Thant Arrives In Paris For Peace Meeting

PARIS (AP)—U.N. Secretary General U Thant conferred with U.S. and Soviet Ambassadors in Paris today as he prepared to leave for the Vietnam peace talks Saturday at a moment when fresh optimism is beginning to develop about moving negotiations toward a settlement.

The prospective release of three American prisoners by North Vietnam has started a small new wave of hope in Paris and Washington that deadlocked talks may finally begin to make progress.

Harriman, who spent 45 minutes conferring with Thant at the U.S. Embassy, said the United States is "very glad to have him take an interest in the affairs of the United States," because the United Nations at some stage could be very helpful. Thant is not at the present time, of course.

Thant is one of various possible peacekeepers who could work at peacemaking. But since North Vietnam has rejected any role in Vietnam, Russia or France would seem much more

Johnson, Latin Leaders Meet Cheers, Eggs And Paint Greet LBJ, Market Supported

AN EXCHANGE OF amusing comments between President Lyndon B. Johnson, left, and President Fidel Sanchez of El Salvador, preceded the summit conference sessions Saturday in San Salvador. By DOUGLAS D. CORNELL
SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (AP)—President Johnson, greeted by thousands of cheering Salvadorans and some anti-Vietnam war protesters, arrived in San Salvador Saturday to a Latin American common market.

Johnson voiced hope that the five-nation common market already existing in Central America would serve as a pattern for similar organizations in Asia, Africa and once peace terms are settled in the Middle East.

The confetti-filled welcome that tens of thousands of persons accorded Johnson's motorcade was marred by about 100 youths grouped with anti-Vietnam war posters on the left overlooking his route from the airport where he arrived from San Antonio, Tex.

The youths threw some two dozen eggs, raw potatoes and a dozen or so bombs at the President's bubble-top limousine. One egg hit a side window near Johnson's head. The paint chips missed but splattered on the car when they hit nearby.

Scores of the demonstrators were arrested. They were a tiny minority among the well-welcomed crowds that packed the roadside, often filling the highway from curb to curb. The protesters included one naked man waving an American flag.

A photographers' truck preceding the limousine took the front of the motorcade and cars carrying Central American leaders behind Johnson fell into the path of the paint bombardment.

At no time was Johnson in danger of being hit by the missiles because of the bulletproof bubble over the top of the limousine's back seat.

After the motorcade reached the downtown site of the summit conference, Salvadoran security agents began wiping away the paint splatters and egg from the limousine.

Johnson immediately got down to business with the presidents of El Salvador, Nicaragua, Guatemala, Honduras and Costa Rica.

He announced $65 million in U.S. loans to help Central American countries and their seven-year-old regional economic development programs. He approved $30 million for educational television station in El Salvador, a loan for elementary school development in Guatemala, a loan for electrical cooperatives in Honduras and in Costa Rica to promote agriculture.

"One day the material needs of the Central American people will be met," Johnson said. "But I believe it can be said that the spirit of Central America has already triumphed. It is a spirit of accommodation, of confidence, of a dedication to humanity that endures—but also surpasses—the interests of each nation."

Johnson said self-help was the foundation for social improvement in all developing countries of Johnson said regional institutions are vital. "It forces personal links between leaders, moves us away from the narrow sense of community which is mankind's best hope for peace."

Salvadorans crowded the capital of this smallest of Central American nations before the presidential jet flew in from the United States at 8:50 a.m. Many waved flags and American flags in their hands.

Authorities here had anticipated trouble following anti-Vietnam war demonstrators' Friday by about 2,000 university students who promised to "decorate" Johnson's face with eggs.

At one point along the motorcade route, police and national guardmen walked into a wall of eggs thrown by youths. Apparently bent on mischief, most of the potential demonstrators were dispersed, none too quickly, before Johnson passed.

It was at this point that the first eggs were thrown at the

Ray Gives Attorney "Names And Leads"

By LAWRENCE MALKIN
LONDON (AP)—James Earl Ray gave his American lawyer Saturday what the attorney called "names and leads" to investigate in preparing Ray's defense against charges of assassinating Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

The attorney, Arthur J. Hanes, former mayor of Birmingham, Ala., conferred with Ray for 30 minutes in Wandsworth Prison.

Ray was arrested here June 8 and is being held pending a London court appeal against an extradition order to the United States signed by a British magistrate last Tuesday.

Hanes had visited Ray Friday in Wandsworth Prison, but pointed out that Ray was not alone with him Saturday except for prison guards. Hanes was searched before the interview.

The two men were separated by a glass panel, with a thick, soundproofed wall between them. Ray was heard to whisper and exchanged notes which were taken back and forth by the guard.

Hanes told newsmen he found the interview with Ray "most helpful, most fruitful, and beneficial." He added: "It is beginning to build a case, to organize a defense. He gave me names and other leads to follow up back in the United States, and I am building a file."

Hanes refused to disclose any of the information Ray gave him. He also refused to comment on how his case might work out if Ray comes to trial.

Hanes said he found local security procedures restricted his ability to talk with his client, but he did not criticize them.

Apparently alluding to conditions in Dallas after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, Hanes said:

Blaiberg May Undergo New Transplants

By KENNETH L. WHITING
CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—The condition of Dr. Philip Blaiberg, the world's longest-surviving heart transplant patient, worsened Saturday. Medical sources said a combined heart and lung transplant might be tried to keep him alive.

Groote Schuur hospital said a new lung was needed to eliminate creeping pneumonia, now being affecting both Dr. Blaiberg's lungs.

Blaiberg's wife, Elsie, said Saturday evening, "The only way to save Philip's life is to give him a new heart and lung. It had been reported earlier that Dr. Christiana N. Barnard's surgical team at Groote Schuur was considering giving Blaiberg a third heart and lung."

No donor had been found, Barnard said, but it was understood that the 59-year-old resident dentist could be kept alive for some time on the help of a heart-lung machine.

Road Toll Across Nation Is Slowing

By The Associated Press
In addition to traffic fatalities during the current holiday there were 32 deaths in boating accidents and 109 deaths in accidents not involving boats.

The National Safety Council said it was hopeful the final toll would be lower than last year's total.

In vehicle accidents climbed to 364 in the third day of the four-day holiday period that began at 6 p.m. Wednesday and continues until midnight Sunday.

In a recent nonholiday weekend of the same length a total of 553 deaths occurred on the nation's highways.

During last year's Fourth of July observance 732 deaths in traffic were counted, a record for any summer holiday.

Despite the apparent slowdown in traffic deaths, the Safety Council would not change its preholiday estimate that 700 to 800 persons might be killed in vehicle accidents during the current holiday period.

For comparison with the current holiday toll, The Associated Press conducted a survey of traffic deaths during the nonholiday period from 6 p.m. Wednesday, June 19 to midnight Sunday, June 23. In that period 553 deaths were counted.

Nine Persons Have Died In Idaho Holiday

By The Associated Press
Nine persons have died violently in Idaho since the July Fourth holiday began Wednesday evening.

Four died on public highways, two following a racecar accident, two by drowning, and one in a car-train collision.

Daryl Sattler, 26, Lewiston, died Saturday from burns suffered Wednesday at the Lewis-Clark Sports Arena, when a car went out of control and into the pits, engulfing it in flames. Also killed was Gerald Gimsbach, 31, Astoria, Washington.

Killed in the car-train collision was Benny R. Kile, 31, Sagle. The accident, which happened six miles south of Sandpoint, was the first of the official traffic toll, state police reported.

The 1968 Idaho traffic death toll was 140, thirty more than the corresponding toll one year ago.

One car accident Friday on Interstate 80N about three miles west of Mountain Home killed William H. Dexter, 61, of Mountain Home. Officers said he apparently lost control of the car while passing another vehicle. His car rolled and he was killed.

The three other traffic victims were Richard Kreizenbock, 18, Emmett, and Robert L. Orr, 30, Bonanza, Calif., both killed Wednesday and Gary K. Lorentz, 17, Lewiston, killed Thursday.

The drowning victims were two brothers, Michael, 4, and David, 3, sons of Mrs. Jeannette Craft, Blythe.

Idaho Press Association Holds Annual Convention In Burley

BURLEY—People of Idaho need to be prepared at all times to resist other states taking their water, George Forscher, director of South Idaho Water Users Association, told delegates to the annual summer Idaho Press Association and Idaho Newspaper Advertising Service convention Saturday in Burley.

Forscher briefly outlined the project now under way to save Idaho water for Idaho.

He said, "The people in this state need to recognize the importance of our water and protect it. People of Idaho need to put in as much effort in saving Idaho water as other states are putting in to get our water."

The convention opened Friday at the Ponderosa Inn. Business sessions were conducted by Bert J. Rogers, IPA president, and editor of the Adams County Leader. Council, Larry Robinson, INAS president, representative of the Payette Independent-Enterprise, conducted a panel discussion Saturday morning on "What's Your Question?"

During the noon luncheon, Edward J. Bennett, Twin Falls attorney, was the guest speaker. His topic was "The Reardon Report," a popular name for the report of a committee of the Idaho Bar Association, the Advisory Committee on Fair Trial and Free Press.

He said that thus far the Reardon Report has done nothing to affect either the legal profession or the news media of Idaho. Mr. Bennett, a former president of the Idaho Bar Association, said to date there has been no action taken in Idaho by the Idaho State Bar or by the courts concerning the report.

"The Reardon Report only sets forth recommended standards relating to a fair trial for suspected offender and the press coverage of court and criminal

Malta Boy Drowns At Lake Walcott Outing

RUPERT—A 16-year-old Malta boy, who apparently went swimming alone during a family outing at Lake Walcott, was drowned Saturday afternoon.

Minidoka County sheriff's officers said David Fowler, 16, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gary Fowler, had accompanied his parents to a family outing at the lake in the afternoon in the vicinity of the boat docks.

At about 4 p.m. the family returned to the lake and the boy was not seen. The family and the group and began a search. Officers were summoned and the child's body was recovered from the lake in about six and one-half feet of water.

Officers said a Bureau of Reclamation employee at the dam found the body a short distance from an employee's home at the edge of the lake and in the same general area where the child had been swimming.

His father said the boy could swim, but not well. It was estimated he had been in the water more than two hours when found.

Members of the family had been celebrating the return of one of their members who had been serving with the army in Vietnam. They had officers that a large gathering was on hand and in the confusion the boy was not missed for some time.

The body was taken to Payne Mortuary, Burley, where funeral services were pending late Saturday.

Bombers Raid Red Vietnam Border Targets

SAIGON (AP)—Eight jet B-52 bombers, larger U.S. air weapons in the war, flew new raids against southern build-up areas inside North Vietnam Saturday to ease pressure on American ground forces spaced along the border front.

The U.S. command in Saigon reported the Stratofortresses hit weapons positions, storage areas, bunkers and antiaircraft sites just above the demilitarized zone dividing the two Vietnamese.

The planes flew two missions, 13 miles and 14 miles north-northeast of the American outpost of Con Thien, a spokesman said.

Attacks over North Vietnam by B-52s have been relatively rare in the past, but they have increased because of the threat of surface to air missiles. They were stepped up last week, however, as part of the drive to slow the flow of men and materials into the South.

Six other missions were flown Friday by the big bombers, hitting targets in the north and south of Saigon and near the coastal city of Quang Ngai.

Over North Vietnam's Southern border, the B-52s struck targets carried out 130 missions Friday. Antiaircraft fire that was described as moderate, hit down two Air Force F-4 Phantom II and the two aircraft were reported the capture of two air men Friday.

The loss of the two planes raised to 66 the number of American planes downed in combat in the North so far in the war.

Ground and water traffic, as well as military storage areas, continued to be the prime target, a headquarters communiqué said in reporting the day's attacks over the North.

The crews destroyed or damaged 16 supply barges, 6 warehouses and 6 trucks. Roads were cut in 28 places and two bridges were made unusable.

While only sporadic ground attacks were reported, new rumors circulated in Saigon that a threatened Viet Cong attack on the South Vietnamese capital. They came after a few Viet Cong forces were found flying at the end of the 6 a.m. curfew in parts of the city.

Intelligence sources said information indicated the Viet Cong threat to hit Saigon again would be carried out before July 20.

One of the dates said to have been mentioned specifically was July 16.

For weeks the Viet Cong have been saying they will launch an attack on Saigon, the most reliable authorities believe the reports are more than mere talk for propaganda purposes.

There are some fears now that the reason a new offensive against the capital had not yet come is that careful infiltration is being carried out.

Some informants say they believe the Viet Cong are moving military squads, snipers, demoliton experts and political cadres into Saigon. They think that these units would be brought to the surface in all parts of the capital before a new attack is launched. Such a move, they say, would be difficult to detect in October, 1964.

limited to coincide with rocket and mortar shillings and ground assaults from the outside in an all-out drive to create chaos in the entire city.

In related war news, South Vietnam's 42nd Ranger Battalion was presented a first Order of Merit in the U.S. Presidential Unit Citation.

The streamer was pinned on the unit colors by Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, U.S. commander in South Vietnam, in a ceremony at Caia Tho in the Mekong Delta.

The Rangers were cited for extraordinary bravery in an action against a Viet Cong battalion in July delta on May 17, 1966.

School Board To Act On Union School Petitions

Petitions from residents of the Union School district will be presented to members of the Union School Board Monday night for their consideration.

The petitions, given to Dr. Reginald said, "I am a superintendent, last week, ask that the matter of closing the Union School be put to a vote of parents of the school district. Only five signatures were needed to bring the matter to a vote. Dr. Reginald said the board probably will accept the petition officially and set a time for an election Monday night.

School officials have announced plans to close the small school, four miles west of Twin Falls, and to bring students now attending there into Twin Falls by bus.

Parents of children attending Union School have voiced opposition to the district's plan. Dr. Reginald pointed out that under state law all residents of School District 411 will be eligible to vote on the matter. This would mean any qualified voter who is either a taxpayer or the parent of a child under 21.

No registration is necessary for such an election, he added. Closing of the school has been contemplated for some time, the superintendent said. This year one of the three teachers in the school will retire and two others are being transferred to Washington School if consolidation is achieved.

Closing of the school is based on two factors, he said. These are economics and greater educational benefits for students. Cost of operating Union School is about $20,000 per year. This could be used to better advantage of all students in the overall school system in Twin Falls. Students now attending Union School would have access to many more teaching aids already acquired in the Twin Falls schools, without additional funding to add duplicate equipment in the smaller school.

Mr. Reginald also noted that present trends are downward in elementary school enrollment and the largest classes are now being held in high school, leaving inadequate facilities to accommodate the additional students.

Cong Guns Pop Brandi's Bubble

By PETER ARNETT
LONG BEACH, Vietnam (AP) — Paula Lewis is a winsome, dark-haired 20-year-old entertainer who figured she could make a bigger mark as a pop singer by going to Vietnam than by any other route.

"After all, they told me it wasn't dangerous out here, that nothing would happen to us, and they said there would be plenty of bookings and a lot of exposure," Paula said bitterly as she sat on the edge of an Army hospital bed and clutched her blue gown to her.

That was how "Brandi Perry and the Bubble Machine" was born. Paula—who is "Brandi"—had an audition with an organization handling entertainment in Vietnam and, after she sang a couple of songs, the agent said, "Get yourself a troupe, you've got to show."

Blond Jack Bone, 18, joined as an organist. A 17-year-old drummer and a 19-year-old bass player completed the "Bubble Machine."

They never had seen each other before May but by June 11, when they arrived in Vietnam for a two-month tour, they were a "happy family," Paula said.

"These kids were like my brothers," she said.

On Friday night, the bubble burst.

In a month traveling to bases around Saigon and in the Mekong Delta to the south, the group was to perform at 11 a.m. Sunday at Albion; 8 p.m. Sunday at Bupier; 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday at Twin Falls-Fall Assembly of God church, and 8 p.m. Sunday at Gooding. The group will be singing for Assembly of God churches.

Mr. McMillin, from Modesto, Calif., has been touring for about 15 years and sang in 17 churches last year. Also to be featured with the group will be Jack Smith, former teen talent winner, who will play the steel guitar. The group will present performances at 11 a.m. Sunday at Albion; 8 p.m. Sunday at Bupier; 8 a.m. and 8 p.m. Saturday at Twin Falls-Fall Assembly of God church, and 8 p.m. Sunday at Gooding. WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thomas J. Dodd contends a flood of foreign military surplus firearms will enter the United States before new import regulations take effect unless President Johnson moves to prevent it.

The omnibus crime control bill recently enacted takes effect Dec. 1.

In a letter to the President Friday, Dodd said since the bill was passed importers have been scrambling to obtain licenses to bring in large quantities of weapons. The trend could be even before the bill was enacted, he said.

Nixon Relaxes

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Richard M. Nixon took what may be his last leisure before the Republican National Convention to help his daughter, Julie, celebrate her 20th birthday Friday night.

It was a family party, with the exception of Julie's fiancé, David Eisenhower, grandson of the former president, and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Rebozo, longtime friends of the Nixons.

The former vice president, his wife, Pat, and their other daughter, Tricia, made up the rest of the party in the main dining room of the Key Biscayne Hotel.

Car Part Stolen
A transmission valued at $400 was reported stolen sometime Thursday night from a car parked in the lot at Glen Jenkins Chevrolet Co., Main Avenue and Western.

Officers said the transmission was taken from a 1956 Chevrolet owned by James McSpadden and left on the automobile lot to be sold. The transmission would fit almost any vehicle, they said.

Tax Hike May Hurt Economy

By JOSEPH R. COYNE
WASHINGTON (AP) — The tax increase which goes into effect in mid-July will brake a speeding economy more than the government's experts had planned but they foresee no serious problems as yet.

Coupled with the $6 billion in spending cuts, the income tax surcharge by some unofficial estimates could result in an unemployment rate exceeding 4 per cent in the first half of next year.

"We're certainly aware of the problem and are sensitive to it," one key government source said of the extra restraint, "but we don't see and clear evidence it's serious at this time."

In addition to adding spending cuts, President Johnson didn't want the administration "to hope in approving higher taxes, thus jamming the collections into one year instead of spreading them over a longer period."

Collection of the 10 per cent tax surcharge through increased withholding from paychecks will begin with checks received after July 13. Since July 14 is a Sunday, the effective date for practical purposes is July 15.

Some economists have expressed fears the extra restraint of the tax-spending package — the shift from the economic accelerator to the brake — is the sharpest in two decades — might force a sharp rise in unemployment and possibly a recession.

Top government economists dispute this, but none of the experts challenges the idea of some increase in unemployment.

What's anticipated now is a slowing in economic growth during the first half of 1969 to a range of 1.5 to 2 per cent in real terms. A 4 per cent growth rate is considered the ideal.

But the experts currently foresee no decline in the economy or even a pause similar to the one which occurred during the first half of 1967.

This prediction is based however, on belief that the Federal Reserve Board will cooperate by easing the nation's credit to compensate for the extra restraint in the tax-spending package.

Gross National Product, the value of all goods and services produced in the economy, climbed by a record $19.4-billion at an annual rate during the first quarter of this year — a point of growth in real terms — and officials look for a slightly smaller advance in the second quarter.

A slowdown to about $10 billion quarterly is now foreseen in the first half of 1969 with a resulting rise in unemployment.

Police Check On Break-In
A break-in and damage to five vending machines and the company's safe at the K and T Steel Co., was under investigation Saturday by Twin Falls police.

Officers said entry to the building at 322 Diamond Ave. W., was gained by picking a lock on the west door of the building, leading into the machine shop. Two soft drink machines, two candy machines and one cigarette machine were a part of the break-in.

Officers said the burglars then took an activity from the shop and moved the safe from the main office to the manager's office, where they cut two holes in the back of the safe. The safe apparently being frightened away by the night merchant police officer, Brent Staples, Mr. Staples reported the break-in to city police at 3 a.m. Saturday.

6-Year-Old Filer Girl Is Blood Drive Booster

By MARJORIE LIERMAN
Times-News Correspondent

FILER—An enthusiastic booster for the Red Cross Bloodmobile each time it visits at the Cristobal's, 6-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cristobal, as she is one of the many beneficiaries of Red paper and cardboard and Mrs. Cristobal painted the white cross inside with white paint.

The time and place for the drawing will be placed inside the white cross and the cards will be removable so the doctor predicted she would suffer hard attacks from the time she was a year old and the gamma globulin injections which she received cut down the number of attacks and the injections which might have followed.

Mrs. Cristobal states getting the gamma globulin through the Red Cross blood organization was a very satisfactory way of obtaining it and involved less expense.

Anita and the other two children of the Cristobals, 8-year-old Teresa and 3-year-old David, cut out more than 50 of the red blood droplet posters which Jerry Seew, area public

Mrs. Cristobal designed the posters, stating she "got the inspiration from the blood droplet stickers which are placed on cars of donors. The children cut the droplets out of construction paper and cardboard and Mrs. Cristobal painted the white cross inside with white paint."

France Gets Request For Safeguards

—BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — The Executive Commission of the European Common Market has granted France's request for safeguard clauses to protect its steel industries, despite objections from other members.

The commission granted all French requests, including import restrictions and export quotas — both for a limited period. The quota system will go into effect Monday until Dec. 31, and monthly quotas can be carried forward.

The French sought the safeguards in the wake of the May 1968 — social upheaval that brought economic difficulties. The commission's approval means France can limit imports from its Common Market partners to 32,000 tons of regular steel products and 14,000 tons of specialized steel products.

France was told not to discriminate among the partners and take previous deliveries into account.

France can restrict its imports from nonmember countries, including the United States, to 10,750 tons of regular steel products plus 2,250 tons of specialized steel products. No quotas were set for French imports from Communist and other state-trading countries.

France trades with these countries under long-term bilateral agreements.

Officers Search For Car Involved In Hit-Run Crash

Officers in Twin Falls and Jerome areas were continuing to search Saturday for a late model white sedan bearing Jerome County license which was involved in a hit and run accident near the National Guard Armory Tuesday night.

Officers said the vehicle, believed to be a 1964 white Ford, was traveling north on the road leading into the armory when it went out of control and crashed into a fence, taking out two fence posts.

City Officer Bill Stonemets, who was one of several police officers working off duty as special officers for a dance held at the armory, stepped into the roadway to stop the vehicle as it drove from the scene. He told other officers he was forced to jump from the roadway to avoid being struck by the vehicle which left the Frontier Field grounds by the northeast entrance.

Validity Of 2 Initiative Petitions Is Questioned

BOISE (AP) — Two of three initiative drives in Idaho have sufficient signatures filed with the secretary of state, but there was some doubt whether enough of the signatures are valid.

The filing deadline was midnight Friday.

Deputy Secretary of State Devan Hiler said backers of drives to tighten Idaho's dredge mining law and to require a vote on urban renewal projects had more than the required 25,260 signatures to get an initiative on the ballot.

But the signatures must be verified by county clerks, as those of persons who voted in the last election. Signatures unverified may become a matter of court dispute.

Hiler said the urban renewal initiative drive claimed to have 29,744 valid signatures. He said about 14,000 had been verified by late Friday.

Approximately 15,000 signatures were delivered at 10:15 p.m. Friday, Hiler said these must be checked.

Hiler, who kept the secretary of state's office open until the deadline, said it would probably be Monday before a final count could be released.

But the signatures must be verified by county clerks, as those of persons who voted in the last election. Signatures unverified may become a matter of court dispute.

81 Planes, Women Pilots Begin Derby

VAN NUYS, Calif. (AP) — Eighty-one planes with women pilots take off today for Savannah, Ga., on a 2,469-mile flight in the "Mad Year of the Powder Puff Derby."

Of the 150 women entered in the race, some will be flying solo and some with copilot. There are prizes of $3,000 for the first five places.

The pilots will be permitted to make eight stops, two of them mandatory. The planes must land at Corpus Christi, Tex., and at Greenville, Miss.

The event is sponsored by the Ninety-Nines, holding its international convention at Van Nuys Airport.

The women's flying group was founded by aviatrix Amelia Earhart. At the first meeting, 99 pilots showed up and from that developed the group's name.

The winners will be determined by their ground speeds. Handicaps are issued before the race and winners won't be known until all planes have crossed the finishing line.

Deadline, however, is midnight, July 9.

Indian Okays Fighting For Fish Rights

FORT HALL, Idaho (AP) — A member of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribal Council says the council "has authorized such action as may be necessary" to fight for Indian fishing rights.

The council chairman had said the Indians are considering filing a $10 million suit against the state for alleged harassment by state fish and game wardens.

The director of the Fish and Game Department, J. R. Woodworth, said he would not court ruling on a Washington State case, which said Indians must obey state rules of the reservation, also applies to Idaho.

Tribal council member Angela Butterfield said Friday "the people of the tribe feel this position infringes on basic rights under the treaty."

The treaty she referred to was one signed 100 years ago Wednesday between the tribes and the government.

Fire Contained

EMMETT, Idaho (AP) — A fire set to burn debris at a public dump reportedly caused an $800,000 fire east of Emmett Friday.

The Bureau of Land Management fire dispatch office said about 50 men, plus aerial slurry bombers, were needed to contain the blaze on grassland about five miles from the community.

Mao Feared For Position During Riots

HONG KONG (AP) — Mao Tse-tung expressed fear last summer about being toppled from power and branded militant Red Guards as traitors to the revolution.

China watchers disagreed, however, over the document's authenticity. It was published Friday by the Independent Hong Kong newspaper Ming Pao.

Some analysts suspected it was a clever forgery, placed together here from existing information about the power struggle between Mao, the Communist party chairman, and followers of Premier Liu Shao-chi who were inclined to accept it at face value.

It is still very possible that followers of Liu Shao-chi will gain the ultimate victory and we will suffer the ultimate defeat," the pamphlet quoted Mao as having told a dozen military delegation last August.

The delegation was not identified, but military envoys from Mao visited Liu Shao-chi last summer and conferred with Mao during the last week of August.

If the Red Guards, whose violence on behalf of Mao's Cultural Revolution purge has ripped apart mainland China, Mao was quoted as saying they had been useful, but lacked discipline and experience.

"If the revolutionary rebels (Red Guard) organizations assume power, they will be immediately driven out of power by Mao's enemies," the Chinese leader was supposed to have remarked. "Therefore the revolutionary rebels cannot be allowed to assume power, even though their revolutionary spirit is excellent."

Mao was harshly critical of his country's intellectuals, according to the document. He was said to have said a foreign delegation he had given up any idea of selecting his successors from the intellectual class because all intellectuals, including those currently studying in schools, are fundamentally bourgeois and are not to be trusted.

Recruiter For Marines Plans Twin-Falls Stop

Sgt. Joseph W. Brasher, Marine recruiter from Boise, will visit Twin Falls Wednesday through Friday at the Rogerson Hotel to interview men and women for possible enlistment in the Marine Corps.

Sgt. Brasher reminds those persons interested may join the Marine Corps for two, three or four years. In addition, men may be guaranteed assignment to Marine Corps Aviation before enlistment.

Men and women may also join the Marine Corps through 120-day Delay Enlistment Program, which allows a person to join on any given date—then delay actual recruit training for up to four additional months. During the 120-day period, there are no reserve meetings to attend, but the time counts towards credit or higher pay, towards a military obligation and counts for rank seniority. A person also remaining exempt from service during the 120-day period.

Production Up

BOISE (AP) — Meat production in Idaho slaughterhouses shows a 10 per cent increase in the first five months of this year compared to last year, according to the Agriculture Department.

The department said state slaughterhouses produced 95.8 million pounds of meat during the January-May period.

Polls Say Sato's Party To Keep Control

By JOHN RODERICK

TOKYO (AP) — The issues are U.S. control of Okinawa, Vietnam, national security and corruption but pollsters in Japan's elections Sunday say voters will base their choices on the man and not the issues.

Thus, the polls say, Prime Minister Eisaku Sato's Liberal Democratic party will retain its majority in the upper house of the Diet, the Japanese parliament.

The test will be who has the most "attractive" and "believable" candidates. In almost every election since World War II, the voters have turned to the conservatism of the candidates of the Liberal Democrats. Accordingly, the polls, it will happen again.

Since early June, 305 candidates for 126 seats in the 250-member upper body — less powerful than the ruling House of Representatives — have traveled at the rice-roots level seeking the approval of the nation's 88,537,719 eligible voters.

Sato's party has fielded 93 candidates, the Socialists 62, the Communists 49, the Democratic Socialists 15, the Buddhist-Komeito, Clean Government party, 15, and minor parties 15. Unaffiliated hopefuls total 56.

The U.S.-Japan Security Treaty, including the role of U.S. military bases here — Japan's economic and political relations with Communist China — the Vietnam war and the high cost of living figured in the election oratory.

When the balloting is over, Sato's party has fielded 93 candidates, the Socialists 62, the Communists 49, the Democratic Socialists 15, the Buddhist-Komeito, Clean Government party, 15, and minor parties 15. Unaffiliated hopefuls total 56.

Gov. Gen. Roland Michener, Gov. Elizabeth's representative in Canada, administered the oaths at Government House. Five ministers who along with Trudeau had retained their previous posts acted as witnesses.

Eight new Cabinet members announced by Trudeau Friday took a double oath, being sworn in as well to the Privy Council. The council advises the governor-general, who is titular chief executive of Canada.

Grow Appeals Mail Fraud Conviction

WASHINGTON (AP) — Provo, Utah financier D. Spencer Grow, 60, has appealed to the Supreme Court his conviction for mail fraud.

Grow was convicted in 1963 and sentenced to four years in prison, but has been free on $5,000 bond.

Grow and financier C. Oran Mensik, Chicago, were accused of setting up the now defunct Security Financial Insurance Corp. of Baltimore as a sham insurer of a string of savings and loan associations in Idaho, Utah and Maryland. The savings and loan associations also are now defunct.

Grow's appeal Friday claimed the prosecution failed to prove that he was a party to the alleged scheme or that the scheme was furthered by using the mail.

Staged Robbery Closes Holiday Celebration In Hailey Area

HAILEY — The Fourth of July celebration, which Hailey has claimed as its special day in the Big Wood River Valley since the 1880's, came to an official close when the stagecoach robbery on the town's Main street was over about 7 p.m. Thursday. For some, however, it continued on into the wee small hours Friday morning.

The celebration began Wednesday morning when the all-day Standard Quarter Horse Show of the newly organized District of Idaho section of the National Association, began at the rodeo grounds, and the two-day Wood River Gents and Minerals Society Show opened at St. Charles Catholic Hall.

Of the approximately 50 entries in the 25 different classes in the Quarter Horse Show, Poco Polly of the Bradford Stables, Rupert, won the all-around performance money with Tater Chip of the Ted Uhlig Stables south of Hailey, runner-up.

In the Rock Show, dealers and rockhounds from all parts of Idaho, and from Oregon, Utah, Arizona, Nevada and Oklahoma, exhibited. Stones from all parts of the world were shown.

The "ultray" star banner ring fashioned by Mr. and Mrs. Irving Kacalik, Bellevue, of the Wood River club, which was a winner as grand drier prize, was won by R. N. Dakin, Gooding.

In the Street Sports held Wednesday afternoon, for all ages, money in races was won by Mike Dunbar, Columbus, Ohio; Joe Carpenter, Boise; Lanie Nelson, Patricia Savaria, Pat- ick Savarin and Mike Watson, and, as a clown with his donkey and Kenneth Litzinger, third, with his lamb.

In the decorated-vehicles section Randy Bird, Garth Evans and Debbie Vlahos won prizes.

In the character section Gloria Guenzaga of Los Altos, Calif., Tammy Young and Kimberly Reimers of Hailey took first prize as three hobos; Mary Ann Ellinger, Hailey, and Debbie Adams, Boise, second as No. 1 Idaho Potatoes and Jim Vlahos, Dan Vlahos and Bruce Vlahos, Hailey as three fishermen.

In the Slipper Kick for contestants 18 years and over Sandy Reimers and Mrs. Helen House Jones of Monterey Park, Calif., took first places and Janet Bird and Mrs. Jody Taylor, Ketchum, won second places.

A patriotic observance was featured at the July 3rd evening rodeo. Following the rodeo Hailey Volunteer Firemen displayed fire works.

Highlight of Thursday's event was the Days of the Old West parade. First prize in the organization division went to the Hailey Ward LDS church for their portrayal of "Idaho," second prize was won by St. Charles Catholic church with their theme being "Prayer for Peace." Third place went to the Blue Shirt Cavalry of the local National Guard.

In the commercial section the Federal Resources mine won first place for the portrayal of mining in this valley from 1880 to 1968. In the Youth section the Skinkeroo, Jr., Riding Club took first place; Troop No. 6, Boy Scouts of America, second, and the Little League baseball team, third.

A special prize was awarded Mrs. Frank Somsen for her patriotic entry "Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue."

In the children's pet section Kathy Rainey and Pamela Ellsworth took first with their shetland ponies; Lynn Beard, second with her cat; and as a clown with his donkey

At Thursday's afternoon rodeo Miss Dianne Byington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Vernie Byington, Gannett, was chosen Queen of the Days of the Old West to reign for the coming year. Miss Winnie DeBoard and Miss Linda Foster were chosen as her attendants. Miss Byington was presented with a bouquet of red roses and a trophy by Miss Karma Jeppesen, retiring Queen.

Nasser Plays U.N. Middle East Action

MOSCOW (AP) — Egyptian President Gamel Abdel Nasser, conferring with top Kremlin leaders today, has branded last year's United Nations Middle East resolution "insufficient and unclear."

The resolution, which authorized U.N. trouble shooter Gunar V. Jarring's peacekeeping efforts in the Middle East, called for Israeli withdrawal from territories occupied in the June 1967 six-day war and renunciation of the Arab nations' state of belligerency with the Jewish state.

In a speech released by the Egyptian Embassy in fragments Friday and published in full by Pravda today, Nasser said the U.N. resolution of last Nov. 22 continued to "provide the possibility" of a political settlement of the conflict.

"But this solution, in our opinion, is insufficient and unclear. We agreed to it, however, because we are deeply dedicated to our obligation to guarantee the peace," Nasser said in a speech at a Friday luncheon.

The Soviet Union supported the U.N. resolution as a formula for a Middle East settlement.

An Egyptian spokesman said Nasser's secret talks with Soviet leaders "could be assumed to contain the general lines of the agreement" that have been made public.

Nasser, whose armed forces were re-equipped by the Soviets after the Israeli victory in June 1967, is being presented here as a hero and a distinguished visitor.

His activities covered nearly a full page in Pravda today.

He has extended his stay by several days ostensibly for a rest. But an Egyptian spokesman said more talks had been decided upon. Nasser laid wreaths today at Lenin's Tomb and at the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Rusk Spends Weekend Home

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who normally puts in a six-day week plus some time on Sunday, is spending a long weekend at home.

State Department press officer Robert J. McCloskey said Friday that Rusk, last at his office on Wednesday, plans to return to work Monday.

Local Officer Has Briefing On Strategy

Lt. Col. W. Gene Hull, Air Force Reserve, Twin Falls, has just returned from Washington, D. C., where he was one of 200 reserve officers selected to attend a two-week defense strategy seminar held at the National War College, Ft. Lesley J. McNair.

Of the 200 officers selected to attend the military seminar, 40 were from the Air Force. Purpose of the course, Mr. Hull said, is to develop a better understanding of the various aspects of national security and international policies.

Speakers included Gen. George Maxwell Taylor, Assistant Secretary of State William P. Bundy and Lt. Gen. A. J. Goodpastor, third in command at the Paris peace talks.

Part of the purpose of the seminar is to inform military leaders in the various communities of the nation so they may appraise their community residents of military measures. Mr. Hull is available to address service clubs and other interested groups.

Services will be conducted at 2 p.m. Wednesday at the Bird Funeral Chapel with burial in the Hailey Cemetery.

Food Is Where You Find It--If You're Game

Shower anyone? Try picking watercress at Shoshone Falls.

Crawling under low fences is all in a day's work for mushroom pickers.

Women's Section

Short on salad greens? Head for the nearest weed patch and pluck some dandelions.

A dip in the creek is refreshing to foot-sore scroungers.

Like to live dangerously? Pick (carefully) a mess of stinging nettles to cook.

Picking asparagus in tall grass is kind of like a grownup version of an Easter egg hunt.

Today's Special: Cooked Weeds

By RUTH KOONCE MILLER
Times-News Staff Writer

There's something about gathering, picking, catching or other "wild" food that brings out the pioneer spirit in many an American homemaker. It could be the feeling of accomplishment—but more likely it's the "bargain days"—feeling of getting something for nothing. Something for nothing in common language can be interpreted as: A tank of gas to find the best asparagus grounds. 2. An expensive picnic lunch to take along while angling for a couple dollars worth of fish. 3. Fifty pounds of gold-plated sugar to make chokecherry or wild currant jelly.

The above definitions of "nothing" are appropriate for the specialty scrounger, defined as one who makes a special trip somewhere to look for free food.

However, for the natural born scrounger, free food is often just that—and can be found on nearly every outing away from the homestead.

Or, if you're really a scrounger, you don't even have to go off the homestead. Cultivate your own dandelions for salad, cooked greens or wine.

All your neighbors probably will hate you—but at least your yellow dotted lawn is helping to feed the family.

The neighbors might even think that by picking the dandelions you are trying to do something about them, thereby gaining a little neighborly sympathy.

One of the most common free foods for both the professional and amateur scroungers is asparagus. The price for asparagus in grocery stores really isn't all that bad, but why pay for it when you can use a couple dollars worth of gas going out in the country to pick your own? Not to be overlooked are the band-aids required for all the cuts and scratches and sunburn ointment for the peeling nose.

Ah, but the feeling of accomplishment is both elating and inflating when you finally have all your asparagus tucked neatly away in the freezer.

In not more than two days, generally within the same day, you are bound to read in the paper that some wise-guy county agent has warned that ditch banks in the area of your favorite asparagus grounds have been sprayed and picking is not advised. This is defined as deflating.

Mushroom picking is great sport, but not one that should be undertaken by the amateur scrounger. In Idaho, there are several different types of edible mushrooms—some of them tasty and some which defy description.

One of the nicest things about picking wild food is that it gives you a chance to share your good fortune with friends. However, many friends look suspiciously down their noses at a gift of mushrooms and begin to wonder "just how good a friend" you are.

Other favorite targets of scroungers are not yet in season. Elderberries are good for wine, pie, jelly; chokecherries make luscious jam, jelly, pancake syrup or wine, and currants also make good wine and jelly.

Watercress is easy to find and identify and is very tasty in sandwiches or salad, and is especially good after all its inhabitants have been removed.

Another plant which is a favorite of those with pioneer blood is cow cabbage. It is best picked early in the year when the heads have not yet bloomed and the leaves are young and tender. It should be cooked and served with vinegar and butter. The origin of the name has been lost somewhere. It bears no resemblance to a cow and cattle won't even eat it—which doesn't sound like much of a recommendation—but, remember, it's cheaper than spinach.

No one's going to believe this but in the "greens" category comes stinging nettle, young tender ones. It is served like cow cabbage, but the trick is in the picking.

You must be brave. Stinging nettle does just that if you brush against it. It stings and leaves little red bumps all over you. To pick it you must barge right in and grab it tightly. If you latch right onto it, it will generally not sting and when cooked, it leaves no little red bumps in your stomach.

For variety stinging nettle, dandelions and cow cabbage may be cooked together.

For those of you who wish to make some kind of "free" drink other than wine, there is chicory for coffee.

Chicory can be found in great abundance at Soldier, just north of Fairfield. The natives are anxious to get rid of it, so take as much as you want.

Now all you need to complete a meal is a nice trout or a good deer or elk steak which most husbands are willing to provide.

Amateur scroungers are advised to keep a good supply of "TV" dinners on hand in case they mis-identify some free food. It wouldn't be too bad an idea to have a doctor's phone number handy, too.

COATS ARE LONGER

Fashion is now reversing itself. For fall the new length is the middle of the calf—no longer will middle of the thigh be stressed. Some designers insist that maxi or midi length looks old. Others maintain it is young and that it elongates the figure. This new length is shown mainly in coats with short dresses beneath, or as button-on skirts or pants. You'll even be seeing this new length in pants.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: There is a 16-year-old boy living next door to us who has just started taking violin lessons. Now that summer is here, we keep all our windows open, and we can hear this kid practicing night and day. I have heard "Santa Lucia" for two weeks now, and there hasn't been any improvement.

I saw his father in the yard and said, "Your boy sure practices a lot. I hear him night and day." "Joy's" father said, "Don't complain. Your getting a concert for free. One day you will have to pay for a ticket to hear him."

I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings, but this boy is making me crazy with his violin. Any suggestions?

THE MAN NEXT DOOR

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. I am blind. My father is deaf, so he can't hear me. I have an air conditioner and keep my windows closed during the summer until it's time to "buy that ticket."

DEAR ABBY: Thanks to your column I realized that I wasn't the only woman in the world who was married to a man who had lost interest in her at a much too early age.

I tried all the tricks. Trimmed myself down, new clothes, new hairdo. I even fell for that bit about blondes having more fun. (They don't. They just have bigger beauty parlor bills.) I teased and flirted and even begged. At first I felt cheap, then humiliated. Then I finally realized that there was nothing wrong with ME. It was HIM. I asked him to try to get to the root of his problem, but he insisted that he had no problem.

So that is where things stand. If he won't get help, there's nothing I can do. It's hurt me a lot to be able to "talk" about it. And as you know, a lady doesn't talk to her friends about things like this. Thanks for being you. "A LADY"

DEAR "LADY": I received many letters from both husbands and wives who are married to icebergs, cold tomatoes, etc. Emotional temperatures differ. It's too bad these glaciers don't marry each other.

DEAR ABBY: I have two sons. One is 15 and the other is 14. My neighbor has two daughters. One is 15 and the other is 13. My husband works nights, and I work days. The problem is that our two boys like the neighbor girls. They are nice girls from a good family, but when we are gone, the sisters will come over to see our boys. They don't date or anything like that because we feel they are too young.

But now that it's summer vacation, the girls have been spending a lot of time here, and I don't think it's right with no adults at home. Besides, you know how neighbors gossip.

How do I tell these girls not to come here unless my husband or I are home?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: You should not tell the girls anything. Tell your sons that they aren't to have the girls in the house unless you are home.

DEAR ABBY: The people of this country (and I blush to admit that I am no exception) have absolutely NO GUTS when it comes to refusing to tip waiters, cab drivers, and others who do only their job (for which they are paid) and nothing more.

There is no more reason to tip a cab driver for driving you from one place to another than the bus driver who does the same thing—unless, of course, he handles your luggage or does something extra for you. Most cab drivers don't even bother to open the door of a cab anywhere. And when you DO tip them, they don't even say, "Thank you."

I HAVE HAD IT

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 6700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

LINGERIE STRAPS STAY PUT

The summer season is almost here and sleeveless, backless fashions are proving more popular than ever. It's especially important to be sure that lingerie straps stay where they belong.

If you've arrived at a resort hotel and find you've forgotten the proper undergarments, why not use a trick familiar to fashion models? Very often they don't know what styles they will

Joyce Nelson, Blackburn-Wed In June Rites

Joyce Nelson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Nelson, Buhl, became the bride of Dale Blackburn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Blackburn, Twin Falls, in a double ring ceremony June 1 at the Immanuel Lutheran Church in Twin Falls.

Rev. Harold Iben performed the evening ceremony before a background of white, red and pink and white carnations. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown fashioned with an empire-waistline and long-sleeved sleeves. A lace-trimmed train was caught up with a tiny bow on each shoulder. The veil was borrowed from her sister-in-law, Mrs. Stan Moore. It was held by a crown of pearls.

Her jewelry—a single strand of pearls, a gift from the bridegroom. The bride carried a rose cascade of pink and white roses enhanced with white carnations and white ribbon streamers.

Maids of honor were Mrs. Earl Nelson, sister-in-law to the bride, and Mrs. Ron Hatcher, cousin of the bridegroom. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Stan Moore and Mrs. Ralph Nelson, both sisters-in-law to the bride.

Mr. Archie Nelson, twin brother of the bride, served as best man. Stan Moore and Earl Nelson served as ushers.

Mrs. Mary Walker, the officiant, accompanied by Mr. Herbert Einspahr.

Following the ceremony, the newlyweds greeted guests at a reception in the church. The bride's table was covered with a skirt of white over pink centerpieces with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by individual cakes bearing the names of the bride and bridegroom.

Situation In Vietnam Is Similar To Fairy Tale

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH
SAIGON (AP) — As in the fairy tale of the emperor's new clothes, there is a big gap in South Vietnam between what people say and what they think. People longer the peace talks continue in Paris, the wider the gap becomes.

Everyone knew the emperor wasn't wearing any clothes. Everyone in Saigon knows that the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese army are not likely to drop their tents and quietly go away.

Yet to judge from Saigon's newspapers and from the pronouncements of many South Vietnamese politicians, the war can end no other way.

Everyone knows that Communists are imposing their will on most of the country's territory and perhaps half its 17 million inhabitants.

Everyone knows that the Paris talks imply peace by concession. Several possible avenues of agreement—mutual withdrawal of North Vietnamese and American troops, a coalition government or the country's neutralization—are all taboo in public discussion.

South Vietnam's constitution bans not only propagating Communist ideas but spreading ideas likely to give comfort to the enemy, such as neutralism.

The provision is officially interpreted as outlawing the very thought of negotiating with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

A South Vietnamese minister, Phan Quang Dan, was fired for publicly advocating such negotiations.

Prime Minister Tran Van Huong mentioned in a speech to the National Assembly that the National Liberation Front will win one time contained some non-Communist patriots. He was warned.

Not even a widely respected leader like President Nguyen Van Thieu can afford to call the emperor's bluff. At least, not his own power. Thieu denied the charge indignantly: "I am no dictator," he said.

The politicians agreed to meet again to discuss the idea, but Thieu's chances of breaking through with his message seem slim.

Indirectly, Thieu's logic thus poses a long way toward the kind of compromise which many South Vietnamese leaders wish they will fight to the death.

South Vietnam is full of influential refugees from North Vietnam who still dream of freeing their old homelands from Communism with American help. There are also men making unadmitted fortunes out of the American presence.

New Respiratory Device Developed

By FRANK CAREY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Scientists reported Saturday development of a wristwatch-like monitoring instrument which they said might help greatly to reduce deaths from acute respiratory disorders.

Specifically, they said, the new device is expected to help reduce substantially the mortality rate from such illnesses as—

Acute respiratory syndrome, or hyaline-membrane disease—the malady that killed Patrick Kennedy, infant son of President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy. It accounts for the deaths of 20,000 newborn children annually in the United States alone.

Emphysema, the lung disease that kills more than 17,000 Americans every year.

Vintage Cars Recreating Famous Race

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Thirty-two cars, all 1914 or earlier vintage, rolled into the Great Salt Lake Desert Sunday, for a re-enactment of a part of the 1908 New York to Paris automobile race — and proving that motoring can still be an adventure.

The cars spurted down U.S. 40 toward Reno, Nev., after a stopover in Salt Lake City for repairs and rest, a spokesman said, they hoped to reach Reno in two or three days.

Thirty-six of the antique carriages began the journey June 16 from New York. Four dropped out because of mechanical breakdown before reaching Salt Lake City.

All parts replacements have to be machined.

Average collector's value of the cars is $15,000.

By midday, heat waves swirled on the salt flats between Salt Lake City and Wendover, Utah, as temperatures registered in the hundreds. The old cars stopped frequently for radiator checks because as one driver explained, "A lot of the cars don't have heat indicators."

He said extra containers of water were being carried for the trip across the desert.

The four-day trip will end July 13 at San Francisco.

Demands For Coffee Exceed World Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans drink about 44 million cups of coffee a day but must depend on others to get it.

No one has developed a successful coffee bean plant that would thrive, say, on the sunny shores of the Rockies or in the sheltered valleys of the southern Appalachians.

Latin America is a major supplier of coffee for the United States, which buys about half of the yearly production moving into export trade.

A report by the Agriculture Department this month showed that for the third straight year supplies of coffee available on the world market are below to world demands.

Americans over 10 years of age averaged more than 2 1/2 cups a day last year, says the coffee industry.

Do the short supplies mean Americans like coffee less?

"No, nothing like that," says one of the department's coffee specialists. "There are enough supplies on hand to support consumption in the United States."

Brazil has an estimated 50 million to 60 million bags of excess coffee on hand, he said. The total surplus at the end of 1968 is estimated at about 70 million.

Therefore, says the department, these supplies will cover the current year's demand.

This year, the world's most exportable supply of coffee is estimated at 45,500,000 bags, compared to the average of 51,420,000 bags.

Nearly all of the world's coffee exporting nations cooperate in the International Coffee Agreement, which provides for orderly marketing between the buyers and have-nots.

This treaty was originated in 1930 on a five-year basis. The U.S. Senate approved the agreement last month for another five years.

Fastening Negro Is Given Oxygen

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — Civil rights activists, Dick Gregory, suffering from a cold after last night's 39 days, was given oxygen.

Negro entertainer was moved to a Tacoma hospital from his cell in Thurston County Jail in Olympia, where he was serving a 90-day sentence for resisting arrest during an anti-fighting demonstration in 1968.

Gregory's attorney, Jack Tamm, said he was expected to serve the remainder of his sentence, which started June 7, in the hospital. His condition was improved Friday night as anti-fighting demonstration in 1968.

The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in the County Jail Building. A special invitation is being issued to college students, who are in the area for the summer, to attend.

Introduced will be Mrs. Mary Adams, Orval Hansen and Don Laveland, all seeking the Republican nomination in the August primary election.

Two Persons Drown In Utah

DUTCH JOHN, Utah (AP) — Two persons drowned after a boat collision in Flamingo, Garfield County, southwest Wyoming, Friday night, the National Park Service reported today.

The victims were identified as Donald Lynn Myerhoff, 31, and his father-in-law, Charles S. Mortenson, 66, both of Salt Lake City.

A Park Service spokesman said the victims were trolling in a boat with Myerhoff's wife and three children. The craft collided with a boat operated by a man identified as Robert L. Adams, who was with his wife and children.

Mortenson reportedly was thrown from the boat and Myerhoff jumped in the reservoir in an attempt to rescue the older man. They disappeared beneath the water.

Hansen Woman Attends Rites For Grandson

HANSEN — Mrs. Marie Muse has returned from a trip to Wash., where she attended funeral services for her grandson, George Franklin Muse, 19, who was drowned June 25, in the Columbia River across from Richland, Wash.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. R. N. (Bill) Muse, former residents in Hansen.

George and several teenagers were sliding down a long chute which empties irrigation into the river. His companions stated that Muse grabbed for a rope at the bottom of the chute, but his feet went out from under him, his head struck the bottom of the chute and he fell into the river.

His body was found in the river under the waterfall from the chute.

He is survived by his parents; a brother, Douglas; and his grandmothers, Mrs. Marie Muse, Hanford, and Mrs. Margaret Smith, Seattle, Wash.

Services were held in Pasco, Wash.

Redlegs Rally To Pin Sixth

Loss On L.A.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Pinch hitter Chico Ruiz drilled a two-run single with one out in the ninth inning that gave Cincinnati a 3-2 victory over Los Angeles Saturday night, lifted the Reds into second place in the National League and extended the Dodgers' losing streak to six games.

The Reds had trailed 2-1 since the fifth inning, but Lee May opened the ninth with a single off the glove of third baseman Jim Lefebvre. Tommy Helms doubled him to third, but Bill Singer, the Dodger starter, threw a shallow right, the runners holding.

Ruiz, a utility infielder, then batted for relief pitcher Ray Carroll and singled to center, scoring both runners.

Key singles by Tom Haller helped the Dodgers to runs in the fourth and eighth innings. His fourth-inning single sent Len Gabrielson, who had singled to third and he, scored on a wild pitch by Cincinnati starter Jim Maloney.

In the fifth, Haller singled home Paul Popovich, who walked with two out and took scores when Gabrielson also walked.

The Reds scored their first run in the fifth when May singled, Woodward was hit by a pitch and Alex Johnson singled with two out.

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP)—Jack Nicklaus and Bill Casper head the strong American contingent teeing off Wednesday in the 106-year-old British Open Golf Championship.

Nicklaus, a former winner, and Casper, leading money winner on the rich American pro tour, are among seven U.S. players exempt from qualifying.

Twenty-five additional Yanks are in the 308 who will play 36 holes Monday and Tuesday for 70 places.

Lee Trevino, the new U.S. Open champion, originally had hoped to compete but later learned the tournament conflicted with a previous commitment.

In addition to Nicklaus and Casper, favorites include Arnold Palmer, two-time winner who has been on a prolonged slump this year; former Masters

Glenns Ferry To Host Horse Races

GLENN'S FERRY, Idaho, will host the first annual Glenns Ferry Fair Race Meet August 3 through 11. The meet will be held there in almost-antiseptic ponds until the summer of the end of August.

Eggs taken from them at that time will be hatched in trays and the resulting young reared for about a year in the facility's rearing and feeding ponds, where they will receive the ultimate in tender and loving care by Almsworth and his chief assistant, Fenton Hayes.

Then, like their fellows before them in each year since 1966, the juveniles will slip into Rapid River to begin another cycle of migration to the sea and back.

New concrete stalls are offered, and there is a quarter horse timing device at the track. Mrs. James Carpenter, racing secretary, reports that almost a third of the stalls are reserved now.

There will be 8 to 10 races each day, as well as a $100 saddle to the leading rider and the leading trainer of the meet. There will be trophies and racquetball for the winners.

Warner was this year's champion in the 100-yard dash, broadjump and quartermile.

He was the only Magic Valley man to place in the one-day event.

Players Seek Aid As Owners Delay Training Slate

CLEVELAND (AP)—National Football League owners postponed the start of all training camps Saturday, pending settlement of a player-owners dispute.

Players asked football Commissioner Pete Rozelle to step in and solve the controversy.

Rozelle was not available for comment Saturday night, but an aide said he expected the commissioner to have a statement before noon Sunday.

About 50 NFL players met briefly in Los Angeles Saturday night and, in a statement read by Mal Kennedy, attorney for the National Football League Players Association, said they were willing to meet the owners' many demands except such a meeting within three days.

Kennedy said the statement, prepared by John Gory of Detroit, president of the players group, urged the commissioner step in.

Arthur P. Modell, Cleveland Browns' owner and president of the NFL, said the NFL Owners Committee was willing to meet again with the players' union.

It was Modell who issued a formal statement saying that owners had decided not to open training camps pending a collective bargaining agreement with the players.

San Francisco had been scheduled to open camp Sunday at Santa Barbara, Calif. Detroit was to follow on Tuesday and Dallas, Green Bay and New Orleans on Wednesday with others at close intervals.

Earlier in the day, Jack Kemp of the Buffalo Bills, president of the American Football League Players Association, said in an urgent wire to Rozelle that they were sympathetic with the NFL players' cause, but have not issued any strike threat.

Kemp said that if the commissioner didn't intercede, AFL players would have no recourse but to request federal mediation.

At that time, Rozelle said he would reply to Kemp personally.

The commissioner had indicated earlier, however, that he was staying in close touch with the situation and said last week that while he "is not involved at this point, I feel it is important that the problem be resolved."

Meeting Set

The Magic Valley Trail Machines Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 8:30 p.m. at the Twin Falls Power Plant Park. A picnic will be held in conjunction with the meeting. All members are asked to bring their own food and table service. Liquid refreshments will be furnished by the club.

Air Force Nabs Solons'

Hurling Ace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Darlold Knudsen, wearing two uniforms as part-time relief pitcher for Washington and fulltime member of the Air Force, has had his brief filing as a "moonlighter" in the major leagues cut short by orders to Japan.

Knudsen, leading the Senators with a 2.25 earned run average, has racked up a remarkable record by pitching in 30 games—high for the team—while playing only on overnight and weekend passes.

His career as a cross country commuter, jetting from coast to coast to join the club on road trips on weekends, was ended by Air Force orders to head overseas in one week.

"He'll be very hard to replace. It's going to hurt us quite a bit," Manager Jim Lemon said Saturday.

Knudsen pitched two innings of scoreless relief against Chicago, striking out four batters. He gave up one hit, then promptly picked the runner off base.

"I hope I get to pitch every day until I leave," said Knudsen. "I am throwing better than I have been all year."

Called to active duty last January, Knudsen has been stationed at nearby Andrews Air Force Base in the same assignment filled by Freddie Johnson's son-in-law, Patrick Nugent, before he was sent to Vietnam.

The 26-year-old, southpaw shaver, off the mound, said, "I wasn't too shocked. I knew I was going somewhere. It was inevitable. I was not going to stay. Being an athlete, they had to send me somewhere. They couldn't show partiality."

Strangely, it will be the first Air Force flight for Knudsen in the countless commercial trips.

Angels Save Last Game With Ogden

IDAHO FALLS, Idaho (AP)—The Idaho Falls Angels downed the Ogden Dodgers 3-2 Saturday night to prevent an Ogden sweep in a four-game Pioneer League season series.

Idaho Falls scored two runs in the first inning on a walk by Damon Howell and consecutive singles by Len Lonner, Charles Oakes and Dave Thompson.

Idaho Falls scored the winning run in the bottom of the eighth when Dave Thompson walked, went to third when Len Lonner walked and Ogden pitcher Pat Gillo overthrew first base and scored on Jim Cesario's double.

Virgilio Barrientos had a two-hitter, going 3-0 in the top of the eighth, when Ogden scored one on a triple by Bill Buckner and a single by Tom Paolucci.

Ogden scored again in the top of the ninth when Pat Nichols walked and was tripped home by Bob Valentino.

Youth Held Over Letter Found Dead

JUAREZ, Mexico (AP)—A 17-year-old who was arrested because he had a letter containing statements about the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., was found hanging in a psychiatric ward cell, police said today.

Jesus Chacón, Juarez judicial police chief, said the body of Crispin Curiel Gonzalez was found Thursday in the cell at a Juarez hospital. The body was hanging from a rope made of strips to cloth torn from the mattress in the cell.

Gonzalez had been taken to the hospital for psychiatric observation under an order from Mexican federal Dist. Atty. Norberto Salinas.

Salinas said the youth was arrested June 17 after a letter or manuscript fell from his pocket at a concession stand in Juarez. The paper included writings to the effect that the youth had prior knowledge of the slaying of Sen. Kennedy in Los Angeles.

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP)—Dizzy Gillespie, the man with the hot horn, gave the Newport Jazz Festival a happy afternoon Friday.

"I identified one number as 'Swing Low, Sweet Chariot' and sang the lyric, 'I looked over Jordan and what did I see, an Eldorado comin' after me.'"

At night, the big bands took over, including those of Duke Ellington, Count Basie and Woody Herman.

He was placed on 12 months probation after pleading guilty to second degree burglary charges brought by city police. Jones was accused of burglarizing a local residence.

Portion Of Sales Tax Revenue Being Doled Out

By EARL L. JESTER
BOISE (AP)—A portion of the revenue collected by Idaho's sales tax now is being earmarked for counties, cities, school districts and other local units of government.

It's the result of enactment by the 1967 legislature of the controversial law phasing out the property tax on merchandise inventories, livestock and timber products.

Earmarking of sales tax revenue began July 1, but the local units of government won't know for awhile how much they will get. All they have so far is a formula showing the percentage of the earmarked tax revenue which will go to each county.

The amount in dollars can be determined only after sales tax collections are completed for the first allocation period, the first three months—July, August, September—of the fiscal year which began July 1.

The phase-out law provides that in the current fiscal year 5 per cent of all sales tax collections will go into the fund earmarked for distribution to the local units of government. On July 1, 1969, the law provides an increase to 10 per cent.

A year later it becomes 15 per cent and on July 1, 1971, it goes to 20 per cent—unless the legislature revises the law.

Matching the increasing sales tax diversion is a corresponding reduction in the assessment of the so-called inventories.

For the current calendar year, on which property tax assessments are based, the calculation or merchandise inventories, livestock and timber products must, for tax purposes, be reduced 25 per cent from that in 1967.

A 50 per cent reduction is required for 1969, a 75 per cent cut in 1970 and the assessment must be wiped out completely by 1971.

Sales tax collections now are running about $3 million a month and 5 per cent of that amounts to $150,000. On that basis, money available for distribution to local units of government for the first quarter of the fiscal year would amount to about $450,000.

For the entire state, the portion earmarked for local taxing units will amount to about $1.5 million in the current fiscal year if collections continue at the present rate. The reduction in inventory tax collections resulting from the phaseout is estimated at about $1.5 million for 1968.

Thus the local taxing units will receive in sales tax revenue about $300,000 more than they will lose from the inventory tax phase out.

To determine the share for local taxing units, a formula has been devised by the Idaho Tax Commission. It determines the proportion each county's share of the inventory taxes collected bears to the state total.

Each county, under terms of the formula, then is entitled to that percentage of total sales tax revenue which is earmarked for local governmental units. Each county must use the same procedure in determining the sales tax revenue for each distribution period. Percentage figures provided by the tax commission include, used in the formula, is $6,264,723 for the larger counties: Bannock, 6.1; Blaine, 4.7; Bonneville, 8.4; Canyon, 5.3; Cassia, 2.9; Clearwater, 2.5; Idaho, 2.5; Kootenai, 3.7; Minidoka, 1.4; Nez Perce, 6.1; Shoshone, 14.5 per cent of the earmarked 2.3, and Twin Falls, 6.9.

And Speaking of trivia: Everybody's favorite when they were very young was the tongue-twister. A while ago we published in this column the twister, "What annoys a noisy oyster—a noisy noise annoys an oyster." And here now is one that goes way back:

Betty Batter bought some butter. "But," she said, "this butter's bitter. If I put it in my batter it will make my batter-bitter." So she bought a bit of butter-better than her bitter butter, put it in her bitter batter and made her bitter batter better.

Ever wonder what an "activist" was? It really isn't too hard to find a title for someone to have if one considers that it could mean that a person was active in many things . . . but that isn't the case. The word "activist" now applies to political or semi-political situations as well as those involved in riots, etc. In fact in a study called the Harris Study an "activist" was found to be a student, another person for that matter, who had done, or would do from one to four of the following things:

- Sign a petition.
- Participate in a demonstration.
- Join a picket line.
- Defy the school authorities (or accepted authorities).
- Risk a future security clearance.
- Violate the law.
- Go to jail.
- Participate in civil disobedience.

So now you know whether or not you are an activist. At least most of us at one time or another could be considered an activist in a small way . . . but the question is, "In how big a small way?"

Some epitaphs, exactly as they were copied off the gravestones:

- Here lies one: Wood enclosed in wood, One wood within another.
- The outer wood is very good; We cannot praise the other.
- Winslow, Maine
- My wife lies here.
- All my tears cannot bring her back; Therefore, I weep.
- Vermont
- She lived with her husband fifty years and died in the confident hope of a better life.
- Burlington, Vermont

Here is a brief sampling of some trivia collected by Harry Purvis, a Canadian writer:

- Dorothy Malone in the movie "Law and Order" says to Ronald Reagan, "Must you always think like a marshal? Can't you think like a human being just this once?"
- Yvonne De Carlo to Richard Greene in "The Desert Hawk": "So, a low-born blacksmith is the famous Desert Hawk!"
- Adolphe Menjou to Katharine Hepburn in "Morning Glory": "You don't belong to any man now — you belong to Broadway."
- And finally in "Never the Twain Shall Meet," C. Aubrey Smith said to Leslie Howard, "This girl's of a different race, of a different world. You've got your friends, your position."

A timely story about now might be the one about the friend of ours who was moving along a dimly lit street, and he was suddenly approached by a stranger who slipped from the shadows nearby, but who couldn't have been nicer. "Please, sir," asked the stranger, "would you be so kind as to help a poor unfortunate fellow who is hungry and out of work? All I have in the world is this gun."

And finally a bit of advice: Never force an intoxicated person to drink a lot of coffee, unless you are prepared to handle a wide-awake drunk.

The young man on the left stuffs popcorn in his mouth as he halfheartedly listens to concepts he doesn't really understand, but which could shape his future.

Ice Cream, Balloons, Hot Air, And The

By JAN ARTHUR SAINSBURY
Times-News Feature Editor

Everybody waited. The crowds in Steunenberg Park, that bit of grass and concrete in front of the Idaho capitol, milled quietly as a rock band blared in poor taste on the hot granite steps above them.

An announcer spoke into a microphone and said, "Welcome to Boise." And a few people laughed. Most didn't. It was too hot.

A drill team had been standing on the capitol steps in two lines for half an hour. Most of the people were bunched under trees and in the shadows of statues and pillars. Some sat on the steps and hid from the sun under placards proclaiming their undying love for a political candidate.

Ice cream melted inside its brown-black covering and ran down wooden stocks onto the arms of squinting children. Some ate popcorn and later wished they hadn't.

It was 90 degrees in the shade and there was no shade on the capitol steps; and still the people waited.

The thumping of the band continued and after a while no one noticed anymore. It could have been a prototype for the outdoor political rally. But the prototype was created years ago, and last Tuesday in Boise was simply one more of many.

Everybody continued to wait as someone, too close to the microphone, said, "Ladies and Gentlemen, we have word that the governor's plane has landed and he is making his way to the capitol. Soon we will be able to welcome the governor of New York."

And the next president of the United States, Nelson Rockefeller! And the audience was strangely quiet.

Actually, the governor was not yet making his way to the capitol building, unless, of course, the trip took nearly an hour. But subsequent announcements were made as the governor of New York and his party finally came into view, preceded by a red light in the distance.

Only then did the lazy tired crowd begin to move. A few started their movement toward the speaker's stand, thinking that they could beat others with the same idea.

And it became exciting. The stuff political rallies are made of.

The newsmen, who until this time were about as bored as they could be, quickened their pace. Cameras were checked, again and settings adjusted. And from high on the capitol steps one could see the thousands of people moving out of shaded areas and converging on the central sun-parched concrete in front of where Nelson Rockefeller would speak.

It was announced that the New York candidate was now moving from the gold and silver-gray Lincoln of Idaho's chief executive into the more politically colorful stagecoach, drawn by two mules.

And again the wait seemed long.

But now the people didn't mind. He could be seen. Two small dots on a larger dot, the stagecoach could be made out behind flashing red lights, far down Capitol Boulevard. And the scene grew larger.

The noise of the band began again and people chanted the candidate's name. Small boys with sticky hands held on to their mothers, and businessmen pulled at their ties and complained at the heat, and all of them moved in even closer.

It was before long that he could be seen even before most of the people there could be sure it was Rocky. But there was no mistaking that gesture.

The stagecoach pulled around in front of the capitol steps and the noise grew louder and louder. Rockefeller, on a tall, thin, striped-down into the pushing, shoving crowd of people.

He, and the men around him, forced their way through the crowd. The people wanted to touch him, to shake his hand, to say hello and tell him their name; and later they would say, "Yes, I talked with Governor Rockefeller. For quite a while, actually."

The governor was cheered and listened to. His every gesture filmed by NBC, CBS and ABC cameras, and by a hundred other cameras in the hands of newsmen and spectators. And every word recorded—just in case he said the wrong thing, or the right thing.

At one point he talked about his wealth mentioning his grandfather. And in a scene right out of a political primer called, "How to Make Them Think You're a Regular Guy," Rockefeller said, "I don't know about you, but I think it's too hot to wear a coat," and started to take his off.

He hadn't removed it from his shoulders before Jack Hawley, his man in Boise, and three or four others immediately behind him reached out, all together, each offering their help. And as a result they nearly tipped the coat off him. And then everyone else in the row of politicians behind Rockefeller removed his coat, with the exception of Gov. Don Samuelson.

And with that out of the way, speaking began.

Throughout the crowd Secret Service men were obvious. Three or four could be seen very close to the candidate at all times. They were all in dark plain suits. Most of them tall, and most wore dark sunglasses.

Each member of the Federal Secret Service wore a small triangular lapel pin of white, yellow, and off-green. A similar lapel pin with a star in the center was worn by Rockefeller's own security guards, and small yellow pins were worn by local law enforcement officers, and people cleared to stand near the candidate.

The Secret Service and security officers seldom watched Rockefeller. While the crowd

THIS YOUNG POLITICAL enthusiast gets them coming and going. For the most part the young carry the signs, and the older workers find shade to stand in, or something cool to drink.

A PRETTY GIRL sits in front of a "We Love Gov" sign at the capitol building in Boise. She, like the attractive girl on the right, waits for the arrival of the politician, Rockefeller.

As Rockefeller arrived the now ever-present Secret Service men flank his moves. In the center picture a Federal Secret Service man can be seen directly behind Rockefeller. They

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

From L. E. T. Burley, Idaho: I found a Canadian nickel in change the other day which has a picture of a rabbit on it. The other Canadian nickels I have all have a beaver on them. When did they start using this picture? It is valuable?

Answer: Canada celebrated its one hundredth anniversary last year (1967) and during the year the reverse of all Canadian coins was changed. The one cent coin had a "dove" on it, the five-cent, a rabbit (or hare), the ten-cent a mackerel (fish), the fifty-cent, a wolf, and the one dollar piece a flying goose. These reverses were for only 1967, and this year Canada has returned to its regular design.

reverses. The coins were put out in large quantities but have been held onto by collectors and tourists who got them while in Canada. The new dollar coin will be much smaller and made from cupro-nickel.

To L. D. Twin Falls, Idaho: The coin you describe is a one cent (1 Mats) piece of Ethiopia, valued at about fifty cents, collector value, if brand new.

From Mrs. R. B. R. Twin Falls: I have a coin which is very shiny, like a nickel. It has a hole in the center of it. On one side it says "Republique Francaise" and there is a woman's head at the top between the words. There is a wreath or something around the hole in the center.

On the back a big "S" and the words "Indochine Francaise" with the words "Cent" and "1953" on the left side. Is it? What is the value of this coin?

Answer: You have a 5-centime piece of Indo-China under French domination. This was a group of states, surrounded by China, Siam, the Gulf of Siam and the Chinese Sea. The states were French Colonies and included Annam, Cambodia, Cochinchina, Laos and Tonkin.

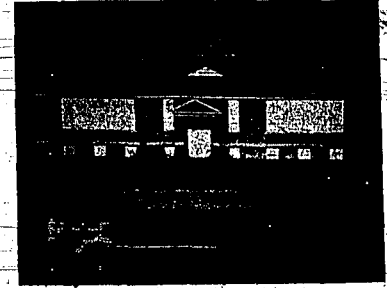

The Japanese occupied this territory during World War II. It controlled it with its Communist forces. When the French returned, the Communists were driven out, but by guerrilla warfare, pushed the French out of the country. The Geneva Conference then broke up the colony into North Vietnam, Cambodia, Laos and South Vietnam. This is the country where much of the fighting of our Vietnam War is taking place.

This coinage has very little exchange value, and your coin is not scarce. It will bring you about twenty five cents from a collector if brand new.

From C. P. A. Twin Falls: I have a coin (looks like silver) about the size of our fifty cent piece, which has the picture of a man on it. Around the picture it says "Deutsches Reich 3 Reichsmark" and under "Hindenburg, Reichs President". On the back is a hand, with two fingers pointing up, the dates 1919-1922 and the lettering "Treu und Gerechtigkeit". What is it from?

Answer: Germany. This is a commemorative 3-mark piece issued in 1920 to celebrate the 10th year of the Constitution of 1919. Von Hindenburg was a celebrated German statesman and later president of the German Republic. He was finally ousted by Adolf Hitler, but remains a national hero in Germany. The coin has a value of about three dollars, if in uncirculated condition.

CANYONSIDE SCHOOL, located about four miles south of Jerome on Highway 78, will be sold at public auction July 13. The old stone structure, built in 1920 on land donated to the school district by the late W. S. Lewis, was closed as a regular school about four years ago. For the next few years classes were held there each fall for Spanish-American children.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

The fate of the old Canyon-side school, four miles south of JEROME, is awaiting the decision of the auctioneer July 13, and as the days of the old landmark are numbered, area residents are recalling early days in the community when the school building was the center of activities.

The stone structure was built in 1920 and was closed as a regular school about four years ago. For two more years it was used to teach Spanish-American children from the labor camp for several months in the fall, but when cold weather came, the pupils and their families would have to leave.

Before the present rock structure was built on land given by the school district to W. S. Lewis, father of Edgar Lewis and Mrs. Tinsley (Emily) Lamm, both Jerome school was held in a white building west of the present site.

Mrs. Florence Corben Thompson and Martha McCorkle Sheldon were teachers in the little white school which operated for nine years. Both schools were part of the Jerome school district.

Paul Karizke was the general contractor and H. T. Pugh was the foreman for the rock masonry. Gus Callen was the hauling rock for the building with a two-horse team from a farm nearby. J. I. Hillman was the superintendent when the school opened.

Board members were Walter Henry, president; Rev. Lloyd Roberts, vice president; R. W. Williamson, treasurer; H. O. Hill, clerk and Charles Welther, assistant clerk. Carl DeVoe and E. B. Darlington were board members.

Mrs. N. T. (Anna) Adams Parkinson is credited with suggesting the name Canyonside. She was also the first to have a wagon drive in 1913. Others who drove the wagon were Gus Callen, Leo Ambrose and Harry Wilson.

Some of the teachers from 1924 to 1927 were Mrs. Estelle Ricketts, and Mrs. Phoebe Selena Thompson, both still at Jerome; Mrs. Marion Oliver Kelly, WENDELL, Gertrude Parry, Marion Conn and Hazel Thietten.

Some of the earliest pupils who still live in this area are Mrs. Marvin (Hazel) Wilson, a teacher in the little white school; Mrs. Frances O'Harrow; Mrs. HARRIS; Mrs. Della McCabe Dingel, Earl O'Harrow and Mrs. Dorothy O'Harrow. McCALL - all TWIN FALLS.

Others are Mrs. Tinsley (Emily) Lewis Lamm, Harold Gregg, Mrs. Maude Wilson, Vincent S. SHOSONE, Mrs. Frances Gladys Gregg Patterson, Chris Burt and Tom Callen, and Frank and Ralph O'Harrow.

Everyone in the Canyonside community agrees that the school has turned out many fine students during the year and they are sorry when it was closed.

An added bonus of seeing a number of old classmates from the former GOODING College was a feature of a recent trip by Mr. and Mrs. Loren Drake, FILER, to Stockton, Calif.

The couple had attended sessions of the California-Nevada Annual Conference of the United Methodist Church in Stockton and had the pleasure of being present when their son, Loren L. Drake, was ordained a deacon. The deacon's orders were received from Bishop Donald Harvey Tippet, who retired this year after spending 49 years of service in the church, 20 of those years as a bishop.

The titles and offerings from the morning service were sent to Rev. and Mrs. Robert Buckner, missionaries in Nepal. Rev. Buckner is the son of Rev. and Mrs. Hartzell Buckner and Hartzell Buckner as the former Allene Lee, Jerome.

The former Miss Lee was graduated from the Gooding College in 1924 and she and Mrs. Drake were classmates.

Another sibling at the conference was Mrs. Winifred Fryer White, Visalia, Calif., another former resident of Filer and Twin Falls.

Gary Thietten, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Thietten, Route 3, Twin Falls, recently arrived in Vietnam with the 29th Medical Evacuation Hospital at Cam Tho. It is a hospital for families of South Vietnamese soldiers.

Mr. Thietten was graduated from Gem State Academy, Caldwell, in 1965 and attended Valley College. He took his training in the Medical Corps and has been stationed at Fort Devens, Mass., for the past year.

8,000 Miles: A Marine's Travelogue

(Editor's Note: This is another installment in the continuing story of one man's life in the Marine Corps.)

By FRED DODDS

Times-News Staff Writer

The trip started peacefully enough in the tranquil Sea of Japan with the fleet nine days out on a training mission. The cruiser Helena tossed through the bawls of the ship.

The crew looked forward to an afternoon movie, shown off a deckhead so sailors and Marines could view it from two compartments with the sheet placed in the hallway between the various religious gatherings in the bowels of the ship.

Those in one compartment always saw the movie backwards, but it made no difference because it was entertainment and a change.

After moving from one port of call to the next in the South Pacific home of the Seventh Fleet, the ships and the men who manned them were tired and the two weeks at sea on the training mission was quiet. Most about knew they would be sent home on this vessel in a few short weeks and morale was high.

I know. I would remain with the admiral at least another year and a half, and the outlook was dismal.

And just finished the night shift, I was watching the admiral's cabin and was hoping to get a few hours sleep before the training mission was over.

It was in this position, at about 11 p.m., that I noticed a man from Arkansas who had escaped a bad marriage to join the Marine Corps.

"Get up, Daddie. Hey, Daddie. Get up."

"What's up?" I asked, wiping sleep from my eyes. "You're going to the States," he said with envy.

"Yeah? What's the orders say?"

"They say get your gear and leave this ship by helicopter no later than noon today."

Now that gave me just a little under an hour to pack, say goodbye to the friends I had aboard, and run for the fantail where the helicopter was to be launched. Everyone in the marine detachment helped with the packing, and the goodbyes.

The orders that came through over radio read only: "Depart for CONUS (Continental United States) and on arrival at San Francisco arrange transportation to Bainbridge, Md. I had until Sept. 1 to arrive in Maryland, some 8,000 miles away, which meant I had eight days to make the trip. Eight days! And I had a little over $25 on me."

I got all my uniforms in the suitcase and raced topside to stand by for the helicopter. It was to take me to the Lexington.

As usual, things ran late. It wasn't until after 1 p.m. that the helicopter finally lifted from the white deck of the Helena carrier. You're thrown off, I remember, the sea bag and suitcase chored my sea bag and suitcase to the Lexington.

This was on Aug. 23, 1957. I took me two and a half days to get off the Lexington. I must admit it was a very unpleasant period.

Marine detachments aboard do not live well. As a rule, they are stationed with a group of six other Marines, duty was somewhat pleasant. But in a Marine detachment, there are 50 to 60 Marines, duty is different.

For one thing, it is split and polished and the threat of being locked up in the brig for a minor infraction of the rules always hangs over your head.

I had to live with these guys, and stare duty, for two and a half days and toward the end I was wondering if I would ever get locked up.

At least, the problem was eased somewhat because I knew more than half the Marines on the Lexington, having gone through sea school with them back in San Diego.

There was "Tex" for instance, the man who thought he could knock up a British Navy under the table, and Terry, the man who shared my first drink and who called his mother long after he was in the States.

Imagine the fright of those who were ordered to four and five years of duty outside the United States?

From San Francisco, it was an all night trip to the Naval Air Station at Yokosuka, four hours, then on to Washington, D.C. for the bus trip to the Naval Academy Prep School.

It all happened so fast, the change was so drastic, that there seemed to be little change at all.

I arrived at Bainbridge, spent a month there, and was then transferred to the Marine Barracks at Annapolis, Md., home of the Naval Academy.

I was there until mid-October, but it proved very interesting. This will be presented next week.

On the afternoon of the 28th the Navy decided it would send out a mail plane, called a COD, and I got an enlist in the Navy to get me aboard. It took some string pulling. The enlist radioed the admiral, and the message came: "Get PFC Dodds to CONUS first."

Smiles Return

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Two years after a life-threatening surgery, Billy Hines returned to the United States from a snarling dog, smiles have returned to the boy's face.

Plastic surgery has erased nearly all signs of the mauling inflicted by Rex, a husky German shepherd, when Billy, then 7, stepped between it and Bobbie Ellenberger.

"For two years he couldn't smile," said Billy's mother, Mrs. William Hines. "They called him Scarface."

"That dog was going to hurt Bobbie," Billy said.

Headstart Program Goes Into Second Year

BY ELMA GOODMAN
Times-News Correspondent

GLENN FERRY — The second year of Headstart is showing many rewarding developments, reports Barbara Gonzales, the local teacher along with Donna Solosabal, Assistant Teacher, and Susan Shrum, while Jill Tripp is secretary.

Community volunteers give a big lift, too. Miss Gonzales reminded that, as in any program of this nature, anyone interested in giving time to the Headstart may call her or Miss Solosabal, Dr. William Taylor and Dr. W. A. Ruller and giving dental and medical aid in the program, and available for referrals area psychologist, an education coordinator, as well as scores of other interested personnel. Mrs. Kitty Benoit, county health nurse, is working in the health phase.

A visit to the Glens Ferry Elementary school rooms (the program has expanded to two classrooms this year) reveals lessons in paint, smeared faces, clay rolled into a ball, scissors snipping at brightly colored papers, children singing, laughing, learning. Some early laughter before. Two little girls were so sober and stole all last year they never smiled, but this year they laugh and giggle. They have learned to laugh. The excitement and pride in the attack each day of new experiences reveals a blossoming as each realizes his individuality and importance to himself, his family, his community.

Record of the children's development is left available for his future first-grade teacher. Miss Gonzales returns during the school year to confer with the teacher about Headstart youngsters. In this follow-up she asks for suggestions on how to make the program more effective. She is a first grade teacher in Boise's Sacred Heart School, and knows what she's like. All her tales to be able to do when they enter her room first time.

Miss Gonzales wanted to learn to speak Spanish fluently, so she volunteered for teaching in Bogota, Colombia, and for three years there she learned to converse with the Spanish speaking people, and to teach the children in English. She does not speak Navaho, however, so with the Indian families here, sometimes the teachers depend on older children to help with interpreting on home visits. Many of these teachers' evenings are spent making contact with the parents who work in fields all day long and cannot visit the school as the permanent residents can during the regular

Cooperation Urged For Bloodmobile

An extra effort was urged Friday by members of the Twin Falls Chapter, American Red Cross, for the Twin Falls and Filer blood drawings.

Two drawings are scheduled for the coming week in the area. The first will be Monday in Twin Falls from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. — in the American Legion Hall and the second in the Filer American Legion Hall Tuesday from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. Mrs. Elmer Parrott is chairman of the Filer program.

"During summer months, blood drawings are generally poorly attended because of vacations and busy summer schedules of most families. College students who participate in drawings held at their schools do not usually make the same effort while working or vacationing during summer months."

David Nelson, local blood drawing chairman, urged students to help their local communities with the same effort given at colleges and universities.

Laird Noh, chairman of the Twin Falls Chapter, said collections in the Twin Falls, Filer and Kimberly drawings for 1967 did not meet the needs of Magic Valley Memorial Hospital and the Twin Falls Clinic Hospital.

The combined collections, through drawings in the communities, all within the local chapter, reached 1,241 pints of blood. A total of 1,831 pints of whole blood were used by the two hospitals.

are fun to catch, good to eat, and there is no bag limit. The same or warm water species such as perch, largemouth and smallmouth bass, bluegill, crappie, sunfish, and catfish. These fish are found in the Snake River, and streams teeming with trout, steelhead, and rainbow trout.

some of the fish species brought to the region by well-meaning, though, home-sick settlers have proved to be of mixed and even dubious blessings to sons, daughters and grandchildren of the pioneers. Fish species which were brought from other parts of the world to Idaho, either during territorial years or statehood, include the following: mackinaw, kanyloops, brown trout, golden trout, grayling, bass (both largemouth and smallmouth), bluegill, pumpkinseed, green sunfish, crappie, yellow perch, bullheads, channel catfish, carp, goldfish, tench and flathead catfish. Native fish transplanted from one watershed to another within Idaho also are classed as "exotics." Altogether, there are some 200 species of freshwater fishes in North America. Some exotic species such as mackinaw, kanyloops, bass and channel catfish have filled habitat niches which were unoccupied by game fish. They now are held in high esteem by sportsmen. In some cases, habitat conditions were so completely unsuitable for the species released that none survived. Other waters were so favorable that perch, bullheads, sunfish, crappie and smallmouth brook trout and bass soon overpopulated their new homes, and fish growth became stunted. This certain standards for the introduction of exotics were developed over the years through evaluation of successes and failures. There are anglers who come to Idaho from afar just to chase the deep waters of Bend Crille and Priest lakes in quest of trophy kanyloops, rainbow trout, mackinaw and Dolly Varden. Some seek the mighty prehistoric sturgeon in Hells Canyon of the Snake - the deepest gorge on the North American continent - where white water rapids are tricky and dangerous. Others say that inch for inch, pound for pound, the smallmouth bass is the gamiest fish that swims. They have learned how, when and where to fish for bass. They go for them in preference to all other fish species whenever the chance is of fresh, thinking that the very scent of smallmouth bass is fragrant as flowers. Both species of bass, the largemouth and the smallmouth, were brought overland by the pioneers about 30 years after the fabulous gold strikes in the Boise Basin. Not all of the individual plantings since have been made wisely. Largemouth bass prefer quiet water, while smallmouths rejoice in a brisk current. But the handiest way to tell the two kinds of bass apart is to remember that in the smallmouth the jaw does not extend beyond the posterior margin of the eye. In the largemouth it does. Early records trace the spread of largemouth bass from their first introduction into the river at Boise downstream to the Snake and Columbia rivers, while stocking suitable tributaries along the way. They became so abundant that these rivers provided much stock for bass plantings elsewhere in the northwest. So fast did they disperse throughout the basin of the lower Columbia River, they were market fish - almost - from the start. Idaho rivers in which these fish are found are the Snake, Clearwater and lower Salmon. These mostly are stocked with smallmouth bass. The first plantings in the Clearwater were made just a few years ago. Now they are abundant in Nez Perce and Clearwater counties, and all along the Snake River in southern Idaho. What rabbits are to hunters, so are crappie and bluegills to anglers. These fishes are the bread and butter species, along with yellow perch, to warm water lakes and reservoirs. No fish these days are so widely distributed and as loved as these much neglected pan fishes. They strike hunger strikes, striking must holes offered at their depths. These firm, sweet white fleshed fish are hard to equal in the skillet. Moreover, they are easy to catch - hence a good species for beginners to start with - and there is no bag or possession limit on any of the warm water fish species. Warm water fish species will give beginner fishermen some experience and better "knifing" in a matter of weeks. Then they can switch to trout - if they think they will want to make the change. There are many experienced anglers who will fish for no other species

SOUTH'S TROUBLES ARE BUILT-IN
What do you do with the South cards? If you are the type player who does not bid at all with these 10 high card points you will pass throughout. If you are the type who likes the defence would collect a diamond trick right off the bat and probably a club-trick later on. East didn't really care. He was pretty sure that a six-spade call would bring out a seven-diamond bid by South. Let's go back to the first paragraph. What would you do as South?

If you have looked at all the cards you will have seen that East is not going to make his contract. You wouldn't actually double since you aren't supposed to have seen the cards but you would pass and let East struggle.
If you haven't looked at all the cards you should still pass. You told your story when you bid three diamonds. Let your partner decide whether to pass or to take the save. He will have a tough problem but will probably pass on the theory that if East really thought he could make six spades East would not have jumped there but would have allowed himself to be pushed.
This last is academic. When this hand was played South went right to seven diamonds and paid off 400 points for going down five tricks doubled.

You bid two hearts and your partner bids two no-trump. What do you do now?

Californians Said To Like Saintly Girls

That state with the most towns bearing highly revered female names is California. Towns such as Santa Barbara, Santa Clara, Santa Maria. But the state with the most towns bearing ordinary uncelebrated female names is Texas. Towns like Peggy, And Patricia! And Lita. This is thought to point out a significant difference between the Californians and the Texans. Californians like their women saintly; that's clear. Texans, however, just like their women. Do you know that 78 municipalities in that state are named after girls?
Realize Sally Rand still crops up in print occasionally, but whatever happened to the first of the fan dancers, Miss Faith Bacon? The fellow who composed "Be My Bist Du Schoen," Mr. Shalom Secunda, sold out his rights to it for $30 before that tune went on to make three million dollars for others.
Much talk of late among railroad men "to run" excursion trains on which you can take five. You just drive your automobile. You just drive it onto a double decker railroad car. And use it for your own private compartment. Or romp up the stairs for years.
To the snack bars, rest rooms, whatever. They're talking about a theater car, too. With record movies. That theater car idea is nothing new, however. The Italians have a hitched those to their long-distance trains for years.
Customer Service: Q—"Which is the preferred spelling—saleable or salable?" A—"Without the 'e,'" I think. Q—"What are the chances of a saleable or salable?" A—"Wherever possible in 'Checking Up,' I address mail to L. M. Boyd, in care of P. O. Box 99187, Seattle, Wash. 98199."

Earl 'Father' Hines Was Tops In Jazz, Decca Record Shows

By MARY CAMPBELL

If you've forgotten—or didn't realize—that Earl (Father) Hines was a jazz leader in the 1920's, Decca's jazz heritage series has a record out that quickly makes that point. It's "Earl Hines—South Side Swing, 1924-35." Hines was a jazz leader in the 1920's, a pre-war era and at the time of this recording was in the middle of his 12-year reign at the Grand Terrace Ballroom on the South Side of Chicago. He was an innovator, and started his own style of jazz piano playing. But what you find if you don't listen once in awhile, is how good, how joyous, what a pleasure to the ears his piano playing was—and still is. This album doesn't sound dated. The mutes have a bright sound, with Omer Simeon on alto sax and George Olson on trumpet. These 16 tracks were taken from three recording sessions.

Stanley Dance, writing excellent liner notes, says that Earl Hines' band in 1948, had an infectious rhythmic personality inspired by Hines, who was not called Father for nothing.

Also on Decca are two albums of vintage Chick Webb, the city council does appropriate funds each year to pay for Red Cross swimming lessons for all interested youths who care to take them a week or more on the Jerome Municipal pool. A school bus usually transports the children and Shoshone aquita supervises.

Then with Little Wood winding through the city, many youngsters learn to swim in the river. Though the river is deep and swift in spots, they often float logs down the stream and have a great time with rafts. Many of them become exceptional swimmers by learning to handle themselves in the river.

Almost every parent goes through the period of apprehension over the river swimming, often finding the child is a good swimmer before the parents know he has ventured into the river at all.

There is a small wading pond in the ditch into the cement flume. They float down the one-half mile area to where it crosses highway 63, then on the old highway area.

The ride is refreshing, a bit on the breathtaking side and most popular.

Swimming Is Popular In Little Wood

SHOSHONE—Swimming continues from one generation to another to take a leading spot in summer recreation.

Though Shoshone doesn't have a city swimming pool, the city council does appropriate funds each year to pay for Red Cross swimming lessons for all interested youths who care to take them a week or more on the Jerome Municipal pool. A school bus usually transports the children and Shoshone aquita supervises.

Long Boats Are Better For Fishing

The longer the boat, the better it is for fishing. This simple statement may be controversial, admit the fishing experts here, but they are right. A long boat doesn't necessarily mean a big boat. Size is on length, and frequently long boats are found in the category as a result. Typical examples are canoe, the long narrow "john boats," and the small, shallow "skiffs." Long boats have always been popular for local people, teenagers and adults alike, in the "big drop" in the flume in the Gooding-Alameda canal, running through the desert north of Shoshone. On summer evenings many take the mile and a half ride. The water is swift, about six and one-half feet deep and all who go take inner tubes on which to ride.

Without the inner tube for protection, the ride might be a bit hazardous. The cement sides of the flume, scraping bare arms are a little rough, but the old highway area.

The ride is refreshing, a bit on the breathtaking side and most popular.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR SEN. EVERETT M. DIRKSEN

Why are known Communists allowed in the employ of the U.S.?—Miss Estelle McKee, Ironton, Ohio

● Because the U.S. Constitution as interpreted by the Supreme Court permits Communists to hold Government jobs.

FOR DREW PEARSON

As syndicated newspaper columnist, are you satisfied with the results of the investigation of the finances of Sen. Thomas Dodd and Rep. Adam Clayton Powell?—R.D., Rochester, N.Y.

● No. In both cases I had hoped that the outcome of the investigations would be the establishment of a strong code of ethics for members of Congress. The standards as drafted leave innumerable loopholes, however, and give Congressmen a flag to wave without actually putting a rein on their more doubtful practices. I shall keep plugging for stronger measures.

FOR WARREN GILES, president,

National League
What is the objection to a "spitball"?—Mrs. P.A.—Blount, Appleton, Wis.

● The "spitball" places the batter at a disadvantage because it takes a sharp, un-natural drop just as it reaches the plate.

FOR JONATHAN WINTERS

Do you often ad-lib in your weekly "Face the Folks" interludes?—Marklyn Kendler, Battle Creek, Mich.

● Yes, quite often. Although we do have a prepared script, I can't resist the impulse to ad-lib at times.

FOR GRACE DAVALL, New York

Zoological Society
Why don't birds or fowl fall off their perches when they sleep?—Sue Phillips, Los Angeles, Calif.

● When a perching bird sits to rest or sleep, and the toes grasp the perch, the tendons stretch over the thirteenth joint and pull the toes closed. When the bird stands up, tension is released and the tendons relax, enabling the bird to leave the perch.

FOR FRANK MULLINS, marketing

vice president, American Airlines
What kind of noise level can we expect when these planes are used?—L.M., Newark, N.J.

● Both American Airlines and the manufacturer, McDonnell-Douglas, set the reduction of engine noise to levels acceptable to airport communities as an objective in the development of the DC-10. This will be accomplished by major advances in engine technology and by $200,000 worth of sound-suppression devices on each plane.

FOR MRS. MARY C. ROEBLING,

chairman of the board, Trenton (N.J.) Trust Co.
Carroll Rigler's recent book about diet and astrology is dedicated to you. Does astrology play a large part in your life?—Betty Jane Rouh, Washington Crossing, Pa.

● It has been suggested that I ruin my business by astrology, but this is untrue. Astrology is no more than an interesting hobby with me. Carroll Rigler is a personal friend, hence the dedication of the book.

FOR A. ROSS ECKLER,

Director, Bureau of Census
When will the next census be released?—Mrs. R. Stewart, Champaign, Ill.

● The next census will be taken beginning April 1, 1970. Preliminary population counts for local areas will be announced as each of the 400 temporary offices completes the census-taking and closes its doors, probably in June, 1970. Official counts of the population of all states will be delivered to the President on or before Dec. 1, 1970.

FOR DAN ROWAN, "Laugh-In"

How did the popular phrase, "Soak it in," originate?—Mrs. Nan Colletton-Glockburg, N.J.

● The phrase became popular via a Mitch Ryder recording of a couple of years ago. It is a Southern expression dating back to the early 1920s.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Opera Layer? While attending a Metropolitan Opera performance recently, Cleveland Indians' general manager Gabe Paul couldn't resist tuning in his transistor to the Tribe's game, a spine-tingler won by the California Angels, 3-2. What about the opera? "I needed the music to soothe my nerves," says Gabe.

Secret Bargain The Air Force has just figured it out. It costs $6.53 a year to keep a secret—that is, to safeguard a military document classified "Confidential." With all their secrets, let's hope that's a wholesale price.

Rinky-Dinks As the "Holiday on Ice" show tours the U.S. this summer, it may be the coolest place in town. It's also the hottest matrimonial bureau. The girl skaters range from 18 to 22, and most of them last about two years. As the management moans, "They marry even faster than airline stewardesses."

World's Worst Driver Next time, your mate criticizes your driving, try telling him or her about the world's worst driver, as nominated by the "Guinness Book of World Records." A 75-year-old male driver received 10 traffic tickets, drove on the wrong side of the road four times, committed four hit-and-run offenses, and caused six accidents—all within 20 minutes in McKinney, Texas, on Oct. 15, 1966.

Men's Fashions If you're still dubious about what kind of man wears beads and chains around his neck, read. According to Noel Harrison, actor, singer, and fashion plate, those male baubles are already a bit passé.

Noel Harrison

"The most way-out thing a man can wear today is a caftan," he says. He wore one of those long Moorish robes recently to a Los Angeles supermarket and admits, "I must say people looked at me strangely."

Trash Trouble The population boom has brought a garbage explosion with it. The problem: what to do with the stuff? Some cities are burning garbage as a fuel for heating and generating electricity. In Yonkers, N.Y., they will dump garbage for four years to form the site of a new riverside park. But not all garbage is garbage. It's estimated that $7 million in gold and silver (jewelry, cast-off plate, etc.) disappears each year into the nation's trash burners.

This book says that

THE SPRINGTIME of a WOMAN'S LIFE SHOULD BEGIN AT 55

That she should not reach middle age till she is seventy. And that she should not lose her ability to attract men until she is well past ninety—IF SHE WILL ONLY BECOME AWARE OF THESE FOUR GREAT NATURAL SOURCES OF PROLONGED YOUTH, COMPLETELY OVERLOOKED BY 99% OF AMERICAN WOMEN!

For example:

Are These Simple Postures The Key To Victory Over Time Itself?

1) An ingenious way to re-arrange the way you hold your face and neck, for a few incredibly-relaxing minutes every day, that virtually melts away years from the appearance of the skin of your entire upper body. (You'll learn why this simple posture works such breath-taking wonders in the paragraphs below.)

2) A new way to breathe—that purifies your system of the internal poisons that keep you constantly half-lazy today, and that eat away your youth like acid.

3) A new way to achieve truly deep sleep—that recharges your body like a battery every night, and keeps accumulated exhaustion from turning you old.

4) And perhaps most important, and most startling of all, a new way to fight the never-remitting forces of gravity that cause the muscles of your face and body to sag deeper and deeper every day.

(This posture alone—this simple, 4,000-year-old "Effortless Exercise" that actually reverses the effect of gravity on your body, and causes it to firm up your muscles instead of collapse them—can give you a slimmer, younger body overnight, and for the next fifty years to come. You'll understand why when you read the paragraphs below.)

Welcome To A Whole New World Of Youthfulness, Physical Magnetism, And Incredible New Feminine Appeal

These, then, are the startling, almost-unbelievable promises this book makes to you. But you must realize that to gain these benefits, you must first discover very clearly what your body has that you have been taught since you were a child—and be prepared to look at "Age" and "Youth" and "Health" and "Beauty" through entirely new eyes. In essence, what you are going to learn, in your very first reading of this amazing book, is this:

Over 4,000 years ago, in the Far East, among the wisest, man and women who ever lived, discovered that "old age" was nothing more than a disease—actually just another ill of the body, to be fought as any other ill. And they discovered the techniques of this "ageing-disease"—the techniques called Yoga.

Yoga means "Youth." Yoga techniques bring back youth and prolong youth. You can see living proof of these facts every day in India, China and Tibet. There, Yoga believers have used these techniques to live to fantastic ages (close to 100 years), and still retain virtually the appearance of young women. These women have achieved "Super-Feminity!" At the ages of 60 and 70 and 80, they have more physical magnetism—are far more attractive—to men—than the bodies of "half-feminine" women who may be 50 or 60 years younger.

Once again, this book gives you the techniques these women use—but now adapted and simplified for Western women, with all the religion and philosophy that were evolved along with them stripped away.

And now ready to go to work for you—enough to take each part of your body in turn, and repair the tragic damage done to it by strain and time.

Like this—

The First Step: To Give Your Face Back Its Youthful Bloom.

This book says that there is a very simple reason why the skin of your face and neck becomes thin, drawn, pale and wrinkled after thirty: Because once you reach that critical age, your heart can no longer automatically pump enough nourishing blood uphill to your face, to keep it as smooth and plump and young as it was when you were a teenager.

It's exactly as if you stopped feeding water to a potted plant—and then watched the leaves of that plant crinkle up and begin to die. No beauty parlor on earth—no face cream no matter how expensive—can ever replace the loss of internal nourishment. But Yoga can. It does it in a few exhilarating minutes every day—by showing you an ingenious way to re-arrange the way you hold your face and neck, that automatically causes your body to pour nourishing blood into every fiber of your face.

This simple posture is so easy to accomplish that, for the first few days, you may not be able to believe that it can really be doing you that much good. But—then when you wake up one morning and find your husband studying your face in silent admiration—you will realize the incredible potency of this "youth-renewing technique" practiced by two hundred generations of Eastern women.

And it's just the beginning...

How To Sit Your Way To A Beautiful Body

Now you begin the re-education of every contour-shaping muscle in your body—and the elimination of the fat that deadens fat that has plagued you for years—but this time without such extreme measures as crash diets, sweat boxes, dieting, over-exercising, or pills or other artificial devices of any kind.

In essence, what you are going to do with this book is learn a series of natural exercises. These, again, are simple postures and rhythmic gestures that re-charge your energy bank every morning rather than exhaust it, ... and that beautify the feminine contours of your body, without creating a single bulging muscle (as Western exercises do) to make you look like a man.

One of these postures, for example, (done simply by sitting in a special way on the floor) firms your legs, calves, inner thighs—all in the same moment.

Another lifts and preserves the bust! Another flattens the stomach and slims the hips. Still another prevents flabby arms.

And (in our opinion, the most important) still another takes the "old-age stiffness and perpetual ache" out of your spine, and gives you the cut-like grace and freedom to enjoy the life of a young girl.

And—at exactly the same time—

Vital Health Centers Of Your Body That Have Slept For Years —Are Now Gently Massaged Into Blazing New Vitality...

Now these "Effortless Exercises" begin to work their magic—for probably the first time in your entire life—on the internal glands and organs that either keep you young, or (if you keep them healthy and strong) or (if you allow them to wither up from disuse) turn you into an old woman at thirty.

For example—

Here is an incredibly gentle posture that virtually doubles the amount of circulation that reaches the "nerve centers" in the back of your head and neck—and thus gives you to sleep faster and deeper than you have known in years. (You'll be amazed at the way in which you bounce out of bed the next morning.)

Here, is a one-minute technique that turns ordinary aches into the most intense revitalizers in the world. (Try it for exactly 60 seconds when you're exhausted from housework; see how it enables you to out-dance your teenage daughter till dawn.)

Here's how to flush internal poisons right out of your body. Clear your complexion. Purify your blood. Get overnight relief from those vague aches and pains that drain youth like a dripping faucet!

How to Keep Your Family

Food poisoning, sunburn, heat exhaustion—you can avoid them all with tips

MARY WILSON crammed a wicker basket with her family's favorite food—fried chicken and shrimp, potato salad, and, for dessert, a chocolate cream pie.

She stowed the food, all cooked the day before, in the trunk of the car, and they set off for a picnic in the country.

A perfect summer day! But its ending was "no picnic." On the ride home, Mary herself felt queasy. Ten-year-old Mark became "car sick" for the first time in his life, and five-year-old Timmy's face was a sickly green as he complained of sharp pains in his stomach.

The doctor's diagnosis that evening: food poisoning.

During the hot summer months, this scene is repeated thousands of times. So are the episodes of painfully blistered backs, poison-ivy rashes, and sunburn and sneezes that spoil the most carefully planned vacation. This is the season of barefoot, carefree living, but it's also the season when many families tend to become casual about health.

This is unfortunate because, with some simple precautions, most of summertime's discomforts and diseases can be prevented. Here are some tips by which your family can enjoy a much happier and healthier summer.

Food and Diet: In preparing food, the first rule is to be sure your utensils and your hands are clean. Many of our favorite foods—such as milk, milk products, eggs, meat, poultry, fish, shellfish, and such products as cream, pies, custards, and potato salad—also produce disease bacteria. If you're taking these foods on a picnic, they must be kept either hot (140 degrees or above) or cold (45 degrees or below).

You can transport hot food for short distances in an enclosed insulated container (an extra ice chest will do). For longer trips, it's usually best to refrigerate food at 45 degrees and reheat just before the meal. For cold foods, you should have a picnic cooler or ice chest, with some supplemental cold from ice, dry ice, or a reusable cold pack.

You might try this trick that commercial sandwich producers use to keep their sandwiches safe from bacteria: use frozen slices of bread together with chilled fillings. Wrap the sandwiches tightly in a plastic film wrapper, put them in a picnic cooler and, when mealtime arrives, they'll be just right to eat.

At home, you should refrigerate food promptly during the summer, even if it is still warm. And remember that many of those favorite foods we mentioned should not be kept too long in hot weather, especially if you have a busy family and they are opening and closing the refrigerator a lot.

For back-yard cook-outs, be careful not to leave food out for too long, and always cover food to protect it against flies and other insects.

The Sun: friend or foe? Many a vacation has been ruined not because of rain but because there was too much sun and too much hurry to turn bronze beneath it. The serious result can be an ugly red skin, painful blisters, and even a possible trip to the hospital.

The safe way to tan is the slow way. For most people, 15 minutes is long enough for the first sunbath. Each day after that, you can add another 15 minutes. You should always use a suntan preparation and be aware of the noon sun and also of those overcast days when the sun is hidden but still can burn cruelly.

Remember, too, that children burn more quickly than adults and need close watching in the sun. For babies, you should start with five minutes and then increase the time in direct sun only another five minutes each day.

Sunburn can make people sick with chills, fever, and even delirium. If there are blisters, you should see a doctor because of the danger of infection. First aid for sunburn begins with gentle cleansing, possibly with an antibacterial skin cleanser. For a mild case when the skin turns a doctor about how to protect yourself from bee sting or insect-bite complications.

Sensitive or not, it helps to know that insects are drawn to people for the same reasons they buzz about flowers. They're attracted by bright colors and by sweet smells you may be giving off with scented cosmetics, hair oils, or perfumes. If a bee is buzzing about you, don't panic or swing wildly at it. Simply walk away slowly.

Hay Fever: There are seven or eight million persons in this country who cannot even think of summer without sneezing. These are the hay fever sufferers for whom the first bloom of flowers is a signal for running or stuffed noses, irritated eyes, sneezing, and itchy throats. Many have uncomfortable days and sleepless nights till the frost returns.

Though it's all called hay fever, there are several varieties. Some persons have symptoms all year round and suffer from "perennial hay fever." We have just passed through the "spring" season, when the sneezes are due mostly to tree pollens, and now are in the "summer hay fever" season, when pollens from such grasses as timothy and reedtop cause the greatest discomfort. In mid-August comes the most widespread variety, "fall hay fever," caused usually by ragweed pollen.

If you have hay fever, you should see a doctor. Hay fever can lead to infections of the sinuses, throat, and bronchial tubes and is sometimes accompanied by asthma. The doctor may prescribe injections to ward off your attacks, or he may recommend eye drops, nose sprays, antihistamines, or inhalants to make you feel more comfortable. He'll tell you how you can remove the poisons from your home or office with an air filter, perhaps in an air-conditioning unit. If your case is severe, he may even suggest a filter mask or a small filter worn in the nose.

Poison Ivy: The Indians warned the early settlers about poison ivy, poison oak, and poison sumac, and Captain John Smith described these native plants in his journal. Americans are still coming down with the red rashes and blisters they cause.

Like hay fever, this, too, is an allergy. Some of us can walk through fields of poison ivy and come away without an itch. For others, the best way is to avoid these plants. This may be difficult since they grow almost everywhere, in back yards as well as in woods and pastures. It's wise, though, to wear long sleeves and long trouser legs when going into unknown woods or weeded areas.

If you suspect you've been in contact with one of these poison plants, wash immediately with strong soap suds and rinse well to remove the sap before it can do too much harm. Then sponge with a 50- to 70-percent alcohol solution.

Clothes that have been exposed should also be washed in strong soap. Don't overlook the family pet, who's not in danger of getting a rash himself but can be a source of further contamination.

Sports: If you've sat through the winter in an easy chair, it's not wise in hibernation all winter will lay you low with aches and charley horses. And if you're not used to it, violent exercise is bad for your heart.

In any case, it's dangerous to get overheated and overtired in the hot sun. It puts a severe strain on your heart and blood vessels. Try to plan your exercise for the cooler morning and early evening hours and take a 15-minute break every hour. Wear white or light-colored clothing (to reject heat) which is loose and comfortable (to permit heat to escape) and permeable to moisture (to allow heat loss via perspiration).

Keeping Cool: This is the season for eating more lightly, avoiding spicy foods, and drinking plenty of fluids. You might take a tip from the Arabs of North Africa who fight their blazing temperatures with steaming cups of mint tea. If you try it, you too may find that hot drinks are actually more cooling than cold ones.

If you prefer the clink of ice, remember that cool drinks are better than freezing cold ones—and that water is the best drink of all. Certainly, not all of your drinks should be sweetened ones. Also, for some persons iced drinks taken out in the hot midday sun can upset the system, especially if they are on vacation in an unfamiliar climate.

Though air conditioning keeps you more comfortable, it can also lead to summer sniffles if you sit in its draft or if you keep going from cool to hot and back again.

Be careful not to play too hard or drive too long in hot weather. Be on the lookout for such symptoms as weakness, dizziness, headache, dim or blurred vision. These are the early warnings of heat prostration or sunstroke. They call for immediate rest in a cool place and a drink of water, possibly with some salt added. Most persons recover quickly, but if the symptoms do linger, seek medical attention promptly.

Summer is the time all of us need to practice a little preventive medicine. And perhaps the best warm-weather prescription any doctor can give you is this: take a generous dose of common sense every morning immediately on arising. ♦ red, simple remedies are effective. For bad burns when the skin is red, swollen, or blistered, you had better consult a physician.

Insect Bites and Stings: For most people, the sting of a bee means a momentary "ouch," followed by a mild swelling and reddening. First, remove the stinger as soon as possible, then apply diluted household ammonia, baking soda, or calamine lotion to ease the pain.

If you have ever been stung by an insect and experienced a more severe reaction, you may be one of those persons who are sensitized. It doesn't seem possible, but the sting of even a small honeybee can be fatal to such people. You should consult

DENNIS WEAVER: Gentle Man in the Hollywood Jungle

HOLLYWOOD has been called a "jungle" by critics, and, in a way, the name fits. In an environment of ruthless ambition and selfishness, Dennis Weaver, star of tv's "Gentle Ben," is a misfit—a truly gentle, considerate man.

That's a paradox, too, because Dennis is a powerfully built, 6-foot, 2-inch athlete, who, fortunately for many of his less gentle colleagues, never loses his temper.

Dennis' gentleness and consideration come across in many ways. Unlike many movie stars who hire press agents to publicize their charitable and ideological involvements, Dennis doesn't even talk about them. But let any community need arise, and he is in the forefront fighting.

It's understandable that the Weavers were named Encino's "Family of the Year," and Dennis was cited for his moral, social, and civic leadership.

Dennis didn't have an easy time getting into show business. "It was kind of rough," he says. "I was going to acting classes and trying to participate in off-Broadway groups, while my wife Gerry worked as a secretary. I did odd jobs to help out, like selling magazines."

While at the Actors' Studio in New York, Dennis met Shelley Winters, who was not impressed by his talent that she talked Unsub into signing him.

For the next few years he played supporting parts in countless Western and adventure films until the panic of tv encroachment hit Hollywood in 1952. "Just about everyone was lobbied off the studio contract list, including me," Dennis recalls. "To get by, I took odd jobs."

Today Dennis' sensitivity and concern for others are most evident in his attitude to people close to him. Take the case of Heidi, the German girl who came to live with the Weavers a few years ago to take care of the house and children.

Despite a grueling schedule at the studio, Dennis and his wife took pains to teach Heidi English. She stayed with the Weavers until she married a young Air Force private and moved to Texas.

A few months later, Heidi and her husband were back in California, his last stop on the way to Vietnam. Heidi had no place to stay, so the Weavers suggested she move in with them again. Her husband's back now, and, living with the Weavers, too. "He's studying to be an architect," Dennis explains. "Meanwhile, they help with the house—they are family."

Dennis studies script at Encino home.

Dennis' whole personality is evident in his three sons, Richard, 20, Rob, 15, and Rustin, 9. They are well behaved and considerate, trying to follow the example of their father, who was raised strictly but fairly in Joplin, Mo.

"We didn't have much money because I grew up during the depth of the Depression," Dennis recalls, "but we were a close family and a happy one."

In spite of the family's financial hardships, he managed to work his way through college but he interrupted his studies when he joined the Naval Air Corps in 1943.

A top-flight athlete during his high-school days, Dennis enrolled at the University of Oklahoma when the war ended, and in 1948 he tried out for the Olympics, placing sixth in the nation from among 35 decathlon entrants.

All along, however, his one big love was drama. "I never wanted to do anything but become an actor," he told me.

Today Dennis is so identified with his tv characters—Chester in "Gunsmoke," the veterinarian in "Kentucky Jones," and now the game warden in "Gentle Ben"—that not many people are aware of his background as a serious dramatic actor, as well as being a highly skilled director.

Unlike many actors, Dennis Weaver is happy with what he does and not just because his series has a healthy rating. It's because the series leaves him free seven months each year to star in films, to be with his family, and to do what he does best of all—trying to help others.

SANDY KOUFAX TELLS— How I See the '68 All-Star

A former All-Star gives tips on what to expect

By TOM FAY

TO GET the lowdown on this year's All-Star game and the current trends in baseball, FAMILY WEEKLY went to former major-league great, pitcher Sandy Koufax.

A three-time Cy Young Award-winner and former National League Most Valuable Player, Sandy had been named to six All-Star teams before retiring in 1966. He is the holder of several major-league records, including most shutouts in one season by a lefthander (11) and most strikeouts in one season (382).

Koufax is currently a member of the "NBC Game of the Week" broadcasting team and will provide the color commentary on Tuesday's All-Star game. Here are his answers to our questions.

Q: This will be the first time for many American leaguers in the Houston Astrodome. Will that give the National League an added advantage and if so, how?

A: There's no real advantage in a game like the All-Star game. If there is any edge, it might show up in a game that goes extra innings, or maybe a bottom-of-the-ninth crucial situation. But hometown reaction isn't really a factor since allegiance to each league obviously is not as great as to a team. National League players might be more familiar, of course, with the park's layout, but it would only be a psychological advantage and then only a slight one.

Q: What is your opinion of the Houston Astrodome as a ballpark? What are the field conditions? Hitting backgrounds? Visibility? And does Houston's AstroTurf affect the roll of the ball much?

A: The Astrodome is a fine park. Hitting background is good. Visibility good. They've handled the crowd "white-shirt" problem for the hitter by good seat distribution, particularly in centerfield.

I don't know of any significant effect that AstroTurf has on the roll of the ball. If anything, AstroTurf is a bit more difficult to run on. Apparently regular cleats don't get the bite that they do on real ground. Outfielders do have difficulty running—and stopping.

The unique enclosed stadium could have an effect on the pitcher—the guy who is doing the most work, most constantly. Particularly if the Astrodome has a full house. All those people using up the air and smoking does make it

A 15th-inning home run by Tony Perez of the Cincinnati Reds gave the NL a 2-1 win in last year's game.

Game

from this year's contest

tough on a hardworking pitcher.

The last two All-Star games have ended with the National League winning 2-1. More and more, the pitchers are dominating the hitters. Do you think rules should be changed to give the hitter an advantage—say lighting the strike zone?

I can't think of any changes that would make any real difference in one game. All-Star games always are going to be close. When you have the advantage of picking the four or five top pitchers in each league, you're bound to have close contests. Tightening of the strike zone has been proposed before—to no avail, and I think logically so. Comparisons between players, past and present, will always be a part of the game, and while I don't any improvements cannot be made with some rule and regulation revisions, they should not be made indiscriminately and without thought.

What about the new spitball rule?

All this rule is doing is slowing up the game. It's all a noble effort to try to eliminate what some consider to be an inequity in the contest between the pitcher and the batter. But if it isn't the spitball, it will be some other pitch.

Will the National League continue to dominate the American League these games?

No league will always dominate this type of contest. If you're comparing 250 players against another 250 players, then yes, there can be a discernible gap in ability. But All-Star games involve 20 or so top men from each league. Usually, they're equal in ability, so it's mostly the break.

In last year's game, the American League kept Jim Hunter on the mound for over five innings. Do you think this is fair to the pitcher? His team? His league?

The rule is that your starting pitcher cannot go over three innings. As far as being fair to the pitcher to keep him in that long, it's up to the pitcher. If he thinks he can handle it and wants to stay in, fine. If he wants out, he'll say so. If the manager is in the pennant race, then obviously he's flirting with some trouble to wear out his pitchers when they may have a crucial game coming up after the All-Star meet. In this way, he does affect the team's performance and obviously must, use discretion. If it means choosing between a win in the All-Star game at the risk of a loss in a tight pennant race, I think the choice is apparent.

How much does an All-Star game really mean to the players?

The All-Star game doesn't mean that much to a player—until he gets there. Then it means a great deal. It's an honor. Sure, a player would at first much prefer to have the three days off, but once you've been selected and you're on the field, you're proud of it. And you don't want to get beat; pride tells you that. It's usually a 100-percent effort on everybody's part. + j-

They Demonstrate for America

This "Singing Peace Corps" is out to change the generation that will change the world

By CLAIRE SAFRAN

FROM THE back of a stage crowded with 150 young singers, a boy cups his hands to his mouth and sings out: "Can't you hear America calling?"

The answer comes in a rumbling echo: "Every boy and girl!" The spotlight picks out another boy: "We are going to fix a new shot..."

And again the echo: "Heard around the world!"

This is an Up with People cast, and they indeed have been heard around the world. They were launched on a midsummer day in 1965, during a youth conference sponsored by the Moral Re-Armament movement. There were just 150 of them then, banded together as a washed-and-pressed answer to the overpublicized hippies and campus rioters.

"We're tired of hearing what those other kids are against," one girl said. "Let's demonstrate what we're for!"

They crisscrossed America, traveling by bus, sleeping in whatever homes would open their doors to them, running—"we never walk"—on stairs to vigorous choruses of "Don't Stand Still." At paid performances that raise the money to get them to the next town and at free high-school and neighborhood shows, they clap their hands, stamp their feet, and away their bodies. It is less of a "show" and more of a way of life. To these young people, age 16 to 25, their message is contained in the songs they write themselves: "Up with People." "Freedom Isn't Free." "What Color Is God's Skin?" In three short years, they have exploded into 252 groups or "Sing Outses," involving 50,000 young people on five continents.

They were in Watts three weeks after the riots and left a local Sing Out in their wake. The following summer, when violence ripped other ghettos, that group helped to keep Watts cool.

They were the first young people to visit Indonesia after its revolution and were told, "Now we're united against the dictator Sukarno, but you have given us something to keep us united after Sukarno."

In Japan, a young leftist leader told them: "I have been to Russia and to China, but you are more revolutionary than anything I have ever seen. Your revolution includes everybody!"

In Italy, the Pope blessed their efforts, and in Germany, Chancellor Ludwig Erhard said, "Not only have you strengthened the tie between the U.S. and Germany, but you have helped to show us that freedom isn't free."

The Up with People casts are unsalaried, and many of the youngsters have turned down scholarships and good jobs, sold their cars, and used their savings to help make the venture.

"They make no secret of what they are up to right now. Eyes shining, voices strong with optimism, they tell you, 'It's more than improving the image of America. We are out to change the generation that will change the world.'"

American Up with People singers join youngsters in Milan in praising the joys of freedom—and its responsibilities.

I was just thinking...

I've Got the Pearls

So you think you're pretty smart?

I think I am, too. That's my principal problem. I speak when I should be listening. I have an opinion on everything. You'd think I had a Ph.D. in nuclear physics and had won the National Spelling Bee.

The information I volunteer, I regret to confess, is often a far cry from factual. I answer questions nobody asked, and when I ask one, I often answer it myself before anyone else has a chance.

I'm an average human being with an average education and a full, though well-concealed, knowledge of my limitations. But you should hear me when I get going. I attempt to correct my boss about his sentence structure while he's dictating, point out to coworkers the difference between ordinance and ordnance, as though I'd invented it myself, and run as fast as my broken arches will allow to intercept anyone on his way to the dictionary so that I can pretend.

Noah Webster used me as a source. I may have been even worse as a child. My mother reported that, before I was able to walk steadily, I corrected a shoe clerk on his grammar.

"Now, ain't those nice shoes?" he asked Mother.

"Not nice to say 'ain't,'" I admonished. To save the salesman's ego, Mother bought shoes that didn't fit.

When I became revoltingly overbearing, my Missouri grandmother, in whose eyes I could generally do no wrong, surveyed me through her spectacles and opined, "Patty, I believe you have a case of the pearls."

I've never recovered. Medical science has developed ways to control everything from diverticulitis to diverticulosis. (Notice how cleverly I distinguish between them!) Why can't science do something for me before I come down with another chronic ailment? A fat lip.
