Three Nights Spent In Wilds

Two Walk Out After Plane Crash

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (AP) — Two Boise College faculty members in a light airplane crashed in rugged Idaho mountain country Saturday and Sunday and spent three nights in the wilds.

Carl Tipton, 44, the pilot, contacted by telephone at the Red River Range Station said both he and his passenger, Robert Rose, 40, were in good shape. He said neither suffered any injuries in the landing.

The men walked to the ranger station, located about 30 miles east of Grangeville. Tipton said the plane went down in timber country about 25 miles from the Grangeville ranger station.

Tipton, who obtained his pilot's license in 1942 and has flown more than 4,000 hours flying single-engine aircraft, was attending a business department course at Boise State College.

Rose is head of the Business Department. The search for air for the two men has been hampered by bad weather over the central Idaho mountains and had been suspended Saturday because of flying weather. The search planes would spot them on Friday morning they took to the air. They landed in a clearing and found a ranch where they spent Friday night. Inside the ranch, they found a ranch house and a barn where they found a fire and material for a fire to dry their clothing.

Saturday morning they found a dirt road leading to the Red River Ranger Station and a rancher came along and picked them up when they were about five miles from the station.

Rose said they were so glad to see the rancher, they only saw his last name, Thompson.

Tipton and Rose had left Boise early Wednesday morning for Spirit Lake, with plans to attend a conference at Moscow to deliver college lectures, which is closed at this time.

Pompidou Moves To End Further Paris Violence

PARIS (AP) — Premier Georges Pompidou Saturday suspended the right of assembly, banned further student demonstrations in Paris' riotous Latin Quarter and sought to lift the paralyzing grip of nationwide strikes in talks with union leaders.

Chiefs of France's five major labor federations laid down Pompidou the workers' price for ending the strikes that have snowballed for nine days to disorient 10 million men.

After the premier called a brief interruption to study these demands he returned to only one measure: a suspension of the right of assembly. Pompidou told a news conference the measure applied particularly to Paris student demonstrations of three nights of bloody fighting which Friday night claimed its first fatality.

Philippe Matheron, 26, a real estate agent and former student of electronics who remained interested in university affairs, was found dead in a street of stab wounds in the heart and abdomen.

President Charles de Gaulle, meanwhile, was preparing a proposed law detailing sweeping reforms to minimize the French educational and economic systems. He announced Friday night the reform program will be submitted to the National Assembly.

Soviet Bomber Crashes After Buzzing U. S. Ship

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Soviet medium jet bomber crashed in the Norwegian Sea Saturday shortly after making a low pass close to a U.S. nuclear carrier, the Pentagon announced.

No survivors were found and parts of three bodies were recovered, a spokesman added.

The Defense Department said the amphibious warfare carrier Essex reported that U.S. Naval vessels and aircraft in an away interfered with, harassed or threatened the Soviet aircraft at any time or in any way prior to the crash.

The plane which went into the sea about 200 miles off the west coast of Norway reportedly was a Tu-16 bomber, an elderly medium bomber which normally carries a crew of seven.

De Gaulle's Ability To Solve Strike Questioned

LONDON (AP) — European commentators say French President Charles de Gaulle may win the referendum he called in a speech Friday night, but they question his ability to produce from that a solution that will satisfy striking students and workers.

The first editorial reaction came mainly from Britain, although De Gaulle's speech made huge headlines in papers throughout Europe. It will be live by radio and television in some countries.

A typical front page banner read: "Back me—or I quit." A typical reaction was that the speech was vague.

"With all the political weight De Gaulle has in the world and in times of trouble there are more French people than ever who do not want to see him go," the referendum vote could be already won," said London's Daily Express.

"What is much less certain is whether the sort of safety of long-term rethinking and reconstructing of French society is going to be the sort of medicine which will bring union strikers out of the occupied factories and back to work. Or the students, for that matter."

The Times of London called De Gaulle's proposal "partly a trick."

"Although De Gaulle's future will be at stake, presumably what the voters will be asked is whether they are for or against reforms. It is most unlikely that a majority will say they are against," the Times said.

The liberal Guardian said De Gaulle "does not seem to understand what his countrymen are trying to tell him. They did not go on strike in order to give the chance to vote in another election, yes, but they want more than that."

The Daily Telegraph commented "for the time being most strikers may gradually return, but they will be waiting for something more than 'fraternité' and a bit of profit-sharing."

An editorial in Dagens Nyheter in Stockholm, Sweden, said: "The failure to get anything caught up with Gen. De Gaulle. What he is now trying to do is nothing less than a giantic attempt to stalling the course of a white nation."

"Even the general himself must realize that a victory in the forthcoming referendum would mean nothing if he breaks his promises."

Carey Man In T-F. Jail After High Speed Chase

Ten law enforcement officers in many official vehicles participated in a high speed chase early Saturday morning through town hills and in the rural area south and east of town before the fleeing vehicle was stopped in a road block some two miles west of Twin Falls on U.S. Highway 30.

In custody in Twin Falls city jail Saturday and charged with reckless driving, violation of the youth rehabilitation act and running a red light, was Brent L. Sivil, 20, Carey.

City officers took up pursuit of the vehicle in the 100 block of Fifth Street East when it was observed pulling away from a stop sign in a reckless manner.

City police reported they pursued the vehicle through Twin Falls and south and east of the city at speeds up to 120 miles per hour during the chase. The chase then swung back toward Twin Falls and to the west.

Poor People's City Begins Third Week

By Austin Scott
WASHINGTON (AP) — The leader of the Poor People's Campaign, said Saturday his playwood city begins its third week of high spirits with one "significant victory," already won.

Next week he mean real business, he said. He said he would like to see a new conference at a campsite Saturday, but the almost daily showers of the past week "will intensify our nonviolent activities."

Abernathy said Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman would not have ordered federal food programs in 256 more counties by July 1 if it not for the campaign. He said he demands that the government put an end to poverty and hunger.

Freeman announced the enlarged surplus food distribution program Thursday, at the same time that he rejected campaign demands to expand it into counties that now have food stamp programs.

Abernathy said he understands $27 million is available for distributing the surplus food. One of his aides said plans are still being formulated as the camp takes the weekend off to scrub off the effects of several inches of rain. He said "it is in their leader's words, 'plague this Congress.'"

ONE OF THE MOST dangerous railroad crossings in Twin Falls county is one of the few that has not had stop signs placed at its recent location. Here, Patrolman William VanDyke stands near a warning sign which has been unheeded by many motorists, resulting in serious accidents. Officer VanDyke's request for stop signs at the crossings has been turned down by the Twin Falls Highway District board.

Highway Board Denies Request For Stop Signs At Dangerous Rail Crossing

By RUTH KOONCE MILLER

The Twin Falls Highway District Friday afternoon turned down a request for more signage at a hazardous railroad crossing southeast of Twin Falls.

The request was made Thursday by State Patrolman Bill VanDyke after he investigated what could have been a traffic accident Wednesday evening at the crossing.

The crossing, about one-quarter mile west of where Orchard Drive intersects City and View Drive, has, according to residents nearby, long been a playground for "thrill-seekers."

It is one of the most dangerous crossings in the county, in the estimation of officers, and is one of the few which has not had stop signs placed at it since legislative action on such stop signs.

Officer VanDyke pointed out that the crossing is about 20 feet higher than the level of the approaching road, and that "iving" over the tracks apparently has become great sport among some of the area's young people.

Ralph Olmstead, president of the local highway district board, said Friday afternoon that in the estimation of the board, the crossing would be more hazardous if stop signs were placed there.

He said that cars having to stop at the crossing when roads are icy could very possibly wreck, and that farm produce trucks would have difficulty in driving up the grade after making a complete stop.

He also pointed out that the "thrill-seekers" probably would pay off more attention to the stop signs than they have the "dangerous crossing" warning already there. He said, however, that the sign, which has been vandalized, would be repainted.

Mrs. Bill Patrick, who resides next to the railroad crossing, said that the "thrill-seeking" has not been a pastime of just the current younger generation. She said that her father-in-law lived near the crossing for 30 years and that the truck jumping went on all during that time.

Officer VanDyke recognized that if stop signs were placed in the usual spot, just in front of the tracks, some traffic problems could arise.

He noted that it probably would be difficult for produce trucks to stop on the slope, and that the headlights of cars approaching at night possibly would not catch the sign until too late to stop.

Thus, he requested the highway district place a sign at the bottom of the slope. The "thrill-seekers" would then run the risk of receiving a citation if they failed to heed the signs and those motorists, unaware of the danger of going too fast across the tracks, would not get up enough speed between the sign and the track to be in danger.

Officer VanDyke said that he believes there has been at least one fatality at the crossing, possibly more, and that there have been many serious and minor accidents there.

Mrs. Patrick said that youthful drivers have been "scaring her to death" by the way they drive over the tracks.

She said that in addition to the danger the drivers expose themselves to, they could very possibly strike someone approaching the crossing from the opposite direction.

It is impossible for a motorist to see on the other side of the tracks until his car is at the top of the crossing. She said many of the cars approaching the crossing, those apparently out for sport, sound like "tire flying machines" when they go past her residence.

Dean Bennett, head of the Idaho State Police in this district, said that his department will continue to investigate the possibility of having stop signs placed at the crossing.

Stop signs may not be the best or most complete answer to the dangerous rail crossing, because unfortunately, there are people who would pay no attention to a sign reading "behold out." But, certainly they would be a quick, inexpensive partial cure.

Mrs. Patrick would like to see the approaches to the tracks widened and the tracks themselves lowered, which would be placed in the usual spot, just in front of the tracks, some traffic problems could arise.

Soviets Throttle Romania Liberalization

By HANS BENEDICT
BUCHAREST, Romania (AP)—The shadowy threat of Soviet chastisement is recorded here as a major restraint that keeps Red Rumania from domestic liberalization to match its independent stance in world politics.

Recent events indicated that Ceausescu may have all but overruled his political supply lines. Rumania was excluded from the Russians' annual high-ranking Communist party conferences and Bucharest's official demands to be informed of the subjects of the Dresden and Moscow talks reportedly were ignored.

If this was merely an excuse for the leadership of president and party chief Nicolae Ceausescu to keep the nation in an iron grip, it was a warning. For Romania's position in the Kremlin orbit is more vulnerable than ever.

Ceausescu's three-year campaign for independence has won him approval at home and abroad. It has opened the economy to the West, sent industrial growth and raised living standards. The people a new sense of national purpose.

But its anti-Soviet tone, while appealing to deeply constricted

Haiti President Inspects Plane Used In Invasion

The plane, described as a B25, had been flown to the military airport in Port Au Prince.

Two captured invaders were aboard, but two prisoners were taken into the presidential palace Thursday night for a face-to-face encounter with Duvalier. They reportedly said they had received military training in the Bahamas and that the plane which bombed Port au Prince Monday also made three flights between the Bahamas and Cap-Haitien, ferrying invaders.

Sources close to the Duvalier regime have said about a dozen invaders still are at large.

WASHINGTON—Any disclaimers to the contrary notwithstanding, the path to peace in Paris depends almost entirely on the willingness of the North Vietnamese regime to gamble on new, free elections in South Vietnam.

There is now no denial within the inner circle of the Johnson Administration that it is thinking in terms of some sort of role for the North Vietnamese in the political structure of the South.

That is to say, it will go along with Communist participation on a one-man, one-vote basis—and may the stronger party win.

Indeed, Thieu has been informed, in unusually blunt language, that Washington will not tolerate any prolonged foot-dragging on this issue.

North Vietnam may wait until after the August conventions—or even until after the November election—to make its decision on this point.

MR. SPECTATOR

One Postal Card Will Do

When you have only one postal card and want to write a lot of things to a lot of people, you should look up one Mrs. Nellie Gray.

Now, if you are still with me, you will approach the subject from this point. And the point in question is, as stated, that Mrs. Gray wanted to write to all the folks at home but had only one postal card.

But she mentioned that she had been at Johnny's since last Sunday, that they are planning to sail to Australia, that her son Ray and wife are going after her, that she will be brought by so everyone can see, that they thought Idaho was over a thousand miles or more from here (Newark), that she is on her way home through San Francisco, that Johnny took her out to Castle Rock park so she could see it, that she was going on at the time and that it was fabulous, that if Johnny can get tickets they would take in a jumbo Saturday night.

That Don wanted her to come back by there, that she may not go to it, that she is homesome to see the people who wrote the card to, that she sends her love and kisses to all.

And there you have it, Mr. Spectator, things that getting a couple of hundred or more words on a postal card is really something that take off our hat to Mrs. Nellie Gray—but like we said, if she wonders how we got hold of that card she will never find out. That's just the way the news goes in a space.

THE DEFENSE RESIST

The defense resist, for all its imperfections, is still the only option in the world where people are standing in line waiting to get in.

Internal Disorders

However, there is the feeling here that Hanoi will gamble. They don't want to see the crowd that the U.S. is using for peace because it is losing the war, so State Department people here don't really think they would hardly be talking peace if it believed it was prevailing on the battlefield.

Internal Disorders

Besides, a free election would not necessarily be a fair election to Hanoi. Even if the Communists failed to win a majority in the South, they would have their foot in the door, and they are in a position to subvert the new Saigon government and eventually take over by push or by bribery.

Internal Disorders

There have been rumors, I said, that the United States may halt the bombing of North Vietnam unconditionally when that doesn't mean Hanoi would not go into a free election with any possibility in mind.

Paris Is Like Clock Losing Momentum

By HARVEY HUDSON

PARIS (AP) — Paris was a city in slow motion today, like a grandfather clock in a magnificent case but still—the works and buses have been stopped. No mail has been delivered. There was still a semblance of normal day-to-day living, but no most airlines operations have one was sure how long it would be halted or transferred out east.

The national television network presents only news programs, three times daily. Radio stations still come in from outside Paris. Early this week newspaper readers had to search for their favorite edition because of a strike by the distributors. Now, finding newspapers is almost impossible because the newsstand employees are on strike.

A motorist could get 22 gallons of gasoline a day if he got to the right station at the right time. Today even that little drip had been shut off.

Electricity was being distributed only to doctors, food transporters and other priority users.

With the mails out, no checks could be sent to pay bills.

The food situation was spotty. In some neighborhoods, the stocks of staple foods had been replenished from earlier runs, but fresh fruit and vegetables didn't get through. In other parts of the city, the shelves were bare of sugar and spaghetti, coffee and canned goods, while street markets were loaded with fresh products.

Electricity and gas services were normal. Cuts in these services might be the ultimate weapon of the strikers. Water pressure was reported down by about 20 per cent. The only inconvenience was reported from the top floors of skyscraper apartments.

Soldiers were put to work as scavengers. The prefect (governor) of the Paris region warned that striking scavengers who have been symbolically occupying some cemeteries may be chased away by police. Many neighborhood grocery

HEARING CONTINUED

BOISE (AP) — The arraignment of two men charged with murdering a Boise industrial welder and burying the body in a shallow grave has been continued until Tuesday.

Charged are Frank W. Grooms, 27, and Theodore J. Starks, 28, both of Boise. They are accused of killing James Funderburg, 28, Boise.

FLAYS DISMISSAL

BOISE (AP) — State Democratic Chairman E. T. Waters says the handling of the dismissal of Dr. C. H. Kennedy, a doctor "state meat inspection supervisor," has "set Idahoans wondering just what is really going on under the Samuelsen administration."

Commissioner of Agriculture Stanley I. Trenhale fired Kennedy one year ago. Trenhale said the firing was "inconsistent and arbitrary in his work." Kennedy appealed to the State Personnel Commission under the federal Civil Law and was ordered reinstated. Trenhale appealed that order to district court, which reversed the personnel commission's ruling that politics were involved. Waters said the administration of Gov. Don Samuelsen "has been riddled with dismissals of many qualified persons."

TWO ASPHYXIATED

PHILIP (AP) — Philip Phelan and his wife Donna, both about 50, were asphyxiated one mile northeast of here Saturday when their trailer home was destroyed by fire.

The couple's four children, sleeping in another part of the trailer, escaped and were uninjured, reportedly speaking to the Troy Fire Department. Cause of the fire and other details were lacking, but fire officials said an investigation would be conducted.

JOBS SOUGHT

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho Personnel Commission says 1,000 high school and college students have asked for summer jobs in the state. A commission spokesman said not all will get jobs.

TO EXPLAIN REPORT

BOISE (AP) — The Clearwater River flood plain report will be explained by the Idaho Department of Reclamation at a hearing Tuesday at Orofino. The report was prepared from data gathered by the Army Corps of Engineers.

Military Air Service Set Up

PARIS (AP) — The French Defense Ministry announced today it is setting up a military airline service to carry civilian passengers between Paris and New York to replace a strike-bound Air France.

With all air traffic at Orly and Le Bourget airports halted by the nationwide strike, the ministry said the French air force will operate a Boeing C-135 military aircraft from Bretigny to New York. The C-135 is the military version of the Boeing 707 jet airliner and can be converted to carry 120 to 140 passengers.

The flights will be open to anyone for a regular commercial fare but a system of priorities will be set up according to the importance of the passenger's business, the ministry said. The first flight from Bretigny to New York is scheduled to leave Sunday.

TRAIL BILL OKAYED

WASHINGTON (AP) — A National Trails System bill which includes 147 miles of trail through Idaho was approved Friday by the Senate Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said the Continental Divide Trail and Bridger National Forest Trail both include portions of Idaho.

The Oregon Trail and the Lewis and Clark Trail, which go through Idaho, may be considered later as part of the proposed trails system, Church said.

GOVERNOR ACCUSED

BOISE (AP) — Idaho State Auditor Joe R. Williams says Gov. Don Samuelsen is trying to embarrass him.

Williams' office is responsible for Social Security deductions. He said Idaho must pay Social Security tax on sick leave pay, thus saving $200,000 annually. Williams said the governor's statement has caused confusion about Social Security taxes involving 26,000 local, county and state employees "before adequate research had been made by him."

RECEIVING TREATMENTS

COEUR D'ALENE, Idaho (AP) — Three adults bitten by a rabid raccoon this week continued receiving anti-rabies inoculations here Saturday as the hunt for other possible bite victims.

Dr. John E. Brandt, Coeur d'Alene veterinarian, said a shipment of the anti-rabies vaccine was flown to north Idaho from State Health Department offices in Boise after a laboratory check showed the pet raccoon had died from rabies.

PROGRAM TO RESUME

HEADQUARTERS, I. d. a. h. o. (AP) — A two-year-old program aimed at controlling the destructive mountain pine beetle with hearing devices at Orofino will resume here early next month.

Potlatch Forest officials say Dr. Grass Valley, Calif., and Larry French-Mexow, will be in charge of the project, which will be funded with federal, state and private monies. Similar programs devised to wipe out the pine beetle are being conducted in California and Texas.

TO VIEW MEASURE

BOISE (AP) — A policy statement on development of southern Idaho desert under the Federal Desert Entry Law will be considered at the Idaho Water Resources Board's meeting at Burley June 20.

The board concluded its May meeting Friday after adopting a resolution opposing water diverted to the Snake River. The board also opposed construction of the High Mountain Sheep Dam because it said Idahoans would lose water rights.

Thursday the board held a hearing on desert entry applications. A committee report recommends the board support both single and group desert entries.

20,000 Protest

UTRECHT, Netherlands (AP) — Trade union members—15,000 to 20,000 of them—demonstrated here today against the government's wage and employment policy. They came from all parts of the country in a united action by three labor federations—Socialists, Catholics and Protestants.

The workers assembled in a big hall to hear their leaders assail the government proposal to freeze the 1968 wages for a six-month period in 1969.

Hot Lunch Program Gets Funds Cut

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate committee has voted to slash $14.4 million from the school lunch program, prompting one Democrat to voice hope it was not a punitive action aimed at the Poor People's Campaign.

The Senate Appropriations Committee did, however, restore nearly $5 million which the House has cut in special food programs for children of the poverty-stricken. Such aid is a prime stated goal in the Poor People's Campaign, now encamped in Washington to pressure Congress for programs aiding the destitute.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., taking issue with the over-all cut, said after the committee vote Friday: "I sincerely hope this action is not punitive in nature, designed to show the Poor People's Campaign that they dare not affront Congress with their demands at the risk of losing ground in the fight to overcome poverty and hunger."

But Sen. Spessard L. Holland, D-Fla., who heads the agricultural appropriations subcommittee, said in an interview his group "paid much more attention to the special programs aimed at the very poor."

Holland said the Senate committee voted $14 million for the school breakfast program, special aid for areas of widespread poverty and similar efforts, compared with the $125 million approved by the House. The administration sought $248 million.

The full Senate panel approved $237.6 million for both the regular school-lunch and special programs. The upshot of its shifting of funds was that $223.6 million was voted for the regular school-lunch program, or $14 million less than the House figure. These funds were included in a $5.5 billion agriculture bill for the fiscal year starting July 1 to win approval from the Appropriations Committee. The measure will be up for Senate action perhaps next week.

During Wednesday's meeting, preliminary problems of the proposed schools were discussed in depth, but nothing definite was determined. The next meeting is scheduled for June 10.

Orval Hansen Says Nation In Bad Shape

JEROME — State Senator Orval Hansen, R-Idaho Falls, candidate for Congress, told a meeting sponsored by the Jerome County Republican Women Friday night that "no party under any president has made a mess of handling the affairs of the nation, both at home and abroad."

"We are despised abroad and divided at home," he said. "Growing unemployment is a threat to the safety of every citizen and his property. It is undermining the system of individual freedom that has been America's greatest source of strength."

Cong. Hansen Backs Potato Market Bill

WASHINGTON, D. C. — Congressman George Hansen R-Idaho reported today that the Research and Extension Subcommittee of the House Committee on Agriculture, of which he is a member, has favorably reported to the full committee a bill to provide for potato production and marketing. Hansen said the bill will enable farmers to finance a nationally coordinated research and promotion program to improve their marketing position and expand their markets for potatoes. This will be done by increasing consumer acceptance of potatoes and potato products and by improving the quality of potatoes and potato products that are made available to the consumer.

He said the legislation entails no expense to the Federal Government, but would be financed through assessments on potato producers. The money position of a National Potato Promotion Board, to be established by the Secretary of Agriculture, he added, would be voluntary as any potato producer who did not care to participate could receive a refund from the board of any such assessment.

Hansen added, "This legislation is not compulsory; it does not give the Federal government additional powers; and it is not regressively restrictive. It merely provides through the Federal Government a means whereby individual farmers can help themselves."

Past Exalted Ruler H. E. (Bud) Cheney presented the new members with their Elks pins. Following the meeting a buffet was served with Joe Brooks and Dave Johnson in charge.

Bridge Masters Name Winners

PREPARING FOR A PERFORMANCE scheduled for 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Heyburn Junior High School gymnasium to raise funds for the Minidoka County Mental Health Association are Troy Ashby and Bonnie Ashby, children of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Ashby, Heyburn. ## Conservation Tour Will Become Annual Event

RUPERT — A post-Mini-Cas more effective in the future, a Conservation Tour meeting held last week under consideration for next year include the addition of more time for each of the seven stations, more discussion of management processes, a preliminary slide series on the different areas of conservation for better comprehension in the classroom, and more actual illustrations.

Following the tour, many of the 900 to 1,000 students and teachers were asked to write a brief critique, most of which indicated that the event was quite successful. One student wrote, "From this trip I learned that we must think of our forest as a new born baby—because it can be destroyed very easily."

Other comments include, "It made you kind of worry about our soil." "The main thing that the trip did for me was to let me know that we didn't have conservation, nobody would be able to live for very long. So it's important that we help save our land."

The tour, sponsored jointly by the counties schools by four governmental agencies, followed several weeks of in-classroom "book learning" about the importance and process of conservation. It was conducted by experts from the Forest Service, Soil Conservation Service, Idaho Fish and Game Department, Bureau of Land Management and the Idaho Department of Conservation.

Hansen Asks Progress In Public Order

HAILLEY — "The greatest threat to our freedom is not from any foreign power but the growing lawlessness at home," State Senator Owen L. Hansen, Idaho Falls, declared today during a campaign visit to Blaine County.

"Constitution guarantees to individuals the right to dissent, but it does not allow them to tramp on the rights of others," Hansen said. "Those who disobey the law, however noble they believe their cause to be, are the greatest single threat to the liberty they profess to uphold."

"One who violates the law is guilty of a criminal offense and should be punished," Hansen declared. "To permit any one to resort to force when he feels that a particular law or policy is wrong is to strike at the very heart of the principles on which our nation was founded."

"The widespread permissive attitude—the attitude of indifference toward responsibility and to enforce the law equally as to all persons must change. We must elect strong leaders who understand that the most important single function of government is to secure the rights and freedoms of individuals."

"There can be no progress without public order. This is as true today as it has been throughout our history."

Proposed Library District Is Opposed By Trustee At Rupert

RUPERT — Opposition to the proposed Regional Library District was expressed by Al South, all member of the Rupert-DeMary Memorial Library Board of Trustees at a meeting of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce this week.

Basing his opposition on the fact the regional library would cost too much and that present facilities could be made sufficient at less cost, Mr. South pointed out the establishment of the regional library would mean an immediate cost of at least $100,000, according to a fact sheet released by the library. He noted that a Magic Valley library demonstration has been in effect, in the form of bookmobile service, the past two years, offering free loans of books and newspapers. This demonstration served the rural areas of Magic Valley, but funds for it have expired.

U.S., French Ties Are Reaffirmed

PARIS (AP) — A reaffirmation of French-American ties—despite differences over Vietnam—marked U.S. Ambassador Shriver's presentation of credentials today to President Charles de Gaulle.

Shriver took up his duties at a time of volatile movement and profound change throughout much if not all of the world," Shriver told the chief of state of crisis-stricken France.

Referring to "the emergence of many new independent nations, the weakening of old ideologies, the changes in many countries, the universal search for new structures offering more freedom to individuals," Shriver said "all these have contributed to the creation of the present, fluid situation."

The ambassador said that, at such a time, "it is more important than ever for countries such as ours, with our history of friendship and cooperation, our mutual interests...to work together."

Shriver added that "our consultations will not always result in identical positions," but each government must be fully aware of the other's outlook.

De Gaulle said there are differences, particularly on Vietnam.

"As for the present, given the particular situations in which we find ourselves, there are undoubtedly between the American government and the French government certain differences of conception—that of Vietnam," he said.

But these differences are "events of the moment, episodic events. At the bottom of things we are, you and we, in the same camp of freedom. Whatever may happen, it is necessary that we remain there."

De Gaulle said the future depends upon God.

He expressed a wish that the Vietnam peace talks here accomplish their aim.

In the name of the French people, said De Gaulle, he greeted, through the ambassador, "with much affection, attachment and consideration, the great American people."

Shriver told De Gaulle that he brought greetings from President Johnson who, he said, "has greatly appreciated the hospitality and efficient arrangements provided by the government of France for the talks on Vietnam now taking place in Paris and your particularly timely support for his efforts to ward the restoration of peace."

Utah Killed By Police In Family Row

ORDERVILLE, Utah (AP) — An Orderville truck driver was shot and killed by officers who said he threatened his family and several residents of the town.

Kane County Sheriff LaNard Johnson said he was called Friday night by residents who said Darrell Lamb, 40, was rising up and down U.S. 89 in Orderville threatening several persons and pointing a .30-06 rifle at a number of them.

Responding to the call were six officers, including Utah Highway Patrolmen and Kane County deputies.

Deputies Julian Fox said four officers tried to get Lamb to surrender his rifle but Lamb pointed it at one of the men and the officer fired the single fatal shot. He would not identify the officer.

Fox said reports indicated Lamb began threatening his family after coming home from work at Kalibub Lumber Co. in Fredonia, Ariz., and later began threatening Orderville citizens while driving his car.

A coroner's inquest was called Friday night.

The high school band will provide the music for the memorial services beginning at 11 a.m. at the cemetery.

Grant Zollinger and George Benson will be in charge of the grave decorations.

State Sen. High To Speak Monday

State Sen. Richard Hipp will address the Twin Falls County Republican Women during a meeting Monday at 2 p.m. in the Board Room of the Roosevelt Hotel.

All interested women are invited to attend. Dessert will be served. Senator Hipp, a candidate for reelection to the Idaho Senate, is expected to speak on current state legislative studies and political issues of the 1968 campaign.

Bicycle Safety Check Under Way In T.F. County

What amounts to a juvenile version of a driver's test and a vehicle safety inspection is currently under way in Twin Falls County and most of the rest of the state.

The project, to make sure that young bicycle riders know what safety regulations are all about and that the equipment they are operating is in safe working order, is being backed by the schools, the PTA, the Jaycees, the State Department of Law Enforcement and the Unionmembers Extension Council.

Mrs. Richard (Alice) Ree d, home extension agent for Twin Falls County, said that her office has contacted each school in the county, stressing the importance of such safety and education checks.

Mrs. Ree said that most schools, with the aid of the other cooperating agencies, are attempting to get students' bikes safety checked, and the students themselves safety checked before school is out.

She said that some towns in the county will be including the bicycle safety program with summer recreation programs.

The Twin Falls Police Chief, Frank Barnett, whose officers have been assisting with the safety program, cited the importance of the bike checks and the education-of-young-bicycleriders.

He pointed out that summer is an especially important time to remind bicycleriders of the importance of riding safely.

With school out, many more bike riders are on the streets and as a consequence there are many more accidents involving bicyclers now.

Children taking part in the bicycle safety program will, prior to the tests, receive pamphlets obtaining information important to their safety.

At the actual test they will be required to take a written examination and also a "driving" test. Their bikes will be thoroughly checked to determine if all equipment is in proper working order, if they have never played a musical instrument, included "The Warrior" produced by the Metropolitan Opera Co. in 1947.

the test also will affix reflector tape to the bicycles.

Those who pass all requirements will receive certificates signed by Gov. Don Samuelson, Secretary of State Pete Conrad, Warner Mills, commissioner of law enforcement, Mrs. Wilbert Cammack, state Extension Homemakers Council, Darrell Sweet is chairman of the program for the Jaycees and Mrs. Elwood McCauley, Filbert is the county safety chairman for the extension homemakers council.

Besides assistance by the city police, the Twin Falls County Sheriff's office and the Idaho State Police have been assisting in the program. These branches of law enforcement also have been providing safety films and other materials to instruct the children.

Vocational Skill Aid Is Available

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Publications

There is federal help for young people in acquiring skills when they go to college.

Vocational students at eligible schools may apply for up to $1,000 a year of government-insured loans for tuition, books and special fees for a maximum of two years.

Repayment is to begin nine months to one year after the student completes his course, or reduces his study work load to less than half time. Repayment of the loans must be completed within six years.

For further information, get in touch with the officials at the school for which you plan to enroll, your State Board of Vocational Education or the Division of Student Financial Aid, Bureau of Higher Education, U.S. Office of Education, Washington, D.C. 20202.

Under the Vocational Education Act of 1963, federal funds are available to provide part-time employment to full-time students in vocational education program who would otherwise be unable to continue their full-time schooling.

The regulations require that employment under work-study programs shall be for the local educational agency or some other public agency or institution of higher education.

Four categories of students are eligible:

- High school students.
- Young men and women who have left high school but who can study full time.
- Young people now employed or seeking jobs who are in need of training or retraining.
- Educationally or socially and economically handicapped youth.

For further information write the Bureau of Adult, Vocational and Library Programs, U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D.C. 20202.

The Neighborhood Youth Corps offers opportunities. Enrollees may work up to 16 hours a week until they graduate from high school. They may work 30 hours a week in some summer work experience projects.

In a typical teaching project, 90 per cent of the enrollees worked in their own schools as aides in "athletics," counseling and other services, cafeterias.

Racial Discrimination Showdown Looms

Labor Department is moving to ward a showdown with five big firms over their alleged racial discrimination in jobs, with the stakes amounting to millions of dollars in canceled government contracts.

So far, the federal government has not canceled contracts, on job discrimination grounds, winning voluntary settlements instead.

But the department said Friday efforts at voluntary conciliation have already been made with these firms: Bethlehem Steel Corp., Bethlehem, Pa.; Timken Roller Bearing Co., Canton, Ohio; Allen-Bradley, an electronics firm in Milwaukee, Wis.; B & P Motor Express, Pittsburgh; and Pullman Inc., Bessemer, Ala.

Edward C. Sylvester Jr., director of the Office of Federal Contract Compliance, told firms they have 10 days to request hearings on the proposed contract cancellations.

"If no request has been received within that time, the director may enter an order declaring you ineligible for further contracts and subcontracts, and may cause a termination of existing contracts and subcontracts," Sylvester told them.

Spokesmen for Bethlehem and Timken said their hiring practices meet standards required for companies doing business with the government.

The other firms had no immediate comment or their spokesmen could not be reached.

Norman Peterson, a Timken vice president, said his firm had not received Sylvester's letter but added the company "certainly would request" the hearing.

A Bethlehem spokesman declined comment when asked whether the government's action might have resulted from a complaint earlier this year by the Congress of Racial Equality about alleged bias at the company's Sparrows Point, Md., shipyard.

The labor department launched a probe of Bethlehem in 1958 after CORE and Negro steelworkers at Sparrows Point complained about discrimination.

A Labor Department report last February said that while Negroes account for 38 per cent of blue-collar jobs, they hold 51 per cent of blue-collar supervisory positions. It also said the average Negro blue-collar worker was at least four pay scales below the average white in a comparable job.

Details on the government's complaints about the other companies were not available.

Bethlehem, largest of the firms involved, has some 125,000 workers around the world.

Available figures showed Allen-Bradley has more than 11,000 workers in its Milwaukee plant and 6,000 workers in several Ohio plants and plants.

Rock Creek Project Is Outlined

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Staff Writer

Application made approximately a year ago, has gained state approval and is now awaiting approval in Washington, D. C. before the pre-planning work can begin on a Small Watershed Project on Rock Creek.

This was the report of Clarence Hedrick, conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Twin Falls, to members of the Technical Action Panel in their May meeting.

The meeting which also included a tour up Rock Creek Canyon to several possible reservoir sites, was held at the home of Mr. Hedrick, conservationist, Soil Conservation Service, Twin Falls, to members of the Technical Action Panel in their May meeting.

sites in Rock Creek Canyon south of Hansen. Total acreage in the project, he said, is 70,000 of which 30,000 is in Cassia County and 39,000 in Twin Falls County. Part of this is in the Sawtooth National Forest, some on Bureau of Land Management land and only about 6,000 acres are now in irrigation.

This land, now irrigated by Rock Creek, receives water until about July 1 each year. Spring organizations note that this year, because of low moisture, some of the later water rights are already out of water.

Studies available in the SCS office show from 1950 to 1960 the average flow of Rock Creek was 2,600 cfs. Peak flows shown are in May during which time flooding occurs frequently, damaging irrigation structures, ranches and roads.

Since the run-off does not begin until April and is usually completed by June, Mr. Hedrick said, the water during those months if there is to be any real benefit to farmers, because of the 70,000 persons within a 20 mile radius of the area that could enjoy additional benefits from water recreation at a location accessible to population centers.

Planning studies it is not known what sites would be most suitable and what size reservoir might result. It is estimated 10,000 to 14,000 acre foot could be stored on upper Rock Creek, making it suitable for boating, fishing and water skiing.

In the Rock Creek Canyon the reservoir or reservoirs would add to existing recreational facilities; cooperating agencies have pointed out. Forest service crews in recent years have made numerous improvements to camp and picnic areas. There is a large permanent Camp Elva Girls' summer camp, many summer homes, a ski resort, church and Boy Scout camps for year around recreation.

Four officials said that while an all-weather road serves the lower portion of the canyon, there is a serious need for road improvement for the upper canyon of the Rock Creek area to be utilized.

In addition, Mr. Hedrick said, such development could be the start of a stringent pollution control program on all of Rock Creek.

Union Leader Seeking To Keep Control

WASHINGTON (AP) — Frank E. Fitzsimmons, sitting in as a member-Union president for the imprisoned James R. Hoffa, hints he intends to keep control of the world's biggest union until he can run for election to succeed Hoffa.

Denying a published report that he plans to retire before the next convention of the I. B. O. Fitzsimmons, 60, said, "I will be at this business for years to come."

Fitzsimmons' statement, published in the Teamsters' magazine, appeared to confirm other reports that most top union officials discount the possibility of Hoffa getting freed in time for a convention bid to return to power.

"I hope to return," Hoffa said months ago when he was courted off to the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary to serve an eight-year jury-tampering sentence.

But while Hoffa still retains the title of president, without the $100,000-a-year salary, his firm control of the union is gone.

Hoffa still is fighting a five-year federal fraud sentence in connection with the use of union pension funds. This is separate from the jury-tampering conviction.

Most Teamsters' leaders believe Hoffa is paroled, it won't be until after the June 1971 convention, when his five-year term as president runs out.

But Fitzsimmons, personally chosen by Hoffa to serve as acting president, isn't expected to have clear sailing to win the Teamsters' presidency in his own right.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey dumped a little political sunshine Saturday but he also found that it never rains but it pours.

The vice president started the day with a one-hour visit to former President Harry S. Truman at the Truman home in Independence. Humphrey briefed his honorary campaign chairman on how many delegates he is picking up in his battle with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Humphrey presumably was optimistic—at least about Missouri—for he expected to leave the state holding the support of his aides believe, of almost all of the state's 60 delegates to the nominating convention.

But that was about the only bright spot of the day. The Humphrey campaign plane had to circle for about 30 minutes before it could land in St. Louis' busy weather and Humphrey and his party climbed off the plane in a driving rain.

Humphrey spoke at the dedication of the Gateway Arch, a great span which Humphrey called "a soaring curve in the sky that links the rich heritage of yesterday with the richer future of tomorrow."

Shortly before Humphrey spoke, while Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall was speaking, a young Negro stood up and began shouting about the need for Negro men to have jobs. A man in a veteran's cap sitting behind him, punched the Negro down and police immediately carried him out.

Winners Named

JEROME — Jack Russell, Jerome, was named the winner of an aluminum boat given away by the Merchants division of the Jerome Chamber of Commerce Saturday afternoon in a drawing.

Other winners were Dwight Thompson, Jerome, rod and reel; and Mrs. Yolande Payne, Shoshone, fishing line.

Humphrey Finds Little Rain In His Political Sunshine

In his speech, Humphrey called the arch, "the renewal of a commitment."

That commitment, Humphrey said, "is to conserve and enrich in the new America we are creating—in the cities, in the suburban areas, in the rural areas—that quality of life which characterized our past."

CAMPAIGNER NAMED

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Dr. Edwin Hirmage, a law professor at the University of Utah, has been named a special representative in the Western states for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's presidential campaign for the Democratic nomination.

Wills Body

LONDON (AP) — Anglican Bishop Cyril Bulley of Carlisle said Friday he has willed parts of his body to be used in transplant surgery.

In a personal statement he commented:

"When at death I discard the body in which I have lived, my eyes, heart, kidneys and other tissues which could be of service to others may be so used."

"I make but two requests. The first is: Be sure I am not there. The second is: Let what is done be private and anonymous."

Special Medals Honoring Disney To Be Struck

WASHINGTON (AP) — Medals honoring the late Walt Disney, the entertainment genius who raised animated cartoons to the level of an art form, will be struck under a bill signed by President Johnson.

One gold medal and up to 100,000 bronze ones are authorized under the bill Johnson signed Friday. They would not be produced at government expense.

The gold medal would be presented to Disney's widow. The others would be distributed by the California Institute of Arts, a college-level institution founded by Disney.

Feared Attacks Against DMZ Make Bomb Halt Unfeasible

SAIGON (AP) — What would happen in the war if the United States agreed in Hanoi's Vietnam demand in Paris talks to halt all air attacks and "other acts of war" against North Vietnam?

U.S. commanders here, expect that without a North Vietnam agreement to halt its flow of men southward, allied forces below the demilitarized zone between the two Vietnams would face an onslaught while the envoys in Paris moved on to discussions of a political settlement of the war.

Since the United States curtailed its attacks the flow of North Vietnamese men and supplies into the South has increased, the commanders say.

The U.S. command has ordered an intensified air war in the nonrestricted zone of North Vietnam. In turn, this has brought on a flow of North Vietnamese air defenses.

President Johnson ordered air attacks over North Vietnam curtailed to below the 19th Parallel March 31 in a move that led to the Paris talks.

This area is 8,500 square miles, the size of Massachusetts, and has a population of about a million people, mostly farmers. This represents about one-sixteenth of North Vietnam's entire population. The area stretches 170 miles northward from the demilitarized zone and forms a panhandle that varies in width from 40 to 70 miles east to west.

Since Johnson's curtailment order went into effect, U.S. bombers are attacking almost exclusively enemy supply and infiltration routes—a network of hundreds of roads, rail lines and bridges—fuel storage depots, two secondary airfields and air bases.

The biggest section from the 19th Parallel to Cap Mui Ron, about half of the panhandle, is bombed by Navy planes. Marine Corps pilots, with all their air bases in South Vietnam, generally bomb the so-called enemy artillery belt just above the demilitarized zone.

Since Johnson's de-escalation order, U.S. pilots have attacked more than 10,000 targets below the 19th Parallel, averaging more than 100 missions a day since April 1.

BURLEY BUHL

By JACK BELL, Associated Press
PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — A couple of sworn enemies — former Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Sen. Robert F. Kennedy are sounding more alike as the Oregon primary campaign heads toward its Tuesday voting climax.

Nixon is confident of rolling up a majority of at least 53 per cent of the Republican vote. This would give him a sweep of five major primaries and a lock on Oregon's 18 GOP presidential nominating votes.

But he complained at a rally that overwhelmed a 4,500-seat high school gymnasium in suburban Milwaukie Friday night of the difficulties he is encountering from "one governor who is not a candidate and whose name is on the ballot and one governor who is a candidate but whose name isn't on the ballot."

The reference was to Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, who says he isn't considering for the nomination but has a ballot place, and to Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York.

Nixon estimated Reagan will get about 25 per cent of the Republican vote in the last-minute write-in campaign but is likely to produce 15 to 20 per cent of the total vote for Rockefeller.

Kennedy has criticized the effort of AFL-CIO leaders to turn out a big vote for President Johnson, a noncandidate whose name remains on the ballot. He said this was an underdog move by supporters of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. Kennedy added that Humphrey, who has not come into the state, would benefit most if this campaign saves the narrow margin he now believes he holds over Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy in the Democratic primary.

McCarthy, reacting to Kennedy's new tactic of all but ignoring him, accused the New York senator and Humphrey of avoiding campaign issues in search of "cold victory."

He told a University of Oregon audience which was slightly larger than Kennedy drew previously that Democratic convention delegates will look to the candidate most likely to win in November — and the record at this point shows I'm the strongest candidate.

If Nixon and Kennedy sound alike in berating the shadowy opposition of the men they regard as their principal convention opponents — Rockefeller and Humphrey — they sounded even more so in discussing issues.

Both are saying they never saw Americans more concerned about the condition of their country than in this crucial year.

Both are advocating a return of government decision-making power to local communities. They are alike in attacking what each calls the Johnson administration "failures" at home and in Vietnam.

The two candidates propose tax credits to bring private enterprise into action to create

Brooder Is Destroyed By Wind Storm

FILER — A large brooder house one and a half miles south of Filer in Cedar River, collapsed recently, evidently from a freak wind storm.

The 5,000-square-foot building, belonging to Ben Hilton, who lives nearby, was flattened. There were no chickens in the building but it did contain brooder equipment which was destroyed. The owner had no estimate at this time of the damage but stated it would be covered by insurance.

The building was one of several in which chickens had been hatched and raised for Bertie's Twin Falls. Hilton said he had discontinued the brooder business several years ago.

Both Sides Resting In Mother's Trial

By NICHOLAS CAVATARO
NEW YORK (AP) — Both sides have rested in the case of Mrs. Crimmins and the attractive, red-haired Alice Crimmins, accused of strangling her 4-year-old daughter, calling of the 28-year-old ex-cocktail waitress her admitted mother and defense counsel said on the stand she had a number of lovers during her marriage.

Following summations Friday in Queens Supreme Court, Justice Fargus said he will charge the all-male jury on Monday.

In a crowded courtroom, as it has been during the 13-day trial, defense attorney Harold C. Harrison attacked the credibility of JACK SWISHER, educational vice president of Twin Falls Toastmasters Club 149 and Lucien Leterriere, president of the I. B. Perrine Toastmasters Club, present certificates to Kenyon Louder and Barb Barker for their participation in a youth leadership class sponsored by the two Toastmasters clubs in cooperation with the YM-YWCA Youth in Government program. A total of 24 youths were issued certificates for participating in the classes.

Farm Groups Urge Action In Bargaining

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Farm organization representatives called for action and outlined plans at the conclusion of a two-day wheat producers symposium Friday at the University of Idaho campus.

National Grange official Harold C. Harrison called for support of the state bill which would provide for a national agricultural relations board.

A call for pricing commodities on our products like overseas was given by Oregon State University's Dr. Stanley of the National Farmers Organization who said, "We're going to put a price tag on our products like overseas and also does today. We're in the same ballgame. Collective bargaining is the only answer."

Another agriculture leader, Gordon Tweed of the Farmers Union, said the agricultural producers were not going to get together and organized everyone.

Persons with a pat answer to all farm marketing problems "are either naive, inexperienced or dishonest," said Dr. Kenneth Hood, general manager of the American Agricultural Marketing Association.

He said the only government help wanted was a price ceiling against discriminatory practices of buyers and processors, and he added, farmers were going to insist on voluntary programs and recommend they be members only.

"Withholding a product after it is produced is usually bad economics and self-defeating," he said, pointing out if the product is perishable the producers lose everything by not selling it.

"We are on our way, and we won't be stopped by government dominated marketing programs, contractors, canners, processors, labor unions or any other farm groups," Hood warned.

Griswold Speaks On Disregard For U.S. Laws

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disregard for the law is something of an American tradition, says the U. S. solicitor general.

"Any country that was founded in revolution," Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold said Friday in a speech before the American Law Institute, "has a certain amount of congenital disregard for law in its blood."

But Griswold indicated he doesn't find it a trait to be admired, especially when it manifests itself in the disruption of college campuses.

Goldwater Wins $75,000 Libel Suit

By VICTOR TIMONER
 NEW YORK (AP) — Barry Goldwater won a $75,000 award today in his libel action over a 1964 article in a magazine that said he was psychologically unfit to be president.

A federal jury of nine men ruled in his favor in a 12-hour trial after the magazine said he was psychologically unfit to be president. The jury awarded $50,000 in punitive damages against the magazine, $25,000 against Ginsburg, but no punitive damages against Bonanza. All three defendants were assessed $1 in compensatory damages.

Goldwater, whose suit originally asked $2 million in damages, told newsmen later, "I feel vindicated and I thank the jury for the action."

He said he was "disappointed" because many very important First Amendment rights are involved here. "The price for being forced to pay $75,000 but the price the American people will have to pay is incalculable."

Richard S. Goldberg, attorney for Ginsburg, said the verdict would be appealed.

Goldwater, 59, a former senator from Arizona, said in his suit that Fact and Opinion had maliciously libeled him in an issue entitled, "1189 Psychologists Say Goldwater is Psychologically Unfit to be President."

The issue was published just prior to the 1964 election, which Goldwater lost to President John F. Kennedy.

The suit attracted wide attention because many legal authorities felt it could lead to establishing a public right in libel cases involving public figures.

Tyler told the jury in his charge that failure to exercise "ordinary or reasonable care in ascertaining the truth of the libel material, standing alone, does not render a publication liable for damages in a suit brought by a public official."

He said it must be proved that a statement was made with the knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not.

Kennedy Has Clear Win In Iowa Voting

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy scored a clear victory Saturday in congressional district voting for delegates to the National Democratic Convention from Iowa.

The seven congressional districts gave Kennedy 18 delegates, Hubert H. Humphrey five voice-and-Minnesota Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy 27 delegates. One delegate went uncommitted.

The congressional district voting ended the selection of 22 at large delegates, five with no vote, and 47 from the democratic presidential convention. Iowa will have 52 delegates with 48 votes at the national convention in Chicago.

Kennedy supporters swept the delegate slates in the 2nd district, which includes Cedar Rapids. McCarthy's strongest support in the eastern Iowa's 1st district and the 8th district in northwest Iowa.

Kennedy outpolled Humphrey in southwest Iowa's 7th district while Humphrey scored victories in the 3rd and 4th districts. McCarthy won out in the 5th district in the eastern Iowa's 1st district.

New BLM Project Is Benefit To Ducks, Upland Birds And Livestock

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor
SHOSHONE — Take a four-inch flow spring and old dry wash gully, mix well with a bulldozer and what have you got? Right. A promising ponding and marsh development project will figure in nicely with years of water and vegetation conditions improve. He started with the small four-inch spring in a rather large basin area. At the outset, such a system currently growing on the breaks on the west side of Magie-Reservoir and the headlands were fenced off. Harrison's crews bulldozed out the first pothole last July and immediately began a ditch project, along with the Sonner Dam. "About the time we got the proposal, rank as the first in the district since the BLM was converted to the multiple use theory. There have been other items and, of course, all BLM projects for livestock or any other purpose entail thorough pre-planning and the interests of wildlife are always considered. Harrison's new idea, a flood Reserve Marsh project, will flow through the next few years as water and vegetation conditions improve. The growth of the project is slow and dependent somewhat on spring run-off for length. The spring run-off is needed for two purposes, to attract birds and, secondly, to saturate the soil as thoroughly as possible to reduce loss of the spring water. "This was a very poor water year and there wasn't much run-off. But I was surprised and pleased with the project. We ended up with quite a bit of water collected in a series of basins. It was very encouraging," Harrison said. By catching the spring runoff of dry desert washes you've got a valuable bit of water," Harrison said pointing to an area. "We didn't get any water on it until late July last year. Now look." A 15-foot wide corridor of green met the eye. While the area will prove beneficial for nesting and rearing water, we might be able to stretch it clear to the (Magie) reservoir," he said. As the ground saturates, water is freed to flow on to new improvements. Although the project is only a year old, it has success labels all over it. Right now, Pairs II is the same thing around Mor of mallards, pintails, shovellers and cinnamon teal dotted the rather small potholes. One mallard nest, containing nine eggs, has been found and is still active. Also of interest has been the revegetation of a series of grasses. "A year ago this looked like any one of hundreds of dry desert washes you've got lying hard. But every year now there are more proposals for wildlife." "I think we also are proving, particularly with this (Reserve Marsh) one, that the interests of all are served. When we first suggested fencing off this spring headlands, we met a lot of opposition from livestock owners. So we built a couple of pilot projects kinda out of the way. Then we conducted some field surveys on them. With the raising areas fenced off, the wildlife gets a break in cover, resting and watering area. The stockmen like the way that with just a couple of float valves their cattle are drinking pure, clean looking water. The big break is that when a rancher decides his livestock has had maximum use on one spring area, he can simply turn off the water valve. Without the water the cattle will go somewhere else by themselves and that cuts out hazing and riding. Harrison said the ridge separating the high prairie from the Snake River plain is loaded with vast potential along this line. "It appears that at one time there were thousands of acres of marsh or meadows along this ridge all the way down toward Glenns Ferry. With over grazing and some poor land use practices, the water levels have been lowered and these meadows and marshes are dried up." He stated, "We know from just this one project that this vegetation will rebound almost immediately. Of course the sites vary and so we will use different ideas on dif-

ROOM FOR IMPROVEMENT of the Bureau of Land Management's Reserve Marsh project is shown with the first potholes and connecting ditches sprouting water and marsh green at the top of the hillside with the large basin bottom HOOKED TOGETHER by these small, vital water ditches, the Reserve Marsh Project of the Bureau of Land Management uses a four-inch flow spring as its heart and fans out over public land to create a series of potholes and connecting marshland links. Potholes will be added as old ones are saturated and filled, freeing flow for lower elevations.

SURE SIGN OF SUCCESS, a Mallard nest containing nine eggs is examined by Ken Harrison, Shoshone, wildlife supervisor for the Bureau of Land Management at the BLM's new Reserve Marsh project. With thousands of acres in choose from, the duck picked a spot less than one yard from the access road.

State Race Head Hit For 'Favoritism'

COEUR D'ALENE (AP) — The head of a north Idaho horse racing group Saturday accused the chairman of the Idaho Horse Racing committee of exhibiting favoritism and "strange conduct" in handling a recent complaint. Joseph G. Hansen of Wendell, president of Coeur d'Alene Downs, Inc., said his group on May 13 filed a formal complaint with the committee which alleged that Coeur d'Alene Turf Club was violating state racing laws. Hansen said a hearing was requested on the complaint before racing began on May 25, but that the hearing wasn't granted. He charged that committee chairman State Rep. Robert Green had shown "favoritism" in delaying the hearing until June. "Allegations in the complaint included, according to Hansen, 'deliberate cheating of the betting public, serious misconduct by officials in charge of racing' and others. "We call on Mr. Green to either enforce the laws and rules of racing, without favor, or to resign immediately," Hansen said.

BYU Drops Arizona To Claim Crown

PROVO (AP) — Sophomore Doug Howard Belted a two-run triple in the eighth inning and gave Brigham Young the Western Athletic Conference baseball crown Saturday, defeating the University of Arizona 5-3. Arizona won a morning game 7-6 to force the rubber match in the best-of-three series played Friday and Saturday in Provo. BYU won the first game 10-6. "Howard's off-field blast, with two men on base, came after BYU had scored one run in the eighth. Arizona played for the punt but Howard, who had squared around, ripped himself and sent a sharp line drive into right field. The Cougars scored an insurance run one play later on a "squeeze play." Arizona took a 2-1 lead early in the second game on a solo home run by Dave Prest and an error and wild pitch by BYU's Brad Meyring. Seven relief pitchers scattered seven hits and received great infield support. In the first game, Arizona's Terry De Wald and Dan Frisbee each hit home runs to spark a six-run seventh inning which carried the Wildcat to the win. BYU had jumped off to a 4-1 lead, capitalizing on a string of base hits and two Arizona errors.

Dark Mirage Acorn Stakes Winner

NEW YORK (AP) — The favored Dark Mirage romped to a six-length victory in the record-breaking Saturday in the 38th running of the $60,150 Acorn Stakes at Belmont Park. The slight, 760-pound filly almost could have beaten the mark easily, finishing eased up. Bruce A. Norris' Another Nell was second, a neck in front of Meadow Stable's Gay Matelda, coupled in the betting with Syrian Sea. Dark Mirage paid $4.60, $3.60, and $2.40. Another Nell returned $10.60 and $3.80 and Gay Matelda paid $2.20.

Foster Talks Of Fighting Clay, Sets Defense Fee After Taking Ring Crown

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Foster, manager of the match between the freshly crowned heavyweight champion with Cassius Clay in Salt Lake City and of possible title defenses for the pole rate $100,000.

Manager Musky Salow tossed in the names of contenders Roger Rouse of Anacosta, Mont.; Lother Stengel of Germany; Jose Torres of New York; Piero del Papa of Italy; and Bob Dunlap of Boston for possible light heavyweight title fights.

"We'll fight them in their home towns but it's for the title, the price for Bob will be $100,000, the going rate. That's what we had to guarantee Dick Tiger. Bob quit the amateur ranks Friday night," said Salow.

It cost Foster and his backers $20,000 to make up the $100,000 guarantee for Tiger at the Garden Friday night. Foster handed the 28-year-old Brit his first knockout defeat with a mighty left hook to the jaw in the fourth round.

Salow said Dewey Fragetta, a boxing agent, had discussed a possible Foster-Clay fight in Salt Lake City under the promotion of Max Baucus, who managed former middleweight champion Gene Fullmer.

"Jenson thinks he can get Clay straightened out in Utah for a heavyweight title fight with Bob in early July," said Salow. "Clay is still recognized as heavyweight champion by Ring Magazine. It could go real big."

Asked what Clay wanted for the fight, Fragetta said, "30 percent."

"I'll knock him out," said Foster without hesitation.

Foster said he never would fight again in New York unless Salow could work as his manager. Salow was refused a license in New York although he said he has licenses for Washington, D.C., Virginia, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

U.S. Wraps Up Davis Cup Win Over Mexico

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — The United States won the North American Davis Cup series 3-0 Saturday when its young doubles team defeated Mexico. Stan Smith, 21, and Bob Lutz, 20, of the University of Southern California, rallied for a 4-6, 6-3, 7-10 triumph over Rafael Osuna and Vicente Zarazua.

Zarazua was a late replacement for Joaquin Loyo-Mayo, who lost one of Friday's singles matches.

Mexican Captain Eduardo Guzman decided to go with the more experienced Zarazua who had teamed with Osuna in Mexico's 5-0 triumph over Canada.

The Americans finally won the match by breaking Zarazua's serve at love in the 17th game of the final set.

Earlier, the Americans had threatened to break the Mexican serve for the third time in the third game—but the eighth game to even it at 4-4.

Lutz' powerful serve forced many Mexican errors. He won two games in the fourth set at love and two in the first set.

After the fourth set was tied 4-4, the scoring went with the serve through the 16th game. Zarazua's serve was broken in the 17th to give the Americans a 9-8 lead.

Lutz set up an easy smash for Smith in the final game and Smith bounced it far into the stands for the match-winning point. Lutz' strong serving had set up many such skills for Smith at the net.

The final two singles, now meaningless, of the five-match series will be played Sunday starting at 9 p.m. EDT.

The American doubles team Arthur Ashe Friday will play American's No. 2, Clark Graebner.

Then, Ashe and Clark's top Cup player will play Loyo-Mayo.

Yankees Nip Chicago 1-0 In 10 Frames

NEW YORK (AP) — Jake Gibbs' 10th-inning liner doubled past left fielder Tommy Davis for a run-scoring double, giving the New York Yankees a 1-0 victory over the Chicago White Sox Saturday.

It was the Yankees' second straight 1-0, extra-inning victory over Chicago.

With one out in the 10th, Steve Whitaker singled off Bob Lockwood of the White Sox' third pitcher of the game.

Gibbs then drilled a line drive that hit in front of the charging Davis and bounced crazily to his left as Whitaker dashed home from first, barely beating the relay throw from shortstop Jim Aparicio.

The victory went to left-hander Fritz Peterson, who pitched the last three innings, combining with Fred Talbot on a five-hitter.

Horlen, the White Sox starter, allowed only four hits but was lit after walking Roy White with one out in the ninth. Chicago's 0-1 record now is 5-5.

Unearned Run Lets Twins Win

ST. PAUL, MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Tony Oliva singled home an unearned run with two out in the eighth inning Saturday, sending the Minnesota Twins past the Boston Red Sox 7-6 behind the sixth pitching of Jim Kaat.

The game broke up a scoreless duel between Kaat and Boston's Jose Santiago after an error by shortstop Rich Jose then started the game in the eighth.

Petrucci batted Red Cañero's leadoff grounder and Rich Reese sacrificed. Cowley took third. Harmon Killebrew grounded to third baseman Joe Judge and then scored the game's only run on a bouncer.

After Roy threw out Killebrew, Red Sox Manager Dick Williams protested vehemently that Cañero had run out of the base line to avoid Roy's tag attempt. Williams was ejected from the game and Oliver then singled, only the fifth hit off Santiago.

The Red Sox blew a scoring chance in the sixth when Reggie Smith lined a one-out single and Petrucci walked. Ken Harrelson fouled in Killebrew's next first-basis dugout and Smith tagged up and reached third after the catch. But Kaat fanned George Scott to end the inning.

Illness Hits Ryun, Dims Olympic Hope

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — The world's fastest mile runner, Jim Ryun of Kansas University, has a mild case of mononucleosis, his doctor said Saturday. The little more than a month before the Olympic Trials in Los Angeles.

Ryun, a physician's Dr. John Barton, and his coach, Bob Timmons, were hopeful he would be able to resume training soon.

The Olympic Trials will be June 29-30 in Los Angeles and the NCAA and AAU meets where competitors usually qualify by July 10.

Ryun, who won the 1:57.7 mile at Berkeley, Calif., and Sacramento, Calif., June 20-21, respectively, Ryun already has withdrawn from the San Diego Invitational June 1.

Timmons said Ryun will go to Flagstaff, Ariz., where he had planned high altitude training following the NCAA meet, but only to get accustomed to the altitude.

"It's difficult to say just how long he'll be out of training," Timmons said. "However, Jim has always made a quick recovery... even after a long layoff, he's ready to go after just a few sessions."

Ryun, a junior at Kansas, set the 3:11 world record for the mile June 21, 1967, at Lakewood field, Calif., and three weeks later broke the 1:50 meter record at Los Angeles.

Santo Keys Rally, Cubs Down Giants

CHICAGO (AP) — Ron Santo's seventh homer triggered a three-run, sixth-inning uprising which carried the Chicago Cubs to a victory over San Francisco Saturday behind Ferguson Jenkins, who had dropped 10 decisions in his two previous starts, chipped in with a two-out run-scoring single in the sixth.

Jenkins picked up his fifth victory in nine decisions while Ray Sadecki was tagged with four runs in the eighth.

Jack Jack Hilt lined a single to left center in the seventh inning, the only hit allowed by Jenkins was an infield single by Ron Hunt in the third. Dietz' pop fly single in the eighth was the only other San Francisco hit.

Sadecki has a five-hit shutout working when Santo snapped the spell with his homer. Sadecki retired the next two batters, but Randy Hundley followed with a double.

The Giants walked Adolfo Phillips intentionally before Jenkins delivered his single, followed by a run-scoring double by Don Kessinger, which barely eluded center fielder Ty Cline for a 2-0 lead.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dick Farrell pitched out of a ninth inning in relief of Larry Jackson as the Philadelphia Phillies edged St. Louis 1-0 Saturday night on Lou's sixth inning sacrifice fly.

The loss, eighth for the Cardinals in their last 10 games, left them one game behind San Francisco's National League leaders, who bowed to the Chicago Cubs 3-0 Saturday afternoon.

Jackson, a former Cardinal, allowed only three hits until the ninth, when Orlando Cepeda and Tony Oliva hit pinch runner out singles. Farrell then came out of the bullpen, retired Bill Gaglianone on a pop fly to first baseman Dave Ricketts on a liner to third baseman Tony Taylor.

NFL Owners State Stand To Players

NEW YORK (AP) — Profits are down and salaries are up, the National Football League club owners have told their players who want more money and improved benefits.

The owners held a press conference Friday in answer to statements by the NFL Players Association that they had refused to budget on the association's demands.

Theodore Kheel, New York attorney and labor mediator who is counsel for the owners, said in an unedited statement of NFL income showed a drop in average before-tax income from $27,159 in 1966 to $23,125 in 1967.

Kheel said that the average player payroll had risen from $1,011,876 to $1,273,801 in the same period; Kheel said the owners would agree to an audit of the records of the players. The players said Thursday they wanted such an audit.

Kheel said the average player income in the NFL was $25,000, including pension benefits and pre-season pay, and actual salary averaged $22,500.

Kheel said the owners had agreed to increase the minimum salary to $10,000 and to hold an All-Star game with the American Football League for the benefit of the pension plan as soon as possible, but not next season.

The owners refused, however, to grant the Players Association request for $500 payment for play in exhibition games. Kheel said each player's contract was for the whole season, including pre-season games.

The owners also denied the Players Association's statement that there was a lockout against veteran players.

Left-hander Mike Cuellar won the distance for the Astros, checking out the Dodgers on six hits and bringing his record to 2-1.

The Astros, held to five hits by rookie Mike Kekich through six innings, led the game against reliever Purdin in the eighth inning doubles by Hector Torres and Ron Davis.

NL To Name 2 New Franchise Cities

CHICAGO (AP) — Major League baseball tackles a 1969 expansion dilemma Monday and Tuesday with the National League debating immediate before the American League re-naming of two new members soon work on a schedule for the American League's next season's 12-club expansion to a 12-club playing schedule.

National League club owners Monday may try to match the AL's already-attained expansion next year by picking two new clubs from among five bidding cities.

Pressure seems to be on each league, even though the AL has two expansion bids last November by granting franchises to Seattle and Kansas City. Now, its schedule synchronization time and the AL is left holding its crayons.

Since an April 25 decision to shoot for 1969 expansion, the NL has accepted bids from Denver, Buffalo, Dallas-Fort Worth, Milwaukee and Montreal for its two new franchises.

But franchises can be granted only by unanimous approval of the present 10 NL owners who reportedly are far from ready to accept Denver as a franchise city.

San Diego seems a prime choice, with Buffalo and Dallas-Fort Worth most often mentioned for the other new franchise.

10th Annual World 600 Runs Today

CHARLOTTE (AP) — The longest and second richest race for stock cars, the 10th Annual World 600, will be run here Sunday and it predictions hold true a crowd of 80,000 will sit under a blazing sun to watch it.

The $152,000 in prize and accessory money is second only to the payoff in the February Daytona 600 among NASCAR premier distance events. The winner will be paid about $26,000 but even the 44th finisher can count on at least $1,000.

The starting field is the fastest ever assembled on any track of one and one-half miles in length. The first 20 cars in the line averaged 153.85 miles per hour, only a mile per hour short of the Charlotte Motor Speedway's old four-lap qualifying mark of 154.77 m.p.h.

He had a last-lap average of 159.222 on the first day of time trials Wednesday.

Eight Qualifying Spots For Indianapolis Left For Last-Day Candidates

By DALE BURGESS
Associated Press Sports Writer
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP)—New Zealand-born Doni Jones, world champion road racer, needed two engines Saturday to qualify for the Indianapolis 500-mile race May 30. But he did it, then rushed off to catch a plane and compete in Sunday's Grand Prix of Monaco.

The All-American racers crew from Santa Ana, Calif., installed a new engine in less than five hours. Hulme qualified at 168.1 miles per hour and left for the airport in his racing uniform.

None of Saturday's qualifiers approached the 171 m.p.h. bracket of Lotus' Jim Hulme, which qualified the previous weekend. McKenyon, Lebanon, Ind., with fastest 163.191 for the 10 miles with a best in his Gerhardt-turbocharged Offenhauser.

Red-haired Bettenhausen, from Tinley Park, Ill., got fastest time of 163.252 around the 1/2-mile track, starting at 163.073 m.p.h. and finishing at 164.264 for a 163.562 average. Gerhardt-turbocharged Offenhauser.

Sports Illustrated three months ago revealed the identification of a car qualified a big rebellion to its head. This particular person was booted out of three eastern high schools and a year in the industrial league basketball.

Like the Texas El Paso track team, in January the nine Negro members of the squad shook off threats of physical harm to run in the New Year 500-mile race, which was boycotted on all sides, by Jews, whites, Negroes. He became the world's top broad-jumper when he was told he'd have his legs broken if he participated. He said racism didn't have a place on the athletic field and jumped another 55 inches.

A little over a month ago, Harry Edwards, the ex-San Jose professor and author of the Olympic boycott and proposed Black Olympic Games in Africa, visited El Paso. He told the boys they weren't getting into swing of the race war. He was there two days and the UTEP coaching staff trembled. But the team ran the next week. Edwards was back immediately after. Three days later UTEP was forced to drop the nine Negroes from the track team when they refused to run at NYU.

Angels Turn Indian Errors Into 5-1 Win

ANAHEIM (AP)—Jim McGlothlin pitched a three-hitter Saturday night and Chuck Hinlon, closer, threw a shutout, as the California Angels capitalized on four Cleveland errors to beat the Indians 5-1.

McGlothlin, 42, let a shutout into the fourth inning after a single by Chico Salmon, a left batsman, and an error. Salmon scored on an unearned run. Alvis beat out a grounder for a single.

Graham Outwaits Storm To Seize Lead At Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Bob Graham playing the last three holes after a tornado-spawning storm delayed action for two hours, took a two-stroke lead Saturday in the third round of the $100,000 Memphis Open Golf tournament with an 11-under-par 199.

Graham, 30, who has won only one tournament since joining the tour four years ago, led the 32-34-66 in one of the best rounds of his career.

Watching the tour on television for two weeks drove me crazy and had me climbing the walls, and I felt I would do well here because I was ready to go.

Two strokes back at 201 was Bob Lunn, 23, of Sacramento, Calif., who shot a 32-66-88 Saturday.

Also at 201 was B. K. McLendon, the second round leader, who had a 69.

Defending champion Dave Hill, off to a poor start Thursday and one over par for two rounds, shot a 67 to join Tom Shaw, Johnny Post and Hugh Royer at 208.

Bridge Parties Take Back Seat To Gratifying Project

When a small group of local women decided to give up bridge parties, etc., and "go to work," gratifying experiences were noted by all.

These women, members of the Twin Falls Delta Gamma Alumnae Association, were restless and felt quite useless as a group and wanted more out of their organization than a social afternoon. "None of us really enjoyed the bridge parties. We are all friends and met outside the group often, so the social gatherings were not really necessary. Things were getting a little stale—that's when we decided to do something useful," one member commented.

Their decision in early 1950 brought about appreciative feelings from many, less fortunate individuals as well as giving members of this group a definite goal and satisfaction in doing something resourceful.

So—when members put their heads together after a bridge game one day, they came up with what they felt would be fulfilling to all members and a worthwhile project. Since the No. 1 project for the national association is aid to the blind, the group went to the Idaho State Deaf and Blind School in Gooding, and asked for an underprivileged child that needed assistance with clothing, spending money, guidance, etc.

This initial step brought about an annual event which is looked forward to with great anticipation. The event, a party in honor of graduates of the Idaho State School for the blind, was held this year at the home of Mrs. E. W. (Betty) McRoberts. Two seniors, Dennis Janson and Gary McKinley, were honored along with two others, Linda Warick, a junior, and Beckie Kincaid, a sophomore.

The parties originated when the first young man the group sponsored was graduated from high school.

J. Hill was on hand this year as he has been many times in the past to chat with guests, and he and Bob Caron, a graduate of the school, entertained guests with some delightful music. As one member commented on the outstanding singing ability of Bob—"My goodness, I could listen to him all day."

Dennis, one of the honorees, sang a beautiful number, accompanied by Delores Robertson, a teacher at the school, and Linda did a marvelous impersonation of the famed "Mrs. Miller."

The programs at these parties are very impromptu, and each year if any of the honorees are talented in any way, they present their portion of the program without the slightest bit of stammer.

An interesting note about Mr. Caron, in addition to his outstanding singing ability, is that after he was graduated from the state school, he attended Idaho State University and upon graduation, returned to the state school to teach. He will teach in Gooding again next year, but then plans to go back to school to obtain his masters degree.

As the years have gone by, the more the members of Delta Gamma Alumnae Association.

ONE OF THE HONOREES, Dennis Janson, participates in the program as he sings, accompanied by Delores Robertson, a teacher at the Idaho State Deaf and Blind School, Gooding.

HOSTESS, Mrs. E. W. McRoberts, prepares refreshments during the annual party in honor of the graduates. Two seniors were honored, Dennis Janson and Gary McKinley, along with Linda Warick, a junior, and Beckie Kincaid, a sophomore.

Useful Project Noted By Local Women's Group

Continued from Page B-1, Col. 8 did for the students, the more they do, the more they begin to actively participate in activities at the school, assisting many other children with shoes, clothing and necessary projects. In 1951 the group acquired the World Book Encyclopedia in Braille for the school.

For the sight-savvy students, those who are partially sighted, the group purchased a large-type dictionary and as a memorial to this late Mrs. Helen Keene, the unit has started a reading library in both Braille and large print to accommodate all reading levels and all achievement levels.

Approximately $350 worth of books were placed in the library this year, and this will continue to be done in the future. The annual goal is to dedicate the library for additional convenience.

An undertaking of this kind is not easy, but it is worth the effort. To name a few examples, the book "To Kill a Mockingbird" has been read by the group and the "Twelve Angry Men" and "The Catcher in the Rye" have been read by the group.

It is a project from the heart, however, as each member gives freely of her time to aid in any way she can. The personal involvement of these women is remarkable and just by talking to any one of them, one can see in their eyes it is a rewarding pleasure for these girls, not just "another job."

To many people pity and disassociate themselves from any one that is different. These women personally involve themselves with the youngsters, who are youngsters, not just good stories to do another good deed for.

Pre-Natal Educational Course Set In Sun Valley

SUN VALLEY — A pre-natal educational course for expectant mothers in the area has been started at the Sun Valley Village Hospital. The course is under the direction of Dr. George Saviers, with Claire Bremer, physical therapist, in charge of the exercise classes for the laboring child.

Fourteen expectant mothers from Carey, Hailey and Keetchum have signed up for the course.

The Lamaze technique of natural childbirth is being taught by Miss Bremer, a graduate of Stanford in physical therapy. This technique, started in France by Dr. Lamaze, is based on the theory of conditioning reflexes originated by the Russian-Pavlov. Miss Bremer says, "It does not guarantee every mother a painless birth, but will train her so that she will have the rewarding experience of childbirth."

Carole Huettig Is Bride-Of Thomas Howell

EDEN — A candlelight ceremony at the Eden Trinity Lutheran Church, led by marriage counselor Carole Huettig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Huettig, Hazelton, and Thomas Howell, son of Mrs. James Howell, Thomasville, Ga., Rev. Henry Fry officiated at the double ring ceremony performed April 13 before a background setting of baskets of Easter lilies and white chrysanthemums tinted blue.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white peau de soie styled with an empire waistline, bell-shaped sleeves and an A-line skirt. The sleeves, waistline and hem were trimmed with rows of daisy lace. The gown was fashioned by the bride's mother. Her elaborate bouffant illusion veil fell from a headpiece of delicate daisies, pearls and sequins. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses.

Fashions Are Updated For Spring Showings In Paris

PARIS (AP) — Updating the 30 Paris fashions, swing into knees, and just for fun wear a springtime with swirling pleating, circular fullness, ruffles, flounces, frills and furberlows. Designers are concentrating on the feminine look. Fashions are seductive. Nostalgic flashbacks to the era of Marilyn Monroe, Rita Hayworth, Greta Garbo, and the stars of the silent movies and early talkies, have brought into the limelight a series of new hair styles from the tightly curled short hair to locks. And Bonnie's beret and the printed versions leading for after-5-and-evening.

The shirt dress, Bermuda-legged, or with a multiple or box-pleated skirt, appears everywhere. Newest by Saint Laurent are in harlequin-printed silk with a contrasting navy, black or brown wool or alpaca jacket. Floppy pussy-cat bows adorn the neckline, while sleeves and sultan backs are optional for sportswear.

As for hemlines, there have been all sorts of trial balloons. But short skirts around the nape, generally above, are at a status quo, and will be happily through the summer months. You may choose to drop your minis from midlength cl-stripped fabrics is significant. Dior and Courreges like naive florals on a wool ground. Belts are on everything, mostly in leather and placed at one of the three strategic levels: below the bosom, at the natural waist or at the hipline, all depending on the style of the model.

The revival of the "Sunday night" little dress, displacing the sleeveless "nothing" sheath of past seasons, is prophetic and a precious asset to anyone's wardrobe.

Burley Members Attend Conclave

Miniskirt Originator Has Fallen For New Maxi Trend

By NADEANE WALKER AP Fashion Writer LONDON (AP) — It's finally happened. Mary Quant gave birth to the miniskirt, has fallen for the maxi.

About half the clothes in the new Quant fall-and-winter collection are below the knee, and some have a real Gibson girl look.

Miss Quant still shows some supershort-skirts-and-culottes, but in a program note for buyers says they will be delivered three inches longer than shown — plus hem. The Quant, or GINGER Group, clothes are being paraded for buyers this week.

Other British designers started showing the maxi last year. Miss Quant insisted then: "The mini is here to stay."

It takes a designer with Mary Quant's irreverent sense of humor to name the best-seller in the show "Dog's Dinner." It's a little gray jersey dress, long-sleeved, with a short skirt's skirt, with shiny hot buttons marching down the front.

Buyers are lapping it up.

There's a touch of little Miss Muffet or maybe Scarlett O'Hara in the tight ruffled lace leggings that peep out under the skirt of "Quaker Oats," a black ripple crepe trouser suit with long flared top — "Bib 'n' Tucker" — has the same white lace leggings from the knee down.

At the other extreme is another trouser suit just right for transcendental meditation, with baggy bloomer hips tapered to tight legs. Maybe because of the silhouette, or maybe because it's made in lurex plaid, this one is called "Quaker Oats."

The Mary Quant maxis are just a couple of inches below the knee at the top of the calf, some straight, some pored.

There are a lot of black in the collection, a fair amount of white, some oatmeal shades, a raspberry pink called "fish-paste," purple and prune tones, and gray. Jerseys and crepes are runaway favorites.

Miss Quant recently visited Spain, and has come back to design high-riding torso trousers and fisherman's pants, cut off and cuffed just below the knee. A German or Austrian influence creeps in, too, with suspender-topped shorts and pinafores.

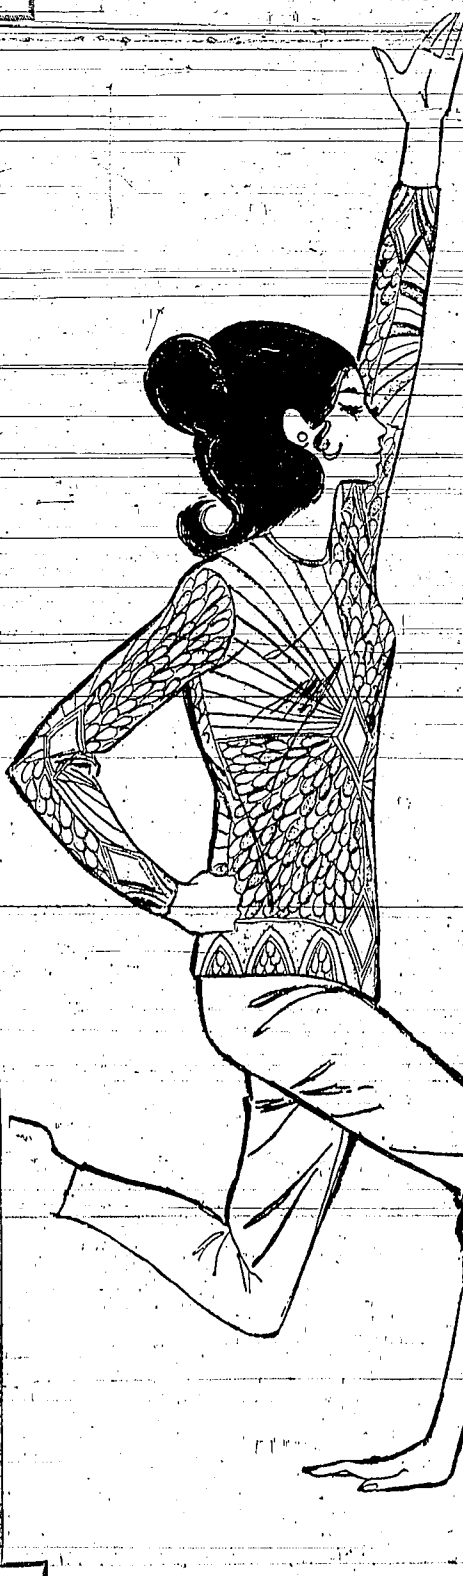

Despite the fun she obviously has with fashion, most of the clothes in the Quant show are handsomely wearable.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: What does a how can I get him away from woman do when her husband won't keep his hands off her in public? George (not his real name) and I go out, he is forever shoving his hand in my pocket, pinching my arm, and he doesn't care who sees him. It's so embarrassing.

Also when we go visiting, he keeps at least one hand on or above my knee the entire time we're there. It has gotten so I am ashamed to visit our friends. When we go to a movie, it's just terrible. I have to keep fighting him off so as the lights go out because his hands begin to roam.

George and I have been married four years now, and he has done this ever since we were married. I have tried to talk some sense into him, but he laughs it off and says I should be glad he finds me so desirable. I can't laugh it off. It's too embarrassing. What should I do?

PETURBED

DEAR PETURBED: Your husband's behavior is exhibiting bad taste. Warn him beforehand that you will remove his roaming hands if he does not stop. It is not a matter of public places in public. Then, gently but firmly do so. I would not ordinarily advise women to remove their hands in public—but in your case I will make an exception.

DEAR ABBY: I've got a problem that beats all. I am 32 years old, divorced, with two children.

My mother won't let me go out with men. She says it's disgraceful for a divorced woman to be seen with men. (My mother is a widow and I live with her.)

I can't stay in the house 24 hours a day. I'll go mad! I have been like this for four years.

What can I do?

"A PRISONER"

DEAR "PRISONER": I don't know what your financial circumstances are, but there must be a way for you to leave your mother's bed and board her. You may have to make some material sacrifices, but it's preferable to being a prisoner. If you can't see this, at age 32, where you are, your freedom might bring you more problems than your restrictions.

DEAR ABBY: I am 15 and I like this boy named Ricky, but he likes me only as a friend and that's not what I want. I want him to like me as a girl friend. Ricky likes another girl right now as a girl friend but she's not cute. Ricky likes me, has long hair (that's usually grey) and everybody says she doesn't have as good a personality as I have. Besides that, she tries to act sexy. Who do you think deserves him? And why?

DEAR ABBY: At every marriage ceremony I have ever attended, the preacher says, "I now pronounce you man and wife." Now if you stop and analyze it for a moment, it's all wrong. A preacher has the authority to pronounce a couple husband and wife, so why does he say "man" instead of "husband"? A man is a man, and a husband is a husband, and no one has the authority to pronounce a male or female.

It would make just as much sense for the preacher to say, "I now pronounce you man and woman."

ABBY: I wish to make something I have said for a hundred years, doesn't necessarily mean it's right.

BAPLED BY NECESSARY

Happy Hours Stay Alive On Film

One of the truly memorable souvenirs of a wedding is the album of photographs which captures the happy moments. But camera experts suggest that you supplement this with a happy, new gift—a second album of photographs taken by family and friends.

This takes a bit of organization and teamwork: an executive producer and staff of cameramen and women. Because this album covers more than just the wedding day, it starts with the engagement party and goes right through the reception.

Obviously, not any one person (not even the bride or groom) attends every party. So a close friend or bridesmaid must be in charge of photographing showers. The best man or usher takes over at the groom's stag party. Someone else does the rehearsal and the party that follows it. A sister can catch the gifts in all their glory. With his camera and his access to the premises, Junior can provide amusing pictures of family confusion. And everyone can click away at the reception.

There are almost limitless possibilities, beyond the traditional. Argus, the camera people, point out that anyone can produce excellent candid shots these days. No need for elaborate focusing with new instant-loading cameras. Flash cubes are simple and effective; every eye sees something different and can catch it on film.

"Beef For Father's Day" Project Set By CowBelles

The nation to keep Mo'n from forgetting.

The American National CowBelles is the women's auxiliary of the American National Cattlemen's Association. The ladies have had "spectacular" success in the annual beef for Father's Day campaign, due in large part, says Mrs. Hill, to the energetic efforts of state and county CowBelle groups.

"While we all utilize the promotional and publicity materials made available through the Beef Industry Council," she observed, "just about every CowBelle group has its own unique methods of calling attention to beef for Father's Day."

Including proclamations by state and local government officials, selecting an awesome black lava world of volcanic craters, caves and tunnels.

Machine-Gun-Toting Bonnie Makes Millinery History

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The art of putting a smock and a tam and inspired a host of Sunday painters to do the same. A French sailor jammed a tam of still another sort on his head and fashion stole it for its own.

But it took a crook to put heret on top of the millinery in America today. Breathing there a soul who needs to be told that it was sweet machine-gun toting Bonnie who did it.

It is a paradoxical occasion in fashion history. Ordinarily women would not be caught wearing a hat as beloved because they are jaunty and cute on the young and smart and zippy on the not so young. They look as good with short hairdos as on top of flowing tresses. Best of all, they are style status symbols. Actually, there are variations for the woman who insists. The aloft.

City Park Blooms

City Park blooms. It blooms with children. With laughter. With tears. With friends.

It is a place to meet. It has shade. And sun. And lots of grass.

It is close to things. There's a pool. And a place to get a drink.

It has swings. And a slide. And that's good.

It is always open. It's free. And nobody makes you dress up.

City Park blooms. It blooms with the warm summer sun. And its flowers have skinned knees and torn pant legs.

It is a two-square block world of fun. And it's pretty.

It has sprinklers to run through. It has sidewalks to skate on. And it has a thousand places to sit.

City Park is a very nice place to visit.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

An Idaho Power Co. veteran to whom "dependable customer service" means patrolling lines by snowshoes and dog sled in winters gone by, is observing 40 years of employment by the utility and a predecessor firm.

George H. Cutler, now a line crew foreman at the TWIN FALLS, has received an award recognizing his long service. Earl Haroldson, division manager and Mr. Cutler is an outstanding example of the loyal and dedicated Idaho Power employees who make reliable service in Magic Valley and elsewhere in the system a way of life.

Born on a farm near Franklin, Idaho, Mr. Cutler started his utility career in 1928 with West Coast Power Co., which later was purchased by Idaho Power. He worked in HAYLEE area until 1936 as a power plant operator; serviceman, lineman and line crew foreman.

Many times Mr. Cutler recalls, when he patrolled power lines in the Big Wood river area in the deep winter snows on snowshoes and sometimes traveled with a sled pulled by a dog team.

Mr. Cutler served first as a line worker before being promoted to his present position. He and his wife, Anna, live at 530 Fifth St. in Twin Falls.

"Project Landscaping" is in the operation of the Peace Lutheran Church, FILER, and every member of the congregation can feel, if he wishes, that he has made a contribution to putting out trees and shrubbery for the church lawn.

An individual or organization may wish from a chart which was made by a landscaper artist at the time the church was completed. The landscaper is the Lutheran Laymen's League, who in turn purchase the trees and plant them.

The planting of trees includes evergreens, birches, house chestnuts, flowering crabapple and peach and many others.

More than 20 trees were planted under this plan and about that many more have been or will be planted this year. The landscaper projects calls for more than 60 trees when completely finished.

The grass seed for the lawn around the construction of the building was begun in the fall of 1964 and completed in May 1965. This spring several mem-

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . . Glenns Ferry Teacher Honored For 20 Years Service Tells Rewards Of Job

GLENN'S FERRY — Mrs. Dorothy Nichols was grateful when she was presented a certificate of appreciation in recognition of 14 years of service in the Idaho public schools, back in 1954, by the Masonic Lodge in Glenns Ferry.

She is proud and deservedly so, of the plaque the VFW Post 3,646 presented her "for outstanding community service in music and entertainment." She has received a life membership from the Glenns Ferry Area and a cocoramy for Mrs. Nichols in appreciation of her work with the school from 1948 to 1968.

Mrs. Nichols, born in Kimball, S.D., went four years to Dakota Wesleyan at Mitchell, and while she was, collected her family moved to Rapid City.

She started teaching in St. Lawrence and later taught at Princeton, Idaho, in St. Albans, Idaho, and in February, 1948, came to Glenns Ferry to start her teaching career in Idaho.

"Just how" Mrs. Dorothy Nichols happened to land in Glenns Ferry is a story in itself. Lee was in the Air Force and they became acquainted with the Kay Hoalists, from Glenns Ferry, and when their eldest son, Marshall Hoalst was born, Dorothy and Lee took a kind interest and cared for the baby and new mother while Kay was busy with his work. Thus, Dorothy and Lee became godparents to the infant.

Through the Hoalists, they learned of a music camp in Glenns Ferry, and so came to the camp. Lee has farmed and worked as a mechanic, while his wife taught in a S. C. English school. Later, in 1954, Dorothy's first love of her life in teaching is the teenagers, Dorothy said, although music has meant much to her.

"My family came first, but those kids mean everything to me. It is so satisfying when you see one student trying to try to put across, when I see that one across—reflect the fact that it is 'getting' what I'm teaching, then I receive a lot of money, but there's a satisfaction in teaching over and over the construction of a child involved," Dorothy explained.

"When I go to class reunions and see fellows who have made something out of it, I know I taught them is a real thrill. It's what the student is inside that really counts," she adds. Several of her students have continued in music careers after they left high school, too.

Dorothy earned a BA in both music and English, and was married to Lee at Mitchell March 30, 1936. They have one son, Tim Nichols, who is in junior high this year.

"One of the happiest days of my life was when we brought Tim home," she said, for he is a "chosen child" in an adopted family. "We had wanted to adopt a baby for years, and then he finally got Tim. He's a true joy to us."

Active in the Methodist Church, she was choir director and taught the kindergarten class when they first came.

"My husband helps me so much, and Tim, too. When Tim was just a wee baby, Nick would put his bassinet in the pickup and take him students to the irrigated farm, for I continued teaching, half time at first, then back to full time. That's the only thing I regretted—not being home with Tim while he was little."

Mrs. Nichols has just completed her year as an independent member of Victory Chapter No. 60, Order of Eastern Star, and her husband has been re-elected as worthy patron.

"I dedicated my year to my parents, who are past matron and past patron of Eastern Star, and to the past matrons and past patrons here. Without everyone's willing help I could not have accomplished so much this year. Everybody has helped me all year," she said happily.

"I think this has been one of the most rewarding years I have ever spent," she continued. "I was asked to direct the junior high mixed chorus at the music festival in Jerome, and my students won first place in all their entries at the festival."

MRS. NICHOLS

She has smiled her request for marriage to John McCormick, Glenns Ferry, and she has recognized Glenn Moore. Glenn Moore was a movie star with a difference — in fact, many differences. For one thing she had in her early years an ideal family life. Her parents were "nice" people. She had the kind of bringing-up that "nice" girls had in those days, and she stepped out on her own when she made up her mind very early in life to be a movie star, and she enjoyed every minute of her very conscious preparation for that career.

When she had been in Hollywood only six hours she had back in the Dakota town when she was a child—and there wasn't a great deal to them all. She was educated in classical music—and when she started teaching here, the music she ordered for the student groups was all classical.

One day a boy came to her and asked Mrs. Nichols where she got this antique music? "I got it including some of the modern pieces, and now let the students have their choice for part of the numbers, and then they let me have mine for the other's," she concluded laughing.

"My music groups that sang at the luncheon, honoring the worthy grand matron when she visited Victory Chapter were invited to Pocatello in June to sing for the Sunday evening service at Grand Chapter."

Mrs. Nichols credits her parents with encouraging and counseling her all the way through. They have three-way phone conversations before and after her music programs "and after I tell them how the numbers were received. Father says 'See, Mother, I told you!'" Mrs. Nichols related.

"When I get especially tired, these old hills surely beckon in one or another of the homes laughing."

SILENT STAR
By Glenn Moore
A book for those who remember the golden years of the movies.

Back in the days before air conditioning, I was sitting at the reference desk in the Art Room of the Los Angeles Public Library, wishing that I was sitting at a desk, and now I was brought back to the realities of life in a hot library by a pleasant but decisive voice asking for books on antique furniture. The room was made by a very small lady ("lady" was the exact word for her) who had a big, even to a man.

"The books were brought, the little lady sat down at a table, put on a pair of big horn-rimmed glasses, and set to work making notes and sketches. After two hours of hard work she thanked me for my help, put away her notecards, and went away, still cool, decisive, and elegant."

a contract as an actress at one hundred dollars per week. Her strictly chaperoning, Grandma said, "You should have asked for two hundred dollars." But for a fifteen-year-old without an agent, she did well.

Little Miss Moore was sharply observant. She had an intuition about her own career; her about the many famous directors and actors with whom she worked. As she says, in those days Hollywood was a small town. Everybody knew everyone else. Sharp-eyed Glenn said realized that the six symbols, "The Bar" and "Barbar" LaTore, sat home on Saturday nights while the nice girls like Lillian Gish and Janet Gaynor had dates, striped out the look of legs, even to a man.

BEST BUYS

are sought in every corner of the country. A popular reason for this is that a good piece of furniture is a product which offers dependable service and a great deal of pleasure and utility. It is a part of life which is not always the cheapest. Because of this, it is not always the most popular. But it is a part of life which is not always the most popular. But it is a part of life which is not always the most popular.

So what is a "best buy" in furniture? It is a piece which gives you more of the other furnishings around it. And it must be a piece of enduring value, one which will be just as beautiful and useful many years from now.

All this explains why it is impossible to label a particular piece of furniture as a "best buy" because the needs of the individual are not always the same. What is best for someone else is not best for you and your home.

We have a store full of "Best Buys" for someone — many of them ideal for you, each one carefully selected for beauty and function that will last for years. But only you can know what is just right for you. Why not come in and look over our better buys this week? You'll be glad you did!

BY FRANK SCHILL

From Mrs. C. W., Twin Falls: "My husband found a 1936 Buffalo nickel while digging. The nickel is in perfect condition only for the color which is brown now, but you can detect everything on it, wording and all. It has an S on it. Would this coin have any value?"

Also I have a lot of foreign coins, such as large pennies, have one penny (1914) from Australia, also a 1902 penny that says Edward VII on it, with other writing. Also a 1903 sixpence, an 1872-50 cents from Newfoundland. A large coin that says 2 FR 1914 on the back and a 1912 1/2 cent piece with wording like "Der Nederlanden." Also 5-1/2 Indian head pennies; the dates are 1902, 1906, 1907, 1908, 1909. Are any of these coins valuable?"

Answer: The 1936 Buffalo nickel is neither scarce nor valuable. The "S" of course stands for San Francisco mint. Almost 15 million of these coins were made, and they are readily procurable having been saved in large lots. Dealers are buying from 10c to 15c for them with slightly more for uncirculated specimens. The Australian penny (1914) sells for around 30c brand new, and the coin of Edward VII, which is English, about the same amount. The 1893 sixpence (Victoria) is worth about 5c also. Your 50 cent piece from Newfoundland is scarce and would bring you from $2.50 to $3.00, depending upon condition. The 2-Kiln piece is worth from 15c to 25c to a quarter, as is also the Dutch coin (Der Nederlanden) you mention. The five Indian head cents are all common dates, and selling currently from 15c through $1.00, depending upon condition.

From Mrs. L. A. M., Dubu, Idaho: I have a very small coin, about the size of a dime, which has a shield on one side and another design on the other. It is a 1914 coin. Would this coin have any value?"

Answer: The coin is not valuable. It is an issue of the German States (Waldack-Pyrnont) under George Victor who reigned from 1852 until 1903. The coin is made from "billion" which is an alloy of silver and copper, with a greater proportion of copper. Present quotations of price on the coin are .45 cents for a brand new specimen.

From W. H. B., Burley, Idaho: I have a stumpy end about the size of a nickel. There is a round hole in the middle of it which makes me think maybe it is a piece of some kind of coin. One side is what looks like a cross and some words that look like "Norge-something" and on the other side a crown and the words "50 Ore." Is this a coin? If so, where is it from. Was the hole always in the coin or do you think it has been punched into it?"

Answer: A great many countries issue coins with holes in them. This particular coin is from Norway and should be dated between 1820 and 1830. It was issued during those years under Haakon VII, who ruled from 1890-4-1907, although Norway was then an independent state. The coin is not valuable. It is quoted at about thirty cents, brand new and exchanged for 10c in the United States is about 7 cents.

From S. F., Burley, Idaho: Are the coins of Panama worth a lot of money. Please tell me about them.

Answer: Not particularly. However, in the past few years interest has been growing in these coins, and the large silver ones (called "halfboys") are rapidly increasing in value. Of course, with the increase in the price of silver, all silver coins are worth every country has advanced in value.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

An Idaho Power Co. veteran to whom "dependable customer service" means patrolling lines by snowshoes and dog sled in winters gone by, is observing 40 years of employment by the utility and a professional firm.

George H. Cutler, now a line crew foreman based in TWIN FALLS, has received an award recognizing his 40 years of service.

Harold Olsen, division manager said, "Mr. Cutler is an outstanding example of the loyal and dedicated employee who makes reliable service in Magic Valley and elsewhere in the system a way of life."

Born on a farm near Franklin, in eastern Idaho, Mr. Cutler started his utility career in 1928 with the Western Power Co., which later was purchased by Idaho Power. He worked in HAILEY area until 1936 as a power line operator, then as a power lineman and line crew foreman.

Many times, Mr. Cutler received awards for his work on lines in the Big Wood river country in the deep winter snows on snowshoes and sometimes trekked with a sled pulled by a dog team.

Mr. Cutler served first as a line workman before being promoted to his present position. He and his wife, Anna, live at 593 Fillmore St. in Twin Falls.

MAGIC VALLEY PORTRAIT . . . Glenns Ferry Teacher Honored For 20 Years Service Tells Rewards Of Job

GLENN'S FERRY — Mrs. Dorothy Nichols was treated when she was presented a certificate of appreciation in recognition of 14 years of service in the Idaho public schools, here in 1962, by the Masonic Lodge in Glenns Ferry.

She is proud, and deservedly so, of the plaque the VFW Post 3646 presented her "for outstanding community service in music and entertainment." She has received a life membership from the Glenns Ferry Area PTA, and the association put on a ceremony for Mrs. Nichols in appreciation of her work with the school from 1948 to 1957.

Mrs. Nichols, born in Kimball, S.D., went four years to Dakota Wesleyan at Mitchell and while she was in college her family moved to Rapid City.

She started teaching in St. Lawrence and later taught at Plankinton, both in South Dakota, and in February, 1948, came to Glenns Ferry to start her teaching career.

Just how Lee and Dorothy Nichols happened to land in Glenns Ferry is a story in itself. She was asked to direct the junior high mixed chorus at the music festival in Jerome, and my students won first place in all their entries at the festival.

"My music groups that sang at the luncheon honoring the worthy grand matron when she visited Victory Chapter were invited to Pocatello in June to sing for her Sunday evening service at Grand Chapter."

"In college and ever since Mrs. Nichols credits her parents for before and after her music programs, and after I told them how the numbers were received, Father says, 'See, Mother, I told you.' Mrs. Nichols related, "When I get especially tired these old hills surely beckon to me," she smiled. "When we camped in them I thought often of the Black Hills, and when we realized they are just like mole hills compared to our Idaho mountains!" she exclaimed.

Besides her vocal solos, she plays the sousaphone, and remembers when her music teacher saw her first bring out this big brass in a college concert. He laughed right out loud at a sopranos soloist playing such a deep-toned horn!

Mrs. Nichols gives a mission unit full credit for her musical career. For this aunt gave her piano lessons, and whether she had practiced or not, Dorothy was a child had a full lesson every week.

Her family has been closely knit and her relatives always gathered together for holidays in the "old hills," she concluded laughing.

SILENT STAR
By Colleen Moore

A book for those who remember the golden years of the movies.

Back in the days before air-conditioning, I was sitting at the reference desk in the Art Room of the Los Angeles Public Library wishing that I was at the beach. There was never much time for day-dreaming at that desk, and now I was brought back to the realities of life in a hot library by a pleasant but decisive voice asking for books on antique furniture.

The quest was made by a very small and lady ("lady" was the exact word for her) unpretentiously called "Joan" (Gwyneth) and Janet (Gwyneth) Harlow never had a big time date. She was Miss Moore's first love, and she was the little lady sat down at a table, put on a pair of big horn-rimmed glasses, and set to work making notes and sketches. After two hours of hard work, she thanked me for my help, put away her notebooks, and went away, still cool, decisive, and graceful.

She had stated her request slips "Mrs. John McCormick" but everybody in the Art Room had recognized Colleen Moore.

Colleen Moore was a difference in fact, many differences. For one thing she had in her early years an ideal family life. Her parents were "nice" people. She had the kind of bringing-up that makes girls had in those days, and she enjoyed every minute of it. She made up her mind very early in life to be a movie star, and she enjoyed every minute of her very conscious preparation for that career.

When she had been in Hollywood only six hours she was back in the Dakota town when she was a child, and there she meant a great deal to them all.

"She was educated in classical music, and when she started teaching here, the music she ordered for the student groups was all classical."

One day a boy came to her and asked, "Mrs. Nichols, where do you get this antique music?"

"I started including some of the modern pieces and novels," she said, "the circulation department, 743-0911, for special reduced rates for servicemen and students."

a contract as an actress at one hundred dollars per week. Her strictly-chaperoning Grandmother (Mrs. Gwyneth) had asked for two hundred dollars. But for a fifteen-year-old without an agent, she did well.

Little Miss Moore was sharply observant. She had no illusions about her own career, nor about the many famous "dinner" and "party" actors with whom she worked. As she says, in those days Hollywood was a small town. Everybody knew everyone else. Sharp-eyed Colleen soon realized that the sex symbols, Theda Bara and Barbara LaMarr, sat at home on Saturday nights while the "real" stars like Lillian Gish and Janet (Gwyneth) Harlow never had a big time date. She was Miss Moore's first love, and she was the little lady sat down at a table, put on a pair of big horn-rimmed glasses, and set to work making notes and sketches. After two hours of hard work, she thanked me for my help, put away her notebooks, and went away, still cool, decisive, and graceful.

BEST BUYHAM

are sought in every area of purchase. A popular consumer magazine classifies a "Best Buy" as a product which offers the best value for the lowest price. The best buy is not always the cheapest, because the product must stand the job for which it is bought and it is no buy at all.

In home furnishings, there is an element beyond utility and price that must be present and that is beauty. Beauty is not a mere decorative flourish.

Beauty is a best buy in furnishings. It is a piece which gives you more in beauty and function than you normally expect to get for your money. It adds to the beauty and usefulness of the other furnishings around it. And it must be a piece of enduring quality which will be just as beautiful and useful many years from now.

It is this which makes it impossible to label a particular piece of furniture as a "Best Buy," because the needs of the individual are not always the same. What is best for someone else is not best for you and your home.

While there is a store full of "Best Buys" for someone, many of them are ideal for you, each one carefully selected for beauty and usefulness. You will last for years. But only you can know what is just right for you. Why not come in and look over our better buys this week? You will be glad you did!

BY FRANK SCHELL

From Mrs. C. W., Twin Falls, Idaho: My husband found a 1936 Buffalo nickel while digging. The nickel is in perfect condition only for the color which is brown now, but you can detect some of the original color and all. It has an S on it. Would this coin have any value.

Also I have a lot of foreign coins, such as large pennies. I have one penny (1914) from Austria. Also a 1902 penny that says Edward VII on it, with other writing. Also a 1903 sixpence. An 1872-50 cent coin from Denmark. A 1910 coin that says 2 FR 1914 on the back and a 1912 1/2 cent piece with wording like "Der Nederlanden." Also a 1910 Indian penny; the dates are 1902, 1906, 1929, 1905 and 1993. Are any of these coins valuable?

Answer: The 1936 Buffalo nickel is of no value or of very little value. The "S" of the coin stands for San Francisco mintage. Almost 15 million of these coins were made, and they are really procurable having been saved in large lots. Dealers are paying from 6c to 10c for them, with slightly more for uncirculated specimens. The Australian penny (1914) sells for around 20c brand new, and the coin of Edward VII, which is English, is about the same amount. The 1903 sixpence (Victorian) is worth about 30c also. Your 60 cent piece from Newfoundland is a nice one and would bring you from $2.50 to $8.00, depending upon condition. The 2-Franc piece is worth from 1 to 2 cents a quarter, as is also the Dutch coin (Der Nederlanden) you mention. The five Indian head cents are all common dates, and selling currently from 15 cents through $1.00, depending upon condition.

From Mrs. L. A. M., Dubl, Idaho: I have a very small coin, about the size of a dime, which has a shield on one side and some foreign wording "Waldock U. Pymont" "Turbinsten" "Man on the other side "Eden Thaler" and I Silber Groschen 1867. Can you tell me about this coin? Is it valuable and if so where can I sell it?

Answer: The coin is not valuable. It is a piece of the German States (Waldock-Pymont) under Georg Victor who reigned from 1852 until 1893. The coin is made of silver and copper, with a greater proportion of copper. Present quotations of price on the coin are 45 cents for a brand new specimen.

From W. J. B., Burley, Idaho:

I have a shiny coin about the size of a nickel. There is a round hole in the middle. It which makes me think maybe it is a token or slug of some kind. On one side is what looks like a cross, and on the other side is the words "Some-thing" and the other side is a crown and the words 50 Ore. Is this a coin - if so, where is it from. Was it just always in the coin or do you think it has been punched into it?

Answer: A great many countries issue coins with holes in them. This particular coin is from Norway and should be dated between 1920 and 1940. It was issued during those years when the King VI, who reigned from 1905 to 1957, through Norway was then an independent state. The coin is not valuable but it is a good one to have in your collection, brand new and exclusive value in the United States is about 7 cents.

From S. E., Burley, Idaho: Are there coins of Panama worth a lot of money. Please tell me about them.

Answer: Not particularly. However, in the past few years interest has been growing in these coins, and the large silver coins (called "Inboas") are rapidly increasing in value. Of course, the price of silver, and the price of silver, all silver coins from every country has advanced in value.

This column wishes to gratefully acknowledge the receipt of some merchant's tokens from our good friend Charles Janjcek of Murphy Hot Springs and from Garzo Merchant of Burley, Nevada. Mr. Janjcek has frequently helped us out with tokens. We are still interested in any merchant's tokens you might have.

a way with words

There is a marvelous game involving words that Charlie Manna, the comedian, has been playing on the late night talk shows. He calls it "A loser is..." And of course all you have to do is fill in the rest.

Some of the fine ones Manna has come up with go like this:

- A loser is a gigolo with chapped lips.
- A loser is a newlywed who carries his bride over the threshold and gets a hernia.
- A loser is a female impersonator who doesn't know it.
- A loser is a Japanese eye doctor who thinks a cataract is an expensive American car.
- A loser is a guy who can't administer mouth-to-mouth resuscitation without getting emotionally involved.
- A loser is a stowaway on a kamikaze plane.
- A loser is a blockhead in a karate school.
- A loser is a guy who takes a mind-expanding drug and gets a fat head.
- A loser is a guy who takes LSD and hears Lawrence Welk.
- A loser is a glassblower with hiccoughs.
- A loser is a tourist who gets seasick and has lockjaw at the same time.
- A loser is a guy who sticks his hand out to make a left turn and whacks a cop right in the mouth.
- A loser is a girl who puts her bra on backwards, and it fits.
- A loser is a bronco buster who rides side-saddle.

- A loser is a flagpole sitter with a kidney condition.
- A loser is a pilot who presses the ejection seat button in a helicopter.
- A loser is a fat tourist who falls asleep at a Hawaiian luau with an apple in his mouth.
- And here are one or three of our own:
- A loser is a thrill seeker in Hazelton.
- A loser is a John Birch Society member who liked FDR.
- A loser is a downtown businessman who shops at Lynwood.

And finally:—A loser is a Lynwood merchant who has forgotten how to get downtown.

Try a few of your own. They are easy, and hard. Send some to us—and we'll print the best 10 or 12. Address: Feature Editor, Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Ever hear your youngster come home and say a word you don't really know. You decide to brave the scornful look you're likely to get and you ask, "What does that mean?" And your son or daughter says, "Oh—Dad—really!"

If the last slang word you remember is "Cool," meaning "the greatest," or something like that... you're in trouble.

If you think "Pot" is something to cook in, and "Grass" is what you cut on Sunday afternoon... you're not only in trouble—you have been completely bypassed by today's generation of disgustingly intelligent young people.

Here are a few—but by no means all—of the current expressions in vogue among the "turned-on generation." The definitions in most cases are taken from the most literal translation of the term, but worded in a slightly different way, to avoid a four letter word now and then:

- "Pot, Gates, Reefers, Greeters, Muggles, Mooters, Indian-Hay and Gool-Butts" are all words for marijuana, a tall, weed-like herb which is first cousin to the fig tree and the herb which has been formed into a cigarette.
- "Grass" is marijuana—a medicinal Spanish word used for a poor grade of tobacco.
- The most commonly used term for marijuana now is "Pot" or "Grass."
- "Acid" is the term meaning LSD, and "LSD" is the sign for "lysergic acide diethylamide," the hallucinatory drug which is central to much of the hippie culture.
- "Shooting Acid," means taking LSD.
- "Beautiful" is a word expressing approval or appreciation of anything good or exciting.
- "Blow your mind" means any strange or stimulating mental experience.
- "Brend" is money.
- "Brick" is a compressed kilogram of marijuana.
- "Bust" is to arrest.
- "Crash, Pad" is a place to sleep.
- "Crystals" are doses of amphetamines.
- "Digger" is a hippie social worker.
- "Do Your Thing" means do what brings your peace of mind or physical well-being.
- "Downers" are tranquilizers.
- "Down Trip" is any dull experience.
- "Freak," or "Freak Out" is to have a "bad trip" which means paranoid delusions, etc., or to do something that turns out wrong.
- "Guru" from the word for a Hindu teacher and means a hippie leader or a "Big Diddy."
- "Heat" is police pressure.
- "High" is a state of euphoria achieved through the use of drugs, or a general sense of joy or pleasure depending on how the term is used.
- "Joint" is another term for a marijuana cigarette.
- "Juice Head" is one who uses alcohol.
- "Lid" is an ounce of marijuana (which is also called "Mary Jane" or "M.J.," "The Man," or "The Man") means a microgram of LSD.
- "Plant, Your Seed" is hippie jargon for spread the philosophy through mutual love and sharing.
- "Rap" means achieving rapport through aimless conversation.
- "Snack" is heroin.
- "Snappers" are amyl nitrite ampoules.
- "Speed" is any amphetamine.
- "Straight" is someone outside the hippie society.
- "The World, is 'straight," by hippie standards.
- "Turned-On" means high or under the influence of drugs, or receptive to new drugs or experiences.
- "Up" means angry, hostile, tense, etc.
- "Vibes" refers to the atmosphere or spirit of a scene.
- "White Light" is the ultimate physical experience under LSD... the final discovery of one's true self.
- "Thing" is one's main interest.
- "Trip" is going under the influence of hallucinatory drugs (LSD, DMT, DPT, STP) which produce hallucinations, visual distortions, or a heightened sensory experience.
- "Tripping Out" is talking and saying. And "zap" is to get into someone's vicinity, to overwhelm, as in, "Zap the cops with love."

There are many other words and terms of the so-called "Turned-On Generation" but space doesn't permit going into all of them. The jargon of any group becomes a slang language quite fast. It is based on a different meaning of common words in the standard vocabulary of a "straight." In that way the group can talk without sounding too odd, and at the same time are not understood by someone outside their peer group.

And you can tell this world is changing. In Police court the other day the billiff, rather than saying, "Would everyone please rise," as court began, turned to the people and said, "Here come da Judge!"

West's Most Famous Statue Gets New Home

The original "End of the Trail" statue, the West's most famous official work from Visalla to the National Cowboy Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center, located on top Persimmon Hill near Oklahoma City, was removed from its place of prominence with the closing of the Exposition and placed in a vast graveyard for the show's statues in Marina Park. Several plans had been put forth for the huge monument but none materialized. The sculptor had hoped it would be cast in bronze and placed high on Presidio Point overlooking San Francisco Bay. Located there it would, in the artist's mind, truly symbolize the pushing of the Indian off his land and virtually into the sea, and it would also mark the terminus or "End of the Trail" for the Lincoln Highway, the first federally built road to America's eastern and western seaboard. The fate of the statue seemed doomed, however, by the waning of interest caused by the coming of World War I.

VICTORY SCHOOL, considerably the worse for wear, as it looked a short time ago when we began to tear it down. Less remains today... and shortly no trace will be left of the 1923 structure.

Filer Loses One Victory

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent

FILER—Just a year ago, this building echoed each day with the sound of children's voices as they engaged in the various activities of a normal school day.

Now it stands in a rubble-strewn yard, looking like a giant box living on the piles of windows and doors—and no signs of life within or without. Even the lone tree in the yard looks as if it were a stranger.

This is the old Victory School which is being torn down to make way for the new Filer Community Center. The city has bought the six acres purchased by the city for that purpose.

Victory School was built in 1923 to house 100 students. Central School, erected in 1913, had formerly contained all eight elementary grades as well as the four of high school. In 1918 high school was constructed and the upper grades were moved into it.

Last year Filer's ultra-modern elementary school was completed west of town and both Central and Victory schools closed. The Central building and grounds were purchased by a church group who plan on making it into a missionary training school for Indians in the future.

Older members of the community who remember when the Victory School was built, who taught in it, the Christmas and other special programs put on through the years, and the creek federal funds which marked the closing of school—and was the big event of the year.

When the property was purchased by the city, the same building attached to the rear of the pink stucco building, was bought by a local man who retained the number to his lot to build a house. Work began this spring to dismantle reusable parts from the building before it was completely demolished.

Filer does not have a city park and the need for one is long-felt. Last year the city council passed a resolution to seek federal funds for acquisition and development of land to form a community park and a park committee was formed.

Walter Schenkel, park board chairman, states that the federal government will provide half of the funds for a park if the city will put up the other half.

Plans for the Filer Community having seen the statue at the Exposition and learning of its apparent fate, successfully requested it from Exposition officials. It cost $400 to pull the statue out of the mud of Marina Park, dismantle and ship it to Visalla, located in California's San Joaquin Valley.

The statue was reassembled in Mooney Grove Park in 1919, and reposed there for almost one day crumbe and all wood created by the man and woman of the Dean of American sculpture, James Earle Fraser. It is only proper that the statue come to the National Cowboy Hall of Fame, where it will become a major collection of Mr. and Mrs. Fraser's works, controversy erupted throughout Tulsa County and the San Joaquin Valley. Public opinion was divided as to the desirability of removal and the making of a replica. The statue was restored and placed right where it was.

The statue was recently dismantled, carefully crated and shipped to the National Cowboy Hall of Fame. The sculpture was the work of the Tulsa County officials for its more than 1,400 mile trip to Oklahoma, once known as the Indian Territory. Trustees of the three year old multi-million dollar Shrine, owned and operated by the people of the seventeen Western states, Chairman of the Board Albert K. Mitchell of Oklahoma, and President Fred H. Drexler of Nevada along with Managing Director Dean Kraker and his staff, have great plans for the "End of the Trail." Principally, the statue will be relocated as nearly as possible to its original condition to form the core of the James Earle and Laura Gardin Fraser Memorial Studio exhibit. It will be saved from the elements for future generations to see and appreciate.

Through the years, historians and writers about the frontier have often described the "End of the Trail" as "The Crown Jewel of the West." Oklahoma columnist Roy P. Stewart wrote after seeing the model, "The real value of the 'End of the Trail' is spiritual and is virtually unassessable because of its size, composition and romance. Above all, it was created by the man and woman of the Dean of American sculpture, James Earle Fraser. It is only proper that the statue come to the National Cowboy Hall of Fame, where it will become a major collection of Mr. and Mrs. Fraser's works, controversy erupted throughout Tulsa County and the San Joaquin Valley. WASHINGTON, D.C. (Special)—Sen Frank Church's bill to secure emergency funds for the Federal Home Administration has been sent to the White House for President Johnson's signature.

The legislation, approved by the Senate on Monday, passed the House of Representatives Thursday. The house tabled 12 similar proposals and sent Church's Senate bill to President Johnson.

The Idaho senator introduced the bill on May 10. On May 14, it was reported without amendments by the Senate Agriculture Committee. Presidential approval is expected early next week.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The first hurricane of the year, yet unspawed, was christened Abby on Thursday. She isn't expected until after June 1 when the hurricane season officially begins, but the weather watchers at Miami's hurricane center decided they would be ready with her name and names for her 21 sisters.

Brenda and Candy will follow Abby.

Then will come Dolly, Edna, Frances, Gladys and Hilda, which is as far as the names went last year. Heidi ended the hurricane season off the coast of Ireland.

Generals Lee and Jackson in Baltimore is considered among America's most important statues. Mrs. Fraser created three large American history panels for the Library at West Point. An exciting work of the sculptress is a 421 foot panel depicting the opening of Oklahoma's Cherokee Strip; it contains more than 250 figures. Among Mrs. Fraser's important array of medals are the Lindbergh, Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the National Geographic Society's Cross of Merit and Tuboro Merit. She was the only woman to ever design an American coin.

While more than 200 works mounted the Frasers collection, yet they only collaborated on one project that was the Oregon Trail Commemorative building.

During their lives, James Earle and Laura Gardin Fraser received all the awards that art, numismatic and medallic worlds could offer. Now they will be memorialized in one of America's great museums.

Mr. Fraser was born in 1870 and died in October 1953. Mrs. Fraser was born in Chicago in 1889 and died in August 1966. It has been said, the fires of genius light the way to glory.

The "End of the Trail" was unveiled for exhibition this month.

Fish over or under these length specifications must be released, but measurements and pictures may be taken of fish held captive in shallow waters. They must not be injured in any way necessarily.

Monster Sturgeon Tests Angler's Skill

By JIM HUMBRID
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Back in "the good old days" of yore, ocean going chinook salmon could be clubbed or speared and white sturgeon caught in the lower Snake River on set lines. Angler opinion of these great fish species, especially the monstrous prehistoric sturgeon which prowled deep holes in Hells Canyon, was at a low ebb. For example, an item in the Boise STATESMAN 75 years ago told of a boy with a wagon load of sturgeon and salmon. He said "then" the rate of six cents a pound. The fish had been caught at the mouth of the Boise River and "are a fine lot."

Almost three decades have passed since the taking of chinook salmon "by means other than hook and line" was prohibited in Idaho waters. This regulation banning the use of set lines in any part of the Snake River was ordered by the Idaho Fish and Game Commission in 1930, though unattended lines in deep waters had been outlawed for a number of years from Shoshone Falls to Hells. Set lines still are legal in portions of Idaho on the Kootenai River for the taking of ling and sturgeon.

As sportsmen learned to catch Snake River sturgeon with conventional rod and reel, their interest has grown with each passing season. The real test comes when a man tries to land a sturgeon weighing several hundred pounds, with only reasonably light reel, line and reel. Instead of a half-inch rope and perhaps a pair of horses to help drag it ashore, sturgeon historically have been rated fine table fare, especially smoked. Their roe always have been in great demand as caviar, in this country as well as Europe. Thus set lines on the lower Snake and Columbia rivers were used to hook these monsters for the commercial market. Big harvests and growing scarcity of big sturgeon, not enough to hook these monsters for the commercial market. Big harvests on the Snake River, and the size limitation of "keeper" fish to lengths no less than three feet (36 inches), and no more than six feet (72 inches).

White sturgeon are slow growers. They are a dozen or more years old before reaching sexual maturity. They spawn in the spring of the year or early summer. Females lay up to one-half million eggs in a season. Weights up to 1,800 pounds have been recorded for white sturgeon. The head is flattened, with long fleshy snout and underslung, retracting mouth. Sharp when young, the snout is short and blunt in adult fish. The mouth has thick lips but no teeth. There are four barbels or whiskers in front of the mouth. Head and back are covered with bony plates. Five rows of shields cover the body, much like the thorns on a rose. Sturgeon are bottom feeders. They move slowly, extending their flexible tube-like mouth, sucking up small fish, worms, snails and other foods. Some have been caught with stomachs filled with potatoes or onions. Anglers use enough lead to fish the bottom with all manner of bait. Lamprey eel, smelt, shrimp, crayfish or big gobs of worms are favorite baits. If these are not at hand, chunks of squawfish or suckers will do what you can cast out into the best places in deep holes and riffles. White sturgeon still lurk in the Snake River above Thousand Springs, the Narrows near Glens Ferry, Haunnet-Indian Cove, Swan Falls-Murphy-Moring, and all the way through Hells Canyon to the mouth of the Salmon River.

Probably the best sturgeon waters are found above Johnson Bar some 16 to 18 miles upstream from Pittsburg Landing. Beyond this point the white waters, running through Hells Canyon are tricky to navigate. It is here that the River Queen, a small boat from Lewiston, turns back beyond the Rush Creek rapids and the most dangerous waters of all. Nevertheless, the Oregon title just below Granite Creek usually is among the most productive sturgeon waters in the river. It does not look like a deep hole or even a big eddy. The name comes from the fact that there is no place to beach a boat and throw out a section of eel-netted hook except on the Oregon side. The best fishing months are April, May and June, and again in September and October. Unless the action comes in just a few minutes in good sturgeon waters when fished properly, unless a fish is hooked in 20 minutes to one-half hour, experienced anglers move on to a place where the big fish are feeding.

Hooks measuring at least 1 1/2 inches from point to shank are tied on the main line some three feet below the dropper for lead-weight (8 to 10 ounces). Lamprey eel or other bait is cut into 2- to 4-inch sections. This makes it difficult for an undersized sturgeon—less than 20 inches or squawfish and carp—to take the hook. Though maximum legal sturgeon length is six feet (72 inches), big fish measuring to 9 feet are common in Hells Canyon.

The sport fishing value of these man-nought fish has become firmly established in Idaho during the past few years. They put up a real fight, sometimes jumping out of the water at least once when pressure is put on by a fisherman. Often they can be seen surfacing and rolling as they feed in the rapids or rising from the murky depths of holes. They make long runs for the nearest rapids or riffles, jumping over water against anglers whenever they can.

Somehow sportsmen never complain even when a line breaks after a 3 to 4 hour battle with a sturgeon—or when forced to give up the fight from sheer exhaustion. The largest authentic weight recorded for Snake River sturgeon taken on rod and reel was a 284 pounder caught in 1956 by low Swan Falls by Glen Howard. Some fish are caught many times, especially now that the

Governor Is Speaker At Glens Ferry

GLENS FERRY—Gov. Donald Samuelson runs the state government "like a business," Glens Ferry Chamber of Commerce members were told at a meeting at Hansen's Cafe Wednesday night attended by more than 70 local persons.

The state executive discussed budget, building and communication services and the same type of organization in county and city governmental units to operate at maximum efficiency.

He said his appointments are set up two weeks in advance, and this was why he was unable to meet demands made on him during the civil rights demonstration in Boise recently.

"My commitments already had been made to farmers two weeks ahead and I was in Hawaii at the time fulfilling these commitments," Gov. Samuelson stated.

At the governor's annual conference he said officials are assisted in how to deal with the multiplicity of federal funds. The Western States Governor's Conference also held annually is helpful in many ways more local in significance. Idaho might not have much force in voting toward a settlement of the desert land entry problem, but if all the states affected in this problem work toward an end, much more can be obtained, he noted.

Mrs. Samuelson accompanied her husband to the dinner.

Rev. LeRoy Trowbridge gave the invocation and the group sang the state song, "Idaho," work out of the mouths of sturgeon. But scars tell the story of how many times they have been hooked and got away to thrill sportsmen another day.

TV Or Not TV Africans View Their Special Tragedy

By DAVID J. PAINE JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — City of no TV. South Africans wonder, adapting Shakespeare to what some regard as their own special tragedy. Many think it's not so much a case of if but when television will be introduced in South Africa. Speculation centers on TV in Africa is one of the world's few developed countries lacking television. OUR BOARDING HOUSE

by Bill Freyse

LOOK, LEANDER UNCLE AMOS HAS DOZED OFF AND HIS STUFF IS BOILIN' OVER!

IT'S SUPPOSED TO KEEP GRASS FROM GROWIN' MORE THAN TWO INCHES! SAY, I'VE GOT AN IDEA!

WE'LL TAKE THE TOP OFF THIS PLANT! THAT'LL GIVE HIM SOMETHING TO FIGURE OUT!

BUT WON'T HE BE MAD?

WAKE UP, UNK! THE CHEMICALS ARE BOILIN' OVER ON YOUR PLANT!

I WASN'T SLEEPING, I WASN'T RESTING MY GREAT CAESAR! IT'S PERFECT!

THAT LAWN NEEDS WATER LIKE THE SAHARA NEEDS MORE SUN!

DULLARD! YOU'RE SEEING THE FIRST APPLICATION OF HOOPLE'S NO GROW! IT WILL END LAWN MOWING FOREVER!

T.M. Reg. U.S. Pat. Off.

I SHOULD HAVE KNOWN BETTER THAN TO EXPECT THAT BIG WALRUS TO MOW IT! I'LL HAVE TO DO IT MYSELF BEFORE MY SEWING CLUB ARRIVES!

ACCORDING TO MY EXPERIMENT, THE GRASS SHRINKS IN JUST 20 MINUTES!

WELL, I KNOW THE WRIGHT BROTHERS MADE IT FLY, BUT THIS IS ONE I GOTTA SEE FOR MYSELF!

AFTER A CABBIE OPENED THE DOOR FOR ME I THOUGHT I'D NEVER BE SURPRISED AGAIN... BUT THE LAWN LOOKS LIKE IT'S JUST BEEN CLIPPED!

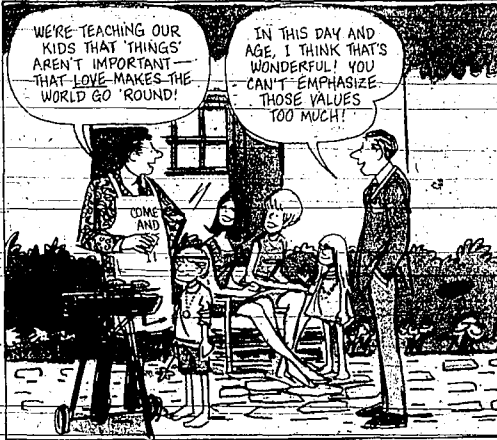

HAR-RUMPH! PERHAPS NOW I'LL LISTEN MORE ATTENTIVELY TO US SCIENTISTS!

WHEN MARTHA COMES BACK I'LL TELL HER I REFUSE TO EVER MOW IT AGAIN! MY WORD HOW THAT LITTLE TRICK WILL SURPRISE HER!

Ask Them Yourself

FOR REP. L. MENDEL RIVERS,
chairman, House Armed Services Committee
I know of two religious denominations that claim all their young men are "ministers." Do these young men have legal grounds for draft deferment?—Mrs. Ruth E. Smith, Mountain Home, Idaho

● The Selective Service Act provides exemption from military service for regular or duly ordained ministers of religion.
 The term "regular, or duly ordained minister of religion" means one who, as a vocation, preaches and teaches the religious principles of a church, sect, or organization, and who is recognized by such affiliations as a regular minister.
 This does not include a person who does not regularly, as his vocation, teach and preach the principles of his religion.

FOR CHRIS SCHENKEL, sportscaster
In covering golf tournaments, you use the term
 "pin high." What does it mean?—Genevieve Dement, Dubuque, Iowa

● "Pin high" means that the ball traveled the exact distance to the cup but to

FOR CAROL LAWRENCE
Why does singing certain songs make you cry?—
 Mrs. R. E. Mullon, Cumberland, Md.

● Usually because the song reminds me of some sentimental event in my life or something touching in a friend's life.

FOR JACK DEMPSEY,
ex-heavyweight boxing champion
What was the toughest fight in your career?—L.
 Stein, Bellefonte, Ill.

● Either Luis Firpo or Jack Sharkey—a toss-up. I'm convinced I was lucky in

FOR ED SULLIVAN
Do you find the acts for your show yourself?—
 Beverly Brandt, Hortonville, Wis.

● I pick many of the acts myself, but I have a staff of talent scouts around the world to help.

FOR JAMES J. ROWLEY,
director, U.S. Secret Service
If Robert Kennedy, who has a wife and 10 children, were to be elected President, what would be the annual cost of Secret Service protection for the whole family?—
 E. Harmer, Lewiston, Idaho

● The Secret Service, as a matter of security, does not disclose procedures or costs of protecting persons it is authorized by law to protect.

FOR PHYLLIS DILLER
Do you still encourage unknown writers to submit material for your act?
 —Theresa M. Miscovich,
 Los Angeles, Calif.

● I discontinued this practice when the number of submissions became just too much to handle.

FOR OTIS SHEPARD, poster artist
Will American poster art reach the directness and quality of the foreign poster art?—Mr. Joseph Del Meo, Eatonville, N. J.

● Poster art is not in wide use in America today, but we do have some very good artists, notably those who design travel posters. The psychedelic posters, prized by the young, I consider decadent and illegible. But remember, not all foreign posters are good, either.

FOR DR. PAUL DUDLEY WHITE, heart specialist
What is the cardinal rule to observe for persons who have heart trouble?
 —Mrs. Verda Ross, San Bernardino, Calif.

● Just as no two persons are alike, no two cardiac patients are alike, and so one cannot make set rules for all. But in the light of the medical advances in the last 25 years, the most important rule is:
 "Be optimistic."

FOR ROY HOFMEINZ,
chairman of the board, Hinkley Bros. Circus
 a circus buff?—Mr. Joe Hoeflich, Harrisburg, Pa.

● I have been a circus buff since I was four years old. So when my four-year-old grandson said, "Grandpa, why don't

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Grandma Is a Gas! One by one, the ladies are moving into domains that used to be marked "for men only." The boss grease-monkey at a Rockville, Md., gas station, for instance, is a grandmother, Mrs. Gerry Gantt. As she pumps gas and repairs engines, she has two

Mrs. Gerry Gantt

advantages over the burliest male. First, her maternal clucking over two Little League teams brings lots of parental customers. And second, she's just a shade over five feet tall, which means her hands are petite enough to reach into the tight engine places that a man's larger fingers have trouble with.

Hopeful Hearts—A simple shot in the arm may be tomorrow's answer to the cholesterol dilemma. At Brooklyn's Maimonides Medical Center, Dr. William S. Collens has been injecting an extract taken from the aorta of a hog into rabbits who are on a high-fat diet.
 The extract coats their arteries so that cholesterol can't be deposited and arteries can't clog. Doctor Collens hopes to start testing it on humans soon.

Painting Redbird—St. Louis Cardinals cen-trefielder Curt Flood has an unusual nickname—"Rembrandt." And it fits! Curt is as adept with brush and oils as he is with bat and glove. "Baseball and painting make a good balance," says Curt. "Baseball is rough and tough, painting is sensitive and quiet. It relaxes me." Curt's beautiful, lifelike portraits are earning him up to $300 each.
 And while he may not be as great a painter as the famous Dutch artist, remember Rembrandt never batted .335.

Back to School—When Lyndon Johnson leaves the White House, it's unlikely that he'll just sit in a rocker at the ranch.
 One possibility is that L.B.J., who once taught school, will join the University of Texas as a professor of government.
 According to the school's chancellor,
 Dr. Harry Ransom, this has been "a subject of continuing discussion for a number of years."

Playing Politics—For those who can't wait till November, there are political games to play right now. You can buy dart boards with the faces of the various Presidential candidates and world leaders as targets. Richard Nixon is selling slightly ahead of Robert Kennedy, but French President Charles de Gaulle outsells both of them. Or Political chess

you can sit down to a chess or checker game of Democrats vs. Republicans. On the Democratic side, the dis-cut chess pieces include the Kennedy brothers as a pair of knights. Facing them are Nixon, Rockefeller, Reagan, and a surprise Republican pawn—actor
 John Wayne.

The Fish Lure Guaranteed to Catch Fish...or it costs you nothing!

FISH GRAB MY HOOK WITHOUT CAUTION—Attack Ravenously!

Catch More Fish Like Crazy!

WORKS WHERE OTHER LURES FAIL!

My Secret Is My French, Patented Lure That Works in Lakes, Ponds, Streams, Salt Waters, Saves You Time, Work, Money and Disappointment

Perfect for Amateurs, Experts, Trollers, Coasters, Shore Fishermen, All Kinds of Fresh Water Game and Pan Fish Plus Salt Water Fish!

SOUND WAVE MINNOW!

Living action attracts by its Vibrating Gull. Works like a real minnow in water. Fish can't resist. When they grab lure it feels like they're worn them to spit it out before hook sinks in.

What It Does For You!

- Catches More Fish
- Catches Almost All Kinds of Fish
- Saves You Money on Other Plugs, Bait and Lures
- Saves You Work of Catching Minnows
- Catches the Fish that Won't Bite on Worms, Bugs, Plug, Spoons, Canned Bait, Flies, Cut Bait or Spinners them. What I discovered changed every idea I ever had about fishing and fish ways.

Lures Can Fight Fish Away

I watched UNDERWATER exactly how fish reacted to every lure, live bait, ever-fishing maneuver and trick used to catch them. I watched fish approach even the best performing lure, seem ABOUT TO STRIKE—then suddenly TURN AWAY. Something about even the best performing lures, always KEEPING THEM FROM CATCHING fish. As for the average lure, mostly they seemed actually to BORE the fish—as though they looked to the fish as they looked to me UNDERWATER—shiny, painted bits of metal, plastic and wood. I saw live bait after it was cast turn white and die before my eyes—and saw fish often approach, prepare to strike—THEN TURN AWAY.

Minnows Irresistible

Then I saw the same fish approach actual live swimming minnows and without caution or suspicion STRIKE RAVENOUSLY. I saw the same fish that rejected the lure again and again, react without caution LIVE SWIMMING MINNOWS. As fact these minnows swam so AWAY from my fish from a distance—even before being seen.

Why Lures Often Fail

My talks with fish scientists and my own studies convinced me it was the swimming motion of minnows, particularly the swishing tail that attracted many fish, concluded that no lure I had ever used had SUFFICIENTLY duplicated the living minnow and its motion.

How, I asked myself, could a fish lure be created that would attract fish just as the actual live swimming minnow did—and that once attracted would get the same ravenous STRIKE as live minnows? WHATEVER the answer was, I was soon and FEAR aroused by the lure I saw used?

My Man-Made "Minnow"

After 19 years of study and testing, I have finally created such a man-made "minnow," so like a living, swimming minnow—in shape, form, texture and motion that fish ravenously STRIKE—without caution—and I catch more fish, bigger fish—faster than ever before in my life.

Because my man-made "fish" looks, darts, wiggles, even "feels" like a minnow—has, pick-erel, pike, perch, trout and many other kinds of fresh and salt water fish attack voraciously—without suspicion or fear—even when they're not biting for another fisherman on the take.

Astonishing 'Catches' Reported

I call my lure VIVIF. Once I perfected VIVIF I started selling them to other fishermen. Soon news of astonishing catches came in—first France—then from other countries.

Yes, from all over come reports of amazing catches—of fish biting where other lures failed—of the surprise, the effectiveness of this VIVIF lure. And what does this mean to you?

Simply this. Now YOU can get more out of fishing than ever before. Now YOU can catch more fish, bigger fish than ever in your life. It is GUARANTEED—of you just cast one penny. It means no longer need you come back with an empty creel from a long day's fishing—it means no longer need you spend hours of work digging worms and catching minnows or other bait. It means you can save the endless expense of continually buying expensive spinners, flies, plugs, bait and lures. It means you can often catch the fish that are not biting on worms, bugs, plugs, spoons; canned bait; flies; cut-bait or spinners or no cast. It means you can troll, cast, or shore fish with my lure with equal success. It means you can go out after and come back with large mouth bass, small mouth bass, pike, pickerel, perch, broom, trout, walleyes, salmon, red tuns, striped bass, blue fish, weak fish and so on it time and again—over your own life.

VIVIF is catching fish in 25 countries for delighted fishermen. 3,000,000 VIVIFs have been grabbed up. Already reports from U.S. fishermen say VIVIF is the greatest lure they have ever used. I predict VIVIF will be the magic power of VIVIF yourself without taking a penny.

SUPPLIES ARE LIMITED

To test your own luck, order now. Order now. U.S. supplies are still limited. Order now so you'll have your VIVIF in time for your next fishing trip. Only if you act at once can we guarantee to fill your order immediately.

By EMILE PLANES (AS TOLD TO PAUL STAG)

Here it is how I catch more fish than I ever caught in my life before—More fish than I ever dreamed of—and BIGGER fish than I ever suspected possible. Here is how you can catch bass, pike, perch, broom, trout, salmon, crappie, pickerel, walleyes and many, many other kinds of fresh water game and pan fish plus many salt water fish—the same way I do.

Since I invented my fishing lure, I catch so many fish, such BIG fish, and catch them so FAST, people gather to watch me. I've been followed FOUR TIMES in ONE day by a fish warden to find out if my methods are legal. But my entire secret is my fishing lure that's GUARANTEED TO CATCH FISH—or it costs you nothing. Yes, GUARANTEED to catch fish even when other lures or even live bait fails or no cost. My lure works in lakes, ponds, streams, salt water, saves you time, work, money and disappointment, is ideal for amateurs, experts, trollers, coasters, shore fishermen. My lure catches fish differently from anything you've ever seen before in fresh and salt water. Even veteran U.S. fishing guides have been surprised at its astonishing catches. And the French government itself has certified my lure by actual patent as UNIQUE.

Today's Pop Songs—Realistic or “Dirty”?

Some call them “the way things are”; others say the new lyrics are pornography set to music

By CLAIRE SAFRAN

BOB DYLAN was the first to say it: “The times they are a-changin’.”

In pop music, the beat has mellowed and the words have ripened. They have come a long way from the Beatles’ first innocent message of “I wanna hold your ha-a-and.” “I’d love to turn you on . . .” the Beatles sing now.

The singers and the sellers of pop music call this “the new realism.” “The songs aren’t saying anything that the kids aren’t doing,” says singer Janis Ian, 16. “Well, maybe the ones who are 12 and 13 aren’t doing anything—but they’re thinking about it. When a singer shakes, they don’t scream because they think it’s a groovy-ballet movement. They dig exactly what it means.”

To some reddening adult ears, this new realistic sounds more like the new pornography. To Gordon E. McLendon, who operates some 14 radio stations around the country from his Texas headquarters, it is time somebody spanked these young singers and writers.

McLendon has launched a campaign to ban “obscene, suggestive, and double-entendre lyrics” from the air waves and “to end the filth” in lyrics which is slowly poisoning the minds of the nation’s youth.

According to McLendon, about two records on every week’s list of hits are questionable. Station operators across the country, agreeing with him, have joined his crusade against such songs as “Satisfaction,” by the Rolling Stones.

This does not endear McLendon to the population under 25. Arriving at Earl Carroll’s theater in Hollywood to appear as a guest on Art Linkletter’s tv show, he was met by a mob of shouting, irate teenagers. They waved picket signs at him with such messages as “Who are you to judge our music—God?” “Hello, Biff Brother,” and other words that McLendon found offensive.

Record companies, as you might expect, disagree with McLendon. “I think that censorship on the part of the radio stations could be extremely dangerous and ill-advised,” says Alan W. Livingston, president of Capitol Records. “Records, particularly teen-age records, are an art form, and to censor an art form would be like covering up a nude painting or censoring literature or the Broadway theater. These kids who are writing today’s teen-age songs represent the viewpoint of young America, and I think we should listen to them.”

The generations collide violently over what teens call “censorship” and McLendon “censorship.” “The station operator is responsible for what goes out over his air waves,” he says. “He has a moral responsibility and a legal one.”

“The trouble is that the radio stations are all run by old men,” retorts Janis Ian. “They are waiting for the big bands to come back. If they sit around long enough waiting to hear that good, old big-band sound, they can start hearing all sorts of things that just aren’t there.”

Looking for double meanings can be a quicksand trap. “If you look for it,” says Ernie Altshuler, vice president of RCA Victor, “you can find a double meaning in ‘Mary Had a Little Lamb,’ too.”

Speaking for the new young writers, Neil Diamond says, “Some people objected to my song, ‘A Girl Becomes a Woman,’ because they said the girl in the song was pregnant. It wasn’t meant that way, but the thing is that most young people are more aware than their parents like to think. Times have changed.”

This is where the debate rages most fiercely. “There was a Capitol record by the Beatles which was titled ‘Norwegian Wood,’” says Alan Livingston. “Somebody decided that it was about a perverted relationship. I haven’t the slightest idea why, and neither do Paul McCartney nor John Lennon, who wrote the song. Then there was Bob Dylan’s song, ‘Rainy Day Woman,’ which was supposed to be about girl smoking marijuana. I can’t determine whether Dylan meant that or not. Somebody’s always looking for another meaning not necessarily intended.”

A generation ago the slang of jazz musicians began to crop up in every-day conversations of clean-shaven, middle-class people. Today the underground language of the drug world is seeping above ground to tease the mind and bedevil the censors with double meanings. A song by the Byrds, “Eight Miles High,” for instance, could have been simply about a trip on an airplane—or on drugs.

“I think the kids are hip and will catch both meanings, which is okay—in any song,” says Nilsson, whose “Electric Blue” album also contains many such double-entendres.

Patti Page, who has sold more records than any other female singer in history, disagrees. “Most of the new songs are about love, and there’s nothing wrong with that,” she says. “But drugs have done enough damage without glorifying them in song, too.”

Bandleader Bob Crosby is also vehement about psychedelic lyrics, even when sung by his own son. “I wonder whether these drug- and sex lyrics aren’t an organized plot to bring all our kids down. Who knows? Maybe it could even be communist-inspired.”

Al Martino now has one of the biggest hits of his long career with a song called “Mary in the Morning,” which some stations banned. He admits, “I have to go along with the tempo of the times to get a hit record.”

Although broadcasters and record makers have taken strong stands on today’s lyrics, the general public has not. When the National Association of Broadcasters polled 800 radio stations, 62 percent indicated they received no complaints about lyrics during the average month.

This doesn’t mean that the public approves of “the new realism.” It could mean that radio stations and record companies are now screening songs more carefully.

Or it could mean that those who might object—the parents—are simply not listening. ♦

“They’re just love songs.”

Gordon McLendon
“They’re filth.”

Janis Ian
“Kids dig it.”

Bob Crosby

BARBARA PARKINS: She Wants to Be Another Garbo

BARBARA PARKINS has had only two professional jobs to date, star of the tv soap opera, "Peyton Place," and costar of the equally sudsy movie, "Valley of the Dolls."

Not much to go on, but then Barbara is an actress who doesn't need much to go on. She told me recently, "I don't want just to be compared with Marilyn Monroe or Joan Crawford. I want to be a 'real' star, another Garbo."

Can she be another Garbo? When you meet Barbara, the first impression is of hostility and arrogance, usually the trademarks of known established stars. Most of the questions I asked offended her and got either the briefest of replies or none at all, such as the one about her wedding ring.

"It's just a ring," she snapped. "When I asked whether she cared to elaborate without mentioning names, she said curtly, 'I don't talk about my friends.'"

In Hollywood, it is no secret that she changes her boy friends as often as agents or publicists, but she won't talk about that, either. "It's not important how many agents I've had. Why do you want to know?"

Barbara has used almost every major publicist in town; and as for boy friends, the answer is a brusque, "No comment."

The list I knew of included Hawaiian singer Don Ho, who has a wife and six children; Eddie Fisher, who has Connie Stevens; her costar Ryan O'Neal, who was married to Joanna Moore, then to Leigh Taylor-Young; and bachelor John Phillip Law.

When Barbara first came to Hollywood, she was 16, and her ambition was well camouflaged under a veil of innocence.

She hadn't had an easy life. Barbara is an adopted child who never knew her real parents, nor wants to talk about them. In fact, the only subjects she cherishes are her Jaguar, her travels, her clothes, and her ambition to become the next Garbo.

She then recalls her lonely years and hardest times, financially when she and her mother (her adoptive father died when she was five) moved to a small town north of Vancouver, Canada, for one year when she was nine. "We simply couldn't afford to live in Vancouver."

Barbara regularly refers to status symbols such as her Jaguar, fur coat, trips, etc. but insists they don't mean anything to her, that they are "responsibilities, not luxuries."

A girl as full of ambition as Barbara doesn't have much spare time and, apparently, no great need for it. "I'm an indoor girl. I don't like sports."

By her own admission, Barbara has only three "real" friends in Hollywood. "I think that's as many as anyone has. Besides, I am a loner."

There have been many uncomplicated reports about how badly Barbara gets along with her coworkers, thanks to her high-handedness and arrogance.

"Peyton Place" director Ted Post disagrees with the stories: "Barbara really is sweet. She was never a problem in the four years she has done the show. Of course, she is very ambitious and through lack of experience often says and does the wrong things."

At this point, Barbara has all the ingredients to become another Garbo—beauty, talent, ambition, and appeal. But she also is spoiled, moody, and uncooperative with her public. One hopes that her attitude doesn't spoil her dream—but then it didn't spoil Garbo's dream, did it?

What Husbands and Wives

A noted lawyer reveals the often hidden reasons for many marriages

GETTING DIVORCES for men and women is my business. It has been my business since I first began to specialize in the practice of divorce law some 30 years ago.

In that time I have procured divorces for hapless husbands and wives who have reached the end of their marital rope. Rich and poor, young and old—all have sought relief from the tie that binds. My experience has been a sobering but educational one.

As a divorce lawyer my job is to prepare, from the statements made to me, the legal grounds forming the basis of the divorce action. But such grounds, for the most part, don't reflect the true reasons for the marital breakdown. Too often they only succeed in obscuring them.

What, then, do husbands and wives really complain about when they come to see a divorce lawyer like myself?

Husbands are too uncooperative

Wives I have talked to complain that their husbands refuse to help with the children and household chores, that they throw the entire burden of running the house and rearing the youngsters on the women. They refuse to help with the dishes, garbage disposal, or even tidying up after themselves.

The men, according to the wives, claim these are essentially feminine tasks and that, after coming home from a hard day's work, they're too drained to do any more chores. The wives wearily point out that they, too, work and that many are housewives, mothers, and jobholders.

Husbands are too demanding or unresponsive

Paradoxically, while husbands refuse to help around the house because of fatigue, they're not too tired to insist on their marital rights. Many wives told me their husbands insisted on marital relations two or three times a week and that they found this to be both a physically and emotionally exhausting experience.

Others griped that the men were completely disinterested in sex, falling asleep as soon as their heads touched the pillow. The truth seems to be that many women grow up with curious notions about sex, especially as to what is permissible and what isn't. The fact is that if a husband and wife really care for each other a compromise arrangement usually can be worked out to satisfy both partners.

On the other hand, where there is basic hostility, one of the parties will tend to use sex as a weapon with which to combat the other. While sex is a barometer of a marriage, it is by no means the whole of it. Finally, husbands and wives often attempt to measure up to unrealistic standards of sex performance. Taking their cues from either a sex book or the bragging of friends, such spouses (especially husbands) try to perform what for them is impossible.

When it comes to sex there are no hard and fast rules. Actually, the art of making love is the art of each spouse giving the other pleasure.

Husbands are too stingy

One of the commonest complaints is that husbands are pennypinchers. Such men, say these wives, dole out money grudgingly, making the women feel small, inadequate, and mean. Many such men refuse to allow their wives an allowance or access to a joint checking account. Naturally, the wives feel dependent and humiliated whenever they have to plead for money.

A niggardly husband is almost invariably an insecure husband who feels threatened by his wife. He resorts to miserly tactics in order to dominate a wife he can't dominate any other way. But such tactics usually, boomerang, with the wife becoming justifiably swollen and resentful.

Husbands take wives for granted

Before marriage, any the wives, husbands promise them everything. They pursue, court, and do everything possible to please and placate. After marriage, there seems to be a sharp drop in interest. No longer do the men court or woo. Nor do they go out of their way to please and pacify. Instead, they tend to forget birthdays and anniversaries and act on the assumption that having wooed and won they need do nothing more to retain their wives' interest.

Husbands have a roving eye

Another count in the indictment is that men tire of their wives after a few years of marriage and begin to stray. For such husbands, monogamy often breeds monotony. They chafe at the marital bit, seek fresh adventures and excitement, and are under the illusion that marriage with someone else will be much more rewarding. Unhappily, while men can divorce their wives, they can't divorce their own personalities. Hence they tend to repeat previous patterns no matter with whom or how frequently they rewed.

Husbands fail to provide companionship

For many wives love is sex plus companionship, not merely sex alone. Many women are bitter that their men treat them more as housewives or maids rather than as friends or companions. They find it difficult to communicate with their husbands, talk to them about their work, their children, or current happenings.

Coming home from work, the men retire behind their newspapers or keep their eyes glued to the tv. Rarely is there civilized conversation. Thus, the wife who is alone all day doing the household chores is often alone even when her ending up in the divorce courts By SAMUEL G. KLING Author of "The Complete Guide to Divorce" after the ceremony. In any case, these men found their spouses sticklers for perfection and just couldn't stand having to toe the mark.

Really Complain About

Wives are frigid

A frigid wife is one who is either unable or unwilling to respond to her husband's sexual demands. Physical causes make up only a fraction of all frigidity cases. By far the greatest number of frigidity cases are psychological in origin. A wife may become sexually inhibited because she no longer cares for her husband or because she feels he no longer cares for her. She may become unresponsive because his lovemaking is clumsy or his demands are excessive.

A wife may be frigid because early in life she was taught that sex was sinful and dirty and, therefore, approached the act with fear and anxiety. She may be cold because, consciously or unconsciously, she fears motherhood or is so childish and self-centered that she simply can't give of herself.

Wives are careless about personal hygiene

Smile as one will over tv commercials about "bad breath," the truth is that this and similar breaches of personal fastidiousness have blighted many a marriage.

Infrequent bathing, failure to use deodorants and perfumes judiciously, and untidy and unclean hair may completely destroy a husband's love and affection. Husbands seem to be equally affected by their wives' alternately appearance and dress.

I have heard husbands complain of wives who wore soiled clothes about the house, whose hair was ripped and torn, and who wore hair curlers to bed. There is a general feeling that wives seldom bothered to dress carefully for their spouses, making an effort only when taken out for an evening's entertainment. Many husbands are understandably reluctant to discuss such delicate matters with their wives.

Many have said that when they did they were met either with tears or a violent storm of abuse and reproaches.

Wives are too aggressive

One of the harmful effects of women's emancipation, supposedly, has been the downgrading of the male.

Today—with woman's legal, sexual, and financial freedom—she has tended to become more and more the rival of her husband, rather than his helpmate. In the process, the American housewife has become compellingly more aggressive and bellicose, bossy and domineering.

Becoming increasingly self-assertive and independent, the American housewife has lost some of the femininity and charm which made her attractive to the male in the first place. Sadly, women have become more masculine in their attitudes, drives, and goals, while men have become less masculine.

Husbands with whom I have discussed the matter agree that wives are much more argumentative than ever before and more inclined to take matters into their own hands.

Wives are selfish and inconsiderate

These are women who never seem to have dinner ready on time, who monopolize the conversation, and who correct their husbands' manners in public.

Wives who insist upon being taken out each night without pausing to consider that their mates may be weary—wives who make social engagements or plan recreation without bothering to consult their husbands—all these, by their thoughtlessness, contribute to the breakdown of marriage and are grist for the divorce mill.

Wives interfere with the discipline of children

When a child is told to do one thing by his father and another thing by his mother, trouble is bound to ensue. Husbands have declared that their mates argued with them in the presence of the children as to when the youngsters should go to bed, when they should do their lessons, how and when the children should be allowed out for recreation, how late they might stay out at night, and whether to give them an allowance.

These, then, are the more important grievances husbands and wives complain about in the privacy of a divorce-lawyer's office. The list can go on endlessly. Jealousy, infidelity, alcoholism, religious differences, and relatives, for example, are all common complaints.

Most such marital problems could be corrected. And should be! One can learn to be more tolerant, more understanding, more cooperative, and more conciliatory.

Admittedly, making such changes is difficult. But if they are not made, marital unhappiness will continue, no matter how many divorces are obtained. ♦ husband is home.

When such wives remonstrate about the need for conversation and companionship, they're usually met with the retort that the men are too "tired" or wives aren't really interested.

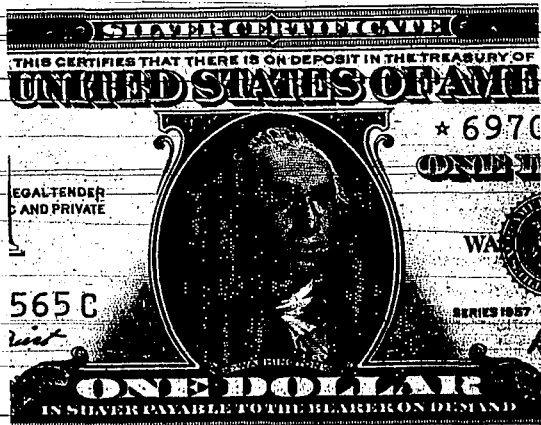

Part of the same complaint is that their social life is impoverished, that they aren't taken out enough or provided with sufficient entertainment or amusement. The net result is that many wives feel they get little out of their marriages.

Wives nag

Nagging is like the drops of water which wear away rocks. Persistent fault-finding grates on a man's nerves, storing up fires of rage and resentment. They're quick to point out that their wives were or should have been aware of their personality and habits before the marriage, and that it's unreasonable to expect drastic changes

A Memorable Vacation Treat:

Visit an Indian Reservation

By ROBERT L. BENNETT Commissioner of Indian Affairs

A VACATION visit to America's Indian reservations can be one of the most rewarding adventures any tourist could ask for.

The reservations combine scenic beauty, color, grandeur, and a glimpse into history with the real highlight of the tour—meeting the Indian people themselves.

A family with two weeks' vacation can roam across the Crow reservation in Montana, tour the famous Custer battlefield at Little Big Horn, and cross into Sheridan, Wyo., for an annual powwow that attracts tribes from all over the country.

The adventurous family then can trail down through Utah into the sacred Pueblo country of New Mexico and into Navajoland, which includes parts of Arizona, New Mexico, and Utah.

Indian reservations may be a means of taking some of the pressure from overcrowded national parks this year. The tourists, however, should be aware that reservation lands are still fairly rugged and primitive. There are few Indian-owned motels and spas.

The best approach is to plan your trip and arrange accommodations near the reservations in advance; check with state and local authorities, chambers of commerce, or the nearest Bureau of Indian Affairs office for up-to-date information.

By doing this, you will learn of tribal dances, religious celebrations, etc., which often are not scheduled by clock but by the growth of plants, phases of the moon, or the medicine man.

Included in your list of things to take along should be the Bureau's own map of Indian reservations and its annual Calendar of Events on Indian Reservations, obtainable from the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402; at a cost of 30¢ each.

The first thing you'll learn from the map is that Federally regulated Indian reservations are located in only 25 of the 50 states; Only North Carolina, Florida, and Mississippi still have reservations in the East.

Nevertheless, your tour could take in the thousands of miles of highways and roads on reservations totaling 50 million acres.

There are reservations in Wisconsin, Michigan, and Minnesota; in the broad sweep of states on an almost even line west from there to the Pacific coast; the four-corner area of Arizona, New Mexico, Utah, and Colorado; also California, Nevada, and Alaska.

As far as hunting and fishing are concerned, the reservations still offer some of the finest. State laws as to licenses usually apply, with the tribes adding a small fee for the privilege.

Finally, a word about the Indian people, whom you should get to know better. There are more than 263 known tribes still in existence, and they are as varied as human cultures can be.

In their dances and other ceremonies, many tribes are carrying on traditions that are hundreds of years old and should be viewed in that context.

One of the questions most often asked of the Bureau concerns conduct on Indian reservations. My answer always has been: the reservations belong to the Indians; you are their guests, and in most cases you are welcome. In short, conduct yourself as a guest, and you will have an unforgettable vacation.

Outdoor Grills Make for Great Fun

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

Loin-lamb chops and golden-orange yams are ginger-glazed and served hot from the grill.

■ Grilling food outdoors stimulates appetites and creates fun for all. The clean-up job is easy—does-it when plenty of paper products, such as plates, cups, napkins, mats, towels, are toted out.

Basting Sauces

For Lamb: Season double loin lamb chops with salt, Accent, and pepper. Brush with Ginger-Glaze and grill 5 to 6 in. from coals for 12 to 15 min. on each side; brush frequently with glaze. Meanwhile, put canned yams into small aluminum foil pans and spoon some glaze over them. Set on grill; turn and baste with glaze until thoroughly heated.

Ginger Glaze: Mix together 1 cup ginger marmalade, ¼ cup butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, and 1 teaspoon soy sauce.

For Beef Steaks: Sprinkle steak generously on both sides with garlic salt. Pour ¼ cup salad or cooking oil into a shallow pan or dish. Put meat into pan and turn to coat with oil. Allow to stand about 1 hr., turning occasionally. Grill to desired degree of doneness, brushing frequently with vinegar mixture.

Herbed Vinegar: Mix together ½ cup tarragon-flavored vinegar, ¼ teaspoon dill weed, crushed, ¼ teaspoon thyme, crushed, and 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley.

For Pork or Chicken: If using chicken, coat pieces with salad or cooking oil and allow to stand about 30 min. During grilling turn and brush frequently with the Orange Basting Sauce.

Orange Basting Sauce: In a small saucepan mix 2 tablespoons light corn syrup, 1 teaspoon garlic salt, 1 teaspoon dry mustard, ½ teaspoon Accent, ¼ cup orange juice, few drops liquid hot pepper seasoning, and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine. Heat until butter melts; stir to blend and use while still warm.

Crunchy Bologna in a Bun

1 lb. bologna about 2½ in. in diameter (in one piece)
¼ cup commercial barbecue sauce
¼ cup finely crushed potato chips
Buttered hot dog buns

1. Cut bologna lengthwise into six pieces. Coat each piece with the barbecue sauce, then with the potato chips. Allow to stand about 30 min. to set coating.

2. Grill about 4 in. from coals for about 2 min. on each side, or until coating is browned and bologna is hot; turn carefully with two forks.

3. Serve in the hot dog buns and accompany with crisp carrot and celery sticks, pickles, bowls of potato chips, and an assortment of chilled carbonated beverages.

6 servings

Help-Yourself Appetizer Kabobs

Arrange a Lazy Susan or tray with individual bowls of canned Vienna sausage, cut in halves, thick slices of banana (having green-tipped peel), pineapple chunks, pitted large ripe olives, canned green chilies, cut in large pieces, and bottled sweet and sour sauce. Spear morsels (your choice) on a 6-in. skewer, coat generously with the sauce, and grill 2 to 3 in. from coals until sauce is bubbly and tidbits begin to brown.

Stuffed Pork Tenderloin Patties

8 pork tenderloin patties
4 slices bacon
16 medium-sized mushrooms, chopped (about 1½ cups)
½ cup chopped onion
2 tablespoons catsup
¼ teaspoon salt
Orange Basting Sauce (see recipe)

1. Remove excess fat from patties and flatten to about ¼-in. thickness. Set patties aside.

2. To make stuffing, cook bacon in a skillet until crisp; drain on absorbent paper, crumble, and reserve. Pour off all but 3 tablespoons bacon fat and add mushrooms and onion to skillet. Cook until mushrooms are lightly browned and onion is soft, stirring frequently. Remove from heat and mix in bacon, catsup, and salt.

3. Sprinkle meat lightly with salt. Spoon stuffing equally onto half of the patties. Top with remaining flattened patties.

4. Brush outside surfaces of meat with salad or cooking oil.

5. Grill in a broiler basket or on grill about 6 in. from coals for 25 to 30 min., turning frequently and brushing with Orange Basting Sauce.

4 generous servings

Pilaf in a Pouch

6 cups cooked rice
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen peas, partially thawed
1 can (5 oz.) water chestnuts, drained and sliced
½ cup chopped green onion (including tops)
2 medium-sized tomatoes, cut in thin wedges
¼ cup butter or margarine
1½ teaspoons seasoned salt
Freshly ground black pepper
1½ teaspoons basil, crushed

1. Make eight pouches from 18x12-in. pieces of heavy-duty aluminum foil by pressing each sheet of foil into a small bowl to form pouch; remove from bowl.

2. Divide all ingredients equally into the eight pouches. Seal each pouch securely.

3. Place pouches on grill over hot coals for 15 min., or until mixture is thoroughly heated.

4. Open foil and fluff mixture with a fork before serving.

1 servings

Note: Pouches may be filled several hours in advance of grilling.

The Day I Almost Became a Hero— A Dead Hero

By WILLIAM WINFIELD BLANKS

"UNIT 221 . . . Unit 221, come in."

"That's us," I said, grabbing the mike off the dashboard of the patrol car. "221, go ahead."

"Unit 221, investigate a report of an overturned truck on the Holly Street hill. Code three."

That meant red lights and siren as my partner and I, then a member of the Pasadena, Calif., police force, sped through the night to the top of the Holly Street hill. There, lying on its side, with its front end facing up the steep hill, was a large white milk van.

Investigation later would reveal that the truck had been traveling fast. Failing to negotiate the sharp turn, it had glanced off the left curb, spun completely around, then rolled over on its side.

"I'll get the flares placed before some other car-runs into this mess," my partner said.

"Okay, I'll check the inside of the truck and see if anyone is hurt," I replied.

Flashlight in hand I ran to the truck. After some difficulty, I finally managed to climb up onto the overturned side of it.

I lowered myself down inside the truck. The sharp odor of gasoline fumes stung my eyes. Some fuel must have spilled from the tank, I thought to myself.

Slowly I shone my flashlight inch by inch across the debris covering the driver's seat. Then I saw it! A man's trouser leg—a twisted white trouser leg. Only a few inches of it were visible.

"Climbing halfway out of the truck, I shouted to my partner, "Call for an ambulance. It looks as if the driver's planned under the wreckage."

Dropping back down inside, I picked up a small piece of wood from a broken crate and started scraping away the glass and ice.

Outside, events were taking place which would nearly cost me my life. The truck's fuel tank had been ripped open and gasoline was running down the street for 50 yards or more. Someone in the crowd of onlookers carelessly threw his cigarette into the gutter. Instantly the fumes ignited and the street became a river of fire. The fumes raced uphill toward the truck.

Inside I was digging the best I could with the small board but making very little headway. The first hint I had of impending disaster was when I heard someone outside shout, "Look out! Fire! Fire!" There was a loud popping noise, and suddenly the entire truck was in flames.

The time for digging had just run out. At the most, I had a minute or so before the truck would explode. I grabbed one of the milk crates which had not been smashed in the wreck. Standing on this, I pulled myself up through the opening, jumped to the ground, and ran!

When I had gone about 20 yards, there was a rending blast as the truck exploded, showering the immediate area with sparks and burning debris.

Fire trucks, summoned by my partner at the first sign of fire, began arriving on the scene.

As I helped to keep the crowd out of the firemen's way, I spotted a milk-truck driver standing in his white uniform at the edge of the bystanders. I asked him what company he worked for, thinking that he might have known the driver of the burning truck.

"Same company that owns that truck," he said. "I'd sure hate to be inside it now. I was lucky to jump out of that truck before it tipped over. Only thing in the boss's la sure going to be sore at me."

I stared at him for a long moment while it registered that no one had perished in the flaming truck after all.

"He probably will," I agreed.

"He? I'm talking about my wife," the driver explained. "She's going to have a fit when she finds out that my extra uniform got burned up in the truck!" ♦

The church had put all its effort, enthusiasm, and resources into building a $2-million cathedral with stained-glass windows, a stereophonic organ, escalators to the choir loft, and parking spaces for 3,000 cars. After five years, it was completed, and the minister led his congregation in the Lord's Prayer. When he got to the part that goes, "Lead us not into temptation," it happened.

BEAUTY GOES PSYCHEDELIC!

By ROSALYN ABREYAYA

To experiences psychedelic, now add a new one—wearing make-up that shines, sparkles, colors, and expands the senses.

Just three years ago most make-ups, especially lipstick, had a flat, painted look. Today lighter wax bases are being used in lipsticks, and a whole range of pastel pigments, including those that are pearlized, are producing make-up that offers a more natural luster and translucence.

Revlon's contribution to the "turned-on" look, Ultima II Bronzage (1), is a sheer, see-through foundation designed to furnish the complexion with a healthy, outdoor tawny look all year around. You can cap off the look with a transparent finishing powder and blushing liquid especially developed to foster the tawny countenance.

Shades of Technicolor! Coty has come out with Body Paint (2) in soft, pearlized tints of blue, mauve, and lime, three bottles to a kit. This just-for-fun cosmetic (waterproof and smudgeproof), which glides on evenly with its own little foam-rubber roller, has a practical slide when applied to legs. You can transform a pair of neutral-color slinnet, or open-work hose into colors to match your clothes. And the liquid washes off easily with soap and water.

Yardley's Face Slicker (3) is definitely for the girl on the go. The creamy pearlized foundation, which adds a slick polish to your skin, comes in three shades: City Pink worn during the day to highlight and add blush, and City White or City Beige, used for nighttime highlights or to phase out your summer tan gracefully.

Revlon's new tense comb (4) is designed with dancing stripes, to pop psychodically out of purse or grace a vanity table—while psychedelic art is cleverly applied to Dr. Scholl's natural wood foot-exerciser sandals (5), letting beauty begin at the feet.

To add gleam to a beautifully made-up face, follow Max Factor's lead. His UltraLucent Highlight make-up (6) incorporates light-reflective iridescence in a new type of velvety liquid. Designed to go over or under a regular foundation, the neutral-toned liquid base becomes completely colorless on the skin, and only the iridescence remains visible, creating fascinating accent effects for your face.

A boldly appointed slash-designed palette of eye-shadow colors, Glamour Eyes (7), is Cosmetically Yours' contribution to the psychedelic mood. The brush-on cream shadows come in vivid blue, green, white, and, quite new, pink. For those who want a paler version of colors, simply mix with the white!

Cover Girl promises a chemical happening with their new trio of frosted lipsticks called Crazy Sticks (8). A blue stick turns pink on your lips, a green lipstick becomes peachy, and a beige stick intensifies the natural. The lipsticks also can be worn under other shades to open up a whole new color spectrum.

You can capture the glint of the firefly in one brush stroke. Helena Rubinstein's new approach to liquid eye liner, Vinyliner (9), strokes on with ease and leaves a glistening vinyl-like finish. Sleek brush is built into the cap.

What's the beauty message for fall? It's loud and clear: from here on in, the words are "shine," "gleam," and "glow." ♦

Which Is Tougher—the

This leading American racer has starred in both, and he puts

THE INDIANAPOLIS 500-mile auto race will be run next Thursday, and, as of this writing, I expect to be in the thick of it with one of my two Olselite Eagles.

After that, I plan to road race in Europe—the Grand Prix circuit and endurance-tests. And, of course, I'll face the inevitable question: which of these races is toughest on driver, car, and crew.

I'm supposed to know because I've driven them all. Last year at Indianapolis I drove 160 laps, largely in second place though I had some laps in first. Then valve trouble developed, and I had to drop out, taking 21st position.

In seven Indianapolis starts, the best I've finished was seventh place in 1963. In 1966 I didn't even finish a lap. Mine was one of 19 cars that was racked up in that spectacular but heartbreaking mass accident right after the start.

I've been more fortunate in road racing. Two weeks after the disappointment of last year's Indy race, I teamed with A. J. Foyt in a 600-hp Ford sports prototype and became part of the first all-American team to win the 24-hour Le Mans endurance test.

A week later I took first place in the Belgium-Grand Prix at Spa, to go along with previous wins in the Grand Prix of France (1962 and 1964), the Solitude Grand Prix of Germany (1962), and the Grand Prix of Mexico (1964).

I suppose that on that record you'd expect I'd pick the Indy 500 as the toughest race to drive. Instead, I'd have to reply that all races are tough in their own way and can't be compared as to being more difficult or easier. It's the very differences, though, that fascinate a person who loves auto racing because each difference presents an individual challenge to meet.

Take the demands made by each type of racing upon the drivers. At Indianapolis or Spa, Belgium, for example, I knew the race would last, say, four hours. So I could make an all-out physical and mental effort every minute. But at Le Mans, drivers spell each other for a grueling 24 hours. There you must learn to hold some of yourself and some of your car in reserve: you must be as alert in the 23rd hour as you were in the first hour.

In road racing, you drive rain or shine, while weather conditions can end an Indy race. For instance, at Le Mans in late afternoon, sunlight filters through surrounding trees, and you speed through alternating deep shadow and brilliant sunlight that is almost blinding. At night or in fog, you must rely heavily on your memory of the road ahead, anticipating rather than seeing what lies beyond your headlights. Another thing about Le Mans: French families have cookouts along the course, and I feel as if I'm driving through a smoke-filled kitchen.

Le Mans, too, has various classifications of cars—some slower, some faster than yours—so there is always someone passing you from behind and someone slowing you ahead. The "S" turns are blind, and you can commit yourself to enter a corner, only to find yourself racing into trouble with a minimum reaction time.

From that, you might figure Indianapolis has to be easier. Yet I know of no other race that requires more arduous preparation—one month of continuous effort to test and qualify. With only four turns and long straightaways, you achieve tremendous speeds—but at equally tremendous cost to the driver.

I can only describe the atmosphere in the cockpit at Indianapolis as "hostile." You travel at high speed at all times, creating an unceasing buffeting. It is an all-out effort just to keep your head still so your eyes are always keyed to the road. The buffeting isn't always from under you. At times, an overwhelming pressure builds up from behind you, and you feel that someone is trying to yank the helmet off your head; only the strap under your chin keeps it from hurling off. Wind and engine noises never let up, adding to your fatigue. In road racing you encounter this from time to time, but at Indy it hits you every second.

Yes, Grand Prix circuits are more complex to drive, but this does not make Indianapolis easier. The very simplicity of the Indianapolis track makes it simple for everyone—it's almost impossible to be better than the next driver, and you find yourself figuring inches, instead of yards or miles, to produce speed.

People ask about technical differences. Well, road racing limits fuel to pump-type gasoline. There are no restrictions at Indianapolis, and additives give you greater horsepower but only half the mileage.

Grand Prix cars are considerably lighter—a minimum 1,100 pounds to Indy's 1,400 pounds. It's a common misconception that the heavier car gives you better road holding. In racing, that's not true. We strive for the lightest car without sacrificing strength. This gives us greater or horsepower ratio and better braking and acceleration.

If you were to step out of your family car and into an all-out racer, you'd say at first—"Hey, this is easy." At each turn, you'd go a little faster. The car would respond perfectly, without a sign of impending trouble. Then you'd take one turn too fast and be in a terrifying slide.

Why? Because in a stock car, you can sense its limits long before you reach them. It's a "forgiving" car, so that even if you exceed the limits it will probably take care of you. With the all-out racer, it's difficult to sense its limits, and you work within a narrower range of "forgiveness." Once you exceed its almost secret limits, you are in deep trouble.

Oddly enough, for all their differences, if you put an Indy car on a road-racing track with a Formula 1 (Grand Prix) car, you'd end up with about the same total lap speed. The more powerful Indy car would race off on the straights and accelerate faster. But the Formula 1 car would make it up by braking quicker and being more nimble on corners.

After I tell people about the differences in demands on car and driver, they often come up with: "Yes, but when all is said and done, the Indianapolis 500 is the Big Money race, isn't it?"

True. But to win a lot you've got to risk a lot. I won $15,498 last year for finishing 23rd at Indianapolis. The top prize in the U.S. Grand Prix is only $20,000. But consider what you must invest at Indianapolis—besides a month's time.

For starters, there's a $1,000 entry fee. Then I had to bring to Indianapolis two cars which I built at my own plant, All American Racers, Inc., in Santa Ana, Calif. They cost $30,000 each. For these cars, I had to bring at least two double-overhead camshaft Ford Indianapolis engines costing $23,500 apiece. In addition, we needed at least three other engines, each a modified version of the ones in Mustangs and Cougars, costing $15,000 each. Just to prepare these engines for a race costs an additional $5,000. Then for the crew to live in Indianapolis for a month costs about $35,000.

So you see Indianapolis is no place for a piker—whether you're talking driver, car, or wallet. It's one of the toughest races, but then I don't know any easy ones. ♦
