Nixon Giving 'Em The Dickens, Not Hell

EN ROUTE WITH NIXON—The Presidential race is tightening up a bit, as it enters the final week, and Republican nominee Richard M. Nixon is 'giving 'em the dickens.' He isn't really 'giving 'em hell,' as that technique was developed by Harry S. Truman in 1948. After all, Nixon is clearly ahead, according to the polls, and there is no need, now, for unnecessary risks.

Shadow without substance — the newly aggressive Nixon style is a part of what he calls "Operation Extra Effort." Nixon is talking tough now. His tempo is quick, he is carrying his campaign straight to his Democratic opponents. Humphrey, he says, is an "adult delinquent" who, as vice president, has spent "four years in obedience school."

Declaring that he will not reply in kind to Humphrey's barbs ("Richard the Chicken-Hearted"), Nixon says Humphrey is trying to do a Truman, but it won't work. "It's one thing to give 'em hell," says Nixon, "with one of the sweeping, two-arm gestures which he favors, but it's something else to give 'em Humphrey!"

Issues, as Truman found from unrest in 1948, to be exploited, as Truman did, to turn the Republican Party against Truman. It is not entirely correct to say that Nixon has dodged campaign issues. He has an inch-thick "issues book" which contains some thoughtful campaign commentary. The trouble is, Nixon's campaign speeches seldom rise to that thoughtful campaign level.

He tells his audiences that Humphrey's election would mean four more years of the "policies of failure," which the nation cannot afford. He deplores rising crime rate, and says that crime has increased "nine times as fast as population."

Fluoridation

At the risk of cluttering up a clear-cut emotional issue with a lot of facts, the Cleveland, Ohio, Public Schools have released the results of the effects of fluoridated water in that city. Covering 800,000 children from every school in the system, it is said to be one of the most complete studies ever made in the 23-year history of fluoridation of public water supplies.

Similar improvement was found among older children, whose baby teeth had been replaced by the only other set of natural teeth they will have for the rest of their lives. "The findings," sums up the report, "are even more gratifying than the rosy expectations of the more ardent believers in fluoridation."

The World Bank

Robert Strange McNamara has a talent for creating deep dissension in any organization with which he is affiliated. His tour of duty in the Defense Department created the deepest chasm since that department was created between the civilian head and the military chiefs. Now there seems to be a repeat of the pattern in the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development (better known as the World Bank), of which President Johnson appointed Mr. McNamara president last April.

several other officers are reported to be considering similar action. The problem appears to be heavy-handed innovation by Mr. McNamara, a trait for which he was well known in the Defense Department. Since its founding in 1944, the bank has followed a conservative lending policy, approving only loans to applicants who demonstrated a reasonable ability to repay. Under this policy the bank has prospered and grown, thus making available more capital for loans.

MR. SPECTATOR

On "Blameless" Insurance

Something of a bombshell in the automobile insurance industry has been released by the American Insurance Association. The explosion was in the form of a proposal for a "no-fault" system of automobile insurance which would cover an insured for "economic losses" in automobile accidents regardless of whose fault it was.

HALLOWEEN History fails to record the date when Halloween became dedicated to fun and frivolity. Grandfather took the event seriously. He counted the evening just unless he upset his share of outpourings, but the school teacher's cow in the church belfry, or otherwise made his presence in the community felt.

LET'S STAY WEST! "Go West" would still seem to be good advice — not for young men but middle-aged men who want to live to be old men. In fact, for white American males aged 45 to 64, the risk of dying in some areas of the West is less than half what it is in some areas of the East, reports "Geriatrics."

Jordan, Hansen Visit Rotary Luncheon

It was a twin bill of entertainment at the Twin Falls Rotary Club meeting Wednesday at the American Legion Hall as Sen. Len Jordan and Rep. George Hansen teamed up to speak to an estimated 100 people.

Sen. Jordan introduced Rep. Hansen by saying, "This boy stands six foot six and I'm only six foot. It's impressive."

"Then he went on to talk about his wife, and said, 'I once told a group that my wife has helped me in whatever small success has been mine — then I turned around and said my wife is largely responsible for everything that I owe.'"

The gathering laughed. Sen. Jordan praised Rep. Hansen several times during the meeting.

He told about his travels on the Republican "truth squad," a group of prominent GOP officials touring the country to "test the record straight" on the national election. Sen. Jordan said the group stopped in at least 25 cities during the past week, and held 25 news conferences.

He talked for about 10 minutes, then introduced Rep. Hansen.

The youthful Congressman, running for a Senate seat this year, praised Sen. Jordan for "standing fast against the appointment of Abe Fortias to the Supreme Court."

Rep. Hansen, speaking calmly in relation to past talks in Twin Falls, said, "It's not a matter of seniority in this election. It's a matter of which way are we going to go?"

Rep. Hansen also said, "Foreign imports of beef and other products are hurting our economy. We have a surplus of our own right now. We should develop markets in other countries and export our goods."

Water and development of Idaho's desert land was also mentioned as of importance to the state in Rep. Hansen's talk. When it was over, in about 15 minutes, the Rotary Club concluded its meeting, but members gathered at the head table to shake hands with Sen. Jordan and Rep. Hansen.

One man was overheard saying to another, "I thought George did real well today. He knows what the problems are all about."

Another man referred to Sen. Jordan as a "Statesman."

Then everyone left the Legion Hall and the meeting was finished.

Idaho Voters To Name 105 Legislators

By The Associated Press

For the second successive election, Idaho voters on Nov. 5 will choose 105 members of the state legislature.

The legislature was reapportioned on the basis of population by a special session in 1966, and 105 legislators were chosen in November that year. The reapportionment gave Idaho 35 legislative districts, in each of which one senator and two representatives are chosen.

Each of the districts has approximately 20,000 population. Some include a number of counties while others embrace only a portion of one county.

The reapportionment was the third following the 1960 decennial census. The 1961 legislature had 103 members — 44 senators and 59 representatives — but it reapportioned the house for the 1963 session, increasing membership to 63 but leaving the senate unchanged.

The 1963 legislature also passed a reapportionment law, increasing the number of representatives to 79 for a total legislature of 123. The senate remained unchanged at 44.

Until the 1966 reapportionment, each of Idaho's 44 counties had at least one senator and one representative.

Church Expects New Maneuvers To Control Guns

By The Associated Press
 Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, expects renewed attempts to enact restrictive gun control legislation in Congress.

"We succeeded in defeating efforts to impose federal registration of firearms or licensing of gun owners this year, but a large part due to the signatures of 65,000 Idahoans who signed my petitions against such legislation," Church said Wednesday.

E. T. Waters, state Democratic chairman, said billboard advertisements for Church's opponent, Rep. George Hansen, R-Idaho, would tend to give the impression that Hansen, with his almost completely negative record, is the savior of the Idaho farmer.

Waters said Hansen, despite his four years of service on the House Agriculture Committee,

War Refugees Flood Camps Of Nigerians

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Ten thousand refugees from the civil war are pouring into camps in southeast Nigeria each week, and at one camp the death rate is 30 to 40 per thousand each day, a U.N. observer reported today.

A total of 320,000 persons in 80 camps around Uyo get one meal a day from relief supplies, Miss Gussing of Sweden said.

In some of these camps the condition of the people is very poor," he said in an interim report. "Many . . . showed serious signs of malnutrition."

"At one place the death rate was estimated to be between 30 and 40 persons out of every thousand per day, mainly young children and the elderly."

He reported that 300 tons of food are being delivered daily to the camps in the Uyo area, and that the refugees there are a second meal would require another 600 tons a day.

Meanwhile, informed sources reported that the Egyptian pilots flying for the Nigerian air force have started night flights against the Ull airstrip, Biafra's only link with the outside world.

The sources said the Nigerians for the first time are in a position to make good their threats to shoot down the planes that have been flying arms at night to the secessionists. The Lagos government also has renewed its threats to shoot down planes from the International Red Cross and other foreign agencies which are bringing food and medicine for the hundreds of thousands of war refugees in what remains of Biafran territory.

Mrs. Naomi Medaris, assistant director of the University of Colorado School of Nursing in Denver, will direct the seminar.

Washington State Scandal Gaming Tales Jolt Campaign

OLYMPIA, Wash. (AP) — Recent disclosures that Democrat John J. O'Connell is a gambler has become the dominant issue of the Washington gubernatorial campaign.

The disclosure has thrown into sharp relief the conservative differences with incumbent Republican Gov. Dan Evans over taxes, the state's general fund surplus, the problems of migrant workers and other issues.

O'Connell, ruggedly handsome 49-year-old son of an Irish immigrant attorney general for 12 years. By his own account, he has played cards for money—sometimes for big stakes.

The matter came up on Oct. 10, when The Seattle Times published a photostatic copy of a document signed by O'Connell which it said was a $10,000 check cashed at the Tropicana Hotel in Las Vegas, Nov. 1, December 1965.

Three days later O'Connell said the signature was his, but it was a "line of credit" not a check.

He also said he had not to play cards ever since he was a small boy. He said he netted over 25 years came to $2,800.

Evans, a 43-year-old engineer seeking his second term with the prestige of being keynote speaker of the Republican National Convention behind him, was generally regarded as the favorite when the gambling story broke.

Many O'Connell supporters feel the revelations have hurt their candidate, particularly in the traditionally conservative areas of Eastern Washington. Some, however, argue that the gambling issue may have helped him.

As one O'Connell aide put it: "John doesn't ski or climb mountains, like Evans. He isn't a hunter or a fisherman. Sometimes people have wondered how he lives. Now they can see he's human after all."

Evans surprised many pollsters by agreeing to a series of three television debates with O'Connell, giving the excruciating attorney a chance to put him on the gridlock.

He generally agreed, however, that the engineer outgated the lawyer in the first debate, which took place before the gambling story broke. O'Connell hit him better in the second. The third was considered a stand off.

Other issues of the campaign have been Evans and the budget. Both candidates favor an income tax, coupled with reduction of the sales tax and other relief. But Evans is for a single-rate income tax, and

SAILING DOWN THE HUDSON past the New York City skyline, the Cunard liner Queen Elizabeth makes her final passage past its familiar port of call, en route to England on her retirement voyage. 'Queen' Sails For Last Time

NEW YORK (AP) — Her three, A-flat steam whistles roaring a heart-stopping farewell, the RMS Queen Elizabeth, the largest passenger liner ever built, sailed from New York harbor Wednesday for the final time.

As the 83,000-ton Royal Mail Ship left the 48th pacetime transatlantic crossing Wednesday of her 28-year career, she was escorted by a flotilla of harbor craft ranging from flag-bedecked tugs to saucy, bouncing motorboats.

To each craft that hailed her, the last of the leviathans returned the triple notes of the traditional salute of the sea.

Hundreds of New Yorkers jammed the pier and as the liner got under way and thousands more waved from office windows as she steamed regally down the Hudson River.

About 500 passengers—little more than two-thirds of her capacity—and a crew of 1,100 including her master, Commodore Geoffrey Thriplington, Marr were aboard for the final eastward crossing.

In retirement the Elizabeth is slated for service as a hotel, museum and convention center in Port Everglades, Fla.—a fate shared by her sister ship the Queen Mary, permanently docked in Long Beach, Calif.

In a ceremony aboard the ship before she sailed, Mayor John V. Lindsay presented a plaque from the Department of Defense commemorating the ship's service as a troop carrier in World War II.

"Today we can say, 'The queen is dead; long live the queen' because in three months, the Cunard Steamship Co. will bring into New York the ship's new flagship, the Queen Elizabeth II," Lindsay said.

Idaho Governor Helps 'Neighbor'

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—Idaho Gov. Don W. Samuelson helped Montana Gov. Tim Babcock make awards Wednesday night to winners in the International Livestock Exposition. Samuelson returned to Boise after the evening affair.

Samuelson Asks Delay In Plans Of Labor Agency

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's governor urged the National Governors Conference Wednesday to "take any steps available" to delay a proposed reorganization of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Gov. Don W. Samuelson, in a telegram to conference chairman Gov. Buford Ellington of Tennessee, said he was "deeply disturbed" by the projected abolition of the Bureau of Employment Security and work training programs.

"Regular employment security activities are very vital and important to Idaho," Samuelson said. He said Idahoans were fearful that under the proposed reorganization, the functions of the two bureaus would "suffer in fund and emphasis."

Such a change, he said, should be up to the next administration. Samuelson also said the governors conference should have been consulted about the changes.

'Hard-Core Unemployed' Find New Hope In Ford-Sponsored Self-Help Program

DETROIT (AP) — Job-hunting to Fred M. Wilson Jr., like a big cloud—you know the sun is going to shine some time.

For 11 years Wilson has been looking for that sunshine. He is a 28-year-old Negro who has worked as a garbage man, ship loader, laborer, car washer and in dozens of other low-pay jobs from Detroit to Saginaw to Greenville, Miss.

None lasted longer than two months, he said.

Today, Wilson enters the Ford Motor Co. Rouge Plant near Detroit to work on the assembly line.

He has just become the 5,000th member of the group known as the "hard-core unemployed" to be hired by Ford in an inner city program which has spread throughout the United States.

Saying he was "a little nervous," Wilson, chewing gum and wearing blue jeans and a short-sleeved yellow shirt, joined several other workers at a reception Wednesday. Some 200 inner city residents and anti-poverty workers also attended the coffee-and-cake celebration of the first birthday of Ford's hiring effort.

Wilson was told his starting pay would be $3.48 an hour.

"Hey, that's all right," he said. The young father of two said the most he had made since dropping out of high school in Saginaw 11 years ago was about $40 a week.

Wilson, living temporarily in a single room in a run-down area, said he is anxious to bring his wife, Rosemary, 20, and sons, aged 2 and 3, from his parents' home in Saginaw "as soon as I get the first couple of checks."

Henry Ford II, board chairman, began the project in October 1967, three months after the nation's worst riot in modern history struck Detroit. Ford said the effort led President Johnson to establish the National Alliance of Businessmen last January. Ford headed the group, with industrial giants such as General Motors, Chrysler and Ford at the fore, the alliance set Printing of the shorter bills by the State Department of Administrative Services to save money will be studied by the committee.

The committee also recommended the next legislative session number Senate bills from 1 to 500 and House bills from 501 on, eliminating any confusion in referring to them.

Legislative Committee Seeks Speedup In Bill Preparation

BOISE (AP) — Smoother handling of legislative bills to reduce the pressure on companies that print them was urged Wednesday in a meeting of the legislature's Interim Printing Committee.

The committee voted to reduce from 1,000-1,500 to 800 the number of copies of each bill printed for distribution.

Rep. Robert J. Kooz, R-Boise, committee chairman, said attorneys who have in the past obtained extra copies of the bills for their clients would be glad to pay for extra ones needed. Such copies were printed in the past at the state's expense.

Committee members recommended uniform bill drafting, smoother and quicker flow of bills to the printers after they the modified existing law to impose a 10-year moratorium on even general reconnaissance surveys of possible future diversions of our water.

Idaho won a significant victory this year, but there is nothing to stop California and the Southwest from trying a g a in new years. They will surely come up with some new scheme.

However, as long as Idaho maintains an established position of strength and seniority in the Senate — the citadel of the small states — we have demonstrated we can keep Idaho's water out of California's reach.

Agriculture

Idaho is a farm state. We have the highest potato production in the nation, the second highest beet production, and large quantities of wheat, dairy products and beef. Last year, Idaho farm income was $157 million.

That figure sounds like a lot of money. But divided among 200,000 farmers and their families, it amounts to an average income of only $5,233.

During my past 12 years in the Senate, in which I have tried to make the farm programs of both Republican and Democratic administrations work as well as they will, I have become convinced that the government—under either party—is not going to solve the farm problem.

What is going to solve the farm problem is a concept initiated by the farmers themselves, more effective bargaining power in the marketplace. This is the most hopeful trend in years, because it promises the farmer a stronger voice in determining the return he will receive for his labor.

What we need is legislation which encourages this concept. This is why I worked for passage of Senate Bill 109 — now law — which prohibits discrimination against farmers who sell their produce through bargaining associations.

For the same reason, I support changes in our tax laws which will end purely speculative buying of farm property by non-farmers intent on lucrative tax write-offs, and work to curb excessive imports of foreign meat and dairy products which compete unfairly with domestic production.

These measures are designed to help the farmer help himself. They will lead the way to the day when the farmer is again self-sufficient and able to exercise a free, effective voice in the market. When that day arrives, we will be in a position to abandon our present farm programs.

 this 14.5 million acre-foot of water — that it surplus to our needs — then how can we object if our covetous neighbors take us at our word and come and get it.

"As originally proposed the Wild Rivers Bill would have placed an unreasonable burden on Idaho's resources. With three-tenths of one per cent of the nation's population, Idaho was asked to contribute 70 per cent of the mileage in the initial Wild Rivers System."

Fortunately, Sen. Jordan and the rest of us in the Idaho Congressional delegation were able to work to stop this nearly tragic error, and helped get a realistic bill—passed that enhances, rather than threatens, Idaho's water. Now we must continue to be vigilant and put our water to use in Idaho.

Agriculture

Agriculture is Idaho's largest industry and offers the potential for tremendous growth, represented by the acres we can yet bring under cultivation. In agriculture grows, so will much other industry, such as processing, transportation, construction, etc.

But farmers have been on the receiving end of one of the most irresponsible and disastrous farm programs ever conceived, during the past eight Democratic years. Farm parity is at an all-time low. Secretary of Agriculture Freeman has been quoted as expressing pleasure that farm prices have dropped. Our farmers are hurt by large quantities of foreign imports of products that have been in surplus to U.S. markets. The combination of low prices and high costs for the farmers has placed them in a position that stifles development of new expansion and needed additions.

Yet, my opponent — among admissions that the Johnson-Humphrey-Freeman program has not worked — voted for a four-year extension of these same disastrous policies. This was inexcusable and an irresponsible vote using this club on the farmers.

We must have change. The election of Richard Nixon and a Republican team in the Congress will allow such change to help the farmers of Idaho. Dick Nixon has pledged he will appoint a Secretary of Agriculture who will visit what the farmers' problems are, instead of vice versa, which has been the case.

As a first priority in the U.S. Senate I will seek a seat on the Senate Agriculture Committee, where Idaho has not been represented. I can help give Idaho farmers the vital and strong representation we must have to protect and promote agriculture.

The curtain goes up at 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday for "The Desk Set," the Twin Falls High School drama department's first play of the season.

Both performances will be at O'Leary Junior High School, according to Bradford Hickerson, director.

The play revolves around the reference department in a television network and the threat of electronic brains to employees of the firm.

Cast members include Sandi Hopkins as "Bunny Watson," and Steve Webb as the officious expert. Other members of the cast are Mary Kreilkamp, Beverly Thompson, Nan Whelan, David Day, Beth Sullivan, Lee Patricelli, Vickie Wilson, Wes Hardin, Katy Williamson, Cynthia Jensen, Jerry Sturgill, Sheri Sweet, Clancy Clements, Fish Kirkby, Linda Gikla, Don Graybill, Cody Ilft and Jim Langley. Student director and stage manager is David Lookingham.

A special feature of the play is the computer, Emmarac. The machine, which displays nearly 100 flashing lights, was designed by Mr. Hickerson. Operating the machine during the play are Mark Stout and Mary Grandjean, members of the advanced drama class, who made Emmarac.

"The Desk Set" promises to be "one of the most entertaining plays presented by the high school," Mr. Hickerson said. "Because of the humor and exceedingly fast action, the play will be an enjoyable evening for the entire family."

Airport Manager Asks City Funds

BOISE (AP) — The manager of Boise's municipal air terminal urged approval of a constitutional amendment permitting the city to use revenue bonds to finance airport construction.

Don A. Duval, terminal manager and chairman of the Idaho Association of Airport Executives, Wednesday urged voters to approve the measure in next Tuesday's election.

He said the amendment, if approved, would permit a community to construct an airport, then pay for its cost from revenue received from its operation.

U. S. Attacks Said Forcing Reds Back

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gen. Bruce Palmer Jr., Army vice chief of staff, attributed today the allied military successes in Vietnam to the constant attacks on the enemy's base areas, communications and supply routes.

"The enemy 'has steadily gone downhill for some time,'" Palmer told the Association of the United States Army and added, "We have found his Achilles' heel, namely his complexes of base areas and interconnecting communication and liaison routes."

"Without such secure base areas, his main force units cannot survive inside South Vietnam," Palmer said, "and without the backup from the main force units, the enemy's local force units, local guerrillas and infrastructure in the populated areas cannot survive."

Palmer, a former ranking commander in Vietnam, said the success of U.S. and allied tactics "forced the enemy last year to change his basic strategy of fighting a long protracted war," a change which led to last January's Tet offensive.

Election News Service Aims To Speed Precinct Results To Computers

NEW YORK (AP)—The vote throughout the United States Tuesday night will be reported by an army of reporters and a sophisticated computer system. The job will be done by the News Election Service with a goal of speed and accuracy—with the emphasis on accuracy.

As the polls close the vote will be sped within minutes from precinct to collection center to NES computer center in New York to the news services and to television networks.

When the voting is completed, for example, in Virginia at 7 p.m. EST, waiting for the returns at the Horsepaste precinct in Henry County will be Melvin Newsome of Collinsville.

He will walk—perhaps run—to the nearest telephone and tell the operator, "This is an election call" and give her the number of one of seven regional collection centers. Hundreds of miles away an operator will answer, "NES, okay. Go ahead, please."

If Newsome can get to a television set fast enough he will be able to see his totals posted. More than likely, the totals will be in the offices of newspapers, radio and television stations before Newsome can get home.

Newsome is one of 125,000 citizens recruited by NES for election night duty. Most are members of civic groups, church workers, teachers, business women and often polling place officials. They will report directly to NES or to local tabulation centers which cooperate with NES in all 50 states.

NES tabulates this stream of thousands of precinct reports into totals for president, senate, governor and U.S. representative in every state, every county of each state and each of the 435 congressional districts which has a contest.

Another team of reporters contributing to the NES system in smaller but even more important. These are the 4,800 county reporters made up mostly of working newsmen and county officials. They report the totals of their counties, or in New England, cities and towns.

Their totals are compared throughout the evening with the precinct totals for an accuracy check and their final reports are the standard for complete returns.

This massive vote collection effort will be done for the first time on a national scale by computers. At the heart is a pair of sophisticated computer systems in New York. They are backed up by computers operating independently in each of the seven regional collection centers.

Many safety checks to prevent reporting and tabulation errors are built into the computer programs.

Employment To Decline In November

Employment in the Twin Falls area has hit its peak for the year and is due to decline drastically next month, John F. Lellen, manager of the Twin Falls office of the Department of Employment, reported Wednesday.

The peak normally is reached in the fall because of harvest and other outdoor activity, he explained. Then, during the winter, he added, job openings in the Twin Falls office generally are in the categories of salesmen and skilled workers.

According to Larry Drexler, labor market analyst for the office, the unemployment rate was up slightly this year over a year ago. During this September the unemployment rate was 2.8 per cent, compared to 2.4 per cent for September, 1967.

Mr. Drexler noted that the Good Gnu's

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—There's a new gnu at the zoo, and if that's not news enough, the new gnu apparatus has started a new-rivals movement.

The gnu, also known as a wildebeest, first born at the San Francisco Zoo in 25 years, arrived Monday and weighed in at 25 pounds.

A peccary gave birth to twins a few hours later, a spotted leopard became a mother Tuesday, and a baby llama was born Wednesday. All this in late autumn.

Keepers don't know how many leopards there are; mama will not let anyone get close enough.

October, 1967, unemployment rate was 2.6 per cent, and based on the annual trend, this month's rate should be about 3.0 per cent.

HOPE Agency Takes Clothes To Fort Hall

JEROME — Officials of the HOPE (Help Other People Everywhere) organization, delivered a truck load of warm clothing to the Ft. Hall Indian Reservation Tuesday.

Reservation officials had been contacted and said that they needed coats, underwear, boots, overshoes, and all kinds of childrens clothing.

A few days earlier, Marlene Brown took a car load of boys clothing to the Idaho Youth Ranch at Rupert, for which they expressed gratitude.

HOPE officials again expressed willingness to transport clothing or ailing people on their errands and urged that these numbers be clipped and saved, as the HOPE station has no telephone as yet.

Numbers to call are 324-2446.

Rupert Plans Red Cross Fund Drive

RUPERT — A check for $25 from Ballantyne's Markets in Rupert and Paul kicked off the annual Red Cross fund drive for Minidoka County.

The check was presented by Don Rice, manager, to Don Rice, fund chairman, during a meeting of the county's Red Cross committee in Rupert.

Meeting with the committee were Earl Williams, district fund representative, Boise, and Mrs. Tracy Sweigert, district field representative, Pocatello. They presented a discussion of ways of collection for the Red Cross.

Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson has officially proclaimed November as Red Cross month for the city of Rupert.

The goal for the county drive this year is set at $2,500 and the drive will involve door-to-door solicitations for donations.

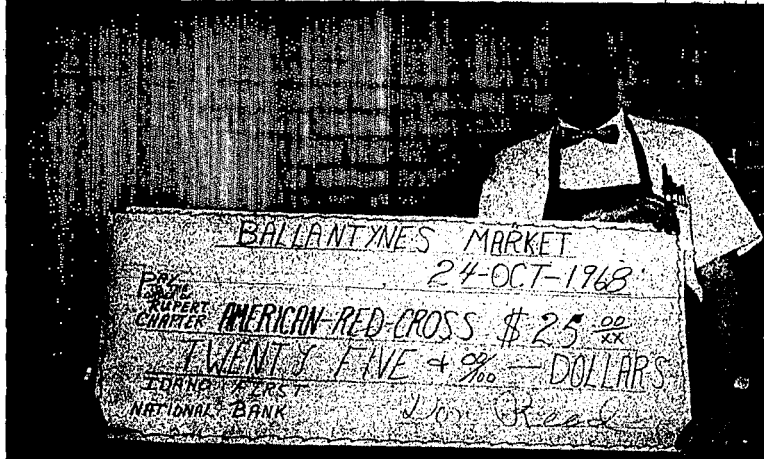

Mr. Rice said a 100 per cent campaign has been planned for the city of Rupert, with each merchant and employee being asked to donate $1.50.

"If each man, woman and child in the county would donate just three and one-half cents," he said, "the quota would be met."

The money is necessary to get the local Red Cross chapter out of the red and to prevent losing the bloodmobile service.

The county has not met the quota for the past four years. The solicitations will begin this week, according to Otis Anderson, drive chairman.

Mr. Rice reminded the public that no matter how much

DON RICE, Minidoka County Red Cross Fund chairman, accepts for the local Red Cross chapter a check for $25 from Don Rice, manager of the Ballantyne Market in Rupert. The check was to kick off this year's fund drive, scheduled for the entire month of November. The drive is vital to retaining bloodmobile services at Rupert.

IDAHO'S DEMOCRAT SENATOR REBUKES CITIZEN:

"You Sir,
Are an Agent of the State" ...

Is This the Type of Thinking
You Want From Your
U.S. Senator?

OCTOBER 27, 1968
TWIN FALLS TIMES-NEWS
"Have you talked to your Senator lately? If you do, he may accuse you of being an agent of the state!"

Editor, Times-News:
Being just a "country boy" I had never had a personal interview with a U.S. Senator and with just him and me in the room, along with his secretary to take notes, I didn't realize the two-hour wait to do it but I was representing almost 1,000 people as president of the Idaho Association of Realtors, and I did it.

It was very necessary for me to hear it right from Sen. Church why he voted the way he did on the Forced Housing Issue and, being a Senator from the great western state of Idaho and representing our western philosophies and convictions.

I was told first, "That I did not understand the problem — living in a state like Idaho and for the same reason anyway", why was I so concerned?

After recovering from this "ostrich with head in sand reference," I said, "Senator, why did you vote to discriminate against people that seek professional help and assistance when it involves the largest purchase in their life in most cases?"

When I told a local attorney this a few days ago, his reply was "I just didn't realize that Frank Church's thinking was that socialistic."

I had the opportunity to commend George Hansen for the tremendous stand that he and Jim McCune took on the forced housing and as representing the housing of Idahoans ... and his reply was "I never know how frank the average man's pressure was to hold fast and for the principles that were at stake."

Yes, principles that made this great country and this great state what they are.

I don't know how anyone can voice discontent with the present administration and then vote for an Idahoan ... he thinks like an Idahoan and he votes like an Idahoan.

GEORGE E. HANEY JR.
(Twin Falls)

Fellow Idahoans, here was Sen. Church's answer ... He pointed his finger at me ... and he said with all vigor ... "You, sir, are an agent of the state!"

U. S. Allows $5.5 Billion For Highways

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Department of Transportation has appropriated $5.5 billion in Federal-aid highway funds to the 50 states for the year starting next July 1.

The allocations, authorized by Congress last summer, total about $775 million more than was made available for the current year, the department announced Wednesday.

The bulk of the new funds—$4 billion—is earmarked for expansion of the interstate highway system, for which the federal government pays 90 per cent of the cost.

More than 26,000 miles of the project's 441,000-mile interstate system is now open for traffic.

The fiscal 1970 federal appropriation for primary, secondary and urban highways totals $1.22 billion, an increase of $225 million over this year's total. Under these programs, most states match federal grants on a 50-50 basis.

The appropriation includes $609 for primary roads, $330 million for the secondary system of farm-to-market and feeder roads and $275 for urban portions of the primary and secondary systems.

Next year's federal highway aid total includes $200 million to increase the capacity and safety of streets and roads—a program designated "Topics"—and $100 million for a new program to provide advance acquisition rights-of-way.

The fiscal 1970 allocations raise to $5.5 billion the total of Federal highway aid to the states since 1916. Most of the financial assistance has come since 1956. The programs are financed through the highway trust fund from federal taxes on highway users.

Idaho was allocated $40,264,000 of which $28,329,000 was for the Utah's allocations was $70,730,000, including $60,027,000 for interstate highways, $10,025,000 for primary, secondary and urban highways, $1,045,500, for a new safety traffic operation, $1,008,000 for rural roads, $1,280,200 for advanced acquisition of rights-of-way and $1,065,917 for forest highways, said Sen. Frank Moss, D-Utah.

Hill City Ceremony Marks Completion Of Highway 68

FAIRFIELD — John H. Bahr, former Camo County senator, cut the ribbon for the official opening of High 68 at ceremonies Tuesday afternoon at Hill City.

Mr. Bahr was also presented with a bronze plaque in appreciation of his many years of work toward the completion of the highway. The presentation was made by Wayne Clark, Gannett, president of the Yellowstone, Craters of the Moon, Sun Valley-Highway Association.

Secretary of State Petr Carrussa representing Gov. Don Samuelson, commended all who had worked toward the completion of the highway—and sent greetings from the governor.

Blaine Sessions, district highway engineer, told of plans for jobs to be completed in the area in the next few years. Some of the projects for 1969 would include a road from highway 83

Jackie, Spouse Mull World Tour

ATHENS (AP) — The newlywed Jacqueline and Aristotle Onassis came separately to Athens today and the Greek press said they planned to set out on a world honeymoon tour, beginning Thursday with a trip to New York.

But Mrs. Onassis made no mention of this to newsmen when she arrived at Athens Airport. She said she planned to return with her husband to his Scorpis Island retreat Friday.

There was another report that the Onassis planned to go to Johannesburg in South Africa for the wedding of the son of diamond king Harry Oppenheimer. This could not be confirmed.

Onassis arrived first in the Greek capital on what was described as a visit for urgent business. His wife, the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy, remained at Scorpis Island and was seen fishing this morning from a speedboat.

New Changes In Law Are Announced

Four important provisions covered by recent changes in the Social Security law may now affect many Magic Valley residents, according to Dale Davis, field representative for the Twin Falls Social Security office.

The first provision, explained Mr. Davis, allows young disabled workers under the age of 31 to receive benefits with fewer quarters of work credited to their account than previously. Under the second provision, he went on to say, now allows disabled widows who have attained the age of 50 to receive benefits from their deceased husband's account.

He said that before a woman had to be working within three years of her death or retirement before her survivors could draw on her account, but that this current work requirement has been eliminated.

The fourth provision, he stated, reduces the time a woman must be married to a man from one year to nine months before she or her children may receive survivors benefits from her spouse's account.

Mr. Davis said "many people who were denied benefits in the past, may now be eligible under the new law" and that he encourages anyone who thinks they may qualify to contact the Social Security office.

Man Honored

CAREY — Ellis D. Rudd was honored for 10 years of service with the Kraft Foods plant in Carey.

He was awarded a gold tie bar bearing the Kraft emblem at an office ceremony attended by fellow workers and executives. A certificate signed by A. E. Swain, president of the firm, also was given to Mr. Rudd.

HEIDS OWN PROTEST

EVERETT, Wash. (AP) — Rep. Lloyd Meeds, a congressional leader in efforts to boost third-class rail fares, began mailing his "first and only" re-election brochure to voters in his district Wednesday. The Washington Democrat said each one carries a 6-cent first-class stamp.

Traffic Light Is Shot Out Near Jerome

SHOSHONE — The traffic signal at the junction of State Highway 25 and U. S. Highway 93 east of Jerome was damaged by a shotgun blast over the weekend, according to highway officials here.

This could have caused very serious accidents since the flashing signal for west bound traffic was shot out.

"It is difficult to understand how someone could so carelessly lack a sense of responsibility and shoot out a vital traffic control device such as this," Blaine Sessions, highway engineer, states.

This intersection has had a very serious accident record in the past. Since the change to a world honeymoon tour, beginning Thursday with a trip to New York.

But Mrs. Onassis made no mention of this to newsmen when she arrived at Athens Airport. She said she planned to return with her husband to his Scorpis Island retreat Friday.

There was another report that the Onassis planned to go to Johannesburg in South Africa for the wedding of the son of diamond king Harry Oppenheimer. This could not be confirmed.

Onassis arrived first in the Greek capital on what was described as a visit for urgent business. His wife, the former Mrs. John F. Kennedy, remained at Scorpis Island and was seen fishing this morning from a speedboat.

Burglary Case Investigated

Twin Falls County Sheriff's officers, in cooperation with city police, are investigating the Tuesday afternoon burglary of cash and checks from Luke Francis' Salvage Yard, 804 Fourth, Ave. W.

Officers said that Mr. Francis reported that $60 in cash and several checks were taken from his office while he was out of the building in the salvage yard.

The incident occurred about 2:30 p.m. Officers said that the person responsible for the theft of the money and checks apparently came through a back door of the building.

Cash taken included $20 in change and $40 in one and five dollar bills.

Constitutional Amendment Deals With Legislative Pay

In an effort to inform the voters of the issues in the coming election, the League of Women Voters of Twin Falls provides this information concerning one of the nine amendments, SJR 9.

If the voters give their approval to SJR 9, it would provide constitutionally that legislative salaries are to be established by law. Idaho's Constitution now states that legislators are to be paid $10 per day for a maximum of $600 per legislative session. Such provision is unrealistic in present times.

Idaho legislators now receive an additional $25 per day committee expense allowance in addition to the $10 salary. The committee expense allowance was established by statute.

Passage of SJR 9 would remove the present salary limitation, and allow the legislature to establish salaries necessary now. A further provision of the amendment makes it clear that any salary increases become effective only for the legislature succeeding the one enacting the new salary.

This amendment would also remove from the constitution the mileage allowance of 10 cents per mile for one round trip to the state capital for a legislator, and would remove the extra pay allowance spelled out for presiding officers of the legislature.

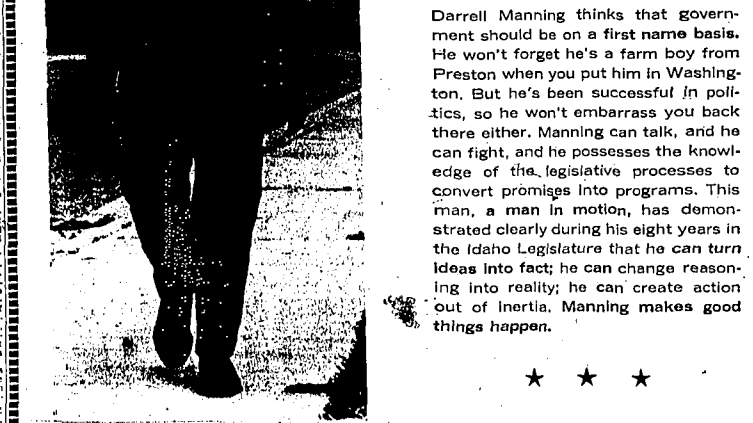

It also removes the provision defining the length of special sessions of the legislature. With the enactment of SJR 9, these provisions would all be taken care of by statute, making the wording within the constitution flexible.

Some fear that such provision would cost the taxpayers more money, and encourage longer and more expensive sessions.

DARRELL V. MANNING

The Man In... motion
For United States Congress
Second District

Yearly, a more handful of men are chosen as the Outstanding Young Men in America. Darrell Manning got this honor by working tirelessly for you in the Idaho House. He served 6 years in the legislature, 4 years as minority leader. He was a powerful man in Boise, but he's giving all that up to make a run for the United States Congress.

Why? Because he cares what's happening to Idaho citizens. He's worried because some small farmers can no longer compete. He knows the beef men are having the squeeze put on them by imports. He doesn't see industrial development when he knows it could flourish.

And he's a guy who hasn't played henky-panky with his own personal political philosophy in his effort to get elected. He's been downright conservative at times. About how your money is spent. About stricter law enforcement. About government getting so darn big that the people's needs and desires are ignored.

But he's won some good fights as a crusader, too. He spearheaded some legislation which made it a heckuva lot safer for Idaho kids to ride on school buses. He got an act passed which gave the handicapped a decent break and pushed the first reasonable state civil rights act in the entire country.

He stuck his neck out by taking on some big business because he felt the little guy wasn't getting his fair share.

Sound like the old campaign baloney? Sit still for a minute and listen.

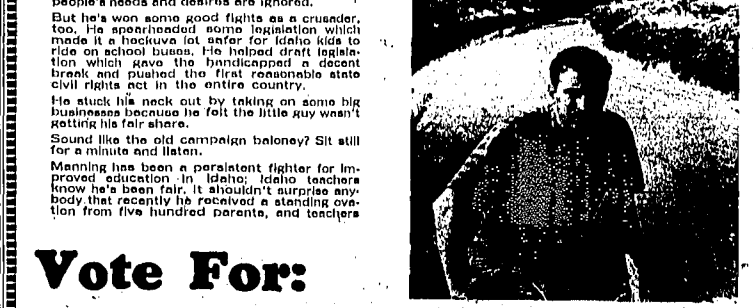

Manning has been a persistent fighter for improved education in Idaho. He's a teacher. You know he's been fair. It shouldn't surprise anybody that recently he received a standing ovation from five hundred parents, and teachers when he described what was reasonable for educators to expect from Idaho's budget. Quite a crowd for Idaho!

Did you know that Darrell's been in and out of Vietnam dozens of times.

And listen—He's no dead lockey. He's flown those pinna into all the hot spots in Southeast Asia. He flew more miles in combat zone missions last year than any of us will drive in our lifetimes. There's a good chance that shortly before you read this, or while you're reading it, or tomorrow Manning will be approaching Saigon from several thousand feet and asking for clearance to land.

Yeah! He's got strong feelings about the place. He got them from the guys in Vietnam—he's not boomily prepared political tourist—he has quiet courage.

WHY I LOVE THE WEST Do you wonder why I love the West? There's a million reasons why; And every answer holds me close, so I cannot pass it by; I love the feel of elbow room - no spot to be crowded in; A place where there is peace and quiet, and not the city's din; I love the sight of clear blue skies, the mountains ever near; The blue-gray sage, the lava cliffs, the springs and crystal clear; I love the smell of sage or pine, the wild rose and the hay; Wood smoke from a friendly fire, at the beginning of a day; I love the way I can feel at ease, and no demands are made; Boots and jeans and old flap hat; this is no dress parade; I love the spirit of friendliness, the sincere thought and plan; It makes a person all in his saddle tail, and every inch a man.

Our answer to editorial personally attacking us in Boise Statesman, Oct. 18. James Kircher, M.D., Wally Burns

Reprint of editorial below shows Church's campaign manager admits receiving certain funds and wrongfully denies other fund raising effort.

WHO PROMOTES CHURCH'S PLUSH CAMPAIGNS? HERE'S QUESTIONABLE OUT OF STATE GROUPS

THE COUNCIL FOR A LIVEABLE WORLD (CLW)

This secret organization brags of contributing heavily to Church's 1962 Senatorial campaign and in a letter dated Sept. 1968 has asked its members to give again to Church for the current re-election drive. Senator Quentin Burdick of North Dakota and some Idaho candidates have refused contributions from the Council because of its advocacy of unilateral disarmament. But Frank Church has not only taken CLW money, but he sponsored a full-page ad for the group in the New York Times, October 11, 1964, and defended the organization during a senate debate in 1964.

The CLW's former executive director, Col. Henry Ashton Crosby III, resigned in disgust in 1966 and stated: "For them, peace has become an end in itself. Not peace with freedom and justice, but peace—at any price. For this reason, they must be considered a danger to our country."

Bill Brunt, candidate for Congress from Idaho's Second Congressional District in 1966 and a former Democrat State Chairman, said he had been offered funds by the Council for a Liveable World, but had refused them because he could not accept their terms.

The Statesman has received a rash of letters saying Senator Church has accepted campaign contributions from his current campaign from two organizations concerned about nuclear war, SANE and the Council for a Liveable World. He is also attacked for accepting contributions solicited by Author Archibald MacLeish. A circular put out by Dr. James R. Kircher of Burley and Wally Burns of Idaho Falls offers "documented records of the attempt to control Idaho's votes this November." SANE and the Council for a Liveable World are at the top of a list of groups they say have contributed to Church's 1968 campaign.

The trouble is, they didn't. Carl Burke of Boise, Senator Church's campaign manager, says neither SANE nor the Council for a Liveable World have contributed to Church's campaign.

"This is a matter of record with the Secretary of the U.S. Senate to whom all organizations must report their political contributions," says Burke. "Mr. MacLeish wrote a letter to friends asking for support of Senator Frank Church and we have received contributions in Idaho and elsewhere from individuals who responded directly to me."

BOISE STATESMAN, OCT. 18, 1968

United States Senate
WASHINGTON, D.C.

Dear Friend:

Thank you so much for your recent generous response to Mr. Archibald MacLeish's request for contributions to our campaigns.

We are amazed and delighted that so many people all over the country should care about what happens in our states.

We face a very difficult election year and your response will be most helpful in enabling us to carry our messages to the voters upon whom the decision rests.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Church George McGovern

The Valley of Kept Men

WASHINGTON, D.C. If it's sauce for the goose, it's sauce for the gander. Out-of-State money was poured into the California Republican primary to help Max Rafferty defeat Senator Tom Kuchel.

AND NOW OUT-OF-STATE MONEY IS FLOWING INTO IDAHO TO HELP SENATOR FRANK CHURCH, INTO SOUTH DAKOTA, FOR SENATOR GEORGE MCGOVERN, INTO ARKANSAS to aid Senator Bill Fulbright, into Pennsylvania to assist Senator Joe Clark.

Was it right for conservative dollars to nourish Rafferty, and wrong for liberal funds to feed these pacifist Senators?

The question answers itself, of course, but it raises other questions, principally about the quality of the sauce. Is it talented? Is it toxic. Is it habit forming? Is it contraband?

If it is any of these things, then the voters of Idaho, South Dakota, Pennsylvania and Arkansas ought to say to their respective Senators: "Lay off ill!" Messages from the people of these states ought to reach Frank Church, George McGovern, Bill Fulbright and Joe Clark, and should read: "Kick this habit — or get out."

Some of the inflowing sauce I know little about, but the juice from one of these stills, The Council for a Liveable World, is fluid that should never moisten the lips of a United States Senator.

THE CONSTITUTION CHARGES EVERY SENATOR WITH THE DUTY OF RATIFYING FOREIGN TREATIES AND CONFIRMING EXECUTIVE APPOINTMENTS. NO SENATOR WHO TAKES MONEY FROM THE LIVEABLE WORLD AND IS AWARE OF WHAT IS KNOWN ABOUT THIS OUTFIT, CAN BE SURE OF BEING AN UPRIGHT MAN AGAIN.

He can't be sure, although two Senators of extraordinary will power were able to take this sauce and afterwards to walk away with it. In 1964 Senator Quentin Burdick (D, N.D.) accepted $14 thousand in campaign funds from the Liveable World, but he read what I wrote about this outfit. He returned the money saying, "I don't want to be associated with anything connected with unilateral disarmament because I don't believe in it."

THE ONLY REASON MY COLUMN HAD BEEN ABLE TO EXPOSE THE LIVEABLE WORLD (A SECRET-MEMBERSHIP GANG) WAS THAT PERSONS WORKING INSIDE WERE SENDING ME PHOTOSTAT COPIES OF THE PLANS AND BUDGET.

The other strong-minded Senator who refused to fall under this noxious influence was Gale McGee of Wyoming. When I learned that McGee was taking about $20 thousand from this outfit for his reelection campaign of 1964, I told him no loyal American should accept financial support from an undercover ring which sought disarming the USA in the face of its enemies.

McGee said he took money from ranchers and all men without selling them his soul, and he could do the same when it came to peace mongers. McGee, since 1965 an unflinching supporter of the unpopular President has been as good as his word.

BUT CHURCH, MCGOVERN, CLARK AND FULBRIGHT HAVE ALL ACCEPTED THIS TAINTED, TOXIC, HABITUATING, ANTI-AMERICAN MONEY IN THE PAST. IT WILL DO NO GOOD FOR THEM TO DENY IT, SINCE I'VE SEEN THEIR NAMES ON THE SLUSH-FUND LIST, and only Fulbright told me he didn't know the source of the money. These four Senators for the past four years have consistently voted for American disarmament, either on appropriation bills or policy matters, or both. Only Bill Fulbright, I believe him to be, like Brutus, an honorable man among conspirators strikes me as being the owner of a strong conscience in a sound mind.

CHURCH, MCGOVERN AND CLARK, ADDICTS TO THE PEACE-PIPE, ARE SO MUCH IN HOCK TO THE DISARMAMENT LOBBY, THAT THEIR VOTES ON ALL PERTINENT MATTERS MUST BE CONSIDERED SUSPECT. THEY HAVE BECOME KEPT MEN OF A WOMANLY WEAKNESS, FOR PASSIVE SUBMISSION TO OUR ENEMY. THEY ARE NOT FIT FOR THE SENATE WHERE OUR FOREIGN POLICY IS MADE.

These are rough words, but I have tried to measure them. Idaho, South Dakota, Pennsylvania, to a lesser extent Arkansas, would serve the nation well by turning these Senators out of office.

THE POST-REGISTER,
Idaho Falls, Oct. 4, 1968

Archibald MacLeish

This liberal poet, with a documented background of involvement with over 26 Communist-front organizations, poured $40,974.94 into Church's campaign coffers in 1967, according to the official records of the House of Representatives File Clerk a year before the election. He has sent out several mailings in 1968 pleading for funds for Church's campaign. Church is fully aware of the source of these funds.

SANE

SANE Co-chairman, Dr. Benjamin Spock, recently convicted of urging young men to avoid the draft, has listed Frank Church among those who would be supported by himself and the National Committee for a Sane Nuclear Policy (SANE), another disarmament lobby group. The organization's executive director, Sanford Gottlieb, told a news conference last September that SANE members will not support any Presidential candidate, but will work to elect "insurgents" such as Frank Church. (Washington Post, Sept. 7, 1968)

WHY ARE THESE OUT-OF-STATE GROUPS SUPPORTING CHURCH?

Church's position and voting record in his two terms as U.S. Senator from Idaho have been consistent with the policies advocated by those highly-controversial and questionable out-of-state organizations: disarmament, trade with communist nations, and unrealistic peace.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE FOR AN EFFECTIVE CONGRESS

This ultra-liberal organization contributed $9,500 to Church in the pre-election year of 1967, according to the official records of the House of Representatives File Clerk. However, the group's national director estimates that the total contribution would be "nothing less than $45,000 to $50,000." Senator Paul Douglas refused to use NCEC contributions in his 1954 campaign because of the group's questionable nature, but Frank Church rose in the Senate in 1965 to praise the work of NCEC. Approximately $50,000 was contributed to Frank Church's 1962 election campaign. (Idaho Daily Statesman, Nov. 17, 1962)

Potpourri Of Loveliness Is Woman's 'Night Look'

Diversity in style runs the gamut in sleep and loungewear fashions. The moods are many but superb femininity reigns supreme. The romantic look of ruffles, lace and velvet ribbon trim is especially noted with the Elvira Madigan cinematic entry.

The look of the 30's is stronger than ever and is reflected in wide-legged pants, bare mid-ribs, low necklines, ruffles and soft, drapable fabrics like crepe. The bared, almost nude look has captured today's 'Night Look' in diaphanous sheers, see-through lace, and open exposed décolletages.

The close-to-the-body silhouette makes its re-entry in inner fashions as well as at-home-wear. The rise and fall of hem lines and wide-ranging styles are diversified enough to keep the most fickle woman happy. This season the return to femininity is evident in luxurious lingerie and loungewear — in mini, midi and maxi lengths.

The need for personal expression and individuality are fashion statements that have taken hold in private as well as social hours. It is the 'unique' look that is most sought after. To appear real, uncomplicated, and right at the right time is the end goal.

Elegance, however, is still foremost in the mind of tonight's woman. And fabrics wait their elegant air across. Lavish crepes that pour and drape over litho bodies . . . lace that frosts the neck and hemline . . . and rich satins that glow and glisten in the moonlight, all reflect the luxury of yesteryear.

Crepe and crepe-like fabrics are the favorite this fall. Particularly pretty is a light and airy nylon crepe, which has the look and touch of luxurious silk crepe, called Enka crepe-sty nylon.

It's a pretty season with different looks and moods. The need for personal expression and individuality is met with variety and flair as tonight's fashion conscious woman makes her personal statement with her own 'Night Look' chosen to fit her mood.

All women of the community are invited to attend the meeting and join the local women in their project.

It was noted that one member, Mrs. Leo White, and her husband moved to Utah. Mrs. Calude Abshire was reported improved following an illness this summer.

Mrs. Chelline gave a report on her attendance at the national convention of Veterans of World War I at New Orleans. A fifth district meeting was announced.

Hostess for the evening was Mrs. Mrs. Evelyn Fingerson who served refreshments to the ladies and veterans at the close of the meeting. The next meeting is Nov. 5.

A BASKET OF FRENCH FRIES and a bowl of dip are go-togethers. With just a little bit of imagination, tasty dips can be prepared in minutes.

Dips Are Goooood!

Whether it's snack food for teenagers or party appetizers for adults, a basket of French fries with an appropriate dunking sauce is a perennial favorite. As a change of pace from the popular combination of French fries and catsup, serve hot, crisp French fries with a choice of dunking sauces selected for variety in color, flavor and temperature.

Given here are recipes for a streamlined Welsh Fondue, a savory Spanish Red Sauce, a quick New England Clam Dip and a simple Sour Cream & Chives Dip.

For French fries that are fool-proof, prepared quickly, easily and economically, use the frozen product. They're available in freezer cabinets at food stores in a range of sizes, and a variety of shapes including crinkle cuts, julienne, plain and puffs.

Welsh Fondue
 1 clove garlic
 1/2 cup dry white wine
 1 package (12 ounces) frozen Welsh rarebit, thawed
 Cut garlic clove into halves; rub earthenware casserole (or fondue pot) with cut surfaces. Discard garlic. Pour white wine into casserole. Place on warming stand over heat source; simmer until wine begins to bubble. Add Welsh rarebit. Cook over low heat, stirring occasionally, until cheese mixture is smooth and hot. Serve with French fries and fondue forks.
 Makes about 2 cups.

Sour Cream & Chives Dip
 1 cup (1/2 pint) sour cream
 2 tablespoons frozen chives, crumbled
 4 strips cooked bacon, crumbled
 Dash paprika
 Mix together sour cream, chives, crumbled bacon and paprika. Cover and chill. Serve with French fries.
 Makes about 1 1/2 cups.

New England Clam Dip
 1 can (10 1/4 ounces) frozen New England clam chowder
 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
 2 teaspoons lemon juice
 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 2 drops Tabasco
 Dash celery salt
 Place unopened can of soup in hot water for about 10 minutes, or until thawed. Meanwhile, let cream cheese soften in mixing bowl at room temperature. Gradually blend thawed soup into softened cheese, using a spoon, rotary beater or electric mixer. Add seasonings and continue to heat until well mixed. Cover and chill. Serve with French fries.
 Makes 1 1/2 cups.

Spanish Red Sauce
 2 tablespoons olive oil
 1 clove garlic, minced
 1/2 cup frozen chopped onion
 1/4 cup frozen chopped green pepper
 1/4 cup beef broth
 1 can (6 ounces) tomato sauce
 1/2 cup chopped black olives
 1/2 teaspoon crumbled oregano
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Dash cayenne pepper
 Heat olive oil in skillet. Add garlic, onion and green pepper; saute until onion and pepper are thawed and tender. Add remaining ingredients and simmer about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. Serve hot with French fries.
 Makes about 2 cups.

McCarthy Ponders 'Revolt'

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sign behind the "Vote Humphrey" sign he has hosted belatedly, Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy still wavers the banner of revolt against the Democratic party.

In announcing his preference for Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey over Republican Richard M. Nixon, McCarthy made it clear he expects the "children's crusade" of the spring primary campaign to continue beyond Tuesday's presidential election.

Many of those from colleges and high schools who did volunteer work for McCarthy in the primaries, still are too young to vote.

But the Minnesota senator obviously believes as time goes on they will continue to look at him as a leader who offers youth a voice in future national decisions.

With this in mind, McCarthy seems to have cleared the way for an effort at re-orientation of the political process within the Democratic party by announcing that he will not be a candidate for the party's nomination to the Senate in 1970 or for its 1972 presidential nomination.

This had the double political benefit of presenting himself as a renouncing of a party's followers and of muting criticism that he only wants to reform the nominating process in order to make it easier for him to win off the prize four years from now.

He noted in the formal statement endorsing Humphrey that he had urged the young people and others who supported his unsuccessful bid for the presidential nomination this year "to test the established political processes of the Democratic party."

But he added that "it will not make that request of them unless those processes have clearly been changed."

Was this a third party threat? McCarthy wouldn't say.

But his promise to work toward party reform and to "continue to discuss the substantive issues of American politics" seemed to imply that if he can't get his satisfaction in the party he may apply elsewhere.

While he declined to comment on Humphrey's chances of election, McCarthy displayed a pessimistic optimism on that score. He would say only he thinks the nominee's chances have "improved."

The nature of McCarthy endorsement, given despite the Senator's analysis that Humphrey's position on major issues "falls far short of what I think it should be," made it of some what dubious value to the nominee.

Minister Told

MOGA, India (AP)—Even a minister can be defamed.

A Punjab state minister issued an order summarily dismissing a railway station master, based on complaints he had received against him.

He immediately rescinded it on being told he had no jurisdiction over the railways, which is a central government undertaking.

BARNARD ENDORSES

WESTONARIA, South Africa (AP)—Some 100 gold miners have petitioned Prime Minister Balthazar J. Vorster suggesting ways to keep heart transplant surgeon Prof. Christian Barnard from leaving South Africa.

Among their proposals: higher salaries than the transplant team could expect overseas, a government research grant and a minimum tax ($2,800) on each adult to help finance medical research.

Americans Say Cuban Living Conditions Present Challenge To Desperate Cooks

By ANN WHEELER
For The Associated Press
HAVANA (AP) — "Aro you Hungarian?"
"No."
"Italian?"
"No."
"Canadian?"
"No."
"Soviet?"
"No."
"Well, what are you then?"
"What, indeed? Perhaps an anachronism. To be a resident American in Cuba today invites surprise or sometimes outright disbelief, and always questions: 'But what are you doing here? Are you a student?' and inebriated, 'Do you like Cuba?'"

I like it fine, but it's not exactly what an American housewife of the Klenox and cellophane generation is used to. Take water—or the lack of it. We receive about two hours of running water a day, a bit in the morning and a bit in the evening. If we're lucky. Water time is eagerly awaited around our house, and we move fast when we hear the push of the lovely stilet. It's bathtime and fill-and-recupacates time.

My husband and I—he is an American correspondent in Havana—keep an old 50-gallon oil drum in a place of honor in the kitchen; it holds our supply of water for housecleaning and clothes washing. One bathtub is kept filled at all times with water for washing hands and faces and filling the toilet, and comes equipped with its own little pail for dipping-and-pouring.

Just as there is no abundance of running water where we live, there is no running to the corner grocery for a bit of quick marketing.

We buy foodstuffs in a special store for foreigners accredited to Cuba. It is the only place we can buy, and it usually fairly well stocked with meat and staples. The lack of fresh fruits and vegetables, especially during the summer months, is notable. As is the ever-present queue. It is easy to spend three hours to buy a few days supply of groceries.

Most things we take for granted in the United States simply aren't available. And there are no onions, no detergent, no butter, no fruit, no greens, no tomatoes. When it comes to food, one learns quickly: improvise, make do, do without—and take vitamin pills during July, August and September.

Cooking is no joy in Cuba, but it is a challenge. The sameness of the food, the shortage or lack of most basic ingredients take even a very creative cook. Coping with spoiled tins, vegetables as they come out of the ground, the eggs as they come out of the chicken, unrecognizable hunks of meat that have been hacked off the animal and have to be butchered at home and a 20-year-old stove that explodes every three months or so means quickly losing the urban American housewife's fastidiousness.

We waste nothing. A bit of pork fat. Save it. It can be rendered for lard. Meat scraps or odd bits of chicken are thrown into a stock pot. Stale bread is grated for crumbs. Leftover rice goes into a pudding. In short, things one would never think of doing back home become second nature here.

It is hard to realize that there is almost literally nothing to buy here. A look at requests we have made to occasional visitors coming into Cuba gives the picture: books of matches, a zipper, flashlight batteries, a tube of toothpaste. Or things we bring in after trips "outside": a packet of straight pins, a ball string, glue, ballpoint pens—and all our clothes, shoes, toilet articles, cosmetics and medicines.

Cuban women's magazines are fond of pointing out, in the face of these hard times, that "if our grandmothers could do it, so can we." They include tips on how to clean the teeth when there is no toothpaste. You use a mixture of bread crumbs and ashes. Or how to give yourself a facial in the absence of prepared lotions. You run over the skin with a slice of cucumber, followed by an application of lemon juice.

I haven't quite reached that stage yet, but I still read the magazines. I'm looking for a tip on how to make instant water-

To Many Folks, The Hair Of One's Head Is More Than Decorative — It's 'Soul'

NEW YORK (AP)—It's only hair after all. Not a man's soul. Not a woman's tears. Not a child's psyche. Not really. It's really only hair. Just plain ordinary hair.

A barber in Phoenix, Ariz., wipes his brow of the difficulties of the day and begins cutting a father's hair. On the floor lay the shorn locks of the man's son. The son has stalked away in anger. The barber says, "Yessir, it's a pleasure to see someone lay the law down." But both of them look pained.

What is it about hair that awakens passions? A father born with a crew cut and a sense of responsibility breaks into a cold sweat when his teenage son lets his hair grow long. A daughter sobs when her mother insists she cut her hair because summer's coming on. A bunch of young people strip their bodies and tuffie their hair and stop onstage in a wild show called "Hair."

Scientifically, hair stems from a thickening of the middle layer of skin cells, in the form of a follicle, and a blood vessel congregate, and hair grows.

Hair, the ultimate adornment, has always been every man's crown and every woman's glory. It also, by human desire and prejudice, worked its way into law, religion, culture.

Greek children in the early days wore long hair until they reached the age of 18, the status of an ephebe. Then they cut their hair short and curled it in small ringlets. The show tresses were sacrificed to Apollo or another of their gods. The Spartans, who tried to be different from their gods in many ways, wore short hair in youth and let it grow long in adulthood.

The Romans wore long hair until about three centuries before Christ when the first barber was brought to Rome from Sicily. As it was, the Romans became hair conscious. The men wore their perfumed hair in piles of curls during Cicero's time, and the women did likewise, adding extra lengths of false hair. The hair they liked best next to their own was blonde hair taken from the conquered Germanic tribes to the north. It was this kind of exploitation that gave imperialism a bad name.

Since the Germanic tribes and the Celts and Franks felt that long hair was a sign of honor, and short hair a sign of submission, the Roman shearing had two effects. It kept Roman wives happy at home, braiding their new hair, and it reminded the conquered tribes who were boss. Ultimately, the peoples of northern Europe recovered the stolen hair and brought down the Roman Empire as a result. Hair has always had a sexual meaning that has never been carefully examined, and perhaps for good reason. Japanese women used to remove their eyebrows and blacken their teeth to discourage male attention. American women blackened their eyebrows and whitened their teeth, presumably with the opposite intent.

Hair is history. But it is difficult to find any pattern to it. About all that seems certain is that an abrupt change in hair usually means an abrupt change in something else — status, age or government.

Reaction shows itself in hair. The roundheads of Oliver Cromwell clipped their hair to show defiance to the throne and their Puritan intent. No frivolity for them. They gave the long-haired Royalists a trimming in battle, and succeeded in removing the ruling head of Charles I. hair and all Englishmen, in typically stubborn style, persisted in wearing longish hair until a tax on wigs helped make them unconomical, and hence unfashionable.

Massachusetts, then a struggling colony in North America, apparently saw all of this coming. A 1634 law was passed against long hair. And, writes Richard Corson in his book, "Fashions in Hair," the boys at Harvard were not "permitted to wear Long Haire, Locks, Foretops, Curlings, Crispings, Partings, or Powdering of Ye Haire."

More than 300 years later, in 1958, the headmaster at the exclusive Horace Mann School of New York City took another tack. In a prep school where mandatory conservatism was the rule in department, he took note of the world around him, and canceled a long-standing rule: "Long or extreme styles of haircuts are unacceptable. Students must be clean shaven."

Said the headmaster: "We have heard among the faculty, boys, whom I believe to be perfectly normal adolescents, wish to try beards or mustaches — more power to them!"

Dr. Frank S. Caprio and Frank B. Caprio, in their book, "Parents and Teenagers," tell parents to cool it when disturbed by the hair styles of their offspring.

"The paradox of fads and fashions is especially marked among teen-agers," they write. "Teen-agers change the way they look and dress in order to look different and the same, to be conspicuous and fade into the square world, that they want to shock. They want to look like each other."

PLAY ON SAME HAND DIFFERS
Here is another example of fortune favoring the brave in the Bridge Olympiad, the Belgium man was Charles Monk of Belgium who jumped to four hearts after his partner gave him a single raise. Fortune usually requires skill as well as bravery, before it bestows its favors. In the diamond lead and ruffed a club. Then he played a club

West discarded a club and Monk ruffed with dummy's last trump. He re-entered his hand by ruffing another spade, played his ace of trumps and conceded a trick to West's jack. Looked easy when you see how it was done. At the other table South bid three hearts only. This was just as well because he timed the hand badly and only made nine tricks. He ceased the ace of hearts and then ruffed a diamond. The club play came next and her sat West, came up with a book play to hold South to nine tricks. Polak lead his jack of trumps. This play gave up a trump trick but Polak's generosity was far more apparent than real. He gave up a trump trick to ruff and only the high 10 to trump to use for this purpose. Of course, South could still ruff one diamond with dummy's 10 but that would give back Polak's trump trick.

'Promiscuous Kissers' Have Ability To Shun Diseases

PLEASE CONSIDER those affectionate students who catch contagions ailments by kissing contaminated members of the opposite sex. They do not necessarily engage in said practice frequently with numerous partners. I mean just because they come down with mononucleosis doesn't mean they're promiscuous. On the contrary, most likely they're bashful types with little experience. Some, but not much, that's why they're vulnerable to such diseases. It is the promiscuous kissers who can withstand the various campus germs. They become so immunized they don't even catch colds. Or such is the crux of a scientific study of the matter.

A VETERINARIAN writes: "After 25 years of experience, I absolutely believe in that old maxim, Dogs are loyal to people; cats to places."

Longer. Tenderer. There's a vegetable expert named Ken down at the place where the lady friend buys food, and I'm going to ask him the gender of our next asparagus. He's mature and completely professional, and if I don't know of his hand, I think he could simply step into the privacy of the walk-in refrigerator and look at the asparagus in his hand.
