National Death Toll Mounting, 200 Mark Passed

By The Associated Press. The traffic death toll, during the long Independence Day holiday weekend passed the 200 mark today. The total number of fatalities across the nation midway through the second day of the four-day holiday period stood at 216. Although showers dampened parts of the Southeast and portions of the midcontinent, dry weather offered good driving conditions over most of the country for the Fourth of July and today. The National Safety Council has estimated that 700 and 800 Americans may die in motor vehicle accidents in the weekend that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Reunion

It was almost like the early days of the Twin Falls. Many members of the Perry family were at a picnic at the side of Blue Lakes and the time was July 4. Twenty-four family members were present for the festivities. Like most July 4 celebrations it was on the "high" side but there were also moments of serious remembering about the "old days."

Ray May Plead Innocent, Alabama Lawyer Reports

LONDON (AP) — Alabama lawyer Arthur J. Hines spent several hours in Birmingham Thursday, conferring with James Earl Ray, the man wanted in Tennessee to stand trial for the slaying of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. When he came out of the jail gate, Hines said, "He is feeling all right. His head is now being well looked after. His mental attitude is good. We talked of many things." Hines, who arrived on arrival at the airport earlier today that Ray might plead innocent through reason of insanity, was asked by a reporter if Ray showed any signs of insanity. "None," he replied and emphasized that the plea of insanity was only one of a number which might be used. But Hines insisted the man he would be seeing was Ramon George Sneyd, not James Earl Ray, as claimed by the U.S. government and accepted by the British court which agreed to extradite him Tuesday. Hines said he had sought to plead innocent or innocent by reason of insanity, but he may not be extradited, if a court certifies that he will be.

200 Tumble Into Lake As Bridge Breaks

LONGVIEW, Wash. (AP) — A wooden footbridge jammed with people watching fireworks collapsed Thursday night, plunging scores of people into a lake near the center of a crowd. Apparently surprised, Police Chief Ralph Benefield said as many as 200 people may have been on the bridge. No one could know for certain. Skidvipers scoured Lake Snoqualmie today but they found no bodies, ambulances, hearses and even station wagons were pressed into service, hurrying 60 persons to two hospitals. Seven were admitted to St. John's Hospital for further treatment, two with broken legs. The footbridge was 15 feet high, 15 feet wide and about 100 feet long. Water underneath was up to eight feet deep. There was no current. The fireworks display, sponsored in as many as past years by the Jaycees, had just ended and Fourth of July celebrations were in full swing. The bridge, built through the center of the town, planned, former company town when witnesses heard a loud snap.

MRS. RANDOLPH KING, of 225 Madrona St., jokes with her son Randy about being a television star. The boy and Mrs. Randolph appear in a television-commercial for Kodak to be shown on national television. Randy is 3 years old and was photographed by representatives of Kodak.

Twin Falls People Set TV Debut

The reaction of Mrs. Randolph King was typical of the reaction of several of the Twin Falls residents who will soon appear on national television in a commercial for Kodak. "They filmed it in one day, at least our part, and it seemed like we were being invaded. There were seven or eight men and a great deal of equipment. But it was fun." And Mrs. King only added as an afterthought, "I'm really a little afraid to see it. I really don't know what to expect. Randy's excited. I can say."

ERNE WILLS and his wife Barbara, along with others from Twin Falls, are to appear in an upcoming Kodak television commercial. The first showing of the commercial is scheduled for the Ed Sullivan Show Sunday. Several other showings of the commercial for the Kodak company are also scheduled for other national programs.

John Luntley Heads Cedar Draw Grange

BUHL — John Luntley was installed as master of the Cedar Draw grange when members met at the grange hall, Monday night. Luntley will serve as master for the remainder of the year. J. C. Hendrix was the installing officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Hendrix were given the grange obligation by Overseer Emmett Bauer and welcomed as new members: Ralph Hostetter, agriculture chairman, reminded members that it would soon be time to get sheaves and produce ready for the county fair.

Carl Hendrix, legislative chairman, reported on the gun control law and urged members to write their congressmen. W. R. Ward reported that he had turned in a petition on Daylight Saving time.

Mrs. Leo Mathews, women's activity chairman, noted that the new flag had arrived and the dedication service will be during the July 26 meeting. A report was given on a bus trip to the Idaho Youth Ranch that the grange will be making an invitation extended to Cedar Draw members to go along.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston Gentry and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Hendrix were in charge of the program. Two contests between the men and the women were held with the women being the winners in both events.

Mrs. Gentry introduced Warren Saunders, manager of the Buhl office of Mountain States Telephone Co., who spoke to the group on the idea of extended telephone service and Metropolitan Service now being considered in this area. A question period followed the talk. Mrs. Saunders was a guest at the meeting.

Satchmo Is 68, Stages Celebration

LONDON (AP) — Louis Armstrong was 68 years young Thursday, and celebrated by leading his all-stars on a wildly cheered stomp at the sedately conservative Savoy Hotel.

Lords and ladies and stars of stage, screen and the music world cheered and stamped their feet through a great Satchmo medley of "Wonderful World," "Hello, Dolly!" and "Sleepy Time Down South."

It was the great American jazzman's way of saying a special thank you to an audience given in his honor by Britain's Beaverbrook newspapers.

Sir Max Aitken, Beaverbrook chief, told the guests: "The reason for this luncheon is to honor a man whom everyone in this room, everyone in this country, everyone in the United States and all over the world admires."

He has given us so much pleasure, and I suppose I have brought him a good deal of profit by buying every record he has ever made. The kids admire him, the middle aged admire him and the old admire him.

"On this day when he is unbelievably 68 years old I am very proud to preside."

Aitken handed Armstrong a "golden" certificate, a gold sovereign "for the king of jazz" and also a golden toul:

"You can't get them out of that one," Aitken warned him jovially.

"You mean I can't pawn them? But I may get in a crack game!" Louis protested in mock concern.

Louis told the luncheon guests something of the story of his

SEC Issues Warning On Loans

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission warned Americans Thursday against deceptive and misleading offers to obtain loans for real estate development.

It said such loan schemes appear to be widespread and large sums of money already may have been lost by prospective borrowers.

Recent newspaper ads and announcements by some organizations have offered help in obtaining loans for real estate development, the SEC said, but added that some of the groups don't have the ability to obtain the loan or have no intention of doing so.

In one type scheme, the borrowers must first pay a substantial fee which won't be refunded and doesn't include a written loan commitment, the SEC said.

In another, the prospective borrower pays an advance fee, but says nothing or is ambiguous about whether the fee will be returned. If the loan is not obtained within a reasonable period, the SEC added.

The Commission said along with ordinary property owners many prominent companies and individuals with experience in real estate have been deceived by such offers during the current tight money period.

Plane Traffic Count Scheduled Through Idaho

An aircraft traffic count at airports in Idaho will be under way by mid-July, announced Chet Moulton, Idaho Aeronautics director.

Traffic tabulators, similar to those used by the highway department, will be placed on the runways.

"This is the only way we have of determining the actual use of landing fields, its busiest times, and the types of usage being received," said Mr. Moulton. The usage count, once started, will be conducted on a year-round basis, weather permitting.

Book Describes Actions Of Maddox At King Funeral

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox ordered state troopers during the funeral march for Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. to "shoot them down and stack them up," if marchers attempted to enter Georgia's capitol building, according to a just-published biography of Maddox.

The book is entitled "The Riddle of Lester Maddox." It was written by Bruce Galphin, an editorial associate for the Atlanta Constitution, and published by Camelot Publishing Co. of Atlanta.

According to the book, Maddox issued the order to approximately 200 armed troopers and other law enforcement officers who patrolled the capitol grounds and corridors during the massive march of mourning.

The estimated 200,000 marchers passed directly in front of the capitol, which Maddox had refused to close.

Maddox, questioned about the published report, acknowledged that he issued an order to prevent marchers from entering the capitol and said he "could have" used the language attributed to him in the book.

The governor said he had received information that an attempt would be made to storm the capitol building during the march, and that he had given the order as a precaution.

Maddox denied, however, that he threatened to bring state forces into Atlanta to protect his Pickwick furniture store against a possible fire bomb attack after the murder of King.

Galphin says in his book that Maddox told Atlanta Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. the store had been threatened, and if the city did not provide protection state forces would "stack 'em up like cordwood."

The governor said he did not say that. He said he did receive threats about the store, and reported them to the city in the usual manner.

"The Riddle of Lester Maddox" is described by its publishers as an unauthorized biography. The author reports in the foreword that both Maddox and Ivan Allen Jr. were interviewed and his wife declined to be interviewed for the book.

WASHINGTON—At the street-corner level, there is a little something extra to be said for Nelson Rockefeller's candidacy. It gives us working stiffs a chance to be sorry for a multimillionaire.

Bad things happen to all Presidential candidates—things that are unavoidable in a democracy in which any man is free to run off at the mouth and gum up the works. One of those bad things has happened to Rockefeller. He has been endorsed by Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., some-time historian, sometime adviser to the New Frontier and all-time bigmouth.

And now he has denounced both of the remaining Democratic candidates as too weak and, by implication, not liberal enough to sit in the White House. Contemplating Schlesinger's brutal rejection of his own, Republican delegates may well be asking themselves whether the Bobby Kennedy could live with a candidate, could even more leftist than those dangerous radicals, Hubert Humphrey and Gene McCarthy.

Melvin Laird Says Nixon Can Cinch First Ballot Win With 39 More Votes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Republican Conference said today Richard Nixon planned to hop to a first-ballot victory at the Republican national convention with 39 more votes.

Rep. Melvin R. Laird of Wisconsin also predicted national polls that show Nixon trailing the Democratic contenders will take a new tack once the convention is over.

"I believe that Dick Nixon is behind at the present time merely because he is not speaking out on the issues," the GOP leader said.

Nixon, he said, prefers to have his campaign peak in September and October and hopes to make his big move "as far as the popularly held are concerned, during that period of time."

Laird was interviewed on ABC Radio's "Orlando" show.

Asked how close Nixon is to winning the GOP nomination, he said, "He's about 39 votes short of a convention nomination at the first ballot as of today."

The Fourth of July holiday seemed to end campaign activity in both parties into low gear.

Nixon and his GOP rival, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, took a day off from politics. On the Democratic side, Sen. Eugene McCarthy courted the farm vote in Iowa while Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey began two days of rest after hurrying through a speech in Philadelphia in which he had to cope with chanting antiwar demonstrators.

Taking a mini-vacation on the island of Hawaii, Rockefeller showed that if the presidency were awarded to the best golfer he'd be the man to beat.

On the third hole of the wildly beautiful Mauna Kea course, an arm of the Pacific Ocean lies between ice and green, a duffer's nightmare requiring a shot of at least 150 yards. With photographers recording every move, Rockefeller made it look easy, rapping a 118-yard shot over the waves to the apron.

It was not less spectacular than his performance on the third hole of the same hole he undercut a 240-yard drive and hit the green in two.

Nigeria Wallows In Bloody Civil War

LAGOS (AP) — Nigeria, a country of vast potential riches and the most populous nation in Africa, continues to wallow in a bloody, year-old civil war and efforts to arrange a cease-fire have so far been futile.

The federal government in Lagos holds the upper hand in the fighting and has occupied large chunks of the secessionist Eastern Region—Biafra—and most of the area's major cities.

Both sides would like to end the conflict that has driven the country to the edge of ruin, created millions of refugees in Biafra and killed untold numbers of Nigerians.

But cease-fire negotiations in May broke down in disagreement over conditions. The Biafrans want an unconditional cease-fire and withdrawal of federal troops. Lagos wants assurances, before it withdraws its forces, that Biafra will rejoin the federation as three separate states.

Contacts are continuing and there is a possibility new talks may begin in London.

Meanwhile, the situation in Biafra grows more and more desperate. There are an estimated 4.5 million refugees in what is left of Biafra and a generation of youngsters in the area is being crippled by protein starvation, relief officials say.

International relief agencies say that as many as a million Biafrans will die of starvation before the end of summer unless more food can be supplied to the Biafrans, now jammed into about 10,000 square miles of densely populated territory in Africa.

The area is under tight blockade by the Lagos government and the federal air force of Soviet-built MIGs and Czech-made Delfins controls the air. Federal capture in May of Port Harcourt, Biafra's largest city and its main depot for airlifted supplies, tightened the ring on Biafra.

There is an attempt to blame us for the effects of the war, said Enahoro. "The quickest way to stop all this is for them to stop secession."

He said the federal government has left open avenues for supplies to reach Biafra and has offered trucks to move relief supplies. "But the rebels say, oh-no-what they want is an unconditional cease-fire."

He blamed Biafra for delays in reaching a cease-fire. Nigeria seemed to have a bright future in 1960 when it gained independence from Britain.

Chief Anthony Enahoro, negotiator for the federal government, said of reports that millions of Biafrans will starve in the next few months, "It is quite clear they are attempting to exploit the sympathies of the outside world for the purpose of their military interests."

Lt. Col. Odumegwu Ojukwu, the secessionist leader, vowed at the time the Biafrans would maintain guerrilla operations from the back country.

In June, Biafra began broadcasting appeals for massive relief shipments and said supplies were dying by the thousands.

To maintain its stance of independence from Lagos, Biafra does not want the aid passed through federal hands.

But in New York this week, a federal spokesman said: "All ports and major airports are in federal hands so it is impossible to channel supplies to Biafran refugees without going through federal authorities."

Along Fences And Canals

Robert Baylis Muldoon has been hauling sheep feeders from the former Baylis ranch in King Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Bud Moore have moved from the tenant house on the R. D. Graham ranch to the old Glenn place north of Glenns Ferry, known as the Blackwell place. Mr. and Mrs. Donald Chorn, Boise, are living in the tenant house, and Mr. Chorn is employed on the ranch.

Wesley Flunk, King Hill, is spraying corn to kill weeds. Karl Carpanan is cultivating about 50 acres of corn and John Davis 18 acres.

A light frost Sunday morning touched corn on the Kael Carman farm. Some frost damage was noted on the Black Mesa farm project, south of King Hill.

Frost in the Hagerman area last Friday night damaged some of the corn. Ed Larson reported his sweet corn and part of his English corn had just been irrigated and was not hurt, but that one could see in the row that corn which hadn't been irrigated and it shows some frost bura. Larson didn't feel the damage was very serious and the corn would come out of it all right.

Winds last Friday night caused a large poplar tree at the home of Mrs. Sarah Jensen, south of Hagerman, to topple Saturday morning. When falling, the tree broke power lines and blocked the north-south country road for approximately two hours.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wright and daughters, Hailie, assisted Raymond Wright, Tuttle, in stacking a part of his hay crop.

Several farmers at Tuttle have had to rake up hay that was scattered by the wind from windrows and frost damage to corn fields was noted in the area.

General haying operations are getting under way this week on Camas Prairie. A few were able to start cutting alfalfa last week. Gwain Rice, Hill City, was one of the first to cut hay this season.

Mrs. Gerald (Mary) Baker has returned from Mackay where she rode in a cattle drive with her father-in-law, Orville Baker. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Chaffield, Richfield, took Mary and her horse to Mackay and brought them back. Mary attended college at Twin Falls this past year while her husband has been with the Armed Forces in Korea.

Several acres of alfalfa in the Almo area were recently sprayed by George Kelly, Albion, in an attempt to halt the infestation of alfalfa weevil.

The extent of any damage to hay and grain crops from low temperatures Sunday morning on Camas Prairie will not be known for some time. So far there is very little apparent damage. Some farmers reported a partial loss of 25 to 50 percent of the alfalfa. About half of the hay crop had already been cut.

1969 Wheat Program Provisions Announced

Major provisions of the recently announced 1969 wheat program which differ from 1968 program provisions are a smaller national allotment and the offer of payments for diverting additional acreage below the allotment to all participating farmers according to Carl Boyd, chairman, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee.

Also, domestic marketing certificates will be issued on 43 percent of the projected production of the participating farm's acreage allotment. This figure was 40 per cent for 1968.

In announcing the 1969 wheat program, Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman said that the reduced national acreage allotment of 51.8 million acres would make it possible to strengthen the farm prices and to reduce the carry-over by around 100 million bushels. (The 1968 wheat allotment is 15 per cent below the 1966 allotment.) With normal yields, production from the 1969 allotment should total about 1.3 billion bushels, compared with about 1.55 billion bushels expected from the 1968 crop.

Farmers signing up in the voluntary wheat program can qualify for price support loans and purchases, domestic marketing certificates, payments for diverting acreage below their allotments and alternative cropping options.

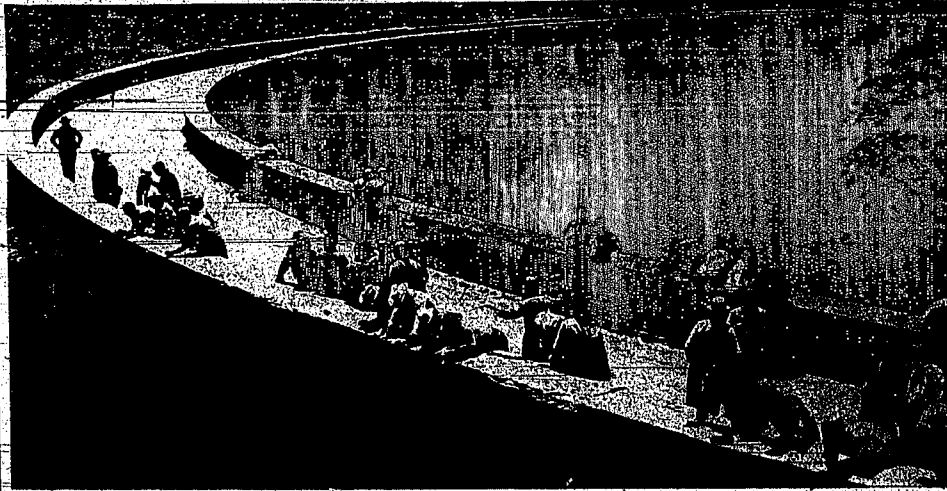

Diversion payments at the maximum rate authorized by law will be offered to farmers under the 1969 wheat program for planting less than their acreage allotment and diverting that land to conserving uses. The farmer may divert up to one-half of his farm's wheat acreage allotment, and diversion payments based on the projected yield of the allotment acres diverted will be at the rate of 50 per cent of the county loan rate.

Price support loans on 1969 crop wheat will continue to be available at a national average of $1.25 per bushel. Total price support equal to 100 per cent of parity will be available on that wheat; the production representing the farm's share of wheat allocated for domestic use. The marketing certificates will make up the difference between priority (as of July 1, 1969) and the loan rate.

Other features of the 1969 wheat program will be much the same as those for the 1968 crop. Chairman Boyd said that basic program participation plus diversions for other crops below allotments are key factors of the 1969 wheat program. The total acreage reduction target, including diversions, is about 10 per cent. Wheat growers themselves will take these actions if they want to be fully successful in strengthening market prices for 1969 wheat crop.

Monkeys May Be Harvesting Crops Within Next Decade

ANAHEIM, Calif.—An animal psychologist in Anaheim says that monkeys may be harvesting crops before the end of the next decade.

First experiments will include training the monkeys to pick strawberries and how Smith has even figured out how to keep the monkeys from eating up all the profits.

They will be trained to harvest for five days before they go to work, and after that says Smith, the monkeys will never again eat strawberries. The monkeys will even be paid.

"More than 20 years ago scientists discovered that monkeys can evaluate," said Smith. "You reward them with coins for doing what you want them to do. They learn to speed up their earnings with what they want coins for something they want."

Range conditions as of June 1 were fair to good over most of the 17 western states, the department said. Cool May temperatures slowed grass development in some areas, but ranges in the southwest provided good to excellent grazing.

Prospects for summer ranges were improved by late-May and early-June rains in most regions, and the Agriculture Department says.

Conditions of range feed were reported at 83 per cent, which is three points above a month earlier.

Cattle and calf condition in the 17 states was reported above average and the highest for June 1 since 1958. Higher conditions from a month earlier were reported in all states except Wyoming, Arizona and California.

Vegetable-Crop Plantings Seen Higher Than '67

WASHINGTON (AP)—Prospective plantings for this year's vegetable crops used in processing is three per cent more than in 1967 and 21 per cent above average, the Agriculture Department says.

The combined plantings are estimated at 2,018,796 acres, the department indicated yesterday. Last year's total included beans, sweet corn, green peas and tomatoes. Decreases are indicated for green lima beans and beans for pickles and spinach, the department said.

Peak Season Is Here For Poison Ivy

If it has three leaves, avoid it. The plant is likely to be poisonous if the leaves are in pairs.

This is the advice of Donald F. Youtz, Twin Falls County Agent. June and July are peak seasons for the shrub that causes skin irritation and swelling.

Children are the most frequent victims, but no age group and few individuals are immune. Poison ivy is a shrub two to six feet tall. The shiny leaves occur in threes, the end of stems are pointed and the greenish white. The fruit is white. In autumn the leaves vary in color from green to red.

Toxic oil is produced in all parts of the plant. Contact with the skin generally produces inflammation, swelling and blisters. Do not touch the plant. If the smoke can cause severe eye irritation.

"If you get the plant seeds and laundry soap will often remove the oil. Applications of five per cent bleach solution will kill the plant. The leaves and water usually produce irritation. In an emergency, the tannin from berries, such as blackberries, will help.

"If you have poison ivy on your face, you can stimulate it with wood-killing chemicals. Commercially available products include Amifol, silver or ammonium sulfamate are the most effective. Chemicals that help in the treatment of poison ivy, poison oak and poison sumac are obtained at the county agent office.

Pamphlets Abound In Department

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Dept. has pamphlets and bulletins on almost any farm subject, from alfalfa aphids to liver flukes.

The information can be highly sophisticated or as basic as an eight-page leaflet titled, "A Dairy Goat for Home Milk Production."

"Goats, says the department's Agricultural Research Service, can help poor families improve their diets and add a few dollars to incomes.

"The leaflet about goat milk is directed mainly to low-income families in Appalachia."

The department says a dairy goat can be a profitable investment for a family which has a need for milk. A $50 goat bred for five years and sold then for $10 will cost about 10 cents a day, including feed, breeding, interest and sale of her offspring.

A good doe will provide about two quarts or more of milk a day for about 10 months of the year, the department said.

Alfalfa Pollination Discussed At Nevada Meet; Several Idahoans Attend

Considerable information pertinent to the alfalfa seed industry, a growing agricultural enterprise in Idaho and Nevada, was presented recently at the fourth annual Nevada Alfalfa Seed Producers conference. The meeting was held at the Northrup-King and Company plant in Orovalda.

Nearly 150 alfalfa seed growers from Nevada and Idaho attended. They came from areas of the state such as Kings River, Orovalda, Denio, Reese River Valley, Fallon, Dixie Valley, Reno and Tonopah and from neighboring Idaho areas where the seed is grown.

"Highlighting the program," said Kirk Day, Humboldt county cooperative extension agent and coordinator of the meeting, was a presentation on alfalfa pollination by Dr. W. P. Stephen, professor of entomology at Oregon State University, Corvallis. He detailed practices which contribute to maximum efficiency in pollination.

Dr. Stephen, who has worked for years with bees, discussed at length the Leaf Cutter Bee and its functions in pollinating alfalfa. He told those attending of ways in which bee populations could be increased and how the bees could be influenced to be more active and consequently work harder. He said also that the size, location, shape and color of the hives and the distance between them contributed to increasing the bees' efficiency. Successful seed production depends, he pointed out, on good-pollination practices.

Observations on bee reproduction in order to obtain more efficiency and favorable sex ratios were discussed by the entomologist. Bees, he said, hatch and incubate their eggs in holes. "It takes three to five minutes from drilling holes in a block of wood, or as he suggested by arranging clusters of milk shakers, to the hives. The opening size of the holes and their depth regulate reproductive efficiency and sex ratios. Since the female has higher birth rates of females. Up to a point, he said, the larger size opening the better. He placed the point at about 15/64 of an inch.

Included in the interesting information about bees was that on a regular work day, the bees will not become active until their body temperature is at 70 degrees and there is at least 500 candle power of natural light. Any less light, like an overcast day, and they will not work. They will remain in the field until the light reaches 400 candle power and then return for the evening.

Large hives that have been or are under way on bees and pollination at Oregon State were outlined by Dr. Stephen. He cited one study in which hives bees have been selected for a preference to alfalfa. Such bees produced specifically for alfalfa, he explained, should work well in pollination.

Aside from Dr. Stephen other speakers on the program included Harry Coloway, assistant director of the State Department of Agriculture, who talked on "Certification and New Standards"; William Landolt, also of the State Department of Agriculture, who discussed weed problems; Robert W. Auderdale, extension entomologist at the Max C. Pilschmann College of Agriculture, University of Nevada, who covered "Seed Chalcids"; Clare Mahannah, extension irrigation specialist at the University whose subject was water management; Lyod Sims, extension pesticide specialist at the University, and W. R. Hadley, Northrup King, who discussed seed marketing.

Galloway noted latest seed production regulations of the department. There have been some changes from previous years especially concerning seed grading to be certified seed, from now on, he explained must be raised from one generation foundation seed except in some instances where foundation seed is not available. Foundation seed is that produced by the original or breeding stock of a newly developed variety. In some instances, however, seed may be certified with certified progenitors.

Landolt talked about noxious weeds that invade alfalfa stands and can affect the quality and certification of the seed. He discussed methods of locating such weeds as "Dandelion" and "Calf-tail" and how they are flying reconnaissance, as one and how the weed can be eliminated through burning or by chemical means. He also discussed the "Seed Chalcid," an insect which is harmful to alfalfa seed production was described and how to control it. It is alfalfa and he discussed how good farm cultural practices could help to control the infestations. He recommended clearing of bordering alfalfa plants and a clean-up of the field after harvest. Good management at present is the only way to combat the insects since chemical means are not used, he said.

Water management studies, especially concerning evapotranspiration under way in the Orovalda area, were discussed by Mahannah. The studies are still in the preliminary stages.

Sims brought those in attendance up to date on latest information concerning residue regulations and work being done at the University concerning pesticide residues.

Mr. Hadley of Northrup-King talked about the marketing of seed.

Eighteen cows were reported with a record of over 90 pounds of butterfat during the month. Thirty-two cows were recorded with over 80 pounds of butterfat during May. There were twenty-eight cows with a record of over seventy-five pounds of butterfat.

Sanitarian Speaks To Paul Grange

PAUL — Gerald V. Hurst, public health sanitarian for Blaine and Cassia counties, presented a program entitled "Proper Handling of Poods and Butterfat" for members of the Paul Grange.

Mr. Hurst showed a film and conducted a discussion. Mrs. Joe Deer, Twin Falls, president of Women's Activities division, reported on the National needlework and baking contest, which ends Aug. 31.

The Grange decided to enter a Red Cross Servicemen project. Letters were received from the Idaho Youth Ranch.

Master Gerald Schneider read several resolutions on poor visibility of railroad crossings, mobile library, corporate farms and increased Penny Cliff Dam on Clearwater River. The resolutions were discussed but not acted on.

The Paul Grange picnic will be held July 21 at the Paul Park.

Sensors Used To Glean Asparagus

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — The "Gras-Hopper," a mechanical harvester with electronic sensors, is shipping mature California asparagus selectively, leaving immature sprouts for later cutting, according to Agribusiness Report.

About 300 such machines have been sold ($28,000 each).

Growers hope they'll reverse the decreasing asparagus acreage trend, from 69,000 acres in 1960 to 38,000 this year, due to increasing imports from Foreign labor costs.

Junior Angus Field Day Is Successful

By ROBERT VANAUDELIN
Hazelton—The first annual Idaho Junior Angus Field Day has been termed "successful" despite a cold and windy day. This event was held recently at the Jim Brooks ranch, northeast of Hazelton.

More than 150 persons learned about the Angus situation and type of beef cattle breeders are looking for. J. D. Mankin, manager of the Dwight G. Vedder Ranch, Fayette, explained the type of beef cattle today should be and what to look for in breeding stock. The day started off with a judging contest of fat steers, heavy heifers, project heifers and yearling bulls. Most of the 150 people there took part in this event. Judges for the contest were: Ned Brackett, manager of the Idaho Cattlemen's Association; Dr. T. Donald Bell, University of Idaho; and Richard Hanks, Rupert, president of the Idaho Angus Association.

Activities of the Idaho Angus Association were outlined by Robert Morley, Eagle, president of the Idaho Angus Association. Giving Angus history and few items about the national organization was Walter Yarbrough, Grand View, director of the American Angus Association. Junior Angus activities were discussed by Douglas Wood, Nampa, field representative for the American Angus Association. Robert Thomas, Baker, Ore., an Angus breeder, showed how to properly show cattle. Holding him were several Idaho Junior Angus Association members: Herschel Boydston, Twin Falls, president; Tom Hamilton, Filer, vice president; and Jim Hagerman, Filer, secretary.

TWO OF THE THREE MEMBERS of the top 4-H judging team at the field day, sponsored by the Idaho Junior Angus Association, are Glen Shewmaker, left, and Carl Feldhusen, both Kimberley. The other member of the judging team was Tom Hamilton, also Kimberley.

Robert Higgins, University of Idaho extension agronomist and association secretary, announced today. Headquarters will be at Half Day Inn. Allen will talk about government participation in weed control. Gerald Ingie, Kendrick, is association president. Weed fighters from all parts of the state will review progress and plan new attacks. A panel discussion of several phases of weed control is scheduled. Participants will be P. C. Curfiss, chief of the division of range management, U. S. Forest Service; W. D. Boyle, Bureau of Reclamation; Irvin G. Papp, Boise, agronomist, University of Idaho; branch extension station, Parma-agriculture; and C. J. Seely, agronomist at Moscow—food, Higgins will be the moderator. Lester McCracken, Boise, will talk about weed control in home gardens. There will also be a discussion of weed control as an art to beautification. New chemicals will be explained by representatives of the agricultural industry. A tour of weed-control plots in Twin Falls county will be conducted by Wallace Savage, weed control supervisor at Don Youst, agricultural agent. Gus Keiker, executive editor of the Times-News, will speak at a lunch July 30. Lambert Erickson, University of Idaho agronomist, will talk about weed research at a lunch the next day. Talk Given MILNER - Janet Seymour gave an illustrated talk on choosing colors when buying materials at a meeting of the Milneries 4-H Club at the home of Mary Seymour. Mrs. Edwin Brune, leader, discussed the importance of keeping record books and the rules to observe for the members taking photography.

New Method Of Potato Planting Tried At Blackfoot

BLACKFOOT (AP) — Rising River Farms is trying to raise and more or less experimental its potato tonnage this year through a new method of planting. The basic innovation of Rising River's three-row planting is that about the same amount of land is used as in two-row planting, but a greater number of seeds are planted. "The planters are built so they put the seed spuds in flat mounds in staggered positions," Ugaki said. "Each individual plant will have just as much space in which to grow, but we're using more of the available space." Planting was completed on the greatest part of rising River's potato fields in mid-May. "We've studied this three-row method enough so that we're real sure about it," he said. "In a move to speed the planting operation and save time in case of a breakdown, each field was 'marked' with a separate tractor before planting was begun in it." Ugaki said that previously the lead planter also was the marking unit — and if it broke down, all the planters following it were stuck too. "This way," he said, "any planting unit can be a leader, and a driver could almost start any place in the field without getting confused. Also, since the front wheel of the tractor runs in the row, the driver could almost let the unit drive itself."

Hagerman Man Heads Poultry Unit

Vernon Cox, Hagerman, is the new president of the Idaho Poultry Industry Federation, succeeding Loyd Merrill, Paul. Directors are Tom Corbett, Nampa, a poultry processor; Howard Judy, Fruitland, equipment and supply dealers; Floyd Phillips, Paul, broiler producer; Hull, Turkey, producers; Cox, egg producers; Willette, feed dealers; and Merrill, hatcherymen. Merrill was elected president of the Idaho Poultry Improvement Association, an affiliate organization. George Lynch, Nampa, is vice president, and Tom Jorgensen, Blackfoot, is secretary-treasurer. John Bertie, Twin Falls, was chosen poultry representative on the University of Idaho agricultural consulting council. In June, Caldwell, was appointed chairman of the legislative committee. The convention will be held at Twin Falls in August.

Plateless Planter To Be Released

MINNEAPOLIS — An important departure in corn planter design — a unit without seed plates — is about to be introduced by Deere & Co., Moline, Ill., according to a report in a recent Agribusiness Report, a weekly agribusiness newsletter published by Miller Publishing Co., Minneapolis. Agribusiness Report says the planter to be announced publicly by Deere on July 15, holds benefits for corn farmers as well as seed companies. Elimination of seed plates cuts out a major cause of seed damage to farmers and could, if such newly-designed planters gain widespread acceptance, allow seed companies to eliminate sowing (grading) of seeds into such categories as small, medium and large and flat and round. Such a step could, at some time in the future, cut costs of seed corn to farmers. New single and apical cross seeds, which have more kernel size variability, also could get a boost in acceptance from the planter. The newsletter notes that Deere will be on the market with a limited number of these plateless planters this fall. Other large farm equipment companies also say they have some corn planter design changes on the drawing board, according to the Agribusiness Report story.

Unit Finds Support In Court's Ruling

BOISE (AP)— Idaho Fish and Game Department Director J. R. Woodworth said Thursday he believes a United States Supreme Court ruling on Indian fishing rights, applied as well as the state in which the lawsuit originated.

Sports FROM ALL ANGLES

By LARRY HOVEY, Times-News Staff Editor
The new controversy on the matter of Indian fishing rights in Idaho was a predictable thing that this type of counter-charging will continue throughout the country for a long time.

At stake, of course, is the right of the state to hunt and fish in the waters almost immediately adjacent to the reservation.

The Idaho Fish and Game Department has never been the 1885 treaty stipulated reservation fishing by the Shoshone-Bannock tribes on the Fort Hall Indian reservation. It believes the treaty is the first in the matter of the Indians' right to hunt on any public domain in the state but it does not feel that this is the intent of the treaty that extends that same right to fishing.

But prior to the recent Supreme Court decision which gave control of management to the states, the state department was prepared to test its feeling in court.

It was a matter of two things. The cost to both sides and (2) the matter wasn't as profound in this state as in Washington and Oregon on the lower Columbia River.

The department also, unofficially, has questioned just how much the Salmon River, Snake and Snake and Danlock, tribes did, prior to the arrival of the white man.

Normally, the Fort Hall tribes believe the 1885 treaty included the right of off-reservation fishing. Their lawyers probably believe that since they have a separate treaty, they should have a separate right to fish in the state.

4 Candidates Vie For Court

(Editor's Note: This is the first in a series of articles by The Associated Press on Idaho's nonpartisan supreme court election.)

By EARLE L. JESTER
Associated Press Writer

BOISE (AP)— Two Idaho born candidates and a native of Utah and Montana are contesting one of the two state supreme court seats at stake in this year's nonpartisan judicial election.

If one of the four gets a majority of the votes cast in the 6 primary he will be declared elected. But if none obtains a majority, the two leaders will run again in the general election Nov. 5.

The seat now is held by Justice C. Taylor, who has reached the mandatory retirement age of 70 and must quit at the end of his present term in January.

Taylor, before his election to the high court, was a district judge in Idaho Falls. Backers of one of the four aspirants has urged an aircraft carrier to quit the race to assure the same geographical representation on the court.

The Idaho Falls candidate is District Judge Boyd R. Thomas. He is a native of Utah, born Jan. 17, 1921, at Castle Gate. He was educated in grade and high schools in Coos Bay, Ore.; then went to college at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah.

He obtained his law degree from Columbia University and was admitted to practice law in Idaho in 1951. He practiced in Idaho Falls for a number of years, was elected a district judge in 1962 and was re-elected in 1966.

The three other candidates who have expressed no public opinion on the suggestion they withdraw are district judges Sherman J. Bellwood of Rupert and Charles R. Donaldson of Boise; and a Sandpoint attorney, Steve Bistline.

Bistline and Bellwood are the Idaho natives. Bistline was born March 12, 1921, in Pocatello and Bellwood June 13, 1917, in Sugar City.

Bistline was educated in grade and high schools in Pocatello, earned his bachelor and law degrees from the University of Idaho and was admitted to the practice of law in 1949.

Bellwood went to grade school in high school in Idaho, then was graduated from the University of Idaho. He earned his law degree at the University of Michigan and was admitted to practice law in Idaho in 1942.

He was appointed a district judge in July, 1966, and was elected to a full term later this year.

Donaldson was born Feb. 2, 1919, in Helena, Mont., and went to grade school in Missoula.

Sun Valley Airline Owner Wants State Control Over Air Routes

BOISE (AP)— The owner of an airline proposing to establish daily runs between major Idaho cities wants state controls over air routes.

Jim Wilkins said he will seek a state supreme court order requiring controls if the Idaho Public Utilities Commission does not accept jurisdiction over the route.

Sun Valley Airlines, Gooding, has petitioned the PUC to regulate air routes on scheduled interstate travel. The PUC has set a hearing next Tuesday on the petition.

However, the PUC released a staff report Thursday which said that sanctioning an interstate airline by commission "may be a void act which could be attacked and set aside by the Supreme Court."

Sun Valley Airlines owner Jim Wilkins contends airlines and air routes within Idaho should be regulated by the PUC just as bus companies and bus routes are. He contends law gives the PUC authority over air routes.

Wilkins said there is no other state or federal agency which has jurisdiction over the type of service he proposes to offer.

"The airline wants to establish daily commuter flights from Boise to North Idaho cities and from Boise to South Idaho cities," Wilkins said they plan initially to use light, twin-engine aircraft.

He said the firm will not proceed with its plans until state regulations over air routes are established.

Wilkins said he is concerned that an interstate airline that is federally subsidized could offer unfair competition after his airline had established the service.

"We do not intend to give any type of service to the state of Idaho without some sort of protection," Wilkins said. He added he is not asking for guarantees against competition, but rather regulations that would require review by a state agency before new air routes were authorized.

"This is a substantial investment," he said. "There is no way for us to go into this service without regulation."

He said if the PUC, after the Tuesday hearing, declines to take jurisdiction, the airline will petition the state supreme court for an order requiring the PUC to take jurisdiction.

If the supreme court declines such an order, the airline would petition the legislature to amend Idaho's law to provide for such regulation, Wilkins said.

In the event, Wilkins said it may be five years before Sun Valley Airlines can proceed with plans to petition the state supreme court for an order requiring the PUC to take jurisdiction.

Participation Urged For Local Hearings

BOISE (AP)— Associated Taxpayers urged today that citizens widely spread participation in hearings scheduled by a legislative council committee studying local governmental structure and federal levels of government in our state.

The hearings will begin July 15 in Idaho Falls with others following on successive days in Twin Falls, Boise, Lewiston and Coeur d'Alene.

"We urge attendance and participation at these hearings," said Roy Yocum, executive manager of Associated Taxpayers.

"For decisions resulting from the testimony could be to strengthen local government."

"Strong local government is manifest in maintaining proper relationships among local, state and federal levels of government in our system."

"As the impact of taxation becomes heavier, the taxpaying government administrator and those responsible for writing the laws must make greater efforts to bring about more effective and efficient methods for operating government. These hearings are an attempt to give voice to suggestions."

Proposals which have been made to the legislative study committee include: Consolidation of highway districts, consolidation of school and county government, revision of the budget cycle so that final approval of the proposed expenditures comes before the beginning of the fiscal year and certification of budgets in dollars rather than in a property tax rate.

Gregory Enters Hospital, Health Failing From Fast

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP)— Senator Dick Gregory was taken to a Tacoma hospital Thursday afternoon in the 23rd day of a fast for Indian fishing rights when a physician noticed a sharp deterioration in his health.

The Negro civil rights activist has taken only distilled water since he was jailed June 7 to serve a 90-day sentence for illegal net fishing to dramatize what Indians claim is an infringement on their fishing rights as established in early treaties.

He was described as in "antisfactory condition" in Tacoma General Hospital, Tacoma, when Jack Tanner, Gregory's lawyer, and a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Washington governor, said Gregory "has ordered his wife not to consent to medication or intravenous feeding" at the hospital and "asked me to take whatever legal steps necessary to prevent them (the hospital) from doing so."

Tanner said Gregory, whose weight has dropped from about 135 to about 116 pounds since he was jailed, has agreed to take medication and feeding only if he becomes unconscious.

Gregory's conviction on three counts of illegal net fishing on the Nisqually River in November 1966 was upheld by the state supreme court after an appeal. It stems from a long-standing feud between several Indian tribes and Washington state over off-reservation fishing rights.

The U.S. Supreme Court recently settled the question when it ruled the state has the right to regulate Indian fishing for conservation purposes.

An annual scholarship from the College of Southern Idaho has been made available to deserving students by the late Dr. J. Woodson Creed and his friends, announces David Perkins, dean of students.

Dr. Creed was a prominent pathologist and former Twin Falls County coroner.

Farmers Rap Italian Policies

ROME (AP)—More than 20,000 farmers demonstrated against Italy's Common Market policies in downtown Rome today as Premier Giovanni Leone prepared to seek legislative approval of a program to keep Italy quiet this summer.

Leone called the second Cabinet meeting of his five-day government to summarize his program, which reportedly includes a pledge to continue the government's economic policies and a proposal to reform the state bureaucracy. It is scheduled for delivery in Parliament tonight.

The Communist labor union called the farmers' rally to protest the lowering of Common Market barriers before substantial reforms are made in the country's agricultural system. The farmers also demanded increased pensions and social security benefits.

Leone is expected to barely squeeze through a forthcoming vote of confidence.

The new premier can survive on the votes of his Christian Democrats only if the strong minority Socialists abstain from voting.

The Socialists touched off Italy's recent political crisis early in June by bolting the center-right cabinet of Premier Aldo Moro that had governed Italy for five years.

Appointment Of Official Is Opposed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Delegates to the 26th annual convention of the Congress of Racial Equality are uncertain over who will be their new national director.

Roy Innis, considered the most likely to succeed Floyd B. McKissick as national director, ran into increased opposition as the convention entered its fourth day.

McKissick, at a testimonial dinner Thursday in his behalf, told about 300 persons that he "might come back" after a slipped spinal disc is corrected.

"I might step aside for a little while," he said, "but it would make too many white people happy if I leave."

McKissick, 48, has been director since 1965.

He was given a plaque that cited his leadership in developing Black Power from a slogan to a program.

Innis, 34, the associate national director, automatically becomes acting director Monday, the day after the convention ends.

The bid to make him permanent director is being fought by some CORE members who resent reports that Innis endorsed former Vice President Richard M. Nixon as president. Innis has denied the report repeatedly.

Film Shown To Jerome Club

BEROME, Nev.—District showed a color film of the Idaho Power Co. projects at Idaho Canyon to the weekly Kiwanis Club meeting.

The film showed the construction of the dam, which is 230 feet high and 1,000 feet long. It makes a lake that extends 23 miles upstream and is available as a recreation area. The dam was started in 1965 and completed this year.

It is the third Idaho Power dam in the area, the other two being Bronson and Odawa. The three are all within 40 miles of each other and about 60 miles from Cambridge.

Assassination Plot Is Studied

PARIS (AP)—French authorities studied today reports of a leftist plot to assassinate President Charles de Gaulle, but informants said that their first inclination was to discount the seriousness of the reports.

West German police said earlier they alerted Paris police after a Frenchman called news offices in Bonn Thursday and said he knew of a conspiracy to fire snipers at De Gaulle during the Bastille Day celebrations July 14.

NEW YORK (AP)—To buy or build is the dilemma of most people seeking a dream house, and if you're prepared to spend a half million, a million or even 2 million, it's a question that requires quite a bit of thought.

A leading real estate man strongly advises persons with such a problem to buy rather than build because it costs so much more to build than it used to, and there are plenty of luxurious white-elephant homes for sale—often at a fraction of what they originally cost.

But all over the country there are those who are not taking that advice. They are building even if it costs a half million or more—because what they want in their dream houses can't be bought from the peddlers of old mansions.

Take the David Lloyd Kreegers of Washington, D.C. There are not many houses—except grand old mansions—equipped to display properly a collection of 50 or 60 large impressionist and post impressionist paintings.

So the Kreegers decided to build, and got just what they wanted. And paid $2 million for it.

The boss of the crew that built the Kreeger house, on a 5 1/2 acre plot on stylish Foxhill Road in Northwest Washington, had this to say of architect Philip Johnson's design—43 rooms, including 11 baths, formed in clusters of 22 by 22-foot gracefully domed cubes:

Nonpayment Of Debts Results In Ship Burning

PAGO PAGO, American Samoa (AP)—A dignified old ship, the interisland freighter Manua Tele, was towed out to sea Wednesday and burned, for nonpayment of debts.

The ship was owned by natives of Manua Island north of here. But the old minesweeper was ordered auctioned off by the U.S. Government for repairs.

A sixth grade class in San Francisco said the only bid—Not enough, said the government. So the ship was stripped of salvage, towed eight miles off shore by a Coast Guard cutter and scuttled.

It's not a house, it's a mansion that the owner decided to live in.

When the Kreegers first saw the plans, they felt much the same way.

"We were embarrassed and tried to scale it down," says insuranceman Kroeger. "We never dreamed of living in this elaborate way."

"But when we tried to cut down and still show the Renoirs and the Degas and the others to best advantage, we found ourselves inching back to what the architect originally had in mind."

GOP Group Will Attend Campaign School

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republican gubernatorial candidates will meet in Chicago next week for a campaign school.

The Republican Governors Association, sponsor of the three-day session starting next Friday, said the uses and techniques of television will be stressed by specialists in other phases of campaign organization and management will also give advice.

There will be a review Sunday by Gov. James A. Rhodes of Ohio and Norbert T. Tiemann of Nebraska, of some of the state programs initiated by GOP governors. The two are chairmen of the Republican Governors Association Campaign Committee.

buy a million-dollar home because it's not deductible.

"House-on-Hill," the estate of the late Mrs. Celia Tobin Clark, can be bought for only $300,000 with 30 acres, but if you want the whole 250 acres it will cost you $2,875,000—reduced from $3 million. The house itself is priced at only $500,000, exactly half of what it was said to have cost to build in 1937.

Woman Is Killed In Plane Crash

EASTSOUND, Wash. (AP)—A California woman was killed when a private airplane crashed into Puget Sound Thursday while attempting a take-off from the Orcas Island airport north of here.

The woman's husband and daughter were rescued.

The San Juan County Sheriff said Agatha Tawney, 54, of Los Altos Hills, Calif., was trapped inside the submerged cabin of the twin-engine Beechcraft Baron.

Gerald Tawney, 54, and the couple's daughter, Helen, 14, were pulled from the water by two men who swam out to the downed plane. The sheriff said the man and his daughter suffered only bruises.
