By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
PARIS (AP) — U.S. and North Vietnamese representatives agreed today to start preliminary peace negotiations at 10:30 a.m. Monday following a further meeting Saturday on arrangements.

The starting time was worked out here today between Ambassador Cyrus R. Vance, deputy of the U.S. delegation, and Col. Ha Van Lau, No. 2 man in the North Vietnamese group.

They spoke separately to newsmen after this meeting, which lasted nearly two hours.

The announcement indicated both sides are prepared to discuss over-possible procedural-disputes which could deadlock the conference at the very outset.

TURTLENECKS may be the 'accepted garb' for priests by 1975, says Rev. William A. Maat, O.S.B., pastor of Holy Rosary Catholic Parish in Tacoma, Wash. Both Rev. Maat, shown above in a turtle-neck sweater, and Rev. Waterloo Grubb, his associate wearing conventional garb above, say they have been criticized from within church circles. Rev. Maat calls the critics part of the "frozen chosen, the old, conservative guard who cannot distinguish between what is essential and what is nonessential." (AP wirephoto)

First Violence Reported In Connection With 'Poor' March

By The Associated Press
The first violence reported in connection with the massive Poor People's Campaign occurred today as a self-styled Polish freedom fighter was stabbed as a contingent of marchers boarded buses in Boston.

Joseph Mior-Mroz, 43, Salem, Mass., was taken to Boston City Hospital where officials said he had suffered a stab wound in the left side and placed his name on the danger list.

The incident occurred outside the offices of the Boston chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, sponsor of the march, where the northeastern segment of the Washington-bound campaign boarded buses for the next scheduled stop at Providence, R.I.

Burley Baby Drowns In Lateral By Home

BURLEY — Travis Lee Shell, 1-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Dean Shell, drowned about 7:30 p.m. Thursday in an irrigation lateral which runs in front of his home, three and one-half miles south and one and a half miles east of Burley.

The child was playing along the ditch where his father was working and apparently stumbled and fell into the water. The father was administering artificial respiration.

Mrs. Shell called for an ambulance and notified officers, then the parents rushed the boy to the hospital with the brother giving artificial respiration en route. The baby was pronounced dead on arrival at Cassia Memorial Hospital.

Miners To Be Rescued Soon

HOMINY FALLS, W. Va. (AP) — Two men trapped four days in the dark, flooded passageway of a coal mine crawled a half-mile through 10 inches of water today to reach another 13 known to be alive.

The remaining 10 of the 25 men, trapped when millions of gallons of water poured into the mine through a wall break Monday, are presumed dead. There is no contact with them.

Mine foreman Frank Davis and miner Edward Rudd, isolated 1 1/2 miles from the mine entrance, groped through muddy water and reached the other group at 10:30 a.m. The group

Student Protests Continue On U.S. Campuses

Chicago police arrested 12 students Thursday night after they burned the flag in front of the Roosevelt University office in a continuing demonstration. The school suspended 24 others arrested there.

Elsewhere there were these developments in the disturbances which have hit the nation's campuses.

About 800 Marquette University students marched through the campus to back demands for more "action" involvement in Milwaukee's racial STOCKHOLM (AP) — Nine more American defectors were granted asylum in Sweden on "humanitarian grounds" Friday by the All-Party Commission.

U.S. Infantrymen Clash With Snipers At Saigon

By GEORGE ESPER
SAIGON (AP) — U.S. infantrymen clashed repeatedly today along the southern fringes of Saigon with bands of snipers and rocket-firing Viet Cong, but general U.S. military operations moved down as American and North Vietnamese peace negotiators prepared to meet in Paris.

The Americans from the Division appeared to be driving the enemy away from South Vietnam's capital on the sixth day of the "Viet Cong" peace talks.

Two major developments were reported in the war against North Vietnam. U.S. Navy pilots said they blew up the biggest oil depot in the southern half of North Vietnam. And the U.S. Command confirmed a report earlier this week from Pentagon sources in Washington that Communist MIG fighters are operating in the North Vietnamese panhandle south of the 20th parallel for the first time in the war.

Health Board Approves 3-Way Distribution Of Federal Funds

By EARLE L. JESTER
MCCALL, Idaho (AP) — The Idaho State Board of Health approved today a three-way split of federal funds for health construction funds, with each institution getting less than it asked.

Personal Touch In Hospitals Stressed

People who staff Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and provide "personal care" for hospitalized patients will be spotlighted during the 1968 National Hospital Week observance beginning Sunday.

The requests can be met with fiscal 1970 funds.

The board's action carried out an agreement reached at a three-day meeting in Boise during construction funds, with each institution getting less than it asked.

Board members went off the record three times during the Thursday meeting, which began in Boise.

Rockefeller-Not Among The Doves

WASHINGTON — While the Democrats are scrapping, Nelson Rockefeller has managed to assure the Republican electorate that their party is firmly united on the campaign's major issue, the Vietnam war. If Rockefeller and Dick Nixon disagree on any important aspect of the war, it is not discernible in any of the Rock's public utterances to date. Surely, Rockefeller cannot be counted among the doves. His position remains pretty much what it has been for the past several years: general support of the administration's policy, with a sprinkling of hindsight observations. Nixon might be writing the Rock's speeches on this topic. This Nixon-Rockefeller position has the advantage of political safety — it has appeal to both sides. But it also has a weakness, especially when the two candidates launch criticisms of the inadequacy of the de-escalation effort, the over-emphasis on a military solution and the over-idealization of such a solution. Neither mentions that he staunchly supported Lyndon Johnson while the President was getting himself into the mess in a South Vietnamese government on the grounds that the NFL can't be trusted. Here their disagreement with McCarthy and Kennedy is sharpest. Indeed, they seem to be challenging Lyndon Johnson's deposition that there would be no "practical" way of giving the NFL a place in the South Vietnamese political sun.

In presenting their long-range view, Rockefeller and Nixon challenge the slightly isolationist positions of McCarthy and Kennedy, but in doing so they sound like Robert Humphreys. Both remain staunch Internationalists who feel the United States must remain a power in the world. Both feel the danger in the country of the danger to American interests of Communism "wars of national liberation." Both Rockefeller and Nixon, therefore, have restricted themselves to generalities.

For example, both demand more effective diplomatic campaign by the United States. Well, nobody is against that. But they are against the idea of no military victory. Perhaps they are right, in the sense that the U.S. cannot overwhelm the enemy. But military victory in a conference table usually is not very effective unless the troops have done well on the battlefield.

Apparently, the two Republicans can candidates have decided that a dose of me-tooism is their best position against the attacks of the McGarveys and Kennedy. Both oppose giving the Viet Cong's political arm, the National Liberation Front, the important role it demands in a South Vietnamese government on the grounds that the NFL can't be trusted. Here their disagreement with McCarthy and Kennedy is sharpest. Indeed, they seem to be challenging Lyndon Johnson's deposition that there would be no "practical" way of giving the NFL a place in the South Vietnamese political sun.

Anarchy

College students for several decades have been busily engaged in convincing themselves they know more about administering a college than the administrators do and more about academic freedom than their professors, but the current state of student revolt is—in a word—revolting. The latest revolt is to organize the campus hippies and revolutionaries in a raid, not on coed dormitories, but on the administration—building and therein—through a series of maneuvers including sit-ins, lie-ins, sprouts and small-ins—effectively put out of commission the brain of the college structure. Admittedly, capturing the offices of a college administration and forcing a campus the size of Columbia University to suspend all operations because of the student siege is about as daring a student "prank" as one can imagine. But it lacks class. Columbia, and other schools which have been assaulted by their students' bodies, have only themselves to blame for the spectacle they have presented. The age of permissiveness, particularly on the more "progressive" campuses, has exceeded all bounds. Perhaps the age has gone beyond recall when a punk brazen enough to disrupt an entire campus would be accorded a series of stout whacks across the posterior with a paddle, but there are other ways of stopping anarchy from defiling what pass for seats of higher learning. The most effective is expulsion. Even the most dedicated fool has difficulty plying his trade when denied a platform. Most colleges and universities today turn away applicants for lack-of-room—Ejecting those who prefer not to accept the responsibilities of civilization to make room for those who honestly seek to improve themselves makes good sense. Unfortunately, good sense is a virtue not found in every college administrator building. Which is why some colleges slid into the muck.

WAYNE BRANDSTADT, M.D. Diverticulosis

Anyone in whom diverticulosis or diverticulitis is found, by direct viewing through a sigmoidoscope or by X-ray studies, following a barium enema, should be under the care of a physician. All cathartics must be avoided because they increase the pressure in the colon and thus favor rupture of a diverticulum. High-colic enemas must be avoided for the same reason. Surgical removal of the diverticula is out of the question because there are so many of them. Formerly a low-residue diet (one containing no vegetable or fruit) was recommended, but this was found to aggravate rather than alleviate the condition. A diet that includes liberal quantities of vegetables and fruit and an ample fluid intake is now advised. Foods to be avoided include blackberries, raspberries, prunes, figs and tomatoes, because of the tendency of the small seeds to lodge in the diverticula. In the past, it was thought that certain visible bran particles, such as gas-formers as beans, potatoes, peas, corn, cabbage, cauliflower, etc., and Brussels sprouts, were the cause of diverticulosis. Constipation is avoided by using an eight-ounce warm water enema if needed.

Scientific Control

Scientific control of human intelligence no longer is simply fare for science fiction buff. Even science fiction and his experiments, the scientific community has demonstrated increasing abilities to control man's behavior and to some extent even his thought processes. Testimony before Congress by a psychologist now reveals that science is concentrating on methods of changing intellectual capacities permanently, and with some degree of success. Dr. David Krech, professor of psychology at the University of California, Berkeley, filled in members of a Senate subcommittee on progress already made in this field and what to expect in the next five to 10 years. Most experiments to date have been on animals, but the degree of success indicates human guinea pigs will soon be employed. "I foresee the time when we shall have the means and therefore, inevitably, the temptation to manipulate the behavior and the intellectual functioning of all people through environmental and biochemical manipulation of the brain," Dr. Krech testified. Mentioned as one of the tools employed in changing native intelligence was a class of drugs credited with the ability to improve both the memory and the problem-solving ability of laboratory animals. Heretofore stupid animals have had their intelligence lifted to the performance level of brighter animals of the same species. Other chemicals have been found which prevent the permanent storing of memories, although they interfere in no way with the efficient performing of other intellectual functions. Because of these and other discoveries, the scientist predicted the world may soon have to cope with three possible new social orders: 1. A world in which the I.Q. memory ability of any man could be raised or lowered. 2. A system which would permit the improvement of natural dullards only—giving them the opportunity of competing with the rest of society. 3. The most likely possibility of all, in which only certain attributes—artistic or musical talents, for instance—would be improved. Control of human intelligence may have a frightening sound, but development of an individual's total capacity, intellectual as well as physical, is a humane goal. It, however, requires the establishment of definite guidelines to prevent abuse.

BRUCE BLOSSAT Rocky Plows Vote-Filled Iowa

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa—Gov. Nelson Rockefeller has begun here in this state, a long series of face-to-face confrontations with elected or prospective national convention delegates to elect himself to waverers, who wonder about Richard Nixon's electability. "I'm going to go to talk to these delegates," the governor said in a short interview. "I'm going to where they are." Rockefeller started off his direct assault on the delegates with a lively behind-scenes exchange at Des Moines with Iowa's 24-member Republican delegation. The governor told this reporter he did not try to pressure the Iowans for support but simply gave them a chance to question him fully on his views across the board. He felt strongly, nevertheless, that he may have made a dent. Not long ago some 15 of Iowa's 24 delegates were reported leaning to Nixon, with perhaps six for Rocky and three for Gov. Ronald Reagan of California. By the account of one Iowa observer, a copy of Nixon's 1968 nomination fight against the late Sen. Robert Taft. For five weeks in New York and Denver, he "held court" with visiting delegations. Many conservatives decided he did not have liberal horns and swung their crucial votes his way at Chicago on July 11. "For the New Yorker, the 'Go where they are' technique represented an important turn away from the faltering strategy which called on him to try to win the day with a series of dislevel speeches, interlarded with earlier campaign forays. At Washington and Philadelphia, the high-level approach failed. By the month's end, more than three-fourths of the 1,333 GOP delegates will have been chosen by Rockefeller endorsement. But he will not rely wholly on his warm, homey contact with delegates behind closed doors. His Iowa foray among both university students and rank-and-file politicians was a personal smash which he hopes to repeat elsewhere. He points to his outgoing Nixon against all Democrats and he needs more of that. He could be heavily advantaged if he can gain some key government endorsements and if Sen. Robert Kennedy rises on the Democratic ticket to throw a smash scare into the Nixon doubters and, evidently, a lot of others.

Today pleading "poverty" many Americans demand the property of others. Some insist it. Others demand that the government seize it for them. "How refreshing to discover" Champion Down, No beggar he; no man is more free to plow. When the rest of us have experimented with the notion that Big Government can take care of everybody and have discovered, as every nation in history has, that those governments end in bankruptcy and that people are better off on their own looking around for an example of independence and self-reliance and the kind of self-discipline that man can develop only from doing what he ought to do, instead of just what he wants to do. ## MR. SPECTATOR

The Bad, Bad Guy Is Dead

Albert Dekker is a name unknown to many movie and television fans. The truth of the matter is he was one of the biggest of them all. For 40 years his massive frame lunged across the golden screen. He is known as the bad guy of the happy days. Mr. Dekker was found dead Sunday in Hollywood. He was 62. During the Boris Karloff era when horror films were favorites, Mr. Dekker led the pack. Many might recall him as the "happy days" of the "Bad Guy" who was the "bad guy" in the ghost stories of "Judd For The Defense," or "Gunsmoke," or the "FBI." The veteran actor starred in no less than 150 films and was a co-star or member of the cast in countless others. He played everything from a cowboy to a mad scientist, from a bad guy to a good guy, a drunk in a pie, from a happy father to an island recluse, and from a wealthy industrialist to a penniless bum. But through it all he remained the tough guy, from a dick to a saint, from a happy man to a man dying the scene of the talking movie. And yet he remains almost unknown. Mr. Dekker is remembered along with Franchot Tone, Lew Ayres, John Barrymore and Walter Brennan. And yet his name never drew the envy the others did. He remained a behind-the-scenes actor through his life. Mr. Dekker was big in size and in spirit. It's too bad he didn't get the credit due him. And if there is any doubt now who Albert Dekker is, just turn on the late movie. Chances are very good he'll be in the cast.

Just for your information, Mr. Spectator wishes to point out that one of every seven Americans will likely use hospital services before this year has ended. Last year the cost of the nation's medical care was $29 billion, and it is estimated that in the latest report there were 7,160 hospitals in the United States and 5,812 were community hospitals. The hospitals in the United States employ over two million men and women and the payroll expense comes to $9,288,284,000. By the way—how do you learn? READ AND LEARN! Dear Spectator: We farm people are fond of our animals and treat them well. In the past, when one of our animals has died, we have quickly buried it. What would you think, dear city people, if on morning you find a dead calf or horse or sheep laying on your front walk? You would have to dispose of it before it became "happily" would it not? Would you think about it? No, of course you wouldn't. We farm people aren't happy about having your dead pets dumped along our roads, but we farm people, either. Please do us a favor for this. For only 50 cents you could have them buried at the dump, for a dollar you could have them dug a hole and buried there, or for just the extra (which will probably help you) you could dig it yourself. As this is written, the onece beautiful, long eared golden granges, all live at the corner of 1st and 300 East Road. Please dispose of your pets, properly. Please! —A Country Dweller

PAUL HARVEY

The Portrait Of An American.

Champion Down is a retired farmer, 67. He lives in a log house about four miles east of Leslie, Mich. Down's 127-year-old log house is what most today would call "shabby." By contemporary standards the log in "poverty" "Many people would call him "underprivileged," "deprived." "I don't. He's one of the richest men I know." Mr. Down can remember when all Americans worked their way, provided for the rainy day, took care of themselves and their own when they got ill or got old. The Stars and Stripes were never displayed so reverently than on his living room wall. A modern interior decorator would have a convulsion over the peeling paint and its inscription, "God Bless Our Home." When reporter Bill Cuckinham from the State Journal called on the modest cabin near the crossroads of Otis and Cooper, Mr. Down was doing some carpenter work by the light of the open barn door. Sandy, his pet kitten, was stretching, yawning in the sunlight. Typically "hospitable," Mr. Down invited his visitor into his house, apologized for some untidiness, explained that "Mr. Down died in 1922 and I never quite got caught up with house-keeping and chores." He had an old heater burns wood or coal or corncobs. His daughter talked him into installing a telephone so they could keep in touch. That, and a transistor radio, are his only comforts, with, apparently, "the cabin lit by kerosene lamps." Though he is 67 and entitled to a retired government pension, Mr. Down has accepted none; no Medicare, no welfare, no old age pension, no unemployment pay, no subsidy for farming or for not farming. "I worked hard when I was young, saved enough to take care of myself," he says. "Why should it be a burden on taxpayers? Better they should save their money for their own twilight time."

Today pleading "poverty" many Americans demand the property of others. Some insist it. Others demand that the government seize it for them. "How refreshing to discover" Champion Down, No beggar he; no man is more free to plow. When the rest of us have experimented with the notion that Big Government can take care of everybody and have discovered, as every nation in history has, that those governments end in bankruptcy and that people are better off on their own looking around for an example of independence and self-reliance and the kind of self-discipline that man can develop only from doing what he ought to do, instead of just what he wants to do. "In that day, we will need to remember how it once was. And we'll need most an example of how it can be. And if God wills, that day will come around again soon enough — Champion Down or his memory can be that for us all."

RAY CROMLEY Viet Mobility

NORTHEAST THAILAND — This is the time to look back at the siege of Khe Sanh and see the lessons learned. The more we can learn in hindsight, the better we will be able to meet Ho Chi Minh's next moves in this complicated war. By mining down U.S. forces at Khe Sanh, Ho cut off military interference on the ground with his troops — supply movements and thus reopened major infiltration routes for the North Vietnamese southern expeditionary forces. The irony of this war is that the U.S. has set up in this important infiltration route to block the Communist supply lines. But Ho felt no force U.S. troops into "light" the matter — fixed them in one spot and then moved around and forth with his troops on up with comparative freedom. We thus fell into Ho's trap. Likewise, the Tet offensive forced U.S. and South Vietnamese forces and pacification teams back into the cities temporarily. The Communists were thus able to move freely in the countryside with their new equipment and sizable supplies, food and all. It also made possible the wide — open recruiting of the "volunteers." Communist tactics, what is wrong is not a fixed base, but a mobile strategy which would enable us to move in Vietnam and retire quickly. The Communist States has this capability and uses it for other operations.

Lao officers with long experience in guerrilla warfare told this reporter they could not understand why at Khe Sanh we didn't take advantage of the Communist build-up there to reverse the tables. We could have made lightning commando raids behind the Communist lines, striking hard and fast with airborne troops to hit the North Vietnamese from the rear, they getting out fast before being trapped. Major convoys from the north in large numbers could have been annihilated by mobile troops, airborne infantry equipped for hit-and-run tactics could have made enormous attacks on these convoys. U.S. forces have demonstrated a number of things: their ability to ambush, mine and carry out effective hit-and-run attacks on the enemy, especially in the mountains where the major have been channeled on major routes. A similar mobile strategy is needed to meet Communist tactics. We need to have enough U.S. and South Vietnamese forces to occupy cities permanently and keep the Communist forces out of the cities. We need to have the ability to carry on the war in the countryside. But with proper infiltration and hit-and-run tactics we can move Allied forces in rapidly to make a quick Communist "clinch their" and move out fast again behind the Communist movements in rural regions which are certain to follow each city raid. Otherwise, the Communist will continue to use the same shuttle tactics against us that they employed so successfully against the French.

Twin Falls' Alpha Nu Chapter of Epsilon Sigma Alpha observed Founder's Day recently with a birthday celebration for the 39th Anniversary of the sorority. The meeting was at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Fuller and was presided by a tour of the Fuller farm.

Members were given their trading stamp plan cards and Mrs. Fuller explained how they can earn bonus points by presenting these and books for the chapter's project — to purchase an electric typewriter for the Eastern Star Chapter.

The chapter elected its new officers for the 1968-69 sorority year. They include president, Mrs. Carl Feeler, vice president, Mrs. Leo McFarland, recording secretary, Mrs. Mark Wilkie, treasurer, Mrs. Robert Ellis, corresponding secretary, Mrs. Jody Assandri, and parliamentarian, Mrs. Daryl McCullough.

Installation will be held at the Mother-Daughter Breakfast to be held May 25 at the Depot Grill.

Epsilon Sigma Alpha, an international women's service organization, is one of the largest organizations of its kind in the world with a membership nearing 4000 in 1970 chapters throughout the world.

First organized in Jacksonville, Tex., in 1929, Epsilon Sigma Alpha was founded by 10 prominent women. The late Willa Cather was among its first members.

Surviving the difficult depression years, the sorority began to strengthen in 1941 when the renowned educator, philosopher, author and lecturer, E. Robert Palmer, took over as head of the small club of locally administered chapters.

Under his leadership, Epsilon Sigma Alpha blossomed into an international organization whose philanthropic projects alone total more than $1 million annually.

Alpha Nu Chapter was organized Jan. 9, 1955, and has a membership of 15. It meets the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month, in addition

CHAPTER ACTIVITIES were reviewed by Alpha Nu Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, when the unit observed Founder's Day, celebrating the 39th Anniversary of the sorority. By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: In our circle there is a widow, past 65 who has a man living with her. He's a cousin (widower) about her age. She tells people that she wants to be alone in the house without a man. The home is here and this cousin helps with the household chores. They share expenses, and seem to be enjoying the arrangement.

Most of her friends do not approve of this setup, but so far they haven't let her know how they feel. Would you think of such an arrangement?

TRUMPS

DEAR TRUMPS: I think every widow over 65 should be so lucky as to have a man whom to share her household expenses, and to keep her company. And that goes double for widowers.

DEAR ABBY: I met a girl four months ago and we were immediately attracted to one another. We saw a lot of each other, so our four month's courtship is not really as brief as it sounds. (She's 22 and I am 26.) We plan to marry soon, but she says we have to keep it a secret from everyone but our folks on account of her job. She says she promised her boss before he hired her that she would not get married for at least TWO YEARS. (She's been there almost a year.) She says they wouldn't have hired her otherwise. They don't hire girls who plan on getting married because after they marry they get pregnant right away, and then they either quit or take a long leave of absence, and they're never the same after that.

DEAR ABBY: I should tell her boss she's taking "The Pill" and doesn't plan on getting pregnant for at least five years, and if he doesn't want to keep her, she can get another job. She says she likes her job and doesn't want to risk losing it. Besides she gets a nice bonus and increases after each year.

I say no wife of mine is going to work as a "miss" and leave her wedding ring in the drawer. Who is right?

Actress Writes Novel To Demolish Men

BY GRANVILLE WATTS
LONDON (AP)—Men, says Jackie Collins, have had it too good for too long. She has written a book to have her say.

Miss Collins, a tall, leggy brunette who once decorated a string of British second feature movies, has published her first novel.

Social Calendar

GLENN'S FERRY—The annual Mother's Day Tea will be held by all Brownie and Junior Girl Scouts Monday at the LDS Hall, right after school. All mothers of the grade school Girl Scouts are invited.

St. Edward's Council of Catholic Women will hold its annual Marion Luncheon at 12:30 p.m. Tuesday at the Parish Hall. Reservations should be obtained by Sunday evening by calling Mrs. Don Zuck, 733-4700.

TUTTLE—Hilltopper Square Dance Club will dance at 9 p.m. Saturday at the Tuttle Grange Hall. Vera Schroeder is the caller. Those attending should bring sandwiches or dessert. All dancers are welcome.

The Desert Gold Cowbelles will honor Mrs. Larry Lickley, past president, at a farewell luncheon at 1 p.m. Wednesday at the Depot Grill. All members are invited to attend.

Actress Writes Novel To Demolish Men

It's called "The World Is Full of Married Men" and it sets out to demolish the men who use women for their own purposes.

Miss Collins, 27, frankly admits that the book is very sexy. "Life is sexy," she says. "But the book is really toned down. There were a lot of four-letter words in it, but the publishers said 'You can't do that.' I said 'Why not, James Jones can do it, why can't I?'"

Even toned down, the book takes a hard look at the sexual pleasure of swinging London in the '60s.

Miss Collins concentrates on the sort of people she knew in her acting days, publicity agents, photographers, film producers, advertising agents, models and starlets. Her older sister, actress Joan Collins, now married to actor-director Anthony Newley.

One of the most odious characters in the book is a film producer looking for a young girl to go along to see the producer and he'd say something like "What about dinner tonight and we can discuss your future."

"Well, you know immediately what he had in mind so you'd say 'No thanks.' But there would always be one little girl who would."

"Usually they never got the role, either."

Miss Collins' penthouse apartment has a bird's eye view of nearby Buckingham Palace in the center of London.

"You could say we are neighbors of the queen," she chuckles. "I often see Prince Philip landing and taking off in his helicopter on the palace lawn."

She is married to American

Businessman Oscar Lerman

businessman Oscar Lerman from Philadelphia and they have two daughters, Tracy, 6, and Tiffany, 3 months.

"I wrote the book when I could while running the home and looking after the children," Miss Collins says. "It took me four years."

The attractive ex-actress wore a white silk blouse and a mini-skirt. She didn't look too domesticated.

"I don't think of myself as an authority on 'sex,'" she says. "I've read a lot of books on sex, but otherwise there's something wrong with them."

Miss Collins takes a swipe in her book at married men chasing young girls while their wives sit at home.

"The country is full of men like this," she says.

"I have tried to write a realistic book. I think most married

Poems Scheduled For OES Meet

GLENN'S FERRY—Theodora Henry, worthy matron, will honor Mother's Day with poems at the regular Wednesday meeting of Victory Chapter No. 60, Order of Eastern Star, at the Masonic Temple, starting at 8 p.m.

This year the newly installed matron will honor each month, the Eastern Star member with the most Eastern Star membership in her family, and this meeting will inaugurate the procedure.

The serving committee that evening includes Mrs. Betty Brown, Mrs. Grace Deasley and Mrs. Isabel Bostic.

Mother's Day Is Observed By Rebekahs

HAGERMAN—Mother's Day was observed at the Union Rebekah Lodge No. 46 meeting recently. Poems and readings giving tribute to mothers were given by Mrs. Clettice Marsh, Mrs. Elva Schaefer and Mrs. Rox McAnulty, noble grand. Mrs. McAnulty presented each member a potted flower.

Mrs. Emma Seaver, president of the Past Noble Grand Club, reported the club had purchased memorial markers for deceased Rebekahs here, and that the markers will be placed on the graves before Memorial Day. She reported there are over 30 deceased Rebekah members in Hagerman.

A report was given on the talk presented by Tom Ambrose, Wendell, last year's Rebekah delegate to the United Nations at an open meeting last week.

Ten members attended the Gooding lodge meeting in observance of "Friendship Night."

A potluck supper preceded the lodge meeting for the Rebekahs and their husbands and Old Fellows and their wives. The next meeting is May 21.

Tree Planted

GLENN'S FERRY—Junior Girl Scout Troop No. 58, with Mrs. Calvin White and Mrs. George Powell assisting, planted a Norway Maple tree on the Glenns Ferry school grounds just north of the elementary school.

After staking and tying the tree, the girls saw it was watered. Five other trees recently planted there by (right) classes. This one will be closely observed by the donors.

Standing in the back row are Mrs. Michael Madziana, president of Our Lady Queen of Angels High School Junior Legion of Mary.

Twilight Retreat Event Held

HAILEY—The second annual Twilight Retreat sponsored by members of the Legion of Mary of St. Charles and Our Lady of the Snows Catholic churches of Hailey and Ketchum, was conducted Tuesday at St. Charles parish hall here.

More than 30 members of the high school Christian Formation of the Legion, and students in the eighth grade CCD classes attended.

Father Simlison Van DeVoord, O.S.B., Ascension Priory, Jerome, spoke on "The Search," stressing honesty to oneself, to parents and to adults, and of the different types of love. Sister M. Idelle and Sister M. Carolyn, R.S.M., Immaculate Conception parish, Buhl, helped with the event.

The climax of the evening was the celebration of the eucharist, with full participation. A guitar mass was played by Douglas Alterson, with the group singing.

The eucharist was received

Clothing Appeal Being Held In Area. Items Are Needed

The 1968 Spring Clothing Appeal of the Church World Service will pick up local contributions next week.

The Church World Service will be holding a clothing drive in the Buhl-Castler area, according to Mrs. Dallas Cox, chairman of the local clothing committee.

Five million pounds are needed this year to help refugees and victims of war and other disasters. Urgently needed are light summer clothing, blankets, children's garments, shoes (no high heels or open toes), and cotton yard goods. Changing styles don't matter to people in need, but good, clean, usable garments do make a difference in their survival.

Last year in the state of Idaho, 75,710 pounds of clothing were contributed, along with $4,051.68 toward shipping costs. (Ten cents per pound is needed for this purpose.) In addition, contributions of $433.28 were received for blankets, which cost $1 each through special arrangement.

All persons with good used clothing to share are asked to take it to their local church by Friday of this week or bring it to the P.W.F. Hall in Buhl, where it is serving as collection center, between 1 and 5 p.m. on Saturday.

5th District High School Rodeo Set At Filer Fairgrounds June 8 And 9

The Fifth District High School Rodeo sponsored by the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club in conjunction with the Fifth District High School Rodeo Association will be held June 8 and 9 at the Twin Falls County Fairgrounds, Filer. The Fifth District includes the following counties: Cassia, Minidoka, Jerome, Twin Falls, Gooding, Lincoln, and Camas. Pete Stover, president of the Fifth District Club, will be the chairman in charge of the event. Jake Pope, Twin Falls, of the Spur Rodeo Co., will furnish the stock.

Entries are open for all registered high school students with a "C average" or better. The qualifications to enter the rodeo are the same as for any other high school competitive sport. All standard rodeo events will be held for the male students. The events for female contestants include barrel racing, pole bending, break-away roping and cutting contest.

There will also be a high school rodeo queen contest held. Any queen entry must compete in at least one other ladies rodeo event. Entries for the queen contest should be sent to Mrs. Michael Stover, 1895 Heyburn Ave. E., Twin Falls. Finalists of the District first three places will compete at the State High School Rodeo held at Burley June 22 and 23. Winners of the state top three places will be eligible to compete at the National High School Rodeo to be held in Kansas in August.

Former T.F. Man Sets TV Appearance

Gary Puckett, a graduate of the Twin Falls High School in 1958, who now leads his "pop" music organization, will appear Sunday night on the Ed Sullivan show. Puckett is the leader and only vocalist with the five-man group that has just completed its second "golden" record. The choir and also appeared on the million sales mark included "Woman, Woman," which was the first single of the group recorded and also the title of their first album.

While in Twin Falls young Puckett sang with the high school choir and also appeared in other school musical programs. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Puckett, reside here.

Young Puckett is the manager of the C. C. Anderson store. The show will be telecast locally on KMYT, Channel 17, at 8 p.m.

Minidoka, Cassia Sixth Graders Learn About Conservation In Howell Canyon

By LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent

RUPERT—"Conservation is a way of using natural resources in such a manner as to not destroy them," some 900 to 1,000 Minidoka and Cassia County sixth graders learned Tuesday and Wednesday during a conservation education tour sponsored jointly with the schools by five governmental agencies. The tour followed several weeks of in-class "book learning" about the importance and process of conservation, and was conducted by experts from the Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Idaho Fish and Game Department, Bureau of Land Management, and the extension service.

Lamy Wilson, wildlife specialist with the BLM district office at Burley, said the instructors were all given a duplicate copy of the sixth-grade text on conservation to study, and they were to demonstrate what the book taught.

Tuesday morning saw the first bus loads of about 250 school students arrive at the site in Howell Canyon about three miles below the new Pomerelle Ski area. The first session was for Cassia County school children who were followed by as many Minidoka County sixth graders that afternoon. The same program was followed during Wednesday's sessions.

Seven groups of between 20 and 40 students were formed from the large groups, and their time was divided among seven different stations where at each place experts demonstrated and discussed a certain phase of conservation.

The first on the list of stops was a lecture on plants and their importance in life. Earl Wilson, who with Kuhlman, BLM assistant area manager from Burley, and Dan Popperton, Idaho Fish and Game Department district conservation officer, Rupert, explained that three types of animal life existed: herbivores, carnivores and omnivores, who are all directly or indirectly dependent on plants. Herbivores feed on plants, carnivores on meat and omnivores on both. Mr. Popperton also explained the importance of plant life to soil, as it provides organic matter, soil protection, soil conditioning, water infiltration, and an absorption capacity.

The various types of soils were demonstrated at the second stop by Vance Smith, Minidoka County agent, Rupert, and Glen Logan, soil scientist with the Soil Conservation Service, Burley. Parent material, including rocks and minerals; organic matter, and the living part of the soil composed of microorganisms, are the three basic parts of soil, according to Mr. Logan, who also explained that soil is important inasmuch as it acts as a reservoir to hold water, air and nutrients, and also supports plant life so vital to humans.

Next, Gary Post, SCS area conservationist, Burley, and Glen Bodily, Cassia County agent, explained the group that the soil composed of microorganisms, and the three basic parts of soil, according to Mr. Logan, who also explained that soil is important inasmuch as it acts as a reservoir to hold water, air and nutrients, and also supports plant life so vital to humans.

Wildlife must have the same basic requirements for life as man in order to exist," according to Mr. Wilson, who, with Martel Morache, Idaho Fish and Game Department regional educator, addressed the group at the fourth stop, "Food—cover, water and living space are just as necessary for wildlife as for you," Mr. Wilson explained. "and without these, our wildlife would migrate from this area to one that offered them."

Wildlife common to the canyon area include spruce grouse, cougar, sage hen, mule deer, coyote, and pine martin, in addition to coldwater fish, rainbow trout and dollyvarden.

Forestry in general and the importance of conservation of the forest was the topic for discussion by Frank McElwain, forest ranger, Malta, and Burke Scholer, SCS engineering aid, Burley. They explained the value and uses of the forest and its timber products in everyday life.

The forest, they said, serves as relaxation for man, a home area with logging mills, and helps to hold the soil in place to prevent erosion and water pollution. How to tell the age of a tree was also demonstrated.

The forest serves as an excellent and well-rounded place of recreation for man, and that was the trend of conversation for Merlin Stock, Burley forest ranger, and Dick Press, district fish and game conservation officer, Burley. Among the activities easily accommodated by the forest are hunting, fishing, tubing, camping, horseback riding, car riding, or just hiking in the fresh air.

The students were told that about 100,000 tourists visit Howell Canyon yearly, and that if each woman carried a few cans and pieces of paper, the place would just be a junk yard. Therefore, the importance of carrying along a shovel, an axe and bucket was stressed. "You are going to inherit this land," Mr. Press told the group, "and when you have to police it."

The final stop was a discussion of fire control in the forest area. John McFarland, BLM district officer, Burley, and Pete Walker, Twin Falls forester, explained how a fire in the forest affects the people everywhere by destroying good timber, range plants, other trees, wildlife, food and shelter, ground cover, and damaging the water supply and recreation areas. Mr. McFarland said the basic tools for fighting a fire were a shovel, pole ax, a fire tank, and fire resistant clothing. He stressed the importance of reporting any sign of smoke or fire in the forest area.

The tours were the first of this type project to have been held in Magic Valley and will be followed by summaries during in-class learning.

Knoll Creek Field Day Set

"Idaho livestockmen are invited to participate in the annual 'Knoll Creek Agricultural Experiment Station Field Day on May 15,'" reports William C. (Bill) Behrens, cooperative extension livestock specialist for the University of Nevada.

The Knoll Creek Station, operated by the university, is located near the Idaho line about four miles east of Contact, Nev.

The program this year at Knoll Creek will feature livestock and animal research. It will commence at 9:30 a.m.

Behrens said. "Marketing, management, diseases and nutrition of livestock will comprise the subjects discussed during the day," Behrens pointed out and added, "considerable interest should evolve from these discussions."

Dr. Edmund Barretter, division of agricultural economics at the University of Nevada, will open the program with a presentation on "A New Look at Livestock Marketing." Behrens explained that the marketing has been a major concern of livestock interests over the past few years and Dr. Barretter will discuss some of the work and study on marketing under way at the University of Nevada.

"Urinary Calculi" (water belly), a winter disease of livestock in the region, is to be discussed by Earl L. Drake, DVM, extension veterinarian at the university.

Other disease problems are to be considered in a presentation on "Parasitology" by Dr. Verle R. Bohman, division of animal science at the university, and Don Marble, DVM, veterinarian at the university, who will talk on "Ways in Which Diseases Spread."

"Animal Agricultural Research," a presentation on such research at the university, will be given by Dr. Ray E. Ely, associate director of Agricultural Experiment Stations at Nevada. Norman Nichols, extension livestock agent in Elko County, will chart results of applied research in the country on "Winter Treatment as It Influences Summer Gain and Feedlot Production." "Production on Experimental Range" readings in Elko County, is to be discussed by Dr. Joseph Robertson, professor of Range Management at Nevada.

Guest speakers include Dr. Robert J. Raleigh of the Squaw Butte Experiment Station, Burns, Ore., and Dr. Lee Sharp, Range Specialist, University of Idaho, Springs Station, University of Idaho.

Dr. Raleigh will talk on two subjects, "Buret, Urea and Cottonseed Meal as Supplemental Nitrogen for Yearlings on Range Forage" and "High Quality Fall Range Feed by Chemical Curing."

"Grazing Methods of Crotched Wheat and Influence on Long Term Productivity" is a subject that Dr. Sharp will discuss.

3 Plant Scientists Prepare Paper On Halo Blight Control

A paper on the control of halo blight of beans is today being prepared by three local plant pathologists. They are Robert R. Rogers, district agronomist, Idaho State Department of Agriculture; L. L. Dean, research professor of plant pathology; and J. W. S. Gentry, associate professor of plant pathology, Plant Science Department, University of Idaho.

The paper on halo blight control is being prepared by the three plant pathologists.

"The best control of bean halo blight caused by Pseudomonas phaseolicola (Burk.) D. O. W. S. and other diseases is to use various seedborne pathogens has been and continues to be the production of bean seed in the absence of disease," Rogers said.

The incidence of halo blight in Idaho for 1965, 1966 and 1967 shows that the number of acres of snap beans infested with halo blight has increased progressively since 1965, even though the acreage inspected has increased.

During the three years, 90 percent of the infested acres of dry edible beans were Red Kidney, and most of this infested acreage was detected and destroyed in 1965.

"In 1965 there were 12,394 acres of snap beans inspected and of these there were 4,893 acres infested. For 1966, 30,420 acres were inspected and 30 acres were infested.

"There were 18,381 acres of snap beans inspected during 1967 and 839 acres were infested. For dry edible beans, 710 acres were inspected and only 10 acres were infested.

"No more than a trace of halo blight was detected in most of the infested beans. Total bean acreage planted in Idaho for halo blight control are: 1965, 2338 acres; 1966, 879 acres; and 1967, 659 acres."

The incidence of halo blight among snap beans during 1967 reveals some pertinent information concerning the importance of the seed source and the effectiveness of the control program practiced in Idaho.

The percentage of infested acreage was less for Idaho-grown seed than for three other seed sources inspected. The presence of halo blight in bean crops produced from California grown seed was observed in 1967 and was also established in a 1964 survey in Wisconsin.

"In Idaho, a control program relying heavily on field and window inspection to determine freedom from halo blight infestation has been effective when bean are grown under furrow irrigation and when other recommended procedures are followed. The procedure followed involves two or more inspections.

When an infested field was found, all other fields seeded from the same seed lot were inspected up to five times. Each inspector observes four rows at a time throughout the entire field during the growing season. After the beans are harvested, each window is inspected. Infected plants are found during the growing season and in the window even in the absence of hail.

"The tolerance for halo blight and other specific bacterial blight diseases in Idaho seed production fields is zero. Reliance on one slight aspect of the control procedure would probably not effectively control halo blight. Three years' data on control programs in Idaho, although field inspections may not always detect all of the fields with a few infested plants.

"Field inspections are a very important step in the control program, however, which is strongly supported by the University of Idaho. Various control methods, including a quarantine against importation of bean seed into Idaho from east of the Continental Divide or foreign countries.

Idaho grown seed for planting in Idaho must have been available for at least one year and have qualified for an insulate certificate.

"This provides a continuity of field inspection from year to year rather than just inspection of indiscriminately produced seed stocks. Furthermore, any bean seed brought into Idaho for planting from other states west of the Continental Divide, U.S.A. must be accompanied by a phytosanitary certificate based on a control program including a window inspection.

"The effectiveness of the Idaho control program cannot be separated from other factors due to a climate unfavorable to the development and spread of halo blight, but certainly there is clear evidence that the incidence of halo blight in Idaho seed bean fields has declined rapidly since the inception of the control program.

"The data on the incidence of halo blight and field observations for the past five years indicate that the incidence of Idaho bean crops grown under furrow irrigation are of considerably more value than reports are. Reports on the role of seed contamination in the transmission of the halo blight bacteria are still being studied. Why disease free seed lots may become infested and/or infested in the past. Our observations and data indicate that some of the past infestations in Idaho may have been due to contamination with bacteria during harvesting and seed processing.

"Unpublished data indicate that streptomycin sulfate at a level of 500 applied as a slurry seed treatment is beneficial in seed production areas for the control of any chance surface contamination.

"The halo blight bacterium has been shown to remain infectious for months in plant debris and dust. Therefore, it is desirable that seed be treated with an effective disinfectant as the last step in seed processing and that the seed be placed directly into clean containers. Streptomycin sulfate slurry sprays gave good halo blight control under field conditions. Seed treatment with streptomycin sulfate, however, is not expected to control the secondary spread of halo blight under field conditions.

"Further research is needed to determine conclusively the source of halo blight inoculum, its survival, its mode of transmission in seed production areas, and the practical means of seed disinfection.

"Idaho growers, in the past three years, have expended over $50,000 through their own cooperative, the Southern Central Idaho Bacterial Blight Control Association, Inc., and the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Federal Crop Insurance, for the destruction of infested bean crops. Private seed companies have probably spent a similar amount in concerted efforts to control halo blight.

"The results obtained indicate that the cooperative work of all segments of Idaho's bean seed industry are effective in reducing the incidence of halo blight and should provide the means for eradication of disease-free bean seed.

New 4-H Club Is Organized At Murtaugh

MURTAUGH—A new 4-H club was organized at the Murtaugh Grade School with Mrs. Morris Lattimer as the leader.

After much consideration and many suggestions, the boys and girls chose the name PASAR-JAK for the club. This name is the result of putting together the first letter from some of the various subjects chosen by the club members.

Alfred Lattimer was elected president; Gordon Graf, vice president; Wilma Silvers, secretary; Jim Lattimer, treasurer; and the project reporters, Allen Mitchell, sergeant at arms; Carl Lattimer, recreation leader; Gordon Graf, parliamentary; Judy Crook, song leader; and Wilma Silvers, demonstration chairman.

Other members are Randy Fox, Bill Graf, Polo Flores, Debbie Corale, Laurie Fowler, Velvet Jansen, Kris Barkes and Erma Flores.

After discussion, it was decided that future meetings would be held at the homes of club members in alphabetical order. Meetings will be held on Thursdays every other week with three weekly meetings prior to the next meeting.

The exception will be the next meeting to be held at 2 p.m. May 16, at the Lattimer home.

Thailand Farm Student

SALMON — Chom Khaosa-Ad has been in Lemhi County the past week and he's been helping ranchers in branding their cattle.

In his native Thailand, the owner of livestock knows his own animals by sight so they aren't branded.

Chom is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arch McFarland on Carmen Creek and is an International Farm Youth Exchange student.

In Thailand the 29-year-old student is a teacher in a secondary school and lives with his parents on a farm which produces rice, corn and beans.

Chom arrived here after having flown to Seattle for his first trip to the United States. His first meal with the McFarlands was roast beef and after a week here, he said he likes the way American live

During the first week he assisted the McFarlands and neighboring ranchers in branding some 1,000 head of cattle.

Chom, who speaks English, will remain here until Saturday then go to Eastern Idaho. He later will go back East.

Some of his observations include: The weather here on his arrival was considerably colder than in Thailand which is warm and damp.

On the bus trip here from Seattle everyone tried to help him while travelling.

He finds Americans talk fast and sometimes he doesn't understand American slang also is difficult at times.

Chom has been interested in irrigation methods here and has inspected a grass seeding. He's adept at milking cows and was interested in a cream separator operation.

MEAT OUTPUT DOWN

BOISE—The production of red meat by commercial slaughter plants in Idaho is estimated at 19,739,000 pounds by the USDA Crop and Livestock Reporting Service for Idaho. This is two per cent below the output a month ago.

PUTTING a slow-moving vehicle safety emblem on his wood burner is Kenneth Poe, Twin Falls County farmer. All farmers are asked to put these emblems on their farm equipment that travel upon public roads.

Farmers Asked To Put Slow Moving Vehicle Emblems On Farm Equipment

With farming operations in full swing, farm safety is being stressed to all farmers by the Twin Falls Grange.

The Grange's Youth Committee, headed by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Poe, is asking that all farmers who operate slow moving vehicles on highways and public roads to put on the slow moving vehicle emblems.

These emblems are a safety device to warn motorists that there is a slow moving vehicle ahead of them. Every year there are several rear-end collisions, involving a slow moving farm vehicle and an automobile or truck.

To insure the safety of the farmer, equipment and also of the motorist, several Idaho farm groups are hoping that the 1969 Legislature will pass a law requiring that all farm machinery that travels on the road, have safety emblems. One of these groups is the Grange.

Another group that is a strong supporter of slow moving safety emblems is the Twin Falls Highway District. Kenneth Poe, Twin Falls highway commissioner, says that the highway district's slow moving vehicles all have these safety emblems.

There also is some improper use of these emblems. Some people are using them for driveway markers and also some are using them on vehicles that travel more than 25 miles per hour.

These safety emblems are to be used on vehicles that travel on public roads and travel at speeds of less than 25 miles per hour. The emblem is not a clearance marker for wide machinery, nor is it to replace other lighting or marking devices now required.

These emblems shall be mounted upon the rear of the vehicle, near the center at a height of three to five feet above the roadway. It should be entirely visible day and night to vehicles approaching from the rear.

There are several types of mountings for these emblems. There is the pole mounting, spade mounting, and direct mounting.

Kenneth Poe, who also is a farmer, said all tractors and farm implements that travel less than 25 miles per hour should have these safety emblems.

Farmers may obtain these emblems at most implement dealers throughout the area.

Slides Shown On Youth Ranch

BUHL—Charles Caward, field representative for the Idaho Youth Ranch, showed slides detailing progress and construction on the ranch as well as activity work and training of the boys to members of the Buhl Grange.

Ell Boring, program chairman and trustee for the ranch, also took of the Eagles Lodge spending a weekend at the ranch to assist in planning, fixing and cleaning up at the home.

It was announced that the Pomona Grange would meet Saturday at Buhl Grange.

Grange Meets

HAGERMAN — A social evening was held by members of the Hagerman Valley Grange. Mrs. M. N. Henley, lecturer, reported a potluck and car party will be held at the next meeting, May 20. Mrs. Henley requested those attending to bring their own table service.

COLD DAY IN MAY caused this scene on a farm in Jerome County. Apparently the meteorite, located about one mile north of the Highway 12-22 Junction, were left on overnight earlier this week, causing this white formation.

Utah Packer Charged With Violating Act

Joe Doctorman and Sons Inc., a meat packer operating at Salt Lake City, Utah, has been charged with violating payment rules of the Packers and Stockyards Act, the U. S. Department of Agriculture said today.

In an administrative complaint, the Packers and Stockyards Administration, a 1-1/2 agencies that between July and December, 1967, the firm failed to pay when due the purchase price of over $163,200 for 861 head of livestock purchased from various auction firms in Idaho. Payment has now been made for the above livestock.

PAS rules require that payment for livestock must be made by the close of business on the day following the transaction, unless previous credit arrangements have been made.

The PAS acts as a general law regulating those engaged in interstate marketing of livestock and poultry and meat packing. It prohibits unfair, deceptive, discriminatory and monopolistic marketing practices.

The firm will have an opportunity for a formal hearing to determine whether evidence supports the charges. Until the case is settled, PAS officials will discuss the case only with the respondent or his representative.

Merger Of 2 Inspection Units Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is studying the possibility of getting more funds from Congress, is considering merging its meat and poultry inspection services. Merger recommendations by a department task force have been referred to the House Agriculture Committee, which will be given to Agriculture Secretary Orville Freeman.

The House Appropriations Committee applied for approval of a $45 million increase for inspection operations, provided meat and poultry inspection machinery is combined.

The department's merger savings of $1 million the first year and $3 million yearly thereafter.

We'll give your crops a nitrogen boost... with versatile (USS) Anhydrous Ammonia

Your United States Steel Farm Service Center can help you achieve higher yields and greater profits through the proper use of anhydrous ammonia — a concentrated nitrogen fertilizer that can give your crops a boost and can be applied in a variety of ways:

SIDEDRESS: An excellent way to place a constant supply of nitrogen deep in the root zone where it is available when plants need it most for maximum growth and development.	PREPLANT: Anhydrous ammonia applied before planting gets started immediately decomposing residues and releasing other plant food. It can be applied in either spring or fall and will not leach out of the soil.	IRRIGATION: Anhydrous ammonia in water allows the grower to add needed nitrogen after crops are too tall to sidedress. Irrigation and fertilization are accomplished at the same time.
PLOWDOWN: A great way to get your plowing and fertilizing done at the same time. Saddle mounted tanks and trailing hoses in the furrows allow nitrogen to be placed deep in the soil.

The Soil Fertility Specialists at your USS Farm Service Center can provide the know-how and the equipment to give your crops a nitrogen boost when they need it — using versatile USS Anhydrous Ammonia.

Stanton Seizes Lead In Greater New Orleans Meet

By BEN THOMAS Associated Press Sports Writer NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Bob Stanton who got to the tournament at the last minute because Ray Floyd had a dental hygiene, fired a 6-under-par 65 Thursday to take the first round lead in the $100,000 Greater New Orleans Open Golf tournament.

The blond youngster from Sydney, Australia, was an alternate for the 14-man field and got a chance to compete when Floyd was forced out because of a back injury.

Floyd wrenched his back picking up his luggage at the airport terminal here and was unable to play. He was hospitalized while vigorously brushing his teeth.

A shot behind Stanton were Gary Player, South African, and Weiskopf, with 1968 PGA earnings of nearly $80,000, and the four regular Tommy Bolt.

Well back in the field was Ohio strongboy Jack Nicklaus. Nicklaus with a par 7 hit every green — in regulation — but missed a putt and a second and my wedge was pathetic — didn't hit it up close enough to get any short putts.

Master champion Bob Goalby and Arnold Palmer bypassed this tournament, which has $20,000 prize for the winner.

Chile's Rodriguez withdrew after playing nine holes over the Lakewood Country Club course because of an injury to his hand.

Clustered at 67 were rookies Roso Gerardo and George Boutell, ex-PGA champion Dave Marr, South African Harold Henning and Steve Stricker and Jacky Cupit, and Harold Kneese.

Dauids-Led Burley Tops Minico 4-3

RUPERT — Lawrence Davids rind home with the winning run on a throwing error Tuesday afternoon to give the Burley Bobcats an eight-inning, 4-3 decision over the Minico Spartans.

The victory credits go to Benavidez, kept Burley tied with Skyline for the Eastern Idaho Conference lead. Minico invaders Burley at 3:30 p.m. Tuesday for another conference battle.

Burley took the lead when Davids homered in the first inning and scored two more in the second. Minico got two back in the fifth when a long fly fell out of the Burley's right field glove and the Spartans tied it in the seventh.

But in the eighth Davids singled off Joster Gordon. Heath and scored, two more later, he took off for third and scored easily when the catcher's throw sailed into leftfield.

Cardinal King Is Winner Of Pace

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Cardinal King came from the back of the pack at the head of the stretch and won the $50,000 National Championship Pace—Thursday night at Yonkers Raceway for a sweep of the Yonkers $150,000 triennial series.

The 5-year-old New Zealand-bred, driven by Billy Meyer, seemed out of it when he was fifth at the head of the stretch. But Meyer steered his pacer to the far outside for an explosive stretch burst to beat Frank Tice by a head in the final furlong.

Three-quarters of a length back of the runner-up from the United States are of equal length in front of the fourth-place Cardigan Bay, another New Zealand-bred.

Ford, Broncos Sign Agreement

DENVER (AP) — Garrett Ford, a No. 3 draft choice, has signed with the Denver Broncos of the American Football League, officials said Thursday.

The 230-pound, 230-lb. tightback played at West Virginia. In 1968 he rushed for 1,068 yards on 226 carries and was 11 ranked sixth in the nation.

Dark Revives Idea To Hit For Pitcher

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer NEW YORK (AP) — In a year of concern about anemic batting averages, Alvin Dark suggests a permanent pinch hitter for the pitcher.

The idea isn't new. People have been talking about similar changes for years. Nothing happened. Probably nothing will happen this time.

The manager of the Cleveland Indians has no selfish motive. He just wants to improve the careers of baseball's super stars, a vanishing breed.

"I think the idea would keep the likes of Mickey Mantle, Willie Mays, Al Kaline and Hank Aaron in baseball for a few extra years," said Dark.

"Baseball needs to keep those fellows in that game. When the time comes that they can't play regularly, this would be a perfect solution."

If Dark's proposal were to be adopted, no pitcher would be designated a pinch runner but a specific player would be designated to bat in the pitcher's spot in the order on a given day.

"Supposing you list the pitcher in the No. 4 spot in your order," said Dark. "When the New York Yankee pitcher is due up, Mickey Mantle would bat. Even if they took Mickey out for a pinch runner, he still would bat every time the pitcher is scheduled. In this way, a fan could go to the park knowing he would see Mantle bat four or maybe five times every day."

Dark's idea would be an example, of course. He isn't ready for that yet. First base has helped prolong his career. He should be able to play first for years.

"The pitchers spend so much time running and throwing they don't have time to devote to hitting," said Dark. "Of course, there are some good hitting pitchers but they are the exception."

Price Tag Placed On New Teams

ST. LOUIS (AP) — It will cost $10 million for a National League expansion team, the Sporting News said in a copyrighted story in its May 8 edition.

There are two expansion teams to be had, Milwaukee, Buffalo, N.Y., Cleveland, Dallas and San Diego. The San Diego likely expansion sites. The National League will hold a meeting in St. Louis May 22, when the sites are expected to be announced.

The franchises themselves will cost $4 million apiece, the weekly sports publication said. The other $6 million is for a total of 30 players to be selected from the 10 existing clubs.

3 NFL Men Testify In Gaming Probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The names of three more pro football players, including Washington Redskins quarterback Sonny Jurgensen, were brought into a federal grand jury gambling probe Thursday.

The National Football League said it is satisfied, after its own investigation, that the players are innocent of any wrongdoing.

The grand jury wound up three days of testimony by 54 witnesses, including Pittsburgh tackle Fran Brown and former Redskins' quarterback Ralph Guglielmi. It decided to reconvene June 12.

The Redskins announced that Jurgensen and veteran guard Vince Brown have been cooperating voluntarily in the investigation.

Subpoenas for Jurgensen, Prunotto and Baltimore defensive end Andy Stynchula became public when they were withdrawn by authorities in Glenview in suburban Illinois, Va.

The subpoenas, issued last month, were never served on the three players, and they did not testify before the grand jury.

Redskins' President Edward Bennett Williams said Jurgensen and Prunotto were questioned by federal officials several weeks ago and were cooperative fully in the probe.

The investigation is aimed at alleged illegal use of interstate facilities to conduct and promote gambling between Virginia and the District of Columbia.

There has been no hint of a scandal involving the National Football League. Court sources have said witnesses are being called "merely to give information."

The investigation, evidently

T. F. Man Named To Buhl Police Force, Zoning Commission Aide Is Appointed

BUHL—Members of the Buhl City Council approved the appointment of Duane Walker, Twin Falls, as a member of the Buhl Police Department when they met Tuesday night in council chambers.

Walker just recently completed a two-year law enforcement training course at the College of Southern Idaho, vocational school in Twin Falls. He replaces Roy Lagary who resigned from the department to accept position in the sheriff's office in Twin Falls.

The council also made the appointment of Perry Hansen to the Buhl Planning and Zoning Commission. Hansen replaced Bob Peterson who has moved from Buhl. The commission is composed of six other men.

The council will conduct a traffic experiment in which Locust Avenue and the athletic field and high school, will be closed from Sixth Street to Seventh Street for one week starting Monday. The experiment is designed to determine what the traffic pattern will be and whether or not there will be any change in the safety features around the high school.

The monthly reports from Fire Chief Lee Monroe, Police Judge Ray R. Lewis, and the city dog catcher were presented. It was noted that 33 stray or unlicensed dogs were impounded and disposed of since Jan. 1 of this year. The dogs are impounded for a period of 72 hours and destroyed if they are not claimed. At the end of the 72 hours dogs are offered for sale.

The council voted to lease Lot 1 at the Buhl Municipal Airport starting May 1 of this year to Harold M. Ellis. The rental fee will be $20 per year.

Kenneth Fawcett, a city employee, was hired to water and mow the turf at the airport beginning May 1. With a salary of $85 per month.

The council also authorized the purchase of $400-worth of fireworks for the July 4 celebration. The fireworks display is by the Chamber of Commerce and the City of Buhl and the cost of the fireworks will be divided equally between the two.

Charles Langley appeared in behalf of the residents of Paysee Street to protest the ordinance in which cars were being driven through the alleyways in the area. Langley noted that the autos pose a threat to the lives of the children in the neighborhood because of careless operation.

Councilman Joe Fehrenbacher indicated that he would investigate the matter and make a recommendation to the council.

The council members passed ordinances 513 and 514. Ordinance 513 concerns the rezoning of the northeast 40 feet of Lots 22 through 26 and all the lots through 40 of Block 3 in Gray's First Addition to Buhl and all of Block 4 and Lot 1 in Block 11 in the City of Buhl and the cost of the building permits were issued to Hubert Smith, 817 9th Ave., to construct addition to residence and reshingle house and garage roofs. $750. Eugene Shaud, 205 Floral Ave., install sewer in living room walls. $100. Charles Schoonover, 412 Broadway, construct carport. $1,050.

Cliff Denney, 805 8th Ave., build new house. $12,500; Tom C. Kearley, 711 9th Ave., remodel house. $100; A. E. Woodruff, 50 Broadway, construct storage building on rear of lot. $25; and Cliff Sheldon, 830 11th Ave., remodel interior of residence. $400.

Baccalaureate Set Sunday For Glens Ferry Seniors

GLENS FERRY—Baccalaureate exercises for Glens Ferry High School seniors will be conducted at 8 p.m. Sunday in the auditorium with Rev. Larry Maxwell of the Baptist Church giving the invocation, and Rev. Leroy Trowbridge of the Church of the Nazarene, the address.

The high school chorus will sing, and Janet Moats will sing a solo. Bishop Dean Hadley, King Hill, the Glens Ferry LDS bishop, will give the benediction, and Mrs. Dorothy Nichols will play the processional and recessional.

Commencement exercises will be held May 12 in the Wesleyan-Dwight E. Wilcher of the Methodist Church giving the invocation. The mixed chorus will sing, and George Lake, class president, will give the class history.

Douglas Shenk is salutatorian, and Janet Moats, valedictorian. Each will give an address. Linda Fulkerson will play an instrumental solo, and the girls trio, Janet Moats, Linda Williams and Lorene Benson, will sing.

Lou Babbs, Boise, will deliver the address. Sup. George Powell will give the benediction.

Principal Gordon Brown will introduce the class members and Richard C. King, chairman of the board of trustees, will give the diplomas.

Father Douglas Riffle of Our Lady of Limerick Catholic Church will give the benediction. The high school band will play the processional and the recessional.

Finds Slogan

RAWLINS, Wyo. (AP) Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, who in his speeches likes to link himself to such Democratic presidents as Roosevelt, Truman and Johnson, has also found a slogan.

Franklin D. Roosevelt had the New Deal. Truman had the Fair Deal. John F. Kennedy used the New Frontier and Lyndon Johnson has the Great Society.

Hubert H. Humphrey has the "New Democracy."

Kennedy Is Praised By Walker

Results of primary elections Tuesday in Indiana and Washington, D. C. were hailed as indications of success for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy Friday by Lloyd J. Walker, Twin Falls attorney and chairman of the Idaho Committee of Kennedy for President.

Mr. Walker and his co-chairman John F. Slusby said they were pleased with the primary election results.

"Experts had warned Sen. Kennedy against entering the Indiana primary," Mr. Walker said. "However, he did so to prove that he has the backing of the people regardless of geography or political makeup."

"Indiana is a far distance from the senator's east coast back yard and has a thorough mixture of voters. It has voters with a mixture of races and labor factions and a rural representation from its farm operations," Mr. Walker explained.

Even more remarkable, Mr. Walker said, was the Washington, D. C. victory where Sen. Kennedy won over Vice President Humphrey.

Mr. Walker said his committee believes recent primary elections show clearly that all people, regardless of background, race or profession are united in support of Sen. Kennedy.
