French Cabinet Ban Street Demonstration

By DAVID MASON PARIS (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's government today banned all street demonstrations throughout France and 184 seven extreme left groups dissolved.

The Cabinet issued the orders about five hours in advance of scheduled student meetings in Paris, Bordeaux, Toulouse and Strasbourg to protest police action against a revived wave of violence in the academic and industrial crisis that De Gaulle once warned would lead to civil war.

Another French worker died from striking down a battle with the police, raising the death toll in clashes this week to three. Paris disorders overnight left 154 persons injured. More than 150 were hurt in fights between demonstrators and police in St. Nazaire.

Guena announced the ban on street demonstrations will last through the election campaign and the voting for the National Assembly, to be completed June 30.

Banned organizations include the March 22 Movement, a radical student group headed by Daniel Cohn-Bendit, a 23-year-old West German known as "Danny the Red"; the Front de Libération de la Seine, a group of "bonne-rioters," was in London today to tape with other student leaders from Europe and the United States a television program called "Students in Revolt." The British-Broadcaster Corp. paid for Cohn-Bendit's BBC show after he was held three hours at London Airport on arriving unheralded from Frankfurt.

Other extremist groups dissolved by government order were the Marxist-Leninist Union of Communist Youth, the Federation of Revolutionary Students, the Liaison Committee of Revolutionary Students, the Communist Revolutionary Youth, the Group of the Revolt and the Workers Voice, a Maoist labor group.

The minister said violation of the government decision to abolish the groups would mean prison sentences of six months to two years according to the law. Guena said election campaign meetings in closed places will not be affected by the ban on demonstrations, but all street demonstrations are illegal.

A new escalation of the crisis appeared in prospect as student riots in Paris for the second night running, the Communists called a one-hour general strike today, and the Paris students scheduled another demonstration tonight.

Henri Blanchet, a 49-year-old worker at the Peugeot auto plant at Sochaux, in Alsace, died shortly after midnight of a

Armed Inmates Surrender After Agreement Over Grievance List

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Four armed inmates of the U.S. Penitentiary there today agreed to an armistice and released 21 hostages today after an agreement with prison officials on a list of nine grievances.

The inmates dropped their guns from a second story room where they had held the prison employees about 28 hours, while demanding that 140 inmates be released, that 100 be put to work, that 100 be put to school, that 100 be put to work, that 100 be put to school, that 100 be put to work, that 100 be put to school.

The surrender came shortly after the first edition of the newspaper was delivered to the prison, carrying a complete list of nine grievances and response from prison officials.

Myrl Alexander, director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons, had been negotiating with the prisoners since before dawn. Also participating were Journalist George Williams B. Williams and Warden Olin C. Blackwell.

Originally, 25 employees were held, but some were released because they were ill, one to take the grievances to the warden and another because he was on legal business for an inmate.

There were 16 men and five women who finally were released.

One of the women hostages said, "I've been in misery. I've lived a horror. It's been a nightmare."

She declined to identify herself.

Sam McAllister, one of the guards who had been held, said, "We can't talk. News items said all they wanted to know was how they were treated."

"They treated us wonderful," said a blue-eyed man, with a stubble of beard on his face.

"I was in a large cell, he said, "Yep. I lay down on a bench and slept. There were no hysterics. Everything was real calm. They treated us real well."

The hostages came out singly and in pairs. They walked to a parking lot where most of them were driven away quickly in private automobiles.

Most declined to talk to newsmen. They shook their heads.

Rebecca Autrey, daughter of one of the hostages, spotted her mother who was walking slowly down the wide steps of the high, grey building.

The young woman broke from the gate after guards nodded to her, apparently signifying that it was all right. She ran past the front door of the building, and embraced her mother.

Earlier, inmates who refused to report to their job assignments began breaking windows. See INMATES, Page 2, Col. 3

Close Call

DENVER (AP) — A United Air Lines Boeing 727 jet transport and a light plane operated by a Denver radio station brushed each other in the air.

There were no injuries and both planes were able to land safely at Stapleton International Airport at Denver.

The airliner suffered slight damage on one wing. It was piloted by Don Martin, director at Stapleton. TIMM, who was observing traffic conditions, said the airliner was flying at 10,000 feet and the light plane was about 15 miles north of Denver. The airliner carried 57 passengers and a crew of six on a flight to Washington with a stop at Denver.

Envoy Protests Rocket Attacks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER PARIS (AP) — The United States protested to North Vietnam today that "particularly vicious rocket attacks" on the heavily populated center of Saigon have killed 100 people and injured 100.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman told the North Vietnamese that the United States had reported that "the current offensive was planned and directed by North Vietnamese generals."

He said this information came to the U.S. government from high-ranking defectors.

He met with the North-Vietnamese envoy Xuan Thuy for almost four hours. The sessions were adjourned until next Wednesday.

"Today, Harriman said, 'I want to be sure you understand that this is a situation which could have the most serious consequences for these talks.'"

Earlier news asked by newsmen that the United States would take retaliatory action if renewed bombing of Hanoi or other centers—Harriman said was absent, but that this conference, but a question

Harriman said the bombardment of Saigon has been continuing for the past several days. He said the attacks have killed 100 people and injured 100.

"The troops attacking in and around Saigon are under orders to infiltrate into the city, to seize civilian homes, and to kill. This," he said, "is a very serious situation. The U.S. government has moved into its densely populated quarters of the capital and suburban areas, with resulting heavy civilian casualties."

"The attacking units have been sacrificed. Since the beginning of May, more than 10,000 North Vietnamese soldiers and Viet Cong have been killed in the capital or in its approaches."

He said the talks with a member of the North-Vietnamese Communist party's nine-man delegation arrived in Paris last week.

Saigon Air Base Is Viet Cong Target

SAIGON (AP) — Saigon's Tan Son Nhut air base was the target for the daily Viet Cong rocket attack on South Vietnam today, and the 38 casualties included 14 civilians, including four Vietnamese children killed and two Americans wounded.

While civilians throughout Saigon filled sandbags to build home shelters, new fighting flared at opposite ends of the demilitarized zone. Allied troops reported killing 121 North Vietnamese in two battles.

The 10 rockets that hit Tan Son Nhut before dawn also destroyed 24 Vietnamese and one helicopter and a small observation plane.

Several other planes, including a large military transport, were damaged at the sprawling base, a favorite target for enemy gunners even before the current wave of shelling.

The base contains Saigon's commercial airport, government and American air units, headquarters of the U.S. Military Command in Vietnam and the homes of a number of Vietnamese officials, including Viet Communist Nguyen Cao Ky.

"At least 100 civilians have been killed and more than 1,000 wounded in 24 rocket attacks on Saigon since the Viet Cong launched its 'peace talks' offensive May 5, the eve of the start of U.S.-North Vietnamese talks in Paris.

Although the official military line is that the shelling has little military significance, combat is mounting about the psychological effect on Saigon's 3 million people. Additional government troops have been assigned to sweep the "rocket belt" around the capital.

"Diplomatic sources in Paris said President Johnson is under pressure to counter the shelling by resuming bombing of Hanoi.

Travel In East Germany Is Tightened

BERLIN (AP) — Red-led East Germany announced Tuesday sweeping restrictions on travel by West Germans in a drastic move to forestwading a new Berlin crisis.

A top U.S. official called the measures intolerable and West Berlin's mayor labeled the move "a black day for all Germans."

In an apparent hold bid to restore the degree of sovereignty, the East German Communist regime said it will require West Germans for the first time to have passports and visas for travel between West Germany and isolated West Berlin.

As first step, American authorities have obtained a provisional British warrant charging Ray with the murder of King in Memphis, Tenn. A State Department spokesman in Washington said documents to support the extradition request will be transmitted to London shortly.

The British police are holding Ray on charges of using a forged passport and carrying a loaded gun. On Scotland Yard records he is officially listed as Ramon George Sneyd, the name on his Canadian passport.

U.N. OK's Watered Down South Africa Resolution

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. General Assembly today approved a watered-down resolution on South-West Africa condemning South Africa for making no specific request for sanctions by the Security Council to compel the South Africans to yield control of the territory.

The 124-nation assembly was 80 in favor, 2 against and 18 abstentions. Other nations were absent, including the Dominican Republic because they were not allowed to vote because they are behind in their dues.

Portugal and South Africa voted no, but the 18 abstainers included the United States, Britain, France and a number of other Western powers.

Despite the compromise nature of the resolution worked out Tuesday night, these nations could not go along with some of its provisions.

The vote came as the assembly pushed for adjournment tonight at its stop-and-go 22nd session which began Sept. 19, recessed on Dec. 19, and resumed April 24.

A vote to endorse the U.S.-Soviet draft treaty to ban the spread of nuclear weapons was scheduled for later in the day.

A resolution commending the treaty was approved by the assembly's Political Committee by an overwhelming majority Monday, and the assembly was expected to give it a similar endorsement.

The resolution on South-West Africa gives the territory the African name of Namibia, and calls on all countries to "take effective economic and other measures" to force South Africa to accept and implement that the Security Council also "take effective measures" to limit apartheid.

In the compromise, the Latin Americans got the Africans and Asians to take out a call for the council to impose sanctions against South Africa.

Extradition Request Issued For Ray

BY COLIN FROST LONDON (AP) — A formal request for the extradition of James Earl Ray, accused assassin of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., was handed to the British Foreign Office today by U.S. officials.

The U.S. Embassy declined details of the petition, it merely announced it as properties required for the extradition proceedings.

The documents run several hundred pages and contain information on Ray's identity and the cases against him—both in connection with King's murder and Ray's escape from the Missouri State Prison while serving an armed robbery sentence.

The Foreign Office now must certify that the request satisfies the terms of the extradition treaty with the United States. The Home Office then rules on the validity of the murder case under British as well as U.S. law. Then the file goes to a judge for a court hearing.

The formal extradition request came as Scotland Yard delved into the mysteries of Ray's stay in Britain.

Ray has been traced to two London hotels between May 28 and his arrest Saturday, but there is an unexplained gap of about 10 days, starting May 17 when he left Lisbon.

FBI agents were understood to be working with Scotland Yard detectives, but British police are doing the spadework since the FBI has no legal authority in foreign countries. It was not until April 4 that the FBI was trying to untangle Ray's travels, which took him to Canada, Britain and Portugal after he was shot April 4.

Ray was transferred Tuesday to a maximum security cell in Wandsworth Prison because his name was on London's South Side, was not considered secure enough.

Extradition proceedings could last two months if the 40-year-old escaped convict fights all the way through the British courts.

Parents Delegation Protests Closure For Union School

A delegation of 10 parents of children who have attended school at Union School west of Twin Falls attended this week's school board meeting to protest the planned closure of the district's only remaining country school.

Trustees of school district No. 41 announced some time ago that the school would be closed effective this fall, and that students would be distributed throughout other schools in the district—all within the city of Twin Falls.

The parents and administrators of the district's schools said that the approximately 50 students attending Union School could be distributed without the possibility of hiring additional instructors.

The parents who attended the Monday night board meeting included Gerald New, Don Barlog, Ken Edgerton, Jay Boyce, Gerald D. Edgerton, Fred A. Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. George Wolf, Dr. and Mrs. Birdsell N. Carle.

They stated that they were representing a number of parents who had signed a petition requesting the trustees to take another look at the planned closure.

The parents requested that the petition will be presented, calling for a district-wide election on the closure.

Trustees have reported that costs nearly $20,000 a year to staff and maintain Union School. That cost is nearly one tenth of the cost of a full-time teacher. All raises about $20,000 per year.

Downtown Property Owners Sign For LID

Officials of Twin Falls Future Unlimited Wednesday continued to circulate petitions among downtown property owners in an effort to create a local improvement district.

Curtis Eaton, chairman of the project, said signatures in excess of 20 have been collected among the 47 properties concerned.

"We have had terrific response and expect this project to be complete by Monday," he said.

The LID is necessary if downtown improvement is to become a reality.

There are three legal interpellations on how to create a LID. If there are enough signatures, according to law, the council is required to pass a resolution creating a LID.

The proposed LID encompasses the Twin Falls urban renewal project in that one city block in downtown South Side, was not considered secure enough.

They read in a copyrighted story that the inmates agreed to release the hostages and turn over their weapons once the grievances concerned the operation of the huge maximum security prison, and particularly the parole officers.

Youth Ranch Has House Parents

RUPERT — Lee Childs, executive director for the Youth Ranch near Rupert, said this week that two new sets of house parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Gary Orchard, have assumed their duties at the ranch and that the ranch will once more operate on a family basis.

Mr. Childs said the ranch has been understaffed for some time and that two staff members have resigned effective June 1 to resume their private lives.

John McCollum, who had been employed with the ranch for the last four years, resigned to continue his education, and Mrs. Marge Yost, who had been at the ranch three years, will spend the summer in Oregon, where her daughter is a college student.

Mr. McCollum acted as co-supervisor of the boys at the ranch and was acting administrator prior to his appointment as administrator last year. He said,

We didn't make Edgerton shoes less expensive by hiring less expensive hands to make them. Since we are part of the Nunn-Bush shoe family, they lend us some hands. They are the experienced hands of expert craftsmen who've been making top quality shoes for years. And we didn't make our shoes less expensive by putting cut-rate materials into our more expensive hands. That's a pretty expensive way to make a less expensive shoe. So when you put your feet into a pair of our shoes, you'll be in good hands.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—Probably there would be no congressional hearings on a wide range of proposed new import restrictions if this were not a year in which the nation is distracted by war and internal strife.

President Johnson has just asked for a two-year extension of the 1962 Trade Expansion Act which underscored this long-time trend toward easing trade restrictions between this country and the other major trading nations.

quity into more than a score of proposals which would fix rigid import quotas on such items as textiles (already passed by the Senate), steel, oil, furs, shoes, dairy and meat products.

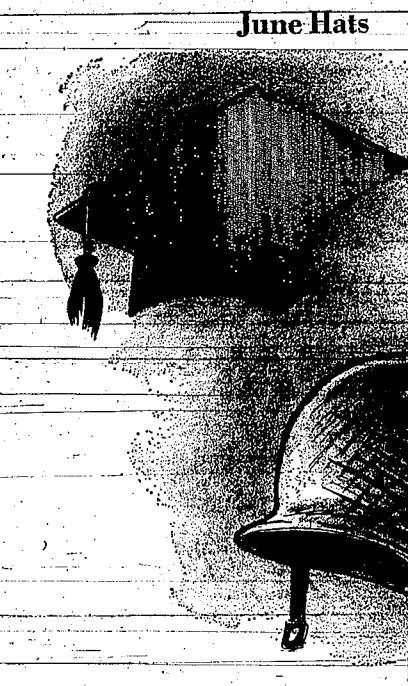

a certain state percentage of domestic consumption... The President's May 28 message to Congress on extending the expansion act attacked "protectionist" measures as destructive of American jobs, markets and growth.

It is almost certainly far too high to suffer so grievously (though if the floodgates were opened either by passage of a host of individual quota bills or by the "Christmas tree" method the damage to trade could be sweeping.

There are two reasons why a gall bladder that contains stones should be removed — to prevent the agonizing attacks of bile bladder colic that occur when a stone becomes lodged in the bile duct and to avoid chronic gall bladder infection.

Sen. McCarthy Views Delegation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, resuming his campaign for president, is eyeing delegate prospects at Democratic state conventions.

With the primaries over, except for contests next week for 123 district delegates from New York, McCarthy is turning his attention to state Democratic conventions and to delegates already selected.

His aim will be to convince them he would be a stronger standard-bearer than Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

After a New York City appearance and a speech Thursday night McCarthy heads west for weekend appearances in Idaho and Montana, where Democratic conventions are taking place, and in Arizona, for the Western States Democratic Conference.

Aides indicated McCarthy would continue to stress the need for a change from the policies of the Johnson administration, which he claims would be carried on by Humphrey, his front-running rival for the Democratic nomination.

At the same time, aides say, McCarthy is banking on indications from public figures that Humphrey would have difficulty defeating

School Board Reorganized At Richfield

RICHFIELD — Richfield school trustees hired one teacher at the June reorganization meeting, Monday night.

Ronald Roder, Pocatello, was offered a contract to teach the seventh grade. He is a graduate of Idaho State University, is married and has one child. He is serving as summer manager of the Luther Heights Bible Camp, Ketchum, at present.

Mrs. Udell (Peggy) Robinson and Burl Akins were sworn in as new school board members for three year terms. Clifford Conner, retiring board member and chairman, officiated.

It was approved for the district to operate on the checking system instead of warrants beginning with the new fiscal year, July 1.

Grant Flavel was elected chairman of the board; Ralph Riley Jr., vice-chairman; Burl Akins, in charge of school grounds; Mrs. Robinson, high school; Riley, elementary school; LeRoy Magoffin, transportation.

Purchase of a new school bus was approved with bids requested. Interested persons should contact the clerk, Mrs. Harold Pridmore, or Supt. Briggs for specifications.

Supt. Briggs gave the school accreditation report which showed few deficiencies, such as two provisional certificates for teachers last year.

A teacher for the second grade is still needed for the coming year. Mrs. L. T. Sanders of the high school faculty will serve as librarian.

Mace Can Be Used Safely As Riot Control Weapon

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Although there is "potential hazard in its misuse," the chemical Mace can be used with safety as a riot control weapon, a University of Michigan research team reported today.

Mace temporarily incapacitates, the team reported, but added it contained no toxic ingredient other than tear gas and that the risk with Mace was negligible when compared with conventional weapons.

The report by the U-M team was awaited by many police departments throughout the United States which had temporarily suspended use of Mace after complaints by some civil rights groups that the chemical endangered the physical wellbeing of those subjected to the spray.

Dr. Maurice H. SeEVERS, chairman of the University of Michigan medical schools pharmacology department, said Mace does not contain poisonous dimethyl sulfoxide (DMSO), does not attack a person's nervous system, leaving him stunned.

Mace contains alpha-chloroacetophenone (tear gas) as its active component, but its method of delivery as an aerosol-type spray does not pose the dangers inherent in traditional tear-gas delivery involving explosives and other propellant materials, the team's report continued.

Dr. SeEVERS said the formula for Mace was disclosed to him on a confidential basis, but added the manufacturer is withholding public disclosure of the formula while awaiting patent issuance.

"This is unfortunate," he added, "since it has engendered a rash of rumors, concerning possible other toxic ingredients in addition to tear gas."

SeEVERS said use of Mace should be limited to the minimum required to effect incapacitation; that the recipient should be alert and in possession of normal protective reflexes such as blinking, eye closure, breath-holding, and turning away from the spray.

The spray also should be directed at a recipient from a distance that permits his reflexes to be brought into play, SeEVERS said.

Dr. SeEVERS said that "severe, long-term and possibly permanent ocular (eye) damage may occur if the cornea of the eye is exposed directly to chemical Mace in liquid form."

Damage could occur, the report continued, if the spray were discharged directly into the eye or face at very close range, if there is prolonged discharge into the face of an already incapacitated person, or if large quantities are discharged in a confined space such as a small room or closed automobile.

Washing with clear water as soon as possible after exposure will minimize the local effects, Dr. SeEVERS said, adding that "application of ointments of any kind be avoided since they localize the irritant at the site of application."

Wallace Hits Court, Gun Legislation

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP) — Third party presidential candidate George C. Wallace, criticizing the Supreme Court and proposed gun control legislation, said today crime should be stopped "by putting people in jail."

The former Alabama governor said he opposes new gun controls on grounds there are already ample laws in this area and that people who will violate the laws would not obey new statutes.

"I'll tell you what's brought on more crime than guns—it's the Supreme Court of the United States," Wallace said at a news conference after arriving from Memphis on his Southern fund-raising tour.

The blame, he said, lies with "those in high places" who have not taken a tough approach to crime.

Wallace said the Supreme Court has been subject to public opinion and has tied the hands of law enforcement agencies with decisions in recent years.

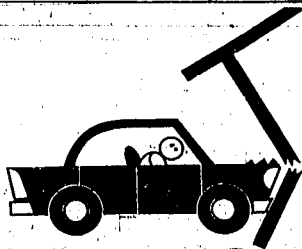

One step he would take if elected, he said, would be to seek congressional action nullifying some of the court decisions restricting police functions.

Replying to a question about what platform he would offer to the average Negro, Wallace said: "I want to do for the Negro what the government ought to do."

Kennedy Workers Moving

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
WASHINGTON (AP) — Many workers in Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's Capitol office looked forward to moving day sure it would be to the White House. Moving has begun, but few know where they will go.

Secretaries had tears in their eyes Tuesday as they helped pack much of a man's life and almost a decade of a nation's history into crates, boxes and envelopes.

Fifteen staffers were still at work about 7 p.m. when Robert Kennedy's eldest son, Joseph, 35, stopped by unexpectedly.

Accompanied by former astronaut John Glenn, a family friend, the lad shook hands and chatted briefly with several staff members, saying he just stopped by to say hello.

Activity in the offices, three rooms on three floors of the new Senate office building was busy but subdued during the day.

And the scene at Kennedy for President headquarters, downtown was the same.

Telephones rang incessantly in both places, possibly as much or more than before Kennedy's assassination a week ago.

A Kennedy spokesman said the camp in Washington would be closed by Friday. The Senate offices, he said, were expected to operate for 30 to 60 days as staffers continue to handle constituent problems and pack and sort papers, speeches, and campaign paraphernalia.

Some items, some headed for the National Archives, some to the senator's widow.

The spokesman said the Kennedy staffers will be sent to the senator's birthplace, Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., are accepting job resumes from staffers and that the hope surviving brother-in-law to help them find new jobs.

Low Bid Is Listed For Sports Arena

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — An apparent low bid of $874,399 to construct the first phase of a domed sports arena at the Idaho State University was opened Tuesday.

The bid was by Allen Steel Co., Salt Lake City.

First phase construction including structural steel, seats, dressing rooms, ventilation and other finish work will be part of second phase construction.

Romney is determined to hold the bulk of the state's 40 votes away from either Richard M. Nixon or Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the present.

The object, he says, is to await developments, candidate statements on major issues and pre-convention polls.

Romney Doesn't Stand By Cry For Republican Governor Unity

By DICK BARNES
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. George Romney, who governed for months that Republicans, governors unite early behind one presidential candidate, is doing precisely the opposite by keeping Michigan's delegation committed to the "What we're doing is realistic now," Romney said in an interview. "I'm not going to bat my head against a wall."

The wall to which he referred is the gubernatorial indecision that helped crush his own campaign for the nomination.

Romney is determined to hold the bulk of the state's 40 votes away from either Richard M. Nixon or Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the present.

The object, he says, is to await developments, candidate statements on major issues and pre-convention polls.

Romney, who controls the delegation as a favorite son, insists that no consideration of any job he might get in a national "Republican" administration will enter into the Michigan delegation eventually does.

Would he consider running for vice president? "I don't know," the governor replied. "I'm not certain you can deal with the problems of this country effectively (in that job) and make as much of a contribution as you'd like to make."

Thus far Romney has won general endorsement from party leaders and delegates for an uncommitted delegation. However, the state's lieutenant governor and the majority leader of the state Senate are spearheading moves to win support for Rockefeller and Nixon, respectively, when Romney abandons his favorite son candidacy.

The key question is how much of the delegation Romney will be able to deliver when he makes his own decision.

Loyalty to the three-term governor is strong among most of the Republican organization—and the national convention delegation is almost completely an organization slate.

On the first ballot, as a favorite son, Romney is almost sure to get 44 or more votes. Up to 100, if other two conservative anti-Romney congressional districts could go to Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

Rockefeller now seems to have the upper hand in private leanings among the delegates, and he's all but sure to have an edge if he gets a Romney endorsement.

Romney won't say who he leans toward, but other party leaders think he will eventually go to Rockefeller if Nixon hasn't clearly sewed up the nomination.

U.S. Units In Korea Lack Strength

WASHINGTON (AP) — The two U.S. Army divisions in South Korea are short some grades of officers, lack sufficient equipment and are deficient in over-all operating strength, according to a Senate subcommittee report.

The report dealing with the 2nd and 7th Infantry Divisions, was prepared by an investigating subcommittee and released in heavily censored form Tuesday.

The two divisions "show deficiencies in over-all operating strength, shortages of majors and captains, military occupational specialties and shortages of major items of equipment and repair parts," the report said.

In discussing the condition of the 7th Infantry Division, the subcommittee stated: "Shortages of major items of equipment and the lack of availability of repair parts to reduce the amount of equipment which is inoperable . . . are the principal reasons for the (deleted) condition of the division in logistics."

Subcommittee staff members investigated the condition of the units earlier this year following the seizure of the USS Pueblo by North Korean naval units.

Wage Rule May Cost Taxpayers

By The Associated Press
State officials say a Supreme Court decision on the minimum wage law applying to various employees of public institutions would cost the taxpayers millions of dollars a year.

The court ruling affects nearly two million workers in state schools, hospitals and other institutions, holding that they are covered by the minimum wage and overtime standards set by federal law.

In most states the minimum wage standard, currently $1.15 an hour, has been in effect since 1971, was already being met. But most states were paying for overtime work with equal time off, or at the standard per-hour rate.

Under the federal wage law, overtime work must be paid at the rate of time and a half.

The additional salary outlay in Texas had been estimated by Texas Atty. Gen. Crawford Martin in advance of Monday's high court ruling at $14 million over a four-year period.

Ass't Atty. Gen. Brian Opp of Oklahoma assessed the cost to his state at $68 million over a four-year period.

Maryland reckoned its state payroll hike cut $5 million a year. Other official estimates included Michigan, $300,000; California, $300,000; Kansas, $200,000; Colorado, $1 million to $1.5 million.

School teachers are not affected by the ruling, which applies only to nonadministrative and nonprofessional employees.

"Our principal concern is not in the area of the minimum wage," said Jay McGinn, Florida state personnel director. "But we are concerned about time and a half overtime. How much money this will amount to is anybody's guess."

Mrs. Miriam Ringo, director of the Illinois Department of Personnel, said she did not yet know how many state workers would "run" additional money coming but "I regard this as an unfortunate decision."

Audit Brings Accounting Revision

BOISE (AP) — An audit of the Idaho Youth Training Center at St. Anthony has called for revised accounting procedures and better security in handling cash, checks, food and supplies.

C. Eugene Harder, chief of the Idaho Bureau of Public Accountants, Tuesday said the report did not show any misuse of funds.

Among recommendations: "Credits for fees should be deposited directly with the state treasurer instead of a local bank."

—Deposits in excess of $100 in any working day be sent to the state treasurer no later than the next day.

—Checks to the institution be endorsed immediately in place of loss of misappropriation.

—Better controls over food and supplies inventories.

Harder also recommended installation of a closed-circuit television system at the training center to improve security at night.

Colombia Chief Pushes Reform Plan

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — President Carlos Lleras Restrepo told the Colombian Senate Tuesday night to accept his reform program or his resignation, plunging the South American nation into its deepest governmental crisis in recent years.
 If Congress refuses to accept the resignation, Lleras said in a broadcast to the nation, it will mean it is ready to approve his program, which the Senate rejected last week.

An earlier announcement that Lleras would resign set off anti-government riots at the University of Bogota Tuesday night and clashes in the city between supporters of Lleras and of ex-adjutant general Gustavo Rojas Pinilla.
 Army units with tanks occupied the university campus.

Authorities said 28 policemen and three civilians had been injured, including one student in serious condition. The government charged that the rioting students were disciples of Mao Tse-tung and Fidel Castro.

The Senate on Friday rejected constitutional amendments submitted by Lleras to curtail congressional power over economic matters and to allow, for the first time in 10 years, political parties other than the ruling Conservatives and Liberals to run candidates in future elections.

Under the constitution, the presidency alternates between a Liberal and a Conservative every four years, the result of a 1957 agreement which ended a decade of civil war. Lleras is a Liberal.

Youth's Hunt For Dad Has Sad Ending

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Billy Gay's 3,200-mile odyssey in search of his father ended in sorrow but now he has found a new home, a new life and a second family.

 He accepted a full tuition scholarship from Florida Secretary of State Tom Adams and was enrolled in the Florida International Learning Institute at Tallahassee Junior College.

Rex Tothman, his foster father, said Billy "took awhile to adjust" but now is just like a member of the family. Billy says he wants to bring his sister home as soon as he saves her plane fare.

'Poor' Leaders Set Demand List

By AUSTIN SCOTT WASHINGTON (AP) — In an attempt to sharpen the focus of the Poor People's Campaign, leaders have issued a list of priority demands and said most could be met by the government without new legislation.

In addition, the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy named legislative priorities which, if won, he said, would permit the demonstrators to think about going home.

The list touches on many areas, Abernathy made it clear in a three-hour news briefing Tuesday night he considers the feeding of the hungry a key issue.

His list of priorities includes food packages in all 1,000 poorest counties, emergency supplementary food distribution in the 258 "hunger counties" cited by the Citizens Board of Inquiry, free food stamps for those who can't afford to buy them, and more free lunches for school children.

The demands concentrated on getting more citizen participation in antipoverity programs, more money for summer jobs and Headstart programs, and better health care.

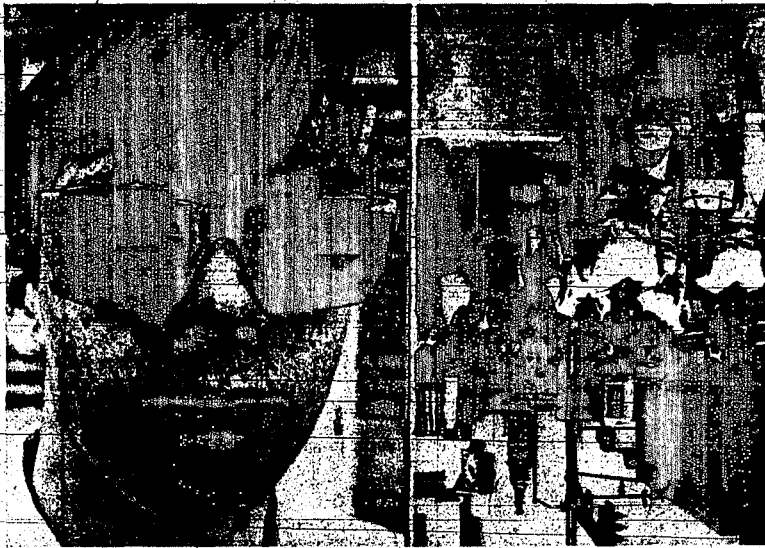

Freedom of choice school desegregation plans should be abolished by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Abernathy said, and the department should abolish dual school systems in the South by fall.

He asked the Department of Housing and Urban Development to fight for the pending housing bill now pending before Congress.

Other priority demands called on the State Department to set up a committee with representatives from the poor, and the departments of Justice and Interior to study the question of who owns land claimed by Mexican-Americans in the Southwest.

Congress, the original focus of the campaign when it began four weeks ago, was asked to pass a bill to create jobs, pass the pending housing bill, and repeal the 1967 Social Security amendment, freezing the number of families eligible for Aid to Dependent Children.

Congress should also enact minimum federal welfare standards, fight for summer jobs, and require support of families with unemployed fathers.

Nation's Total Employment Reaches Record High In May

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's total employment reached a record high of 75.9 million last month and unemployment remained at a 15-year low, the Labor Department reported today.

Average earnings of some 45 million non-supervisory workers also climbed to a new high in May of $232 per hour and $106.04 a week, up 2 cents an hour and $1.59 per week from April.

The nationwide unemployment rate remained at 7.5 percent of the civilian labor force for the second straight month, matching the lowest figure since November of 1953.

The unemployment rate for Negroes edged down from 6.7 to 6.4 percent, equalling the lowest figure since 1954.

The jobs rate for teenagers rose from 11.9 to 12.6 percent and an even further rise is expected this month as school youth mood the labor market.

For Negro teenagers, the jobs rate was about double at 24.7 percent, Goldstein said.

The number of unemployed persons totaled 2.3 million of which 468,000 were Negroes or other nonwhites, the Bureau said.

Total employment was up by 2.3 million over the past year and unemployment was down about 150,000.

The number of hard-core unemployed, out of work 15 weeks or more, was down some 25,000 to 400,000 over the year, or a rate of five-tenths of one percent of the civilian labor force. This is the group on which the Labor Department is concentrating with job training programs.

Samuelson Discusses Use Of Tuition To Assist Colleges

By EARLE L. JESTER
BOISE (AP) — Gov. Don Samuelson said today he has no objection to the use of student tuition to provide additional revenue for the operation of state colleges and universities.

But he told newsmen he will make no such proposal to the legislature.

He said he has passed on to the Idaho Board of Education information on tuition charged by schools in states adjacent to Idaho. That information, he said, showed that Idaho fees averaged annually about $100 per student less than those in neighboring states.

"I don't think there is anything wrong with our being competitive with the neighboring states," Samuelson said.

He added that on the basis of present enrollment, a charge of $100 per student would give the institutions an additional $3 million each biennium.

The governor said there still has been no decision as to what part of the cost of fighting last summer's extensive forest fires will be borne by the federal government.

The state received this week an allocation of $367,000 from the Office of Emergency Planning, Samuelson said it will be used primarily to pay costs of fighting the China Creek-Eagle Creek fire, which burned mostly on land protected by the state.

The state called on the Bureau of Land Management for assistance in fighting that blaze and was billed for $355,000.

The state, which paid about $1 million out of state funds for last year's fire costs, also was contract providing for Idaho's Forest Service for assistance in fighting the Sundance Mountain, Trapper Peak and Caribou fires. Samuelson said the responsibility for paying those costs only four women prisoners, Samuelson said.

—Thinks California Gov. Ronald Reagan still is a possible Republican presidential nominee.

But he said that on the basis of present sentiment, Richard Nixon has the nomination.

...Would oppose construction of any dam in the middle stretch of the Snake River unless it would have some benefit to Idaho. Such benefits could include tax revenue from the power plant itself or from industry aid by power produced at the dam.

Pacific Northwest River Basins Unit Chairman Offers Several Suggestions

SPOKANE (AP) — Use of government guaranteed loans for reclamation and irrigation projects and federal construction and ownership of artificial lakes to be used in cooling thermal power plant water were among suggestions offered here Wednesday by Charles W. Hodde, chairman of the Pacific Northwest River Basins Committee.

Addressing delegates to the Washington State Grants Convention, Hodde said "Most of this region, except for parts of Southern Idaho and Eastern Oregon, is supplied adequately with water for all foreseeable agricultural development. If no other uses require priority over agriculture."

"This area is not able to plan only on a concept of consumptive use, as too much of its commerce and patterns of living has developed a dependence on water for all foreseeable agricultural development, such as power, fish, navigation, industrial cooling, quality maintenance, wildlife support, and recreation. Much more than power, municipal and industrial water supply," he said.

Hodde said agriculture is the largest user of water outside streambeds in the Northwest today with seven million acres under irrigation.

At least 25 million acres could be irrigated "consuming" only water available from surface, subsurface and engineering feasibility. According to Hodde, about 17 million acres in the Northwest states will be under irrigation within 50 years.

"It is important that agriculture as well as other users of water resources, be represented in discussions on development of water problems, including pollution," he said.

Considerable research is under way in agricultural use of water, he said. "From thermal power plants, he said, and "I believe it possible within the next 20 years to develop 60-80 acres of water lakes where no water now is stored as cooling areas for water from thermal power plants."

"Federal construction and ownership of the artificial lakes might be the best solution for the years ahead and such lakes would have many purposes, such as irrigation equalization reservoirs, recreation and warm water fishing areas. As an alternative, we might investigate establishing public, quasi-public or cooperative corporations for financing such energy center sites and development from the lease of construction sites and sale of cooling water to utilities and irrigation districts and operation of recreational facilities, including lease of waterfront property."

Hodde said federal money for reclamation development was hard to come by in years ahead but the process can be changed through sale of government-guaranteed securities, which would be no burden on the federal treasury.

"I believe we could inject a cost control factor in evaluation of irrigation projects," he said, "which will not operate in a political atmosphere." The system could work similarly to revenue bonds now employed by public utility districts.

Review Of Dr. Kennedy Ruling Asked

BOISE (AP) — The Idaho attorney general's office asked the State Personnel Commission today to reconsider its ruling on the ouster of Dr. C. H. Kennedy of Meridian as state meat inspection supervisor.

The commission ruled that Commissioner of Agriculture Stanley Trenhaile was motivated politically when he dismissed Kennedy more than a year ago. Trenhaile said Kennedy was discharged because he was arbitrary in his actions.

The petition for rehearing asked the commission to reconsider its order, which instructed Trenhaile to restore Kennedy to his former position and pay his salary for the entire period of his suspension and dismissal.

Vietnamese Must Have Several Jobs To Support Family As Prices Rise

By BARRY KRAMER
 SAIGON (AP)—Unless he is wealthy, a Vietnamese must have two or three jobs to support his family. In many family members must work to keep up with South Viet-nam's wartime inflation. Since the Tet offensive, many have lost their second and third jobs, making the squeeze even tougher.
 Prices took off like a balloon in early 1965 and have continued to rise as the number of U.S. troops has risen. In that period as the number of American troops rose from 20,000 to 500,000, the cost of food has quadrupled and over-all prices—including food; transportation; haircuts; aspirin, charcoal, electricity—have increased three-fold.
 This means Vietnamese must find ways to pay 60 cents for a loaf of bread that used to cost 10 cents, or a kilogram, 2.2 pounds, of rice for 250 piasters that once sold for 82.
 Nguyen Van Tinh—the name is fictitious but the situation is real—is a middle level official in the Ministry of Agriculture. He has a degree from a university in the Philippines and a master's degree from American University in Washington, D.C.
 He is paid 14,000 piasters—about a month and gets a rice allowance that brings his monthly salary to almost 16,000 piasters. He also is allowed the personal use of a ministry jeep.
 The pay figures mean he has to spend half a day's pay for a kilo of rice or four loaves of bread.
 Here are some further swelling price comparisons, with the figure for January 1965 followed by that for May 1968, and with the plaster worth 305 cents (price per kilo, unless otherwise indicated).

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP)—A sheriff's deputy and a prowler traded four gunshots early today outside the mansion of Nevada Gov. Paul Laxalt.
 The governor, his wife, Jackie, their six children, and a niece were inside. Mrs. Laxalt said they were not hurt.
 One bullet smashed a head through the windshield of deputy Jack Jordan's patrol car about six inches from the officer. He was not injured.
 Jordan fired twice at the gunman as he fled.

Africa's Leaders Are Frustrated By Growing Might In White South Africa

By DENNIS LEE ROYLE
 DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)—Africa's black leaders, frustrated by growing economic and military might in white-ruled southern Africa, plan to intensify guerrilla warfare against what they term "the white cancer on this black continent."
 At a recent summit meeting, 14 independent nations urged continuous, relentless attacks on white minority rule by black "freedom fighters."
 They envisage a front line extending 2,000 miles from the mid-belt of Angola on the Atlantic seaboard, through the bushland plains of central Africa, to the palm-fringed shores of Mozambique.
 Three major African rivers form the demarcation line between black Africa and the white south.
 On Africa's west coast, black guerrilla units have been crossing the wide Congo River for more than seven years, waging war against Portuguese rule in Angola.
 More recently in central Africa, terrorists crossed the crocodile-infested—Zambesi—River from staging camps in Zambia. They are met by tough black and white Rhodesian troops, backed by paramilitary police units from South Africa.

 On Africa's eastern seaboard, well trained guerrillas under Africa's foremost revolutionary leader, Dr. Eduardo Mondlane, cross across the coffee-colored Bayona River to harass Portuguese troops in Mozambique.
 Few significant military or territorial gains have been achieved by black liberation forces.
 Their impact is measured by the number of white troops killed, trucks ambushed and roads mined. Their tactics have, however, forced Portugal to spend millions and deploy 80,000 troops in Angola and Mozambique.
 The Rhodesian white-minority government of Prime Minister Ian Smith is the top target now. Black leaders believe that only by crushing the Rhodesian regime can they eventually come to grips with their most hated enemy—South Africa.
 Zambia's President Kenneth Kaunda, whose copper-rich landlocked country continues to rely on white-ruled Rhodesia for electric power and coal for the copper smelters and a rail out-let for essential exports and imports, wants an early overthrow of the Smith regime.
 But liberation movements are riddled with discord. Some draw money and supplies from Red China, others from Russia and Cuba.
 Frequent brawls between rival movements often end in bloodshed.
 Calling for escalation of guerrilla warfare against the Portuguese, Rhodesians and South African whites, Kaunda said: "Unless the independent African states work in unison for the overthrow of the white regimes, freedom fighters face defeat."
 "There is a growing military cooperation between the white southern states who are becoming increasingly powerful."
 "The liberation war was in full spate; it was a continuous

JEROME—Jerome school trustees voted to sell the Canyonside school and lots at auction at 2 p.m. July 13, at the monthly meeting Monday night which was attended by several interested patrons from the area.
 It was decided to give the Canyonside Women's club an option on the former teachers' which has been used as Community building, either to move it or pay $400 for the 60-by-120-foot lot.
 It was pointed out that the former school building, which is constructed on lava rock on a lot adjoining the one containing the Community building, cannot be moved and either will have to be purchased for use at the site or demolished.
 Mark Stavers and Don Jensen were hired as custodians.
 Gordon Hoffstedt, newly elected trustee, was sworn into office. Levi Gifford was elected chairman of the board and Dr. Robert Williams was named vice chairman. Dale Vining was named as the treasurer's post and Warren Kaye appointed as Clerk of the board.

Quiz On Dr. Spock Gathers Reactions Of T.F. Mothers

"Has Dr. Spock's participation in antidraft activities influenced your attitude toward him or his books?"

This was the question asked some of Twin Falls' Spock-reading mothers recently.

Most of the mothers agreed the 65-year-old pediatrician's activities adversely influenced their attitudes toward him personally, but had little influence in any way over their attitudes toward his books and articles.

Mrs. John Keith Holden, mother of two children 10 months and three years, stated that if she had a child-care question she referred to his book; his activities hadn't changed the credibility of his book, but her personal appraisal of him had changed for the worse.

And Mrs. Clarence Dudley, mother of four children, said, "No, I can't say it's influenced my attitude toward his writings, but certainly has my personal opinion of him."

One mother who has a one-month old baby, Mrs. Michael Gray, doesn't agree with Dr. Spock's child-care ideas, especially those concerning discipline. But, Mrs. Gray said, "His recent activities should make no difference as to what I wrote previously."

There were exceptions. Mrs. Robert Rayborn, for instance, said, "This book was like a Bible to us — I haven't paid attention to the demonstrations, but they don't influence my attitude."

But Mrs. David Phillips stated, "They have influenced my attitude very much — I don't feel he's a very authoritative source now." She is the mother of three.

Mrs. Earl Haroldson, who just bought a Dr. Spock book for her daughter-in-law, when asked the question replied, "No, really — it hasn't swayed me one way or the other."

Dr. Benjamin Spock is on trial in Boston along with four other men for "knowingly, knowingly and wilfully" conspiring to counsel young men to avoid the draft.

Mothers in Twin Falls, for the most part, are willing to separate Dr. Spock's static products, his writings, from his recent dissenting actions. For the most part, however, they disagree with his dissension.

Rockefeller Pledges To Call Summit Meet For 'True Atlantic Partnership'

By BILL BOVARSKY

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller pledged today to call a summit meeting of Western heads of state to create a "true Atlantic partnership" if elected president.

Looking for support to overcome the Republican delegate lead of Richard M. Nixon, the New Yorker offered sweeping foreign policy proposals in the opening of two days of public speeches and private talks in California.

He planned private meetings with a few top Republicans who are pledged to vote for California Gov. Ronald Reagan as a favorite son at the convention.

Concentrating on foreign affairs, Rockefeller called for closer United States cooperation with Western Europe, including giving the supreme command of NATO to a European instead of an American.

Secret Service agents, New York state troopers and two Los Angeles police department "intelligence" officers guarded Rockefeller — the first announced presidential candidate to come to California since Robert F. Kennedy was shot to death in Los Angeles last Wednesday.

In a speech prepared for delivery at Town Hall in Los Angeles, Rockefeller referred to the New York Democratic senator's death in a hotel just a few miles away.

"His death here last week became a dark day," he was determined to speak out on the great problems before our people," Rockefeller said.

But most of Rockefeller's attention in the talk before the city's business leaders was directed to building "a new world structure, a new international order."

He called for bringing the North Atlantic Treaty Organization "into line with current realities" by encouraging European nations to assume a greater responsibility for their defense.

"Asking for a new leadership," Rockefeller said, "we cannot act as the world's policeman."

Rockefeller proposed more trade and scientific and cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union and expansion of the existing bilateral talks with Communist China in Warsaw into wider ranging explorations.

With California's 88 votes pledged to Reagan until he releases them, Rockefeller's hopes in the state rest mainly with persuading some delegates to back him on the second and third ballots.

The visit was a major stop in his all out appeal to American voters to support his effort to beat Nixon.

Small Idaho Women's Club Wins Prize

BOSTON, Mass. (AP) — A women's club from a small Idaho mountain town with an official population of 10 persons Tuesday won a $2,500 prize for its contribution to education in its area.

The Springa Club of Garden Valley was awarded first place in a contest sponsored by the Shell Oil Co. and the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The 15-member Garden Valley Club gave two college scholarships, sponsored art and poetry contests for area high school students and donated a record player to a local kindergarten last year.

Besides that, the members donated a total of 500 hours of work to the library they founded in 1966.

Garden Valley is located about 60 miles north of Boise.

Second and third place winners, respectively, were Dows Thursday Club of Dows, Iowa, and Ashland Junior Women's Club of Ashland, Va. The Idaho group won a $500 state prize in early May.

Mickey's pet used to be four goldfish, but since then the fish population has fallen. (AP wirephoto)

NEW YORK (AP) — Administration efforts to keep dollars at home by curtailing overseas spending for pleasure are running head on into obstacles.

The objective is to reduce by $600 million the annual travel deficit which in 1967 soared to $2 billion, the net result of Americans spending nearly $4 billion abroad while foreigners spent $2 billion here.

Lessening the prospects for substantial help in balancing the travel outgo and income are these factors:

—Measures that would impose taxes on foreign travel and limit top earners are still being argued in the Senate.

—The more mundane fields are being explored, such as the potential of an electronic package that could serve four keyboards simultaneously. Here again shares are trading at very high multiples, but the potential justifies a moderate premium in risk accounts.

—Could I have some information on Boothe Computer? C. K.

—Boothe has a new issue coming out early in May at 18. Speculative interest pushed the shares to about triple their original cost. At these levels earnings power has been discounted many years into the future. An important factor in the feverish interest in Boothe is its area of operation—testing of data-processing equipment and computers. In its first five and one-half months of business, Boothe reported an operating loss. The next two months brought a 5-cent-per-share profit. With share price so far out of line with current earnings capabilities, I would avoid this one.

Ways Are Sought To Counter Rules On Travel To Berlin

By EUGENE KRAMER
BONN (AP) — Representatives of the United States, West Germany, Britain and France are seeking ways to counter new restrictions placed by Communist East Germany on West Germans traveling to Berlin. Some West German commentators called the East German action the most serious threat to access to West Berlin since the 11-month Berlin Blockade by the Russians in 1948-49. East Germany announced Tuesday night it will require West Germans for the first time to have passports and visas for train, road and water travel between West Germany and Communist-surrounded West Berlin. The regulations appeared to be a new assertion of East German sovereignty and of the Communist regime's defiance of the Bonn government's claim that it is the only representative German government. The East Germans also announced hikes in overland transit fees and freight taxes. There was no indication of interference with official traffic of the three Western allies, which is controlled by the Russians as the other occupation power, or access to West Berlin since the occupation powers. A meeting of U.S., West German, British and France representatives in the American Embassy lasted until 1 a.m. today. An anticipated joint allied protest to the Soviet Union was not announced. Up to now, West Germans going to West Berlin by surface routes have traveled on their West German identity cards. Communist officials at the East German news agency, said the West Germans would have until July 15 to get passports. Increases in transit fees became effective June 20 and freight taxes on July 1, ADN said. Visiting U.S. Undersecretary of State Eugene Rostow called the East German action "a serious situation" and said such a change from the present pattern cannot be tolerated. The East Germans said the new regulations were necessary because of neo-Nazism and revenge-seeking in West Germany and because of the passage of the new state of emergency laws in West Germany. Six-Man Coaching Staff To Lead Magic Valley In 'Spring' Baseball Camp

A six-man coaching including several ex-major leaguers will lead the Magic Valley baseball camp in Twin Falls, Idaho, this year. The camp is being supervised by Don Pappas, who has coached at the University of Idaho and in the American League. The coaching staff includes Pappas, who has coached at the University of Idaho and in the American League; Bill Lucas, assistant farm director for the Detroit Tigers; and several other former major league players.

Cards' Gibson Stops Atlanta On 5-Hitter

ATLANTA (AP) — Bob Gibson stopped the Atlanta Braves with a five-hitter in the 13th inning of a game Sunday night. Gibson, raising his record to 6-5 with his second consecutive shutout, beat the Braves for the first time in two years. He struck out four, walked two, hit one and allowed only one runner past first base as the Cardinals pulled off four double plays.

The Cardinals scored five runs in the third, fourth, fifth, sixth and seventh innings, knocking out Dick Little, 2-4, en route to their 13th victory in 15 games and 10th straight over the Braves. Gibson, raising his record to 6-5 with his second consecutive shutout, beat the Braves for the first time in two years. He struck out four, walked two, hit one and allowed only one runner past first base as the Cardinals pulled off four double plays.

Thanks Given For Honoring R. Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP) — The press secretary of the late Robert F. Kennedy has sent telegrams of thanks to four major league baseball players and the New York Mets for their actions in observing a day of mourning for the assassinated senator. The wires were sent to Gil Hodges, manager of the Mets, intended for the entire team which refused to play a scheduled game in San Francisco Saturday and players Maury Wills of Pittsburgh, Rusty Staub of Houston and Bob Aspromonte of Cincinnati. Wills, Staub and Aspromonte refused to play in Sunday's game between Pittsburgh and Houston at the Astrodome.

Pappas, the Reds' player representative, resigned his position when the club management ordered Saturday night's delayed game played despite his protests. The wires, sent by press secretary Frank Mankiewicz, said: "Please accept my personal admiration for your actions. Sen. Kennedy indeed enjoyed competitive sports but I doubt he would have put his box office receipts ahead of national mourning."

Klover Klub Downs Don Pieper's 21-6

Parker and Wright each hit home runs Tuesday night to pace the Klover Klub past Don Pieper's 21-6 in the Twin Falls slopstick league. Winterholler hit a homer for Don Pieper. Bill Workman Ford, with the help of Schow, topped Royal Lounge 8-1. Schow hit two home runs in the winners, and in the final game on diamond 1, OK Tire Store defeated Independent Meat Co. 12-1. Schenberg and Grant hit round-trippers for the winners. On diamond 2, Coors-allied Pat K and T Steel 8-5, as Mynabe and Nicholson each blasted one out for the losers. In the second game, Olan's Sport Center walked over, Roy Schow and Grant hit round-trippers, Olympia thumped Butte 5-0. Leschenbe hit one homer and Pratt connected for two for the winners.

Nicklaus Hopes To Shake Slump And Repeat As Open Champion

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus has a new war club—a new "war club" of confidence which he hopes will snap him out of a seven-month slump and into his third National Open golf championship. "I just picked up this driver five days ago, and I think it's great," he said. "I've been practicing at the Oak Hill course where he opens defense of his crown Thursday."

"I feel very good about the tournament coming up," he said. "I just haven't played well up to now. But I've been playing better." Besides the standard favorites—Casper, Nicklaus, Arnold Palmer, Gary Player and Roberto de Vicenzo—a new contender is posed in this year's Open by the new breed, exemplified by strapping Bob Lunn of Pasadena, Calif., 23, son of a San Francisco motorcycle policeman. Lunn comes to his first open with successive victories at Memphis and Atlanta, a big name and a confident 1-year-old body—all-time 23—never-got nervous," he says.

USC Rallies To Nip BYU In Tourney

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Top-ranked USC rallied to defeat California in the seventh inning of a baseball game Sunday night. USC made only two hits in the game and neither drove in a run, but took full advantage of BYU's errors and the ineptness of right-hander Ken Crosby. USC's Larry Romney hit the home run in the lead-off of the seventh inning, giving USC a 5-3 first-round victory over the Brigham Young team Tuesday night in the College Baseball World Series.

Small Game Hunting Good Last Year

BOISE (AP) — Last year was a good year for small game hunters in Idaho, according to a survey conducted by the Idaho Fish and Game Department. Game bird supervisor Elmer R. Norberg said the sage grouse harvest last year was the best since records were first kept—with 51,700 birds killed to represent a 105 per cent increase from the long-term average. He said that the pheasant and quail harvest was up 10 per cent and the quail harvest was up 13 per cent.

Astros Hang Fifth Loss On Phillies

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Rusty Staub's two-run double clinched a five-run second-inning uprising that swept the Houston Astros to a 5-1 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday night, extending the Phillies' losing streak to five games. Phillies Dierker checked the Astros in seven hits, including a first-inning homer by Rich Allen, who was starting his first game since May 23 following a dispute with management. Dierker, 6-8, struck out 11.

Pirates Thump San Francisco

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Roberto Clement's two-run homer touched off a four-run burst that sent the Pittsburgh Pirates to a 7-1 victory over the San Francisco Giants Tuesday night.

Cincinnati Sends Pappas To Atlanta In Six-Man Trade

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati dealt starting pitcher Milt Pappas, who recently said his days with the Reds "are numbered," to Atlanta Tuesday as part of a six-player trade. The Reds gave up reliever Ted Davidson and infielder Bob Johnson for pitchers Tony Danley and Clay Carroll and Atlanta outfielder Woody Woodward. Pappas, who was 16-13 last year with the Reds, was one of the things that have come up from besides the Sen. Kennedy situation but he refused to elaborate.

Davidson, 27, was 1-0 in 1968 with a 5.0 ERA in 23 games and Johnson, 32, is batting .267 in 16 games. Cincinnati's three new players will join the team in Chicago where the Reds are currently playing a four-game series with the Cubs.

Mets' Dick Selma Blanks L.A. 3-0

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dick Selma blanked the Los Angeles Dodgers, 3-0, in a game Sunday night. Selma, who has pitched in 15 games and 10th straight over the Dodgers, struck out five batters in the 13th inning. Selma and Grote; Osteen, 5-8; and Selma, 8-0; Osteen, 5-8.

Marilyn Malone, Brown Wed

Marilyn Malone, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford E. Malone, became the bride of Mark H. Brown, all Twin Falls, at 8:30 p.m. at the Twin Falls LDS Church.

The double ring ceremony was performed by District Apostle Brown, uncle of the bridegroom, before an altar flanked by tall brass vase baskets filled with white gladioli and purple chrysanthemums. Blue satin pew bows marked the aisle.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a floor-length gown of pearl de sole, fashioned with scalloped neckline, lace bodice and short sleeves. Her long pleated train was of matching lace. A light blue velvet ribbon accented the empire waistline, with tiny light blue bows bordering the edge of the train. The gown was fashioned and made by the bride.

Her elbow-length veil of bridal illusion was held in place by a rose fashioned from the same material as the gown and accented with seed pods and sequins. She carried a cascading bouquet of white gladioli accented with blue satin leaves.

Toni Alexander, twin sister of the bridegroom, was ring bearer. Bridesmaids were Teresa Malone, cousin of the bride, and Shirley Fry.

Mike Stephens, cousin of the bridegroom, served as best man, with Mick Alexander and Larry Morrison serving as ushers. Ringbearer was Scott Malone, brother of the bride.

G. W. Warner was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Lavin Street. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Roger O. Bryant.

A reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the bridegroom's reception room under the direction of Mrs. Douglas Brown, aunt of the bridegroom.

Guests were registered by Mrs. Brown, sister of the bridegroom. Gifts were carried by Suzy Brown and Nancy Brown, cousins of the bridegroom, with Mike Stephens and Vicki L. Hanes displaying the gifts.

The bride's table was covered with ivory silk accented with blue and white. A French organ and centered with a three-tiered wedding cake. The cake, topped with satin bells, lace and pearls, was decorated in light blue and white. It was encircled at the base with blue — and greenery arranged by arrangements of blue and white pompon chrysanthemums. The table was accented with candelabra with blue candles.

Guest tables were covered with ivory linen and centered with white carnations floating in blue colored water. The tables were decorated by Mrs. Claude Brown Sr., grandmother of the bridegroom.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Keith Malone and punch by Mrs. Webb Malone, aunts of the bride. They were assisted by Mrs. Douglas Brown Jr., Mrs. James Brown, Karen Brown and Cheryl Brown. The couple took a wedding trip to Salt Lake City and reside in Twin Falls.

Out-of-town guests attended from Salt Lake City, Hazelton, Buhl and Filer.

The bride was feted at a pre-nuptial shower hosted by Mrs. Eugene Malone, aunt of the bride.

Bare-All Approach To New Fashions Features Midriff

By JEAN SPRAIN WILSON
AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP)—Almost as if she had made a tour of the design rooms before speaking, James Laver, British fashion historian, predicted that the next erotic area would surely be the midriff.

On cue Adele Simpson brought forth in time to catch the cool breezes of summer a series of dinner and hostess gowns that fall to come to any conclusion at the middle. They were both erotica and exotica.

With backlessness, plunging necklines, mid-thighlines, and new bare midriffs, Mrs. Simpson was quick to see that the fashion might diminish itself in where. Eve started it. Women are undoubtedly more body-conscious than ever. More women diet, exercise, play tennis, bowl, bicycle and jog than ever before, Mrs. Simpson describes this bare-all approach as a "cult of the body."

Is she willing to abdicate her fashion authority over this new bare territory?

Never. She could have done what some of the avant garde have accomplished, and insisted that her body-exposed customers roll paint onto the flesh pink places. But this did not appeal to Mrs. Simpson's aesthetic sensa because she does not believe that any designer can improve on nature.

A designer can do what she can to enhance nature, though.

Pudding Souffle Is Winning Dessert

Who's afraid of the big soup? There was a time when a test of a master chef was the height of his souffle. But today, "easy no-bake" pudding souffles can take the test. And they're the magic-out of this exciting gourmet treat. Even a bride with virtually no cooking experience can prepare a delicious, soufflé quickly and easily and a non-fool soufflé at that.

For a special cold pudding soufflé with a built-in surprise element, try a Black and White Banana Split Soufflé. This two-layer treat, one layer of chocolate nut and another of banana-flavored vanilla pudding, can be made with either layer on top. You can prepare it with a smoothie chocolate nut top, garnished with banana-slices which hint at, but don't reveal, the surprise banana pudding layer below. Or, you can go tosy turvy, with a chocolate nut bottom and a creamy cool banana vanilla top, with chocolate shavings as garnish. (If you prefer, top the banana layer with crushed peppermint candy.)

For use at an extra-large party, you may enjoy making the same soufflé twice — one white-topped, and the other capped with the chocolate nut layer.

The next time around, try an Apricot Pudding Soufflé. It's equally easy to prepare, and results in a highly appealing soft apricot color which is sure to draw favorable comment. This soufflé is a particularly fine warm weather dessert. It looks and tastes cool, and helps everyone feel refreshed no matter how high the temperature or humidity.

The secret to the ease and foolproof quality of both these soufflés is the use of packaged pudding in the ingredients. You'll find the resulting soufflés are rich and creamy, as well as sturdy.

To help make your pudding souffles first-rate, the home economists from the My-T-Fine Kitchens offer the following suggestions:

1) Refrigerate the cream so that it is icy cold before whipping. This is important. Place mixing bowl and beaters in the refrigerator a half-hour before preparation. Don't remove the cream from the refrigerator until you are ready to whip it. And, avoid over-whipping or you'll have home-made butter on your hands, delicate perfume but hardly a soufflé ingredient. When the cream stands alone, forming soft peaks on the beaters, you've completed the job.

2) For an attractive soufflé crown which stands above the top of the serving dish, make an aluminum foil collar by rolling the foil around the rim of the dish about one and one-half inches higher than the dish top, and tape in place.

3) Place the cold soufflé in the refrigerator far from the neighboring food items. One little dent and your soufflé is scarred for life. Make sure the shelves allow an inch or two on top for easy withdrawal.

4) Remove the foil collar just minutes before serving. This makes your soufflé less accident prone and assures a fresh, clean finish.

A no-bake pudding soufflé is a fine way to top off a warm-weather meal or party. Make it your special dessert the next time you plan to entertain.

BLACK AND WHITE BANANA SPLIT SOUFFLE

2 tablespoons (2 envelopes) unflavored gelatin
4 cups milk
1 package (3½ ounces) My-T-Fine Chocolate Nut Pudding
1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
2 cups heavy cream
1 package (3½ ounces) My-T-Fine Vanilla Pudding
1 large ripe banana
1 teaspoon nutmeg
1/2 cup shaved chocolate, crushed
peppermint stick candy and banana slices for decoration, as desired

Soften one envelope gelatin in one-fourth cup cold milk. Make chocolate nut pudding according to directions, using one and three-fourths cups milk. Use hot pudding to dissolve gelatin, stir in cinnamon and cool. Whip one cup of heavy cream and fold into cool chocolate mixture. Pour into a one-quart soufflé dish and chill until firm.

Surround dish with an aluminum foil collar, raising level of dish one and one-half inches. Tape in place or tie with string.

Soften remaining envelope of gelatin in one-fourth cup cold milk. Make vanilla pudding according to directions, using one and three-fourths cup milk. Use hot mixture to dissolve gelatin. Mix well, and thoroughly and fold in with nutmeg. Whip remaining cup heavy cream and fold into banana-pudding mixture. Cool slightly. Pour on top of chocolate layer; chill. Just before serving, sprinkle with chocolate curls or crushed peppermint candy if desired and remove aluminum foil collar.

For an attractive variation, make banana layer first and top with chocolate-nut layer. Decorate with banana slices just before serving.

Makes six to eight servings. For a large party-size soufflé, with a very high top, triple the recipe; make a larger collar, and serve in a two-quart bowl.

APRICOT PUDDING SOUFFLE

1 can (1½ cups) apricot halves, drained
1 envelope unflavored gelatin (approximately 12 ounces) apricot nectar
1 package (3½ ounces) My-T-Fine Vanilla Pudding
1 teaspoon lemon extract
1 cup heavy cream
Fresh or frozen strawberries or nuts for garnish halves. Mash or use blender to blend remaining apricot halves; reserve. Soften gelatin in one-fourth cup apricot nectar. Add enough water to remaining nectar to make one and three-fourths cups liquid. Prepare vanilla pudding according to directions, substituting the nectar and water mixture for milk. Stir hot pudding into gelatin, making sure the gelatin is well dissolved. Stir in mashed apricots and lemon extract. Cool slightly. While cream and fold into pudding mixture. Turn into one quart soufflé dish; chill well. Just before serving, garnish with reserved apricot halves each topped with a fresh or frozen strawberry or half pecan or walnut.

Makes four to six servings. For high topped soufflé, double recipe, using aluminum-foil collar on serving dish. Remove collar just before serving.

SAME SOUFFLE . . . TWO WAYS. You can serve the same attractive banana split soufflé with a banana vanilla layer on top or tosy turvy with a chocolate nut layer showing. Either way, it's gourmet treat to the taste as well as the eye.

Betty Canary's Wonderful World

There isn't any guesswork involved as to what will be said after the remark, "Today, nobody but a rich man can run for president." The sound is always, "Why do we go through this circus every four years anyway?" These many conventions are ridiculous!

Some present a studied argument about how General Motors chooses its top executives. "Can you imagine the board of directors going down into the shop and asking every Tom, Dick and Harry who they want sitting in the main chair? Of course not!"

Others dwell on how undignified it is — the ludicrous custom of men donning Indian headaddresses and chomping their way through countless barbecues and fish fries.

A few point with sarcasm to the smoke-filled rooms behind the sunny facade of the politicians and there are always the ones howling "The world's most powerful country! All this troop-ing through the hoodocks and then the carnival-type conventions well, our image abroad is damaged by it!"

"The whole thing smacks of the old-time summer beer party for buying a box of wigs!"

Prophecy of doom predict for us the time is near when television will determine the pres-

Chronic Headache A Habit? Neurologist Gives Advice

Recurrent headache may be simply a habit formed in youth, says a Los Angeles neurologist. And this habit can be broken by (1) an understanding of how it started and (2) giving up pain relievers.

Some headaches, of course, may be traceable to organic causes. But if such factors have been excluded — by medical examination — any headache that constantly recurs has a psychological explanation, and should be treated from that angle. Furthermore, adds Dr. Augustus Rose of the UCLA School of Medicine, reliance on pain relievers may have the effect of insuring a continuing recurrence.

He should discover what "facts of life" he's afraid to face. The remedy may be a tough one, but it does work. Once it's made with resolution, and new confidence has been acquired, that headache may never come back, he promises.

Not all recurrent headaches, Dr. Rose points out, should necessarily be given this treatment. However, when organic factors have been excluded, it may be just a question of breaking a habit.

These periodic headaches almost always begin in youth. Usually, other members of the family have a similar complaint.

Such headaches tend to follow some stress-related situation, for instance, in which the headache candidate feels helpless and trapped.

If the resultant headache is allowed to interfere with active life, Dr. Rose warns, the youngster will have "had it." His headache may then become a habit, linked with moments of stress.

Wiglets, Wigs Shown For Area Homemakers

EDEN—Mrs. Berwyn Mussman was hostess to a group of Happy Homemakers members recently when they learned about wigs and wiglets.

Mrs. Norman Shirley, Murfau, demonstrated and showed how to take care of and how to wear wigs and wiglets. Various members tried the hair pieces on and discussion was held.

It was decided to have the annual picnic July 8 at the home of Mrs. Bernard Schwarz. A barbecue is planned and members are asked to bring their own hamburger meat and buns. A potluck will be in order. Members should bring their own table set and anything else wish to bring to the picnic.

There will be no August meeting and the next meeting is Sept. 8. The lesson will be presented by Mrs. Lena Bruns and Mrs. Ezzara Pohl on "Did You Eat A Good Breakfast?"

Are Pins Dull?

Troubled by dull baby diaper pins? Take a bar of pure baby soap — it's softer and doesn't crumble as readily as do some others — leave the wrapper on the bar and stick your pins into the soap. Pins will go through the diaper easily and the wrapper will keep any little bits that might flake off in the container. Another method is to run the tip of the pin through your hair before pinning the diaper.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I have a serious problem which I can't confide in anyone else, so I'm turning to you.

My son-in-law told me that he is "in love" with me. He is 21, and I am 35. My daughter (his wife) is 19 and she's a perfect doll. They have an adorable baby.

I don't know what this boy sees in me, although people do say my daughter and I look like sisters.

Abby, it would break my daughter's heart to know how her husband feels about me. And I don't even want to think of what my husband would do if he knew.

I am having a hard time keeping this boy away from me. He keeps trying to get me alone, and he drops in all the time (without my daughter). What should I do? I can't very well tell him he's not welcome, GRANDMOM.

DEAR GRANDMOM: Aw, come on, you certainly can't just tell the boy that if he doesn't cut out the nonsense you'll turn him over your knee. If his attentions are really as unwelcome as you say, tell him off—and that should be the end of it!

DEAR ABBY: I don't know where to begin explaining my problem because it's been bothering me for about 15 years now, and it's not getting any better. If anything, it's getting worse.

I am always washing my hands because when I do, I feel that everything I touch has germs. I'll bet I wash my hands 50 or 60 times a day.

If I have company, I can't sit until they leave so I can wash everything they've touched. I wash the door knobs and even the chairs they've sat on, then I go take a bath and wash my hair, even though I've bathed before they arrive. I just have to wash everything they've come into contact with or I don't feel clean.

I never go to funerals anymore because when I do, I hurry home to take a bath, wash my hair, wash all the clothes I've worn, (even my shoes!) and then I rush to the bathroom to wash my hands with the cleanser. I even wash my car!

Have you ever heard of anything like this before? Abby, I really like people, but I stay away from them because of this thing I have about germs.

I am making problems for my family because I am always after them (I have loan-goo children) to wash the way I do, and they are getting tired of it. Can you help me? Or am I hopeless? UNCLEAN

Picnic Slated

TUTTLE — A potluck dinner and picnic for the Tuttle Community at 7:30 p.m. June 21 was planned at a meeting of the W.W. Club at the home of Mrs. Walter Stewart.

The picnic will be hosted by Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Lower at their home and everyone in the community is invited to attend.

Mrs. Lower conducted the devotional service for the meeting and Mrs. William Maude demonstrated the making of glass wall plaques. Mrs. Stewart showed slide pictures of a trip to Alaska.

DEAR UNCLEAN: I have heard of others who have had the same problem, and it's not "hopeless." Confide in your family doctor. He will recommend someone who will try to help you get rid of those fears.

DEAR ABBY: My wife is always on my back about the old car we drive. It's 6 years old, but it runs as good as any of the newer ones.

Every time we go somewhere she points out this friend or that friend with a brand-new car. It bugs me. I need a good answer for her. Got any handy? FLINT CONFIDENTIAL TO C.C.K.: There are exceptions, of course, but the true index to a man's character can usually be found in the health of his wife.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Mrs. John Hayes Tells Of South American Trip

Mrs. John E. Hayes, who spent two months in South America earlier this year, gave an interesting account of her trip to the Board of Managers of Church Women United during the monthly meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. W. R. Hatcher.

Besides visiting most of the capitals in South America, she spoke extensively about King Ecuador, whose people are gracious and kind, and eager for friendship. Ecuador is an ideal partner in the Alliance for Progress and she was eager to visit that country. The highlight of her trip was a visit with her son, John H. Hayes, who is an engineer with Union Carbide in the country of Brazil.

A coffee hour preceded the meeting. Mrs. Hatcher presented Mrs. John D. Riley, who suggested there were great possibilities of "Using-Summer to Good Best Advantage." She concluded the worship by adding that closeness to nature and spending time alone in meditation and prayer will aid in gaining inner peace and harmony, despite the fact that summer is a busy, noisy time, with the children out of school.

Mrs. King is a 1964 graduate of Minico High School. She attended college in Wisconsin and the University of Idaho. She is a senior at Idaho State University, majoring in home economics. Miss King is vice-president of the Home Economics Club and was a Camp Fire leader this past year.

Mr. Hondo is a 1964 graduate of Minico High School and attended Utah State University. He is an agriculture-business graduate of the College of Southern Idaho, and is engaged in farming in the Burley-Heyburn area.

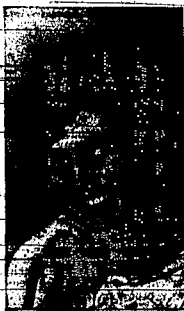

A December wedding is planned.

Sit-In Strike Is Over At Belgrade

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Belgrade University professors and students ended their eight-day sit-in strike and resumed normal work today.

The strike ended after President Tito's intervention Sunday night, saying he would resign if his promises to satisfy students demands are not fulfilled.

The student revolt marked the first spontaneous demonstrations of students in Tito's reign and it divided the ruling Communist party on how to deal with them.

Some leaders of the party advocated tough measures, as Poland did. Others agreed with the students. Tito sided with the students.

Supreme Court Bows To Judgment Of Cop On Beat As Practical Matter

By BARRY SCHWEID

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court, accused for opinion with FBI statistics of police officers killed and wounded in the line of duty, 335 killed from 1960 through 1966; 23,851 assaults on police officers, in 1966 alone.

The constitutional basis for the court's endorsement of police stop-and-frisk powers is that the Fourth Amendment prohibits not all searches and seizures, but "unreasonable searches and seizures."

Justice William O. Douglas, dissenting alone, said "the infringement on personal liberty of any seizure of a person can be reasonable under the Fourth Amendment if we require the police to possess probable cause before they seize him."

Since the majority gave policemen power to stop-and-frisk before they have probable cause to arrest, Douglas said his eight colleagues "have taken a long step down the totalitarian path."

Perhaps mindful of the court's interest in "effective crime-prevention and reduction," Warren said, that justices stopping people on the street for investigation even though the cop doesn't have probable cause to make an arrest.

And to support the thesis that the cop has the right to frisk the suspect, Warren footnoted his opinion with FBI statistics of police officers killed and wounded in the line of duty: 335 killed from 1960 through 1966; 23,851 assaults on police officers, in 1966 alone.

State Laws Banning Strikes Pack No Guarantee

By JAN HARTNETT
Some of the 17 states with laws banning strikes by public employees have learned the hard way that such measures—when those with tough penalties—are not a guarantee against walk-outs.

Thousands of teachers, sanitation workers and others on city, county and state pay rolls have struck in defiance of the state laws. In some cases they have suffered minor, if any, consequences despite stiff penalty provisions.

Not all of the 17 state measures call for penalties. Antistrike laws covering public employees are in effect in Massachusetts, Delaware, Illinois, New York, Connecticut, Pennsylvania, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, Ohio, Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska, South Dakota, Texas, Hawaii and Oregon.

But the strong language law tenure. The law provides that, forbidding strikes by public employees, but teachers and other public employees have struck, threatened to strike and stayed off their jobs for "study sessions" without suffering serious consequences.

Perhaps the most controversial antistrike legislation in New York State.

For many years, New York State had the so-called Condon law on its books, which forbids strikes by public employees. It mandated strike penalties for violators—automatic dismissal, less pay during the strike, and eventually rehire. But over the years, the law was regarded so harsh that the state ignored it as did employees.

SACRIFICE OF ACE PAYS BIG DIVIDENDS

Mayr Jane Farrell of Los Angeles has more Master points than any other woman. She also has more than any except two men.

You don't accumulate all those Master points without being a mighty good bidder, dummy's low trump and a spade with dummy's high trump; or South could have made nine and ensuring his contract, but South tried an inferior line of play.

South in his hand and led a low spade to dummy's jack. East won with the queen and led a third trump. South was back in his hand and drew the last trump.

Mary Jane had no problem with her first two discards on trumps. She could spare a trumps comfortably. The last trump lead was a different proposition. She had to jettison her ace of hearts in order to avoid being end-played, but Mary Jane did just that.

This high card discard sealed South's doom. He cashed his two high spades but the suit did not break. Then he led another spade in hope that the end-play would still materialize, but it didn't.

Mary Jane took her ten of spades and led her low heart to give East two tricks with the king and jack.

Student Emerges From Dim, Topsy-Turvy World

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — John Thomas Zimmerman emerged from his dim, topsy-turvy world Monday and promptly got sick. His world had been topsy-turvy because for three weeks his vision had been through strange-looking glasses that made everything he saw appear upside down and backward. His world had been dim because the glasses afforded only a narrow, barely light-colored field of vision compared with normal vision of about 180 degrees.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Broadcasting Company reported Tuesday it had learned "unofficially" that James Farmer, former national director of the Congress of Racial Equality, would be appointed to succeed Robert F. It would be highly flattering to me in the meantime I continue my congressional race.

Mrs. Frein said she and her husband were wed in a civil ceremony at the courthouse at Annapolis, Md., Monday. The Roman Catholic church forbids marriage by priests.

Defection Of Czech Officer Hurt Defense

BRAGG (AP) — The defection of Maj. Gen. Jan Sejna to the United States more than three months ago hurt Czechoslovakia's defense position because he had accepted "a number of strictly secret facts," according to a government report released Tuesday. The report said Sejna fled because he feared prosecution for fraudulent activities which cost the state more than $30,000.

OUR CROWDED PUBLIC PARKS SYSTEM

Traffic lights may become standard features in our national parks soon if the number of visitors continues to increase at the rate of recent years. The wide-open spaces are quickly getting crowded with, in recent years, lines of cars often waiting to enter the most popular parks. The flow of visitors to the park system is currently 265 million annually, including everything from the big woods to the White House and Arlington National Cemetery—has climbed 150 per cent since 1958. Visitors to the 33 major parks such as Yellowstone, Glacier and Yosemite are up 100 per cent for the same decade.

Resurrection City Is No Place For Children

BY TOM TIEDE
WASHINGTON (NEA)—Leroy Davis, age 10, takes a bite from a baloney sandwich and chews at the bulge in the side of his mouth.
 "Your nose is running," Leroy, somebody says.
 The sandwich is deteriorated from misuse and manipulation. It is flecked with foreign matter. The mustard has soaked through the bread to discolor the crust. But a second bite is eaten, and another; chomp, chomp.

 "Leroy! Your nose!"
 The lad nods, then stuffs the sandwich into his coat pocket. He searches his sleeve for a clear spot and quickly wipes it across his face.
 "Gone now?" he asks.
 "No, why don't you blow it?"
 "Why not?"
 "Well," the boy says, smiling, "I don't got any handkerchiefs."
 On close examination, it is obvious why young Leroy Davis is without a handkerchief these days. He is a child of Resurrection City, the Crusading campground of the poor People's Campaign, and as such he is without many personal essentials, most common comforts, and all luxuries.

When it rains, Leroy gets wet; his plywood roof leaks. When the nights turn cold, Leroy does too; he has only a thin jacket. When his nose runs or his food spatters, Leroy, for want of a tissue, uses his sleeve.
 And the boy is hardly alone. There are several hundred other kids here—in the same fix—or-worse. Some have parents, some don't. Their one common bond is that none of them has much.
 There are infants who, for lack of bathing facilities, are being cleaned with rubbing alcohol. There are howling toddlers collecting splinters from the rows of rough-wood shelters. There are elementary schoolers whose formal education is suddenly over. There are teen-agers who are bored.
 Surely, nobody in Resurrection City has it easy. It's not a rest spa. Its purpose is privation. But the kids, lacking the insight of camp goals, or the strength of camp resolve, are easily the most piteous of the lot.

 Adults here, for the most part, are used to misery. For many of the kids it is new. The shacks they migrated from at least had the embers of home fires and regulation. This new place has nothing but confusion and frustration.
 There is, as example, a sad lack of convenient washing water inside the camp. So much so that many kids now move outside the gates to find relief.
 A number of nearby drinking fountains have been converted into washrooms. Kids brush teeth, clean hands, even wash hair in the fountains.
 On occasion, when accumulations of dirt, neglect and exposure have created very real possibilities of mass disease and illness, the children have been headed into buses and taken to shower and scour at a rea-chures.

 But there's one bright spot: dental and medical care is readily available—and for free. A Resurrection City resident simply walks 50 yards outside the compound to a pair of public health vans.
 Volunteer doctors provide around-the-clock service. If necessary, the afflicted can be sent to one of several Washington hospitals.
 In fact, according to Dr. Arthur Frank, co-chairman of the local chapter of the Medical Committee for Human Rights, Resurrection City people probably receive better medical care than the average Washington resident. "It's right on the spot and there is no cost," he explains.
 "I don't know," grumbles Mrs. Virginia Edwards of Chicago, "this just ain't a fit place for the little ones. They ain't nothing for them to do. The ones I got—just run—round—and around. They gets awful darn dirty here."

 Mrs. Edwards has five children of her own in camp. They live in an enclosed lean-to bordering a reflecting pond. The kids are up at sunbreak and not quiet until near-midnight. Days are very, very long.
 Unfortunately, the father is not around to help shorten anything—He is simply signed.
 Mrs. Edwards says she "ain't seen him in a long time."
 The youngest of the Edwards brood wears diapers, which is a special misfortune in Resurrection City. The mother has only a few diapers on hand, the child soils them "like crazy" and laundry areas are few and far between.
 The baby, Mrs. Edwards admits, "is just dirty" most all ways.
 Some older children here have similar hygienic problems. They are waiting their beds at night by slim. Because it is far easier than getting up and going to the lavatory. Chemical toilets are a half block from many family son quarters.

 And once the beds are wet, they usually stay wet—at least until the air of day dries them out. Sheets and blankets are as tightly rationed as most other things here. Extra household or personal items are sold plentiful.
 A communal-supply depot has been established at the edge of a small truck. She shook her head at personal items are sold for 15 minutes. Finally she took a head and left. It had no wheels. This is the way it is for the children of Resurrection City. This is the way it's supposed to be. Dirty, discomfort, and joy trucks with no wheels.
 It's not much fun.
 As 10-year-old Leroy Davis puts it: "I hope it starts getting warmer pretty soon. Sniff, sniff. Things'll be a lot better when the warm weather comes."

Recently, an Alabama mother visited the distribution center in hopes of finding a toy for her son. She explained that he was getting restless.
 "How about this doll?" an official asked.
 "It ain't got no arms," the woman observed.
 "Here's a strike."
 "It ain't got no pedals."
 "The woman—looked—further. She rummaged through the piles for 15 minutes. Finally she took a small truck. She shook her head and left. It had no wheels. This is the way it is for the children of Resurrection City. This is the way it's supposed to be. Dirty, discomfort, and joy trucks with no wheels.
 It's not much fun.

OUT HERE, BRANDS

are serious

BUSINESS

What's In A Brand Name

One of the basic characteristics of any society since the beginning of time, is the vocabulary of names whereby the products and services which best suit their individual tastes

Brands
"Out there brands is serious business," is what many an old Idahoan would have said while strapping the cattle rustler to a high tree. The grammar may have not been right, but the point was clear.

And today, brands is still serious business. It's the way of the West. From the rough-holtie applied to the back side of a cow to the registered trademarks of many items, the brand is a way of life. People buy things by brand—sweaters, soft drinks, cars and cages.

One of the special editions is brands. Brands of all kinds.

In the Old West, a brand was used to designate the ownership of property. Commonly, the brand was applied to a cow to let the wandering cowpoke know the cow belonged to whom. Brands were in various shapes and sizes, and many were extremely ingenious.

For instance, Diamond Hoof Bar X. One can easily imagine what this brand looked like.

Then there was the brand attached to good whisky like "Old Gum Ticker" and "Mad Tree Stump." Moonshiners liked these brands and by the brand of whisky they made, and if the miners and cowpokes became accustomed to a certain type, they referred to it by brand name when they came into town on a Saturday night.

Then there was the brand of six-shooter the devil-made-care types packed around before the turn of a century. Many low-down polecats learned the brand name of a certain firearm, barrel first.

The brand came to be respected. Brands in later years came in the shape of signatures, such as: "Don't call us, we'll call you," which appeared in the window of some undertaker's shop. It, of course, was not serious but people started talking and they came to the conclusion the undertaker was a man with a sense of humor.

There are others, comical and serious. One place has advertised, "If we make a mistake, we pay for it." They do, too, and the business has had plenty of repeat business.

People in the West and Twin Falls especially stand behind their brands. The Times-News selected brands as the subject of this special edition for that reason.

Out here, brands is serious business.

and requirements can be designed. The growth of this vocabulary, especially in America has reached the gigantic proportions of containing more words than the average vocabulary in ancient times. The names are called "brands" or "brand names," and are readily recognizable by a sign known as a "trademark."

Aside from affording consumers exact precision in indicating the exact combinations of appearance, color, cost range and many other qualities they would desire, the brand names language yields significant economic and social benefits to the societies in which it prevails. The brand system was invented for the makers' identification of his workmanship at the dawn of history, and eventually evolved into laws which required the use of trademarks to protect consumers from inferior workmanship. Now a brand name is a pledge, a promise, a guarantee of good workmanship based on the integrity of the producer.

The principal advantages of this brand system to the consumer are: Responsibility, the knowledge from the beginning of production that it must be held accountable; Incentive, the natural impulse of the manufacturer to make his product better than that of a competing product bearing another name; value, resulting from the economies of quantity production and efficiency of purchasing, made possible through competition in the brand system.

The concentration of manufacturers on giving more and more advantages to consumers, insuring and acknowledging their freedom to choose or reject, from a social standpoint is one of the highest forms of democracy.

It has also brought about the growth of advertising which gives independent reviewing national media, the brand-name system helps guarantee to press and radio freedom from government domination.

Knowledge of brand names and associated trademarks begins in childhood and is steadily augmented during the growing years through advertising and the accumulation of experience. New products are constantly appearing on shelves, sometimes as substitutes for a brand name which has fallen by the wayside, failed to bring about the desired satisfaction or utility.

There are brand names which have at all times been subject to rejection had they failed to keep pace with the changing times. It is impossible to imagine a world today without brands. Economies would crumble, shopping would be an impossibility, quality would decline, since no manufacturer could identify his product.

Throughout history, men have fought for freedom—freedom to worship as they please, to live as they please, to defend their homes and families from those who would destroy those rights. The struggle to maintain economic freedom has been just as intense as the struggle to maintain political, personal and religious freedom. They have been bloodless struggles, but they have been no less significant.

To fully realize the importance of the brand system and its advantages we have tried to trace the evolution of the brand system from the beginning of time to the present day methods of mass merchandising. We must see how a strong brand system is closely linked with other economic developments—communications, distribution, and advertising.

And we must look at the present system even in its infancy suffered from those who would deny the tenets of economic freedom.

16TH CENTURY citizens trusted this mark. It is the mark of a salt processor in 1546. It not only reflected the quality of his merchandise, but, as a personal symbol, it meant he stood behind the quality of the goods he sold.

Trademarks Were Used By Artisans In Middle Ages

Romanticists have pictured the Middle Ages as a period of knights in shining armor jousting on the castle grounds for the hand of one of the lovely ladies of the court, or huge feasts attended by the royalty and nobility of the land, accompanied by singing and merriment.

Historians tell us that the era was filled with war, famine, disease, poverty, filth and violence. Countries were divided into fiefdoms, which were usually at war with each other, and were only in effect as long as the Earl had enough soldiers in the castle and grounds.

The Earl was the fore-runner of the towns that began springing up in large numbers during the thirteenth century. Though they were not too much different than the Earldoms, the townspeople had a good deal more independence than the serf in the countryside.

While the serf was the basis of the community in the Earldom, the artisan played the same role in the town. He was under the influence of a Guild, headed by a Master Craftsman. Every artisan had to belong to a Guild. These Guilds had strict laws governing the production of the artisan's wares.

Guilds were native new in the 14th century; they had been in existence for quite a long time, but with the growth of the towns, their presence became an overlying factor in everyday life. The Guild standards were very strict, and a journeyman was forced to produce his very best. Laws were in evidence requiring artisans to use a trademark, so that if a product was bad, it would be traced back to its maker. As early as 1228 an English law was passed requiring bakers to mark each loaf they made so that if a bad one turned up "it will be known in whom the fault lies."

Even in old Rome soapmakers were fined heavily when caught producing unbranded soaps, and Flemish tapestry workers failed to mark their products suffered the amputation of their right hand; inkeepers who sold unmarked brands were hanged.

These early trademarks usually consisted of a signature for that certain trade and another mark showing the city in which it was produced so it was practically impossible to flout such laws. Each Guild was headed by a Master who was always the best in his trade. He was lord over apprentices, and was responsible for their schooling. Though they were not paid wages, they did receive room and board, and after learning and confined pretty much to a their trade, to the satisfaction of the Master; they received the quarters. Their daily fare consisted of Journeyman, and they could go out and set up their own shop. But even at this stage they were responsible to the Guild, who regulated hours, wages, set the prices for their wares, and the standard of craftsmanship. Our labor unions of today are modeled after the trade guilds of this age.

Daily living in the Earldoms and the towns was a dull existence, at least by our standards, and after learning and confined pretty much to a their trade, to the satisfaction of the Master; they received the quarters. Their daily fare consisted of Journeyman, and they could go out and set up their own shop. But even at this stage they were responsible to the Guild, who regulated hours, wages, set the prices for their wares, and the standard of craftsmanship. Our labor unions of today are modeled after the trade guilds of this age.

Letuce, greens, fresh fruit, and the like were thought dangerous to health, and so they were because the thought of cooking and washing them never entered their minds. Clothes were entirely hand made, which was the past-time of the ladies of the house, and was considered an art among the fashionable and wealthier families. Eventually, clothing became an important part of industry and trade.

The Modern Brand Image

Today's consumer-revolutions, population shifts, rising operational costs, price cutting operations, and private labels are just some of the challenges that have engendered drastic changes in today's merchandising methods. Competition for the consumer dollar is at an all-time high. Manufacturers are spending hundreds of millions of dollars a year on research and development to satisfy the American consumer's insistence on more and more products, improved quality and convenience. These same brand manufacturers are also the champions of this free enterprise system. They provide educational aids to teach young people about such varied subjects as cooking, sewing, manual training, geography, photography, music, physical education, and fashion design, to brighten and reflect the meaning, role, and responsibility of the brand system. Since no commodity is more basic than food, brand marketers are more fascinating than that of its production, processing, and distribution. Our brand-food manufacturers are the best examples of a modern brand image. From the field to the consumer's table, there is a never-ending effort on the part of the brand-food manufacturer to increase quality, economy, and convenience in every product.

measuring, mixing, and a host of other food preparation chores. In every segment of the food industry, convenience is emphasized. From literally thousands of processing plants every day packaged food of all kinds are turned out in convenient form, giving information about the number of servings, direction for use, and even menu suggestions. But this is not enough. The consumers have high standards of quality, taste, and nutrition as well. They want foods that will maintain balanced diets for the family. More and more consumers rely on the processor for balance in the diets of all members of the family, and the nutritive qualities of foods are being increasingly stressed by the processors who enjoy the homemakers' confidence. Marketing a new or improved product is a two-part job. The development of the product, and an evaluation of the potential market for it, with a proper price. The prices established must assure a satisfactory profit and, at the same time, be attractive enough to make consumers want to try it. If the product is right, the price is right, and market seemingly favorable, two more areas of marketing are called into play—advertising and sales promotion. This involves the creation and proper placement of ads in newspapers, magazines, radio, television, billboards, and many other advertising mediums. However, it remains with the consumer to judge the worth of the product, whether it will succeed or fail. Living up to the homemakers' demands—meeting their expectations has been the result of the fierce competition which characterizes the free enterprise system in this country, and the consumer has been the prime beneficiary of the competition not only in the food industry, but in all industries. For years ahead, further research and development promises to have still greater impact on our way of life. Thanks to brand manufacturers and the system they have created, many more opportunities to provide still higher quality and convenience in their products will be available to the consumers of tomorrow.

Wurlitzer Center Will Aid Music

Using the Wurlitzer Electronic Communication Center, one piano instructor can give personalized instruction to each member of a class of 24 students. Each student practices and recites at his Wurlitzer Electronic Piano using earphones. He hears only his own piano and communication from the instructor. The instructor, with the Communication Center installed on her piano, can listen individually to each pupil's playing and give spoken instruction or play musical exchanges for that pupil. She can listen to the student and listen to ensemble playing. Recorded material can also be used in conjunction with the Communication Center. The advantages are enormous. Mixed groups of beginning and advanced can practice and learn in the same room. Practice rooms are quiet, reducing fatigue. Costs are reduced all around. In fact, multiplying teachers by 24 could be the biggest contribution to music education since the Wurlitzer Electronic Piano. Masoner Music Center of Twin Falls is the local Wurlitzer dealer.

Organ Series Is Featured By Hammond

Recently introduced to Hammond dealers through the country was Hammond's new T-200 Series of spinet organs. The new T-series represents the first-time a Hammond tone wheel spinet organ houses the famous two speed Leslie Speaker. The new compact spinets also feature six automatic percussion voices that can be played simultaneously. The new series of organs contain theatre organ presets that provide full, rich orchestral sound, formerly possible only on the old theatre organ. String bass effects can be attained by flipping the string bass tabs, providing the rhythmic beat of a combo. When marimba and xylophone voices are played with reiteration on the T-series, the rhythmic sounds of twin mallets are effectively achieved. Each drawbar on the organ is marked with its footage to indicate the proper pitch of the drawbar. The series is powered by a solid state 34 watt amplifier driving two 12 inch speakers in addition to the Leslie speakers. A built-in telephone standard equipment with all models. The series features five different woods-and-styles including Mediterranean, American provincial, Italian provincial, French provincial, and classic traditional. Included with

Development Of Brands In America Was Slow

The first settlement in the New World, Jamestown, was launched under a communal system. But as history books have recorded, it soon failed because the basic rights of man, competition and choice, became the prevailing precepts of this New World.

A competitive handcraft system took the place of the communal and saved the first settlement from extinction. From this early beginning to the time of the Revolutionary War, the brands and products of England set the economic standards for the new country.

Even today, certain of the old English brands are still in use; among them, Crosse and Blackwell, dating from 1706; Underwood Devil's Stain, dating from 1720; Royal Worcester Porcelains, dating from 1751; and Wedgewood China, dating from 1759.

Brand development in America was slow in starting, for this was a large country with transportation and communication presenting more difficulties than they ever had in England. There were merchants and manufacturers in colonial days, for the most part entrepreneurs with a marketing philosophy of "buy cheap, sell dear, and let the buyer beware." There were traders exchanging American products such as foodstuffs, horses and lumber for English manufactured goods.

Most had little interest in the ultimate disposal of these goods, for they sold to peddlers and country-store-keepers. They thought of immediate profits, after all. If a product sold to a woman in another part of the gigantic country should prove unsatisfactory, she fault could scarcely be traced back to him. The idea of manufacturing a superior product, giving it a brand name, and promotion of its sale to the first customer was foreign to his way of thinking.

Although there were quality manufacturers in early America, Bakers' Chocolate, C. I. & K's Fry's and Seib's Thomas Clocks being among them, their products suffered at the hands of these itinerant peddlers, who also peddled inferior merchandise, and then flew town before they could be attacked by broom-wielding housewives.

It was left to the few quality reliable manufacturers to develop a system to combat the peddlers' unsavory reputations.

Toward the end of the Revolutionary War, the country began expanding, moving westward, opening new and dangerous frontiers. John Jacob Astor began establishing important trading posts in Oregon; Astubon, the future naturalist, sold and traded his wares in Louisville, on the banks of the Ohio River.

The goods, of course, had to travel great distances from the factories of the eastern manufacturers and wholesale merchants, over rugged mountain terrain, and dangerous river routes.

Although to a great extent this merchandise was unbranded, for most manufacturers saw no need in placing their names on their products, some cases of goods were frequently marked for shipping, branded with a hot iron sometimes. Customers thousands of miles away learned to look for these merchant marks and to use them as buying guides. These were among the first American trademarks.

The frontiersman and the Indian, especially, let alone in the origin of their weapons and important tools. The products of a skilled gun-maker were known from one end of the country to the other, and gunsmiths such as Remington, Winchester, and Colt eventually gained a loyal following among the settlers.

Back in the cities, however, customers were more concerned with reliable products that were needed to use a home, such as soap, candies, hats, shoes, cloth, wine, furniture, and silverware. Most of these were originally imported and stored in warehouses owned by the merchants.

But as the country developed, specialist shops appeared, and a craftsman in silver, hats, shoes or cabinets could sell the products of his own craftsmanship. In all these cases, he had his own establishment, and always added his trademark to a finished article.

This era, influenced by the Industrial Revolution, was filled with great innovations which have laid the groundwork for modern merchandising methods, such as mass production, invented by Eli Whitney, who discovered the value of interchangeable parts in guns; also standard pricing adopted by John Wanamaker in Philadelphia in 1855; William T. Blackwell who designed the first consumer package under the name that is still in evidence today, Bull Durham; Aaron Montgomery Ward created the satisfaction guaranteed, or your money refunded slogan, putting mail order houses on a firm footing in 1872.

There were many contributions that virtually revolutionized the modern world of commerce, and laid the groundwork for modern Brand Name merchandising.

Nairobi's 'Supermarket' Would Surprise Americans

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — A Nairobi "supermarket" would surprise American housewives who think of Africa in terms of noisy animals, strange languages and dark jungles.

Gourmets priding themselves on exotic dishes from distant lands at high prices would find Nairobi's supermarket has plenty of variety, and often at lower prices than in America.

More than two dozen countries from around the world are represented in the imported foods.

A sign offers "Italian specialties." And on one shelf is a packaged lasagna dinner from Milano, Pa.

The diet-conscious can find five flavors of Metrecol, and custard mixes not only from Kenya but also from Montrose, Scotland, and White Plains, N.Y. There are cleansers from Cheshire, Scotland, Cincinnati, Ohio, and the Elephant Soap Factory Ltd., Nairobi.

Pushing a cart along the well lighted aisles, one is likely to pass a Norwegian, a U.S. Peace Corps member, a diplomat from Communist China, road builders from Italy; and housewives from more than two dozen countries.

African women in colorful printed dresses, often with a baby on their backs in a sling and Asian women in flowing saris mingle with expatriates in walking shorts.

The selective shopper, with plenty of time, can save money. The "East African" willing to wait roughly 14 U.S. cents. A 20 ounce can of grapefruit sections from Tel Aviv goes for 3.5 shillings. The same sized tin of the same item from Machakos, Kenya—sells for 2.50.

The American housewife finds meat, fruit, and vegetables cheaper than back home but the

Improved Brand System In America

We have seen how the national advertising, Magazine and many trading posts of the Huc- clients advertised on the wait- newspaper advertising probably son's day Company. had more to do with the pro- mously, the traveling peddler, of merchandising than any other, and in locally circulated news- media. Advertising a n d packaging went hand in hand, since the product advertised in the news- papers required identification at the retail level. National Biscuit pioneered the new science of packaging. The freshly-wrapped nationally recognized package drew the attention of the con- sumer. The new method look hold, and local store keepers long accustomed to the open barrel of crackers and the uncovered wheel of cheese, began to lose customers to the city department stores, with their lines of pack- aged branded merchandise. The local storekeeper was forced to clean up his store and stock branded goods, or go out of business. Soon after the department store set the shopping standards for the country, the chain store came into existence. Although the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, founded in 1859, and the Frank W. Woolworth Co., founded in 1879, are most often mentioned as pioneers of the early chain store develop- ment, an average of 50 per cent of their content to na- had its beginnings with the gave an extra boost to the brand system. His tests showed that some items sold better at say 35c than at 35c. There seemed to be no 10 to 1 explanation. Though, some credit for this in- novation is given to a firm known as Willmark, which in its early days provided what was known as "rotters" check- ing the honesty of store clerks. At that time prices were in round figures, and a customer would pay for the item in cor- rect change easily, so the clerk chased on the basis of credit and time payment plans. And finally in 1918, Clarence Saunders, the originator of the Piggly Wiggly Chain experi- ment stores. This, too, was an era of new products—refrigerators, radios, electric appliances, automobiles, and telephones; all introduced to the consumer and pres- ent through national advertising.

Brand System Began During Stone Age

The craftsman ran his thumb over the edge of the flint axe head which he had just completed. It was sharp and heavy-surely the finest axe head he had ever made and it would bring a fine bearskin in return. Carefully he fitted it to the handle, laid it on the anvil and with hammer and other tools which another man would take to a faraway village barter.

The craftsman was crude, his work like the weapons made in other villages, but the flint was of poorer quality, the workmanship was crude and the handles inclined to turn in the hand.

Here, in this Stone Age section of what is now the southern part of England, the flint of all was carried from deep mine shafts; the craftsman had learned his trade from the cave sites. The flint from this village could command the finest trades and would be recognized by warriors from distant lands.

Firm Plans To Work With Organ Line

Hammond Corporation and General Instrument Corporation announce the signing of an agreement providing for the design, development and manufacture of large-scale integrated circuit chips by General Instrument for use in the Hammond Organ line.

These newly developed devices incorporate the advanced integrated circuit technology and contain as many as 450 transistors on a chip smaller than 1,000 of a square inch.

A spokesman said, "Under the terms of the agreement, General Instrument will develop four different large scale integrated circuit chips, using its exclusive metal thick oxide silicon process. The designs of these chips, which are the exclusive property of Hammond Corporation, are the result of mutual research by the engineering departments of the two companies. By late 1968, they will begin replacing thousands of transistors and other components in Hammond organs manufactured at that time."

"The extreme density of the chips will permit many additional musical features in Hammond instruments which previously had not been possible because of technical and cost limitations of semiconductors. The drastic reduction in the number of components in each organ is expected to result in higher reliability performance, sharply reduced cost, and increased consumer satisfaction."

This agreement represents one of the largest applications of the latest stage of the semiconductor science to consumer products. It is expected to pave the way for the use of this concept in many kinds of consumer goods, the Hammond spokesman added.

Bridge Winners

Monday Afternoon Duplicate Bridge Club met at the Episcopal Church with nine and one-half tables in play.

North and south winners were Mrs. K. E. Kall and Mrs. L. J. Robertson, first; Mrs. Margaret McCall and Mrs. J. Kingsbury, second; Mrs. R. R. Williams and Mrs. Jessie M. Husted, third; and Mrs. R. M. Peterson and Mrs. W. P. Haney, fourth.

East and west winners include Mrs. Joe Steiny and Mrs. Alvin Kooček, first; Mrs. John Jahn and Mrs. B. E. Standice, second; Mrs. M. L. Brown and Mrs. Harvey Cook, third; and Mrs. W. H. Newcomer and Mrs. R. J. Skeem, fourth.

Mrs. O. C. Johnson, Duhl, was a new player.

In another part of the world, a Nubian slave toiled in the Egyptian sun, working with mallet and chisel to fashion one of the blocks that would be hauled to the third level of the Great Pyramid—the resting place of the King.

He scratched the forearm across his brow, looked critically at the square pieces of stone. The corners were sharp and true, the surface flat and smooth. It was a good block, and the slave knew his foreman could offer no criticism. His chisel scratched out a tiny mark on the stone.

Ever since one uneven stone had caused a side of the structure to topple and slaves had been required to mark the stones as completed—if an untrue stone should cause another section of the pyramid to fall, the craftsman could be identified and executed on the spot.

The amphora jugs which skin traders brought up in the Mediterranean bear a few trade marks of the Greek wine makers and have enabled archaeologists to trace out a few routes of that early period. From these crude beginnings, buried in the mists of antiquity and revealed signs by diligent and curious specialists, came the brand system as we know it today.

Brands And The Future

As no time in history has the brand system been assailed so on many sides, or for so many reasons. Economists, businessmen, writers, government agencies, and consumers alike have questioned the role of free enterprise in our society.

Major areas of brand concentration developed through the intensified questioning of legislative bodies of the entire brand market, and marketing systems during 1967 alone there were some 200 bills introduced in congress affecting advertising.

All of these challenges are being met by an array of consumer, manufacturers, agencies and publishers, whose jobs and businesses depend on the right of free competition.

These challenges, however, have in fact, been instrumental in creating an awareness of a freedom that has for too long a time been taken for granted—the freedom of choice.

In addition, the knowledge that brand name is the cornerstone of the free enterprise system is accentuated with each national problem that arises.

The early days of the brand competitive system depended almost entirely on the iron-clad ideals of manufacturers and retailers, who at the time, invented new techniques and created their empires. Most innovations were a result of convenience, not consumer demand.

Today and in the future the consumer will reign as King. He will make the demands for new products and innovations, and dictate who is to succeed and who is to fail, through his role as the voter in the market place.

Tomorrow's consumer will be richer. His tastes more cosmopolitan and sophisticated. Furniture designs of Wurlitzer stereo aptly reflect the imaginative, creative ability of award-winning designers R. Gunnar Benson, NSID. Meticulous attention to the smallest hidden detail, as well as to each delicately sculptured line, assure a masterpiece of timeless beauty.

Prototype Of Purifier Is Constructed

Culligan research and development engineers have designed and constructed a prototype of the new Aqua 300 Water Purifier.

This new development may be the forerunner of an entirely new era in water purification. In the Aqua 300 Water Purifier, untreated water is forced by pump through a specially constructed semi-permeable membrane, which acts as a barrier to impurities, but permits water to pass through. Cloudiness, sediment, undesirable dissolved minerals, organic matter, detergent, bad taste, odor, and offensive color are filtered from water by the purifier.

The Aqua 300 prototype is a full sized working model of a product which Culligan plans to market in the future. The unit, 33 inches wide, 40 inches high and 27 inches deep was constructed for the purpose of obtaining laboratory and field test evaluation.

The Aqua 300 is designed to produce sufficient purified water for the average family, about 300 gallons per day, and is capable of treating brackish or salty water supplies containing up to 5,000 parts per million of dissolved minerals, reducing this mineral content to less than 500 parts per million.

The Brand System Goes To War

Having won his position, the brand manufacturer was now forced to defend it. He had never found the going easy, but had struggled successfully against such obstacles as the slyster peddlers, lack of advertising, lack of distribution, and lack of recognition until finally the path seemed smooth.

But their out of the East came the bombs that fell on Pearl Harbor setting off the greatest war the world has ever known, and likewise incurring drastic changes in our economic system.

Manufacturers of household appliances became manufacturers of arms and munitions and gas masks. Factories from coast to coast were converted to wartime production, and never before dreamed of and American production fought the war.

The brand names that had become household words were in scarce supply and the companies kept their memories alive by patriotic wartime advertising. Who will ever forget "Lucky Strike Green Has Gone to War?" Most advertisements gave space to campaigns asking for blood or selling bonds.

However, the brand system was not only forced to go to war in the South Pacific and Europe but right here at home as well. The threat came from a government bureau—the Office of Price Administration.

In 1943, the OPA introduced a bill designed to foster grade labeling on three industries in the apparel field. Under the grade labeling system, merchandisers would be government branded—perhaps A, B, and C. There would be no indication of the manufacturer, and pledge of quality.

The congressmen, newspapers, and manufacturers took violent objection to this bill. And the furor grew to white heat later in the year when the grade labeling suggestion was extended to the food field.

The free press went to bat for the American brand system that was responsible for their freedom. An editorial from a Chicago newspaper read in the House and preserved in the Congressional Record, said in part: "Grade Labeling is the darling of the communists. According to their theory, all that is necessary to identify goods is to require canners to label their products as meeting specified standards, and the housewife can then purchase according to the limitations of her kitchen budget."

From a Pennsylvania newspaper, came this outburst: "Grade Labeling is an Office of Price Administration device to eliminate brand names. In principle, it is vicious . . . The great trouble with the shallow-pated economists is that they never think things through. American newspapers and magazines have stood in the way of their disastrous theories for the past decade."

While the congressmen and newspapers spent the better part of 1943 protesting heightened governmental tactics, twelve members of the Apparel Industry formed a plan of action.

By early 1944, the Brand Names Research Foundation was an operating reality, with its original membership dedicated to defending the American system of brands, and fighting down government attempts to fasten compulsory grade-labeling on the nation's products.

They were soon joined by such industrial giants as Bristol Meyers, Quaker Oats, Helms, Procter and Gamble, Radio Corporation of America, John B. Stetson, and Cluett Peabody. This, added to the violent reaction of retailers, the press, and the public, was the driving force that defeated the offensive OPA bill.

The St. Louis Hawks beat the New York Knickerbockers in six out of seven basketball games last season. The Hawks had the same success with Cleveland.
