TEN CENTS

BURTON, BURTON, WHO'S got the button? This scene was captured in San Francisco's financial district. But it wasn't caused by the loss of a button, or a loss of boots. A set of auto keys was lost in a cable car slot and down went the owner for a close look. After a 45-minute period he was joined by a number of other sympathetic strollers. The futile search, interrupted by frequent cable cars on the downhill track, was caught on film by a San Francisco Examiner photographer. The keys were never found despite the efforts of all the citizens seen here. (AP wirephoto)

Red Gunners Fire Rockets From DMZ On Marines To Violate 'Truce' Terms

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese gunners fired artillery and rockets from inside the demilitarized zone at U.S. Marine positions Sunday, a military spokesman said today. It was the first enemy attack from within the buffer zone since President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam and indicated he expected a reciprocal suspension of attacks from the DMZ.

The spokesman said at least four rockets were killed and 41 were wounded in five attacks on three Marine positions just south of the DMZ. Marine planes and artillery struck enemy used 75mm artillery and 122mm rockets, the spokesman said. Although the Viet Cong have shelled a number of South Vietnamese cities since the bombing halt went into effect, one of Johnson's chief war policy advisers, Walt W. Rostow, on Sunday, minimized these because they have been far smaller than previous shelling of Saigon.

name towns and three other military installations shelled Sunday with four civilians killed and 18 persons wounded. Only light ground fighting was reported, but U.S. B52 bombers struck on three sides of Saigon late Sunday and early today in the campaign to ward off another offensive against the capital. Crewmen reported seeing eight secondary explosions, indicating hits on munitions dumps.

Pre-Inaugural Role Pondered

KEY-BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — Richard M. Nixon and President Johnson meet today in a White House conference that may determine whether the President-elect takes an active role before his inauguration in the search for a Vietnam peace.

Storms Hit In North

By The Associated Press

Three storm systems churned across the Northern states today dumping traffic-snarling snowfall on New England and the Midwest and pushing freezing temperatures and the threat of snow into the Deep South.

The most intense storm piled up to 11 inches of snow in six hours or top of earlier accumulations that temporarily stranded thousands of motorists in parts of New England Sunday.

Milwaukee, in central Main, measured 19 inches of snow by early today while nearby Greenville huddled under 18 inches.

State police in southern Vermont and New Hampshire reported thousands of motorists temporarily stalled Sunday on secondary roads when up to 10 inches of slushy snow caught them without snow tires or chains.

Some early season skiers in the Mt. Snow, Vt., area took refuge in ski lodges and inns that were preparing for a Thanksgiving opening.

The snow was driven by gale-force winds along the New England coast.

A second storm swirled into the Midwest spreading snow over a ten state area from Michigan to Arkansas. Southern Iowa got the most snow—the Des Moines area more than 10 inches.

A mixture of rain and snow moved southward into Missouri and was expected to reach Mississippi, Alabama and Georgia later today.

Another disturbance dampened the Pacific Northwest with up to three-quarters inch of rain turning to snow at higher elevations.

Frigid Canadian air swept south over the Great Plains behind the Midwestern storm bringing freeze warnings in Oklahoma and northwest Texas.

Temperatures early today ranged from 9 degrees in Williston, N.D. to 70 at Key West, Fla.

Three-Way Agreement To Speed Decision On Constructing Dams In Snake River

BURLEY—A three-way agreement in which major Northwest private and public utilities would team up with the federal government to speed a decision on Snake River dam building has been announced by the Pacific Northwest Power Co., Washington Public Power Supply System and Department of the Interior.

The action climaxed year-long negotiations on development of one of the largest dam sites remaining in the Columbia River Basin.

The first step to implement the agreement came Friday when Pacific Northwest Power Co. and Washington Public Power Supply System asked the Federal Power Commission for a six-month stay of current hearings on their license application for the High Mountain Sheep project on the Snake River below Hells Canyon. The Interior Department joined in the motion.

A stay-of-proceedings would enable the Interior Department to seek early congressional authorization for a cooperative plan of construction by Federal agencies of a multipurpose project on the Middle Snake River between Oregon and Idaho with non-federal financing of a major share of the cost.

While the applicants, Pacific Northwest Power Co., and Washington Public Power Supply System, have favored High Mountain Sheep as the most comprehensive project on the Snake, Interior has recommended the Appaloosa site, which would have an estimated capacity of 2,500,000 kilowatts available for disposal.

The Bureau of Reclamation estimates the project will cost about $400,000,000.

The non-federal groups have stated they would accept the Appaloosa Low Mountain Sheep project or a third alternative, the Pleasant Valley Low Mountain Sheep project, if it were determined either of these alternative projects would be more in the public interest.

The proposal, first suggested by Interior and to be submitted to Congress, would include financing of the project by non-federal agencies of the major portion of the cost through payment for a block of power equivalent to the project output for a period of 50 years at Bonneville Power Administration rates with the balance of necessary construction funds furnished by the government.

During the 50 year period, the area's non-federal agencies private and public would share 60-50 in the power supplied to help meet customer needs in a six-state area.

The exact amount of power would be determined by the final design of the project to be built. The three parties said the agreement was made in the spirit of cooperation between power agencies of the Northwest. Agreement on the Middle Snake serves the intent of "prompt settlement of the issues remaining on Snake River development, and an equitable sharing of benefits by both federal and non-federal power suppliers."

The parties said a Middle Snake project would be designed with regard to all the diverse interests of various water users affected by the development including fish and wildlife, recreation, flood control, and downstream temperature regulation.

Access from both Oregon and Idaho to the remote and rugged Snake River area below Hells Canyon and the formation of a large new lake would provide greatly expanded recreational opportunity, they said.

Hearings on the Pacific Northwest Power Co., Washington Public Power Supply System license application have been recessed from Oct. 21 to Nov. 12 pending the outcome of negotiations between the parties for a possible three-way sharing in Snake River construction.

Following last year's action of the Supreme Court, which sent the case back to the Federal Power Commission, the FPC had conducted new public hearings in Lewiston, and Portland, Ore., during September.

Friday's motion to the Federal Power Commission by the applicants for a six-month hearing stay indicated that congressional action could resolve the issues now before the commission.

Pacific Northwest Power Co., and Washington Public Power Supply System told the Federal Power Commission it was their intention "that a Middle Snake River project be promptly constructed," and that they would return to the Commission seeking a license if Congress disapproved of the current three-way proposal, or failed to act within a reasonable time.

"With the Northwest now entering a new era of thermal generation," they said, "the hydro peaking potential of the Middle Snake with ultimate capability of up to 4,000,000 kilowatts will be needed with other new hydro peaking resources to match with baseload generation to be provided by large thermal plants in the new hydro-thermal program."

The Middle Snake is an 80-mile stretch of the river where it forms the border between Oregon and Idaho. It is the only portion of that 1,000 mile long tributary of the Columbia River that is not developed by either private power companies or federal agencies.

Yemeni Arabs Battle Foes For Six Years

By The Associated Press

Yemen is a predominantly Arab nation a little smaller than Nebraska, situated at the southwest corner of the Arabian Peninsula, at the southern end of the Red Sea.

Its ruling Republican government is allied with Egypt, but a bitter six-year civil war has kept it from taking any active part in the Mideast dispute between Israel and the Arab nations.

Republican forces, backed and armed by the Soviet Union, are at war with Royalists who have been supported by neighboring Saudi Arabia. The Republicans overthrew the monarchy in September 1962.

Yemen's 4.5 million people include coastal inhabitants of mixed Arab and African origin and highlanders of Arab stock.

Survey Vessel To Aid Classes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Office of Education is taking over a decommissioned hydrographic survey ship for use as a floating classroom.

The Environmental Science Services Administration said Saturday it was transferring the 216-foot ship, Explorer, to the Office of Education for a program to train unemployed young men for jobs in oceanography.

The U.S. Coast and Geodetic Survey vessel will be berthed in the Anacostia river near here. The federal program is designed to train 120 young men from the Washington area as oceanographic aides in government and private industry.

Road Tour Between Rupert, Arco Is Set For Wednesday

RUPERT — An open tour, in caravan form, of the road area from Rupert to Arco, is scheduled for Wednesday, according to Dale Hollinger, a member of the Rupert Chamber of Commerce.

The chamber has been working with officials at the Crystal Ice Caves and various highway officials to get the road improved, and at the suggestion of Louise Shaddock, executive director of the Idaho State Department of Commerce and Development, have planned the tour to acquaint the public and public officials with the road problem.

Mr. Hollinger said state and national legislators and other officials have been invited to participate in the project, which will begin Wednesday morning with a breakfast in Rupert. The group plans to meet at the Red Ram cafe early and be on the way by about 9:30 a.m.

After touring the 41-mile stretch of road between Mintoka and Arco, the group will then lunch at the Ice Caves. They will be provided with a breakfast and a short resume of the problem before departing. Any one is invited to join the group Wednesday in Rupert.

Merle Hanna, president of the Northside Communities, said that organization was 100 per cent behind the road improvement project and would support it in any way they could.

Ice Caves officials have notified the Rupert Chamber group that designation signs directing traffic back through Rupert, over the rough road, will be installed, at the expense of the Caves.

Those planning to participate on the tour should have a vehicle that is high as there are several high spots in the road, Mr. Hollinger said.

The Road Ahead

If for nothing else, history will remember Richard M. Nixon as the man who, in 1960, missed becoming president of the United States by the merest hairbreadth in the popular vote and who, eight years later, won the prize by almost the smallest possible margin in the electoral vote.

elections is further proof that Americans are far from repudiating the past eight years. Though the Republicans gained in both houses, they gained very slightly.

Andrew Tully Spoiled-Brat Cop-Outs Defeated HHH

Unless the working Democrats have lost their senses, the McCarthy-Bobby Kennedy wing will have a tough time merely getting back into the party, let alone controlling it.

They delivered the Negro and the Jewish and the labor vote, although labor's support was dulled by the appeal of the law and order issue.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans, regardless of political persuasion, no doubt welcomed the news from the National Alliance of Businessmen that 84,000 jobs have been found for unemployed workers.

Although nearly 23,000 of these jobs later were lost, the net gain of 61,000 indicates that the alliance is going to reach its goal of 100,000 jobs.

The feeling among many people is that there is a program for social good whose development has gone beyond the stage of hope and experiment to that of practical results.

The key to the alliance's success, small as it is, seems to be training, not just training, worker and job still might have remained apart unless alliance members had stepped in and turned the key, for jobs and unemployment have a curious relationship.

It has been a continuing mystery to many people, for example, why nearly 10 million Americans are jobless when the classified advertising pages of newspapers are filled with appeals from business for help.

Month after month during the greatest economic boom in American history this condition has existed, one of the reasons being that the job requirements have the skills possessed by the job seekers simply do not match.

Other major factors are involved. Many of the best jobs, the ones that have deserted the cities, where most of the unemployed Negroes live, and moved to the country, are in the nearly all-white suburbs.

Age is a factor, especially when an obsolete skill is also involved. Mobility is a factor also, as many of the unemployed are unwilling to uproot their families from depressed rural communities.

Racial and age discrimination have played obvious roles, too. But lack of training and a failure to understand the mechanics of job seeking have always been near the top of the list.

Tenagers entering the work force have been inadequately prepared, and so the teen-age work force has a jobless rate of 12 per cent, or nearly eight times that of married men, whose rate is 1.6 per cent.

Among adults, meager skills that once permitted a worker to hold tenacity to a job have become useless in an age of increasing technological complexity and automation. Elevator operators, you have noticed, are a disappearing breed.

Without retraining in a new skill, most of these workers have found themselves with little to sell a potential employer and no knowledge of how to go about changing the situation.

This is the gap into which the alliance stepped as a catalyst. Formed this year, with Henry Ford II as chairman, its immediate results now indicate that its goal of 500,000 jobs by mid-1970 will be achieved.

of dissenting positions at the Executive Committee level," the Minnesota Democrat said in an interview.

"We think there should be proportional representation for all viewpoints," he said.

McCarthy said as a critic of Johnson administration Vietnam policy he was denied this kind of representation in five delegations at Chicago.

He lost the Democratic presidential nomination to Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

The five, he said, were from Minnesota, New Mexico, Missouri, Pennsylvania and Connecticut.

The senator said two top figures of his campaign—Blair Clark and Stephen Mitchell—will carry his effort to a Nov. 24 meeting in St. Louis on reorganizing the Democratic nominating procedures.

Clark was executive director of McCarthy's campaign and Mitchell was his convention manager.

Supporters of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy are expected to join with the McCarthy people to work out a formula against the sort of local procedures they say kept many of their representatives from being seated in Chicago.

Asks Ouster Of U.S. Bases

Chief Executive In Pacific Named

NAHA, Okinawa (AP) — Chobyo Yara, who campaigned on a platform calling for elimination of U.S. bases on Okinawa, was elected chief executive of the U.S.-administered Ryukyu Islands Sunday.

But Yara, 65, who also said the Pacific territory should be returned to Japan, told an interviewer after his victory that Okinawa's present immediate realization of his demands.

Yara, a veteran educator who was supported by the Socialists and two other opposition parties, said immediate removal of the bases, which are vital to the U.S. war effort in Vietnam, would harm Okinawa's economy and restoration of the islands to Japan should be accomplished gradually to permit the public to adjust.

It was the first election of chief executive by popular vote. In the past, the executive was chosen by the elected legislative assembly and approved by the U.S. commissioner of the territory.

The election does not change the governmental system of Okinawa. Yara will serve under the U.S. commissioner, at present Lt. Gen. Ferdinand T. Unger, and will handle only administrative affairs, including certain matters referred to him by the legislative assembly. Unger retains a veto over legislative action.

Unger assured Yara of continued U.S. support in the development of Okinawa's economy and its welfare programs.

Yara was backed by three parties, the Okinawa Socialist Mass party, the Okinawa chapter of the Japanese Socialist party, and an affiliate of the Japanese Communist party.

Complete unofficial results gave Yara 232,273 votes, or 53.4 per cent of the 436,840 valid votes. His chief opponent, Junji Nishigaki, 47, president of the previously ruling Okinawa Democratic party and one of Yara's former students, had 203,373 votes, while independent candidate Takehiko, Nosoko, 40, had 194 votes.

Yara said he is not anti-American and does not believe he should be considered anti-American for voicing the desires and aspirations of the people of Okinawa for their return to Japan.

"I want to thank the American people for teaching us democracy, and I believe they will be deeply impressed by the results of the election," he said.

Assessors Plan Washington Hike

SEATTLE (AP) — County assessors throughout Washington will be instructed next July to raise property assessments to the constitutional rate of 50 per cent of fair value, a state official said.

Timothy R. Malone, assistant state attorney general, said all assessors were told of the state intentions more than a year ago at a meeting in Richland.

Officials say property now is assessed from a low of 15.8 per cent of fair value in San Juan County to a high of 24.3 per cent in Ferry and Walla Walla counties.

Malone commented in King County Superior Court during preliminary arguments in a suit challenging uneven property assessments in King and Snohomish Counties.

A constitutional amendment revising the assessment level to 25 or 30 per cent is expected to go before the next legislature.

Tricky Query Voids Ballot

NEWBERG, Ore. (AP) — They are planning a new dog control vote in Newberg.

The ballot last Tuesday carried this question: "Check one: 'For dogs running at large.'"

"Against dogs running at large." No.

The no. box was checked by 1211 voters, the yes box by 437. But City Atty. George Layman said: "The votes do not mean a thing. No matter how residents voted, they were in favor of dogs running at large."

Catholic Leaders To Ponder Rules

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's Roman Catholic bishops and cardinals face today an important decision on the meaning of Pope Paul VI's ban on artificial birth controls. The issue of whether the ban is to be applied to all Catholics or whether birth control should be left up to personal conscience is the subject of a question before the five-day National Conference of Catholic Bishops opening today in St. Louis.

Poverty Hazards Outlined

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Paul G. Hoffman, administrator of the U.N. Development Program, said today poverty and lack of opportunity generated "grave threats to peace" in the world.

The American ex-motor magnate and former Marshall Plan head told the U.N. General Assembly's Economic Committee that because of recent foundation-building, "we are now in a position to make major and relatively rapid progress against hunger, disease, ignorance, unemployment and many other specific causes of human frustration."

But, he declared, there is an "imperative need to make every moment count" in doing this.

"Since the opportunity to build a decent life could soon be made available to all men," Hoffman said, "all men will soon regard that opportunity as an inalienable right. It is perfectly just that they should do so."

But, as history shows, if the achievement of inalienable rights is too long deferred, men eventually will select their own path by whatever means are available, including violent means. Herein lie great dangers to all of us, to the peace and to the very structure of civilized society.

Union Dispute Delays Project

BOISE (AP) — Non-union carpet layers will apparently have to wait until union work is finished before they can carpet the Idaho State Capitol.

The dispute could postpone completion of remodeling until after the 1969 legislative session, according to a spokesman for the organization's meeting in the chambers Dec. 5.

A union official said Saturday that no agreement had been reached to permit the non-union carpet layers to work while union carpenters, painters and electricians were off shift, as had been earlier reported.

New Standards Affect Plans To Aid Youth

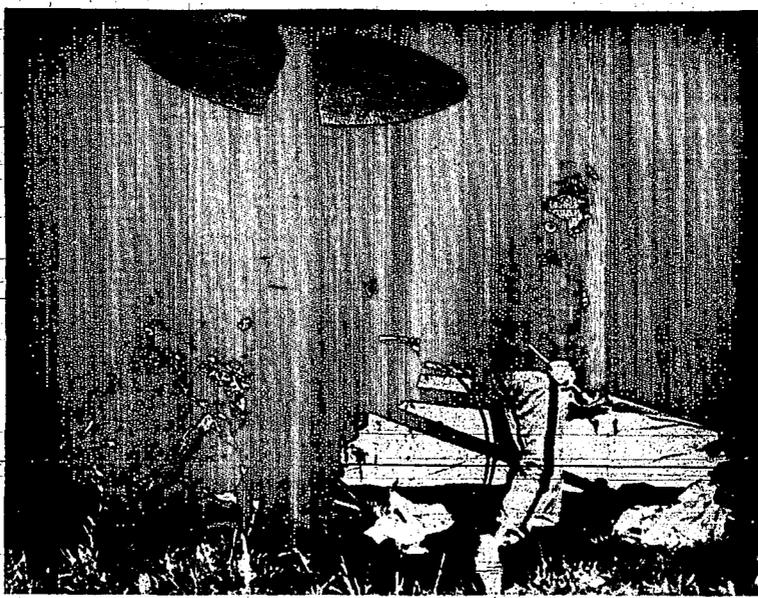

WASHINGTON (AP) — Day care programs for poor children must be a "supplement to family life" under new standards announced Saturday by directors of three federal agencies.

The standards require that federal funds supported programs, under which 75,000 children now receive care, must provide each child with medical and dental care, education and social and nutritional services.

Jointly announcing the standards were Secretary of Welfare Wilbur J. Cohen, Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and Bertrand M. Harding, acting director of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

PRINCE TAKES ROLE

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, 19, heir to the throne, is cast in the role of a padawan wearing a clerical collar borrowed from his tutor, at a Cambridge University group production of a play, "The Erlingdunum," which is being staged at the beginning of his, succeeding his mother, Queen Elizabeth II, Charles will be "under God, the occupant" of the throne of the Church of England.

WASHINGTON STATE POLICE and an unidentified man examined the wreckage of a Piper Tri-Pacer plane which crashed into a field Sunday south of Cheney, Wash., killing Earl Herbes, of Kelso, Wash., and Griffith Kerr, Spokane. Aircraft Mishaps Kill Five

By The Associated Press

Three light plane crashes took the lives of five persons in Washington State Sunday. Authorities identified the victims, as Earl Herbes, Kelso, Griffith Kerr, Spokane, Roger K. Heimberger, Ridgefield, and his 11-year-old brother, Ross, and Jim Norton, Woodville.

Herbes and Kerr, students at Washington State University, were killed when their plane crashed in a marsh 12 miles south of Cheney. Authorities said the craft apparently hit a power line before plunging into the field. A third WSU student identified as Ellwood Alfred Colfax, was seriously injured.

The plane which Roger Heimberger was flying and in which his young brother was a passenger, crashed in a front yard in Vancouver, Wash. Bits of wreckage lie in front of the house, and Ross's body was thrown through the front door.

Norton was killed when his plane crashed near the head of Bear Creek, a short distance southeast of Spirit Lake. He was on a flight from Pasco to Paine Field, near Everett.

Father Bitterly Accuses Nation Of Persecuting Wounded GI Son

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The father of a soldier wounded in Vietnam, later court-martialed for overstaying his leave, has asked: "What now will our country do for his son?"

The plea came in a letter written by Edward W. Bodensick in the Sun newspaper.

Last Friday, Bodensick's son Thomas was convicted at Fort Bragg, N.C., of being absent without leave Oct. 13-22. The sentence calls for him to forfeit $65 of his pay monthly for six months, six months of hard labor and reduction in rank.

"Dad, I just couldn't take it any more," the elder Bodensick quoted his son as saying. "The Army still wants to know why," Bodensick wrote. "I can furnish some of the answers."

"It could be from the night he was able to see one of his friends lying dead with the rain coming down on him and no one able to cover his body."

"Or the time he was on patrol when machine-gun fire hit right in front of him. "Then again, it could be the day a sergeant and two of the others were killed while making their way to the bunker, all but five were either dead or wounded."

"The medic himself was wounded and crying because he couldn't help the others. He (the son) helped to carry the bodies out. He knew all of these men, not by sight, but by name," Bodensick continued.

"These things may have played a small part of it. But I'm inclined to believe it came from the night they went to the aid of one of their platoons that had lost radio contact. When they reached the bunker, all but five were either dead or wounded."

"I think I can furnish some of the answers."

Joint Veterans Day Event Set

BUHL — The Veterans of Foreign Wars and Auxiliary and World War I Veterans and Auxiliary will host a joint potluck dinner and program at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the VFW hall.

Rev. H. B. Thomas will give the invocation and John Mackay will serve as master of ceremonies. Two films, "He and We Love" and "The Story of Old Glory" will be shown.

All veterans and their families are urged to attend. Each family is asked to bring a potluck dish.

Air Base Chief Endorses Ruling On Mini-Skirts

SAN ANTONIO, TEX. (AP) — Maj. James J. Kelly of Lackland Air Force Base, soon to assume command of Spangley Air Station, Labrador, in January says he will support the Spangley club's liberal ruling on mini-skirts.

Officials of the tiny station's club voted to make miniskirts and even "micro, micro" miniskirts—legal for women visitors after learning that enlisted men's clubs at Wethersfield Air Base, England, had banned them.

"It sets the pace," said Kelly.

Only 30 women have visited the remote Labrador base in the past three years.

Coin Fancier Saves Show From 'Feds'

BOISE (AP) — A $1,000 deposit by an unidentified member of the Southern Idaho Coin Club saved a club-sponsored show from possible closure.

Members of the State Tax Commission's enforcement unit saved the show Saturday and demanded $100 cash from out-of-state coin dealers as deposits for sales tax.

Francis Jenks, treasurer of the club, said some coin dealers were unable to pay and others, especially those from states without sales tax, resented the matter.

Fenske said it appeared the show would close until the member deposited the deposit to cover the "out-of-state" dealers. The money would cover the deposits required until dealers filed tax reports on their sales.

Pope May Call New Consistory

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Reports circulated at the Vatican today that Pope Paul VI will call his third consistory during the Christmas-New Year season to name at least 15 new cardinals.

Deaths in the last year have reduced the College of Cardinals from its all-time high of 118 to its present 103. The vacancies have occurred in such important archdioceses as New York, Paris, Montreal and Bordeaux.

Many say Pope Paul needs to strengthen his hand in the high Church administration at a time of increasing disobedience to his rulings on birth control and priestly celibacy.

Dear Abby

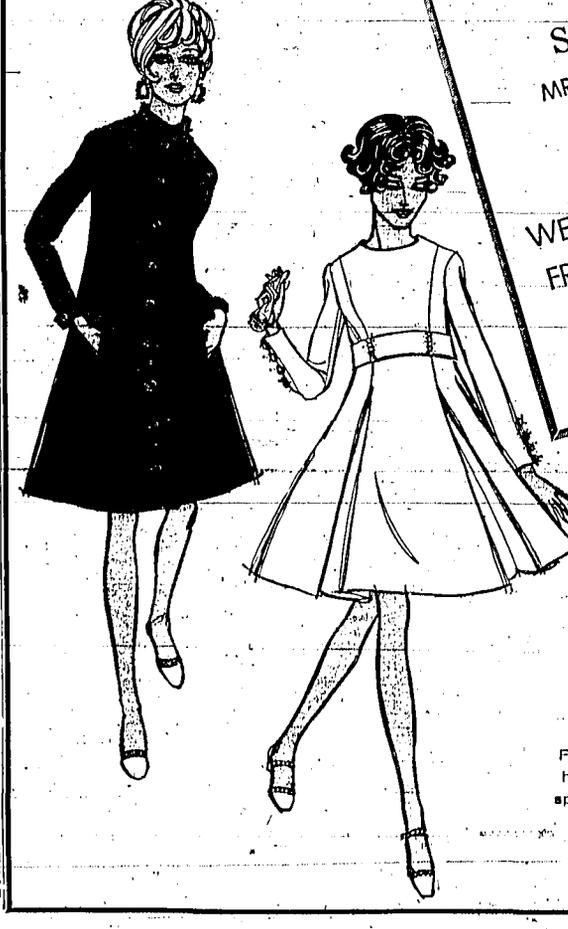

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I'm sure you have been reading about the "fashion show" on WABC-TV which has been attracting such large crowds, mostly men. Abby, what on earth has happened to the great old-fashioned virtue called "modesty"? One of those big-bosomed exhibitionists' words to be attacked by some sex-crazed man, who would hear the blame?
I am not writing this out of jealousy, because I happen to be...
DEAR "39": I, too, disapprove of such exhibitionism, but I would hope that under the circumstances, the milk of human kindness would prevail.
DEAR ABBY: I do a lot of entertaining in my home. I recently invited a very attractive couple over for dinner, and they became acquainted with another nice couple with whom my husband and I have been friendly for some years. These two couples now go out together in the evenings, and my husband and I are not included. I understand that these two women have been meeting frequently for lunch also. Should I cool my relationship with these people? I don't feel nearly as warmly towards them now that I know they have been meeting behind my back.
NO NAME, PLEASE
DEAR NO NAME: If you assume a possessive attitude about your friends, you will find them "cooling" the relationship before you do. Franco is, you brought two couples together who apparently have more in common with each other than with you.

NATO Conference Hears Appeal To Rebuff Soviets

BRUSSELS (AP) — The North Atlantic alliance, opening a week of high-level meetings today, heard an appeal to let the Soviet Union know that after its invasion of Czechoslovakia the West will "face any new development with appropriate firmness."

The appeal came from Manlio Brosio, secretary-general of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, who told the Atlantic Assembly that the Soviet Union's "instability mainly in the Soviet Union and in the Communist community, uncertainty in the Western world faces with the possibility of disquieting developments."

He said a repressive Soviet action might go to Yugoslavia or Albania and "the Soviets must be then beyond the limits of the Warsaw Pact and right to the shores of the Mediterranean."

Soviet naval activity in the Mediterranean, he continued, had been viewed by some optimists as largely a matter of prestige and influence.

"The Atlantic assembly brings together some 200 members of the U.S. Congress and of the parliaments of the 14 other NATO members. The assembly can only make studies, debate them and issue reports."

On Thursday, Cabinet ministers will begin meeting behind closed doors at NATO's headquarters in the Brussels suburb of Evere. U.S. Defense Secretary Clark Clifford will confer with ministers of defense from 12 other countries.

No French representatives will attend because President Charles de Gaulle has pulled France out of NATO's defense planning. France will not be represented. It has no defense force.

There also will be a session of chiefs of staff Thursday.

On Friday and Saturday, Secretary of State Dean Rusk will have his last meetings with the foreign ministers of all 14 allies. Clifford, U.S. Secretary of Defense Henry H. Fowler, and most of the other defense and finance ministers will attend.

Through permanent representatives of the member countries have uniformly pledged improvements in their armed forces, NATO's military staff back these up with formal promises, their governments may find themselves spending billions of dollars in an arms race over the next five years.

Successful Investing

Q—Could you give me information on Bank of America and First Interstate?

A—Both companies are sound and offer long-term capital appreciation possibilities. Since each has fully discounted near-term earnings prospects, I would hold but purchase only on weakness.

Currently, Bank of America trades at 100, a highly successful BankAmericard, but this should increase to 105 within a year to two. The use of BankAmericard checks creates outstanding—$1.64 billion—outstandings in the year ended June, with Western banks accounting for 70 percent of the total.

Formation of a one-bank holding company—proposed in September—will allow greater flexibility while circumventing some of the restrictions normally imposed on banks.

Fred Meyer operates a chain of retail shopping centers in the Northwest. Over the past eight years earnings have moved up an average of 30% annually on a 2% yearly average gain in sales. Projecting a 10% increase this year would place sales at $205 million and earnings at $2.5 million.

Q—What do you think of Anadite, Inc.?

A—The sizable loss we have in the shares could be used to offset capital gains. Should we take the loss?

A—At the time of your purchase an institutional research house, in a review of Anadite, had estimated fiscal 1968 earnings at $2 a share. Developments after that proved this figure highly unrealistic.

Q—Conversion of senior securities increased outstanding common by 5%.

A—A $500,000 operating loss acquired with a newly merged company was wholly written off in the third quarter and sales dropped as a result of government economy moves. Fourth-quarter figures will probably take the loss to reflect this latter adverse factor.

The kicker in this situation is Anadite's G-10 Form earnings figures, said to combine the advantages of costing and forging. Intelligent appraisal of this process will be impossible unless tests on it are completed. Therefore, barring an early breakthrough on the G-10 Form development, I would take the tax loss.

Key Biscayne, Fla. (AP) — For Rose Mary Woods, the first appointment of President-elect Richard M. Nixon's new administration, one thing is going to keep doing what she has been doing for 17 years.

Nixon announced Sunday that Miss Woods will be his personal secretary. That was no surprise. She has held the post since 1951.

Brown-haired Miss Woods has traveled with Nixon on seven national political campaigns. She was on duty throughout the 1968 race, her normal post as a prolific typewriter on Nixon's charged list.

Miss Woods also accompanied Nixon on all but two of his official trips during the eight years he served as vice president.

Her years with Nixon have made her an expert on politics. She knows most of the nation's political leaders by face or by name and is acquainted with most of the newsmen who write about politics.

She is intensely loyal to the man she calls "The Boss," and Nixon relies heavily on her expertise in politics and government.

When Nixon returned to California in 1966, Miss Woods moved there too. A year later, she was on duty throughout the 1967 election.

Court Overturns City Tax Levy

SANTA ROSA, Calif. (AP) — The City of San Francisco's proposed 1 per cent income tax on administrative units is unconstitutional, Judge Lincoln F. Mahan ruled Friday.

Mayor Joseph Alioto said in San Francisco the decision may be appealed or the ordinance revised to tax all persons working in that city, residents as well as commuters.

Mahan held that an income tax on commuters was discriminatory and that the state had preempted the income tax on the pre-emption ruling.

The income tax was scheduled to be effective Jan. 1 on salaries over $10,000 a year. The expected 100,000 commuters would be affected. Alameda, Marin, Contra Costa, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties filed the suit against the tax.

Sizzling El Centro Valley Claims Climate 'Conditioned'

EL CENTRO, Calif. (AP) — The true heat figure, "I've seen it as high as 128 degrees here in the valley," says Bill Gray, a pioneer who came to the area in 1905. "We used to throw buckets of water on each other to keep from drying up."

Temperatures top 110 degrees as many as 57 days per year. More than 120 days have temperatures over 100 degrees. Average high temperatures pass the 100-degree mark in every month from May to October. "Rain averages about three inches a year. And that's just the way folks in the Imperial Valley like their climate."

Warmer winters and long, hot summers mean a 12-month growing season for an agricultural bonanza worth more than $213 million annually.

Tourists seeking escape from frigid northern winters bring more money, and the resulting influx of cash makes it worth the effort to live in the southeast corner of California.

A few other spots in the country, such as Key West, Fla., claim higher annual averages, but the Weather Bureau says that for pure, unadorned and prolonged high temperatures, the Imperial Valley is unmatched.

Yuma, Ariz., for instance, has an average July maximum of 107.7. The Imperial Valley figure is 113.7.

As if these temperatures were not enough, the forecasts take an unaccountable pride in declaring that Weather Bureau readings always fall below the true heat figure.

"I've seen it as high as 128 degrees here in the valley," says Bill Gray, a pioneer who came to the area in 1905. "We used to throw buckets of water on each other to keep from drying up."

Modern air conditioning has made the valley livable year-round and nearly all cars, offices and homes have it. "I keep our house cooled down to only about 80 degrees," says Mrs. Lew McIntosh. "That way, it's not such a shock to the system when we face 110 degrees outside."

"White crops and cattle flourish beneath the everlasting sun," valley residents have learned that it pays to be cautious with the heat.

As the temperature goes up, the pace of life speeds up. Laborers working in the sun drink three gallons of water a day and gulp salt tablets. Men doing heavy work are covered at day's end by a film of white salt left by perspiration.

Shaded arcades cover the sidewalks. Most people wear shields shoppers from the sun, and a parasol is a handy accessory.

The summer heat is deadly. Nearly every year, some motorists stranded on a desert road in the valley attempt to walk for help. Their sun-blackened bodies are found where they drop from heat prostration and lack of water.

Most of the Imperial Valley lies below sea level. El Centro is 52 feet and the surface of the Salton Sea, a vast salt lake, is 222 feet below sea level. Plans fly all day and never get above sea level.

Water is the key to life in the Imperial Valley. More than 600,000 acres are irrigated by Colorado River water through a 3,100-mile network of canals.

Fish, transplanted from the nearby Gulf of California, abound in the Salton Sea and ducks and doves also lure the sportsman.

Cricket, a favorite sport, is hard over field and town. The skunks, emerging from their dens along canals draining into the Salton Sea. Crickets are favorite skunk food.

Police, fearful that the skunks will spread rabies, blast them with shotguns.

El Centro boasts that it's the place "where the sun spends the winter," and that's when the climate is most bearable—in the Imperial Valley.

Nighttime temperatures occasionally drop into the 20s but the days are clear and warm with average January highs of about 80 degrees.

As one veteran valley resident puts it: "No one lives in the Imperial Valley in the summer. We just exist waiting for winter to come."

Nixon's Personal Secretary Retained To Continue Long Stint For 'The Boss'

102-Yard Kickoff Jaunt Paces Baltimore To Win Over Sagging Lion Team

DETROIT (AP) — A brilliant 102-yard kickoff return by Pearson following a Detroit field goal miss sparked the Lions to a 27-10 National Football League victory over the remaining Lions Sunday. Pearson took the ball two yards deep in his end zone and zig-zagged his way behind the blockers for the first quarter.

It was the longest kickoff return in the NFL this season. Tom Matte and Terry Cole each scored a touchdown and Lou Michaels booted two field goals to run the Colts' season record to 2-1. The Lions took the Colts to the Lions-12 to set up a second period field goal.

Browns Bury Saints; Take Grip On First

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bill Nelson passed for four touchdowns and Leroy Kelly scored three times, once on a 68-yard play, as the Cleveland Browns stopped New Orleans 35-17 Sunday.

Detroit took the game's opening kickoff and moved 69 yards in 14 plays to set the stage for a 21-yard field goal by Jerry DePoyster.

Irish Horse Is Favorite At Laurel

LAUREL, Md. (AP) — Irish-bred Col. Alexander and 1967 winner Fort Marcy will run for Old Glory Monday in the Washington, D.C., International, with their stiffest competition expected from Sir Ivor, the representative of Ireland who was bred in Kentucky.

The Browns held a 4-3 halftime lead, but were in trouble early in the third quarter. The Saints intercepted twice and cashed in after the second when Karl Sweetan hit Dan Abramowitz for an eight-yard touchdown pass, cutting the Browns lead to 14-10.

Deer, Elk Season Near Unity Close

BOISE — Eight game management units close the season for elk November 11, while other elk and deer units ended big game hunting somewhat earlier, the Idaho Fish and Game Department reminded nimrods today.

Col. Alexander, owned by Gustav Ring, and Fort Marcy, owned by Paul Mellon, will be trying to give the United States its ninth victory in 17 International.

Blanda Takes Broncs 43-7

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Old pro George Blanda punctuated the Denver Bronco bubble Sunday, 43-7 with masterful quarterbacking for Oakland's American Football League champions before a record, discolored crowd of 50,002.

The Lions honored some of their former players at halftime, but none enjoyed the day more than Dick Morrill, former coach and current Lions' general manager. He had been at four of his former teams this season, including San Francisco, Pittsburgh and New York.

Bill Quarterback Is Out For Year

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Key Stephenson, who won the starting quarterback job, suffered a broken left collarbone Sunday as the Buffalo Bills lost their American Football League game to the Miami Dolphins 21-17.

Buffalo, now deeply entrenched in the Eastern Division cellar with a 1-6 record, broke into the scoring column on Bob Cappadona's 33-yard run in the second period. Bruce Allford's 22-yard field goal and a 21-yard pass from Ray Stephenson to Cappadona upped the Bills' advantage to 17-0 at half time.

LISTEN TO WIFE AT BRIDGE TABLE

Jim: "There are a couple of rules of match point bidding that you have always stressed. One is that if you expect to be fixed at least be fixed with a plus score. The corollary is that when you have your choice between a sure death and a possible reprieve, take the reprieve."

Oswald: "Here is a hand from did have eight sure tricks with clubs as trump."

Jim: "I see that when his partner doubled four hearts, Mike stood by the double on the theory that diamonds would certainly go for at least 500 points and that a miracle might take place at four hearts doubled."

Oswald: "The miracle did take place. Mike opened his singleton diamond. East cashed three diamond tricks while Mike discarded his two spades. Then East led a spade, whereupon Mike ruffed and set the contract."

Jim: "Quite a result. Imagine most other East-West pairs went down at four or five clubs. Mike was playing with Gayle, his wife, wasn't he?"

Oswald: "Yes, and that may have been the reason he passed. When your mother and I first played together in the distant past, I made it a point to leave her doubles in some how or other, she always had mighty sound ones. Mike must have had the same experience with his wife's doubles."

What do you do?

A—Bid one spade. You have six high rank suits and a five-card spade suit.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Your partner rebids to one no-trump. What do you do now?

Answer Next Issue

the Mixed Pair event of the recent Long Island championships played at Roosevelt Raceway to illustrate this. The bidding went as shown in the box. West was Mike Moss, one of New York's brilliant young players. He chose to overcall with two clubs with his nine-card suit. He did not like the fact that he was vulnerable against non-vul, but ho

Checking Up

By L. M. BOYD

Fellow Can Expect Only Five Kisses Before Lunch

AM ADVISED any young man fearless wild pig called the peccador wishes to look 10 years gray, which would win? A—older can accomplish that and Am at a loss to say. Wife—Wouter by wearing a matted vest have to go on the wolverine with his suit... THERE IS NO maybe, but such a fight might proper name that begins with a be pretty hard to stage. Know W in the Bible... WERE YOU of no wild animal that will am aware the Tokyo railroad men tuck a peccador.

A MAN CALLED HOWARD, hire professional pushers to pack people into their trains so they can close the doors. That tends to drive home faster than is correct. AT EVERY he drives to the job, to pick up TENTH WEDDING in the last hour and groom are the same age of the day, and to do more work

A SCHOLAR, WHO takes on Friday than on any other issue with the claim that women never invent anything, insists it was a woman who dreamed up the beer can opener.

HOW MANY KISSES should a fellow expect every day from the ladyfriend—he intends to marry? That is the number of kisses a New Jersey judge decided was sufficient in sale of circumstance. A young lady complained to him that her gentleman friend was altogether too affectionate. A rare complaint. Very rare, fortunately. Our Love and War man views with grave misgivings the chances of happiness for any girl who makes such a complaint before the wedding. However, the judge in this case asked the young man to sign a pledge to limit his kisses to 10 during daylight.

That seemed to satisfy the girl. She promptly asked the judge to perform the wedding ceremony. He did so. There has been no report that the couple has failed to get along under those limited conditions.

WHAT'S THE WORLD'S largest "museum"? inquires a client. That's the American Museum of Natural History in Manhattan. Find it fascinating, by the way, that said museum keeps an enormous boxful of insects—hand-drawn—clearer meat of animal bones to be mounted in displays.

Your questions and comments are welcomed and will be used if he? A—checkbook wherever possible in "Checking Up." Address mail to L. M. Boyd, in care of P.O. Box 99187, Seattle, Wash. 98199.

THREE MEMBERS of the Utah Civic Ballet Troupe, from left, Mary Lynne Shupe, Vicki Hultin and Barbara Hamblin, are shown here in an excerpt from one of the dances the group will be performing at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the CSI fine arts center. The ballet group will perform the first night of the grand opening of the new facility. At 8 p.m. Friday the Utah

State University Old Lyric Repertoire Company will present "Charley's Aunt." During the week an art showing of the works of Robert Max Peters, head of the College of Idaho Art Department, will be set up in the fine arts center. Tickets are available at the CSI administration building or by calling 733-9554.

New Jersey Effort Is Modern Wonder

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Take 2,800 workers, 2,000 pieces of heavy equipment, enough steel to build eight Eiffel Towers and you have just part of the mass direction, will be constructed alongside the six existing lanes on a 30-mile strip. The 127-mile-long superhighway—a corridor for traffic between New York and Philadelphia, New England and the South Atlantic States—was used by 74 million vehicles in 1967. When the highway opened in 1952, officials estimated traffic would gradually increase to 21.5 million cars in 1975. But, as these estimates fell short, plans were made to construct an innovation in highway engineering, the dual-dual road. Six new lanes, three in each direction, will be constructed alongside the six existing lanes on a 30-mile strip. However, the new lanes will be independent of the original ones at all toll plazas and service areas. They will also be separated by a resilient steel guard rail. Consequently, the highway will be two different roads—the New Jersey Turnpike Authority is optimistic that the improvements will be adequate for 15 to 20 years.

To turn this 'optimism' into reality will require 722,000 tons of concrete, one million pounds of asphalt, 22 million cubic yards of dirt, 44 million pounds of reinforcing materials and enough steel to build eight Eiffel Towers—118 million pounds. An additional 196 miles of piling will be used to build bridges and approximately 150 other structures. Several traffic control centers will allow vehicles to change from one roadway to another whenever conditions warrant. Emergency vehicles should be able to reach the scene of an accident without being delayed.

India's High Birth Rate Stirs Alarm

By JAMES M. MARKHAM
NEW DELHI (AP) — A hypothetical scenario, sketched by a knowledgeable United Nations official with long experience in India, begins: It is 1994. Food riots are daily occurrences. Nobody can count the number of people slowly starving to death in cities and villages. Organized government has broken down in all but name. The few remaining foreign diplomats and journalists in India move about in bullet-proof cars and have armed guards posted in front of their high-walled compounds. The population of Calcutta is 70 million, 10 times its present size. The population of India is well over a billion, double today's figure. This is not the sort of thing many people here put into words, much less on paper.

Officials assert that such prophecies are alarmist and false. But in the higher realms of government, there is an alarmed awareness that India's births annually add one Australia—13 million people—to a population officially estimated at 525 million. "Time is not with India, but against," warns Prime Minister Indira Gandhi. "With the increase in population we have to run fast to stand still." India has 14 per cent of the world's population, but only 2.4 per cent of the world's land—and its land is hardly producing enough to feed its citizens. Statistically, the picture may be worse than official figures indicate. A foreign adviser working closely with the Indian birth control program thinks it possible that the last census in 1961 missed 50 million people—and that India's population today may be as high as 600 million.

He too wonders aloud if the Indian government will be able to carry the burden of its population if, growing at its official rate of 2.5 per cent annually, it doubles in 26 years. "Trying To Cut Birth Rate" Faced with such cataclysmic possibilities, the government in the last three years has thrown its weight wholeheartedly behind birth control. Spurred by its controversial and energetic minister of state for family planning—Sriprata Chandrasekhar, it has set itself the target of cutting the country's birth rate from 41 to 22 per thousand in the next 10 years. That means preventing 10 million births a year. According to official estimates, the birth control program is now preventing two million births a year. From a budget of $300 million under the third plan (1961-66) "Bonnie and Clyde" one week family planning's allotment will after it was screened at a charity to $600 million during the ty premiere.

But critics point out—that the genuine sense of urgency displayed by top officials in New Delhi is less evident outside urban centers, where 80 per cent of all Indians live. Another bill will propose raising the legal marrying age for women from 15 to 18. But critics point out—that the genuine sense of urgency displayed by top officials in New Delhi is less evident outside urban centers, where 80 per cent of all Indians live.
