

New York Teachers Vote To End Strike Idling 1.1 Million Pupils

NEW YORK (AP) — Union teachers voted overwhelmingly today to end a months-long public school strike. Classes will resume Tuesday for 1.1 million pupils, most of whom have been shut out of school for all but 11 days of the fall term.

The rank-and-file vote of the United Federation of Teachers, AFL-CIO, resumed at 8 a.m. to accommodate those unable to cast votes during the 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. balloting Sunday night.

Mayor John V. Lindsay announced the tentative accord Sunday afternoon, following 27 hours of continuous talks at Gracie Mansion, his official residence.

Pending outcome of the voting, the schools will remain closed. UFT President Albert Shanker, cheered by 17,000 union teachers packing Madison Square Garden Sunday afternoon, was heckled, however, at a meeting of the UFT's delegate assembly with many persons milling about and some shouting "sell-out!"

The local governing board and Rhdoy McCoy, unit administrator of the district, who were suspended earlier in the dispute will remain in the city. Allen is satisfied the board and McCoy are cooperating with the trustees.

In addition, the pact calls for return of 78 white teachers to classroom assignments in the district. Their ouster by the governing board from the district was the strike, with the union saying job security and due process were at stake. However the dispute has taken on racial overtones.

The teachers unwaveringly were threatened by other teachers in the schools. The return of the white teachers as the fall term began touched off continuity demonstrations and resulted in several arrests.

Fund Lack May Shut Few Schools

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Giving a break for two to six weeks, three school districts in Ohio will soon be closing down temporarily for lack of money. Four more are considering closure.

Voters refused to sanction tax increases for the schools in these and many other areas on Nov. 6.

Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown says at least 44 school districts plan special elections in December to ask for more tax money.

Schools in Youngstown will be closed from Nov. 27 to Jan. 8. The shutdown will affect 29,000 pupils.

Although Youngstown has the lowest tax rate among Ohio's big cities, voters turned down a 12 mill levy, or $300 assessed value. This is the sixth time that the levy has been rejected.

A mill is a tenth of a cent, making the proposed levy 1.2 cents per $100 of assessed valuation above the present 2.99 cents per $100.

The Nelsonville City school district in Athens County will close down at the Thanksgiving break for two to six weeks.

The district also lost its levy on Nov. 5 but will present another request for a 7-mill hike to voters Dec. 10. If the levy passes, schools will reopen Dec. 12. If not, there will be no school until state money becomes available in the new year.

The Ostrago local school district in Wood County says it won't be able to cover its December payroll and so will close down its schools from Dec. 1 to Jan. 2.

The Ostrago district is also going back to voters Dec. 10 with a request for a 3.5-mill levy which was rejected in November.

The four districts which have threatened to close their schools are Hamilton Local in Franklin County, C.R. Coblenz Local in Preble County, Coateau City in Ashabula County and Graham Local in Champaign County.

Yet the overall picture is not too bleak, said Dr. Paul Spayde, member payroll and so will close down its schools from Dec. 1 to Jan. 2.

"Most of the districts are in pretty good shape. Communities have generally been good about supporting their schools."

The Ohio Education Association (OEA) reports that six school districts have said they do not need more money. Even state aid has been rejected by these areas, because to qualify for it voters must approve an operating levy of at least 17.5 mills.

"The industrial tax wealth of these areas makes it unnecessary for them to tax citizens to anything like the 22.72 mill state average," said Richard Hindman, OEA research and development director.

Retarded Boy Has Lead In TV Drama

NEW YORK (AP) — In the special world of child stars, 13-year-old Billy Schulman is extra special. He is mentally retarded.

Because of his handicap, he was selected for the lead role in a television drama about a retarded child. His costars are David McCain, Ossie Davis and George Grizzard.

Billy, who doctors say has the mental age of an 8-year-old, lives with his parents and three brothers in Woodbury, N.Y. He attends special classes at the Harry B. Thompson Junior High School in Syosset.

The other day he was on the set of the Pathé Sound Studios in Manhattan going through scenes with Grizzard and Mrs. Callum while his mother, Mrs. Sandra Schulman, watched from the sidelines.

"I think the best part of this experience is the importance he's attained in the eyes of his brothers and friends," she said.

"He's become a hero to them. He's achieved something they can envy him for. I think it's usually the other way around."

The 90-minute drama, "Teacher Teacher," will be presented on the Hallmark Hall of Fame on Feb. 5 over the National Broadcasting Co. The story concerns Freddie, a mentally retarded boy, who is being watched over by a teacher and a handyman while his wealthy father is in Europe.

Billy was selected for the role after more than 40 youngsters suggested by the National Association for Retarded Children were tested for the part.

Fleeter Cook, the director, said, "I agreed to do this show because I wanted to direct a retarded child. I've worked with retarded children but never directed one. We could have worked with normal children, but the best we could have achieved would have been an unsentimental, restrained, tasteful performance."

"With Billy, he can only do right. Nothing he does can be wrong. He's a beautiful child. He never misses a cue or forgets his lines," Cook said. "I think you can say that Billy and I direct each other."

Gov. Maddox Offers Bullfrogs As Unique Crop

JEKYLL ISLAND, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Lester Maddox offers his personal bullfrogs to any interested Georgia farmer who wants to take a leap into a new agricultural industry.

Maddox, in a speech for the Georgia Farm Bureau Federation convention, said today he would like to see farmers use more imagination in selecting crops and animals to raise.

"I understand that some Japanese farmers are making a good profit raising bullfrogs and feeding them chicken feed," he said. "With Georgia's abundant water supply, and with a little effort, we could be first in bullfrogs."

"If anybody would like to give that a try, I've got a couple of prime specimens you can use to start with out at the mansion," Maddox keeps several large bullfrogs given to him for entries in jumping frog contests, in the mountain pool in front of the governor's mansion in Atlanta.

It was not a reassuring report which was handed in by the chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Inter-American Affairs after a three-week visit to nine Latin countries. Rep. Armistead L. Selden Jr. found communist subversion in the region to have weathered the storm which afflicted it with the death of Cuban guerrilla leader Che Guevara.

the work of a clandestine communist group. Mexico City was identified in the Selden report as the "vital transfer point" for Cuban and Russian espionage agents in Latin America. The Mexican government has a long history of extreme leniency in dealings with far-left governments. It has been mentioned in previous government reports that the Soviet embassy in Mexico City is the center of communist espionage activities in this hemisphere.

WASHINGTON—Vice President Hubert Humphrey and his top campaign lieutenants are seriously deliberating establishing a "government in exile." Predicted on the late Adlai Stevenson's concept of a National Democratic Advisory Council, the "shadow government" consisted of 20 members, among them former President Truman, Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt and ex-Secretary of State Dean Acheson.

A small permanent staff would handle the council's affairs. It is estimated $100,000 annually would be ample to permit operating expenses. No difficulty is foreseen in raising the required money.

Despite Sen. Eugene McCarthy's pre-election announcement in effect taking himself out of the Democratic party, the Minnesota "peacenik" and his clique are strenuously trying to grab control of another committee that will exercise a lot of influence in party affairs.

visers are having no part of it. He is working cordially with President Humphrey and Democratic National Chairman Lawrence O'Brien, an original Kennedy man who may head the commission at the start.

During their brief meeting in Florida last week Vice President Humphrey made it clear to President-elect Nixon that he is not interested in an appointment in the latter's administration.

Humphrey's Democratic base in the Old South. The fact is that base has been partially eroded for 10 years. Three of the five southern states Nixon won this time—Virginia, Tennessee and Florida—were won by Dwight Eisenhower in both 1952 and 1956 and by Nixon in 1960.

Scotland's Emigration Rate Drops

By RONALD THOMSON
GLASGOW, Scotland (AP)—Thousands have left Scotland over the years, seeking opportunity in England. Now, for the first time in eight years, the emigration rate has dropped sharply. It is a sign of growing confidence in Scotland's political and industrial future.

"There is now clear evidence that Scots see their future at home," said William Ross, Scottish secretary of state in the London-based Labor government.

Ross reported 33,000 Scots left their homeland this past year, compared with 43,000 the previous year. Not since 1952 has the figure been so low.

The Scottish Nationalist party, which wants to break with England and set up its own government, attributes the sudden surge of Scottish pride. A party pamphlet says: "People are staying here because our success has shown them that there is at last real hope for Scotland. With self-government imminent, they can see a bright future in Scotland for themselves and their children."

Self-government is not really imminent, but the Nationalists have become a serious force in British politics. They have 19,000 members in Scotland. This is only a small percentage of the country's 3 million voters, but the party claims hundreds of thousands support it without joining.

Others say a coming industrial boom is a major factor in the stay-home movement.

Shipyards along the River Clyde, where Cunard's new liner Queen Elizabeth is nearing completion, have bulging order books amounting to more than $240 million.

Ten times that amount is expected to be invested in Scotland during the 1970s by oil companies, and government agencies controlling the steel and electrical industries.

Pushing an economy into balance means working out a delicate international equation by careful trade and not too much export. Per Jacobsson, the International Monetary Fund director until his death in 1964, once said: "You can no more define equilibrium in international trade than you can find a pretty girl, but you can recognize one when you see one."

By this subjective test, many economists and businessmen agree with Chancellor of the Exchequer Roy Jenkins' recent claim that Britain's drive to get out of the red "shows every sign of success."

You rarely hear experts talking seriously now of another devaluation—unless it is forced on Britain by events beyond its control. One often mentioned is the fear of an American recession, throwing world trade into a slump.

Britain seems to be putting its own house in order. The consumer buying boom, which followed a serious miscalculation by Jenkins and his economic forecasters of the underlying strength of consumer demand, is finally tapering off. The chancellor gave it the coup de grace last month with a new, pie-Christmas clamp on installment buying.

The buying boom has resulted in the most substantial figure in the devaluation equation—a persistently high level of imports.

According to the theory of the valueless, higher import prices—up 11 per cent on average—should cut the demand for foreign goods. But everything from Italian cars to American popcorn has been sucked in by the buying boom while exporters try to earn the foreign currency to pay for them.

Exports are up 17 per cent in one year, more than enough to cancel out the 14 per cent drop in the value of Britain's economy. Leading the way is the auto industry, which set a record high of $1.44 billion worth of exports.

If things seem to be going as well after devaluation, why did Britain fight so hard against it? In retrospect, the fight seems to have been largely self-generated. Prime Minister Harold Wilson made preservation of the pound the prime objective of his government's policy. He paid for failure in devalued public stature.

But devaluation helped Britain face reality as a member of a nation that could no longer afford imperial pretensions. "We can't be a world policeman any more," says one source. "Jenkins often says nowadays."

Officials Claim Justice Department Campaign Against Crime Is Working

By MALCOLM BARR
WASHINGTON (AP)—Officials say a Justice Department campaign against organized crime, begun in 1961, is succeeding. But they assert congressional tightening of purse strings is hampering the fight against the Syndicate.

"We're stretching and straining all the while," said Assistant Atty. Gen. Fred M. Vinson Jr., of the department's Criminal Division, but the fact is we're having to rob Peter to pay Paul, to keep our people in the field."

Vinson and Henry Peterson, head of the division's organized crime section, report highly mobile task forces of federal crime fighters are making inroads into La Cosa Nostra, but that more money is needed for additional men.

"The task forces, spearheaded by the Justice Department's most recent efforts against organized crime, work with other federal agents in selected cities to pressure organized hoodlum elements."

In Detroit, for example, they report 65 indictments—12 of them last Thursday.

The task groups have infiltrated five areas so far, and are described by Justice Department officials as the biggest boon to organized crime-busting since Elliot Ness.

Like guerrilla warfare, it's difficult to pinpoint a commitment to pinpoint gains against the underworld. But he thinks that since 1961, when Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy began the present campaign, "the graph has levelled off and maybe has gone down a bit."

Automakers Charged With Ducking Safety

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission refiled a controversial staff report today that charges automakers with sidestepping safety matters with stressing sales and the expense of proper warranty service and repair operations.

The report, which was largely in the Washington, D.C., area, was the jumping off point for the investigation described in the report.

The commission itself has taken an active position on the matter, which is the work of two of its staff bureaus.

But the FTC announced it will open hearings on car warranties Jan. 9 and may make some proposals to Congress.

Fate Of Old School Eyed At Jerome

JEROME — The fate of the Pleasant Plains country school, no longer used by the school district, is still undecided, Superintendent William Lipscomb said Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Felix Boguslawski, representing the Pleasant Plains Grand and the Pleasant Plains Club, met with Mr. Lipscomb Friday, but they said neither of the organizations in the community had money to assume financial responsibility for the insurance and maintenance on the former schoolhouse.

The school district previously has paid for the maintenance of the building, but since it no longer has use for the structure, the school board has agreed that the building could be leased for $1 per year providing the lessee pays for insurance and maintenance.

The Pleasant Plains groups have used the building rent-free for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Boguslawski noted at the monthly meeting last week to pay tuition costs for Catherine Moore to attend vocational rehabilitation school in Twin Falls.

In an executive session, the board allowed a group of junior high school students to enter the school. They had been suspended for misconduct. The parents appeared in their behalf.

Street Plans Discussed For Rupert

RUPERT — A 20 foot right-of-way would have to be obtained on A and 8th streets in Rupert in order for them to qualify as part of the secondary highway system through Rupert, and thus be eligible for federal support.

This was the report made by Norm Crosley, of the State Highway Department, when he met last week with Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson and representatives of the city council.

The men called the meeting to determine whether or not the streets were eligible for federal participation of 83 per cent for improvement through a Local Improvement District.

Also present at the meeting was Blaine Jones, district highway engineer from the Shoshone Office.

Mr. Crosley told the city officials that a 70 foot width with a secondary road and the Rupert city roads are only 50 foot wide, necessitating a 20-foot-right-of-way in order to qualify for the secondary highway system. The roads under discussion are part of the highway system in the county.

The A and 8th streets are within ID 12. Mayor Johnson said that no action has been taken concerning the two streets but a report will be given at the next city council meeting.

New Program Would Build Watts Homes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A plan to build a major shopping complex as well as modern living quarters would be built, it said 1,800 residents would be given temporary housing, then sent to new homes.

Law said the five-year project would cost $5 to $7 in private funds for every federal dollar.

The plan has been reviewed several times. Some opponents have accused the planners of "Negro removal" tactics.

ARAB KILLED TEL AVIV

TEL AVIV (AP) — Two Arab saboteurs were killed and a third wounded and captured by an Israeli army patrol near Um Tsutz, in the occupied sector, the Army said today.

A spokesman said Israeli troops opened fire on a group of infiltrators Sunday night. It was not known if any escaped.

The Israelis suffered no casualties, he added.

British Find Pound Devaluation Did Not Hurt As Much As They Had Feared

LONDON (AP) — Just one year ago the British fell off their economic tightrope and devalued the pound.

They've been picking themselves up since then and discovering that the bump from $2.80 down to $2.40 per pound didn't hurt half as much as they had feared. Another drop would certainly hurt, especially in terms of national stability and self-confidence, but so far it doesn't seem likely.

Ask an Englishman what devaluation has meant to him and you get a shrug. It's all but forgotten. He doesn't meet this financial abstraction face to face unless he goes abroad for his two-week vacation. But many Britons go to Spain for their summer sunshine, and Spain devalued its currency along with Britain.

At home the government has been forced to cut spending in its drive to reduce home demand for goods that must be exported. The first slashes hit the welfare state, and the labor government feared walls of criticism. Public opinion polls show that many Britons were ahead of their leaders. They favored fewer state welfare benefits, and more money to spend as they liked.

In fact, they've almost got it. If devaluation works by booming British export sales, they will.

Statistical indicators show that prices have gone up about 5 or 6 per cent in the last year, a shade less than predicted. Earnings of workers are going up only slightly less, virtually canceling out price rises and relaxing the squeeze on most people's pocketbooks. Unemployment is steady at 2 1/2 per cent.

Devaluation has made little difference to the housewife. A year ago, the Sunday Observer sent out a woman reporter with five pounds to fill a shopping basket. She's been making

Red Airfield Located In Thailand Area

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — A secret Communist helicopter landing field was found in north-central Thailand's Nakorn-Phanom Province, Premier Thanom Kittikachorn told his weekly news conference today.

Thanom said the discovery confirmed earlier reports that Communist helicopters were flying into Thailand's northern provinces at night to bring supplies and equipment to terrorists which infest the mountainous jungles. U.S. officials had termed the reports doubtful.

Nakorn Phanom is one of the six provinces where the United States has air bases, sending planes to the war in Vietnam.

Gunfight Kills 2 In Blackfoot

BLACKFOOT, Idaho (AP) — Two Blackfoot men were killed in a bar late Saturday night and a third was charged with first degree murder.

Police said Jorge Barerra, 23, was arrested after Ignacio Ramirez, 43, and Joe Aguirre, 23, were shot. They died in Bingham Memorial Hospital.

Officers said witnesses told of the three men arguing before the shooting started.

Bahamas Move Toward Freedom

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Premier Lynden Pindling said Sunday the Bahamas Islands are moving steadily toward independence, but he warned the task ahead is not an easy one.

Speaking at the Bahamian American Federation in Miami, Pindling said all the resources of the people of the Bahamas will be needed to mold the approaching nationhood. "We do realize the challenge that we face," he said.

Pindling said the main burden faced by the British colony of 700 islands off Florida is winning an economic struggle, and the greatest challenge will be whether his ruling Progressive Liberal party can perform the task.

LOS ANGELES, Calif. — Authorities of a western drug firm say there is no secret to holding dentures tight. All it takes is perimeter suction. Trouble is, most products haven't got it. Bile 'N Hold, a new product has perimetric suction. "It feels different," observe first users, "a secure sensation like having real teeth, and Bile 'N Hold lasts months." New Way Found To Stop Hair Loss, Grow More Hair

HOUSTON, Texas — If you don't suffer from male pattern baldness, you can now stop your hair loss... and grow more hair.

For years "they" said it couldn't be done. But now a firm of laboratory consultants has developed a treatment for male pattern baldness that is not only stopping hair loss... but is really growing hair!

They don't even ask you to take their word for it. If they believe that the treatment will help you, they invite you to try it for 32 days, of their risk, and see for yourself!

Naturally, they would not offer this no-risk trial unless the treatment worked. However, it is impossible to help everyone.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one it is, you can't stop your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead, you are beyond help. So, if you still have any hair on top of your head, and would like to stop your hair loss and grow more hair... now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Loesch Laboratory Consultants, Inc. will supply you with treatment for 32 days, at their risk, if they believe the treatment will help you. Just send them the information listed below. All inquiries are answered confidentially, by mail and without obligation. Adv.

21,618 paid circulation makes an impact you can hear all over your cash register!

T-N circulation gives your store advertising dominance in two ways: First, in the NUMBER OF HOMES reached—21,618. Second, in the QUALITY of readership.

No other medium in Magic Valley gives you this DOUBLE IMPACT which pulls traffic, makes sales, puts your store ahead. Compare this with direct mail or throw-away neighborhood handbills and "shoppers." Since no one PAYS to read them, how can you expect your message to be thoroughly read? Publications like these hit the doorstep—but do they hit the buyer? Look in the wastebasket and all over the yard for your answer.

In contrast with the T-N your message comes in a newspaper that 73% of all the families in Magic Valley subscribe to... read for news and advertised values "cover to cover." The ONLY medium which gets home, 8-counties wide.

What a difference that makes to your advertising—and your advertising dollar! NO WASTE. No unwanted throw-away circulation. Instead, solid, cumulative readership which leads to sales and leadership.

Ask the most successful businessmen in Twin Falls. You see them advertising in the Times-News day in and day out. Better, yet, ask yourself: Can your business afford anything less than the T-N, the one advertising medium which produces more?

Gooding Slates Tour Wednesday For Homemakers

GOODING—Ninety per cent of all decisions homemakers must reach are essentially consumer choices, according to Sandy Kasel, Gooding County Extension Home agent.

"These range from the ever-present 'What shall we have for dinner?' to executive decisions concerning major purchases. This makes the observance of Consumer Education Week an important event for Gooding County Homemakers."

The Extension Homemaker's Council is sponsoring a tour of Gooding merchants to help clarify some problems faced by homemakers as they attempt to make wise purchases. The merchants will give information to acquaint the consumer with new developments, give her some buying guides and provide her with an opportunity to "interrogate" the dealer first hand.

The tour will be held from 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Wednesday, beginning with a "breakfast-walk" safety's unit the IGA grocery. Everyone is welcome to attend, according to Miss Kasel. Participants may bring a sack lunch or purchase one at the cafe where tour members will meet for lunch.

Dear Abby

By ADIGAIL VAN BUREN

Dear Abby: I can't believe I'm writing you. I write this letter. I am desperate. Yesterday I read an article in the newspaper about a man becoming a woman through an operation. They ran a picture of "her" and she is gorgeous! The judge says that "he" is "she" now. Her measurements are 40-23-34.

What I am getting at, Abby, is this: I am a born woman of 25 and all my measurements are 32-25-37. I've sent for all the creams and exercises I've seen advertised to build up the bust, but nothing has helped me. I want more than anything else in this world to have a beautiful bust. I could cry. No one knows how I feel. I tried walking topless across the room once and my husband, Dick, hit me in the head. I've had three children but I don't feel like a woman with this bushy hair of mine.

If a man can become a woman and get shots to give him a 40 bust, why can't I get those shots? DEPRESSED

DEAR DEPRESSED: I don't know where the "he-turned-she" got the shots, but I do know they are illegal in the U.S.A.

DEAR ABBY: Here is a situation which is responsible for my being very dear old friends of ours:

My 23-year-old college graduate son (I'll call him Dick) had a date with a beautiful 18-year-old college girl (I'll call her Mary). They dated occasionally, but there was no commitment on either side.

One night when Dick and Mary were coming home from a date, they had a terrible auto accident. Dick was not excited in the speed limit, he was out sober, and it was not his fault. (He was forced off the road by an on-coming car.) Dick was only slightly injured, but Mary was nearly killed. Her back and pelvis were broken and she will probably never walk again.

Also, her once beautiful face was all cut up and she will need a lot of plastic surgery for years to come.

My wife and I are called on Dick's parents and suggested that it was Dick's "fault" that Mary's life is ruined. Dick should marry her. What do you think? No names or city, please. FRIENDS

2:30 P.M. SUMMARY NEW YORK (AP) - Blue chip weakness combined with a plurality of gains over losses gave the stock market a scrubbed pattern late in this afternoon. Trading was active. The Dow Jones industrial average was off two and three points in reflection of losses among key industrials but the overall list showed more than 100 more gains than losses. The market was reopening an uncertain pattern displayed in recent weeks as it put on a two-way performance. General Motors and Du Pont fell more than a point each as did Swift and Westinghouse Electric. Chrysler dropped a fraction. Occidental Petroleum paced the most active list with a rise exceeding a point, highlighting a strong oil group. Sinclair, up a strong oil group, moved in second place on volume as it responded to news that it and Atlantic Richfield would sell some of their assets to British Petroleum in a $300-million deal. Atlantic Richfield rose more than a point. Royal Dutch advanced about 1/2 point. Occidental Petroleum advanced about a point in a further example of strength in oils. Some drugs also did well. Bristol-Myers and Pfizer, the European monetary crisis had a mixed effect on the gold mining issues. Homestake backed away from a small gain and showed a fractional loss. Nonferrous metals were generally higher, however, American Smelting rose about 2 1/2 points and Kennecott were fractional gainers. Prices remained generally higher on the American Stock Exchange. Stoney, up a fraction, was the volume pacemaker.

Business

NEW YORK (AP) - Eleven years ago Leonard Ross' knowledge of stocks earned him $184,000. Since then, despite one loss, he has built a market over, Ross' fortune has, not again, reached that figure. Not that he has done that poorly investing. He hasn't. The money that went into substantial gains for a while. That, until he began speculating this year. Some people might remember Ross, now a 45-year-old doctor, candidate at Yale, as the youngster who amazed television audiences by accurately answering stock-theoretic questions on "The $64,000 Question" and "The Big Surprise." Taxes soon reduced the stake to between $60,000 and $70,000. The money then went into a trust fund, tied up in real estate that made it almost impossible for the young wizard to put it in either blue chip or glamor stock. In the ensuing years, the market took off on a prolonged rise, sometimes interrupted, during which Ross' investments went into stocks and bond associations, which paid an assured interest rate but nothing like the returns that might have been had the close to 70 percent higher, December 1, 1956, corn was 1 1/2 higher. Rams, 49ers Tie 20-20; Colts Go To First Place

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers tied the Los Angeles Rams 20-20 in a National Football League game Sunday. The Rams, who were in first place, were held to a 20-20 tie with the San Francisco 49ers in their National Football League game Sunday.

Gossett's kick climaxed a Ram comeback after Bill Tucker's five-yard touchdown hit made it 20-10 for the 49ers half-way through the first period. Rams quarterback Roman Gabriel passed his team the length of the field and hit Bill Truax for 12 yards and a score at 3:12 making it 20-10.

Bernie Casey nearly got away on a 14-yard pass from Gabriel with 1:14 left, but was caught from behind by Kermit Alexander. The 49er Alvin Randolph saved a touchdown by tipping away a pass in the end zone.

Gabriel then threw 16 yards to Pat Studstill, putting the ball on the 49er 15. After two short plunges by Dick Bass, Gabriel with three yards to go on the fourth down threw eight yards for an end zone touchdown in Truax but an offside penalty nullified the score.

Gossett then booted the tying field goal.

Nelson Paces Brown Romp Over Steelers

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bill Nelson, a quarterback castoff from the Cleveland Browns, led the Browns to a 45-24 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday.

The Browns intercepted six Pittsburgh passes from Dick Shiner, traded by Cleveland for Nelson—and stayed atop the Century Division of the National Football League.

Nelson, extracting revenge from the Steelers for the second time this season, hit Eric Green with scoring passes of 11 and 42 yards and Bill Morin for two yards.

Nelson left the game in the fourth quarter with an ankle injury and Frank Ryan took over and threw two more touchdown passes. Paul Warfield caught the first, a 36-yarder, and Charlie Hargrave went 37 yards on a screen pass in the second.

The Browns' defense stopped the Steelers twice inside the 40 with interceptions in the first half.

The Steelers picked off three Cleveland passes, but couldn't convert them into points.

Vikings Score Late To Top Lions 13-6

DETROIT (AP) — Halfback Jim Lindsey bucked over from the two-yard line for a 20-yard quarter-minute touchdown to give the Vikings a 13-6 victory over the Detroit Lions Sunday.

The win, coupled with Chicago's 16-13 loss to Atlanta, gave Minnesota sole possession of first place in the division with a 6-4 record. Detroit, which hasn't won a game in its last five tries, slipped to 3-6 and now has little chance to win the division.

Lindsey's score climaxed a Viking drive that moved 76 yards in nine plays.

It was strictly a defensive ball game, with both teams sticking mostly to the ground. Detroit quarterback Bill Munson was on several occasions falling to get the offense rolling.

The Lions' six points came on 33 and 28-yard field goals from the rusty kicking leg of Steve Beck. Walker, who hadn't attempted a field goal this season, hit Minnesota in a 12, 1967, against Minnesota in a 10-0 victory.

Fred Cox kicked two field goals for Minnesota.

Rumors Fly Of Mantle Leaving Baseball; Star Denies Story

NEW YORK (AP) — Mickey Mantle insists that he hasn't decided yet whether he'll continue to play baseball next season.

A copyrighted story by Dick Young in Sunday editions of the New York Daily News said Mantle was retiring and would not return to the New York Yankees next season.

Mickey was out playing football in his backyard when Bob Finkel, the Yankees' vice president for public relations, called him at his Dallas home to ask him about the story.

"Who knows how I'm going to feel in March," Finkel quoted Mantle as saying. "I don't know yet what I'm going to do."

As for the Yankees, Finkel said they expect Mantle at their training camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"We are denying the story," said Finkel. "As far as we know, Mickey is coming back. We firmly expect him to play."

Young quoted Mantle, who celebrated his 37th birthday last month, as saying "I just can't hit anymore." Mickey batted .237—a career low last season, but hit 18 home runs to move into third place on the all-time list of home hitters. Mantle has 536 career homers after passing both Ted Williams and Jimmy Fox last year. He trails only Babe Ruth's 714 and Willie Mays' 587. Mays still is active with the San Francisco Giants.

Mantle came to the majors in 1951 and became the Yankees' regular center fielder when Joe DiMaggio retired. He batted over 300 10 times—the last time in 1954 when the Yankees' last season was 1955 when he won the triple crown, hitting 353 with 22 home runs and 130 runs batted in.

A succession of leg injuries hampered Mantle throughout his career and two years ago, the Yankees switched him to first base in an effort to preserve his legs and prolong his career. Mantle played two seasons at first.

An acknowledged target as Mantle went into last season was third place on the homer chart. Mickey was No. 5 and needed 17 homers to overtake Fox. He had 16 in September and was pressing for No. 17 and the 535th of his career.

In a game at Detroit after the Tigers had clinched the pennant, Mantle connected against 31-game winner Dennis McLain after giving the Tiger right-hander a hand in showing where he'd like the next pitch.

Mantle said he thought McLain had deliberately grooved the pitch for him—but he was sure to say that he had. Mantle hit one more before the season ended for his 536 total.

Oilers Have 38-17 Win Over Broncos

HOUSTON (AP) — Quarterback Pete Beathard passed for a pair of touchdowns and ran for two more to lead the Houston Oilers past stubborn Denver 38-17 in an American Football League game Sunday.

The victory kept alive the Oilers' slim chances of repeating as the AFL Eastern Division champions.

Beathard completed two touchdown passes to Mac Iain, one a 50-yarder, and the other a 10-yarder. Beathard also scored on runs of 10 and 20 yards.

Other Houston scores came on a 40-yard pass interception by Larry Garwell and a 16-yard field goal by Wayne Walker as the Oilers broke open a relatively tight game with two quick fourth period touchdowns.

Denver's scores came on a 67-yard punt return by Floyd Little, a 17-yard pass from rookie quarterback Mark Briscoe to Al Denney and a 12-yard field goal by Bob Howfield.

Indiana Has 114-91 Win Over Nets

COMMACK, N. Y. (AP) — Bob Netolicky led Indiana on a third quarter rampage and the Pacers clobbered the New York Nets 114-91 Sunday night in an American Basketball Association game.

Netolicky, hitting 13 of his 24 points in the third period, led the Pacers on a 21-7 spree in the last five minutes of the period as they broke open the game for new coach Bob Leonard's first victory.

Indiana led only 54-50 at the half, but outscored the Nets 40-20 in the third period.

Roger Brown also had 23 points for Indiana and Mel Daniels 21. Oliver Darden scored 22 for the Nets.

Trainer Had To Celebrate Racing Win

CHERRY HILL, N.J. (AP) — "The truth of the matter is that I felt like we were a bunch. I had to get drunk last night (Friday) to get anybody."

This was trainer Eddie Delaney talking after his bay colt, Beau Drummel, won the $12,600 Garden State Stakes Saturday and turned the 2-year-old division championship into a guessing game.

"Last spring this horse was nothing," said Delaney, holding a phial of owner Open Millin Philip's champagne in his hand. "He looked like a piece of garbage. But he improved all the time."

Beau Drummel, with Braulio Baeza up, turned in the upset of the 2-year-old season as he beat the 2-5 favorite Top Knight, who before his bay colt, Beau State appeared to have a lock on the juvenile title.

Top Knight, ridden by Manny Vega, was third, beaten a neck for the place by Siracchupoint who was 1/4 length behind fourth in the field of 10.

Beau Drummel had never won a stakes race and earned only $37,007 until Saturday.

Beau Drummel returned $11, $5, $2 and $2.20 and went the distance in 1:44.35.

Another One!
CHICAGO (AP) — The injury-plagued Chicago Bears suffered a no other serious blow Sunday when they lost the services of Quarterback Virgil Carter for the rest of the season.

Carter, 22, had guided the Bears to four straight victories before suffering a broken ankle in the third period of a 16-13 loss to the Atlanta Falcons.

Carter's injury came a week after the Bears lost the services of Gale Sayers, who suffered a knee laceration against the San Francisco 49ers and was sidelined for the season.

Director Goes Into Soviet-Occupied Czechoslovakia To Film Battle Scenes

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — It seemed impossible, going into Russian-occupied Czechoslovakia to film battle scenes for an American movie. Yet Director William Kronick managed that feat and has returned with the footage to complete a $5-million war epic.

Kronick was the second-unit director of "The Bridge at Remagen" in movie parlance, the second unit is the company that films action sequences and backgrounds that don't require the principal actors. Like the rest of the American film troupe Kronick evacuated in a motorcade a day after the Russians and their allies invaded Czechoslovakia.

Forty per cent of the picture remained to be filmed, including important battle scenes that could be shot only at the Czech bridge which doubled for the Rhine span where American troops crossed in World War II. Producer David Wolper arranged for the rest of "The Bridge at Remagen" to be completed in Hamburg and Italy.

"But we still needed desperately to shoot the final battle and the blowing up of the bridge in Czechoslovakia," Wolper said in his Sunset Strip office. "All of our equipment was still in Czechoslovakia—the tanks and heavy trucks we had leased from Austria."

"We met with the Czechs and the Russians in Vienna and began negotiations. They agreed to let us return for seven days to film, even though it included a lot of big explosions with dynamite and TNT tanks firing, etc."

Kronick returned to Prague and began preparations to shoot the battle scenes. "It wasn't easy," he said, "because I had to match what had been shot before the invasion. We had been using Czech soldiers who had been especially chosen to look like Americans—and they resemble Americans more than any other Europeans could have."

"But by now all those soldiers had been discharged, and we had to train new ones."

Kronick lined up 400 to impersonate American soldiers, 175 to pose as refugees crossing the bridge, and another 100 for Germany.

"In troubled Czechoslovakia it was feared that the gunfire and explosions required for the filming might alarm the populace. Elaborate precautions were made to inform the citizens of the filming plans and army troops ringed the area to prevent any incidents."

"We were fighting against the the weather was turning cold, the leaves were beginning to redden. This would have conflicted with the early scenes, which were filmed in spring. And the whole picture was supposed to take place in three days.

"I were all set up to shoot and then the weather became too overcast for shooting. Finally on the seventh day the sun came out and I photographed the 20 scenes I needed, all in one day."

Producer Wolper observed that the relocation of the film company added a million dollars to the budget. "But then we also got a million dollars worth of publicity. Although photographed in Czechoslovakia, Germany and Italy, the scenes match perfectly," he said. "Even one scene in which an actor began racing across the Czech bridge and finished the run in Italy nine weeks later."

State Department Official's Visit To Pretoria Adds Warmth To Relations

By KENNETH L. WHITING

PRETORIA, South Africa, (AP) — A low-key visit by a U.S. State Department official has added a bit of warmth to relations between Washington and Pretoria.

No important change is expected in America's attitude toward South Africa as a result of the call by the assistant secretary of state for Africa, Joseph Palmer, but his visit was welcomed by many South Africans.

In diplomatic language, Palmer was on a "familiarization" tour of the African continent. His was the first significant meeting in Pretoria in a decade between South African leaders and top-level U.S. officials. A similar visit by his predecessor, G. Mennen Williams, was never "convenient" because of Williams' sharp attacks on apartheid.

Race is the reason behind latently formal relations between the United States and South Africa.

Strictly administered racial separation is law of this land. While supporters of the South African government view America's attitude as hostile and hypocritical, "Why," they ask, "should Americans who cannot solve their own race problems prescribe solutions for this country? Why can't Washington understand that South Africa is the West's firmest bastion against communism in Africa? Why must the Vanki curry favor with blacks at our expense?"

For their part, Americans who take time to think about South Africa probably are puzzled. Some Americans are convinced that apartheid just won't work in the long run, and that efforts to enforce it threaten peace in Africa and race relations around the world.

The country has 3.5 million whites, 13 million Africans,

Idaho Water Resources Inventory Is Completed, Appears In 600-Page Book

The first sentence of the Idaho Water Resource Board's latest 600-page publication and Atlas says simply but eloquently "Water is essential for man's survival" and sets the tone for a wealth of detailed material concerning the State's water supply and related land resources. Announcing completion of the study and printing of the "Idaho Water Resources Inventory," Board Director, Robert R. Lee, said the massive amount of data compiled into one publication was only possible through cooperation of private and governmental agencies throughout Idaho. "The Water Resources Research Institute, University of Idaho, headed by Professor Calvin C. Warnick, had the tremendous responsibility of preparing this inventory. The Idaho Department of Reclamation and U.S. Geological Survey were major contributors to the report." Dr. Lee said, "Information gathered into this 600-page book is vital to the future development of an Idaho Water Plan resources in Idaho and the Northwest."

Professor John Peebles, Department of Civil Engineering, University of Idaho was in direct charge of preparing and editing the report and Alan C. Robertson, Chief Hydrology Branch was contract supervisor for the Idaho Water Resource Board.

The report consists of a 600-page book and companion Atlas of 50 large maps. Chapter items include: Climatology, Surface Water, Groundwater, Water Use and Control, Water Rights and Recommendations. Book size is 8 1/2 x 11". The Water Resources Inventory is one of several water studies being funded by the Idaho Water Resource Board to identify Idaho's resources and long-term needs. Other reports will be published in the coming months. Dr. Lee said that 1,000 copies have been published. Sets will be distributed by the Water Resource Board to cooperators, contributors, agencies, commissions, and others who helped with the data-gathering effort. Additional copies will be available from the Idaho Water Resource Board at $12 a set.

Merchants Find Computers Speed Checking Of Credit

By DICK KLEINER

LOS ANGELES — (NEA) — I got an NU on my 30-DY in less than three minutes. And a new era in credit checks was born.

The Los Angeles Retail Merchants Credit Association has gone computerized. Instead of a bevy of girls going through a copy of files, now a machine chatters out the facts in roughly 180 seconds.

W. D. Conel, general manager of the RMCA, says that it would have taken perhaps seven minutes for the girls to find out that there was "Nothing Unsatisfactory" — NU — on my 30-day account — 30-DY — before the machines took over. "The computer is faster," he said, "and it minimizes error, although it is not infallible. Nothing is. Programmers can conceivably make an error."

"But it is far better than the old system. We had clerks who couldn't find a file — because they didn't know the alphabet." The computer does. And it can find any one of the 6 million people it has in its electronic head in seconds.

For the RMCA, which is asked for an average of 5,000 credit checks a day, speed is vital, and so is accuracy.

The computer room is large and sterile-looking, with everything clean and uncluttered. The room is kept cool — 68 degrees — because the computers throw off a lot of heat.

Conel held up a black plastic card. Each one holds the financial history of 1,000 people. The computer can dig out the right card in seconds, find the right information in a few more, then print its report.

There, in black and white, is everything relating to a person's credit history. The rating is given numerically from 1 ("Pays within 30 days of billing") down to 9 ("Bad debt; placed for collection; skip").

The RMCA, one of several in Los Angeles but also one of the world's largest, is owned by many merchants co-operatively. It has already installed a direct teletype connection to the computer in the credit office of Los Angeles' largest department store. Go in there today, and ask to open a charge account, and the girl can ask the computer directly, and you get a credit check while you wait.

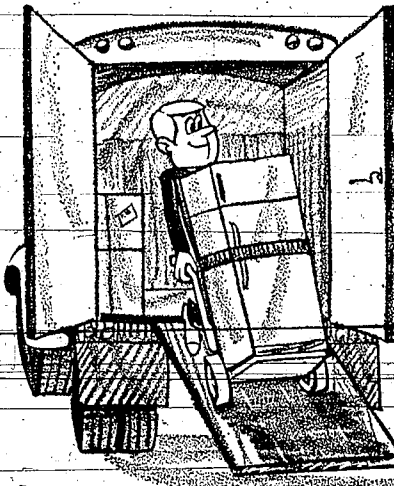

Eventually, Conel says, his dream is to have such teletype writers in most major retail stores. No longer will the customer have to fill out a long form, and wait days for a credit bureau to check out each reference.

"The computer," say Conel, "is the only way to handle the large volume of business you get in a metropolitan credit bureau."

So far, the computer rates an NU.

Nazi-Hunter Believes Martin Bormann Is 'Alive And Well' In Brazil City.

BY TOM CULLEN

VIENNA — (NEA) — Martin Bormann did not commit suicide on May 1, 1945, as the Russians fought on the outskirts of Berlin, but is alive today and hiding in Brazil, or so says Simon Wiesenthal, the man who brought Adolf Eichmann to justice.

Bormann was reported to have swallowed cyanide shortly after Hitler killed himself in his Berlin bunker, but Wiesenthal, the world's No. 1 authority on Nazi war criminals, says this is nonsense.

"Bormann's presence in his time fitting between Chile, Paraguay and Brazil," Wiesenthal claims. "He has plenty of money, and he travels with an armed bodyguard—but his health is poor. He suffers from high blood pressure."

In fairness, it should be pointed out that other experts who have studied the case are just as convinced that Bormann is dead.

But Wiesenthal says he has reliable reports that Bormann, who was Hitler's personal deputy, was seen in the Rio Grande do Sul region of Brazil, near the Paraguay border, earlier this year.

"It could take a skilled commando group to smoke him out," the sleuth says. "Unfortunately, I have neither the money nor the resources for such an operation myself."

The West German government believes so strongly that Bormann is alive that it has posted a $25,000 reward for his arrest, and instructed its legal department to apply for his extradition, should he be found in South America.

Travel time from the airport to Public Square, heart of Cleveland's business center, will be about 20 minutes. During peak traffic hours, travel time between the two points via other means is about an hour. Educational Experiment Tests Skills Of Teaching English To Immigrants tracks to teach in neighborhoods such as the ones they came from.

At the same time, another teacher, a black girl from Newark, N.J., was pointing: "Head, shoulders, knees and toes." Two Mexican-American girls, second and fourth graders, listened and copied. They were learning English.

The National Teachers Corps chose Stockton as the test city for an experiment with two new features for the federal program—the teachers, working as classroom aides, don't yet have their college degrees and most of them come from poor families.

Buhl Seniors Slate Play Nov. 25, 26

BUHL — The Buhl high school senior class will present "Gideon," a play by Paddy Chayefsky, Nov. 25 and 26 in the high school auditorium, under the direction of Joe Haggard. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

Enns Ramos, 30, comes from a family of farm workers. In his application for the corps he writes: "I remember that on several occasions we registered at a school in the morning and checked out of school in the afternoon of the same day, because while we were in school my father had learned that the crops weren't too good."

Costmir Cisar, head of the Czech National Council and former education minister, broadcast an "urgent appeal" on League television for students to "Act wisely, do not permit yourselves to be pushed into a rash course and avoid unnecessary conflict."

Mr. Trejo, 21, came from Mexico to Stockton in 1957. She believes middle-class teachers don't always understand the problems of poor children.

The play was made after strikes got under way in suburban Prague, and in Communist central Moravia. Prague student government leaders announced a three-day sit-in beginning Sunday at Charles University and other schools in the capital.

Even though "Gideon," which originally appeared in New York City in 1961, is set in Biblical Palestine 2,600 years ago, Chayefsky's theme is very contemporary society, and by setting it in a framework of humor, he has made the serious theme of his play very enjoyable.

The play, which is based on the Bible story of how God helped an Israelite young man, Gideon, free the Israelites from Midianite domination, is, in spite of its Bible background and setting, a story about modern man and his relationship, to God.

The $275,000 south Stockton project is run by the University of California at San Diego.

Rights Demonstrators In Ireland Win Right To March

LONDONDERRY, Northern Ireland (AP) — Thousands of civil rights demonstrators won their fight to march inside Londonderry's historic walls Saturday after a tense confrontation with hundreds of policemen and a rock-throwing clash with Protestant opponents.

With a roar of "We Shall Overcome," the mainly Catholic marchers stormed across the city's main bridge toward the 17th century walls, symbol of Protestant domination of Northern Ireland's six counties.

But the police made no move to intervene when at least 3,000 marchers, defying a government ban on demonstrations inside the walls, filtered through side streets and took over the city center.

Prime Minister Terence O'Neill has promised as part of a review of local government procedure to look again at the voting system, which in Londonderry has long been a main point of contention, because overcrowding is bad in the Roman Catholic quarter.

WELL KNOWN GASSBAGS prepare to soar again. Millions of youngsters and the young at heart have thrilled to the huge figures balloons that bob and weave down Broadway during New York City's Thanksgiving Day parade. This year's event of him taken in the town of Independencia. He's a millionaire, his family having once owned the biggest agricultural machinery plant in Europe. He is one of the few Nazi-bigwigs who is still living in the U.S.

Wiesenthal, a Polish Jew, weighed only 90 pounds when American soldiers freed him from the Mauthausen concentration camp in 1945. Most of his family were dead, having perished in Hitler's gas ovens.

Once freed, Wiesenthal felt that he had a mission to accomplish. It was to avenge not only his family but his dead friends in Lemberg, Poland, where he had worked as an architect. Only 500 of the 150,000 Jews of Lemberg survived the gas ovens.

"I felt that somehow I must make amends to them for the privilege of having remained alive," says Wiesenthal.

He set up a one-man documentation center on Nazi war crimes, operating for two years on a shoestring budget of $50 a month contributed by a sympathizer in Geneva.

Significantly, Wiesenthal also opened his office in Linz, Austria, two blocks from where Frau Eichmann lived until 1954 when she joined her husband in hiding in Argentina.

A cat-and-mouse game culminated in 1961 when Israeli agents, in one of the most daring coups of modern times, kidnaped Eichmann and took him to Israel to be tried and executed.

Czechoslovak Students Stage Sit-Ins

PRAGUE (AP) — Students took over universities Saturday in sit-in strikes to back demands that Czechoslovakia's Communist leadership guarantee freedom of information, assembly and foreign travel in this Soviet-occupied country.

Costmir Cisar, head of the Czech National Council and former education minister, broadcast an "urgent appeal" on League television for students to "Act wisely, do not permit yourselves to be pushed into a rash course and avoid unnecessary conflict."

The play was made after strikes got under way in suburban Prague, and in Communist central Moravia. Prague student government leaders announced a three-day sit-in beginning Sunday at Charles University and other schools in the capital.

He is also due to be a star witness at the trial of Dr. Franz Stangl, the former commandant of the Treblinka concentration camp, scheduled to begin in Dusseldorf in January. Stangl is said to have been responsible for 700,000 deaths at Treblinka. "I trailed Stangl for years,"

Wiesenthal recalls. "He was actually a prisoner of the Americans for awhile, but escaped a few days before I discovered his whereabouts."

Wiesenthal thinks his work will be ended by 1975. "By that time the biological solution will have intervened. Many of the Nazi criminals will either be dead or too old to imprison," he explains.

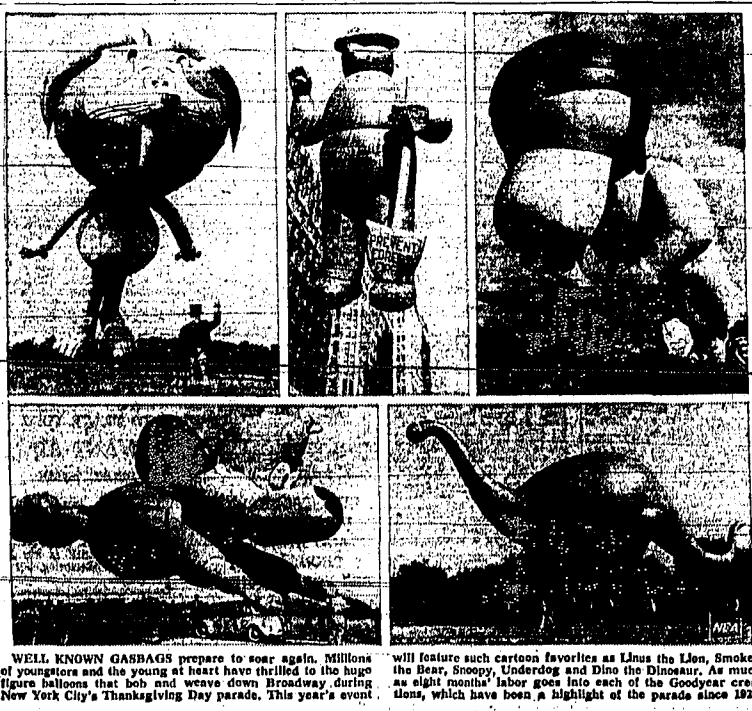

Wiesenthal won't be sorry to close down his documentation center.

Nixon Works
On Inaugural
Talk, Budget

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP)—
President-elect Richard M. Nixon, relaxing alone on a porch overlooking placid Biscayne Bay, spent Saturday on his inaugural address and on budget problems.

He also named two of his top speech writers as White House staffers.
With his family in Pennsylvania for the wedding of Barbara Eisenhower, Nixon spent the day at the retirement home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Smathers, D-Fla. Aides were stationed in a nearby hotel.

At a mid-morning briefing for pressmen, a Nixon aide told press aide Ron Ziegler that Nixon "is currently working by himself on the porch of the Smathers home on Key Biscayne."

"I think that you could characterize what he is doing as spending some time alone, concentrating on certain areas in the inaugural and budget," Ziegler told reporters.

Two assistants Ziegler said Nixon planned to name are Raymond K. Price Jr., 38, and Patrick J. Buchanan Jr., 30.

The assistants are expected to play a major role in shaping Nixon's address for the Jan. 20 inauguration and other messages to Congress outlining legislative proposals.

Price, former chief editorial writer for the New York Herald-Tribune, and Buchanan, a former editorial writer for the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, have been on Nixon's staff since last year.

In outlining their White House roles Ziegler said the two will be "generalists in the true sense" active in "development of programs and policy studies."

Asked if he was named to give a liberal viewpoint and Buchanan to give a conservative one, Price said: "Together we provide a pretty good balance." Buchanan said the two have been able "to give Nixon the benefits of two viewpoints."

Ziegler said Nixon had no meetings planned and nothing special in his schedule, adding in response to a question that the president-elect planned to stay here at least through Tuesday, returning Wednesday to New York.

Nixon Will Depend On Trusted Circle Of Close Advisers Rather Than Cabinet

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
WASHINGTON (NEA)—A victory for Nixon is now going to follow what might be called the John F. Kennedy pattern and govern the United States mostly through a trusted inner circle of White House advisers rather than through the big-name cabinet he will soon be appointing.

This means that many of the people Nixon has relied upon most heavily in winning the Republican nomination and then the election will be in the White House, making key decisions, acting partly as liaison men with the departments and agencies of the executive branch but more as subcommanders putting the presidential spur to the ponderous bureaucracy.

The late John Kennedy did not invent this technique of governing. It has been developing for years. But he gave it an immense boost, and President Johnson has largely maintained that momentum.

A Nixon associate explains part of the reason: "It would take Nixon 18 months to get properly acquainted with the members of his cabinet as a governing team. He will not have that time. He will have to turn immediately to people he knows and trusts."

It is too soon to say with utter precision what the full list of Nixon's inner command will look like. Some persons who now serve him well and closely may want some post of independent status and some may not want to come to Washington at all.

In the "independent status" category may fall Nixon's campaign manager, the building, 37-year-old John W. Mitchell, a senior Nixon law partner, he is thought unlikely to immerse himself in the anonymity of the White House staff.

Maurice Stans, 60, former U.S. budget director under Dwight Eisenhower, president of an investment banking firm, is recognized money specialist, is another who may find his way to high agency rank. He has been Nixon's finance chairman.

Though probably not material for cabinet position, another who may turn up in some key agency post is Robert Ellsworth, 42, Washington lawyer, former liberal Republican congressman from Kansas, an early Nixon backer who became national campaign director over the last once-major Washington operations.

The roster of those who may turn up inside the White House includes Leonard Garment, 44, Nixon law firm associate who early involved himself in the 1968 campaign and is a specialist in coordinating media and advertising efforts and can serve as a general trouble-shooter.

H. R. (Bob) Hildemann, a chief of staff and top administrator who, at 42, has been a political associate of Nixon's for years, is presently vice president of a top advertising firm and a member of the University of California's Board of Regents. His managerial talents are known. John Sears, 29, detached from the Nixon law firm in 1966 to work in the intervening years as a political strategist and advisor at a high school of graduates at 15, clerk on the high-placed New York Court of Appeals at 23. Sears played a principal role in rustling national convention delegates.

Patrick Buchanan, 29, former St. Louis newspaperman, quick study speech writer, distinguished for a time in 1966 by his lonely position as Nixon's only political helper as the future candidate prepared to stump the country for a host of Republican prospects that fall.

Raymond Price, 38, another former newspaperman who serves Nixon as a speech-writer but works more at the broader level and traveled with Nixon on his three-week Asian trip in 1967.

Martin Anderson, 32, former teacher of economic theory and corporate finance, at Columbia University, author of a book called "The Federal Bulldozer" which caught Nixon's fancy, part-formulator of the candidate's "black-capitalism" policies, hopefully a link to the academic community which has largely spurned Nixon.

Herbert Klein, 50, long-time Nixon press aide, former San Diego editor, serving this time as a kind of free-wheeling manager of communications who can speak in Nixon's name even though he may not see or talk with him for days at a time.

A broad assumption exists that Klein will find an influential place in the White House but probably not as press secretary. Bryce Harlow, 52, former aide to Dwight Eisenhower in his White House years, who since Nixon's rise has helped co-ordinate Nixon's policy utterances and may continue to do so.

Peter Flanigan, 45, investment banker, deputy campaign manager under John Mitchell, highly useful for his contacts with the money community.

An aid and trusted Nixon friend whose future role in the picture is unclear is Robert Finch, 42, presently lieutenant-governor of California, who won his first and only political office in 1966 by a bigger margin than did Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Nixon is deeply fond of Finch, admires his abilities and his talent for reaching intellectuals and some others Nixon himself cannot reach, liaison to him and he would be the old adviser he is, thinks of him almost as a brother.

But Finch has not been as closely wrapped into the 1968 campaign as key stages as some reports have it. Furthermore, he is immensely ambitious politically and both he and Nixon may therefore see it as unwise for him to take on any kind of responsibility which would sever his ties with his California base.

It is interesting to note, in light of this roster, that at the three secret June-July election planning sessions held at Key Biscayne, Fla., and Montauk Point, L.I., those present every time included Nixon himself and a member of Buchanan, Price, Sears and a now-detached writer and idea man, Richard Whalen.

Finch and Mitchell attended just one of the three meetings. Haldeman made two, Klein none.

More than two dozen policy task forces already are at work putting down the foundations from which will be launched the first big thrusts of a Nixon administration.

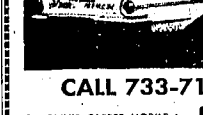

Not so easy to discern is how far Garment has met with some black leaders to open communication lines, and Nixon himself joined Michigan Gov. George Romney in Detroit a month ago in a three-hour meeting on political problems. Most of the conferees present were black.

Though Nixon associates recognize that bridging this gap and the similar gulf with at least some of the discontented young is a vital requirement for his success.

He must now undertake the most difficult task any U.S. president has ever faced: trying to put back together again a nation ripped apart as never since the Civil War. It, more than the war, will provide the real test of his governing. And helping out will be that key inner circle.

Women Are In Hospital Less Time

The American female, who lives longer than the male, also goes to the hospital for shorter periods.

An analysis of government estimates shows that on the average, women spend three days less in the hospital per visit than men.

The data showed that the average stay for a female in a U.S. general hospital was 7.4 days, while it was 4.9 per cent greater for males, 10.4 days.

The survey, covering the 12-month period ending June 1967, found that the average length of stay per patient, both male and female, averaged 8.6 days—an increase of about a half a day over the same period a year earlier.

An important factor in women's shorter hospital stays is maternity. The periods in the hospital spent for birth—usually less than a week—are figured into the overall average and tend to pull it down.

"Perhaps another partial explanation," says the Health Institute, "is that breadwinning males, who can less afford absenteeism from the job, tend to defer hospitalization until they are really ill, and consequently need more intensive and longer care."

The study also showed that there were over 24 million patients discharged from U.S. general hospitals during the year, or 12.8 per 100 population. It found that despite increased hospital utilization by the aged, discharges hardly rose over the previous year.

This is probably due to the continuing drop in birth rates and the consequent decline in hospitalization of women of childbearing age," says the Health Institute.

Many Diabetics Have Excess Of Insulin

The chronic diseases that people live with are usually a major concern of wives and mothers who see to it that family members maintain diets and medication schedules.

Traditionally, women are the "health guards" of the family. They need to be aware of new ways of treating many chronic diseases. New methods of treating diabetes—for instance—mean new health-for-millions.

For 40 years after the discovery of insulin in the 1920's it was thought that diabetes was a simple condition caused by the body's failure to produce sufficient insulin.

Injected insulin became the traditional therapy used to treat diabetes.

But in 1962, when scientists learned how to measure insulin levels in blood, they discovered that many diabetics were not suffering from lack of insulin at all. Rather, it was found that some have excess amounts of insulin in their blood—together with excess sugar. Evidently the action of this excess insulin is blocked because it is held inactive in the blood of some diabetics.

It is now widely accepted that there are two types of diabetes: the juvenile-onset type (in which the disease usually appears before age 15), who do suffer from an insulin shortage, and the maturity-onset type (whose diabetic condition usually appears after overweight diabetics on reduced diets. In some patients, a strict diet is all that is needed to keep blood sugar within normal limits.

When diet alone is insufficient, physicians may choose one of the basic types of oral anti-diabetic drugs to lower blood sugar level. One of these—phenformin (DBI)—is unique in that it does not stimulate the body to produce more insulin, but rather seems to help the previously blocked blood insulin to increase use of blood sugar.

In the muscle while at the same time bringing about a reduction of excess insulin secretion. In the process, the diabetic frequently loses weight.

Surgery Costs Have Soared

A report of a study conducted by the Health Insurance Association of America indicates that since 1955, the cost of even minor surgery has risen over 50 per cent.

The cost of a tonsillectomy, which averaged $53 in 1955, was up to $90 last year—an increase on the average, of nearly 30 per cent.

A gall bladder removal, which is something beyond minor surgery, cost an average of $349 last year—up 49 per cent from 1955 when it cost $115 less.

An appendectomy, which in 1955 should show that the disease is not simply caused by a lack of insulin. And most importantly, they should know that excess weight in older persons can be a sign of diabetes.

1955 cost an average of $147 to perform, was up to $228 last year, an increase of over 55 per cent. Other cost rises reported by the HIAA, based on the national average, included a single hernia operation, up 48 per cent from 1955 to $211; a complete hysterectomy, up to $310, or 42 per cent higher. These costs vary significantly by geographical region.
