Soyuz 5 Challenge Of New Products Ends Trek Made At PCA Meet In Jerome To Space

By SARAH BEEM
Times-News Correspondent

JEROME — Farmers should be forming resource groups and roll with the punches in the new test products being developed, Mark Moorman, Murtagh, director of the 12th district farm credit board, told some 40 persons attending the 35th annual meeting of the Southern Idaho Production Credit Association Saturday.

"Recently I ate the white meat of a turkey, which later was identified as having been produced from soy beans," the speaker declared at the meeting in the Jerome High School gymnasium. Members attended from Blaine, Camas, Jerome, Gooding, Lincoln and Twin Falls counties.

Four directors were elected and two fiscal reports given in addition to speeches by Mr. Moorman and Carl H. Nieberg, president of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Spokane.

"I was told the five-day, four-man mission had opened the way for the creation of orbital manned stations for scientific and economic purposes."

A group of Soviet space scientists enthusiastically looked forward to construction of a fixed-position station platform 22,238 miles above the earth.

The linking of Soyuz 4 and 5 for more than four hours on Wednesday was the first time two manned spacecrafts had joined up in orbit, although American astronauts have docked a manned Gemini with an unmanned target vehicle several times.

The Soviet success came when Lt. Col. Vladimir Shatalov nudged a Gemini 4 gently to Soyuz 5 to create a four-compartment orbiting station.

Struggle Is Hinted In Campus Death

By United Press International

School and police authorities sought to learn Saturday if the slaying of two "Black Panthers" stemmed from a campus power struggle between the Panthers and other militant Negro groups at the University of California at Los Angeles.

John Huggins, 23, and Apprentice Carer, 26, both Black Panther members, were shot to death in an outdoor of garage which broke up a Friday night meeting in the UCLA cafeteria and sent its participants fleeing in panic.

Seventeen Black Panthers were arrested immediately after the killings. Some of them were armed, police said.

Los Angeles pulled away were investigating reports of a power feud between the Panthers and other Negro activist campus units. University officials said they also were checking to learn if the reports were valid.

The UCLA shootings came only hours after the Justice Department announced in Washington that it will examine student turmoil at college campuses in research on violence.

TWO 'YIPPIES' BEGIN setting up a tent on the Washington Monument grounds, to serve as headquarters for the National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam during the inauguration ceremonies. The "hippies" plan "counter-inauguration" activities to agitate trouble when more than 10,000 spectators descend on the National Capital. The demonstrators will march down Pennsylvania Avenue today. 'Mom' Mugged

WASHINGTON (UPI)—An 81-year-old "Mother of the Year" was mugged in the nation's capital, police reported Saturday.

Authorities said Mrs. Nellie Butler Deane, who was 1963 District of Columbia "American mother of the year," was thrown down a set of stairs Friday and robbed her handbag, containing $70.

She suffered a broken right leg and a broken hip and was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

A 17-year-old suspect was being questioned in the case.

Ted Shuns Threat Of Death

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., ignored a telephoned death threat Saturday to attend a Justice Department ceremony in honor of his assassinated brother, the late Robert F. Kennedy.

He drove from his nearby Virginia home, where police maintained a 24-hour vigil to see the unveiling of the bust in the courtyard of the department where his dead brother had served as attorney general.

A spokesman for Kennedy said the police action was "precaution" taken in any incidents of the kind.

However, police sources said the FBI views the threat as "serious" and an FBI request, Fairfax County police directed a patrol car to remain in the immediate area of senator's home until further notice.

The threat, an aide said, was made via a telephone call to Kennedy's office Friday afternoon. He was at home at the time.

The senator, in a tightly huddled lunch, cast doubt on the bust of his late brother which was presented by the Kennedy family.

The rain-soaked ceremony was held by Judge Justice Earl Warren, Attorney General Ramsey Clark, Attorney General designate John Mitchell, Under Secretary of State Nicholas de Krombach, World Bank President Robert S. McNamara and Ethel Kennedy, widow of Robert Kennedy.

Starving Pets Eat Bindings From Books

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI)—Police have ended the 30-day vigil of a German Shepherd named Shandy, who guarded the body of their dead mistress and survived by eating the bindings of books.

Police broke into the home of Mrs. Gwendolyn Schmidt, 56, Thursday and found she had been dead nearly a month. They found her two pets starving and near death in the house.

Coroner Raul W. Ulrich said the dog and cat had apparently joined forces in ferreting out food in the locked house.

"The dog must have knocked the book off the table to get drinking water," Ulrich said. "And the animals chewed the bindings of books to stay alive."

The coroner said nothing had been disturbed in the house except where the pets had searched for food.

Mrs. Schmidt was the widow of a former Colorado Springs physician.

Ulrich said the body, found partially clothed on a bed, had not been disturbed by the animals. The dog and cat were taken to an animal shelter and were expected to survive.

Disappearing Act

The first English colony in America was established in Roanoke, North Carolina in 1585. Its governor, John White, left for a short mission to England that year and was detained by the war, with Spain. He returned to find the colony had vanished. The word "CROCIAN" carved into a nearby tree. No one has ever discovered what happened to the 115 settlers. Some believe it is a mystery about what happened to the colony.

Mass Protest Slated Over Viet Conflict At Inauguration

By LOUIS CASSELS
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Americans of all sorts and of every aspect swarmed into the nation's capital Saturday to take part in three-day $2.7-million round of inaugural activities that will be climaxed Monday by the swearing-in of Richard M. Nixon as 37th President of the United States.

On hand for the third Republican inaugural in 40 years were famous governors and a host of notables, including bearded anti-war protesters and congressional medal of honor winners, cowboy actors and Indian princesses, astrologers just back from the moon and high school band musicians on their first trip away from home.

Some diverse cross-section of a humanity as ever-assembled-for-a single event.

Their motives for being here were as various as their backgrounds. Some came to celebrate a political victory, to honor a new president and vice president, to witness a solemn and peaceful transition of power. Others came to see and be seen, to spend small fortunes on gowns, hirsut, hotel rooms and tickets for events at which they might get a fleeting glimpse of "Dick and Pat" to talk about back home.

Some came to exploit the ample opportunities for champagne.

Television coverage of the inauguration of Richard M. Nixon will start on all networks at 8 a.m. Monday, Magic Valley time. It will continue throughout most of the day. The swearing-in will be at 10 a.m. Magic Valley time.

On the inauguration of Nixon, a presidential inaugural was confronted by a large-scale protest demonstration. The National Mobilization Committee to End the War in Vietnam, which organized the Democratic convention demonstrations in Chicago last summer, obtained permits for a "counter-inauguration parade" Sunday afternoon, to be followed Sunday night by a "counter-inaugural ball" in a big circus tent erected on the grounds of the Washington Monument.

Mobilization leaders predicted that up to 10,000 war protesters would take part. They said they hoped to avoid physical clashes with police, and were interested only in "demonstrating that America is still deeply divided by the Vietnam war."

Official inaugural activities started Saturday afternoon with a reception for distinguished ladies at the National Gallery of Art. Mrs. Nixon had twice before attended such receptions in the supporting role of wife of the vice president. This time she was the star attraction for the 11,000 Republican women who rated or wangled invitations.

The first lady, wearing a princess dress of sky blue silk and worsted, stood in the receiving line with her two daughters, Tricia and Newly-marrried Julie Nixon Eisenhower, former first lady Marymeline Eisenhower, Mrs. Spiro T. Agnew and the wives of incoming cabinet members.

The schedule, called for Mrs. Nixon to fly back to New York after the reception to join her husband, who elected to remain off-stage during the opening day of the inaugural festivities.

Partly because of inflation and partly because the Republicans were doing it up brown, Mrs. Nixon's inaugural weighed in as the most expensive in history with a total price tag estimated at $2.7 million. Congress's put up $400,000 of this to pay for the official swearing-in ceremony on the Capitol steps, beginning at 11:30 a.m. EST Monday. The rest of the cost was covered by sale of tickets to such events as the gala, the concert, and the inaugural parade down Pennsylvania Avenue starting at 2 p.m. Monday.

5,000 Troops Chase Reds

SAIGON (UPI)—A task force of 5,000 American and South Vietnamese troops sweeping the Batangan peninsula Saturday night pushed to the foot of two hills described as the operations center for hundred of Communist troops.

The "thickets" thrust deeper into the coastal area 316 miles northeast of Saigon near Quang Nhai City on the sixty day of an offensive designed to destroy what has been a Communist stronghold for 20 years.

'Churchgoing' Need Cited At Jaycee Prayer Breakfast

By O. A. (GUS) KELKER
Times-News Editor

The American home must again become the center of living and it will take the internal of the parents to get the job done.

This is one of the selected thoughts that Lloyd A. Hamilton, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, left with community business and professional leaders attending the Jaycee Prayer Breakfast held at the Holiday Inn Saturday morning.

The prayer session marked the start of Jaycee week in the community and the business leaders were guests of honor at the event which also featured a luncheon by members of the Twin Falls High School.

Madrigal Singers under the direction of Richard Smack, in his remarks, President Hamilton said that if a churchgoing is needed in a nation like this with the highest percentage of church membership in any nation on earth but with many churches empty each Sunday.

It is noted for this family together in said. He pointed out that "did not believe" that "our community is a spiritual wilderness" but added that a "church-going" is needed because the family is drifting.

"In some cases families are virtually strangers," President Hamilton added. Some of them "drifting" in the family could be stopped by firm action of the part of the parents in a return to the man of the house being the "head man."

The speaker called for two needs of the nation—and the community: (1) Become better acquainted with the Lord through prayer and more attention to family prayer.

And so far as prayer is concerned, the speaker declared that "prayer could solve a lot of problems."

Introduction at the session was by Douglas Volmer, Jaycee president, with William O. Lodge, Jaycee Club president, conducting the invocation—was by Steve Lund, a board member, and the Jaycee Creed was explained by the pastor, internal director of the local organization.

Vernon Three of the National Anthem was read by Victor Cygan, a member of the club, who also gave the benediction.

Problems Of Extension Funds Told

BOISE (Special to the Times-News)—Problems the Idaho Extension Service will face under the appropriation process in Gov. Don Samuelson's executive budget were explained to the House Agriculture Committee Friday.

James Krause, dean of the University of Idaho College of Agriculture, and Carol Youngstrom, associate director of the Idaho Extension Service told the committee a 14 per cent increase provided in the proposed budget, and said it is obvious they cannot get into any additional programs with this level of financing.

It would permit no salary adjustments, they declared, and in fact, the staff would have to be trimmed. A 23 per cent increase in the budget had been asked for.

Rep. Jack Callahan, chairman of the committee, said the legislators were told some of the research programs would have to be eliminated in order to allow the extension service to have funds to be converted to salary—wage with adjoining states.

In explaining the agency's requested increase, Dean Krause said projections on Idaho's agriculture show that by 1975 there will be gross farm receipts of three quarters of a billion dollars and that the state's per capita increase in food production has been projected.

Referring to problems in the county agent program, he blamed them mainly on misunderstanding and misquoting. Dean Krause said he blamed himself for some of the upward sounding differences over salary for county agents. In that he was at fault for not consulting with county commissioners to tell them what was going to be done, and why.

Contract Is Offered By Buhl Board

BUHL.—Rex Engekling, superintendent of Buhl school district 412, was offered a three year contract by the unanimous vote of the school trustees during the January meeting.

Trustees postponed action on salaries for principals and teachers pending action taken by the state legislature and determination of the amount of money available.

Engekling, 39, is principal of the school, including condition of the building, its inflexibility, its inadequate lighting, the limited space for dressing room, storage and library facilities and student grades.

Mr. Engekling announced that he will be resigning from his position as principal of Buhl school to accept a position as principal of the University of Idaho at Pullman.

He will be replaced by Mrs. Ray Gaudet, who is moving out of state. The board voted to continue the three per cent increase in fire insurance coverage on the school buildings. The annual increase is figured to cover rising building costs as far as replacement of the building is concerned. The practice has been followed annually since the construction of the new elementary school building.

Five student teachers from the University of Idaho will be practicing teaching at the Buhl High School during the second semester. They include Elizabeth McConnell, in U.S. history and English, with teachers Gary Matlock and Mrs. Jack Bialch, John Bielenburg, world history and U.S. History, with Rod Honhorst; Mrs. Eileen Scheidt, in English with Mrs. Gal Harpor; Bradford Herd, in government, with Jon Jund, and Mike Wasko in biology, with Henry Savage.

Unusual Programming Is Noted For Piano Concert

By MRS. TEALA BELLINI
The artist for the second Community Concert program Thursday night in the CSI Fine Arts Center was Ozar Marsh, renowned concert pianist.

Mr. Marsh, who is artist in residence at the University of Arizona, did not follow traditional programming, but opened his program with the sonnet and exciting "Funerailles" by Franz Liszt.

This was followed by the well-known "Fantasia" and not so well-known "Fugue in C Minor" by Bach. The last number in the first half of the concert was the beautiful "Fourth Ballade" Op. 27 by Chopin. This Ballade is much beloved by pianists and is considered not only the greatest of the ballades, but also one of the greatest of Chopin's compositions.

The second half of the program started with "Sonata" Op.

109 by Beethoven, played with deep feeling and majesty. The "Etude" by Mazkowski and the two études by Chopin, "Etude" Op. 10 (Black Key) and "Etude" Op. 25 (Butterfly) were beautifully played, showing sparkling technique.

The "Etude" by Godowsky who was noted for his sensational technique, combined the two Chopin études and was written to display the virtuosity of the performer. Mr. Marsh certainly displayed his virtuosity technique in fullest measure in this and the last number in the program, the "Islainey" by Blukirov. He gave a stirring performance of both of these.

The artist was enthusiastically acclaimed by the audience and played three encores, "Pastorale" by Scarlatti; "Etude" Op. 10 by Chopin; and "Hungarian Rhapsody" No. 10 by Liszt. This especially was given an exciting and scintillating performance.

Meet Set

A re-organizational meeting of the board of trustees of the College of Southern Idaho will be at 8 p. m. Monday at the administration building, 149 Third Ave. E.

No changes in members of the board were made during last December's election as two incumbent trustees ran unopposed. They were James H. Shields, Buhl, and Rev. John Garra-brand, Jerome.

Other members of the board are Eldon Evans, chairman, John Coleman, clerk, and Robert Blastock Jr., Filers. Rev. Garra-brand is vice chairman of the group.

The state of officers elected Monday will be the third in the college's history. Officers have been elected every two years.

WASHINGTON — A special Senate panel is proposing that men who flee from U.S. military service to asylum abroad be subject, on return, to punishment as deserters.
That is the legislative recommendation of the Armed Services subcommittee which has been studying Pentagon policies with respect to deserters.

inter-agency group, the Federal Radiation Council to adopt federal standards to determine the maximum exposure which could be tolerated by individuals exposed to nuclear radiation.
The committee held extensive hearings on the radiation perils of uranium miners in 1967. It urged quick action by the Radiation Council, but members complained that Wirtz had acted prematurely in setting light standards which were based on faulty analysis. Wirtz agreed, at that time, to hold off action under his standards, pending action by the Radiation Council.

Needed Tax Reform

The average income-earner is being jolted back to reality from his holiday euphoria these days by the arrival of that annual harbingers-of-gloom, the federal tax form.
Each year it gets bigger, if not in bulk at least in the amount of spendable cash it's calculated to extract from the taxpayer.

"The Next Generation Will Total It"

The House-Senate Atomic Energy Committee plans to look into federal standards for protection against radiation for the general public. It is reorganizing for the new Congress. Standards for uranium miners, recently promulgated by outgoing Labor Secretary William P. Bryant, will figure prominently in the inquiry.
For several years the congressional committee has been trying to get a bill adopted of broad radiation protection standards. The committee wants an

Welfare Rolls

We cannot continue to make loafing profitable. During this most prosperous era, our welfare rolls continue to increase at a faster rate than population.
Politicians, handing out more and more dollars in exchange for votes, already have destroyed the desire to work on the part of many Americans, and others are encouraged to join the 8.4 million Americans now on relief who are not working.
How are we going to provide for the genuinely deserving needy without creating a mushrooming army of parasites?
More importantly, perhaps, how are we going to subsidize more and more "dependents" without destroying the character of the American "spirit of independence"?
The Nixon Administration is comparatively free from the obligation of providing a minimum wage for the poor. He has a better opportunity than any President since F.D.R. to seek and find a proper alternative to the present jobless-demoralizing welfare system.

MR. SPECTATOR Lumbermen Have It

Everyone is getting into the act. Take the situation surrounding the inauguration of Richard M. Nixon on Monday in Washington, D.C.
During the past few days more than a score of states relating to the event—and each with an angle—have passed over the desk of Mr. Spectator. Most of them are interesting but end up in "File 19" with a lot of other stuff.
Saturday, however, upon opening the mail Mr. Spectator found one communication that was of different character. It was a plug for a certain product but it was clever and interesting at the same time. So Mr. Spectator read it through.
And after the reading, well, why not share it with other folks so here is a portion of the communication dreamed up by the people who write the publicity for the National Forest Products Association.
And in case you haven't yet caught on—this association plugs the use of lumber. So lumbering on, here we go with the excerpts.
WASHINGTON, D.C.—At the inauguration of Richard M. Nixon on Jan. 20, lumber and wood products will play major roles in setting the scene for the inaugural ceremonies. After the history-making events and pageantry of the day, the lumber and plywood, as the new Administration, will move forward to other endeavors.
Since the inaugural construction is temporary, most of the lumber and wood products will be salvaged and used for their brief stint in the day's historic events. The salvaged lumber is slated for permanent use in a housing project in Tennessee.
About 1.5 million board feet of lumber and nearly 300,000 square feet of plywood are being used in the inaugural platform erected in front of the White House. Temporary structures from which spectators will view the swearing-in ceremony and the traditional parade down the "Avenue of the Presidents," Pennsylvania Avenue, Al together, enough lumber is being used to build 150 houses of average size (about 10,000 board feet of lumber are required for an average house).
According to the National Forest Products Association, wood construction traditionally has set the stage for Presidential inaugurations since 1817 when President James Monroe took the oath of office on a wood platform erected in front of the temporary Capitol, which is now the site of the United States Supreme Court Building.
Andrew Jackson's inauguration in 1829 set the precedent for outdoor inaugurations on the East Portico of the Capitol. A wood platform was erected there for President Jackson's swearing-in ceremony. Since that time, most inaugurations have been held in front of the Capitol's stately East Portico, except when inclement weather forced the event indoors, and the platforms all have been built of wood.
Following tradition, President-elect Nixon will take the oath of office and deliver his inaugural ad

ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK Hickel And The Cram Course

WASHINGTON — Gov. Walter J. Hickel of Alaska has been the object of an unprecedented cram course in how to get confirmed by the Senate which may lead to a partial re-orientation of his career in conservation and water pollution.
Hickel, wholly a novice in Washington politics, has been taken in hand by two presidential elect-Nixon's top aides: White House counsel John Ehrlichman and cabinet secretary John Whitely.
The two top Republicans on the Senate Interior Committee, Gordon Allott of Colorado and Len Jordan of Idaho, have been taking Hickel through a Q-and-A session trying to anticipate questions from hostile committee Democrats.
Acting on direct orders of Mr. Nixon, Ehrlichman and Whitely have been carefully instructing Hickel that he must come out four-square in favor of conservation and control of water pollution—even at the cost of publicly denying what he has said previously. One strong possibility, a Hickel pledge to name a top conservationist to a high Interior Department post.
On Dec. 18, Hickel told the first press conference after his appointment that "a policy of conservation just for conservation purposes" would be wrong and he also said that water pollution policies do not constitute industrial development.
Those politically-ignorant remarks, coupled with Hickel's tendency to use the rhetoric of anti-conservationists such as the "inching up" of natural resources—have infuriated Democrats and embarrassed Republicans alike.
The Nixon problem is not that Hickel would be rejected by the Senate. He won't. What bothers the President-elect is that there must be a partial re-orientation of Hickel that he would start his new job with two strikes.
Hickel's "before his dramatic election as senate majority whip, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was mending his fences in the Democratic camp. He was the last man to support the labor movement. Shortly after the election, Kennedy invited several Democratic politicians to a "dinner" at his house in Virginia. The main topic of conversation was liquidation of the whipping "dent" left the campaign of Sen. Robert

ANDREW TULLY Cabot Lodge And The New Post

WASHINGTON — This is one straight from the Nixon camp and therefore, I suppose, is a neutral employer stuff. But it makes an interesting reading. It is a sense to meet conversationally in an discussion of Henry Cabot Lodge's appointment as our No. 1 negotiator at the Paris peace talks.
At any rate, the word from New York is that one of the reasons Lodge was picked for the job is that he built up a friendship with the Thieu-Kieu crowd during two terms as ambassador to South Vietnam, and thus can afford to get tough if his past engagement in any stalling tactics.
Lodge has enormous credit with the Saigon people," one source said. "If anybody can persuade them to cooperate in getting this thing off the ground, Cabot can."
Undoubtedly, this bit of low-down is the Nixon camp response to fears expressed in both Paris and Washington that the appointment of Lodge as negotiator was a mistake.
Lodge is too cozy with the Thieu-Kieu regime, Saigon's peace delegation. It is a well-known fact with the tact understanding it would get more support from old friend Lodge. It is also a well-known fact, however, that because the Saigon people trust Lodge they will be more likely to go along with any "concessions" that the Communists might offer.
There is also the political situation in the United States to be considered. Nixon and Lodge

System Of Punishing Criminals Just Isn't Working

By FRED DODDS
Times-News Staff Writer

Crime is on the increase in Twin Falls. The present system of punishing criminals is not working and the present method of operating jails and the penitentiary is part of the cause for this increase.

Twin Falls county processed 187 criminal cases in 1967, 150 in 1968.

These observations were made recently by James J. May, a Twin Falls attorney who has had experience both as a defender and a prosecutor.

He made the observations at the conclusion of seven months as Twin Falls County's public defense attorney.

Mr. May works with the law firm of May, May and Bennett. His father and Golden Bennett also work in a defense attorney's office during the past seven months.

Recently the law firm asked to be relieved of public defender duties because of the heavy case load. The request was approved by the Twin Falls County Commissioners.

In the future, defense cases will be spread among 40 Twin Falls county attorneys. Each attorney will be public defender for a week's time.

Mr. May, who took an in-depth look at crime in the area and in Idaho, came up with some recommendations on what to do, and also mentioned some of the background of justice in America.

He was Twin Falls County prosecutor for six years, public defender for seven months, along with his father and Mr. Bennett; and is active in several state and national legal associations.

During his time in office as defender, he helped represent defendants charged with 102 separate felony charges.

Of that number, the firm had the following types of crimes: four drunk driving cases; three cases of resisting an officer; five cases of grand larceny; four non-support cases; four cases of assault with a deadly weapon; one case of receiving stolen property and arson.

The U. S. Constitution protects the individuals rights, and it was designed that way to keep the United States from becoming like nations that existed in Europe when the Constitution was written. Mr. May said basic rights became widespread after the Civil War.

But it wasn't until 1960 that the U. S. Supreme Court started requiring states to comply with the Constitution and the amendments, particularly where the poor are concerned.

Mr. May said he is satisfied that the guilty will be punished as easily if prosecutors and police follow the law. He urged police never to use the laws to persecute or enforce civil obligations "unless there is a legal cause on a legitimate criminal charge."

Hitting hard at crime in Idaho, he said the penitentiaries in America give post-graduate courses to criminals. He said it is hard for a man to live a useful life once he has spent a term in prison.

"Many convicts come from homes and circumstances where they had little chance of success. They have no way of earning a living, legally. And society is doing very little to change their vicious circle of their life of crime."

It costs taxpayers $5 a day to maintain a person in a jail cell for a day in prison.

Mr. May said, "And yet these men will come out of prison one day and some of us will be the victims of their robberies, burglaries, bad checks and rapes. It's like the old story of keeping the ambulance at the bottom of the cliff rather than building a fence at the top."

He said it is cheaper to re-educate a criminal than to lock him away and turn into a mature criminal with a hatred for society.

"We need to be able to brainwash these people. Brainwash them into becoming good citizens."

He mentioned several ways Idaho could change the crime trend.

"Increase the pay for law enforcement officers and train them properly," he said, adding, "Many times the officer violates the Constitutional rights of the accused because of a lack of training."

He said law officers should be able to prove the guilt of a defendant without a confession.

"He also recommends the poor be provided with attorneys in misdemeanor cases.

Panel On Exceptional Child Slated Monday At Burley

BURLEY—The American Association of University Women chapter in Burley are sponsoring a panel discussion on the exceptional child at 8 p.m. Monday at the Burley Elks Lodge.

The meeting is open to the public and is an opportunity for the parents of children to hear the problems and take part in the question period.

Peter L. Keys, counselor Employment Analyst for Cassia and Mindoka County schools, will be the moderator for the panel.

Participants will be Ray Turner, director, Vocational Rehabilitation Service for Idaho; Dr. Ray Lehman, director, special education in Idaho; Pat

Young, supervisor of facilities and services, Vocational Rehabilitation Service; Dr. Elwin Burke, consultant of special education, and Robert Burton, administrator of Cassia and Mindoka Memorial Hospitals.

Each panel member will make a 15-minute presentation followed by a five minute question period. There will be a brief summation at the end of the meeting.

Dr. Burke will speak on public school responsibilities for the exceptional child as to education, evaluation, counseling, placement, motivation and follow-up.

Dr. Lehman will discuss current programs and future trends for the exceptional child nationwide, regionally, state and local.

Young will speak on vocational rehabilitation and the exceptional child as current programs for the mentally retarded and summarize the effectiveness of these programs.

Mr. Turner will discuss future trends and programs for the exceptional child dealing with special education on vocational entrapment for the mentally retarded and integration of the mentally retarded into normal community life.

Mr. Barton will speak on the mental health program in the Mini-Cassia area dealing with current status, future plans and public education.

All concerned citizens of the Mini-Cassia area are urged to attend the panel discussion and the presentation on the exceptional child problems, states Mrs. Corinne Ellingham, president of the American Association of University Women.

Elwood Wing Heads Club At Castelford

CASTLEFORD—Elwood Wing was installed as president of the Men's Club, at the annual Men's Club banquet at the Methodist church, fellowship hall.

Outgoing president, James LaGrone, also installed John Darwin, vice-president; Charles C. A. secretary; treasurer, and Robert Kinyon to the post of head usher.

Keynote speaker for the annual event was Dr. James Taylor, president of the College of Southern Idaho, who spoke in the progress of the junior college.

The invocation was given by the Rev. R. S. North of Castleford. Mr. LaGrone served as master of ceremonies and introduced several guests including Mrs. Malinda Hesselholt, Mrs. Ruth Shields, Mrs. Oona Sample, Mrs. Hazel Brabb, Mrs. Anna Holesinsky, Mrs. Laura Heller, Mrs. Vera Eastwood, and Mrs. Frank Wells, and Mr. and Mrs. John Enns and Rev. and Mrs. North, as well as several club businessmen and their wives.

Nancy Wheeler sang a solo accompanied by Vicki Inchausti.

The Castelford sextet composed of Vicki Bybee, Sheila Buschel, Jan Quigley, Elvira Kennedy and Linda Sevan, sang a number accompanied by Vicki Inchausti on the piano.

Renn LaGrone played the background music during the banquet.

The dinner was prepared by the Castelford WACS under the supervision of Mrs. The Wasko. Mrs. George Blick and Mrs. Loren Herzinger and served by several Castelford High School girls.

Shortage Of Blood Termed Not Critical

A shortage of blood is still evident in Magic Valley, but the need is not nearly so critical as two weeks ago, Dr. B. N. Carl, a pathologist at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital, said Friday.

The pathologist noted that although the situation was much improved, there still isn't much blood on hand as it sometimes needed. A nation-wide shortage followed the outbreak of Hong Kong flu.

"Walking donors are still being used in some local cases, he said. Dr. Carl noted that the shortage is not just local, but is widespread throughout Idaho.

He noted it was gratifying that donors topped the blood quota in a local drawing Jan. 6, emphasizing that people can be counted on in a time of need.

The 150-gallon quota was exceeded by 45 pints. The drawing was held during that same period when the blood situation was at a critical point both locally and nationally.

Dr. Carl noted that circumstances during the local shortage have been extremely fortunate. No serious emergencies have been encountered where patients in immediate need of blood have had to wait for a walking donor to be located.

New Books Received At Richfield

RICHFIELD—New books at the Richfield library include two re-bound editions especially good for Idaho history, studies, "Ed-dah-how" by Tracy Coker, and "The White Indian Boy" by F. N. Wilson and Howard R. Driggs.

A message from our leader

The greedy giants call him the Stinker. Undoubtedly, the name is well chosen because he is, and he's proud of it. But not because he's bad for you but because you see, he's bad for them and that's good for you.

Our leader for instance gets a kick out of telling you how the 'big boys' go on and on and on with their special 'XYZ' additives and mileage booster claims. Baloney!

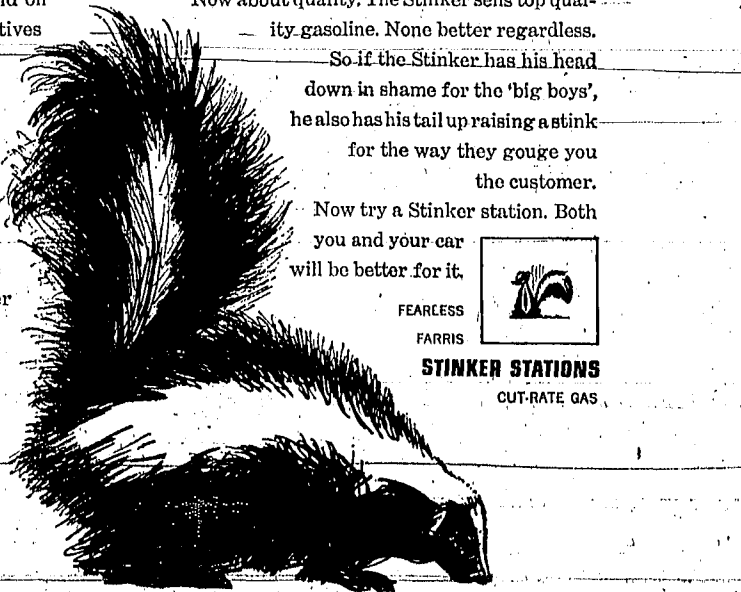

He also describes the out-of-state companies as inter-lopers, exploiters, non-tax payers and makers of non-win games. The Stinker deplors their tactics. He doesn't promise free trips to the moon or to Russia either. The Stinker does sell you top quality gasoline at cut-rate prices. Maybe part of the reason he can do this is that he doesn't have to worry about oil interests in the middle East.

The Stinker passes on even greater savings to you at his self-serv stations. He guarantees you more mileage for your gasoline dollar.

Now about quality. The Stinker sells top quality gasoline. None better regardless.

So if the Stinker has his head down in shame for the 'big boys', he also has his tail up raising a stink for the way they gouge you the customer. Now try a Stinker station. Both you and your car will be better for it.

Putting you first, keeps us first. '69 Impala Custom Coupe

Start with an Impala Custom Coupe. Add our Turbo Hydra-matic transmission, a 300-hp V8, power disc brakes, whitewalls and wheel covers. And it will cost less than a '69 Impala full with comparable equipment. $101.00* less.

For more cars, too. A '69 often better. Looks better. Protects better with its new "guard rails" in every door.

The value goes up. The price comes down. You know, if we were the competition, we'd never allow us up for the showdown.

*Based on manufacturer's suggested retail price, including federal excise tax and suggested dealer prep and preparation charge.

Value Showdown:
$101.00 less than last year's Impala with comparable equipment.

Tim Qualls To Attend FBI School

Chief of Police Frank Barnett announced Friday that wprd has been received from John W. Burns, special agent in charge, Idaho-Montana Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, that Tim Qualls, a lieutenant in the Twin Falls Police Department, has been designated to attend an advanced identification and fingerprint school in Washington, D.C.

This school will be attended by 40 of the nation's identification officers who are presently active in law enforcement.

It is sponsored and financed by the FBI.

The school will be broken down into two separate sessions of one week each and 20 officers will attend each session.

Lt. Qualls has been designated to attend the second session, beginning Feb. 3, according to Chief Barnett. He is also the only officer selected by the FBI to attend this school from the states of Idaho and Montana.

Chief Barnett states that Lt. Qualls has been active in law enforcement since 1949 and has 18 years experience with the Twin Falls Police Department and is also president of the Idaho Law Enforcement Association of Identification Officers.

Winners Are Listed For Burley Club

BURLEY — Mrs. Lurle McCullison was table topic winner and Mrs. Ray Gullies was blue pencil winner during the Burley Toastmistress Club meeting in the conference room of Idaho Bank and Trust.

Table topics were directed by Mrs. T. Wayne Woodard using the general theme of the evening, "Finest Gift."

Other speakers besides Mrs. Gullies was Mrs. Spencer Black who spoke on "Paralytic Period Worth." Mrs. Olin Baker and Mrs. Freida Manning were evaluators for the speeches, and Mrs. McCullison was toastmistress.

Mrs. Manning was toastmistress and general evaluation was round table discussion.

GETS ALL A's

GIENS FERRY — Janet Walker, sophomore at Boise State College, had a straight "A" average in the fall semester. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. Bill Walker.

REV. HOWARD LARSON ... Kimberly will be speaking at the First Christian Church in Gooding, Sunday through Friday. Meetings will be at 8 p.m. each night. His theme will be "Behold, I Make All Things New." The well-known "King" Harvesters will play each night. The public is invited.

New Trustee Is Appointed At Gooding

GOODING — Rodney Glauner has been appointed as a new member of the board of trustees of Gooding School District.

His appointment results from the resignation of John Varin, who quit for business reasons.

Mr. Glauner will serve until the next regular election in the spring.

Trustees directed the contracts of Louis Darvick, principal of Eugene Junior High School, and Frahm Gibbons, principal of the elementary school.

Veterans May Be In For Jolt On Income Returns

BOISE — Veterans and widows on the Veterans Administration's pension rolls may be in for a financial jolt if they have failed to return their annual income questionnaire to the VA. It was reported Tuesday.

M. W. Allen, director of the Boise-VA center, said the deadline for returning the questionnaire was last Wednesday.

The law requires those who get pensions to file annual reports on income so that amount of the pension can be determined, he said.

About 4,500 Idaho pensioners have not returned the questionnaires, he said. If not the VA receives 1969 income estimates from these people, pension benefits cannot be determined and they will not be paid, he said.

There's One Bet That's A Good One—It's The Phone

Twin Falls has something in common with the foreign countries of Paraguay, Mongolia, Libya and Guam and residents over have something better than that is found in the world capitals of Paris, London and Rome. That's telephone service, according to K. G. Mann, district manager of the Mountain States Telephone Co. in Twin Falls.

Twin Falls has about the same number of telephones as the four countries mentioned. And Twin Falls can't issue permits, regulate trade or fly its own flag.

And there are 53.8 telephones for every 100 Twin Falls residents. This beats the proportion in Paris, London and Rome, Mr. Mann said.

The busiest telephone city in the United States is Washington, D.C., with 95.6 telephones per 100 residents. San Francisco comes in third with 82.9. The highest outside the United States is Stockholm, Sweden, where there is an 80.7 percentage figure.

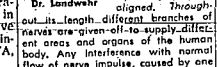

Low on the talent pole is Diyarbakir, Indonesia, with 0.7 telephones per 100 residents service a population of more than four million.

Mr. Mann said 14 million telephones were added throughout the world in 1967, bringing the modern-day total to a whopping 222 million phones at the start of 1968.

He said the figures are about a year-late because it takes that long to gather statistics throughout the world.

Your Spine and Your Health

By Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, D.C.

Brain and spinal cord form the central nervous system which acts as switchboard in the complicated human system. The spinal cord is contained in a canal which is formed by the vertebrae of the neck, properly aligned, throughout its length. Different branches of nerves are given off to supply different areas and organs of the human body. Any interference with normal flow of nerve impulses, caused by one or more abnormally aligned vertebrae, may weaken that specific area or organ and make it susceptible to disease or cause improper functioning, pain and spasms.

It is with chiropractic adjustments that improper alignment of the spinal segments can be corrected and normal nerve impulses transmission restored.

One of a series of articles published in the public interest to explain and illustrate the practice of scientific chiropractic written by Dr. Ludwig C. Landwehr, whose office is located at 212 Main Ave. W., Twin Falls, Tel. 733-0322.

Church Elects

James C. Reynolds has been elected chairman of the official board of the First Christian church.

Richard Wheeler is vice chairman; Dale Bowman, secretary; Ralph Bogar, treasurer; John Koonce, financial secretary; John Parish, church clerk; Monroe Hays, Sunday school superintendent; Vern J. Davidson, institutional representative.

All church committees will be appointed by the end of the month.

Mr. Mann said 31 countries have more than 500,000 phones, with the newcomers being Colombia and Yugoslavia.

He said the United States has five and a half times as many telephones as Japan. Japan is the second highest in the ranking of countries.

Canada averages 667.7 conversations per person per year, compared with 667.0 for the United States.

Mr. Mann said United States callers use long distance more than callers in any other country. West Germany ranks second with more than two billion long distance calls in 1966, he said.

ELMORE COUNTY
Glenns Ferry Justice Court
Kent Giles, 35, Glenns Ferry, $50, with $25 suspended, for shooting from a public road.

MINIDOKA COUNTY
Probate Judge
Two Rupert men were ordered to leave Minidoka County and the state Wednesday morning after pleading guilty to a charge of petit larceny in connection with a Sunday night break-in at the home of Mrs. Wynoka Bennett, Minidoka.
Bill Hilton, 34, and Dennis Springston, 19, both Rupert, were arraigned Monday night by Minidoka County Sheriff's officers on a felony charge of burglary after items identified as those taken from the Bennett home were found in their possession.
The pair was arraigned Tuesday and bond was set at $500 each. They remained in the county jail in lieu of posting the bond.
Wednesday, at the request of the prosecuting attorney Don Chahamin, the charge was reduced to the pleaded guilty before Judge LeRoy Blacker. He sentenced the pair to 60 days in jail and suspended the sentence pending the two men's arrival in county Thursday night. The men were also ordered to leave

One of the trucks, scheduled as Part B, departs now from Twin Falls at 5:45 a.m., arrives at Shoshone at 6:25 a.m., departs from Shoshone at 6:30 a.m. and goes to Richfield, Carey and Picabo via U. S. 83 alternate.
This truck returns the same route, leaves Shoshone at 5:15 p.m. for Twin Falls with all available mail accumulated during the day at Shoshone post office. E. R. Worry, postmaster, suggests patrons mail early to meet the dispatch.
The other truck scheduled will also depart from Twin Falls at 6 a.m. bringing all mail available at that time to Shoshone and arriving at 6:40 a.m.
This truck will carry mail to Bellevue via Highway 83 arriving at Sun Valley at 8:15 a.m. This truck will wait at Sun Valley until 5 p.m. and pick up mail at all the offices on the route arriving at Shoshone at 7:10 p.m. All residue mail will be dispatched on this trip arriving at Twin Falls at 7:50 p.m.
Shoshone will continue to receive mail by Wycoff truck at 3:10 a.m. from Twin Falls and now with two other trucks originating at Twin Falls mail from Shoshone and Wood River post offices, all mail should be delivered without delay. Sunday and holiday schedules, however, are unchanged.
Mail will have to be at the post office no later than 5:40 p.m. on the day of dispatch on the day of deposit for points East and West.

House On Elm Street Damaged By Small Fire
Units from the Twin Falls Fire Department Friday night extinguished a blaze in a frame home at 132 Elm St., Twin Falls.
Fire damage was confined to the front room of the home. The blaze was reported by neighbors at 8 p.m. The occupants of the house, Pat Knauss and family, were not at home when the fire occurred, neighbors said.
The fire was extinguished within four or five minutes after the first fire trucks arrived, reported Fire Department Lt. Ward Freeman. The front room of the home and its furnishings were extensively damaged but no structural damage to house was apparent, he said.
Fire Department Captain Francis Horaja was injured while fighting the fire. A piece of falling glass landed in his boot. He was cut on the leg above the ankle and returned to the firehouse after the blaze was under control. Lt. Freeman stated.
Neighbors said that the owner of the home is Leroy Webb, Twin Falls.

Monte Carlo Rally Is Going Well

MONTE CARLO (UPI) — Officials said Saturday that the 38th Monte Carlo Rally was progressing like a "Sunday drive" with most of the field of 196 still in the running.

At 7:30 a.m. local time, nearly 24 hours after having started from eight European cities on the dash to this sunny Mediterranean city, there were 192 vehicles left in the grueling 2,200-mile race.

Only one of the four dropouts in the race so far had been caused by an accident and officials at rally headquarters said the two drivers, both from Monaco, escaping when their Alpine Renault hit a tree.

The other dropouts were reported due to technical failures, they included one from Frankfurt, Monte Carlo and the French City of Rheims.

Weather reports from across Europe reaching rally headquarters here were generally favorable. From the north to the south of Europe, rain was the only adverse factor.

Scandinavian drivers were considered by officials as the ones most likely to lose out from good weather.

It was explained that Scandinavian drivers, who have dominated the rally in recent years, were the most expert in Europe in dealing through winter conditions.

UCLA Belts Houston By 100-64

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA, playing much of the way without ailing Lew Alcindor, mounted an impressive second half assault Saturday night to demolish Houston 100-64 for the Bruins' 28th straight victory.

It was the 17th win in the last 76 games for UCLA, which has a 47-game winning streak broken by the Cougars in the Astrodome at Houston last Saturday.

Alcindor, recovering from a sore throat, at first believed to be the flu, played only 17 minutes and scored but eight points—his UCLA career low.

UCLA, which shot only 38 percent from the floor in the first half and led only 36-20 at the intermission, outscored the Cougars 27-8 in the first nine minutes of the second half.

The Bruin assault was led by guards John Valley and Bill Sweek with 18 and 15 points, respectively. Sophomore forward Curtis Rowe had 14 for the winners.

High point man for Houston was Olympic Games standout Ken Spain with 15. Veteran Cougar forward Theodis Lee added 12.

The game drew a record standing room only crowd of 22,636 fans at the Astrodome as the Bruins have yet to lose in 45 games.

The defeat left Houston with a 10-7 record.

Jerome Dumps Buhl Indians By 66-45

JEROME — Jerome got back on the winning track Saturday night, using the strong second half shooting of Dennis Capps to post a 66-45 victory over the Buhl Indians.

Buhl had led the Tigers at the end of the first quarter, but fell behind by three at the half.

Capps started his barrage right after intermission, hitting 11 of 19 shots, including a half-court shot of Dennis Capps to post a 66-45 victory over the Buhl Indians.

Buhl Jones and Wells were the only offensive spark for the cold Indians in the second half.

Buhl took the preliminary.

Wendell Tops Shoshone By 73-52

SHOSHONE — Wendell had his hand full for almost three quarters against the scrappy Shoshone Indians in Saturday night, but exploded for 24 points in the final stanza to wrap up a 73-52 victory.

Wendell, who led the Indians, paced the Wendell attack, hitting for 20 points combined, and Shoshone's John Frenchie hit the way for the Indians.

The Indians' best quarter was the first, as they only lost 16-16, but the strong rebounding by the Trojans combined with the outside shooting blitz pulled Wendell steadily away.

Wendell took the preliminary.

Schranz Is Given Win 2 Hours Late

KITZBUHEL, Austria (UPI) — Karl Schranz of Austria, who appeared to be beaten in the Hahnenkamm downhill ski race Saturday, was awarded the victory two hours later when it was discovered that an electronic timing device used at the finish line had recorded the wrong time on his run.

The 39-year-old Schranz, who was involved in a controversial special slalom race at the Olympic Games in Chamrousse, France, last year, thought he had been beaten by Jean-Daniel Destuyver of Switzerland in Saturday's downhill after clocking a mediocre 2:20.01 down the 3.810-meter course.

But, the Austrian team leader's lodged protest when it was discovered that the times kept by television and hand timekeepers differed by almost two minutes from the time recorded by the official electronic device at the finish line.

Both the TV timer and the hand timekeepers had recorded a run of 2:18.80 for Schranz, compared to 2:19 for Destuyver. The investigation discovered that the electronic device, which was being monitored by a Swiss, had broken down but had not been reported.

Schranz then was officially awarded the victory which was his second within a week on the alpine circuit. The veteran skier won the World Cup ratings with 110 points.

Team officials and jury members described the negligent act of the official time keeper as "outraged, and both Destuyver and Swiss coach U. Weber went along with the judges' decision.

"It is unbelievable that this could happen. The team should have told the jury immediately that the electronic time keeping was not working. We accept the course and the defeat," said Weber.

"Karl was the fastest on the course and therefore it is only right that he deserves to win," said Destuyver.

Schranz at first refused to accept the fact that the clock had recorded his time wrong since he did not think he had turned in a strong run, but later he accepted it without jubilation.

"Well, if it is so, then I deserved to win," he said.

Kentucky Bombs Houston 112-102

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (UPI) — Rookie center Gene Moore poured in a career high 29 points Saturday night to pace the Kentucky Colonels to a 112-102 American Basketball Association victory over the Houston Mavericks.

Kentucky led by a commanding margin through most of the first two periods and took a 50-44 lead in the dressing room.

But Willie Somerset, who tossed in 19 points, sparked a charge by the Mavericks in the third period. He tied it up at 70-70 and then gave Houston a 72-70 lead on consecutive layups with a little over two minutes left in the quarter.

ISU Takes Loop Cage Series From Montana

POCATELLO (UPI) — Lane Moore and Guard Harold Ross Broyles scored 22 points to lead the Grizzlies with 19 points in their second Big Sky Conference victory with the Idaho State University hosts over Montana in Pocatello Saturday night.

Montana's Big Sky conference record is now 2-3. ISU broke to an early ten-point lead on the strength of excellent shooting and floor play of guards O'Neil Simmons and Tom Magr. And he held that margin for the rest of the contest. The closest Grizzlies came was seven points down late in the game.

Backing Broyles in the scoring department were Simmons with 14 and center Mike Grunell with 13. Grunell's 10 rebounds led the Grizzlies who had a 51-41 edge over Montana in that department. Forward Ron

Houston ABA Mavericks Are Sold

ROCKY MOUNT, N. C. (UPI) — Former congressman Jim Gardner of North Carolina announced formally Saturday that he would sell the Houston Mavericks of the American Basketball Association.

Gardner, president of the Southern Sports Co. which purchased the team, said the franchise would come under new ownership next Thursday.

Weighted by the price paid for the team, it has been reported the sale involved $650,000. Gardner said the team would remain in Houston for the remainder of this season.

However, there has been considerable speculation that he would move the last place Mavericks to the Greensboro Charlotte area in North Carolina next season.

The Greensboro Coliseum seats 8,500 persons, but Gate City voters have approved a bond issue which will expand the facility seating capacity to 15,000. The Charlotte Coliseum seats 11,000.

EDEN—Glenns Ferry finished a very successful weekend Saturday night, dumping the Valley Vikings 51-44 as three men hit double figures.

Friday night the Pilots stunned the Wood River Wolverines at the time the only undefeated team in Magic Valley.

Carpenter, Christenson, and Gertsch provided the scoring for the Glenns Ferry squad, who survived an opening flurry by Valley's Don Meyer to take a 24-19 first quarter lead.

Christenson controlled the boards the rest of the way, and the Pilots wrapped it up in the third quarter, piling up a ten-point advantage.

Valley took the preliminary 46-39.

Jim Stauffer and Jeff Williams led the Tiger's offensive efforts, but neither could score consistently. At times the Tigers moved the ball well in the face of the stiff 1-3-1 zone, but at other times turnovers proved costly.

Twin Falls picked off nearly 20 errant passes in the course of the game, nearly all of which cashing in either with a bucket or a trip to the foul line.

Oakley Has 66-50 Win Over Trojans

OAKLEY—The surging Oakley Hornets dumped the Raft River Trojans 66-50 Friday night, dominating the boards with the help of Doug Craner, who hit the nets for 27 points.

Smaller Raft River's Kevin Darrington had a fine night with 20 points, and kept the Trojans in the game until the late stages of the final quarter, where the Hornets opened up a lead of 16 points. Oakley also took the preliminary.

St. John's Tops West Virginia

NEW YORK (UPI)—Eight-ranked St. John's, employing its aggressive man-to-man defense to perfection, held West Virginia to its lowest halftime point total in 10 years Saturday and went on to score a crushing 91-62 victory in a regionally televised contest.

The Redmen, whose tenacious defense sparked upset of second-ranked North Carolina and fourth-ranked Davidson earlier this season, limited the Mountaineers to only seven field goals in 23 attempts in the first half and coasted to a 45-17 lead at intermission.

Coach Lou Carnesecca of St. John's took mercy on the outclassed Mountaineers in the second half and played his reserves a good portion of the time, but even then West Virginia failed to make up any ground.

Rose Wins Tris Speaker Award

HOUSTON (UPI)—Dale Rose, the Cincinnati Reds' right fielder, has won the Tris Speaker award as the No. 1 major league baseball player last season, the Houston Chapter of the Baseball Writers Association of America announced Saturday night.

Rose, the top hitter in the majors last season, with a .335 average, will be honored Jan. 31 at the annual baseball dinner.

Minico Rallies In Last Half To Top Burley 52-44

BURLEY—The Minico Spartans turned to a second-half surge to win 52-44 over Burley in an effort to find an outside shooter.

Coach Ron Budge sent his 6-8 star, Greg Bunn, to try some long shots but he couldn't find the range. Bunn wound up with 26 points, however, while 6-3 Jim Boatwright canned 23 in the battle of big men.

Minico handily won the preliminary.

The Easiest Place in the World to Buy a Car

HAND MADE OR FINE machine produced bits painted and hung up to dry are part of a collection of 75 to 100 in the unusual display that has been shown by I. T. Creed in several area fairs. The bits may be among displays in the Twin Falls Historical Society's new museum that is now being readied in the old Union School west of Twin Falls.

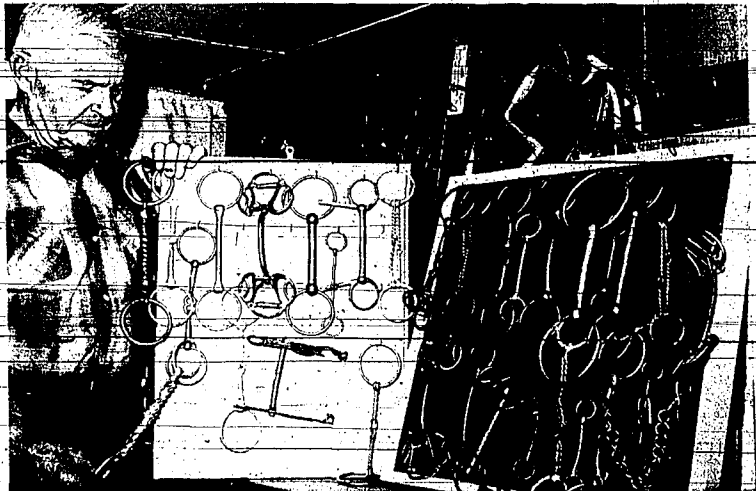

Collector Preserves Interest In Era Of Horse Drawn Vehicles By Display Of Old, Rare Bits

When horsepower provided the main "pull" in the local transportation scene dozens of types of bits could be purchased at the town hardware-store-or-harness-shop.

Now only the horse fancier will buy an occasional bit for his riding horse or possibly for his fine harness show animal. Just for those who might like to look back on the old days when every family in the area had driving horses, riding horses and if they farmed, a sizable number of "work" horses, I. T. "Pete" Creed has made a collection of various types of bits. Many of these, probably more than 100 years old, have been picked up in junk shops, at farm sales or from "old timers" he knows in Idaho and Missouri.

One of the large heavy bits in the collection came from the vicinity of the Three Island Crossing of the Old Oregon Trail near Glens Ferry, Mr. Creed said he found the bit lying on some rocks near the crossing where early pioneers camped and crossed the Snake River. Whether it was left there by a wagon train or was abandoned later is an unanswered question, but judging from its size, it must have been used for horses pulling a heavy load.

Some of the bits in Mr. Creed's collection are hand made and some show that horses were often treated very cruelly by their owners or trainers. One bit, Mr. Creed notes, is made of "bicycle" chain which has a saw-tooth edge and could cut a horse's mouth apart if sawed back and forth. The bit is sufficiently long to permit such sawing action. "Any man who would put something like that in a horse's mouth should have a bicycle chain used on him," commented Mr. Creed in explaining the use of some of the unusual bits.

TWO MOUNTED DISPLAYS of old bits used for bridles on riding and driving horses are shown here by I. T. "Pete" Creed who collects just about everything. The collection of bits was gathered over a period of many years and only recently was separated from the many other relics and antiques in the Creed basement. Many are hand made and some would fit only a draft horse while others are for mules, riding horses, or small ponies.

A collector of almost all types of antiques, Mr. Creed said his collection of various types of bridle bits began when he noticed he had acquired a large number of them and decided it was time they were combined and when in the horse's mouth will bend at the center joint bringing pressure on the roof of the horse's mouth. A number of these, including several made ones are in the collection of Mr. Creed.

Some of the bits are large, slightly curved and extremely heavy. They were used for heavy draft horses and used for driving ponies. Many of the home made bits show individual ingenuity such as those made of a small section of chain with rings that are oversized. Others are made of strands of heavy wire woven together to form sharp grooves that would cause even the most "hard mouthed" horse to slow down.

Others in the collection are the old Spanish type bits or those with ornate rings through which the reins were attached.

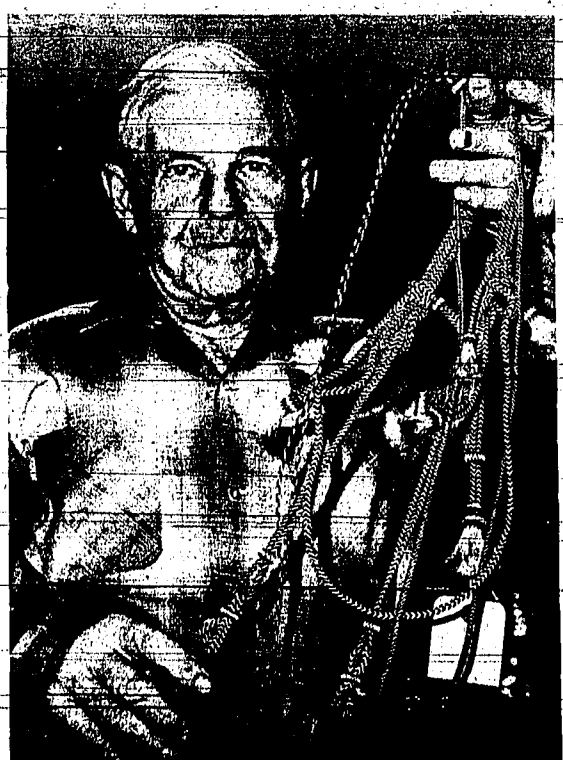

"You can tell a lot about a man by the type of equipment he used on his horses," Mr. Creed says. "For example, many of the Spanish bits were a little on the cruel side for quick breaking and training."

The collector also has a number of unusual harness items, bridles and other items dating back many years. A complete bridle made entirely of horse hair and braided in black and white with white tassels at the ends of each separate piece of the bridle including the reins is one of his most prized possessions.

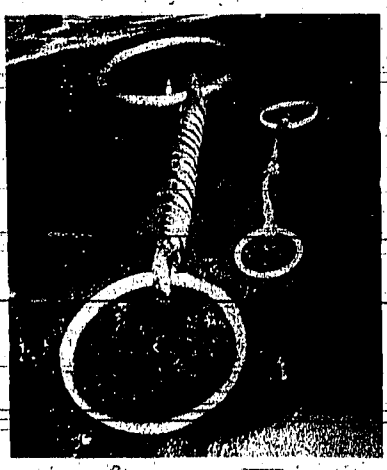

All this must be done by hand from long strands of hair taken from the mane or tail of the horse. Often these horse hair bridles when wet would stretch out of shape and fall off the horse, Mr. Creed notes.

HORSES WERE OFTEN in for some cruel treatment judging by the original bits some horse owners fashioned. At left, Mr. Creed examines a bit made of several lengths of bicycle chain. The saw-tooth edge that resulted would cut a horse's mouth apart if sawed back and forth. At right is another severe bit that is grooved and the grooves sharpened to result in somewhat the same measure.

MADE ENTIRELY OF HORSE HAIR, this bridle is part of the assortment of harness and riding or driving items Mr. Creed has gathered over the years. It is a Spanish bridle and made of braided black and white horse hair. The only problem is that in the rain these often stretch and become loose fitting.

COMPARISON OF SIZE of some of the bits in the Creed collection. The bit on the left was apparently hand made as the rings are oversized and the bit has been grooved for sharp edges that would hold the attention of just about any hard-mouthed horse.

New Nuclear Techniques Help Man Look Back Through The Ages

Dr. Isadore Perlman, the head of nuclear chemistry at the Lawrence Radiation Laboratory, turned the two pottery fragments in his hands. Both were bird-shaped handles found by archaeologists near a coast village in Peru.

They look alike: But Dr. Perlman, and his colleague, Dr. Frank Arago, analyzed the chemical makeup of the pottery and discovered they are quite different.

Minute trace elements in the pottery, measured by newly developed nuclear techniques, show that one fragment matches another pottery from Cuzco, the capital of the Inca civilization. The other is an imitation.

"The importance of pottery lies in the fact that for at least 6,000 years wherever man has been, he made pottery and the remains have persisted to the present," Dr. Perlman explains. "Pottery not only had utilitarian purpose, but also reflected particular cultures in their art forms."

They are composed of elements such as cesium, lanthanum, and cobalt—often just a few parts per million—give pottery from different areas distinct chemical compositions. Dr. Perlman and Dr. Arago sort out these trace elements which give the pottery material its own peculiar "chemical fingerprint."

Their work at the laboratory in Berkeley, which is operated for the Atomic Energy Commission by the University of California, indicates that pottery of different origins have different fingerprints. Although not yet proved, it seems likely that pottery produced in villages just a few miles apart can be distinguished.

This is of great interest to archaeologists who have relied largely on physical characteristics in identifying pottery and to deduce their places or origin. The new method supplements such deductions and gives a more detailed picture of ancient trade patterns than those based on style which was not always unique to a particular location.

The technique makes use of unique electronic equipment developed to study nuclear structure. In this analysis, small powdered samples of elements are irradiated with neutrons. Each radioactive element is then measured and the results give the chemical composition of the material. The process, called neutron activation analysis, has enabled the LLL scientists to measure more than 30 elements in pottery and with high accuracy.

Other artifacts can be studied besides pottery. Similar research is concerned with the origin of glass beads found in many parts of sub-Africa. These were undoubtedly used by traders from other parts of the world—the question is where, since these "trade beads" are sufficiently nondescript and their origin largely a matter of conjecture.

The Money Box

BY FRANK SCHELL

Question from F. C. R., Buhl, Idaho: I have two King Edward New Guinea pennies in new condition—1955. Underneath they are quite valuable and they are for sale. I also have some paper money from So. America—am enclosing a list. Please let me know if they are very valuable.

Chile—100 peso—3 new, 1, 10 peso—1, 5 peso—9, 1 peso, 8 new—1, 34 peso.

Uruguay—100 cruzeiros, 1, 100 cruzeiros, 1, 50 cruzeiros, 2, 20 cruzeiros, 3, 10 cruzeiros.

Colombia—1, 10 pesos oro, 1957—1, 1 peso oro, 1953.

Peru—1, 10 soles de oro, 1953—2, 5 soles de oro, 1963.

Ecuador—50 sucres, 1960—1, 10 sucres.

Uruguay—1, 5 peso—3, 1 peso.

Ethiopia—2, 1 dollar bills.

Answer: The only penny of New Guinea which is considered above the average price is the 1955 penny issued in nickel. This coin is priced at about $30.00 by dealers in uncirculated condition. The 1955 penny you have is issued under the short-lived reign of Edward VIII, now the Duke of Windsor, before he abdicated the throne. However, the coin is not particularly scarce and is quoted now, brand new, at $5.00 each. Incidentally, all coins of New Guinea are issued with a hole in the center of them.

The paper money you quote would be worth no more than face value, unless you found a collector who happened to need just the date or notes you have, and in any event this paper money can be bought in large quantities for a very small amount of outlay.

I can only quote you actual exchange rates—that is, the value on the market as compared to the United States dollar.

Chile—the "escudo" is now the official money, but the peso is still used—Peso Exchange rate, etc.

Brasil (Brazil), Cruzeiro, 054c.

Colombia, Pesos Ore, .06c.

Peru, Soles de Oro, .023c.

Ecuador, Sucres, .046c.

Uruguay, Pesos, .004c.

I can find no exchange rate on the paper money of Ethiopia. A glance at the above chart will show you that most of these denominations are worth five cents or less, and the money of Uruguay is practically worthless since one peso is worth less than one cent, United States exchange.

Question: From G. P. G., Tula, Idaho: I have an Ethiope coin—that I would like to know something about. I believe it is made of copper and is nearly the size of a half dollar. Its value is one penny and its date is 1898. One side of it has a man sitting on a rock, the other side is a woman holding a shield. In one hand he's holding a bow and arrow, and in the other a shield. The man on the other side is a bust of a queen. The writing reads: Victoria Del. Gra. & Brit. Regina. In the other hand he's holding a U. S. dime, dated 1907 and a nickel dated 1905. What is their worth? Thank you for your help.

Answer: The English penny you have is the standard British penny, neither scarce nor valuable unless it is placed on a coin condition. Such coins are valued at about 35c in ordinary condition—would bring you about three dollars, brand new.

The 1907 dime is worth 20c to $2.00, depending upon its condition. The 1905 nickel will bring you from 10c up to $1.00.

The mintage figure on this 1905 (Liberty Head) five-cent piece is very high (over 29 million) and there are still a great many of them.

(Questions on coins and currency should be sent to The Money Box, to The Times-News, Twin Falls, Idaho 83301.)

Nonresident Hunters Take Nearly Six Per Cent Of Idaho's Big Game

By JIM HUMBLIRD
Idaho Fish-Gamery Department

Preliminary statewide kill figures, based on returned hunter report cards and check station data, indicate that big game harvests for all animals checked are increased somewhat above 1967 levels. Final calculations cannot be made until hunter questionnaires are analyzed. Present data suggest that the statewide deer kill is up 12-14 per cent over 1967, and elk kill statistics appear to be 4 to 5 per cent higher than last year's.

Deer harvests—most are indicated for the trophy big game species of moose, antelope, bighorn sheep and mountain goat.

Present data shows that non-resident hunters in Idaho are outnumbered overwhelmingly by residents, except in the remote central regions of the state, where hunters are needed to get adequate deer and elk harvests. Here, about one-third of all animals checked are killed by non-residents. The breakdown shows that, statewide, about 10 per cent of the successful hunters were non-residents. In the Clearwater region, for example, 38 per cent of the successful hunters are non-residents. In the Salmon Region, 42 per cent of the successful hunters were non-residents, according to Errol Nielson, big game supervisor. But statewide, based on license sales, only 6 per cent of all big game hunters are non-residents. Yet, figures show that 41 per cent of all hunting licenses were sold to non-residents—48 per cent by non-residents, while this group of hunters takes only 9 per cent of the deer and 20 per cent of the elk harvested in the state.

Nielson pointed out that five regions of the state have from 11 to 15 per cent of the total human population, while the McCall Region has just 1 per cent and the Salmon-Rupert has 1.3 per cent. The Western Region has 30.5 per cent of the total population.

Salmon is the only city in all of the continental United States with a population of 2,000 or more residents. The broad Snake River crescent contains 23 cities, four of them in the southwestern corner, while northern Idaho has four cities with a population of 2,000 or more. Altogether, there are 10 cities in the state of that size.

Of Idaho's population of about 700,000 persons, an average of one out of 11 kills a deer, and one out of 12 kills an elk in the state.

Region by region, Salmon is next to the highest in comparative deer harvest figures. The Western Region is top, with 18 per cent of the statewide total deer kill; and the Salmon Region is second, with 15 per cent of the total. The Panhandle Region is lowest. The reason is that white-tailed deer is a much larger species to hunt than mule deer. Some 35 per cent of all successful deer hunters in the Salmon Region are non-residents—the highest ratio in the state.

Elk harvest by region runs from a low of 3 per cent of the state total in the Eastern Region to 40 per cent in the Clearwater Region, according to Nielson. The Salmon Region's contribution is about 11 per cent of the total statewide elk harvest.

Salmon is one of three regions in the state where about one-third of all elk hunters are non-residents. The proportion of non-resident hunters to residents in other parts of the state is much lower. The three regions are Clearwater, McCall and Salmon—all "back country" wilderness elk areas.

Commenting on the 35 non-resident restricted deer-bear licenses, Nielson said the State Legislature authorized this class of license six years ago as a means of increasing hunter pressure in areas where it was needed most. This was planned as a special inducement to get non-resident hunters into units where residents were not taking an adequate deer harvest.

During a hunting season, there were 28 management units in which the non-resident restricted deer-bear license was valid. The number during the 1968 season had dropped to 16 units, which means there were more non-resident restricted license holders concentrated in a smaller area.

Recommended legislative proposals sent recently by the department to the Governor's office call for a $50 statewide non-resident deer-bear license as a substitute for the $25 non-resident restricted deer-bear license. In effect, the new system would spread non-resident deer hunters throughout the state in 90 game management

Life in MAGIC VALLEY

Oscar Johnson, JEROME, admits to being a "glad" addict, for which there is no known cure.

Mr. Johnson, who has been a plasterer for 45 years, raises nearly one-half acre of gladioli for a hobby. He is a member of the National Association of Gladioli Council which has over 50,000 members, and is a full-accrued judge, of which there are only six in Idaho.

Mr. Johnson is the only accredited judge from Magic Valley, the remainder are from the Boise area.

He exhibits in Salt Lake City, Sacramento and Boise, besides locally. He has exhibited the grand champion gladioli three years at the county fair and has a drawer full of ribbons.

He also has a trophy for the champion seedling exhibited at Salt Lake City.

Mr. Johnson keeps his church supplied with flowers during the summer and does his own arranging.

A son, Paul, shares his father's interest in gladioli. He won the Junior Grand Champion medal of Treasure Valley in 1965 and has a box full of ribbons.

Mr. Johnson has obtained bulbs from the Magic Valley, Idaho and New Jersey. He has paid as much as five dollars for a rare, but patented All-American bulb can be purchased three for a dollar. Most of Mr. Johnson's plants are raised his own from seed.

One year he harvested 26,000 bulbs. Cross-pollination is done for 10 a.m. and 3 p.m. however, it is done from 10 to 10, you would find Mr. Johnson on the job. This year he will plant his flowers in full beds of 10,000 bulbs. It will be in clover three years before it is used again for flowers.

According to Mr. Johnson, gladioli are easy to grow and will grow in any soil, but do best in a slightly acid soil. Gladioli like full sunshine, but will grow in partial shade but take longer to bloom. Bulbs are planted three to eight inches apart and covered with about five inches of soil. The high season in three weeks, and then it is the time to watch for cutworms. Aphids are also an enemy of gladioli. From 70 to 150 days of planting, so if bulbs are wanted at a certain time, they are planted accordingly.

The seeds obtained from cross-pollination are the size of radish seeds and each flower

FATHER-SON TEAM at Jerome enjoys growing gladioli. Both Oscar Johnson and his son, Paul, have many ribbons and trophies to show for their summer's work on the half acre planted to the colorful flowers. Mr. Johnson is a fully accredited one of six in Idaho and the only one from Magic Valley. He has exhibited his blooms in Salt Lake City, Sacramento and Boise as well as winning grand champion honors at the Jerome County Fair.

may have one seed or as many as 200. The first year the seed produces a small bulb, and has flowers the second year.

Johnson said gladioli do not fade out or turn white. If you have had this experience, it is because you have replanted the biggest and best bulbs and allowed away or discarded the smaller colored ones.

Growing lovely flowers keeps Mr. Johnson busy in the winter too. The bulbs are lifted out of the ground carefully with two forks. After they are allowed to dry for three weeks, they are separated and cleaned and the old bulbs discarded. He has a special room for his bulbs where they are kept at 40 degrees.

Gladioli bulbs are listed according to number, the smallest begin with 1 and the largest bulbs begin with 3. The color is also registered by number, 00 is white, 40 is pink, 60 is lavender and 80 and 90 are the smoky tones and there is a number for every shade in between.

Johnson is members of the Treasure Valley Gladioli Association, which has about 50 members and meets monthly. Mr. Johnson sells some flowers and a few bulbs but not enough to even pay the expenses. The reward is when the flowers begin to bloom.

Nielson said the spread is even over the state. Statewide, one person in 62 bags an elk, though the ratio in some areas is 1:11. Junior success, statewide, is that about three hunters in the field. But for the general population, about one resident in 20 kills an elk in Idaho.

Region by region, Salmon is next to the highest in comparative deer harvest figures. The Western Region is top, with 18 per cent of the statewide total deer kill; and the Salmon Region is second, with 15 per cent of the total. The Panhandle Region is lowest. The reason is

A Wreck—And Kimberly Folks Head For The Tracks

People are naturally curious. So it is when there is a fire, or unusual type of accident.

Thursday, hundreds of people in the Kimberly area at one time or another during the day stopped and watched crews of the Union Pacific Railroad work to untangle cars which were derailed and damaged in an accident the night before in Kimberly.

Some of those watching the crew work talked among themselves and said what they would do in getting the cars untangled and cleared of the area.

One bystander said: "In the many years I have lived in Kimberly and this area, this is the first train deralement I have seen." This particular bystander stayed and watched the work for several hours.

Adults were not the only curious people. When school was let out Thursday afternoon, students of all grades went "down by the tracks" to see the train wreck, as one young boy called it.

One passing motorist, who stopped after seeing all the people gathered around the area and with the derailed train, said at first he thought there were people injured or killed and that it was a passenger-type-of-train. He was from California where such things occur once in a while.

This deralement probably has been the most exciting thing that has happened in Kimberly for many years.

Railroad officials said Friday that the area was cleared of the deralement around midnight Thursday.

ACTIVITIES THAT KEPT JAYCEES busy during the past 35 years bring back memories for former Jaycee leaders in Twin Falls. From left are John Robertson who served as the first Idaho State Jaycee president; Doug Vollmer, 1969 president; Robert Warberg who headed the group in 1948 and R. S. Tofflemire who was the first Twin Falls Jaycee president. National Jaycee week is being observed Jan. 19 through Jan. 25.

Count Your Community Blessings, Jaycees May Have Thanks Coming

Back in 1932 a group of industrious young Twin Falls men organized the Jaycees Club and set out to do a lot of good by financing, to perform a few miracles in the way of much needed community projects.

In 1940, Jaycee records show an ambitious program of projects and were to work installing curbs and gutters in various parts of the city to improve property values and enhance the appearance of the city.

Through the past 35 years, Jaycee projects in Twin Falls have covered a wide range of community projects including everything from sponsoring horse shows and sales and clearing brush from a hillside to milking for the Camp Fire Girls' building in the south hills to operating a ski bus and conducting Easter egg hunts.

Many programs that originally were developed by the Jaycees have been turned over to other agencies or organizations to be continued for the good of the community as a whole.

In 1941, the late Loyd Perry was president of the local Jaycees and contributed a slogan that has remained with the organization since that time: "Community service is the rent you pay for the space you occupy."

War-time hampered Jaycee activities as members left for military duty but those who remained behind kept projects going including USO shows, promotion of U. S. Savings Bond sales, paper and scrap iron drives and other war time programs.

Under the leadership of Charles E. Sieber in 1944, the Jaycees organized a Youth Council to attract a wide range of youth in the community and undertake leadership to meet these needs. In that year the Jaycees launched a summer recreation program and a youth center. This later became the Twin Falls City Recreation Department with year around recreation for city youngsters.

This was followed in 1945 by the establishment of a Youth Center in Twin Falls which provided a wide range of activities during evenings. Verle Moser was Jaycee president and the Youth Center program continued the following year under Chic Crabtree's administration. That same year the first Easter egg hunt and first Schous Patrol Appreciation Day were held.

Spec Haslam was president in 1947 and that year the Jaycees sponsored a horse show and assisted in many projects to unite rural and urban interests. A major project of 1948 when Robert Warberg was president was the institution of a Christmas Welfare project in which Jaycees solicited funds and food to provide baskets for needy families on Christmas Day. They packed the baskets in a local warehouse and delivered them to the homes.

Mr. Warberg, now a member of the Twin Falls City Council, recalls all Jaycee undertakings were not without misfortune every year or so.

During his administration the Jaycees sponsored an air show that was expected to bring a large number of the general community service projects for the year. The show was undertaken on a percentage of gate receipts and was a success. It was operated the ticket concession. When time came for a settlement most of community's activities had gathered on that day around the airport and watched the show without buying a ticket. The show of course paid no Jaycee percentage of what little was left by giving them a check that later bounced. If it hadn't been for the food concession stand operated by the Jaycees the whole project would have been a loss.

Other projects of 20 years ago included the launching of the Keep Idaho Green project, the fish derby for local youngsters and the good government project in which high school students took over the government of the city for a day. All were under the administration of Cliff Simmons.

In that same year the Jaycees began their vigorous campaign toward bringing about the city manager form of government in Twin Falls. This continued in the following year with J. Hill as president and sufficient signatures were obtained to place the question on the ballot. Other interested individuals and organizations assisted in the campaign, but this and other projects were sufficient to win the question a second place in national competition for the Americanism award.

In 1961 with Richard G. Lennan as president the first effort toward a Junior College in Twin Falls was launched by Jaycees but it was dropped when similar efforts were found to be more advanced in the Bend area.

Other projects have included sponsoring of state golf tournaments, an effort to work with the city in covering irrigation laterals through the city residential area to protect small children, awarding of the Inquisitor Service Awards each year to recognize outstanding community service and leadership, and the selection of an outstanding young farmer and a boss of the year. Jaycees also worked on the Junior Achievement Program that was officially adopted here in 1965.

Under more recent administrations, Jaycees have been working to establish a stronger organization of their own sponsored the Junior Miss program and the Battle of The Bands.

Darrell Wolfe, immediate past president, came home from the convention with honors of being named the state's number one club during the past year, and year the group selected an outstanding young educator, Mrs. Ted Nelrbass, who also became the state winner and continued community activities including all out support of Urban Renewal.

Doug Vollmer, currently president of the young businessmen's organization, says his club now has the largest membership in the state, says the group will continue to live up to the Jaycee reputation for active leadership and already has its credit for this term the Little Buckaroo Rodeo. Knowledge has been gained from the convention with honors of being named the state's number one club during the past year, and year the group selected an outstanding young educator, Mrs. Ted Nelrbass, who also became the state winner and continued community activities including all out support of Urban Renewal.

Construction of the baseball facilities began in 1938, and the following year George Detweiler as president, it was paid for and donated to the city of Twin Falls.

In 1940, Jaycee records show an ambitious program of projects and were to work installing curbs and gutters in various parts of the city to improve property values and enhance the appearance of the city.

Through the past 35 years, Jaycee projects in Twin Falls have covered a wide range of community projects including everything from sponsoring horse shows and sales and clearing brush from a hillside to milking for the Camp Fire Girls' building in the south hills to operating a ski bus and conducting Easter egg hunts.

Youthful Expert Wins Judo Championship

A 10-year-old Twin Falls Judo artist has brought home his first championship trophy.

Wiley Dobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dobbs, 2144 Crestwood Drive, earned the junior championship title last weekend while competing in the 14th annual Boise Valley Judo Tournament in Caldwell.

This was the first out of town tournament he has attended without his parents. To win the title, he competed with 93 youngsters from any minimum age up through 13 years. He defeated four opponents and had scored a half-point against a fifth when declared junior champion.

Wiley, whose father is an instructor in Judo, has been competing for about two years and is the third member of the family to win the title. His younger brother, nine-year-old Greg, is also an enthusiastic judo expert.

Twelve other Judo contestants from Twin Falls participated in the Boise Valley tournament and members of the senior team also captured first place honors in their division. Reed Williams, Twin Falls, placed first in individual senior competition. Members of the winning team were Al Benkula, Frank Hirai, Bobby Matsuoka and Jim and John Brennan. Guy Matsuoka, that he threw his first opponent, pinned the second, then threw the third and again pinned the fourth. "I foot swept the fifth guy, also served as referee during the event. In accounting for his junior and that's about all there was to it," he added.

JUNIOR CHAMPIONSHIP OF THE 14th annual Boise Valley Judo Tournament, went to a 10-year-old Twin Falls expert last weekend in Caldwell, Wiley Dobbs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Dobbs, captured top individual honors in the junior division of the tournament. It was his first championship. Both trophies were awarded for the highest ranking junior expert.

American Servicemen In Vietnam Growing Disillusioned, Local Pilot Reports

CONGRATULATIONS FOR 100 MISSIONS are extended by Col. J. G. Garardo, right, to Capt. Kenneth Thaele, Twin Falls. The F-105 pilot returned home for a 30-day leave after 121 missions, the last of which ended when his plane was shot down by enemy fire some 10 miles inside enemy lines. He escaped with an arm injury and was picked up by rescue helicopter crews an hour after landing in thick jungle. His plane exploded and crashed into the jungle.

Bomber pilots and other servicemen in Vietnam are becoming discouraged and disillusioned with the way the war is being fought.

This is what one returning F-105 pilot said in Twin Falls the past week.

"Before the bombing halt last year, we felt we were really hurting them. We could see a lot of progress. But with the orders to curb bombing operations, we have watched during the past months as the Viet Cong gradually advanced his lines of defense that had been pounded back under bomber attack," said Capt. Kenneth Thaele, 470 Filer Ave. W.

Thaele, a graduate of the Hansen High School in 1957 and of the University of Idaho in 1962, says he plans to make the Air Force his career.

"They haven't given me a chance to get out," he commented, "and I love to live." After graduating from the University, he received a commission in the Air Force and entered pilot's training in Webb Air Force Base, Texas. From there he went to Luke Air Force Base in Arizona for Gunner training, and then to Weebus AFB in South Africa where he piloted the F-100.

He then volunteered for new F-105 duty and was assigned to Wichita for seven months before going to Vietnam.

When you check out in a new aircraft, you are obligated for four years of additional duty, he explained.

"Pilots are flying over off-limits targets where they could cause real damage to the enemy, to drop bombs on relatively non-military targets. With no additional danger to themselves or their aircraft, they could knock out the more vital enemy installations and do at least five times the good they are now doing," he added.

Not until the administration takes a more determined stand on the Vietnam situation improve or any real hope be seen for settlement, is the opinion of the returning pilot.

At the same time, he said, American pilots are faced with heavy anti-aircraft and missile fire to reach these often unimportant targets. Since Capt. Thaele left, bombing has been discontinued in the northern part of North Vietnam which has to some degree lessened the danger to the American pilots.

"Nearly all pilots, myself included, who complete their duty in Vietnam feel they would go back willingly anytime they were given authority for an all-out effort against the enemy, but most feel they are now wasting their time and are not actually doing it," the Twin Falls serviceman added.

turning from a mission when he began having engine trouble. He decided not to eject but to try to bring it in. Just as he landed the engine died completely and the craft rolled into the rough ground near the runway but was not derailed. He received a special "Well Done" award for the effort.

However, he was not so lucky on his 121st mission. Flying directly over enemy territory and waiting for the advance scout plane to lead them to the target, his group encountered heavy enemy anti-aircraft fire over enemy territory.

"My plane took a shell in the center of the craft. I told my wingman—I was in trouble but it was several seconds before he realized the extent of the hit," he said.

By that time cockpit instruments indicated the craft was on fire.

"Not wanting to eject over the enemy, I decided to stay with the plane as long as possible and get as close to our own lines as I could," he continued.

His wingman took pictures of the F-105 in flames with some 90 feet of fire shooting out behind. Capt. Thaele was forced to eject. At that time he was still over enemy territory and about 10 miles from the enemy himself.

"When I ejected the plane was going about 450 miles per hour over some of the heaviest jungle in Vietnam," Capt. Thaele recalled.

Wind thrust as he ejected tore away his helmet and gloves and caused considerable damage to his right elbow.

The pilot landed in a tree and despite the fact that one arm was completely useless, was able to drop to the ground and contact his wingman, still flying above to mark his location. Each pilot carries three radios on his person for such emergencies.

By that time the wingman's fuel supply was dwindling but he was able to summon nearby rescue teams before leaving the area.

"When I was hit, I carried a full tank of bombs and fuel," the pilot added. "The plane went out of control, circled back toward enemy lines and exploded as it nosed into the jungle."

The enemy didn't come looking for him as the jungle was so dense it would have taken some three days to cover the ten miles.

Within an hour and five minutes after he climbed from the tree to send his radio call for help, the big "super green" rescue helicopter lowered a rope ladder and hauled him aboard.

"I was a lot luckier than most of the pilots. Many of them are captured or die in their crippled aircraft," the local man commented.

On another occasion, Capt. Thaele received the special commendation for his part in blowing up a large bridge, vital as a supply route for enemy forces.

He and another pilot dropped their 3,000 lb. bombs on the bridge from an elevation of about 4,000 feet. Normally the drops are made from 8,000 feet to avoid damage to the aircraft.

"We almost bombed ourselves," Capt. Thaele said. "We both felt the repercussions so strongly we thought we were hit."

Each of the bombs dropped by the two pilots scored direct hits and rendered the bridge useless.

In Wichita, Capt. Thaele said he will look for suitable housing for his wife, Dianna, and their three children but in addition to McConnell Air Force Base, numerous aircraft plants make housing critical. It is possible, Mrs. Thaele said, that the family will stay in Twin Falls until school closes.

Capt. Thaele's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Thaele live in Wendell, and formerly farmed in the Hansen area.

ONE OF MANY CITATIONS and medals awarded Twin Falls pilot, Capt. Kenneth Thaele, is admitted by his wife, Dianna, and three-year-old daughter, Geraldine. It is the "Well Done" award presented for his efforts in bringing in a crippled F-105 plane and saving the U. S. Air Force some $2.5 million that would have been lost had he ejected and let the plane crash. A thunder storm was under way at the time. The plane reached the runway and rolled into the rough undamaged.

ONCE A MAIN SUPPLY ROUTE for North Vietnamese forces, this bridge was wiped out by Capt. Kenneth Thaele, Twin Falls, and his wingman. The area on the left was demolished by bombs dropped by the local F-105 pilot at an elevation of 4,000 feet. The local man received a silver star, bronze star, and several Distinguished Flying Cross medals for feats such as this performed while in Vietnam. The photograph was taken by other members of Capt. Thaele's squadron soon after bombing. Explosions from the bombs nearly assem- bled the plane that dropped the explosives.

Book Review

By Robert Bruce
Twin Falls Librarian
The Best Sellers lists are concerned largely with books of interest to women. (Did any man ever read "Valley of the Dolls" or "The Group")? I once heard the head of a big publishing firm say that they only made money when they successfully appealed to the feminine market—nevertheless, as great many men do read, and I firmly believe that if the right material is offered their numbers will greatly increase.
Here are some titles recently purchased by the Twin Falls Public Library that will appeal to the masculine reader:
"High On The Wild With Hemingway" is criticized by some readers as being more about hunting and Gary Cooper than about Hemingway—but men readers are reading the library copies fast. The true Hemingway fan will at least look at "Hwy. One: Ernest Hemingway." This is a collection of Hemingway's newspaper articles.
These rather recent and still mysterious developments in physics, moons and lasers, are arousing much interest as their development and uses are better known. "Masters And Lasers" by J. S. Thorp and "Atomic Light: Lasers" by Neherich are recent, and readable even for the reader who doesn't have much of a scientific background.
We don't agree with the librarian who is retelling all about Albert Einstein to a child closest in the library basement.

Shoshone City Library Report Made To Council

SIOSHONE — The financial and book use report from the Shoshone City Library were approved at the City Council meeting.
A total of 13,801 books were loaned through the library during 1968 with 5,559 returning juveniles.
In addition, 224 special reference materials were ordered by the librarian for use by local people. There were 76 new cards issued with 239 total adult cards in use and 385 juvenile cards used.
As of Jan. 1, 1969, the fund was at $1,199.48 with $3,147.23 in receipts of which $103.03 derived from the purchase of "Sage Brush Hair Tonic" bottles the library has had for sale. The bottles are on display in the library window.
Disbursements were $3,750.52 and the balance of Dec. 31, 1968, was $508.25, according to the librarian, Mrs. Marx Nielsen.
The new 1969 assessed valuation of the city was received

Area Volunteers Form CB Alert Team

By NORMA HERZINGER

Distress signals come in many forms and are accepted by many individuals working to give assistance to the general public when needed. A new emergency group has been organized recently in Twin Falls, the CB Alert Team; all volunteer people with a common goal in mind, to help when and where needed for emergencies or otherwise.

Things have progressed somewhat since Chief Running Bear used to send smoke signals to inform his brothers the white men were coming. The advent of the telephone, telegraph, radio and television modernized communications and several years ago the citizen band radios made the scene and have been growing steadily in popularity.

These radios are used by men and women alike, and from every profession. Farmers use them when machinery parts are needed for example, where a doctor might use it for emergency calls, etc. Many of the CB radio operators have banded together now, forming an alert team that will be of even greater advantage to the individual and to the community.

Members of the CB Alert Team are from all of Magic Valley, and have organized to exchange information and general cooperation between members as well as to promote Citizen Band Radio knowledge and to conduct group programs and activities advancing the general interest and welfare of the CB radio.

The CBers pride themselves on their efficiency as to giving aid where needed to fellow CB'ers and the general public—and someone from the organization is monitoring Channel No. 11 of the Citizens Radio Service at all times for emergency calls. They in turn will transmit these calls to the proper agencies and if needed, will aid in search and rescue, when requested, as individuals or as a team.

The call for "help" need not be a "life or death" type, it can, and more often than not is, a courtesy assistance to passing motorists.

For example, a good deal of the service is extended to out-of-state CB-motorists unfamiliar with our area. Signs have been constructed by the group noting the channel and the 24-hour service and placed in various parts of the valley. When a call comes in from an out-of-state motorist asking basic information of the community he can be directed to motels, restaurants and 24-hour service stations without any problem. Many of the monitors have complete lists of Twin Falls motels, restaurants and service stations and this information can be passed on quickly when a call comes in. Or, if an out-of-state or out-of-town person comes through this area, mileage and general road information can be given without much hesitation. These things in themselves are great assets to the community.

If a CB'er happens to come upon a motorist in distress, stops to help and find a mechanic or automotive technician of some kind is needed, he can call the monitor and he or she can, in turn, contact the person needed, and presto—help is on its way.

A more dedicated group of people I have never seen. To further their ability for assistance, many of the members are taking Red Cross First Aid Classes so they can be prepared for a more serious type of emergency.

The CB Alert Team has a person as mentioned before, that monitors Channel No. 11 24 hours each day. These monitors are given detailed mimeographed sheets of paper that must be filled out on all emergency calls taken. They, upon receiving a call, will contact the police department if necessary, the fire department, ambulance, etc.

To have such a dedicated group of people interested in the welfare of the community is of great importance to Twin Falls County and the organization is growing by leaps and bounds. It is a non-profit organization and identification on the air as a CB Alert monitor is limited to members only. Membership is limited to persons 18 years of age or older who hold an authorized citizens radio station Class D license.

Officers of the group include D. L. (Sparky) Tucker, president; Jerry Moore, vice president; Doris Moore, treasurer; Thelma Tucker, secretary; Terry K. Pierce, communications chairman; and James F. Smith, Bob Benefiel and E. H. Goodwin, board members at large, and Walter Mildon, activities manager.

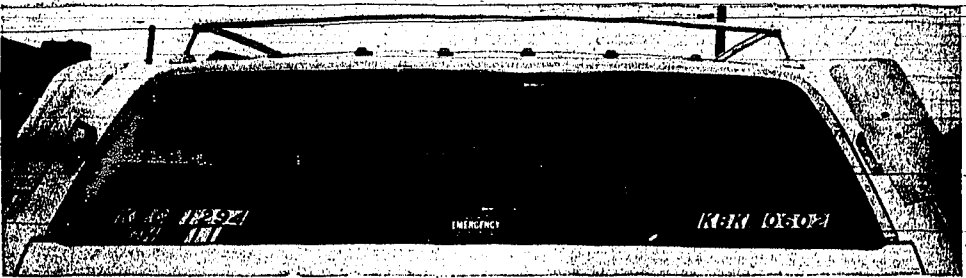

TWO MEMBERS of the CB Alert Team, Gene Goodwin, left, and Harold Metz, put up a sign on Highway 74 announcing a CB Alert Team is located in this area and the channel number.

APPLYING AN ARM and head bandage to Loretta Goodwin, a member of the CB Alert Team, during a practice session in the Red Cross First Aid Course are Carl Peterson, a member of the CB Alert Team, and the class instructor, Karen Griggs.

TAKING AN EMERGENCY call from a fellow CB'er is Russell Wilson who is monitoring Channel No. 11 as a member of the CB Alert Team. Much assistance is given by the monitors and a member of the alert team is monitoring the channel 24 hours each day.

THE REAR-WINDOW of this car is readily identified as belonging to a CB operator. The call numbers can be read easily and the emergency sticker, showing the owner is a member of the CB Alert Team, is shown in the center. Members of the CB Alert Team, a newly organized group in Magic Valley, are from all of Magic Valley and take pride in their efficiency and giving aid where needed, not only to fellow CB'ers but to the general public.

AMONG THE OFFICERS of the newly organized CB Alert Team, from left, Mrs. Thelma Tucker, secretary; Jerry Moore, vice president, and Doris Moore, treasurer. D. L. (Sparky) Tucker is president of the unit. Terry K. Pierce is communications chairman; James F. Smith, Bob Benefiel and E. H. Goodwin are board members at large, and Walter Mildon, activities manager. Membership in the organization now numbers approximately 50.

SPECIAL FIRST AID instruction is given to Bob Benefiel, the victim, and Carolyn Pierce, a student; both members of the CB Alert Team, by Karen Griggs, instructor for the Red Cross First Aid class. Approximately 15 members of the CB Alert Team are taking the Red Cross classes in the Red Cross building and it called upon to assist in an emergency.

MARY JUCHAU

April Wedding Slated By Miss Juchau, Michener

EDEN — Mr. and Mrs. Paul Edward Juchau, Eden, announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Jerry R. Michener, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Michener, Twin Falls.

An April 5 wedding is planned at the Hazelton LDS Church. Miss Juchau is a 1967 graduate of Valley High School and attended Utah State University for two years. Mr. Michener was graduated from Twin Falls High School in 1963 and attended Idaho State University for two and one-half years. He is presently self-employed in Twin Falls.

Sandra Sharp, Darrington Set June Wedding

DECLO — Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Sharp, Omaha, Neb., announce the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Sandra Lynn, to Melvin E. Darrington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin B. Darrington, Declo.

The bride-elect is a graduate of West Side High School, Omaha, and a sophomore at Ricks College, Rexburg, majoring in secretarial training.

Mr. Darrington was graduated from Declo High School in 1964 and has completed a two-year mission for the LDS Church in the Gulf States Mission Field. He was graduated from Ricks College and will enter BYU in January to major in physical education.

They have tentatively planned their wedding for June at the Idaho Falls LDS Temple, with receptions to follow at the Declo LDS Church and in Omaha.

Baptist Women Hear Program

BUIH — Rev. and Mrs. Floyd Austin presented the program when the Philathea Matrons Sunday school class of the First Baptist Church met at the home of Mrs. Esther McCauley, Rev. Mr. Austin showed slides taken in winter time during his pastorate in Wyoming, and Mrs. Austin sang a solo.

The class president, Mrs. Hazel Conrad, opened the meeting by reading a prayer written in poetry.

Dear Abby

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My three children and I drove 150 miles for a visit to my hometown recently. (My husband couldn't go. He was working.)

We stayed with my parents, but I contacted my in-laws so we could make plans to see them, too.

I think my in-laws are unreasonable. Let me explain: I married a widower with two small children. We now have a third child, also. Since these in-laws cared for the two children of my husband's former marriage until we wed, they figure my husband and I owe them something. Of course, we do. But how much?

They demanded that I drop off the two older children to visit them, and when I left town I could pick them up. They don't care to see me, or my other child.

I flatly refused, saying we would all come to see them, but no, they didn't want us. My mother-in-law even refused to talk to me.

I don't know what I have done except to try to give the children a home with a mother and father instead of grandparents. They seem to resent me for this.

Since they didn't want all my children, I refused to let them have the two older ones. Was I wrong?

I invited them to my home anytime to visit the little ones, but they refused. I'd like your views.

BEWILDERED

a diamond, I'd prefer wearing the larger one.

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Resist the larger diamond and wear it on your right hand. But wear Paul's ring on your "engagement" finger.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NICE BUT INSULTED": If a "nice" girl is constantly being "insulted" by propositions, she should have something wrong with her packaging.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

1/2 cup canned milk
Add very slowly one cup Graham crackers which have been rolled fine. Mix together thoroughly. Place in refrigerator overnight. Slice and serve immediately.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 52-year-old widow who will soon marry Paul, a very nice 55-year-old widower. Here is my problem: First let me explain what while dating I never wore the rings I got from my deceased husband because I didn't want to imply any man who might have an interest in me.

Paul and I didn't have an "official engagement," and certainly nothing was ever mentioned about a ring, but he "surprised" me with a lovely little diamond, and I do mean "little."

Abby, my first diamond is nearly three times the size of this one. (I had intended rejecting it to wear after I married.) Now what shall I do? I hate to hurt Paul, but if I wear

Karen Larson, Clark Wed

MRS. SPIRO T. AGNEW, wife of the Vice President-elect, models the Helen Rose original ball gown she will wear to the Inaugural Balls. The gown is of shell pink Staron pure corded silk, satin backed. The bodice, which features a deep carved neckline, is embroidered with shell pink crystals and pearls on a matching silk chiffon background, all hand-labeled. The bodice is designed with tiny carved sleeves, and the full skirt features a slit panel front sweeping to a full inverted pleat in the back. She will wear matching shoes and a full-length shell pink wool evening coat. (UPI telephoto)

Karen Larson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Larson, Twin Falls, became the bride of James C. (Jim) Clark, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Clark, Buhl, in rites Dec. 21 at the Twin Falls Baptist Church.

Rev. James B. Hughes officiated at the double ring candlelight ceremony before a setting of tapered candelabra and altar baskets of white chrysanthemums and blue hibiscus.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a Bridal Original gown. Beading outlined the oval neckline of her palliated chrysanthemum scalloped Chantilly lace cape. Long lily point sleeves were caught at the wrists with miniature self-covered buttons. The gown featured a removable scalloped mantle chapel train. Pearls of orange blossoms decorated the gown. Her hair was held by elbow-length butterfly face veil of English silk illusion.

She carried a bouquet of blue tipped carnations surrounded by Lilies of the Valley enhanced with a white orchid and a Batten Berg lace handkerchief her grandmother carried at her wedding.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Gordon Larson, sister-in-law of the bride, and bridesmaid was Joyce Clark, sister of the bridegroom. Flower girl was Annette Lynch, niece of the bridegroom.

Joseph H. Martin served as best man; with Vernon Von Lattis as groomsman. Ushers were Gordon Larson, brother of the bride, and James Lynch, brother-in-law of the bridegroom. Candlelighters were David Clark and Steven Dennis, brother and cousin of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Francis Rider played the traditional wedding music and accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Cox who sang. A reception was held after the ceremony in the church fellowship hall. Norma Clark, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest book.

The three-tiered wedding cake was cut and served by Mrs. Mona Dennis, aunt of the bridegroom, and Mrs. Robert Miller. Punch was served by Mrs. Farris Clark, aunt of the bridegroom. Mrs. Morgan Williams, aunt of the bride, served coffee. Gifts were displayed by Mrs. James Lynch, sister of the bridegroom; Mrs. Richard Castle, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. Ted Wilson.

The newlyweds are residing in Buhl. A rehearsal breakfast was hosted by the bridegroom's parents at their home in Buhl. Pre-nuptial showers were given for the bride by Mrs. Mona Dennis and Mrs. Farris Clark, Buhl, and by Mrs. Carl Teltow and Mrs. Ted Wilson, Twin Falls.

Fight Flu With Fresh Citrus

Are you one of the lucky few who have not succumbed to the common cold or influenza during the holiday season? Don't relax your vigilance because the virus or "flu" bug is still in the air just looking for a victim. To stay well, physicians are advising plenty of rest, a well-balanced diet and the avoidance of crowds.

Physicians all agree that when you are "overly" tired you are more susceptible to colds and other infections. They say that these infections are spread from person to person through the air and also point out that holiday eating, with its excess of sweets and goodies may have crowded out other foods that are needed to insure a well-balanced adequate diet.

Your employer will agree with your doctor that if you get a cold or signs of influenza, stay home and keep your germs out of circulation. Follow the doctor's instructions as to bed rest, medication, and plenty of liquids.

To vary your liquid intake, include fresh orange juice, lemonade, fruit punches, and soup broths along with water. In this way, you are continually replenishing good nutrients. It is important to prevent the respiratory passages (nose, lung, and sinuses) from becoming dried out. Eating an orange breaks the monotony of drinking liquids. Did you know that oranges are 85 per cent liquid and are high in vitamin C and minerals. The fibrous material around each segment provides excellent roughage to help promote regular elimination. Just peeling an orange and eating it out of hand is relaxing to do. As you peel the oils from the skin emit a fragrance that perks up the appetite. Follow the orange with a big glass of cold water. You'll begin to feel better in no time. Have you tried eating grapefruit just like oranges? They're great.

Showroom Chair May Not Fit Your Own Living Room

STOSHONE — A chair that looks fine in the showroom may not fit the home for which it is bought, according to Mary Lou Ruby, home economics agent.

A common error of the young homemaker, she said, is forgetting that the living area at home is not of such generous size as the display room. The young buyer may also select upholstery colors that are pleasing in relation to the retail setting, but do not harmonize with colors of her home.

Interior designers suggest that the size of the room where the chair will be used and the size of other pieces of furniture be considered. For instance, the chair arm should be level with the lamp table and the lamp should be in scale with the chair.

In the matter of color, one well defined pattern is enough for a room. Too much design or elimination. Just peeling an orange and eating it out of hand is relaxing to do. As you peel the oils from the skin emit a fragrance that perks up the appetite. Follow the orange with a big glass of cold water. You'll begin to feel better in no time. Have you tried eating grapefruit just like oranges? They're great.

presents a cluttered look. Well over half the room should be in one color for pleasing effect. For contrast, use some subtle coloring and some bright light. Chairs in many designs are made today for tall and short men and women and for children. There are special constructions for those who prefer soft cushioning to firm support. There are all kinds of lounge chairs, club barrel, wing-backs and designs for occasional use. There are also swivels, swivel-rockers and recliners.

Before you buy, try the chair. You can't judge its comfort by its bulk. Sit in it to test depth, correct back pitch and comfortable arm support and height.

Demand Grows For Bigger Beds

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Furniture manufacturers have begun building queen-size beds with the box springs in two sections. A survey of retail stores shows that they are selling more and more king and queen size beds and the queen size is creating serious problems in delivering, especially to apartments where the doors are still the same old size.

As far as the box springs for king-size beds so there is no problem. King-size springs are already made in two sections and placed together in the bedroom. But in the past, queen-size, measuring 60 by 80 inches, have come in one piece.

Now that the manufacturers are turning out two piece queen size springs the next problem is what to do about the one piece mattresses which also present a problem in going through doorways.

Mrs. Phillips Reviews Book

The book, "The New Year," was received by Mrs. T. A. Phillips during the January meeting of the Belles Lettres Literary Guild at the home of Mrs. Helmar L. Davies.

It was a soul stirring story of the unwanted child of East and West. Christopher was a moral and emotional problem for a would-be governor and his wife. How they finally face and solve their problem is a truly heart warming and tender story.

The author's sketch of Pears S. Buck was given by Mrs. Ivan Allred. Co-hostesses were Mrs. Carl Williter and Mrs. Howard King. The Feb. 11 meeting is at the home of Mrs. John S. Campbell.

Nixon Sticks To Tradition

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Haberdashers won't like it, but Richard M. Nixon is going to stick to his own tradition on inauguration day.

Dwight D. Eisenhower wore a homburg, John F. Kennedy a silk top hat and Lyndon B. Johnson a black fedora when they took the oath of office.

But Nixon, who disdains headgear, sees no reason to make the concession for history's sake. He might carry a homburg to please protocol.

Otherwise, he will conform to tradition by wearing a cutaway morning coat, striped trousers, a four-in-hand gray and black necktie, a white shirt with turndown collar and "gray" gloves.

For the Inaugural Ball, Nixon will don white tie and tails, formal wear he does not dislike as opulently as his two predecessors Kennedy and Johnson.

On Jan. 20, 1961, Kennedy attended his inaugural attire in striped pants, a swallow-tail coat, a top coat and a tall silk top hat which he self-consciously kept taking off. As the inaugural parade passed—the presidential box, Kennedy found a good use for the top hat. He waved it enthusiastically.

Johnson departed tradition at his inaugural in 1963 by wearing an oxford gray dark suit, gray four-in-hand tie and black shoes. According to reports, he also had on thermal underwear for the long hours in the bitter cold.

The only concession Johnson has made to the cutaway was at the weddings of his daughters, Luci Nugent and Lynda Bird Robb. They insisted on the formal attire.

New York Selects Hairdresser

MRS. YORK (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon has selected a pretty New York hairdresser, the German-born Eva Ruinys, to style her hair for the inaugural festivities in Washington next week.

The 29-year-old Miss Ruinys, who came to New York in 1956, has been the hairdresser for the Nixon women for some time. She did their hairdos for Julie Nixon's wedding to David Eisenhower last month.

The slender brunette started work at the Charles of the Ritz Salon Monday. She had previously worked for the now-defunct Norbert Salon and Elizabeth Arden.

She has also coiffed Mrs. Winthrop Rockefeller, publisher Mrs. Dorothy Schiff and Mrs. Alan J. Lerner, wife of the lyricist.

TASTY

To make pineapple filling for cake — prepare a 3½-ounce package of vanilla pudding mix as label directs, using 1½ cups milk. Chill, covered. Whip until creamy; fold in ½ cup of drained canned crushed pineapple. Makes about two cups enough for two split-8-or-9-inch layers.

Mrs. Bybee Is President Of Lady Firemen

GLENNIS FERRY — Mrs. Lee Bybee was installed president of the Rimrock Lodge No. 313, Lady Firemen, at the recent meeting in the Glenns Ferry City Hall. She was re-elected last month.

Others installed by Mrs. G. E. McGhee, installing officer, and Mrs. Forest Jones, installing marshal, include Mrs. Joe Arnold, vice president; Mrs. Earl J. Hansen, chaplain; Mrs. Jones, delegate; Mrs. McGhee, alternate; Mrs. Jones, flag bearer; Mrs. Clyde Parks, secretary; Mrs. Elsie Perrin, treasurer; Mrs. Alvin Joslyn, collector; Mrs. Margaret Sims, inner guard; and Mrs. Mae Burgess, outer guard.

Mrs. McGhee and Mrs. Elden Thompson were hostesses for the pinocle playing and refreshments. Score prizes went to Mrs. James Robertson, Mrs. Parks and Mrs. Bybee. Mrs. Robertson won the traveling score.

Lodge members voted to donate money toward the purchase of a defibrillator for the Elmore Memorial Hospital.

Next meeting will be a Valentine party at 1:30 p.m. Feb. 11 in the city hall. Mrs. Burgess and Mrs. Jones are hostesses.

MELT-WICH — Melt-away sandwiches make a hit with youngsters. Have eight purkee house rolls lengthwise. Scoop out soft centers; crumble and mix with a 4-ounce can of deviled ham and one-fourth cup of crumbled American cheese. Refill rolls, wrap in foil and bake 15 minutes in preheated 400-degree oven.

ADDRESSING INVITATIONS for the Burley Music Club's first-time formal dinner-dance are, seated from left, Mrs. Calvin Crane, Mrs. Charles Peugh, both invitation committee members, and Mrs. Trafford Bray, club president. Mrs. Clifford Mullikin, standing, is general chairman of the social. "A Courty Affair" is the theme for the event set for Feb. 1 at the Burley Elks Lodge to feature dinner, dancing to live music and a program featuring American music in honor of American Music Month which is February.

Burley Music Club Plans February Dinner-Dance

BURLEY — A formal dinner-dance will be held Feb. 1 by the Burley Music Club in the Burley Elks Lodge. The first-time social affair for the club will be by invitation only for admittance.

"A Courty Affair" will be the theme for the evening which will include dinner, dancing to live music and a program featuring American music in honor of February, "A Courty Affair" is the theme for the event set for Feb. 1 at the Burley Elks Lodge to feature dinner, dancing to live music and a program featuring American music in honor of American Music Month.

Games, such as cards and table games, will also be available for those who do not wish to dance, stated Mrs. Mullikin. An original musical drama based on the legend of the "Twelve Dancing Princesses" will be produced at the event under the direction of Mrs. Robert Dean, chairman and director, and Mrs. Harlow Cheney, co-chairman. Other members of the program committee are Mrs. Elden Wood and Mrs. Keith Smith.

Members Order New Varieties Of Violets

Members of the Magic Valley Salspaula Club voted to order rooted cuttings of the new varieties of African violets when they met recently at the Colonial House for their annual luncheon meeting.

Rooted cuttings will be planted in different soil mixtures and some will be raised under fluorescent lights. Reports will be given periodically on the progress of the cuttings.

Table decorations were made and furnished by Mrs. Ray Fike. "Shower of Stars" is the name of the violet used in an arrangement made and commented on by Mrs. Leo Gepner.

Basque Dance Set Saturday

RUIH. — The annual Basque Dance, sponsored by the Catholic Home and Schools, will be held Saturday at the Jaycee Hall, the former American Legion Hall, beginning at 9 p.m. Music for the dance will be provided by the Jimmy Basque and American dances will be featured.

Basque chorizas will be served.

General chairman for the event are Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton. Other chairmen include Mr. and Mrs. Ted Kalkes, kitchen; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Wagner, decorations; Dr. and Mrs. Tom Tappen, tickets; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gandinga and Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton, advertising; Sister Mary Idelle, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hart and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Rutting and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Rutting, cleanup; Mr. and Mrs. Gene Christofferson, door prizes, and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Traxler, cloakroom.

"Fatter" Look Described In Men's Fashions

SHOSHONE — A fatter look is gaining acceptance in at least two items of clothing for men, according to fashion centers, the home economics agent here reports.

One is for the so-called "fat" bow ties. The other is for flared-bottom slacks.

The bow ties coming back after a few seasons on the sidelines are larger, wide-necked, of comparable dimensions to the new widths in four-to-hand ties. As the regular tie gains width and is fashionable with a larger knot, so are the bow ties, both hand tied and store tired.

White ties for informal wear are also making a splash. They are said to be acceptable with dark shirts. Machine or almost matching shirts and ties are an "in" thing.

Flared-bottom slacks, remember the bell-bottom trousers, are reported to be getting a lot of attention. They range from modest flare to 24-inch bottoms. The men as well as boys are buying them. Fabrics for the latest slacks include oversized herringbones, Donegal tweeds, hold pleats, stripes and checks and wild prints.

And here are some tips for keeping clothes in condition:

A scorched spot on a shirt may be bleached by moistening the damaged fabric and holding under a sunlamp until it looks normal. If you get wet spots on your shirt or handkerchiefs, soak in cold water, then rub the area with cut lemon. If you have trouble getting the sole line from dirty collars and cuffs, try ammonia and concentrated dry-cleaning with a damp brush before washing the shirt.

A wash-wear shirt will drip dry faster if there is air in the room. If it hangs in a humid, closed bathroom it will stay damp longer.

Flannel pants around a shirt pocket should be erased before washing. Water may make the marks more difficult to remove. The spots remove and stains from leather shoes by following them to dry and then rubbing vigorously with a dry cloth. Never apply polish to soiled shoes.

Primrose Rebekah Lodge, IOOF Hold Joint Meeting

Twin Falls Lodge No. 23 and Primrose Rebekah Lodge No. 78, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, held their annual joint meeting recently in the Twin Falls Odd Fellows Temple.

Installing officers were Robert E. Stobough, district deputy grand master, and Mrs. William Couberly, district deputy president. Present were: W. J. Big Spring Festival Means Lots Of Sewing SHOSHONE — "Although Christmas has just come and gone, it's time to think about Easter—the county-home-ecology fair is just getting ready for the big spring festival particularly means sewing.

"If you have been avoiding sewing chores because you are not happy with your old machine or do not have one, this is a good time to make some decisions. Should you buy a new or used model? Should you get a cabinet or portable, Zig Zag or straight stitch? Try several makes. Make a decision based on your needs, machine performance and cost.

Choose a model that fits the amount and kind of sewing you will be doing. If you do not sew much, why buy the most expensive model? If you do a lot of stitching, get a machine that will do the job most efficiently.

Use it! If you learn to use the attachments. If you expect to do a lot of fancy embroidery or need a zig-zag, select the model that meets the requirements.

Try the machine before you buy. Is it easy to thread the top and bobbin? Try the knee or foot control. Is it comfortable? Can you control the speed and sew around curves.

If you choose a zig-zag machine, be sure to check that it has a zig-zag stitch and a zig-zag presser foot. The narrow straight-stitch foot makes it easier to guide the material and turn corners. Your machine should have two plates, one with a small needle hole for straight stitching and one with a wide slot to use with the zig-zag stitch.

When the zig-zag throat plate is used for straight stitching you may have problems with bunching thread or forcing of material into the slot.

and after contact with the patient.

If a member of your family has a communicable disease, keep his dishes and cutlery separate from those used by the rest of the family. Steam-sterilize implements by boiling in hot water.

If chemical antiseptics and disinfectants are used, read the label and follow directions. Store containers out of sight and reach of little children.

When removing soiled bed linen, do not touch the contaminated side to inside. Keep linen away from the face and handle it by the edges and corners. It is best to launder the soiled linen separately.

Preventive Measures Noted For Winter Health Battle

Will your precautions be too little and too late for your family this winter? A busy season for the family that does not take advantage of preventive measures, such as the effective vaccines provided by medical laboratories against infectious diseases, says the Council on Family Health. And it can be a season of pain and unhappiness for the family that has no sound home nursing plans, advises the Council, a non-profit organization sponsored as a public service by the medical and drug industry to promote home safety and family health.

"Winter weather favors the spread of communicable disease, chiefly because you are indoors more. In confined spaces there is greater risk of exposure to droplet spray, contamination from those who are sneezing and coughing. What are some effective health-care measures that the average family can use this winter?"

Take advantage of the immunizations available from your doctor. Check family records to determine which member needs a vaccination or booster shots.

In addition to preventive medicine, cleanliness habits are important. Children should be taught to wash their hands after going to the bathroom, before meals, before handling foods. Frequent baths help keep the skin healthy and clean.

Each family member should have his own towels, toilet articles and cosmetics, and they should not be shared.

Practice some of the professional health-care antiseptic principles when nursing a sick member of the family. Wash the hands in hot water before

Unit Lessons Are Outlined

SHOSHONE — The LDS Relief Society Lessons for the months of January and February are closely correlated with specific study within each department.

Spiritual living lessons are on the topics of "Adversity," "Fidelity," when a "covenant" was made of sufferings of early saints of the church along with their faithfulness and accomplishments, such as "The Nauvoo Temple and its Higher Ordinances," the February topic. Rewards of faithful women will be outlined at the February meeting along with an explanation of the purpose of the LDS Temple building program.

The visiting teachers' messages are entitled "Are to be Communicative Toward the Affiliated" and "Effective Communication."

Teaching children to be communicative and helpful toward the afflicted will be stressed by such questions as "If we could walk a year in the shoes of the afflicted, how would our lives change? How can we help ourselves and our children do this? In imagination, what all of us will be more sensitive and kind?"

For effective communication the women will be taught in February in "Listen, try looking at things from the other person's point of view," be sensitive to hidden and unspoken problems, think of needs of others, try to help others from culture, help them find communication. "Feed, don't argue."

During home making lesson net, 28 by William S. Hake, periods, the women will discuss topics: "Let's Be More Courteous," the same topic to be carried

The Mysteries" and "Day-Old Child" by Carol Lynn, Pearson will be covered in some detail. The cultural refinement lesson, formerly known as the literary lessons, are held during the fourth meeting of the month.

Judy Niccum Is Married To John Johnson

WENDELL — A candlelight ceremony was the setting for the winter marriage of Judy Niccum; daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Niccum, and John Johnson, son of Mrs. E. F. Johnson, all Wendell.

Rev. John Steppert, pastor of the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell, performed the single ceremony.

The altar was decorated with baskets of yellow football chrysanthemums and white gladioli and two antique silver candelabra, each holding seven white tapers.

The candelabra were lighted by Donna Fay McCham, Saugus, Calif., niece of the bride, and Mrs. Cecelia Wendell, niece of the bridegroom.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white silk, trimmed with a rounded neckline, a fitted bodice, lily point sleeves, and rose appliques on the bodice, sleeves and collar. The train of the gown was attached at the shoulders. Her bridal illusion veil was shoulder-length and held in place by a crown of roses.

She carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Mary Lou Lezamin, Richfield, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Candee Gooding, Jerome, and Julie Johnson, Wendell, sisters of the bridegroom.

Jerry Adams, Wendell, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Douglas-Mecham, Saugus, Calif., nephew of the bride, carried the single ring on a pillow of slipper satin which matched the bride's gown.

Dewey Durfee, Wendell, served as best man, with Jerry Hill, Mike Jacobson, Harry Comstock and Sam Mattox, all Wendell, as ushers.

Mrs. H. J. Barton, Wendell, accompanied Sylvia Durfee, Jerome, and Jane Johnson, Wendell, sisters of the bridegroom. Women of the United Presbyterian Church, Wendell, were in charge of the reception.

Guests attended from Wendell, Jerome, Twin Falls, Gooding, Richfield, Pocatello, Rigdon, Kimberley, Oregon, and California.

After a three-week honeymoon trip, which will be spent touring the western states, the newlyweds will reside in Wendell, where the bridegroom is engaged in farming with his father.

Recent parties for the bride were hosted by Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Wertz and Julie Johnson, sisters of the bridegroom, and Candee Jones.

STEAM-BID IS HARD TO REACH

If East had not been dealer North and South would have no trouble getting to six spades. When the hand was played in the 1968 Summer Nationals International Match Team game, Bobby Wolff of Dallas was the dealer. He had a lot of bids at his disposal. He could double and be reasonably sure that either East or West would run out; he could bid spades or clubs but there was one other standing bid at his disposal and he made it. He bid four diamonds!

This cue bid did not necessarily show first-round diamond control. All it did was to show that he had a good hand and wanted to be-in-game-or-higher.

This didn't solve all of Bobby Wolff's problems. He had a very good texture—double of three diamonds, but could not be sure that his partner held spades with him. Note that Ira did hold spades but did not hold much in hearts.

Bobby was too strong to just bid four spades; his spade suit was too weak to insist on a spade slam. But Bobby had a perfect bid available. He simply jumped to five spades.

After this bid it was easy for Ira to go to the slam.

Amateur Chef Gives Meat Cognac 'Needle' For Taste

AM ACQUAINTED WITH AN amateur chef who uses a peculiar method of seasoning his food. He is a young man, about 30, who lives in a small town in Florida. He is a very good cook, and his food is always well prepared. He has a very good sense of humor, and he is always ready to make a joke.

One day, he was preparing a special dinner for a group of friends. He had a very good recipe for a meat dish, and he was sure it would be a success. He had spent a lot of time on it, and he was sure it would be a success. He had a very good sense of humor, and he was always ready to make a joke.

one North-South pair was allowed to get in the first bid. East backed in with diamonds at his second turn but this delayed diamond call only served to speed South on his way to six.

At the other table East chose to open with three diamonds. This didn't bother Bobby Wolff of Dallas who sat South. He doubled.

West looked at his nothing hand and was certain that his opponents could fake a slam. He decided to try to upset their apple cart with a three no-trump call. This put things

WINTHROP

by Dick Cavalli

UP ANGILO!

SPRING ANNOUNCED HERSELF TO US, NOT WITH CHIRPS OF HOPE, BUT WHEN THE WINTER COVER CAME OFF OUR SCHOONER, WE'D SPENT THE COLD SEASON REFINISHING THE BOTTOM AND NOW WE HAD A JILLION OTHER CHORES!

I'LL GET SANDPAPER AND PAINT SO WE CAN START WITH THE TOPSIDES!

INCLUDE ME OUT, LOVER BOY. GET ME A BUCKET OF HOT WATER, I'M BACK ON THE SCRUB TEAM!

© 1969 by NEA, Inc.

HOURS LATER, BACK AND MUSCLES SORE FROM WORK, I FACED A NEW CRISIS...

MA! I'M HUNGRY!

THAT'S NEWS?

WE'VE ONLY MADE A DENT! DECK STILL TO DO, HOUSE TOP SPARS!

RELAX AND CONSIDER IT A CHALLENGE, DEAR. IN OTHER WORDS, WE'RE STUCK WITH IT!

The LITTLE PEOPLE

by Walt Scott

They say that when you're bored, you should just lay around and think of pleasant things like--

U.S. Pat. Off.

MY GOOD MAN, IS THE MANAGER AROUND?

YUP, MY WIFE'S RIGHT UP ON THE DECK!

OH--ER--IS THIS YOUR BOAT?

YUP, YARD, BILL, AND ALL. WHAT SORT OF BOAT IS YOURS?

OH, I HAVE NO BOAT, BUT I'VE SO OFTEN DREAMT OF YACHTING--IT SEEMS SO RELAXING!

HEY KEY, LEND A HAND!

ONCE MORE! HEAVE!

-- a nice hunk of juicy berry pie!

Or maybe a bowl of your favorite vegetable soup!

© 1969 by NEA, Inc.

A pair of mittens with no holes in 'em is pleasant to think on--

-- so's striped peppermint candy!

But best of all is ice cream! Gobs and gobs of ice cream! Ice cream till it comes up to your ears--

S-S-Z-Z-Z--

Poor Loop! Fell asleep and the door blew open! We better get the shovels!

DEAR POLLY—I was forever buying blotter for my brother's workshop desk. Soon I got smart and cut a section of newspaper down to size, stapled the loose edges together and put on block construction paper covers. This absorbs liquid and is disposable.—HOLLY

DEAR POLLY—If your pets bring fleas in the house, put a lighted candle, about one inch in diameter, in a dark room. Be sure to put the candle in a holder. Place the holder on a plate or pan so the wax does not drip on the floor. Let the candle burn and the fleas are drawn into the fire.—CATHY

DEAR POLLY—To sweep the snow off your car, use a broom covered with an old pants leg. Sew up the bottom, cut to the proper length to cover the broom and saw a one-inch casing in the top and leave a hole for a draw string. Pull it over your broom and tie the draw string. If the handle is too long to manage easily, cut it to about 30 inches.—MRS. C. M.

Polly pays a dollar for every idea used. Send them to her, care of this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—I use worn out canning jar lids to make pin cushions. Put half a foam ball in the lid and glue it in place. It may be painted or decorated as you wish.—BRENDA

DEAR POLLY—If you get tired of opening and closing a loaf of bread by twisting and unwrapping a little piece of plastic covered wire, twist the end of the telephone bag and fasten with a clothespin. Works well with other types of food bags, too.—MAUDINE

DEAR POLLY—To prevent juices from a berry pie running over in the oven, stick a few pieces of large macaroni through the center of the top crust.—JUNE

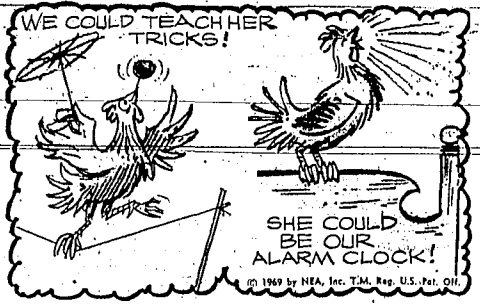

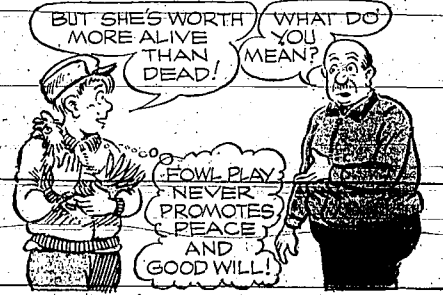

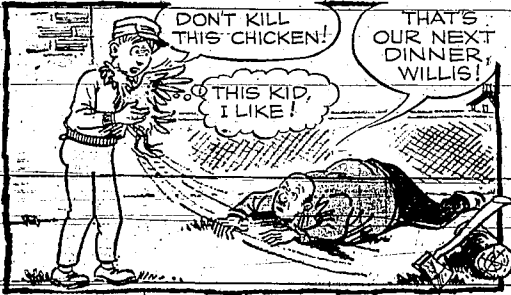

DEAR POLLY—I use a plastic hair roller as a protector for a bandaged injured finger. A short one is placed over the end of a finger, a longer one if the entire finger needs covering. Adhesive tape will hold the roller on the finger.—RAY

DEAR POLLY—Save empty kitchen and safety match boxes to make luggage for a doll. Measure and cut pieces of construction paper to glue all around the boxes. Cut a little strip and glue on the top for a handle for this miniature suitcase.—BRENDA

How Teens and Grownups
Differ in Their Thinking

Ask Them Yourself

FOR DR. WERNHER VON BRAUN, rocket expert

What is the technical reason that atomic power cannot be used to launch rockets and operate space vehicles?—Robert L. Hoy, Gainesville, Fla.

● Only time and money stand in the way of the routine use of nuclear power for both rocket propulsion and for the operation of spacecraft. The technology of nuclear propulsion for rockets has been established in the joint AEC-NASA project, and we seriously expect that nuclear power will be used extensively in the near future.

FOR ED SULLIVAN

Who is the highest-paid star ever to have appeared on your show?—F. M. Robinson, Austin, Texas

● Elvis Presley was paid the highest salary—a total of $50,000 for three television appearances.

FOR DONNA DOUGLAS

of the "Beverly Hillsbillies"
I hear you got your start on TV by sinning a beauty pageant. True?—Mrs. Shirley Christian, Kingsport, Tenn.

● Yes. After winning the titles of Miss Baton Rouge and Miss New Orleans, I went to New York, where I was extremely fortunate to appear on "The Perry Como Show" and "The Steve Allen Show."

FOR WILLIAM E. HAAST, snake handler, Miami Serpenterium

I've heard that you have been bitten 105 times by snakes. What sort of disposition do most snakes actually have?—Mrs. Mike Hopfinger, Bison S. D.

● Attitude is a better word than disposition. From the moment a snake is born, its attitude is, let me alone and I won't bother you. Violate that rule, and you better watch out!

FOR JAMES J. ROWLEY,

director, U.S. Secret Service
Is Mrs. Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis still under Secret Service protection?—Bernice Anderson, Davila Lake, N. D.

● No. Under the law, Mrs. Onassis is no longer eligible.

FOR DR. MARIE HIRNICH,

American Medical Association
Will it be possible some day to predetermine a baby's sex?—Mrs. Jerry H. Keen, Hillsboro, Texas

● The child's sex is determined the moment the egg cell and the sperm cell unite. It is a completely random match with the male chromosome dictating the child's sex. At present, we know of no way sex determination can be controlled. Since the potentiality of development of sex characteristics involves hormone control, it may be possible some day by means of hormone therapy to have the egg cell exert some type of regulatory influence on sperm chromosomes.

FOR CHARLES SCHULZ, cartoonist

Why aren't the parents of "The characters in 'Peanuts' ever shown?—Steve McFarling, Austin, Texas

● Because "Peanuts" is a comic strip about children. It is their story, told by them in their own way. It is simply that special children's world in which adults do not have a part.

FOR TOM SMOTHERS of

"The Smothers Brothers Show"
Do you and your brother Dick hope to make a movie?—Kathy Reisheske, Racine, Wis.

● Yes. We are interested—but not necessarily in a comedy and not necessarily together.

FOR MARLO THOMAS of "That Girl"

I've heard that Marlo is a stage name. If so, what is your real name?—Michael Kubit, Lowell, Mass.

● My real name is Margaret, but when I was very small, I couldn't pronounce it. It came out "Marlo," and that's what my family began calling me.

FOR PAUL HARVEY, radio newscaster

Every day on your program you compliment couples married 60 years or more. How has been married the longest?—Rem Heuter, Walla Walla, Wash.

● From personal recollection, I think the longest marriage recorded is 82 years, but it would be an impossibility to search our voluminous files to give you the name of this couple.

WHAT IN THE WORLD!

Suitcase Notes—Violinist and music educator Yehudi Menuhin travels 10 months a year, and his wife Diana has worked out a special packing program. "I always list in columns what article goes with what-coat, dress, and accessories," she says, "and I dress accordingly. I keep that list, so when we return to a certain city next year, I won't turn up in exactly the same clothes. This [jumper (shown in picture) is a hand-woven wool from Persia. Hand-woven fabric doesn't catch. When traveling between warm and cool climates, I use knit coats because they easily fit in a suitcase."

Yehudi Menuhin and wife

How to Enjoy a Painting—Make some resolutions before you go to a museum, suggests Ross Parmenter, in "The Awakened Eye." 1) Look only at a limited number of pictures; 2) allow enough time for the painting to work on you and you on it; 3) nurse every little sprout of curiosity prompted by the picture; 4) search your memory for similar paintings and for recollections of how objects depicted appear to you in reality; 5) buy your favorites from the museum's post-card counter.

Oscar's bone wagon

Beginning Backward Stanley Arnold, an "idea man" who runs a million-dollar enterprise thinking up various sales programs for giant corporations, claims to be a champion alyxite—and he is. "At 13," was the "worst brood [jumper] in the Cleveland school system," he says, "so I practiced jumping backward until I could manage several feet." He got the gym teacher to hold a contest—the top athlete hurled himself back, just a few inches—and fell flat. Everyone expected Stanley to be even worse. Instead, his school had a new sports event—and the world's first champion backward-jumper.

How to Fund-Raise Monte Hall, pitchman supreme of tv's "Let's Make a Deal," raises funds for Catholic, Protestant, Jewish, and miscellaneous charities and passes on his techniques: "You can use intimidation, but this is difficult to do, and I don't like it. Emotional appeal works with a group but not on an individual. My best method is person-to-person, though you can lose both sale and friend, I write to people I know, showing how life has been good to us, saying we now have a way of showing our gratitude. And I try to appeal to common sense—like tax deductions."

One Dog's Life This dog is a black-and-tan Rough Griffon Bruxellois, named Oscar. Since he's a celebrity (in London films and tv), fans send him oversize bones, too big to carry much less-bury. His mistress took a roller skate and made a "bone wagon" for him so he could drag home his oversize goodies. Is it worth it? Arf, says Oscar.

Discover the secrets of gift decorating!

Before you know it, creating a decorative and useful canister like "Just comes naturally!"

Folks may begin bidding for a beautiful one-of-a-kind wall plaque like this even before the paint is dry.

A few dots of paint and a rusty weather-beaten tin makes this charming bread box.

"No-bidder" housewife brought these wooden ducks back to life—with gift decorating.

Gift decorating turned this old coffee tin into a $50.00 keepsake.

Once a rusty, faded picture gift decorating turns it into a collector's treasure.

You can create beautiful gifts like these even if you've never painted before.

(and make up to $60 a week selling your gifts, if you choose.)

IMAGINE! Just a little paint... 3 simple brush strokes... and you can turn trash into treasures, junk-pile discards into glamorous gifts—even if you've never held a brush before. In your hands a battered old coffee pot now becomes a work of art... a faded tea kettle changes into a charming gift planter... a forgotten camel-back trunk becomes a beautiful hand-painted hope chest.

It's easy—no special talent needed! Today the Decorative Arts Institute is helping thousands of men and women create beautiful decorator pieces at home. You, too, will be thrilled to discover you can create lovely treasures—even if you can't draw a straight line. Mrs. Ruth Miner of TABOOKS, TEXAS, writes: "I never had a brush in my hand before but after the first 3 lessons I have sold to our largest department store!"

What's the secret? The discovery that with 3 simple brush strokes (the same strokes used to apply lipstick), you can decorate for fun or profit, as you choose. Quickly and easily you'll see exquisite ROSES and FLOWERS... FRUIT... CLIPDS and BOWS... BIRDS and BUTTERFLIES... come alive under your brush as if by magic!

Earn while you learn at home! Even as a beginner you may find friends, decorators, even gift shops eagerly bidding for your unusual one-of-a-kind creations—sometimes offering $10, $15, even $20 for one. Soon after starting, Miss Ellen Baer of Hot Springs, Arkansas, wrote: "I know my work isn't real great yet, but my things are being grabbed before they're dry!"

Go on antique treasure hunts! Everywhere you look—antique stores, barns, sheds, junk shops, second-hand stores—you'll find "treasures-in-the-rough"—awaiting only a few strokes to turn them into stunning objects of art. Friends may beg you to create lovely hand-painted decorator pieces for their homes, too. "My friends and neighbors," says Mrs. Marilyn Belford of Tulsa, Oklahoma, "have kept-me-busy-painting-milk-cans and recipe boxes, and I've done two trunks. What a happy whirl I'm in!" And within days from now you, too, can be in a happy whirl enjoying the fun, the excitement, and if you wish, the profits of decorating gifts at home.

Students create beautiful gifts, then send letters praising the joys and profits of gift decorating!

"I cleared $250.00 last month—and I didn't even leave the house!"

—LOIS PULLIO, Louisiana

"I have acquired 30 school desks... which I am refinishing... I have them practically all sold."

—ROBERT WEITZMANN, New York

"Wanted you to know how very pleased I have been with your Course. And I didn't know how to hold a brush in the beginning."

—LOUIS DIETZ, California

"Nothing I can think of now could give me more pleasure than recommending Decorative Arts Institute. My objective in taking their Course was to supplement social security and a small monthly pension. This I am doing."

Sgt. Larry Thomason has last combat interview before long-awaited leave.

A young GI who has not seen his wife in 14 months—and never has seen his infant son—finds a few brief days of peace and love in

Reunion in Hawaii

SOLDIERS TRADITIONALLY live from leave to leave, and those Americans serving in Vietnam are no exception. Unlike warriors of the past, though, many GIs are able to leave combat for a brief reunion with their wives in one of the world's most romantic rendezvous—Honolulu. Each month, thousands fly from Saigon, while, almost simultaneously, their wives journey westward across the Pacific, long journeys for an all-too-short second honeymoon. That was the case of Sgt. Larry and Cathy Thomason of Danville, Ill. He is a combat correspondent for the Army (and former staff member of the Danville Commercial-News). He had not seen his wife in 14 months—and had never seen his son Jay, six months old. Here is their bittersweet journal—from the time they left for their meeting at the airport until war again separated them. ♦

Photos: Paul Stephanes and R. Washam of Black Star, Danville (Ill.) Commercial-News

Cathy, Jay, and Larry rendezvous at Honolulu airport; thousands of Vietnam GIs and wives meet here each week.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ogler say good-bye to daughter and grandson en route to Honolulu to meet husband and father.

Sight-seeing is part of the GI-family reunions. Larry and Cathy meet an "Hawaiian warrior" at Waikiki Beach.

The couple found time for each other in night-club interlude.

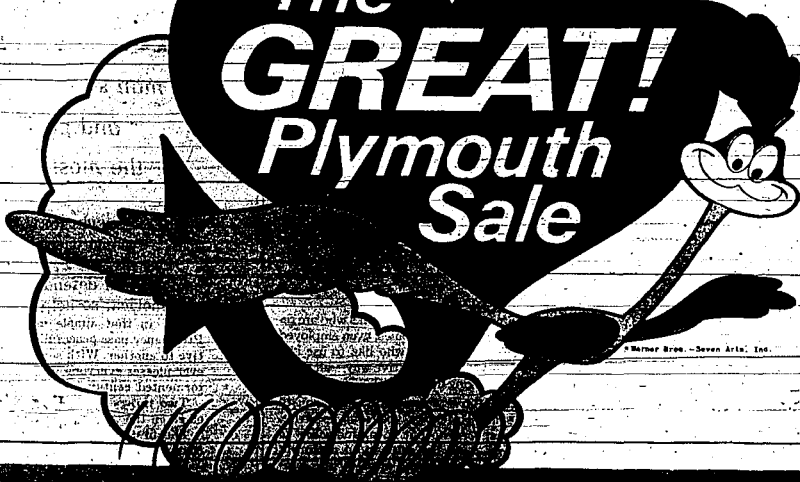

In the Ilika Hotel, Larry gets acquainted with his son, born after he left for Vietnam. Cathy and Larry are 31.

After five days, the couple returns to the airport for an aloha good-bye until the next reunion—a permanent one.

Tells How to Make Money Writing Short Paragraphs

Chicago Man Reveals a Short Cut to Authorship

Discloses little-known angle by which beginners often get paid five to ten times more per word than the rates paid to famous authors. Now anyone who can write a sentence in plain English can write for money without spending weary years "learning to write."

FOR years and years a relatively few people have had a "corner" on one of the most profitable authors' markets ever known. They've been going quietly along selling thousands and thousands of contributions. None of them has had to be trained authors. None of them has been "big name" writers. Yet, in hundreds of cases they have been paid from five to ten times as much per word as was earned by famous authors.

The successful men and women in this field had such a good thing that they kept it pretty well to themselves. Mr. Benson Barrett was one of these people. For years he enjoyed a steady income—made enough money in spare time to pay for a fine farm near Chicago.

Finally, Mr. Barrett decided to let others in on the secret. Since then he has shown a number of other men and women how to write for money. He has not had to give them any lessons in writing. He has not asked them to go through any long course of study or practice. In fact, most of his protégés have started mailing contributions to magazines within two weeks after starting with his plan.

Mr. Barrett says that the only skill required is that the beginner be able to write a sentence in plain English. Almost anyone with a grade school education can write well enough to follow Mr. Barrett's plan, because the contributions you will send to magazines are almost never more than one short paragraph in length.

Shut-ins, housewives, folks who are retired on small incomes, even employed men, and women who like to use idle hours in a constructive way—all types are making money on short paragraphs.

Mr. Barrett does not teach you to write. He shows you what to write, what form to put it in, and whom to send it to. He shows you a simple method for getting ideas by the hundreds. He gives you a list of more than 200 magazines whose editors are looking for this kind of material and who will buy from beginners. In other words, he teaches you a method, an angle, a plan for starting to write for money right away.

If you would like to see your writing in print and get paid for it—just send your name on coupon to Mr. Barrett. He will send full information about his plan of coaching by return mail—postage prepaid. He makes no charge for this information. And, no salesman will call on you. You decide, at home, whether you'd like to try his plan. If the idea of getting paid for writing short paragraphs appeals to you write to Mr. Barrett for this information.

No telling where it might lead. Such a small start may even open opportunities for real authorship. And, since it can't cost you anything more than a 5¢ stamp, you'll certainly want to get all the facts. Please address coupon below to Mr. Benson Barrett, 6216 N. Clark Street, Dept. 376-M, Chicago, Illinois 60626.

BENSON BARRETT

Dept. 376-M Chicago, Illinois 60626

Please send me, free and without obligation, the full story of your unique coaching method, showing how I can write to sell right away, how you furnish names and addresses of editors who buy from beginners and tell me how I can start submitting manuscripts the first week. I understand that everything you send me will come postpaid and that no salesman will call.

How the Power

A man steps forward, takes a simple oath—and peaceably and quietly assumes the most awesome office in the world

A MAN STEPS FORWARD, raises his hand, and takes an awesome oath:

"I, . . . do solemnly swear that I will preserve, protect, and defend the Constitution of the United States of America, so help me God."

And in that simple moment the enormous powers of the American Presidency pass peacefully, quietly, and irrevocably from one Chief Executive to another. With some national grumbling, yes, for no President-elect ever pleases everyone. But not yet, despite the strains and stresses of this tormented century, with armies, civil wars, or national upheaval.

Two things ride upon this ceremony; plainest, yet most awe-inspiring of all in the American system.

The first is 180 years of history in which only once, and that more than 100 years ago, has the ceremony been the harbinger of civil turmoil.

The second is the living proof of the strength and durability of the democratic system of the United States, perhaps the greatest experiment in government ever devised by men.

On that bleak March day in 1861 when Abraham Lincoln stood before the Capitol, the oath-taking meant war with a South already rising. Never before and never since has it been the signal for anything other than a closing of ranks, a restoration of campaign-divided national unity behind the man freely chosen by his fellow citizens in a free election.

Isolated incidents have occurred, an occasional example of poor sportsmanship or deliberate divisiveness has been noted, but the overwhelming attitude of the citizenry has been that the ceremony is a rededication for all Americans to the ideals of their country. And so it has been.

Today, as never before, this peaceful transfer of the world's greatest executive power has a significance for all mankind far beyond what it has for Americans alone. In the present era, it is imperative for this country that the power should pass peaceably from Lyndon Johnson to Richard Nixon. It is equally imperative for all those nations and races which, for good or ill, are influenced and directly affected by what is done in the great Republic of the West.

It is a reaffirmation to them—and to us—that the great experiment in self-government still survives, and survives in basic good health. And this despite all those well-organized and well-publicized examples of riot and dissent which lately have marred the American story and even given some cause to believe that it might be entering its declining chapters.

There have been times—and there may be again—when such turbulent distractions have taken the eyes of America and the world away from the steady underlying strengths of the country. There have been days and nights when it has seemed that the nation was being put to the torch and would not recover from the agonies inflicted upon it by its willful and wayward children.

At such moments, it has been easy to conceive of a time when all the structures of an orderly, peaceful, and progressive society would be destroyed; when all certainties and all stabilities would be cancelled out in a futile burst of "protest" without program, and "dissent" without constructive alternative.

Yet the campaigns were held, the election came the victor was proclaimed. And tomorrow, speaking the simple, time-worn words, he will receive from his predecessor the willing gift of the enormous powers of the American Presidency. And the nation will go on.

That it should be so, in this age of the "screeching mindless," is perhaps the major American miracle. Not the economic growth, not the worldwide commitment to freedom, not the familiar and almost unappreciated liberties of the individual, but just this fantastic fact of awe-

of the Presidency Is Passed On some power, quietly yet positively transferred.

The event highlights what is probably the fundamental strength of America—the by-now automatic and almost instinctive acceptance of the social contract under which Americans live together, the feeling that this is not only the necessary but the right way to do things, the feeling that it is "the American way," whose violation would bring disaster to us all.

This habit of automatic acceptance of the majority decision, based as it is upon nearly two centuries of practice, is not the act of sheeplike complacency which some critics of the American system—including some native critics—profess to see in it. Instead, it is the shrewdly practical judgment of a people who early in their history realized that, in Ben Franklin's words, they must "hang together or hang separately."

Never has this been truer than it is now, when America is the No. 1 target of hostile forces elsewhere in the world, whose major aim is to bring her down—and when a noisy minority of her own citizens, forgetful or ignorant of the history of their country, lend themselves angrily and viciously to the task.

Democracy, in a sense the strongest system ever conceived for maintaining the rights of the individual in the face of the necessities of national government, is also in another sense the weakest, for it rests almost entirely upon this habit of acceptance. In the last analysis, no armed force can hold it together. Only the will of the people can do that. Without their support, it crumbles—and crumbles fast. Undermine the habit of support and you destroy the system; and in fairly short order, as the lives of nations go.

This, essentially, is what those who would undermine it in America have sought to do in the past few months and years. They have sought to convince the American people that they no longer can believe in their system and, therefore, no longer can believe in themselves.

The argument has run that the system does not provide the opportunity for all which it purports to do; that it does not automatically guarantee all of its citizens the best education, the best job, the best house, the best car—with no work to get these things; that it does not automatically guarantee that all of its citizens will have liking and respect for one another—regardless of whether, as individuals, they are worthy of liking and respect; that it is not some automatic Utopia providing pie in the sky and the assurance that all of its citizens will be declared officially perfect—whether they are or not.

And that because it does not automatically do these things—because a good education, a good job, a good life, and the decent respect of one's fellows must still be earned by patient, laborious, and honest endeavor—these dissenters feel that it somehow has failed its citizens and is no longer worthy of their support.

Such has run the argument, so it still runs, and will continue to run, in all probability, for quite some time. Those who most loudly condemn "materialistic America" damn it because it does automatically provide them with the most materialistic of rewards. They complain like spoiled infants, and because they are loud and evil and intimidating, they have been able to persuade or frighten a certain number of their fellow Americans into a lack of faith in the essential goodness and ultimate value of our democracy to all the people.

Continued without check, this process could destroy in a relatively short period that steady faith in democracy which in the final reckoning is its only real strength. This is what the wreckers deliberately have set out to do. They will continue their efforts, for they are as persistent as they are evil. With some, they have already succeeded, inevitably they will with more.

But they will not succeed with the majority, nor will they succeed in overturning the American democracy as long as it continues to provide the reasonable opportunity and, above all, the reasonable personal liberties that reasonable men have a right to expect from it—and as long as most Americans believe in it as instinctively as they do.

The size of the wreckers' task, if they continue in it, is measured in the simple oath-taking that will occur tomorrow. In a free vote in which some 70,000,000 Americans cast their ballots, the decision was rendered. It was not an overwhelming decision, and for a good while it was not a clear-cut one. But in due course the result emerged.

Neither during the long hours of the vote count, nor later, did any responsible citizen anywhere in the country suggest that Mr. Nixon had not been fairly elected or that his victory should be contested with force in favor of Mr. Humphrey or that the system had failed to work or that it should be overturned and something else be put in its place.

Close though the verdict was, it was instantly, and for all practical purposes, unanimously accepted. Those out on the fringe—who had been shouting so loudly and so long that the American democracy was a fraud were silenced by the simple majesty of its free, uncontrolled—and uncontrollable—decision.

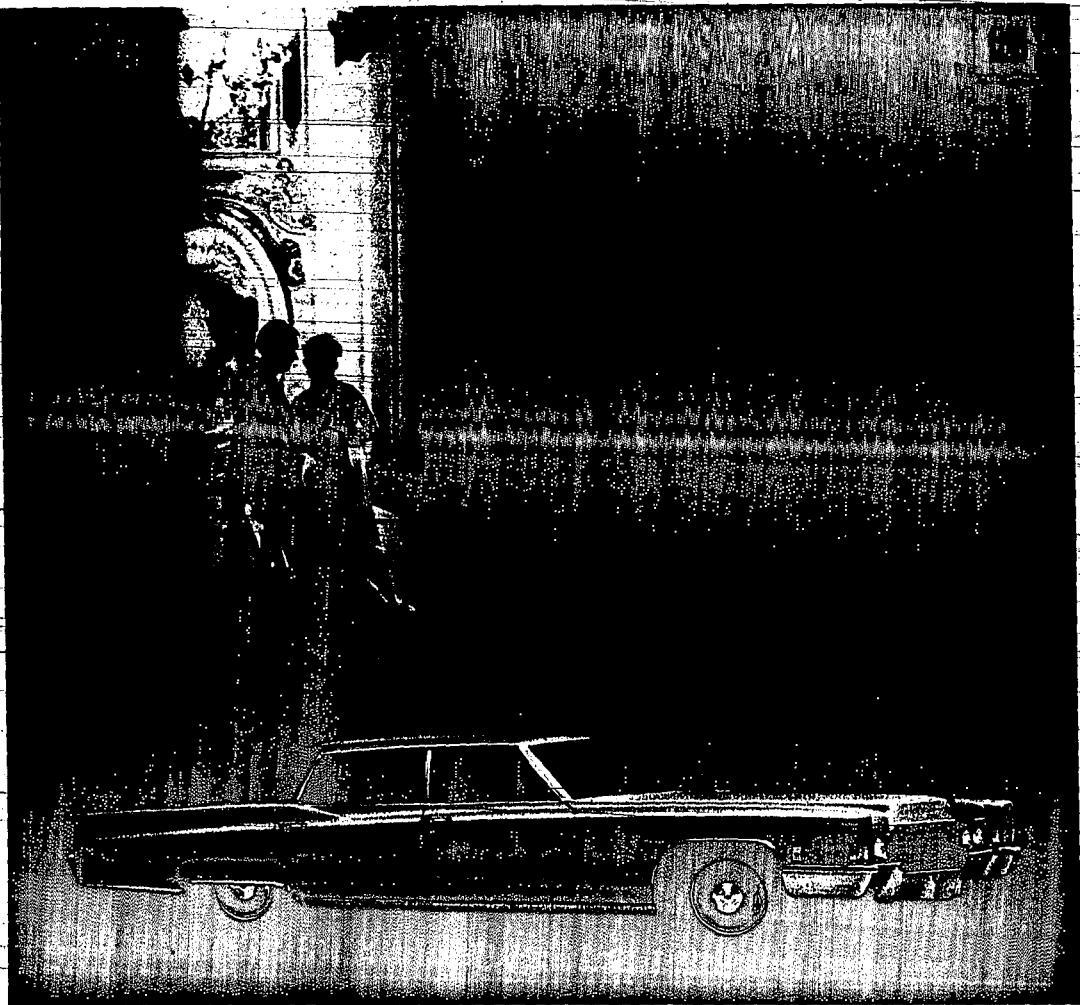

So a man steps forward, raises his hand, swears to "preserve, protect, and defend" the Constitution, and, implicitly, the nation and its system of government and the enormous power of the people's united will passes into his hands.

It is still the American miracle. The quiet certainty of its acceptance is an act of faith so great that those sick souls who challenge it, while they may succeed for a while yet in frightening the decent, cannot in the long run achieve their empty and destructive goal in any lasting way.

The weight of history, the weight of democracy is against them. ♦

Life with My Zany Father— Danny Kaye

By DENA KAYE

I WAS DRESSING to go out, and I asked Daddy to please, if the phone rang, take an accurate message for once and not just tell me that "someone called."

Just then the phone rang. My father picked it up and asked who was calling. Then he asked, "What's your blood type?" "Have you had any childhood diseases?" "Is this an emergency—or a social call?"

After a fruitless attempt at getting the phone away from him, I settled back and enjoyed the interrogation. I hoped my friend on the other end of the line was enjoying it, too. That's the way life is in the zany, unpredictable home of Danny Kaye—my father.

Life is never dull there because Daddy is as much a comedian at home as he is on the stage. And he combines this comedy talent with a total involvement in whatever he does—particularly cooking and flying, his two pet hobbies.

Take, for example, his penchant for cooking, a hobby that has led him on the road to disaster more than once. One day Daddy suddenly got a tremendous yen for French sourdough bread, for example. He flew to San Francisco for an exclusive French restaurant for the recipe. Getting it, he flew back home and raced into the kitchen, where he spent hours baking the bread. When I asked him how it turned out, he simply said, "Watch." He banged a loaf of the bread by the kitchen table and chipped it—not the bread, the table. And all he did was laugh.

Daddy's interest in food, foreign food especially, started when he was young, traveling all over the world with a show called "La Vie Paris." While other members of the cast went shopping, Daddy was seeking out obscure native restaurants, trying to communicate with waiters in his now-famous pantomime. In a restaurant in China, Daddy recalls trying to order chicken by flapping his arms around and making clucking sounds. The waiter nodded knowingly and returned some time later with two eggs. That probably accounts for Daddy's reluctance for making omelets even today.

Besides his hobbies, Daddy also is totally involved with his family. I know I've learned many important lessons from him. The year I made my high-school drill team, for instance, I practiced strutting around the house, and Daddy would strut right after me, doing wild imitations of my routines. It was his way of telling me not to get a swelled head and not to take myself too seriously.

Daddy started me on an allowance very young—and at a nickel a week. I remember making a pitch for a raise by telling him my room was neat and clean. He said, "Fine. I'll raise your allowance not because of that—after all, if it's filthy, you have to live in it—but because you deserve it." It was my first lesson in values—what's important and what's not. Daddy's way always has been to teach by clowning and joking, but the lesson is there.

No matter how far apart we are geographically—and Daddy's work takes him to far-off places sometimes—we are as close as the nearest phone. Last spring, while making a movie in France, Daddy called and asked Mom and me if we would like to have dinner in his favorite Chinese restaurant, "Ying's Thing." That's his pet name for our kitchen—We said yes, and sure enough he flew in that evening for dinner. Like I said, he's unpredictable.

But that's the way life is when your father is Danny Kaye—and I wouldn't want it any other way. ♦

WILL YOU SMOKE MY NEW KIND OF PIPE

30 Days at my Risk?

All I want is your name so I can write and tell you why I'm willing to send you my pipe for 30 days smoking without a cent of risk on your part.

By E. A. Carey

My new pipe is not a new model, not a new style, not a new gadget, not an improvement on old style pipes. It is the first pipe in the world to use an entirely new principle for giving unadulterated pleasure to pipe smokers.

I've been a pipe smoker for 30 years, always looking for the ideal pipe—buying all the disappointing gadgets, and never finding a single, solitary pipe that would smoke hour after hour, day after day, without bitterness, bite, or lads.

With considerable doubt, I decided to work out something for myself. After months of experimenting and scores of disappointments, suddenly, almost by accident, I discovered how to harness four great natural laws to give me everything I wanted in a pipe. It didn't require any "breaking in." From the first puff it smoked cool—it smoked mild. It smoked right down to the last bit of tobacco without bite. It never has to be "crested." AND it never has to be cleaned! Yet it is utterly impossible for you or sludge to reach your tongue, because my invention dissipates the goo as it forms!

You might expect all this to require a complicated mechanical gadget, but when you see it, the most surprising thing will be that I've done all this in a pipe that looks like any of the finest conventional pipes. The claims I could make for this principle in tobacco enjoyment, are so spectacular that no pipe smoker would believe them. So, since "seeing is believing," I also say "smoking is convincing" and I want to send you one Carey Pipe to smoke 30 days at my risk. At the end of that time, if you are willing to give up your Carey Pipe, simply break it to bits—and return it to me—the trial has cost you nothing.

Please send me your name today. The coupon or a postal card will do. I'll send you absolutely free my complete trial offer so you can decide for yourself whether or not my pipe-smoking friends are right when they say the Carey Pipe is the greatest smoking invention ever patented. Send your name and mailing address to me today. As one pipe smoker to another, I'll guarantee you the surprise of your life. Free. Write:

Convenience Keynotes This Soup Kettle Supper

MELANIE DE PROFT Food Editor

The appealing dishes illustrated on the right only look as if they require time and effort. Actually, convenience foods greatly simplify their preparation. The market order includes such items as packaged precooked rice, canned soup and vegetables, cake mix, instant pudding, packaged salad dressing—great helpers in making a hearty meal easy for you.

Soup Kettle Supper

- 1/4 lb. sliced bacon, cut in pieces
- 2 cups diced cooked ham
- 1 can (10 1/2 oz.) condensed beef broth
- 2 cups water
- 1 1/2 cups packaged precooked rice
- 1 can (17 oz.) whole kernel corn
- 1 can (1 lb.) green beans
- 1 can (1 lb.) tomatoes
- 1 to 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

1. Fry bacon in a kettle or Dutch oven until crisp. Remove bacon and drain on absorbent paper.
2. Pour off all but 2 tablespoons of the drippings. Fry ham in the hot bacon drippings in kettle until slightly browned.
3. Add bacon and remaining ingredients except parsley. Bring to boiling, cover and remove from heat; let stand 5 min.
4. Sprinkle rice mixture with parsley and serve. About 4 servings

Coffee-Glazed Chocolate Ring

- 1 pkg. German's chocolate cake mix
- 1 pkg. (1 1/2 oz.) chocolate-flavored instant pudding
- 1 cup water
- 4 eggs (about 1 cup)

1. Put ingredients into a large mixing bowl. Beat at low speed until just moistened. Increase speed to medium and beat 8 min., scraping down sides of bowl occasionally.

2. Meanwhile, line the bottom of a 10-in. tubed pan with heavy paper. Turn batter into paper-lined pan and spread evenly to edges.
3. Bake at 350°F about 50 min. or until a cake tester comes out clean when inserted in cake.

4. Set cake in pan right side up on wire rack and cool 15 min. Remove from pan and cool completely on rack.

5. Spread Instant Coffee Glaze over top of cake (see photo).

One 10-in. tubed cake

Instant Coffee Glaze: Dissolve 1 teaspoon instant coffee in 3 tablespoons water in a bowl. Add 2 cups sifted confectioners' sugar and a few grains salt; stir until smooth. If glaze is too thin, add more sugar until of desired consistency. 1/2 cup glaze

Honey Salad Dressing

This sweet-tart dressing accentuates the tangy flavor of citrus fruits:

- 1/2 cup cider vinegar
- 2 tablespoons water
- 1 tsp. garlic-flavored salad-dressing mix
- 3/4 cup salad or cooking oil
- 3 to 4 tablespoons honey

Mix vinegar and water in a crust or jar with a tight-fitting cover. Add salad-dressing mix, cover, and shake well. Add oil cover, and shake. Add honey. Shake before using. About 1 1/2 cups salad dressing

Convenience foods are part of soup kettle supper, honey salad dressing, chocolate ring, and instant coffee glaze.

My man was a King-Size Problem...

(Confessions of a big man's wife)

MY HUSBAND is big and handsome—any woman would be proud to be seen with such an escort. I've always enjoyed going places with him. Except for one thing—the clothes he wore never fit him correctly.

They weren't cheap clothes, either—my husband makes a good living. They just weren't designed, proportioned right for a man his size. Most of the smart, new styles they're wearing didn't even come in his size: his shirts and slacks were always skimpy, his jackets never looked right and his shoes were just not in style. I tried going shopping for him myself—but I'd just run myself ragged, come home close to tears.

Then one day a friend showed me the new KING-SIZE Catalog. It was a revelation! 96 pages crammed with smart, stylish clothing and shoes... sweaters, slacks and jackets—all specially designed for TALL and BIG men! Inseams up to 32"... necks to 22"... sleeves to 33"... sizes to XXXL! And the finest brands—McGregor, Arrow, Manhattan, Jantzen, Weldon. Shoes in sizes from 10 to 16, widths AAA to EEE... including DuPont Corfam; Hush Puppies; Flates Floaters and others...

Best of all, this beautiful full-color KING-SIZE Catalog doesn't cost a penny. And every item carries the famous KING-SIZE Money-Back Guarantee: "You must be completely satisfied both BEFORE and AFTER wearing, or you get an immediate refund or exchange." Could anything be fairer?

If your husband (son, brother, boyfriend) has the same kind of King-Size problem, that problem is solved right now! Just sit down and write for the FREE KING-SIZE Catalog. When it comes, you and your BIG and TALL man will discover how much FUN buying the right clothes can be!

Some of the world's finest recipes are hidden away in the kitchens of American homes like yours.

Now we've collected 4,000 of the best—and you can take a peek at them FREE

What's more, you can keep any one volume in this 5-volume cookbook set absolutely FREE—even if you decide not to keep and buy the entire set

That's a pretty tempting offer. We think you'll have to agree. But then, these are pretty tempting recipes. And we figure that if we can somehow just get you to sample them, you'll fall in love with them completely—and won't want to part with them for the world.

You see, these aren't just ordinary recipes—the kind contrived in tiled test kitchens, then published once and forgotten. Instead, they're the kind of recipes that you yourself may have hidden away in your own kitchen.

"Private" recipes that have made women like yourself locally famous for their cooking. Cherished "family" recipes complete with secret ingredients. Recipes brought over by settlers and immigrants or brought back from travel to distant lands. Favorite recipes from the kitchens of famous people. Blue-ribbon recipes honored at state and county fairs and other competitions.

Outstanding private recipes like these usually can't be found in ordinary cookbooks. Instead they are carefully kept "in the family"—scribbled on file cards or in notebooks and kept tucked away in a kitchen file, or cabinet drawer. They are handed down from mother to daughter, and divulged only reluctantly to dearest friends.

But because these recipes are so great... because they represent the brilliant best in American cooking, we decided to collect and preserve the cream of them in an authentic, comprehensive "library" of private recipes. And now that this library is ready, we are so eager for you to examine it that we'll let you keep any one volume free even if you decide you don't want to keep and buy the complete set.

This unique library has been literally years in the making. We contacted women's groups all over the country and impressed on them the importance of saving and sharing their "local" recipes. We asked home economists for those special recipes which they, as career cooks, have selected to use in their own homes. We appealed to officers' wives for the great recipes they'd collected when living at U.S. military posts all over the world.

Altogether, we collected a rich and varied file treasury of more than 100,000 of these recipes and from this abundance, we finally made a selection of the most outstanding entries in five categories: Meats (including seafood), Casseroles, Vegetables (including fruits, relishes and preserves), Salads, and Desserts. Five full volumes in all... over 4,000 incomparable recipes... almost 2,000 pages of Favorite Recipes by American.

Just imagine your family's delight when you surprise them with steaming Chicken-Tater and Onion Casserole, bright with pimento and paprika, luscious with marvelously mingled flavors... and a fragrant loaf of hot, homemade Herb Bread to go with it.

Or imagine the thrill of treating your bedazzled bridge club to Strauberies in a Pink Cloud... or brightening up a family picnic with a Queen What Salad which will leave them both guessing and raving.

Or just for fun, imagine answering the perennial "What's for supper?" with: "Spirarintum... Oh Boy Farm Boy... Bubble and Squeak... and Fat Man's Misery for dessert."

You'll find all these delights and more in these unique cookbooks, bright in their splash-and-stain resistant checked calico covers and sparkling with vivid full-color, full-page illustrations. There are special sections on game, canning, preserving, bread making... woman-to-woman hints on taking the boredom out of daily cooking... and much, much more.

Frankly, we think you'll find these books so unusual, so fascinating, that we feel sure you will want to keep them all after your 10-day free trial. But if not, just select the one you like best and keep it anyway as a gift for examining the rest. Return the rest and owe nothing. Otherwise, you may keep them all for just $4.95, plus postage and handling, then $4.50 a month for two more months until you've paid a total of $13.95 plus postage and handling. That's about 3 recipes per 1¢, which we think is a pretty good bargain in any woman's language.

SEX? MONEY? RELIGION?

What Do You Really Think About?

By ALAN D. HAAS

JUST WHAT do you think about most often? And how does your thinking differ from others of different ages?

Psychology Professor Paul Cameron of Wayne State University has tested the thinking patterns of children, teenagers (particularly collegians), adults, and grandparents. In the first real study of this generation gap, Cameron broke down his test groups according to age and, in certain instances, according to sex.

Here are some of his interesting findings:

Do you think of others rather than yourself?

According to Cameron's findings, if you are an adult (over 21) or a child (under 12), you will be thinking of yourself about 70 percent of the time. Yet our college-age youth posts the opposite figures, thinking of themselves only 30 percent of the time and of others 70 percent of the time.

Do you often think of sex?

Here the college students have a wide lead; they are apt to be thinking of sex some 20 percent of the time, while the subject occupies the thoughts of children and adults only 5 percent of the time and old people (over 59) not at all. One interesting sidelight is that persons young, old, or in between tend to think of the opposite sex about twice as frequently as their own. Fathers think more often about their daughters, mothers about their sons.

What do the generations think of each other?

Youngsters up to the age of 10 tend to think about adults; teen-agers tend to think of persons in their own age group; the elderly spend most of their thinking time on the young, such as their grandchildren. "No one seems to think about the elderly—including the elderly," Cameron points out.

How often do you think of material things?

Some indication of the reason for the generation gap is revealed by the statistics in this category. According to Cameron's research, adults think about material things (the car, house, mortgage, and, above all, money) some 45 percent of the time. On the other hand, college students think about material things only 8 percent of the time. As previously pointed out, their main concern is the welfare of others, actively participating in civil-rights demonstrations, and peace movements, for example. Cameron feels that if parents could get their minds off the material world, they could "get in tune" with their youngsters.

College students, too, spend three times as much thought on problem-solving and making value judgments as adults do, and twice as much as children—further indication of the over-present generation gap.

How often do you think of religion?

Surprisingly, college students think of religion about 8 percent of their thinking time as compared to a scant 1-to-3-percent for all other age groups. This thinking could be positive or negative, however, with thoughts ranging from "Is there a God?" to "Does the minister beat his wife?" Students think about religion about half as often as they think about sex.

What do you think of the past, present, and future?

This is the one area where the generation gap narrows. Older, adults, and teenagers think about the present 70 percent of the time; youngsters between 60 and 65 percent. Adults think of the future roughly 20 percent of the time, teen-agers 15 percent, and children 25 percent. All age groups tend to think of the past only 10 percent of their thinking time, except the college-age where the figure jumps to 16 percent.

Cameron's research may be useful to analysts and therapists as a quick measure of aberrant behavior. It may be helpful to you, too, in understanding the generation gap in today's society. ♦
