Scientists Voice Warning That 'Quiet' Volcanoes Like Mt. Hood Could Explode

BY VOLCANO C. HARRISON
 An eruption of Mt. Hood, Ore., could be a big sign for California's Mt. Lassen. "DANGER" is the mountain's expected to blow up?
 The sign would surely meet with the same indifference given the men with the scientific warning that the end of the world is at hand.
 Or the indifference accorded Vesuvius before it audaciously exploded on Aug. 24, 79 A.D. and buried under ashes for more than 1,000 years the cities of Pompeii and Herculaneum.
 Vine-clad Vesuvius had been dormant so many hundreds of years it was not even recognized as a volcano.
 Yet Mt. Lassen, in north-central California, is an active volcano, the only one in the continental United States.
 Alaska. It erupted intermittently from 1914 to 1921. Today hot springs flow from its flanks and melt pools bubble and belch. Lakes boil in the area and vents from deep under the mountain spew steam and sulphur.
 Scientists at the U.S. Geological Survey field office in Menlo Park prophesy a catastrophic eruption—if not by Lassen but by another sleeping volcano in the Cascade Range stretching north to Mt. Baker in Washington.
 "The danger is when they can't. No force in nature is more unpredictable at this time than a dormant volcano, says Dr. William E. Brimley, director of the University of Oregon's Center for Volcanology.
 McBirney looks at Portland, Ore., and shudders.
 "Volcanoes with no record of activity are not only more difficult to study; they are commoner types when they finally erupt," he says.
 When Mt. Pelee exploded on Martinique in the West Indies May 8, 1902, fiery gases and volcanic dust swept down its slopes and in two minutes wiped out 28,000 inhabitants. The lone survivor was a prisoner in a poorly ventilated jail cell.
 Lassen has a 100-foot diameter crater in the Cascade chain, boasts one of the world's largest plug domes, a vertical lava flow that oozed out almost continuously and hardened above the crater rim.
 "Subsequent eruptions from plug domes are among the most dangerous known," warns a Geological Survey pamphlet. The plug, like a champagne cork, has built up a tremendous build-up that finally bursts forth violently, followed by swift avalanches of incandescent lava blocks.
 "Such avalanches may travel at speeds up to 100 miles an hour and devastate everything in their path," says the pamphlet. It was that kind of eruption that destroyed Saint Pierre.
 Volcanoes like Mt. Pelee, Baker, Lassen and Shasta, geologists consider the most likely to blow their tops violently.
 "Most subsequent composite volcanoes, many appearing dead through historic time, have blown in volcanism's strongest known explosions."

Mexican Students Slow Riot Actions

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Students burned trolley cars near an Olympic field and armored cars count cases in the apartment buildings were snafus had held up, but most of the Mexican capital was quiet.

Despite the eruption of the student rebellion into a shooting battle with army troops Wednesday night, the Olympic games still were set to open a week from Saturday.

"As guests of Mexico, we have full confidence that the Mexican people will join the participants and spectators in celebrating the games, a veritable oasis in a troubled world," said Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, after an emergency meeting of the committee.

Police reported that the rioters and police stations showed at least 27 persons killed in Wednesday night's fighting and 100 wounded. Brundage reported death tolls as high as 40. There was no official estimate of the number wounded, but it appeared to be in the thousands. Various sources reported between 1,000 and 1,500 arrested.

The government has reported 20 deaths. Gen. Marcelino Garcia Barragan, secretary of Defense, said one of the dead was a soldier.

RIOT injuries were reported in Thursday's incidents. Students burned three streetcars in front of the Aztec Stadium where Olympic soccer games will be played, and fled before police made any arrests. Hit-and-run gunmen fired apparently random sprays of bullets in various sections of the city.

A noise bomb, which did no damage, exploded on the eastern side of the city, so far as it was known, without any violence that has occurred since the students went on strike two months ago, charging government repression and police brutality.

Besides armored cars at the Plaza of Three Cultures, there were signs of continued unrest.

The Mexican Olympic organizing committee placed a police guard on the streets of several Olympic sites. And a costly police force of several hundred soldiers stood guard at some Olympic sites. And a costly police force of several hundred soldiers stood guard at some Olympic sites.

Ballots

of the 25,000 county ballots.

He said at least a month is needed to assure the return of the ballots by Nov. 5.

He said that he is taking under advisement a request for the name change on the ballots. He also advised county clerks who have already had ballots printed to delay doing so until the matter is resolved.

Mr. Cenarrusa said that if a name change is required, the attorney general's office has said that stickers may be placed on the already printed ballots.

The cost of stickers for the 25,000 Twin Falls County ballots would be between $40 and $50, printers said.

The ballots, which were completed by the Twin Falls County, were delivered Friday morning. Mr. Lancaster said his office already has addressed envelopes to overseas residents and that the ballots will be mailed out later in the day with Mr. Griffin's name still on them.

"I would think," he said, "that AIP party members would be just as anxious as the Democrats to get their names on the overseas voters' a check to get them in the mail for the election on Nov. 5."

There are between 200 and 300 overseas residents who will be mailed Twin Falls County ballots.

The names of AIP candidates were certified to Mr. Lancaster Sept. 5, the deadline for those candidates not selected in a primary election.

However, one of the inequities in Idaho's election laws is a provision that names of candidates are certified to the secretary of state not more than 30 days after a political party's nominating convention. "I've never heard of a party nominating convention that has held out that long," said Mr. Griffin.

Idaho election law also states that when stickers must be used on the task of affixing the stickers falls to election judges at the various polling places.

Mr. Cenarrusa said Thursday that he had previously consulted an attorney for Mr. Wallace on the matter, and the attorney said he believed that AIP Election could cast votes for LeMay, even though Mr. Griffin's name was on the ballot.

The attorney-general's office, however, has questioned the legality of that procedure.

Joseph Stump Jr., Twin Falls, AIP chairman, has advised Mr. Cenarrusa that a recent certification listing LeMay as the AIP presidential nominee will be forwarded.

Air West

862 was an all-time record, compared with 1,120 last September.

Other record September totals were: Lewiston, 1,801 up from 1,307 a year ago; Twin Falls, 1,000 up from 700 (752); Sun Valley, 456 (314); Idaho Falls, 891 (757); Moscow, Pullman, 1,214 (723).

System-wide, West carried over 2 million passengers in September and set a third quarter high of 825,240 passengers, an increase of 89,350 in September over the same month last year.

Las Vegas was the busiest port in Air West's 10,000-mile system. Its September boardings were 1.1 percent over the same month last year, with a total of 33,400 for the month and a high of 100,340 for the third quarter.

Twin Falls was also cited for passenger increases in September. In September Air West operated 77 stations with a fleet of 34 aircraft over routes now measuring 10,000 miles.

Hippie Priest Cites Candidacy

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Self-proclaimed hippie priest Charles Brown, who ate a breakfast of state-owned flowers, announced this morning a new phase of his political life. He said he is a candidate for the state assembly in California.

Brown's real name is Charles Brown. He wears robes, a beard, and says he is a priest of the New American Church.

Brown's announcement was made on the state capitol grounds in Sacramento, where he called them disciples, chewed on carnations and penned white meeting reporters.

He said he is a candidate for the state assembly in California.

Brown has been in Salt Lake City most of the summer to organize what he calls the "Path of the Rainbow Path."

He had been in the city long before police charged that he was carrying marijuana in the trunk of his car.

The case is still in court.

Filipinos Stage Air Base Protest

CLARK AIR FORCE BASE, Philippines (AP)—About 2,000 Filipinos, protesting base policies, staged a demonstration today to demand the main gate of this big U.S. military installation about 75 miles north of Manila.

The demonstrators, including students from Manila and residents of Angeles, the boom town which adjoins the base, carried placards demanding the base commander, Col. Ernest Pals.

The rally, the second of its kind in four days, came about a month after a curfew imposed by base authorities following a series of incidents in Angeles and the vicinity involving American servicemen, including shootings, killings and fights.

"The curfew has resulted in lost revenue for the cities. More than 100 Philippine Constabulary troopers, including a special anti-riot squad with water cannon shields, guarded the main gate to the base.

"The demonstration continued about 2 1/2 hours. No one was hurt."

Shoshone Makes Plans For Sewer

By MELBA THORNE
Times-News Correspondent
SHOSHONE — The Barrows, Smith Co. has been retained by Shoshone City Council to assist in the issuance of sale of bonds for a sewer system for the city.

The ordinance raising the company water rate to assist the city with the project, at the conclusion of which, if the bond issue carries, if the bond issue carries, they will receive a rate and if it does not, they will receive nothing.

The assistance will be given in such things as a study of proposed methods of financing the project, clerical services, opinions secured from bond attorneys, maturity schedule preparation, pay for printing of bonds and present prospective bidders and buyers.

Hansen Cites Importance Of Election

State Senator Orval Hansen, Republican candidate for Congress, made campaign stops Thursday in Twin Falls and Lincoln counties.

During his visit with the Twin Falls County Republican Central Committee he said, "Members of the committee, I am glad to see you here. Representatives and not the present members will choose the next President if no candidate receives a majority of the electoral votes on Dec. 16."

"The candidate with the largest number of popular votes in a state, even though less than a majority, will vote for the state's electoral votes," Sen. Hansen explained. "The nation's 535 electors will meet to cast their votes on Dec. 16."

"The law provides that Congress shall meet on the following Jan. 6 to canvass and certify the results of the balloting by the presidential electors," Sen. Hansen said. "Thus, if no candidate receives a majority of the electoral vote it will be the duty of the House of Representatives to choose the next President."

Sen. Hansen concentrated on the farm problems while in the Lincoln County area.

"The dangerous increase in farm debt has more than doubled since 1960, the last year of the Eisenhower administration," Sen. Hansen declared. "It has jumped to more than 50 billion dollars and is still climbing at an alarming rate. In 1967 alone the net gain per farm income per farm went down by $803."

"Inflationary policies of the Johnson-Hunter administration have contributed to the increased cost of production," Sen. Hansen noted. "During the past eight years interest on 10 per cent while taxes and capital expenditures per acre have risen by 55 per cent."

Unless there is a prompt reversal of the upward trend in farm income, many more family farm units will disappear and more millions of farmers will be driven from the soil and forced to abandon their way of living," Sen. Hansen added.

Janss Named To Direct Fund Drive

William C. Janss, chairman of the board of Sun Valley Co., Inc., has been appointed chairman of the College of Idaho friends division for the current operating funds finance campaign. J. L. Scott, Boise, general chairman of the drive, announced this week.

Janss, who has encouraged cooperative cultural and recreational programs between the college and the Sun Valley operation, in accepting the appointment, said, "I am eager to help the college's liberal arts program which brings such high credit to the state of Idaho. I am a producer of an institution similar to the College of Idaho and I am sure that the needs of the privately endowed colleges must keep pace with increased costs to provide quality education for which they are noted."

Janss is co-chairman of the board of corporation which purchased Sun Valley from the Union Pacific Railroad in 1964. Last March he became chairman of the new corporation.

U.S. Still Hopes For Moon Jaunt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Space agency officials say they still hope to have an American on the moon next year, despite congressional spending cuts.

James E. Webb, director of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, and Dr. Thomas O. Paine, deputy administrator, testified Thursday before a Senate committee.

Paine said the agency plans to stage a test flight of a moon ship by March at the latest.

Mother Waits Look At Tots

BIRMINGHAM, England (AP) — The mother of Britain's first sextuplets sat up in her hospital bed Thursday and read dozens of telegrams from well-wishers throughout the world as she waited for her first look at her five surviving babies.

Doctors described the condition of Sheila Ann Thorns as satisfactory but said Mrs. Thorns was still too weak to see the six infants—who are the 50-50 chance of surviving their first critical week in incubators.

The four girls and two boys were born by Caesarian section within three minutes Wednesday, their mother's 36th birthday, after a fertility drug had helped end 10 years of childless marriage for the parents. One girl, the last born, died within an hour.

Costly Wait

NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y. (AP) — Four election-board employees, each paid $20 a day, are waiting for the only resident of the 2nd Ward's 6th district to register for the November balloting.

The district is in a downtown urban renewal area that was cleared recently of all-but-these homes. Two of them are vacant and the third is occupied by a man "who hasn't registered for an election yet," City Clerk Daniel White said.

The registration period started Thursday and runs through Saturday. White called the expenditure of $240 for the four registration workers "outrageous," but election-board officials said the law required that all districts be manned.

BERKELEY, Calif.—The real danger of the vicious disputes over Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver is that for the first time faculty and students on the Berkeley campus may form a solid front against the Board of Regents, leading to massive confrontation and chaos.

Board of Regents, leading to massive confrontation and chaos. Cleaver, the author of "Soul On Ice," is now scheduled to go on trial Dec. 2 for attempted murder and assault in a shoot-out between police and Black Panthers last April. He was chosen by a faculty committee to give ten lectures in an experimental course on racism (Social Analysis 193X), led by Gov. Ronald Reagan, outraged members of the Board of Regents who were barely prevented by a tie vote from banning any appearance at all by Cleaver. Instead, the Regents voted to let Cleaver give a single lecture, a compromise that left all sides angry.

on campus and no radical youth movement in the nation. The protesters fought alone. Likewise, in 1964, when the Free Speech Movement was launched by Mario Savio, the faculty was involved in only minor ways. There was no union.

Up In The Cloud

Chances are strong that within five years there will be a bustling molybdenum mining operation at the base of Castle Peak in the White Cloud area of the Challis National Forest—and there's nothing anyone can do to stop it.

The White Cloud area is one of the choice wilderness-type recreation sites on the Challis and Sawtooth National Forests, and the thought of a mining operation in its very heart brings screams of anguish from wilderness-lovers, sportsmen—and conservationists.

Their first reaction will be to jump with both feet on the Forest Service. Why did the Forest Service let something happen? Why did they wait so long to do something to protect this choice area? Why don't they do something now to block plans for the mine?

The answer is simple, and not very satisfying to the people asking these questions. The Forest Service doesn't have any say in the matter. Their hands are tied by the federal mining laws, which permit prospecting and mining of valid mineral claims on all public lands under control of the Forest Service and the Bureau of Land Management.

According to the mining laws, the Forest Service can't interfere with the mining operations at all. About the only thing it can do is specify the location of any road the miners may build into the area, and even in this they have to designate a feasible route.

Even if the White Cloud area could have been granted some kind of special "wilderness" designation, it wouldn't have stopped mining operations. The Wilderness Bill, which will give certain forest areas the greatest protection they ever have had, still allows mining exploration and operation for 15 years.

About the only rights the Forest Service does have in keeping tabs on mining claims is in questioning the validity of the claim. Purpose of this is to keep anyone from filing a mining claim on Forest Service land and then using it for other purposes, such as cutting the timber on it, or using it for a summer home site, or some other non-mining purpose.

If the claim is valid—if there is a legitimate mineral deposit present—the Forest Service hands are tied. The miner can prospect as much as he wants to and in any way he wants to. He can use any type of mining operation he wants to get his mineral out of the ground. He can build a mill on his claim, he can cut all the trees on his claim and use the timber for his mining operation. If he wants to, he can patent the claim over the required period of time and gain title to it, even though it is in the heart of a prime forest area.

About the best thing the Forest Service can do is to try to try and talk the miners into conducting the operations in such a way that it will have the least possible impact on the surrounding area. In the White Cloud area, the Forest Service was able to get unusual cooperation in this respect from the American Smelting and Refining Co., which is conducting the mining operation at Castle Peak.

Marvin Larson, Clayton District ranger, convinced the company's representatives they should transport their personnel and equipment for the exploratory phase of the operation by helicopter, rather than bulldozing a road into the area, as they would have had a right to do under the mining laws.

This still may not set well with a lot of people. Many may feel that prime recreational areas should be jealously protected for the future use of the country's rapidly expanding population.

It is the job and the responsibility of the Forest Service to provide this protection, but it has to be done within the framework of existing federal laws. If people feel strongly enough about it that they want something done, they can expend their energies in much better ways than by jumping on the Forest Service. The Forest Service already is doing everything it can, but is boxed in by the mining laws.

A much better course for people who want tighter protection for scenic and recreational areas is to work through their congressmen to modernize and change the mining laws to conform to present conditions. It won't change the situation at Castle Peak, but it could prevent the same thing from happening elsewhere.

How Goes It, Spiro?

But when the fall term registration started here last week, the campus seemed with only one issue: Cleaver and the Regents. On Tuesday night, the Free Speech Movement was launched by Mario Savio, the faculty was involved in only minor ways. There was no union.

Symptomatic of the extreme political tensions arising out of the continuing coverage of the vote in the California Assembly ten days ago censuring University of California President Charles Hitch and Berkeley experimenters in the first place. The California Senate went further. It censured the Regents Board itself for not ordering an absolute ban on Cleaver.

And yet the mere act of the Board in imposing changes in the experimental course sets a precedent. In 1970, the Board delegated all power over courses and curricula to the faculty. Social Analysis 193X, with Cleaver as chief lecturer, may have been planned to test President Hitch and the Regents and stimulate a crisis (although there is no evidence that he took no part in such challenges to authority, as the 1964-1965 Free Speech Movement).

The last hot controversy between the faculty and the Regents was the 1964-1965 Free Speech Movement.

The last hot controversy between the faculty and the Regents was the 1964-1965 Free Speech Movement.

The Flu Bug Is Coming

The invader is among us and the battle is likely to be long and bitter.

As expected, Hong Kong flu, a new wrinkle in the virus that periodically lays low multitudes throughout the world, has been identified in California and the U.S. Public Health Service warns we may be in for the worst siege since 1957.

We've had miracle drugs for decades, but flu has a longer record as something of a miracle disease. You just can't keep it down. As soon as a vaccine is developed for one strain, new varieties immune to existing treatment pop up and the search for a defense starts all over again.

Flu is one of the myriad viruses about which there is some debate in scientific circles. Are they "live" in the commonly accepted sense or merely active chemical structures? Live or not, they are certainly capable of causing havoc as millions of sufferers annually can testify.

The latest strain surfaced during the summer in Hong Kong, hence its name, and spread to Japan, Vietnam and other far points. It apparently hitchhiked across the Pacific with returning servicemen.

For most of us, flu is a nuisance—a few days of misery, nose, sore throat and aches all over. In short, the general miseries. But it can be deadly, weakening resistance to other diseases and posing the greatest threat to some highly susceptible people such as victims of lung ailments and pregnant women. In 1957, flu claimed some 10,000 American lives. In the worst epidemic on record, following World War I, an estimated 20 million died throughout the world.

Researchers are already at work on a new vaccine specifically designed for the Hong Kong virus. But it may be several months before it can be developed and distributed to doctors and clinics. By then, the invader is likely to have made heavy inroads in school, plant and office attendance.

Which means that not much is to be gained by rushing out for a shot now that may be some consolation for those among us who distrust the needle almost more than the disease, but not voodoo much.

Navy Pushes For Change-Over

WASHINGTON — The Navy, with active assistance from the Pentagon, is anxiously trying to head off a Senate-imposed slowdown in transition from the proven Polaris missile to the untried Poseidon for missile-firing submarines.

Navy spokesmen are looking to the House for action to overturn a recommendation of the Senate's powerful Appropriations Committee. The committee, wary of the Navy's previous missile failures, wants proof of Poseidon's admittedly high performance.

The controversy, aired in the committee's closed-door hearings, has already produced some of the sharpest criticism ever leveled against U.S. weapon development. Targets were the three "P's" of Navy air defense, the Talos, Tartar and Terrier anti-aircraft missiles.

Now at issue is the Pentagon's $1.1-billion, eight-year program for converting 12 of the 43-ship Polaris submarine fleet to the Poseidon missile. The larger Poseidon would take full advantage of MIRV — warheads which include several independently targeted nuclear weapons.

In its $72 billion money bill, now pending in Congress, the Pentagon included $1.4 billion for Poseidon, more than half a billion of it to finance conversion of six Polaris submarines in addition to two conversions funded a year ago.

The House approved that program, but the Senate Committee cut the conversion outlay by nearly $200 million. The committee called for two additional Polaris-Poseidon conversions for a total of four. In its official report, the committee candidly told the Senate:

"It is the view of the committee that the Navy should proceed with caution in this program until the flight test program of the Poseidon missile has clearly established its reliability."

The high defense appropriations bill is one of the major items of unfinished congressional business. Under normal circumstances the bill, once passed by the House, would have been rushed to final passage. (In theory it should have been approved by the beginning of the bookkeeping year, July 1.)

The Navy got some lobbying help, however, when it came to the House. Instead of the controversial nomination of Supreme Court Justice Abe Fortas to be Chief Justice, the Navy brass has taken full advantage of the delay.

With Pentagon experts, the Navy spokesmen have been working to convince the House Appropriations Committee that the Polaris-Poseidon conversion plan should move ahead at full speed. Rep. George H. Mason, D-Tex., chairman of the

On Meningitis

Dear Dr. Molner: Could you give me information on mumps-meningitis — encephalitis? Our child, after a long hospital stay, just doesn't seem the same. He regains energy, becomes nauseated, and is unable to eat. He has been caused by the spinal taps he had in the hospital? — Mrs. K. A. P.

Meningitis means that there is covering of the brain and spinal cord, have been affected. Encephalitis means a brain involvement.

In your case, it was the mumps virus that spread into these tissues. The same thing can happen with many of the childhood virus diseases: measles, chicken pox, German measles, influenza. That is why we warn that these "simple" diseases can have dangerous complications.

Your youngster's present symptoms are not unusual after an illness of that sort. After all, he was a very sick child.

The spinal taps were necessary to confirm the diagnosis. In his case, and it is stretching a point to think the latter, rather than the seriousness of the disease itself, are causing his alternating periods of restlessness as time passes, but there is no way to hasten their disappearance.

It is the possibility of encephalitis or other serious complications that gave such urgency to the development of vaccines against these diseases and now mumps.

Dear Dr. Molner: I am pregnant and would like to know if drinking is wrong at this time. Some say definitely no and others say never. Please give me your opinion. — Mrs. E. G.

Depends on whether you mean on occasion or habitually. Each tells us whether drinking means something else to you.

An occasional drink is not harmful in pregnancy, but in excess it is. The point is to get to the point of inebriation or "getting high," is harmful.

Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain what is meant by "the flu bug" can do for a person if taken daily. Should it be used daily? Would it be good for a person who has never heard of it? How long would it be all right to use it? Will it make a person gain weight? Is it harmful to a body? — M. H.

"It is a body of a form of food, high in some (but not all) types of protein. I do not see that it has any relationship to a heart who's heart make a person gain weight any more than a small amount of extra calories in any form will contribute to weight if it does not see how it can be used. But it does have what special good it will do either."

Dear Dr. Molner: Thank you for your booklet on gonorrhea. I have an additional question on the use of penicillin.

ART BUCHWALD

God Bless You

WASHINGTON — In the movie "The Graduate," the hero, Dustin Hoffman, is seduced by a Mrs. Robinson. Thanks to his hit song written and sung by Simon and Garfunkel, "Mrs. Robinson" has now become part of American folklore. I haven't realized the impact of the film or the song until I started talking the other day with a friend of mine who happened to have the same name.

This Mrs. Robinson, a middle-aged lady, said that because of "The Graduate," she's had a new lease on life.

"I didn't realize what was going on at first," she said, "but then one day as I paid my bill at the grocery's with a check, the young man behind the counter winked at me and started singing, 'Jesus loves you more than you will know—wo, wo, wo.'"

"A few days later, as I was getting gas for my car, I handed over my credit card and when the young man looked at it, he whistled and said, 'Where are you going tonight, Mrs. Robinson?'"

"At first I was going to complain to the manager, but then I thought to myself, 'If I got two passes in one week, there must be something more to this than I'm aware of.'"

"I discovered what was up when my teen-age son said, 'All your guys want to meet you, Mom.'"

"What on earth for?"

"He just laughed and said, 'Heaven holds a place for those who pray — hey, hey, hey, hey, hey.'"

"I got mad and said, 'Stop this kind. What's going on with you kids these days?'"

"He brought down the Simon and Garfunkel record and said, 'Go on, go on, Mrs. Robinson.'"

Mrs. Robinson continued: "When I heard the record I was flabbergasted, and when I went to see the movie, 'The Graduate,' I was dumfounded. I wondered how many Mrs. Robinsons were being defamed because of one Mrs. Robinson who seduced the worst thing in the world, a young man named Simon and Garfunkel."

"What could you do about it without changing your name?"

"I gave it some thought and I decided the worst thing to do was fight it. So now when the grocery boy winks at me, I wink back; and when the gas station attendant starts getting fresh, I just start singing, 'Where have you gone Joe DiMaggio, a nation turns its lonely eyes on you, one, two, too.'"

"What about your son's friends?"

"They're around the house all the time. Before the film came out they never talked to me. Now they invite me to join all their conversations, and they are interested in everything I have to say."

"What does Mr. Robinson have to say about all this?"

"That's the amazing thing about it. He's suddenly taken a new interest in me, and for the first time in 10 years he's jealous. Every time someone sings 'But it's your party with your cupcakes, it's a little secret — the Robinsons' affair,' he seethes with rage. It's nice when he never talks to me, but when he's around, it's a pain in the neck. I'm glad he's in high school."

"I guess in the long run then, this has been a good year for you, Mrs. Robinson?"

"That's what I mean. It's a good year."

"Let's say it was a bonus that none of us expected. God bless you, please, Simon and Garfunkel."

"I should think with her an amazing thing happened. For the first time I noticed that Mrs. Robinson looked very attractive. Almost, I might say, beautiful. 'Well, good,' she said in a lovely, lilting voice.

Sometimes the magic had worked. As I walked away, I started singing, 'What's that you say, Mrs. Robinson? Jolite! Joe has left and gone away. Hey, hey, hey, Hey, hey, hey, hey.'"

SIERRA SECESSION

In 1961 a boundary committee established the dividing line between California and Nevada. The line is a straight line, but it is a little bit wiggly, however, that any territory then a part of California should stay there.

It happened that the line was drawn across the Sierra ridge which has a caused considerable consternation among residents of the area over the years. Back in 1863, a border war erupted which lasted for several sides.

Times may have changed but the boundary hasn't. The dispute has erupted again this year, but with a twist. A century ago the residents of the disputed land wanted to remain part of California. Today they want to join Nevada.

State taxes are the motivating force this time. Nevada has lower rates than California, relying instead on gambling taxes to support the government. A group of residents of the area has formed a secessionist movement to take about 18,000 square miles of California and move it, including 35,000 residents, into the state of Nevada.

Nevada Attorney General Harvey Dickerson contends it's legal to change the state border now. He is probably right, but the prospect of a full-fledged border fight in 1968 is at least intriguing.

At least Mr. Spectator thinks so!

Weary Rep. Hansen Sees Viet War As 'Real Mess' In Twin Falls Address

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

Rep. George Hansen, looking a little tired after a hard preliminary campaign against Idaho Sen. Frank Church spoke to a crowd estimated at 150 at the Holiday Inn Thursday afternoon.

It was the regular meeting of the Twin Falls Kiwanis Club. Rep. Hansen's remarks covered old ground, but the remarks covered the ground a little harder than usual. Especially on Vietnam, where he drew a huge response from the audience.

"Don't let anyone fool you, the war there is a real mess. I'm no tactician, but I have listened to military men talk of that war and I've been there to see what's going on—and with our present policy we are in trouble."

He said he advocated bombing ships in Hainhong harbor, the gateway to Hanoi and North Vietnam.

"We must isolate this war, cut off the enemy's supplies of arms and food. Once we do this we shall see some headway in this war."

Covering a wide range of subjects, as he usually does when speaking on the issues of the day, Rep. Hansen lashed out against his opponent saying, "If my opponent was doing his job I would be ruing against him now. But he's not, and here I am."

He said the test for the Senate has been undertaken at "extreme sacrifice to myself and my family. We have five children in school. But if I didn't think it was worth it—I didn't think I could do more for Idaho, more for you—I wouldn't be up here right now."

He said he felt he had a good chance of winning reelection in the House if he had chosen to stay there.

"Congress doesn't count. It's initiative that does. By serving in the House, I'm well qualified to move into the Senate and I have been undertaken at two committees very vital to Idaho—Agriculture and the Joint Atomic Energy Committee."

A senator is elected for a six-year term, a representative for a two-year term.

Rep. Hansen also was asked to look into the possibility of having the weather station at Burley moved to Twin Falls. He said he would.

Early in his speech he outlined the history of the United States, and said, "Don't let anyone kid you. There are the good old days. We have modern cars and shorter working hours. These days are much better than the days of old, but we need a country that will last. We need to guarantee the future of America."

He added, "By the way things are going, we won't have rights or freedom much longer. We must change this trend in Washington, D. C."

He said, "This isn't a time for personal security. It's a time for national security."

He plans to be in the area through Friday campaigning. His wife spoke earlier during a women's meeting at a private home. Rep. Hansen also spoke briefly at that meeting.

The Kiwanis meeting honored both Rep. Hansen and Dr. James Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho. Dr. Taylor was given a plaque for his efforts in building the college from nothing and for his community spirit while in Twin Falls.

REP. GEORGE HANSEN appears here in a talk he gave at the Kiwanis Club luncheon at the Holiday Inn Thursday. The appearance was one of many he made through the day. Near him, seated is Rep. Ray Lincoln, District 23, who was program chairman and who introduced Rep. Hansen. More than 150 people attended the noon meeting to hear Rep. Hansen speak.

CARBONDALE, Colo. (AP)—Down officials are steamed up over nude hippies cavorting in the public hot mineral springs bath house.

The principal lessee, the Carbondale Chamber of Commerce, says many residents and tourists are not using the springs because of the uninhibited behavior.

As a result, the chamber has decided to make the resort a private club. A spokesman says applicants will be screened carefully.

He said, "This isn't a time for personal security. It's a time for national security."

Vocation Bill Sent To LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress sent President Johnson Thursday a sweeping vocational education bill aimed at making job preparation a major goal of the public schools.

The House by voice vote completed action on the measure, which authorizes $3.1 billion over the next four years, by far the largest sum ever earmarked for vocational education in this country. Actual funds must be provided later through appropriations bills.

The money would be used to strengthen and expand existing programs and develop new ones designed especially to equip slum-area youths with job skills.

Rep. "Sleepy" Taylor, who he was a college football player at Oklahoma, Kiwanis President Vernon Riddle said.

The Kiwanis meet was reported one of the largest gatherings of Kiwanians in recent weeks.

Communications Network Set To Assist Apollo Mission

An intricate, high-speed communications network designed and engineered for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration by the Bell System will provide vital support for the Apollo 7 space flight next Friday.

Details of the Bell System's role in providing communications for the long-awaited flight were given Friday by Frank J. Long, local Mountain States Telephone manager.

Mr. Long said the change in command is handled electronically over a broad communications expressway called the Apollo Launch Data System (ALDS). It is a radio and cable complex of data television, telephone and teletypewriter circuits that extend the mission control capabilities of the Kennedy Space Center to the Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston.

The system went into operation when Gemini 4 was launched in June, 1965.

Functions handled over the complex communications network include checking out the Apollo spacecraft, and controlling the launching and directing the booster engine as it propels the astronauts into orbit.

Critical information needed for Apollo mission control is funneled from Cape Kennedy into seven Houston computers over high-speed "data" channels that can handle tens of thousands of bits of information each second. (A bit is the simplest element of computer language.)

Mr. Long said computers at Houston use the data to make constant flight contingency recommendations, predict flight paths, determine a time to start re-entry and forecast the Apollo capsule's impact point.

Dilettantes To Choose Cast

Who Will Be The 'Fair Lady?'

MIRROR, MIRROR ON THE WALL—who's the fairest lady of 'em all? A hard question to answer, but at least one "fair lady" will be picked later this month when the Dilettante Group of Magic Valley auditions hopefuls for its "My Fair Lady." The production will be presented next spring.

A fair lady and many other cast members for the forthcoming Dilettante Group of Magic Valley Spring show will be selected when the group holds auditions later this month.

Mr. Kliss said that those auditioning for principal parts secondary roles will do so between 8 and 10 p.m. Oct. 19, and chorus auditions will be from 2 to 4 p.m. Oct. 20.

Those auditioning for the chorus need only be prepared to sing a song from any musical. An accompanist will be available both Saturday and Sunday, but those auditioning should provide their own accompanists if possible.

Frank Willis, president of the group, also noted that anyone who wishes to assist either on or off stage, should attend the auditions to sign up and meet old and new members.

The show will open at 10 a.m. on both days and will close at 10 p.m. Saturday and at 8 p.m. Sunday.

A nominal admittance fee will be charged. Drawings for door prizes will be held each day.

Dean Martin Doesn't Claim To Be A TV Star--But Instead, A Personality

By BOB THOMAS AP-Movie-Television Writer HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Dean Martin is inclined to cut up during camera changes for his television variety show.

Garrison — Please, — Dean Martin is not a star. I'm a personality! Garrison believes the distinction is significant. He further predicts that it will be the deciding factor in the survival of the 15 variety shows in prime television time this season.

"The show that are built around a strong and engaging personality will succeed; those that aren't, won't," he said flatly. Garrison should know. He has been the director of the Dean Martin Show since its beginning four years ago.

Why has the Martin show thrived? "Because people like him," observed Garrison. "Everybody who knows Dean likes him; he's the kind of a guy. And it comes across on TV. He is a very likable personality."

Yet, the Martin show did not take off like a rocket four years ago. It had a shaky beginning, the reason being a misjudgment of the Martin temperament.

"Everybody thought Dean didn't want to work," remarked the producer-director. "So he was given only a few songs to sing and a few jokes to say. The day he sat down an pointed toward the guest stars. Soon we realized the mistake and began involving Dean more."

But work, Martin-style, is different from that of most other performers. His ability to survive a show in "one day" is well-known.

"When Dean walks through the studio door on the morning of the show," Garrison said, "He doesn't know what he is going to sing, or what he is going to do."

going to say; he doesn't even know who the guest stars are going to be. I make it a point never to call him during the week for any reason. "This season we are even doing away with the dress rehearsal. We will have only a run-through and then do the show itself. There is a reason for this—in previous seasons, we always had a dress rehearsal before an audience. Dean being the pro he is, he naturally put out for those in the studio; even between camera setups he would joke with the audience.

South Vietnamese Troops Vex Allies With Practice Of Looting Civilians

By JOHN T. WHEELER SAIGON (AP) — Looting by Vietnamese troops, especially by some elite units, appears to have increased significantly in recent months, further alienating the army from those it is sworn to protect.

Since the war began Vietnamese troops have stolen chickens, pigs and other food to supplement meager field rations. Now some units spend a good part of their time in the field systematically taking anything of value from whatever homes they come across.

Recently a Vietnamese marine battalion operating on the fringe of a provincial capital in strongly pro-government suburb looted the village chief's home while the official stood by helplessly. Those who have watched the Vietnamese troops in action for a number of years date the beginning of "serious looting" as opposed to "stealing food" to the Tet offensive, when the war moved into the cities. Troops from peasant homes got a good look at the way Vietnamese were living in urban areas and decided to raise their own standard of living a bit.

The looted village chief told a reporter in English, "They are just poor soldiers and there is nothing I can do." He put up an argument when the troops tried to "take his gas mask." They finally gave it back after rendering it useless by smashing out the glass eyepieces.

Looting is as old as warfare, and some American troops in the Hue fighting during Tet did their share of "liberating" such items as liquor and transistor radios.

One American adviser commented at the time: "The common soldier has always been at the bottom of the ladder here: He knows his commander is probably corrupt and even selling some of the food meant for the troops to line his own pockets. Now they figure it's their turn."

In a war where mere possession of real estate is far less important than the attitudes of the people toward their government—looting is a minus-factor for a government. When soldiers—in villages—are called

MOUNTAIN HOME—The Eureka Rock and Gem Club will hold its third annual rock show Oct. 12-13 at West Elementary School, Mountain Home.

A nominal admittance fee will be charged. Drawings for door prizes will be held each day.

"green bandits" is the situation is serious, a U.S. civilian adviser said.

But government soldiers are in the war until they are killed or "sightlessly" wounded to fight again. To see the profusion of luxury goods others have amassed while they were fighting in the rice paddies is an irritant, to say the least.

Hecklers Answered By Agnew

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Anti-war hecklers interrupted Gov. Spiro Agnew repeatedly Thursday as he sought support for the Republican presidential ticket.

Almost from the outset of his talk to some 1,500 persons, most of them young — in suburban David Douglas High School, there were scattered shouts of protest.

"We need peace," was the cry as he began to tell of the need to produce a better environment in the cities.

"There is no doubt we need peace," Agnew replied, "but peace has never come by cries of anguish from the floor. Peace has usually come from the work of the people most involved in producing it, the most dedicated, making the sacrifices that are required to have it."

This drew a strong burst of applause and he went on to develop the theme that the natural resources of the country might be developed through careful and total planning; welfare payments must be equalized to prevent migrations of the poor; and satellite communities be planned and built to ease the overcrowding of the cities.

Just as he turned to discuss violence in the cities, some 25 to 40 young men and women, carrying anti-Agnew and anti-Agnew placards, stood and started to chant, "No more war."

As they stood, they began moving out of the auditorium. There was no disorder and the audience applauded and cheered as the last of them filed out.

Aides said it was the first real heckling Agnew had experienced in his campaigning as the Republican vice-presidential candidate.

He was here for the single speech. Friday he goes to Spokane, Wash., and Anchorage, Alaska.

Nixon Aide Challenges Vote Survey

WASHINGTON (AP) — An adviser to Richard M. Nixon has challenged a Democratic claim that Hubert H. Humphrey is leading the presidential contest in eight states with a total of 136 electoral votes.

Sen. Thurston B. Morton of Kentucky, said private backing of Sen. Warren Magnuson's claim he spent $32,620.54 in the September primary were false.

"I question that Minnesota is for Humphrey even though it is his home state," Morton said. "We hear that it is up and down in Michigan and Pennsylvania, Texas is certainly doubtful."

Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, a member of the Democratic nominee's strategy board, said in a separate interview that Humphrey's "operation catch-up" is working.

The Oklahoma senators said Humphrey turned the corner in a Monday night national broadcast when he said he made the bombing of North Vietnam if there were evidence of Hanoi's willingness to neutralize the demilitarized zone.

Since the broadcast, Harris said, volunteer workers and money not available before have been coming in.

"In the first two days after that broadcast $28,000 came in in small donations and people are calling up to ask what they can do to help," Harris said.

NEW YORK (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson, the former U.N. ambassador, Illinois governor and active in Democratic presidential candidate, left a gross estate of just under $1.5 million.

An inventory filed Thursday in Surrogate's Court showed the estate against the estate amounting to $470,000. The chief beneficiaries were three sons, Adlai, Donald and Gene, each of whom receive $312,000.

Their father died in London July 14, 1965, at age 65.

Stalled Utah Driver Killed Seeking Help

By The Associated Press. A Salt Lake City man with a trouble about to explain, to another driver was struck by an auto and killed shortly before midnight.

Killed four miles east of Grantsville, Utah, on U.S. 42, was Walter Elmer Forzgren, 42, the highway patrol said.

Larry George Lee, 24, Tooele; had stopped by Forzgren's car and Forzgren had gone to explain the problem when a third vehicle went between the car, hitting both of them and killing Forzgren, officials said. No one else was seriously injured.

The driver of the third auto was identified by the patrol as George T. Hall, 62, Riverton,

Federal Appropriation Bill Includes $371,685 For Death Of Sheep In Utah

WASHINGTON (AP) — An appropriation bill expected to be considered by Congress next week contains a $371,685 payment for the death of sheep near an Army facility in Utah.

The item is among claims in an administration request supplemental appropriations bill. It would pay the Anschutz Land & Livestock Co. of Denver for the death of more than 4,000 sheep near the Dugway Proving Ground last March.

The deaths have been blamed on aerial spraying of a nerve gas which was tested March 13, one day before the sheep began dying at the Skull Valley Ranch 23 miles from Dugway.

About 5,400 sheep died including sheep on the Hatch Ranch for which Anschutz has not filed a claim, and those on other ranches and an Indian reservation.

Eugene M. Becker, assistant secretary of the Army, urged in a letter to Budget Director Charles Zwick that the Anschutz claim be paid promptly "to preclude or minimize additional claims."

Becker said on the basis of extensive tests, "it can be concluded that the chemical compound in the snow, water and grass and in the blood, liver and stomach contents of the dead sheep was related to nerve agent samples provided by Dugway Proving Ground."

While there is an extremely wide variety of possibilities as to what caused the deaths, Becker wrote, "these have been explored and eliminated."

"There is no current evidence that the cause of death is to be found among poisonous plants, pesticides or bacterial or viral infections," Becker said.

Becker said $5,000 has been paid to Anschutz under a law providing for settlement of claims for property damage caused by Army personnel on combat duty. This is the maximum payment under the law, he added.

Becker said the company has agreed to settle for $371,685 in addition to the $5,000. Sen. Wallace F. Bennett, R-Utah, had offered an amendment to a defense appropriation bill before the Senate to provide for the sheep death payment.

An aide said this would be withdrawn since the item had been put in the supplemental appropriation bill.

Magnuson Backs Claim Of Expenses In Campaign

SEATTLE (AP) — Invoiced firm which did some consulting work was paid a $500 fee according to an affidavit filed with the secretary of state.

The invoices were released after State Sen. Jack Metcalf, Magnuson's Republican opponent in November, contended Magnuson has spent $250,000 to win the nomination. Metcalf said his campaign expenses totaled $208,257.

"It is obvious to any citizen that if I spent $208,000, Magnuson must have spent more than $22,000," Metcalf said Thursday.

Metcalf has failed twice in efforts to get a complaint filed against Magnuson over the expense issue. First the Thurston County prosecutor's office told him he must provide more specific information before it would consider filing a complaint.

Then, the Seattle Advertising Club declined to look into the matter as requested by Metcalf.

EMERGENCY AID GIVEN SODA SPRINGS, Idaho (AP) — The Farmers Home Administration has provided for emergency loans to blighted County farmers whose crops were damaged by August rains; Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, reported Thursday while campaigning in Soda Springs.

"The moment came when this group of men lost the intellectual argument and grabbed their guns in an attempt to stop the inevitable."

"The Soviets cannot survive so massive a blunder without, in the end, regretting, perhaps, that they were so far from making any rational sense out of our defense policy in the 70's."

The Czech freedom movement, he said, will serve as a beacon for other Eastern European nations.

But he declared "NATO is still an anti-intellectual, aggressive, irrational policy."

Earlier Thursday, Mark Austin, 15, Kayesville, was killed and five other teen-agers were injured in a car pile-up on U.S. 91 near Centerville.

Trooper Brent Johnson said the car driven by W 1111 a m. s. w. Wagoner, 17, was in the center island, careened back onto the highway and skidded sideways for 200 feet before rolling.

Wallace Due

BOISE (AP) — An Oct. 12 appearance in Boise by presidential candidate George Wallace has been confirmed.

And Secretary of State Pete Cennarus says he will await advice from the attorney general's office before making a decision on whether Wallace's American Independence Party slate on the ballot can be changed to include Wallace's choice of retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. Lemay as running mate.

Cennarus previously certified S. Marvin Griffin for the post after he was certified by Idaho AIP Chairman Joseph Stumph Jr. of Twin Falls. Stumph told Cennarus he will submit a New Certification.

The question involves whether the AIP electors could cast votes for Lemay as a vice-presidential candidate even though Griffin's name was on the ballot.

By The Associated Press. A "victory bus," with prominent Idaho Democratic campaigner George Compton White, will debate Sen. Frank Church, campaigning for a third term, and fellow Democrat Darrell Manning, running for Congress in the 2nd District, announced Thursday.

The broadcast will be from the Moscow Chamber of Commerce, sponsored by the debate in Twin Falls as coordinator of their campaigns. Walker is a former Democratic state chairman.

The ladies made appearances in southwestern Idaho Thursday and stops were planned in Blackfoot, Pocatello and American Falls today. The group was to return to Boise on Friday.

In other political activity, Rep. James McClure, Republican, is campaigning for re-election in the 1st District, said he has accepted an invitation to debate his Democratic opponent, Compton White. The invitation came from the University of Idaho and the Moscow Chamber of Commerce.

Rev. Nicholas Rausch, OSB, cousin of the bride, performed the double ring ceremony. Altar boys were Billy Henschel, nephew of the bride, and Jerry Clark, God-child of the bride. Steve Balliet was soloist, with Betty Rausch, aunt of the bride, as organist. Fan-shaped bouquets of pink gladioli, pink roses and white daisies graced the church altars, and pink bows and white daisies marked the pews.

Escorted down the aisle by her mother and father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white, pearl-encrusted. The apron bodice was overlaid with daisy-embossed lace which also formed the elbow-length, bell sleeve, encrusted with ruffled lace trim. Individual daisies were scattered down the front of the A-line skirt.

The cathedral train was designed of lace overseau de soie with wide ruffled lace trim. Her three-tiered shoulder-length veil of tulle was caught to a lace and seed pearl crown with satin roses. She wore a pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from the bridegroom.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: Recently, I was the houseguest of a sorority sister in another state. Her brother-in-law, a very good-looking gray-haired man with a lovely smile and a tremendous personality. While I was there, he told me that he travels for business reasons, and if I wanted to have a good time I should meet him someplace. At first, I thought he was joking, but soon enough, he was serious. He said, "I know he wasn't. I just laughed, pretending not to take him seriously, and I stayed away from him as much as possible."

Now that I am home, he has called me twice long distance, wanting to know if we can arrange a meeting. What am I going to do? I am 19 and don't want to get involved with this old married man. He says he likes my mature mind and that he wouldn't do anything I didn't want to do. Please help me.
PUZZLED

DEAR PUZZLED: It has called again, tell him that your MATURE mind is made up and if he ever calls again, you will tell your parents and his daughter. That should cool him off.

DEAR ABBY: I am supposed to be married early this fall, but I'm not sure. I can go thru with it now. Recently John (my fiancé) introduced me to Roy, who is going to be best man at our wedding, and the more I see of Roy, the more attracted I am to him.

Abby, I'm so mixed up I need some good sound advice from a wise outsider. Should I proceed with this "thing" about Roy, will you please advise me?
MIXED UP

DEAR MIXED: A girl could be making the mistake of her life to marry a man while she can still be "attracted" to another. This is a clear warning sign, meaning you aren't ready for marriage yet. Tell John you want to think about marriage a while longer. And keep thinking about it until NOBODY looks as good to you as the man you're going to marry.

DEAR ABBY: There is a very attractive middle-aged married woman in town whose husband is away a lot. This woman is frequently seen in the company of two very good-looking eligible gentlemen. The three of them are always together, and they seem to be having a very good time.
The problem: Nobody can figure out which one is the "beard."
CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Maybe it's the woman.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "CHARLES THE CHARMER" AT THE ST. REGIS: Your wish may match your intention. "Those who know much usually say little, and those who say little, usually know much."

Police Rush House To End Long Siege
WELLINGTON, England (AP) — Police rushed to a remote Wash. D.C. house today and Gunman John James, 28, surrendered quietly after holding off a siege for 17 days.
Police Chief Tom Gaylor said they brought James, his wife and four children out of the farmhouse without injury.
"The policemen made the raid," as they moved in there were screams of "daddy, daddy!"
A gun was thrown out through a window.
"An ambulance backed up to the stone cottage. Police carried three of the children, clutching comics."
Armed with a shotgun, James set up the barricade to escape being served with a warrant for traffic violation. He is a former mental patient, he showed fears of being sent back to a hospital.
"The man was upstairs and offered no resistance," Gaylor said.
"We have got all the family out without injury to them or the police."

Bank Robber Tells Class 'How It Is'
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Harvard Law School students wanted an inside view of the penal system so they called in an expert — one-time bank robber Theodore "Teddy" Green, former inmate at Massachusetts State Prison and Alcatraz.
Green, now an automobile salesman, was a guest lecturer at the law school Thursday. He appeared at the invitation of Prof. James Vorenberg, former director of the Justice Department's Office of Criminal Justice in Washington.
Green who made several escapes while at the old Charlestown State Prison, said that if he had hope of gaining freedom, "I'd have spent a lot less time planning on a bank and more planning a future."
"But with 104 years hanging over me," the only thing that kept me sane was drawing up ways to get out," he said.

Soviet Destroyer Enters Mideast
ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — A large Soviet destroyer equipped with missile launchers passed through the Bosporus from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean today. A 20-ton floating dock followed.
There now are two heavy destroyers of the Soviet fleet in the Mediterranean. The first passed through here Sept. 20.
Istanbul port authorities said the floating dock was towed by two ocean tugs and escorted by an auxiliary ship.
Reliable sources say the Russians now have six conventional and one nuclear submarine in the Mediterranean. Other Soviet naval units in the Mediterranean now are reported to include three escort ships, three fast escort ships, 31 supply vessels and an undetermined number of minesweepers, minelayers and patrol boats.

LeMay's Name On Ballots
WASHINGTON (AP) — In spite of his selection as George C. Wallace's running mate, Gen. Curtis LeMay's name won't be on the ballot as a vice presidential candidate in most states.
Wallace's announcement that LeMay is his No. 2 man came too late to replace the name of former Georgia Gov. Marvin Griffin on the ballot except for a handful of states.
Griffin was picked by Wallace at the outset of his third-party campaign as a stand-in running mate because many states required any party seeking place on the ballot list both presidential and vice presidential candidates.
Washington, D.C., has a law which might present a problem of who would get the electoral votes if Wallace should win the school.
So far as the Constitution is concerned the electors picked by plurality of popular vote in their states are to vote for whomever they choose.
However, 17 of the states do spell out how the electors shall vote. But generally the rules are that whoever they choose.
Florida's law, on its face, looks the tightest. It provides for only punishment for any elector who does not vote for the presidential ticket named on the ballot. Griffin is in Florida.

Misses List
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has reversed itself and voted to permit the government to withhold federal money from segregated schools.
The House originally attached a rider to the main bill for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare which would government from forcing school districts to bus pupils to correct segregation.
But the Senate rejected the rider last month, allowing money to be withheld to "overcome racial imbalance."
The House voted 185 to 135 Thursday to go along with the Senate version. The Senate still approve the compromise $18.4 million money bill before it can go to the President.
The House insisted, however, on its more stringent language barring federal aid funds to students convicted of offenses stemming from major disturbances at colleges and universities.

Conferees Study Military Funds
WASHINGTON (AP) — A House-Senate conference committee has the task of working out a military spending bill that will be the largest in history for the second straight year.
The bill passed by the Senate Thursday carries a $74.9 billion price tag. The House version passed earlier, is $332 million bigger.
President Johnson had asked for $74 billion.
Military appropriations totaled $64 billion in 1944, the height of World War II, but the money came in several bills.
Last year's appropriation bill was for $69.9 billion.

Johnson Visits Ike At Hospital
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson dropped in on predecessor Dwight D. Eisenhower at Walter Reed Army Hospital today and reported afterwards that the general had the same old infectious laugh.
It was Johnson's first visit with Eisenhower since three days before the former president suffered his seventh heart attack on Aug. 5.
The President motored from the White House to the hospital on the northern edge of Washington and spent about 10 minutes with Eisenhower.
"I just found him wonderful," the President told reporters.
"He looks just as good as I ever saw him — just the opposite of what you might expect."
He said Eisenhower was smiling and talking and had that infectious laugh and even teased him a little bit.
The former president sits up now for perhaps 30 minutes two or three times a day. But he was stretched out on a hospital bed with the back rest raised during Johnson's visit.
The President said he told Eisenhower what is going on and reviewed what has been happening in the Paris peace manueverings. He said they talked about Eisenhower College in Seneca, N.Y., and about the proclamation Johnson signed during Eisenhower Week, Eisenhower, who will be 78 on Oct. 14, keeps the proclamation in his room, Johnson said.

Big Sky Conference Teams Test Non-League Foes; Idaho Hosts UOP In Boise

By The Associated Press
 The hawking engines of Zora's one racing cars will echo the hills over Seneca Lake today with 20 of the world's best drivers beginning practice for the 10th U.S. Grand Prix.

The first car starts the initial practice lap at noon, as the drivers familiarize themselves with the track's rights and angles of the winding, 2.3-mile Watkins Glen road circuit.

On Saturday, the drivers will qualify for positions on the 110-lap race. Practice runs also begin a noon.

The 108-lap race begins at 1:30 p.m. (EDT) Sunday and probably will take about two hours to complete.

This year's American Grand Prix offers three drivers a chance to take a formidable lead in the world championship of drivers' competition.

Defending world champion Denis Hulme of New Zealand, who drives a McLaren-Ford, and England's Graham Hill, Lotus-Ford, are tied for first place at 33 points each. Jackie Stewart of Scotland, Marto-Ford, with 27 points is their only serious challenger at this point.

The U.S. Grand Prix is one of 12 races held throughout the world to determine the world championship. The winning driver will receive $20,000 of the race's $102,000 purse.

History Working For Detroit Club

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The Detroit Tigers have won baseball's World Series twice and in the opening game of the best-of-seven competition.

In 1905, when Wernke of the Chicago Cubs batted Detroit 3-0 in the first game, but the Tigers came back to win the Series in six. And in 1954, Hank Borland of the Cubs shut out the Tigers 9-0 in the opener and Detroit rallied to win in seven games.

Bob Gibson of St. Louis shut out the Tigers 4-0 in the opener of the 1968 Series Wednesday.

Fight Crowd Throws Bouquets To Gavilan, Hands Pot To Jose Torres

NEW YORK (NEA)—Sentimentality gripped the cheering crowd at the new Madison Square Garden down to the resin on the canvas as the crowd bellowed before the fight between Johnny Blaine and Addie, concluding his introduction before the main event, "and now the former great welterweight king, the Cuban Hawk." And the 10,000 or so fans stood and beat their palms.

Kid Gavilan came down the aisle. He had been mentioned in the papers and over television and so that he would probably attend the fight that night. So the crowd was ready. They knew, too, that Gavilan had just a few days before signed out of Cuba, where Castro had confiscated his land, money and had flung him in jail nine times for preaching the gospel of Jehovah's Witnesses and refusing to back the dictator's regime.

Now broke, nearly blind in one eye because of a cataract, the fight was a caution, a cauliflower souffe and weighing 25 pounds more than the 147-welterweight limit, the 42-year-old popular ex-champ stumbled and was helped into the ring by an attendant cup.

Gavilan slipped slowly through the ropes. His face, the color of a natural leaf Havana cigar, glowed with delight. The crowd applauded still. Gavilan congratulated each contestant. He circled the ring, head high and arms raised overhead in the age-old gesture of victory. Then he stopped, assumed a boxing stance and shot up his trademark, the hop punch, the celebrated blow that he learned from swinging a machete as a boy in his sugar cane fields.

The crowd screamed in unbounded enthusiasm of memories a week ago recalled. But a crowd, and an old English poet once said, in a two-headed bear. And the light through proved it that evening.

For Gavilan, the evening was "wonderful," he said. "I said, 'boy, there is so much of fondness in my heart.' For

Olson Leads

By The Associated Press
 Idaho's Steve Olson has taken a commanding lead over Bruce Swan, a son of North Park, Ill., in the race for the national college division title.

Olson, a 6-foot-3, 200-pound sophomore quarterback, has picked up 829 yards in Idaho's first three games, while Swan has totaled 760 yards in four games.

full strength for this game, with Jim Pearsall and Jim Thieme's back in action after missing the Idaho State game, and Gordon Weiler, who received a broken leg the first day of practice, ready for limited action.

West Texas State is rated bigger and stronger than last year's team which handed Montana State a 35-26 defeat. West Texas is led on offense by quarterback Morris, a sure-footed halfback who was injured for someone's All-America team this year.

Idaho State has won two and lost one this year, the lone loss being to major college power Wyoming 48-3. Last week the Aggies blasted Wichita State 49-0. The Aggies' defensive unit was holding Wichita to 96 yards.

Idaho will be led offensively by quarterback Terry Holtz, who with teammate Jeff Henderson shared Big Sky player of the week honors this week.

Idaho has completed 54 of 115 passes in three games, for a total of 765 yards. His

Michigan Is Cleared Of Recruiting Charges

CHICAGO (AP)—The Big Ten dissolved the University of Michigan Thursday of any rules violations alleged in a story last February by the Michigan Daily, student publication.

The conference released a 21-page review of its investigation, which will be turned over to the league's athletic director.

A clean slate was given with one exception. It pertains to a former junior football linebacker from Corpus Christi, Tex., and Y.C. McNease, former assistant coach at Weber State, head football coach at Idaho.

The student publication alleged that athletes received discounts from local businesses, meals and clothing, movie theater passes, alumni party tickets and other favors.

"With the exception of the loan transaction, it is my considered judgment," said Big Ten Commissioner Bill Reed in the report, "that with respect to the allegations received and investigated, no violation of the athletic grounds for believing a violation occurred or that a viola-

Barney Is Making Niche On NFL Play

NEW YORK (AP)—Len Barney isn't a familiar name in the National Football League, but he is in the NFL.

Barney, a defensive back for the Detroit Lions, made two brilliant defensive plays last Sunday that inspired the Lions to a comeback from behind 23-17 victory over the champion Green Bay Packers.

The plays that turned the game around and led to Green Bay's second straight defeat earned Barney the nod Thursday as the NFL Defensive Player of the Week by The Associated Press.

The spectacular plays by Barney came in the second period of Green Bay with the Packers ahead 10-0 and apparently driving for another touchdown.

Green Bay had the ball on the Detroit eight when Barney slipped inside two blockers for a spectacular tackle that dropped Donny Anderson for no gain. The tumbled Lions threw Bart Starr for a loss on the next play, third-down, and threw Kramer missed a field goal try.

A few minutes later Barney leaned in front of Gary Fleming and intercepted a Starr pass to halt another threat. Quarterback Bill Munson took over in the second half as the Lions rallied to win.

Olympics To Start On Schedule Despite Problems In Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP)—The International Olympic Committee will proceed as scheduled with the 1968 Olympic Games Thursday.

The committee said Thursday that the problems in Mexico City, a huge metropolis of more than six million people and none of the demonstrations or violence here have, at any time, been directed against the Olympic Games.

Brundage's statement said that the assembly in Denver, More than 7,000 athletes are entered in the Games.

Meanwhile, three Scandinavian teams—the Swedish, Danish and Finnish—departed for Mexico City from home airports heavily guarded by police and the scene of small student demonstrations.

The students of the three countries voiced sympathy for the Mexican student who are at violent odds with the government, the Army and the police. Many members of the teams competing here are themselves students. This raised the possibility that efforts may be made to organize protests by team members.

Injuries Plague Idaho Grid Team

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP)—The University of Idaho football team leaves for its annual Boise visit Friday still in doubtful physical condition.

The Vandals meet the University of Pacific Saturday in a nonconference contest.

Coach Y.C. McNease said Thursday veteran running back Jim Pearsall, who has missed two games with a pulled hamstring muscle, will be out of action again and tight end Mike Ballou and Gordon DeWard also would stay behind. Offensive tackle Jim Thieme, who missed last weekend's action, will make the trip but probably won't start.

McNease called Pacific, with 1-1 record, a strong physical team and a "good test" for the Vandals prior to next week's Big Sky Conference game with Montana. Idaho is 1-2 and a slight underdog for the Pacific contest.

The Vandals will bus to Spokane Friday then fly to Boise.

THIS FINESSE SAFE TO LOSE

The best player doesn't always make the most tricks. He will over a period of years but... still adopts a safer line of play to insure his contract.

wanted to keep East out of the lead because East could lead a club through Ralph's king. Ralph had to lose a diamond trick in any event. One diamond... adds up to four defensive tricks.

Ralph wasn't going to let that happen. He won the heart lead. Then he led a trump to dummy's ace and returned the jack. East played low and Ralph finessed. West took his queen as collected his minor suit aces later, but Ralph was perfectly happy. He scored game and rubber.

Suppose that East held the ace of diamonds and got in with that card to lead a club and set Ralph? Ralph had listened to the bidding. West had opened one heart on a jack-high suit. He needed both missing aces to have an opening bid.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2♣	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	4♠
Pass	6♠	Pass	5♠

Q—The bidding has been:

West	North	East	South
Pass	2♣	Pass	3♠
Pass	4♠	Pass	4♠
Pass	6♠	Pass	5♠

Opening lead—♥J

Today take your hand played by Ralph Chafetz at New York's Mayfair Club. Ralph was in a four-spade contract and, while he had no objection to making an overtrick, his main purpose was to make sure of his contract.

He could count 10 winners without any trouble but his problem was to see that East and West couldn't collect four tricks before he got them.

TODAY'S QUESTION

All else being equal, the right way to play trumps when you have four to the queen is to play out your ace and king but all else wasn't equal. Ralph was in a four-spade contract and, while he had no objection to making an overtrick, his main purpose was to make sure of his contract.

Chicagoan Finds 'Wild West' In Israel

By Rodney Pinder
VERED—HAQALIL (AP)—The dude ranch of Vered Hagalil, Rose of Caliche is like an arrow from America's West plunged into the heart of the Bible lands.
 It is the realization of a dream for 43-year-old Yehuda Avni, who left Chicago nearly 20 years ago. He was Edward Stone-Schneider before he adopted a Hebrew name.

Avni was born in a big city from a family of city dwellers; he had a yearning to live in the wide-open space.
 "I had four good years at college studying the humanities," he said. "You end up asking questions. I didn't want to make a living in an office. I liked riding and I liked working in the country."
 He came to Israel "for a short visit" in 1948 and, like many Americans before and after, he found something that he was searching for. He stayed.

Avni ran the ranch with his wife Yonah, 40, daughter Yara, 17, and sons Raanan, 14, and Glora, 6. Marcel Kivetz, 21, from Holland is riding master.
 "I've never been out West in the States. But I've read a lot of cowboy books," said Avni.
 "I had an ideal. I don't want a big hotel with coachloads of people coming every day. A millionaire friend in Chicago said I would invest a million dollars, but not ten thousand. I turned him down."
 Avni rises at dawn and fishes around 8 p.m. He works his land and tends his horses and guests like a family.
 "A fellow who goes to work from 8 to 5 has a harder life than I do," he observes.

LDS Leader Warns Faithful Of Perils From Evil World

 The 85-year-old leader made the statement in remarks prepared for delivery by his son, McKay was particularly concerned with the perils for youth.
 "We cannot, we must not, be insensitive to the evil forces around us, and especially the Communistic conspiracy directed against which is the devil's work."

Oil 'Trade Zone' Stirs Anger Of Congressman

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Roy Blount, R-Tex., charged today that the establishment of a proposed "foreign trade zone" for oil importation in Maine would confer an economic advantage of at least $40 million a year upon one company.
 In a House speech to be inserted into the Congressional Record, the member of the Oil Import Program, will have proposed to get by imports of about nine per cent of their refinery output from the zone.
 He said the action would make a "sham and a mockery" of the import program and could deal the program a death blow.

Other U.S. refineries," he continued, "subject to quota limitations, have had to pay for the oil in the zone.
 Delegates from the 402 states and 84 countries around the world are attending the conference in the $500,000 Tabernacle.
 The sessions also are being broadcast on some 200 radio and television stations.
 The conference runs through Sunday.

Kentucky Proves 18-Year-Olds Can Cast An Intelligent Vote

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP)—Kentucky politicians, who rarely agree on anything, are almost unanimous on one point: They approve of letting 18-year-olds vote.
 Eighteen-year-olds have voted in Kentucky since a constitutional amendment was adopted in 1956-13 years after Georgia set the precedent in 1943. All other states continue to have a 21-year-old voting age except for Alaska, where it is 19, and Hawaii, where it is 20.
 Gov. Louie B. Nunn was in Kentucky last week on a Republican platform committee. In getting the Republican National Convention to approve a constitutional amendment that would bring the voting age to 18 nationwide.

registering protests against the draft, the war in Vietnam and other national problems.
 "After all," he said, "at least 200,000 young men are being drafted among young people today so-called generation gap has been a change for participants."
 Dr. Kenneth Van and his political science professor in the University of Kentucky, expressed doubt that 18-year-old voters have improved the quality of the ballot.
 "But they haven't hurt it," he added. "I don't think it's done any harm. I'm in favor of it, because the electorate should register all age groups."
 Many political observers give a good deal of credit to the youth vote in the election of Nunn as governor last year by a 28,500-vote margin over Democratic former Highway Commissioner Henry Ward.

Brazilian Riots Kill Student

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—A student was reported killed in the second straight day of disorders Thursday in Sao Paulo. Dozens were injured and police arrested 40 persons.
 Rioting police battled students in an antigovernment demonstration aimed to coincide with the visit of President Arthur Costa e Silva, who was here for meetings with political, military and industrial leaders.
 The students not fire in a car in a downtown plaza, threw fire bombs and set off fireworks and overturned several cars.

Confidently, the same age group is believed to have swung substantially for Nunn's Democratic opponent, Edward T. Breathitt, when Breathitt was elected governor by a 13,000-vote edge in 1963.
 Breathitt was 38 in 1963 while Nunn was 39. Ward was 58 when he opposed Nunn last November.

Dukeek Seeks Troop Ouster In Conclave

MOSCOW (AP)—Czechoslovak Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek's attempt to force a round of talks with Kremlin leaders today, seeking a withdrawal of at least some of the occupation troops from his country.
 There was no word on how the first three hours of talks went Thursday.
 Talks, expected to end today or Saturday, include the Soviet top three Communist party General Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev, Premier Alexei N. Kosygin and President Nikolai V. Podgorny.
 Besides Dubcek, the Czechoslovak side includes Premier Oldrich Cernik and Slovak party chief Gustav Husak.
 The Czechoslovaks are reportedly to discuss the more drastic demands of the Soviets that the situation in Czechoslovakia is quiet enough now to permit a reduction of the more than 200,000 Warsaw Pact occupation troops.

Utah Debates Liquor Issue Before Vote

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—The liquor-by-the-drink debate is on again in Utah.
 After months of comparative quiet following certification of the measure for the November ballot, supporters and opponents are angling up their campaigns once more.

A discussion of the measure was debated Thursday night in a special educational charge at the University of Utah.
 Supporters claimed passage of liquor-by-the-drink would increase tourism, improve tourist facilities and enable Utah to join the vast majority of other states which will bring in the flow of liquor, especially in a youthful clientele.
 McKay expressed confidence in the majority of young people, but added "no matter how firm our confidence in them is, we must not close our eyes to the fact that the number of delinquents and youth criminals is increasing. . . . We must apply the proper remedies and if possible remove the causes of crime."

Sukarno's Wife Held On Charges

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—President Sukarno's wife, President Sukarno has been arrested on charges of playing a key role in the excruciatingly alleged chaotic political activity, reliable sources said today.
 They said the wife, Hartini, is "undergoing continuous questioning by a team of intelligence officers."
 Sources said she has named a number of top government officials who she said were involved in the chaotic political activities.
 Sukarno, 67, is still being held somewhere in Jakarta 10 days after he was ousted for questioning by supporters and Communist agents in key government posts.

Automatic Irrigation Systems—Time-Savers For Area Farmers

BY ROBERT VANAUDELN
Times-News Farm Editor

Farmers and scientists have for years been continuously seeking ways in which to improve irrigation systems in order to save water, time and money.

One way is with automatic or mechanical irrigation structures and this is the primary concern of an agricultural engineer at the Snake River Conservation—Research Center at Kimberly.

Allan S. Humphreys, who has designed many types of automatic irrigation structures, says these structures can be used to irrigate all or part of many farms in Magic Valley without extensive modification of present systems.

He says the available water may be stretched by use of timer-controlled irrigation structures which automatically terminate irrigation on one portion of a field or farm and direct the water to another area.

It is common practice to use either 12-hour or 24-hour irrigation sets since it is convenient to change the water only once or twice a day. With this arrangement, irrigation is scheduled according to the farmer's work schedule rather than by soil moisture and soil characteristics.

Many times an irrigation of less than 12 hours or between 12 and 24 hours, would be sufficient to refill the root zone.

The available water supply could be used on a larger area if water could be changed automatically from one set to another whenever the root zone was refilled.

Another reason for using automatic structures, says Mr. Humphreys, is to eliminate some of the labor involved in irrigation.

Mr. Humphreys explains about automatic irrigation in an information series bulletin, just released by the University of Idaho extension service. Copies of this bulletin are available at any county agent's office.

Automatic Portable Irrigation Check

Many types of automatic irrigation structures are being developed and tested by Mr. Humphreys at the research center and one of them is the portable irrigation check.

Mr. Humphreys says, in the bulletin, "This portable, lightweight unit may be placed at any location in ditches of the same cross-sectional shape, it consists of a nylon-reinforced, butyl rubber dam, supported in a metal frame designed to fit the cross section of the lined ditch. The top edge of the structure is supported by a drawstring threaded through brass grommets.

A special timer is used for periods up to 12 hours. The timer has a corrosion-resistant movement with a built-in trip for releasing the dam. It also has a built-in escapement released. With this arrangement, the check and timer are reset at any time between irrigation.

"The timer does not operate until water enters the ditch immediately upstream from the check. Water fills the ditch, the small float releases the escapement and allows the timer to begin timing the irrigation period. At the preset time elapsed, the timer releases the drawstring and the check opens automatically.

Automatic Outback

Furrow Irrigation System

The automatic outback furrow system, developed at the Oklahoma State University, is very efficient in the use of water and practically eliminates irrigation labor when used with automatic check dams.

"The ditch is divided into equal lengths or bays, usually of equal length. Furrow tubes made from plastic pipe are installed along the side of the ditch at the same elevation in each bay. They are installed at a lower elevation in each consecutive bay downstream. An automatic check is placed at the end of each bay.

"With this system, a large or primary initial flow in the individual furrows follows through a reduced or outback secondary flow halfway through the irrigation set. The high initial flow ceases until the water has passed through all of the furrows after which runoff is reduced by reducing automatically the size of the furrow stream. When the check dam is released by the timer, water flows to the next bay downstream and provides a high initial or primary flow in the furrows of the next bay. At the same time, a cutback flow resulting from the reduced head of water over the end of the furrow is maintained in the bay immediately upstream.

"Procedures for designing an automatic-outback furrow system are available and technical assistance may be obtained from the Soil Conservation Service or the extension service.

"Furrow tubes are much easier to install in a newly lined ditch than in an existing one. The system design shown here made beforehand so that the new-laid plastic lining may be scored with a 'cookie cutter' or pilot hole cutter at the location of each furrow tube.

"After the concrete has set, a hole is made in the lining and the furrow tube is grouted in place. The lined ditch may be constructed on a uniform slope, or it may be constructed in a series of level bays with an elevation drop between each bay.

"One disadvantage of this system is that the design is not flexible. A furrow tube spacing must be determined which is compatible with the crop most commonly grown. Also, it does not AUTOMATIC, P. 4, Col. 2.

Along Fences And Canals

Crops are being harvested in Springdale area near Burley with most of the corn already cut. Beans are being threshed and farmers report home mold in the beans, which cut the yield. Third crop hay is being cut and baled. The Kerp brothers have their hay already stacked.

Ray Wilson, Springdale, is improving at Cassia Memorial Hospital, Burley, which he is being treated for a broken vertebrae which he received when he fell at his work at the Magic Valley Bean Co. at Springdale.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Barrie Scholer, Springdale, has been re-siding and painted this week. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Sell Lake City are moving into the house on the corner east of the Springdale LDS Church.

Spud harvesting has been finished at the farms of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Marsh and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hawkes at Tuzit.

Samuel D. Blackwell, Glenns Ferry, is gathering his steers from the Bennett Mountain Range for sale.

The Wilbur Wilsons of Hammett have sold their steers but don't deliver until after the middle of October. Wilbur was in Wyoming last week buying some new horses.

People in the Hammett area are getting in their snailages now. It is an in-between season right now for the third crop having is about done and it is too early for the corn to be cut.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Lewison have purchased the new Crawford house, built by Elmer and Mrs. Crawford. Mr. Crawford has moved his home to make their house his present home.

The West's largest production sale of selected buffalo and Texas longhorns will be held at the Nevada Livestock Commission Company, Fallon, Nev., by Harry Pon, owner of the Ponderosa Ranch in Seneca, Ore.

Pon owns more than 3,000 head of buffalo, the largest herd in the United States, and will be selling 20 of his top animals, including 25 yearling heifers and 5 yearling bulls.

Also on the auction block will be 120 Texas longhorns, selected by more than 600 head.

The offering will include 20 head of brood cows with baby calves at side—35 yearling heifers—35 yearling steers—20 yearling bulls—5 herd bulls—20 yearling steers and 5 rare Spelman steers.

A drawing also will be held for a mounted buffalo head.

One of the originators of the Texas Longhorn Breeders Association, Mr. Pon is also public relations director of the National Buffalo Association. His ranch includes 45,000 deeded acres in addition to forest grazing lands.

The sale begins at 11:30 a. m. at the ultra-modern headquarters of the Nevada Livestock Commission Co. where the animals will be on display Oct. 1 for viewing by prospective buyers. Headquarters will be at John Anquet's Nugget in nearby Sparks.

Perfume?

WASHINGTON (AP)—Agriculture Department scientists think that lactic acid found in human sweat may be an irritable perfume for mosquitoes.

Lactic acid occurs on a person's skin as a natural part of sweat. Farmers who have the most lactic acid appear to attract the most mosquitoes, the scientists say.

Farmers improve the insects find in lactic acid may tell their undoing. The scientists are working on methods to use the ingredient to lure mosquitoes into traps.

Sugar Beet Harvest Starts Monday

BY ROBERT VANAUDELN
Times-News Farm Editor

Harvesting of sugar beets is now completely mechanized in contrast to the hard labor work of years ago.

The two factories in this area will begin work a few days after the beginning of harvest and adequate supplies of beets have been harvested to assure continuous operation.

Because of the development of new farm ground, some of the beet dumps are not serviced by railroad, so large diesel trucks will be used to haul the beets to the Twin Falls factory throughout the valley.

A new truck unloading platform and area was constructed this past summer for these large diesel trucks. After the trucks backs onto the large steel platform, the platform and truck is hydraulically raised for dumping out the beets and into a large steel flume that runs into the factory.

Other new facilities constructed this year at the factory that will be used this season is a 5/2-million-gallon steel tank for storing raw sugar juice, and a heavy beet pulp press. The increased capacity of the raw juice can be stored until next year just before the campaign in the fall, the factory can start operations and refine the juice into sugar and then go right into processing sugar beets without stopping, thus one large campaign for the factory.

Company officials say there will be an average crop, but the beet dump are not serviced by railroad, so large diesel trucks will be used to haul the beets to the Twin Falls factory throughout the valley.

Pomona Aides Are Installed At Gooding

FITTLE—Thomas Speedy, Twin Falls, State Grange officer and master of the Twin Falls County Pomona Grange, was installing officer at a joint meeting of subordinate and Pomona Granges in Gooding County at the Gooding Grange Hall.

Assistants to Mr. Speedy were Mrs. Chester Ewing, Mrs. Mrs. Maurice Capps and Vernon Bumgarner, all of the Gooding Grange. Mrs. Bumgarner acted as chairman. The Stanger, Burley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Geo. and Hubert Woods sang with Mrs. George Eden as pianist.

"The 'Kilmer' master of the Gooding County Pomona Grange, Fuller, Wendell, Frank Orth, Orchard Valley, William Struggs, Hagerman Valley, and Ben Glauser, Gooding, were installed as masters of their branches.

Officers of six subordinates and the Pomona were also installed. Howard Niccum, retiring master of the Pomona Grange, presided.

The regular meeting for the Gooding County Pomona was changed to Oct. 28 at the West Hill Grange Hall.

Potatoes To Be Taken Off Market

WASHINGTON (AP)—The equivalent of about 10 million pounds of potatoes will be taken off the market through a "freeze" program announced Wednesday by the Agriculture Department.

Up to 50 million pounds of winter-mashed potatoes will be bought for distribution to needy families, the department said. A spokesman said the program was designed to help the economy and about seven pounds of raw potatoes.

All Planting Time For Trees, Bulbs

Autumn is an ideal time to plant trees and shrubs. According to the American Association of Nurserymen, this is a time when trees and shrubs can gain strength for the growing season to come.

When planting trees, dig a hole of adequate depth and considerably wider than the root ball. Place the evergreen in the hole, placing the burlap at the top and push it down into the sides of the hole. It is important to water the tree frequently.

When planting deciduous trees, dig a hole of adequate depth and considerably wider than the root ball. Place the tree in the hole, placing the burlap at the top and push it down into the sides of the hole.

When planting bulbs, dig a hole of adequate depth and considerably wider than the root ball. Place the bulb in the hole, placing the burlap at the top and push it down into the sides of the hole.

When installing the furrow tubes that they be placed at the exact design elevation. The water error in placing the tubes change the operating head and, therefore, the discharge rate.

The cost of this system will vary with the size and spacing of the furrow tubes, as well as the size of the lined ditch. The cost of furrow tubes and their installation is about 75 to 81 per cent of ditch. This is in addition to the regular cost of the siphon-lined ditch.

Mr. Humphrey's added that many fields that have a small amount of cross slope and that are relatively flat may be suitable for use in an unlined ditch. When used in unlined ditch, the basic check is fitted with side wings and a bottom cutoff.

James Pate, from the ASCS office, will assist farmers in testing their wheat for a small fee. They must have the test to obtain a loan.

Frank Barber, the only living charter member of the grange, was welcomed and given special recognition.

Mrs. Oscar Kermer, Ceres; Mrs. Lloyd Campbell, Pomona; Mrs. Waldo Faugh, Flora; Larry Tew, three years on the executive committee; Oscar Kermer and D. G. Mitchell, hold-over members on the executive committee; and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Kermer were named alternates to the master and his wife in this state association.

Orval Hansen Backs Potato Labeling Bill

By The Associated Press
Idaho farm income would be raised and the reputation of Idaho potatoes improved by an effective state-of-origin potato labeling bill, original proponent Orval Hansen said.

Hansen, a republican candidate for second district congress, told a spud day gathering in Shoshone that a law to benefit consumers and growers.

The consumer would be protected from the "trickery" of deceptive labeling of potatoes of lower quality," Hansen said.

"It would also protect the market that has established for quality potatoes that command a premium price," he continued.

"Potato growers of Idaho have attempted to cash in on Idaho's reputation. It is common practice to put the Idaho label on inferior potatoes from other parts of the country."

Darrell Manning, Hansen's Democratic opponent, said "there is something inherently wrong with a system which subjects young men to continuous uncertainty for a period of eight years."

He said the system now used is "worse than a prison sentence."

Manning suggested a system under which young men would be drafted or informed that they were not needed as soon as possible after they completed high school. That would allow them, he explained, "to plan their futures in a meaningful way."

Buildup Of Cattle For Feeding Rises

By DON KENDALL
WASHINGTON (AP) — The buildup of cattle for fall and winter feeding programs in north-central states is continuing at a sharply increased rate from last year.

Total of 16 projects. This year for August reported Wednesday that the number of stocker and feeder cattle and calves shipped into eight states for fall and winter feeding totaled 708,000 head during August, up 16 per cent from a year earlier.

This brought the July-August tally to 1.2 million head, an increase of 12 per cent from the period in 1967.

August shipments of stocker and feeder sheep and lambs also were higher, estimated at 122,000 head in the eight states, up eight per cent from a year earlier. The July-August total was 1,070,000, an increase of four per cent from last year.

The August shipments of both cattle and sheep and lambs moved directly into the wintering areas. Only 234,000 stocker-down five per cent from a year earlier.

The public's five per cent received only 29,000 sheep during August, a decline of 36 per cent from a year earlier.

The direct shipments reflect a trend of recent years involving less dependence of stockers on the public's five per cent from one area to another, a department spokesman said.

More and more you'll find shippers already having some of the other end already set to take his stock," he said.

"This may involve a commission on the cattle and sheep moving from one area to another, a department spokesman said.

Chickens Ready Earlier Than 35 Years Ago

Chickens today are ready for market in about half the time and on less than half the feed required in 1933, says researchers at the Carroll-Nutrena Research Farm at Elk River, Minn.

Scientists say that 35 years ago it took 14 weeks and 18 pounds of feed to grow a 7 1/2-pound fryer chicken. Today improved feeds and management help turn out better chickens in only eight weeks on 7 1/2 pounds of feed.

Wheat Good For Feeding In Feedlots

"Wheat is a good feed in the beef cattle feedlot," says Donald Youst, Twin Falls County agent. "And because wheat is competitively priced with other grains, it should be considered for use in feedlot rations."

The following is taken from a University of Idaho current information series, Number 1, "Using Wheat in the Beef Feedlot."

In the fall of 1955, 60 heavy Angus steer calves were started on a 174-day feed at the Caldwell Branch Station. During the first 84 days the calves were fed all the roughage they would eat plus four pounds of concentrate daily. Later they were given a 90-day all-concentrate finish. The roughage was made up of six parts of corn-cilage and one part of alfalfa hay.

Three concentrate rations were fed and all had a four per cent soybean meal, 1.5 per cent bone meal, one per cent salt, plus 100,000 I.U. Vitamin A, 100,000 I.U. Vitamin E, and 100,000 I.U. Vitamin K. The protein per cent in the ration was one per cent.

The barley ration was 83.5 per cent barley, 10 per cent dried molasses, 6.5 per cent wheat, 3.5 per cent dried wheat with 30 per cent dried grain, and 20 per cent barley. The wheat ration was 63 per cent wheat with 30 per cent dried grain, 10 per cent barley, 3.5 per cent wheat and 30 per cent dried molasses, plus salt. Both the barley and wheat rations were rolled in all rations. Wheat finished best in a ration when it is steam rolled or coarsely ground.

The rate of daily gain and cost of gain in the wheat ration compared favorably with the other two rations. At the end of the 174-day feeding period the wheat ration was 1.7 billion pounds of food.

One steer in the barley-fed control group graded prime, eight graded choice and one graded good. In the group having nearly two-thirds of their concentrate made of wheat, seven steers made choice and three graded good. Where wheat replaced nearly one-third of the hay in the concentrate, all 10 steers graded choice.

Animal scientists at the University of Idaho believe very strongly that cattle feeders often increase their costs unnecessarily by extending the final feeding period. Ninety to 100 days is a long finishing period. Seven to ten days on a properly formulated all-concentrate ration will put a high percentage of choice feeders in the market.

After 100 days of good roughage and a limited amount of grade.

Youst said that copies of the results of the feeding trials are available at his office.

FINISHING UP HARVESTING a field of sweet corn of Twin Falls are Green Giant Co. corn harvesters. Green Giant officials say this 21-acre field of No. 47 sweet corn, grown by Ed Munsell, is one of the best yielding fields harvested. The sweet corn harvesting in this area is about completed.

"Super Beef" Contest Planned

A contest for cattle feeders from throughout Southern Idaho has been scheduled next week by the Idaho Cattle Feeders' Association, according to Richard Blincoe, Heyburn, president of the association.

Mr. Blincoe said the purpose of the contest, called the "Super Beef" contest, is to teach the feeder how to recognize the high-yielding "beefers" in his feedlot.

The contest will be held at Independent Meat Co., Twin Falls and after the animals are judged on the hoof, they will be slaughtered and later fabricated into standard supermarket retail cuts by Albertson's. The eventual winner of the contest will be determined by the results obtained at the retail level.

The cattle feeder participating in the event will Tuesday to Friday select and select from the high-yielding "beefers" in his feedlot.

The animals will then be delivered to Independent Meat Co. by 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. At that time all interested cattle feeders and processors are invited to view the animals and assist in the grading. Every one there will be given a ballot and the opportunity to add his opinion on the live placing of the livestock.

Following this, the animals will be slaughtered.

After slaughtering and cooling, the animals will be measured and awarded their federal grade and USDA choice or better.

1.7 Billion Pounds Of Food Donated

By DON KENDALL AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—Nearly 1.7 billion pounds of food were donated to needy families, institutions and school children in 1957-58 compared with 1.4 billion pounds the year before, the Agriculture Department reports.

Cost of food for the year ended June 30 was about $38 million, compared with $34 million the year before, the department said.

The food is supplied by the department to states for distribution to school institutions and needy families. It does not include participation in the food stamp program, which allows 70 per cent of the cost to participating stores.

Additions of some food categories to improve the nutritional level of the program are accounted for most of the increased expenditure, the department said. These included such items as rice, dairy products and fruit juices.

Schools received about 797 million pounds of food the last year through the donation program, plus another 230 million acquired by the department's national school lunch program. The 200 million pounds were a 33 per cent increase from a year earlier, the department said. Total cost was $220 million, 69 per cent more than a year earlier, which included purchases of more beef, canned, butter, frozen orange juice and turkeys.

Donations to needy families last year totaled more than 723 million pounds, up three per cent, for a cost of $124 million, compared with $101 million in 1956.

Charitable institutions received more than 148 million pounds of food, an increase of 3.3 per cent at a cost of $23.2 million, compared with $18.1 million a year earlier.

Chemical Is Used To Shear Sheep

WASHINGTON (AP) — Grab a hand saw and zip! The usual nicks left by shears.

This is chemical de-fleecing, says the Agriculture Department, a process being developed at the research center at Beltsville, Md. It could put professional sheep shears out of business.

So agricultural scientists at Beltsville dosed a sheep and found that in six or seven days the entire fleece could be separated from the skin by pulling, leaving the animal completely clean.

Wool has grown back normally on all sheep treated thus far, but further tests will be conducted to see if chemical residue occurs in the meat or alter wool growth or quality, the department said.

American Oil Expands Its Agronomy Help To Farmers

The American Oil Company is offering its agricultural customer service professional help in solving their farm problems through the services of an agronomy department now operating on a nationwide basis.

The service is directed by Dr. John L. Strauss, a nationally recognized authority on fertilizers and winner of the National Fertilizer Solutions Association "man of the year" award in 1964.

Dr. Strauss formerly was supervisor of agronomic services for the Tulsa Gas Products Company, which merged with American Oil on July 1, 1968.

Dr. Strauss will coordinate the activities of professional agronomists in each of the company's six marketing regions, and of agronomists operating locally at Farm Service Centers and other rural sales facilities throughout the country.

Facilities for soil testing and analysis will be maintained in five marketing regions, located in Atlanta, Ga.; Detroit, Mich.; Chicago, Ill.; Kansas City, Mo., and Salt Lake City, Utah.

The department also will work with farmers in establishing test plots to evaluate fertilizers, insecticides, herbicides and other agricultural chemicals, and will conduct training programs for agents, fertilizer plant managers, and other field agents personnel to keep them informed of the latest developments in agricultural technology.

Dr. Strauss holds a B.S. degree from Ohio State University, an M.S. from Virginia Polytechnic Institute, and a Ph.D. from Purdue University. His doctorate is in agronomy with minors in chemistry, colloid chemistry, and plant physiology.

Gross Farm Income In Utah Given

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Gross farm income in Utah remained virtually unchanged last year but net income rose sharply, the Utah Crop and Livestock Reporting Service said Wednesday.

The net for 1967 was $54.6 million, compared with $42.7 million in 1966, the service said. Gross income, $114 million in 1968, increased by only $100,000 last year.

The service said expenses rose from $163.2 million in 1968 to $169.3 million in 1967, but the cost rise was partly offset by an increase in farm inventory value.

Livestock and crop sales brought the largest chunk of 1967 revenue — $100.6 million. Nine million dollars came from government payments; $10.5 million from rental value of farm dwellings, and $4 million from value of products consumed on the farm.

The "breakdown on cash receipts: cattle and calves, $68.3 million; milk $36.7 million; turkeys $16.6 million; sheep and lambs $12.7 million, and hay $9.6 million.

Gardener's Year Begins In Autumn

Autumn is the smart gardener's New Year. He prepares for the next growing season by plowing, spading, or rototilling and adding fertilizer, lime, and other organic materials.

Ground limestone is spread at the same time. According to a Pennsylvania State University correspondence course on soil fertility, about six months are needed for limestone to completely react with the soil. Mixed with the soil in autumn, calcium reaches its full neutralizing effect by planting time.

Phosphorus and potassium fertilizers are also applied in autumn. But without the soluble nitrogen for limonite crop, it leaches away with winter rains.

Do you want to learn more about soil fertility and management? Study the Penn State correspondence course. Anyone can enroll by sending his name and address with $2.50 to Soil Fertility, Box 500, University Park, Pennsylvania 16802. Make checks to PENN STATE.

Nine of the 12 delegates met at the County ASC office Thursday and elected the county committee to serve for 1969. They are Eugene Alexander, Richfield, three year term, with Sorensen, first alternate and Walter Rinehart, Dietrich, second alternate.

The 1969 committee will include chairman, Mack W. Nohr, Paul; Eugene Alexander, Richfield; vice chairman, and Clifford Stutzman, Shoshone.

New Record

The average American consumed a record high of 106.5 pounds of steak, hamburger and other beef cuts last year, says the American Meat Institute. That was two per cent over the previous record of 104 pounds set in 1966.

In addition to all that beef, Americans ate an average of 63.3 pounds of pork, 3.8 pounds of veal and 3.8 pounds of lamb.

Total red meat consumption of 176.8 pounds also was a new record.

More Meat Produced By Lighter Beef

WASHINGTON (AP) — More red meat is being produced from leaner, lighter cattle entering the slaughter market, Agriculture Department figures show.

Commercial slaughter houses turned out nearly 1.8 billion pounds of beef in August, 4 per cent more than a year earlier and 1 per cent more than in July, the department said.

But the four per cent boost in meat production resulted from only a 2 per cent rise in the number of cattle slaughtered during the month. And the average weight of each animal was less—305 pounds, compared with 307 a year earlier, and 1,006 in July.

The figures underline what most cattlemen already know and what the department has been urging for a long time: Cattle should be marketed when they reach market weights and grade.

Economists point out that when cattle are kept on feed beyond this point the extra cost offset much of the gain. It also increases the total volume of meat entering the market, which can contribute to depression of prices.

Cattlemen's response to the problem is reflected in the slaughter report, department officials say.

Improved breeding and selection of feeder cattle by stockmen also have helped develop higher quality animals, going into the slaughter market, officials add.

Big Wheat Exporters Won't Break Minimum Price Treaty

BY DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Major wheat exporting nations have made it clear they won't let international grain arrangements to work and that with enough pressure some concessions can be brought clear through the U.S.

John Schmittler, assistant secretary of agriculture, said Friday that the world's big wheat exporters—the United States, Canada, Australia, Argentina and the Common Market—firmly agreed in Canberra earlier this month not to break minimum prices set by the group.

The treaty went into effect July 1. It has come under fire from some as unrealistic global price fixing that concentrates places the United States at a disadvantage in world wheat trade.

The Department of Agriculture says American farmers can only benefit by the minimum prices, but other nations cooperate all will share competitively in the market.

Schmittler, who helped lead the U.S. delegation to Canberra, said large world stocks of wheat—about twice what the international trade can absorb—are making it rough on all exporting nations, including the United States.

After listening to the problems expressed in Canberra, Schmittler said, it seemed "very clear we are doing about as well as the other major exporters at this time."

The only major concession announced was Australia's bow in including two more wheat types on its ICA list subject to price minimums.

Schmittler said this would help solve some of the problems involving Australia wheat sold under ICA levels.

The most important question about France reportedly underselling the IGA was not settled; Common Market representatives have maintained France has been meeting treaty requirements, that variations in freight rates account for the difference.

Schmittler said he hoped most problems can be solved at a meeting of the IGA's price review committees in London starting Oct. 1 and during talks in Brussels Oct. 9 between U.S. and Common Market representatives.

Undersecretary said that U.S. wheat prices paid to farmers started tumbling at the time the IGA was ratified in June 1967.

Schmittler said the real reason for the market price drop to the lowest point, since before World War II—was "clearly the increase in world supplies."

What has been selling for many producing areas for less than the average of $1.25 a bushel provided by government price supports.

When exporters buy wheat at prices lower than set by the IGA, they must pay the government the "difference" in return for the guaranteed higher world price.

This "inverse subsidy" has been around 20 cents a bushel for hard winter wheat shipped to Gulf ports, for example.

The money collected from exporter payments will be distributed to farmers participating in government wheat programs at

Cedar Draw Grange Holds Special Meet

BUHL — Members of the Cedar Draw Grange held their annual Idaho products supper and booster night at the Grange Hall. The Women's Activity Committee under the direction of Mrs. Lee Mathews decorated the tables and made the dinner arrangements.

Mrs. Ralph Assendrup, lecturer, was in charge of the program and she introduced Leo Childs, executive director of the Idaho Youth Ranch in Rupert. Mr. Childs showed colored slides of the ranch and told the group about different phases of living and working with the 24 boys at the ranch.

The second part of the program consisted of a TV show starring E. B. Hicks. Participating in the program were Connie Hicks with a vocal solo accompanied by Mrs. Carl Hendrix on accordion, melody by Lee Mathews, several numbers by Terry Lechner and John Crawford of the Nobles, Mrs. Louise Moore's idea for re-writing Mother Goose and a special appearance by "Tiny Tim" alias Ralph Assendrup.

Comments during the program were given by Cally and Willy Grindstaff and Mrs. Harvey Grindstaff.

Mrs. Lee Mathews told about her recent trip to Pittsburgh, Pa. While there she demonstrated sewing at a department store.

The next meeting will be Oct.

Experimental Use Of Weed Killer Okayed

Geigy Chemical Corp. has received a permit from the USDA for the experimental use of Igron 50W, a new triazine herbicide developed by the firm for weed control in wheat.

The permit will allow experimental use of the product by wheat growers in the Northwest. A label-permitting full commercial sale of the product is now pending with the USDA.

Geigy has scheduled a series of meetings in Washington, Idaho, and Oregon to introduce growers to Igron and the experimental use program. Geigy representatives will review search data, the results of the past year's test plots and the use of the new herbicide in both pre-emergence and post-emergence applications as well as other features of the new product.

Wheat growers interested in learning about the new herbicide and the trial use program are invited to attend. All meetings will get under way at 8 p.m. Refreshments will be served.

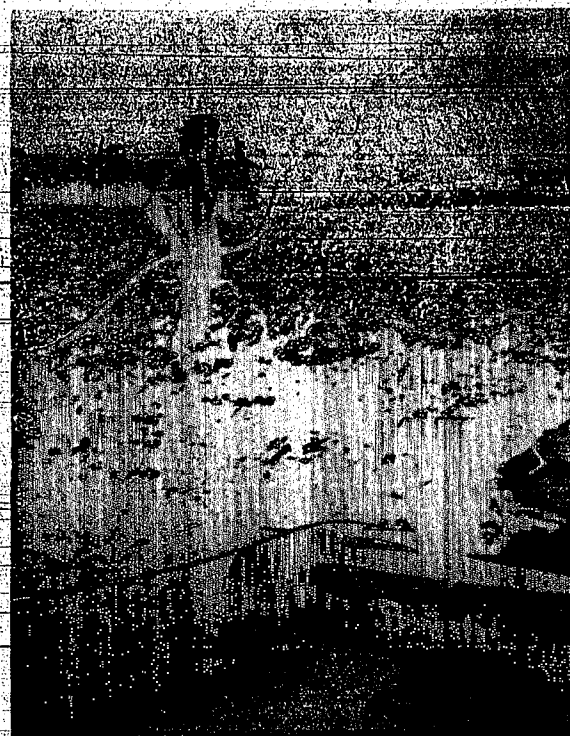

In Idaho, a meeting will be held at Lewiston, Clearwater Power Auditorium, Oct. 2.

Ingrid Barley High Producer

Ingrid barley produced yields up to 125 bushels per acre on irrigated lands, report researchers at the Northwest Montana Branch Experimental Station.

A two-row variety developed by Ingrid barley is reported to have good leaf disease and lodging resistance.

Yields were disappointing under extremely dry conditions and on low fertility fields.

Wheat Sprouting Study Planned

The effect of sprouting on wheat as a feed grain will be examined in a study by the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, it was announced in Boise at a regular meeting of the Idaho Wheat Commission.

Harold West, commission administrator, said the study would be conducted at the University's testing station at Caldwell under the direction of Dr. Joe Dahmen.

Forty head of yearling steers are to be obtained for the evaluation, West said. Varying rations of sprouted and unsprouted wheat will be used in the feeding tests. Similar experiments involving swine and poultry are planned by the university.

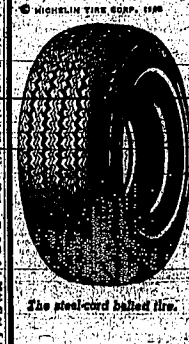

West noted that in conjunction with the feeding tests, detailed analyses of the sprout, which would be conducted at university laboratories in Aberdeen and Boise. Coordinating the research is the College of Agriculture as a social director, R. D. Ensign.

Wheat for the experiments has been supplied by Union Seed Co. of Burley.

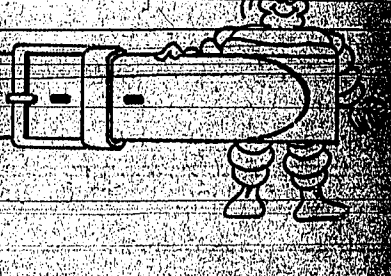

In other wheat commission news, chairman George Harris, Teton, noted that the film on Idaho wheat growers, "Old Mr. Ingrid," had enjoyed extensive nationwide showing during August. Harris said 78 different private groups had viewed the film during the month and it was shown on 26 television stations to a total audience of over 4 1/2 million persons. Some of the places in which "Old Mr. Ingrid" was seen during August were: New York City; Birmingham, Ala.; New Haven, Conn.; Pittsburgh, Pa.; Park Rapids, Minn.; Passaic, N. J.; Branson, Mo.; and Chicago, Ill.

The commission discussed the Golden Spike Livestock Show this year under way now in the Coliseum in West Ogden.

The standard biased tire.

How to make a tire behave on the road? Give it a belt.

With steel cords, it might sound a little hard, but that's just what you need. Michelin's new RADIAL 80 is different than it behaved like no tire ever before. Behaved on fast curves, gave in constant corners, held you on the road. Tread grooves that seem for deep tread traction, but on straightaways, stayed flat to course the way you want. Behaved in the rain, stayed too dry. Developed a new tread pattern, blowout and puncture resistance, behaved in the snow, and the best of all, it's a MICHELIN. A RADIAL 80. It behaves.

Area Implement Dealers Have Field Day In Demonstrating New Farm Equipment

By ROBERT VANAUDELIN, Times-News Farm Editor

Magic Valley farm implement dealers had a field day recently showing off latest equipment used in working the soil.

These pieces of equipment, including new large tractors, were demonstrated at the annual Dryland Tillage Day on the Wesley Fields ranch, north of Fairfield.

As a result of these demonstrations, Mr. Fields is ahead of other farmers and ranchers in the area as far as fall field work. The demonstrations were held on two of his fields, a stubble field and an alfalfa field.

Demonstrated were plows of various kinds and sizes, discs, harrows, alfalfa crowders, fertilizer spreaders, a rotavator, herbicide sprayers, tractors and various other pieces of machinery.

Farmers from throughout Magic Valley were on hand to see the equipment in operation and all fixed what they saw.

Plant Roses In The Fall

All-American Rose Selections, through the nation, the moment of AAS rose ago learned the advantages of fall planting, all but the most northern areas of the U.S.

Although rose plants make little or no growth in the fall, they are planted in the ground setting firmly about the roots during the winter and the plants are established and ready to start active growth with the event of warm weather, long before most spring roses are purchased and planted.

Irrigation Projects Credited With $5-Billion Crop Yields

WASHINGTON — Irrigation projects have been credited by the U.S. Interior Department for yielding more than $5 billion in crops over the years in Idaho, Washington, Wyoming and Oregon.

Kindness To Potatoes Plan Well Received

The policy of kindness to potatoes is taking hold this harvest season as never before, the anti-bruise committee of the Idaho potato industry reported today.

FIRST PREPARE and fertilize bed. Dig hole 15 to 18 inches wide and as deep. Add cup of peat moss mixed with fertilizer. Sprinkle mix well with soil. Form a mound in the center and position rose on mound.

SECOND SEE THAT roots are spread out naturally and not cut and sawing at base of stems) is level with ground. Scatter several inches of loose soil over the roots and firm well with foot.

THIRD FILL remainder of hole with water and allow to drain. See that the hole remains at ground level.

FOURTH COMPLETE filling the hole with soil and tamp. The plant is now ready for the mound of soil which will protect it against rapid heating and thawing during the winter.

FINALLY MOUND soil around each rose plant to a height of 18 inches. Remove protective mound in the spring after growth has started.

TURKEY PRICES To Be Higher Than In '67. The Poultry Survey Committee says the U.S. farm turkey prices during September-December 1968 will average around 22 cents, about three cents above the same period of 1967. Prices are expected to strengthen in December.
