The State Board of Health approved a 5 per cent pay increase for public health nurses when it opened its quarterly meeting Thursday.

GOP Nets Gain In States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Six of the seven biggest states will have Republican governors next January, with the GOP holding a 31 to 19 edge nationwide—the party's biggest majority since the first years of the Eisenhower administration.

In all, Republicans will replace Democratic governors in seven states and there will be Democrats in place of Republicans in two others—for a net GOP gain of five.

Humphrey Gains Thin Vote Margin

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, his narrow presidential triumph cemented by late election returns, chose the privacy of a Florida retreat today to start forming the new Republican administration he hopes will "bring the American people together."

Faced with the most pressing tasks of determining his immediate role in Vietnam peace efforts and picking the men who will guide the nation's destiny for the next four years, Nixon flew from New York to Key Biscayne, Fla., for what was billed as a few days rest.

Nixon Holds Slight Edge In Missouri

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Missouri apparently went with the winner but it will be several days before the final vote for Richard M. Nixon will be known. The regular vote was completed, Nixon edged into a silver-lead over Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey for the state's electoral votes. The margin was so thin it could be changed by the absentee votes which won't be counted until Friday or Saturday—in some cases until Monday.

Italian River Begins To Rise

ROVIGO, Italy (AP) — The Po, Italy's biggest river, rose to the danger level today. Farm homes in the delta lowlands were evacuated. Crews stood ready to repair any breaks in the dikes. The big river across northern Italy was swollen to the level of the disastrous 1906 and 1952 floods by waters pouring from Alpine streams which devastated large sections of Piedmont and Lombardy last week and took more than 100 lives. The dikes have been raised since 1906, but the river was pouring over some of these into sea-level sections of the flatland. Farm families there had already moved out. A 200-yard bridge linking the island village of Polesine Camerino to the mainland collapsed, isolating the village's 1,500 people.

Gooding BPW Club Slates Rummage Sale

GOODING — Members of Gooding BPW Club are planning a rummage sale for Dec. 6 and 7 at the Abe Loeven building on Main Street. They also plan to sell coffee and cake throughout both days.

At a recent meeting members heard reports of the district meeting held recently in Gooding, and Mrs. Milton Jensen, president, expressed her appreciation for help in preparations for the meeting. Mrs. Mildred Bryan was named chairman of the rummage sale with Mrs. Iva Adams as co-chairman. Anyone with rummage-to-donate is asked to contact either of these women or a member of BPW. Guests introduced and welcomed to the meeting were Leslie Jensen, Mrs. Verna Prince, Mrs. Arden Stutzman and Mrs. Gertrude Henderson. Mrs. William Dunham spoke on the qualifications for the Woman of Achievement.

Dick Nixon Will Make The Decisions

WASHINGTON — For better or for worse, Richard Nixon will be a strong President. He will delegate responsibility on administrative matters, but he will make all the big decisions, and he will have the final word on national priorities. If the Vietnam war is not ended by March 30, Nixon's first priority will be to negotiate an end. His position will be that the United States is negotiating from strength, in that the Communists cannot win the war and therefore their only hope is some form of compromise at the peace table. But although he has supported the American commitment in Southeast Asia, he now realizes the massive escalation of the U.S. effort was a mistake, that the American people are opposed to such large-scale adventures abroad. For that reason, he will be much more likely to make concessions to the North Vietnamese government than his campaign speeches indicated. He knows the country cannot move ahead with any semblance of unity until it is written to the Vietnamese in a way that will be acceptable to them. If and when peace is achieved, Nixon plans to announce that future American foreign policy will be predicated on the location of regional security organizations, with the U.S. stepping in only as a last resort. In effect, he will pledge "No more Vietnam."

to the campaign to make the streets safe again. Nixon will name a "tough" Attorney General, with orders to prosecute sociologists, beatniks and pot criminals in jail. He will appoint judges with reputations as hard liners. He will be in a better position to attack organized crime than a Democratic President, since the syndicates' political ties are mostly with Democratic machines. Nixon's No. 3 priority probably will be the anti-poverty program. In the end, he'll probably spend as much on this problem as Hubert Humphrey promised, because he acknowledges that only an infusion of Federal funds can rescue the cities from their present plight. But he will emphasize Black Capitalism, with long-term, low-interest loans and tax incentives for businesses locating in the ghettos. As of now, Nixon plans to end the 10 per cent income surtax when peace is achieved in Vietnam, but some of those close to him say this may not be possible. One reason the retained tax may be to retain the sympathy of the Nixon-is sympathetic with the Defense Department's proposal to add muscle to its nuclear deterrent program. He is seriously concerned about the narrowing gap in missile strength between the U.S. and the Soviet Union. The reason is, the money Nixon wants to spend on law enforcement and the anti-poverty program. With all this, Nixon knows he must do something about inflation, which has seen prices rise by more than 3 per cent a year since 1965. He hopes he can halt the spiral by imposing strict economies in non-essential spending and by spreading the Pentagon's new weapons program over a period of years. Unfortunately, he has no plans for basic tax reforms and, indeed has said flatly he will not seek to end or even reduce such tax levies as the excise tax on oil and gas depletion allowances. Richard Milhous Nixon today is wiser and more self-confident than when he went down to defeat before John Kennedy in 1960. More importantly, he is an authentic centrist, with a good chance of winning support from both the right and the left. He has said he would bring Democrats and independents into his administration and he can be expected to make good on this promise, if only to prove that the Republicans at last have achieved the status of a national party. The secretary is a maker of men, and sometimes of statesmen. In Richard Nixon's case, the security of the office might very well transform this complex politician from a slashing partisan to a Chief Executive with the character to rise above narrow interests. For the past four years he has done more than anyone else to unify the Republican Party. He was near the center, a power broker in an era when a Vice President who participated in White House decision-making. Given the shelter of the Presidency, he has the advantage that after so many long and bitter years on the outside he is the people's choice. Nixon could press the case for the more authority of the office. He has the intelligence and the force and the self-discipline. Now he is obliged to prove that he also has the compassion.

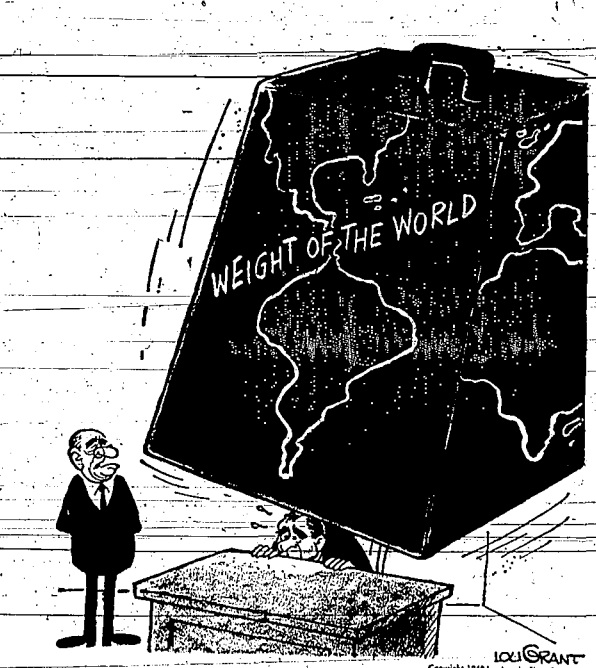

Japan-U.S. Trade

Japanese-American trade relations may be headed for rough sledding. The Japan of yesterday, in which the nation was struggling to recover from World War II and its primitive industries were slowly being brought up to date, is no more. Japan today is one of the most prosperous trading nations in the world, a leader in some major industries. It is now the foremost shipbuilding nation, and possesses one of the most modern tanker fleets. Its automobile industry has grown phenomenally and is actively invading foreign markets. But the Japan of today still lives under the protective trade barriers of yesterday, and the rest of the world is beginning to complain. Because of this protectionism, the United States finds itself more and more at a disadvantage in competing with Japan, not only abroad but at home. Because of tariffs and taxes, a standard American car costs $5,000 in Japan; consequently, a lot of cars are sold in Japan. In contrast, Japan has been exporting two models to the United States in increasing numbers, both of which sell for less than $2,000 here. American bourbon, for which the Japanese have developed a liking, costs $13 a bottle for the cheaper varieties in Japan, because of high protective taxes. An American 19-inch color television set costs $1,000 in Japan, compared to $450 for a comparable Japanese make. So the comparisons go down a long list of commodities. American manufacturers have a right to demand equal treatment from the developed trading nations of the world. It is time Washington recognized the economic facts of life, not only in relations with Japan but with other nations which discriminate similarly.

Immigration

Last year saw a change in the long-standing flow of immigration between the United States and Canada. More Americans are going north and fewer Canadians are coming south. The explanation is in the age groups migrating from the two countries. Last year 2,451 American males in the 20-29 age group went to Canada. Only 1,981 Canadians of that age went to the United States. This was a reversal in the traditional flow of these men in the twenties and resulted from the draft riots in major American cities and rising affluence in Canada. Total migration between the two countries has been narrowing for five years, down from a ratio of almost five Canadians to each American to nearly an even swap last year. It is obvious the United States is no longer depicting itself favorably to its northern neighbor.

Israel Has Mined The Suez

WASHINGTON — A far-reaching surprise is in store for Russia if it attempts to reopen the blocked Suez Canal. It is authoritatively reported the waterway has been heavily mined by Israel. The mines are described by intelligence sources as an extremely sensitive and powerful type that cannot be dislodged or removed by dredging. The mines are understood to have been planted by Israel frogmen the entire length of the canal. It will be no surprise to Israel if the Soviet attempts to reopen the waterway are frustrated. As previously reported in this column, the Reds have been assembling a flotilla of giant dredges, cranes and other equipment at Port Said, at the Mediterranean entrance of the waterway. The purpose can only be to undertake to reopen the canal. Israel seized the eastern bank in its crushing defeat of Arabs in the six-day war in June, 1967. The Suez is blocked by some 15 scuttled, and other vessels, plus nearly 18 months of accumulating debris. Military and intelligence authorities are convinced there is a direct connection between the Arabs, greatly intensified hostilities toward Israel, and Russian power moves in the highly explosive Middle East. Last Saturday's surprise massive attack by Egypt is attributed directly to the Suez. It is definitely known that Russian artillery officers are now serving in Egyptian forces. In addition, the Egyptians have been equipped with the latest type Soviet aiming and gun control devices including radar and computers. These instruments are operated by Russian technicians and experts. An estimated 800 field pieces were employed in the Egyptian surprise artillery attack. They delivered a wide variety of highly sophisticated types of fire—artillery, tank-on-target, rolling barrage, zone fire and area saturation. The unprovoked artillery attack, the most intense and accurate ever unleashed by the Egyptians, caught Israeli troops

JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Those Flat Feet

Dear Dr. Molner: My daughter has the flattest feet I ever saw. They hurt her almost constantly. Is there anything that can be done to give her relief?—E.H.M. I wish you'd mentioned your daughter's age and how long she's had the condition. There's a difference between a merely flat foot and a painful flat foot. Some people with flat feet get around comfortably and quite spryly, and there is little if any point in trying to do anything about it. They are serviceable. A painful flat foot is another story. Something usually can be done about it. The human foot consists of 26 bones, artfully arranged by nature to bear a person's weight evenly. Each foot has two arches, one lengthwise and another arch behind the toes and positioned sidewise. Either or both may be flattened. Damage to either may, obviously, exert strain on the other. The precise balance of the architecture of the foot can be disturbed by disorders of the bones, by weakening of muscles or tendons in the foot, by injury, overweight, arthritis — or some combination of them. In your daughter's case, the flat feet may be congenital. From the above it must be clear that trying to lift up some simple home remedy for painful flat feet is groping in the dark. You can waste years trying this and that notion and have no success. The painful feet should be examined by a specialist in foot problems, an orthopedist or a podiatrist. Corrective treatment, correctly chosen, often is effective. Corrective treatment may be a habit's frequently helps. If weight is excessive, losing it is going to help. Exercise with various exercises for strengthening muscles rising on the toes, rocking on the feet, curling toes over the edge of a telephone book, or walking on tiptoe, walking toe-in on a plank, etc. My orthopedist may recommend. Use of a Thomas heel on shoes can correct the balance and make the feet more comfortable. A metatarsal bar on the shoe may be recommended. But note that I did not suggest the commonly-used "arch support," which may help, it may do anything to correct the basic trouble, and will leave the patient dependent on continued use. But before you try any of my foregoing suggestions, get professional advice as to what is wrong and what can be done to help. Dear Dr. Molner: I am 12 1/2 years old, 5 feet 1/2 inches and weigh about 135 pounds. I am desperate to lose weight but have weak will-power. My mother won't let me go to a doctor because she doesn't think I'm that fat. How do you suggest I lose weight without going to the doctor?—T.D. By cutting out eating between meals, by eating only half a dessert or none at all, by avoiding fats and fried foods and greasy and cream sauces, by getting a lot more exercise than you do. Might as well start doing will-power now. You'll need it for the next 40 or 50 years. I don't have to tell you, do I, to avoid all candy and go easy on all starches? Are you bothered with ringing in the ears? If so, Dr. Molner in care of this newspaper for the booklet, "Ear Noises — Their Causes and Cures," on which you may request 25 cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Dr. Molner welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the volume of mail received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in this column whenever possible.

Will Ho Step Up Terrorism?

WASHINGTON (NSA) — In building the bombing of North Vietnam, President Johnson is gambling on a Joint Chiefs of Staff assessment that Ho Chi Minh's main line armies have been defeated and do not have the capacity to carry out indefinitely meaningful major attacks in the south. These estimates indicate that the war strain on Ho's manpower is too great, that the caliber of his troops is deteriorating and that he is not capable of moving the large amounts of arms and materiel required when faced with continued U.S. bombing of the Ho Chi Minh trails in Laos and South Vietnam and the repeated destruction of his major supply dumps in the south. This is why the President has decided to do what some of his advisers have argued against—agreeing to Ho's terms, a bombing halt with no concessions in return. For Ho has promised nothing. He has not agreed to de-escalate the war, to stop infiltrating troops and arms, to reduce terror in the cities or to kill fewer Americans. He is at liberty to increase the pace of the war if he chooses. U.S. military men, however, believe that North Vietnam will be forced to de-escalate out of sheer exhaustion. But Ho's will continue to die. In fact, the President is gambling that Ho's military capabilities are being eroded by conventional military invasion of South Vietnam. He has been correct. He must now raise a future-scale underground subversion and guerrilla war as urged by Pol Pot. These documents are known to the public. What they would later alter the whole character of the war. Through it, in fact, does things they will bring a sharp increase in terrorism, assassinations, political subversion, economic sabotage and violence of the type that led to the downfall of the type Saigon governments in the past. That is, Ho will return to the complex of operations which proved so successful in 1960. These plans anticipate a long war. But they would also be a major decrease in big-unit military operations.

MR. SPECTATOR Look, Man, No Voters!

Mr. Spectator — And you folks, too — are living in what will someday be known as the 20th century. It is so wonderful that I'll be a limb and predict that in the not too far distant future we will not even have to go to the polls. Reason? — The machines that are now working and which will be more perfected as time rolls on. The machine is the computer. And pretty soon the machine will be able to do a lot easier to stay home and vote at the polls. In other words you will not even have to vote at all. Just stay home and look and listen. And pretty soon you will come on the screen and announce who the President is. Nothing to it — no fuss, no bother, no need to vote at all. The sophisticated voting tabulating machine — the computer — is getting was shown by the election results that were tabulated Tuesday of this week. It is a machine that will vote for the state — and the Presidential vote was announced after only seven percent of the vote had been counted. In fact, in one case, the winner was announced with only four percent of the total vote in that state tabulated. Before we even got through voting in Idaho — and the west — you could get a fairly good idea of who was gaining enough votes to win. Now a lot of newspapermen would be against this progress but not Mr. Spectator. It will be a lot easier to stay home and do nothing than to work all night tabulating the results. Like said — might not be necessary to go to the polls at all? The machine will be able to tell you who you would have voted if you had gone, add up the expected results and give you the winner with less than the hour. Of course, it will be a little hard to do it this way in the local contests — the contests in the various counties of Magic Valley. But then, perhaps that will not be important at all when the coming years come around because everything will be run from Washington and there will be no need for local senators and representatives, local law enforcement officials, local commissioners or local anything else. So, friends, we are all living in the dawn of a wonderful age. Come to think of it, it might get so wonderful that we will not even need the machines to add up the votes because we will need no President because there will be no people. And that attention should be the ultimate!

DARNED-GOOD SHOW It is a flight of fancy to expect that U.S. policemen, like their British counterparts, will ever reach a mutual disarmament treaty with the underworld. Americans remain too wedded to their weapons. But they might profitably study how the London police handled the recent orgy of demonstrations by the anti-Vietnam war and anti-American groups, whose behavior was not appreciably more refined than that of our own peace-lovers in Chicago. The Bobbies did not even reach for their truncheons (the only weapons they carry), but literally used body English to line the unruly crowd up. A thin blue line of 50 of them prevented one mob from rushing the American embassy. In so doing, they took a lot of lumps and missed the satisfaction of cracking a lot of hairy heads. They also won a clear-cut moral victory over the anarchists. While brilliantly reinforcing their means image as first-class, professional lawmen. LOST AIRMAN Dear Mr. Spectator: During World War II I served with the 334th Fighter Squadron of the Fourth Fighter Group. We were based on the Diddon Drome near Saffron Walden, Essex, England for almost three years. The first reunion of the survivors of the original Fourth Group was held last June. The next reunion is planned for 1970, and the Committee has completed plans, and a definite time and place has been established. My job is to locate and advise additional survivors of our plans for 1970. There was a fellow in the Group by the name of John E. Fisher and I'm one of his boys. We're Twin Falls, Idaho. If it is possible for you to obtain the current address of the above mentioned man, or the name and address of someone you are sure has the same last name, will you please list the information and mail it at your earliest convenience. We have been successful in our contacts with local senators and representatives and the Mayors of many municipalities. My sincere thanks to you for your cooperation, and all the best of everything to you and your loved ones. Leroy A. Nitzsche 6204 Lincoln Court St. Louis, Mo. 63123.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS! Girls at Harvard College, next door to Columbia University in New York City, are demanding that the administration allow dormitory residents to make their own rules regarding male visitors in their rooms. The girls are willing to abide by the regulation that all men must be signed in and out but don't want any further time set that the men must leave. The present rule makes it midnight. In a recent confrontation, 91 of 200 girls who had dormitory residents signed out to have male guests did not sign them out until the wee hours. The interesting thing is that many of the girls who signed out men in their rooms, they just wanted to join the protest for the principle of the thing. Evidently, the thinking is that where there's a way, there's a woman combating it. Evening News, 11/7/68.

DEEPER CANYON

The more the story spreads the deeper it gets! Member Elmer Knevel, who intends to jump the Snake River Canyon north of Twin Falls by using a motorcycle. Well, Sports Illustrated carried a little story about the proposed attempt the other day. The magazine reported that the fellow had given up plans to jump the Grand Canyon because of government regulations. He will, however, still plan the Snake River jump. And some jump it will be! The magazine reports that the jump will be a mile in length (now get this) over the 700 foot canyon!! Last time Mr. Spectator heard about it the canyon was still about 400 feet deep. Elmer must be cutting awfully fast, nowadays!

HUGE PILES OF DIRT close First Avenue West in Glenns Ferry and traffic is being detoured onto the Fourth Avenue Bldge to the north. The confusion is caused by construction of a lagoon-type disposal system for the city's sewer system. The project is estimated to cost some $300,000, with $250,000 coming from a bond issue approved by local voters.

Republicans May Capture Maryland

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Republicans nursed a faint hope today that "Maryland, home state of Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew, still might wind up in the GOP column. The glimmer of hope was based on the counting of 36,000 absentee ballots which could erase the 18,000-vote margin given Hubert H. Humphrey in the unofficial returns from Tuesday's voting. But it would take about 28,000 of these ballots for Nixon-Agnew to give the GOP state Maryland's 10 electoral votes. Counting started in some counties on Wednesday along with the official tally of Tuesday's votes. There was no indication when the final result would be known. Nixon carried 20 of Maryland's 23 counties for a total of 502,059 votes in Tuesday's balloting. But Humphrey, riding the crest-wave of Democratic votes in Baltimore City, pulled into the lead with 519,797 votes. Third-party candidate George C. Wallace had 177,514 votes.

Alaskan Tally Gives Nixon Edge

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — President-elect Richard M. Nixon held a 1,000-vote edge in Alaska Thursday as results from Tuesday's election continued to trickle in from isolated "bush" precincts and the state prepared to count about 7,000 absentee votes. With a record 70,000 votes tallied, results from some 75 outlying districts and from Friday's absentee count will decide the allocation of Alaska's three electoral votes. State election officials explained that severe radio interference had stalled returns in the Senate was reduced. The governor also was disappointed by voter rejection of an $18-million bond issue for the state ferry system, the subject of controversy since Hickey authorized purchase of a Swedish ferry liner. The federal Jones Act prohibits the ferry from carrying passengers between U.S. ports.

RECIPIENT DIES VALPARAISO, Chile (AP) — Marie Elena Penaloza, 25, Chile's first heart transplant patient, died today and a hospital spokesman said death was caused by a general brain infection.

Survey Indicates Wallace Campaign Diverts Democratic Votes, Helps Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. G. Wallace's third-party effort for the presidency appears to have played a substantial part in putting Republican Richard M. Nixon in the White House.

The votes he pulled in five key industrial states—California, Illinois, New Jersey, Ohio and Wisconsin—could have had the effect of nudging these states and their 121 electoral votes into Nixon's column.

Wallace appears to have pulled much of his support from blue-collar union workers. They usually support Democrats.

It is true that the five Southern states—the former Alabama governor—were registered strong Nixon territory before Wallace came along but his electoral votes total only 45. So the votes he pulled away from Nixon in the South may have been far fewer than those he denied to Hubert H. Humphrey.

Although the third-party candidate ran a weak third in their states, Democratic leaders in California, Illinois and New Jersey attributed the Humphrey's loss of their states' 33 electoral votes to the Wallace candidacy.

In Ohio and Wisconsin, with 38 electoral votes, politicians were less sure of Wallace's impact.

Gov. Richard J. Hughes of New Jersey said the results in his state were "a victory for Wallace and the hate vote, not a victory for Nixon or Humphrey."

Late, unofficial results put Nixon 54,000 votes ahead of Humphrey but Wallace polled some 253,000 votes.

Hughes said it would be difficult to say how many of those people voted for Nixon.

"But Leon Cooper, the new national committeeman and Humphrey's state chairman, disagreed, calling Wallace's vote 'of nuisance value. It made the election closer, but that's about all.'"

In Illinois, where Wallace polled 336,000 and Nixon was leading by 74,000, William Flanagan of the All-Illinois Committee for Hubert H. Humphrey-Eugene McCarthy said "Obviously the Wallace vote cut both ways, but also obviously it cut into the Humphrey vote more. It could have made the difference."

In Wisconsin, where Wallace's total of 326,000 was about double Nixon's margin, John Schmitt, president of the state AFL-CIO, said he could not guess at this stage which candidate was hurt most by Wallace.

In Ohio, there was mixed reaction. Frank Kifer, president of the state AFL-CIO and Senate Democratic leader said "I think many of the Wallace votes would have gone to Nixon anyway." But a Cincinnati Republican leader, David Bodley, said most of the Wallace vote in that area came from blue-collar, normally Democratic wards in the inner city.

A deadlock for control of the Oregon Senate has been caused by a Republican gain of three seats.

The new lineup will be 14 Republicans, 13 regular Democrats and 3 conservative Democrats.

In the House, the Democrats gained two seats, but the Republicans will still control it, 38-22.

The Republicans, who haven't controlled the Senate since 1955, hope they can pick up enough Democratic votes to win the Senate presidency.

A coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats, governing the Senate since 1961, guided the presidency each time to a conservative Democrat.

The balance of power lies with three conservative Democrats, who are Senate President E.D. Potts, Grants Pass; Harry Bolvin, Klamath Falls; and Glenn Huston, Lebanon.

They hope that the GOP will give their votes to one of the three. Potts wants the job again.

Al Fiegel, Roseburg, leader of the regular Democrats, hopes to become president, too. But the conservatives, now they won't support him, they won't all three of their votes.

Sen. Anthony Yurri, Ontario, appears to be the Republican choice for Senate President. Sen. Victor Atiyeh, Revere, also is in the running.

In 1967, when there was a 15-15 tie, the Senate voted for 11 days to break the deadlock before giving the presidency to the increased GOP strength in the Senate indicates a sales tax relief measure.

The sales tax was passed by the House last year, but failed in the Senate by a single vote. The increased GOP strength in the Senate indicates a sales tax relief measure.

Tax Panel Urges Appeals Board

BOISE (AP)—The Idaho Legislature's interim tax study committee Wednesday recommended that next year's legislature consider creating a tax appeals board and review the tax duties and operation of the State Tax Commission.

The committee adopted its final report to the 40th Legislature, incorporating in it special provisions on tax appeals. It also recommended that utility-owned and other types of property be included in the tax commission's jurisdiction.

One recommendation of Denver consultant Max Arnold was that a state department of property valuation be created to handle assessment of property and natural resources for taxation purposes.

Instead of such a department, a suggestion was made that the tax commission—a four-member full-time body—have jurisdiction over all tax matters, with a separate appeals body to handle tax protests.

State Rep. Joe Preston, R-Rigby, questioned the need for an appeals board. He said he remembered that when the tax commission was made a full-time group last year, part of its duties were to be hearing appeals.

Rep. H. Fred Koch, R-Boise, committee chairman, said "Our concern has been that they are sitting in judgment of their own work."

Max Yost, executive manager of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho, said administration of Idaho's tax system had shown that a state department of property valuation be created to handle assessment of property and natural resources for taxation purposes.

JOY AND DISMAY are registered by Janet Capazo, a campaign worker for Hubert Humphrey, as she watches the results of Tuesday's election being posted on Wednesday at Washington, D. C., headquarters of the Democratic National Committee. Janet displays varying emotions as wires are posted from the various states, and as the apparent outcome seems to set a new balance between Humphrey and his Republican rival and eventual winner, Richard M. Nixon. (AP wirephoto)

Suit Hits Closing Of School

STILES, Ida. (AP)—Eighty-two parents of school-age children filed a suit Tuesday against the trustees of School District 241, contending the decision to close the Stiles elementary school was illegal.

The parents, all Stiles residents, ask in the Second District Court suit that the trustees be enjoined from closing the school. Plans call for the Stiles students to attend Koskia Elementary School, three miles away.

The suit, filed at Grangeville, asks the court to void an Aug. 12 election in which the consolidation was approved. The parents contend the plan is unconstitutional because there is no provision for judicial review of the actions of the trustees.

They contend the authority to maintain and discontinue schools is legislative in nature and that the trustees have only administrative powers.

Shuns Parole

POINT OF THE MOUNTAIN, Utah (AP)—A state parole board today refused to show up for a parole hearing.

Larry W. Morris, executive secretary of the Utah Board of Pardons, said the board continued Belcher's hearing for another year. George W. Lattin, chairman, said if the other alternative was to let Belcher stay in prison.

Ailing Woman Loses Son Despite Pleas Of Many To Keep Him From War Duty

DETROIT (AP)—"Nobody would listen," 22-year-old Judy Yokes said emotionally Wednesday as she recalled frantic, vain attempts to get her soldier brother an assignment close to home to care for his sick, widowed mother.

Army Spec. 4 Frank J. Yokes, her 21-year-old brother, died in Vietnam last Saturday from wounds inflicted by enemy small arms fire as he fought to help out a Marine detachment near Saigon.

"The draft board, the Army and others were quite sarcastic about the situation," Miss Yokes said of efforts to have the family's only son stationed near home.

"We were told," she said, "that he'd have to go to Vietnam because they said he didn't have a brother over there and because I could stay home and help my mother."

"And that was after more than 50 telegrams had gone to Washington from relatives and others who understood the circumstances."

Miss Yokes is an illustrator for the Fisher Body division of General Motors Corp. She has two sisters. Her father died five years ago, and her mother has had a heart condition and other illness much of her life, the daughter said.

"Last July, before he was sent to Vietnam," she said, "we requested a re-commissionary assignment, close to home."

As a sole son, Yokes had been told when he was drafted in August, 1967, that he would not be given frontline duty, Miss Yokes continued.

But after a short assignment in Munich, Germany, and brief stints at bases near Detroit—because his mother was in a hospital—Miss Yokes said her brother was sent to Vietnam as a member of the First Cavalry.

"I can't blame anybody for what's happened," she added, "but I believe that a sole surviving son shouldn't have to go to war. There's just no one else to carry on the family name."

Rampton Calls Conference To Draft New Liquor Bill

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Utah's governor has called a summit meeting on liquor legislation in Utah following the 2 to 1 defeat of a proposal to liberalize the state liquor laws.

Liquor legislation A, to legalize liquor by the drink, fell by a 144,239 to 270,132 vote in Tuesday's general election, ending months of propaganda and bickering among proponents and opponents.

Backers of the bill argued Utah's current liquor laws are unenforceable and liquor by the drink would bring greater investment in tourist facilities and improve Utah's economy.

The leading opponent, the Mormon Church, which claims 70 per cent of Utah's population, members, opposed the bill on moral grounds as church teaching forbids any consumption of alcohol.

But during the last month, opposition was increasingly directed to the practical aspects of specific sections of the bill.

Gov. Calvin L. Rampton, re-elected Tuesday, reminded the citizen's committee which opposed the bill that it had promised to "present a liquor bill which they feel will improve upon our present law."

Rampton said Wednesday in about 10 days he would call a meeting of proponents and opponents of the bill to discuss the terms of both parties "to see if we can come up with a realistic liquor control bill that will be accepted in the best interests of the people of the state and particularly of our youth."

Other parties also called for an open hearing on the problems with Utah's liquor distribution system. Liquor legally may be purchased only from state stores, but practically is available by the drink at private clubs—a system often called "liquor by the wink."

Mormon Church President David O. McKay said he was pleased with the defeat of the proposal, and added: "I am satisfied that what has been accomplished is in the best interests of the people of the state and particularly of our youth."

Now let the legislature solve the problems in the present law," Thomas T. Taylor, chairman of the group supporting the petition, said "We accept the frequently expressed statement of the opposition that they will meet with those who supported the initiative to aid the legislature in developing a realistic, enforceable revision of our present antiquated liquor laws."

Train Wreck Spills Bombs Near Provo

PROVO, Utah (AP)—Removal of bombs and explosives was hoped to be completed today in the clean-up of an accident in which 42 cars were derailed.

Removal of the Denver and Provo Grande Western Railroad freight train Tuesday night resulted in residents in a two-square-mile area being evacuated for fear gas escaping from three tankers of butane would explode.

Fire broke out in one of the derailed cars and threatened the tankers and five box cars containing bombs, ammunition and detonators.

The danger lessened by Wednesday morning and families were allowed to return to their homes near the derailment in southeastern Provo.

Railroad officials said no attempt would be made to remove the tank cars until all the gas from the ruptured car had been dispersed. The Provo City Fire Department kept a continuous stream of water on the derailed tank cars to speed up dispersion and reduce the danger of gas being ignited.

Fire Chief Stan Brown said more than a half-dozen cars carried new autos.

A railroad spokesman said no immediate cost estimate could be made of the damage.

Union Pact Challenged By Employes

DE SOTO, Kan. (AP) — A union shop contract between Hercules, Inc., and about a dozen craft unions at the Sunflower Army ammunition plant is being challenged by a right-to-work group at the plant.

Hercules operates the plant under contract with the government, and employs about 3,000. Notices were posted at the plant Oct. 9, informing hourly workers of a contract with the unions. Under the contract, all hourly workers must join the union after a 30-day period of employment.

The so-called closed shop is illegal under Kansas law but the unions claim the law does not apply in the Sunflower plant because it is located on federal property.

A. J. Helmick, chairman of the Sunflower Employes for Right to Work, said petitions are being circulated among employees asking the National Labor Relations Board to call a deauthorization election.

Agnew To Rest After Election

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew plans to spend the rest of the week clearing his desk of the paper work that has been accumulating since his campaign began, then take some time off in the Virgin Islands.

The Maryland governor told a small group of party faithful Wednesday afternoon when results of the 1968 election finally crystallized—that "today is a time for celebration and rededication."

"Let all Americans share in this moment of rededication by rejecting partisanship and repudiating extremism," he said.

"The goal is not to destroy, but to create a better America."

"Now the time of competition is past and the time for cooperation begins. I welcome this moment when we begin the very real task of reuniting America with fresh vision under new leadership," he said.

was negotiated without consent or knowledge of non-union workers, Helmick said, and his group is asking only that the agreement be dissolved.

President To Relax At 'Key'

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Only minutes had passed since he was declared the president-elect of the United States, but already Richard M. Nixon was packing his bags. He was leaving New York right away, he said, for Key Biscayne in Florida.

For 17 years, this tight little tropical island has been Nixon's favorite hideaway—the place where he always comes to celebrate the victories and contemplate the setbacks of an up-and-down political career.

And, unless all signs fail, it will for the next four years be the site of the nation's "Little White House."

During his numerous visits here, Nixon has stayed at the Key Biscayne Hotel, on grounds of the Key Biscayne Hotel; at the home of C. G. (Bebe) Rebozo, a long-time friend, and at the home of Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., adjacent to the Rebozo home.

It was here that Nixon came in despair in 1950, to lick his wounds after a narrow defeat by President John F. Kennedy. It was here that Kennedy sought him out and, in a dramatic meeting, accepted his congratulations.

It was here that Nixon went into seclusion to draft plans for the final two-week blitz campaign that enabled him to stave off the late rush of Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. And it was here that he refused Wednesday night in the moment of his greatest triumph.

Key Biscayne is a palm-studded beauty spot where peace and solitude can be found only 15 minutes by car from the bright lights of Miami.

There is a legend that Ponce de Leon went ashore on the island in 1513 and named it Santa Maria. Certainly it was used by the buccaners preying on the treasure ships of the Spanish main. A red brick lighthouse still standing on the beach was erected in 1825 to foil the wreckers who lured ships onto the offshore reefs and stripped them bare.

In 1902, William J. Matheson bought a large piece of the island, planted a 1,000-acre coconut plantation, and began playing host to millionaire yachtsmen sailing down from the north.

Oddly, for almost the next half century, Key Biscayne was totally overlooked by Florida land developers. In 1925, after a quarrel was built from the mainland, the Mackle Co. erected a few villas midway on the eight-mile-long beach facing the Atlantic.

That same year, looking for a place to rest after a tough California campaign, Nixon moved into one of the villas after being brought to the island by Sen. George Smathers of Florida.

It was during this first visit that Nixon formed one of his closest personal friendships. Smathers introduced him to Rebozo, now a 55-year-old Key Biscayne bank president, and Rebozo took him fishing.

They became so close that on election day in 1960, Rebozo was the only person invited to the Nixon hotel suite in Los Angeles. As Nixon sat in a darkened room watching Kennedy's

Muskie Denies Top-Post Hopes

WATERVILLE, Maine (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, the defeated Democratic vice-presidential nominee, says the campaign didn't generate any personal presidential ambitions for 1972.

But the Maine junior senator told newsmen Wednesday, "I suspect I have to consider it because you guys keep posing the question."

Wearing slacks and a windbreaker for a game of golf after his brief news conference, Muskie said he planned to return with his family to Washington today, because his children have to return to school.

After receiving word of the Republican victory Wednesday, Muskie sent a message to Vice President-elect Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, offering "congratulations and good wishes."

Then Muskie told newsmen that the Democrats, in the majority in Congress, will "focus on our responsibility now as the party of opposition."

Police Query Two Brothers In Slay Case

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Two young brothers, described by police as transients from the Chicago area, were booked on suspicion of murder Wednesday night in the bludgeon death of silent screen lover Ramon Novarro.

Paul Robert Ferguson, 22 and his 17-year-old brother, Thomas Scott Ferguson, were arrested in Bell Gardens, just southeast of downtown Los Angeles.

"After checking out the physical evidence, we decided we had enough of a case to ask for indictments," police Lt. G. W. Lauretzen said.

No further hint of "the physical evidence" or what led officers to the brothers was disclosed.

The older Ferguson arrived in the Los Angeles area about five months ago, Lauretzen said, and was arrested Wednesday night in a restaurant. His brother was taken into custody at the home of a friend with whom he had been staying. Police said Thomas ran away from their mother's home in Round Lake, Ill., three weeks ago.

The 33-year-old Novarro died in a fierce, blood-spattered battle that raged through three rooms of his luxurious home in North Hollywood.

JACKIE SAILS

ATHENS (AP) — Aristocrat Onassis and the former Jacqueline Kennedy sailed from their private island off Greece's Ionian coast today for a two-week cruise of the Greek islands.

Victory unfolded on television, Rebozo stayed with Pat Nixon and the girls.

In 1952, the Mackle Co. put up 1,000 homes in the island's interior.

Wealthy visitors began to move to the island and now with more than $100 million worth of hotels and apartments under construction or scheduled and beachfront property selling at $1,000 a front foot, the complex is rapidly changing.

Nixon bought two beachside lots last year. He has announced no building plans, but the islanders will lay odds that a Little White House will go on them.

Indonesia Arrests 600 For Red Ties

JAKARTA (AP) — An Indonesian general says 600 men in his division have been arrested in the last few months on charges of having links with the Communist underground in East Java, where a Communist comeback earlier this year failed.

Maj. Gen. Mohammad Jasin, military commander of East Java, made the disclosure at a conference of the Indonesian Muslim Party (PMI) in Malang, East Java, earlier this week. He said the arrests, which included members of his personal staff, were made throughout his area "to clean it up."

Jasin ordered the wave of arrests after conducting military operations in which some 2,000 Communists were killed. President Suharto has described the Communist offensive in East Java as "a third attempt at revolution."

Japan Students Clash With Police

TOKYO (AP) — More than 3,000 radical students protesting the U.S.-Japan security treaty clashed with riot police tonight when they tried to break into the official residence of Prime Minister Eisaku Satoh.

About 10,000 police used tear gas and water guns to repel the students, who wore steel helmets and were armed with wooden staves.

Police said more than 50 students were arrested on charges of violence and obstructing the police. About 20 students appeared to be injured.

The students marched past the U.S. Embassy before they clashed with the police near the prime minister's residence.

Write-It Winner Plans To Resign

ALAMOGORDO, N.M. (AP) — The owner of Alamogordo radio station KATG, Terry Clark, was elected Otero County mayor. But he says he'll resign because he doesn't want it and isn't qualified.

There were no candidates running for the office and two of Clark's friends wrote him in. Three other persons, none of them qualified, received one vote each.

Journalism will follow the banquet Saturday evening.

FORCED FROM THEIR HOMES by Viet Cong infiltration, a Montagnard tribesman leaves his traditional village on his private elephant, with a two-year-old daughter trotting alongside. The man and 200 other residents had returned to their village after three months spent away harvesting their rice crop, part of which is contained in bags on the elephant's back. But they must now leave again—refugees of the continuing Vietnam War. (AP wirephoto)

Viet Losses Rise In Week As 150 Die

SAIGON (AP) — Combat casualties in Vietnam increased last week, the U.S. and South Vietnamese commands reported today, but they still were at a lower level than in the weeks of heavier fighting earlier in the year.

The U.S. Command said 150 Americans were killed in action last week, compared with 109 the previous week and 100 the week before.

There were 1,214 Americans wounded last week, with 429 requiring hospitalization, the U.S. Command said. The number of wounded during the previous week totaled 717.

South Vietnamese headquarters reported 129 government soldiers killed last week, 684 wounded and 16 missing in action, compared with 103 killed, 578 wounded and two missing the week before.

The allied commands said 1,383 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese were reported killed last week and increased the previous weeks' enemy toll from 1,285 to 1,305.

The report raised to 29,184 the number of Americans killed in the Vietnam war since Jan. 3, 1961, while the total number of wounded reported is 183,349, of whom 95,880 were hospitalized. Another 1,217 Americans are listed as missing, captured or interned.

The U.S. Command said a total of 41,358 of the enemy have been reported killed since Jan. 1, 1961.

Trial-On-Tap

POCATELLO (AP) — A Pocatello justice of the peace says a December trial date will be set for Arthur J. Nelson, 61, of Rosewood, a precinct constable accused of electioneering at the polls during the general election.

Nelson entered a plea of innocent Wednesday in an appearance before Justice of the Peace R. Don Blaine.

The complaint against Nelson was signed by George Phillips, a Pocatello attorney, who alleged Nelson attempted to influence him in a write-in campaign for county assessor.

Woman Slugs German Leader

BERLIN (AP) — A woman rushed up to West German Chancellor Kurt Georg Kiesinger today and hit him in the face while he was signing autographs at his Christian Democratic party's convention in West Berlin.

Apparently prompted by the incident, the convention gave the chancellor a standing ovation approving a motion of confidence.

The woman was led out of the convention hall for questioning. A party spokesman said she was Beate Klarsfeld, a German-born French citizen who made headlines months ago when she shouted "Nazi Kiesinger" during a session of the West-German Parliament.

Mrs. Klarsfeld was a secretary of the French-German Youth Movement but was fired after she criticized Kiesinger for his alleged Nazi past.

Malaysians Say Philippine Jets 'Violate' Area

KUALA LUMPUR, (AP) — Two Philippine air force jet fighters violated Malaysian air space Tuesday, the Malaysian foreign ministry charged today.

It said the incident occurred just off the west coast of Sabah, the Malaysian state in North Borneo, claiming that the Philippine jets were flying too close to a break in relations because of the dispute.

The two planes, Northrop F-5Hs, entered within Malaysian air space, the announcement said, and for four minutes circled within 1,000 yards of the Malaysian naval vessel Negri Sembilan.

Philippine officials denied the Malaysian charge.

Postage Stamps Give Art Masters Wide Publicity

By MILES A. SMITH
AP Arts Editor
More than two dozen of the masterpieces of painting in the National Gallery of Art, Washington, have been reproduced so many times that the museum probably holds some sort of record for the circulation of its art works.
There are the regular reproductions suitable for framing, of course, which have been published in many thousands of copies, and there are many reproductions in art books, but the real volume reproduction lies in the postage stamps that the United States and several foreign countries have issued from time to time.
The most-circulated work of art from this museum at present is Hans Memling's "Madonna and Child with Angels," dating from about 1480. It was issued as a five-cent Christmas stamp for 1966 and again in 1967—in each year it sold more than 2 billion copies.

Another Flemish masterpiece, Jan van Eyck's "Annunciation," has been chosen for the six-cent Christmas stamp of 1968. It will show only the angel.

Thus far only one other religious theme has been issued as a stamp from the works of art at the National Gallery. In 1955 the United States made a five-cent postage stamp from "Archangel Gabriel," a water color which Lucille Chabot painted around 1840, showing a weather-vane figure of the angel, atop

Wallace Attends Mentor's Funeral

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—George C. Wallace, his day in the limelight of national politics over at least for the moment, returns to his home county today for the funeral of the man who helped launch his political career.
Wallace planned to go to Eufaula, Ala., to attend the funeral of former Alabama Gov. Clarence Spikes who died Wednesday at the age of 84.
Sparks had hired Wallace as a legislative page in the early 1940s and later as an assistant attorney general. Both men came from sparsely populated Barbour County in eastern Alabama.
With his political future in doubt after unsuccessful bid for the White House on a third-party ticket, Wallace told news- men Wednesday he is going to rest for a while at his home in Clayton, Ala.
"I'm going to sit around the courthouse and the Confederate monument," he said.
Wallace said his immediate goal is to practice law in Alabama and that he does not have any political plans on the state level—at least for the moment.

Utah Reports Surplus In Fund

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—Largely due to Gov. Calvin Rampton's 4 per cent cutback in state spending ordered during the copper strike, Utah had a general fund surplus of $4,735,106 at the end of the biennium, said State Finance Director Herbert F. Smart.
Smart said Wednesday the cutback accounted for saving $2,469,064.
He said the surplus would aid in avoiding a 3 1/2-cent tax at the end of the biennium.
General fund revenues from special taxes included:
Beer $34,409 (down $46,650), tobacco $2,397,377 (down $242,663), sales $56,366,457 (down $2,088,542) and interest on investments $2,174,741 (down $25,238).
A $1,183,195 surplus in the Uniform School Fund.
Total liquor sales in the state were reported at $21,338,712. The cost of the liquor sold was $15,745,468 or 74 per cent of retail sales. The profit on liquor sales was $1.39 million.

Permits Are Approved At Shoshone

SHOSHONE—Building permits were approved at the Shoshone City Council meeting Tuesday night.
They were to F. N. Siewell to add to his home; Mrs. Violet Oneida, a garage remodeling; Omer Shook, carpenter, and Clayton Clifford, new dwelling.
A building permit was granted to Mrs. Minna Jones, Police Judge Norvel Rutherford, reported having collected $24 in fines and fees during the past month.

Police Seize Anti-War Youths

NEW YORK (AP)—Some 400 police moved Tuesday to the Finley Student Center at City College of New York today and seized scores of antiwar sit-ins and a live-aid AVOI, saying they had been gluing.
Police Chief Inspector Sanford D. Garelick said the youths were given a chance to leave first but refused. He said the students were generally "crim- and-or-dorly" during the arrests.
Police said at least 135 were taken to police stations around Manhattan for booking on charges ranging from criminal trespass to disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.
The students had been living at the center in an effort to prevent the arrest of Pvt. William Brinkfield, who has been AWOL from Fort Devens, Mass., for 33 days. He sought sanctuary at the college a week ago.
Police said Brinkfield, 19, of Van Nuys, Calif., was charged with criminal trespass and resisting arrest and was being held for federal authorities.
The students' government plans have been made available to President-elect Richard M. Nixon at his request.
In response to inquiries, press secretary George Christian said in a memorandum: "It was agreed before the election that the president-elect would have appropriate Secret Service protection, facilities, and equipment."

U.S. Provides Plane For Nixon

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—The Texas House said Wednesday that as part of the policy of appointing the transition from one administration to another, a government plane has been made available to President-elect Richard M. Nixon at his request.
In response to inquiries, press secretary George Christian said in a memorandum: "It was agreed before the election that the president-elect would have appropriate Secret Service protection, facilities, and equipment."

110 Per Cent Youths Named At Rupert

RUPERT — The fifth in the weekly series of selections of Minico High School 110 per cent Girls was made this week following the Homecoming game between the Minico Spartans and Mountain Home in Rupert.

Selected, according to Richard Maggard, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce committee making the selections, were Viki McKenzie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Coy McKenzie; Randy Stimpson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Scott Stimpson; and Dan Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Rogers. All three are juniors at the school.

Viki is active in Micadettes, Theatrics, speech, chorus, Skits, FHA and 4-H. She plans to be an airline stewardess following high school graduation.

Her classes this year include psychology, English, shorthand, American history, geology and drama.

Being already played football for seven years, Randy is positioned as tackle on this year's team. He has also been active in track and wrestling and has participated with his church basketball team. He is active in M club, Ski club and 4-H.

Randy's classes include psychology, American history, English and choir.

Being a basketball team is Dan, who has played football for five years. Other activities include FFA, for which he is active in M club, Skits and 4-H.

Courses of study for the youth include American history, algebra II, agriculture, English, and chemistry.

The weekly selections are made to help create public enthusiasm for the Spartan activities and to recognize those who are contributing the most toward conveying that spirit.

Idaho State Park Board To Consider Rupert Plan

By LIZ BOLTON
Times-News Correspondent

RUPERT — The quarterly meeting of the Idaho State Park Board Nov. 14 in Idaho Falls is expected to determine whether or not plans for a city park in Rupert meet with the board's approval.

Should the plans for the Big Valley park in northern Rupert meet with the necessary approval, the city will be eligible for a 50 per cent participation in the cost by the federal government, according to Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson.

The estimated cost for the development of the park is $125,000, which will provide for four playing fields in addition to other recreational facilities and a maintenance building.

The schedule is for a five-year plan of development of the park, which will occur in 11 phases, including the Big Valley subdivision. The land was purchased by the city a year ago.

Plans for the proposed park were prepared by Paul Caldwell, city recreation director; Dave Armstrong, draftsman for Hamilton and Vocler, consulting engineers for the city; and Ron Klebe, city engineer.

Mayor Johnson said he expects to receive the board's opinion sometime in the week following the meeting.

Rupert city councilmen are George MacDonald and Mr. Klebe met with the State Board of Parks and Recreation in McCall in August.

During the initial meeting, the plan presented for the development of the park, also in the hopes the plans would meet the specifications to qualify for participating federal funds.

Because of the specific nature of the project, however, it received a low priority rating. But the state board's interest was impressed with the city's overall program and agreed to schedule the city in the project up to a higher priority rating.

The revised specifications will be the ones presented during the Idaho Falls meeting later this month. No one will be present at the meeting as a representative of the city, Mayor Johnson said, as it is a closed session.

The announcement of the scheduled meeting was made during the meeting.

Musician Pays Record Sale Price

LONDON (AP) — An amateur musician today paid $32,500 for a Stradivarius violin at Sotheby's. The auctioneer said the price was a world record.

The violin was bought by British businessman Jack Morrison who will play it himself.

The previous record price for a violin was paid for another Italian instrument on July 4, 1966. That was a Guarneri and it fetched $31,200.

The instrument sold today once belonged to the famous Italian violinist and composer Giovanni Battista Viotti (1755-1824).

Elephant Boiled

LONDON (AP) — They're boiling an elephant in a steel tank over at Laporte Chemical Industries plant.

The 2,000-pound elephant is preserved and belongs to the Passmore Edwards Museum, which has been trying to figure out ways to strip away the rock-hard hide in order to display the skeleton.

Laporte undertook the job and figured the museum's elephant will be done by Friday.

Ex-Athletes Win Some, Lose Some In Elections; Mizell, Mathias Lead Way

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vinegar Bend is going to Congress. Winner Mizell, the colorful soft-drinking southpaw who used to pitch for the St. Louis Cardinals, will be in the starting lineup in the House when the next Congress opens its season in January.

Mizell, now 38, won election as a freshman Republican from North Carolina by defeating the wealthy heir to a tobacco fortune.

Mizell, the big, barefoot boy from Vinegar Bend, Ala., who hurled seven seasons for the Cardinals, conceded his reputation as a baseball character would precede him to Congress. But he said he didn't think it would hamper his effectiveness.

"I accept this responsibility with sincerity and honesty, and I expect to be judged on that basis," he said Wednesday.

Mizell drew 84,238 votes to 73,000 for Democratic tobacco heir, Smith Bagley, in winning election Tuesday from a new district created by reapportionment in the Winston-Salem area of North Carolina.

Mizell, joining a folksy campaign, reminiscing about his boyhood days in Alabama when he

Soccer Clubs To Sponsor All-Star Team

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The owners of the St. Louis Soccer Stars announced Wednesday that they expected nine other former North American Soccer League teams to join them in organizing an all-star squad.

The squad would play at least four games against foreign stars in each city next summer.

The NASL announced last Friday that the league was dissolving because of financial reasons.

Robert Hermann, Stars' president, said the St. Louis team would be joined by the Chicago American Soccer League team, the Cleveland, Dallas, Oakland, Detroit, Washington, Baltimore and New York teams.

Hermann said the plan would be submitted Saturday to the United States Soccer Football Association in New York.

Airs Games

NEW YORK (AP) — Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the National Baseball Association, said Wednesday that ABC would televise 12 regularly scheduled and five playoff games this season, starting with the Los Angeles at Phoenix contest on Dec. 25, the annual All-Star game at Baltimore on Tuesday, Jan. 14, also will be shown.

Young-May Not Start In San Jose Game

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — Coach C McNease said Wednesday Idaho halfback Rob Young may not start in the Vandals game against San Jose State Saturday.

Young, the Vandals' leading rusher from Orofino, Idaho, is hampered by a bruised knee.

McNease said Jim Wilput, a sophomore from "Coon" d'Alenc, would be Young's replacement.

Idaho will be hoping to improve on its 4-4 season record. San Jose has won two and lost four this year.

McLain Plans Another Winning Year

DETROIT (AP) — Detroit Tiger pitcher Denny McLain, MVP favorite player in the American League, said Wednesday that he won't have any trouble winning again next year if he stays healthy.

"I can stay healthy, I don't fear winning," he said, "I just hope and pray they (Tigers) continue scoring runs."

Detroit fans gave Denny an average of The run a gain to help him to a phenomenal 31-6 record and led the Tigers to their first pennant and first World Series triumph in 23 years.

McLain won one Series game, despite being battered by a shoulder injury, that forced him to take a cortisone shot two days before his victory in order to ease the pain and reduce the inflammation.

"I found a lot better," he said of the shoulder, "and I'm getting a lot of rest. If there is any problem in January I'll get a lot of rest and inflammation out of my shoulder."

Lamonica's Pass Stint Earns Award

NEW YORK (AP) — Darley Lamonica passed for 354 yards in less than three quarters against Kansas City Sunday, completing 18 of 42 passes, tossed for two touchdowns and ran for another himself before he was forced out of the game by a knee injury.

"I was real disappointed when I had to leave," the Oakland quarterback said. "I had my sights set on a lot more completions."

The victory moved Oakland to within one-half game of the Western Division-leading Chiefs. But the Raiders now are more concerned about Darley's left leg, which buckled when line-backer Jim Lynch hit him midway through the third quarter.

"It's not as serious as you thought," Lamonica said. "No cartilage or ligaments were torn. I feel confident I'll be able to play."

But the Raiders would be a lot happier if they knew Lamonica would be ready for Denver Sunday.

Among the other offensive stars last Sunday were Jim Turner, who kicked six field goals for New York, and three runners—Cincinnati's Paul Robinson, who gained 156 yards in 21 carries, Dick Post of San Diego, 151 in 21, and Denver's Floyd Little, 147 in 30.

Richfield-Cambridge And Gooding-Filer Games To Precede Traditional Tilts

It will take four days to do it—but Magic Valley's high school football season comes to an end with five games, culminating in the traditional tilts Monday afternoon.

Filer will be at Gooding in the only Friday game of the week, that one set for 8 p.m. An evening playoff game between Cambridge of the Long Pin conference and Richfield of the Snake-River league is slated for 2 p.m. Saturday at Shoshone. Monday's fare is highlighted by the double championship standard riding matchup at Burley at 10 a.m. in the Minico clash, Borah, the Southern Idaho Conference champion, shoots for an undefeated season by invading the Filer field at 2:30 p.m. and Jerome will be at Burley in a rematch of an earlier game.

Filer goes into the Gooding tilt fresh from a surprise win over the Buhl Indians while Gooding lost its last outing in a 19-14 squeaker at Jerome. Gooding will have to stop Filer's sweeps.

Richfield places its undefeated boast plus the prestige of the Snake River Conference on the line against Cambridge. Cambridge lost its last game of the regular season to Long Pin champion Riggin's and also is expected without one of its top players who is sidelined with an injury.

Richfield built its undefeated record under new Coach John Buhl in an ability to run a pass. It also has been tough defensively and boasts excellent size for such a small school.

The Monday contests are back down to three after some other schools decided against late games. Gooding's opponents were six Veterans Day Games.

This is the one that Minico-Cassia land always waits for—although through the years Cassia has enjoyed its moments. Coach Rulo Burdick and his Burley Bobcats hold a long-time edge over Minico—previously Roper. At one stretch Burley took 13 straight.

Minico, enjoying its best record in years under new coach Corky Hill, is the favorite in this one on the basis of comparative scores. The big thing for the Spartans is beating Burley but a secondary factor will be the Eastern Idaho Conference championship a win would bring.

Burley has a championship stake, too, leading the Cross State Conference where Minico has one loss.

On the face of it, Burley must do one thing—prevent the ball control that Minico has shown this year. The Spartans stick largely to the ground, although John Powell has been throwing some touchdown passes of late.

Burley would like to have Gaylen Honda back, the small, shifty halfback having been injured two weeks ago.

It would appear the game will settle down to this. Burley shouldn't be able to mount a consistent drive on the large Minico defense—but the Bob-

R.C. Owens To Address Twin Falls Athletic Banquet

R.C. Owens, one of the great stars of the National Football League and one of the finest athletes ever to play in Idaho's collegiate circles, will be the featured speaker at the annual Twin Falls High School fall sports award banquet Tuesday night.

Owens, now a public relations representative of J.C. Penney Company, played at College of Idaho, where he starred in football and basketball, and then knew stardom in the NFL as a pass catcher for the San Francisco 49ers and later the Baltimore Colts.

The banquet, slated for 7 p.m. Tuesday in the high school cafeteria, will honor the Twin Falls football and cross country teams.

Owens' talk will concern the extra effort that helped carry him to the top in athletics. He was the top man in the now famous alley-oop pass combination with Y.A. Tittle when both were playing for the 49ers. Later with the Colts Owens batted aside a long kick that seemingly was going to skim over the cross bar and cost the Colts three points.

Although Owens probably is best remembered now for his football exploits, he enjoyed great success as a basketball player in his junior year at College of Idaho. He led the NIAA in scoring and rebounding—a feat never duplicated. As a senior he willingly took responsibility for a freshman at C of I—Elgin Baylor. For those things he has been elected to the NIAA hall of fame.

Once during his college days Owens was injured and out of field action for three weeks. He filled in by becoming the yell leader and leading cheers from the student body.

As a Penney's representative, Owens appears nationally before civic and student groups talking about football and encouraging completion of schooling. He will attend a press luncheon Tuesday afternoon at the Rogerson Coffee shop.

R.C. OWENS former College of Idaho and National Football League star will be the featured speaker at the Twin Falls High School fall sports awards banquet Tuesday night.

Jets Put Claim On Linebacker

NEW YORK (AP)—The New York Jets put in a claim Wednesday for John Neider, a linebacker from the University of Louisville, who was put on waivers by the Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football League.

The Jets will know later in the week if they will get Neider, who might be claimed by a club lower in the standings.

Honsberger Is Pro Match Play Champ

Ray Honsberger, professional at Payette, won the 1968 Idaho pro match play golf championship Wednesday with a 3 and 2 victory over defending champion Ken Sparks of Nampa.

Honsberger seized a two-hole lead over the first nine holes and wrapped it up in a sub-par battle on the backside. "I was a two-runner player in that I was plus and minus points selecting the four semi-finalists.

The tournament, culminating the 1968 season schedule, was played at the Blue Lakes Country Club Monday through Wednesday. The 19 entries played each other on a hole-by-hole basis in the first round. The plus and minus points selecting the four semi-finalists.

Honsberger ousted John Klingenberg of Boise, the larger Creek Country club 2 up in the morning round while Sparks defeated Arnold Hencke of Hillcrest Country Club, Boise, by the same score.

Earl Osterstrom, Idaho Falls, won the consolation 18-hole medal play tournament Wednesday with a 7 and one-stroke edge over host professional Dave Killen. Dave Berrett of Blackfoot had three 17s while Keith Starwood of Ontario and Mike Cerletto of Rexburg tied for fourth.

The other entries and scores included George Guy, Warer, 75; Jim Lagos, Idaho Falls Country Club, 76; Bill Smith, Plantation of Boise, 77; Mike Remick, Highland of Payette, 78; Hugh Jeffries, Twin Falls Municipal, 81; Ken Itatones, Purple Sage of Caldwell, 82; Clyde Thomas, Twin Falls Municipal, 84, and George McAlle, Burley, 85.

Sayers Cited For Running Over Packers

NEW YORK (AP)—On the theory that a man who runs for 205 yards against Green Bay rates the nod over a field goal kicker, even if the latter does win the game, the Associated Press has named Gale Sayers of the Chicago Bears as the offensive player of the week in the National Football League.

Sayers even outdid himself Sunday in Green Bay with 205 yards on 24 carries, his best day since he gained 284 yards in a sophomore's game in Kansas against Oklahoma State.

"We won," said Sayers after the Bears' 13-10 victory, "that's the main thing. It doesn't make any difference how many yards I make. We're leading our division (tied with Minnesota). That's what counts."

In addition to piling up the yardage, Sayers was used as a decoy while others carried the ball. One Chicago score came off when the Packers keyed on Sayers who ran right while quarterback Virgil Carter bootlegged for two yards to the left.

Of course, it was Mike Percival's 63-yard field goal in the final 20 seconds on a free kick that won the game. Percival's streak of 10 consecutive field goals was broken earlier in the game but the former school teacher made it 11 out of 12 with the game-winner.

FORCING BID PRODUCES SLAM

The simple way to play forcing two bids with a part score is to treat them as non-voluntary. Hence, when North went to four spades, he was making a mild slam try. South was deon the second diamond. South, who was something of a show-off, spread his hand and claiming his contract. He remarked, "It was a mighty good slam contract. If West held the club ace or if diamonds broke evenly, it would have been a laydown. As there is an automatic three-suit squeeze for it."

South was right. When the defenders refused to concede, he led out his last two spades. He discarded hearts from dummy. This left North with the king and one diamond, the jack of hearts, and king of clubs. West had to come down to two hearts in order to protect his jack of diamonds, while East held onto three hearts and the ace of clubs.

Then South led a diamond to dummy's king. West had already been squeezed out of heart protection. Now East was squeezed in turn because he had to hold onto the ace of clubs and South's deuce of hearts produced the 12th trick.

lighted to accept the invitation, even though North's two no-trump response had not been encouraging.

West's queen of clubs was allowed to hold the first trick. The suit was continued and South played low from dummy a second time. South was sure that East held the ace of clubs and wanted to keep dummy's king of clubs to exert pressure against East.

He ruffed the second club and ran off three rounds of trumps. Then he played out his ace and queen of diamonds.

THIS IS PLAN I of the proposed rerouting for downtown Twin Falls traffic. It is one of five proposed routes to redirect traffic. In previous educational meetings members of the State Highway Department indicated this was the preferred plan. It would feature two-way traffic along Main Avenue and one-way traffic on Second Avenue North and Second Avenue East, as well as on Second Avenue West and Second Avenue South.

Plan To Reroute Downtown Traffic To Be Explained

Officials from the State Highway Department will be in Twin Falls Friday to explain their five plans for the possible rerouting of downtown traffic. A meeting will be held at noon in the Roundup Room of the Regerson Hotel for all downtown businessmen, property owners and anyone interested in the proposed changes. Previously, the highway department officials have presented these five rerouting plans to the Twin Falls City Council and the Twin Falls Urban Renewal Agency and Twin Falls Futures Unlimited. The Friday session is being held to acquaint a larger group of people with the plans. Local businessmen will be able to ask any questions following the presentation. The Twin Falls City Council has been asked by the highway department to recommend one of the plans for a public hearing. Councilmen have indicated they will adopt a resolution approving one of the plans and recommending a hearing be held at their next regular meeting. The State Highway Department will subsequently schedule a public hearing on the most favorable plan. They expect to hold this hearing during the first week of December. In the first two meetings the highway engineers said they felt the first of the five plans was most feasible. This would mean one-way traffic would continue along Second Avenue East and Second Avenue North and from Second Avenue West along Second Avenue South. The change would provide for two-way travel along Main Avenue. This plan would also feature two-way traffic along Washington Street in Five Points West. Herb Derrick, city manager, explained that the existing island would be removed to allow the traffic to flow through the streets. This would make a simpler route for trucks. The trucks now have to turn off Washington Street at Fifth Street West. The first block at Five Points West along Main Avenue and the first block at Five Points East on Main Avenue would be one-way traffic if this plan is used.

The engineers prefer Plan I because they feel it would require less change and construction. Several of the other plans would require the acquisition of right-of-ways from private property owners and would probably be much slower to implement. A pamphlet with drawings of each of the plans and a summary table of the costs and level of service of each plan will be available at the Friday luncheon.

Democrats Mull Senate For HHH

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Some Democratic leaders are already talking of a political comeback for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey as the 1976 candidate for the U.S. Senate. State party leaders say they expect him to bow out. Thus the way would be open for Humphrey to return to the job he left in 1964 when Lyndon B. Johnson chose him as his vice-presidential running mate. Although he lost the national election Tuesday, Humphrey got 800,070 votes in Minnesota or 54 per cent of the total. Richard M. Nixon got 42 per cent and George C. Wallace 5 per cent.

Humphrey Wins In Washington

SEATTLE (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey picked up Washington's nine electoral votes in late ballot-counting Wednesday but moved no closer to the presidency with Republican Richard M. Nixon already the declared winner. With 98.4 per cent of the vote counted, Humphrey led Nixon 559,357 to 517,639, or 48 per cent to 44.4. George Wallace had 85,131, or 7.3 per cent. Although about 112,000 absentee and special ballots were still out, State Election Supervisor Ken Gilbert said it was "highly improbable" that they would change the outcome. This happened in a state with a state legislature controlled by the Republican-oriented conservatives.

Democracy Mull Senate For HHH

has no plans for the future now. Many observers who have watched Humphrey as mayor of Minneapolis, senator, and vice president expect him to "go on to something else." They expect it to be the U.S. Senate. In endorsing Humphrey for the presidency last week, McCarthy said he will not seek reelection to the seat as a Democrat. Although he didn't rule out running as a third-party candidate, state party leaders say they expect him to bow out. Thus the way would be open for Humphrey to return to the job he left in 1964 when Lyndon B. Johnson chose him as his vice-presidential running mate. Although he lost the national election Tuesday, Humphrey got 800,070 votes in Minnesota or 54 per cent of the total. Richard M. Nixon got 42 per cent and George C. Wallace 5 per cent.

Governor Ousted By Montana Vote New Mexico Vote Asks Revamping Of State Laws

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon won Montana's four electoral college votes, but Democrat Forrest H. Anderson topped Republican Gov. Tim Babcock in a split statewide race. Anderson picked up 129,558 votes as 100,753 for Babcock with 938 of the state's 1,037 precincts unofficially tabulated. Nixon claimed 52 per cent with 117,272 votes, compared to 42 per cent and 89,538 for Hubert H. Humphrey. Re-elected were Republican Rep. James F. Battin in the eastern congressional district and Democratic Rep. Arnold Olson in the west. Thomas L. Judge was elected lieutenant governor, Delores Colburg public instruction superintendent, and incumbent Frank Murray secretary of state. All are Democrats. On the Republican side, Bob Woodahl won attorney general, Alvin Stephenson treasurer, incumbent Frank Steele railroad and public service commissioner and incumbent E. V. Omholt auditor. Former Gov. John Bonner won one of two supreme court seats and Frank Haswell the other in non-partisan voting. Of the state's five special issues, only a renewal of the six-mill levy to support the Montana University System was approved. Rejected were initiatives to reduce certain personal property taxes, and three constitutional amendments to allow pay raises for officials while they are in office, extend legislative sessions, and allow six constitutional amendments to be considered in a single election. ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — New Mexicans expressed overwhelmingly Tuesday a desire to revamp the state's 53-year-old and much-amended constitution, voting more than 2-1 in favor of a constitutional convention call. The next step is for the New Mexico Legislature to establish the method for the convention call and convention membership.

Former T.F. Man To Appear At Grand Opening Of College Fine Arts Center

John R. Nelson, a soloist for the Utah Civic Ballet, is a native of Twin Falls, and will appear at 8 p.m. Wednesday when the company performs at the dedication of the new College of Southern Idaho Fine Arts Center.

Raised in Twin Falls, he is the son of Lloyd N. Nelson, Route 2, Twin Falls. John studied ballet locally with Beverly Hackney for two years before joining the University of Utah dance department in 1967.

He is featured in "Irish Fantasy," a ballet choreographed by Jacques d'Amboise, the leading dancer of the New York City Ballet. The music was composed by Camille Saint-Saens and consists of a series of dances representing the various cultures of Scotland and Ireland. Regarded by critics as a dancer's ballet, "Irish Fantasy" is technically very demanding of the dancers.

Voice Specialist Notes High Point

NEW YORK (AP)—Allen Swift, leading voice specialist in the field of radio and television commercial work, entered the field in 1954 when he portrayed the voices of all the puppets on the "Howdy Doody Show," is celebrating his 25,000th commercial this week.

In his career Swift has done the "voices" for everything from soap to suits—literally. Among his sponsors have been manufacturers of canned soups, automobiles, toothpaste and peanuts, and he has "voiced" the "voice" of a mailbox, a pencil and a dog.

On the serious side, Swift dubbed the voice of former President Eisenhower in the movie, "The Longest Day."

Swift travels between studio assignments on a collapsible bike. He claims this helps him keep in trim as well as avoid traffic jams.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democratic control of both houses of Congress Wednesday confronted Republican presidential winner Richard M. Nixon with a divided government.

'Used' Computers Pose New Market

NEW YORK (AP)—The newest multi-million dollar business in the country is used computers. It is expected to reach a billion dollars by mid-1970, according to Leon Weissman, chairman of the board of Computer Exchange, Inc.

The used computer field is only a few years old, but then the computer itself is little more than 20 years old.

Purchasing a used computer saves companies ten or hundreds of thousands of dollars, Weissman said. The biggest buyers are major corporations who want to add to their existing data-processing capacity, followed by small organizations who want to automate, he added.

He also pointed out that it is now possible for companies which own computers, and want to buy larger ones, to retrieve a substantial part of the original purchase price by selling them through CSE.

Spunky Youth Shuns Fear Of Losing Sight To Malady

NORTH PLATTE, Neb. (AP)—The world of darkness could be terrible if the blind would let it, but George Stötenberg—of Schuyler, Neb.—refused—after consideration.

The teen-ager toured the Episcopal church in North Platte, looking in every detail—from stonework flooring to brass candlesticks and wood carvings in the altar.

Now 17, after four years of being blind due to a disorder called retinal separation, a nearsightedness that gets progressively worse, George learned about his malady after surgery.

"You win some and you lose some," a doctor said to another while George was in the recovery room. "The kid will never see."

George recalled, "All I wanted to do was get up and run. And then realizing where I'm going to run to, I thought—I'm blind! My God, I can't even do that."

He retreated to his room, refused to let friends visit, declined any communication.

"All I thought was that they had come to stare at me and pity me," he said.

School began in the fall and George decided to face reality, attending the School for the Blind at Nebraska City. He said he was disappointed that the school didn't fit his picture of a dungeon that would hide him from society.

"Being blind isn't the greatest thing in the world, he confided, but it isn't the worst thing either. Being unloved and orphaned are far worse in his opinion. His deduction a rags a from work with youngsters with no families at special summer camping sessions, where he is a part-time counselor.

He believes his handicap has opened more doorways than it has closed and attributes it to making him a more complete person.

"Being blind has sobered me a lot," he said. "Education is terribly important to me now. It never was before. I've often thought if I had not lost my sight I might have gone through life with little sense of value about learning and maybe even less about that thing called sense of direction."

George travels by himself by bus from Nebraska City to Schuyler and back again on alternate weekends. The trip involves a time layover in Omaha. He moves about in Omaha and visits with persons in the bus depot and on the street.

"Don't let anyone kid you when you're blind you're scared," he said. "At first, I thought my life was completely shot, that I'd never be able to do anything for myself or anyone else and that thought scared me to death.

"The worst thing that can happen to you is to let anyone convince you or treat you as though you are helpless," he went on. "The blind person who doesn't learn to adjust and function effectively in spite of his blindness is the one who stands out in a crowd."

One of George's goals is to educate both—sighted and—blind persons to the fact that the blind are "normal."

"I'm not a religious nut," he said, "but, I've sure done a lot of thinking about God. I've not God and religious hang-ups like any teen-ager but I've learned something, too, about the quiet assuredness that comes from inside."

Although he's not certain he has the "stuff" to be a minister, George would like to go to a seminary and graduate.

'Timely' Crop

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Although tobacco is Kentucky's top cash crop, it also is one of the most time-consuming agricultural jobs. The leaf requires an average of 488 man-hours per acre.

Mrs. Rodd Named Queen Of Month

WENDELL—Mrs. Betty Rodd was named queen of the month at the meeting of the Slip Knot TOPS club.

Her loss for October was nine and one-half pounds.

Mrs. Clarice Morgan had a loss of seven and one-half pounds for the week. There were 13 members weighed in with a net loss of 22 pounds. In the contest of the Road Runners and the Fast Trotters, the Fast Trotters were out in front with a loss of 10 1/2 pounds with the Road Runners trailing with a loss of five and one-half pounds.

Canine 'Soldiers' Boost U.S. Fighting Potential

DONG TAM, Vietnam (AP)—The Pentagon has spent millions of dollars for such detection devices as radar, infrared and night-vision scopes—to help the ground soldiers the biggest gains, however, are devices called "Kling," "Hasso," and "T-bone"—German shepherds that cost a toll and run on a word of praise and a pat on the flank.

The dogs are fixtures in Vietnam, bounding enthusiastically from helicopters during assaults, thrashing their tails as they move along trails—like city dogs on a rare trip to the country. They swim canals, endure the heat, climb mountains, and at least one, a Marine scout dog named Lobo, makes parachute jumps with his handler.

There are now about 1,100 dogs serving with U.S. troops. About 130 have been killed.

The U.S. Air Force procures the dogs, advertising periodically and paying a token $1 to make the deal official. One veteran handler says the dogs are frequently getting in the way at their old homes, too much trouble to take on a weekend trip, or grown up big for a city apartment. To enter the service the Shepherd must be a year old. He keeps his original name.

Aggressive dogs are screened for sentry work. The smarter ones are used as scout dogs.

Two examples: Nick, a Marine dog, alerted as his company was moving up a ridge line 2 1/2 yards from a hill crest below the demilitarized zone. The company commander backed his men down in silence, circled to other high ground overlooking Nick's hill-top. Artillery was called in and my fire passed over their heads. T-bone, another shepherd, idling at the rear of the column, alerted on an enemy flanking movement in time for the Americans to set up a brutal base of fire in that direction. The patrol turned in potential ambush into a killing situation.

Flutist To Perform With T.F. Symphony

Guest artist for the first concert of the season by the Twin Falls Symphony Orchestra will be Richard Hahn, flutist, of the University of Idaho music faculty.

The program will be presented at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the G Leary Junior High School auditorium. Mr. Hahn will play "Concerto in G Major" for Flute, Orchestra and Piano; "Serenade" for Solo Flute, Piano, and String Orchestra by Howard Hanson.

For the past two years Mr. Hahn, 28, has been instructor of flute, mediant and renaissance music at the University of Idaho. He also gives solo and lecture recitals with special emphasis on the old flutes, and a complete picture of the evolution of the flute and its music.

Hahn received the Bachelor of Music degree from the University of Washington State University in 1964. He received the master's degree at the University of Wisconsin, Madison, in 1965. He has studied with Robert Cole, assistant first flute, Philadelphia Orchestra, and with Donald Peck, first flute, Chicago Symphony.

From 1965-67 Mr. Hahn was a flutist with the Milwaukee Symphony Orchestra, with the Milwaukee Chamber Players during 1966 and 1967; and with the University of Wisconsin Woodwind Quintet in 1966-67. He has been a guest of the Fine Arts String Quartet.

This troupe is internationally known through its concert tours in Europe and the Far East. Its repertoire is well represented on the "Concert Disk" label, which is also available throughout Europe. The group's statewide reputation is unparalleled, with approximately three annual tours, as well as the many releases of Mr. Hahn has also played with the Fine Arts Chamber Orchestra, which is the quartet augments with the top players from the Chicago and Milwaukee Symphonies. He has been soloist with the Spokane Symphony in the Mozart "Concerto for Flute in G Major."

He was instructor of flute at the Wisconsin Conservatory of Music in Milwaukee from 1965 to 1967.

Currently, Mr. Hahn is playing in the Northwest Wind Quintet, which is composed of members of the Music Department of the University of Idaho. The Quintet plans to give recitals at the University of Idaho campus as well as concerts and clinics in public schools throughout Idaho and the Northwest.

Because each member of the Quintet is a specialist in his instrument, it is hoped that public school music teachers and administrators will use this unusual opportunity to present the musical and teaching skills of this group to their students. He also performs with the New Arts Players—a group organized principally for the performance of music of the Baroque period. However, it also plays unusual works from the classic, romantic, and modern periods.

His hobbies include harpichord building, mountain climbing.

RICHARD HAHN

Wallace Sees His Campaign As 'Success'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—George C. Wallace said today he considered his run for the presidency successful because the other two parties ended up sounding like we were sounding like he was.

Wallace said he considered his American Independent party movement a "bellwether" for the two national parties.

"We showed them what the issues were," Wallace said.

He continued: "Mr. Nixon, especially in the last few weeks, was saying many of the same things we were saying."

Wallace made the remarks in a statement at a luncheon for his staff and newsmen who had followed him throughout his campaign.

He also read the following telegram he had sent to Richard H. Nixon: "My congratulations and best wishes and I wish you every success in leading our great nation."

Wallace said, "I do wish for Mr. Nixon the most success of any president in the history of our country, and I hope he can unite the nation."

"And to Mr. Humphrey," Wallace grinned, "I can say we have something new in common."

Jerome Man Heads Farm Bureau Work

JEROME — Robert Sexton has been named manager of the Farm Bureau tire program for the State of Idaho. His headquarters will be in Pocatello; he will continue to live in Jerome.

Mr. Sexton is a 1950 graduate of Shoshone High school and attended college at Idaho State and in California. He is married to the former Erling McGee of South-Central Idaho. They have two children, Diane and Brian.

Mr. Sexton managed the Jerome Farm Supply unit merged with Twin Falls Cooperative and former State Sen. Orval Hansen.

"I think that in the case of Frank Church (a Democrat elected U. S. Senator) that the recall movement gave him the initial shove." An abortive attempt was made earlier this year to circulate recall petitions against the two-term Democratic senator.

Two Democratic elected officials differ on the defeat of a proposed constitutional amendment to make the state superintendent of public instruction an appointive official.

D. F. Engelking, the present superintendent, said he supported the proposed change, but expected the amendment's defeat because of persons to whom he had talked before the election.

"The people had a choice—they made it," he said.

'Busway' Lane On Freeways Draws Opposition Of Motorists, Officials

By JACK MILLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The idea seems simple: Set aside a freeway lane for buses only, then whisk commuters nonstop through traffic between the suburbs and downtown.

Unfortunately, say the Department of Transportation experts, it has turned out to be a terribly complicated concept.

Since federal officials started pushing the idea more than a year ago—and offering federal funds for much of the cost—a single city has yet put it into effect.

The main obstacle is that other motorists would not expect to bumper on a freeway lane not expected to look kindly upon a bus-only lane that doesn't have a bus going by every minute, or perhaps every 30 seconds. Attracting that many bus riders has proved an enormous task.

And the buses cannot take full advantage of their exclusive freeway lane if they have to stop in the frequently long lineups of vehicles to use entrance and exit ramps. So to make the concept most effective, exclusive ramps have to be built for the buses.

Finally, the experts say, people do not want to take a bus to work in the city unless they have adequate public transportation once they're there. And few cities have excellent systems to move people around downtown.

But the experts also emphasize the trouble officials have found in persuading people to leave their cars—an effort they say must succeed if the cities are to be saved from congestion.

"We're beginning to see that you have to look at the whole city as a system," says Paul Sitton, newly named director of the Department of Transportation's Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

Sitton, whose division this year was transferred from the Department of Housing and Urban Development, says one of the next steps will have to be development of whole new networks to transport people around the edges of the downtown areas, where people would leave their cars or disembark from buses or trains. Then they would transfer to one of several modes of travel such as minibuses, moving sidewalks or individually operated network cabs that would carry one or two people on guideways above street levels.

Pedestrians would have walkways separated from other vehicles. Trucks would operate on a higher level, preferably underground.

Sitton says such systems would be especially feasible in such cities as Denver, St. Louis, Atlanta, Seattle, San Francisco, Pittsburgh and Minneapolis and St. Paul.

They would take about 10 years to demonstrate such systems and prepare them for broad use, according to a recent federal research study. The development cost was put at $10 billion.

The 18-month study has provided what federal officials call the first clear picture of what can be done about the nation's urban transportation mess.

The next step, says Sitton, is to focus public attention on the fact that there are solutions.

H. W. Merritt, director of research for the transit agency, says most people endure the horrors of city travel in relative city as a system," says Paul Sitton, newly named director of

'Belt' Shunned

WASHINGTON (AP)—The over-the-shoulder safety harnesses now required in all new cars aren't being used by most motorists, the National Highway Traffic Safety Bureau says.

Dr. William Haddon Jr., the bureau director, said only about one of 200 motorists used the shoulder belts. Yet Haddon said the belts can reduce by more than two-thirds the chances of death or serious injury in an automobile accident.

Haddon said some motorists and passengers shun the shoulder harnesses because they consider them uncomfortable. And, he added, "A lot of people don't think it is worth the bother."

Samuelson Wires Nixon Best Wishes

BOISE (AP)—Republican Gov. Don W. Samuelson has wired congratulations to Richard M. Nixon on the former vice president's victory in the presidential race.

The governor sent his congratulations Wednesday morning, which left Idaho's capital city for a two-to-three-day vacation.

Samuelson, in his telegram, said Idaho was "wearing a beaming smile" after hearing of Nixon's hard-fought victory.

"We know now that America's finest days is just ahead," the governor said.

Secretary of State Pete Cerrusa, also a Republican, said: "I couldn't see the consistency of the voters in electing a Republican President and a Democratic Congress. But Cerrusa said Idaho elected "two excellent and very capable" congressmen in Rep. James A. McClure and former State Sen. Orval Hansen.

"I think that in the case of Frank Church (a Democrat elected U. S. Senator) that the recall movement gave him the initial shove." An abortive attempt was made earlier this year to circulate recall petitions against the two-term Democratic senator.

Two Democratic elected officials differ on the defeat of a proposed constitutional amendment to make the state superintendent of public instruction an appointive official.

D. F. Engelking, the present superintendent, said he supported the proposed change, but expected the amendment's defeat because of persons to whom he had talked before the election.

"The people had a choice—they made it," he said.

Jerome Okays Building Permits

JEROME — Five building permits were approved at the monthly meeting of the Jerome City Council.

They went to Armin List, to build a patio costing $100; Jerome Gas and Oil to install two gas pumps at a cost of $1,500; W. O. Brannon, carpent cost $200; Alvin Wehans, to add bedroom to present dwelling $2,000 and Glen Arnhart, to build a garage costing $2,500.

Program Set

JEROME — The Cadet Scouts will be featured on the program at the meeting of Jerome County Association for Retarded Children at 8 p.m. Monday at the American Legion hall.

Association officials expressed appreciation for the help received in the recent fund raising carnival.

Greater New York raised one-third of the national goal of $100,000 for the United Negro College Fund.

'Plus' Plan Tests Youngsters To Determine Lack Of Knowledge As Aid To Education

By GARVEN HUDGINS
AP Education Writer
Researchers in Warren, Ohio, have developed a new system to help elementary school youngsters grasp subjects in which they may be falling behind.

When a doctor finds out what's wrong with a patient, he prescribes a medicine. Under the Plus method, a teacher determines through special devices tests what a child does not know in a given subject. When she learns this, she can let the child develop at his own speed.

"Our purpose," says Parker, "has been specifically to first find out what the children do not know about a subject, then to prescribe exactly what the pupil should do, step by step, until he masters the subject."

French To 'Invade' U.S. With Music

By ROSEETTE HARGROVE
PARIS (NEA) — Les Freres Jacques are planning another invasion of the United States soon, and America doesn't surrender to the French invasion. The amusing singing quartet will just have to settle for the rest of the world.

"It is like calling a doctor to find out what's wrong when somebody's sick," says Bernard Parker, head of the firm developing the new system.

In one field test, Parker adds, the Plus system was applied to classes working with magnets. One sixth grade class used the Plus method, the other used traditional tests.

News Of Record

Les Freres Jacques call their act "typically French." Clad in black tight, bullet-shaped suits, they performed at the Rose Rouge Cafe to see how far their act would go. They started out 24 years ago at the Rose Rouge Cafe to see how far their act would go.

The Warren superintendent of schools told a meeting of educators in Washington that the system had greatly helped elementary school children catch up on subjects in which they had been lagging.

Plus was developed jointly by Edgar Cobett, research associate of the National Education Research Foundation, and Robert A. Chemas, elementary science coordinator in Pittsburgh's Baldwin-Whitell public school system.

Gene Hull Talks To Jerome Club

JEROME — Gene Hull of the Twin Falls Bank and Trust Co. talked at the Jerome Kiwanis club weekly meeting. He was introduced by Mel DuLucio, program chairman.

At first they hoped to stage a Broadway musical, but that idea died when they totaled up what their expenses would be. Instead, the quartet will tour American universities early next year with hopes of making an impression on the college crowd.

He introduced by Mel DuLucio, program chairman, Hull talked at the Jerome Kiwanis club weekly meeting.

Rain-Dancer?

CALCUTA, India (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi told newsmen in a plane that she would "call me whenever you need rain."

Five Northeastern states contributed a total of 27 per cent of all Florida vacationists last year. They are New York, Massachusetts and Connecticut.

He introduced by Mel DuLucio, program chairman, Hull talked at the Jerome Kiwanis club weekly meeting.
