Reds Say U.S. Must Push Saigon Aides

By MICHAEL GOLDSMITH

PARIS (AP)—North Vietnam said Saturday the United States must push the peace talks to a separate entity, including the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front, should take part in expanded peace talks scheduled to open in Paris Wednesday.

North Vietnam's chief negotiator, Xuan Thuy, told a news conference the United States had insisted on bringing in the Saigon government and it was now up to Washington to get South Vietnam representatives to the conference table.

President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam said in a speech in Saigon that his government could never negotiate with the National Liberation Front as a separate delegation and would send no delegates to Paris.

A U.S. spokesman referred newsmen to a statement made by Secretary of State Dean Rusk at his Washington news conference Friday.

There will be Hanoi and presumably representatives of the NLF," Rusk said. "We don't recognize either one of them. We don't recognize the NLF as a separate entity. Now we could spend a year or two debating and arguing these points of procedure and status without the substance of making peace."

Thuy, smiling and in high spirits, first read a formal North Vietnamese government declaration making "unconditional cessation of American bombing (of North Vietnam) constitutes a great victory for the Vietnamese people in both zones."

Then answering newsmen's questions for more than an hour, Thuy said the United States "must bear the entire responsibility" if the Saigon government refuses to attend the expanded talks. But he stopped at questions on what would happen in that event.

He said the United States had assured him that all American proposals would be carried out. "We accepted this in good faith," Thuy declared. "As for Saigon's attitude, this is an affair for the United States and Saigon to settle."

"If they do not come, if they do not want peace, then the United States side must bear the entire responsibility."

Thuy said his government had suggestion that the expanded talks should open in Paris Nov. 6.

The first meeting, he said, would be concerned with procedural matters. He said he expected the negotiation to continue for some time. There must be agreement on procedure and on an agenda before there can be a discussion of a cease-fire, he added.

U.S. Warships Move To Southern Vietnam Coast

By RICHARD FYLE

SAIGON (AP)—With all attacks halted on North Vietnam, a score of U.S. warships, including three aircraft carriers and the battleship New Jersey, steamed southward and took up positions Saturday off the northern coast of South Vietnam. At the same time, U.S. Air Force planes roared from raids over the North by Friday's presidential order. Stepped up their attacks on North Vietnam, supply lines along the Ho Chi Minh trail in eastern Laos.

In this capital, meanwhile, there appeared no outward repercussions to the bombing halt.

President Nguyen Van Thieu's declaration that South Vietnam will boycott the four-way peace talks scheduled to open in Paris next Wednesday. Thieu said in a speech that his government could agree only to direct talks with North Vietnam, but never with the Hanoi-backed National Liberation Front of South Vietnam as a separate delegation.

Military sources said top strategists were studying a possible shift of the Navy's air might to the Ho Chi Minh trail or other targets in Laos. The halt of attacks over the north gives the United States an additional 500 Air Force, Navy and Marine planes for assignment against targets in South Vietnam or Laos. Asked by newsmen in Paris about Thieu's statement, Xuan Thuy, the chief negotiator, at talks with the United States that opened last May, said the United States had insisted that South Vietnam be present at the expanded talks. He said the Americans had assured him their proposals would be carried out.

Thuy accepted this in good faith. As for Saigon's attitude, this is an affair for the United States and Saigon to settle."

Plans For City Of Rocks State Park Are Discussed

Plans to establish a state park at the City of Rocks, south of Ovid, were discussed during a field trip of the Sawtooth National Forest Advisory Committee Friday.

The group also visited the Ponderosa Ski Area and inspected Howell Canyon and the road being constructed to the top of Mt. Harrison. Sawtooth Forest Supervisor, said the Forest Service, sometime in the future would like to continue the road from the top of Mt. Harrison on down the other side of the mountain to connect up with the road leading to the City of Rocks.

Humphrey Advances, But Nixon Is Still Leader

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hubert H. Humphrey's making roads into Richard M. Nixon's lead, but a state-by-state survey shows the Republican nominee still has a lead in Tuesday's presidential election.

Information for the survey, gathered by Associated Press bureaus in every state, is based on an assessment of conditions several days before President Johnson's decision Thursday to stop bombing of North Vietnam. It therefore does not reflect any developments in the past week. Another complicating factor is that some key states appear to have an extremely large undecided vote—as much as one in 20.

In many states, the AP survey shows that Humphrey's lead has narrowed, while in broad Nixon margins, while a handful, it has pushed states out of the Nixon column and into the Humphrey column. Nixon is seen ahead by varying margins in 24 states with 216 electoral votes, compared with 27 states with 224 electoral votes in a previous survey two weeks ago. Needed for victory: 270 electoral votes.

Humphrey, on the other hand, leads in just Hawaii, Massachusetts and the District of Columbia, with a total of 21 electoral votes. But 30 states with 203 electoral votes—nearly half—are considered toss-ups, and Democratic nominee has been gaining in most of them.

LBJ Honors Astronauts, Says United States Leads In Space

By PAUL REGER

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP)—President Johnson honored Apollo astronauts Saturday by saying they have proved that America leads in space. And veteran seaman Walter M. Schirra Jr. used the occasion to apologize for his "velvety attitude in orbit."

Schirra and his Apollo 7 teammates, Air Force Lt. Col. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham received from the President the Exceptional Service Medal, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's second highest award.

The President told the Apollo 7 crewmen they proved they were flying the world's most advanced and most versatile manned space vehicle.

Idaho Vote Will Answer Questions

By EARLE L. JESTER

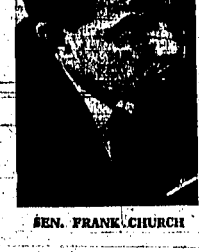

BOISE (AP)—Idahoans will vote Tuesday, providing the answers to questions which have puzzled the political expert as well as the average citizen.

For the political expert the puzzle has been the strength of the American Independent Party. Polls in 805 voting precincts will be open from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday.

Final Installment Of Hansen-Church Newspaper Debate

Candidates Discuss Seniority, Effectiveness

SEN. FRANK CHURCH

By SEN. FRANK CHURCH
Seniority and the effectiveness of any member of Congress are inseparably linked that they must be considered together.

I now have accumulated as much seniority as the rest of the Idaho Congressional delegation put together, an only if you hold any chairmanship. Among the three I hold is that of the Subcommittee on Public Lands—vital to Idaho's future. Two-thirds of the land is owned by the Federal Government.

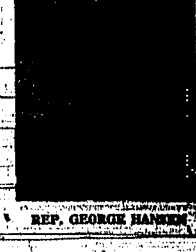

Editor's Note

This is the final installment of a four-part newspaper debate between Sen. Frank Church and Rep. George Hansen on eight major issues of their campaign.

By REP. GEORGE HANSEN
Seniority has been a much over-played issue in this campaign. The question is not seniority, but principle and the direction in which America is moving.

and the Republican team are being counted upon by the people of this nation to bring this country back to the way it was on the issue upon which America was going to turn then Lyndon Johnson would automatically be the best choice as the country's president. But he and his team have proved they can't get the job done.

Other states in which Nixon is rated ahead include Alaska, Arizona, California, Colorado, Florida, Idaho, Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, North Dakota, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Utah, Wisconsin, New Hampshire, Vermont and Delaware.

 He tended off all questions concerning the substance of future peace negotiations, anything these were for the expanded conference.
 Asked whether North Vietnam had given any promise to de-escalate the war in response to the halt to all attacks on the North, they again avoided a direct answer.
 "If the United States really wants to solve the Vietnam problem peacefully, the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam and the National Liberation Front are ready to settle it, too," he said.
 "If the United States purges its aggressive war against Vietnam, then the Vietnamese people will pursue the struggle until victory and final peace."

Idaho Vote

 George Wallace will get a majority of Idaho's votes.
 Political experts have differed widely in their predictions, with some saying the Wallace vote would be negligible and others contending Wallace would finish second to Republican Richard M. Nixon.
 Political writers on Idaho only newspapers, who have been quite accurate in their predictions in past elections, believe Wallace has lost strength in the past two weeks and will get only 15 per cent of the vote.
 They give Nixon 61 per cent and Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic nominee, 30 per cent.

Over the years, two-written dozens of bills, guided them to Senate passage and seen them written into law. They have dealt with many subjects: land and water, education and social security, agriculture and mining, parks and outdoor recreation—to name but a few.

Just this year, for example, Congress passed the Wild Rivers Bill which I first introduced over four years ago to protect tree-losing rivers from the spoils of pollution and to keep them free of impoundment in future years. I believe Americans will look back upon passage of this bill in the same way we now look back upon the creation of our parks and recreation system. Just as we are now thankful for the foresight of Congress in setting up the National Park System, our children will thank us for protecting the heritage of our wild rivers.

Bring the Idaho Legislature Out of the Horse and Buggy Days.

"We feel that the business of government is immensely more complicated than when the state was formed in 1890 and that a legislative session every other year does not provide legislators with adequate time for proper consideration of issues. We believe effective, economical government would be improved by annual sessions.

"We must take steps to establish an adequate compensation pattern for legislators if the type of person we need in state government is to serve without undue financial sacrifice."

H. J. R. NO. 1
 On November 5th your ballot will read:
 "Shall Section B of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Idaho be amended to change the sessions of the state legislature from biennial to annual?" YES NO

A YES VOTE WILL MEAN...

- Better budgeting procedures
- That the legislature will have time to do that job properly
- Better control over spending
- Fewer special sessions
- More effective freshman legislators
- Fewer end-of-the-session pressures

S. J. R. NO. 9
 On November 5th your ballot will read:
 "Shall Section B of Article III of the Constitution of the State of Idaho, relating to compensation and mileage of members, be amended to provide that the salary and expenses of members of the legislature shall be provided by law except that no increase in salary of the members of the legislature shall be effective until the first day of the regular biennial session following the session at which it was approved and to remove from said section provisions relating to free travel, the compensation of presiding officers and to the length of special sessions?" YES NO

A YES VOTE WILL MEAN...

- Elimination of the complicated system of expense allowances which exists
- Establishment of a sensible, up-to-date compensation schedule
- More qualified individuals will be encouraged to seek office
- Any change in compensation voted by the Legislature will not be effective until the next Legislature meets.

The Legislature has found it difficult to complete its work in a sixty-day period every other year. This amendment will provide ample time for the Legislature to consider adequately the problems of our State government, including expenditures which approximate $400 million every two years.

VOTE YES ON H. J. R. NO. 1 and S. J. R. NO. 9 — NOV. 5th.

COACHMAN FOR MODERNIZING THE STATE LEGISLATURE
 Dr. O. H. Theophilus, Chairman

Political Point Of View

By L. James Koutlik

The time has arrived, and it is time that all political commentators must fish or cut bait or whatever it is they say about this sort of thing. We now must make our predictions as to how the various races in this area will turn-out. Admittedly, fools rush in where angels fear to tread, and our second-hand accurate predictions in political races has been a long way from any 100 per cent.

Nevertheless, we shall climb out on the limb today, and give you our predictions of whom is going tolobber whom this coming Tuesday, Nov. 5. Incidentally, let's make one thing clear right from the beginning. This does not necessarily indicate our own preferences by any means, but is the result of our own analysis in traveling around the area. If we're too far wrong, I expect that on Wednesday, Nov. 6, we will be eating a full lunch of crow.

PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES: This one is the easiest of all. Nixon wins. Not exactly hands-down, as we feel that he won't do nearly as well as some of the polls indicated several weeks ago, but he will win. So far as Idaho goes, Nixon will take the state by 55 per cent. Hubert H. Humphrey will capture 30 per cent of the vote, and Wallace will pick up the remaining 15 per cent. As far as we can see, Wallace is shaking, and is now going steadily backwards, and furthermore, many people we have talked to who had indicated they were going to vote for Wallace are now having a considerable amount of second thoughts.

Twin Falls County, of course, will go overwhelmingly for Nixon as they do for all Republican presidential candidates. However, Goldwater just barely carried the county in 1964.

UNITED STATES SENATOR: This one is almost too close to call, and here we will have to admit a certain personal involvement, being well acquainted with both Sen. Frank Church and Congressman George Hansen, both of whom we consider very fine men, and a credit to Idaho. Philosophically, they are poles apart, and once again we observe that the party-factor is not nearly so important as it is in other races. Both of them are hard workers, and a number of people are supporting them based on their own individual personalities and relationships with the candidates as the prime reasons for their individual support.

But we are not in the business of straddling fences as long as we're writing a column such as this, so we have to come to a conclusion. If you were to only all the Democrat vote, but a very substantial portion of the Republican vote, to defeat Wade Quinn, the Republican nominee.

Her victory was a foregone conclusion before the primaries, and the Republicans only filled this particular slot at the last minute. Quigley has been working hard, but he hasn't had much to work with under the circumstances, and it must be a very frustrating campaign for him.

PROBATE JUDGE: Richard Reed has this one locked-up. Al Robinson is a very likeable fellow, but is going to suffer from two handicaps that are sure to pull him under. One, he is not a lawyer, and the position is generally recognized as one requiring someone with a law degree. It's true that this is not the case in a number of other counties, but the need and desirability of having a lawyer in this position has been fairly well accepted for this county for many years.

The other problem that Al has is that he is running on the Democrat ticket, which is, at large, no asset to a candidate for one of the county offices.

PROSECUTING ATTORNEY: Emil Pike, the Democrat, who is a very capable and successful lawyer, will go down the tube in this race. Robert Galley will win this one because the general public is not acquainted with either one to any great degree. This very obviously works to Galley's advantage, inasmuch as he is in the proper party column for a victory. More of the local lawyers lean toward Pike than Galley, but the legal endorsement is of questionable value to any candidate. In fact, some people have felt that it is sometimes the kiss of death.

If both Pike and Galley had had more public exposure, this race, quite possibly, could have gone to the Democrats this year.

CONSTABLE: Here is a race that is at the end of the ballot, and a number of people don't bother to go down this far on the ballot. Those who do are frequently stimulated by personal experience with the candidate. Constables have the unpleasant task of serving summonses, warrants, notices of legal action against individuals and other unglorious little tasks that frequently enrage the recipient.

Any time you hear of someone violently involved one way or another in this race, you can generally assume that John Cox just recently served a small claims court summons against him. However, we predict that John hasn't upset over 50 per cent of the county to this date, and will win over T. R. Staples.

In years past, we have missed on a lot of political races, and there's nothing to indicate that this one is going to be any different, except that we have a greater feeling of confidence about this group of predictions than we have had in the past (the Stiggle vs. Samuelson primary race in 1966 notwithstanding).

One of the local radio stations has a contest on in which you are invited to guess the total number of votes that are to be cast in Twin Falls County. Here, we humbly suggest that you get on the bandwagon and join us with our figure of 16,247 and, if it wins, we can share the $25 Savings Bond — or whatever the prize is.

If you see us Wednesday morning with egg on a sweat on our faces and a stunned look, saying "Wha Hoppin'" when we read such diverse headlines as "Humphrey Snags Nixon," or "Wallace Gets 81 per cent of National Vote," or "AIP Candidates Throughout Nation Swept into Office," please don't rub it in too hard, — Be people.

This figure has been increased to $161,096,221.00, an increase of approximately $60,000,000.00 in four years. Most state officials anticipate $40,000,000.00 additional revenue for the next biennium from natural growth. Seemingly, a majority of legislators have these funds appropriated in their own minds. Pressure is being exerted throughout America to replace elected officials with appointed ones. Two of our constitutional amendments being voted on Tuesday, H.J.R. No. 4 and S.J.R. No. 5, have little other intent than to strip Idaho residents of the control their vote has on these officials. The voice of citizens or their petitions go unheard in their attempts to refute the wrong doings of appointed officials. ARE YOU CONCERNED? VOTE FOR NOLAN VICTOR. HE IS CONCERNED.

Mothers work while teen-agers roam the streets because child labor laws prohibit hiring them. Minimum wage laws prohibit employers from hiring youth since adults are no more expensive. If these laws were changed, so that the teen-ager could replace the mothers in the labor market, the incidence of both divorce and delinquency would be far less. Are you concerned? VOTE FOR NOLAN VICTOR. HE IS CONCERNED.

Gun legislation with eventual complete disarmament of all American citizens is eminent. Pressure is going to be put on state legislators throughout the nation to do this on a state basis if the federal congress refuses to do so. Complete enslavement has been the eventual end of every disarmed citizenry. Are you concerned? VOTE FOR NOLAN VICTOR.

WASHINGTON — With three days left in the election, the Democrats responsible for what is laughingly referred to as law and order in the District of Columbia seem determined to make Richard Nixon look good.

They helped explain why the average resident hesitates to leave his hearthside at night without an armed bodyguard of picked paratroopers.

Nato Spy Scandal

Is it coincidence or something more that within a 10-day period two high-ranking West-German military officers committed suicide, a high West-German NATO officer was found dead of a gunshot wound, and a roll of film the NATO official had left at a film processor's for developing was found to contain pictures of top secret NATO documents?

No connection yet has been made between Luedke's death while on a hunting trip and the suicide the deputy chief of West-German intelligence agency or the suicide a few days later of an officer attached to the defense ministry.

The Minisub

It may be many years before fleets of minisubs are numerous. But that the minisub with the capability of diving to great depths has a future is unmistakable.

Minisubs are now operational at depths to 2,000 feet. The big breakthrough in use of the subs will come when they are equipped with nuclear propulsion.

LBJ Hit By Idaho GOP Head

By The Associated Press
President Johnson's decision to not bombing North Vietnam was criticized Friday by the Idaho Republican Party chairman.
GOP Chairman Roland Wilber said: "I believe the most important part of the President's statement were the things that he did not tell the American people. He placed great emphasis on developments which had taken place, but did not tell the American people of any developments which had taken place. He placed great emphasis on the permission given for the South Vietnamese to sit at the table."
Wilber said Paris negotiations should resume today and not the day after the election. "If time were as urgent as the President has indicated,"

Surge Of Humphrey Support Seen In Idaho Political Writers' Poll

BOISE (AP) — A surge of support for Vice President Hubert Humphrey, the Democratic nominee for president, appeared Saturday in the final political writers' poll of Idaho's 1968 general election campaign.
Writers on seven Idaho daily newspapers said that support came primarily from former backers of American Independent Party nominee George Wallace, with Republican Richard M. Nixon retaining a strong hold on the No. 1 spot.
The writers, in the Associated Press poll, continued to pick Sen. Frank Church, Democrat, and Republicans James A. McClure and Orval Hansen as the probable winners in the congressional contests.
All but two of the seven writers said Humphrey has gained strength in the past two weeks and the two listed his position as unchanged.
One writer who two weeks ago thought Humphrey would get 28 per cent of the Idaho vote now rates him at 40 per cent. He cut Nixon's percentage from 55 to 52 and gave Wallace 8 instead of 18.
Another upped Humphrey from 27 to 42 and cut Wallace from 23 to 19. He said the bases for the change on reports that union members, formerly listed in Wallace's column, were indicating they would vote instead for Humphrey.
The shift results, this writer said, from a feeling among many union members that a vote for Wallace would be wasted and they would rather have Humphrey than Nixon.
Over-all, the percentages were 61 for Nixon, 35 for Humphrey and 13 for Wallace. Two weeks earlier, the writers gave Nixon 52 per cent, Humphrey 30 and Wallace 18.
"The writers figured Church gained in the past two weeks in his battle with Republican-Rep. George Hansen. They put Church at 55 per cent to 45 for Hansen, an increase of one percentage point for Church.
McClure gained two percentage points in his first District contest with Democrat Compton White. The poll showed Mc-

The high court upheld the district court ruling giving L. E. Stephens $10,833.57 for damages to the collar in a windstorm in early 1966.
New Hampshire Ins'r'n Co., had contended structural weakness and not the strength of the wind caused the collapse.
The high court also upheld the State Industrial Accident Board ruling that seven Malad telephone operators who claimed employment benefits had been discharged for misconduct and were not entitled to benefits.

McClure said the construction plans result from a Federal Power Commission decision granting additional natural gas pipeline capacity from Canada to California.
He said Friday the ruling will have "considerably favorable tax impact" in North Idaho.

Republicans Expected To Retain Majority In Idaho

In nine of large districts there are three candidates on ballots for two positions. In six of these at large districts, two of the three are Democrats and consequently one is assured reelection. This situation favors the Republicans in three districts.

Adding the large-elected to those unopposed, the Democrats start with eight representatives for House seats. In 28 of Idaho's 35 legislative districts, two representatives are elected at large and in seven, members are chosen from sub-districts.

Terms is short and there should be lively competition. The Republicans have seven unopposed for Senate seats while no Democrat is unopposed. The Democrats, however, have the local start in the elections for House seats. In 28 of Idaho's 35 legislative districts, two representatives are elected at large and in seven, members are chosen from sub-districts.

BY BUD JORGENSEN

BOISE (AP) — Unless Republicans experience a political disaster, they will retain their majority in the Idaho Legislature for another two years.

The more interesting questions now to legislators — watchers are: How large will the GOP majority be? And who will get key leadership spots?

The first question will be answered Tuesday in the general election when top candidates are on ballots competing for 32 legislative seats. There are 105 positions to be filled — 35 in the Senate and 70 in the House — but 72 candidates have no opposition and can be considered elected unless there are strong write-in campaigns.

The second question will be answered when the lawmakers elected Tuesday meet Dec. 5-7 for a pre-session conference to take care of organizational matters. This will be the first time such a session has been held prior to opening the regular session in January.

A majority of the legislators who held key posts in the 1958 session will not be back.

It appears the Republicans will win easily in about 30 House races and could pick up as many as 15 more seats. It takes 36 for a majority. The current breakdown is 39 Republicans and 31 Democrats.

Republican candidates appear easy winners in 13 Senate races and if there is a Republican sweep on the coattails of presidential candidate Richard M. Nixon they could gain a two-thirds majority in the Idaho Senate. It takes 18 for a simple majority. The current breakdown is 22 Republicans and 13 Democrats.

Four Republicans and two Democrats are without ballot opposition for House seats.

However, one of the four Republicans — State Rep. Plaro Piva of Challis — does have a serious general election contest. Helo McKinney of Salmon, defeated by 14 votes in the primary, has staged a strong write-in campaign and the race is considered close.

Another one of the unopposed Republicans is House Speaker William Lanting of Twin Falls. Lanting likely will run for another term as speaker.

A potential challenger is Rep. Ferd Koch of Boise. Koch was a candidate for speaker in the last special session but dropped out when Robert Green, another Ada County Republican, was named House majority leader. Green and several other veter-tion campaigns and among the toughest is the rematch between Sen. Lloyd Barron, R-Fairfield, and former Sen. Don G. Frederickson, D-Gooding.

Reapportionment combined Barron and Frederickson's old districts. The two ran in the combined district in 1958, the first election after reapportionment, and Barron won narrowly. If elected, Barron will be a leading candidate for Senate president pro-tem. Sen. R. H. Young, the pro-tem in the last session, was one of the top Senate leaders who did not run for reelection.

Pro-tem majority leader and Finance Committee chair, the members among the Senate jobs open. Barron is the senior Republican. The list of GOP senators with more than two

Twin Falls Times-News Sunday, November 3, 1968

The Republicans had several hotly contested House nominations. The primary and some runoffs were better in the general election, the Republicans are running 25 incumbents for House seats while Democrats have elected 26 incumbents. However, in Senate races, the Republicans are running 17 incumbents and the Democrats only nine.

Anti-Union Vote Noted At Rupert

RUPERT—Employees of Magic Valley Foods, Inc., and Roland Jones-Potatoes, Inc., gave their company a vote of confidence Thursday in a National Labor Relations Board election.

Tom Hazard, of the Idaho Employees Council, said three unions have been conducting organizational campaigns in the potato processing plants for the past several months.

Results of this week's balloting was 53 in favor of the company.

Tom Hazard, of the Teamsters, for the Meat cutters and zero for the Grainmillers.

Immediately following the balloting, Roger Jones and Don Robinson announced the results to the employees and thanked them for their confidence.

T.F. High School Students Vote For Nixon And Church

If a recent election poll taken at the Twin Falls High School Richard M. Nixon will be our next president, and I will have to deal with the re-election of Democratic Senator Frank Church to the U. S. Senate from Idaho.

All high school students were given the opportunity to participate and 1,228 of them cast ballots for the presidential race, and 1,338 voted in the senatorial contest.

Democratic hopeful Hubert H. Humphrey went down to an embarrassing defeat not only at the hands of Nixon, but also George Wallace, who drew 742 votes on the American Independent Party ballot, to Humphrey's 213.

Even Pat Paulsen, a comedian on the Smothers Brothers television show, got into the act. Recent parody on the election, in which Mr. Paulsen is elected, netted him 45 write-in votes. Sen. Eugene McCarthy, Minnesota, who was defeated by Hubert Humphrey in a bid for the Democratic nomination for president, received 14 write-in votes.

Frank Church, Democratic candidate for re-election to the U.S. Senate, was given an easy victory in the school poll, defeating George V. Hanson's bid for his seat 811 to 815.

Orval Hansen, Republican candidate for U. S. Representative from the second district, sped to a slithering over Democrat Darrell V. Manning and American Independent Party candidate Joel A. Anderson, both of whom are seeking the seat. Hansen drew 774 votes compared to Manning's 470 and Anderson's 42.

Republican Richard S. High, unopposed for the state senate seat in legislative district 23, got 925 votes.

D. Claiborn Sr., and Ray Lincoln, both Republican incumbent state representatives from legislative district 23, got 777 and 876 votes respectively. No-Name Victor, running on the American Independent Party ballot, received 134 votes. One student, apparently from the 24th district, wrote in the names of William Lanting and William Roberts, both Republicans for state representative, and John Barker for state senator, and Republican William L. "Bill"

Power Outage

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — A squirrel electrocuted himself and in so doing knocked out most of the power in downtown Bay City area for five minutes Friday.

Lowell Shepard, division manager of Consumers Power Corp. said the squirrel walked onto a transformer, short-circuiting several power lines.

Candidate Takes Issue On Hunting

RUPERT—State Sen. Mary Brooks Friday advocated the reinforcement of laws to insure that out-of-state hunters can not come into Idaho and lease private or public land for the exclusive purpose of capturing Idaho's fish and game of every type, which, she said, belong to the people of Idaho.

Mrs. Brooks continued, "Idaho has priceless possibilities in her wonderful outdoors. We have magnificent hunting and fishing and some of the most beautiful streams and lakes in the United States. The Gem state is one of the few that is not still get out in the wild," she said.

"I feel," she explained, "that Idaho sportsmen should be remembered and that is why I am asking that our laws be reinforced."

Mrs. Brooks explained that at her ranch near Plummer, where hundreds of people have fished and hunted, she has never had any conflict with them.

"The only part of the ranch we have posted is the meadow adjacent to the houses," she said.

"As a member of the Fish and Game and Recreation Commission in the 30th Idaho Legislature, I worked diligently for better landholder sportsman residential nomination," O'Dwyer gave the Humphrey cause a boost Friday by endorsing the vice president after President Johnson had ordered the bombing halt in North Vietnam.

Humphrey Ends Drive In New York

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey brought down the curtain on his arduous Eastern campaign Saturday with a series of crowd-drawing rallies in New York.

Across the suburbs of Long Island and into noisy slum areas in Harlem and Brooklyn, the Democratic presidential candidate bid for the 43 electoral votes of a state that is crucial to his election hopes.

At his side, he proudly displayed one of the latest and most welcome supporters of the Humphrey cause, Democratic Senate candidate Paul O'Dwyer. A peace candidate who had supported Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for the Democratic presidential nomination, O'Dwyer gave the Humphrey cause a boost Friday by endorsing the vice president after President Johnson had ordered the bombing halt in North Vietnam.

Record Vote Turnout Expected

By The Associated Press
WASHINGTON (AP) — A record outpouring of nearly 73 million voters is expected in Tuesday's presidential election, but the turnout may drop below 60 million in the runoff election, Democratic states.

The previous record was set in 1954, when just under 71 million Americans cast ballots in a runoff election which pitted President Johnson rout his Republican opponent, Barry Goldwater. As it did four years ago, California is expected to cast the heaviest vote, an estimated 7,040,000, while New York is expected to rank a close second with 7 million. Both totals would be lower than four years ago.

According to an Associated Press survey of official registration records and estimates by election officials, a total of 90,141,438 of the 121.5 million Americans of voting age are registered to vote. The actual turnout is estimated at 72,987,527, or 81 per cent.

Some states do not require registration, so estimated vote totals were lower. Other states do not include some latecomers. Besides California, and New York, lower turnouts than 1964 are expected in Connecticut, Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Pennsylvania, West Virginia, Washington, New Mexico, Michigan, Kentucky, Oregon, Michigan and the District of Columbia.

All other states expect larger turnouts with the largest increases turning up in Florida, 300,000; Ohio and Virginia, 200,000; and Mississippi, New Jersey and Maryland, 150,000. Many southern states have sharply increased registrations due to the influx of Negro voters since passage of the voting rights act in Congress last year.

AND IN UTAH, a 100,000-vote gain, some 25 per cent, is expected because of a hot statewide fight over legalizing liquor by the drink.

The survey showed also that, largely due to relaxed requirements and the large number of servicemen in Vietnam, requests for absentee ballots are at record levels in many places. Both parties have been wooing the estimated 2 million eligible military voters.

Because many states do not keep accurate totals, it is impossible to estimate the overall absentee vote. And in most states absentee ballots are counted along with regular votes. In several closely contested states, however, absentee ballots were not counted until election day, raising the possibility that the winners in their own states may not be known for several weeks.

In 1960, some 35,000 absentee voters in California swung the liquor referendum.

Richard M. Nixon over John F. Kennedy but after Kennedy's election had been assured. Among the areas that record exceptionally heavy absentee votes are Texas, where in Dallas the turnout was 81 per cent, higher than in 1954; Missouri, especially crucial St. Louis County; and Utah, due to the liquor referendum.

WHAT MATERIAL THING CAN YOU OWN, THAT IS ETERNAL, ALIVE, AND IMPERISHABLE? A DIAMOND.

In this beautiful world there are many things a man (or woman) can purchase with money. You can buy a fine automobile — and get lots of pleasure from it. But within two or three years its value has almost declined — as you sorrowfully learn every time you trade in any car.

You can buy common stocks. And maybe for a while you are elated. Some of the glamor stocks have gone through the roof. But there are always reverses, and it's hard to sleep nights when your stocks or your silver futures or your bonds are having rough sledding. And maybe, maybe, you wind up with serious losses.

Real estate is often a good buy. But when times get a little tough no one will buy it from you if you want money — unless you give it away. Money in the bank is good, very good. But inflation means its buying power is constantly decreasing.

The longer we live and the more of life and its joys and wonders we see, the more we realize everyone who can afford it should own at least one good diamond.

It imparts pleasure. It's beautiful to look at. In a lovely piece of jewelry — for man or woman — it's admired. And it's fair to say, it leads many people to look with extra respect on the possessor.

A beautiful diamond is a companion. You expose it to light and like a living thing it gives the light back, broken by refraction into many colors. It sparkles and as it is moved the sparkle becomes fire and sunshine and glow — it becomes color and rainbow and light.

And wonder of wonders, after you have enjoyed it and worn it for 20 or 30 years; it's worth more than you paid for it. It's an eternal purchase if you want GOOD from your purchase all through the years while it's growing in value. Come talk to us about a diamond. You just might be missing something.

If the seven payments of $20 each are not received by the date set, refunds will be made to the 23 persons who have made the payments.

The council also determined that a notice concerning the sale of dog licenses will be mailed out in all the city water statements at the end of November. The dog license ordinance of the city requires that all dogs within city limits must have a rabies vaccination every two years and Jan. 1 is the date on which new licenses are due.

Fees for dogs over 6 months old are $3 for males or spayed females and $5 for female dogs. Licenses can be purchased at

STACK-OF CHASSIS which left Friday morning for Fort Valley, Ga., will come back as push ski buses for Sun Valley, shown, entering the small cab perched on the front of the three chassis is Jerome Fiscus, employe of Kirkman Brothers.

Mr. Fiscus will be driving the strange looking load the 2,200-plus miles in Fort Valley. Other drivers from Kirkman's will meet him there and will assist in completing the buses and driving them back to Magic Valley.

Odd Looking Three-In-One Vehicle Heads For Georgia

Three bus chassis driven by employe of Kirkman Brothers left early Friday morning for Fort Valley, Ga., where the frames will be fitted with bodies and brought back to Magic Valley.

Jerome Fiscus, who built the chassis, will be driving the 2,200-plus miles to the Georgia city in a snug one-man-cab fitted on the extreme front of the stack of chassis. Other than the cab, the strange looking vehicle is all chassis and tires. The tires needed for all three completed vehicles also will be taken to Georgia.

The three chassis are stacked one on top of another and bolted securely together. One of the engines is in front, adjacent to the cab.

The motor that runs the propulsion is in the rear of the stack of chassis.

Mr. Fiscus said that when he made the four and one-half day trip last year the unused engine in the front caused some confusion among service station attendants.

He said at one station he pulled into, the attendant checked the water and oil in the front engine.

Two other members of the Kirkman firm, Garth Kirkman and Erwin Keimig, will fly to Fort Valley where they and Mr. Fiscus will assist in fitting the bodies on the chassis.

The buses then will be driven back to Twin Falls by the three men and will be leased to Sun Valley for use as ski buses.

The crude cab fitted on the chassis resembles a small armored car—it is made of heavy steel and is fitted with everything but room.

The three men and the completed buses are expected to return to Twin Falls about Nov. 15. The trip in the fully outfitted buses takes about the same time as the one Mr. Fiscus is making with the stack of chassis.

Old Guard Reds Want Czech-Soviet Rally

By GENE KRAMER
 PRAGUE (AP) — Old Guard Communists in this Soviet-occupied country want to hold their annual Czechoslovak-Soviet Friendship Rally next Thursday, if one is held, it threatens to be an unfriendly affair.
 Czechoslovak party headquarters and newspapers in Prague have received word of letters and resolutions from factories and labor unions demanding that the Old Guards be curbed and their friendship rally banned.
 The Old Guards include a mixture of Stalinists, supporters of ousted President Antonin Novotny and party functionaries threatened with early retirement by the reforms of Communist party chief Alexander Dubcek. They started holding gatherings with Soviet occupation officers nearly a month ago and are pressing for the Soviet-Czechoslovak Friendship Rally in Prague's old town square on the 51st anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution.

 For the past 20 years, Oct. 21 to Nov. 7 has been officially proclaimed Soviet-Czechoslovak Friendship Month. But the August invasion by Soviet-led Warsaw Pact troops soured that friendship. There was no Friendship Month proclamation this year.

 The Prague leadership opposes a big rally but was said to have given permission for an indoor meeting. However, sources said government officials fear a mass meeting could provoke more "Russians go home" demonstrations like those in Prague and Bratislava Oct. 28-29.
 Informants said the Old Guard Communists are trying to show that Dubcek no longer represents the people. There were signs the campaign would backfire into a new groundswell of support for Dubcek, President Ludvik Svoboda, Premier Oldrich Cernik and the National Assembly president, Jozef Smrkovsky.

 Informants said the leaders drafting disciplinary measures against "extremists," such as the Old Guard, for presentation to the central committee meeting scheduled in mid-November.
 Despite Soviet-imposed censorship, Czechoslovak newspapers and radio broadcasts carried many stories about demands to check the anti-Dubcek groups.
 In another apparent show of defiance against censorship,

Prague television broadcast Friday night a 45-minute program attacking the Soviet "White Book," which was compiled to show that Czechoslovakia was a hotbed of counterrevolution before the August invasion.
 The program outlined "distortions" and unfounded accusations in the book prepared by Soviet journalists.
PLEAD INNOCENT
 SEATTLE (AP) — Eight Negro students pleaded innocent Friday to charges of unlawful assembly at Highline Community College. A hearing has been set for Nov. 18.

OFFICE STAYS OPEN
 BOISE (AP) — The U.S. attorney's office in Boise will be open election day during the same hours the polls are open to act on any complaints of federal election law violations.

Candidate Opposes Amendments

Opposition to most of the proposed amendments to the Idaho Constitution which will be on Tuesday's ballot was voiced Saturday by Nolan Victor, AIP candidate for state representative, District 23.

Mr. Victor said HJR 1 would cause the state legislature to meet annually instead of every two years and would have the effect of doubling the state expense for the legislative branch and also allow greater time for additional passage of an ever increasing avalanche of legislation.

The AIP candidate also said it would be a great mistake to pass SJR 3 which would allow the constitution to be amended by subject matter, not item by item, and HJR 5, HJR 4, SJR 5, HJR 7 and SJR 9.

SJR 4, Mr. Victor said, could be desirable, since this could increase the earnings on the teachers retirement fund. However, he added, specific guidelines should be required to assure the safety of the funds.

Americans Stationed In Thailand Have Fathered 2,000 Illegitimate Children

by PETER O'LOUGHLIN
 BANGKOK (AP) — American servicemen stationed in Thailand have fathered more than 2,000 illegitimate children in the past four years, the Pearl Sea-Buck Foundation estimates.

Frank J. Davis, executive director of the Philadelphia-based foundation, said last week his organization has accounted for about 750 Thai-American children and "we think this is only about one-third of the total number."

Davis, here for talks with the Thai government on care of the children, said their ages range between 1 and 4.

More than 95 per cent of them were born as the result of liaisons between Americans and Thai bar girls and hostesses who live with the troops during their tours under an arrangement known as the "hired wife system."

Those whose names are on the foundation's books, considered "emergency cases," will receive immediate financial help, Thailand has agreed to let BOISE (AP) — The traffic fatality rate on Idaho highways has declined in the past three months, but this year's toll was still 12 ahead of last year's record pace by the end of October.

The Department of Law Enforcement said 244 persons had died on state roads by the end of October, compared to 35 for the same month a year ago.

The 1967 record total was 276.

John George Levels Blast At District 21A Candidate

State Rep. John George dis-missed as "ridiculous" a charge candidate by the county clerk is the Democrat opponent that he is a resident of "Wendell and Twin Falls."

"Such an obviously contrived statement will do my opponent no end of political damage in Lincoln County where everyone knows I live," Mr. George said.

"Other voters in the district will find me listed in their telephone books at 403 East Third St. in Shoshone. A phone call will verify my residence at that location."

"My opponent has tried to make the voters believe that he has been certified as a legal candidate by the county clerk in the district and by the Secretary of State."

"All that has been certified is that my opponent has filed a petition in which he declared himself to be a legally qualified candidate."

"If a challenge is filed the courts will decide on the legality of his candidacy."

"The county clerks are not attorneys or judges and are not asked to rule on the legality of candidates."

"My opponent is listed in the Rupert telephone directory as residing at 122 West Ellis St. in Paul."

"The water and lights were disconnected in his office and his residence on April 22, 1968, and we understand he moved to Ketchum three days earlier on April 19."

"An examination of the law indicates that my opponent does not meet the residency requirements to be a legally qualified candidate."

REPUBLICAN

for United States Senator

is out in front

It has been a tough but successful campaign for George Hansen. For too many months, many were blinded by the incumbent's seniority smoke screen designed to cover the real issues. But George Hansen's driving cause has always been principle, contending, "Seniority going in the wrong direction is a dangerous thing." In the history of Idaho politics, there has never been a candidate more dedicated to reaching the people. Tirelessly he traveled over 75,000 miles within our borders talking, listening to voters, and facing the tough questions with straight-forward, sometimes tough answers. That is George Hansen. George has helped Idaho come to the realization that 12 years of trying to put out domestic fires with our tax money is enough. That 12 years of gushy optimism about American-Soviet relations has produced nothing but a disastrous foreign policy which has resulted in high casualties in American lives and increased already costly defense spending. Now, happily, Idahoans of all political beliefs, see principle and common sense as the thinking-man's answer to problems that underlie this great State and Nation. George Hansen's accomplishments, ideas and responsiveness to Idaho's needs have overcome the professional, glossy Madison Avenue campaign to glamorize his opponent's 12 unresponsive years.

OUT IN FRONT ON ACCOMPLISHMENTS FOR IDAHO!

George Hansen brought the "big guns" to Idaho. Congressman Hansen brought millions of dollars in U. S. Navy contracts along with the attendant new jobs to Eastern Idaho. The guns for the Battleship New Jersey and other naval vessels are now being reconditioned in Pocatello and tested at the AEC site.

George Hansen helped put Idaho "on deck" for 50 million dollar train project. Along with Senator Len Jordan and Congressman James McClure, Hansen opened the doors in Washington, D. C. for officials of Mountain Home and Boise to tell Idaho's story. As a result, Idaho is now in the finals for the big Federal high speed train-testing program.

George Hansen secured new multi-million dollar soil conservation projects for Idaho. As a member of the House Agriculture Committee, Congressman Hansen accomplished the amazing feat of altering his committee's long-standing objections and secured several new-concept soil conservation watershed projects bringing millions of dollars in benefits to Idaho farmers.

George Hansen helped initiate the huge South East Idaho Water Development Project. Along with Senator Len Jordan, Congressman Hansen originally sponsored this billion dollar project which will include Granddall Dam in Eastern Idaho - Projected to be larger than Palisades.

George Hansen helped sponsor the huge South West Idaho Water Development Project. Originally sponsored by the United Idaho delegation, Congressman Hansen and Senator Len Jordan have insisted on the broadest possible water development potential for the area to assure maximum benefits for all citizens and communities of Western Idaho.

George Hansen helped safeguard Idaho water and saved the Wild Rivers Bill. Senator Len Jordan stopped Idaho's Democratic Senator from succumbing to a dangerous bill which would have declared large amounts of Idaho water surplus to our needs and thus invite water-thirsty states to "come and get it." Senator Jordan and Congressman George Hansen and James McClure joined to push the Jordan compromise that safeguarded Idaho water and assured success for a responsible Wild (scenic) Rivers program.

George Hansen got money for Malad Valley Dam. Congressman Hansen was instrumental in getting the Bureau of the Budget to release the money for this project. Prior to Hansen's work the appropriations were "frozen."

George Hansen has kept reclamation and flood control moving in Idaho. Through Congressman Hansen's efforts, Idaho has benefited by millions of dollars in water control programs such as the Dwojshak Dam, the Tetton Dam and the Ririe and Parnett RIVER projects.

George Hansen secured FHA go-ahead for Fred's Mountain Ski Area project. After the Farmer's Home Administration had turned down the loan application, Congressman Hansen stepped in and helped the applicants persuade the FHA on the merits of the project - a million dollar development for Eastern Idaho.

George Hansen helped save the Murphy Post Office. When the Post Office Department closed a large number of post offices in the Nation, Congressman Hansen and McClure contacted the Postmaster General and convinced him of the need for a post office in this Idaho county seat.

George Hansen secured emergency FHA loans for area farmers. When crops were lost to heavy frost, Congressman Hansen stepped in and helped acquire FHA emergency loans to alleviate crop losses.

George Hansen has a long list of accomplishments for Idaho. In 1957 years, out of 73 pieces of legislation introduced by Congressman Hansen, 16 of the propositions have resulted in new laws. Six others were implemented by Executive action. A great record for George Hansen... a great achievement for Idaho!

OUT IN FRONT IN AGRICULTURE

As Idaho's largest industry, Agriculture must be protected and encouraged. His first priority as a United States Senator will be to gain a seat on the vital Senate Agriculture Committee where Idaho has not had representation for 13 years.

OUT IN FRONT ON CRIME

"I voted for the Omnibus Crime Bill because I believe that the first civil right of every American is the right to protection from crime and violence."

OUT IN FRONT ON VIETNAM

George Hansen supports Dick Nixon in his pledge to bring a swift and honorable end to the war. He is not willing to make any concessions to the enemy that would further endanger American troops in combat or that would extend the war.

OUT IN FRONT IN RESPONSIVENESS

George Hansen votes like Idahoans think. He is responsive to the needs and thinking of his constituents. That's George Hansen. That's principle. Together they become Idaho's unyielding, unswerving and strong voice in the United States Senate - with your vote.

OUT IN FRONT ON FOREIGN AID

Foreign aid should be designed to help people help themselves. Not to buy friends or votes.

OUT IN FRONT WITH DICK NIXON

Dick Nixon will be our new President. In Boise recently Mr. Nixon said, "After serving four years in the House of Representatives, George Hansen is highly qualified, experienced and represents the fresh leadership that America needs as we move into the challenging 70's." Power has been flowing to Washington for too long. Now it's time to start power flowing back to the states, to the communities, to the people. George Hansen can work best with the new president because they share the same common principles. Of every piece of legislation George Hansen asks, "Does it enhance the power of the people, or diminish it? Does it enhance the self-respect, the pride of the individual human being, or reduce it?" We need George Hansen's high standards.

Miss Neibaur Named Queen For Minico

RUPERT—Peggy Neibaur, a Minico High School senior, was voted queen of the 1968 Homecoming Festival Friday by the school's student body.

Her attendants are Cindy Fort, first attendant; Jane Manning, second attendant; and Nancy Lank, third attendant.

The girls were nominated by the school's football team, then voted on by the student body. The announcement was made during the pep assembly Friday morning in conjunction with the Homecoming week activities.

The Homecoming week began with school spirit activities throughout the week, climaxed by a rally on the football field Thursday night. During the rally, the senior class won the homecoming competition. A bonfire and car bash were held in conjunction with the rally.

Following the assembly, Friday morning activities which the mothers of the football players were honored and the week's royalty was named, a parade through downtown Rupert was held.

Included were class and club floats, the school band and two drill teams.

The Freshman class float won first in the class division, and first in the club division, the AFS float was honored for the most work, the Pep club for the most original, and the Thespians, honorable mention.

Highlight of the week was the page between the Minico space lens and fingers from Mountaintop Home, Friday night in Rupert. The annual dance was held Saturday, featuring the "Sun" from Boise.

Co-chairmen for the festivities were Donna Whitaker and George Giraud.

Votes For Wallace Will Be Counted

RUPERT — A rumor that a vote for Wallace in Minidoka county will not be counted because a stand-in's name is used on the ballot for vice president on the American Independent Party was refuted Saturday by Joe Stumph, Jr., state chairman.

"I have no idea how widespread it is," Mr. Stumph said, "but the word is being spread in Minidoka county that all votes for Wallace will be thrown out because the name of the vice-presidential candidate appearing on the ballot is that of S. Marvin Griffin. His name was used as a stand-in merely to meet the legal handling of certification."

The four presidential electors for the AIP will be free to vote for Curtis LeMay for vice president, Mr. Stumph noted.

"People should not be confused by these rumors as they are designed only to hurt George Wallace. Everyone voting for him can rest assured their ballot will be counted," the state chairman added.

Girl Is Raped

PAYETTE, Idaho (AP) — An 18-year-old, Fruitland area girl was raped and her date locked in the trunk of his car by a hooded gunman early Friday, Sheriff Richard Hayes said.

Hayes said it is the third such incident in the county in the past year. He said descriptions given by victims indicate it was the same assailant in all three cases.

Wright Scores 27 Points As Filer Surprises Buhl Indians By 27-15

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

FILER—Clyde Wright scored 27 points. Chris Kiouss made two big defensive plays and the Filer Wildcats stunned the Buhl Indians 27-15 Friday afternoon to cap homecoming.

The Wildcats did all their scoring in the first half, the key being a two-touchdown spree midway through the second period when Wright scored on a 13-second drive when Wright went 33 yards to stem a fierce Buhl rally and save the tiring Filer defense.

Trailing 14-0 at halftime, the Indians came up with nine quick points in a short span of the third quarter.

Filer started its first scoring drive early in the second period when it stopped Buhl on a fourth and two situation at the Wildcats' 32. After one first down Mike Chandler hit Randy Shank on a 42-yard pass and Shank came right back with an 18-yard gain on a counter. Wright swept right end for the last 12 yards and converted.

Four plays later Buhl had to punt. Kiouss broke through to block the kick and covered it on the Indian five. Buhl came up with a great goal-line stand but Kiouss' effort paid off when the Indians had to punt from their end zone. Aided by a 15-yard penalty on the return, Filer came back on a pass and Wright's 12-yard sweep to a first down on the four. Wright went in two plays later.

In the second half, an intense emotion set Buhl up on the Filer 14. On the second play Bob Gleise, having his best running day, blasted up the middle for eight yards and the touchdown. The point-after kick failed. But the second play after the kick-off Randy Quigley recovered a wildcat fumble on the Filer 27. Buhl was held at the 10 and on fourth down John Walker booted a 25-yard field goal.

Kiouss' second savor was a tight and short coverage tackle that stopped a Buhl march.

A break helped Filer in the first minute of the fourth quarter. Facing a third and 14-yard situation, Chandler passed to Shank. A Buhl man deflected the ball and Shank, apparently out of play at that point, was in the right spot to grab it and return 40 yards. Wright swept around end for 14 yards and then went in from the one foot line. Buhl's Kip Gould blocked the point try.

Buhl came back immediately. Dan Turner returning the kick-off 43 yards to the Filer 42.

Gleise and Turner carried from two fumbles to hold the Indians there with Turner diving in from the two with 7:49 left.

After that Buhl kept the pressure on but Filer came up with while Buhl choked the mid-die. Wright swept outside, got a key block from Chandler and broke another tackle and sailed in. He also converted.

Jerome Nips Gooding As Capps Sparkles

By LARRY HOVEY
Times-News Sports Editor

JEROME—The Jerome Tigers rode the miracle pass catching of Brad Capps and an errant pass from center into a hard-hitting 19-14 decision over Gooding Senators Friday.

Gooding covered the lanky Capps with two men but the senior Tiger made five key catches with men climbing all over him to save all three Jerome drives. The errant pass from center, which wasn't the center's fault, came with 2:46 left in the game with Gooding having a first down at the Jerome six. The ball went between Gooding's single wing fullback and fullback, each expecting the other to catch it, and wound up at the 25. That killed the last Senator chance.

Gooding took the opening kickoff and worked on the weakside for big yardage. Randy Hopkins started it with a 32-yard burst and wound it up with a 27-yard run, then kicked the extra point. The drive took 1:54.

Jerome came right back with a 23-yard alley-oop type pass to Capps to put the ball on the Gooding 12 and on the next play Gary Stauffer flipped a swing pass to Dean Berg for the touchdown. Stauffer passed to Capps for the extra point.

In the second period Jerome stopped Gooding on a fourth and six-inch situation at the Tiger 31 and came back for the pass. Found no one open and called to the Jerome 41. He fired a 26-yard pass to Reinke on the next play. At the 15, Hopkins tucked the ball away and it appeared an end sweep was coming. Suddenly he straightened up and hit Reinke for the touchdown. The same combination got the go-ahead extra point.

Berg shook up the place on the kickoff, gathering the ball in at the five and sailing 96 yards, only to see it nullified by a penalty.

After a scoreless third quarter, Capps came up with two great catches to give Jerome the win. The first was a leaping grab between two men to put the ball on the 12. Then on fourth and 15, Capps made a diving catch on the one for a first down. Stauffer sneaked in on the next play.

A pass deflection helped Gooding pose its last threat, the ball bouncing off a Jerome defender's hands and into those of Reinke who bulled to the 17. Jay Baugh and Hopkins got the first down at the six before the errant hike from center settled it.

When Frank Church speaks about bargaining, he knows what he's talking about. And so do we. Because when the bargaining got tough, he was on our side.

ATTENTION AMERICANS LET'S LAY IT ON THE LINE

The State Firearms Control Assistance Act of 1968, Title IV of The Omnibus Crime Bill (H.R. 5037), better known as the DODD GUN BILL, was signed into law by President Johnson on June 19, 1968.

This UNCONSTITUTIONAL gun bill becomes effective DEC. 16, 1968.

- At this time:
- All gun dealers will be prohibited from selling or delivering any firearm to any citizen under 18, or any citizen under 21 a handgun. Sec. 922(b)(1). Violators shall be fined no more than $5,000 or imprisoned not more than five years or both. Sec. 924(a).
 - Amunition purchasers will be required to give the seller his NAME, AGE, and ADDRESS. (This will create a National list of firearm owners.)
 - The Secretary of the Treasury—a political appointee, or his delegates—shall have overruled every law-abiding citizen unprecedented power and authority as has not been seen in our country since the rule under the King of England.
 - TITLE VII (H.R. 5037) exempts criminals serving time in prisons. They may be armed by "Compliant" authority of the prison. Sec. 1203. (Since when did law-abiding citizens become so scarce that prisoners now need to be armed to assist in law enforcement? Many of the dreaded SS troops of Hitler Germany were PRISONERS who had been armed!)

All this and much more at the expense of law-abiding citizens. Forced on us under the phony pretext that such laws will curb crime and make the streets and highways safer for you and your family.

Quoting Rep. McCulloch (Ohio) as recorded in the Congressional Record: "THIS BILL WAS ADOPTED THROUGH FEAR... I VENTURE THE ASSERTION THAT NONE OF YOU GENTLEMEN HAVE READ THE BILL (H.R. 5037) ITSELF. WE PASSED A BILL WITH 25 PAGES. THE SENATE BILL CONTAINS 109 PAGES."

NIXON FAVORS STRONG GUN CONTROL

From IDAHO DAILY STATESMAN—September 23, 1968

Gun Control Advocate Welcomes Nixon's Support for Registration

NEW YORK (UPI)—A leading advocate of gun control legislation said Monday he was glad to see that Richard M. Nixon had announced his support for "strong" firearms registration and licensing laws at the state level.

James V. Bennett, former director of the U.S. Bureau of Prisons and currently president of the National Council for a Responsible Firearm Policy, made it clear that his group still favors federal legislation and licensing, but he said of Nixon's declaration:

Support Welcomed
"It's more than he's ever said before."
Bennett discussed Nixon and gun control in a telephone interview from his home in Kenwood, Md., a suburb of Washington, D.C.
Nixon, meanwhile, made ready to depart later in the day from his New York City apartment, where he has been relaxing since Saturday night, for Milwaukee and the start of a five-day westward campaign swing.

Position Spelled Out
The GOP presidential candidate's position on the politically hot question of gun control was spelled out Friday night before a statewide television audience in Pennsylvania. Generally overlooked because of other Nixon news-making developments that day, the statement probably was the most definitive he has made on the issue since the assassination of Robert F. Kennedy, the incident which more than any other heated up the longtime controversy.

Nixon, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, the Democratic presidential candidate, has accused Nixon of ducking gun control.

The Democratic presidential nominee has come out squarely in favor of federal registration and licensing as well as the ban on mail-order hand gun sales enacted by Congress and on a similar measure applying to rifles that his Senate and House have passed in slightly different versions.

Responding to a panelist's general question on how he felt about gun control, Nixon replied that he favored the mail order bills.

"Second, I favor strong state laws for licensing and registration," he added.

Humphrey's position

GEORGE WALLACE ON GUN CONTROL
In answering questions on Gun legislation Mr. Wallace said: "Let me just say this, that I am totally opposed to the use of registration that is now being proposed."
He further stated that registration will do nothing to take the guns out of the hands of the law-abiding citizens.
When asked about the registration of guns would take them out of the hands of law-abiding citizens, Mr. Wallace replied: "No, because of the shooting of Mr. Kennedy, they want to register your guns. The next thing you'll see is an out and pick-up the guns that are registered and no one will have guns except those that violate the law."
(This statement made June 16, 1968 on ABC program, "Issues and Answers.")

Weber State, fifth in The Associated Press small college poll, scored five of its touchdowns on passes by quarterback Paul Waite.

Wendell Collects Little 6 Loop Crown

WENDELL — The Wendell Trojans snatched up the Little Six Conference championship Friday night by dropping the schedule in undefeated style and using some strong passing to clinch it Friday.

Midway through the first quarter Coach "Yogi" Behrens' crew launched a quick march that covered 45 yards in five plays. The payoff was a 21-yard pass from Ron Beck to Gary Lauder. Roger King booted the extra point.

Seconds later Glenns Ferry had to punt and the Trojans exploded for their second touchdown. After a 12-yard pass, Beck flipped a swing pass to Ralph King who turned it into a 48-yard touchdown play.

Wendell used most of the last six minutes of the second quarter to rob out its scoring, moving 59 yards in 12 plays. Ralph King plunged in from the one with three seconds left. Roger King converted.

Huskies Earn Tie On Late Cal Fumble

SEATTLE (AP) — Linebacker George Jagan pounced on a California fumble in the waning seconds to salvage a 77 football tie for Washington in a game that also saw its teammate Al Worley tie the national record for pass-interceptions.

It was an afternoon of frustration for the Javadors, who dropped a sixth victory of the season against a single defeat, when quarterback Randy Humphries fumbled the center's snap on the crucial play.

California had marched from its own 32-yard line in the closing 32 minutes and place kicker Ron Miller was punting the sidelines nervously, awaiting a call if the attack stalled. Still it did, with just 33 seconds left to play.

Worley gave Washington its touchdown in the second quarter when he hitted a 20-yard interception pass and snatched 29 yards to the goal. That was his 12th interception of the season and when he repeated for another interception in the final quarter, he matched the national mark set by Oregon's George Shaw in 1961.

Valley Edges Wells, Nevada Team 6-2

WELLS, Nev. — Valley books open an all-right defensive battle with the Wells Friday night and scored late in the third quarter for a 6-2 win.

The Nevada crew had scored a safety midway through the second quarter, and held the Vikings in check, mostly with the help of 125 yards in penalties against the visitors.

First quarter action saw two long drives turned away without a score as Wells drove down to the four and was held, and the Vikings drove down the two but were stopped.

Wells' safety was the only hint of a score in the second quarter, but both teams were held in check.

Valley took the second-half kickoff and started the winning drive. Norman Harmon swept in from the four to cap the drive. The extra-point attempt failed. Wells could get nowhere late in the game but held the Vikings in check until they drove down to score with seconds left, only to have the play called back on an apparent clipping call.

Utah Outlasts BYU By 30-21 Behind Groth

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah built a big lead on the running of quarterback Ray Groth, but wilted under a late Brigham Young rally and needed a third Groth touchdown to ice a 30-21 football victory Saturday.

The score was 23-7 with less than a minute to go in the third period and BYU's morale suffering from three recent pass interceptions and a fumble.

Then Marc Lyons hit Larry Heaps with a 75-yard touchdown bomb, starting a BYU rally that closed the gap to 21-21 with 9 minutes remaining.

BYU got the ball back, but Larry Hinton's second pass interception of the day gave Utah possession deep in BYU territory. Groth scored from the one after passing 14 yards to Dave Smith.

The fifth of six Utah pass interceptions stopped another BYU drive in the final five minutes. Had it not been for an alert defense, Utah would have been in deep trouble.

Clemson Rallies Past N.C. State Raleigh, N.C. (AP)

Clemson stormed 69 yards for a touchdown in the closing minutes behind the passing of Billy Ammons to come from behind and defeat North Carolina State 24-19 in a wild Atlantic Coast Conference football game Saturday.

A crowd of 31,000 and a regional television audience saw Clemson grab a 19-17 lead with 2:28 to play on a 47-yard touchdown pass from Jack Kiebo to Jimmy Lisk.

The Wolfpack needed only to protect that lead to clinch the conference crown with its sixth straight-league victory.

EDITORIAL OUR PICK IS THOMAS

Votees will fill a seat on the Idaho Supreme Court next Tuesday, the man the Statesman had endorsed for that seat, Sherman Belmont of Rupert, lost in the primary. Our second choice, was Judge Boyd R. Thomas of Idaho Falls, who we feel should be elected.

Attorney-in-Equity Idaho was high in their praise of Judge Thomas who has served for six years as a Seventh District Court Judge.

The other candidate is Fourth District Judge Charles Donaldson of Boise. He is a capable judge but we feel that Judge Thomas is a better choice.

The leveling arm, therefore extends from the front wheel axle of the tractor to the rear wheel axle of the MISKIN BEEMIS FIELD PLANE. The spanning distance is approximately 40 feet. The tractor's hydraulic lift provides the response action for automatic leveling of the grading bucket.

ANOTHER EDITOR ENDORSES GEORGE HANSEN

When He Says 'Yes,' He May Mean 'No'

They say it's in bad taste to insult someone who has just given you a gift.

A few days ago we received an autographed picture from Democratic Sen. Frank Church.

The inscription was very flattering and we were very happy to hang the photo in our office.

Now every time we look at it we will think of Sen. Church's voting record.

We will be reminded that the senator voted consistently for Great Society programs which are costing American citizens tens of billions of dollars.

The photo will also remind us that the senator voted 13 times in 12 years in favor of the trade with the communists.

And when we look at the senator's face peering from the frame above our desk, we recall that for 13 years Sen. Church never opposed a foreign aid bill and it was only during 1969, an election year, that the senator voted against foreign aid.

Sen. Church voted consistently against safeguards for the United States concerning the nuclear lost-ten treaty and was not only the only U.S. citizen to provide up to $100 million for financing the United Nations even though other member nations, including Russia, refused to pay their debts.

The senator's votes in the senate have also helped reduce the U.S. arsenal and defense capabilities while the Russians have continued to build theirs. In 1963 he voted "no" against additional funds for U.S. nuclear submarines. In 1966 he voted for a reduction of funds for new U.S. defense capabilities and also for a reduction of funds for the Nike-X missile defense system, and in 1963 Church will be remembered for voting against authorization of an anti-ballistic missile system.

We also will recall, when we look at the senator's smiling face, that when the Pueblo was captured by the North Koreans, he originally called it "intolerable" and "an act of war" — then apologized for this original position.

The senator, in his campaign effort this year, is drawing the expected support from Idaho liberals and those who are unfamiliar with his record.

About a year ago, we heard the senator address a group of conservative Gooding people and if you weren't acquainted with his record you would swear that he was a conservative.

And we'd also heard him speak to a liberal audience on another occasion and you could swear that he was an arch liberal.

Sen. Church has the quality possessed by many other politicians who try to be all things to all people but like so many politicians find out the record does not lie.

By the way, we don't have an autographed picture of Congressman George Hansen in the office.

Rep. Hansen doesn't need a photo with pretty words to convince people that he's doing the job that's expected of him in Washington, D.C.

It's really too bad about Mr. Hansen... when he talks to the Republicans he sounds like a Republican and when he talks to the Democrats he STILL sounds like a Republican.

That's because Hansen has always conducted himself as he should — as a man who defends his country and votes against ALL groups and doesn't speak out of both sides of his mouth.

Rep. Hansen is proud of the fact that he voted against the Open Housing Bill which contains some limited firearm regulations while his opponent voted yes.

And Rep. Hansen is pleased that he has voted a solid no against the Great Society programs.

Rep. Hansen, in addition, has strongly opposed all trade concessions to communists and has voted every possible cut in foreign aid expenditures.

The congressman has also supported all measures to strengthen U.S. defense capabilities.

Rep. Hansen has also had better attendance in Congress than Sen. Church.

It has often been said that pictures tell a thousand words.

But sometimes it's really the person in the picture who tells a thousand words and in the case of Sen. Church the thousand words of today may not have the same meaning as the thousand words he utters tomorrow.

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — John Riggins' Buffalo Bills ate up huge chunks of yardage with their stashing running Saturday, leading third-ranked Kansas to a 27-14 victory over Colorado.

The Jayhawks, victorious in all seven games this season, including four in the Big Eight for a share of the conference lead with Missouri, had a 27-0 lead before Colorado's Bob Anderson could get the Buffalo offense moving in the fourth quarter.

Kansas put tight defensive clamps on Anderson the Big Eight total offense leader who had been averaging 270 yards a game. He didn't get plus yardage until midway through the third quarter. At one point, after 24 plays, Anderson had minus one yard in the middle of the third period.

Yosemite Features Contrasting Worlds

By BILL STALL

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK, Calif. (AP)—There are two starkly contrasting worlds in Yosemite Valley, one a seven-mile-long trough of rock sculptured into the western flank of the Sierra Nevada.

One is the horizontal realm of the valley-bound tourist, content to stroll the crowded, dusty trails as he gazes at the granite cliffs and the waterfalls spewing from their crevices.

The other is the exclusive, vertical world of the Yosemite rock climber. Yosemite has become the rock climbing center of America, where men have pushed scaling standards to the threshold of the improbable, if not the impossible.

"This is the graduate school of rock climbing," one valley veteran commented recently as he and others chatted over a smokin' "kerosene" lamp in Camp 4, home of the valley regulars.

The valley is the core of 758,659-acre Yosemite National Park, some 150 air miles southeast of San Francisco.

It is ringed by the country's greatest collection of rock faces, domes and towers, gouged-out by ancient glaciers.

The "smoothness" and sound quality of the rock and its soaring verticality make it the supreme challenge for climbers.

In 1965 the California Geological Survey reported that Half Dome was "perfectly inaccessible" and that no man was ever likely to set foot upon its crest.

Today, at least a half-dozen routes ascend this great granite bulk at the valley's western portal, including several on the perpendicular face.

Many of the hundreds of climbers who flock to the valley, particularly the weekenders, concentrate on the many

Long Day

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Beryl Louis Murry, 8, had a long day at school Thursday. It didn't end until 7:50 a.m. Friday.

She failed to come home from school Thursday, and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph Murry, notified police. They searched the neighborhood and school grounds.

Police found her asleep in a second-floor classroom at Harrier Public School and took her home for breakfast.

The key to modern Yosemite climbing has been the development of strong, durable metal alloy pitons, carefully designed to fit into cracks in the rock. Through an eye in the piton, the climber clips a carabiner, an oval aluminum snaplink about three inches long. His 150-foot nylon or perlon climbing rope runs freely through the carabiner. At the lower end of the line the climbing partner, belaying the rope around himself to secure the lead climber in case of a fall.

The development of direct-aid techniques following World War II permitted the pioneering of many routes which were impossible up to then.

Campaign Is Turning Into Name Calling Contest

WASHINGTON (AP)—The early presidential campaign featuring set speeches and stiff position papers has slipped sharply into a name calling contest.

In the final weeks of the campaign, Republican Richard M. Nixon has stopped referring to Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey as merely "the other fellow" and has taken to slugging hard at Humphrey.

This direct approach by Nixon has been welcomed by the Democrats as indicating they were getting under the political skin of an opponent they had all but despised of bringing down from the high level clouds of campaigning.

There could be argument over who started it, but Humphrey's designation of Nixon as "Richard the chicken-hearted" for his GOP opponent's alleged failure to grapple with the issues triggered some sharp responses.

Nixon accused Humphrey of "adult delinquency" and of "sitting on his hands and watching the United States become a nation where 50 per cent of the women are frightened to walk within a mile of their homes at night."

He said Humphrey had "a lackadaisical, doughy, approach to law and order," blaming the ills of the country on the Johnson administration.

Nixon said Humphrey is "a man who has trotted along meekly behind his master."

What the country wants, Nixon said, "is a new doctor (in the White House) who's not going to hire a pharmacist."

The GOP nominee said Humphrey was "the most expensive senator in American history."

He said the voters must choose between "Nixon with money in your pocket or Humphrey with his hand in your pocket."

Nixon accused his opponent of confusing the Vietnam peace negotiations in Paris by his campaign behavior. In this connection he contended that Humphrey has "the fastest-tongued in American political history."

Humphrey has tried to capitalize on the "Tricky Dick" label the Democrats hung on Nixon in the past.

The Democrat called Nixon "The No. 1 double-talker of all times."

In their attacks on each other, Humphrey and Nixon have left personal criticisms of George C. Wallace, the third party candidate largely to their running mates.

However, Humphrey said Wallace's record as governor of Alabama made "Scrooge" look like a social worker.

"During the storm of invective Nixon gave us with an assessment of the situation."

"You know politicians are behind when they start to name call, when they start to name, to hit below the belt," he said.

It seemed to be a question of which was the pot and which the kettle.

TWO YOUNG RESIDENTS of Harbor House, Idaho Falls, are welcomed by Mrs. Thelma Johnson who serves as manager and all-around "mother" to children who are temporarily housed there. In operation the past five years, the establishment can care for 14 youngsters at a time but usually has five to ten young residents. Mrs. Johnson said if the sponsoring organization sees fit to enlarge or revise the home in the future, her only recommendation would be for separate homes for the boys and girls. Children from infants to 18 years of age are housed in the home.

CHILDREN TEMPORARILY AT home in Harbor House in Idaho Falls have full run of the building. They watch television in the living room, listen to records in their dormitories or assist Mrs. Kenneth Johnson with the cooking in the cheerful-remodeled kitchen. Smoothing a bed in the girls' dormitory, Mrs. Johnson points out the youngsters do their own cleaning and housework in the dorms. Lower right, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson stand at the entrance of the building which is never locked from the inside. The home accepts neglected, abused and abandoned children as well as delinquents who require no security measures. It operates without county tax levy as a "red feather" agency.

East Idaho Harbor House Answers Area Need Of Homeless Children

By BONNIE BAIRD JONES
Times-News Feature Editor

The police department begins investigation of a child abuse case—but what do they do with "child in the interim?" A mother dies, and the father is unable or unwilling to assume responsibility for the several minor children. Where do the welfare people place the children until relatives or foster parents can be located? There is a father who comes home drunk several times a month, beats his wife and eventually his young son and daughter. The mother is afraid and unable to protect the children and officers must take custody.

How can officers, with no more than jail cells, house the youngsters until the home problems are corrected?

These are some of the questions that face a community every week and Twin Falls does not have juvenile detention facilities—much less an adequate home for unfortunate or abandoned children.

A group of concerned citizens and officials who have seen the problems and the need for some type of solution are currently working toward creation of a Harbor House of Magic Valley. The group proposes to establish a home in Twin Falls that would provide suitable custodial care of children under the age of 18 years who are neglected, dependent or in need of a temporary home. The group is currently asking assistance from county taxpayers in the amount of a small levy that would at least provide part of the cost of establishing and operating such a home.

Other financing possibilities are also being considered by the local group. The fact that such a facility serves a vital community need and can be successfully and economically operated is being proven in Idaho Falls at the present time.

County officials, faced with an attempt to hold county tax levies to the lowest possible level, have expressed a fear that such a center would become a "county orphanage." County officials see the need but they see many needs in the county and wonder if taxpayers should be asked to undertake a project which could grow into a long-term responsibility for abandoned or orphaned children.

In Idaho Falls, Harbor House is now in its fifth year of operation and is being maintained on what court and welfare agencies say is an extremely successful basis—with very little county financing.

Cost of operating and maintaining Harbor House in Idaho Falls, which serves Bonnevill County and recently some adjoining counties is $10,000 or less per year, says Probate Judge Mary Adams, one of the original sponsors and promoters of the project.

In 1961, a group of concerned Idaho Falls citizens formed a non-profit organization known as Youth Harbor, Inc., financed by 1123 annual memberships. Finances grew through pledges and donations of $1,000 down to $10 to $25 from individuals, business and civic and service organizations. When this amount reached just over $11,000 the non-profit group launched the present program.

A pioneer home, known as the Hitt Mansion which had been donated to the First Presbyterian Church and located just a few doors away, was offered as a housing facility. It is leased on a 99-year basis at $10 per year with the ownership remains with the church. The county, through its welfare program, provides $100 per month toward grocery costs. Another $2,700 a year is transferred from the Probate Court child-care fund, but is usually gone by April of each year.

The Harbor House of Idaho Falls is a participating agency in the Community Chest (equivalent of United Fund). Through this comes about $6,000 to $8,000 per year which meets the bulk of operating costs. This combination is adequate to provide for the 100 to 150 youngsters who require temporary shelter in the home each year. At the present time, Youth Harbor, Inc., is in the process of establishing a trust fund from larger contributions—and requests which will enable the project to expand or improve when necessary.

All contributing individuals or organizations are given representation in the membership. A board of about 25 members is elected by the membership, then an executive board of seven members which is responsible for the actual administration. Dr. Stanley Sell is currently chairman of the board. There are three types of children received at the home and they range in age from infants to 18 years of age.

The home, which opened its doors May 20, 1963, accepts dependent, neglected and delinquent children who do not need security measures.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Johnson (Continued on Page A-4)

"IMAGINE ASKING ME, a registered Arabian, to retrieve a ball? ... No, I don't especially care for all this jazz. ... Opening a gate is nothing, unless, of course, it's locked. ... Here's your hat, Mr. Barnard, why do you drop it so often?"

Sabastian--A New Horse That Learned Some Old Tricks

Sabastian is a clever horse. In fact he is often too clever, says Oakley Barnard, veteran horse trainer, currently putting the white registered Arabian gelding through his paces.

Four months ago Sabastian took up residence in the big green pasture behind Mr. Barnard's home. He is one of several registered Arabian horses owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Larson. He was extremely spirited and difficult to handle. What with other horses and numerous activities Mr. Larson hadn't the time to work with the horse so he asked Mr. Barnard for some assistance.

Most of the horses Mr. Barnard has owned in his long career—as a "horse-lover"—have somehow become trick performers.

There was "Splice" who was known over the Intermountain West for his ability and ingenuity to do just about anything asked of him. The horse is probably best remembered for his cow catching performance without benefit of rides, saddle, bridle or even a rope.

"This is the first Arabian I have ever worked with," Mr.

Barnard said, "and I have learned one thing about them. They are extremely intelligent and therefore horse difficult to train."

Sabastian, however, after just four months here is not only a much better pleasure horse, but he can do a number of tricks a good many of which you would not believe it was the same horse if you could have seen him four months ago," Mr. Barnard commented.

"He was extremely nervous and high strung."

Now he follows Mr. Barnard around the pasture like a pet lamb.

Among the things he can do on signal from his trainer include going to the fence and standing close so the rider can mount. He can count out his age—six years, by pawing the ground and can open and close a gate.

He will shake his head—either yes or no, depending on the question asked him, fetch a ball and return it to Mr. Barnard and ring a bell for his dinner.

The ball has to be made especially with small leather strips upgrading so he can pick it up.

He rings the bell with considerable care—as he became too enthusiastic one day and hit himself in the nose with it.

"Because the Arabian has a definite mind of its own," Mr. Barnard said, "it is difficult to teach them to do what you want. They will often outthink you and anticipate what you will ask, they make sure they are in the wrong position of doing something else. It takes a lot of patience and you have to out-think them before they outthink you."

Another trick, often most useful, involves picking up a hat. Mr. Barnard drops his hat on the ground while mounted on the horse. Sabastian will pick it up and hand it back to the rider.

Once when a horse, Mr. Barnard had trained counted out his age of four years for a skeptical acquaintance—the man reported, "He's five"—but what is he going to do next year when he's no longer four?"

"How old will you be next year?" Mr. Barnard asked the horse. Immediately the horse's hoof struck the ground five times, and the skeptical critic admitted defeat.

While working with the Arabians general riding instructor, Mr. Barnard said he found that in one pasture the horse would refuse to perform. He would back, throw his head and refuse to take cues.

"He just didn't like that pasture. The answer was to go to another where he worked well, and then go back to the original area and continue working. Usually this worked with Sabastian but with some other horses it might not work at all," he said.

Mr. Barnard can hardly remember a time when he wasn't training horses for his own pleasure or for someone else. When he was six years old he owned his first horse and before many months it was performing tricks for his young owner. His grandfather came west in 1848 and since that time the Barnards have been western residents. His father also trained horses.

As a young man, Mr. Barnard purchased ponies from the Dan-nock Indians, trained and broke them and resold them to make $5 or $10 profit per head.

A resident of Idaho most of his adult life, Mr. Barnard homesteaded a farm in the Raft-River area at the age of 21. He didn't find the venture too profitable but for years paid the taxes on the 320 acres, finally sold it during the depression for six tons of hay.

Today the area is a highly productive potato region worth several hundred dollars per acre.

He worked a number of years as a cowboy for $1 a day and now does a great deal of riding in that area. After leaving the farm position, he joined the Farm Home Administration and retired a few years ago as supervisor of the FFA office in Twin Falls, a job he had held for many years.

Most of the horses Mr. Barnard has trained have been of no one specific breed. He prefers thoroughbred crossed with American Saddle Bred or Standard Bred, but it would be logical to say Oakley Barnard could find something he liked about any horse he has ever known.

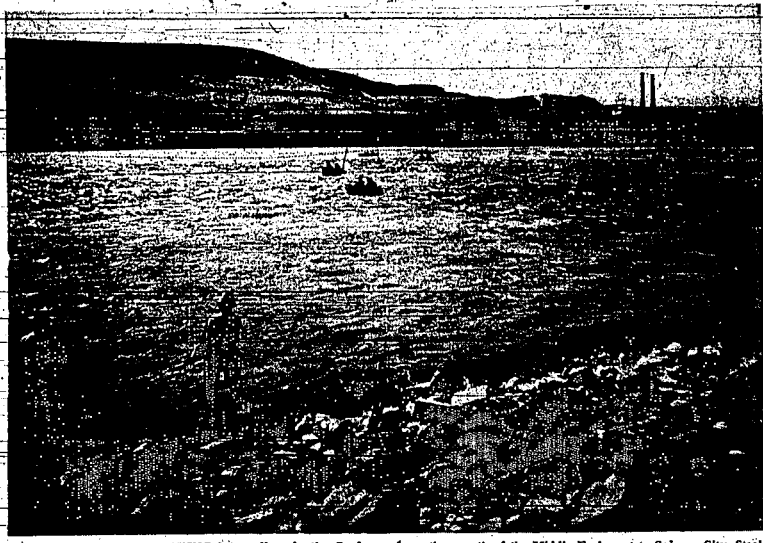

"If I ring this silly bell, I sometimes get a few oats" ... "Four, five, six, so now you know how old I am." This may be what runs through the mind of Sabastian, registered Arabian horse being trained by Oakley Barnard. The horse is owned by Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Larson, 1438 Heyburn Ave. He and his boss in training only four months. When he came to Mr. Barnard for training, he was high spirited and unmanageable. The spirit is still there but it is well under control.

Training an Arabian, however, is a challenge. Mr. Barnard finds, because they seem to have "a mind of their own." Mr. Barnard has trained many other horses but this is the first Arabian he has worked with.

STEELHEAD TROUT FISHING is excellent in the Snake, Clearwater, and Salmon rivers. Anglers are expected to have a good time during a recent steelhead census on the Clearwater River below the Lewiston Dam. Success also was running high on the Salmon River in the vicinity of Riggs, and from the mouth of the Middle Fork east to Salmon City. Steelhead counts at Ice Harbor through October 30, 1968, totaled 70,000 fish. This rivals the second biggest Idaho run of this species since counting facilities were installed at Ice Harbor in 1962.

Record Steelhead Trout Run Is Forecast

Idaho steelhead fishermen in the Snake, Clearwater, and Salmon River drainages have good reason to hope that the time between steelhead runs this fall and winter than it has been for a handful of years. Counts at Ice Harbor Dam, the first concrete and steel barrier across the Snake River, showed 70,218 ironheads on October 24. The second highest tally on record at that point was 72,000 fish, established during the 1962 fish year. With eight months to go before the final count on June 30, and with the early spring run expected to peak sometime in March, fishery management workers are betting that a new record for steelhead numbers will be made.

What's With Music

By J. HILL, OPA

play, not to practice scales, or fingering exercises—whatever other form of finger discipline. Yet, when he is given a special piece to learn, he finds that his fingers simply will not perform, because they are not capable of meeting the technical requirements.

In my own case, I practiced finger exercises, and detected they may have been because of the manner in which they were presented. I will remember the high-sounding words a teacher once said: "We are training your fingers to execute difficult technical passages," she said.

All that verbiage meant absolutely nothing to me. Had she meant to say, "We are training you to show me how they should sound, I think I might have accepted them. Yet, I cannot recall her playing for me even once. As a result, I did not feel the need for technical finger-work until years later. Then I had to go back and pick it up.

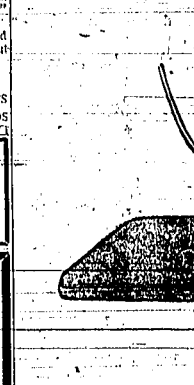

Adding to the student's dislike for technique is the mass of false propaganda poured out by some "book peddlers" which runs like this: "In twelve easy lessons, you can learn to play without all those tedious exercises." Now doesn't that put the kibosh on everything our sincere teachers are trying to do? It certainly does. You see, most of us don't stop to think that we simply cannot accomplish much music in "twelve easy lessons." Yes, I'll grant you, people can be taught to play several simple tunes in 12 lessons. However, you simply cannot accomplish a lot of good fundamental music in such a short time, and without some diligent practice.

Then what of the easy play method? There are some good ones, which will teach you to play some tunes in a short time. However, if you really want to play, and play well, you must have a good foundation in technique.

Does this preclude playing the music you like? Certainly not. In fact, a good technical foundation helps you to play more of the music you like and helps you play it better. For example, let's listen to two people play the same chords and the same. But listen to the difference. The trained musician plays the tune with feeling and sureness, while the untrained player plays mechanically. The former is sure of his fingers. The latter is not.

LADIES

here's how to build strong muscles

Or would you rather use permanent press fabrics and a flameless electric dryer.

Women who want to develop their arm muscles, tire their leg muscles, and be weary at day's end from standing over a hot ironing board will find no interest in the new permanent press fabrics and the flameless electric dryer which eliminates the need for ironing them.

But if you would prefer to leave muscle building to the women wrestlers and want to stay fresh through the day for your family, you will want to convert as much of the family wardrobe as possible to permanent press clothing.

With flameless electric drying they can be gently tumbled at just the right temperature to re-set the built-in press, so they look sharp and bright without ironing. They stay so neat and launder so quickly and easily, you need fewer clothes to keep the whole family attractively attired on a smaller budget.

For new flameless electric dryers with special permanent press settings, see your favorite electrical dealer soon.

In Magic Valley her introduction to the opportunities of the Job Corps will probably come from her local employment agency in the way of a referral to Mrs. John (Roma) Ricks of Twin Falls.

Mrs. Ricks is Job Corps project director for the Magic Valley and she works strictly as a volunteer to recruit, equip and send the girls to Job Corps training centers and a new life.

In this area the Job Corps program is sponsored by the Church Women United with considerable assistance from the area employment offices as they are the natural contact with the young lady who is looking for a job but may not be able to meet many of the demands of more desirable jobs.

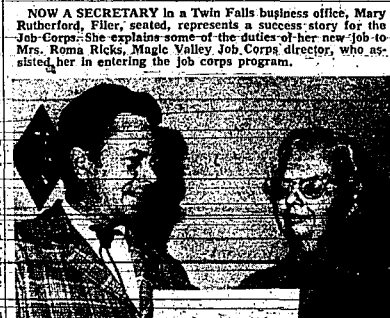

NOW A SECRETARY in a Twin Falls business office, Mary Ruth Moore, represents a success story for the Job Corps. She explains some of the duties of her new job to Mrs. Roma Ricks, Magic Valley Job Corps director, who assisted her in entering the job corps program.

Girls who come to the attention of Mrs. Ricks are usually the product of broken homes or have other problems over which they have little control. Most, but not all, have failed to complete high school, and many have handicaps which restrict their field of work.

Those who are interested and have the incentive to meet Job Corps requirements are interviewed, provided with suitable clothes if needed, sworn into the Job Corps and placed on an airplane enroute to one of the nation's several Job Corps training centers.

From the local area, most go to Excelsior Springs, Mo., Clinton, Iowa, or Louis, Mo., or Omaha, Neb.

Candidates must be 16 years of age but not yet 22 years old. Once in the training centers they complete their high school academic education, receive training in home making and are introduced to cultural benefits they have never before known.

Mrs. Ricks said they live in the centers and are allowed to progress on an individual basis as rapidly as possible toward earning their high school diploma.

"Usually the girls are there for about a year," Mrs. Ricks says of local candidates. "Of those we send about 50 per cent complete the prescribed training and those who even finish only a week or a month gain some valuable experience and knowledge."

Mrs. Ricks estimates she

A CERTIFICATE OF APPRECIATION is presented to Roy Slocum of the Twin Falls office of the Employment Department of Idaho for the assistance given in the Job Corps program. Mrs. Ruth Moore, vice president of the sponsoring organization of Church Women United makes the presentation.

"BEING SWORN IN" as an official member of the Job Corps is Janie Torres, Rupert, who left last week for Clinton, Iowa, a Job Corps training center to complete her high school education. County Clerk Harold Lancaster administers the oath. Once they are sworn in, the candidates are flown immediately to their training center and one to two years of academic education and other training.

works with an average of about to each candidate. Once the girl-one-girl-per-month, and gives her enrolled at the Job Corps a total of several days, time training center, there are many letters of encouragement and a friendship that must be sent if she may be to her completion.

"The girls, regardless of their home conditions, become homesick once they leave. They must adjust to living with girls of all other races and away from home, most for the first time.

"For those who can meet the challenge of these new surroundings and conditions for the first few weeks there is no problem, but some find it too difficult and return home," Mrs. Ricks says.

Those who complete the training and return to their hometowns are assisted, again by the employment service and often by Mrs. Ricks in obtaining employment. Those who choose to seek work elsewhere are often given a hand by interested private industries working closely with the Job Corps.

Others may use their new diploma to go on to college.

"A Jerome girl, Darlene Turbeville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lasswell, who completed high school but was unsuccessful in obtaining suitable employment went to the Job Corps training center and earned a college scholarship. She is now attending Northwest Missouri State College, Marquette.

Another Job Corps graduate, Mary Rutherford, Filip, is now a poised young lady, employed at the Twin Falls Boy Scout office. She is a graduate of the Job Corps center at Clinton, Iowa.

Just this past week Janie Torres, Rupert, of Spanish descent, who was sworn into the Job Corps and boarded a plane for Clinton. In a card received this week, Mrs. Ricks said, Janie told her she is glad she took the step.

"I think Janie will make it," Mrs. Ricks said. "You can usually tell by the first few letters or letters if they have the right attitude. Janie's brother is enrolling this fall in Ricks College. She is hoping to continue her time her education when she completes the Job Corps training."

One of the problems of the Job Corps program is finding volunteers willing to work without monetary benefit to help the girls who need them. Mrs. Ricks is hoping to find other volunteer women in Magic Valley communities who will help, especially in recruiting the young women.

"The more workers we have, the more contacts will be made. Too many of the girls who need us most do not know the program is available. You don't often find a girl with the courage to seek out Job Corps people and admit she is a 'drop out,' unable to find a job and in her own mind—a failure," Mrs. Ricks adds.

"We are often criticized on the cost of the program. It takes about $5,000 per girl to provide Job Corps training," the local director added.

"But how do you put a dollar and cents value on a girl's life when we can turn a girl from a bitter or discouraged failure into a success the impact on her entire future is priceless," she declared.

Most of these young people have problems or they would not be in a position to obtain help from the Job Corps. Without this help, they could be in the State Industrial School or possibly welfare cases for the rest of their lives.

"I would say off hand that saving one such case in our community would be well worth the $5,000," Mrs. Ricks said.

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Woody Seal, TWIN FALLS, has several farms to his credit. He is the only living charter member of the Twin Falls Masonic Lodge and is credited with setting out the first orchard on the Twin Falls tract.

Mr. Seal, who celebrated his 80th birthday Oct. 18, recalls that it was necessary to clear sagebrush to set out the first orchard. He came to Twin Falls in 1904, before water was turned into the canals.

He and his wife farmed south of town for several years. He also owned the first bean huller on the tract, along with George Bice, O. J. Paulson, H. B. Johnson and C. F. Patz. They threshed many acres of beans in the early days.

After moving into town, Mr. Seal sold farm implements for the C. O. Melgs Implement Co., going about his sales work in a horse and buggy. Later he sold automobiles and motorcycles. In 1918, he sold a record 70 Record cars in one year.

Several years before retiring from the trailer business, Mr. Seal has several trophies and many pictures of his trophies.

Mr. and Mrs. Seal celebrated 61 years of married life. Since fourth year of working with the marginites for some of the children.

Before the show some 80 youngsters lined the walks, clutching their tickets, which had to be new or used toys, articles of clothing or school supplies for the HOPE community service center.

Marola Lickley, student director, gave an excellent performance as the artist, recreated the harrowing experience of Hansel and Gretel with the wicked witch and the gingerbread house.

Hansel and Gretel were winsomely and ably portrayed by Donna Church and Carol Klitzke. Mrs. Lickley manipulated the wicked witch. The delightful Dow Finkley was mimicked by Colleen Klitzke, and the penniless but cheerful father was managed by Mike Klitzke, who also served as announcer. Miss Lickley also manipulated the cross catwren mother and Donna Church substituted for Aunt Lickley as the sprightly Sandman.

The children had molded the puppets from paper mache and dressed them from the scrap bag. They built scenery and helped design the costumes. A sturdy but portable stage was especially designed and constructed for them by Jake Reichardt.

In December, the Mini-Ministrols will present an opera, "The Dolls Christmas Eve," in conjunction with the doll show to be given for the benefit of HOPE.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

Underneath the words "Aluminum Company of America." Can you tell me anything about this coin?

Answer: You have a token, not a coin. This particular token appears in three different varieties. The one you have was distributed in large numbers along the route of the Union Pacific, particularly in Sun Valley, when that railroad introduced its first streamliner in 1934.

At this same time (1934) Warner Brothers produced the movie entitled "Union Pacific" and was prominent in Omaha, Nebraska, at which time a large number of tokens similar to this one, but advertising the picture, were given out. The streamliner on the other were distributed.

A great many of these tokens are found around Twin Falls, where there were many of them given away in Sun Valley, then owned by the Union Pacific railroad. The tokens have no particular value since many of them exist.

From Mrs. A. T. Burley, Idaho: "I have a large copper penny which I am like to know of something. On one side it says: 'Dales Chapter No. 6, R.A.M., Chartered June 1, 1864, The Valley of Oregon and the Center of One Penny.' On the back is a hammer and a chisel and a circle with the letters 'KSHF WEST.' What kind of money is this, please?"

Stewardess Is Grounded By Wife Status

By BOB M. GASSAWAY
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — An unmarried stewardess with a lover or even a baby is fine, Celeste Lansdale says, but an airline clipped her wings over a legal bedmate.

Mrs. Lansdale and her lawyer husband, Richard, will make a claim for unemployment pay. United Air Lines or even a baby is fine, Celeste Lansdale says, but an airline clipped her wings over a legal bedmate.

"I have pretended, well, sort of pretended, that I was living with a man," the young blonde related Sunday night, "and that seemed to be all right. My United decided several years ago 'that it would be all right for a stewardess to live with a man, but they couldn't make it legal.'"

Well-known stewardesses being granted maternity leave, but they couldn't marry.

"The union told me to go ahead and lie about it, it's a shame to be dishonest, but they have kind of funny morals at times," she said.

Mrs. Lansdale is appealing an earlier decision from the Florida Industrial Commission that she voluntarily quit work.

"She said the commission refused to consider federal prohibitions on discrimination. 'We just feel they're very wrong in doing that,' she said.

Frank Preissler, a United official in Atlanta, said Mrs. Lansdale "violated the rule by getting married, so we had no recourse but to release her."

He said a married woman's "first allegiance is not going to be the company. If a secretary is out to like care of a husband, there's a little bit of shorthand that doesn't get out. But if a stewardess is out it can cause flight delays."

brings about $1.50 if brand new. The coin dated 1848 is made of nickel and previous half-crowns were silver-copper, so your coin is not silver.

From Mrs. T. B. Twin Falls: "I have a coin which is light in weight and shiny. There is a figure of a man seated on one side and the lettering 'Magyar Koztarsasag' and the date 1948. On the other side is a wreath with the number 20 in it and under the number the word 'Filler.' Can you tell me anything about this coin?"

Answer: Your coin is from Hungary (Magyar), now under Communist control. It is made from aluminum. Value is negligible since 100 Fillers equals about eight cents in United States money. Collector value of the coin, brand new, might be as much as twenty five cents, although it is doubtful since they are easily obtainable.

The column requests that any reader who might have knowledge of a former business in Twin Falls called the "Kozy Nook" drop us a card of explanation about the business. A 12c token from this "Kozy Nook" has been given to us, but we have no knowledge of this business house and seek explanation on it.

We again urge our collector readers to attend the coin show in Boise, November 8, 9 and 10 at the Owyhee Hotel. There is no charge, and the exhibits of coinage will be well worth your trip.

Questions on coins and currency should be sent to "The Money Box," c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

No Aerosol Cans In The Mails, Say Druggists

For those who may be sending Christmas gift packages to USO centers for servicemen in Vietnam, a word of warning.

Druggists have advised that it is not possible to send any aerosol spray cans by mail. They recommend that for those wishing to send insect repellent, leading items that are treasured by USO officials of what the servicemen want and need, they should send other containers.

Glass containers or plastic containers, on packages of saturated pads, are available at nearly all drug stores and are acceptable for overseas mailing.

Postal officials are urging persons sending overseas holiday gift packages to do so as soon as possible.

He Schools Indians In Indian Crafts

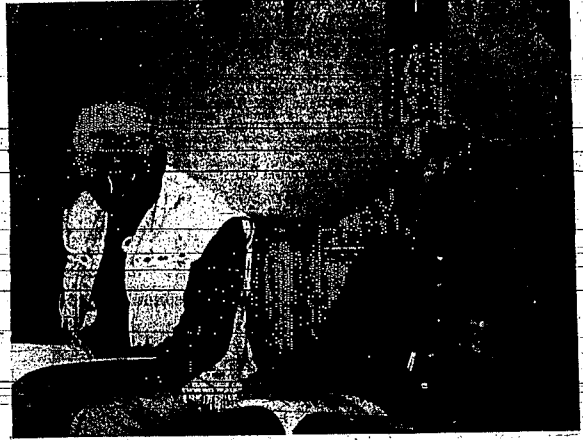

SUN VALLEY — You might say that Luther A. Douglas, well known Idaho artist, is an authority on Indian craft work. In fact, his renown in this field has earned him an invitation to teach the Navajo Indians in their own arts and crafts.

Next week Mr. Douglas will leave for the Navajo reservation located in northeast Arizona, Utah and New Mexico for an extended field trip. Here he will continue his work on a private endowed pilot project to assist the Navajo craftsmen in developing better production and marketing procedures for their crafts.

The reservation, largest in the country, covers some 24,000 square miles and has a population of about 100,000 American Indians.

Mr. Douglas has recently completed a book on Navajo sand painting in collaboration with Navajo medicine man Gray Squirrel. The book will be published early next spring in Germany with negotiations now underway for publication of a French translation.

Interest in the publication in both West Germany and France resulted in part from an extensive European Tour of Mr. Douglas' collection of sand paintings and gifts for young people and gifts for young people.

East Idaho Harbor House Proves Valued Project

(Continued from Page A-1) son reside in the home and Mrs. Johnson is manager. She acts as counselor, administrator and general "mother" for the children who are temporarily housed there. Her husband is not employed by Youth Harbor, but is available should she need his assistance with the children in the evenings or at night. Originally, Mrs. Johnson says, she was the sole employee and did all of the cooking, house-keeping, counseling and caring for the children. Now licensed under the State Department of Public Assistance the home has added a fulltime housekeeper. "This gives me more time to be available to the youngsters should they need me in the role of a mother," Mrs. Johnson says. Youngsters who are being cared for in the home are old enough to help with the dish washing, cleaning and other general chores. The three-story home which was completely renovated at the time of its opening, includes a girls' dormitory on the second floor and a boys' dormitory on the third floor. In addition there are rooms which accommodate infants and very young children. The infant's room, adjoining Mrs. Johnson's bedroom, is equipped with sink, a heating unit and bath facilities for infants. Frequently Mrs. Johnson says she must care for a baby that may be only a few days or weeks old. All materials such as painting, plumbing fixtures, furniture and bed clothing and even labor needed for remodeling came from community donations.

More than 100 Idaho Fair business firms and individuals assisted in renovating the building. Dormitories are not fancy, but they are attractive and clean. The girls' dormitory is painted pink including the walls, window work and built-in wardrobes. Spreads for the individual beds are pink chenille and there are matching drapes and chair covers. Each girl has her own closet area, bed and dresser facilities. Not quite as large, the boys' dormitory is in blue and white. Each youngster must make his or her own bed and the girls are responsible for the ironing although Mrs. Johnson does the laundry. The building will accommodate 14 youngsters at a time but there are usually from five to 10. Last week end there were five youngsters including three girls and two boys with another very small child scheduled to arrive on Monday. "Above all we try to make it a happy place and at the same time give the youngsters proper supervision and discipline. For many it is the first home atmosphere they have ever known," Mrs. Johnson advised. The children are given complete freedom of the home and grounds but are not permitted to leave the grounds. Those who attend school must be home by a certain time and schools are notified the child is living at Harbor House. If they do not arrive for school Mrs. Johnson is contacted, as is the case if they are required to stay later to take part in special school activities. "The front door is never locked from the inside and the children know they can leave at any time, but they will not be permitted to return and that next time their temporary home will probably be a jail cell in-

Hong Kong Flu Epidemic Is Seen Throughout World

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A vaccine being developed to combat Hong Kong influenza will not be ready soon enough to avert an international epidemic, says the chief of the U.S. Public Health Service's Communicable Disease Center.

Dr. David J. Sencer said the world may be on the threshold of an epidemic of the new type of Asian influenza, discovered this summer in Hong Kong. "The doctors say it is mild," he added, "but those who have had it tend to argue."

The first case identified outside of Asia was a traveler who came down with the disease in Atlanta a few weeks ago, three days after a visit to Hong Kong, Sencer said.

He made his remarks in a speech to the 17th annual meeting of the American Society of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene. The new strain of Asian influenza broke out in Hong Kong in July and has killed 25 people. It also has been found in Singapore and Formosa.

The health service advisory committee reported in September that the Hong Kong strain showed marked change from previous strains, and "increased the probability that Asian flu will occur extensively in the United States in the 1968-69 season."

No specific vaccine will be available for three to six months, the committee said. However, the current vaccine for Asian flu may still be partially effective.

The original Asian strain caused a worldwide epidemic when it first appeared in 1957, and an epidemic in this country last year, doctors said.

Frank Church Wants Manning As His Partner In Congress

DARRELL MANNING has flown to South East Asia many times as an Air Force command pilot. He knows what's happening there from first hand experience. He's proposed a positive plan to make the South Vietnamese assume a greater burden in the conflict over there, because he knows that we cannot do for them what they are not willing to do for themselves. That plan can get us out of that mess honorably and safely.

Eight years in Idaho's House of Representatives have brought honor, respect and admiration from members of both political parties—Floor Leader—Outstanding Young Man in America . . .

Darrell's independent judgment—tuned to Idaho's needs—brought overwhelming victories—more than 70%—in his last two elections.

In the finest tradition of Senator Church, Darrell Manning is an Idahoan first and a politician second. He's not a glad-hander or a back-slapper. Manning will represent you with dignity. He has always worked and will continue to work for YOUR benefit.

Darrell has said, "This has been a strange, dull and passive campaign. I've spoken out and advocated specific solutions about Vietnam, water and air pollution, government spending, water, consumer protection, natural resources and tax reduction. Yet, there has been no direct response from my opponent."

Manning has proved that he is willing to speak out and ready to act—In Washington as well as Idaho.

"IT WILL GO 1,500 miles per hour," Capt. Dwight King, Mountain Home Air Force Base, tells, from left, Mrs. Frank Giese, Buhl, and Mrs. Jan Reynolds and Bessie Harrison, both Twin Falls, as he explains the F 4 D. These women were among the more than 250 Idaho women attending the annual "Ladies Day" at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

Air Force Officers' Wives Greet Idaho Women At Annual "Ladies Day"

By NORMA HERZINGER

MOUNTAIN HOME—"Your visiting with us serves greater importance than the customary 'clique' of community relations," stated Mrs. June Harbst, Officers Wives Club president, when she recently welcomed the more than 250 Idaho women to "Ladies Day" at Mountain Home Air Force Base.

"Within the limited time available today, we hope to show you our base facilities, operational aircraft and living quarters," she noted. And, that's exactly what they did. The day was so very well organized, one could certainly see the extensive pre-planning involved. The event was on an invitational basis and clubs from throughout Idaho sent representatives. The day's activities began at 9:30 a.m. with a coffee hour at the Service Club, with Col. Joseph Schreiber, wing commander, as featured speaker. Col. Schreiber welcomed the group on behalf of Col. Gordon Hein, base commander, and the 67th Tactical Reconnaissance Wing, noting guests are welcome to visit the base at any time, not only on Ladies Day.

He commented, "We are always happy to have the opportunity to show visitors our operations here and how we accomplish the Air Force Mission. He told vital statistics of base and most of the women present were amazed at the actual size of the facilities and of the number of persons stationed there. Aerial photographs of Idaho communities were displayed throughout the Service Club and guests found it very interesting to locate their areas.

The ladies then boarded buses where they got a "birds-eye-view" of the base. A tour was met at the Service Club by two young Airmen who served as my driver and photographer for the day, so my tour, along with those accompanying me, members of the Twin Falls Altruza Club, was just that much more interesting.

We first toured the flight line, where we were briefed on the R 4 C, F 4 D and the large rescue helicopter. The phrase, "an officer and a gentleman," certainly did apply to the base officers, as they went out of their way to explain all phases of the planes.

The RE 4 C drew a great deal of attention concerning the fantastic photo equipment involved in its operation. In one picture displayed, one could see from horizon to horizon, with the center of the picture being of scaled accuracy.

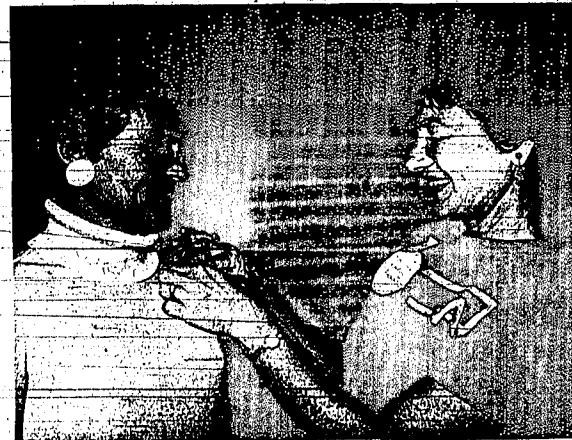

The next stop was at the base chapel, with Lt. Col. Richard Hayward, chaplain, as host. He explained the functions of the chapel as compared to a church of base, noting the chapel is used for Protestant as well as Catholic services.

A second chapel is located on base for the smaller congregations. All religions are represented at the base, with the Air Force providing programs for the various faiths, or making transportation available to Boise for Jewish persons since a rabbi is not stationed at Mountain Home, and for Seventh-Day Adventists and LDS members to attend services in Mountain Home. The women were cordially invited to attend services on base at any time.

All guests convened at the Officers Club for a social hour and luncheon, with the club dining hall filled to capacity. This is the largest group of women "entertained" here, according to Mrs. Carl Dross, publicity chairman for the Officers Wives Club. Paintings done by various officers' wives were on display in the club and brought about many favorable comments from the artistically inclined women attending.

During the afternoon, guests enjoyed a tour of four homes, each uniquely furnished and decorated with items from all over the world. Home tours included those of Col. and Mrs. Gordon Hein, 4822 Tyler Place; Col. and Mrs. Fred Dye, 4112

THE RESCUE HELICOPTER proved to be an interesting attraction for Mrs. Frank Depew as she toured the flight line. Complete operational procedures were explained to the Idaho women attending the special activities.

LT. COL. RICHARD HAYWARD, chaplain, visits with Thelma Mosko, center, and Jeanette LeMoyné, both Hagerman, during a tour of the Air Force Base Chapel. The chaplain explained the functions of the chapel compared to a church of base.

Paintings done by members of the Officers Wives Club were displayed throughout the club. After the luncheon, guests boarded buses for a tour of homes.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
 Dear Abby: There is a girl at school who can't go to any of the dances because it is against her religion. I think that is just about the dumbest thing I have ever heard of.
 I have told this to some other kids and they agreed that it must be a very stupid religion that won't let their people dance. I can't understand a religion like that. Can you?
 DONNAJEAN

Dear DonnaJean: There are some "religions" that disapprove of dancing. It isn't necessary to "understand" the other person's religion. Just respect it.

Dear Abby: I have a paper route and one of my customers went away on a 2-week vacation without telling me, so I kept right on delivering the newspaper. I had no idea how long he was going to be gone.
 When the people came home and found 2 weeks' newspapers piled up in front of their door they got very mad at me. I tried to tell the man that since he didn't tell me they were going to be there, I thought the best thing to do was to keep leaving the newspaper. He called me an idiot and threatened to quit taking the paper. If he does, I'll be in trouble with my boss.
 Was I wrong to keep leaving the paper when I had no other orders? And what do I do if he reports me?

ALEX
 Dear Alex: Tell your boss what happened, and ask him what the policy of the newspaper is when a customer leaves town without telling you. If you get newspapers in front of a door is an announcement that nobody is home. This is more helpful to a burglar than a key in the front door. If your customer quits (and I doubt that he will) you are blameless.
 Dear Abby: Our neighborhood is being downgraded due to one family who owns their own home and take no pride in it whatsoever. Why does one family have the right to ruin the look of a whole neighborhood?

 Their carport looks like a junk heap. They never pick up trash or anything else unless it's in the way of their lawn mower, then they just slide it over. I saw a pile of trash that was swept up on their porch 3 months ago, and it's still there.
 I hope you publish this so these people will recognize themselves and maybe do something about it. We have tried everything without coming right out and asking them to clean it up. They are good people.
 HAD IT
 Dear Had It: So why don't you try the most (and probably only effective) course next. Tell them their yard is a disgrace to the neighborhood and to please clean it up.
 DEAR ABBY: I am 57 and my wife is 53. We have been married for 25 years. Both our children are grown and away from home. Both the wife and I work at full-time jobs.
 After we have a leisurely dinner, I lounge around the house until about 9 o'clock and then I go to bed. My wife drives about 20 miles each way to visit our infant grandson. She comes home and does the supper dishes, tidies up the house, washes a tub of clothes and does a little ironing. She comes to bed about midnight and says she's "too tired." And, boy, am I glad! "TOO TIRED, TOO!"

 Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Cheryl Towne, G. Guthrie Wed In September Ceremony

DIETRICH — Cheryl Towne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Towne, Dietrich, and Galen Guthrie, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgo Guthrie, North Shoshone, were united in marriage in rites Sept. 21 in an afternoon double ceremony performed by Rev. James Holt of the First Baptist Church, Shoshone.

Beauty baskets of lavender and white gladioli decorated the church.

The bride was escorted down the aisle by her father. She was gowned in a floor-length Chantilly lace dress styled with an empire waistline. A-line skirt and long tulle sleeves. The scalloped neckline dipped to a point in the back to emphasize the chapel train of scalloped lace which was attached to the point with a wide lace bow.

Miniature satin covered buttons at the wrists and down the back of the gown. She wore a shoulder-length veil of nylon net topped by a small crown of pearls and petals. Her bouquets were of white and lavender carnations with white streamers.

The bride borrowed a handkerchief which had been carried by all the brides in her mother's family since the marriage of her maternal grandmother, Mrs. H. Z. Downing, Jerome.

Maid of honor was Theresa Towne, cousin of the bride. Julie Guthrie, sister of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

David Couch, U.S.N., Twin Falls, served as best man. Brother of the bride, Lloyd Towne, and Bruce Tieg, Melba, and Lowell Darrington, Rockland, friends of the bridegroom, were the ushers.

Jay Fowler, Shoshone, played the traditional wedding music and accompanied her husband, who sang.

The wedding reception was held immediately after the ceremony at the Dietrich Grange Hall.

A six-tiered cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. John Harbeck, Burley, aunt of the bride, featured intricate frosting-lace scallops on each tier, with roses of lavender flowers, lilies of the Valley and net. Tiny bridal couples were placed on each layer. In addition to the miniature bride and bridegroom at the top of the cake, lavender postcards enhanced the candle holders on each side of the cake. The bride's table was covered with hand-crocheted lace tablecloth over lavender belonging to her maternal grandmother.

Mrs. Glen Nelson, Dietrich, and Mrs. Harold Wageman, Boise, aunts of the bride, served the cake. Mrs. Robert Chablis, Elgin, cousin of the bridegroom, from an heirloom silver service belonging to the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Sylvia Towne, by Mrs. Mary Wageman, Boise.

Esther Moore, Gooding.

Guest book was cared for by Glenda Guthrie, Boise, sister of the bridegroom. Lydia Wageman, Boise, was in charge of the gift table, assisted by Betty Gabriel, Gooding; Donna Downing, Twin Falls; Diana Nelson, Dietrich; and Charlotte Wageman, Boise.

Kitchen helpers were Mrs. Sid Edwards, Mrs. Joy McClure, Mrs. Mary Wageman, Boise, Delbert Heiken and Mrs. Dick Rolice.

Out-of-town guests attended an autographing Magic Valley Towns, Firth, Blackfoot, Rockland, Melba, Boise, Montana, Rhode Island and California.

The couple resides in Moscow, where Mr. Guthrie will continue his studies as a senior at the university majoring in agricultural education.

The bride was honored at a pre-nuptial shower by her fellow employees at the department of education at the university.

Mrs. Hatch Gives Book Review

BURLEY — The book review on "The Degeneration of Presidential Elections" written by Jules Abels, was given by Mrs. Gertrude Hatch during a meeting of the Burley Study Club at the home of Mrs. Jean Matthews.

Covered in the book review was the historical review of the election institution. The analysis of the context in which we vote today, warns that presidential campaigning is seriously endangering responsible common sense government in America. Personality and images have now become the overriding factors, not issues or policies," Mrs. Hatch noted.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES F. DUNAVAN

Susan Carman, Dunavan Recite Nuptial Vows

The First Presbyterian Church Chapel was the setting for the Oct. 28 marriage of Susan Meade Carman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin G. Carman, Twin Falls, and James F. Dunavan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wylie H. Dunavan, Buhl.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. Robert C. Harvey before an altar flanked by candelabra, each holding seven white candles.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length gown of white faille and chiffon, designed in empire style and enhanced with a floor-length train. Her elbow-length veil of bridal illusion fell from a crown of beaded pearls and embroidered lace.

She carried a cascading bouquet of white gladioli and baby pink roses with greenery on a white ribbon, which had been carried by her aunt, Mrs. Charles Carman, and her sister, Mrs. Keith May, at their weddings.

Maid of honor was Glenda Jacobsen, Dalis, Eldredge, Buhl, was best man, with Jeff Garaton, Halley, serving as usher. Traditional wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Allen.

The reception was held in the Fireside Lounge immediately after the ceremony. The bride's table was covered with white lace over mist green. It was centered with a three-tiered white cake decorated with pink roses and green leaves, and surrounded at the base with pink poinsons and greenery. The cake was topped with three white frosted balls backed by white lace and lilies of the Valley. Mist green candles flanked the cake.

The cake was cut and served by Mrs. Elvin Walker, Helen Carman, aunt of the bride, seated at the head of the punch was served by Mrs. Glen Jacobsen. Kathy Walker was in charge of the guest book, and West Walker attended the gift table.

Out-of-town guests attended from Filer, Buhl, Halley and Boise.

The young couple resides in Halley, where the bridegroom is employed as manager of the Conoco Service Corner.

Mexican Cuisine Includes Rice

All over the country enthusiasm for foods influenced by the distinctive cooking of Mexico is growing and growing and growing! Mexican restaurants are sprouting up in even the smallest towns across America, and travelers to Mexico are eagerly looking for recipes reminiscent of the marvelous dishes discovered across our southern borders.

You're probably familiar with many Mexican recipes—chili and beans, tamales and enchiladas, tostitos and tacos. But Mexican cuisine also extends to more subtly seasoned fare, including many superb "rice dishes."

Hacienda Rice features many foods frequently found in Mexican recipes. Alternate layers of cooked rice mixed with canned tomato sauce with tomato bits and instant minced onion, with sour cream, green chiles and Jack cheese, then bake till hot and bubbly.

Hacienda Rice is hearty enough to serve as a main course for lunch or supper accompanied by a salad, buttery-warm tortillas (or crisp rolls), fruit and a beverage. For dinner Hacienda Rice deliciously complements a roast and eliminates the need for potatoes and another vegetable dish. Take Hacienda Rice to a potluck and include it on a company buffet, too.

- HACIENDA RICE
- 4 cups cooked rice
 - 2 cans (8-ounces) tomato sauce with tomato bits
 - 2 tablespoons instant minced onion
 - 2 cups sour cream
 - 1 can (4-ounce) diced green chiles
 - 3 cups shredded mild cheese (Jack, Swiss, Cheddar or process American)
 - Ripe olives, if desired
 - Combine rice, tomato sauce with tomato bits and onion; spoon half into 2 1/2 quart casserole. Combine sour cream and chiles; spread half over rice layer. Sprinkle with half the cheese. Repeat layers. Bake covered, at 350 degrees for 45 minutes. Garnish with olives. Makes six to eight servings.

HACIENDA RICE is a spicy flavored rice casserole, perfect as a lunch or supper main dish. It makes a handsome complement to a dinner roast, too.

Idaho Writers League Conducts Meet In Buhl

Mrs. John Burkhardt was hostess to the Twin Falls Chapter of the Idaho Writers League at her home in Buhl recently, with four guests present: Mrs. Grace French, Buhl; Mrs. Harriet Miller, Jerome; Mrs. Del Gunter, Twin Falls; and Mrs. Ira Chamberlain, Buhl.

Mrs. Laurence Campbell presided in the absence of the president, Mrs. Woodrow Ash, who was out-of-town. Original poems were given by Mrs. Everett Hagger, Mrs. Bryan Harris, Mrs. Jewell Von Ins, Mrs. Olive Kelly, Mrs. Burkhardt and Mrs. Campbell.

Officers elected for the coming year include president, Mrs. Campbell; vice president, Mrs. Von Ins; and secretary, treasurer, Mrs. Ethlyn Wallington.

Mrs. Burkhardt, Mrs. Wallington and Mrs. Harry LeMoine Sr. attended the annual state conference of the Idaho Writers' League at Caldwell in October. Mrs. Burkhardt presented a tape recording of the talk she made at the poetry luncheon, and Mrs. Wallington reported on the talks made by Paul Reynolds, New York literary agent, at the conference.

Mrs. Bryan Harris read her story, "Footprints on the Moon," which was awarded first place in the juvenile category

Bridge Played

DECLO — Members of the N. and S. Bridge Club met at the Stampede Cafe, Bury for a luncheon-bridgefest. After the luncheon the group played two tables of dessert bridge at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Lott.

High scores winners for the afternoon were Mrs. Gladys Manning and Mrs. Elma Lott. Guests were Mrs. Elma Lott and Mrs. Hazel Hesser.

Hostess for the next meeting is Mrs. Kate Schmidt.

Democrats Hold Narrow Lead In Contests For U.S. House, But GOP Poses Threat

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats hold a narrow lead in races for the House of Representatives. But as election day nears, the potential lineup for any House election of a president becomes more muddled.

A state-by-state Associated Press survey shows Democrats ahead in 23 districts—13 more than needed to control the 435-member House. Republicans lead in 180 districts and 24 are rated tossups in the evaluations made a week before voting.

Democrats control the present House 245-187, with three seats vacant.

The survey also turned up at least 85 candidates with a good chance of winning who say if the presidential election goes to the House, they would support a popular vote for winner for president even if he isn't their party's candidate.

The new House would inherit the job of picking the next president if no candidate receives 270 or more votes in the electoral college, whose votes are cast Dec. 16 and counted Jan. 6. If the election goes to the House each state, regardless of size, would cast one vote.

Translating survey results into control of state delegations leaves each of the three presidential candidates—well short of the 25 state votes he would need to win in the House.

If House candidates who now lead—are elected—Republican Richard M. Nixon are likely to get the votes of 17 states, Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey 12 and third-party candidate George C. Wallace 1—Alabama, Votes of Hawaii, Kansas and Nevada would go to whoever wins the popular vote in that state. Montana would be unable to vote because of a deadlock delegation.

Sixteen other states are question marks as of now. Tossup races leave party control of some states in doubt and in many there are candidates who say they might vote for other than their party's nominee.

Some House candidates say they would back the presidential candidate who won the national popular vote. A petition advocating this position was signed by 25 Democratic congressmen and 25 Republicans. But now there is some question whether it remains in effect since it did not get heavier support.

Some candidates say they would vote for the man who carried their state and others say they'd follow the popular vote of their congressional district.

Many candidates said they'd stick with their party in any event, but numerous others refused to say what they would do.

The pressure of party discipline—with its possible threats that choice committee assignments or seniority might be taken away—could also persuade some dissidents to return to party line voting.

Based on current standings and statements, the Nixon states would be Alaska, Arizona, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Iowa, Michigan, Minnesota, Nebraska, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, South Dakota, Utah, Vermont, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

The Humphrey states—some particularly subject to Wallace inroads—would be Arkansas, Colorado, Maryland, Kentucky, Louisiana, Georgia, Massachusetts, New York, Rhode Island, Tennessee, Texas and West Virginia.

Question mark states as of now are California, Connecticut, Florida, Illinois, Maine, Mississippi, Missouri, New Jersey, New Mexico, North Carolina, Oklahoma, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, Virginia and Washington.

An AP survey four weeks ago put Democrats in the lead for 239 seats, Republicans for 183

Other Republican incumbents in tossup races are Bill DeLoach, Alabama; George A. Goodling, Pennsylvania; and Margaret Heckler, Massachusetts.

Four Democratic incumbents besides Vanik have slipped to overtaken: George E. Brown Jr., and Richard T. Hanna, California; Paul Rogers, Florida; and William T. Murphy, Illinois. Other Democratic congressmen in tossup races are William L. St. Onge, Connecticut; Peter N. Kyros, Maine; and James J. Howard, New Jersey.

Of the 23 Democrats now leading, 171 incumbents and eight other candidates are rated safe winners. Of the 189 Republicans now ahead, 147 incumbents and seven other candidates are rated safe.

Democrats lead in 52 close races and Republicans in 20. The 102 close and tossup races involve 59 Democratic and 28 Republican incumbents.

If the districts rated safe turn out that way, Democrats would close to win only 39 of the 102 close or tossup races to secure control of the House. Republicans would have to win 64 to capture the House.

Incumbents who have slipped backward to even: Rep. Francis Bolton, R-Ohio, has pulled from behind to even in her race with Rep. Charles A. Vanik in a re-allocated district.

Roush trails Rep. E. Ross Adair and Broyles, is behind Rep. Basil L. Whittener. The other contest matching incumbents is a tossup between Oklahoma Reps. Tom Steed, Democrat, and James Smith, Republicans.

Eight Democratic and three Republican incumbents who were rated only even four weeks ago now are leading their opponents.

The Democrats are Dante Fascell, Florida; Mrs. Patsy T. Mink and Sparg M. Matunaga, Hawaii; Richard D. McCarthy, New York; Robert O. Tiernan, Rhode Island; John O. Marsh, Virginia; and Lloyd Meeds and Floyd W. Hesse, Washington.

The Republicans are William V. Roth Jr., Delaware; Daniel E. Burton, New York; and Glenn Cunningham, Nebraska.

Two Republican congressmen, Odin Langen of Minnesota and William C. Wampler of Virginia, have slipped backward to even.

Ask Them Yourself

FOR HUBERT H. HUMPHREY

Could you give me some tips on public speaking?—Mrs. Letitia F. Palmister, Waterford, N.Y.

● Effective public speaking demands that you have faith in your message and understand it. Liking and trusting your audience is very important, too. An effective speaker also must be up to date in his reading. I read a great deal, and I have a staff to help me keep informed.

FOR JUNE LOCKHART

Is it really true that you are sympathetic to the "hippie" movement?—A. H. Helton, Swords Creek, Va.

● I have always thought that a person is "hippie" if his or her bottom is wide! Since I've always been a little "hippie," I am very sympathetic to the "hippies."

FOR HAL CREEER

Philadelphia 76ers
When did you first decide that you wanted to play pro basketball?—Raymond Scaerhill, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● I had no idea of playing pro basketball, when I was younger. I always thought of being a policeman. But I enjoyed basketball so much at Marshall College (Huntington, W. Va.), that I decided to give pro-play a try.

FOR JOHN EISENHOWER

What have you been doing since you left the Army?—David Guiterman, Durham, N.C.

● Since resigning from the Army in 1963, I have been writing. I helped on the two volumes of Dad's memoirs, "The White House Years," until 1964. Recently I finished a book on the Battle of the Bulge entitled, "The Bitter Woods," which will be published in January.

FOR JOE NAMATH

quarterback, New York Jets
Do you wear a special type of football shoe, or is the color (white) the only difference?—Russell Mink, Elizabethton, Tenn.

● The right shoe has added elevation in the heel and the cleats are shorter.

FOR RICHARD M. NIXON

How many years did you work in a Whittier, Calif., grocery store?—Myrtle Bolton, Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

● My four brothers and I took part in this venture, and I had some 19 years to my credit. Most of my time was spent stocking the shelves and in maintenance, but in my senior year in high school and in college I was the manager of the produce department.

FOR HENRY FOWLER

Secretary of the Treasury
Is the marking on the base of President Kennedy's neck on the U.S. half dollar actually a hammer and sickle?—Lois Berry, Torrington, Wyo.

● No. Somehow an insidious rumor was started that this marking is a hammer and sickle. No Communist symbol appears on any American coin. The device is a stylized presentation of the initials GR and indicates that the portrait was done by sculptor Gilroy Roberts. Mr. Roberts merely advised himself of the ancient rule of identifying his work.

FOR CHARLES SCHROEDER

manager, San Diego Zoo
What animal in your zoo has caused you the most trouble?—Mrs. C. A. Roca Strand, Seattle, Wash.

● The male pigmy chimpanzee. Popularly called "Kakowet" (Little Peanut) he was taught as a baby in a jungle area south of the Congo River. While in our Children's Zoo, he was exposed to and suffered from common children's diseases. Redemptively, from San Diego Naval Hospital working with the zoo's veterinary clinician, succeeded in pulling him through a bout of encephalitis and a parasite disease.

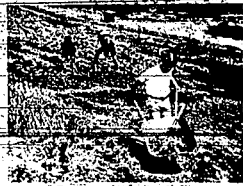

FOR CAROL LAWRENCE

What is your greatest peeve about television?—Helen P. Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● As a dancer, I get exasperated by dull choreography on TV. Fringe when I see the "Chiffon Number"—a girl wearing a flowing chiffon costume, and four male dancers, sitting around her. Viewers deserve more than that—and so do the dancers, too.

Color Us Cool: Most pro football teams choose colorful uniforms for their home games. Not the New Orleans Saints, who let the weather decide what they wear. If it's hot, they come out in white, making the visitors suit up in darker colors. Reasoning: white is cooler; darker colors make the visitors more likely to become heat-fatigued.

End of a Chase: Comedian Marty Ingels has a 20-minute chase scene, clad only in a towel, in "The Silent Treatment," a new film reviving pratfall techniques. They finished shooting at 8 a.m. in front of an old theater. Marty decided to take his break there. When he returned, still clad only in the towel; it was 10 a.m., and the streets were crowded, but the chase had moved on to another location. The police didn't buy Marty's explanation until hours later when the studio sent someone to bail him out. Lately Marty has taken a strong and abiding interest in men's fashions.

"Premies" may suffer oxygen starvation the first hours of life unless treated in special oxygen units.

New Discoveries

Here's how medical science is easing the dangers

SHORTLY AFTER dawn, Mrs. Betty Farrell, in only the sixth month of her pregnancy, began to feel unmistakable labor pains.

Alarmed, her husband phoned her obstetrician, and she was rushed to a hospital. There, Mrs. Farrell was given injections of an alcohol solution, equivalent to a half-dozen double martinis.

Almost miraculously, the labor pains stopped, and she went home with just a slight hangover. For the next three months, she drank cognac from time to time. And at the end of her ninth month, Mrs. Farrell gave birth to a healthy son.

The use of alcohol, originally taken as cognac when this technique for postponing premature delivery was tried in Finland; is slowly taking hold in some American hospitals. It reflects a new and mounting medical emphasis on the causes and prevention of premature births, as well as on the treatment of tiny "preemies" to save them from potential dangers.

Why this new awareness? Evidently, doctors are spurred to action by what has been happening. About one out of 10 babies born in the U.S. today is premature. They account for over half of all infant deaths and a high percentage of physical, mental, and emotional defects or handicaps. The very premature are often stillborn.

With prematurity taking such a high toll, medical scientists and obstetricians have been learning more and more about the unborn, the development of human cells, and the birth process.

In line with such progress, now an it is, doctors are changing their concept of "prematurity." Until recently, an infant was labeled a "premy" if he was born before 37 weeks of the pregnancy, the normal full-term being 40 weeks.

Now any newborn weighing less than 5½ pounds may be classified as "premature" if he is not fully developed. He could be a full-term baby who grew too slowly or improperly in the womb. Of course, a baby can be born after only 34 weeks, weigh more than 5½ pounds, be fully developed—and not be diagnosed as a true "premy."

Generally, weight is the most reliable factor. Thus, the International Conference on Prematurity, held for the first time last January in Florida, agreed with the World Health Organization that "prematurity" is a misnomer and should be replaced by "LBRW" (low birth weight) regardless of when the baby is born. About a third of these small, undergrown babies eventually have cerebral palsy, reading disabilities, or other handicaps. Obviously, most "preemies" born before full term tend to be pint-sized.

In three out of five cases, doctors admit they do not know what causes a mother to give birth in much less than 40 weeks. But certain maternal conditions often are responsible. They range from infections during pregnancy to accidents, twins, gynecological disorders, a fetal deformity, diabetes, high blood pressure, or early detachment of the placenta (the organ that joins the fetus to the mother's circulation). In other instances, a disease like pre-eclampsia (abnormal swelling and convulsions) demands an untimely end of the pregnancy by Caesarean section (surgical delivery) to safeguard the mother's life.

Certain women are prone to delivery prematurely: a mother with a small heart size, for instance. Underweight women and those who were small at birth themselves seem more likely to have LBW babies.

Some causes may depend on the mother herself. She may have failed to see a doctor soon enough, then neglected to follow his advice, taken self-prescribed pills, and refused to accept her need for bed rest.

Some doctors believe that smoking has an effect, though most authorities contend smoking has nothing to do with the duration of pregnancy. "There may be a difference of perhaps three or four ounces in the infant," says Dr. Stanley Zinberg, a New York obstetrician.

Disagreement prevails, too, on the effects of diet. A recent study in Montreal indicated that diet supplements proved important in increasing infants' birth weight—and thus reducing the number of "preemies." On the other hand, U.S. obstetricians point out that when a pregnant mother eats heartily—the more weight she gains, the bigger the baby—but the time of birth is not influenced much. It's the parents' genes that really determine the infant's size and weight at birth.

"Preemies" or LBWs enter life without certain defenses, vulnerable to a variety of hazards. Many of their organs, especially the liver, weigh less than normal. Some of the "high risks" are born with inadequate stores of fat to support them during the critical first hour of life. Others lack glycogen (a carbolydrate) in the liver, a source of energy that a baby can draw upon if he is temporarily cut off from an oxygen supply. This can happen during delivery, for example.

"Premature births," says Dr. Louis Gluck, professor of pediatrics at Yale Medical School, "are dangerous because bodies of such babies are usually not capable of withstanding hostile elements in our environment—without a great deal of help. Less developed than mature babies, their lungs are not ready for normal air breathing."

In the first hours of life, oxygen starvation (hypoxia) may occur and lead to brain damage. Especially ominous is hyaline membrane disease, prevalent in "preemies" delivered by Caesarean. The infant has a hard time breathing, his chest wall sinks in, his shallow breath comes in grunts, the baby turns blue. It was this disease that caused the death of the late President and Mrs. John F. Kennedy's baby, Patrick.

A deficiency in blood sugar, seen in undergrown "preemies" or LBWs, often results in the condition called hypoglycemia. When the brain doesn't get the sugar it needs, the outcome is brain damage.

Prematurity alone frequently results in too much bilirubin, a yellow chemical which is a by-product of the breakdown of red blood cells. If the bilirubin is not disposed of through the liver, it can bring on jaundice and anemia. Spreading to the central nervous system, the child may become mentally retarded.

Other possible complications include partial or total blindness, serious infections, and pneumonia.

What You Can Do to Prevent Premature Births

While premature births can't be staved off entirely, the expectant mother can take certain precautions to minimize the chances. Eminent specialists recommend the following steps:

- See your obstetrician regularly and follow his advice carefully.
- Accidental falls can rupture the womb, so go both during the last six weeks of pregnancy. Sponge bathing is recommended.
- If you are a likely candidate for premature delivery, get as much bed rest as possible. You then will be able to carry the pregnancy longer.
- Avoid all strenuous exercise or anything causing fatigue or exposure to virus infections.
- Don't attempt self-treatment. Take only drugs prescribed by your doctor.
- Maternal relations should be discontinued after the seventh month of pregnancy.

Are Saving Premature Babies

that face one-out-of-every-10 infants born in the U.S. — By THEODORE IRWIN

Deaths among "preemies" are about 30 times that of full-term infants. Among those born alive, a large number soon die suddenly, for unexplained reasons.

"Even if they survive, many premature babies are scarred for life," observes Dr. Helm W. Berendes, head of perinatal research at the National Institutes of Health. "During the first year of life," Dr. Berendes points out, "the 'preemie' is prone to stomach troubles and iron-deficiency anemia. A year after birth, others show such nervous-system abnormalities as poor reflexes or a spastic condition."

Other medical investigations have found that at five years of age low-weight "preemies" tend to be under-height-and-underweight. At school, their I.Q. is apt to be lower; some may be dull and fall behind.

With all these unfortunate consequences possible, doctors are ceaselessly exploring ways of both averting prematurity and treating the diminutive newborn. One form of prevention is the alcohol "cocktail." Another is a drug called isoxsuprine hydrochloride, which expands blood vessels and relaxes muscles. Used to arrest ill-timed labor, the drug is considered promising.

Obstetrical care is being constantly improved. At delivery, doctors use anesthetics sparingly, since many of these drugs can interfere with the infant's breathing long after birth. To monitor the baby during labor, a fetal scalp test may be taken: a needle is gently inserted to draw a few drops of blood as he lies in the birth canal—and this reveals if he is being deprived of oxygen.

When palpitations and X rays show that twins are anticipated—and with twins the chances of premature labor are high—doctors severely restrict the mother's activity and cut down her salt intake to ward off toxemia (blood poisoning).

If it's treating the just-born "preemie" that doctors have made more progress. The trend today is for large maternity hospitals to have Premature Treatment Centers close to specialists, X-ray departments, and clinical labs. Here, the battle for life—and for survival as an "intact" human being—is often won or lost. Because a premature infant has an immature temperature-regulating system, and loses body heat rapidly, it's standard procedure now to place him in an incubator. His lungs not fully developed, he needs more oxygen, so a respirator provides him with concentrated oxygen.

Tests immediately after birth indicate deficiencies and whether the baby is a high risk. If he has a high bilirubin count, he gets life-preserving exchange blood transfusions—taking out and then replacing at least 80 percent of his blood. Some hospitals are experimenting with a novel technique of exposing "preemies" to fluorescent light as a way of preventing excess build-up of bilirubin on the theory that light chemically alters the substance. For a blood-sugar shortage, the baby is given glucose through a vein.

Through such modern approaches, doctors at Intensive Care units are rescuing precarious premature babies from brain "insults" and other damages in their first and most difficult hours.

What seems like miracles are performed by alert, fast-thinking doctors. Not long ago, at the Yale-Now Haven Medical Center, an oxygen-shy baby girl was born more than a month prematurely. In the next three weeks, little Annie stopped breathing 38 times. Whenever it happened, an oxygen tube was quickly inserted down her windpipe, to help her breathe. Each time, she responded. After Annie was discharged from the hospital, doctors privately believed this "preemie" would be irreparably brain-damaged. Two years later, however, her pediatrician proclaimed her completely normal.

In the judgment of the American Academy of Pediatrics, "intensive care for the newborn is one of the most important advances in pediatrics." These special units, focusing mostly on high-risk LBWs, are now functioning at a Baylor University Medical School unit in Waco, Texas, and in at least a dozen other cities. The idea is catching fire.

For prevention of prematurity, perhaps most important is improved prenatal care for mothers. Under a $30 million U.S. Children's Bureau program launched in 1964, pilot clinics have been set up in more than 80 hospitals.

In Chicago, where 20,000 women visited the clinic last year, infant deaths in the project area dropped 15 percent. Results in the future are expected to be better.

Despite all the possible hazards of prematurity and LBW, veteran obstetricians offer a note of reassurance. Even when mothers go into premature labor, if no complications ensue, a great many bouncing babies are born perfectly sound in body and mind.

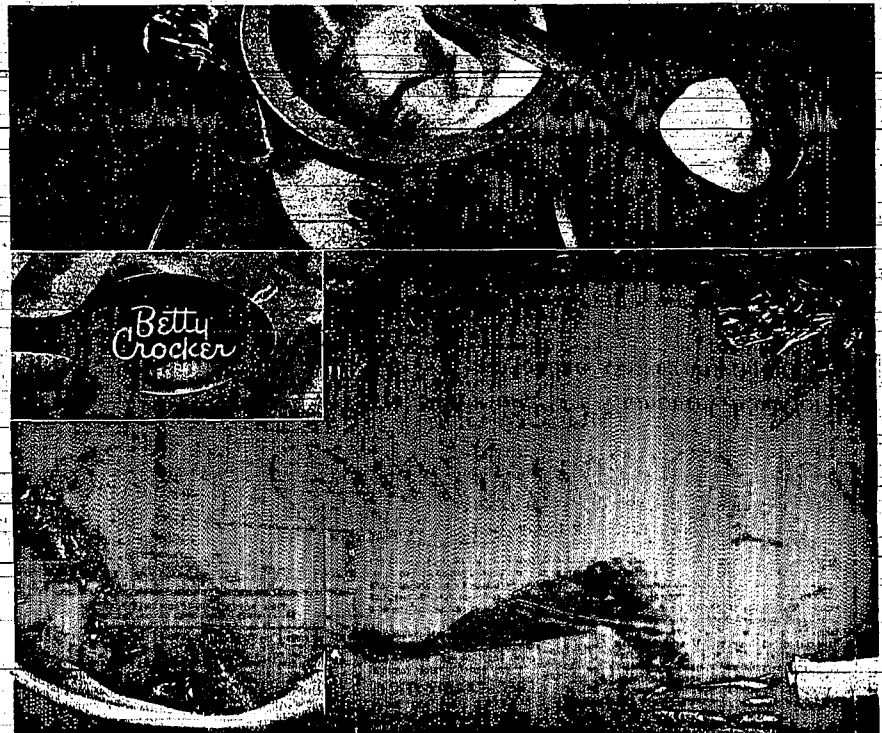

Besides good medical management, it calls for plain common-sense precautions. Certainly our "preemies" deserve every break we can give. ♣

What Really Happened to Our Submarine Scorpion?

Did it malfunction—or was it a victim of the deadly U.S.-Russian spy war?

By ARTURO F. GONZALEZ, Jr.

THE U. S. NAVY isn't talking, but the nuclear-powered submarine, Scorpion, sunk last May, is very much a victim of a spy war between Russia and America.

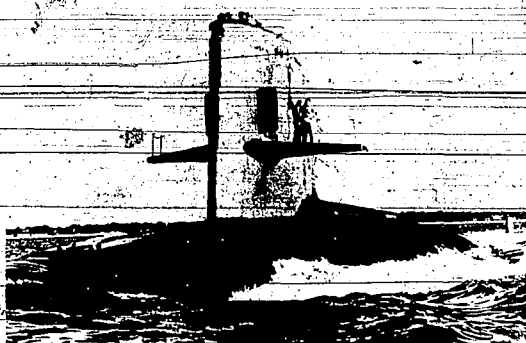

The game is a simple but deadly one. The U. S. possesses 41 gray, nuclear-powered, Polaris missile-carrying submarines, 30 of which are on regular 60-day patrols off the coasts of Russia and China. Each has its 16 nuclear missiles aimed 2,800 miles in at the Communist heartlands, ready to fire should the Cold War suddenly become hot.

Similarly Russia has missile subs cruising off the U. S. coastline on six- to eight-week patrols, their missiles zeroed-in on New York, Washington, and Strategic Air Command bases throughout the Eastern U. S.

Both countries' subs use the depths of the oceans to hide their precise whereabouts. They also maintain rigid radio silence to prevent their foe from pinpointing where each sub is, day by day. It was this strict radio silence that prevented the Pentagon from knowing that the Scorpion was actually lost until six days and nights after it sank. Navy officials thought it was sailing in military secrecy when instead the submarine with its crew of 99 had dropped, crippled, to the ocean floor somewhere in the mid-Atlantic.

The Scorpion was a hunter-killer submarine, not a missile-carrying Polaris vessel. These swift subs are designed to chase the enemy's subs underwater and to sink them with atomic-tipped torpedoes before they can unleash their missiles. Using sonar and listening devices, they track one another to 1,000-foot depths. "It's like two fighters, blindfolded in a ring, each listening for the other's breathing before aiming the punch," explains a killer-sub skipper.

In peace time, the American and Russian subs merely follow each other about. But they stay close, and the shadowing is in earnest. When ever an American-Polaris sub pulls out of Holy Loch, Scotland, for instance, to sail on patrol off the Russian coast, a Russian killer-sub dutifully follows along. And this is where the game of "chicken under the sea" gets dangerous.

U. S. attack subs like the Scorpion begin harassing the Russian. Underwater, they maneuver close to the Red, bouncing random sonar signals off her hull to deafen her electronic gear. Recordings of "The Volga Boatman" are played loudly underwater to drive the Russian sonar men nuts. The American subs cruise between the Communist craft and the Polaris sub, forcing the Reds to slow down while the Polaris ship speeds up and escapes into the ocean's depths. In this kind of game, there already have been watery collisions between the Russians and the Americans.

It is possible that the Scorpion was the victim of such a collision—or that she accidentally dropped below 1,500 feet in trying to elude a Russian shadower, whereupon ocean pressure ruptured a weakened portion of her hull.

One theory is that the Scorpion was vulnerable because she never received an adequate "Sub Safe" inspection. The demands of the Cold War prevented the Navy from calling back all of its attack subs after the Tresher's hull collapsed several years ago. So the subs came into the yards one at a time, when they could be spared from sub-chasing duties, to have their hulls strengthened.

Whatever the cause, the Navy now has definite evidence of the details of the Scorpion's death. To monitor the passage of subs across the Atlantic, the U. S. has planted listening devices on the ocean floor which are connected to shore-based recording devices. By studying the tapes recorded during the weeks the Scorpion was missing, Navy investigators have heard the crash of the Scorpion's hull, cracking like an eggshell, as it imploded under the tremendous pressure of the sea.

They have fixed the date of the ship's death as May 21 and the location about 450 miles south-southwest of the Azores. Deep-diving ocean equipment is being used to search the sea bottom—some 12,000 feet down—and investigators are confident that wreckage will be found.

Whatever the actual cause of the ship's destruction, it must be said that her 99 crewmen died defending their country because the Russian underwater threat is a grim one and America's anti-submarine warfare crews work round-the-clock to keep the Russians pinned down.

The Russians currently have more submarines at sea than any other military power in the world, and this Communist nuclear firepower represents a real and present danger to the security of the U. S. It is for this reason that, in 1964, Vice Admiral Charles B. Martell became the Navy's first anti-submarine warfare commander.

Admiral Martell explains, "I cannot help but compare the guerrilla war in Vietnam to what I consider to be today's guerrilla warfare of the sea—anti-submarine warfare. The main advantage that the submarine enjoys when stalking an enemy is concealment, exactly the same tactic used by the guerrilla. If one could strip from the guerrilla his concealment, his protective covering, a great deal of his effectiveness would be lost. This is also the case in terms of a submarine. Today we are trying relentlessly to strip this cloak of concealment from the Soviet submarine."

There can be little doubt that the Russians have gambled all their military retaliation chips on the submarine. Their goal is apparently a fantastically 1,200 subs, and they currently are training some 50,000 technicians and scientists in various branches of undersea activities. Huge fleets of oversized Soviet trawlers now prow the oceans, each quite capable of serving as a submarine support ship in time of war.

And this is why America's anti-submarine warfare effort must continue. Killer submarines must continue to prow the blackened depths under the sea in search of the Soviet subs. For as long as the Russians undersea menace continues, these forces are America's first line of defense.

This is the mission for which the Scorpion was designed—and possibly for which it died. ♦

The Changing Fur Scene: Pattern and Color

By ROSALYN ABBEVAYA

■ Fur makes the scene this season in living color. None is too precious to get dipped in a dye pot, stenciled, or pieced together to set off kaleidoscopic fantasies.

What to opt for? There is no single look, although the bulky fur is out. Shaping is closer to the body, but the cut can be A-line or slim; two furs may show up on one coat in lush colored dints or borders; a fur top with mitts with a long hair-fur-leather fabric, or something that has an affinity for fur often pairs to a sleek, simple, clean-cut suit. The new changes are subtle, two close styles side-by-side, but the fur is definitely in endless.

If there's to be a status fur this winter, mink will get the nod, looking richer in stripes, chevrons, and the new, new tweed effect.

NOW! Run Your Car Without Spark Plugs

THE IMPORTANT DIFFERENCES BETWEEN ORDINARY SPARK PLUGS AND JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Your car's power comes from spark plug ignitions of gasoline vapor inside its cylinders. The faster you get the spark plug...

SPARK PLUGS NARROW SPARK

CONVENTIONAL PLUGS approach the chamber with a sweeping arc across an air gap. The spark, just 1/8 inch across, is not wide enough to explode all the fuel in the cylinder. Unburned gas escapes through your exhaust. In time, the electrodes become eroded and caked with carbon. The gap widens, the spark gets weaker, you lose more power, you waste more fuel... and finally have to replace your spark plug.

JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITER WIDE SWATH OF FLAME

JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS use not only a spark, but a jet of flame which sweeps across a semi-conductor ball to ignite every molecule of gas. One electrode to another, exploding far more low, setting far more power. The gap that can widen, and carbon that can clog, are not a problem. Performance, they do not have to be adjusted or replaced—ever!

BOAT OWNERS! Fuel Igniters are better for your boat engine, too!

NEW JET-FIRE FUEL IGNITERS

Will deliver up to 30 more horsepower, 5 more miles per gallon using only regular gas!

THEY NEVER WEAR OUT

- get up to 5 more miles per gallon of gas
- add up to 30 more horsepower today to your engine
- save $100 each year for you, year after year while you use the cheapest grades of gasoline!

101-1000

YOU'LL NEVER CLEAN, ADJUST OR REPLACE PLUGS AGAIN!

Save $100 a Year With Jet-Fire Igniters!

- $50 by switching to regular gas.
- $50 on your better mileage.
- $10 by not replacing plugs.

- You are protected by this 4-WAY GUARANTEE for the life of your car (or 30,000 miles) without claims, servicing or restocking.
1. QUARANTEED to increase miles/per gallon of gas at regular cost.
 2. QUARANTEED to increase horsepower, increase mileage.
 3. QUARANTEED to improve ease of starting, and acceleration!

Spark plugs are obsolete! Now there's a far better way to run your car—without spark plugs. With conventional spark plugs, only a fraction of the fuel that enters your cylinder is turned into power. The rest escapes through your tailpipe as unburned vapor. That is because their work is so narrow—only 35-hundredths of an inch wide—that it cannot possibly ignite all the fuel mixture in the cylinder. As this gets longer, their sparks get narrower and less efficient till they're useless.

New Jet-Fire Igniters do a far better job of igniting gasoline than power. Instead of a narrow spark, they send out a wide-wash of flame that actually ignites the semi-conductor film—forming out, in all directions and exploding far more fuel in the cylinder.

Proof That You Get Up To 30 Horsepower More! Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters look like spark plugs merely because they have to be screwed into the spark-plug pocket. But what they do is far different. Here's how to prove it:

1. Run your car till it's fully warmed up.
2. Have a perfectly level street road.
3. Put the car in Drive (1st gear with manual transmissions), and see how fast the car rolls at 60 miles speed.
4. Remove plug and install Jet-Fire Igniter (in 1/2 minute).
5. Drive one full year (or 30,000 miles) at 60 miles speed. You can expect to use a Y10 G BOTTLE PER MONTH EXACTLY without needing the usual semi-annual—dramatic proof that Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters increase your mileage by 100% with no loss in one minute. It provides even greater power-up to 30 more horsepower of acceleration, and you'll notice even more improvement. All this while burning less gas!

So first thing, you can reduce the gas flow by adjusting the idling screw, and set your timing exactly as you wish. (You can do this in 1/2 minute.) (At the same time, you can make your alternator-fixture easier. Jet Igniters require only a 15% ratio instead of the conventional 90% (a simple adjustment that you can even make in economy.)

SWITCH TO REGULAR GAS!

The next thing you can save gas by turning the "Economy" knob on the alternator to get your "Economy" flow. (Economy is not a smart need, premium which costs four to eight cents more than regular gas.)

And this second saving is only the beginning. Jet to Jet Igniters provide easier cold-weather starts... and that means less drain on your battery, and no dikes on your patience as you try to get started.

NO REPLACING OR ADJUSTING EVER

The more you drive, the better your Fuel Igniters perform. They don't become eroded, wear out or require adjusting. And carbon buildup on your early model of old fashioned plug—actually makes fuel igniters perform better. Carbon becomes an additional carrier for the igniter's big flame.

So there you have a third saving. One set of fuel igniters will last the life of your car!

Invested In Bare Air Force Lives!

Now They Can Save You Money!

Jet-Fire Fuel Igniters were first developed to save airmen's lives. During World War II, there were aircraft when more men were killed by spark plug malfunction than by enemy action. A failure-proof replacement was needed, and Jet Igniters did the job. Both the Navy and Air Force have approved them for jet engine use.

Now at least they have been modified for automobile use. They won't save your life, but they can save your big money—up to $100 a year with ordinary driving.

Some day, all cars may come equipped with Fuel Igniters like these. But why wait when you can install a set yourself now? Just mail the order with the make and model of your car, and we'll rush you a set with full instructions, cost $12.95 (plus $2.00 post. $9.95 per set of 2).

How Presidential Losers Concede

This week Humphrey or Nixon will have the unenviable job of delivering his most difficult speech

By PAUL STEINER

LATE TUESDAY night or early Wednesday morning, either Hubert Humphrey or Richard Nixon will go before the tv cameras to concede the 1968 Presidential election.

How will he act? Will he be a good loser, generous with praise for his victorious opponent? Or will he be vindictive and bitter? A check of history reveals some interesting facts. Here is how some famous past losers have conceded.

The late Adlai Stevenson came up with one of the most memorable statements. When he lost to General Eisenhower in 1962, he borrowed a quip from Abraham Lincoln: "Someone once asked Lincoln how he felt after losing an election: 'I felt like a little boy who stubbed his toe. He was too old to cry, and it hurt too much to laugh.'"

After losing a local election early in his career, Lincoln said: "If the good people, in their wisdom, shall elect to keep me in the background, I have been too familiar with disappointments to be very much chagrined."

In 1948, after his headquarters had predicted victory as late as 1:30 p.m.; Gov. Thomas E. Dewey swallowed hard and said simply that he was "surprised" by Harry Truman's victory but that he had "no regrets" for having run a second time for the Presidency.

Wendell Willkie exuded confidence even in defeat. Conceding to Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1940, he told his followers: "I say to you that I have never felt better in my life. I congratulate you on being part of the greatest crusade of this century... and I hope none of you are disheartened or afraid because I am not in the lightest."

Alf Landon was matter-of-fact in his wire to Mr. Roosevelt after losing every state except Maine and Vermont. The 1936 loser declared, "The nation has spoken. Every American will accept the verdict and work for the common cause of the good of our country."

In 1932 Herbert Hoover had wired the newly elected FDR: "Congratulations on the opportunity that has come to you to be of service to the country."

Just as curt was Harry Truman, who saw his candidate, Adlai Stevenson, lose to Ike in 1952. He wired the winner: "Congratulations on your overwhelming victory. You should have a representative meet with the Director of the Budget immediately." (Ike did.)

Woodrow Wilson was probably the only President who admitted defeat but learned later that he had won. At 11 p.m., Wilson had been told how bad things looked; and he said to an aide: "It begins to look as if we have been licked badly. The only thing I'm sorry for, and that cuts me to the quick, is that the people apparently misunderstood us." Sure of his defeat, the President then went to sleep and awakened a winner.

William Howard Taft may have been the best loser in history (he rebounded from his defeat for re-election in 1912 very quickly). When a supporter said to him: "Well, anyway, Mr. Taft, I voted for you," the rotund candidate replied, "Sh-h-h-h! I wouldn't boast about it."

When Grover Cleveland lost to Benjamin Harrison in 1888, he conceded not so gracefully: "I don't feel a bit like a man defeated but only like a member of a defeated party that tried to do something for the country. The fact is that the farmers did not support us, the very people for whom we took our political lives in our hands to save. They were too slow or too bigoted to see the way to their interest and salvation." ♦
