Police Officer Shoots Agents By Mistake

CONCORD, Calif. (UPI) — Three U.S. Customs Agents were shot during a stakeout Sunday by a veteran police officer who said he thought they were narcotics suspects trying to kill him.

Police Chief James Chambers said officer Alex D. McLennan, 36, opened fire because he "believed his life was in danger."

Agent George Gudbranson, 30, Walnut Creek, was later arrested in front of the inn with 1,500 pounds of marijuana he had stashed in a nearby truck.

Chambers said Fessler tried to leave the inn parking lot in a late model green car, and the customs agents, also in a late model green car, blocked his exit and gave chase.

McLennan, who was later treated for shock, apparently thought the agents' car was Fessler's vehicle, Chambers said.

Fessler was held on a federal warrant in San Diego as well as several local charges.

Hansen said, "Private ownership, farming, grazing, timber harvesting, mining and subdivision building could continue in a national recreation area as long as the natural or historic values of the 33,000-acre valley are not damaged by the activity."

Hansen will introduce the Sawtooth National Recreation Area legislation in the House early next week.

U. S. Treasury Contributes $50 Billion Yearly To States

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal treasury is now contributing $20 billion a year to the budgets of state and local governments. Under the budget submitted to Congress by former President Lyndon B. Johnson last month, the figure would jump to $23 billion for the fiscal year starting July 1.

But Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, long regarded by more conservative Republicans as a free-spender with state taxpayers' money, is warning that his state of New York is facing a serious budget crisis. He recommended cuts in state taxes, tax increases, and additional tax increases, he said, would damage New York's economic position in competition with other states.

Rockefeller told his legislators that his budget defied the limits of its capacity to spend—pending urgent and essential decisions of federal policies in allocating responsibilities among the various levels of government and in distributing the lion's share of revenues that the federal government collects."

Rockefeller also told his legislators that it would take courage to apply restraints to increases in state spending.

That comment did not sound like it came from the same Rockefeller who said in a Harvard University lecture seven years ago this week:

"If a state government lacks the political courage to meet the needs of its people by using its own taxing powers—if it prefers to escape by letting the national government do the taxing and then return the money to the state—the leadership of this state puts itself in an exceedingly poor position to wage by over the growth of federal power."

CSI Plans Homecoming Activities

Highlighting this week's activities at the College of Southern Idaho will be the showing of a German film, "Der Hauptmann Von Koepenick." (The Captain From Koepenick).

Carl Zuckmayer's classic comedy about a biggest hoax in history has been turned into a lavish screen version. It will be shown at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday at the Shields Academic Building, The Col. Lorelei Club is sponsoring the film.

The film is the true story of a poor cobler, who, desperate to obtain a passport denied to him, dons a second-hand captain's uniform in a railroad washroom, and commands a squad of soldiers of the Kaiser's Imperial Army.

At 11 a.m. Tuesday, freshman class members will meet in room 117.

Tryouts for the spring drama presentation, "Oedipus Rex" will be held from 7:30 to 10 p.m. Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday at the Fine Arts Auditorium.

At 8 p.m. Friday at the Twin Falls High School gymnasium, the CSI Golden Eagles meet Dixie College.

At 8 p.m. Saturday, Snow College and the CSI Eagles meet for basketball action at the Twin Falls High School gymnasium.

Five Judges Just Might Fit The Local Bench

There is a long judge's bench in the new Twin Falls County judicial annex and it is hoped Idaho's five Supreme Court justices will sit there in the near future.

The bench was constructed with this in mind. But, in order for the Supreme Court to hold a term in Twin Falls, Idaho law has to be changed.

Right now the Supreme Court has five terms a year. Two of the terms are at Boise. One each is at Lewiston, Coeur d'Alene and Pocatello.

The Magic Valley Bar Association has passed a resolution recommending Idaho law be changed in this respect.

Douglas Kramer, a Twin Falls attorney and chairman of the association's effort to get the Supreme Court to Twin Falls, said he would like to see the law changed to allow for six terms a year, instead of five.

"This way Twin Falls will be added to the list, I understand legislation has been prepared to gain this end."

Assisting Mr. Kramer are Steve Boyd of Shoshone and Andrew James of Gooding.

Mr. Kramer said the advantages of having the Supreme Court meet in Twin Falls once a year are many.

"Attorneys won't have to go to Boise to argue a case. It will mean a savings in money to people who have cases before the high court," he said.

"The high court generally hears attorneys for 45 minutes each, and holds court in the morning and afternoon. Once the presentations have been made, the court will study the cases, then hand down rulings."

A Supreme Court term is the time of year when the court meets and is open for all business to come before the court.

In addition to asking for change in the law to allow the court to meet in Twin Falls, there are several recommendations compiled in the proposed new Idaho Constitution.

Mr. Kramer is a member of the Idaho Constitutional Revision Commission.

It has been recommended that the Supreme Court be increased to either seven or nine members from the present five. It's possible that three justices could meet in Lewiston; three in Boise and three in Twin Falls. The three justices would have the power of the full court," Mr. Kramer said.

He said more cases could be heard and decisions could be rendered more often than at present.

Finally, Citations Might Be Issued On Inspections

After a year and a month of being warned, Idaho motorists who have not yet had their automobiles inspected, now face the possibility of receiving a citation.

The mandatory vehicle inspection law actually went into effect Jan. 1, after giving motorists a full year in which to have their vehicles safety inspected.

Although an extension was not granted, because the statute does not provide for one in the inspection case, Idahoans were given warning tickets during January if they were found driving a car which had not been inspected.

Dean Bennett, head of the Idaho State Police in Magic Valley's district No. 4, said that as far as he knows all

Inside Report: Reappraising The ABM

COMMENT

Assist To Peace

The St. Louis Post-Dispatch... President-elect Nixon deserves the country's thanks for helping to break the stalemate in Paris and get the Vietnam peace talks started. There is no doubt that his assent to the Johnson Administration's acceptance of Hanoi's proposed seating arrangements was the key to ending the impasse. The Saigon generals had been holding out against an undivided round table in the hope that the Nixon Administration would support them. When Mr. Nixon withheld his support, they evidently decided that further obstruction of the preliminary arrangements would be imprudent.

led with the pious assumption that any concession is to be regarded as a sign of weakness. In retrospect it is quite clear that there never was a good reason for failing to suspend the bombing altogether last March. President Johnson, having refused for so long to meet this obviously unavoidable condition for negotiations, just could not bring himself to do it forthrightly. He first ordered a partial suspension instead, in the hope that Hanoi would retreat and so give him a "victory." But in the end he had to halt the bombing altogether, and the moment he did the talks began to move. Meanwhile a great many Americans and South Vietnamese had died.

WASHINGTON — Under prodding from a handful of Capitol Hill Republicans led by Sen. Charles McC. Percy of Illinois, the Nixon Administration is beginning an agonizing reappraisal of the Sentinel anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system extravagantly praised by President Nixon during the past campaign. Although those campaign statements seemingly point to a secure future for the Sentinel, the project today is in some danger. Deputy Secretary of Defense David Packard has now begun a probing inquiry into all aspects of the ABM question. Indeed, there is some possibility that this inquiry could lead to a shelving of the $5 billion program for deploying the Sentinel by 1971 and substitute instead a more modest and more general research and development program for a future ABM.

along key Nixon officials, including Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird himself. Percy has poured his formidable energies into lobbying against the ABM, both in the Senate and the Administration, ever since the election. Besides buttonholing fellow Senators at every opportunity, Percy has presented his arguments to Packard and Lee DuBridge, Mr. Nixon's science adviser, and will meet again with Packard. Percy is operating in a Capitol Hill atmosphere considerably less friendly to the ABM than it was during last autumn's defense appropriations debate when anti-Soviet sentiment was high because of the Czechoslovakian invasion. Moreover, a few Democrats were skeptical about the Sentinel last year but voted for it anyway after President Johnson pleaded with them for something to bargain over with the Russians. Now, one of two may switch against it. Sen. Fred Harris of Oklahoma, the new Democratic National Chairman, is one such probable convert.

For instance, Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania, named as a freshman to the Senate Armed Services Committee, mixes skepticism with that committee's traditional passion for new military hardware. As of now, Schweiker favors research spending but opposes deployment of the Sentinel. Anti-ABM sentiment in the Senate is bound to be fanned, this spring when the Armed Services Committee hears a parade of scientists testify against the effectiveness of the ABM — a highly unusual procedure just agreed to by Sen. John Stennis of Mississippi, the committee's new chairman (and a strong ABM advocate). But no amount of Percy lobbying or scientific testimony is likely to actually defeat Sentinel appropriations in either house of Congress. Thus, the anti-ABM lobby in Capitol Hill really wants to influence the Pentagon's decision, nourishing seeds of doubt that already exist there.

ing deployment of the scientifically questionable Sentinel — a third stage system. An alternative to the much more expensive full system — Rather than deploy an obsolescent system, Laird felt, research funding should be appropriated for a more advanced full system. Furthermore, one of the few high-ranking officials supported by Laird is research chief John Foster; a pronounced skeptic about the ABM's value. In the White House, lead science adviser DuBridge is known to be something less than enthusiastic about the Sentinel. Nevertheless, the odds remain on the side of the Sentinel. Lobbying pressures are such that a military weapons system once begun is seldom suspended. In addition, there is still validity in President Johnson's argument that plans for deployment of the Sentinel should be made in the future negotiations with the Soviets. And Mr. Nixon's campaign utterances have the current force of an appraisal in the Pentagon. When the Senate first authorized deployment of the Sentinel last year, candidate Nixon called it "a major step toward candor and clarity." To accept Percy's arguments and Laird's doubts, the President would have to eat those campaign words.

ANDREW TULLY Word For Harvard

WASHINGTON — The word for Harvard University, which used to be great, is chicken. In announcing plans for a degree-granting program in Afro-American studies, Harvard has simply tucked under to the black militants to avoid trouble. Said the report of the faculty panel which recommended the program, "It is hardly doubted that the study of black men in America is a legitimate and urgent academic endeavor." Just so.

But under questioning, the committee chairman, Prof. Henry Rosovsky, admitted "It is a political act. There is nothing wrong with a political act in a university as long as it goes along with intellectual needs." In those two sentences, Professor Rosovsky may well have decreed for the American university the same fate that overtook Germany's leading institution under the paper hanger, Hitler.

Now we all know that some of our most anti-political animosity is found in the country's assorted halls of more-or-less academe, where they sometimes even find time to give an occasional lecture. They cannot, necessarily, re-structuring the university to fit a political pattern. Very, I suppose, well. But Harvard now intends to make itself act a part of the university policy.

The Harvard committee may have a point in deposing that the study of Afro-American studies is "legitimate," although there has been no rush to grant degrees for the study of the Boston riots or the $250,000 riot which gutted the auditorium at the University of California at Berkeley.

GEORGE C. THOSTEN, M.D. Cryosurgery

Dear Dr. Thostenson: I am in my 7th month. My doctor told me that although the afterbirth is tearing away from the womb the baby is too small to be born, but he may make it in the 8th month. Will the baby be able to gain enough weight in 1st month to live? — Mrs. G. H.

Babies have a pretty good chance at night months; in seven, many survive with special care. The baby's weight gain is always best, but in a case like yours, your doctor has certainly chosen the lesser of dangers.

Dear Dr. Thostenson: I have diabetes. I am very careful of my diet and feel good, but I have trouble with my kidneys. I am always going to the bathroom. I feel my eye often and it is not bad. — Mrs. W. R.

That doesn't give me enough information to make any definite guess. Always, eye pain is this: the urine test, while a very useful one, does not always tell the whole story. Tell your doctor of your problem, so he can run a blood sugar test, since diabetes, if not under control, can cause frequent urination. Another possibility, and again one which you should have your doctor investigate, is that some kidney or bladder infection is present, quite independent of the diabetes.

On The Hook

ROBERT ALLEN AND JOHN GOLDSMITH Were These Trips Necessary?

WASHINGTON — While Commander Lloyd M. Bucher tells his stories to a court of inquiry, senators and congressmen have been raising questions which go beyond the compass of the Navy's Pueblo inquiry. Central to many of the congressional queries, which have been swamping Navy liaison officers, are two questions: Who was finally responsible for the spy mission which saw the Pueblo steam impounded into friendly waters? Was the electronic intelligence data to be obtained worth the clear risks involved?

The memo contains some pertinent data and it is classified "secret." It can be reported quite safely however, that the committee staff raised the question of how the government exercised command and control over the Pueblo's mission. The memo presents the Pueblo's actions as they occurred in a series of disjointed incidents in which intelligence operations caused great embarrassment to the United States. Listed are the actions of the Pueblo in the Gulf of Tonkin, the Pueblo's actions in the Gulf of Tonkin, the Pueblo's actions in the Gulf of Tonkin, the Pueblo's actions in the Gulf of Tonkin.

connection with all the ill-fated operations. Stressed by the memo is the confusion with which top government officials reacted when the missions went sour. It is reported, for example, that former Secretary of State Dean Rusk blamed the Arabs in the immediate aftermath of the Liberty attacks, while former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara blamed the Russians. Whatever the fruits of a successful Pueblo mission might have been, all evidence indicates that the mission was approved, in concept at least, at a high government level. In testimony last year, before the Senate Armed Services Committee, Secretary McNamara called the Pueblo's assignment "unjustified." Even in Honolulu, McNamara said that, while the mission was first proposed by field-level commanders, it was approved by their superiors and reviewed at the upper echelons of government.

Dairy Industry

THE LEWISTON TRIBUNE... There are hopeful signs that the American dairy industry is finally growing up. It seems willing now to fight along with other industries for its share of the market rather than seeking protective legislation from agriculture-dominated legislatures. Idaho, for instance, until only recently, taxed competing oleomargarine rather shamefully. The state legislature seemed torn for years between its devotion to Idaho's substantial dairy industry on the one hand and to the free enterprise system that was being thwarted on the other. But the substitute dairy product market has spread well beyond oleomargarine. There is everything now from substitute coffee cream to substitute cheese (or rubber; it's hard to tell which). In fact, new dairy substitutes are coming into the market so fast that no legislature can erect enough walls against them all.

paid tax on oleomargarine. There was hardly a squeal, although that same legislature granted unwarranted tax relief to cattle owners, and the industry may have been embarrassed to protest. A real breath of fresh air was let into the Idaho Dairyman's Ass'n meeting at Boise last week when an American Dairy Ass'n official said that only expanded research and development by dairymen will reduce the loss of dairy product markets to new dairy substitutes. The suggested development included products as liquid butter in a pressurized can, butter that spreads while cold like some margarines, milk in plastic glasses sold by the six-pack and candy made from freeze-dried ice cream. "That's more like it. It is that kind of ingenuity that has given the Idaho potato industry a shot in the arm of a time when the unforgiving dairy industry was having problems. Anyone who returned from the past would find potatoes in forms he wouldn't recognize. He would find pretty much the same old line of dairy products. It is encouraging that the dairy industry seems about ready to follow the lead of the potato industry. Free enterprise helps those who help themselves.

Help For Help

Christian Science Monitor... There are few things more heartening and comforting than to see the rich return to a benevolent use of the waters. Not only does such return strike the human heart as well deserved, but it also encourages others to do the same. During World War II an Austrian named Mohnut Kutin grew up in a Children's Village which the kind-hearted had built for orphans. Now he has just supervised the building of a village for some 700 war orphans in South Vietnam. We like to think that someday some boy or girl now moving into the shelter of this village will in turn oversee the building of a like settlement for needy children elsewhere in the world. For such work to pass from generation to generation would be ample verification of Shakespeare's motto in a more timely line: "How far that little candle throws his beams; So shines a good deed in a naughty world." Actually, the Children's Village movement is spreading. One worldwide movement, largely supported from West Germany, runs 42 villages and 23 others are budding. Although they themselves can make but the faintest dent in the vast and sad problem of abandoned children, they are an earnest of what kindness and love can do.

I Do...Nets Widower 23 Children

BOSTON (UPI)—When Frederick J. O'Donnell said, "I do," the size of his family jumped from 13 to 23. But the 49-year-old widower took it all in stride. "When you have such a large family, a few more don't present such a problem," said O'Donnell who Sunday married Mrs. Frances Brady, a dark haired widow and mother of 10 children. The children, seven boys and six girls on the O'Donnell side and five boys and five girls of the Brady clan, all marched in the wedding procession. Groundhog Sees Shadow And Retires

By United Press International
There's going to be six more weeks of winter. At least that's what members of the Punxsutawney Groundhog Club say. Club members made their annual trek to Gobbler's Knob Sunday to see whether their workmanlike prognosticator would come out and see his shadow. Legend has it that if the groundhog sees his shadow, winter will be six more weeks of winter. Sure enough, at 7:29 a.m., a groundhog popped his head out of a hole, spotted his shadow and went back into his burrow. And in Sun Prairie, Wis., 100 persons gathered at dawn Sunday and waited for the guest of honor. He showed up, looked around and fled at the sight of his shadow. The crowd stood aghast.

Obscene

GOSHEN, Ind. (UPI)—Theater owner William P. Miller reluctantly closed the showing of the Swedish movie "I, a Lover" Saturday after City Court Judge James A. Simpson gave it a one-word review: "Obscene." Simpson said he would file charges if the picture was not withdrawn. "Family pictures are a flop at the box office," Miller complained.

Navy Nurse Convicted Of Disobedience

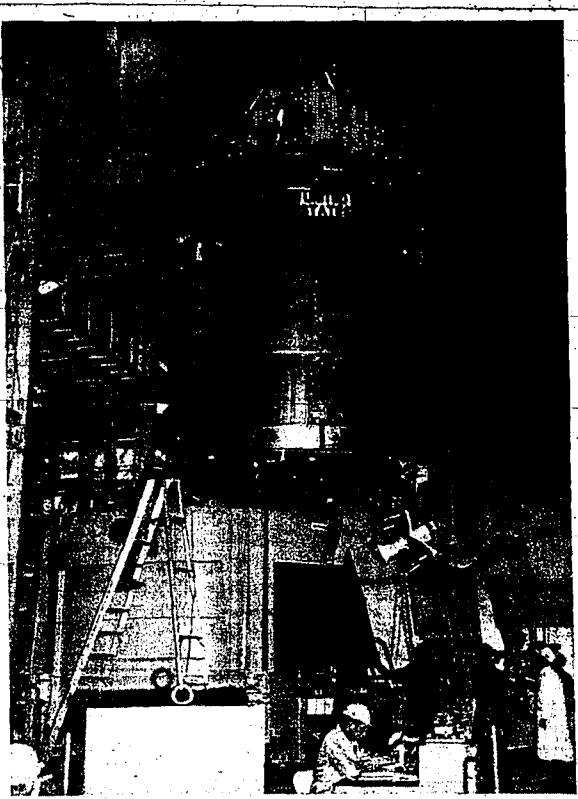

TREASURE ISLAND, Calif. (UPI)—A Navy nurse was sentenced to a court martial for taking part in antiwar activities could be sentenced to up to five years in prison. A six-member Navy panel was deciding today the penalty for Lt. (Jr.) Susan Schwall, 25, convicted of conduct unbecoming an officer and disobedience of orders. The one panel took just 30 minutes to return a guilty verdict on the charge Friday.

$160,000 Worth Of Stamps Taken

ROME (UPI)—A thief using forged baggage tickets stole two suitcases containing $160,000 worth of postage stamps from the baggage deposit of a philatelic congress, police said Sunday. Dealer Strin Staloni, who owned the stamps, nearly collapsed when he found they were gone. He said he was ruined.

Negus, who appeared recently before Probate Judge Irvin Robinson, was freed on $500 bond. The slaying took place at the Foster residence at a ranch between Lemhi and Loaders.

Emil Narick Poses Tough Challenge In Steelworkers' Union Vote Battle

By RICHARD F. FONTANA
PITTSBURGH (UPI)—For 1. W. Abel it's business as usual. For Emil E. Narick it's unusual business. The attitudes reflect their experiences and convictions as they go about trying to win election as president of the 1.2 million member United Steelworkers of America (USW), the nation's largest labor union. Abel, 69, who won his union spurs in the 1930s as a laborer at Canton, Ohio, is completing his first term in the $50,000-a-year post he wrested from David J. McDonald in a bitter fight four years ago. He feels his record has been a good one and that he will win the Feb. 11 referendum. Consequently, Abel has delegated most of his campaign responsibilities to a committee headed by Joseph Germano, U.S. district director in Chicago, and James Griffin, district director in Youngstown, Ohio. He plans few campaign speeches.

Nixon Cuts Aid, Favors Integration

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Welfare (HEW) cut off school aid to five school districts in the South, telling them they could have the funds, on a retroactive basis, only if they desegregate within 60 days. President Nixon said in a television interview during the campaign that he tends "to look with great concern whenever I see federal agencies, or whenever I see the courts, attempting to become, in effect, local school boards."

Nixon said at that time that he felt the withholding of federal funds to school districts to stand trial, bond of $1,000 which Olivus has posted was continued. "It is one in general I would not approve," Nixon said. The Johnson Administration's Attorney General, J. Edgar Hoover, is charged with attempted rape and on Jan. 15 the complaint was amended to read and lascivious conduct with a minor child. Gordon Nelson, prosecuting attorney, represented the state and Jim Amest represented Olivus. Witnesses were the 14-year-old girl, Jerry Robinson and Raymond Eppert. All were cross examined by Mr. Amest.

Joke?

BUENOS AIRES (UPI)—Police today said Jorge Adelin Castelli, 21, was behind a partition in a tire shop when co-workers Carlos Macoretta, 27, and Francisco Alfred Cano, 20, decided to play a trick on him. They lit a piece of paper and threw the flaming paper over the partition. Castelli protested. Cano yelled, "Don't worry, here's water to put out the fire!" Police said Cano grabbed a can which he thought contained water and heaved it over the partition. The can contained gasoline. Castelli became a human torch. Macoretta threw himself atop Cano and threw water on the flames. But Castelli died shortly. Police arrested his two co-workers.

This Is Snow Year At Sun Valley, Even Dr. Moritz Is Wearing Coat

SUN VALLEY — When you walk on the roofs of houses in Sun Valley is having this winter. This is no record yet. 1968 topped the amount now on hand and in "Big Snow" year of 1952 there were 85 inches on the valley floor as compared to 55 inches to date this season. However, with 10 inches of the lightest fluffiest powder at the Roundhouse, replenished every night by six to twelve inches falls, it will go down as a winter to remember. And it does funny things. The "electric" handwarmers on the one of Sun Valley's home-invented luxuries are now knee warmers for everyone but midgets.

Also Dr. John Moritz, Sun Valley's popular head physician, has put on a coat and head-covering for the first time since he arrived in 1939. This is not because of the cold but because the doctor tired of brushing off snow when he went inside. The coat is a hooded loden cloth job purchased 10 years ago when the Moritzes built a home up the Warm Springs road, but was never worn. When the public photographer went to take a picture of the doctor in sight of the doctor in a coat, the price tag was still on the coat to prove the story. For one day at least, Sun Valley's popular head physician, recognized snow pocket of the Rockies, it was just a nice checkle to be ahead for once. Humphrey Essay Tells Thoughts On Arms Race

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States might be able to make progress in negotiations to halt the nuclear arms race, Humphrey has suggested. Humphrey made the proposal in an essay written shortly before he left office. The article also reviews the former President's views on the ABM system because he thought it might "quicken" Soviet interest in ending the nuclear arms race, and that former Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara disagreed with Johnson but "compromised."

Apres ski life at Sun Valley is gay, but not in the Valley since the 30's. The event honored the past presidents of the United States Ski Association and presented a favorite skit in their robot skit instructor. There is an excellent accordionist, Donna, in the Ram restaurant, and over in the Lodge there is changing music both after the Lodge dining room and in the evening in the Boiler room. A ski magazine recently called this swiping night spot "Room at the Bottom." Well, the "Room at the Top," the Lodge dining room, still has Hop Miller and his seven-piece band. As one guest said: "the Lodge dining room has an elegance not found west of St. Moritz and the music is better."

White House Dreamer Says Cash Needed

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Daniel Patrick Moynihan had his way, every mother in the United States would receive a small monthly check to pay for her children's "shoes and piano lessons" and "dentist and dancing lessons." Moynihan admitted he is a dreamer, and a Democratic dreamer to boot, but these days he's doing his dreaming at the center of power as President Nixon's chief affairs adviser. He is appearing on a television interview program (Metromedia's "Evans-Novak Report"). Moynihan argued Sunday that it will take a "big cash" to solve the problem of America's cities. As a starter, he suggested a federal family allowance program of children's allowances, such as that in effect across Canada. Under the Canadian "baby bonus," as it's known, every mother (usually not the father) receives from the government monthly checks to pay for her children's "shoes and piano lessons" and "dentist and dancing lessons."

Dear Abby
By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am an ordinary man, single and I was recently in New York on a bus travel tour and was having lunch alone in one of those automatic restaurants when a woman of about 40 came and sat at my table and struck up a conversation. She started off by saying she knew I was a Catholic priest, she had seen me in "pulpit" someplace—and she never forgets a face. She kept calling me "Father."

I tried to tell her that I was not a priest, but she persisted. I told her three times to please quite calling me "Father," and I even showed her my identification, but it didn't help. It got to be so exasperating I finally hurried up my lunch and left. Abby, are there lots of crackpots like this in New York? And what is a person supposed to do in a situation like that?

FROM BUFFALO

DEAR FROM: New York has more crackpots (I call them "psycho-crackpots") than other cities because there are more people there. And the only way to handle them is to do as you did. Beat a hasty retreat.

DEAR ABBY: I'll set right to the point, I am 23 and am practically engaged to a wonderful guy. We've gone together for nearly a year and I love him with my hands off policy, which was not easy.

My question: How much should I tell my fiancé about my past? To be honest with you, I am not lily-white. (There have been several men.) Should I tell him how many, and who they were? I hate to lie, but I don't want this thrown back in my face later on. Please help me.

ITHACA

DEAR ITHACA: It's not necessary to provide your fiancé with the names and numbers of the previous players, I am not suggesting that you lie. Simply tell him (if he asks) that your "past" is a closed chapter, and he will have to accept you as you ARE—or not at all.

DEAR ABBY: Please say something to people who have all day to do their shopping, but won't do it when you working folks have to do ours.

Have you ever tried to do your marketing right after work to find yourself standing behind a line of housewives, still in their curlers, looking for something to cook fast before the old man comes home? Or some tired clerk man, just off the job, getting grub for dinner because his wife got a Charlie horse in her tongue from drinking all day with the girl next door.

Try it some time, you will get urge to kill. Thank you.

FURIOUS IN PRESCOTT, ARIZONA
CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOSING OUT" IN BEVERLY HILLS: No intelligent, worthwhile man will abandon the company of a mature, interesting woman simply because a "young doll" comes on the scene. There are too many young dolls sitting at home while fifty-dollar women continue to pick off the best bachelors.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 65700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Nicklaus Passes Littler With Final Round 73 To Take San Diego Tourney

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (UPI)—Jack Nicklaus put the pressure on hometown favorite Gene Littler Sunday and while the "Big Bear" did not exactly burn up the course himself, a final round 73 was enough to give him the victory by a stroke in the $100,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open, with a 72-hole score of four-under par 284.

Janet Lynn Is New Queen Of Skating

SEATTLE (UPI)—Janet Lynn, a perky 15-year-old blonde, is the new U.S. queen-of-figure skating.

Rockford, Ill. girl flashed through a dazzling performance of free skating Saturday night to take the crown vacated by four-time champion and Olympic gold medalist Peggy Fleming.

In the final event of the National Figure Skating Championships... in the 180th year of the National Figure Skating Championships...

Miss Lynn's freestyle lifted her from fourth place in the compulsory figures round to the national title with three of five judges ranking her first.

The figures and free skating each account for half of the total points.

Miss Lynn, 18, Colorado Springs, placed second, and Tina Noyes, 20, also of Colorado Springs, was third.

The extremely narrow margin between first and third pointed to the top three ladies at the North American Championships Feb. 6-8 in Oakland, Calif.

Miss Fleming, 37, from the wings, admitted "I feel some what left out."

Auditions Set For Children's Theater Here

People to cast as "Ghosts and Gangsters" in the play by the same name are requested to audition, according to Mrs. Eugene Sturgill, director of the new Community Children's Theater production.

Mrs. Sturgill said the family production will be presented March 21, 22 and 23, for seven performances.

The cast calls for four men, three women and six young people, ranging in age from 14 on down.

Tryouts for adult performers will be at 8 p.m. Monday and Wednesday at the Boy Scout Auditorium. Junior high and high school students also are invited to attend the evening tryouts.

Tryouts for children will be from 4 to 6 p.m. Thursday. The youngsters should bring a poem to read as part of their auditions.

"Ghosts and Gangsters" takes place in the early 1900's and centers around the search for a hidden treasure in a deserted home just inherited by the Muldoon family. The family refuses to vacate the premises when a group of gangsters tells them they must.

Mrs. Leland VanderDoes, business manager, states that backstage help also is needed and that help in front-of-the-stage also is needed. Those interested in the production should contact Mrs. VanderDoes at 733-6121.

Pay Raise

Issue Faces New Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The members of the United States Senate face this week what most politicians would rather avoid: the issue of pay raises.

The money involved is a $15,500 pay hike, an increase that would bring the salaries of both "the senators" and the members of the House to $12,500 per year.

Most lawmakers had hoped to avoid the issue, and they could have since the pay increase will take effect automatically unless both chambers vote to kill it.

But Sen. John Williams, R-Del., introduced a motion to veto the increase, forcing a vote on the issue now set for Tuesday.

The issue is, for the moment, dead in the House since it is bottled up in a committee. Most observers believe the Senate will defeat the motion, at the expense of having to declare itself in favor of the 41 per cent hike.

The pay plan was the only major legislative issue before either chamber this week as Congress continued to wait for more action from the new administration.

Muskie Said 'Real Winner' Of '68 Ballot

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Me., was the "real winner" of the 1968 presidential election from which he emerged "tougher, more respected, a competitor," according to his running-mate, former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Quoted in an article in the current issue of Look magazine, Humphrey said Muskie has been his choice for the vice presidential nomination from the first. He said no one with whom he discussed the Maine senator objected "though South-erners weren't particularly warm."

BILL VICKERS

In politics, I've known people who were brilliant, clever, but he has qualities that are more important—intuition, judgment, wisdom.

"Yes, I know he's been faulted for being 'Mr. Nice Guy,' backing off from trying for Senate leadership jobs out of deference to friends," Humphrey said. "But I think he's come out of his experience tougher, more sure footed... of course, many without praisissim."

"Why shouldn't the voting age be lowered to 18?" he asked. "They have a helluva lot more upstairs than my generation did in the '30's. Now they get knocked up by politics in high school or college, and by 21, they're turned off."

In the same issue of Look, Muskie came out for making America's 18-year-olds "real adults" by giving them the vote and letting them sign contracts and marry without praisissim.

"They have a helluva lot more upstairs than my generation did in the '30's. Now they get knocked up by politics in high school or college, and by 21, they're turned off."

Bill Vickers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Vickers, Twin Falls, has been named chairman of the Idaho State University Drug Abuse Commission.

Mr. Vickers served with the Twin Falls Police Department and detective division prior to returning to his studies at ISU. He is majoring in marketing.

Mr. Vickers was named to the deans list for the fall semester and has recently received two scholarships.

He was the recipient of a $160 scholarship sponsored by the Associated Students of Idaho State University and he also received a $300 flying scholarship from Gaten and Esler Stone.

A member of the student senate, Mr. Vickers will receive a bachelor's degree in May.
