

Peruvian Helps Half-Sister Doctor Claims Cancer Cured

LIMA, Peru (AP) — A young Peruvian physician says he may have cured his half-sister's cancer by giving her cancer-fighting antibodies which he created by injecting himself with her cancerous cells.

Dr. Alfonso Zavaleta Cruzado, 34, said in an interview that the experiment was performed less than a month ago and five years are required before it will be known if his sister, Mrs. Elia Wenzell, has been cured of cancer of the uterus.

But the cancer appears to have disappeared, he added. Zavaleta said his experiment differs in some respects from similar experiments which are being performed in the United States and elsewhere, with encouraging results.

He said he took specimens of his sister's cancer cells and injected them in his own leg. His system formed antibodies to destroy the foreign cells, the doctor explained, and the antibodies were then transferred to his sister.

Zavaleta said the experiment is similar to the body's natural tendency to form antibodies to resist bacteria or reject transplanted organs.

Dr. Oscar Miro Quesada, an associate of Zavaleta and director of the National Institutes of Health, told The Associated Press: "It is too early to know the results of Dr. Zavaleta's technique. But this is a beginning."

Miro Quesada, who also is president of the Peruvian Society for Immunopathology, added that he has "always felt a cure for cancer would come from a crossfire between chemistry and immunology."

He said he and Zavaleta "have been conducting chemical trials with hopeless cases—people with one foot in the tomb and the other on a banana peel"—and have kept them alive for only 24 hours before the cancer cells became resistant to the chemicals.

The Zavaleta experiment differs from similar cancer experiments in the United States in which pairs of unrelated cancer patients have exchanged cells.

HE MAY HAVE CURED his half-sister of cancer, declares Dr. Alfonso Zavaleta Cruzado, of Lima, Peru, shown with Mrs. Elia Wenzell, whom he says he may have cured of cancer of the uterus. In an experiment, the young physician injected himself with cancer cells taken from his half-sister and later gave her the cancer-fighting antibodies that his own body had created. He said the cancer had apparently disappeared. (AP wirephoto)

Nixon May Send Observer To Paris

NEW YORK (AP) — W. Averell Harriman said today, after conferring with President-elect Richard M. Nixon, that he is confident Nixon will send a personal observer to the Paris talks and will replace the two principal American negotiators soon after taking office.

Nixon, who had tentatively decided against sending an observer to the peace talks before inauguration day, was said to be shifting his attitude at the urging of Harriman, who said that he and deputy negotiator Cyrus R. Vance felt such a move would be "a very excellent way to insure continuity."

Although there had been much speculation that the president-elect would retain either Harriman or Vance in the interest of continuity, Harriman said he planned to return to Washington come Jan. 20 and reported that Vance might remain in Paris—but "only for a few days."

Harriman said he got no impression in his talk with Nixon that the incoming administration would basically change the negotiating approach of the United States. And he said he didn't think the Communist side would pay a great deal of attention to the shift of power in Washington—that they see little difference between Democrats and Republicans but regard both groups as "imperialist capitalists."

Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press spokesman, announced another subject, that consulting economist Alan Greenspan of New York has been designated by Nixon to serve as his personal observer at the Budget Throughput "week" between now and inauguration day, while Johnson and his team fashion a new federal spending plan that they will present to Congress next month.

Nixon moved Wednesday to clarify the status of Chief Justice Earl Warren, who had resigned last summer, contingent upon Senate confirmation of a successor—an event that never occurred at the 1968 congressional session.

Ziegler announced that Nixon telephoned Warren Tuesday and, in a 15-minute conversation, urged Warren to remain on the job until the end of the Supreme Court's current term next June, "in order to avoid serious disruption of the work of the court." Ziegler said Warren agreed to serve until then.

Legislators Available For Conferences

All Twin Falls County people wishing to talk privately with their legislators Tuesday during the annual Chamber of Commerce "Legislature Day" should make an appointment by calling 733-3974.

Howard Allen, president of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, has urged interested persons to make their reservations as soon as possible.

Appointments can be made from 1:15 p.m. to 5 p.m. and they will be made for individuals or representatives of organizations.

The purpose of the chamber program is to give the legislators an opportunity to talk with the county's citizens and get ideas on proposed legislation for the 1969 session of the legislature.

This is the third year the chamber has sponsored such a program.

Paralyzing Strike Hits Rome As Crisis Grows

First In Idaho History Legislators Gather For Session

BY EARLE L. JESTER

BOISE (AP)—Party caucuses marked the start today of the Idaho Legislature's first-in-history organizing session, with the formal call to order scheduled for afternoon.

Republican senators and representatives met with Gov. Don W. Samuelson at what the chief executive called his "coffee hour."

It was to be followed by a closed-door meeting of Republican Senators for the selection of their party leaders and of the Senate president pro-tem.

Republicans choose the presiding officers because they hold majority control in both branches.

State Democrats met behind closed doors during the morning to choose their minority leaders. Representatives, both Democrats and Republicans, planned their party caucuses for the afternoon, immediately following the formal call to order at 1 p.m.

Samuelson planned not to appear personally before the organizing session, leaving until the regular session which begins Jan. 13 the presentation of his biennial "State of the State" message.

He planned to send to the organizing session, however, a letter of greeting.

Samuelson's announcement that he would meet only with Republican legislators rankled at least one Democrat, Sen. Art Murphy, D-Mulden, the minority leader in the legislature.

"The purpose of this week's session is to select presiding officers—the House speaker and the Senate president pro-tem—and make a committee assignments. The party members will choose leaders and the majority party Republicans will, unless serious splits occur, name the speaker and pro-tem.

Samuelson said Tuesday he planned to meet with GOP legislators today. Asked if he would also meet with Democrats, the governor said:

"This is our administration and our program. I'll talk to members of our own party."

Murphy said, "Before the (regular) session is over, I have no doubt that the governor will be calling on some of those unwanted Democrats for a little assistance."

Gov. Jack Murphy, presiding officer in the Senate, said he would confer with Democrats, adding he expects Republicans will have excellent rapport with the Democrats in the Senate.

New Premier Organizes Government

ROME (AP) — A 24-hour general strike hit Rome today as Premier-designate Mariano Rumor resumed talks to form a new Italian government.

The strike came after two days of violent demonstrations by workers and students in every major Italian city. The workers want higher wages. The students want reforms in the educational system, and both are protesting the police killing of two Sicilian farmhands during a strike demonstration Monday night.

Union leaders predicted 1.5 million persons in the Rome area would join in the strike and bring the city to a standstill. Schools were closed "to avoid unpleasantness to their pupils," the school board said.

The stock exchange in Milan, Italy's industrial and financial capital, was closed for two days.

Students marched in Naples, Rome and Milan again Wednesday night, shouting anti-police slogans and causing major traffic jams. They painted "Police Equals Gestapo" in red on the central police station in Naples.

The police remained out of sight in accordance with orders from Premier Giovanni Leone's caretaker government not to create further incidents. The Communist party also passed the word to its members and sympathizers to calm down and avoid violence.

Communist leaders were said to be worried that the riots would turn into anarchy, and the army and the police would seize control of the government and drive the Communist party underground.

Like the French Communists last May, the Italian Communists are concerned because an election they don't control the militant and exuberant students are becoming the main mover in the demonstrations and disorders. The students consider the Communist party another member of the country's established power structure and don't take orders from it.

There was no indication that the mounting labor-student crisis was speeding up the formation of the center-left coalition government which Rumor, the secretary of the dominant Christian Democratic party, is trying to put together.

Appointed

BOISE (AP) — Robert M. Robson, a Kellogg attorney, was named new Idaho attorney general today by Gov. Don W. Samuelson.

Robson will succeed Allan C. Shepard, who was elected a State Supreme Court Justice.

The 47-year-old Robson will serve the balance of Shepard's term, which expires in January, 1971. Samuelson said Robson will seek election in 1972 to a full four-year term.

During the administration of President Dwight D. Eisenhower, Robson was district attorney for the United States trust territories in the western Pacific Islands.

From 1959 to 1964 he was city attorney for Kellogg, and he has been a guest lecturer at the University of Idaho School of Law.

U.S. Casualties In Vietnam Soar To 27 Per Cent In October

SAIGON (AP) — The number of Americans killed in action during the first month of the Vietnam war increased 27 per cent over U.S. combat dead in October, figures released by the U.S. Command showed today.

But they were still only about half what they were during fighting earlier this year, particularly during enemy offensives in February, May and August.

U.S. headquarters in its weekly report said 328 Americans were killed in action last week. It was the highest weekly toll in two months, and it raised to 681 the number of U.S. troops killed in the four weeks after President Johnson halted the bombing of North Vietnam. The total in October was 538.

The increase underlined President Johnson's statement last week that "We must expect both hard bargaining and hard fighting in the days ahead."

After Johnson announced the bombing halt, the U.S. Command announced that it was intensifying ground operations in South Vietnam to keep the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese from gaining an advantage because of the halt in air attacks on North Vietnam.

Asked about the increase in casualties, a U.S. spokesman noted that action accelerated last week along the Cambodian border north of Saigon, where the Communist command is reported to have 15,000 to 20,000 troops.

Only small, scattered actions were reported today. South Vietnamese troops reported killing 37 enemy soldiers in two small skirmishes in the Mekong Delta. Government casualties were said to have been light.

The American spokesman who said North Vietnam had pulled the bulk of its forces back from the northern frontier, also noted that North Vietnamese troops are still inside the DMZ.

The U.S. Command said reconnaissance has disclosed at least 457 indications of Communist activity in the demilitarized zone since the Nov. 1 bombing halt.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower's condition remains unchanged since a pre-Thanksgiving report of "slight" recovery, a U.S. spokesman at Walter Reed Army Hospital said today.

Ky Will Lead Viet Envoys

PARIS (AP) — South Vietnamese officials said today their entire peace conference delegation including Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky will arrive in Paris Sunday.

Officials of South Vietnam's diplomatic mission prepared a big-scale reception for Ky and his team at Orly Airport. The French government prepared massive security precautions.

Ky's decision to accompany Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, who will head the delegation at the conference table, was a sudden change of plans. He had intended following Lam by about one week.

The arrival of South Vietnam's team will clear the way for the start of the expanded peace parley. But it is expected to bog down in procedural disputes as soon as it starts.

RUPERT—Preliminary hearing proceedings for James E. Murphy, 30, Rupert, charged with first degree murder in the death of his stepson last Oct. 18, were continued Thursday morning in Minidoka county probate court.

The hearing was continued from Nov. 9 to allow attorneys time to prepare briefs which were submitted to Probate Judge LeRoy Blacker Thursday morning. The judge said he will deliberate before determining whether Murphy will be charged with first degree murder or manslaughter.

Murphy, who has been held in sheriff's custody without bond, is charged with shooting Daryl Hunter, 24, Rupert, his step-son, at the Murphy home about 3:30 a.m. Oct. 18. Mr. Hunter died about half an hour later at Minidoka Memorial Hospital. The shooting allegedly followed an argument between Murphy and another step-son, Dennis Hunter.

Oral arguments were presented Thursday morning by Roger Ling and Lawrence Duffin, defense attorneys, and Larry Minkola, Minidoka county prosecuting attorney.

Law Enforcement Officers Study Riot Control In T. F.

Law enforcement officers from Magic Valley are attending a course on riot control at the Twin Falls National Guard Armory.

The school is to update the procedures in Idaho's cooperative riot control program, according to Fred Bassett, Boise, Mont., training coordinator for the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Mr. Bassett said the school is being sponsored by the Idaho State Police. The state riot control program has been in operation for about a year and similar schools have been conducted during that period throughout the state.

Mr. Bassett said that officers are being acquainted at the current school with riot control equipment.

Officers also are being advised of location of stockpiled riot control equipment, which is available in Idaho.

More than 20 State Police officers, members of the Boise and Twin Falls city police forces, Cassia County sheriff's officers and Twin Falls County sheriff's officers and the Camas County sheriff are attending the meeting, which concludes Friday.

City Officials Of District 4 To Meet Here

City officials of district four of the Association of Idaho Cities will meet at a no-host dinner on Dec. 13 at the Elgin Hotel. The announcement was made by Frank H. Feldman, director, for the district four which includes Magic Valley cities.

Items on the tentative agenda to be discussed are state matching funds for a new water treatment facilities; city budget in dollars rather than mills and revenues for cities; uniform accounting system; legislation in regard to strikes and riots and additional items from the floor.

Mr. Feldman urged all city officials to attend the meeting and to bring the legislators from their respective areas. He said cities have common problems as well as individual ones and by meeting to discuss these problems solutions are often found. This being a legislative year, it adds more importance to the need for discussion with all city officials, Mr. Feldman said.

Auto Dealer Refutes High-Cost Repairs

WASHINGTON (AP) — A spokesman for automobile dealers hit back today at what he termed irresponsible allegations made at a Senate investigation into auto repair costs.

Tom A. Williams, president of the National Automobile Dealers Association, expressed "great indignation" at testimony "indicating the automobile industry in general with unethical business practices."

He said it is highly probable "that the headlines resulting from irresponsible allegations made here have inflicted irreparable injury to the business reputation of the nation's dealers and that, as a result, thousands of employees will suffer adverse consequences."

This statement, prepared for the Senate antitrust subcommittee, referred in part to testimony by Glenn P. Krieger, operator of an automobile diagnostic test center in Denver.

Krieger told the subcommittee earlier in the week that only about 1 per cent of 5,000 cars tested at his center had been repaired according to manufacturer's specifications.

Without referring to Krieger by name, Williams said that "we strongly object to being castigated as individuals who pay design daily cost 99 per cent of our customers by rendering inadequate service or failing to perform the services necessary to maintain our customers' vehicles in safe operable condition."

"If these allegations were absolutely fact," said Williams, a Greenboro, N.C., Chevrolet dealer, "neither I nor the thousands of quality franchised dealers in this nation would be in business."

"We wouldn't even be able to continue to reside in our own communities," he said.

To rebut the charge that only 1 per cent of auto service repair work is performed satisfactorily, Williams said that in a NADA survey of 10,000 shops nationwide, 64 per cent of those responding said the dealers' service work was satisfactorily completed the first time.

He also said that 71 per cent of dealers, neither I nor the thou-

'Panther' Trio Held After Police Raid

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Three members of the Black Panther party were arrested today in connection with the hit-and-run shooting attack on a Jersey City police precinct Friday night, police said.

They were Isaiah Rowley, 24, Charles Hicks, 36, and Victor Perez, 19. Rowley identified himself as the New Jersey minister of defense for the Black Panthers.

Commenting on the arrests, Mayor Thomas J. Welch said "The Black Panthers are through in Jersey City."

The three were to be charged with assault on a police officer, police said. Police also said there would be weapons charges.

No one was shot in the incident Friday night when about 20 shots were fired from a car which sped past the police precinct. But one bullet knocked a nightstick from a patrolman's hand and another slug passed through an officer's hat.

Clifford Sees Hope Troops May Leave

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Defense Secretary Clifford said Wednesday night he hopes four party peace talks in Paris will result in a gradual reduction of the fighting in South Vietnam and ultimate withdrawal of U.S. and North Vietnamese troops.

Clifford told a St. Louis Chamber of Commerce dinner audience that talks among North Vietnam, the Viet Cong, South Vietnam and the United States probably will begin next week.

Clifford outlined the United States goals this way:

"First we must get the demilitarized zone cleared. This would give us a measure of protection in return for our not bombing up north."

"Then we must reach an understanding with the enemy about withdrawing centers in South Vietnam."

"And I hope it is my most fervent hope—there can be a reduction in the level of combat. This is what we need. I hope that diminution of contact would lead to cease-fire and negotiations with ultimate withdrawal of our and North Vietnamese forces."

The defense secretary said the United States should aim its future foreign policy at securing world peace through development of regional agreements.

The United States, he said, would be "sort of a limited partner" in these regional agreements, providing all kinds of aid to member countries but not sending in troops.

"I am confident policemen for the world," Clifford said.

Witnesses Detail Events In Shooting

RIGBY (AP) — A mother and son, owners of a building in Menan in which Luciana Garza Garza, 30, of Lovellville, was shot to death last Aug. 2, were state's witnesses in the first degree murder trial of Nicholas Rodriguez Jr., 25, of Joliet, Ill., in Seventh District Court Wednesday.

Thain Watson, who has a barber shop in the back of the property operated by himself and his mother, testified to events leading up to the fatal shooting.

Watson testified that he was in the barber shop shortly before midnight on Aug. 1 and witnessed an argument involving the defendant, Andy Lopez, brother-in-law of the defendant, the victim, and Andres Garza Garza, brother of Rodriguez.

Watson told the court that Lopez had given him a .22 caliber pistol which he had put in a drawer at the barber shop and that later Rodriguez tried to claim the weapon.

Watson said that he left the shop to try and quiet the argument and that when he was returning to the shop he was confronted by Rod Rodriguez, carrying the pistol.

Watson testified that Rodriguez walked past him, and that he heard the pistol being fired and fell to the floor. He said he then ran out of the building.

'No Benefit'

BOISE (AP) — The acting state prison warden, Fred Abrams, says the prison cannery which has been closed down provided very little rehabilitation benefit to inmates because the work is "too hard."

The closure followed reports a can of vegetables shipped to a county-operated nursing home at Lewiston had to be destroyed.

A city county health report said indications were that cans had been damaged, in shipping.

Abrams said the prison has shipped cans in excess of public institutions. He said the excess is not being used, and that the county's inventory of canned goods was "huge."

Raft River High School Entered

BURLEY — Nearly 300 in cash, checks and stamps were stolen at the Raft River High School during a break-in. The Cassia county sheriff's office reported Thursday.

Entry was gained through a window, either in the music room or boys' lavatory. Officers were alerted when they received a telephone call on Wednesday morning and had occurred sometime the previous night.

Two pop machines were broken into and changed taken, and the office door opened and the contents of the safe checked totaling $68.50 were taken in addition to several rolls of stamps totaling $22.

Investigation is continuing.

'Rebel' Tells Of 'Fear Of Violence'

WASHINGTON (AP) — David Dellinger, self-described "nonviolent revolutionist," told House investigators today he was concerned about possible police and federal violence during demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention.

Dellinger, chairman of the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, returned to the witness chair for the second day as a subcommittee of House Committee on Un-American Activities continued its inquiry into disorders during the August convention in Chicago.

Asked by the subcommittee counsel whether it was not considered a possibility that violence could occur because of the demonstrators' planned activities, Dellinger said: "It was more than a possibility that the U.S. government would commit violence."

When pressed by the counsel whether the likelihood of demonstrators taking part in violent acts was considered, Dellinger replied: "Our movement does not plan, provoke or organize violence."

Rubin, Nipale leader excluded from the hearing Wednesday when he appeared in a Santa Claus suit, showed up today in a blue sweater, brown slacks and a beaded band around his forehead.

Rubin underwent subpoena to appear in executive session Friday, repeated his refusal to do so, calling it a "self-styled HUAC star chamber executive session." In a statement distributed before the hearing started, Rubin said he would testify in open session.

Union Bid Rejected At Rupert

RUPERT — Employees of Magic Valley Foods, Inc. and Rolland Jones Potatoes, both Rupert, gave their companies a second vote of confidence Wednesday in an election conducted by the National Labor Relations Board.

Tom Iazzard, of the Idaho Employers' Council, said that since unions had been conducting organizational campaigns for several months to persuade employees to allow them to represent them.

The three unions, Grain Millers, Meat Cutters and Teamsters Potatoes, had been turned down by employees Oct. 31, but the second election was called by the NLRB because of technicalities.

Results of Wednesday's balloting showed 58 votes for the company and 45 for the Teamsters Union.

Students Set College Talks In Moscow

Two members of the College of Southern Idaho Student Senate will attend a one-day conference in Idaho student leaders this weekend in Moscow.

Leon Wright, CSI student body president, and Jay Hartwell, CSI student body vice president, will meet with other student leaders from Idaho to organize an Idaho Student Government Association.

The conference is designed to involve all institutions of higher learning in Idaho.

The new association will try to direct its energies toward better communications between member schools and share in the development of new ideas and approaches to more effective student governments. Students will also strive to unite the state, which leans toward sectional approaches in solving statewide educational problems, Mr. Wright said.

Dewey, Dillon Given Chance At Top Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — Thomas E. Dewey and C. Douglas Dillon are the leading prospects for secretary of state in the Nixon administration, The Washington Post said Wednesday night.

The Post, quoting Republican sources, said Nixon has both men under active consideration.

It said the same sources, listing Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., as the leading candidate for secretary of defense. Jackson has refused to comment on frequent reports he was being considered.

For secretary of the treasury, the paper said, the leading candidate is David Kennedy, board chairman of Chicago's Continental Illinois National Bank Trust Co. However, it reported the job could go to William McCheeny Martin, head of the Federal Reserve Board, if Martin wants it.

Dewey, 66, was defeated as a Republican candidate for president in 1944 and 1948, and was three times elected governor of New York. He is now a successful Wall Street lawyer.

Dillon, 59, has been undersecretary of state, secretary of the treasury and ambassador to France under Republican and Democratic administrations.

Boise Banker Is Named Director Of Sun Valley Co.

SUN VALLEY — Spencer F. Eccles, Boise, senior vice president and director of First Security Bank of Idaho, has been elected a director of Sun Valley Company, Inc.

SPENCER F. ECCLES

The election was announced following a board meeting here by William C. Jans, board chairman, and Harry Holmes, president of the firm which operates the Sun Valley recreation resort.

Sun Valley, one of the most well-known resorts in the country, dates back to 1935 when Averell Harriman, then chairman of the board of Union Pacific Railroad Co., hit upon the idea of building a ski resort to attract passenger traffic to the West.

The site of the resort was discovered by Austrian alpine expert Count Felix Schaffnitsch, who is said to have described the area as containing "more delightful features than any other place I have seen in the United States, Switzerland, or Austria for a winter sports center."

Sun Valley has since evolved into a complete year-round recreation and convention complex. Conventions use the resort during the summer, along with riding, tennis and golf camps conducted for young adults of college and secondary schools.

Another annual summer highlight is the nationally famous Sun Valley Music Camp, at which talented young musicians study under some of the finest symphonic musicians in the country for a six-week period. This training is capped by the annual Viennese Ball.

Through an aggressive marketing program, Sun Valley has increased its capacity 100 per cent to more than 2,000 sleeping accommodations. There has been a tremendous upsurge in the construction of condominiums and other related housing units, and Sun Valley visitors can enjoy fine food and shopping convenience at more than two dozen establishments.

graduates of the University of Utah and the Columbia University Graduate School of Business, Mr. Eccles has an impressive skiing background himself. While in college he was prominent in intercollegiate competitive sking. He was captain of the University of Utah ski team and was a member of the 1958 U.S. Federation of International (FIS) Squad.

Mr. Eccles is also a director of First Security Corp., parent organization of the $900 million First Security banking system, is past chairman of Mountain States Implement Co., and serves as a director of Eccles Investment Co. He is active in Boise community and cultural affairs.

O'Brien wants to see tens of thousands of Democratic-taking part in delegate selection, even where state conventions prevail.

RAY CROMLEY Saigon Now Fears The Worst

WASHINGTON (NEA)—In arranging for the bombing halt, there is considerable evidence that President Johnson took deep and careful consideration of the military risks.

There is equal evidence, however, that the technique the President used in arranging the bombing halt may have made it more difficult to insure a free postwar South Vietnam ruled by freely elected representatives.

It is this worry which incidentally, has nothing to do with the bombing halt itself, that is basic of the unrest in Saigon, not "loss of face" or "nationalism" or agitation by "war-hawks" as alleged by some uninformed high American officials.

Talk By Ex-Convict Scheduled Dec. 12

HILL SANDS

The appearance of famed author and speaker Hill Sands at the College of Southern Idaho Thursday Dec. 12 is drawing increased attention and seats are disappearing fast. It was reported Thursday.

There is no charge for tickets, but tickets are being issued because of the heavy interest in Mr. Sands' appearance.

Mr. Sands is coming to Twin Falls at the invitation of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs. He is an ex-convict, a former cell-mate of Caryl Chessman—who died in the gas chamber eight years ago after being confined on death row in California for 11 years—and is now a founder of a nationwide rehabilitation program for convicts.

More than 850 students from Magic Valley have already indicated a desire to hear Mr. Sands speak. Officials of Rotary and Kiwanis said Thursday Mr. Sands' appearance is aimed at the youth of the area and "they have first call on seats at the college."

Mr. Sands will speak at the Fine Arts Center of the college. The center seats about 1,100. About 300 chairs will be placed on-stage, upping the capacity to about 1,400.

"When there is some idea how many seats will be gone, we will release the balance of the tickets to the general public," an official said Thursday.

Telephone numbers will be published next Tuesday. Interested persons may reserve tickets for Mr. Sands' appearance by calling those numbers. It was reported.

Reservation of tickets will be made in special circumstances between now and next Tuesday. It was also reported. Interested people may call William Langley, Vernon Riddle or William Grange.

Mr. Sands' appearance will be telecast live by KMYT. The speech is set for 8 p.m. Thursday, Dec. 12.

Fur Trappers Still Exist—Even In Age Of TV Dinners

BY HOWARD KERCHVAL
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Once upon a time they were central in their backskins, con-skin caps and heads and carrying tomahawks, knives and long rifles.

Now they wear rubber boots and insulated underwear, carry pocket knives and maybe a small-bore rifle, and are not nearly as colorful.

But, they are still trappers. As unusual and anachronistic as it may seem in this age of jet airliners, frozen TV dinners and canned beer, there still are men who trap animals and sell their pelts for a living.

Simon Goodman, a partner in a firm here which deals in hides, pelts, wool, roots and herbs, admits there aren't as many trappers as in days gone by.

"Come here and let me show you this," he says, and walks over to a side of the warehouse. There, lying on a bundle of furs, is a steel trap that looks big enough to shatter a granite block.

"This is a No. 1," Goodman points to a trap for reaching into cold water, bait and even a plastic slingshot with steel pellets.

In his office is a vast filing cabinet containing the names and addresses of trappers and pseudo-trappers from Point Barrow to Key Biscayne and sprinklings from other parts of the world.

There are a number of reasons for the decline in trapping, Goodman says. "More people are moving into cities, game is scarcer, and unless a trapper is a professional there just isn't much money in it."

Most of the fur brought into the warehouse is muskrat,

Job Corps Incident Scolded

BOISE (AP) — The Boise Department and the news media have been criticized for a delay in reporting a Nov. 24 incident involving white Boise youths and Negro Job Corpsmen.

Members of a Boise organization — Citizens for Civic Unity — adopted a resolution Wednesday asking for a report on the matter from Boise Police Chief John R. Church.

A spokesman for the Job Corps camp at Marsing said three Negro corpsmen were attacked by 30 to 40 white youths as the corpsmen were getting on a bus to return to camp. One corpsman was hospitalized and released.

The Rev. James Hubbard, president of the organization, said the group was concerned because there was a delay in police investigation of the matter and news coverage came four days after the incident occurred.

"Boise youngsters had been attacked by 30 or more Job Corps youngsters; it would have made headlines on Monday morning," Hubbard said.

Sgt. Don H. Newell of the Boise Police Department, who attended the Wednesday meeting, said police were "probably evasive" in making information available to the press because it was considered potentially inflammatory.

"Perhaps we were successful," he said. "It has been a week and we haven't had any confrontations."

THE PROBLEM OF POUNDS and weight seems unbearable for young Nadine Vanmale, all of 20 months old, as she covers up at a baby clinic weigh-in in Vancouver, B. C., on Wednesday. Nurse Anne Seneki did have good news for Nadine, anyhow — she tallied a healthy, fat-free 23 pounds. (AP Wirephoto)

Car Wreck Kills Woman At Fruitland

FRUITLAND (AP) — An automobile crashed into a horse on U.S. 25 today and one of four women in the vehicle was killed.

The death boosted Idaho's 1968 traffic toll to 276, equal to the state's record for fatalities set in 1967.

Payette County Sheriff Richard Hayes said Mrs. Elmer Weyand of Parma was killed.

Injured but reported in satisfactory condition were Mrs. Lois Hurley, 43, named by Hayes as driver of the car; Mrs. Jewel Morgan, 60, and Mrs. Vida Collins, 55, all of Parma.

The four women were on their way to work at a food processing plant in Ontario, Ore. The sheriff said they apparently failed to see the horse until it was directly in the path of their vehicle.

Cheese Cake Stands Up To Deep 'Dive'

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — The Navy has learned that cheese cake could stand up to 1,000 feet below sea level.

A cheese cake was baked Wednesday for the five aquanauts living in a hyperbaric chamber at Duke University this week to test their abilities to function normally at deep sea pressures.

Scientists had told the Navy's Miss Sandy Harrison that the cake would collapse.

But she baked it anyway and the cake was introduced through an air lock into the chamber. It stood up well.

"The only trouble with the experiment is that the aquanauts ate the proof," she said.

Slaying Tragedy Spurs Idea For National Crime Battle

NEW YORK (AP) — A business executive whose wife was slain last year plans a nationwide war on crime by mobilizing a minimum of 10 million Americans.

H. Bruce Palmer, 60, president of the National Industrial Conference Board, Wednesday announced formation of Citizens for Justice with Order, adding: "It took a personal tragedy in my life to motivate me to try to do something about crime."

Palmer's wife, Dorothy, 57, was stabbed to death Sept. 29, 1967, in their New Vernon, N.J., home. Her 12-year-old son, James, 10, who worked as a train engineer on the Palmer estate, was arrested in Chicago about a month later. He was convicted of murder last Nov. 21 and sentenced to death.

The new organization hopes to raise $25 million in its first drive, with comedians Bob Hope, honorary national chairman, kicking off the campaign on national television tonight.

Plans of the new group call for improved training programs for convicted criminals and juveniles; separate task forces on higher education, the clergy, television, newspapers, youth and minority groups.

The group's prospectus said in part: "It is the intention of Cit-

Idaho Legislators Point To Financing As Major Problem Facing '69 Session

By BUD JORGENSEN

BOISE (AP) — Idaho legislators are caught in the old dilemma of public officials — between a desire to provide increased services and a fear of raising taxes.

In response to an Associated Press survey, the newly elected legislators almost unanimously listed finances, particularly for education, as a major problem facing the 1969 legislature.

But only about one legislator in five said he believes the projected revenue from existing sources would not be sufficient to finance operation of state government for the next biennium.

The two-year period for which the legislature will be appropriating begins next July 1 and the administration's latest project is that revenue for the biennium will total about $200 million, perhaps as much as $203 million.

Agency requests total about $230 million and that figure includes the recommendation of the State Board of Education for the public school budget.

Public school funding accounts for a large portion of the state's general fund budget. The state now provides less than 40 per cent of the total money for education and several legislators said the state should provide at least half the total money needed.

The legislators were asked if they thought there would be enough revenue from existing sources and if not what additional sources would they recommend.

The majority opinion probably was summed up by Rep. Aden Hyde, R-Idaho Falls, who said "I see no palatable source."

"One legislator, who asked not

Nixon Invites 'Sign Girl' To Rites

DESHLER, Ohio (AP) — Vicki Cole says that somehow her entire family will get to Washington for the inauguration of President-elect Richard M. Nixon.

"I'm the 13-year-old girl who held up the 'Bring Us Together' sign which gave Nixon the idea for his inaugural parade theme 'Forward Together'."

Nixon invited Vicki and her family to be his personal guests at the inauguration Jan. 20. She will be accompanied by her father, the Rev. David Cole, minister of the Deshler United Methodist church; her mother; two sisters, Brenda, 14, and Renee, 11, and a brother, Gregory, 7.

"We're all pretty excited," Mrs. Cole said. "It was a personal letter, I guess that's the most exciting thing."

Vicki said, "The other kids don't envy me, but they're happy for me. And they're happy for our town especially."

She said she originally had wanted Democratic Sen. Robert F. Kennedy to be president, but by the time Nixon appeared at this "small northwestern Ohio town on a whitestrip tour late in October, Vicki was one of about 15 "Nixon girls" at his rally.

"I really believe Mr. Nixon is the one who can bring this country back together again," she said Wednesday.

It was at that rally that Vicki picked up the "Bring Us Together" sign off the street. She had lost her own sign which read: "LBJ Convinced us to Vote Republican."

The person who originated the poster which ended up in Vicki's hands has not revealed himself. About 8,000 were at the rally. "I don't even think he saw it," Vicki said.

Little Tips In Note Taking Can Help A Reader Remember What He Has Read

By THE READING LABORATORY, INC.

WHEN SHOULD YOU TAKE NOTES? In a certain sense, you already took notes in the process of self-quizzing following pre-reading. Your real note-taking, however, accompanies the thorough reading.

WHY SHOULD YOU TAKE NOTES? To improve your learning during and after reading and to retain what you have learned.

First the eye saw the words and phrases, then the mind translated them into knowledge. That's one learning process. When you take notes in your own words, other muscles are engaged in transcribing what the mind has cast in another way.

Don't ever think of notes that you can file away, however, as a substitute for memory. You can have a stack of notes four feet high at the end of your school career, and it may be worth only the going price of old paper.

HOW TO TAKE NOTES: First, distinguish the useful from the useless; then the more important from the less important.

Second, write the note clearly enough so that you will understand it a year from now, and write it in ink.

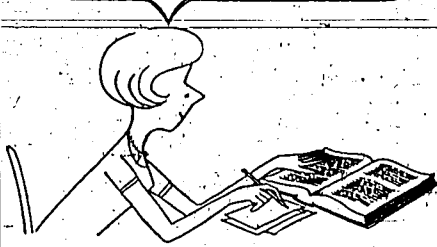

Third, use only one side of the filing card or paper. Further reading will give you additional notes, and you will want to be able to put them in the proper places. We recommend filing cards for note-taking and notepaper for summarizing.

Finally, you should have some way of recording the source of your note on each card. The outline comes next. No one should shiver at the prospect of preparing one. It's nothing more than developing a simple filing system for the knowledge in your mind.

There is nothing difficult about this. Working from your notes, sort out the main sections. Next you seek the logical divisions of each one of these. These subdivisions may lend themselves to further dividing.

Your outline will be no better than the notes you took from your reading and from the lectures. Good notes mean a good outline. A good outline means a good summary and a good essay.

The nastiest questions you can ask someone who doesn't know what he's talking about is: "How would you sum it all up?"

He will betray fraud and ignore, or reveal honesty and knowledge. If you know how to outline you know how to summarize.

1. WHEN TO READ SUMMARIES? Reading all summaries before you read the book is pre-reading, and you are an expert now on the benefits of pre-reading. Reading all summaries after you have finished the book organizes the essential knowledge for you; if you missed something in your reading, the summaries will tell you.

2. HOW TO READ SUMMARIES? If the book is assigned, read summaries for pre-reading purposes. If the book is not required, the summary may be enough knowledge; it may tell you that the book isn't worth the bother; it may tell you what parts of the book are worth thorough reading.

3. WHEN TO WRITE SUMMARIES? When you're required to and for practice. You may never have to write a summary after you leave school, but you'll never escape the need to summarize. Important information mentally.

4. WHY WRITE SUMMARIES? Summarizing forces you to distinguish essential from incidental. Summarizing (as with taking notes) helps you remember knowledge in your own words.

5. HOW TO WRITE SUMMARIES? Try, if possible, to devote only one paragraph to each of your outline's main headings and to convert your paragraphs and subdivisions into the sentences of that paragraph.

The form a summary takes should be determined by the amount of information to be summarized. Thus a book may be summarized in five pages, a chapter in a paragraph, and a paragraph in a sentence. You wouldn't write a chapter to summarize one paragraph!

Wallace Fans Seek Permanent Role In U.S. Politics

By DICK BARNES
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite a total lack of direction from George C. Wallace's headquarters, Wallace backers across the country are going to work to keep his third party movement alive.
 Whether Wallace's 45 electoral votes and his 13 per cent of the popular vote will provide sufficient impetus for establishing a permanent American Independent Party remains to be seen. Third parties have a history of disintegrating after the presidential election for which they are formed.

 But party workers in at least six states have already held post-election organization meetings, and similar gatherings are scheduled in eight more. There is talk in Arkansas, Indiana and elsewhere of running candidates in state and local elections under the banner of Wallace's American Independent, or a similarly named party, next year and again in 1970.
 A paid coordinator for Wallace in this year's presidential campaign is establishing a national third-party mechanism in Los Angeles aimed at coordinating state and local activity by supporters of the former Alabama governor.

 The coordinator, 27-year-old Robert Walters, said he flew to Alabama last month for two days of conferences with Wallace's closest advisers, and was told that there were no plans to establish a national organization in Montgomery, at least for five or six months.
 Wallace himself has avoided the press and said little about his plans, but Bill Jones, one of Wallace's top strategists, agreed with Walters. "We're just phasing it out as fast as we can," said Jones of the Montgomery headquarters operation. "We have no plans whatsoever."

 Since Montgomery is not going to be taking an active leadership role nationally, we're setting up an association of Wallace voters to set up coordination," said Walters in a telephone interview.
 "We are attempting to hold the national organization together and strengthen it until such time as Montgomery reassumes national control. We're not feuding with Montgomery—we would welcome them back."

Walters said he and others in the Los Angeles group are scheduled to meet tomorrow with Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, Wallace's running mate. "There is a good chance Lemay will be assisting us in this organization," he said.
 The third party has tentatively scheduled a national meeting in Texas or Oklahoma for Jan. 11-12 to make plans—and possibly decide whether to call itself the American Independent Party or simply the American Party.

Glenn Parker, another paid coordinator of Wallace's 1968 campaign, will work fulltime with Walters in the new organization, which will have its headquarters in a five-office suite on Wilshire Boulevard.
 Walters said his operation is receiving "a few thousand dollars a month—enough to keep us going." None of it, he added, is coming from Montgomery.
 In Montgomery, the Wallace organization is grinding toward a halt. Jones said only about 15 people are still on hand to handle the "half-sack of mail" that comes in daily.
 Jones claimed the organization is still just working out its finances and doesn't know yet whether it will have any money left over from the campaign.

 He said when the headquarters is closed, Wallace himself will get the files. The most important of these from the standpoint of any future organization contain the names of millions of petition signers, workers and contributors to the Wallace campaign.
 "The Walters group has not been sent any of the files, and they've been told just like everybody else, 'do what you think is best for your situation.'"

GOP Governors Endorse Ray Bliss As National Chairman

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Strong support for the retention of Ray Bliss as GOP national chairman is surfacing among Republican governors in discussions on the incoming administration's relations with the states.

Recent reports that President-elect Richard M. Nixon is thinking of replacing Bliss with a more dramatic figure as head of the party organization machinery caught most governors by surprise.

Three early arrivals at the conference, Govs. Ronald Reagan of California, Daniel J. Evans of Washington and Tom McCall of Oregon, had words of praise for the grass roots job Bliss did before Nixon's own men took over management of the successful presidential campaign.

Evans, keynoteer at the Miami Beach, Fla., convention, said he thought Bliss had done a "splendid job" during the campaign. "He minimized the differences between Republicans and maximized the local efforts to support the national ticket," Evans said. "I have a great admiration for his abilities and I hope that he is not going to be replaced."

McCall said in a separate interview that he and Bliss worked closely during the campaign and he was surprised at removal talk.

"I don't quite understand how a man who has been successful in electing a president should be thrown out on his ear," McCall said.

Reagan told a news conference he thinks Bliss did a "wonderful job." But the California governor, like others of his colleagues, made it clear that Nixon wants a replacement, he will get no real argument out of the governors.

Western Republican governors were saying, without exception, that Nixon must name a Westerner for secretary of the interior. Publicly they were plugging Gov. Tim Babcock of Montana, defeated in the November election. Few privately expected Nixon to pick Babcock.

One of Nixon's top aides said he expected no Cabinet announcements in a brief talk to the president-elect will make to the governors Friday night at a formal state dinner. Every GOP state executive, and those who were elected in November but have not yet taken office, expected to participate in confidential talks with the man who will move into the White House in January.

Nixon set aside four hours stretching into the early morning, for these discussions.

Gov. Spiro T. Agnew of Maryland, the vice-president elect, was on hand to practice up on his assignment as the new administration's top liaison man with the governors.

The governors continued to speculate that some Cabinet appointment might go to one of them. But every prospective appointee was coy about it.

Gov. David Cargo of New Mexico, who pumped for Rockefeller against Nixon for the presidential nomination, brought up the issue of block grants to the states for federal aid programs.

This dream of the governors along with federal sharing of revenues with the states, was expected to get a sympathetic hearing from Nixon. But whether or the new President could find any practical way to work out these programs remained doubtful even in the governors' minds.

Employment Survey Under Way

The Twin Falls office of the Idaho State Department of Employment is now undertaking an extensive survey of its services. A "plan of service" is being prepared that will identify the needs of the community and its people and then focus the resources of the agency upon these needs, he said.

Another study of this type was completed by the employment service two years ago, but it was far less comprehensive than the one now in preparation, he stated.

"What we hope to achieve from this study are concrete results," said Mr. Paranteau. "This plan of service when submitted to our central office in Boise will determine the breakdown of our funds and allocations. The survey will tell us who the people are that use our services most and will help us avoid duplication of these services."

Although the report is still in its preliminary stages of development, it is apparent that a good percentage of our time and money is spent helping the "marginal workers," the people who go out of work a number of times each year and often subsist on an annual family income of under $3,000, he stated.

"This report should be completed within the next two weeks. If we find that the whole emphasis of our service needs to be changed, we will reorganize our staff in order to make the most positive response to the needs of the area," he concluded.

Strict Security Surrounds Hotel Housing Nixon Offices

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The man standing outside the elevator at the Hotel Pierre looks as if his foot hurt or something. There is not a trace of humor on his face and his eyes reach out and grab an approaching newsman.

"What floor, please?" he commands.

"The 39th," the newsmen answers.

"Sorry. You're..." not allowed there. Absolutely.

The man's refusal is not questioned. He's a Secret Service officer, he's protecting the next president of the United States, there's a revolver inside his coat, and it is risky even to loiter in his presence.

The officer is among what appears to be several dozen federal agents. Now York C-0-p-a-aren detectives and private security guards currently on duty at the Pierre. They are all charged with the job of watching over Richard Nixon's pre-inaugural health.

The Pierre, Nixon's present headquarters, is located in Manhattan's lower "60's." The streets shriek with activity. Buses and cars and throngs of people. Every corner looks like a riot gathering.

It is impossible, police say, to screen the routine confusion going on around the Nixon offices. Workmen, clerks, foreigners, beggars, huns, millionaires — they congregate in the area.

Federal people believe that in a situation such as this — where publicly in a pinpointed the President-elect, but where normal daily procedure must be allowed to go uninterrupted — security dangers are maximum. "Nobody's suspect," says one cop, "except all these people."

The authorities have taken strict precautions in the streets. High rooms in nearby buildings are occupied by men with binoculars. Rooftops are searched. Policemen make endless rounds in the blocks immediately bordering the Nixon command post.

Yet the streets are impossible to secure, and so the principal line of police defense has been established inside the Pierre itself.

It is not immediately in evidence anywhere inside the hotel. A lone uniformed cop sits with in view of the Fifth Avenue entrance and behind him the security man at the elevator. There are apparently no police inside either the 62nd Street or Madison Avenue entrances.

Officials indicate this is the way it's meant to be. Diplomacy is a war, judgment keeps most guards out of the range of recognition.

Diplomacy is certainly a touchy area at the hotel. Besides Nixon, the management accommodates 300 other steady guests and an equal number of transient ones, none of whom would appreciate inconvenience by the law.

Says one hotel employee: "I'm sure the management received assurances from the Nixon staff that none of the guests would be molested in any way."

Says another: "I can imagine what would happen if the police stopped everyone who came into the hotel and searched them. It would ruin us. Even the Nixon prestige would not be worth something like that."

So far, about the only inconveniences to guests and other visitors have occurred during the occasions when Nixon's entourage enters or leaves the building. Then street traffic is rerouted, sidewalk pedestrians are held back and patrons in the hotel lobby are gently cleared aside.

But for the most part, Pierre regulars say they hardly know the President-elect and his bodyguards are around. They say they come and go freely, without even a hint of overt police surveillance.

"A visitor from Argentina, in fact, says the situation is mildy shocking to him. He is astonished that he can see Nixon whenever he wants."

"I just walk into the lobby," he says, "and I sit down by a policeman who doesn't even look at me. Then when Mr. Nixon comes down, he walks within an arm's reach of me. I find this very hard to believe. In my country, nobody but the wife gets that close to the president."

Electoral Reforms Could Have Altered Election Results To Favor Humphrey

By DICK BARNES

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard M. Nixon would have failed to get an Electoral College majority if the presidential election had been held under one of the electoral reform plans most often suggested.

The president-elect would have narrowly led Hubert H. Humphrey—but would not have had a majority—if each state's electoral college votes had been divided proportionately rather than going to one candidate on a winner-take-all basis.

Under some versions of this proposed reform, that plurality would have been sufficient to elect Nixon. But under others, lack of a majority would have thrown the election to the House of Representatives—an eventuality that most reform plans aim at avoiding.

Nixon would have won a slight majority if electoral votes had been allocated on a congressional district basis, another suggested alternative to the Electoral College. But his margin would have been smaller than the majority he actually got under the present system.

These theoretical results were compiled from virtually complete but unofficial election returns.

The other major reform plan would abolish the Electoral College, which has been in use since 1804, and elect the president by direct popular vote. Nixon also would have won under this system.

Proposals for election reform traditionally spring up in the wake of close elections. Reformers argue that the existing machinery may one day elect a president who is not the popular choice—or may break down entirely and produce no president after prolonged wheeling and dealing.

With a third major candidate in the field—as was George C. Wallace this time—the chances for an indecisive verdict appear to multiply.

Hearings are planned by the Senate constitutional revision subcommittee on how to improve the election procedure and eliminate the chance of constitutional crisis. The subcommittee chairman, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., is a leading advocate of direct popular election of the president.

If the present system is to be changed, the Constitution must be amended. That means the Senate and House must each, by two-thirds vote of its membership, ratify the amendment. Then it must be ratified by the legislatures of 38 states.

There are numerous arguments for and against the present Electoral College and each suggested substitute. Even within the reform plan there are arguments over how the fine print should read.

Here's a look at each principal system, the characteristics that stir debate about it, and how it works when the 1968 election results are plugged in.

The existing system: Each state has as many votes in the Electoral College as it has representatives and senators in Congress. The District of Columbia has three. All of a state's votes are cast by electors announced in favor of the candidate who wins the most popular votes in the state, although only 16 states and the district require their electors to follow the voters' choice. A majority of the electoral votes—270 of 538 this year—is required for election. If there is no majority, the House of Representatives elects the president.

Nixon won the popular vote in 32 states, giving him 302 electoral votes—a majority. Humphrey won 13 states and the District of Columbia for 101 electoral votes. Wallace won five states worth 45 votes.

Despite a better than 3-to-2 electoral edge over Humphrey, Nixon won the popular vote by less than 350,000 votes, out of 72 million cast. His 44 per cent of the popular vote was good for 55 per cent of the electoral vote; Humphrey got 43 per cent of the popular vote but only 36 per cent of the electoral; Wallace won 13 per cent popular, 9 per cent electoral.

The Electoral College originally was seen as a body of the elite who would rationally debate the merits of presidential candidates and pick the best man—a task not trusted to the ordinary voter in the old days of poor communication, transportation and education. The winner-take-all system for each state evolved as states sought to maximize their power rather than have their divided delegation that canceled itself out.

Smaller states have a stronger voice per capita in the college than bigger states because the number of electors is based partly on membership in the Senate, where population is not a factor. Rhode Island and New Hampshire have five electors each, while California has 40.

By adding the senators' two votes to the electors' 40 per cent, Nixon would have won under this plan, since he polled more than 40 per cent despite the third party candidacy of Wallace.

Some persons fear that one suspect city or county could swing the entire national vote in an extremely close election, whereas, under any of the Electoral College proposals, one fraud-ridden area can only affect one state. The counter argument is, of course, that an electoral election could hinge on that state.

On the other hand, the 8,000 votes some Republicans contend were stolen from Nixon in the 1960 election in Illinois were enough to give John F. Kennedy that state but were nowhere nearly enough to swing the entire national popular vote although Kennedy's edge of 119,000 votes was one of history's closest.

With direct popular vote, the small states would have a present over-representation but the big states would tend to lose their bloc power.

A popular or proportional system would change some of the nature of presidential campaigning because either would make it worthwhile for a candidate to go into areas where he had no chance of winning.

Nixon, for example, had no chance of carrying Alabama against Wallace, so there was no point in campaigning there because he could get no electoral votes. But the nearly 150,000 popular votes Nixon got in running a bad third in Alabama equaled nearly half of his popular vote margin over Humphrey in the country as a whole.

Likewise, candidates would find it worthwhile to go for every last vote in a safe area rather than be just as satisfied with a 55 per cent margin as 65 per cent.

Popular voting, even with a minimum percentage victory in a state with four electoral votes, would tend to disconcert third party candidates. The man finishing third would have no tangible bargaining tool in event of a deadlock since the leading candidate would simply run in another election.

The biggest problem facing electoral reformers is to agree on one plan. Even with unity, they face a rugged struggle in state legislatures; without unity, it's unlikely any plan could muster enough support to get through Congress.

Under this plan, Nixon would have received 234 electoral votes to 224 for Humphrey and 80 for Wallace, almost exactly matching his percentage of popular vote and 36 short of an electoral majority.

Proportional distribution lacks precision, particularly in smaller states, if only whole electoral votes—not fractions—are allocated. The mathematics are such that in a two-man race in a state with four electoral votes, one candidate would need nearly 63 per cent of the popular vote for the electoral votes to do anything but split 2-2. In Arkansas this year, for example, each candidate would have received two of the state's six electoral votes even though Wallace polled 39 per cent of the popular vote to 31 per cent for Nixon and 30 per cent for Humphrey.

In proportional voting, a third candidate has a fair chance of picking up votes in big states even though he badly trails the other candidates. Wallace polled only 7 per cent of the California popular vote, but would have gotten three of the state's 40 electoral votes.

DISTRICT ELECTORAL VOTING: The most common form of this proposal would give one electoral vote to the popular vote winner in each congressional district, with a bonus of two votes to the statewide winner. The bonus votes preserve the same degree of over-weighted representation—for small states already contained in the present system.

Nixon carried 225 congressional districts, Humphrey 103 plus the District of Columbia, and Wallace 47. Adding in the bonus electors for states won would have given Nixon 289 votes, a majority, Humphrey 192, and Wallace 57. That's 13 less than Nixon got under the existing system. Humphrey would have gained 1, Wallace 12.

The district system would make little difference from the present method in most small states, where congressional districts cover large areas. In larger and more diversified states, the district plan would more closely recognize these differences, but like the present winner-take-all system the margin of victory would make no difference. A congressional district carried by one vote would have the same electoral weight as one carried by 100,000 votes.

The district system in most cases would dilute the bloc power of the more diverse big states. In California, for example, Nixon carried 21 districts and Humphrey 17. Illinois was Nixon 14, Humphrey 10.

POPULAR VOTING: Under this plan, the candidate with the most votes would win. The number of states carried would become irrelevant. Some proposals include a runoff election between the top two candidates if no candidate in a field of three

Aides Deny Rockefeller Acquire Land

JACKSON, Wyo. (AP) — Rumors of extensive buying of land in the Grand Teton National Park area by Rockefeller interests, apparently are without foundation, say officials of the Grand Teton National Park, and Grand Teton Lodge Co.

Howard Chapman, superintendent of the Grand Teton Lodge, said Rockefeller family have little to do with the park, and have recently transferred 500 of those acres to the National Park Foundation. The 500 acres will be held in trust until sufficient revenues have accrued from it to finance purchase of other private lands to add to the park. This 500-acre tract, Chapman said, will eventually be deeded to the federal government.

W. A. Hirsch, an official of the land acquisition department of the Teton National Forest said an inquiry by his staff in the Teton County Clerk's office, Jackson, Wyo., revealed no purchases by the Rockefeller family or by any known Rockefeller subsidiary.

Herbert Cerwin, president of Herbert Cerwin & Associates, San Francisco, Calif. public relations firm handling the Grand Teton Lodge account, said he could find no record of Rockefeller purchases in the area.

LBJ Castigated By Journalists For 'Worst Credibility Record'

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — President Lyndon Johnson will leave office with perhaps the "worst" record for credibility of any president in history, Sigma Delta Chi, the national journalism society, reported.

Secrecy policies of the Johnson administration and court orders restricting coverage of crime news were attacked in the society's report on freedom of information.

Johnson's secrecy policies "have periodically interfered with the operations of the Freedom of Information Law," said the report, released at the opening of the society's convention.

The report says the "credibility gap" reached "awesome proportions," making the Pentagon and the White House two of the most difficult beats to cover.

"President Johnson has virtually abandoned the type of news conference which served the Washington press corps and the nation well from Franklin D. Roosevelt's time through the thousand days of John F. Kennedy," the report declared.

It described news conferences of past administrations as "well planned meetings with the press, giving all correspondents an opportunity to attend."

"It is more than coincidental that the credibility gap was not being held at regular intervals," the report said.

Johnson was especially criticized for calling "surprise news conferences," when only the White House regular correspondents were available.

"Sharp questions sometimes are asked at these conferences, but the regulars are under a handicap," the report said. "If they ask questions which displease the President, they know that they are risking harassment and other problems on a competitive news beat."

The committee, headed by Clark Mollenhoff, Washington correspondent of the Des Moines Register and Tribune and the Minneapolis Star and Tribune, said Johnson has "an obsession for secrecy."

The report on freedom of information also questions the conduct of Chicago's police force during the Democratic National Convention last August.

Others on the freedom of information committee, include William McGuffin, Chicago Daily News, Washington; Robert S. McCord, Arkansas Democrat, Little Rock; William J. Small, Columbia Broadcasting System, Washington; and Alvin E. Austin, University of North Dakota.

STUDENTS ADVISED — (AP) — Students waiting summer jobs next year with the federal government have been urged by U.S. Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, to register now for placement examinations.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court said the Washington Judicial Court and were "de-facto" will assist students in obtaining information on placement.

Baseball Strike Looms As Players Are Asked To Leave Contracts Unsigned

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A threatened strike by major league baseball players hovers over the sport as the players' union representatives have been asked to sign their 1969 contracts.

The statement, read to the press by Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, charged that players had been subjected to various pressures in an attempt to get them to sign their contracts.

The major issue in the dispute between the players and the owners centers around the players' demands for increased pension benefits, based on a rise in baseball's new television contract from $36 million to just under $50 million.

The statement said in part: "Some of the clubs, but not all, have engaged in a program of pressuring players to sign their contracts. Young players have been told to sign now or play in the minor leagues next year.

"Others, who are close to vesting under the pension plan, have been told that they will never get the necessary five years of service unless they sign now. Veterans have been told that baseball has a long memory and that if they refuse to sign now, they should forget about staying in baseball after their playing careers have ended.

"The players have been trying to get the owners to sign a new contract, but the owners are saying they would not sign until the issue was resolved.

It has become an urgent matter as the old pension agreement runs out March 31, 1969, and unless the new pension plan is signed by then, the pension plan will be terminated.

Miller, however, held out hope that the issue could be resolved. "There is ample time to resolve this issue," he said. "It is our hope that we can resolve this as soon as possible. But we don't even know how far part we are because they won't discuss any share of radio and television revenue."

Miller said eight meetings had been held in an attempt to re-

Fourth District Sportsmen Set Fall Meeting In T.F. Saturday

Sportsmen from throughout Southern Idaho and representatives of government agencies concerned with wildlife will hold a day-long meeting Saturday in Twin Falls and continue through about 5 p.m.

The event will start at 9 a.m. Saturday at the Holiday Inn in Twin Falls and continue through about 5 p.m.

Although no major issues appear on the agenda, the sportsmen will again formulate their resolutions and recommendations encompassing all aspects of outdoor recreation from big game to hunting and fishing.

The monthly session will be devoted to agency reports, State officials from the Idaho Fish and Game Department will have at least preliminary reports on the fall harvest of big game and give progress reports on seasons that began opening in a no-hunt area planned for next year.

At 1 p.m. the group will break up into committees for discussion in specific areas. Any resolutions adopted by the committees will be brought to the floor when the general convention reconvenes and the entire group will vote on the recommendations.

The fourth district encompasses all of Magic Valley plus the area immediately north from the Salmon and Challis area down to Wood River valley. Interested sportsmen are invited.

Fullmer Says Benvenuti Has Flaw

ROME (AP) — Soft talking boxer Don Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah, said he has spotted a key flaw in Italy's Nino Benvenuti and hopes to exploit it in their Dec. 14 world middleweight title bout in San Remo.

"We've noticed something," Fullmer and his manager, Angelo Curley, said in a union Tuesday night when asked how the Utah boxer planned to bring off his knockout prediction and rob the crown from the 30-year-old darling of the Italian ring.

"We have noticed Benvenuti making the same mistake in all of his last three fights," the wily 29-year-old Fullmer explained.

"If he makes it against me, I'll be ready to take advantage of it," Fullmer offered no clues as to what Benvenuti's weakness might be.

Fullmer, who has never before fought a 15-round pro bout, seemed lost on winning by knockout, perhaps to have himself a decision by a decision by an Italian referee to whom he agreed with some reluctance.

He and manager Curley still contend that Fullmer should have been declared the winner of a 12-round decision that an Italian referee awarded to Benvenuti in Rome in February 1968.

In what round does Fullmer think he can floor Nino for the count?

"I've never been much for predictions," said Fullmer. "I'm no Cassius Clay."

"Come early and you won't miss it," put in Curley.

Fullmer said he planned to begin sparring and road workouts Thursday. He must lose another two pounds to make the 160-pound limit for middleweights but expected no problems.

"I'll just lay off the pastries and starch and eat sensibly," he said.

Flu Sidelines Nine Ram Players

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Nine Los Angeles Rams players were sidelined Wednesday because of the flu, but Coach George Allen sent the club through a regular workout in preparation for Sunday's game against the Chicago Bears.

Missing the drill were Deacon Jones, Martin Olsen, Jack Snow, Willie Ellison, Charlie Cowart, Tom Mack, Bruce Gossett, Pat Studnitz and Willie Daniel.

RACE OFFICIAL DIES

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William H. Veeneman Sr., 78, chairman of the Board at Churchill Downs, died late Tuesday night at his home in Louisville.

Astros Get Blefary From Baltimore For Cuellar

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The Houston Astros acquired former rookie of the year Curt Blefary Wednesday night in a five-player trade with Baltimore that sent pitcher Mike Cuellar to the Orioles.

Blefary, who was the American League's top rookie in 1965, when he hit .267 with major league outfielder John Mize for the Astros for Cuellar, who had an 8-11 record last year, and minor league infielders—Elijah Johnson and Enzo Hernandez.

"It was the fourth trade made during the day—and third by the Astros—and brought to eight the number of trades made since baseball's winter meetings opened here. Twenty players now have changed uniforms."

The only one of 45 expansion draft players to endow without a "break" in his service, the 30-year-old third baseman in 1962.

The Astros also were involved in one other trade, acquiring relief pitcher Daley Womack from the New York Yankees for outfielder Dick Simpson. The Yankees also were involved in a second trade, sending outfielder Andy Kosco to the Los Angeles Dodgers for pitcher Mike Kekich.

There now have been seven trades involving 15 players completed in the first three days of the week-long meetings.

Aspromonte was purchased by Houston from the Dodgers following the 1961 season for $75,000 and immediately proceeded to set a National League record for third basemen in 1962.

CSI To Host Western Wyoming, Casper In First Home Battles

With an eye toward revenge, the College of Southern Idaho Golden Eagles open their home basketball season Friday night and Saturday afternoon by hosting a pair of solid junior college teams from Wyoming.

Coach Eddie Sutton's Eagles, holding a 3-1 record, will entertain Western Wyoming of Rock Springs at 8 p.m. Friday and go against Casper, who at 2 p.m. Saturday. The day game caused due to conflict with the high school Bruins, who will entertain Jerome Saturday night.

Although the two opponents for the weekend are markedly different, Coach Sutton said both are capable of winning basketball. Western Wyoming, led by Ernie Dunne and Rufus Wood, is a fast-breaking, pressing team that plays on emotion, Coach Sutton reports, and if the Spartans get the momentum they can pile up points. Dunne is a 5-10 spacer who shoots from the outside and leads the fast break. He also is the ball chaser in the press. Wood, a 6-4 sophomore, is a fine shooter from inside or outside.

Casper likes to fast break but won't force it the same way Western does. It will settle into pattern play.

On a personal note, Casper has three freshmen off last year's Illinois state championship team from Evanston. Evanston beat Crane High of Chicago in the semi-finals of state last spring and Al Davis, now of CSI, was on the Crane team.

"Casper needs that one really big man in the middle to be great. They have pretty good height and all three of their underneath men are great leapers," Coach Sutton said. This refers to Laucky, 8-5; Jones, 6-6; and McCoy, 6-4. "Casper also has a fine bench. It is just a real solid ball club."

12 Teams Entered In Minico Mat Tourny

RUPERT — The sixth annual Minico Invitational wrestling tournament will open Friday afternoon with 12 of the top mat schools in the area participating in the first major event of the season.

Minico, the defending champion, will be joined by Burley, Buhl, Blackfoot, Boise, Idaho Falls, Borah, Skyline, Twin Falls, Highland, Snake River and Pocatello.

Pocatello, Twin Falls and Snake River, the top three teams in last year's state tournament, will bring back several individual contenders but so far no one has established a favorite for the event. Pocatello won the state crown last spring with Twin Falls and Snake River tied for second.

There will be a total of 82 matches in each of the four sessions. The first will open at 1:30 p.m. Friday with the evening program opening at 7 p.m. Three sessions are slated for Saturday — 10 a.m., 2 p.m. and 7 p.m. The top four places will be decided in the Saturday night round.

Referee for the tournament will be Charles (Tiny) Grant of Rexburg; Golden Wood of Burley; Tom Jewel of Pocatello, and Carl Reynolds, Rupert.

Chemist Is Certain Of Race Test

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — State chemist Kenneth W. Smith reaffirmed his confidence Wednesday in the tests which ultimately deprived Dancer's image of his winnings in the Kentucky Derby.

"I am 100 per cent sure of my tests," Smith asserted to the Kentucky Racing Commission. "I will stake my life on them."

To back up his beliefs, Smith presented a series of film slides showing the reaction he obtained from one of the crystal tests performed on Dancer's urine in comparison with a number of experiments he made after the May 4 race.

This procedure brought strong objections from counsel for Peter Fuller, owner of the colt. His attorney argued that the issue is not what Smith has learned since the race, but what he knew about phenylbutazone and how to detect it at the time of the Derby.

Smith's tests were the basis for a ruling by Churchill Downs' stewards that the medication, forbidden in Kentucky, was present in the horse following the race. Fuller is appealing that decision in an attempt to collect the $122,000 purse.

The possibility that the colt could have retained phenylbutazone in his system longer than any known case was challenged earlier by Dr. Gene Bierhaus, track veterinarian for Colorado.

Bierhaus, drawing upon his experiences with the drug, placed the maximum retention time at 72 hours or three days. He said some experiments had been made during which a horse kept the medication for 72 hours.

He said he felt it was impossible for Dancer's image to have been treated with the medication prior to the Derby and have it show up in his urine six days later.

Clay Hopes To Return To Ring

RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — Muhammad Ali, formerly known as Cassius Clay, said Wednesday he plans to resume his boxing career "after I get out of jail to pay off my debts."

The 34-year-old former former heavyweight boxing champ who was stripped of his title by the World Boxing Association is under sentence for refusing to serve in the armed forces.

His conviction currently is being appealed.

All-told-a-news conference at Fairleigh Dickinson University here Tuesday drew 350,000 in attendance from his legal entanglement with the government.

Although Ali said he was in debt, he claimed he is now making $7,000 a week speaking at colleges and writing.

He took a thick roll of bills from his wallet and waved it at the assembly.

Foster Agrees To Defend Title

NEW YORK (AP) — Bob Foster agreed Wednesday to make his first defense of the world light heavyweight boxing title against Franko DePaula, Jersey City, N.J., on Jan. 22 at Madison Square Garden.

Harry Markson, managing director of boxing at the Garden, said Foster, the 175-pound champion from Washington, D.C., will receive 40 per cent of the net receipts and 40 per cent of the ancillary rights. DePaula will get 20 per cent of the gate.

Two Jamborees, 24 Games Scheduled For Weekend; T. F. Will Host Jerome

A pair of Northside Conference jamborees, the annual visit of the Jerome Tigers to Twin Falls and some inter-district competition, opens the weekend of the basketball season.

Eight of the Northside League schools, including Gooding State, will meet in a pair of double-headers Saturday night in Bliss and Richfield. At Richfield, the first game will send Dietrich against Camas County while Richfield plays Carey in the nightcap. Gooding State, playing one of three varsity games slated for the year in this one, will take on Brunau in the first game and in the second.

The bulk of the action takes place Saturday night when 14 games are slated compared with 10 for Friday.

In the inter-district flavor Friday, the Minico Spartans, fresh from beating Twin Falls, will go to Capital where the Eagles wait with good height and three returning starters.

Wood River is home Friday night with its four returning starters, entertaining Butte of Arco. The same two clubs meet again Saturday night, this time in Arco.

Gooding also travels to Boise to test Bishop Kelley and the Senators return home Saturday to entertain Valley.

Buhl, which remembers the winless days of last year, will debut at home against the Glenn Perry Pilots. The Shoshone Indians, stung by Castleford Tuesday, will travel to Oakley where the Hornets will be making their first appearance.

Valley, a seven-point loser to Filer, will host the Murtaugh Red Devils in a traditional grudge match. Kimberly, which won't open by a point, will try to improve the Wolves at Castleford while Rat-River leaves the area to play at Grace.

Hansen, still trying to beat its long regular season losing streak, will be at Richfield Friday night while the Filer Juniors will give Bliss its first taste of action this year.

Burley has its first home court appearance set for Saturday night when the Bobcats host American Falls.

Twin Falls, a four-point loser to Minico, tries to even its record against Jerome in the Bruin gym Saturday night. Jerome, light on letterman, will be making its first appearance.

Buhl leaves Magic Valley Saturday night to play at American Falls while Filer is home to Valley in a return match. Shoshone stays in the eastend by invading Declo and giving the Hornets their first action, while Castleford stays at home to entertain the Wenatchee team.

Rat-River stays out of the area to play North Gem at Bancroft and the four jamboree games wind up the slate.

Brodie Cited For Show In Packer Game

NEW YORK (AP) — The new deal in San Francisco seems to have done wonders for John Brodie whose 12th season in professional ranks with his batter years.

When Dick Nolan, the new head coach, took the 43ers to their new training camp last July, the No. 1 quarterback job was declared a wide open fight between Brodie and George Mira with Steve Spurrier also a contender.

Brodie beat off the challenge of Mira and resumed his familiar starting role by opening day. At the end of 12 games Brodie ranks fourth among the National Football League passers and has thrown more touchdown passes, 21, than in any previous year, except 1965 when he threw 30.

For his job in shooting down Green Bay last Sunday, 27-20, Brodie has been named by The Associated Press as the Offensive Player of the Week in the NFL.

Brodie completed 24 of 30 passes against the Packers, including three touchdown passes. He hit Clifton McNeil nine times for 88 yards and had only one interception.

Graebner, Ashe Felled By Injuries

CHICAGO (AP) — The United States' two top Davis Cup players, Arthur Ashe and Clark Graebner, were sidelined by ailments Wednesday, dimming bright prospects for an American triumph over Australia in the Cup finals Dec. 20-23.

Ashe and Graebner were scratched from a scheduled benefit tennis tournament at Northwestern University Wednesday night. Don Dell, Davis Cup captain, said he might have to consider replacements for the Cup challenge round at Adelaide, Australia.

Ashe, the world's top amateur, has a painful right elbow which hampered him since the U.S. team defeated India almost a month ago to gain the Cup finals against Australia.

Graebner has recurrence of a pulled back muscle and, like Ashe, received treatment Tuesday from Dr. Ted Fox, team physician for the Chicago Bears football team.

"Ashe and Graebner will leave with the Cup squad for Australia from Los Angeles tomorrow night," said a disconsolate Dell.

"I'm pessimistic about Graebner and optimistic about Ashe. The problem is that time is against them both getting ready for Cup play. It is required that I name our four-man Cup team on Dec. 16, 10 days before play begins."

Stickles Banned From Next Game

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Tight end Monty Stickles of the New Orleans Saints has been suspended for Sunday's game with the Philadelphia Eagles for physically abusing an official, in the course of play, a Saints spokesman said Wednesday.

The spokesman said the action occurred in the Saints' game with the Chicago Bears last Sunday.

Houston Club Is Receiving Help

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Commissioner George Mikan of the American Basketball Association denied a report Wednesday that the league has taken over operation of the Houston franchise.

However, Mikan acknowledged that ABA headquarters has had representatives in Houston "to help promote and publicize the team. We felt that some help was needed in Houston. That's why we're there."

The Houston Post said Wednesday that Mikan has been unsuccessful in attempts to find new ownership for the Houston franchise.

Howe Scores 700th Goal For Detroit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gordie Howe, the Babe Ruth of hockey, scored his 700th goal Wednesday night, creating one of the greatest milestones in sports.

The 40-year-old right wing for the Detroit Red Wings drove a 30-foot shot head-on past Pittsburgh Penguins goalie Les Binkley at 7:13 of the first period. It got no more than two inches off the ice and made the score 1-1.

Officials stopped the game and gave Howe the puck as the crowd in the Civic Arena stood and applauded.

Howe said the pressure on him to get No. 700 was tough, but the pressure was greater when he was faced with Maurice Richard's career record several years ago.

What about 800 goals?
"It's getting tougher," he said. "I have to admit it's getting tougher."

However he said he would be back next year because he has one year to go on his current contract.

"After that I don't know," he said. "It depends on how my legs stand up. As long as you're scoring goals, though, it's easier."

The goal put Howe 156 ahead of his nearest rival, Maurice Richard of the Montreal Canadiens, who retired in 1960. It was followed then that Richard's 544 goals might stand for decades.

Only Bobby Hull of the Chicago Black Hawks—who is 29 and has 430 goals—seems to have a chance to catch Howe.

Hockey players have longer careers than most athletes, but few play past 40. And no one has played as long and as well as Howe.

Now in his 23rd season he has made 30 NHL records, and has been in the top five scorers for 10 straight years.

There are some interesting parallels between Ruth's and Howe's careers. Ruth played 22 seasons, Howe 23. Ruth has 714 home runs, his nearest rival,

Changes In Traffic Laws To Be Requested

Traffic safety, additional state troopers and stricter control of the drinking driver will be included in legislative proposals to the 40th Idaho Legislature by the Department of Law Enforcement.

Warner C. Mills, commissioner of law enforcement, said that his department will ask the legislature to consider increasing the ranks of the State Police by about 50 men during the next biennium.

The department also will request that the presumptive blood-alcohol content level be lowered from .15 to .10.

Commissioner Mills also said that the department will seek amendments to the Motor Vehicle Inspection program in regard to fees charged, light and utility trailer exemption and budget revision to allow greater supervision of the program.

"The department," Mr. Mills said, "would like to see a maximum speed law approved, retaining the present fact section of the code for established speeds in other areas."

Mr. Mills said the legislature will be asked to approve an amendment which would clearly define right of way at uncontrolled intersections and to consider a provision which would make racing, speed and endurance contests illegal on public streets and highways.

Other legislation being considered by the department, according to Mr. Mills, includes reinstatement of the habitual violator, and an inattentive driving law to replace the negligent driving law which has been declared unconstitutional.

The commissioner said the department also will present a bill which provides penalties, including suspension of driver's licenses for those who attempt to elude a pursuing police vehicle.

"Of utmost importance," Mr. Mills said, "is the proposal to upgrade our driver licensing system."

He said that a recent study of the system recommended two alternatives: To allow the commissioner to set uniform standards for the issuing of licenses by the sheriff departments, with the provision the state would take over those operations which did not conform to state standards; or, to make driver licensing a state program, a proposal favored by the Idaho Traffic Safety Commission.

Other proposals being considered would make it illegal to drink any alcoholic beverages while in a vehicle, and a new law which would make it illegal to be intoxicated or under the influence of drugs while in a vehicle illegal.

Still being considered are proposals which would establish minimum or "slow moving" vehicle laws and amendment of the passing over a white line law.

Also suggested by department heads were laws calling for burning of headlights by motorcyclists at all times when on a public highway, that all vehicles except motorcycles must have windshields, and amendment of the rear view mirror law.

Mr. Mills also said that because of the increasing popularity of snowmobiles it is imperative that attention be given to legislation relating to the use of such machines and to establish where and when they may be operated without becoming hazardous to the motoring public.

It also has been suggested that the state offer a defensive driver course to motorists who collect six traffic violation conviction points, with three points to be deducted for those who successfully pass the four-hour course. A fee would be charged for the course.

Mr. Mills said that corrections also are needed in trucking laws and that one proposal calls for transfer of control of truck laws and regulations from the Department of Law Enforcement to the Department of Highways.

"We consider," Mr. Mills said, "each of our proposals important to the well-being of Idaho's citizens and a means of upgrading traffic safety. We hope the legislators will look with favor on what we are proposing."

Campaign To Help Children At Nampa School Is Planned

The Idaho Association for Retarded Children is sponsoring a campaign, according to Rev. Robert Schreckenberg, local chairman.

The campaign goal is to collect 10,000 books of $5 and $10 Green Stamps. Co-sponsors of the project are the Idaho Jay-Cettes, Idaho Jaycees and the American Legion Auxiliary.

The funds will be used for the Idaho State School and Hospital's Christmas shopping. More than half of the 750 retarded persons at the Nampa State Hospital and school never receive appropriate Christmas gifts.

The Rev. Mr. Schreckenberg explained the association must depend on donations from organizations and individuals throughout the state. He said there are many special requests that are unable to fill such as transistor radios and bicycles.

He said a paddle boat is also needed for the recreation camp near Idaho City.

He said the funds will also be used for child development centers and Twin Falls should have such a center within the next few years. He said these centers offer on a regional basis, without strict boundaries, case-finding programs, individual diagnosis and evaluation by a professional team, and day care programs for the children for whom there are no adequate facilities and training sources at the present.

In the future a second phase would involve construction of temporary resident care facilities, short-term detention care and short-term residential evaluation under the Youth Rehabilitation Act.

Donations are needed to provide proper equipment for these centers.

The association will accept full books of stamps, part books and loose stamps or cash donations. Local donations may be mailed or delivered to Rev. Robert Schreckenberg, 2064 Elizabeth Blvd., Twin Falls.

Troy Laundry Purchases Buhl Facility

The Buhl Laundry has been purchased by Troy Laundry, according to Bill Powell, owner of the Twin Falls operation.

Mr. Powell said the business had been bought from M. F. Carlson, who has owned and operated the Buhl Laundry since 1932. The new owner said he will maintain the Buhl building as a call office and the work will be processed at the Nampa Falls plant. He said there will be a twice-daily service to the Buhl area.

Mr. Powell emphasized that Troy Laundry will continue the same policies of Mr. Carlson and offer the same service to the Buhl area.

Persons employed at the Buhl Laundry have been offered jobs at Troy Laundry and Mr. Powell said most of them have accepted.

Most of the equipment used in the Buhl operation will be transferred to Twin Falls.

Idahoedown Features Potato Feast

When it comes to hordovans and windings, potatoes are a mainstay. A bunch of teen-agers can be blissfully happy with nothing but Gold-Dusted French fries as long as there are tons of them and something wet to wash them down.

Now that the coveted Idaho potatoes are right at hand in so many departments of your supermarket, you can pick and choose and serve forthwith. Frozen Idaho potatoes come almost every way imaginable and quite generally offer more than one way of cooking methods. You can buy the instant mashed Idaho potatoes which are so good they have literally wiped out the peelers and the mashers. And there are the many dehydrated varieties that come with sauces and suggestions.

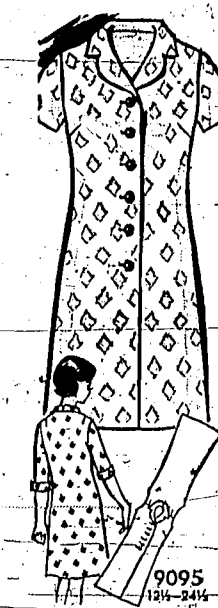

But however good and convenient these now-fangled potatoes, the daddy of them all still holds its own. We're speaking of the fresh Idaho-baking potatoes with their corky inn scrubbed skins, their dry, mealy flesh which greedily absorbs butter. These are the Potato Roasts with the rib roast, in this case sliced and baked right along with the meat. And these are the potatoes that make the chowder and Nature's own convenience food, requiring no help from you at all other than turning on the oven. One last word: Idaho. You'll find it stands for flavor, nutrition and quality. Look for it whenever you buy any kind of potato.

BAKED POTATO CHOWDER
4 medium Idaho baking potatoes
2 cans (10 1/2 oz. each) concentrated cream of chicken soup
2 cups chicken broth
Chopped green onions or chives, fresh, dried or frozen.
Bake potatoes at 400 degrees one hour until tender. Heat chicken soup, adding broth gradually and stirring until smooth. Cut potatoes in half and scoop fluffy potato mixture into soup. Sprinkle with chopped green onions or chives. Makes eight servings.

GOLD DUSTED FRENCH FRIES
1/2 cup coarse salt
2 tablespoons sugar
2 teaspoons coarse black pepper
1 tablespoon m.s.g.
1 tablespoon paprika
1 tablespoon grated lemon peel
1/4 teaspoon thyme

BEER RIBS AND POTATO ROASTS
1 can (14 oz.) beef broth
1/2 cup Worcestershire sauce
1/2 cup cider vinegar
1/2 cup salad oil
1 clove garlic, crushed

Welcome Guests With Hot Schnecken

Their bodies bundled up like clumsy bears, winter weather slipping at their cheeks and breaths a cloud of steam, your guests arrive at the door and rush inside, scattering lumps of snow and oozing wetness everywhere. Fingers stiff from the cold, they clutch coffee mugs, faces over the steam. What better way to welcome them than with hot schnecken, baked so easily with an unusual and inviting crunchy flavor. It comes from those chocolate-covered English toffee candy bars you've loved since you were a child.

TOFFEE SCHNECKEN

- 2 packages active dry yeast
 - 1/2 cup lukewarm water (110-115 degrees)
 - 1 cup lukewarm milk (110-115 degrees)
 - 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1 egg, beaten
 - 4/8 to 5/8 cups sifted flour
- Filling
- 1/2 cup soft butter or margarine
 - 1/2 cup sugar
 - 1/4 cups chopped chocolate-covered English toffee candy bars (8-1/2 oz. bars)
 - 1/2 cup chopped pecans
 - 1/2 cup light corn syrup

Prepare dough. Dissolve yeast in water. Add milk, butter of margarine, sugar, salt, egg and two cups flour; beat until smooth. Stir in enough flour to make a stiff dough. Turn onto lightly floured board; knead until smooth and elastic. Cover with plastic film and a towel. Let rest 20 minutes. Make filling while dough is resting. Cream butter, margarine and sugar; stir in chopped toffee and pecans. Punch down dough. Cut into two equal parts. Roll each piece of dough in 12 by 9 rectangle. Spread each with an equal amount of filling. Roll up tightly beginning at wide side. Cut each roll in 12 equal slices (1/2 inches) and place one teaspoon corn syrup in bottom of each pan. Arrange slices in pan. Cover loosely with plastic film. Refrigerate two to 24 hours. When ready to bake, remove from refrigerator; uncover and let stand at room temperature while over is heating, 10 to 15 minutes. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees) until done, 20 to 25 minutes. Turn rolls out of pan onto wire rack over waxed paper. Yield: Two dozen rolls.

Cathie Larribeau, Carney Exchange Nuptial Promise

Cathie Louise Larribeau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Larribeau, was married to Gerald C. Carney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Carney, in Filer Nov. 2 at the Carillon.

Rev. Donald L. Hoffmann performed the ceremony.

The bride wore a white velvet gown, fashioned with a rounded neckline trimmed with white fur and long lily point sleeves. The gown was highlighted with a chapel train trimmed with white fur. Her veil of English silk illusion was held by a white fur pillbox hat.

She carried a fur muff adorned with cranberry roses and velvet ribbon. She wore an heirloom lavalier given to her by her grandmother, Mrs. John Ondrey, and carried a handkerchief from her grandmother, Mrs. Kenneth Faucett.

Mrs. Richard Carlson was matron of honor, with Carolyn Carney, sister of the bridegroom, and Diane Faucett, cousin of the bride, as bridesmaids. Martha Carney, sister of the bridegroom, served as flower girl.

GARY Akkew was best man, with John (Skip) Larribeau, brother of the bride, and Mark Carney, brother of the bridegroom, serving as ushers.

The bride's table was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a cascading bouquet of fresh cranberry roses and white carnations. The cake was made and decorated by Mrs. Uba Allen and cut and served by Mrs. Shirley McCoy.

Women's Section

DEAR ABBY: How come there are laws against stealing chickens, horses, and automobiles, but there aren't any laws against stealing a man's most precious possession — his wife?

I'll bet if there were a penalty of 10 years in the penitentiary for wife stealing, there wouldn't be so many divorcees, and poor little innocent children the victims of broken homes.

DENISON, TEX.

DEAR DENISON: Chickens, horses and automobiles, the possession of which is protected by chattel law, can neither give nor withhold consent to be stolen, right?

A wife? She could be "kidnaped," but if she goes willingly, she's not stolen. Besides, she's no chattel.

DEAR ABBY: Our daughter is 17½ and she's in her last year of high school. She has fallen in love with a 50-year-old man, and Abby, we are about out of our minds.

They want to marry when she is 18. They claim they are "in love" and are miserable when they're apart.

This man has plenty of money, drives a big Cadillac, and he's a snappy dresser. He doesn't look his age. He's very peppy and a wonderful dancer. (So is she.) He's promised her a Hawaiian honeymoon and a whole new dream world. Our daughter says it's not the money. She'd love him if he were poor. Can this be?

Should we try to break them up? What do you say, Abby? Do you think they could be happy together?

HER MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Those May-December marriages are usually wildly happy as long as they last, but they seldom last long. If you try to break them up, you might hasten the marriage. Try to persuade your daughter to wait a while. If you fail, she'll be stuck with a man who can give her everything she wants now, but she'll have to take her chances on what's in store later.

DEAR ABBY: I passed a Jewish cemetery recently and noticed that the tombstones were very tall and close together. A friend of mine told me that it's an old custom of the Jewish people to bury their dead with caskets upright. Was my friend right? No offense, dear.

Yule Safety Is Important

BLOOMFIELD, N.J.—All children and most adults look forward to Christmas for weeks in advance.

To ensure that your holidays won't be marred, Rita Harold, Westinghouse residential lighting-director, offers these tips on how to avoid an accident when handling your Christmas decorations.

The first rule concerns your Christmas tree. Keep your tree standing in water from the day you bring it home until you take it down. A dry tree can flare up almost like an incendiary bomb.

Buy only light strings certified by the Underwriters' Laboratories. Even if your strings have the UL Approved label after many years of use cords become frayed and sockets damaged. For safety's sake, check strings carefully. Give them the "heave-ho" when they are no longer safe—they're cheaper in the long run!

Always use washer rings (nuts) on all sockets; on indoor strings they keep decorations (lights, icicles, etc.) out of sockets; on outdoor strings they prevent water from seeping into sockets. As an added precaution, hang the sockets downward on outdoor trees so water can't seep in. Use insulated staples to hold light strings in place, not nails, tacks or brads.

Don't overload the wiring system. If other lights dim when the tree is lighted, disconnect other electrical equipment or use an outlet on another circuit.

To ensure safe operation outdoors in rain or snow, use only sockets, plugs, cords and bulbs which are made for outdoor use. Drape connections over a wood spike to keep them above the ground and out of slush. As an added precaution, wind insulated tape around each connection to keep it watertight. If there is no outlet on the house exterior, use the socket in one of the entrance fixtures or a post-light.

If a cord must be brought through a window, take a board about four inches and cut it to fit the width of the window snugly. Drill a hole in the board and run outdoor-type cord through the hole. Close window on the board.

When installing your outdoor Christmas lighting, even when replacing a bulb, and especially if you are standing on damp ground, be sure the power is turned OFF. Rubber boots will also reduce or eliminate electrical shock when standing on wet ground.
