THIS WILL BE, perhaps, the busiest day of the six-day mission for the astronaut crew aboard Apollo 8, scheduled to be launched Saturday morning from the Kennedy Space Center. After liftoff the spacecraft will orbit the earth before beginning its 66-hour trip to the moon. These drawings depicting launch-day activities were made available by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. Problems, however, may delay the flight.

'Dirty' Fuel Causes Problem

Saturn Poised For Launch

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Saturn 5 launch crew wrestled with a problem of contaminated fuel and expressed concern about the weather, but continued to move forward today to the planned launch of the Apollo 8 spaceship toward lunar orbit Saturday morning.

With a six-hour, built-in hold-planned to meet such emergencies, the launch crew dumped the fuel, checked valves and lines for possible leakage, and was preparing to reload.

The excess nitrogen got into the system. "This contamination does no damage to the fuel cells," a spokesman said. "But if launched in this condition, the astronauts would have to purge their fuel cells more often in flight—about once every hour instead of every seven hours as planned."

"We're ready as can be," one of them reported cheerfully as hundreds of crewmen preparing the Saturn 5, the world's mightiest rocket, moved at 8:51 p.m. into the final countdown, an exacting process that consumes the last 24 hours before launch.

locked to its pad, the rocket is a potential time bomb, with the explosive power of more than a million pounds of TNT.

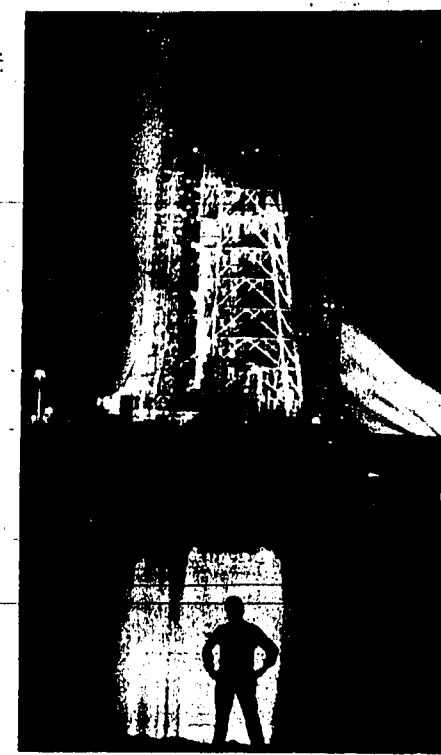

A definite go-no-go decision was expected about 3 p.m. The prospect of a delay in the launch of the spacecraft toward the moon developed during the night, when contaminated liquid oxygen was discovered in the power-producing fuel cells.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration said the contamination was caused by an excess amount of liquid nitrogen in the oxygen supply. The oxygen being used to cool and condition oxygen before it is blended with liquid hydrogen in the fuel cells.

As their date with destiny drew near, the astronauts—Air Force Col. Frank Borman, Navy Capt. James A. Lovell Jr. and Air Force Maj. William Anders—were cool and confident.

Small problems cropped up and were overcome. A valve regulating the flow of liquid hydrogen, which mingles with liquid oxygen to produce electricity and drinking water for the spacecraft, malfunctioned and had to be replaced, along with a leaky line.

The second time of greatest tension will come when the astronauts—flying behind the dark face of the moon and out of radio contact with earth—fire the spacecraft engine that will haul them out of lunar orbit and send them gliding at 24,000 miles an hour down a corridor toward a tiny, 36-mile window they must enter into the earth's atmosphere.

BRILLIANT SEARCHLIGHTS ILLUMINATE the 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 booster rocket which is scheduled to hoist the Apollo 8 spacecraft and its crew into space from Cape Kennedy early Saturday. A spectator stands before one of the cranes through the Space Center. Trouble in a fuel cell today, however, threatened to delay the scheduled blastoff. (AP wire-photo)

Snowfall Continues, Two Schools Closed

Winter begins at noon Saturday but Magic Valley residents will probably pay little heed to the turn of the season because of the snow that started at the winter started Wednesday night.

The heavy snowfall has brought some change in scheduling as far as Magic Valley schools are concerned. Christmas vacation began for most valley students Friday, despite drifting in some rural areas and despite the steady attempts by the flu bug to keep students away from classes.

At Twin Falls, Kimberly, Burley and Rupert, school was let out Friday afternoon and at Hellsburg and Hollister noon was the official Christmas closing time.

Three Men--A Stroke Of Providence

WASHINGTON — Two Republicans and one Democrat will fill the jobs most important to the nation's domestic future in the Nixon administration. It seems almost a stroke of providence that all three are men of high competence.

They are Robert H. Finch, Lieutenant Governor of California, to be Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare; George W. Romney, Governor of Michigan, to be Secretary of Housing and Urban Development; and Daniel P. Moynihan, a Democrat, to head a new top-level White House office of Urban Affairs.

Finch, Romney and Moynihan will be where the action is for the next four years—indeed, for the next eight years and beyond. To be sure, the new Atorney General, John N. Mitchell, will be just as busy trying to do something about crime in the streets, but the Finch-Romney-Moynihan triumvirate could determine what kind of a country we and our children and our grandchildren are going to live in.

Lyndon Johnson's Great Society was his lack of people who knew how to run a program. Romney had the guts to raise taxes to pay for social programs. A liberator who heavily stressed "citizen participation," the Michigan governor doggedly supported civil rights legislation, not because it was becoming fashionable but because it was right.

Spain's Big Boom

Once considered a backwater of dictatorship and economic and social stagnation, ostracized by the United Nations and excluded from Marshall Plan aid after World War II, Spain has suddenly emerged as one of the fastest developing nations in the world.

The Spaniards, seemingly left behind in the 18th century, are catching up with the 20th century, writes British author Raymond Palmer in IBM's Think magazine. Everywhere one looks, buildings are rearing up, smooth highways are stretching out, excavators are digging down.

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH The Huge Pay Raise Proposals

WASHINGTON — Senators and House members, who would now like to take a close look at those executive pay raises to be proposed by President Johnson, can blame their sly and timid colleagues for their present plight.

The expected January quid-pro-quo with respect to top-echelon federal pay shapes up as a travesty on the legislative process. Like mischievous little boys (and girls), however, the lawmakers brought this on themselves.

As matters stand, President Johnson will propose large pay raises for Cabinet members, the Supreme Court, top federal executives — and Congress early in January. Unless Congress demurs, by voting to kill the raises, they become effective 30 days later.

Kremlin Jitters

Two American destroyers passing through the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus into the Black Sea gave the Russians a bad case of the jitters, judging by their propaganda barrage. So much noise on such little provocation sounds as if the Soviets are self-conscious about something.

All of which has the appearance of a bad case of guilty conscience. After all, it was only last June that U. S. ships traversed these same waters without creating a ripple.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Because the Berlin Wall and the Czech invasion prove so conclusively the totalitarian Soviet bloc cannot stand the competition of free ideas, these events should have changed the nature of western diplomacy as much as nuclear missiles have altered the nature of war and defense.

Democracies Thwart The Reds

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Because the Berlin Wall and the Czech invasion prove so conclusively the totalitarian Soviet bloc cannot stand the competition of free ideas, these events should have changed the nature of western diplomacy as much as nuclear missiles have altered the nature of war and defense.

Perhaps more important will be Finch's status in the Nixon cabinet. After Secretary of State-designate William P. Rogers, he is closer to Nixon than any of the other cabinet members. Nixon has said often that he "relies" on Finch's counsel, and in such a relationship lies the political clout that gets things done in this town.

MR. SPECTATOR SAYS: People filled to overflowing with the Christmas spirit shouldn't drive.

The Kappel Commission was charged with coordinating congressional pay increases, among others. Members of the House and Senate have always been less than bold about voting to raise their salaries, which have not been increased since 1964.

The Marshall Plan was successful in Western Europe because it concerned itself as much with rebuilding political institutions as with economic and military aid.

Romney has a deep interest in Negro self-help projects, even including those of a militant character. He was an advocate of working to solve urban ills through private enterprise long before Richard Nixon. A critic of the Johnson administration's social spending programs because they "excited more expectations than they could satisfy," he is not expected to be Nixon's chief thinker on urban affairs, and thus a fitting duck for the pragmatic. He is not only a Democrat, but a Kennedy-type Democrat who served Lyndon Johnson as an eloquent and forceful Labor Department aide. It was in that role that he wrote the famous "Moynihan Report." With it, he managed to infuriate both whites and Negroes—by blaming white society for breaking down the Negro family and daring to point out the high rate of illegitimacy, low IQ's, high crime rates and the large percentage of fatherless homes in the Negro community.

Once considered a backwater of dictatorship and economic and social stagnation, ostracized by the United Nations and excluded from Marshall Plan aid after World War II, Spain has suddenly emerged as one of the fastest developing nations in the world. The Spaniards, seemingly left behind in the 18th century, are catching up with the 20th century, writes British author Raymond Palmer in IBM's Think magazine. Everywhere, schools, buildings are rearing up, smooth highways are stretching out, excavators are digging down. He quotes one resident of Madrid: "We have gone from shoe leather to traffic jams overnight. A few years ago only one family on my street had a car. The other night I came home and couldn't find anywhere to park." The turning point for Spain came in 1953, when the United States negotiated the use of military bases in return for economic aid, an action that caused much anguish among many liberal Americans. A few years later, a tourist boom began, which continues today, and international credits started flowing in. At the end of 1967, Spain left the ranks of the developing countries of Europe, ahead of Greece, Portugal, Turkey and Yugoslavia. Its per capita income passed the magic $700 level that separates the developed from the developing countries. In 1960, per capita income was a mere $200. Spain's gross national product has been growing by more than 7 percent a year, a rate higher than any other Western country. Its exports rose by 22 percent in 1966, proof of

As matters stand, President Johnson will propose large pay raises for Cabinet members, the Supreme Court, top federal executives—and Congress—early in January. Unless Congress demurs, by voting to kill the raises, they become effective 30 days later. This revision of the legislative process is the legislative process as it is. Congress jiggered it this way when the federal pay act of 1967 was approved. The raises, for some 2,000 executives in the executive, legislative and judicial branches of government have been recommended to the President by a 12-member commission headed by Frederick Kappel, former chairman of the AT&T Board of Directors. The commission was established by the 1967 pay act. The jiggering came about because the Kappel Commission was charged with recommending congressional pay increases, among others. Members of the House and Senate have always been less than bold about voting to raise their salaries, which have not been increased since 1964. The Constitution prevents members of the House and Senate from raising their pay and then collecting the higher salaries during their present Congress. Even so, many lawmakers shy away from all votes to increase congressional pay on grounds that the voters back home won't like it. So it is now the President who can act, in January, and Congress which contents itself with a veto. Under the 1967 law this inverted pay-raise process will be repeated, with the appointment of a new commission. The Kappel Commission has marked Congress down for a

George C. Thosteson, M.D. On Insulin

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our 8-year-old daughter has had two insulin injections a day since she was 4. Her arms, legs, etc., are caving in from the effects, and now hard lumps are forming under the skin. Would you know any way to prevent this? —F.M.Q. This formation of hollow spots is called insulin lipodystrophy. Fortunately it never hinders many insulin users but becomes a problem for some. The exact cause is not known, but it occurs chiefly in females or in small boys. There are various suggestions for avoiding the trouble, and some of them work and some don't in a particular case. Here are the ones with which I am familiar: 1—Use the insulin at room temperature. If (as is usual) it is kept in a refrigerator, take it out long enough in advance to let it come to room temperature. 2—Using a longer needle (hence giving the injections a little deeper) may help. 3—A more concentrated insulin, hence a smaller volume can be tried. If you are using U-40, try U-80 (more concentrated). The type of syringe used should correspond to the strength of the insulin. Don't guess at this. I have even gone to a U-100 insulin. 4—Change insulin. If she is on NPH, try lente. Or vice versa. 5—Sometimes a special insulin, from pork sources, will help. Most insulin is from a mixture of pork and beef sources. 6—The site of injections should be changed. Do not use the same place too often, since that may be a factor in causing lumps. This reaction is a disconcerting complication in the use of insulin because of the disfigurement it produces, and it should be emphasized that it does not occur in all cases. When the condition begins to appear, it should be combated at once. Sometimes, in some cases, as the patient's weight increases, the hollow spots may fill out, but this cannot be promised. Kremlin Jitters

Two American destroyers passing through the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus into the Black Sea gave the Russians a bad case of the jitters, judging by their propagandist barrage. So much noise on such little provocation sounds as if the Soviets are self-conscious about something. Well they might be. It has been their practice to harass American and other western ships during NATO maneuvers, frequently ignoring all the rules of the sea and at times coming perilously close to collision in an infantile game of chicken. But what Russian probably liked least about American ships in her

MR. SPECTATOR About The Decorations

For what it is worth, we might pass something your way so you can toss it around for awhile. There seem to be a lot of people hereabouts who think that the downtown Christmas lighting decorations in Twin Falls are a little on the weak side. They say that at night good old Main Street doesn't look much different than it does during the day. These same people express the opinion that the store decorations, the inside ones, are up to par but once more they drift back to those street decorations which they say leave something to be desired. What do you think about it? If you haven't been downtown recently, why not make a special trip to take a look see and make up your own mind. If there is an argument you might as well get in on it! FAMOUS! Idaho does, now and then, gain national publicity. Latest along this line was an item Mr. Spectator ran across in a Chicago paper—on the editorial page, no less. As you read it you will probably remember when it happened here so read on. "Pay attention, drivers who like to go as fast as possible everywhere you go. The Idaho Department of Law Enforcement produced a 1,000-mile race between a driver who took his time and one who took chances at every opportunity. The driver who took chances, switched lanes and otherwise made a nuisance of himself, made it to the finish line, but only after four panic stops and applying his brakes 1,335 times. The other driver, who stayed in his lane, made no panic stops and applied his brakes only 642 times, came in 11 minutes later." To put it another way, the same race conducted the width of the United States would net the reckless driver a gain of less than two hours, if he made it at all. This hardly seems worth the wear and tear on everybody's nerves, does it? MR. SPECTATOR SAYS: People filled to over-flowing with the Christmas spirit shouldn't drive.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Because the Berlin Wall and the Czech invasion prove so conclusively the totalitarian Soviet bloc cannot stand the competition of free ideas, these events should have changed the nature of western diplomacy as much as nuclear missiles have altered the nature of war and defense. The Berlin Wall was built to keep East Germans from fleeing communism; it was not to prevent West Germans from fleeing into the Communist system. The Czech invasion, in good measure, was to prevent free Czech contacts with the West. Asia has provided the same sort of evidence. Millions have fled Communist North Korea, Communist North Vietnam and Communist China. The British have been forced to regulate the flow of Chinese into Hong Kong, because more millions have come in than they can handle. The Marshall Plan was successful in Western Europe because it concerned itself as much with rebuilding political institutions as with economic and military strength. Economic and military aid in fact were used to bolster representative political institutions. Though it is now difficult to remember, the worry after World War II was that the native Communist parties would take over France and Italy. With the strengthening of demo-

Emmy Will Turn 21 Next May — If She Makes It

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Emmy, Oscar's hard-luck, plain Jane little sister, will be 21 next May — if she makes it.

Already there are angry rumblings and threats that some VPs may boycott TV's coming-of-age party. The National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences has again revised the rules for candidates for its golden statuette. But instead of placating the critics of its award procedures, the academy finds itself in the center of a new, bitter controversy.

The Emmy awards, TV's way of honoring its own, at least in theory, seems dogged by dissent and disaster. A few seasons back there was a big rebellion when CBS News led a walk-out in a controversy over judging methods. Eventually this was sort of smoothed over. Then last spring came that embarrassing, disorganized awards show that was literally a tragedy of error and mishaps.

Now the awards committee has made some more changes relating to the qualifications of nominees — notably a rule that bars programs and those associated with programs that have been on the air for two years or more.

While there was a lot of grumbling, the first real action was taken by an ABC vice president who complained that network executives were given no chance to discuss the changes before they were put through.

Criticism of the two-season rule stems from the fact that several programs and performers have been nominated for Emmy awards in seasons past but never won the balloting. Now they are automatically out of the running. A good example is Mario Thomas and her show, "That Girl."

By the very nature of television, there are too many categories and too many performers ever to make an awards contest very meaningful. And, on the other side of the coin, networks and independent producers who privately kiss off the Emmys as meaningless all want Emmys because they have a certain exploitation and publicity value.

This year the number of categories has been chopped down a bit — but it still is more than 30 — and the big question is: One thing is certain: This year's Emmy awards show will be better than last season's, or the survival of the awards themselves will be on the line.

Lucy's Plans Are CBS's Annual Question Mark

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "It's those darned hour shows; they've been giving trouble to a lot of us half-hours," said Lucie Arnaz in analyzing the fortunes of the first-season-of-hor-third television series.

To the outsider, "Here's Lucy" would seem to be far from being in trouble. The latest rating showed the half-hour comedy show in 13th place, a highly respectable position in the "But to Lucille Ball the perfectionist that isn't good enough. For most of the past 18 years, Monday night has been Lucy's special property. Then along came a show called "Laugh-In," which was a hit in the house precedes "Here's Lucy" by a half-hour, and therein lies the trouble, opines Miss Ball. "People get hooked on hour shows and they just won't switch," she remarked in her executive suite during a break in rehearsals.

Concerning the "Laugh-In" competition, she remarked: "I never think about the opposition. I simply try to do the best job I can, and I think we've done quite well. We've had some bad shows, but we've managed some darned good ones, too. And I'm proud of the way the children have come through."

The children are her own: Lucie Arnaz, 17, and Desi Arnaz Jr., nearly 16. They are the co-stars of "Here's Lucy" and their father explained how it happened.

"When Paramount bought out Desilu, they also bought the format of 'The Lucy Show.' It became theirs, completely. So I either had to negotiate with them to use the format, or I had to find a new one."

What Lucille wants to do is CBS's annual question mark. She is nearing the last of the 24 scheduled shows for this season, and soon she will make up her mind whether to try for another. The children are so popular that it appears likely that "Here's Lucy" will be back next fall.

"If I do go back, I'll do some things differently," she commented. "I might film six of the 24 outside the studio on location. I don't really like to do the children; we all like that instant response from the studio audience — it's like opening night every week."

"I would also give the children more to do, particularly in the musical vein. This season the writers didn't know how much Lucie and Desi could manage, and they didn't push them too hard. But the kids met every challenge and were eager for more."

New Broadway Play Given Bad Review

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic

NEW YORK (AP) — An appalling exercise in boredom opened Wednesday night at Broadway's Belasco theater with a title as vague as its content, "The Sudden and Accidental Re-Education of Horse Johnson."

It was written starting in 1966 by Douglas Taylor, a man of extended endeavor in television, and has since been through workshop production at the Actors Studio, staging by the Eugene O'Neill Foundation and performance by the Milwaukee Repertory under a Rockefeller Foundation grant.

Four sponsors teamed up to deliver it to the White Way. Rarely has such sustained preparation been lavished on such a banal pile of dramatic stupidity.

The central character, played with stubborn desperation by Jack Klugman, is a middle-aged nebbish who quits pushing

Jury Exonerates County Officials

FILLMORE, Utah (AP) — A Millard County Grand Jury has concluded after seven months of deliberation there is no evidence to merit indicting a 15-member jury of officials in a case involving a school board.

Judge C. Nelson Day called the jury last April after conducting closed hearing on reports of discrepancies in school and other county officials.

"I found some 60 witnesses in its investigation, and the jury announced Thursday a verdict of 11 recommendations:

- Public property should be sold only by public bid or auction.
- Salaries of county officials must be disclosed to the public.
- Studies should be made to determine whether there should be county-wide voting on school board members, how cooperation could be increased between law enforcement agencies, and determine the possibility of a county-wide police radio system and a police training academy.
- Juvenile and adult offenders should be separated at the Delta City Jail and improvements are needed in heating and plumbing at the city and county jails in Fillmore and the Delta Jail.

Commercial TV Has Nothing To Worry About From Educational Facilities Act

By WARD CANNEL
NEA Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — It is now almost a generation since speculation first began about "the promise of this exciting new medium, television."

But almost from the first it became obvious that if the promise were to be fulfilled, it would have to come through noncommercial broadcasting. As a legislative administrator recalls of 1950, "You could see that commercial TV could not afford to program for everybody."

Consequently, in 1952 the Federal Communications Commission reserved 242 channels for educational broadcasting.

Four years later, there were only 37 such stations on the air and very little likelihood of more in the near future. So Congress began to debate the question of granting funds for public television.

That debate lasted six years before the Educational Facilities Act of 1962 was passed.

In part, the delay can be traced to congressional fear of being accused of being in the propaganda business, says a spokesman for Sen. John Pastore, who helped get the law passed.

In part, too, the delay was the work of some members of owned or represented the owners of stations, groups or networks, according to a major network executive who testified during those years of hearings.

Through the debate, the FCC remained neutral. As one commissioner puts it, "Our job always seems to be to preserve the status quo until the industry in question secures its position."

With the Educational Facilities Act and its $72 million appropriation to noncommercial stations, over 100 new transmitters and studios were built, and public broadcast was added to the national TV diet.

Has it provided the alternative and fulfilled the promise of television? The answer seems to be largely negative.

Local noncommercial stations are dependent on local patrons for the donations that make programming possible. In Boston, for example, educational station WGBH has to do with an operating budget about one-quarter the size of what the local CBS outlet takes home in profit.

"In too many localities," says Ben Kibusik of the National Citizens Committee for Public Television, "educational station managers are afraid of offending their patrons with controversial programs."

They schedule a hard-hitting documentary for 10 p. m. and put cooking shows and nature films on in prime time.

In other localities there is a great temptation for the educational station manager to be arrogant and autocratic in his choice of programs and personnel, says Mill Biss, who has both worked in public television and reported on it.

Faced with problems at home like these, many educational stations have tended to abdicate their responsibilities to their localities. And like their commercial colleagues, they have begun to take more and more programs from NET—the National Educational Television Network.

"If anybody complains about a show," says Gerrard Appy, NET's director of station relations, "the local station manager can always blame 'those damn easterners' who produced it."

And so, like its commercial network colleagues, NET is faced with having to "put out programs" of national interest that will appeal to everybody.

"We can be just as bland, dull and repetitive as NBC, ABC and CBS," says a NET producer, "but without the big budget opulence they can afford."

As it turns out, commercial TV had nothing to worry about from the Educational Facilities Act. Quite the contrary. Says an executive of a commercial station group that also makes and distributes programs:

"Public television has been a big money maker for us. For one thing, they take the pressure off us to do 'worthwhile and significant' shows."

"And for another, in their localities they take a channel out of the competition for the advertising dollar—leaving us a bigger pla to cut up."

Spokane Holds To Pay Boost Offer

SPOKANE (AP) — The Spokane City Council after a 2 1/2 hour secret session Thursday is reported to be stalling on its offer of a six per cent wage hike for the city's 234 policemen.

It's also reported the council asked by policemen for a state labor mediator's recommended 11.0 per cent pay boost—favors reopening negotiations with the Spokane Police Union after the 1969 Washington State Legislature adjourns early in the spring.

Mayor David Rodgers declined after the secret session to discuss details of the meeting which included the city manager, the city's legal staff and personnel manager.

Rodgers said one reason the diamond earrings.

Company employees from Boise, Burley and Twin Falls attended the dinner.

meeting was secret was so that "everybody could unork his own thoughts." Asked if the council favored separating police and firemen contract talks, Rodgers replied: "No, not at this time."

The council has offered both police and firemen a six per cent wage boost, effective Jan. 1.

Firemen have said they'll go along with the proposed six per cent increase but served notice they wouldn't work for less money than police.

Spokane policemen have been picketing City Hall, the Public Safety Building and the city garage in connection with their wage increase request.

The Spokane Police Statistical Bureau noted a sharp drop in citations being issued by officers but Police Chief E. W. Parsons said it was too early to tell whether a slowdown was taking place in the department.

Dinner Held

BURLEY — The annual Christmas covered dish dinner and gift exchange of the Burley Toastmistress Club was held at home of Mrs. Spencer Black, president.

Each member gave a Christmas thought and Christmas cards were sung. The next meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m., Jan. 14 in the conference room of the Idaho Bank and Trust.

Bumpy Ride

LONDON (AP) — A motorist turned left at a railroad crossing near London in a thick fog Thursday night and drove half a mile. When the lights of a passenger train from London appeared in his rear mirror, the driver realized he was on the railroad track.

The train engineer saw the car's rear lights just in time.

"I thought it was a bit bumpy," the motorist told police, who did not disclose his name.

Payton Ponders Water Pollution

PAYSON, Utah (AP) — Possible contamination of the Payson water supply from a proposed housing development will be investigated.

The city council said Thursday state and county health agencies will be consulted about the possible contamination of water from Payson Canyon.

The proposed development would be in the canyon south of Walker Flats.

Snowmobile Club Plans Annual Rally

HAILEY — Members of the Sawtooth Snowmobile Club held their regular meeting in the Agturus room of the Hotel Hiawatha Wednesday evening.

Plans were made for the club's annual rally to be held Jan. 18-19 on the course north of Ketchikan.

W. D. Martindale, president, said fun races and a queen contest will be held Jan. 18 and point races for Western Snowmobile racers will be held Jan. 19.

He said anyone can sponsor a queen, but she must be a resident of the Big Wood River Valley.

Plans for a ride up Trail Creek Sunday also were made.

Anyone wishing to ride the snow-covered trail should meet at Trail Creek Lodge at the end of the road at noon.

A Sawtooth Forest Service color-sound movie on winter survival was shown by Jay Christensen and John Hepworth of the Hailey office.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My problem is in the state of Massachusetts 10 my youngest son. He has had two bad marriages and now he is separated from his third wife. He has eight children from these three marriages and he has to support them all.

The last two are only babies yet and with all the alimony and support money he has to pay out he can't afford to hire anyone to look after the little ones, so he counts on me.

Abby, I am 68 years old and my husband is an invalid and I am not in very good health myself, but how can a mother of 32 years old, but he is still my baby. SYRACUSE MOTHER.

DEAR MOTHER: Your "baby" is responsible for eight babies of his own. He is very good at multiplying, but he doesn't know how to add or subtract. Let him work this problem out himself. If he knows he can't "count on you" he may find a solution and grow up in the process.

DEAR ABBY: Is it true that

Mrs. Max Stuart Reviews Book

The book, "How Far to Bethlehem," was reviewed by Mrs. Max T. Stuart during the December meeting of the Belles Lettres Literary Guild at the home of Mrs. Glen E. Bradford.

It was a glowing story that reaches its climax at the manger in Bethlehem. It is the story of Joseph, who must sometimes try hard to believe, and Mary, suffering for all suffering things knowing the joy and the tragedy that will eventually be hers.

The author's sketch of Noah's Lofts was given by Mrs. Reed B. Day.

Co-hostesses were Mrs. John S. Campbell and Mrs. Sherrill Van Orden. Paperback editions of the latest fiction were given to the members as Christmas gifts.

AEC Denies Nevada Blast Poses Danger

PAHUTE MESA, Nev. (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission says its one-megaton test Thursday demonstrated the tests "aren't so bad after all when proper precautions are taken."

The underground blast, equal to a million tons of TNT, had been opposed by several groups on the grounds that it might cause property damage, contaminate water supplies or trigger large earthquakes.

Little happened that had not been expected.

Tall buildings rocked in Las Vegas, 100 miles south. Chandeliers swung gently in Reno, more than 200 miles north.

Newsman at the control point 12 miles from ground zero had trouble keeping their footing as ground swells raced outward from the explosion in ocean like waves. The floor rocked for five to six seconds.

But no significant damage was reported anywhere. It was the first time newsmen had been allowed on the test site to observe a detonation since 1958.

Thirty minutes after the shot an official said instruments near ground zero showed no release of radiation. Towering clouds rising from the ground, apparently were just surface dust lifted loose as the earth bulged upward 20 to 30 feet.

SMITHTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — Four bedrooms and the front porch had been converted to infirmaries at the Archie Young home here.

The ten Young children, ranging in age from 6 months to 13 years, have all come down with the flu, and Mrs. Young has a runny nose.

The influenza is nothing new to the Long Island housewife.

Two years ago, when she had eight children, they all caught the measles at once. Last year, there were nine and they suffered through the chicken pox in unison.

Mrs. Young avoided offering any predictions for next year. "If I let it bother me," she said, "the man with the butterfly net would have been here a long time ago."

The father of the stricken family has managed to escape the big 50 flu.

"He just brings things home and then gets away from it all," Mrs. Young explained.

She said she keeps three vaporizers—boiling, all-day, and amuses the children with games and puzzles.

Mrs. Young said she felt sorry for one person involved in her family's suffering—the delivery man for the local drug store.

"He's here three times a day," she said. "We use medicine by the gallons."

MONTANAN TERMED HERO FOR RESCUE
PITTSBURGH (AP) — A Montana man was cited for heroism today for rescuing a 10-year-old girl who was swept into a culvert by a strong current while swimming in an irrigation ditch with other children.

Patricia E. Hunter of Hamilton, Mont., tried vainly to break through the debris to keep from drowning. The shouts of the other children caught the attention of Joseph Loring Koehls, 40, an operating engineer, also of Hamilton.

Koehls ran 750 feet to the ditch, jumped in with his clothes on, and swam 12 feet underwater to the culvert. There he dug a hole in the debris and pushed Patricia through it. Then he swam back to the end of the culvert against a strong current.

Koehls was awarded a bronze medal and $750 in cash from the Carnegie hero commission for his courageous act July 13.

They are members of Explorer Post 868 which was organized more than two years ago for 17- to 21-year-old inmates of the Texas Department of Corrections institution.

National Western Stock Show Has 4,240 Entries

DENVER — Total entries for the 1969 National Western Stock Show, Jan. 10-18, will be at least the third highest in the history of the annual livestock event.

According to Willard Simms, National Western general manager, 4,240 individual animal exhibits, just under the peak totals of 1967 and 1968, have been entered.

Simms said a decline in Hereford breeding cattle and open class steers accounts for the slight drop in 1969 entries.

"Exhibits in all other divisions of the show are on a level or above the last two years," Simms said.

Carload stock processed so far indicate the normal number of 2,000 bulls in the stockyards, but there probably will be slightly fewer feeder cattle offered in the yards due to an extremely active market this fall.

Simms reported. At the 1968 National Western, 15,000 head were handled in the yards during stock show week.

Breeding cattle to be exhibited on the show grounds in January include 460 Angus, 300 Hereford, 185 Shorthorn, 152 Charolais and 118 Santa Gertrudis.

Junior show cattle for 1969 amount to 446 from 12 states—Colorado, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Iowa, Kansas, Wyoming, Texas, Illinois, Minnesota, Missouri, South Dakota and California. Included are a record 100 breeding heifers. In the open class, there will be 281 fat steers.

1968 Idaho Bean Crop Blight Free

MOSCOW, Idaho (AP) — The 1968 bean crop in Idaho was the first in several years with no halo blight, says the University of Idaho College of Agriculture.

Halo blight in Idaho reached serious proportions in the early 1960's and a cooperative control effort was begun in 1963.

A College of Agriculture publication reports that 31,700 acres of bean crops were inspected during 1968 and no blight was found.

In 1965, the first year of a control order, 17.4 per cent of acreage inspected was infected. Infestation was down to 2.5 per cent in 1966 and 1.7 per cent in 1967.

Local 4-H Leaders Honored

FILER — Several 4-H leaders in Twin Falls County were honored at a recent recognition banquet at the Filer Grange Hall for their outstanding work with 4-Hers.

Five-year certificates were awarded by Mrs. Alice Reed, Twin Falls County home extension agent, to Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Howard, Murtaugh; Mrs. Don Walker and Marvin Duggan, both Buhl; Mrs. Earl Hudson, Castleford, and Mrs. Bill Berry and Mrs. Ronald Kasol, both Twin Falls. A 10-year certificate was presented to Mrs. Robert Black, Twin Falls.

Don Youtz, Twin Falls County agent, presented special awards to several county residents who have contributed many years to 4-H work. Receiving these special awards were Jay Cobb and Mrs. Elwood McCauley, both Filer; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Shouse, secretary-manager of the Twin Falls County Fair, and Mrs. Fred Britt, Twin Falls. Two 4-H alumna awards were presented to Mrs. Harold Peterson and William Chaney, Twin Falls County Commissioner.

Guest speaker was Richard Reed, Twin Falls County probate judge, who spoke on juvenile delinquency and other juvenile problems that confront the courts today.

Mistress of ceremony was Mrs. Ben Eldredge, members of the Filer Grange prepared and served the banquet.

NET SALES LISTED
RACINE, Wis. — J. I. Case company today reported fiscal 1968 net sales of $357.5 million for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31. Net earnings were reported at $3.6 million. Both sales and earnings were slightly above those of the comparable period in 1967. The 1968 figures are unaudited.

Millions Pumped Into Gem's Economy By Spud Processor

Potato processing poured more than $36,351,040 into Idaho's economy last year in the form of payroll, A. J. Evans Blackfoot, Potato Processors of Idaho President, reported today.

The payroll figure, from July 1, 1966, to June 30, 1967, represents an increase of $13,115,000 over the previous year. Also bolstering the state's economy were city, county, state and other within-Idaho taxes paid by potato processors amounting to $2,110,232, Mr. Evans revealed.

In releasing those figures, Mr. Evans pointed out that "as impressive as they are, payrolls and tax totals represent only a fraction of potato processing's total contribution to Idaho's economic welfare. He referred to a recent University of Washington study which showed that for every dollar input in agricultural production, an estimated $4.18 was realized from sales and that an additional $7.50 was earned if the foodstuffs were processed within the state.

"This indicates," Mr. Evans pointed out, "that for every dollar spent growing potatoes in Idaho, a huge $11.68 return is generated by processing them within the state."

"Since processed potatoes continue to enhance the total value and consumption of the Idaho potato, this high input-income ratio will become increasingly important to the Gem State, he said. "This has been the trend for the past several years. In 1958, only about 25 per cent of Idaho's potato crop was processed. This year the figure is expected to reach near 80 per cent," Mr. Evans said. Workers employed in Idaho potato processing industry totaled 6,935 during 1966-1967, a 2,193 increase over the previous year. Value of new construction in the industry amounted to $12,116,765 which is nearly double the investment in new construction of the previous year, Mr. Evans disclosed.

The PPI president also called attention to a recent University of Idaho survey which predicts that total farm receipts in Idaho will exceed $775 million by 1975 and that the area of greatest development will be in food processing. A conservative estimate, according to the survey, is for a "43 per cent" increase in food processing activity by 1975.

"In view of significant figures such as these," Mr. Evans concluded, "the public is becoming more and more aware that whatever keeps the state's potato processing industry flourishing, is vital not only to the immediate economy, but, in a very real sense, to the future of every Idahoan individually."

WATER POLLUTION is explained to delegates to the Idaho State Reclamation Association's annual convention by Douglas Finkelnburg, Jerome, chairman of the group's water pollution committee. Mr. Finkelnburg's report was one of several

Reclamation Group Adopts Resolutions Pertaining To Idaho's Water Resources

Several resolutions—ranging from watershed protection to the Salmon Falls Division, Oakley Fan and Malta Fan Projects—were adopted by the Idaho State Reclamation Association during the group's annual convention last week in Twin Falls.

The resolutions were submitted by John Rosholt, Twin Falls, the group's new director to the National Reclamation Association, and were adopted by the group in a few short minutes. Some of the current policy resolutions adopted include adequate water supply, watershed protection, irrigation, flood control and soil erosion, compliance by all federal agencies with state water laws, desert entries, ground water recharge and storage and opposition to diversion of Northwest River Basin water.

Other resolutions adopted asked the completion of the Salmon Falls Division, Oakley Fan and Malta Fan Projects, Lynn Crandall Dam, Southwest Idaho Water Development Project, Lower Teton Project and the Bear River Basin study.

Officers of the state group were re-elected during the directors' meeting, shortly after the general sessions concluded. Max Schlottman, Parma, was re-lected president, and Don Evans, Malad, was renamed vice president.

Mr. Rosholt was elected a national director after Tom Olmstead announced earlier during the convention that he was retiring after being a national director for the past three years.

William J.S. Holden, Idaho Falls, was re-elected a member to the National Reclamation Association's resolutions committee.

The 1969 convention of the state organization will be held in Boise.

Social Security Question Box

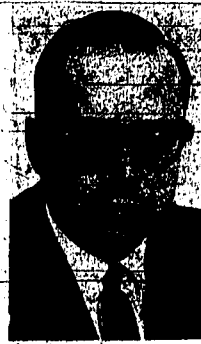

If you have any questions about your social security, address them to Jim Davis, Box 1239, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.

Q. — Do you have an agent come to Gooding? I would like to talk to him about my social security. I am 64 years old and will be 65 Jan. 25. Should I sign up now for Medicare or wait until Jan. 25?

A. — Yes, we do have an agent in Gooding on the Wednesday following the first Monday. He meets the public in the backroom of the City Hall from 9:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. We would advise you to sign up now for Medicare even though you won't be 65 until January. By signing up now, your Medicare will be effective with the month of January. This will also give us time to process your claim ahead of time.

Q. — I read in the Social Security Question Box recently about students benefits under social security. I am wondering now whether my son who is going to college, is unmarried, and under age 22 could qualify. He could certainly use the money.

A. — The answer in the Social Security Question Box you referred to was written to a person already receiving a child's benefit who wanted to know if his checks would stop now that he was 18. Our answer was that he could continue to receive a student's benefit as long as he was unmarried, under age 22, and attending school full-time. However, a person does have to qualify for child's benefits on the account of one of his par-

Baling Hay With 30% Moisture Said Possible

HOUSTON — Baling hay with 30 per cent moisture content is now possible, thanks to a chemical being tested by Texas A and M.

Farmer tests have shown that hay from grasses such as coastal Bermuda grass can be baled six hours after cutting, reports dairy scientist Dr. R. E. Leighton.

The chemical, a mixture of ordinary food preservatives, could prove to be a valuable haymaking aid during rainy spells, especially for the forage sorghums which take longer to dry.

New Changes Said Facing Farm Industry

BOISE (AP) — This nation's agriculture industry is facing new challenges, a Pacific area meeting of the National Association of Conservation Districts was told recently.

Agriculture has come into disrepute to many people, said Gordon K. Zimmerman of Washington, D. C., executive secretary of the national association.

As a result, he said, conservationists "must take steps to protect their interests."

"New concerns are producing new arrangements of priority, purpose and conduct," he said.

"Somehow we must be alert enough, keen enough and imaginative enough to make sure that care for natural resources is not lost but is included as an important part of new arrangements."

Tractors Built By IH Totaled

More than 4.4 million tractors have been put on the market by International Harvester since 1906. That's more tractors built by IH than any other firm in the world.

Included in the cumulative figures since then are 4,123,616 wheel tractors and 304,878 crawler tractors.

Not included in the total are 237,214 Cub Cadet lawn and garden tractors, which would put the total well over the 4½ million mark.

Production Up

BOISE (AP)—Milk production in Idaho during October was estimated at 114 million pounds, the Idaho Statistical Reporting Service said today. That compared with 111 million pounds in October, last year.

Common Market Plans To Cut Back Farms

WASHINGTON — The European council is looking at a plan to cut the number of farms in countries belonging to the Common Market.

According to Foreign Agriculture, small farms would be closed under the plan. Dairy farms would have between 40 and 80 cows under the plan.

The article said: "To accomplish this, the plan suggests grouping family farms into more rational production units or cooperatives where certain services and equipment could be pooled and production and marketing jointly organized to better use modern scientific and technical methods.

"The plan also calls for a reduction in the number of persons employed in agriculture to about eight per cent of the active labor force. Even though in recent years the farm labor force has fallen more rapidly than the numbers of farms, it still amounts to about 10 per cent in West Germany, 17 per cent in France, 24 per cent in Italy, and 12 per cent in Luxembourg."

The agriculture report discussed the chance of better corn and potato contracts for next year.

The committee on legislation and taxation indicated they would ask for a change in valuation of property and also to have the safety inspection of vehicles done away with or reduce the requirements for passing the inspection.

Mrs. Wall, Kimberly, Pomona lecturer, introduced a new visitation program in which three Granges will participate in each subordinate Grange meeting.

Various committees discussed plans for the 1969 State Grange meeting to be held in Twin Falls and National Grange which will be held in Boise in 1970.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Assendrup, Jerome, will be in charge of selecting the women and their alternates who will take part in the Rose Drill during the 1969 State Grange meeting. They will also direct the drill.

The Christmas program presented by members of the Murtaugh Grange included a tableau, "Silent Night," performed by Mrs. Norma Peterson, Mrs. and Mrs. James Kirkpatrick and Richard Carrier while Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Breeding sang. Gordon Graff played the piano and Mrs. Arthur Carrier was the reader.

Australia To Lift Embargo On Exporting Merino Rams

MELBOURNE — The Australian-Federal Government will make a recommendation to lift the 40-year-old embargo on the export of Merino rams.

This follows a decision by the Australian Wool Industry Conference at its meeting here on 29 which agreed by a 37 to 18 vote that the embargo on these world-famous animals should be lifted, subject to certain conditions.

The government had sought the views of the wool industry through the AWIC and had made it clear that it would be guided by the wishes of the woolgrowers.

Sir Ewan Waterman, chairman of the AWIC, said he believed the lifting of the embargo would help to improve the quality of wool in the world without detriment to the export of Australia's stud breeding industry.

"I feel the decision is a very great occasion for wool," he said.

The conditions agreed to by the AWIC for lifting the export ban were:

1. That Merino rams may be exported subject to their having been sold by public auction sales nominated by State associations which are members of the Australian Association of Stud Merino Breeders;
2. That Merino ewes not be exported;
3. That no Merino ram semen be exported;
4. That the conditions be reviewed annually;
5. That the export of rams be limited to 300 in the first year.

The AWIC had debated the issue at meetings over the past 18 months and had ordered a detailed study by the Australian Wool Board.

Dean Cell, recently associated with Magic Valley Growers at Curry, has been named the new manager of the Jerome unit, according to F. Todd Tremblay, general manager of both operations.

Call farmed actively in the Twin Falls area for several years prior to joining the newly formed Magic Valley Growers in 1966. He has been actively associated with the fertilizer and chemical part of the business at Curry since that time. He is an active member of Pacific Supply's Agricultural Advisory Council.

Tom McDonnell will continue to manage the Curry operation and coordinate with Cell on the overall service to farmers in the Magic Valley.

2 Japanese Men To Spend Year On Local Farms

Two Japanese young men will be learning the techniques of farming and ranching in the area while spending a year on two Twin Falls County farms. The two men are scheduled to arrive in Twin Falls Jan. 3.

John Leinen, manager of the Twin Falls office, Department of Employment, said the two Japanese men are part of the Japanese Agricultural Training Program, a work-study program where young farmers, ranging from 18 to 30 years of age come to the United States for a two-year period to receive institutional training and on-the-job training in practical aspects of agriculture.

The aim of this program, said Mr. Leinen, is for these men to learn the latest techniques of agriculture so they may pursue their agricultural careers in Japan.

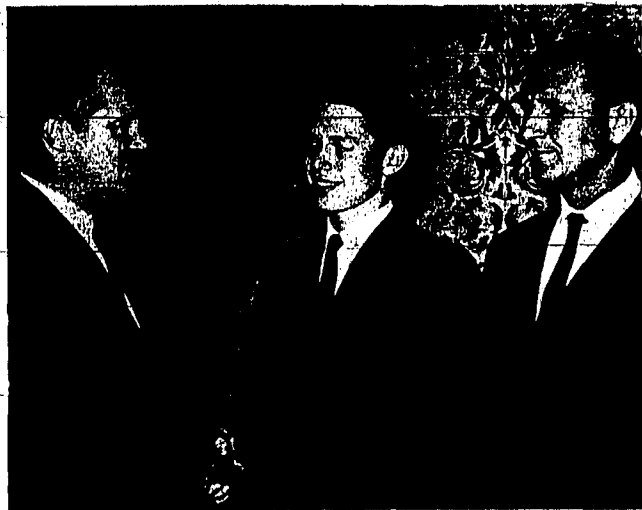

Mr. Leinen said that two local farmers, through the efforts of the local employment office, have agreed to host the two Japanese men.

Mr. Leinen said the two will receive a regular salary plus board and room while on the farms.

For the past year they have been studying the English language along with a brief introduction to American culture, history and agriculture at a college in Washington.

Following the training on the two local farms, they will again be enrolled for a three-month institutional training for additional instruction in this field including developing economies, livestock management, soil and crop management and farm machinery.

Mr. Leinen added that while on the host farms, the two Japanese men will be given the opportunity to participate in 4-H activities as well as other community activities.

His award was based on a nine-acre sweet corn project which returned a net profit of $1,175.60. Dr. Edwin A. Croshy, left, director of agriculture, National Canners Association, and John Baty, fieldman, Green Giant Co., Buhl, congratulate Southwick. Baty was the young farmer's project advisor in the NJHIA-NCA-sponsored contest.

Grain Cooking For Cattle Is Explained

Grain cooking for ruminant animals may be beneficial for both energy and nitrogen, it is indicated by the latest research, but "additional information on the proper utilization of cooked grains is needed to maximize their use."

Conversion of feed proteins to milk proteins.

"Feeding high levels of SCUP (starch-controlled urea product) did not cause toxic conditions and death which resulted from feeding similar levels of non-protein nitrogen." SCUP has "compared favorably to soyabean meal as a protein source and was more consumed in greater amounts than a supplement containing similar levels of non-protein nitrogen from urea."

C. W. Deyoe, professor of grain science and feed technology at Kansas State University, Manhattan, made this observation at the Winter Meeting of the American Society of Agricultural Engineers at the Sherman House in Chicago.

Promise Of The Prophets: No Quick, Prefabricated Paradise Came

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

The people, waiting for the dawn of an idyllic realm in which every detail goes right, found that to do so quickly or at once, it wasn't superfluous. Instead of perfect felicity, they met the whirlwind. It had human features. It bore their nature.

They confronted man's reality. And it swept on them in recurring gusts, like the swift, passing, hurried before the gale, like the intermittent rumbles before the mountain falls. "Come, thou longed-for one."

It was a far-removed prayer of those "unfulfilled" centuries preceding the birth of Jesus, murmuring beyond the borders of monotheistic Judaism, rustling in the pantheons of the clashing empires of Egypt, Persia, Syria, Greece and finally Rome.

The golden dream "pucked at mankind's heart."

"Behold, a man riding upon a red horse," "I see a flying scroll," "Behold a man with a measuring line in his hand."

The symbolic impressions tumbled from the prophet Zechariah about a child alluding to a hoped-for messiah.

"Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion, for lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of you, says the Lord."

A contemporary Jerusalem prophet, Haggai, solemnly intoned, "Behold, I am sending you the 'chosen one'—a soon banished princeling, Zerubbabel."

So the disappointments, the troubles came, piling on the ceaselessly hunted-about people, bareheaded, from Babylonian captivity, pitting them against doubt, poverty, plagues of locusts, false leaders, invasions, alien despotism and civil war.

Then came the abomination of abominations—the installing in the Temple of a "holy of holies" and the mythological Greek god Zeus.

Revolution, guerrilla warfare and reprisals in mass executions stalked the land. "No ruler but God," became the underground battle cry. Faces of the people found a wasteland, Jerusalem a fire-blackened rubble, heathen tribes wandering a ravaged province. Drought parched the field, withered the vines and left oil jars unfiled.

A pragmatic prophet, Haggai, roused the people to work to build the Lord's Temple as a prelude to divine kingship and plenty.

Zechariah also urged them on, and once again, cedar logs were floated from Lebanon to Joppa, brought overland by camels to Jerusalem, and carpentry and masonry hurriedly began. Zechariah, in a burst of exultation, wrote:

"Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion... Lo, your king comes to you; triumphant and victorious is He, humble and riding on an ass, on a colt the foal of an ass... and He shall command peace in the nations; His dominion shall be from sea to sea, and from the river to the ends of the earth."

It was on such a colt that Jesus made his entry into Jerusalem five centuries later.

Judea, as the province came to be called, now was controlled by the Persian Empire under Darius I. It held sway until 332 B.C.—for 200 years. Early in that period, its marauding armies crossed the area, looting, enroute to conquer Egypt. Other roving hands harassed the struggling Jewish state in its rehabilitation efforts, sometimes forcing laborers to keep a sword at hand, and infesting the country with cults to Ishtar, Tammuz, the sun and moon.

The Temple finally was restored in 516 B.C. The ensuing prophet, Malachi, of 450 B.C., worked to rectify worship, to reinforce "religious disciplines and ethical standards." But the face of hardship came apathy, disillusionment and skepticism, along with infiltrations of heathen religions, pagan intermarriage, adultery, perjury, victimizing of the poor, bored priests.

But Malachi saw revitalizing hope ahead.

"Behold, I send my messenger to prepare the way before me, and the Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to His Temple; the messenger of the covenant in whom you delight, He is coming... Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet before the great and terrible day of the Lord comes."

In the later time of John the Baptist, the desert herald of Christ was considered a return of Elijah.

But no quick, prefabricated paradise came. The adversities continued, including a sky-blackening plague of locusts; the king killed the prophet, John the Baptist, but it wasn't the first time such a thing had happened on the human scene, nor the last. "O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, Jesus later sorrowed over a city that symbolizes mankind's highest aspirations, 'killing the prophets and stoning those who are sent to you.'"

When he baptized Jesus, baptizing his ministry, a voice rang over the water. "Thou art My beloved Son; with Thee, I am well pleased."

"O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, Jesus later sorrowed over a city that symbolizes mankind's highest aspirations, 'killing the prophets and stoning those who are sent to you.'"

Such phenomena were reported on the day of Christ's crucifixion.

Persian domination collapsed in 333 B.C. before the world-conquering armies of Alexander the Great, spreading Hellenistic influences into the Holy City, public baths, gymnasiums, theaters and the galaxy of Greek gods.

At Alexander's early death, the Greek empire was divided between his generals, Seleucus of Syria and Ptolemy of Egypt. Judea, like a lamb between two lions, was brought under Egypt's control from 312 to 198 B.C. Then the Syrian Seleucid empire seized it after defeating the Egyptians.

In 168 B.C. the hated Syrian overlord Antiochus—who called himself Epiphanes—the "God manifest"—acted to stamp out Judaism's consecration to a universal God, outlawing its worship and commanding devotions to the Greek gods of Zeus, Ares and Aphrodite.

In the inner Temple court, Antiochus set up the figure of Zeus, and ordered all Judean villages to do likewise.

Revolution flared in 168 B.C. Judas Maccabbeus—the Hammer of the gathered guerrilla band, hiding, striking, again, it gradually wore down and in two years overcame the mighty legions of Syria.

The cleansing of the defiled Temple, and the rededication to God in 164 B.C. is celebrated annually by Judaism around Christmas time in Hanukkah, the "Festival of Lights," commemorating how Temple lamps burned for eight days on only enough oil for one.

For a century, independence was maintained, but only against constant strife and harassment by Syria, which gained control for a 10-year interlude and lost it, leaving the country in turmoil.

Prophecy had lapsed for four centuries, but the dream of a messiah grew stronger. In 63 B.C., Rome's conquering legions under Pompey seized Jerusalem, and Rome became the new master of Judea until it was destroyed in 70 A.D.

A Roman satrap, Herod the Great, a crafty, cruel man, was installed on the throne and, hearing reports of "Christ the King" born in Bethlehem, sent troops to wipe out all children there under 2.

"Prepare the way of the Lord, make His paths straight," cried the prophet John the Baptist, who had come striding out of the wilderness in camel-hair cloak and leather belt to preach on the banks of the Jordan River.

When he baptized Jesus, baptizing his ministry, a voice rang over the water. "Thou art My beloved Son; with Thee, I am well pleased."

Airline Lists $2.5 Million In Net Loss

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Air West officials, charging that the airline could be repaired without financial help from billionaire Howard Hughes, have announced third quarter net losses of nearly $2.5 million.

Installing Vice President Edmund Converse to replace Nick Bez as board chairman could save the airline without Hughes' $50 million offer, G. Robert Henry, president, told 25 Phoenix investment brokers.

Bez' resignation and his replacement by Converse would end a current management feud and thaw a loan frozen by the Bank of America, he added.

Henry and Converse said the airline also would have to make private placement of $5 million in debentures already approved to meet the firm's immediate financial needs.

An announcement released in San Francisco Wednesday showed the airline's third quarter net loss was equivalent to 66 cents a share on revenue of $17,540,432. In the last nine months, Hughes combined losses before merger—Air West lost $3,685,445, or 69 cents a share on revenues of $50,047,021.

The announcement, in Henry's name, said the airline temporarily will lease out three jets early next year as part of "strenuous efforts" to balance costs with revenues.

Air West stockholders are scheduled to meet Dec. 27 to consider a purchase offer from Hughes who has offered $22 a share in cash for Air West's stock.

The airline was formed last April in a merger of Pacific, Bonanza and West Coast airlines.

Henry said the airline could be operating in the black by the summer of 1969 if the proper steps were taken now.

Some 95 per cent of the stockholders believe approval of the Hughes offer would give them their money within a week or two, Henry said, adding it could take up to three years to complete final approval of the offer.

The Civil Aeronautics Board and the President must approve the proposal before it is final, Henry said. He explained that during the three-year period Hughes could withdraw the offer or the airline lose key people to more stable contracts.

Saying the airline has barely scratched the surface of its potential, Henry said the potential was worth well beyond the $22 a share offered by Hughes.

Kentucky Is No. 1 Small College Team

By The Associated Press

The contenders may find it real tough to move unbeaten Kentucky Wesleyan from the No. 1 spot in the Associated Press' small college basketball rankings.

The Panthers bowled over Arkansas State and Southwest Missouri State last week to fasten their record to 5-0 and solidify their grip on first place.

Last season, the Panthers finished second to Long Island U. in the poll and then climaxed the year by winning the NCAA's college division tournament. LIU now is listed with the major college teams.

Kentucky Wesleyan received 12 first place votes from a national panel of 14 sports writers and sportscasters and 268 points this week. Central Ohio State, 2-1, idle during the week, drew the other two first place votes and 200 points for second place.

Then, in order, came: 3, Trinity, Tex., 6-1, 184; 4, Ashland, Ohio, 4-0, 163; 5, Fairmont, W. Va., 6-0, 156; 6, Long Beach State, 3-1, 119; 7, Cheyney State, 3-0, 107; 8, Youngstown, 3-0, 64; 9, Stephen F. Austin, 6-1, 63; 10,

Browns To Be At Full Strength For Playoff Game With Dallas

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Cleveland Browns will be at full strength for their playoff game with Dallas Saturday at Municipal Stadium.

The Browns say Dallas is one of the toughest clubs in the league to defend, and apparently other teams learned the same lesson last year.

Owners Begin Quest For Commissioner

CHICAGO (AP) — Major League Club owners, who fired two of their best three commissioners, will meet Friday to begin the search for a new "baseball man" for the game's premier post at a reported $100,000 salary.

The hurry-up session comes exactly two weeks after the owner — prodded resignation of William D. Eckert as a much-criticized commissioner. He served only three years of a seven-year contract.

Mike Burke, president of the New York Yankees, has been the most publicized of a half dozen potential candidates for the job first filled by ruggledly independent Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis after baseball was rocked by the Black Sox scandal of 1919.

Landis was followed by A. B. Chandler, the Kentucky politician, who, like Eckert, was sacked by unhappy owners. Chandler was followed in 1951 by the only baseball-herp commissioner to dare Ford Frick, 17-year president of the National League.

Frick's replacement by retired Air Force General Eckert on Nov. 17, 1965, proved a mistake which Eckert conceded in his surprise resignation at the baseball winter meeting in San Francisco Dec. 6. Eckert told a news conference he was commissioner long enough to realize the job belonged to a knowledgeable baseball man.

Other potential candidates with considerable more baseball background than Burke include: Judge Robert Cannon on Milwaukee, affiliated with the former Milwaukee Braves and a former player counsel; Charles (Chub) Feeney, career executive with the San Francisco Giants; Joe Cronin, American League president; and general managers Lee MacPhail of the Yankees and Bing Devine of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Reportedly, the new commissioner will be offered a $100,000 a year salary, sharply below Frick's $65,000 salary, with a seven-year contract.

McCullough Is Rookie Of Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl McCullough, the Southern California hurdler who passed up the Olympics to play pro football for Detroit, has been voted offensive Rookie of the Year in the National Football League.

The speedy 5-foot-11, 172-pound flanker edged Terry Cole, Baltimore running back, in the balloting for the Associated Press of a 48-man panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

McCullough polled 14 votes and Cole drew 11. Tackle Cas Bunaszek, drafted by San Francisco in 1967 but inactive all last year because of a chronic ankle problem, received five votes.

2 Packers Hurt In Final Game

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Zeké Bratkowski suffered possible broken ribs and Travis Williams a back injury in the Green Bay Packers' National Football League finale in Chicago Sunday. Coach Phil Bengtson said Thursday.

Williams was in the game only for the opening kickoff. He received a fumble and was hurt while trying to recover the ball.

Bratkowski, who started at quarterback replacing the injured Bart Starr, was hurt when Chicago linebacker Jim Purnell hit him just as he passed to fullback Jim Grabowski.

'SURE' TRICKS FADE AWAY

In the team trials at Atlantic City every pair got to three no-trump with the North and South cards and four of them made the game. It really doesn't require much skill to get these the ace. Billy compromised by playing the queen.

South's next lead was dummy's queen of clubs. Billy won this trick and led a second heart to South's ace. South played the five of diamonds and Billy ducked this one.

What card would you play from dummy if you were South? You can see that the 10 is the winning card—but South—dummy play it. He decided that Bobby had tucked the first diamond with the ace. Therefore South called for dummy's eight. Bobby got a surprise trick with his nine and led his last heart to set up a tier for Billy. South had nothing better to do than set up his own tier in diamonds. This put Billy in with the ace. He cashed his little heart for the fourth defensive trick and led his singleton spade. South could only duck in dummy and Bobby's king of spades set the contract.

nine tricks. The ace and queen of diamonds, jack of clubs and king of spades are all placed where declarer wants them to be and there are nine tricks waiting, irrespective of which suit he works on.

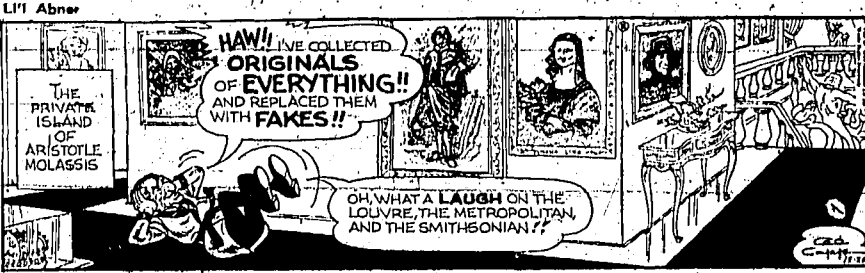

Nevertheless Billy Eisenberg and Bobby Goldman of Dallas managed to find a way to set three no-trump.

South won the heart lead with his queen and led the jack of diamonds. It would be silly to duck with Billy's holding and other West players went up with
