LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Water levels in some south-east Michigan lakes—swelled to the flood point by several days of severe thunderstorms—are so high that fast-moving boats are sending water across living room floors, says the Michigan Conservation Department.
James A. Hudley, head of the department's boat and water safety section, said the water may take three to four weeks to recede to normal levels. In the meantime, he said, it is illegal to operate a boat in such a manner as to damage property.

Mr. Mendiola has been in the clothing business for many years. Claude wishes to invite his friends and customers to Roper's. He knows they will be pleased with the complete stocks of nationally known men's clothing, sportswear, outdoor clothing and shoes, adv.

Nixon Is Nearing First Ballot Win

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has nearly three-quarters of the 687 delegates required for a first-ballot Republican presidential nomination, counting only delegates who had taken a stand in public. Assuming Sen. John G. Tower was as he believed, taking most of the 56-vote Texas delegation along with his shift from favorite son status to the Nixon column, the former vice president would be over the three-quarter mark. With Texas listed uncommitted pending an individual count, a tabulation by The Associated Press showed Nixon with 422. The count covered only delegates assigned to Nixon by presidential primary vote pledged at the time they were selected, or picking him in an AP poll.
New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller trailed on the same basis at 192.
Both had a pool of 317 delegates backing favorite sons and 309 who were at least ostensibly uncommitted to work on before roll call at the convention opening in Miami Beach Aug. 5.
Fewer than 100 of the 1,333 Republican delegates remained to be selected.
In a similar AP tabulation Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey had 640 votes to 401 for his Democratic rival, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy.
Democratic convention beginning in Chicago Aug. 26 it takes 1,312 to win.
The Democratic competitors had an even longer list of fence-sitters to cultivate. There were 514 votes back of favorite sons and an outsized pool of 711 otherwise uncommitted.
The big group in the latter category were 151 in California who still had not taken a new stand since the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy freed them of a primary election commitment, 103 in Illinois mostly waiting on word from Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley, and 992 in New York, including 492 whose stand had not been determined since they were picked in state convention. Dozens of other former Kennedy delegates were also uncommitted.
The Democrats were still some 300 shy of having their 2,662 convention seats filled.
AGENT DIES
NORWALK, Conn. (AP) — Richard Manney, 76, writer and press agent who represented the musical hit "My Fair Lady" and many stage notables over a period of 22 years, died Sunday night. Manney, considered the dean of Broadway press agents, was author of "Fanfare: Confessions of a Press Agent," published in 1957.

Those VC Rockets

Not only have the Viet Cong contemptuously ignored the possibility of antagonizing world opinion with their rocket strikes on civilian areas of Saigon, they have pledged to continue them. One waits, apparently in vain, for cries of outrage at such acts of deliberate terror which have no relationship to questions of military necessity. Hanoi's representatives in Paris reject stern U.S. warnings with references to having shown under U.S. bombing that the North Vietnamese are not easily intimidated. The killing of South Vietnamese civilians in Saigon will cease, they say, when the United States withdraws her troops from South Vietnam. Apparently, like the town that had to be destroyed in order to save it, South Vietnamese civilians will be delivered from the clutches of Army troops, even if that deliverance has to be their deaths at the hands of their Viet Cong liberators. Hanoi ignores at her peril Ambassador Averell Harriman's warning that such attacks endanger the discussions in Paris. The first condition for the start of those talks, a bombing halt in North Vietnam, was imposed by President Johnson at the end of March over firm objections of some of his advisers and members of Congress. There may be little likelihood that resumption of the bombing of North Vietnam could have significant effect of these acts of terror against Saigon. But voices are being raised in support of such a resumption. It could become impossible for President Johnson to resist demands that he renew the bombing, simply out of a growing public frustration with the terror being rained on Saigon's people and the wish for some form of retribution. The Hanoi vow to continue bombing Saigon civilians suggests that the North Vietnamese either mistake America's position as one demonstrating a desire to get out of Vietnam at all costs or see little hope after all for the Paris talks. If that is the case, the increasingly frequent rocket explosions in Saigon's populous areas could be only the prelude to a noisy collapse of the fragile bridge in Paris, plunging Vietnam into the abyss.

The Law Is Only Paper

Whatever legal codes are written in Washington and the states as a result of the agonizing controversy over private guns, there is one point on which all sides agree—the need for lawless enforcement. Laws alone are only paper and paper alone prevents nothing. Swift judicial punishment is the only hope of keeping arms from society's misfits. Several nations of the world can serve as negative examples. Mexico, for one, has tight regulations governing the sale of both pistols and rifles. A government blessing is needed for purchase of either. But the black market gun traffic in that nation is virtually unchecked. Even legitimate stores sell weapons, no questions asked. Canada is another case. It has national hand gun control, but because it is the United States, it is a nation steeped in frontier individualism, there is little sympathy for controls and so illegal gun flourish. New York City is an example closer to home. There, private arms are sold under Sullivan Act regulation. Police permission is a must. Nonetheless, police admit that every crook in town has got a gun and, by the same token, every respectable citizen has a gun. In each case, the reason for wholesale gun abuses is almost the same: a visible absence of public enforcement. Lawbreakers in London, France and Toronto are aware of this apathy and take a merciless advantage. The absurdity of such meekly supported laws should be especially obvious to Americans. It's been only a few decades since Prohibition was a national joke and syndicate run runners were folk heroes. It is not out of the question that a recent history: the warning is that any new gun legislation must be coupled with police vigilance, court diligence and public maintenance. If we are to avoid backsliding on the social scale,

FARM EXPORTS The other day Mr. Spector received an interesting note from Senator Jordan in Washington, D.C. To those who are for or against Idaho's foreign trade or who contend that it is good or not good for the state's economy it will be interesting. The figures come from the Commerce Department, according to the Senator, and they must be taken into account in any effort to form a meaningful and justifiable attitude toward the subject. This Commerce Department report reveals that in fiscal year 1965-66, Idaho's share in exports of farm products was estimated at $60.9 million. Agricultural exports were equivalent to $117 for each resident of the state during this period, placing Idaho seventh among the states on a per-capita basis. The increase of 23 million dollars accounted for over 16 percent of our state's cash receipts from farm markets. Exports abroad of wheat, Idaho's principal farm export, were valued at $45.8 million; those of feedgrains, at $10.8 million. The state was second only to California in exports of vegetable and fruit preparations, with trade valued at $10.7 million. Idaho's exporters expanded sales of manufacturers to foreign markets by 74 percent to a level of $20.9 million in the period 1965-66. The increase of $3 million was about evenly divided between 1965-63 and 1963-66. The report did not attempt to analyze the effects on Idaho of imports of meat, dairy products, dairy substitutes, sugar, or wool.

PROTECTION FOR THE LEGISLATURE The Idaho Citizens Committee on the Legislature has been working on recommendations in the rough draft of its report due this year, a suggestion that uniformed security guards be stationed in the legislative chamber. The reasons should be now be obvious. There must be some protection against those who choose to strike out against society's strongest arm. The recommendation is, in anything, overdue. The worst could have happened by now. But it is a shame. The informality of the Idaho Legislature has been one of its charms. Public contact with the lawmakers has always been easy. Some of that may be forfeited if the recommendation is adopted as it should be. There is little in the past history of the Idaho Legislature to indicate security is needed. There have been a few hot fights over the years, but mostly between legislators incapable of harming each other.

And the only real violence the House and Senate chambers have seen has been that done to the law structure and other good laws. But the worst could happen. Armed crooks stalked into the California Legislature last year and did not know better to close the barn door before rather than after. However, in the process of walling out the unwanted, you must also erect some barriers against everyone else. The ease with which reporters, lobbyists and citizens in general contact the lawmakers during a session will be rendered slightly more inconvenient if this necessary recommendation is followed. But there is probably no avoiding it. It is only one of dozens of restrictive safeguards that will be erected under a recognition of the fact that, among 20 million lawful citizens, are inevitably a few mental basket cases. The assassins have not only killed some of our leaders, but they have also compromised our way of life. Lewiston Tribune

WASHINGTON—The so-called "Poor People's Campaign" is turning out to be a creditable force for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. While the loudly proclaimed "Resurrection City" drive and "Resurrection City" peters out in a wallow of mud, robberies, assaults and other violence, glaring bungling and chaos, SCLC coffers apparently are being enriched by some $250,000—and the total may run as high as $1 million. That's the estimate of congressional investigators who are trying to get at the bottom of SCLC finances and operations. They are encountering many obstacles and barriers. As a non-profit organization, SCLC files no reports. Its officials, including the late Dr. Martin Luther King, have long refused to volunteer any information about the organization's affairs. They claim they receive no salaries, but refuse to reveal how their activities are financed. It's assumed that it does through expense accounts. But on what basis and how much is also conjectural. But from various sources both in and outside of SCLC, the following has been learned regarding the "Resurrection City" drive. But insiders bemoaningly hint they "ran into six figures." The volume of mailed contributions has dropped off considerably since the mud-mired and increasingly disorderly shantytown was shut down. But some money is still coming in daily. How much, of course, is unknown. U.S. taxpayers also contributed slightly to SCLC's propaganda operation. It will be some time before the full amount will be known. Costs are still being incurred—in dismantling "Resurrection City," packing and storing materials and abandoned personal possessions, including television sets, radios, fans and other electrical appliances; providing food and veterinarian care for the animals of the "mule train"; emergency police and national guard expenses; and other charges. Preliminary estimates indicate the total cost to taxpayers will be around $5 million. Senator Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee in charge of the District of Columbia's annual budget, has still-incomplete figures showing the cost to taxpayers of the capital alone will be more than $60,000. On June 14, Rev. Ralph Abernathy, now serving a 20-day sentence for unlawful assembly at the Capitol, told newsmen the "Poor People's Campaign" had cost SCLC $1.5 million and that contributions totaled only $1.3 million. The SCLC leader carefully did not explain how he arrived at either figure. When pressed by reporters, he merely said "I mean only changing the subject." There was good reason for Abernathy's touchy silence. Contributions undoubling to $1.3 million, and then some, hardly how much may never be known. But how Abernathy could claim that SCLC had spent 1.5 million on the "Poor People's Campaign" is a mystery. Its plywood and canvas shanties were provided by various companies, groups and organizations—all while the residents and other demonstrators were fed by the government, churches and numerous others. And so much clothing was donated that huge piles were left behind for the government to store or dispose of. The only known SCLC expenses were: Hotel and motel charges for Abernathy and numerous other SCLC officials and their families. None of them spent a night in "Resurrection City." They lived in the best hotels, ate in the best dining places, and shopped in the best stores. At one motel alone they paid a bill of $20,000. Mrs. Abernathy and a group of SCLC wives bought dresses in one of Washington's most expensive stores. Three trucks and nine automobiles purchased at the cost of $100,000 to provide transportation for the SCLC officials and, on some occasions, shantytown demonstrators. The 12 vehicles were paid for in cash.

It's Five Steps To The Moon

WASHINGTON—Despite those massive budget cuts in funds for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, America's space scientists are going ahead with a five-step plan to beat the Russians to the moon next year. Step one of their plan will be the first manned Apollo flight tentatively set for September 20—or approximately six weeks before the crucial 1968 presidential election. Tagged "Apollo 7," the flight will test the refurbished command section of the Apollo moon lander. This new spacecraft will be flown in earth orbit for the first time by a crew of three astronauts—Don Eisele, the command pilot, Walter Schirra, and Walter Cunningham. The trio are to spend at least 10 days in orbit getting the feel of the cabin, checking out Apollo's control and communication systems. The new fireproof cabin, which the North American Aviation has been working on for the past 15 months, has nonflammable materials installed, the new quick-opening hatch, cabin emergency oxygen, and a portable fire extinguisher. The safety devices are designed to avert another tragic fire like the one that took the lives of three astronauts in February 1967. If all goes well Step 2 will follow later this year, according to the time schedule given the House Space Committee by Dr. George Mueller, associate director of the U.S. manned space flight program. This crucial test will involve the launching of the complete moon lander, including the small "buglike" vehicle designed for landing on the moon and taking off. The "space taxi," as it is called, will be carried into space during Step 2, it will not be tested under its own power until later flights. During the November flight, a second space crew, consisting of Astronaut James McDivitt, Dave Scott, and Ed S. Schweickart, will again limit their flight to the earth orbit. The 10-day journey is designed to gather further information on the operation of the Apollo moon lander. The full dress-rehearsal for the 500,000-mile trip to the moon and back will come in Step 3 with the launching of Apollo 8 in 1968 if all goes as planned. A third crew of astronauts—Frank Borman, Michael Collins, and William Anders—will take a second complete Apollo vehicle out to distances of 4,000 miles from earth. The crew will then swing their spacecraft back toward earth to study the tricky maneuver necessary for a safe return home on a lunar flight path. If no serious problems develop in that flight, preparations for Step 4—the first manned flight into moon orbit will get underway. Data for that historic flight is now tentatively set for June 1969—or just a year from now. Under present plans, there will be an attempt to land on the moon during this flight. Instead, the three-man crew will orbit high around the moon and lower its surface to an altitude of 60 miles—or possibly even lower. One of the main goals of the moon program has been successfully completed, a moon landing flight—or Step 5—will be authorized by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. The flight plan will then be sent to the next president of the United States for his approval, since it will involve a number of risks. The three-man crew for this journey won't be picked until next year. Members of the three astronaut moon teams will get their first choice for the assignment. In Step 4, the Apollo moon lander will be launched into orbit around the moon for a 10-day journey. Then two of the astronauts will be detached from the orbiting moonship and will use their own lander to descend to the lunar surface. They will make a short exploration of the moon surface, then will use the lander to return to the third U.S. astronaut for the moon landing. The 32,000-pound, two-stage "space taxi" is 10 feet in diameter and 20 feet tall, with four legs and metal landing pads. NASA scientists say its importance cannot be overestimated. In carrying out the moon landing, not only must this Apollo piggyback craft take two men down to the moon's surface; it must get them back to the command craft. Although no details of the Soviet moon program have been given, U.S. intelligence sources say the Russians also appear to be stalling for a moon landing in 1969. JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

About The Visit

(Conclusion) Continuing yesterday's comment, how can I use the visit to a sick friend, let's pick up at the third rule. RULE THREE: Don't visit too long. A short visit makes you more welcome next time. If it seems like an effort to travel a long distance for a short visit—well, you're doing it for your own sake or for the pleasure of the patient? Even a brief visit can make a whole afternoon brighter for a patient. An overlong visit can tire him. How do you want him to feel about having another visit? Keep your visits short. RULE FOUR: Don't express your concern. Or should I say "worry"? There are some subtle but important distinctions here. A patient doesn't want, and shouldn't have to combat—dire warnings of what may happen to him, and the risk he is running. His serious illness has been the end for others. But neither does he want any forced cheerfulness which seems to make light of the seriousness of his illness. On the one hand, I can wholeheartedly approve of the mother in the London flight, who told her youngster, "Oh, that was just a little bomb," and thereby comforted him. But if you tell a heart-attack patient, "Oh, a heart attack doesn't amount to much," he'll know you are a fool. As a said, it's a matter of subtle distinctions. But I can't resist mentioning one last distinction, visitor, who always thought of something nice to say, something encouraging, and at the end of her remark had a habit of rolling her eyes, as if to indicate slight scorn to say, "I've dutifully conveyed you—'but, oh, dear!" RULE FIVE: If you can't be helpful or cheerful, don't visit. When I was quite ill, a clergyman came in and stood at the foot of the bed, saying, "a word, maybe he was saying a silent prayer for my salvation, I don't know, but the situation really was embarrassing, and awkward, and I have never forgotten it. Eventually he said something or other and left, and I was left in a lather. A book or a row of a magazine can express one's sympathy cheerfully. Sometimes a patient likes to have a visitor read to him. Sometimes one can be more genuinely helpful to the family rather than to the patient himself—running errands, helping with the dishes, taking them to the hospital, and so on. A visit to the sick requires tact. It can be uplifting and comforting—or it can be depressing or a complete bore. Dear Dr. Molner: Do you have a complete list of your booklets that you could send me?—S. Yes, I'll be happy to send such a list to you, but please send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the list. Periodically new ones are published. In answer to you, so you may want a new list. Dear Dr. Molner: My husband is a mole—has been since he was small, but now 13 years later, it is about the size of a Pinto bean and suddenly got black like a piece of coal in the middle, and the rest of the mole also has some small bumps all over his body under the skin, and one of them hurts and the others itch. Should he see a doctor? Skin doctor or family doctor?—M.M. Skin doctor—or any doctor. But get him in one as fast as you can. This could be trivial, but it also could be ominous, and he should be examined without delay. Dear Dr. Molner: I have a scrotal hernia and would like to have it repaired, but don't feel that I can be idle for four months. What is your advice?—S.P.P. I'm afraid that you would have to be idle for four months unless there are special circumstances which you have not indicated. Discuss with your doctor whether or not a hernia operation would be necessary. Such hernias, when they become bothersome, should not be rejected. "You Can Stop Sinus Trouble!" is the title of my booklet explaining what sinus trouble really is, and how you can suffer to do something about it. For a copy write to Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper, 1000 North 10th Street, Boise, Idaho. Enclose a stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling. Dr. Molner is happy to receive readers' questions, and whenever possible uses them in his column. However, due to the great volume of mail received daily, Dr. Molner's replies cannot answer letters individually.

The Issue Is Capitalism

WASHINGTON—Despite their emphasis on the draft and the Vietnam war, Students for a Democratic Society leaders say they are not in the least concerned about the function of capitalist economic interests. And we would show that our country's problems cannot be solved within existing political, economic and social institutions because they are essential elements of those institutions. We affirm the necessity of violent revolution. JIM BEAM BOURBON—MAKING NEWS SINCE 1795

CLERMONT, KY.—173 years ago Jacob Beam started making Beam Bourbon here in Kentucky. It is still being made here today. And still it's the Beam.

Along with inspired skills the making of a Bourbon like Beam requires an unusual combination of land, climate and natural materials. And it's all here, in north-central Kentucky.

There's the ancient, underlying limestone springs that supply sweet, clear water—a vital ingredient in the making of fine Bourbon.

The rich, fertile surrounding valleys and plains provide the neepest corn, rye and barley.

And there's the skill of the men who know how to make a Bourbon like Beam.

Authority Expires On Unit That Cuts Excess Profits

WASHINGTON (AP)—The excess profits, and claims that its authority of the Renegotiation-existence has spurred contractors to voluntarily return amount agency empowered to recover $1.3 billion.

The board did not act on an out of business when its authorization this week while a bill to renew it remained table in the Senate Finance Committee.

Since its organization 17 years ago, the Renegotiation Board has recovered $952 million in excess profits.

Negro Becomes Head Of School Board In L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Rev. James Edward Jones, a veteran civil rights worker, is the first Negro president of the Los Angeles City Board of Education.

The Rev. Mr. Jones, 52, a Presbyterian pastor and former professor at Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, was elected unanimously Monday by the seven-man board.

He participated in the March 9, 1965, protest march in Selma, Ala., and is active in counseling for gang leaders in the Los Angeles area.

Act for three years. The Senate Finance Committee discussed the measure in executive session June 12 then set it aside until "additional information" was gathered.

The committee spokesman said Monday that much of the information, which concerned exceptions from the act's jurisdiction, had been obtained but that the committee probably couldn't resume work on the bill until next week. If the act is renewed, he said, it would be retroactive to June 30.

"As long as the act is renewed soon and as long as that renewal is retroactive, we should be okay," said Chairman Hartwig in an interview.

The Renegotiation Board was set up under the Renegotiation Act of 1951 for two years to examine profits from the Korean War. The act has been renewed seven times, each time for two years.

Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez, D-Tex., who led a House fight this year to renew and strengthen the board, has estimated that for every dollar the board has spent, it has returned $13 to the Treasury.

"As it was constituted under the old act, the board has jurisdiction over companies which do in excess of $1 million in renegotiable sales a year to the

Tobacco Industry Is Under New Attack

WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco industry is under attack again from the U.S. Public Health Service, which says recent findings indicate heavy cigarette smoking can, on the average, shorten life more than eight years.

The PHS findings dovetailed with new recommendations by the Federal Trade Commission urging laws to ban all cigarette advertising on television and radio.

Both agencies submitted their findings Monday in separate reports to Congress.

Three of the five FTC members called for the prohibition on all TV and radio advertising, but said if this wasn't done, then cigarette advertising on television and radio should be limited as to the hours at which it may appear, the extent to which it may appear, and the types of programs on which it may appear.

The three majority FTC members, Philip Elman, Mary Gardner Jones and James Nicholson, were joined by the remaining two commissioners, Chairman Paul Rand Dixon and A. Everette MacIntyre, in recommending a new and tougher warning on all cigarette packages, which would also be required in all advertising.

This would read: "Cigarette smoking is dangerous to health and may cause death from cancer and other diseases." The only warning now reads: "Caution, Cigarette smoking may be hazardous to your health." It is required to be shown on cigarette packages only.

The PHS report said that findings made since its original report attacking smoking in 1964 show strong evidence that heavy smoking can reduce life expectancy by more than eight years on the average. A light smoker takes a loss of four years of the expectancy, the report stated.

In addition, the Health Service declared there is evidence of contributory links between cigarette smoking and heart disease.

There was no immediate reaction from the tobacco industry. A spokesman for the American Tobacco Institute said there would be no comment until the reports had been examined. In the past, the tobacco industry claimed there was no cause-effect connection between cigarette smoking and disease. The television and radio network, which would be hit economically by a ban on advertising, generally declined comment pending study of the reports.

But Mutual Broadcasting System President Robert Pauley said: "Every advertiser should have the right to advertise. It should be up to the individual medium... I don't think it's something that should be legislated."

Chief Rabbi Of Moscow Likes U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — The Chief Rabbi of Moscow, who left here Monday after a two-week visit to the United States, says he is looking forward to coming back.

Rabbi Yehuda Leib Levin told about 20 persons at Kennedy Airport that his reception here had been "with love and greatest honor," and said, "I pray to God that I will have the strength and health to return."

Rabbi Levin, 74, drew mixed reactions during his stay. In his first public appearance here, he was hoisted off the stage by Hunter College audience when he said there was no official anti-Semitism in the Soviet Union.

The bearded rabbi is the spiritual leader of 500,000 Orthodox Jews in the Soviet Union. He left on a plane for Montreal en route to Moscow.

SEVERAL REMAINING buildings in the pioneer town of Rocky Bar still stand. This picture, taken at the "center" of the community, looks toward the road that leads over the mountains to Atlanta. Rocky Bar is on the list of pioneer areas to be visited by members of the Twin Falls County Historical Society.

TWO BURIAL grounds were in use in the Rocky Bar area during the "old days." This monument over the grave of a pioneer, of that area is cut from a single piece of wood. The cemetery is one of the points of interest which will be visited by the touring group of the Twin Falls County Historical Society, July 13.

Twin Falls County Historical Group To Sponsor Tour Of Rocky Bar Area

Members of the Twin Falls County Historical Society have planned for an ambitious overnight trip that will take them into the Fairfield, Featherstone and Rocky Bar historical areas July 13 and 14.

According to plans the members, as well as friends or any person interested in such a tour, will meet at the Fairfield city park on Saturday, July 13, for an outdoor lunch. The tour will start from that point, and participants will furnish their own transportation and food.

At Fairfield, Luther Koonce will be narrator and he will accompany four participants. An overnight stay will be at Featherstone where cabins will be available by reservation. There will also be room there for overnight parking of trailers or campers.

The morning and afternoon of Sunday will be spent in the County Historical Society and Rocky Bar areas and also will include a trip to Trinity Lakes. The return trip to Twin Falls will be made by way of Anderson Ranch Dam and the town of Pine.

Inspection tours will be made at the cemetery at Fairfield and the two burial grounds at Rocky Bar.

Airways In Britain Will Resume Work

LONDON (AP) — The British Overseas Airways Corp. plans to start flying again at dawn Wednesday following the end of a two-week strike by its 1,000 pilots.

Officials said priority would be given to flights to New York, Canada and West Africa. They said it probably would take a week for operations to return to normal.

The pilots agreed today to go back to work and resume negotiations under an independent chairman appointed by Minister of Employment Barbara Castle. The pilots want their pay figured on the same scale used by American airlines, according to the weight and speed of the planes and the routes they fly.

BOAC lost nearly $1.5 million in revenue during the strike.

There was no immediate reaction from the tobacco industry. A spokesman for the American Tobacco Institute said there would be no comment until the

Rupert July 4 Celebration Slated

RUPERT—The naming of the 1968 Rupert rodeo queen during the annual July 4 rodeo will conclude the 42nd annual Rupert Rodeo and July 4 celebration.

The title will be bestowed on one of four contestants who have been undergoing judging since June 23, when they were judged on riding ability and general appearance. Those competing are Margaret Lee, Gail Stoller, Marsha Haltson and Cody Baker. The winner will be named that evening.

Two attendants to the 1968 rodeo, Gaye Wilferth, also will be named that evening.

Prior to the concluding rodeo Thursday, a parade will be conducted through downtown Rupert, beginning at 11 a.m. The parade will start at the corner of C and 6th Street, travel around the square down past the courthouse, and back to E Street. Street sports will follow.

Pari-mutuel horse racing, held every afternoon this week, will conclude Thursday also. The Monday-killed two Salt Lake races and the rodeo are held at the Minidoka County Fairgrounds in Rupert.

Specialty acts are provided by J. W. Stoker, Kansas, who presents black light roping in a dedication to his performing horses.

The Cassia County Mounted

Sherrill's Pass will perform during Thursday's rodeo.

Concession stands have been set up along the north side of the Rupert Square by local organizations and will operate through Thursday, as will the Inland Empire Carnival. The carnival is located near the train depot in Rupert.

Highlighting the past two weeks' activities, in addition to the rodeo queen judging, was the annual Chuck-Wagon Jamboree, held Saturday at the Rupert Civic Building. Stew beans, apple pie and coffee were served. Following the food, the Turner and her group entertained.

They were followed by the Alice Eastwood Benche Orchestra from Pocatello which played for dancing.

Race Leader Sees Wrong Directions

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Civil rights leader W. L. Ussery says Negroes "may find they're going 100 miles-an-hour in the wrong direction."

And ways of reversing this trend may be a key item on the agenda of the five-day national convention of the Congress of Racial Equality opening Wednesday and Friday, the organization's national chairman.

The 39-year-old official from San Francisco said in an interview Monday that more jobs and better education for Negroes alone will not end racial injustice.

"Because 5 per cent of the households control over 50 per cent of the wealth," Ussery said, "we are only destined to be more sophisticated slaves or drones in the American military industrial complex, regardless of how much education we get."

Negro politicians have not been responsive to the needs of black communities because they were not elected by black people, he added.

"It's entirely possible that we could have a black political party responsible to the black community and not a melting pot constituency," Ussery said.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I never thought I would be writing to you, but I need an impartial listener, and I am desperate. I have a son, 12, and a daughter, 10, who are very lovely children, but they are very needy, not by choice. My difficulties started last year when my father-in-law died and Mom asked me if she could be our day-time baby-sitter to keep busy and supplement her income. We thought it was a wonderful idea as we would all more at ease with grandmother, looking after the children instead of a stranger. What a mistake! We learned too late that Mom is hospitalized by the television she turns it on the minute she walks in, and it stays on until I come home from work. In the meantime, the two little ones have been tearing the house apart from one end to the other. Mom lets them do anything they please, and you know that is not good. I have tried to talk gently with her, and so has my husband, but it hasn't helped. The situation keeps growing worse. I would like to get someone else in to look after the children, but how can I without hurting Mom? She would feel unwanted, and I would feel cruel and heartless and guilty. Please help me find a solution, if there is one. DESPERATE

I think, better than continuing the way you are.
DEAR ABBY: For 20 years I've lived next door to a family with five children. Mr. Shimo and Mrs. Shimo and their husband belong to the same lodge, and they fish together. Mrs. Shimo and I are also very good friends. My husband is a sergeant on the police force. Recently Shimo's son came home from college and threw a big party in the backyard. I'll bet there were 100 kids there. The party got ruly and wild so the elderly couple on the other side of the Shimos called the police. Well, Mr. Shimo (Sr.) got smart and told the patrolman that he had better watch his step because his best buddy was a police sergeant, so the patrolmen called for the "best buddy" who happened to be my husband. Mr. Shimo (now very drunk) cursed the patrolmen, so they treated him with my husband's consent. All the neighbors were watching. My husband had no choice but now none of the neighbors will even speak to us. Abby, who was wrong? Should we apologize to WIFE?
DEAR WIFE: Your husband did the right thing, and if the Shimos and your neighbors became angry with your husband for doing his duty, shame on them. Mr. Shimo should apologize to your husband for having put him on the spot.
DEAR ABBY: I can't thank you enough for telling me to forget all those reasons I gave you for not wanting to go to our family doctor to see if I was pregnant or not. I took your advice and went, and he told me I wasn't pregnant. Boy, was I ever relieved. And Abby, I am glad that you told me that dressing the way I did was just setting myself up for rape. I never realized before that those mini-skirts and red-trim blouses with nothing on underneath could give the guys the idea that a girl was willing to do anything. Thank you very much, Abby—I will always love and respect you.

Strawberry Pie
 Wash and stem three pints of strawberries. Cut large berries in half. Cover with one cup sugar and let stand one hour, stirring occasionally. Drain and measure juice to make one and one-half cups liquid. Stir three and one-half tablespoons corn starch, one-eighth teaspoon salt and a little liquid in smooth paste. Cook over low heat until thick and clear, about 10 minutes. Add vanilla and let cool. Fill baked pie shell with drained berries and pour thickened juice over all. Serve with whipped cream and whole berries. (Note: This recipe is good with peaches and other fruits.) (The Times-News will pay $5 each week for the best recipe submitted for Magic Valley Favorites. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor, and let stand one hour. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.)

A Column for Sports Fans

By Bob Reese

Usually when great horse races are remembered, they have to do with racing's Triple Crown, the Kentucky Derby, the Preakness and Belmont.

But in 1966 the race of the year was the great and the greatest being the 1966 Kentucky Derby.

It took place in the Arlington Park racetrack in Chicago, Ill. And the horse, that was it didn't even run in the Triple Crown race!

The horse was Buckaroo. The five-year-old had suffered a quarter crack only in the year, but he had a very good recovery. By June he had healed, but his chance for a big year seemed lost.

Then came Arlington Underdog's brilliant Buckaroo finished the mile time in 1:42.2 and 3/4. Before the year was over Buckaroo won 13 races in a row, and became the first 3-year-old millionaire ever, with earnings of $1.2 million.

If a rough evening is giving you a bad attitude, you can cheer up your next one by seeing with our special June-up. Come in for factory-trained service to keep your car running its best.
