New Plan Suggested In Crisis

—BONN, Germany (AP) — West Germans reported a breakthrough today in an effort by the world's wealthiest nations to save the French franc from devaluation and to end the latest international monetary crisis. The money managers, meeting in secret for the second straight day, plunged into an effort to collect enough credits for the rescue operation. Karl Schiller, West Germany's minister of economics, told newsmen the conference was considering these measures: —West German tax measures to encourage imports and discourage exports. This, he said, has been the No. 1 topic all along. —Special credit arrangements among the 11 countries—the "Group of 11" plus Switzerland, an observer. —Measures to be taken by the "deficit countries," meaning in this case largely France, though Britain too has a dangerous trade deficit. The measures would keep the West German franc from having to devalue. —Measures to be taken by the "deficit countries," meaning in this case largely France, though Britain too has a dangerous trade deficit. There were also scattered strikes at secondary schools in Prague and universities in Slovakia, mostly ending Wednesday night. Fire In Shafts Dims Hope For Rescue Of 78 Miners

MANNINGTON, W. Va. (AP) — Hope of rescuing the 78 miners trapped deep in a burning coal mine dimmed further today with an announcement that the fire in the shafts increased during the night. "Since last evening, all attempts to reduce the fire have failed," executive vice president William Poundstone of Consolidation-Coal Co. told a news conference this morning. "The fire has definitely spread during the night. That fact is obvious by the smoke which is now coming out of two shafts." An explosion at daybreak Wednesday started the fire and a chain of explosions later sent flames throughout the deep shafts. "Twenty-one men either made it to the surface safely or were pulled from ventilation shafts by buckets on the end of a crane. But there has been no word from the 78 since the initial blast." The smoke and intense heat kept rescue teams from entering the shaft in an effort to reach the trapped men. Also at the news conference were John Cocoran, president of Consolidation Co., W. A. "Tony" Hoyle, president of the United Mine Workers; and James Westfield, consultant for the U.S. Bureau of Mines and an expert on mine fires.

— Another thing which is discouraging is the amount of carbon monoxide which has increased in the mine," Poundstone said. He said he was not being given up for the rescue. Poundstone said he was not being given up for the rescue. Poundstone said he was not being given up for the rescue.

fire is contained and there will be no additional explosions." "As long as we feel there is a chance to reduce and contain the fire, we will not give up hope," Poundstone said. "At this time, we do not intend to seal up the entire mine."

Poundstone said smoke is now pouring from a shaft which had been sealed to control air flow into the mine but a building of gas blew the seal open late Wednesday night.

Boyle said he was present to witness the sealing of the shaft.

Boyle said he considers the mine operators "one of the best companies as far as cooperation and safety are concerned."

"As long as we mine coal, there is always this inherent danger," he said.

Officials said the mine was inspected for safety last August and federal inspectors reported they found no dangerous accumulation of gas.

There was no determination of what caused the explosion, but company spokesmen said yesterday that it was either accumulation of gas or dust.

Is Power Balance Tipped To Congress?

WASHINGTON—Top congressional leaders are telling themselves that one result of the November 5th elections was to check, and perhaps even reverse, the slow seepage of power from Congress to the President.

The view that the power balance has shifted is not, as previously noted, confined to Democratic leaders. Senate Republican Leader Everett Dirksen, Ill., is one GOP strategist who has spoken to friends of a "transition" in power brought about by the elections.

Airport Funds

Those who wonder how the federal government ever got so involved in local affairs and who think it ought to get the heck out forthwith might devote a little study to the history of Cleveland's airport rapid transit. This city has just become the first in the Western Hemisphere to provide a public rail link-up between its major airport and its downtown.

"You Blew It!"

ANDREW TULLY

Leaders in both parties think President Nixon will have to work with Congress, not manipulate it. A President-elect who is not able to get along effectively in his early years as President. They think Nixon is well aware of this inhibition.

In Nixon's appointment of Bryce Harlow to manage legislative affairs they see a determination by the President-elect to cooperate with a congressional partner.

After his appointment last week, Harlow posed for Republican support by Democratic Congress. In the great undertakings, Harlow said, both parties are involved with the overriding national interest and, "They have to perform, willy nilly."

Congressional leaders know that there is a corollary to Harlow's statement: The President is also involved in the national interest, and in Harlow's words, must "perform, willy nilly" too.

Congressional leaders in both parties know that the purely partisan restraints, imposed on Nixon by this new Democratic Congress, will bind very lightly.

In the non-proliferation treaty, Harlow said, both parties are involved with the overriding national interest and, "They have to perform, willy nilly."

They comment that, while voters were giving Nixon his moderate, publicized face, a new Congress very similar to the old one. They remark that voters were kind to congressional incumbents, even though this had been billed as a year to turn the rascals out.

Grants In Aid

During the last five years, more than $96 billion was distributed to the states in the form of grants by the federal government. Highway construction, urban renewal and aid to education were included, but the list is a long one.

Suit Assails Majority Law On Bond Issues

POCATELLO, Idaho (AP) — Idaho's requirement for a two-thirds majority to pass city bond issues has been attacked as a violation of the equal rights provision of the U.S. Constitution in a suit filed in Pocatello District Court.

The suit contends the two-thirds requirement gives the negative voters twice the power of an affirmative voter. The legal action was filed after Pocatello voters failed to pass a $1.05 million bond issue for a new air terminal and a swimming pool.

E. A. Dee Bogert and John Rogers filed the suit Wednesday and named the city council as respondents. They contend that the council erroneously certified the issue as having failed because a simple majority of the voters did approve the issue.

U.S. Rule On 'Fats' Scolded

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration is being "outraged," "outraged," harsh and archaic," in its rulings concerning the fats in foods that people buy, a heart specialist says.

Consumers cannot find out whether foods contain the kind of fats recommended by many heart specialists as likely to help ward off heart attacks, said Dr. Jeremiah Stamler of Chicago.

An FDA ruling forbids manufacturers to give this information on the labels on their products, he said.

"The labels should compel manufacturers to list the contents of animal or vegetable fats, or saturated and polyunsaturated fats in their products," Stamler told an audience at the opening of the American Heart Association's annual meeting.

Behind his charge, supported in a recent official statement from the heart association, is the belief of many heart specialists that a change from the usual American diet can help protect against heart attacks.

One major change recommended is to reduce the intake of saturated fats, coming mostly from animal sources, and to increase consumption of polyunsaturated fats, derived mostly from vegetable oils.

Stamler said the FDA several years ago took the stand that there was no solid evidence of a relationship between fats and cholesterol in food intake and atherosclerosis, the artery clogging disease that underlies most heart attacks.

Further, it ruled manufacturers could not advertise that any foods could help protect against heart attacks, or list the composition of fats in products.

"But the public is aware of differences in fats, and of the implication that changes in fat intake can help protect against heart attacks," Stamler said. "The FDA has never dared take the issue into courts."

Another specialist, Dr. Irving H. Cleveland, said "There is no reason why the public shouldn't know about the fats in food that they buy."

Not just the food people eat, but other habits seem to increase susceptibility to heart attacks, Page and other speakers said.

Lack of exercise and physical activity, being overweight and smoking cigarettes are among these habits, they said.

"People cannot afford not to listen" to growing evidence concerning these hazards, Page said. "Americans can change their habits, but it will take time. They are not going to do themselves any harm by making such changes."

HELENA, Mont. (AP) — Gov. Field at Boise will be the site for annual field-training exercises of Montana National Guardsmen beginning next year.

Maj. Gen. Richard C. Kendall, state adjutant general, said he and his staff preferred to continue training in Montana if room could be had for the armored maneuvers, but final word had been received from Continental Army Command.

The move from the Helena area is expected to have some economic impact, but no estimate is available. The armored squadrons require about 2,500 square miles in fire and maneuver.

VERNON, Ravenscroft, D. Tuttle, said Wednesday a meeting of the Associated Taxpayers of Idaho he doubts there would be any benefit to consumers of the long-range adjustment.

The present formula will, over the next eight years, bring assessed valuation for residential property from current 14 per cent of cash value average to 20 per cent. It will lower utility property from 30 per cent to 20 per cent.

"Because of federal tax laws," Ravenscroft said, "one half of any savings that show up as added profits to utilities will be claimed by federal taxes. This, plus inflation in operating expenses, will make it unlikely that enough savings will occur at any one point to permit rate reductions to the consuming public."

He said with a cost-of-living formula "there will be enough tax savings at one time to justify and require utility tax deductions."

May Not Have Been Scorpion's Debris

Tiny Bit Of Metal Pointed To Lost Sub

WASHINGTON (AP) — The finding of the nuclear submarine Scorpion two miles deep in the Atlantic ocean was a small piece of metal that may not have been from the ill-fated vessel.

Chester L. Buchanan, the Naval Research Laboratory official who supervised much of the Scorpion search said in an interview that "the first hint of something" came in late June when a bent metal plate was detected.

Buchanan said sonar and cameras suspended far below the oceanographic research ship Mizar, discovered and photographed the three-to-four-foot piece of metal. The plate was too deep to recover.

Some Navy men doubted the metal plate was part of the sub and even today nobody will say for sure that it came from the Scorpion.

But the find, which came about a month after the sub and its 89-man crew disappeared, was enough to convince Navy officials to "concentrate the search in one area about 400 miles southwest of the Azores."

And there, nearly four months later, the Mizar's sensitive magnetic detectors, sound ranging equipment and cameras located portions of the Scorpion only about three or four miles from where the piece of metal was spotted.

The Scorpion was reported overdue May 27, the day it was scheduled to arrive at Norfolk, Va., from an underwater trip from the Mediterranean.

She had been last heard from six days before when she reported from a position about 250 miles south of the Azores.

The $40-million submarine's final resting place, as announced by the Navy Oct. 31, was about 400 miles southwest of the Azores in more than 10,000 feet of water, about 8,000 feet below the maximum depth for the vessels.

A search got under way immediately after the overdue call and involved at its peak more than 40 ships, many planes and more than 6,000 men.

During the months of search, the Navy gave no hint it had any clues. Navy specialists have said since that the metal piece "had been evaluated as not being part of the Scorpion."

But, they said, it was "the only clue we had" so the search went back over the area.

The Mizar had completed a month-long search sweep and dropped anchor in the Azores for some crew rest when, on July 5, orders came to concentrate in the area where the metal piece had been found on June 27 or June 28.

It wasn't until Oct. 28, Buchanan said, that the Mizar picked up the first clear detection of the Scorpion's remains—what he called a "pretty" magnetic reading and sonar contact.

Justice of the Peace Don Distline of Pocatello, an association director, urged uniform procedure in handling traffic law violations before magistrates, urged Wednesday the approximately 80 justices of the peace and city judges to help curb the traffic death rate.

scrapion of the portions found, or any theories as to the cause of the Scorpion's loss.

Navy authorities have blacked out this information on security grounds. They say they don't want to give the Soviet Union any information that might be helpful should the Russians try to locate the Scorpion's resting place.

Neither Buchanan nor Navy officers would comment on reports that secret underwater listening devices picked up sounds which might have come from the Scorpion as it was breaking up under intense pressure.

The Mizar continued to explore the area where the Scorpion was found until Nov. 7, when it broke off its month-long operation because the foul weather season was coming.

Magistrates Mull Deaths On Highways

BOISE (AP) — Idaho's high traffic death rate, uniform procedures for traffic violations and law enforcement on Indian reservations were among topics discussed at the opening session of the Idaho Magistrates annual convention.

Gov. Don Samuelson, noting most traffic law violators appear before magistrates, urged Wednesday the approximately 80 justices of the peace and city judges to help curb the traffic death rate.

He said magistrates can help by reporting highway or traffic conditions which they think are potential hazards.

Idaho Allowed To Seek Bids With U.S. Aid

BOISE (AP) — The release of federal highway funds will allow Idaho to obligate about $26 million in contracts by the end of June 1969, State Highway Engineer Ellis Mathias said.

He said Wednesday the department program of about $35 million and a total program of about $43 million for calendar 1969.

Rupert Gets Grant For Park Plan

RUPERT—A grant of $49,635 for the development of a 50-acre park in the city of Rupert for the development of Plans for the development of the first two phases of the five-year proposal for the development of the Big Hole Park in the northern part of the city. The money will come from the Idaho State Park Board and Land and Water Conservation Fund. The grant constitutes about 50 per cent of the total cost of development for the first two years, and it is anticipated the board will also participate with the remaining costs when funds are available. Plans and specifications for the park were approved by the board during their quarterly meeting in Idaho Falls last week. Total cost of the five-year development is estimated at $122,000, according to Rupert Mayor Wendell Johnson. The first two phases will include grading, seeding, water supply, curbs, gutters, sidewalks, paving, restrooms, baseball diamonds and backstops on the regular meeting of the Rupert City Council Tuesday night during which time the seven-member Recreation Commission was announced. Members will include Dick Cook, They will work in an advisory capacity to the city council, assisted by Mr. McDonald and Mr. Caldwell. Other discussion Tuesday night involved the proposed solution to the city's office housing problem. The problem has been under study for nearly two years and two plans for a solution have been considered. One proposal involved the construction of a new building; the other remodeling of the present building. After some study, a new building idea was abandoned because of the increased cost, and an agreement has been drawn up with architect Clarence Smith, Pocatello, to remodel the present building. Mr. Smith has presented the preliminary plans for approval and will have the specific proposal completed within the next two weeks. The work will then be let to contract, city officials said. The remodeling is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $45,000, to be taken from the general fund. The expansion would entail an addition of about 1,850 square feet, divided into a 572 square foot addition on the south side and the rest on the north. Expansion north would provide additional space for the city bookkeeping offices. Office space for the city engineer and electrician would also be included in the remodeling. These offices are presently housed in a separate building. On the south side, the space for the city police department would be extended and a room provided for the temporary holding of drunks picked up within the city.

Bids Asked For Jerome Gas, Diesel

JEROME—The Jerome City Council has directed Bill Oermoll, city engineer, to call for bids on the regular and ethyl gas and diesel fuel used by the city on a 12 to 18 month basis. It was the consensus of the council at the Tuesday night meeting that a better rate could be obtained by competitive bidding than what is now being paid. Dudley Stroud, city auditor, reported on the water department budget for the fiscal year ending Sept. 14. A letter from Don Jacobson, civil defense director, was read regarding the practice operation to be held Dec. 4 at the Pioneer Hall. City officials were asked to take part. The council voted to send Mayor Earl Greenwalt to Boise Friday to attend the meeting of the Associated Cities of Idaho. A lengthy discussion on what could be done about delinquent water accounts was held but no definite action was taken. Some plan will be forthcoming regarding accounts that have been allowed to accumulate for several months, councilmen noted. Further discussion was held regarding trees and shrubs that have been planted in the alley right of way. The clerk was directed to write a letter to the

PORTLAND, Ore. Muskie Role Poses Question In Congress

WASHINGTON (AP) — Top Democratic leaders of the last Congress appear certain to keep their posts in the new one with the only real leadership question centering on what part—if any—will be played by Maine's Edmund Muskie.

Liberal Democrats in the Senate plan to sound out Muskie, the party's unsuccessful vice presidential candidate, on getting into the race for whip or assistant leader.

So far, however, no definite plans have been made to try to unseat Sen. Russell B. Long of Louisiana, the present Democratic whip.

A spokesman for the liberals, unwilling to be quoted, told a reporter they hope to find out shortly whether Muskie is willing to challenge Long.

Long, chairman of the powerful Senate Finance Committee, has sent a letter to all his Democratic colleagues saying he was proud to have been part of the party leadership for the last four years, and hoped to continue in it.

Long's supporters say they believe he can count on 30 votes when the 53 Democratic senators caucus to elect their leaders for the new Congress.

Liberals do not contend it would be easy to oust Long as assistant to Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, who faces no challenge to his own position. But they say they have a chance if Muskie can be prevailed on to run for the post.

Some Democratic senators have shown signs of not being too happy with Long as whip, partly because of run-ins he has had with Mansfield on the Senate floor.

Liberals also maintain that Muskie's selection as whip would give their segment of the party a representation in the Senate leadership that it does not have now.

Mansfield is regarded as a moderate while Sen. Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia, who holds the No. 3 Democratic leadership post, has aligned himself with Southern conservatives on many issues.

After sampling the views of key members, leaders of the liberal bloc in the House have spread the word they will have nothing to do with any move to unseat speaker John N. McCormack when the 91st Congress opens in January.

McCormack, who will be 77 next month, has been speaker for seven years and is assured of another term.

Rep. Carl Albert, D-Okla., is majority leader and enjoys broad enough support to hold his job and to move up without too much opposition if the speakership becomes vacant in the near future.

The job the liberals have their eye on is that of the party whip. And if Albert moves up, the fight will be to keep Boggs from becoming majority leader.

Such a fight is not expected in the immediate future, however. The goal of the liberals is to get the voice in the assigning of committee chairmen and hopefully place two of their own on the Anti-American Activities and Un-American Activities groups.

Norman Thomas Notes Birthday Amid 'Gloom'

HUNTINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Norman Thomas, six-time presidential candidate of the Socialist party, celebrated his 86th birthday Wednesday. He was in good spirits but gloomy about the state of the nation.

"The state of the country is not too good," he said from his bed in a nursing home where he has been since last winter. "In fact, it's quite capable of going to hell."

"It's partly because the country lacks the leadership it needs," he said. "It's partly our general morale is low. And it's partly because our democracy at the moment is suffering from a general lack of sense."

Thomas is virtually sightless, must use a hearing aid and suffers from arthritis and hardening of the arteries. Despite his troubles he has managed to dictate a new book of essays and remains cheerful.

FBI Agent Asks Merchants To Watch Checks

By The Associated Press

The head of the FBI's Montana Idaho Division has urged local businessmen to press for sterner measures to cut the incidence of bad check writing. John W. Burns, head of the division based in Butte, Mont., said at a Chamber of Commerce meeting "It's only after you make the mistake of cashing a bad check that you turn it over to law enforcement, usually with an inadequate description."

To prevent bad check-writing and -shopping, Burns urged chamber members to support police departments, require proper identification, publicize names of persons arrested for crimes and demand vigorous and strict prosecution.

Medal Winner's Wish Poses Dilemma For Officials

DETROIT (AP) — Officials are looking into possible ways of granting the No. 1 wish of Medal of Honor winner, Dwight H. Johnson of Detroit.

Johnson, 20, wants to have his mother and exiled stepfather reunited after a 12-year enforced separation. Sen. Robert P. Griffin, R-Mich., has begun looking into the prospects of allowing Johnson's stepfather, Brenton Alves, a native of Jamaica, to return to the United States from London, where he currently is living.

John Bonds, deputy director of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Detroit, said he was sending for the Alves file to have it available.

"In case Johnson and his mother request immediate action in this case," Johnson was cited for carrying a wounded comrade to safety under fire and for using a variety of weapons to kill at least seven North Vietnamese after the tank he was driving was ambushed last January near Dakto, Vietnam. Johnson's stepfather was reported to have been deported for illegally entering the United States.

'Loser' Claims Uitimate Victory In Late County

SEATTLE (AP) — Republican Slade Gorton, who came from behind to snatch a post-election lead from Democrat John McCammon Wednesday, said he will race for the state attorney general's office.

Gorton, whose lead developed on the basis of absentee ballots, said, "It's all over. If I had feared better in Grays Harbor County, there wouldn't even have been a recount."

McCummon, who was unavailable for comment late Wednesday night, held 12,245 votes in heavily Democratic Grays Harbor County to 6,687 for Gorton.

Statewide, results from 32 of the state's 39 counties showed Gorton ahead with 593,462 votes to 589,603 for McCummon.

Ed Logan, King County elections superintendent, said about 2,500 absentee ballots remain to be counted in the county. The ballots are in districts in which Gorton is expected to do well.

Secretary of State Tull Kravitz said his office should be able to start the recount early next week. State law requires the recount when the winning margin is half of one per cent of the final total.

Sen. Hatfield Praises Agnew

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Sen. Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., commended Vice President-elect Spiro Agnew Wednesday with President Hiram S. Truman, and indicated he is reserving judgment on Agnew.

Hatfield said he judged on his past credentials and on his past record in response to a question from a student after he had addressed a group of students at a University student body.

Hatfield said Truman was an unsuccessful small-business man, an unimpressive senator before he became vice president. He added that "history already has given him a spot as one of our most effective presidents."

"Let's wait," he said of Agnew. "He should stimulate everybody's prayers."

New Welfare Program Is Expected To Continue Under President Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal welfare official predicted today that the new Nixon administration will not make any significant departure from the newly announced plan to make welfare applicants eligible by a simple statement of need.

The official, Stephen Simonds, said the regulation providing for the new policy will be made final next month — before the end of the Johnson administration — and the policy itself is scheduled to become effective July 1. The new administration will take over Jan. 20.

Simonds, director of assisting payments of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, said the proposal disclosed Tuesday has won "acceptance and approval—some times enthusiastic" from state and welfare officials.

Simonds made the comments in response to a reporter's question during a meeting explaining the proposal to about 200 welfare officials from 25 states in the eastern half of the country.

The new approach would eliminate investigations which welfare officials conduct before admitting an applicant to the welfare program.

Simonds emphasized, however, that the policy also calls for spot checks similar to those used by income tax officials, to see that the procedure is not abused.

But he said officials in the five states which have already adopted the complete federal approach have found that there is no increase in the average of one and one-half per cent of eligible applicants who get on the rolls. These states are Utah, Arizona, North Dakota, Iowa and Maine. Seventeen other states are in the process of applying the declaration principle in some form.

Programs to which the new policy would apply are medical aid, Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC), Old Age Assistance and Aid to the Blind and the Permanently Disabled.

Welfare officials say experience to date has shown that the new approach does not add to the growth of the welfare rolls. They said it saves money because it is more efficient and eliminates a great amount of paper work.

A meeting to explain the new policy to officials from the western 25 states is to be held Dec. 11-13 in Denver.

Escaper's Son Discovered Dead

EDISON, N. J. (AP) — A son of Clarence Clark, the man Gov. Richard J. Hughes refused to extradite to Alabama last Friday, was found dead Wednesday.

The body of Lafayette Johnson, 18, of nearby Colonia, was found behind a pool hall. The cause of death was not immediately known but there was no violence, said Dr. William Wilentz, Middlesex County medical examiner.

Johnson was the younger son of Clark, who has another son and two daughters. Clark had lived under the assumed name "Clayton Johnson," since his escape from an Alabama chain gang 25 years ago.

Gov. Hughes refused to extradite the boy's father because he said Clarence Clark had lived as a model citizen in New Jersey since his escape in 1943.

Staid British Conservatism Is Jolted By Nudity Trend

LONDON (AP) — For the shivering British it looks like a cold Christmas. Everything's coming up nude.

You buy the kids a pop record. Along with the disc they get a poster showing John Lennon, Beatle, naked but for his white knickerbockers.

Girl friend Yoko Ono is nude in bed beside him. You over in the corner is Beatle Paul McCartney, nude in a bathroom; strategic areas concealed behind a pillar.

You take your Aunt Edna to the theater and it's nudes again. Male nudes at the Comedy, female nudes all over town, and nudes of all varieties at the Shakespearean Festival. "I'm taking excess," said the Daily Mail.

As for the movies, now we are promised the hard-living, red-haired Irishman Richard Harris just like his horse.

Now for the pinkest art show in London—the subway. Not just the misdirected stenographers, bare thighs in the morning, but the ads in the escalators.

Girls in profusion, seldom wearing more than a pair of lights. And the odd thing is that the stars they admire are aimed not at men but at women.

Tom Armstrong, an advertising executive, explained: "A woman looking at a picture of a nude girl is in fact admiring her own body. It's what we want women to think as they look at the posters. It's like I bathe that soap I'm looking at that girl."

From another adman, Peter Stillwell: "Inhibitions have gone. Women are prouder of their bodies than they've ever been. We haven't come to the end yet by a long way."

The backlash may be coming. Record distributors meet in London next week to decide what to do about the Beatles album and its Lennon-McCartney exposure.

Their spokesman, Christopher Ross, said: "One can't afford not to stock a Beatles album because distributors are likely to look to their morals or their profits."

"One could understand it if an unknown artist did this to gain notoriety, but this is ridiculous."

From a Beatles spokesman came the comment: "The Beatles are the Beatles and what they do is right for the moment."

The moment, however, may be passing, according to Dr. Joshua Bierer, editor of the International Journal of Social Psychiatry.

He told an interviewer: "The present trend for nudity is a passing phase. I predict that behavior will swing back to Victorian prudery within the next ten years."

"History shows us that these things swing from one extreme to another. The Beatles' nudity represents a final fling."

Livestock Grains

CHICAGO (AP) - Wheat futures gave up 1/2 cents in early dealings on the Chicago Board of Trade today but recovered most of this loss under a late rally. Corn prices also staged a strong comeback near the close. Soybeans closed slightly higher. Trade was active through most of the session. A strong influence on the early decline of wheat futures was the continuing uncertainty surrounding the status of some European currency and the possibility that devaluation in Europe might curtail exports of the U.S. bread grain. Later in the session, active buying by commercial interests brought in short covering and prices closed on a firm note, although under previous closing levels.

Successful Investing

By ROGER E. SPEAR. At the end of this year I plan to retire and will need $7,000 in income. My $100,000 certificates of deposit will expire in a few weeks. I own Commonwealth Edison, Consolidated Illinois-National Bank, General Motors, Illinois Tool Works, National Dairy Products, National Lead, Southern Co. and Texaco. Could you advise how to achieve our needed income?—F.J. A-1 would be in favor of this move even though your bank balance would be depleted—by about $2,500. In case of emergency, sale of your home or help from your children would fill the bill. A-1 would not, at this time, disturb any of your stock holdings. Although your income from them is modest—an average of 3.3 percent—you have some excellent growth stocks in the list which should be retained. The $100,000, if invested in equal dollar amounts of three favored industrial bonds, will yield an average 6.33 percent. Aluminum Corp. of America is of 1992 and American Can is of 1994. Both are excellent. Allied Chemical 6 1/2 of 1993 are trading just above par. Each of these issues is call-protected. Your wife and I are 60 and 58. Total income from both sources—dividends and bond interest—will exceed the $7,000 you require for living expenses. We are both in good health and own 300 shares of each of the above issues. We have 36,000 in savings drawing 4.5 percent. We own 329 shares of Home Depot, which has paid $2.00 a share for 20 years and is still growing. We need more income—our children have suggested we buy a few more shares of the above issues. After checking with several lawyers we have decided to sell the above issues and invest the proceeds in a diversified portfolio of stocks and bonds. We are currently in the process of doing this. If you have any suggestions, please contact us at 1234 Main St., Twin Falls, Idaho. Phone 333-1234.

Burley, Minico, Two I.F. Teams Seek SIC Status; Divisional Split Looms

The Burley Bobcats will seek admission into the Southern Idaho Conference Monday along with Idaho Falls, Skyline and Mountain View. An announcement by Cassia County School Superintendent, Ezra Moore, earlier, it was reported that the two Idaho Falls schools and Minico would join the league and the probability of a east-west division split was expected to be discussed at a meeting in Twin Falls Monday night. The announcement by Mr. Moore came as a surprise in the fourth district, and represent a complete reversal in Burley's original stand on leaving the Eastern Idaho and Cross State conferences to join the SIC. Tuesday night an official of the Burley high school said the Bobcats would not be represented at the Monday meeting. But Mr. Moore said Burley would seek entrance because the Bobcats "want to stay in the same league with Minico, Nampa and Meridian on the west." The plan relieved the problems that various schools complained about when they wanted surety of scheduling within a logical geographical area. The Idaho Falls schools and Minico wanted to move into the larger league and Pocatello and Highland could reduce its travel.

GRABNER AND ASHE TOLD TO TAKE RESTS

LONDON (AP) — The United States Davis Cup hopes suffered a double blow Wednesday, Oregon night with both Arthur Ashe and Cliff Grabner ordered by doctors to rest from tennis.

Ashe, the U.S. Open champion from Richmond, Va., pulled out of a covered court tournament starting at London's Crystal Palace Thursday because of a damaged right elbow.

Grabner, of New York City, was sent home to America with a strained back.

In two weeks' time the Americans face Australia in the challenge round of the Davis Cup.

Ashe, who was badly beaten by Britain's Gerald Patricia in Queen's Club last week, said: "I hope this trouble will clear up if I rest for a week or so."

Grabner's outlook was less hopeful. Dr. Ogdon Clark, British specialist, told him he must not play tennis again for three weeks.

That will leave him a maximum of two weeks' practice before the challenge round in Australia.

HANGING AN AWARD received from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare is Richard Robertson, center, counselor for the Twin Falls Department of Public Assistance. In the work experience and training program. On the left is Don Frank, Twin Falls, program director, and on the right is Gerald Ransom, Boise, state director of the program. The Twin Falls-office was one of seven in the state that participated in the pilot program.

Welfare Training Program In T.F. Termed Successful

The Twin Falls Department of Public Assistance office received an award Wednesday from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

The award was given for the office's work with the work experience and training program.

The program is one of the many programs funded by the government for rehabilitation. This program administered by the Department of Public Assistance of Idaho, is designed to return to the labor market some of those individuals who are presently unemployed or underemployed.

The program helps to remove from public assistance many who need an opportunity.

The usual training or work experience is accomplished in a year or less and the maximum time under the program is not more than two years. During this time the trainee is placed in the school or in an on-the-job training vocation, or both.

Mr. Frank said each assignment is offered to the trainee after testing and counseling. All schooling is vocationally oriented and credit should be given to the community for establishing the College of Southern Idaho which gives the necessary training to so many of the WETP trainees, he said.

In Twin Falls there are presently 45 men and women in training. Some of these soon will be gainfully employed and some are just starting their assignments, Mr. Frank said.

During the last 11 months

Crews Wrap Up Job Of Clearing Train Wreckage

There have been 44 trainees who have concluded their training. Fourteen were men and 30 were women. Of this number, 19 secured employment as a direct result of the program. Five went on for further training either on their own, through scholarship or with the help of other agencies, private or public.

The program director said 50 per cent of the trainees benefited immediately from the program and that more than 50 per cent of the remaining ones were helped toward a goal of self sufficiency.

Gerald Ransom, Boise, state director for WETP, noted that Twin Falls is one of seven offices in the state participating in the program. He said the local office has been especially successful in the pilot program.

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — Wreckage of a 36-car derailment 15 miles west of the Utah border was expected to be cleared today.

The Western Pacific freight cars derailed Wednesday on a steep mountainous grade, spilling new cars, lumber and produce and blocking one of two sets of tracks.

Crews were sent from Elko and Salt Lake City to clean up the mess.

The train of 88 cars was bound from Oakland, Calif., to Salt Lake City.

Cause of the derailment has not been determined.

The direct participant in this program may be a mother who, because of divorce, death or disability of the father, is currently dependent upon public assistance—a man or woman who, due to accident or illness, needs retraining in another field; or perhaps, one who, due to lack of schooling, lack of English or a disadvantaged background, is working below his capabilities and whose family is in danger of becoming dependent upon the community.

Don Frank, Twin Falls director, said this program is intended to do more than to rehabilitate the primary trainees. He said it is intended to enable the children involved to escape the poverty background which is a problem in American society.

With adequate earnings by the formerly unemployed or underemployed parent, the children have a better chance to become successful citizens.

War Plea Costs Job Of Cleric

TURIN, Italy (AP) - A priest historian says sharp criticism of American bombing in North Vietnam cost Giacomo Cardinal Leraro his post as archbishop of Bologna last January.

In a book issued today, the Rev. Lorenzo Bedeschi, a university professor in modern history, argues that conservatives in the Vatican Curia took advantage of the poor health of Pope Paul VI last winter to get from him an order of resignation for Cardinal Leraro. Father Bedeschi says Pope Paul later bitterly repented what he had done.

The book, entitled "The Dismissed Cardinal," reports the papal order to resign reached the cardinal in a few days after he called bombing in Vietnam an evil and said the Church was bound in conscience to denounce it.

The historian says conservative prelates in the Vatican charged the cardinal with being prone to Communist influence and that his sermon provided evidence.

Father Bedeschi says Pope Paul, recovering from the prostate surgery of November 1967, was an easy prey to conservative maneuvering.

Cardinal Leraro, considered a top figure among Italian Catholic progressives, has long been the target of attacks by conservatives. Last year, a pamphlet with an approving preface by Italy's Antonio Cardinal Bacci described Cardinal Leraro as the most dangerous man in the Church since Luther.

Dried Codfish Pleases Palate Of Portuguese

LISBON (AP) - Residents of Portugal have been officially reassured that there will be plenty of bacalhau - dried codfish - on the market for the rest of the year.

There had been reports of a possible shortage of the national dish, which would be roughly equivalent to a shortage of spaghetti in Italy. A period of high prices started the alarm.

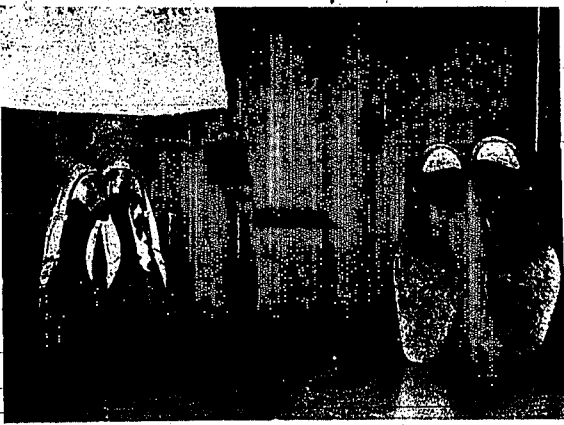

Now official agencies have said that there will be enough bacalhau for the next nine months, and pointed out that production of the boardlike, salted fish actually increased 23 per cent during the first seven months of this year. Prices are now down to normal.

Solon In India Lists Spending

MEHSANA, India (AP) - A member of the Gujarat state assembly has set this example for his legislative colleagues around the world.

Vasant Parikh convened a mass meeting in his constituency and submitted a detailed account of his income and expenditure during his first year as their elected representative in the legislature.

"You are my masters and here is the account of your servant," he said.

TED QUIMET, 21, knelt before the altar Wednesday with his bride-to-be, Daniels Helmer, 18, and it was only then that the work of a wise guy was discovered. The shoes on Mr. Quimet's feet displayed a practical joke played on him by teammates of the Kansas City Blues hockey team. Mr. Quimet is the goalie. His teammates wrote the message in ink before he put the shoes on. Mr. Quimet and his bride are from Ontario, Canada. (AP wirephoto)

Nuclear 'Watchdogs' Keep Stern Eye On Proliferating Atomic Weapons

By TOM CULLEN

VIENNA (NEA) - Not far from Vienna in the tiny village of Seibersdorf, a small group of dedicated men are bracing for a nuclear explosion due in five years' time.

The men are employees of the International Atomic Energy Authority (IAEA), an offshoot of the United Nations, which has its world headquarters in Vienna.

It's the job of the IAEA to see that none of the by-products of the "atoms for peace" nuclear power program are used to destroy mankind. So far, working with a budget of $12 million a year, IAEA has done its job well. But things threaten to get out of hand by 1977.

That's where the explosion comes in.

At the present moment 13 countries, including the United States and Russia, have 89 nuclear reactors among them, producing 13,462 megawatts of power, but by 1974 the number of nuclear power nations will have increased to 21. In five years' time there will also be three times the present number of nuclear reactors, with a power capacity 83 times greater.

The only thing to deter these nations from producing plutonium and other fissionable material that goes into the making of nuclear warheads is the treaty of nonproliferation of nuclear weapons, which, although agreed to, has yet to be ratified by the three depository governments - the United States, Russia and Great Britain.

However, as a result of the nonproliferation treaty, the majority of nations are expected to place their nuclear installations under the control of the IAEA for safeguard inspections. In the IAEA laboratories at Seibersdorf, various devices are being tested which could take the place of inspectors, or at least assist inspectors in carrying out their spot checks of nuclear installations.

What is needed is some sort of "black box" gadget which is easily portable, and which could unfailingly detect the manufacture of such fissionable materials as plutonium. To date the IAEA has settled on no specific equipment for such use.

An all-purpose "black box" would go far towards solving the manpower problem, for IAEA's present staff of 22 inspectors is woefully inadequate. By '74, anything from 200 to 2,000 inspectors will be needed for the job.

At present IAEA inspectors are checking on 105 installations, including four of America's 18 nuclear reactors. (The United States has assured the world that the whole of its peaceful nuclear program will be placed under IAEA control once the nonproliferation treaty goes into effect.)

Altogether 30 countries have agreed to allow the IAEA to inspect reactors and other installations. As might be expected the biggest holdout is Soviet Russia, which has refused to place any of its 14 nuclear reactors under IAEA safeguard controls.

In those countries which have agreed to IAEA control, periodic inspections are held without advance warning. However, the host country is entitled to reject specific members of the inspection team.

"We are pretty careful about such things," an IAEA spokesman explained to me. "For example, it isn't likely that we would include a Russian in the inspection team we send to the United States."

Birth Rate Hits Peak In Portugal

LISBON (AP) - The annual number of births in Catholic Portugal has been steadily declining in this decade, but the birth rate remains one of the highest in Europe.

In 1961, there were 217,916 live births in continental Portugal. In 1965, the figure was 210,280. During last year live births dropped to 202,061. That was roughly the figure 20 years ago when Portugal had 12 million fewer inhabitants than the nearly 10 million it has today.

But the birth rate, at 21.4 per thousand, trails in Europe only those of Albania - 34 per thousand - and Ireland - 21.6 per thousand.

Specialists attribute the drop in births to continuing heavy emigration abroad and the rising cost of living.

When In Portugal, Do As Portuguese Do! Try A Glass Of Famous Port

Preparations are now in full swing for the Times-News Magic Fiesta tour to Spain and Portugal. Almost everyone passing through the Times-News office has commented on the tour in one way or another and those who have been to the two countries have passed on tidbits of information on things that impressed them.

One thing in particular that has been mentioned several times is the excellent wine made in Portugal. The general comment has been "Everyone going to Portugal must try the wine, especially the Port."

After several different people tell you the same thing, it is only natural one wants to find out more. So, through the courtesy of TWA, the airlines the Idaho tourists will be using, this information was obtained on Portugal wine.

Port of course, is not Portugal's only fine wine. It is, however, the sunny country's true "native" wine. When you drink a bottle of Port wine, the wine you are following a tradition that was old in the reign of Queen Elizabeth I. Some of the port merchants now shipping wine from their cellars in Portugal were doing business at the time when the Pilgrims colonized America. Other firms, still then transfer them to bigger ships typical of the region. They are then carried on men's shoulders to the "lagares" or stone tanks, where they are to be fermented.

As soon as the "lagar" is filled, the first pressing of the grapes begins. Formerly, this was done in the evenings by the workers, stamping on the grapes in the bins in their bare feet. Today, most of the pressing is mechanized. After two or three pressings, the wine is drained off and a certain amount of brandy is added in order to check the fermentation, thus preserving the natural sugar. The brandy added to the wine is roughly one-fifth of the amount of wine to be made.

It is the general practice to separate the red from the white grapes, so that the wine can be either red or white port from its birth. It was once thought, erroneously, that only red wine possessed the fine qualities for port. The wine's tawny color actually comes from the natural slow process of the oxidation of coloring matter through the pores of the wooden casks in which it was stored for years, and not from the color of the grapes. It is only some years after such storage that they develop their special characteristics of port.

For this reason, the wine tourists see being made when they visit the vineyards in the Duoro region is usually sold by its producers, while it is still young, to merchants at Vila Nova de Gaia—across the river from Oporto, Portugal's second largest city. There it is kept and matured, and finally shipped to world markets in cask or bottle.

It is at Gaia that the wines are blended into uniform, or homogeneous, types of port. As a further step toward maturing, it is later drawn off into huge wooden casks in which it rests for many years. With age the red ports lose their intense and vivid color and, so far as color is concerned, an old port, which was originally red, might easily be mistaken for a comparatively young white wine, although it's easy to detect the difference by its aroma and taste.

With the exception of the vintage bottlings, most ports are a blend of wines which have been slowly matured in casks.

Former Resident Says Vows In Oregon Rites

Mary Teresa Angela Taucher, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Louis J. Taucher, Ashland, Ore., and Richard Pearce Renick, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Renick, Dulis, Calif., former Twin Falls residents, were married recently at St. Pius X Church, Ashland.

Father George Murphy officiated at the double ring ceremony. The church was decorated with baskets of gladioli and pom-pom daisies in shades of pink, yellow, blue, green and lavender at the altar. Smaller bouquets were placed on the altar.

Frances Curry was organist and Mrs. William Davenport, soloist.

The bride's father escorted her along the white-carpeted aisle to the altar to give her in marriage. She wore a gown of white sheer organza, designed with an A-line empire silhouette. Appliques of floral-pattern lace accented with mother-of-pearl sequins outlined the neckline and trimmed the long sleeves, skirt and cathedral train.

A jeweled petal headress secured her elbow-length veil of illusion. She carried an arrangement of white roses with white rosebuds and stephanotis tied lace streamers.

Dorothy Taucher, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. R. A. Crawford, Pleasant Hill, Calif., Ann Taucher, both sisters of the bride, and Mrs. Stephen Campbell, Ashland, Ore., and Mrs. Dennis Khamath, Twin Falls, Idaho.

Steven Campbell, Ashland, was best man. Ushers were Ed Taucher, brother of the bride; J. Crawford, Eugene, Ore., cousin of the bridegroom, and Tony Purpero, Los Angeles.

Karl Noste, San Leandro, Calif., niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl and Bret Crawford, Pleasant Hill, Calif., nephew of the bride, was ring-bearer.

The reception was held in the church parlors which were decorated with garlands of fern upon daisies in the five wedding colors. The five-tiered cake, made by Mrs. Bernice McCracken, was served by Mrs. David Suter, Mrs. D. H. Dickson, Mrs. O. E. Powell and Mrs. James Barnes.

Serving coffee were Mrs. Gail Putman and Mrs. Delbert Blake, Eugene, aunt of the bridegroom. Pouring tea were Mrs. George Weber and Mrs. Ron Bonham.

Mrs. Bryan Noste, San Leandro, Calif., sister of the bridegroom, and Mrs. James Eastley served champagne punch, and Erlene Blake, Eugene, cousin of the bridegroom, and Denise Dickinson, Chicago, children of the bride.

Mrs. Bradford Blofsky, Ashland, attended the guest book. Mrs. Donn Taucher, Pearl City, Hawaii, sister-in-law of the bride, and Mrs. Ron Bonham were in charge of the gift.

Rice bags were given guests by Elizabeth Taucher, sister of the bride, and Teri Crawford, Pleasant Hill, Calif., niece of the bride. Bridegroom's cake was distributed by William Taucher, brother of the bride, and Bart Crawford.

The couple took a wedding trip to San Francisco. They will reside at 409 Park St., Ashland.

Used Clothing, Blankets Needed

WENDELL—Rev. John Steppert, Wendell United Presbyterian Church minister, announced today that the need for used clothing and blankets is urgent. Church World Service of the Pacific Northwest area is required to provide 500,000 pounds of clothing in 1968 to fill the need. Only 150,000 pounds have been contributed this year, therefore a renewed effort is necessary on the part of the Idaho, Oregon and Washington churches.

Used clothing and blankets should be left at the Methodist Church or Presbyterian Church in Wendell no later than Dec. 1. Church World Service was established in 1945 by 17 Protestant denominations to serve as a co-operative relief and rehabilitation agency. Today it represents 78 Protestant and Orthodox bodies.

BLOCKERS BAD IN BRIDGE PLAY

We wonder just how many readers can make three no-trump with today's hand. South's three-heart bid shows both a sound no-trump and four hearts. It suggests that hearts and his nine tricks will suddenly become eight.

The hand is entitled "J for Jettison" in Coffin's ABC of bridge. South should guard against this club block by getting rid of one of his four clubs and he does so by ducking spades twice. Then he can throw a club on the third spade and the suit won't block.

If West tries to spoil the jettison by discontinuing spades after the first one holds, it will do him no good. A diamond shift will set up an extra diamond trick for South, while a heart shift will give him time to prepare the jettison by leading a second spade and ducking that one.

Later, when dummy holds the third club, South will be able to discard his blocker on that ace of spades.

might be a better spot to play the hand but, needless to say, North prefers no-trump.

West opens the king of spades and will continue the suits until the ace is played by North.

A careless South will count nine top tricks and take the first or second spade. Then he will go after clubs. Because East holds the jack, 10 and seven, South will find that his fourth club will block the last two clubs in the North hand.

College-Trained Women Are Less Likely To Tie The Knot

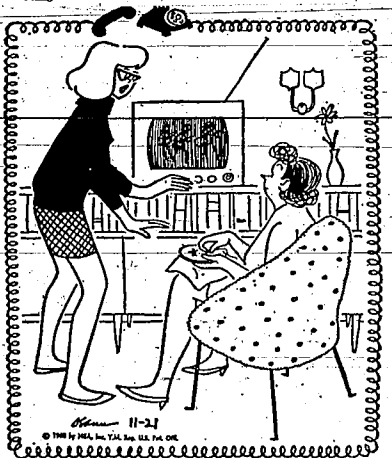

WOMEN WHO GO to college are three times more likely to stay single than women who don't go to college. Cornell University researchers found that out and announced their finding with great excitement. Implication is that college lessens a woman's inclination to wed. That's not quite right. They've got it backwards. Actually, a woman's chance of getting married after her formal education pick up some if she's not particularly interested in getting married at an early age. Naturally, therefore, more prospective spinsters wind up in college. But college isn't what makes them want to stay single. Wanting to stay single is what lets them go to college. Simple. I figured that out myself.

THE STATISTICIANS now estimate the average mother will live 40 years after her youngest child goes into the grade school. IN DALLAS, TEX., resides a young lady named Ida Rather. POWERFUL PUMP The immense heart of the giraffe is one of nature's most powerful pumps. It sends blood 12 feet to the animal's head. When the head is lowered, a valve checks the rush of blood to prevent rupturing the brain. The valve prevents too rapid a drainage of blood from the brain.

Arkansas River Boats Get New Life

TULSA, Okla. (AP)—Blasts of river boats superseded in the 19th century by whistles of locomotives will be echoing again on the historic Arkansas River. By December 1968 boats will leave the Mississippi and travel as far upstream as the once-edgy Arkansas River as Little Rock, Ark. In little more than a year they are scheduled to dock at the navigational terminus at Tulsa, Oklahoma's Port of Coacoosa, 433 miles from the Mississippi.

The U.S. Corps of Engineers says the $1.2-billion project is the largest civil work it has ever undertaken, even bigger than the Panama Canal or the St. Lawrence Seaway. Congress approved development of the Arkansas River basin in 1946. Seven dams on the Arkansas tributaries in Oklahoma County sediment and water flowing into the big stream, the nation's third-longest, as well as providing electrical power, additional flood control, domestic and industrial water supply and recreation.

The Arkansas, born in the Rocky Mountains, gushes across a portion of Colorado but becomes a wide, shallow river in Kansas and Oklahoma until it bumps into the dams. It meanders through the flag country of Oklahoma, cuts past the Sooner State's wooded sections into timbered Arkansas and, after bisecting that state, pours into the Mississippi.

Supreme Court Declines Review Of Idaho Case

BOISE (AP) — The U.S. Supreme Court has refused to review the conviction of an Idaho man sentenced to life imprisonment for second-degree murder. Frank J. Martinez of Nampa was convicted in Canyon County District Court in June, 1965, of kicking and beating the 2-year-old son of his common-law wife so severely the child died.

He appealed to the Idaho Supreme Court contending his constitutional rights were violated. He asserted he was not advised of his right to remain silent at the time he was questioned by police.

But the state Supreme Court ruled there was no basis for his assertion and the U.S. Supreme Court declined to hear the appeal.

Ninety-nine public recreation areas are being created by Army engineers who intend with Arkansas and Oklahoma state agencies, to preserve the natural beauty. Industry already is settling in the river valley. One firm announced a contract to supply Japanese companies with 1.2 million tons of coal annually.

Millions of tons of coal annually from eastern Oklahoma. Coal when there was sufficient water reserves in the area are estimated at three billion tons. A $140-million nuclear generating plant is being erected by Arkansas Power & Light Co. on the river at Russellville, Ark., and a $25-million uranium processing facility in the Webbers Falls, Okla., area.

A government engineer reported in 1870 that there were 22 steamboats plying the river, carrying about 25,000 tons of cargo annually. The Corps of Engineers today estimate initial tonnage at 1.2 million. They say its growth will compare favorably with that of the rich Ohio River boats are a novelty for
