League Sets Meetings On Fair Housing

Fair housing will be discussed at meetings of the League of Women Voters in Twin Falls this week.

Mrs. John Ricks, study chairman, said the meetings will be at 8:30 a.m. Wednesday at Heritage Manor, Fifth Avenue West, and at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the home of Mrs. T. M. Robertson.

Living Costs Slow Pace Of Increase

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today the smallest monthly rise in living costs in a year, two-tenths of one percent.

Officials said, however, that 1968 is almost certain to wind up with the largest jump in prices in 17 years.

It is safe to say the peak of the inflationary surge is past, said Arnold Chase, assistant commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The consumer price index for the month rose to 122.2, which means it cost $12.22 in September for typical family goods and services that cost $10 in the 1957-59 period on which the index is based.

Local CAP Chaplain's Program Is Ranked Third In Nation

The Idaho Wing, Civil Air Patrol's chaplains' program, recently received a third place national plaque for its outstanding program within the Civil Air Patrol.

DISPLAYING A PLAQUE awarded him and the Idaho Wing, Civil Air Patrol Chaplain's program, is Rev. Robert C. Schreckenberg, Twin Falls, who is head of the Idaho unit. The plaque is for a third place achievement rating for 1967.

Rev. Robert C. Schreckenberg was commended during the banquet for his leadership within the chaplains' program and, it was announced during the conference which drew hundreds of chaplains throughout the United States, that through Rev. Schreckenberg's leadership the Idaho Wing's chaplains' program held the highest ranking of all wings in the nation for 1968.

Rev. Schreckenberg, who is a lieutenant colonel in the CAP, said the purpose of the conference was to formulate plans and to provide a general review of the total chaplains' program in the Civil Air Patrol. Pastor of Eastside Southern Baptist Church in Twin Falls, Rev. Schreckenberg supervises some 15 chaplains connected with the program in the Idaho Wing.

The plaque Rev. Schreckenberg received this year was for third place rating achieved during the year of 1967.

Votes Differ

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—There are only two votes in the 36th Precinct of Louisville's Second Ward and Mrs. F. C. Finzer will cast them.

Finzer is a Republican, his wife a Democrat.

But that does not indicate how the vote in the 36th of the Second will go. Usually, say the Finzers, they cancel each other's vote. But this time?

"No comment," says Mrs. Finzer.

"I just haven't made up my mind," says Finzer.

Women Voters Continue To Furnish Nov. 5 Information

As a part of its activity to inform the voters of the issues in the forthcoming election, the League of Women Voters of Twin Falls provides this information concerning one of the amendments on the Nov. 5 ballot.

An amendment dealing with incorporation law, SJR 8, would amend the Constitution to provide the creation of classes of non-voting stock by corporations. The Idaho Constitution now requires that every stockholder of a corporation has the right to vote for directors and managers of that corporation.

The amendment would allow a corporation through its articles of incorporation to limit voting privileges to particular classes of stock. It allows for the sale of common stock which generally has voting rights, and preferred stock which may pay a higher dividend, but which carries no voting rights.

Many companies with headquarters in Idaho incorporate in another state in order to provide for both classes of stock.

Opponents to this amendment argue that it is less Democratic to deny the vote to some stockholders, and that certain ones therefore will be unable to provide their investments or help control corporate policies.

'Mobile' Citizens Play Increasing Role In Vote Outcome By Absentee Balloting

WASHINGTON (AP) — The mobile American, moving around at a rate that rises from year to year, is headed for a bigger role in the 1968 election than any previous one.

All indicators, says a new report in an Associated Press survey, point to a considerably heavier absentee vote than ever before.

But even reasonable estimates on the overall figures are impossible to come by. Too many of the states leave the distribution of absentee ballots to local election boards. And a considerable number never do get any segregated tally on them. In a good many places they are just dumped in the box and counted like any others.

Whatever the count, the possibility that such votes may influence outcomes is perhaps harder to calculate than the way the home voting will go.

One factor is the question whether the stay-at-homes will divide evenly enough among candidates for a possible overturn if the great bulk of the mail ballots go one way. That has been an infrequent thing but, it has happened.

There have been several recent instances in which there were hopes among the losers, at least for a time, that the absentees might change things.

The standout was in California in 1960 when backers of Richard M. Nixon hoped to the last for an overturn. The late President John F. Kennedy led slightly in the regular voting but lost ground among the absentees who were not fully counted for several days. The switch was not enough for Nixon, however, and Kennedy won with a margin of 35,623 votes or 50.1 per cent.

In the same election it took eight days to get a count on the absentees in Alaska and confirmed Nixon's margin of about 400.

However it comes out this year, the absentee voters are wading through the greatest hodgepodge of rules in the whole U.S. election system.

If a serviceman, for example, learns how to get his vote cast and counted at home the information will not serve his buddy from across the state line.

About the only apparent point of full commonality is that servicemen and those attached to them can vote by one means or another in every state. But in two states—Alabama and Louisiana—even a serviceman is out of luck unless he registers in person before he left home.

A number of states treat a postcard application for a ballot, prepared by the government mainly for service people, as a valid registration form. Other states fall between these two extremes on registration.

Mississippi has a tight rule limiting absentee voting to service people and transportation workers. Most states have a broader base and some extend the ballot to anyone who knows he will be out of the state on election day.

A few states have relaxed the curbs a bit this year. South Carolina added some transportation workers to a list of registrations previously limited to service people and students.

A new Florida law waives, for those moving in from other states, a one-year residence requirement for presidential voting.

Alaska mailings of ballots were up by over 1,000. California's absentees were estimated to run around 4.5 per cent of the total vote, up from 4.2 per cent. Hawaii's mailings were double the expected number, Indiana figured 50,000 such ballots.

Iowa expected an increase of 2 to 5 per cent. In Kansas it looked like 20 per cent. Mailings were doubled in Maryland. Spot checks indicated the ballots going fast in Minnesota and more than ever before in Missouri. Nevada estimated a rise of 1,000.

Church Says Ideas Better Than Force

BURLEY—The force of Ideas, more than military might, will influence the world in favor of some United States in the future, Sen. Frank Church declared here Monday night.

Speaking at a fund-raising dinner at the Bayview Lodge for party members from Minidoka and Cassia counties, Sen. Church said, "Our founding fathers understood better than we, that it was the force of freedom in action—a most radical idea for the time—that would make our land a beacon for the oppressed of other lands."

"They were right; our infant republic, founded in the backwaters of the Western world nearly 200 years ago with virtually no military might, proved the experiment of government by the people to be so powerful that within a century, every monarchy of Europe either fell or was radically altered by the quest for freedom by the citizen who is seeking re-election to a third term in the U. S. Senate, noted.

The yearning for freedom, Sen. Church said, "lives today on both sides of the Iron curtain. We see it in Czechoslovakia, where a brave people even now refuse to bow to the might of Soviet armor. Freedom lives in Eastern Europe in the hearts of men. It is a force so strong that even in Soviet Russia, the masters in the Kremlin are hard put to keep it down."

The senator, who has voted for more than $600 billion in military appropriations during his career in the Senate, said the U. S. must maintain a sufficient military force to protect our security against any enemy, now or in the future.

"It is the force of ideas, more than military might, which will win us the greatest influence abroad. We must rekindle anew the faith in freedom we inherited from our forefathers and refuse to be governed by our fears."

Salt Lake Mayor Visits Manila

MANILA (AP) — Mayor J. Bracken Lee of Salt Lake City was in Manila to participate in ceremonies marking the sister city relationship between Salt Lake and Quezon City, near Manila.

Lee, his wife, and 14 other representatives of Salt Lake were met at the Manila International Airport Monday by Quezon City officials, including Mayor Norberto Amoranto.

Amoranto and other city officials are expected to visit Salt Lake City early next year.

They were right; our infant republic, founded in the backwaters of the Western world nearly 200 years ago with virtually no military might, proved the experiment of government by the people to be so powerful that within a century, every monarchy of Europe either fell or was radically altered by the quest for freedom by the citizen who is seeking re-election to a third term in the U. S. Senate, noted.

The yearning for freedom, Sen. Church said, "lives today on both sides of the Iron curtain. We see it in Czechoslovakia, where a brave people even now refuse to bow to the might of Soviet armor. Freedom lives in Eastern Europe in the hearts of men. It is a force so strong that even in Soviet Russia, the masters in the Kremlin are hard put to keep it down."

The senator, who has voted for more than $600 billion in military appropriations during his career in the Senate, said the U. S. must maintain a sufficient military force to protect our security against any enemy, now or in the future.

"It is the force of ideas, more than military might, which will win us the greatest influence abroad. We must rekindle anew the faith in freedom we inherited from our forefathers and refuse to be governed by our fears."

Other buildings which officials hope to be able to bid prior to the end of the year are a dormitory and an eating commons. The PE building will include a basketball court, seating area and dressing rooms, as well as instructional areas.

Wallace Tells Texans His Foes Cannot Represent Interests Of Southern States

BEAUMONT, Tex. (AP) — George C. Wallace, going into the final week of his fight for the presidency, asserted neither M. Nixon nor Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey would represent the South. "We can't nominate either for president or vice president on either of the national party tickets," Wallace said Monday night. "And we don't get representative nomination from those who are nominating the Alabama governor nor drew cheers from his audience in this port city on the Gulf of Mexico when he blamed the Democrats and Republicans at another point for what he said was neglect of the U.S. maritime fleet."

During an earlier speech in Hannibal, Mo., a sharp-edged rock the size of a fist sailed from the crowd of about 3,000 and fell about 12 feet in front of Wallace.

"I don't mind speaking here," Wallace said, "but when you start throwing rocks that size, two eggs also were hurled at Wallace, along with an assortment of pennies, pebbles and small sticks. None hit him. There was only a handful of dissenters in the crowd at Hannibal. Two of them, both Negroes, were hauled away by police after a shouting match with a Wallace supporter."

In Beaumont, three Negroes were yanked from the crowd, handcuffed and taken away in a police car, and during a brief airport speech at Quincy, Ill., police removed a protester dressed in hippie garb.

In all three of his appearances Monday Wallace continued his attack on the Gallup Poll, which aimed in its latest report that Wallace's popularity had slipped from 20 per cent of the electorate to 15 per cent.

Wallace insisted the size of his crowds during the past week indicated that the opposite was in mind of underestimating the size of his crowds.

"Our movement is going good, regardless of what the pollsters say," he told the Beaumont audience. Then, turning to the press corps, he said sarcastically, "Now you newsmen write about these 200 folks here being unenthusiastic."

The crowd numbered from 13,000 to 15,000 and was unmistakably pro-Wallace. It even lacked any of his accustomed jeers.

Wallace told his audience that some newsmen had "whined" to him about stirring antagonism against the press at his rallies. "I don't want anybody to hurt anybody," he said. "We want to be hospitable to them, we want to be kind to them."

"But you know, they've written so many things about me that are untrue the past several years, calling me everything evil under the sun, that when I go to a city like New York it takes 3,200 policemen to get me into the building because of what they've written about me. And then when I say a little something about them, they whine and say, 'You're going to get us hurt. You're good all right, but they can't take it. I can take it and dish it out.'"

Actress Reports Theft Of Jewels

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Actress Vivian Blaine told police Monday more than $11,000 in furs, jewelry and other articles were stolen from her hotel suite.

Miss Blaine, appearing in "Don't Drink the Water" at Glowers Memorial Hall, said missing articles included a white mink furpiece, a ruby pin, other jewelry and two blonde wigs used in the play.

Here's the story...

- In November Idaho will vote on Constitutional Amendment, S.J.R. 4, which will allow the Idaho Legislature to pass laws saying how Idaho's $75 million in endowment funds should be invested.
- Presently, Idaho's endowment funds are invested ONLY in government bonds yielding 3.5%. Other states receive as much as 8% return on their investments, through sound, modern investment practices.
- Had Idaho invested its $75 million in endowment funds in the same manner the Idaho Public Employees Retirement System did in early 1967, Idaho would be more than $4 million richer, today.
- The Idaho Daily Statesman reported editorially on S.J.R. 4: "... the state is losing over $3.5 million a year. About two-thirds of that is money that should be going into the endowment funds for the public schools. Idaho's taxpayers are paying now for the failure to make this change years ago.

S.J.R. 4 IS SUPPORTED AND ENDORSED BY:

- E. T. Waters, State Chairman Democratic Party
- Roland Wilber, State Chairman Republican Party
- Associated Industries of Idaho
- Idaho Teamsters Union
- Idaho Public Employees Retirement System
- Savings and Loan League of Idaho
- Idaho Commissioner of Finance
- Passed by both houses of the 1968 Idaho Legislature UNANIMOUSLY!

McClure, White Debate In Boise

By The Associated Press

"The force of ideas, more than military might, will win the world in favor of the United States," Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said in Boise. Other political affairs Monday included a joint appearance in Boise by Rep. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, and his First District Democratic opponent, Compton I. White.

Church said he had voted for

'Hopefuls' Plan Vote For Chief

BOISE (AP) — None of Idaho's congressional candidates say they would let the popular vote be their only guide if they were elected and the House of Representatives has to choose the next president.

However, all but one of them say they would not necessarily vote for the nominee of their party.

Democratic candidates State Rep. Darrell Manning of the Second District and Compton I. White of the First District say they would consider the popular vote in Idaho if the House should choose the president.

Under the Constitution, the House must select the president, with each state having one vote, in the event no candidate receives a majority of the electoral vote.

White says he believes he has "a definite responsibility to look after the state of Idaho." Manning says he would use the vote "as a guideline."

Manning's Republican opponent, Sen. Orval Hansen, says, regardless of the popular vote, he would vote for Republican Richard M. Nixon because he "has strongly that Nixon is the best qualified man to be president."

Rep. James A. McClure, the First District Republican incumbent, says that under any circumstances he would vote for Nixon, but he adds that if the House must choose the president, he would "look at the qualifications which might surround it at that time" before voting.

Joel Anderson, American Independent Party candidate, says he would vote for the Republican nominee under no circumstances vote for Democrat Hubert Humphrey "as a guide if the top man is Nixon or AIP candidate George Wallace."

Modest Candidate Sets Sights On 2 Per Cent Of Utah Vote

By The Associated Press

A senatorial candidate says he hopes to receive 2 per cent of the popular vote.

Bruce Phillips, Utah Peace and Freedom Party nominee, said Monday two per cent would mean the party would be granted voting district meetings and county conventions in the next election.

He said in such meetings the poor might develop political commitment by themselves and "not by someone who doesn't live in their community... and assimilate the problems at the gut level."

Democratic senatorial candidate Milton Wellenmann said Monday night if Sen. Wallace F. Bennett were re-elected, the Republicans would "return in a minority position, not able to serve as a committee chairman, a subcommittee chairman or as a vibrant vocal force and spokesman for Utah."

Bennett's son, Robert, said 1968 was a pivotal year in U.S. history, when a Republican minority would be elected and asked, "Does Utah want to enter the new era without a Republican voice in the Senate?"

And earlier a Wellenmann spokesman has announced organization of "Housewives for Wellenmann" to inform Utah housewives that the senatorial candidate "stands on the platform of special importance to families."

Gov. Calvin Rumpston said the struggle to meet the educational needs of the war babies since 1945 has finally become stable, "giving Utah the opportunity to deal with the quality of schools."

His Republican opponent, Carl W. Huebner, said Rumpston had said in a newspaper advertisement the governor favored repeal of Utah's "Right to Work" law. He said "if the people of

He said the United States must maintain sufficient military force for protection against any enemy, but "it is the force of ideas, more than military might, which will win the world in favor of the United States, the greatest in our era."

McClure said he hoped the peace talks with North Vietnam would yield results and that they would not be "bogged down in the political campaign."

White said he also hoped for successful peace talks, and said he was not "one of those who would support dropping nuclear weapons or getting in a nuclear war."

McClure said the increase in crime rates has been nine times the rate of population increase, with the growth of mob violence as "legitimate dissent." He said Americans are asking why the crime is being accepted and want a "new attorney general who doesn't say there is nothing wrong."

White said he also supported "law and order," but believed the real solution lay in finding "the real reasons why these things happen" and correcting them. He blamed the "poverty cycle."

White Said He Also Supported 'Law and Order'

White said he also supported "law and order," but believed the real solution lay in finding "the real reasons why these things happen" and correcting them. He blamed the "poverty cycle."

Republican State Chairman Roland Wilber charged that Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., had given a distorted picture of the Senate seniority system in a statement supporting Church.

Wilber said the Senate majority is being eroded by the "real reasons why these things happen" and correcting them. He blamed the "poverty cycle."

Pocatello Students Gain Statewide Interest In Move To Lower Idaho Voting Age To 18

POCATELLO (AP) — A movement started by two Pocatello High School students to bring state legislators' attention to the students' desire to lower the voting age to 18 now is receiving statewide attention.

Students Mike McPeck and Steve Park started the movement after hearing U.S. Sen. Frank Church and U.S. Rep. George Hansen speak at Idaho State University. They began circulation of petitions among the students, and a similar movement was begun at Borah High School.

Because of the interest shown by students from other schools, the two schools have divided the state and now are mailing petitions to other high schools. Pocatello High is covering the southern section and Borah High the north.

"We plan to gather up all these petitions and take them to the state legislature, in order to show the legislators that support for a lower voting age is statewide and to persuade them to look into our proposal with a biased and open mind," said McPeck.

Great Society administration and the so-called New Republicanism to effectively back our fight," Anderson declared.

Joseph Stumph Jr., of Twin Falls, the AIP's state chairman, accused Nixon of putting personal ambition above national interest by refusing to debate with Hubert H. Humphrey—the Democratic nominee—because the nominee encourages the racism in their strong support for the open housing, or forced housing bill recently passed by Congress."

Charges Of Forgery Filed On Pair In LDS Theft Case

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Forgery has been added to a list of charges against two men accused of stealing $604,199.65 from the Mormon Church.

Bond for Lamar Edward Kay, 40, former church accountant, and Gordon Clarence Darrow was increased $5,000 Monday to $25,000 for Kay and $30,000 for Darrow after filing of the new charges.

The new complaint, filed by Police Sgt. Dave P. Bradford as was the previous complaint, charges the men with forging a check Sept. 24, knowing the check was false, and intending to defraud the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints.

Of the $604,000, Bradford said slightly more than $72,000 had been recovered.

Bradford said the sum had been taken when phony checks using names of legitimate contracting firms working for the church had been submitted to the church officials. He said the church authorities made out checks in the names of the firms and the checks were deposited in accounts opened at several Salt Lake area banks under the firms' names.

Court Urged To Settle Utah Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special master recommended Monday to the Supreme Court that it press ahead and settle a dispute between the federal government and Utah over ownership of about 436,000 acres of the bed of the Great Salt Lake.

"The public and the courts have an interest in having the question of title over the relict of land decided," said J. Cullen Gandy, a federal appeals court judge in Philadelphia, who is studying the dispute at the court's behest.

At the same time, Gandy recommended that the Morton International Salt and the Great Salt Lake Minerals and Chemical companies not be permitted to intervene.

For one thing, he said, the state of Utah has not consented to sue or be sued by either of the private firms.

The acreage in dispute is land that has been exposed in the recession of the lake since Utah joined the Union in 1896. Its major importance is that it leads to minerals and brines in solution in the waters of the lake which have a substantial value for the chemical, processed and marketed.

Utah has invested millions of dollars in the development and improvement of the land and granted leases covering much of the acreage. The United States first asserted a claim to part of the land in 1959.

Earlier this year Utah Atty. Gen. Phil Hansen said the court should restrict its action to the federal and state governments. He said the two firms are admitted to the case some 100 other leasees and land owners could be involved.

was dismissed for writing an article critical of the Supreme Court's civil-rights decisions.

Robert L. Carter, NAACP general counsel, says he and his staff quit because the NAACP national board of directors would not conform to its kind of orthodoxy."

The staff resigned Monday in a dispute over the board's dismissal of Lewis M. Stec, an assistant counsel. Stec was ousted for having written "Nine Men in Black Who Think White," which appeared Oct. 13 in "The New York Times" magazine.

The article said the courts had struck down only "symbols of racism" and had overlooked "frightening practices" of white supremacy.

Stec, Carter, and five of the seven lawyers on Carter's staff appeared Monday at a news conference. Carter said that his staff of seven lawyers and all seven clerks on the legal staff were quitting to protest the national board's refusal to reconsider the dismissal of Stec.

Carter added: "The irony and tragic absurdity of this entire situation is that the board insists that its lawyers conform to its kind of orthodoxy."

Boise Bank Hit By Bandit Pair

BOISE (AP) — Police searched today for two mismatched men who took about $9,500 from the Vista Ave. branch of the First Security Bank in Boise Monday.

Det. O. Shaw, bank manager, said the two men entered the bank, ordered everyone to face a wall and scooped money from a drawer.

Witnesses said the pair ran from the bank, got into a light green station wagon and drove away. Roadblocks were set up by city, county and state officers.

Engelking Endorses Plan To Sell Payette Lake Land

BOISE (AP) — The proposed sale of valuable state land on Payette Lake and Payette River in Southwestern Idaho would contribute a great deal to support of schools in the state, according to the state superintendent of public instruction.

D. F. Engelking, a member of the State Land Board which last week approved the proposed sale of 1,700 acres about 110 miles north of Boise, emphasized that the state should obtain the highest price possible for the land.

"The only thing the board has done is to set up stipulations as to what must be done by whoever purchases it," he said.

Four Southwest Idaho businessmen have asked the land board for several years to sell the land, saying they want to build a golf course, homesites and other recreational developments there.

The purchaser — at public auction — must not pollute the lake, and North Beach on Payette Lake, near the site, must be preserved for public access, he said.

Money from the sale, as well as interest on the sale and prop-

Agnew Denies 'Conflict Of Interest' Charges Published By Times

NEW YORK (AP) — Republican Vice Presidential candidate Spiro T. Agnew has denied all the charges in a New York Times editorial that accused him of "clear and repeated conflicts of interest" while serving as Maryland's governor.

In a four-page statement issued Monday night in Houston, Tex., Agnew said it was unfortunate that the Times "should find itself in the embarrassing position of having pulled the major blower of the campaign."

"Everyone knows that the Times endorsed Vice President Humphrey and is actively supporting him," the statement continued. "The fact that the Times waited until a week before the election to distort the facts and make its inaccurate charges against me compounds the libel."

Meanwhile the Times reprinted the editorial in today's edition. The newspaper acted after Richard M. Nixon, the GOP presidential nominee, said he would demand a retraction of the editorial which first appeared Saturday.

Nixon, in a network television interview Sunday night, said the editorial was "the lowest kind of gutter politics that a great newspaper could possibly engage in. It is not news that's fit to print."

In today's editorial the Times said: "Mr. Nixon asserted that the charges in the Times were 'stale.' Some, if not all, of these issues were indeed raised prior to the campaign; but that fact makes them not one whit the less valid, nor less pertinent to a judgment on Mr. Agnew's fitness to be vice president of the United States."

The editorial said Saturday that Agnew joined a group of businessmen in purchasing a tract of land on the probable approach of a new Chesapeake Bay bridge and sold it only after he had become governor and in response to public criticism.

In his statement Agnew said: "The Times charged or inferred that because of favorable treatment given friends of mine while I was in office that my financial worth has risen sharply. This is a completely false statement."

Agnew said that several weeks ago he declared his net worth at $10,000. He said that of that total $35,000 to $40,000 had been inherited from his parents.

He said that prior to his election as governor he voluntarily disclosed his ownership in the bay bridge land and decided his interest in an irrevocable trust with instructions that it be sold, and any profit turned over to a charitable organization.

He said the approach route to the new bay bridge "was approved and recommended by the State Roads Commission under a Democratic governor prior to my administration."

He said the land was sold by the trustee for the same price he had paid for it.

In today's editorial the Times said that an attorney for Nixon and Agnew informed the newspaper Monday that the "sole factual point under challenge by Mr. Nixon was the sentence: 'In response to public criticism Gov. Agnew later sold his share of the land.'"

"The contention is made that at the time he decided to sell the land, Mr. Agnew was not governor, but was candidate for governor. Furthermore, instead of beneficially selling his share in the partnership, he had placed his interest in the hands of a bank, in trust, with instructions that it be sold. Mr. Agnew was to recoup his original purchase price, but any profits were to go to a children's home," the editorial said.

"As it turns out, Mr. Agnew's share was sold at auction by the trustees the following year—while he was governor—for the price Mr. Agnew had paid for it. The only (and successful) bidder was a lawyer representing Mr. Agnew's former partners in the investment."

"Mr. Agnew did not profit from this sale, nor did editorial allege that he had so profited," the editorial said. "The other statements concerning Mr. Agnew's real estate activities and his directorship of the Chesapeake National Bank apparently are undisputed."

The Saturday editorial charged that Agnew's association with the bank "involves clear and repeated conflicts of interest" because, the Times said, it was under jurisdiction of state banking laws.

Agnew said the bank is a national bank and not a state bank and comes under the jurisdiction of the federal comptroller of the currency. He denied a charge that an county executive of Baltimore County he had voted to deposit funds in the bank.

He also denied a charge that he had sold inherited the bank stock from his father, although the bank did not open until a year after his father's death. Agnew said that what he did say was that he sold stock inherited from his father and used the money to purchase the bank stock.

The statement said that the only state funds on deposit in the bank were placed there during the term of his predecessor, that no additional funds had been deposited or accounts opened with the bank during Agnew's term.

Agnew said in the statement that "before the editorial was written the Times was advised by my campaign manager that its information was inaccurate."

He added: "The Times knew of these old charges and had a complete file on me in 1966 when it endorsed me for governor of Maryland."

Candidate Humphrey Seeks To Snag Wallace Votes

Requests Half-Vote

DETROIT (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, eager to avoid any minute setback in the Republican ranks, is urging party workers to get him an extra half vote per precinct—because "it could make the difference."

This was the message Nixon carried to the GOP faithful in Albany, N.Y., and Pittsburgh, Monday, before flying to Detroit for a series of three suburban rallies today.

The Republican presidential candidate told a Pittsburgh party meeting that an extra half vote—in each precinct—would have given him a victory in 1960 over the late John F. Kennedy.

"I don't want to lose those votes on Nov. 5, Nixon said, "It could make the difference this time."

Nixon said "this is the week that is." And he urged his listeners: "Don't panic in the face of personal attacks. Just crack them right on the issues."

The GOP candidate, appearing later before more than 14,000 in Pittsburgh's domed civic auditorium, noted this is Halloween week and predicted: "This week you're going to see a lot of tricks pulled out of the bag—these by the panicky ones on the other side."

The nominee also sought to stave off any letdown that might result from publication of national public opinion polls that might indicate a spur for Democratic rival Hubert H. Humphrey.

"I never pay any attention to and I say he couldn't do it as president of the United States."

As Humphrey combats the populous eastern industrial states in the waning days of his campaign, he is devoting less and less time to sniping at Wallace.

Directing his attack toward the third-party candidate, Humphrey asked in remarks prepared for a factory visit: "Can he really run the government? Can he keep our economy strong? Can he keep the workers on overtime and full employment lines?"

"He couldn't do it in Alabama polls," he told newsmen upon arrival here. But his staff distributed to reporters two press releases reporting that Nixon-sponsored polls put him comfortably in the lead in eight key states.

The Detroit News poll, released Sunday, gives Nixon a one-percentage-point lead in Michigan.

He did have some trouble with a few dozen hecklers in Pittsburg and they seemed to get under his skin. Many of the hecklers who tried to disrupt his speech, filmed for a television broadcast, were backers of the California grape pickers' labor movement.

At one point, talking about law and order, Nixon motioned toward his tormentors in the balcony and declared, "Believe me, we need it after we see what's going on up there."

When Nixon parts a sea drowned out the opposition chants, the candidate raised his hand in an upward slash and cried, "Sock it to 'em!"

Then he made a mock bow toward the demonstrators.

backroads and turnpikes of northern Ohio Monday.

The day's best crowds came at the end. Several thousand greeted him at a rally in an airplane hangar when he arrived in Pittsburgh around midnight. An estimated 7,000 persons turned out earlier in a shopping center near Cleveland to hear Humphrey boill the last week's campaigning down to a single issue: "Whom can you trust?"

"Trust between the president and the people only exists when a man is unafraid to face the people. But Mr. Nixon, the man behind the balloons, won't debate; won't take his case to the people and thinks he can buy the White House with a Madison Avenue ad campaign."

Humphrey also kept a secondary target in sight—Nixon's appointing mate.

"Mr. Nixon's first responsibility was Spiro T. Agnew, the man he wants to stand a heartbeat away from the presidency in a nuclear age," Humphrey said. "The sad fact is, my friends, that one president of every three in the past 50 years has not lived out his full term of office. Are you really willing to trust this country to President Agnew?"

As Humphrey campaigned today for Pennsylvania's 22 electoral votes—a third highest among the states—he issued a statement pledging government support to industry in eradicating unemployment.

The position paper on employment called for expanded job opportunities in the public sector and emergency legislation under which the federal government would finance a major part of the task of providing unemployed workers jobs with state, local, or private, nonprofit agencies.

Star Scout Badge Given At Oakley

OAKLEY — James Whittle received the star badge at a court of honor for Boy Scout Troop 25 at the Oakley LDS First Ward MIA meeting.

Scouts were urged by Dean Clark, Eagle Scout, to work to obtain the rank, which is the highest in scouting.

First class advancements were presented to Charles Ellsworth, Mark Alton, Barry Matthews and Stephen Lughren.

Second class badges were awarded Paul Mathews, Kelly Crafton, Robert Washburn, Kenneth Hale, Dean Burch and Marvin Hale.

Motif badges were presented to Dwight Hale, James Whittle, Cameron Critchfield and James Burch in addition to many who received rank advancement.

The awards were presented by Robert Whittle and Kent Hale, both committeemen, and John Adams, Scoutmaster.

North Idahoan To Hear Dispute

POCATELLO (AP) — A North Idaho district judge — Watt E. Prather of Coeur d'Alene—has been assigned to handle the case of the Bannock County Democratic nomination for assessor.

Eleven Bannock County citizens seek to nullify the nomination of Ralph Lacy in the Aug. 6 primary election.

Three Sixth District judges in Pocatello disqualified themselves from considering the case.

Original tallies showed Lacy won by three votes. The election commission says a recount by the state attorney general's office showed Lacy won by two votes.

Hunter Dies

PARLEYS CANYON, Utah (AP) — Deer hunter George W. McClure, 55, Salt Lake City, was killed by a bullet in the chest when his .30-30 rifle accidentally discharged, said Salt Lake County sheriff's officers.

Sheriff's Sgt. Kenneth Moeller said McClure had reached into the car trunk to pull out the rifle by its muzzle on Monday.

The trigger caught on a knob of a golf cart and the weapon discharged. McClure was hit in the chest.

BOSTON (AP) — Richard Cardinal Cushing, Roman Catholic archbishop of Boston, says he still intends to resign, hoping to become a missionary in South America, and will "be in touch with the Pope and explain the whole thing to him."

The cardinal also said at a news conference Monday that he has cancer three years ago, but now feels as fit as a "half-back for the Boston Patriots."

And, he said, he would have changed a remark made about Jacqueline Kennedy's remarriage if he had known a reporter was in the audience.

There has been no official Vatican reaction to the cardinal's statement last Friday that he intended to resign because of Cushing has said that he is resigning because of his defense of the Kennedy-Aristotle marriage. The Roman Catholic Church does not sanction marriage between a Catholic and a divorced person.

The 72-year-old cardinal also told newsmen that surgeons discovered a malignancy in his digestive tract three years ago during an operation to remove polyps.

"There has been no recurrence," he said.

Cushing said he wants to go to South America after his retirement because "I'll have to go somewhere. I can't stay here."

"If they don't understand me after 47 years, they'll never understand me," he said.

Dear Abby

DEAR ABBY: My problem is who to do with a girl when she is your own mother-in-law? Every time she comes to our house, she steals towels, pictures, clothing, and little knick-knacks you can buy for 50 cents. I had about $50 saved up which I kept in an old wallet in my drawer. After the old lady was here, the money was missing. My Gypsy old maid, "Grandma took it." We're sure she did, but when we ask her about it, she doesn't know from nothing.

When we go to HER house we see all the stuff she's carries away from our place. When we ask her where she got it, she says, "Someone gave to me." I'm all for taking an empty suitcase over there and retrieving our belongings, but the wife says no. If this keeps on, we'll have to move with the old lady. What do you make of this, and what would you do?

NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: I would guess that the woman has become mentally unhinged. I wouldn't leave anything of value around where she can get at it, and I would keep a sharp eye on her when she visits. P.S. Meanwhile, you might start a "teaching" back what is yours. Then let mother-in-law squawk.

DEAR ABBY: I can certainly sympathize with the woman who is tired of fighting off every man who takes her out. I am a widow with the same problem. They all sing the same tune, "What do you have to lose?"

I finally hit on a perfect solution. When a supposedly "fine" eligible bachelor took me out to dinner recently and then bluntly propositioned me, I said, "I'd love to. My price is $300." After he regained his composure he took me straight home and I never heard from him again. LAST LAUGH

DEAR LAST: There is a name for a woman who puts a price tag on herself — it is $5 of $50. If you don't care what you're valued at, that's YOUR business, but someone might take you seriously and think it's your BUSINESS. So don't be so sure the last laugh was yours.

DEAR ABBY: The public school my children attend has just built a swimming pool. The boys have certain hours to swim and so do the girls, and they

Deep-Ocean Vessel To Speed Research

By JIM STROTHMAN

A revolutionary deep-ocean search and recovery ship is on the drawing boards and scheduled to begin sea trials within a few months. The ship will greatly bolster the nation's ability to locate submarines lost at sea.

Working with Navy deep-sea search and recovery submarines to be deployed beginning in 1970, the new search ship offers hope that a Scripps and Thresher-type submarine sunk in the future can be found rapidly enough to save their crews.

Billed as "the largest and most advanced deep-ocean search and recovery vessel ever planned," the $5 million ship will be built jointly by Aluminac Company of America, headquartered in Pittsburgh, Pa., and Ocean Science and Engineering Inc. of Washington, D.C.

The heavyweight ship is to be named the "Alcoa Seaprobe," and—with an overall length of 240 feet—will be the largest aluminum vessel ever launched.

Utilizing patented techniques and equipment, the vessel will possess the ability to hold its position in rough seas; search, core, drill, and sample mineral deposits on the sea floor, and locate and retrieve objects as heavy as 200 tons more than a mile beneath the surface.

Alcoa spokesmen said:

Looking like an ocean liner with a lowering oil derrick (thrusting skyward from its mid-section, the vessel's vast potential stems from its power to pierce the sea floor to depths far beyond the reach of most advanced deep-diving submarines and then to seek out, grasp and retrieve heavy objects which submarines cannot lift because of their own limited buoyancy.

Unlike deep-diving submarines, which have limited range and station-keeping ability, the Seaprobe is being designed under a concept that the best way to find something on the sea floor is to use a safe and well equipped observation outpost on the sea surface.

From the derrick mounted over Seaprobe's center well, a string of drill pipe will be lowered to the ocean bottom. The long pipe can serve either as support coring or drilling equipment, or to bear search sensors and recovery gear, officials said.

During an undersea search, a streamlined unmanned container-shaped much like a large deep-sea trap will be attached to the lower end of the pipe. Peering out from the container will be high-powered lights, television cameras, sonar and magnetometers.

On the surface above, technicians in an observation and control room will watch the television and sonar signals conducted by a cable inside the pipe.

With sensors able to look at thousands-foot-wide swaths of the ocean bottom and a Seaprobe's range of 10,000 miles, vast areas of the sea floor will be covered with far more detail and greater speed than now possible, officials said.

Once an object of interest is found, the pipe will be retracted and devices attached to the end which can first blast away silt, then grasp and lift the object to the surface. The Seaprobe, to be manned by a crew of 40, will be able to haul up objects weighing up to 200 tons from depths of up to 6,000 feet.

Submarines the size of the Scripps and Thresher weigh more than 200 tons, but research submarines such as the Alvin could be retrieved. So could space hardware, weapons, many downed airplanes, art objects, treasure and other things of importance now lost at sea.

If the Seaprobe is located at the location of a large sunken submarine, Navy deep-sea rescue vehicles now being designed could be used to launch the craft. The first of these rescue craft, each capable of transporting up to 24 crewmen between a stricken submarine and a mother vessel on the surface, is to be ready for use in 1970.

Democrats Play Republican Film

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Republican television commercial showing a smiling Hubert H. Humphrey with scenes of war, poverty and rioting has been shown by the Democratic National Committee.

"It is a smear in keeping with Nixon's below-the-belt reputation in politics and unworthy of a man running for the nation's highest office," the Democratic committee said in a statement.

In Detroit an aide to Richard M. Nixon said there would be no comment on the matter.

The one-minute commercial, paid for by the Nixon campaign, was shown at 8:47 p.m. during the "Rowan and Martin Laugh-In" show.

A spokesman for the National Broadcasting Co. said under federal law political advertisements may not be censored by the networks. He said NBC received about 200 calls objecting to the commercial.

The commercial interspersed pictures of bloodied, rioting dead soldiers and refugees with photographs of Humphrey.

The Democrat National Committee said it immediately filed a protest with NBC and the National Fair Campaign Practices Committee.

Boise Youth, 16, Found Safe

MURPHY, Idaho (AP)—A 15-year-old Boise boy was found in good condition by a County Deputy Monday in the remote southwestern Idaho mountains.

Owyhee County Deputy Sheriff C. J. Jurriss said Eddie Hanges was spotted from the air about 70 miles south of Jordan Valley, Ore., while walking on a mountain road.

The youth had apparently split from four hunting companions while walking out of the wilderness area.

Owyhee County Sheriff Al Barbieri and members of a search party brought the boy back to Boise late Monday.

Soroptimist Youth Citizen Scholarship Is Available

Any students in high schools in Twin Falls County who are graduating from high school next spring are eligible to apply for Youth Citizenship Awards, according to members of the local Soroptimist Club.

Karen Griggs, at the Stradley Insurance Agency, Kimberly, said she has applications for students wanting to apply.

Applicants must have proven records of service in the home, school and community; must have executed responsibilities with truthfulness, loyalty and punctuality; must have demonstrated ability to lead with self control, dignity and responsibility, and must have pursued endeavors with sincerity and integrity.

Evidence in the form of letters must accompany each application. The letters must be from adults who are not related to the candidate.

The Soroptimist Club will present a $100 Saving Bond to the county winner. The winner's application will be forwarded to the Rocky Mountain Region where the winner will receive $1,000 in cash, and the finalist award will be $1,500 in cash.

Winners in the 15 regions and two affiliated areas of the Soroptimist Federation of America, Inc., will compete for the finalist award.

Seniors must submit application by Feb. 1, 1969. Judges will not be members of the club.

Swarming European Cities Vie To Find Living Space

LONDON (AP) — Living space is running out in many of Europe's great cities. And still the people swarm in from the hinterlands to seek their fortunes — and places to live — already packed to the brim.

More than a third of Britain's population of 52 million already is crowded into Greater London and the area within 50 miles around it. The Britons in this region are expected to increase by four million to 22 million in the next 10 years.

French farmers have swarmed into Paris since World War II from their small, poor-paying farms. Paris and suburbs have swollen from 6.7 million Frenchmen in 1938 to 9.5 million. This is a city where more than a quarter of the apartment buildings are at least 100 years old and only 50 per cent of them contain bathrooms.

Rome has grown from a city of a million inhabitants 20 years ago to 2,250,000. Milan jumped from just under a million to 1.7 million. Turin now equals with 1,430,000 compared with 800,000 at the end of the war.

Housing developments came along so fast that many new owners in Italy found themselves without roads or sewage systems.

Madrid's population has tripled since 1935 to an estimated three million. The city is slowly losing its fight to put every family in its own house or apartment. There are still more than 18,000 "chabolas" or shacks scattered around the edge of Madrid and 62,868 Madrid families live two or more to an apartment.

Communist capitals like Moscow and Warsaw halt the modern migration to the cities by simply refusing residence permits. Only specialists whose presence is required can settle in these Communist capitals.

All over Europe, planners and architects are trying to meet the challenge of this flight from remote farms and villages, the natural population increase and the problems of aging cities. Plans vary from city to city although high rise apartment buildings play a big part in most of them.

Planning is complicated by the necessity of preserving ancient buildings and monuments of bygone glory. Not a trace of Europe's old cities can claim they are winning the fight.

Former Chief Of Military Dies At 74

DETROIT (AP) — Former Secretary of the Army, William M. Brucker died Monday after collapsing from an apparent heart attack while attending a Detroit Economic Club luncheon. He was 74.

Brucker, who retired from his law practice last July, served as Army secretary under Defense Secretary Charles Wilson during the Eisenhower administration.

It was Brucker who supervised National Guard intervention in Little Rock, Ark., in 1957 to help desegregate that city's schools, and it was he who authorized the military to remain in Berlin in 1958 in the face of demands by Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev that U.S. troops be withdrawn.

He was named counsel to the Defense Department Brucker appeared at the Army-McCarthy hearings in 1954 and often laughed when the late U.S. Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., asked insinuating questions.

"I'm sorry," Brucker would say to mock apology to McCarthy, "but it seems funny to me."

When he graduated from the University of Michigan in Law School in 1916, Brucker joined the Michigan National Guard and fought in an expedition in Mexico against Pancho Villa, and later with Douglas MacArthur's Rainbow Division in France during World War I.

After the war, Brucker served as chief prosecuting attorney in Saginaw County, then at the age of 33 became Michigan's attorney general.

In 1931, at the age of 36, he was elected governor. Declaring he felt "like a vagabond king," the governor cut his own salary 10 per cent to $4,800 a year.

Brucker lost his bid for reelection in Franklin D. Roosevelt's New Deal deluge of 1932.

In 1934, Brucker was named as the Department of Defense's general counsel, and it was then that he raised the ire of McCarthy, who was investigating alleged lapses of security in the U.S. Army.

When Army Secretary Robert T. Stevens suddenly resigned in 1953, Defense Secretary Charles Wilson called on Brucker for the job.

Brucker is survived by his widow Clara, an author and three grandchildren. He lived at Grosjean Pointe Farms, a Detroit suburb.

LeMay Endorses Desegregation

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — George C. Wallace's running mate, Curtis L. LeMay, says he favors desegregation and thinks "every real thinking person in the country" feels the same.

Campaigning in the Midwest for the American Independent party ticket, the retired Air Force general said he's for equal rights and opportunities for everyone in the country.

"I believe everyone believes in that," LeMay said at a news conference here Monday. LeMay added, however, that it opposed to federal civil desegregation should be left to the states and the processes of education.

"Encouraging desegregation is one thing," he said, "but forcing it down someone's throat is another."

WHO'S SCARED?

Halloween is coming soon, time for all little goblins to visit the neighborhood for treats. We join the local police and your child's school in a few words of advice: be sure your little ones wear costumes or clothing that are easily visible by night. If they are too young to watch for cars, go with them. If you're driving at night, keep an eye out for them. We know you are aware of these things, but we just wanted to remind you. We love children, too.

Wine Expert Sees 1968 As 'Great'

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A California wine expert proclaims 1968 as one of the state's "great vintage years."

The grape harvest is nearly complete in the wine country of the coastal counties north of San Francisco famous for their zinfandel, cabernet sauvignon, gamay and other California wine varieties.

"The weather was practically ideal this year," said Harold W. Berg, chairman of the viticulture and enology department at the University of California in Davis.

This produced just the right blend of acid and sugar in the grapes, he said.

WHO FIRED THE SHOTS THAT COUNTED AGAINST FEDERAL GUN CONTROLS? FRANK CHURCH DID.

George Hansen keeps trying to distort the record by misrepresenting Frank Church's long, hard fight against federal gun controls.

GEORGE HANSEN CLAIMS—he was "first in Idaho" to oppose federal gun controls.

HERE ARE THE FACTS... Frank Church declared his opposition to federal gun controls in 1957, seven years before George Hansen went to Congress.

THE AMERICAN RIFLEMAN
Senator Church told American Rifleman Magazine in October 1957: "It is an affront to place regulation upon the right of the people of my state to keep and bear their sporting arms. The fact that they look with an extremely suspicious eye upon any attempt to tamper with that right in any way, and have written to me such numbers and with such an evident sense of outrage, shows the strength of the tradition and heritage of which I speak."

GEORGE HANSEN CLAIMS—that Frank Church "did not show up to fight federal gun controls," and "missed the final vote."

HERE ARE THE FACTS... The Idaho Daily Statesman, the largest Republican newspaper in the state, set the record straight on October 18, 1968:

"When the Senate and House voted last week on the conference report on firearms legislation Congressman Hansen accused Senator Church of being absent on the "showdown" vote on the issue. The real showdown came some weeks ago and Church was present and voting. Adoption of the conference report, reconciling differences between Senate and House versions of the legislation, was a foregone conclusion. Senate approval was by voice vote."

DON'T BE MISLED...

1. It was Frank Church who gathered 65,000 Idaho signatures against gun controls, and used them, with good results, before the Dodd Committee and on the floor of the Senate.
2. It was Frank Church who successfully resisted the determined drive in the Senate to impose federal registration of firearms.
3. It was Frank Church who was there when it counted. He was present for every record vote. On September 18, the real showdown, he cast his vote against the bill.

Southern Cal Remains No. 1 Team In Nation, Notre Dame Out Of Top 10

By The Associated Press
The Southern California team led the nation in the weekly Associated Press major college football poll Monday while both Kansas and Penn State closed ground by the leaders.

The Trojans (5-0), who resume activity at Oregon this week drew 24 of the 43 first-place votes from writers and sports-casters. Southern Cal had 21 firsts a week ago.

Ohio State, 31-24 winners over Illinois for its fifth straight, attracted 12 firsts, compared to 15 last week. The Buckeyes will be solid fourth by 592.

'Dead' Packers Defeat Dallas Cowboys 28-17; Tie For Division Lead

DALLAS (AP) — Master quarterback Bart Starr unloaded four touchdown passes on Dallas' proud doomday defense Monday night and the world champions rolled to a 28-17 victory over the team they have beaten in the last two National Football League title games.

The victory took the Packers into a tie for the lead in the Central Division with a 3-1 record and left the previously undefeated Cowboys with but a game lead over New York in the Capital Division at 6-1.

Starr, who missed last week's game with a pulled muscle, rallied the Packers from a 10-7 halftime deficit with perfectly timed passes as the Cotton Bowl crowd of 74,604 groaned.

He connected on passes of three and 32 yards to tight end Mary Fleming and found Boyd Dowler on a five-yard scoring throw in the second half surge before a national television audience. In the second quarter, he nailed Carroll Dale with a perfect 26-yard touchdown throw.

It was a bitter loss for Dallas, which has never beaten Green Bay in a regular season or playoff game. Twice Dallas has failed in the final seconds in the NFL title games against the Packers.

Dallas quarterback Don Meredith played most of the second half with a broken nose after he had hit Bob Hayes with an 18-yard touchdown pass in the first quarter.

Meredith, harried by a strong packer rush, found halfback Craig Baynham with a 27-yard scoring pass in the fourth period to draw Dallas to within four points, 21-17.

But Ray Nitschke snapped up a fumble by Baynham on the Dallas 25 and Starr hit Dowler with two consecutive passes for the score.

Professionalism, Politics Imparted Lasting Effect On Olympic Competition

By MURRAY OLDERMAN

MEXICO CITY (NEA) — The time may have come to reexamine the Olympic ideal, to compare the merits of the athletic competition against the festering politics and professionalism that have pervaded the Games. Drastic amendment of the Olympics as an international spectacle—or even their abolition—are possibilities to be given serious consideration.

On the victor's stand at the Estadio Olimpico, in the late afternoon glow of Oct. 16, the American flag was raised at the north end of the stadium while loudspeakers trumpeted the United States national anthem. An Australian athlete, second in the 200-meter run, stood at attention on the right side of the podium, head erect. Two Americans—Tommy Smith and John Carlos—bowed their heads to the ground and raised black-gloved fists to the skies in defiance.

"We swear that we will take part in the Olympic Games in fair competition, respecting the regulations which govern them and with the desire to participate in the true spirit of sportsmanship for the honor of our country and for the glory of sports," — Olympic athletes oath.

"This to me," said Douglas F. Roby, president of the U.S. Olympic Committee, "was a childish and immature act, and 500 million people saw it throughout the world."

Smith and Carlos were kicked out of the Olympic Village and the country. But their intent was accomplished. They demonstrated for the world their obeisance to the creed of Black Power and showed once more how the Olympics can be used as a forum for politics.

Roby, the American representative on the International Olympic Committee, said, "This incident in the Stadium threw another light on the relations between nations. I abhor and dislike nationalism in sports at any level. The guardians of the Olympics are very much aware of this problem."

But Roby and co-guardians of the ideal have been fighting a rear-guard action since Adolph Hitler snubbed Jesse Owens in 1936. Politically inspired turmoil reached a pitch before and during these 1968 Games.

"The whole atmosphere," said Don Schollander, "has changed."

Schollander is a 22-year-old swimmer who soon will be a securities analyst on Wall Street. Four years ago, in Tokyo, he won four gold medals. "The Olympics," he explained, "were supposed to be competition between people, and they've taken it and put it in an entirely different perspective. Now the motivations are nationalistic."

"Even on our own team, we have these people who wanted to boycott, and I don't see it. The whole idea is to compete.

I don't believe nations should be banned. South Africa should have been here. Red China, too, should have athletes—in the Olympics. That's what it's all about."

But Red China won't participate in the Olympics unless Taiwan is banished. And North Korea refused to compete in Mexico because the IOC denied identification of its delegation as "The Peoples Democratic Republic." East Germany achieved a political victory. After Nov. 1, it will be known in Olympic circles as the German Democratic Republic, have its own flag and play its own anthem.

The South African problem continues to nettles the Olympic "guardians." When the IOC voted last spring to let that apartheid country compete in Mexico City, 39 African nations (and possibly the Soviet Union) threatened to withdraw. Faced with possible cancellation of the Games, the IOC reneged. But South Africa remains a part of the Olympic body.

Jim Bouton, a major league pitcher, came to Mexico City to make a pitch before the world's sports federations against that country. He represented the American Committee on Africa, which includes among its sponsors Sen. Eugene McCarthy. He asked Roby to present one of two resolutions before the IOC: 1) to expel or suspend South Africa until it lived up to the terms of the Olympic charter, which bars discrimination because of race, or 2) not mention South Africa by name, but remind members of the IOC to adhere to terms of the Olympic charter.

"The United States," said Bouton, "should be a leader in making a strong stand."

"The United States," said Roby, "has no position as a country on the issue of South Africa. I act in the IOC as an individual. I'm not going to get involved in politics."

"By not doing anything," answered Bouton, "we're taking sides."

"Who're you with?" asked Roby.

"The American Committee on Africa."

SAPPORO, Japan (AP)—Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals named winner of the National League Cy Young Award, said Tuesday he was honored to be given the prize. But he added, there would be no immediate celebrations.

Colt Coach Is Amateur Psychologist

BALTIMORE (AP)—Don Shula of the Baltimore Colts is a professional football coach and an amateur psychologist.

Like Vince Lombardi, the retired coach of the Green Bay Packers, Shula's success in his vocation has been boosted by his avocation. But, he is hardly cut from the same mold.

"Lombardi creates an atmosphere of unity through fear," said Baltimore center Bill Curry, who played two years with Green Bay before joining the Colts last season. "Actually, it's unity against Lombardi—even he admits that."

"Shula doesn't try to intimidate, no doubt. He inspires a player to get himself ready. He lives and dies with us."

Shula, perhaps using a bit of reverse psychology, conducted some relaxed practice sessions last week prior to Sunday's showdown battle with the unbeaten Los Angeles Rams.

In the back of each Colt's mind, no doubt, was the 34-10 beating to Rams hands that last December to sew up the National Football League's Coastal Division title. It was Baltimore's only loss of 1967.

On Sunday, the Colts manhandled the Rams in the first half—holding them to 38 net yards—and went on to win 27-10, tying Los Angeles for first place with a 6-1 record.

SECOND GUESS ALWAYS BEST
The bidding and play of this hand in the final match between Italy and the United States went the same way for each team. East won the diamond opening with the king and returned a heart. West profit is not likely to make or break your side. We do not wonder if maybe West should have tried a five diamond sacrifice. If he had, his partner would have gone down in the States and the South shifted to a club at trick two. Otherwise the favorable location of the hearts would enable East to run dummy's heart suit and eventually discard a club on the fourth heart. It is far, far easier to sit back here in the States and criticize than it would be to take this save at the table in Deauville.

West could not be sure that four spades would make not could he be sure that five diamonds would not be set three tricks. Change the North-South cards a trifle by trading South's queen of clubs and jack of hearts for North's ace of clubs and three of hearts. Five diamonds would still go down, but so would four spades.

DARD SEÑSE
Q—The bidding has been: West North East South
Pass 1 4 Pass 1 7
You, South, hold:
♠ A K 7 6 ♣ K Q 9 4 ♦ A ♠ K Q 10 7
What do you do now?
A—Bid two spades. This is a bluff to bring and tells your partner that you hold a tremendous hand.

TODAY'S QUESTION
Your partner continues to bid three diamonds. What do you do now?
Answer Next Issue

might have held South to his contract by cashing two heart tricks but each West tried to put his partner in with a second diamond, whereupon South ruffed draw trump, finessed successfully against West's king of clubs and discarded his last two hearts on dummy's long clubs. We can't find fault with the defense. West was hoping to collect three hearts and two diamonds. He might have been a trifle optimistic in International Match. Point scoring the one IMP awarded for a 30-point

Checking Up

By L. M. BOYD

Girls May Get Jobs In Fish Shops, Must Shun Hysteria

IT'S ALL RIGHT for any girl who is looking for a gentleman friend, to get a job in a fishing tackle shop. That's what I'm casting off the mouth of the creek. It's also all right for such a girl to smile brightly and exchange pleasantries with the customers. That's expected. Like using worms. But for that girl to stand there during the rush hour, holding an enormous bird's nest of tangled line and weeping softly, that is not all right. It's unsportsmanlike. Like dynamiting the deep hole. Or such it the surprising contention of our Love and War man, who has been known in the past to claim all's fair.

"FARE-ALL CALICO cats-ferme!" Such is the inquiry of Mrs. Robert Bevis of North Pole, Alaska. Once thought so, but recently heard otherwise. Can anybody settle this? MALE MIDGETS rarely need to shave. WIVES CALLED JANICE, says our Name Game man, are known to be exceedingly observant, which leads them to be pretty sharp in keeping ahead of household chores, but also makes them somewhat stiff on the subject. LAN GUAGE MAN reports a Chinese word for car is meow.

A KENTUCKY GIRL reports, "Actually, I would like to have a great deal if they weren't all so cheerful and talkative before breakfast."

WHAT'S SO HARD for me to figure out is that thing called LONG-Will-it-take-me-to-grow-a-beard-one-inch-long? A — Ought to take a grown man about six weeks.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used wherever possible in "Checking Up." Address mail to L. M. Boyd, in care of P.O. Box 99187, Seattle, Wash. 98199.

Quigley Is Candidate As Treasurer

The Republican candidate for Twin Falls County treasurer, Wade Quigley, charged the incumbent Democratic candidate has caused the office cost of treasurer to rise 55 per cent in the past four years.

"She has also increased peak period employees from five to 11, a 120 per cent increase. Collections by these employees amounts to only 16 per cent," he charged.

"This increase in cost, while apparently the way things are done under the Great Society of the Democrats cannot be justified," Mr. Quigley charged.

He said he feels "certain" the budget of county treasurer can be cut, along with a number of employees.

He said there is a need for a "return to fiscal responsibility and careful spending in this office to ease the tax load on the taxpayers."

RICHARD REED

Judge Reed Runs For Probate Job

Appointed to the post a year ago, Richard Reed is running for his first elective office—that of Twin Falls County Probate Judge.

He is married, with his wife being the present county extension home economics agent. They have one child.

Judge Reed graduated from the University of Idaho College of Law and says he finds the Probate Court work, "Tremendously interesting."

He said he feels progress is being made in dealings with neglected and delinquent children, and "I am anxious to continue with this work."

Judge Reed is running on the Republican ticket and contends his legal experience and training make him the best qualified for the Probate Court job.

Kosygin Said 'Optimistic' About Peace

MOSCOW (AP) — Informed Japanese sources in Moscow said today they understood Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin was optimistic about the prospects for peace in Vietnam.

They based this impression on comments Kosygin made during a meeting in the Kremlin with Transport Minister Yuhro Nakasone of Japan. The sources declined to specify what these comments were.

In a news conference after the meeting, Nakasone said Kosygin described the question of a Vietnam peace settlement as now being "at a very delicate stage."

Nakasone said Kosygin asked the Japanese government to exert influence on the United States to bring about peace and that Kosygin reiterated the Soviet position that all bombing of North Vietnam must be halted unconditionally.

'CUFFS' BRING ARREST PHILADELPHIA

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Lorenzo Sinick, 34, entered a police station Monday and asked that he be freed of his handcuffs. Police said he escaped from a police car Saturday after being arrested on a charge of stealing a chicken from a supermarket and that he had spent an uncomfortable two days trying to slip off the cuffs.

Drink Bout Tests Hazard Of Alcohol

WENATCHEE, Wash. (AP)—A drinking bout referred by three Washington State Patrol officers and the Chelan County coroner here recently indicated that social drinkers who take four or five drinks would not be affected by a proposed lowering in the legal standards for drunkenness.

The experiment also disclosed that a person can lose control of his faculties and still register below the present legal levels of drunkenness—.15 on the breathalyzer machine.

Initiative 212, up for a vote in November, would lower the legal standard to .10 and make a breath test mandatory for all holders of Washington driver's licenses if ordered by a state trooper.

Four men, including three employees of The Wenatchee Daily World, participated in a drinking experiment supervised by patrolmen and Dr. Robert Bonifac, county coroner.

The three men drank four ounces of whiskey, the equivalent of four mixed drinks, in 30 minutes and the fourth drank six ounces in 35 minutes. All registered below .10 on the breathalyzer scale.

Bonifac, in arguing for the lower standard, contends that a person's body cannot hold enough beer for the blood alcohol content to register .15 per cent.

And backing it up, he added: "I have $10 that says a person can't get a .15 on the breathalyzer on Washington State beer."

Lloyds Reports Tanker Located

LONDON (AP) — The Lutina bell was rung twice at Lloyds of London Monday: The Liberian tanker Rahiots had been reported safe to her owners, Maritime Enterprises Inc. of Montreal.

The 13,043-ton vessel had failed to establish radio contact since Oct. 8 although she was supposed to report every five days. Contact was established via the British tanker British Light.

A Lloyd's spokesman had no explanation for the tanker's failure to report and had no information on her position but said she was due in the Persian Gulf Friday.

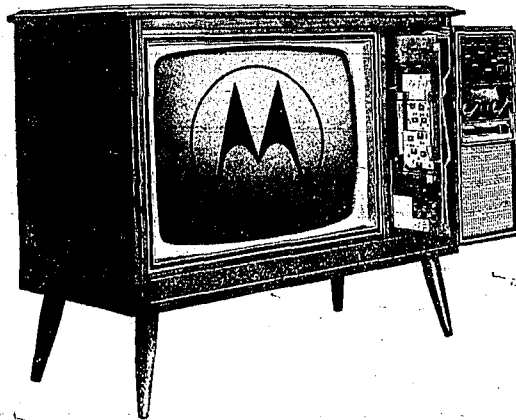

The Lutina bell, relic of a French sympathy, dominates the underwriters' room at Lloyds. It is rung once for bad news and twice for good.

"Hey Mom! When will the TV be back!"

Tired of being bugged when the Color TV conks out?

Get the Color TV with the works in a drawer.

The works in a drawer: 10 tubeless solid-state mini-circuits for solid dependability. Quasar is Color TV that stays at home working, not in the repair shop.

Have you been a color TV holdout? Still afraid of service problems? Look into Quasar... color TV with the works in a drawer.

Two important things made Quasar worth waiting for. The dependability of solid state electronics. And fast, at-home service you can only get with the works in a drawer.

In Quasar, most components except the rectifier and picture tube are solid state. They're tubeless mini-circuits... designed to work without burning themselves out. They plug in in minutes, if service is ever needed. A serviceman simply opens the drawer. Snaps in a replacement circuit. And that's it. In most cases service is handled in your home, not the repair shop.

Don't look for excuses! Look into Quasar! Instead, we're so impressed with Quasar reliability, we've guaranteed it (everything, picture tube and chassis parts) for two years. Bet you'll be impressed, too.

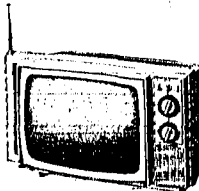

Two Year Registered Guarantee on Picture Tube and All Parts. Original owner guarantee covers free exchange or repair of parts proven defective in normal use. Arranged through selling dealers. Labor and transportation extra. Guarantee not valid unless guarantee card mailed to Motorola within ten days after delivery of set.

EXTRA! New Motorola Electronic Remote Control! Remarkable and unique. Solid state. Solid reliability! Silent color and sound control. See it!
