He's Candidate For Rocking Chair

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson said Saturday "I am not a candidate for anything, except maybe a rocking chair" — on a day a Texas headline proclaimed the "nomination of LBJ is no idle threat" at the Democratic Convention.

Johnson talked a bit about politics and many other things in a commencement address at his old college campus—South Texas State College at San Marcos.

The President was in a reminiscent and philosophical mood. And he told 730 students in cap and gown that "we must work to insure that not only rhetoric, but reason, is going to prevail" during this election year's excitement.

LBJ ... ole rockin' chair's got him.

Czech Patriots Organize Massive Resistance Force

BY THOMAS A. REEDY
LONDON (AP) — Evidence mounted Saturday that Czechoslovakia's patriot population after four days of Soviet occupation has turned into a massive resistance force rivalling storied underground movements of the past.

They claim the results are exhilarating: "There are no Quislings." Specific advice is being given what to do about specific things. For example: A Soviet train loaded with radar, radio tracking and jamming equipment was stopped for lack of electric power and the clandestine radios said simply: "Comrades railwaymen, we thank you."

Democrats Head Toward Bruising Battles Over Policy, Procedure

CHICAGO (AP) — Democrats headed Saturday toward potentially bruising convention battles over policy and procedure, despite the efforts of Hubert H. Humphrey to soothe matters for the sake of party unity.

President Johnson responded to "news" talk that he might be placed in nomination by declaring: "I am not a candidate for anything, except maybe a rocking chair."

ready claiming the votes for first ballot nomination, there was no political comfort in the prospect of a convention which might wrangle for hours—before a national television audience—over the seating of delegates and a platform position on the Vietnam war issue.

The key provisions include an end to U.S. bombing of North Vietnam, phased withdrawal of foreign forces from the South, and an effort to encourage the Saigon government toward political reconciliation with the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

Allies Cling To Position

BY EDWIN G. WHITE
SAIGON (AP) — Outnumbered more than six to one, the allied defenders of a Green Beret camp clung stubbornly to their position for the second day Saturday despite repeated assaults by an estimated 3,000 North Vietnamese troops.

Creeping sabotage, some active and some passive, appears to be spreading through Czech and Slovak ranks with such remarkable ingenuity the occupying troops are finding few targets for their guns.

They did it to the Hapsburgs. They did it to the Nazis. And now they're testing the Russians, Poles, Bulgarians, East Germans and Hungarians. Czechoslovak leaders, still remarkably able to operate clandestine radios over varying and shifting frequencies, are keeping their people and the world outside informed. Their advice to the people is to avoid any clashes but simply to refuse to collaborate.

Jerome Rodeo Queen Named, Races Start

JEROME—Lana Brackenbury, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Brackenbury, Jerome, was named queen of the Jerome County Fair and Rodeo Friday night at the final performance of the RCA approved rodeo.

Georgia Barred

CHICAGO (AP) — The Democratic National Committee voted Saturday to bar Georgia's delegation from the first day of next week's convention because a dispute over whom to seat from the state has not been resolved.

Doctors Say Ike Resting Comfortably

WASHINGTON (AP) — The word encouraging has slipped into a report on the condition of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower. But doctors stress that the president's condition is likely to be for some time.

Eight Firefighters Die In Brush Fire

GLENDORA, Calif. (AP) — Eight firefighters were killed and three others were injured Saturday in a brush fire which exploded in San Gabriel Canyon with deadly force, the county fire chief said.

Svoboda's Crisis Talks With Kremlin Leaders Are Extended

MOSCOW (AP) — Czechoslovak President Ludvik Svoboda's crisis talks with the Kremlin leadership, which he hoped at the outset could wind up in a matter of hours, ended their third day Saturday.

Nigeria And Biafra View Corridor Use

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Nigeria and accession states Thursday agreed the simultaneous use of land and air corridors for transporting relief supplies to starving Biafrans.

Suspects Apprehended After Rupert Break-Ins

RUPERT — Theo Johnson, Minidoka County Sheriff, went to Boise Saturday afternoon to bring two men arrested there earlier in the day in connection with two break-ins some time ago. Saturday morning in Rupert, Boise authorities identified the two men as Gerald Standley and John Buck, ages and addresses unknown.

Authorities said the two men were in possession of articles fitting the description of items taken in the break-ins at the Rupert-Elks Lodge and the Pro Shop in the lodge building. Damage and loss was estimated to be about $1,000 in the two incidents.

Humphrey's Vote Chances Are Polled

CHICAGO (AP) — Southern favorite Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey can win the Democratic nomination on the first ballot, the Associated Press poll showed Friday. More than two-thirds of the delegates from the 11 Deep South states are held by favorite Sen. Humphrey, while there are still large numbers of uncommitted delegates in New Jersey, California, Illinois and New York.

Some time after 1 a.m. Saturday the glass in the front of the Pro Shop was broken and thieves reached through, unlocking the door to gain entrance. Mr. DeWald said entrance was gained to the lodge by breaking through a door. He said loss and damage at the lodge was about $1,000.

2,320 Idaho Post-Korean Vets Enroll

BOISE — In Idaho an estimated 2,320 post-Korean veterans will be enrolled in educational and training programs under the GI Bill, according to M. W. Allen, director of the Boise Veterans Administration Center. This will be the highest fall enrollment since the program went into effect in June, 1966. The post-Korean GI Bill grants VA educational assistance for up to 36 months to eligible veterans. According to Mr. Allen, about 100 of the 2,320 veterans will be enrolled in institutions of higher learning. If the trend established by the first two years of the program continues, veterans receiving assistance will be divided nearly evenly between Korean veterans and World War II veterans. Allotments range from a monthly allowance of $130 or more per month depending upon number of dependents. Veterans wishing assistance should apply immediately to the Boise VA Center for their Certificate of Eligibility.

Agnew Vows To End Race Injustice

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — Maryland Gov. Spiro T. Agnew pledged the Republican party today to end race and wipe out racial injustice, but at the same time demanded an end to the use of "the torch, or the rod." "Republican leadership will stand for civil rights but will not stand for civil disorders," the vice president said in a speech prepared for the Michigan GOP state convention. And Agnew stressed that "domestic tranquility must be preserved" and that there "must be a solemn national request to have done with the ways of violence." Agnew said that while civil rights stand has drawn considerable criticism since his nomination as Richard M. Nixon's running mate, he defended his record as governor of Maryland. He described himself as the "first governor south of the Mason-Dixon line to secure passage of a state open housing law, to appoint Negroes to important state positions and to recognize and implement the right of all to share in the responsibilities of government at the highest levels."

Humphrey Says U.S. Must Move Massively To Reduce Violence

By HARRY KELLY
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, asserting that the nation is losing the battle against crime and violence, said Saturday "we must move massively to reduce crime and to establish order now."
Humphrey cautioned also against surrendering "to demagoguery which has no solutions, only greater fear and a willingness to accept repression."
"That road," added Humphrey, "leads not to domestic tranquility, but to police-state practices that destroy freedom and divide a people."
Humphrey issued a "preliminary statement on order and justice" on the eve of taking his quest of the Democratic presidential nomination to Chicago for the Monday opening of the party's national convention.
His statement was a package of Humphrey proposals, most of them made previously, on fighting crime and violence, including organized crime and riots. On the latter, the vice president said, "as we reduce the human misery of our ghettos; establish social justice for all Americans; and eliminate discrimination, we will sharply reduce the threat of riots borne of discontent. This is our goal."

Convalescencing

RICHFIELD — Mrs. Clive (Clara) Capps is convalescing at her home after breaking her left ankle in a fall down some steps at the Richfield cheese plant last week.
Mrs. Capps, bookkeeper for the plant, slipped in some water at the head of the stairs. She received treatment at an area hospital.

"But as we seek solution to these problems, we cannot tolerate lawlessness and riots. However great the grievance we must face the fact that every riot is unlawful. We will not condone this violence. It must and will be ended."
But this, Humphrey said, does not mean "stifling legitimate protest or peaceful assembly."

Humphrey said that if President he would direct that National Guard units in each state be given additional training in riot control and that small, highly trained units be kept on continual alert for use by any community for short-term service.
Americans, said Humphrey, must commit themselves "to make life worth living for every American."
Among his proposals, Humphrey called for:
—Increased federal aid to states and communities to recruit, train and pay more policemen.

—Licensing and registration of firearms, through action of Congress if the states fail to act.
—Assistance to courts in increasing personnel and in cutting the heavy backlog of cases.

France Urges Soviets To Leave Prague

PARIS (AP) — France called Saturday for withdrawal of Soviet troops from Czechoslovakia and suggested that the invasion shared characteristics with the landing of U.S. Marines in the Dominican Republic three years ago.
President Charles de Gaulle and his Cabinet, meeting in special session, again blasted the "doctrine of power blocs" and said "France will continue to pursue its independent line working against control of smaller nations by more powerful ones."
"To reaffirm the doctrine of blocs is to turn one's back on peace," said Information Minister Joel Le Theule after the Cabinet meeting.
"We say it like we said it three years ago during the Suez-Dominique affair," Le Theule said, in reference to American intervention there.
Le Theule said France "cannot accept the justification put forth by Russia" for the invasion.
Summarizing the 2½-hour Cabinet discussion, Le Theule reported to newsmen the de Gaulle argument that the post-war power blocs—led by Washington and Moscow—"are a consequence of the ... Yalta accords."
De Gaulle frequently has blamed the division of Europe on these agreements—something the United States again denied Friday. De Gaulle was not invited to the Yalta conference in 1945 by President Roosevelt, British Prime Minister Churchill and Russia's Josef Stalin.

Refund Due

FORT MORGAN, Colo. (AP) — It was more than three years ago when Esther A. Zimbelman insisted she mailed two checks on time to pay the Morgan County Rural Electric Association for her irrigation and electrical bill. But she had to pay the $332 penalty for late payment anyway.
The enveloped postmarked June 14, 1965, arrived at the REA Thursday with two checks, also dated June 14, 1965, inside.
The post office couldn't explain why the letter was delayed three years. The REA said Mrs. Zimbelman's penalty payment would be refunded.

White Campaigns In Grangeville

GRANGEVILLE, Idaho (AP) — Compton I. White, Democratic congressional candidate, said Saturday that Idaho needs a representative with realistic approaches to spending by the military, and for foreign aid and space.

Poverty Exodus

The War on Poverty may not have recorded any spectacular battle victories, but it is far from being the miscalculated skirmish its critics have likened it to.

In 1967, 2.9 million Americans made it out of poverty, reports the Office of Economic Opportunity, calling this "the greatest exodus from the ranks of the poor in the 10 years that records have been kept and possibly in the nation's history."

In the three years that the OEO has been in existence, seven million Americans have escaped from poverty as it is officially classified as poverty status, compared with 4.5 million in the previous five years. In those same three years, the proportion of nonwhite Americans living in poverty dropped from 47 per cent to 35 per cent and the proportion of whites in poverty fell from one in seven to one in 10.

Since 1959, the total number of poor people in the nation has declined from 38.7 million to 26 million as of December, 1967—18 million white, 8 million nonwhite. Significantly, in the past three years, nonwhites have been moving out of poverty at about nine times the 1959-1964 rate.

The OEO does not claim full credit for these heartening trends. Undoubtedly, the very growth of the economy is responsible for much of the improvement. But, it does claim that a substantial share of the accelerated movement out of poverty is the result of its War on Poverty programs.

Though it is difficult to separate the effects of the two factors, it is obvious that the more people who are helped to become productive, tax-paying members of society instead of welfare-absorbing dependents on society, the faster the nation's economic progress will be. It is one cycle that is definitely non-poverty.

J. Edgar Hoover Says:

In these troubled times, Mr. Spectator... has many statements on one thing or another coming across his desk.

A lot of the writers claim that America is now a sick society. Just yesterday Mr. Spectator received the FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin and he was impressed with a message from the director, J. Edgar Hoover.

Some writers who are being bombarded from all sides with what is wrong with this country of ours, take a few minutes and read what the FBI chief has to say. Mr. Spectator is glad to let you have this opportunity and so here is what Mr. Hoover says.

America is NOT a sick society. Let us stop condemning our whole populace for the faults of a few individuals. Let us do so with resolute confidence, avoid panic, and reserve judgment until all the facts are known.

Historically, Americans are doers, not worriers. No country has ever done, or is doing, more for its own underprivileged citizens and for the unfortunate people of other lands than the United States. Our record speaks for itself. We have no reason to be ashamed; indeed, we have much to be proud of. This is not to say that our society is perfect. We do have problems. We do make mistakes, and we do have many great problems. But they are not insurmountable if we do not despair.

Some of our difficulties today arise from the fact that too much attention is given to various dissident elements which have a lot of noisy energy but little purpose. Many of them are complaining about conditions which they helped to create. Now they want our whole society to plead guilty to mass ineptness. This is ridiculous.

A noted columnist, commenting recently on the full court review of the Warren Court, said, "I am tired of the hanging American... a guy who lives in the greatest country on earth and feels he has to plead guilty to his own existence. Now the hanging American is in danger of losing the fierce independence and self-pride of his pioneering ancestors. It is not only the full court review which is making him becoming his own worst critic by doubting his own ability, but also by doubting or distrusting his own obvious virtues: courage, ingenuity, loyalty, generosity, and a sense of duty."

To me, this makes sense. Courage, ability, and pride are hallmarks of success in

On That Carmichael Passport

WASHINGTON, August 23:—The State Department says it is now powerless to withhold passports and thus restrict world travelers such as Stokely Carmichael, the Negro militant who toured Communist countries last year preaching hatred of the United States.

The Department says it obtained "written assurance" from Carmichael that he will not use his passport for travel in restricted areas. Then, about a month ago, the Department returned the passport it had taken from Carmichael.

Of course the seizure of Carmichael's passport last December was based on the fact that he had visited Cuba and North Vietnam, Communist nations where travel was restricted.

The State Department says, however, that its passport powers were subsequently narrowed by a court decision.

That is the explanation given to Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Jr., D-Va., by William B. Macomber Jr., assistant secretary of State for Congressional Relations.

Byrd told the Senate, before Congress began its convention recess, that Carmichael "gave aid and comfort to North Vietnam" by attacking the United States and U.S. Troops, in North Vietnam and in Cuba. By restoring the passport and "pampering" Carmichael, Byrd said, the Department cleared the way for other such trips.

The Senator then wrote Secretary of State Dean Rusk demanding an explanation of the Department's action.

Byrd's comments were echoed in the House where Rep. O. C. Fisher, D-Tex., called Carmichael "an anarchist, a dedicated enemy of the United States." After touring the Communist world "spewing lies and distortions about the United States," Fisher said, Carmichael "deserves no consideration and no compassion at the hands of a government which he is committed to destroy."

Byrd, commenting on the explanation supplied him by the State Department, said "it appears that neither the Justice Department nor the Department of State is willing to come to grips with Carmichael."

In his letter, Macomber referred to a case decided in the U.S. Supreme Court in April, last December. The Court held that the State Department had no authority to prohibit a citizen's crime issue cries for exploitation, for partisan or any other gain. It is the No. 1 issue of the Negro vote seeker, who has adopted it as such. Nor will many Americans object to use of "repressiveness" as a last resort against lawlessness, but only way to handle a mugger, arsonist or looter is to "repress" him.

The Attorney General has made some remarks for the nation's chief law enforcement officer. "To show we intend to be tough to repressiveness," he says, "is to create a disorder." This is tantamount to deposing that a cop should not arrest a rapist or a bank robber because the action will only lead to more rapes and more bank robberies.

Clark also told a news conference that "simply" paralyzing law enforcement is the way of avoiding a major part of the total problem. Well, Mrs. Bolderdash, I suggest that the Negro vote seeker ignore this fact and, more importantly, the fact that the black victims outnumber the black looters.

A major part of the total problem is not the matter of restoring law and order, so that a citizen may make his way safely through the streets to his home. It is the awarding of Harvard scholarships to deserving looters.

There is also something naive in a man's proposal that I feel guilty about this all right, but where prevention fails, looters must be arrested, not shot. This is a splendid procedure only if the looter stands still to

AXES FOR AGNEW

When Spiro Agnew was tagged a candidate for Vice President, like you, I said, "Who's he?" Then some familiar nit-pickers went to work on him and I got interested.

Left-leaning newsmakers and news reporters sought to depict him as a racist. Alert that our media sometimes maligns and I don't care without cause, I sought to backtrack on that allegation.

I cannot find one act or utterance by this Maryland governor which is at variance with what you and I and the overwhelming majority of Americans of all colors have stood for—and stood against.

In essence, Gov. Agnew is for civil rights for everybody; against civil disobedience by anybody.

He has said: "Lawsbreaking cannot be condoned or our nation's very foundations crumble." Surely you agree with that.

He has said: "I am for law and order and deprivation for centuries. What led to the recent explosive crescendo is that lawbreaking has become a lawlessly lawless and occasionally stylish form of dissent." Amen.

"Civil disobedience is at best a lawless policy since it opens the path for each man to be judge and jury of which laws to keep and which laws to break."

Rep. Brown insists that "violence is as American as cherry pie." Remarks like this have created in the ghetto resident a belief that rioting is a right; it is not!

"Mounting civil disobedience is the beginning of riots, and riots are the beginning of revolutions." History nods yes, yes!

PAUL HARVEY

AXES FOR AGNEW

Constructively, Gov. Agnew says, "I very clearly repudiate white racism and I call on Negroes to repudiate black racism."

For the ghetto dweller he recommends "Negro ownership and management of commercial enterprises," "black capitalism" for resolving "social problems." He says a young man should insure only the "opportunity" he has.

He has sponsored legislation at state level and endorsed federal legislation to promote that equality of opportunity.

He has sponsored legislation to amend the constitution to remove "unintentional" discrimination from the entire forthright, fair and constructive.

Naturally, extremists advocating the "disobedience-to-riots-to-revolution" formula will object to his exposure of their objections.

So far Gov. Agnew has stood by his words and deeds, expressed unqualified "pride in my record."

He will continue to stand firm; he will win back many of the critics. Certainly he will cement the respect of the law-abiding Negro majority which is as terrified as anybody of the recent tendency toward anarchy.

Most of us appreciate and applaud his stand. But in retrospect it may be at variance with our own, if it is sincerely founded and unwaveringly defended. It is a stand which is a stand between the "haters" on both sides.

Gen. Dwight Eisenhower once defended his own similar position. He said, "I have much more courage to walk alone down the middle of the road, being sniped from both sides, than I have to stand in the comparative shelter of your extremist friends."

The President

CHICAGO—The American method of selecting a President has been under criticism this year. There are charges that it is cumbersome and out of date, that it is slow and inefficient, and that it is not in keeping with the American presidential elections, and I think I know how it could be improved.

We should take a leaf from our devoted allies, the South Vietnamese, who are not only practicing democracy as we teach it, but also showing us a few innovations of their own.

For example, in the last presidential election the South Vietnamese voters were given a ballot which was their president, and he was duly sworn in. But the man who ran against him and came second, was given five years in jail.

If we applied the Thieu election method, it would not only eliminate many candidates who were not serious about the office, but it would add a lot of excitement to the presidential race. A candidate for President would know that he would either wind up in the White House if he won, or behind bars if he lost. This would give him an incentive to fight for his job.

We saw in Miami Beach where the Republicans not only cheered for their candidates, but they took them down the long road to defeat in 1964, but gave a standing ovation to Thomas Dewey, who lost. This was a show of so much courage in 1968 when he refused to shove off his runcte, knowing it would cost him his job.

And this year, the Republicans went so far as to nominate Richard Nixon, a man

A Democratic Disaster?

WASHINGTON—The extent to which Vice President Humphrey's forces who control the Democratic National Convention have misused the party's temper became apparent when the Platform Committee arrived in Washington.

Platform Committee members committed to writing a dovish platform, their Humphrey committee chairman, Murray Sessions, before the full committee, which attract maximum television coverage were devoted to testimony by long-time Cabinet members, extolling the joys of the Johnson administration. War critics as Sen. J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas were relegated to afterthought sessions before small panels of the committee.

One Platform Committee member, former Rep. John J. Gilligan, running for the Senate from Ohio, promised to "bring, politely but firmly, Gilligan, a five-sided knife" to the first statement at Monday morning's session. Just as politely but just as firmly, Byrd refused.

The tough-talking Richard Goodwin, Sen. Eugene McCarthy's agent in the platform deliberations, was less gentlemanly. After Gilligan had been determined on a plank that departs radically from President Johnson's war policy, Humphrey will not accept this, they are not on going to the floor for a battle that could tear the party in shreds.

Nor are these doves merely a desperate splinter on the Platform Committee. They constitute 33 to 45 out of 100 members and represent vital states such as New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois, California, and Massachusetts.

Embarrassingly, Ed R. Humphrey, the Platform Committee's hawk who supports him, the Vietnam came from Southern states likely to be carried in November by either George Wallace or Richard M. Nixon.

In a sometimes heated closed-door session, the committee's dovish minority was upbraided by a Southerner—H. H. McJohnson of Arkansas, declaring "majority rights." When David C. McClung of Hawaii delivered a stem-winded castigating the Vietnam critics, the Southern House, applause and cheers came in a preponderantly from Southerners.

In fact, some of the instances in a recent plank stems from a desire to change the base of Humphrey's support from the South to the anti-war liberals.

11 Contestants Seeking Idaho's Miss Rodeo Title

Eleven young women will compete for the title of "Miss Rodeo Idaho" at the Twin Falls County Fair and Rodeo, Sept. 4-7.

All of the girls are winners of other contests held during the year in the state and the winner of the "Miss Rodeo Idaho" contest will represent Idaho at Las Vegas, in November, in the competition for the "Miss Rodeo America" title.

During the four-day fair the contestants will attend teas, luncheons, banquets, and make personal appearances before the area service clubs, all under the observation of judges for appearance and personality. They will be judged for horsemanship during a contest in the fairground arena Friday afternoon, Sept. 6.

Every night at the rodeo the queen contestants will ride in the grand entry, showing their horsemanship and riding ability and colorful western outfits, according to W. Gene Hull, chairman of the Miss Rodeo Idaho Committee.

The reigning Miss Rodeo Idaho is Yo Willhite, Boise, who was crowned Saturday night, Sept. 17, at the Idaho State Fair.

Miss Willhite, a senior in elementary education at Boise State College, attended many Idaho fairs and rodeos during her year as queen.

Contestants include Cora Smith, 18, Weiser, representing the Hells Canyon Rodeo. The University of Idaho freshman is 5 feet 4 1/2 inches tall, blonde, and in high school was active in Future Teachers of America and Girls League.

Representing the Gooding County Fair and Rodeo is Kay Benson, 18, Jerome. In Jerome High School Kay was active in Future Teachers of America, the National Honor Society, Pop Club and Girls League, and trained horses as an extra activity. She is 5 feet 10 inches tall and has dark brown hair.

Pat Shouse, 18, Hazelton, a graduate of Valley High School, represents the Frontier Days Rodeo. The 5 foot 3/4 inch-tall brunette likes to water ski and snow ski and golf. In high school she directed the senior play, was active in Pop Club, Drill Team and the Golf Team.

From Hayden Lake representing the Coeur d'Alene Rodeo is Linda Kellmer, 18. She has brown hair, green eyes, and is 5 feet 4 inches tall. Linda was active in Girls' State, French Club, Future Homecomingers, and the Girls' Athletic Association. She was Football Homecoming Queen and Varsity Cheerleader in high school.

Kris Anderson, 18, Burley, plans to attend Ricks College. The 5-foot 1-inch brunette represents the Gooding County Fair and Rodeo. In high school she was active in Pop Club, Future Teachers of America, and served as a member of Robann's Fashion Board and as Homecoming finalist in 1967 at the U of I.

Ila Smith, 19, Boise, will represent the Ada County Sheriff's Office. The 5 foot 2 inch blonde is a sophomore at Boise State College and a member of the National Honor Society.

Representing the Pocatello Frontier Rodeo is Lonna Jean Aller, Pocatello.

Representing the Magic Valley Western Horos Show is a honey blonde Boise girl, Sue Ellen Smith, 18. A graduate of Capital High School, she was active in the Capital Riding Club, Future Teachers of America and the Girls' Athletic Association.

Marcy Valentine, 19, Caldwell, represents the Caldwell Night Rodeo. Marcy is a junior at the College of Idaho where she is Song Leader, a member of Delta Phi Omega and floor firestarter. She is only 5 feet tall and has brown hair.

A freshman at Colorado State University is representing the Twin Falls, Mounted Sheriff's Office. She is Carolyn Harvey, 18, Twin Falls. The 5 feet 10 1/2 inch brunette represented Magic Valley in the Miss Idaho State Contest and was a Homecoming Queen of Job's Daughters Bethel No. 56. She was also active in the National Honor Society, secretary of the junior and senior classes, a member of Spanish Club, Pep Club, Math Club, Future Teachers of America and the junior and senior drill teams.

The Rubb Sagebrush Stampede is represented by Jackie Bodenhofer, a senior in elementary education at a University of Idaho junior, she is 5 feet 3/4 inches tall and has dark brown hair. She is an elementary education major and served as a member of Robann's Fashion Board and as Homecoming finalist in 1967 at the U of I.

Pope Outlines His Stand On Birth Control

BOGOTA—Columbia (AP)—Pope Paul VI told Latin America's bishops today, as he brought his three-day Colombian visit to a close, that his recent rejection of artificial contraception for Roman Catholics does not outlaw "moral and reasonable limitation of births."

Inaugurating a general assembly of 160 delegate-bishops representing all the hierarchies of Latin American countries, the Pope took up once more the burning issue that has caused a storm since his July 29 birth control encyclical.

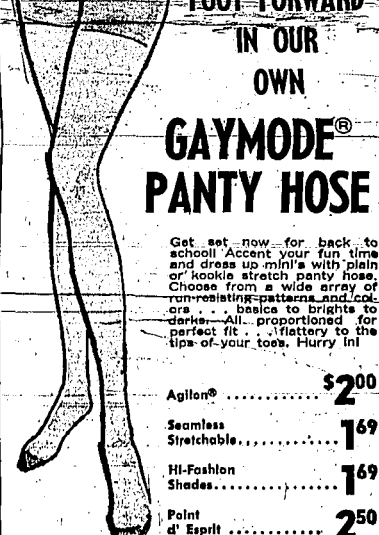

"The great majority of the church has received it (the encyclical) with favor and trustful obedience, not without understanding that the law which we have reaffirmed involved a strong moral sense and courageous 'spirit of sacrifice,'" he told the Latin American Bishops Conference at a ceremonial opening in Bogota Cathedral.

The Pope insisted that his encyclical, "Humanae Vitae"—On Human Life—"does not diminish the responsibility or the liberty of husband and wife and does not forbid them a moral and reasonable limitation of births." Nor does it "hinder any lawful therapy or progress of scientific research," he added.

Red Cross Blood Saved His Life

By GARY STRODER
Times-News Staff Writer

Beryl Kunkel is a pioneer Hollister resident who is sincerely grateful to the Red Cross Blood program in Twin Falls.

Mr. Kunkel is 88 years old and had a bleeding ulcer when he entered the Twin Falls Memorial Hospital last month. He spent 18 days there and required 18 pints of blood, which were provided by the Red Cross program with no charge.

According to Mrs. Kunkel, "The blood was responsible for saving his life. We are very grateful that it was available."

Mr. Kunkel came to this area in 1911 and has lived in the same house in Hollister for 45 years. After his hospital stay, Mr. Kunkel is active physically and has a remarkably sharp mind.

Dave Nelson, blood chairman for the Red Cross program in the Twin Falls area, the next blood-drawing is Tuesday from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. in the American Legion Hall. The quota is 150 pints.

According to Mr. Nelson, "We really must make our quota this time, since at the last blood drawing we only received 108 pints, 42 short of the quota."

He said that the quota could be made easily if people who have received blood would recruit donors on their behalf. Mr. Nelson said he felt that persons who gave blood were community-minded individuals who take an interest in the welfare of others here.

"If residents of Twin Falls go out of town," Mr. Nelson said, "and require blood from a private bank which requires a charge, the Red Cross will replace the blood and the individual won't have to pay."

In 1967 there were 1,241 pints of blood donated through the Twin Falls Chapter. However, Twin Falls used 1,824 pints. So persons here used more than 500 pints more than were donated to the Red Cross.

"Ten visits a year are made by the Bloodmobile to the Twin Falls Chapter. Two drawings are held in the grade school at Kimberly, two in the American Legion Hall in Filer, and six in the American Legion Hall in Twin Falls. Also, the Red Cross maintains records of "walking donors" who are called to give directly at the hospital laboratory as well as at regular blood drawings.

In the past drawings in this area, according to Mr. Nelson, a number of persons have been turned down at the blood drawing because they did not meet the medical criteria to give blood.

The final decision on the eligibility of donors must be made by the physician in attendance at the blood drawings. A complete medical history of each donor is recorded in addition to a routine check of temperatures, pulse, blood pressure and blood iron level.

However, certain conditions mean an automatic rejection or deferment of the donor according to the regulations of the American Red Cross and the National Institutes of Health.

The interval between donations must be at least eight weeks and not more than five times a year, with persons accepted between the ages of 18 and 59. Unmarried persons under 21 must present the written consent of a parent. Married minors, or minors on active duty in the Armed Forces do not require a parental release.

Also, donors must weigh a minimum of 110 pounds. During pregnancy and for 12 months after delivery, donors are excluded. Donors with a history of miscarriage during the past year are referred to the physician in attendance. A history of hepatitis at any time in the past automatically excludes a donor. Treatment of hepatitis to patients is one of the most serious problems on blood transfusions.

Persons who have had malaria but have not had an attack in the preceding two years are accepted as donors. A history of heart disease automatically excludes a donor as does a history of diabetes and infectious mononucleosis for six months after recovery.

After all immunizations, except 24 hours after the injection. After smallpox vaccination, donor is accepted two weeks after the scab comes off or after an immune reaction. Donors are advised not to fast. They should eat at regular mealtime prior to donation, but should avoid fatty foods.

Persons engaged in occupations hazardous to themselves or others must be deferred if they must return to their work within 12 hours of donation. This refers to persons operating heavy equipment such as power machinery, cranes, buses and trains.

The Twin Falls Chapter is

The Nigerians have threatened to shoot down planes flying into Biafra.

Mexican Bean Beetle Is Found In Rupert Area

RUPERT — An infestation of Mexican Bean Beetles has been discovered in the Rupert area, according to Vance Smith, Minidoka County Extension Agent.

Mr. Smith said the beetles were discovered in a one and one-half acre of contract beans owned by Joe Inama, Rupert. The beetles were found during a routine field test conducted by Charter Seed Co. Mr. Inama said this is the first time in five years that he has planted beans, and the first time he has ever been plagued by the beetles.

The State Department of Agriculture, which has jurisdiction over such instances, indicated the beetles were probably transported into the area with Mexican farm laborers.

After discovery the six known concentrations for beetles were buried and the rest of the field was sprayed. Mr. Smith said the Mexican Bean Beetle can destroy a crop by eating the leaves and that in the larval stage the beetles will feed on the bean leaves, but not eat clear through.

The mature insect is slightly larger than a lady bug, he said, but is the same shape. The bugs range from yellow to bronze in color and have 16 black dots on their backs.

Mr. Smith said the beetles were first found in the Rupert area three years ago, and that Whenever an infestation is found, beans in the area are under a potential danger.

AN 88-YEAR-OLD Hollister man, Beryl Kunkel, recently spent 18 days in Twin Falls Memorial Hospital. He was suffering from a bleeding ulcer and required 18 pints of blood, which he received through the Red Cross program in Twin Falls. According to his wife, "The blood saved his life. Harold Mink, a six year veteran of the local COORS beer distributor's sales force, was honored at an awards dinner in Twin Falls.

Mr. Tommy Walker presented Mr. Mink a gold electric watch for his efforts and commended him for his outstanding achievement in market development.

In his remarks Mr. Walker honored that "Mr. Mink should be afforded special recognition for his accomplishments made in the face of the severest competition."

"Mr. Mink is in charge of a special market which has long been a weak spot in Western Beverage distribution territory," Mr. Walker said.

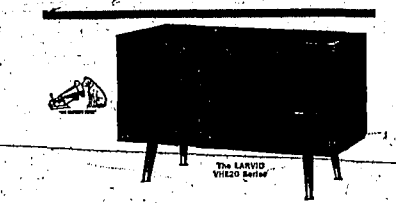

"Because of his untiring effort," Mr. Mink further commented the leading seller in that market.

"The first to bring to the market," Mr. Mink said, "was a steady, professional manner. We must all take inspiration from Harold's work," Mr. Walker concluded.

Mr. Mink replied that although a great deal of work was involved in the development of his route, he feels that the unwavering quality of his product provided a sound basis from which to work.

Adolph Coors Company is the sixth largest brewery in the nation with a distribution area covering only eleven western states.

Minutemen And Troopers Wage Battle

VALUONTOWN, Conn. (AP) — Raging Minutemen waged a gun battle with waiting state troopers as they descended on the camp early Saturday. Four of the raiders, a trooper and a woman resident of the camp were wounded.

The six invaders were arrested. State police, who said they were notified in advance about a planned attack on the New England headquarters of the Committee for NonViolent Action, were posted in the general area.

When the Minutemen were spotted, said State Police Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy, "they identified themselves and the firing began."

Arrested were six Connecticut men, described by Mulcahy as Minutemen—a group said by the Federal Bureau of Investigation to be a "secret, extremist and anti-communist organization."

The pacifist center in this eastern Connecticut community is a training ground for pacifist activities.

The raiders—some of them managed to get into the pacifist center's farmhouse—were heavily armed, carried inflammables and wore masks.

Mulcahy said his troopers stalked out the area of the pacifist center after being notified by the FBI of a plan to attack the farmhouse headquarters.

All six men arrested were charged with conspiracy to commit arson and assault with intent to kill.

They were identified as Louis Rogers, 24, of Lisbon; Thomas J. Hart, 30, of Milford, said by Mulcahy to be the self-styled leader of the Minutemen; Alphonse Macha, 29, of Williamsville; Frank D. Barber, 29, of Norwich; Thomas J. Fournier, 31, of Canterbury; and George J. Road, 79, of Windham.

Samuelson Slammed By E. T. Waters

BOISE (AP) — Idaho Democratic Party Chairman E. T. Waters said Saturday Idaho government has been "on the down" since Gov. Don W. Samuelson took office in 1967.

Samuelson told a Driggs group Thursday that state government was more efficient under his administration.

However, Waters said, "in the past 18 months the Samuelson administration has actually increased the number of new departments in the state as well as additional agencies; he has made false statements on economies realized; has made a mockery of the employee merit system and has shattered the morale of state employees; and has badgered established departments and agencies."

AMERICANS SAVING

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans saved money at the rate of $7.60 out of every $100 for each man, woman and child during the second quarter of this year, the President's Council of Economic Advisers reported Friday.

Probable Pattern For Enemy Offensive Becomes Apparent

SAIGON (AP) — The probable pattern for the enemy's long-awaited third major offensive in Vietnam became apparent this past week.

The ultimate aim may well be large scale attacks against Saigon and other major population centers that characterized the two previous offensives this year.

But on the basis of enemy infiltrated actions this week, there is good reason to believe that the Communist command has, at least temporarily, changed tactics and reverted to the hit-and-run harassment of American positions and border fighting that typified the enemy's military thinking in previous years.

The Tet offensive this year, with its commitment of thousands of men in open battle, probably accomplished the Communist command's objective of stunning the world, but the Tet attacks and those that followed in May cost the enemy a shocking number of lives.

Numerous defections, including several senior ranking officers, may have forced the enemy to reassess its city fighting strategy.

Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops were committed to city fighting this week in Quang Binh City, Da Nang and Quang Ngai City. But the attacks were abortive and were more like commando raids than the battalion-sized attacks in Tet and May.

While enemy forces bypassed American field units in the earlier offensives, this week they deliberately engaged them, particularly in Tay Ninh where the U.S. Army's 23rd Division is deployed across the northwest gateway to Saigon.

Virtually all the American positions in Tay Ninh were attacked, and an important highway was cut for five days. This may have been a ruse to move the enemy forces closer to Saigon, but much more seems to have been involved. The enemy troops could have moved through the dense foliage in the area without engaging the Americans.

A likely explanation is that the foe had several purposes at the Tet attacks and those that followed in May cost the enemy a shocking number of lives.

Constitution Commission Ends Talks

BOISE (AP) — The constitution revision commission Saturday completed its discussion of the rough draft of a proposed new Idaho Constitution.

Idaho's present document was adopted in 1890 and the commission has prepared a streamlined, modernized version for submission to the state legislature next year.

The commission chairman, retired state supreme court Justice Raymond L. Givens, said at least one more meeting would be held to approve changes made Saturday and to approve a journal of the commission's deliberations which is being prepared by former state Sen. Perry Swisher.

The article in the existing state constitution on water rights was left as is, with the only change being a phrase to clarify that both surface and sub-surface waters are subject to appropriation.

Commission members also decided to give Idaho State University and Boise College constitutional status similar to that given the University of Idaho when the existing constitution was adopted.

Givens said the next meeting would probably come in late September.

ISU Extension Courses Offered, Meeting Slated

People wanting to enroll for an extension course offered by Idaho State University are asked to meet in room 23 of the College of Southern Idaho vocational school at 1300 King-Berry Road.

The meeting is set for 7 p.m. Monday.

The evening extension courses will be offered at the new CSI academic building. Courses will offer full credit toward fulfilling ISU requirements. For additional information, contact Marvin Glaskcock, extension coordinator, at the CSI vocational building.

Magic Valley Fashion Watchers "Ooh and Ah" Over Stylish Furs

By NORMA HERZINGER

Combine the feelings of a "queen-for-a-day" and Cinderella and you can come fairly close to the warm glow of excitement I experienced recently when I found myself in a whole new fascinating world.

I was a real Cinderella for a short time this past week, but just like in the fairy tale, things went right back to normal when I got back to the office, although the glamour and exquisite feelings will linger on for awhile. My experience was not with a glass slipper, however, but in the wonderful world of furs—mink, ermine, ocelot, jaguar, beaver, etc. Now I understand why royalty always wore fur (ermine) as a symbol of authority and prestige.

This all came about when Robert Harvey of the Mayfair Shop hosted the Rocky Mountain representatives of Stefani Brothers Furs, Richard E. Wells and Betty Thompson Cirillo, both Denver, for a trunk showing of the complete line of furs for men and women.

With the able assistance of the furrier's representatives and Mr. Harvey, I tried on and modeled furs of every style and description—some light, some dark, some short, some long—but all elegant.

Some I liked better than others, of course, and a more personalized item I've never seen. The lining of the coats are almost as attractive as the fur and can be to one's specification. Your name, exactly as you write it, is properly labeled in the coat giving one a "personally mine" feeling.

Buttons or hooks have not been added to the coats or capes because of individual tastes, etc., and are added after your selection has been made to insure proper fit.

One very different type of coat shown was an ocelot creation accented with a ranch mink collar and trim around the hemline, which was one of the most expensive in the collection.

Mr. Wells and Mrs. Cirillo explained the cost of this coat by noting the rarity of the animal and the difficulty in securing and matching the pelts.

Mr. Wells noted that the mink is the only fur native to North America. Other furs, such as ermine, sable, jaguar and ocelot, are native to other

A REPRESENTATIVE of Stefani Brothers Furs, Richard E. Wells, Denver, shows one of the fur coats popular for men this season. It is a black dyed calf piped in leather with leather buttons.

LOOKING OVER the various fur coats shown during the recent three-day trunk showing at the Mayfair Shop is Lynn Lyda with the assistance of Betty Thompson Cirillo, a representative of Stefani Brothers Furs. Miss Lyda is wearing a French rabbit coat which is a real eye-catcher.

Scholarship Fund Profits From Annual Ball

The third Viennese Ball of the Sun Valley Music Camp preserved all the elegance that made it an outstanding event of the two preceding years. After a brilliant concert by students and faculty in the Sun Valley Opera House, guests went to the lodge where the corridor to the dining room was lighted by candelabra held by pages dressed in frilled spirts and satin breeches and wearing powdered wigs.

Girls from the Music Camp in long gowns ushered guests to their tables.

As the 50-piece student orchestra played "The Viennese Waltz," the pages descended the steps into the dining room to light the room for the dance.

Mrs. Ernest Hemingway, honorary chairman of the camp, danced the first waltz with Jack Hemingway, eldest son of the famous author. Mrs. William Janss, who danced the first waltz with her husband, owner of Sun Valley, wore a white ball gown especially designed by Sonja at her Sun Valley design studio and Mrs. Jacques Brouman, wife of the director of the Music Camp, wore floating yellow chiffon as she danced with Mr. Brouman. Guests of honor at the event were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Z. Gray, New York City. Mr. Gray is the president of the Union Pacific Foundation.

Entertainment during the dinner included a ballet directed by Marianne Hatten, Sacramento Civic Ballet, and Gordon Paxman, University of Utah School of Ballet, with Cathi Ross, Sacramento, as solo ballerina. Mary Ann Anderson, Vicki Rayborn, Melody Youtz, Kristina Ross and Suzann Siler supported Cathi in the waltz ballet.

Fredwyn Hansen, soprano, Jerome, and David Jernigan, tenor, Theodore, Ala., sang, with Tim Schmidt, Cleveland, Ohio, as accompanist. Carolyn Sue Katz, University of Ohio, soloist and vocal teacher at the camp, sang several numbers from "The Sound of Music."

Proceeds from the ball went to the Foundation for Arts Education, Inc., to provide scholarships for exceptional students. The general chairman for the ball was Mrs. Charles Hummel, Boise, and the chairman from Caldwell, Mrs. Leon Jones.

On the committee from Twin Falls were Mrs. David Mead, Mrs. Gordon Edgar, Mrs. Earl Neilson and Mrs. Roger Vincent.

Among the Twin Falls guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Roper, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Youtz, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall LeBaron, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Walker, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rayborn, Helen Laird, Mrs. and Mrs. Edgar, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent, Mr. and Mrs. L. James Kounlik, Dr. and Mrs. Frank Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. James Sinclair, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Bevan and Dr. and Mrs. Paul Heuston, Mr. and Mrs. Thorleif Rungen, Buhl, made reservations but, at the last minute were unable to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gaskill, Idaho Falls, were in attendance, along with Sun Valley guests, Mrs. Ernest Hemingway, Dr. George Saviers, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hemingway, Mr. and Mrs. William Janss, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Atkinson, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Martin and Mrs. Gatzgel Spiegel.

AFTER THE CONCERT, presented by students and faculty of the Sun Valley Music Camp, at the Opera House, some of the guests visit before going to the lodge for the third annual Viennese Ball. Proceeds from the ball went to the Foundation for Arts Education, Inc., to provide scholarships for exceptional students.

AMONG THE TWIN FALLS guests attending the Viennese Ball in Sun Valley are, from left, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Rayborn, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Youtz, Helen Laird and Mr. and Mrs. Marshall LeBaron. Miss Laird, a guest of Mr. and Mrs. LeBaron, is head of the voice department of the University of Cincinnati.

Stylish Furs For New Season Shown In T.F.

countries and many times the availability of these furs can cause the difference in prices.

A French rabbit coat in the collection was a real eye-catcher and although one of the less expensive ones shown, its beauty was superb. But for me, the real stunner was a $4,000 light-colored, cuddly mink coat. In a coat like that, one not only looks like a million, but feels like a million, too.

The furry look has even taken hold in men's coats. Some of them shown for men include those racoon, black Persian lamb, ranch mink and Spanish lamb, to name just a few.

Mr. Wells noted that the fur market took a definite slump after World War II because of the abundance of synthetics but has been on the incline for several years. This year he predicts will be the best ever for fur for both men and women, and from the outstanding at the recent three-day showing, it looks as though it's a winner for Idaho residents.

Miss Peterson, Bojanawski Set December Date

Mr. and Mrs. Norman L. Peterson, Twin Falls, announce the engagement of their daughter, Yvonne Elizabeth, to Daniel Robert Bojanawski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bojanawski, Mig, Mich.

Miss Peterson was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1967. She attends Boise College and St. Luke's Hospital, training to be an X-ray technician and will be graduated in August, 1969.

Mr. Bojanawski is a 1965 graduate of Denby High School, Michigan, and is serving with the Air Force, stationed at Mountain Home Air Force Base. After his military obligation is completed he plans to work in the designing and drafting field. A December, 1969, wedding is planned at Immanuel Lutheran Church, Twin Falls.

Packaged Meat Is Problem For Retail Buyers

SHOSHONE—Meats that are prepackaged cause the most concern of buyers at the retail counter, according to a survey by the Statistical Reporting Service and the National Livestock and Meat Board. People find it difficult, the survey shows, to judge the amount of fat and bone and the size of the cuts.

About one-fifth of the persons interviewed said they curtailed meat purchases because of high prices. Approximately one-third said they determined meat buying by special prices.

The analysis showed that the public this week wanted that beef is the meat most often served in American homes. Ground beef is the most popular type because it is easy to prepare and less expensive. It is also a favorite for outdoor cooking. Steaks and roasts are company cuts. Both are considered expensive by the housewives.

Chicken rates second in popularity. It is considered suitable for family and guest meals. Chicken is ranked as fine for warm weather, but it is regarded as poor keepers according to the survey indicated housewives are confused about grading and inspection. Grading for meat for quality, such as prime or choice. Inspection is for wholesome condition.

Parrott Family Has Reunion

The annual Parrott family reunion was held recently at the Filer Fairgrounds with guests attending from Kansas, Washington, Boise, Hagerman, Buhl, Filer, Twin Falls, Rogerson and Pocatello.

Gray Chick, Pocatello, was the youngest member present and Mr. and Mrs. George Parrott, Twin Falls, were the oldest members attending.

John Spencer, Whiting, Kan., traveled the greatest distance.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: While on a business trip several months ago, I met a very attractive married woman. (I am also married and have a family.) I became quite involved with her. I won't say it was "love," but it was a very romantic encounter, for both of us.

We've kept in touch thru letters and telephone, and I invited her to meet me again at my expense. I am not a rich man, but I own my own business, and can well afford it. Out of the blue I receive a letter from this woman's husband telling me he'd found the letters I had written to his wife, and that she has confessed EVERYTHING. Now, he demands that I write him a letter assuring him that I will never see his wife again. He also asks me to assure him in my letter that I will not leave my wife and family for her. (I never intended to).

I am at a loss as to how to handle this. I am definitely thru with his wife as I want no trouble. What is your advice?
 —WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: Don't put anything in writing, but do consult your lawyer. He can tell you what to do and what not to do, which is even more important in this case. A man needs a lawyer to advise him of his rights — especially, when he's wrong.

DEAR ABBY: What can a woman of 42 do to get a compliment out of her husband? I have spent hours in the beauty parlor getting a new hair-do. No comment. I bought material and made myself a beautiful outfit in his favorite color—blue. No comment. I use cosmetics artistically and even searched for a subtle perfume I thought he'd like. No comment. Every one else tells me I am a fine-looking woman, but he never says a word. I know he loves me and our children, but some times I think "What the heck!" —NO COMPLIMENTS

DEAR NO: You're lucky. Some women get plenty of compliments from their husbands and talking to them. By the way, when was the last time you complimented HIM?

DEAR ABBY: This is for the woman whose husband had a good job, was "smart" but to evaded filling out forms because he could neither read nor write!

He could be a victim of a disability called "DYSLEXIA." This occurs in people of all intelligence levels, but more often in those of superior intelligence. For some unexplained reason it affects twice as many boys as girls. The most baffling part of the problem is that dyslexic readers have high I.Q.'s, show facility in math, have normal vision, and show no signs of brain damage and appear healthy in every other way.

Dyslexia can be detected by simple kindergarten tests, and if detected early the child can be helped with SPECIAL training, and no amount of ordinary tutoring will produce results.

Dyslexic readers see "saw" for "was" and "no" for "on"; they also confuse alphabetical look-alikes.

A team of Johns Hopkins medical scientists is presently tackling the problem. It is estimated that this disorder afflicts about half a million children in the United States.

For further information about this subject, write to The National Society for Crippled Children and Adults, 2023 West Ogden Ave., Chicago, Illinois, 60612.

Woman's Club Hosts Brunch

New yearbooks were distributed to the members of the Country Women's Club most recently with Mrs. Birdella McClain for a brunch.

The new president, Mrs. Dorothy McCracken, was in charge of the business meeting and Mrs. Lalla Litterer was co-hostess.

Mrs. Pearl Allred was in charge of the program. The next meeting is set for Sept. 18 with Mrs. Rose Allen.

ANNOUNCING PLANS for the Junior Club's second annual Tour of Homes, are, from left, Mrs. John Rollmeyer, general chairman, Mrs. Richard Reed, program chairman, and Mrs. Ward Pack, arrangements chairman. The tour is scheduled for Sunday, Sept. 15 from 1 to 5 p.m., with five homes slated for the tour. Proceeds from the event will go to benefit the YM-YWCA swimming pool fund.

Tour Of Homes Scheduled

Plans were completed recently for the Junior Club's second annual Tour of Homes to be held in Twin Falls Sunday, Sept. 15, from 1 to 5 p.m., with five homes slated for the tour.

The $1 donation will go to benefit the YM-YWCA swimming pool fund. Last year the Junior Club donated $1,000 from the tour for the acute coronary care unit at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

This year tickets will be available not only from all Junior Club members but from stores in other communities including Marcy's Gifts, Buhl; Dorothy's Beauty Salon, Filer; L'Harrison Furniture Co., Jerome; Fullmer's Furniture, Burley; and Sallie's Gifts and Books, Twin Falls.

For more information concerning the tickets, call Mrs. Bill Fullmer, 733-4707 or Mrs. Thad Scholes, 733-3969.

Chairmen for the tour include Mrs. John Reitmeyer, general chairman; Mrs. Richard Reed, program; Mrs. Don Pfeiffer, publicity; Mrs. Charlene Von Gortler, advertising; Mrs. Ward Pack, arrangements; and Mrs. Fullmer and Mrs. Scholes, ticket sales.

Homes to be toured include those of R. P. Parry, Addison Ave. E.; Dr. Joseph Marshall, 1133 Locust St.; Harry R. Leedy, 118 Lawndale Drive; Jerry Shane, 203 8th Ave. N.; and Robert Goss, Canyon Rim Road.

BRAUN FAMILY MEETS

SHOSHONE — The E. A. Braun family met for a reunion with family members, pizza and two guests, Mrs. E. A. Braun was honored on her birthday anniversary. Guests attended from Gooding, Boise, Buhl, Twin Falls, Pocatello, Shoshone, North Shoshone and Omaha, Neb.

Household Hints

WIDELY USED
 Piloncello — a soft, dark brown, raw cane sugar containing the molasses normally removed by refining — is a widely used food in Mexico. It is especially favored in coffee, for the flavor it adds, even by those who never use sweeteners.

MORE PURCHASES
 Beverage manufacturers purchase more sugar than any other group according to the U.S. Department of Agriculture estimated tonnage for 1967. Besides being the largest buyer group, their total orders show the greatest yearly increase.

TAKE BUCKETS TO CAMP
 Experienced campers carry two separate buckets — one of metal to heat water over open fire. Fill one with sudsy water for washing dishes, clothing and people.

County Agent Notes Good Season For Plums, Pears

SHOSHONE — This is a good season for plums and pears, the county home economics agent, Mrs. Mary Lou Ruby, reports. California plum production is forecast at 110,000 tons, which is 12 per cent above last year and considerably more than average. The crop of Idaho pears is expected to be about 12,000 tons, a smaller harvest than last year.

The August crop of Bartlett pears come mainly from California, and is estimated at 200,000 tons, three times more than last season. Northwestern states expect less than last year.

Although local supplies may be below average, there will be plenty on the market from other states.

All pears are plums but not all plums are pears, reminds the agent. Plums are primarily for market in fresh form. A true prune is a plum that can be successfully dried whole.

All leading watermelon states have increased acreage above last season. Shipments will be near their peak in August. The same is true of cantaloupe. As for vegetables, the list of August plentiful includes onions, five per cent more than average, and plentiful supplies of tomatoes, corn, peas, lettuce, beans, carrots, beets and squash.

Household Hints

BE SELECTIVE
 Volles and organides crush easily. This is why you will need more service from your dry cleaner to maintain the good appearance of your garment. Be sure to select a fabric with a durable finish. Then you will not be disappointed with its appearance after dry-cleaning.

STOP FRAYING
 Don't wait for bath towels to wear out and become frayed at the edges. At the first sign of wear, stitch bias tape to the bottoms and tops of the towels. Be sure to select a fabric to their appearance, but in any case it will lengthen their time of service.

Magic Valley Favorites.

Idaho Stuffed Potatoes
 1/2 cup enriched white hominy quick grits
 1 1/2 cups water
 1 egg yolk
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup butter
 8 medium freshly baked Idaho potatoes

1/2 cup half and half or light cream
 1 1/2 tablespoons fresh or frozen chives (optional)
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 1/2 teaspoon black pepper
 Dash of nutmeg
 Melted butter

1/2 cup diced cooked ham
 1/2 cup grated cheddar cheese
 Slowly stir grits into boiling water. Cook uncovered for three or four minutes stirring occasionally.

Remove slice from top of each hot baked potato, carefully scoop out center and mash. Stir in egg yolk. Add egg mixture to cooked grits, stirring constantly. Add grits mixture, half and half, butter, chives, salt, pepper and nutmeg to mashed potatoes. Beat until fluffy.

Stir in diced ham and fill potato shell with mixture. Top with melted butter and cheese. Bake in preheated oven, 425 degrees, for 15 minutes. Serve warm. Makes six servings.

Betty Canary's Wonderful World

It takes eternal vigilance to keep one's attitude in line. And, as I believe real enthusiasm is a necessary part of right attitude, my endeavors include trying to take an honest interest in what is at hand. Therefore, when I had to accompany my teenage son to a meeting before his trip to New Mexico, I really struggled to keep interested.

"All right," I said with enthusiasm, "I'll attend if I have to."

"It is required," he said.

"Did you get that in writing?" I asked heartily.

"It won't be so bad," he assured me. "They will explain the map again, read the instructions again and then the parents can ask questions about how many pairs of socks and underwear we should take."

"Wow!" I said, clapping my hands earnestly. "Oh, boy!"

At the meeting, other mothers made copious and detailed lists (Things to go into over-night bags: toothbrush, soap, etc.) while I did the next week's grocery list. The woman beside me peeked over my shoulder. "Oh, dear!" she said. "I didn't get those '10 pounds potatoes' and I wonder if I missed anything else!"

I explained in a whisper that I wasn't making a trip list.

"You must have a fantastic memory," she said.

"No, but I do have a son with a pen and paper."

"The poor boy," she said, gazing at me, fascinated. "I knew there were parents such as you but I never bumped into one."

"If I can trust him to find his way to New Mexico," I explained, "I can trust him to

Kathryn Blair, Fil Exchange Nuptial Vows

DECLO — The Little Flower Catholic Church was the scene of the July 27 wedding uniting in marriage Kathryn Blair, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Blair, Rupert, and Elmer Fil, son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Fil, Declo.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Father Bowman before an altar background decorated with baskets of yellow gladioli and white carnations, accented with bows of avocado ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was attired in a floor-length-empire styled wedding gown of ivory peau de soie, featuring a bateau neckline and long lily point sleeves enhanced with alencon lace and a full-length chapel train. Her waist-length veil of bridal illusion was secured by a crown of pearls, lace and sequins.

She carried a cascading bouquet of yellow roses centered with two white orchids, tied with white satin streamers.

Patricia Blair served her sister as maid of honor, and bridesmaids were Katherine Keizer, Ruth Williams, aunt of the bride, and Nina Fil, sister of the bridegroom.

Betsy Blair, little sister of the bride, was flower girl.

Best man was Dennis Batchelor and ushers were Steve Bennett, Steve Ashcraft and Walter Mischenko.

Mary Ann Asson played the traditional wedding music.

A reception honoring the couple was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harlan Jensen, Burley.

Carol Staker registered the guests and gifts were arranged by Sherri Heib, Carol Haag and Denise Petterson.

The bride's table was covered with avocado lace over yellow and centered with a three-tiered fruit cake, decorated in white with yellow rosebuds and gold beads. It was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Avocado bouquets of yellow roses and white carnations and candles completed the decor.

Mrs. Anne Williams, grandmother of the bride, decorated the wedding cake.

In charge of serving were Lena Fil, sister of the bridegroom, and Rita Kidd.

Special guests were the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Anne Williams, Moscow, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Blair, Rupert.

The couple resides in Stuttgart, Germany, for the coming year where Sergeant Fil is serving with the Army. He was graduated from the Declo High School prior to entering the service.

A personal shower was given for the bride by Mrs. Vernal Smith.

JEROME — Beauty baskets of yellow and white gladioli and roses accented with candles formed the background setting for the marriage of Lois Russell and Larry Wayne Coates Aug. 24 at the Jerome Methodist Church.

Rev. John Garbrandt performed the ceremony and Mrs. Edna Russell was the organist. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Russell and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Coates, all of Jerome.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a silk organza gown fashioned with an empire waistline and embroidered with seed pearls. The full-length train flowing from the waistline was enhanced with seed pearls. Her veil of illusion net was gathered in a cap of silk organza, accented with seed pearls.

The bride carried a cross of white roses and contrasted with a white orchid on a white Bible. Jack Hyder was soloist, accompanied by Mrs. Rider.

Mrs. Ron (Cytha) Pitzer, Sali Lake City, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. T. Capps, Jerome, and Kathy Johnson, Rupert.

Dale Coates, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Rodney Howells, Twin Falls, and Ted Earl, Pocatello.

A reception in the church parlor was held after the ceremony.

Fall's Fashion Thing Suits Many Tastes

Do your own thing this Fall. Be a fashion individualist. Suit yourself with a fashion style that suits your personality and even if the extremes of midi and mini aren't quite your bag, don't despair. You can still swing in step with fashion's latest look.

The newest suits look like separates, and often have vests. Try one with a short, crop jacket and dirndl skirt. A touch of metal chain adds that special couture touch. If you haven't tried a vest suit before, go way out and get one with a shiny satin shirt in a bright contrasting shade.

Add it all up and it means a smashing looking fall for every type.

Smoking Linked With Small Babies

Sheffield, England (AP) — Pregnant women who smoke generally have smaller babies and run more serious risks, a survey here indicates.

Prof. Charles Scott Russell, a gynecology specialist at Sheffield University, said Sunday he believes the study showed for the first time that there was a direct link between smoking and smaller babies.

The findings of an investigation among 2,000 pregnant women were reported in the British Journal of Preventive and Social Medicine.

There were indications that women smokers run a greater risk of miscarriage, stillbirth or the death of the child in the first months of life, especially when they have high blood pressure, the report said.

The overall rate of unsuccessful pregnancies was found to be 7.9 per cent among smokers, compared with 4.9 per cent among nonsmokers.

Smokers with high blood pressure had an unsuccessful pregnancy rate of 31 per cent, compared with 14.5 per cent among nonsmokers.

The Sheffield team led by Prof. Russell took into account related factors such as social background and environment, the mother's age, height, number of previous pregnancies and work during the waiting period.

Prof. Russell said the risk probably was slight and plenty of health babies were born to smokers but he advised women to stop smoking during pregnancy, especially those with high blood pressure.

The complete guest list under a lattice archway of greenery flanked by beauty baskets. Reception hosts were Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Nelson, Jerome. Coffee and punch were poured by Mrs. Carl Butler, Hunt, and Mrs. Jim Webster, Filer, aunt of the bride. Cake was cut and served by Mrs. Gerald Gries, who baked it, and Mrs. Glen Redick, both Jerome.

The bride's table was covered with a white rayon cloth centered with the wedding cake. Silver coffee service and crystal punch bowl completed the setting. The four-tiered cake was surrounded by yellow roses and mint leaves and was topped with three satin bells in an arch of white.

The couple will reside in Pocatello, where the bridegroom is attending Idaho State University.

Special guest was Mrs. Ila Slaughter, Concordia, Kan., grandmother of the bride.

The bridegroom's parents hosted a rehearsal dinner at Wood Cafe Aug. 2.

The bride was honored with a pre-nuptial shower by Mrs. Ed McIsaac and her daughters, Mrs. Capps and Mrs. Paul Stinnette. Mrs. Raymond Wright, Jr. and Mrs. Clarence Edwards, aunts of the bride, hosted a miscellaneous shower.

Miss Baguley, Bennett Recite Nuptial Vows

SPRINGDALE — Deborah Baguley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Baguley, Rupert, and Steven K. Bennett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Bennett, Springdale, were married in rites Aug. 3 at the United Methodist Church, Rupert.

Rev. Warren McConnell officiated at the double ring ceremony before a background of lighted candelabra and baskets of pink and white chrysanthemums, accented with bows of white satin ribbon.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length shift-styled gown of white lace over crystalline, featuring a batteau neckline and long bell sleeves. She wore a small white lace headpiece and carried a cascading bouquet of pink and white Standard chrysanthemums centered with pink baby roses and tied with white satin bows and streamers.

Mrs. Ted Severe was matron of honor and Jarrell Bennett served as best man. Ronald Bennett served as usher.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. Cheryl Hill, cousin of the bride, registered the guests and gifts were displayed by Brian Baguley and Scott Baguley, brothers of the bride, and Kathy Taylor, niece of the bridegroom. The bride's table was covered with white lace and centered with a triple-tiered white wedding cake decorated with pink roses and topped with white bells and a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Mrs. Kent Rubow, aunt of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Richard Taylor, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the punch bowl.

The bridegroom's parents hosted an open house reception for the couple at their home in Springdale. Jackie Godfrey, Brigham City, registered the guests.

Gifts were received by Rodney Rigby and Brenda Rigby, nephews and niece of the bridegroom, and arranged by Louise Bennett and Trudy Bennett.

Guests were served at quartet tables by Mrs. Gene Taylor and Mrs. Sharon Rigby, assisted by Barbara Taylor and Kathy Taylor.

The couple will reside in Colorado Springs, where Spec. 4 Bennett will be stationed at Ft. Carson with the Army until March, 1969.

Special guests at the wedding included Mr. and Mrs. S. M. Baguley, Salt Lake City, grandparents of the bride, and Mrs. Rita Thompson, grandmother of the bridegroom. Logan, Utah, guests attended from Utah, Colorado, Boise, Pocatello, Burley, Declo, Rupert and Springdale.

Helen Rose Is Fashion Leader

By HELEN HENNESSY — NEW YORK (UPI) — During her nine years in the fashion field Helen Rose has become internationally known. Her designs stand for true elegance, superb craftsmanship and a type of fashion beauty that reminds a woman that she is a woman.

No one understands the female figure better than Miss Rose. This is not surprising when one realizes that she has designed the clothes for 23 MGM films, during which time she designed for every imaginable type of woman with the plus of having created wardrobe for Elizabeth Taylor, Cyd Charisse, Debbie Reynolds, Lana Turner, Grace Kelly and Dina Merrill. She has had her credit two Oscars.

Murphy Holes Out From Sand Trap To Take Lead In Philadelphia Classic

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Husky Bob Murphy, a cigar-smoking factor in the first round, exploded a 20-foot shot out of the sand-into the cup on the 18th green Saturday and charged into a rain-delayed third round lead of the $100,000 Philadelphia Golf Classic with a 54-hole total of 10-under-par 206.

The 210-pounder from Nicholas, Fla., who looks like a football fullback, fired a 34-32-66 for a 54-hole total of 10-under-par 206 after the 6,705-yard Whitmarsh-

Valley Country Club course, Slim Dudley Wysong of Makaha Valley, Hawaii, was one stroke behind.

Wysong, who led the first round with a seven-under-par 68, and slipped two strokes behind after 36 holes, came storming back under a hot sun and oppressive humidity to shoot a 36-32-68 over the par 36-37-72 course.

Murphy had to sweat out a late afternoon rain storm, which delayed play an hour and 22 minutes before the final nine players could complete their round.

Flashes of lightning and high winds whipped across the course threatening to wash out the third round. With darkness closing in and a steady rain falling, the last three threesomees managed to finish on the third effort to resume play.

There was a tie at eight-under-par 208, led by Jack Nicklaus, the perennial money player from Columbus, Ohio, who has won two of the last three tournaments and tied for second in the other.

WINNING KICK is shown by Australia's Ron Clarke as he wins the two-mile event and clips a fraction of a second of his own world record time of eight minutes 19.6 seconds during the International Athletic Club meeting at the crystal palace in London. Clarke holds world record times in six distances. (AP wirephoto.)

Injury, Speed Lack Head Bruin Topics

Loss of a starting guard and a lack of speed were the dominating factors in the first week of practice for the Twin Falls Bruin football team.

Coch Norm Thomas said the team was coming along about as well as could be expected, considering the hampering rainy weather of the first three days.

"Right now I'd say the only real disappointment is a lack of team speed," he said. "I think it is even a little poorer than we had anticipated."

The major blow was an ankle fracture—sustained by 285-pound senior guard Mike Makin. It is doubtful the youngster will see any action this year.

Defensive specialists," he said. "We definitely will have to call on some individuals to go both ways, at least in key situations. The problem now is to make all the right choices and decisions for the opening."

Following the practice the players, coaching staff and parents held a get-acquainted session at the high school cafeteria. It was reported the weekly Bruin Booster meetings will be shifted from Tuesday mornings to 7:30 p.m. Mondays after the season starts.

Regan Stokes Spitball Tale Inadvertently

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Bristol, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, said Friday that at the request of President Warren G. Giles of the National League he produced a tube of Vaseline and two slippery elm tablets he said were ferried from the clothing of Chicago pitcher Phil Regan.

Giles has absolved Regan from throwing illegal pitches and said concerning Bristol's evidence that "I was glad to have it but I would like to consider the Regan matter closed."

Baseball men claim that when the ball is touched with petroleum jelly or similar greasy material, it tends to sink at the plate in an unusual manner. Regan stoutly denied using any illegal materials.

The ruckus between the Cincinnati Reds and Regan occurred at Wrigley Field in Chicago last Sunday. Chris Peck, the home plate umpire, called illegal pitches against Regan and the pitcher later threatened to take the controversy to court.

Humble Hank Swings Big Bat At Plate

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Hank Aaron, the Atlanta rough-hitter, speaks nervously and swings a big bat.

Aaron was honored before the Braves-Philadelphia game at Atlanta Friday night and he was so nervous he couldn't finish his remarks.

He felt right at home with a bat in his hands, however, as he drove in four runs, three with a homer, in leading the Braves to a 6-0 victory.

After receiving a car, a truckload of gasoline, a truckload of soft drinks and many other gifts, Aaron thanked God for giving him the ability to play baseball and thanked those who had anything to do with or turned out for his night.

"I had a lot of other things I wanted to say, but I couldn't get them out," Aaron said after the game. "I was really nervous. I had to take a pill this afternoon to relax."

Once the game started, Aaron proceeded to make the Phillies nervous. He drove in the only run Pat Jarvis needed with a grounder in the third inning and checked it with a three-run homer in the fifth. It was his 23rd of the season and 504th of the career.

Bristol said the Vaseline and slippery elm tablets were found on Regan, wearing a warm-up jacket while running the bases, collided with Pat Corrales, the Cincinnati catcher, when Regan attempted to score. Bristol said the Reds' pitcher, George Culver, reported finding the tube and the slippery elm near the point of impact.

Trap Title Is Won In 3-Way Shootoff

VANDALIA, Ohio (AP) — Sharpshooting Denton Childers of Rochester, Mich., shattered 24 of 25 targets in a shootoff with two other marksmen Friday and captured the Rich Grand American Handicap premier event of the Grand American Trapshoot Tournament.

The 33-year-old Childers outdistanced Bill Hendrickson, Olive Hill, Ky., and Roy Kohl, Springfield, Ohio, both of whom broke 21 in the shootoff.

All three had posted perfect scores of 100, forcing the first three-way playoff in the 69 year history of the tournament.

It also marked the first time in 20 years that a shootoff was necessary to determine the winner of the coveted championship.

Dallas (AP) — World champion Green Day, proving it can play in 91-degree Texas heat as well as sub-zero cold, turned Dallas' mistakes into touchdowns Saturday night and defeated the Cowboys 31-27 in an exhibition that matched the teams in last year's National Football League playoff.

It was 104 degrees warmer than when the Packers nicked Dallas 21-17 Dec. 31 and 13-below zero cold at Green Bay, Wis., to win the NFL title.

The victory was the first for new Packers coach Phil Bengtson on a professional team.

The Packers ran up a 31-10 lead before Dallas made it before a national television audience in the fourth quarter.

The Packers stunned a sell-out crowd of 72,014 in the newly refurbished Cotton Bowl with an 68-yard drive in 11 plays after defensive giant Henry Jordan deflected a Cowboy field goal attempt.

Demos May Accept Some Of Strong Peace-In-Vietnam Plank

By STERLING F. GREEN
CHICAGO (AP) — Though the strong peace-in-Vietnam plank drafted by a minority bloc seemed to face sure defeat in a convention floor fight, members of the Democratic Platform Committee said Saturday they found "much of its language" quite acceptable.

Some of it probably will show up in the finished platform, a committee source predicted privately as the official 22-member drafting team resumed its work behind closed doors and far behind schedule. The source went on: "But the language is, probably far too specific for most of the Platform Committee people. They don't want to tie the president's hands by dictating military and diplomatic moves in advance. They would insist on some considerable changes in wording."

The plank, endorsed by Sens. Eugene J. McCarthy and George S. McGovern, chairmen of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the presidential nomination, was announced Friday night by committee advocates, a speedy, negotiated end of hostilities. Meantime the drafting committee brought to completion a 55-page domestic section of the platform. Chairman Hale Boggs prepared to present it to the full Platform Committee.

These, it was learned, were among the highlights: — Crime — a section titled "Justice and Law," calls for vigorous law enforcement against all violations, including riots, looting and civil disturbances. It also has strong sections on organized crime, the drug traffic and white collar crime.

LBJ Signs Legislation For Highways
AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson has signed into law legislation authorizing a $21 billion national highway program over the next six years and expanding the interstate expressway system.

The measure provides $12.3 billion in new money for the interstate and other federal-aid roads and also allocates about $9 billion of previously-voted funds. In addition, it extends the highway beautification program, a pet project of Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson's, and establishes a greatly broadened system of road tax payments for persons and businesses displaced by road projects. The Texas White House announced today the presidential signing. The bill adds 1,500 miles to the 41,000 miles already allocated to the interstate system. The date for completing the interstate system is extended two years, to June 30, 1974, by the legislation. The highway beautification program, while extended, is given only a new $25 million one-year authorization by the measure. Federal highway funds are reduced $8 million annually for three years.

minority's plank would be "clearly unacceptable," Benton said—the one which calls for an unconditional halt to the bombing of North Vietnam. "We cannot say that and we should not say that," Benton said.

The minority plank calls also for a mutual withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnamese troops, a toned-down and compromised version of the quick-peace formula unveiled previously by McCarthy, McGovern and some other members. The earlier proposals, for example, called for a U.S.-presented coalition government in Saigon and a complete halt to military operations in Vietnam.

Gun control—the plank will call for firm enforcement of local, state and federal firearms laws. It will suggest a need for more legislation, but will not specifically endorse any bill. Taxes—the plank will urge revenue-raising tax reforms and the closing of tax loopholes which provide special preference to some classes of taxpayers.

The minority peace-in-Vietnam plank apparently has the support of 20 to 25 members of the 116-member Platform Committee. A floor battle seemed certain and the outcome almost equally certain—rejection of the minority report in favor of an urgent but less specific formula for an early and just settlement by negotiation.

Former Sen. William Benton of Connecticut told a reporter he expects the official Platform Committee to produce a Vietnam plank "that will be supported by 90 per cent of the convention delegates."

Drug Users Bill Signed By Reagan

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California judges will have flexibility in punishing first-time marijuana and dangerous drug users under a bill signed into law by Gov. Ronald Reagan. Up to now, a youth convicted of possessing marijuana for the first time had to be given a felony sentence with a prison term of one to 10 years. The new law will permit the judge—beginning in November—to determine whether the conviction should be a felony or a misdemeanor, which carries a jail term of up to one year. At the same time, the measure allows the judge to assess a felony penalty for first-time users of LSD and other dangerous drugs. Under present law, that crime is a misdemeanor only.

The new law marks a step forward in recognizing the tremendous danger posed by the illicit traffic in dangerous drugs. Reagan said, announcing Friday he had signed the bill sponsored by Assemblyman W. Craig Biddie, R-Riverdale. "It also improves a judge's capability to deal with different types of marijuana offenders," Reagan said.

Judges and prosecutors had testified in committee hearings that they subverted the present marijuana possession law in some cases because they didn't feel a young man or woman, experimenting with marijuana for the first time, should forever bear the stigma of a felony conviction.

In many cases, those youths were permitted to plead guilty to lesser offenses, such as the misdemeanor crime of being in or near a place where marijuana was being smoked, the law enforcement officials said.

California had an alternate jail sentence for first-time marijuana users until the 1961 legislature removed it. The use of marijuana and drugs has risen markedly since then.

Lots Of Good Things Are Ahead For Pair Of Miss Twin Falls Misses

Two young Twin Falls women who have had the honor of wearing the "Miss Twin Falls" crown will soon leave on separate trips to represent their city and state.

Velma Guyer who won the Miss Twin Falls title in 1967 and currently is first runner-up to Miss Idaho, having won the second place honor last spring, will leave next week for Hoopston, Ill., for a special pageant known as the National Sweetheart Pageant, and held in connection with Illinois' tribute to the state sweet corn production.

Diana Hopperstad, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Green, 651 Madison Circle, the current Miss Twin Falls; is the second young traveler, expecting to depart in the near future, her journey to be to some overseas area, probably somewhere in Vietnam to entertain servicemen with USO.

Mrs. Helen Henderson, who has been a mainstay in the Miss Twin Falls pageants for some 19 years, says both girls are certain to make many friends for Twin Falls and to prove outstanding representatives of the gem state.

Miss Guyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Guyer, 2116 Sherry Drive, will be the first Idaho girl invited to participate in the National Sweetheart Pageant. It is almost a replica of the Miss America Pageant, but featuring first runners-up from some 20 states.

"Anytime you have this many first runners-up in a pageant," Mrs. Henderson said, "you could well be selecting the next Miss America but for a few fine points scored by a home town judge."

Miss Guyer is the first Idaho representative ever invited to attend the Hoopston event, and hopes to convince the sweet corn festival officials that Idaho should be a permanent part of the pageant. Generally invitations are sent to first runners-up in corn producing states.

This year, Michigan, Nebraska, Colorado, Arkansas, Utah, Ohio, Iowa, Washington, Florida, Louisiana, Illinois, Montana, Tennessee, Mississippi, Kentucky and Texas as well as Idaho.

In Hoopston, Miss Guyer and other "almost" state title holders will go through the regular procedure of a pageant with talent competition, appearances in gowns and swim suits before judges.

While there the girls will live in the homes of local residents with two contestants assigned to each host home. This gives them an opportunity to become acquainted with other contestants during the week of appearances and entertainment.

Winner of the national sweetheart title will have much of the fun but not nearly the responsibility and demands of Miss America. Her reign will be for only one day except possibly to return to crown next year's title holder.

The winner will receive a host of gifts—ranging from the $500 cash and $250 savings bond to a one-gallon crockery house paint. She will also receive a diamond wrist watch, wardrobe and other gifts.

First, second and third runners-up will also be chosen and will share in cash, savings bond and merchandise gifts.

"It should be wonderful experience," commented Miss Guyer. "I have checked into the past pageants at Hoopston and from all I can learn they are conducted with many of the same high standards, restrictions and acclaim as the Miss America competition."

The other young Twin Falls Miss about to depart for a USO assignment, probably in Vietnam, is also looking forward to some excitement and adventures.

Diana Hopperstad, 14-year-old, is a talented young girl who plays drums, but her drumming talents have helped her most in winning the Miss Twin Falls title and in obtaining current engagements she has been fulfilling in the Salt Lake City area. Miss Hopperstad appears with guitarist Mike Wendling whose talent, also varied, includes banjo and various guitars. In addition to their USO tour, the two are currently waiting word on participating in an International Entertainment tour in China.

Should they be selected, they will perform over a period of several weeks in top night clubs of China as part of an international show featuring select performers from all countries.

"I'm still holding my breath," said the petite brunette. "We are now one of two finalists considered for the tour and Eugene Jelenik, Salt Lake City, who has handled most of our Intermountain area appearances tells us we have a good chance of being selected."

As for the USO tour Miss Hopperstad and Mr. Wendling expect word almost any day as to when and where they will be spending six weeks entertaining servicemen.

Clothes, says Miss Hopperstad, will not be a major problem. Mr. Jelenik has suggested light washable cotton shirts in bright colors.

"We will probably have to do much of our own laundry by hand while on tour and this seems the best way to look attractive and still eliminate as many cleaning and laundry problems as possible," she explained.

For Miss Guyer, clothes will be somewhat more complicated. There must be swim suits, formal gowns and dresses and suits for various occasions. Once you have completed competition in a state pageant, a wardrobe is hardly a problem, and Miss Guyer says for the time being she is well prepared for her national competition.

SELECTING JUST THE right clothes to wear is just one of the chores connected with the national Sweetheart Pageant. Velma Guyer will attend in Hoopston, Ill., Aug. 31 through Sept. 4. Miss Guyer is one of the first runners-up in state pageants throughout the nation who will represent her state during the Sweetheart Pageant held in connection with the nation's only sweetcorn festival.

A TALENTED YOUNG Twin Falls miss who looks more like a ballet dancer than a drummer will carry her home town banner overseas during a USO tour scheduled for the near future. Diana Hopperstad, daughter of Charles and Mrs. Helen Henderson, is also one of two finalists being considered for an International Entertainment tour of night clubs in China.

TWO "MISS TWIN FALLS" title holders currently contemplating separate trips look over a scrap book of the 1968 Miss Twin Falls pageant with Helen Henderson, pageant official. Diana Hopperstad, left, will leave soon for an overseas USO tour. She will represent Twin Falls in the Miss Idaho Pageant. Miss Guyer, right, who won the title a year ago, has Guyer earned the title of first runner-up in the Miss Idaho Pageant this year, and will represent Idaho for the first time in a National Sweetheart Pageant in Illinois later this month.

England Is Really Wonderful But In France The Men Smell Of Wine

By PEG KELKER

I never dreamed that I would be spending my seventeenth summer abroad and I can hardly believe that I have. Of all the things that I have dreamed of, I never thought that I would be standing at the base of the Eiffel Tower or hearing Big Ben chime, but in the small space of six weeks I was doing just that.

After having the required amount of shots and getting a passport I was all ready to go. By the way, passports have a way of getting sent home in suitcases from Philadelphia — ask Todd Brumbach, he knows all about it. When we left Philadelphia little did we know what lay in store for us. I couldn't believe how large the plane was that took us across 7,000 miles. It carried all 250 of us and flew at an altitude of 38,000 feet. In only six hours and twenty minutes, we were stepping onto the foreign soil of Manchester, England. We were then put on buses and transported to Nottingham, England.

Believe me we all hate buses and have vowed not to step on another for the rest of our lives. The first thing that I noticed was that we were driving on the wrong side of the road. Wrong side, that is, for me.

I prayed for hours that we wouldn't hit any cars. They looked like a good look at some of the cars, three wheels! They looked as if they might topple over, but I never saw any that had. The motorcycles had little side cars on them that could carry up to three people. I was told by the bus driver that England has a good reason for driving on the left side of the road. When a gentleman was riding along on a road and saw that he would need to protect himself against an oncoming foot, he pulled his trusty sword from his right side, and being on the left side of the road could defend himself without falling off his horse to do it. Why they didn't change when the car came along, I don't know.

Because of the rain, England has the most beautiful countryside that I have ever seen. The green rolling hills are thick with growth. An even more beautiful effect are the stone walls put up by farmers to separate their fields. It must take years to get all the acres marked off.

Upon arrival at the University of Nottingham we were introduced to the English meal. It consisted of very thin meat, loads of potatoes, hot as ours, bread in this, closely packed, and very creamy milk. The food, looking back on it, wasn't that bad, considering the number of students that had to be fed.

Our stay at Nottingham was remembered mostly for all the rain that we had. We found out later that we had hit the worst summer since 1929. That satisfied our curiosity, but I couldn't help but wonder why we had to hit that particular summer.

On most of the European tours, one doesn't expect to study, but part of the foreign Study League's plan is to study the country. Courses consisted of poetry, Shakespeare, English novels and English literature, which by the way was taught by a native of England.

It was quite interesting to read poetry such as "Early Breeze's Withering Heights," and then to be able to go to the country of the moors and see where her story took place.

At the end of the stay in London, we had exams and our grades were sent to our high schools or colleges. I hope that they don't count too much on terrible grades, because it's not that easy to study while in a foreign country.

While at Nottingham we visited many places of interest in England. Warwick, Newstead Abbey—home of Lord Byron and Stratford upon Avon, birthplace and resting place of William Shakespeare.

We naturally needed to buy things in England, and the monetary system was something else. It's based on 12 cents and 4 cents. A shilling is worth 12 cents, a pound worth 48.00. Then there were the "half-pennies," and the "four-pennies." The English people were very helpful in explaining the money. We found out later that in Nottingham alone, we had spent $75.00.

English people are very nice as a rule, but usually are not extremely outgoing. Boys tended to be fragile and girls were on the husky side. The babies were beautiful and as they say, had the rosiest red cheeks. Mothers think nothing of leaving Junior outside the store in his big buggy. Streets began to look like nurseries.

While we were staying in Nottingham we took a short trip up to Edinburgh, Scotland to get a look at the kilts and bagpipes. It was one of the prettiest countries that we visited and had a kind of charm to it. We were looking forward to seeing

Tour Participants

The following students from Twin Falls, Hansen and Filer were participants in the study tour to Europe? They traveled with two counselors, Mrs. Ethel Warberg and Mrs. Vaughn M. Pond. The students:

Janet Barton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Barton; Chris Bolton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Stacey; Todd Brumbach, son of Dr. and Mrs. Harry Brumbach; Chris Marle Emerson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Emerson; Bonnie Haffner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Haffner; General Howa, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Howa; Mary Anne and Susan Jackson, daughters of Dr. and Mrs. D. A. Jackson; Peg Kelker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. A. (Gus) Kelker.

J. Deo May, son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. May; John McClusky, son of Dr. and Mrs. David McClusky; Janis Neilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Neilson; Chris Peterson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Peterson; Lorraine Ploters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ploters; Lynn Summerfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. K. L. Summerfield; Cathy Cover, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Cover; Cheri Briggs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Briggs; Patti Doye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dove; Frank Harnay, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harnay; Dave Frantz, son of Dr. and Mrs. Arthur Frantz; Deanna Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Morgan; Cathy Pond, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Vaughn M. Pond.

Nancy Hollifield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Hollifield; Hansen; Loreno Stanger, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Stanger; Hansen; Norman Jones, son of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Jones, Filer.

VALUED KEEPSAKE of the trip is this pencil rubbing of the inscription on the grave of William Shakespeare in Holy Trinity Church at Stratford Upon Avon, England. The inscription reads: "Good friend, for Jesus sake forbear to dig the dust enclosed here; Blessed be the man that spares these stones, and cursed be he that moves my bones."

TOWER BRIDGE is one of the best-known attractions in London. Some tourists make the mistake of calling it the London Bridge. Cause of the error will soon be eliminated because London Bridge is on its way to the United States.

Recent auction sales in the Magic Valley area prompt this column to remind readers that although silver dollars no longer circulate freely, they are still not scarce enough to command some of the ridiculous prices paid at auctions. Common, circulated silver dollars are currently selling at about $1.60 to $1.75, and can be bought in any quantity the collector might care to buy. Uncirculated (brand new) silver dollars can be bought from dealers for as little as $2.25 each, in the common dates.

Some of the worn collars are bringing up to $8.00 each at sales around the valley, and this is a ridiculous situation, since they are certainly worth no more than the silver content. It is true that the silver in a dollar is worth two-thirds more than the face value, but none of these well-worn collars command such figures, and readers should not let themselves get carried away at an auction. Most dealers have all the silver dollars you want — at reasonable prices.

Even the scarce Carson City dollars are not worth the inflated prices being paid at auctions, and the 1878 CC brings about $10.00 in next to uncirculated condition. So save your money when the bidding gets high!

We would like to remind our readers that The Boise Coin Club will hold a show and sale on November 8, 9, and 10 at the Owyhee Hotel in Boise. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. and there will be some fine displays and a great many dealers present. You can buy coins at one of these shows at a price which is reasonable.

There is no admission charge for this show and it will be well worth your while to attend. Silver coins are gradually disappearing from circulation. This is due, of course, to the fact that the Federal Reserve Bank is withdrawing them as rapidly as they are collected, and the Mint is now melting them down and selling the silver. But it is also true that almost everyone who is interested in coins is holding the dimes, quarters and halves. People who never before had any interest in coin collecting are hoarding these coins.

The following letter from A. R. L. Pocatello, is one of many the column has received. Where can I sell some silver dimes and half dollars? I have heard that they are worth a lot of money now and have saved quite a few of them. Can you tell me what they are worth and where I can sell them?

Answer: Silver content coins are currently being purchased by most dealers for 10 per cent over face value. However, most of the dealers are interested in buying in volume — that is, a thousand dollars' worth — at a time, and are selling the same way. You will have some trouble disposing of your silver coins if you have only a small quantity, although a few dealers will buy in rolls. At present it is still illegal to melt coins for the silver content. If and when the government changes this law, there may be a market for small quantities of coins. In the meantime, dealers and speculators will buy them and hang on waiting for a break.

Ervin D. P. Burley: I have a half dollar which has a woman seated on one side with a staff in her hand. There are stars around her. The date is 1871. On the back is an eagle and underneath the words "Half Dole".

Is this a good coin? What is its value?

Answer: By "good" I presume you mean legal — and it is. This is regular issue coinage. You do not tell me what condition the coin is in, so I can only tell you it is not a scarce issue and brings from $1.10 up to $1.50. Uncirculated, of course, it would command more than this.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83401.)

12 Divisions Of Russians Enter Drive

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia sent 12 divisions into Czechoslovakia, while four satellite countries contributed only to the invading force, U.S. government sources said Friday.

The Warsaw pact armies that overran Czechoslovakia Tuesday night totaled some 200,000 men, according to intelligence estimates.

About 180,000 of the invaders were Russian and some 20,000 over-all, were provided by East Germany, Poland, Hungary and Bulgaria.

The East Germans and Poles shipped in with less than one division apiece. The Hungarian and Bulgarian contingents amounted to a few company-size groups from each country.

Czechoslovakia's army of 14 divisions and 175,000 men could have put up resistance against the force that breached Czech borders from many directions. But Czech commanders were well aware of the crushing Soviet military power available nearby. So they did not fight.

Moscow drew seven divisions of its troops from East Germany — more than one-third of the 20 divisions which have kept the satellite firmly moored into the Soviet camp.

The Russian divisions normally stationed in Poland joined the drive, apparently leaving no major Soviet military presence in Poland, at least for the time being.

Bulgaria, which does not have a common border with Czechoslovakia, has an army of 125,000 in 12 divisions.

STILL YOUNG IN SPIRIT and interested in youth is Thomas Baptie, Glenns Ferry, who celebrated his 90th birthday at Muldoon Aug. 11. A native of Scotland, Mr. Baptie spent most of his life in Carey Valley. He now lives with a daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Utley, Glenns Ferry. Known as "Mr. 4-H" for Elmore county, Mr. Baptie here inspects the grand champion lamb of Dorothy Wootan, Glenns Ferry.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

A former shoe repair man in TWIN FALLS, who moved to Greece several years ago to make his home, has written that he misses his friends and would very much like them to write him.

Angelos Chipouris, who formerly operated the Twin Falls shoe repair shop on Shoshone Street West, behind the old Ferring Hotel, has written Mr. and Mrs. Morris Roth, Twin Falls, saying it is a little difficult for him to write, that he still remembers his friends but he is unable to write to them.

"So please tell them hello," he writes, "I am still in love with Greece because, as you know, I don't have anybody in the United States."

Mr. Chipouris left here to go to Greece to live with his sister and niece as he has no relatives in this country.

almost all of the 65 people there are of Scot heritage, and it was five years before getting such a get-together, so there was lots to talk about that happened in the interval.

Yet though always reverted to early days in the century, Mr. Baptie left his native land in 1903 but stayed several years in North Dakota before settling down in CAREY valley where he spent the most of his life.

Now the nonagenarian makes his home with his only daughter, Evelyn, Mrs. L. S. "Mike" Utley, and her husband, there are three children — say it, a new address is a main interest, as young people have kept him young throughout these retirement years.

Honored locally as "Mr. 4-H" he never has missed a 4-H event for fair, or, indeed, any organized activity such as sports for youth. One year the school basketball team was having a bad time, losing most of its games. Tom was tired the night of one game, and was tempted to stay home.

"They aren't a winning team," Tom said, "and I'm afraid not many will go to see them play." So he made the effort and gave his loyal support to his young friends.

"I'm sure his interest in young people is one reason he's never been an old man," said Evelyn, who teaches in the local schools, thus keeping alive her own interest in the younger generation.

Controlled Trapping Set For Beaver

By JIM HUMBRID
Idaho Fish and Game Dept.
BOISE — Beaver may be down but not out, Castor canadensis, North America's largest rodent with big, fast-growing teeth and paddle-shaped tail, is back in the news. Like all comeback trails, this one will be long, steep and filled with obstacles. Gone are the days when mountain men nearly as hairy as the animals they traded beaver and other valuable pelts for guns, horses, food staples, tobacco and Indian maidens. Beaver pelts these days are worth little more than half the price of bobcat.

Such change did not come overnight. The market for beaver and most other furs broke in Idaho and across the face of the world. Trapping no longer was very profitable as fur prices fell to 1950's levels. The trapping program designed by the Idaho Legislature in 1941 to meet beaver management requirements, began falling far short of the goals recommended for pelting because many of the trappers could not make ends meet and quit. Many new recruits did not stay on the job much more than one season.

For these reasons, the State Legislature amended the beaver law in 1957 to allow the first general beaver trapping in Idaho since 1904-05. The Fish and Game Commission was authorized to declare open trapping seasons on beaver as it deemed necessary.

It is a thankless job because about 17 per cent of the state's 44,000 stream miles are vulnerable to continual damage complaints, while many sections in other drainages — or indeed, the same drainages — actually are benefited from the activities of beaver.

Game Commission ordered a controlled trapping program to start this fall in 15 units where beaver harvesting has been closed for one year or more. A total of 210 beaver tags will be issued for these units, and one trapper and one alternate will be chosen by lot for each of the units at a public drawing to be held in Boise Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 3 p.m. at the Fish and Game Department headquarters, 200 N. Myrtle St. Applications must be received in Boise, or postmarked, not later than Sept. 16.

Instructions and applications will be mailed to each purchaser of a 1967-68 or 1968-69 trappers license may apply for one controlled beaver trapping unit. There is no permit fee. A minimum of ten beaver will be allowed for each permit issued. The new management program is tailored to harvest the surplus from beaver populations that exceed their own carrying capacity. Left alone, beaver soon reach a population level which is maximum for the available habitat. Too many beaver eat out the food supply. Aspen, for example, is preferred food of mountain beaver but it is relatively intolerant to continued utilization. For this reason, aspen stands are rather easily depleted or destroyed by beaver, which compounds the problem. In recent years overcrowding in the hills has caused hundreds of beaver to move down into the "wrong places" more than the conservation officers can handle while fulfilling their other responsibilities to the public.

Game management technicians hope the new controlled beaver trapping regulations can keep beaver thinned out enough yet maintain thriving populations in the hinterlands. Beaver colonies generally are very stable and highly reproductive, considering that they do not have large numbers of young. The average beaver colony in Idaho is four. But they are good parents, and beaver habits offer good protection. Survival is high.

Unique Sheriff's Posse Proves 'New Approach' Peace-Keeping

By TOM TIEDE
BOSTON (NEA)—A sheriff is using one of the oldest tricks of his profession to help keep the peace in a town that has taken over his territory.

The rounding up a posse: John W. Sears, sheriff of Suffolk County, is plugging bad apples, attorneys, even radio disc jockeys—in what is a considerably old "new approach" toward cutting the area's crime line.

Here's the idea: Posse members (deputies, actually) are volunteers from in- and out of the county's municipal trouble spots. They are well known in their neighborhoods and active in community affairs. They are usually young (22-40) and socially flexible.

They receive little formal training, no uniforms and no salaries. They are not armed with guns, nightsticks or any other form of self-protection. They have no assigned beats, no set hours, no mandated responsibilities.

Legally, they are fully authorized peace officers, but they go about their work in a wholly unencumbered by traditional police propriety.

Some members pat around the "hot beds" of the hippies. Others officiate softball games in rundown playgrounds. Others frequent hangover hangouts or chop-iron teenage get-togethers.

Mostly the deputies try to be as unlike the police as possible. They stop their cars open and then temper about. They do not prow, rattle doorbells or check licenses.

Idaho's first general beaver trapping season came in the 1957-58 fur year and resulted in 24,411 beaver pelts being harvested. Compared with other years, damage complaints did go down that first summer following the open season, but conservation officers still received more than 200 beaver complaints. This year the Fish and Game Commission tailored its second general beaver season to meet the needs of individual drainages.

The total beaver harvest reflected shorter seasons, smaller beaver populations and fewer trappers. By 1964 only about 5,000 beaver pelts were reported by trappers and the next year the price tag was put by half, from $1 each to 50 cents each. The harvest bounced back to about 12,000 beaver pelts the next year, but the long-term average since 1957 has been about 5,000 beaver pelts in the total annual fur harvest of 90,000 for all 15 trapping species.

Last week the Idaho Fish and Game Commission ordered a controlled trapping program to start this fall in 15 units where beaver harvesting has been closed for one year or more. A total of 210 beaver tags will be issued for these units, and one trapper and one alternate will be chosen by lot for each of the units at a public drawing to be held in Boise Tuesday, Sept. 24, at 3 p.m. at the Fish and Game Department headquarters, 200 N. Myrtle St. Applications must be received in Boise, or postmarked, not later than Sept. 16.

Permanent waving is an art. The most natural permanent waves come from ESTHER'S Beauty Salon.

Depity Roundtree, fat one, says he's on the beat every night. After his regular work (with a poverty agency) he gulps down a meal and begins a tour of duty that normally lasts until two or three in the morning.

What's his purpose? "I don't try to spot tough or anything. I don't need to. I'm out here to prevent that kind of thing. My job is to stop trouble from happening."

NOTTINGHAM UNIVERSITY dining hall, where the students eat, is served by English and Spanish waiters. Surroundings were plain but adequate. Every now and then a different food, students admitted, took some getting used to.

England Is Wonderful, But In France The Men All Seem To Smell Of Wine

The men in their kilts were disappointed to find that they were there only on Sundays.

One day we visited the Castle and saw the "dancing" of the guard, bagpipes played and the bright plaids of the Scotsmen swayed as they marched. Our first days of sunshine, since leaving the States were while we were visiting Scotland for the four days.

After a stay of four weeks at Nottingham we were all glad to move on to new territory. England does swing, especially in London. In London we saw a circus, a center of the night life with huge neon signs, Carnaby Street for the art and boutique fans, Big Ben, London Bridge, Westminster Abbey and the Thames River. On the Thames we saw a boat that Liz Taylor has for her dogs. Quarantine regulations in England prohibited her from bringing the dogs into the city, so she brought them their own private boat. How would it be? By the way, did you know that the U. S. owns a small part of St. Paul's Cathedral in London? It was a gift to the U. S. by Great Britain in the war.

While in London we visited various theatres. The most exciting was at night at the London Palladium to see Sammy Davis Jr., in "Golden Boy." He is a fabulous entertainer and talked to the audience after the show. Even though we had to wait for hours, we got his autograph and just missed seeing him come out. We also saw "Romeo and Juliet" by Paramount, using a sixteen year old boy and a 14 year old girl. They were extremely good and made a Shakespeare sound like English to me.

To me one of the most meaningful tours was the one we took to Stonehenge to see the pillars. Stonehenge was either a clock or maybe even a calendar. The historians are not sure. But whatever it was it is magnificent. It had an eerie atmosphere and one could certainly feel the ancient history surrounding the ancient.

England was my favorite country, mainly because I liked

London so well. The English people seemed to enjoy us and we were told later that they could spot us as Americans even before we spoke. I guess they had quite a laugh over men in plaid. Bermuda shorts and Americans are noted for their loafers. We are also thought of as being well off. I guess that's natural considering what we have compared to them.

Central heating is very rarely found, and so are refrigerators. Shopping for food is done on a day-to-day basis. Most toilets are outside—pity the person who is called on by nature in one of the famous English rainstorms!

Next it was off to Paris for our last week in Europe. What excited for us there was the biggest cuture shock of all. We crossed the English Channel by ferry and arrived in Bologne, France. The language barrier was the first thing to hit us, and then shock of all shocks, we saw our "accommodations."

Because of the student riots we were unable to find a place for us. We were hard to come by. But they came by and I wish they had kept on going. If you know anything about Napoleon you will know how long ago he lived. Imagine staying in his officers' barracks. It's not hard to think of at all because that is where we were.

My particular group was in the infirmary. A beautiful 17-bed ward, no partitions, one toilet, four sinks and one "shower." I made special note of shower because all it was a hand spray that one sprayed on oneself. Sinks were equipped with hot and cold water faucets—but the hot water was not included.

Dinner was something else. We were presented with a 3-foot long loaf of bread and were told to tear off what we wanted. Ever heard of a pinch of salt? It must have originated in France because if you wanted salt, you put your hand in a bowl and took all you wanted. For break fast we were given a 1-foot long loaf of bread and a bowl of cocoa with handles on both sides. It was different but was the most fun part of Paris. No more table manners!

Paris is a very expensive city, especially when it comes to food. Coke is 2 Francs, about 40 cents, and is served in very small portions. For the same amount we could get a quart of wine—don't think it wasn't tempting!

The French people smell of wine and because of lack of good bathing facilities have another nice little smell to them. We really noticed it when we were taking the elevator with 50 other people to the top of the Eiffel Tower. Speaking of the Eiffel Tower, it is something to see.

Built in 1889, it stands approximately 900 feet high and has three levels. We were able to go to the top and get a beautiful view of Paris.

Paris is indeed the city of lights. At night the Tower, which is an ugly red iron, turns to a golden beauty. When we went on the Paris illuminated we saw the beautiful fountain in the center of the tower because of a too-tempting urge, ended up wading in them. Two hundred Americans in the middle of a Paris fountain is quite a sight. Les Champs-Elysees, the largest street in the world, with l'Arc de Triomphe at the end is something I will always be able to recall again and again.

The lavatory facilities on the streets were my biggest shock. They were simple stalls, with no backs that allowed one's feet and head to show. The Parisians think nothing of it.

What's really funny is to be walking with a male companion and go into separate lavatory doors, only to meet him on the other side!

My three years of French came in quite handy and I was able to communicate a little with the people. One night I spoke with a young artist and found out the views of most of the young people of France. They dislike DeGaulle and President Johnson and think a lot of Ted Kennedy. They feel that he has a good chance for the future presidential elections. Nixon and Humphrey aren't that exciting to them and they tend to like McCarthy out of all the presidential candidates.

Their impression of the American is that he has a lot of money, and is willing to spend it.

"I'd like to go back to Europe, but not with a large group. I'd like to see all the out-of-the-way places that tourists usually don't get to."

Europe also taught us that being an American is something to be proud of. We felt good inside to say, "I come from the United States." Landing back in the states was good and we are glad to be home. One thing still bothers me, though. I've had enough of rain for one summer and sure would appreciate the weather around here clearing up. I was looking forward to getting my tan back and basking in the warm Idaho sun that we bragged about to all the Europeans.

Educator Says Sanctions Right

BOISE (AP)—The Idaho Education Association would not have imposed sanctions against the state's schools if a general fund revenues had been used to provide more school funds, State Sen. William Roden, Boise, said Friday.

Roden told a Boise civic group, "It is wrong to have $11.5 million in tax money not being used."

He said taxes should be reduced rather than build surplus.

"I think the sanctions were properly imposed by the IEA," Roden said.

The sanctions make it unworkable for school-state teachers to Idaho teachers to switch jobs after April 1, 1968.

Your Spine and Your Health

by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr

The average person gets a mental and physical battering these action packed, anxiety ridden days. From his appearance on earth until these generations ago, man's body was subject to an easier going pace, to fresh air, to natural light, to natural foods and rest when the body was tired.

Our mechanical age has changed all that. Now our bodies must cope with synthetic foods, lights, etc.

An environment of high tensions, hard driving, new shocks and irritates the body and nerves at every turn.

Few bodies can take this battering of a man-made pace. The mind, body and spirit sag.

Millions have sought help in chiropractic and found it.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific chiropractic, written by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, whose office is located at 717 West Ave. W., Twin Falls, Tel. 733-0522.)

Army Repays Dissenter Who Fought For Duty

CINCINNATI (AP) — A young army officer says the U. S. Army has decided to reimburse him for part of $200 he spent to refute doctors' diagnoses that he could not physically qualify for the service.

In fact, 23-year-old Dan Bertram, now a 2nd lieutenant, has more than been compensated for the expenses.

"It's just one of the many great things that have happened to me," Bertram said, regarding his experiences since an Associated Press story revealed his ambition to join the Army.

Military doctors said Bertram of Cincinnati had diabetes and he was classified "F", ineligible for service.

But he spent $200 for the medical tests that showed he did not have diabetes. He spent 2 1/2 days in a hospital.

Bertram said he has received $30 in contributions to help cover his expenses and has been flooded with letters, one from Oklahoma and another from Mayor Alfred Straub, of Harrisburg, Pa.

On a television quiz program, he won $123.

Now Bertram says the Army agreed to pay $88 for the tests, but not his other hospital bills.

After completing basic training at Indiantown Gap, Pa., Bertram remains confident he will like Army life.

"It's just a little different—once you make the adjustment to the regimentation it's okay," said the University of Cincinnati graduate, who took the Army ROTC course in school. "I'm looking forward to going to Ft. Sill, Okla."

Researchers Reveal Cigarette Filter Value

NEW YORK (AP) — Smokers who switch from regular to filter cigarettes cut their risk of getting lung cancer, a new statistical study reports.

Their risk becomes about 60 per cent that of the nonfilter smokers, say Irwin D.J. Bross, Ph.D. and Robert Gibson of Roswell Park Memorial Institute, Buffalo, N.Y. The institute conducts an extensive program of research into smoking and cancer.

What statisticians call the confidence limits in this estimate are fairly wide, they said. "But there clearly is some reduction in risk."

This is only a step in the right direction because filter cigarette smokers with high exposure "have a risk of lung cancer which is still five times as great as the risk for nonsmokers."

The filter cigarettes in this study cannot be called "safe." Switching to these cigarettes is not as good as stopping completely. The filters have reduced the risk, but a much greater reduction is needed. Bross and Gibson write in the August issue of the American Journal of Public Health.

Bross, director of biostatistics, and Gibson compared 974 lung-cancer patients with an equal number of men without cancer. All had been interviewed on admission to Roswell Park, with the interviews since 1959 having included questions on brands of cigarettes the men had smoked.

Men who had smoked for less than 30 years were classified as in the low-exposure group. The high-exposure group included men who had been pack-a-day smokers for 50 years or more.

One finding was the loyalty to brands, the study finds. More than four out of five men said they had not smoked more than two different brands.

The study shows it would be feasible to undertake studies of thousands of smokers to detect, within three to five years, whether improvements made in filters were actually making cigarettes safer, Bross and Gibson write.

R. L. Smith To Head Council

BOISE (AP) — The Governor's Human Relations Advisory Council Friday chose Robert L. Smith of Nampa as chairman, and Richard E. Cooke of Boise as secretary.

After the meeting, Gov. Don W. Samuelson said the council was "off to an excellent start on its challenging mission to continually advance the cause of human relations in Idaho."

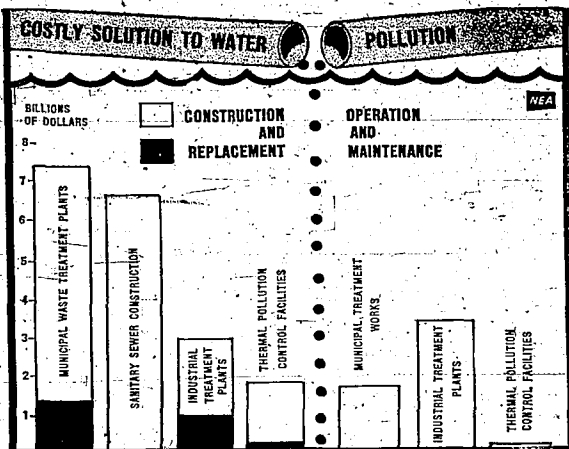

Samuelson suggested the council adopt operating guidelines and that each member hear problems of his own area before deciding if they should be handled at the state level.

The council decided to meet again in about five weeks.

Members are Smith, Cooke, Hero Shiosaki of Blackfoot; Aurelius Buckner of Burley; Gerald George of Plummer; Barbara Gonzales of Boise; and Charlie Peterson of Moscow.

It's going to cost about $29 billion to collect and adequately treat municipal and industrial wastes that will be spilled in the nation's waterways in the next five years, according to a Commerce Clearing House report. Chart shows a breakdown of the government estimates, which doesn't cover additional expenditures necessary to control other pollutants, such as acid mine drainage, discharges from combined sewers, oil and radioactive wastes and sediment washed into rivers and lakes.

Pocatello Ends Area Project

POCATELLO (AP) — City councilmen and urban renewal agency members agreed Friday to scrap the Benton Street Urban Renewal Project.

The decision had been expected since a planner recommended that the project, because it was only 2 1/2 blocks, would have "very small impact."

City officials also felt the estimated $500,000 cost was too much for 80 apartment units planned for Benton Street.

The project appeared doomed several weeks ago when two permits for commercial buildings were issued in the heart of what was to be a residential area.

CREATING THE MOST INTEREST at last year's Twin Falls County Fair was this Chinese teakwood chair, which was displayed at the entrance to the antique building. The hand-crafted chair, more than 100 years old, won a prize in the St. Louis Exposition and belongs to J. W. Nilvens, Twin Falls. Examining a brass dinner gong is Mrs. Milton Hanson, superintendent of the department for many years, who states that each year sees an increase of rare treasures and museum pieces.

T.F. Fair Antique Division Draws Many Family Treasures

By MARJORIE LIERMAN, Times-News Correspondent

FILIER—Hunt up that cut-glass bowl Grandma Smith gave you long ago or that old moustache cup which belonged to your husband's Uncle Will—and enter them this year in the antique department of the Twin Falls County Fair.

That old harness hanging in the barn, or that old German Bible gathering dust in the attic—these, too, are antique treasures and belong on display this year at the fair Sept. 4, 7, 10, 11, 12 and 13.

It will take only one entry at one fair to make you an antique addict like so many others. You will experience a thrill seeing your treasures sitting on the shelf and being admired. You'll want to spend more time looking over the other items in the building and wondering if you have similar ones at home. If you win several red or blue ribbons for prizes, all the better.

But whether you win a prize or not really isn't the most important thing. You'll have found a new interest in life, you'll want to compare notes with other owners, you'll start reading up on old treasures, and you'll spend the next year looking for something new to take for the following year's fair—in short, you will have become an antique collector.

For many people, the antique department of the Fair is the favorite of all the many exhibits. Certainly it is one of the fastest-growing departments. Last year there were 15,000 entries, according to Mrs. Milton Hanson, superintendent. Since one entry can include a set of as many as a dozen, or in many instances, represents a pair, the actual number of items entered would be even higher. There are 271 divisions in the entire department for which first and second prizes will be awarded. A wide range of articles in the classes include Bibles, books and pictures, clothing and cloth, collector's items, cashware, furniture, glass articles, clear colored and patterned, jewelry, kitchen articles, metal articles, tack, toys and games.

Mrs. H. W. Lehman, Buhl, is assistant superintendent for the department. Entries may be made from 12 noon to 5 p.m. both Aug. 31 and Sept. 1 and all entries close at 6 p.m. Sept. 2. Whenever possible, a history should accompany each exhibit which makes the article more interesting to the viewing public. Exhibits are judged according to age, condition, original appearance and form.

New this year is the class for collector's items such as Roseville pottery, Nippon China, apothecary bottles and others. These items are not antiques but are becoming treasures because they are no longer being made.

The renewed interest in Jim Beam bottles should inspire collectors of those to enter

Elmore Agent Offers Advice For Bees

GLENN FERRY—There are ways of getting rid of a colony of bees with little risk of stings, says Herb Edwards, Elmore County extension agent. Honey bees of course are useful, but they sometimes build nests in the wrong places. When they do, they are a nuisance.

If you can't obtain the services of a beekeeper to remove the swarm, Edwards advises the use of insecticides. The process requires caution and protection. Veil smoker and leather gloves are recommended.

Locate the nest by tapping with a hammer and listening for an answering buzz. Bore a hole through the wall and smother the nest thoroughly with spray or dust. Lindane or chlordane is effective.

If direct application is not practical, dust of either insecticide may be put in a paper or cloth sack tucked around the entrance. The bees will carry the poison into the nest.

Night is the time for this job. Bees and wasps are least active then it may be desirable to plug the entrance with cotton soaked in ethyl acetate while the insects are inside. Fumes will stun the bees, permitting further eradication efforts with less danger of being stung.

Demo Delegates Expected To Select Humphrey By Wide Margin Of 2 To 1

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent

CHICAGO (NEA) — The final nationwide Democratic delegate county by NEA gives Vice President Hubert Humphrey a whopping lead with 1,700 1/2 votes against 508 1/2 for his principal rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota. Exactly 1,312 votes are needed for nomination at the Democratic convention here. A late entry in the race, Sen. George McGovern of South Dakota, has an indicated vote of only 37, mostly from his own state, while a still later one, Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia appears to have no more at all than perhaps 29 of his state's 43.

Maddox's vote and a bare 14 for George Wallace in Alabama are included in some 346 generally characterized as uncommitted. McGovern is listed separately only because there is an expectation he may attract part of that size, though it is felt that a large amount will be lost to the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

In its final Republican survey, NEA came within 26 votes of Richard Nixon, winning first ballot tally and within one of Gov. Ronald Reagan's total. Such approximations seem less likely this time, however, since the ultimate, inescapable commitment of 316 delegate votes must necessarily alter totals materially.

Furthermore, the Credentials Committee is hearing challenges to chosen delegates in 15 states, largely on grounds that the delegations involved often inadequate representation either for racial minorities, for Senator McCarthy, or both. If any of these challenges is honored and rival delegates are seated, the accuracy of this indicated count will be correspondingly affected.

The largest block of uncommitted votes is California's 15, the overwhelming proportion of the 172 won by Kennedy in the state's primary June 4. Another 50 uncommitted, including many marked still for Kennedy, are in New York. There are other sizable collections in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, Iowa and Nebraska.

Humphrey, already indicated to have more than 400 delegate votes above the total required for nomination, stands to pick up much of this uncommitted vote outside California, including all by 5 or 10 in New York. The leader of the California delegation, Assembly Speaker Jesse Unruh, leans toward McCarthy. Should he attempt to take the delegates that would be his judgment, he might get from 100 to 120 votes to follow him. It is figured that Humphrey would get around 25 and the remainder would go to McGovern as a kind of Kennedy holding operation. Yet some estimates put Unruh's pulling power at no more than 70, to 80 votes.

Humphrey's total of 1,700 1/2 compares with 1,594 1/2 given him in NEA's Aug. 5 survey. His advance is accounted for mostly through a gain of 35 in New York and a massive 112 in Illinois, where Chicago's Mayor Richard Daley, the Democratic leader, has moved his way. The vice president has suffered a few minor offsets, the most sizable a loss of 19 in Michigan. McCarthy, on the other hand, has gained only 26 1/2 votes since the earlier count. He appears to have reached nearly his maximum in the fluid New York delegation. His greatest potential for gain in the closing days is in California, with some further pickup possible in the Midwest.

None of NEA's telephone researchers for this final survey suggested that McCarthy had any real forward momentum of the sort needed if he were to overtake Humphrey. To win at this stage, he would have to seize most of the uncommitted and pull large clusters of votes away from the front-runner.

Evidently McCarthy's uphill strategy is of another order. It calls, first of all, for understating Humphrey's delegate strength by placing much of his huge southern support in the "favorite son" category. There are indeed several southern favorite sons. But this reporter presumably install rival delegates with higher commitment to McCarthy.

Beyond this, the Minnesota senator plainly hopes to raise his delegates' energy level, and perhaps stampede the convention his way by making a stormy fight both in the Platform Committee and in the floor for a strongly dovish Vietnam platform plank.

The notion is that if this effort meets with heavy resistance from the Humphrey forces, hundreds of delegates supporting him will be deeply worried over the possibility of his bond to President Johnson on the war issue would break away and flow to McCarthy.

Should the credentials decisions underscore this hoped-for delegate unrest by lending any measurable credence to anticipated McCarthy cries of unfairness in representation, the senator's managers would look for their prospects to brighten even further.

There are just enough presently uncommitted or weakly leaning Humphrey delegates who are troubled over these issues to give the McCarthy strategy some fragile hope. There is much waiting and watching in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Michigan, California and elsewhere.

Yet the vice president's lead is so enormous, his excess of votes over those needed to give the McCarthy strategy a reserve of still other votes so substantial that it seems highly doubtful any convention could get big enough to give him. Moreover, large portions of his vote are securely insured.

Probably the worst that can happen to Humphrey at Chicago is that a strong McCarthy hue and cry over fair representation and cry over fair representation will sound. At the same time, if given a strident tone, by militants shouting and demonstrating beyond the senator's control, it could damage the vice president's chances in the hard race against Richard Nixon. Victory at Chicago thus could be sharply reduced in final value.

Got to thinking, the other day that we Americans, for all our advanced scientific techniques, better-than-ever education, and so on, seem to get played for suckers at about the same rate as before.

Especially we older folks — and you'd think we might have learned a bit of sense by now — get taken every day by smart operators. At least so it seems to me when I read my morning paper: Never open it but some sad tale hits my eye. Somebody's hard-earned savings have been neatly siphoned off — for worthless property, or a phony investment, or even dance lessons!

What makes us this way? Well, to begin with, I guess human nature doesn't change all that much. We're most of us as susceptible to flattery as ever, and to a bargain. We still worry about our various ailments and want to get rid of them fast.

We're bombarded by sales talk on every side, by commercials on radio and TV, by honey-tongued solicitors on the phone. Science itself — and this is ironic — seems to work against us sometimes. It looms so large in our lives nowadays that we tend to accept without question anything that even sounds scientific. All the "cures" and "shysters" have to do, is slap a scientific-sounding moniker on their product or service, and everyone's impressed.

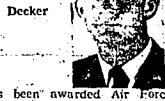

Small wonder if we get confused about who's honest and who's not.

We oldersters are a ready target. Con men figure our needs are often more urgent than those of younger people; that we're not so hep to their methods; that a bargain means more to us.

Perhaps the most cynical of the rackets are the ones that prey on frightened people by pretending authority. I'm talking about swindlers who pose for example as federal investigators, or health tax or medication experts. They arrive at the door with phony credentials or none at all, relying on their victims

'Sea Gypsies' Of Philippines Are Rare Breed Of Sulu Sea

By JOHN NANCE, TUNKALAN, A L A N. Philippines (AP) — The shy, gentle folk of this village in the sea are among the world's rare breeds. They are Badjaos, known through these islands of the southernmost Philippines as "sea gypsies," the fisherman-nomads of the Sulu Sea.

For centuries the Badjaos sailed these waters, putting their bare feet ashore only to barter fish for coconut or rice or some savory tropical fruit. Ferdinand Magellan's expedition noted seeing the sea gypsies' floating villages between Sulu and Bornu in 1521. Explorings Spanish galleons are long gone, replaced by interisland planes that swoosh over the palm trees, but the Badjaos remain—their widely scattered settlements of wooden houses on spindly stilts standing in shallow waters off the white sandy beaches or coral reefs. Clustered around or beneath the stilted shacks are boxes. Everywhere are outriggers, dugouts and some vessels that are houses themselves in which families live out their lives, eating, sleeping, working, playing.

This community of Tunkalan, off a tip of Tawij/Tawil Island, is like that. At low tide the water is less than three feet deep. Children swim and romp, women wash clothes and themselves, men repair boats and fishing gear. Two elders, their sunbaked faces embrowned with wrinkles and their teeth stained red with the betel nut they chew, worked diligently with wood chisels and hatchet-like tools on the prow of a new boat.

They sat on a plank porch over the water. A roof of palm fronds kept away the burning midday sun. Through an interpreter they said their new dugout boat would take about three months to complete and would be good for about three years. It is called a "vinta" or lipa lipa and is carved from a single tree trunk. Pontoons, like runners on a sled, would be arched out from the sides.

One of the men, looking at least 60 but who said he didn't know how old he was, estimated there were about 400 Badjaos in the community. But, he explained, the sea gypsies come and go, so there is no way of telling for sure. Some stay only hours; others remain for years. Fifty yards away, across a score of boats and houses, was the village's only dry ground—a flat island of crushed sea coral adorned with a backboard and hoop; a basketball court! It lay a foot or so above water, except when a big wave washed over, and a team of naked children in a youth bounced a ball and arched it toward the basket. The elders said the basketball court was made when Catholic missionaries came about three years ago. A white cross rose above the Catholic chapel on stilts among the weatherbeaten houses. One elder said, yes, he knew about the Bible. He also knew about the Moslem holy book, the Koran. Smiling warmly, he said he thought both were fine. They know days ahead, for example, when a storm is brewing. Even if the sky is fair, the wind calm and the water smooth, islanders prepare for a storm when the Badjaos boats stream into harbors for shelter.

Cruise Ship Tourists Discover Mexican Coast

By DICK KLEINER
NEA Hollywood Correspondent
LOS ANGELES (NEA) — The West Coast is suffering from an acute shortage of islands. If that little problem can be solved, the business of cruising out of Los Angeles is in for a major boom.
Even without the islands, cruises are growing. A few years ago, the only passenger boats operating out of the Port of Los Angeles were the Matson liners to Hawaii and the ferry to Catalina. But by next winter there are expected to be eight cruise ships using Los Angeles as a home port.
Compared to the East Coast, this is only a drop in the ocean. Fifty to 100 ships cruise out of New York and Miami, but Los Angeles is just starting.

The problem has always been no place to go—Hawaii is a bit too far, the South Seas are out of the question and the Aleutians offer little in the way of recreational facilities.
What has happened lately is the discovery that the ports along Mexico's West Coast, which cruise operators are trying to re-name glamorously La Costa De Oro, or the Gold Coast has an appeal. Acapulco is the prime port-target, but ships are now putting in at Puerto Vallarta, Mazatlan, Manzanillo and La Paz, at the southern tip of Baja California.

"The Mexican National Tourist Council and the Mexican government—as well as various Mexican state governments—are eager to encourage this trend. Mexico has cooperated with the Princess Cruise group in building piers at various ports that didn't have facilities for docking a big liner.
Max Linder, Princess's executive vice president, says that his company is working now with Mexico to open up other ports—notably a sleepy, picturesque village called Zihuatanejo, which he thinks will be the Puerto Vallarta of the future.
At the moment, Princess is operating only the beautiful, one-year-old Italia. But a new Italian-built liner will be added next December, another new vessel is set for 1970 and they expect to wind up with a fleet of five by 1973.

"OH, NO—are the Democrats going to do THEIR thing, now?"

LINCOLN PERFORMS
Ted Lincoln once persuaded his father to attend a popular extravaganza featuring a soldiers' chorus. While President Lincoln watched, his son left the presidential box, changed into uniform and marched on stage with the chorus. His father laughed.

Christianity Plays Lustier Role In Lives Of Latin American Residents

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Christianity is playing a new, lustier role today in Latin American scene of Pope Paul VI's current visit. The settled, placid faith of former years is stirring with new vigor.

Despite remaining bastions of church rigidity, the rising new current has drawn many elements into the forefront of struggles for human betterment. It has enlisted hold, influential church leadership, such as that of Archbishop Heider, Pesco, Camara of Olinda and Recife, Brazil.

In some countries, as in Chile, where the church is led by progressive Raul Cardinal Silva Henríquez, it has voluntarily been disrupting its real estate to the landless peasants.
"Priests increasingly have joined in demonstrations, gone into the fields among the peasants to teach them how to improve crop yields, held open air services in the barrios, issued manifestos.
A 2,200-word letter circulated among South American priests this month asks their bishops to affirm the morality of revolution in the face of great injustice.
Just last week, a demonstration of priests and laymen in Santiago, Chile, criticized the papal trip to Colombia, saying

It has produced a martyr, Colombia's slain guerrilla professor-priest, Camilo Torres, shot down in army ambush in 1966. It has made the word "revolution" a part of theological discourse, examining possible justifications for it.
It has, on occasions, brought sharp friction between churchmen and ruling regimes, and set off sporadic charges of "subversive" or "Communist agitators" against some priests and prelates.
On the mainly Roman Catholic continent, religious life also has taken on a new tolerance and breadth, with Protestants now a large, fast-growing part of it.
The old tensions between Protestants and Catholics have largely faded. In the general impulse among churches to alleviate the ills of the people, massively poor, half of them illiterate.
Evangelicalists, as Protestants are called in the area, have increased from about a million 30 years ago to approximately 10 million—about one-third of them Pentecostals, the others in mainline churches—Baptist, Methodist, Presbyterian.
But it is Roman Catholicism, brought by the Spanish conquistadors in the 16th century and once closely allied with the wealthy, ruling oligarchies, that remains the spiritual mainspring of the volatile continent.
One-third of the world's Catholics are Latin Americans, 83 per cent of the region's 200 mil-ion people, although Church authorities say only about 10 per cent of them actively practice their faith.

Nevertheless, South American Catholicism is taking the lead in causes of economic justice and the common welfare, argued the United Nations World Commission on Development in its 1968 report.
The privileged class, church leaders have aided trade union movements, backed land reforms, encouraged cooperatives among the peasants, instituted radio schools to eradicate illiteracy—more than 60,000 of them across the continent.

Nothing moves troops like The Daily Bugle.

The sound of a powerful ad opens up people's eyes. And minds. It stirs them. Starts them marching in to buy your product. And often at less cost-per-thousand to you than any other person-to-person message. (The Classified Section is one example. Remember how disappointed you were the day you called on that "Want Ad," and found out the item had just been sold?)

Print bugles like that: Sharp and clear. Which is just the call to action you need when your adversary is public inertia. And it generally is. Newspapers. Magazines. Brochures. Mailings. These are all print. And they all work to muster the troops. Use them.

It'll be a monumental campaign, General.

FOR JEANE DIXON

Did you predict the assassination of Sen. Robert Kennedy?—J. Reid Mourer, Ashland, Ohio

● Betty Beale of the Washington Star recently wrote this: "I can personally testify to the fact that at least a year ago Jeane Dixon predicted Bobby Kennedy would not be President because he would meet with violence... Jeane told (eight persons last January), 'I am going to tell you something in secret.' Bobby Kennedy will meet the same fate as his brother—in June in California."

FOR GREG MORRIS

"Mission: Impossible? Do you really understand the electronic miracles you devise on 'Mission: Impossible'?"—W. A. Duncan, Athens, Ga.

● Since I must be able to assemble, disassemble, or operate electronic devices, I must say I've become more knowledgeable about them. But I'd have a heck of a time getting a job in electronics.

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ

Why did you call the Charlie Brown comic strip, "Peanuts"?—Randy Keel, Robersonville, N.C.

● The "Peanuts" title was selected by the newspaper syndicate, not by me. I called my strip "Little Folks"—and, between you and me, I still like that better.

FOR SEN. EVERETT M. DIRKSEN

Why is it that you never chose to run for President?—Vernon H. Lorenzance, Jackson, Tenn.

● At the 1952 national convention, there were Republican leaders who urged that I run for the Presidency. But Sen. Robert Taft of Ohio and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower were battling it out neck-and-neck for the Republican nomination, and you might say I yielded to those two eminent, qualified gentlemen. It appeared in 1960 that Vice President Richard Nixon would have the logical claim for the Republican nomination. In 1961 Sen. Harry Goldwater appeared to Republican leaders to be a logical candidate. To bring it up to date for 1960, I say, "The ship has left the dock."

FOR PETE ROZELLE, Commissioner

National Football League. Why isn't the practical one-legged goal post used in all NFL ball parks?—Larry Anderson, Urichville, Ohio

● The one-legged post was adopted for professional football with one proviso—"where stadium leases permit." In 1967 the single-standard post was in use everywhere except in Busch Stadium in St. Louis among the 25 AFL-NFL parks. It soon will be in use in St. Louis, too.

FOR HARRY GOLDEN,

author and editor. What was the most important factor in your becoming a rich and famous writer?—Evelyn Nelson, Sarasota, Fla.

● I do not know about the rich part as none of my 12 books was purchased by a movie company, and that's where the money is. As far as becoming a celebrity is concerned, I would say that a celebrity is a man who eats celery with celebrity.

FOR JACK DEMPSEY

On a recent series of computerized fights on radio, Rocky Marciano won the all-time heavyweight championship by knocking you in the 12th round. Does this bother you?—Keith Falls, Winston, Ore.

● No. What does bother me, though, is thinking about the record purse that fight would have drawn.

FOR BUD COLLIER of

"To Tell the Truth." Do contestants on your show get any money besides the amount they win by fooling the panel?—Nina Jensen, Boise, Idaho

● The only money they receive is for incorrect votes; apl't exactly three ways.

FOR EDITH HEAD

Have you ever taken dress-designing lessons?—Cindy Kosko, Albion, Mich.

● No. I learned designing from working as a sketch artist at Paramount. I did know how to draw, of course, and had studied art before coming to Hollywood.

How to Stay a

Is time a woman's enemy or her friend?

WHAT TIME does to the woman depends less on time than the woman.

Oh, there are, of course, conditions of mind and heart and body which all of us share when we grow older. We lose our children because they no longer need us. We lose our husbands either through death or choice. We lose physical beauty. We lose most of our options.

Most of us suffer the same kinds of pains and frustrations, emotional and physical. And we are now more than ever humiliated by a society so oriented to the young that we are given no place in it. We know that we are born too early and possibly will die too late.

The irony is this: just as women have been given the capacity to live longer and look younger than ever before in their later years, a totally youth-oriented society enshrines the 16-year-old girl as female incarnate. She is now a goddess sprawled across the pages of magazines and the consciousness of millions in a leap of legs, hair, and mini-fashions.

With sullen lips and false eyelashes she consigns all women over 30 to the ash-heap and all over 50 to the morgue. Never in any age has any age been accorded this overwhelming idolatry—nor has age itself been accorded such contempt.

So what happens to the woman over 30, 40, 50? She wears her skirts shorter than she thinks she should—if she can find the skirt in the first place. It is a fact that anyone more than size 12 is the Untouchable of the dress industry. She is given no choice between the infinitely dreary concoctions in the so-called Women's Section of department stores or the great expense of a private dressmaker. No one designs for us, no one cares; it doesn't pay.

So, what do we do? The last thing we should do is to compete. We should take enormous pride in being women—women of grace, of experience, of maturity. We should develop a healthy ego; an ego strong enough to applaud the color and dash the young bring into our lives, much of the music they make, and some of the sense. We should understand that much of their rebellion and disgust is justified, much of their torment inevitable. If they won't credit us with any sense, we must not make the same mistake in crediting them with none. The best of them may save this country yet, and we mustn't forget it.

But that doesn't mean that we should, God forbid, want to be their age—or like them. For one thing, we can't be. For another, who would want to be?

The only thing we ask is that we be judged not according to our years but according to our individual human worth.

To keep inwardly young, therefore, one must be quite secure in one's age.

This is, I admit, not easy to do. And here again, I am among the fortunate. As a woman living only the life of a woman, age could mean to me the end of many things. The end of active motherhood, the end of physical passion and reciprocal desire, and the choice between loneliness or a shared life that is little more than a repetition, however agreeable, of small habits.

But because I have also worked, as well as lived the life of a woman, the future still beckons. I am pulled along by the urge to write and to write better; to understand more, to encompass more, and to express more clearly this world we inhabit.

My work leaves me less time for the loneliness that is, inevitably, the common lot of age. It

Young Woman All Your Life

This noted writer says it depends on whether you use time—or allow it to use you opens doors to people and places and actions which a purely domestic, person-oriented life would never provide.

By MARYA MANNES

I have never said or thought that all women should have a life outside their home. But I will say that the woman who has never had a life outside her home has the most to fear from age. Perhaps that is why I fear it less. I am continually exhilarated by the prospect (if not always the fact) of new encounters, human as well as professional, of new assignments, of new environments.

Yet as time goes on, these can be very taxing, too. Because of this, I have tried to devise certain measures of self-preservation which I have found essential.

At all times of my life, I have always needed at least three or four hours a day alone—by choice.

For a woman, this is often difficult, if not impossible, to achieve, yet it is impossible to think, to breathe, to grow without this—let alone work. It is the only way toward an inward balance carved, very often, out of agonized doubt.

A second essential to preservation is to jettison the irrelevant. A mind continually worried with small things—clothes, furniture, social involvements, and, above all, "Being with It"—destroys itself through fragmentation. Fuzziness is an aging process. So is preoccupation with material possessions. The mind and body must be kept free for new sensations, open to change.

As for the body, it should be treated with the greatest respect—not by being afraid of using it but by using it as much as possible. Few of us (and certainly I am not one) can afford in money or time the kind of extensive care that famous actresses and society beauties indulge in to keep themselves young. But there is nothing to stop us from keeping our bodies as flexible and our tissues as resilient as exercise and air can make them. Swimming happens to be my passion and salvation, but since that is hard to come by in winter in a city, I depend on a great deal of walking and one daily—very short—regimen of exercises which leaves me limber.

As for face and skin and general metabolism, the doctors and the cosmeticians are very, much on your side, and we should use whatever they choose to give us. The only limit I would put upon their aid is simply this: that be-younger women to love and marry, but the reverse is clearly not the same.

I think I can speak for all women when I say that this is the hardest thing we have to bear in later life: the end of desirability as a woman. This can happen as well in a long marriage as in a single state: the result of widowhood, divorce, or rejection by a particular man. And here the vicious circle begins. The feeling of undesirability actually produces it. This is the time when so many women cease to hold themselves help but see psychomatic bases for so many afflictions that used to be considered purely physical. And when I spoke, as I just have, of stiffness in older women, I remain convinced that whether it is called arthritis or rheumatism, it is the result of emotional resistance. They are, actually, set in their ways; stuck in their tracks; imprisoned in their mental and emotional rigidity. And the basis of this is fear: fear of loss, fear of change, fear of the dreadful inhumanity and insecurity accorded age now.

It is resignation—the inark of defeat, that bows the back and raises the hump on the back of the neck.

But these, I know, are the speculations of an amateur, and I should return to time and the woman and the loss of functions.

Only in one area have we women come out ahead. Largely thanks to hormone therapy, we remain female for a much longer span than before, endowed with the confidence and vitality which this implies. The irony here, again, is that the chances of literally enjoying our biological youth are slim. It is the rare man, young or old, who prefers the older to the younger woman.

Yet this by no means precludes the exchange of affection and mutual need—without the bonds that so often constrict both. As one grows older, love must go wider rather than deeper. It must embrace friends as well as lovers, strangers as well as acquaintances, young as well as old. It must be, in essence, a deep love of life itself.

In these later years, the more we are able to feel—and do—for others in this world of torment and division, the less we can pity ourselves for the loss of youth.

Our time has not gone. Indeed our time may have come. ♦

About the Author

Author, critic, and lecturer, Marya Mannes was born educated, and lives in New York City. Miss Mannes is the author of "Message from a Stranger," "More in Anger," and "The New-York-I-Know." Her latest book, "But Will It Sell?" is a collection of essays, speeches, and light verse. The article appearing on these pages is adapted from material she delivered at a recent health symposium in San Francisco, sponsored by Schering Laboratories and the Academy of Psychosomatic Medicine.

yond a certain point, you can't fool anybody, nor should you want to. A life should leave its traces, and the total lack of them is a negation of experience.

Finally, and by far the most important, the englobing distinction of age is to give rather than to take. The capacity to love is timeless, and, if anything, time should increase it rather than diminish it.

When you are young, you expect to receive, you think it is your divine right. But the older you grow, the more you learn that you get very little if you give very little.

As one who has always loved men well, if not too wisely, I have long been aware that the cards are stacked in our society—and particularly at this time—against the older woman. Men of 60 and even 70 find themselves much straight, to walk with grace, to emanate a sense of pleasure.

Other things begin to happen, too, and they go beyond the effects of menopause. The psychomatic effects of sexual rejection—of the loss of love—can include a wide range of ailments from loss of teeth to the distortion of feet. Some, of course, may be symptoms of far deeper trouble. But it has been my observation of others as well as of myself that many of them stem from the specific anguish of sexual neutralization, from the sudden withdrawal of the power and joy that had until now sustained them.

I would like to be a little more specific about this progressive aging of women—throwing out some observations which are purely speculative and, since I am not a doctor, clearly none of my business. Yet decades ago, I could not

Taste-Tickling Treats for TEENS

Serve tuna kabobs, ginger eggnog, and chips for a lively teen-age jamboree.

■ Think "big" when planning that food spread for a Teens Jamboree. Match mammoth appetites with yard-long sandwiches, bountiful bowls of chili 'n' chips, a towering salad mold, soda-sized eggnog, and plenty of luscious big brownies.

Paul Bunyan Sized Tuna Hobos

- 1 loaf Italian bread (about 15 in. long), cut in half lengthwise
- Horseradish or Smoked Beef Butter (see recipe)
- Lettuce leaves
- Tuna Salad (see recipe)
- Sliced tomato
- Sliced sweet onion
- 1 lb. assorted luncheon meat sliced process American cheese

1. On cut surface of each bread half, spread Horseradish or Smoked Beef Butter. Cover with the lettuce. Top with Tuna Salad, tomato, onion, luncheon meat, and then the cheese.
2. Impale cherry tomatoes and pimento-stuffed olives on wooden picks and use to garnish sandwiches.
3. Cut sandwiches into serving-sized pieces and wrap each piece in a paper napkin or serve on a paper plate. 8 servings

Horseradish Butter: Cream ½ cup butter or margarine until softened.

Mix in ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons prepared Horseradish, and 1 teaspoon prepared mustard.

Smoked Beef Butter: Cream ½ cup butter or margarine until softened. Mix in 1 cup chopped smoked sliced beef, 2 tablespoons ketchup, 1 teaspoon prepared mustard, and ½ teaspoon Worcestershire sauce.

Tuna Salad: Mix the contents of 2 cans (6½ or 7 oz. each) tuna, drained and flaked, ¼ cup sweet pickle relish, and 6 tablespoons mayonnaise.

Double Ginger Eggnog

- 6 eggs
- 3 tablespoons vanilla extract
- 2 teaspoons lemon extract
- ½ teaspoon sugar
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 qt. cold milk
- 3 cups ginger ale, chilled

1. Beat eggs, extracts, and a mixture of the sugar, salt, and ground ginger together until thick. Blend in milk and then the ginger ale.
2. Serve cold in chilled soda glasses. About 8 servings

Chili

Heat canned chili with beans. Blend in desired amount of dairy sour cream and heat thoroughly. Serve along with the hobos.

Cola Salad

- 1 pkg. (6 oz.) raspberry-flavored gelatin
- 2 cups boiling water
- 1 ½ cups carbonated cola beverage
- 1 cup pecans, coarsely chopped
- 1 cup maraschino cherries, drained and cut in eighths

1. Pour the boiling water over gelatin in a bowl and stir until gelatin is completely dissolved. Mix in the cola beverage.
2. Chill until slightly thicker than consistency of thick, unbenet egg white, stirring frequently.
3. Stir the pecans and cherries into thickened gelatin. Turn into a 1½-qt. mold and chill until firm.
4. Unfold onto a chilled serving plate. Accompany with a bowl of salad dressing or mayonnaise. One 1½-qt. mold

Double-Fudge Brownies

- ½ cup butter or margarine
- 2 sq. (2 oz.) unsweetened chocolate
- ¼ cup sifted regular all-purpose flour
- ½ teaspoon baking powder
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 eggs
- 1 cup sugar
- ½ cup pecans, coarsely chopped
- 12 oz. semi-sweet chocolate pieces
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 ½ cups miniature marshmallows
- ½ cup coarsely chopped salted pecans

1. Melt ½ cup butter or margarine and unsweetened chocolate together; set aside to cool.
2. Sift flour, baking powder, and salt together; set aside.
3. Beat eggs and sugar until thick and piled softly; blend in cooled chocolate. Add dry ingredients and mix until smooth—add ¾ cup nuts.
4. Turn batter into a greased 9x9x2-in. pan and spread evenly.
5. Bake at 350°F. 35 to 40 min. or until a wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Set on wire rack to cool.
6. For topping, melt semi-sweet chocolate and 2 tablespoons butter or margarine over hot (not steaming) water; remove from water and stir in marshmallows and salted pecans. Immediately spread chocolate-topping over brownies.
7. Cool completely. Cut into squares, about 2 in. 1 ½ to 2 doz. brownies

Get a Lot for Your Vacation Dollar: Visit Britain

Devaluation has turned England into a tourist's mecca where money is cheap and bargains are big

By JANET GRAHAM

"SINCE devaluation, England is one of the least expensive countries in Europe to visit," Linda Gross, a secretary from Los Angeles, explained.

She described how she went to register at a country inn in Cornwall. The desk clerk told her that a room with three meals would be 10 pounds ($24)—a week.

Linda had plenty of other surprises during her three-week stay. "Opera tickets cost us only $1.20 each. And the shopping in London is fantastic. I've visited Britain several times, but my money has never gone so far before."

Last November, Britain devalued the pound sterling by 14.3 percent. Americans who used to pay $2.80 for one of those great crinkly green notes now get it for a bargain $2.40. Maybe 40¢ doesn't sound like an enormous saving, but it works out like this:

For every $100 you spend in Britain in 1968, you are getting an extra $16. And that $16, at rock-bottom British prices, can buy you a weekend at a country hotel or a cashmere cardigan or five evenings of London theater-going.

While Americans are being asked to check the dollar drain by vacationing at home, many are not willing to forego entirely the pleasures of a jaunt to Europe. They realize that they will spend the minimum if they holiday in Britain this year rather than tour on the Continent. Consequently, American bookings at many large London hotels are higher than ever before. A New Rochelle, N.Y., housewife explained, "British hotels and restaurants are excellent and cheap. Why should we pay $15 a head for a meal in Paris when we get such fine food and service in London for five dollars or so?"

It was feared that British devaluation might cause instant price rises for tourists; but so far, British hoteliers have made valiant efforts to keep prices steady. For instance, Trust Houses, Britain's largest hotel group, reported no rise in rates this summer. Hotel prices in central London—at $6 to $15 a night for a single room—are not spectacularly cheap. But once you get out of the capital and into the countryside, rooms in delightful village inns can still be had for as little as $3, including a hearty cooked breakfast for which Britain is famous.

It costs little to get out and about in Britain. Distances are so tiny that the air fare from London to Edinburgh, Scotland, for example, is a mere $20. A seven-day motoring tour of Devon, Shropshire, and the Shukespere country, including accommodations, cost $107 last year. This year, the tour wears a bargain-price sticker of $96, London-back-to-London. (Details from British Travel Association, 680 Fifth Avenue, New York, N.Y., 10019.)

You can rent a car for $37 a week—with unlimited mileage. Or spend $30 on a book of Thriftail Coupons from British Railways, entitling you to 1,000 miles of train travel around Britain. For $50, you get 15 days unlimited first-class rail travel—a potential 11,000 miles for the marathon sight-seer! These rail tickets must be bought before you leave America, though. Write to British Rail International, care of British Travel Association.

When it comes to shopping, Britain is a consumer's paradise, with a huge selection of goods from all over Europe at prices which often amaze American visitors.

If you choose one of the large department stores for your British shopping, be sure to ask at the store's bureau for an export card. This entitles you to buy your goods free of British purchase tax, which can be as high as 50 percent on luxury goods such as sterling tableware. Goods bought in this way must be sent direct to your ship or plane; so do your shopping several days before you plan to leave for home.

Those who are exhausted with the pace of swinging London can discover the astonishing bargains to be found in the peace of Britain's lovely countryside and small, historic towns. Lunch at a Thames-side inn will cost as little as $1.50; a weekend at Stratford, Henley, Windsor, or Oxford, a mere $20 or so a week.

A visit to one of Britain's renowned "Stately Homes" is certainly a treat. They charge a fantastically low 30¢ to 60¢ admission. For $2.52 you can buy a pass which will admit you to nearly 400 famous castles and houses. Send your check to the Ministry of Public Works, Lambeth Bridge House, London, S.E.1., several weeks before you leave for Britain.

More Americans now visit England than any other European country. As they gather at London Airport to return home, they seem well satisfied. "We came on a group tour," explained one Southern lady. "Our round-trip tickets cost us only $300 each—and that included a car and 20 nights of excellent accommodations, too!"

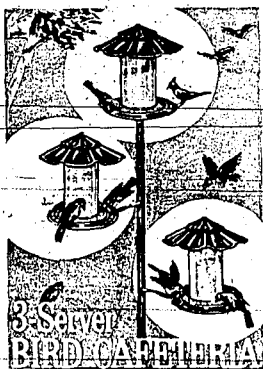

To quote Shakespeare (who else?): "This royal throne of kings, this scepter'd isle... this blessed plot, this earth, this realm... This bargain!"

French politics are taking their toll—

Is Paris Couture on the Way Out?

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

LONG BEFORE the recent French crisis, there was a couture crisis and one that has become more acute.

There seem to be fewer well-heeled women who wish to pay several thousand dollars a dress.

Balenciaga, one of the greatest inspirations of the Paris couture, has recently retired.

Another guiding light, Chanel, reported that she is losing $10,000-$12,000 per week, which may influence her to close shop.

American designers and those of other countries are becoming powerful fashion giants in their own right.

Is the haute couture about to meet its Waterloo? Are American and other fashion influences taking over?

To get the answer, FAMILY WEEKLY went to key sources. American designers, for example, had these observations:

Bill Blass, famous for putting ruffles on the fashion map and launching the "sportive" or deep-country look, doesn't even attend the Paris collections or consider them germinal for ideas. "The couture has ceased moving with the times," says Blass, "the richest women no longer want to be dressed by one house, preferring instead the variety of quality, ready-made clothes that do not require sumbersome custom fitting."

Jacques Tiffreau, who was the first with abbreviated hemlines in America, and the designer who beat Dior's Marc Bohart at the cutting shears by dropping hemlines to mid-calf in 1966, "gets no inspiration from the couture today," although he was born in France and does acknowledge being tremendously influenced by the late Christian Dior.

Geoffrey Beene, one of the industry's most sought-after designers, states the problem succinctly: "It's somewhat sad but inescapable—the Paris couture is losing private customers rapidly." Beene feels that in 10 years the word "couture" will be dead; "It will be replaced by prêt-à-porter (ready-to-wear clothes as opposed to custom), which most of the top French designers have begun to create in force."

James Galanos on the West Coast, a member of the elite circle of fashion creators, attends none of the Paris collections. "We presume to establish design, taste, and ideas of our own but at the same time are not operating in a vacuum; today ideas flow liberally back and forth across the Atlantic." Galanos notes that "American manners, way of life, production know-how, and the general spirit of youth have greatly influenced French designers, who make yearly trips to the U.S."

California's Rudolph Gernreich, the man who shocked the world in 1964 with his topless bathing suit—but who has also given women colored stockings, knit tank suits, and vinyl clothes—states that Paris, as a fashion capital no longer has any great impact in the U.S.

"All the younger members of the haute couture are opening boutiques on the Left Bank and scaling down their prices. Ready-to-wear is their future aim—aimed at a world market." Gernreich predicts that in the very near future, foreign stores and prices will invade the American market and establish this country as one of the genuine fashion centers of the world.

How do some of the women on the so-called "Best-Dressed List" feel about the French couture?

Mrs. Wyatt Emory Cooper (Gloria Vanderbilt) has her favorite American designers—and trips to the French couture do not fit into her schedule. (She does enjoy owning one or two Chanel suits, though.)

Italian-born Mrs. Henry Ford II has not seen a Paris collection for the last year or two. She now wears mostly U.S.-designed clothes because "they are less expensive, more practical for my busy life."

Mrs. Harilaos Theodoropoulos (wife of a Greek shipping magnate) used to attend the Paris collections, no longer does. "French clothes are much too fussy," declares Mrs. Theodoropoulos. She frankly admits to being pro-American and anti-de-Gaulle, and this has affected her fashion purchases.

Are retailers and buying chains still wooing the couture?

Russel Carpenter of prestigious I. Magnin, Los Angeles, would be the first to say yes. "Although many of I. Magnin's customers have been soured by French politics," he says, "fashion is another thing, and the truths of fashion are different from those of politics."

But Henry Miller, managing director of the Foreign Division of Kirby-Block, a buying chain for 150 stores, states that line-for-line adaptations of French originals are on the wane. American clothes, which he feels are priced right, fit well, and are stylish, make up a major share of sales to customers.

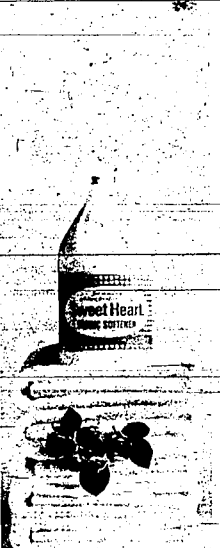

Who's the consensus on the couture's state of health? Women who have purchased French haute couture clothes in the past will probably not let politics interfere with their fashion tastes.

Those who have never worn them—in the light of the variety of clothes the U.S. and the world have to offer—will be unlikely to switch to French originals, particularly at their high cost.

It adds up to a swing away from Gallic high fashion—so much so that the now-wave designers will mark down Paris couture as something from the dim past. ♦

TV Commercials You'll Never See!

When Madison Avenue and Hollywood get together, the results sometimes can be disastrous—and funny

By TERRY GALANOY

THEY ARE for the most part intelligent, creative, and well-paid ($15,000 to $100,000 annually), but these days they've come upon hard times.

Who? The writers, artists, cameramen, directors, and producers of tv commercials.

In an unsure business, they are sure of only two things: 1) that the tv commercial is here to stay; 2) that most viewers don't like commercials.

They are aware that when they try to communicate with you, you simply walk away or yawn or start talking.

To counteract this, they carefully construct today's commercials to grab and hold your attention first and sell the product second. They search for the humorous, the bizarre, the daring; some of the ideas are born of a mating between desperation and imagination. Many times they work. Sometimes they don't. And when they don't, a tv commercial you'll never see is born. Here are a few:

At the John Urie Studios in California, the producers took on the assignment of shooting a commercial for a cereal. The script starred a small boy, a big dog, and a caterpillar. The caterpillar had the most difficult part, having to crawl along a sidewalk, wriggle around pedestrians, avoid a speeding bicycle, be sniffed at by the dog, and end up safe in the boy's hand.

The studio rounded up the boy, the bicycle, the dog, and Edgar, Hollywood's only known trained caterpillar. With cameras rolling, the caterpillar was placed on the sidewalk. As it wriggled along, shoes walked past it, the bicycle narrowly missed it, and right on cue, the dog came over for a sniff. Deciding that the caterpillar smelled good enough to eat—the dog ate it.

At last report, they were busy training another caterpillar, and the dog had been written out of the script.

A few months before that, another studio found it was time to shoot new-car commercials again. That's the period in early summer when a few prototypes of the new models have been hand-assembled for advanced photography. Because of security precautions, these cars carry no identifying nameplates or insignia and are shipped under wraps in sealed freight cars.

The commercial was to be shot in the Arizona desert. The studio was told what train was transporting the car and where to pick it up. The crew met the train, transferred the canvas-covered car to a closed truck, and set off for the desert, where they awaited the arrival of the ad agency man who would supervise the commercial.

"While we're waiting, let's go ahead with some of the footage," the director said, "and surprise him when he gets here."

And they did. They shot thousands of feet of film, even capturing a one-in-a-million sequence of a magnificent Arizona sunset spraying a golden halo around the automobile.

That evening the agency man arrived. The director met him and said eagerly, "Boy, do we have a surprise for you. We shot all the footage today, including some shots no one will ever be able to get again."

"Boy, do I have a surprise for you!" the agency man answered. "That's the wrong car. I don't know whose it is, but it's not ours. Ours missed the train."

Another film studio, shooting a commercial for potato chips, decided that the project was for the birds. The scene called for a small boy to walk slowly through a park eating a bag of the product. During his wanderings, he was to walk through a group of pigeons who were strutting about on the ground. To keep the pigeons grounded, the director had scattered peanuts in the area.

The crew soon learned, however, that this particular group of pigeons much preferred potato chips to peanuts. Take after take, the pigeons would fly up, knock the bag of potato chips out of the boy's hands and gobble them down. It was only with some wing-clipping that the commercial was finally completed.

There are others. A $25,000 boat was sunk for a commercial—and the camera and film went down, too. A car was put on a raft in a hotel swimming pool. It sank. A herd of sheep was supposed to climb aboard a train, instead it stampeded down the tracks stopping all traffic for hours. A picnic scene was set in tall grass which caught fire and burned away. A wine commercial was shot on an Indian reservation, and the crew was arrested for breaking an anti-firework law.

They're out there right now. The people who think up commercials and the people who make them. All working with two great ideas in mind: the commercial idea and keeping you in your seat, attentive and alert.

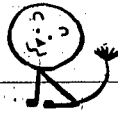

They persevere, even if it does mean an occasional commercial you'll never see. ♦

Dog's 3 1/2 Year Itch Cleared in 2 Weeks

"My Schnauzer had itching skin eczema for 3 1/2 years... was covered (80%) with large sores. We tried everything from pills that cost $50 each to skin grafting, but finally thought we'd have to put him to sleep. Then I saw a Sulfodene ad, used Sulfodene for two weeks. The itching stopped and he hasn't had a sore since. I had known about Sulfodene 3 1/2 years ago—I could have saved myself $250 and a lot of gray hair," says Mr. David Meyerson, Brooklyn, N.Y.

Discovered by famous veterinary scientist, Dr. A.C. Merrick, Sulfodene liquid medication works fast to stop itching, heal itch-sores (often called mange, eczema, hot spots). So soothing, the most frenzied itching is relieved almost instantly. Quickly promotes healing. Open sores heal over. Scabies disappear. Used by kennels and veterinarians. For dogs and cats. Get Sulfodene. At all drug stores, leading pet shops.

Mistaken Gallantry

Dear sir, when you say, with a smile that glisters,
A mother and daughter look just like sisters,
No doubt the compliment flatters mother,
But listen, brother:
It's slaughter
For daughter!

KIMBERLY-CLARK

Mike is now a celebrity, not just "Ronald Reagan's son."

WHEN THE wind blows on Lake Havasu, Ariz., the three-to-five-foot chop can tear your powerboat to pieces.

The foamy soup churned up by the 90 to 100 other boats out there slicing down the race course doesn't help. The waves slam into you like bullets. Hit a crest wrong and you and your boat may bounce five feet in the air. Don't slip, don't slip, you pray, and if you're lucky the boat slams down flat in a spray of water. You just grin and skim on.

If you're not lucky and the boat does flip, you've got two seconds to bail out before it comes down on top of you. Miss those crucial seconds, and you may end up in pieces.

It took me two years to get to the choppy waters of Lake Havasu. In 1966 I saw my first race. I went with a friend to watch a meet on the Colorado River. I was 21 then. The excitement, the roar and spray of the boats, the sun-glinting on the water got to me. I thought, Hey, this is what I've been looking for all my life.

My father is Gov. Ronald Reagan of California, and I have inherited a lot of his tough competitiveness. I've been on my own since turning 19, and I'm out to make a name for myself. Politics is Dad's specialty, and I'd say he's done very well at it. I like sports but, until recently, I wasn't sure I was cut out for the life.

In high school, I pitched baseball and then was a quarterback on the football team. But I wasn't heavy enough to make it in football. I tried dragstrip racing and won my first meet but didn't like it enough to go at it seriously.

Then there was a school problem. I had tried to combine a job with going to college. I ended up with an ulcer and had to drop out. I was beginning to wonder whether I ever would make the grade at anything. I hated the idea that I might spend my life being known only as "Ronald Reagan's son."

Powerboat racing is a grueling sport, tough challenge and excitement are unequalled;

I Race to Win!

I can't say exactly what I expected from speedboat racing. It looked like a challenge. That seemed enough. A school buddy joined me, and we scraped together every penny we had and bought a hull and motor. We started to learn about racing.

Dad and the rest of the family didn't say much. I knew what they were thinking. There was this $10,000 boat sitting in the garage on a trailer. I guess they were wondering whether this would be another short-lived enthusiasm or whether I would really do something with it.

In 1967 a good thing happened to me. I met Rudy Ramos and joined his Rayson Craft racing team. Rudy is a smart manager and racer and he knows everything there is to know about speedboat racing—from the small putt-putt outboarders to the superfast hydroplanes or "thunderboats" with their roaring, screaming aircraft engines.

Rudy showed me that racing is work and concentration. There is no such thing as a gentleman weekend racer. If you're going to win, you have to give every moment you can spare to the sport. Every boat handles differently, and you have to know every trick it can play slamming through the chop. I had to know how to handle Rudy's boat and my own boat, "Things Go Better," which I race around the country.

You also have to keep yourself in shape. The physical ordeal of powerboat racing is, quite literally, back-breaking. After a race, my back is black-and-blue from the constant pounding. I may have sweated off as much as 10 pounds. My fingers feel like lead from clutching the wheel.

We had our eyes on Havasu. The Havasu Outboard World Championship is the "Indianapolis 500" of outboard racing. There is big prize money, and you're competing against top racers from all over the world. The four-mile course is one of the toughest in the U.S.

Rudy elected to run his 20-footer, "Phff," mounted with three 125 hp Mercury engines. He had raced the boat at Havasu in 1966 and had come in first. It was bigger than most of the other boats entered, but you need a big, strong boat to take the constant heavy beating.

We knew the competition would be strong. One boat, the U-707, had a team of the three fastest men in the world; Craig Breedlove, who holds the land-speed record (600 mph), Ripped with three motors, Mike's boat was bigger and heavier than most others—but ideal for the choppy waters of Havasu.

physically and emotionally, but the that's why. . .

Mike brings his Rayson Craft to the dock after winning the Havana race.

Lee Taylor, holder of the water-speed record (285 mph), and Maj. Pete Knight of the U.S. Air Force, whose all-speed record with the X-15 rocket plane is 4,534 mph. But I'm like my father when it comes to worrying about the competition, I don't. I just have faith that I'm going to go out and win. I can't let myself think about anything else.

Havana is a two-day race, four hours of frenzied racing on both Saturday and Sunday. I was jittery Saturday morning, excited by the noise of more than 100 boats being revved up, the crowd noise, the chatter of the pit crews. I was sharing the driving with Rudy and another Rayson driver, Bill Cooper. Both were experienced racers, and I was a rookie. I wondered whether I would be able to handle my share.

But the moment I got behind the wheel, I relaxed even though the course was littered with wrecks. Boats were flipping and breaking down all around us. But by the end of Saturday, "Phfft" had pulled ahead to a good lead.

We worked late Saturday night resetting our motors and fiber-glassing down part of the hull that was shaking loose. This was the boat's second year of racing, and she was beginning to show the wear-and-tear.

On Sunday, the wind picked up and the sky became overcast. The chop out on the lake was wicked.

Rudy decided I could finish the race. I hit the starter and shot out onto the course. This was the kind of racing I'd learned from Rudy—fast, hectic, but watchful, slumming down a stretch at 90, to 100 mph, watching the line of waves, the shifty wind, the debris in the water—and mostly watching the fast weave and cut of the other boats. Give a tough racer an opening and he'll swerve in toward you, trying to scare you into cutting back on power. I wasn't scaring.

Oh, oh, trouble. The deck was beginning to tear loose, rattling in the wind. Then the dashboard collapsed. "Phfft" was coming apart beneath me. But I couldn't be the one to lose this race. I couldn't! I propped the dash up with one hand and steered with the other. That was the way I was driving when the race ended, holding the boat together with one hand. But I had won.

There was the excitement of press photographers taking my picture and people slapping me on the back and congratulating me. But the best moment came when I got back home and the phone rang. It was Dad. "Hi, Mike, I hear you won a big race." I could almost see him grinning.

I felt proud, too. For the first time, I had really come through on my own. I'm Mike Reagan, and I race to win in the mad world of powerboats. ♣

Need an extra income? As a Hoover Representative, you can earn $50 to $150 each month, right in your own neighborhood!

Here's an easy and exciting way to create a steady extra income for yourself and your family without any investment other than a few hours per week of your spare time. Thousands of men and women, many of them without any selling experience whatsoever, are cashing in on this unusual opportunity right now. And there's room for thousands more. In all parts of the country.

Millions of Americans—beauticians, waitresses, barbers, nurses—wear uniforms on the job. More than ever before, these people are fashion conscious. They want their uniforms to be as good-looking as the rest of their wardrobe. And they know that the best-looking uniforms in the world come from Hoover Fashions.

The Hoover Line is offered to this vast, eager market exclusively through Hoover Representatives—men and women who, working part-time or full-time, show our giant color catalog to working people, help them select their purchases, and earn a generous commission on each item bought. It's as simple as that. As our Representative, your job is done as soon as the order's written up and you've pocketed your profit. You don't have to be bothered with making deliveries, collecting payments, or handling refunds or returns. Hoover takes care of all that.

Hoover garments are eagerly bought because they're sensibly priced—often dollars below comparable garments in your local stores. These low, low prices are made possible by the fact that Hoover is the only direct-to-the-customer, uniform company that does its own manufacturing. These low prices mean big savings for your customers... and fast easy profits for you.

As a Hoover Representative, you receive (in addition to our regular catalogs) special flyers featuring new additions to our line, as well as bargain offers not included in our catalog. These special flyers make your customers look toward you with eager eyes, because they know you'll always have something new and exciting to show them.

The start of more action than you may be able to take.

Are you ready to take on the Western stories of Zane Grey?

These famous novels are written for tough-minded readers about some of the roughest characters who ever roamed the frontier: broken-nosed, bullet-scarred men, who had to ride hard and shoot fast in order to survive.

Not everyone can take this sort of story.

But if you can, we'll be glad to send you—for the token price of $1—three of the greatest books Zane Grey ever wrote.

The Call of the Canyon. What happens to a soft-living Easterner who walks out on the good life to face an outlaw's vengeance alone on Arizona's desolate frontier.

Wildfire. For a stallion who wouldn't be ridden, a girl who wouldn't be kissed, Lin Stone gambled everything. And his life was the smallest chip in the pot.

The Hash Knife Outfit. These men in the gang and the softest among them lived only to kill. What chance for the hot-tempered cow puncher facing them . . . and beautiful Molly Dunn, the hostage of the butchering outlaw?

These rugged books are hard bound in sunset red, desert tan, and cavalry blue. And they're stamped in real gold. Normally they cost $8.67. But while our introductory offer lasts, you can have all three for only a dollar.

Why are we taking you to these handsome books like these?

We think you'll like the books we send you. And that you'll want to own other books in the Zane Grey Library as they come from the presses.

They will include: Riders of the Purple Sage, The Dude, Ranger, Wild Horse Mesa, Arizona Arnie, Thunder Mountain, The Vanishing American, Maverick Queen, and many more.

Because we print in quantity and cut out the middleman, we can still offer our subscribers these distinctive, cloth-bound books for only $2.89 each plus shipping.

You get advance descriptions of all future selections. You can reject any book before or after you receive it. And you can cancel your subscription at any time.

Send no money. Just mail coupon to get The Call of the Canyon, Wildfire, and The Hash Knife Outfit by Zane Grey.

All these for the introductory price of only $1.
Walter J. Black, Inc., Flower Hill, Roslyn, N.Y. 11576

Please send me The Call of the Canyon, Wildfire, and The Hash Knife Outfit.

If I don't want to keep these introductory volumes, I'll return them within a week and owe nothing. Otherwise, I'll pay just $1 for all these, plus shipping.

Also reserve for me additional beautifully-bound volumes in the Zane Grey Library, which I will be entitled to receive as they come from the presses.

I'll get advance descriptions of all future volumes. I may reject any books before or after I receive them. For those I do keep, I pay just $2.89 each plus shipping. And I may cancel my reservation any time. (Books shipped in U.S.A. only.)
