yourself:

1. What is the true interest rate on this purchase? 2. How much in dollars will I be paying in interest? 3. Can I get the same amount of cash for less interest?

I believe that the first step in getting out of debt is rehabilitating yourself through education. Here are questions asked me most often—and the answers which you can use for more intelligent borrowing.

Q. We've recently refurbished our bedroom, bought a car, and had some expensive dental work done. For the first time, I'm getting behind in my payments, and my creditors are making threatening noises. What can I do about it?

A. If this is the first time you've gotten into trouble with credit, you probably have a good credit rating. You might consider making a consolidation loan from your bank or credit union, if you belong to one. This could save you money in the long run, besides keeping your creditors from taking legal action.

For example, if you are paying off the furniture on a revolving charge account at a department store, you are probably paying about 18 percent interest a year. (That's what becomes of a 1½ percent monthly service charge.) If you financed the car through a dealer, you may be paying 14 percent interest. A bank consolidation loan at, say, 10 percent would bail you out and save you money, too.

Q. Our refrigerator and our tv set gave out at the same time. We need

LENDER	TYPE OF CREDIT	ANNUAL INTEREST RATE
Auto finance companies	Car loans	10-34%
	Commercial banks	Personal loans	10-16
		Car loans	6-12
		Education loans	7-13
Credit Unions	Home-improvement loans	6-18
	Loans to members subject to approval by credit committee. Various purposes	8-12
	Retailers	Revolving	18-24
Savings and loan companies and savings banks	Installment contract	18 and up
		Home-improvement loans	6-18
Small-loan companies	Small loans	18-42 per hundred, discounted in advance, you can estimate the true annual interest rate by doubling the listed charge. This is so because you pay the stated interest on the whole amount while the principal, due to monthly payments, declines. A stated interest rate of $5 per $100 is equal to about 10 percent in true annual interest.

Q. We want to take a vacation. But our other expenses are heavy, and we're trying to decide whether to borrow the money and go now or try to save the money first. What should we consider?

A. You have to weigh time against money. First, find out how much the loan would cost in dollars. Then you can make your decision on a realistic basis. To find out the dollar cost of a loan, first add up all the payments—including the down payment, installments, and any service charges—and then subtract the price of the item if you had paid cash. The difference is the dollar cost of the credit. Sometimes the cost of money will make a couple decide to save ahead (and earn interest on the savings) rather than to borrow.

Q. Our son was recently taken ill, and we have several hundred dollars' worth of medical bills that aren't covered by insurance. I'm wondering whether we should borrow to pay them or whether to dip into our very tiny savings?

A. Many people are understandably reluctant to withdraw from their savings because they are so hard to replace. If you're already heavily in debt, however, you may have trouble getting a loan for the doctor bills and will have to take the money from your savings. (One way to repay yourself: have a specific amount transferred from your checking account to your savings account each month.) A rule of thumb that some bankers use when they're deciding whether to make a loan: your total installment debt, excluding mortgage payments, should not exceed one-third of your discretionary income—that is, the money left over when food, clothing, and shelter have been paid for.

When you're shopping for money it's useful to know what kinds of loans may be made where. Certain loan institutions can grant loans only for specific purposes. Others have their interest rates fixed by law.

On page 6 is a table based on nationwide rates for loans. Naturally, the rates vary according to the individual lender, community, and type of loan. Except for the car loans, all these loans can be gotten without collateral. Loans for which you can put up some kind of security, of course, come cheaper.

Why does God allow SUFFERING?

Vietnam claims a son. Cancer—dooms a young mother. Children die in a school bus tragedy. Why? Where is God when these things happen?

In the depths of blind anguish, some people lash out that maybe God is a tyrant. Maybe He wants people to suffer. Or maybe human wickedness is beyond His control. For many, saying "It is God's will" is enough. For many others it is not. Who's being punished for what? Plagued by failure, illness, deaths, people often lose faith. Even if you're not personally involved, you wonder, "Why?" Is there an answer? How can Christians, facing despair, reconcile their misery and God? How can they go on worshipping Him as a loving God? Yet they do. In fact, they find in Christianity an un-failing source of strength.

This free booklet can help you understand this Christian perspective... help you face suffering with the renewed faith and courage it can give.

Luncheon to Please the Feminine Fancy

■ With the winter season waning and spirits lagging, it's time for that bright and gay luncheon party to entertain six close friends. Here is a menu we hope will please all.

Artichokes Veronique

6 large artichokes, cooked
(see directions)
Sauce Veronique (see recipe)
2 cups sliced canned crab meat
½ cup shredded Cheddar cheese
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese
Melted butter or margarine

1. While artichokes are cooking, prepare sauce.

2. Mix the canned crab meat into hot sauce, all at once, and place in a shallow baking dish. Sprinkle tops with a mixture of the cheeses. Brush outside of artichokes with the melted butter or margarine.

3. Place in a 400°F. oven until cheese is melted, about 5 minutes.
6 servings

Note: On each luncheon plate, place a stuffed artichoke along with two corn fritters, a spiced peach, and a sprig of watercress.

Salad Tip: Toss crisp salad greens with notched cucumber slices and short strips of green pepper; drizzle lightly with Italian-style salad dressing.

Sauce Veronique

½ cup butter or margarine
½ cup finely-chopped onion
¼ cup regular all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Accent
½ teaspoon pepper
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon ground nutmeg
2½ cups milk
¼ cup heavy cream
1 egg, fork beaten
½ cup green grapes, cut in pieces

Cook onion in hot butter or margarine in the top of a large double boiler. Stir in a mixture of the flour and next five ingredients.

Heat until bubbly. Add milk and cream gradually, stirring until smooth. Bring rapidly to boiling; cook and stir for 2 minutes. Place double-boiler top over boiling water and immediately stir some of the hot mixture into the egg. Immediately blend into mixture in the double boiler. Cook over boiling water 5 min., stirring constantly. Mix in the grapes.

How to Cook Artichokes

Cut off about 1 in. from tops and bases of artichokes. Remove and discard lower outside leaves. Snip off tips of remaining leaves. Stand close together in a deep saucpan. Cook until tender 30 to 45 min. in boiling salted water to cover adding 1 water 2 cloves garlic, several lemon slices, and 2 tablespoons olive oil. Drain and cut off stems at base; remove "choke."

Corn-Gold Fritters

1½ cups sifted regular all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
2 eggs, well beaten
¼ cup milk
1 teaspoon Worcesterhire sauce
1 teaspoon margarine, melted
1 can (12 oz.) golden-corn
Kefir, corn, drained
Fat for deep frying heated to 355°F.

1. Blend the first four ingredients in a bowl.

2. Mix the milk, Worcesterhire sauce, and melted margarine with the eggs. Add all at one time to the dry ingredients and beat with a rotary beater just until smooth. Mix in the corn.

3. For each frying, drop batter by tablespoons into the hot fat until surface is covered. Fry 2 to 3 min., or until golden brown, turning frequently. Drain fritters over fat for a few seconds before removing to absorbent paper. Allow 2 fritters per serving.

About 6 servings

Pan o' Rolls

Elephant rolls to serve at this luncheon can come quickly when using refrigerated biscuits or rolls. Here is a fine recipe featuring refrigerated ready-to-bake biscuits.

¼ cup butter or margarine
1 clove garlic, minced
2 tablespoons snipped parsley
2 eggs (3 oz. each) refrigerated biscuits
½ cup shredded Parmesan cheese

1. Heat butter or margarine and garlic in a small skillet; stir in the parsley. Remove from heat.

2. Separate biscuits; dip each in the garlic butter to coat. Overlap 16 biscuits around the outer edge of a 9-in. round layer-cake pan; form an inner circle by overlapping remaining biscuits.

3. Drizzle any remaining butter over top of biscuits and sprinkle evenly with the cheese.

4. Bake at 425°F. 15 to 20 minutes.
20 rolls

Grecian Glazed Oranges

Using a shredder remove the peel from oranges (allow one per serving). Pour freshly boiling water over peel to cover. Let stand 10 min., and drain. Repeat twice, being sure that the water is boiling each time it is poured over peel. Meanwhile, cut off and discard all the white underkin from oranges. Prepare a sugar syrup allowing for each orange ½ cup water and ½ cup sugar; boil for 10 minutes. Tint with a few drops yellow or orange food coloring. Pour boiling syrup over oranges; let stand about 15 minutes. Return syrup to saucpan and boil it 15 minutes. Stir in the peel and pour over oranges; cool. Stack oranges pyramid fashion in a serving dish and pour syrup over them to glaze.

A delicious combination of cooked artichokes filled with creamy crab or grains and grapes is our version of Artichokes Veronique.

We Were the Talk of Our Town

By ELORENCE SCHWALB

WHENEVER I hear people today say "Nice girls don't do those things," I have a smile.

I think back to 1912, when my cousin Daisy and I were 16, as the world came to know the "first Girl Scout" in Savannah, Ga., by founding the first Girl Scout troop in America and joyfully celebrating its birthday this year.

Thanks to Cousin Daisy, I was able to be in that first troop. She waited until my birthday on March 12, 1912, so I'd meet the minimum age of 11. That day 18 girls promised: as Girl Scouts do today, "On my honor, I will try to do my duty to God and my country."

Then Cousin Daisy, who was 52 and had learned about scouting while she lived in England, told us bristly, "We need broadening! We've got to do something besides knit and tat!" So she taught us to tie all sorts of knots that very afternoon.

For that first year, though, we girls didn't think Cousin Daisy had gotten us very far out of our rut. There were rumblings of discontent, and some of the girls wanted to walk out because, to be honest, we found it dull.

Then her ideas began to take shape. There was an end to those dreary meetings when we'd wonder, Well, what do we do now? She started us playing basketball, taking hikes, learning first aid and child care, and working toward earning Girl Scout badges.

In the opinion of many in Savannah, these activities were most unappealing for well-bred young ladies—especially basketball. That we played this "unfeminine" sport in middles and bloomers was quite shocking. To shield their outraged eyes from the sight of female legs, I helped Cousin Daisy hang gunny sacks along the fences.

Cousin Daisy's ideas were advanced for her day, but she was very proper about manners and grooming. In later years, when she visited Girl Scout camps, it was a common warning to the girls to "pull up your hose and pull down your bloomers. Your founder is coming!" It was painfully shy in those early days, and Cousin Daisy, knowing this, would always call attention to me so that I had to speak up. She put me in the front lines when we handed out coffee to the World War I troop trains, even though I blushed and spilled coffee.

Her strategy worked, however. In a few years, as

Our first Girl Scout troop (1912) stands an inspection.

Thanksgiving approached, I had no qualms about soliciting for the baby.

My daughter and granddaughters followed me into Girl Scouting, though, of course, many things have changed over the years. In my day, it was scandalous for girls to want to do anything more than embroider and take music lessons. Today a Girl Scout's uniform barely reaches her knees, she dances the tuck; can go camping with Boy Scouts or travel in foreign countries.

Yet some things never change. When I joined that first troop of Cousin Daisy's, we prided ourselves on being ahead of our time. In that, I think my granddaughters are a lot like us.

HOME IMPROVEMENT

Furniture Finds

By ROSALYN ADBREYAYA

EVERY HOME needs a unique piece of furniture—one that delights the eye, serves more than one purpose, or fills a small space skillfully.

As you shop for furniture, keep your eyes peeled for a piece that really pleases you. Its lines should fulfill your sense of beauty now and be classic enough to endure in a future setting. If it's a bit out of the reach of your budget, but you know the piece will make your room, give up something else to own it.

The type of furniture piece you buy is up to you. It might be a highly unusual wall unit, cabinet, chair, or coffee table—almost any piece that has been designed well—and satisfies the function for which it was intended.

Have we spurred the collector's bug? Here, we offer some suggestions to inspire you in your search.

Two collectors' items: a coffee table to display objects d'art from Flanders (above left); a slim hatnet with bamboo turnings from American of Chicago (right).

This elegant apothecary chest from Drezel would do handsomely in a hall or small room as a hard-to-fill corner and give storage a spice.

A unique wall unit from Kroecher provides bed, drop table, and storage. The three units can be utilized separately.

How to get rich

How can you get rich some day? Make a hit record... a killing on the stock market... or invent a gadget, like the juke hoop?
 But have you ever stopped to think that there is a way to get rich—possibly only one sure way? Most fortunes, as you know, are made by people who own their own business.

Perhaps you've thought of starting a small business of your own, or a franchised drive-in, or maybe a service business. Trouble is, you need $10,000 to $15,000 to get started and even then it's a gamble—with all chance of ever making really big money.

But there is one business which could make you rich—almost overnight! And the beauty of it is, you can start on a shoestring during your spare time, even while holding your regular job.

Cash by Mail

The business is Mail Order—and it's fabulous! Come up with a 'hot' new item and 'WALAH!'

It strikes like a bolt of lightning! Suddenly, you are deluged with cash orders from all over the country... MORE MONEY than you could ever make in a lifetime!

Like the Vermont dealer who ran one ad in Sports Afield Magazine. His ad pulled 22,000 orders—over $1,147,000 DOLLAR PROFIT IN CASH!

There is no other business where you can make a fortune so quickly!
 • A beginner from Newark, N.J., ran his first small ad in House Beautiful—offering an auto clothes rack. Business Week reported that his ad brought in $5,000 in orders. By the end of his first year in Mail Order, he had grossed over $100,000!

• Another beginner—a lawyer from the midwest, sold an idea by mail to Fabulous Specialty Salesman Magazine reveals, he made $70,000 the first three months!

Proof

It's a fascinating business. Running ads in newspapers and magazines... mailing gift catalogs... getting cash orders in your daily mail—steady as clockwork.

There is no other business where you can start on a shoestring and pyramid your profits—without investing in merchandise! One husband and wife mail order team took in $4,000 selling one item. They obtained FREE ads in national magazines... didn't invest a cent in merchandise, and even got the supplier to ship all orders for them!

These exceptional ads are absolute proof that you can get rich in your own Mail Order business. Very rich. Even a U.S. Gov. Report stated: "A number of one-man Mail Order enterprises make up to $50,000 monthly. Notice how the same mail order ads are repeated month after month? That's a concrete proof! You know—those ads wouldn't be repeated over and over again—unless they were bringing in big cash profits to their owners.

The Secret

The secret of getting rich in Mail Order lies in financial leverage. It's a little-known, almost secret method—using other people's capital to make money for you!

You can get thousands of dollars worth of advertising in big national magazines—without investing your own money! And you don't have to write a single ad. Tested and proven ads are prepared for you by experts. Reinvest the profits from your first successful ad to get more, larger ads; and the profits begin to snowball! It's like building a chain of stores—each new store pulls more money in your pocket.

You mail out beautiful catalogs which offer hundreds of dollars worth of fine quality gifts—yet you don't invest one cent of your own money in merchandise. Your catalogs are printed with your name and address, so all orders come to you. Everything is "drop-shipped" for you, and there's up to 10% margin in your pocket—the profit—immediately—even before the orders are shipped to your customers.

Retel-catalogs alone, just from mailing catalogs, could bring you a steady income for the rest of your life! And Yes, Mail Order is the fastest-growing, most profitable business in America! And now, with more people moving to the suburbs... the population explosion... and the expanding service market... we are on the verge of the BIGGEST BOOM in Mail Order history!

FRANCOISE HARDY:

She'd Rather Swing Than Be a Star

By PEER J. OPPENHEIMER

TWO YEARS ago, an MGM official asked French actress Françoise Hardy if she wanted to become an international star.

"How long will it take?" was her immediate reply. A couple of years, she was told. "Forget it," she said. "I'm having too much fun-to-bother-with that."

And so she was. She had become one of France's most popular singers when barely 19 years old and had appeared in a number of films, including Françoise Sagan's "Castle in Sweden." But the real reason for her wide acceptance among French youth was her seemingly carefree and informal attitude (she almost always wears slacks and blouses).

Françoise once had the audacity to walk into the lobby of London's staid and conservative Savoy Hotel, dressed in bright orange slacks and yellow sweater. Ordinarily, she would have been asked to leave, except for one thing—she was performing there!

Françoise did impress someone with this type of attitude—young American director John Frankenheimer, in Europe to cast and shoot MGM's "Grand Prix." Frankenheimer signed up Françoise simply because he wanted a girl who looked "just like that."

After the film was completed, MGM officials were so impressed with the young French actress that they asked her to come to the U.S. to help promote the film. She turned them down flat. "Working in films is one thing," she said. "Doing publicity is quite something else. It's too restrictive. No fun." That seems to be what life is all about to her.

With her smash success in "Grand Prix" came the chance many aspiring starlets yearn for: publicity tours, cocktail parties, candid interviews, the vital ingredients of fame and box-office draw. But Françoise is not like other girls. "Being a star would tie me down too much," she says. "I hate schedules."

Françoise shakes even the French.

As uninhibited as Françoise appears, she is basically a shy person. She is bewildered by the thousands of letters she receives from young girls like herself. "Most of them ask advice," she confesses. "Who am I to give advice? If it weren't for the way I dress, no one would notice me! Unless she performs, of course."

A friend tells of a party Françoise attended, dressed in a man's T-shirt, belted at the waist. "There wasn't much left to the imagination. She started the mini-fad long before Julie Christie even heard of it."

As much of a swinger as Françoise is, she will be in for a battle royal to protect that image now. She has come under the protective wing of famed French movie director Roger Vadim.

Vadim, of course, has a number of accomplishments to his credit. He made international stars out of Brigitte Bardot and Jane Fonda. But there is an exciting difference. They wanted to become stars, while 24-year-old Françoise couldn't care less.

Roger Vadim is determined to make Françoise Hardy, another Bardot, and Vadim is known to finish what he sets out to do. But he may have met his match in this sexy, unassuming girl who'd rather swing than be a star. ♦
