

Self-Help Housing Plan Formed In Burley

BURLEY — A self-help housing organization is being formed in Cassia and Blaine counties through the Opportunity Center, announced Mrs. Gus Esquibel, director.

This is a means of giving low income families an opportunity to have a decent home of their own.

The organizational meeting was held in the office of the Opportunity Center, formerly called the Migrant Service Center, East Main Street, Burley. Attending the meeting were State Farmers Home Administration officials and interested persons and officials from both counties.

The group will work with the Office of Economic Opportunity and the Farmers Home Administration. The organization hopes to be the guiding agency to make available loans for individual families in both counties to participate in the self-help housing project.

The program is specifically designed to help families who do not have enough income to build $5,000 to $9,000 homes by customary methods, to work together to build homes of their own, explained Mrs. Esquibel.

"The first step in starting the self-help housing program is to organize a representative group of people friendly to the idea and willing to work with each other in securing housing for low income families. The board of directors of the sponsoring organization should include as diverse a section of the community as possible from government agencies, churches, schools, and business. Members with experience in building, real estate, and law can be particularly useful," Mrs. Esquibel

The project can be financed through the Office of Economic Opportunity. However, the most important aspect of the Board of Directors is that one-third of its membership must be representatives of low income families and potential participants.

Even if the project is not bound by the Office of Economic Opportunity regulations, it will be far more likely to succeed if it is broadly based and representative than if it is composed of middle and upper income people variously motivated, said Mrs. Esquibel.

There will be a series of meetings lasting about a month which will decide who's eligible, criteria for low income and checking credit references of those potential participants.

The group will elect officers and must have a minimum of six to 10 couples to operate effectively.

"At present there are about eight families, four in each county who are eligible," reported Mrs. Esquibel.

The homes must be built in rural areas with no help in communities over 5,000 people. Therefore no houses will be built in Burley although they can be erected in Paul, Heyburn and Rupert. They must stay within a 1,000 square foot floor size limit.

The houses are built by the families to a large degree under a qualified construction man's supervision. The family must spend 1,200 man-hours on the house at $2 per hour which provides for the downpayment.

Each family must spend a minimum of 30 hours a week on the house with anyone in the family doing the work as long as he or she is over 16 years of age.

This type of self-help housing has assisted in construction of homes in Welter the only one in the state.

Progress so far on the organization has been helped by a program development grant from the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Mutual Fund Is Reported

A new mutual fund, Hamilton Growth Fund Inc., has been announced by Hamilton Management Corporation, the fund's underwriter.

Hamilton Growth Fund has registered five million shares with the Securities and Exchange Commission. It is a diversified, open-end investment company, which has an objective to increase in value of investment capital through investment primarily in common stocks, a company spokesman stated.

A shareholder account in the fund may be opened with an initial payment of $250, and payments of $50 or more may be made as often as the investor wishes, the spokesman stated.

The free prospectus for the new fund may be obtained from H. F. (Donc) Reddiker, Hamilton Assistant District Manager, Rt. 3, Jerome, the spokesman said.

MAP SHOWS the proposed area involved in the Salmon Falls Division proposed by U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. This project area was the subject of a hearing by the Idaho Water Resource Board Friday in Twin Falls. Water for the project would be pumped from the Snake River at Milner, shown at the right side of the map. The dotted lines show the proposed Milner-Salmon Falls Canal. Proposed pumping plants are designated by diamond-shaped markers on the dotted line.

Testimony Heard On Plans For Salmon Tract Project

of the water users receiving the replacement ground water would remain unchanged; only a physical exchange of water would be involved. This is the same principle we are following on the authorized Lower Teton Division.

This point of exchanging water with the north side users drew protests from all water users north of the river. These irrigation districts, canal companies, cities and fish hatcheries contended that the deep wells would lower the water table on the north side, thus endangering their supply of water needed to survive, and also of the costs of changing systems and structures in delivering the ground water.

On this ground water issue of the proposal, Lloyd Webb, attorney for the Salmon River Canal Co., said the "canal company wishes to clarify its position concerning sources of water to be used in implementation of the Salmon Falls Division plan.

"The report of the Bureau of Reclamation discusses several alternative sources of water supplies including surface water supplies from Rock Creek and from the Snake River, as well as exchange of ground water from various areas in the Snake River basin. No specific designation is made in that report as to which of the various possible sources of water supply will be used in the implementation of the project if it is approved.

Mr. Webb added that no proposal made in any fashion which attempts to even suggest an attempt to alter or affect the rights of persons owning surface water used in the areas from which ground water would be taken. The only suggestion made in the report is that ground water supplies can be produced in those areas that a suitable exchange may be possible.

Mr. Webb concluded: "The Salmon River Canal Co. strongly urges approval of the Salmon Falls Division report and recommendation for its implementation in the Congress of the United States.

"This project would assure for the first time in 58 years a permanent and adequate water supply for 40,000 acres in the Salmon Tract unit and an additional 24,000 acres in the Milner-Cottonwood unit. This is top quality land with a potential of productivity equal to any land in the state."

Robert Erkins, Buhl, representing the fisheries along the Snake River and on the north side, said with proposed pumping of ground water, the water table of the springs would be reduced, thus endangering the

Leading Democrat Lauds Rogers As 'Man Of Integrity'

WASHINGTON (AP) — William P. Rogers, tapped as secretary of state by the Nixon administration, was called a "man of unquestioned integrity and ability" Wednesday by a leading Senate Democrat with whom he'll have to deal.

The comment came from Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., who is chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee which will act on Rogers' nomination after the new session of Congress convenes next month.

Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex., of the House Appropriations Committee, said he believes the Cabinet selection for the incoming Republican administration form "a great team."

On the GOP side of the congressional fence, House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford of Michigan said the Richard M. Nixon Cabinet "is a strong team in every respect. This means the nation can anticipate sound, progressive leadership over the next four years."

The new administration will be dealing with a Congress in which Democrats hold an edge in both the Senate and House.

Fulbright and Dean Rusk, the current Democratic secretary of state whom Rogers will succeed, long have been at odds over many areas of foreign policy, particularly the Vietnam war.

Ford, the House GOP leader, said he thinks inclusion of three governors—Volpe of Massachusetts, George Romney of Michigan and Walter J. Hickel of Alaska—was unprecedented. He also suggested the urban crisis would get top priority in the new administration.

Lawrence F. O'Brien, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, called the Cabinet selections "a group of distinguished men with fine backgrounds."

"For our part, I know that the Democratic party will support any constructive programs which are advanced and will strive to improve upon any shortcomings we detect," O'Brien said, adding: "As always, it will be performance that counts."

Fight Continues Over Sex Education Plan

RUPERT—The sex education controversy continued to rage in Minidoka County Friday as the county PTA council met to discuss the proposal.

A group of about 30 parents and interested citizens who claim no organized movement to bar any such educational program in the county's public schools, attended the Friday night meeting to voice their reasons for opposition and to hear any argument in favor of the concept.

On hand to answer questions were Supl. Camden Meyer, assistant superintendent Doyle Lowder, Mrs. Vance Beckwith, president of the Fourth District PTA and Mrs. Ken Stuefeli, vice-president of the district.

Mr. Meyer noted that as far as the board of trustees are concerned, there will be no change in the present sex education which is limited to high school biology classes and which merely explains the functions of the human reproductive system.

He said, however, that the Nampa schools are planning to establish a formal sex education course for the public system.

"As far as I know," he continued, "there is no pressure here to begin such a course of study as there was in Nampa. There is, on the contrary, a strong movement to prevent such a course," he said.

"The stumbling block we encounter," he explained, "is that the parents need awakening to the necessity of such education. Most are falling down on the job."

In Burley, according to the Cassia county council PTA president, there are plans for an adult sex education course to teach the parents how to teach their children in the fundamentals of sex. The idea, when presented to the Minidoka group Friday, met with unanimous approval of the group.

One parent commented that her impression of the discussion presented by the recent seminar in Boise was that the proposed sex-education course was more of a how-to than a how-come course.

She said she believed any such education should teach the child to treat sex with respect, not how to get around getting pregnant.

Another declared that even if a teacher were to receive 100 years education, he would still not be qualified to teach the course inasmuch as it is still a moral issue and, she said, is up to the individual parents to decide what will be taught. She paralleled it to religion, which can't be taught in the public school system.

The local council PTA has taken no stand on the issue and Friday requested that each unit work out the problem individually.

Following the sex education discussion, the group discussed the effects of obscene literature and movies. It was decided that these publications are the real root of the illegitimate babies and sex crimes in the country.

It was the general consensus of the group that a complete boycott of the obscene magazines and advertisements and of the "adult-only" movies would eliminate the problem.

Committee To Study Hike In Grazing Fees

The Special Committee on Grazing Fees, which is a committee of the National Advisory Board Council for the Bureau of Land Management, will meet Monday in San Francisco.

This committee will prepare a report to submit to the National Council, Bureau of Land Management, which will be called in session on Wednesday. At that time the National Council will make a recommendation to the Secretary of the Interior in regard to the proposed increase in grazing fees on federal land.

The Secretary of Interior has proposed an increase in grazing fees from 35 cents to $1.25 per animal unit each month.

Ray Lincoln, Twin Falls, represents the Idaho livestock interest and Bruce Bowler, Boise, represents outdoor recreation on the special committee.

Political Point Of View

By L. James Koutnik

There are some nasty thorns in the rose bushes of that happy little garden called the American Independent Party; and not just here in Idaho, either. The recent "palace revolt" wherein a small group attempted to take over the AIP in Idaho and remove Joe Stumph is indicative of what is going on throughout the United States in various AIP meetings. Locally, the situation, as it frequently does, smacked of a certain amount of personal bitterness and resentment. The issue at hand seems to revolve around a national power struggle to control the national party organization.

Meanwhile, Joe Stumph makes it plain that he is still the chairman of the state central committee, and until he is removed by a legal convention he will continue to function in that capacity. Alice Jackson's announcement of electing Nolan Victor chairman notwithstanding.

In a small, secret meeting held last week in Twin Falls a group of state officers and members of the AIP calling itself the "Executive Committee" removed Joe Stumph as chairman and replaced him with Nolan Victor of Twin Falls. Nolan Victor also was the recent AIP candidate for the state legislature from Twin Falls county.

Mr. Victor, talking about his new position, said he went into the meeting a little into actually after everything was done and was advised that he was now the state chairman. He was completely in the dark as to why he was chosen for this position, but was honored nevertheless.

A couple of others who attended, advised that "Yes there was a meeting" but they didn't recall exactly what had taken place. They did seem to recall that Nolan Victor had replaced Joe Stumph, but nobody seemed to know exactly why or by what authority they did it.

But that's the way it goes in the American Independent Party, which, incidentally, is one holla'va way to ruin a political party.

If any political group expects to have any permanent influence or contribute to the overall accomplishments of its party and aims, such as the AIP purports to do, they are going to have to grow up and be responsible for their actions, and have open meetings, announced beforehand, with full explanations to the public what they're doing and why.

The Republican and Democratic parties have had plenty of bloodletting within their own organizations, but they have never been accused of sneaking around and holding private meetings to toss out someone they feel is objectionable. Whatever criticism you may have for the national party, secrecy of their "internal" activities has certainly never been one of them.

Joe Stumph tells us he has set up a meeting in Idaho Falls by direction of the state organization, Jan. 4, 1969. This meeting will be open to the public, and if anybody wants to remove anyone from office this is where they are going to have to do it. Joe states that there are 105 members on the state central committee, including 37 county chairmen and 28 legislative district chairmen. The balance of the membership consists of state committeemen and committee women and state officers.

The recent meeting in Twin Falls on Dec. 7, consisted of only a handful of members of the state central committee and a few members-at-large. Incidentally, a couple of the dissenting members in the AIP indicated they thought it was highly appropriate that the rebel meeting was held on Dec. 7.

Nationally, the whole issue is over who is to head the AIP national organization. Oddly enough, there is no longer any national organization that is functioning.

There's not even a national chairman, and what was basically a one-man show run by

Jaycee Aide Talks Monday At Burley

BURLEY—Donald R. Bianchi, Miles City, Mont., Jaycee national director, will be featured speaker during a noon luncheon Monday in the Chipparral Room at the Ponderosa Inn of the Burley Jaycees.

Other special guests will be Darrell (Doc) Wolf, Twin Falls, district Jaycee president, and members of the Rupert Jaycee Club.

Mr. Bianchi is a five-year Jaycee veteran. As president of the Montana Jaycees last year, he was instrumental in increasing general membership to a new record year. He has also served as state vice president and a national director. Presently he is employed as district fisheries manager of the Montana Fish and Game Department.

The Burley Jaycee Club for the past four years has had a 10 per cent increase in membership and has received the blue chip award at state conventions. If the local club again gets a 10 per cent increase this year in membership it will be eligible for a gold chip award.

The chip awards are nationwide for Jaycee Clubs. The Idaho State Jaycee Convention will be held in the spring at Twin Falls.

Young men ages 21 to 35 interested in Jaycee work are invited to the luncheon to hear Mr. Bianchi.

ported him. Joe got the blame for this, even though he didn't attend the California meeting. Apparently some Idaho people did attend, but reportedly they were without credentials to officially represent the state, although this is exactly what they appear to have done.

Actually it would appear to us that it would be a real tragedy for the state of Idaho if this party, through internal dissension and bickering, should pass into oblivion. They are in a position to perform a real service for a segment of voters who, obviously, are disenchanted with the major parties.

FAIRFIELD — Camas County Sheriff Paul Cox reports that the Christmas tree is back in the city park again. He stated that it was taken as a prank by high school students who have offered to pay any damage.

The tree was recovered late Tuesday evening from another city park where it had been hidden. It was erected again in the park next to the fire house and the broken lights replaced and put on the tree.

He said that the students were sorry that they had taken the tree as a prank. He said that no action would be taken against the students.

CAP Schedules Special Film

A film entitled "Trip-Trip To Where?" sponsored by the Idaho Wing Civil Air Patrol and the Air Force, was shown to students of Robert Stuart and O'Leary Junior High Schools this week, reported T. Sgt. G. T. Jarrett, Jr., Air Force administrative assistant to the local CAP.

The color film is 50 minutes long and shows the effects of such drugs as—barbiturates, amphetamines, marijuana, and LSD, Sgt. Jarrett stated.

The film is produced by the Navy and depicts the "bad trip" experience that often results from using LSD and points out the danger of an "experience" recurring without warning, he said.

Final Tally Of Votes Gives Nixon Majority Of 499,704

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential elect Nixon received 499,704 more popular votes than Hubert H. Humphrey in the Nov. 5 presidential election, complete official totals showed. Nixon received 31,770,237 votes, Humphrey had 31,270,533 and third-party nominee George C. Wallace had 9,897,141. An assortment of other candidates received 239,016 votes.

Nixon got 43.40 per cent of the vote, Humphrey got 42.72 per cent and Wallace 13.53.

A record total of 73,177,821 votes were cast, compared with 70,913,823 votes cast in the 1964 presidential election. But it represented only 60.2 per cent of the estimated 121.5 million Americans of voting age.

The official totals from all 50 states and the District of Columbia did not change the electoral vote totals, which show Nixon 302, Humphrey 191, Wallace 45.

The electors meet in their respective state capitols next Monday to cast their votes, which will be counted officially by a joint session of Congress on Jan. 6.

Besides the three major candidates, the official canvases showed these totals for other

Bloodmobile To Visit Buhl On Monday

BUHL—The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Buhl Moose hall between 2 and 6 p.m. Monday, Ralph Assendrup, Buhl blood chairman, reports.

Area residents are urged to meet the 100-pint quota, plus an additional five pints which the chapter was short in June. The additional five are needed to meet the chapter's yearly quota.

Plans for the drawing are being made under the direction of Mr. Assendrup. The Buhl Jay-C-Elites will assist by telephoning business houses during the time of the drawing as a reminder to blood donors. Beta Sigma Phi members will assist as typists and receptionists at the blood drawing.

Lucerne Grange will serve the canteen for this drawing and Barrell-Surber noted that four Buhl high school boys will load and unload the bloodmobile equipment in the Moose hall.

Mrs. George Harvey is in charge of assigning medical doctors, nurses aides, and registered nurses to assist with blood drawing.

WENDELL—Funeral services for Mrs. Rose Maurer, 86, who died Friday at a Twin Falls nursing home of a long illness, will be conducted at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the United Methodist Church by Rev. Edward V. Harves.

She was born Sept. 29, 1882, in Somerset, England.

She came to the United States when she was 9 and attended school in England, Kansas and Iowa. She married Earl Foster Maurer on Jan. 25, 1911, at Waterloo, Iowa. She lived in and near Wendell since 1917 and came to Twin Falls from Parsons, Kan., in the spring of 1913. She taught school in Iowa for several years before she was married.

Mrs. Maurer was a member of the Methodist Church, the Re-Acta Club, the Women's Society of Christian Service of which she was the first president in Wendell, the Wendell Grange, and the Mountain View Club.

She was preceded in death by her husband, June 10, 1954, in 1955.

Jack Thompson

HAZELTON—Jack Thompson, 43, Ephrata, Wash., former Hazelton resident, died in Oshkosh, Wis., Tuesday of a short illness.

He was born Oct. 14, 1925, in Hazelton. He married Thelma L. Kelly. He had been a resident of Ephrata for the past 12 years. He was a member of the Methodist Church and was a veteran of World War II, having served in the navy.

Surviving besides her wife are one son, Michael Thompson, U.S. Navy; one daughter, Jean Thompson, Ephrata; four brothers, Clifford Thompson, Idaho Falls; Milford Thompson, Sedro Woolley, Wash.; Blair Thompson, Durango, Colo.; and Gerald Thompson, Las Vegas, Nev.; and three sisters, Mrs. Ruth Whitehead, Twin Falls; and Mrs. Nellie McDermott and Mrs. Vera Vandyno, both Nampa.

Funeral services were held in Ephrata. Graveside rites will be held at 2 p.m. Monday in Sunset Memorial Park with Rev. Donald Nyce officiating. Friends may call at White Mortuary Sunday evening and until 1:30 p.m. Monday.

Burley Police, Merchants Join Forces

"BURLEY—A joint effort is under way between Burley merchants and the Burley police force to curb shoplifting during the Christmas shopping period.

The Burley Downtown Merchants have put up money to provide costs of maintaining additional security protection during the seasonal rush. Some plain clothesmen in addition to officers in uniform will be canvassing the stores throughout open hours.

An intensified effort is being made to curb what has been a high loss period for merchants in the past, George Warrell, chief of police, stated.

The police department in conjunction with the Mini-Cassia Security Police is working the downtown district and the Overland Shopping Center with a special lookout for shoplifters.

The police department asks shoppers to lock their cars at all times and remove the keys, also avoid leaving parcels lying about in parked cars. Parcels are safer locked in the trunk of the car when the car is not attended, officers warn.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday in White Mortuary Chapel with Rev. John B. Sims officiating. Concluding rites will be conducted at the Sunset Memorial Park by Order of the Eastern Star, Magic Chapter No. 82.

Federal Aid Authorized For Ketchum

WASHINGTON (AP)—An additional $48,640 in federal funds has been authorized for an Idaho sewer system project, Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said Friday.

The grant is to the community of Ketchum and increases to $178,140 the amount made available by the water pollution control administration, Church said.

Total cost of the interceptor sewer line and secondary sewage treatment plant is estimated at $601,000.

ANCHORAGE (AP)—One man swam to safety, one died and two others are missing after the crab vessel North Sea of Seattle ran aground and sank Friday off the west coast of Unimak Island in the Aleutians, the Coast Guard reported Saturday.

Shelley Baker

HAZELTON—Shelley Rae Baker, 9, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Baker, Hazelton, died Saturday of a long illness.

She was born Aug. 15, 1959, in Twin Falls.

Surviving besides her parents are one sister, Mrs. Brenda Whitehead, Hillsboro, Ore.; four brothers, Billy Baker, Deloy Baker and Daryl Baker, all Hazelton, and Coy Baker, serving in Vietnam; her paternal grandmother, Mrs. Allen Baker, San Jacinto, Calif.; and her maternal grandmother, Mrs. Coy McElhany, San Diego, Calif.

Funeral services will be announced by White Mortuary, Twin Falls.

Burley Plans Yearly Yule Light Contest

BURLEY—The second annual city-wide Christmas lighting contest will again be sponsored by Burley Jnycees.

Lowell Dayley, chairman, said the contest will be open to all Burley residents. Prizes of $50 will be awarded one each for best, novelty entry, religious entry, and for the most original entry. Entry blanks are available from daycees members.

This year the contest will be open to everyone and anyone may enter another person's house lighting. "Many times a person fails to enter the lighting contest because he feels he has no chance, but a thoughtful neighbor may have another idea," Dayley stated.

Prize money for the contest is being donated by Burley merchants.

Last year's winners were Tad Wolf, Gail Wolf and Bert Sorenson.

Needy File Is Kept At 'Y' Office

The YWCA again this year will be the clearing house for needy families.

Clubs, groups and organizations should check with the "Y" office for names of families they wish to help or if a family is known, the name should be checked through the files to avoid duplication.

The names of needy families may be found at the "Y" office, 733-4384, or individuals may come to the office, 1751 Elizabeth Blvd. The families are, in turn, visited to be sure of correct addresses and other information.

Students of the various schools in Twin Falls will be bringing staple goods to put under their school Christmas tree. These items will be gathered by the YWCA and boxed for delivery December 20.

There has always been a last minute need for meat items for the Christmas baskets and anyone wishing to help may contact Mrs. Sally Molyneux at the YWCA office.

Bob Hope, Troupe Off For Vietnam

As a result of the Thanksgiving Week Clothing Appeal by the Church World Service Agency of the National Council of Churches, seven Twin Falls area churches contributed over 1000 pounds of used clothing, according to the Rev. John H. H.

ley, chairman for the Collection. Clothing received through the Thanksgiving holiday weekend will be shipped to Portland for distribution to areas of need throughout the world.

A portion of the garments received will be distributed to the needy and suffering victims of the war in Vietnam.

This campaign has been sponsored jointly by the Idaho Council of Churches, the Roman Catholic Church, and the Orthodox Church. The program is in its third successful year of operation.

Area churches who participated this year were Ascension Methodist, Twin Falls First Episcopal, Presbyterian, Twin Methodist, and Our Saviour Lutheran First Baptist, Murtough Lutheran Church of Twin Falls.

for what they call the "traditional year-end rally". Only 10 more market sessions remain before the 1988 stock market year comes to an end. Typical year-end cross-currents of tax-loss selling, profit taking and switching are to be expected. Almost every year, however, the market does rise between Christmas and New Year's Day.

Two weeks ago, with the Dow Jones industrial average standing at 985.08 some market analysts predicted blithely that "Dow 1,000" would probably be attained by mid-week. They did not take into account that the unexpected frequently happens on Wall Street. It did, when the nation's leading commercial banks upped their prime lending rate to 6 1/2 per cent from 6 1/4 per cent on Monday Dec. 2, dashing cold water on the stock market.

Last week the Dow Jones industrial average, thanks to one vigorous session on Friday, managed to post a gain of 3.65 at 981.20 for the week, leaving it somewhat below where it was two weeks ago. Volume for the week was 85,191,270 shares compared with 85,524,010 the previous week. Of 1,730 issues traded during the week, 832 rose and 770 fell—a fairly small margin to the upside. New highs for the year totaled 288 and new lows 33. The Associated Press average of 69 stocks last week gained 1.4 at 368.4.

More Americans Working And Spending More Money
By JACK LEPLER
—AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—More than 78 million Americans are working—a record for this time of year—and they are spending money as never before.
This is the case despite the 10 per cent federal income tax surcharge imposed last July 1 in an effort to restrain the economy's headlong advance and to stem ballooning inflation.
The Labor Department reported this past week that total employment rose in November to 78.6 million, up 250,000 from October to a record for the month.
At the same time the unemployment rate fell to a 15-year low of 3.3 per cent of the labor force. The rate in October was 3.6 per cent, the average level for the year to date.
Retail sales climbed in November to a monthly record of $29.1 billion, a gain of 1.5 per cent above the October level.
The New York Stock Exchange estimated that consumer spending in 1968 total by 10 per cent. And it said consumer income rose 7.1 per cent between mid-1967 and mid-1968.
Economists said much of the rise in retail sales came from consumers dipping into their savings to offset the bite out of their paychecks from the tax increases.
The savings rate fell from 7.5 per cent of income before enactment of the surcharge to 6.25 per cent by September.
The Federal Reserve Bank of New York said business activity remains strong and price increases "have continued at an excessive pace."
There was considerable activity this past week on various sectors of the price front.
The steel price picture was muddied by seemingly unrelated moves by producers.
U.S. Steel Corp. and Wheeling-Pittsburgh-Steel Corp. joined in a $7-a-ton boost for long-term sheets, a small item, which was initiated by Armco Steel Corp.

Vikings Outlast Murtaugh 76-73; Kimberly Third

HAZELTON — The Valley Vikings wrapped up the championship in the Snake River Holiday tournament Saturday night with a 76-73 overtime thriller over the Murtaugh Red Devils. Kimberly trailed Hansen 61-54 for consolation honors in the evening's first contest.

Beavers Beat Jerome With Hot Shooting

JEROME — The American Falls Beavers, paced by Smith, rocked the Jerome Tigers with a torrid 54 per cent shooting effort from the floor, and ran off with a 68-53 victory Saturday night.

In a game marked by 55 fouls, American Falls established the big margin at the free throw line, hitting 28 against only 13 by the Tigers. Jerome compounded its misery by missing a lot of driving inside shots.

Hagerman Dumps Camas County 67-51

HAGERMAN — The Hagerman Pirates took advantage of some ice-cold shooting in the first half and handed the Mushers a 67-51 setback Friday night.

St. Bonaventure Defeats Toledo

OLEAN, N.Y. (AP) — Tenth-ranked St. Bonaventure University's Bob Lanier scored 40 points Saturday night to lead the Brown Indians to a 85-75 basketball victory over Toledo at the University Center.

Lanier's performance was his college career high mark and a record for the 3-year-old center. Lanier and sophomore Ed Klimkowski scored 27 points in the first 12 minutes against a man-to-man defense that Toledo finally had to eliminate from their game plan.

Twin Falls Bows To Caldwell And Borah Meservy And Lee Spark Decisive Rally By Devils

CALDWELL (AP)—A fourth-quarter surge by Twin Falls Twin Falls attack, led by Mark Miller with a 25-point game to Caldwell. Caldwell led by 13 points with the game's high scorer with 33. He picked up 13 in the first period as Caldwell went ahead 18-12.

—TAKING THE FALL—Hansen's Taylor, half-flying out behind him, tumbles over Valley's Wolf during action Friday night in the Snake River Holiday tournament. Valley won 63-57.

A cold Twin Falls team spotted Borah a 32-14 halftime lead. Twin Falls came back in the second half—but not strong enough—to outscore Borah 30-28.

Rebounding was one of the margins in the victory as Borah's Dave Mucklock grabbed 13 and Glen Clark 12, to out-rebound the entire Twin Falls team between them.

Neither team was outstanding from the floor. Borah made 21 of 62 field goal attempts and Twin Falls hit only 18 of 63.

DIETRICH—The scrambling Dietrich Blue Devils—catching spark from Randy Lee and little Jim Meservy, rallied from behind in the fourth quarter to edge Hagerman's Pirates in a battle of unplayable teams Saturday night.

The shorter Blue Devils, trailing by 11 points in the second quarter and 10 in the third period—caught up when Lee and Meservy hit a pair of three-point shots in the space of 30 seconds, and Little Meservy hit a long shot and sacked it up with a fast-break crippler with a minute left. From four minutes of the first quarter until the early moments of the fourth quarter it was all Hagerman.

Steady Randy Clark and sporadic Ray Lapp paced the scoring for the Pirates and were responsible for the leads. But each time Hagerman had to chance to blow away, Dietrich scrambled back into contention.

In the fourth quarter Dietrich had its hottest stretch while the Pirates, hampered by a pressing Dietrich defense, managed only a pair of field goals.

Then Lynn Ballard hit a field goal and Lee, who was "short on most of his shots, pumped through five to close the intermission lead to four.

Russ LeMayne, Lapp and Clark sparked a third-quarter surge for the Pirates that posted 10-point leads three times. But again in the closing minutes McCowan and Ballard got points and Lee stole two from the Pirates at the buzzer.

Kentucky, Owls Post Wins In Cage Twin Bill

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kentucky's fourth-ranked Wildcats made their first 11 shots from the floor and ran away with a 102-79 basketball victory over Penn in the second game of a doubleheader at the Palestra Saturday night.

Led by the scoring and rebounding of John Baum, Temple romped to an 80-62 victory over NYU in the opener.

With 6-foot-9 Dan Issel controlling the backboards and Mike Pruitt leading the fast break, the Wildcats stormed to an early 31-10 lead.

Beside making their first 11 shots, the Wildcats also converted 10 straight free throws.

Ironically, it was Casey, Kentucky's brilliant forward, who missed first. He failed to connect on a short jump shot at 7:45.

Led by Capt. Pete Andrews, who scored 20 points, the Quakers cut the lead to 74-63 by 9:18 remaining.

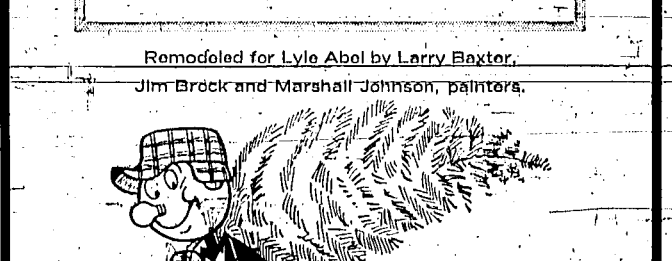

But the tall and talented Wildcats took control again and put the game out of reach.

Your Spine and Your Health

BLOOD PRESSURE should be checked every 6 months after the age of 30. Cold feet, tiredness upon awakening or upon the slightest exertion can be symptoms of poor circulation as a result of low blood pressure and possibly associated with anemia, weak heart action, certain glandular disorders, or any one of a great number of other causes.

High blood pressure usually is a more serious situation. It may indicate arteriosclerosis, certain diseases of the kidneys, or even "arteriosclerosis" from overindulgence in alcohol or certain food. Often it may be a result from hypertension, which in many cases is caused by nerve irritation.

Any deviation from normal in blood pressure is due to some very definite cause—and often the basic correction requires a removal of the irritation which has been responsible for an abnormal flow of nerve impulses. In some cases special dietary instructions may be necessary.

Your doctor or chiropractor is especially well trained in the various nerve functions, and can give you the best advice you regarding your diet.

(One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the various causes of hypertension, written by Dr. Ludwig C. Lindmeyer, whose office is located at 217 Main Ave., W., Twin Falls, Tel. 733-0222.)

Arkansas State's defense, led by Little All-American linebacker Bill Berger, stopped North Dakota in the final half.

Hatchett was voted the game's outstanding offensive player while Berger was named the outstanding defensive player.

Hatchett, a Little All-American, picked up 100 yards, including an 18-yard touchdown run in 25 carries. Berger was in on 21 tackles and picked off two interceptions.

Chiefs Down Denver, Cinch Tie For Title

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—Len Dawson's state quarterbacking and head-up defense swept Kansas City to a 20-7 victory over the Denver Broncos Saturday and gave the Chiefs at least a tie for the title in the American Football League's Western Division.

Bronco fumbles and pass interceptions by the Chiefs paved the road for four of Kansas City's scoring plays.

Early in the second period, Len Dawson hit Otis Taylor with a pass good for 67 yards and the Chief's first touchdown.

Two Dawson to Taylor passes in the third period covered 52 yards in the only drive where Wendell Hayes bucked it across.

Mike Garrett scored another touchdown for the Chiefs and Jan Stenerud, their place kicker from Norway, booted three field goals.

Except for their lone touchdown drive in the second period that covered 80 yards, the Broncos did not make a serious threat until late in the game when a penalty and a pass planted the ball on the Kansas City 17. But the Bronco quarterbacks were thrown for big losses after that.

Mississippi Rallies From Early Deficit To Upend Virginia Tech By 34-17

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Mississippi rallied from a 17-0 deficit behind the passing of Archie Manning an alert defense which pounced on three Virginia Tech fumbles and intercepted two passes.

Manning, a lanky sophomore whom Coach Johnny Vaught calls one of his best, ignited Mississippi's comeback with touchdown passes of 21 and 23 yards in the second quarter.

Halfback Steve Hindman put the Rebels ahead to stay on the opening play of the second half with a 79-yard touchdown run.

The Rebels, playing in their 12th straight bowl game, clinched the triumph in the last period when Bob Bailey booted 70 yards for a touchdown which intercepted pass, and Matt Brown kicked a pair of field goals from 48 and 26 yards.

Cards Upset Browns, End Win Streak

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two touchdown passes from Jim Hill to Bobby Joe Conrad and a magnificent goal line stand enabled the St. Louis Cardinals to upset Cleveland 27-10 Saturday.

The defeat ended the Browns' eight-game winning streak, a work-factor their National Football League Eastern Conference championship game with Dallas.

The defeat ended the Browns' eight-game winning streak, a work-factor their National Football League Eastern Conference championship game with Dallas.

Twice Cleveland had first downs inside the Cardinal five-yard line. And twice the St. Louis defense forced the Browns to punt.

The Cardinals jumped into the lead, scoring soon after the opening kickoff and were never headed. Cleveland pulled even once early in the third period on a 45-yard scoring run by Lee Roy Kelly.

The Cards finished with a 0-4 record, their best since 1954. With 39,746 fans shivering in 17 degrees cold, the Cards' Chuck Latourette wrapped up the three NFL season records during the game—most yards gained, most returns and most returns handled.

Conrad's first scoring catch was a 28-yarder he juggled with one hand at the 10, finally pulled in and sprinted over. His 20-yarder in the third period broke the tie, and the Cards got an insurance touchdown in the fourth on tight end Jackie Smith's 36-yard run on an end-around play.

Buhl Rallies To 59-56 Win Over Beavers

BURLINGAME — The Buhl Indians evened up their record with American Falls Friday night by rallying in the final quarter for a 59-56 victory.

Seldom more than five or six points separated the team with American Falls leading 45-42 going into the final period. Buhl, marked by Butch Jones' 22 points, caught up early in the period and stayed slightly ahead most of the way. The Indians led it with a five-point lead with 15 seconds left and didn't mind a last-beaver-field goal that cut it to three.

BOISE (AP) — A decisive third-quarter burst burned the game around for Highland Saturday to pull out a hard-earned 62-53 victory over Boise.

BURLEY — The Burley Bobcats dumped the Jerome Tigers 61-48 Friday night, as Craig Bromberg's 58-yard punt led the first half assault that had put the Tigers into a 48-26 hole.

Jerome was cold early in the game, and the Bobcats jumped into an 11-point first quarter lead which they never gave up. Jerome couldn't get untracked against the taller Bobcats, its best quarter being a 17-point production against Burley's reserves.

BOISE (AP) — A decisive third-quarter burst burned the game around for Highland Saturday to pull out a hard-earned 62-53 victory over Boise.

Ken Edwards dashed 58 yards for the score on the play in which the Gobblers handed on the line of scrimmage, quarterback A. Knead walked to the ball and casually pitched it to Edwards.

That touchdown took only 27 seconds, and Virginia Tech scored again two minutes later on Terry Smith's seven-yard run set up by a Manning flourish.

The Gobblers widened the gap on a 29-yard field goal by Jack Simecaker later in the opening period. But then the running attack bogged down and the Rebels rolled to their seventh triumph of the year.

Wendell Raps Castleford In Late Surge

WENDELL — The Wendell Trojans knocked the Castleford Wolves out of unbeaten ranks Friday night with a come-from-behind 61-54 decision.

Castleford, which nipped Wendell three points earlier, stayed ahead most of the first three quarters and up to the three-minute mark of the last period. Then Wendell erasing a six-point deficit, nudged into the lead and went into a delay game. The Trojans tucked it away shooting nothing but crisp passes and cinch shots.

Wendell's lead over Castleford in the third quarter was 33-27. Castleford's lead over Wendell at the end of the third quarter was 28-27. Castleford's lead over Wendell at the end of the fourth quarter was 54-34.

Carey's lead over Leadore at the end of the first quarter was 20-14. At the end of the second quarter, Carey led 34-14. At the end of the third quarter, Carey led 47-14. At the end of the fourth quarter, Carey led 61-44.

Chicago Needs Win Over Green Bay To Clinch Playoff Berth

By JACK HAND Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago and Minnesota, still in for the lead in the Central Division, go into the final day of the season Sunday with the Bears needing only a victory over Green Bay to move into the National Football League post-season playoffs.

Because they beat the Vikings twice, 27-17 and 26-24, the Bears, 7-6, can win the division title by knocking off their old Packer rivals in the golden anniversary game of their long series.

Minnesota, also 7-6, must best back the aroused Philadelphia Eagles, 2-11, at Franklin Field and also hope for a Chicago defeat or tie. If the Vikings and Bears finish up with identical won-lost records, it will be the Bears who move on against Baltimore at Baltimore, Dec. 22.

The game that was to have been the climax of the season became just another season finale when Los Angeles, 10-21, lost to Chicago last Sunday. Consequently, Baltimore, 12-1, already has the Coastal Division locked up before it goes into the East to play the Rams in their first meeting, 27-10.

Dallas, 11-2, can concentrate on getting ready for the post-season schedule when it invades Yankee Stadium to play the New York Giants, 7-6. However, the Cowboys would like to see even for that 27-21 defeat in Dallas and the Giants want to end a three-game losing streak.

Cleveland, which will be host to Dallas Saturday, Dec. 21, in the Eastern Conference finale, lost 27-18 to the Cardinals in its last game Saturday at St. Louis. In other games on the closing program it will be Detroit, 4-7-2, at Washington, 4-9-6, San Francisco, 8-6-1, at Atlanta, 2-11, and Pittsburgh, 2-10-1, at New Orleans, 4-9-1.

The Bear-Packer game, always a rousing war, takes on added stature with the Bears' late spurt and the Packers' decline.

When they met earlier, Nov. 3 at Green Bay, the Bears won 12-0 on MacPond's 43-yard field goal with 26 seconds to go on a free kick following a fair catch.

Chicago has won its last two from New Orleans and Los Angeles while Green Bay lost to San Francisco and Baltimore for its worst record since 1958, the year before Vince Lombardi.

Seattle Runs To Easy 93-74 Win Over Utes

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Sam Pierce scored 24 points and Tom Little 22 in leading Seattle to an easy 93-74 victory over Utah Saturday night.

Seattle began the contest by building a 6-0 lead and never was threatened seriously the rest of the way.

Utah managed to close the gap to 23-21, but by halftime the Seattle lead was 51-30.

Jim Gardner added 17 points to the Seattle cause.

Utah, now 1-4, shot a cool 32 per cent from the field and performed miserably from the foul line, hitting only 10 of 29 attempts.

Seattle is 4-2.

Filer Sweeps Two Games From Payette

PAYETTE — The high scoring Filer Wildcats raced to a pair of offensive-oriented wins over Payette Friday and Saturday.

Paced by the 17-point and 17-rebound effort of junior Guy Ramsey, the Wildcats won Friday night 83-76 and came back Saturday for a 76-72 decision with Maxwell pumping through 24.

Filer exploded for 25 points in the third quarter to win the first game. The Wildcats trailed 35-29 at halftime but went into the final period ahead 44-30. The win came despite a 43-point spree by Scott Masingill of Payette.

Saturday night Jim Smith hit 33 for Payette in the losing cause.

Castleford JV's Top Filer JV's

FILER — The Castleford Juniors defeated their counterparts from Filer Saturday afternoon as they piled up a 11-point lead at one point and took a 49-43 win.

The young Wildcats rallied in the last quarter, but Castleford held the advantage behind the great outside shooting of Conrad and Esterday. Cowper and the Wildcats with 16 points, while Conrad and Esterday had 12 and 15 respectively.

came to Packerland. Bart Starr missed last week's game and is questionable for the final because of sore ribs.

Minnesota will be playing Philadelphia for the first time since 1963 in the most important contest in the history of the franchise.

The Vikings broke out of a slump by rolling over San Francisco 30-0 last Sunday. The rejuvenated Eagles followed up their first victory at Detroit by beating New Orleans.

The Rams have a lot of things to get even for, mainly the 27-10 game they lost at Baltimore in October, and last week's loss to the Bears.

They may try to take it out on the Colts who are proud of their seven-game win streak, 12-1 record, and the knowledge they have not allowed a touchdown in the last four games. A 34-10 defeat in Los Angeles that ruined last season still sticks in the Colts' memory.

Fran Tarkenton bested Don Meredith when the Giants beat the Cowboys in Dallas five weeks ago.

The Giants desperately hope to better last year's 7-7 record and must top the Cowboys to do it.

Swim Star Is In Fair Condition

SEATTLE (AP) — Helene Madison, the former swimming queen, was described Saturday as in satisfactory condition after surgery for throat cancer Friday.

Helene, now 54, had been taking radiation treatment for the affliction.

She had been working as a special nurse until illness forced her to turn down assignments. She already was suffering from diabetes when she learned of the cancer about three months ago.

Helene's swimming career, brief but spectacular, was climaxed with winning three Olympic gold medals in 1922. She never lost a freestyle race in a meet, starting at the age of 15 and retiring at 19. She held every world freestyle record for women at one time or another.

BOOKMOBILE STOPS at grade schools usually found a group of eager young readers waiting to obtain new reading material. Here a group of teachers, young students and high school students at Murtaugh greet John Durham as he opens the mobile unit door. The stop, unfortunately, was just to pick-up books as the bookmobile service has ended in Murtaugh, unless a library district is formed to resume the service.

YOUNG READERS ENJOY the bookmobile services on one of its rural stops in Twin Falls County. This particular unit contains some 2,500 books and is one of two used during the past two years in a demonstration to determine the extent of library service utilization among rural communities and areas of Magic Valley. Some 400 books per day were circulated by each unit six days per week. This is more than some standard libraries circulate.

Rural Communities Are Crying For Good Books, Library Services

By HONNIE BAIRD JONES, Times-News Feature Editor

People in rural communities of Magic Valley want their bookmobiles back.

They are angry and disappointed because the service they have enjoyed the past two years has come to an end.

"Why shouldn't people who live in rural areas and small communities be entitled to library facilities and services?" they are asking.

There are quite a few of these aroused citizens and library officials of Magic Valley who feel people are entitled to read books regardless of where they happen to live. They are now working diligently on an area-wide project that will help provide these residents with available reading material by restoring bookmobile service and making reference center libraries in the area available to these residents.

The people are angry because it is a two-year demonstration through the cooperation of the Idaho State Library and under the volunteer direction of Robert Bruce, Twin Falls librarian, has just ended. The demonstration was launched to determine if interest in the area warranted creation of library districts in the rural communities of the eight-county Magic Valley area.

In the demonstration, two bookmobiles were provided and supplied by the state library have been visiting these rural areas on a regular schedule.

In order to restore this service library districts must be formed. In order to form the districts, petitions must be circulated, must obtain 51 per cent of the signatures of local registered voters who balloted in 1968 in the most recent gubernatorial election of Idaho.

There are seven proposed districts including the Murtaugh-Hansen district (also covering Rock Creek) in Twin Falls County; the Cassia County district including De Clo, Starr's Ferry, Pella, View, Springdale, Albion and Oakley; the Mindoka district including Mindoka, the Acapulco District; the Lincoln County District; the Pico and Carey district; and the East Jerome County District to include Kasota, Hazelton and the area south of the town of Eden.

Mr. Bruce announced the first success was achieved Tuesday with the official establishment of the Pico-Carey district. It will be known as the Little Wood River Valley District. Blaine County Commissioners authorized the district Monday and appointed the five local trustees: Mrs. Ruth Briggs, Mrs. Doris Barton, Mrs. Harry O'Crowley, Mrs. Nevada Stroud and Ronald Peck. All, Mr. Bruce said, have worked hard to circulate petitions and to form a library district in that area.

For the people of this district, the bookmobile service will continue uninterrupted. In fact it was not stopped as they were so close to district formation when the demonstration deadline of Sept. 15 was reached. These people may also use the reference library centers of Gooding, Jerome, Buhl, Burley and Twin Falls without cost.

Workers in the other proposed districts hope to present their petitions by Dec. 31. If the districts can operate immediately and will have an opportunity for funding during 1969.

Mr. Bruce said financing of the districts is through a small county levy. He said the entire two-year demonstration throughout Magic Valley cost only $8,000 a year to conduct and it is estimated that on a permanent basis no more than $12,000 would be required to perform the same service. The state would provide the mobile units and books with salaries and other operation costs provided by the districts.

The state law allows up to two mills to be levied against property within the district to cover library costs. In most areas however, Mr. Bruce said, one mill would be sufficient.

Only the taxpayers within the district pay the library levy and all cities where library service is already available or where little interest was shown during the demonstration period are excluded from proposed library districts.

For many rural readers this would be less than the $12 per year library fee paid by readers outside of cities with library facilities. For some large land owners, of course, it would be more. This has brought a word of caution from county officials who urge petition signers figure the cost to themselves and their neighbors before taking a stand.

Mr. Bruce explained that if sufficient signatures are obtained for a proposed district, these are then presented to county commissioners in that county, verified against voter registration lists by county clerks and, if adequate, a public hearing is then called by the county officials.

Unless some valid reason to deny the district is shown during this hearing, commissioners must then create the district and name five local residents as trustees to administer district matters. These trustees meet with the director of the Regional Library Center and determine what kind of service and the amount of service they wish. Cost of this service is then figured and a contract signed by the board of trustees for the library district, and the Regional Library Center for the service and cost agreed upon.

Such a contract is for three years, Mr. Bruce said. He stressed that if a contract is not signed and an agreement reached the library district is not committed to any expenditure. In most cases library district formation is then postponed.

Nearly all of the proposed districts have now reached the final stages of their project to collect necessary signatures, Mr. Bruce said, and it looks as if at least several more districts will be formed by the end of the year.

John Durham, who has directed the mobile service project with the help of other library employees, said there is no question as to future success of the service on a permanent basis.

Not just the school students and younger children, but many adults from the rural area have become staunch supporters of the bookmobile system, he said. One of the two mobile units furnished and supplied with 1,000 books through the state library has traveled more than 300,000 miles. It averaged about 400 books per day distribution while in use in the local area.

This, Mr. Durham pointed out, is probably a better average circulation than many permanent libraries. It operates six days a week, summer and winter.

Schools in the rural areas for the most part are unable to provide adequate library materials for their students, Mr. Durham pointed out, and many of these students in the past two years relied heavily on the bookmobile for reference material and books for general reading. Many times reference material for students or adults doing some special research, was obtained from other libraries in the northwestern area with which the Twin Falls library has an exchange system, and delivered via bookmobile to the patron.

"In one case," Mr. Durham said, "a woman in the Malin area stopped at the mobile unit one day and asked if there was any chance of getting some information on some early mining property on the Utah-Idaho state line."

"It seems there was a debate going in the family about the property on which her grandfather had filed a claim many years ago.

"It took a little time and lots of digging, but we found the mining history of that area and delivered it on the next mobile stop. It described in detail, and to her satisfaction the claim her grandfather had filed," Mr. Durham explained.

In many communities acceptance and use of the mobile library facility was slow at first, but it takes only a little time in a small rural community for residents to become acquainted with the mobile schedule. In most areas, Mr. Durham said, a crowd of children and adults would be waiting at the designated stop for the bookmobile to arrive.

People appreciated the service, Mr. Durham said, noting that only once in two years did he have to ask a youngster to leave the bookmobile because of a disturbance.

On a final swing through Twin Falls and Jerome counties this past week to collect books, the bookmobile was greeted by a number of former patrons.

In Hansen, Mrs. Floyd Shepherd said her family is lost without the bookmobile.

"We find it difficult to drive to Twin Falls whenever we need books and since the bookmobile stopped coming we are re-reading our own books although they have been read once or twice already."

Mrs. Bill Howard, Hansen, said an acquaintance who was a regular patron of the bookmobile and a sophomore in the Hansen High school has found her school work much more difficult without the help of the bookmobile.

"Her grades in English literature, for example, have dropped two points since we lost the bookmobile service," Mrs. Howard added.

Mrs. Raymond Higgins, the mother of four small children, said not only is it difficult to go to the Twin Falls library with small children, but the $2 per year fee for families living outside of the city of Twin Falls, is a big item when you are raising a family on a limited income.

"We all love books," she said, "but we just have to do without them now."

Mrs. Warren Fowler, Murtaugh, said almost everyone in the community had learned to utilize the bookmobile service.

"It is a real loss to us—especially to the school youngsters," she commented.

"We just have to get it back," added Mrs. Robert Peterson, as she checked petition signatures with other volunteers.

Similar comments were offered by those in Hazelton and in the rural area south of Eden.

Mr. Durham and Mr. Bruce said persons who wish to support proposed library district should contact persons in their areas who are circulating petitions.

"We must have the signatures as soon as possible if the districts are to be formed this year," he reminded residents.

Persons with petitions to be signed were listed by Mr. Bruce in the Murtaugh-Hansen district they include Mrs. Leland Barke, Mrs. Warren Fowler, Mrs. James Epperson, Mrs. Donald Coon, Mrs. Floyd Shepherd, Mrs. William Barnard and Mrs. L. A. Mays.

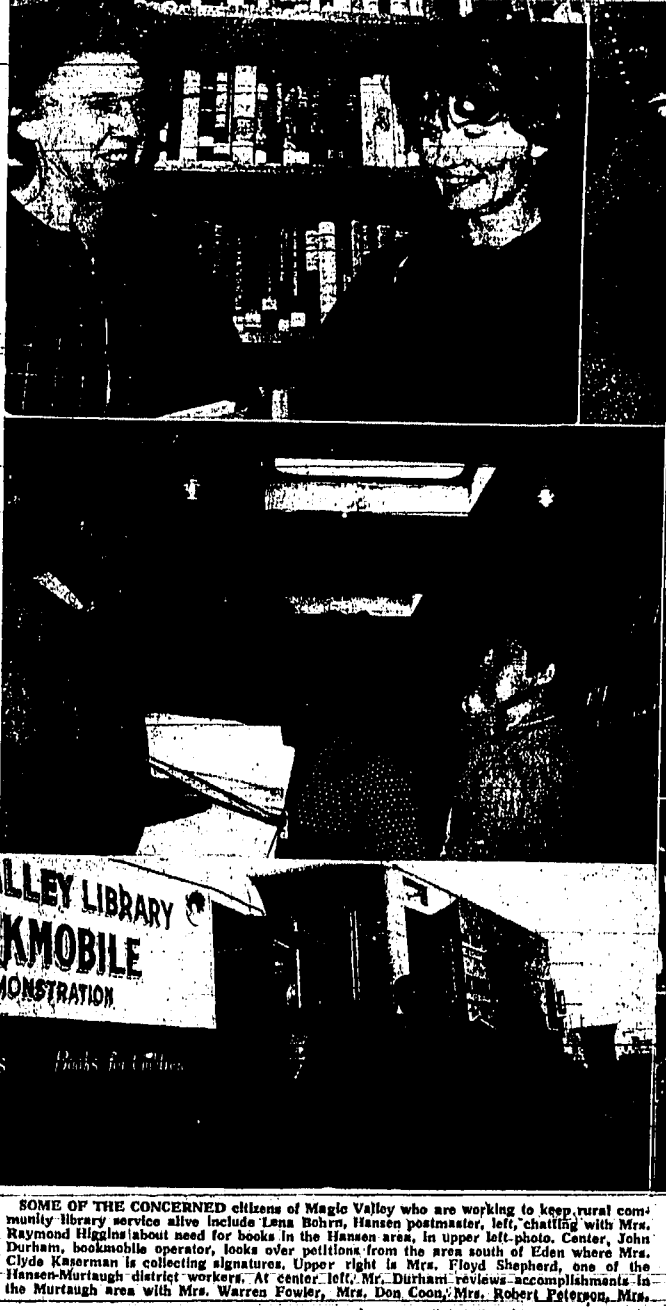

In the Cassia County district are Mrs. Earl Clayville and Mrs. Richard Moncur, De Clo; Mrs. Farnum E. Ware and Mrs. Richard B. Tilley, Starr's Ferry; Mrs. Morris Mitchell, Pella; Mrs. Gerald Anderson, View; Mrs. Delmar Wilson, Spry Lake; Mrs. Larry Sullivan, Albion; Mrs. Ray Bedke, Oakley; Mrs. W. H. Tracy, Almo; Mrs. Lovina C. Tuttle, Elba, and Mrs. Roger Neddo, Malta.

NO, NOT JACKRABBITS! These running deer are in good physical condition because they are not overcrowded on winter range and there is enough forage to go around. Where hunters are able to get maximum harvest of animals each season, the herd has better fawn production and survival. One means of achieving adequate harvest is through open-end hunting seasons, such as the one in effect on the Boise River watershed the past several years.

Open-End Hunting Season On Boise River Proves Successful For Deer Control

By JIM HUMBERT
Idaho Fish-Game Department

Any deer management unit which is harvested adequately by hunters will have better fawn production and survival year after year than other areas where maximum harvests have not been achieved. In other words, more game can be furnished to hunters each fall by killing more.

The Boise River watershed has had that kind of deer management since the fall of 1959. In all, it takes in all three forks of the Boise River drainage. Some of its mountain peaks reach nearly 10,000 feet elevation and early storms may bunch deer, making them extremely vulnerable to hunters. In the days of fixed season lengths, inadequate harvests often were the result.

Weather conditions always have plagued wildlife managers in their efforts to stabilize big game harvests in mountainous country. Indeed, weather may be the most important factor involved in the total harvest picture on many big game ranges. Harvest often is a "feast or famine" situation. For example, a mild fall may keep animals high and scattered during the hunting season on ranges where storms are counted on normally to move animals down to more accessible areas. Thus, management units with fixed seasons may have the game harvest severely affected.

The Boise River watershed is made up of good deer range near the cities and farms of large numbers of people who have crisscrossed the hunting grounds with a network of public access roads. Prior to 1959, 30 followed the statewide pattern of predetermined dates for hunting seasons. Deer stayed in the high country until the first hard cold snap brought snow, which too often was the last day of hunting. The result was that more deer came down to the winter range than it could feed. In some years the deer starved and the shrubs and plants were damaged—some of them permanently.

Considerations such as these brought about the decision for an open-end hunting season. This, in brief, is a season that stays open until a desired number of deer have been checked from the area. It is a means of regulating harvest by checked kill rather than by fixed season. For example, the season this year for the Boise deer herd hunting in Unit 39 in the 1968 big game regulations reads: "Open October 5, until approximately 3,200 deer are checked through the Mores Creek check station."

Last year, the checked total through Mores Creek station was 3,000 deer—short of the fixed total. That was the reason it was increased by 200 to the goal of 3,200 animals for the season just ended. A recommendation for a checked quota of 2,900 deer from Unit 39 will be made to the Idaho Fish and Game Commission next year, according to Charles D. Haynes, game management supervisor.

The base quota is 3,000 checked deer from Unit 39, but it is flexible and is adjusted in accordance with the previous year's record—upward if under the goal and downward if over the desired number.

The Boise is an area where hunter success can jump from 10 per cent to 30 per cent almost overnight as winter storms push the animals to lower ranges along roadways. To assure adequate harvests during mild years and protection against overshooting when animals become readily available, the open-end season is producing the best results in the state.

Proof that stabilized deer harvests and open-end hunting seasons stimulate production and survival are found in the fact that the Boise herd consistently puts more deer in the hunters' bag than any other big game population in the state. Checked quotas through Mores Creek station in 1959, raised to 2,500 in 1963 and changed to 3,000 in 1968. There was a limited winter die-off of deer in 1964 because of unique snow conditions which trapped the deer along the roadway from Hilltop east of Boise to Arrowrock Reservoir. Motorists were aware of their mostly near Spring Shores at Lucky Peak Reservoir. But in the main, production and survival both are excellent in this thrifty herd.

Biologist Jerry L. Thiesen, Boise, reported in 1966 that 32 per cent of the deer herd was made up of yearlings. By 1967, half of the herd was found in the bumper crop of yearlings. He stressed that there was no decline in the numbers of older animals in the herd. In other words, deer numbers are building upward, starting with fawns and progressing upward in the age classes to a great many more young, highly productive animals. In short, Thiesen holds that a "deer eruption" in the Boise herd is in the offing; and that the hunter harvest should be increased or trouble can be expected.

Although Unit 39 is managed for deer, the elk herd also is on the upswing on all three forks of the Boise River. An open-end season for elk is necessary because hunter pressure for Boise Valley population centers always brings off an adequate harvest without a fixed quota and open-end season. State big game harvest figures rank Unit 39 in fifth place for elk for the past five years, and this year, so far, trend data from check stations and hunter report cards indicate that the Boise River drainage may climb into fourth place. Here again, adequate harvest pays off and puts more elk into home freezers.

Elk in Units 39 and 8 (Latah County) are the only herds in the state getting adequate harvests. These are young, productive animals instead of over-matured elk.

Deer hunter success varies with storm activity. It is fairly low the first few weeks of the season, rises some during the rut or mating period, then increases sharply as storms begin to concentrate the animals. It is the last peak period that proves the hunter harvest to the fixed quota amount.

Open-end seasons are relatively easy to manage. To assure the reliability of comparable data, checking stations are operated in the same manner each year. For example, Mores Creek station is a permanent structure in the same location and open for the same number of hours year after year. Checks are made for any changes that may influence volume through the station, such as the construction of new roads or the closing of old roads which provide access to the area. No effort is made to check every animal brought out of the huge Boise River watershed by hunters.

For example, present management plans call for the removal by hunters of approximately 8,000 deer from the three forks of the Boise River system each year. Data gleaned from hunter questionnaires, hunter report cards and the Mores Creek check station show that 40 per cent of the total harvest from Unit 39 is checked. Thus, a total of 3,200 deer was set this season to insure an accurate harvest.

Thus, open-end seasons are proving useful as a tool for intensive big game management purposes, especially in areas where harvest is influenced by weather conditions. It now is realized that maximum big game harvests are desirable everywhere and that, in the future, open-end seasons probably will be introduced on many ranges. Elk hunting in Unit 21A (Gibbonsville) has been on an open-end basis for several years.

Permanent checking stations such as the one operated at Mores Creek east of Boise collect first-hand data on hunter success, distribution of kill, and sex-age ratio of deer and elk in the management unit.

The author of "So Excellent a Fish," Archie Carr, took his information from the turtles which he recovered after the Hermand Assembly in 1920 to from 150 to 200 pounds, and inhibit fishermen who "snatch and catch up indifferently all kinds of Tortoises, both young and old little and great."

"Operation Green Turtle" was instigated because of the need to learn about the huge turtles which are becoming almost as scarce as the hawks. The main rine turtle is still revered by the gourmet, Winston Churchill being one who enjoyed his nightly cup of turtle soup, but it is a necessary part of the diet of those who live in the Caribbean regions.

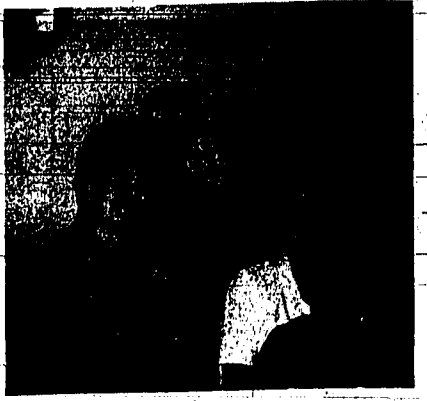

The book is also interesting because the turtle performs some of the most complex navigational maneuvers known in the animal world and the study of its travels over the ocean area is learning about the continents.

Archie Carr, who is Professor of Zoology at the University of Florida and a Research Associate of the American Museum of Natural History, with the assistance of men who were interested in protecting the huge turtles and with the cooperation of the United States Navy, has been studying the migration of this "so excellent a fish" for over a decade.

There are five kinds of sea turtles in the world: the leatherback, the hawksbill, the green turtle and the leatherbacks. Of these only the last three nest at Tortuguero, Costa Rica, which is the main location for these studies. One mature green turtle lays a hundred eggs at a time. She digs a large hole in the sand and lays her eggs, then covers them with sand and when the eggs hatch the little turtles soon crawl to the sea. Because of heavy air and predators, few eggs hatch. Sealing the sea and small turtles is very simple as it is only necessary to push the sand away from the mounds.

Many of the mature turtles are tagged by placing a metal clip on the hind leg; these tags are worked in English and Spanish so as to inform the finder that, if they are returned to the University of Florida, a $5.00 reward will be paid. The letters are most interesting both for literary content and for the information they contain. The turtles which recovered by Carr after he was in the Brazilian state of Maranhao, a thousand miles to the south, far down below the sea of fresh water that floods out of the mouth of the Amazon and across the equator.

The book is well written and fascinating reading.

near Hagerman, it came on the north side of the Snake River north of what is now King Hill and leaving where was the Montgomery ranch on King Hill Creek, as it is now named, it went into a steep upgrade of three miles to climb out on top. On steeper hills, freighters would unhook the two rear wagons of three, and take the lead wagon up the hill alone, since it was the heaviest loaded. After all the teams had pulled this ponderous load to the top, they'd return to the bottom and get the trailer wagons. Thus, since the 1870s, the hardest pull on this route, it came to be called the King's Hill, among other, less friendly names.

Thus, the King Hill creek got its name, and also the adjacent village (which came along 35 years later on) was named King Hill.

Did you ever wonder how KING HILL came to be named? There is a landmark arrangement of upright lava surrounding a mesa north of the town that is known as King's Crown, and some have thought the town was named for this peculiar outcropping.

However, old timers have recorded this explanation. Freighters in the early days who were hauling goods and merchandise from Keltan, Utah, to Boise, used two and three wagons coupled together. The three-wagon outfits were drawn by 12 to 14 in an axle radio broadcast.

Holiday Decorations Add Fun And Charm To Filer Woman's Home During Yule Time

WEATHERED WOOD and pods combine with small figures to create a different type of holiday ornament. Mrs. Morris W. Carlson, Filer, placed this item just outside of her large glass sliding door that separates the living room from a large outdoor living area.

CANDY TREES are a favorite for small children. These made by Mrs. Morris Carlson feature candy canes, gum drops and other bright colored candy items that are attractive and also good to eat.

Decorating the home at Christmas time can be an expensive undertaking or it can be relatively inexpensive and a lot of fun for family members.

Mrs. Morris Carlson, Filer, is one of many Maple Valley residents who selects the latter and enjoys making beautiful decorations for her home and the homes of many of her friends.

But for her it's a year around job. Her husband, County Commissioner Morris W. Carlson, is president of the Idaho County Commissioners and Clerks.

Whenever he is in a convention meeting, I am out browsing through the dime stores, drug stores and gift shops," she says.

In addition she has been known to bring back several bushel baskets of pine cones, acorns and pine boughs from a weekend or vacation trip.

Mrs. Carlson makes her own candles, doing this anytime during the year when there is some spare time. She also makes center pieces out of artificial greenery, fruit and just about anything attractive.

Ordinary nuts such as walnuts, pecans and Brazil nuts work in beautifully to form frames around wall plaques, miniature Christmas trees or wreaths, and they look well when combined with cones of various sizes and small red fruit, berries or birds.

Don't throw out those ketchup and mustard containers or even cooking oil bottles. They can be sprayed with paint of bright colors, or gold or silver and adorned with greenery, balls or cones for a beautiful centerpiece.

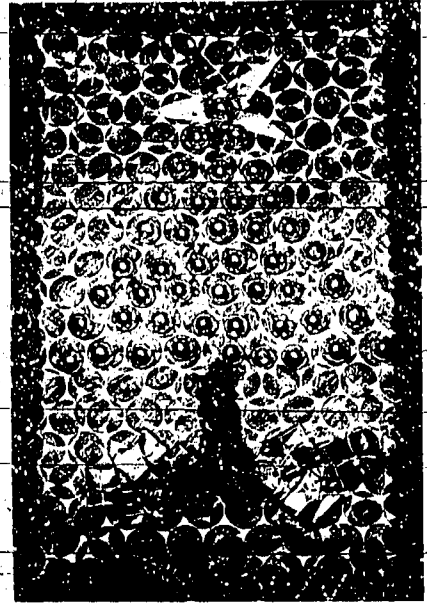

In making miniature trees or wreaths, Mrs. Carlson drills a hole in the cone, nut or acorn, inserts a toothpick covered in glue, and then glues this into the styrofoam base. She has some other basic procedures, but her best advice to the beginner is just start with what you have available and work out what looks attractive to you.

Another of her hobbies is making large decorations for the Filer Methodist Church. These usually consist of large swags of pine cones, pods and the like, all sprayed gold and adorned with velvet ribbons of green, red or gold.

One of her new innovations this year is the Christmas tree. Her tree is decorated entirely in small pixies, tin soldiers, birds, velvet fruit and ribbons, all in red and accented by red lights.

Another note of advice, Mrs. Carlson said, is to look in the dime stores first because you can often find suitable materials even if you have to tear up a ready made arrangement but the cost will be lower than in the more specialized shops.

JUST AN ORDINARY furnace filter provides an attractive background for this wall plaque designed by Mrs. Michael K. Miller. The filter which comes in aqua or white, can be decorated in many ways. This design is in blue and silver.

TOOLS OF HER TRADE include wire snippers, lots of glue, ribbon, cones, nuts, acorns and greenery. Here Mrs. Carlson works on some partly completed miniature trees, wreaths and centerpieces. Burr acorns, still in their pods and sprayed gold, make an exceptionally attractive item for the miniature trees.

DECORATOR IDEAS for the Holidays include the mistle arrangement at the Morris W. Carlson home, Filer. This year Mrs. Carlson selected a simple arrangement including the miniature tree of cones and lights with tiny lights protruding through from the back. The frame is also of cones and nuts with a small Nativity scene and greenery completing the decoration. Upper right shows part of a table display of candles of various shapes, sizes and colors. For her dining room window Mrs. Carlson selected a yellow rose arrangement with gold silk balls and other gold and yellow accents highlighted by mobile glass "snowflakes." At right is a collection of bottles worked into designs. Mustard, ketchup and cooking oil containers with spray paint and imagination add an unusual touch. Lower left is a decoration by Mrs. Michael K. Miller who used wicker items with bright red velvet fruit and ribbon. Lower right is in the den of the Carlson home where Mrs. Carlson combined a wall plaque with a Nativity scene and table arrangement.

THREE CHRISTMAS TREE ideas for miniatures include a tree of artificial velvet greenery decorated in deep pink velvet fruit and ribbon. Pink is a seed color this year. The center tree is made entirely of acorns sprayed gold with a gold tinsel top ornament. Mrs. Carlson combined nuts, miniature artificial fruit and cones to form the third tree. In front is a simple table ornament consisting of a large glass plate of dark green glass filled with a simple, artificial fruit and greenery combination. It is simple to make but attractive.

Holiday Decorations Add Fun And Charm To Filer Woman's Home During Yule Time

WEATHERED WOOD and pods combine with small figures to create a different type of holiday ornament. Mrs. Morris W. Carlson, Filer, placed this item just outside of her large glass sliding doors that separate the living room from a large outdoor living area.

CANDY TREES are a favorite for small children. These made by Mrs. Morris Carlson feature candy canes, gum drops and other bright colored candy items that are attractive and also good to eat.

Decorating the home at Christmas time can be an expensive undertaking, or it can be relatively inexpensive and a lot of fun for family members.

Mrs. Morris Carlson, Filer, is one of many Magic Valley residents who select the winter months for making beautiful decorations for her home and the homes of many of her friends.

But for her it's a year around job. Her husband, County Commissioner Morris W. Carlson, is president of the Idaho County Commissioners and Clarke.

"Whenever he is in a convention meeting, I am out browsing through the dime stores, drug stores and gift shops," she says. In addition she has been known to bring back several bushel baskets of pine cones, acorns and pine boughs from a weekend or vacation trip.

Mrs. Carlson makes her own candles, doing this anytime during the year when there is some spare time. She also makes center-pieces, out-of-artificial greenery, fruit and just about anything attractive.

Ordinary nuts such as walnuts, pecans and Brazil nuts work in beautifully to form frames around wall plaques, miniature Christmas trees or wreaths, and they look well when combined with cones of various sizes and small red fruit, berries or birds.

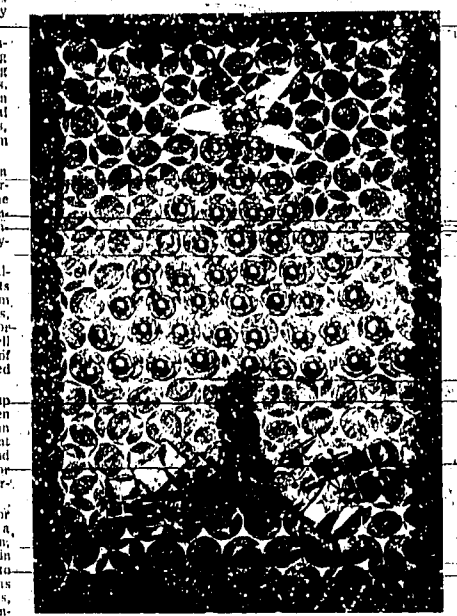

Don't throw out those ketchup and mustard containers or even cooking oil bottles. They can be sprayed with paint of bright colors, or gold or silver and adorned with greenery, holly cones for a beautiful centerpiece.

In making miniature trees or wreaths, Mrs. Carlson drills a hole in the cone, nut or acorn, inserts a toothpick covered in glue, and then glues this into the styrofoam base. She has some other basic procedures, but her best advice to the beginner is just start with what you have available and work out what looks attractive to you.

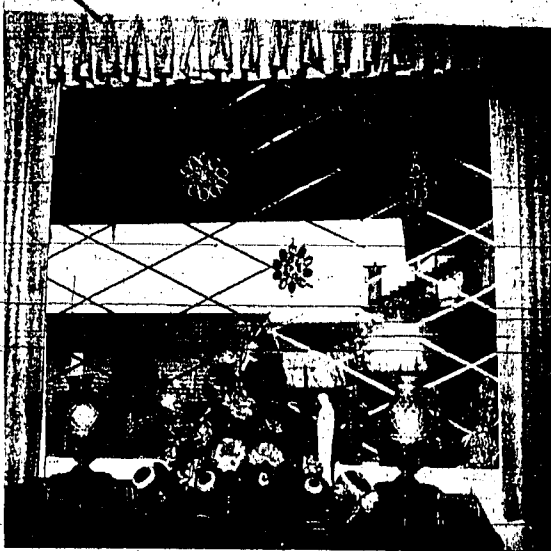

Another of her hobbies is making large decorations for the Filer Methodist Church. These usually consist of large swags of all in red and accented by red lights. pine cones, pods and the like, all sprayed gold and adorned with velvet ribbons of green, red or gold.

One of her new innovations this year is the Christmas tree. Her tree is decorated entirely in small pieces, tin soldiers, birds, velvet fruit and ribbons, the more specialized shops.

JUST AN ORDINARY furnace filter provides an attractive background for this wall plaque designed by Mrs. Michael K. Miller. The filter which comes in aqua or white, can be decorated in many ways. This design is in blue, aqua and silver.

TOOLS OF HER TRADE include wire snippers, lots of glue, ribbon, cones, nuts, acorns and greenery. Here Mrs. Carlson works on some partly completed miniature trees, wreaths and centerpieces. Burr acorns, still in their pods and sprayed gold, make an exceptionally attractive item for the miniature trees.

DECORATOR IDEAS for the Holidays include the mantel arrangement at the Morris W. Carlson home, Filer. This year Mrs. Carlson selected a simple arrangement including the miniature tree of cones and lighted with tiny lights protruding through from the back. The frame is also of cones and nuts with a small Nativity scene and greenery completing the decoration. Upper right shows part of a table display of candles of various shapes, sizes and colors. For her dining room window Mrs. Carlson selected a yellow rose arrangement with gold silk balls and other gold and yellow accents highlighted by mobile glass "snowflakes." At right is a collection of bottles worked into designs. Mustard, ketchup and cooking oil containers with spray paint and imagination add an unusual touch. Lower left is a decoration by Mrs. Michael K. Miller who used wicker items with bright red velvet fruit and ribbon. Lower right is in the den of the Carlson home where Mrs. Carlson combined a wall plaque with a Nativity scene and table arrangement.

THREE CHRISTMAS TREE ideas for miniatures include a tree of artificial velvet greenery decorated in deep pink velvet fruit birds and ribbon. Pink is a good color this year. The center tree is made entirely of acorns sprayed gold with a gold tassel top ornament. Mrs. Carlson combined nuts, miniature artificial fruit and cones to form the third tree. In front is a simple table ornament consisting of a large glass plate of dark green glass filled with a candle, artificial fruit and greenery combination. It is simple to make but attractive.

OUT OF THE GROUND comes the spruce tree in the first stage of its journey to the new location on the Twin Falls County Courthouse lawn. Bill Chancey, rear left, looks on as

Roger Wocks, Ken Nielsen and Jack Wright, all of Kimberly Nurseries, lift the tree from its original site on the Salmon Tract. Hoping guide the tree onto the truck for the trip to

Twin Falls are Commissioners Hugh Loughmiller, left, and Mr. Chancey. Finally it reaches its new destination and is gently lowered into the ground on the northeast corner of the county property. Among county officials on hand to watch the transplanting were District Judge Theron Ward, left, and Mr. Chancey.

Bill Chancey Makes Good, Courthouse Gets A Tree

There's no other name for it. It's Bill Chancey's tree. The new spruce that now stands some 15 feet tall on the northeast corner of the Twin Falls county courthouse lawn is there because County Commissioner William Chancey worked for nearly two years to get it there.

Over the past two years he has taken a lot of good natured ribbing about his "tree feud." It all began when the county commissioners sold the old county farm. After the buildings had been removed, all that was left stood on the property. It was Commissioner Chancey's dream that this large tree could be transplanted on the courthouse lawn. Cost of moving such a plant was estimated at $200 and Mr. Chancey set out to raise the money through individual contributions with the county commissioners to make up what was still needed when it came time to move the tree.

Chances of survival for such an old and already established tree were not too bright, however, and when the property was sold county officials decided they had better include the tree in the sale.

Mr. Chancey kept his many small donations and began a search for another more suitable tree.

Commission Chairman Hugh Loughmiller who farms some 3,000 acres on the Salmon Tract, covering a number of small farms, found several spruce trees planted on one of them. Some so close that they were beginning to crowd each other.

The owner of the property was contacted and the tree was available just for the cost of moving.

Mr. Chancey said this was a good break for the county tree project as the plant was much smaller, easier and thus less costly to move and with a much greater chance for survival.

Jack Wright, Kimberly Nursery, said the smaller tree could be moved from the S-A-I-m-o-n Tract for $80.50 as a special price to the county commissioner.

Mr. Chancey dug out his car, donations and removed the tree as of last Thursday the tree was removed from its original location and transported to the courthouse lawn.

With some final contributions from District Judges Theron Ward and James M. Cunningham, the prosecuting attorney's office and private courtesies of employees, the total cost of $89.50 was reached through donations and the county gained a new tree without any expenditure of tax money.

"There's no telling what this tree will do when it gets a drink of Twin Falls tract water," Mr. Chancey commented.

"Now I wonder if someone would like to donate a tree for the southeast corner," the commissioner added.

The tree that has been added to the lawn of the county building was located near the new judicial building and the old courthouse lawn. It replaces an old pine tree that had begun dying and was removed to make room for the new judicial building.

"We won't designate it this year," Mr. Chancey said, "because we have to give it every chance to get started, but in future years it would make a beautiful Christmas tree for the lawn."

He said local citizens, nearly all county employees and other interested persons were most cooperative in helping him collect his pet project.

The tree was planted more than 25 years ago, Mr. Loughmiller said, by Bill Martell who has since died. Property from which the tree was donated is owned by Earl Dickford, Twin Falls.

Mr. Chancey said other donations to the tree fund included Harold Langester, employee of the county clerk's office; county assessor's office; sheriff's office, courthouse janitor's staff, Justice Court Judge Road Maughan, County Extension Agent, Assistant Commissioner Loughmiller, Chancey and Morris Carlson, secretaries in the commissioner's office, Louise Webster and Annamarie Tiplon, Don Youtz, County Extension Agent, Assistant Clifford Thompson; Willard Swartley, the Times-News and several other individual employees.

Rhodes Scholarship Selection Will Be Dec. 18 For Idaho

SWATHMORE, Pa. — Rhodes Scholarship applications for Idaho will be under the general supervision of Warren B. Knox, president, College of Idaho, Caldwell.

This was announced by Dr. Courtney Smith, administrative head of the Rhodes Scholarships in the United States. He is also president of Swarthmore College.

Others reviewing with President Knox in reviewing the scholarships in Idaho will be Peter B. Myers of the Magnavox Research Laboratories of Torrance, Calif.; and Dr. Robert S. Smith, Boise Surgeon who serves as the committee secretary. This three-man committee meets in Boise on Dec. 18.

In each state, two nominees must be designated. Those from Idaho will be presented before the Northwestern District Rhodes Scholarship Selection Committee, scheduled to meet in Portland, Ore., Dec. 21.

In the district meeting, Dr. Smith explained, four Rhodes Scholarship appointments will be made, subject to ratification by the Rhodes Trustees. The four will be selected from nominees from Idaho, Montana, North Dakota, Wyoming, Oregon and Washington. This year Alaska will not send candidates.

Dr. Smith also announced the membership of the Northwestern District Committee will be headed by President James H. Jensen, Oregon State University, Corvallis. Mr. Myers will represent Idaho on the Northwestern District Committee.

According to local records only three Twin Falls students have been selected for Rhodes Scholarships.

These include John Hughes who was awarded the honor in 1952, and John Roper Jr., honored in 1966.

Mr. Hughes is now a full professor at Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill., where he has taught economics the past two years. He has distinguished himself in a number of ways since completing his education and is the author of a number of books and many articles. His latest book, "The Vital Few" was published two years ago and he is currently working on a publication. He was a professor at Purdue University for 10 years.

Mr. Hughes is the son of Mrs. J. W. Brown, 203 Adams St., and a brother of Mrs. William (Leona Rae) Peters, Twin Falls. He also has a brother, Ben Hughes, with Washington Power Co., Anacortes, Wash., a former Twin Falls resident.

John Roper, Jr., has completed his studies at Oxford and is now in Law School at Harvard. He was awarded the Rhodes Scholarship in 1966 in graduation from the Twin Falls

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

From W. L. Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a small copper coin as follows: one side has a shield with a wreath around it, and a crown above. The other side says "Scheidtmunz" and "KREUZER" with the date "1864". Can you tell me anything about this coin?

Answer: You have a one-fourth kreuzer piece from Wurtemberg, Germany, issued under Wilhelm I, who was king of his program of studies.

Rhodes Scholarships carry a stipend which now exceeds 1000 pounds ($2395.00) annually, the exact amount varying according to the scholar's necessary expenses. The sum provided is sufficient, if used with care, to cover all of the scholar's academic and living expenses during both term time and vacation.

The Scholarships are awarded for a period of two years of study, with the possibility of a third year in certain instances. If a scholar-elect is called into military service before entering Oxford, Rhodes Trustees will permit him to postpone his Scholarship and take it up at the conclusion of his service if the university and his college can accommodate him at that time.

In choosing Rhodes Scholarships, committees seek excellence in four qualities—intellect, character, leadership, and physical vigor. The Rhodes Scholarships have therefore become known for the range and breadth of capacities upon which decision is based. As the Memorandum on selection states, "The Rhodes Scholar should not be a one-sided man, or a selfish man. Intellectual ability should be founded upon sound character, and integrity of character upon sound intellect. Success in being elected to office in student organizations may or may not be evidence, but the Memorandum continues, "of leadership in the true sense of the word. Cecil Rhodes obviously regarded leadership as consisting of moral courage and interest in one's fellow-men quite as much as in the more aggressive qualities."

It was his hope that a Rhodes Scholar would come to esteem the performance of public duties as his highest aim. Rhodes further specified that "no student shall be qualified or disqualified for election to a Scholarship on account of his race or religious opinions."

Rhodes Scholarships were founded by the will of 1902 of Cecil Rhodes, British philanthropist and colonial pioneer.

The first American Rhodes Scholar entered Oxford in 1904. There are at present 152 living American Rhodes Scholars, many of whom are leaders in their various fields, including government, education, law, medicine, news and radio, and business.

Depending on a scholar's interests, he may choose a degree program based on broad studies in a single field (or group of related fields), or may undertake advanced study or research. Oxford degree requirements are not based upon the passing of courses nor the accumulation of credits, but rather upon the student's command of his field or area of research, as demonstrated by his performance in graduation from the Twin Falls examinations taken at the end of 1816 until 1864. At this time Germany was divided into a large group of individual kingdoms, each of which issued its own money. Your particular coin is obsolete and would have no value except as a collector's piece. It is worth in the neighborhood of 20 cents to a neighbor.

From Mrs. T. R. Burley, Idaho: I have a shiny coin about the size of a quarter. It has a man on horseback on one side, and what looks like a dog and a lion, and up in the corner by the man's head are the letters KPVMb and under the horse, 614. On the other side is a wreath and the following lettering—"S NEBA 1930" and some other letters which I cannot read. Where is this coin from?

Answer: From your description it is probably the 5-Leva piece of Bulgaria, made from copper-nickel. The coin was issued under the sovereignty of Boris III, who ruled from 1918 until 1943. 5 Leva equals about 15 cents, United States money, so your coin has a face value of 75 cents. It is worth about fifty cents to collectors, if in brand, new condition.

From T. L. T., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a copper coin, rather large, with a hole in it. On one side is a crown and some fancy lines, and some letters made into a monogram. On the other side it says, "Territory of New Guinea, and One Penny, 1938." Can you tell me about it?

Answer: This is a standard one-penny piece of New Guinea, issued under the rule of George VI (Elizabeth's father) and struck from 1938 until 1944. And worth, at the present time, about one cent. Collector value on this coin is about thirty-five cents, if in new condition.

From W. E., Twin Falls, Idaho: I have a coin which is about the size of a half-dollar. It is shiny, but light in weight. On one side is the picture of a head, and the words "5 Kroner" and "1903-1914". On the other side is a shield and a crown, with the words "Styrlske Gronlands" around it. There are three figures on the shield which look like lions. Can you tell me anything about this coin, and the possible value?

Answer: Your coin is a 5-Krone piece, of Greenland—a colony of Denmark. One krone is equal to about 14 cents in United States money, but the piece you have happens to be an item collectors are seeking, and if it is in new condition would bring you about five dollars from a collector. The coin is very small, hence it increases rapidly in value.

From T. D., Pocatello, Idaho: I have a small silver coin which says "25 Cents, 1905" on it, and on the other side is a woman's head and the words "Wilhelmina Konigen Der Nederlanden."

From our readers if they have any of these, or know of any, they should be sent to the Money Box, c/o The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

By HAROLD DUNN
Missouri School System
There is no doubt about it. Some of the most delightful observations about the telephone have been scrawled on tablet paper by grade school youngsters. Take these historical explanations, for example:
"Communication has not always been by phone. For many ancient years ships had to send messages by flashing mirrors. But it is not good to do so now. Once my brother was spanked for flashing a mirror in the eyes of passerby people."
"The Romans did not have telephones. They used smoke signals, but I forget whether they did it in AC or DC times."
"Electricity has been with us as childhood itself. I was thinking the telephone was invented before the telegraph. When I learned different, all the thoughts I was going to say went in a swallow down my throat."
Notes for a biography of Alexander Graham Bell:
"I took much hard work for Mr. Bell to think out how to get everything worked out so people could talk on the telephone. He had to keep thinking around the clock, twelve days a week."
"He said his first sentence over the phone in 1876. This was really in the 19th century but for some reason time travels faster than dates."
On the subject of electricity:
"Electricity has been with us forever and maybe even longer."

"Much of our proton supply goes into the making of electricity."
"I think I admire the electron more than anything else about electricity because it weighs only about one over 2000th as much as a proton but can still hold its own."
"Here are some imaginative thoughts on how the telephone works:
"Get a drum. Beat on it. Notice how it vibrates. Then yippee, because now you understand how the insides of a telephone work."
"I have found telephones easier to answer than to tell what makes them go: humm, buzz and rrrr."
"The diaphragm is where the carbon grains snuggle and hug together."
"Last week I understood how to invent the diaphragm except where it had already been invented."
Once they know a fact for certain they hang on to it tenaciously: "Another name for the multipiece is the transmitter, but I think I will just stick with the first word and learn it good."
Confusion sometimes takes over completely:
"One good way I figured out how to tell between the receiver and the transmitter is that one of them starts the sound when I can ever think which it is."
Some mind-hoppers on the vastness of the telephone industry:
"The telephone has a plural known as mass communication."
"There are something like 80 million telephones in America today. Eighty million is bigger than the largest known whale."
The future of the industry dawns—a sojourn in dimly, sometimes brightly:
"Ideas about how telephones can be used have advanced to the point where they are no longer understandable."
"One of my idiot-friends (that I will remain nameless) thinks that there is a telephone nowdays that you can look at the person you are talking through. Is any of this true or false? And tell me if this will ever actually be a true happening."
I get a dizzy feeling every time I read these students' comments:
"Good use of the telephone will not be like it should be until it gets like it was when we did not have any and appreciated such things as the telephones offered."
"Would the average American be able to talk with his friends as much if it were not for the telephone? The chances are 999 out of a hundred."
But often a child will mentally step back and make an observation that we grown-ups can only envy. Last October, one young student wrote: "From now on I will put both glasses and washcloths in my same thought ever actually be a true happening."
Me, too.

Lethal Pins Recovered

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Food and Drug Administration says most of about 18,000 costume jewelry pins containing deadly poison beans have been recovered or accounted for.
"The agency said an intensive, nationwide search during the past 10 days has found no case in which anyone was made ill or killed by swallowing one of the 'jequirity' beans."
Most of the pins were in the form of cubic faces—along, triangular or irregular in shape—with the bright orange or red beans used for eyes. The beans, about the size of peas, are egg-shaped and have black tips. Some pins were flower arrangements, with beans in the center. All were imported from Japan.
Most of the pins, about 15,000, were in the possession of Sears Roebuck & Co. The FDA said Sears has recovered all of the pins and that none of them had been sold.
Another 4,500 pins were in the hands of 33 distributors around the country, the agency said, and had been accounted for.
Richard Mowitz, a Salt Lake City jewelry distributor, said his firm originally received a shipment of 200 pins for distribution to retailers. He said most were being held in a warehouse or by two retailers, one each in Ogden and Blanding. He said he expected the Ogden supply to be returned immediately.
He said two pins were sold in Blanding and have been returned to the retailer. Twelve pins, Mowitz said, were distributed to the Utah Medical Center Gift Shop in Salt Lake City.
Janet Rosen, shop manager, said six pins have been returned and that the others still are out.
Mowitz said he does not know how many of the pins distributed nationally had poison beans.
"Some of the pins had them and others did not," he said.
"The beans, from various tropical areas of the world, contain a substance known as abrin which is one of the most deadly poisons known to man," the FDA said.

THERE ARE MORE telephones than a whale in the United States and that's a lot of telephones. If you don't believe it ask any grade school youngster. Another grade schooler announces a telephone is much easier to answer than to tell

What's With Music
By J. Hill, OPTA

Everyone I know finds the time and the energy to do the things he wants to do. But give him something in which he is not interested and he'll find every excuse possible not to do it. If he likes and really wants a new car, a particular suit of clothes, a new home, or anything else, he'll scratch his fingernails off to acquire it. If he doesn't, you couldn't give it to him at any price.
This trait of human nature applies not only to things we buy, it also applies to the things we do—our studies, our housework, our professions and our hobbies.
So, here we go talking about music again. O.K. That's why we're here. But this time, we want to talk about a special brand of music—the music you like and want to play. We are talking about those students who never seem to find time to practice their lessons. They have as much time as everyone else. What they lack is the real interest. In other words, they just don't have the bug, and the reason is quite obvious. They don't like the music they are being given. If that situation were changed, you'd find at least some of them doing much better with their lessons.
No, I won't argue about or against teaching basic music. This must be done. The student must be a good accurate note reader. He must be right with his fingering. He must know how to, and do, his counting of them.

But he can learn and probably will do all these things better if he is doing them to the kind of music that suits his taste.
I know a student who was real happy about playing "Mrs. Robinson."
"That's a fairly tough tune, a bit tougher than his record, but he could do it. But when he finally talked his instructor into letting him have it for a lesson or two, he did tremulously well with it. Another of his favorites was "Up, Up and Away." It's a real doozy, lots of syncopated time, and chord changes by the gross. A lot of students give up before they ever get to first base with it. But not this kid. He really wanted the tune, so he got busy and worked until he accomplished it. I'll grant you, these may be isolated cases, but I still say that the student should have the kind of music he likes, provided he will work at it and do it correctly. If he will not, then he shouldn't have music at all. It's that simple.
We should know, by this time, that we will not make concept artists out of everyone who begins the study of music. We should also know that music is for enjoyment, no matter what kind it is. Unless one intends to become a professional, there is only one reason to work at music, and that reason is for pleasure. Some things we must study and learn; music isn't one of them.

Collection Of County Taxes Slows

Twin Falls County Treasurer and Tax Collector Ruth K. Jones reports $1,150,645.45 of 1968 real property taxes have been collected to date.
This figure represents less than one-third of the anticipated amount to be collected by the Dec. 20 deadline.
The total 1968 tax charge is $4,949,908.06. The first collection usually nets the county two-thirds of this amount. Mrs. Jones' reminder taxpayers that Idaho law provides payments cannot be accepted after Dec. 20, as the tax books are closed from Dec. 21 to Jan. 27.
The payments are arriving slowly by mail and Mrs. Jones said there have been no waiting lines at the office. All payments must be postmarked in or before Dec. 20. All county tax notices were mailed out on Nov. 23. Anybody responsible for taxes who did not receive a notice should contact the treasurer's office.
Mrs. Jones added that checks must be signed on mailed payments.
The treasurer's office is open from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. Mondays through Fridays.

Christmas, which many regard as the best of holidays, can also be the most dangerous, the insurance information institute has warned.

At home and on the highways, life's hazards are amplified during the Christmas season. You can help insure a safe and happy holiday season by going on the defensive against accidents, the institute advised.

The leading cause of holiday fires in Magic Valley over the past four years has been due to the careless smoker, stated L. Z. (Zeke) Bartlett, Twin Falls fire chief.

Holiday accidents at home can be prevented through the use of a few simple precautions, he stated. He recommended that the following safety suggestions from the National Fire Protection Association be observed:

- For a natural Christmas tree (fir, spruce, pine), pick a fresh, firm - needles true, no higher than you need. The larger the tree, the greater the hazard; the greater the hazard, the greater the insurance.
- Saw off the tree's butt end at an angle an inch above the original cut. Stand the tree in water until it is brought into the house, and keep it in water until it leaves the house. Check the water level daily. The tree will absorb large amounts while indoors.
- Support the tree firmly. Keep it away from sources of heat. Don't locate it where, upright or fallen, it might block escape in case of fire.
- Keep the tree in the house for the shortest possible time. Removal right after Christmas Day is recommended.
- Artificial trees need care in selection - too, the association warns.
- Plastic and metalized trees can burn. Use the type marked as made of slow-burning materials. Metal trees are not a fire hazard but may be a shock hazard.
- Use only indirect lighting with them. If lighting is placed on a metal tree, it may become electrically charged and dangerous.
- Use noncombustible decorating materials where possible. Untreated cotton batting, flock, and paper lights easily and burn. If these and other combustible materials are used, make sure they are flame proofed.
- Dispose of gift wrapping promptly and safely. Place them in a metal-covered trash can or burn them as soon as possible. The fireplace is not a safe place to burn the fire prevention group warns.
- Wax candles on trees are highly dangerous. Don't use them on or near any tree. Check tree lighting sets, electric candles and similar holiday lighting equipment, as well as extension cords, for frayed wires, loose connections and broken sockets, the group recommends.
- For outdoor lighting, use only sets made for that purpose. If an extensive holiday lighting is planned, call an electrician to make sure safety rules and regulations are followed.
- Turn off all tree and other indoor holiday lighting before retiring or leaving the house, they advise.
- The fire prevention association urges citizens not to allow smoking near the tree amidst decorations and wrappings.
- Supervise small children play-

Civilian 'GI Bill' Suggested To Assist College Students

NEW YORK (AP) — The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education proposed Thursday to President-elect Nixon and Congress a civilian "GI Bill" to allow an additional one-million students to attend colleges.

The recommendation, one of 22 in a 50-page report issued by the commission, called on the federal government to provide "educational opportunity grants" to qualified youths unable to attend the rising costs of college. At present 40 per cent of young Americans go to college.

Justice White Is Mentioned As FBI Head After Hoover

By ANDREW TULLY
T-N Washington Columnist

WASHINGTON — Byron Raymond (Whizzer) White, an associate justice of the Supreme Court, will be the next director of the fabled Federal Bureau of Investigation.

White will be named to the post by Richard Nixon sometime in 1969, following the retirement of the prestigious J. Edgar Hoover, who built the FBI into the world's most famous investigative organization.

Hoover will be a vigorous 74 on Jan. 1, and probably would have continued in office had Herbert Humphrey been elected President. But he has let his old friend, President-elect Nixon, know that he will step down next year because of his confidence in a suitable successor. Presumably, Hoover has been informed that that successor will be Justice White.

Justice White, 51, was picked by Nixon because he met the President-elect's standard as a man of "absolute integrity" with no political ties or possible conflicts of interest in the business world. In fact, the scholarly White headed Citizens for Kennedy, a network of local volunteer organizations, during the 1960 Presidential campaign, but a Nixon aide described the justice as "just about as non-political as you can get."

Although no one in the Nixon

camp has said so, the White appointment also is expected to go well with the liberals, to whom Hoover has not been a hero, and who have feared Hoover would dictate the choice of his successor.

Nixon, it was said, felt it was the matter, but White's name was not among those mentioned in the FBI chief during the discussion. However, when Nixon brought up White's name Hoover is reported to have said the justice would be an excellent choice.

Nixon, it was said, felt it was absolutely vital to go outside the FBI for a new director to avoid any "intriguing within the ranks." Several FBI officials had been mentioned for the job, notably Cartha D. (Duke) DeLoach, assistant to Hoover, who for several years handled the FBI chief's press relations and who enjoys a cordial relationship both with newspaper people and members of Congress.

Another reason Nixon went outside the Hoover team is that he has felt a certain segment of the liberal press has tried to "crucify" Hoover, and he wanted to avoid any impression that the new FBI chief had been hand-picked by his predecessor.

White acquired his nickname, "Whizzer" as a star football player at the University of Colorado during the middle 30s. After his graduation from Colorado, he was a Rhodes scholar at Britain's Oxford University, and got his law degree at Yale in 1946. He served in the Navy during World War II, and it was during his service that he became an intimate of a young PT boat skipper named John Kennedy. He was a Supreme Court law clerk after the war, and later was an associate in the law firm of Grant, Newton, Davis and Henry and then a partner.

At the Democratic convention in Los Angeles in 1960, White delivered 13 1/2 of Colorado's 21 votes for Kennedy. Several months later, in January, 1961, he was appointed Deputy Attorney General to Robert Kennedy, and he was named to the Supreme Court on April 3, 1962. White is married to the former Marion Lloyd Stearns of his native Colorado, and they have two children, Charles Byron and Nancy Pitkin.

come range has three times the chance to get a college education as one whose family is in the bottom half," said the commission chairman, Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California.

"This economic inequality is holding back the next generation and our country," Kerr said. "The first priority in our proposals is to end this form of inequality."

A second key proposal called for expansion of medical education in the next eight years to provide the capacity to train 75 per cent more doctors and to meet the rapidly growing demand for a variety of medical services under Medicare.

The report was introduced at a news conference and Dr. Kerr's remarks were prepared in advance for delivery at that time.

The 14-member commission said private sources, which today pay half the costs of higher education, should continue to provide the major share of support to preserve the autonomy and diversity of higher education.

The report estimates that its proposals would cost the federal government $1.9 billion in 1970 and $13 billion in 1970. Government spending in related areas at present amounts to $3.5 billion.

The aid to students would cost an estimated $1.01 billion by 1970 and $5.57 billion by 1976. The aid to medical education would cost $3.30 billion by 1970 and $430 million by 1976.

Symms Urges Retention Of Gas Levy

BOISE (AP) — If Idaho fails to keep its state tax on gasoline at the current level it will be forced to cut its 1970 construction program by $12 to $15 million, state Highway Board Chairman R. Doyle Symms of Caldwell said recently.

The board approved for consideration by the 1969 legislature a bill which would remove the expiration date from the existing law. Unless the legislature acts, the tax, now 2 cents a gallon, will drop to 6 cents on Dec. 31, 1969.

The board, beginning a two-day session, was told by Symms that if the tax returns to 6 cents, the highway department will lack money for a number of projects he called urgent.

He listed them as Whitebird, Moon and Loviston Hills, on U. S. 95; the Fish Creek cutoff east of Pocatello on U. S. 30N, and projects north of Idaho Falls on U.S. 101.

Robert Christensen, deputy state highway engineer, said that under existing schedules Idaho will receive $40 million in federal aid in the fiscal year ending June 30, 1970. He said this is the largest allocation the state has ever been given for a single year.

But Symms said the state will be unable to match that amount if the gasoline tax is cut.

On the board's agenda for its current meeting was final consideration of the 1969 construction program. Details are expected to be disclosed later in the month.

Bake And Make Cookie Houses Are Big Hits

WOULD YOU BELIEVE they are made of cookie dough? All parts of the unique cookie houses are edible, even the embellishments and inside and outside accessories. The cookie dough is first made, then cut out and baked. The houses are then constructed and decorated. These houses were made by Mrs. William Heinemann and members of her O'Leary Junior High School Junior Music Club. The group made the cookie houses as a fund-raising project.

O'Leary Junior Music Club Has Unique Holiday Project

BY NORMA HERZINGER
Times-News Women's Editor

Sugar, spice and everything nice—that's what Christmas decorations are made of. Well, at least those made by Mrs. William Heinemann and members of her O'Leary Junior High School Junior Music Club.

A living room filled with elaborate decorations for the holidays is a sight in itself, but, when one first looks at the cookie houses and unique decorations made by this group, you can hardly believe your eyes. They have to be some of the most fascinating decorations of the year. And, it certainly takes a lot of "know-how" to construct anything of this caliber.

The "know how" comes from Mrs. Heinemann, an art major, who, any of her friends will tell you, is one of the most talented women in the area.

With Mrs. Heinemann's ideas of holiday decorations made of cookie dough, she and members of the Junior Music Club set out to make the pretties and sell them to area residents, with all proceeds going for scholarships to summer music camp.

Mrs. Heinemann explained that first the cookie dough is made, cut out and baked. The houses are then constructed, painted with appropriate food coloring and glazed with egg whites. All parts of the houses, outside and inside accessories and embellishments, are edible.

The group did not stop at houses alone, a sleigh drawn by eight delicately designed reindeer was constructed for a centerpiece and sugar bells were made and decorated for Christmas tree ornaments.

To say nothing of the time involved in a project of this nature, just think of the patience that goes into such intricate and beautiful works of art.

When word got out of the unique decorations, it wasn't long before the group had quite a waiting list. All orders have been filled and the group has scored a real hit for O'Leary Junior High School. This year O'Leary will be able to grant its own summer music camp scholarship, thanks to such a devoted leader as Mrs. Heinemann and members of the Junior Music Club.

PUTTING THE FINISHING TOUCHES on one of the cookie houses are Marlan DeLuca and Wayne Heinemann, both members of the O'Leary Junior Music Club. The houses are intricately decorated for the Christmas season, this one with Santa and his reindeer on top of the snow-covered roof.

RED CHRISTMAS TREE ornaments, pine cones and greenery add the completed touch to this white sleigh drawn by Santa's reindeer. Karen Nussbaum, a member of the O'Leary Junior High School Junior Music Club, assists her leader, Mrs. William Heinemann, with the centerpiece.

MEMBERS OF THE O'LEARY Junior High School Junior Music Club didn't stop at just making cookie houses and centerpieces for their fund-raising project; they decorated cookies and Christmas sugar bells. Among those year to summer music camps. Mrs. William Heinemann, 2141 Hillcrest Lane, is leader of this group.

TAKING A PAN of cookies from the oven is Peggy Mead, as she and other members of the O'Leary Junior High School Junior Music Club and their leader, Mrs. William Heinemann, decorate cookies along with other Christmas pretties as a fund-raising project.

Miss Dohse, Schutte Marry

KIMBERLY — A candlelight ceremony was the setting for the Nov. 17 marriage of Shirley Ann Dohse, Mountain Home, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Dohse, Kimberly, and Henry William Schutte, Mountain Home, at the Kimberly Reformed Lutheran Church.

Rev. Henry Fry, pastor of Reformed Lutheran Church, and Rev. Richard E. Baldwin, pastor of Fifth Lutheran Church, Mountain Home, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The altar was decorated with vases of blue and white chrysanthemums and flanked by baskets of blue cushion chrysanthemums and white chrysanthemums with blue bows and six candelabra. The pews were decorated with candles and blue and white bows.

The candles were lit by Glenn Schutte, Gooding, and Kenneth Schutte, Ohello, Wash., nephews of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of Chantilly lace over tulle and featured a scalloped neckline enhanced with seed pearls and tiny point sleeves. The gown was gathered in the back at the shoulders and flowed into a chapel train.

Her elbow-length veil was trimmed in lace and held by a tulle of lace and pearls.

She carried a bouquet of white rosebuds centered with an orchid on a white Bible. She carried her grandmother's wedding handkerchief.

Robert Gillespie, Twin Falls, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Gary Dohse and Mrs. Diane Dohse, Kimberly, and Mrs. Roy Murray, Wendell. Flower girl was Melony Schutte, Twin Falls.

Two identically decorated tables flanked the bride's table and held the punch and coffee. Punch was served by Mrs. Oscar Thaete, Wendell, and Mrs. Ed Dohse, Haxton. Coffee was prepared by Mrs. Ewald Thaumert and Mrs. Louis Reinke.

Tables throughout the hall were decorated with blue and white centerpiece made by the bride.

Gifts were opened and displayed by Mrs. Kenneth Thaete, Twin Falls; Mrs. Melvin Thaete, Wendell; and Mrs. Leonard Werner, Mountain Home, assisted by Kathryn Slevers and Darlene Eilers, Kimberly.

Ladies of the Lutheran Women's Missionary League were in charge of the reception.

Guests attended from Washington, Boise, Burley, Eden, Filer, Gooding, Hansen, Hazelton, Jerome, Kimberly, King Hill, Mountain Home, Murtaugh, Nampa, Paul, Rupert, Twin Falls and Wendell.

After a honeymoon trip, the newlyweds will reside in Eden, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming.

Showers were given for the bride by Mary Ann Barclay, Mrs. Oscar Thaete, Mrs. Roy Murray, Mrs. Kenneth Thaete, Mrs. Rudolph Martens and Mrs. Robert Wootan.

Reception was held immediately after the ceremony in the church parlor. The bride's table was covered with blue lace over white satin and centered with a five-tiered wedding cake decorated with blue roses and white bells. The cake was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. It was baked and decorated by Mrs. Vera Schutte, Eden. The cake was flanked by

Annual Holiday Program Slated

GLENN'S FERRY — Members of Our Lady of Limerick Altar Society completed plans for the annual Christmas program and party for parish children at a meeting with Mrs. Bill Strum.

Mrs. Dan Wicher, president, announced committee assignments. They include refreshments, Mrs. Ray Whit and Mrs. William McCormick; treats, Mrs. Millard Deyenport; Mrs. Mollie Hewick and Mrs. Cecil Watson; Christmas tree, the Lawrence Bert family; stage, Mrs. Tom Hartung; program, Mrs. Paul Strum and Mrs. Wicher, with all the catechism teachers assisting, and cleanup, Mrs. Howard Bloom.

At 7 p.m. Dec. 22 all the youngsters in the parish will be at St. Bridge's Hall for the advent of Santa Claus with treats for everyone and to see the program in which all the children participating in catechism will take part.

The Altar Society decided to prepare Christmas baskets filled with food in the true spirit of Christmas giving, to add to yuletide cheer in the community this year.

Mrs. Herman Martens, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schwarz, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hagemann and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Schwarz, all Eden; Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Schwarz, Hazelton, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lutz, Royal City, Wash.

Mr. Schwarz came to Idaho in 1917 from Sanwick, Ill. Since that time he has been very active in the community. He served 29 years as a director of the Hillsdale-Highway District, 20 years as director of Best Growers Warehouse Association, and 17 years on the board of directors of the Ida-Gow Dairy-men, Inc.

Mrs. Schwarz came to Idaho in 1918 from Brownsville, Tex. For 24 years she has been now correspondent in the Eden-Riverside area for the First Set-Regation News.

Mr. and Mrs. Schwarz were married Dec. 26, 1918, in Eden, and have resided there since. Mr. Schwarz is still actively engaged in farming.

John Day Unit Has Luncheon

BURLEY — Members of the John Day Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held a Christmas covered-dish luncheon at home of Mrs. John Meado Jr.

Mrs. Con Annett, local regent, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. J. L. Driskell, chaplain, assisted with the ritual service. Mrs. M. H. Manning read a Christmas message from the president general. Messages and Christmas wishes were read from members of the chapter who were out of town and state.

The chapter voted to send gifts to Kate Duncan Smith School, Temmase School, National Defense, a renovation share for the convention hall, microfilming and American History scholarships.

A special cash gift from the members was earmarked to be divided between the Veterans Hospital, Boise, and the new Boys' Club, Fort Hall.

In keeping with the Christmas theme and adding humor, Mrs. Annett read from book, "Minnie Pearl's Remembrances." The book recalled Christmas celebrations such as many of the older chapter members observed in earlier days before so much commercialism was introduced into the yule season.

The next meeting is Jan. 6 at home of Mrs. Gordon Carson, with Mrs. Meado presenting the program on the flag. Members were reminded that during the January meeting delegates will be elected for the state Daughters of American Revolution Conference.

Do-It-Yourself Home Decorator Ideas Given

Deck the halls with not only boughs of holly, but with small Santas, miniature and large trees, wreaths, gay cutouts, hanging ornaments and table decorations.

This has become the year of the do-it-yourself home decorator, and Christmas will see this trend reaching a climax.

"People have more leisure time and so they want a creative hobby," reports Raymond Grenier, decorations buyer for the F. W. Woolworth Co. "Many women already have begun working on the holiday decorations that will in time, because of their beauty and sentimental value, become treasured family heirlooms."

Through the years they have taken simple styrofoam shapes and decorated them with velvet ribbons and sequins. This year twinklers, sparkle pins, star-bursts and sparkles have been added so that the amateur can create dozens and dozens of one-of-a-kind decorations.

For those with sophisticated tastes, a 20-inch feather tree comes in red, green, pink or white. Everything needed to make the tree is included in the inexpensive kit. If makes a stylized centerpiece as is or, advises Grenier, it can be trimmed with tiny glass balls, small flowers or glitter and sequins.

Anyone with an empty bleach container, a few spare hours and a special kit can come up with a Santa Claus figure that would look just right next to the fireplace, on the children's dresser or in the toyer greeting holiday guests.

For a creative children's hour, give them 3-by-12 inch pieces of red felt. Children love to use their imaginations (and blunt scissors!) to cut out simple tree shapes, stockings, Santa faces and wreaths and put them on windows, walls and doors. With all the materials and in-

DEAR ABBY: Howard (made up name) and I are both 25, need a lawyer! You may also need a doctor. For your husbands. We've had no serious problems to speak of until now. A few months ago we went to a costume party. Howard dressed up in my false, wig, and made-up face. He shaved his legs and wore black fishnet party hose and heels. He looked like a doll. No one knew who he was, and he got more attention from the men than I got. Since that time Howard has bought some ladies' lingerie and lounge clothes and now likes to dress up in them when we are home alone together. It doesn't hurt our relationship in the least. If anything, he seems to be more relaxed and more romantically inclined. I have mixed feelings about this. Should I worry as long as the rest of our marriage is normal? HOWARD'S WIFE.

DEAR WIFE: You had better have a talk with a doctor who is familiar with such off-beat behavior as Howard has suddenly evidenced. There is something "wrong" with a man who would so casually switch from the masculine to the feminine and back again. And a wife who doesn't find it disconcerting is also a little odd.

DEAR ABBY: First of all, if you use my letter in your column, do not use my name or mention the state from which I wrote. My son who is now 12 has been smoking and chewing tobacco WITH HIS FATHER'S CONSENT since he was 5 years old.

I know this seems incredible, but it is a heart-breaking reality. We are country people, but our son goes to a "city" school. I never allowed the boy to have tobacco of any kind, and I kept close tabs on him. But his father, who is a very heavy user, used to give it to our son and help him deceive me.

Could you send me the names of several doctors who could testify as to the harm tobacco can do a growing boy? My son can't keep up with the other boys in sports, complains that he is "tired" and his color is bad. I think tobacco is the cause of this. Some of my friends say that I have already lost the battle, but I am not giving up. Please give me what help you can. STILL FIGHTING

DEAR STILL: If you believe what your husband has been encouraging your son since age

BUIH. — About 75 friends and relatives honored Mr. and Mrs. Henry Roche on their Golden Wedding Anniversary celebration recently at an open house at the home of their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Marilyn Schmeckpeper. As the guests arrived, they were greeted by Becky Dates and Cheryl Schmeckpeper who were in charge of the guest book and gifts.
The reception table was covered with an ivory lace cloth, made by Mrs. Roche, with a gold underlay. Centering the table was the two-tiered cake decorated with gold accents and topped with the gold numerals, "50". The cake was baked and decorated by Mrs. Carl Roland. The silver coffee service and crystal punch bowl completed the table appointments. Several arrangements of flowers received by the couple as gifts were used to decorate the room, including one from Mrs. Roche's only brother, Victor Johnson, and his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Rice, Wayne, Neb.
For the occasion Mrs. Roche wore a gold-colored brocade dress accented with a cymbidium orchid corsage.

In conjunction with the Times-News Magic Fiesta tour to Spain and Portugal, scheduled Feb. 8 through 22, The Times-News thought it might be interesting to place special emphasis on Spanish and Portuguese recipes for the next few weeks in the Magic Valley Favorites.

All persons having recipes native of these two countries are invited to submit them to our weekly contest. They will be handled exactly as all recipes used in Magic Valley Favorites.

Five dollars is paid for the weekly recipe winner which appears in the Sunday paper. If you have a favorite recipe, just mail it to the Recipe Department, Women's Page Editor. The recipe becomes the property of the Times-News and cannot be returned.

Ten minutes before serving add the mushrooms and peas. Season to taste.
One cup potato cubes can be added to the vegetables, allowing time for cooking.

Proper Care Of Christmas Tree Noted By Specialist

SHOSHONE — "Buy early and keep it fresh" is the word of advice on Christmas-trees from the county agricultural agent based on tips from Vernon Burdison, forestry specialist of the University of Idaho Extension Service.

Evergreen symbols of the holiday season will soon be ready for customers at 342 yards, Idaho trees and trees from other states are being delivered by the truck-load. Although Christmas is still a few weeks off, many of the trees have been kept cold and they will retain their color and fragrance if they are selected now and kept under proper conditions.

Buying early, the forester says, gives you a wider selection of size and type. One of the first things to check for is needle shedding. If needles are brittle and have little aroma the tree is probably dry.

Pick one from which needles do not fall when you give it a shake.

Store the tree outdoors in the shade until you are ready to place it in the house. Spray it frequently with water. Just before you set it up, probably a few days before Christmas, make a diagonal cut removing a couple of inches of the butt.

Stand the tree in water and keep it in water until it is discarded. Keep it away from the fireplace and heater. Check the water level regularly.

When you decorate the tree, check the light strings for worn places and faulty connections. Be sure the cords for outdoor lighting are the approved outdoor type that stand wet and cold.

Mrs. Moore Is Noble Grand For Area Rebekahs

JEROME — Mrs. Bud Moore was elected noble grand at the recent meeting of the Spring Rebekah Lodge.

Other officers elected were Mrs. Ed Adams, vice grand; Mrs. Wilford Shrapshire, recording secretary; Mrs. R. N. Blue, financial secretary, and Mrs. J. Piper, treasurer. Mrs. Fred Clubb will be staff captain and Mrs. Emanuel Nelson, Mrs. Mary Keith and Mrs. Mary Mann were elected trustees.

It was announced that Dec. 23 will be Past Noble Grand's Night and a no-host Christmas party.

Mrs. Russell Staud reported she has taken the district deputy pin to Ingberman and presented it to Mrs. Virginia Howard.

A donation was made to the Boise Children's Home.

Mrs. Emanuel Nelson suggested a dish wash shower for the kitchen and asked members to bring towels to the next meeting. Christmas cheer boxes were filled at the close of the meeting.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mary Mann, Mrs. Ray Silver and Mrs. Henry Snoderly.

DEAR POLLY—My family likes tomato catsup on meat sandwiches. When packing lunch boxes I pour a little catsup in a small, clean plastic prescription bottle and put it in the boxes. I use larger size bottles for sardines so the odor and moisture do not penetrate through the other food.—MRS. H. M.

BIBLE SCHOLARS REVEAL
The True Story of
The Three Wise Men

Ask Them Yourself

FOR RAMSEY CLARK,

U.S. Attorney General
Why was Stokely Carmichael allowed to re-enter the U.S. after his illegal trips to Cuba, North Vietnam, and other Communist countries?—Evelyn Cronin, Annapolis, Md.

● In its decision in the case of Worthy v. United States, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit held that the right to re-enter the U.S., with or without a valid passport, is a fundamental right of citizenship. Therefore, although Mr. Carmichael's visit to Cuba was in violation of Federal regulations concerning the use of U.S. passports, it did not affect his right to re-enter the United States.

FOR LANA CANTRELL, singer

singer
I have heard that you started in show business at an early age. True?—Mrs. Madeline Banks, Rockland, Mass.

● At six I wanted to play the piano, so my father, a bass player in a Sydney, Australia, orchestra, began giving me lessons. When I was 10, I had my first singing and playing concert.

FOR ARDE BURKI,

chemical products manager
Howva Watch Co.
Can certain types of jewelry be ruined if cleaned at home?—Mary Farnsworth, Rochester, N.Y.

● Yes. While most jewelry can be cleaned safely at home with a commercial cleaner, porous jewelry such as opals, pearls, coral, turquoise, and glued-together costume jewelry can be ruined unless cleaned by a professional jeweler.

FOR SEN. THOMAS HONG of Hawaii,

of Hawaii
Hawaii has one of the lowest civil-disturbance rates in the nation. How do Hawaii's law-enforcement officers cope with their problems?—Lee Zeal, Indianapolis, Okla.

● Over the years, law-enforcement officers in Hawaii have developed excellent relations with the local community, earning its respect by their fair, firm, and courteous attitude. Through citizen cooperation, they have prevented isolated incidents from expanding into possible major conflicts.

FOR EVELYN LINCOLN,

former secretary to President John F. Kennedy
Whatever became of the pink-suit Mrs. John F. Kennedy was wearing when the President was assassinated?—M. S. E., Casper, Wyo.

● The pink suit is stored with all the Kennedy memorabilia. It eventually will be placed in the John Fitzgerald Kennedy Library in Cambridge, Mass.

FOR JOHNNY CARSON

singer
How are your guests chosen? How much are they paid for their appearance?—David Hatch, Champaign, Ill.

● Guests are selected by five talent coordinators. Most (98 percent) are submitted by agents. Some are found through fan mail, others are spotted from newspaper items. They are paid AFTRA scale—ranging from less than $100 to $325.

FOR TINY TIM, singer

singer
Did your parents help you with your career? How much musical training did you have when you were a child?—A. C., Moberg, S.D.

● My parents encouraged me, but I am self-taught with no formal training.

FOR JOHNNY UNITAS,

quarterback, Baltimore Colts
What is the hardest thing for a young pro quarterback to learn?—John Moore, Rome, Ga.

● I think it is recognizing enemy defensive alignments and then adjusting to meet the various situations posed by these defenses. It takes many years and much hard work.

FOR DICK CAYETT

Are your television programs completely unheard-of?—Sue Schulte, Dubuque, Iowa

● Our programs are unheard-of in the sense that I don't memorize any lines, except for a few jokes in my monologue, but I do try to inform myself about my guests. The guests themselves have some idea of what we'll talk about, but the conversations are spontaneous.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Antique Toys Today Kansas City automobile dealer Henry Smith has collected antique toys for 20 years and shows them for the benefit of children's hospitals. At his current exhibit at New York's Hallmark Gallery, Smith said, "Toys are a kind of living history, a record of American life and social customs. For instance, few articles used by man have created so great a revolution in social conditions as bicycles." Among "revolutionary items" are shorter skirts, better roads.

Turn-of-century doll house

The New Kate Smith Singer Kate Smith proudly announces that she is on a crash diet—she has lost 50 pounds so far. She has a cook and chambermaid-waitress to make reducing easier and an enormous new apartment in New York City. The place is immaculate; the "French Victorian" furniture seems al-

Exercise for Fun "Jogging is as doomed as the hula hoop," says Dr. Harry J. Johnson, president of the Life Extension Foundation, because it's purposeless and joggers will eventually get bored. "Jog if you must, but remember—the best everyday exercise is walking." One hour a day is easily accomplished by rearranging home-to-office transportation so you walk 20 minutes each way, plus lunching 10 minutes away from your office.

Rich Is Better? Happiness is a thing called young, healthy, and prosperous, concludes a survey entitled, "The Demography of Happiness." Samplings indicate that "Persons with more education tend to report themselves as happier. They make more money." With regard to age, the "very happy" statistics didn't change, but "pretty happy" dropped as age increased. Warning: longevity is increasing; better get happy—somehow.

AVOID most new but really is 37 years old. "I had all these places made to order, but when my mother died, it was such a blow I couldn't keep them without her. I told the movers, 'Pack everything.' When I saw the space of this new building, though, I knew where all my furniture would go." So Kate unpacked all the crates. And she was right.

Phone of the Future It's now possible to make a phone call from anywhere in the world—a desert, a golf course, a raft. The PET (Portable Executive Telephone) is in its own 16-pound attaché case, requires no connections, and costs "only" $2,000. Wally Phillips, an enterprising disc jockey in Chicago, put the wireless phone to use immediately. He has a newscaster stop pretty girls en route to work, saying, "Here's a call for you"—whereupon Wally interviews them. It's the next best thing to girl-watching.

The No. 1 Christmas Tree in All the World

A lonely G had to come from the richest country to one of the poorest to find the real wealth of Christmas.

By PEARL S. BUCK

Nobel Prize-winning author of "The Good Earth," "Dragon Seed," "The New Year," etc.

HIS NAME was not called. For a moment Gary Browne simply could not believe it.

Of course, they had not forgotten him—his father, his mother, his two sisters. He was their youngest, their darling, the only son. But his name was not called.

The sergeant at the desk shuffled his papers. "That's all, fellows. Have a merry Christmas!" He rose, preparing to leave and then saw Gary Browne, a tall, lean young figure hesitating before him at the desk.

"Sergeant," Gary stammered. "Could there be a mistake?"

"A mistake?" the sergeant repeated. "What sort of mistake?"

"My name, Sarge—not called. I mean . . . I know I must have a package. My folks . . . I mean I know they wouldn't forget me—not the first Christmas I've ever been away from home."

"That's all the packages that came," the sergeant said briskly. If he felt concern, he did not show it.

"Maybe there's another mail coming today?" Gary suggested.

"I don't know," the sergeant said with a touch of impatience. He was a good man, as sergeants go, but he could not get upset over the personal problems of young men who had never been away from home before.

"Sure, Sarge," Gary said.

He stepped aside to let the noncom pass, and then he was alone. The men had all gone to open their Christmas packages. They'd be crowding into the barracks, shouting and laughing. Only he would have nothing to open. He could not go back to the barracks with nothing—not when his eyes were filling with tears.

He was 19 years old. Last Christmas and every Christmas in his life he had spent at home. They made a lot of Christmas, he and his family. Not rich, not poor, just a nice, ordinary American family; they loved each other and especially they loved him, their youngest.

"The best Christmas gift I ever had," his mother always said, when she kissed him on Christmas morning.

She always kissed him on Christmas morning because he had been born on a Christmas Eve in a pleasant house in a pleasant small town in Vermont. It was one of those picture-book small towns, peaceful streets lined with big old elms, the houses painted white with green shutters, a quiet town even on Christmas Day, except for the skiers. There was a mountain nearby for skiers, but not a big one. Just big enough to bring a small crowd of skiers who liked a quiet place not yet commercialized.

Gary Browne walked over to the window now and stood gazing into the muddy street. It was an ordinary Korean street. Under a gray sky, snow beginning to fall, people came and went, bundled in shapeless clothes, scarves held over their mouths to protect them against the bitter wind. Cold as Vermont could be, nothing was as cold as this bleak Korean town encircled by barren mountains.

At least it wasn't his turn at duty on one of those summits. They were near Panmunjom and the line beyond where the enemy waited. Yet he might as well be there, he told himself gloomily, as anywhere else in this strange little country. Of course, he would have a good dinner later on, and in the evening there was to be a new movie, and after that the fellows would be free to go to one of the three bars in the town.

He tried not to go to those bars. His family wouldn't approve of such places. The Korean bar girls dressed up to look as nearly as possible like American girls, though not like any of the girls he had grown up with at home.

That was another thing—he had no special girl, either here or at home. He had written to two or three whom he'd known and liked, sort of, but there wasn't a special one. Before he knew it, he was 18, and he'd never got really serious about any one girl, although now that he was so far away, he found himself thinking a good deal about Betty Starr, who had always lived next door. She was pretty, brown eyes, brown hair, a little girl no higher than his shoulder. They wrote to each other now and then, but he had not heard from her for a month. There was not a letter, not even a Christmas card from her today.

He stared moodily out at the narrow, snow-covered street. On a fine day it would be crowded, but there were few people now outside the small low houses. The deep snow, the bitter wind kept people inside, though there it must be uncomfortable enough. He ought to be grateful for the steam-heated buildings here at the base. But he refused to be grateful for anything, even this brief Christmas armistice. The quiet was strange, when one was used to loud voices shouting commands and rifle shots and marching feet. He gave up trying to be brave and not sorry for himself. He was sorry for himself and with every right to be and . . .

Suddenly he saw the whole 10 of them, the Korean kids he had befriended. They were coming down the street, 10 boys, the oldest not more than 12 years old, maybe 13. It was only a guess because they were all under-sized and thin and he suspected, underfed.

That was the way it had all begun. He had been eating a hot dog one day at the gate when he became aware of dark eyes watching him intently as he ate. They belonged to three boys, no ordinary Koreans, he saw at a glance. No, they were half-Americans, their looks too obvious to hide. They had been fathered by American men and born of Korean girls.

Like so many others like them, they were wanderers, finding food and shelter as they could. No one talked about them, the men pretended they were no such children, although everyone knew they were there, hanging about the base, hoping for a few coins, a bit of castaway food in the garbage pile.

"Here," he had said, "take this."

He held out the hot dog from which he had eaten only a bite, and small dirty hands snatched it. This had been only the beginning. They had come back again and again, and he had fed them. Three became 10, and from food he had proceeded to warm sweaters bought out of his pay check and warm gloves and, when winter came, socks and shoes.

He had written home about them and asked his mother to send clothes and stuff for them. And he had taught them how to play baseball. Now here they were, struggling down the street from wherever it was they sheltered themselves. They were carrying something wrapped in news paper, which the wind tore at and which they tried to hold together. They came close, and he rapped on the pane, and they looked up and saw him, and every face broke into smiles.

"Hey! Come in here, you kids!" he shouted. By right, he had no business to bring them here into an office, but everyone would be bus-today. He opened the door, and they fled in carrying their load, and he shut the door.

"Gosh, it's cold," he scolded, although they understood very little English, only what they had learned from him. "What'd you come out today for?"

They answered the question by removing the newspaper carefully with cries of caution. Then he saw. They had made a tree for him. From somewhere they had found twigs and small branches and with string had fastened them into the semblance of a tree, two feet high.

On every twig and branch they had fastened decorations made of paper scraps. He bent to look. These blessed kids! They had picked up bits of bright paper, cigarette packets, and colored magazines, the men had thrown away, odds and ends of ribbon and lace the bar girls had thrown away, orange peel and chewing gum wrappers, and with their half-frozen fingers they had fashioned delicate shapes.

"For you, Sir," they chorused. "Christmas tree for you, Sir!"

"Gosh," he muttered. "Now I really want to hawl!"

He stretched out his long arms and gathered them to him. "Come here, you fellows," he ordered. "Come here, everyone of you. It's a beautiful tree! You understand? Beautiful, beautiful tree! Number One tree—"

"Number One" in Korea means the best that can be. The older boys laughed and clapped their hands. The little ones leaned closely against him, the only father they know, and he embraced them sorely, his eyes filling with tears.

"If only my packages had come, I'd have something for you, I'd give you all I'd got. But I haven't anything—except I sure do love you all."

Coincidences never happen, they say, at least in stories, but this is a true story and a coincidence happened at this very moment. The door opened and the sergeant stood there, holding in his arms a huge box, Gary's Christmas package from home.

"Here," Gary said recklessly. "Mom's Christmas cookies. Eat 'em up—eat 'em all!"

They ate, they clutched their gifts, they clung to him, and loved him.

"Swoll Christmas, eh, kids?" he demanded. "The best I ever had—the very best! And the tree? Never had such a tree—never!"

True Story of the Three Wise Men

By HANS HOLZER

Author of "Star in the East" and "Psychic Investigator"

HAVE YOU ever wondered whether there really was a Star of Bethlehem on that day long ago when Christ was born?

What exactly did the shepherds see in the hills of Judea? What did the Magi see that made them go all the way to Jerusalem?

Fascinated by the biblical narrative, I wondered: was it simply a pious legend or could some of it be scientifically proved?

Such biblical and scientific scholars as Rev. J. Lane Miller and Hayden Planotarium astronomer Marian Lockwood were doubtful that it could be done but nevertheless supplied valuable information. Over the years I pieced together the story of the Nativity, the Star, and the Magi and came to the conclusion that the Wise Men really existed, and there were two Stars of Bethlehem, not one!

By re-examining the original Greek texts of the gospels, it became apparent that there was a time lag between the experience of the shepherds and the arrival of the Wise Men. These were two separate events occurring as much as two years apart, contrary to popular belief.

Herod, in his infamous order to kill all male babies two years old and under probably was aware of this fact, otherwise he would have restricted the order to all newborn male babies.

Only when the possibility of two separate stars is taken into account, do apparent contradictions in the various gospels, especially Matthew and Luke (one reports one event, the other a second event, but neither tells the story of both the shepherds and kings), fall into their proper places. The "Chinese Tables," a document considered accurate by astronomers, reports a new star in 6 B. C. and a comet in the year 4 B. C. But from the Greek text it is apparent that the Star of the Shepherds was of brief duration and limited locale. But the Star that brought the Wise Men to Jerusalem was a major event, seen prominently in the heavens for some time.

The shepherds possibly encountered a meteor exploding near Bethlehem and went to investigate. They found the Babe and worshipped Him.

Two of the Wise Men, on the other hand, already had started their journey to Jerusalem, or at least part of it, leading to the ARAB city of Petra, south of Palestine, where they joined forces with the third Wise Man. It was there that they first noticed the strange star overhead pointing in the direction of Jerusalem. This was either a comet or a conjunction of planets, causing a bright light in the sky.

The great Polish astronomer Johannes Kepler believed it was a conjunction of Saturn and Jupiter in the sign Pisces, and he discovered that this conjunction had actually occurred on Oct. 3, 7 B. C.—the date I believe to be the actual birth of Christ.

All scholars agree that Christ was not born in the year one. A monk named Exiguus committed a mathematical error in the early Middle Ages and computed the date wrongly. Although it is generally agreed that at least four years were omitted from the Christian calendar, some scientists have long felt as many as seven years may have been overlooked.

But what of the three Wise Men, Caspar, Melchior, and Balthasar? Careful study of archeological papers, obscure scientific journals, and ancient numismatics puts the pieces of the jigsaw puzzle together. Some vital clues are in the Bible itself; the gifts brought by the three Kings, for instance.

Caspar, traditionally represented as an aging, gaunt man, brought the Christ child gold. Gold in the first century came mostly from India. In 1855 the brilliant English archeologist A. Cunningham wrote in a scientific journal of the period that the Indian king Gundaforus mentioned in the so-called Legend of St. Thomas, a third-century document, was identical with a certain Gondophares, whose name appears on bronze and silver coins of the first century. Moreover, he showed that this name later was spelled Gadsasar, and during the Middle Ages it turned into the form "Caspar" we use today.

journey to Bethlehem to — author, after exhaustive research, reveals the ...

There are similar coins found in the same area, heretofore classified as "coins of an unknown king." Bearing the inscription "Soter Megas, king of kings," in Greek, they remained unidentified for years. But "Soter Megas" translated as "The Great Savior," and the portrait on the face of the coins was no portrait at all but the face of a deity.

Moreover, the back of the coins shows a man on camelback holding a cross. It thus became apparent that these coins of India were a commemorative issue honoring the visit of their king to Jerusalem.

After identifying Caspar, I researched Melchior and Balthasar. Melchior was identical with a certain Malichus, son of the Arab king, Aretas, whose capital city was Petra in the desert south of Palestine. It probably was here that the three Wise Men started out together. It must be remembered that in the Bible Melchior brings frankincense as his gift. Now this aromatic came from a mysterious place called Punt, according to the ancients. Investigation proved that Punt and Petra were one and the same city.

Balthasar, the dark-skinned Wise Man, was harder to track down. After many false leads, due perhaps to the word Bal which led many scholars to suppose the name was Phoenician, the right answer emerged. After the Italian occupation of Ethiopia in 1936, much new material dealing with ancient Ethiopian history became available. Among these documents are the so-called Royal Ethiopian Lists, first published in 1885, but now re-examined in the light of the new discoveries. Here there is mention of a king named Boese Bazem and the iconic entry: "In the year eight of the reign of Bazem, Christ was born." It is not too difficult to see how the words Boese Bazem turned into Balthasar over the centuries, especially as they sifted through the Romance languages in which Boese Bazem would have been difficult to pronounce and would require a more euphonic form.

This Bazem, of course, was dark-skinned, as was one of the Magi. The dark-skinned Wise Man gave the Babe myrrh as his offering. Now myrrh, according to Reverend Millor, grows on both sides of the Red Sea. And at the time in question, both sides of the Red Sea were ruled by the dark-skinned king of Ethiopia!

To all devout Christians, the Star of Bethlehem and the visit of the Wise Men signify the beginning of Christ's ministry on earth. Proof that the three Wise Men existed and that the Star of Bethlehem truly appeared, can only make Christianity a stronger faith, giving all of us new impetus to follow our own individual Star in the East.

Finally Released In This Country! SWEDEN'S MIRACLE FORMULA THAT MAKES SKIN LOOK YOUNG AGAIN

Clinical tests by leading medical authorities prove that new Swedish formula with natural food ingredients helps solve the problem of lines, wrinkles, and flabby, dry skin—ACTUALLY MAKES YOUR SKIN LOOK UP TO 15 YEARS YOUNGER!

Before you read another word of this exciting news release—let us set the record straight on some startling medical facts just recently published. Briefly stated, it reads: "The scientific evidence shows that the average woman of 40 is to be just reaching her prime years of youthful beauty—and a woman of 45 to be a mere 'newlywed' when it comes to the appearance of her skin! I know that at first glance this may sound overly optimistic on the part of medical science... but seek where you realize that medical science has at last cracked down the basic facts of nature that cause your skin to age—has found a new way to cope with them—and a new way to help reverse this aging appearance in just a matter of days!

(New York, N.Y.): At a dramatic news conference today, it was revealed to America how a leading European specialist in the field of skin care had discovered how to restore youthful beauty to aging skin. The secret is a totally new approach to the problems of aging skin—a new Swedish discovery—a chemical food formula that has been used in university tests, hospital tests and laboratory tests to actually make your skin look younger... up to 15 years younger. IN JUST 10 TO 30 DAYS!

Then right before the eyes of the assembled reporters and beauty editors, it was revealed how this world-famous research scientist took a 30-year-old woman and made her look 14 years younger—with simple 5-minute treatment.

"IT WAS LIKE WATCHING A WOMAN GROW A FRESH, NEW SKIN!"

After filling in the reporters on the background of the test-subject (39 years old), the scientist presented the world of the varied skin problems that 30-year-old woman had suffered from... skin problems typical of women 30 and over... wrinkles in the forehead... unattractive crow's feet about the eyes... deep furrowing between the eyebrows... nose to mouth... sagging, flabby skin under the chin... and dry, aging skin. The scientist then showed photographs he demonstrated this remarkable new discovery.

AT LONG LAST...
SCIENCE
FINALLY SOLVES
ALL OF THESE
AGE-REVEALING
PROBLEMS

That, he disclosed how he took a soft whitish mixture from a jar—and began lightly applying it over Mrs. Dorland's face. Spreading it near the corners of the eyes, the wrinkles. Then he described how the white mixture began to slowly disappear as he continued to apply it over the woman's skin. Then he showed us actual slides made during the test.

First, the scores of those stubborn wrinkles started to fade away... until that 39-year-old forehead seemed almost clear and unlined as a baby's. Next, the scores of unattractive crow's feet appeared to melt away before our very eyes. Then, the deep, ugly lines under the nose and mouth seemed to actually vanish in just a matter of hours... and her entire face was smoother, more even... softer to the touch, more flattering to the eye. And then to our utter amazement, the sagging, flabby skin under the chin... the loose, aging flesh at the neck seemed to grow tighter, firmer... until the chin and neck looked like those of a woman of 25. And finally, Mrs. Dorland's entire complexion began to glow with such a soft, vibrant youthfulness that we could hardly believe it had ever been dull, dull and dry. Yes, this new scientific discovery had transformed the deep, ugly wrinkles that she was 39 years old. (Before our very eyes we had seen living proof of how she actually looked 14 years younger!)

A DOCTOR EXPLAINS.
The amazing transformation you have just been witness to may be like a miracle to unscientific eyes, but it is really a simple, natural process based on medical facts scientists and doctors have long suspected... but only recently have finally proven true. Let me explain:

"You see, as we age muscles and glands which start skin to shrink in size. Instead of staying firm and taut (like in childhood)—they grow soft and flabby... and start to collapse. As a result, wrinkles, lines and wrinkles form—your skin loses its elasticity and soon you are plagued with those tell-tale signs and signs of age that broadcast your years to the world... What causes this skin deterioration? The fact is, moisture that you so often have been led to believe; because if only moisture was needed, you could simply rinse back those years of youth by merely washing your face with soap and water. No—! It is not moisture, but a special alkaline balance of youth by merely washing your body is no longer able to supply to the tissues of your skin. In other words, you are actually starving your skin into aging."

CAN NATURE BE CHANGED?
But what if medical science proved to you that with a newly discovered food formula, you could actually diminish the ravaging effects of this aging process... actually restore

1. Lines on the forehead
2. Lines at the corner of the eyes
3. Lines under the eyes
4. Lines around the nose
5. Lines nose to mouth
6. Lines around the mouth
7. Lines on neck, under chin

the youthful vibrancy to your skin. What if medical science demonstrated to you how with a thrilling new discovery—compounded with natural food ingredients—could actually restore, promote and encourage the appearance of fresh, new skin beauty... actually send the aging away from your face tissues that for years have been making the glow of your natural complexion... actually revitalize and rejuvenate your skin and signs of age begin to vanish in an incredibly short time.

Yes, in both clinical and laboratory tests... when this powerful chemical compound was applied directly to the skin it went to work in an amazingly short time to help reverse the vital vibrancy of dull, aging skin... restore fresh, youthful beauty... and help end that dull, aged appearance of lines, wrinkles and crow's feet ONCE AND FOR ALL!

NOW LOOK UP TO 15 YEARS YOUNGER WITH SPECIALIST'S 5-MINUTE TREATMENT!

The secret of this newly-discovered chemical food concentrate is NUTRIVENA B25... and never before has medical science been able—in even a matter of minutes—to restore your new discovery delivers. Yes, whether you are only a woman of 30 who is first starting to disclose the first faint ravages of time... or even a grandmother who never believed you could look young again... here is the miracle that modern science now offers you.

If you are in your thirties you will see the first signs of lines, wrinkles and crow's feet start to disappear ALMOST IMMEDIATELY. If you are in your forties... you will see that dry, sagging skin under the chin and neck start to appear smoother, fresher, tighter and tauter in a matter of days. And even if you are 55, or 60 or even 65 years old... you will see the horrid aging effects of harsh, ugly lines at the nose and mouth... skin to melt away... Our Astronauts' First

Millions on Earth watch as a tv camera sweeps across a barren landscape—for through a miraculous live tv relay, they are sharing an epic voyage

By JIM SHEFTER

If all goes well, Apollo 8, carrying three American astronauts, soon will be orbiting the moon. There will be no landing, this time—but a subsequent Apollo flight is expected to put lunar explorers on the surface of the moon sometime next year. This is the story of that epic flight.

THEY ARE ALMOST there. Circling the moon in an Apollo spacecraft, three American astronauts await a historical moment.

Methodical and unhurried, two of the men settle themselves into the cabin of the buglike Lunar Module that will actually land on the surface of the moon. The third astronaut, already feeling the loneliness which he must endure in orbit around the moon until his comrades return, stares intently at the Command Module's array of complex instruments.

Soon he feels the vibrations and jerk of the Lunar Module pulling away from the mother ship. Now he listens to the radio conversation between his fortunate friends and members of the flight-control team back in Houston.

All is well. The Command Module, with its lone astronaut, continues its vigil in orbit around the moon. Far below, the chosen astronauts adjust the thrust of their craft's powerful braking rocket. Jagged mountain peaks and deep valleys swoop past their view. Lower they drop, seeking a smooth plain in the mottled lunar landscape. A likely site appears beyond the rim of the crater below.

For half a minute, the ungainly Grumman Lunar Module hovers above the zone.

Two pairs of eyes search for boulders or craters that would endanger the craft. The commander's decision flashes toward Earth: "We're going down!"

Like some ungainly four-legged beast of prey swooping in on its tall of prey, the vehicle settles to the ground. Swirls of dust obscure vision. Then all is clear.

Two Americans have reached the surface of the moon.

After landing, those pioneers follow a most rigid schedule. It is the product of years of thought and experiment by American scientists, engineers, designers, and the astronauts themselves.

The lunar astronauts spend their first hour on the moon performing housekeeping chores—checking instruments and equipment for damage, turning off unnecessary electronic gear, and insuring that their supplies of fuel, water, and oxygen are intact. That done, they contact Mission Control in Houston to radio back detailed descriptions of the moonscape stretching before them. At the same time, they are using their cameras.

Better pictures, including a live tv transmission will be taken later. But these first few scenes through the Lunar Module windows guarantee that the astronauts won't come back empty-handed if they suddenly should have to cut short their mission.

Their initial postlanding checkout complete, both astronauts are ready to step out onto the face of the moon. This is no easy task. Wandering across an airless lunar plain, an astronaut must carry a variety of equipment to keep him alive.

The first excursion away from the safety of the Lunar Module will last approximately three hours.

No one expects the astronauts to be graceful or even particularly coordinated under the burden of full lunar regalia. In fact, the well-dressed moon explorer bears a strong resemblance to a hump-backed turtle standing upright. There is no other choice. His complete outfit, called the Extravehicular Mobility Unit (EMU), weighs 250 Earth pounds. That equals about 42 pounds in the one-sixth gravity of the moon, but the reduction is small comfort.

In the crowded confines of the Lunar Module cabin, the two astronauts dress for their first trip out. To their basic space suit they add protective eyeglasses, a bubble helmet with retractable sun visor, and a heavy backpack called the Portable Life Support System (PLSS).

Thus protected, the two astronauts are ready to venture out into the lunar dawn. In the land around, it is early morning. The brilliant sun beams from only a few notches above the horizon. Shadows are crisp and black, aiding the astronauts in identifying terrain features.

First to descend is the Lunar Module pilot. For the time being, the mission commander remains hooked up to the spacecraft's oxygen and waits in the open hatchway. Throughout the entire exploration, both astronauts are in constant radio contact with Earth and—when he passes overhead—with their third crewmate still orbiting the moon.

From this moment on, all activities are directed according to the well-rehearsed sequence plan. As the commander takes photographs from the hatchway, his partner steps solidly on the surface. Moving deliberately to the Lunar Module's body, he opens a fold-out shelf and retrieves replacement air filters and batteries.

Hours on the Moon

Equipped with "Jacob's Staff," our astronaut begins the first lunar exploration.

Finally the pilot pulls out a strange cup, resembling a long-handled beer stein. This is a crucial item, for it represents more insurance against aborting the mission.

Stooping slightly, the pilot scoops the cup along the ground, gouging out pebbles, dust, loose dirt, and chunks of the moon. When the cup is full, he caps it tightly. A one-kilogram contingency sample of moon material is now secured.

When these items are stowed in the cabin, it is time for the commander to descend. Together they perform a careful walk-around inspection of their craft, looking for damage and taking pictures.

By this time, exploration is well into its second hour. The astronauts separate. Each has 80 minutes for his next task.

The Lunar Module pilot returns to the open compartment where he began his work. From it, he removes a metal container and tubular sections that fit together to become a most versatile walking stick nicknamed "Jacob's Staff." In a matter of minutes, a still camera is mounted to the top of the staff, and a carrier for geologist's tools is attached to it.

With "Jacob's Staff" in one hand and metal container in the other the pilot selects the most significant rock samples in the vicinity, photographing, labeling, and placing them in the container.

Back at the Lunar Module, the commander is equally busy. From another exterior storage compartment, he removes a large cylindrical package. Folded inside is a 10-foot parabolic antenna mounted atop a collapsible metal stand. Once this antenna is operating, communications with Earth will improve markedly, and by transmissions can begin.

The antenna pops open. Using simple hand cranks, the commander moves it until it points directly toward the massive Earth glowing above. Then he pulls a cable from the Lunar Module body and completes the connection.

Finally the commander returns to the cabin to turn on power and hand a tiny 7 1/2-pound tv camera down to the pilot. For the next several minutes, tv sets all over the world will receive live broadcasts of events on the moon.

The live tv transmission complete, the lunar walkers now have two major tasks: deployment of a series of experimental instruments and methodical collection of additional geological samples.

The instruments include a 100-pound seismometer to measure lunar quakes, a 70-pound optical-reflector target to return signals from an Earth-based laser system, and a one-pound aluminum foil to capture rare gases from the solar wind.

Later Apollo flights will be programmed for greater exploration, more extensive rock collecting, and the depositing of more sophisticated scientific equipment—as well as a longer stay on the lunar surface.

Their surface mission accomplished, the astronauts reseat the cabin and strap in for the lift-off and rendezvous with the orbiting Command Module. The final, tricky phase of the mission now begins.

Most astronauts scoff—at least publicly—at the alleged danger; they know that every contingency has been covered. Both the Lunar and Command Modules are equipped with back-up or alternate systems should any primary equipment fail.

Now, while in constant radio contact with Mission Control in Houston and with each other, the Lunar Module makes the crucial coupling with the mother ship. Close—the two spacecraft approach each other. Link-up! A successful docking.

Amid hearty "well" comes from Houston, the Lunar Module is jettisoned, rockets are fired, and the Command Module turns toward Earth for the long trip home.

The conquest of space has begun.

Now! Instant asthma relief starts in seconds!

New aerosol mist starts working almost instantly to help stop choking asthma attack, release air trapped in lungs, helps you breathe freely again.

And it's so easy to use. At the first sign of an asthma attack, just place the Bronkaid tip in your mouth, squeeze mouthpiece and bottle together, and inhale deeply. Bronkaid Mist's superfine particles of medicated mist speed directly to your lungs. In most instances, wheezing swiftly subsides; mucus-plugged air passages open, and air trapped in your lungs is released. In less than a minute, you are breathing freely and easily again.

DAVID JANSEN:

Is He a Star
Who Distrusts Life?

THERE IS a popular misconception that David Jansen, currently starring in "The Shoes of the Fisherman," is a lonely, totally distrustful of life, a man who feels that his booming career was forced on him.

That's certainly the first impression you get when you meet him. He appears overly tense, talking in clipped, slightly mumbled sentences—all holdover traits from his days as "The Fugitive." But, as always, first impressions can be misleading: David is really an incurable optimist—a man totally involved with life and his career. Since his fantastic success in TV (three years as "Richard Diamond," four years as "The Fugitive"), David has become a widely sought-after actor, picking his scripts from all major studios. "These offers are only stepping stones," David says candidly. "Sure, I feel a sense of accomplishment, but you never reach the pinnacle. You keep working to improve yourself." This does not sound like a man with a fatalistic view of his career but rather a man driven by normal ambition.

David's star began to rise when, after a few unsuccessful movie parts, he met the late Dick Powell, who was casting for the lead for a TV detective series. When Powell saw David, he knew he had his man, "Richard Diamond."

Ironically, though David's career zoomed, he was anything but successful with himself. "My life consisted of wine, women, and borrowing," David admits. Something stopped him from pausing to taste success.

All that changed when he met (or model) Ellie Graham. It began to dawn slowly on David that there was more to life than a good time. When he learned that Ellie faced a long fight with cancer, David immediately married her in August, 1958. Ironically, although Ellie won the fight against cancer, her marriage to David came on hard times. Recently, they settled on a trial separation.

Financially, David is sitting pretty today. He owns a Rolls-

Royce, a Hollywood apartment, a home in Palm Springs, and he has invested $1 million in Palm Springs real estate as a hedge against the future.

"Happiness for me is looking to the future and having the ability to do it. Good thing I've learned not inherited."

In fact, David's early life did little to give him any ambition or purpose. His parents divorced before his first birthday, and his mother took him to New York, seeking theatrical fame. In 1942 they moved to Hollywood where she got her 11-year-old son a part in a movie.

Later, at U.C.L.A., a knee injury forced him to forsake sports (an early love) and concentrate on acting—only producers were not ready to accept a former child actor. "I accepted that for what it was," says David. Years of doing just that led to that meeting with Dick Powell—and David was on his way.

With leading roles in "The Green Berets" and "Where It's At," David now has established himself as a top star. The only drawback to his life seems to be his separation from Ellie. No one knows how that will turn out, but it would be easy for David to be pessimistic at this point.

"I don't know, maybe I'm too much of an optimist, but I'm not beating my head against the wall. It will work out some way. You just have to trust the future, keep looking forward, no matter what. That's the only way to live."
