McGovern Gets Applause At Platform Hearings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., urging immediate moves to end the Vietnam war, drew applause at Democratic platform hearings today when he said "We must stop saving face and start saving lives."

Washington (AP) — Sen. McGovern, a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, laid out a proposed Vietnam plank generally similar to the one for which Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy is contending.

However, McGovern stopped short of demanding that a coalition government be set up in South Vietnam including members of the National Liberation Front.

Front, and more able to attract the support of the people of South Vietnam. And he drew more applause when he said, "We should immediately halt all bombing of North Vietnam."

700 Reds Killed In 3 Days

By GEORGE ESPER SAIGON (AP) — Allied forces reported today killing more than 700 enemy soldiers in three days of enemy attacks and allied counterattacks ranging from the Cambodian border to the northern frontier.

But enemy forces overran one allied unit—outnumbered six-to-one—15 miles south of Da Nang today and killed all 10 U.S. Marines and 24 South Vietnamese defenders.

A relief force of South Korean marines rushed to the area but was unable to reach the beleaguered men because of explosions, believed touched off when the compound's ammunition dump caught fire.

U.S. fighter-bombers and artillery drove off the more than 300 enemy attackers. There were no reports of enemy casualties.

The new intensification of the ground war after a two-month lull shattered hopes that the enemy high command might be deescalating to try to break the stalemate at the Paris peace talks.

U.S. headquarters reported at least 729 enemy and 28 American soldiers since the start of enemy attacks Sunday. Nearly 500 of the enemy deaths were inflicted since Monday, most of these in four battles around the provincial capital of Tay Ninh.

A new fight broke out five miles west of Tay Ninh City today when a U.S. 23rd Infantry Division armor column came under a rocket attack while advancing along Highway 20, a military supply route.

In another development, U.S. headquarters announced that American and South Vietnamese troops had ended a two-week search-and-destroy operation through the A Shau Valley, a major enemy stronghold.

Headquarters said allied troops killed 133 enemy and seized large quantities of arms and ammunition in the Valley. U.S. losses were put at 15 killed and 97 wounded, while South Vietnamese forces suffered 24 dead and 62 wounded.

Ike Still Listed 'Critical'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors reported today that former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's prospects of survival are "guarded" in a meaning unspecified at the point.

Doctors of the Army's Walter Reed General Hospital said in answer to a list of submitted questions that the president.

At the same time they said in a formal medical bulletin that the general's condition remains critical even though there have been a favorable trend in the pattern of abnormal heart rhythm action which is the basic problem of his heart attack.

The text of today's bulletin said that the president's health is "guarded" and that he has been a favorable trend in the pattern of abnormal heart rhythm action which is the basic problem of his heart attack.

City Council Approves 6-Year Improvement Plan

The Twin Falls City Council approved a six-year capital improvement plan that includes a $3,004,500 bond issue.

The resolution was adopted by a 7-0 vote, but Mayor Ed Kroll said, "This plan does not bind us or future city councils."

The total for all projects comes to $3,004,500, but this amount includes some state, federal and county money and some projects go into the year 1970 before completion.

Estimates for the new fire station run to $150,000, with a fire alarm system estimated at $50,000 and two new trucks estimated at $65,000.

Other improvements in the plan call for off-street parking, a short wave communications center, a new library building and plans in the city storm sewer, improvement of streets, curbs and gutters, improvements in the city's sewerage program, a new swimming pool, expansion of the golf course club house facilities, library building expansion, a new new club site, and for parking and installation of emergency equipment for the domestic water system.

In other news, Robert Summerfield was appointed to the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency to replace Vernon Smith, who has since been replaced earlier this month.

Ben Walton, Construction Co. was awarded the bid to build a new room for the city's new Cascade Park near the high school. The bid was in the amount of $67,000.

Councilman reviewed complaints received from property owners in the area of the 300 and 400 blocks of Locust Street. The complaints have included noise from trucks, and about odors from horses, other livestock and about junk piled up on vacant lots in the area.

Mr. Derrick told the council a horse in the area would be removed in two weeks. The council also agreed to meet with one of the truckers in the area to see if the noise and junk-car problem there have been solved. A date for that meeting has not been set.

The Urban Renewal Agency asked the council to pass an amended resolution which would allow an advance of $122,073 from the government to get Twin Falls' downtown urban renewal project started.

James Keisch of the agency said the funds were needed to keep the agency operating until the state has received a total of $14 million for the entire project. The council passed the resolution.

Second Base Operator Seeks Airport Permit

Members of the Twin Falls Airport Commission Tuesday recommended that the city council act favorably on an application which would see a second operator at the local field.

The city engineering department is now proceeding with the design and an FAA engineer is expected later this week to act in a separate business, commission members recommended that the city council set a minimum fee of $5.00 a day for use of the field by commuter-air service.

Farmers Concerned Over Effects Of Rain

Farmers in Magic Valley are expressing concern about wet weather and the effect on their crops. Rainfall has knocked down several hundred acres of grain, which will be difficult to thresh when the weather clears. Marshall LeBaron, superintendent of the University of Idaho experiment station at Kimberly, said after the weather clears, farmers will have to wait a few days before threshing and storing too much moisture for storing.

The same situation exists in other parts of the valley. At Buhl the processing of corn at Green Creek has been suspended because of the weather. According to Joe Fehrenbacher, agricultural supervisor of Buhl plant, there has been no damage to corn as maturity has been delayed by the cold weather. But this could be offset by the heavy rains which are expected to rain. Mr. Fehrenbacher said corn harvesting should be resumed Thursday if the weather is favorable.

Heavy August Rains Cause Road Damage

The heavy August rains have brought more than their share of trouble to Magic Valley. As at other places, the heavy rains have caused considerable damage to roads throughout the valley. At Buhl, there has been no damage to corn as maturity has been delayed by the cold weather. But this could be offset by the heavy rains which are expected to rain.

States Telephone Co. officials said no area has been isolated without telephone service for great periods of time Tuesday. Some connections in Twin Falls and in other Magic Valley communities were down, and this was attributed to the continued wet weather along with the moderate temperatures.

Meeting Held As Closure Of Cassia Agent's Office Looms

BURLEY—A public meeting brought about by an announcement a few days ago from the University of Idaho Extension Service that without additional money requested by the University, there would be no choice but to close the Burley Extension office as of Sept. 1, was attended Monday night by about 100 people.

The meeting, called by the Cassia County Commissioners, was conducted by Ighn Clark, commission chairman, assisted by Thurman Bedke, county attorney; J. Weldon Beck, Orvil Beecher and the board of county commissioners.

Mr. Clark said the commissioners still maintain the budget for the county agent's office at this time.

"An increase is only possible when a new budget is presented in January," Mr. Clark added. "Cassia County is the only Idaho County which has not made adjustment to cover the extension department."

Problem?

City councilmen pondered deeply Monday night ways to bring a halt to rainy weather in Twin Falls.

At first, the city attorney, William Langley, was asked if he could draw up an ordinance ordering a halt to rain. Mr. Langley laughed and considered it, but told the council there would be some problem in enforcing the law. City Police Chief Frank Barne was not available for comment on how the law could be enforced, if passed.

Next, the problem was presented to the city engineer, but Ron Scheufele passed the ticklish matter on to the city's water department.

In the end the matter was forgotten and all that remained was the loud sound of huge water pellets dropping on the roof over the city council chambers. It was still raining Tuesday.

LBJ Inks Bill Broadening FHA Powers

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson signed into law Monday a bill broadening the powers of the Farmers Home Administration to aid farmers with federal grants and loans. The new act does three principal things:

- 1. Raises from $50 to $100 million a year the authorization for grants to help build sewage and water systems in farm sections.
2. Adds to the purposes for which loans can be made in rural areas to include enterprises which would supplement or even supplant farm income.
3. Removes the provision that 75 per cent of all funds available for operating and crop production loans to farmers must be used for loans of $15,000 or less.

New System May Someday Help Blind

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Scientists at Westinghouse Electric Corp. say they are perfecting an electronic system that someday could help blind men see.

They're working on a way of printing electronic circuits on flexible material such as foil and paper, which could lead to circuits small enough to be implanted inside the head to replace aural and visual nerves, a company spokesman said Monday.

The system involves stenciling transistors—each the size of two pinheads—on commonplace materials with vapors of metal and glass instead of ink.

Thieu Plans To Visit U.S. This Year

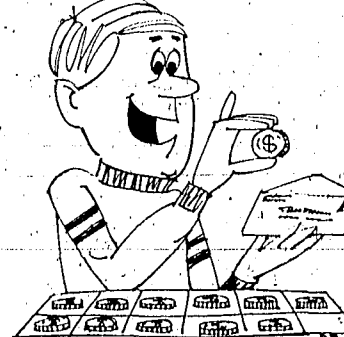

SAIGON (AP)—South Vietnam's President Nguyen Van Thieu said today he plans to visit in the United States between the U.S. presidential election and the end of the year.

"The visit would answer a long standing invitation from President Johnson. Thieu has postponed the trip twice. "I will go after the election and before the next President takes his office in January," Thieu said. Johnson first asked Thieu to visit the United States last April. The second postponement of the trip occurred in July, shortly before Thieu and Johnson met at Honolulu. Thieu then planned to visit Washington, New York and San Francisco, and presumably will follow a similar schedule in November or December.

WASHINGTON—Senator Eugene McCarthy is giving a graphic demonstration of an office-seeking politician talking out of both sides of his mouth. Publicly, he has repeatedly sought to convey the impression he would dislaid taking second place on Vice President Humphrey's ticket. While carefully stopping short of actually saying that, McCarthy has clearly implied it. With varying degrees of condescending scorn, he has brushed off the idea. But privately, it is a far different story—and an astonishing one. As the Democratic national convention approaches, a furious backstage drive is under way to put over McCarthy as Humphrey's running mate. Humphrey's campaign managers and inner advisers are being beset with arguments, pleas and pressure from McCarthyites throughout the country urging his selection. It is ardently contended that

George McGovern

Sen. George McGovern's late, late entry into the presidential race stands out as yet another of the dramatic shifts in a surprise-packed campaign. With all due respect to the South Dakota's commendable record as an intelligent legislator, his impact on the public consciousness has been such as to make Spiro T. Agnew's stature as a national figure monumental in comparison. McGovern has come forward as the torchbearer of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy's cause and heir of that portion of Kennedy support not yet recommitment to either Vice President Humphrey or Sen. Eugene McCarthy, a recommitment McGovern's more obvious backers apparently have been too disgruntled for a variety of reasons to make themselves.

A Stitch In Time?

Senator George McGovern's belated sudden dive into the presidential arena was Kennedy-engineered. Also, it will be largely Kennedy-financed. The undertaking was personally approved by Senator "Ted" Kennedy, Mass., in a trans-Atlantic telephone conversation with McGovern following a much by Kennedy insiders at which he was persuaded to run. In addition to his blessing, "Ted" promised financial support. Foremost among the Kennedy zealots who influenced McGovern were Professor Arthur Schlesinger Jr., former White House adviser who has been active in the dissident campaigns of Senator McCarthy, the late Senator Robert Kennedy and Edward J. Kelly, press-assistant of Bobby Kennedy; William Vanden Heuvel; Jerry Bruno and William Dagher. Kennedy's drive for the Democratic convention which Bobby Kennedy won in the June 4 primary in which he decisively defeated McGovern and the Kennedyites have no illusions of his getting involved in the campaign. Their real purpose is two-fold: To write a dovish plank on the Vietnam war to the platform, and a strong wider-range program on urban and other pressing problems in the U.S. Both objectives were the basis of Kennedy's drive for the presidential nomination, and the aim is to hammer them into the Democratic platform.

Pollution Killer

What is the fastest growing killer and crippler in the United States? The question, asked of a random sampling of the population, would produce several different answers. But probably no one—or very few persons—would name emphysema. Emphysema is not well known to the general public, and not too well understood by the medical profession. In fact, medical researchers have not discovered what the cause or causes of emphysema are. They do know it's a disease related to polluted atmospheres. It doesn't seem to matter what kind of pollutants. Cigarette smoke-filled rooms, industrial pollution, pollen, smog or dust all appear to contribute to the increasing number of cases of emphysema. But not necessarily in the same proportion. Heavy cigarette smokers have been found to be the most susceptible to the disease, whether or not they live and work in a polluted atmosphere. Dr. C. S. Spector, vice president of the American Cancer Society, told Congress of a recent study of 126,000 men and the differing incidences of emphysema found in them depending on their pollution backgrounds. Of those who neither smoked nor were exposed to polluted atmospheres, about one-half of one per cent showed signs of the disease. Non-smokers who worked in a polluted atmosphere showed a 1 1/2 per cent incidence rate. But heavy smokers who were not exposed to air pollutants recorded an 8.8 per cent disease rate, and heavy smokers who were otherwise exposed to pollutants suffered a 13.9 per cent rate of affliction. One of every 14 American workers over 45 years of age is disabled by emphysema. An estimated 20,000 persons in the United States will lose their lives to the disease this year, up seven-fold in just 10 years. Obviously emphysema is a rising challenge to industrial America in its effort to bring the economy directly associated with pollutants.

Whalen is keeping his mouth shut about what precipitated his resignation; Nixon men, expressing hope that Whalen will return, dismiss it as a personality clash. But more than personalities seem involved. Nixon's younger and newer staff members in such as Whalen, 32, have been quietly downgraded since their dominant role in the primary election campaigns. JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. Wonderful Tablets

Dear Dr. Molner: My wife and I have used your Wonderful Tablets for an extended period. All at once we were informed by the drug store that we had to have a prescription for the tablets. There are no dangerous ingredients in these wonderful tablets. It is a mixture of half dozen drugs, and has been used (and still are) in subsiding urinary tract infections. An ordinary dosage they are not harmful. But if used in large amounts, they can produce side effects, and there are people who are allergic to them. It is a pity that the tablets should not be used for certain patients. Under recent regulations of the Food and Drug Administration, many such medications, once sold over-the-counter, have been restricted to prescription only. The prescription can indicate that it is permissible to refill it a certain number of times. If a prescription is required every three or six months by the druggist. More potent medications, and those containing narcotics, require a prescription for each purchase. Prescriptions may be a nuisance at times, but they are a necessary part of our medical care, and we must accept them. A prescription, in fact, is one way of assuring that the drug being prescribed is under a physician's supervision.

MR. SPECTATOR On Business And Politics

This is the big political year and Mr. Spector thought you businessmen might like a few pointers on how to act—and talk—during the hectic months ahead. It is not only a busy time, but it is most happy to pass along some information he received from the United States Independent Telephone Association office. We suspect that one reason the telephone group came out with the suggestions was for you would not tie up all the lines in your area. But that is beside the point. There are a lot of places to argue where a telephone is not required. So, in any event, here are the pointers and the questions and the answers. Let's go. In election year is an emotional time. Bitter debates erupt in board rooms as well as over national issues and personalities. Should the businessman actively support his candidates, or should he steer clear to avoid making enemies for himself and his company? Because of their unique position as public utility providers, virtually every utility in the country has a million or 2,000 independent (non-utility) telephone operating companies have long been active in public affairs in their states and communities. The U.S. Independent Telephone Association, which represents these companies, has the following guidelines, which businessmen may find useful in determining the degree of their political activity. 1. Participate by all means, but as an individual, not as a representative of your company. 2. Use personal funds to support your political beliefs. Do not have the law make donations in the name of your company. 3. Support your industry's political action fund if it has one. If it doesn't have one, start one. 4. It's okay to talk politics, but avoid getting into arguments. If the talk becomes heated, back off and start listening. Sharp political debate with customers can only create bad feelings. 5. Present the merits of your candidate, but avoid knocking the other fellow's choice. 6. Allocate time and contributions only to the candidate and issues you feel are most important. Taking part in every race can weaken your effectiveness. 7. Encourage employees to work for the candidate or platforms of their

RAY CROMLEY Hero's Betrayal

WASHINGTON—Many South Vietnamese shy from a coalition government with the Communists because they remember the French terrorism after the Revolt of the Scholars in the late 1800s. Chou, still a teenager, built a small but militant group who were determined to defend attacks on the colonists. From then on, Chou's life was in the underground, his operations in North Vietnam, in southern China, in Hong Kong, and went as far as Japan for support. He trained, he helped men to study abroad and then got them working together in a series of national movements. From 1952, when he reorganized these groups when they were cut off from the French and expanded them into the Red Army, he has been active in drawing in other groups of nationalists. Chou, apparently, was a modest man. He was leader, was well liked, but a target of the Chinese examination system which entitled him to a mandarin's post. His writings made him an enemy of the Soviet consulate in Indochina. But he worked to put others in the top spots of leadership. In 1952, when the movement was gaining momentum, Chou established an alliance with Ho Chi Minh, just arrived in Canton as an envoy of the Soviet consulate and Comintern with orders to organize Vietnamese students in China into Red cells. At part of the new arrangement, each Vietnamese nationalist coming to China for study gave his photograph to a Ho ally. At the time went on, it came about that students who joined one of Ho's Communist units during their stay in China returned home in safety. Those who chose to remain in their nationalist organizations and refused to become Communists found the French police alerted as to where they were. They would cross the border back into Indochina. The French police would be waiting with photographs bought from Ho's men. One day, having worked his way into the nationalist organizations and into Hanoi, Chou's friends, after learning the security plan, hired Chou to a spot just inside the French Concession in Shanghai. The French paid him handsomely for his betrayal. Chou was brought to trial and convicted of inciting to rebellion. The uproar in public opinion which followed his trial forced the French government to grant amnesty to Chou. He lived on the last years of his life under what amounted to French house arrest. Ho's betrayals did more than profit his work financially. For some years, the French went on to help the Communist because they cooperated in eliminating nationalists and thus were effective in slowing the growth of an independent movement strong enough to drive the French out of Indochina.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am one of those unfortunate, and I think that is the right word, who took STD before it was common knowledge that the drug it caused in the chromosomes was known. I have long since discontinued using the drug, but now am beginning to worry about future consequences. If I marry and my wife has children, what can I do to protect them from the correct what may have happened to me? What kind of a doctor would I go to to have my chromosomes tested? I would like to obtain one way or the other. The condition of your chromosomes involves tests such as karyotyping, chromosome studies, and is complex and time-consuming, and done in comparatively few medical centers. You would need to have a doctor determine where such studies are being done and refer you to specialists. I understand your future marriage, you may just have to take your chances and hope for the best. Dear Dr. Molner: Is there any truth or is it just rumor

LPN Students Graduated At Burley Event

BURLEY—Graduation for seven student nurses was held Friday in the Burley High School Auditorium.

Dr. I. W. Davis spoke.

The Licensed Practical Nurse graduates are Irene Bates, Marilyn Wall, Janet Brady, Helen Wilson, Wilma Harmon, Belva Boyson and Glenna Ramsey.

The women have to take their state-board examination in October...Then they will be certified.

Instructor—for the one-year course is Mrs. Margaret Mohrlang. Sponsors of the LPN course are Cassia Memorial Hospital, No. 151 and Cassia Memorial Hospital, in cooperation with the State Department of Vocational Education.

The course requires 600 hours in the classroom, 1,200 hours in hospital—experience—and after the first six weeks, the hospital pays each student for her work on the floor.

LPNs are part of a hospital staff and assist nurses with patients and, routinely, bedside nursing, freeing nurses for administrative and supervisory work.

The LPN is an assistant's role in complex situations, and that of a safe practitioner in more simple situations. She can give medication, and assist doctors and nurses with procedures in the hospital, Dr. Davis said.

The last three training sessions at Cassia Memorial Hospital have been conducted under the Federal Manpower Development Training Act. Under this program a training allowance can be made for a woman who is the head of a household. The Federal Manpower Development Training Act extends to other vocational fields—our graduates go into fulltime employment at a hospital.

The next class for training Licensed Practical Nurses which can handle eight persons, will start Sept. 9, announces Mrs. Mohrlang. No tuition is charged for the students, although about $150 is needed for books and uniforms which the students furnish.

Red Chinese Army Hunts Red Guards

HONG KONG (AP)—The Red-Chinese army has succeeded in suppressing fighting in Canton and is hunting down Red Guards, criminals and rioters, Chinese travelers said today.

The arrivals, whose reports cannot be verified, said soldiers have arrested several thousand persons in the last few days and taken them to forced labor camps.

Other travelers said some 20,000 persons have been detained in a labor camp near Canton for trying to flee from Red China or helping others try to flee.

Despite the army crackdown, robbery and rape are on the increase in the city and Red Guards are continuing guerrilla-style resistance in rural areas, the travelers said.

They said the Red Guards, members of youth groups formed to spearhead Mao Tse-tung's Cultural Revolution purge, now have put up wall posters attacking Mao and declaring, "We refuse to be exploited further by others."

Williams Is Re-Elected By National Unit

BOISE (AP)—Idaho State Auditor Joe R. Williams has been re-elected secretary of the National Conference of State Security Administrators, he said Monday.

Williams attended the meeting last Wednesday and Thursday in Tucson, Ariz.

"While there," he said, he discussed with other state officials a recent controversy in Idaho over whether or not sick pay for state employees should be exempt from Social Security deductions.

Gov. Don W. Samuelson had said it was an "error" on the part of Williams' office that sick pay was not exempt from the deduction in Idaho.

But Williams said he found at Tucson that no state has a law allowing such an exemption, and that legislation would be needed to allow it. Williams recommended that Idaho's legislature pass such a law, which Samuelson said would save the state and its employees about $200,000 every two years.

About 30 Idaho Prison Trustees Are Living In New Penitentiary Dormitory

BOISE (AP)—About 30 Idaho State Prison trustees are now living in the new state penitentiary dormitory east of the new prison site, said C. L. House, State Board of Corrections chairman.

House said the farm and construction trust inmates were moved from temporary quarters to the 36-man dormitory.

He also announced Monday plans for the new prison women's complex on the desert site south of Boise were to make it a "diagnostic center" for male prisoners instead.

Although it was originally built to house Idaho's women prisoners, the seven women in the Nevada State Prison earlier this year.

As soon as funds are available, House said, the new complex would be used for housing of juvenile offenders, inmates on work-release, inmates receiving vocational rehabilitation and reception and classification of new inmates.

Physical, mental and aptitude tests will be given the new prisoners, he said.

However, either state or federal funds will be needed before the new 50-inmate complex can be used.

The trusty dormitory-mess hall cost $697,262, House said, and the next building to be constructed include a farm services building, a warehouse and a bath.

Scientists Find Drug Differences

By JACK MILLER — WASHINGTON (AP) — A team of university scientists say they have found differences in the way brand-name and generic drugs behave in the body.

"Our findings raise serious doubts about the quality of different products of the same drug in the treatment of disease," said Dr. Christopher M. Martin, head of the five-man research team at Georgetown University.

But Dr. Herbert L. Jewell, commissioner of the Food and Drug Administration, which authorized the university to do the research, issued a statement on the findings cautioning that the Food and Drug Administration has in no sense concluded that "generic" drugs are less effective as a class than brand-name products.

Dr. Jewell said, "In my opinion, there are fewer than two dozen drugs where therapeutic differences among competing products may be a problem."

A brand-name drug generally is defined as one put out by the company that originated it. A generic is another company's version of the same chemical compound.

Generics can be made when the originator's 17-year patent runs out or when the originator "licenses out" the drug to other companies.

Generic drugs often sell for less than the brand version—sometimes for as little as one-third as much. It has been contended in some quarters that there was no significant difference in the performance of generic and brand-name drugs.

Dr. Martin said in a paper that his team found that some generic drugs were absorbed in the blood streams of well volunteers more slowly than brand-name versions. And he said at least one generic product was absorbed much faster than the brand-name drug.

He emphasized, however, that the findings do not answer the final question of how well patients, when given to sick patients.

Dr. Jewell told a reporter that such blood-level tests are the best means the FDA now has for making judgments on how well drugs perform when used on patients.

The Georgetown tests were conducted with chlorpheniramine.

col. a powerful antibiotic use for combating serious infections; with sulfisoxazole, a sulfonamide used for urinary infections, and with diphenhydramine, a drug used for treatment of epilepsy.

Dr. Martin presented the findings in a paper prepared for a meeting in Minneapolis of the American Society for Pharmacology and Experimental Therapeutics. The paper also was released here, and Dr. Martin elaborated on the findings in an interview.

Transportation Authority Has Settlement

NEW YORK (AP)—The Metropolitan Transportation Authority announced today a settlement in the dispute which has sharply curtailed rush-hour commuter service on the Long Island Rail Road for two weeks. Representatives of the railroad and the Brotherhood of Railway Carmen Lodge 886 agreed to a mediation proposal suggested by Francis A. O'Neill of the National Mediation Board after a five-hour meeting.

The LIRR said there would be no change in the cancellation of 30 trains during this morning's rush hour but that the situation will be progressively better during the week with normal service expected by Monday.

The railroad which carries 90,000 daily commuters had charged the cogen who repair and inspect its stock were engaged in a slowdown which caused a shortage of cars and led to the service cutbacks. It said 228 of its 780 electric cars were out of the service Monday when 58 trains were canceled.

Union officials immediately denied the slowdown charge, claiming that the LIRR equipment was old and unsafe and consequently required more time for repairs and inspections.

In the background of the dispute was the railroad's plan to change the work schedule at the Dunton electric-car shop, where much of the maintenance work is done, and to discharge 18 men for efficiency reasons.

O'Neill's proposal called for both parties to promptly accept mediation from the national board, to restore conditions as they existed prior to July 23 when the alleged slowdown began and to make every effort to restore a normal working arrangement, including the acceptance of overtime assignments.

Handling the dispute under the Railway Labor Act, including such issues as the LIRR's proposal to start a three-shift, seven-day schedule at the Dunton shop.

—Agreement that no jobs would be abolished while the dispute was being handled under the labor act "except by consent of death, retirement or discharge for cause."

—Refutation of the 18 painters and upholsterers which the line planned to discharge, keeping them at their current pay with service.

—James P. Torre, acting general chairman of Lodge 886, said he would notify his members of the agreement and urge them to restore normal working conditions and accept overtime assignments to get cars back in service.

Humphrey, McCarthy Plan National Television Debate

By JIM ADAMS

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, leading contenders for the Democratic presidential nomination, will debate on national television Friday night if format and equal time problems are solved.

The McCarthy people want an open, uncategorized debate for the full hour—7:30 to 8:30 p.m. EDT Friday. Humphrey aides earlier reported a tentative agreement to divide it into three segments: foreign affairs, domestic policy, and concepts of the presidency.

The plan is going to try to solve the problems and if we solve the problems then we'll go to the networks," McCarthy's campaign manager, Blair Clark, said Monday night.

He said all three networks have tentatively set aside the Friday night time, pending solution of the problems, and would carry the debate simultaneously.

Clark said he was optimistic agreement on the format would be reached. But a Humphrey aide, Ted Van Dyke, said prospects for holding the debate will depend on whether the equal time problem "can be worked out to the satisfaction of all the candidates."

Sen. George S. McGovern, who announced his Democratic candidacy two weeks ago, has said his exclusion from the Humphrey-McCarthy debate violates the Federal Communications Commission's equal time provision.

The Columbia Broadcasting System, handling arrangements for the networks, has offered McGovern a half-hour broadcast sometime after the Humphrey-McCarthy exchange.

Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox, who entered the Democratic race Saturday, called Monday for a debate between all four Democratic presidential aspirants but did not refer specifically to the Friday night time.

The McCarthy camp originally proposed three separate debates on foreign affairs, domestic policy, and concepts of the presidency.

But an aide said now that there will be only one debate it should be open to a free exchange and not categorized into three 20-minute segments.

In separate development, a McCarthy spokesman said it was "ridiculous and completely unfounded" to say McCarthy had withdrawn from an NBC

He says a reporter asked him recently whether he has changed his tune since his primary campaign four years ago, no longer dwelling on race. The former Alabama governor replied, "I haven't changed a bit. You just weren't listening then. I'm saying the same thing now and it has nothing to do with race but philosophy of government."

Non-Advertising Packages Offer Decorative Appeal

By RUTH KOONCE MILLER, Times-News Staff Writer. Certain manufacturers of products often prominently displayed in the home are to be commended for beginning to package their products in a way that is not only decorative but also practical...

The devotional program, "Prayer," was presented by Mrs. Alma Rega during the executive and general meeting of the Christian Women's Fellowship of the First Christian Church.

The opening thought was given by Mrs. Melvin Estinger and announced that the group meetings will be held Aug. 29. Scripture readers included Mrs. Paul Moseley, Jr., Mrs. Maurine Allen, Mrs. Estinger, Mrs. Floyd Smith, Mrs. Sam Miller and Mrs. James Sharkey.

Refreshments were served by members of Group No. 3. Group No. 2 reported its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Sharkey. The lesson was presented by Mrs. Moseley and the devotional service by Mrs. Frank Estinger.

SANITIZE BRUSHES. Brushes used to clean toilet bowls and garbage cans should be sanitized frequently. Wash with hot soap, scald in boiling water and let them dry in the sun.

Appliance manufacturers would do well to take a tip from product packaging who have started calling their decorator in American women. Not only would appliances which don't have brand names attached to them be more attractive, they would be easier to clean.

Decorative colors in many different colors, are now available, but the advertising ones are still being sold. Advertising colors are cheaper than decorator materials, but who wants their crumpled candy dish filled with high school lessons in mind?

Most of them have rather garish looking labels on them which is fun to remember what kind to buy. But how about putting easily removable labels on the containers, and printing the brand name, etc., on the bottom?

Dear Abby

BY ABIGAIL VAN BUREN DEAR ABBY: How is this for a strange twist of events? I am now married to a man who keeps company with a very attractive father well-to-do bachelor of 35 who is a minor.

Now I'm nearly 18 and I'm going to be married soon to a boy who knows all about my past. Abby, now I want more than anything in the whole world to have my baby back.

DEAR SORRY: You can't and you'd do well to accept that fact. The child legally belongs to the couple who adopted it.

DEAR ABBY: My boyfriend and I planned to get married. He is under age so he asked his parents if they would sign for him and they said yes.

DEAR TROUBLE: Drop your friend and tell him why. He will most assuredly pass the word on to your daughter, and, hopefully, it will scare a little sense into her.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WANTS TO FORGIVE HIM": The healing of a relationship that has been strained (or broken) can be compared with the healing of a broken arm.

DEAR ABBY: When I was 15 yrs. old I had a bad cold, wedded at home for unwed mothers. I signed a paper agreeing to give my baby up for adoption.

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem. What's yours? For a personal letter write to Abby, Box 6370, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

NEW YORK — Seven out of eight poor women of child-bearing age cannot now have the family planning services they want when they want them.

Confidential to popular opinion, the report notes that seven out of ten women needing subsidized family planning services are in the target group, live in the nation's cities, and almost nine out of ten of them live in families which are self supporting.

Authorities Await Pope's Answer To Question Of Revolution And Violence

By EDWARD MAGRI

VATICAN CITY (AP) — As Pope Paul VI prepares to fly Thursday to the 39th Eucharistic Congress in Bogota, government authorities and some Roman Catholics are awaiting his answer to the question: Can a Christian use revolution and violence to improve the plight of the poor?

Latin-American political and government leaders, faced with increasing pressures from priests and laymen who say yes, have let it be known through diplomatic channels that they expect the Pope to speak out clearly against violence.

Vatican informants said Monday that is what the 70-year-old pontiff will do. It is expected the Pope will strongly endorse efforts to eliminate poverty, disease and corruption and to improve economic opportunity for all in an orderly fashion.

This would permit Latin American governments to "claim" the support in speaking of moving against uprisings and disorders.

But many priests and laymen, looking for the Pope to suggest workable means to correct the social injustices he has condemned.

"The expectation for the Pope's travel is interesting," wrote the Italian Socialist party organ Avanti. "Will he condemn the stingiest, most oppressive and profiteering capitalism that today exists in the world?"

"The reply that will come to this from Bogota will tell us many things about this pontificate," said the Italian Communist party organ L'Unita. "This trip is a crucial test for the whole Catholic world and the developments that are stirring it. The life of Pope Paul already contains an answer to violence.

"As a priest in the 1930s when Fascist squads beat Catholic priests and youths and burned Catholic offices, he shrank away from it in horror.

"A main target of the Fascists was the Italian Catholic University Federation—FUCI—founded in 1925 to 1933 by Father Giovanni Montini, now Pope Paul. In an effort to end FUCI's competition against the Fascist University Youth, Fascists beat many FUCI members and Father Montini's colleague priests.

"As a result, Father Montini suspended all FUCI's public gatherings in 1932 and asked if he relieved of his office the next year. He confined his work to private meetings and to accompanying student groups to stum areas.

"But he never said a word in favor of countering violence with violence.

Negro Steelworkers Press For Black Representation On AFL-CIO Board

By LEE LINDER

CHICAGO (AP) — Negro steelworkers, picketing outside and picketing inside, pressed today for black representation on the policy-making board of the AFL-CIO's biggest union.

J. W. Abel, president of the United Steelworkers of America Union, had hoped that its convention this week would be marked by a union solidarity.

Abel was intent on political activity for the presidential bid of Oregon Avanti. "Will he condemn the stingiest, most oppressive and profiteering capitalism that today exists in the world?"

"The reply that will come to this from Bogota will tell us many things about this pontificate," said the Italian Communist party organ L'Unita. "This trip is a crucial test for the whole Catholic world and the developments that are stirring it. The life of Pope Paul already contains an answer to violence.

Thommas Johnson of Fairfield, Ala., chairman of the Negro committee, said Negroes complain that the convention and the steelworkers' membership. Abel put the figure nearer 15 per cent.

"We shall demonstrate our anger because we have not been welcomed inside our union's house," said Johnson, "and our activity shall be escalated before this convention ends. If no favorable action is taken by our union leaders."

A committee spokesman said, "Right now, we are not planning any sit-downs. Those who are delegates are going to stay inside where they will be making the strongest fight. We don't want to mess up our union. We just want to be right there on top."

A THOUGHT TO REMEMBER

DALE PATTERSON

Our several articles on childrens discipline caused interesting reaction. For example, one reader wrote:

"I don't have the answer but I'm convinced the more reasons the more children are. Consequently, we have less time for our families. Our children often get too much of what they should not get, too little of what they must have, and too frequently, and severely at times. But when I leave the house or at bed time, he is the first to come with his arms or a hug. This points to the fact that he still retains the love of our children by reprimanding them. In reality, they respect us more."

Naturally, the name of the person quoted can not be mentioned. But we have already expressed our appreciation to all those who have encouraged us to come. It gives encouragement for other thoughts you read here.

Chicago Cubs Demand Hearing To Prove That Preacher Phil Cheats

CHICAGO (AP) — If you call a preacher a cheater, you're going to have to prove it or clear him. That's the stand the Chicago Cubs have taken in the row involving Phil Regan and illegal pitches.

John Holland, vice president of the Cubs, said Monday he had talked to Warren Giles, National League President, and had officially requested a hearing on the matter.

"Mr. Giles told me he hadn't received the umpires' report," said Holland, "and he assured me he would investigate the case thoroughly and then make a decision which we are sure will be a hearing."

"After all, the umpires, in effect, have called Phil a cheater. That's a serious charge anytime and even more serious when you consider the man is a preacher."

Although Regan is not an ordained minister he picked up the preacher tag because of his work with various youth clubs in the Grand Rapids, Mich., area.

Regan refused to discuss the controversy as did Manager Leo Durocher, one of three members of the Cubs who were ejected from Sunday's first game 2-1 loss to Cincinnati. The Cubs also lost the second game 6-3.

It all began in the seventh inning when Regan took the mound and umpire Chris Pelekoudas started calling what he termed illegal pitches: balls.

In the seventh inning when Mack Jones flied out on a 2-2 pitch, Pelekoudas disqualified the play and made the count 3-2 and gave Jones another chance to make out.

In the ninth inning, Pete Rose, the National League's leading hitter, fanned on a 3-2 pitch but again Pelekoudas called an illegal pitch. Rose, given new life, singled to right.

Meanwhile, Durocher, Al Spangler and catcher Randy Hundley were tossed out of the game for arguing with the umpires while third base umpire Shag Crawford came out during the seventh inning with a towel which he used to rub Regan's face, head and the inside of his baseball cap.

"They didn't find a thing," Durocher said Monday. "I told them they could take any players' cap and they'd find sweat on the sweat band."

Besides Pelekoudas and Crawford, the umpiring crew included Doug Harvey and John Kibler.

The same crew remained in town to work the Atlanta series beginning Monday.

NARROW DEFILE of the main Salmon River is rather typical of the towering granite area stream. The canyon harbors an abundance of Chukar partridge and the river, closed to public access over most of the last 40 miles, is inhabited by white sturgeon, small mouth bass and other game fish.

Salmon River Canyon Harbors Fish, Chukars But Harvest Cut By Access

Access, fishing and sight-seeing were the major reasons for a float trip conducted last week down the Salmon River canyon and middle Snake River from Whitebird. Members of the Idaho Fish and Game Department made the trip for those three purposes, plus getting a little better acquainted with some newly-acquired Roguo River boats.

Making the trip were fish biologist Terry Holubetz; Martel Morache, regional conservation educator; Elwood Bitzau, assistant research leader from the University of Idaho; Bill Platts, zone fisheries biologist; and Herman McDevitt, a lawyer and whitewater enthusiast from Pocatello.

Two of the Roguo River drift boats and a two-man raft were launched at the Graves Creek Crossing southwest of Cottonwood. The trip lasted three days in the mouth of the Grand Rhonda River, approximately 20 miles down the Snake River from where it joins with the Salmon. One objective was obtained early, the drift boats proving superior to the motor boats. One of the major findings was the growth of Chukar Partridge population. "All members of the party agreed that a minimum of 1,500 to 2,000 Chukars was seen at river level," Morache reports. "It would be virtually impossible to over-hunt these birds in this environment."

Holubetz, who supervises the fishing success on the waters, found that small mouth bass angling was excellent. That last portion of the Salmon is recognized as one of the last fine white sturgeon areas left in the contiguous states. To point this up, an eight-foot specimen swam by in about three feet of water the first day out and proved an eye-fel for the party.

On a less happy note, the group found several dead salmon on which "were apparently victims of the month-long delay and these fish experienced at John Day Dam on the Columbia," Morache said.

The group also kept an eye out for possible public access sites but found none. Through the entire 60 miles only two access sites are available, Graves Creek Crossing and Engle Creek out of Wahla. Although not all the land bordering the river is in private ownership, the crags prevent easy access. In addition, most of the top land is privately owned and this precludes would-be hikers from getting into the little-used sections.

Morache said the group was appalled at the examples of man's abuse of the river. "At several points near Graves Creek, some person or persons have seen fit to use the Salmon River as a disposal area, for used tires," he said. "Literally hundreds of these tires were observed along the entire route where they had caught in eddies and lodged in the rocks."

TWO TYPES of boats were compared by personnel from the Idaho Fish and Game Department in a float trip down the last 40 miles of the main Salmon River. In foreground is a two-man rubber raft and at left is a recently-acquired Roguo River boat. The Roguo River trip proved most feasible and easiest to handle.

Dallas Cowboys Can Win Title, But Fight Trauma

By DENNE H. FREEMAN, Associated Press Sports Writer
DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The Dallas Cowboys still have the physical equipment to win a National Football League championship. But the question is: Can the Eastern Division kings overcome the trauma of twice being "snakebite" victims?

Coach Tom Landry puts it this way: "We can build up an artificial crust, but you wonder just how well it will react if and when we get down to those last crucial seconds again."

The stic Landry was of course referring to the dramatic NFL playoffs the last two seasons with the Green Bay Packers.

The nerve-wrenching battles went to the Paul Bunyons from the North 34-7 in 1966 when Dallas failed to score from the Green Bay two-in-the-closing seconds and again last season 21-17.

The Cowboys will enter the NFL season, opening with the Detroit Lions Sept. 15 in the Cotton Bowl, with virtually a set team.

Quarterback Don Meredith, with a new three-year contract, returns hale and hearty from an up-and-down 1967 in which he suffered leg injuries, pneumonia and a broken nose. He was brilliant in the Eastern Division title game against the Cleveland Browns and only so-so against the Packers in minus 13-degree cold at Green Bay. He's had an excellent pre-season.

In the backfield with Meredith will be four-year man Dan Reeves, a deceptively shifty runner who picked up 537 yards rushing last season and finished most of the NFL's cornerbacks with his halfback pass.

Eight-year fullback Don Perkins, a great blocker and a small but explosive runner who has fumbled but once in two years, again returns. He is seventh on the all-time NFL rushing charts. The flanker is impact-like Lance Rentzel, a jump ball jack who sped 99 yards with 58 catches last season — a goodly number on the running pass from Reeves.

At end is the bullet — Bob Hayes — whom Landry calls "our game breaker." Hayes has scored 35 touchdowns on pass receptions in his three seasons in the NFL and now has former Baltimore great Ray Berry to teach him some moves to go along with his speed.

Other vets on offense include rugged tight end Pettie Norman, All-Pro tackle Ralph Neely, tackle Tony Little, center Dave Manders, who was out with a bad knee last season, and guards Leon Donohue, who comes off knee surgery, and John Miland.

The only rookie likely to see most offensive duty is first round draft choice Dennis Homan of Alabama, a sticky-fingered flanker.

The doomsday Dallas defense is another pressure-hardened group, but dangerously thin at linebacker and possibly prone to the secondary despite the presence of All-Pro cornerback Cornell Green. Few rookies, if any, will see action here.

Other All-Pro's include quick tackle Bob Lilly, a 260-pound half-back-mashing monster, and Chuck Howley, probably the fastest linebacker in the NFL. Steady Larry Jordan and Dave Edwards are the other linebackers.

Hugo defensive tackle Jethro Pugh and veteran ends George Andrie and Willie Townes make up the front four again.

PLAY EXPOSES BAD DISTRIBUTION

We talked about automatic plays yesterday. Some plays are more automatic than others. Today's play would be recognized as such by 10 or maybe

11. ace and jack of spades. East was in with the queen. It had taken South a long while to make this series of plays and East had figured out his one chance. He got off lead with the 10 of diamonds!

South let it ride around to dummy's queen and returned a low diamond. East followed low and after some futile commencing with himself, South went up with the ace and another slam had gone into limbo. Let's see where South went wrong.

Before playing spades South should have led a diamond to dummy's king. Then when he played ace and jack of spades it wouldn't matter who won the trick or how the diamonds were distributed.

East would win, of course, and make that same 10 of diamonds lead, but South would simply let it ride to dummy's queen. If West followed, the suit would have broken 3-2. When West showed out, South would have had a proven fitness against the jack.

20 players. A couple of hundred more would recognize it after careful study of the dummy. If you can work it out looking at all four hands you belong in the expert class. South didn't quite figure it out.

He started out at trick two by playing the ace of hearts and a low heart to dummy. Then he ruffed a club high, entered dummy with a third trump, and ruffed the last club so far he was right on the beam. Then he played out his

Why Have Women's Feet Grown So Enormously?

It also has been proven—the average young lady matures two years earlier than her mother. Her great grandmother... is the turn of the century... Recently received an invitation to a cocktail party which reads: "Please arrive at 8 p.m. if possible. By 9 a.m. you're impossible."

It was the rule of the Morris-town, N.J., Temperance Association of some years back to limit each member's coffee to no more than one pint of apple-jack a day.

To what do you attribute the remarkable increase in the size of women's feet?—the standard average size which girls who model shoes are expected to wear. Exactly 40 years ago that size was 7 1/2.

Somebody must have figured the figures. Average female foot couldn't have grown that much bigger. Greta Garbo wore—presumably still wears—size 7A. That's not so big. However, if you're a seasoned citizen, you may recall everybody tossed her with the contention that her feet were enormous.

Miss Peggy Fleming, that 106-pound wand on ice, says her favorite food is macaroni. Ocean water is always on her lips. The statistician who sharpens the wits like promiscuous flirtation," said George Moore. The statisticians report every fourth skier gets hurt. Two out of every five dollars used to pay off installment debt go to pay off the cost of tears.

Do you ever have any trouble with your feet? Nevermind, that's too personal. Only mention it because a foot doctor says he rarely finds a patient among those citizens who relax mightily in rocking chairs. Matter of fact, he says, he has a better bet to rock than to run. Good customer service: Q. "We've got a customer in our lounge who claims a headwater in a lagoon hotel makes as much as a half million dollars a year in tips. Is that possible?" A. Evidently is. The IRS has years back claimed the head-water at the Waldorf-Astoria made at least that much, maybe double that.

Q. "Which of the famous Hollywood actors, now dead, do you miss the most, if any?" Like Clark Gable, Gary Cooper, Tyrone Power, etc. A. One I miss most isn't dead. He's retired. Jimmy Cagney.

Q. "I had a brunette who said there'd never been a blonde Miss America error." writes a feminine observer. "Not only was the first Miss America, Margaret Gorman, a blonde, but so were nine others, including most recently Marilyn Van Derburg. That's 10 blondes out of 40 winners. Not a bad showing for blondes."

Note—one scholar says the women's feet since the beginning of history have been slenderer than with Roman noses. Interesting. If you are acquainted with such a girl, better check her out. Look for signs of significance. If you see same, no doubt you'll eventually want to say, "I'll tell you when you see nothing more than a slender brunette with a Roman nose."

Rapid reply: (1) Yes, sir, the survey-takes claim the wives, not the husbands, are the bosses in 28 per cent of the country's marriages. (2) Correct, madam, at last report doctor says he rarely finds a patient among those citizens who relax

Man Draws 15 Years In State Prison

One man was sentenced to 15 years in the Idaho State Penitentiary and another was released on probation after appearances in Fifth Judicial District court Monday afternoon. Judge James M. Cunningham sentenced James Anderson to not more than 15 years on each of two counts of first degree burglary. The sentences are to run concurrently.

Judge Cunningham sentenced James Anderson to not more than 15 years on each of two counts of first degree burglary. The sentences are to run concurrently.

He was charged with the June 20 burglary of Jerry's Repair Shop and the Ross-Cott. He was arrested by Twin Falls city police shortly after the burglaries occurred.

Louie F. Goines, who pleaded guilty earlier in court to collect and pay sales tax while doing business in Twin Falls, was placed on probation. The court ruled that he had made full restitution and made payments for all sales tax due.

In other court action, Farrell Dean Jensen pleaded innocent to a charge of grand larceny in the alleged theft of a motorcycle from Blasius Motors.

Cleve Stary entered a plea of guilty to a charge of illegal possession of drugs and Gib Riley Hansen failed to appear to answer a charge of writing checks without sufficient funds. Sentencing for Mr. Stary will be at a later date and a hearing for Mr. Hansen has been set for next Monday.
