U.S. Shuns Bilateral Conclave

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has told the Soviet Union it should take any Middle East peace solutions to the U.N. General Assembly, and not seek bilateral "side pocket" talks.

This, officials say, is the gist of a reply to a four-point proposal for a ceasefire in Moscow two weeks ago for ending the state of war between Israel and the Arab nations.

The United States called for revivification of the effort to find a solution through Swedish diplomat Gunnar Jarring, who was appointed by U.N. Secretary General Thant more than a year ago to mediate the dispute.

A high-ranking U.S. official said Monday no "side pocket" talks between the United States and Soviet Union should confuse the issue.

"U.S. officials believe the Jarring mission, which has made little headway, could bring results at the United Nations under pressure from the foreign ministers concentrated there."

The Soviet proposal to the United States was that Israel withdraw to borders existing before the June 1967 six-day war.

U.S. officials declared an end to the state of belligerency, and the United Nations maintains a strong presence to guarantee border peace.

The U.S. reply was drafted during the final days in office of Assistant Secretary of State Luther Battle, the diplomat in charge of Middle East affairs in the State Department. Battle left the department Monday to become a vice president of the Communications Satellite Corp.

Battle was replaced by Barker T. Hart, former ambassador to Turkey.

Because the rocket launchers already in use or in production are a proprietary item that is, the plans and specifications are owned by Alcoa-Techfab, not by the government, the Navy made clear in its bid announcement that companies seeking the new contracts would have to create their own designs and build test models.

When a House appropriations subcommittee asked the Navy earlier this year to list contracts it awards on a sole-source basis without competition, the Navy listed the rocket launcher contracts and explained them this way:

"The time which would be required to develop a similar Navy-owned item and to get a new manufacturer's state production is completely prohibitive."

Navy Alters Stand On Disputed Pact

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy has quietly backed-off its position that all its 2.75 inch rocket launcher contracts must go to a St. Louis firm which is under federal indictment charging kickbacks on past contracts for the equipment.

The Navy had maintained that Techfab Division of Alcoa Inc., of St. Louis, had to get all the contracts because "the launchers were 'proprietary' and the time required to develop new suppliers would be completely prohibitive."

The Navy awarded a $13.9 million contract for the launchers to Techfab while its parent company was under Grand Jury investigation this summer and the Pentagon refused to void the contract when the indictment against Alcoa was returned in August.

But now, in a one-paragraph announcement in a Commerce Department journal, the Naval Air Systems Command has disclosed that it will seek competitive bids this week from prospective new suppliers of 81,000 launchers.

A Navy spokesman acknowledged that the Air Systems Command is seeking new suppliers for the rocket launchers, used by both the Navy and the Air Force, but would not discuss details.

The Navy spokesmen would not explain this week why they now are seeking new suppliers, and why they now have time to reprocess or what the Navy and Air Force will do for rocket launchers in the interior.

East July 23, The Associated Press revealed that the Navy had awarded the $13.9 million contract to Alcoa's Techfab. By then, the firm's previous bid contracts were still being investigated.

On Aug. 7, the grand jury returned an indictment charging that on more than $42 million in contracts, Alcoa and five other defendants had channeled $1.5 million into Swiss banks.

Chromcraft and later Techfab, have been the Pentagon's "sole" supplier of the rocket launchers since 1962.

Francis N. Rosenbaum, the firm's counsel in Washington, said he and Jaffe Shonk are "co-conspirators."

Union Warns Reuther On 'Raiding'; Hints Major Warfare Could Erupt

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Machinists union said today that an attempt by United Auto Workers' President Walter Reuther to raid other unions was "a stab in the back" that could plunge the nation's labor movement into "the law of the jungle."

P. L. "Roy" Stiemiller, Machinists president, said in an interview that Reuther's unsuccessful attempt to get a 27,000-member local in Houston to drop out of the Machinists was part of an effort to build a rival federation to the AFL-CIO, headed by George Meany.

Now, said Stiemiller, the Auto Workers are supporting an independent union backed by the Teamsters, against the AFL-CIO Machinists, among McDunnell Douglas Corp. workers at St. Louis.

The Teamsters, Auto Workers and Machinists are the nation's three largest unions.

Stiemiller also attempted to raid other unions, and added that the situation opened the way for the Machinists to retaliate by taking in dissident Auto Workers.

Stiemiller released copies of his correspondence with Reuther, in which each accused the other of violating the no-raiding mutual assistance pact which the two unions signed in 1953.

The agreement was used as a pattern for the later merger of the American Federation of Labor and the Machinists into the Congress of Industrial Organizations into the AFL-CIO two years later.

The run-off election between the Machinists and the independent Technical Employees of TEAM is scheduled in St. Louis Thursday and Friday.

In the first election, the Machinists received 6,402 votes to retain bargaining rights at McDonnell Douglas, TEAM received 6,321 and the Auto Workers 5,555.

The run-off is required under federal law since none of the three won a majority.

Utah Symphony Nets $25,000

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A $25,000 boost for a Utah Symphony fund drive.

A check for that amount was presented at the symphony Monday by Charles E. Merrill Trust.

At Haggan's urging the trust agreed to the $25,000 grant.

Ike's Grandson Mulls Reception In White House

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — David Eisenhower says he is confident he and Jaffe Shonk will have a White House reception after their wedding.

"Mr. Humphrey's in trouble," David said Monday in his room at Amherst College, where he is majoring in political science.

Reassessment: After Soviet Threats

The Sawtooth Story

Action of the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs of the House of Representatives in failing to clear legislation calling for establishment of the Sawtooth National Recreation Area is both uncalled for and ridiculous.

The legislation was originally proposed and guided through the Senate by Sen. Frank Church and Senator Len Jordan. After its introduction in the House it became lost in the seemingly endless channels of the Interior and Insular Affairs set-up. And there it died. Why?

Why should a piece of legislation so favored by so many people be ignored?

The proposal to have the Forest Service responsible for the Recreation Area, under a multiple use proposition, was backed by an overwhelming number of those who testified during special hearings on the matter, by our members in Congress and even by the State Legislature whose members, in a special communication, urged the Congress to pass the legislation creating the Recreation Area.

But then, after introduction in the House with plenty of time for investigation and study, the matter died as the Congress adjourned. It never saw the light of day.

In a letter from Wayne N. Aspinall, chairman of the committee which was made available to the Times-News by Rep. George Hansen, himself a committee member, Mr. Aspinall offered a weak set of excuses as to why the legislation had never been reported out:

"This, as you are well aware, has been a very busy Congress for the House Interior and Insular Affairs Committee," Mr. Aspinall wrote. "The Committee reported 146 bills and I anticipate that, as usual, when the 90th Congress ends, we will have accounted for about 20 per cent of all the public laws enacted."

WASHINGTON — West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger has quietly employed a bit of personal diplomacy to crystallize U.S. support for his menaced government in the wake of Russia's march into Czechoslovakia.

Kiesinger sent a close foreign policy advisor, Kurt Birrenbach, on a quick trip here as his personal representative. Birrenbach made the rounds of influential congressional offices to underscore the West German government's grave concern.

Birrenbach is a member of the Bundestag who has long been a supporter of NATO and an advocate of European cooperation. He is also a financial trustee and counselor for the powerful Thyssen industrial interests.

In talks with congressional leaders, Birrenbach expressed the fears of the West German government caused by the invasion of Czechoslovakia by Russia and by Birrenbach's informal mission, that West Germany was the biggest loss contemplated by the move into Czechoslovakia.

His quick visit here coincided with a round of propaganda and bombast leveled by Moscow at the Bonn government. At the same time the Kremlin was assuring other Middle European nations, notably Rumania and Yugoslavia, that it planned no invasion of their territory.

As a consequence, U.S. officials were led to believe, formally and by Birrenbach's informal mission, that West Germany was the biggest loss contemplated by the move into Czechoslovakia.

That led to warnings from the United States, Britain and France, that any move into West German territory would bring "immediate Allied retribution."

Now that Czech leaders are saying that a Soviet pull-back is in prospect, U.S. officials are concerned over the possibility of the withdrawal of occupation forces and the location of units which remain in Czechoslovakia.

Birrenbach's talks were well-timed. His visit here when the Senate and House were preparing to complete action on the administration's $72-billion defense appropriations bill. Some influential senators had been questioning CIA director Richard Helms, Defense Secretary Clark M. Abner and Gen. Earle Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, on international developments.

The lawmakers were told in closed-door testimony, that eight divisions of Warsaw Pact troops — more than 80,000 fighting men plus support units — were positioned in Czechoslovakia in the Pilsen-Cheb area where they posed a threat to West Germany's eastern border. The Senate was also prepared to give a sympathetic hearing to a personal spokesman airing Kiesinger's apprehensions.

Despite their sympathetic attention, however, congressional leaders, like other U.S. officials, were finally inclined to take a somewhat less alarmed view of the Czechoslovakia situation.

Reaching a tentative conclusion that Russia was not seriously considering a move into West Germany's eastern border — being their view — on reports from other Warsaw Pact nations, U.S. officials and many knowledgeable congressional leaders concluded that threatening notes and propaganda directed at West Germany by the Kremlin were designed to frighten Russia into a public relations problem of their own.

The Pacemaker

Dear Dr. Molner: The writer would appreciate information on heart pacemakers. I am a 67-year-old male with a heart mortality rate for a senior citizen with a pulse rate of 36 to 66, but mostly about 40. Does the operation, if successful, solve the problem? The batteries go into the heart through the aorta and neck? G.R.B.

Your questions imply that you are a bit confused on some aspects, not on others.

The pacemaker is a device for use when the heart does not beat so rapidly and steadily as it should. The pulse rate of an average adult is around 70 or a bit more, some have a normally slow rate without harm or symptoms.

But the rate can be so slow as to cause inadequate circulation. The patient may have periods of feeling faint or even lose consciousness.

Electrocardiograms can identify the condition and permit the doctor to determine accurately the interval between heart beats. Sometimes medication can meet the situation successfully. In many cases, the doctor resorts to a pacemaker.

Electrically, this is an instrument which, while small, is made to operate with great precision, supplying rhythmic small pulses which act as a heart. If the heart beat is delayed, the electric pulse impels the heart muscle to contract or "beat."

The batteries, and the pacemaker itself, are put in inserted into the body. However, the heart does not need any surgery; it is not necessary to put in surgery.

All-Hail Divorced Men

For 10, these many moons the divorced men of our nation, Idaho and Magic Valley have been pushed around. But the day of the big push (at least some believe) is about to dawn. At least some believe is about to be able to push a few women around.

Man has long contended that courts are always lenient to women in a divorce action. In other words in a divorce the fault always lies with the man, where he is not the fault at all.

And so now, Mr. Spectator is glad to announce, something is going to be done about it. Just the other day this all came to light when a notice concerning a new organization — America's Society of Divorced Men — crossed his desk.

In fact the communication related that the society is to become so large that a regional director has been appointed for the Rocky Mountain states, which, naturally, Idaho is a portion.

So now, Mr. Spectator will have representation. And Mr. Spectator is a director. Where he goes how about sending the entire release, which came from Charles V. Metz of Elgin, Ill. Elgin, the release points out, is the national headquarters.

Mr. Spectator might point out that what with all the political oratory about the nation and the state going around these days it is a welcome interlude to find something else to dissect about. So here goes, you divorced (or about to be divorced) guys you are interested. The news release follows:

Jack H. Regouby, Denver, Colo., has been named regional director for the Rocky Mountain states, for the rapidly growing organization known as America's Society of Divorced Men. Regouby's office is located in Denver, where he resides at 6800 West Colfax Avenue.

America's Society of Divorced Men is a non-profit corporation devoted to major reforms in the nation's marriage and divorce laws. Members believe the laws in every state are cruelly unfair to men and their children; they believe the custody of children should more frequently be awarded to the father; that child support payments should cease upon the remarriage of the custodial parent; that husband and wives should be treated equally in divorce proceedings; that alimony should be abolished in favor of damage awards in certain limited instances.

On the subject of marriage, ASDM believes most people should not marry until the man is at least 30 years old and the woman at least 20. ASDM believes the soaring divorce rates would be drastically reduced if state laws required an equal degree of responsibility on the part of both husband and wife.

Jack Regouby is a former minister who was forced to resign from his church as a direct result of his determination to fight with the law for the divorce courts in the state. Regouby is responsible for one major divorce reform enactment in Colorado, which, he says, "is just a beginning."

Regouby says, "My entire efforts are directed at the Jack of Justice that is ex-

BRUCE BLOSSAT

HHH: Consuming Ugliness

SPRINGFIELD, ILL. (NEA) — Vice President Humphrey on the campaign trail lives each day for a little while in the crucible of hate. No presidential candidate in memory ever has been subjected to such consuming ugliness as he encounters in the relentless chants of the "anti-war" radicals.

At Boston, when he found the disruptive protesters crammed together almost at his feet in a narrow downtown street, he reacted with a cold fury that he somehow kept under leash but, which stayed with him through a long day that carried him 1,300 miles westward to Sioux Falls, S. D.

Looking hard and grim-faced, he addressed his young student tormentors in Boston as he was concluding a 15-minute talk they had tried to drown out with obscene and invective and insult.

"I want it said," said of Hubert Humphrey that in an important and tough moment of his life he stood by what he believed and he was not shouted down.

By evening in his native South Dakota, speaking of farm policy to a far friendlier and better-mannered audience, the vice president could not smile even as he offered his listeners typical morsels of his accomplished platform.

No only at Boston but at Philadelphia, at Denver, at Flint, Mich., at Buffalo and other cities along his trail, he has endured the blazing, unreasoning fury of protesters that really is meant for another man — President Lyndon B. Johnson.

While the President who touched off this terrible fire storm sits in the cool, protected isolation of non-candidacy, Humphrey moves daily to the leading edge of ugly confrontation, with radicals whose face he confronted with rage and hate.

No one who has not heard at first-hand the thundering, unbroken, hoarse-voiced chant of these protesters can really imagine what it is like. It is a disconcerting sound, foreign to all purpose of good will, disruptive of the spirit of human accommodation, the vocabulary of a strange and frightening mood of revenge against almost the whole of this country's established society.

Maurice B. Mitchell, chancellor of University of Denver, on language problem he faces in dealing with the buskness world to the educational.

plac "through the aorta," which is the main artery of the heart.

Rather, the tiny batteries and pacemaker are implanted under skin (commonly the chest) and an electrode is then placed at the heart. The batteries are effective, sometimes in the heart muscle, sometimes at other point at which the electrical impulses can conveniently introduce the impulse to beat.

When new batteries are required, the surgeon need go only below the skin level to replace them; it's not necessary to disturb the rest of the pacemaker country.

Asking for the "mortality rate" is asking too high a question, unless one knows the patient's condition in considerable detail, but already we know of patients who have gone on successfully with pacemakers for periods of years. Indeed, it is the hope and expectation of the doctors, when they install pacemakers, that they will get along well for an extended length of time.

Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain the warm feeling that comes over you from taking an aspirin? I have noticed that I take it, and none seems to know, just that it is not harmful. L.G.W.

Macin is a vasodilator, that is, it causes blood vessels to relax slightly. This brings a flush to the skin (from the added circulation) and a sense of warmth. It occurs when you are cold. It is taken and lasts a few minutes.

Dear Dr. Molner: What causes a person to look pale and chilly? I have people tell me I look white as a sheet when I feel all right. I had a thyroidectomy 21 years ago and am on thyroid medication. I am 47.

Some people have pale complexion, they are still perfectly healthy. You might have your doctor check as to whether your thyroid medication is adequate, or if not, if it should be increased.

Another of several causes for the kidneys is one or another of the kidneys may have some disorder in connection with low thyroid activity as well as from other things. A blood count might be in order.

If thyroid and blood check out properly, my best suggestion would be to use some cosmetics which might quiet your friends.

Report: Coalition Crumbles

ROCKVILLE CENTRE, N.Y. — By any rational standard, the Long Island AFL-CIO has not had any difficulty endorsing Allard K. Lowenstein, nominee of the Democratic and Labor parties, for Congress from suburban Nassau County's South Shore.

Lowenstein, 39, an ardent and articulate liberal of national stature, would be a sure vote for organized labor on Capitol Hill.

Besides, his opponent is right-wing ideologue Mason Hampton, who has described a liberal as "a Democrat with his brains kicked out." A leader of New York's Conservative Party, Hampton wrangled the Republican Congressional nomination in a backroom deal — if Hampton elected to Congress, it would be accidental.

Yet, when Lowenstein was vetoed into a 40-minute closed-door session of national delegates at the Garden City hotel one afternoon last week, board-and-butler issues that once mobilized labor's heart were not mentioned. Rather, the labor chiefs kept peppering Lowenstein with one question: Why don't you endorse Hubert Humphrey for President?

The representative of the Plumbers Union was particularly insistent. By failing to back Humphrey because of his Vietnam status, a novice Lowenstein would insure that the Vice President could not carry his district. That being the case, the plumber implied, labor would make sure that Lowenstein also could not carry his district.

Lowenstein, a founder of last fall's national "dump Johnson" movement which evolved into the McCarthy campaign, explained that his endorsement of Humphrey would have little impact on the certain loss of Humphrey in this district. His argument of Lowenstein at the present for its endorsement, that he won it anyway by force of rhetoric — Local Democrats have attempted to insure his defeat by endorsing another liberal Democratic candidate under the standard of the "United Independent Party." One reporter later informed him that he would inform his followers to vote for Hampton unless Lowenstein's party endorsed Humphrey.

Yet, given Humphrey's decision not to abandon President Johnson on Vietnam, Lowenstein said in the south of France, "I would gain by backing him now."

Mr. Spectator might point out that what with all the political oratory about the nation and the state going around these days it is a welcome interlude to find something else to dissect about. So here goes, you divorced (or about to be divorced) guys you are interested. The news release follows:

Soviet 'Logic' Warns Czechs And All Satellites That The Bond Is Permanent

By WILLIAM L. RYAN, AP Special Correspondent

Nations joining in polygamous marriage to the Soviet Union have been told they are wedded for life; there can never be any such thing as divorce.

It was one of the many messages implicit in Pravda's long explanation of why Soviet forces invaded Czechoslovakia. The document, which could rate as a classic of Soviet Communist logic, recalls the days of Stalin and his pronouncements on "progressive" laws governing minority peoples.

The unpracticed reader needed a glossary to follow the article. For example, "just struggle" can be translated as Communist warfare and "justice" applies to the other side; "liberation" means imposition of a Communist regime. "Progressive" working class, "people," "genuine revolutionaries," and "the internationalists" all are terms for which the word "Communist" can be freely substituted.

Those who protested the invasion of Czechoslovakia committed the sin of "formal" interpretation of the term self-determination—they took it literally, assuming that it extended to any formal independence. The article said these points in effect:

There are two kinds of legacy, one "Socialist" and the other therefore correct, the other "bourgeois" and thus invalid. There are two approaches to self-determination. One is "formal" or "abstract," and thus a mistake. The other "progressive" meaning that Moscow will judge how a nation should run its affairs.

It is criminal for a non-Communist power to interfere in the affairs of another state. It is "just" for a Communist power to do so. Pravda argues that this applies not only to "national liberation" movements but to Western Europe. The article, by implication, reserves a Soviet right to intervene in West Germany.

If, said Pravda, a "formal approach" to self-determination

Connie Francis Sues Airlines

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer Connie Francis is suing Eastern Air Lines for $50,000, charging she was annoyed by two drunks on a New York-to-Miami flight last Dec. 28.

Eastern filed Monday for removal of the case from State Supreme Court to the U.S. District Court.

Shortly after the flight took off from Kennedy Airport, Miss Francis said in court papers, these two passengers became loud, boisterous and abusive and began annoying plaintiff.

reputation and the progressive forces of the world would not be able to come out against a revival of neo-Nazism in the Federal Republic of Germany. As for interference in other nations, Pravda said "genuine revolutionaries, being internationalists, cannot support progressive forces in all countries in their just struggle for national and social liberation."

Formal observance of the freedom of self-determination of a nation in the concrete situation that arose in Czechoslovakia would mean freedom of self-determination not of the popular masses, the working people, but of their enemies.

Pravda said, "Czechoslovakia, in effect, was told just what its self-determination would be. It would not be democratization, which Pravda insisted was just a mask to 'befog the minds of the masses.'"

When the Bolsheviks looked over Russia, they were first seized by a revolutionary fever to free everybody. Thus Poland and Finland were separated from what was the Russian empire. But other people—the Ukrainians, the Transcaucasians and others—took self-determination too seriously and the Bolsheviks cracked down.

Stalin, who was the architect of Lenin's "nationalities policy," laid-down a formula: "We do not know what tomorrow may bring, if indeed it has already come to the point that the idea of achieving greater state aims by force at the expense of small peoples has gained the upper hand." Tito, speaking here of Czechoslovakia, was implying that Marxism-Leninism had little to do with it, that it was a matter of great-power state interests.

Pravda insisted was just a mask to "befog the minds of the masses."

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI said today it has more than kept up with the nation's rising crime rate, but added that the New Left movement "has mushroomed into a major security problem."

In its annual report, the federal crime agency said the fiscal year that ended last June 30 was a period of "harsh, unremitting challenge for law enforcement."

The FBI said it "improved gains in several major areas of crime fighting, including a 18 per cent increase in its arrest rate over the previous year."

The loss figures were 18,881 apprehensions, compared with 15,878 the year before.

Another gain was claimed in convictions: The figures were 13,689 persons convicted in 1968, against 11,032 in fiscal 1967. The report stated that 97 per cent of those arrested were convicted.

The report came with "Law and Order" as a major issue in the presidential campaign.

Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon claims that crime is rising "wild and uncontrolled" and that court procedures haven't been able to keep up.

In a section headed "Protecting our internal security," the report, mirroring earlier statements by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover, charged that the students for a Democratic Society is at the core of student unrest "held together by a bitter hatred of... the institutions of Democratic society."

It accused SDS of sponsoring workshops to teach sabotage and how to manufacture explosives for possible use against some government facilities.

The agency also said the Communist party continues as a danger to the nation's internal security, although it has been working to achieve respectability in the nation.

The report listed no arrests nor convictions in fiscal 1968 regarding internal subversion crimes.

The agency also noted what it said was a "boom" by the Soviet Union and several of its allies in spying operations in the United States.

According to the report, the two Soviet diplomatic centers in Washington and New York have increased their staffs from 346 persons in 1964 to 573 in fiscal 1968.

Between 70 and 80 per cent of these people are involved in intelligence, the FBI said.

If these figures are correct the Soviet Union has between 400 and 480 spies of various descriptions in this country.

Here, too, the report didn't list any arrests or convictions but stated: "The FBI remains alert to this danger."

Reporting on its activities against organized crime, the FBI said its probes netted the convictions of 281 figures associated with the Mafia crime syndicate during the fiscal period.

This compared with 197 the previous year, and in addition the report said there were more than 615 persons awaiting trial on charges growing from the FBI's drive against organized crime.

The rise in bank robberies and related crimes was described as "bewildering," though the report appeared to show that the FBI had kept

Woman's Error Cited In Wreck

CORINTH, Greece (AP) — A train wreck which police said was caused by a woman who pulled the emergency cord by mistake killed 23 persons and injured another 150 Monday night.

The train came to a sudden stop near this Peloponnesean city and a second train smashed into it, police said. Both trains carried hundreds of persons returning from their home electoral districts after voting in Sunday's referendum for a new constitution.

pace-by-securing a record number of convictions.

The report showed 2,558 violations of the Federal Bank Robbery and Incidental Crimes statutes, with 1,105 convictions recorded.

Describing the protection of civil rights as "an essential principle in a democratic society," the report pointed proudly to its part in apprehending James Earl Ray, the accused killer of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., and listed other prominent civil rights investigations concluded during the year.

Dissident Reservists Refute 'Dodger' Crack

Lee, Va. (AP) — To some of their barracks mates, they are draft dodgers and cowards, but 300 Army reservists who have challenged their call-up look on themselves as loyal Americans with a legitimate cause.

"We're not draft dodgers. We're here, aren't we? If we wanted to avoid service we could have run off to Canada. But we didn't," said Richard Kronenberg, 26, one of the reservists who challenged in federal court the Army's right to call them to active duty.

The New York City resident made the remark in a word-franco-mess-hall, as five of his buddies sat around the table where they'd just finished their lunch.

Cigarettes were lit as Kronenberg said, "None of us is trying to get out of any responsibility. All we want is our day in court. If we lose, we'll go to Vietnam."

And people are calling us Communists for going through the courts as any citizen can do," Kronenberg and the other five with the others included one who was detained on an "unrelated personnel matter"—and Looney, who already was in difficulty for being absent without leave.

Looney is from Diana, Tex., but as a reservist was attached to the 42nd Ambulance unit at Rockville, Md. when activated. He got to Ft. Lee.

Joe Don Looney, a former pro football player, came into the mess hall and sat down to make his graces known.

Pfc. Looney and seven other enlisted men from the 132nd Petroleum Unit also have appealed their status to the Supreme Court.

Six of the eight were shipped out of Ft. Lee and were en route to Southeast Asia Saturday before their attorneys obtained a stay in their shipping orders from Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas. The Army flew them back to Ft. Lee. The two who didn't ship out

Guests were greeted by the bride and groom before the exchange of vows with white chrysanthemums and blue baby's breath, flanked by baskets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums.

The bride wore a long, high princess-styled gown of white silk-organza over peau de soie satin. The bodice, long sleeves and bottom of skirt were in tulle. Train featured applied hand-clipped Chantilly lace.

The gown was created for the bride by her mother. The bride wore an elbow-length mantilla type veil of silk illusion. She carried an old-fashioned bouquet of pink roses, white stephanotis and blue baby's breath.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so ashamed of myself I hardly know how to write this letter. I am 28 years old and have a good husband and three sweet children. We recently moved to a small town with some fresh-plant material. For the first time since my marriage I found myself attracted to another man. Last night I made a mistake to get out of the house to meet this man, and Abby, I made a terrible mistake with him. He is one of my husband's best customers. I wasn't worth it. Now I get sick to my stomach every time I think of what I did. This man's wife has invited me over and my husband would like to socialize with them. What am I going to do? What excuse can I give? I don't care to see this man again.

My husband would do it if he ever found out I am (or was) a poor Christian woman. Please help me.

SINNER

DEAR SINNER: Be realistic. "At this opportunity to the man that you regret the 'mistake' and that it must never happen again. What's done, cannot be undone. As a Christian, you know that Jesus forgave an adulteress. ("Go, and sin no more.") John 8:11.

DEAR ABBY: I like "A" but I don't love him. I love "B" but I don't like him. I am 28 years old and I'm not getting any younger. I can have either one of them. My mother says I'm better off marrying "A" because he's going to be older and will look after me, and in time I can learn to love him.

But how about my marrying "B" — the guy I love? He's kind of shy and bends with the wind, but maybe in time I can learn to love him.

DEAR ABBY: Your mother is right. Your chances for learning to love a responsible man you "like" are far better than your chances for learning to like an irresponsible man you "love." (At 28 you're not ready for the rocking chair there could be a "mim" in your future — and Mom)

DEAR ABBY: We recently bought a lovely home directly across the street from a mortuary. People attend funerals there park their cars in front of our house. If we happen to be outside doing yard work they give us dirty looks as if we had no right to be there. One lady saw me shaking a throw rug and said, "Don't you have any respect for the dead?" I'm busy in my home, Abby, and there is always something going on there. What are we supposed to do?

Rupert Miss, Haight Recite Nuptial Vows

RUPERT — Lynda Fagg, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fagg, Rupert, and John Haight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luauw Haight, Butley, exchanged nuptial vows in rites Aug. 23 at the Rupert First, Methodist Church.

The evening ceremony was performed by Rev. Warren McCannell.

The church was decorated with beauty baskets and arrangements of white gladioli and blue chrysanthemums. A spiral canopied with white tapers accented the chapel.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown designed by her and made by her mother.

The shirwaist bodice was made of white tulle and the full sleeves closed with wide cuffs. Silver chain links that belonged to the bride's grandfather, the late W. E. Ravenscroft, adorned the gown.

The veil was of white tulle, with three tiers and hand-held stems around each tier. The half-crown was covered with white tulle and decorated with hand-sewn seed pearls and sequins.

The bride carried a colonial bridal bouquet of blue feathered carnations, daisies and white flowers. White satin streamers tied with loveknits accented the arrangement.

Sandy Fagg, sister of the bride, officiated. Her friend, Carol Hanchett, school friend of the bride, and Karen Rember, sorority sister of the bride, as bridesmaids, wore white dresses. The chocolate angel food cake was made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Fern Ravenscroft. The cake was decorated in white with blue and white silver-tipped flowers and tiny sprigs of lilies of the valley. The cake was flanked with epergnes arranged with white papers and bouquets of white gladioli and white echninops.

GOP 'Truth Squad' Follows Humphrey

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — A Republican "Truth Squad" started digging the trail of Democratic presidential candidate Hubert H. Humphrey Monday in Salt Lake City.

Hugh Scott, R-Pa., Truth Squad chairman said the group "would listen with interest to what Humphrey says, examine what he said in previous circumstances, listen to the clichés and try to determine the language to find the content."

Other squad members were co-chairman Rep. Donald Rumsfeld, R-Ill.; Gov. John Love of Colorado and Rep. Robert Taft, Jr., R-Ohio.

Scott criticized the abrupt resignation of George Ball, former U.S. ambassador to the United Nations, calling it an insult and "showing a lack of respect for the international community."

Taft suggested Humphrey persuaded Ball to join him in a "deal with the Johnson administration over Vietnam policy. He said if the vice president wanted to denounce Johnson's Vietnam policy he should do so himself rather than through a press action."

Scott said Nixon was anxious to debate Humphrey, but did not want to engage in "misuse of the debate which would include third party presidential candidate George Wallace."

Whom Scott said would use the time only for his own advantage.

Love said the protesters who have constantly heckled Humphrey: "Somehow this kind of display has become almost a hallmark of the administration and his is the kind of thing this administration's policies have given rise to."

Humphrey owes it to the country to have the courage and will to say so if he is more liberal than Johnson on the Vietnam issue, Scott said.

Members said the main difference between Nixon and Humphrey on Vietnam was the reaction of how to solve the question.

Rumsfeld said it appeared Humphrey would continue Johnson's course, while Nixon had been making full use of the Paris peace talks and taking a fresh look at U.S. commitments.

Humphrey for what seemed his "public and private positions on Vietnam," saying the vice president had not said he would support Johnson's Vietnam policy, yet rumors from Humphrey people had hinted at such a break.

Taft called Humphrey's actions on Vietnam a chance "to have his foot in both doors."

The squad left Utah in the afternoon for Kansas City, Mo.

'No Hope'

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey, Democratic candidate and state party official Monday said "if the election were held today, we wouldn't have a prayer."

The Democratic presidential candidate added that the election is still five weeks away, but exhorted his audience.

"Somebody better get out and help."

The vice president pictured himself as the "lonesome ranger" in his coast-to-coast quest for votes.

Ky's 'Youth' Sentenced In Fraud Case

SAIGON (AP) — Several former leaders of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's Antifraud Youth were sentenced by a military court Monday to three to seven years at hard labor.

They were found guilty of fraud in the trafficking in fake draft exemptions for about 600 members of the Antifraud Youth group by Ky in 1965 when he was minister of youth.

The 3rd Corps Military Court acquitted five other members of the group. All of them had been arrested last February.

VICE PRESIDENT Hubert Humphrey shown with his attending physician, Dr. Edgar Berman. Campaigning 1968 is tough, and has taken its toll in flu and wounded knees already.

Campaigning Can Destroy A Man's Good Health, Outlook

By M. J. WILSON (Newspaper Feature Service)

Every profession has its occupational hazards. With modern football players, it seems to be knee injuries. With patrolmen, it's foot trouble. And with advertising executives, it can be liver problems from all those long, wet lunches.

But no civilian profession makes more physical demands on a man—or exposes him to a wider variety of ailments—than that of Presidential campaigner.

Fatigue is only the most obvious ill that flesh is heir to. Constant contact with crowds provides perils that would give an immunologist pause. An ever-changing diet can make a color rebel. Alternate blasts of hotel-room air conditioners and city heat can bring on various infections.

Already during the current campaign, George Wallace has had two serious cases of flu. Hubert Humphrey was laid low with a virus and Richard Nixon had an alarming though short-lived case of the sniffles in California.

Most candidates try to ward off illnesses by including physicians among their traveling retinues. Nixon, for instance, who fell has enlisted a rotating team of four doctors. They were chosen on the basis of their personal friendships with Nixon and their all-round medical expertise (although one of them, Dr. John J. Brasino, brings Nixon the rather irrelevant skills of a gynecologist).

One of the four doctors is with the GOP candidate at all times. And their chief job is to see that he doesn't overtax himself as he did during the 1960 campaign when he reached near-exhaustion: fulfilling a quixotic pledge to visit all 50 states, partly on the doctor's advice, Nixon is restricting his schedule of appearances this year so that he will always look and feel as refreshed as possible.

George Wallace's doctor, a Montgomery internist named Dr. H. Hamilton Hutchinson, does not travel with the candidate, but he keeps close tabs on him because of his tendency toward respiratory infections. Aside from some "slight" dizziness, says Dr. Hutchinson, Wallace "is as tough physically as he is on 'Meet the Press.'"

Even the toughest man can succumb to the pressures of campaigning. In the 1960 election, John Kennedy once displayed a bruised and discolored right hip after a swing through the Midwest—the price paid for greeting myriad well-wishers. In the same campaign, Richard Nixon banged his knee on a car door and developed a staphylococcus infection which kept him in bed for ten critical and irremediable days.

The most colorful of the traveling doctors is Vice President

Skirts Praised

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Motorists may aid traffic safety, says the Arizona Traffic Safety Division.

Its newsletter quotes the American Automobile Association as saying that since a car's headlights aim downward they "readily pick up the stockings or bare legs in the beam. Naturally the more stockings or legs exposed, the easier it is for motorists to spot and thus prevent an accident."

Sen. Jordan Voices Pride On River Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Len B. Jordan, R-Idaho, said he was gratified Monday at the signing by President Johnson of the Colorado River Basin Project Bill.

The Idaho senator, who sponsored an amendment to the bill prohibiting for 10 years any study of importing water into the Colorado River basin, was present at the signing.

"I am gratified that we have been able to reconcile conflicting views permitting us now to proceed with northwest water studies and to continue an orderly reclamation development program in the Southwest," Jordan said.

Law Crisis Told Through U.S.

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Law enforcement agencies in more than 100 cities are being "overextended to the point of collapse."

But murders, rapes, robberies and burglaries have very little to do with the crisis, Moylan said in a 45-page annual report.

"Many listed other crime waves as commercial fraud, traffic violations, evasions of city and state taxes, juvenile violations, nonsupport offenses, commercialized vice and crimes related to alcohol which raises the question of whether alcoholics can be guilty of crime."

"It's a kind of phenomenon," says Berman. "There are approaching 21st century problems of industrialized, sprawling urban complexes with 17th century institutions that were shaped to meet the needs of an English countryside."

Queen Seeks Censorship Of Pictures

LONDON (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II has asked British editors to refrain from publishing "personal and intimate" photographs which she has seen in a French news magazine, Buckingham Palace said.

The 16 black and white photographs include six of the queen sitting up in bed in the royal bedroom. In four she is holding infant Prince Edward, born in 1964.

It was understood in London before publication of the magazine, Paris Match, that some pictures showed her nursing the infant, but no such pictures appeared.

"The queen has requested that because of the very personal and intimate nature of the photographs they should not be shown in this country," said a palace spokesman.

"No one at the palace has any idea how they came to be available to the French magazine." A French Match spokesman in London said the photographs were "in perfect taste." They are all very dignified pictures which tell their own story of the life of the royal family at the time of the birth of Prince Edward.

ROOSTER 'AXED'

BRADFORD, Pa. (AP) — After publication of the magazine, got the ax because city law prohibits the keeping of fowl inside the city limits, a health official, B. Wanner, said. "That's one bird that isn't going to get any body out of bed at dawn anymore."

RETURN TO REASON

VOTE REPUBLICAN

Do you recall how Pope John fathered an improved fraternal feeling between people of all faiths? Recall how, for the first time in history, he — a man Catholic Pope — was welcomed by leaders of religions: Catholics, Jews and Protestants alike? Ever since, we have seen growing evidence that the time has come for religious unity may come day became a fact.

For example, a while back, a news report told how 2000 Christian clergymen joined Jewish leaders in authoring a letter to Soviet authorities. Signed by the latter included leaders of seven large Protestant denominations and three Roman Catholic cardinals. Their letter condemned Soviet anti-Semitism. Even while their own religions were being restricted in the Soviet, this mixed (but not mixed up) group pleaded for Jewish freedom of worship. And not too long ago, Catholic, Protestant, Orthodox and Jewish clergymen addressed a throng of 10,000 people of all faiths in Washington in a demonstration of protest against Soviet anti-Semitism. The act of Jewish clergymen offers a hope for all God loving people everywhere.

Olympic Hoop Team Has No Big Name Stars; Will Count On Unknowns

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States basketball team in contention for Olympic play will go into this year's games with out any of its sports top names and for the first time will not be favored to take the gold medal. "But don't say it too loud. They think they're favored," says Henry Iba, one of the nation's top coaches at Oklahoma State and the 1958 mentor of the Olympians. "I think we have the best players," Iba, who also coached the victorious Olympic squad in 1960, said after his youngsters knocked off the National Basketball Association, 65-64 in overtime Saturday night. Sunday, the Olympians were beaten by another NBA club, Cincinnati, 63-53. "We'll do the best we can," said Iba, 64, whose college team lost only 237. "These boys have heart, desire and self-discipline. They want to play."

Some of the glimmer names in the United States Olympic basketball team are the National Basketball Association's Lee Abcinder, Lucius Allen and Mike Warren of national champion U.S.A. Westley "Shoel" Louisville, Elvin "Hayes" Houston, Neil Walk, Florida, and Don May, Dayton.

Hoop Sure Of Good Week In Comeback

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE — The Air Force victory over Wyoming and thus is our weekly champion. There were five tied for second with two misses and this week as a winner. I feel confident that my success is only around the corner—perhaps this week.

It has been a long time since I concentrated too much on the big games last week and neglected my homework on the lesser lights. The bright lights, as it were, blinded me and the games proved my undoing. It was not that way for Connie Glenn of Buryly who missed

Some claimed they couldn't afford to miss school work, others didn't have time because of the feud between amateur organizations, while a few signed professional contracts.

The rebounding will fall into the hands of 6-foot-8 center Spencer Hayward, from Trinity College, who scored 17 and 12 points against the NBA clubs and held his own under the boards. Hayward's understudy will be Ken Spain from Houston, 6-9, and forwards Bill Hosker, 6-7 1/2, Ohio State; Mike Silliman, 6-7, U.S. Army; Don Dec, 6-7, St. Mary of the Plains; and James King, 6-7 of the AAU Akron Goodyears.

Packers Need Consistency For Comeback

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — "Little things mean a lot" was a popular song a few years ago. The Green Bay Packers were singing the same tune Monday.

The "little things" resulted Sunday in Green Bay's 23-17 loss to the Detroit Lions. The defeat left the defending National Football League champions with a 1-2 record and tied for last in the Central Division.

"Basically, we have to score more points and allow fewer," Packers Coach Phil Bengtson said. "We have to get more consistent," he said, analyzing his team's defeat. "In order to win we're going to have to eliminate the little mistakes."

Defensive end Willie Davis echoed the coach. "We are at a point where we are still an inch away," Davis said. "Whatever sacrifice we have to make to get that one inch will have to be done."

"We need a real shot in the arm," Bengtson said.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Looking like a beached whale, 304-pound Paul Anderson straddled his cot. And the cot creaked out of sheer fright, Anderson raised his eyes heavily to his coach and asked thickly, "What will it take to win?"

When Anderson, limp and lumpy, wobbled out to the weightlifting platform and, puffing and agonizingly, raised 392.25 pounds in the final lift to win the 1958 Olympic gold medal for the United States in the heavyweight class, at Melbourne, he had come down with a strange virus in my ear and throat," recalled Anderson recently at his home in Vidalia, Ga. "I say strange because I was immune to all that. My equilibrium was affected. I couldn't stand erect. And I had lost 30 pounds that week."

BRIDGE IS GAME OF COUNTING

Bridge is a game of 13. There are 13 cards in each suit, 13 in each hand, and 13 tricks. One test of bridge ability is how well one can count 13.

ender holds four cards in both hands, he will be squeezed. Furthermore the jack of clubs may drop doubleton. All-in all, it's a pleasant prospect.

None of these things happen but the contract is still a sure thing.

South cashes his high spades and hearts. West shows out on the second spade, and East on the second heart. West has two hearts on the spades, East drops two spades on the hearts.

This means that each player started with seven cards in the majors and left with a total of six cards in the minors.

Now South cashes two more diamonds. East shows out on the third diamond so he must have started with four clubs, and South knows that West started with exactly two clubs.

He cashes his ace of clubs, leads a club to dummy's king and finishes against the lack of clubs for his 13th trick.

A white rat takes about 10 regular naps a day. A rabbit stage star? A No. 1 don't drop! As for earthworms, don't mixed up with one of those know-how-many-naps-they-Broadway-columnists. While on take, because it's not easy to the topic, however, might inter-ject that earthworms take more naps than a doctor. Miss Frances Woods of Youngstown, O. She worked in igly regular about its naps, her barb feet beside a piano however. So regular, in fact, and picked-up-the-rhythms-with that if you cut such a worm in half, both halves subsequently will take their naps at the same time. I read that in a book.

Nixon Proves Adept Candidate On TV

DETROIT (AP) — "Live and in color," the announcer intones, but while the preface is familiar, the television show is not. A national evening news situation politics starring Richard M. Nixon.

The situation—the Republican nominee for the White House spends an hour standing before a panel of six or seven voters, answering their questions about his views and his plans.

So far, Nixon has faced state-wide television hookups in Illinois, Ohio, California, Pennsylvania and Monday night, Michigan.

One-time football coach Bud Wilkinson is the moderator. "No one has any idea what questions will be asked and Mr. Nixon could not possibly know," Wilkinson said in opening the Detroit program. "His answers must be immediate and direct. They are, but in most instances the questions are predictable. Often, they have been asked of Nixon before, in another state, on another program.

Sometimes, a segment of the Nixon campaign speech supplies the answer. It did, for example, when Dr. Richard Ferrara of Gross Pointe asked Nixon what he would do as President to help middle-class Americans who the doctor said seem to have been forgotten.

In every speech, Nixon talks of the forgotten American, and he was ready for that one. "A President must represent all the people," he said. "I believe he must make it clear that you don't have to break the law in order to get some attention."

Nixon, who has mastered jokes about his performance in televised debates with the late John F. Kennedy—eight years ago, is practiced, polished and adept in his 1968 format.

He stands on a blue platform, only a step above the panel, gesturing—of emphasis, producing a statistic here, a quip there.

So, for example, when a questioner pressed him in Detroit as to why he and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey can't get their friends in Congress to pass a satisfactory measure for soft coal miners today while dissendants manned picket lines at scattered pits.

Nixon's answer was to urge the miners surrounding Johnstown, Pa., were closed late Monday, the day the old contract was to have expired or, originally, to be renegotiated.

Boyle said Monday that a public hearing on the Highway and Law Enforcement Budget of $1.7 billion is being held at the Idaho Department of Highways Office at 2:00 p.m. today.

Czechs Out American Newsmen

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — A number of Western correspondents, including Peter Rehak of The Associated Press, are being forced to leave Czechoslovakia.

The Czechoslovak government has notified them that their visas will not be extended.

Rehak, 32, scored a world news beat in the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia on Aug. 20. He was born in Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, and is fluent in the languages of his native country. He re-established the AP bureau in Prague last April. After leaving Prague, he will be reassigned by the AP.

The remaining Associated Press correspondent in Prague is Gene Kramer, who went to Czechoslovakia soon after the invasion. Kramer previously was stationed in Poland and West Germany.

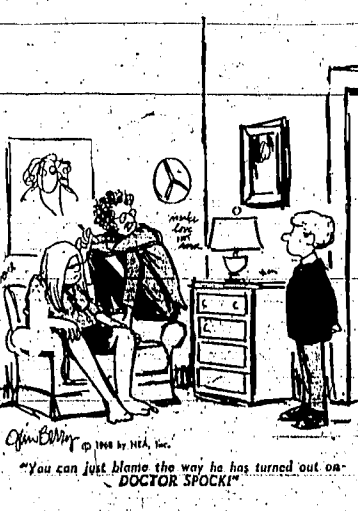

In Prague, Czechoslovak sources said a decision had been reached to cut down on the sizable number of foreign correspondents reporting developments of the occupation and to make it more difficult for Western journalists to enter the country.

Newsmen in Prague who inquired were told unofficially that Czechoslovakia is reviving a system to issue visas to newsmen in a close screening of applications for journalist visas, including scrutiny of what a reporter has written in Czechoslovakia in the past two years ago. It involves close screening of applications for journalist visas, including scrutiny of what a reporter has written in Czechoslovakia in the past two years ago.

Church Says Army Abandons Atomic Test At Idaho Dam

IDAHO FALLS (AP) — Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Monday he has been notified by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers that it is abandoning plans for an experimental nuclear excavation test at a proposed Idaho water project.

Use of nuclear energy had been suggested as a means of providing fill material for the proposed 100-ft. high dam on the Middle Fork of the Boise River. The dam has not yet been authorized and Church said he was advised that engineers are withdrawing their suggestion that it might include nuclear excavation.

The Twin Springs Dam on the Boise River has not been authorized. It has not been submitted to either the state or Congress for formal hearings.

Church was notified of the decision by the Army Engineers while campaigning in the Idaho Falls area. He seeks re-election to a third term.

Church is a co-sponsor of legislation which would establish a comprehensive program for control of alcoholism, which he said now affects five to six million Americans. The legislation provides grants to aid educational institutions in caring for alcoholics.

Church stated that Congress has passed legislation requiring that all cigarette packages be labeled to show the possible danger to smokers. He said he believes "stricter danger warnings are needed."

Negotiators For Miners Seek Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators hoped for agreement on soft coal miners today while dissendants manned picket lines at scattered pits.

Union mines surrounding Johnstown, Pa., were closed late Monday, the day the old contract was to have expired or, originally, to be renegotiated.

Boyle said Monday that a public hearing on the Highway and Law Enforcement Budget of $1.7 billion is being held at the Idaho Department of Highways Office at 2:00 p.m. today.

Agnew Urges Clark Ouster In Crime Fight

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — Gov. James F. Ahearn has urged the removal of Ramsey Clark as U.S. attorney general and has proposed a five-point program to combat crime.

The Republican vice-presidential candidate told 1,500 to 2,500 persons at a rally in downtown Toledo Monday that Clark's nomination to crime in the streets apparently "is to widen the sidewalk."

The Maryland governor then said "we must replace Mr. Clark with a new attorney general—a man dedicated to providing the tools that will break the multitude of organized crime syndicates."

A crackdown on narcotics violators.

Emphasis on making the District of Columbia a model, crime-free city.

Mandatory prison sentences for persons convicted of committing a crime involving use of a gun.

Provision of a higher standard of moral leadership in the federal government.

Agnew endorsed federal gun control legislation to disarm criminals and to provide records of mental disorders, but termed the blanket registration of handguns and rifles "an exercise of futility."

Admitted Slayer Married In Court

CHICAGO (AP) — A 23-year-old man who pleaded guilty to a murder charge was married in the criminal court before Monday, then allowed to spend an hour with his bride before being taken back to the Cook County Jail.

The convict, Aaron Long, who was sentenced six weeks ago to serve 15 to 40 years, is now awaiting transfer to the state penitentiary.

Long pleaded guilty on the condition that he be allowed to marry Barbara Funches, 23, before the marriage ceremony.

Long and his bride spent quietly for an hour in a rear chamber of the courtroom, guarded by a ballist.

Chicago Riot Probe May Offer Lively Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Committee on Un-American Activities has probed into the disturbances during the Democratic National Convention in Chicago could result in some wild sessions if the panel's controversially marked history is an indication.

Called to appear before a special panel of the committee, which opened a week's worth of hearings today, are several antiwar protesters who produced some of the committee's most raucous hours two years ago.

Jerry Rubin, now a leader of the Youth International Party or Yippies, appeared at the 1966 hearings into antiwar protests in a rented Revolutionary War uniform and was thrown out, along with 50 other persons.

Last week Rubin and Thomas E. Hayden, founder of the Students for a Democratic Society, which has campaigned for abolition of HUAC, burned their committee subpoenas on the University of California—Berkeley campus.

Both, however, have said they would appear and there have been several reports that groups of demonstrators might try to disrupt the hearings.

In light of the reports and because of the past incidents, the committee has taken special security precautions in hopes of heading off disturbances.

Space in the hearing room is limited to 25 newsmen and only 75 spectators. The news people will need special passes to leave and re-enter the room, and there have been reports that the other onlookers will need special credentials to get in.

Also scheduled to appear are David Dellinger, Rennie Davis and Robert Greenblatt of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, and Abbie Hoffman, of the Yippies.

Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley has also been asked to testify.

The hearings were called after police and antiwar demonstrators battled in Chicago's streets. The demonstrators charged the police with brutality, while Daley said the protesters were led by elements devoted to the violent disruption of the convention.

In the 30 years since the committee was set up, it has been involved in constant vitriolic disagreements over its tactics, goals and even its right to exist.

Most of the controversy, particularly since World War II, has involved communism and internal security, although in its early days the committee looked into alleged Nazi influence in the country. More recently it has investigated such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan.

In its history, the committee has never had a proposed law approved by Congress.

Richard M. Nixon, then a representative from California, gained national prominence as a committee member during the 1948 "Pumpkin Paper" hearings every year to withhold money which led to the perjury conviction of Alger Hiss, a high State Department official charged with lying when he testified. It was not a Communist.

Americans for Democratic Action, as well as SDS, have urged abolition of the committee. The American Civil Liberties Union has criticized the committee's procedures.

Several people have tried unsuccessfully to have the congressional abolition of the committee declared unconstitutional. Some congressmen try to withhold money from the committee. The attempt failed 343 to 44 this year.

Cartoon Mascot Loses Position

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP) — George, the cartoon mascot of the United Fund of Forsyth County, has lost his job.

His slogan of "Everyone's for George because George is for everyone" has been replaced by "your fair share gift to the United Fund helps 40 member agencies."

The reason for the change: Some people have been confusing the United Fund's George with another George—former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace who is the third party candidate for president.

got carried away with school spirit when he Seth Williams at Hillsdale, Mont.—His appearance at game. (AP wirephoto)
